Press Secretary Brady, body guards wounded; assailant is captured

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan was wounded in an assassination attempt today, a top White House aide said.

He was reported to be conscious and his condition was stable, according to Lyn Nofziger.

A White House spokesman had first said that Reagan was not hit when a gunman fired four to six shots at him as he emerged from the Washington Hilton Hotel.

Three other men were hit, including presidential press secretary James S. Brady.

"I can confirm that the president was shot once in the left side," Nofziger said at George Washington Hospital, where Reagan and Brady were taken.

Nofziger said, "The president was shot in the left chest. The bullet did not hit the heart."

"He is not undergoing surgery at this time," Nofziger, the White House political director, said. But, he added, "my understanding is the bullet is still in him."

Washington police said a Secret Service agent and a policeman also were wounded by the gunman. The policeman was reported in critical condition at the Washington Hospital Center.

A sandy haired man was hustled into custody. The Secret Service confirmed that one man had been arrested outside the hotel.

A television cameraman who was near the alleged assailant said Brady was shot in the forehead. The cameraman said the gunman "just opened up and started firing," about 10 feet from Reagan.

Washington police said at least four shots were fired. A reporter's tape recorder picked up six loud reports.

The burst of gunfire sounded as Reagan left the Washington Hilton Hotel after addressing a union convention. The president strode smiling from the hotel and walked toward his limousine a few paces away. He turned to acknowledge the shouts of "Mr. President" from newsmen seeking to question him.

Then came the burst of gunfire, at least four shots, perhaps as many as six.

Reagan appeared momentarily stunned. Secret Service agents drew their pistols as others hustled Reagan into the limousine. One shot apparently hit the automobile before Reagan got into it, blasting a hole in the rear window.

Bush flying to Washington

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Vice President George Bush flew to Washington Monday after learning President Ronald Reagan had been wounded in an assassination attempt, according to a Bush spokesman.

Bush's plane departed Carswell Air Force Base on the west side of Fort Worth at 1:43 p.m. CST, about five minutes after receiving word of the shooting.

According to a report by the Fort Worth Star Telegram, an employee in the Secret Service office downtown saw the televised report of the shooting, notified the command post at the Hyatt Regency, where Bush had spoken, and the command post radioed the vice president at Carswell.

Bush's plans had called for him to fly to Austin for a speech before a joint session of the Legislature Monday afternoon.

He delivered a noon luncheon address to the Southwestern Cattle Raisers.

"There was some pushing and shoving when the president went into the car, but the president was not seriously hurt," deputy presidential press secretary Larry Speakes had first said.

The scene outside the hotel was one of pandemonium. There were shouts from security men and a crowd quickly gathered at the hotel, about a mile from the White House.

The Secret Service said John Warnock Hinkley Jr., 22, of Evergreen, Colo., was arrested. Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner said the suspect had fired a .38-caliber revolver.

Reagan sixth assassination target this century

By the Associated Press
President Reagan is the sixth U.S. president in this century who was the target of an assassination attempt. Two of the six, William McKinley and John F. Kennedy, were killed.

The shots fired at Reagan on Monday marked the first assassination attempt on a woman tried to shoot President Ford in separate incidents in northern California in September 1975.

Earlier in the century, on Sept. 6, 1901, McKinley was shot during an appearance in Buffalo, N.Y. He died eight days later. The man convicted of the crime was executed a little more than a month later. On Oct. 12, 1914, a man in Milwaukee shot and seriously wounded former President Theodore Roosevelt and on Nov. 1, 1950, two men identified as members of a Puerto Rican nationalist movement tried to shoot their way into Blair House in Washington, D.C., in an attempt to kill President Truman.

Kennedy was killed in November 1963 in Dallas. Lee Harvey Oswald was arrested for the crime but was shot and killed by Jack Ruby before he could be tried. Ruby died while legal proceedings were still pending in the Oswald shooting.

The first attempt against Ford came in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 5 as Ford was walking to the state Capitol for an address to the legislature. As Ford shook hands with a crowd that lined his route, Lynette Alice "Squeaky" Fromme, 26, a follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, pulled out a Colt .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol and pointed it at the president. A Secret Service agent grabbed Ms. Fromme's hand. The gun did not go off and the president was not hurt.

Barely two weeks later, on Monday Sept. 22, as Ford walked to his limousine as he left the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, a single shot rang out. The gun was deflected and the bullet missed the president's head by five feet.

Threatened strike canceled

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The independent union Solidarity today called off a nationwide general strike threatened for Tuesday over the beating of three union members, the Polish news agency PAP said.

The decision was made after talks with government officials at which progress had been reported toward meeting union demands for punishment of those responsible for the beatings.

There was no immediate word on terms that led to calling off the strike which government officials had said would lead to catastrophic consequences in this Soviet bloc country racked by labor and economic turmoil.

PAP said the negotiators were preparing a joint communique. The talks were between Lech Walesa, leader of the Solidarity independent union, and Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski.

Warsaw Pact military maneuvers continued in and around Poland, an ominous background to the talks. The Soviet news agency Tass quoted a Polish Communist Party official as saying, regarding a general strike, "our country has no reserves that would enable it to survive this catastrophe economically. Therefore the structure of our state and its very survival are at stake."

After flexing its muscles in a four-hour warning strike Friday, the union, angered by the beating of three members in Bydgoszcz on March 19, threatened an indefinite general strike starting at 6 a.m. Tuesday (11 p.m. EST tonight) if its demands are not met in the last-ditch talks. The chief demand is dismissal of those responsible for the beatings.

Howard College would gain despite reduced funding

By DANA PALMER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — These days, officials with the state's 47 junior colleges are acting a bit like merchants told to ignore inflation, hold down prices and keep customers happy with the service.

Their smiles are strained, especially as they parade before one legislative committee after another looking for an increase in state funding.

Thursday, they made their last official, and perhaps most difficult, legislative visit — a presentation to the House Appropriations Committee chaired by Rep. Bill Prenal of Bryan.

Prenal is the enemy to some. It's his proposed House appropriations bill, drawn up with the help of House Speaker Bill Clayton, that would cut the $819 million requested by the community colleges to $611 million.

Even the state's budget experts, members of the Legislative Budget Board, have recommended a trim to only $723 million.

But $611 million — that's keeping junior college officials awake at night wondering how they're hold down costs while enrollment and demands for more expensive technical courses increases.

Also, because of inflation and lack of adequate funding by the legislature during the 1970s, local taxpayers have borne the burden of additional instructional costs in order to maintain quality programs, according to a written statement provided the appropriations committee by Dr. Jean Richardson.

Richardson is president of Del Mar College in Corpus Christi and co-chairman of the Texas Public Community Junior College Association's finance committee.

"Many local districts are reaching the limit of their tax rates," he adds, "therefore, increased state funding must be made available or colleges will be forced to cut faculty and programs."

While the state forced junior colleges to live with a 3.4 percent inflation factor in the 1977-78 and 1978-79 academic years, Richardson says, the actual inflation rates were 6.8 percent and 8.3 percent, respectively.

Those comparisons were 5.1 percent to 13.3 percent in 1979-80 and 5.1 percent to an estimated 16 percent or more for the 1980-81 school year.

Despite the figures, Prenal calls the junior college's original request a "pie-in-the-sky figure" and one that "sticks out like a sore thumb."

Richardson doesn't agree with that assessment, but he says the $723 million LBB proposal, as well as the similar Senate version of the appropriations bill, "is a sensible compromise."

"The House appropriations bill would actually give some colleges a decrease in funding next year over this year," he says. Among those colleges that would lose money next year are Cisco Junior College at Cisco ($94,000 less), Galveston College ($32,000 less), Grayson County College at Denison ($13,939) and Lee Junior College at Baytown ($92,000).

Other community colleges would gain a bit, Richardson says, but not enough.

