Hinckley idolized actress

Motive linked to unrequited love

WASHINGTON (AP) — An infatuated John W. Hinckley Jr., accused of shooting Ronald Reagan, described his desperate plans and said "I'm going to do it for you" in a letter to a teen-age actress who starred in a movie about a plot to kill a political candidate, sources say.

The letter, written to 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster but never mailed, was quite specific about Hinckley's plans and reflected an "I don't care what happens to me" frame of mind, the sources said.

The letter was described by four congressional and Justice Department sources, who refused to be identified. Congressional leaders were briefed Tuesday about facts in the case by Attorney General William French Smith.

Miss Foster played a pre-teen prostitute in "Taxi Driver," a film about a New York cab driver who is fascinated by guns, revolted by rampant pornography in the city and plans to assassinate a Senate candidate.

Two sources said authorities were aware of a second Hinckley letter, and one source said that letter had been mailed but declined to say to whom. NBC News, however, quoted federal agents in Connecticut as saying that Miss Foster told them she had received several love letters from Hinckley in recent months. The network also said pictures of the actress were found in Hinckley's wallet. Federal authorities in Connecticut and Washington declined to comment on the report.

The sources said Tuesday that investigators had found the letter Monday in Hinckley's quarters, apparently at the downtown Park Central Hotel where he stayed the night before Monday's attempted assassination.

They said Hinckley, a 25-year-old drifter, obviously was "infatuated" with Miss Foster and wanted to get her attention. One source described the unmailed letter as expressing his desire to "go out and do something to get himself killed."

Miss Foster is now a freshman at Yale University, and Hinckley, in an employment application filed with the Rocky Mountain News last October, said he was a student at the Ivy League school from September 1980 to October 1980.

Yale officials said they had no records of Hinckley ever having been enrolled there.

At Yale, Miss Foster said in a brief statement: "I have never met, spoken to, or associated with him (Hinckley)." She said the FBI and the U.S. attorney's office had asked her to say nothing about him.

Hinckley, meanwhile, retained the firm of millionaire Washington defense attorney Edward Bennett Williams, a former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and owner of the Baltimore Orioles baseball team.

Hinckley, who is charged with attempted assassination of the president and assault on a Secret Service agent, is scheduled for a preliminary hearing Thursday, when the government must present enough evidence to convince the magistrate to send the case to a federal grand jury.

John W. Hinckley Sr., the father of the accused assailant has taken leave of absence from his job as head of an oil company, according to a petroleum consultant.

Rapist loses battle in court

By CAROL HART

A civil action suit filed by Michael Russell Nelson, convicted on a rape charge here Nov. 7, 1979, was dismissed when an investigation showed no grounds for the suit.

Nelson filed the suit against W.J. Estelle Jr., director of the Texas Departments of Corrections, in Federal District Court in Abilene. In the suit, Nelson charged he was not given a competency hearing prior to his conviction.

Nelson was convicted of rape at a local business office on Oct. 19, 1979. Records show that Nelson apparently entered a downtown business office and asked a 24-year-old woman for directions to a local hospital. When she was showing him a map of the city, he allegedly grabbed her around the throat and threatened to kill her if she did not submit.

Nelson was later found crouching under the west viaduct of Gregg Street, where officials reason he may have been waiting for a train on which he planned to leave town. He was arrested at gunpoint at 11:40 a.m. Oct. 19, 1979, and formally charged with therape.

Nelson was later tried in 118th District Court and convicted of the rape. He was given a 25-year sentence in Huntsville. He was after his arrival at Huntsville that he filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the Federal District Court.

According to Howard County District Attorney Rick Hamby, Nelson alleged that his conviction in Howard County was void, because he wasn't given a competency hearing. Nelson also charged that he was deprived of effective counsel because the issue of insanity in the case was not raised.

Nelson charged that the judge in the case locally should have given him a competency hearing because of his history of mental problems.

"We always ask an attorney whether his defendant is mentally competent," Hamby said. "The local attorney had visited with him," at length, Hamby said, and the attorney said he felt the man was competent to stand trial.

The Federal District Court in Abilene ruled that they found no evidence that Nelson was incompetent or insane at the time of his offense. The court also ruled that the counsel acted properly in the matter.

Hamby said he also talked with the defendant at the time of the trial locally, and said he felt the man was competent. "We wouldn't have tried him otherwise," he said.

Reports say Reagan's life was in danger

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan had trouble breathing, chest pain, falling blood pressure and was spitting up blood when he walked into George Washington University Hospital after being shot, The New York Times said today.

"He definitely was in a life-threatening situation," the newspaper quoted Dr. William O'Neill as saying. "But he was very rapidly stabilized."

O'Neill is a surgical intern who treated Reagan in the emergency room, the newspaper said in a story from Washington by its medical writer, Dr. Lawrence K. Altman.

O'Neill also said nearly two pints of blood "came out spontaneously" when a tube was inserted in the president's chest to drain air, blood and other fluids from the chest cavity, a standard procedure for a chest wound.

"He was definitely in acute distress," O'Neill said in describing Reagan immediately after entering the hospital.

"The first thing the president mentioned to me was that he had been coughing up blood since the event. He had complained of chest pain and shortness of breath. He denied having lost consciousness."

"There was blood staining of his lips and teeth and there was blood in the back of his throat."

The doctor said Reagan's breathing rate was in the high 30s, about twice normal, his pulse on the high side at 88 and his blood pressure lower than usual at 78, according to the Times.

After Reagan rested briefly on a stretcher, the blood pressure became normal, the report said.

Brady remains stable

Reagan out of intensive care

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-spirited, ambulatory President Reagan is out of the intensive care unit and recuperating in a suite at the George Washington University Hospital, his personal physician said today.

Dr. Daniel Ruge, in a report issued through the White House press office, said the president stayed up Tuesday night until 11 p.m. EST to watch the first hour of the televised Academy Awards presentation.

"Although he is somewhat uncomfortable, the president slept quite well," said Ruge. "He has been out of bed and walked." He said Reagan's vital signs remained normal.

The move to the suite was made Tuesday night.

The physician said there were no changes overnight in the conditions of White House press secretary James S. Brady and Secret Service agent Timothy McCarthy, also wounded by an assailant who struck at Reagan Monday afternoon and both hospitalized at George Washington.

Even before he was moved from intensive care, Reagan had turned his room into a temporary Oval Office.

He was described Tuesday as ready to take charge in any emergency while he recovers from the assassination attempt that sources said may have been planned to gain the attention of a young actress.

Various sources said John W. Hinckley Jr., 25, the man accused of shooting the president, described his plans in an unmailed letter to 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster and said, "I'm going to do it for you." Miss Foster starred in a movie about a plot to kill a political candidate, and congressional and Justice Department sources said the letter indicated Hinckley was "infatuated" with her.

Reagan, meanwhile, was reported recovering "extremely well" from the gunshot wound to his chest, and White House counselor Edwin Meese III said the president would begin receiving his daily national security briefing today at George Washington University Hospital. He met with his top aides Tuesday.

At the White House, it was business as usual.

"The government did not skip a beat," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Tuesday.

"It's just as if the president were here in the Oval Office the way the White House is running," added Michael K. Deaver, the White House deputy chief of staff.

Vice President George Bush was pinch-hitting on the ceremonial duties of the presidency following Monday's assassination attempt, but the White House made it clear that Reagan is still in charge. Bush said, "It's business as usual to the best we can do it."

"He is the president of the United States and actually signed a bill this morning," Bush said.

Meese, interviewed on the Public

Broadcasting System, stressed that Reagan "had his full faculties" when he signed the legislation, which repealed increases in dairy price supports, and that he was ready to take charge in any emergency.

Reagan continues to make all policy decisions and Bush may give orders to help implement them, Meese said.

Communications equipment was installed at the hospital shortly after Reagan arrived Monday. His appointments secretary, David C. Fischer, set up an office in a nearby room.

Reagan sat up in bed Tuesday, read newspapers, visited with his family and aides and joked with his nurses.

He also met with the triumvirate of his administration: Meese, chief of state James A. Baker III and Deaver.

163 votes cast in school races

Margaret Ray, county clerk, said 163 absentee ballots had been received in her office as of Tuesday, the deadline for absentee balloting in the school races.

In addition, Mrs. Ray said that two ballots which had been mailed out had not yet been returned.

City-wide elections for school board of trustees members and city-council members are set for Saturday at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

City election's absentee votes hit 126 mark

Only 126 voters cast absentee ballots in this year's city election, compared to 461 last year.

Deadline for voting absentee in-person came 5 p.m. Tuesday. Tom Ferguson, city secretary, noted that four mailed ballots have yet to be returned, but that they will be accepted until 10 a.m. Thursday.

Regular voting in the city race will take place from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Saturday. Voters may cast ballots at one of two polling places, the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum or the Northside Fire Station, depending in which precinct they are registered.

Youth killed in auto flip

A 16-year-old Big Spring youth was killed this morning after a vehicle in which he was a passenger flipped.

Mark John Easley, 905 N. Gregg, was riding in a motor vehicle driven by Holston Banks, Jr., 15, 811 Wyoming.

Banks was driving eastbound on IS 20 when he lost control a half mile west of Big Spring. He ran off the roadway to the median, slid across the road and rolled over before the vehicle burned.

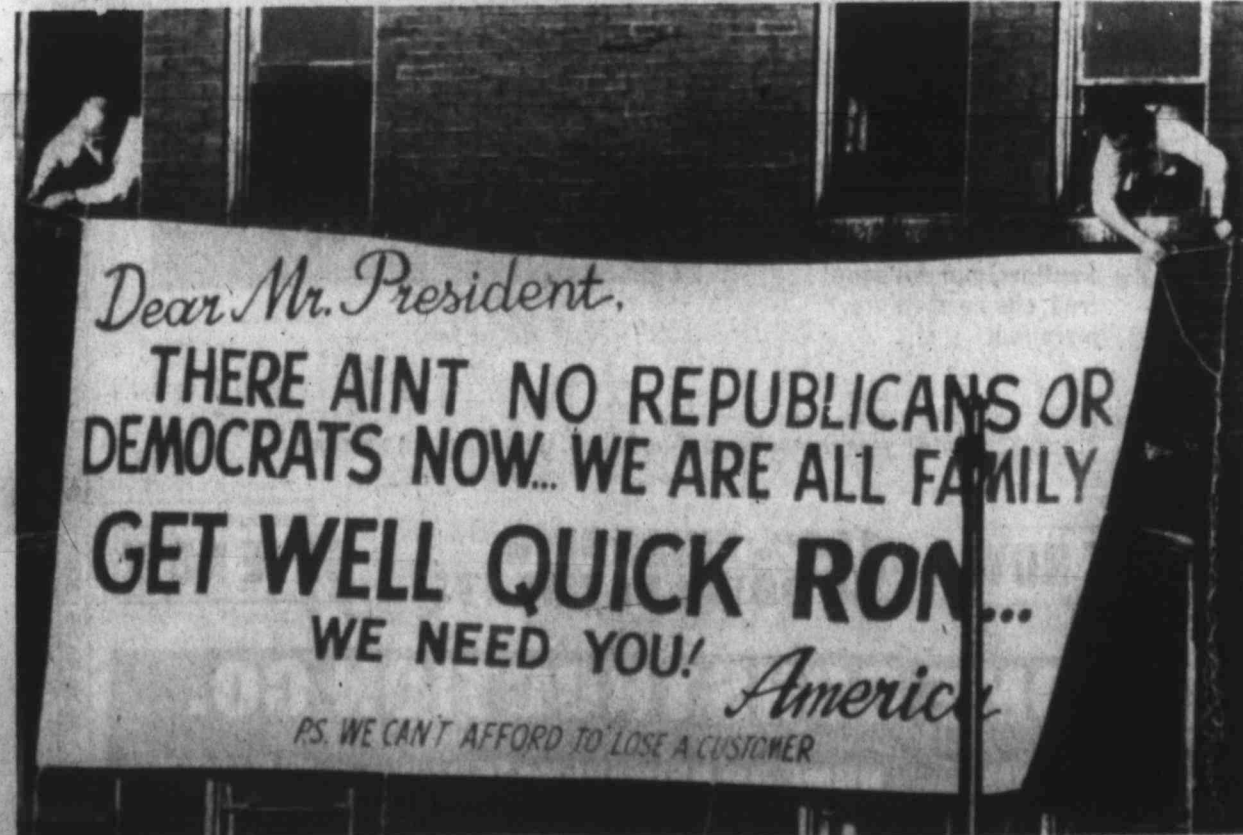

Both men were taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where Easley was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Bobby West. Banks was admitted with a broken collarbone. He is reported in stable condition.

