Mrs. Clyde Angel

WOMAN, MAN OF YEAR

Angel, Hahn honored

Mrs. Clyde (Annie Matt) Angel and Granville Hahn were cited as Woman of the Year and Man of the Year, respectively, at the 1981 Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce membership banquet Saturday night in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

A crowd estimated at 600 attended the banquet, which was emceed by Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The coliseum was appropriately decorated in the Railroad Centennial theme and many of the souvenir items — miniature replicas of cotton, railroad lanterns, and bottles of oil derricks — were made available to the public at the end of the program.

Mrs. Angel was honored for her unselfish efforts to enhance the beauty of the community and to uplift its spirit.

She is a past president of her Hyperion Club, a past president of the Community Concert Association, has been a Sunday School teacher for 47 years, served in numberless capacities with the Big Spring Garden Club and the Garden Council, is a well-known reviewer of books, took part in many door-to-door charitable drives, worked with the United Way and was a member of the Pubbit Committee of the First Baptist Church.

She is, of course, the wife of the mayor of Big Spring. When called to the podium to accept her honor, Mrs. Angel said she hoped to be able to serve the community "a great many more years."

Hahn, head of Cosden's Research and Development Laboratory, was applauded for his ceaseless efforts to bring industry into the area.

Several minutes before Hahn was identified as winner of the coveted honor, outgoing Chamber president Jimmy Taylor praised Granville as the man who had done "much to fill up the Industrial Park here."

In accepting the president's gavel from Taylor, 1981 Chamber-president Winston Wrinkle said he would strive to improve this city's physical appearance, especially along its principal traffic arteries.

He added it was especially important that this be accomplished during the city's Centennial Year.

In his farewell speech, Taylor offered thanks to the many Chamber members who had helped the Chamber experience a successful year.

He applauded the membership for its part in bringing the Chamber from a time of fiscal crisis to a point where it is operating well within the black. The Chamber's financial statement was published in the banquet program.

Eddie Nicholson, the "rocking chair philosopher" from Lubbock, was the principal speaker. He regaled the crowd with his homespun humor and his "back to the basics" approach to life.

He spiced his talk with several songs and his piano-playing, asking the crowd to join him in singing on occasions.

Nicholson set about to take his listeners "back to a time when people knew how to live," recalling the simple things that made life so purposeful during his youth.

Nicholson also took a swipe at those who have grown to "expect something for nothing."

"You can't help the poor by destroying the rich," Nicholson said, "... don't think you can help the old boy by doing for him what he is capable of doing for himself."

Dr. Claude N. Craven, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church, gave the invocation.

Necessities up, inflation cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices for the necessities — food, housing, energy and health care — rose even faster than the 12.4 percent overall 1980 inflation rate, a group of private economists said Saturday.

They said President Reagan's inflation-fighting plans won't do much to help.

The National Center for Economic Alternatives, a private research organization, said prices in what it called the four "basic necessity-related sectors" rose 13.8 percent last year, compared with the national inflation rate of 12.4 percent as calculated in the government's Consumer Price Index.

Center economists, who based their analysis on the government CPI data, calculated an inflation rate of 9.8 percent for all non-necessity items.

auditorium in the annual CHS contest held at Coahoma High School.

The two were selected from a field of 21 entries. Brad is the son of Dot and Bill Grandon. Rhonda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Brown.

The first runners-up in the contest were Randy Clanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clanton and Carmen Holmen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holmen. The second runners-up were Mark Woolverton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Woolverton and Kyna Kerby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kerby. Third runners-up were Ron Clanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Clanton and Louise Shive, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Shive.

Fourth runner-up Kari Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Robinson.

The title of Mr. and Miss Congeniality went to a brother and sister. Capturing that honor was Mark and Karen Jo Woolverton, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Woolverton.

The judges for the contest were Dr. and Mrs. Bobby Wright. Dr. Wright is the vice-president for Instruction at Howard College; Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Sparks; and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Justus.

Wife of Canadian ambassador Woman hid Americans from Iranians for days

NEW YORK (AP) — Patricia Taylor's final months in Tehran were a nerve-racking run of diplomatic dinners at home, awkward moments with her Iranian servants, and a heart-stopping two days with her house under the eyes of Iranian police — all while she and her husband hid two Americans inside.

Recent disclosures about how Mrs. Taylor, wife of former Canadian Ambassador to Iran Kenneth Taylor, helped harbor the Americans during the Iran hostage crisis have led the Canadian House of Commons to recommend her for the Order of Canada, its highest civilian honor.

Mrs. Taylor laughs at the suggestion that some might consider her a heroine. But she said in an interview with The Associated Press it was a "stressful" time. Her hypertension worsened and her physician wanted to hospitalize her, she said, but she refused. Her concern over the Americans was one reason she balked.

In the interview, her first on the subject since the release of the hostages Jan. 20, she gave new details about those 11 weeks.

The Australian-born Mrs. Taylor is a research scientist with a doctorate in bacteriology from the University of California at Berkeley. She has continued her career despite her husband's diplomatic work, and in Tehran she worked full time as a teacher and researcher. Taylor is now Canadian consul-general in New York.

The episode began when six U.S. diplomats escaped the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4, 1979. Four days later they contacted the Canadian Embassy and were quickly taken in. They fled out of Iran on Jan. 28, 1980, with fake Canadian passports.

The Taylors took Joseph D. Stafford, a consular officer, and his wife, Kathleen, a consular assistant, to their ambassadorial residence, a two-story home ringed by an outer wall in a quiet north Tehran district. The four others stayed with embassy First Secretary John Sheardown and his wife, Zena, who now are back in Ottawa.

Mrs. Sheardown also has been recommended for the Order of Canada by the House of Commons.

The petite, 51-year-old Mrs. Taylor, who was interviewed in the Taylors' apartment overlooking Park Avenue, said the first challenge when the Staffords arrived was dealing with the seven servants.

"I told them we had some friends coming to stay for a few days," Mrs. Taylor recalled. But when more than a few days passed and the Staffords were still there, the explanations grew more difficult.

The servant told her they did not understand why the house guests slept so late and never left the house to sightsee or to go with them shopping in the bazaar.

"I told him they were tired and had traveled a lot," she said.

American childbearing rates near record low

By RANDOLPHE SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — American childbearing rates have declined markedly over the last decade, and the number of women who live out their fertile years without having a baby may exceed levels last experienced a century ago, the Census Bureau reported Saturday.

But there is debate among experts about the future fertility levels of American women, notes the new report by Martin O'Connell and Carolyn C. Rogers.

Some speculate that if current low rates continue, the proportion of women completing their childbearing years without having a baby could be as high as 25 percent to 30 percent — well over 1970's 14.2 percent and topping the record 22 percent of women born in the 1880s who went childless.

Other experts, though, "believe that the recent increase in childlessness merely reflects a temporary postponement of births that will be made up in the next few years, and that younger cohorts of women..." will reverse the downward trend in future years.

For stealing oil from Fina Three Mentone men indicted

By JAMES WERRELL

Indictments were returned, Thursday, from a 143rd District Grand Jury against three Mentone men suspected of stealing oil from the American Petrofina Company of Dallas.

Named in the indictments were Clifford Ely, 45, a Loving County commissioner; McKinley Hopper, 58, a Mentone businessman and Loving County Judge from 1948 to 1952; and Richard Swindle, 43, a Mentone truck driver. Ely and Hopper are partners in Narbo Farms, an independent, oil-producing company operating near Mentone; Swindle a Narbo employee.

Charges against the suspects are third-degree felonies for theft over $200 and under $10,000. All three were released from Loving County Jail, Friday, on bonds of $10,000 apiece.

The activities of Narbo Farms have been under investigation by Loving County Sheriff Elgin Jones since June, he said Friday. In August, the investigation was joined by Texas Ranger Joe Coleman, and in early October, Mike Tate, head of security for American Petrofina, was brought in on the case, said Jones.

In addition to the indictment of the three Fina men, American Petrofina filed a civil suit Wednesday against Ely. The petition alleges that Narbo Farms stole crude oil belonging to Fina, and asks for $266,000 in actual damages and $1 million in punitive damages.

The suit also asked for a temporary injunction against Ely, which was granted Friday.

According to Jones, both Narbo Farms and Fina own production in the lucrative Wheat Field just outside of Mentone. Because of the remoteness of the field, Ely was employed by Fina as a pumpjack for its wells there.

In June, Sheriff Jones was alerted by a number of Mentone citizens about reportedly unusual activities of a Narbo Farms tank truck. Officials suspect that oil slated for the Fina pipeline was transferred by the truck to holding tanks owned by Narbo Farms, and later sold to a Chevron pipeline located in the Wheat Field.

"We want the people of Big Spring to know that Fina's security system is working and that we are protecting their assets," said Tate in an interview Friday. "If they know we are taking care of them, they will be more likely to bring us their business," he concluded.

India circus fire said to have killed up to 100

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Fire swept through a circus in the southern Indian city of Bangalore on Saturday, reducing the main tent to ashes within minutes, killing as many as 100 spectators and performers and injuring some 500, the United News of India said.

"Screaming people ran helter-skelter, creating panic in the circus area, near the Bangalore railway station," UNI reported from the scene of the fire.

UNI said hundreds of people were rushed to three government-run hospitals in Bangalore, 775 miles south of the Indian capital. Bangalore is the capital of Karnataka state.

Scores of schoolchildren and women perished when the flames quickly spread in all directions, filling the circus with heavy smoke, The Press Trust of India reported from the scene.

Firefighters in heavy padded uniforms and oxygen masks carried many of the injured children and women out of the circus on stretchers, the government-run All-India radio reported.

SPEAKER IDENTIFIES WITH WEST TEXANS — Humorist Ed Nicholson of Lubbock, principal speaker at Saturday night's annual Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce membership banquet, said he felt entirely at home speaking to people who shared his philosophy about life. The community is observing the Centennial Year of the arrival of the railroad in Big Spring.

Salute to hospitalized veterans scheduled here

Patients at Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center will be honored Friday when community groups and public figures join with employees in celebrating the eighth annual salute to hospitalized veterans. John H. Steward, center director, said Saturday.

"We at the medical center are anxious to pay special tribute to our patients," Steward said. "Solid community support in this unique venture will insure its success."

According to Steward, day-long festivities will include: Reading of the Proclamation (10 a.m.), Open House (All Day), Hospital Tours, Country Western Band (2 p.m.) and the Big Spring Federal Prison Inmate Band.

Among the public figures scheduled to visit the medical center are State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, Mayor Clyde Angel and Miss Howard College, Carol Morehead.

Steward said that Mrs. Lupe Dominguez, the medical center's Voluntary Service Specialist and salute coordinator, is anxious to hear from volunteers interested in supporting this event.

Steward said that posters and flyers describing the salute have been placed throughout the medical center and a brochure is available to groups and individuals by calling Voluntary Service at 263-7361, extension 238.

Sponsored for the third year by VA, the salute was started in 1974 by repatriated veterans of the Vietnam War, and "No Greater Love," a private non-profit organization.

The first salute caused prominent Americans in a wide variety of fields to visit veterans in 50 of VA's 172 medical centers.

"Since then, the program and VA's involvement has grown," Steward said. "Last year, all VA medical centers participated."

"Many patients are far from family and friends. Groups and individuals can fill that void by participating Feb. 13."

Democratic senators want to reopen investigation of Raymond Donovan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Democratic senators, citing "two serious inaccuracies" in the FBI's investigation, called Saturday for a renewed investigation into Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan's past business dealings.

In a letter to Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, chairman of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, the Democrats said the new findings "lend additional credence to the statements of Ralph Picardo," who has accused Donovan of having received. The backdrop to the speaking dais was appropriately decorated with art depicting the early days of the T & P Railroad here. The community is observing the Centennial Year of the arrival of the railroad in Big Spring.

ties to organized crime figures.

In their letter to Hatch requesting further FBI investigation, the Democrats reported a "potentially substantial allegation" that Donovan's construction company may have made an illegal purchase in 1968 of topsoil obtained from public property.

The Democrats also said the FBI should be asked to look into the previously reported allegations by a former protected witness, Pat Kelly, that Donovan's company had ties to the Genovese organized crime family and that Donovan participated in bid-rigging.

Donovan, through a spokesman, called the allegations "scurrilous." He said he was looking forward to his job and was "not looking back at false, unfounded and unsubstantiated charges to which I was subjected during my confirmation hearing."

"I have a clear conscience," he said.

Speaking through a spokesman, Hatch said his committee staff would investigate the allegations in the letter, but he did not promise an immediate letter to the FBI.

Privately, sources said Hatch was not told of the latest information, which was uncovered by a New Jersey newspaper, until it was made public.

In a departure from the past bipartisan approach that Republicans and Democrats have taken toward Donovan, one source charged the Democrats behaved in a "irresponsible" manner by not informing the chairman earlier.

The letter was signed by Democratic Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio, and Donald Riegle of Michigan, all of whom voted against Donovan's nomination when the Senate confirmed him last week. Donovan won confirmation on a vote of 80-17, after he denied numerous allegations of links to organized crime figures and the FBI said it could find no corroboration of the charges.

But in their letter to Hatch, the Democrats said a newspaper, The Bergen (N.J.) Record, had found two inaccuracies in the FBI's investigative report.

In one, the paper said a man, Phillip Moscato, had told its reporter he once did work for Donovan's construction Co. of Secaucus, N.J.

Mt. St. Helens continues to grow; no eruption seen

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — While the huge lava dome in the crater of Mount St. Helens grew more than 80 feet taller in 24 hours, the U.S. Geological Survey said Saturday chances of another major explosive eruption in the near future have diminished.

"The likelihood of a major explosive eruption in the immediate future at Mount St. Helens has decreased in the last 36 hours," Bob Johns of USGS in Washington, D.C., said.

USGS and University of Washington scientists say that seismic activity has lessened in the last day and a half and the volcano appears to be following the same pattern of the December-January eruption in which a lava dome grew inside the crater, Johns said.

"USGS scientists caution that local hazards such as rockfalls, small explosions or small pyroclastic flows exist as long as the present dome growth continues," he said. Pyroclastic flows are streams of superheated volcanic debris.

