Florida smugglers move operations

More drug activity expected in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Drug Enforcement Administration is expecting more drug smugglers to move their operations from Florida to Texas.

An internal DEA report describes the lure that the upper two-thirds of the Texas Gulf Coast holds for drug smugglers, including the large number of remote areas easily accessible by land or by sea.

The presence of local law enforcement personnel in this area is limited, making it increasingly attractive to Florida-based violators," the report states. "A large number of smugglers are moving their operations into the Texas coastal areas and are buying property in remote areas to avoid enforcement pressure in other areas of the Gulf Coast."

The information, marked "DEA sensitive" but obtained by The Associated Press, was included in a profile of the seven-state South Central region in the agency's quarterly report on intelligence trends. The report said most of the documented smugglers have moved to the Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston areas to supervise their activities on the Texas Gulf Coast.

"A dispersal of former Florida-based smuggling organizations to other remote areas of the (south central) region can be anticipated in the future," the report said.

Texas is the only state in the region with a coastline. The DEA last year opened an office in Galveston in response to increasing activity by drug smugglers.

The disproportionate popularity of methamphetamine in Texas is described in another portion of the DEA report for last fall, marked "for official use only."

It said that most methamphetamine laboratories seized in the United States in 1979 were in the South Central Region, and a majority of those were in the Dallas-Austin-Houston triangle.

As possible reasons, the report said methamphetamine is the major drug of choice among dangerous drug users in Texas and some heroin users may have turned to methamphetamine because of low heroin availability.

The DEA report also said that cocaine, ranking second behind marijuana as the preferred drug in the area, enters the region primarily from Miami by way of couriers on commercial aircraft.

Mexican land routes for cocaine have been used through the years, the report said, with Laredo as the prime location. The report added that "a considerable amount" of cocaine enters the South Central Region on commercial and privately-owned vessels.

It said that demand for cocaine is very high in the Houston area, where the drug sells for $2,500 an ounce. A generally less pure product sells in metropolitan areas elsewhere in the region for between $2,000 and $3,000 an ounce, the report said.

Unity of purpose voiced by six

Two council seats at stake

By JAMES WERRELL

Voters will have six candidates to choose from in Saturday's Big Spring City Council election; three seeking Place 3 and three seeking Place 4 on that governing body.

A majority, 51 percent, of the vote is required in each of the contests to assure victory for a candidate. In the event that no one candidate receives a majority of the vote, the top two contenders will compete in a runoff election.

The Place 3 seat on the council is currently occupied by Jack Y. Smith, retired Cosden Oil and Chemical Company executive. The seat was won two years ago by John Massey, an instructor at Howard College, who abandoned the post scant weeks after the election when he decided to pursue a business venture in another town.

Shortly after he stepped down, the remaining members of the council voted to appoint Smith to the post. In addition to his council seat, Smith holds the position of mayor pro-tem.

Seeking to unseat Smith is H.V. "Burr" Crocker, a long-time resident of the city, and retired city employee whose service included 28 years as Big Spring Fire Chief. The third challenger for the Place 3 seat is Michael Randle, a Big Spring native who is an instructor and assistant basketball coach at Big Spring High School.

The Place 4 seat on the council became open to challengers when one-term Councilman Larry Miller decided not to seek re-election to the post. First to announce for the seat was Robert "Russ" McEwen, a local insurance agent.

Also seeking the seat are Donna Fish, local housewife, and Jerry Myrick, traffic director for the Oilfield Industrial Lines Company.

A questionnaire recently submitted to the candidates by The Herald revealed, if nothing else, a unity of purpose on the part of all six. Most of the questions served more to point up the similarities between the candidates than their differences.

— All felt that the voters had expressed a clear choice in the recent bond election, and that unless strong support resurfaced for defeated proposals, it was a dead issue.

— All feel that stimulation of new industry in the city is important, and that the present industrial team is proceeding on course in that respect.

— All favored more space for industrial development; but only if and when it is needed.

— Most mentioned the ongoing need for sound fiscal management and austerity on the part of the city. Smith, Myrick and Randle singled out streets, water and sewer systems as being of particularly high priority.

Donna Fish was the lone dissenter on two questions posed for the candidates. She alone favored running by places for the council, while all others, two one degree or another, favored at-large elections.

Smith, in answer to that question, said he felt he "represents all of the citizens, but would not object to the change."

Answers to the question of whether police and firemen should receive larger salaries differed somewhat. Again, Mrs. Fish dissented from the majority, saying that because both police and firemen had recently received raises, their salaries were comparable to others in cities in the immediate area.

Crocker stated that the salary question would have to be determined during budget hearings, but that a raise for one department could "lead to static between one department and the other."

All other candidates favored seeking raises for police and firefighters.

Voters may cast ballots at two polling places in the city from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Saturday.

Big Spring voters will cast ballots at two polling places

This year, for the first time, voters will cast ballots at only two polling places.

In a move to consolidate precincts, save money, and ease confusion among voters about where to cast their ballots, all except Precinct 1 will vote in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on the campus of Howard College.

Precinct 1 voters will cast ballots in the Northside Fire Station, as they have in the past.

Voters from other precincts will cast ballots for city council and school board candidates in the east room of the coliseum. The city election will take place on the north side of the room, while the school board race will take place on the south end.

Voters may enter the building off of Kentucky Way through the main entrance, or through the northeast and southeast doors near the coliseum parking lot.

THUMBS UP — Vice President George Bush gives a "thumbs up" sign after visiting President Reagan Thursday in the hospital. With Bush is a Secret Service agent. President Reagan was wounded in an assassination attempt Monday.

Six vying for two school posts

By CAROL HART

Two seats on the Big Spring Independent School District's board of trustees will be up for election Saturday, and six Big Spring residents, including one board incumbent, are seeking appointments to the position of trustee.

Candidates for the six seats, in the order that they will appear on the ballot, are Charles Bell, David R. Huff, Fern Alexander, Curt Strong, Dewayne Fraser and Grady L. Cunningham.

Polling places are the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, and the North Side Fire Station. Voters must cast ballots between 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Beil, the only incumbent seeking re-election to the board, has lived in Big Spring for 19 years. He is 46-years-old and he and his wife, Joan, live at 406 Highland. The couple has three daughters, Beverly, Charlotte and Brenda. Members of the family are active in First United Methodist Church. Beil is president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Beil favors budget streamlining in the face of less federal money coming into the district. He added in a statement to the Herald that if the current level of education cannot be maintained without a tax increase, then he would recommend one.

Beil is also opposed to school busing for elementary age students, and to tenure agreements with local teachers. He also does not approve of year-round school programs.

David R. Huff, 32, was the first person to announce his intentions to run for the board.

He and his wife, Catherine, reside at 604 Highland. They have a daughter, Frances Ann, one and a half years old. He is the medical administrator for the Federal Prison Camp, having been with that organization since May of 1979. The Huffs are members of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church.

Concerning federal money losses, Huff feels that the local school board must implement a budget within the system's financial needs. In the athletic department of the school, Huff says "athletics must not take priority over academic achievements."

When discussing teacher's tenure, Huff said he favors pay advancements and reassignment preferences instead of tenure agreements.

Fern Alexander, who with her husband Jack resides at 8 Highland Heather, is a retired school teacher. She taught homemaking at Big Spring High School for several years prior to her retirement.

She has lived in Texas for 63 years, 31 of those years in Howard County.

In talking about the issues of the school board race, Mrs. Alexander is the only candidate who says she favors school busing. She said that although it is "an expensive operation," she feels "it is a necessary operation in our country."

Mrs. Alexander favors intelligence testing for students but not for teachers, and says she would like to see more emphasis on the basics of education, reading, writing and arithmetic.

Curt Strong, purchasing manager for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, and has lived in Big Spring for 14 years. He and his wife Carol have three sons, Todd, 14, Jody, 11, and Craig, 21.

The Strongs reside at 2803 Goliad, and are members of the First Baptist Church. He is a graduate of the University of Texas, with a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering.

Strong feels that classroom instruction should be the number one priority of Big Spring educators, and favors "the good old three R's. They have worked well in providing the fundamentals needed," for a good education, he says.

Strong also said that he feels in face of federal money cutbacks, the school board needs to look at a rearrangement of taxes in the county.

As for intelligence testing, Strong said he favors "an evaluation program that is objective. Every professional has some type of professional evaluation program," and said he would like to see one here.

Dewayne (Butch) Fraser, 34, is president of Fraser Industries Inc., a manufacturer of wooden pallets.

Fraser and his wife, Kay, and son, Carey, 12, live at 1600 Kiowa. Carey is a student at Goliad Middle School.

For first time in history

Bank deposits top $200 million

For the first time in history, bank deposits in Howard County have passed the $200 million mark.

Howard County financial institutions reported deposits totaling $202,945,188 at the close of business March 31, 1981, up nearly $9 million over the last quarter of 1980, when a new record for deposits was set.

First National, the county's largest bank, gained over $5 million in deposits during the first quarter of the year and is on the verge of passing the $100 million mark in deposits. First National reported $98,135,420 in deposits at the close of business March 31, compared to $92,560,093 for the last quarter of 1980 and $85,804,150 a year ago.

Deposits at State National and Coahoma State banks also hit all-time highs. State National checked in with nearly $68 million in deposits while Coahoma reported $13,341,370 in deposits.

The growth of all the banks is impressive, in view of the fact that Howard County is coming off a poor crop year. The oil business continues to stimulate the economy, however, greater than at any time in history.

Loans made by the four banks neared the $100 million plateau, totaling $98,744,529, compared to a little over $95.5 million Dec. 31, 1980, and up by nearly $14 million in a year's time.

Deposits in the county's banks passed the $100 million mark only five years ago and the $50 million plateau just 12 years ago.

Food prices, energy costs soaring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation at the wholesale level surged at a 16.2 percent annual rate in March — the steepest climb in eight months — as food prices resumed their rise and energy costs accelerated from an already quickened pace, the government reported today.

The 1.3 percent March increase was the largest since last July's 1.7 percent and compared to February's 0.8 percent rise.

But the government also reported that unemployment held steady at 7.3 percent last month despite earlier government reports that construction and industrial production have been off.

