First flight could come April 7

Space shuttle test firing successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Columbia, the flagship of the fleet of American space shuttles, passed a successful and spectacular firing of its three powerful engines today and apparently proved that at long last it is ready to carry astronauts into orbit.

That first orbital flight could come as early as April 7, barring any more problems in a project that is already more than two years behind schedule.

The final verdict on Columbia's space worthiness must await thorough analysis of today's test. But preliminary indications from the launch control center was that Columbia had cleared the biggest hurdle yet on its way to changing the way American operates in space.

"It looks like we've had a very successful firing of Columbia's three main engines," Hugh Harris, the control-center spokesman, reported seven minutes after the 20-second test.

Among the happiest observers here were the two astronauts who are to take Columbia up on the first mission, John Young and Bob Crippen. They watched the test from the top of the control center, three miles from the launch pad.

When the practice countdown reached zero at 8:45 a.m. EST, the three engines at the base of the delta-winged spaceship flashed to life, spewing torrents of almost invisible flame, steam and smoke over the launch pad and sending a thunder-clap rolling across the scrub and palmetto of the Kennedy Space Center here.

"All engines are up and running," the control center announced.

The power plant — the world's most sophisticated rocket machine — generated 1.1 million pounds of thrust for 20 seconds, just as planned, while the 122-foot tall Columbia, its two solid-fuel boosters and a giant fuel tank remained locked firmly on the pad, held there by eight three-foot-long hardened steel bolts.

On an actual launch, explosive charges would sever the bolts to release the spacecraft, and the solid-fueled boosters would ignite.

The test marked the first time in the U.S. manned space program that engines have been fired on the launch pad during a countdown practice. In the earlier projects, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration gained that experience by launching the capsules unmanned before committing astronauts to fly them.

But the shuttle is designed to return to earth on land instead of splashing down on water and officials said it would be difficult to send it aloft unmanned.

The practice duplicated all aspects of a real countdown except for the entry of the astronauts into the cockpit and was the first time that all systems had been tested as a unit. The firing had been postponed three times this week, by technical, weather and procedure troubles. Minor problems delayed today's ignition another hour.

During the final hours of the count, 526,000 gallons of fuel were pumped into Columbia's tanks.

Officials said before the test that a success would clear the way for launching Columbia on a 54-hour orbital trip on April 7.

READY FOR MEETING — Doug Warren, a local member of the Confederate Air Force, stands on his Messerschmitt, one of 50 planes that will be in Big Spring Saturday for a proficiency meeting for CAF members. The public is invited to view the planes at the Municipal Airport. The meeting begins at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Texans key figures in planned second rescue

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Millionaire H. Ross, Perot, whose masterminded the escape of two of his employees from an Iranian prison, concocted a scheme at the request of U.S. officials for rescuing the American hostages, but it was rejected at Pentagon meetings, a Fort Worth television station says.

KXAS-TV also reported Thursday that electronics-laced gifts and football game videotapes from Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry figured in another abandoned rescue plot, and said a Texas airman died in a helicopter crash during a practice exercise for a rescue mission.

The copyright story was based on a joint investigation by KXAS and NBC News. An NBC spokesman said the network would broadcast the report on "NBC Nightly News" today.

The practice session in which Airman Jay Schatte, 22, died last July 18 near Monticello, Utah, was training for a mission intended as a follow-up to the aborted raid April 25, that left eight airmen dead and two burned aircraft on an Iranian desert, KXAS reported.

Army spokesman Sgt. Phil Hale denied at the time that the crash was related to a second rescue attempt and told Schatte's parents the accident occurred during routine training.

But armed, uniformed men surrounded the crash site and kept observers at bay. And Schatte's father said he suspected his son was in training for another rescue mission.

"I sort of knew," John Schatte told The Associated Press, adding his son also had trained for the first mission. "I had an idea it was going on when he was out here visiting in Fort Worth."

A month after the crash, the idea for a second rescue mission, a plan so secret that former Secretary of State Edmund Muskie did not know of it, was scrubbed, the station said.

Hopes of rescue were further dashed because planners could not pinpoint the exact location of the hostages, despite efforts to plant sophisticated electronic locating gadgets on the hostages, the station reported.

U.S. officials were not available Thursday night for comment on the report. But several high-level Pentagon sources told the AP they recalled no exercises being held in preparation for a second raid.

KXAS said planners next tried bugging the hostages by sending them Christmas gifts — such as football jerseys and exercise devised — stuffed with special radio transmitters. But the hostages themselves — who could not be told directly about the plot — refused that plan when some of them refused to accept the Christmas presents.