Forced upward by molten rock oozing from inside the volcano to the crater floor, the dome grew about 83 feet since Friday, said Thom Corcoran, Forest Service spokesman. The dome is now about 600 feet high, he said.

The mound is getting longer and wider, too, but scientists haven't estimated those measurements, he said.

He said the dome's growth estimate was made by U.S.

About 200 join in search for Atlanta child slayer

ATLANTA (AP) — About 200 volunteers looking for clues in the killings and disappearances of 17 black children searched Saturday at the site where a slain boy's bicycle was found more than a year ago.

And, as was the case with all but one of the 17 previous weekend volunteer searches, nothing significant was found.

Vice President George Bush announced Saturday — two days after the latest young victim was found — that the Justice Department would step up efforts to help local police solve the case. He said experienced federal investigators would be dispatched to Atlanta, but did not commit the FBI or its resources.

Bush did not respond to a call Friday by civil rights leader Joseph Lowery for President Reagan to declare the city eligible for federal disaster relief funds because of the increasing number of child deaths.

Meanwhile, searchers combed an area on the western edge of the city, where the bike of 14-year-old Milton Harvey was found before the boy's body was discovered in another area 15 months ago.

Deputy Police Chief Eldrin Bell directed the volunteers from a police helicopter. Tracking dogs were also on the scene.

Volunteers found the body of 7-year-old Latonya Wilson during the first search last fall, but have had no luck since.

Although it's not legal Wiretapping taking place

By JAY RUSSER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Wiretapping, despite the fact Gov. Bill Clements' bill to legalize the measure has not yet gained legislative favor, already is in use in Texas.

In 1979, for example, the phones of three Texas residents were tapped by federal agents—at an average cost of $53,016.

Documents obtained from the Administrative Office of the United States Courts in Washington, D.C. reveal that during 1979—the latest year for which figures are available—one federal judge in Texas, working from federal wiretap statutes, authorized the expenditure of $85,160 for a murder, narcotics and racketeering investigation.

Twenty-three persons were arrested in connection with that and two other phone taps authorized in Texas.

There were four trials and three convictions, according to the court documents, which point out some convictions may have been obtained during 1980.

Even wiretapping proponents admit the cost of employing the technique is not cheap.

New York State—one of 24 states along with the District of Columbia which has passed wiretap legislation — spent $851,007 to install an electronic "bug" in connection with a narcotics and racketeering investigation.

That investigation lasted 180 days. The administrative court documents list no arrests and no convictions in connection with that probe.

"They're manpower eaters. They're not inexpensive tools," said Clements' chief legal counsel David Dean, who is directing the governor's 10-piece anti-crime package through the legislature.

The cornerstone of that package is the wiretapping proposal.

"But what does law enforcement cost in 1981? It's not cheap," Dean said.

"The returns," Dean said, should far outweigh cost considerations."

"If you get one (drug) financier, how much is that worth to society?" Dean said. "If we can deter narcotics trafficking by 10 to 20 percent, there may well be a presumption among large drug dealers that their phones are tapped and they might go elsewhere."

"How much is that worth?"

A total of 553 wiretap applications were approved at the state and federal level during 1979, at an average cost of about $16,437, the court documents indicate.

"You'd probably be surprised to see how much it cost to try a capital murder case," Dean said. "But just because it's expensive, does that mean we shouldn't try them?"

At the federal level, wiretaps have been used less and less, administrative court documents indicate.

Short's energy bill is awaiting senate's vote

By MICHAEL DUPONT
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A bill to create a four-year state program to demonstrate conversion of cellulose to alcohol for energy use passed the Senate Committee on Natural Resources Wednesday without dissent.

Senate Bill 233, sponsored by Sen. E.L. Short of Tahoka, now awaits full Senate consideration after its 8-0 committee approval.

Although the bill amends the Texas Energy Development Act of 1977 to allow for the program's creation, it contains no mention of appropriations to fund the program.

Short told the committee the decision to fund or not to fund, and at what dollar level, could be left for a later date.

The bill does specify that no more than 20 percent of the funds may be provided by the state. The remainder should come from federal and private sources, the bill suggests.

The bill further specifies that no more than 40 percent of the state funds could be expended for research and development and no more than 10 percent for demonstration.

It does not specify how the remainder of the state money should be spent.

Short said his bill does two important things: provides a working definition of cellulose and sets limits on the spending of state seed money that will encourage federal and private funding of the project.

Dunn and Brown double winners

IRA (SC) — Dirk Dunn and Tom Brown were double winners in the Ira Livestock Show, which ended here Saturday night.

Dunn showed the champion crossbred heavyweight sheep and the grand champion heavyweight sheep.

Brown exhibited the grand champion lamb of the light-weight division and the reserve champion lamb of the heavyweight division.

First and grand place steer winner was owned by David Goodwin. Barry Ezra showed the reserve cross-bred heavyweight steer winner while Steven Benson had the reserve lamb champion.

Diabetics should beware of iodine, nasal sprays

Be aware of mercury and iodine on cuts and the overuse of nasal sprays and drops. And do be aware of the small print on drug labels and temperatures above 99.8. That is, if you're a diabetic.

The Big Spring chapter of the American Diabetes Association met Thursday in the classroom of Malone-Hogan Hospital to hear Clint Holloman, registered pharmacist at the Medicine Shoppe, discuss the drugs commonly used by diabetics, and their effect on diabetics.

"The diabetic has the key to their own survival," Holloman said. At the onset of illness, a call on the doctor is advisable in purchasing over-the-counter cough drugs, make sure that those you buy contain under 12 percent alcohol content and are sugar-free.

Holloman's advice on cold remedies for the diabetic was to use only those that are straight antihistamines, no decongestants. "These are usually safe for diabetics," he said.

Even vitamins may have sugar in the coating. "The primary concern of a diabetic is to keep the body system free of sugar. As you buy drugs, you need to read the small print on labels. If in doubt, ask your pharmacist," the pharmacist said.

In reality, members of the Big Spring Key Club were seeking to raise funds for the March of Dimes with a 24-hour Rock-A-Thon that started at 5 p.m., Friday. The well-bundled rockers are, from the left, Scott Barnes, David Phillips, Matt Taylor and Chris Stevens. Poles threaten warning strike

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Miners and other workers in southwestern Poland announced tentative plans Saturday for warning strikes this week as Soviet-bloc allies accused the independent labor union "Solidarity" of attacking Poland's Communist Party.

In the southern area of Bielsko-Biala, workers who agreed Friday to end an 11-day strike went to their jobs voluntarily Saturday — a government-sanctioned day off — to try to make up for lost production. The official news agency PAP said many factories throughout Poland were operating to make up "tasks missed" during strikes last month over demands for a five-day workweek.

Others planning to attend are:

- Ruby Ann Dusek, a high school junior at Wall, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dusek at Vancouver.
- Ruby is strongly eyeing a pro-rodeo career.
- Sammy David Kellmeier, a high school senior at Wall, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kellmeier at Paint Rock. Sammy wants to carve out a college career.
- Sharon Fay Sneed, a high school senior at Blackwell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Sneed. Sharon plans to study at Angelo State University, with a CPA rating in mind.
- Robinson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson Sr. Lloyd says he wants to study agriculture at Angelo State University.
- Mary Kay, a senior at Garden City, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hallmann. She aspires to become a fashion designer.

Vickie Daniel's guilt or innocence to be decided this summer

An unlikely marriage ended in a Texas tragedy

EDITOR'S NOTE: It was an unlikely marriage, and friends never expected it to last. She was a little-education Dairy Queen waitress, he was heir to riches and power. Death did them part.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Until that rainy night in January, few had ever heard of Vickie Daniel, and fewer still knew her.

At 33, she was short and shapely, very blonde and very private, and most remembered her as the bright, attractive waitress at the local Dairy Queen.

She eluded, perhaps shunned, public attention, unbored by great riches and unencumbered by social and educational credentials.

At 39, Price Daniel Jr. also was very private, but prominently so. His was a name synonymous with Texas politics. He moved easily and elegantly through the corridors of power, a man of wealth and culture and political stature.

They were an unlikely couple, and more than a few thought so four years ago when they married, both for the second time.

Other than good looks, they appeared to have in common only a genuine desire for privacy.

Vickie's anonymity and Price's life ended shortly after nightfall on Jan. 19. She killed him with a single bullet fired from a bolt action rifle.

The bullet entered his stomach and pierced the aorta, the body's main artery. He died in a river of blood on the floor of his beloved ranch home.

And perhaps it will unravel the mysteries surrounding Vickie and Price and pinpoint the forces that led them to this unusual and tragic alliance.

It was, friends said, a union doomed from the outset.

The first of four children, young Price entered the world in 1941 as the son and namesake of then state Rep. Marion Price Daniel of Liberty, Texas.

The elder Daniel would, in time, serve as Texas House Speaker, state attorney general, governor, U.S. Senator, assistant to President Lyndon Johnson and a justice of the Texas Supreme Court.

Price Jr.'s mother was Jean Houston Baldwin Daniel, a descendant of Sam Houston, twice president of Texas as an independent nation and later its governor.

As his father before him, Price Jr. attended Baylor University, received his law degree there in 1966, returned to Liberty to practice law and gravitated into politics.

Price and his father were as close as two private people could be, a friend of young Daniel's later remarked.

In that same pivotal year of 1966, Price Jr. married a rather feisty but sophisticated young lady named Diane Wommack, who sported political bloodlines of her own.

PRICE DANIEL JR.

Legislature enjoyed a well-earned reputation as a wheeling-dealing, fun-loving, often hedonistic band of mostly free spirits.

But Price Jr. did not fit that mold. He made powerful enemies among the legislators on the committee and, in the end, saw the constitution fall three votes short.

During his tenure as House leader, some said, the speaker's office could be "vindictive and devious," but the tendency was to blame Carl, not Price.

"I don't think there was any vindictiveness at all," Carl now insists. "We were aware we were playing hard ball, and that's the only way to play politics."

Usually mild-mannered, Price Jr. could indeed be waspish.

He once berated labor leaders, earlier his allies, as "callous and selfish" and refused to apologize for calling some of the convention delegates "cockroaches."

Many attributed the strain of politics, the convention and the speakership for the break-up of his marriage.

Born and reared for the most part in nearby Baytown, Vickie was the 10th of 11 children of a refinery worker who moved wherever his jobs took him.

She last attended high school in Waxahachie, south of Dallas, but apparently did not graduate.

As a teen-ager, she met and subsequently married Larry Dale Moore, a big, affable, not unhandsome East Texan by whom she had two children, Kimberly, now 12, and Jonathan, now 10.

They settled in a small hamlet outside Liberty, where Vickie worked at a movie theater during the latter portion of their marriage.

Recalling their nine years together, Moore labeled the union a "salty" one, with its normal ups and downs, "from one extreme to the other."

He described Vickie as "not really" quiet, "more the outgoing type." She was a "good mother" who, like himself, neither drank nor danced.

According to Moore, they spent much of their free time bicycling, playing tennis and hunting squirrels, rabbits and ducks. Said he: "She was a good shot."

Their marriage lasted from 1967 until Aug. 16, 1976, not too long after Vickie met Price who, incidentally, was her lawyer.

They place pressures on the best of marriages, and Vickie had never been close to politics before."

Carl thought Vickie screaming: "Price, get up!"

Two emergency medical technicians and a newsman were among the first to reach the house. They described Vickie as "totally hysterical."

They said it took 20 minutes to restrain her, that she babbled in baby talk and repeatedly screamed, "He's okay, isn't he?"

Investigators found two shell hulls, and after some confusion, discovered a hole in the ceiling and roof where the other bullet exited.

Vickie's attorney, Andrew Lannie, said the discovery supports her contention that she shot Price in self defense after first firing a warning shot.

Then, last New Year's Eve, she again filed for divorce, citing "conflict of personalities."

Both continued to live at the ranch home, but in separate quarters.

On Jan. 15, Price was served with divorce papers. Four days later, after a routine stint at his office, he returned home about dusk.

At the house were his two young sons by Vickie, Franklin Baldwin, 3, and Marion Price IV, age 1. Vickie's daughter Kimberly, 12, also was there.

Shortly after 7 p.m., Vickie telephoned Kersting Memorial Hospital and reported the shooting. She was hysterical, at one point throwing the phone down and screeching: "Price, get up!"

Anti-handgun people seeking action

During the four years of the Carter Administration, more Americans were murdered by handgun fire than there were American soldiers killed in Vietnam.

In November, 1980 alone, at least 647 Americans were reportedly dispatched in handgun violence. The death toll included:
—Clarence Riffle, 77, who was shot to death in the living room of his house during a robbery. The elderly, Elkins, W. Va., man was drilled three times with what probably could be described as a Saturday Night Special.

—MRS. RUTH BROWN, 64, came to the end of her days in Woodland Park, Colo., when she was robbed by a 15-year-old youth using a .22-caliber pistol.

—In Memphis, Tenn., Doncie M. Mitchell, 15, was fatally wounded as she stood at the checkout counter in a local grocery store. Mitchell, shot with a pistol, was an innocent bystander at the scene of an attempted heist.

—David Seaton, 15, of Washington, D.C., was slain with a handgun for no apparent reason while driving his pickup truck. A passing motorist apparently decided he needed a little target practice.

—In Corning, Ark., Bryan O. Crump, 12, was accidentally killed while visiting a neighbor's house. Three other youths in a house were playing with a .22-caliber pistol when it went off.

—Sean Tully, ten, of Los Angeles, Cal., was shot in the head while playing with a friend. Tully and his nine-year-old companion had taken a pistol from the closet in a friend's house. After the smoke of a handgun that has been fired cleared, young Sean lay very dead on the floor.

The last president to send a handgun control bill to the Congress was a Republican—Gerald Ford. He was also the last president to be almost killed not once, but twice, by a handgun.

President Ronald Reagan recently stated he opposed gun control, yet qualified his remarks by adding:

"We approve legislation to make it more difficult for persons with records of crime and instability to purchase firearms."