The Labor Department said the price of finished energy-related goods rose 6.1 percent in March, at least partly due to President Reagan's Jan.

28 oil-decontrol order, and made up more than half of the overall 1.3 percent rise in the Producer Price Index.

Food prices, which had dropped 0.6 percent at the wholesale level in February, climbed 0.8 percent in March, led by a brisk 19.4 percent increase in prices for fresh and dried vegetables.

The index, adjusted for seasonal variations, usually gives a good indication of the future trend of prices at the consumer level.

It has risen at an annual rate of 12.5 percent for the first three months of 1981, above the 11.7 percent rate for all of last year but well below the 17.5 percent recorded in the first quarter of 1980, a department spokesman said.

The 6.1 percent rise in energy prices was well above the 3.6 percent increase in February and was the fifth straight large monthly advance, the new report said.

Included were a 9 percent increase in heating oil prices and a 7.5 percent rise in gasoline prices.

"This upward movement reflected the impact of the lifting of controls on the price of domestic crude oil earlier in the year as well as the continued pass-through of the latest round of imported oil price increases," the report said.

Before seasonal adjustment the overall index stood at 265.3 in March, meaning that finished wholesale goods costing an average of $10 in 1967 would have cost $36.53 last month.

The jobless rate stayed relatively level in most major areas in March, the Labor Department said.

Busing viewed as waste of money

(Con't. from Page One)
Fraser is a 1969 graduate of Texas Tech, and has a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering.
Concerning teaching methods in the Big Spring school district, Fraser said the system needs a mix of old and new methods to promote quality education.
Concerning federal money losses, Fraser said he didn't think a contribution method to increase money would work. He favors conservation methods, and a tax increase if called for.

He said he is "totally against school busing," and favors annual teacher contracts as they are now used.
Grady L. Cunningham, 28, is in the oil and real estate investment business in Howard County. He and his wife, the former Ann Tollett, reside at 10 Glenwick Cove.
Cunningham has spent his entire life in Big Spring.
"Modern innovation in teaching is necessary," Cunningham said of one of the issues in the race. He added that "students need a sound fundamental background in reading, writing and arithmetic."

Cunningham views busing as a waste of taxpayers money. Concerning federal money losses, he says he wants to see "efficient use of current funds," and hopes to encourage contributions to the system.
Cunningham also said he favors giving teachers three year contracts instead of tenure agreements, and giving administrators two year contracts.

Reagan develops fever

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan developed a fever this morning, but doctors said this is common in patients recovering from similar injuries and surgery.
Meanwhile, FBI spokesman Ed Gooderhand confirmed that the president was hit by a special, explosive bullet that could have blown up at any time, even on the operating table.

A morning White House medical bulletin said the president "continues to recover from his injury in a satisfactory manner."
"He feels refreshed and appears well rested after a good night's sleep."
But the bulletin, based on information provided by Dr. Dennis O'Leary of George Washington University Hospital, said "over the past several hours the president has developed a moderate temperature elevation, an occurrence which is considered commonplace at this stage for patients recovering from injuries and surgery of this nature."
Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, asked for specifics about the fever, said "I don't have the figure."

Today's White House announcement was the first indication that Reagan had developed a fever while recuperating from the bullet wound in his left lung that occurred during an assassination attempt on Monday.

"The temperature elevation is being appropriately evaluated," and the frequency of the president's coughing therapy has been increased, the statement said.
The announcement said the president's "chest X-ray continues to show the left lung to be fully expanded with no evidence of new changes" and that his surgical incisions are clean.

Earlier, White House aides said they expected the president to be released next week.
The bullet, although explosive, had ricocheted off the president's limousine, before lodging in the president's lung, FBI spokesman Roger Young said.

BREAKFASTING AT CABRINI-GREEN — Chicago Mayor Jane M. Byrne and political advisor-husband Jay McMullen eat breakfast in their apartment at Cabrini-Green housing project in Chicago Friday. Byrne moved into the project Tuesday, vowing to stay until the gangs at the project are driven out and the quality of life for the residents is improved.

Hinckley faces psychiatric tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over his lawyers' objections, John W. Hinckley Jr. faces up to 90 days of psychiatric tests at an experimental, campus-like federal prison to determine if he is sane when he allegedly shot President Reagan.
The 25-year-old drifter is being held at the Federal Correctional Institution in Butner, N.C., a maximum-security facility with dormitory-style rooms instead of cells and a special unit that one federal official said is "for people with severe psychotic conditions."
Deemed "mentally competent" to stand trial on a charge of attempting to assassinate the president, Hinckley was whisked by helicopter Thursday from a federal courthouse near the Capitol to Butner on orders of a U.S. magistrate who ruled that more intensive tests are needed.

The magistrate then sent the case to a federal grand jury to decide whether to indict Hinckley, whose alleged attempt on Reagan's life Monday is thought by federal investigators to be linked to an unrequited romantic obsession with 18-year-old film star Jodie Foster.

The link is based on an unmailed letter to the actress in which he vowed to "get Reagan" at the risk of being killed himself to prove his love for her, according to sources. The letter was written less than two hours before Reagan was shot, the sources said.

Attorney General William French Smith told reporters Thursday that "we do not have any solid evidence that more than one person was involved" in the assassination attempt, in which Reagan, White House Press Secretary James S. Brady, a Secret Service agent and a local policeman were wounded by .22-caliber bullets.

The FBI, meanwhile, said "devastator-type exploding" bullets may have been used in Monday's assassination attempt, although it was not known if the bullet that hit Reagan was one of the exploding shells.

Hinckley's attorneys sought unsuccessfully to block further government-administered mental tests until defense medical experts could examine him and decide whether to argue that he is innocent by reason of insanity. Although defense psychiatrists were granted access to Hinckley at Butner, his attorneys said they were considering filing an appeal today.

Hinckley's chief attorney, Vincent J. Fuller, said he has yet to decide on a line of defense.
Butner, located near Durham, N.C., was opened in 1976 as a combination experimental prison, where new inmate programs are tested, and psychiatric center, where mental competency tests are conducted for the federal courts.

A federal official, who asked not to be identified, said most of the 340 inmates have private rooms, which are like "college housing" rather than concrete and steel cells. However, the compound is very well guarded, he said.

Hinckley wore a white bullet-proof vest under a navy blazer as he was led Thursday into the heavily guarded courtroom. He was quiet and impassive but attentive as his lawyer read the results of a three-hour examination conducted Wednesday by a court-appointed psychiatrist.

"It is my opinion that the defendant is presently mentally competent to stand trial in that he has a rational and factual understanding of the charges," was the conclusion of Dr. James L. Evans, who examined Hinckley at the Quantico, Va., Marine base where he had been held since his arrest Monday.

Hinckley, the sandy-haired, boyish-looking son of a wealthy Denver oilman, waived his right to a preliminary showing of the government's case against him and signed a statement to that effect in front of the magistrate.

Hinckley spoke only once after Magistrate Lawrence Margolis told him he was charged with two crimes, an "attempt to kill Ronald Reagan" and the shooting of a Secret Service agent. The magistrate then asked whether Hinckley was sure he wanted the case to go directly to the grand jury.

"Is that your desire," asked the magistrate.
"Yes, sir," Hinckley replied in a quiet voice as he stood from his chair, clasping his hands at his waist.

Often during the 15-minute hearing Hinckley whispered to one of his three lawyers, Gregory Craig. During one such conversation, he pointed to his chest; during another, his mouth formed a faint smile.
Hinckley faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment if convicted of attempting to assassinate the president. Assaulting a Secret Service agent with a pistol carries a maximum 10-year sentence and $10,000 fine.

Charges stemming from the shooting of Reagan's press secretary and the policeman have not been filed.
Hinckley was seized at the scene an instant after six bullets were fired at the president as he was leaving the Washington Hilton Hotel, where he had delivered a speech to an AFL-CIO group.

At Thursday's hearing, the magistrate signed an order committing Hinckley to a psychiatric institution for up to 60 days. An appeal by Fuller was rejected by Chief U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant, who extended the length of the psychiatric exam to a maximum of 90 days and ordered that defense experts have equal access to Hinckley.

U.S. Attorney Charles F.C. Ruff, who is prosecuting the case, argued that further sanity tests are required because "the mental state of the defendant will be at issue" throughout the upcoming proceedings.

Adult Ed Department seeks input on plan

The Adult Education Department of Howard College is seeking input on the Co-Op Plan for Comprehensive Adult Education.
Residents of Howard, Martin, Glasscock and Reagan counties may attend a public hearing at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Tumbleweed Room of the Howard College Student Union Building to give their ideas on the subject.

The Adult Education Department of Howard College was designed to serve adults from public and private organizations, business, labor, church and civic groups, as well as individuals.

People from these sectors are encouraged to provide information that can improve the quality or quantity of service offered, according to Martha Fierro of the Continuing Education department.

Courses offered locally include reading, writing, math, basic English skills, and basic history and government. Instruction for those who wish to learn to speak, read or write English is also offered.

The most popular plan of study, according to Mrs. Fierro, is the preparation for the G.E.D. or high school diploma equivalency test.
Students interested in information that improve their ability to compete and thrive in society can take advantage of the Adult Performance Level program, Mrs. Fierro added. Input to these areas is sought.

Those not able to attend the hearing may send suggestions to Howard College, 1001 Birdwell Lane, Big Spring, Tx. 79720, or phone 267-6311, ext. 70.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Grafa Jr. planning return to Israel

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Grafa Jr., are planning to return to Israel a week from Sunday where he is supervising construction of two military air bases.

The Grafas are residents of Ovda, where one of the airports is located. The other facility is being built at Ramon.

The Grafas plan to take off from Houston and will spend a little time in London before flying on to Israel.

Otis returned to Austin from Israel about three months ago to undergo bypass surgery. He came through the operation with flying colors and was up briefly within 24 hours after the surgery.

Of the construction job, Otis says the work is ahead of schedule and he likely won't have to stay as long as he originally planned. His original contract was to have extended through November, 1982.

Mrs. Grafa is the former Loveda Schultz, whose mother resides in San Angelo. The Grafas have two children, Mike Grafa and Michelle Opie and three grandchildren, all residents of Austin.