Some of those slight gains next year would be at Bee County Junior College at Beeville ($568,895), Blinn College at Brenham ($214,521), Del Mar College ($945,090), Henderson County Junior College at Athens ($968,720), Howard College at Big Spring ($299,967), Laredo Junior College ($743,496), Midland College ($374,173), Navarro County Junior College at Corsicana ($493,191) and Odessa College ($355,081).

Such lean funding is justified, Prenal says, in part, because junior college enrollment is falling off.

Not so, says Richardson. Figures he supplied to Prenal's committee show that junior college enrollment in Texas has increased 191 percent in the last 12 years, and in the last five years has increased steadily at an annual rate ranging from 2.6 percent in 1979 and the 5.8 percent in 1980.

Richardson also supplied enrollment figures for the last two academic years at all 47 community and junior colleges.

Some of those enrollment percentages in the academic and vocational areas include:

— Bee County, a 3.5 percent decrease in the academic program and 16.2 percent increase in the vocational training.

— Blinn, a 1.5 percent drop in the academic and 32.1 percent increase in the vocational.

— Cisco, a 14.6 percent drop in academic enrollment and 7.8 percent drop in vocational.

— Del Mar, 2.7 and 4.2 percent increases.

— Grayson, 1.9 increase in academic and 14.3 drop in vocational.

— Henderson, 13.8 and 45.5 percent increases.

— Howard, 15.3 and 17.6 percent increases.

— Laredo, 2.1 and 28.2 percent increases.

— Midland, 8.9 and 7.7 percent increases.

— Navarro, 11.8 and 22.8 percent increases.

— Odessa, 2.0 and 2.4 percent increases.

— Panola, 10.9 percent decrease and 19.6 percent increase.

— Paris, 8.0 and 1.6 percent increases.

— Ranger, 2.4 and 17.8 percent increases.

— Southwest Texas, 6.3 and 24.5 percent increases.

— Texas Southmost, 11.7 percent increase and 7.3 percent decrease.

— Western Texas, 5.0 percent increase and 4.2 percent decrease.

Not only is increased enrollment and inflation putting the squeeze on junior colleges, Richardson says, but more students are shifting from the standard academic programs to more costly technical training courses.

Despite the Prenal-Clayton appropriations bill, Richardson says, he's more optimistic now than he has been in recent weeks.

The House Higher Education Committee has gone along for the most part with the LBB recommendation.

As for the Prenal-chaired appropriations committee, "we think we've got a predominate number of members in support of our position ... particularly on the LBB funding rate," he says.

What funding rate the state will use is at the heart of the junior college travels to Austin.

Worked out by the Texas College and University Systems Coordinating Board, the rate or formula essentially takes the average cost of teaching a class, adds an inflation factor and then multiplies that amount by the number of students taking the course.

The formula figures, however, constantly lag behind the actual ones and junior colleges have to work to keep up with their costs, especially if enrollment is increasing.

In some cases, Richardson says, local taxes could be increased to make up for the decline in state funds, "but the vast majority of schools will have to live with what they received this year or less."

Families get threatening phone calls

A man identifying himself as the brother of a local murder suspect and an unidentified female have been making telephone calls to several local people recently, threatening them with bodily harm.

The man accused of murder was arrested here last week and was lodged in the county jail after he had been formally charged with suspicion of homicide in connection with the death of a woman and aggravated assault for an alleged attack upon her sister.

According to police reports, the two callers telephoned the family of Jessie Esqueib Sr., 606 N. Goliad, several times between Thursday and Saturday to utter the threats.

In addition, the male caller allegedly made threatening calls to the family of Johnny Talamantez, 1512 Tucson. Talamantez told police several of his relatives were also threatened.

In a separate incident, Katherine Reiner says she was threatened by telephone by a female voice Saturday night, who reportedly told her a woman was going to do her bodily harm. Reiner was at a local radio station when the call occurred.

Members of the Big Spring Police Department are conducting an investigation in connection with the cases. It is unknown at this time if the cases are related.

Bentsen, Tower agree on dairy price issue

WASHINGTON — Congress this week concluded debate on a bill eliminating on April 1 increase in dairy price supports.

SENATE: DAIRY PRICE SUPPORT BILL: The Senate spent the week wrapping up debate on the dairy price support bill which cancels on April 1 increase in milk price supports.

An amended version of the bill was approved Wednesday by a vote of 88-5. The first amendment attached to the bill expressed the sense of the Senate that the embargo on grain exports to the Soviet Union should be lifted. Tied to this amendment was another stating the Senate's opinion that if the embargo on an exporting agricultural products to the Soviet Union remains, no imports from that country should be allowed to enter the United States.

The House approved the dairy price support bill by voice vote Thursday.

Elimination of the increase in dairy price supports will result in an estimated savings of $147 million this year and $80 million in 1982. Members of the Senate cite the bill as the first step in reducing government expenditures. The semi-annual raises in previous years have encouraged farmers to increase production, knowing they are guaranteed a good price for their surplus crops from the federal government.

The vote on the dairy price support bill was: FOR: John Tower (R), Lloyd Bentsen, (D).

Oscars reap gold at box office

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After spending nearly $3 million on an advertising blitz to promote the nominees, the film industry is awaiting the results of tonight's Academy Awards with visions of bulging box-office receipts. The 13 1/2-inch, gold-plated statuette may look prestigious on a shelf, but the real gold associated with the Oscars comes in different forms. For instance, a winner such as last year's best actress — Sally Field, star of "Norma Rae" — could expect a "jump" of several hundred thousand dollars for each subsequent film and the pick of scripts. The best-picture award often means an extra $5 million to $10 million at the box office, according to industry experts, as well as increased revenue from television, cable and other markets. Film companies attempted to sway Academy voters by spending between $2 million and $3 million on trade paper advertisements, special screenings and the like during the past weeks. After the awards are announced, new ads will tout the winners. United Artists expanded the potential audience for "Raging Bull" by bringing it into 690 theaters last Friday. The film was nominated for eight awards, and its star, Robert De Niro, is the favorite to win as best actor. Said a company spokesman: "The film market is slow right now, and we're hoping that 'Raging Bull' will pick up a number of Oscars."

More Texas beef will be available in stores

AUSTIN — Slightly more Texas beef will be available in supermarkets soon with cattle slaughter up one percent in February over last year's rate, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported. Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service totals for February show cattle slaughter up by 3 percent to 461,800 head and calves up 19 percent to 14,100. "Slaughtering plants reported a drop of eight percent for beef in February from the previous month," Brown said, "but this increase indicates that the upward movement in the cattle cycle is beginning to be felt in the slaughter market. When January and February totals are combined, the number of cattle slaughtered is up by two percent, and calf slaughter is up 20 percent. "Interest rates are still hampering a steady flow of cattle into the feedlots," Brown said. "Cattle producers are hoping for a break soon in the costs of production. This increase is a necessary one because cattle can be held off the market only a short time before the producer begins to lose more money." Total red meat production in Texas for the first two months of 1981 was 663 million pounds, virtually unchanged from the same period in 1980. Slaughter totals for livestock other than cattle decreased: hogs down two percent to 117,000 head; sheep and lambs down six percent to 88,400 head. Commercial red meat production for the United States in February 1981 totaled 3.01 billion pounds, down one percent from February 1980. Paramount, with "Ordinary People," expected to win best picture, had no plans to widen the film's release, although it certainly would accept new bookings. The film is now playing in 400 theaters. The film's director, Robert Redford, is considered a good bet for best director. Universal, with Sissy Spacek the favorite as best actress in "Coal Miner's Daughter," doesn't plan to rerelease its film. Said Gordon Armstrong, the company's advertising, publicity and promotion vice president: "The last trip around was not too successful, and the picture has about played itself out. An Oscar is not too important unless it's for best picture and/or a lot of awards." Industry experts note the annual celebration by the Academy of Motion Pictures, Arts and Sciences also has an impact worldwide. This year's telecast will be viewed in 65 countries with an audience predicted to be 300 million. The ABC television network will carry the ceremonies in the United States, beginning at 10 p.m. EST. Johnny Carson returns as emcee, and Lucie Arnaz stars in the opening number, appropriately entitled "Hooray for Hollywood!"

