British and American bankers arrive in Algeria

Hostage agreement expected soon

The United States and Iran rushed today to complete an agreement to free the 52 American hostages and both sides signaled that a breakthrough in the 14-month hostage crisis could be near.

Behzad Nabavi, said there is "no obstacle in resolving the issue" and informed Washington sources said the United States and Iran were nearing agreement to exchange the hostages for frozen Iranian assets.

concession from the original Iranian insistence that all the Iranian funds held by U.S. banks be returned. Pars quoted Nabavi as saying that Iran "has demanded that the United States transfer to the central bank of a third country the agreed assets of Iran, minus past and future loan installments."

Moorhead Kennedy and spokeswoman for the organization acting as hostage family liaison with the State Department, said she is telling hostage families the news looks "very optimistic."

with Warren M. Christopher, head of the U.S. negotiating team.

In Washington, Vice President Walter Mondale told CBS News, "we're trying to do things in hours that would take months otherwise." But Mondale cautioned that there was no agreement yet and said: "We've had our hearts broken before and I think we'd better keep our expectations under control."

President Carter — who leaves office next Tuesday — had no comment on the negotiations and was meeting in the White House with his foreign policy aides.

JAIL CERTIFIED — County Judge Bill Tune and Sheriff A.N. Standard accept a certificate of certification for the Howard County Jail from Joe Slater. Slater is with the Texas Commission on Jail Standards. The jail was formally certified Thursday afternoon.

Howard County jail gains certificate of compliance

Joe Slater, supervising inspector for the Texas Commission on Jail Standards, was in Big Spring Thursday to present Sheriff A.N. Standard and County Judge Bill Tune with a certificate of compliance for the Howard County jail.

There are approximately 600 requirements a jail must meet before being certified by the Commission on Jail Standards, said Sheriff Standard. During the last four years, the local county jail has been undergoing a series of renovations so it would be suitable for certification.

"There are approximately 70 jails in the state which are certified," said Standard, adding that a large number didn't meet the standards for cer-tification. Slater said that jails are constantly under the scrutiny of the state, and must meet many state and federal standards before they are allowed to operate. In order to retain a certification, jails must constantly be maintained, said Sheriff Standard.

In order to gain certification, the Howard County jail made some structural changes, added lifesaving equipment, hired additional personnel, and made variances on the existing structure, said Standard.

The Texas Commission on Jail Standards is composed of two sheriffs, a doctor, a county judge and five members from the public who are appointed by the governor for six year terms. Bob Viterna is director of the Jail Standards Commission.

Slater said that the local certification "was not due to any one person but rather a group of people working together. The taxpayers should be proud they have elected officials who have been able to achieve this result at minimum costs."

Sheriff Standard added "we are very pleased to receive this award," and said he was grateful to the Howard County commissioners and Judge Tune for their cooperation in renovating the jail. He also commended members of the staff in the Sheriff's department.

Chief Hoherz modifies policy to cell prisoners overnight

By JAMES WERRELL

In an effort to accommodate local attorneys, the policy regarding the holding of prisoners at the city jail has again been modified, said Big Spring Chief of Police Elwood Hoherz, today.

On Wednesday morning, the chief and City Manager Don Davis announced that a policy to hold prisoners overnight at the jail would apply only to suspected felons or those who might have committed a major misdemeanor. After a night in jail, the suspects would be fingerprinted and photographed and transferred to the Howard County jail. "The purpose of this policy is twofold: to maintain the integrity of our arrest records and to put a couple more men on the street," said Hoherz, Wednesday.

On Wednesday night, the Howard County Bar Association met; discussed the new policy, and appointed three of its members to propose a compromise to the chief. At 2 p.m. Thursday, Hoherz met with local attorneys Roger Brown, Drew Mouton and Bob Moore, and agreed to their compromise.

"We have agreed to a system that I think is mutually agreeable to both the attorneys and bail bondsmen and us (the police department)," said Hoherz, this morning. "If the prisoners are bonded out during the night, the attorneys have pledged to have their clients back to the station between 7 and 10 a.m. the next day for fingerprints and mug shots," he added.

Under the compromise policy, (See city, page 2A, col. 1)

O.I.L. hit with $680,555 suit; deputies warehouse equipment

By CAROL HART

Oilfield Industrial Lines Inc. is being sued by a Harris County company for $680,555.55. A petition in the case was filed Thursday in 118th District Court.

Hutchison-Hayes International, Inc., which headquarters out of Harris County, is seeking legal action to stop O.I.L. from using or reselling equipment in the amount of $478,986.00, according to a petition filed in 118th District Court. Hutchison-Hayes allegedly sold the equipment to O.I.L., and charges that they were never paid.

The Harris County company filed a writ of sequestration Thursday, requesting that equipment at the O.I.L. plant be seized.

Among items seized by the men at the site were several shale shakers, two desanders, frou-ten cone desilters, several mud agitators, fourteen motor driven centrifugal pumps, plus a variety of other equipment.

Sgt. Paul Silva and Bill Whitton, both members of the Howard County Sheriff's Department, were present with Hutchison-Hayes men at the O.I.L. plant until 3:30 a.m. this morning, said Sheriff A.N. Standard.

The men removed "close to a half-million dollars worth of equipment," said Sheriff Standard. The equipment is being stored in a local warehouse until a decision is reached in the case.

A petition filed in the case alleges $478,986.00 worth of equipment falls under the writ of sequestration. An additional $201,569.55 is being sought in damages.

The petition filed in the case states that on or about Sept. 20, 1980, through on or about Dec. 26, 1980, Hutchison-

Hayes supplied equipment and labor to O.I.L., and has not received payment on the material at this time.

Named in the suit are O.I.L., and its parent corporation, Synergistic Technology Corporation.

An official at O.I.L. said today that an error was made in the order placed to Hutchison-Hayes. The official, who refused to give his name, said that more than a million dollars of equipment was ordered, which was too much equipment for the O.I.L. crews to use.

The official said Hutchison-Hayes was advised that too much equipment was delivered, and they were advised that the Harris County Company could pick up the equipment whenever they wanted it.

The official said he didn't know why a lawsuit had been filed in the case.

By CAROL HART

The Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees approved the hiring of six employees for the remainder of the 1980-81 school year, and also approved the resignations of three others.

Board members met at 5:15 p.m. Thursday, in the board room at Big Spring High School.

Among new teachers approved were Mrs. Cindy Lou Alderton, who will serve as a speech therapist for the special education department. Mrs. Alderton has a bachelor of science degree from Texas Tech.

Mrs. Deborah Bingham was hired to teach third grade at Washington Elementary. Mrs. Bingham gained her degree from the College of Idaho.

Mrs. Evelyn June Davis was hired in the special education department at Goliad Middle School, and obtained her degree from Ball State University in Indiana.

Mrs. Sandra Lilly was hired to teach journalism and English at high school. She is a graduate of Texas Tech.

Mrs. Lydia Kay Thigpen will teach mathematics at the Goliad Middle School. Mrs. Thigpen has a degree from the University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

"None of these people had their applications in at the end of December," said Harold Bentley, assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction. "They are good employees, and we are fortunate they arrived in time."

A resignation was approved from Mrs. Vivien Buckner, who had been teaching third grade at Washington Elementary. Mrs. Buckner resigned for personal reasons.

Mrs. Willedee Jones, mathematics teacher at Goliad Middle School, also resigned for personal reasons.

Mrs. Katharine E. O'Bryan, Title I, Goliad Middle School, resigned due to her husband's transfer.

Maxwell Green and Charles Darby, local auditors, presented an audit report for the 1979-80 Head Start Program. The men explained that receipts for 1979-80 totaled $297,042, and expenditures totaled $281,218. The balance in excess of revenue was $15,824. Don Green, assistant business manager for BSISD, said this amount will be carried over to the current budget.

In an executive session, board members agreed to extend Big Spring School Superintendent Lynn Hise's contract.

According to Dorothy Dunnam, recording secretary for the board, members agreed to extend the superintendent's contract from June, 1983, until June, 1984.

Members reviewed the weekly enrollment report during Thursday's meeting. A grand total of students rolled in the BSISD for the week of Jan. 9, 1981, was 4,831. This compares to a total on Jan. 4, 1980, of 4,871.

Members were advised that a National School Board Meeting is set April 11-14 in Dallas. Several board members said they plan to attend the event.

Focalpoint

Action / reaction: Soviets study

Q. I heard a recent report that said Soviet school children are far superior to the U.S. kids in math and science. Why is this the case?
A. Russian schools have a rigid and compulsory curriculum that demands an average of two math courses in each grade, topped off by a year or two of calculus in the final grades. In 1978 and '79, more than 5 million Soviet high school students took advanced calculus, compared with 105,000 U.S. high schoolers.

New city jail policy

attorneys may contact either of the two local Justices of the Peace on behalf of their clients. Then, after the Justices have contacted the police department, the prisoners may be released.

"If we have an arrest on the weekend, depending on the severity of the crime, the attorneys may not have to have the suspects back here (the police department) until Monday morning," added Hoherz.

The reason for changing the policy in the first place, said the chief, was that fingerprinting and photographing of suspects was often haphazard if it was done at all.

"In addition, we had to have an ID man on standby or working overtime, and that was a waste of time and money," said Hoherz. "Now we'll have complete paperwork during regular hours."

Two ID officers have been employed to work from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., five days a week. One will work Sunday through Thursday, while the other will work Monday through Friday, so that six days of the week will be covered.

"The only problem I can anticipate may come from out-of-town attorneys who may not be aware of the agreement. But I'll just have to face that when it comes up," said Hoherz. "If we have trouble locally, I'll contact the attorney to remind him of his pledge. I think this is a good compromise and I'd really like to see the system work," he concluded.

Plan approved to end discrimination in colleges

'Traditionally black' schools to benefit

States News Service

WASHINGTON—The Department of Education, noting that the higher education system of Texas contains "vestiges of former segregation," approved a voluntary state plan aimed at ending that discrimination Thursday.

Texas Attorney General Mark White said the agreement saves the state millions of dollars in legal expenses that could have come out of a "wasteful court contest with the federal government."

In turn, the education department said Texas "has laid the foundation for a constructive and cooperative relationship between the federal and state government."

In a letter to Cynthia Brown, assistant secretary for civil rights in the Department of Education, Texas Attorney General Mark White asked that any enforcement proceedings be delayed as long as Texas' voluntary plan appears effective.

"A review of current policies and programs will establish that, although vestiges of Texas' former (traditional) de jure segregation remain, higher education institutions are making progress toward full compliance with the Constitution and Title VI." (of the 1964 Civil Rights Act), White said.

Included in the state's actions were resolutions adopted by the Board of Regents of Texas' three largest universities embracing goals of equal opportunity and creation of a $20 million "Educational Excellence Fund" by the Texas Legislative Budget Board.

The money, to be used for program improvements and additions, increased faculty and student assistance, will go to two "traditionally black" schools, Prairie View A&M University in College Station and Texas Southern University in Houston.

In addition to upgrading programs at the two schools, the plan also seeks to eliminate the duplicity of programs among white and black schools in the same area, including Texas A&M University (College Station) and Prairie View A&M University (Prairie View) and the University of Houston, Texas Southern University and Houston programs of Prairie View A&M.

Under this plan, both of the traditionally black schools could pick up several additional programs.

The education department called the Texas plan "provisionally acceptable," but complimented public and private officials of the state for the state's "unique and voluntary undertaking to comply with federal law."

White said further desegregation under the Texas plan would take place "without adopting any quotas for specific groups."

Specifically, the university system plans to reduce by 50 percent the disparity between the number of white, black and Hispanic students who enter college, to generally increase minority enrollment and work toward reducing a disparity in the number of blacks and Hispanics who graduate.

