Texas Independence Day is being observed around globe

Although today is Texas Independence Day, it is business as usual for local state and county employees. Elsewhere in the state, some counties are observing the day by closing down state and county offices.

Today marks the 145th anniversary of independence for Texas. On March 2, 1836, a convention of rebels met at Washington on the Brazos, adopted a constitution and declared Texas independent of Mexico. A month later the fighting ended at the battle of San Jacinto.

Although local Chamber of Commerce officials knew of no celebrations in Howard County, more than 65 communities in the state planned some sort of fete for the day, and the Texas flag is flying over Boston, New York City, Chicago and San Francisco.

In Luxembourg, a radio station is set to play the University of Texas fight song and 30 minutes of Texas music. Kinshasa, Zaire, has also planned a special celebration for UT grads now living there.

In 1897, law students at the University of Texas asked school president G.T. Winston, newly arrived from the University of North Carolina, to give them a day off in honor of the occasion.

Winston denied the request, saying that July 4 was the only independence day he recognized.

But his denial didn't stop the students. They went to Capitol grounds, borrowed a cannon, took it back to school and started firing down University Avenue. The noise shattered windows in the Main Building. Winston, later joining the entire student body of 400, said:

"I was born in the land of liberty, rocked in the cradle of liberty, nursed on the bottle of liberty, and I've had liberty preached to me all my life. But Texas University students take more liberty than anyone I've ever come in contact with."

This year, Texans in Manhattan longing for their home state will have the opportunity to celebrate at the Lone Star Cafe, which has slated the third annual Independence Day celebration. The cast of "Texas," the NBC soap opera; five Texas bands, New York Mayor Ed Koch and 800 revelers are expected, according to cafe manager Don Reynolds.

Reynolds said "It'll be wild, it sure will," adding that the party will be held Tuesday because "it comes a day later up here."

Donna Fish files for spot on Big Spring city council

Local housewife Donna Fish, 606 Hillside, has filed to seek the Place 4 seat on the Big Spring City Council in the April 4 election.

That seat is currently held by one-term Councilman Larry Miller, who announced last month that he would not seek reelection. Also vying for the post is Russ McEwen, local insurance agent.

Mrs. Fish has been a resident of Big Spring since July of 1976. During that time, she has been active in community affairs, serving as past president of the Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary and treasurer of the Republican Women in 1978.

She has held the position of Scout Leader, Service Unit Chairman and Day Camp Director for the Girl Scouts, and has worked in the YMCA Fund Drive for four of the past five years. She also served on the committee for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Roundup in 1980, and as Worship Department Chairman at the First Christian Church in 1980-81.

Presently, she is an active member of the 1946 Hyperion and the Green Thumb Garden Clubs. She holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in nursing from the University of Texas.

"I love Big Spring and want to do what I can for this city," she said in a prepared statement today. "I have the time that I can devote to being a good city council member and want very much to do this. Because I care about this city, and because I can be objective, I believe I will make a good member of the city council and can be an asset to the community."

Mrs. Fish is married to Dr. John R. Fish. They have two children, Larry, 6, and Dianna, 10.

'Interest groups' hit

Reagan says his program faces political gauntlet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan told urban officials today that his economic program is running "a political gauntlet of interest groups" whose selfish concerns threaten the nation's economic recovery.

He appealed for the backing of local officials, who support his goals but worry about how he wants to achieve them.

In a speech prepared for the National League of Cities, Reagan condemned the "federal Goliath (that) brought us to the economic brink now confronting this nation."

"For a time it appeared that Congress had more solutions than the country had problems," Reagan said. "Or, put another way, cures were invented for which there are no known diseases. Just conceiving of a program that might help someone, somewhere, was itself reason enough to pass a law and appropriate money."

Working together and exercising "will power," the new administration and its allies can bring the economic crisis under control by implementing his proposed budget and tax cuts, regulatory overhauls and monetary controls, Reagan said.

"However, this program now faces a political gauntlet of interest groups; and I'm finding it increasingly difficult not to call some of them 'selfish interest groups,'" the president said. "Unless something is done to turn the economy around, local governments will suffer right along with many other respected American institutions."

Reagan noted there has been some congressional opposition to his call for a three-year, 30-percent tax cut.

"Nevertheless," he said, "the real threat to recovery comes from those who will oppose only a small part of the overall program."

Lorene Jones sees to that School meals always ready

By CAROL HART
On most mornings during the year, except summer vacation and Christmas holidays, Lorene Jones goes to the Runnels Junior High School cafeteria at 6:30 a.m. and begins preparing meals for 650 to 750 people.

Mrs. Jones has been on the job for 21 years, and has been cafeteria manager at Runnels for 10 years. She also worked at Goliad when it was a junior high school, and at Big Spring High School.

Mrs. Jones and her staff of six begin preparing the meal for lunch when they first arrive at the cafeteria. The women put together a vegetable, meat, salad and dessert for children and teachers. They also ready a breakfast fare for those interested in the morning meal.

The same people who prepare the meals serve them during the breakfast and lunch hours. Lunch begins at 11:30 a.m. for one group at Runnels, and another group is served at 12:30 p.m.

"We've never failed to have a meal ready," said Mrs. Jones. "We really have to work hard to get it out, though." Sometimes we begin to wonder whether we're going to make it or not, but it's always been there."

Cafeteria managers throughout the system work with Ray Lawlis, who is director of food services for the BSISD. Mrs. Jones said each manager is responsible for making out a market order for the groceries, which then goes through the central office.

Lawlis said that 3,000 people are served a meal at lunch in the BSISD, and 1,000 more buy something to eat at the school snack bars. 1,000 people eat the breakfast meals offered, he added.

Elementary school children pay 50 cents for a meal, and sixth graders through 12th grade pay 55 cents.

Mrs. Jones said that in addition to preparing meals for students at Runnels, meals are boxed up and sent to the College Heights Elementary school cafeteria from Runnels.

Runnels Junior High School cafeteria personnel are also responsible for preparing about 70 to 75 meals a day for the Meals-on-Wheels program in Big Spring. Volunteers come to Runnels every day to pick up noon meals for shut-ins in the city.

After the noon meals are completed, Mrs. Jones and her staff begin preparing for the next day. Cakes are baked, and steaks are breaded, and any other items which may be prepared early are done so.

Clean-up is also a major task. Trays which students and teachers eat off of must be scalded, and are sent through a dishwasher. Pots and pans are washed by hand, said Mrs. Jones.

Although a cafeteria can be hectic at times, Mrs. Jones said "I love my job. We get holidays off, and we're off in the summer months. This is an ideal job for women with small children. I had a small son when I started here."

She added that "we have a good boss" in Mr. Lawlis, and that he makes the cafeteria business a pleasant place to work in.

To oversee improvements

Five firms bid on project

Rainfall total up to 2.24 inches

Weekend rains in the Big Spring area pushed Howard County's official measurement for the year to 2.24 inches, well above the 1.32 inches in normal rainfall for the year.

A total of .92 of an inch was trapped in the gauges at the U.S. Experiment Station Friday while another .23 of an inch fell Saturday, bringing the two-day total to 1.15 inches.

Most of the moisture went into the ground, adding to a ground content that was already considered good.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Midland was giving Howard County a 40 per cent chance for more rain today. The front which swept through the area Friday has been a little slow to move out.

the projects," said Davis, this morning. "We (the city staff) will feed them all the raw data we have; location and frequency of water line breaks, and the size and age of water lines throughout the city."

Engineers will also be able to refer to a master plan that was developed in the mid-60s, as well as the suggestions of citizen advisory committees formed before the bond election.

When the firm has accumulated the data, said Davis, three lists will be drawn up. The lists will include first-year priorities for water and sewer line repairs; streets that would be affected by those repairs; and priorities for future repairs.

Once the lists have been drawn up, the engineers will play an active role in design work and specifications needed for seeking bids from construction companies.

"I don't know what the overall cost for the engineers will be, but I know pretty well what the planning costs will be," said Davis. "We plan to spend between $15,000 and $20,000 on the planning phase. When that is finished, we can negotiate a fee for design and construction."

During the morning work session, the council will also discuss a number of bills before the state legislature which may play a part in the future of the city. A list of pertinent bills is prepared yearly by the Texas Municipal League, based in Austin, and local councilmen will try to come to a consensus of the position the city will take on each of the 23 bills.

Action/reaction: Scorpion sting

Q. Do they milk scorpions in Africa for their venom?

A. You better believe it. One export commodity from the Union of South Africa that every African country wants badly is venom. Deadly snakes and scorpions are milked by the hundreds in the Transvaal. Their venom is dried, processed into anti-serum and exported to hospitals and clinics throughout the continent. There are two deadly scorpion species in the Southern African region — Parabuthus and Buthus. Experts say they kill more Black children in the remoter areas than snakes. Death results from respiratory collapse and cardiac complications.

Inside: sexual abuse

THE TYPICAL TEXAS child molester is a man between 30 and 45 years old, married with a job and a 12-year-old daughter. The daughter is usually his victim, a welfare department report says, adding that the incidence of sexual abuse of children has increased almost 100 percent in the past two years. See page 2-A.

Mardi Gras shooting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A high school band drum major and two spectators were wounded when gunfire erupted at a crowded Mardi Gras parade honoring nine Marines held hostage in Iran, authorities said.

The shooting Sunday occurred well after the floats carrying Marine Sgt. John D. McKeel and eight other Marines who had been held hostage in Iran for 44 days went by.

Two of the victims who were shot were hospitalized in stable condition. The third person, who suffered flash burns, was treated and released, hospital officials said.

Police said no arrests had been made.

"We're getting numerous conflicting stories about what happened," said Don Joly, chief spokesman for the police department. Investigators worked through the night, questioning most of the band's members and dozens of other witnesses.

Charity hospital authorities identified the shooting victims as drum major Ray Johnson, 17, of St. Augustine High School in New Orleans and spectator John Barker, 20, of Plaquemines, a student at Nicholls State University.

