Eight people killed, 242 hurt

Officials 'suspicious' about Vegas hotel fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Four fires of suspicious origin sent smoke throughout several floors of the 30-story Las Vegas Hilton Tuesday night, killing eight people and injuring 242. A room-to-room search was under way today for possible additional victims in the gambling mecca's second major hotel blaze in three months.

Record cold in Big Spring

A winter front in the Big Spring area Tuesday saw temperatures drop dramatically, and a record fell as result of the cold.

According to Charles Yates, an engineering technician at the local U.S. Experiment Station, Tuesday night's low reached nine degrees. That represented a record cold temperature for the date. Previous low temperature on Feb. 10 was in 1919, with a 10 degree reading.

Winds reached 15 to 25 mph Tuesday night, which resulted in a chill factor of 15 degrees below zero.

Before the area was hit by the cold wave Tuesday, a high of 59 degrees was recorded locally.

Six people, including a firefighter, were hospitalized in critical condition after the fires, including one major blaze that started on the eighth floor and three smaller fires on other floors. Most of the injured suffered smoke inhalation and were released after treatment.

A pillar of flame shot up the side of the 2,783-room hotel, the nation's largest, as hundreds of guests fled into the streets or scrambled to the roof where helicopters plucked them to safety.

"When we got outside, there were flames shooting up the side of the hotel. It looked like the 'Towering Inferno,'" said Hank Arkin, a guest from Merrick, N.Y.

Fire Chief Roy Parrish said two men were being questioned about the blazes, which followed by less than three months a fire at the MGM Grand Hotel the killed 84 people and injured more than 700.

However, Clark County homicide Detective Michael Brady said "nobody is in custody for arson." He said six people were questioned about possible looting, but they were later released.

Guards were at all entrances and in the casino area today, while guests returned to the hotel in an effort to retrieve belongings.

Manager Art Donovan said he had "no idea" when it would reopen.

The first-floor casino was not damaged. Hotel officials said that unlike the MGM Grand, the stone-facade Hilton had sprinklers and smoke detectors on every floor.

The main fire began about 8:06 p.m. in the southeast corner of the eighth floor. A pillar of flames quickly leapt from window to window up the side of the building, spewing smoke over the Las Vegas Strip.

Guests broke windows to scream for help, or lowered themselves on ropes made of bedsheets. Stairwells to the ground floor were jammed.

One victim died in a fall onto an outside deck, Clark County Coroner Otto Ravenholt said. The others died of smoke inhalation, he said.

About 25 minutes after the first fire was found, a second blaze was discovered in a different wing. Two more were found within 20 more minutes, and a special weapons team was called to the scene when authorities suspected arsonists might be at work inside.

Some 450 firefighters battled the fire.

SURVIVORS RECEIVE AID — A couple comforts each other after surviving a fire that burned in the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel Tuesday night killing at least five persons and injuring over 100. The couple were among many of the hotel patrons that are being sheltered at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

U.S. Attorney General mulls plan

Two voting locations possible

By JAMES WERRELL
Voters may be able to cast their ballots in the April 4 city election at centralized locations after all, said City Secretary Tom Ferguson, during the regular meeting of the Big Spring City Council, Tuesday night.

The council laid plans this fall to establish all voting boxes in only two locations for the upcoming election; one at the Northside Fire Station and the rest at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. What the council hadn't bargained for was the time it would take to gain approval for the plan from the U.S. Attorney General.

Until last week, city officials had been very skeptical that approval would come in time.

"I received a call last week from the attorney general's office that he would work as diligently as possible to see that we get our approval," said Ferguson.

"This action is probably due to urgings by the Mayor (Clyde Angel) to our Senators and Congressmen. We can afford to give it another two weeks and still meet our deadline," said City Manager Don Davis.

With that in mind, the council tabled the second reading of a resolution that would establish five different voting boxes in the city.

Councilmen passed the first reading of an ordinance that would change the zoning of the developed campus of Howard College from Single Family Residential to Planned Development. The college owns approximately 100 acres of land, including about 33 acres of undeveloped property east of the campus.

Since no master plan has been conceived for those 33 acres, the zone change will affect only the developed portions of the campus.

The council gave permission on an emergency reading to replat duplex residences in the Greenbelt Housing Development. Formerly, it had been required that both sections of a duplex, which is meant to house two families anyway, be sold to one owner.

Under the new conditions, each section may be sold separately as a condominium.

"This is really just a change in the legal description of the duplexes," said Bob Miller, local attorney representing Greenbelt.

According to Miller, 143 duplexes and 286 individual residences exist in the development. Of these, 90 have been sold, and 137 are leased.

A claim for damages that was tabled at the last council meeting was denied at Tuesday's meeting. The claim was tabled when no one at the last meeting could find out whether a hole that allegedly caused the accident had been excavated by the city or Mother Nature.

Julian Fisher stated that his son had driven the family car into a hole at the intersection of Scurry and 18th, on Nov. 29, and that both of the car's front tires and rims had been ruined. The city had excavated two holes at that intersection, but both had been covered before Nov. 29, said Davis.

"Based on that information, and the fact that you would have to come to a complete stop before turning the corner, I make a motion that the claim be denied," said Fuller, after which the council unanimously concurred.

"Thank you very much for nothing," said Fisher.

The council voted on an emergency basis to outlaw any use of a Big Spring Centennial symbol except by the authorized Centennial Committee. John Taylor, chairman of the committee, said that the symbol would be used on a variety of products and souvenirs which will be sold to raise money for the celebration.

"We have a pretty unique situation, being able to celebrate two centennials in 32 years," said Taylor, laughing. "The first was for the arrival of Capt. Marcy, and this one will celebrate the arrival of the railroad."

Under the new ruling, merchants will be allowed to display the symbol, but no one may sell items bearing the symbol unless authorized by the committee.

Interest bid for $6 million in school tax bonds accepted

COAHOMA — The Coahoma ISD board has voted to accept the low bid from Underwood, Neuhaus and Co., Inc., for a 7.87 percent interest rate for the $6 million in school tax bonds. The money will be used to undertake a major building program in the school complex.

Supt. of Schools Richard Souter said the trustees were delighted to get such an interest rate. Trustees, he added, will likely start taking bids on the additions to the plant within a month.

The board accepted in good faith a check for $120,000 from Underwood, Newhaus and Co., Inc., after reviewing the revised upgraded bond rating from Moody's Investors Service on the tax bonds from B-aa-1 and A-1.

In other action taken Monday night, the trustees voted to continue the contract of Athletic Director and Head Coach Roy Winter through the 1981-82 school year.

The board also reviewed a personal request made by Bill Easterling, high school principal, to be reassigned from high school principal to classroom duties.

Cosden's safety record

Two million man hours without lost time accident exceeded

One of the most unique safety records in industry was established by employees of the Cosden Oil and Chemical Company refinery at 3 p.m., here Tuesday.

At that hour, the plant passed two million man hours without a lost time accident. The first milestone at the refinery—one million man hours with a lost time accident—was established May 18, 1980. The last lost time injury at Cosden's industrial complex here occurred Aug. 28, 1979.

Kenneth W. Perry, Dallas-based Cosden president, and Ronald Medley, vice president — chemical operations — today toured the refinery to congratulate the almost 700 employees.

They said that without the employees' efforts and contributions the Sheriff withdraws his resignation

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County sheriff Bill McGuire has withdrawn his letter of resignation which was submitted Monday to the Mitchell County commissioners.

The change of mind came after McGuire was told Texas Attorney General Mark White ruled the sheriff must step down at the time the commissioners accept his resignation. McGuire had wanted to resign April 1 but decided to hold off after being told of the state's ruling. In the meantime, until McGuire officially resigns, the commissioners will not name a replacement.

superlative safety record could not have been achieved at the local refinery, which is a 60,000 barrel-per-day operation, with a large petrochemical plant.

It is the first unit within the company ever to achieve a two-million manhour safety record.

Cosden is a wholly owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, Inc. The parent company announced this morning that each of the almost 700 employees working at the Big Spring plant will receive a $100 gift certificate redeemable at any of the large group of participating Big Spring merchants.

That means almost $70,000 will be spent in the local community, an amount Perry said should have a considerable impact on the local economy.

Perry disclosed that the mailing of the gift certificates and plans in the early spring for a suitable event to celebrate two million manhours without a lost time injury were announced in a congratulatory letter sent to each employee.

Paul Meek of Dallas, president of American Petrofina, and Perry Tuesday sent a congratulatory telegram to each employee, which read:

"Big Spring plant employees have met the challenge. Congratulations. Another landmark. Today you made two million manhours without a lost time injury a reality. That's a superlative record. Each of you has every right to be proud of the achievement. We look forward to personally expressing our appreciation to you."

A proclamation proclaiming the employees' safety record was authorized by the Big Spring city council and signed by Mayor Clyde Angel. It was presented to Jimmy Wood, manager of safety at Cosden, at Tuesday evening's council meeting.

Action / reaction: Fence at BSSH

Q. Who authorized the construction of the fence in front of the Big Spring State Hospital? Where did the funds come from? Also, has an additional employee been hired to man the "guardhouse" information booth as you enter BSSH?

A. Robert von Rosenberg, acting assistant superintendent at BSSH, said the fence was constructed following a request from the clinical treatment staff at the hospital. Von Rosenberg said the fence is a barrier, not a security measure, and was erected for patient safety.

State funds were requested for the fence in a budget compiled by the hospital. Approval was received from the Central Administration in Austin, the Texas Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board, and the Big Spring State Hospital Administration.

Von Rosenberg added that no one mans the information booth at all times, but that a security employee, who also monitors the grounds, is there at certain times of the day.

Explosion kills 23

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — A fiery explosion ripped through a chemical plant today, injuring at least 23 workers and leaving several unaccounted for, authorities said.

Shock waves from the blast were felt 20 miles away.

Assistant Fire Chief Arthur George said two workers were believed to have died in the explosion at the De Soto Inc. plant. He said several more were unaccounted for.

"The place is absolutely a shambles," said one worker at the plant. Debris littered a nearby roadway and at least one home across the street from the plant was completely blackened with debris.

The force of the blast threw debris 300 to 400 feet, caused extensive damage to the nearby main building and blew out windows of homes near the plant. It also buckled the steel door of an adjacent factory, blew out lights and windows.

A column of thick black smoke rose 800 feet in the air and dropped fine ash as far as seven miles away, witnesses reported.

Martin execution delayed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal judge on Wednesday delayed the execution of David Dene Martin, who was scheduled to die Friday in the electric chair for the murder of four people three years ago.

U.S. District Judge Jack Gordon referred Martin's appeal to a magistrate for an evidentiary hearing and delayed the execution until the hearing can be held and a ruling issued.

On Tuesday, the Louisiana Supreme Court voted 4-2 against halting the execution, the second time the state's highest court has ruled Martin can be executed.

Two dissenting justices argued Martin was due another day in court on issues raised by his defense, but the majority ruling meant the end of the legal line in state courts.

Cold hinders utilities

Utilities across the state today appealed to their customers to reduce electricity consumption as a blast of cold arctic air sent temperatures plunging to record lows and the demand for energy soaring.

Most utilities had "real difficulty meeting the customers' electrical load requirements because of extremely cold weather, fuel curtailments and problems with generating equipment," said George Hedrick of Texas Electric Service Co. in Fort Worth.

Meanwhile, Lone Star Gas Co., which serves 200,000 square miles in North Texas and southern Oklahoma, curtailed all service to electric generation customers and Rate 3 industrial customers, said spokeswoman Pat Couch.

Most of those customers have backup fuel systems, she added.

The curtailments were necessary because of high demand and a few frozen wellheads, but the latter "is not a real major problem," she said.

Barbecue sales to perk up church's building fund of authorities of the Fort Worth sheriff's office Tuesday afternoon. Martin Alvarez Garcia was arrested today at the Federal Prison Camp on a warrant from Edinburg. Garcia was charged with possession of marijuana, and was released to authorities from the Edinburg Sheriff's office at 9 a.m. today.

Hiring in-house engineers more expensive, Davis says

Hiring in-house engineers to work on city street paving projects would be much more expensive than employing an established firm, according to figures presented by City Manager Don Davis, Tuesday.

Both the city staff and the Big Spring City Council had decided that an engineer would be needed to oversee the improvements to city streets approved by voters during the recent bond election. The only question remaining was whether hiring a permanent staff of city engineers would be more practical than the temporary use of an established engineering firm.

Davis had been asked to draw up a cost estimate for an in-house staff, and he presented that estimate to the council during its regular meeting, Tuesday night.

Costs for one year would be about $550,100, said Davis. With an estimated 10 percent rise in inflation, total cost over a five-year period would come to $3,358,415.