The station also said Perot, whose commando raid freed two of his employees from an Iranian prison in February 1979, was one of the first men the Defense Department consulted about rescue plans.

Confederate Air Force planes to be on display here Saturday

By CAROL HART

Members of the Confederate Air Force will meet at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Big Spring Municipal Airport in the Industrial Park to participate in a proficiency training meeting, said Doug Warren, a local member of the CAF.

The Confederate Air Force is the 15th largest air force in the world, and is dedicated to preserving World War II planes. The group has members across the nation and in several foreign countries, and schedules air shows throughout the country, one of the largest being in Harlingen each year.

Several Big Spring residents are members of the CAF. Big Spring and Midland-Odessa compose the Desert Squadron of the West Texas Wing of the CAF. The West Texas Wing is composed of Monahans, Lubbock, San Angelo, Breckenridge, Abilene, West Houston, Graham and the Desert Squadron cities. Warren said he expects about 150 people from the CAF at the Saturday meeting, and said 50 planes will be on hand at the Municipal Airport.

Although "this is not an air show," Warren said the public is invited to the Municipal Airport on Saturday to view the planes. Warren explained that "we will be practicing formation flying," during the day, and said a spot landing contest for CAF members is also slated.

All the exercises Saturday are to improve the skills of the men and women who fly the CAF planes. The men and women participating Saturday will be getting ready for an air show at Harlingen, March 13 and 14.

Big Spring was chosen as a site for the proficiency training meeting because "we can fly here and not disturb anyone," said Warren. Plus, members of the Confederate Air Force "like to come to Big Spring," he said.

Warren advised that refreshment would be available during the day, and "the public is invited out to see the warbirds."

Teen girl admits 19 burglaries

By JAMES WERRELL

A local 14-year-old girl has confessed to 19 home burglaries, nine of them in Big Spring, local Police announced this morning.

The girl was first arrested by Big Spring Police on Jan. 19, when officers caught her inside a local home. She was placed on probation for that burglary on Jan. 28, said Lt. George Quintero.

Investigating the burglary further, police learned that the girl had used a telephone inside the home to make several long-distance calls during the course of the break-in. When a number of Big Springers received their phone bills in early February, they noticed that mysterious calls had also been made on their phones, and police found that the numbers were the same as those dialed in the foiled burglary.

Investigations believe that at least $310 worth of long-distance calls had been made by the girl from local phones during her burglary spree. Most of that total came from a marathon, four-and-a-half-hour call to Killeen that cost $200.85, said Detective Lonnie Smith, who headed up the investigation.

"Those are only the calls that were reported to us. A lot of people called the phone company first or just paid the bill without questioning it," said Smith.

On Feb. 16, the young burglar was rearrested in Hobbs, N.M., where her father resides, for a parole violation involving drugs. She was returned to Big Spring the next day, and questioned by Juvenile Officer Pat Dunham.

During questioning, the girl confessed to the burglary of nine homes here and nine other homes on the Fort Hood Army Post in Killeen. Although Smith believes that some of the stolen merchandise went unreported, at least $2,500 worth of goods were taken from local residences.

"In the case of one old boy, she just cleaned him out. Not only did she steal some venison, she also stole the pots and pans to cook it and the salt and pepper shakers to season it," said Quintero.

On Tuesday, Smith, Dunham and Patrol Officer Taffy Naron took a search warrant to the home of the girl's mother here, where the girl had stayed from September through January when the burglaries occurred. There, the officers recovered a cache of $478 worth of stolen merchandise.

The haul included four afghans, glassware, silverware, pots and pans, a yellow and a blue housecoat, towels, a suitcase, bedsheets, a white dress, salt and pepper shakers, two glass bowls, a butter dish, a silver sugar and cream set, pillowcases, a coat with fur trim and a green plastic garbage can. The mother claimed no knowledge of the burglaries or the stolen goods.

The young offender was transferred to Texas Youth Council facilities in Brownwood, Thursday, for an undetermined stay.

Action/reaction: Educational records

Q. Don't students over 18 have a right to see their educational records kept by those educational institutions which receive federal education funds?

A. Students over 18 and parents of minor children have a right to see such records, as guaranteed by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, enforced by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The act also limits disclosure of such information to others. The Secretary of HEW is empowered to deny federal funds to any institution in violation.

BSSH superintendent's job mulled by MHMR members

Members of the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation convened at the State Hospital in Kerrville this morning to discuss the superintendent's job at the Big Spring State Hospital.