The bullet went through Johnson's cheek and neck, and Barker was hit in the groin, they said.

Gary Francis, 25, of New Orleans, was treated for powder burns near his eye.

Exactly what prompted the shooting was clouded by the near-panic it caused among the throngs that stood packed 15 feet deep on each side of the broad boulevard of Canal Street, at the edge of the city's French Quarter.

"All of a sudden, I heard a noise. All the band began moving to the very front. The police pushed everybody away. There was a lot of confusion," said onlooker Leslie Ward of Memphis, Tenn.

"The police got their riot sticks out and started pushing the band forward to clear the street. People were running and screaming," she said.

Assistant band director Edward Allen said the shooting occurred during a scuffle that broke out when an armed young man refused to give way to a St. Augustine alum clearing crowds out of the band's path, said assistant band director Edward Allen.

The band is all black, and witnesses described the gunman as white, well-dressed, wearing a sports coat and a holstered gun at his hip. Band members said they feared the attack was racially motivated.

The alum and the man struggled, and the man pulled his gun and fired, Allen said.

Police — some on horseback — rushed to the scene. Apparently fearing a riot, they drew their nightsticks and dispersed spectators and band members.

Guard's gun misfires

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secret Service says an "in-house inquiry" will be conducted to determine why a rifle used to guard President Reagan malfunctioned and harmlessly discharged a bullet shortly after the president left church.

Reagan, in an armored limousine, was about 100 yards away from the National Presbyterian Church, when the gun, used by a Secret Service officer stationed on a nearby rooftop, misfired Sunday, said Dick Hartwig, a Secret Service spokesman.

"It was weapon malfunction and it happened while it was in a storage case," Hartwig said. "So no bullet got out."

Accidental discharges "happen all over the country," he said.

People remaining on the church grounds thought a firecracker had gone off and did not take cover, he said.

Hartwig said he assumes Reagan was told about the incident. Mark Weinberg, assistant White House press secretary, said there would be no reaction from the president.

When asked if the officer, who was not identified, would be disciplined because of the incident, Hartwig said an inquiry would be conducted.

Uniformed Secret Service officers are not part of the president's protective detail. They guard the White House and foreign embassies and are also positioned on rooftops when the president travels in the city. Outside of Washington, SWAT teams of local police often are used for such duty.

Donations make difference

ATLANTA (AP) — Pennies from Illinois schoolchildren, fat checks from New York corporations and even a $1,400 pledge from a former Ku Klux Klansman are going a long way toward covering the $200,000 a month it costs to investigate the deaths and disappearances of 21 black children.

"Several hundred" letters are arriving at City Hall each week with contributions or words of encouragement, according to Leon Hall, director of Atlanta's Office of Community and Consumer Affairs.

Heavy fighting reported

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Heavy fighting was reported at two towns in eastern El Salvador as the international socialist organization asked Nobel Peace Prize winner Willy Brandt to mediate between the guerrillas and the government and the United States suspended aid to Nicaragua for allegedly funneling communist arms to the rebels.

Deadlines ineffective

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major report ordered by Congress recommends the elimination of deadlines for achieving clean-air standards and an easing of restrictions on industrial development in pollution-free areas.

The National Commission on Air Quality formally submitted its report to Congress today, opening what promises to be a long, hard-fought battle over amending the Clean Air Act.

Two Cuban refugees arrested in stabbing death of Mexican DALLAS (AP) — Two Cuban refugees who settled in Dallas two weeks ago have been arrested in connection with the stabbing death of a Mexican national, according to Dallas police.

The victim, Carlos Hernandez, 24, of Mexico, died early Friday after being stabbed in a street fight near downtown, officers said.

The two Cubans, resettled here from Fort Chaffee, Ark., were arrested the next day after a witness identified them as Hernandez' assailants, said police.

A spokesman for a Catholic Church resettlement agency said the two men, who speak no English, were in a group of 10 male refugees brought to Dallas Feb. 17. Both men were held in the Dallas City Jail.

Incest leads list Sexual abuse of kids up sharply, study shows

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Profile of a child molester: male, age 30 to 45, married, employed. The victim: his 12-year-old daughter.

Mostly he fondles her and forces her to touch his sex organs, but half the time he makes her have intercourse with him.

These are among the conclusions of a Texas Department of Human Resources report to the Texas Legislature, which has before it several bills concerning sexual child abuse.

The number of confirmed cases of sexually abused children has increased 89 percent since 1978, the study showed.

"Such a dramatic increase in reports of child sexual abuse is indicative of a growing public awareness and of willingness to deal with this problem," the report stated, adding that the actual rate of occurrence is unknown.

At present, TDHR has 2,100 active sexual child abuse cases, and estimates there will be 2,800 cases in 1982 and 2,975 in 1983.

The study, conducted at the request of the 1979 Legislature, involved 1,379 cases. It found that:

- Sexual child abusers were "almost always male" age 30 to 45. Nine out of ten victims were girls; the average age was 12 years.
- Slightly more than three-fourths of the cases were incestuous. Two-thirds involved the child's father or stepfather.
- The non-abusing parent (the child's biological mother in three-fourths of the cases) knew what was happening but did nothing to prevent further abuse and often left the child alone with the abuser.
- Sexual intercourse occurred with almost half of the female victims. One out of 12 became pregnant.
- The study noted a "positive relationship between successful prosecution and participation by the perpetrator in treatment," but also stated that abusers generally did not cooperate well with the department.

"Protection of the child sexual abuse victim cannot be attained in most cases unless treatment is provided to all family members... to correct the problems which cause or contribute to the sexual abuse," the report said.

Included in the report were recommendations for improving services to the families traumatized by sexual abuse. Money was the first priority. TDHR asked funding for additional staff, community treatment programs, training programs, and medical examinations of victims.

The department also asked legislators to amend the Texas Family Code to include sexual abuse and exploitation as grounds for taking a child from his or her home. Sexually abused children often are not physically injured, but current law allows removal only if there is an immediate danger to the child's physical health or safety.

The report did not recommend increasing criminal penalties for sexual abuse of children, but Gov. Bill Clements has.

Part of his anti-crime package is a measure increasing the maximum penalty for sexual abuse or rape of a child from 20 years to life. It also raises the maximum prison term for indecency with a child from 10 to 20 years, and for injury to a child from 20 years to life in aggravated cases.

Another measure being considered mandates that reports of suspected child abuse be made to police as well as to the Department of Human Resources, and gives police authority to photograph victims.

Both bills have met with stringent opposition from witnesses who say prosecution is not the solution to the problem of sexual abuse.

"When you take a hostile approach and treat (abusers) as if they're criminals, you solidify the family unit in resistance to treatment," said Gary Jovare, a San Antonio attorney who specializes in family law.

Murder counts

Two counts of murder have been returned in Long Beach, Cal., against a man charged with the Feb. 3 strangulation murder of Kathleen Ryan, 16, grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Hopper of Big Spring.

Kathleen was the daughter of Anna Ryan, who was born in Big Spring and who has resided in California for about 30 years.

Kathleen's brother, Daniel, who resided with his grandparents here for a while, recently joined the U.S. Navy. The Ryan Family resides in Torrance, Cal.

Indicted for the murder of Miss Ryan and Edna Louise Bristow, 21, was Francis Hernandez. The girls had been sexually assaulted.

When forklift meets auto, everyone loses

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Basing his decision on the "two wrongs don't make a right" principle, a small claims judge has ruled that Rex Barham had no right to stop a car that was trespassing in his orchard by bringing his forklift down onto the hood.

Judge J. Kirk Bromley awarded Maurice Kinzebach $103.33 for the damage that the forklift did to the hood of Kinzebach's car.

According to testimony at the hearing, Kinzebach's 17-year-old son Richard was behind the wheel when the incident occurred Oct. 13.

COOK BOOK FOR THE MAYOR — Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel receives a copy of Century 21's Cook's Book from Ms. Mackie Hays, program director for Century 21's Spring City Realty. The book contains recipes from well-known celebrities as well as the 'people next door.' Beginning next Saturday, all seven Century 21 sales people will start distributing the cookbooks free in the greater Big Spring area. Larry Pick (right), owner-broker, said "It's a small thing, we know, but the community has been good to us and we want to show our appreciation." Century 21 people will be distributing the book at least one day a month for the next five months.

For Texas GOPs

Valley is danger spot

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Texas Republicans have scored some impressive political victories the past year — and then there is the Rio Grande Valley.

The Valley, with its bilingual, bicultural and mono-political traditions, could become the Texas Republicans' Vietnam.

For the past year, party leaders have talked big about making dramatic gains in the Valley.

For the most part, their boasts have proven as empty as the Rio Grande in a drought.

No matter how much time, effort and money the GOPers pour into the area, they receive little in return. The political base they build one day turns Jello-y the next.

Last fall Republican leaders confidently predicted that Bob Youker, the popular mayor of Harlingen, would become the first GOP legislator from the Valley in modern history.

Council meets Tuesday night

STANTON — The Stanton City Council will meet with the Chamber of Commerce concerning street sign placements at the regular meeting of the city council, Tuesday, 7:30 p.m.

Other items to be discussed in the council chamber will be:

— a discussion of the lawsuit Gulf vs. Railroad Commission

— discussion of water deposits

— discussion of utilities in Glynn's Trailer Park

— discussion of the purchase of land in Humble Tract by Cap Rock.

Meeting slated on epilepsy

The West Texas Epilepsy Association has scheduled a public meeting Tuesday March 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building at 511 W. Missouri in Midland.

The film "First Aid Procedures of Epilepsy" will be shown and a question and answer session will follow. The public is encouraged to attend.

Epilepsy is perhaps the least talked about and most misunderstood disorder affecting Americans today, association officials say. They point out anyone can develop epilepsy therefore, proper education concerning the disorder is a must.

