Hearing held in Iran for American writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said today it has been told that Cynthia Dwyer, an American free-lance journalist who has been under arrest in Iran since May, was given a hearing in Iran, but not a trial.

William Dyess, the State Department spokesman, said information received here didn't confirm reports from Swiss officials in Switzerland that Mrs. Dwyer was tried on espionage charges and would be sentenced on Monday.

"We are not aware of any specific charges," said Dyess. He said the Swiss informed the United States that there may be "a disposition" of the case next week.

Dyess also announced that a second American citizen, Mohi Sobhani, who had been in Iranian custody, apparently was released today. He said the information came from Sobhani's brother in Los Angeles.

Dyess said he didn't know whether Sobhani, an Iranian-born naturalized U.S. citizen, had been charged with any crime. Sobhani, 44, worked in Iran as a computer technician for Rockwell International. He was said to have been arrested on Sept. 6 at Tehran airport when he was about to leave the country with his family.

Dyess said he had no new information on a third U.S. citizen in Iranian custody, Zia Nassri, an Afghan-born naturalized citizen. Little information is available about Nassri.

Mrs. Dwyer, 49, of Amherst, N.Y., near Buffalo, had gone to Iran last April as a free-lance journalist. She was arrested on May 5 by revolutionary guards and later accused of spying for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, although she was apparently not formally charged.

In Berne, Switzerland, officials reported that Mrs. Dwyer was tried today by an Iranian Revolutionary Court on espionage charges.

But Dyess said of that report, "Our information is different." He added, "We understand from the Swiss there was a hearing earlier today."

Referring to the case, he said the United States "will be very pleased if it can be disposed of in a satisfactory manner."

A Swiss diplomat reported that a verdict was expected Monday. The diplomat did not provide details of the one-day trial in Tehran but said Mrs. Dwyer appeared "nervous but in good condition."

Dyess confirmed that a Swiss representative had been at the hearing.

In other pending cases in Iran, the head of the Iranian Supreme Court said today that the fate of four Britons held captive for several months will be decided "in a few days."

Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti told a news conference in Iran that an investigation had been completed in the cases of the Britons, three Anglican missionaries and a businessman.

They are John Cleman and his wife Audrey, who ran a medical clinic in Yezd, south of Tehran, Jean Waddell, secretary to the Anglican bishop of Isfahan, and businessman Andrew Pyke.

'Hot potato' passed to House

Sen. Farabee's parole board reorganization bill advances

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The legislative hot potato of reorganizing the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles Board is in the House now.

Senators passed on voice vote Tuesday the measure aimed at ending bickering among those who recommend clemency for state prison inmates.

"This is the heart of the governor's anti-crime program," said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, author of the measure.

The administration of the pardons and parole system presently is made up of a three-member board plus six parole commissioners, appointed equally by the governor, the chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court and the chief judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The governor has the final say on all pardons and paroles, after receiving recommendations from the board and parole commissioners.

In recent months there has been a continuing controversy about the large number of parole recommendations turned down by Gov. Bill Clements.

SEN. RAY FARABEE

Farabee explained his bill would make the six parole commissioners regular state employees controlled by the board, instead of appointed officials, subject to senate confirmation. The governor would have a new power of selecting the chairman and vice chairman of the three-member board.

He said the bill also provided authorization to spend $4.5 million the next two years for halfway houses where prison inmates nearing the end of their terms could be eased back into civilian life.

"In the past there have been controversies and it was difficult to know who was boss, who was in charge," Farabee said. "This really is an attempt to clarify the responsibilities of the commissioners, it will not take away their power."

He said a special provision retains the parole commissioners' independence with their votes counting equally with those on the board in considering a parole action.

"I wonder if we are just treating the symptom instead of the cause," said Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, in discussing the numerous parole rejections by Clements.

Farabee said a similar unsuccessful transfer effort two years ago was estimated to cost $7 million.

Claims shooting was unintentional

Vickie Daniel pleads innocent to charges of murdering husband

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — A composed Vickie Daniel, saying she did not intend to shoot her husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., pleaded innocent today to a murder charge.

The 33-year-old mother of three answered "not guilty" in a soft voice when asked by State District Judge Clarence Cain how she pleaded at her arraignment.

Cain scheduled a March 20 hearing to consider pretrial motions.

Wearing the same Navy blue suit she wore at her husband's funeral Jan. 21, Mrs. Daniel told reporters "I did not intentionally shoot my husband."

She was accompanied by her lawyer, Andrew Lannie of Baytown, Mrs. Lannie, and one of her sisters, who she would not identify.

Mrs. Daniel said she had been staying with relatives since the shooting Jan. 12 at the couple's fashionable Liberty home. Daniel, 39, was shot once in the stomach with a .22 caliber rifle. Another shot went through the ceiling, said Sheriff C.L. Eckols.

Lannie said he wanted a change of venue because of the prominence of the Daniel family in Liberty.

Daniel's father, Price Daniel Sr., is a former speaker of the Texas House, Texas attorney general, governor, U.S. senator, and Texas Supreme Court justice. The elder Daniel resides in Austin but still maintains his home at the Daniel ranch.

Lannie also has said he will waive the right to a speedy trial. Without such action, the trial, under state law would have to begin within 120 days of the indictment date.

Wilborn maintains Mrs. Daniel, who filed for divorce on Dec. 31, knowingly and intentionally murdered her husband.

However, Lannie said an altercation preceded the shooting and that part of it was witnessed by 12-year-old Kimberly Moore, Mrs. Daniel's daughter by an earlier marriage.

Mrs. Daniel, who was hospitalized for shock and hysteria immediately after the slaying, was charged with murder on Jan. 24 and indicted four days later.