AN OPEN LETTER TO FARMERS AND LANDOWNERS IN THE WEST TEXAS AREA: Farming is rapidly changing from the days when our main concerns were hail, insects, not enough rain, too much rain, too hot, too cold, blowing sand, or early frost just to name a few. On top of these old bugaboos we now have to be concerned with higher interest rates, higher fuel, seed, fertilizer, chemical and labor costs not to mention the effects inflation has on our profit picture. We at Howard County and Glasscock County Federal Crop Insurance understand these things because we are farmers ourselves. We know that crop year 1980 is one that would be best forgotten but we also know that it will not be easily forgotten because it will take the profits from many of the coming years to make up for the losses or loss of profits from 1980. From what many of our customers from this past year have told us, Federal Crop Insurance has been a life-saver. Some have even said it has been the difference of whether they stayed in farming or were forced out. We don't need to tell you how devastating another crop failure can be. You knew the risks when you started putting up your land for the 1981 crop year. We do need to tell you about all-risk crop insurance. Our past experience as agents for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, coupled with our knowledge of farming, makes us feel that we are well qualified to tailor a coverage that best fits your farming operation and give you the best service available to your policy. Under the auspices of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, we are now authorized to sell and service Federal Crop Insurance in Howard, Glasscock, Martin, Borden, Midland, Reagan-Upton, Mitchell, Dawson, Andrews, Gaines, and Scurry Counties. The decision is yours to make. If you didn't have Federal Crop Insurance last year, don't make the same mistake twice. Call Lonnie Nichols at 915-263-1263 or Bennie Blissard at 915-354-2411 and let us show you how Federal Crop Insurance can pay off in good years and in bad years. Final date to insure your crop is March 31, 1981.

West Point cadets to visit Tuesday

The captain of the West Point football team, Stan March, and fellow football letterman, Andy Evans, both from Texas, will be speaking to local high school students and the general public in the Big Spring area Tuesday. March, highest ranking cadet in the United States Military Academy Corps of Cadets, will discuss football techniques with the Big Spring High School football team in the early morning and present general assemblies about the USMA in Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, later in the day. The Big Spring YMCA will host a 6 p.m. presentation, open to the public, covering the West Point football and physical fitness programs and including USMA football films. All Big Spring area residents, especially high school students, are encouraged to meet the West Point cadets. Stan March, a defensive tackle who made 89 tackles during the 1980 football season, was presented the 1980 National Collegiate Athletic Association Scholar-Athlete Award by the National Football Foundation in December. The three-year football letterman, who has maintained a 3.56 grade point average while at West Point, was recruited by Stanford, Auburn, and Princeton Universities before selecting the USMA.

Andy Evans, another three-year football letterman, is the strongest member of the West Point team, specializing in weightlifting. The defensive tackle senior cadet was limited by a knee injury to only 15 tackles during the 1980 playing season, but picked up 12 pounds of muscle weight during the team's weight lifting program. More information about appearance, times and places can be obtained from the Big Spring Army recruiter, SSGT. Monte R. Cleveland, at 109 East Third Street or by calling 267-5249.

All the candidates will be 'winners'

Some people are prone to say they won't cast a ballot in one election or another because "the status quo never changes." Others never feel they can spare the time to express their prerogatives. Still others use a negative approach when they go to the polls, intent on voting "against" one individual or another rather than "for" someone.

Big Spring is having two elections next Saturday. In them a dozen public-minded citizens decided that they can reshape their schedules to serve their communities. Two seats will be at stake on the Big Spring ISD school board while as many will be up for grabs on the city council.

Public servants like school board members and council persons often take a lot of flak from people who have selfish interests or who have axes to grind. The elected officials absorb entirely too much verbal abuse under such circumstances. Their's is a 'labor of love.' Invariably, they are asked to meet at times when they could be at home with their families or promoting their own interests. And they have to make decisions that are not always popular.

Some of the candidates are veterans of the campaign trail who feel they can still make a contribution in helping promote the common good. Others are offering for public office for the first time.

No one is ever going to get rich serving on city councils or school boards, but few people are in a position to make the kind of contribution for the betterment of mankind that they do.

Each of the candidates who announced for public office here said, in so many words, that he or she felt they owed the community something for enriching their lives. Each wanted to repay it by serving in one capacity or another.

IF THE CONSTITUENCY shows as much interest in Saturday's election as the candidates manifested in announcing for office, then we'll have a banner turnout of voters. Surely most everyone can take 30 minutes out of his or her day to go to the polls and cast his or her ballot.

In a way, it's a shame all 12 people who are running for office can't serve in one capacity or another. One thing is for sure: There will be no losers among the candidates, only some who got fewer votes than others.

As long as there are good people willing to serve the public on panels like the school board and the city council, there is hope for this country.

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

I never was a horoscope reader. The only time I ever read it is annually on my birthday. I always want to see what kind of year it's going to be.

BUT LAST WEEK, I think it would have been best if I had read my horoscope. It would have said something like this.

MONDAY — Don't go mixing bean sprouts with spaghetti sauce, even by accident. Italian food and Chinese food just don't go together and it makes the frying pan choke.

TUESDAY — Don't call either of them. They'll wonder why you're calling in the middle of the week and they'll keep asking what you feel guilty about to be calling — and you have something to feel guilty about. Why do they always know?

WEDNESDAY — Don't think your're house is your's any time of the day or night when you are sharing it with a mother cat and four kittens. Just go on the assumption that the mother has taken over the house and the kittens are going to start crying just as you're tailing asleep.

THURSDAY — Don't try to figure why someone is arrogant and conceited when he has nothing to be arrogant and conceited about. There's only one of Him and you're not it, honey.

FRIDAY — Don't trust your new water tank. It's noisy and has let me know of its presence all week long.

SATURDAY — This is the day you should not be playing pool. I misunderstood and didn't go swimming. It should have said, "Don't get behind the eight ball." I played, but it's a good thing it wasn't for money.

THAT'S THE WAY my horoscope should have read, but they never do. They either tell me to stay out of heavy financial matters or that I'm going to meet someone who will change my life. And they always say it several different ways.

I'm going to follow my gut instincts. Maybe bean sprouts and spaghetti sauce don't taste so bad together after all.

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — In James Bond circles, nothing is so farfetched to be dismissed. The Central Intelligence Agency, for example, has been toying for years with the idea of using extrasensory perception in its work — spurred on by the suspicion that the Russians have somehow succeeded in opening an ESP gap.

I've already reported on the Pentagon's $6-million-a-year research to develop ESP weapons that can brainwash or incapacitate enemy leaders by thought transfer, deliver nuclear bombs instantaneously thousands of miles away by psychic energy, or even create a protective "time warp" to make incoming Soviet missiles explode harmlessly in the past.

THESE WACKY PROJECTS have support from the Defense Intelligence Agency, which reports that the Russians have been doing intensive research in the field for nearly 50 years. The DIA even credits the omnipotent Kremlin scientists with successfully demonstrating ESP's deadly potential on insects, a possibility that should bring joy to farmers and backyard gardeners — and strike terror in the insecticide industry.

The CIA, though historically less alarmist about the Red Menace than the Pentagon spooks are, has also been monitoring Soviet ESP research and pondering the possibility of less bizarre psychic weapons. A top-secret report on the subject by a CIA scientific expert has been examined by my associate Dale Van Atta.

The analysts estimated that "the Soviet military and KGB have had a covert applied parapsychology program since the mid-1960s." This was the period when the CIA was experimenting with hallucinogenic drugs on unsuspecting Americans and with foot powder that would make Fidel Castro's beard fall out.

