Some threatened with loaded revolvers

Freed hostages give more reports of brutal treatment by Iranians

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) — The freed American hostages gave new reports today of brutal treatment by their Iranian captors — beatings, mock executions, grim games of Russian roulette, death threats — and former President Carter accused Iran of "savagery against absolutely innocent hostages."

At the military hospital where the 50 men and two women are recovering from their 14½-month ordeal, a State Department official said, "it is clear we are continuing to uncover evidence of serious mistreatment of our people during their captivity."

A member of the medical team examining the Americans told The Associated Press some of the physical abuse "was not unlike that which some of our boys got from the North Vietnamese."

A group of the former hostages emerged from the hospital today and walked across the street for a dental examination. They wore blue pajamas or Air Force parkas and many waved to well-wishers at the hospital gate.

Following an emotional meeting with the former hostages Wednesday that left him visibly shaken, Carter said the Iranians were guilty of "despicable acts of barbarism." On his return to Plains, Ga. today, Carter said that even as the hostages boarded a freedom flight to leave Iran they were forced, "one by one," to run a gauntlet of jeers and kicks.

He said "these are the acts of animals, almost."

But Carter said the "solemn agreement" that won the hostages' release should be kept because it involves the word of honor of the United States. The Reagan administration has said it will examine the agreement "very closely" before deciding whether to carry it out.

State Department spokesman Jack Cannon said in Wiesbaden that mistreatment included poor food, solitary confinement and being blindfolded. "On a number of occasions a number of persons were threatened with loaded revolvers," he said.

"On a number of occasions some were threatened with death. Some were ordered to strip and lie on the floor and were threatened with death," Cannon said.

Barry Rosen of Brooklyn, N.Y., chatting with reporters on the way to a dental examination, said the former hostages had "many stories to tell" and that the agreement with Iran should be reviewed.

Rosen was not specific about his treatment as a captive, but said, "I just feel that Iran is an outlaw country and it does deserve tremendous criticism from the world."

At a press briefing near the hospital, Cannon said he had no reports of specific injuries suffered by the hostages and in reply to a question added, "we have no reports so far of sexual abuse." He said some hostages were deprived of sleep, "some were forced to stand in the cold weather outside at night and some were manacled to chairs for 14 or 15 days."

Cannon said the Americans were expected to return home toward the end of the week and that they "feel it is very necessary that they have this period of private rest and recuperation."

White House is 'very angry' over mistreatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is "very irate, very angry" over mistreatment of the 52 Americans held hostages in Iran and the treatment they received "certainly will not make it any easier" to carry out the agreement with Iran, an administration spokesman said today.

State Department spokesman William Dyess said he agreed with President Reagan and former President Jimmy Carter that the Iranian captors were "barbarians." Said Dyess, "I think it's a very apt term."

Dyess said the new administration was surprised to learn of the extent of the mistreatment of the hostages and that it plans "a formal reaction" soon.

At the White House, Vice President George Bush said the report Carter prepared on his visit to the hostages was "powerful in its impact."

The report, which Carter prepared in longhand, was given to Reagan this morning by Walter F. Mondale, Bush's predecessor.

Bush said the report would be considered as the administration reviews the agreement with Iran.

He said that in studying a problem, every dimension should be taken into consideration. "We've seen a new dimension to this problem and it is an ugly dimension."

Dyess emphasized that the administration still plans to "carry out the obligations of the United States," presumably including the agreement that led to freedom for the hostages, although he said it is still being reviewed.

Dyess had disclosed on Wednesday that the Reagan administration was reviewing the agreements.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Jury duty mixup

Q. I was recently summoned as a county juror. After it was determined jurors would not be needed, I was not notified. Had I not seen an item in the Herald about the jurors not having to report for duty, I would have missed a day's work. That could have cost me $90. Why wasn't I notified?

A. According to County Judge Bill Tune, it was not known the jury panel was not needed until 11 a.m. Friday. By the time notices could have been mailed to the 60 members of the jury panel, not to show Monday morning, it would have been too late for notification. It is common practice for the announcement to appear in the Herald and the local radio stations. The reason calls were not made was because the phone numbers are not on the jury panel list and persons in the county attorney's office feel it would take too long to obtain them.

Hedges on tax relief

Clements presents $26 billion budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements laid out an ambitious legislative program today that he said would preserve and enhance Texas' status as a "Superstate."

Clements indicated he might have abandoned any notion of direct tax relief in favor of applying a treasury surplus to a State Water Trust Fund.

He presented a $26.2 billion budget for the 1982-83 biennium, 18.5 percent higher than current spending but lower than the Legislative Budget Board's recommendation.

All he had to say about direct tax relief was, "We should continue to look for opportunities to return surplus tax dollars directly to the people of this state."

The governor's program for the 67th Legislature gave top priority to improving public education and putting the brakes on crime, particularly a drug traffic that he said exceeds $3 billion a year.

Wiretapping — unpopular with legislative committee chairmen who will say much about its fate — is "right at the top of my list" of recommendations for fighting the "horrendous drug traffic," Clements said.

He said 85 percent of the Texans who responded to a statewide crime poll said they favor wiretapping.

"I ask you to support it too, because I think it's high time we get serious about stopping this drug traffic. I want us to put these drug peddlers in jail and lock them up," Clements said.

In the education field, he urged competency testing for new teachers, a 22 percent teacher pay raise over two years, an end to social promotions and a law permitting school districts to establish guidance centers for handling discipline problems.

"Nothing is more on the minds of the people of Texas than public education, particularly elementary and secondary, and there is nothing needed more in this area than a return to the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic and stronger discipline in the classrooms," Clements told the lawmakers.

Clements had said in the past he was confident legislators would be able to give Texans $1 billion in tax relief if they kept spending under tight control.

But his budget fell only $300 million below Comptroller Bob Bullock's revenue estimate.

Howard County Junior stock show opens Friday

The annual Howard County Junior Livestock Show will be conducted this weekend. It will take on a new look this year with the utilization of the Dora Roberts Fair Building being the site of all judging activities, according to Don Richardson, county extension agent.

A new green carpet show ring and new seating facilities will add a touch of glamour to this year's show. The heated building should also make it much more comfortable for spectators as well.

A schedule of activities is as follows:

FRIDAY
3-6 p.m. — Weighing and classifying steers and lambs
Lamb classifier — Jessie Overton, Garden City
Steer classifier — Willie Stumberg, Midland
Lamb superintendent — David Barr, Jack Buchannon
Steer superintendent — Aubrey Langford, Rob Haney

SATURDAY
8 a.m. — Judging of Lambs
Judge — John Kearney, Sterling City
11 p.m. — Judging of Steers
Judge — Spencer Tankersly, Muleshoe
5 p.m. — Buyers barbeque — Dora Roberts Building
6 p.m. — Premium Auction Sale — Dora Roberts Building

County Extension Agent Don Richardson said more stock will be judged than last year. An estimated 200 4-H Club and FFA boys and girls have groomed 150 lambs and 35 steers for the event. The youngsters are due to start moving their stock into the fairbarns early Friday.

'Mini-master plan' task

City seeks applications from engineering firms

By JAMES WERRELL
Jan. 30 is the deadline for applications from engineering firms desiring to serve as consultants on construction projects approved during the recent city bond election, said City Manger Don Davis, today.

"I have contacted six firms, all in West Texas, and asked them to submit applications to serve as consultants on these projects," said Davis. "Whoever is chosen will be asked to plan and coordinate the construction schedule and do the actual design work."

Those projects which will be planned by the engineers include improvements to water and sewer systems and local streets. The firm chosen will create what amounts to a "mini-master plan," said Davis.

Using data and information provided by the city, the firm will help determine the priority of the projects, coordinate the work where a combination of water, sewer and street improvements is required, and oversee the actual construction.

Why couldn't this job be performed by an in-house city engineer?

"Technically, it could," said Davis. "But I don't feel it is feasible for the city to get into this business because it involves not only engineering, but also surveying, drafting, specification writing and other specialized work. The support personnel needed would be overwhelming."

Davis stated that this same question has been posed by the city council, and that he has prepared an estimate of costs and personnel requirements which will be discussed during the council's regular meeting, Tuesday night.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Here are the highlights of Gov. Bill Clements' speech Thursday to the Legislature regarding state spending:

- Recommended use of an estimated $300 million surplus for direct tax relief, or, as an alternative, set up reserve funds to meet future needs caused by population growth and depletion of oil and gas resources.
- Two-year increase of 24 percent in state employees pay as a "high priority," plus 10 percent increase in retirement benefits.
- Increase public school money by $1.2 billion, including a 22 percent pay increase for teachers over the two years, with increased retirement benefits.
- Increased funding of $945 million for state colleges and universities, including special attention to Texas Southern University and Prairie View A&M, a 28 percent pay raise for teachers over two years, decreased enrollment limits for medical and dental schools, and $10 million for tuition grants to students in private colleges.
- An increase of $455.9 million to health and human service programs, including $24 million to upgrade starting salaries, more attention to cost containment in nursing home development and other care for the aged and disabled. He recommended against the addition of 642,000 individuals for new and existing welfare programs recommended by the Department of Human Resources, a saving of $300 million.
- More than $215 million increase for improvement of the state's prison system, including $97 million for sites and construction of three new prison units. Also more than $19 million to improve adult probation through community-based systems. The Department of Public Safety would get more than $57 million for growth in traffic safety and narcotics control programs.
- Appropriation of $33 million for a new state office building in the Capitol complex.

Grudge triggered slaying Daughter of coach slain; teen jailed

CROSBY, Texas (AP) — The parents of Angela Fran Dean reluctantly permitted her to stay at home alone the first time to watch television while they attended a football banquet. "I'm a big girl now," Angela, 15, had said. When George Dean, coach and athletic director for Crosby High, and his wife returned home Saturday night, they found Angela dead. She had been beaten to death in what investigators said was an apparent burglary attempt. A 15-year-old boy was taken into custody Wednesday and two others were questioned.

The youth was expelled from Crosby High School shortly before the death when he was accused of stealing some tennis shoes. Mason said the only items stolen were two electronic games. Meanwhile, Dean says he has not decided whether his family will move. The Deans have only one other child, Frederick, a fourth grader.

Firm's staff hosts 150 BSSH patients

The local Montgomery Ward store was a bee hive of activity last Friday night. The firm's staff hosted approximately 150 patients from the Big Spring State Hospital.

The patients were allowed to shop from 7 to 9 p.m. Refreshments and door prizes were given out as the staff demonstrated microwave cooking, popcorn making and cake decorating. Also, a fashion show took place at which time the latest clothing styles were displayed.

Flags donated by vets' kin, civic groups

The 52 American flags displayed at the Veterans Administration Medical Center Wednesday were donated by families of deceased veterans and civic groups, said Lupe Dominguez, voluntary service specialist at VAMC.

"This type trip is good for the patients for many reasons," said Elma Martinez, Coordinator of Volunteer Services. "The patients are given an opportunity to shop in a relaxed environment and demonstration all fill an educational capacity." Martinez said store manager Ruth Gee and her staff should be commended for their cooperation in creating such an opportunity for the patients.

Was hostage agreement ransom or what was rightfully Iran's?

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did the United States pay ransom to Iran for release of the 52 Americans? Apparently not, but U.S. taxpayers will probably end up with some out-of-pocket expense. Ransom is money of one party demanded in return for a kidnaper victim or hostage held by another party, and many Americans feel the Carter administration paid dearly — in pride as well as money — to free the former hostages.

New York Mayor Edward Koch, for one, responded with an explosive, "Ballyhoo!" when a reporter asked whether he agreed with other officials that the agreement was not ransom. "In effect, we have paid a penalty to terrorists, a penalty to kidnapers," Koch said Tuesday. Former Vice President Walter Mondale has defended the hostage agreement, saying the United States was not paying "a dime of American money," and Republican Charles Percy, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "not one cent of ransom" was involved.

To date, that is correct. The money paid to Iran, $2.9 billion, was from Iranian funds on deposit in the United States and in U.S. banks abroad at the time former President Jimmy Carter froze Iranian assets in November 1979. It did include $800 million in interest, but interest would have accumulated anyway. Another $5.1 billion in frozen funds was used to pay off bank loans made to Iran and to settle future claims. And $3 billion or so may be delivered to Iran later, but that is also to be Iranian money.

The potential liability for the taxpayer falls in three areas: — Compensation to the hostages for the harm done them. — Compensation for loss and damage to U.S. property in Iran. — Compensation for claims from unfulfilled contracts and other debts owed American businesses.

Here in question-and-answer form is an attempt to answer these and other questions about the agreement. Q: What about compensation for the 52 hostages? How will that be handled? A: The agreement lets Iran off the hook, even though Iran is to blame for their anguish and abuse, the loss of freedom and the 14 1/2 months lost from their normal lives. Instead, the agreement provides for establishing a presidential commission to decide any compensation. It could easily amount to several million dollars — and taxpayers would pay it. Q: How about damage to the U.S. Embassy and other U.S. property in Iran? A: Iran is absolved of responsibility, despite there being ample precedent for compensation by host countries when damage is done to property of other nations. Q: Doesn't the agreement cover lawsuits against Iran? A: It does. It will take suits out of U.S. courts and have them decided by an international arbitration commission. But the Justice Department expects court challenges to the agreement and isn't sure it will be upheld.

Robert Eugene Archibald, 27, Rt. 1 Box 241 B, was transferred to the county jail Wednesday and charged with theft over $200. He was released on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

When Ben Lynch, Bissopville, S.C., returned to his room at the Motel Nine, 704 E. 3rd, 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, he found two men leaving the room with several of his personal effects. He yelled for the men to stop, but they fled into the night on Third Street. Stolen was a shaving kit full of toilet articles and $70 in cash. Total loss was estimated at $90. Virginia Diaz, 1003 N.W. 2nd, believes she knows who stole a .22 caliber pistol from the pocket of her coat which was hanging in a hall closet, Wednesday night. The gun was valued at $44. Sometime within the last month, someone stole an aspirator from the central supply room at the Big Spring State Hospital. The equipment was valued at $84.75. Four mishaps were reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Wanda Stroder, 703 Creighton, and Darinda Polvorosa, 1301 Johnson, collided at Fifth and Main, 3:48 p.m. A parked vehicle belonging to Luis Rodriguez, Southland Apartments, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene outside the residence, 5:35 p.m. Vehicles driven by Katrine Matthews, Route 2, and Gregory Cole, 1501-B Sycamore, collided at U.S. Highway 87 and the North Service Road of IS 20.6.5 a.m. Vehicles driven by Theron McVea, 908 N.W. 2nd, and Juarez Cruz, 1010 N.W. 2nd, collided at Northwest Fourth and Lancaster, 1:12 p.m.

Police Beat Touchy story: Dog traps man

Who said a dog is man's best friend? Probably not one local man. Officer Troy Hogue served a warrant for "dog at large" at a Fourth Street resident, 3:40 p.m. Wednesday. While doing so, Hogue patted down the suspect and found a .380 caliber semi-automatic pistol in his right, back pants pocket. Patted a little further, Hogue discovered a plastic bag full of 15 hand-rolled cigarettes, thought to contain marijuana. Another bag was found in the man's left, front shirt pocket. In addition to a fine for his errant dog, the man was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and possessing under two ounces of marijuana, both misdemeanors. When Steve Gass, 207 Washington, decided to enter an arm wrestling match at the Green House Lounge, Saturday night, he also decided to take off his gold and diamond ring. When the match was over, Gass couldn't find his ring. It was valued at $1,400. Craig Forshae, 810 Creighton, believes he knows who stole his 1970 American Motors Rebel, 5 p.m. Monday. The auto was valued at $500.

Garwood knows of U.S. soldiers in Vietnam

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood claims to know of U.S. soldiers still being held in Vietnam and "is concerned because he thinks that knowledge should come out," a U.S. Navy psychiatrist testified today. Navy psychiatrist Capt. Benjamin R. Ogburn, testifying in Garwood's court-martial on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam, said the defendant apparently was never given an opportunity to comment on other Americans still being held by the North Vietnamese when he returned to the United States in early 1979.

Prosecutors insisted Garwood was debriefed in the presence of his previous defense team, but chief defense counsel John Lowe asserted that it was only a partial debriefing. Ogburn said he had been informed by prosecution lawyers that the debriefing was not as comprehensive as that of other returning POWs. Garwood was last evaluating Garwood last October to determine his mental capabilities.

Social Security system's money pinch poses woes

States News Service

WASHINGTON — As the 97th Congress grapples with solutions to the Social Security program's short-term financial crunch, legislators may well be choosing between the definite and the deferred.

The former guarantees controversy and political heat. The latter assures little more than temporary relief.

It is the one domestic issue which perhaps more than any other should provide a clue as to how President Ronald Reagan and the newly-revamped House and Senate will address the thorny conflict of debilitating inflation rates and reduced government spending on social programs.

These short-term dilemmas also could signal how the more critical matter of long-term adjustments to the program—such as raising the minimum age from 65 to 68—are handled by Congress. Already, a flock of interest groups and commissions have offered recommendations on how to cope with the expected crunch of recipients around the turn of the century.

Some kind of action is required this year because Social Security's most popular and costliest program, Old Age and Survivor's Insurance (OASI), faces a $78 billion to $100 billion shortfall over the next five years, the result of high unemployment and inflation. Present reserves can't cover it all.

No one is expecting the program to go bankrupt; Congress will act in some fashion to extend coverage, as it did three years ago. However, what emerges over the next nine months on Capitol Hill could determine whether the current OASI beneficiaries—1,561,511 in Texas as of December, 1979—will receive annual cost of living increases at the current rates, and whether other money pools besides payroll taxes might be used to finance Social Security.

"It's a cash-flow problem," explains Bentley E. Lipscomb, staff counsel for the Senate Special Committee on Aging. Back in 1977, when the Social Security formulas were revised, more allowances were given to Disability Insurance—the second prong of the three-pronged Social Security system—than necessary, creating the current condition a fully-stocked DI fund and a depleted OASI fund.

Said Henry Aaron, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution: "The immediate financial predicament of the Social Security system is well known. A combination of high unemployment and the fact that prices are rising faster than wages is causing the growth of (OASI) to outstrip that of Social Security revenues."

Anticipating the problem last fall, Congress approved a measure reallocating a fractional percentage of the payroll tax in 1980 and 1981 from the disability fund to OASI. This is expected to raise OASI revenues to about $9 billion, enough to help but not enough to stave off the immediate crisis.