The position became open last year when Dr. Grace Ferguson was dismissed after a group of BSSH officials had petitioned the state board to conduct an investigation of tactics used by Dr. Ferguson to manage the hospital. Dr. Wallace Hunter was appointed as interim superintendent but, when asked if he would be interested in a permanent assignment, replied that he did not wish to be considered.

The MHMR board was believed to be close to making an appointment late last fall but the man under consideration, a San Antonio resident, asked that his name be withdrawn from the list of candidates.

Oilfield thieves rank with cattle rustlers

Marle-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Senate made it clear Thursday — in Texas, oilfield thieves are about as welcome as cattle rustlers.

Senators voted 30-0 for a bill sponsored by Sen. Bob Glasgow of Stephenville that calls for much stiffer prison sentences and fines for theft of oil field equipment.

Should the bill pass the House and be signed into law, such crimes would be second-degree felonies, punishable by 2-20 years in prison and fines of up to $10,000.

That's regardless of the value placed on the stolen equipment—$10 or $10 million, Glasgow says.

But, he adds, the equipment must be "designed for use in exploration for or production of natural gas or crude petroleum oil."

Current law provides that the equipment must be worth $10,000 or more before the theft becomes a second-degree felony, and those of under $200 are considered misdemeanors punishable by no more than a year in county jail and a $2,000 fine.

Under Glasgow's law, however, oilfield thefts would become an exception to that.

One is for thefts from a person by threatening to commit another felony.

The other is for cattle rustling.

GM will ax 19,000 jobs

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp., seeking to tighten its belt in a sluggish car-buying market, may eliminate about 19,000 salaried jobs through layoffs, attrition or early retirement, a published report said today.

The Detroit Free Press said GM ordered its executives this week to prepare for the possible reduction. The order resulted from meetings of several hundred top GM executives who reviewed the company's continued weak vehicle sales and financial condition, the newspaper reported. The company recently reported a $763 million loss for 1980 due to a sales slump.

The job cuts would amount to 10 percent of GM's worldwide salaried staff of 189,000 and would save GM about $570 million a year.

Federal judge clears the way for publishing brothel names

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has cleared the way for a monthly newspaper to publish names of influential politicians and businessmen who allegedly patronized a controversial brothel that operated here for 16 years.

U.S. District Court Judge William Sessions, in a hastily called hearing, said he would not prohibit publication and removed the case from state jurisdiction.

An editor of the paper, El Pueblo, said the list — allegedly containing names of several prominent San Antonians — would be printed. "We're going to print it. It could be as early as tomorrow afternoon or in a few days," said El Pueblo spokesman Antonio Cabral. "It could be within 24 hours."

While publication was anxiously awaited by some and dreaded by others, attorneys for the alleged brothel madam, Theresa Brown, said they would continue a series of legal maneuvers that heretofore had prevented El Pueblo from publishing the list of names. Cabral said the trick list has been kept at a secret location and the newspaper had moved its office because of a threat it would be "burned to the ground." He said staff members of the anti-establishment newspaper also had been offered money not to publish the names.

Sessions' ruling three hours after El Pueblo attorney Jesse Botello made a surprise announcement in state judge Richard Wood's court that he had asked to have the case removed to federal jurisdiction.

Sessions quickly conducted a hearing, ruled that a 10-day restraining order against publication, issued by State

Judge James Onion, had expired and that the federal court had jurisdiction.

He further refused to issue a federal restraining order to replace the state order. Meanwhile, Ms. Brown's attorney's sought to move the case back to state court.

Attorney Pat Maloney, representing Ms. Brown, rejected arguments that the case was coming down to a classic confrontation between the First and Sixth Amendments of the Constitution, which guarantee freedom of the press and the right to trial by an impartial jury, respectively.

"There is a constitutional issue involved, but it's the Sixth Amendment, the right to a fair trial," Maloney said. "The media is man's best friend, and I'm the best friend the media has got. To use the First Amendment for garbage like this would tend to dilute it."

Last week, Maloney had convinced Onion to issue the restraining order forbidding El Pueblo from publishing the list of names allegedly kept by Ms. Brown at a brothel that has now been publicly dubbed "The Best Little Whorehouse in San Antonio."

Ms. Brown, 46, whose 16-year operation catered to well-to-do clients, according to police accusations, hired Maloney last week to withdraw a no-contest plea on a charge of aggravated promotion of prostitution.

She had entered that plea as part of a deal worked out with prosecutors while she was represented by another attorney.

Maloney said, however, he was moving for a jury trial and claimed printing the "trick list" — which he wants to use as evidence — would keep Ms. Brown from receiving a fair trial.

