MR. RAY-ZOR ON WAY TO FINAL RESTING PLACE—A funeral procession for Mr. Ray-Zor started on Lower Main Street Wednesday afternoon and wound up in front of the Big Spring Centennial headquarters at 9th and Main St., where proper respects were paid to the 'dearly departed.' Today, a tombstone in front of the Centennial headquarters building marks the final rest place for the clean-shaven look's best friend. Some of the bearded pallbearers, members of the Brothers of the Bush, don't appear to be grieving too much over the departure of Dr. Ray-Zor. Leading the procession is Dr. Edwin Chappell, swallow-tail coat and all, with Bible in hand. Dr. Chappell and Centennial Chairman John Taylor officiated at the last rites for Mr. Ray-Zor.

Hinckley case sent to fed grand jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal magistrate today sent the case of John W. Hinckley Jr. to a federal grand jury to decide whether the 25-year-old loner should be indicted in the attempted assassination of President Reagan.

Hinckley, wearing a white, bulletproof vest under his dark blue sport coat, sat silently as his lawyer, Vincent Fuller, waived the requirement that the government show probable cause that a crime was committed.

Magistrate Lawrence Margolis then sent his case directly to a grand jury. After the 18-minute hearing, U.S. Attorney Charles F.C. Puff told reporters the magistrate's order commits Hinckley under federal law to an institution "for a mental examination to determine his sanity." The identity of the institution was not disclosed.

Fuller told Margolis that Hinckley's lawyers had not decided whether to use insanity as a defense.

Hinckley was brought to the U.S. District Court building in an armored limousine from the Quantico, Va., Marine base, where he is being held without bond. He arrived 90 minutes before the hearing was to begin, and entered the heavily guarded courtroom shortly after 10 a.m. EST.

During the hearing, Hinckley frequently conferred with one of his lawyers from the respected firm of famed criminal-defense attorney Edward Bennett Williams. He sat still in his seat, occasionally with his hand partially covering his mouth.

The only time Hinckley spoke was when Margolis asked him whether he agreed to waive the government's presentation of evidence. "Yes, sir," Hinckley replied.

The hearing was held under stringent security. Each person attending the hearing had to pass through two metal detectors and be frisked by guards.

Federal investigators meanwhile sought further links between the attempt on Reagan's life and Hinckley's infatuation with 18-year-old actress Jodie Foster.

Miss Foster acknowledged Wednesday she had received letters signed "JWH" and "John Hinckley," although she said none mentioned violent acts or the president.

Published reports today, however, quoted the unmailed letter found at the downtown Washington hotel where Hinckley stayed the night before Monday's assassination attempt as saying: "Jody, I would abandon this idea of getting Reagan in a second if I could only win your heart."

At the top of the letter was written the date "3-30-81" and the time "12:45 p.m.," about two hours before the shooting that felled Reagan, White House press secretary James S. Brady and two law officers outside a Washington hotel.

Hinckley's second appearance in U.S. District Court was for a hearing to determine whether the case should be considered by a federal grand jury.

Text of unmailed letter to actress Jodie Foster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the text, as reported today by The Washington Post, of an unmailed letter to actress Jodie Foster found by law enforcement authorities in the Washington hotel room of John W. Hinckley Jr., the man accused of shooting President Reagan. The date "3-30-81" and the time "12:45 p.m." were written at the top of the letter, which the Post said was neatly written on lined paper:

Dear Jody:
There is a definite possibility that I will be killed in my attempt to get Reagan. It is for this very reason that I am writing you this letter now.

As you well know by now, I love you very much. The past seven months I have left you dozens of poems, letters and messages in the faint hope you would develop an interest in me.

Although we talked on the phone a couple of times, I never had the nerve to simply approach you and introduce myself. Besides my shyness, I honestly do not wish to bother you with my constant presence. I know the many messages left at your door and in your mailbox were a nuisance, but I felt it was the most painless way for me to express my love to you.

I feel very good about the fact you at least know my name and know how I feel about you. And by hanging around your dormitory, I've come to realize that I'm a topic of more than a little conversation, however full of ridicule it may be. At least you know that I'll always love you.

Jody, I would abandon this idea of getting Reagan a second if I could only win your heart and live out the rest of my life with you, whether it be in total obscurity or whatever. I will admit to you that the reason I'm going ahead with this attempt now is because I just cannot wait any longer to impress you. I've got to do something now to make you understand in no uncertain terms that I am doing all of this for your sake. By sacrificing my freedom and possibly my life, I hope to change your mind about me. This letter is being written an hour before I leave for the Hilton Hotel.

Jody, I'm asking you to please look into your heart and at least give me the chance with this historic deed to gain your respect and love.
I love you forever.
(signed) John Hinckley.

Psychiatrist testifies

Vickie Daniel is suffering from personality disorder

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — The widow of former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. suffers from a borderline personality disorder and needs extensive psychotherapy to correct her problems, a psychiatrist testified today in a child custody suit.

Dr. Kenneth Wetcher, who earlier testified Vickie Daniel suffered from a histrionic personality disorder, said the borderline personality is more serious.

Wetcher said a person with a borderline personality disorder might perceive "things one way today and another time see them differently, although the facts have not changed."

There would be a greater tendency in such a person, the doctor said, toward psychotic-like episodes than in the histrionic personality.

The doctor said a lengthy time would be required to cure Mrs. Daniel's personality problems because "we are dealing with a personality disorder that has developed since childhood and will take extensive therapeutic intervention to modify."

Wetcher told the court he had treated children reared by women with histrionic personalities. He said there was a serious danger of a number of problems developing, including sexual problems.

"One is the development of homosexual tendencies or an excess of macho and being intolerant of other people," Wetcher said.

Mrs. Daniel, charged with murder in the Jan. 19 shooting of Daniel, stayed with her husband even though she portrayed herself as a battered wife and feared for her children's safety, the doctor pointed out.

As a teen-ager, she ran away from school three months before graduation, although she had gone to the Presbyterian school in Waxahachie specifically to graduate from high school, he said.

Wetcher used those examples in testimony Wednesday, when he said Mrs. Daniel has a histrionic personality disorder and would make a good mother only in unstressful situations.

"Although appearing charming, the history she describes leads me to question her ability to function well under stress," testified Wetcher, 39, of Nassau Bay. "There seems to be evidence that she did not function well under stress."

A person with a histrionic personality disorder would be given to exaggerated emotional displays, crave activity and excitement, overreact to minor experiences and be prone to irrational anger and tantrums, he testified.

The doctor also said she had a shallow personality and was dependent, seeking frequent reassurance.

Secret Service not notified

Regan testifies that FBI knew of Hinckley's previous arrest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI knew President Reagan's alleged assailant had been arrested on weapons charges last fall, but never reported this to the Secret Service, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said today.

Testifying before a House subcommittee, Regan said the FBI had been informed that John W. Hinckley Jr. was arrested carrying three pistols through an airport security checkpoint in Nashville, Tenn., in October, when then-President Carter was making a campaign appearance in the city.

"On hindsight, it looks like this information should have passed (to the Secret Service)," Regan said.

"The FBI apparently felt it wasn't necessary," he said.

There was no immediate response from the FBI as to why it did not report Hinckley's arrest to the Secret Service.

Regan appeared before a House Appropriations subcommittee with jurisdiction over the Treasury Department, parent agency of the Secret Service. Secret Service Director H. Stuart Knight was called to testify before a similar Senate panel later today.

Under questioning, Regan said, "As far as I know," there was no direct indication that Hinckley, 25, was a threat to either Carter or then-candidate Ronald Reagan when Hinckley was picked up.

As a result, Hinckley's name did not appear on lists of people who might pose a threat to the president when he allegedly shot and wounded Reagan and three others outside a Washington hotel on Monday.

Shaw concedes 63rd District will have to be remapped

AUSTIN — Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring told the House Redistricting Committee Wednesday that constituents in his six-county 63rd District "desire to stay as much as possible in the same district."

But Shaw conceded that the odd-shaped district — which has Howard in the middle, Dawson, Borden and Scurry counties to the north; and Sterling and Coke counties to the Southeast — will have to be changed.

Its 1980 population of 72,779 is 23.3 percent short of the 'ideal' population — 94,856 — that each of the 150 house districts should contain to comply with the constitutional one-man — one-vote division.

However, a deviation of four percentage points is allowable.

The 63rd District's 1980 population is 3.3 percent less than in 1970. Shaw said that is primarily because of Howard County's loss of a federal Air Base during the decade.

Shaw offered no suggestions on how to bring his district up to an acceptable population during his brief appearance at an evening hearing of the House Regions, Compacts and Districts Committee. That committee has the politically charged task of redistricting state office and congressional districts in line with the 1980 census data.

He said the committee's task is difficult; but "especially in West Texas, where everyone is short (of population)," the state's big growth areas — and its overpopulated political districts — are in major cities and East Texas, census results show.

Several West Texas legislators testified before the committee Wednesday, are all asked that their districts be kept as nearly intact as possible. All were told to expect changes.

"Once you've campaigned in an area and spent time and money there, you don't want to give it up," Shaw said after his testimony.

House of accused killer's pal damaged by eight fired bullets

Someone apparently resents the fact that Simon Balderas, 1301 Park, is a friend of Eduardo Maidique, a former Cuban national accused of killing one local woman and severely injuring another.

At about 1:30 a.m. today, a car squealed to a stop in front of the Balderas home, and eight shots were fired through the front door. No one inside the home was hit by the spray of lead, but bullets penetrated the door, the living room walls and the kitchen walls before they stopped flying.

All the spent slugs were collected by police and held for evidence.

"We figure it was someone who doesn't like the fact that Balderas used to hang out with the Maidiques (Eduardo and his twin brother Alberto). He and the brothers were pretty close associates, and they may have been together on the night of the shooting," said Police Lt. George Quintero. "That naturally leads to false rumors," he added.

Eduardo Maidique is charged with the murder of Linda Garcia, 26, 1510 Mesa, on the night of March 23. He is also suspected of assaulting and breaking the neck of her sister, Martha Esquibel, 19, also of 1510 Mesa, during the attack.

Coahoma trustees okay low bid for construction of new school

COAHOMA — The Coahoma School Board accepted a low bid of $5,140,500 from K.A. Sparks Construction of Hamilton, Tex., for construction of a new elementary school facility during their meeting here Tuesday night.

Coahoma voters had approved $6 million in bonds for improvement to the Coahoma school system last year.

Coach School Supt. Richard Souter said the school district was doubly blessed in that Sparks' bid came in well below the $6 million figure and the school board got an extra-ordinary good rate in selling the bonds. The rate is 7.87 percent.

Sparks will likely begin construction on the building in about a month. Sparks agreed to finish construction within 600 days from the first day his firm sets up for the undertaking.

In other business, the school board accepted the resignation of Marilyn Read, the Elementary AWAKE teacher; employed all elementary, junior high and high school teachers and aides, accepted a low bid of $12,611 from Coahoma Insurance Agency for property insurance. Also approved additional work from Texas Electric Service Company on the football stadium and tennis courts and approved additional travel allowance for the Vocational Agriculture teacher for March, April, May and June.

In addition, the trustees approved the assignment of Grady Tindol as Elementary School Counselor for the 1981-82 school year.

Tindol has been acting in the capacity of business manager. That position will not be filled.

Men trapped on oil boat

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — All 19 crew members of an oil company survey boat in the Gulf of Mexico were trapped on the bow today when natural gas began bubbling up out of the sea, filled the hold of the boat and raised fears of an explosion, the Coast Guard said.

There were no reports of injuries. Seaman Chris Reynard, a Coast Guard spokesman, said a cutter was dispatched to the scene, about 100 miles south of Grand Isle.

The crew could not take to small life boats because of the violently bubbling waters where the gas was breaking the surface, Reynard said.

And they could not raise either of the two 1,000-foot anchors, because of fear of igniting the gas, he said.

The 165-foot long survey boat was taking drill samples in a search for natural gas at the time the incident happened, about 7:30 a.m., Reynard said.

When the gas bubbled up into the vessel, the crew all rushed to the deck, but soon found they could do nothing but huddle on the bow and wait.

He said he did not have information on what company was operating the boat.

ALPHA 66 MEMBERS TRAIN — Commando trainees hit the beach during night maneuvers on a wooded island in Biscayne Bay near Miami. It's part of a weekend training session for 24 members of ALPHA 66, a group of Cuban refugees opposed to the communist rule of Fidel Castro on their island homeland.

4-H Shooting Sports Club issues invitation to youths

The Howard County 4-H Shooting Sports Club has extended an invitation to all youth 9 to 19 to visit and take part in trap shooting, skeet shooting and small bore rifle shooting practices in April, according to Andy Vestal, county extension agriculture agent.

Vestal said the project is one in which parents and youth learn gun safety, maintenance, marksmanship, sportsmanship and competition at county, district, state and national contests. Any one may join 4-H to learn and participate, said Vestal. He added that parents are needed as volunteers.

Upcoming April meetings include: April 5 — Trap and Skeet 2 p.m. Windy Hills Gun Club — Industrial Park south end.

Big Spring Christian Academy gains 'Model Status' award

The Big Spring Christian Academy, located in the Industrial Park, recently was awarded "Model Status" in recognition of the superior program of academic and spiritual instruction.

The award, presented by Accelerated Christian Education of Lewisville, Tex., is given to any third year school that is able to meet rigid academic social and spiritual qualifications in programming.

This is the third year for the Big Spring Christian Academy, making it the first year the school was eligible for this award. In receiving the award the academy is now ranked within the top 30 percent of the schools now using the curriculum produced by Accelerated Christian Education.

Newbury takes over as president at WTC

SNYDER — Dr. Don Newbury has formally taken over as president of Western Texas College.

Newbury, 43, a well-known after-dinner speaker, formerly was director of communications for the Tarrant County Junior College District in Fort Worth. At one time, he was a journalism professor at Howard Payne University in Brownwood.

Newbury succeeds Dr.

Robert Clinton, the only other president West Texas College ever had. Clinton resigned to take a position with the Texas Public Community College System in Austin.

Newbury grew up in Brownwood. Married, he is the father of three daughters.

Newbury was chief speaker at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce banquet several years ago.

Remap panel schedules Tyler, Lubbock meetings

AUSTIN — The Senate Redistricting Committee will hold outreach meetings in Tyler and Lubbock today and Friday to hear citizen and community input on redistricting plans for state senate and congressional plans.

The subcommittee is charged by the Senate with gathering information from around the state in preparation for the drawing of a redistricting plan or plans to present to the full senate sitting as a committee of the whole, chaired by Sen. H. Tati Santesteban.

Subcommittee chairman, Sen. Jack Ogg said individuals, civic or political organizations and public officials are urged to attend the meetings to offer their input on the formulation of the plan or plans.

The Tyler hearings will be held at the Smith County Courthouse beginning at 2 p.m. today. Hearings in Lubbock will follow Friday, at 1:30 p.m. at the Lubbock County Courthouse.

The subcommittee will contact those individuals, government civic and political groups who have expressed an interest in the matter.

"The subcommittee invites anyone to appear and offer testimony," Ogg said. "The emphasis will be, of course, on the redistricting of the state senate and congressional districts."

The subcommittee will hear preliminary testimony and then divide into two designated panels, chaired by Senator Peyton McKnight and Senator W.E. "Pete" Snelson, to hear further testimony. McKnight chairs the committee charged with hearing congressional testimony. Snelson's committee will hear testimony regarding the redistricting of the state senate.

State Comptroller employee accused of stealing tax money

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday said an investigation launched by his office has resulted in the indictment of a former employee accused of stealing tax money.

Bullock said that Leopoldo Ramos Leija of San Antonio has been indicted by a Bexar County grand jury for "theft over $200 but less than $10,000" and for "official misconduct."

Bullock said the investigation revealed that more than $9,000 in sales tax money was collected from about a dozen San Antonio merchants and not turned in to the state for processing.

He said many of the merchants were issued phony receipts showing that the sales taxes had been paid.

Bullock said his office traced the missing money over a period of several months last year adding the Comptroller's accounting procedures make it a certainty that an employee who steals tax money will be found out.

Leija, 38, had been an employee of the Comptroller's office since August of 1973, and was suspended on February 3, 1981. Leija was bonded, Bullock said.

Bullock said merchants had been cheated by the amounts that were stolen and that the state would seek restitution of the missing money.

Community luncheon to stress Texas Business, Industry Week

A community luncheon in conjunction with Texas Business and Industry week is set for Monday at the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The luncheon will begin at 11:45 a.m.

Sponsoring the event is KBST radio. The meal will cost $4 per person. Reservations should be made by noon Friday, and may be made by calling 263-7641. Two door prizes will be awarded, as well as a $250 prize to a chamber member if present.

Big Spring manufacturers will have products manufactured locally on display.

President lost half of his blood

Doctors feared they'd lose Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan lost almost half his blood after he was shot in an assassination attempt and doctors said they "thought they might lose him" at first because of problems finding the wound, qualified medical sources say.