Everything looked good for Youker going into the Nov. 4 election. Harlingen has a 40 percent Anglo electorate, recently swelled by mostly conservative retirees from the Midwest and Northwest.

He had plenty of money and name recognition from his non-partisan victories in mayoral races. He lost.

Then, the Republicans put their money and organization on the line this year in an effort to elect Ricardo Hinojosa, McAllen attorney and Hidalgo County GOP chairman, as state senator.

They almost pulled it off because of the unusual circumstances of the election.

It was a special one called to replace Raul Longoria, a Democratic incumbent who stepped down to become a district judge.

In a special election 19 years ago, Republicans won their first big statewide race in almost a century when John Tower picked up a U.S. Senate seat. Tower won by taking a plurality against a divided field of several dozen Democrats.

If the same election rules that Tower now under in 1981 had been in effect this year, Hinojosa would be the new senator from the Valley because he led the field in the Feb. 10 election.

In fact, if Joe Summers, a Republican from Mission, had picked up 20 votes more in that race he would have been in a runoff with Hinojosa and the Republicans would have been assured a Valley Senate seat.

But State Rep. Hector Urbe of Brownsville, a Democrat, squeaked into the runoff.

Gov. Bill Clements called the runoff for Feb. 24, believing that a short campaign time would help his man, Hinojosa.

He also visited the Valley for the GOP candidate, and Hinojosa gathered in endorsements from other top Republicans such as Vice President George Bush and President Reagan.

But once the race was narrowed to a Democrat and a Republican, the Valley electorate had no trouble in picking the former. The race wasn't even close.

Texas Republicans now must look at the facts and decide whether to continue trying to make inroads into the Valley or to concentrate on their areas of strength in urban and suburban areas.

The Republicans undoubtedly gained some momentum last year as Ronald Reagan swept to victory and carried some GOP candidates on his coattails.

The argument within the Republican party right now concerns how to keep the momentum alive and use it to move Texas close to being a two-party state.

Some party regulars in Austin are urging their leaders to quit pouring resources into areas that offer little prospect of success, such as the Rio Grande Valley.

Hospitalized judge weds Chi couple

CHICAGO (AP) — Clifford Tweedale and Christine Imbra had their wedding in a hospital, but only because the judge was sick.

The couple had asked County Circuit Court Judge Frank W. Barbaro, a cousin of the bride's mother, to officiate at their marriage Saturday. Barbaro, who was hospitalized Feb. 1 for hip surgery, agreed, thinking that he would be out of the hospital by then.

But it didn't work out that way, Barbaro said, so he donned his black judicial robes over pajamas, rolled his wheelchair to a second-floor patient lounge and married Tweedale, 29, and Miss Imbra, 25, there.

When he pronounced the couple man and wife, some 50 hospital workers outside the lounge applauded.

Milwaukee firefighters end strike; due pay hike

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Firefighters ended a one-day strike and returned to work today after union leaders said a contract proposal had been worked out in a judge's chambers.

Union president Joseph Ruditys, who called for an end to the strike at 2 a.m. after 22½ hours, said the tentative agreement would increase the pay of firemen to the level of policemen.

Ruditys said a ratification vote on the proposal worked out by negotiators behind closed doors with Judge John E. McCormick is expected to be completed within four to six days.

No specific figures were immediately available, but it was believed that most of the 1,027 firemen scheduled to work today were back on the job.

City attorneys formally dropped an earlier request for a court order requiring the firemen to return to work. City officials had asked for the injunction after approximately 1,030 firefighters ignored a temporary back-to-work order from McCormick.

State law bars strikes by firefighters. Firefighters began returning to work shortly after the settlement was announced and National Guardsmen, who were manning pumps after quick lessons in firefighting, were sent home.

The city of 633,000 people weathered the affair without a major fire, and the Guardsmen didn't have much occasion to use the basic skills they learned.

The agreement was reached after negotiators spent several hours with Circuit Court Judge John E. McCormick, who had turned a hearing on a request for a permanent injunction against the strike into a bargaining session.

The union did not immediately disclose details of the agreement.

The membership was scheduled to vote on the proposal later in the day and then report to McCormick.

Police to set up rolling blockade

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — State police are gearing up for a rolling blockade aimed at making speeders shift down to the speed limit on Louisiana interstates.

The blockade will be made up of two squad cars driving side by side on the highway at 55 miles an hour.

"We're committed to strict enforcement of the speed limit," Col. Bo Garrison, state police commander, said in a statement. "It's a high profile type of program geared at keeping the driving public aware of the speed limit."

The rolling blockade will be set up Saturday on I-10 and I-12 from the Texas border to Mississippi, police said.

It will move along I-10 to Baton Rouge, where it will jog onto I-12, and return to I-10 at Slidell, missing the heavily traveled segment of I-10 between Baton Rouge and New Orleans, police said.

Troopers will drive their patrol cars at 55 miles an hour, blocking both lanes of the highway. Anyone trying to pass will be ticketed, a police spokesman said.

Garison said state policemen are kept especially busy with motorists from Texas.

Too many male teachers leaving profession

Is the teaching profession in the western world suffering because too many male instructors are exiting the business for more lucrative jobs in other fields?

Some observers are concerned about the matter. One expert spoke out on the problem recently. Said he: "Today, a boy's education is often all female: mother, maid, teacher. Many city-bred youngsters see little of their fathers. There are many single-parent homes where the father is dead or divorced; in others, the male parent is often away on business. "Such boys are in special need of male teachers. Boys, it is widely argued, need daily contact with men during their formative years. "Male teachers are needed to provide the apron strings, to provide an emotional ballast which results in steadier discipline and a more rounded educational experience." It is generally conceded that male teachers have an edge over females in some areas. Consider the opinions of an observer close to the scene: — While everything depends on the personality of the individual teacher there is no arguing that male teachers are generally firmer disciplinarians than women; boys sometimes tend to take advantage of a woman teacher and it is generally true that men control boys better than do women. — Men teachers usually can handle "problem" classes better than women, are more likely to be obeyed when they tell unruly students: "Sit down, shut up and do what you're told." As one observer put it, they are better equipped to keep children in line during the so-called most "uncivilized age."

— Male teachers are better equipped to handle sports, physical training, demonstrate handicrafts and to teach science and mathematics. In defense of the women, and there are some very good ones teaching today, our observer says that as far as teaching ability is concerned, there apparently is little difference between the sexes — some are good and some are indifferent. "But more men do seem to be more successful in creating a climate of interest," our expert said. One of America's leading educators, Dr. Alice Miel, has this to say about a common consequence of a strongly feminine orientation: "Some children regard important cultural subjects such as music and poetry as unmanly or feminine because they never see their fathers participating in such interests and because they are taught these courses by women teachers. "The presence of a male teacher in a classroom provides insurance against such misunderstanding." Dr. Miel adds that it is not unusual for children to identify their male teachers with their fathers. Such identification can be a good thing. "Too often," says Dr. Miel, "the modern boy grows up under the domination of women and thus doesn't always understand fully his role as a male." Whatever the problem, if indeed one does exist, things would be absolutely chaotic in our school systems today without the steady influence of the women teachers. Parents often find them more approachable than the men. "We need to consult with school representatives about problems concerning their children."

No good at numbers

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

It doesn't matter whether it is nine digits long or five plus four as the postal service would like us to believe. The thought of all those numbers in my zip code sends a chill up and down my spine. I have enough trouble remembering the five-digit code. Why the postal service wants such a long zip code is beyond me anyway. Service has been worse since the zip was first put into use. I wouldn't even put zip codes on any of my outgoing mail, except that I feel this awful sense of guilt if I don't. It's the same as if I don't keep in regular touch with my folks or leave dirty dishes overnight. So just as I make sure the dishes are done, I also try to use zip codes.

didn't have zip codes. And service was as good then as it is now. But it is nice to know that there is no discrimination when it comes to the postal service. Kings and emperors have the same problems with the U.S. mail I do, when I get around to using it. Over the years, the postal service has cut back on services to meet their budget and they still keep thinking of services to cut. My suggestion is that they refuse to handle any mail with window envelopes. They are never good news. They are always bills, or worse. But no matter. I suppose we'll all be stuck with a nine-digit zip code. But isn't it nice to know that now, with zip codes, automation, the use of planes, trains and trucks, more employees and a budget all of us would like to live on, that we too get the exact same wonderful service Thomas Jefferson received?

HOW AM I ever going to remember zip codes that are longer than my phone number and the exact same size as my social security number? Since I am not very good with numbers, I will be the first to admit I have a problem remembering the numbers contained in my address, my age, my account numbers, my phone number and my shoe size. I try to forget my dress size. Oh, the postal service. What would we do without them? It used to be that the mail was taken by horses from one spot to another with the mail arriving weeks later at its destination. They

Do you know that if I take my five-digit zip code here in Big Spring, and add it to my former zip codes, add in my account numbers from the banks, electric company, gas company, phone company, water department and cable, plus my phone number and my social security number, the total comes out higher than my mileage reading? I think I'll go do my dishes.

Caribbean gamble

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration has rolled the dice in the Caribbean. By laying American prestige on the line there, Secretary of State Alexander Haig has risked a humiliating setback. But a happy outcome — an outcome that will work to this country's advantage locally, and in dealings with the allies and the Soviet Union — is suggested by some signs, including Leonid Brezhnev's speech to the 26th Party Congress in Moscow. Immediately at stake is the shaky right-center junta that now rules El Salvador. It is a weak coalition of elements in the army with elements of the Christian Democratic Party. It faces opposition from right-wing extremists, many of them now living in Florida. It is also under fire from a radical guerrilla movement, Marxist at the core, which has received military support from Castro's Cuba via the left-wing Sandinista government of Nicaragua.