Funeral services for Easley are pending at Sheppard Funeral Home.

Mitchell cotton crop drop noted

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Mitchell County ASCS office has certified the 1980 cotton crop at only 18,106 bales, which compares with 81,000 bales last year.

According to Don Stewart of the ASCS office, Mitchell County farmers planted between 78,000 and 80,000 acres in cotton but many acres were not harvested; however, according to Stewart, "it's sure looking good so far this year."

Deposition by Daniel stepson read in court

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Price Daniel Jr. once playfully thumped his son Franklin on the penis and ate most of his meals separately from his family, the former Texas House speaker's stepson testified today in a deposition.

Jonathon Moore, 10, Vickie Daniel's son by a previous marriage, said his mother was changing Franklin Baldwin Daniel's diaper when the child ran out of the room.

The deposition was read into the record in a child custody suit, said his stepfather just came up and "he thumped him." Jonathon said Daniel was laughing when he did it.

Mrs. Daniel, charged with murder in the Jan. 19 slaying of her husband, had testified her late husband sexually fondled Franklin and went outside in his underwear baring his posterior.

Jonathon testified he had seen his stepfather outside the house in his underwear but had never witnessed him exposing himself.

Mrs. Daniel, who met her husband while employed at a local Dairy Queen, also testified her husband ate his meals separately, having her serve him in the playroom.

Jonathon confirmed the dining arrangement. He testified that only when Daniel's son by a previous marriage came to visit did everyone eat at the kitchen table.

The child testified that his stepfather treated him "nice" and had spanked him only once during the time he lived with the Daniels.

Jonathon, who now lives with his father in nearby Dayton, said Daniel never had abused him.

Jonathon's 12-year-old sister, Kimberly Ann Moore, testified in a written deposition Tuesday that she heard her mother scream the night of the slaying.

She said she found Daniel and her mother on the floor fighting. Daniel was astride his wife, twisting her arms, when a frightened Kimberly shoved him away.

Daniel pushed the child back and told her to return to her room where she tried to comfort her crying stepbrothers, Franklin, 3, and Marion Price Daniel IV, 1.

Moments later, Daniel lay dead from a gunshot wound.

On track First Lady candidates nominations still open

"On Track" is an official column prepared by the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., and lists the various events and meetings being held in conjunction with the upcoming Big Spring-Howard County Centennial to be held May 21-30. Individuals wishing to list their activities and events in this column are asked to call Mel Prather at 267-6373, or bring their items by Citizens Federal Credit Union.

FIRST LADY CANDIDATES: Nominations are still being accepted for First Lady candidates. Individuals and groups wishing to submit a nominee should be sure that the person is over 17, a resident of Howard County, and that the name is turned in to the Centennial Store-Headquarters by the April 12, 1981, deadline. The initial meeting of First Lady candidates will be held on Tuesday, April 14, 1981, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Cactus Room at Howard College. Interested individuals are reminded that this is not a beauty pageant. Entries should be submitted to: First Lady Candidates, Big Spring Centennial, Inc., 900 Main, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

XLARGE AND XXLARGE HATS IN: The Centennial Store at 900 Main reports that they have received a shipment of both XLarge and XXLarge hats. However, they also reported that their supply of medium hats are now running low. Persons interested in purchasing turn-of-the-century clothing through the Centennial Store should do so at their earliest convenience to avoid any last-minute problems.

PHOTOS FOR COMMEMORATIVE BOOK: All division, committee, and special day chairpersons, as well as other officials, of the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., are asked to make arrangements with the Zone 10 Photographic Studio at 208 Owens to have their official centennial photos taken this Thursday or Friday. These photos will be printed in the commemorative book, which will be going to press on April 15, 1981. Officials should wear their old-style clothes when having the photos taken and can make the appointments by calling 263-8847.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED: Dene Sheppard at the Centennial Store says they are still in need of a few more volunteers because of the brisk business at the store. Interested individuals should call the Centennial Store at 267-3641 or come by in person at 900 Main.

WHITFISH, Mont. (AP) — Instead of collecting when you pass "Go," you have to pay $200. And instead of trying to get rich, the point of Gary Tallman's and Wayne Shanahan's new board game is to go broke. Then you qualify for welfare.

The two contractors plan to market the game entitled SOB — for Save our Bureaucrats — themselves at a charge of $15 per game. Some 20,000 copies are being made at a factory in Wisconsin.

Players shake their dice in a "pork barrel," and advance tokens — miniature replicas of Susan B. Anthony dollars — around a Pentagon-shaped board.

Each square carries the name of a real government agency and its budget. If you land on the Environmental Protection Agency square, for instance, you have to pay a tax of $50.

Here's the kind of thing that might befall a player: The Law Enforcement Administration spends $2 million to design a patrol car that no municipal government could afford. Pay your share, $20.

The National Science Foundation spends $46,100 studying whether sex, humor and empathy would deter drivers from horn-honking in traffic jams. Pay your share, $50.

But the last laugh is on Tallman and Shanahan. They got their idea started with an $85,000 Small Business Administration loan.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The penny offered for your thoughts one day won't be made of copper, according to the Treasury Department.

Starting in 1982 and continuing for a long period, the department will start coining pennies containing 97.6 percent zinc and 2.4 percent copper instead of the alloy of 95 percent copper and 5 percent zinc now used.

Treasurer Angela Marie Buchanan told a House subcommittee on Tuesday.

The change, which does not require legislation, will save production costs and keep speculators from melting pennies for the copper.

Police Beat Three women assaulted

Three women were assaulted in the city, Tuesday. Martha Cohorn, 1300 Douglas, told police that a man she knows struck her on the forehead with his hand, and then chased her around her home with a pair of scissors, saying, "I'm going to kill you," 11 p.m. Tuesday.

The assailant allegedly also tore apart several flower arrangements in the home. Maria Lopez, 703 San Antonio, reported that a man she knows struck her in the chest with his fist, 7:39 p.m. Tuesday, inside her home. She was not seriously injured.

Pam Alfano, 1013 Bluebonnet, told police that she was at a residence on Marjio when she was assaulted by a person she knows. Her injuries were also minor.

Detective Bob Armstrong arrested Guadalupe Fierro, 29, 206 Galveston, 5:27 p.m. Tuesday, on suspicion of felony criminal mischief. She is suspected of damaging walls in a bedroom and bathroom, and breaking several curtain rods in a home at 1109 W. 3rd belonging to Carol Reyes, 806 E. 14th. Damage from the March 23 incident is estimated at $99.

Gary L. Whitker, 1404 Wood, believes he knows the identity of the thief who stole his jacket, a pair of corduroy pants, a sweater, three pairs of blue jeans, a shirt and $35 in loose change. Total loss was estimated at $350.

A 14-year-old local girl narrowly escaped an abductor, 7:47 p.m. Tuesday. According to reports, the girl was walking along the 500-block of Johnson when a man in a car stopped to ask directions.

The man then jumped out of the car and grabbed the girl, attempting to force her into his auto. She screamed and resisted, and the abductor fled.

Burglars stole a .45 caliber and a .38 caliber revolver from the home of Phyllis Friesen, 1105 Pennsylvania, sometime Monday night. The pistols were valued at $200.

Unsuccessful burglars used a chisel or a screwdriver to pry off the handle on the east door of the La Contessa Beauty Salon, 1508 Marcy, sometime Saturday night. No entry was gained, but damage was estimated at $40.

Allen White, 906 E. 13th, reported that sometime Tuesday night, vandals smashed four Desert Dog Formula tires on his car while it was parked at the Greenhouse Lounge, 1100 S. Scurry. Each tire was valued at $100.

One mishap was reported Tuesday. Vehicles driven by Carolyn Rau, 1742 Purdue, and Eldred Gray, 538 Westover, collided in the parking lot of Citizens Federal Credit Union, 1:13 p.m.

County Judge Bill Tune set a $1,000 bond Tuesday for Guadalupe Maria Fierro, 29, 206 Galveston, who was charged with felony criminal mischief.

Ms. Fierro was not placed in county jail, but was released on the bond posted by Wayne Basden.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The penny offered for your thoughts one day won't be made of copper, according to the Treasury Department.

Starting in 1982 and continuing for a long period, the department will start coining pennies containing 97.6 percent zinc and 2.4 percent copper instead of the alloy of 95 percent copper and 5 percent zinc now used.

Treasurer Angela Marie Buchanan told a House subcommittee on Tuesday.

The change, which does not require legislation, will save production costs and keep speculators from melting pennies for the copper.

'Ordinary People' wins big at subdued Oscar ceremony

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Oscar, a bit subdued this year, packed few surprises and spread his favor around a bit. The biggest winner — "Ordinary People," which was named best picture — took just four of Hollywood's Academy Awards.

Robert De Niro and Sissy Spacek were named best actor and actress, for their performances in "Raging Bull" and "Coal Miner's Daughter."

Major awards also went to two novices in "Ordinary People": director Robert Redford, a film star himself, and supporting actor Timothy Hutton.

ROBERT REDFORD named Best Director

"I will never act again," Redford joked backstage. Hutton, who strongly resembles his father, the late actor Jim Hutton, said of his dad, "I wish he was here."

The movie's fourth award went to Alvin Sargent for screenplay adaptation.

Only one other movie, "Tess," took more than two awards. It won in three of the lesser-known craft categories.

BS man wins London trip

Kirby vacuum cleaner salesman Peter Kenny, 1606A Gregg Street, Big Spring, is one of 15 Divisional Area Distributors for The Kirby Company who won a week-long, all-expenses-paid trip to London for himself and his wife, Lucy, for his efforts in a recently completed international sales contest. Kenny's award was announced in Cleveland by Kirby President George M. Carrier.

They will leave April 4 and return April 10. While in England, Kenny will participate in the 38th Kirby Council Conference.

Their itinerary includes a tour of London's historic West End where they will see Westminster Abbey, The Houses of Parliament, Big Ben, Buckingham Palace, Number 10 Downing Street, and Hyde Park, in addition to a cruise of the River Thames.

Kenny's efforts are especially noteworthy, Carrier said, "because it is the first time in the company's history that an area distributor has qualified to participate in a Kirby Council Conference."

"Kenny is employed by Blodgett's Kirby Company in Abilene.

angry, curtly thanked everyone, and left. John Hinckley Jr., who is accused of shooting the president, reportedly addressed a letter to actress Jodie Foster saying that he intended to kill Reagan. Miss Foster co-starred with De Niro in "Taxi Driver," in which there is a plot to assassinate a political figure.

Ms. Spacek was named best actress for her portrayal of down-home country girl Loretta Lynn in "Coal Miner's Daughter." Miss Lynn smiled in the audience.

The major acting award of the Oscar ceremony, best supporting actress, went to Mary Steenburgen for her part in "Melvin and Howard."

"Melvin and Howard" could be considered the surprise of the Oscars. It was nominated in only three categories, but won two — Best Actress and Best Original Screenplay.