The description of the first anxious moments at George Washington University Hospital on Monday conflicts with medical reports that Reagan "was in no time in any serious danger."

The sources told The Associated Press that doctors examining Reagan concluded shortly after he arrived at the hospital that he was in danger of slipping into fatal shock due to loss of blood.

White House officials, who ordered hospital authorities not to discuss the incident, said they could neither confirm nor deny the account, given on condition the sources not be identified.

The sources said doctors described Reagan, 70, as "pretty ashen looking," as though in shock, after he collapsed at the emergency room door and was caught by Secret Service agents and medics.

Reagan was hoisted quickly onto a stretcher, where doctors noticed that his blood pressure was low and falling rapidly. The New York Times quoted an intern, Dr. William O'Neill, as saying that the president's blood pressure was 78, lower than usual, but that it returned to normal after he lay down.

Dr. Solomon Edelstein, an anesthesiologist and director of the hospital's emergency services, said he arrived in the emergency room at least several minutes after Reagan. He gave the president's blood pressure as 80 — still low — but discounted reports that Regan's life was in extreme danger.

Edelstein said Reagan almost fainted but attributed that to standing up for the first time after losing a significant amount of blood.

Retirement party for three oil firm employees tonight

A retirement party for three employees of the Ackerly Oil Company will be held in the KC Steak House here starting at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

Wilson Sikes, who has been driving a propane truck for the firm since 1959, and Bill and Mae Henderson will be the honored guests.

Henderson has been manager of the firm since June 1977 while his wife was an office employee.

Sara Fryar, who has been the company's bookkeeper, is also leaving the firm to operate the Kountry Kitchen Cafe in Ackerly.

Stan Menix, who was born in the area, is the new manager of Ackerly Oil while Mary Menix (no relation) is the new bookkeeper.

Upwards to 26 people will likely attend the retirement party.

Police Beat Robbery report exaggerated

What was first reported as an armed robbery ended up as a misdemeanor theft, early this morning.

Police were alerted, 3 a.m. today, that an armed robbery had struck at the DeWee's Exxon Station, 4600 West Highway 80. The attendant at the station told officers that a man had hit him over the head and stolen $100 from the cash register and $28 worth of regular gas from the pumps outside.

At about 3:15 a.m., patrolmen arrested Steve Alan Garrett, 25, Odessa, near Peach Electronics Company on the South Service Road of IS-20 based on a description of his car given by the attendant. At that time, the car was thought to have been stolen.

After questioning Garrett, however, investigators learned that he had only $55 in his pocket, and that the car belonged to his father. Officers contacted the attendant with the new information, and he admitted that he may have exaggerated somewhat.

Garrett now faces charges of misdemeanor theft instead of armed robbery and auto theft.

Another local girl was nearly abducted, 3:10 p.m. Wednesday. The mother of a seven-year-old local girl called police to report that while the girl was standing outside the Moss Elementary School, a man drove up in a black car and attempted to pull the youth inside.

She managed to escape his grasp, and ran back inside the school.

Vandals bounced rocks off of a local car and covered it with white shoe polish, sometime Friday night. The 1979 Pontiac Grand Prix belongs to Frank L. Marin, 620 Caylor, and was parked in his driveway when the vandalism occurred. Damage was estimated at $735.

Vandals also tossed a rock through a large plate glass window at the home of Christine Stewart, 2114 W. 3rd, sometime Tuesday night. Damage was estimated at $250.

Vandals used BBs to puncture a sliding glass patio door at the home of Roy Gardner, 4212 Parkway. 6 p.m. Wednesday. Damage there was estimated at $100.

Burglars broke into the West End Lounge, 3801 West Highway 80, sometime Tuesday night. After forcing open the back door to the lounge, the intruders made off with four cases of beer and five dozen bags of assorted chips. Loss was estimated at $50.

James N. Cook Jr., 202 Circle, was treated for minor cuts and abrasions at Malone-Hogan Hospital and released, this morning. Cook was reportedly lying in the eastbound lane on the 2000 block of West 16th, 1:56 a.m. today, when he was struck by a car driven by Troy R. James, 3905 Hamilton.

Police were not given a reason why Cook was lying in the road.

Four other mishaps were reported Wednesday.

Vehicles driven by Jeremy Holten, 2505 Larry, and Sisto Subia, 4011 Vicky, collided at 1700 Adams, 5:48 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Robert Wash, Forsan, and Manuel Castaneda, 600 S. Aylford, collided at Eighth and Gregg, 8:43 a.m.

Vehicles driven by Lisa McMillan, P.O. Box 1869, and Tammie Plauchon, 1502-A Scurry, collided at 1505 Scurry, 1:09 p.m.

Vehicles driven by James Wallace, 2608 Fairchild, and Barbara Russell, P.O. Box 922, collided at 100 Main, 1:29 p.m.

GET WELL QUICK — KBST radio employees hold a get-well message for President Ronald Reagan. Linda Worthan, far right, holds the message, which says "Dear Mr. President, We, the undersigned citizens of Big Spring, Texas, are praying for your complete recovery... The names listed below came to this studio to sign this 'Get Well' because they love you dearly." The card is signed by station owner Winston Winkle and 1,362 others from throughout the county. Holding the message are, from left, David Winkle, Mike Henry, Christian B. Showalter, Rebecca Powell, Paul Murphy, Dixie Leonard, Tim Mitchell, Dr. John and Linda Worthan.

Deaths

Mark Easley

Mark John Easley, 16, of 905 N. Gregg, died at 3:12 a.m. Tuesday at a local hospital following injuries he received in a one-car accident.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Mount Bethel Baptist Church. The Rev. Freddie Nelson, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mount Olive Cemetery, under the direction of Sheppard Funeral Home.

He was born Dec. 4, 1964, in Big Spring, and was a ninth-grader at Big Spring High School. He also attended schools in Fort Worth and San Bernardino, Calif.

He joined Mount Bethel Baptist Church when he was younger, and attended the youth department and Sunday school along with regular services before moving to California.

Survivors include his parents, Shirley Ann Easley, of the home; and John Mark Easley, Fort Worth; a sister, Teresa Ann Easley, of the home; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul

Enriquez admits forgery charge

Erasmus Martinez Enriquez, 30, of 1604 B Virginia, entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court on Wednesday to a charge of forgery of a check. He was given a seven year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville, and was given 49 days credit for time spent in jail.

Enriquez was slated to appear before the court again today for a hearing on the same charge stemming from a different incident.

Gerald Cristal Hanssen, 20, of 100 N.W. 8th, entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court Wednesday to theft by appropriation. He was given a 10-year probated sentence, and was later released to the border patrol.

Two to jail

Juan Burrola Marquez, 18, of the 1500 block of Sycamore, was transferred from city jail to county jail Wednesday morning.

Marquez was charged with assaulting a police officer and is being held without bond.

Karen Elaine Bolton, 3701 Calvin, was transferred from city to county jail Wednesday afternoon. Ms. Bolton, 23, was charged with delivering marijuana. She was released following the posting of a $10,000 bond posted by Jack Thompson and Lanny Hamby.

Thomas, Big Spring; a great-grandmother, Millie Thomas, Big Spring; several aunts, uncles and cousins.

The family will be at 600 N.W. 8th Street.

Pallbearers will be Paul Davis, Bobby Williams, Tony Ford, Carbert Newton, Jerry Wrightsil, and Tapo Williams.

John Howard

Word has been received here of the death of the Rev. John L. Howard of Highland Holy Spirit parish in Highland, Mich. He died April 29, 1980 of a brain tumor.

He was stationed at Webb Air Base in the early 60s for two years, and was well-known in the Big Spring community.

Cordie Mason

Cordie Myrtle Mason, 87, died Monday at a local hospital following a brief illness.

Services were today at the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Terry Cosby, pastor of Phillips Memorial Baptist, Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church, and the Rev. Dan Sanford, pastor of First Baptist Church in Sand Springs officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Pallbearers were Waymond Lepard, Wallace Napper, Truman Mason, W.C. Turner, Johnny Turner, and M.L. Petty.

Maggie Neves

Maggie Jane Neves, 91, died Wednesday evening after a long illness. Services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with interment in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Phillip Burcham, Knott Church of Christ, will officiate.

Mrs. Neves was born Nov. 10, 1889 in Overton County, Tenn. She was a life-long member of the Church of Christ, and was a member at the Knott Church of Christ for more than 60 years.

She was the daughter of Thomas Jefferson Wray and Sarah Pamela Carr Wray. The family moved in a covered wagon from Tennessee to Hall County, later Indian Territory, and then moved to DeKalb, Tex.

She married Henry Grady Neves May 14, 1916. They moved to Howard County in 1920, living in the Knott Community.

She was preceded in death by a son, Arthur Henry Neves, Jan. 4, 1981.

Weather

Blowing dust expected across South Plains

By the Associated Press
It was to be windy across the western half of Texas today with blowing dust expected across the South Plains. The remainder of the state was to have clear skies and continued warm temperatures. Highs were to be mostly in the 80s except in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas where readings were to be in the middle 90s by mid-afternoon. Some fog was reported over some of South Central Texas and Southeast Texas. Hazardous driving conditions were reported as visibility dropped to less than a mile in some areas.

Murder indictments to be served

Grand jury refers to nursing home probe as 'horror story'

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Sealed murder indictments against eight persons and a corporation have been opened in a nursing home investigation the grand jury described as a "horror story."

Sheriff's deputies in two counties were preparing today to serve the indictments on officials of the Houston-based Autumn Hills Convalescent Center Inc. and on eight present and former employees of the rim and its Texas City facility.

The 23 indictments involving eight 1978 and 1979 deaths at the Texas City unit of the chain allege murder through patient abuse and neglect.

District Attorney James Hury and an assistant, David ... of the corporation on the criminal murder charges would be the first such situation in the nation. Such charges against corporations normally allege negligent homicide or manslaughter.

Indictments involving the deaths of five patients were returned against the corporation. Those against the eight individuals ranged from one to five indictments.

Carol Vance, attorney for the corporation that operates 17 nursing homes, said the Galveston County prosecutors will have a difficult time proving the Texas City home or its employees are guilty of murder.

"It's going to be tough to prove a murder charge against a corporation," said Vance, a former Harris County district attorney in Houston, some 40 miles northwest of Texas City.

"I don't think Autumn Hills or the people who run the company should be held accountable in any deaths."

The 23 indictments climaxed a 17-month investigation and were returned late Tuesday as the term of a Galveston County grand jury expired. State District Judge Ed Harris said Wednesday he will swear in a new grand jury Monday for continuation of the investigation. Hury predicted there will be at least 21 additional indictments.

In returning the Tuesday indictments, the grand jury recommended "doctors involved in abuse or neglect be investigated and severely penalized for their action in this horror story."

It also called for a complete investigation "into the workings of the State Department of Health, from the administrator in Austin to the low man on the totem pole."

The nursing home could be fined up to $20,000 on conviction on the charges. The individuals could draw prison sentences ranging from five to 99 years.

Individuals named in the indictments were Mattie Locke, allegedly connected with five deaths; Cassandra Canales, four deaths; Mary Wagner, two deaths; Ron Pohlmeier, two deaths; Marie Ritchie, two deaths; Ann Wright, one death; Virginia Wilson, one death, and Phyllis Daulong, one death.

The indictments involve seven deaths that occurred between March 7, 1978, and Nov. 20, 1978, and an eighth death on April 5, 1979. Marks said the eight deceased patients were Galveston County area residents before being admitted to the 120-bed Texas City home.

The indictments allege the corporation and its indicted employees knew and were aware nursing care being rendered was not adequate or sufficient to meet the needs of the patients.

The grand jury also recommended that permanent financial penalties "be assessed against nursing homes that are in violation of state and federal standards and that state and federal standards be tightened."

Robert Gay, president of the Houston corporation, said the grand jury's allegations are completely unfounded.

"I don't believe these things," he said. "Several of those indicted are great people. If they can't do the job no one can."

Harris said he initially planned to extend the term of the old grand jury but found he could not do so under state law. He said he will allow grand jurors whose terms expired at midnight Tuesday to appear before the new panel.

Before the Tuesday indictments were opened, Hury had indicated they might remain sealed until the new grand jury completes its work.

Grand jurors had criticized Hury by saying he "should have been more cooperative with our investigation ... instead of throwing up obstacles along the way."

"I just don't understand," he said, adding that he was flabbergasted. "I am just absolutely beside myself."

Three injured in Vegas hotel blaze remaining hospitalized

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Three people, including a fireman who suffered severe burns, remained hospitalized today following a fire that gutted a fifth-floor luxury suite and forced hundreds of guests to be evacuated from Caesars Palace hotel.

Sixteen people were sent to hospitals with injuries — mostly described as minor — after the blaze Wednesday in the 14-story central tower at the Strip resort.

It was the third resort fire resulting in injury or death in Las Vegas within the past five months. A blaze last November at the MGM Grand hotel-casino across the street from Caesars Palace killed 84 people, and a Feb. 10 fire at the Las Vegas Hilton killed eight people and injured 198 others.

Clark County Fire Capt. Donald Warren was the most seriously injured Wednesday and was listed in satisfactory condition with burns on the face and shoulders.

Andy Sanino, 52, of Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif., and fireman Randy Crommelin, 32, also remained hospitalized for treatment of smoke inhalation.

Gamblers continued to play in the resort's casino area as fleeing guests and hotel employees made their way out the front entrance. The casino area was not evacuated.

"You'd never think you'd find yourself in the middle of a casino with a nightgown on," said hotel guest Helen Ginsburg of Denver as she sat outside a hotel restaurant.

In an effort to determine the cause of the blaze, fire investigators late Wednesday poked through the rubble of the five-room suite where firefighters had contained the flames. Fire Department spokesman Capt. Ralph Dinsman said it was too early to determine whether the fire was deliberately set.

Caesars officials said they were uncertain whether there was anyone in the suite at the time of the fire.

The blaze, which sent smoke billowing through the fifth and sixth floors, was extinguished within 30 minutes of the first report of the fire shortly after 10 a.m. Dinsman said decorative concrete blocks in front of the windows of the giant hotel may have helped to prevent fire from creeping up the side of the tower and touching off blazes in upper rooms.

Mrs. Ginsburg and her husband, Morris, were on the sixth floor just above the room that caught fire. The couple said they reported the blaze to the hotel operator, then looked into the hallway and saw hotel maids pounding on doors to evacuate guests.

Guests and employees later were allowed to return to all but the fifth floor of the hotel. A convention of burglar and fire alarm companies is being held at Caesars Palace this week.

The parent Caesars World issued a statement in Los Angeles claiming none of the injured was a hotel guest. But the statement declined to identify the injured further. Most of those requiring treatment gave out-of-town addresses.

O'Hair loses challenge of state laws

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Atheist Madelyn Murray O'Hair lost again today in her attempt to have a Texas religious law struck down as unconstitutional.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Mrs. O'Hair had no legal standing to challenge the law because she has not been affected by it.

The law states that "no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification for any office, or public trust, in this state; nor shall anyone be excluded from holding office on account of his religious sentiments, provided he acknowledge the existence of a supreme being."

The appeals court emphasized it was not expressing any opinion as to whether the law is constitutional.

Psychic predicted details of assassination attempt?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A psychic who two months ago predicted on a television show many of the details of President Reagan's brush with death says she was shocked that her forecast came true, but not really surprised.

Tamara Rand, 32, predicted on a show taped in January that President would experience "a thud" in "the chest area" during "the last few days of March," and that "someone fair-haired" would be involved.

She said there would be "shots all over the place."

On March 30, President Reagan was shot in the chest. Three other men were wounded. A sandy-haired man, John W. Hinckley Jr., was charged with the assassination attempt.

"It was even shocking to me, although I must tell you ... I just sort of knew," she said Wednesday.

The prediction was made on the Dick Maurice show, a talk show originating in Los Angeles that is aired on Atlanta station WTBS. A tape of the program was shown late Wednesday on Cable News Network in Atlanta. CNN spokesman Chip Walter said the program was videotaped Jan. 6 in Las Vegas and broadcast in mid-March.

On the tape, Ms. Rand, of Los Angeles, said, "the last few days of March or early April" would be "a crisis time" for Reagan.

She also said there would be a "crisis time" for Reagan in July, although she did not specify what would happen.

Ms. Rand told The Associated Press Wednesday that with "the nation's emphasis on using their minds to shield and predict and to try to generate healing within the president, there doesn't have to be any problem in July."

Ms. Rand, who said she has experienced strong intuitive feelings about the future since childhood, said she founded the Tamara Rand Institute in Madison, Wis., in 1970. The institute, which studies hypnosis and extrasensory perception, now operates in Los Angeles.

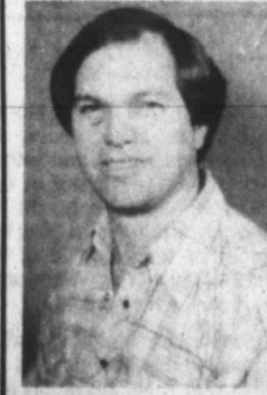

She said on NBC's "Today" show this morning that she has been a consultant to corporations and to such entertainers as Sylvester Stallone, Linda Gray, Phyllis Diller and Bob Dylan.