Big Spring Centennial members mull contract

Members of the Big Spring Centennial, Inc. of Big Spring met Thursday for the third time in nine days. The purpose of the meetings were to discuss a contract with the John B. Rogers Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., appoint officers for the new corporation, name chairmen for the various committees, and set tentative dates for the local celebration.

On Tuesday, Jan. 6, John Taylor, general chairman of the Big Spring Centennial celebration committee announced that the proposal submitted by the Rogers Company on Dec. 10, had been approved. Prior to the acceptance of the Rogers contract, members of the local committee had expressed some concern over the fact that the same company would be handling the centennial celebration for Colorado City. Many members felt that a conflict could develop if the two celebrations were held too close together.

Prior to signing the contract on Dec. 11, the Rogers

Company reported that they had been retained by the Colorado City centennial committee, but that their celebration would be held in July, thus diminishing any conflicts with the Howard county celebration in Jay.

One of the first orders of business for the local committee was to incorporate as a nonprofit organization that would be independent of any individual group within the county. The purpose of this move by the committee was to clearly demonstrate to the citizens of Howard County that the celebration was an area-wide celebration and would require the support of all groups and organizations in the area.

Under the charter of the new corporation, Joe Pickle was elected president, R. H. Weaver was named vice president, and Morris Rhodes will serve as treasurer. Dorothy Garrett was named honorary chairperson of the executive committee, which will consist of Wade Choate, headquarters chairman of information center, Morris Rhodes, treasurer, John Taylor, active general chairman, Bill Bradley, Craig Fisher, and Janice Rosson, student activities, Richard Atkins, decorations, John Currie, operating capital, and Jim Parks, insurance.

The division chairmen for the Big Spring Centennial, Inc. will be Hayes Stripling Jr., chairman, revenue division, Frances Wheat, ladies' chairperson, and Travis Floyd, men's chairman, participation division. Charles Beil, chairman, ticket division, Bob Lewis, chairman, show division, Mel Prather, chairman, publicity division, and Johnnie Lou Avery, chairperson, special events division. In addition, the division chairpersons reported naming many of the subchairmen for the numerous committees during the Jan. 10 meeting.

With many of the division chairpersons attending the Thursday meeting, a tentative list of dates was submitted to the committee for consideration. At least one overall theme was set for each of the days of the celebration, which has tentatively been set to run from May 21 thru May 30, and will draw attention to many of the major segments of the local economy during the celebration.

John Taylor, active general chairman of the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., said "I wish to point out the fact that this is to be a community effort and we would like to get all groups in the area involved in this major celebration." He went on to say that individuals who are interested in the celebration and would like to serve on one of the many committees should contact the chairperson of that particular committee.

Representatives of the John B. Rogers company will be back in Big Spring on Jan. 22-23, to meet again with the division chairmen and their subchairmen.

Reagan vows cuts from top to bottom in Carter budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The incoming Reagan administration, accusing President Carter of playing politics with the 1982 federal budget, vows to slash the $739.3 billion lame-duck spending plan from top to bottom.

President-elect Ronald Reagan, who reviewed the just-released budget with his economic advisers Thursday and scheduled another session for today, said he expected to find "some fat" to reduce the projected $27.5 billion deficit.

But Reagan's nominee for budget director, David A. Stockman, said more radical surgery will have to be performed or else an already sluggish economy will worsen.

Stockman accused Carter of proposing a "very political document" that underestimates the deficit and is overly optimistic in its economic forecast. Stockman estimated the deficit under Carter's budget would be at least $50 billion.

"We think that we're going to have to revise it (the budget) from top to bottom because clearly it's not an acceptable fiscal policy and it would only cause further deterioration in the economy," Stockman said.

Carter's budget director, James T. McIntyre Jr., denied the spending plan for the fiscal year that begins

Oct. 1 had been shaped with politics in mind. "I have taken no action with the purpose of embarrassing the incoming administration," he said.

Carter, as he signed the thick document, defended the budget as an example of restraint. The departing president predicted any changes made by his Republican successor or Congress will be "relatively minor in nature because this is a sound proposal that will withstand the scrutiny of congressional deliberations."

Reactions in Congress, predictably, were positive from Carter's fellow Democrats and negative from the GOP.

Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee, called the budget "very honest" and "very, very tight as far as reducing spending."

Jones' Republican counterpart in the Senate, Peter V. Domenici of New Mexico, attacked the proposal as "an old, tired, timid budget."

State Board decides to reopen bidding on Medicaid contract

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Board of Human Resources decided today not to award the lucrative $2 billion Texas Medicaid contract to either H. Ross Perot or a New York company.

Instead the three-man board voted unanimously to revise the program and call for new bids.

The action was taken on a resolution by board member Terry Bray of Austin that said starting over would be in the best interests of Texas and the 700,000 poor people who receive Medicaid benefits.

The contract was awarded this summer to Bradford National Corp., which outbid Perot's National Heritage Co., holder of the current contract which expires Sept. 1.

Perot objected and the board decided to re-open the matter.

Peter Del Col, president of Bradford National, had threatened in the past to sue if his firm lost the contract, but spoke cautiously after the board took its action.

Del Col said he wanted to see what kind of settlement the board might offer and determine what kind of Medicaid program the board might want in the future before deciding on a lawsuit.

The board resolution said it will now negotiate with Perot to extend the current contract until new bids are taken and a new contract awarded. Perot said he definitely will bid no matter how the board might refine the Medicaid system.

Bray told reporters that possible changes in the Medicaid system might deal with the insurance contractor's profit margin.

Perot responded by saying, "We certainly aren't making too much money. There's a great deal of risk in the program."

Perot's company makes millions of dollars a year in profit from the contract.

Staff members of the Department of Human Resources had determined that Bradford was the low bidder for the four-year contract, and board members voted in July to give the business to the New York firm.

But the board decided to re-evaluate the bidding after Perot's objection and the matter has been unsettled since then.

There's lots of dough involved in 917 cases of Hawaiian bread

A stolen truck, which had been missing for two weeks, and 917 cases of frozen Hawaiian bread were discovered at a local truck stop early this week.

The truck, a semi-tractor trailer rig owned by Ronald Danner of Illinois, was stolen while it was enroute from Torrance, Calif., to Ohio. Danner explained that the man driving the truck took off with the rig and the bread, and apparently abandoned the vehicle and contents at Rip Griffin's Truck Stop.

A friend of Danner's who had stopped at the Big Spring truck stop, recognized the rig, and called Danner with the information that he had found the truck. Danner came down to Texas to reclaim his vehicle.

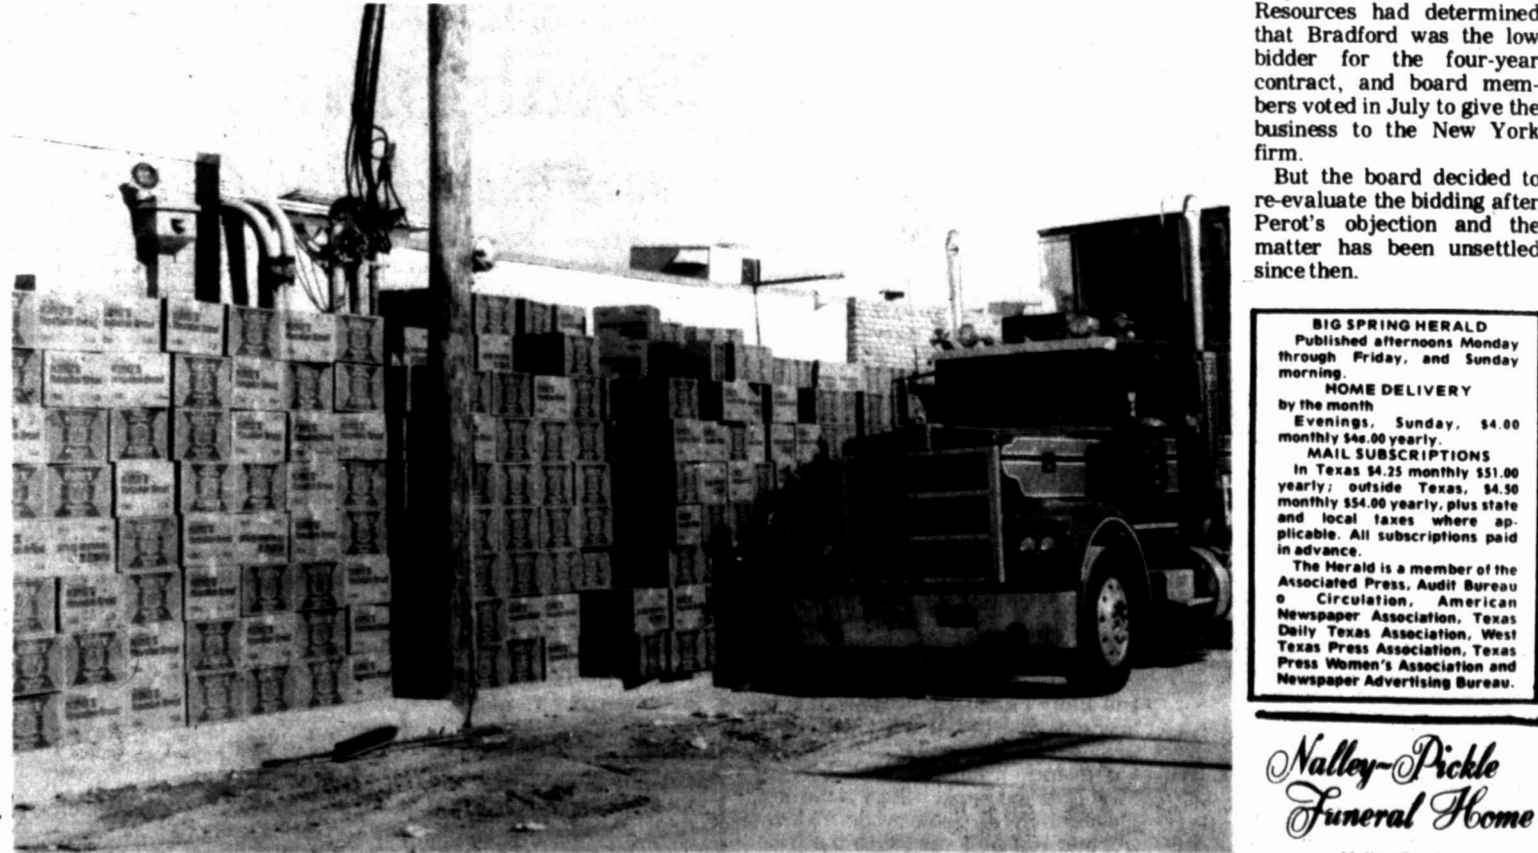

The many cases of bread were purchased by Don Newsom, who plans to sell two loaves for a $1. He said there were 12 loaves in each case, and original price of the load was $200,000. He made the deal for the bread through an insurance company which handled the theft.

Danner said both he and the insurance company were glad to hear that the rig had been found. The vehicle was insured for $87,000.

The bread was unloaded from the truck Thursday afternoon and stacked at Don Newsom's Grocery Store.

"I've never seen so much bread," commented Newsom.

Danner said that approximately $250 in items were missing from the rig. He added that there is a warrant out for the arrest of the missing driver.

contents were stolen as the truck was enroute from Torrance, Calif. Don Newsom purchased the bread from Danner's insurance agency, and is selling it at two loaves for a $1.

El Salvador junta recaptures capital

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Government forces recaptured a provincial capital from the leftist guerrillas but heavy fighting continued outside the city as the death toll climbed to 1,000 in five days. Authorities said most bodies were being burned on the spot.