"Raging Bull" added an editing award to De Niro's best actor award and "Fame" won for best original score and best original song. They were the only other multiple winners in competitive categories.

"Moscow Does Not Believe in Tears," from the Soviet Union, was named best foreign film.

A highlight of the ceremony at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion was a tumultuous greeting for Henry Fonda, the 75-year-old star who had never won an Oscar.

The crowd came to its feet as Fonda slowly walked onstage with the help of a cane. "This has been a very rewarding 46 years for me," Fonda said, "and this has got to be the climax."

WINNING SMILES — Actor Robert De Niro and actress Sissy Spacek get together after presentation of their Oscars for Best Actor and Best Actress Tuesday Night at the 53rd Annual Academy Awards in Los Angeles. De Niro won the Oscar for his portrayal of boxer Jake LaMotta in "Raging Bull." Miss Spacek won for her portrayal of country and western singer Loretta Lynn in "Coal Miner's Daughter." "Ordinary People" was named Best Picture of the Year.

Postage stamp is still a bargain

Not much genuine grumbling was heard when the Postal Department increased the cost of its first class stamp from 15 to 18 cents. The reason: It's still a bargain.

In most other parts of the world, the customer pays more for the privilege of sending a letter first class. Canada is an exception. The charge there is about 14.4 cents but that nation's Postal Department had a deficit of $485 million during fiscal year 1979, so that means the deficit had to be made up by a government appropriation. Like the man said, you can pay now or you can pay later.

THE JAPANESE CHARGE about 50 yen for their first class stamp.

That's about 20 cents in American money. The Swiss ante up about 24 cents for such postage while the rate in Great Britain is close to 29 cents.

Those living in Belgium and West Germany pay even more. Each country sells its stamps for about 33 cents.

Fifteen years before the turn of the century, Americans were paying two cents for first class postage and that rate remained in effect until Nov. 3, 1917, when the price was boosted a penny. The rate dropped to two cents July 1, 1919, not to be raised again until July 6, 1932, when it returned to the three-cent rate.

Six years later, the price was boosted to four cents. The five-cent stamp made its debut July 7, 1963. The Postal Service raised the rate another penny July 7, 1968. The eight-cent stamp made the scene May 16, 1971, and the cost finally hit ten cents March 2, 1974.

Since that time, the rates have escalated rather rapidly. The cost jumped three cents Dec. 31, 1974, and was boosted to 15 cents May 29, 1978.

NOW PROSPECTS ARE that the cost of the first-class stamp will go to 20 cents before the year is out, but even that doesn't seem outrageous. One might get a letter delivered by private courier or by a business dedicated to the proposition of competing with the government for handling certain types of mail but in each case the rate could not possibly be competitive.

Those who would complain about the rise in postage rates should remember the cost of everything else had gone through the ceiling. (E.g., the price of a package of gum, which used to be the world's best bargain at a nickel, can now cost 30 cents plus tax in some stores.)

Tip your fedora to the people in the Postal Department. They take a lot of flak, but practically all of it is undeserved. Our nation's business would be in a shambles without the helping hand they lend.

Chilling indifference

Tina Miller

I'm not sure which was worse: the pitiful turnout, the erratic sound system, or the fighting and vandalism. At any rate, it will be a miracle if any of the performers in Friday night's concert ever come to Big Spring again.

THEORETICALLY, the Johnny Rodriguez concert with Little Joe y La Familia should have drawn the many fans of both country-western and Spanish music. Both performers are versatile, and perform a balanced mixture of country, rock, and Spanish. Add these numbers of fans together, and the total is in the many thousands. Instead, only about 700 people came to listen to the music that is enjoyed by millions of people nationwide. What was the problem?

At this point, I can hear the voices of the cynics saying, "We knew there would be trouble," or "The sound system was so bad that I'm glad I didn't go." How sad. As Sunday's article explained, virtually no one inside the building had any idea of what was happening on the outside. And as for the sound system, which was admittedly irritating, it was eventually repaired, and the audience heard the music that they came to enjoy. However, because of the fighting and vandalism on the outside, Little Joe was forced to disappoint many of his fans by not appearing again for the dance that was scheduled. It is a sad fact of life that the disruptive few can ruin things for the decent majority.

What really puzzles me is the fact that several entertainers of equal talent and sometimes greater fame have also performed in Big Spring to embarrassingly small crowds such as that on Friday night. Almost every day the complaint of "There's nothing to do in Big Spring" can be heard. Small wonder. When there is something to do, only a few bother to attend. If you are a fan of the performers or the type of music that was played Friday night, and simply did not care to attend, you really have no basis for complaint.

BUT, ENOUGH complaining about those who didn't go and those who went just to cause trouble. To those patient souls who put up with screaming microphones, buzzing speakers, and a two hour delay and no dance to speak of: thank you. Very few crowds would have conducted themselves so well in the face of disappointments and delays. The performers who were interviewed recognized this, and also expressed their appreciation for it. If any performer of merit ever comes to Big Spring again, it will be because of you.

No rights' man

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — If President Reagan sticks by his nomination of Ernest Lefever as Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights, the confirmation hearing seems certain to ignite the first really explosive opposition on Capitol Hill.

In two past columns, I've dusted off Lefever's expressed views on human rights and laid them on the table. His own words are the best evidence that he is unfit for this position.

But apparently the president remains unpersuaded. So here is another serving of Lefever's philosophy, taken from the November 1970 issue of Worldview magazine.

LEFEVER WROTE A virulent attack on the late Martin Luther King Jr., suggesting he was playing into the hands of the communists and accusing him implicitly of treason. Though Lefever conceded that the slain civil rights leader "cannot be held responsible for the orgy of black terror that followed his death," he wrote that "it would be fair to assume" that King contributed to the violence he deplored.

Lefever based his denunciation of King largely on a speech the black martyr made at New York's Riverside Church on April 4, 1967 — one year to the day before he was assassinated.

The slaughter in Vietnam had reached a new high that week, and King delivered an impassioned plea to end the carnage. He called for stopping all bombing, declaring a unilateral truce, setting a date for U.S. troop withdrawal and recognizing that the Viet Cong deserved a role in the government of South Vietnam.

Most of these proposals were adopted six years later by Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger, who finally withdrew U.S. forces from Vietnam. But King used some scathing language to make his point, calling the United States the "greatest purveyor of violence in the world."

Emotions had cooled down when Lefever wrote his article three-and-a-half years later. Still, he commented: "This remarkable speech — its blunt, lopsided, unfactual and unfair attack upon the United States; its more subtle praise for the communist and revolutionary force of 'liberation' and its frequent use of communist cliches and slogans (in contrast to King's customary Biblical allusions) could have been drafted in Moscow, Peking, Hanoi or Havana..."

KING'S SPEECH, LEFEVER

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have had several abortions, and now I am almost overwhelmed with guilt. Is there anything I can do to get rid of these feelings? — B.G.P.

DEAR B.G.P.: I believe the fact you have great remorse and guilt over what you have done is a good sign. If you were cold and indifferent about the sin you have committed, your situation would be much more serious spiritually. But you know down inside that you need God's forgiveness, and I want you to discover beyond doubt that God loves you and wants to forgive you — not only of these sins, but of every sin you have ever committed.

It may seem almost beyond belief to you, but there is one great truth I want you to know: God loves you. Yes, you have sinned against him, and in fact you may have never really thought very much about him at all. You have lived your life for yourself, and acted as if he did not even exist. But he loves you in spite of the way you have treated him. And more than that, he wants to forgive you.

That is why God has provided a way for you to be forgiven and cleansed of your sins. Jesus Christ, God's Son, died on the cross to take away your sins. Nothing you could ever do would make you clean in God's eyes, but Christ died to cleanse you from sin. The Bible says, "The blood of Jesus, his Son, purifies us from every sin" (1 John 1:7). If you invite Jesus Christ into your life as your personal Lord and Savior he has promised to come in and forgive you. He also has promised to bring you into a personal relationship with God, because you will become his child.

Accept Jesus Christ and trust him for God's forgiveness. God has done everything he possibly could to give you forgiveness. All you have to do is receive it. And when you do, you can have faith that God has already forgiven you. "As far as the east is from the west, so far has he removed our transgressions from us" (Psalm 103:12). And if God has forgiven you, you also can forgive yourself.

Spoiler strategy

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — How does the U.S. assert its interests in the vortex of world power that has developed around the Persian Gulf? One way is to build up American positions of strength in the neighborhood.

But such a buildup is slow, costly and subject to weighty political constraints abroad and here at home. A cheaper and speedier strategy, now beginning to attract attention in the Administration, emphasizes spoiling operations against the vulnerable extensions of Soviet influence in the area — notably Afghanistan, Libya, South Yemen and Ethiopia.

THE SECURITY PROBLEM of the Persian Gulf reared its ugly head when the Russians invaded Afghanistan in December, 1979. The Carter Doctrine of January, 1980, proclaimed that the U.S. regarded the security of the Persian Gulf as a "vital national interest."

The Navy was assigned to full-time duty in the Indian Ocean. Accords for base facilities were concluded in Somalia, Oman and Kenya. A start was made on raising a Rapid Deployment Force, comprising at least four American divisions capable of intervening in the Persian Gulf within a fortnight. Various schemes were advanced to beef up the forces of supposedly strong anti-Soviet leaders in such countries as Pakistan, Turkey and Egypt.

The Reagan Administration has added some ideas of its own about the Persian Gulf problem. It has proposed the establishment of a force, including Americans, that would guarantee the Camp David Accords between Israel and Egypt, and also be available to meet emergencies in the Gulf. It has been willing to extend increased military aid, and to ease up on public charges about nuclear proliferation. Hence the latest offer to Pakistan for military co-operation.