There are a variety of ways to get more money into the program, some more politically expedient than others. For instance, a law can be passed which extends the reallocation from DI to OASI for another couple of years. Another possibility is combining all three Social Security funds—the other one being health insurance (part of Medicare)—so that one can borrow off the other. This is known as inter-fund borrowing. Continued reallocation within just the two programs is not practical, since the DI bank would quickly dry up as well.

Basically, these are bookkeeping changes and Social Security experts on Capitol Hill and in the Carter administration were divided as to their effectiveness. Some felt inter-fund borrowing, combined with steady increases this decade in the payroll tax, can keep OASI solvent barring unforeseen economic downturns. Such a scheme estimated to give OASI $7 billion in added resources next year and $17 billion in 1983, would probably attract the least controversy because the changes merely involve rerouting of money.

Others, however, consider inter-fund borrowing to be merely a bandaging approach which will once again place the program in jeopardy within five to 10 years. This view suggests that more daring approaches are necessary. Among them:

Shift one-half of the scheduled health insurance payroll tax rate to the other two programs and finance the remaining half from the U.S. Treasury's general fund. This would free up $18.4 billion in 1982; $22 billion in 1983; and $24.5 billion in 1984. Proponents of this approach argue that health insurance coverage is not an automatic entitlement—as is OASI—and that it is more applicable under general funding. Opponents feel the transfer would only raise the nation's deficit. Furthermore, it is maintained that most workers perceive their benefits as a matter of right based on their payroll contributions, and a switchover to government financing might damage or weaken this notion.

Reduce the cost of living index, perhaps the most acrimonious proposal. Currently, the federal government can automatically increase Social Security benefits each June whenever the cost of living has risen three percent or more. Last year, there was a 14.3 percent increase; each percentage point gain represents an extra $1.3 billion charged to the Social Security system.

"I will tell you this," said Lipscomb, "there will be a flood of mail coming in here if he (Reagan) decides to reduce the (cost of living)..."

Senate committee votes to approve pay raise for state employees

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Senate committee has approved an immediate pay raise for state employees, with a 9-0 Democratic vote, but Republican opposition is expected when the bill is debated by the full Senate.

The proposal cleared the Senate Finance Committee on Wednesday. It would cost the state $110.3 million, twice as much as one supported by Republican Gov. Bill Clements. Sponsors said they hoped legislative action could be finished in time for the measure to take effect Feb. 1.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said because of "vigorous Republican opposition" there "are still obstacles to overcome" to put the pay raise into effect.

Asked about a possible veto by Clements, Doggett said he would "approach it with the assumption" the governor "will see the light" and sign the bill.

The governor's budget officer, Paul Wrottenbery, said Wednesday Clements "strongly discourages any increase above 3.4 percent."

Doggett's proposal would raise salaries by 6.8 percent.

State employees received a 5.1 percent pay raise on Sept. 1, and the Legislative Budget Board has recommended a 14.3 percent increase on Sept. 1, 1981.

The Texas Public Employees Association said the committee vote "climaxes a year-long campaign our association has led to lift state employee salaries toward a break-even point in the battle with inflation."

It said a pay increase "now seems to be a bandwagon idea."

Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, submitted a 1979 survey to the committee that showed many state salaries are higher than salaries for comparable jobs in the private sector but he declined to debate the issue.

Leedom, not a member of the Finance Committee, noted the 9-0 Democratic majority and quipped, "Custer never was one of my heroes."

Polish workers shut down hundreds of factories

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Police reinforcements today turned back columns of tractors driven by angry farmers demanding an independent union as workers shut down hundreds of factories in at least a dozen cities across Poland to press demands for a five-day work week.

The farmers tried to drive on the city of Bydgoszcz, 150 miles northwest of Warsaw, but heavy police contingents blocked all roads, sources said.

"There were no incidents," said a spokesman for Solidarity, the nation's largest independent labor union. "But police warned protesting farmers they would face punishment if they forced their way into the city."

The spokesman said the farmers, who have been pressing for their own independent union for the past three months, were planning to stage a protest rally in downtown Bydgoszcz later today.

New York police are arraigned in connection with Texan's death

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Four city police officers were arraigned today on assault and weapons possession charges stemming from the death of Raul Mora, a burglary suspect who collapsed during his Sept. 8, 1980, arrest by the four officers.

More than 120 Syracuse police officers crammed into the Onondaga County court of Judge Walter T. Gorman to show their support for the four officers: James Brown, 37; Daniel Corbett, 29; James Casamento, 24; and Richard Simone, 23.

All pleaded innocent to the charges and are due back in court for another hearing March 2.

The policemen had to turn in their weapons and were released on their own recognizance by Gorman.

Attorneys for the police officers contended the grand jury's action was the result of community pressure and extensive publicity surrounding the controversial case.

The grand jury began its investigation of the death of the 49-year-old Mora shortly after the late-night encounter with four police officers left the Mexican-American in a coma.

The four police officers involved in the incident were suspended without pay by Police Chief Thomas Sardino who said their claims that they did not use excessive force in making the arrest were contradicted by witnesses.

Free enterprise farming in Russia

Occasionally, we get a wire service report about the free enterprise food market in Soviet Russia.

The existence of the farmer's market more than 60 years after the glories of collective farming were supposed to eliminate it is always worth recounting.

GENERATION AFTER generation of Soviet marxist leaders have announced waves of "five-year programs" designed to make the private farming unnecessary, the markets grow annually.

The Soviets allow farm workers to develop up to 1/4 acres of land on their own and keep the sale of produce for profit.

THE PRIVATE PLOTS account for only 3 percent of the farmland in the Soviet Union but they produce an astonishing 30 percent of the food, according to the official estimates of the Kremlin government.

And talk about free enterprise, the Soviet private farmers have it in spades. Prices for food from the private plots are astronomical.

FRESH CUCUMBERS and tomatoes flown into Moscow from the warm South, bring up to $10.50 a pound in Moscow in winter. The first cherries and strawberries bring up to $7 a pound and new potatoes $4.65 a pound. For the average worker, who gets about $265 a month, they are out of reach.

Official Sovietdom doesn't know what to do about the private farms, and there is a great deal of lamentation from the controlled press, which alternately condemns workers for devoting time to the private land to the detriment of the state-owned collectives, to suggesting competition to bring the prices down.

THE REAL LESSON of the private farms is not lost on anyone; the farmers who grow and sell produce; the consumers who crowd in to buy their superior products; and the dictators who run the country.

Officials bound by their own Marxist dogma keep pretending.

Soon, they say, the collective farms will be perfected and catch up with the demand, running the private farms out of business.

THE REVERSE IS more likely. The private farms keep growing; not in size, but in productivity as incentive, free enterprise and capitalism works. A vicious determination to survive.

It is a marvelous refutation of everything the Russians proclaim, right in the heart of the workers' paradise.

Carter legacy

Joseph Kraft

History did an about-face in the middle of Jimmy Carter's term as president. The administration tried to adjust, but never quite succeeded.

For the change went against the grain of the president's personal instincts and political interests, and he also lacked the managerial apparatus to organize a comprehensive shift. So the Carter legacy is a ramshackle collection of shattered illusions, compromised ideals, half-measures and unresolved dilemmas.

"High goals and great ambitions," as the president put it in his last Budget Message, prevailed at the start. In foreign policy, the Carter administration tried to achieve a more perfect detente with Russia. From first to last, the arms control treaty known as SALT II was a central preoccupation.

AT THE SAME TIME there was a push toward harmony with the countries of the Third World. Hence the Panama Canal treaty, the recognition of Communist China and—by a circuitous route—the settlement between Egypt and Israel.

At home, Carter aimed to complete the welfare state. Despite the threat of inflation, he moved to stimulate the economy, especially for the jobless. He also advanced an energy policy based on fair sharing of reduced consumption.

Iran—or more specifically, the long drawn-out catastrophe which caused the shah to be replaced by the Ayatollah Khomeini—proved fatal to all these hopes. An oil pinch developed, and gas lines in this country. A new burst of inflation came next. There followed acute insecurity in the region around Iran, dramatized by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

A unified response to the cataclysm was never attempted by the Carter administration. Nor could it have been. The administration lacked a strategic center, a White House that managed policy across the board. So instead of a coherent reaction to the disaster in Iran, the administration gave ground bit by bit.

Inflation was promoted in the fall of 1978 to Public Enemy No. One. But administration efforts to cut back budgets and to set in motion machinery for wage and price restraints were largely foiled by constituent groups inside the Democratic Party. By default, the burden of fighting inflation fell to the Federal Reserve with its power to tighten money and credit. The predictable result was a sharp recession and continuing inflation.

ENERGY POLICY, by the spring of 1979, had been pushed way beyond the allocation of scarcity on a fair basis. Emphasis passed to the stimulus of higher output by the incentives of the marketplace—namely money. A measure for the staged decontrol of oil went through the Congress, producers battered, and the consumer interest suffered accordingly.

Foreign policy changed last—but most dramatically. After the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, the president threw in the towel on SALT. He committed the administration firmly to big increases in the military budget, and to a program (MX) for reducing the vulnerability of this country's land-based missiles to a Soviet strike. He asserted a vital interest in the Persian Gulf, and moved to acquire various basing rights in the area and to build a Rapid Deployment Force. He endorsed to the point of near irreversibility the development of modernized nuclear forces in Europe.

For political purposes, Carter varied the emphasis he placed on these sundry changes. To win the Democratic nomination from Edward Kennedy, he stressed his enthusiasm for standing up to the Russians, fighting inflation and providing incentives for energy production.

Diagnosis of brain-related tremor difficult

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Donohue: For the past several years I have been troubled with tremors of my right hand while writing, pouring, turning pancakes, etc. One neurologist thought it might be olivoponto-rubral cerebellar atrophy. It's only a possibility he says. Any general information you might give would be appreciated. As you can imagine, I'm somewhat confused. Why can't he be sure? H.A.R.

I'll try to simplify this complex subject for you.

In both the main part of the brain (cerebrum) and the smaller part (cerebellum) doctors have given names to various clusters of nerve cells within particular regions. It's like a map with counties outlined and villages dotting it.

The olives are villages of nerve clusters; the red (rubri) nuclei are much the same. These clusters have roads connecting them to other parts of the brain. The long term the doctor uses refers to the fact that either the nerve centers or their pathways are being disrupted (atrophy). Since these centers control movement, a tremor can result. Some cases are hereditary, others just happen with no known cause.

It is very difficult to establish the diagnosis you mention, hence your doctor's uncertain surmise. Most tremors are not due to the degeneration I speak of. A common tremor often runs in families and is simply an exaggeration of a normal state. Such "familial" tremors are more evident with physical or emotional stress.

Many drugs are available to control tremors—propranolol being one. Although it is difficult to diagnose the cause of a tremor, you are to be encouraged to cope with any stresses that accentuate yours and not to withdraw socially because of it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 54 years old. At age 51 I had the shingles. This was by far the most painful experience I ever had. The pain and blisters lasted almost a full six weeks. Since then, each year I have had a mild recurrence. I can stand the pain, because I know what it is. But I really don't know much about the conditions. How much longer will I get this?—T.W.

Shingles is a viral infection. The same virus causes it that causes chickenpox in a child. Once that virus enters the body it stays for life. It hides out in the nerves and pops up in later life as shingles. Once a person has had shingles he usually has immunity thereafter. Recurrent attacks of shingles do happen, but they are rare.

You should see your doctor to find out if some other illness is affecting your immunity and permitting these recurrent flare-ups of the shingles virus. For a discussion of shingles, see the booklet "The Facts About Shingles." For a copy, write me in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Regarding the letter from Miss C.K., which was printed in our paper, I would like to add a few suggestions to the very good advice you gave to her. She wanted to enter medicine.

It seems to me that a 15-year-old as bright and literate as she seems could look into emergency medicine. Maybe she could get started in medicine with Red Cross first aid, with a view to becoming a volunteer ambulance attendant. By the age of 17 she should be able to be a junior ambulance attendant, though she will probably have to be 18 to drive the vehicle (and that makes sense).

I am a volunteer ambulance attendant in a small town. I am an emergency medical technician (EMT) as are most of the members of our corps here. Kids as young as sixth graders can learn resuscitation very well, and some of our local eighth graders will make excellent EMTs in a few years.

She will get valuable experience

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been an agnostic most of my life, believing that I can never really know whether or not God exists or cares for us. Do you think it is possible for me to come to faith in God?—Mrs. V.R.

DEAR MRS. V.R.: I certainly do. I have seen many, many people like you who have put their faith in Christ and come to know that God loves them. I also know it is possible for you to come to genuine faith in Christ because I sense you are honestly searching for God. The Bible says, "You will seek me and find me when you seek me with all your heart" (Jeremiah 29:13).

How can you know that God not only exists but that he loves you and cares for you? You can know it because God cares for us so much that he has revealed himself to us. How has he done this? He has done it by becoming a human being in the person of his Son. I know it may seem like a staggering thought to you, but God has actually invaded this planet! If you want to know what God is like, look at Jesus Christ. He was God in human flesh, sent to reveal God and his love to us. One of the titles or names of Jesus was "Immanuel"—which means, "God with us" (Matthew 1:23). The Bible says, "No one has ever seen God, but God's only Son, who is at the Father's side, has made him known" (John 1:18).

That is why I invite you to open the Bible and—in faith—ask God to reveal his truth to you. Take the Gospel of John as a starting point, since it was written to help people like you "believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name" (John 20:31). As you read it, ask yourself honestly, "Who is Jesus Christ? What does he tell me about myself, and about himself? And what does he ask me to do?"

Jesus had one disciple who was in some ways similar to you. After Jesus' resurrection—which is the final proof that Jesus is who he said he was—this disciple refused to believe. But then he met Christ face to face, and exclaimed, "My Lord and my God!" (John 20:28). That will be your response also as you yield yourself to Christ in trust.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Donohue for his booklet "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Getting with it

Carol Hart

Around the rim

Not very long ago, I set forth on making a new image for myself. No more taking elevators when I could use the stairs, no more riding in the car to the corner when I could walk.

In short, I decided to try and become acquainted with fitness again. I don't know when I started becoming lazy, but one day it hit me in the face. I was in lousy shape, and the time to change was now.

WHAT REALLY MADE me realize how lazy I had become was a flight of stairs I was trying to get out of climbing. Also, I realized that I was always making up excuses to get out of exercising.

If someone wanted to play tennis, I advised it was too cold, too hot, too windy. If they wanted to walk around the block, I warned we might get mugged. Any excuse would do.

But that was before my self-improvement program began. Unfortunately, I'm getting off to a slow start. I always remember to use the stairs after I'm in the elevator, and I remember to walk to the corner after I've driven the car already. But things are looking up.

If you've found that you have also become a lazy person, there is hope. You'll probably have stiff muscles and feel tired when you first change toward being more fit, but I think it's worth it.

In addition to taking the stairs and walking whenever possible, I joined an exercise class offered at First Baptist Church. Debbie Martin leads the class. She's one of those people I've always admired. Ms. Martin leads several classes during the day, and she seems full of energy.

I'm just the opposite. After the first 10 minutes of exercises during the first class, I was ready to call it a day and begin again next week. But during class we exercise for an hour. I was shocked. When you've been as lazy as I was for so long a time, an hour seems like an impossible request. But I, and the other people in my class, got through lessons number one, two and three, and didn't collapse. I felt like Bruce Jenner must have felt when he won his gold medal.

Then, since I was going to exercise anyway, I joined the YMCA, where I could play racquetball. That's a sport I really enjoy, but it really tires my poor old bones out. Plans to play five times a week have dwindled, but I still make it to the Y whenever some of my friends are ready to play.

I HAVE MADE feeble attempts at jogging, but I don't think that's in my blood. The most jogging I do is to the soft drink machine, which is a habit I'm trying to cut out of my life.

I have to admit that 3,000 soft drinks a week is too much. That's an exaggeration, but not much of one. It's a good thing I never took up smoking, because bad habits are hard for me to part with.

Next, after I've gotten used to hour-long exercise classes and games of racquetball, I plan to start swimming again, and playing tennis, and yes, maybe even jogging past the soft drink machine.

Really, exercise isn't so bad. Take it from one who learned the hard way. It's better to keep on staying in shape than trying to regain all that strength you used to have. If you haven't been out walking or running or playing tennis or something in the sports field, try it. Exercise can really be something to look forward to, instead of something to dread.

Chase tax cheats

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's stated goal of meeting increased federal expenditures without raising taxes could be reached with a simple step that was strangely overlooked by the Carter administration: Give Uncle Sam's biggest moneymaker, the Internal Revenue Service, the funds it needs to collect billions of dollars of income taxes that are evaded each year.

It's a method that should appeal ideologically to a business-oriented Republican administration, because the key to its success is an astonishingly high return on the money invested. Every dollar put into IRS enforcement operations would produce about $5 in taxes legally owed to the government—but which now go unpaid.

YET FOR FOUR years, Jimmy Carter's Office of Management and Budget systematically rejected the tax agency's requests for additional funds to catch the tax cheats. Incredibly, one reason given in an internal 1977 policy statement on the subject was that the tax collectors might use any increased funds to go after high-income tax dodgers.

Here's the revealing paragraph from that document: "OMB expressed concern that IRS was proposing substantial audit coverage increases to high-income taxpayers, even though voluntary compliance in these classes was high. While compliance is indeed high amounts owed but not correctly assessed are very substantial in actual dollar terms. Further, IRS should conduct vigorous audit programs in high-income areas in the interest of fairness. The opportunities for high-income taxpayers to understate their liability are much greater than for the average person."

Whether a desire to protect the nation's fatcats was the decisive consideration, the fact is undeniable that the agency's appeals for additional personnel were determinedly ignored. About the only reason ever evinced by Budget Director Jim McIntyre came in a recent letter to Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., chairman of a monetary affairs subcommittee. The administration has a "desire to constrain the size of the federal presence," McIntyre wrote.

LAUDABLE AS THIS goal is when applied to agencies that spend money, the approach is ludicrous when it hampers the government's outstanding moneymaking agency.

Internal IRS and Treasury documents make clear the staggering dimensions of McIntyre's penny-wise, pound-foolish attitude.

June 8, 1977: "(Special studies) reveal that there were over $72 billion in potential individual income tax (uncollected) for a 10-year cumulative period ending in FY 1976. This cumulative tax gap is projected to reach $127 billion by 1981."