Included in the estimate are costs for: salaries for a 24-man staff; fringe benefits; support services; building rental; building maintenance; utilities; furnishing of equipment; maintenance and fuel for eight vehicles; and office supplies.

"I think we would have to hire that high number of people in order to meet the anticipated schedules. We'd have to beef up the surveying crews, for example, during times of peak work loads," said Davis.

Salaries for those 24 people did make up the bulk of his estimated yearly costs totaling $355,000 of the $550,100.

When these costs were compared to those for temporary use of an established engineering firm, it became obvious that Davis' estimate was designed to show the impracticality of an in-house operation. Using a scale prepared by the Texas Society of Professional Engineers, Davis guessed that the city could negotiate a fee totaling roughly 6 percent of the yearly construction costs.

"On a $2 million project, an engineering firm would cost us about $130,000," said the city manager.

"That sounds a little more reasonable," said Councilman Jack Y. Smith. "Even if we did decide to go in-house, we would have trouble finding that many (24) qualified people."

"The results of this estimate may seem obvious, but I still think it's a good exercise. It's an exercise we need to do over and over again when situations like this come up," concluded Councilman Robert Fuller.

Mo-Pac budgets $25 million for 30 projects in Texas

ST. LOUIS — Missouri Pacific Railroad has budgeted more than $25.5 million in 1981 for 30 physical improvement projects in Texas. Mo-Pac employs more than 6,900 persons in Texas and had an estimated 1980 payroll in the state of $158 million.

Throughout its 12-state service area, Mo-Pac plans to spend $117 million for physical improvements during the year. In addition, Mo-Pac has initially budgeted $148 million for 100 locomotives and 2,200 units of freight equipment.

Missouri Pacific Railroad spends, annually, about $260 million in its service area for normal operating supplies and materials. The railroad's annual expenditures for maintenance of rail lines and equipment total nearly $650 million.

Mo-Pac's 1981 improvements program in Texas includes construction of a five-story yardmaster's tower and two locker-room buildings, plus installation of automatic switching equipment, yard communications equipment and lighting at the Settegast Yard in Houston.

Remote control switches and signals, along with a microwave communications system, to be installed between Spring and Taylor, will improve safety and efficiency while lowering communication costs.

The second phase of the consolidation of train dispatching operations at Mo-Pac's new office building in Spring and construction of storage-in-transit yard tracks with support facilities at Spring also are budgeted.

Stallion show Friday to feature seven acts

The Royal Lipizzan Stallion Show scheduled to get under way at 8 p.m. Friday night in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum features seven acts never seen locally before.

The show will open with an overture and introductions, then move into the Pas de Deux, in which two finely trained Lipizzaners are ridden through an exercise, executing riding lines and figures with mirror image precision. Patience, time and understanding by the rider with the horse bring a harmony and balance of the two.

Horses schooled to the principles of the haute école will then occupy center stage. This act includes maneuvers on the ground and above ground, training in hand, on the long rein and in saddle. In addition, there will be a special presentation of the spectacular Spanish Andalusian stallion, 'Jahil,' from the Greg Garrison Ranch in California, presented by Major Carlos Mancero.

The Pas de trois, featuring a three man exercise, will follow.

The fifth act is entitled 'Airs Above the Ground.' In reality, it is a presentation of Levade, Courbette and Capriole. Only the exceptionally gifted stallions can be used for the intricate leaps into the air. These maneuvers were once used as battle movements to protect the rider through the power and the strength of these great horses.

The Pas de Quatre is an equine ballet of four white stallions in a special four-man exercise in classical horsemanship.

Finally comes the Quadrille, a ballet of horses and riders performing intricate figures and movements with precision and ease.

This year's edition of the stallion show is filled with some of the finest music in the world. Strauss waltzes are heard, as is music from Gershwin, Country and Western, as well as today's disco beat.

There will be comedy, too. Derrick Rosaire will present 'Tony the Wonder Horse' in a side splitting comedy routine. Patti Schaeffer will present the famous film horse 'Sheik' in an exciting routine set to famous Broadway music themes. Sheik's film credits include 'Westworld,' in which he played Yul Brenner's mechanical horse. More recently, he performed with Lynda Carter ('Wonderwoman') in the 'Circus of the Stars.'

Tickets for the show, priced at $7 and $6, are available at the Howard College business office, radio station KBST and Big Spring Athletics. Special $2 discounts are available for persons under 16 years of age and those over 65.

VARIED FORMATIONS — Elegantly costumed, in both traditional and modern styles, the riders of the Royal Lipizzan Stallions move singly and in groups of two to six in various arrangements to styles of music from Strauss Waltzes to disco beats. The famous horses will give a performance in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum here at 8 p.m., Friday.

First prostitution arrest in long time

In the space used to list profession on her offense report, the officer wrote "Self-employed."

A 25-year-old League City woman was arrested, 11:15 p.m. Tuesday, at the Howard House, 118 E. 3rd, on suspicion of prostitution. The suspect was arrested, said Patrolman Dean Boyd, "after she offered to engage in sexual conduct for a fee."

By one officer's estimate, this is the first such arrest to be made here in three years.

A man and a woman apparently borrowed one car in order to steal another, Tuesday.

The couple first went to Classic Auto Sales, 500 E. 4th, at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday, and were allowed to test drive a 1976 Chevrolet Monte Carlo valued at $2,000. They then drove that car to the Auto Supermarket, 905 W. 4th, where they asked to test drive a 1978 Ford Fairmont valued at $3,895.

At 3:30 that afternoon, the couple hadn't returned the Fairmont; it was reported stolen, and Classic Auto retrieved its Monte Carlo.

Two mishaps were reported Tuesday.

A vehicle driven by Franklin Reed, 700 E. 14th, struck a wall and window at Furr's Supermarket, 900 11th, 3:25 p.m.

A vehicle that left the scene tore down power lines on a Texas Electric Service Company pole in the alley behind 4208 Calvin.

Storm kills at least 21

By the Associated Press

Winter's fiercest storm delivered blinding, wind-whipped new snow in parts of the nation's mid-section today and pushed eastward, causing power outages and flooding on the Atlantic Coast. At least 21 people have died in the storm.

Some Midwest cities were nearly paralyzed, and authorities urged people to stay indoors and wait out the storm's icy wrath. But at least seven people died shoveling snow.

Nine inches of new snow fell in Michigan today, where some cities declared snow emergencies. The National Weather Service forecast another 4 to 8 inches.

Record low temperatures were set in a dozen cities, including Colorado Springs, Colo., where a minus 13 reading broke a mark from 1894. Winds gusting to more than 40 mph sent the wind-chill to minus 34 in parts of Oklahoma.

As the battered region from the Rockies to the eastern Great Lakes dug out from under up to a foot of snow, officials in four Southern states today surveyed the damage left by tornadoes that killed at least one and left dozens injured.

Early today, high winds swept up a trailer house outside Aiken, S.C., and tossed it back to the ground, where it burst into flames, officials said. Two boys, brothers aged 8 and 9, were killed, said Coroner John Stohl.

Oil price decontrol could close small oil refiners

By LAURIE HOLLMAN
States News Service

WASHINGTON — While consumers brace for higher gasoline costs due to oil price decontrol, small and independent oil refiners have concluded that the Reagan administration move could mean shut-downs, layoffs and brown-outs in their industry.

William Bede, counsel to the Small Refiners Emergency Task Force, estimates 40 of the nation's 200 small refiners will be knocked out of business by decontrol. Most of the vulnerable ones are in places like Indiana, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, and process between 30,000 and 60,000 barrels of oil a day.

President Reagan's order to fully decontrol oil prices lifts federal limits on both the retail price of gasoline and propane and how much producers can charge for several categories of crude oil.

"It's a little frightening," says Perry Brinlee, crude oil manager of Allied Materials, Oklahoma City, Okla. The 30-year-old company, which processes about 7,630 barrels daily, corralled its top officers in a meeting this week to plot the firm's strategy for survival.

Many small and independent refiners hoped for some kind of bailout in the president's decontrol order. Before the order was made public, Jason Dryer, head of the Independent Refiners Association of America said, "A lot of the problems we anticipate could be solved depending on the way the president states his decision."

But as a Washington counsel to small refiners noted after it was released, the document "is clear, clean, simple and absolutely no help at all to small refiners."

Gone is an elaborate and controversial scheme set up at the time of the Arab oil embargo in 1973, to equalize the costs of uncontrolled, foreign oil among all refiners. Brainchild of the Department of Energy, the so-called "entitlements program" required long-established companies like Exxon or Atlantic Richfield with access to inexpensive, price-controlled oil to pay refiners dependent on foreign oil enough to offset the refiners' higher costs. In the first 11 months of 1980, the program funneled $5.4 billion to smaller refiners.

Gone, "top" are the allocation system, import tickets, supplier-purchaser regulations and buy-sell rules, guaranteeing small refiners and marginally profitable retail operations nationwide access to reasonably priced crude.

"You can't build a bubble in eight years, punch a hole in it and expect everyone to be all right," Brinlee says of the president's order.

But many Washingtonians applaud Reagan's failure to buy small and independent refiners, contending, in language borrowed from Darwin, that the strong will survive. Federal help would just prolong the life of "teapots" or "bias babies" — small refiners that have depended on DOE targets to prosper — a New York Times editorial stated.

"The small ones, like Ashland or Tosco, have taken a lot of money out of the system, retrofitted their refineries and will make it," says Adam Steminski, an analyst with Washington Analysis Corp., a subsidiary of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc. "The dumb ones, the teapots, the people who are just milking the system for profit... deserve to get snookered."

That attitude has Rod Dearnment, chief counsel to the Senate Finance Committee, dubious about the future of legislation to rescue beleaguered small and independent refiners, explaining, "I don't know how many people are wildly interested in helping them."

Another problem facing small and independent refiners is themselves. A diverse group composed of refiners who process from several thousand to 175,000 barrels of oil daily is bound to have internal rivalries. This one has plenty.

One involves what kind of help small refiners should seek. For example, the 64-member American Petroleum Refiners Association (APRA), in which Allied Materials belongs, wants tax breaks to help its members upgrade their refineries to handle low-quality crude (currently more plentiful than high-quality oil).

But most members of the Committee on Equitable Access to Crude Oil (CEACO) which includes Ashland Oil of Louisiana, Energy Cooperative Inc. of Indiana, and Pacific Resources of Hawaii, have already beefed up their facilities. They want standby allocation and buy-sell programs.

Before the decontrol order, APRA elicited sympathy from Senators Robert Dole, Republican of Kansas, Russell Long, Democrat of Louisiana, and Lloyd Bentsen, Democrat of Texas. They asked the Departments of Energy and Treasury to take a look at APRA's proposals.

"The conclusion reached," says the resulting report, "is that there are no defects in refinery markets sufficient to warrant introduction of a permanent set of investment subsidies."

"If you're looking for comfort (in the report), you're not going to find it," says Van Poyette, APRA's general counsel. He is preparing a response to the document that he hopes will garner sympathy for APRA members.

CEACO partner call the APRA members "bias babies, real little and often inefficient," according to Energy Cooperative Inc., CEACO spokeswoman Mary Joyce. The committee favors legislation introduced Thursday by Sen. Bennett Johnston, Democrat of Louisiana.

His proposal would establish buy-sell and allocation programs in case of emergency. Domestic oil supplies would have to dip below a certain prior and volume before the programs could be triggered.

"Our angle," in drumming up support for the Johnston bill "is going to be the farmers," says Joyce.

Record-breaking cold around Texas

By the Associated Press

Record breaking cold temperatures were reported around Texas early today in the wake of a blast of cold Arctic air that roared into the state Tuesday.

Wichita Falls recorded 12 degree before dawn, breaking the record 13-degree reading set in 1933.

San Antonio recorded 19 at 4 a.m., breaking a record set in 1899. Forecasters said the mercury would likely dip lower in San Antonio before dawn. Victoria recorded 24, breaking a record 25-degree reading set in 1933.

Industrial Foundation bid on Armory accepted

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City council received only one bid as expected on the old Armory building during Tuesday night's council meeting.

Submitting the bid was the local Industrial Foundation for $15,000, which the council accepted unanimously.

In other activity, council members set April 4 as the date for the city council election. Members facing expiring terms are Mayor Elmer Martin and councilmen Macca Sindle, Sam Parham and Ray Dillard. All four say they're unsure if they'll seek another term.

The council also agreed to contribute $1,500 to the Mitchell County Centennial Committee.

Approval of two proposals made by Ray Anne Carlock, including a request for $500 to promote the museum and $200 to be used toward the construction of the Downtown Gazebo was given.

Additionally, Tony Plumlee of Willis Environmental Agency met with the council to discuss representing Colorado City in getting a waste treatment grant.

On another note, a contract for digging a landfill trench went to Roy Lentz of Westbrook for a cost of $3,500 and in final action the preliminary 1981-82 budget was distributed with a work session set for Feb. 17.