About 800 soldiers backed by reinforcements and air support routed the guerrillas early Thursday from San Francisco Gotera, capital of Morazan Province 100 miles east of San Salvador.

The junta said the guerrillas fled into the mountains, that the leftist offensive to set up a Marxist regime was crushed and that government forces had regained "total control" of the country after five days of fighting.

However, residents reported heavy fighting outside San Francisco Gotera. Shooting also was reported in San Miguel, 90 miles east of San Salvador, and in Tecoluca, 30 miles north of San Salvador.

Sources quoted leftist leaders as saying their forces were regrouping to evaluate results of the "first stage" of the "final offensive" they began Saturday night to oust the junta.

French photographer Olivier Rebot was shot and seriously wounded in a leftist-army shootout as the troops retook San Francisco Gotera. Doctors said they believed he would recover.

Rebot, a resident of New York and a photographer for Newsweek, was hit in the chest as he traveled with a military patrol. He wore a bullet-proof vest, but the slug entered under the arm where there is no protection.

A land mine wrecked a car carrying three photographers Monday. Ian Mates, a South African working for a London TV network, died, and two Americans, John Hoagland of Newsweek and Susan Meielas of Time, were injured.

Weather — Light snow forecast for northwest Texas

By the Associated Press

Snow was forecast today for the Panhandle and South Plains and a combination of light snow, sleet and freezing rain was forecast for much of West Texas today and tonight.

Although forecasters said most of the freezing precipitation would be light, accumulations of one to two inches were anticipated in northern sections of the Panhandle.

The remainder of the state was to have mostly cloudy skies. Temperatures were to be cold over the northern half of the state and cool over the southern half.

Highs were to range from near 30 in the Panhandle to the upper 60s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley with most areas outside West Texas to have highs in the 40s.

Mostly clear skies were reported around the state early today.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Increasing cloudiness today. Much colder with chance of snow north with accumulations of 1 to 2 inches possible northern Panhandle. Colder east of mountains in south. Cloudy and colder most sections tonight with chance of light snow north and snow, rain or freezing rain south.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Scattered light rain or rain and snow mixed lower elevations changing to snow higher elevations southwest Sunday otherwise partly cloudy with cold nights and mild afternoons through early next week.

MIDDAY FORECAST—The National Weather Service forecast for Saturday predicts rain in northern California and Oregon, and snow on portions of the plains states, the Southwest and Texas.

Attorney general-designate confirmation expected today

WASHINGTON (AP) — William French Smith, declaring the American people would be "his first client" as attorney general, says he would not hesitate to give tough advice to his longtime friend Ronald Reagan.

For more than seven hours Thursday, Smith cautiously and sometimes vaguely answered questions from members of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The panel was expected to approve his nomination today.

Smith was pressed by a number of committee members on whether his 15-year association with Reagan as his personal lawyer would make it difficult to give the president-elect hard-to-take advice.

As a man who knows Reagan well, Smith said there is a "much greater and more realistic possibility" of his giving Reagan advice to make tough decisions than someone who is less familiar with the president personally.

The millionaire California lawyer said that as attorney general, the nation's first lawyer, serving the American people would be his primary responsibility.

In addition to being the lawyer representing the American people, Smith said, "the attorney is also the president's lawyer."

I ASKED

I asked God for strength, that I might achieve, I was made weak, that I might learn humbly to obey. I asked for health, that I might do greater things, I was given infirmity, that I might do better things. I asked for riches, that I might be happy, I was given poverty, that I might be wise. I asked for power, that I might have the praise of men, I was given weakness, that I might feel the need of God. I asked for all things, that I might enjoy life, I was given life, that I might enjoy all things. I got nothing that I asked for — but everything that I hoped for, Almost despite myself, my unspoken prayers were answered. I am, among all, most richly blessed!

Draft registration: Myth vs. fact

The controversial draft registration program resumed the week of Jan. 5 with the sign-up of men born in 1962. Predictably, this produced a new wave of shrill criticism that isn't working. Most of it was based on misinformation and wishful thinking by draft opponents.

In fact, few programs have been subjected to more misunderstanding and deliberate confusion.

Here are some of the gripes against the system, followed by the facts as supplied by the Selective Service System.

own director of Selective Service said that only seven days would be saved with registration in advance of need."

Fact — Before the new program began, estimates of "time saved" ranged from seven to 120 days, an indication that no one knew the exact answer. Now that registration has been accomplished, a specific answer is available: at least four, and possibly five weeks, have been saved.

Complaint — "Only about 75 percent of eligible men registered during last summer's sign-up period; at least a million men defied the Government and failed to register."

FACT — As of mid-December, 95 percent of the eligible population had registered, with late registrations continuing on a daily basis. Registration is running 10 percent ahead of Selective Service experience for 1973, the last year for which complete data are available under the previous draft program, a year in which eventual compliance was above 99 percent.

Complaint — "There has never been a registration without a draft and there's never been a draft without a war."

FACT — In U.S. history, a declaration of war has usually preceded, not followed, a draft. World War II was an exception, of course, but the world was at war in 1940 when the U.S. moved toward increased readiness with the draft.

The list goes on. In each case, the complaints are either contrived or wrongheaded.

THE TRUTH IS, registration is a sensible precaution against a future military emergency. And it is working as well or better than it has in the past.

The preppy look

James Werrell

I looked down at myself the other day and was shocked to see that virtually everything I was wearing came from L.L. Bean's, a store in Freeport, Maine that sends me catalogs five times a year.

My outfit included L.L. Bean saddle shoes, L.L. Bean cotton chinos, an L.L. Bean plaid shirt and L.L. Bean socks and belt. The only interloper was one item of apparel manufactured by the Jockey Corporation.

I immediately replaced my plaid shirt with one made of polyester with pictures of pineapples and orchids on it.

THERE HAD BEEN NOTHING basically wrong with the original all-Bean outfit. It's just that I had inadvertently dressed up in what constitutes a uniform for preppies, and with the recent revival of the preppy look, I didn't want anybody thinking I dressed that way on purpose.

You may be wondering just what the preppy look is. The answer to that and just about any other question you may have about preppies can be found in the recently released "Official Preppy Handbook."

YOU SEE, the basic premise of this book is that preppy is not only a way to dress, but also a way of life. Thus, the book is invaluable to those who are striving to achieve preppiness, and just as invaluable to those who are striving to avoid it.

If either of these categories applies to you and you are contemplating: naming a child; purchasing a pet; taking up lacrosse; redecorating your library; going to college; taking a vacation; or buying a shirt with a crocodile on it, read this book first!

THE ASPIRING preppy would, with just a cursory glance, learn that the proper resolutions to the aforementioned dilemmas would be:

- Muffy (female), Skip (male)
- A large sporting dog with a tendency to drool
- Do
- Prints of dogs, ducks and horses
- Yale
- Martha's Vineyard
- Buy several

THE BOOK COVERS every imaginable aspect of the preppy persona, from which cars to drive (Volkswagen Rabbits and Jeep Wagoneers) to what should be monogrammed (cufflinks, hip flasks) and what shouldn't (suits, your dog's collar).

How many words do you know that express drunkenness? Preppies, according to the "Handbook," have at least 20 in their lexicon.

WHERE DO PREPPIES hang out in Dallas? The "Handbook" lists a different place for every day of the week.

I happen to think this is a wonderful book, but I want to make it clear that I am not an aspiring preppy. I would never decorate my home with duck prints, take up lacrosse or buy a dog that drools.

Nor will any child of mine ever be named Muffy or Skip. Tiffany and Biff maybe, but never Muffy or Skip.

New year politics

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — For the U.S. and the other industrialized countries, the politics of the new year are mostly in place. At the center is the unresolved problem of the last decade — the famous mix of slow growth and rising prices known as stagflation.

The rhetoric of those has recently changed — from liberal to conservative. But it remains in doubt whether the government that counts most, the government of this country, will tackle basic troubles, or, like its predecessor, merely attack the symptoms.

CONTINUING INFLATION is deeply embedded in most of the industrial world. In this country, which is better than average, the core rate of inflation — that is to say the increase in prices which business must impose to stay abreast of rising costs — now amounts to about 10 percent annually. Uncertain political conditions in the Persian Gulf and bad harvests assure higher prices for energy and food. Unless measures are taken, inflation of over 10 percent is guaranteed for the U.S. and most European countries.

Slow growth in national output arises from inflation — and the half measures taken to stem it. The combined effect of high interest rates and reductions in government spending and private investment rates and reductions in government spending and private investment works to reduce to about two percent the growth outlook for the next 18 months for the U.S., Britain, Canada, Germany and France.

Between rates of growth and political coloration there exists a connection. When there are surpluses to divide, societies seem ready to leave the task to political leaders. When disposable income falls, and the task is distributing sacrifice, people turn self-reliant.

So the 1960s were halcyon days for believers in government management of the economy — Democrats in the U.S.; Labor in Britain; Gaullists in France; Social Democrats in West Germany and Scandinavia. But lately, parties and persons known to favor the free play of markets have surged forward. Hence the recent success of the Tories in Britain; Helmut Schmidt and his coalition partners, the Free Democrats, in West Germany; President Giscard d'Estaing and the Independents in France. The Republican victory of Ronald Reagan last fall is the American counterpart of a general drift.

BUT ARE FREE marketers any better in dealing with stagflation than believers in government direction? Recent experiences in Japan, Germany and Great Britain, apart from being special in each country, cancel each other out. Nor is a true test apt to come with the Regan administration in this country.

Regan supporters, to be sure, have surfaced two coherent strategies for dealing with stagflation. There is the emergency program favored by Jack Kemp, the New York congressman, and David Stockman, the Michigan congressman who will be Regan's budget director. It features a tight lid on credit; big cuts in taxes and government spending; and deregulation on the grand scale, including decontrol of oil and gasoline.

Then there is the foreign policy strategy. The idea is to live with stagflation, and concentrate on making a few gains in dealing abroad. Later, when the government acquires strength and confidence, there can be an emerging drive on the economic problems with some effort to get directly at the transmitter of inflation — the wage-price cycle.

But Gov. Regan's closest advisers have explicitly repudiated both strategies. More important, the cabinet selection has been a disavowal of any strategy.

Cirrhosis is: Good and bad news

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 64. I went for a complete checkup and the test reports came back and my doctor told me I had cirrhosis of the liver caused by drinking. When he informed me of this I quit right then and there. I have not touched a drink of alcohol in six years. After six years, is my liver healed, and if I have a beer now and then, would it affect my liver again? — P.T.S.

I have both good and perhaps not so good news for you.

Cirrhosis is a permanent condition; the liver has been scarred and remains that way. That's the bad news. But scarring is only one way that alcohol can have an effect on the liver. Alcohol can also make the liver become laden with fat. That cumulative effect is reversible, and presumably this reversal has been accomplished by your abstinence. That's the good news.

There are all degrees of cirrhosis, from mild to severe. Yet, it would seem to me that even if you have only a mild degree of cirrhosis, you would be wise to stay on the wagon completely. There is no percentage for asking for trouble. Taking a beer every now and then usually progresses to a beer more often.

You are in exactly the same situation as the person with emphysema who has stopped smoking. The emphysema damage remains, so the idea of smoking a cigarette every now and then would be as impractical for him as your now-and-then beer would be for you. Not a good idea. Your liver is not and never will be the same as it was before the scarring. It's trying to serve you well, despite the punishment it received. Why make that job tougher?

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please write soon on leg (ankle) ulcers. My brother, 70, an ex-heavy smoker and drinker, etc. has had ulcers on his ankle area. He says his doctor tells him nothing, and mine is on vacation. Trust you aren't just now. — B.Y.