Nov. 21, 1977: "Studies show a projected underreporting of $80.3 billion in recommended individual income tax for the FY 1977-83 period." Nov. 22, 1978: "The workload is growing faster than our ability to deal with it under recent budget allowances"

Sept. 28, 1979: "The backlog in cases in the delinquent returns and accounts receivable areas has increased significantly . . . due to insufficient resources"

In one rejected IRS proposal, the agency asked for 6,500 additional employees in each of the next five years, at a cost of $1.7 billion. The return on this investment was estimated at $6 billion to $7 billion.

To answer those who purport to fear a "taxpayer backlash" if IRS is unleashed on the chiselers, an agency study noted that no such reaction had occurred when audit coverage had been increased in the past. Indeed, the study added, a backlash could much more reasonably be expected "that for the perception, founded in fact, that for lack of adequate enforcement many are not paying their fair share of the tax burden."

IRS insiders told my associate Dale Van Atta that, in fact, one of the agency's biggest concerns is that the more the gap grows between what is collected and what should be, the greater temptation there will be among taxpayers to take a chance at underpaying—or even not paying at all.

KEEPING THE LOOT: Bernard C. Welch, the accused killer of Washington cardiologist Michael Halberstam, lived in a $235,000 house in Virginia, lived in a $102,000 summer home in Minnesota and was in possession of $4 million worth of stolen property—yet he has been declared indigent, and will be defended at taxpayers' expense.

Shocking as this situation is, experts say it's not unusual for crooks to keep their ill-gotten gains, even when convicted. For instance, gangsters and drug smugglers have invested heavily in banks and the government can't lay a finger on their assets. And when the Justice Department announced its intention to file civil suits to regain the thousands of dollars in bribes it paid to politicians convicted in the Abscam operation, defense lawyers howled in outrage.

It may be no coincidence that much of a criminal defendant's loot goes to his lawyers—while the victims get stiffed.

WATCH ON WASTE: When the FBI vacated its training center in the Justice Department basement and moved across Pennsylvania Avenue into its own building, the bureaucrats decided to put the empty space to use for their own diversion. It's now a gymnasium where desk jockeys can go to keep their paper-shuffling muscles toned up. Other nearby agencies are allowed to use the gym, but to the Justice Department's dismay, one neighbor—the Internal Revenue Service—refuses to kick in a penny to help defray expenses. With truly Homeric hypocrisy, the IRS explains that this would be an illegal use of government funds.

Inventory of world wonders aims to halt destruction

By JOY ASCHENBACH
NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON — The Taj Mahal is turning brown in spots. The Parthenon is crumbling. Milan's cathedral is sinking. Buddha's birthplace is about to be buried under water. Fungus is eating away at Leonardo da Vinci's fresco of the "Last Supper." And except for the pyramids, all the wonders of the ancient world have already vanished. Why doesn't somebody do something? Through UNESCO, the United Nations is trying. Its World Heritage Committee is compiling the first official global inventory of world wonders worth saving. And from this roster, it plans to separately list and aid the endangered ones. "If we consider this just a nice list of places like the ancient Greeks did, eventually everything will be destroyed," commented David F. Hales, a deputy assistant secretary of the Interior and the U.S. representative to the UNESCO committee. "The key is to provide the awareness and then the tools for protection." Besides the earthquakes, fires, and wars that demolished most of their ancient counterparts, today's world wonders also are threatened by everything from old age to acid rain, including population explosions, industrialization, superhighways, smog, and tourism. Some have suffered more damage in the last 50 years than they have in the previous centuries. An estimated 95 percent are under some degree of stress. Young and not so famous, the World Heritage Committee has taken on the colossal mission of acting as a kind of "peacetime International Red Cross for world wonders"—based on the belief that places of world significance should be a world responsibility. To be rescued by UNESCO, sites must first get on its World Heritage List, which appropriately includes the only survivor of the original list of "Seven Wonders of the World," the pyramids of Egypt. There is no set limit on the number today. To qualify, a site must be judged of "outstanding universal value," either "natural," like Mount Everest and the Grand Canyon, or "cultural" like Versailles and the Roman Colosseum. And it must be irremovable—permanently located in a country that is a member of UNESCO and has signed its 1972 "Convention Concerning the Protection of the World Cultural and Natural Heritage." Preservation is partly financed by those nations. So far, about one-third of UNESCO's 151 member nations have signed. And 85 sites, most of them cultural, are on the list.

Their range is diverse: Auschwitz. Independence Hall. Dinosaur Park. Canada. Wieliczka Salt Mines. Poland. Kathmandu Valley. Nepal. Ecuador's old city of Quito and Galapagos Islands. Senegal's old slave trade island of Goree. Tanzania's Ngorongoro Conservation Area. France's Chartres Cathedral. Ethiopia's Lalibela churches carved in rock. Representing 21 participating nations, the World Heritage Committee meets once a year to put new places on the list. Sites are nominated by their home countries. So far, seven U.S. sites have been included: Yellowstone, Everglades, Redwood, and Mesa Verde national parks, and Wrangell-St. Elias National Monument in Alaska, as well as the Grand Canyon and Independence Hall. "Putting Independence Hall on turned out to be more controversial than Auschwitz," Hales recalled. But were debated at the committee's 1979 meeting in Cairo. "Because Independence Hall deals with political ideals, there was concern that listing it would mean endorsing the U.S. Constitution. It was finally agreed that recognizing that a place had a universal impact doesn't amount to automatically endorsing what happened there. "In the same sense, Auschwitz was put on as a reminder of events that had a major effect on the world. We don't just have to commemorate the best. But this also doesn't mean we will have to list all concentration camps. The point is made with Auschwitz."

For as many famous places on the list, there are almost as many missing. The Great Wall of China, Windsor Castle, cliffs of Dover, Hermitage, Acropolis, Alhambra, and Taj Mahal — to name a few. Most are not there because their countries have not yet signed the World Heritage agreement. The effort cannot be totally effective, Hales concedes, until at least the Soviet Union and China join. Another concern is the imbalance between the "cultural" and "natural" sites on the list. About 75 percent are classed as cultural. "I think that's wrong," commented Russell E. Train, who is credited with conceiving the idea of a world heritage trust. "The natural side is not receiving sufficient emphasis when it is under such great pressure around the world," said Train, now president of the World Wildlife Fund-U.S. "In some ways it is more fragile than the cultural. We can keep on creating new cultural wonders, but that's not true of natural areas."

Elsewhere political difficulties have kept some of the list—at least temporarily. At its 1980 meeting in Paris, the committee, for example, deferred action on Jordan's nomination of the Old City of Jerusalem and its walls. Parts of the city are disputed territory, and Israel has not signed the agreement. "The committee is not yet mature enough to take on potential politicization nor should it be the forum for determining which country has sovereignty," Hales said. The committee also can—and has—turned down nominations, usually because a site is not considered of universal significance, is not authentic, or is already too badly deteriorated to be salvaged. Once on the list, a site that becomes endangered is eligible for technical and financial assistance from the World Heritage Fund. However, primary responsibility for its care and preservation belongs to its mother country. If a site is allowed to deteriorate badly, it can be removed from the list. The World Heritage program is an outgrowth of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization's international campaign to save Egypt's Nubian monuments in the early 1970s. So far, the World Heritage Committee's most significant rescue operation involved saving a 12th-century Buddhist shrine that was in danger of sliding down a hill in Nepal. The Swayambhu temple and adjoining buildings are perched on a hilltop above a plain in the Kathmandu Valley. "Through the years, overbuilding of the hill and improper drainage systems had caused earth slippage and landslide conditions," according to W. Brown Morton III, who is advising the Nepalese government on World Heritage matters.

WHAT DO GIANT TORTOISES on islands off the coast of Ecuador have in common with a Buddhist shrine in Nepal, the ancient Persian capital of Persepolis, and the remains of a coliseum built by conquering Romans in Tunisia? They're all considered wonders of the world worth saving—part of the first official global inventory of natural and cultural marvels being compiled by UNESCO.

Deadline nearing for arts contest

What a Family Means to Me... PTA's national cultural arts contest for 1980 is underway, and the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association reminds parents that deadline for entries is Jan. 26.

Students at College Heights, Kentwood, Marcy, Moss and Washington, the elementaries with PTA units, are eligible to enter.

Students may enter in any of three creative categories: visual arts (paintings and drawings), literature (poetry, prose or drama), or music (original compositions with or without words). Entries may be done at home or at school.

Judging will be based on evidence of creative ability and use of the theme, "What a Family Means to Me."

Entries may be mounted if desired, but no entry may be larger than 11" x 14". Musical entries must be written on standard non-spiral music manuscript, and cassette tape recordings of the entry are strongly advised.

All entries must be turned in at the student's elementary by the morning of Jan. 26. Entries from all five schools will be judged together, after which Big Spring winners will be forwarded to district PTA competition.

District winners of the PTA cultural arts competition last year included two Big Spring students, Brad Roberts and Laura Cunningham of Kentwood. Brad and Laura were city-wide winners, too, along with Jody Strong, Cody Sheppard and Sherman Powers of College Heights.

Dear Abby

Mum's the Word if You Don't Want to Answer

DEAR ABBY: Re your column on how to answer a rude question: Some dozen years ago, when I decided not to attend a social tea, six of my chums dropped by the house to ask why — a merry chiding, you might say.

A nosy neighbor, seeing the cars, came over to see who was there. ("I thought you might be having a party.") Noticing a pot of mums that obviously came from a florist, she asked, "Who sent the flowers?"

"Pretending I hadn't heard, I turned to the lady beside me on the sofa and made some random remark. In a few moments, Curious Kitty asked again, "Who sent the flowers?" I studied the flowers, smiled and said, "Lovely, aren't they?"

As the unplanned gathering was breaking up, this same lady said, "I asked you three times who sent the flowers..." I interrupted with, "And I never once answered, did I?"

Within the next few days, I had four calls from those who had taken in this tacky little cross-examination, each saying the same thing: "You taught me something. If you're asked a question you don't want to answer — don't!"

ARDMORE, OKLA.

DEAR ARDMORE: Right. Most people have about as much privacy as they demand.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are very happily married. My problem is not that serious, but I'd appreciate hearing your opinion.

My husband's family have photo albums containing pictures of him and his ex-wife. I feel very uncomfortable when these pictures are shown. We have two small children, and I really don't like them seeing wedding pictures of their daddy and somebody else. During the holidays the albums were out for show, and we had to explain how Daddy was married to another lady first, etc. They weren't married yet, had no children, and nobody in the family is in touch with her, so what's the point of keeping her pictures in the album?

It seems that out of consideration for me, they should have either removed those pictures when we were married, or kept the albums out of sight.

Does this make sense? Or do I sound petty and jealous?

SICK OF SEEING THE EX

DEAR SICK: It makes sense. But perhaps the members of his family are more thoughtful than malicious. Let them know how you feel.

DEAR ABBY: Here is how a friend of mine handled the problem FED UP IN FLORIDA complained about.

When friends or relatives call to say they just got off the train or plane, my friend replied with great warmth and enthusiasm, "How nice to know you're in town. Don't say another word, just check your bags and come on over for dinner — or we'll pick you up. Then after you're relaxed, we will help you find a comfortable place to stay."

ZELDA

DEAR ZELDA: Lovely. But what happens if they say, "But we were planning on staying with you?"

DEAR ABBY: Please set the record straight. Harry Drucker doesn't cut Ron Reagan's hair. Sam Stilo, a barber who works for him, does. Please give credit where it is due. Thank you.

Mr., Mrs. Clanton observe anniversary

James C. Clanton met Mary Elizabeth Blythe at a lawn party ice cream supper during the summer of 1911. They were introduced and their relationship blossomed from there.

Clanton married Miss Blythe Jan. 7, 1912 in Griffithville, Ark. The Rev. John Johnson, a Baptist minister, performed the rite. On Jan. 7, 1981, the couple observed their 69th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Clanton, now residents of Kerrville, Tex., are former residents of Howard County, coming to the area in 1925 to purchase land.

Clanton was a stock farmer, active in school and community affairs. He served as chairman of the board of trustees for the Gay Hill School District.

Mrs. Clanton was a member of the Howard County Home Demonstration Club while living in the area.

In 1946, the Clantons moved to Kerrville where they owned and operated Kerrville Courts. They purchased a ranch 60 miles southwest of Kerrville in Bandera and Real counties in 1949.

After selling the ranch, the couple moved back to the Spring, purchasing a plot of land which was later annexed to the city and named Clanton sub-division of Kenniebeck Heights. The area includes Clanton Street, named for them.

Once again the couple elected to return to the hill country, purchasing a ranch 10 miles south of Kerrville. They have since retired there.

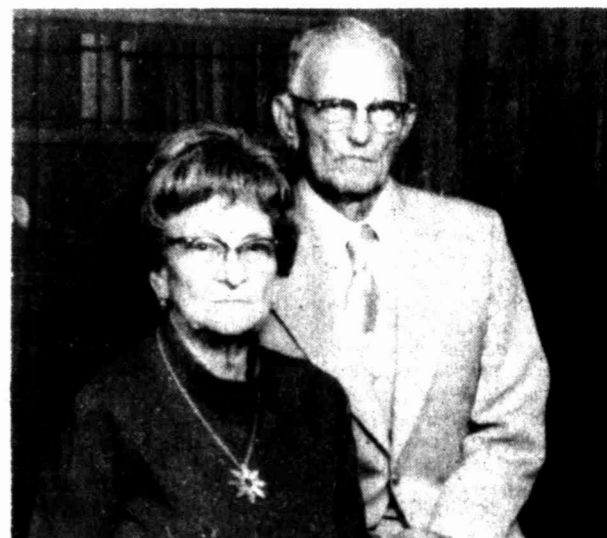

Children born to the Clantons include Mrs. LaVerne Rogers, Mrs. Nathan (Geraldine) Stallcup, Mrs. John J. (Louci!) Roemer, J. Clifton Clanton and Auldon E. Clanton, all of Big Spring; J. W. (Jay) Clanton, Kerrville; and Mrs. Autie (Opal) Williams, deceased.

The couple are the grandparents of 16 children and the great-grandparents of 25. They also have six great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Clanton, members of the Apostolic Faith Church, says their 69 years together have been full of pleasure and enjoyment.

"It hasn't all been roses," commented Mrs. Clanton, "there have been a few thistles, but they were easy to weed out."

Appeals court throws out murder conviction

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today threw out a murder conviction of a Beaumont man found guilty of killing a longtime friend whose body was found four years after he disappeared.

Rutus Nathan, 52 when tried, was sentenced to 60 years in prison in the death of Nathan "Blue" Broussard, a Beaumont city employee reported missing on Oct. 6, 1972. A skeleton found Feb. 3, 1977, on McFaddin Beach in Jefferson County was identified as Broussard's.

No murder weapon was found and there was no testimony from eyewitnesses or accomplices.

Nathan's appeal complained the circumstantial evidence was insufficient for a conviction. The appeals court agreed and reversed the conviction. The court also ordered no further prosecution against Nathan.

The skeleton was clad in a green work shirt and pants similar to the type worn by Broussard at work. A key found near the remains fit the back door of Broussard's house. The only thing missing was Broussard's billfold, in which he usually carried $200 to $300 in cash.

Harris County Medical Examiner Joseph Jachimczyk testified the cause of death was a gunshot wound "through and through" the chest.

Nathan never made a statement to police about the case. One witness, however, testified Nathan told her in 1973, "I got rid of one person and I can get rid of another one."

Vera Jones, who "dated" Nathan for a month, testified, "He said to my face that he can get rid of a person, get rid of someone and no one would find out." However, Ms. Jones' brother Orevall Valrie testified his sister had a reputation for not always telling the truth.

Nathan said he and Broussard were close friends and had known each other for 20 years. He said he did not know how Broussard had died.

Judge John Onion's opinion listed 13 points of circumstantial evidence that made it look like Nathan was guilty.

"There can be no question that there are damaging and suspicious circumstances against (Nathan)," Onion said. "He was the last person seen with the deceased, he had slightly more money in the few days after the deceased's disappearance.... he apparently lied to the officers...." Onion said.

However, the circumstantial evidence "does not include to a moral certainty every other reasonable except appellant's guilty as required by the law of circumstantial evidence," Onion said.

How do you spot child with hearing troubles?

Kay Phillips, speech therapist working with children with hearing disabilities in this area, asked help in locating children with impaired hearing. Only five are being helped locally, but the national average should be about 20-25.

But how do you spot a child with hearing troubles? Mrs. Phillips had some suggestions when she addressed the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday at Howard College.

Is your youngster having trouble learning to talk? Does he understand when he's watching you but not when he's looking away? Does he appear to have spotty understanding? These might be symptoms that something is wrong and that a speech therapist should be consulted for free tests.

The program includes homebound technical help for children to age 3, when they go to classrooms. There also are programs in elementary schools with emphasis on vocabulary and sentence structure, for this is necessary for full understanding for people who are deaf or hard of hearing.

She urged Lions to help find children with hearing trouble. She also thanked the club for equipment provided to help in the deaf program, also for sending youngsters with hearing impairment to the annual Texas Lions Camp at Kerrville.

Glasscock County 4-Hers snare blue ribbons at show

GARDEN CITY — Glasscock County 4-Hers went to Midland Saturday to participate in the District 6 4-H Food Show. An estimated 130 4-Hers from Big Spring to El Paso gathered for the competition. Very few counties could brag on the fact that all of their 4-Hers brought home all blue ribbons. The 4-Hers are judged on their nutritional knowledge, their ability to prepare a food and the activities they participate in through their 4-H project.

Blue ribbon winners from Glasscock County were Candy Overton in senior side dish, Deanna Wilde in junior side dish, Andrea Frerich in senior main dish, LeAnn Seidenberger, junior main dish, Gina Wilde, senior snacks and beverages, Dana Hoelscher, junior snacks and beverages, Mary Kay Halfmann, senior breads and dessert, and Stephanie Frerich, junior breads and dessert.

Candy Overton and Andrew Frerich received additional honors. They were both named First Alternate to State competition. This means they placed second in their division. Sometimes they were only fractions of a point behind first place.

This event concludes the 4-H Foods and Nutrition project for Glasscock County. Thursday, Jan. 22, leaders from Glasscock County will meet to make plans for the next project, a Family Life Project. The meeting will begin at 4 p.m. at the Courthouse. Anyone wanting to work with the 4-H program is welcome to attend.

Grand jury will decide if Daniel killing was murder or self-defense

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — The killing of Price Daniel Jr. slowed the wheels of state government, shocked the townsfolk in this quiet Southeast Texas city and drew attention to the private lives of one of Texas' most prominent political families. Authorities say it was the wife of the former Texas House speaker who fired the fatal shot, but a grand jury likely will have to decide next Wednesday if the shooting was murder or self-defense.