Midway meals director hired

COAHOMA — The Coahoma-Sand Springs-Midway meals in Motion group met at the School Administration Office, Feb. 4.

Shirley Barron was accepted as director employed by CETA.

More volunteers are needed and those clubs or organizations that have pledged to contribute are urged to do so as soon as they can. All interested in helping out or if you know someone that would qualify are urged to call Shirley Barron 394-4512 or School Administration office 394-4290.

Meals are provided for those persons who are unable to provide or themselves and do not have someone that can provide.

Now is the time to plant bare-root fruit and shade trees, deciduous flowering shrubs, and roses. Why plant bare-root? You save money — a bare-root plant costs only 40 percent to 70 percent of the price of the same plant later in a container. Also the manner in which a bare-root tree or shrub is planted makes it establish itself faster and often better than it would if set out later in a container. An advantage is that you use the soil dug from the hole and you do not mix soil from the container with our West Texas soil. Come by Mr. G's for our detailed instructions on planting bare-root material.

A case of man's indifference to man

A rather shocking story that a shoplifter had stabbed a store guard to death in Miami, Fla., recently came across the wire. The account was frightening not because the hoodlum had repeatedly knifed the sentry but rather because 50 to 100 people stood by at a safe distance and watched.

Ultimately, five witnesses came forward to tell authorities what they knew, but dozens of others didn't. Worse still, no one apparently lifted a hand to help the guard.

HAVE AMERICANS become so indifferent that they can go about their normal pursuits, caring not if a fellow human being stumbles or is pushed, hoping that somehow they can get through the day whether having to face a crisis themselves? They give blindly to charities that might offer help to a downtrodden race half a world away but wouldn't carry a bucket of water to help out a fire raging in the house next door.

We expect the police to intervene in all problems where a wrong has been committed, yet often won't even agree to testify if the law enforcement officials need some one to substantiate a story. The police, granted, are trained to react swiftly in an emergency but their jobs become hopeless if the public doesn't cooperate with them.

There was a story recently of a man who toppled over on a busy sidewalk and died of natural causes. His body lay there for several hours while pedestrians stepped over him on their way to work. None took the trouble to even pause to see if the poor soul had a pulse beat. Some people later confessed they had seen him but thought he had passed out from too much drink. Diabetics in a coma have been treated the same way, on occasions.

SOME PEOPLE ADMIT they feel the pangs of conscience, for not stopping to render aid or offer advice to a luckless person but concede they are prone not to offer help for fear of legal consequences that, they say, sometimes follows. Why offer help, that group contends, when it will mean nothing but endless problems later — having to serve as witnesses in an endless trial, somehow winding up as a defendant in a suit if the victim of a crime or an accident contends they were hindered more than helped by some well-meaning person.

Many profess they are too busy to offer assistance to someone who have fallen along the way. The person who cops that sort of plea is to be pitied rather than scorned.

The story of the Good Samaritan is one of the most heart-warming in the Holy Bible. The only thing is, many people look upon it as entertaining fiction rather than an example to follow.

Insomniac

Around the rim

Tina Miller

Murphy's Law strikes again. It seems to strike me more often than other people, and I blame that fact on my mother. She was a Murphy. At any rate everything that could go wrong did, and of course, at the worst possible moment. Everybody has days like that. But regardless of how bad a day has been, nothing is worse than falling gratefully into a nice, warm comfortable bed only to lie there wide awake all night long. Add to this a snoring husband and, well...

It's 2:15 a.m. My, how time does fly. Only an hour ago it was 2:14. Look at him — sleeping like a baby. It just isn't fair. If I can't sleep, he shouldn't sleep. Maybe I can just nudge him a little and he'll wake up. Oh great — now he rolls over on me. "Get off me, you big oaf!"

"WHAT? NO, I didn't say anything. Whatever makes you ask. No, nothing is wrong. Just roll over and go back to sleep."

Go back to sleep, go back to sleep. What am I saying? He never even awakened. What's wrong, he asks. What could possibly be wrong? How dare he look in my wide awake at 2:15 in the morning eyes and ask, "What's wrong?" Well, I'll just show him. What? Oh no, you don't sleep. Sleeping Beauty. This time you've gone too far. Nobody steals my half of the cover and gets away with it. "Give me back my blanket!"

"No, I didn't say anything. You must have been dreaming. Yes, dear, I love you too."

And you had better thank your lucky stars for that, Sleeping Beauty, because if I didn't I might not resist this incredible urge I have to give you a gentle shove onto the floor. No, no, I must not think such hostile thoughts. I should think of something pleasant and peaceful, then I can relax and get some sleep. So never fear, Sleeping Beauty, I have decided to let you dream in peace.

WHY ME? WHY couldn't this happen to someone else tonight? I'm supposed to go to work tomorrow and think of something witty, clever and original. Oh well, why should tomorrow be any different? I'll probably fall asleep on my typewriter. That should leave an impression. Maybe I'll count sheep. No, that never works. I should have kept my Economics textbook. It always worked in college.

Sleeping Beauty is still sound asleep, of course. He doesn't really love me. He just lies there, snoring peacefully while I suffer. Little does he care. How dare he say that he loves me while he's doing this to me. You just wait, Sleeping Beauty, someday you'll get yours. On second thought, you won't have to wait. I'll just yank your pillow out from under you. "Gotcha!" "What? Well then, just take your crummy pillow and let me sleep, will you? And stop asking me what's wrong. Everytime you wake up, you have to ask ME what's wrong. Why can't you just let me sleep?"

Support must end

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON—This is an appeal to President Reagan, written in the blood of millions of faceless Cambodians and their anonymous children who have been ruthlessly slaughtered: In the name of humanity, abandon the U.S. policy of supporting the monster Pol Pot.

He is responsible for an episode so cataclysmic, an apocalypse so chilling that it must not be ignored by the world. There has not been a story like it since the Nazis enslaved and exterminated millions in Adolf Hitler's Europe.

IT'S A STORY OF A band of Cambodian radicals who roomed together as students in Paris and returned to practice their mad politics on an innocent nation. These revolutionary zealots, led by the terrible Pol Pot, imposed a reign of death and terror upon their own people.

The cities of Cambodia were forcibly evacuated, their hapless inhabitants driven into the countryside on death marches. They were left to survive on the insects, grass and leaves they could forage.

By mass shootings and clubbings, the new rulers sought to eliminate all vestiges of the past and to transform the populace into their own radical image. Every civilized value was systematically debased and debauched.

The infamous Pol Pot should have been condemned before the world. Yet incredibly, Jimmy Carter quietly supported him in the United Nations. As part of a three-handed international poker game with the Chinese and Russians, the former president ordered the U.S. representatives at the United Nations to vote to allow the Pol Pot government to retain the Cambodian seat.

This amounted to a stamp of approval this gave Pol Pot respectability. This continuing U.S. support should be withdrawn at once.

THE CAMBODIAN STORY has been burned into my conscience since Pol Pot seized power on April 17, 1975. Appalled U.S. officials gave me the classified papers — intelligence reports, eyewitness accounts, aerial photographs — that documented the travail of these gentle people who died like flies from executions, starvation, disease and overwork.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am on death row at our state prison, and for the first time in my life I am thinking about God. How can I know that God is really concerned about me? — S.F.

DEAR S.F.: I think you will be interested in reading in the Bible about a man in a situation much like your own. You'll find the account in Luke (if you don't have a Bible, ask the prison chaplain for one.)

This particular man had been convicted of theft and was executed on the same day as Jesus. During the long and painful process of crucifixion, the thief became impressed by Jesus' unusual attitude and actions. While the thief and another prisoner were hurling abusive language at both Jesus and the guards, Jesus was praying for his persecutors. Even in the agony of death, Jesus manifested his compassion for others.

As the day wore on and death neared, the thief's brazenness turned to belief. Acknowledging Jesus to be the Son of God, he uttered the now famous words, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom" (Luke 23:42). The thief looked at the mangled body of the dying Jesus and had the confidence that Jesus' death would usher him into a new sphere as the ruler of a great kingdom. What tremendous faith — faith born in the hour of death!

And because the resurrected Jesus is alive and is the King of God's kingdom, he can say the same words to you that he spoke to that thief nearly 2,000 years ago, "Today you will be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:43).

Clark and court

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Although his embarrassing performance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will not kill William P. Clark's confirmation as deputy secretary of state, it has placed serious obstacles in the way of his elevation to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Clark, an intimate of Ronald Reagan who was named by him to the California Supreme Court, is the unannounced choice for the first High Court vacancy to be filled by President Reagan. But Capitol Hill operatives advise the White House that Clark's mindless response to questions at his confirmation hearing for the State Department post guarantee a Supreme Court confirmation fight. Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware has promised just such a battle in the Senate Judiciary Committee, which handles Court nominations.

IT WAS BIDEN'S unanswered questions, as a foreign relations committee member, asking the names of the prime ministers of South Africa and Zimbabwe, that brought Clark's embarrassment. Admittedly a novice on foreign affairs, the California judge had been briefed on Reagan's policy. "When Biden started his trivia quiz program," a Reagan operative told us, "Clark just panicked. He forgot everything he had been briefed on."

NO-NO FROM THE SAUDIS Robert G. Neumann, the foreign policy transition leader for Ronald Reagan, is getting a quiet and informal no-no from Saudi Arabia as the prospective new U.S. ambassador to that critically important oil kingdom. The reason: Neumann was born into the Jewish faith, although he converted to Christianity shortly after World War II.

Unofficial signals received here against Neumann's appointment have come from two leading members of the Saudi establishment in private talks with U.S. officials. They cite the royal family's fear that Moslem fundamentalists would try to exploit Neumann's Jewish background and use it against the regime.

The no-no from Riyadh would prevent Neumann's acceptance as ambassador if President Reagan decides to send him there. The distinguished former ambassador to two other Moslem countries — Afghanistan and Morocco — has excellent credentials as a Mideast expert and has never been accused of Israel bias. Moreover, the U.S. Embassy staff in Saudi Arabia has included practicing members of the Jewish faith for many years.

"FILE AND FORGET" The disregard for ideology rampant in the Reagan transition personnel department under E. Pendleton James was typified by the presence in the "F" (for "file and forget") file of a volunteered offer from a Pulitzer prize-winning novelist.

Allen Drury, author of a series of conservatively-tilted political novels beginning with "Advise & Consent" in 1959, on Nov. 12 wired Reagan political aide Lyn Nofziger his congratulations, adding: "Let me know if I can help." Nofziger penciled on the Mailgram this note to Penn James: "He's conservative. Do you need a writer in residence?" The Mailgram ended up in the "F" file.

So did a letter proposing a post for Lawrence Brady, who became a conservative folk hero after being fired from the Commerce Department during the Carter administration for blocking sales of strategic equipment to the Soviet Union. The letterwriter: Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, chairman of the Senate labor committee who called hiring Brady a "must."

Bedwetting: Alarm blankets OK

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have two boys, ages 7 and 5, who wet the bed almost every night. My pediatrician examined them and recommends the alarm blanket, which wakes them with an alarm when it becomes wet. What is your opinion of this method? I am a little concerned about the possible emotional side effects. Any other suggestions you might have concerning this problem would be most appreciated by myself and several friends who also have boys in this same age bracket who wet their beds. — C.S.R.

The fact that you have several friends whose children have this problem should be informative to you. Bedwetting does, in fact, occur in as many as 20 percent of children at age five, and in 5 percent of children at 10. My mail indicates it is a major concern of many parents, so I'll take a bit more time with my answer.

The most popular explanation is a delay in the natural development of normal nerve-muscle control of the urinary bladder. That corrects itself in time. However, since there may be a true physical abnormality beyond this delay factor the best approach is the one you took: you had the children examined. With no physical problems found, there are many approaches you can take now.

The alarm blanket is not new. It is wired to detect moisture and set off an awakening sound. Claims for effectiveness range from 65 percent to 100 percent, depending on which study you believe. The devices are safe, so long as they are ones approved for use. In some cases, doctors recommend simultaneous approaches, such as having the child attempt to hold his urine a little longer during the hours of dryness (daytime). This may increase the size of the bladder just enough to allow it to hold more urine during the night.

For this problem, parents should have the proper perspective, realizing that spontaneous "cures" are the rule. All attempts at control should be undertaken with a minimum of fuss. Most children quickly adapt to the sensible view that an alarm blanket, or whatever technique is tried, is only a way to try to get rid of an undesired but temporary problem. With this approach, no psychological damage need result. Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 12 years old. I would like to know why girls come on their menstruation. My mother could not answer this, so I thought maybe you can answer. — A.M.