Otis Grafa Sr., is a long-time resident of Big Spring.

Gun club burglarized

Burglars struck at the Windy Hill Gun Club sometime early this week.

After breaking four locks and damaging a window near the club's skeet range, the intruders made off with two cases of canned drinks, five boxes of candy and 50 ice cream sandwiches. Total loss, including damage, was estimated at $209.35.

Burglars also entered an office at the Texas Department of Human Resources, 707 E. 3rd, sometime Tuesday night. Stolen was a dictaphone machine valued at $279.

While a Howard College bus was parked in the maintenance area near the Horace Garrett Building, Wednesday, a thief lifted four stereo speakers and damaged the bus' wiring. Loss was estimated at $120.

Officials at the Bell Service Station, 1307 E. 3rd, discovered that during January and February someone had stolen 950 gallons of regular gasoline from an underground storage tank at the station. The fuel was valued at $859.50.

Vicki Gay, 611 E. 13th, reported that a young girl stole a part-German shepherd dog from Ms. Gay's fenced-in back yard, recently. Value of the dog has not been estimated.

Three mishaps were reported Thursday.

Vehicles driven by Lillian Dawson, 700 Hillside, and Terry Billingsley, 1710 11th, collided in the parking lot of the Kentucky Fried Chicken Restaurant, 7:33 p.m.

A vehicle driven by Michael Callahan, 2401 Alabama, struck a trash can on the 3400 block of East 11th, 7:05 p.m.

A parked vehicle belonging to Edward Aciri Jr., 2500 Larry, was reportedly struck by a vehicle driven by Betty K. Lebkowsky, 2004 State, in the 1700 block of Gregg, 1:56 p.m.

Reagan's programs hit House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, an easy winner in "the first skirmish" of the budget-cutting battle, now faces the real fight: getting his program past majority Democrats in the House.

Crown will drill venture

Crown Exploration, Abilene, will drill the No. 1-33 Shafer, a 7,600-foot wildcat in Howard County, 3/4-mile east and very slightly north of a 7,525-foot failure, 1 1/2 miles northwest of production in the current three-well Vincent, West (Pennsylvania) field, separated by Pennsylvania failures, and three miles northwest of Vincent.

Location is 1,350 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of 33-25-H&C. The Vincent, West field produces from 7,454 feet. The 7,525-foot failure, Amerada Hess Corp. No. 1 R.T. Shafer, abandoned June 3, 1951, topped the Spraberry at 4,800 feet; Dean, 6,020 feet; and Pennsylvania, 6,835 feet on ground elevation of 2,377 feet.

That test is already beginning, just a day after the Senate voted 88-10 to endorse Reagan's plan to force $87 billion in budget cuts over three years.

House Democrats are launching a counteroffensive aimed at winning approval for an alternative economic package that attacks the government "waste, fraud and abuse" that Reagan campaigned against as a presidential candidate.

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee, was to announce a package of proposals today to eliminate waste and inefficiency, a move that he says would save the federal government $10 billion over the next three years.

So far, the legislative momentum is with the president.

The package passed Thursday night by the Senate parallels Reagan's call for savings of $2.3 billion this year, $36.9 billion in 1982 and $47.7 billion in 1983. Republicans hailed it as a historic change in government policy while Democrats called it a cruel attempt to save money by cutting aid for the needy.

The only Republican to oppose the measure was Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut.

Senate Democrats voting against the cuts included Alan Cranston of California, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts, Paul Sarbanes of Maryland, Chris Dodd of Connecticut, Carl Levin of Michigan, Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio, Thomas Eagleton of Missouri and Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island.

Myrick spends $986 in quest of city post

A mandatory financial disclosure form submitted a week before Saturday's Big Spring City Council election revealed that Jerry Myrick was the biggest spender.

Myrick, who seeks the Place 4 seat on the council spent $986.40 on advertising and other efforts to gain the position. Charles E. Christopher, president of Oilfield Industrial Lines Company for which Myrick is traffic director, contributed $1,000 to the cause.

Candidates were not required to report individual donations or individual expenditures that totaled less than $50. Additional minor contributions to Myrick brought his total contributions to $1,067.96.

H.V. "Burr" Crocker received $415 in contributions, all in sums less than $50. His expenses came to $522.

Robert "Russ" McEwen received a total of $350 in donations, $100 of which came from Kent Morgan. Of this, he has spent only $68.46 on campaign cards.

Donna Fish received donations totaling $210, including a listed donation of $100 from Gray Jewelers. She has spent $160.97 on advertising.

To buy energy-saving items

Financial aid offered to customers of TESCO

Texas Electric will begin a program April 15 to provide financial incentives to encourage customers to replace worn or obsolete air conditioning and water heating equipment with more energy-efficient equipment.

Details of the program will be available at that time.

"The goal of our Residential Load Management Program will be to hold down electricity price increases by holding down the number of new power plants we have to build," said TESCO President Bill Marquardt.

Equipment with a higher EER (Energy Efficiency Ratio) rating costs more than lower-rated equipment. Therefore, to encourage customers to buy energy-saving equipment, TESCO will pay part of the difference in cost, he said.

"We will be actively encouraging our customers to install this equipment because this is an effective way to slow the rate of growth in the need for electricity during the summer 'peak load' season," Marquardt said.

If enough customers do so, he said, "We will need to build fewer new power plants to serve our customers' peak load in the future, and this in turn will help hold down increases in the future cost of electricity for all customers."

Marquardt said benefits to all customers will start coming about as soon as new equipment is installed. Each piece of equipment helps reduce the company's need to use high-priced natural gas fuel to meet summer peak loads, which in turn will mean smaller increases in fuel costs to customers.

Also, he said, each piece of new equipment will do its part to help delay the need to borrow money to design and build new power plants.

Customers who install high-

EER air conditioners or heat pumps and solar-assisted or energy-recovery water heaters will make a direct contribution toward this goal.

He noted that the cost of a new power plant today is more than three times the average cost of the plants now used by TESCO.

Marquardt said present circumstances make it appear that customers will benefit best if the company spends money to reduce growth in demand for electricity. "Otherwise, we'll have to spend this money — and a great deal more — to build a larger amount of new generating capacity in the future."

"The cost of electricity to our customers will be less if we spend it at the present time to reduce demand."

Because high-efficiency equipment is higher than that of lower-efficiency units, so our program is designed to encourage customers to replace out-moded equipment sooner, and encourage them to invest in higher-efficiency units, than they might otherwise consider," Marquardt said.

Complete information on types of eligible equipment and amounts of financial assistance will be available when the program goes into effect April 15.

GM will cut up to 27,000 from staff

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. will cut its white-collar work force by as many as 27,000 workers over the next few months, a published report says.

The reductions outlined in the Detroit News today would be the second round of cuts in less than a year.

The newspaper quoted unidentified company officials as saying the reductions would eliminate between 8 percent and 15 percent of GM's salaried work force of 180,000 people.

But the cuts more likely would affect 13 percent of the salaried workers up to the level of company vice presidents, the officials said.

GM would make the cuts by closing some departments, consolidating others and not replacing some workers when they retire, according to company spokesmen.

In an interview with the News, GM Chairman Roger B. Smith said the reductions would be handled delicately and over a period of months, removing only non-essential positions.

"We're not going in with an ax," Smith said. "We're using a surgeon's knife."

The No. 1 automaker announced last April that it intended to trim its white-collar work force by 10 percent, or about 19,000 people. That across-the-board staff reduction resulted in the departure of about 10,000 employees.

Haynes knocks holes in psychiatrist's testimony

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Richard "Racehorse" Haynes smiled like a boxer who had just scored a knockout punch — or an attorney who had just made his point.

After almost three weeks of preliminaries, Haynes reached the main event Thursday when Dr. Kenneth Wetcher, a Nassau Bay psychiatrist, took the stand.

Wetcher is a key witness for Jean Daniel Murph, sister of the late Price Daniel Jr., in her attempt to gain custody of her brother's two children from his marriage to Vickie Daniel, Haynes' client.

personality disorder that could cause her children to grow up with sexual abnormalities and develop a lack of concern for others.

He said Mrs. Daniel would be a good mother only in unstressful situations and showed dangerous, impulsive behavior, citing as examples her divorce from her first husband, Larry Moore, her apprehension during a February 24 interview and her leaving high school three months before graduation.

"Do you call getting a divorce from a guy 6-foot tall and 200 pounds who beat his wife throughout their marriage impulsive?" Haynes asked Wetcher.

Wetcher replied, "It sounds as though that was not impulsive."

Haynes also questioned Wetcher's statement that Mrs. Daniel was apprehensive during her court-ordered psychiatric interview.

Haynes wondered if someone facing a murder charge, the loss of her children and being interviewed by a psychiatrist paid by the person trying to take her children would understandably be apprehensive.

"I think we have started pointing out that it was a hastily made report and one that the doctor wished he had put more time into," Haynes said after dissecting portions of Wetcher's evaluation of Mrs. Daniel.

"I wouldn't want to fly an airplane on the precision of his testimony," he said.

Wetcher had testified Mrs. Daniel, charged with murder in the Jan. 19 slaying of her husband, suffered a form of

Classes begin Aug. 24 in Big Spring schools

Students in the Big Spring school district will begin classes Aug. 24 when the 1981-82 school term begins. This will be preceded by five days of inservice by local teachers.

Other inservice days for teachers next school year are Jan. 14 and 15, and May 15, presidential birthdays.

Holidays will be observed on Sept. 7 for Labor Day, Nov. 26 and 27, Thanksgiving, Dec. 21 through Jan. 1, Christmas break, March 8 through 12, spring break, April 9 through 12, Easter break, and Feb. 15, presidential birthdays.

Cunningham top spender in school trustees race

Grady Cunningham, a candidate for the Big Spring Independent School District's board of trustees, reported $2,776.80 in contributions and the same amount of expenditures in statements required for the race.

Cunningham reported that the donations were given to his campaign for the school board from himself.

Charles Beil, the only incumbent seeking reelection, listed no contributions and no expenditures as of March 25.