LONG JOURNEY ENDS IN ARREST — Illegal aliens wait at the Alexander Avenue station in Bronx, N.Y. for officials of the Immigration Service to come for them Tuesday. Jury in Garwood trial beginning deliberations

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — A jury of five Marine officers, all veterans of Vietnam, today began deliberating charges that Pfc. Robert Garwood collaborated with his captors during almost 14 years in Vietnam and assaulted a fellow prisoner of war.

The jury began considering the charges at 9:30 a.m. after hearing 17 pages of instructions by military judge Col. R.E. Switzer.

Switzer said the jury may find Garwood innocent of the charges if it believes defense claims that the 34-year-old Indiana native was mentally ill during the period of his captivity and could not distinguish between right and wrong.

Garwood could face life imprisonment if he is convicted.

Switzer detailed the charges in his instructions to the jury, saying Garwood is accused of "holding intercourse" with the Vietnamese by wearing their uniform, carrying arms and accepting a position in their army, acting as an interpreter during political indoctrination classes in POW camps, acting as an informer concerning prisoners' complaints, questioning POWs about military units and attitudes, teaching them Vietnamese, suggested they "cross over" to the other side, and acting as an armed guard.

The other charge accuses Garwood of maltreating Army Pfc. David N. Harker by striking him in the ribs with his hands without justifiable cause.

Under military regulations, only one vote need be taken during deliberations, and four of the five Marine officers on the jury must agree in order to return a guilty verdict.

Garwood, an Indianapolis native, was a teen-age jeep driver when he was captured in 1965 near Da Nang. He returned home in 1979 after passing a note to a Finnish businessman in Hanoi.

Charges of desertion and verbally abusing a fellow POW were dismissed last week.

The 11-week court-martial — the only one to involve alleged collaboration by a POW in Vietnam — was widely regarded as a test of the U.S. military's code of conduct requiring captives to resist.

Former hostage Royer says some Americans shunned chance to escape from militants HOUSTON (AP) — Four Americans shunned a chance to escape from militants who overran the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and barricaded themselves inside a nearby building to relay information about the takeover to Washington, former hostage William B. Royer Jr. said.

Royer, Kathryn Koob and two other International Communications Agency employees established a telephone link with the State Department and forwarded information gleaned from a Swiss diplomat until they were forced to surrender a day later, Royer said Tuesday.

"We perhaps hung on too long," said Royer, 49. He said about 25 militants surrounded the cultural center 24 hours after the Nov. 4, 1979 takeover and "We had no recourse to surrender."

Recuperating from a virus he called "the departing gift of the Ayatollah Khomeini," Royer met with reporters "for the first and last time" Tuesday to discuss his 443 days of captivity.

Royer said the hostages usually received news of significant events, such as efforts to negotiate their release, through coded messages in letters from home. It was that way, he said, that the hostages learned about the aborted rescue mission that cost eight American lives.

"One roommate wrote home and said that what he really wanted to see was Curtis LeMay stoneware (bombs)," Royer said. "He later received a letter from his family that they attempted to buy some LeMay stoneware but that eight place settings were destroyed in the process."

Royer said other tidbits of news came from the few publications the Iranians allowed them to read. He said the hostages learned last September of the death of the Shah of Iran through a small insert in an edition of The Sporting News.

"It was in the Aug. 12 issue, I believe, that had an insert about a televised game being cancelled to allow a special to be aired. And in parentheses was the name of program — 'The Death of the Shah,'" Royer said.

"That was the first knowledge that the shah was dead and we knew that bargaining ploy was no longer valid," he said.

Royer said he tried to ignore the psychological games the students played. At the same time, he said, the hostages tried to play "mind games" on the militants.

"We hoped to achieve the same psychological affect they hoped to have," he said. "We'd tell them that they weren't doing their country any good, that they weren't going to get what they wanted and they were only hurting their country," he said.

"As we got word about the country's economic troubles and the war with Iraq, we felt sure the students were beginning to sense this," he said.

Royer said unlike other hostages he was not physically harmed by his captors, but he said his anger and frustration briefly surfaced in the form of a back pain that often made breathing difficult.

Royer said the government's decompression program in Weisbaden, West Germany, "made all the difference to me in adjusting to the whole situation."

Check trees, shrubs before applying dormant oil sprays

By DAVID G. FOSTER
Extension Agent,
Entomology
Martin, Howard, Glasscock,
Upton and Reagan Counties

Avoid getting dormant oil on tree roots.

Dormant oil sprays of about 4 percent strength may be used on deciduous trees in late winter for control of scale insects. Check the LABEL on a dormant oil container for specific instructions on mixing and applying a dormant oil spray. Oils are increasingly effective as the temperatures become warmer in the spring and insect metabolism resumes more activity.

Since oil and water does not mix naturally, an emulsifier is dissolved in the oil concentrate to make it miscible with water. Before spraying, each bath of spray should be checked for miscibility. The spray should be a milky color. If any oil fails to emulsify in water it should not be used.

When mixing and applying dormant oils, extreme care should be taken to use only the recommended amounts listed on the LABEL of the dormant oil container. Check the label for plants that are sensitive to oil sprays. Good spray coverage of treated plants is essential but avoid excessive spray applications.

Check deciduous trees and shrubs for scale insect infestations before applying dormant oils.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas

Dormant deciduous trees and shrubs in West Texas should be checked for scale insect infestations before applying dormant oil applications this winter. Dormant oil sprays are used to control most scale insect; certain aphids on deciduous trees and shrubs. A dormant oil application would be of little benefit if a treated deciduous tree or shrub was not harboring a moderate to heavy scale insect infestation.

Scale insects are among the most harmful of plant-feeding insects. Most scale insects are very small and have a hard, waxy, scalelike covering over their bodies. They often appear in large numbers and may weaken or kill a plant by sucking out its juices.