THE CIA WARNS that the Soviets may be "ahead of the U.S. in parapsychology." Evidence of Soviet progress is sketchy because the Kremlin's voodoo scientists, the CIA suspects, have gone undercover. Intelligence sources estimate that at least 200 Soviet experts in various disciplines are working on ESP weapons development.

The CIA report identified several specific areas of suspected Soviet study:

— "Electrostatics of telekinesis," or the ability to move objects by mental concentration.

— "Extremely low frequencies of electromagnetic radiation for information transmission." This may have been what the KGB was up to when it bombarded the U.S. Embassy in Moscow with microwave radiation for nearly 20 years.

— Application of theories involving links between the way the human brain and electronic computers operate.

— Remote monitors and stimulators to determine — or influence — another person's physical condition by telepathy, like a Haitian witch doctor might try.

— High-frequency analysis of an electroencephalogram — a sort of wiretapping of someone's brain waves.

The area of Soviet ESP research that really has the CIA's mouth watering is the possibility of "remote viewing" by telepathy from thousands of miles away. Who'd need a mole in the Kremlin if a psychic sitting at a desk in Washington could zoom in mentally on a super-secret Soviet missile site or a Politburo meeting?

UNDER THE DOME: House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., appears to be cracking under the strain of his job. He has taken to composing such literary gems as "Uncle Bob's Primer for Big Spenders." Excerpts: "See Big Spenders run in 1980. See Big Spenders lose in 1980... See Big Spenders forgetting the lessons of 1980. See Big Spenders run in 1982. Lose, Big Spenders, lose." Another effort, inspired by the old song, "Is You Is or Is You Ain't My

Cabinet non-government

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The Reagan Cabinet system spent a month wrestling with Japanese auto imports only to reach a non-solution to worrisome that at the March 19 Cabinet meeting Deputy Secretary of State William P. Clark had to come to the rescue.

Clark expressed the absent Secretary Alexander Haig's wishes that the State Department take the lead in trade talks with Japan, putting Special Trade Representative William Brock in a supporting role. Quick agreement meant that the State Department, not deeply involved until now, was coming in to execute policy after failure of Cabinet government to shape it clearly in its first serious test.

The administration consensus reached was U.S. support for a "unilateral voluntary quota" on Japanese auto exports, but nobody in the administration is quite sure what that means. Who will determine whether the quota — "unilaterally" and "voluntarily" set by Tokyo — is too high? The arrival on stage by the State Department insures the Japanese will not be roughed up to "unilaterally volunteer" a quota smaller than they want.

THAT SCARCELY AMOUNTS to coherent administration policy. The new Cabinet system has failed to approach agreement on an issue where President Reagan himself is ambivalent. This suggests the chaos that would have ensued in the Cabinet over tax policy had not Reagan's position been so hard in pressing for rate reduction.

Instead of presenting the president with a unified recommendation on auto imports, the Cabinet exposed its own inherent splits. These disagreements transcend the auto import crisis and go to the basic question of governmental intervention in the economy.

Three millionaire businessmen in the Cabinet — Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and Labor Secretary Ray Donovan — favor intimate cooperation between government, business and organized labor in rebuilding the economy. Heads of those departments are not ordinarily involved intimately in drafting high economic policy, traditionally a Treasury function.

But under the Reagan Cabinet system, a task force on the auto industry headed by Lewis very nearly established a limit on Japanese imports as administration policy. The traditional economic policy-making departments, headed by the Treasury, belatedly counter-attacked against what they called Lewis's "runaway" task force.

By March 11, Lewis had been stopped cold; the Cabinet was hopelessly split. Treasury and the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) wanted the issue taken to the president's desk in disagreement. But Lewis protested, contending this violated Cabinet government. Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan was talked into it, giving the protectionists more time to finagle a low quota or other import limitation.

The complicating factor was that nobody was entirely certain what the president would do if the matter reached him in disagreement. "The old man is not all that tough on this one," one anti-quota White House aide confided to us. Worried about the sick auto industry, Reagan is torn between free trade philosophy and his sympathy for the U.S. companies and workers.

That led to a March 17 Cabinet-level luncheon out of which leaked inaccurate reports about capitulation by Treasury and OMB to a Japanese quota. The only agreement was on the "unilateral voluntary" quota now so deeply steeped in ambiguity.

Tests can be misleading

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What does it mean if your potassium is abnormally high? I had a blood test at a senior citizen center and got a report it was high. Do I need a special diet? — D.M.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please write about high potassium, which I have. What can one do about it? Is it caused by food? — A.C.

Blood tests don't necessarily lie, but they can be quite misleading and disturbing.

There are only a few illnesses that cause high blood potassium. Kidney failure can do it, as can a disease of the adrenal glands. The adrenals make a special hormone to help rid the body of potassium, so a gland disturbance might cause chronic high potassium level.

On the other hand, muscle cells can be damaged in a severe injury and spill potassium into the blood, causing a temporary rise.

Now, about blood tests themselves. Red blood cells can be damaged when a specimen is drawn from the vein for a test. Potassium is released, giving a false reading. I know this all too well. I have done this to a number of my patients. It's harmless.

About food. We are pretty good at keeping our potassium levels in the right range if there is no kidney or adrenal gland disturbance. Even though potassium is in most foods, you would have to eat prodigious quantities of high-potassium foods to make the potassium blood level rise. Perhaps if one gorged exclusively on bananas day in and day out, the level might rise.

Since neither of you has indicated any of the illnesses I mentioned, I suspect your readings were high because something happened to the blood when it was taken. An athlete who has been through a bruising football game, for example, might have a high potassium blood reading immediately afterward.

Because both of you seem disturbed by your reports, I suggest you ease your mind by having another test.

Chronic high potassium does require treatment because it interferes with normal heart action. If the blood level gets quite high, profound and even fatal changes in the heart beat can occur. These are exceptional cases, however.

I hope I haven't overanswered your questions. Because there is so much blood testing being done these days, many of my readers express concerns about routine test findings of blood chemicals. I've never seen a blood specimen in which all the many components have been right on the money. Usually, the kinds of harmless factors mentioned above are at work.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please discuss acne rosacea. I am 66 years old and was never bothered with it before. I went to a dermatologist and he prescribed tetracycline and hydrocortisone ointment and said to use a sunscreen lotion. That was six months ago. Now it is back on my face again. According to his advice, alcoholic beverages, hot coffee or tea, also sunlight can make it worse. I avoid those. I would appreciate it if you could find room in your column to give me more information. — Mrs. M.C.S.

Acne rosacea (Koe-ZAY-see-uh) is a redness of the face, often with little pimples, most commonly found in the center of the forehead or on the nose and cheeks. The cause is not known, but it does develop especially in those who from early years blushed easily or turned red quickly after brief exposure to the sun. It usually appears in the 40s or 50s and most often in women.

You are getting good advice. You have to avoid hot liquids, spicy foods, alcohol, skin irritants, also excessive exposure to heat or cold. The sunscreen is an excellent idea. The tetracycline is to get rid of the pimples. Hydrocortisone cream is frequently prescribed.

You are doing just about everything you should, and even though it has reappeared, I'll bet that with the care you're continuing to give it, you will notice a lessening. Just to get in my own two cents worth, I'll suggest that you shampoo your hair frequently to reduce its oiliness. That would be especially helpful if the rosacea were on your forehead.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it true that very long thick hair can be weakening? — P.S.

No.

Acne is a terrible problem for anyone growing up. If you are afflicted with it, or have children who are, write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, for a copy of his booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Not all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. For a copy of the new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: A friend of mine is involved in some things that he knows are wrong, but he says it doesn't really matter because God will forgive him anyway. Somehow this doesn't seem right to me. Is it? — D.R.R.

DEAR D.R.R.: No, it is not right. It is certainly true that God loves us and graciously forgives us our sins when we turn to him. But forgiveness only comes when we repent of sin, and that means we are not only sorry for our sins but we also turn our backs on it and leave it behind. When we knowingly sin with the idea that "someday" we will let God forgive them, we are not being honest with God.