The people who are for handgun control can 'live' with that kind of approach, if the Congress dares to act favorably on such a proposal.

A Gallup Poll of potential voters prior to the November elections showed that 60 percent would opt for federal registration of guns... that most Americans still want handgun control. It's time, the anti-handgun people insist, that there was a meeting of the minds and positive legislation adopted.

Texas has cause to feel concerned. Sixty-one of their numbers were slain by people using handguns during the month of November. New York took some positive action about controlling such weapons and reported only 16 such deaths during the 30-day period. Pennsylvania did even better, with only ten deaths reported. Only California (with 71) and Illinois (with 83) had more fatalities than Texas.

But I became so sick with the flu I didn't get to go "home for Christmas" in Durant, Okla., in 1980.

But Jan. 25, also my birthday, was something else. My mother; my banking aunt, Leona Factor; my ice eating aunt, Fannie Everett; my bashful aunt, Marie Chastain and my wonderful aunt, Mildred Ladd, made sure of that.

They kept five Christmas trees with glowing decorations "alive" just for me. And prepared food, food, food. As we opened our gifts, I had the spirit of Christmas.

Strong signal

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's plan to announce decontrol of oil prices on the day the hostages were honored in Washington was scrapped when dentist-politician James Edwards, who as secretary of energy has started out as the Cabinet member least popular in the White House, worked on teeth back home.

The Reagan scheme was to play down politically unpopular oil decontrol by inveiling it Jan. 27 when the nation was preoccupied honoring the hostages. But Edwards was nowhere to be found the preceding weekend when the decision was made. Returning to Washington, he loudly insisted that decontrol could not go forward until he had a chance to look it over. That delayed the announcement until Jan. 28, when it was the day's top news story.

BUT WHERE WAS EDWARDS that preceding weekend, when not even resourceful White House switchboard operators could find him? "Probably drilling somebody's teeth," a presidential adviser snarled. Intended as sarcasm, this was close to the truth. Edwards, a former governor of South Carolina and a practicing dentist, was winding up personal business in Charleston, S.C., that included removing a child's braces.

A GENERAL TO MOSCOW?

President Reagan is considering Gen. Brent Scowcroft, who was national security adviser in the Ford White House, to be U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union—a switch from an industrialist to a military man intended to send a strong signal to Moscow.

The soft-spoken retired Air Force general, a protegee and former deputy of Henry Kissinger, is no hard-liner. Nevertheless, Reagan likes the symbolism of switching from Ambassador Thomas Watson, Jr., a retired IBM executive, to a military officer.

There is another Reagan motive: Offering Scowcroft a spot in his administration commensurate with his high position in the Ford administration will help the president's relations with Gerald Ford.

RON'S FRIEND JESSE

President Reagan showed how attentive he is to thunder from the right by conducting two long, private meetings in the White House within his first week in office with Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina over conservative objections to the new administration's State Department and Defense Department appointments.

Helms was sounding off as chairman of the Steering Committee, a loosely organized group of conservative Republican senators.

Guns of Asia

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter's foreign policy struck its first snag in South Korea and never fully recovered. So it is fit that the Reagan Administration, despite a little overeffusiveness, welcome early and with a show of harmony President Chun Doo Hwan.

For Korea is an American omen. The right relation with Seoul offers a handle on security throughout Asia. It can also mark a sensible approach to the awkward problem of balancing between security interests and human rights.

The American stake in Asia now rivals, and perhaps even surpasses, the stake in Europe. Mainland China has become a foremost strategic ally against Russia. Japan is an economic giant with global strength. South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore join Japan as models of surging economic growth. The Philippines, Thailand, Indonesia and Australia are important trading partners for this country.

ALL THOSE NATIONS look to the U.S. for security against Russia and its two Asian allies—Vietnam and North Korea. The chief American base in the area is South Korea. It is there that this country maintains 40,000 ground troops, a tactical air force and tactical nuclear weapons. It is over South Korea, first of all, that Washington holds the umbrella of the nuclear deterrent.

So when Jimmy Carter, as a candidate, declared that he planned to pull all American troops out of South Korea, a tremor ran through Asia. It shook Japan and China, and the Philippines and Thailand and Indonesia as well as South Korea.

The worried Asians mustered allies in the American military, the Congress, and within the Carter Administration. Eventually, thanks chiefly to Secretary of Defense Harold Brown, the President was turned around on troop withdrawal. But not before grave doubts had been raised among this country's allies in Asia.

The Reagan Administration approaches the problem of Asian security from the other side. The cordial reception of President Chun is a mark of solidarity. There is no talk of pulling out U.S. troops. Rather the emphasis is on enhancement of South Korea's defense capabilities. The signal is thus flashed from Tokyo through Peking to Bangkok and Jakarta that the U.S. is standing firm in Asia.

To be sure, two American brigades do not have to stand nose-to-nose with North Korean troops along the demilitarized zone forever. Nor does Washington have to give to Seoul weapons so sophisticated that the Russians will feel constrained to upgrade the military equipment they make available to the North Korean dictator, Kim Il Sung.

ON THE CONTRARY, shortages in American military personnel and the special demands of the Persian Gulf argue for an eventual drawdown of some U.S. forces in South Korea. The growing economic difficulties of North Korea suggest an eventual stabilization of the peninsula and a lid on the weapons given to each country.

But withdrawals and limitations ought to be discussed privately between friendly governments, not publicly by eager candidates. They should be taken up, not in the political context, but within the context of a strategic view that includes Asia and the rest of the world.

Similarly with respect to human rights, South Korea is certainly no democracy. Rule is arbitrary, even illegitimate, and the military and police behave in a very rough manner.

MAKING THE PHILIPPINE NEWSLEADER COOPER WITH CHARGES TO RAISE

Beware cold-weather exercising

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have started a running program. But I read that a person should discontinue outside activities when the cold weather comes. Is cold air a shock for your heart? How about if I wear a scarf or bandana around my nose and mouth so the air wouldn't be as cold? Does coldness freeze the lungs?—C.M.K.

Cold temperatures stress the heart by causing the blood vessels of the skin to narrow. This narrowing is the body's way of conserving heat. The heart has to pump harder, however, to serve the skin.

You can get accustomed to the cold, just as you can to the heat, but you have to cut back on your running until your body gets used to the new situation. You must dress warmly, or course. Layers of lighter clothing, instead of one heavy, bulky jacket, will keep your body warmer. All exposed parts should be covered, including your head and face. A ski mask and a good hat are very helpful. As much as 40 percent of body heat can be lost via an exposed head.

Breathing in cold air does not freeze your lungs. If it is zero out, for example, breathed air is quickly warmed in your nose, mouth and throat to about 55 degrees. The dryness of cold air makes it unpleasant, however. A scarf in front of the mouth does make breathing in of cold air more comfortable, but a regular ski mask should be more practical.

With these precautions, you can continue your outdoor activities. But beware of snow and ice. More injuries result from falls on icy paths than from coldness. Dress warmly. NOTE: Anyone with a heart circulation problem (angina) must be especially careful in cold weather because of the factors (extra heart work) I have mentioned.

Dear Dr. Donohue: At age 75 I am in good health, but have one problem I hope you can help me with. It is not serious, but a robber of my sleep. I get awful cramps in my calves during the night. They are so bad they awaken me. Does this mean I have a circulation or nerve problem? Is there anything for it? I am taking a quinine medicine.—F.K.

Night cramps more often than not don't indicate either a circulation or nerve problem. Cramps that occur with walking, for example, often do point to such problems. In either case, the possibility of circulatory or nerve impairment should be investigated by your physician.

Night cramps seem to come on partly because of the position of the feet when we sleep. If you lie on your back, the foot tends to drop down. That stretches the calf muscles, and you are on your way to a full-blown cramp. To prevent this, keep your bed covers loose, so they will not weigh down on the foot. Try wedging a pillow against the soles of your feet to keep them pointing up.

Before you go to sleep, stretch your calf muscles. Stand two feet away from the wall. Then with your feet flat, lean forward, bracing yourself with your hands against the wall. Hold that position for 10 seconds, then return to the starting position. Wait five seconds, then repeat. When you get your cramps, flex your foot upward immediately. That should relieve the cramps in a few seconds.

At times, quinine medicine is given a trial. It decreases the excitability of muscle fibers in ways we do not understand. The booklet "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains" discusses such conditions at greater length. For a copy write to me care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is there any way to build up glycogen reserves to prevent muscle strain?—J.G.

You don't need to build up glycogen (storage sugar) reserves to prevent strains. Rather, you should do warm-up and stretching exercises before you plunge into any rigorous activity. Tight, non-stretched muscles and tendons are prone to sprains and strains, the more so as we get older.

My answer

Billy Graham

Dear Dr. Graham: It has been many years since you had a crusade in our city. How do you decide which cities to visit? Many people are praying for your return.—D.C.C.

Dear D.C.C.: Each year we receive many hundreds and even thousands of invitations to hold crusades throughout the world. We are, of course, only able to accept a few of these every year.

We therefore make it a matter of careful examination and prayer before we make any decision. There may be various factors which influence our decision. For example, we do not hold a crusade in a city unless we have been invited to do so by a large number of churches in the area. We normally would not return to a city where a crusade has been held in recent years, since many cities have never had a crusade. There may be some practical things that would influence our decision also, such as the suitability of facilities. Ultimately, however, we accept an invitation only when we are convinced the Lord is leading us to do so. Often if

What can vitamins really do for you—and what can't they do? In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the common sense from the nonsense about this controversial health aid. Dear Editor: Thank you for the article on the Library in last Sunday's edition. Please extend our thanks you also to Mickie Dickson for her hard work on the article and to Bill Forshee for the fine photographs.

Several people have commented on the article and how much they enjoyed it. Of course several commented as well on my name change to Taylor in the captions, but I found that amusing. I did see the correction in Monday's paper.

Thank you also to Richard Horn who is making an effort to get our column in Sunday's paper. He has been cooperative and done his best to accommodate us.

'I'm a symbol to America that must be hated'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — America's leading atheist, tired of busloads of hymn-singing church kids, has moved into hiding.

Madalyn Murray O'Hair still goes to work at her American Atheist Center every day, but her private life has become even more private.

"We absolutely gave up," she said. "We had busloads of choir singers singing hymns on our lawn."

"We have moved out and nobody knows where we are. We are under an absolutely different name. The people in our office do not know where we live. There's no way anybody can know where we are at now," she said in her office.

Ms. O'Hair and son Jon

Garth Murray moved in October. They got rid of the home they had lived in for 15 years. The harassment became too frequent, she said.

"The (local) Baptist church sent people down to knock on our door to convert us," she said, adding the church "inundated" her mail box with "praying-hand post cards."

"For the first time I feel a little bit safe," she said.

Her office building has been defaced — crosses are carved into the door and tar on the roof says "Jesus Loves You."

The harassment seems to bounce off the ever-loud Ms. O'Hair.

In fact, she says she is encouraged by the current popularity of morality and religion. The Moral Majority's efforts to influence politics and government are "beautiful," the atheist says.

"The Moral Majority is demonstrating overtly for the entire public what the Roman Catholic Church is doing covertly. I think it is absolutely beautiful because it gives a handy demonstration for persons to have a deep understanding for what's going on in the government covertly," she said.

Jon Garth Murray also is pleased by the Moral Majority's efforts.

"It's making people think about their religion and that's dangerous for religion," he said. "When they start thinking about it they'll say, 'Did Oral Roberts really see a 700-foot Jesus or is he putting me on to get my check out of my checkbook?'"

Ms. O'Hair has kind words and high hopes for Bill Murray, her son who recently declared himself a Christian and spoke out against his mother's work.

"I hope he winds up with a Rolls-Royce and a house on the Riviera. He's a good atheist and I think what he is doing is taking the religious community for a ride. To use a phrase that would be appropriate for him, God bless him," she said.

The American Atheist Center, a million-dollar headquarters that also serves as a publishing house for Ms. O'Hair, has ambitious plans. Ms. O'Hair talks proudly about American Atheist University.

"It's going to happen. I don't know exactly when. We are slowly getting the financing we need," she said, adding she is looking at land eight miles east of here.

Ms. O'Hair says her health is "terrible." She suffers from high blood pressure and diabetes. Convinced that there is nothing after death, she has no funeral plans.

"Whatever my son does is all right with me. He can either ship me off to a school for instruction on dissecting or he can cremate me. I don't give a damn," she said.

Jon Garth Murray said, "Cremation is the most sensible thing. I hate to waste all that acreage burying bodies. I think that's kind of dumb actually. The whole purpose of putting a body in a casket and pickling it is ... so that it can rise again when Jesus comes."

Despite the health problems, Ms. O'Hair works on. She continues to use her sometimes obscene rhetoric to take shots at popes, churches and just about everything so many people hold holy.

"I'm a symbol to America that must be hated," she said.

"I don't have an abrasive way. I've been arguing with people about that for a long time."

Some attempts successful

Can illiteracy be reduced?

By JUDITH GRAY

Can illiteracy be eradicated or reduced? In his "Prisoners of Silence," Jonathan Kozol states that four countries have made the attempt, which was wholly or partially successful. Those countries were China, Brazil, Cuba, and Israel.

Brazil's effort was partially successful. Any failure lay in the lack of government support from the outset, and when literacy was taught in less than sixty days, the sponsor and guide of the program was imprisoned and later exiled. He was Paulo Freire, whose program was similar to the Cuban one in 1961 which was successful and had full backing.

"passionate words" like grief, pain, love, lease, license, fear, infection, nation, doctor, fire, police, prison, power, protest, progress. Words that would free them from the silence of their prison. Words that would enable them to express themselves. Words that would help them pass their driver's tests, fill out applications, understand instructions, write a check, understand leases, sales agreements, and lending terms.

An article in the Wall Street Journal (10-16-78) states that a large proportion of those who are jobless are those who lack elementary skills for jobs already in existence. These jobs go unfilled because there are not enough competent applicants. So the reduction or elimination of illiteracy would be an advantage for the employment industry (and for those businesses with unfilled job openings). It would benefit the individual as stated above.