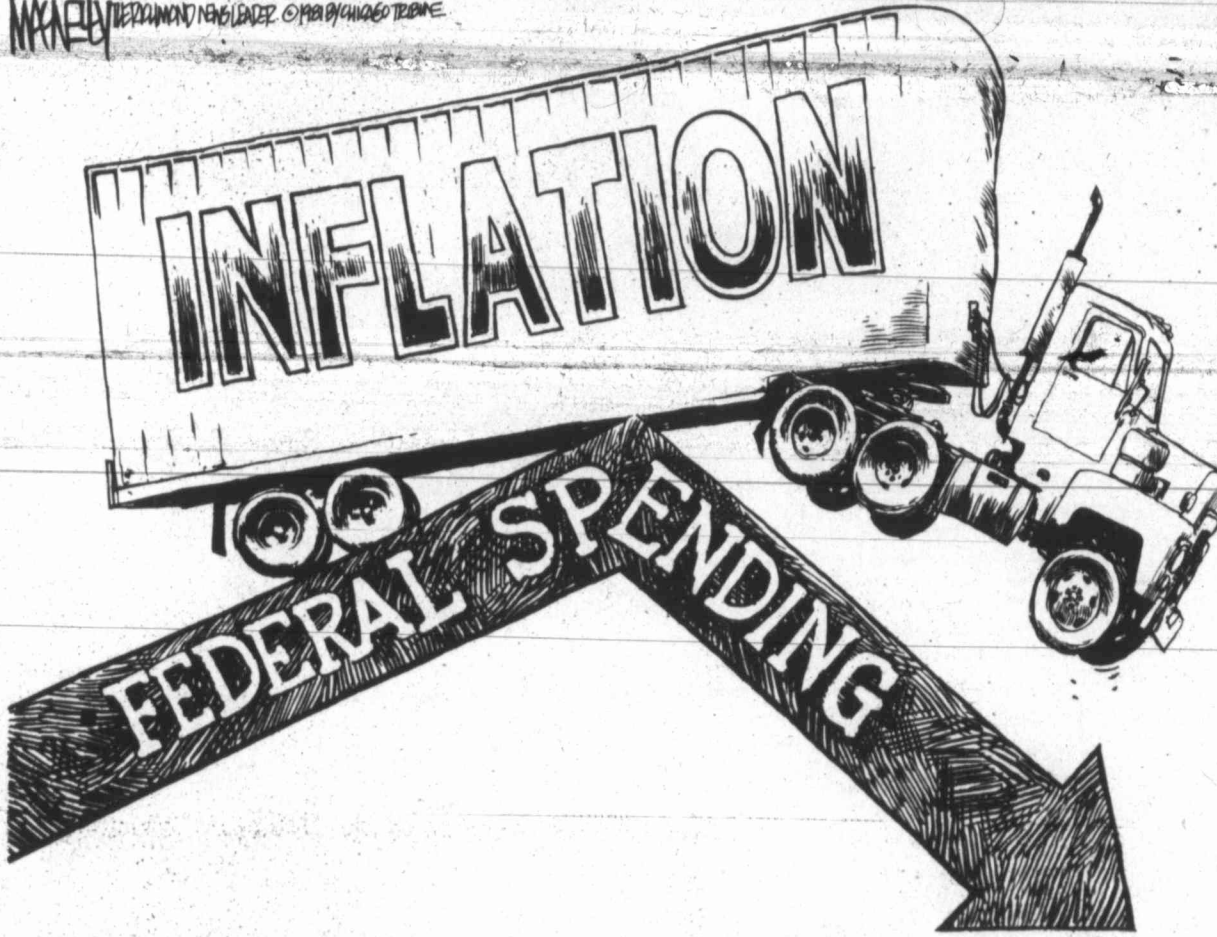

But difficulties have marked every step of the way. Service rivalries have plagued the organization of the Rapid Deployment Force. Thoughtful senators — for example, William Cohen, the Maine Republican — have questioned the utility of the RDF in the event of subversion in the Gulf countries.

Japan and the European allies have disputed the emphasis on military measures in the area. The State Department Arabists have regularly sabotaged any idea of building on the strength of Israel and, by extension, its Egyptian partner in the Camp David Accords. Events — like the capture of Gen. Zia Ul-Haq after the hijacking of a Pakistani airliner — have exposed the weakness of some local leaders. Most Islamic countries — including Saudi Arabia — seem drawn to a neutralist stance, aimed at keeping both the U.S. and Russia out of the Persian Gulf. More and more they warn about a Big Two deal at their expense — a "second Yalta," as Gen. Zia put it to me in a recent interview.

SOME STATE AND Defense Department planners, in these conditions, have felt obliged to take a second look at the security situation from the possibility of subversion promoted by nearby countries linked with the Soviet Union. They have seen that the best way for the U.S. to inspire confidence is to show a willingness to take risks against those extensions of Soviet influence.

Afghanistan is the most obvious example. Soviet troops are exposed there, and the Administration is more and more tilting in the direction of making Moscow pay for the invasion by giving sustained aid to the Afghan resistance.

Libya presents a second case in point. Col. Kadafi has subsidized subversive moves against Morocco, Egypt and the conservative states of the Arabian peninsula.

Many causes for vertigo

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 83-year-old mother is suffering vertigo or dizzy spells. She is to the point where it is difficult for her to be on her feet and move about. She is taking Sinemet, Percogesic and a tranquilizer. Do you have any recommendations? — H.R.H.

For the sake of making a distinction important to doctors, I'll describe vertigo as the sensation of turning or spinning in space. Dizziness, on the other hand can mean a lot of things — lightheadedness, giddiness, uneasiness. I am going to talk about your mother as though she had vertigo.

All I can do is suggest possibilities to consider. Vertigo can come from ear problems. The ear is not only a hearing organ, but also controls balance. An indicator of the ear as a source of vertigo is if the person also has hearing trouble. That points to the ear because of that dual function of hearing and balance. If moving the head brings on vertigo or if there is ear-ringing, those factors further suggest the ear as the likely source.

Secondly, the brain is a common source of vertigo. A stroke might cause this. If there were also leg and arm weakness or double vision, mental changes or persistent headache, the brain would be suspect.

A heartbeats disturbance can be another source if insufficient blood is getting to the brain. Once the irregular heartbeat is controlled the vertigo disappears. Anemia, quite common in the elderly, can be a cause. Also, a sudden drop in blood pressure can cause it. Overuse of tranquilizers is another possible cause.

I would start by analyzing her drug dosage. Sinemet or Percogesic might cause her to be dizzy. The second avenue is her blood pressure, which may be dropping when she rises, common in elderly persons.

I've certainly given you a lot of gist to chew on, haven't I! I hope the source of your mother's problem can be found quickly so that she can get around better. As always, treatment has to match the cause.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Your article on breast cysts and caffeine appeared in our local paper. I started drinking decaffeinated coffee in August and my cysts disappeared by October last year. Would you give me more information about which products contain caffeine? A lot of products may have it and not indicate this on labels—S.A.V.

I can only tell you the chief sources of food caffeine — coffee, tea, cocoa, cola drinks and chocolate. If you take any medicine regularly you should check with the doctor to see if it contains caffeine or related substances. Many medicines do. I don't want to leave the implication here that caffeine has been definitely proven to be related to breast cysts, but I will allow your experience to stand as one woman's bit of evidence to be considered. Eliminating caffeine certainly cannot hurt. What does your doctor have to say about this?

Dear Editor: Some arguments in the letter of Rev. D. Wennerlind from Feb. 10, cannot be undisputed.

The death penalty does not deter! There is no example where the abolition of the death penalty has led to an unusual increase in capital crime. All people who put forward the argument of a threatening and beyond that a general decreasing effect of the capital punishment on the total number of murder or other crime simply deny the fact, that there are many cases where the crime rate even decreased when the death penalty was abolished.

For example, since the death penalty was abolished in West Germany in 1949, the number of murders, rapes, etc. has fallen continuously. Another argument is that the 12 states in the USA which have abolished the death penalty have by no means the highest crime rates in the country.

As a Christian I reject capital punishment, and there are some good reasons in the Holy Bible which support my attitude. God has introduced the death penalty for a nomadic nation which lived in the desert (Ex 21, 12 ff). In the same chapter He allows, for example, that a father can sell his daughter as a slave. Is it right that we can draw the inference that nowadays a father is still entitled to sell his daughter as a slave?

God Himself has sent us His son to tell us His will, and in His message, it is told that we should not punish other people. Under the view of the fallibility of men He warns us not to judge (Mt. 7, 1; Lk. 6, 36-37; Rom. 12, 17), but to leave up the judgment to God (Rom. 12, 19). We should adhere to His first commandment, and that is charity under each other (Mt. 22, 39-40; Mk. 12, 29-31; Lk. 6, 27-36; Jo. 15, 12; 1Jo 3, 14-18).

It is inhuman to put human beings into cages, but is it more human to let them fight isolated in the death row for their life? Is it more human to frighten them to death and to kill them afterwards? There is no fast and painless way of executing someone who is faced with the death penalty. Everybody who has read reports of eye witnesses of executions was shocked, if there was only a bit of emotion for the dignity of men inside him.

Furthermore God tells us that not justice but the attempt to bring back sinners and criminals into society is a desirable behavior (Mt. 5, 38-48; Lk. 6, 27-28; Rom. 12, 17; Rom. 12, 21; Jac. 1:20; 1 Peter 3, 8-9).

Every Christian who supports capital punishment is in danger of violating the commandments of God, because as a supporter he puts up with executions of innocent people. What tell us the gospels concerning such errors? A lot of negative things! (Mt. 25, 40ff; 1 Jo 2, 9; 1 Jo 3, 15).

How come that sinners judge sinners? God forbids it!

The highest commandment of God is the love for Him and to the people. We are obliged to obey His truth, to keep open the way for everybody to regret his faults and to do without punishment and revenge.

Dear Editor, I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the people who so graciously contributed to the successful Western District Convention.

I am grateful for the magnificent Dorothy Garret Coliseum we were privileged to use for our convention.

I want to express a special thanks to the following: To Jan Forestry for her personal assistance in securing every thing we needed for our meetings; to Lynn Thorpe and her workers for the delicious food and excellent service; to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce for the ditty bags, and Mark Sheedy for delivering them to the coliseum; to the businesses of Big Spring, Coahoma, and Forsan for your generous door prizes.

A special thanks to Mickie Dickson for her excellent coverage of the convention.

Big Spring I'm thankful you are my hometown. I pray with God's help we each one will strive to build a better town, a better state, and a better nation.

NRA getting its days in court

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Rifle Association, for years a powerful legislative lobby of Americans who believe they have a right to buy, sell and bear firearms, is training its sights on the nation's courts.

NRA officials say the shooting of President Reagan and renewed demands for gun control will not affect efforts by its new Firearms Civil Rights Legal Defense Fund to fight laws the NRA failed to shoot down in Congress or state legislatures.

But gun control advocates, who have fought a mostly losing battle against NRA lobbyists, say the gun organization is actually defending wrong-doers who would sell guns to the likes of Mexican bandits and New York street gangs.

Caught in the crossfire is the U.S. Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms; the NRA says the agency is too zealous in enforcing federal firearms laws; anti-gun forces say it's not doing enough.

Richard Gardiner, an NRA staff attorney, said the defense fund, recently granted tax-exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service, is a direct response to BATF's enforcement efforts.

"We only take the cases of people who have been entrapped or enticed or set up," Gardiner said. "They are stupid cases brought against people with no prior offenses. We have not taken the case of anyone we didn't think was innocent, although they may technically have violated the law."

Gardiner said the new fund will finance defense efforts in about two dozen cases in which the association is already involved, as well as some new ones.

"The laws we're talking about don't prohibit misuse of a firearm. They're all illegal transfer or possession cases," many prosecuted under the Gun Control Act of 1968, he said.

The BATF has made needless arrests and prosecutions, Gardiner said, arguing that was because "they've got to do something. They can't expect Congress to give their bureau more money to do less. Moonshining isn't the problem it used to be."

Beneficiaries of NRA legal support include an elderly Gary, Ind., woman who was denied a gun permit after Mayor Richard Thatcher ordered a moratorium on them. In Washington, D.C., the NRA is assisting a man whose gun was not returned by authorities even though charges against him were dropped.

But anti-gun forces say the NRA is also helping less deserving defendants. In one case a dealer sold guns to undercover agents who said they planned to sell them to Mexican bandits. In another, a couple sold guns to agents who said they were dealing with New York street gangs.

The NRA says these are cases of entrapment. The BATF responds that even where convictions were not obtained, evidence that was ruled inadmissible at trial justified the prosecution.

(AP LASERPHOTO)

CONFISCATED GUNS — Nashville policeman William Ford shows the three handguns, handcuffs and 50 rounds of ammunition seized Oct. 9 from John W. Hinckley Jr., who is accused of wounding President Reagan and three others Monday. The .38-caliber handgun and two .22-caliber pistols were confiscated as Hinckley tried to board a flight to New York from Nashville's Metropolitan Airlines.

Gun control groups argue the defense fund will be used to intimidate an already gun-shy BATF. The fund's real purpose, said Sam Field of the National Coalition to Ban Handguns, is "to create a political atmosphere in which people will believe BATF is crazy and irresponsible."

Field said the campaign was having an effect. He charged that agents are no longer free to snoop around gun exhibits, which Field called "supermarkets for illegal guns."

BATF director G.R. Dickerson responded to criticism from the NRA by saying he had "tightened" guidelines for investigating gun dealers. He insisted virtually all the cases the bureau has pressed in recent years have been legitimate.

New gun laws unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is unlikely to back new gun controls despite the attempted assassination of President Reagan, says a key Cabinet officer. But congressional gun-control backers are pledging stepped-up efforts for their long-stymied cause.

Attorney General William French Smith was asked by reporters Tuesday if the shooting was likely to change the administration's opposition to handgun controls.