When a girl begins to menstruate, that signals the fact that she is finally making female hormones. These are the substances that bring about changes in the uterus — changes that make it possible for an egg to develop there when she becomes pregnant (conceives). If no egg is going to develop then the lining of the uterus is shed, because it is of no further use. That causes the slight bleeding, the menstruation.

Each month thereafter, the same thing happens until the girls does become pregnant. Then, the uterus does not shed its lining, but remains to protect the developing egg (the future baby). There will be no menstruation until after the baby is born. After that the same process (including menstruation) begins anew.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 49 and my husband is 54. We have not had sex for two years because he has had difficulty maintaining an erection. He has high blood pressure that comes and goes. He takes pills for it off and on when it gets high. It is Aldomet. I can tell you, this is really getting to me. Can you tell me anything about it? — Mrs. A.S.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

I would like to make a few comments concerning Shaffer Ambulance. Please note, however, that these are my own opinions and do not reflect an official statement on behalf of the management of Shaffer Ambulance.

We at Shaffer are striving to provide the people of Big Spring and Howard County with the best emergency medical care possible. At present approximately 90 percent of our personnel are involved in upgrading their medical training and skills. In addition, several of our people have a number of years of medical experience. For example, Mr. Korell has over thirteen years of experience. I personally have over six years of medical experience prior to coming to Big Spring. We are also striving to upgrade the equipment which we use in order to likewise upgrade our service.

We are continually frustrated however, when, for the fourth or fifth time in a single day, we hear complaints about our rates. Our rates are set by the city and county and are, in fact, among the lowest in this area of the state. I know of only two that are lower. One of these is city owned and the other is regulated by an elected ambulance board. In addition to controlling rates, our city-county contract also sets forth the policies whereby we collect for our routine non-emergency transfers, such as for doctors appointments or from a hospital to nursing facility etc.

A potential side effect of Aldomet (methyldopa) is impotence. If that is the cause, then simply changing medication should take care of the problem. You have to appreciate that medicine is only one possibility, so your husband has to discuss this with his doctor.

I wonder how your husband determines when his blood pressure status permits him to stop taking medicine. Such medicine schedules are not usually an on-again-off-again proposition. I think he needs a discussion with his doctor about this also. He is one of the millions of high blood pressure patients who deceive themselves about a presumed lack of need for their medicine.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How does mumps get passed on? — J.F.

From the saliva of an infected person in direct contact with another. Bed wetting can be a frustrating problem but it can be controlled. To learn how, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of his booklet, "Bed-Wetting: Ways To Stop It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Mailbag

It is also frustrating when, after making an emergency run half way across town, we arrive to find that the sick or injured person has been taken to the hospital by a private car. Many people fail to realize that in many accidents, moving a victim can unnecessarily endanger that victim's life. A victim should be moved if and only if there is eminent danger of further injury unless they are moved. For example, danger from explosion, fire etc. We are trained and have the equipment to properly protect a victim from further injury so that they may be safely and quickly transported to a medical facility.

In addition to the frustration, few people realize the risks involved in making an emergency run through the streets of, not only Big Spring, but any city of any size. Invariably, in the course of a run, someone will pull out in front of the ambulance, be it changing lanes, entering from a side street, parking lot or whatever. However, let me add, once we have a patient on board the ambulance, every precaution is taken, both in traffic and driving procedures etc., to insure the safe arrival of the patient at the medical facility.

In closing let me add that, while we at Shaffer are striving to provide the best in emergency medical care, to achieve that goal requires the cooperation of everyone in the community. Remember, the life we save may be yours.

One American, four Britons remain in captivity

Cynthia Dwyer says she'd return to Iran

CUNNINGHAM OIL SCHOLARSHIPS — Four students at Howard College were recently named as recipients of the Cunningham Oil Scholarship for the spring semester at Howard College. The $250 scholarships were donated by Grady Cunningham of Cunningham Oil in cooperation with Phi Theta Kappa, the national junior college honor society. The recipients of the scholarships are: (left to right) Kelly Lyons, Susan Parsons, Jo Anna Graham and Brenda Lewis. Susan King (far right), English instructor at Howard College, is the sponsor of Phi Theta Kappa.

EDITOR'S NOTE Associated Press correspondent Kathy Bishtawi was the only news agency reporter allowed to accompany Cynthia Dwyer on her flight to Europe.

By KATHY BISHTAWI
Associated Press Writer

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Cynthia Dwyer said today that despite nine months in an Iranian prison and the anxiety caused to her family, she did not regret her stay in the Islamic Republic. "I like Iran and its people. I would return if possible," she said.

The 49-year-old American writer talked with reporters aboard the Singapore Airlines jumbo jet that brought her from the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Dubai to Zurich. She left at noon — 6 a.m. EST — aboard a Swissair flight due in New York at 2:40 p.m. EST, where her husband and three children were waiting.

"It is incredibly good to be out," she said before boarding. Mrs. Dwyer, animated and in obvious high spirits, wore a white floppy hat, long red skirt, white sweater with brown and gold trim at the neck, wrists and waist, and brown horn-rimmed glasses.

She refused to give details of the ordeal on arrival in Zurich, telling reporters at the Swiss airport, "I'm a journalist too... This may be the only exclusive I'll ever have." But she talked much more freely with the reporters on the flight to Europe.

"I am not saying it was easy and I am not saying it was hard either," she said. "Besides, I have left people behind and we have made an agreement," a reference to captives remaining in Tehran.

Still in Iranian captivity are naturalized American Zia Nassry, 34, held since March 8 on spying charges and four Britons: businessman Andrew Pyke, medical missionaries Dr. John Coleman and his wife, Audrey, and Jean Waddell, who was secretary to the Anglican bishop of Iran.

But Mrs. Dwyer said she had now seen the worst aspects of the Iranian revolution.

"I went there because I was curious. I thought we needed to understand what was going on in Iran. I felt there had been too much emphasis on the hostages and the situation could have dragged us into another Vietnam. Besides, I was also looking for a good story — I ended up with a very different one."

Mrs. Dwyer, 49, of Amherst, N.Y., fielded questions alertly and without hesitation. However, she looked pale, tired and with five inches of gray showing through her blond hair. She said she was exhausted from her overnight stay in Tehran airport Monday night.

"I could not sleep — I was too excited," she said. Mrs. Dwyer was arrested May 5, shortly after the abortive attempt to rescue the American hostages. She was tried last weekend, convicted of espionage and other crimes against the revolutionary regime, sentenced to the time she had already spent in prison and deported Tuesday aboard an Iranian airliner to Dubai.

"I never even saw any charges," said Mrs. Dwyer. "Under the Iranian constitution, they were supposed to have presented charges within 48 hours of my arrest but this was not done. It was a very long indictment but in general terms, I was accused of espionage."

"I told them exactly what I had done, what the people had said to me. I just generally corrected the indictment."

Mrs. Dwyer said she was tried by an Iranian mullah, or clergyman, with some assistants and one prosecutor. "I did not have an attorney and my instinct told me that if I had made a fuss about it, I would have been there longer."

The trial took place inside Evin Prison.

She had been kept alone from the time of her arrest until July 20 and was later transferred to Evin Prison which she referred to as an "obvious political prison." For a long time, she thought the Iranians might throw her in with the U.S. hostages.

She said her treatment in prison had been "OK."

"No one ever abused me or laid a hand on me. But I did not understand any Farsi — the local language — and that in a way was very frightening. I also felt very alone at times and I was afraid of being sentenced. There are so many people functioning in different ways in Iran."

Her "roommates," as Mrs. Dwyer referred to her fellow prisoners, were Iranian women held on political charges. She also shared a room with Jean Waddell, one of the British missionaries still being held in Tehran.

ABA nominee voices concerns about Burger's suggestions

HOUSTON (AP) — The man expected to take the reins of the powerful American Bar Association next year has voiced concern over proposals by the chief justice of the United States that he says could weaken the rights of criminal defendants.

Morris Harrell, a Dallas trial attorney nominated Tuesday to become the next President-elect of the 276,000-member lawyer's organization, says his concerns were prompted by Chief Justice Warren Burger's speech to the ABA's mid-winter meeting Sunday.

Harrell, 60, said he agrees that efforts should be made to direct the arrest, provide for speedy trials and bring some finality to criminal cases. But at the same time he said the defendant's rights must be guarded.

"I think we need to achieve a balance between the public's safety and the rights of the accused. I would be slow to try to take away the constitutional rights of an accused man," said Harrell.

The chief justice said in his speech that too much concern for the rights of the accused may be nourishing a growing crime rate in America.

Burger called for changes in the criminal justice systems that would crack down on the pre-trial release of accused criminals, speed up the trial process, limit appeals, provide more and better trained law enforcement officers and reform prison.

Burger's remarks were received favorably by the association, but drew sharp criticism from the American Civil Liberties Union.

Harrell said problem "is (serious) enough to merit a real hard study."

Delegates to the mid-winter meeting nominated Harrell, a member of the ABA's Board of Governors and a partner in the Dallas firm of RoSn, Harrell Emery, Young & Duke, on the fifth ballot.

The 380 members of the House of Delegates will vote on Harrell's nomination in August at the ABA's annual meeting in New Orleans.

Farm Bureau Week in Texas observed

Howard County Farm Bureau is joining with scores of other county FBs across the state to observe this week as "Farm Bureau Week in Texas."

The special week has been so designated by County Judge Bill Tune and Gov. William Clements, according to Neil Fryar of Lomax, local president. Counties will be conducting membership drives during that period.

The Texas Farm Bureaus are seeking to increase its 1980 membership of 263,218 member families. The local county, which ended the 1980 year with 1,238 member families, is also working for another gain in members.

Farm Bureau began almost 70 years ago. It is now organized in 2,800 counties in all states except Alaska.

The first Farm Bureau began in 1911 as a "bureau" of the local chamber of commerce in Broome County, N.Y. The first Farm Bureaus were organized primarily to help pay the salaries of the new county agents being hired to relay the latest agricultural information from land grant colleges.

Most states had organized local county Farm Bureaus before the move was made to organize into state units. The need was recognized for statewide cooperation between producers of various commodities to help solve mutual problems.

The Farm Bureau emerged on the national scene during World War I, not as a protest organization, but as a tool for unifying agricultural producers. The state Farm Bureaus met in 1919 in Chicago to organize the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The state Farm Bureau founded in Texas in 1920 flourished for several years, and was instrumental in beginning numerous commodity marketing cooperatives. As the co-ops grew, the state organization became less effective, partly because Farm Bureau had to depend upon fees from the co-ops instead of dues from members for its financing.

The first Texas Farm Bureau officially ceased to exist in 1934 when delegates met and dissolved the organization and re-organized it as the Texas Agricultural Association. Within two years, the TAA saw the need for a voice in national affairs and rejoined the American Farm Bureau Federation. The name was changed back to Texas Farm Bureau shortly thereafter.

Increased legislative activity, particularly on the state level, along with establishment of economic service programs, helped push the membership upward in the years just after World War II. By the early 1950s, county units had been organized in almost all major agricultural counties in Texas. Membership reached 100,000 members by 1966 and has more than doubled since that time.

The Texas Farm Bureau, which maintains a full-time legislative office in Austin, has accomplished much in the field of state legislation in the past three decades.

HC artists invited to attend workshop

Artists from Howard College have been invited to participate in an area wide workshop at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin Feb. 27-28.

Pamela Price, assistant professor of art at UTPB said other colleges invited to participate include Odessa College, Midland College, South Plains College, New Mexico Junior College, and Western Texas College.

Price noted the workshop is designed to give students an opportunity to do some studio art work with UTPB students and faculty and see the facilities and programs offered at the university.

The workshop begins Friday with a continental breakfast and registration at 9 a.m. Open workshops in sculpture, jewelry, intaglio, watercolor, lithography, ceramics and drawing are scheduled throughout both days.

Those attending the workshop can experience one or all of the different mediums during the two day workshop, according to Pamela Price.

Texas roundup snares thousands of aliens

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Illegal aliens working on farms, ranches, construction sites and elsewhere in Texas have been captured and bused back across the Rio Grande by the thousands in the past three weeks, a roundup spurred by the lifting of census restrictions.

The restrictions, which prohibited the Border Patrol from raiding private businesses, were imposed last spring in hopes of getting a better census count, but officers in the field complained they were kept in effect several months after the count was completed.

The ban was lifted Jan. 15 and "we had our second highest January in history" said Richard Staley of El Paso, chief of a Border Patrol district that includes most of southern New Mexico and West Texas as far east as Van Horn.

"January is usually one of our slower months — there is usually very little 'harvest,'" he said. But last month he said his 385 officers apprehended 12,080 undocumented workers and returned most of them to Mexico.

Other Border Patrol officers from here to the lower Rio Grande Valley and as far north as Dallas reported the same trend. Even though the ban extended through the first half of January, agents working in the Valley caught twice as many illegal aliens last month as they had in December, said Jim Kerr, a Border Patrol supervisor based in the McAllen headquarters.