THE U.S. HAS come down hard on the side of the junta, and against the guerrillas and their arms suppliers. The American position was declared publicly by the secretary of state, and carried abroad in diplomatic conversations with the major countries of Latin America and Western Europe. If the junta now collapsed, the U.S. would cut a ridiculous figure all over the world. But El Salvador is a mini-state in the back yard of the U.S. If this country cannot sustain the junta by a limited application of muscle, then it should quit the Great Power business. Moreover, there is good reason to believe that American influence can be used to broaden the base of the junta.

Both the Catholic Church in this country, whose missionaries have been killed by right-wingers in El Salvador, and the American labor movement, which has had its representatives rubbed out, are pressing for a liberalization of the regime. It is notable in that respect that Secretary Haig has chosen as the new ambassador to El Salvador, Deane Hinton — one of the most intelligent, broad-gauged officials in the foreign service. A favorable outcome in El Salvador will pay immediate dividends throughout the neighborhood. The left-wing regimes of the area have been put on notice that the U.S. will not stand for any more subversive hanky-panky. Already there are signs that the lesson has been absorbed in Nicaragua and in Costa Rica. Venezuela has also taken its distances from the rebels of El Salvador, and Mexico is being nudged in the same direction. Fidel Castro thus faces the prospect of isolation.

THE EUROPEAN ALLIES have been brought into the picture by briefings from an American mission under Ambassador Lawrence Eagleburger. In the next few days Secretary Haig will be pouring out the story further in direct conversations with visiting French and British officials. Warness characterized the initial response of the allies. But if American power proves itself in the Caribbean, the European allies will stand up and salute. This country will then be in much stronger position to elicit support for joint policies in the Middle East and with respect to the Russians. The Soviet Union, of course, is the principal policy target. The Russians have complained noisily about "American imperialism" and its denial of "liberation movements" in the "Third World."

Vaccine worth trouble

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am an elderly man. My doctor suggested to me that I get vaccinated against pneumonia. This is something new to me. I never heard of this kind of vaccination so I told him I'd have to think about it. I am scared that people get more sick from shots than from the real illness. Did I do the wrong thing? Do vaccines work? — P.P.

You always have every right to be cautious, but in this case I think you did the wrong thing. Vaccines do work. For example, have you heard of a child developing diphtheria lately? It happens, but not as it did before the diphtheria vaccine. Since the advent of polio vaccine, most medical students never see a person with polio. Vaccines have helped eliminate some of the most devastating diseases humans have suffered from.

The pneumonia vaccine your doctor wanted you to have has been used to prevent one kind of pneumonia, the most common kind, that from the bacterium pneumococcus. It is very safe and an effective vaccine. Its side effects are minimal — perhaps a little redness and soreness where the shot is given. But that's about it.

Because penicillin cures most of the cases of pneumococcal pneumonia, many people have felt safe from it and are not interested in getting a shot to prevent it. However, pneumococcal pneumonia, even with penicillin available, can be a serious and deadly illness, especially in people with severe heart, lung or kidney disease. Those people are not able to fight this infection effectively, even with penicillin. So if your doctor suggested the vaccine for you, I think you should reconsider your decision. It might prevent a serious illness at a minimal cost.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I note with some interest your comment recently with reference to calling British doctors "Mr." I feel quite sure your explanation is historically correct. However, there is some amplification that might be interesting. I am an American doctor and have a Fellowship in surgery from the Royal College of Surgeons in Edinburgh, Scotland (1926). Even though one's main interest is surgery, you are a "Dr." until you become a "Fellow." Once you have gained your Fellowship, you become "Mr." That distinguishes you as a "Fellow."

Since I am a retired colonel, Medical Corps, U.S. Army, some Army terminology might be interesting. Company grade officers (lieutenants and captains) in the Medical Corps are properly known as "Dr." Field grade officers are known by their rank (major and higher). This custom used to be followed more routinely than at present. I understand it is now more or less passe. — W.A.W., M.D., F.R.C.S.E., USA, Ret.

Thanks, and thank goodness you don't have the problem of getting those letters up on a shingle. Dear Dr. Donohue: Please state in your column if this is so or not. My husband read somewhere that eating carrots is a poison to the nerve system. I would like to know — yes or no. — D.B.

Too much vitamin A can be toxic to the brain. Carrots contain carotene, a substance that the body changes into vitamin A. If you get too much carotene, the body stops making vitamin A from it. So it would be very difficult to develop vitamin A poisoning from carrots. The skin might turn yellow, but that goes away when you stop eating carrots. Your husband can eat his carrots without worry. But, as the ancient Greeks noted, everything in moderation. I have had an excess of carrot questions of late.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think our society is getting worse? Recently an elderly neighbor of mine was robbed and viciously beaten, and I seem to hear more and more about such things every day. — W.K.N.

DEAR W.K.N.: Yes, the statistics suggest that we are seeing more and more lawlessness each year. This is a distressing thing, and (as you indicate) means great personal suffering for the victims. But on a world-wide scale there is also reason for concern. There have always been periods and places where crime has been rampant, but never before have we seen things such as international terrorism. I often am reminded of the parable which Jesus told in (Matthew 13:24-30), which is often called the parable of the wheat and the tares. (Tares were weeds which looked like wheat stalks.) In that parable Jesus predicted that the time would come when evil (represented by the tares) would grow and become very strong.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter, who is 18, said she would take your word for this. She wants to buy a powder to mix with milk and other liquids. You are supposed to use it daily to improve your bust size. She found this advertised in a magazine. Would this be alright to take? — S.H.

Sure, if she likes the taste. You might even want to put some out for the little leprechauns in your back garden.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What would be considered the normal weight for a baby at his first birthday? — V.G.

Weights will vary, but rate of gain should be around a tripling of birth weight by the end of the first year. A normal seven-pound baby at birth will usually weigh right around 21 pounds at age one.

What can vitamins really do for you — and what can't they do? In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the common sense from the nonsense about this controversial health aid. For your copy of "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know", send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Avoiding tax redeye

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Innocuous though it seemed, the suggestion by two Cabinet members for a two-penny-a-gallon hike in the federal gasoline tax was quickly rejected as no less lethal than the alcoholic's first sip out of the bottle. "This is not policy," Dr. Martin Anderson, President Reagan's domestic policy assistant, told us. Nor, by his tone, will it ever be policy in this administration. So much for the Cabinet's most energetic and competent members, budget director David Stockman and Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis. More than a trifling tax is at stake. Anderson has been called "the keeper of the sacred scrolls," in some derision for his stubborn insistence that the president stick to what he promised in the campaign. But beyond seeking consistency, Reagan wants to avoid the catastrophic recourse to the old tax bottle that has done so much damage to two other conservative heads of Western governments.

JOSEPH CLARK'S TENURE in Canada was abbreviated when, breaking campaign pledges, he did not cut tax rates because of his quest for a balanced budget. In Britain, Margaret Thatcher's promised tax relief did not materialize when she overbalanced upper-level income tax reductions with increases in the value-added tax effecting mainly lower-income taxpayers; Prime Minister Thatcher's move produced accurate forecasts by leaders of the U.S. tax cut movement, Professor Arthur Laffer and Rep. Jack Kemp, that it would chill Britain's economic recovery.

Yet, any conservative is sorely tempted to balance the budget by drinking from the tax bottle. Even Stockman, sponsored by Kemp to be the first supply-side director in the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), seemed to succumb.

While other Cabinet members were still learning the way to the washroom, Stockman had been making a crash budget of unexcelled virtuosity. Yet, those last billions of dollars eluded him. The answer came from the OMB civil servants as the song of a temptress: Use "tax expenditures."

A "tax expenditure" is bureaucratized for what portion of a citizen's own income the government does not tax because of a deduction — implying that all funds belong to Uncle Sam unless otherwise designated. OMB's final draft abounded in recommendations to capture a billion here and a billion there by halting "cash-expenditures."

New York City businessman-scholar Lewis Lehrman, a militant supply-sider and lucid writer, arrived in Washington Feb. 11 to help Stockman draft the president's economic report. In countering proposed higher revenue through reduction of "tax expenditures," Lehrman was appalled more by the language than the substance. At Lehrman's insistence, the report was scrubbed of all references to "tax expenditures." But when the economic program went before the Cabinet for final approval, the most highly-combustible tax-increasing proposal remained (though cleansed of the "tax expenditure" label): eliminating what remains of the oil depletion allowance. No Cabinet member disagreed, but Interior Secretary James Watt — a supplier-sider who has worked more closely with Stockman than any other Cabinet member — looked a little ill. The man at the head of the long table then interrupted. "Wait a minute," said Reagan. "This is not the last administration" — a reference to President Carter's relish for taxing the oil industry. Without calling for a vote, Reagan removed the oil depletion allowance repeal from the program.

EVEN SO, STOCKMAN'S final version of the budget scraped together an extra $2 billion in new "user fees," mostly on aviation, a hoary fiscal gimmick dating back to President Eisenhower's day. But there was nothing said about higher gasoline taxes until the nation's governors gathered in Washington Feb. 22. At the urging of governors, Stockman and Lewis suggested the $2-billion-a-year, two-cent gas tax to replenish highway maintenance funds to the state being cut under Reagan budget austerity.

Some ardent supply-siders, furious at the notion of repealing the oil depletion allowance, can see some merit in increasing the gas tax, whose proceeds do not rise with inflation. But Reagan's advisers see otherwise. "It could be the first step towards Thatcherization," one senior aide told us. "Better not to touch it."

Nobody knows better than Stockman himself the inflationary impact of higher tax rates, as he declared on CBS's "Face the Nation" Feb. 22 in arguing that lower tax rates are conducive to saving: "The government doesn't save. When the government collects those (higher) taxes, those revenues will be turned immediately into expenditures. By lowering taxes across the board, we will change incentives for savings and we will increase... savings."

Stockman has the doctrine down. All he need remember is when looking for that spare billion, beware of grabbing the jug of tax redeye, even for a little sip.