Most leg and ankle ulcers are due to poor circulation. A small percent may be skin cancer and I trust that possibility has been ruled out for your brother.

The ulcer forms from starvation of the skin because of poor blood supply there. Therefore, treatment is to improve circulation. As simple as it sounds, staying off the feet and elevating the legs are helpful in healing. If the ulcer is infected, that must be treated. Cleansing agents, like hydrogen peroxide or dextranomer (Debrisan) helps remove the debris. Sometimes, an antibiotic ointment will be needed.

The ulcer must be protected, especially in the early stages of healing. A splint, unna boot or even a cast may have to be applied for a short time. When the inflammation subsides, the ulcer can be covered with a dressing, one that does not dry out and cause the healing skin to be pulled away. An example of this kind of dressing is Lyofam. It absorbs, but does not dry out. If an ulcer does not heal after all these steps have been tried, then skin grafting may have to be done.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Do you have any ideas about what causes anxiety in some women? I get feeling cold and clammy. My heart beats fast, and I get a tingling sensation over some parts of my body. Sometimes I feel numbness. I have had just about every test available, but I feel like I am dying when this happens. — S.T.

You are accurately describing anxiety attacks — this feeling of fear and apprehension. As in any fearful situation, the heart beats faster; we perspire; often we begin to over-breathe, and that can lead to the tingling and numbness. Anxiety feeds on anxiety.

There are some physical conditions that can produce symptoms similar to those you describe — an overactive thyroid gland, low blood sugar and menopause, for example. The search for physical causes has been made. Realizing that there were none found should in itself be a source of comfort for you. All that's left is your anxiety. If you cannot rid yourself of that on your own you should seek psychiatric help to find out why you are this way. Then something can be done about that.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a new Christian, and I want to grow in my faith. I have always enjoyed going to movies, but now I think I should be more discerning about which ones I go to. What guidelines can you give me? — K.C.M.

DEAR K.C.M.: Let me encourage you by saying that your concern over movies already indicates growth. God wants Christians to "Put off your old self ... and to put on the new self" (Ephesians 4:22-24). A Christian must realize that there are things which he may have done, seen, or said prior to his conversion which are simply out of place in the Christian life.

In selecting movies, you may want to consider the following two general guidelines: Select movies according to their subject matter. Like a computer our brains store information which can be used at a later date. If we fill our minds with evil, Satan can use this in the future to create lustful thoughts, actions and habits which will plague us and lessen our effectiveness as Christians. God wants us to govern the feeding of our minds. He does not want us to participate directly or indirectly with evil. "Therefore, get rid of all moral filth and the evil that is so prevalent" (James 1:21).

Select movies for the positive contribution they can make to your life. Will a particular movie provide you with a refreshing and relaxing time? Will it motivate you to become a more sensitive and caring person? Will it challenge you to become a more obedient Christian with a great vision for God's work in this world?

Memorize this verse and let it be your plumb line for evaluating films: "Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable — if anything is excellent or praiseworthy — think about such things" (Philippians 4:8).

Jack Anderson

'Worst Senator'

WASHINGTON — The informal competition for the title of "Worst Senator" is likely to be more intense than usual this year, considering the crop of new contenders in the field. But an odds-on favorite is Steve Symms, the Idaho Republican who unseated Frank Church.

Symms moved up to the Senate from the House, where he spoke for a constituency largely of Idaho potato farmers. They had nothing in common with Muammar Qaddafi's dictatorial regime in faraway Libya. Yet several months ago, Symms tried to help one of Qaddafi's trusted henchmen make contacts on Capitol Hill.

SYMMS INVITED several members of Congress to a meeting, which he felt should be hidden from the public. His confidential invitations said: "This will be a private meeting for just a few Members and Mr. Shahati (Ahmed el Shahati, the same Libyan official who arranged a $500,000 loan for President Carter's brother, Billy). The press will not be present or notified about the meeting. And your presence will receive no public exposure."

When I gave the meeting the "public exposure" that Symms so desperately wanted to avoid, the 20 invited congressmen dwindled to seven. One of those who attended fled into a congressional men's room to escape my reporter and eventually got lost in the catacombs of the House garage trying to keep from being identified.

Symms' Libyan connection isn't the only matter that raises questions about the fitness to serve in the Senate. He also has suspicious ties to Nelson Bunker Hunt, the Texas tycoon who nearly wrecked the silver market a year ago with his financial manipulations.

The Idaho congressman has been looking after the Texas businessman's interests on the House floor. In 1978, for example, Symms co-sponsored a bill to keep the Commodity Futures Trading Commission from punishing commodity law violators whose cases had been dismissed on technical grounds. The bill was tailor-made for Hunt.

Symms later sponsored a bill that appeared to protect Idaho's beet-sugar producers, but which was drafted by an attorney for a Colorado firm controlled by Hunt.

In 1979 Symms co-sponsored a measure that would have forced the government to stockpile silver — a move that would have sent silver prices skyrocketing at a time when Hunt was the biggest holder of silver in the country. Symms himself bought silver before introducing the legislation.

SO MUCH FOR past history, however unsavory. Now Symms is pushing legislation that may let snake-oil hucksters invade the prescription drug market, which federal regulations have kept them out of. Symms wants to let any nostrum that is deemed safe go on the market without meeting the federal government's requirement that it be proven effective.

Apparently, Symms is moved by a sincere desire to provide drugs for his wife, Fran — who suffers from a rare disease affecting the connective tissues — and others in similar situations. At the same time, however, Symms cannot resist the temptation of stuffing his campaign coffers.

He has sponsored a bill that would remove the "effectiveness clause" from federal drug regulations. At the same time, he has received thousands of dollars from the pharmaceutical industry in campaign contributions and speaking fees. He has become the darling of the drug industry, whose profits will skyrocket if safety becomes the only criterion for medicines that can be foisted off on the public.

The effectiveness requirement that Symms is trying to abolish does more than prevent the public from getting ripped off. It can save lives by keeping a doctor from prescribing a useless drug instead of one that might be effective.

The pharmaceutical industry gave Symms enthusiastic support in his successful drive to unseat Frank Church. Symms got $2,500 from the political action committee of Pfizer, a leading drug manufacturer; $3,000 from Dart Industries; political action committee and lesser amounts from American Cyanamid and other drug-related firms. He has also accepted contributions from committees connected with Eli Lilly, Hoffman-LaRoche and Bristol-Myers — not to mention the American Medical Association, which reaps millions in advertising from the drug industry in its monthly journal.

Symms' sweetheart relationship with the drug industry is no real secret. It has just become more serious now that he has been elevated to a Republican-controlled Senate.

Footnote: Symms said the contributions from the pharmaceutical industry have nothing to do with his opinion on the drug laws. With the laws the way they are, the senator told my associate Les Whitten, "You couldn't get penicillin approved by the Food and Drug Administration."

LAME DUCKS ON THE WING: One thing the bigshots in Jimmy Carter's Department of Transportation learned well, apparently, was how to transport themselves at the taxpayers' expense. Three high-level DOT officials put their junketing expertise to work shortly after the November election guaranteed their imminent departure from the public trough.

Deputy DOT Secretary William Beckham Jr. spent nine days visiting Belgium and touring a Ford Motor Co. plant there. Oddly enough, Beckham was a Ford executive before he joined DOT, and there is speculation that he may have a job waiting for him at his old outfit.

Then there are DOT Secretary Neil Goldschmidt and his deputy secretary for international business, Charles Swinborn, who flew off to Japan the day after Christmas and returned last Wednesday — less than two weeks before they'll be out of office.

DOT spokesmen claimed the trips were not only justified, but required by legislation to aid Chrysler. The law demands a careful study of the auto industry, they explained.

Denver oil company fined $20 million in oil scheme

HOUSTON (AP) — Two oilmen and a Denver-based company, in a plea bargain agreement with federal prosecutors, will pay more than $20 million in penalties and refunds for selling low-priced "old" crude oil as a higher-priced "new" product.

B.A. Williams III of Houston, Marvin Davis of Denver, Colo., and Summit Transportation Co. entered guilty pleas before U.S.

District Judge Norman Black, who imposed $20,120,000 in fines and refunds. Williams is a former president of Summit and Davis is its former board chairman.

Williams was fined $40,000 on each of two counts and Davis agreed to pay $20,000 as a civil penalty.

Summit entered a guilty plea to a two-count criminal information and drew a maximum $10,000 fine on each charge.

The company also agreed to pay a $3 million civil penalty and refund $17 million, including interest, to the Department of Energy.

Specifically, Williams was charged with willful violation of the Energy Petroleum Allocation Act and the company was accused of making false statements.

Prosecutors said the pricing scheme existed between Jan. 1, 1973, and May 1, 1978.

Court records showed that Summit delivered 48,153 barrels of West Texas sour crude to Mobil Oil Corp. for $529,684 in March 1976. Included in the sale was a statement from Summit that the petroleum did not include any "old" oil when, in fact, it did, the government contends.

At that time "old" crude was selling under federal regulations at about $5 a barrel compared with $10 to $15 for "new", or more recently discovered, oil.

U.S. Attorney Carl Walker Jr. released a statement of the government's contentions in the case.

"Summit, in purchasing their supplies of (certified) crude oil ... also purchased crude oil for which they obtained no certification in violation of DOE regulations," the statement said.

"Summit ... then resold or exchanged and resold their crude oil, thereby knowingly and willfully on frequent occasions failed to identify the amount of old oil contained in the volume sold, thus supplying their customers with a false certification."

The summary listed three 1976 sales which the government said involved resale of West Texas sour crude oil containing a certain amount of "old" oil.

In March 1976, Summit

Gas was alleged to have entered into a contract with Mobil Oil Corp. to sell crude and "knowingly and willingly contracted to sell the West Texas sour crude oil as containing no 'old' oil, when, fact, it did contain a certain percentage of 'old' oil."

Designed to draw sharper lines with GOP

Shaw member of Democratic Caucus in House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Democratic Caucus has formed in the House to draw sharper lines with the GOP, but whether all brands of Democrat will join is open to question.

Chairman Jerry Benedict, D-Angleton, and all five steering committee members voted against Bill Clayton for speaker, and Clayton "team members" say the Caucus is unneeded.

"I'd like for Clayton to join this ... I think a lot of times Clayton could stand with us as a Democrat," Benedict said.

Rangel, D-Kingsville; Ron Coleman, D-El Paso; Larry Shaw, D-Big Spring; Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin; and Gene Green, D-Houston.

Benedict said the steering committee would begin writing a statement of principles next week.

He said legislative Democrats should define where they differ from the 36 Republicans in the House and seven in the Senate.

"The Republicans have money and can get to the media and say what they stand for. We wanted to be able to say what we are as Democrats. One thing we agree on is we would rather have a Democrat governor," Benedict said.

Benedict said the caucus has not decided how it will function or whether it will endorse bills. One possibility is the federal model, with a majority leader and majority whip. A possible goal would be to gain enough strength to choose the speaker and make committee assignments as do the majority caucuses in Congress.

Some conservative Democrats close to Clayton oppose the caucus.

Rep. Ray Keller, D-Duncanville, referred to it as "the liberal Democrat caucus."

"How do you get to be a liberal? Just because you oppose Clayton? ... I think I am a conservative Democrat. My district elected (Sen.) Buster Brown (R-Lake Jackson) and a Republican sheriff and me," Benedict replied.

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, who held Clayton's speakership votes together while Clayton faced federal corruption charges, said he opposes the idea of a Democratic caucus.

"When you step into these chambers, you work on behalf of the people of Texas, not your party," said Lewis.

Clayton says the idea of a Democrat Caucus has merit but he also questions the need for one until there are more Republicans in the House.