"We could drive down farm roads and look out either side and see illegals working in the fields," before the restrictions were lifted, he said. "Hell, they were waving at us as we went by."

Not any more.

"One day, working just three hours in Odessa, our officers pulled 84 aliens out of (oilfield) pipe (supply) yards up there," said Johnny Williams, chief pilot with the Border Patrol sector headquarters in Marfa.

In Dallas, regional chief William Chambers said "as of last week we have arrested 510 in the Dallas-Fort Worth area alone." Most of them have since been bused back to the border, where illegal aliens are released to walk across the bridges back into Mexico.

Immigration officials say those bused back to the border "volunteer" to return — as opposed to the few who elect to stay and wait — in jail — for a deportation hearing.

Charles Elmore, a Border Patrol intelligence officer based in Marfa, said there is rarely any hostility between the illegal aliens and the officers who arrest them.

"They joke and laugh on their way back to be processed. There is no deep-seated hatred there. It's not that we on't like these people," he said. "I don't blame them for trying to come up here and better themselves."

"But the United States just can't solve the whole world's evils," Chambers said the restrictions were more painful for his region, which includes North Texas and Oklahoma, and other interior checkpoints where raiding private businesses is the main source of illegal aliens.

"In El Paso for instance they could work along the river" during the ban, he said.

But Staley said it was just as frustrating for his men stationed across from Juarez, the largest Mexican city on the U.S. border. "We had a de facto temporary worker program" he complained.

Aliens and patrolmen alike agree that crossing the border illegally is not difficult. One of the favorite crossing points in the El Paso area is within a few yards of the largest customs checkpoint on the U.S.-Mexico border. In fact, many illegal aliens consider crossing the border so easy that they leave the United States and go home for Christmas.

"That's one reason December is such a slow month for us," said Elmore. "They are going back to Mexico for the holidays. Then they come back sometime in January."

Staley said if he had "enough men" he could reduce the flow by 80 percent. But Chambers said the first thing the United States should do to decrease the migration is to make it a crime to hire illegal aliens.

"It is obvious that this was deliberately overlooked," he said. "There are penalties for inducing aliens to enter, penalties for bringing them in, for harboring and concealing them — but no penalties for employment."

The latest raids have drawn criticism from Mexican-American activists who argue that they disrupt families, infringe on the rights of Hispanic citizens, and yet still do not stop the northward migration of Mexicans into the United States.

Staley compared the work of his officers to that of state policemen trying to enforce the 55 mph speed limit.

Japan, Europe outpacing U.S. in foreign aid

U.S. foreign aid, once the gold mine of world development, is in an accelerating decline at a time when such other industrial democracies as Japan and West Germany are setting higher and higher goals for their aid programs.

Among the top half-dozen donor nations of the West, only Britain, under Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's austerity program, has joined Washington in whittling away at its financial assistance to poorer nations.

As a result of the current aid skid, the United States now ranks 15th among 17 nations in ratios of aid-to-wealth. The 17 countries are the major aid donors of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, a grouping of industrialized democracies.

Official American development aid in 1979, the last year for which comparative statistics are available, totaled $4.7 billion, which equaled one-fifth of 1 percent of the U.S. gross national product. Only Austria, with an aid program equivalent to 1.9 percent of GNP, and Italy, at .08 percent, were lower.

The most generous donors statistically — Sweden, the Netherlands and Norway — all topped the 9 percent-of-GNP level, almost five times the U.S. rate.

The United States remains the biggest single contributor of foreign aid. In dollars, the Swedish, Dutch and Norwegian programs together totaled barely more than half the amount of U.S. aid.

But specialists in the field regard the aid-to-GNP ratio as the most meaningful indicator of a government's generosity.

They point out, for example, that the GNP of the United States equals the GNPs of Japan, West Germany and France combined, but those three countries together spend twice as much on foreign aid as Washington.

In the first decade after World War II, the United States was virtually alone in providing substantial overseas aid. But from more than 5 percent of GNP in the Eisenhower-Kennedy years, the aid program slipped to .32 percent in 1970, and on own to its 1979 low of .2 percent.

In its report 2or 1980, the OECD's Development Assistance Committee concludes "there appears to be no present chance" that OECD donors will collectively reach the United Nations' goal of .7 percent of GNP in aid by 1985. The committee largely blames the United States.

The outgoing Carter administration proposed a foreign-aid budget of $8 billion for fiscal 1982, which begins next Oct. 1, but President Reagan's Office of Management and Budget has suggested cutting that by $2.6 billion, for a budget of roughly $6.4 billion.

The State Department and OMB have been working on a compromise that is expected to be announced this week.

The proposed cuts drew criticism from such U.S. allies as West Germany, France and Canada. Liberals in Congress also assailed the planned cutbacks. Last month, then-Secretary of State Edmund Muskie noted the long decline and said the United States "can no longer afford to act as if foreign aid were charity, and as if diplomacy were a diversion. They are as vital to our long-run security as defense."

Nations with export-oriented economies, such as West Germany and Japan, see an additional motivation: greater development abroad means expanded markets.

The Japanese government announced last month it will try to double its foreign-aid spending over the next five years, from $10.7 billion during 1976-80 to at least $21.4 billion from 1981 to 1985.

Japan's fiscal 1981 budget is one of its most austere in years but still includes an increase of some 65 percent in foreign assistance, to $4.35 billion.

The countries receiving the most U.S. aid are Egypt and Israel, while Japanese aid focuses on the developing countries of east Asia, the biggest recipient being Indonesia.

West Germany's foreign aid in 1979 totaled $3.35 billion, or .44 percent of the country's GNP. The Germans, whose single biggest beneficiary is Turkey, have said they want to reach the .7 percent U.N. goal in the 1980s.

Canada's aid commitments dropped by one-third from 1978 to 1979, but the government has pledged to reverse the trend, achieving .5 percent of GNP by 1985 and the U.N. goal of .7 percent by 1990. Its 1979 aid figure of $1.03 billion represented .46 percent of GNP.

Fifty DWI charges filed in December

There were 50 cases against persons accused of driving while intoxicated filed in county court during the month of December, according to figures out of the county clerk's office.

Two cases of theft or worthless check passing were recorded during December, as were nine cases of drug offenses, and 10 other criminal cases. No new cases of assault charges or traffic charges were filed during the month. Total cases filed was 71.

Total cases on the docket during December were 356 driving while intoxicated, 43 theft or worthless checks, 46 drug offenses, 54 assault, 414 traffic, and 185 in other criminal cases. This totaled out to 1,098.

Cases pending at the end of the month were 334 driving while intoxicated, 40 theft or worthless checks, 41 drug offenses, 52 assault, 382 traffic, and 168 other criminal offenses. This totaled out to 1,017.

In the civil section of court, no new cases of auto personal injury-damages were filed during December, although 37 cases were pending at the first of the month.

No new cases were filed under other personal injury-damages, tax, divorce, or other civil matters. Two cases were filed under suits on debt.

Cases pending during the first of the month included 15 tax cases, 89 suits on debt, and 65 miscellaneous civil matters. This totaled out to 206.

Cases pending at the end of the month included 37 auto personal injury-damages, 15 tax cases, 91 suit on debt, and 65 miscellaneous, totaling out to 208 cases.

San Angelo promoter sentenced for scheme

ABILENE — Grady Sims, a San Angelo promoter who admitted bilking an Abilene-based charter bus company out of nearly $4,200 worth of services for trips to Dallas Cowboy football games, was sentenced to serve five years in prison in 42nd District Court here Monday.

Sims, 50, will serve the five-year term concurrently with a term of identical length he received from a Tom Green County jury for a similar offense.

Sims allowed District Judge Don Lane to consider a third charge against him as an unadjudicated offense in setting his punishment. The consideration bars the state from prosecuting Sims on that charge.

That particular charge involved a worthless $4,912 check which Sims gave the Snyder Jaycees for tickets to the Willie Nelson concert in Big Spring last year.

Daily living classes

Gifts to help furnish simulated home needed

Big Spring State Hospital's Rehabilitation Services is seeking donations to help furnish a simulated home for daily living classes.

The classes, designed to instruct patients on how to care for themselves and cope with everyday living, will include instruction in such areas as: grocery shopping, sewing, personal hygiene, mending, bed making, house cleaning, laundry, budgets, nutrition in the diet, yard care, ironing, cooking and house plant care.

"We want to show the patients they can do things for themselves," said A.L. Gatewood, director of Rehabilitation Services. "We want to develop their potentials and attitudes and get away from the mental hospital stigma."

He added two classes of 12 students will run daily with each class lasting 3-6 weeks. Through practical experience, Gatewood hopes to teach patients not to give up on life and try to get them to adapt to their new kind of living.

"We can teach them the hospital is not the end of the road but only the beginning," said Gatewood.

Gatewood said the hospital anticipates graduating approximately 125 students yearly plus partially helping a number of others.

Upon entering, each student will be screened to determine areas which need further development. Through a weaning process, they will learn how to either live at the state hospital, in the community, or in a nursing home.

Needed is anything for a living room, bedroom, dining room, kitchen and plants (i.e.) refrigerator, end table, couch, chairs, table, utensils, personal hygiene items, dishes, floor rugs, vacuum cleaner, coffee tables, potting soil, flower pots, small plants, plant food, and linen.

All donations are tax deductible and can be brought to the Volunteer Services Office. For more information call Elma Martinez at 267-8216, ext. 535.

Eleven-year-old black boy is added to list of disappearances in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — An 11-year-old black boy who disappeared in downtown Atlanta after a boxing match Friday night has been added to the list of victims in a series of slayings and disappearances. The special police task force handling the cases has been asked to investigate the disappearance of Patrick Baltazar, Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown said late Tuesday.

Baltazar is the 18th black child between the ages of 7 and 15 who has disappeared in the Atlanta area since July 1979. Fifteen of those children have been found dead.

The police department's missing person unit had conducted "an exhaustive and thorough investigation" into Baltazar's disappearance without locating the child, Brown said.

Meanwhile, Mayor Maynard Jackson said actor Burt Reynolds had contributed $10,000 to the investigation, and a bill was introduced in the Georgia Legislature that would make the murder of a child an aggravating circumstance justifying the death penalty.

The bill would add one more aggravating circumstance to the 10 a jury now must consider in deciding whether to impose a death penalty under Georgia's capital punishment law.

And a letter from a 10-year-old boy to "Mr. Murderer" was published Tuesday in The Atlanta Journal.

"Being a kid isn't so bad but I want the chance to grow up," the youngster wrote. "I hope you read this and stop killing little children please, and turn yourself in."

Town's police force arrested for impersonating officers

EAST MOUNTAIN, Texas (AP) — Sheriff's deputies armed with arrest warrants combed through this small East Texas town, looking to arrest every city law enforcement agent on charges of impersonating a police officer.

City Marshal James Morgan and two of his reserve officers, Phillip Luchae and David Patterson, were arrested Monday on five separate charges by Upshur County Sheriff Dale Jewkes, who said he was enforcing the orders of a county grand jury.

Morgan, elected City Marshal in May 1980, was booked into the county jail, then released on $500 bond after his arraignment before Justice of the Peace W.V. Ray. The same thing happened to Patterson and Luchae and Jewkes said warrants have been issued for five more reserve officers.

reserve officers because they had not completed a state certification course within six months of the time they assumed their duties, as required by state law.

Jewkes said the investigation began last August, triggered by complaints about a "speed trap" in the town, which was incorporated three years ago. Any officers who issued tickets or made arrests but had not been certified as violating state law.

Jack Ryle of the State Commission on Law Enforcement Standards, which also took part in the investigation, said, "In effect, what they were doing is to impersonate a police officer."

The charges said Morgan recklessly appointed a police

group of dissatisfied people trying to dissolve the city government because of the taxes needed to pay for municipal services.

District Attorney Dwight Bannon said Tuesday the situation has resulted in dismissal of several speeding tickets written in East Mountain, and refusal to house East Mountain prisoners in the county jail.

"The county is in a sticky situation," he said. "If we house a prisoner in jail and the officers making the arrest are not certified, it becomes a difficult legal question."

Representative Larry Don Shaw Reports from Austin

Inheritance tax, drug measures introduced

Of all the taxes we pay, probably the one that consistently generates the most criticism is the inheritance tax.

As things now stand, a certain amount of the STATE inheritance tax (sometimes called a death tax) can be subtracted from the heir's FEDERAL inheritance tax in the form of a tax credit.

This session, I'm co-sponsoring with Republican State Rep. Gerald Geistweidt a bill which would effectively abolish the state inheritance tax and still retain the right of the state to receive revenues that would otherwise be paid to the federal government.