Curt Strong listed $515 as contributions in the race, and expenditures of $442.13. An itemized list of the contributions show that he received $200 from Bob Brock. Contributions under $50 do not have to be itemized, said Don Green, assistant school superintendent for business.

Fern Alexander showed in her statement that $66.50 in contributions, and $42.21 in expenditures. The contributions came from Jack Alexander, $46.50, and Ray Alexander, $25.

Dewayne Fraser listed no contributions in his statement, and $42.21 in expenditures.

David R. Huff listed $5.70 in contributions, and $2.75 in expenditures.

Some candidates may be required to file another financial statement April 29, which will give a finalized listing of contributions and expenditures.

The statements show that the contributions were all spent on advertising for the race.

County's Spelling Bee champ competes in Lubbock Saturday

Sam Gladden, Howard County's Spelling Bee champion, goes to Lubbock this afternoon where Saturday he will compete in the Regional Bee against the finest young spellers West Texas public schools have to offer.

A victory in Lubbock would qualify the Goliad Middle School student for the National Bee, which will be held in Washington, D.C., later in the spring.

The Lubbock competition gets under way at 12:30 p.m. in Moody Coliseum. Big Spring's entry last year, Melinda Corwin, was a Regional finalist.

Several Big Spring champions of the past have gone on to compete in the National Bee, where several scholarships are offered to finalists.

Sam will be accompanied to Lubbock by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L.K. Gladden of 600 Highland.

The Lubbock champion will be accompanied to Washington by Marie Canning, formerly of Big Spring and a one-time member of the Herald editorial staff. Mrs. Canning is now employed by the

SAM GLADDEN
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, which sponsors the spelling contest on the regional level.

This is the third time around for young Gladden to compete in the County Bee and he outlasted ten opponents to earn an all-expenses paid trip to Lubbock. The County Bee was sponsored by the Big Spring Herald.

Sam still has another year of eligibility in the contest.

Since I chose to make Big Spring my home more than two score years ago, I have done my best to be involved in the life of my town. To this end, I have worked in several civic organizations and as a volunteer with the State Hospital both on a local and State level, as well as my career with Cosden.

I also once had the honor of serving as a city commissioner, and when I retired from my job, I was asked — and accepted — to fill a vacancy which had occurred on the City Council. In almost two years now, I have had a chance to share in decisions which I am confident have had a part in stabilizing our City's finances, in promoting effective operations, and in screening elements of a progressive program endorsed by citizens of Big Spring for a better Big Spring of tomorrow.

I want to see this job through. I make no promises except to rely on my long experience, my record of listening to all views and deciding as fairly as I know for the welfare of the city, and for working hard at what I undertake. If you will vote for me Saturday on these terms, I will give it my best shot.

One of our states facing dilemma

Americans are prone to complain about taxes, but you don't see voters in many other states following the example set by California a few years ago by adopting a tax-revolt amendment.

One which did was Hawaii and, according to reports emanating from our western-most state, the constituency is having second thoughts about its decision.

HAWAIIANS HAVE COME to realize that good ideas locked into law as constitutional amendments can have some unexpected results and that what is easily done is not always easy to undo.

Hawaii's amendment imposed a ceiling on state spending and required that surplus funds be returned to the taxpayers each other year.

The current problems result from the fact that Hawaii is one of the few states operating in the black. The legislators, no doubt, could find ways to spend the reported $179 million surplus — which was caused by the spending ceiling, the higher tax revenues that were caused by inflation plus an increase in federal money for the state.

The spending ceiling has prevented state officers from making capital improvements in the state's schools, road and bridges.

Although polls reveal that a large percentage of voters finds it counterproductive to return money that could be stashed away for a rainy day and then ask them to bless bond issues for vital expenditures, the state's legislators are trying to come up with some fair way to distribute the surplus.

What they are learning is that it far easier to collect taxes than to refund them.

IF THE REFUND requirement were merely a statute, the legislature could pass a new statute to resolve the problem. This requirement is locked into the state's constitution, however, and a constitutional amendment is required to change it. Such a legislative process would take several years.

Recent polls taken in Hawaii show that a growing number of taxpayers are no longer so sure that a constitutional amendment to restrict spending is in their long-term best interests.

Their dilemma is an interesting development in the continuing battle for such an amendment at the federal level.

The easiest way to combat the problem would be not to overload the tax payer in the beginning. He's very tolerant but there is a limit to his patience.

Movers, shakers

Around the rim

James Werrell

An elite few determine what the makeup of our city government will be, who will draw the guidelines for the education of our children and, for all intents and purposes, the future of every Big Spring resident.

This small, powerful cadre gathers once a year to choose leaders who will decide what our taxes will be, which businesses will be allowed to move here, which streets will be paved, and who will be reimbursed after driving a car into a hole in a street that wasn't.

The leaders will decide who will be allowed to park a trailer in his back yard, the thickness of the bags we put our garbage into, whether we will be permitted to raise chickens, and hundreds of other bits of business that affect our daily lives.

ANOTHER GROUP OF leaders selected by this privileged inner circle will determine what books our children will read, whether they will drink milk at lunch and what type of football helmets they will wear onto the playing field.

These chosen leaders will also decide whether our children will spend nearly eight hours, five days a week, in buildings that are adequately heated or cooled, whether the buildings will be kept clean, and whether children will have help crossing the street to get to those buildings.

Who comprises this elite group? Who are the real movers and shakers in this city? Quite simply, the people who bother to get out and vote.

In last year's city council-mayoral race, less than a third of the city's registered voters took the time to go to the polls. Of 11,580 voters, only 3,420 cast ballots in what was called a "surprisingly large" turnout.

In the contest for mayor, Clyde Angel received 1,782 votes, while his three opponents received a total of 1,638 votes. The difference between an outright victory for Angel and a vote total that would have sent the race into a runoff was 144.

The race for the Place 2 seat on the council that year was even closer. The ultimate winner, Hal Boyd, received 1,664 votes compared to a combined total of 1,706 for his two opponents.

This warranted a runoff, and if Jack Watkins, who trailed Boyd by only 255 votes, had not removed himself from the race, it would have come about.

This is not to say that the same candidates wouldn't have won, or for that matter, that they wouldn't have won by a greater margin with a large turnout. It does, however, reveal that in what was considered a hotly contested election, less than 200 voters made the difference in shaping our city government for the next two years.

THIS YEAR, ONLY 126 voters cast absentee ballots in the election for two seats on the city council, compared to 621 during last year's race. If this is any barometer of what the turnout will be like Saturday at the polling booths for the city and school board elections, there is cause to worry.

What elected official wants to take a seat on either of those governing bodies, knowing that he or she is the choice of one-sixth of the voters; one-seventeenth of the entire population of the city?

Go ahead and say you don't care about the outcome. But if you have children, if you pay taxes, if you want to raise chickens, I'm afraid I don't understand the apathy.

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Recently, a Rim article questioned the efficiency of the Postal Service and of the zip code. First off, zip codes are badly needed. Second, there probably are not enough horses around the country to carry today's volume of mail. Third, it is unlikely that we could feed and keep them up.

I would like to provide some information that may help your readers better understand the reasons for the additions and changes.

Plans for the nine-digit zip code began over five years ago when the Postal Service realized the growing amount of mail and delivery points. It was decided that a new approach was necessary because we had experienced a letter mail increase of over 18 billion pieces in the last ten years. Also, we had 2 percent increases each year, in places to deliver the mail.

Last year, the Postal Service processed, sorted, and delivered over 105 billion pieces of mail to more than 79 million delivery points, six days a week. We did so with 75 thousand fewer employees than we had in 1970 handling only 87 billion pieces. If we are to continue this trend of mail processing and deliver productivity improvement, the nine digit zip code will be needed.

Mechanization and automated equipment have been the key to the 24 percent increase in postal productivity since Postal Reorganization in 1970. Just as the banking, retailing and manufacturing industries are adopting automated machinery to move materials more efficiently, the Postal Service wants to do the same.

Since about 86 percent of all letter mail comes from businesses, the Postal Service will ask first that business use the new add-on zip code numbers. Basically, add-ons will be the only changes because your present 5 digit zip code probably will stay the same. This is why we call this program Zip+4.

We won't overlook the consumer either. There will be many information resources available for individuals to learn the nine digit zip code of their personal correspondents. A toll free telephone line is only one of the means USPS will make nine-digit zip code numbers available to the public.

Zip code add-on is the answer to continued improvement in Postal Service Productivity. It is the next logical step in using the best technology to do a better job.

Those of us who work in the Postal Service feel that Zip+4 along with continued mailer cooperation will help us to better maintain the efficiency that has been entrusted to us.

Gun control is urged by paper

LONDON (AP) — Following the attempt on his life, President Reagan has a golden opportunity to "ride into the jaws of the guns" and initiate tough federal gun controls, the respected British weekly, The Economist, said in an editorial today.

It noted that Reagan opposed gun controls in his election campaign because of the political outcry that would have come from conservative owners of America's estimated 145 million guns.

But the weekly said: "If he is a really great president, he will suddenly see that the only sort of politician who can bring federal gun control to America is a true-to-life John Wayne, against whom many masculine right-wingers will not be able to revolt."

It called on him to "wake the brave" by taking advantage of the popularity his calm physical courage and quick recovery will bring.

Not especially asthma

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a problem with my 14-month-old son. Ever since he was about five months old he breathed on and off with the sound of wheezing in his upper chest. He wakes up in the morning breathing hard and by afternoon you can barely stand it. I thought he might be allergic. So I tested him, thinking it might be milk. Apparently it wasn't that.

Now he is older and I seem to watch him more. He still wakes up breathing hard and I cannot pinpoint what it is. So, to make a long story short, I think now it might be asthma, but they say there is no test to show if someone has asthma. Do you know of a test? Or what you think he might have? — D.J.F.

All that wheezes is not asthma. The musical breathing of a wheeze occurs for the same reason notes on a musical instrument occur. There is a change in openings of the tubes that air passes through. In the lungs those are the bronchi.