"Unless the investigation clearly indicates it is a homicide, the evidence will be held until a grand jury session begins Jan. 28," District Attorney Carroll E. Wilborn Jr. said Wednesday. "The investigation will now focus on circumstances to determine if the killing was a murder, justified or self-defense," said Wilborn.

Vickie Daniel, who filed for divorce on Dec. 31, left the hospital where she has been treated for shock and hysteria long enough to attend the funeral for her husband, who was buried in a private cemetery on the family ranch.

Wilborn said Wednesday that Mrs. Daniel, 33, can remain free after she is discharged from the hospital where she was taken shortly after the Monday night shooting.

Authorities still are trying to piece together events that left Daniels lying dead, face down in a narrow hallway at the couple's spacious home.

Daniel died of a gunshot wound in the abdomen, according to an autopsy performed by Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph A. Jachimczyk.

"Mrs. Daniel's attorney said she fired one warning shot, before the fatal shot that killed her husband," said Liberty County Sheriff C.L. Eckols.

He said Daniel apparently was moving toward his wife when the fatal shot was fired, but there was no weapon on or near Daniel's body when officers arrived. Broken glasses littered the floor near the hallway door, a rifle was found in a nearby room, two shell casings were discovered on the floor, but authorities so far have not found the bullet from that first shot.

Eckols said he tried to talk to Mrs. Daniel about the missing bullet Wednesday morning, but she refused on advice of her attorney.

"I told her I didn't want a statement, I just wanted to know where the bullet was," said Eckols.

Wilborn said he would like to get Mrs. Daniel's doctor to give her a physical to determine if she has "any marks, bruises, or abrasions." He said if the doctor declines to conduct the examination he probably would go to court to get an order.

Mrs. Daniel was among 700 relatives and friends, including many past and present state officials, that attended the brief service at the First Methodist Church here.

Assignments to committees cheer area representatives

Marta Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — House Speaker Billy Clayton released his much-anticipated committee assignments Wednesday and proved once again, as he had three times before, that you can't please everyone.

But West Texas legislators, most of whom supported Clayton rather than Dallas Rep. John Bryant in last week's speaker election, were among the satisfied members.

Rep. Gary Thompson of Abilene was granted his "number one choice" — a seat on the expanded Regions, Compacts and Districts Committee, which will handle the once-a-decade task of drawing political boundaries in line with census results.

"It goes without saying that it is one of the plum committees of the entire House," Thompson said. "It is very coveted."

Thompson, a second-term member, also was named to the Government Organization Committee, which deals with the Sunset process of periodically reviewing state agencies for their effectiveness, and to the Rules Committee, which oversees the way the House conducts its business.

He did not get reappointed to the Higher Education Committee, to which he brought his expertise as a professor at Abilene Christian University.

"It was a bit of a surprise," Thompson said, "but it was just a matter of the Speaker needing me — for one reason or another — on Government Organization."

Rep. Walter Grubbs of Abilene, whose rural district includes parts of Fisher, Jones, Mitchell, Nolan and Taylor counties, was made vice chairman of the Health Services Committee.

He had been chairman of that committee since last October, replacing defeated Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder.

Grubbs said the move to vice chairman was not a demotion. "The speaker does not appoint sophomores as chairmen," Grubbs said.

He also will take seats on the Appropriations Committee, which deals with the state budget, and on the Administration Committee, which oversees in-house matters such as members' office assignments and finances.

Grubbs said he was not disappointed that Clayton had not assigned him, as requested, to the Energy Resources Committee.

"I talked to the speaker and he said he wanted me on appropriations," Grubbs said. "I guess he liked my philosophy."

Among those unhappy with their assignments were former Bryant supporters. But many said they expected no favors from the speaker, and were not surprised at being named to two committees rather than three, and to committees other than those they had requested.

Freshman Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring, who did not vote for Clayton's reelection, professed surprising satisfaction with his two assignments — to the Environmental Affairs and Elections Committees.

The first deals primarily with matters of air and water pollution, and with state parks and recreation; the second with the state's election code and contests of House-seat election results.

In a release accompanying the assignments for the 149 House members (Clayton is the 150th), the speaker said chairmen were chosen for their expertise, and committee members were assigned according to seniority and their stated preferences.

But one particularly disgruntled group that didn't buy that was the 21-member Mexican-American caucus.

One member, Rep. Arnold Gonzales of Corpus Christi, decried Clayton's repeated failure to appoint a Mexican-American as one of the 31 committee chairmen. He pointed out that three of the 13 blacks in the House and seven of 34 Republicans were made chairmen.

Jail inmate found hanged

VERNON, Texas (AP) — A Wilbarger County peace justice has ordered an autopsy after an 18-year-old Vernon man was found dead in his jail cell early Wednesday.

Joe Luis Valverde, 18, was pronounced dead about 7 a.m. Wednesday by Peace Justice Ruth Gobin, who ruled that his death apparently was caused by strangulation.

Valverde, of Vernon, was found hanging from the cell bars by his pants. Wilbarger County Sheriff Gerald King said the inmate was last seen alive about 5 a.m. Wednesday when jailer Bobby Morris was making routine rounds.

He said the prisoner was in a cell by himself.

King said Valverde was jailed Monday on a charge of burglary of a habitation. A spokesman for the district attorney's office said the victim was convicted last November of a similar offense.

An autopsy has been ordered, King said.

EAGLES STAFF

LETTING ONE GO — Philadelphia Eagles head coach Dick Vermeil lets loose with a pass during a team practice session Wednesday in New Orleans. Vermeil was getting in some throws as the team went through wind sprints while preparing for Sunday's Super Bowl game with the Oakland Raiders.

HC teams test records tonight in Clarendon

CLARENDON — While most of the talk in the small Panhandle town of Clarendon concerns whether hometown grider Kenny King can lead the Oakland Raiders to a Super Bowl triumph, the high flying junior college basketball teams from Howard College come to visit Clarendon JC in a Western Conference game tonight.

Both of the Howard College men's and women's teams are in the midst of highly successful seasons thus far, and it would appear that they shouldn't have any trouble picking up two more wins.

In the six o'clock opener tonight, the Howard College Hawk Queens girls team of Coach Don Stevens brings their 2.1 WJC mark and season record of 17-2 against Clarendon.

The Clarendon women should provide a formidable foe for the HC fems, as they are 2-2 in conference play and 7-7 on the year.

Both girls teams are paced by inside performers. Howard has the second leading scorer and fourth leading rebounder in the WJC in Kelly Lyons, while Clarendon counters with Cassandra Crump. Crump is fifth in the WJC in scoring and third in rebounding. She is also among the league leaders in field goal percentage.

Howard is fresh from a win over league leading Odessa College, while Clarendon suffered an 83-70 loss to Western Texas in their last conference encounter.

In the boys game, the host Clarendon team will be a big underdog against the WJC leading Howard College Hawks of Coach Harold Wilder.

The Hawks, who come into the game with a conference mark of 7-0 and a season record of 16-4, have beaten a pair of undefeated juco powers in Midland and Frank Phillips in the last week.

But Clarendon will probably be tougher than their 2-4 conference record and season record of 8-8 would indicate. In their last three games against Western Texas, South Plains, and NMMI, all have been decisions of three points or less, with two of them going into overtime.

Clarendon managed to win one of the three games. Howard features the WJC's leading scorer in Randy Corker, who averages 26 points per game, while Clarendon's main strength is their ball control offense and defense.

Clarendon is ranked ninth out of ten teams in WJC scoring, but is also the second ranked defensive crew. Howard is ranked fifth offensively and only sixth defensively, but still undefeated in league play.

Great Britain golfing aces begin US tour in Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Great Britain's two brightest young stars, Sandy Lyle and Nick Faldo, are taking advantage of a change in the PGA Tour rules and this week begin a lengthy swing around the American golf circuit.

"There are several things involved, actually," said Faldo, "before being off today in the first round of the $300,000 Phoenix Open."

"There's the change in the American rules that gives us the opportunity to play a longer schedule.

"Then, too, our (European) Tour doesn't start until May."

"And there's the fact that we'd just like to find out how we fare against the American competition."

Both have gaudy credentials. Faldo, 23, and Lyle, 22, both are members of the British Ryder Cup team. Last year Lyle led the British Order of Merit, somewhat comparable to the American money-winning list. In 1980, Faldo won his second British PGA championship.

Both are larger, stronger, longer hitters than most European players. Both have played in the United States before.

Both plan to play the American tour until about the first of May, taking advantage of a recent rules change which raised from three to 10 the number of U.S. PGA Tour events non-Tour members may play. As Ryder Cup members, they are allowed three exemptions from qualifying rounds. Each exercised one of those exemptions to gain a spot in the 144-man field chasing a $54,000 first prize in this week's 72-hole event being played on the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course.

Although Tom Watson has not yet started his season and Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus are taking an early-season break, the Britons face an extremely strong field of American tourists.

Chief among them are Bruce Lietzke and Johnny Miller, winners of the first two tournaments of the season, and Jerry Pate, a former winner here and a runner-up last week.

Other standouts include former U.S. Open champions Hale Irwin and Hubert Green, Lanny Wadkins, Andy Bean, Ray Floyd, Ben Crenshaw, Bill Rogers, Curtis Strange, Tom Weiskopf, Australian David Graham, defending champion Jeff Mitchell and Arnold Palmer, who made a last-minute entry.

CBS will provide national television coverage of portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Archie: 'If I ever decided to be a coach, I ought to be ready'

Manning, Saints ready to adapt again as Bum Phillips hiring set today

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Archie Manning was good-naturedly philosophical about the reenactment of a scene he's been through so many times during his 10 seasons in the National Football League, the naming of a new head coach for the New Orleans Saints.

"Well, I guess I'll have to break in another coach," he said.

The Saints were preparing to name their sixth head coach today, almost certainly Bum Phillips, formerly of the Houston Oilers.

"It's seven for me, counting the interim coaches," Manning said. "I count them all."

Manning joined the Saints out of the University of Mississippi in 1971, the first season of J.D. Roberts, who succeeded Tom Fears and became the Saints' second coach.

Today's announcement followed by two days the resignation of General Manager Steve Rosenberg and vice president for personnel Dick Steinberg.

Harold Guiver, brought from Los Angeles by Rosenberg to handle contract negotiations, said he had already been told he was finished with the Saints and expected owner John Mecom Jr. to fire him today.

"I was talking to (former Los Angeles Rams All-Pro) Merlin Olsen, and he said, 'They're really shaking things up.' I told him, 'It's just another average day with the Saints,'" Manning said.

"I've learned to roll with it over the years."

Is it frustrating, having to adapt to a new system every other year?

"Sometimes, when I reflect on it," he said.

"I just talked to Roger Staubach. He said he doesn't know how I did it."

"He played 11 years in the same system at Dallas. He said that when he went to the Pro Bowl, it was hard to adapt to just the little bit there.

"But come to think about it, I've learned a lot of different systems and a lot of different philosophies. If I ever decided to be a coach, I ought to be ready."

"But getting to know coaches and what they go through, I'm not sure I'd ever want to be a coach."

He said he knows and likes Phillips, though he's never played for him.

Defensive tackle Derland Moore, an eight-year veteran, was more effusive in his praise of Phillips.

"If he wanted me to play javelin catcher, I'd do it," he said.

Rosenberg's commitment to building through the draft smelled like a youth movement to Moore, and he was afraid he wouldn't get a fair chance to win a job with the Saints next season.

"We need an overhaul, but we don't need a new car," he said. "The thing that worried me was the idea that they wanted to start all over again."

"I don't want to be part of an expansion franchise."

Special teams captain Rich Mauti, a wide receiver with the soul of a linebacker, said: "I'm real excited. I just hope they get everything settled so we can get going."

"We're behind schedule already."

As Astros keep spending $$$ Joe Niekro inks lucrative pact

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher Joe Niekro, a 20-game winner the past two seasons, had one disappointment Wednesday when he signed the biggest contract of his 13-year career.

"I only wish my Dad could be here now," said Niekro, who signed a four-year extension on his existing contract. "He taught me and Phil (his brother) how to throw the knuckleball and without that, I wouldn't be here today."

Niekro, 36, befuddled National League hitters once again last season, compiling a 20-12 record in leading the Astros to their first NL Western Division championship.

Terms of Niekro's contract were not announced but Astros owner John McMillen said the new contract "puts him in the same neighborhood with Don Sutton." Sutton recently signed an Astros contract at an estimated $950,000 annually.

Niekro had one year remaining on a three year contract but has now a guaranteed contract for the next four years with an option for a fifth year.

The 36-year-old knuckleball specialist got his 20th victory last season in a one-game playoff with the Los Angeles Dodgers for the divisional title after the two teams ended the regular season tied for the title.

"There are a lot of things I'll always remember about Joe but that game against LA will stick out the most," McMillen said. "Joe knew he was going to win. If we had lost that game we would have come back home and made history the wrong way."

Niekro worked 10 scoreless innings in the third game of the National League playoff series against Philadelphia and although he did not get credit for the victory, the Astros won the game 1-0 in 11 innings.

Niekro, a 13-year veteran, will go into the 1981 season with a 136-120 lifetime record, including his club record 21 victories in 1979.

"I never thought I'd be playing baseball for this kind of money," Niekro said. "I am really more nervous now than in that game against Los Angeles."

But van Eeghen, Spagnola liked academics

Super Bowl, NFL big jump from Ivy League setting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — You'd expect the Super Bowl to have its quota of players from Ohio State, Oklahoma, Southern California, Notre Dame and the rest of the nation's big-time football schools and this one doesn't disappoint.

The Philadelphia Eagles and Oakland Raiders, who play Sunday for the championship of professional football, are suitably equipped with their share of blockers and tacklers carrying proper collegiate football credentials.

But also tagging along are two representatives of schools less noted for their football record, a pair of classroom heavyweights who could play in the Brain Bowl instead.

Oakland running back Mark van Eeghen has a degree in economics from Colgate University. Philadelphia tight end John Spagnola, a political science major, learned his X's and O's in the hallowed ivy-lined walls of Yale.

There were no scholarships, no Top 20 rankings, no bowl games in their football heritages. There was, instead, academics.

"Football was kept in its proper place at Colgate," said van Eeghen. "We didn't have spring practice or winter workouts. You showed up two weeks before the first game in the fall, played for 10 weeks, and then went back to the fraternity and the rest of college life. It was great."

The only trouble van Eeghen had at Colgate was playing on Saturday and missing the biggies. "I found myself wishing I could watch

Yale's NFL alumni include running backs Calvin Hill and Chuck Mercein, center Mike Pyle, defensive backs Dick Jauron and Gary Fenwick and precious few others.

Spagnola thinks about players who fail to complete their education. "What happens to them after football?" he wondered. "No degree, no real education or skill. Where do they go?"

For Spagnola and van Eeghen, that's no real problem.

Spagnola worked on the successful senatorial campaign of ex-basketball star Bill Bradley in 1978. He thinks about a career in politics.

Van Eeghen will work this summer in an executive training program at a bank in his native Rhode Island, laying the groundwork for an eventual move into the world of finance.

In Midland Invitational Steer swimmers look tough

MIDLAND — Midland High and Odessa Permian came away as the big winners in last weekend's Midland Invitational Swim Meet, with the Big Spring Steer swim team continuing to display improvement.

The Steers were impressive in the meet the past weekend. The BSHS girls finished fourth in an 11-team field, and the boys finished ninth in the same field.

Midland High won the girls competition with 345 points, with Lee second with 268. Amarillo Tascosa was third with 245, with Big Spring fourth with 227.

The Steer boys totalled 98 points. Their end of the competition was won by Permian, with Lee second and Pampa third.

Of last weekend's meet, Coach Harlan Smith said: "I couldn't have asked for any more from the girls. This is the best they have done in any invitational so far. With a strong finish they could have ended up in third instead of fourth."

Celtics using defense to keep unbelievable win streak alive

By the Associated Press

The Boston Celtics have won 10 games in a row, and they've done it with defense.

The Celtics contained Utah's high-scoring duo of Adrian Dantley and Darrell Griffith and breezed past the Jazz 117-87 Wednesday night at Boston Garden. The Celtics have held their opponents under 100 points in five of the last six games and 12 of the last 23.

Dantley, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer with a 31.8 average, was limited to 19 points. And Griffith, the highest-scoring rookie in the league with a 21.0 average, managed just one basket in the game.

"When you contain two players like that, you have a good opportunity to win," said Celtics forward Cedric Maxwell, who guarded Dantley. "We kept the ball away from them and kept them farther out than they wanted to be. We made guys shoot who are not used to shooting."

"The Celtics play good team defense," said Dantley. "They denied me the ball. I couldn't shoot from where I wanted to shoot and they cut me off when I wanted to drive."

Griffith made good on just one of nine field goal attempts.

"He got open but he didn't seem in synch on his shot," said Boston Coach Bill Fitch. "Chris (Ford) seemed to be around him all the time. The one he made was downtown from the water cooler."

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Indiana Pacers 118-104, the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the Atlanta Hawks 116-106, the Milwaukee Bucks topped the Golden State Warriors 105-96, the New Jersey Nets edged the Seattle SuperSonics 126-122 in overtime, the Kansas City Kings beat the San Antonio Spurs 115-108, the Houston Rockets downed the Phoenix Suns 106-100 and the San Diego Clippers defeated Denver Nuggets 125-116.

Moses Malone heads West All-Star reserve list, as squads completed

NEW YORK (AP) — Center Moses Malone of the Houston Rockets, the National Basketball Association's leading rebounder and No. 2 scorer, was among six reserves picked for the West squad in the All-Star Game at Richfield, Ohio Feb. 1. Others named Wednesday as reserves for the West team were center Jack Sikma of Seattle, forwards Len "Truck" Robinson of Phoenix and Jamaal Wilkes of Los Angeles, and guards Dennis Johnson of Phoenix and Otis Birdsong of Kansas City.

Three of the NBA's top 10 scorers did not make the West team — David Thompson and Alex English of Denver and Lloyd Free of Golden State.

Another top 10 scorer, Mike Mitchell of Cleveland, was left off the East squad, which was completed on Tuesday. No members of the host team, the Cleveland Cavaliers, were named to play in the game.

The NBA's top two playmakers also were left off the West squad. Phil Ford of Kansas City leads the league in assists and Norm Nixon of Los Angeles ranks second, but neither made the team.

Foreign countries infuriate NFL, US company with tapes

NEW YORK (AP) — They don't fly flags with the skull and crossbones, but they're pirates; nonetheless. And they're trying to steal the Super Bowl.