There are several things your friend should realize. One is that sin is an offense to God. When we deliberately sin against God, we are turning our back on him. We are ruling our own lives, rather than letting our Creator guide us. "You are not a God who takes pleasure in evil; with you the wicked cannot dwell. The arrogant cannot stand in your presence; you hate all who do wrong" (Psalm 5:4-5).

Do you want to know how much God hates sin? He hates it so much that he was willing to let his only son die on the cross so that sin would be defeated.

Also, your friend should remember that sin tends to harden us, and that as the years go by it will become less and less likely that he will truly repent. How does he know that he will eventually turn to Christ, or even that he will have a chance to turn to him, since death can come suddenly and unexpectedly to any one of us? That is why the Bible urges, "Now is the time of God's favor, now is the day of salvation" (II Corinthians 6:2). It also commands, "Seek the Lord while he may be found; call on him while he is near. Let the wicked forsake his way and the evil man his thoughts. Let him turn to the Lord, and he will have mercy on him, and to our God, for he will freely pardon" (Isaiah 55:6-7).

Pray for your friend that he will truly repent and put his faith in Christ. And remember that Christ wants to come into your life also and forgive you if you have never trusted him.

Couple's 'True Love' Tested by Past

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old girl who needs your help. In my teens I did a lot of drugs and drank alcohol because I was never at peace with myself unless I was sleeping or stoned.

I'm straight now and have accepted Jesus as my personal savior. I still live with my parents, but I feel like a prisoner because I'm not allowed to make my own decisions.

Three months ago I met a wonderful Christian man who has also had his problems with drugs and alcohol. (I'll call him Tom.) Tom is on parole now. We are very much in love and plan to marry. He says he will not have sex with me until after we are married. He is kind and good and treats me with respect. Abby, this love is true. I know we can make it together.

My parents have never met Tom. I'm afraid to introduce him because I know they won't approve of him. Tom wants to meet them, but I've been putting it off because I'm afraid they will make him feel uncomfortable and hurt his feelings. I plan to marry Tom with or without my parents' approval. Tom's father is the only one who knows about our plans.

Should I risk causing a family fight by introducing Tom and telling my parents of our plans? Or should I go ahead and marry him and prove afterward that we can make it together?

TORMENTED

DEAR TORMENTED: Introduce Tom to your parents. (If you don't, he will think you are ashamed of him.)

Feeling "tormented" as you do, please confide in your clergyman and let him counsel you. It would be a mistake to marry Tom while so many doubts and fears exist. If your love is "true," marriage can wait until you are absolutely sure. Please heed this advice and write again soon. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting a baby in about three months and have been very careful not to smoke, drink or even consume caffeine during my pregnancy. I hope to continue to give our baby the most healthful environment possible after he (or she) is born.

The problem is my mother-in-law. She is a heavy smoker, and I would prefer that she not subject our baby to her secondhand smoke. Studies have confirmed the theory that babies who have been exposed to secondhand smoke have a higher incidence of respiratory illness.

My mother-in-law smokes one cigarette after another and she's anything but gracious when she's told her smoke is bothersome or irritating.

After our baby comes, my husband and I intend to ask her to please step outside if she wants to smoke. But what if it's raining or dark outside?

MRS. S., PARKDALE, ORE.

DEAR MRS. S.: If it's raining, give her an umbrella. And if it's dark, give her a flashlight.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the 17-year-old sitter who complained that her $1 per hour baby-sitting wage was the same as her mother made when she was a girl.

I'm 33, and 17 years ago I sat for 25¢ an hour and was glad to get the job. One family had five children from 10 years old to a year. I changed diapers, fed them all dinner, bathed them and put them to bed, all for the same 25¢ an hour. It was part of my job.

I now have a 6-year-old son for whom I need sitters. I pay $1.50 an hour, and when the sitter comes my son has already had his dinner and bath and is ready for bed.

I've had some sitters who have eaten up a week's supply of groceries — with some help from their friends who have visited without my consent. Others have gone through my drawers, used my cosmetics, tried on my clothes, gabbled for hours on my phone, entertained their boyfriends (on my bed), smoked pot and scratched my albums.

Once had a sitter ask me not to call her again because I didn't have a color television!

RSVP observes its 10th anniversary in Austin

Joy Decker, Retired Senior Volunteer Program project director, and three RSVP volunteers and advisory council members, attended a special recognition of the tenth anniversary of the Retired Senior Volunteer Programs in Austin March 24. Walter and Suncha Christensen and Aven Shipman accompanied her.

Project directors with one or more volunteers the 31 projects in Texas gathered at the State Capitol for the celebration. Gov. Clements recognized the representative volunteers from each project, and gave a proclamation naming the week of March 24 as RSVP week, kicking off the year long celebration of the 10th Anniversary of the Program.

After the proclamation, the group of about 350 delegates gathered in the Sam Houston Building where Robert Hernandez, state director, told of the beginning days of getting the projects started, and of the growth to over 17,000 RSVP volunteers in Texas.

Hernandez introduced Pete Rodriguez, regional director, who, after a brief speech, recognized the volunteers involvement with RSVP. He also recognized the project directors and representative volunteers

Physician describes hypertension

"It would be better if hypertension hurt a little bit," is the observation of Norman Kaplan, MD, Director of Research Programs, American Heart Association.

Unfortunately, high blood pressure produces no symptoms during the first ten to twenty years of the disease, despite damage to the blood vessels all over the body, Dr. Kaplan explains. Physicians encounter "tremendous resistance when they tell someone who doesn't feel bad that they need to take medication, stop smoking, shed excess pounds, exercise regularly, and follow other medical guidelines."

In the current issue of Ladies Home Journal, Anderson says, "I was thought of as being sexy, but I was never thought of as being a sex symbol until I became a blond." In an interview in the magazine, she also says that her professional success has created problems in her personal life and may cost her her marriage while putting a strain on her relationship with her 16-year-old daughter.

Butchers tips on best meat buys

To pick out the best meat for your money at the supermarket meat counter, keep these tips in mind from the current Family Circle article "Save up to $1,000 a Year on Beef," written by Emile Taylor, a former butcher, founder of a New Jersey meat-cutting school and author of an upcoming book on meat.

Color: beef can be purple, dark red, light red or pink. The lighter the color, the younger the animal and the more tender the meat.

Marbling: In top-quality meat, white flecks or streaks of fat appear within the lean parts; this is called marbling. It lubricates the meat while it cooks and helps retain the natural juices. The finer the marbling, the younger the animal and more tender the meat will be. Marbling indicates that the meat is from a healthy, grain-fed animal.

Fat: Meat gets part of its flavor from the fat that rims a cut. Beef fat should be firm and white in color — not grayish or yellow. Grayish fat indicates the meat has been in the case too long, and the meat juices were absorbed into the fat. Yellow fat results from a substance in grass on which an animal feeds; it suggests a lower-quality meat.

Firmness & texture: The firmer the meat, the better the quality. Smooth-textured meat is tender; meat with a coarse and grainy surface is less tender.

Bones: Visible surface bone should be whitish — sometimes with a little redness in it, but not gray or black. Gray or black bones indicate that the meat is a few days old and may have deteriorated.

Liquid loss: The drier the package, the fresher tasting the meat will be. A package of meat with liquid in it means the meat has been in the case too long. Liquid loss results in loss of flavor, tenderness weight and nutrients.

State second in Pentagon contracts

Military spending good for Texas, Tower claims

By STEVE SNIDER
States News Service

WASHINGTON — Despite proposed severe cuts in social programs, Sen. John Tower assured reporters recently, "In terms of federal spending, we (Texans) will be net gainers when you factor in military spending."

Even critics of that spending agree with Tower's assessment, but add a warning seldom heard as Congress readies the largest peacetime military buildup in history.

"An analysis of all 50 states shows that over 60 percent of the U.S. public lives in states which suffer a net job loss every time the military budget goes up," said economist Marton Anderson in a recent report on unemployment and the Pentagon budget.