Other advantages would be for the insurance industry, law enforcement agencies and prisons, the print media, and libraries. How? Less payments for industrial accidents and injuries and damaged equipment will be made by insurance companies because warning signs and instructions will be read and understood. The print media will have more people able to read and use the product. Libraries will have more readers. Law enforcement will benefit because the largest percentage of illiterates are in prison. Crime increases in areas of higher rates of illiteracy.

Economically it is not known how directly illiteracy affects costs. It is known that welfare is $6 billion yearly. It is $7 billion yearly to keep illiterate prisoners in jail. Industry and the military has the problem of the destruction of equipment which is costly.

In spite of the advantages, Kozol implies that the existing establishment of government, business, education, and libraries would be opposed to a program that would make it possible for new voices of protest to be raised. The establishment would be

The Cuban program involved 250,000 literacy workers, 100,000 children almost half under fifteen, and 150,000 adults. They lived with their pupils and taught them literary skills. Each pupil had to pass three tests in stages of improvement. When the last person in each house passed the last test, a flag was flown at the door. When the last house flew its flag in a town, then that town could fly a flag which meant that it was now illiteracy-free.

Kozol believes that the U.S. could have a similar program and effort. High school and college students could take six months off (with the cooperation of their institutions they could earn school credit). With sympathetic adults the students would form teams of literacy workers who would live and work in the areas where the pupils lived. Vacant stores or buildings could be made into "Literacy Houses" to serve as living and working quarters for the teams. If funds were forthcoming from government, business, industry, etc., the workers could receive a stipend. The potential pupils would meet in the months preceding and receive encouragement and the possible advantages to them to learn to read, write, add, etc.

The primers used in the program should be regional, Kozol feels that they should teach words that would be locally useful and have meaning for the adults learning them. Kozol said that they should be

Effort to relieve 'massive overcrowding'

Legislator says prison director ready to turn prisoners loose

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Republican legislator said Saturday state prison director W.J. Estelle Jr. told him he is ready to start releasing prisoners on his own to relieve massive overcrowding.

"He's getting ready to cut some people loose," Rep. Terral Smith, R-Austin, told Mexican-American Republicans of Texas.

Smith, a freshman legislator who is a member of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, said Estelle disclosed his plans when he took Smith on a tour of the prison system recently.

Smith said Estelle told him he had discovered a provision that would allow him to transfer prisoners to "correctional facilities," and the director planned to designate the prisoners' homes as "correctional facilities" and merely send them home.

"He (the prisoner) would not be legally paroled," Smith said.

He said he was offering the information to MART's executive committee, which met Saturday, because "an inordinate number of Hispanics" would be among those prisoners released.

Smith said Estelle reasoned that Hispanics "have strong family ties, strong family units" and family members "would be able to watch the people (former prisoners) and help out. They would have someone to look to and would be less likely to get in trouble."

Prison officials have been frustrated several times in their attempts to build a new prison to ease crowded conditions. Smith said the prison population has grown to 30,000, and prisoners are

"sleeping on the floors."

In 1978 officials were ready to buy 6,740 acres near Edinburg for $8 million, but an opinion by Attorney General John Hill killed the idea. In 1980 overwhelming local opposition blocked the purchase of a 5,300-acre farm near Rio Grande City, also in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, for a prison site.

The case could be crucial because U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice has ruled state prisons are so bad they are unconstitutional. His order stated overcrowded conditions must be eliminated.

Alcoholism seminar set

This seminar will be of interest to those working in the field of alcoholism and to those of the general public who are interested in learning more about this problem.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. The general session will begin at 9 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged, with an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive Continuing Education Units from Howard College. Persons wishing to receive credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.

The theme for the day will be: "Back to the Basics of Helping."

Amin wants own guns and U.S. education for his children

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Exiled Ugandan dictator Idi Amin, describing himself as "a simple human being" and a devoted homemaker, has appealed to the Moslem world for guns and to the United States for an education for his 22 children. Amin, ousted from his East African nation in April 1979 and enjoying Saudi hospitality since last year, emerged from relative obscurity last week to tell The Associated Press he could conquer Uganda in a week with some help from his friends. "I have 13,000 diehard followers at home who await my return," he said. "But they have no ammunition, little food and no medicines. My people are suffering. Uganda will be lost to Islam." Amin, a 53-year-old Moslem, claimed his supporters controlled some 10,000 square miles of northern Uganda, which he could use as a base for moving on the capital of Kampala and ousting the government of president Milton Obote. "It takes a few anti-aircraft guns, some rocket-propelled grenades, anti-tank guns, rifles and ammunition to capture Uganda," he said. The husky towering former dictator said he spends most of his time in Saudi Arabia scrutinizing maps and preparing a strategy for his return to Uganda. "I also cook food for my family; I iron clothes and sweep the floor very efficiently," he said, with a broad smile. "I am a simple human being, not the eater of human flesh."

Some press reports on Amin's eight-year tyranny, which saw tens of thousands of his political opponents killed, alleged that the dictator practiced cannibalism. The reports were never confirmed. He contended the Western press "judged me wrongly. It is sufficient for me to say that as president of Uganda I was sincerely anti-communist." "Do I look like a cannibal?" he asked. "I am a good Moslem and will live and die a good Moslem." He appealed to the American press to "talk President Reagan into harboring my children in America and give them good education..." "My 12 sons and 10 daughters are good at cooking European, Indian and Arab food," he said. "They are excellent elements. I would like them to be spread out in several American states, for their own security."

Pavlik marched in parade

Air Force Cadet Gregory Pavlik, son of Shirley Pavlik of 2901 38th St., Snyder, Texas, was one of the more than 250 members of the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., corps of cadets who marched in the Jan. 20 inaugural parade.

The group represented the approximately 4,300 cadets at the academy in honoring President Ronald Reagan. Pavlik's father, Erwin Pavlik, also resides in Snyder.

Horsley trains in Oklahoma

Pvt. 1st Class Michael Lee Horsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Honea Route 2, Big Spring, has completed basic training at Fort Sill, Okla.

During the training, students receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Goal exceeded by committee

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Mitchell County Centennial Finance Committee has exceeded its original goal and now has collected $12,200, appearing to be well on the way toward the secondary goal of $15,000.

During the Friday meeting of the Centennial Finance Committee, Mrs. Charlie Thompson, committee chairman, "we couldn't have accomplished what we did without the help of this committee, including Judge Bill Carter, Mayor Elmer Martin, Willie Landau, Mrs. Hubert Thomas, Ray Preston of Loraine, G. D. Foster, Billy (Bob) Hardy and Dr. W. S. Rhode. And, may I say, 'thank you to these people who have given of their time and have been more than willing to help raise this seed money for the Mitchell County Centennial.'"

Mrs. Thompson emphasized that donations certainly are invited even though the initial financial goal has been achieved.

Howard County venture listed

A wildcat has been scheduled in Howard County.

Turner Petroleum Co., Big Spring, will drill the No. 1 Leora R. Flanagan, a 9,800-foot wildcat in Howard County, one location south of the depleted Wolfcamp opener and 1 1/2 miles east and slightly north of the current two-well Fusselman area, separated by the depleted Spraberry opener and later Fusselman producer in the Morgan Ranch field, 3/4-mile southwest of a two-well 8,829-foot producing area of the Spraberry Trend area, one mile southeast of a 10,013-foot failure and 3 1/2 miles southeast of Big Spring.

Location is 660 feet from the north and west lines of 25-32-15-T&P.

The Morgan Ranch field produces from the Fusselman at 9,742 feet; the failure, Stanolind Oil & Gas (now Amoco Production Co.) No. 1-D TXL, abandoned April 29, 1952, topped the Montoya at 9,720 feet and the Ellenburger at 9,805 feet.

Commissioners will open bids

LAMESA — The Dawson County commissioners meet in regular session at 10 a.m., Monday will open bids for and select a county depository, study and act on legislative questions, grant Texaco permission to cross a country road with a pipeline and appoint Dawson County Historical Commission members.

In addition, the commission will act on a request made by the Airport Board for more operating funds and set a schedule for county holidays.

Trinity Memorial Park Announces A Special Pre-need Savings Plan

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale has said:

"Inevitably, everyone experiences a death in the family. Those who are intelligently foresighted and concerned with the well-being of loved ones, meet the many unavoidable problems in advance of need. Only the thoughtless and inconsiderate will postpone protection for their families and burden them with the emotional distress and financial hardship of the last-minute arrangements when sorrow comes."

We who face the bereaved every day know the wisdom of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's words. We urge you to make a careful comparison of prices and services — in advance.

Herald sponsors travel film

All the beauty, song, dance, pomp and poetry that is England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland come to Big Spring at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 17, in the High School Auditorium when The Herald presents Eastman Kodak Company's all-new travel extravaganza, "Britain and Ireland... An Adventure in Pictures."

There will be admission fee of $1, with proceeds going to the United Way.

Tickets are available at The Herald or can be ordered by mail. The Herald's box number is 1431.

The 75-minute, multi-media show—a cavalcade of movies, wide-screen panoramas and multi-image montages—emerges from England's ancient Stonehenge and Ireland's altar-like Dolmen to suggest the sweep of history that has shaped these storied cultures. With an on-stage narrator as guide, the program spotlights each country in turn and, then, focuses on the wool industry, love of horses and racing and general sports-mindedness that recalls their common heritage.

Interviews and native music, recorded on location, mix with toe-tapping songs composed especially for the show. But, it is the visual splendor of such magnificent events as the Trooping of the Color, Britain's royal birthday event and the largest and grandest parade on earth, which makes "Britain and Ireland... An Adventure in Pictures" a truly spectacular travel show.

First stop on the first-class, photographic tour is London where eight million welcome viewers to the nighttime theatre district, Piccadilly and its turn-of-the-century Cockney Club before moving on to such historic landmarks as the 900-year-old Tower of London, the Victorian-style Tower Bridge and world-renowned Trafalgar Square. A tax ride through London's Mayfair District precedes a time-machine-like hop to Central England where

A FAMILIAR FACE — If this is "Big Ben," then the city must be London. The occasion? A tour of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland that you can take without leaving your seat in Big Spring Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m., when The Herald presents "Britain and Ireland... An Adventure in Pictures." Don't be late for Eastman Kodak Company's first-class, photographic tour—London, with its skyline full of familiar landmarks, is the very first stop!

quaint shops, cobblestone streets and soaring Yorkminster Cathedral echo seven centuries of civilization in the walled city of York. Stopovers at the Royal Doulton stoneware factory, the National Trust villages of the Cotswold Hills, Shakespeare's Stratford-on-Avon and such stately homes as Blenheim Palace and Longleat lead directly to a nostalgic wedding in charming Castle Combe and a sidetrip to Holy Island to discover the origin of the word "honeymoon."

Heather-toned scenes of hills, lochs, rivers and misty rolling mountains herald Scotland and its castle-dominated capital of Edinburgh. But, it is a visit with a bagpipe—and kilt-maker that signals the "pride in culture" that flavors the show's Scottish stay. From preliminary Highland Games at Glen Finnan, the traditional music, dance and sports competition moves to Dunoon, a small town on an island off Scotland's southwest coast. There, the world championship Games draw 200,000 spectators to the Cowal Gathering for marching, piping and dancing contests as well as hammer-throwing, and the age-old tossing of the cabre. Still more pageantry—pipe and brass bands from around the world—conclude the picture-perfect "Highland Fling" during festival time in Edinburgh at Scotland's ultimate musical show, The Tattoo.

With Wales comes a loving look at a typical coastal village through the eyes of the famous poet it nurtured and inspired. Welsh actor David Ponting becomes folk hero Fylan Thomas for the tour of the village of Laugharne and the tidal flat shack where the Welsh poet worked. Then, the show chugs off to the Snowdonia Mountains on the narrow-gauge Tallylyn railroad perpetuated by hobbyists who keep its steam engines, polished brass and striped upholstery in model-perfect condition. The tour of the gentle, rural country concludes outside Cardiff where woodworkers in St. Fagan's craft village carve intricate "lovespoons" to carry on yet another deeply rooted tradition.

Then, finally, in a scenic symphony of glens, cliffs and patchwork fields, the show arrives in Ireland. From the fishing villages and turf fields of the north, the tour moves quickly southward where smiling eyes and brightly painted Georgian doors welcome everyone to the capital of the Republic known for its hospitality. Viewers will "kiss" the Blarney Stone, meet the priest responsible for rejuvenating the economy of Donegal and witness Waterford Crystal blown, shaped and ground to snowflake-like intricacy. In country Sligo, the poetry is that of William Butler Yeats, the guide is Irish actress Bernadette Nigalchoir and the scenery is some of the prettiest in the entire show.

The making of a harp in Limerick suggests sidetrips to Dublin's Scion Hill School and popular downtown hotel, Jury's, to hear Ireland's national symbol played. Next comes a rollicking tour of Ireland's pubs—and a spirited sing-along in which all audience members can lend their voices to the chorus of "Wild Rover." One final call to beauty—a wordless sequence entitled simply "The Feeling of Ireland"—wraps Irish lyricism in visuals as poetic as their names are melodic—Galway Bay, the Dingle Peninsula, the Lakes of Killarney.

FARM FORUM

Cotton will do a tight-rope act in 1981 according to U. S. Department of Agriculture figures which estimate that 1980-81 world cotton demand will outstrip production by about a million bales. The U. S. D. A.'s probability people identify last season's drought as the reason for the projected tight supply/demand balancing act. Post-drought production was nearly 25 percent below that of the previous 1979-80 season. Increased foreign production which has been pushed up to 52.5 million bales, will do little, if anything, to offset the U. S. decrease. That decrease, over 11 million bales, is reflected in all cotton producing regions of the U. S. World carry-over stocks are placed at 2.8 million for the same period due to the reduced harvest.

TEXAS FARM BUREAU QUEEN ROBIN ETHRIDGE SALUTED
Larry Shaw (l) eyes County Judge Bill Tune's proclamation

By County Judge Bill Tune

Farm Bureau Week proclaimed

County Judge Bill Tune has designated the week of February 9-14, as "Farm Bureau Week in Howard County."