Speaking about the president's future, Ms. Rand said, "July doesn't have to happen now," and she advised the president "to watch his health, to protect himself a little more

American Agriculture Movement founder to talk in Brownfield

Alvin Jenkins of Campo, Colo., one of the founders of the American Agriculture Movement, will address farmers and agribusinessmen in the American Legion Building in Brownfield at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 7.

No admission will be charged for those desiring to hear the speech. A catered meal will be served at 6:30 p.m. for $4 a plate.

Jenkins recently spoke to a bankers convention in Detroit, where he likened agriculture to an old sow with ten pigs, all of which were sick. The vets (the economists) the trade advisors and the task forces) and they doctored the pigs until they were up and frisky, but they didn't doctor the old sow. When the pigs nursed the old sow again, they got sick again and some died.

"Bankers, we're the old sow — the largest industry in America, and we're sick," Jenkins told his listeners.

Jenkins personally got behind presidential candidate Ronald Reagan to commit to appointing a board of producers to advise the USDA on farm policy.

Jenkins was asked to address the Democratic state convention in Alabama and also the republican state convention in Michigan.

Jenkins is a moving force behind one of the first cooperative fuel alcohol plants in the country.

Poll shows more Germans like Nazism

It is disappointing but not surprising that a growing segment of people in West Germany look back on the era of the Nazi fuhrer, Adolph Hitler, as the "good old days."

A leading magazine (Der Spiegel) reported a year-long survey had been completed, showing that 18 percent of the 6,968 voters consulted nationwide agreed that "under Hitler, Germany really had it better."

IF GERMANY WERE in an economic strait-jacket, struggling against hopeless odds to control inflation, the stance taken by that 18 percent might be easier to understand — after all, Hitler promised his party and its supporters "today Germany, tomorrow the world," or words to that effect. Germany, however, has regained much of its industrial muscle and does a comparatively decent job of keeping the monster inflation caged and manageable.

The Germany Chancellor, Helmut Schmidt, professed to be alarmed over the results of the poll, so much so that his government had been keeping the results under wraps since it was completed last year.

Some races of people have never been too enthusiastic about democracy, and the Germans may qualify for inclusion into that group. After all, the nation developed its greatest vitality under such men as Bismarck, Kaiser Wilhelm and Hitler.

The fundamental doctrines of Nazism seem to appeal to a host of modern-day Germans. It is one thing to have an extreme rightist world view and something else again to be willing to violate the rights of other people who might be in the way of attaining that kind of society. All too often, setting out to achieve extreme ideologies calls for taking extreme methods and a lot of mankind can get hurt under such conditions.

MOST OF TODAY'S potential Nazis are more than half a century old, according to the magazine, which would make them old enough to remember Hitler. Hitler came into power in Germany as early as 1933 and remained in command until he took his own life in a Berlin bunker in 1945.

The survey also showed that among rightists in Germany there was widespread resentment of the United States, perhaps because the German people felt deep down they could have knocked down Russia and conquered the Allies during WW II, had not America hurried to the side of England.

The results of the survey make one wonder what would happen to the Hitler legend in another 40 to 50 years. Will he become a folk hero to much of mankind. Even now, to many, his only sin was in failing in his mission.

Career slants

Around the rim

Carol Hart

Recently, I talked to two people who make their living by singing and writing songs.

I managed to talk to Johnny Rodriguez for a few minutes after his concert Friday. He was friendly, which was good, because I was nervous.

No one backstage seemed to know if I could have an interview with him or not. Interviews, they said, were up to him. After he finished his set, the road manager suggested I hang around for a few minutes and he would see if I could talk to the singer. I figured I'd never see either one of them again, but all of a sudden there was the road manager motioning me to a door, then showing me in. I came face to face with Rodriguez and went blank.

FORTUNATELY, RODRIGUEZ IS an old hand at interviews, and talked freely without too many intellectual questions from me. He said he enjoyed singing, and disclosed he had come to Big Spring directly from Odessa. He and his group were heading for Dallas after the show; for yet another concert on Saturday.

The Big Spring show was one of "15 one-nighters" that he and his group were doing in a row. The show here was also one of the last before the group "finished up the tour."

Concerning the size of the crowd Friday, Rodriguez said "I've played before all sizes. I've sung at clubs with 2,000 people in them, and at rodeos where there were 10,000 people."

At every concert he plays, Rodriguez said nine people travel with him. They include his crowd control man, a group of musicians, the road manager and the sound engineer.

I got another perspective on how it is to be a singer from Mark Singletary, who was with the group Mesa. Mesa was the warm-up band Friday. The group had a tough time of it because of technical difficulties.

BOTH RODRIGUEZ AND Singletary seem to genuinely like their profession. Singletary was a little disappointed that difficulties had thwarted Mesa's part of the show, but he said the key was not to let things like that get you down. He added that it wasn't the first time it had happened to his group, recalling a similar incident in Jacksonville.

I asked Singletary if he got nervous before each performance. He said he didn't, explaining most people didn't focus all their attention on one person during a concert. But, singing alone at a friend's wedding, which he does often, really makes him nervous, he said. That's when everybody is attentive, he explained.

Singletary also talked about a record he wrote, "He Wants to Marry A Debutante," which was a number one record in Sicily. And he talked about appearing on a talk show on that island, off the coast of Italy.

Singletary now makes his home in Fort Worth. He talked about his days in California, where he saw a few friends get taken in by the "Hollywood scene." He said he decided that Texas would be the better place for him to work at his career.

It's always fun to get to talk to people in interesting professions, like the music field. I hope both of the people I talked to Friday get to sing a lot more songs for a lot more years.

Anti-Salvador

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Backing up the instinctive reactions of Republican politicians, secret polls by a prominent Republican pollster taken in two key states show overwhelming opposition to President Reagan's El Salvador policy.

In one Northeastern state normally dominated by Democrats, the pollsters found voters opposed to sending any military advisers to El Salvador by 75 percent to 20 percent. More troubling from the Republican standpoint, a Midwestern state easily carried by Reagan showed the margin 60 percent to 25 percent against. Nationwide, the anti-Salvadorian soundings ranged from 3-to-1 to 4-to-1 against.

UNLESS U.S. PARTICIPATION escalates in El Salvador, these findings are unlikely to turn into an anti-Reagan tide. Nevertheless, Republican politicians and pollsters are worried that the Central American affair is taking the spotlight away from Reagan's all-important economic program.

TARGETING TAXERS
The National Conservative Political Action Committee (NCPAC), which won notoriety for defeating nearly all liberal Democratic senators on its 1980 hit list, has an off-year activity: targeting congressional opponents of President Reagan's tax cuts.

NCPAC has its sights on two moderate Democrats who hold the top two fiscal posts in the House: Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. James Jones of Oklahoma, chairman of the House Budget Committee. NCPAC's Terry Dolan has collected a war chest for direct mail, radio, television and other advertising to pressure them on the tax cut question.

Such activity against Rostenkowski, politically invulnerable in his Chicago district, might backfire as far as supporting the Reagan program. But anti-Jones television spots in his conservative Tulsa district, which used to elect a Republican congressman before Jones won the confidence of conservatives, could hurt.

AFTER YOU, JIMMY
Zbigniew Brzezinski could beat his old boss to the bookstores came from Irving (Swiftly) Lazar, the famous literary agent. Lazar suggested to Brzezinski that the way to aggrandize sales was to get there first, even if not with the most. The Carter memoir will be larger than Brzezinski's.

Brzezinski said no, he thought Carter deserved to be first. Carter's book will be published by Bantam with an advance to the former president of close to $2 million.

MOYNIHAN'S FREE RIDE
Chances of New York's Republican leaders talking Rep. Jack Kemp into challenging Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan for election next year have dipped sharply with the probability that Moynihan will get a free ride in the Democratic primary without left-wing opposition.

Neither of the two leading liberal prospects against Moynihan in the primary — New York City Council President Carol Bellamy or ex-Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman — have any intention of running. Republican leaders had hoped to lure the cautious Kemp into a challenge of Moynihan by promising that the senator would be bloodied in a primary — or, even better, defeated.

"MOYNIHAN WOULD be the toughest candidate to defeat," pollster Robert Teeter declared in a survey for the Senate Republican Campaign Committee. In a general election, said Teeter, a Holtzman candidacy would leave "Irish, Italians and the rest (of the ethnic Catholics) open to the Republicans for a serious conservative assault."

Not unusual situation

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been taking thyroid pills for about 14 years. I had my goiter removed some time ago and the doctor said then that I would have to take the pills for as long as I lived. Now the doctor I am seeing says the thyroid is slightly elevated. He took tests for it. He told me to stop taking the pills, which I did. I am quite nervous and have been for some time. I was wondering what you would say in this situation. I am 70 years old. — Mrs. B.

You are forcing me into a guessing corner, Mrs. B, but yours is not an unusual situation. A goiter is an enlarged thyroid gland, and I'm guessing that the entire gland was removed in your goiter surgery. That left you without the gland and the essential hormones it produced. That's why you need the medicine for life.

Trying to find the exact dose of thyroid hormone to give a person whose gland has been removed involves a little trial and error. If you have been taking too much, that would make you jittery. When this happens it can take a full week or two after stopping for the pills' effects to wear off. After that you will most likely be put back on a reduced dose of the medicine.

Your age may be another factor. You say you started taking the pills when you were in your mid-50s. You are now 70. Often the hormone need decreases in later years as body size diminishes. At 70 you don't need what you did when you were 50. An adjustment is necessary. Whatever the situation, keep in close contact with your physician during this period to be sure you don't suffer rebound effects of insufficient thyroid hormone.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 55-year-old woman in menopause, with the usual symptoms of hot flashes, etc. Recently I have developed a maddening vaginal itch, which I'm told is also part of this unpleasant condition. I no longer take estrogen, which was recommended by some. I have decided (up to now) to tough things out. Would estrogen help the dryness and itch I now have? When I did try the estrogen for a very brief time, it made me nauseous in the morning. — Mrs. L.T.

Estrogen medicine applied directly to the vaginal area usually is quite helpful for this menopause annoyance, which many women experience. Nausea is not an uncommon result of oral estrogen therapy. It has been described in some women as the "morning sickness" experienced during pregnancy. Should you have to return to the oral estrogen, you can be started on a smaller dose.

In any event, the nausea almost always disappears in a couple of weeks. Your other menopause question (about bone effects) requires a lengthy response. The booklet "Make Menopause Easier," which I am sending along, should cover this adequately. Other interested readers can obtain a copy by mailing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: You have written about diabetes, the kind that has to do with blood sugar. My grandson, when he was six, began running to the bathroom all day and all night. He was forever drinking whatever he could get his hands on. Finally the pediatrician had him hospitalized and we found he had the other kind of diabetes. Would you be so kind as to let other people know that there is more than one kind? My grandson is doing well now. — Mrs. R.U.

In the common diabetes (mellitus) a disturbance of blood sugar from insulin deficiency is the cause. High blood sugar prompts frequent urination. The other diabetes (insipidus) has nothing to do with sugar. The person urinates excessively because he lacks the special hormone that keeps water in the body. If the

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been very active in my church for many years — Sunday school teacher, deacon, major contributor, etc., but if I were to die tonight, I am not sure I would go to heaven. How can I know that I am saved? — W.T.

DEAR W.T.: One night a very religious man came to Jesus to ask him some questions. He was a very prominent person, and by any standard was also a very religious and moral man. But Jesus told this man (whose name was Nicodemus) that his religious activities were not enough to save him. What Nicodemus needed was something far more radical — he needed a spiritual rebirth. Jesus said to him, "I tell you the truth, unless a man is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God... You must be born again" (John 3:5,7).

The point is this: all your good works — no matter how good they may be in themselves — can never save you and give you eternal life. God does not judge us by balancing our good deeds against our bad deeds to see whether we have enough good deeds to let us into heaven. The reason person does not drink lots of liquids he becomes dehydrated.

This is treated by replacing the hormone (by shot or nasal spray). The other kind of diabetes is treated by replacing the missing insulin by injection. I am delighted to hear that your grandson was diagnosed and is doing so well under treatment.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is a "chocolate cyst" on or of the ovaries? What could cause this situation and is surgery necessary? — K.O.

The term chocolate cyst of the ovary is used to describe what is more commonly called endometriosis of the ovary. The uterus has a fine lining called the endometrium. When this is sloughed off at menstruation, bits can migrate within the body. On the ovary, a bit of this lining forms cysts that become filled with blood and its pigment. They look chocolate-filled.

I cannot suggest what the proper treatment would be for you. That depends on many considerations — your age, the number and size of the cysts and what has been tried, if anything, in the past. Hormones, like the birth control pill, are used to treat endometriosis, which is what this really is. With this the cysts may disappear.

Simple pain relievers may be all that is needed. A newer hormone, danazol, has helped many women with your problem. Surgical removal may be necessary if the cysts are large, if there is persistent painful menstruation, if there is a problem in becoming pregnant or if the pain fails to respond to medicine.

This will insure continued Mob control over the powerful local, charged former Senate investigator Ray Maria in an interview with my associate Tony Capaccio.

The sordid story of the longshoremen's union is detailed in a secret 1977 Justice Department report, which concluded that the ILA is "completely dominated by men who either have strong organized crime ties or are members of the organized crime syndicate."

THE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT reported: "Abuses are common throughout the jurisdiction of the ILA. The syndicate dictates who does business on the East Coast and in what manner."

The Gambino and Vito Genovese crime families allegedly agreed on their spheres of influence in the late 1970s. According to Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations sources, Michael Clemente of the Genovese family controlled the Manhattan docks; he allegedly had jurisdiction over such top union officials as Scott, Teddy Gleason, George Barone, Fred Field and Thomas Buzzanca.

To hinder plans?

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control is supposed to investigate the connection between dope smuggling and organized crime. But there is some question whether the committee's new chairman, Rep. Leo Zeffereiti, D-N.Y., is the right man to crack down on the Mob.

HE PROBABLY OWED his re-election last year in part to the efforts of the International Longshoremen's Association in his Brooklyn district. And the ILA's connection to organized crime has been termed "a national disgrace" by Justice Department crime fighters.

The ILA local in Brooklyn was headed by the notorious Tony Scott, recently convicted of racketeering and tax fraud in New York. The local contributed $3,341.77 to Zeffereiti last year through its political action committee.

According to political sources in Brooklyn, Scott's dock workers also turned out poll watchers and campaign workers for the 53-year-old congressman. Zeffereiti barely survived the Reagan landslide last November, and the longshoremen were important to his re-election.

Scott is identified in Justice Department documents as a "capo" in the Carlo Gambino crime family; he controlled the Brooklyn and Staten Island waterfronts. Even after his conviction, the ILA did nothing to punish him. The New York Waterfront Commission finally forced his removal, but in his place the union appointed Scott's cousin by marriage.

This will insure continued Mob control over the powerful local, charged former Senate investigator Ray Maria in an interview with my associate Tony Capaccio.

The sordid story of the longshoremen's union is detailed in a secret 1977 Justice Department report, which concluded that the ILA is "completely dominated by men who either have strong organized crime ties or are members of the organized crime syndicate."

THE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT reported: "Abuses are common throughout the jurisdiction of the ILA. The syndicate dictates who does business on the East Coast and in what manner."

The Gambino and Vito Genovese crime families allegedly agreed on their spheres of influence in the late 1970s. According to Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations sources, Michael Clemente of the Genovese family controlled the Manhattan docks; he allegedly had jurisdiction over such top union officials as Scott, Teddy Gleason, George Barone, Fred Field and Thomas Buzzanca.

Here's a partial list of ILA officials convicted of racketeering or alleged to have Mob ties, yet who are still in power:

—George Barone is both an international vice president and head of Miami Local 1922, and holds two other high positions in the union. —William Boyle, international vice president.

—Cleveland Turner, president of Local 1418 in Miami and member of the ILA's executive board.

—James Vandervyde, coordinator of the union's Atlantic Coast District. —Landon Williams, an international vice president, executive board member and president of Local 1408 in Jacksonville, Fla.

—Though not indicted in connection with racketeering, Douglas Lago, vice president of Miami Local 1922, has a long felony record and has been identified as a high-ranking member of the Genovese family. He answers to Anthony "Fat Tony" Salerno.

Congressman Zeffereiti, of course, cannot be held responsible for the skulduggery of officials in a union whose rank-and-file live in his district and worked to elect him. And accepting money from a union with ties to organized crime doesn't forget a link between the congressman and the underworld. But it raises a serious question of his fitness to investigate Mafia matters.

Zeffereiti insists there's no problem. He told my associates Vicki Warren and Lucette Lagnado that the ILA's support will in no way obstruct his "war on drugs." Zeffereiti said: "I'll go after anyone trafficking in drugs, even if they contributed to my campaign."