A dormant oil may be used anytime in the dormant season. Best results have been obtained when it is used in late winter or early spring just before the buds break and begin to grow. If applied after the buds break foliage burn may occur.

Dormant oils should be applied when the temperature is between 40 and 65 degrees F (4 and 18 degrees C). Freezing weather should be avoided within 12 hours after applying dormant oils.

Check deciduous trees and shrubs for scale insect infestations before applying dormant oils.

East Texas man climbs CIA leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a name like Bobby Ray, he could have been the star wide receiver on a Texas high school football team or the country plowboy who rose to become president of the local bank.

But Bobby Ray Inman, who came out of a small East Texas town, is considered by many to be America's master spy.

After nearly four years as director of the National Security Agency, Inman will be deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency. The Senate Intelligence Committee Tuesday approved his nomination by President Reagan and sent the appointment to the full Senate for confirmation.

In addition, the Senate Armed Services Committee chaired by Texas Sen. John Tower has approved Inman's promotion to the rank of full admiral. At 49, Inman will become one of the youngest four-star admirals in Navy history.

His spying has not been of the cloak and dagger variety. Instead, Inman's rise to the top of the nation's intelligence community has been based upon intelligence analysis, depending heavily on the technological, less glamorized tools of spying such as satellites, microwave stations and computers.

Born in the Upshur County town of Rhoadsboro, about 100 miles east of Dallas and educated at the University of Texas at Austin, Inman has spent 28 years in the Navy, most of it in intelligence roles.

During his tenure, he has developed a reputation as a straight shooter, a man who doesn't hedge, Intelligence Committee members said. They repeatedly referred to him as the best witness to appear before the panel in its closed-door briefings.

With a secret budget estimated at $2 billion a year, Inman ran an agency larger than the CIA. Its mission included breaking enemy codes, developing unbreakable codes for U.S. intelligence agencies, and monitoring, translating and analyzing worldwide communications among nations, foreign citizens and some corporations.

The headquarters of the National Security Agency is on the grounds of Fort George Meade near Washington but it has a network of facilities and employees around the world.

As deputy director of the CIA, Inman will be the right hand man of CIA director William J. Casey.

Inman says his talks with his boss-to-be have indicated he will be responsible for community affairs, budget matters and resource allocation. Casey will oversee covert operations and the collection and production of intelligence.

The Intelligence Committee is accustomed to meeting in secret, so the senators were guarded and general in their questioning of Inman. Inman was equally discreet in his responses.

He says the most significant problem facing the CIA is a lack of manpower. While technological advances have helped, he said, there are no substitutes for intelligence analysts who know the ins and outs of the countries for which they are responsible.

Mills named BBB chairman

Carvel Mills of Midland has replaced Grace King as chairman of the board of the Better Business Bureau of the Permian Basin.

Mills has been in the insurance business since March, 1956. Among industry honors he has won are Life and Qualifying Member, Million Dollar Roundtable and the National Quality Award.

In 1966, Mills was selected as the Midland Association of Life Underwriters' Life Underwriter of the year. In 1970, he received the Chartered Life Underwriter designation.

Mills will serve as BBB chairman through Dec. 31, 1981.

Bentsen wants to limit Japanese auto imports

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Texas Democrat and longtime free-trader, Tuesday co-sponsored "with reluctance" a bill to restrict Japanese imports for the next three years to help save the faltering American auto industry.

Describing the domestic car business that last year lost $4 billion as possibly a "patient beyond surviving — comatose," Bentsen recommended holding imports to 1.5 million cars a year in a bill sponsored with Sen. Jack Danforth, R-Mo.

"I think the situation is extraordinary and as a free-trader it is with reluctance that I go to quotas," Bentsen said. "But it is this kind of a crisis."

He said in recent months other nations have put up quotas against imports and yet Japanese factories are working overtime and spending billions on increased production.

"It is obvious, the U.S. will be recipient of that increased production," he said. "We've become the dumping ground for this extra production that other countries will not take."

build smaller, gas efficient automobiles, he said.

Japanese imports since 1979 have doubled from nearly 1 million to 2 million cars. At the same time domestic sales have dropped from 8.6 million to 6.6 million.

Bentsen said he himself took part in the foreign car boom — buying a Mercedes (German) in 1976, but added he would buy an American car when he traded it in.

Bentsen said 200,000 people are out of work in the auto industry, impacting one out of four workers in this country. Estimates are that retooling to build new cars will cost $8 billion over the next five years.

"If you lose the American automobile industry, taxpayers will end up picking up much of the tab in unemployment compensation and relocation of families in some of the cities in dire financial straits themselves," he said.

Bentsen said the Reagan administration is "intensely interested" in some solution to the automobile situation. While President Reagan has not endorsed the bill, Bentsen said the measure "helps put the Japanese government on notice and may be an assist in bargaining."

Bentsen said that the Japanese have "nontariff barriers," inspection and transportation costs that drive up the price of American cars in Japan to twice the U.S. cost.

"In the long run it helps on fuel efficiency and quality of American cars because it gives us time to buy all of the expensive equipment to build costly plants to build our cars as efficiently as the Japanese are now doing."

He said that although the bill may not stave off further Chrysler financial loans this spring, the quota bill would make it easier for the automaker to get private, longterm loans.

"I think the American consumer should have a wide variety in everything he buys but unless some action with this is taken we won't have a choice of buying a Ford or Chrysler — as far as a domestic car it will be down to a General Motors," Bentsen said.

Danforth, who last month chaired three days of subcommittee hearings on U.S. auto industry troubles, said the quotas may mean higher prices for cars.

"It is simply a price to be paid to maintain the American auto industry," he said.