Dear Abby

Forgiving Wife Has Second Thoughts

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve my husband got drunk and told me he was in love with another woman. The next day, after he sobered up, he said he loved only me and to forget what he said about his being in love with another woman. He said this woman was just a friend who needed help. So he had been meeting her to help sort out her problems, but there was nothing between them. He said he had kissed her a few times to cheer her up, but all he ever gave her was a T-shirt with "One Fantastic Woman" printed on it.

Abby, I love him regardless, and there is no way I am going to get into a fight with him and lose him to somebody else. We have three small children who worship him. I told him that I forgive him totally, and now he is knocking himself out trying to make it up to me. Do you think I was too easy on him?

MARYANN

DEAR MARYANN: No! But I think he gave the T-shirt to the wrong woman.

DEAR ABBY: So PLOTZING IN PLATTSBURGH, N.Y., complained because she got a lot of useless gifts for Christmas? Last Thanksgiving my youngest son's darling wife got together with the family and had them all put in an envelope what they were planning to spend on a gift for me.

The week before Christmas this daughter-in-law came to my house with a housecleaning crew, and in four hours, two husky men and two spry little ladies cleaned my five-room house from top to bottom. My windows were washed, the oven was clean as new, and all I did was sit and watch! When they left, there was $14.80 left over for me.

On Christmas Day the whole family came back with a picnic-like supper and useful presents such as new dish cloths, dish towels, a pot scrubber, rubber scraper, etc. And when they left I felt like the best-loved grandma, mother and mother-in-law in town! Cleaning is tiresome and sometimes impossible for us senior citizens. Wouldn't it be wonderful if everybody gave such practical gifts?

HAPPY GRANNY IN COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR GRANNY: Wonderful, indeed. Readers, jot this down on your Christmas gift list. There are only 298 days until Christmas.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend I'll call "Fran" who is never on time for an appointment. I realize it's possible to have a legitimate reason for being late once in a while, but Fran is always 25 to 30 minutes (or more) late. It is positively maddening because I am always prompt. I'm not the only one she keeps waiting. Fran has a reputation for always being late, and her friends have come to accept it.

What makes a person act like this, and is there a cure for it?

HATES LATENIKS

DEAR HATES: Don't look for any deep psychological reason for chronic tardiness. It's a combination of inconsideration, lack of organization and a touch of conceit. The "cure" is simple. Give the "latenik" fair warning that you'll wait only 10 minutes, after which you will leave. Then do it.

Personal health is BPW program by Mrs. Hogan

The Business & Professional Women's Club met at K-Bobs Restaurant for dinner and program, with the Personal Health Maintenance Committee of Mrs. R.T. Newell and Mrs. Rozelle Dohoney serving as hostesses. Mrs. Weldon Nuckolls, president, opened the meeting and conducted a short business session.

The guest speaker, Mrs. John Hogan, was introduced by Mrs. Newell. Her topic was personal health, and she cited some ways of maintaining a good program by eating three regular meals a day, getting 7 to 8 hours of sleep, keeping a moderate weight and having some type of exercise program. It is essential that older people avoid contagious diseases as much as possible, and accidents. She said that a person's body is and should be the most important thing in life, and it should not be abused by improper eating.

Fresh fruits are essential and help in maintaining health, but even apples are now injected with preservatives, and consumers are never sure that they are "fresh fruit." A great deal is heard about organic foods, but unless someone actually grows their own vegetables, they do not know if they are that type.

Mrs. Hogan said that there is an art to growing old, and the influence of the aged cannot be based on years, past achievements or bank accounts. Some achievements can be independence and learning to master the psychological burden of age. New interests have to be cultivated with the years, and sometimes some of the greatest benefits come from contemplation, meditation and reflection.

The contents on packages of food should be read and those which contain the least amount, and if possible no added preservatives should be purchased.

The next club meeting will be March 10 at Pioneer Gas Flame Room with a covered dish dinner and a program by some young career women of the city.

TWEEN 12 & 20

Favorite vacation spots

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.
Copley News Service

Where is the most beautiful and wonderful vacation spot in the United States or Canada?

This question brought 5,117 responses from Canadian and American teens. Believe me when I tell you that Canada and the United States are truly beautiful countries.

Teens wrote about the Golden Gate Bridge in California, the Alamo in Texas, Lake Louise in Alberta, Puget Sound in Washington, Cape Cod in Massachusetts, the marvelous cosmopolitan city of Montreal, the Rocky Mountains of Colorado, the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri, the Maine coast, the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina and thousands of other beautiful areas.

From Joe Huzar, 13, Fullerton, Calif. "...I have been to many beautiful places, such as the Grand Canyon and the Rocky Mountains, but the most beautiful places was the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri — fresh air, beautiful lakes, great fishing and unmatched scenery.

From Janine McMahon, 14, Nashua, N.H. "New England has everything — the beautiful Green Mountains of New Hampshire, the great Maine coastline, the historic city of Boston. But the best thing is the "tons" of history and the most friendly people in the world.

From Tim Fox, 15, Tusculum, Ala. "The city of Victoria in British Columbia, Canada. It's more English than England — beautiful gardens, great shopping and better food.

From Mike Owens, 16, Columbus Ohio. "The Pacific Northwest and Seattle, Wash. in particular. Everything is green, clean and should be seen.

From Alice Ryan, 15, Odessa, Texas. "The whole state of Texas but especially San Antonio. They have a beautiful winding river that runs through the heart of the city and you can have lunch in beautiful outdoor restaurants that touch the river.

From Beth Scott, 18, Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada. "Montreal — a truly cosmopolitan city on the shore of the beautiful St. Lawrence River.

Teens, I hope these exciting places have given you the urge to travel and to see our great continent. The educational rewards are unmatched.

Our next teen question comes from Brenda Witt, 15, of De Kalb, Ill., who asks her fellow teens, "How many (in numbers) children do you plan or want to have when you get married? A national survey polled adults and they gave their view.

"I'd like to see what teenagers have to say."

I'll award TWEEN 12 and 20 buttons to all teens answering the question. Please write to me, in care of this newspaper stating your age and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

When the information on this teen survey question is presented, it will be compared to data of the adult survey.

Rummage sale is planned by parents

Parents of handicapped children met Feb. 24 at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center to discuss future projects for the parents and their children.

A trip to Abilene's Nelson Park and Zoo was agreed on as being the group's first special project for 1981.

Since the Abilene trip is tentatively planned for the Easter holidays, an Easter egg hunt for the children will be held after the zoo tour and picnic lunch in the park.

Parents plan to hold the rummage sale on March 28, from 9:00 to 3:00. The location has not been decided yet, but the public will be given advance notice through public service announcements and posters.

Baby's arrival announced by Marquez couple

Mr. and Mrs. Saul Marquez, 1807 South Lancaster, announce the birth of their daughter, Crystal Nicole, at Martin County Hospital, Stanton. The infant made her debut Feb. 20 weighing 9 pounds, 2 ounces, and measuring 22½ inches long.

The baby's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mancha, Wasson Road, and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marquez Sr., 1003 NW 3rd. Great-grandmother is Mrs. Charlotte Mancha, Odessa.

Crystal is welcomed home by her brother, Christopher, 11, and sister Tina Ann, 10.

Other activities planned for 1981 are camping trips, park outings, and the organization of a softball or volleyball team for the parents.

To offset expenses such as renting buses, buying food for the picnic, and zoo admission fees for the Abilene trip, the parents are planning to have a large rummage sale as a fund-raising activity.

Plans are to sell items brought from home, friends, and neighbors, items donated by local businesses,

Chili supper to be served in Coahoma

The Coahoma Lion's Club will sponsor a chili supper Thursday in the Coahoma High School cafeteria from 5:00 to 9:00 p.m. Proceeds will be used for sight conservation and other community projects.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from any Lion's Club member. Tickets will also be sold at the supper.

Hawk Queens rout Ranger to advance in Region V

BROWNWOOD — The Howard College Hawk Queens wasted no time in winning their qualifying round game in the Region V Tournament here Sunday afternoon, rolling to an early lead and simply coasting to a 78-46 win over Ranger Junior College.

The Hawk Queens, which entered the game ranked 19th nationally, erupted from the beginning in jumping to a 25-8 advantage. From that point, Coach Don Stevens substituted freely in order to give his regulars a rest for what he hopes will be three more games and the Region V title.

Ranger stayed within striking distance at halftime, trailing 37-24, but never got any closer than that.

All-American candidate Kelly Lyons, as usual, led the Hawk Queens scoring attack with 20. Melissa Luna added 11 and Cynthia Robinson 10. Ranger's Janna Elliot led all scorers in the contest with 23 points.

The win puts the Hawk Queens into tonight's first round game against Northern Conference champion Weatherford. That game begins at eight o'clock, and can be heard in Big Spring on a radio station.

The Hawk Queens defeated Weatherford in the Hawk Queen Classic in November, but that was more than three months ago. "It's going to be tough," said Coach Stevens. "Coach David Land of Cisco told me that Weatherford has improved a lot since we played them, and we had to struggle to beat them then."

In the other games today and tonight in the women's tournament which sends its representatives to the national tourney, McLennan faces Odessa College at two, Western Texas plays Cisco at four, and Amarillo meets Clarendon at six.

Clarendon was just as impressive as the Howard College women yesterday, rolling to an 87-60 win over Cooke.

Stevens feels all four of the games today could go either way. "They all will be fun to watch," he said. "This looks like it is going to be a very interesting tournament."

Should the Hawk Queens win tonight, they would meet the winner of the Western Texas-Cisco game tomorrow night in the semifinals.

HOWARD COLLEGE (78) — White 2-13; Westbrook 1-9-02; Floyd 2-0-4; Wasserman 1-1-3; Lutrick 2-0-4; Lyons 10-0-20; Luna 5-1-11; Hill 2-4-8; Robinson 4-2-10; Mull 3-3-9; Bell 0-2-3; TOTALS 32-14-76.