Huddled together in shower

Oklahoma couple killed in Red River lodge fire

RED RIVER, N.M. (AP) — An Oklahoma couple who died in a fire which raged through a ski lodge in this northeastern New Mexico community apparently tried to survive the blaze by huddling together in a shower, authorities reported.

Killed in the pre-dawn fire Thursday at the Ponderosa Lodge were Stanley and Pamela Loetsch of Duncan, Okla. Police said the charred bodies of Loetsch, 28, and his wife were found in the burned out remains of the lodge.

Red River Marshal Al Swann said 12 other people were injured when the two-story wooden ski resort burned to the ground. The cause of the fire was under investigation.

The Loetschs were "literally trapped" in their room of the 20-year-old Ponderosa Lodge, Swann said.

The injured were taken to Holy Cross Hospital in Taos, about 25 miles from the ski resort town. One woman was hospitalized at Holy Cross and three other persons were transferred to the University of New Mexico Hospital in Albuquerque.

A woman identified as Shirley Long of South Lake, Texas, was listed in stable condition at Holy Cross with broken bones, suffered when she jumped from a second-story window.

Hospitalized at the Albuquerque hospital were Royce Kerfoot, 29, of Sayre, Okla., who was listed in stable condition with second degree burns; Harriell Long, 38, of South Lake, Texas, in fair condition with a fractured ankle and arm and Joann Jolly, 37, of Grand Prairie, Texas, listed in serious condition with a fractured vertebrae.

Swann said he received a call at 2:23 a.m. Thursday that there was a fire at the lodge, which has a capacity of about 60 people. Swann said three of the 21 units at the lodge were vacant.

Tommy Jones of Kennedale, Texas, said he and his wife, Linda, were in their room when "someone knocked on the door and said get out of there, there's a fire. Mrs. Jones said, "I thought they were just kidding, but then I looked outside. I grabbed my nightgown and ran out barefoot."

Mike Fawcett, of Texarkana, Texas, said he and his wife, Carol, were in their room when someone knocked on the door warning of the fire.

"I put on a pair of jeans, nothing else, and rushed right out here."

CHAIN REACTION — Tow-truck operators work to clear a section of Interstate 20, west of Terrell, Texas Thursday morning after some 40 to 50 vehicles crashed into each other in dense fog. The pileup began about 8:15 a.m. as Dallas-bound commuters attempted to negotiate their way along the four-lane highway. One person was killed and 10-15 were injured in the crash. (AP LASERPHOTO)

Fifty-vehicle pileup kills one, injures 13

TERRELL, Texas (AP) — An elderly woman stopped her car during rush-hour interstate highway traffic because she could not see through a thick, early-morning fog, causing a 50-vehicle crash that killed one and injured 13, investigators said.

Nanci Hallmark, 25, of Fruitvale was killed instantly when she lost control of her car while trying to avoid the chain-reaction collision and, as the car slid sideways down the highway, and a tractor-trailer rig collided with another vehicle, jack-knifed and rolled on top of her car, police theorized. She was killed instantly.

Texas Department of Public Safety trooper Gary Farley described the accident as a "domino reaction," with the twisted wreckage stretching for more than a mile in the westbound lanes of Interstate 20, a major commuter route to downtown Dallas, 30 miles to the west.

Farley said 60-year-old Lottie Farley of Rockwall stopped her car in the middle of the highway about 8 a.m. apparently because of dense fog which limited visibility to 100 feet. Seconds later, a tractor-trailer rammied into her vehicle, creating a roadblock.

Six trucks and 40 to 50 automobiles were involved in the chain-reaction collision, Farley said.

Nearly twenty DPS troopers were dispatched to the scene. Police closed the eastbound and westbound lanes for more than two hours as authorities cleared the highway of twisted cars and trucks.

Robert "Sonny" Ramsey, a truck driver for Central Freight Lines, said his tractor-trailer rig was the fourth of fifth vehicle to come upon the pileup.

"It was the biggest mess I've ever seen," said Ramsey. "We got on the two-way (Citizens Band radio) and started telling them (other drivers) to slow down. I'm sure at least 50 vehicles were involved."

DPS troopers established a medical command post at nearby Terrell Community Hospital to handle what eventually turned out to be a surprisingly small number of injuries.

Ten people were taken to the Terrell hospital. Nine were treated and released, one was admitted to the hospital for treatment of broken bones.

Two others were taken to Colonial Hospital in Terrell, and both were treated for minor injuries and released, a spokesman said.

Southwest rural problem

Bubonic plague death investigated

DELL CITY, Texas (AP) — A team of plague experts have traveled to this small West Texas city near El Paso to investigate the death of a young rancher, the first human killed in the U.S. this year by bubonic plague.