In early life, there are many causes for tube-narrowing and wheezing. First of all, an infant's airways are quite small and a little narrowing can cause a wheeze. Also, a youngster's tubes are more collapsible than an adult's and that makes for wheezing. The younger child has relatively oversized mucus glands and if they pour out excess mucus, that narrows the airway to cause a wheeze. Finally, youngsters are more susceptible to viral respiratory infections and an infection can cause tubes to narrow. Again, a wheeze.

Is there a single test for asthma? No, but if there is a family history of asthma or if wheezing can be controlled by medicines that make the tubes dilate, then asthma can be suspected. Some doctors are, for the reasons outlined above, understandably reluctant to diagnose asthma in a child under two years. Things are changing so rapidly in the early years.

Exactly what is causing your child's wheezing, I cannot say. He certainly needs a thorough examination. Other causes for wheezing I did not mention include an abnormal connection between the esophagus and his airway and an unsuspected tiny foreign body in the airway. It is time for another appointment with the child's pediatrician.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have polyarteritis. Deltasone has been prescribed for it, but I don't know if it is doing any good. I don't know either what would happen if I stopped taking it. I have been on it for 18 months. Please advise. — V.K.S.

Deltasone is a brand name for one of the cortisone-like drugs. These drugs are used for your condition, and usually very successfully. You should not stop taking the drug on your own. Here's the reason. Having taken the drug, you stop your own production of cortisone. Thus, if you stop the medicine suddenly, and if your body is not making its equivalent, you can become seriously ill. So you have to withdraw gradually under your doctor's supervision. If you ask your doctor, he might change your view about the drug's effectiveness in treating your problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband recently underwent serious internal surgery. A couple of days after coming out of the surgery I visited him and noticed his skin had a yellow appearance. Was this jaundice? It cleared up in a few days, but I am still wondering what it meant? — Mrs. P.S.

Post-operative jaundice is not uncommon. In some cases it is caused by pigment overload from many transfusions. It is the extra pigment that causes the skin yellowing (jaundice). Other factors involved include a shock to the liver from the surgery, which can inhibit pigment removal. Some anesthetics can cause jaundice. The problem usually disappears in a few days, as in your husband's case. It was something the doctors in the hospital watched carefully until the symptoms subsided. It will have no lasting effect on your husband's health.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why don't you ever seem to defend yourself when people attack you (such as reporters or television commentators)? — P.W.

DEAR P.W.: Let me say that for the most part reporters and others in the media have been very fair to me. For many years it has (as you say) been my practice not to strike back at those who may be attacking me, whatever their reason may be. At times I may privately try to set the record straight if facts have been distorted, but in general I have tried to avoid getting involved in such things.

There are several reasons for this. One is that I know Satan would try to do everything he could to get Christians — not just me, but any believer — involved in side issues and be diverted from the work God has given us to do. I personally have been inspired by the example of Nehemiah, who was urged by his enemies to stop the work he was doing and discuss whether or not their claims against him were correct. His reply was simple: "I am carrying on a great project and cannot go down. Why should the work stop while I leave it and go down to you?" (Nehemiah 6:3).

Also, I realize that God alone is the final judge, and ultimately he will judge those who attack him. I have found that often it only calls more attention to the whole issue. The Bible teaches, "Do not take revenge, my friends, but leave room for God's wrath, for it is written, 'It is mine to avenge; I will repay,' said the Lord" (Romans 12:19). I know that a person is usually not attacking me personally — they often may have never met me. But they are opposed to the Gospel of Christ, and ultimately they must give account to God for what they are doing.

It is natural for us to be offended when people attack us for our faith in Christ, and we want to strike back at them. But this is not the way of Christ. He was unjustly brought to trial and sentenced to die, yet he left it all in God's hands. We should follow him in his spirit of trust and love for others.

Two levels

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The dialogue between the United States and the Soviet Union occurs at two levels. There is a direct line of communication by diplomatic note, oral exchange and, on occasion, the hot line. But there is also a covert communication network, which carries unspoken messages.

Diplomats are in some respect like rare tropical birds. They have learned to communicate with one another through near-inaudible sounds, poses and gestures. If there is to be an accommodation between them, they may prefer that it be implicit rather than explicit.

AN ARRANGEMENT may be reached through a process of almost imperceptible movements, coincidences, discreet whispers, raised eyebrows and knowing smiles. Through this delicate process, an understanding appears to be jelling between the Ronald Reagan White House and the Leonid Brezhnev Kremlin.

Here is the tacit, tentative, tenuous arrangement as it is understood by my sources at the highest levels:

—Reagan will hold down U.S. intervention in El Salvador and seek to cool the crisis. Brezhnev, in return, will restrain Soviet forces in Poland and try to keep a lid on that crisis.

—Any Soviet move against Poland, it is also understood, would be countered by U.S. action against Cuba. The United States may not be able to stop a Soviet invasion of Poland, but the Soviet Union is in an equally weak position to prevent a U.S. military move against Cuba.

—Brezhnev will halt, or at least restrict, the flow of military supplies to the insurgents in El Salvador. Otherwise, Reagan will start supplying the guerrillas who are battling Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

—Reagan also wants the Kremlin to stop encouraging and supporting anti-American movements in Central America, or else he will stir up anti-Soviet activity in Eastern Europe.

—Reagan is most concerned about a possible Soviet thrust into Iran, which would threaten the Western World's oil supply in the Persian Gulf. Hints have been relayed to Brezhnev, therefore, that the United States would resist any overt attack and respond to a covert move by sending mass arms shipments to Communist China.

—Reagan has also sent discreet signals to Brezhnev that the United States will no longer remain passive while the Kremlin sets up pro-Soviet governments in Africa. If Brezhnev sends Cuban allies into another African country, Reagan might encourage the Egyptians to move against Libya.

Of course, these arrangements are precarious at best and could be upset by new developments. But it would be accurate to report that Reagan and Brezhnev are beginning to understand one another.

CHANGE OF PART: Budget Director Dave Stockman wants to cut back and eventually eliminate entirely a federal planning program he stoutly defended when he was a member of Congress.

The program comprises more than 200 grass-roots groups called Health Systems Agencies, initiated in the Nixon administration. The agencies, which are run by local volunteers, pass judgment on proposals for construction or expansion of hospitals and other health facilities in their communities. The purpose is to prevent the building of hospitals where they aren't needed — and to encourage construction where the need is greatest.

Last June, then-Congressman Stockman felt impelled to defend the HSAs against proposed cuts by the Carter administration. In a letter to a constituent, Stockman cautioned that "budget tightening efforts ... must be carried out in a judicious and discriminating fashion," and added:

"(This is) particularly true in the field of health planning, where local and regional HSAs have proven to be the most effective coordinators of the health planning effort."

IN AN EARLIER LETTER to then-Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano, Stockman expressed similar high praise for the HSAs.

But in his new role as executive budget cutter, Stockman has evidently changed his mind.

WATCH ON WASTE: While funds for school lunches are being cut back, the administration has managed to increase federal funding for the nation's gun aficionados. The Army's Department of Civilian Marksmanship, with its customary support from NATIONAL Rifle Association lobbyists, will be given $444,000 this year. The money will go for "trophies and classification badges" won by private gun club members, who are presumably prospective Army recruits. Incredibly, the NRA had talked Congress into nearly doubling last year's target-shooting largesse, but the budget cutters were able to hold the increase to "only" $19,000.

—Energy Department poobahs have three methods of getting cars to use on government business: The cheapest option is to requisition a car from a General Services Administration motor pool. The second, slightly more expensive way is to have the GSA lease a car from a private firm. The third and far more costly method is for the bureaucrat to lease the car himself and send the bill to the government. Under Option No. 3, the official gets to use the car for private business, as long as he pays the modest mileage cost. Predictably, investigators found that three out of every four DOE bureaucrats entitled to cars choose the third method.

—Some developers have been taking advantage of federal housing subsidies for the poor to add unnecessary luxury items that in effect increase the subsidies they get. In Santee, Calif., for example, a government-subsidized project included a swimming pool, recreation rooms and paved parking. In Lima, Ohio, a developer padded his subsidy by proving carpeting, balconies, patios, paved parking and a community building. It all eats into the money available for low-cost housing.

Boost in oil imports expected

Strike effects will reach beyond coalfields

BURNING QUESTION — U.S. Bureau of Mines' John Stockalis, right, and Dan Lewis drop a thermometer through a hole on Mainstreet in Centralia, Pa. recently to measure the heat from a mine shaft blaze that has burned for 19 years. Townspeople will vote on May 19 to decide if the town should be relocated so the fire can be dug out.

The effects of a strike by 160,000 union coal miners could soon reach far beyond the coalfields — to American homes and factories, to other nations' fuel stockpiles and even to crisis-ridden Poland, according to officials.

A prolonged strike by the United Mine Workers could hamstring some industries, cause widespread layoffs, boost oil imports and cost billions of dollars in lost paychecks, profits and taxes.

"We don't know if the strike is going to last a month or six months," a senior Energy Department official said, asking not to be identified. "But things point to it being worse than the last time."

"The last time" was the union's record 111-day walkout in 1977-78. Before Tuesday's ill-fated ratification vote, by which miners rejected the proposed contract 2-to-1, UMW President Sam Church had warned rejection could lead to an even longer strike.

The 1977 strike led to power shortages, isolated blackouts and mandatory conservation measures. However, predictions the strike would cause tens of thousands of layoffs failed to materialize.

Indiana and other states already have said they will adopt emergency regulations and mobilize the National Guard to protect coal shipments and installations if this strike is severe.

Roving UMW pickets already have closed non-union mines in some Eastern coal states. When the UMW went on strike March 27, many non-union operations in heavily unionized areas closed automatically to head off picketing.

However, the nation's coal-fired power plants have an average fuel reserve that would last them three months and could get some additional supplies from mines in the West, most of which are not affected by the strike.

The strike comes amid growing domestic and foreign demand for coal. Many nations have been turning to the United States, the major coal exporter, because of problems in Australia and Poland, the next largest suppliers.

"It's going to increase prices on the world energy market," Barry Levy, a coal expert with the Department of Energy, said. "There'll be some pressure on oil...It'll probably put pressure on the dollar."

Australia, the world's second largest exporter at about 47 million tons a year, still is recovering from a seven-month miners' strike last year.