RANGER (46) — Gilbreath 2-0-4; Smith 2-1-5; Stephens 4-0-8; Elliot 10-3-23; Arnold 2-0-4; Radin 1-0-2; TOTALS 21-4-46.

PALMER SWINGS AT BAY HILLS — Arnold Palmer watches the flight of his ball during play at the Bay Hills Classic golf tournament in Orlando. This is the third year for this tournament which Palmer sponsors. Palmer just made the cut with a two day total of 146, three strokes over par.

Bean awesome in winning Bay Hill by huge margin

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Andy Bean had only one disturbing thought after scoring a 7-shot victory in the Bay Hill Golf Classic.

"I talked to Arnold (Palmer, owner and operator of the host Bay Hill Club) early in the week and we agreed that the course was tough enough that something like 10 under (par) would win," Bean said Sunday. The big guy offered a mischievous smile and added:

"I'm afraid I might have made Arnold mad at me."

Combining his awesome physical strength with a deft and delicate short game, Bean ripped Arnold's course and humbled the opposition with an 18-under-par performance on a winning score of 266.

"What can you say, when you've played better than you thought anybody was going to?" Bean asked.

The 6-foot-4, 210-pounder, the tour's most noted alligator-wrestler, made it look easy. He started the final round with a 3-shot lead over Tom Watson, the only man in the field with any realistic hopes of overtaking him.

And it took Bean only three holes to put away the struggling Watson. Bean reached the par-5 first in two big blows and 2-putted for birdie. He birdied the second from point-blank range and Watson, playing with him, bogeyed it after missing the green. And Watson left one in a bunker on the third and bogeyed again.

Bean's 27-hole, 3-shot lead.

"That was pretty much the ballgame," Watson said.

"I couldn't catch the big fellow. He didn't make any mistakes and I made too many. He deserves to win. He played well enough to win."

Bean, 27, scored his seventh career victory with a final round 69 and picked up $54,000 from the total purse of $300,000.

"It's nice to win at home," said Bean, a resident of nearby Lakeland. He was trailed through the warm, sunny weather by a large and enthusiastic gallery of relatives, friends and neighbors.

"Winning can be fun when you don't have to grind all the way," he said. "It's fun just to be able to 2-putt and go on about your business and not have to make birdies all the time."

He didn't have to.

With the big lead, he had no more pressure than on a walk in the park. He started in front, stayed in front, finished in front. He wasn't challenged at any point.

Watson, the only man with a chance, continued to have his problems, particularly with the driver.

"It was a day of frustrations," said Watson, golf's Player of the Year for the past four seasons but battling some swing problems so far this year. He's taking a two-week break in an attempt to get his game back on track.

He finished second at 273 with a closing 73, two over par.

Fowler, Robinson named all-Region

Two Coahoma girls basketball players returned from the Region I-AAA Tournament in Lubbock the past weekend with All-Tournament honors.

Andrea Fowler and Kari Robinson were the Bulldogs that earned the All-Regional Tournament honors for their superb play. The duo helped lead the Coahoma team to the Region I-AAA championship game before falling to a talented Abernathy team.

Coahoma had won District 6-AAA, their bi-district and first round of the Region

Tournament games before falling Saturday afternoon to Abernathy.

Bulldog Girls Coach Billy Gordon wished to express special thanks to the many fans from Coahoma that came to support at the Regional Tourney.

Easterling wins Cowtown

FORT WORTH — Howard College professor Sherrill Easterling mastered the route at this weekend's prestigious Cowtown Marathon, racing to win the women's competition.

Easterling, one of the outstanding female runners in Texas, won the Cowtown event in the rainy weather in a time of three hours, five minutes.

Big Spring Herald SPORTS MONDAY

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MARCH 2, 1981

Steers host Monterey today in baseball opener

The Big Spring Steers baseball team and first year coach Frank Ibarra open their season today in about the toughest way possible, hosting the perennially tough Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen.

The game, which begins in the newly repainted Steer Park at four o'clock, matches a team from Monterey that features one of the better pitchers in the state in Joe Coleman, against a Big Spring Steer team that returns most of its line-up intact from last year.

The biggest change in the Steer outlook is Ibarra, who succeeds Howell Martin as the manager. But to Ibarra's benefit, he'll have plenty of regulars to build the 1981 team around.

All but one of the starters today were regulars for most of last year. The only exception is in centerfield, where Mark Walker will draw the starting nod.

He's taking the place of last year's rightfielder, Dickie Wrightsil, who has been in the Steer basketball program.

Mark Warren, who started in center last year, has been moved to leftfield, while Mark Shaver has been moved from left to rightfield.

Moe Rubio, a junior who was a regular last season, will draw the starting nod today. Joining Rubio as hurlers for the Steers will be Wayne Shipman, Tony Ontiveros and Tommy Rodriguez.

The Steers lost one of their better hurlers when senior Robert Moran's family moved.

The Steers have been involved in three scrimmages thus far, and their run production has been good. That's what Ibarra is hoping for more of today.

"Monterey always beats people with a lot of runs," he said. "But so far we've looked pretty good hitting the ball, too."

"Our main concern right now is pitching," Ibarra continued. "I don't know how they'll hold up. In the first few games, we'll probably let everyone pitch some. Rubio will probably go about four innings today, and then we'll bring in Tommy Rodriguez."

After today's opener, barring a rain, the Steers meet Monterey on the road tomorrow. Then they travel to the Roswell Tournament on Thursday for three games.

Ibarra likes the fact that the Steers can open with the state known Plainsmen right out of the bat. "It should help us playing a good team like that quickly. And besides, I'd rather play them early before they get things rolling," he said.

The starting lineup in their batting order finds Warren in leftfield, Rodriguez at shortstop, Lupe Ontiveros catching, Tommy Olague at first, Marcus Armerndariz at second base, Shaver in rightfield, Walker in center, Rusty Hayworth at third base, Blake Rosson as the DH, and Rubio.

Others expected to see action include Russell Stuke and Jeff Harwood.

The Phoenix Suns and Boston Celtics had a couple of points to make — and what better opportunity than before a national television audience?

The Suns, led by center Alvan Adams' 30 points and 10 rebounds, showed they can win in Los Angeles by beating the Lakers 101-96 in the second half of a Sunday television doubleheader carried by CBS. The Suns, who had not won at the Forum since 1977, losing their last 11 games (including playoffs) on the Lakers' home court, stretched their Pacific Division lead over Los Angeles to 4½ games.

"To pick up a game on the team that is chasing us is big for us," said Adams. "This gives us a big edge."

Lakers Coach Paul Westhead agreed.

"It was a great win for Phoenix because they hadn't beaten us here in 3½ years," said Westhead. "If I was Phoenix, I'd be very happy. This makes our part of the divisional race very difficult."

Earlier, the Celtics served notice that they are not quite ready to concede the Atlantic Division title to Philadelphia by beating the 76ers 114-107 at Boston Garden, thus trimming Philadelphia's division lead to just 1½ games.

"First place is a matter of pride," said Boston's Larry Bird, who had 24 points, 15 rebounds and five assists. "They're still in the driver's seat. We're going to have to keep on winning because Philly's not going to lose anymore until we play them again."

In other NBA games Sunday, the Milwaukee Bucks routed Washington Bullets 137-107, the San Antonio Spurs beat the Houston Rockets 102-86, the Dallas Mavericks defeated the San Diego Clippers 99-91, the Portland Trail Blazers topped the Utah Jazz 108-97, the Denver Nuggets outscored the Cleveland Cavaliers 137-127, the Atlanta Hawks defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 108-102 and the Detroit Pistons beat the New Jersey Nets 117-104.

Slow-Pitch meeting tonight

The Big Spring Slow-Pitch Softball Association has set a meeting for tonight at seven o'clock at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room in order to discuss the upcoming season.

Representatives from all teams should be in attendance, as well as anyone else interested in playing or sponsoring a team.

Murphy's streak ends on No. 79

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — While the ball bounced harmlessly off the iron, Calvin Murphy grimaced but the crowd gave him a standing ovation, sympathizing with the end of the longest consecutive free-throw shooting streak in the National Basketball Association.

Murphy, the Houston Rockets' pint-sized guard, had hit 78 free tosses in a row before blowing his first try in Sunday's 102-86 loss to San Antonio.

He did not go to the free throw line until deep in the third quarter and when the ball bounced off to the right, he turned and walked away — clenching his fists in front of him and closing his eyes.

It was his first miss from the free-throw line since Dec. 27. On Feb. 19 he had passed Rick Barry's previous NBA record of 60 straight charity tosses.

Although Murphy turned away and winced, 11,245 San Antonio fans stood and applauded the feisty little guard, showing their appreciation for his remarkable skein.

"I'm not heartbroken," Murphy said later. "What goes up must come down."

The 32-year-old, 10-year veteran from Niagara was both the oldest and shortest man on the court in Sunday's 102-86 win by San Antonio, but he showed his stamina late in the game when he sailed into the second row seats after Spurs' rookie Reggie Johnson fouled Murphy on a driving layup.

After a hush fell over the crowd when it took the spunky guard several minutes to rise from the concrete floor, Murphy limped to the free throw line and canned his first shot. But he missed his second free throw of the game on the next shot.

"I injured my knee. I use my knees in my free throws," he said of the second miss. "When I went down my knee locked."

Murphy said he was taking the miss in stride.

"I set goals for myself and I wanted to see how close I could get to 100," he said. "What goes up must come down. It was fun while it lasted."

Murphy came off the bench to hit 9 points, handed off 7 assists and made 2 steals in 26 minutes of play in the loss.

"It felt good, but I just missed it," he said of the streak-ending miss after San Antonio's James Silas was whistled for a technical foul. "I enjoyed the publicity. Now I'll just have to start another (streak)."

SWC Tournament begins tonight

Defending champion Texas A&M hopes Monday night to find the backdoor to the sixth annual Southwest Conference post-season basketball classic in San Antonio by defeating the Texas Christian Horned Frogs — the team that started all the Aggies' troubles.