"I doubt very much if it would. It wouldn't in my case," he replied.

Presidential counselor Edwin Meese III said controls on handguns would not have kept John W. Hinckley Jr., the president's alleged assailant, from buying the pistol he used.

Hinckley bought his .22-caliber Rohm RG-14 pistol, described by the FBI as a cheap "Saturday night special," in Dallas, which has no controls beyond the federal law applying throughout the country.

Federal law forbids the sale of handguns to convicted felons, drug or alcohol abusers and the mentally ill. But the customer needs only to sign a statement saying he or she fits none of those categories.

Nabar Martinez picked as member of management intern program

By JAMES WERRELL

Nabar Martinez, director of the Lamesa Campus of Howard College, has been selected as one of an elite number of people from across the country to serve as a member of the Presidential Management Intern Program in Washington, D.C.

"I am really proud to have been one of those selected out of all who competed for the positions. Ordinarily, 250 people are chosen, but this year only 174 will have the opportunity, so it's a real kick for me," said Martinez, who will leave for the Capitol in late May or early June.

The program was established in 1977 by President Carter to attract "to federal service men and women of exceptional management potential who have received special training in planning and managing public programs and policies."

Following the two-year

internship, jobs in government-related areas are almost assured for members. Of the 720 interns who have participated in the program over the past four years, all still hold positions in government jobs; two thirds of them in the District of Columbia, and the remaining third in the nation's major urban centers.

Only those who are completing or receiving a master's or doctoral degree in general management with a public sector focus are eligible for the program. Martinez will complete his master's requirements in city management and urban planning on May 16 at Texas Tech University.

Once recommended by the director of their academic degree program, applicants submit to group and individual problem-solving exercises and a written examination before the final selections are made.

After being selected, the intern is given the opportunity to choose specific areas of government work on which he might wish to concentrate. Martinez hopes to be able to work with either the Federal Office of Management and Budget or the State Department.

"The main thing is that this is a challenging opportunity for a person to exercise his expertise in Washington. Ultimately, I'd like, after two years, to be in a position to really contribute to the operation of government," he said.

Martinez was born and grew up in San Antonio. After a hitch in the U.S. Air Force, he was discharged here, and was hired as an official with Big Spring branch of the Texas Employment Commission.

After six months in that capacity, Martinez organized and coordinated the Comprehensive Employment Training Act Program for the city in the summer of 1974. He served as the head of that program through August of 1980, and began his directorship of the Lamesa Campus of Howard College in January.

He and his wife, Elma, reside at 2803 Macaulan.

Disabled vets, senior citizens eligible for tax credits locally

Tax credits are available locally for persons over 65, and for disabled veterans, according to Dorothy Moore, county tax appraiser-collector.

Mrs. Moore explained that in order to get the tax exemption, persons qualifying in the above categories must sign an affidavit certifying their particular situation.

In the case of disabled veterans, Mrs. Moore said they will receive letters from the Veterans' Administration, and they have to sign the affidavit that comes with the letter.

Persons 65 or over must sign an affidavit and also show that they reside in this country, and will be 65 or over as of the first of this year. Proof of age, such as a Medicaid card, birth certificate or driver's license must be shown, she said.

Assassination attempt reactivates zero factor

By ANDREA COHEN

The attempted assassination of Ronald Reagan Monday afternoon brought to the minds of many, the zero factor.

Since 1840, each president who has been elected in a year ending with zero, has died in office.

William Henry Harrison who was elected in 1840, served 31 days in office. The Whig from Virginia caught pneumonia during his inauguration and died in April, 1841 at the age of 68.

was hanged June 30, 1882.

At the age of 58, William McKinley, elected in 1900, was shot by an anarchist terrorist, Sept. 6, 1901, during his second term of office. He was shot by Leon Czolgosz while welcoming citizens at the Pan American exposition in Buffalo, N.Y. The Ohio Republican died Sept. 14, 1901 after uttering his last words, "It is God's way. His will, not ours, be done."

Warren Harding, who was elected in 1920, took a trip to Alaska three years later, on June 30, 1923. On the way, he became ill and died in San Francisco Aug. 2, 1923 at age 57.

The next president to be elected in a year ending with zero was Abraham Lincoln, who was first elected in 1860. Lincoln was shot April 14, 1865 during his second term of office while he was attending a play at Ford's Theater, Washington, D.C. The Republican from Kentucky died the next day at the age of 56. His assassin, actor John Wilkes Booth, was killed before he was brought to trial.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected to his third term as president in 1940 and died five years later, during his fourth term of office. He succumbed April 12, 1945 in Warm Springs, Ga., of natural causes at the age of 63.

James Abram Garfield, a Republican from Ohio was elected to the presidency in 1880. He was shot July 2, 1881 by Charles J. Guiteau, an unbalanced office-seeker, while he was entering the old Baltimore and Potomac station in Washington, D.C. He died over two months later, on Sept. 19, 1881 in Elberon, N.J. His murderer

John F. Kennedy was shot in the head in Dallas, November 22, 1963, three years after he was elected. Kennedy, 46, was killed by Lee Harvey Oswald while he was traveling through the downtown area in a motorcade. Oswald, like John Wilkes Booth, was killed before he was brought to trial.

Council unconstitutional?

TDC seeking to abolish Clements' Prison Approval Board

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Department of Corrections officials are looking for a way to abolish the three-member board, chaired by Gov. Bill Clements, that decides where the state will build prisons. The Associated Press has learned.

Doing away with the Prison Approval Board would give the Board of Corrections the power to buy prison land. TDC hopes to get money to buy two new prison sites in 1982 and 1983.

TDC lawyer John Mathis, at the request of Assistant Director Jack Kyle, prepared a list of five riders that could be tacked onto the appropriation bill. Any of the five would kill the three-member Approval Board.

That board includes the governor, the general land commissioner and the chairman of the Board of Corrections. An attempt to buy land last year for a new prison was stymied when area residents complained to the Approval Board.

A Feb. 12 "interface communication", obtained by The Associated Press, said Kyle asked Mathis for the riders. Mathis' letter said Kyle was looking for ways to "streamline" the site selection process.

The lawyer said the Approval Board system might be vulnerable to constitutional attack because it gives the governor a "continuing substantive veto" over prison money. The governor can veto prison appropriations approved by the Legislature, and he gets a second shot when the Board of Corrections asks for permission to buy a specific site.

Mathis offered five riders abolishing the Approval Board. He recommended one giving the Board of Corrections the power to buy land, but requiring an appraisal from the General Land Office.

"The rider also will legislatively recognize a mode of acquisition other than purchase, to-wit, the exercise of the power of eminent domain," Mathis said in his comment.

All state agencies have the right to condemn private land and buy it. Mathis suggested TDC should include it in a rider.

The lawyer also listed riders which would give the Board of Corrections "sole authority" over land purchases or require a General Land Office appraisal and governor's "finding of fact" that the land is needed.

Any scheme involving the governor might be unconstitutional, Mathis said.

"Any such involvement of the governor in this process invites litigation and, pending a successful outcome of the present Grimes County litigation, may be vulnerable to attack," Mathis' letter said.

The Grimes County litigation is a suit filed by Navasota-area residents fighting the planned purchase of 5,968 acres for a new prison. The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals here ruled on March 25 that the Approval Board system is constitutional. The Grimes County residents will appeal to the Texas Supreme Court.

Kyle said TDC wants the same land-buying power enjoyed by other state agencies, which don't have to present their case to a board headed by the governor. The Approval Board is not needed, he said.

"The land commissioner is already in position and is considered to furnish an evaluation on any property considered by the department. He already can say the land is worth it. That's his job," Kyle said.

"We are trying to get the best and smoothest way it can work," he said.

General Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said he would not be sorry to see the Approval Board go out of business.

"When I ran for office I thought of a lot of things I wanted to do. It never occurred to me I would be a member of an approval board for prison sites," Armstrong said. "That was something the Legislature thought up."

He said his role on the board is to evaluate land, not make policy decisions on where prisons should be built.

Armstrong said he'd miss his seat on the board like he'd miss a sensitively located boil that would make it difficult for him to sit on any board.

Kyle said the plan envisioned by TDC would include public hearings before the Board of Corrections. Those hearings are now held by the Approval Board after the Board of Corrections recommends a land purchase.

He said recent land-buy problems are not the "main reason" for trying to get rid of the Approval Board, but "I can't tell you that it doesn't have anything to do with the problems."

"It probably would have gone smoothly if not for the Approval Board," said Kyle.

TDC hopes to have money to buy two new prison sites in the coming biennium. Previous attempts to buy land for the overcrowded system — which faces a court order to cut crowding — have been frustrated by local opposition.

Hinckley was lonely man at Tech

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — John Warnock Hinckley Jr., charged with trying to assassinate President Ronald Reagan, changed from an "average" high school student to a troubled, lonely young man by the time he enrolled in college, according to the memories of those who knew him then.

Classmates at Highland Park High School in Dallas, where Hinckley graduated in 1973, have recalled him as "average" and "part of the crowd."

But Calvin Wynne, a maintenance man at the Lubbock apartment where Hinckley, 25, lived while a student at Texas Tech University, said Hinckley told him political leaders should be eliminated.

"His attitude, his personality, was strained," Wynne said of Hinckley, currently tranquilized and held without bond at a U.S. Marine Corps base near Washington, D.C., where he awaits psychiatric evaluations.

One of Hinckley's former professors at Tech, Otto Nelson, said Hinckley wrote a book report on Hitler's "Mein Kampf" and one on the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz in Poland, where 2 million people were killed, as extra-credit projects in a 1978 German history class.

Nelson said he recalled Hinckley as a self-sufficient student who took no part in class discussions, and characterized him as "attentive, diligent, punctual."

During last year's presidential campaign Hinckley said if he had to choose he would support Libertarian Party candidate Ed Clark, "but as far as he was concerned, none of them knew what they were doing," Wynne said.

"The main gist of the conversation was about political leaders, and what he thought should be done was that they should all be eliminated," Wynne said.

"It seemed he wanted to find someone to tell whatever his problem was," Wynne added. "There was a nervousness about him."

In a strange side development, it was revealed Tuesday that Hinckley's older brother, Scott, was to have dined Tuesday night with the son of Vice President George Bush in Neil Bush's Denver home.

The Houston Post told of the engagement in a copyright story Tuesday, but Neil Bush and his wife, Sharon, said Scott Hinckley was a girlfriend of hers and that the dinner party had since been cancelled.

Chinatown Wars guns traced to shop that sold pistol used in shooting

DALLAS (AP) — Federal agents say a large number of weapons used in the deadly "Chinatown Wars" in New York were purchased from the same Dallas pawn shop that sold the pistol used to shoot President Reagan.

The Dallas Morning News reported Wednesday that undercover agents from the bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms traced weapons used in a murder, kidnapping and assault on a police officer — all involving Chinese gang members in New York — to Rocky's Pawn Shop in downtown Dallas.

However, federal agents told the newspaper that pawn shop owner Isaac "Rocky" Goldstein apparently violated no laws by selling the weapons linked to the Chinatown violence in 1978 and 1979.

Copies of pawn shop sales records seized by the FBI on Monday showed John W. Hinckley Jr., charged with shooting the president, purchased two identical .22-caliber RG-14 pistols at the store Oct. 13.

A federal grand jury in Dallas later that month indicted Mike Chin Chie Yu-Yee, 30, and his cousin, Peter Cheung Hon Law, 25, both of Dallas, on 38 counts alleging conspiracy to unlawfully deal in firearms and illegally transport firearms from Dallas to New York and extortion.

Both Dallas men were given stiff prison sentences in July 1979 for conspiring to supply weapons to members of separate Chinese-American organized crime groups, the newspaper said.