WHITE HOUSE PIPELINE: Doing a "second take" for the cameras is no sweat for an old Hollywood pro. A group of congressmen visited President-Reagan the other day to present this year's Maid of Cotton, and had a private meeting before the press was allowed in for pictures. When a reporter asked about a bright red smudge on Reagan's cheek, the president willingly showed how he got it — and received another kiss from the young lady.

—House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, sent the president some jalapeno pepper-flavored jelly beans concocted by his constituents. In a play on the hard "H" pronunciation of "J" in Spanish, Wright warned Reagan the jellybeans were "hot as hell." But the ever-cautious Secret Service is suspicious of edibles sent by mail, so the jellybeans were turned over to the White House staff to taste-test. The staffers pursued their task so diligently that there were no jellybeans left for the president. Wright supplied another batch.

—One of President Reagan's first acts was to rescind Jimmy Carter's ban on hot water in federal office buildings. According to government officials, the seven months of cold water saved the taxpayers the equivalent of 3,770 barrels of No. 6 heating oil, worth $290,000.

—When President Reagan saw Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., pocket his placecard after a White House meeting, he asked why. Conte explained it was for his grandson Jason, whereupon the veteran autograph-giver in the Oval Office took the card and wrote on it, "To Jason from Ronald Reagan."

Centennial execs meet with Rogers Company rep

An executive committee meeting of the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., was held Monday at the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 900 Main.

Purpose of the meeting was to provide an update on centennial events and activities, and to meet with Don Dalton, the Rogers Company representative who will remain in Big Spring until the centennial celebration in May.

John Taylor, general chairman of the local centennial celebration committee, said the weekly meeting had been changed from Wednesday to Monday because of the funeral for Mr. Ray-Zor on Wednesday. Taylor also wanted to introduce Don Dalton of the Rogers Company to the various division and committee chairpersons.

Morris Rhodes, treasurer, said that all budgets should be on the computer by next Wednesday. He said this would be a good way to see how each division stands in accordance with their budget and expenses.

Richard Atkins, chairman of the decorations committee, said that the decorations for the Centennial Store-Headquarters, were in but that they were still trying to find a way to put them up without the wind taking them down. He also said that the silk screen decals of the Big Spring Centennial were due in between 10 to 12 days.

Hayes Stripling Jr., revenue division chairman, said that the Peddlers Permits should be in the hands of all retail merchants by this time. He said these permits would be sold to out-of-town salespersons beginning today for $2 and would be good through the centennial celebration in May.

He said the salespersons only had to purchase one permit, but should show the permit when calling on local retail outlets. Stripling said that people who lost their permits would be allowed to purchase a second one. Merchants selling these Peddlers Permits were also reminded that the funds derived from the sale of the permits were to be turned in to the Centennial Store-Headquarters.

Stripling said he was working on having seven sets of the centennial stock certificates framed for distribution to the major financial institutions in the city. These stock certificates are limited to 1,000 and will be sold for $5. Persons buying the certificates will be listed in the commemorative book as stockholders.

Joe Pickle, president of the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., and one of the writers of the commemorative book, said that most of the text for the book had been turned in to the printers, but that they were still waiting on the students from the high school to complete their information on the churches and organizations within the area.

Pickle said that all officials of the centennial committee needed to make an appointment with Zone 10 photography to have their pictures taken for publication in the book. He also said that persons making the appointments should honor those appointments.

Morris Rhodes, treasurer, said that persons from the various divisions and committees should be sure to provide a purchase order to the retail outlets when purchasing anything for the centennial celebration. He said they must have these purchase orders in order to keep track of the expenses of the many committees and divisions.

People in charge of the special events days were reminded that they must get a completed schedule of their activities into the Centennial Store-Headquarters by April 10, to have them included in the official centennial brochure that will be distributed to residents of Big Spring and surrounding communities.

Taylor said that things were moving along fairly smoothly with the parade, but that they were still trying to get groups and bands from other cities to perform in the parade. He said that persons who were also interested in entering decorated cars, equestrian units, and other things in the parade should contact Lynn Hise at the Big Spring Independent School District.

Don Dalton, the representative of the Rogers Company who will be in Big Spring until the centennial celebration in May, arrived in the city Monday after lunch. He said that he was from Asheville, N.C., and had a masters degree in theatre from the University of North Carolina. He said he had been working with the Rogers Company during the summer for the past ten years and that this would be his 25th stage show.

Dalton said that even though he had been in the city for only a couple of hours, he felt that Big Spring and Howard County were on their way to a very successful centennial celebration. He said that he would be meeting with the division, committee, and special events chairpersons during the next few days and would be able to present a better picture of their progress during the weekly meeting to be held next Wednesday.

Dalton said he would be available to meet with the various groups at most hours of the day. He said that it was important that he know what all was going on as far as plans for the festivities in order to insure that everything was going along smoothly. He said that many of the groups, including both the Brothers of the Brush and the Centennial Belles, were ahead of schedule.

Two armadillos wed

KOUNTZE, Texas (AP) — Hoover and Starr, two longtime residents of the area surrounding this east Texas town, have found wedded bliss as the state's first legally married armadillos.

Hoover, described as a portly but outgoing member of his species, parachuted out of a low-flying airplane only moments before the wedding ceremony began. His bride, wearing only a wedding veil, paced nervously in her basket as the Rev. Glen Drongoule of Sour Lake prepared the altar.

Hoover's handler and best friend, Gordon Baxter, said the wedding was long overdue. Starr bulged expectantly.

The two were wed as part of Kountze's annual Armadillo Days celebration. Also on hand was a best man—a French poodle said to be still suffering from a hangover from the previous night's bachelor party—and a maid of honor, an elephant.

It was the first marriage for both, town officials said. The couple was carried off to an undisclosed location for their honeymoon. Friends of the couple say they plan to reside in the country.

'Dallas' blamed for oil fraud charges

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — J.R. Ewing and his nefarious television family will make a fair trial impossible for a Texas oilman indicted for fraud in Minnesota, the man contends.

Orison F. "Mac" McDonald of Wichita Falls, along with Darrell Bomar of Dallas, was indicted by a Minnesota grand jury on nine counts of fraud and selling unregistered securities in connection with oil and gas well sales.

"Minnesotans do not have any oil and gas production in their state," said McDonald. "They are influenced by the 'Dallas' television show and equate Texas oil and gas operators to be the same as J.R. Ewing."

McDonald and Bomar were arraigned Wednesday before Peace Justice R.L. Stewart, and were released after posting $10,000 bond each.

GOP leaders urge Texans to support Reagan's cuts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Republicans launched an "independent" statewide effort today to build support for President Reagan's economic program.

Top party leaders fanned out over the state for a total of 20 news conferences today and Friday to show their backing of Reagan's proposed tax and budget cuts. They said no national funds were used.

In an entirely separate development, Republican Gov. Bill Clements sent letters to all state agency heads warning them federal funding to Texas may be cut as much as 50 percent. He asked that revised spending plans for 1982-83 be submitted to his office by May 1 with "appropriate reductions in staffing and expenditures."

State GOP Chairman Chester Upham, Mineral Wells, told a kickoff news conference in Austin Wednesday that Reagan's plan was "a bold and constructive program which can, and must, succeed. But to do so will require the partnership and cooperation of Congress.

Dear Abby

Hard-Working Cook Wants Her Just Desserts

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for six years to a wonderful man. Although I have hinted broadly on many occasions that I would dearly love some acknowledgment of my cooking, I have yet to receive one word of appreciation for anything I have prepared since our marriage.

I know he enjoys good food because he has mentioned from time to time that his first wife was a great cook. I have baked cakes and pies from scratch, made gourmet dishes, casseroles, stews, pot roasts and turkey dinners with all the trimmings, with nary one "That was good, dear."

I am considering serving him dog food, scooped out of the can and garnished with a few steamed onions and a sprig of parsley, just to see if I get a reaction.

I know a man could have far worse faults than being totally indifferent to a wife who knocks herself out nightly in the kitchen, but one gets tired of buying groceries, planning menus and preparing fine meals for someone who never utters a word of appreciation. Sign me.

UNAPPRECIATED IN LONG BEACH

DEAR UNAPPRECIATED: A friend of mine had the same problem. In desperation, she wrote the following message and presented it to her husband with his coffee after dinner:

"The chef respectfully requests that you comment on the dinner you have just consumed. Would you rate it: Excellent? Good? Fair? Poor?"

"Failure to comply with this request could cause the dining room to discontinue its service."

Needless to say, she received a generous outpouring of compliments — and still does. Try it.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a mother-daughter difference of opinion. Is it all right for a 16-year-old daughter to entertain a young male friend in her bedroom with the door shut? The daughter says all they do is talk and listen to music.

HER VS. ME

DEAR ME: If I were the mother, I'd vote for the open door policy. (Minimize the temptations.) If I were the daughter, I'd opt for the closed door policy. (Maximize the privacy.) However, rank has its privileges, so it's an open-and-shut case — with mother the victor.

DEAR ABBY: What should a man of 87 do with a collection of interesting old letters? I had over 1,000 until today, when I burned over 100. I felt like a murderer, but storage space is limited.

My children would not be interested in them, as most were from friends and relatives I knew before they were born. Some were from very distinguished people whose literary style was quite wonderful.

GEORGE FROM GEORGIA

DEAR GEORGE: If your children aren't interested in these letters, perhaps their children or grandchildren will one day appreciate them. To burn such letters is to destroy a part of history. Offer them first to someone in your family. If you have no takers, give them to any interested friend.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Rebekah's to entertain Odell La Londe Tuesday

The Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. for a Pot Luck Supper.

Lillian Rhyne, noble grand, presided over 16 members in the business meeting following 16 of whom were past noble grands. Thirty-two visits to the sick were reported.

Sheri Wilson, secretary, read the commission in the absence of Norma Newton, lodge deputy. Mrs. Rhyne reported on the Grand Lodge meeting which she attended as the lodge's representative. Big Spring Lodge No. 284 won the Community Service Award.

The lodge met again on Tuesday. Mrs. Rhyne presided over 14 members and two visitors attending, 10 of whom were past noble grands. Twenty-four visits to the sick were reported.

A communication was read from Odell La Londe, district deputy president, asking to visit the lodge April 7. The members agreed to have her and proposed to serve refreshments at the meeting. Annie Bransom, Myrtle Gring, Janell Barnhill and Olene Melton will serve homemade cakes and coffee to the Veterans Administration Medical Center patients Wednesday.

Sheri Wilson presented Marion Savell her past district deputy president's pin.

Mrs. Rhyne was elected First Lady from the lodge and other plans were discussed for the Centennial celebration.

Mayor and Mrs. Clyde Angel help in forming Canterbury Belles

Residents of Canterbury Retirement Center organized a chapter of Canterbury Belles Friday evening to help celebrate the Railroad Centennial.

The Honorable Clyde Angel, mayor, and Mrs. Angel, dressed in Centennial costumes, assisted them.

Mrs. Angel read the proclamation to the belles, stating that they should wear the Centennial buttons at all times.

Mayor Angel read the proclamation to the "Brothers of the Brush" stating what would happen if they didn't wear their buttons.

Other Centennial attire was displayed which is available at the Centennial Store.

The Canterbury Belles elected officers as follows: Geneva Clinkscales, president (High Bustle), Annie Belle Winn, secretary (Suzie Quill), Gladys Choate, treasurer (Silver Belle), Myrtle Keele, sheriff (Calamity Jane) and Alma Pye (Main Stay), Board of Governors representative.

PTA Council urges members to vote in Saturday's election

The possibility of having one jumbo Parent-Teacher Association carnival sponsored jointly next fall by the city's five PTAs was discussed at Monday's meeting of the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association. The idea will be considered at the next meeting of each PTA unit.

College Heights Elementary hosted the Council's luncheon meeting. Presiding officer, Linda Baker, vice president, urged PTA members to vote in Saturday's School Board election of the Big Spring Independent School District. Candidate David Huff was a visitor to the Council meeting.

Coordinating the spring conference for District 17 of the Texas PTA is the next major PTA Council undertaking. The conference slated for April 28 in Big Spring is expected to draw PTA members from a large West Texas area.

Recent PTA Council work has included selling the booklet "Parents, Peers and Pot" at the local "HELP" drug education rally March 16 and providing several hostesses for the Howard County Library's Silver Tea March 17.

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — He lived in cheap apartments and motel rooms, had few if any friends, subsisted mostly on hamburgers, was fascinated by Nazis, and was desperately in love with a teen-age actress he knew only through the movies.

This is the sketchy portrait of John W. Hinckley Jr., the 25-year-old former Texas Tech student arrested Monday in the shooting of President Ronald Reagan and three others in Washington.

Scores of reporters and official investigators have scoured this city in the three days since the shooting, but the pieces in the puzzle of Hinckley's life have been extremely elusive.

In the seven years that Hinckley lived sporadically in this West Texas city of 170,000 persons, he left virtually no impression on any of the few persons who vaguely remembered him.

Said a history professor: "He was just a face that slipped back into the crowd."

Wondered another professor: "How do you spend seven years in school without making a single close friend among your classmates?"

Even the students who knew him from his Highland Park high school days lost track of Hinckley.

"There were about 10 of us who came to Tech (from Highland Park)," said Kirk Dooley, 26. "A lot of us pledged different fraternities and consequently didn't see as much of each other as in high school, but we still kept in touch."

"When all the dust had cleared, somebody said he had never seen John. Nobody ever saw him. I figured he dropped out of Tech because I simply never saw him."

There is little evidence that Hinckley ever did much in Lubbock except research Adolph Hitler, watch television and eat hamburgers in his apartments and attend classes from time to time. He became a senior after seven years. He dropped in and out of classes, but made the dean's list one semester.

At one time he listed his off-campus address as his sister's home in Dallas, at other times as his parents' home in Evergreen, Colo.

Records indicate that he may have bought as many as four guns in Lubbock, but authorities say Hinckley bought the .22-caliber pistol used in the assassination attempt in Dallas.

Reporters have found few people who remember talking to Hinckley in recent years and none would be classified as a friend. An apartment maintenance man said he once talked politics with Hinckley, who said he thought political leaders should be "eliminated."

Lonnie Montgomery, owner of a used book store in Lubbock, said Hinckley paid $30 for a two-volume edition of Hitler's "Mein Kampf," and spend many hours silently reading a 500-volume collection of World War II books that Montgomery owned.

Michael Allen, leader of the National Socialist Party of America in Chicago, said Hinckley joined the Nazi group in 1978 in the midst of the organization's widely publicized efforts to march through Skokie, Ill. Allen said Hinckley was kicked out of the Nazi group for being too radical.

One of the few people to recall recent contact with Hinckley is Stacy Aucourt, a 16-year-old motel maid who met him in early March when he was staying at the inexpensive Golden Hours Motel in suburban Denver, about 20 miles from the affluent home his parents own in the mountains west of Denver.

"He was a very nice guy," she told the Dallas Morning News. "He was soft-spoken. He didn't seem like the kind of person who would hurt anybody — let alone try to kill the president."

"We talked about the weather and we talked about music because we both like music." She said he always kept the drapes pulled in his room and usually ate across the street at a fast-food hamburger restaurant.

The only other young woman known to play a role in Hinckley's life story is actress Jodie Foster, whom he first saw when she portrayed a 12-year-old prostitute in the movie "Taxi Driver."

Officials in Washington said Hinckley wrote Miss Foster a series of love letters and apparently hoped to win her attention with threats on the president's life. She has denied any contact with Hinckley, except for the letters.

The letters were the best indication of what Hinckley's motive might have been. Reporters criss-crossing the Texas Tech campus turned up little of substance concerning Hinckley's activities in his seven years in Lubbock.

Hinckley's family was in seclusion in Colorado and would not help solve the puzzle of Hinckley's life.

He had a bank account here, but bank officials said there were no payroll checks to indicate that he ever had a job. He did deposit checks from his parents. His father is president of a successful Denver-based oil company.

"He passed through people's lives like an apparition," said one local reporter.

"I can't believe he was here for seven years and nobody knows him," said Beverly Johansen, news room director of the campus newspaper, who sent waves of student reporters on a futile search of Hinckley's past.

Dooley, his high school classmate, told the student newspaper: "When he was at Tech, that is when he apparently snapped. I guess he just radically changed when he was at Tech. He never showed any tendency to be moody, and that is what is blowing everyone's mind."

Nearly two years ago, there was a vacancy on the City Council, and I was asked to serve. Although I had just retired from my job at Cosden, I accepted because I felt my experience several years ago on the Council would help. There were some rocky times, not the least of which were financial. But now our City is back on the right side of the ledger. By and large, we are working smoothly as a team, and we are about to start a major capital improvements program which you authorized last December. I believe I can make a real contribution in obtaining the most of our dollars as well as for our long range good. Please give me the opportunity by voting for:

Reagan's popularity up sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The attempt on President Reagan's life was followed by a sharp jump in popular approval of the way he is handling his job and a smaller increase in support for tougher handgun controls, according to a new poll published today.