In other words, the State of Texas will collect the amount — and ONLY the amount — that the federal Internal Revenue Service would allow as a tax credit against federal inheritance taxes. (If the State doesn't take that money, the federal government will.)

No estate would pay more in death taxes than it would under the present system, and most estates will pay less. Texans will save millions of dollars in accountants' and attorneys' fees, since the dual federal-state tax returns and audits will no longer be required.

And by using the federal credit as the means of computing the State's share, the job of the State Comptroller's office would be vastly simplified. In fact, our proposal, House Bill 325, should save the Comptroller's office more than $300,000 a year in administrative costs alone, with very little drop in state revenues.

Another measure I'm co-sponsoring with Rep. Buck Florence, House Bill 109, would cover a loophole in the Texas Controlled Substances Act. As the law stands now, a person breaks the law if he knowingly or intentionally manufactures, delivers or possesses with intent to manufacture or deliver a controlled substance, of course, meaning an illegal drug.

The loophole in the law is that CONSPIRACY to commit a crime like this is not a crime in itself.

House Bill 109 would make it an equally-serious crime to CONSPIRE with one or more persons to manufacture or deliver a controlled substance.

Conspiracy charges are extremely difficult to prove in most cases, but this bill should help to make it possible, in cases of blatant and undeniable wrongful intent, to stop some crimes involving drugs before they're ever committed.

Teachers say they need group health insurance

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Teachers have told a House committee that most of them must meet the high cost of medical insurance out of their small paychecks or just do without it. The House Insurance Committee took testimony on Tuesday on bills that would group insurance for teachers and other school district employees.

Organizations of educators said they want group insurance but disagreed over the details. Committee members are expected to piece together a bill from the various ideas received.

Only about 60 of Texas' 1,035 school districts make groups insurance available to their teachers and other employees.

Judy Koehl, a middle school teacher from Queen City, said she takes home $770 a month while her husband's $710 — also for teaching school — is reduced by $80 for health insurance premiums.

She urged a system of regional group insurance programs that would take into account the varying costs of medical care across Texas — "I don't want to be penalized by someone living in another part of the state, such as Houston."

Whether the state helps pay teachers' premiums will be a major issue. A $50-a-month contribution for all school employees and retire teachers would add an estimated $360 million to 1982-83 spending.

Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-

New Boston, chairman of the House Education Committee, said some teachers don't want the state to contribute toward group insurance premiums.

He said as many as 50 to 60 percent of all teachers already are covered by a spouse's policy and "are saying, 'If you have money for insurance, just put it into salaries.'"

The committee approved a bill in 1979 that required state contributions in an amount to be determined each session by the Legislature. It also would have compelled all school districts either to belong to a statewide plan to provide an equivalent group insurance program for their teachers. That bill died without final House action.

The Texas State Teachers Association favors that plan.

"Rising insurance rates have made it prohibitive for many, if not most, Texas educators to purchase individual coverage out of salaries which rank Texas teachers third in the nation," said TSTA President Dora Scott of Houston.

Mrs. Jeff Hart was honored with a baby shower Feb. 7 in the home of Mrs. Fannie Clark from 2-5 p.m. The refreshment table was covered with a red cloth and centered with four white candles in a brass holder. Crystal appointments were used and the Valentine theme was used throughout including a pink Valentine cake.

Hostesses were Netha Thurman, Ina Gann, Bonnie Thorp, Marjorie Koreel and Sue Easterling of the 11:7 p.m. Big Spring State Hospital shift.

Baby Hart is due in April.

Burt Whitaker called to eight squares of dancers Feb. 7. Guests from Odessa, Midland, Snyder, Colorado City, and Big Spring joined the Squares for an evening of dancing.

The Big Spring Squares will host a charity dance Feb. 15, 2 to 5 p.m. for the Permian Basin Square Dance Association. Permian Basin Callers will be featured. Donations will be presented to Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

The Squares will welcome David Davis of Midland Feb. 21 as caller.

Lessons are continuing on Tuesday evenings, 7 to 9 p.m. with Randy Phillips teaching. A good, enthusiastic group of students are attending. Workshops after the lessons at 9 p.m. will be held on specified evenings.

GFWC has Valentine party Monday

The GFWC Forsan Study Club met Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Forsan School Cafeteria. The club had a Valentine party for their husbands and guests.

The Valentine theme was carried out with the refreshment table. The table was decorated with a red cloth and a ming tree covered with heart ornaments. Heart shaped cookies, sandwiches, chips and vegetable dip were served. Hostesses were Susan Alexander, Pat Barron, Sue V. Holguin, Regina Gaston and Emily Elrod.

Donna Parker directed the bridge tournament. Participants changed tables and played each hand by a different set of rules. At the end of play, all the scores were tallied up and the winner, Dorothy Hassell, was presented with a silver cup gag gift. The loser, Mrs. Holguin, was given a double deck of playing cards, and other door prizes were provided by Shirley Summers and Eunice Thixton.

For the record

The Herald inadvertently printed in the Feb. 6 issue in the "Winners of PTA arts contest announced" article that Travis Sinclair is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James Watson.

This should have read: City literature winners are: Travis Sinclair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Sinclair, first grader in Mrs. Loyce Phillips' class at Kentwood and Kathy Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Watson, in Mrs. Nelda Callarman's class at College Heights.

The Herald regrets any inconvenience or embarrassment this error may have caused.

Dear Abby

Wedding May Be Full Of Unexpected Joy

DEAR ABBY: Our son is being married at a formal church wedding in May, and I am very nervous about the bride's selection of bridesmaids.

Five out of her six bridesmaids are already visibly pregnant! By May, one will be six months along, two will be in their eighth month, and the other two had better have their overnight cases packed and in their cars!

The bridesmaids' gowns are the maternity type, but Abby, I wonder what the reaction will be when they all walk down the aisle in various stages of pregnancy? (They're all married, so there's nothing wrong with it, but the coincidence might cause people to snicker.)

Is there some tactful way I can get my future daughter-in-law to reconsider her choices?

NERVOUS IN NEVADA

DEAR NERVOUS: No. It's the bride's prerogative to be attended by her closest friends, in whatever shape they happen to be in. Just make sure there's a doctor in the house.

DEAR ABBY: We are two 17-year-old girls who baby-sit to earn extra money, and our problem is one that many other teen-age baby sitters have.

In our town, we get a dollar an hour for baby-sitting. This is the same pay our mothers received when they baby-sat as teen-agers. Due to inflation, we think we're entitled to $1.50 an hour before midnight and $2.00 afterward. How should we go about getting a pay raise?

UNDERPAID

DEAR UNDERPAID: Sitters can hardly stage a "sit-in." But all you sitters can stand united and ask for a uniform increase. And if you get a boot in the bustle, all you have to lose is your seating capacity.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to tell you how much good you did for me when you published the following in your column:

"When I met him, I liked him.
"When I liked him, I loved him.
"When I loved him, I let him.
"When I let him, I lost him."

I can't thank you enough for printing that. It saved my reputation. My boyfriend and I had been dating only a short time, yet he was pressuring me to "let him." I'm 16 and he's 18.

I very nearly gave in, then that little saying popped into my head and gave me the strength to say no.

Needless to say, today we aren't speaking. I know it sounds like the plan backfired, but it really didn't. I may have lost a boyfriend (who in the long run turned out to be worthless anyway), but I gained the respect of other guys with better values. (Boys talk.) I hope other girls who read your column that day took your advice seriously. I did. And today my life is the best it's ever been. Thanks.

SAID NO IN SAN FRANCISCO

BONNIE KAY McCORMICK — GLAMOUR Magazine Success Choice

Magazine announces 1981 Success Choice

For years, GLAMOUR has been selecting Outstanding Young Working Women who have pioneered in non-traditional areas and excelled in traditional ones. This year, GLAMOUR's Success Choices will once again serve as inspiration to millions of young women in the decade to come.

In the remote jungles of Java, among rubber plants, mosquito netting and snakes, works Bonnie Kay McCormick, one of the three female engineers Schlumberger International has sent overseas.

Ms. McCormick, 29, was sent by Schlumberger, an oil services conglomerate to work for an Indonesian oil company in Java, operating and maintaining the sophisticated electronic "logging" or data-taking equipment needed to drill oil wells. She handles the explosives and logging equipment, manages an Indonesian crew, takes care of invoices, payroll, mosquitos and mud.

She is the only engineer in this remote location, the only westerner and the only woman. At times, she spends up to 60 hours, practically non-stop, working in the oil field. "I thought it would be impossible, but even though I'm 5'1" and 100 pounds, I'm amazed at my own physical stamina." She says the loneliness of the job is hard to get used to but she is still fascinated by a culture she is just beginning to understand. "I've seen things most people never even imagine." She remains on location for five-week periods with the sixth week off for travel, sightseeing and shopping.

Ms. McCormick, originally from Houston, Texas, began working for Schlumberger as a field engineer in the Gulf of Mexico in 1978.

COSDEN: WHERE PEOPLE WORK TOGETHER SAFELY

2 MILLION MANHOURS WITHOUT A LOST TIME INJURY

From one million to two million work safe hours in our Big Spring plant from May 18, 1980 until February 10, 1981. A new record. And a challenge to beat it, too!

Only a real commitment to safety by every individual worker makes this superlative record possible. We're proud of our people, of their interest in job safety and of their remarkable achievement.

To show our appreciation, almost 700 workers will each receive a $100.00 gift certificate, redeemable through Big Spring participating merchants. That's a total of $70,000 in local business.

The partnership between the company and its employees makes Cosden a safe place to work.

Good news for Lakers is Magic

By the Associated Press — If you believe in Magic, here's some good news:

Earvin "Magic" Johnson, whose skills helped the Los Angeles Lakers to the 1980 National Basketball Association championship and whose smile lit up the entire league, is expected to be back in action within two weeks.

"I can hardly wait," said Johnson. "Not being involved has really hurt."

Johnson, sidelined since Nov. 18 because of torn cartilage in his left knee, has been scrimmaging with the Lakers for the past week, with encouraging results.

"He looked better than we had expected," said Los Angeles Coach Paul Westhead.

"He was running well, nitting and cutting. We thought it might take him awhile to get the feel of contact again, but he seemed not to be hurt at all. "He'll play for us Feb. 22 in New York."

That would be a most appropriate occasion for the return of Johnson, whose value to the entire NBA lies as much in the 20-year-old's infectious enthusiasm as in his basketball skills. Besides taking place in the media capital of New York, it will be nationally televised as part of CBS's Sunday Game of the Week series — and a

Magic act can only help the ratings.

The Lakers have done surprisingly well since the 6-foot-9 guard got hurt. They were 15-5 before Johnson went down and have gone 23-14 without him to stay within 4½ games of the first-place Phoenix Suns in the Pacific Division race.

"I'm not going to rush the knee because the team doesn't need me to make the playoffs," said Johnson.

"We'll do that regardless of whether I come back or not. The questions are whether we'll finish in first or second place and how far we'll go in the playoffs."

The answers to those questions would be more positive with Magic in the Laker lineup.

"He makes us significantly better," said Westhead. "His pluses are passing, rebounding and smiling."

The latter is not to be discounted. For years the Lakers were known for their unemotional play and bias fans, but all that changed last year with the arrival of Johnson. His enthusiasm went a long way toward creating a new atmosphere on the team and at the Forum. Many say it was the key ingredient in their championship formula — and the missing ingredient this year.

"I hope I'll fire them up," said Johnson, when asked what impact his return would have. "But the team has been playing pretty well without me, so you never know."

Coaches and recruiters from nine Southwest Conference schools fanned out across Texas today to sign the cream of the schoolboy football crop, but several bluechippers — including Richardson Pearce's defensive lineman, Ray Childress — ended the suspense Tuesday.

Childress, a 6-foot-6, 235-pounder who was injured most of his senior season, announced he will enroll at Texas A&M University.

His final decision eliminated Nebraska and Texas.

Earlier, the All-State

pitch-and-catch duo of Port Arthur Jefferson's quarterback Todd Dodge and wide receiver Brent Duhon had opted for the Texas Longhorns, and Highland Park quarterback Rob Moerschell said he will go to Texas and play football and baseball.

Teammates defensive back Robert Smothers and running back Don Holloway said they would follow Dodge and Duhon to Texas.

Childress, the leading vote-getter on the Dallas Times Herald's annual bluechip team, said, "I like the atmosphere and the facilities at A&M. After I visited Nebraska last weekend, I knew A&M was where I wanted to go."

Kevin Hancock, a Parade Magazine All-American linebacker from Texas City, said he will sign with the Baylor Bears.

Hancock, a 6-3, 215-pounder who averaged 12 tackles per game last season, joined Killeen linebacker John Bright in committing to the Bears and Coach Grant Teaff.

Another highly regarded linebacker and a Parade Magazine All-American, Alan Jamison of Houston Westchester, also said he would sign with the Bears.