Steering committee members are Reps. Irma

Grumman will rework buses

HOUSTON (AP) — Grumman Company in answer to criticism from officials of the some nation's largest cities, said Thursday it would rework its entire fleet of 2,492 buses and then double the warranty coverage.

New York, Los Angeles and Chicago have ordered 1,100 of the buses off the streets because of concern about safety. In Houston, many of the new Grumman buses have been in the shop for repairs.

Robert Landon, president of Grumman Flexible, told a news conference that 32 other vehicles had been sidelined because of indications of possible trouble.

BSHS students make All-State

In auditions held at Permian High School in Odessa Saturday, several Big Spring High School students made the Texas All-state choir for 1981.

They are Charlotte Bell, Diana Johnson, Rodney Smith, Mark Warren, and Bruce Webb. Diana Johnson made first chair in her section.

The students competed with others from a four-region area which includes El Paso, Wichita Falls, Abilene, San Angelo, the Texas Panhandle, and cities in between.

Big Spring High school had the highest number of students in the area to make the All-state choir.

Members of this choir will rehearse and perform in San Antonio Feb. 11-14 at the Texas Music Educators' Association's annual convention.

Big Spring High School choral director is Marjorie Dodson.

Effective parenting workshop slated

Family Services of Midland is presenting a workshop on effective parenting, beginning Jan. 31. This workshop will demonstrate that it is totally possible in this day and age for parents to be heard and respected by their children, to maintain control over the family, and to rear children who are self-disciplined, self-motivated, and self-assured.

This parenting workshop is for the adequate parent who wants more for himself and his children, as well as, for the parent who feels helpless and overwhelmed.

Because its focus is on rearing of self-disciplined and self-motivated children, it is particularly relevant to single parents and dual-career parents who cannot monitor their children's behavior all the time.

Because it aims at improving the child's self-esteem and self-assurance it is relevant to the quiet, fragile child as well as to the defiant, acting out child.

The workshop is particularly relevant to those parents of children whose sense of self-worth has been damaged throughout such traumas as divorce. Teachers and other professional could also gain additional concepts and strategies for managing discipline problems.

The workshop will consist of lectures, discussions, role-playing exercises, and homework assignments that will help parents master, stick with, and put into practice the basic principles of effective parenting. It will meet in the Blakemore Room at Theatre Midland on Jan. 31 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be three follow-up sessions the following three Tuesday evenings—Feb. 3, 10, and 17—from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. for participants to work out the problems they have had in using the skills acquired.

The workshop leader will be John Young, ACSW, who is a counselor with Family Services of Midland. Young has previously taught this much demanded parent course.

The fee is $65 for couples and $50 for single parents payable in advance to Family Services, 2101 West Wall, Room 9. For more information call Young at 883-4241.

Kay Hepner gives program

The Potpourri Club met in the home of Bobbie Thomas Monday. Twelve members were present.

Sara Tipton, president, presided at business meeting. The club voted to support the Big Spring State Hospital cookie operation project during the coming year.

Kay Hepner, elementary school librarian, presented the program on The Art of Working With Stained Glass. She told the group the basic supplies that were needed and explained some of the elements of the craft. She also displayed various finished stained glass objects which she had created.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 9 in the home of Ruth Currie.

Coahoma fellowship planned

Women's Christian Fellowship will meet Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the First Baptist Church of Coahoma.

Those celebrating January birthdays will not be required to bring a covered dish. A special person will be honored.

All ladies are invited. A nursery will be provided.

TWEEN 12 and 20 Level with Dad about accident

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and have a big problem. A couple of weeks ago, my friend and I went to a party. I don't usually drink but I did this time and I really got drunk, so drunk that I could not drive. I allowed my friend to drive my mom's car and we went to get something to eat at a restaurant so I could sober up. As my friend was pulling out, she bumped the car parked next to us. We didn't see any damage so we left.

It now appears that someone took down our license number because I found a notice addressed to my mom saying that the Department of Motor Vehicles sent information on my mother to a certain party because he paid a fee.

Now I'm really scared. I didn't tell my parents because I already have been in one accident and they are very strict.

I was thinking of telling my father because he wouldn't be as mad as my mother. I also have the name and address of the guy whose car I hit. Should I go and talk to him? Please hurry. — Ann, Fullerton, Calif.

Ann: Show your father the notice from the DMV and tell him exactly what happened. Explain to him that it appeared that no damage was done to the other car so you didn't mention the accident. Inform your father that your friend was driving because you weren't feeling well. It would do no good to tell him that you were drunk.

I'm sure your insurance company will take care of the claim. Your problem is the direct result of your betrayal of your parents' trust with your immature behavior. I hope you learned a lesson!

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Abby

Wife Moves Up at Work, Moves Down at Home

DEAR ABBY: My husband, through schooling, hard work, perseverance and the right moves, has reached the top of his field. He still works hard and travels occasionally for his company. I am very proud of him.

Now the tables have turned. After our youngest started to school, I went back to work, and through hard work, perseverance and the right moves, I now hold a responsible position. (I make almost as much as he does.)

I also work hard and do some traveling for my company. Is my husband proud of my success? Not on your life!

When I have to leave town on business, he puts me through the third degree, adding disparaging innuendoes about married women who use "business trips" as an excuse to get away from home.

After spending 20 years as a wife and mother, I think I'm entitled to the rewards of a career. My home responsibilities have never suffered because of my job.

Abby, what's wrong with men anyway?

G. IN JERSEY

DEAR G.: Nothing is wrong with men, but something is wrong with your husband. He's jealous, competitive, insecure and probably feels threatened because his wife has become a person in her own right — instead of an extension of him. Fortunately he is not typical of successful men whose wives have also achieved success.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of "brag" letters sent at Christmas, but can anyone top this?

Not only four pages of mimeographed bragging, but gobs of duplicated newspaper clippings, plus a picture of hubby's new office. It weighed so much, I had to pay 13 cents' postage on it!

How does one respond to such holiday greetings?

ORDINARY FOLK

DEAR FOLK: With faint praise. Unless one wants to be on their list next year.

DEAR ABBY: I was married for 11 years and have three children. My wife and I parted with a minimum of hostility and are now better friends than we were when we were married. I am allowed to see my children whenever I like, and there are no hard feelings on either side.

I am currently engaged to a lovely 21-year-old woman I'll call Ellen. We are very much in love, but there is a problem. Ellen is very jealous of the relationship I have with my ex-wife. Although I have explained that we are only good friends, she feels threatened by my ties with my ex-wife. Ellen gets along very well with my children, but whenever they mention their mother, she bristles.

I don't know how to handle this. Should I say goodbye to Ellen, or hang in there hoping that she will realize that I do love her but I can't break off all contact with my children's mother just because she's jealous?

MONUMENTAL PROBLEM

DEAR MONUMENTAL: The problem is not yours, it's Ellen's inability to accept your non-threatening relationship with your ex-wife. Tell her that unless she learns how to deal with her jealousy, there is no way you can have a future together.

CRMWD files for extension of permit to build Stacy dam

Just to play safe, directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District Tuesday instructed the general manager to file for a two-year extension of the district's permit to build the Stacy reservoir.

Regulations call for the beginning of construction within two years of the granting of a permit in order to keep it intact, but the April 10, 1979 permit for Stacy has been hung up in judicial appeals since that time.

Presently, it is before the Court of Appeals in Austin, and there is no indication when this tribunal will rule, or if it is favorable to the district, whether the protesting Lower Colorado River Authority and others will persist in an appeal to the Supreme Court of Texas.

If the extension is granted, as expected, this will give CRMWD until April 10, 1983 to begin work on the Stacy dam across the Colorado River 25 miles southeast of Ballinger.

The board also authorized notices of intent to introduce a bill in the 67th Legislature to amend the act by which the 51st Legislature created the district in 1949. Two principal changes will be sought, one to enlarge the boundaries of the district from the Jan. 1, 1950 corporate limits of the member cities of Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder to the corporate limits as of Jan. 1, 1981.

This also would carry a provision that the district could annex territory annexed by cities in the future. The second change would be to enable the district to be the sponsoring agency for projects under the Clean Air Financing Act and the Regional Disposal Act.

Territorial boundaries for this authority would be the counties within the Colorado River Basin above the east county line of Coleman counties, and certain other contiguous counties.

Sponsoring of such projects would not incur direct financial liability on the district, since these projects stand on their own bottoms, but it would furnish a vehicle whereby cities and other entities might undertake such projects.

A series of inter-fund transfers totalling $1,302,179 was approved by the board as a year-end bookkeeping measure. Appropriations of the $122,371 were made for various special expenses and improvements.

Included were $7,371 for pipeline easement payment to the University of Texas system for the next 10 years; $44,000 in water royalties to Duval Corporation for 1981; $10,000 for purchase of materials for remote controls in the McWhorter pump station near the Howard-Martin county lines; $25,000 for materials and equipment for installation of hydraulic accumulators at three pump stations; and $30,000 for operation of the 11th year of a weather modification project.

In the latter instance, O. H. Ivie, general manager, also was given authority to enter into contracts with the U.S. Water and Power Resources Service (former Bureau of Reclamation) and the Texas Department of Water Resources for continuation of the Texas HIPLEX weather modification research project based in Big Spring.

Lee, Wilson, Reynolds & Co. CPA, of Big Spring was engaged to conduct the audit of the district books for 1980-81.

The directors, in effect, took no action to change contracts with American Magnesium, which has shut down its southwest Scurry County plant, and the SACROC repressuring unit in Scurry County.

Resolutions were adopted memorializing Dr. John Blum, Snyder director who died Sunday, and commending R.A. (Skeet) Schooling, administrative assistant, who is retiring Feb. 1 after nearly 30 years connection with the district.

SHOT AT HOME NEAR BELFAST — Bernadette Devlin McAliskey, above, the Northern Ireland Roman Catholic political campaigner and one-time British Parliament member, was shot and wounded along with her husband at their home in Cookstown, Northern Ireland, Thursday morning, police reported. She and her husband were rushed to a hospital, police said, and three people were detained by police for questioning.

Big Spring YMCA directors call annual meeting Monday

The Big Spring YMCA board of directors will hold their 1980 annual meeting on Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

According to Dave Morrison, president of board of directors, "the meeting will be held to recognize YMCA board of directors who will be leaving the board, and recognize those new board members who will be coming on the board." He also said, "the slate of nominated 1981 officers will be elected by the board of directors. The youth and government participants will present a program on the Austin State Conference in February."

The meeting is open to the membership. Reservations can be made by calling Bob Cappel, executive director by noon on Monday.

Annual membership banquet scheduled Feb. 7 at Seminole

SEMINOLE — The Seminole Area Chamber of Commerce will stage its annual membership banquet Saturday, Feb. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Guest speaker will be Dr. Paul McDuffie, a Dallas humorist. The Citizen of the Year will also be named.

Fed excise tax on phone service will stay at 2 percent in 1981

The federal excise tax on telephone service did not increase to one percent in 1981 as had been expected. President Carter has signed legislation to hold the excise tax at 2 percent during 1981. The legislation specifies that the tax will drop to 1 percent for 1982.

Federal estimates say the U.S. government will receive an additional $358 million in 1981 as a result of the tax remaining at 2 percent.

Prior to 1973, the federal excise tax on most local and long distance calls was 10 percent. Starting in 1973, the rate was reduced one percent each year as part of a plan to phase out the tax. However, the recent federal legislation will delay the phase-out for a year.