The 25-year-old victim, who was not identified, apparently was bitten by diseased fleas as he skinned and infested fox about a week before he became ill, doctors said. He died shortly after being admitted to an El Paso hospital on Feb. 12.

Five people in the U.S.

died last year from plague, as U.S. health officials reported a total of 18 cases of the disease, most of them in New Mexico.

The disease is transmitted from infected animals to man by fleas. It was known as the Black Death during an epidemic that killed 25 million people in Europe in the 14th Century.

Dr. John Bradley of the Texas Health Department said a team of doctors from the federal Center for Disease Control's plague research facility in Fort Collins, Colo., had been sent to this tiny farming and ranching town.

He said the group included Jack D. Poland, whom he called "the foremost authority on the disease in the world."

Bradley said the medical team was trapping rodents and collecting fleas and had called a town meeting to discuss the problem with local residents.

Health officials said the plague is mainly a rural problem today, especially in the Southwest, where prairie dogs, pack rats, rabbits, coyotes, foxes and even cats can carry the bacteria.

Doctors said the bacteria that killed the man were a combination of bubonic and septicemic plague — not the highly contagious pneumonic plague.

However, about a dozen hospital personnel and the victim's close relatives and friends were given preventive medicine on the chance they may have come in contact with saliva that contained the bacteria.

Bradley said no one else at the man's ranch caught the disease. He said the victim frequently trapped and skinned wild animals.

Behan picked to head VA

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (AP) — Vietnam veteran John Behan, a 36-year-old Republican state assemblyman who lost both legs in the war, says he will become the next chief of the Veterans Administration.

If confirmed by the Senate, Behan will succeed Max Cleland, another Vietnam veteran, as head of the agency. Cleland lost both legs and an arm in the war.

News of Behan's nomination came during the Suffolk County GOP's annual Lincoln's Day dinner-dance here Thursday night.

Behan told the crowd of about 1,400 that he learned of the nomination through Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., and Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan.

He said the nomination would be announced today.

Soon after the informal announcement, the nominee was in Washington soliciting support from other senators and members of the Reagan Administration. The New York Times reported today.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL
...FOR THE ASKING

My red-haired, five-year-old neighbor was building a garage for his toy cars out of rocks. It was a project that kept him happily occupied every Saturday morning while his father worked in the vegetable garden.

But today Timmy Williams wasn't a bit happy. Instead of roaring imaginary engines and honking horns, he was shouting, "Move, you, move," to a rock much too large for him to budget. Red-faced and furious, he pushed and pulled, tried to dig the earth away from the rock with a trowel and finally gave up, sat down and kicked it in frustration. Sweat and tears trickled down his nose.

After a few minutes his father put down his hoe and walked over to his dejected son.

"You've got a big problem, haven't you?"

Timmy nodded and kicked the stone for emphasis.

"Have you used all your strength?" asked his father.

"Yes, sobbed Timmy. "And I haven't got enough. I'll never have enough."

"But you see, Timmy, you haven't used all your strength at all because you haven't used me. I'm part of your strength."

Together father and son moved the rock.

How often we are like Timmy. I struggle, push, pull and weep over life's boulders, forgetting that my only real strength comes when I ask my Heavenly Father for His strength to help me.

British magazine welcomes Reagan budget proposals

LONDON (AP) — The Economist, the widely respected British weekly magazine, today welcomed President Reagan's first budget proposals and said it was important for the United States, and for the world economy, that Congress approve the requested cuts in government spending.

Commenting in an editorial that the measures were "a reasonably balanced piece of work" which could bring down inflation and interest rates, the magazine warned:

"If Congress appeared to be able to veto any economy policy from the new administration, American investors could become more twitchy than they seemed to be in the summer of 1929, witness Gladstone's Granville last month."

The latter was a reference to a Wall Street sell-off sparked by one flamboyant stock analyst.

The Economist said there was a danger the United States would expect too much from the Reagan budget.

"Much will now depend on whether people believe that the Reagan administration can continue with more tax-cutting and expenditure-cutting next year and the year after—or on whether Mr. Reagan will use up too much political capital this year while not even reaching first base."

Ford's 1980 losses biggest in U.S. corporate history

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has reported the largest full-year loss in American corporate history — far outstripping even a record loss reported by Chrysler Corp. — but analysis says Ford is in no danger of falling into Chrysler's deep financial rut.

Ford says it fully expects to recover from the $1.55 billion loss reported for 1980, but warns that its success may be in the government's hands.

"Much depends on the U.S. government's ability to reduce inflation without bringing on massive unemployment," Ford said.