Not the game, mind you, the tape. Trans World International, the company that has contracted with the National Football League to sell world-wide rights to the Super Bowl, was beaten into several countries last year by pirated versions of the tape of Pittsburgh's victory over Los Angeles.

Maura Schwartz, a sales executive for TWI, said Super Bowl XIV was recorded illegally and put on a plane to Hong Kong immediately after the game. "Someone carried it through customs and the tape was in the department stores and the American clubs in Hong Kong before our tape ever arrived," she said.

Although expatriate Americans are eager to buy the tape, Schwartz said TWI is the only supplier which carries the NFL's seal of approval. "Countries abiding by the copyright laws can protect us," said Schwartz by phone from her office in Cleveland. "But some don't have any copyright laws."

Schwartz said TWI and Hong Kong Television were both hurt by the pirates. "They were paying for exclusive rights and their sponsors believed that," she said. "But the illegal tapes had already been seen everywhere."

"In Thailand, the same thing happened. Some guy actually advertised the tape in the papers a week before the game."

Rights to all NFL games are reserved to the league, network broadcasters tell us each week. But the pirates aren't listening. "They're trying to rip off the league and us," said Jim Bukata, TWI's director of sales and programming. "They're almost impossible to catch. TWI can't stop nationals returning to their countries with tapes; their customs could, but they don't."

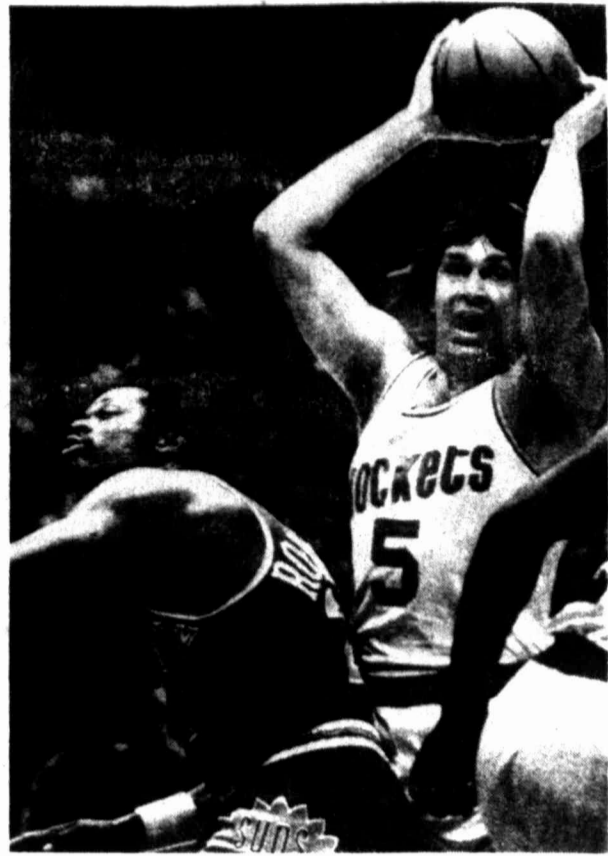

As soon as Sunday's Super Bowl ends around 10 p.m. EST, TWI will drive a game videotape from its office here to a plant in New Jersey where the necessary copies will be made. "If there are any available planes leaving, the tape could be on its way to Europe and South America some three hours later," Bukata said. "Our best way of fighting piracy is getting it out quickly."

This is the second year of TWI's three-year deal with the NFL. Bukata says TWI pays the NFL several million dollars and makes money after the fees reach a guaranteed level.

NBC and CBS, on an alternating basis, provide the feed in the United States, its territories, possessions and military bases, Canada, Mexico, and Bermuda. TWI has the rest of the world.

The countries picking up TWI's live TV feed of the game will be Japan, Italy and West Germany. The Japanese are especially keen on American football. This is the second year they've gone to the Super Bowl with a crew of close to 20 for a booth that only holds 10.

Steer girls finish first half tonight

MIDLAND — The Big Spring Steers girls basketball team ends their frustrating first half of play in District 5-A AAAA tonight when they travel to meet the Midland Lee Lady Rebels.

The game is one of four final first half games around the league, and the BSHS-Lee game could have a great deal of significance. The significance would occur if Lee beats the Steer girls and San Angelo would lose to Midland High. That combination would make Lee and San Angelo tie for the first half title.

Lee comes into tonight's game with a district mark of 5-1 and a season record of 11-9. BSHS, meanwhile, is 0-6 and 4-18.

In the other first half finales, Midland (3-3, 11-12) is at San Angelo (6-0, 19-1), Odessa Permian (1-5, 8-15) is at Abilene Cooper (4-2, 12-8), and Abilene (3-3, 15-8) meets Odessa (1-5, 6-15).

Big Spring is coming off a 51-33 loss to Permian, while Lee upended Cooper by a 50-43 count.

DOLL OF THE RAIDERS—Oakland Raiders running back Kenny King looks over a doll at a souvenir shop in New Orleans Monday night. The Raiders meet the Philadelphia Eagles in Super Bowl XV this Sunday.

Raiders Kenny King upset with past roles; Claims he's NFL most underrated runner

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' Kenny King likens himself to that familiar car rental agency — he is trying harder because he is tired of being No. 2. "At Oklahoma, my job was to block for Billy Sims," the powerful speedster said. "Last year at Houston, playing behind Earl Campbell, I got my hands on the ball only three times. 'I can't tell you how many times I almost lost it altogether — I came close to packing it in.

"I would have, too, if it hadn't been for my mother," King said that in the midst of his depression, while rusting away on the Oilers' bench, he spent around $500 a month telephoning his mother, Louisa, at their home in Clarendon, Tex. "I would tell her how bad things were and I might be coming home," he added, "but she always told me, 'Don't worry, son. Give it your best shot. God is looking out for you. Everything will work out.'"

It did. In the offseason, Al Davis, the iconoclast principal owner of the Raiders, grabbed King and added him to his mushrooming brood of outcasts and retools. "I feel like I am starting a new life," said the 205-pound running back, a key offensive threat in the Raiders' Super Bowl match Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles. King, who has run 100 yards in 9.5 seconds, considers himself one of the game's most underrated and least recognized ground gainers. "If I hadn't been injured and missed seven games, I should have gone over 1,000 yards," he said. "I am a lot like Wilbert Montgomery (Eagles' running back). Nobody hardly knew who he was until he had that great day against Dallas (194 yards) in the championship game two weeks ago." King ran for 761 yards during the past season, an average of 4.4 yards a carry, and scored four touchdowns. He had one run of 84 yards. Montgomery ran for 778 yards, a 4.0 average, and scored eight times. King's experience has been unique as well as extremely frustrating. At Oklahoma, he was overshadowed by Sims, the 1979 Heisman Trophy winner who became a rookie sensation for the Detroit Lions. At Houston, he was a spear carrier in the opera orchestrated by the pounding hooves of the bull-strong Campbell, the NFL's top ball-carrier. "Campbell is strong but he is not that much better than other ball-carriers — O.J. Simpson, Tony Dorsett and Walter Payton — who, like Campbell, gets most of the publicity," King said. "There is a chance that this Super Bowl can turn into a ground battle. If it does, Montgomery and I have a chance to win the MVP, depending on who wins the game.

Kentucky takes out frustration on Florida

By The Associated Press
Kentucky finally is back on the winning track, and Coach Joe B. Hall thinks his sixth-ranked Wildcats may be over their emotional problems. "We showed more emotion than we had since very early in the season," Hall said after Kentucky trounced Florida 102-48 in a Southeastern Conference game Wednesday night. "We just need that so much, and we have talked about it," the coach said.

"It's been tough on us. There's been a lot of pressure. Certainly, no one likes to lose, and everyone talked about how we were going to have a really good game." Kentucky, ranked third in the nation at the time, began its slide with a 59-55 loss Saturday at Alabama, then lost again on the road Monday to Louisiana State, 81-67. However, the Wildcats returned home Wednesday night to record their widest scoring margin ever in Rupp Arena. "They got off to a fast, free-wheeling start," said Florida Coach Norm Sloan, former coach at North Carolina State. "They were shooting relaxed from all over the floor. Kentucky has great personnel. They just didn't have any respect for us at all." Sam Bowie led all scorers with 29 points for Kentucky, and Dirk Minniefield and Mel Turpin added 17 apiece. Kentucky led by 28 points at the half, 52-26, and the Wildcats' advantage ballooned to as many as 56 points, 102-46, with 27 seconds to play on a tip-in by Charles Hurt.

In other games involving ranked teams, second-rated Virginia whipped George Washington 86-56, fifth-ranked LSU topped Auburn 74-64. No. 8 Tennessee downed Mississippi State 81-57, 13th-ranked Notre Dame stopped San Francisco 80-75, 19th-ranked Clemson defeated Georgia Tech 72-48, and Villanova upended No. 20 Connecticut 63-59.

Ralph Sampson and Jeff Lamp paced Virginia with 17 points apiece, and Lee Raker added 15 as the Cavaliers extended the nation's longest winning streak to 20 games. Now 15-0 on the season, Virginia led by as many as 34 points. George Washington's Wilbert Skipper led all scorers with 23. Louisiana State won its 15th game in a row, getting a career-high 33 points from Howard Carter. The Tigers, now 16-1 with their only loss coming to Arkansas in the second game of the season, led 36-31 at the half and moved out to leads of as many as 12 points on two occasions in the SEC matchup.

UT-Aggie football may return to Thanksgiving

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Ticket manager Al Lundstedt of the University of Texas says there is a good chance Texas and Texas A&M will resume the tradition of playing their annual football game on Thanksgiving — possibly this year. Lundstedt noted athletic councils of both schools would have to approve the switch back to the Thanksgiving date. The 1981 game is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 28, at College Station.

"There is a great likelihood the game will be moved," said Lundstedt. He also said school officials have discussed shifting the game's site to strengthen A&M's even-year home schedule and UT's odd-year home lineup.

He said this would require A&M to play at Austin in 1982 and 1983, Texas to play at Baylor both years and Baylor to play at A&M in 1982 and 1983 to set up an every-other-year arrangement. A&M now plays at Texas in even years.

The Longhorns and Aggies started playing home-and-home on Thanksgiving in 1918, and only three times up until 1977 did the two teams miss playing on Thanksgiving.

The Thanksgiving game was done away with when Houston's entry into the Southwest Conference in 1976 forced a revamping of the SWC schedule.

Post-game football fight goes to court

EASTLAND, Texas (AP) — Monday it will be Eastland vs. Dublin again — and it's not even football season any more. This time, it will be citizens of the two towns squaring off instead of the football players, and the arena will be a courtroom instead of a playing field.

The fight broke out when a bus carrying the Dublin team, coaches and supporters headed out of Eastland after the game. District Attorney Emory Walton contends Bryant ordered the bus driver to stop after unidentified objects were thrown at the bus by Eastland supporters. Bryant "flew off the bus and headed directly for the group" of fans, Walton said. After police arrived, Bryant "poked" an officer in the chest, Walton maintains.

A civil suit brought by Bryant, Zachry, businessman Bill Greer and assistant Dublin coaches James Ward and Charles Everett still is pending in Abilene district court. The suit seeks $250,000 in damages against the city of Eastland, Police Chief Bobby Arriola and five other police officers. The plaintiffs claim police drew pistols and used excessive force in making the arrests.

loyal Dublin fan Dick Zachry, 36, are charged with resisting arrest during a brawl that broke out between Dublin and Eastland fans after a hard-fought game between the two high school football teams Oct. 10. Eastland had beaten Dublin, 26-21, and the game featured a controversial penalty on the last play, erasing what would have been the winning touchdown for Dublin.

The maximum punishment the two men could face is a year in the county jail and a $2,000 fine. The two, free on $500 bonds, have not said whether they will demand a jury trial or how they will plead.

Dublin football coach William O. Bryant, 41, a former Big Spring Steer assistant under Spike Dykes, and loyal Dublin fan Dick Zachry, 36, are charged with resisting arrest during a brawl that broke out between Dublin and Eastland fans after a hard-fought game between the two high school football teams Oct. 10. Eastland had beaten Dublin, 26-21, and the game featured a controversial penalty on the last play, erasing what would have been the winning touchdown for Dublin. In an earlier trial, Samuel Ruckey Crockett, 22, was sentenced to 20 years in prison for his part in the killing. Defense attorneys Hal Jackson and Allan Levy called no witnesses during the trial.

Trial for slain NTSU football star Bernard Jackson continues

DENTON, Texas (AP) — State District Judge Sam Houston ordered the jurors sequestered in a Denton motel Wednesday night after they sent a note to him about 5 p.m. saying "we've had all we can take today, we need to make some phone calls." The 10-woman, two-man jury received the case late Tuesday afternoon. Williams, 21, is charged with the Sept. 12 slaying of North Texas State University football star Bernard Jackson.

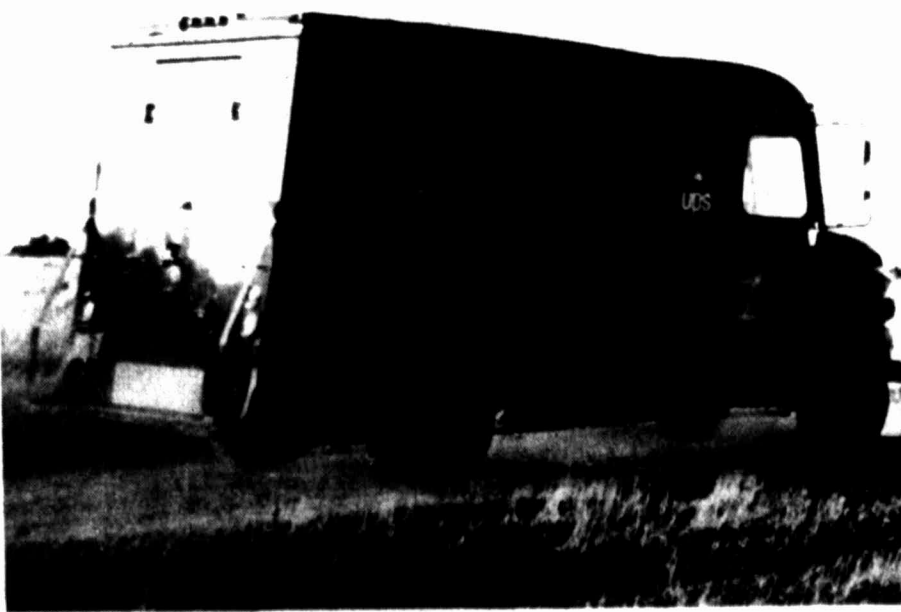

Attorneys for the defense have argued that Williams shot Jackson in self-defense during an altercation outside a popular nightclub near the university. In an earlier trial, Samuel Ruckey Crockett, 22, was sentenced to 20 years in prison for his part in the killing.

You've probably used it.

But how much do you know about the company behind it?

UPS has applied for intrastate operating authority in Texas. (Right now we only have interstate authority. We're only permitted to handle parcels coming into or leaving Texas.) If our application is granted, you'll be able to send a package by UPS to any address in Texas—as well as anywhere else in the continental US. You'll also be seeing even more of our shiny brown vehicles. So we thought you might like to know a little more about us.

A LITTLE HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY

UPS got started in 1907 when a couple of young men began doing local deliveries in Seattle. Today UPS is still employee-owned, with most of our stockholders actually managing and supervising the company. Our headquarters are in Connecticut, but our operations are national. In fact, we have more employees in Texas than in Connecticut.

SERVICES

UPS covers the country. If you can get there by road, UPS will pick up and deliver. Our economical rates include damage or loss protection up to $100 per package, proof of delivery, and return of undeliverable parcels, all at no extra cost. Most of our business comes from commercial shippers. But if you want to send just one package, you'll pay the same package and poundage charges as somebody who sends out hundreds. Our biggest competitor is the tax-subsidized U.S. Postal Service.

How many packages do you have to send before UPS will come and pick-up? Just one will do fine.

THE SYSTEM

Over 1000 UPS centers around the country are linked together by a system that's been continually expanding and improving for 70 years. As a result, we provide next day delivery within a minimum of 150 miles, and equivalently prompt delivery to further points. We deliver over 5 million parcels daily, with almost 300,000 in Texas.

Bill aimed at providing balance in classroom

Oklahoma legislation battle over evolution teachings set

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Darwinian theory of evolution could not be taught in Oklahoma public schools unless students are also taught the "creation-science theory" under a bill filed Wednesday by three conservative state House members.

Rep. Bill Graves, R-Oklahoma City, said the bill is not an effort to bring religion into the classroom, but is aimed at providing students a balanced view of the origin of the universe.

"At a time when evolutionists themselves are at odds on how the human race originated, many scientists are no longer subscribing to the evolution theory," Graves said.

"This bill simply provides that the other side of the argument be presented to our school students," he added. "Academic freedom demands no less."

The measure, entitled the "Creation-Science and Evolution-Science Act" lists as authors Graves, fellow Oklahoma City Republican Mike Fair and Muskogee Democrat John Monks.

Graves said the Darwinian theory is the only one being taught in Oklahoma public schools at this time.

"The teaching of evolution to the exclusion of the creation theory constitutes a form of censorship and denies school students a hearing as to both sides of the issue of origins," the Oklahoma City Republican.

He said many parents who teach their children the creation theory from the book of Genesis in the Bible "are alarmed that the religious teachings they have instilled in their children are being undermined at school by the teaching of evolution."

The teaching of evolution alone "constitutes an unconscionable and unconstitutional hostility to religion," he said.

"We have been too long duped by the evolutionists," he continued. "They would have us believe that the theory of evolution has been proven to be scientific fact. This is not the case. In fact, scientific evidence indicates the contrary..."

Graves said he anticipates the bill will spark controversy and he expected opposition from the followers of Madalyn Murray O'Hair, who won a 1963 Supreme Court decision to ban compulsory prayers in public schools.

He pointed to a recent news story in which Mrs. O'Hair announced plans to organize an Oklahoma City chapter of her American Atheist Center.

"Oklahoma is in need of an atheist influence to combat the religious evangelism that comes out of the state," Mrs. O'Hair said in the story. "These religious groups are involved in 'theo-politics.' What they are attempting to do is legislate morals."

Graves said, "The bill specifically prohibits the teaching of religion and prohibits any reference or use of religious writings in the teaching of the creation theory. It simply mandates that students be informed of the creation theory through scientific evidence in support of the theory."