The president's approval rating climbed 11 points from Sunday, the day before the shooting, to Tuesday, the day after the assassination attempt, the Washington Post-ABC News poll said.

The nationwide telephone survey of 505 adults showed that 73 percent of those contacted now approve of the way the president is handling his job. The approval rating was 62 percent in a Post-ABC poll taken over the last four days of last week.

The proportion that disapproved of the president's job performance fell from 23 percent to 16 percent.

The remaining 11 percent expressed no opinion. The poll's statistical margin of error was given as 5 percentage points either way.

On handgun controls, last week's larger sample of 1,872 split 57 percent to 38 percent in favor of "stronger legislation controlling the distribution of handguns," with the rest having no opinion.

On Tuesday, the split on the same question was 65 percent to 30 percent. But 78 percent agreed that no law could prevent an assassin from getting a gun and shooting at the president.

Presidential poll approval ratings almost always increase on occasions of great national tension or crisis. President Carter's Gallup Poll rating jumped from 38 percent to 51 percent after the failed mission to rescue the hostages in Iran last year.

Reagan's ratings have been declining recently as opposition mobilized against his economic program. A Gallup Poll completed March 15 showed 24 percent disapproving of the way he handled the job, the highest unfavorable rating for a two-month-old administration in Gallup's polling on the last several presidents.

LOOKING UP — First lady Nancy Reagan looks up at her husband's room at the George Washington University Medical Center Wednesday as she arrives by car to visit President Reagan. Mrs. Reagan is carrying a jar of the President's favorite candy, jelly beans.

JC teachers' pay low, comparatively speaking

Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — You've heard of the energy shortage and the peanut drought. Now, the Texas Junior College Teachers Association is talking about a short supply of quality teachers.

Inadequate salaries and not Arab oil ministers are the culprits, the association president is telling members of the legislature. "We knew that teaching would never be a lucrative profession," Alvin Community College teacher Doris Burbank told the House Appropriations Committee this past week.

"Unfortunately, the idealism which brought us into teaching cannot help us in coping with the more practical and realistic problems of meeting our personal and family financial obligations," she said.

"I don't believe that any fair-minded person would disagree that teachers' salaries have never been adequate, she added. "And when that inadequacy is worsened and compounded year after year by the ravages of inflation and budgetary constraints, insult is truly added to injury."

She told the committee that in 20 of the 47 junior college communities, teachers in the local grade schools make more than the junior college faculty members the same levels of experience and training.

Proposed limits in the state's junior college funding, including one bill that would trim $12 million from the figure being proposed by the Legislative Budget Board, she said, will leave no room for inflation-matching salary increases. Junior College officials have requested $819 million for the next state biennium, but they say a $723 million proposal by the state's budget experts, the LBB, would be a reasonable compromise. "It would offer some hope," Ms. Burbank said.

However, a House appropriations bill proposed by House Speaker Bill Clayton and House Appropriations Committee Chairman Bill Prenal of Bryan would cut that to $611 million.

"The House bill... is woefully inadequate at best," she told that committee and Prenal on Thursday.

"It is not surprising, then, to learn that some teachers are finding it impossible to remain in our profession and are reluctantly leaving their classrooms to accept jobs in industry or in other professions," she said.

Add to that, she said, the problem of recruiting new teachers. "We are concerned — to put it mildly — by reported trends that university students preparing for careers in teaching are coming increasingly from the ranks of those less successful academically," Ms. Burbank said. "The truth is fewer and fewer (quality) college students will find themselves attracted to teaching when they observe the compensation offered teachers in comparison to offers from business and industry," she added.

Such reports, she said, have led to expectations of a teacher shortage within the decade. "The truth of the matter is that there is already a shortage of teachers in several fields: accounting, management, data processing, health occupations... several of the technical programs requiring instructors with highly specialized training."

Mrs. Burbank said junior college teachers know state funds are limited and everyone wants more money. "But we also believe that there are ample funds to make a respectable beginning at restoring a sense of balance in our state's priorities — surely education ought to rank high among those priorities," she concluded.

Wilson to review farm zoning bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Faced with opposition from Texas cities, Sen. John Wilson has agreed to review his bill to protect farmers and ranchers from zoning and ordinances they face when their land is gobbled up by spreading cities.

However, Wilson made it clear Wednesday in the Senate Natural Resources Committee that he is not ready to make any major changes in his bill. The "right-to-farm" bill exempts agricultural operations from city ordinances and civil lawsuits filed by people who don't want farms for neighbors. A farm or ranch would have to be in operation for a year to qualify for the protection.

"I don't think you ought to be able to change the rules of the game because you annex (a farmer) against his will," said Wilson, D-La Grange.

The senator, who is a farmer, agreed to work on his bill after a Texas Municipal League spokesman testified against it. The committee took no action on the bill.

R. Clayton Hutchins of the Texas City Attorneys Association testified against the Wilson bill, saying cities need the power to regulate farms that "10 years hence may be close to the center of the city."

Wilson said his bill still allows action against farmers whose operations jeopardize health or safety in the area.

In a statement filed with the committee, the Texas Farm Bureau supported Wilson's bill.

Imagination can turn your leftovers into frozen assets, says economist

Leftovers. Today they're the little anonymous containers at the back of the fridge, pushed around, restacked, saved for a rainy day — and discarded, in haste, on garbage day. It wasn't always like that, of course.

Once upon a time, busy homemakers cooked more than enough on purpose, knowing that the remnants of one meal would save valuable time in preparing the next. They still do, and they save valuable money, too.

Leftovers, however, have an image problem. They are often considered boring or tasteless, mostly because they're quite often served the same old way, day after day, until they're gone. Fortunately, those problems can be solved by using your refrigerator, your freezer, your imagination, and a few timely tips from home economists for Ore-Ida Foods.

First, change your vocabulary. Smart people don't have "leftovers," they have "frozen assets!"

Now, change the way you shop. Instead of blowing the budget on a T-bone, for example, invest in the largest affordable roast. After Sunday dinner, slice the remnants for a future Steak Diane, cut them into strips for stroganoff, cube them for chop suey or add to a canned vegetable soup.

An enormous baked ham sees later duty in jambalaya or Savannah Scallop, in ham steaks with raisin sauce or spaghetti with garlic sauce. Save the bone for a New England ham with boiled bean supper. Sliver it for a salad, cube it for a quiche. Chic.

Rather than buy chicken breasts, get a large whole roaster. Serve as is one night, then use the remainder in a deceptively economical Chicken Bake. Each time a chicken is purchased stockpile the livers for a Sunday brunch; use the carcass for freezable chicken stock, the start of many an elegant meal.

You save time, since the main ingredient for tonight's dish was cooked and frozen weeks ago. And you save money, since larger cuts are usually cheaper per pound than smaller, specialized cuts.

If you look through some of America's earlier cookbooks, those written before the days of "leftovers," you'll find recipe after recipe for using every last bit of food. And if you're not up to trying anything new, or if your family won't accept anything new, you can still be ahead with your frozen assets. Just vary the vegetables... corn here, broccoli there. Play with the potatoes... dinner fries one night, hash browns another, shoestrings a third. Among the greatest frozen assets are Ore-Ida potatoes, less expensive to prepare than fresh, a great time saver, and always on hand when you need them. Vary a side of salad... tossed on Tuesday, gelatin with fruit on Thursday, Caesar on Sunday.

When storing your "frozen assets," pack them in freezer containers or wrap in freezing packaging material. It should be moisture-proof, vapor-proof and air-tight. Label the package, not only with the content, but also with the date. Don't forget about them!

And when anyone asks what's for supper tonight... smile and say "frozen assets."

SAVANNAH SCALLOP
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup frozen Ore-Ida Chopped Onions
1/2 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup diced green pepper
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 1/2 cups milk
3/4 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

4 cups frozen Ore-Ida Golden Crinkles or Golden Fries
1 1/2 cups cubed cooked ham

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease a shallow 2-quart baking dish.

In large skillet, in melted butter, saute onion, celery and green pepper until golden.

Reduce heat to medium; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk, cook while stirring until smooth and thickened. Add 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese and stir until melted.

Arrange a layer of frozen Ore-Ida Golden Crinkles, then ham cubes in baking dish; pour cheese-vegetable sauce over the top. Cover tightly with foil.

Bake for 30 minutes. Uncover top with remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Return to oven 15 minutes or until bubbly.

Yield: 5 servings
Microwave Preparation
Follow the above recipe but reduce butter and milk to following levels; then use these preparation directions:

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 cup milk
Place microwave on high setting.

Place butter and vegetables in deep microwave casserole dish, cover tightly and microwave 6-7 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Blend in flour and seasoning; add milk and 1/2 cup cheese, mix well. Microwave for 3-4 minutes or until sauce thickens, stirring after each minute of cooking.

Fold ham and frozen Ore-Ida Golden Crinkles into cheese-vegetable sauce. Cover tightly and microwave 11-12 minutes or until hot and bubbly in center. Stir halfway through cooking. Top with 1/2 cup cheese.

Stand 5 minutes before serving.

CHICKEN BAKE
1 can (4 ounce) mushrooms
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
2 cubes or envelopes chicken bouillon

1/4 cup commercial sour cream
2 cups cut-up cooked or canned chicken or turkey
3-3 1/2 cups frozen Ore-Ida Southern Style Hash Browns or Potatoes O'Brien

Fresh parsley (optional)

TOPPING:
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2-3 cup crushed corn flakes (optional)

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease a shallow 2-quart baking dish.

Drain mushrooms, reserving liquid in 1-cup measure; add enough water to make 1 cup.

In 2 1/2-quart saucepan, stir flour, salt, liquid and milk until blended; add bouillon cubes and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and bouillon cubes are melted.

Combine mushrooms, chicken pieces and frozen Ore-Ida Southern Style Hash Browns with sour cream sauce, spoon into baking dish.

For topping: In small saucepan over low heat melt butter; stir in corn flakes. Sprinkle topping over mixture. Bake 45 minutes or until piping hot and bubbly in the center. Garnish with parsley.

Yield: 4-6 servings

CHICKEN BAKE — Leftovers become "frozen assets" when served with a little imagination and the right combination of ingredients. Chicken Bake, a deceptively economical evening meal, combines Ore-Ida Southern Style Hash Browns in a creamy sauce with mushrooms and cooked chicken. Leftover chicken can be frozen and stored until needed for this creative and quick dish.

COTTAGE CHEESE JUST LIKE YOU LIKE IT.

Quality Chekd cottage cheese is creamy-rich and ready to put zip into salads, give a flavor boost to lunch and add adventure to cooking like Strawberry Cheese Bavarian!

- Strawberry Cheese Bavarian!
- 1 1/2 cups Quality Chekd cottage cheese.
 - 1 envelope unflavored gelatin (1 tablespoon).
 - 1/4 cup cold water.
 - 2 tablespoons sugar.
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt.
 - 2 cups ripe strawberries.
 - 1/4 teaspoon berry extract.

Puree cottage cheese in blender with a tablespoon of water. Sprinkle gelatin over 1/4 cup cold water to soften, then place over low heat to dissolve. Remove from heat, stir in sugar and salt. Combine 1 cup berries and berry extract, mash lightly and add to gelatin mixture. Fold in the cottage cheese puree and pour into a wet 3-cup mold or bombe. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with reserved strawberries. Makes 4 servings.

Helpful hints for coupon clippers

With all due respect to Sir Isaac Newton, it no longer seems true that what goes up must come down. At least not at the supermarket. Not these days. Prices are going up, but only mouths are turning down.

People who have never before clipped a coupon are wielding their scissors with surprising energy. A sale tag is like a red flag; a special offer draws crowds. For many, stockpiling is becoming a way of life, and a very cents-ible one at that. Here to help is a horde of hints on hoarding, amassed by home economists for Ore-Ida Foods, industrious people to whom saving money is not small potatoes: Make a shopping list of things you need now, and make a list of things you use most often. Go through the newspaper and list which stores have what on sale. Clip coupons, but only for the items you use. Put them in your purse. Right now. Throw away old ideas on shopping economics. Foods that were once inexpensive may now be costly, peanut butter, for example. Conversely, former luxury products are now relatively inexpensive. Frozen potatoes, for example, are now less expensive to prepare than fresh. Make room for savings!

Toss the pots and pans and muffin tins you never use, get rid of all those little containers-without-lids and all those little lids-without-containers; give your unused wedding shower presents to the next bride you meet. You need that room! Devote your new-found space to canned goods — stock it with soups and sauces, tuna and fruits. But, no matter how saving the sale, how generous the coupon, don't buy it if your family doesn't eat it!

If you manage to clean out two cupboards, earmark one for paper goods and cleaning agents. These non-food staples are among the fastest rising in price. Again, watch for sales, use your coupons.

And if you haven't managed to clean out any cupboards, stash your treasures in a cardboard box under the bed! Forage out the freezer. While having a freezer full of esoteric items like puff pastry shells may uplift the spirits, meat and potatoes make more sense. And cents. And even dollars. Stick to the basics and stock up.

Some convenience foods are better buys than fresh, even before you calculate waste and time. Frozen orange juice concentrate is one example. Ore-Ida frozen potatoes, a better value to prepare than fresh, are another. Most packets of frozen vegetables allow you to use just as much as you need, returning the rest to the freezer for a later time.

The law of supply and demand influences meat prices. Beef will sometimes be cheaper than pork, and visa versa. Take advantage of meat values.

Consider how you'll use the meat: you don't need prime aged beef for a hearty stew, for instance. Shop for all occasions. You might want to buy big and freeze small: cut off the end slices of a pork loin and store them separately for a pork chop supper.

In buying meat, it is as important to watch the cost per serving as it is the cost per pound (Divide the price per pound of one cut by the number of portions it will supply. Compare it with another cut and choose the better value.) With a boneless cut, a ¼ to 1-3 pound per serving is average; if the meat has bones, 1-3 to ½ pound per serving is usual. Frozen fish is usually much less expensive than fresh; salt it away.

Man does not live by meat alone, no matter what your husband says, so save room for go-withs. Generally, frozen vegetables rank as well nutritionally as their fresh counterparts, and often better. (Remember, frozen potatoes are processed at optimum conditions; "fresh" potatoes might take weeks to go to market, shedding vitamins on the way.) Besides, a USDA report comparing 13 vegetables in fresh and frozen form found that an average 40 percent of fresh produce was discarded before it could be used. Consider that the next time you meet up with a fresh asparagus spear!

Stockpile a bit at a time, building up your supplies, replenishing as you use them. Someday you'll find that you can get most of your weekly groceries from the cupboard, the freezer, and the box under the bed. That day is sure to bring on sweet dreams!

SEASIDE ON A SHOESTRING
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2-3rd cup frozen Ore-Ida Chopped Onions
¼ cup chopped green pepper

2 cans (10-¾ ounces, each) condensed cream of chicken soup
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons Heinz mustard
Dash liquid red pepper seasoning

2 cans (6½-ounces, each) Starkist Chunk Tuna
1½ quarts frozen Ore-Ida Shoestrings
½ teaspoon salt
Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease two shallow 1½ quart, baking dishes. (One dish should be freezer-to-oven variety).

Melt butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Add onions and green peppers; cook until tender. Stir in undiluted soup, milk, mustard and pepper seasoning; mix until smooth. Drain and break tuna into chunks; add to sauce. Heat sauce until heated through.

Place half the frozen Ore-Ida Shoestrings in bottom of two baking dishes. Top each with tuna mixture and remaining frozen potatoes. Cover and seal one dish and freeze.

Sprinkle other dish with salt. Bake 30-35 minutes until potatoes are tender and lightly browned.

To Heat Frozen Casserole: Sprinkle potatoes with ¼ teaspoon salt. Bake, uncovered, for 45-50 minutes at 375 degrees or until potatoes are tender and casserole bubbling hot.

YIELD: 4-5 servings, each casserole

SEASIDE ON A SHOESTRING — Double batching is one way for sensible cooks to save valuable time in the kitchen. Seaside On A Shoestring gives tuna a new twist with Ore-Ida Shoestrings and is easily prepared in two dishes. Tonight's casserole goes from oven to table while the other dish is popped into the freezer for a future meal.

Spurs want Doeswinning NCAA clean Bobby Knight?

LA over Houston

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — While Los Angeles and Houston battle for the right to advance in the National Basketball Association playoffs, the San Antonio Spurs lie in wait for the winner.

At least two Spurs say they are anxious for an early shot at the defending world champion Lakers.

"If we knocked L.A. out, it would have more meaning," said George Gervin, who thinks the defending champion Lakers must be considered the team to beat. "I'd like to play the NBA champions because you've got to go through them, anyway," added forward Mark Olberding.

The Spurs drew a bye for winning the Midwest Division with a 52-30 record and are marking time, waiting for the outcome of the Los Angeles-Houston mini-series to get into the fray.

Y-Master swimmers shine in Lubbock

The Big Spring YMCA Masters swim team swam to a fourth place finish in Lubbock on March 28th and 29th.