The News also reported other pistols traced from New York to the Dallas pawn shop include .38-caliber handguns at the scene of a June 1, 1978, Chinatown shooting; three of five weapons confiscated from a known Tong member on June 20, 1978; and a .25-caliber gun carried by another Tong member arrested in June of 1978.

Candidates speak out in quest of council jobs

The following are answers to eight questions submitted last week to the six candidates seeking seats on the Big Spring City Council. Incumbent Jack Y. Smith will face H.V. Questions:

What inspired you to seek this office?

I have the time, effort, interest and concern.

I love this town and I care about this town. This is where my children will grow up. I want them to love this town as I do and I want them to return here to rear their children. Being a City Council member is something I can do for this town and do well. This year has afforded me the opportunity to devote the time necessary to do a good job in this important aspect of city government.

Having served the last 19 months, I see lots of opportunities for our community to grow; lots of problems that need solving. Having the time, interest, and background training from industry inspired me to offer my time and services to the community.

For several years, I have been interested in running for a seat on the City Council and when I attended a meeting a couple of months ago, it was then and there that I felt it was time for the average citizen to get involved with our city government.

I felt a need to take interest in how our city's government will handle new industries and community buildup.

A desire to serve the citizens of Big Spring to the best of my ability.

Would you favor a renewed effort to pass some of the bond issues which were voted down in the last election?

No. The voters have spoken.

In this day of inflation, you must consider your priorities because you cannot afford to have everything you want. I would not favor renewing these issues in mass in the near future; it is obvious from the last bond election that people do not want their taxes increased any more at this time. Some of these issues will eventually have to be renewed.

I believe all of the bonds were needed, and if enough concerned citizens requested them, I would agree.

Not at this time. I am not convinced that a complete detailed study was made by the city before the bond issues were presented to the citizens of Big Spring. I was, however, in favor of the Water, Sewer, and Street Improvement Bond.

I think the citizens made their decision on that matter and it's up to them to bring it up again.

Not at the present time. I feel the voters of Big Spring indicated to the city council that they wanted to take care of our streets, water and sewers, but were against spending extra money for additional capital improvements.

What would you do to try and stimulate industrial development of the city?

We should always be for industrial development and support the industrial board in any way possible. This provides more jobs for our citizens, as well as summer jobs for young people.

Our industrial search committee has done an outstanding job thus far in attracting industries to Big Spring. The City Council should continue to support this committee's efforts in every way possible. We have much to offer industries coming here, but a cleaner, more attractive community would certainly stimulate more rapid industrial growth.

Our present industrial team is doing a fine job. I am willing to do whatever is necessary to stimulate this growth. Keep working and trying is the only idea I have.

I, myself, as one person, could not make a statement as to how I would stimulate industrial development, but I would sit down with the leaders of our community and work as diligently as possible to come up with a good way to attract industry here.

We have to find industries that will function well in this region of Texas. We have to sell Big Spring as an ideal location for new businesses, and in the process figure how many people will be brought in the community and how many in the community will be employed by these businesses.

First impressions are extremely important if industrial prospects are to take a second look at Big Spring as a potential site. Thus, we need to clean up our town to make that good first impression. If we can make a good first impression, and get prospects to take a second look, I believe Big Spring offers what many industrial prospects are looking for. The men presently attempting to try to attract industry are doing a good job, but we cannot afford to run people off on their first trip to town.

Would you favor construction of a second industrial park in or near the city?

If and when it is needed.

When the need arises, I would consider construction of a second industrial park.

I feel we should be in a position to have available whatever is necessary. Oftentimes, the potential industry has its own ideas about a location.

Yes, I believe a second industrial park would greatly improve our chance of swaying larger industries here. I would think that northwest of the city would be an ideal location.

Yes, if we have fully made use of the one we already have.

We currently have adequate industrial park space. Therefore, I would be against a second industrial park at present. If the need arose, I would support fully the establishment of a second or third park.

Do you favor running for the council seat at large or by places?

At large.

By places.

I feel I represent all of the citizens, but would not object to a change.

I favor running for the council seat at large because it eliminates runoff elections and it would give our citizens the opportunity to vote for the candidate of their choice without having to cast a vote in each place.

At large. Councilmen represent the entire city.

At large.

What, in your estimation, qualifies you to be familiar with the needs of the city?

I served 28 years as Fire Chief; I worked for and with six city managers; prepared the budget for the fire department for 28 years, and lived within that budget. I met with the managers and commissioners twice monthly for 28 years, and was a public relations go-between in all departments and acted as a public relations man for the fire department and other departments with the citizens of Big Spring.

The needs of this city are ever-changing; therefore, our needs 20 years ago are not our needs today. I have the time, the concern and the objectivity to investigate each issue thoroughly as it arises and thus become aware of these needs and will use this information to make decisions for the best interest of the community.

Having lived here for 47 years; served as a councilman in the late '40s and early '50s; been involved in most all of the communities past projects; served the last 19 months as a councilman. I feel I am very familiar with the desires and needs of the community.

I feel that, as a lifetime resident of our community, it qualifies me to run and I have seen the growth and decline of our city.

I was raised in Big Spring, I lived in neighborhoods with dirt streets, poor sewage, vacant lots that were over run with weeds, and very poor recreational facilities.

I have worked with the city council and city staff in different capacities in the past couple of years. I have served on the Traffic Commission and the Zoning Board of Adjustment. I also chaired the Citizens' Planning Committee that looked at streets and storm sewers, and chaired the Citizens' Committee that promoted the capital improvements program. This experience has given me background into how our city government functions.

What area of the city government do you think needs priority?

Sound fiscal management; improving public relations of all city employees within all departments and with the public. We have a very disturbed group of employees. They feel insecure in their jobs. We have lost many of our long-term employees of the city, not of their own choosing.

The first priority of the city council should be to see that each area of the city government is run as efficiently as possible. No one area should be dealt with exclusively over any of the others.

We need improvements in many areas. Progress is being made, but crime, streets, water improvements and parks are a few.

I will not elaborate on priorities but to say that the Administration, Police Department, and Water and Sewer should be evaluated.

Streets, sewage, and recreational.

Our city government is much like any business in that our priorities must be good personnel management and sound fiscal responsibility. Any problem the city might have relates to one of these areas.

Do you think our police and firemen need raises or is their pay commensurate with what they are asked to do?

I believe in the budget procedure on all raises. So, to answer this question, I would have to look to the budget. From what I understand, some raises have been given when the money wasn't there. In that case, they are following a procedure that will lead to static between one department and another.

At the time the present budget was adopted (last September), the salaries for police and firemen were raised seven-and-a-half percent. These present salaries put them comparable to police and firemen's salaries in other cities in our area.

No policeman anywhere is paid enough for what he is expected to do and to put up with. Our policemen and firemen's salaries are under the surrounding areas (larger towns) and I feel this should be improved.

I would be in favor of seeing that our Police and Fire Departments' pay scale be above the average. Our community should want the best in these services.

I think everyone should have a salary that coincides with the cost of living, and people that risk their lives for us should be at the top of the list.

I do believe that police and firemen need raises, and I will try every way possible to see that not only police and firemen, but all city employees are paid commensurate with what they are asked to do.

'It'll make your mustache grow'

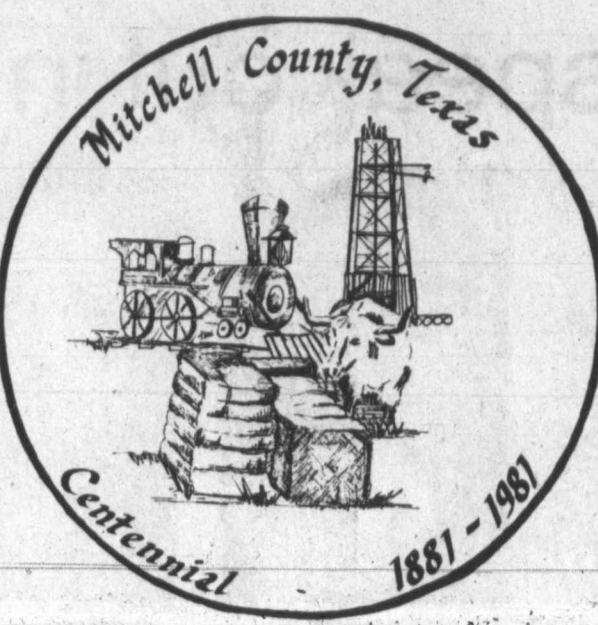

A tableau of hot innocence featuring governor of Texas

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — So, governor, next time you put your foot in your mouth, first shake some Tobasco Sauce on it.
 Gov. Bill Clements professed his love for the hot stuff recently after being introduced to several legislators from Mexico, including one from the State of Tobasco.
 "I eat it on eggs and hamburgers and meat and anything else," the governor told them. Learning that the Tobasco official had never heard of the famous sauce, which actually is made in Louisiana, Clements insisted his visitor try some.
 He led the group into his private Capitol office and produced a bottle and spoon. The Tobasco was obviously reluctant and nervous about the taste test and Clements let it drop after declaring, "It's very good. It'll make your mustache grow."

 The Mexicans bid adios and left, with several laughing and shaking their heads.
 Be it resolved...
 Any senator sponsoring a resolution that asks Congress to do something knows by now that Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur will oppose it, no matter what the issue. Parker says such resolutions waste time and money.
 But he doesn't raise an eyebrow — much less his voice — to protest the hundreds of resolutions that senators crank out honoring constituents, friends and political supporters. In fact, he has sponsored a few himself, including ones honoring Port Arthur Day and the Lamar University basketball team.
 The Senate leader in such resolutions is freshman Bob Glasgon, a Stephenville Democrat, whose count was 100-plus as of last week.

 When they run out of subjects to honor, they've always got each other...
 One resolution last week, introduced by Sen. Roy Blake of Nacogdoches, honored Sen. W.E. "Pete" Spelson of Midland on Spelson's 58th birthday.
 Blake, 53, said he was "just glad to know there's somebody in the Senate a little bit older than I am."
 Ages in the Texas Senate this session run from 31 for Kent Caperton of Bryan to 69 for the only female member, Betty Andujar of Fort Worth.
 And now for more serious things...
 On the Capitol's House side, an agenda for a meeting of the Rules Committee had a single item for calling its nine members together: a proposal by Houston Republican Don Henderson that the nine-banded armadillo be proclaimed the official mammal of Texas.
 Stick it to him...
 Rep. Hugo Berlanga, Corpus Christi Democrat, presented an unusual gift to Rep. Ken Riley, the city's freshman Republican, the other day on the House floor.

 Riley, in the midst of a tussle with Democrats in the local delegation over a court bill, good-naturedly took possession of an oversized diaper pin.
 The gift stems from a comment by a third Conroe legislator, Democrat Arnold Gonzales, who complained of Riley: "He's just like a baby wetting his diapers. We have to change his diapers constantly."
 Gonzales and Riley, meanwhile, still don't talk to each other.
 Rep. Rodney Ton of Conroe, a freshman Democrat, was a little overconfident — not to say, dead wrong — when he predicted the House would easily accept the Senate's amendment to his bill for an emergency $35 million appropriation for prison construction.

which will have a Centennial celebration of its own starting this month, at which time the arrival of the Texas and Pacific Railway will be commemorated, has adopted the above logo for the jubilee. Toni Everett was the artist. The Rogers Company of Pittsburgh has been retained to help plan the celebration, which will culminate with a pageant depicting the history of Mitchell County. Bobby Lemons is general chairman of the Centennial committee.

Carter visits LBJ Ranch
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter headed for the historic LBJ Ranch today where he planned to spend the night before a Thursday tour of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library at the University of Texas.
 Carter planned to fly directly to the ranch in Stonewall, 65 miles west of here. The sprawling ranch's landing strip was extended to accommodate jet aircraft while Johnson was president so he could fly directly to his home.