The measure lists several examples supporting the "creation-science" concept, including belief in a "sudden creation of the universe, energy and life," belief in "separate ancestry for man and apes" and belief in geological changes of the earth "by catastrophism, including the occurrence of a world-wide flood..."

America ties one on

By the Associated Press

You could tie your yellow ribbon on it.

The buoyant displays of red, white and blue. The singing of God Bless America, the Battle Hymn of the Republic, America the Beautiful. The tears in the eyes of a seaman.

The release of the 52 Americans kindled a burst of patriotism like a thousand Fourth of July sparklers. And the sparklers haven't been doused yet.

Church bells pealed on Wednesday, sirens wailed, thousands knelt in prayer, flags were raised to full-staff and yellow ribbons were affixed to everything from coat lapels to oak trees.

They did it in Olive Branch, Miss. They did it in Lynchburg, Va. And they did it in Wiesbaden, West Germany.

They celebrated freedom.

Indiana Chief Justice Richard M. Givens, wearing a ribbon on his black robe, looked out on a similarly attired crowd gathered for his "State of the Judiciary" speech and remarked: "It's good to see all the yellow ribbons and know they won't be needed anymore."

For more than 14 months, yellow ribbons have meant hope to Americans — hope that one day the hostages would return safely.

More than 10,000 yards of yellow ribbon streamed through city offices and police and fire stations in Lynchburg, Albany, N.Y., carried the joyful message: "Thank God They Are Free," "The End — Freedom Day 1."

The Chamber of Commerce in Olive Branch collected yellow ribbons from the townspeople and said it planned to package the symbols of American hope and send them to Ayatollah Khomeini.

"We would just like the Ayatollah to know the degree of support the citizens of DeSoto County have had for the hostages these many months," said Jim McAlexander, chamber president.

At St. Meinrad Archabbey in Evansville, Ind., the seven bells of the Abbey Church rang at noon Wednesday, and will ring at noon each day until the hostages return.

Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander proclaimed Sunday a statewide "Day of Praise and Thanksgiving" for the safe return of the former hostages.

At the state Capitol in Lincoln, Neb., a tattered white flag was lowered from a pole Wednesday for the last time and Lt. Gov. Roland Luedtke said: "They are free...thank God."

Montgomerys move away from memories

FAIRVIEW, Texas (AP) — Candace Montgomery is moving. Husband Pat watched his wife become increasingly upset as reporters gathered in the front yard of their suburban home.

"I don't think there will ever be a 'start anew,' because it's always going to be there," she said while packing belongings in the family's garage Tuesday.

Concern for the couple's two children "was one of the primary reasons we have to move," he added.

Frittatas fast, fun to fix at mealtime

What's a frittata? Frittata is Italian for omelet while in Spanish an omelet is a tortilla (not to be confused with the Mexican pancake which is similar to a cornmeal crepe). This type of unfolded omelet is also sometimes called a pancake or open-faced omelet.

In any language, frittatas are fun! They're fast to fix, a real flash-in-the-pan main dish for a super supper, better breakfast, nutritious noontime meal or satisfying snack. Since a frittata is just as good cold as hot, you can even pack one along in your cooler for a tailgate party or wrap up a wedge for a take-along lunch.

Some people find frittatas easier to make than French omelets since you cook a frittata's filling right along with the eggs. And, frittatas are inexpensive, too! Eggs, the main ingredient, are one of today's best food buys. If you use leftovers for the filling, a frittata can be one of the most economical entrees you've ever served.

Check the tips that follow and try one of the recipes shown or use the basic recipe to create your own fantastic frittata. Either way, you'll find frittatas are incredibly easy and economical to make, and a lot of fun to eat!

TIPS FOR MAKING FRITTATAS OR TORTILLAS

(Italian or Spanish Omelets)

You might find it easier to slide a frittata onto a serving platter if you use a slope-sided pan. A vertical-sided pan will work well if you serve a frittata right from the pan or invert it into a serving platter. A well-seasoned pan or one with a non-stick finish helps prevent sticking. If you finish a frittata under the broiler, a pair with an ovenproof handle is a MUST. You can make a frittata several different sizes depending on how many people you wish to serve. The chart in the following basic frittata recipe suggests pan sizes for various frittata sizes.

One difference between a French omelet and a frittata is that you put all the frittata's filling ingredients into the pan with the egg mixture. Since a frittata's cooking time is too short to cook raw foods, saute or fully cook them before you add them to the egg mixture. The total cooking time depends on the frittata's size. Because a frittata cooks from the outside in, you can hasten a large frittata's cooking time by gently stirring the mixture to move the hotter outer portions towards the center. Try not to disturb the bottom or sides of the mixture while stirring. Use low to medium heat to avoid overbrowning the sides and bottom before the frittata's center sets.

Another difference between a French omelet and a frittata is that a frittata is cooked on both sides. You can invert a small frittata onto a plate and then slip it back into the pan to cook the other side. You might find it easier, though, to cover the pan and let it stand off the heat for 3 to 10 minutes while steam cooks the top OR to broil the frittata about 6 inches from the heat for 2 to 3 minutes. Broiling is especially nice when you top a frittata with shredded cheese.

There are three ways to serve a frittata. You can cut it into wedges (like a pie) and serve it right from the pan or slide an uncut frittata top-side up onto a platter. Either method is good for a cheese-topped frittata. You can also invert a frittata onto a platter and serve it browned-side up.

CARROT FRITTATA

4 servings

Lunch, supper, late evening snack — this easy skillet meal is great anyplace. Let it star at a brunch next weekend.

- 1 cup shredded carrots
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup water
- 8 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon powdered mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme or marjoram leaves, crushed, optional
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Carrot slices, optional
- Parsley sprigs, optional

Combine carrot, onion and water in 10-inch omelet pan or skillet with ovenproof handle+. Cover and cook over medium-high heat until carrots are cooked, about 5 minutes. Drain. Beat together eggs, milk and seasonings. Stir in carrot-onion mixture. Melt butter in same pan over medium heat. Pour egg-carrot mixture into pan. Cook over low to medium heat until eggs are almost set, 9 to 10 minutes. Broil about 6 inches from heat until eggs are completely set, 3 to 4 minutes. OR, cover pan. Remove from heat and let stand 5 to 7 minutes. Cut into wedges and serve from pan, or either slide from pan or invert onto serving platter. Garnish with carrot slices and parsley sprigs, if desired.

+To make handle ovenproof, wrap completely with aluminum foil

ZIPPY MUSHROOM FRITTATA

2 servings

Both salad dressing mixes and bottled dressings are convenient ways to season a frittata. Try this recipe when you're in a hurry.

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 to 1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 4 eggs
- 1/4 cup bottled creamy cucumber salad dressing
- 1/4 teaspoon onion salt
- 1/4 cup (1 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
- Watercress, optional

In 10-inch omelet pan or skillet with ovenproof handle+ over medium heat, cook mushrooms in butter until tender but not brown. Beat together eggs, salad dressing and onion salt. Pour into pan over mushrooms. Cook over low to medium heat until eggs are almost set, 6 to 8 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese. ## New life form being created

A new form of life is being created today in the laboratory by the computer scientist, and around 1995 it is possible that we will see the "silicon brain"—an emergent form of life competitive with man in its ability to think and reason.

That is the projection of Robert Jastrow, professor of astronomy and geology at Columbia University and professor of earth science at Dartmouth College, in a startling article entitled the "Post-Human World" in the current (Jan.-Feb.) issue of Science Digest.

The human body has changed very little in the past million years and the brain has not changed, at least in gross size, in the past 100,000 years, Jastrow notes. The computer, he says, "is still simple, not very creative, is evolving at a lightning pace." Models become smaller and smaller, capable of greater and greater feats of memory and imitation of human thought.

"Around 1995," says Jastrow, "the curve of growth of the silicon brain should cross the line of human capability. Of course, a silicon brain that matches the human brain only in storage capacity and brute reasoning power will still lack the creative inspiration and intuition that characterize the higher realm of human thought."

KENNEDYS PLAN DIVORCE Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife Joan announced on Wednesday plans to divorce after 22 years of marriage that were plagued at times by her drinking problems and reports of his relationships with other women. The couple are shown at a news conference in Florida in 1980.

After 22-year marriage

Kennedys seeking divorce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward and Joan Kennedy's marriage endured a plane crash that almost killed him, the assassinations of his two brothers, Chappaquidick, a young son losing a leg to cancer, her drinking problems, reports of his liaisons with other women and five political campaigns.

Now, after Kennedy's quest for the presidency threw them back together for a time, they are ending their 22-year union. Although they have lived apart for the past three years, the two vacationed together in Colorado over the Christmas holidays in an apparent last-ditch attempt at patching up their marriage. And some of their friends said the couple seemed to draw closer together during last fall's campaign. Nonetheless, Wednesday's brief, written announcement of impending divorce came as no surprise. "Appropriate legal proceedings will be commenced in due course," the statement said.

Mrs. Kennedy, a self-described "recovering alcoholic," has been living in Boston since 1978 attending college. Kennedy lived at their home in suburban Virginia with their children. After the divorce announcement, Kennedy's office reaffirmed the 48-year-old Democratic senator's intention to seek re-election from Massachusetts in 1982. He has been elected four times in the heavily Catholic state.

The political impact of the impending divorce remained uncertain for the senator, who close aides say has his eye on another try for the presidency in addition to his Senate race.

Coincidentally, the Kennedy divorce announcement came one day after the inauguration of President Reagan, the first divorced man to become president.

Mrs. Kennedy campaigned extensively for her husband last year during his unsuccessful presidential campaign. Aides hoped her presence would help quell rumors of the couple's marital difficulties.

She handled the frequent questions about their personal relationship with courtesy, defending her husband and saying repeatedly she would move into the White House if he were elected.

To many observers, they appeared ill at ease with each other, rarely touching or holding hands. But several sources insisted the long, arduous campaign brought them closer together, a view also expressed by Mrs. Kennedy. In the months following the campaign, sources said, they were together more than they had been in some time as they tried to see whether they could save their marriage.

Texas truck driver dumps dangerous chemicals in Louisiana

DALLAS (AP) — An emergency cleanup operation is underway in Louisiana, just east of the Texas border, where a Texas truck driver dumped 2,000 gallons of poisonous chemicals after illegally skirting a border weigh station, federal officials contend.

The Environmental Protection Agency's Region 6 office, headquartered in Dallas, sent an emergency response team to the dump site to help clean up the chemicals, said spokesman Roger Meacham.

So far, the EPA and Louisiana's Department of Natural Resources have removed 224 cubic yards of soil and 280 barrels of water laced with butadiene, a chemical used to make plastics, said Victor Montelero of the Louisiana agency.

Inhaling large concentrations of outadiene can result in unconsciousness or death.

The truck also was carrying butene, an odorless, colorless chemical that can cause painful burns, officials said.

State and federal crews began taking the contaminated matter to a dump near Lake Charles, La., on Saturday, while samples were sent to labs in Houston and Baton Rouge, La., for analysis.

Montelero said the chemicals were dumped the night of Jan. 14 by an overweight truck that had illegally run through a weigh station as it entered Louisiana on State Highway 12.

The truck, owned by Groendyke Transport Co. of Enid, Okla., was topped by police about 12 miles east of the scales and was 4,800 pounds overweight but was still 3,000 pounds lighter than reported on the driver's manifest.

"It would appear that what occurred was that the gentleman driving the truck decided to release some of his load," said Elmer Dunneho, co-worker of Montelero.

The next spill was discovered the next day when residents complained to police of fumes that burned their eyes and skin. Investigators found a Groendyke company credit card at the site, "put two and two together" and called the EPA, said Montelero.

Investigators found a "sizeable quantity of chemicals had been jumped on the roadside and leaked into a nearby creek, but low water levels kept the chemicals from spreading," he said.

The truck was hauling butadiene and butene from Petrotex, Inc. Refinery of Pasadena, Texas, to Good Hope Refinery, about 15 miles north of New Orleans, said Montelero.

Louisiana officials said Groendyke was contracted by Industrial Solvents of Good Hope to haul the chemicals.

Bill Perrin, a Groendyke employee from Gainesville, Texas, said his company is "just checking into" the incident.

SA police win hearing on deceptive trade suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Eleven San Antonio policemen today won the right to a Texas Supreme Court hearing of their deceptive trade practices suit arising from cancellation of a criminal justice course taught at by Webster College at Brooks Air Force Base.

The court scheduled a Feb. 25 hearing on the policemen's appeal of an Eastland court of Civil Appeals decision throwing out a $174,940 jury verdict against Webster College.

Webster also appealed because the Eastland court ordered a new trial after finding there was evidence to support a jury finding that Webster's representations led to misunderstanding and confusion.

Charles C. Speier and 10 other policemen sued Webster after the school told them during their first eight-week session of classes that they could not enroll for the next session.

The officers said Webster had represented to them that the course was open to civilians, would last a year and would result — if they passed — in their receiving master's degrees in criminal justice.

The court of civil appeals reversed the jury verdict because the trial judge allowed the policemen's lawyer to admit into evidence a chart, on which he made notes, listing the damages suffered by each.

The Supreme Court said it would decide whether that finding of the appeals court was valid.

Fishermen say Vietnamese refugees not prosecuted for misdeeds

ROCKPORT, Texas (AP) — Tensions that erupted into Gulf Coast violence over shrimp fishing rights last year are still simmering, with the U.S. Justice Department once again being asked to mediate. Native fishermen here again are complaining that Vietnamese refugees violate state and federal fishing laws without being prosecuted and threaten to overfish the local shrimp grounds.

"Are we overlooking the law because of their nationality? We feel like the demilitarized zone has been moved to South Texas. We feel like second-class citizens," fisherman Jim Tucker said during a meeting with Efrain V. Martinez.

Martinez came from the Justice Department's community relations service in Houston to help avoid violent confrontation between Vietnamese and native fishermen in the area. He spoke to the natives Tuesday night and will meet with the refugees later this week.

The mediator said he was only there to listen and could not prosecute anyone or enforce the laws. He offered to ask state and federal authorities to correct any abuses. All Texas shrimpers have been hurt in the past three years by rising diesel costs, poor catches and lost access to Mexican shrimp beds as a result of a treaty that took effect in 1980.

Big Spring, Kermit enjoy exchange day

Student councils representing Big Spring High School and Kermit High School participated in an exchange day the past weekend.

The local council left for Kermit Friday to spend all day in school at Kermit. Following school, council members spent the night in homes of Kermit council members. While in Kermit, the local students attended a basketball game.

Saturday, the Big Spring students visited the Kermit sinkhole, the sand hills around Kermit and the state line.

Before heading back to Big Spring, they were served luncheon at Kermit High School. On the return trip, the council members stopped at Permian Mall in Odessa.

One of the most successful and educational projects undertaken in recent years by the student council has been exchange days with students of other area schools. This affords local students the opportunity of comparing the activities here with those of other learning institutions. Innovative activities have been started here as a result of the visitations.

In recent years, the local council members have visited schools in Colorado City, Andrews and San Angelo. Members of the Kermit Student Council will visit here later this year.

Among local students who made the trip to Kermit were Bobby Brasel, Russell Stukel, Steve Drake, Debbie Cowan, Charlotte Beil, Merribeth Bancroft, Chuck Gibbs, Letitia Hernandez, Shana Hohertz, Tom Cudd, Amy Ragan, Alan Trevino, Lori Marin, Lisa Leal, Kim Grant, Dee Earhart, Jody Martinez, Julio Cerda, Christy Garcia, George Bancroft, Teresa Alexander. Sponsors accompanying the group were Dennis Launarey and Craig Fischer.

Big Spring, area towns record sales tax gains

Big Spring received a large increase in its monthly sales tax rebate check, compared to payments for the same month last year.

The city received a check for $59,136.38, compared to a check totaling $32,228.60 for the same period in 1980.

Nearly all area cities received similar hikes in their 2 percent rebates. Coahoma received a check for $1,115.48 during 1980; Colorado City, $11,632.43, compared to $5,611.98; Lamesa, $22,902.31, compared to $15,608.36; Stanton, $2,334.18, compared to $657.70.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday made payments totaling $33.1 million to nearly a thousand cities levying the optional one percent city sales tax.

The payments represent the first rebates to cities this year who collect city sales tax and about $10 million more than the cities received in January of last year.

The biggest check — $6.6 million — went to Houston, a 31-percent increase over last January's check.

Dallas received a check for $3.7 million, a 42 percent increase over the $2.6 million received last year.

Fort Worth will receive a check for $1.2 million compared to $971,920 for the same period last year.

San Antonio will receive a check for $1.7 million this month compared to $1.3 million for January of 1980.

The city sales tax is collected along with the state sales tax by merchants and businesses and rebated monthly to the cities in which it is collected by the Comptroller.

Seminar attracts local officer

Patricia A. Dunham of the Big Spring Police Department and Juvenile Probation Officer Jack Gregg of Andrews are among the 36 law enforcement officers from across the state who attended a week-long training seminar for juvenile officers Jan. 12-16 in Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

The seminar was conducted by the SWT-based Texas Center for Juvenile Delinquency Prevention.

Women seized at gunpoint Ex-Big Springer arrested in Dallas hostages caper

By JAMES WERRELL
A former Big Spring resident has been arrested in Dallas on suspicion of holding hostages at gunpoint inside the Texas Instruments Company Credit Union building there, this morning.

Jimmy Wayne Skelton, 32, who spent his youth and attended high school in Big Spring, was arrested by Dallas authorities after being talked into releasing a woman he is suspected of holding at gunpoint. According to Bob Shaw, a Dallas police spokesman, officers swept the woman away after the suspect allowed her to go outside to talk to them.

Earlier, another female employee was freed "when she talked him into letting her get coffee and she never came back," said a Dallas police spokesman.

A domestic quarrel apparently prompted the suspect to burst into the credit union shortly after 8 a.m. today, said Shaw. Dallas authorities learned that Skelton had been a former local resident, and contacted Big Spring Police Capt. Sherrill Farmer.

"They wanted information about any relatives or friends who might be available to talk to him (Skelton). I contacted one man, a guy he knew while he was growing up here who he thought a lot of, and he said he'd be glad to help," said Farmer, while the crisis was still unresolved this morning.

Dallas spokesmen said that the suspect was armed with a .38 caliber pistol, and that shots were exchanged with Dallas Tactical Officers shortly after the two women were taken hostage. One of the women is thought to be Skelton's wife.

"He asked to see his wife and kids," said Shaw, explaining the reason for the incident.

Skelton had resided at 1602 Stadium before joining the U.S. Army during the Vietnam conflict, said Farmer.