Internal strife in Poland between the government and the independent trade union Solidarity has cut so sharply into the nation's coal production that Poland now is importing coal. Some of the coal is coming from the United States, although the National Coal Association, an industry group, could not say exactly how much. Poland has been exporting about 44 million tons of coal a year.

Mines in Canada and South Africa, the other big coal exporters, are already near top production, and some nations refuse to trade with South Africa because of its apartheid racial policy.

"Suddenly those purchases have been diverted to the U.S. We've never experienced that much demand for coal before and suddenly we're overwhelmed," said William Kruppa, a Commerce Department official.

East Coast ports, unable to cope quickly with the increased flow of coal through their facilities, have become bottlenecks for foreign coal shipments. Some colliers have been waiting for up to 80 days to load.

But now the strike has cut U.S. coal production from 17 million tons a week to seven million tons, Kruppa said. Although UMW miners produce less than half of the nation's coal, picketing is expected to reduce non-union coal output sharply, he said.

U.S. coal exports, which rose from 64.7 million tons in 1979 to 89.9 million tons in 1980, had been expected to reach 97 million tons in 1981, according to the coal association.

"If it's a long strike you can knock that figure into a cocked hat," Kruppa said.

Electric power stations, which stockpiled coal in anticipation of a strike, have an average 108-day supply on hand, according to Commerce Department figures. But scattered power shortages could occur after a month, Kruppa said.

While some utilities, such as the American Electric Power System which serves seven Midwestern and Appalachian states, have reserves for 140 days, some plants have less than half that amount. David Boonin, an economist with the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, said Pennsylvania Power & Light, for example, has reserves for only 60 days.

Although some officials have predicted warm weather could soften the effects of a prolonged strike, Richard Newcomb, an economist at West Virginia University, noted that the biggest power demand usually comes in the summer because of air conditioning.

The biggest impact will be on Eastern coal states, where thousands of miners and workers in coal-related industries are left without paychecks.

LAST SHIFT — The last shift of miners to work prior to the United Mine Workers strike, walk out of the Flat Gap mine near Norton Virginia, last Thursday. The workers of the Flat Gap mine joined 10,500 active Virginia UMW members in a strike against the Soft Coal Operators.

Desert battles

Major war games beginning on Texas-New Mexico border

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — About 21,000 troops get a taste of desert warfare today as major war games begin along the Texas-New Mexico border.

The mock war, called Border Star '81, is one of four major exercises held this year by the United States Readiness Command, which is responsible for the preparedness of the nation's military.

The different sides in the war games began setting up communications networks Thursday. The actual shooting starts today and will continue through next week.

Most of the 21,000 troops involved are from nearby Fort Bliss and from Fort Polk, La., but units from all branches of the military will participate.

"This is what's called a free play exercise," said Air Force Lt. Col. Richard Beaudry. "We give them general missions and guidance and it's up to them to figure out the tactical maneuvers. We don't tell them where, when or anything like that."

The forces involved will include infantry, artillery, tanks and airplanes. Also utilized will be the Hawk ground-to-air missiles.

Beaudry was quick to point out that much of the war is on paper and that few of the exercises will involve live ammunition.

"Safety is paramount," Beaudry said. "You can't teach anybody anything if they're dead." Beaudry said all live fire will be confined to firing ranges where there won't be any troops.

"Yeah, if you get in the wrong place out there you could end up all over the place," he said.

The live fire will include the firing of the Hawk missiles, which will be aimed at unmanned drones flown across the firing range.

Most of the maneuvers will center around the two armies formed from the units participating in the games. The units from Fort Polk will be the "friendly forces" and the units from Fort Bliss will be the opposition forces. Beaudry said the opposition armies will be marked with a red patch for identification.

CUNNINGHAM OIL COMPANY

POST OFFICE BOX 1710 • BIG SPRING, TEXAS 79720
PHONE 915: 267-2162

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF BIG SPRING

I offer my services as a candidate for the school board because I have a continuing interest in education and community affairs. I have been active in community activities in recent years; such as executive regional director for the American Diabetes Association of West Texas. Currently, I am a member of the American Cancer Society Board of Directors and am its campaign chairman for 1981, and president of the West Side Day Care Center. I also serve as financial advisor for the Immaculate Heart of Mary School. I am a graduate of Big Spring High School and Howard College, and have completed graduate work from U.T.P.B. in Odessa. I am affiliated with the DECA Alumni Association and the Chamber of Commerce and am currently president and director of Cunningham Development Corp. and president of Cunningham Oil Company. I have been a resident of Big Spring all of my life except for a short period of time when my wife and I lived in Midland. I married the former Iris Ann Tollett and we reside at No. 10 Glenwick Cove.

I am writing to tell you how seriously I consider my candidacy for a place on the Big Spring Independent School Board of Trustees. Believe me, I am aware how important this is and what a responsibility it carries. There are many reasons why I am asking for the chance to serve you. First, I want to do what I can to equip our most valuable asset-our children! To me, this boils down to concentrating on the chief aim of our schools-to provide opportunity for effective education. I think this takes place primarily at the point of contact between teacher and pupils, and between those who support teachers in maintaining our school facilities and services, therefore my priority is to support our school staff.

As a businessman, I have learned about the necessity of sound management, and of conserving and wisely using our resources. Certainly, I am cost conscious, but I believe that it is important to stress the use of our funds to the point of delivery for educations-teachers and supervisors in their work with students. I want to do what I can to encourage our teachers to have a chance to be effective to their utmost.

Another reason I am asking to serve as a trustee is because I realize that it is necessary for my generation to be involved, to serve and to learn. And when I sense that I have made my contribution, I will move on to make way for someone else to have the opportunity.

Making a responsible trustee will take time, and I have resolved to give every minute necessary to do the best job I know how. My door is always open to you. I will listen, and work with you so our children can get an education that will enable them to function honorably and well in a complex and changing society. Thanks for taking time to read my appeal, and thanks for your consideration of my candidacy.

Respectfully Yours,

Grady L. Cunningham

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Milk price supports serve an important purpose in American agriculture. They assure that we have an adequate supply of pure, wholesome and fresh milk every day.

Under the price support system, the government buys surplus milk at a specified price level. That means dairy farmers can be assured of — and plan on the basis of — a stable price. And that, in turn, means there always is sufficient fresh milk to meet our needs.

However, in recent months, production in milk has increased beyond the level which can be consumed, and the government is having to buy more milk than it can use in all of its social programs. Storage costs alone are now running at half a million dollars a day.

The reasons for this surplus go beyond the price support level, and are affected by low prices for cattle which normally would be winnowed out of dairy herds. Even so, it makes little sense to increase the support level further to encourage still more production when those levels already are too high.

Therefore, the Administration recommended, and the Senate has agreed, that the scheduled April increase in the price support level be suspended. That action will save an estimated $147 million this fiscal year.

Before I voted for this measure, I looked carefully at its projected consequences. The evidence indicates the impact on producers will be moderate. In fact, cash receipts from milk sales will rise about 12 percent in this fiscal year without the increase, compared to a projected 14 percent if it were allowed to go into effect.

Further, the money to be saved is an essential part of the Administration's economic recovery program. As I said earlier, many of the problems facing the dairy industry are caused by the overall economic crisis. If, then, we are able to institute the economic recovery plan in full, we will attack the dairy industry's problems at their real roots.

Unfortunately, the debate in the Senate on this issue was complicated with a variety of amendments, most notably one to ban imports of a by-product called casein. This substance is used in non-dairy substitutes. I opposed that amendment for two reasons; I believed that it was not an integral part of the milk support issue — and in fact would not have had a major impact on the amount of surplus milk in this country. But, more importantly, not enough information is yet available to make an intelligent decision on the issue. The Congress is to receive a report on the implications of casein imports in June. At that time, we will look very carefully at the issue. If it is apparent that the import ban is necessary, certainly I will support it.

At this time of economic crisis, we must all pull together. We must look beyond our short-term individual interests to the larger national good and our own long-term benefit. I am convinced that the American people, especially Texans, are ready to do that.

But let me reassure you that I am and will continue to be aware of the importance of agriculture to our nation and state, and will work to help our valuable producers cope with their problems.

Dear Abby

Son Fights Ex-Wife For Ex-Parents

DEAR ABBY: During my 12-year marriage to Diana, my parents grew to love her and regard her as their daughter. We have two children.

The problem is that now that Diana and I are divorced, my parents continue to treat her as their daughter, but I am treated like an outcast!

They believe Diana's accusations that our divorce was caused by another woman. (It was not.) They will not invite Diana to visit them — with or without the children — but I am invited only occasionally, even to family gatherings. (Diana is always there.)

Now that I am seeing a woman about whom I am serious, my parents insist that she broke up my marriage, and they refuse to even meet her! This is very unfair to me as well as to my fiancée.

What can I do? I am terribly hurt by my parents' lack of trust in me. I still love them and don't want to give up all hope of restoring our once loving relationship, but must I forever have to fight against my ex-wife for my parents' love and acceptance?

HURT IN NASHVILLE

DEAR HURT: I hope not. But there's nothing you can do except leave the lines open for communication. Let your parents know that you love them, miss them and (like Delta) you are ready when they are.

DEAR ABBY: You've printed letters from wives and "other women," but I've never seen one from an "other woman" who is being dumped for another "other woman," so this could be a first.

Tom is an ex-priest who gave up the priesthood and married soon after. He was 50 and knew very little about sex. I met him shortly after he was married and we fell in love. That's when his "lessons" began. He was a slow learner. It took me three years to make an accomplished lover of him. (He was very inhibited.)

Imagine my surprise when he introduced me to his new girlfriend! We struck up an immediate friendship, and I discovered that he is using the same line on her that he used on me. I don't want to interfere with his marriage (he has a small child), but I feel sorry for the new girlfriend because I know the heartache she is in for.

Should I have a private talk with her and tell her what a funk he is? Or should I let her be hurt as I was?

DOUBLE DUPED

DEAR DUPED: Regardless of your motivation, your warnings will be unappreciated, misunderstood and probably unheeded. Let the lady learn the hard way.

...