Although only three swimmers from Big Spring were able to attend the meet they placed 1st and 2nd in every event they entered. Teri Bryant, age 21, placed first in 50 free, 200 Individual Medley, 200 back, 100 back, 50 fly, 100 free, 1650 free and second in 100 Individual medley and 50 back.

Shelly Ebarb, age 25, placed first in 50 fly, 100 back, 200 breast, 50 breast, 50 back, 100 and 200 Individual Medley, 100 breast and 2nd in 50 and 100 free.

Anne Couvillion, age 45, placed 1st in 100 back, 50 back, 200 back, 50 free and 2nd in 100 free. Anyone interested in joining the Masters swim team either to get the best exercise possible or compete please contact Bryant, Coach at the Big Spring YMCA, at 267-8234.

Gowdy recalls bad experiences

Cont. from 1-B considered a "rod and gun" series; since then, fishing has survived but hunting has been killed off. Under pressure from conservationists, "Sportsman" got out of the game-killing business in the early 70s, receiving a big push from the negative response after a polar bear was graphically bloodied on air.

The change in philosophy suits Gowdy fine, although he feels true hunters are conservationists as well. "The really good hunter wants to save the game," insisted Gowdy. "I've never been a big hunter. I used to hunt jackrabbits and pheasants, but I haven't hunted for game since I was in high school. I had chances to do hunting on the show, but I didn't. I just wasn't comfortable with it."

VOTE FOR JERRY MYRICK

BIG SPRING CITY COUNCILMAN PLACE 4

A LIFETIME RESIDENT OF BIG SPRING WHO IS CONCERNED ABOUT THE GROWTH OF OUR COMMUNITY.

Pol. Adv. Paid for by Friends of Jerry Myrick, Jerry Myrick, Treasurer.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Three days have passed since the NCAA's controversial championship basketball game was played under the shadow of the tragic assassination attempt on the president, and commentators have got around to reviewing the game itself.

Net result: Indiana's Coach Bobby Knight is a hero.

"Knight's Dictum Upheld," reads one headline, referring to the discipline that carried the Hoosiers to 63-50 victory over North Carolina.

"Superb teacher," says a critic.

"Let teachers instill young Americans with the values of teacher-coaches like Bobby Knight," adds another.

NBC-TV named him, and not Isiah Thomas, winner of the Most Valuable Award, presented by a car company. It was Bobby's brain and not those two vital steals and 23 points by Isiah that tipped the scales to an Indiana victory.

Thus Americans again shrug off the banal vulgarities, bullying tactics and informal brawls in canonizing one of the men entrusted with the playtime keep of some of their 19- and 20-year-olds.

He won. That was sufficient within itself. After all, in the words of the late Vince Lombardi, "winning isn't everything — it's the only thing."

It is bizarre how as a nation not only tolerate but even admire and hail a person's actions which, under any other circumstances, would be a source of derision.

"That's our boy, Bobby," they say with a giggle. "What a card!" "Ain't it the truth? He's a winner." Winning makes everything all right.

Whenever you try to probe into the inner soul of the Marine f;9it-and-polish, tough-guy personality of men such as Knight — also General Patton, Lombardi, Woody Hayes and, to a lesser degree, George Steinbrenner — you run into all sorts of conflicts.

Knight's personality — as in the case of other renowned martinet — runs the broad gamut from the foul-talking, chair-kicking, face-slapping bully to an off-stage charmer with a seeming concern for the impressionable human clay he is commissioned to mold.

What really bugs us is that Bobby Knight, two days after shoving a Louisiana State fan against the wall and dumping him in a plastic container, suddenly is pictured as some kind of protector of modern virtues and morals.

The Indiana coach makes no effort to clean up his own act. It's silly for him to get incensed over a fan's ribbing. It's indiscreet of him to push human beings around, stand before a houseful of reporters and scream the vilest profanities.

If he is truly a great character builder, why shouldn't he build his own? As the Bible says, CHILLICOTHE, Texas (AP) — Public schools here are closed for the rest of this week because of student reactions to two chemicals that were sprayed throughout the school complex to quell an outbreak of head lice, school district officials said.

The chemicals were sprayed by school board members and volunteers and included Lindane and Tox-Phene, normally used to rid cattle of lice, said Dr. Roy Fisher, the city health officer.

Political Ad. Paid For By Jackie Jeter, Treasurer.

POINT BONITA, Calif. (AP) — For 1,000 hours each year, Guy Sheets gazes out his living room window into a white-gray curtain of fog that enshrouds the rocky Marin headlands and blurs the edges of San Francisco's pastel skyline.

Sometimes it's so thick the U.S. Coast Guard petty officer can't even see his reason for being here: Point Bonita lighthouse, the blinking beacon that has guided sailors to San Francisco Bay through 125 years of high seas and low visibility.

But as the fog rolls in today, the Coast Guard will be rolling out. After more than a century of operation, machines will replace man at Point Bonita, the last lighthouse of the 60 or so stretching from Alaska to San Diego to be automated.

"They're moving everybody out except me," Sheets said. "I'm going to stay here and monitor the equipment, make sure it's working right. My main job will be watching the fog. If the fog comes in and the fog detector doesn't turn on the horns, I'll have to do it myself."

From the neat picket fence that stretches in front of the ranch-style house Sheets shares with three others about 300 yards from the lighthouse, visitors can hear the deep bellow of five different fog horns, warning vessels away from the bay's treacherous shallows and jutting rocks.

But modern boats, equipped as they are with sophisticated navigation gear, radar and direction-finders, simply don't need the lighthouse or the horns the way they did in the mid-19th century.

In 1855, when the beacon was first built, a siege gun was fired every 30 minutes during foggy weather as a signal to seafarers.

The job overwhelmed the former Army sergeant then employed to operate the gun. "I cannot find any person to relieve me, not five minutes," he wrote. "I have been up three days and nights with only two hours rest. I was nearly used up."

For years, a man stood 24-hour watch at the lighthouse, perched precariously on jagged cliffs 124 feet above a tumultuous cove where the spray from crashing waves often reaches the light itself.

But he occasionally fell asleep at the switch. Indeed, he was snoozing when a boat caught fire in plain view, Petty Officer Mark Van Buskirk said.

So when the automation process began a year ago, the watch was moved to the light station where the coast guardsmen live, a brisk walk down a narrow paved path, through a low tunnel and across a suspension bridge to the lighthouse. They lose their jobs when the National Park Service takes over, and their feelings are mixed.

"People see the lighthouse, and the waves breaking around the rocks and the sunset, and they think, 'I wish I was stationed out there.' Then they get stationed out here, and it's a different story," said Van Buskirk, who is itching to get back to the faster pace of law enforcement work.

"There's not a whole lot to do," Sheets agreed. "We maintain the grounds, make sure the grass gets mowed. And watch the fog. This is a station where you have to find work to do."

The solitude, so close to a city of 685,000, is startling. The million-dollar view — the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco skyline to the East, the Pacific to the West — is the kind developers would kill for.

"But it gets old," Sheets said. "The waves are always breaking on the rocks, the light is always blinking. The sun always comes up in the morning over the bridge, and it always goes down over the ocean."

Even so, Sheets said, he has learned to love the fog which drifts in on seagulls' wings and blots out the riot of flowers stretching down the hill in front of his house. He's made a study of it.

"There's a ground fog, and then there's a high fog that doesn't quite get to the water. Sometimes, there's just a haze, and sometimes it just comes in real thick, so you can't see the water," he said.

"Those days are nice, because you know nobody's going to come out here. You can do what you want when you want to do it. It makes you kind of... self-sufficient."

Commissioner will resign

TEXARKANA (AP) — Bowie County Commissioner Milton Minter, implicated in a wide-ranging federal kickback investigation, will resign his post this month, the Dallas Morning News said today.

The newspaper said County Judge Ed Miller told of Minter's decision. Minter has "pleaded guilty to an infraction" and will be replaced on the commissioners court by dairy farmer Paul Fannin, Miller told the News.

Minter, in his first term on the court, attended Monday's regular session but made no statement, said the News.

Fannin was introduced to commissioners at that session.

The newspaper said one commissioner, who requested anonymity, said Minter admitted being involved in the investigation but said he was making restitution.

Federal sources have told The Associated Press their investigation into alleged kickbacks involving road-and-bridge fund expenses could result in indictments for as many as 50 county officials in 16 East Texas counties.

Saturn's rings being studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists are still trying to fathom Saturn's rings.

Dr. Bradford Smith, head of the team responsible for the 17,500 pictures sent back by Voyager 1 to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told reporters Tuesday "The problem is trying to apply the laws of physics to the conditions that exist near Saturn."

Gravitational influences of Saturn's moons may be responsible for the mysterious twisting of the three ringlets in the planet's F rings, although electrostatic charges carried by the ring particles also may be involved, and the spoke-like features radiating from the B ring appear to be extremely small particles that may be elevated above the rings because of electric discharges, Smith said.

Probations revoked
 Rickie Blackmon, 28, of 1610 Mesquite, was sentenced to three years at Huntsville prison following a revocation of his probation Wednesday.
 Blackmon was taken to 118th District court for the hearing. He was originally charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was given 15 days credit for time already spent in jail.
 Ronald Jay Bishop, 22, of Hazel Green, Ala., was also taken to 118th District court on Wednesday, where his probation was revoked. He was given six years at the Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville, and was given credit for 36 days already spent in jail.
 Bishop was originally charged with theft over $200 and under $10,000.

Vets of WWI roll call begins
 A nationwide roll call of all military veterans of WW I, except those who are members of a WW I Barracks, is now in progress.
 Purpose of the roll call is to compile a complete list of all living veterans and widows of veterans of WW I.
 Those who qualify are being asked to contact E.J. Niedermaier, Commander, Vets, WW I, Dept. of Texas, 3922 S. Buckner Blvd., Dallas, Tex., 75227.
 The information desired of the respondent includes name, age, place of residence, branch of service in which he served and membership in its veterans' organizations.
 Many veterans are not aware of the benefit; they are now eligible to receive, which came about as a result of changes made in Veterans' legislation.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APR. 3, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to study the progress you have made and to make needed changes. State your views to influential persons who can be helpful to you. Be more optimistic.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is fine for studying new outlets through which to expand. A direct course is the best to follow at this time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use an improved method where finances are concerned and gain benefits. Take treatment to improve your appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Come to the right decision concerning relations with associates. Be sure to spend your money wisely today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your work done early in the day. Use your energy for social activities later. Use care in motion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A time to be calm while going after a personal aim. Take constructive steps to improve the quality of your life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able now to get the support of associates in a new project you have in mind. Show others you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) State your views to associates early in the day and come to a fine agreement. Strive for increased happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't neglect to handle monetary affairs that are important to your welfare. Don't take any risks at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your financial status and find a better way to increase your income. Be wary of false friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Obtain important information you need at the right sources. Maintain a cheerful manner at all times today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Morning is best time to be gregarious and talk with key persons. Seek the company of congenials in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go after your personal aims in a positive manner and get excellent results. Take no risks with your reputation.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful persons who will adopt the right philosophy that could lead to a most successful life. One who will like music and religious subjects. Teach good manners early in life.

Network may earn viewers

ABC News was best when it counted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC is said to have lost $1 million in advertising alone Monday night covering the attempted assassination of Ronald Reagan and positioning the Oscar telecast, but nobody at the network is complaining, and ABC's coverage figures to pay off in the long run.

It was quality stuff, fast, accurate as could be expected and remarkably thorough. If America indeed turns to the tube when it wants to know now, ABC was the network to choose.

Frank Reynolds occasionally seemed a bit more shaken than some may prefer, but unflappable Ted Koppel was the anchor to the scene. Besides, there's something to be said for the anchorman-as-human being: It was a scary story.

What ABC did on Monday was prove to viewers that ABC News is a place to turn to when in need for news. Four long years of image polishing by Roone Arledge, sterling performances on "Nightline" and whizbang pictures on "World News Tonight" set the scene for ABC's ascendancy; a day of being best when it counted may have cinched it.

ABC was there with the first bulletin of the shooting, the first clip of the shooting, the first word that Reagan had been shot. A viewer switching channels soon got the idea that CBS and NBC would have been well-served by keeping an eye on the ABC monitor.

The bosom to which the nation traditionally has cleaved in stressful times belongs to CBS, i.e. Walter Cronkite. Cronkite was good for many things, but he was absolutely indispensable as a guide through frightening woods on dark nights.

That's not to disparage the work of Dan Rather, whose performance was completely professional. And Rather is best in a breaking story, fetching pertinent details from field reports and using his innate dramatic sense to good effect. Unfortunately CBS was late, and that didn't help.

At NBC, where Marvin

Kalb and Edwin Newman ran things, ABC's dust was swallowed in big gulps.

Kalb was steady as a rock as usual and did a fine job of anchoring the incoming reports, but where was John Chancellor? Preparing NBC's prime-time special on the assassination attempt, says the network. Rather for CBS and Reynolds for ABC managed both tasks.

Such evaluations may seem to be making too much of one story, but the networks know better. If there is such a thing as a loyalty pact between news viewers and a network, it is sealed on such a day as Monday, when speed and accuracy are out on the marketplace for all to consider. ABC News has made a big sale.

Upbeat symbols placed at White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Brady's blue, high-backed judge's chair is no longer empty.

A furry black toy bear, wearing a Chicago Cubs baseball hat, sits there, in place of the White House secretary gravely wounded in Monday's attack on President Reagan.

Brady's nickname is "the bear."

The stuffed creature was placed in the chair sometime after doctors reported encouraging signs about Brady's progress in recovering from a bullet wound in the brain.

It is one of the few upbeat symbols around the White House. The initial shock of a attack outside a Washington hotel has worn off. The immediate fears that Brady would lose his fight for life have dissipated. Gone, too, is the euphoria that came with reports that the 70-year-old president was making progress in his recuperation from a gunshot wound in the left lung.

They have given way to an effort to return to business as usual, and humor, some of it of the gallows nature.

The shooting, cracked one White House staff member cognizant of questions raised while Reagan campaigned for the presidency, "puts the age issue to rest."

At 8 a.m. EST Tuesday, the day after the shooting, and again at 8 a.m. Wednesday, 20 to 25 White House officials who make up the senior staff gathered in the Roosevelt Room across a corridor from the Oval Office, as they do each morning, to discuss their work for the day.

One participant said that both days, the initial topic was the progress being made by the president and Brady, as well as the Secret Service agent and the District of Columbia policeman who were hit at the same time.

But "then it's right into the schedule," he said, listing discussion topics as current legislation, policy decisions and how the president's program was progressing.

"There was great upset about what had happened, and there was enormous concern about Jim Brady. But we are going forward," said this well-placed White House staff member. "Everybody's thankful and tickled."

The staff member, who asked that he not be identified, said he canceled several appointments after Reagan was shot. But then his work began to back up, and he stayed in his office until 10:30 p.m. Tuesday trying to get clear.

As the concern about the president and the others who were wounded eased, thoughts shifted quickly to the scene of the attack. How did it happen? Who was responsible?

There was also some feeling within the White House that the Secret Service had been lax about keeping the public out of the press area.

Cheerleading program open

Girls interested in joining the youth cheerleading program at the YMCA may still do so, according to Teri Bryant, physical director at the Y.

About 25 girls are participating in the program now, said Miss Bryant. The YMCA sponsors cheerleaders for each sport conducted at the Y, such as the soccer program now under way. The girls are split into squads, and cheer for teams composed of boys their own ages. The program is open to girls in the first through sixth grades.

Howard College cheerleaders sponsor clinics for the girls, Miss Bryant added.

Each cheerleader in the program has her own uniform, she said. The YMCA supplies T-shirts to the girls.

Big Spring residents express shock, label suspect 'crazy'

By ANDREA COHEN

CAROL HART

Feelings of shock and concern echoed throughout Big Spring Monday following the attempt on President Ronald Reagan's life and the shooting of three men standing near him when the incident occurred.

Winston Wrinkle, owner of radio station KBST, told the Herald, "I heard about it at 1:45 p.m. (Monday), about 15 minutes after it happened. I called the radio station and told them to drop all commercial programming, and stay with the story."

"I felt it was much more serious than first reported. I felt a terrible feeling in my gut that the president had been shot, because he had gone to the hospital. About 15 minutes later, they revealed that he had been shot."

Wrinkle said he monitored AP newswires following the shooting. "I'm told by Sherrill Farmer (of the Big Spring Police Department) that when a .22 caliber bullet goes into the body, the organs close behind it. It's difficult to find it. A larger caliber makes a bigger hole, you can find the lead."

"I'm praying for his recovery. I don't know what prompted the young man to shoot him. It's a tragedy that our country has to tolerate this type of thing. It should bring us all to a state of prayer for our president and our leaders."

Wrinkle also voiced his sadness at the shooting of Press Secretary James Brady. "James Brady worked for Sen. Roth in Delaware (prior to the Reagan appointment). He's well loved in Capitol Hill. He's a humorous guy."