While in Vietnam, he served as a warrant officer and helicopter pilot.

Sometime after returning to the U.S., Skelton joined the Air Force, and had been stationed in Abilene, the residence listed on his driver's license when he was arrested this morning, said Farmer.

Big Spring airman draws duty as photographer at Weisbaden

By CAROL HART
George Von Hassell III, son of Mr. and Mrs. George von Hassell, 3710 Caroline, is stationed at Weisbaden, West Germany, where the 52 former American hostages were flown early today following 444 days of captivity in Iran.

Von Hassell's mother recently returned from Weisbaden following a visit with her son. She flew to West Germany the end of October, and returned to Big Spring during November.

She described her son's duties as "top secret."

"I couldn't go into his office," on the air base, she added.

The 52 former hostages were first flown to Houari Boumedienne Airport in Algiers at 1 a.m. Wednesday, (7 p.m. CST Tuesday), where they departed and were greeted by Algerian and U.S. diplomats and members of the press.

They then boarded a U.S. Air Force Medevac plane, and were flown to Wiesbaden. There, they will be hospitalized for a period of decompression at a U.S. Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden. Following this, they will be flown home.

Airman First Class von Hassell will probably spend most of the next two years at the Weisbaden Air Base, said Mrs. von Hassell.

Knock off previously unbeaten Frank Phillips HC Hawks take WJC lead

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

LOVING TOUCH... Howard College's Crushon Loving (42) goes toward the hoop in the opening minutes of the second half for a field goal during the Hawks important win over the previously unbeaten Frank Phillips team Tuesday evening. Loving had 12 of his 14 points in the second half to help hold off the visitors and give HC the undisputed lead in the Western Conference standings. Other Hawks in the picture are Randy Corker (41) and Ron Akins (32).

The Cinderella story of Coach Harold Wilder's Howard College Hawks continued here Tuesday, as the local juco basketball crew once again knocked off a nationally ranked and undefeated Western Conference rival. This time the Hawks victim was Frank Phillips, rated eighth in the NJCAA polls released last night, by a score of 73-64.

The win gave the high flying Hawks the Western Conference lead, as they upped their WJC mark to 7-0, with Frank Phillips falling to 6-1. Midland College, last week's number one ranked juco team nationally, is not far behind at 6-2, as the race seems to be headed toward a three-team battle, with only NMJC among the others having much possibility of making a title run.

So tough had the Frank Phillips team been before Tuesday night's loss to Howard College was that they entered the game with a perfect record of 17-0.

And in the opening minutes, it appeared that they might run to an easy 18th win without a loss.

The Hawks played most tentatively on offense in the early going, failing to score until 16:43 remained in the first half on a Randy Corker jumper. But the HC buckets were few and far between in the early going, while Frank Phillips became increasingly hot.

With reserve guard Roger Hughes bombing three long range shots around the midway point in the first half, Frank Phillips rolled to a 21-12 lead with 9:30 remaining, and Wilder ordered a timeout to hopefully stop the rising momentum of the visitors.

And in what would seem to set the stage for a game of furious spurts by both teams, the Hawks came back to take the lead for good.

In the next three minutes, the Hawks reeled off 10 straight points, with two Kenneth Jones free throws with 6:49 remaining giving the HC team the lead for the first time at 22-21.

But the streak wasn't over, as the HC crew ran off six more to bring the point total of 16 unanswered and a 28-21 advantage.

Frank Phillips' John Ard finally put his team's first points on the board in nearly five minutes with a pair of free throws, and his teammates quickly followed with two more buckets to narrow the HC lead to 28-27.

But the Hawks scored the final two buckets of the first half for a 32-27 lead at the intermission.

A big key in the first half, and throughout the game, was the foul trouble of Frank Phillips' six-foot-nine star Randy Hubbard. He drew two quick fouls in the opening minutes, and when he returned with eight minutes to play in the half, quickly drew his third. With him out of the line-up, the Hawks did an excellent job of cutting off the FPC outside game, and the results were evident.

But at the same time, both Howard College aces Ron Akins and Randy Corker also had three fouls.

In the early going of the second half, HC's freshman guard from Chicago, Crushon Loving, carried the local crew. He hit seven of HC's first nine points after intermission, and as Hubbard drew his fourth personal, the Hawks held a 41-33 lead.

But with that advantage, Corker negated it by picking up his fourth foul with 14:45 to play, and Wilder decided to save him for later. The move would pay off handsomely.

With the Hawks holding a 48-37 lead with just ten minutes remaining, Hubbard re-entered the contest. But seconds later with 9:42 remaining, the transfer from the University of New Mexico fouled out, putting the undefeated FPC team in even hotter water.

The Hawks built the lead up to a healthy 53-37, and it appeared there would be no dramatics in ending FPC's 17-game unbeaten streak.

But behind the bombing of John Ard and Dennis Stidon, FPC refused to give up without a fight. The visitors scored 14 of the next 17 points over the following six minutes, and with only 3:53 to play, HC's once healthy lead was down to 56-51.

The Hawks had attempted to run their four-corner offense through much of this time, but without success. In the final minutes, however, Randy Corker made sure it would work.

The massive six-foot-five freshman from Trenton, New Jersey, who leads the WJC in scoring, simply stole the show in the final four minutes.

He had help from his former high school buddy from Trenton, too, in the form of Jerome Johnson. The rarely used six-foot freshman guard canned both ends of a one-and-one opportunity to increase the Hawks bulge to 58-51, and Corker took over from there.

Directing the Hawks' offense from the four-corners, he continually penetrated and either scored or drew deadly free throw opportunities. Of the final 14 points by the Hawks, 10 were from Corker.

Six were from the free throw line, where he was a perfect eight-for-eight for the evening, with another being on a short banker. Crushon Loving added a pair of free throws, with Akins adding a superb tip-in after a Hawk free throw miss.

In the final three minutes, FPC could never come any closer than seven points to the now Western Conference leading Hawks.

Fouls played a big role in the HC win, as Frank Phillips actually outscored the hosts by 10 points from the field. But Howard connected on 24 of 33 from the free throw line, compared to five of 10 by FPC.

Frank Phillips was whistled for 30 fouls in the contest, while HC received but 13 fouls. And when Frank Phillips fell behind as time was running out, their fouls proved to kill their unbeaten record. In the final half, FPC was whistled for 20 fouls, compared to only four for the victorious Hawks.

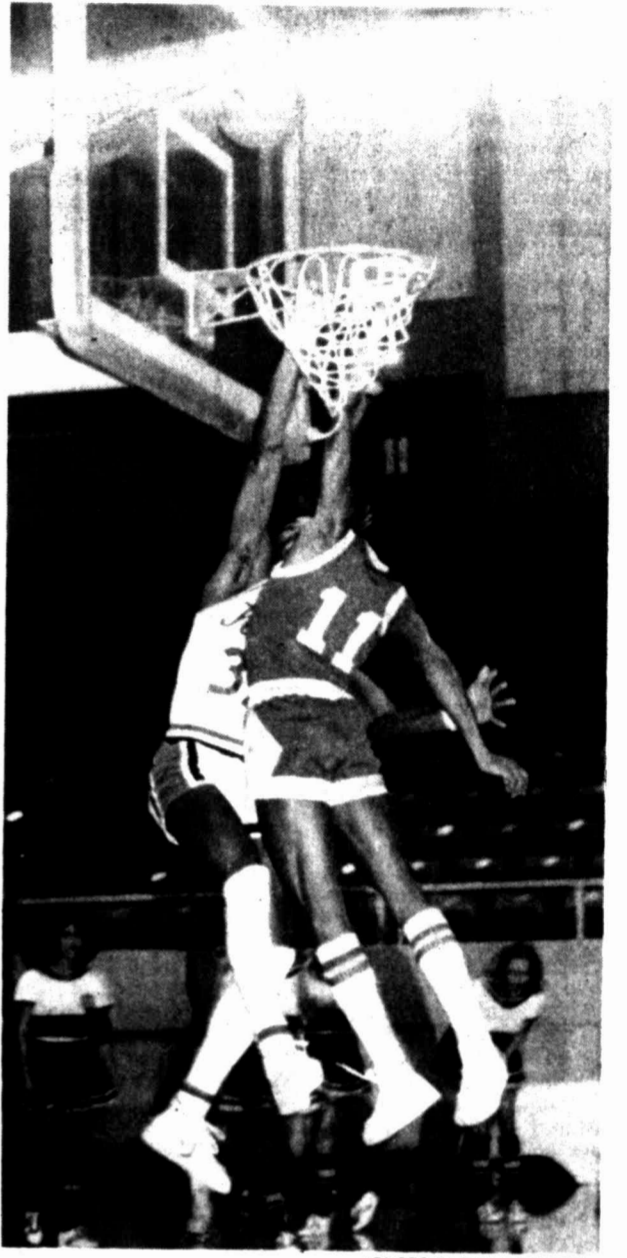

As usual, Corker led the Hawks in the scoring column with 24 points. Akins added 16 and Loving 10.

Ard had 23 for FPC. The Hawks return to action they visit Clarendon. It is a double-header, as the HawkQueens also play.

NOT THIS TIME, RON... Howard College's Ron Akins (32) hangs on the rim after attempting a slam dunk which was viciously denied by Frank Phillips guard Roger Hughes (11). The shot didn't fall, but enough did for the Hawks in the big 72-63 win that gave the HC crew the lead by itself in the Western Conference. Akins had 16 points and many rebounds in the game.

Hangin' Out With Nathan Poss

I once heard Weeb Ewbank, one of the most successful coaches in the history of the NFL, make the comment that had probably been said before and since: "Offense draws crowds, but defense wins championships."

And although the sports are different, Howard College Coach Harold Wilder was expounding the same philosophy in explaining his team's important 72-63 win over previously undefeated Frank Phillips Tuesday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It gave the HC crew the undisputed lead in the rugged Western Conference men's basketball race.

"I really felt the key to the win was our defense," a relieved Wilder stated. "I noticed that their two starting guards (Adams and Bijole) had only two points between them. We tried to cut down on their penetration, and did an excellent job in doing that."

Fouls also played a big role in the HC win, which boosted the locals conference record to 7-0 and season mark to 16-4, while dropping Frank Phillips to 6-1 and 17-1. In the contest, HC was whistled for only 13 fouls, while Frank Phillips received 30. But at one point, each team had their top performers, Randy Corker of Howard and Randy Hubbard of FPC, in foul trouble.

But a halftime adjustment in their defensive scheme kept both Corker and Ron Akins out of further foul trouble without reducing any effectiveness by HC in limiting their foes from scoring.

"At half, both Corker and Akins had three fouls each," Wilder explained. "We decided to change to a zone defense, because even though we were playing our man-to-man setup real well, a zone causes you to foul less, and our guys did that without letting them get much scoring going."

Another key factor in the defensive scheme was in limiting Hubbard, a highly touted transfer from the NCAA's trouble member, New Mexico U, to only four points and six minutes of playing time before fouling out.

"Hubbard was not a factor in the game," Wilder continued. "We knew he liked to drive, and our guys did a great job of forcing him into charges, which is what we wanted."

It's somewhat ironic that Wilder is crediting his defense for the big win that put his team in the driver's seat at the midway point in the WJC race. You see, for years the philosophy of the Hawks has been "Run, Gun and Have Fun." The Hawks in Wilder's ten-year tenure have been one noted for their high scoring, yet successful, teams.

Of course, what many people don't understand is that in order to run and score a lot of points, a team must first play excellent defense to spark things. Bill Russell and the Boston Celtics proved that during their years of dynasty, winning 10 NBA titles in 12 years, a record that will probably never be matched.

And while the Hawks haven't exactly been running past opponents this year, both Wilder and his most successful crew have proven the old defensive theory.

Permian bombs BSHS Steers

ODESSA — The Odessa Permian Panthers took advantage of a sub-par Big Spring Steer performance here Tuesday night and stroled to a 64-46 win in a District 5-A-A-A-A-A game.

The Permian win allows the Mojo to stay in the running for the first half title in 5-A-A-A-A-A, improving their mark to 2-1. Big Spring fell to 0-3 with the setback.

Permian, after leading only 12-10 after one quarter, began putting the game away in the second stanza. In fact, the Steers scored half of their points in the final frame, when the game had already been decided.

Permian's Chuck McDonald led all scorers in the contest with 19 points. Big Spring countered with Bobby Earl Williams' 17 points, but it was far from enough for the cold Steers.

Big Spring Coach Ed Haller was very disappointed and concerned following the loss. "This by far was the worst ballgame that we've played this year," the Steer mentor stated. "It's a shame, too, because Permian's not any better than we are, personnel wise."

"It was just a lackluster performance out of some of our players, but we're going

5-A-A-A-A-A Roundup

Midland High and Abilene Cooper continued to remain on top of the District 5-A-A-A-A-A standings in Tuesday night action, with San Angelo and Odessa Permian still within striking distance.

Midland ousted Abilene by a score of 71-51 to bring their mark to 3-0. Herbert Johnson had 21 to pace MHS. Abilene fell to 1-2 with the loss.

Midland exploded in the final half after leading only 12-11 at the intermission.

Cooper, somewhat of a surprise, continued their winning ways in a 56-44 win over Midland Lee. McLeod had 24 to pace the Cooper crew, with Alvin Dunson's 12 points leading the Rebels.

Cooper is now 3-0, while Lee fell to 1-2 in first half action.

San Angelo improved their record to 2-1 in district play with a hard earned 68-62 win over the luckless Odessa Bronchos, who fell to 0-3 with the loss.

Morton dents Stanton hopes

STANTON — The Morton boys basketball team took a giant step toward the first half title in District 5-AA, erupting in the early stages of the fourth quarter in blitzing the Stanton Buffaloes by a score of 77-54.

The win gives Morton a first half record of 5-0 with one game remaining, while Stanton falls to 4-1. The Buffs are 15-6 on the year.

Morton held only a 44-38 lead entering the final frame, but took complete control of the contest at the outset of the final eight minutes.

"We just lost our poise," said a disappointed Coach Eric Looney. "We were behind a little bit and started forcing the ball too much, and they took advantage and ran off about ten straight points."

Stanton's lone raming first half game is against Seagraves, while Morton hosts Forsan.

Morton had five players in double figures, with John Johnson leading the way with 16 points. David McReynolds led all scorers

Coahoma wins pair from DC

COAHOMA — Both the Coahoma boys and girls basketball teams were victorious here Tuesday evening in District 6-A-A-A encounters with Denver City.

The Coahoma boys evened their first half record at 1-1 by getting a commanding lead and then holding off a Denver City rally in the final stanza for a 68-63 win. Denver City fell to 1-1 in the district standings in the loss.

For the most part, Coahoma Coach Doug Harriman was pleased with the win. "We played pretty well," he stated. "Some of our players that hadn't played much this year had to do a good job, and they stepped in and did."

Michael Meyer was red hot for the Coahoma team, pouring in 29 points. Philip Ritchey added 12 and Bruce Walker 10.

Johnson had 20 for Denver City, with Nelson adding 16.

The Coahoma boys now have a season record of 12-6.

The Coahoma girls won their third first half game in as many starts Tuesday evening, trouncing Denver City by a score of 56-37.

The Coahoma girls had a 28-15 lead at half and were never threatened in the battle.

Farabee, Shaw differ on wiretap proposal

HARTE-HANKS AUSTIN BUREAU
AUSTIN—After nearly two weeks in session, state legislators already have brought their conservative and liberal tags out of the closet over Gov. Bill Clements' 10-plank anti-crime package, which, one of its House sponsors readily admits "is going to leave some of my best friends against me."

It could, some observers say, test the governor's effectiveness with legislators in his second go-round.

Conversation centers around the package's most controversial proposal.

Schoolchildren speak out

The women should be changing the diapers

By ANDREA COHEN
School children have different views on the Equal Rights Amendment.
"The house is the woman's place," according to Michael Carroll. "The women should be changing the diapers."
Added Connie Swinney, "Girls can play football better than any boy in here. They're afraid to let us because they're afraid we'll show them up."
Those views are a sampling of ideas taken from students in two sixth grade social studies classes at Goliad Middle School.
"Talking about who brings in the paycheck," Scott Stone added, "if the men bring it, it's okay. If women have to do it they complain."
Along with the ERA, some of the students are concerned with wife abuse.
"Some women get married," said Connie Swinney, "and she comes back and he's drunk and he rapes her. She goes to the police and there's a law passed that says until they're legally divorced, there's nothing the police can do. Reagan should pass a law that says women can call which would grant the Texas Department of Public Safety power to wiretap the phones of suspected drug traffickers if one of nine designated state judges approves.

Big Spring-area legislators, perhaps warning of things to come, already divided over the issue.

Sen Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls, saying he "favors a limited wiretapping, and this is," supports the bill.

Rep. Larry Don Shaw, meanwhile, opposes the proposal.

"At this point I have some constitutional questions about the legality of wiretapping," he said.

RAY FARABEE

LARRY DON SHAW

"I really think the answer (to cracking down on crime) is in the courts, not wiretapping." Rep. Walter Grubbs said he has opposed wiretapping proposals in the past, but believes the latest version offered by Clements may win his approval.

"I'm going to wait and see if some amendments might be offered to it to make me feel better," he said.

There are nine other facets of the crime package designed to jolt the judicial system into tougher stances on crime by doing everything from revamping the state's bail bonds system to providing harsher penalties for sex crimes.

The much-banded crime package was filed last week by what the governor termed a "non-partisan coalition of sponsors" in both the House and Senate.

In fact, of the 17 legislators who have affixed their names to Clements' package, only four—two representatives and two senators—are Republicans. On the House side, only one freshman member, Tom Waldrop of Corsicana, was asked by Clements to sponsor elements of the package. He sponsored a bill granting local option authority to ban material harmful to minors. He co-authored three others.

Most sponsors, one Clements' staff member points out, have been committee chairmen who are respected by their fellow members.
The Senate two years ago passed a wiretap bill, but its version died in the House.
"It can be done," said David Dean, the governor's chief legal counsel, who adds that more safeguards against abuse have been imposed on the rejuvenated bill.

Mrs. Olen Puckett wins poetry contest prize

Mrs. Olen Puckett, 1207 Runnels, recently won second prize in the 1980 Annual Sandburg-Frost Memorial Poetry Contest, sponsored by the Rocky Mountain Poetry Society.

Mrs. Puckett is a former Big Spring High School teacher. Now retired, she has been writing poems for several years.

In winning second prize, Mrs. Puckett was given a certificate of award, and a year's membership in the Society. Her submission was "A Prayer."