DEAR ABBY: My father's mother married my mother's father. It was a second marriage for both of them. Now the problem: My father's mother wants to be buried with her first husband, but my mother's father wants to be buried with her — his present wife. The family is trying to stay out of it, but we want to know how you think this should be settled as there is considerable arguing about it.

DADDY'S DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Stay out of it. This should be decided by the couple concerned. If a man or woman prefers to be buried with a first spouse, that preference should be honored without argument or discussion.

Mrs. Jerry Clayton honored at miscellaneous bridal shower

Mrs. Jerry Clayton, the former Charlotte Abe of Cumberland, Md., was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower Tuesday evening in the Fellowship Hall of East Fourth St. Baptist Church. The honoree and her mother-in-law, Mrs. W.L. Clayton, were presented apricot colored carnation corsages tied with brown net and ribbon. Kathy Harrell registered guests at a table covered with a brown polyester cloth edged in ecru lace. A large apricot colored candle, based in a candle ring of apricot colored silk flowers, stood on the table next to the register book. Mrs. Gloria Garcia assisted the bride in opening gifts.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a brown cloth similar to that used on the register table. An arrangement of apricot and brown silk flowers in a crystal bowl centered the table, flanked by apricot candles in crystal holders. Miniature wedding bells tied with apricot ribbon were draped over the corners and from the front of the table. Crystal and silver serving appointments were used.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Billy Rudd, Mrs. J.J. Willingham, Mrs. Dick Davis, Mrs. David Rhoton, Mrs. R.G. Adkins, Mrs. W.F. Harrell, Mrs. Roy Hester, Mrs. Loy Anderson, Mrs. H.D. Stewart, Mrs. Harold Cain, Mrs. Wm. S. Rudd, Mrs. Mike Stewart, Mrs. Royce Griffith, Mrs. Edward Slate, Mrs. R.E. Wilson and Mrs. Reuben Hill. The hostess gift was a decorator shower curtain with matching rings, a box of guest soap to match the design in the shower curtain, and the Bride's Book, used to register guests.

Mr. Clayton and Miss Abe were married in San Angelo, Jan. 26.

LIFESAVING JEWELRY: The Medic Alert emblem can be worn as either a bracelet or necklace. It is primarily used by those who have diabetes, hypertension, heart problems, or a serious allergy to medication. Medical Alert is a non-profit, tax exempt organization which receives no state or federal funding, and is supported through members and other volunteers.

Hidden medical conditions can be identified with Medic Alert

Turlock, Cal. — Linda Collins' reaction some 25 years ago to an antitoxin sensitivity test nearly cost her life but that incident has contributed to the saving of thousands of other lives as Medic Alert Foundation International now celebrates its silver anniversary of emergency medical identification services.

From the first "paper notes" pinned to the clothes worn by Linda Collins to the present day, bracelets and necklaces that identify over 1.7 million Medic Alert members worldwide, Medic Alert has sought to fulfill the goal of its founder, Dr. Marion C. Collins — a goal of saving lives by identifying hidden medical problems.

What started as a makeshift operation in the Collins' Turlock home in 1956 is today an international organization with 14 affiliated countries participating in the non-profit and charitable operation. Now, supported mainly by contributions from Medic Alert members, the Foundation has a new, modern facility from which future membership and service expansion is assured.

"Nothing could be more satisfying than to know that our members believe in the program so much that they insured its continuing growth by their contributions to the building fund," says Chrissie Collins, wife of the deceased Medic Alert founder and herself a member of the Foundation Board of Directors.

Looking back, Mrs. Collins feels one of the greatest achievements for Medic Alert has been in the area of communications. Response time to emergency inquiries has greatly improved, she says, since Medic Alert switched from manual filing of member data to microfilming in 1968. "It used to take anywhere from two to three minutes to access information from our manual files, now the same activity requires less than 30 seconds," Mrs. Collins reports. This improvement has been achieved while membership has risen 300 percent over the 500,000 membership total which existed at the time when the system was changed from manual to microfilm.

Mrs. Collins also points out that computer printout of member records enables Medic Alert to provide better service, keep records much more current and update member information faster.

Linda Collins is pleased with the growth of Medic Alert over the past 25 years but she says much more can, and needs, to be accomplished.

"With one out of five people having a hidden medical condition, that's more than 40 million people just in the U.S. who would benefit from Medic Alert membership — which means we have barely scratched the surface in terms of potential."

The credibility and success of Medic Alert, however, has also attracted imitators in the past few years, especially over the counter "look alike," says Linda Collins. "In some cases, I think the public is being confused and misled. They believe what they are getting is Medic Alert when in actuality they are only 'buying' a bracelet with no service backing it up," she points out.

She encourages the public to be aware of the differences between Medic Alert and other medical identification systems available today. She is especially wary of those who are looking to profit from bracelet sales with no quality control or record-keeping program.

One specific difference that Collins says exists between Medic Alert and others is the personalized information that Medic Alert prints on its member's identification, and which is registered as part of the member's confidential file. Some members, she says, have multiple health problems that their bracelet or necklace identify.

For information about Medic Alert, write Turlock, Cal. 95381.

Thai coup crushed by troops

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Troops loyal to Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda seized control of this Thai capital today and crushed a two-day-old coup attempt by rebel generals. Two people were killed and five were injured in brief fighting.

The deaths were the first reported in six coups or attempted coups since 1971.

A passing civilian and one rebel soldier were killed when loyalists returned the fire of rebel troops at the royal palace, military and official sources said, adding that the civilian was killed by a stray bullet. Three other rebels were injured in the brief struggle, the sources said.

Later in the day, two more rebels were slightly wounded when they tried to run a road block, witnesses said.

The 60-year-old Prem, who had strong support from the Thai royal family, ordered his troops to march on Bangkok after all-night negotiations with rebel leader Gen. Sant Chitpatima produced no results, military sources said.

The loyalist forces met no opposition until they reached the royal palace.

At the same time, Prem ordered troops within the city who had not openly supported the coup to take control of the approximately 30 radio and television stations in Bangkok. They complied and met no resistance.

Less than two hours after Prem's forces closed the airport and swept into the city in the early morning, the coup leaders fled or were captured.

Government forces surrounded the last band of about 300 rebels at army headquarters. The rebels gave up without a fight after an hour-long standoff and returned to their barracks to the cheers of thousands of civilians who had gathered in the area, witnesses said.

Israngkul Na Ayuttaya, surrendered to Prem at the prime minister's emergency headquarters in Korat, 150 miles to the northeast, the government radio reported.

Four other coup leaders were under government "protection," according to a government radio report.

"The matter has ended peacefully," Prem said in a statement released in Korat. "The officers and troops who joined in the coup were misguided, but it indicated they were well-disciplined and obey their commanders."

"I will give fair judgment to all. Let us forget what happened and look to the future and continue to work for our country," the statement said.

Texas Business Magazine to take look at Big Spring

Andrea Gale of Dallas, associated with Texas Business Magazine, was in Big Spring Thursday gathering information for an article on Big Spring, Midland and Odessa, which will appear in the publication's June issue.

'It was not an easy vote'

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Some of the votes that I make on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives are easy ones and the reasoning behind them clear to all concerned. Other votes require a great deal of thought and a careful balancing of long-range good as opposed to a more attractive but, in the long run, less beneficial solution.

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm Congressional Comment

This week I made what will probably be the first of several such votes during this Session of Congress, when the House voted to forego the scheduled April 1 increase in dairy price supports. It was not an easy vote and was made knowing that the short-range effect on dairy farmers would be adverse. Nevertheless, in light of the absolute necessity to cut federal spending, I could not support an increase that I felt would, in the long run, lead to the demise of the entire dairy program as we now know it.

that milk for which there is a market demand at the 80 percent level.

I have supported and will continue to support the Dairy Program principles and feel that 80 percent parity-plus is a fair, sustainable and necessary price goal. I do believe, however, that if we are going to battle inflation and decrease government spending, we must make cuts across the board and to do this there must be adjustments made at this time to control excess supplies of milk that the general public is unwilling to finance.

and to get supplies under control. To accomplish that objective, we must place the full burden of the surplus on those who produce it. We have to maintain a reserve, but we cannot continue to have a totally open-ended program at a fixed price.

With those facts in mind, I am going to be working during the coming days and weeks on dairy legislation and, at the same time, will continue to vote against increases in overall federal spending. I believe we can retain the most vital portions of the dairy program that are necessary to guarantee the producer a fair price, while also balancing supply with demand and reducing budget exposure.

During the House Agriculture Committee discussion on this issue, an amendment was made to forego the April 1 adjustment to 80 percent of parity, but set a price floor at 75 percent of parity.

Approval of that floor level, I strongly believe, would have given a signal to the administration that the dairy industry could continue to survive at the lower level. I felt that such a signal would drastically hurt our chances of getting legislation passed in the Farm Bill that would allow the producer to sell the 1981 Farm Bill, I will be working toward finetuning the current program, adding provisions based on a sliding scale of parity that will both guarantee the producer a fair price, while also balancing supply with demand through market mechanisms.

Dairying has been one of the few profitable agricultural industries for some time. The problem is the surplus that we have at present. In the recent past, there has been no incentive to cut back on production

As the reality of the full impact of proposed budget cuts begins to be felt across the country, I am confident that dairymen will realize that they have not been singled out to make special sacrifices as we deal with our economic problems. There are few Americans who will not be effected by the cuts necessary to restore economic balance to our country.

Intended 'serious harm'

Gunman used exploding bullets in Reagan assassination try

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gunman who shot President Reagan apparently used super-deadly, exploding bullets, and one of them could have blown up as doctors pulled it from Reagan's chest, the FBI says.

"Our seat-of-the-pants determination is that all six bullets were devastator (exploding) bullets," FBI spokesman Roger Young said early today of the .22-caliber shots fired Monday's attack.

gunman intends to do serious harm to his victim. FBI spokesman Ed Gooderham said today the only maker the agency was aware of is Bingham Ltd. of Norcross, Ga.

The Washington Star reported today that the FBI knew as early as Monday evening, just hours after the assassination attempt, that explosive bullets might have been used. Agents searching the hotel room where accused assailant John W. Hinckley Jr. spent the previous night found an empty cartridge box marked "Devastator," the newspaper said, but it added there was no explanation why it took 72 hours for the FBI to notify medical authorities.