The No. 2 automaker on Thursday reported that its 1980 loss amounted to $12.83 per share. Of that, $316 million, or $2.63 per share, came in the fourth quarter.

In 1979, Ford earned $1.2 billion, or $9.75 per share, with a fourth-quarter loss of $41 million, 35 cents per share.

"What Ford now needs most is what American needs most — a strong and confident economy," Ford Chairman Philip Caldwell and President Donald Petersen said in a statement.

Encouraged by the Reagan administration's vigorous economic plans, they said they intend to "offer the administration our strong support."

Until Thursday, Chrysler Corp.'s 1979 loss of $1.1 billion had been the largest ever reported by a U.S.-based corporation.

But the No. 3 automaker is expected to plunge even deeper into the red when it officially reports 1980 results next week. Its loss has been estimated at $1.77 billion. It has been forced to seek government loan guarantees to bail itself out.

The giant General Motors Corp., largest of the Big Three automakers, reported a $763 million loss for 1980, its first loss since 1921, and a fourth-quarter profit of $62 million.

American Motors Corp. was expected to announce its 1980 results later today.

Losses by the Big Three are expected to exceed $4 billion for 1980.

Harvey Heinbach, an automotive industry analyst with Merrill Lynch, said that despite the massive loss, Ford was in a much better position than Chrysler.

"Ford has good, strong overseas operations that will prevent them from becoming another Chrysler," he said. "Ford is a low-cost producer in Europe and will make money in the long run."

It was Ford's first full-year loss since 1946, when it lost $8 million.

The company's poor showing stemmed from "depressed" car and truck sales in the United States and to a lesser extent in Europe, as well as continued intense competition from Japanese imports, Caldwell and Petersen said.

Ford, nevertheless, has come through "this trying period without basic damage to its operations or a reduction in the scope of its plans for future products," they said.

Former company chief executive Henry Ford II, in Brazil to visit a plant operated by a subsidiary, warned the U.S. auto industry faces "an economic Pearl Harbor" and needs help to meet Japanese competition.

Senate passes bill exempting church schools from licensing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill exemption church-connected schools — but not day-care centers — from state licensing despite a warning that Texas children could be the "losers."

In winning approval of his proposal Thursday, Sen. Walter Mengden pledged he would kill his own bill if any legislator tried to broaden it to include evangelist Lester Roloff's facilities.

Roloff operates child-care facilities in South Texas and has repeatedly thwarted state efforts to license the homes.

Mengden's proposal would exempt from state regulation educational facilities "integral to and inseparable from" the sponsoring religious organization.

It would apply to church schools for children 4 and older. Custodial care would be limited to two hours a day.

The Senate sent the measure to the House on a 27-3 vote after Mengden, R-Houston, said, "If they try to fool around with my bill in the House, it will never be brought back to the Senate for adoption."

Asked if he was referring to any possible attempt to exempt Roloff facilities from licensing, Mengden replied, "Exactly."

"I hope somebody from the House is listening," he added.

Nevertheless, Sen. Carlos Truan said, "We are setting a pattern for others to come in and take away any and all licensing efforts on behalf of the state to protect children."

Truan, D-Corpus Christi, objected that "No one here on this floor could guarantee all religious groups would protect the rights of children. ... We ought not pass a law giving anyone a blank check to do as he pleases. ... The children are going to be losers in many cases."

Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, supported the proposal, stating, "There are many, many dissatisfied parents," who feel "public school education is not to their liking."

She said she had heard of students transferring from religious schools to public schools and skipping a grade because they were so advanced.

"It's a matter of freedom for the parents to decide, and they have a right to do so" without the state interfering by requiring a license, Mrs. Andujar said.

Even though the Hawks are tied with Frank Phillips for second place, they could claim a better seed in the upcoming Region V Tournament by winning both of their games next week, since they have defeated Frank Phillips on both of their meetings and would have a better power rating.

Joining Lyons in fouling out were teammates Carrie Lee Lutrick and Melissa Luna. Odessa's Angela Dykes fouled out, but not until less than a minute remained in the game. Odessa also outshot Howard from the field. While Howard could connect on only 35 percent from the field, the Lady Wranglers hit on a respectable 45 percent.

Stevens felt his team might have been whistled for too many fouls in the contest, but wouldn't blame the loss on that. "We had some very questionable calls," he noted, "and they weren't getting called for hacking us when we shot all night. But all in all, we didn't play well at all, either."