Representative Larry Don Shaw Reports from Austin

To lenders
 Interest rate bill extravagant gift

It was a classic lesson in logrolling. Individually, the banking, savings and loan, and credit card lobbies knew they would face tough opposition in their efforts to get the Legislature to raise their interest ceilings.
 So they looked around for other categories of lenders whose need for higher ceilings is obvious — state-chartered credit unions, for example, and retail merchants with open-end charge accounts.
 Then, the needy and the greedy all teamed up behind one "omnibus interest rate bill," combined all their lobbyists into one powerful juggernaut, and ran right over the people of Texas. It was not a fun thing to watch.
 As introduced, the bill would create a "floating" interest rate ceiling, determined on any given day by doubling the current interest rate being paid by the federal government on 6-month U.S. Treasury bills.
 The bill included a maximum ceiling of 30 percent and a "minimum" ceiling of 18 percent, below which the ceiling could never fall, no matter how the Treasury bill rate might dip. (Small loan companies, or finance companies, would remain one exception to the ceiling.)
 The interest rate on their smallest loans, taking into consideration front-end "acquisition charges" and monthly handling charges, can run as high as 240 percent.
 Each type of loan is a different animal and, in my opinion, should be dealt with separately. State-chartered credit unions currently have a 12 percent ceiling and need an increase to compete with federally-chartered credit unions which have an 18 percent ceiling. Retail merchants and seed dealers, as another example, have a 10 percent ceiling, which is totally inadequate in today's money market.
 These weren't the lenders who were crying the loudest, however. The small loan finance companies and the big bank holding companies actually convinced some

Staff is realigned

Dallas-based Fashion Showcase, a division of Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc. has realigned its staff and added five new members.
 Gayle Cox, former managing editor and advertising director, has moved to the position of director of communications for Show Case Publishing Co.
 In her new position, Cox will direct all promotional activities, editorial, production and new product ventures for the company. She is replaced as national sales director by Michael Horn.
 Horn, former director of the California Apparel Industries Association, will, as sales director, be in charge of sales personnel in Dallas, New York and Los Angeles and be responsible for revenue on a nation-wide basis.
 Other staff additions include: Lynn Mimmel, coordinating editor, who will direct the entire editorial staff. Mimmel has an extensive retail background in the promotional departments of several major retail stores.
 Under Mimmel's director will be Debra Young, a recent graduate of SMU, who is the new market editor and Nadeane Walker, associate editor with extensive journalistic and fashion expertise.
 Other changes are the appointment of Jim Sanderson as new Southwest account executive with experience in both men's and women's apparel, and the expansion of the responsibilities of art director, Enrique Perez, to include graphic direction for all publications, proposed new ventures and promotional activities.

Reunion held in Cee City
COLORADO CITY (SC) — Approximately 135 persons shared memories Saturday night at the annual ColTex Refinery Reunion in the Civic Center.
 Mildred Free chaired a discussion to old times at ColTex with persons recalling experiences of early refinery days.
 Additionally, a brief memorial service was held in tribute to former ColTex employees who are deceased.
 Among those in attendance was Mrs. Retchie Jones, whose uncle, L.H. Fritchard, bought the refinery in 1923 and later sold it to Standard Oil of California in 1925.
 Earl Weber was recognized as the oldest former ColTex employee in attendance. He is 84 and worked for the refinery for 37 years.

Steers move into 5-way tie for 5-A-A-A-A lead

ODESSA — Despite the fact that they were out-hit, the Big Spring Steers made it all look too easy here Tuesday afternoon, rolling to a 9-1 triumph over the Odessa Permian Panthers in a District 5-A-A-A-A first half boys baseball game.

Permian counted 12 hits off Big Spring hurler Wayne Shipman, but he scattered them most effectively. The Steers, meanwhile, crunched Permian's Brad Phillips for all of their 10 hits in the third and fourth innings when they scored eight of their runs.

The win moves the Steers into a five-way tie for the lead in District 5-A-A-A-A, as they now sport a 2-1 record. Permian dropped to 1-2 in league play. On the year, the Steers are 8-7, while Permian is 4-9.

After both hurlers blanked their foes in the first two innings, the Big Spring hitters provided Shipman with more than enough cushion in the third. The Bovines batted around in that frame, collecting three hits and plating five runners.

Big Spring then all but put the game out of reach with a three-run, four-hit fourth inning that boosted their advantage to 8-0.

The Steers counted their final run in the fifth inning, while the Mojo ruined Shipman's shutout with a lone run in the sixth inning.

5-A-A-A-A Roundup

The District 5-A-A-A-A boys baseball race was thrown into a five-way tie for the lead after Tuesday afternoon's action, thanks mainly to the 19-0 whipping the Midland Lee Rebels inflicted on the previously unbeaten (in 5-A-A-A-A) Abilene Cooper Cougars.

As of today, Lee, Cooper, Big Spring, Abilene and Odessa are all tied for the lead with marks of 2-1.

Lee used the four-hit pitching of ace Alan Koonce and a 16-hit attack to pummel Cooper. The Rebels exploded for eight runs in the first two innings, and the slaughter was on.

The Abilene Eagles took advantage of seven Midland High errors in cruising to an 8-1 triumph. Both teams had six hits in the contest.

The Odessa Bronchos spotted San Angelo a first inning lead, then rambled back for an 8-1 verdict over the hapless Bobcats. Terry Stahl limited the San Angelo team to seven hits in the contest.

A BULLISH LEAP — New York Knicks' Michael Richardson (20) leaps over Chicago Bulls' Reggie Theus during first half of their Eastern NBA playoff game Tuesday night at New York's Madison Square Garden.

76ers, Bulls get early rebound in NBA mini-series

By the Associated Press

The streaking Chicago Bulls and the rebounding Philadelphia 76ers have drawn first blood in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bulls, who won their final eight games of the regular season, racked up victory No. 9 Tuesday night by beating the New York Knicks 90-80 as Ricky Sobers scored 18 points and Artis Gilmore grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked seven shots.

The 76ers, shaking off the disappointment of their season-ending loss at Boston which cost them the division title, overpowered the Indiana Pacers 124-108 behind 32 points by Julius Erving and 10 points apiece by Darryl Dawkins and Bobby Jones.

Today the playoff focus shifts West as the other two best-of-three mini-series get under way with Houston at Los Angeles and Kansas City at Portland.

The Bulls fell behind 24-12 after a dreadful first quarter but recovered and shut down the Knicks' running game as Gilmore anchored a staunch defensive effort. The 12 points were the fewest scored by the Knicks all season.

"We made an extra-special effort to stop them on defense," said Gilmore. "At first our guys were tight but then we relaxed, executed on offense and played good defense."

Chicago closed to within 40-35 at halftime, then Gilmore and David Greenwood teamed to lead a 17-5 spurt starting the third quarter that put the Bulls ahead to stay. Greenwood, who had just two points in the first half, scored 11 points in that surge and Gilmore blocked three shots.

"Coach told me I was not taking my jumpers," said Greenwood. "He told me to go out and assert myself and I did."

That spurt put Chicago in front 52-45. The Bulls led by 10 early in the fourth quarter, saw the Knicks draw within three at 72-69 with 4:30 to go but put New York away with six straight points by Dwight Jones.

Greenwood finished with 17 points, Jones 16 and Gilmore 13. Ray Williams led New York with 19 points and Russell scored 17.

Philadelphia outscored Indiana 16-6 in the final 3:13 of the first quarter to lead 38-33, then broke the game wide open with a 16-4 spurt to start the second period for a 54-37 advantage.

Indiana, making its first playoff appearance in five NBA seasons, pulled within 10 points three times in the second half but could come no closer.

"The defense was the big difference tonight," said Bobby Jones. "We played smart basketball, helping each other out and double-teaming. Indiana has a lot of shooters and can get hot quickly."

Pacers forward Mike Bantom says his club was outmanned.

"Philadelphia has tremendous depth," he said. "They have four forwards and they get the ball inside."

Billy Knight led the Pacers with 25 points and Bantom had 19.

Chicago will have the home-court advantage when it tries to wrap up its first-round series against the Knicks Friday night, while Philadelphia will try for a sweep at Indiana Thursday night.

Los Angeles begins its quest to become the first team to successfully defend an NBA championship since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics against Houston, which comes into the mini-series loose and free-wheeling.

"If the Lakers lose to us, they would catch a lot of criticism," observed Rockets guard Mike Dunleavy. "That's the meaning of pressure. We're in a position where we can just go in and take our best shot."

Although the Lakers compiled a 54-28 record, Los Angeles' season was disrupted by the injury to guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who missed 45 games because of torn knee cartilage.

"We're certainly entering the playoffs from a different vantage point," said Lakers Coach Paul Westhead. "Last year we were divisional champions and were perfectly programmed. Our team was more settled and our starting unit was intact."

"We haven't had that advantage this season."

The series features a matchup of premier centers — six-time Most Valuable Player award winner Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Lakers and rebounding champion Moses Malone of the Rockets.

Portland's Ransey honored by NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie guard Kelvin Ransey, whose scoring and playmaking in the final month of the season helped the Portland Trail Blazers reach the NBA playoffs, was named NBA Player of the Month for March.

Ransey averaged 22.0 points and 8.6 assists as the Blazers won 11 of 15 games down the stretch. Included in his output were pro highs of 35 points against Denver March 10 and 13 assists against Houston March 20.

Friends recall more than track with Jesse Owens

By the Associated Press

"He was a great athlete but, most of all, he was a peacemaker in a world of hate and violence," said Mrs. Jesse Owens.

"Don't take it wrong, the man was no Uncle Tom," interjected Dave Albritton, Jesse Owens' teammate and later closest friend. "He was strong. He spoke up, but he spoke up in his own way. No one will ever realize how important this man was in breaking down those barriers between whites and blacks."

Marty Glickman, the one-time Syracuse sprinter whom Jesse once sought to take his place on the U.S. Olympic relay team just to spite Adolf Hitler, because Glickman is Jewish, had a special tribute.

"He was completely selfless," said Marty. "All you had to do was look at him — you knew right away that he was marked for greatness."

They're not going to let the legend of the great Jesse Owens die — and that's good.

There are few names among our giants of sport who appear destined to withstand the ravages of time — Babe Ruth, for instance; Jack Dempsey, Jim Thorpe, Jackie Robinson and especially Jesse Owens. Here was a man apart.

His widow, friends and longtime admirers gathered in New York Tuesday — the first anniversary of Jesse's death from cancer — to erect two monuments to his memory.

One is the Jesse Owens International Amateur Athlete Award, to be given every year to a world figure chosen for athletic achievement. The other is the Jesse Owens International Indoor Track Meet, to be held for selected men and women stars from throughout the world.

Both carry Jesse's name. Both have U.S. Olympic approval. Both are geared to raise funds for the American Cancer Society. You will hear more of them.

Meanwhile, take a seat in the 40th floor hotel suite of Ruth Owens, Jesse's childhood sweetheart and mother of his three grown daughters, and listen to her and family friend Albritton talk about the inner qualities of the black man who won four gold medals in the Nazi Olympics in Berlin in 1936.

"We met in junior high when he was 14½, and I was 13," said Ruth, an attractive, vibrant woman of 66. "We were together in high school and at Ohio State. This July we would have celebrated our 50th wedding anniversary."

"I can tell you — truthfully — that in all that time, we never had a serious argument. If I became angry, Jesse would ignore me and come back later and say, 'Okay now, baby? Things are going to be all right.'"

"He was the eternal optimist. When things went bad, he would caution me, 'Relax. All you have to do is wait on time.'"

Indiana reserves praised for role in national title

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Isiah Thomas, the catalyst behind Indiana's late-season turnaround and the guiding force behind the Hoosiers' drive to the NCAA basketball championship, is a jealous young man.