Anderson and her colleagues at Employment Research Associates in Lansing, Mich., have spent years compiling statistics they say point to the "profoundly negative impact" of Pentagon spending in the economy.

In those studies, Texas has emerged a winner overall.

of Dallas, have small pieces of the lucrative MX missile contracts.

The Reagan administration and Tower support an increase from a planned 96 to 120 new F-16 fighter planes to be built by General Dynamics of Fort Worth.

And even though Tower says earlier plans for GD to convert 115 F-111 fighters into strategic bombers "is not a strong option at this point," the state's senior senator says sub-contractors in Texas are sure to get shares of whatever new bomber plan emerges.

But the likely boom for most Sun Belt states has a "dark side," according to Nobel Prize-winning economist Wassily Leontief.

"The heartland of the economy — Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kansas — will actually be paying for the prosperity elsewhere with cutbacks in other kinds of spending," Leontief told U.S. News & World Report.

The Anderson studies back this conclusion with an analysis of military spending during the last 30 years.

Hardest hit during the four year period, says the Michigan economist, was New York, with a net loss of 392,000 jobs.

The South was not spared with Florida, Louisiana and Arkansas reportedly as net losers.

As earlier study by Anderson's firm, published in 1979, claimed 10 Texas congressional districts won more money in Pentagon spending than they lost in taxes for the military, but 14 others were net losers.

Majority Leader Jim Wright's Fort Worth district, with the cominant General Dynamics assembly plant, received Pentagon spending of $1.9 billion against a "Pentagon tax burden" of $295 million, for a net gain in 1977 of some $1.6 billion.

Other districts that have been millions in the black from military spending included those of Martin Frost (602) and Phil Gramm (387), concentrated around Dallas and Fort Worth; Henry Gonzalez (661), Tom Loeffler (358) with Ft. Hood in Killeen; Richard White (180) with Ft. Bliss in El Paso; Sam Hall (32), with three Army ordnance facilities; and Bill Patman (7), with the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

The remaining districts resembled the majority of those in the United States; more tax money left the area for Pentagon spending than was returned.

Hardest hit were the Houston area districts of Bill Archer ($407 million), Ron Paul (282), Jack Fields (208), and Mickey Leland (194). Others include Charles Wilson (190), Jim Collins (63), Ralph Hall (44), Jim Mattox (4), Jack Brooks (119), Jake Pickle (12), Jack Hightower (70), Kika de la Garza (31), Charles Stenholm (75), and Kent Hance (184).

Bush will talk at joint session

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas legislators gather in a joint session today to hear from Vice President George Bush, former Texas congressman who made two unsuccessful attempts to be a U.S. senator from the state.

Aides said he would discuss federal and state relations under the new Republican administration.

Bush's appearance closely follows Gov. Bill Clements' warning to legislators Friday that austerity measures sought by President Ronald Reagan may cost Texas $2.5 billion in expected federal funds for 1982-83.

Before and after Bush's half-hour appearance this afternoon the House and Senate have a wide range of problems to consider — primarily concerning state spending and redistricting.

Bush, an adopted Texan who once lived in Midland and still has a home in Houston, comes to Austin from a speaking appearance in Fort Worth.

Bush's aides said he would land at Austin's Municipal Airport about 2:30 p.m. and take a motorcade to the Capitol.

After a brief news conference in the Senate chamber and a visit with Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, and Speaker Bill Clayton, he was scheduled to address the joint session in the House chamber.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson spoke to both houses on April 17, 1961, and, while Johnson was president, Vice President Hubert Humphrey spoke to Texas lawmakers on April 24, 1967.

Native Texan John Nance Garner of Uvalde was vice president from 1933 to 1939. Although he was invited several times, he never spoke to his home state legislature.

Bush planned to return to Washington immediately after the speech.

Otherwise, much of the legislature's work today and this week was outside the debate chambers.

Conference committees continued compromise talks on House and Senate differences in bills that would raise the drinking age from 18 to 19 and appropriate $35 million for emergency housing in the prison system.

Hoosiers meet Tar Heels tonight

BEHIND THE BACK — Philadelphia 76ers Julius Erving, left, slips in from behind during an attempted steal on Boston Celtics Cedric Maxwell, right, during 4th period NBA action in Boston Garden Sunday. The Celtics went on to defeat the 76ers 98-94 giving Boston the Atlantic Division title and a first round bye in the playoffs.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Defense, rebounding, patience on offense and above all teamwork — that's the gospel according to Bobby Knight and Dean Smith and that's the kind of basketball to be played tonight when Indiana takes on North Carolina for the NCAA championship.

Although Knight was the focus of controversy following a run-in with a Louisiana State fan at a hotel Saturday night, that sideshow didn't diminish the appeal of tonight's glittering final.

The records may be tarnished — ninth-ranked Indiana is 25-9 and sixth-rated North Carolina is 29-7 — but everything else about the title game is pure gold.

Both schools have great basketball traditions. Both coaches, Knight of Indiana and Smith of North Carolina, are among the acknowledged leaders of their profession. Both teams have brilliant individual athletes, but both utilize them within the team concept — just the way the basketball purist would want it.

And both are playing at the top of their games, to the point where both coaches say you can ignore the result of their most recent meeting, a 65-56 North Carolina triumph in December.

"That game is so long ago, you're probably talking about two different teams," said Knight. "In each case, we're a far better team today."

"We're both different clubs since the first game," agreed Smith, who is in the Final Four for the sixth time but has never won the championship. "They are a much better team. For one thing, they've settled on one lineup, which they didn't have then. And we've made progress since then, too."

"Hey, when you get this far, both teams should be good."

Both teams are Indiana, which won the title here in 1976, has won 18 of its last 22 games and has a 22-1 record in NCAA tournament opponents by an average of 25 points. That includes a 67-49 decision over LSU in Saturday's semifinal. North Carolina, meanwhile, has taken 11 of its last 12 starts, including a 78-65 semifinal victory over Virginia.

And then there are the coaches. Knight is the martinet, the disciplinarian who couldn't resist a verbal taunt Saturday night that prompted an LSU fan to respond with insults — which Knight answered by shoving the man against a wall. You may not like his manner, but there is no denying his coaching genius. Few teams take the court better prepared, and few coaches have players as dedicated to them as Knight does.

man-to-man — pressure, pressure, pressure." Knight would have it no other way.

"Two of my all-time favorite people are (ex-coaches) Henry Iba and Pete Newell," said Knight. "If I was to play a zone they would disown me. So I can't do it. I have to keep at least two friends."

"There are a lot of ways to skin a squirrel," he added. "But in our approach to the game we would rather stick to one defense and shape it and mold it till we get it right."

The Hoosiers have allowed just 58.8 points per game, so they've been getting it right rather often. But the matchups — against North Carolina, against Knight — to do some more shaping and molding.

Ted Kitchel, who is 6-8, guarded Wood in the regular-season game and Wood scored 18 points. Knight wouldn't divulge whether Kitchel would get the nod again. "I think he'd prefer to have Wittman on Wood, but that would leave Kitchel on Pepper," speculated Smith, referring to Mike Pepper, a 6-3 North Carolina guard. "I don't think he would want that. They may elect not to let him play one or two people closely so they can concentrate on others."

Celtics whip 76ers, earn a rest

By the Associated Press
Bill Fitch made his Boston Celtics an offer they couldn't refuse.

"I offered them 48 hours rest if they won this one," said the Celtic coach. "That's the best bribe I could make."

It turns out that the Celtics will get more than 48 hours off as a result of their 98-94 National Basketball Association victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday.

They'll get a bye that could amount to nine days in the NBA playoffs, which start Tuesday night.

The Celtics and 76ers actually finished the regular season with the same NBA-best records of 62-20. They also were tied in head-to-head competition, 3-3, and in their record against Eastern Conference opponents, 42-16. But the Celtics claimed the Atlantic Division title with a better record within their division, 19-5 to 15-9.