The Big Spring Steers get a chance to redeem themselves and spoil the season for the Abilene Cooper Cougars here tonight in Steer Gym at eight o'clock. The Steers, after defeating Abilene in their first second half game in District 5-AA AAAA, have lost three straight contests to drop themselves from the race.

they get the chance to defeat Midland next Tuesday. In the two teams first meeting in the first half of 5-AA AAAA play, Cooper emerged with a 54-50 win on their home court. That was after the Steers led for most of the game.

Early in the third period, Lee Coach Shirley Stephenson took out her big girl, Gayle Wilson. San Angelo wasted no time in taking advantage, scoring nine unanswered points inside to boost their lead to 37-25. Bryant had five of the points, with help from some nice feeds off the hands of San Angelo guard Elsa

When Longfellow mentioned "the spreading chestnut tree" everyone pictured it. Likewise it wasn't hard to envision "the trail of the lonesome pine." But little has been written about a single white birch. It's always a stand of birches.

Perhaps because birches are like people. They're the same in many ways, yet each is different. And their true magnificence cannot be realized seeing one alone. It's when they stand together that their diversity blends into an oneness which can be spectacular.

In the worship and activities of the church we gain the true perspective of our individuality — and our community. The church cares about you as a person. Yet it helps you learn to care about the society of which you are a part. It inspires each to serve all. To achieve oneness of faith and spirit despite our diversity.

SHEKINAH — A musical group from Bozeman, Montana, will appear in concert at First Assembly of God, Fourth and Lancaster on Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Three young men and women from varying backgrounds will be presenting the gospel of Jesus Christ through refreshing song and personal sharing. Shekinah's program is for all ages and utilizes many different types of music with excellent vocals and instrumentation. Much of their music is original compositions written and arranged by the group. Shekinah (pronounced: she ki nah) is an Old Testament word meaning "The Glory of the Lord."

Variety is used by young gospel group to spread the Word of God

The Lord began in the winter of 1975 to call together a ministry combining music, drama, and personal sharing. In January of that year, a group of seven enthusiastic young people striving to do God's will combined talents, and thus was born the organization known as Shekinah Ministries.

In response to the expanding scope of the ministry, the group acquired legal status later in the year as a non-profit corporation.

Today, although through the years many changes have taken place, Shekinah's main objectives are to glorify the Lord, bring health and restoration to the Body of Christ, and salvation to those who don't know Him. This is our prayer and direction as a ministry.

One word aptly describes the music of Shekinah: variety; songs range from traditional to folk to mild contemporary. Much of the music has been written and arranged by the group. Instrumentation varies from song to song, but Shekinah is always sensitive to its audience.

Hillcrest Baptist features family gospel music group on Tuesday

The Carpenter Family will present an enthusiastic and inspiring concert of favorite hymns and contemporary sacred music at Hillcrest Baptist Church on Feb. 24 at 7 p.m.

A young talented family of five, the Carpenter's combine traditional and contemporary music in a program which includes both family and individual vocal and instrumental music. The children, Barbara 12, Scott, 10, and Judy, 8, contribute to the concert both vocally and instrumentally by playing the violins, piano, organ, accordion and melodicas. They provide their own keyboard accompaniment as well as having taped ensemble and orchestral background music.

The Carpenter's have traveled extensively during the last five years, appearing in concert before thousands of people. They capture the hearts of everyone with their singing and instrumental music and have brought blessing and inspiration to young and old alike. It is a presentation of wide variety which continues to elicit enthusiastic response from people across the nation.

The Rev. Phillip McClendon, pastor of the church, extends a cordial invitation to all members of the community, stressing that the Carpenter's concert will appeal to the entire family.

VERSATILE — The Carpenters, a Gospel music family, Scott, 10, Judy, 8, and Barbara 12, with parents, accompany themselves vocally and each other on the violin, piano, organ, accordion and melodicas, in sacred music concert here Tuesday.

Hillcrest Child Development Center to open soon at Baptist church

Looking for a child care center that offers an interesting, educational, imaginative program? One that will motivate your child, stimulate his intellectual, social, and emotional development?

A licensed child care center that is staffed by loving, patient, well-trained Christian teachers?

Such a center will be opening in mid-March right here in Big Spring at Hillcrest Child Development Center: A Ministry of Hillcrest Baptist Church, 2000 FM 700.

Initially, the program at the center will be tailored for the 2 to 5 year old and will include art, music, phonics, number appreciation, development of motor skills, story-telling, and dramatic play. This summer the program will be expanded to include school-age children up to 12 years old.

Hillcrest Child Development Center also hopes to have at least one teacher skilled in sign language to aid in communication with deaf children and parents.

Although the center has set many goals, its foremost objective will be to provide a Christian environment where children will be happy and well-cared for and their parents will have peace of mind.