Baylor also has apparently landed running back Jerome Johnson, a 6-2 195-pound all-stater from Class 2A champion Pilot Point.

Highland Park offensive tackle John Barns said he will wait until next week and sign a national letter of intent with Stanford.

The national signing day is next Wednesday and most SWC coaches said they will not release their signing lists until then. Some said they don't want to give outside schools such as Colorado and Oklahoma any help.

The top bluechip running back in the state, Patrick Franklin of Bay City, has narrowed his choice down to Houston and Texas A&M.

Bluechip defensive tackle Bill Heathcock of North Garland and offensive lineman John Stuart of Clear Lake have committed to Texas while 250-pound offensive tackle Brian Camp of Lewisville said he will play for defending SWC champion Baylor.

Another highly sought lineman, Todd Schoppe of La Porte, has committed to Houston, along with bluechip linebacker Gerald Turner of Pittsburg.

At the top of the running back crop, Rice landed Kevin Trigg of Irving Nimitz, Southern Methodist got Louie Stephenson of Irving and Dallas Madison's Jerry Barnett opted for the University of Houston.

Rice had a commitment from Trinity quarterback Matt Skinner.

Klondike's James Martin signs SWC letter with Texas Tech

KLONDIKE — Klondike's standout 6-2, 250-pound lineman James Martin has signed a Southwest Conference letter-of-intent with Texas Tech University.

The signing took place at 3 p.m. this afternoon, with Tech assistant Dean Slayton inking Martin, who helped lead the Klondike team to the district and bi-district titles this year.

Martin, who played for Klondike Coach Mickey Finley during his high school playing days, was a three-time All-District selection, two-time All-South Plains selection and was named as a Class A All-State nose guard once.

Besides the Tech offer, other schools expressing interest in acquiring the 250-pounder's services included Texas A&M, Rice, Colorado and Oklahoma State.

"Tech really showed more interest in him both before and after the coaching change up here," said Finley. The coaching change he was speaking of is when last year's Tech head coach, Rex Dockery, left for a better offer at Memphis State, with former North Texas State Coach Jerry Moore getting the Red Raider job.

Razorbacks in shape for High Noon fight

By the Associated Press
The Arkansas Razorbacks are alive and well and right back in the middle of the Southwest Conference basketball race again.
The Razorbacks played strong defense Tuesday to coast to an easy 67-50 victory over the Baylor Bears to set the stage for Saturday's "High Noon" type shootout with the Houston Cougars.
Appropriately the game will be played at high noon Saturday for a regional television audience with the Razorbacks hoping to use the home floor advantage to move closer to the first place Cougars.
In other SWC roundball action Tuesday night, Texas edged Texas Christian, 88-84; Texas Tech beat Rice, 61-55, and Texas A&M beat Southern Methodist, 61-56.
Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton said the Razorbacks played their best defense ever for 20 minutes in the victory over Baylor. The Razorbacks used a strong man-to-man defense to limit Baylor to eight points in a 16-minute span.

"Our press did a great job. I'm sure they threw the ball away seven or eight times against," Sutton said.
Darrell Walker came off the bench to score 16 points for Arkansas and Scott Hastings had 22 for the Razorbacks. Terry Teagle had 14 points and was the only Baylor player scoring in double figures.
Baylor coach Jim Haller said Hastings was the difference in the game.
"We usually do well against Arkansas when we shut Hastings off, but tonight he had 14 points by half-time," Haller said.
The Texas Longhorns jumped off to a comfortable 53-28 halftime lead, but had to hang on at the end for an 88-84 victory over TCU.
Texas coach Abe Lemons said he didn't know what happened in the second half when TCU outscored the Longhorns 15-2 in the opening minutes and pulled to within 2 points with just under a minute remaining in the game.

"I guess you've got to play them close to keep the crowds coming back. We had a whole lot of bad and little bit of good tonight and that sort of sums up the whole year," Lemons said. "What you saw is what we are."
Ken Montgomery had 28 points and LaSalle Thompson had 19 for Texas. Decker Johnson had 20 and Darrell Browder had 17 for the Horned Frogs.
Vernon Smith hit 21 points to lead the Texas A&M to their fourth consecutive SWC victory as the Aggies beat SMU, 61-56.
Dave Piehler had 19 points for the Mustangs.
"It wasn't pretty, but I'll take...I'll take anything these days," said Aggies coach Shelby Metcalf, noting that the four straight victories came after seven consecutive conference losses for the defending champion Aggies.
SMU coach Dave Bliss also noted that the Aggies are improving.
"A&M seems to be playing very well at this point and they are going to make it difficult for some teams the rest of the way," Bliss said.
Clarence Swannegan scored 17 points to lead Texas Tech to a 61-55 come-from-behind victory over Rice.
Ricky Pierce had 24 points for the Owls, who grabbed a 34-27 halftime lead. Swannegan scored 15 of his 17 points in the second half to pace a comeback for the Red Raiders.
"We needed this one awfully bad," said Tech coach Gerald Myers. "Our players came in at the half with their heads down, but I'll give them credit, they came back strong with their heads up."
Rice coach Mike Schuler praised Swannegan's performance although he was quite upset about the loss.
"It has a very disappointing, very disturbing loss to us," he said.
In addition to Saturday's regional televised game matching the Cougars and Razorbacks, Baylor is at Texas Tech, Texas A&M visits Rice and TCU is at SMU for night games.

Sonics find hope with win over Celtics

By the Associated Press
It has not been a very enjoyable season for the Seattle SuperSonics, who have struggled because of injuries to Paul Westphal and Lonnie Shelton and a contract dispute that has kept Gus Williams on the sidelines.

But finally they found reason to rejoice.
The Sonics rallied from a seven-point deficit in the final two minutes of regulation play and went on to stun the Boston Celtics 108-107 in overtime Tuesday night at the Kingdome in Seattle. It was the fourth loss in the last six National Basketball Association games for the Celtics, who fell three games behind Philadelphia in the Atlantic Division race.

"It was one of the biggest wins of the year, especially now when we have to put a string together," said Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens, whose club has a modest three-game winning streak and is still in the chase for a playoff berth despite a 25-32 record.

"It's the type of game that can turn the whole season around," said Westphal, who came off the bench to lead Seattle with 24 points. "If we spring off it and use it as momentum, it can help us on the coming road trip."

The Sonics start a four-game road swing at Portland Thursday night.
In other games, the Chicago Bulls edged the Kansas City Kings 116-115, the Atlanta Hawks beat the Golden State Warriors 116-108, the Washington Bullets defeated the Denver Nuggets 115-110, the Detroit Pistons topped the Dallas Mavericks 101-95 and the Phoenix Suns stopped the San Diego Clippers 107-93.

Boston seemed to have the game in hand with a 98-91 lead, but Seattle's John Johnson hit two free throws and Fred Brown followed with a three-pointer and a layup off a Vinnie Johnson steal to tie the score with 1:12 to go.

"When it was 98-91, it got real ugly," said Boston

Coach Bill Fitch. "During that time, it was the only period that we mistired in the backcourt all night. They didn't have a beautiful game either. We kicked them and they kicked us."

Neither team could score for more than a minute before Vinnie Johnson hit a jumper to put Seattle ahead 100-96 with four seconds left. Boston's Chris Ford was short with a three-point try but Larry Bird converted the offensive rebound at the buzzer to force overtime.

James Donaldson and Vinnie Johnson scored the first two baskets of the five-minute overtime for Seattle, which then held off Boston.

Rookie or not, NHL All-Star game a thrill

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As All-Star games go, the National Hockey League's 33rd edition was rather entertaining — especially for the players making their All-Star debuts.

"How can you not be thrilled?" said Calgary center Kent Nilsson, who scored the first goal in the Campbell Conference's 4-1 victory over the Wales just 45 seconds into Tuesday's game. "You look around and there are the best players everywhere."

"I'm just happy to be a part of this," Eddie Johnstone of the Rangers, one of the "grinders" Philadelphia Coach Pat Quinn selected for the Campbell team, expressed his feelings in two words.

"Absolutely terrific," was how Johnstone, who had two assists, described his feelings about being an All-Star. "This is the thrill of a lifetime, to play here and contribute."

Even the first-time players for the losing Wales squad seemed a bit overwhelmed by the surroundings. Minnesota rookie goalie Don Beaupre, who is all of 19, was collecting autographs from his All-Star mates.

"I was a little nervous at the start because it's hard to get the feeling of the game," said Beaupre, who surrendered two goals. "Everything seemed to go by so quick and I was all hyped up. It was the same as my first NHL game."

Quebec's Peter Stastny, who defected from Czechoslovakia last summer, has played in many international contests and is experienced with the kind of pressure a hockey player must endure. Still, he was "shaky" prior to the game.

"It was a nice evening and a lot of fun," said Stastny. "But, with all the best hockey players here, you want to do well. You don't want to be shown up."

Perhaps the most excited of the first-timers at the game was Quinn. As a player, Quinn never came close to participating in an All-Star game. In his second full year as an NHL coach, he has an All-Star victory.

"All I did was get excited," he noted. "I caught up watching the game and enjoyed watching the skills. It was just a pleasure for me."

And for everybody on the Campbell team.

MAPS director reportedly with FBI

LOS ANGELES (AP) — L. Ben Lewis, one of two key missing figures named in a $21.3 million bank fraud suit filed by Wells Fargo National Bank, is reported to be in FBI hands and discussing the case with investigators.

Lewis, a director of Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, Inc. and operations manager of Wells Fargo's Beverly Drive Branch, has not been seen in public since reports of the alleged embezzlement began to circulate earlier this month.

Meanwhile, Wells Fargo announced Tuesday that Gene Kawakami, the manager of one of its major branches, had been relieved of his duties.

Bank spokesman George Caulfield also confirmed that the bank is seeking $25 million in punitive damages from MAPS, in addition to the return of the $21.3 million allegedly embezzled.

Caulfield declined to say why Kawakami, manager of the bank's branch in the wealthy Miracle Mile district, was relieved of his duties, and Kawakami said he had been advised by his attorney to make no statements.

Asked if Kawakami was relieved because of allegations on tape cassettes delivered to sportscasters from Harold J. Smith — the other missing man named in the bank's suit — Caulfield said, "I'd better not comment on that. All you can say is that the action relates to our continuing investigation of facts around the case." However, Caulfield did say of Kawakami, "We're not suspending him — he's still in our employ."

The FBI refused to confirm the report, and pointed out that no warrants had yet been issued in the case.

Holmes finally getting respect as boxing champ

By the Associated Press
Larry Holmes is whizzing along the Pennsylvania Turnpike at 70-odd miles per hour, thinking he's A.J. Foyt, when a state trooper, siren screaming, pulls alongside and motions him to the road's shoulder.

"Where's the fire?" the trooper growls, and yanks a pad from his hip pocket. Then suddenly he looks inside the car — and freezes.

"Oh, eh, eh. Hi there, champ," he manages to mumble. "You were moving pretty fast, don't you think?"

"Got an important press conference in New York," says Holmes.

"Okay, but go easy now, hear?"

"That's the way things have changed for me," explained the 6-foot-3, 218-pound WBC heavyweight champion from Easton, Pa.

"A few years ago, nobody knew who I was. The big names were Muhammad Ali, Joe Frazier, George Foreman and Ken Norton. No matter how much I won, I was still considered a second rate fighter and nobody gave me a chance to prove different. I know what it is to sit back and watch the people go by."

For Larry Holmes, they don't go by anymore.

Since the big, easy-going son of a Cuthbert, Ga.,

LARRY HOLMES

broadcaster asked, "why don't you demand $5 and $8 million purses the way Ali did?"

"Money don't mean that much to me," Holmes replied. "I got to fight to keep in shape. I got to give the guys — even the little guys — a shot. After this, I'll fight Leon Spinks and then maybe Mike Weaver (WBA champion) and hang it up."

Listeners were unconvinced. "You're only 31," a skeptic insisted. "You mean you're going to sacrifice all the money that you could make now that you're on top?"

"Money? What's money?" the champ asked rhetorically. "I got an $800,000 home in Easton. I got an office, a place for kids to train, a new nightclub ('Round One'), five automobiles, all paid for, and plenty of money in the bank."

Holmes insisted he had no desire to be rich and famous, fraternizing with world leaders, the jet and movie set.

"I like Easton," he added. "It's a nice place to live. And I can live comfortably on the $300,000 interest I get a year."

"I will leave it to history to decide how good a champion I was."

Don't worry, history will treat Larry Holmes well.

Notre Dame gives Digger win No. 200

By the Associated Press
Digger Phelps wasn't particularly thrilled with his 200th coaching victory at Notre Dame. He might have clicked his heels a few times, though, had it come one game earlier.