According to Donald Day, chairman of the contest committee, and vice-president of the Society, the committee considered over 400 entries from all over the United States and Canada.

The 1980 Sandburg-Frost Memorial Cup, and a year's membership in the Society, went to Betty Puckett of Pacoima, Calif., for her poem, "The Tree of Life."

Third prize was awarded Della MacMillan of Opelika, Ala., for "My Mother's Halo."

The three winning poems will be published in the "Rocky Mountain Poetry Quarterly."

The Society is now accepting entries in the Walt Whitman Memorial Contest, which closes April 20. Persons interested in having their poetry published in the Rocky Mountain Poetry Quarterly may contact the Society by writing to P.O. Box 512, Pueblo, Colo., 81002.

Police Beat Albums stolen

Local police spent another thankfully slow day, Tuesday.
Burglars broke through a window in the residence of Don F. Campbell, 607 Ayford, sometime between 6 and 10:30 p.m. Tuesday, and stole a combination stereo tape deck and two record albums. Loss was estimated at $315.
Richard Marcon, 712 Willia, believes he knows who stole his Snap-on tool box, sometime Monday night. The box was valued at $100.
An elderly woman drove into the Seven-Eleven Store at Eighth and Gregg, Tuesday night, filled up with $20.15 worth of regular gasoline, and drove off without paying.
While a car belonging to Ernest Rodriguez, 907 E.

16th, was parked at his place of work, Mr. Transmission, 421 E. 3rd, thieves stole all four of its tires. Loss has not been estimated.
Four girls, aged 13, 15, 16 and 17, who had been committed by the court to the Big Spring State Hospital, walked away, 10 o'clock Monday night. They are still at large.
Another walkaway, who had taken a leave of absence from the hospital Tuesday afternoon, turned himself in, 9 o'clock Tuesday night.
One mishap was reported Tuesday. An unattended moving vehicle belonging to Abe Austin, Route 1, struck a vehicle driven by Gregorio Villa, 400 N.E. 11th, in the parking lot of the Safeway Store, 1300 S. Gregg, 1:45 p.m.

Wrestling can be viewed five times weekly on TV

Jim Lancaster, owner-manager of Cable TV here, took note of the question projected in Tuesday's Action-Reaction section of the Herald, at which time a woman complained her favorite wrestling shows had been taken off the air.

Lancaster researched his files and what he found out about the abundance and variety of shows featuring wrestlers surprised even him.
According to Lancaster, wrestling can be seen on Cable TV at least five times weekly. He lists the shows thusly: Friday—Channel 13, 11:40 p.m.; Saturday—Channel 2, 11 a.m.; Channel 11, 5-6 p.m.; Channel 2—12 midnight; and Sunday—Channel 11, 5-6 p.m.

Aloe Vera benefits revealed to OES Past Matron's Club

Mae Hayden and Vera Gross were hostesses at a "Dutch Treat" dinner-meeting Tuesday evening for the Past Matrons' Club of Big Spring Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, in the El Matador Room of the Spanish Inn Restaurant.

Daughter is born

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, Austin, announce the birth of their daughter, Allison Kimberly, on Jan. 18. The infant made her debut weighing 9 pounds 5 ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Abbe, Big Spring. Mrs. Louis Martin, Austin, is Allison's paternal grandmother.

called for reports from Ortry Boatler, Sue Stripling, Mary Arnold Hefley, Ruth Pittman, Doris Mason and Pearl Ulrey.

Pyrlle Bradshaw reported on the West Texas Past Matrons' and Past Patrons' Association held in Lamesa. Bill Holmes, Past Grand Patron, Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star, was the installing officer at the dinner-meeting.

Holmes installed Lona Bradley as president; Pearl Mills as first vice president; A.M. Crowder as second vice president; Virginia Carter as secretary-treasurer; and Irene Shearer as chaplain.

Ina Richardson gave the program, "Aloe Vera." She told the members that the unassuming, waxy, green plant has received considerable attention in recent years.

Commonly referred to as the "burn plant" because of its unique ability to soothe and heal burns, aloe is characterized by its cluster of thick, saw-toothed leaves which hold a clear, cool gel.

The plant's reputation goes back to ancient times when aloe was highly respected as an "all purpose remedy" an antibiotic, astringent, complexion smoother, skin healer, stomach mender and pain reducer.

As far back as 1700 B.C., aloe vera was used both cosmetically and medicinally in its native regions of the Eastern Mediterranean and Northern Africa.

Aloe vera belongs to a large class of plants known as xeroids. The plant's most distinguishing characteristic, and the reason for the initial interest in aloe as a healing agent, is its ability to produce a gel that seals up a crack or puncture in its "skin" and allows the plant to heal itself.

With the advent of advanced medical and pharmaceutical technology, aloe appeared to be forgotten. It wasn't until 1935, when aloe vera reappeared as a successful treatment for radiation burns, that the herb began to regain its respected place as a health protector and skin care ingredient.

"Happy Birthday" was sung for Ortry Boatler, Virgie Dyer and Ann Russell.

Hostesses for the next meeting of the Big Spring Past Matrons' Club will be Ruth Pittman and Ortry Boatler on Feb. 10, 7 p.m. at the Spanish Inn.

Daughter's birth is announced

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Scoggin, Sterling City Rt., announce the birth of a daughter, Toni Danielle, on Dec. 22.

The infant made her debut weighing 6 pounds and measuring 17 1/4 inches in length.

Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Freeman, Canyon, are Toni's maternal grandparents. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Scoggin, Muleshoe.

Great-grandparents include Mrs. Alline Bell, Muleshoe; Violet Sutton, Canyon; and Lola Swinford, Alamogordo, N.M.

Welcoming their sister home were Stacey, 8; and Heather, 7.

TWEEN 12 and 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Three cheers for Julie

Teens: It's nice to start the new year with a wonderful story about a marvelous teen. Fourteen-year-old Julie Leiner of Eagan, Minn., was baby-sitting for little 8-month-old Victoria Marchetti when the baby stopped breathing.

Julie, acting quickly and with cool efficiency, revived young Victoria. Julie said she made use of instructions she received in a Red Cross course.

For the money, a good baby sitter is the best investment the parents of young children can possibly have.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a shy boy and I would like to address myself to all the girls "out there."

There are a lot of shy boys like me who would love to have the girl who would be the first move. I enjoy making a girl come up to me and start a conversation or even just say, "Hi. Do you agree with me?" — Vic, Seattle, Wash.

Vic: Yes, I do! OK, girls. If you have your eyes on that special guy and he is too shy to do anything about it, be a little bit assertive. You read what Vic had to say!

Dr. Wallace: Joe and I were going steady but we broke up about six months ago and he started seeing Sue. Well, it so happens that I met him at a party last week. I had a date and he was with Sue. I was shocked when I saw her. She is fat and ugly. I'm no Cheryl Tiegs but I've got more going for me than Sue ever will.

During the evening Joe and I sneaked outside together. We kissed and he told me that he still loved me and the only reason he was dating Sue is that her father owns a company and that he is making good money working for him.

Joe said he would call on Saturday but he never did. I thought that he might have forgotten my number so I called him. I asked if he remembered saying that he still loved me, and he said that he couldn't talk because someone was listening to him.

He said he would phone me soon. Two days have passed and no phone call. Please tell me what to do. I really love him. We are both 18. — Ella, London, Ontario, Canada.

Ella: I think Joe cares for Sue much more than he does you. Don't call him again and don't sit around waiting to hear from him. It might be a long wait.

If by chance you should see Joe again, don't get involved in a conversation. A simple, "Hi, it's nice to see you but I've got to run," will do nicely.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, Copy News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Abby

Bride's No Thank-You's Include Mother-in-Law

DEAR ABBY: Our son was married last June at a beautiful church wedding. He and his bride received many lovely wedding gifts. (There were over 300 guests.)

In September I started getting calls. "Did Wendy ever get our wedding present?" I mentioned this to Wendy, and she said she was waiting for her monogrammed stationery. I told her I'd be glad to buy her some appropriate stationery and even help her write the notes, but she said she was "too busy" getting settled, and she'd rather wait. (This girl is a college graduate.)

Come December, my friends were asking me if Wendy ever received their wedding gifts, so I wrote a "thank you" to everyone I knew had given them a gift. I signed Wendy's name, and mailed them off.

When I told her what I had done, Wendy was furious. Now my son isn't speaking to me. I really don't think I did such a terrible thing. Abby, what would you have done in my place?

MOTHER-IN-LAW

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and I'm in love with my teacher. He is 30 and married, and I know there is no hope for me, but I think about him night and day. (Especially night.)

I did a couple of dumb things, like copying his picture out of the yearbook for art class, and I also told some kids in school how I felt about him. Well, it must have gotten back to him, because now he avoids me and won't even look my way. Before this, he would smile at me and say hi.

I have written him a dozen letters but I've torn all of them up. I can't help how I feel. What should I do?

MISERABLE IN MALVERN, ARIZ.

DEAR MISERABLE: Don't do anything. Apparently your actions have already caused your teacher some embarrassment. You can't help how you "feel," but you can help how you behave.

CONFIDENTIAL TO A. IN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILL.: The late Lord Mountbatten wisely said: "Whenever you are doing nothing, you are doing wrong."

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Big Springers find a variety of ways to celebrate release

People in Big Spring have found a variety of ways to celebrate the homecoming of the 52 former American hostages, held in Iran for 444 days.

A community wide service of thanksgiving was held Tuesday evening in the First Methodist Church. Conducting the ceremony, which was attended by over 70 people, were Dr. Kenneth Patrick, First Baptist Church; the Rev. Bill Henning, First Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Victor Sedinger, First Christian Church; Father Bernard Gully, Immaculate Heart of Mary Church; Dr. Edwin Chappell, pastor of First United Methodist Church, and Jack Abendschan, also of First Methodist.

The Rev. Clayton Hicks, senior chaplain at the Veterans Administration Hospital, brought the message of thanksgiving.

Charles Parham, minister of music at First United Methodist, served as organist during the ceremony. The Chancel choir of First Methodist provided music.

Parham said that 52 candles were lit for the return of the hostages. Each candle had a yellow ribbon tied on it, he added.

Yellow ribbons were attached to the front doors of the church, also.

The congregation joined the choir in singing "God Bless America," at the end of the service.

Tom Balderach, acting chief of voluntary services at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, said VA is celebrating the return of the hostages with an Avenue of Flags.

The Avenue of Flags features 52 American flags displayed at the front of the VAMC complex.

Midland court

clerk jailed

MIDLAND—Sharon Gaye Teneyck, 22, a Midland municipal court clerk here, was jailed Monday after she was charged with official misconduct in connection with the disappearance of city money.

Peace Justice Robert Pine set bond at $50,000. A police official said Ms. Teneyck was arrested at the police department where she was employed by the municipal court.

Police Chief Wayne Gideon said cash collected from parking tickets and fines was missing but declined to say how much money remained unaccounted for.

Colorado City woman shot

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A 31-year-old Colorado City woman was shot just minutes after midnight Saturday.

According to Assistant Police Chief Jimmy Roundtree, officer and an ambulance answered the call and found that Helen Espinoza already had been taken to a local hospital suffering from wounds from a 20-gauge shotgun.

Officers contacted witnesses to determine the assailant and an APB was put out. Within minutes, a Mitchell County Sheriff's Deputy, Robert Bullock, had located the subject, Ramiro Lara of Colorado City, 26, who was taken into custody for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and placed in the Mitchell County jail.

Ms. Espinoza reportedly is in stable condition.

Newbury named president

SNYDER—Dr. Don Newbury, Director of Communications for the Tarrant County Junior College District in Fort Worth, has been named president of Western Texas College, effective April 1.

He will succeed Dr. Robert L. Clinton, who resigned to become Director of the Texas Public Community-Junior College Association, effective Feb. 1. Clinton had been president of the college since it was founded.

Newbury, 43, is a native of Brown County and received the Bachelor of Arts from Howard Payne University in 1961. He was named the university's Distinguished Alumnus in 1971.

He received the Master of Journalism from the University of Texas in Austin in 1966, and in 1973 was awarded the Ph.D. from North Texas State University with a major in Higher Education Administration.

Dr. and Mrs. Newbury have three daughters, Julie Anna, 10, Jana Dawn, 7, and Jeanie Carol, 5.

Newbury was a speaker at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce membership banquet several years ago and is well known in Big Spring.

Borden tabbed 'safe area'

GAIL — Disaster emergency plans being drawn up by the Texas Department of Public Safety define Borden County as a 'safe area' in event of nuclear attack on the United States, which means that it would serve as a 'host county' to receive evacuees from the Midland-Odessa area.

Jane Van Praag of Austin, state planner in nuclear civil protection, appeared before the Borden County Commissioners court recently to discuss the problems associated with such an evacuation.

Ms. Van Praag also distributed 34-page booklets entitled "Nuclear Civil Protection and Crisis Relocation Planning" to members of the commission and to the news media.

Ms. Van Praag said there are 33 probable target areas in Texas in case of nuclear attack, five of which are strategic military installations. She estimated it would cost an estimated $70 billion to provide adequate fallout shelters for the entire population in the United States.

As a host county, Borden residents would not be expected to take people from the target areas into their own homes, but could volunteer to do so. Instead, evacuees would be billeted in public and business buildings.

World of prairie dog---promiscuity and violence

By BARBARA S. MOFFET
National Geographic News Service
PRINCETON, N.J. — Dr. John Hoogland has spent seven seasons spying on prairie dogs and he's brimming over with gossip: Did you know that some female prairie dogs are promiscuous? Or that the average male prairie dog has two or three females he calls his own? And that these seemingly affectionate, congenial animals sometimes turn around and kill each other, possibly their own relatives?

Unlike most gossip, these tidbits are based on thorough research — thousands of hours of watching at a 16-acre black-tailed prairie dog colony at Wind Cave National Park in South Dakota. But this is news that not everyone relates to, Hoogland said, because many people don't even know the nature of the beast. Some think it's a dog.

"People in the East don't know a prairie dog from a coyote," said Hoogland, 31, an assistant professor at Princeton University.

Once he explains that prairie dogs are actually squirrels — relatives of the chipmunk, tree squirrel, and groundhog — people tend to dismiss them as mere rodents.

Hoogland himself hadn't expected rodents to be so complex. He knew before he began research that prairie dogs are among the most social mammals, living together by the thousands in colonies on the Great Plains that can cover hundreds of acres. Their colonies — known as towns — are extremely organized, divided into wards and then into family units called coterie. Each coterie has a male, a few females, and some babies.

He learned that prairie dogs constructed elaborate burrows to live in — labyrinthine dwellings with a chamber for almost every occasion. Using their paws and noses to pile up dirt, they add two dome-shaped doors to each burrow, one a bit higher than the other, to enhance ventilation.

A few minutes' observations revealed prairie dogs to be winsome animals, spending their days passively munching on grass around their burrows and chasing each other like kittens. Sometimes they even "kissed," a greeting that apparently is a sign of affection.

And they exhibited a whole range of sounds, from the so-called bark they uttered when alarmed, to the "jump-yip," a high-pitched, two-toned cry emitted with head thrown back and front paws in the air. They often seemed to jump-yip for no reason, one usually followed by a response from another prairie dog until there was a chorus of jump-yipping.

Hoogland even had a hint of prairie dog hostility — occasional savage fighting and something called the anal display. In this behavior, which often occurs when a prairie dog intrudes in a foreign coterie, the agitated animal's tail flares, its anal glands inflame, and its teeth chatter loudly.

But after so many seasons of observing a colony of 200 animals, each one marked with a dyed number for identification, Hoogland has found that prairie dogs live by a well-defined social code he had not imagined. His research is supported by the National Geographic Society and the National Science Foundation.

He has concluded, for instance, that they are strongly nepotistic, looking out for their own relatives but apathetic about the fate of the prairie dogs in the next-door coterie.

Hours of recorded friendly interactions — such as kissing, playing, and grooming each other — versus unfriendly actions such as fighting and anal displays showed relatives to be helpful and kind toward each other and non-relatives to be generally uncooperative. And prairie dogs without relatives are less likely to sound an alarm call when a predator is nearby, he found.

Hoogland also found that the animals seem to avoid incest. While all females stay for life in their native coterie territories, almost all males leave the safety of the coterie for another one after their first year. This apparently happens, the scientist said, so they can avoid mating with their relatives.

If they are not incestuous, prairie dogs are definitely promiscuous. Each male Hoogland studied mated with more than one of the females in his coterie, and 30 to 40 percent of the females mated with more than one male.

This infidelity raises questions, Hoogland said, such as: When a female has gone out and mated with another male, why should her own male allow her back in the coterie? Can he tell his own offspring from those of another male?

Hoogland says prairie dogs are beginning to remind him of another supposedly more advanced species.

"People like to think we're unique... but a lot of what we do is probably done by many other animals we don't have the relevant data for," he said. "Here's a lowly rodent that is nepotistic, avoids incest, and is adulterous."

Finding out who is mating with whom hasn't been easy. Unlike most prairie dog behavior, mating takes place underground in the burrow. But such records are critical, Hoogland points out, in drawing conclusions about nepotism, incest, and promiscuity.

Robinson girls on honor lists

Tammi and Pam Robinson, daughter of Mac and Lorita Robinson of Beeville, Tex., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Overton of Forsan and Mr. and Mrs. Woner Robinson of Route 1, have been included on the Dean's List for the fall semester at Baylor University in Waco.

Tammi, a junior, made the Dean's Distinguished Academic Honor List. To qualify for this list, a student must maintain a grade average of between 3.8 and 4.0 while taking at least 15 hours of work.

Pam, a freshman, was included on the Dean's Academic Honor List. Grade averages of between 3.6 and 3.8 are required to rate this classification. Such students must also take at least 15 semester hours to qualify.

Enrollment increases at SWCID

Enrollment at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf has almost doubled for the spring semester compared to fall enrollment, according to officials at SWCID.

SWCID now has 49 students enrolled, an increase of 22 students above the fall enrollment.

About half of the new students are from Texas, and the other half from out of state, according to Jeff Davis, director of admissions.

"Many of the new students heard about SWCID through our fall tours," Davis said, referring to recruiting trips conducted by Davis and the SWCID staff last fall.

Davis said his department has received more than 1,500 formal requests for admission applications since SWCID opened Aug. 25, 1980.

"We're not surprised by the response. We are expecting more," Davis said last week.

He said the number of students accepted for the fall 1981 semester will be about 150 to 300, depending upon the number of students SWCID can serve.

SWCID is one of the only three colleges for the deaf in the world.