The 76ers will jump right into first-round playoff action Tuesday night with the start of a three-game series against the Indiana Pacers. In the other first-round Eastern Conference playoff series, the Chicago Bulls will oppose the New York Knicks.

The Western Conference playoffs start Wednesday night with Houston visiting Los Angeles and Kansas City at Portland. The Kings nailed down the final playoff spot in the West with a 113-104 victory over Dallas Sunday night while Golden State was dropping a 96-92 decision to Seattle.

Along with Boston, other division winners to draw first-round byes are Milwaukee of the Central Division, San Antonio in the Midwest and Phoenix in the Pacific.

In Sunday's other action, it was San Antonio 135, Houston 109; Chicago 101, Indiana 97; Milwaukee 132, Atlanta 128 in overtime;

Washington 138, Cleveland 103; New York tripped New Jersey 103-95; Phoenix walloped Utah 105-90; Portland routed San Diego 144-129 and Denver edged Los Angeles in overtime 148-146.

Larry Bird and Robert Parish each scored 24 points to lead the Celtics, who built up a big advantage quickly and then withstood a late rally by the 76ers.

Kings 113, Mavericks 104
Scott Wedman scored a game-high 27 points to lift Kansas City over Dallas and boost the Kings into the NBA playoffs for the third year in a row. Otis Birdsong added 25 points and Ernie Grunfeld had 23 as the Kings snapped a four-game losing streak at home.

Sonics 96, Warriors 92
James Bailey had eight of his 24 points in the fourth quarter to trigger Seattle past Golden State. The Sonics entered the final period trailing 70-67 but took the lead for good when Vinnie Johnson made a three-point play with 4:13 left.

Spurs 135, Rockets 109
George Gervin had a game-high 30 points as San Antonio routed Houston. Gervin finished his fourth straight season with more than 2,000 points.

Bulls 101, Pacers 97
Rick Sobers and Artis Gilmore each scored in the final 42 seconds to lead Chicago over Indiana. The Pacers had tied the game at 97 on a free throw by Billy Knight with 54 seconds left before the Bulls took over.

Bucks 132, Hawks 128
Sidney Moncreif scored five points in the final 29 seconds of overtime to lead Milwaukee over Atlanta. The Bucks finished with a 60-22 record, second best in the NBA.

Bullets 138, Cavaliers 103
Kevin Porter had 27 points and 18 assists, leading Washington over Cleveland. The game marked the end of a 13-year career for Washington center Wes Unseld, who was honored in halftime ceremonies. Unseld, bothered by a sore knee, scored two points in a token appearance.

Knicks 103, Nets 95
Ray Williams scored 19 points to pace New York over New Jersey. The Knicks broke the game open with a six-point burst in the last three minutes that gave them a nine-point advantage, 99-90.

Suns 105, Jazz 90
Walter Davis and Joel Kramer had 16 points apiece as Phoenix beat Utah. The Suns, who clinched the Pacific Division title Friday, had their entire roster score at least two points as they closed out their regular season with a 57-25 record, best in the club's 13-year NBA history.

SECTION B NBC bows out

By the Associated Press

As Al McGuire would say, tonight is "Tap City" — "Curtains" for NBC's coverage of the NCAA Basketball Tournament, which will have a new network — CBS — for at least the next three years.

The NBC trio of Dick Enberg on play-by-play, Billy Parker on Xs and Os and McGuire on whatever comes into his mind has been knocked out of the tournament by CBS' $48 million deal with the NCAA.

George Finkel, coordinating producer of the championship game between Indiana and North Carolina, says NBC doesn't plan to leave with a whimper.

"We're not approaching it as a lameduck tournament," said Finkel. "We're doing an event, and we have professional pride in what we do. If we're going out, we want to set a standard for somebody else to match. We're going out with a bang."

much a Mardis Gras as a basketball game.

Finkel says he'll have one more stationary camera and two more mini-cams that are available for regular-season games. "This will enhance our ability to isolate on individuals without taking away from our game coverage," he said. "In the championship, we have the luxury of doing more off-the-court stories, basically for replay."

"That's what makes college basketball so different from the pros — the cheerleaders, painted heads and faces, emotional coaches and kids."

The enthusiasm of its broadcasting team also contributes to NBC's energetic atmosphere, and Finkel wants its members to keep their act rolling. The fact that the game is in prime time (8 p.m. EST) and will reach a wider audience is cause for a slight change in substance, but not in style.

"I want them to be themselves," he said. "The only difference is that they'll have to be a bit more basic, but we always do that in the postseason."

Good guy vs. bad guy in NCAA

FINAL COACHES — Indiana coach Bobby Knight, left, and University of North Carolina coach Dean Smith react to questions at a Sunday press conference.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bobby Knight's skirmish with a heckler over the weekend pointed up the sharp personality contrast of the rival coaches in tonight's big game for the college basketball championship.

It's the good guy-bad guy theme right out of those dime pulp magazines of the 1930s — plots polished up by an imaginative Hollywood and and fed us in movies and on the screen. It's Alan Ladd's Shane going eye-to-eye with black-suited Jack Palance (a North Carolinian, ironically) all over again. So you "picks your man and takes your choice."

There's Knight, coach of the Indiana Hoosiers, whose molecular makeup is a little bit of Billy Martin, a sprinkling of General Patton and a lot of the late Vince Lombardi and Woody Hayes. Down the floor apiece there's fatherly, mild-mannered Dean Smith, who will be directing the maneuvers of the North Carolina Tar Heels.

Rangers blast Astros, 9-3

Cajun ace wants $6 million

If Ron Guidry was out to impress George Steinbrenner, he certainly succeeded.

Sunday morning, Guidry's lawyer met with Steinbrenner to discuss the pitcher's contract, which expires at the end of the season. Guidry is seeking $6 million over five years.

Sunday afternoon, he went out and stifled the world champion Philadelphia Phillies in only his second spring exhibition outing. Guidry retired 12 of the 13 batters he faced, allowing only a fourth-inning home run by Mike Schmidt. That hit out of the infield against Guidry as they lost to the New York Yankees 6-4.

The bulk of the Yankees' attack against the Phillies consisted of a solo homer by Johnny Oates and a three-run shot by Bucky Dent. Rookie second baseman Mike Schmidt smacked three hits for three runs batted in Sunday and led the Texas Rangers to a 9-3 exhibition baseball win over the Houston Astros.

Buddy Bell and Jim Norris had two RBIs apiece as the Rangers collected 13 hits off four Houston pitchers.

Doc Medich, 1-2, pitched seven innings in relief of Texas starter Bob Backcock. Astro starter Bob Knepper, 1-2, took the loss.

Richardt singled to open the fourth, advanced to second on a sacrifice and scored on Leon Roberts' single and Roberts later scored on Astro shortstop

Craig Reynolds' throwing error.

Texas, 9-9, scored three more in the fifth, as Richardt drove home one run with a single and Bell singled in two more.

The Astros, 6-11, scored a single run in the fifth as Knepper tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Cesar Cedeno. And in the sixth, Terry Puhl walked, advanced on a single by Jose Cruz and scored on Art Howe's infield out.

But the Rangers struck for four runs in eighth-off Sambito. Richardt doubled with bases full to score two and Norris followed with a single for two more.

Houston's final run came in the ninth when Joe Pittman tripled and Danny Heep singled him home.

There was good news for the New York Mets, who broke a five-game losing streak by walloping the Minnesota Twins 13-3 as John Stearns, recuperating from finger surgery, drove in four runs with two singles and a triple.

Meanwhile, Pedro Guerrero homered, doubled and drove in five runs to lead an 18-hit Los Angeles attack in an 19-5 pounding of the Montreal Expos. The Dodgers scored nine runs in the fourth inning.