Big Spring Police Chief Elwood Hoherz said "I think it's a disgrace that our country has gotten to a point where leaders cannot feel secure in making their talks to the people. Heavy security has to be with them all the time. Anyone who attempts something can probably carry it out."

Hoherz said his opinions on gun control have changed throughout the years. "We need to look at the availability of small Saturday night specials, and have increased prosecution when a man is found with one," he said.

Hoherz added that he believed in the right to bear arms for protection of property. "We need not to take away from that," he said. "It's a different situation when you have someone carrying a weapon on a public street."

"We're just shocked by the whole situation," said Wade Choate, former Mayor and past chairman of the Reagan-Bush committee in Howard County.

"There are so many of these people out on the street. There should be a penalty for crackpots like this."

"This is going to bring on gun control, though it wouldn't matter," he continued. "They're going to get the guns anyway."

"I think it's a sick symptom of our sick society," said District Attorney Rick Hamby. "It's an attitude by people in general. People are tired of violence."

"It begins with each one of us standing up and saying, 'I'm sick of this.' We're not putting up with it. Each one of us has to say we're fed up with it and not put up with false compassion. We need compassion for society, not the criminal."

"It's a tragedy for the American people," said Elliot Mitchell, city attorney. "I'm completely shocked. It's sad. You can't be important anymore."

"This isn't in the interest of the American people or the country. The country is finally making a comeback after 20 years and then some crackpot tries to become famous. If you become famous, you have to look over your shoulder. It's a typical American tragedy."

Polly Mays, former city councilwoman, said "I feel people (like the man who shot Reagan) are not members of a group. They are very disturbed, crazy people."

Billy Mac Sheppard, Republican Party county chairman, said "I'm shocked, saddened and concerned. I don't think the fact that he was my choice (for president) makes my feelings special. He's everybody's president. There's no way to keep the president completely shielded, we've got so many nuts running loose. I don't think there's a solution."

163 votes cast in school races

Margaret Ray, county clerk, said 163 absentee ballots had been received in her office as of Tuesday, the deadline for absentee balloting in the school races.

In addition, Mrs. Ray said that two ballots which had been mailed out had not yet been returned.

City-wide elections for school board of trustees members and city-council members are set for Saturday at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Mitchell cotton crop drop noted

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Mitchell County ASCS office has certified the 1980 cotton crop at only 18,106 bales, which compares with 81,000 bales last year.

According to Don Stewart of the ASCS office, Mitchell County farmers planted between 78,000 and 80,000 acres in cotton but many acres were not harvested; however, according to Stewart, "It's sure looking good so far this year."

Rapist loses battle in court

By CAROL HART

A civil action suit filed by Michael Russell Nelson, convicted on a rape charge here Nov. 7, 1979, was dismissed when an investigation showed no grounds for the suit.

Nelson filed the suit against W.J. Estelle Jr., director of the Texas Departments of Corrections, in Federal District Court in Abilene. In the suit, Nelson charged he was not given a competency hearing prior to his conviction.

Nelson was convicted of rape at a local business office on Oct. 19, 1979. Records show that Nelson apparently entered a downtown business office and asked a 24-year-old woman for directions to a local hospital. When she was showing him a map of the city, he allegedly grabbed her around the throat and threatened to kill her if she did not submit.

Nelson was later found crouching under the west viaduct of Gregg Street, where officials reason he may have been waiting for a train on which he planned to leave town. He was arrested at gunpoint at 11:40 a.m. Oct. 19, 1979, and formally charged with the rape.

Nelson was later tried in 118th District Court and convicted of the rape. He was given a 25-year sentence in Huntsville. He was after his arrival at Huntsville that he filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the Federal District Court.

According to Howard County District Attorney Rick Hamby, Nelson alleged that his conviction in Howard County was void, because he wasn't given a competency hearing. Nelson also charged that he was deprived of effective counsel because the issue of insanity in the case was not raised.

Nelson charged that the judge in the case locally should have given him a competency hearing because of his history of mental problems.

The Federal District Court in Abilene ruled that they found no evidence that Nelson was incompetent or insane at the time of his offense. The court also ruled that the counsel acted properly in the matter.

HC would gain despite reduced funding

By DANA PALMER

Merle-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — These days, officials with the state's 47 junior colleges are acting a bit like merchants told to ignore inflation, hold down prices and keep customers happy with the service.

Their smiles are strained, especially as they parade before one legislative committee after another looking for an increase in state funding.

Thursday, they made their last official, and perhaps most difficult, legislative visit — a presentation to the House Appropriations Committee chaired by Rep. Bill Prenal of Bryan.

Prenal is the enemy to some.

It's his proposed House appropriations bill, drawn up with the help of House Speaker Bill Clayton, that would cut the $819 million requested by the community colleges to $611 million.

Even the state's budget experts, members of the Legislative Budget Board, have recommended a trim to only $723 million.

But $611 million — that's keeping junior college officials awake at night wondering how they're hold down costs while enrollment and demands for more expensive technical courses increases.

Also, because of inflation and lack of adequate funding by the legislature during the 1970s, local taxpayers have borne the burden of additional instructional costs in order to maintain quality programs, according to a written statement provided the appropriations committee by Dr. Jean Richardson.

Richardson is president of Del Mar College in Corpus Christi and co-chairman of the Texas Public Community Junior College Association's finance committee.

"Many local districts are reaching the limit of their tax rates," he adds, "therefore, increased state funding must be made available or colleges will be forced to cut faculty and programs."

While the state forced junior colleges to live with a 3.4 percent inflation factor in the 1977-78 and 1978-79 academic years, Richardson says, the actual inflation rates were 6.8 percent and 8.3 percent, respectively.

Those comparisons were 5.1 percent to 13.3 percent in 1979-80 and 5.1 percent to an estimated 16 percent or more for the 1980-81 school year.

Despite the figures, Prenal calls the junior college's original request a "pie-in-the-sky figure" and one that "sticks out like a sore thumb."

Richardson doesn't agree with that assessment, but he says the $723 million LBB proposal, as well as the similar Senate version of the appropriations bill, "is a sensible compromise."

"The House appropriations bill would actually give some colleges a decrease in funding next year over this year," he says. Among those colleges that would lose money next year are Cisco Junior College at Cisco ($94,000 less), Galveston College ($32,000 less), Grayson County College at Denison ($13,939) and Lee Junior College at Baytown ($92,000).

Other community colleges would gain a bit, Richardson says, but not enough.

Others would be at Panola Junior College at Carthage ($75,732), Paris Junior College ($323,297), Ranger Junior College ($148,429), Southwest Texas Junior College at Uvalde ($376,306), Texas Southmost College at Brownsville ($466,023) and Western Texas Junior College at Snyder ($111,607).

Such lean funding is justified, Prenal says, in part, because junior college enrollment is falling off.

Not so, says Richardson. Figures he supplied to Prenal's committee show that junior college enrollment in Texas has increased 191 percent in the last 12 years, and in the last five years has increased steadily at an annual rate ranging from 2.6 percent in 1979 and the 5.8 percent in 1980.

Richardson also supplied enrollment figures for the last two academic years at all 47 community and junior colleges.

Some of those enrollment percentages in the academic and vocational areas include:

— Bee County, a 3.5 percent decrease in the academic program and 16.2 percent increase in the vocational training.

— Blinn, a 1.5 percent drop in the academic and 32.1 percent increase in the vocational.

— Cisco, a 14.6 percent drop in academic enrollment and 7.8 percent drop in vocational.

— Del Mar, 2.7 and 4.2 percent increases.

— Grayson, 1.9 increase in academic and 14.3 drop in vocational.

— Henderson, 13.8 and 45.5 percent increases.

— Howard, 15.3 and 17.6 percent increases.

— Laredo, 2.1 and 28.2 percent increases.

— Midland, 8.9 and 7.7 percent increases.

— Navarro, 11.8 and 22.8 percent increases.

— Odessa, 2.0 and 2.4 percent increases.

— Panola, 10.9 percent decrease and 19.6 percent increase.

— Paris, 8.0 and 1.6 percent increases.

— Ranger, 2.4 and 17.8 percent increases.

— Southwest Texas, 6.3 and 24.5 percent increases.

— Texas Southmost, 11.7 percent increase and 7.3 percent decrease.

— Western Texas, 5.0 percent increase and 4.2 percent decrease.

Not only is increased enrollment and inflation putting the squeeze on junior colleges, Richardson says, but more students are shifting from the standard academic programs to more costly technical training courses.

Despite the Prenal-Clayton appropriations bill,

Richardson says, he's more optimistic now than he has been in recent weeks.

The House Higher Education Committee has gone along for the most part with the LBB recommendation.

As for the Prenal-chaired appropriations committee, "we think we've got a predominate number of members in support of our position ... particularly on the LBB funding rate," he says.

What funding rate the state will use is at the heart of the junior college travels to Austin.

Worked out by the Texas College and University Systems Coordinating Board, the rate or formula essentially takes the average cost of teaching a class, adds an inflation factor and then multiplies that amount by the number of students taking the course.

Assassination attempt reactivates zero factor

By ANDREA COHEN
The attempted assassination of Ronald Reagan Monday afternoon brought to the minds of many, the zero factor.

Since 1840, each president who has been elected in a year ending with zero, has died in office.

William Henry Harrison who was elected in 1840, served 31 days in office. The Whig from Virginia caught pneumonia during his inauguration and died in April, 1841 at the age of 68.

The next president to be elected in a year ending with zero was Abraham Lincoln, who was first elected in 1860. Lincoln was shot April 14, 1865 during his second term of office while he was attending a play at Ford's Theater, Washington, D.C. The Republican from Kentucky died the next day at the age of 56. His assassin, actor John Wilkes Booth, was killed before he was brought to trial.

James Abram Garfield, a Republican from Ohio was elected to the presidency in 1880. He was shot July 2, 1881 by Charles J. Guiteau, an unbalanced office-seeker, while he was entering the old Baltimore and Potomac station in Washington, D.C. He died over two months later, on Sept. 19, 1881 in Elberon, N.J. His murderer was hanged June 30, 1882.

At the age of 58, William McKinley, elected in 1900, was shot by an anarchist terrorist, Sept. 6, 1901, during his second term of office. He was shot by Leon Czolgosz while welcoming citizens at the Pan American exposition in Buffalo, N.Y. The Ohio Republican died Sept. 14, 1901 after uttering his last words, "It is God's way. His will, not ours, be done."

Warren Harding, who was elected in 1920, took a trip to Alaska three years later, on June 30, 1923. On his return, he became ill and died in San Francisco Aug. 2, 1923 at age 57.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected to his third term as president in 1940 and died

Master's swim team meeting Wednesday

A master's swim team, composed of people 20 years old and older, is open to the public, according to Teri Bryant, physical director at the YMCA.

The program is held at the YMCA each Wednesday from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. The group meets mainly for exercise, said Miss Bryant, although they do compete in swim meets. Another meet is scheduled for the group at the end of May at the Midland YMCA.

Miss Bryant serves as coach for the group.

Former chief of police charged

TYE — Joe Rzdulio, former chief of police here, has been charged with felony theft. The case involves the purchase of at least 16 handguns charged to the City of Tye by Rzdulio before his resignation last March.

Rzdulio reportedly now is a prison guard in the Philadelphia area.

Tye is located immediately west of Abilene.

SS agent to aid individuals in area towns

A representative of the Big Spring Social Security office will visit Snyder, Colorado City and Lamesa on various days through June, in order to aid individuals in those towns apply for benefits, get social security numbers or answer questions.

A representative will be at the Snyder Senior Citizens Center every Tuesday through June from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m.

The Lamesa Senior Citizens Center will have a representative every Thursday through June from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m.

Police Beat Three Big Spring women assaulted

Three women were assaulted in the city, Tuesday.

Martha Cohorn, 1300 Douglas, told police that a man she knows struck her on the forehead with his hand, and then chased her around her home with a pair of scissors, saying, "I'm going to kill you," 11 p.m. Tuesday. The assailant allegedly tore apart several flower arrangements in the home.

Maria Lopez, 703 San Antonio, reported that a man she knows slugged her in the chest with his fist, 7:39 p.m. Tuesday, inside her home. She was not seriously injured.

Pam Alfano, 1013 Bluebonnet, told police that she was at a residence on Marjio when she was assaulted by a person she knows. Her injuries were also minor.

Detective Bob Armstrong arrested Guadalupe Fierro, 29, 206 Galveston, 5:27 p.m. Tuesday, on suspicion of felony criminal mischief. She is suspected of damaging walls in a bedroom and bathroom, and breaking several curtain rods in a home at 1109 W. 3rd belonging to Carol Reyes, 806 E. 14th. Damage from the March 23 incident is estimated at $99.

Gary L. Whitker, 1404 Wood, believes he knows the identity of the thief who stole his jacket, a pair of corduroy pants, a sweater, three pairs of blue jeans, a shirt and $35 in loose change. Total loss was estimated at $350.

A 14-year-old local girl narrowly escaped an abductor, 7:47 p.m. Tuesday. According to reports, the girl was walking along the 500 block of Johnson when a man in a car stopped to ask directions.

The man then jumped out of the car and grabbed the girl, attempting to force her into his auto. She screamed and resisted, and the abductor fled.

Burglars stole a .45 caliber and a .38 caliber revolver from the home of Phyllis Friesen, 1105 Pennsylvania, sometime Monday night. The pistols were valued at $200.

Unsuccessful burglars used a chisel or a screwdriver to pry off the handle on the east door of the La Contessa Beauty Salon, 1508 Marcy, sometime Saturday night. No entry was gained, but damage was estimated at $100.

Allen White, 906 E. 13th, reported that sometime Tuesday night, vandals smashed four Desert Dog Formula tires on his car while it was parked at the Greenhouse Lounge, 1100 S. Scurry. Each tire was valued at $40.

One mishap was reported Tuesday. Vehicles driven by Carolyn Rau, 1742 Purdue, and Eldred Gray, 534 Westover, collided in the parking lot of Citizens Federal Credit Union, 1:13 p.m.

County Judge Bill Tume set a $1,000 bond Tuesday for Guadalupe Maria Fierro, 29, 206 Galveston, who was charged with felony criminal mischief.

Ms. Fierro was not placed in county jail, but was released on the bond posted by Wayne Basden.

Shooting of Reagan will slow efforts to weaken gun rules

WASHINGTON — The handgun shooting of President Reagan and others here Monday will apparently slow efforts in the Senate to weaken federal firearms regulations passed in the wake of Sen. Hubert Kennedy's shooting 13 years ago.

A source close to Sen. James McClure, the Idaho Republican sponsor of the Federal Firearms Law Reform Bill, said "discretion" will likely delay introduction of the bill, which handgun control activists claim will cut federal efforts to control the use of handguns in crimes.

"In regards to what has happened, we plan to hold off introducing the bill this year. This doesn't mean it won't be introduced," said the source, who asked not to be named.

A House companion bill will be introduced shortly and "on schedule," by Rep. Harold Volkner, said an aide to the Missouri Democrat.

"At this point, I don't see the shooting as having anything to do with the bill," said spokesman Ken Sroman. "We just have our own logistical troubles to iron out."

Both bills were introduced last year and despite wide support, neither made it to a vote.

The bills forbid the revoking of a firearms dealer's license unless it can be proved the dealer "knowingly" violated the law; ease the way for individual out-of-state purchases of guns; and restrict the enforcement authority the Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms.

Among the 106 House cosponsors last year were Reps. Kent Hance, James Collins, Rika de la Garza, Ron Paul, Marvin Leath, and Charles Stenholm.

The 49 Senate cosponsors included Texas Republican John Tower.

Hance, de la Garza, Paul and Leath are the only Texans so far to sign up for the bills this year.

"This doesn't change my position. This is the decade of the 80's and there is going to be a lot of it (firearms violence)," said Leath, a Democrat from Marlin in a reaction that mirrored most of the Texas congressional delegation.

"If a guy wants to get a gun and kill someone, he will, just like if a guy wanted a drink of whiskey he could get it during Prohibition."

Leath, listed along with Collins, de la Garza and Paul as a "congressional adviser" to the Washington lobbying group Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms, said the shootings would have little effect on congressional action.

"Obviously this will give the gun control people a chance to scream and shout some more," he said.

Stamford Democrat Charles Stenholm equaled calls for gun control to attempts to "legislate morality. It can't be done."

Meanwhile, the agency in charge of enforcing the firearms law faces an uncertain future with a hefty cut in its budget and its enforcement powers "under study" by the administration.

City election's votes hit 126 mark

Only 126 voters cast absentee ballots in this year's city election, compared to 461 last year.

Deadline for voting absentee in person came 5 p.m. Tuesday. Tom Ferguson, city secretary, noted that four mailed ballots have yet to be returned, but that they will be accepted up until 10 a.m. Thursday.

Regular voting in the city race will take place from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Saturday. Voters may cast ballots at one of two polling places, the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum or the Northside Fire Station, depending in which precinct they are registered.