Danforth and Bentsen said they do not consider their bill a cure-all for domestic auto industry ills.

Gunmen slay white British missionaries in Zimbabwe

LONDON (AP) — Armed intruders murdered two British missionaries to Zimbabwe in their home Tuesday night, a spokesman for their church said here today.

The couple, Donald and Ann Lale of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, were attacked at their missionary station in Inyazura, 125 miles southeast of Salisbury, the spokesman said.

The two black gunmen reportedly told other staff the killings were in revenge for the recent South African raid on Mozambique.

"They didn't stand a chance," said Maurice Musgrave, British treasurer of the church.

He said Mrs. Lale was shot twice and her husband, who survived the initial attack, was slain as he tried to crawl to a telephone.

"Mr. Lale managed to crawl over to the school on the mission, 100 yards from their home, in an effort to raise the alarm. They saw him and returned to finish him off."

News of the incident came in a telephone call from the missionary station after the attack. The Lales, both in their mid-40s, had two sons. The elder son, Timothy, 17, is in school in England. The younger boy, Andrew, 14, was not at home during the attack Tuesday night, the spokesman said.

The family had been in Zimbabwe for about 15 years, the church reported.

The Seventh Day Adventist Church has more than 200 congregations in Britain and 14,000 members. Its missionaries are sent all over the world.

Dear Abby

Hostage to His Body Finds Welcome Relief

DEAR ABBY: Nearly three years ago, I saw a letter in your column from a man who was tormented and frustrated because he had always felt that he should have been a woman. He said he was not a homosexual, but he felt like a woman with a man's body.

You advised him to contact the Janus Information Facility for legitimate, enlightening literature concerning this condition.

Abby, since I also had those feelings, I wrote for the literature, and was put in touch with doctors who studied my case. After much soul-searching, I know now that I am a transsexual.

I am now living happily as a woman. I was scheduled for a sex-change operation at Johns Hopkins, but that type of operation is no longer performed there because the surgeons who specialized in it left for other hospitals, so I am going to Cleveland.

Abby, had it not been for your column, I wouldn't have known where to turn. I was so miserable I was on the verge of suicide!

Please advise others with this problem to get help through a legitimate source as I did. And make it plain that not everyone who thinks he wants to be of the other sex is a candidate for a sex-change operation. Before surgery is permitted, the doctors make sure the person is a true transsexual for whom surgery is the only answer.

Thank you for saving my life.

GERI

DEAR GERI: I'm glad you wrote. Anyone interested in up-to-date literature concerning transsexualism may write to Dr. Paul Walker, 1952 Union St., San Francisco, Calif. 94123. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed long envelope for a reply.

DEAR ABBY: Isn't it a pity that wigs for men aren't as acceptable to society as wigs for women? Women today can wear wigs without encountering any snide remarks. Not so for men.

If society were to wholeheartedly endorse wigs for men, it would not only be a bonanza for the economy, it would be a big boost for the balding man's ego. I would appreciate your comments.

MOTHER OF A BALDING SON

DEAR MOTHER: Hairpieces or toupees (please, not "wigs") are big business today. There are any number of men who wear them and joke about it publicly. Of course, there are many who wear them quietly. (Some hairpieces look so natural they aren't detectable.)

How a man feels about himself is far more important than how "society" perceives him. There are a lot of men out there who have lost no sleep over lost hair. A pox on "society."

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from NO COMPLIMENTS, I just had to write.

For 40 years I was married to a man very much like her husband. He was not a giver of compliments either, but if I had a new dress or hairdo, or did something special for him, all I had to do was look at him, and the things he would say were written on his face.

So many men are full of baloney, they find it easy to dish out compliments but can't wait to get out from under their wives' eyes to try their charms somewhere else.

So I hope NO COMPLIMENTS will be content and appreciate the good and faithful man she has. Why worry about the tinsel topping when you know there's pure gold underneath?

WIDOW OF A GOOD MAN

DEAR WIDOW: Well said.

Western Drifters plan Cloudcroft campout in June

The Western Drifters Chapter of the Good Sam Clubs had their regular monthly campout at Florey Park, Andrews, the third weekend of January. It was hosted by the Vern Vigers and Milton Browns. Thirteen rigs were represented with Sheryl Gray and the Vernon Gambles as guests.

A fish fry was enjoyed with Phillip & Faye Gressett, Buddy Marshall, wagon master, announced plans for a campout in Fir camp at Cloudcroft for June.

Fifteen rigs were represented at the business meeting held at the Flame Room. The Martin Landers were welcomed as new members. With the popularity of camping increasing, it is becoming more difficult to make reservations on short notice. Therefore, many reservations for the coming year have already been secured. It has become necessary to limit club membership to 35 rigs because of the growth of the club and the size of facilities available.

A letter was received from the administrator of Mountain View Nursing Home expressing appreciation to the club for making more than 90 aprons for the patients to wear at mealtimes. Utility accessories were also contributed that fold over the wheel chair arm to hold personal items of the wheel chair patients.

Reports of Christmas campouts were given as well as reports of members who are ill. It was learned that Phillip Gressett's mother had passed away and the club extends heartfelt sympathy to him and his family.

The February campout will be held at Andrews the 3rd weekend hosted by the Danny Wrights and Buddy Marshalls.

THE DALLAS BALLET will perform in the Permian Basin area for the first time Friday night, when they appear at Midland Lee High School at 8:00 for a performance of "Rhythmtron." Tickets will be on sale at the door beginning at 7 p.m. Friday evening, or call (915) 682-9361. Single admission tickets are $2, $6.50, and $10. (Photo courtesy of Dallas Ballet)

TWEEN 12 and 20

For girls only

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Girls' Breaking up with a boyfriend is hard to do. It hurts. And sometimes it feels like the worst thing that's ever happened to you.