For more information, please call 267-1639.

Chuck Colson is in Teen Challenge film Sunday

"The Jesus Factor", a film detailing the success story of the most successful drug treatment program in the United States, will be shown at Grace Foursquare Gospel Church, 1210 E. 19, at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The 45-minute documentary film is introduced by Charles Colson, convicted former advisor to then President Richard M. Nixon, and tells the story of a government sponsored research project into the effectiveness of the Teen Challenge program for drug addicts and alcoholics. Dr. Catherine Hess, who relates the results of the research, tells of her own skepticism of Teen Challenge up until the time that the study showed what she called "startling" results.

"The Jesus Factor" was filmed at the Teen Challenge Training Center in Rehersburg and shows the young men going through the program, in their classrooms, work areas, the chapel and during a graduation exercise.

The movie contrasts the 2 to 5 percent success rates of government sponsored study projects with the 70 percent success rate of Teen Sparks, said the showing of the film is free to the public.

Social Security, income taxes will eat up most of pay raise

(Special to the Herald)
AUSTIN — State comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday said Social Security and income taxes will eat up most of the 5.1 percent pay raise state employees expect in February paychecks.

No action expected in alien death

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A grand jury that cleared police in the Christmas Day shooting death of a Mexican alien probably will not reopen the case, the grand jury foreman said.

Earlier this month the grand jury panel refused to indict K-9 patrolman James Cammack in the shooting death of Hector Santoscoy, 25, of Piedras Negras, Mexico, early Christmas morning.

"We still haven't seen anything new and don't expect to see anything new," said foreman Cipriano Guerra after the panel finished another 1½-day session in the case this week.

Guerra said when the grand jury recessed for a week at noon Thursday that no one had moved to reopen the investigation which resulted in a no-bill of Cammack after 21 witnesses testified during four days of meetings earlier this month.

"I don't think we'll take any action — if we take any action at all — before the last day next Thursday," Guerra said.

During this week's meetings, the grand jurors heard from former Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Ruben Santos, who conducted a second autopsy on Santoscoy's body at the request of the Mexican government. Santos contends bullet entrance and exit wounds were not consistent with Cammack's version of the shooting.

It also heard from attorney Ruben Sandoval, representing the dead man's family, who has contended police improperly used deadly force in the case.

Cammack said he shot Santoscoy four times when the Mexican threatened him with a brick after Cammack and his patrol dog were ordered to crawl in and arrest Santoscoy, a suspect in a burglary.

Oil discovery completed

Hanson Corp. of Midland No. 1 Glass has been completed as an unidentified oil discovery in Glasscock County, 11 miles northeast of Garden City.

The operator reported a daily flowing potential of 56.6 barrels of 42.8-gravity oil and no water, with a gas-oil ratio of 442-1.

Completion was through a 20-64-inch choke and perforations from 8,866 to 8,990 feet.

Total depth is 9,990 feet, where 5½-inch pipe is set, and hole is plugged back to 9,805 feet.

A re-entry project, the discovery is 589 feet from south and west lines of section 221, block 29, W&NW survey.

emergency pay raise approved by the Legislature. "For most employees, the so-called raise amounts to little more than a dollar a day."

Bullock said "most of our professional people—like my auditors—will be insulted. Bullock pointed out that the paycheck of a "typical" auditor, with spouse and two children, will look like this:

The situation is even worse for the 60,000 employees who are so lowly paid that they will get a flat $50 raise instead of the 5.1 percent increase.

"A typical employee in the $50 category will take home $1.17 a day more," Bullock said.

"Do you call $1.17 a pay raise?" Bullock said it's a sin that employees will get so little from a pay raise that will cost the state so much—$86 million for just seven months from February through August, the end of the state's current budget year.

"We spend $86 million in seven months and the state worker gets $1.17 a day," Bullock said.

"That's a disgrace."

Earthquake measuring 3.5 hits Utah; no reports of injuries or damages

PROVO, Utah (AP) — An earthquake measuring 3.5 on the Richter scale shook many Utah County residents out of their sleep early today, officials said.

There were no reports of damage or injuries.

The U.S. Geological Survey Earthquake Information

Center in Golden, Colo., said the quake occurred at 2:13 a.m. MST and was centered 30 miles south of Salt Lake City, 6 miles west of Orem.

That would put the quake's epicenter under the northern part of Utah Lake, said Bob Richey at the National Weather Service in Salt Lake City.

The dispatcher in the Utah County Sheriff's office said she received many calls, some of whom described the quake as "extremely strong."

But Bruce Kaliser, chief engineering geologist for Utah, said, "I wouldn't expect damage."