Steers move into 5-way tie for 5-AAAAA lead

5-AAAAA Roundup

ODESSA — Despite the fact that they were outlited, the Big Spring Steers made it all look too easy here Tuesday afternoon, rolling to a 9-1 triumph over the Odessa Permian Panthers in a District 5-AAAAA first half boys baseball game.

Permian counted 12 hits off Big Spring hurler Wayne Shipman, but they were all scattered most effectively.

The Steers, meanwhile, crunched Permian's Mike Shipman, but he scattered them most effectively. The Steers, meanwhile, crunched Permian's Brad Phillips for all of their 10 hits in the third and fourth innings when they scored eight of their runs.

The win moves the Steers into a five-way tie for the lead in District 5-AAAAA, as they now sport a 2-1 record. Permian dropped to 1-2 in league play. On the year, the Steers are 8-7, while Permian is 4-9.

Big Spring then all but put the game out of reach with a three-run, four-hit fourth inning that boosted their advantage to 8-0.

The Steers counted their final run in the fifth inning, while the Mojo ruined Shipman's shutout with a lone run in the sixth inning.

With all of the Steers hits bunched into two innings, nearly every hitter got into the act. Dickie Wrightsil, Tommy Olague and Rusty Hayworth led the charge with two hits each. That trio also scored twice each, along with Mark Warren.

The Steers return to action on Saturday afternoon, at which time they play host to Midland Lee in a key 5-AAAAA game.

63 takes narrow Louisiana Draw

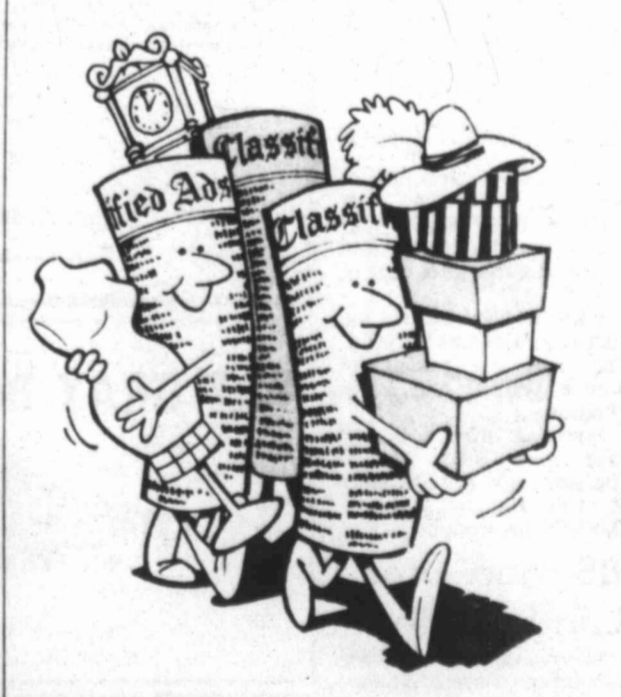

A team composed of Eddie Aciri, Lloyd Duncan, Pat Gert and R.M. Oliver pieced together a 63 to claim first place in the Big Spring Golf Association's Louisiana Draw Tournament held Sunday over the Comanche Trails Course.

The association will hold the same kind of tournament Sunday, April 12. BSGA members need to compete in at least four association tournaments this year to become eligible for the Grand Tournament scheduled in the fall.

In all, 68 players took part in the competition, the largest turnout of BSGA players for any event this year.

Color guard wins twice

The Steer Band color guard won first place in two contests this weekend in Oklahoma.

The color guard captured first place at the Enid, Okla., color contest Friday, then took the same honor at the Kingfisher, Okla., Festival of Flags and Rifles Saturday. The Kingfisher contest attracted 10 guards from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The Big Spring Rifle team also took the outstanding rating at the Kingfisher contest.

In individual competition, Tony Shortes received the top solo score of 95. In ensemble competition, the Big Spring Rifle Line received the top score of 96.

Other solos receiving a first division were Jay Purser, Robby Roten, and Greg Hartfield, all on rifles.

Other ensembles receiving a first division were Martin Solis, Tony Shortes and Robby Roten, rifle trio; Martin Solis and Robby Roten, rifle duet; and Brenda Salazar, Lisa Leal, Christy Garcia and Michelle Torres, flag quartet.

The guard returned with 43 medals and three trophies.

Families get threatening phone calls

A man identifying himself as the brother of a local murder suspect and an unidentified female have been making phone calls to several local people recently, threatening them with bodily harm.

The man accused of murder was arrested here last week and was lodged in the county jail after he had been formally charged with suspicion of homicide in connection with the death of a woman and aggravated assault for an alleged attack upon her sister.

According to police reports, the two callers telephoned the family of Jessie Esquibel Sr., 606 N. Goliad, several times between Thursday and Saturday to utter the threats.

In addition, the male caller allegedly made threatening calls to the family of Johnny Talamantez, 1512 Tucson. Talamantez told police several of his relatives were also threatened.

In a separate incident, Katherine Reiner says she was threatened by telephone by a female voice Saturday night, who reportedly told her a woman was going to do her bodily harm. Reiner was at a local radio station when the call occurred.

Members of the Big Spring Police Department are conducting an investigation in connection with the cases. It is unknown at this time if the cases are related.

Rape of child charge lodged

Carroll Wayne Jones, 36, of Box 382, Coahoma, was transferred to county jail this weekend following his arrest on a charge of rape of a child.

A $35,000 bond was set for Jones by Judge Lewis Hefflin. The bond was posted by Bonnie Bennett and Mary Thomas.

Arresting officers in the case were O.D. Majors, Coahoma, and Bill Shankles of the Howard County Sheriff's Department.

BS man wins London trip

Kirby vacuum cleaner salesman Peter Kenny, 1606A Gregg Street, Big Spring, is one of 15 Divisional Area Distributors for The Kirby Company who won a week-long, all-expenses-paid trip to London for himself and his wife, Lucy, for his efforts in a recently completed international sales contest. Kenny's award was announced in Cleveland by Kirby President George M. Carriker.

They will leave April 4 and return April 10. While in England, Kenny will participate in the 38th Kirby Council Conference.

Their itinerary includes a tour of London's historic West End where they will see Westminster Abbey, The Houses of Parliament, Big Ben, Buckingham Palace, Number 10 Downing Street, and Hyde Park, in addition to a cruise of the River Thames.

"Kenny's efforts are especially noteworthy," Carriker said, "because it is the first time in the company's history that an area distributor has qualified to participate in a Kirby Council Conference."

GOOD FOOD, FUN ATMOSPHERE...at the Gold Mine in College Park

The Gold Mine offers unique atmosphere

When you want to go out for a quick bite to eat, what do you look for? Most likely you look for a place that offers good food and pleasant surroundings. Most places offer one or the other, but a new restaurant, The Gold Mine, in College Park Shopping Center, offers both: good food at reasonable prices and surroundings that have a character all their own.

Owners Steve and Amy Lewis, who also own and operate the Rainbarrel Gift Shop in College Park wanted to provide Big Spring with an eating place that offered more than just good food.

The Lewises have found a host of unusual furnishings and have given the Gold Mine an old fashioned-type atmosphere.

As far as food goes, The Gold Mine offers plenty of it, and at a price that will suit you. Sandwiches on the menu include hamburgers, cheeseburgers, roast beef (thin sliced for added tenderness), plus pastrami, corned beef, grilled cheese, hot dogs, barbeque sandwiches and steak sandwiches.

If an afternoon snack is what you're interested in, check out The Gold Mine for hand-dipped ice cream (16 flavors), banana splits, and a variety of soft drinks.

Whatever your tastes, The Gold Mine has something for you. They're open Monday thru Saturday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., and located in the College Park Shopping Center.

Rainbow Girls enjoy week activities with area assemblies

Initiation ceremonies were held March 24 by the Big Spring Order of Rainbow for Girls No. 60 at the Masonic Temple. Amy Smith, worthy advisor, presided. Tamy Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Lucas, received the degree of the order. Suzanne Feltner, Grand Worthy Advisor, visited the area the week of March 15-21 and the order had activities every night. The Big Spring Assembly held a joint meeting with the Norman Reed and Midland Assemblies March 16. March 17 they were guests at a dinner and initiation meeting of the Friendship Assembly in Odessa. March 18 they were guests at a dinner by the Odessa Assembly. March 19 the Big Spring assembly hosted the Midland and Odessa assemblies at a skating party at Skate Land and entertainment later in the home of Holly Christopher where they had Mexican food. Karen Woodall, worthy advisor, presented Suzanne Feltner with a money gift and an autograph book adorned with a skate on the front. A pizza party was attended in Midland Friday night. Ronda Beene, grand religion, joined Miss Feltner on a Grand Tour of the Waco Area during Spring Break. They attended a School of Instruction in ritualistic work in San Angelo Saturday night. Mrs. Marjorie Marie Whitfield, supreme faith and supreme inspector in Texas was in charge of the school. The Big Spring Assembly No. 60 will worship together April 5 at Trinity Baptist Church and have lunch in the home of Mrs. Addie Tibbs to observe Founders Day. The Assembly will attend a dinner honoring Mrs. Whitfield April 10 in Midland. Holly Parham and Ann Thomas will provide special music. The Assembly will attend a School of Instruction by Mrs.

Dear Abby

Sister Has Answers, but Wants Questions Stopped

DEAR ABBY: Peace and all good things! I am a nun writing in desperation, hoping that you have a charitable solution to a most annoying problem. I live in a small religious community with other sisters whom I dearly love. It seems that whenever I am trying to eat a quick lunch, a certain sister comes over with her crossword puzzle and asks, "What was the name of Seth's son?" Or, "What was Noah's boat called?" Dear Abby, have you any ideas? Deliver me from crossword puzzles, now and forever. Amen!

IMPATIENT SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Practice the virtue of patience, pray for forbearance and utter ye not a cross word about the puzzle.

DEAR ABBY: My son went steady with a wonderful girl for four months. (I'll call her Janie.) They broke up right after Christmas. While they were going together, I grew to love her like a daughter. Janie lived 45 miles away and spent many weekends at our home. She was so perfect for our son, I prayed that one day she would be my very own daughter-in-law.

Well, for some reason unknown to me, they stopped dating. My son started dating another girl, and I understand that Janie is now going with another fellow. I miss her terribly and, of course, she doesn't call me anymore. Abby, believe me when I tell you that I loved that girl so much that this is simply killing me! I suppose I should be grateful that my son isn't grieving the way I am, but it's as though I actually lost a daughter. I am suffering a very deep depression. I cry about it until I'm weak. I can't stand it, Abby. I'm making myself sick over this. Please help me.

LOST A DAUGHTER

DEAR LOST: I can understand your disappointment, but you apparently assumed that your son's little romance with Janie was far more serious than it was. Be grateful that your son isn't grieving. If your depression persists, please seek professional help. Your suffering is gravely disproportionate to your loss.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Cochren is guest speaker

Thirty people, including two physicians, attended the seminar on Prevention and Treatment of Athletic Injuries sponsored by the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

The seminar took place on Friday, March 27, from 10:30 to 3:30. Don Cochren, head trainer for the Dallas Cowboys, was guest speaker. Larry Bristo, executive director of the Rehabilitation Center, said, "We knew, with Don's background in physical therapy and athletic training, that he would be an authority. But we found that he's also a very warm, entertaining speaker." Mr. Cochren explained the use of the Cybex II, a testing and exercise machine, in detecting areas of muscle weakness and potential muscle injury, and in strengthening specific muscle groups.

Profit will fund trip to Abilene

Open Doors for the Handicapped, a group of parents of handicapped children, raised $300 at its bake sale in Highland Mall March 24. The money will be used to take the children on a field trip to Nelson Park and Zoo in Abilene. Any remaining funds will be used to pay babysitters at the group's bi-monthly meetings, and for other special events for the children.

The parents thank the community for its wholehearted support during the fundraising event. Radio Station KJST and the Big Spring Police Department were among those who donated baked goods to the sale.

'Peace of Mind' aids runaways

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: My best friend, 15, has run away from home. She has been gone for two weeks and I don't know where she is but she calls me every other night. I'm scared for her but don't know what to do. She doesn't want me to tell her mother that she called me. Please advise me. I know her mother is worried sick. — Joan, Manassas Park, Va.

They will feel much more secure when you find a boyfriend of your own.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Dr. Wallace: I am a very unhappy 13-year-old girl. Last year I had many close girlfriends but this year they all deserted me because they think that I try to steal away their boyfriends.

It so happens that I enjoy talking with boys. I can't help it if their boyfriends are included in that number. I tried making friends with them and promised not to talk to their boyfriends, but they still ignore me and it hurts me very much. Help! — Debby, London, Ontario, Canada

Wedding shower is given

Jennifer Byrd, bride-elect of Donnie Andrews, was honored by a Bed and Bath Bridal Shower Saturday, at 3 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Marion Morgan, 609 Caylor Drive.

Miss Byrd was presented with a corsage of yellow rose buds. Mrs. Frank Vigus, who attended the bride-elect, and Mrs. Buddy Andrews, mother of the groom, were also presented with matching corsages of yellow rose buds.

The table was covered with a yellow linen cloth and refreshments were served from crystal appointments. Miss Byrd was presented with a hostess gift of a quilted bedspread in earth tones.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Sam Lewis, Mrs. Grady Beck, Renee Thompson, Denise Vigus, Jamie Sink and Mrs. Marion Morgan.

The couple will be married April 25 in Berea Baptist Church.

'It'll make your mustache grow'

A tableau of hot innocence featuring governor

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — So, governor, next time you put your foot in your mouth, first shake some Tobasco Sauce on it.

Gov. Bill Clements professed his love for the hot stuff recently after being introduced to several legislators from Mexico, including one from the State of Tobasco.

"I eat it on eggs and hamburgers and meat and anything else," the governor told them. Learning that the Tobasco official had never heard of the famous sauce, which actually is made in Louisiana, Clements insisted his visitor try some.

He led the group into his private Capitol office and produced a bottle and spoon. The Tobascan was obviously reluctant and nervous about the taste test, and Clements let it drop after declaring, "It's very good. It'll make your mustache grow."

The Mexicans bid adios and left, with several laughing and shaking their heads.

Be it resolved...

Any senator sponsoring a resolution that asks Congress to do something knows by now that Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur will oppose it, no matter what the issue. Parker says such resolutions waste time and money.

But he doesn't raise an eyebrow — much less his voice — to protest the hundreds of resolutions that senators crank out honoring constituents, friends and political supporters. In fact, he has sponsored a few himself, including ones honoring Port Arthur and the Tamar University basketball team.

The Senate leader in such resolutions is freshman Bob Glasgow, a Stephenville Democrat, whose count was 100-plus as of last week.

When they run out of subjects to honor, they've always got each other...

One resolution last week, introduced by Sen. Roy Blake of Nacogdoches, honored Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland on Snelson's 58th birthday.

Blake, 53, said he was "just glad to know there's somebody in the Senate a little bit older than I am."

Ages in the Texas Senate this session run from 31 for Kent Caperton of Bryan to 69 for the only female member, Betty Andujar of Fort Worth.

And now for more serious things...

On the Capitol's House side, an agenda for a meeting of the Rules Committee had a single item for calling its nine members together: a proposal by Houston Republican Don Henderson that the nine-banded armadillo be proclaimed the official mammal of Texas.

Stick it to him... Rep. Hugo Berlanga, Corpus Christi Democrat, presented an unusual gift to Rep. Ken Riley, the city's freshman Republican, the other day on the House floor. Riley, in the midst of a tussle with Democrats in the local delegation over a court bill, good-naturedly took possession of an oversized diaper pin.

The gift stems from a comment by a third Corpus Christi legislator, Democrat Arnold Gonzales, who complained of Riley: "He's just like a baby wetting his diapers. We have to change his diapers constantly."

Gonzales and Riley, meanwhile, still don't talk to each other.

Rep. Rodney Ton of Conroe, a freshman Democrat, was a little overconfident — not to say, dead wrong — when he predicted the House would easily accept the Senate's amendment to his bill for an emergency $35 million appropriation for prison construction.

Fashion Showcase staff is realigned

Dallas-based Fashion Showcase, a division of Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc. has realigned its staff and added five new members.

Gayle Cox, former managing editor and advertising director, has moved to the position of director of communications for Show Case Publishing Co. In her new position, Cox will direct all promotional activities, editorial, production and new product ventures for the company. She is replaced as national sales director by Michael Horn.

Horn, former director of the California Apparel Industries Association, will, as sales director, be in charge of sales personnel in Dallas, New York and Los Angeles and be responsible for revenue on a nation-wide basis.

Other staff additions include: Lynn Mimel, coordinating editor, who will direct the entire editorial staff. Mimel has an extensive retail background in the promotional departments of several major retail stores.

Under Mimel's direction will be Debra Young, a recent graduate of SMU, who is the new market editor and Nadeane Walker, associate editor with extensive journalistic and fashion expertise.

Other changes are the appointment of Jim Sanderson as new Southwest account executive with experience in both men's and women's apparel, and the expansion of the responsibilities of art director, Enrique Perez.