Rookie Terry Harper socked a grand slam homer in the first inning and Bob Horner slammed a three-run shot in the second — both off Cy Young Award winner Steve Stone — to power the Atlanta Braves to an 8-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Rookie pitchers Howard Bailey and Jerry Ujdr scattered nine hits as the Detroit Tigers beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-1.

Wayne Gross drove in three runs, including the game-winning with a 10th-inning single, and Rob Picciolo went 5-for-5, including a leadoff triple in the 10th, as the Oakland A's beat the Chicago Cubs 7-6.

Mike Ivie collected three hits for the second consecutive game, including a 400-foot home run, and powered the San Francisco Giants to a 5-3 win over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Fred Lynn drove in three runs with a single, double and sacrifice fly while Bobby Grich and Butch Hobson homered to lead the California Angels over the San Diego Padres 11-7.

Luis Lee allowed one hit in five innings as the Toronto Blue Jays edged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

Mike Easler belted a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, his second of the game, to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-8 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Garry Hancock homered and singled and Glenn Hoffman had three hits as the Boston Red Sox beat the Chicago White Sox 9-5.

Pinch hitter Larry Littleton's tie-breaking two-run single in the eighth inning sent the Cleveland Indians to a 4-7 triumph over the Seattle Mariners.

TOO CLOSE — Pittsburgh Pirates' infielder Vance Law barely avoids kicking Kansas City Royals' Tim Ireland as Ireland was forced out at second during Sunday's game in Bradenton, Fla. Ireland kept Law from completing the double play.

SWC becoming pool power

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Southwest Conference has long been able to brag about the national prowess of its football and baseball teams.

Now, there's another sport where some button buster is in order — swimming.

Texas brought the SWC its first title Saturday night in the 58th annual NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships and Southern Methodist made its highest finish ever — fourth.

SMU Coach George McMillion was just as excited as Texas Coach Eddie Reese over the progress the SWC has made in the sport.

"It's a great thing for the Southwest Conference," said McMillion, who tutors sophomore breaststroke star Steve Lundquist. "A couple of years ago the West Coast seemed to dominate. Then it shifted to the Southeast and now we think it's starting to shift to the SWC."

Texas compiled 259 points in the three-day meet which had sellout crowds of 2,500 every night jammed into Texas Swimming Center. UCLA was second with 189 points followed by Florida with 180, SMU with 161, Auburn 146 and defending champion California at 140.

McMillion said "We (the SWC coaches) are excited for Texas. Having a team like Texas in our league helped us become better. Houston and Arkansas are starting to do a real good job. We think this kind of showing by the SWC will become a regular thing in the years ahead."

Arkansas finished 12th and Houston was 17th.

Texas could be tough again next year although the Longhorns will lose seniors Scott Spann and Kris Kirchner.

Spann set an American record in the 100 yards butterfly and both were members of Texas record-smashing 400 medley relay team.

"It will be tough to replace swimmers like Spann and Kirchner because you can't replace the leadership and other things they provide," said Reese. "We can replace the potential points, but not the other things."

Reese was emotionally numb from the strain of his team trying to produce before a home pool crowd. Texas was the heavy favorite although a home standing team hadn't won since Indiana pulled off the trick in 1969.

"The home pool advantage really showed in the last relay," said Reese. "With such a great crowd, you can forget you have any limitations."

Spann just did hold off Auburn's Ambrose (Rowdy) Gaines in the 400 yards freestyle relay — the last event of the program.

In all there were 10 American records established. The other records were set by UCLA's Bill Barrett in the 200 individual medley, UCLA's Robin Leamy in the 50 yards freestyle, Texas' Clay Britt in the 100 yards backstroke, Miami's Jesse Vasallo in the 400 individual medley, Lundquist in the 100 and 200 yards breaststroke.

Irwin makes heat, but Rogers cooks

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hale Irwin followed his game plan perfectly — even better than he could have hoped for — in the final round of the Sea Pines-Heritage Classic.

But it backfired on him and helped spur Bill Rogers to victory Sunday.

"I told my caddy before we started I'd have to put some heat on early, and after the first hole I thought I could," Irwin said.

And apply the heat he did. And as early as possible. He holed out a 160-yard 6-iron shot for an eagle-2 on the first hole.

But it didn't have the desired effect.

"Hale's 2 on the first hole was absolutely the best thing that could have happened to me," said Rogers, who withstood that challenge and series of threats from a variety of players. He hung on grimly, never surrendering the lead, in display of thin-lipped determination that won him his second PGA Tour title and $54,000.

After Irwin, playing in the same threesome with Rogers, had scored his eagle, "I said to myself, 'it's going to be a long day. I can't just sit back.' It made me play harder and I got rid of my jitters right away," Rogers said.

He won this one with a closing 70, 1-under-par on the 6,650-yard Harbour Town Golf Links, and had a 278 total, 6 under par.

Irwin, a two-time winner of this prestigious title, Gil Morgan, a veteran Bruce Devlin and Craig Stadler finished a single stroke back at 279. Irwin and Morgan, both with the front-running Rogers in the last threesome, each had a closing 68. Stadler and Devlin each shot 67.

Georgia wins NWI

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Georgia got a pair of clutch free throws from freshman-forward Deborah Mitchell with just over a minute left in overtime and hung on to claim a 75-73 win over Arizona State in the finals of the 13th Annual National Women's Invitational basketball tournament.

The Bulldogs, who ended at 27-10, trailed 40-29 at halftime Saturday night and 48-31 with 15:41 remaining in regulation. Georgia sent the game into overtime at 66-66 when Cynthia Collins hit on a jumper with 50 seconds left.

Arizona State, 21-11, had a chance to send the game into a second overtime, but Kym Hampton missed a 10-foot bank shot at the buzzer.

Collins led Georgia scorers with 21 points, while Cassandra Lander scored 31 for the Sun Devils and was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Earlier, freshman center Lorri Bauman scored 27 points to lead Drake to an 86-74 victory over California-Berkeley Saturday for third place.

Bauman was helped by teammates Connie Newlin with 15 and Laura Leonard with 14 as the Bulldogs led from the opening tip.

Jerilyn Harper scored a tournament record 47 points for Tennessee Tech, but her team lost to Pittsburgh 93-91 in a battle for fifth place.

Tennessee Tech trailed by four but cut it to two with a second left and Markey Robyn was fouled in the process. She missed the free throw intentionally, and teammate Barbara Dam grabbed the rebound but missed her desperation shot at the buzzer.

In the seventh-place contest, Joy Roberts scored 23 points to lead Cincinnati past Baylor 94-77. Baylor, 29-11, was led by Debbie Polk's 17 points.

Martina's old at 24!

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova, a former teen-age star now considered an oldtimer in women's tennis, feels the pressure of age even as the game becomes more enjoyable for her.

"The traveling, the press conferences and the parties are grueling, but on the court I enjoy it more than ever before. I even enjoy practice," Navratilova said Sunday after winning her third winter tour singles title in four years with a 6-3, 7-6 victory over Andrea Jaeger in the final of the $300,000 Avon Championships.

Navratilova, 24, was the oldest player in the eight-woman field and the only one who had been in a winter tour finale before. Jaeger is 15, and the third-place finisher in the tournament, Bettina Bunge of West Germany, is 17.

Navratilova, who won $100,000 Sunday, was easily the top player in women's tennis in the first months of this year, but she still is behind Chris Evert Lloyd and Tracy Austin in the world rankings. Lloyd skipped most of the winter tournaments and Austin has been injured since January.

"I'd like to be No.1 again, but I'm getting older and can't keep saying 'Next year, next year.' Sooner or later I will run out of next years, so I have to get going," said Navratilova, who wore a green ribbon shaped in an inverted "V" in sympathy for the black children murdered in Atlanta.

Not nearly as colorful and quotable as Billie Jean King and others who were stars when she first came on the tennis scene in 1973, Navratilova seems happier on the court and even jokes with reporters.

"It was nothing really — just a heart attack," she laughed when asked about chest pains which developed late in the first set when she stretched for a shot, but didn't affect her play.