TCU upset the Aggies in the season opener at Reunion Arena in Dallas back in January, starting a 1-7 slide Conference reversed the record in the second half to earn fourth place and a first round tournament host spot against the Horned Frogs.

In other first round games,

Texas entertains Rice while Texas Tech, which tied A&M for fourth, hosts last-place Southern Methodist.

Arkansas, Houston and Baylor got the free passes to San Antonio.

The Razorbacks, regular season champions for the fourth time in five years, will be idle until next Friday night. Arkansas, 11-3 in the regular campaign, is in the top-seeded bracket, meaning it should have an easier road to the tournament finals Saturday night.

The winners of the Tech-SMU and Texas-Rice games Monday night play in a second-round game Thursday night. The survivor gets to play Arkansas.

In the other bracket, Houston got the bye to Friday night because of the tie-breakers although the Cougars were tied with the Baylor Bears for second place at 10-6.

Baylor will play the winner of Monday night's Texas Christian at Texas A&M tussle in the Thursday night doubleheader at San Antonio. The winner meets Houston Friday night in the semifinals.

Arkansas, which started the SWC season 2-3, capped remarkable turnaround which included nine straight victories by defeating Texas Tech 64-61 in Lubbock Saturday night.

Baylor surprised the experts by tying Houston for second place with a 68-62 victory over Texas Christian.

Houston fell 78-77 to Texas A&M earlier in the day on regional television almost overcoming a 24-point deficit.

Texas, which downed Rice 90-80, tied the Owls for sixth place at 7-9.

TCU was seventh at 6-10 and SMU had already completed its regular season in the cellar at 3-13.

Even Braves get into search for missing kids

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The green swatch of tape on the Atlanta Braves' batting helmets will remain until the cases of the 21 slain or missing children in Atlanta are solved, according to a spokesman for the National League club.

The players also will do 30-second taped commentaries, to be distributed to Atlanta-area radio stations, pleading with the killer or killers to give himself up, said Braves spokesman Wayne Minshew.

Left-handed reliever Larry Bradford, who attended Clark College in Atlanta, thought of placing the one-inch strip of tape on the helmets and was joined in the gesture on Sunday by the rest of the squad.

Steinbrenner furious over Reggie's no-show

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — What becomes of Mr. October in March?
This was a riddle that upset the brass of the never moribund New York Yankees team and titillated rather than irritated the players as they began their first full week of spring training without superstar Reggie Jackson.

time Reggie learned he is not bigger than the Yankees." George flew out of town immediately after Sunday's Jacksonless workout and left an invisible note to his $3-million property who is playing out the last year of a five-year contract: "Don't call me; I'll call you."

to tie Tulsa for second place in the final standings. Both teams have 11-5 records but Creighton won a coin toss for the second position in the tourney.

Pairings decided Saturday night give league champion Wichita State, Tulsa, Creighton and Drake the advantage of the home court in the opening game. With wins Tuesday, Wichita State and Creighton can guarantee they will play before friendly home crowds again Thursday. The finals Wichita State hosts Southern Illinois and Bradley is at Drake in the upper bracket. New Mexico State is at Tulsa and Indiana State is at Creighton in the lower bracket.

"We played terrible," said Wichita State Coach Gene Smithson, whose Shockers finish the regular season 12-4 and 21-5.

Bradley, 18-8, skidded to a fourth-place tie with Drake in the final conference standings. Both teams are 10-6. Drake won a coin toss for the final home berth in the tournament.

"Tulsa ended its regular season 20-6 overall with an 81-70 nonconference win over Oral Roberts Saturday. It is the Hurricane's second 20-victory season in history and the first in 26 years.

Kentucky ruins LSU win streak at 26; While Oregon State still perfect

By the Associated Press
First, the nation's longest winning streak came to an end... then it didn't.

Oregon State and the unbeaten Beavers, erasing a 6-point halftime deficit for the second road game in a row, overtook No. 13 UCLA 82-76, boosting their record to 25-0 and remaining the only team in the country without a setback.

set for ourselves," Coach Ralph Miller said after Oregon State clinched at least a tie for its second consecutive Pacific-10 title. "And it's the first time we've swept UCLA and USC since 1958."

"I'd have to say this is my best team at Oregon State," added Miller, who is in his 11th season. "We should be in good shape for the playoffs because we've used a lot of people this year and our players are pretty well rested."

rested some Sunday with foul problems but still scored 26 points. His two free throws 3½ minutes into the second half put Oregon State on top to stay 48-47 and contributed to a 17-3 spurt.

Kermit's Peden defending Over 40 golf tourney

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Defending champion Roy Peden of Kermit is aiming for his third Life Begins at 40 golf title today in a field of 256 players for this 5-day match play tournament at Harlingen Country Club.

The long-hitting Peden, a former catcher on the Texas A&M baseball team, last year fashioned the most remarkable comeback in the tournament's 28-year history and defeated Jack Williams of Plainview 2-and-1 in the championship match.

Down three holes at the turn, the 6-foot-3, 250-pound Peden banged in four birdies on the back nine to highlight a surge that saw him winning six of the final eight holes.

"That was probably the greatest win I've ever had," said the 61-year-old Peden, a former U.S. National Open Senior champion. "To come from three down to win against a guy that would beat me 8 of 10 times was just unbelievable."

Peden closed out Williams by sinking a two-foot putt for a birdie on No. 17, finishing at one under par on a day when winds gusted upwards of 35 mph.

Williams, the 1977 champion here and winner of 110 tournaments, once again figures as a solid contender for the title in a 32-man championship flight made up of players with handicaps of four and under.

Billy Bob Coffey of Fort Worth and Jim Cason of Harlingen, a former Louisiana State and San Francisco 49er halfback, also figure in the title picture. Both are two-time champions.

Also returning are Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., the tournament's only four-time winner; Maurice Wilson of Brownsville, a three-time winner; Fred Rohde of San Antonio, the 1978 winner; and Cy Derby of Harlingen, who won the first LBA 40 tournament while playing out of Monterrey, Mexico in 1953.

Bobby Lackey of Weslaco, a semifinalist last year and medalist with a 4-under 68, will miss the 29th LBA 40. The former University of Texas quarterback is sidelined after recent back surgery.

The championship match is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Olympia Gold promises money despite weather

CITY OF INDUSTRY, Calif. (AP) — Sally Little smiled for a moment before answering the inevitable question about the weather, which certainly has contradicted the line in the song about it never raining in Southern California.

The weather was anything but permitting at Industry Hills Sunday as rain again washed out the third round, this time without any of the 73 professionals and one amateur being able to begin play.

"For anyone to win a golf tournament like that is okay," said Little, a 29-year-old South African. "But I'd just as soon really win it, I'd like to finish it. I'm a competitor."

So, again weather permitting, the event at the 5,938-yard, par-73 Eisenhower course was scheduled to be completed today.

Little was the tournament leader at 142 after carding successive 71s Thursday and Friday. If the course was not playable today, she was to be declared the winner and recipient of the $22,500 first prize.

Officials had announced Saturday that no matter what, the purse would not be reduced and that there would no attempt to play after today.

But I can't complain if it keeps raining, right?" Little made the comments after the third round of the $150,000 Olympia Gold Classic was washed out on Saturday. Tournament officials announced that the Ladies Professional Golf Association event would be shortened from 72 to 54 holes and be completed Sunday, weather permitting.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAR. 3, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early day finds a possible difficulty where a romantic matter is concerned but the rest of the day is excellent for organizing your career activities. Plan the future wisely.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact an influential person who can give you support for a fine project you have in mind. Take time for fun later in the day.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your ideas are working like magic early in the day so be more aggressive than in the past. Relax at home tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you carry through with promises to others. Loved-one becomes more affectionate as the day passes.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to learn what is expected of you by associates and try to please them for possible advancement in career.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy at work ahead of you and gain fine benefits by being cooperative with others. Organizational work is the key to success now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A time to concentrate on getting ahead in your line of endeavor. Know what will please loved one the most whatever the cost.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to confer with family members and maintain harmony in the home. Sidestep one who is a troublemaker.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to go after the information you need for a personal project. Fine also for communicating with outsiders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are thinking in a most practical vein and can easily handle a difficult problem now. Express happiness with loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Morning may be depressing but later you can get after personal goals and gain them. Be careful of your money.