Governor Bill Clements has also designated the same week as a statewide observance, according to Neil Fryar of Lomax, president of the Howard County Farm Bureau.

During this week, the local county Farm Bureau will have a special effort to enroll new members in the organization, according to Larry Shaw, of Knott, membership chairman. Other members of the membership committee are: Ray Walker and Horace Tubb.

The county president said the Texas Farm Bureau was instrumental in passage of the bill limiting taxation of agricultural land in the last Legislature and will be working to protect farmers' interests this session.

Part of the "Farm Bureau Week" official proclamation, signed by Judge Bill Tune, reads:

"An adequate supply of food and natural fibers is essential to our Nation.

Many of our citizens of Howard County are dependent, directly or indirectly, upon agriculture for their livelihood. All of our citizens benefit from the advancements made in the agricultural industry.

a one year assignment in Korea. Bedford has now been assigned to Fort Sill, Okla., and he will report there the end of this month.

Trade and diplomatic embargos proposed

Members of Senate, Reagan administration seek pact that would punish terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Senate and the Reagan administration are searching for a way to translate international concern over the Iranian hostage crisis into a pact that would punish any country taking foreign nationals captive in the future.

"It's important to trigger the action now when everyone could be vulnerable," said Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which will hold hearings later this month on the hostage situation.

"What happened to us, everyone else realizes could happen to them," he said in a recent interview.

Because of that, the United States should move now to try to get an agreement among nations to impose automatically a trade and diplomatic embargo against any country that takes hostages in the future, he said.

The State Department is laying groundwork for a similar proposal but has not settled on any details, according to an official who asked not to be named.

"It's still on the drawing board," he said. "We are in the process of negotiating and discussing with other countries to find out what they think about it."

Secretary of State Alexander Haig has said that getting international cooperation against terrorism will be one of his highest priorities.

A researcher on international terrorism also thinks the time is ripe for limited international sanctions against countries that take hostages.

Brian Michael Jenkins, director of research on terrorism at the Rand Corporation, agrees with Percy that the seizure of Americans in Tehran — plus Libyan assassination team shootings and other incidents — has dozens of countries ready to act against terrorism. In the past, Jenkins has been skeptical of countries' ability to cooperate in such an area.

Jenkins said he believes the lengthy Iranian crisis can bring some sort of international cooperation against hostage-taking the same way nations united against airline hijackings after Palestinian terrorists exploded three jets in the Jordanian desert in 1970.

State crops report

Most of East Texas needs more moisture

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Despite scattered rains this week, the northern half of the state and most of East Texas still need more moisture for soil and pasture conditions, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Wheat is providing some grazing for livestock in many areas, but continued dry weather is hampering growth in the Panhandle, Rolling Plains, North Central and Central Texas, he said. Greenbugs are also damaging some fields.

Winter grazing, both from wheat and pastureland, has improved sharply over Far West, West Central and Southwest Texas after recent rains, he said. But poisonous range plants also benefitting from the rain are causing some livestock losses.

Supplemental livestock feeding continues widespread over the state, noted Pfannstiel. Colder weather earlier in the week caused a spurt in feeding, but generally mild winter weather has resulted in lighter feeding than usual. However, hay supplies are short in many areas due to last year's drought-shortened crop and the fact that feeding started earlier than usual.

A few fields of cotton still

Program slated for farmers

Farmers and tractor operators have an opportunity to catch up on a few pointers towards better maintenance and repair programs. Don Richardson, county extension agent, said. Henry O'Neal, Extension Agricultural Engineer (Power and Field Machinery), from Texas A&M, will conduct the program at Taylor Implement Company, located north of Big Spring on Highway 87, at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 17.

The program is sponsored by the Howard County Crops Program Area Committee working through the local county Extension service. The program is open to all producers, farm operators and all other interested persons. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serves people of all ages.

are being harvested in West Texas and some winter vegetables, citrus and sugarcane remain to be harvested in the Rio Grande Valley. Vegetable harvesting also remains active in the Winter Garden of Southwest Texas.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Wheat needs rain. Fertilizer and herbicides are being applied to land in preparation for spring planting. Most range cattle remain in good condition, with feeding active.

SOUTH PLAINS: Both irrigated and dryland wheat is doing well enough to provide grazing, but moisture is short in some areas. Farmers are preparing for spring planting, and may soon start preplant irrigation. Feeding of range cattle continues. Some ginning of cotton modules is still under way.

Stroke victim rescued by telephone tapping

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich. (AP) — A policeman who answered a telephone call from a man who had suffered a stroke and lost his voice saved the city councilman's life by devising a simple tapping system to find out where he lived.

"All I could think while it was going on was that if I couldn't get the information from him, the guy was just going to lie there and die," recalled Officer James Zerilli.

He told the caller to tap once for yes and twice for no, then began asking what part of the city the man lived in, said Sgt. James Bell, who listened in on the call Thursday.

Did he live in the southern part of the city? Tap. OK. Did he live on Colony Street? Tap tap. How about California Street? Tap.

"We just lucked out. He lived on one of the main streets. If he had lived on an odd-ball one," Bell said, "we could have been there forever."

Next, Bell said, Zerilli turned to blocks. Did the caller live in the 20,000 block? Tap tap. The 19,000 block? Tap.

Nine questions later, Zerilli learned the caller lived in the 19,900 block. After narrowing it down to the 19,910 block, Zerilli told the man to tap the last number.

Six taps. Using a house-by-house index of the suburban Detroit town of 88,000, Zerilli and Bell found that 55-year-old Councilman Casper Frederick lived at 19,916 California Street.

"Is that you Cas?" Zerilli asked. Tap. "Well, you just hang on, we've got an ambulance and a police car dispatched."

It had taken 24 minutes to figure out. "Don't even know how I came up with the tapping system," Zerilli said. "It had to come from TV. That's all I can think of. I've certainly never used or heard of it before."

Tax & financial planning

TAX TIDBITS

Each of the following unrelated paragraphs offers some assistance on income tax planning and filing.

If your children work for you, consider putting them on the business payroll. This will result in a business deduction for you and, depending on the amount, may not create any income tax for them. If your business is unincorporated, some payroll taxes may not apply.

If the W-2s which you send to prior employees are returned as undeliverable, store them. The new requirement is that they be kept by the employer for four years.

Individuals who have received unemployment insurance in 1980 could be taxed on all or part of the receipts. You should be receiving a form 1099 UC from your state unemployment office to be utilized for the preparation of your income tax return.

The IRS had adopted a new system for selecting tax returns for audit. In prior years, certain low "net" income returns were not selected for examination. The new system is called Total Positive Income (TPI) to better identify returns with potential adjustments. Taxpayers with various loss activities and tax shelters who have previously escaped examination may find themselves on the audit list.

If you have correspondence with the Internal Revenue Service, its computer, or one of its representatives that seems to be going nowhere, you can contact the "Problems Resolutions Officer." He is located in your local District Office and should be resorted to only after all else fails. His duty is primarily to solve mechanical and correspondence problems.

Steer start 5-5A 2nd half with upset win over Abilene

ABILENE — The Big Spring Steers got revenge on the Abilene Eagles here Friday night in the District 5-AAAAA second half opener, using a patient offense and an excellent defensive effort in taking a 48-42 triumph.

The Steer win was made sweeter by the fact that the BSHS crew lost three very close games in the first half, one of them to Abilene High, by making some costly mental mistakes at the end. But that was not the case on Friday night.

The Steers, after an even first quarter, outscored the Eagles by 18-10 in the second stanza to take a 27-19 half-time lead.

But Abilene came out pressing in the second half and quickly forced five Steer turnovers, finally taking a 29-28 advantage.

But the Steers quickly regrouped to regain the momentum and take a six-point lead at 37-31 entering the final stanza. From that point, the Steers refused to fold.

There were many keys to the win, but one came when Abilene had rallied to take the lead in the third quarter. "They rallied and got ahead by one," Big Spring Coach Ed Haller related, "and we called time out. We talked about what was happening a little bit, and then the kids just went out there and sucked it up."

"This was the same type of game that we had been blowing in the first half (of district)," Haller continued. "But we didn't do it this time. I was very proud of the way the kids got tough there in the end and won. Maybe it's a sign that we're finally maturing."

Big Spring controlled the backboards, with junior Bobby Earl Williams dominating action. The 6-2 jumping jack had a game high 17 rebounds, as well as leading the Steers in scoring with 17 points.

Fletcher Johnson also was tough on the boards, grabbing 10 caroms to go along with his 10 points.

Haller praised the entire team, and lauded the defensive efforts of his crew, which is now 1-0 in the second half and 11-15 on the year.

"We just did a real good job on defense," Haller said.

Do athletic sites matter?

In the world of college sports the past couple of years, there are a couple of cases that obviously display that some teams like certain fields or courts, while maybe having a dislike for others.

At NOTRE DAME, the Fighting Irish basketball team has compiled a home court record of 108-9 under DIGGER PHELPS. That's nearly a "gimme" percentage.

Meanwhile, the Florida State football team has shown an obvious dislike for the Orange Bowl in Miami. In 1979, the FSU team was 11-0 going into their Orange Bowl encounter with OU, and lost.

Then, in 1980, FSU went 10-1 during the regular season, losing only to the University of Miami. Guess where that game was played? You got it, the Orange Bowl.

Then FSU returned for the Orange Bowl Classic on New Year's Night, and saw OU pull out one of their patented comebacks in the final minutes to once again hand FSU a defeat on that playing field.

The Chicago Cubs, who lost more than 1.75 million at the gate last season, will field a "3 million dollar team" in 1981. Only the Padres and Mets have lower payrolls in the NL. The Cubs payroll is less than the Houston Astros starting pitchers salaries...

10 members of the Super Bowl winning Oakland Raiders were former first round draft choices. Five were Raider first rounders (Wilson, Ray Guy, Gene Upshaw, Henry Lawrence, Raymond Chester) while five were first rounders with other teams (Burgess Owens, John Matuszak, Joe Campbell, Jim Plunkett and Cedrick Hardman).

The University of Georgia is waiting on a ruling from the NCAA on the legality of proposed insurance agency several fans want to set up for HERSCHEL WALKER in an attempt to prevent the freshman All-American from considering a rumored 2 million dollar offer from the Canadian Football League. Georgia Coach VINCE DOOLEY is reportedly among the leaders of the group which sent in the proposal.

Did you know that when LOU SABAN, who went on to coach the Buffalo Bills, was named head coach at Northwestern in 1955, he hired a guy named GEORGE STEINBRENNER as an assistant? That's the same Steinbrenner that now owns the New York Yankees and is a millionaire shipbuilder. Steinbrenner is expected to return the favor this month by named Saban the prexy of the Yankees.

People complain about pro athletes salaries, but not in the NFL playoffs. Super Bowl I payoffs in 1967 were $15,000 to the members of the winning team. In 1981's Supe Bowl XV, the payoff for the winning Oakland Raider's was only $18,000.

First time Super Bowl teams have won only three times, while losing ten. Only winners have been Green Bay, the New York Jets and Pittsburgh.

DAVE KINGMAN, THE CHICAGO CUBS slugger who has repeated disagreements with the brass of the baseball teams he has played for, discussing contracts with Mets Owner DON GRANT recently: KINGMAN: "You owners aren't running things anymore. We're in the driver's seat."

GRANT: "You may be, but not in my car!"

A PRO COACH ASKED A ROOKIE, he never learned to kick? Replied the rookie: "Where I come from, we stayed and fought."

SMU COACH DAVE BLISS, on his team after it handed Houston their only loss in SWC play, then became the only team to lose to Texas A&M, then blow an 18-point lead and lose to Rice, and then became the first SMU team to beat Tech in Lubbock since 1974: "I wish the players would let us coaches in on what's going on."

BUCKY WOY, the infamous sports agent who is a thorn in the sides of many pro clubs owners when contract time comes around, concerning the $800,000 contract awarded to Claudell Washington by the Atlanta Braves, Washington, sometimes great and sometimes most erratic, was not one of Woy's clients. But nevertheless, Woy said: "I'm delighted Claudell is getting all that money. It just gives my theory that it's the owners, not the agents, who are driving up salaries."

WESTERN TEXAS COACH LARRY DUNAWAY, after being thrown out just over a minute into the game in his team's loss to Midland College last Monday: "I hated for that to happen. Perhaps we couldn't have beaten Midland, but it soured the whole evening for the fans and the teams. I didn't even say 'damn' or 'hell' on the first two technicals and I wasn't even talking to the official on the third."

NEW ENGLAND PATRIOT COACH RON ERHARDT, discussing what the fines go for involving fights in the NFL, and his reaction when his team became involved in a brawl vs. the NY Jets. Said Erhardt: "It goes to a good cause, to the coaches retirement fund. That's why, when the fight started, I waved the whole squad onto the field."

VANDERBILT BASKETBALL COACH DALE CLAYTON, discussing the new Southeastern Conference rule utilizing three officials in games: "It gives us one more guy to yell at."

PRO GOLFER JIM DENT, known as one of the longest drivers on the tour, on the problems he encounters keeping the ball in the fairway: "I can aim the golf ball, but I don't have the right address sometimes."

SEATTLE SUPERSONIC guard PAUL WESTPHAL explaining what the most important role that reserve teammate WALLY WALKER played: "He's the second most important player on the team. He's the guy who drives Jack Sikma to the games."

JOHN MCKAY, while at USC, was asked if football was becoming dull. Replied the quick witted McKay: "Football is never dull. Only people are."

PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES FIRST BASEMAN PETE ROSE: "If the 26 baseball owners would sit down in a room and say they're going to quit giving all this big money, as soon as the door opened George Steinbrenner or Gene Autry would be offering big-money, long-term contracts to somebody. If one guy runs out of money, there's always another one with tons of money and a big ego. They were offering me oil wells and race horses and beer distributorships."

Aguirre hits mark as DePaul wins

CHICAGO (AP) — All-American Mark Aguirre poured in 30 points Saturday night to become the first player in DePaul history to reach the career 2,000-point level and lead the third-ranked Blue Demons to a 77-66 victory over the University of Alabama-Birmingham.