But there is a dignified way to survive a breakup and an undignified way, says writer Anita Shreve. Doing it with class can do wonders for your self-esteem.

Psychologists tell us we should express our feelings. This is sound advice. It is also sound advice not to overdo it.

"Better to leave him wondering if he hasn't made some terrible mistake, thinking you're really one heck of a gal, than — after he's finally untangled himself from your clutches — sighing with relief: 'Whew, I'm glad that's over!'" says Shreve.

"Sure, you can ask him why. Sure, you can talk it over, but when the end is really there, accept the situation.

"The body may react to sudden loss by grieving, but it's unusual for these symptoms to continue," says Dr. Janet Kennedy, clinical professor of psychiatry at New York University College of Medicine. "It's not the kind of pain usually associated with illness," says Kennedy. "It is only when we deny the grief and the anger that follow a breakup that we may experience symptoms such as loss of appetite or ulcers.

Kennedy suggests that the best way to cope with severe loss is to let go emotionally. Wail, cry, grieve all you want. Get it all out of your system, and don't try to be cool about it. Only then will you be able to accept the loss and truly begin to recover.

"It's especially important," Kennedy says, "not to draw permanent conclusions from the breakup. Don't be afraid to get emotionally involved with someone else later, just because it didn't work out this time."

But when you do, make sure the mistakes made in past relationships stay in the past.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent, stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

HANDING OVER KEYS TO PLANT Myrph Havins (L), Ray McCoy

Manager of Gandy's Dairies plant retires

SAN ANGELO — A.F. (Squirrel) Williams, general manager of Gandy's Dairies, has announced the retirement of longtime employee, Myrph Havins.

Havins has been plant manager in charge of all production for the dairy which processes more than 50,000 gallons of milk and milk products daily for distribution to 64 West Texas counties.

Williams has named Ray S. McCoy to succeed Havins as plant manager in charge of production and said, "We are indeed fortunate to have someone with Ray's qualifications to move into this most important position. His experience and knowledge of our quality control standards will enable us to maintain the fine dairy products for which we are known."

Havins, a native of Robert Lee, began his employment with Gandy's in 1937 as a bottle washer and progressed to a milk bottler and then into ice cream production. In 1948 he was named supervisor of Gandy's ice cream plant, a position he held until 1973 when he was named plant manager in charge of all production.

Havins now intends to relax and enjoy a bit of travel and golf with his wife, Nita. He plans to stay active in civic affairs and is a member and past president of the East Angelo Lions Club and is Deputy District Governor of the Lions International. He is also chairman of the Concho Valley Chapter of Mysthenia Gravis Foundation. Havins and his wife are members of the United Methodist Church and have five grown children.

Ray McCoy began his career with Gandy's in 1973 as a milk receiver after graduation from San Angelo's Central High School. He held several positions with the dairy while attending Angelo State University and worked during the summer and holiday periods for Gandy's while attending Texas A&M.

McCoy was graduated from A&M in 1977 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Dairy Science and is currently enrolled in post graduate courses at ASU obtaining an MBA in management. For the past two and one half years, McCoy has been Gandy's plant superintendent in charge of production personnel, products, machine schedules and supervision.

McCoy is a member of the East Angelo Lions Club and has held several offices of that organization. He and his wife, Cynthia, have two children, Jennifer Rae, age 3 and Garrett Scott, 6 months. They are members of Trinity Lutheran Church.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials on both ends of the federal funding and receiving — predict the deep budget cuts sought by President Reagan will inflict political pain on Congress and economic suffering on Americans.

Among the targets reported under consideration by Reagan budget-cutters are such politically popular programs as Social Security, food stamps, child nutrition and economic aid to farmers and cities.

"We begin what may well turn out to be the most painful political process through which any of us will ever go," Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., said Tuesday as the House Budget Committee he heads began studying its own list of potential program cutbacks.

At the White House, meanwhile, big-city mayors received the bad news from Reagan about his plans for sharp reductions in urban aid. New York Mayor Edward Koch said the president promised "those who are truly in need will not be asked to suffer, but all others, hopefully, will suffer equally."

Reagan, who must persuade a reticent Congress to support the reductions, was to meet with congressional leaders in the Capitol this afternoon to discuss his economic proposals.

The president also plans to make a televised address to the nation Thursday night to spell out his general view of the economy's problems and why his proposed cures are necessary to lower inflation and unemployment and restore healthy economic growth. He is to submit a package of tax cuts, offsetting budget reductions and regulatory changes to Congress Feb. 18.

Getting Congress to enact the budget cuts, however, will not be easy. Jones said as the Budget Committee reviewed 105 suggestions from congressional economists on how to prune billions of dollars from the budget.

"We leave behind the easy talk and get down in the trenches with 105 specific items, every one of which will do some damage to some people somewhere," he said.

Black leaders in Congress, who met with Reagan Tuesday, emerged from their White House meeting saying they feared Reagan's budget cuts will come down hardest on their constituency.

"We told the president we are gravely concerned that policies devised to rein in inflation do not disproportionately burden the poor, the elderly and moderate income people," said Rep.

Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C., chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus.

Even as the administration worked on its spending cut proposals, Reagan's chief economic spokesman urged Congress Tuesday to raise the national debt limit by $50 billion to finance the current budget deficit.

The House Ways and Means Committee voted to raise the debt ceiling from $935 billion to $985 billion after Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan and budget director David A. Stockman said the government would reach the current limit in only a few days. Without an increase, the government then would lose its borrowing authority.

Stockman, who consistently voted against raising the debt limit during his four years as a Republican House member from Michigan, said he had no choice but to seek an increase now because "the bills are coming due and they must be paid."