"It took Ray Tolbert and Steve Risle four years," Thomas joked with the mammoth welcome-home crowd at Indiana's Assembly Hall Tuesday. "It took Glen Grunwald five years; it's taken Landon Turner and Ted Kitchel three years; it's taken us sophomores two years."

Then, cracking a smile over his round, baby face and looking toward Mike LaFave, the only freshman on the squad, Thomas said, "I'm a little jealous of Mike, because it took him only one year."

LaFave didn't play in Indiana's 63-50 victory Monday night over North Carolina for the school's fourth NCAA title and the second in the past six years under Coach Bobby Knight. But he and the rest of the reserves were as much responsible for the Hoosiers' victory as the starters, Thomas said.

"In practice, there's a red team and a white team," said the 6-foot-1 All-American, talking about Indiana's depth and the team's optimism for next year. "I can honestly say that since the tourney started, we (starters on the red team) have never beaten the white team, the team we play against in practice."

"It's the guys you don't see much of, the ones who haven't played much, they are the most important part of the team," Thomas added.

About 2,000 fans, including Gov. Robert Orr and Mayor William Hudnut, greeted the returning Hoosiers at Indianapolis International Airport early Tuesday afternoon. A motorcade estimated by police at about 200 cars then escorted the chartered team bus on the 60-mile trip south to Bloomington, where another 10,000 or so students and fans awaited them inside Assembly Hall.

"This is probably the greatest moment of my life, but let me tell you something about this team," Risle shouted out over a sea of Big Red. "You haven't seen the

Braves blanked by Astro arms

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Cesar Cedeno slammed a two-run homer and three Houston Astros pitchers combined to shutout the Atlanta Braves 4-0 Tuesday in exhibition baseball.

Craig Reynolds scored on Cedeno's third-inning homer off losing pitcher Rick Camp. Left fielder Eddie Miller snagged the ball as it sailed over the fence, but it was jarred loose and fell over the wall.

Denny Walling scored on a bases-loaded error in the fifth inning, and Alan Knicely added the final run on a double by Reynolds.

Joe Niekro pitched seven innings and allowed eight Atlanta hits. Frank LaCorte and Dave Smith each hurled one hitless inning.

The agony and the ecstasy

SAD SAM — North Carolina's Sam Perkins is pictured in the Tar Heels' dressing room after his team's loss to Indiana by a score of 63-50 at the NCAA finals in Philadelphia on Monday.

ALL WRAPPED UP — MVP Isiah Thomas with a piece of net around his neck and Randy Wittman (24) of Indiana University show their feelings after beating the University of North Carolina by a score of 63-50 at the NCAA finals in Philadelphia on Monday.

Question arises after NCAA plays title game on Monday

Sport and its place in society is at the heart of the controversy over the NCAA's decision to play its basketball championship game just hours after President Reagan was shot by a would-be assassin.

Sports writers across the nation devoted columns Tuesday criticizing or defending the action.

"The ultimate decision to play, of course, was an affront to any person who doesn't have pompons for brains," wrote Ray Diddinger, a columnist for the Philadelphia Daily News.

"With the sound of gunfire still echoing on all three networks, should they have played the game?" said sports editor Joe Silmartin in the Phoenix Gazette. "It's a good question, and I think 'Yes' was a good answer."

College coaches generally said that there was no other choice than to let Indiana and North Carolina play as scheduled Monday night.

"The kids on both teams felt for the president, but the kids were here to play,"

Randolph runs NY by Rangers

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Willie Randolph scored both New York runs and rookie right-hander Gene Nelson pitched six innings of three-hit ball as the Yankees beat the Texas Rangers 2-1 in exhibition baseball Tuesday night.

Jones singled and scored the winning run on a double by Ruppert Jones in the third inning. He had opened the scoring in the first after another single, coming home on a grounder by Dave Winfield.

The Rangers' run came in the second inning when Mario Mendoza singled in Leon Roberts from second.

Nelson, 20, walked three and struck out seven. For the spring, he has pitched 20 innings in five games, allowing 11 hits and 15 walks while striking out 19 and compiling a 1.80 ERA.

Kansas star Woodard a female clone of Dr. J?

NEW YORK (AP) — Can Lynette Woodard, the best player in women's college basketball this season, be compared to Julius Erving, the smooth and skillful All-Star forward of the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association?

Marian Washington, Woodard's coach at the University of Kansas, thinks so.

"She comes the closest of any woman's player to doing what Dr. J can do in the air," Washington said Tuesday, after Woodard was named winner of the Wade Trophy, presented to the nation's outstanding women's basketball player.

"She has exceptional body balance and coordination," added Washington, who directed the Jayhawks to a 27-5 record this season and their second straight Big Eight Conference championship.

Those talents, Woodard hopes, will help her become the first woman's player to execute a successful dunk shot.

"I think one day I'll get it," said the 6-foot Woodard, the women's all-time collegiate scoring leader with a total of 3,649 points, a 26.3 average, plus a career average of 12.4 rebounds per game. She was the nation's leader in steals for each of the past three years and the team leader in assists for the past four.

The lack of a dunk shot is the major difference between men's and women's basketball, said the soft-spoken Woodard, a member of the "honorary" 1980 U.S. Olympic team (which boycotted the Summer Games in Moscow) and an Academic All-American.

"Otherwise, I think women have the same fundamentals as men, they have finesse and they have a lot of players who can 'shake and bake,'" she said.

Woodard said women's basketball, once a poor stepchild to the men's brand, has made tremendous strides in recent years. "The game is much faster, there is a lot more excitement... it is a lot like the men's game," said the 21-year-old native of Wichita, Kan.

The all-around Kansas star, who sacrificed some of her individual talents for more team play this season, is expected to be a high first-round pick in the Women's Basketball League draft June 16.

"If the pro league can make me a good offer, I'd definitely like to play," said Woodard. "I love the game and I want to play. It would be kind of sad if I had to stop right now."

"Lynette is one of the most gifted players I've ever seen play the game of basketball," said Washington, a former standout at West Chester State.

Pros consider Colgate-Dinah Shore as start to LPGA success

LANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Donna Caponi opens defense of her title Thursday in the 10th edition of the tournament that helped catapult womens' golf into prominence, the $250,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore.

Caponi, referring to the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour. "Before the Colgate-Dinah Shore, women pro golfers were virtual unknowns."

"It was almost a stagnant sport because only a few women could make the barest living from it."

In 1971, the average purse for LPGA tournaments was $30,000 and the average first prize was $4,000. The following year, the inaugural Dinah Shore became the first hundred-thousand-dollar LPGA event when it offered a $110,000 purse, including $20,000 to the winner.

Wild trades continue in Grapefruit League

The San Diego Padres shipped Jerry Mumphrey off Tuesday to become the New York Yankees' new center fielder ... and their pitching staff may have unintentionally made Joe Morgan the San Francisco Giants' new second baseman.

In exchange for Mumphrey and right-handed pitcher John Pacella.

Meanwhile, the 37-year-old Morgan drove in three runs with a pair of homers as the Giants defeated the Padres 5-1.

Asked if he had decided between Morgan and Rennie Stennett as his second baseman, Manager Frank Robinson replied, "Yes." He would not say which one, adding, "I'll take the better defensive player first."

"A.C. WHO?" — Indiana University basketball Coach Bobby Knight leads a frenzied celebration in Bloomington with an "A.C. Who?" chant referring to the Atlantic Coast Conference of which North Carolina is a member. Indiana of the Big Ten conference fared poorly against ACC teams early in the season but Knight said, "We'll take the one last night," referring to the NCAA national championship game won by the Hoosiers, 63-50.

best yet. Tolbert was the only senior starter for Indiana this past year. Risley, a reserve, was the only other senior who saw much playing time.

The crowd started chanting, "Two more years ... two more years," as Tolbert and Thomas — both wearing the nets from the championship game around their necks — came forward to speak.

"Thank you for being the best fans in the nation," the 6-9 Tolbert said. "This sure beats going to class."

With his arm draped over the shoulder of the 6-1 Thomas, Tolbert said, "I'd just like to say this about Isaiah — truly he is an All-American."

Thomas told the cheering crowd, "There's not much more anyone can say. No one can really describe the way we all feel now. I'd just like to thank all of you."

Knight, whose Hoosiers also won the NCAA title in 1976, praised the 1980-81 squad as "the best basketball team in the country. We brought it (the NCAA trophy) back to the best behaved and most supportive school in the country."

in the Portland-Houston series.

Guard Jim Paxson, Portland's leading scorer at 17 points per game, reinjured a foot while walking across the practice floor Monday. Trainer Ron Culp said Paxson suffered a pinched nerve surrounding the joint behind his big toe.

"It's sore and it's going to be sore for awhile," said Culp, "but he should be playable."

Billy Ray Bates, the Blazers' explosive reserve guard, aggravated an injury to his right knee in the regular-season finale Sunday but expects to play. Playmaker Kelvin Ransey and forward Calvin Natt also had been bothered by injuries, but both were expected to be back at full strength by tonight's tipoff.

Kansas City, meanwhile, will be without playmaker Phil Ford and the Kings say it is "very unlikely" he will play at all in the series. Ford is suffering from blurred vision after being poked in the eye in a Feb. 22 game against Golden State.

TV offered stunning footage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It took hours to get the story straight, with the rumors and the inaccuracies and the scarce information. But through it all, television had the heart of the story, live and in color.
 It was stunning footage. President Reagan, waving and smiling broadly, leaves the Washington Hilton Hotel. Then pop! pop! pop! pop! pop! People scatter. The smile vanishes. Reagan is shoved into his limousine. A Secret Service agent falls. The assailant is tackled. A policeman lies on the sidewalk. Press secretary James Brady is face-down on the pavement, his head bloodied. Pistols, sub-machine guns, bristle everywhere.
 It was a dark, evocative piece of television, recalling the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald in 1963, Robert Kennedy's assassination, the two attempts on the life of President Gerald Ford in 1975.
 Even as Reagan sped off to surgery, taped replays of the attempt on his life played over the nation's television screens.
 As the story unfolded, network television struggled. It was nearly an hour after the shooting was shown on nationwide television before any network reported that the president himself had been shot.
 "The president was not hit," CBS' Dan Rather said at one point, "but at that range you have to classify it as a miracle."
 A moment later ABC's Frank Reynolds set things straight. "My God," he said, "all we've been telling you is incorrect. The president was hit... But we're told he is all right."
 All three networks passed on a report that Brady died when in fact he was still struggling for his life. Reynolds eulogized him even as other newsmen were learning Brady was still alive.
 "And so, a murder has been committed now," Reynolds said. Then, "Oh, my goodness, I must apologize. I hope that what I've been reporting is all wrong... I'm told Jim may be alive... Let's get it nailed down, people!"
 The TV story was tinged with uncertainty. There was talk of surgery: Open-heart or open-chest? Why was Secretary of State Alexander Haig talking about "being in control at the White House?"
 This uncertainty is the inevitable product of a developing story. The reporters' work of separating facts from conjecture was being done on live television and the viewer became editor.
 All three networks prepared news specials for prime time. ABC's Oscar coverage was postponed until tonight, but NBC carried on with its coverage of the college basketball championship game because, an NBC spokesman said, Reagan had by then pulled through surgery and running coverage was no longer necessary.

That iron in spinach didn't help Popeye

ATLANTA (AP) — At last, there's good news for spinach haters. A food scientist says it isn't responsible for the iron in Popeye's muscles.
 Dr. Ken Lee of the University of Wisconsin says 99 percent of the iron in spinach — long thought to be a prime source of iron in the diet — is unusable. He reported his findings in a paper presented today to the American Chemical Society's 181st national meeting.
 Lee says many foods with plenty of iron contain the essential mineral in forms the body can't use.
 Iron gives' blood its capacity to carry oxygen. Food processing can change the iron content in food, sometimes rendering it useless for human nutrition, he said.