DePaul, 20-1, never trailed in the contest. The Blue Demons broke an early 4-4 tie on a basket by Skip Uillard and gradually sent UAB reeling to its fifth loss against 16 triumphs.

Sub sparks Vol win over no. 6 UK

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dale Ellis, benched for missing a practice, scored 22 points in a substitute's role Saturday night to lead No. 10 Tennessee to an 87-71 Southeastern Conference basketball upset of No. 6 Kentucky.

Ellis, a sophomore forward, scored only 6 points through nine minutes of play in the first half, which Tennessee completed with a 43-39 edge. But the margin quickly widened in the second half as Ellis poured in another 16 points.

With the win, Tennessee — unbeaten at home — goes to 16-4 overall, 8-4 in the SEC, while Kentucky slips to 16-4 and 9-3 in conference play.

Rice takes gimme

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University's forwards Ricky Pierce and Kenny Austin combined for 29 points and 18 rebounds to lead the Owls to a 67-53 non-conference win over Southwestern University.

The loosely-played game saw 52 fouls called, with only two players fouling out — The Owls hit 48 percent from the field, while the ice-cold Pirates could manage only 30.4 percent. Rice extended its season record to 11-9 while Southwestern dropped 13-10.

Ray Alborn signs 4-year Owl pact

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University football coach Ray Alborn, who guided the Owls to a surprising 5-6 record last season, has signed a 4-year contract. Athletic Director Augie Erfurth announced Saturday.

Terms of the contract, Alborn's first ever at the school, were not disclosed.

"I'm very pleased with the agreement," Alborn said. "By this action, Rice University has shown faith in the program my staff and I have been building for the last three years. This gives continuity to the program that has made much progress."

The 1981 season begins Alborn's fourth year as head coach. The Owls posted a 3-19 record during Alborn's first two seasons prior to last year's surge, when many pre-season polls predicted the Owls would not win a game.

Alborn, 41, is only the fourth coach in Rice history to receive a contract. With the exceptions of football

Motta loses $113 to hot player

DALLAS (AP) — Dick Motta, coach of the Dallas Mavericks, ended up with an empty wallet Saturday because of Stan Pietkiewicz.

At the end of Saturday morning's practice, the National Basketball Association team was about to end its workout by shooting 25 free throws each.

Motta offered $25 for any player who made all 25, plus $1 a free throw for every one made consecutively after that.

Pietkiewicz was the only one to make all 25, then went on a spectacular dollar-a-throw streak with teammates hooting and laughing about him. Before he quit, he had made 113 straight, for a $113 bonus.

"I've never had a contest like this before," Motta said. "I don't know if I will

Eddie's not mad; Fergie to pitch

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The lessons that pitcher Ferguson Jenkins learned from involvement in drugs will help in the Texas Rangers' battle against the use of illegal drugs, the ball club's president says.

"Jenkins has expressed regret for his mistake, and I am certain his experience will provide a sound platform from which an effective program can be developed and absorbed, hopefully, by all people," said Eddie Chiles, majority owner of the Rangers.

Jenkins, 38, was arrested last Aug. 25 in Toronto for possession of drugs after four grams of cocaine were found in his suitcase. He was convicted of cocaine possession Dec. 18 in a Canadian court, but the judge then erased the verdict by giving him an absolute discharge.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who had suspended Jenkins for part of last season, announced Friday that Jenkins would be allowed to play this year. As part of the deal, Jenkins agreed to support a 4-point program baseball has initiated in an attempt to curb drug use.

"Jenkins has stated he has quit drug usage and never again will return to it. He has affirmed that he will join with us in combating the drug problem, and I am certain he will be an effective advocate in battling against drug usage," Chiles said.

Chiles said team officials have been in contact with the Tarrant County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse and will work closely with the organization in an effort to wipe out the use of illegal drugs in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

"The Texas Rangers will not tolerate the use of drugs, and we will educate our personnel to the damaging physical and mental effects of this dreaded disease," Chiles added.

Jenkins and Kuhn met Thursday in New York. In a statement released jointly, Jenkins said: "I know that the youth of North America looks up to sports stars and we therefore have a very special responsibility to set a good example. Drug use is not consistent with that standard. It's stupid, and no one should do it."

Aggies overcome Tech

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M rallied behind Vernon Smith and Milton Woodley to score 15 of the game's last 19 points and defeat Texas Tech 65-52 Saturday afternoon in a televised Southwest Conference basketball game.

Smith scored 14 of his 17 points in the second half, and Woodley scored 8 of his 10 in the final 10 minutes as the Aggies improved their record to 10-9 and their SWC mark to 3-7.

Bubba Jennings scored 16.

Jeff Taylor 14 and Clarence Swanegan 12 for Tech, which fell to 11-10 and 5-6.

Freshman Reggie Roberts scored 15 of his game-high 19 points in the first half as the Aggies took a 36-30 lead at intermission. Only the five starters scored for A&M, with Claude Riley adding 12 and Rynn Wright 8.

The Aggies shot a blistering 65.2 percent from the field the first half and finished with 52.3 percent on 23 of 44 from the floor. They were deadly from the foul line also, hitting 19 of 21.

Teagle red-hot for Baylor

WACO, Texas (AP) — Baylor junior forward Terry Teagle copped his first eight shots from the field and the Bears routed Southern Methodist 80-52 Saturday night in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

Teagle scored 21 points for the night on 9 of 10 shots from the field and three free throws and didn't play the final 9:36 of the contest as Baylor coach Jim Haller cleared the bench.

The victory boosted Baylor into undisputed third place in the SWC standings with a 7-4 mark. The Bears are now 12-9 for the season.

SMU dropped into the SWC cellar with a 3-8 mark, and the Mustangs are 7-14 overall.

Hastings, Hogs shoot TCU

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Arkansas took an early lead and rode a strong inside game and near-perfect free throw shooting from Scott Hastings to defeat Texas Christian University 63-48 Saturday night in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

The Razorbacks kept pace with league-leading Houston by moving to a 7-3 SWC record and 16-6 for the year.

TCU dropped to 4-7 in the conference and 7-14 overall.

Hastings took the game scoring honors with 26 points, including a 10-for-11 performance at the free throw line.

Darrell Browder led the Horned Frogs with 20 points.

Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton said Hastings "had a marvelous night" and praised the play of his entire squad.

Cougars slam UT

AUSTIN (AP) — Robert Williams scorched the nets for 32 points and three other teammates hit in double figures to pace the Houston Cougars to a 75-59 victory over the Texas Longhorns in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

Houston rolled to a 38-24 halftime lead and controlled the game thereafter in continuing to lead the Southwest Conference basketball race.

Murphy sparks win

HOUSTON (AP) — Calvin Murphy sparked a second-half surge that led the Houston Rockets to a 87-81 victory over the Atlanta Hawks in a National Basketball Association game Saturday night.

World records smashed in fumed Millrose Games

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Paige cracked the world indoor best for 1,000 yards, Joni Huntley smashed the American indoor mark for the women's high jump and Eamonn Coghlan won the Wanamaker Mile at the Millrose Games Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

The tireless Paige, insisting he was not trying to set a record, nevertheless registered a sizzling time of 2 minutes, 4.9 seconds, breaking the indoor 1,000 mark of 2:05.1 set by Mark Wizzenried at Louisville, Ky. on Feb. 13, 1972.

"I was not trying to set a record, I was just trying to win," said Paige, the world's top-ranked 800-meter runner ahead of world record holder Sebastian Coe and Olympic champion Steve Ovett.

The 24-year-old Paige was helped by a blistering pace set by former Villanova teammate Mark Belger.

"Mark went out and took a big lead, which is a different strategy," said Paige, the Millrose 1,000 winner in 1977,

1978 and 1979. "I felt that is the only way Mark would have been able to beat me."

"When I saw Mark go out that fast, I said to myself, I cannot panic and I had to keep a cool head and use my strength to catch him slowly."

That's exactly what Paige did.

Huntley, the veteran from the Pacific Coast Club and the 1975 Pan American Games champion, broke her indoor high jump record of 6 feet, 4 1/4 inches by clearing 6-4 3/4. Huntley, who set the previous mark in the 1980 Millrose Games, then was unsuccessful in three attempts at the world indoor mark of 6-6 held by Andrea Matay of Hungary.

Matay missed three times at 6-0 Friday night, while Olympic champion and world record holder Sara Simeoni of Italy went out at 6-3 1/4.

Coghlan, holder of the indoor mile mark of 3:52.6, came close to breaking the record, but settled for a

SAN ANTONIO — Kerrville Tivy braved the cold weather and drizzling skies here to take the championship in the San Antonio Girls Invitational as high school teams kicked off the spring season.

Tivy had a two-day total of 720 to take a 17-stroke win over second place Edinburg.

The Big Spring Steer girls team finished 10th in the tough 14-team field, having a two-day total of 867.

Lisa Bumgarner led the BSHS girls with a 208 total. Others Steer girls playing included Laura Mexia at 213, Patricia Jones at 215, Karen Woodall at 231 and Rhonda Woodall at 242.

Tivy's Debbie Greiner was the medalist in the tournament, using only 162 strokes in two days. Finishing second was Victoria's Kelly Markett with 170, while Midland's Ann Coombs had 171 for third place.

Big Spring Coach Howard Stewart said the weather hampered scores in the season opener. "I wouldn't have even wanted to play in weather like that," he said.

The Steer girls return to action in Big Spring on February 26-27, at which time they host a 17-team tournament.

The Big Spring boys team begins their season next Thursday in the San Antonio Boys Invitational.

TORONTO (AP) — Jimmy Connors ended a two-year drought when he upset Bjorn Borg of Sweden 7-5, 6-3 in the final match of round-robin play at the $500,000 Molson Tennis Challenge tournament.

It was the U.S. veteran's first victory over Borg since the two went five sets in the South American Open in November 1978.

Connors meets American Vitas Gerulaitis today in the second of the semifinal matches. McEnroe plays Borg in the other.

Steinbrenner wins facetious award

RADNOR, Pa. — George Steinbrenner, owner of the New York Yankees, is the winner of the Mr. Nice Guy award given annually by TV Guide magazine's contributing editor Mel Durslag for sports behavior deemed not gracious.

Durslag, writing in the current issue (Feb. 7), said Steinbrenner edged marathon runner Rosie Ruiz. Third place was awarded the Lake Placid, N.Y., organizing committee for its handling of parking for the 1980 Winter Olympics. Durslag started the awards in 1975 and last year's recipient was Bobby Knight, Indiana basketball coach.

Steinbrenner, he said, moved ahead of the pack in late August when the Yankees enjoyed a 2 1/2-game lead in the American League and the owner castigated the team and manager Dick Howser. Then he accused the

Hawk Queens, Midland stay in NJCAA Top 20

Both the Howard College Hawk Queens and the Midland College Chaparrals remained in the NJCAA's Top 20 list that was announced on Friday.

The Hawk Queens, despite a mild slump recently, are rated 12th nationally, dropping one peg from last week's ratings. They are 21-5 on the year.

But they will probably drop out of the ratings next week, as the HC women lost an overtime decision to highly touted Western Texas on Thursday night. That was after this week's ballots had been tabulated.

Midland College, for six weeks the number one ranked men's jucu team in the nation, is rated eighth this week. The Chaps have a record of 22-2.

After winning their first 17 games, the Midland College crew suffered back-to-back losses to Howard College and Frank Phillips. But they have bounced back to win their last five decisions and are currently tied with Howard College for the lead in the rugged Western Conference.

In the women's poll, Northern Oklahoma College of Tonkawa remained in the number one spot in the poll. They are 19-2 on the year, with both setbacks coming against Howard's con-

Toronto Blue Jays of altering their pitching rotation to aid the Baltimore Orioles, questioned the judgment of Yankees third-base coach Mike Ferraro, and fired the general manager of a Florida race track when the meet program was distributed late because of a printing press failure.

"Unmistakably, it was George's finest year, leaving the Nice Guy committee confident that it was vesting its trust in a champion," Durslag writes.

Ruiz was given second place for her questionable finish in the Boston Marathon, where two observers said they saw her enter the race about a half-mile from the finish.

Lake Placid's organizing committee captured third place "with its brilliant attention to detail. Given five years to work out the logistics, the committee decided to keep traffic away from the Olympic venues by asking patrons to park their cars at designated areas scattered about the Adirondacks." Unfortunately, the buses did not appear and impatient fans with tickets shivered in bitter weather. Some never got refunds on their tickets.

Local boxers ready for Golden Gloves competition

Abe Gonzales, himself a veteran of about 70 amateur fights, plans to take a Big Spring boxing team to Odessa this coming week for the Regional Golden Gloves Tournament.

Weigh-ins are scheduled Tuesday while the ring action gets under way Wednesday. All the local entries will compete in the high school division.

Two of the boys on Abe's team, Jay and Blake Gonzales, are Abe's sons.

The team has been working about three nights weekly at a gym on South Gregg St.

The local team, some of whom competed on a Colorado City card recently, includes:

Dallas school put on probation when player pulls gun on zebra

DALLAS (AP) — Woodrow Wilson High School officials are unhappy over their basketball team being placed on probation because one of its players was indicted for threatening a referee with a gun.

The action was taken by the University Interscholastic League Friday after investigation of a Dec. 13 incident in which 18-year-old senior Steve Wyatt allegedly pulled a gun on Robert W. Vetkoetter in the parking lot of South Grand Prairie High School.

Wyatt, suspended from the team Dec. 15, was indicted for aggravated assault and freed on $1,500 bond after his arrest Jan. 20.

The decision means that the team, with a 1-4 district record, can play basketball but cannot hold any district or state title, said D.D. Richardson, chairman of the District 11-AAAAA executive committee of the UIL.

Richardson said the committee reviewed Vetkoetter's allegations Jan. 23 and voted to place the Wilson basketball team on probation for the next two seasons.

"I'm powerful mad that our children would be discriminated against because of the behavior of one student," said Dallas school board member Harryette Ehrhardt, who represents the Wilson area.