CLUB DESTROYED—River Crest Country Club, generally considered to be Fort Worth's top country club, was destroyed in a fire early Friday. Club officials estimated damage at $12-$15 million. Laser-beam weapon test-fired aboard jet for first time Thursday

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A laser-beam weapon that could transform warfare into something out of "Star Wars" has been test-fired aboard an airplane for the first time, the U.S. Air Force says.

"I'm satisfied that we have in fact passed a very significant milestone," Air Force Secretary Hans Mark said Thursday at Kirtland Air Force Base here. "We can now think about shooting down the other fellow's missiles without using nuclear warheads."

The laser eventually may be mounted on a satellite that will be able to pick off enemy missiles from outer space, Mark said. And some time in the future, the laser technology may be incorporated into a small weapon for use by foot soldiers, he said.

The tests, conducted Wednesday and Thursday, give the United States a leg up on the Soviet Union, Mark said.

"We know the Russians are doing a lot of work on lasers," Mark said. But "as far as I know, they do not have a laser like this on an airplane."

"We're way ahead on this," he said.

The tests were conducted aboard a four-engine NKC-135 jet on the ground. While the laser had been fired from the ground before, even shooting down target missiles, it had never before been used while mounted on an airplane, Mark said.

The next step, which could come within months, is to fire the laser from an airborne NKC-135, he said.

Mark declined to say what problems have cropped up during the tests, but said, "I don't see any technical problems that are in the way."

A laser is a narrow, intense beam of light produced when atoms are stimulated to high energy levels. The one tested this week "sounded like a jet engine going," Mark said.

The Kirtland Special Weapons Laboratory first used a high-intensity laser to shoot down a drone target in 1973. Since then, the Air Force has been working on the technology to place a laser aboard an NKC-135.

Illinois woman first person to receive synthetic interferon

HOUSTON (AP) — For 18 months Joan Karafotas shunned traditional chemotherapy treatments and instead took vitamins, exercised and gave up coffee and wine in a fight against a cancer. Now the 37-year-old Illinois housewife has pinned her hopes on the latest product of genetic engineering.

Mrs. Karafotas became the first person to be treated with synthetic interferon Thursday when doctors at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute injected her with tiny amounts of the experimental drug.

The attractive mother of three is one of eight patients in the advanced stages of cancer who are participating in the four-month, limited study at M.D. Anderson, one of four American hospitals that specializes in the treatment of the deadly disease.

"The availability of interferon produced by recombinant DNA is extremely important because it is only through this basic science technology that we will have the full chance to determine the anti-cancer potential," said Dr. Jordan Guterman, who is directing the clinical study.

Interferon is a natural substance made by mammalian cells which are attacked by viruses. It confers protection against most kinds of virus and has been successful against animal tumors and some human cancers.

Mrs. Karafotas was told 18 months ago that she had lymphoma, a cancer of the lymph system, and learned that M.D. Anderson was experimenting with natural interferon.

"I decided then I wanted the best treatment I could get," she said.

The M.D. Anderson study is the first step toward federal Food and Drug Administration approval of the substance for human use. Among other things, the study will attempt to make sure the substance is not toxic and determine whether there are significant differences between it and natural interferon.

"I didn't object to chemotherapy, but my doctor said it tended to relapse and possibly might have an effect on the tumor," she said.

Hawks upset No. 1 Midland College!

HC runs 4-corner offense near perfectly to stun unbeaten Chaps

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

MIDLAND — The Howard College Hawks scored one of the biggest wins in their illustrious basketball history here Thursday night before 2500 people in Chapparral Center, using a surprising four-corner offense to take a pulsating 74-72 win over the number one ranked jumbo team in the country, the previously undefeated Midland College Chaps.

It was a game that saw HC Coach Harold Wilder pull one of his better strategic plans, with the Hawks running the scheme to near perfection.

The win allowed the Hawks to go into a tie for the Western Conference lead with a 5-0 mark, the same record as Frank Phillips. Midland is now 5-1 in WJC action.

Howard is now 14-4 on the year, while the loss was the first for the Midland College team after 17 wins.

Howard College was playing without the services of their leading rebounder, Ron Akins, who can also put points on the board quickly. But it didn't seem to matter in this momentous win.

The game started out like most expected, with Midland jumping to an early lead of 10-6. But Howard, behind the wizardry of the Randy Corker and Kenneth Jones, came right back to take a 13-11 lead with just under 13 minutes left in the opening half.

With their initial lead of the contest, Coach Wilder wasted no time in ordering the four-corner offense, thereby spreading out the Midland College defense and allowing the HC shooters to achieve many easy buckets from close range when the Chap defenders would overplay one man.

The strategy worked quite well, as the Hawks gradually increased their lead to 41-31 entering the final minute of the half.

At this point, Midland's Derrick Wilson and Raleigh Freeman canned buckets to narrow the HC lead to six at 41-35 entering intermission. The four-corner seemed to put Midland to sleep in the opening half, but the Chaps came back very alive in the opening minutes of the second half. In their only real surge of the contest, the Chaps took a 44-42 lead with 17:30 remaining, and the Hawks seemed to put themselves in a bigger hole when Corker received his fourth personal foul at this time.

But with Akins already out, and Midland having regained the momentum, Wilder decided to let Corker play with his four fouls. It was a risky move considering the time left, but the gamble proved to pay off.

"All four of his fouls were on the offensive end of the court," Wilder explained later, "so I really wasn't too concerned with him getting one on defense. He just had to be careful around the basket." With the game tight, the two Western Conference toughies traded ties and two-point leads until a pair of back-to-back buckets by Corker with just over 11 minutes to play put the Hawks up by six at 58-52.

But Midland's Charles Johnson and Wilson pumped in field goals to narrow the HC lead back to 58-56.

But the four corner continued to work like gold for the Hawks, as Jeff Faubion and Corker again managed to give the visitors a six-point lead with just under seven minutes left, and in the process work valuable time off the clock.

Midland didn't die until the end, but each time they would score over the next few minutes, the Hawks would come back and patiently work their four-corner offense until an easy basket came.

The lead stayed at four to six until the final minute, when Midland decided the only way to stop the Hawks was in the form of fouling.

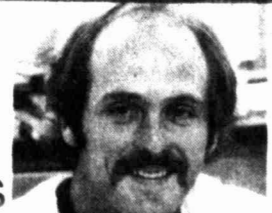

After Crushon Loving sank one of two free throws with 52 seconds for a 73-68 lead, Johnson worked inside with 40 seconds to score and narrow the Hawk advantage to 73-70.

The Hawks once again got past mid-court and the Chapsession, with Jones drawing a foul. He sank the first of his free throw opportunities for a 74-70 lead, but missed the second.

Midland quickly retrieved the ball down court, and after two misses, Puntis Wilson put the Chaps within

Hangin' Out With Nathan Poss

Wilder felt Hawks near perfect in upset; While MC Coach Stone talks of No. 1 pressure

MIDLAND — THERE WAS A STRANGE MOOD AMONG MOST OF THE 2500 people in Chapparral Center following underdog Howard College's upset of Midland College. It was one of both frustration and surprise.

The Midland College team, you see, entered the game with a perfect record of 17-0 and the number one men's ranking in the nation among junior colleges.

Some questioned Midland Coach Jerry Stone for not using 6'7", 230-pound Ernie Tate against the Hawks, who were playing without their leading rebounder, Ron Akins. Others praised Wilder and the Hawks for their poise in operating the four-corner offense and forcing the depth-laden Midland College team out of their running show.

EITHER WAY, IT SPELLED A GIGANTIC WIN on the road for Wilder and his surprising troops, and one that the HC mentor should take extra praise for.

When the Hawks went ahead by one point with 12 minutes left in the opening half, Wilder ordered the four-corner offense.

The four corner was made most popular by Coach Dean Smith's North Carolina Tar Heels team, but many who watched the Hawks run in last night wondered if anyone could have operated the offense with more results.

Wilder stated after the game that he felt it was by far the best way to defeat the previously undefeated Chaps, with or without Akins.

"Our plan was to spread them out," a happy but reserved Wilder explained. "We had to keep them from running and control the tempo. We kept them from doing what they do best, and that's running with about 10 guys. They usually just wear the other team out."

Midland's depth and speed has allowed for many fast breaks this year as they raced to 17 straight wins, but the poise in which the Hawks ran their offense mixed any Chap plans at starting a track meet in Chapparral Center.

"We had to make them play defense on one end of the court, and then make them set up an offense on the other," the Howard College mentor continued. "We could not let them get into the transition game, because that's where they'll usually beat you."

Besides Randy Corker's 27 points and many excellent passes for more buckets to such players as Kenneth Jones and Crushon Loving, who had 18 and 14 points, respectively, there were three other players that came through in flying colors.

"WALTER HALL, JEFF FAUBION AND BOBBY WORD all just played excellent games," said Wilder. "It's a shame that Walter had to get hurt, he was really playing about as well as I've ever seen him." To beat the top ranked Midland team, it did take outstanding games from many Hawks, and Wilder agreed. "We played a near perfect game and kept them from getting fired up," a happy Wilder concluded.

But while Wilder was no doubt happy, the Midland side of the coaching strategists were down, but not out.

MIDLAND COACH JERRY STONE and his assistant, Archie Myers, stood by the locker room and discussed the game. Myers, incidentally, was the first player Wilder ever recruited at Howard College, and went on to become a Hawk All-American and the leading scorer in the history of the school.

"We just never really could get it going," the soft spoken Stone said. "We had a couple of spurts, but I had a feeling throughout the game that it just wasn't there to night."

Asked if the loss might take some of the pressure off the Chaps, who had been ranked number one in the nation for over six weeks and were undefeated, Stone was philosophical.

"I really can't say for sure," he said. "I don't know how much pressure we felt, but I do know that every team we've played in that time has been gunning for us. It's tough to get up for every game, because if you don't, you'll get beat."

"I think after a while," Stone continued, "maybe some players tend to say, 'well, I can't get up for another

Steers host tough Midland tonight

The Big Spring Steers get more than a heavy load tonight when the Midland High Bulldogs come to town for a first half District 5-AAAAA basketball contest.

Midland, the pre-district favorite, displayed no signs of not living up to those laurels in their opening game, taking a 79-68 win over defending champion Odessa Permian. The Steers, meanwhile, suffered a 68-62 loss to Abilene in a bout that could have gone either way.

Midland High boasts one of the taller teams in the state and one of the outstanding players in the state, if not the best. That comes in the form of 6'9" Herbert Johnson, who plays any position on the court and is being highly recruited by colleges throughout the land.

Johnson, a two-time All-District selection, comes into the contest averaging around the 30 point mark.

Moncrief spoils Dr. J record

Marques Johnson said it may have been the Milwaukee Bucks' most important victory of the season, and they achieved it because a likely superstar of the future had upstaged one of the present.

Johnson poured in 24 points, but it was Sidney Moncrief who ignited the Bucks, by scoring all but four of his 22 points in the second half. Moncrief also shackled Philadelphia's brilliant Julius Erving in the closing minutes as the Bucks held on for a 113-110 victory.

The 76ers, with the best record in the National Basketball Association, had a six game winning streak broken despite a milestone 28 point effort by Erving, who has 20,014 points in nine professional seasons.

Erving, who received a standing ovation from the capacity crowd of 11,052 when his feat was announced, became the 13th player in pro basketball history to score 20,000 points. Wilt Chamberlain leads with 31,419.

Erving said he was happy to have surpassed 20,000 points, but would have preferred to do it at home and in a winning effort.

"I feel very fortunate to be one of the players with the talent and skills to accomplish that feat," he said. "But if we achieve what we can as a team, everybody will attain his own individual greatness."

But he is far from being the entire team, as Big Spring Coach Ed Haller explained. "It's not just him (Johnson) by a long shot," he explained. "They've been able to move Johnson outside because Horace Brown has done a tremendous job inside on the boards."