"I voted against those debt-ceiling bills (in the past) because I had no confidence anybody was developing a plan to control spending," he said. "I have confidence that such a plan is being developed now because I am writing it."

Reagan is setting his sights on reducing the 1981 budget at least 2 percent, or about $13 billion from a total of $663 billion in estimated spending.

For 1982, Reagan's economic advisers are looking to eliminate between $35 billion and $40 billion from a $739 billion budget proposed by the Carter administration, congressional sources said.

A list of potential cuts drawn up by Stockman and circulated through Congress suggests major reductions in a variety of aid programs.

The proposals include eliminating Social Security survivor benefits for college-age students and reducing Social Security disability payments, cutting federal funds for state-run Medicaid programs, tightening rules covering import-related and extended unemployment benefits, phasing out federally subsidized public service jobs and reducing food stamp benefits and child nutrition programs.

Stockman's proposals also include cuts in farmer loan programs, economic development aid for depressed inner cities, billion-dollar grants for synthetic-fuel plant construction and aid for the arts and humanities.

The 13 mayors who lunched with Reagan said the president also wants to allocate aid to economically depressed cities through general block grants rather than direct financing of specific projects.

The mayors said they feared the result would be increased competition for less overall money.

"There are going to be cuts," said Houston Mayor Jim McConn. "They will be as equal and even as possible, but I believe the message I got was that they will not be as even as maybe some of us would hope."

Block may give farmers more time to repay support loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says he may give farmers more time to pay off government price-support loans on corn stored in the reserve program.

The loans, at the current rate of $2.40 a bushel, involve 994.2 million bushels of corn in the reserve's inventory as of Jan. 30.

Block says if the loans are extended, farmers will have to pay interest for the additional time. There is no interest now on loans for grain in the reserve.

The program provides that the loans be repaid after market prices reach a specified "call" level or else the grain must be turned over to the government.

A group of American Agriculture Movement leaders meeting here Monday told Block that farmers are worried about the depressing market effects the loan call is having. He was asked about measures that could be taken, including an extension of the 90-day period farmers have to repay the loans.

"I'm looking at the possibility of maybe extending it for 30 days or something like that," Block said.

If so, the loans would carry an interest rate of 14 percent or 15 percent, he said, "but at least it (the grain) wouldn't be dumped" all at once.

There are actually three separate but related programs called Reserve I, II and III. A price formula applies in each of the reserves.

Loans for about 15 million bushels of corn in Reserve I were called last fall and those will be due Feb. 9.

The much larger amount — involving around 980 million bushels, based on the Jan. 30 inventory — will be due April 15 for corn stored in Reserve II and III.

Department officials announced Dec. 30 that loans would be called on the remaining 665 million bushels of corn in the reserve.

Official notices were sent Jan. 16, meaning the 90-day period will be up April 15.

Many farmers, meanwhile, saw an opportunity to get interest-free loans on corn and, according to the figures, deposited more than 300 million bushels in the program after Dec. 30. The loans will have to be repaid within 90 days, but for that period the money is interest-free.

The outlook for soybean farmers still is hard to pin down, largely because of uncertainties about the current crops in Brazil and Argentina, the Agriculture Department says.

"Soaring interest rates and weakening demand prospects in early December contributed to sharp price declines for soybeans and soybean products," a new outlook report said Monday.

Average prices received by farmers for soybeans dropped from $8.18 a bushel in November to $7.26 in December, although they "remained more than $1 above last season's levels," the report said.

For the full marketing year that began last Sept. 1, the U.S. farm price of soybeans is expected to average about $7.90 a bushel, compared with $6.28 in 1979-80.

"Prices are expected to remain volatile throughout the remainder of the crop year and will be influenced by the size of the South American crop and acreage and yield prospects for the U.S. crop to be planted this spring," the report said.

Soybean supplies this season are forecast to be 14 percent larger in Brazil and 8 percent larger in Argentina, the report said.

Production of American cheese gained 8 percent last year, totaling more than 2.35 billion pounds against 2.19 billion in 1979.

Foreign interest ceiling may hurt Texas borrowers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Senate bill allowing banks to charge a maximum 30 percent interest on loans to foreigners will hurt Texas borrowers, opponents say.

The Senate Economic Development Committee passed the measure, sponsored by Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, by a 6-1 vote Monday and sent it on to the Senate for debate.

The bill applies to non-resident, alien people and to businesses "not organized under the laws of the United States or one of its states."

Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, said after the meeting he opposed considering foreign borrowers when the Legislature has not acted on state interest rates.

"We haven't even considered the Texan, and this bill is concerned about foreigners," he said. "It's totally improper and out of order to do it now. It's the cart before the horse."

"Obviously, interest rates and usury limits are going to be one of the biggest issues in the session. But it's ridiculous not to tackle our own problems first," Wilson said.

"I'm not particularly concerned about foreigners being able to borrow money. I'm worried about Texans and their ability to borrow," he said. "If you ask people who want mortgage loans and car loans and business loans here, it's obvious there's not enough capital to go around. This might encourage banks to take care of foreigners first."

Jim Hightower, president of the Texas Consumers Association, agreed.

"This encourages lending to out-of-country interests when we need capital in Texas for small farmers and businessmen. Why should it go to these rich foreign guys? Why not invest in Texas for a change?"

Max Mandel of the Laredo National Bank told the committee the measure would have "absolutely no adverse effect on local borrowers."

He said the proposal would make Texas banks competitive with banks in other states and countries, and added that the state ceiling on interest rates did not work because "large banks with foreign branches can just book the loan through Nassau (The Bahamas)."

"Obviously, this is mere subterfuge," he said. "(Traeger's) law would let us do it in an open an above-board manner."