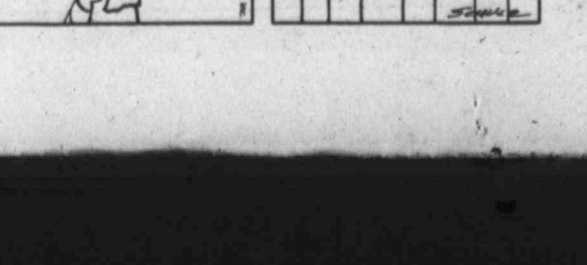

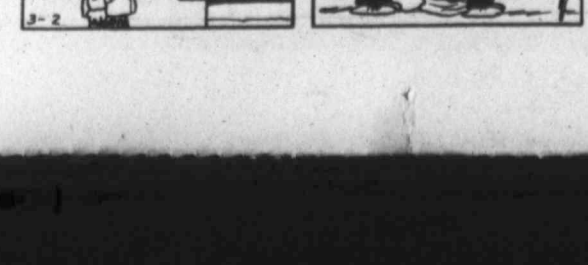

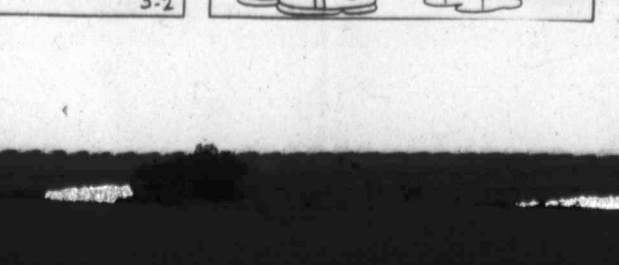

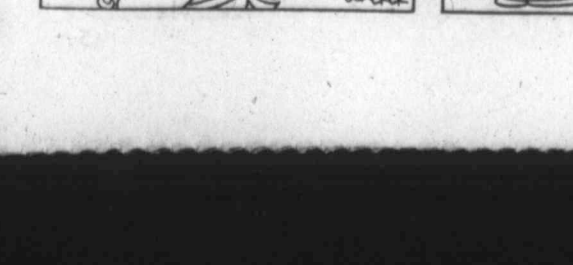

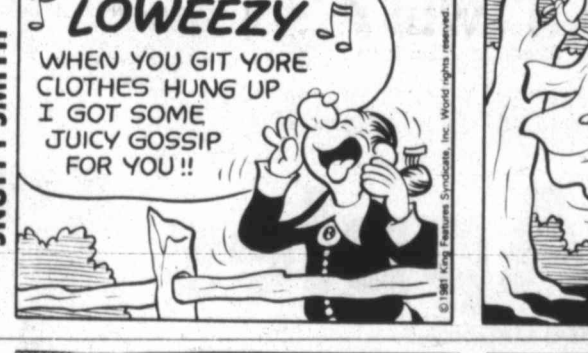

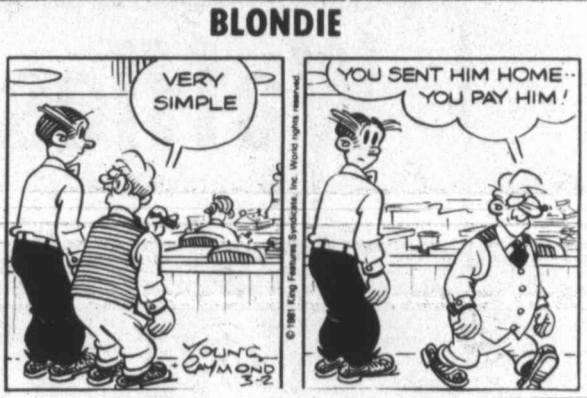

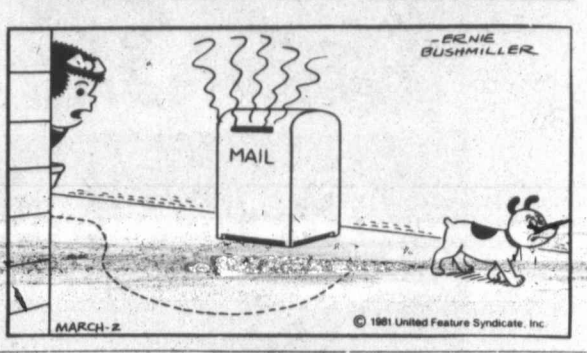

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget the frivolous for now and get busy on practical matters that could give you a greater income in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good friend who is wise can tell you how to solve certain problems, so listen carefully. Relax and be contented in the evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one with much organizational ability and should be given a chance to express this quality early in life. Give complicated chores and teach to use reason in dealing with others. Don't neglect religious training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Court rules abusive language not protected by free speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today left intact the "abusive language" conviction of a Texas man over arguments that his free-speech rights were violated.

By a 7-2 vote, the justices rebuffed a constitutional challenge to the use of the state's abusive-language law in the case of Rene Mireles Ruiz.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and John Paul Stevens voted to hear Ruiz's appeal, but four votes are needed to grant such review.

Ruiz was a passenger in a pickup truck stopped by police for running a red light the night of April 2, 1980.

Texas Department of Public Safety officers Richard Madden and Carlos Benavides told the truck's driver he would have to accompany them to a nearby police station to receive his traffic ticket — an inconvenience strongly objected to by Ruiz.

While waiting outside the police station for his companion, Ruiz allegedly yelled an epithet at Benavides, and allegedly made an obscene gesture. He was arrested, and subsequently convicted, of using abusive language.

Treated under Texas law as a form of disorderly conduct, it is a misdemeanor to use language "that by its very utterance tends to invite an immediate breach of the peace."

In arguing Ruiz's case to the Supreme Court, his American Civil Liberties Union lawyers noted that no violence or disturbance followed Ruiz's alleged cursing.

"It had no tendency to incite immediate violence, especially if uttered under these understandably annoying circumstances by a wholly innocent party who finds himself detained outside a police station while waiting for a friend," the appeal said.

In response, Texas prosecutors said Ruiz's conviction was justified, and that in the "context and circumstances" the law was properly applied to him.

The nation's highest court also:

- Refused to allow North Carolina to publish a prayer on its official state highway maps. The justices, without comment, left intact a ruling that the prayer, appearing on such maps since 1964, violates the constitutional separation of religion and government.
- Agreed to decide whether workers with access to confidential company information may belong to labor unions — an issue that could affect thousands of workers, especially in white-collar jobs.

A federal appeals court — in a ruling that applied only to workers in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin — said such workers could be barred from joining unions. The National Labor Relations Board has asked the Supreme Court to overrule the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals' ruling.

Hunt brothers seek geothermal leases

DALLAS (AP) — The wealthy Hunt brothers of Dallas, in the news the past year for efforts to buy large quantities of the world's soybean and silver supplies, are investing heavily in another natural resource — geothermal energy — according to The Washington Post.

Records on file with the U.S. Department of Interior show Nelson Bunker Hunt, W. Herbert Hunt, Lamar Hunt and several other members of the Hunt family, as well as various Hunt trusts and corporations, have obtained enough federal leases to make the family the largest single developer of geothermal energy, the newspaper reported.

In Sunday's editions, the Post said the Hunts have laid claim to approximately one-sixth of all the federal land leased for geothermal power exploration — 252 of the 1,600 leases issued by the Bureau of Land Management, accounting for about 480,000 of the federally controlled 2.9 million acres.

In addition, the story said records reveal the Hunts have applications pending for an additional 435,000 acres.

Geothermal energy refers to the use of underground deposits of extremely hot water and rock to provide heat or electricity on the earth's surface. The technology currently is primitive but geothermal sources provide much of San Francisco's electric power and the Department of Energy has estimated such underground heat may one day provide as much as 10 percent of United States energy needs.

Under current federal regulations, explorers may claim, without competitive bidding, the right to 10 years of geothermal exploration on federal lands in 12 western states. Those leases cost $1 per acre per year, with royalty payments due the government on any successful development.

Government records show that almost all the Hunt investments have been acquired through such non-competitive leases in Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Idaho and Utah, with pending leases in Arizona and California, the Post said Sunday.

Federal law limits the amount of geothermal land one individual may own to 20,480 acres but the Hunts have circumvented the requirement by putting leases in at least 20 different names, including other family members, corporations and trust funds —

Caretaker is honored here

Members of the First United Methodist Church paused Sunday to pay tribute to the church's senior employee, Lupe Rivera.

Lupe's beaming smile has brightened the church and cheered its members for 25 years. He is custodian of the church complex.

Dr. Jordan Grooms asked Lupe to move to Big Spring from Lamesa to accept the care and responsibility of the church property on March 3, 1956.

Only 23 at the time, it was a big decision for Rivera but he accepted it without hesitation.

The church rewarded him with an appropriately worded plaque and a check at the Sunday service.

Fruit fly fussy

DALLAS (AP) — For the next 28 days, California fruits and vegetables will be unwelcome in Texas, thanks to an emergency measure signed in Austin and upheld by a Dallas federal court judge.

The 30-day order, drafted by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, puts an embargo on imports of all California produce. Despite arguments from growers of potential financial ruin, U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham refused to block Brown's order in a Saturday night ruling.

Brown said he was responding to Texas farmers' fears that California products infested by the Mediterranean fruit fly would be brought into Texas, giving the tenacious pest a foothold in this state's farms and orchards.

California promises appeal of embargo

Higginbotham met with three attorneys representing the growers, then all four men held a conference call with Texas Attorney General Mark White.

Higginbotham's decision followed that conversation but he said his ruling probably would not be the last word on the matter because of a suit the State of California filed before the U.S. Supreme Court demanding the Texas order be struck down.

"It seems this will be a temporary holding pattern because the Supreme Court may take the case and obviate all our work," he said.

The Supreme Court sought an opinion from the U.S. Solicitor-General, whose response is expected Wednesday. Meanwhile, attorneys for the growers said they would appeal Higginbotham's order.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: Gerald M. Bailey, Trading and Doing Business As Gerald M. Bailey Company, Defendant in the Cause Numbered and styled hereunder.

You are hereby commanded to appear before the Honorable District Court, 11th Judicial District of Howard County, at the Courthouse in Big Spring, Texas, at or before 10:00 a.m. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two (42) days from Feb. 10, 1981, the date of issuance of this citation by filing a written answer to the Plaintiff's Petition that was filed in said court on October 27, 1980, Numbered 26,726 on the docket of said court, and styled Big Spring Welding Supply, Inc., Trading and Doing Business As General Welding Supply, Plaintiff vs. Gerald M. Bailey, Trading and Doing Business As Gerald M. Bailey Company, Defendant.

The nature of this suit, briefly stated, is one of the default on payment of a sworn account, which Plaintiff, for its cause of action, would respectfully show the court:

1. On or about October 29, 1979, and on various dates thereafter, the Defendant entered into any open account transaction where the Plaintiff sold and delivered to Defendant in the regular course of business various goods and merchandise.
2. Balance due and owing on said account is $22,054.46.
3. Plaintiff prays for judgment against Defendant for the balance of the account plus statutory interest, reasonable attorney's fees, costs in this cause and for such other relief Plaintiff is entitled.

The nature of this suit is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this action.

If this citation is not served within ninety (90) days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unfiled.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve it and make due return thereon according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof.

Issued under my hand and seal of said court at Big Spring, Texas, on the 10th day of February, 1981.