Brown stands at 6'6" and is a returning starter. Another key player for the Bulldogs is guard Booker Mackey, with Mike Velasco and Michael Feldt rounding out the Midland starting line-up. Feldt is the Midland athlete who is being widely recruited for his football exploits.

BSHS starters in tonight's eight o'clock game in Steer Gym will be Dickie Wrightsil, James Doss and Jerald Wrightsil at the guard positions, with Bobby Earl Williams and Fletcher Johnson inside.

Big Spring is 0-1 in district play and 9-10 on the year, while Midland is 1-0 and 18-3.

Saints, Phillips close to terms

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former Houston Oilers Coach Bum Phillips says he's close to reaching an agreement with New Orleans to become coach of the Saints, but nothing has been signed.

"No. Nothing's been settled yet," he said Thursday. "I know I want to be the coach. I think they want me to be the coach. But nothing has been signed," he said.

He denied he told anyone he had reached a verbal agreement to become head coach of the Saints.

"That's somebody trying to put words in somebody's mouth," he said in a telephone interview.

"I've told everybody that's where I want to go, and I think it will work out," he said. "But until something actually does work out, you can't say so until you actually agree on it."

Has a verbal agreement been reached? "No." Is an agreement close? "Yep." How close? "I don't know. I think a week or two, 10 days, something like that."

Phillips and John Mecom Jr., owner of the National Football League Saints, met twice in Houston, and Phillips said he expected to talk to Mecom again soon after he got back to Houston.

He was in Mobile, Ala., to watch Senior Bowl practice sessions.

"We haven't discussed everything yet," Phillips said. "There's not really a sticking point — just time."

He said his talks with Mecom have been general in nature, with no discussion of salary or specific areas of responsibility.

"We just talked theory a couple of times. We haven't really got down to job descriptions and all that," he said.

Phillips was fired after the Oilers lost to Oakland in the first round of the AFC playoffs. The Saints job opened up after the team went 1-15 for the season.

Dick Nolan was fired by the Saints with four games remaining and the Saints 0-12. Dick Stanfel, promoted from offensive line coach to finish the season, has a year remaining on his contract as an assistant coach at New Orleans.

Wilder praises Hawk play; Stone: They deserved to win

(Con't. from 1-B) game, but we're number one, and we'll win anyway."

WILDER APPROACHED STONE and almost said with actor's honesty. "Hey, Jerry, I'm sorry."

Stone seemed to want to laugh, but could only manage a smile. "Sure," he mumbled.

"I don't know," the Midland College coach said a minute later. "You get a team together, you know they're good, but then suddenly someone tells them they're number one in the nation. It kind of hits you right in the face. It's crazy, because although we have a lot of good players, I know we have weaknesses. They all just seemed to come out tonight."

After Wilder left, though, Stone did praise the Hawks. "They (Howard) played really well," he said. "They deserved to win."

WILDER

AND MIDLAND COLLEGE ATHLETIC DIRECTOR DELNOR POSS, a longtime friend of Wilder, saw at least some good in the fact that the undefeated Chaps were finally beaten.

"I hate to see us finally get beat," he said this morning at the breakfast table. "But if we were going to, I'd rather it be the Hawks than anybody."

Hawks in WJC lead with win

(Con't. from 1-B) two on a tip-in with but eight seconds remaining.

But with Midland out of time outs, the Hawks let the ball roll on the floor following the final bucket, with five valuable seconds ticking off the clock before an official stopped time with three seconds left.

On the important inbounds play, Corker took a pass and evaded a Midland defender as the buzzer sounded, giving the Howard College team by far their biggest win in years.

The contest was one of many surprises. With Akins out of the line-up with a back injury, it seemed that Midland would try to use more inside power against the Hawks. But that was not the case. In fact, usual Midland College center Ernie Tate, a 6'7", 230-pounder, sat on the bench for all but two minutes of the game, and was obviously in disagreement with MC Coach Jerry Stone over his playing time.

Another surprise, but definitely a good one for the Hawks, was the superb play of the entire team. Besides the fact that Corker and Jones played their usual good games, such usual unsung players as Faubion, Bobby Word and Walter Hall came through in flying colors. The Midland full-court press never seemed to affect the Hawks, and their play in operating the four-corner offense was superb.

The Hawks will have back-to-back home games on consecutive nights next week. On Monday night they will host Odessa College, while the undefeated Frank Phillips team will come to town on Tuesday night. Wins in both of those contests would no doubt put the Hawks in the drivers seat as the midway point in the WJC schedule nears.

Runnels Red whips Coahoma

The Runnels Red girls basketball team used a balanced scoring attack and rammed to a 28-3 win over Coahoma JHS in action here Thursday evening.

Yvett Smith and Lisa Subia had eight and six points, respectively, for the Runnels team, which is now 3-3.

"We really worked the ball well on offense," said Coach Barbara Fletcher.

In a seventh grade game, Coahoma defeated Goliad by a count of 23-16.

Hawk Queens take tough win on road

WICHITA FALLS — The Howard College Hawks Queens used a 35-point effort from Kelly Lyons and some excellent play down the stretch to overcome a very good Midwestern University Lady Indians basketball team here Thursday night by a score of 83-75.

The win, the Hawk Queens 16th against only two losses, could have been costly, however. Melissa Luna and Mary Kay White both had to leave the game with injuries, and their status is questionable as the team returns home for an important Monday night encounter against Western Conference foe Odessa College.

The Howard College team of Coach Don Stevens led throughout most of the game, although a flurry of Midwestern points in the opening minutes of the second half propelled the host team into a 56-53 lead.

But the Hawk Queens, who shot an excellent 54 percent from the field and 75 percent from the free throw line, pulled out the triumph.

Howard College appeared to be in trouble with nine minutes left when Lyons received her fourth foul, but they held tough in the noisy gymnasium.

Midwestern forced 32 Hawk Queen turnovers in the game, but the shooting of the HC girls proved to be the difference.

"It was just a great ball game," said Coach Stevens. "They are one of the quickest teams we have played this year. It was just a tough win, but we played like we had to pull it out."

Besides the injuries to Luna and White, the Queens were also playing without the services of regular starter Cynthia Robinson.

Lyons scored 21 of her 35 points in the first half, when the Howard women had a 41-35 lead. Others in double figures for the Queens were Carol Wasserman with 13 and Jill Floyd with 11. Lou Zalaf led Midwestern with 25.

After losing cool at referee

Borg smashes McEnroe

NEW YORK (AP) — England overruled the call and awarded McEnroe the point and a 4-3 lead.

"I'm 100 percent sure the ball was good," said Borg. "The linesman said it was good and the umpire said it was out. I asked him if he was sure and if he would ask the linesman, but he said 'No, it's my decision and please play.'"

Borg, the world's top-ranked player, refused to return to the court and after a warning, Lugg ordered two penalty points against the Swede in quick succession, giving McEnroe a 6-3 tiebreaker lead.

Borg said he was so "disappointed and mad" about losing a point he was sure he deserved that "I didn't think so much about the penalty points as much as the point that was taken away from me."

After the penalty, McEnroe won the last point of the tiebreaker to force a third set before Borg won the match 6-4, 6-7, 7-6, and clinched a berth in Saturday's semifinals along with Gene Mayer, Jimmy Connors and Ivan Lendl.

It was the first meeting of 1981 for Borg and McEnroe, who split two five-set struggles last year at Wimbledon and the U.S. Open.

But neither of those classics had the controversy of Thursday night's match, which Borg said he started because "there's no way the umpire can see the base line better than the linesman."

McEnroe was eliminated because he also lost to Mayer on Wednesday.

3-hole surge in Desert sparks Lietzke

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A beaming Bruce Lietzke was considering the way he'd played the 11th through 13th holes at La Quinta.

"Flawlessly, I guess you'd say," Lietzke said.

"I played those eight shots probably as well as I could ever hit them."

He played that three-hole stretch Thursday eagle-birdie-eagle, a 3-2-3 burst that ripped five shots off par and propelled him to sole control of the second round lead in the $304,500 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

The big scoring burst allowed him to play the back nine in 30, finishing off a 6-under-par 66 and providing him with a two-round total of 131, 13 strokes under par in this, the longest tournament on the PGA Tour.

"The whole round consisted of those three holes," he said.

Erving, Jabbar head NBA All-Star squads

CLEVELAND (AP) — Perennial All-Star forward Julius Erving will lead the East squad against Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's West team in the National Basketball Association All-Star Game at the Coliseum in Richfield on Feb. 1.

Erving, a starter in the contest annually since coming to the NBA from the defunct American Basketball Association five years ago, was the top vote-getter in fan balloting for the 1981 team, the league announced Thursday.

The Philadelphia forward, named the Most Valuable Player in the 1977 All-Star Game, received mention on 304,600 of approximately 2 million votes cast, according to Ed Falk, NBA director of communication.

Jabbar, the Los Angeles center who has won the league's MVP award a record six times, was second in the overall balloting and first in the West with 265,200 votes.

Rounding out the Eastern Conference starting team are forward Dan Roundfield and guard Eddie Johnson, both of the Atlanta Hawks, and center Artis Gilmore and guard Reggie Theus, both of the Chicago Bulls.

Abdul-Jabbar will lead a Western Conference starting unit that includes guards Paul Westphal of the Seattle SuperSonics and George Gervin of the San Antonio Spurs, and forwards Adrian Dantley of the Utah Jazz and Walter Davis of the Phoenix Suns.

The remaining six members of each team are to be selected by the coaches in each conference. Their choices will be announced early next week, Falk said.

Gigantic center a shot block artist at 7'6"

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Indiana State-Evansville is ranked No. 5 in the NCAA Division II, and a big, big reason for the Eagles' prominence is 7-foot-6½ John Hollinden, the tallest college basketball player in the nation.

Hollinden leads the Eagles in scoring at just under 17 points a game and in rebounding at nearly 10 boards a game, and he has blocked an amazing 120 shots—nearly nine per contest.

"We're getting the right blend," says ISUE Coach Wayne Boultinghouse, whose Eagles take a 12-2 record against St. Joseph's, Ind., on Saturday.

"The forwards are consistent on both ends, both starters and guys coming off the bench, Big John is the focal point of our defense, and the guards are playing well," said Boultinghouse, in his seventh year at ISUE.

Hollinden, who led the nation with 165 blocked shots last year, explains his defensive ability:

"When you get a smaller guy coming in, he's gonna have to leave his feet and put some kind of move on me. Most of the time, I can take one good quick step and know where the ball is going to go up.

"After having people do it to me every day in practice, every summer on the playground and in every game, I know where the ball can go from where the guy is in relationship to the basket."

He is there today, honored as the only candidate to win the 75 percent vote required for election. With 401 votes cast by 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, 301 were needed to gain election.

Gibson was named on 337 ballots. No other candidate was close, with runnerup Don Drysdale getting 243.

The only other candidates to receive more than 200 votes were slugger Harmon Killebrew, who finished fourth with 239, relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm, who had 238, and pitcher Juan Marichal, who polled 233.

Gibson: "I should be among the best"

NEW YORK (AP) — The fiery spirit that drove Bob Gibson through 17 overpowering seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals still burns inside the pitcher who today is the newest member of the baseball Hall of Fame.

"I was good," Gibson said. "That was the attitude I had."

The numbers stand as mute testimony to that declaration. The man won 251 games, had a career 2.91 earned run average and 3,117 strikeouts. In 1968, he won 22 games and posted a remarkable 1.12 earned run average, completing one of the most dominating seasons any pitcher ever enjoyed.