Connally, Hagman honored as 'Boneheads of the Year'

DALLAS (AP) — John Connally, Larry Hagman and the billionaire Hunt brothers were among the nominees announced Monday for the 1981 "Bonehead of the Year" award.

The winner, selected by the Bonehead Club of Dallas, will be announced Feb. 13 during a luncheon at Lakewood Country Club in Dallas.

The award is made each year to a person or group that "has committed an act or participated in an event which, in the eyes of the Boneheads, is a monumental goof."

The Susan B. Anthony dollar was the 1980 winner.

Connally, a former Texas governor, was nominated "for spending 14 months and $11 million for one delegate" to the Republican national convention in his short-lived quest for the GOP presidential nomination.

Hagman, the villain of the "Dallas" television series, was nominated "for proving that getting shot can be profitable."

Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt of Dallas were suggested "for being on the wrong end of this world's biggest market juggling act, the 1980 silver fiasco."

Also nominated were:

- the boy industry, "which seems to have an obsession with toys that wet on command."
- the U.S. Postal Service, "for considering a 9-digit ZIP code and a 20-cent stamp to carry the extra weight."
- the Environmental Protection Agency "for requiring the state of Washington to provide emission controls on Mount St. Helens."
- Texaco "for perfecting a new way to drain lakes."

Other "Bonehead" winners have been the Naval Academy, Jim "Wrong Way" Marshall, Texas A&M, NBC, pro sports owner Lamar Hunt, oddsmaker Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, the American Football League, club-footed placekicker Tom Dempsey, President Nixon, former Auburn coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan, Al Hirt, William Coors, the American Agriculture Movement and Andrea Waitman.

Toxic chemical traces now found worldwide, A&M researchers say

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Man has now polluted the entire surface of the earth, according to the findings of Texas A&M University researchers who reported traces of a man-made, cancer-causing chemical on a remote Pacific island chain.

Hexachlorobenzene, known as HCB, was found on Enewetak Atoll during tests by the A&M scientists, the first time the chemical has appeared in the isolated region. And those results, published in a recent issue of the journal "Science," mean that man has now polluted the surface of the entire planet, the scientists conclude.

"The chances are there's now no place on earth you can go without finding HCB," said Dr. C.S. Giam, head of chemistry at A&M and leader of the Enewetak expedition, during an interview about his report. "The thing wasn't meant to be dramatic or frightening to people, but it is a scientific fact."

In the report, Giam and Dr. Elliot Atlas, a senior research chemist, wrote, "Presence of HCB at such locations (as Enewetak) indicates widespread contamination of the atmosphere."

"These are the first measurements of HCB in the remote marine atmosphere," Atlas wrote. "The relative constancy of the compound between sites suggests that HCB is very stable and may remain in the atmosphere a long time."

HCB is a byproduct of more than a dozen manufacturing processes, including rubber manufacturing, and is a key ingredient in fungicides. Sea dumping of the compound was banned in the 1970s.

Enewetak, a group of islands about 2,200 miles southwest of Hawaii, was chosen as the site of the first hydrogen-bomb test in 1952 because it was so remote from any populated areas.

Giam said that means any man-made pollution found there had to have originated somewhere else, "such as the United States or Japan — I mention those because they are heavily industrialized nations."

The research by Giam and Atlas was part of Sea-Air Exchange, a National Science Foundation-financed study involving a dozen American and foreign universities.

HCB has given rise to health worries in the past.

The chemical also was linked by the EPA to disruptions of enzymes among people living in a small Louisiana town seven years ago.

Prosecutors say 20 years not enough for child molesters

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Dallas policeman has stunned a House committee with accounts of children who became, in effect, sexual playthings of their parents.

One member of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee was ready to send to the House floor immediately Gov. Bill Clements' bill raising penalties for rape, sexual abuse and injury of children.

The committee wanted more time to study the bill and voted 8-1 Tuesday to send it to a subcommittee, but with orders to bring the measure back on Feb. 17.

Detective Tom Sewell of the Dallas Police Department's juvenile section said he had investigated a case in which a mother watched as her husband forced their children to drink his semen.

"I didn't know people did this sort of thing to their children. The seven-, eight- and nine-year-olds that we see misused in their homes to an extent you can't believe. We see so much oral sodomy ... it almost becomes commonplace," said Sewell, a 26-year veteran of the police force.

He read aloud the confessions of a Dallas couple who are serving 20-year sentences — the maximum — for sexually abusing the woman's 11-year-old daughter.

The woman said the girl had been compelled to have intercourse with her stepfather and to perform homosexual acts with her.

"When my mother gets tired of having intercourse with my daddy, he makes me have intercourse with him," the girl's statement said.

"Twenty years! With ... early parole and time off for good behavior, this is not enough," Sewell said. "There are cases that deserve punishment. Under the present law, justice cannot be adequately served."

Clements' bill increases the maximum punishment for sexual abuse or rape of a child from 20 years to life and the minimum penalty from two years to five years. It also raises the maximum prison term for indecency with a child from 10 to 20 years and for injury to a child from 20 years to life in aggravated cases.

A KDFW-TV series on child abuse caught the governor's eye, and a videotape was shown to the committee.

"The youngest child raped in Dallas County was two months old," said investigative reporter Tom Steyer, who did the series.

The committee also sent to subcommittee three bills designed to make it easier to obtain aggravated rape convictions.

Reagan may seek an expansion

Grain embargo proved to be a fairly effective weapon against Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food proved to be an effective weapon in the confrontation with the Soviet Union, according to U.S. officials who supervise the embargo of grain shipments. The embargo, they say, achieved its limited objective: gumming up — slightly — the Soviet economy.

One official, in typical Washingtonese, described part of the impact as "a discomobulation of the livestock sector" in Russia.