"I don't see why the whole school should be punished. We don't punish an entire class for the behavior of one student."

Mrs. Ehrhardt said she would ask that the school board "question such a thing."

Richardson said the UIL executive committee held a hearing on the incident, and "based on that hearing, we concluded that Woodrow Wilson (High School) violated the athletic code by allowing a student to harass an official."

SHOWING HER FORM — Judy Rankin, playing out of Midland, Texas, tees off on the 8th hole during 3rd round action on the LPGA tournament at Turnberry Isl in North Miami, Fla. Rankin is tied for 1st place with Joanne Carner with a 5 under par for a 211 total.

Midlander Rankin takes LPGA lead

NORTH MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Judy Rankin sank four short birdie putts for a 4-under-par 68 Saturday as she jumped from fourth place to tie JoAnne Carner for the lead after three rounds of the Ladies Professional Golf Association's $125,000 Elizabeth Arden Classic.

Rankin and Carner were each at 5-under-par 211, one stroke ahead of Donna Caponi, who hit 68 Saturday, and two strokes up on Nancy Lopez-Melton, Pat Bradley and rookie Mindy Moore, who all carded 69s.

Jan Stephenson was at 214 and Sally Little, Carolyn Hill and Pat Meyers at 215.

"Golf is a funny game," said Rankin, who birdied the second, fifth, 12th and 16th holes. "I've been playing flawlessly tee to green, but not putting well. Today, I missed four fairways and putted better and played an under-par round quite easily."

It was another story for Carner, who strolled into a one-shot lead Friday with an eagle on the sixth hole. On Saturday, she hit four bogeys and three birdies en route to a 1-over-par 73. She hit 39 on the front nine holes, then a 34 on the back.

"After the front nine, I looked at the board and saw seven golfers with minus-3. I said to myself, 'I'd better get with it,'" Carner said.

"I was too relaxed and that's when I tend to play bad. I started smoking and got nerved up for the second nine."

Moore, playing in her second tournament, was tied at one point for the lead.

"I think I can win the golf tournament," she said after throwing her ball into the water near the 18th green. "I was real nervous yesterday (Friday). I couldn't stop shaking. Today I was calm and confident."

Holman likes Texas, wins US Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Marshall Holman took advantage of three consecutive open frames by Mark Roth to win the $131,000 U.S. Open bowling tournament Saturday afternoon, his second Texas victory in as many weeks.

"I love Texas. This is the first time I've won back-to-back tournaments," said the Medford, Oregon bowler after collecting his $21,000 first prize.

Holman came from third place on the stepladder finals and rolled three straight strikes midway through the championship match to take a commanding lead and coasted to an easy victory with a 200 game, 21 pins ahead of Roth, 2nd of Spring Lake Heights, N.J.

"I'll take it any way I can get it," added Holman, who now has earned $56,000 in five 1981 tournaments. "I want to set the pace on this tour, and to do that, I have to beat Mark."

"We could not rule on the gun. We had to rule on whether the school had provided protection for the official," Richardson said.

Richardson said there is no way the school could appeal his committee's decision.

Wilson principal Wayne Pierce said Friday he had not received any formal notice of the probation, but added that he had conducted his own investigation into the matter.

Pierce says the incident probably was not caused by anything that happened during the game, but was the result of some verbal exchange between Vetkoetter and Wyatt in the parking lot after the game.

"He (Wyatt) told us he did not have a gun," Pierce said. "All the players who were with him said he did not have a gun."

Vetkoetter declined to comment on the incident, but in a letter written earlier to the UIL he stated that he was approached by Wyatt as he was getting into his car after the basketball game.

Vetkoetter wrote that he and Wyatt quarreled and then Wyatt went to his car and returned with a pistol.

RACE FOR THE TAPE — Sprinter Houston McTear, right, and University of Georgia football star Herschel Walker approach the tape Friday night in the 60 yard dash at the Millrose Games in New York's Madison Square Garden. McTear won the heat, but was eliminated from the finals when he posted a disappointing time of 6.30 seconds.

Forsan girls, Stanton boys win 5-AA

FORSAN — As expected, the Forsan girls and Stanton boys took wins here Friday night when these two District 5-AA rivals squared off.

The Forsan girls played well enough to win by a 61-38 count. They had Stanton down by 27-8 late in the second stanza, but the visitors reeled off seven straight points to close the gap to 27-15 at the intermission. Stanton stayed close entering the final stanza, but Forsan began to roll in the final minutes, especially when Stanton's inside power was hurt when Della Brown Eiland added 12 and Curtis Williams 10.

Forsan was paced by Andre Alcantar's eight points.

Steers stifle Abilene

Continued from Page 1-B commented. "Besides Bobby Earl and Fletcher's work on the boards, James Doss and Robert Rubio did an excellent job in the last half on their guards, who were hurting us."

The Steers won't have too much time to celebrate, however, as they travel on Tuesday to face the Midland Bulldogs, the ninth ranked team in the state and the winner of the first half in 5-AAAAA.

By quarters: BIG SPRING (48) — D. Wright 1-0-2; Rubio 2-3-9; J. Wright 1-3-0-4; Doss 2-0-4; Williams 4-5-17; Johnson 5-0-10; TOTALS 20-8-48.

The Forsan girls, which won the first half in 5-AA, are now 4-0 in the second half and 21-3 on the year. They only need to win one of their final two league games against Plains or Morton to claim the title.

The Stanton win kept Coach Eric Looney's squad unbeaten after three second half starts, and improved their season record to 19-6.

The Steers shot 48 percent from the field, and Haller was pleased with the BSHS offense in the win, despite scoring only 48 points.

"We played ball control, but we didn't necessarily slow it down," he stated.

Stanton fell to 0-3 in the second half with the loss. In the boys game, Forsan held close up to half, but Stanton exploded in the third period and rolled on to a 55-34 decision.

The Stanton win kept Coach Eric Looney's squad unbeaten after three second half starts, and improved their season record to 19-6.

Forsan fell to 0-4 in the second half and 9-13 on the year.

Coahoma splits with Seminole

COAHOMA — Coahoma and Seminole split a pair of high school basketball games in District 6-AAA action here Friday night.

The Coahoma girls, which won the first half in 6-AAA, dominated play throughout, especially from the free throw line, in taking a 53-33 win over Seminole.

The Coahoma girls only outscored Seminole by two points from the field, but had a 25-7 advantage at the free throw line.

The win gives the Coahoma team a second half record of 2-1, while Seminole fell to 0-3.

Andrea Fowler canned 12 free throws en route to her game high 18 points, while Karl Robinson added 15 points. Gressett had 15 for Seminole.

The boys game matched a pair of teams that tied with Denver City for the first half title in 6-AAA, but Seminole got the jump on Coahoma in the second half, taking a 65-56 victory.

Seminole rolled to a 33-20 halftime lead, and then held off a Coahoma rally in the fourth stanza to emerge with the win. It was the second half opener for both teams.

Nine Seminole players got into the scoring act, with Starkey's 23 points leading the way.

As usual, the Coahoma scoring attack was basically in the form of two players, Michael Meyer and Philip Ritchey. Meyer canned 22 points and Ritchey 30 for the Bulldogs, who saw their season record drop to 15-8.

In JV action, the Coahoma girls scored a 50-28 win, while the Seminole boys took a 52-45 win.

The Coahoma teams return to action on Tuesday.

SOMEWHAT HOT — This man makes an understandable face while faced with the prospect of eating 89 jalapeno peppers in 20 minutes. That was the record set at last year's Jalapeno Festival. The jalapeno eating contest is the climax to the two day festival to be held here Feb. 20-21. Included in the festivities will be an International Waiter's Race and a "Miss Jalapeno" beauty contest.

'Jalapeno Festival' Hot two-day funfest

LAREDO — The third annual Jalapeno Festival scheduled here Feb. 20-21, will be climaxed by a Jalapeno-eating contest. Contestants will warm themselves against February's chill by trying to down the most jalapeno peppers within an allotted time period. Last year, over 30 people competed in the contest and proceeded to eat their way through 10 one-gallon containers of the red-hot peppers. Last year's winner took top honors by eating 89 of the peppers in 20 minutes. Although the event is termed the "Jalapeno Festival," the two-day funfest includes such events as an International Waiters' Race, a tricycle race, a "Miss Jalapeno" beauty contest, an egg toss and a tug of war. Entries from all over the state will be welcome. The festival is a part of Laredo's annual Washington Birthday Celebration. The Washington Birthday Celebration is a five-day event highlighted by a Colonial Pageant, a parade featuring participants from both sides of the border, the Noche Mexicana which features internationally known Mexican entertainers, selection of a "Mr. South Texas," "Mr. International," and "Senor International," fireworks, a carnival and other events.

Four benefit from seminar

Bill M. Estes, Lila K. Estes, brokers; and Debney Farris and Ford Farris, sales associates; with ERA Reeder, Realtors, recently returned from the Electronic Realty Associates' Nation Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

While there, they participated in an Unconventional Methods of Finance Seminar, which was designed to provide them with methods to aid prospective buyers with small down payments, owner financing, lease operations and other forms of unconventional financing.

In the current finance market with high interest rates and tight money, officials of Electronic Realty Associates say they feel that the skill and techniques which the four Big Spring people mastered in the seminar will be of considerable service to both buyers and sellers in the local real estate market.

Block wants embargo lifted

By PHIL SWANK
States News Service
WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture John Block simply cannot stand to lose.

Block will kill you for two points (in a baseball game), says his press secretary John Ochs. "And he's the kind of guy who won't let you call fouls."

One former adversary in Illinois who asked not be identified adds: "If Block gets no on the first answer, it doesn't phase him. He just keeps coming. A tough guy."

Undoubtedly, President Reagan is keenly aware of that. Block, the man hand-picked by Kansas Sen. Bob Dole to be USDA head, has led the fight to persuade the president to lift the Russian grain embargo.

Block, a rugged 45-year-old, is many things: 1957 West Point graduate; basketball player; Boston Marathon runner; Hog farmer.

But, most of all, Block is a hard-hitting dynamo who is ready to fight anyone to protect the interest of farmers. Block loves a challenge; some would say he loves a fight. Indeed, a former Illinois associate says Block's stay in Washington first into the fight. And he has taken on the equally competitive Secretary of State Alexander Haig, who reportedly favors an expansion of the controversial embargo.

Reports that Haig has acceded to Block—and convinced Reagan to maintain the embargo—are highly premature. Block says. The war is not over.

Block smiles at the suggestion that he is up against big league competition. "I don't think I am at a disadvantage in Washington. After all, we are all human beings," he said in a recent interview.

"I like to win. But I'm not a hard loser," Block adds. "I don't believe in confrontation. I believe in teamwork."

According to Don Teele, an Illinois agriculture extension agent who has known Block since he was a teenager, Block "was always an aggressive fellow who knows what he wants in life."

After three years as an infantry officer, Block returned to Illinois to run a 300-acre hog farm, turning it into a 3,000-acre success story producing 6,000 animals a year.

After becoming Illinois agriculture secretary (his first public office) in 1977, Block took up jogging to keep fit. Last year he ran the Boston Marathon in 3 hours and 12 minutes. Block's campaign to become USDA head perhaps epitomized his competitive nature. He became the front-runner for the job after receiving enthusiastic support from Dole and other key congressmen.

"At first he was happy about all the attention he was getting," recalled Dave Lane, Block's former press aide in the state agriculture office. "But it wasn't a big deal with him."

But then reports circulated that Reagan was close to choosing another candidate for the job.

"When it looked like he was out of the running, all of sudden it struck him," Lane says. "It got his competitive juices going."

"I went into his office and all the secretaries were calling Dole, (Sen. Jesse) Helms, (Sen. Charles) Percy everybody," said Lane. "Ochs came over and said 'The guy's crazy. He's mad. He wants it now.'"

Dole and his colleagues arranged a Block-Reagan meeting.

"I'll never forget what Sen. Dole did for me," Block says of the man who many feel is personally responsible for Block's appointment.

Fifteen minutes after the Reagan meeting, Block returned to his motel room and heard the phone ring. It was a Reagan adviser asking him if he wanted to be the next agriculture secretary.

I've got the credit union with me. I use it everyday.

This is from my credit union. It's called a Share Draft Account... It's a great leap beyond ordinary checking!

First, I don't pay for it... it actually pays me! No more monthly service charges, no on-going transaction fees. They don't even require a minimum monthly balance.

But — I do earn dividends, just like I get on my regular credit union shares.

There's also a direct deposit feature which lets me send my paycheck straight to the credit union... and automatic carbonless copies of every draft I write... regular monthly statements that detail all my share draft activity... and a special overdraft privilege — just the kind of back-up the credit union is famous for.

business the credit union way — every single day!

THE CREDIT UNION

Share Draft Accounts are easy to open. You sign some papers, tell them how you want your drafts printed... that's it. From then on, you're handling all your financial

This is National Vocational Education Week

Vocational Education pioneered by BSHS

By MICKIE DICKSON

Pay-check education, a vital force in both local and national economies, is recognized this week through National Vocational Education week.

Attention is focused Feb. 8-14 on what each local school in the country is doing in regard to preparing students for the world of work in which they will live.

Vocational Education links students, school and business together to form training programs that have proved beneficial to students and the business community. Employers provide "on-the-job" training stations with pay to students interested in their particular field or occupation. Meanwhile, the school provides classroom theory and practical application to prepare the student to assume responsibilities commensurate with the job while earning school credit.

Big Spring High School students work hard in Vocational classes as well as "on-the-job" training. Added attractions to encourage them are the Vocational Youth clubs aligned with each of the nine sections of the program to develop leadership abilities and provide competition on the District, State and National levels to spur them on to success.

A few of these success stories include a family of Big Spring Herald employees: Robert E. Rogers, production manager, his daughter, Robbi Crow, former family page editor, now an executive secretary for the Radiology Department at Malone-Hogan Hospital and her husband, Dewayn Crow, press foreman.