Rebounding with a vengeance from a one-point loss to UCLA on Sunday that dropped them to 12th in The Associated Press ratings, the Irish crushed Boston University 89-63 Tuesday night.

"We had the mental intensity we needed," Phelps said. "We shot 74 percent in the first half (20 of 27) against a team that was pressing and using a zone.

We were just in a good groove and that got things going."

But as far as his 200th triumph against 82 losses since coming to Notre Dame, Phelps had to confess that he felt "nothing really. That's for someone else to worry about. All I'd like to do is win the national title, then

State its 18th consecutive setback.

Rory White led the winners with 21 points, and Ed Rains added 20. Georgia State Coach Roger Couch was ejected with just 7:13 gone in the game when he was socked with his third technical foul. He picked up the first one for arguing over an official's call and got the last two for continuing to gripe about the first one.

Phelps' 200th triumph was never in doubt. Notre Dame scored the game's first 10 points, including four apiece by John Paxson and Tim Andree. Orlando Woolridge led the Irish with 18 points and Tracy Jackson added 17.

Three appointments at BSSH announced

MICHELLE MAHAFFEY

DR. BARNEY RUBINSTEIN

TERESA MOORE

Recent appointments at the Big Spring State Hospital were announced this week by Dr. Wallace C. Hunter, acting superintendent of BSSH.

Dr. Barney Rubinstein was appointed as acting clinical director; Michelle Mahaffey as chief of food service management; and Teresa Moore as dietician II, according to Dr. Hunter.

Dr. Rubinstein, a native of San Antonio, earned his bachelor of arts in Bacteriology from the University of Texas in 1949 and his doctor of medicine degree in 1959 from the University of Texas Medical School in Galveston.

In between his studies, Rubinstein was drafted into the Army, serving two years in the first medical field lab in Korea. While there he was awarded five battle stars and a presidential unit citation for outstanding work on the battlefield.

Dr. Rubinstein's professional experience includes a rotating internship at Robert B. Green Memorial Hospital in San Antonio, residency in Psychiatry and Neurology at Austin State Hospital, plus positions in the Psychiatry Department at the University of Texas Medical School in San Antonio, Santa Rosa Medical Center, Baptist Memorial Hospital, Southwest Methodist Hospital, Bexar County Hospital, Park North General Hospital, Villa Rosas Psychiatric Ward and Medical Director of Morning Side Manor in San Antonio.

His career also includes private practice in Psychiatry from 1964-1977 and General Practice from 1977-1980 in San Antonio before coming to Big Spring in November 1980.

Dr. Rubinstein cites his reason for moving to Big Spring as wanting to get away from the city and into a small town atmosphere. He says the local people are "cordial, sincere and friendly."

Currently Rubinstein resides on campus with his daughter, Margaret, 16. His wife, Aleita (Anne), and children, Denise, 18; Morris, 15 and Sandra, 9, will join him later.

Michelle Mahaffey brought 10 years experience with her when she joined the hospital staff last October.

Her professional background includes Contract Feeding with ARA Services, County Extension Agent, Nutritionist for the Elderly in San Antonio and association with food chains in Dallas.

She earned her bachelor of science in Home Economics and Foods Nutrition from Texas Women's University in Denton. During her college career she spent 6½ months in India as an exchange student through the 4-H program. While there she exchanged cultural ideas and activities.

Ms. Mahaffey supervises a staff of 72, who serve approximately 400 patients three meals and a snack daily.

Originally from Denton, Ms. Mahaffey has three sisters and three brothers, one being her twin.

Teresa Moore joined the hospital in September 1980 as Dietician II.

As a registered dietician, Ms. Moore serves as a menu consultant with her main emphasis being the preparation of special menus for about 100 patients on diet restrictions.

Moore earned her bachelor of science in Food Nutrition from Texas Tech University last May.

Prior to coming to Big Spring she was a nursing home consultant in Lubbock.

A native of Tyler, Moore has an older sister and an older brother.

Senate committee fights over shock probation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill urged by Gov. Bill Clements to put limits on the granting of shock probation ran afoul of two state Senators and was delayed for two weeks, after heated debate.

The Jurisprudence Committee decided Tuesday to hold the bill, sponsored by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, pending an attorney general's ruling on the constitutionality of part of the measure.

The bill would limit instances in which a judge may grant shock probation, a procedure where a defendant convicted of a non-violent crime is sent to prison but released after two to three months. The idea is to give first-offenders a taste of prison life to shock them into reforming.

Witnesses said revisions of the bill would encourage judges to use the technique more often but Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said the changes actually limit judges' discretion and "don't make any sense to me."

The measure bars a defendant who appeals a conviction from the early release, and the constitutionality of this provision was sharply questioned.

Several senators also objected to the addition of a list of offenses that would be ineligible for shock probation, such as rape of a child, official misconduct, weapons violations, illegal wiretapping and voluntary manslaughter.

Parker and Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, objected strongly to including rape of a child and voluntary manslaughter, and pointed out that the wiretapping crime referred to a law that has not been passed.

Kiwanis Club donates $50 to fund at HC

The Big Spring Kiwanis Club has contributed $50 to the special fund at Howard College, proceeds of which will be used to underwrite the expenses of Jackie Swofford in the Deaf Olympics scheduled in Germany next summer.

Swofford, a javelin thrower with potential for breaking the world's record for a deaf person, is a student at Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

The fund has also received a $35 gift from Alma Gollnick, bringing the total donated thus far to $85. Objective in the drive is $2,000.

The YMCA is planning a benefit basketball game for the fund. The Big Spring Squares are mapping plans for a dance, proceeds from which would be donated directly to Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, which could in turn appropriate the money for the fund. Radio Station KBST will sponsor a dance later this month in the East Room of the Garrett Coliseum, with all proceeds earmarked for the Swofford Fund.

At least 34 people infected

Puzzling meningitis outbreak keeps growing in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Medical investigators admit they may never know precisely why a puzzling outbreak of meningitis, that now has infected 34 people in Houston, clustered in an elementary school classroom.
Health officials say 10 people have died since Jan. 1 from the disease that has stricken at least 89 people in Texas. And one of the dead, a 12-year-old girl, was among six students in a sixth-grade Dodson Elementary School classroom to be afflicted with meningococcal meningitis.
Negative blood samples and throat cultures taken last week from students and employees at Dodson prompted doctors at Baylor College of Medicine and from the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta to begin an inquiry into the habits of the stricken students — looking for an elusive common thread.

Baylor spokesman Gayle McNutt said Tuesday the investigation could take from "two weeks to two months and still may not provide an adequate answer."
"The tests results showed this is a unique situation that requires an intense investigation of the five cases to try to determine what they had in common and why this disease clustered in one classroom," said Ms. McNutt.
Meningitis is an inflammation of the membranes surrounding the brain and spine. The meningococcal form, caused by bacteria, is the most serious with a death rate of 50 percent unless diagnosed and treated early.

Symptoms include colds, muscle aches, fever, sore throats and pink rash.
Houston health officials confirmed two new cases of the disease Tuesday in a 44-year-old woman and a 30-year-old woman. However, the officials said both women live on the city's northside and have no known connection with Dodson, which is located in a low-income section of downtown Houston.
Health officials completed the inoculated 116 students and employees at Dodson on Tuesday with a gamma globulin vaccine — a protein extracted from blood plasma. On Monday, 764 students and employees at Dodson received the vaccinations.

The vaccine, which has been used on a limited basis in the United States, is considered about 90 percent effective in providing protection against meningococcal meningitis.
Texas Department of Health surveillance coordinator Jan Simmons said 10 people have died and at least 79 others in Texas have been stricken by the disease since the first of the year. She said 15 cases were reported during the same period in 1980.
The 34 cases confirmed so far this year in Houston is just one below the total the nation's fifth largest city reported in all of 1980.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"ANOTHER GOOD THING ABOUT WINTER IS THAT THE RAIN IS FROZEN SO YA DON'T HAVE TO COME INDOORS OUT OF IT."

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"That's very good, Mommy. But why are the birds all flying upside down?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 12, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Despite some early morning frustrations, in the afternoon you are able to accomplish a great deal by attending to duties. Repaying favors brings fine results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Go straight to those who have power over your affairs and gain their support where your career is concerned.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put those new and practical ideas to work so you can advance in life. Get rid of the unwanted and obsolete.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Follow your intuition and handle present situations in a practical way and get excellent results. Use care in motion.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to cooperate more with associates and understand their ideas better. Engage in civic work.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Attend to regular chores early in the day so you'll have more time for social activities later. Be more thoughtful of others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful of one who likes to downgrade you and others. Take time for amusements during spare time. Be happy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure home affairs are handled wisely. Be more cooperative with others. Avoid a temptation to spend too much money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to discuss business matters with associates and cement better relations. Keep active and free of boredom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Analyze your true financial position and you find you are better off than you think. Establish more order around you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Personal aims are difficult to gain in the morning but later they become easy for you. Attend group affair tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you don't react bitterly to conditions you cannot change. Make new acquaintances of worth.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look to an older and serious friend for the backing you need at this time, but be diplomatic in asking for it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be able to comprehend work and career matters well, so be sure to send to college. There is much ability and desire for organizational work. A good background in religion is important here. Sports are a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Editor vows to publish list of brothel patrons

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A fiery neighborhood newspaper editor is vowing to defy a court order and "rot in jail" if necessary to publish names of more than 2,000 men who allegedly patronized a controversial brothel.
 Armandina Saldivar, who has battled the local bureaucracy and establishment for years, was named in a temporary injunction Tuesday by District Judge James Onion, who ordered her not to publish an alleged "trick list" confiscated by police in a vice raid last October.
 Mrs. Saldivar said her monthly publication, "El Pueblo," intended to print the names at an undisclosed location, as announced earlier this week, despite Onion's order.

 "We'll rot in jail," she said. "They're not going to tell us what to do. No one is going to keep us from exercising freedom of the press. If they get me angry, I may publish 50,000 copies. Right now I'm that angry."
 The threat by "El Pueblo" to publish the list came as alleged brothel madam Theresa Brown hired one attorney and fired another in an effort to get her plea of no contest withdrawn in court.
 Attorney Pat Maloney filed new motions Tuesday seeking to void the no-contest plea and her conviction for aggravated promotion of prostitution.
 "Illicit sex is a cooperative act. It takes two to bring it off. But in an atmosphere of chronic chauvinistic phoniness, all the attention has been focused on Theresa as if she an she alone committed sin," said Maloney, retained by Ms. Brown after she dismissed her former attorney, Rick Woods.
 "I am of the opinion no jury is likely to convict this woman and thereby fly in the face of the biblical injunction, 'Let he who is without sin cast the first stone,'" Maloney said.

 Ms. Brown's no-contest plea followed an arrangement with the district attorney, agreeing to accept a three-year sentence after being told it was likely that Judge James Barlow would probate the sentence. But after she entered the plea and was convicted, she had second thoughts, she said.
 She and two other women were arrested last Oct. 2 by vice squad officers who said they seized a "trick book," listing names and sexual preferences of their alleged customers.
 A local weekly newspaper, "El Pueblo," threatened to publish more than 2,000 names appearing in the book later this week, but Maloney said he would seek a court order to prevent the move.
 Maloney said if the case went to a jury he would "most certainly" seek to place the entire list of names in evidence "at the earliest opportunity."
 Maloney said he did not want the list published before a trial because, "I wouldn't want to hurt innocent people of course."
 "But should exposure of certain names on the list, those of the local great and near-great who are escaping scrutiny, let's say — should that turn out to be of advantage to Theresa's cause, I would feel bound to do it."

Murder conviction thrown out
 AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today threw out a murder conviction against a Smith County man because he was taken on a search for the victim's body without his lawyer's permission.
 The appeals court said Smith County District Attorney A.D. Clark III should not have taken David Franklin Stone to look for Vicky Gill's body.
 Stone, then 18, was sentenced to 40 years in prison in the July 7, 1977, beating death of Miss Gill, 24.
 On the day of the slaying Stone surrendered to Smith County Chief Deputy Sheriff Jim Collins. Stone was accompanied by lawyer Weldon Holcomb, who told Collins that Stone would not make any statement concerning the case. Collins agreed not to question Stone without Holcomb present.
 Holcomb then gave Collins a map showing where the body was. Stone was jailed and an unsuccessful search began. Collins had Holcomb called to ask for permission to bring Stone to the scene. Holcomb said no.
 District Attorney Clark came to the scene, and he ordered that Stone be brought to aid the search.
 Stone quickly led deputies to the body.
 Judge Carl Dally's opinion issued today said the district attorney knew Stone was represented by a lawyer who did not want Stone taken to the scene.
 "He arranged to have (Stone) brought from the jail at midnight to the search scene, a wooded area where five to 10 armed officers were searching," Dally said.