He set another record with seven straight World Series victories and had a 1.89 Series ERA. He is the only pitcher in history to have won seventh games of Series twice, nailing down world championships for the Cardinals in 1964 and 1967.

Gibson was one of the fiercest competitors of his era, a flame throwing right-hander who challenged hitters and won more of the confrontations than he lost. He had a gruff image that he did little to change.

"All of the writers thought I was tough and so did the players," Gibson said. "That's the way I was. I grew up fighting a lot of things."

Gibson overcame the obstacles of poverty and prejudice to become one of the premier pitchers of his time. "I was among the best," he said. "I should be NAMED TO HALL OF FAME — Bob Gibson, former pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals, speaks at a news conference in New York Thursday, after he was voted by the Baseball Writers Association of America into the Hall of Fame. Gibson, 45, was the only player voted in this year.

DESIGNED FOR POWER

In the annals of sailing there have been few to surpass the clipper. She plied the seven seas and helped a new nation become a world power.

But what was their formula for success? God's power and man's design making fullest use of it. You don't have to count the sails or study the rigging to know that.

Is it any different when we employ steam, electricity or atomic power? These are sources of power God has provided. We design the craft and machinery to put them to use.

Try that formula for everyday living. The power comes from God, you put it to the best use. That's what religion is about!

They were wise and skilled Americans who designed the "clipper." They are wise and skilled likewise, whose work begins with the worship of God, and whose days put his Power to Christian use.

Salvation Army is an arm of the Lord that serves

By MICKIE DICKSON
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in the church history series which will be published when there is room and histories are available on the church page.)

The Salvation Army is the second holiness church to be presented in this series. Even though the image the Army projects is that of a social service agency, it is an evangelical Christian movement whose sole purpose is to secure the redemption of lost sinners through faith in the Atonement of Jesus Christ.

The primary aim of the Salvation Army is to communicate the gospel to men, women and children who have been untouched by ordinary efforts. Its members deem themselves to be "servants of all" as they follow their Lord, so the Army includes social and community services to those who need help in 83 countries around the world.

Lt. Thrasher, the local Army commander, would like to impress upon this community that the Army is not just a program for transients, but is available to ANYONE via its hotline, 267-8239, 24 hours a day, who has a problem of ANY KIND in any area of their life.

The Salvation Army came to Big Spring in 1930, commanded by two ladies, Lt. Ellen Lynn, now Mrs. Major Donald Nelson, retired and the now retired Mrs. Lt. Col. Guy Hepler.

Moving from an old storefront building on Third Street to the Dora Robert Citadel at 301 Aylford St. in 1941, the Army has administered a community oriented program for 50 years.

The program, now administered by Lt. and Mrs. Bill Thrasher, commanding officers, provides recreation and guidance for youth and younger children, help for families in times of need, emergency assistance for everyone in times of disaster, rehabilitation services for people in trouble and hope for senior citizens.

Parks are missionaries to youth of Big Spring

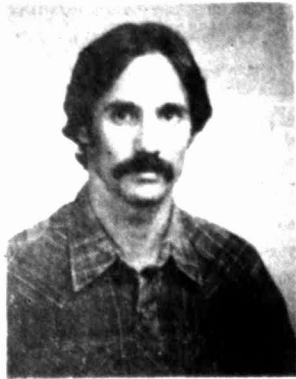

Robert Parks, evangelist, has come to Big Spring area with his family to help establish a permanent outreach center for youth.

Parks worked with a youth outreach and prison ministry in Casa Grande, Ariz. prior to attending the Overcoming Faith Bible Training Center in Fort Worth.

"Drug abuse and alcoholism are just the symptoms of an inner search for life's fulfillment," said Parks. "We will be dealing with each one on an informal personal one-to-one basis."

Teen Challenge of Midland is helping with guidance and direction to this needed work.

Concerned churches, business organizations or citizens may contact the ministry by letter or phone to express support of any kind to the Lions Den, 1400 Wood St., Big Spring, Tx. 79720 or 263-7481.

ROBERT PARKS

Taylor is Permian Basin Encampment administrator

Jerry Bob Taylor, Royal Ambassador director for Texas Baptist Men for ten years, has been named administrator of the Permian Basin Encampment effective March 15.

Taylor plans to create a western theme for the 137-acre encampment between Big Springs and Midland. Buildings will have western fronts; the staff will dress in boots, blue jeans, and ten-gallon hats; and only buggies, wagons and horses will be allowed on main street. "A covered wagon train will take people across the prairie for a day or two in the spirit of pioneers," said Taylor.

Taylor also plans to train a team of disaster relief specialists to be available to Texas Baptists. He helped to build Baptists' first disaster relief mobile unit in 1971 and has served as the unit director in feeding and ministering to thousands of disaster victims in this country and as far as Honduras.

As Texas RA leader, Taylor has seen participation in the statewide Royal Ambassador Congress grow to more than 5,000.

Nationwide call to prayer is issued for inauguration day

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide outpouring of prayer is being urged on inauguration day next Tuesday when Ronald Reagan assumes the presidency.

Leaders of the effort say that a million prayer groups across the country are expected to be meeting that day in churches, offices, shopping centers, schools and homes.

The plan is being pushed by the National Advisory Committee for Inauguration Day Prayer, including numerous evangelists and church leaders.

"These prayers can affect the destiny of the country as much as the inauguration of the president," says the Rev. Jimmy R. Allen, a committee member and head of the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission.

Its weekly "Baptist Hour" radio program on nearly 500 stations is appealing for participation. The committee coordinating the effort was set up as an adjunct to organizing of an evangelism festival in Kansas City July 27-30.

"It is crucial that we call our people to prayer," says Allen of Fort Worth, Texas. "Not only because the Bible commands us but because the times demand it."

Rev. Bryan Ross to speak at dedication in Knott

The First Baptist Church of Knott will have a dedication ceremony Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. for its recently renovated sanctuary.

Rev. Bryan Ross, San Angelo, director of Associational Missions for the Southern Baptist Convention, will be the guest speaker and will officiate the celebration with Rev. Tim Winn, pastor.

A five-piece band from the First Baptist Church of Ackery will provide music.

The congregation had the sanctuary paneled and two dressing rooms built, one on each side of the pulpit area in addition to installing a stained glass window above the outside entranceway.

Missionary to speak on Taiwan

Rev. Jim Williams, missionary to Taiwan, will be speaking at the Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, on Jan. 21, at 7 p.m.

Host Pastor, Dr. Fred Fike, remembers vividly the struggles of this missionary, when making decisions regarding his future career. As an outstanding high school track star at El Paso, Williams was offered athletic scholarships at several universities, but felt the divine call to prepare for the ministry, which later proved to be as a missionary.

He and his wife, Kaye, hold teaching and administrative responsibilities as well as heavy preaching assignments in Southern Taiwan. He is chairman of the Nazarene International Publications Board for the Chinese speaking world. Less than one percent of the world's one billion Chinese are Christians.

Mrs. Fred Fike, the Big Spring pastor's wife, is president of the World Mission Program Organization of West Texas District, and annually engages about twelve missionaries to conduct deputation services in this area.

Polish strikes back demand for 5-day week

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Members of Poland's independent unions held "warning strikes" today in Warsaw and at least two other cities to protest the communist government's refusal to grant a five-day, 40-hour week and its threat of reprisals against those who stayed off the job last weekend.

Warsaw's buses and streetcars stopped at 8 a.m. The Warsaw chapter of Solidarity, the independent labor federation, called the strike after the government refused to rescind its threat to dock the pay of the millions of workers who heeded the union's order to work only five days last week and take Saturday off.

Similar strikes took place in Legnica, 210 miles southwest of Warsaw and the headquarters of Soviet forces in southern Poland, and at a major aircraft plant in Mielec, 140 miles southeast of Warsaw. The aircraft plant supplies civilian planes to the Soviet Union.

New evidence of the economic crisis was published in Trybuna Ludu, the Communist Party newspaper. Zygmunt Krolak, the financial director of the Foreign Trade Ministry, called for postponement of the repayment schedule for Poland's $23-billion debt to Western countries.

Krolak urged the West to buy more Polish exports. He predicted the foreign debt would increase $3 billion this year and said exports would have to increase 30 percent a year for the year three years to reverse the trend.

Boy admitted for ear operation gets unnecessary eye surgery

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Parents of a 7-year-old boy say their child entered Fort Worth's Cook Children's Hospital for an ear operation, but mistakenly underwent unnecessary eye surgery instead.

"There were two different doctors, and they got my boy into the operating room where the other doctor was doing eye surgery on another kid," said Hollis Elmore. "It wasn't even the right doctor, but he went ahead."

Elmore said apparently the doctor didn't look to see who he was operating on Wednesday, despite the armband that Ray Elmore wore. Elmore declined to identify the surgeon.

The other child needed an operation to correct "lazy eye," a condition in which one eye is overworked and tends to cross. To eliminate the problem, doctors go under the eyelid and cut certain muscles.

Elmore said his son had been treated for farsightedness about three years, "but now that they cut all the muscles loose, I don't know what will happen."

Grand jury won't indict

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A representative of the U.S. Justice Department will visit Amarillo Monday to discuss the case of a 46-year-old man shot to death by police last month, said the leader of a civil rights group.

The Potter County grand jury Thursday refused to indict the four police officers who, police reports indicated, were at the scene of the Dec. 5 shooting of Raymond Lee Johnson.

He said the eye surgeon "apologized and said he put it all back, and he felt sure there wouldn't be any problems afterward."

Ray's stated operation was to correct a thickened tissue that had grown around one of the bones in his inner ear. Elmore said the tissue was causing hearing difficulty.

The ear operation was performed after the family was informed of the mix-up, he said.

Indictments may be returned soon in Judge Wood assassination case

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The special federal grand jury that has been investigating the assassination of a federal judge and ambush of a prosecutor may return indictments within the next two months, according to a newspaper report.

The San Antonio Express quoted its sources Thursday as saying indictments would be returned first against defendants in the assassination of U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr., followed shortly by charges in the attempted killing of assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr.

The newspaper said "many of the same people" would be charged in Wood's May 29, 1979, assassination and in the unsuccessful attempt to kill Kerr on Nov. 21, 1978.

"But others will be charged in only one of the cases," the newspaper's sources said.

The sources told the newspaper that indictments would be returned in the Wood case first because federal officials had not wanted to hinder the Wood investigation by making charges first in the Kerr case.

U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd has contended publicly that the attack on Kerr and the killing of Wood were arranged by the same people—individuals Boyd said had large stakes in drug trafficking.

Kerr was known as a tough prosecutor of narcotics traffickers and often prosecuted cases in the court of Wood, known as "Maximum John" because of the stiff sentences he pronounced.

"We didn't want to screw up the Wood case," one source said in explaining why no one was charged with the rifle assault on Kerr, although Kerr reportedly identified three members of the Bandidos Motorcycle Club in a lineup as his possible assailants.

"Indictments in the Wood case should come in two months, the sources said, and charges in the Kerr case are expected within days of the Wood indictments," the Express reported Thursday.

In another development, federal attorneys subpoenaed gambling records of Jamie "Jimmy" Chagra, a Las Vegas gambler who has been a focus of much of the grand jury investigation.

Attorney Steve Stein, representing former Horsehoe Casino owner Benny Binion in Las Vegas, confirmed his client received the subpoena. However, reportedly the subpoena should have been served on Jack Binion, Benny Binion's son, who now operates the casin.

"It would have to be someone besides me because I know nothing about it," the elder Binion said in Las Vegas Thursday. Binion said the papers named Chagra and "some other fellow. I don't remember the other fellow's name."

Chief U.S. District Judge William Sessions has ordered all subpoenas and other documents dealing with the grand jury investigated sealed and not made public.