This week, President Reagan is heading a Cabinet-level review of the embargo. At his news conference last Thursday, Reagan suggested for the first time that the embargo could be expanded. "You have two choices. You either lift it, or you broaden it, and we have not made a decision."

The Cabinet debate may go along these lines: —End the embargo: Reagan pledged during his election campaign to lift the embargo to woo the farm vote and there is pressure on him to deliver on his promise. Moreover, the same U.S. officials who believe the embargo had a useful impact in 1980 say it may not make much of a dent in 1981 because the Soviets have found other sources of supply, especially from Argentina. —Expand or retain the embargo: Despite the embarrassing political reversal, some advisers are telling Reagan that with Soviet troops massed on the Polish border, this is hardly the time to lift the sanctions imposed after the Red Army moved into Afghanistan. At the least, these advisers insist, Reagan should insist on getting something in return from the Soviets.

Not only that, but lifting the embargo would deplete U.S. grain reserves and prompt an increase in consumer food prices, they add.

The embargo was imposed by former President Carter on Jan. 4, 1980, following the Soviet thrust into Afghanistan. Carter extended it into a second year shortly before he left office.

While the embargo has been criticized as ineffective, a State Department official said the criticism seems to come from people who thought its purpose was to force the Soviets to withdraw from Afghanistan.

"The reason for imposing it was to have a demonstrable impact on the Soviet economy, to show the seriousness of our feelings," he said. He claimed it has done that.

Federal judge may injunction against U.S. in funds case

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge says he remains unconvinced the government would be harmed by an order that would fly in the face of the U.S.-Iran hostage accords by banning the return of about $20 million in Iranian funds earmarked to pay a court judgment.

The United States would be transferred to the Federal Reserve Bank in New York, and from there returned to Iran.

Groups call for passage of generic drug law

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Pharmacists and consumer activists want the Legislature to approve a law allowing druggists to substitute lower-cost drugs for brand-name products, but they can't agree on what the law should say.

included in Lyons' bill. ACORN spokesmen Margot Beutler said the list is a health safeguard, but Beisel said it wasn't needed because a competent pharmacist would not "jeopardize his career by dispensing an inferior drug."

One pharmacists' group says the best law would be no law. "We'll be concentrating our efforts on getting the anti-substitution provision simply revoked," said Wayne Beisel, spokesman for the Texas Pharmaceutical Association.

"We are in favor of generic drugs, and we won't oppose Lyons' bill. We just don't like some aspects of it," he said. Ms. Beutler said only Texas and Indiana ban druggists' substituting generic drugs, and that an ACORN survey of drug prices showed consumers could save 200 percent to 400 percent on medicine costs if generics were routinely prescribed.

Gas leaks continue to plague Mont Velvieu

Gas leak problems continued to plague the Southeast Texas cities of Mont Velvieu and Daisetta today, but residents of nearby Baytown returned to their homes after a pipeline rupture forced an evacuation.

However, council members turned down a proposal which would have let families return if only trace amounts of gas were found within 200 feet of a house. Officials in Daisetta, about 40 miles northeast of Baytown, reported tentative federal approval of a $380,000 grant for use in replacing the town's leaky gas system.

Two Brownwood brothers hang selves in same jail hanged at 1:45 a.m. last Saturday. He had been arrested on drunk and disorderly and prohibited weapons charge about two hours earlier.

OFFERING SPACE IN BOOK — Members of the Howard County Historical Commission are offering space in the book, "The History of Howard County," to businesses, clubs and organizations at a special rate. In LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Rubin — a 37-year-old Santa Monica College student, not the Yippie activist of the 1960s — has been sentenced to community-service work for pushing a piece of cake into the face of physicist Edward Teller.

Orr finds new job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Society columnist Robin Orr, who was fired as Nancy Reagan's press secretary after less than a month on the job, will once again be mixing with dignitaries.

Decontrol of oil prices could mean $150 million in tax revenue

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock said recently President Reagan's early decontrol of crude oil prices could mean up to $150 million more in state tax revenue this year.

Bullock said Reagan's decision to speed up the decontrol of crude oil prices instead of waiting until Oct. 1, to allow existing law to take effect, will immediately hike up the price of domestic oil.

'The History of Howard County' space offered

The Howard County Historical Commission's centennial project continues to grow by offering purchase space in the book, "The History of Howard County." The book will be completed in 1981, the 100th year of the founding of the county.

Informant tip leads to drug seizure

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An informant in Brownsville, Texas, told authorities Monday that he smelled marijuana in the suitcases of a Golden Valley woman.

Agents said they found 135 pounds of marijuana with a wholesale value of about $60,000. Street value could be considerably higher, they said.

On Tuesday, Glenda Ruth Epstein, 46, was charged in federal court in Minneapolis with possession with intent to distribute the marijuana. She was being held in the Hennepin County jail on $50,000 bail.

Sheryl Hvass, an assistant U.S. attorney in Minneapolis, said agents obtained search warrants for Epstein's luggage after receiving a tip from the informant. Epstein, a professional film maker, was placed on probation for five years and fined $15,000 in 1978 after she had pleaded guilty in Hennepin County District Court to possession with intent to distribute marijuana.

Ms. Orr has denied she was fired for her handling of newspaper reports that the first lady, anxious to redecorate the White House, had suggested that President Carter move out before Inauguration Day.

White defends state practices in prison suit

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The state of Texas will take to task a ruling by a federal judge ordering sweeping changes in the state prison system, says Texas Attorney General Mark White.

White vowed to appeal constitutional issues raised when U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler ordered the Texas Department of Corrections to eliminate overcrowding in state prisons, lower the suicide rate and improve food quality.

The food they serve in Texas prisons is every bit as good as I was getting as a private in the U.S. Army," Whitesaid.