Bob Rogers started in Diversified Occupation, the original BSBS program in 1953-54 school year, working at Motor and Bearing Company. The next year he was employed by The Big Spring Herald as machinist's helper back when hot metal and linotype machines were used. After graduation in 1955 he attended Howard College then Midland College, studying electronics, returning to The Herald to eventually become Production Manager.

Robbi started working March 24, 1974 at 15 years of age as an Automix Keyboard, Inc., AKI operator, and thereafter learned everything in the composition room where her father was foreman. Enrolling in Vocational Office Education the next fall under Mrs. Judith Blick, her junior year, Robbi continued working in The Herald composing room the next four years, graduating from BSBS in 1976.

Robbi prepared a work manual on her work at The Herald which won at local and VOE district competition and enabled her to attend state competition at Dallas prior to graduation.

In November 1978 she was promoted to assistant family page editor becoming editor in January 1979.

Robbi left The Herald to pursue her secretarial career at the Radiology Department of Malone-Hogan Hospital Jan. 21 as an executive secretary to the doctors in the department.

Robbi and Dewayn Crow were married June 25, 1976 Dewayn was a CVAE (coordinated vocational academic education) student working as a pressman's helper at The Herald. He is now press foreman. Completing the family is their little girl, Shannon, 2.

BSHS has one of the oldest vocational programs that has been in continuous operation since its inception in 1935. It also has the oldest Youth Club chapter in the state that has been under continuous charter each year since its original charter was granted, Chapter 15 of the Vocational Industrial Club of LEARNING CENTER — Kappie Wise, daughter of Kay Wise, owner of Spoiled Rotten Children's Boutique, in the BSBS Child Development Learning Center. Child Development classes, for Juniors and Seniors in Useful Homemaking Department, offers students the opportunity to care for a group of children toward the end of the quarter semester in this Learning Center at BSBS. Earlier in the course they work with young babies.

VOE PRE-EMPLOYMENT LAB — Anna Walker, teacher-coordinator, oversees Lisa Kimble's work on the electronic calculator in the Vocational Office Education laboratory. The two-hour a day training on modern office equipment better equips students for the cooperative employment phase of VOE. The course is taught on modern office equipment such as electric typewriters, ten-key adding machines, transcription machine, printing calculator, Gestetner duplication machine and an electronic typewriter.

America, VICA (Originally VIC).

Upon being designated in the early 1960's as an area vocational school, BSBS began accepting students from outlying smaller schools in its vocational course offerings. These students can remain as full-time students of their home school, receiving credit for work completed there, allowing them to meet all home school graduation requirements, and to graduate with their own class.

Students of area schools within driving distance of Big Spring desiring to participate in this type of training should contact their own school superintendents to make arrangements with the Big Spring Independent School District for their vocational training.

"This course offering is provided at no cost to the student, with the home school or student providing transportation to and from Big Spring," said John H. Bagnall, vocational administrator for the BSISD.

Vocation programs and teachers are: Production Agriculture teacher, Truett Vines; Production Agriculture and Cooperative Agriculture coordinator, Gary Earhart, under the Agriculture program. The companion club for agriculture is Future Farmers of America, FFA.

The Trade and Industrial Programs with companion club, VICA, includes Metal Trades taught by Thomas H. Ament; Auto Mechanics taught by Harold Harper; Electrical Appliance Repair with Frank Ortega teaching; Industrial Cooperative Training, ICT, taught by Loren Spencer, teacher-coordinator and Cosmetology by Valtai Reeves Beauty School by contract.

The Marketing and Distributive Education Program with companion Distributive Education Club of America includes two classes in Marketing and Distributive Education taught by Lee Dale Lowery and Bill Coggin, teacher-coordinators.

The Coordinated Vocational Academic Education program with the Vocational Opportunity Clubs of Texas includes CVAE Cooperative class with C.W. Tanner as teacher-coordinator; Furniture Repair and Upholstery taught by John Annen, General Mechanical Repair taught by Pedro G. Ruiz and General Construction Trades taught by D. Ball Jr. in Runnels Junior High School.

Useful Homemaking, the non-employment phase with companion club Future Homemakers of America, FHA, has Sue Willbanks as department chairperson. She teaches Child Development and Home and Family Living Classes. Wanda Walker and Alma Wrightsill, Clothing and Foods classes in addition to making home visits. Charlotta Hamilton teaches Child Development and Clothing classes; Billie Grisham teaches Consumer Education, Home Furnishing and Foods classes and Virginia Martin teaches Foods, Home Management and Clothing classes.

Gainful Homemaking, the employment phase, is taught by Nancy (Mrs. John) Annen as teacher-coordinator for Home Economic Cooperative Education, HECE.

Vocational Office Education with companion club, Office Education Association, is taught by Anna Walker, teacher-coordinator for the Pre-employment Laboratory class and Vonna Swim, teacher-coordinator for Vocational Office Education class, VOE.

Apparel Care, Laundry and Dry Cleaning Occupations, is a class for Special Education students taught by Helen Rosas in the Lakeview School facility. Handicapped students from Runnels Junior High School attend morning classes and BSBS students attend the afternoon classes.

Metal trades, Auto Mechanics and Electrical Appliance Repair are each two years courses available to Sophomore through Senior students.

ICT is available to students 16 years and above. Cosmetology is a two year course for Juniors and Seniors.

Marketing and Distributive Education courses are available to students 16 years and above.

CVAE Cooperative is available to students generally who are 16 years and above or students with special needs on the sophomore level.

Furniture Repair and Upholstery and General Mechanical Repair are classes that are available to Freshmen and Sophomores. General Construction Trades is available to the 8th grade students only.

Useful Homemaking classes are available to grades 9-12, but Gainful Homemaking is limited to students 16 years and above.

VOE Pre-employment Laboratory is available to Juniors only while VOE is available to Senior students only.

Apparel Care is available to 8-9 grade students. All Vocation Education Programs are available to both male and female students. Information about any of the vocational classes may be obtained from individual teachers or coordinators or Harvey Rothell, Vocational Education Counselor, 267-7461, Ext. 41.

A few more of the many successful students and graduates from BSBS vocational programs includes two National first place winners in VOE. Elizabeth Moore (Mrs. Ray) Stewart, took first place in National VOE in 1969 in Kansas City, Mo. and Betty Pitts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lee Pitts, also placed first at Columbus, Ohio in 1972. Two other VOE students who won State and attended National VOE were Donna Pearson (Mrs. Jimmy) Lee at Chicago and Cheryl Loper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Loper, 2912 Cherokee, at Cincinnati, Ohio.

One of Pete Ruiz' General Mechanical Repair students, Lisa Hartmann, attended State VOCT contest in the 1979-80 school year, entering the General Mechanical Tool Identification contest. Lisa placed first in District contest which was held at BSBS over 35 male competitors.

Lisa is in the CVAE program this year working at Sands Motel Restaurant. "My goal is to graduate from BSBS and join the Air Force. I like working on small engines better than automobiles," she said.

The Herald is a staunch supporter of the BSBS vocational program with five students employed. Those include Vince Martinez, ICT Senior, District Manager in Circulation Department; Paula Allen, CVAE junior, works in the composing department in classified paste-up; Jesse Haro, ICT Senior, works in the Fast Print Shop; Glen Sitton, DE, works in Circulation as Distributor; and Kenneth Hubregtse, CVAE Senior, works in the Mail Room.

Better than 50 percent of the GENERAL MECHANICAL REPAIR — Joe Alvarez repairs a lawnmower engine in Pedro Ruiz' vocational class for freshmen and sophomore students. This is a two year program of two hours classroom and laboratory instruction each day. The course develops basic manipulative skills, safety judgements, proper work habits, desirable attitudes and fits the student to enter high school vocational education programs. Students work with small engine repair and maintenance, minor automotive maintenance, basic electricity and basic welding.

MODEL CAMSHAFT — Tony Hall, a BSBS Honor Society student, right, works with the model aluminum (non-working) camshaft copied from a 1973 Subaru which he made in Metal Trades class, a two-year course. Thomas H. Ament, instructor, looks on as Tony examines it. Metal trades involves 60 hours initially of instruction, discussion, filmstrips and testing shop safety, machine shop and welding. Twelve of Ament's former students have enrolled in Texas State Technical Institute in Waco to further their education in welding and machine tool technology.

students in BSBS are enrolled in one vocational program or another. Primarily, these students are prepared to go into jobs found within the commercial and trade area without having additional formal training or education to enter into the world of work.

Many vocational students choose to go to our local college or trade school and technical institutions to further their training before entry into the "world of work" as a full-time endeavor. This additional training usually allows the student to enter a field of work at a higher pay scale or to achieve promotion at a faster rate. However, this doesn't always hold true for many successful people of Big Spring area graduated from BSBS with enough basic knowledge and skill gained from what vocational people refer to as "pay-check" education equipped for the world of work on an equal footing with others in competition in the job market.

Dear Abby

Boss May Censor Thoughts After Hearing Censure

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband says I am an attractive woman. We are very happy and seldom have an argument. I work in a large office with a dozen other women. My boss, who is manly and attractive, propositioned me. Of course I turned him down, but he isn't the type to be easily discouraged. I understand he has done this to others and those who refused were fired.

My husband's solution: "Tell him your husband will be out of town for a few days, then invite him over for the evening. On that evening, invite his wife over and let her hide (with me) in another room. Wear something 'comfortable,' and lead him on a little. Then when he starts shedding his clothes, his wife and I will appear!" I think this should take care of the situation. What do you think, Abby?

WILLOW IN MASS.

DEAR WILLOW: Why be a party to entrapment? There's a more legitimate solution. Inform your boss that the new Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has put into effect rules making sexual harassment a violation of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. "Harassment occurs," the EEOC says, "when submission to it becomes a condition of employment, when submission or rejection becomes a factor in promotions or raises, or when the conduct interferes with work performance, or creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive working environment." Furthermore, any employer who violates these rules is liable to censure, to say nothing of a lawsuit. That should do it!

DEAR ABBY: Ask anyone who works in a nursing home if men are sexually active in their 90s.

One 190-pound man had to be lifted to bed, to wheelchair, to toilet. This "helpless" old gent, age 93, would pinch and poke at any of us girls who came near him.

After many months of almost breaking our backs lifting him, late one night we found his empty wheelchair in the hallway. He had found his way to a lady friend's bed! We later learned from several ladies that this 93-year-old man was very active indeed.

If you print my letter, use anything but my real name. I'm still working here.

MOUND CITY, MO.

MRS. TERRY CONWAY

Hillcrest Church is scene for ceremony

Tami Lee Washburn and Terry Joe Conway were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Friday at the Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Washburn, Breckenridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Dilbert Conway, 2001 Morrison.

The Rev. McClendon officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white bridal gown featuring a bodice of re-embroidered lace, embellished with seed pearls. A white chiffon over taffeta skirt fell gracefully from the princess-styled waistline, which featured lace-embroidered and pearl-adorned fitted sleeves to the waist. She wore a crown of embroidered lace with pearls which held her two-tiered veil.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of pearl roses and carnations sprinkled with baby's breath.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Delaina McQueery. Neal Humphrey was best man. Guests were seated by Kris Mancill.

Jay Phinney was vocalist, and pianist was Beverly Aronson.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School. The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School, and is employed by Guthrie Oil Company.

The newlyweds will make their home in Big Spring following a wedding trip to Austin.

Protect young children with safe car seats which must pass tests

Babies and small children need special seats for comfort and proper protection when riding in a motor vehicle. These seats come in three basic types—baby carriers, child seats and combinations of the two.

Children's car seats must pass a government test for crash resistance before they can be marketed. This test became stiffer as of Jan. 1, 1981.

Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), 400 7th Street, S.E., Washington, D.C. 20590. NHTSA also has information on renting child-restraint seats.

The Texas Safety Association and some Extension Homemakers Clubs have loan programs for parents who need child-restraint devices.

In 1979, 109 children age four and younger died while riding as passengers on Texas highways. Another 6,096 youngsters in this age group were reported injured. Only about seven percent of young children are adequately protected by seat belts or other restraining devices since these are voluntary precautions in Texas.

The standard safety belt is not designed for children, so a parent must make an additional investment for a specially designed seat. However, the extra cost may mean saving a child's life.

Attend The Church Of Your Choice Sunday

MRS. KIM MARK DENTON

Church of Christ rite performed

Cathy Elaine Baird became the bride of Kim Mark Denton in a candlelight ceremony Friday evening at the Eleventh and Birdwell Lane Church of Christ. The couple exchanged vows before an archway entwined with greenery and baby's breath. The archway was centered between two pots of carnations and four candelabras. B.W. Briggs, minister of the Highway 80 Church of Christ, performed the double-ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Baird, 3201 Cornell. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M.C. Denton, Silver Heels Addition.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal length silk organza gown of Empress bodice style and Victorian sleeves. The bodice was covered with Venice lace motifs accented with seed pearls. The full skirt was trimmed with matching lace, and the cathedral length veil fell from a Juliet cap sprinkled with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of cascading white roses and baby's breath.

In following tradition, the bride carried a white Bible covered with satin, which had been carried by her mother in her wedding, to represent something old, and a gold bracelet was worn as something new. The wedding dress, which belonged to her sister, was borrowed, and a garter was worn as something blue. Wedding music was sung by Misty Johnson, Sue Balios, Andy Spell, and Beverly Wheeler. Other vocalists were Mark Warren, Don Green, Don Swiney, and Sherrie Bordske.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Melinda Vassar. Bridesmaids were Sherrie Baird, sister of the bride, and Tammy Proctor of Coahoma. The attendants wore peach colored floor-length dresses of crepe-back satin with three-quarter length sleeves. Each carried a candle surrounded by peach carnations and baby's breath, and tied with brown and peach ribbons.

The best receptions seem to happen of their own accord... perfectly. Yet we here at the ACCENT SHOPPE have found, as you will yourself before too long, that a good reception takes a lot of planning.

One big problem for the bride's mother is determining the number of guests who will come to the reception. A safe estimate is to take the list of acceptances and add to it one-third or one-quarter of the number who have not responded. Some who accept find that at the last minute they cannot attend. Some do not reply but come anyway. Relax! In our experience these usually balance each other out... providing you with just the number of guests you expected.