Agents went to the Washington Hospital Center on Thursday to recommend that surgeons remove the bullet that had lodged near the spine of District of Columbia policeman Thomas Delahanty, who also was wounded in the assassination attempt. Doctors had thought of leaving the bullet in the officer's neck.

agent for further tests.

Young said the bullet that ricocheted off the presidential limousine and came to rest several inches from Reagan's heart "did not fragment," but he could not say why it remained intact. Another shot hit the rear window of the limousine and "simply disintegrated," Young said.

Young said the bullet which lodged in the brain of White House press secretary James S. Brady broke into four pieces, leading investigators to believe it was a devastator bullet.

"Chances are good the Brady bullet blew up," Young said.

A final analysis to determine whether the bullets were explosive was expected to be completed today, Young said.

Asked if he could rule out the possibility that the bullet in Reagan's lung might have blown up as surgeons worked to remove it, Young said: "I can't say that. ... It could explode on the table."

Dr. Howard Champion, director of the Washington Hospital Center's shock-trauma unit, said exploding bullets are significantly more deadly than ordinary bullets, particularly when they explode on impact. And such an explosion in an operating room, he said, could seriously injure anyone in the vicinity, not just the patient.

Most exploding bullets are hollowed out at the tip, filled with an explosive charge similar to that used in a normal gun cartridge and are meant to explode on impact.

In a tense, 2 1/2-hour operation, three surgeons removed the bullet shortly before midnight Thursday and gave it to a waiting FBI

Classmate recalls Hinckley was popular in high school

DALLAS (AP) — A friend of John Warnock Hinckley's from junior high school through college says a dramatic change in Hinckley's personality is the most likely explanation for the behavior of the accused presidential assailant.

"I went through school with John W. Hinckley and was proud to call him my friend," Kirk Dooley wrote in Thursday's edition of The Dallas Morning News.

His former classmates are "haunted by memories of the other John Hinckley" who managed the eighth grade basketball team and who was elected president of his seventh- and ninth-grade homerooms at Highland Park Junior High School, Dooley said. Hinckley must have "drifted into a

"On Track" is an official column prepared by the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., and lists the various events and meetings being held in conjunction with the upcoming Big Spring-Howard County Centennial to be held May 21-30. Individuals wishing to list their activities and events in this column are asked to call Mel Prather at 267-6373, or bring their items by Citizens Federal Credit Union.

PHOTOS FOR COMMEMORATIVE BOOK: All division, committee, and special day chairpersons, as well as other officials of the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., are asked to make arrangements with Zone 10 Photographic Studio at 208 Owens to have their official centennial photos taken Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

These photos will be printed in the commemorative book, which will be going to press on April 15. Officials should wear their old-style clothes when having the photos taken and can make the appointments by calling 263-8847. There will also be a makeup day on Friday, April 10.

BROCHURE OF EVENTS: The official brochure listing the many centennial events will be mailed to residents of Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, and surrounding communities beginning April 15. Due to the increase in the number of brochures that will be needed to mail to these other areas, the cutoff date for submitting a listing of centennial activities and events has been changed from April 10, to April 8. All groups, organizations, and special events day chairpersons are reminded that they must get their activities and events turned into the Centennial Store-Headquarters by Wednesday, to have them included in the centennial brochure. Persons turning in the event, as well as the time, place, and date the event will be held.

Let me give you a little of my background. I am a native — a third generation Big Springer. I received my education here, and I operate my own insurance business here. Like me, my wife is a native of Big Spring, and we have 3 children. So you can see that I have more than a casual or sudden interest in seeing Big Spring grow and progress.

It has been my good fortune to serve in several civic capacities, and to have been asked to head our United Way appeal, and then respond to an invitation to chair a successful effort to gain voter approval for much-needed fundamental city improvements.

I have a real pride in my city, and I feel like City Government is one of the best tools for providing good services and security, also in making us competitive with other area cities.

During the capital improvements campaign, I think I learned much about the City that will help me to be an effective councilman and to follow through on what we have started. I am convinced that we still have a lot of potential, and I want to do what I can to realize it. If you feel that way about Big Spring, I hope you'll give me your support.

Carter says 'cheap handguns' should be regulated in U.S.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gun-owner Jimmy Carter says the federal government should register the kind of cheap handgun used in the attempt on President Ronald Reagan's life.

"I've always been for registration of handguns which are designed to shoot people exclusively. I own shotguns and rifles and I have a pistol I use for hunting and target practice. I think the registration of Saturday night specials and other handguns of that kind would be very good for our country," the former president said Thursday.

Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, were guests of Lady Bird Johnson for a two-day Texas trip featuring a night at the LBJ Ranch and a day at the Johnson Library. Carter is collecting ideas for a library to house his presidential papers.

Big Spring manufacturers to display products Monday

Big Spring manufacturers will display samples of their products at the Chamber of Commerce Community Luncheon scheduled Monday in the East Room of the Garrett Coliseum.

Tickets for the luncheon cost $4 each. The local sponsor is Radio Station KBST.

Two door prizes of $25 each will be given away. In addition, a Chamber member present has a chance to win $250 in cash, if his or her name is drawn. If the person whose name is drawn is absent, the drawing will continue until a member wins $50.

The buffet serving line opens at 11:45 a.m. The program gets under way at 12 noon.

The luncheon commemorates Texas Business and Industry Week, which started Wednesday and continues through April 7.

Presidents who insist on shaking hands in large crowds make it difficult for Secret Service agents to do their job, Carter said.

"They don't try to build a wall around a president like myself. They try to give me the right to appear here in public and shake hands with the people I meet, ... at the same time protecting my life and safety," Carter said.

He credited Secret Service agents for "the good results of a very serious threat" to President Reagan on Monday in Washington.

"They are men and women of courage and deep dedication," Carter said. "They operate under an almost impossible assignment with presidents of this free country insisting on direct access to literally tens of thousands of Americans every year."

Carter said he and Johnson never met, "but coming to his home and being with his wife ... is the second best thing for me to knowing him personally."

Mrs. Johnson maintains two residences, an Austin apartment and a home on the LBJ Ranch at Stonewall, 65 miles west of here. At a news conference outside the Johnson Library at the University of Texas, Carter called Mrs. Johnson "the greatest hostess in the United States."

Carter staff members have visited each of the presidential libraries. On Monday, Carter and the staff will meet at his Plains, Ga., home to begin planning the Carter library, which will be just east of Atlanta.

CARTERS VISIT TEXAS — Former President Jimmy Carter and his wife Rosalynn share a laugh with Lady Bird Johnson, right, on the porch of the LBJ Boyhood home Wednesday after arriving for an overnight visit to the LBJ Ranch in Stonewall. The Carters will tour the LBJ Library in Austin Thursday.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL UNDER-ACHIEVERS

Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh.

Galatians 5:16

Columnist Lynn Ashby of the Houston Post kicked off a contest in which readers were asked to complete this statement: "We can send a man to the moon, but..." He suggested the following as examples: "We can send a man to the moon, but we can't invent a machine small enough to carry in our pocket which will buzz a warning every time we're about to make a fool of ourselves; we can't come up with a self-returning library book, or self-destructing junk mail." In the area of transportation, he suggested, "We can send a man to the moon, but we can't keep people from throwing litter out of their car windows."

In a more sober vein, we see a similar irony in our Christian lives. Our performance is usually far below our potential. For instance, we can talk about being related to God who is all-powerful, yet lack the self-control to keep our mouths shut, to push ourselves away from the table, or to turn off the television set. We boast of the Heavenly Father's willingness to stoop down and look at us with patient mercy, but we find it difficult to express the same kind of forbearance if we think someone doesn't deserve our attention.

Why is it that our potential for Christ is often contradicted by foolish little frustrations that are so inconsistent with our heavenly calling? The answer is clear. The world and its sinful attractions are too dear to us. To achieve spiritually, we must apply the principle set forth by the apostle Paul: "Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh."

Steers, Lee meet here tomorrow in key game

By NATHAN POSS Sports Editor
The Big Spring Steers and the Midland Lee Rebels hook up tomorrow afternoon in Steer Park with the first half baseball lead in District 5-AAAAA on the line. Game time is two o'clock.

WATCHING PROGRESS

Nyambui's watch collection. However, the most crowd pleasing relays should be the 400-meter relay and the university 1,600-meter relay.

Defending 400-meter relay champion Texas A&M has a season's best of 39.8 seconds but Houston could contend should sophomore sensation Carl Lewis choose to run.

The Cougars won the 1980 Southwest Conference 400-meter relay over the Aggies. Florida State with Bobby Butler and Walter McCoy back from a team that placed third in the 1980 NCAA should also contend.

The Aggies were the defending champions in the 1,600-meter relay with James Washington and Leslie Kerr returning from last year's first place team.

In the 800-meter relay, Louisiana State was scheduled back with Orlando McDaniel and Efron Coley on hand.

The 54th Texas Relays could also produce some thrills for fans who enjoy the sweaty laborers out in the field such as Southern Methodist's Michael Carter in the shot put and world indoor record holder Lewis in the long jump.

"We'll have 10 or 11 competitors who set national indoor records," said Cleburne Price, Texas track coach and Relays' director.

NCAA champion Randy Hall of Texas A&M was the big threat in the pole vault along with Brad Bursley of Abilene Christian and Terry Porter, the 1976 Olympian from Kansas.

In the high jump, Olympian Jimmy Howard of Texas A&M, who jumped 7-4 for his personal best, was in Austin.

Baylor's Todd Harbour, winner of the 1979 Jerry Thompson Mile and second the last two years in the NCAA 1,500-meter run, will certainly bear watching, particularly on the Bears' relay teams.

Price was hoping a steady drizzle which splashed Austin late Thursday would clear away by Friday night when the meet gets into full swing.

IF ONLY THEY COULD BE USED DURING GAMES — Dallas Cowboys' defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones and defensive lineman Bruce Thornton, right, practice the Filipino martial art of stick fighting at a veterans orientation session in Dallas Wednesday. Their instructor, a Filipino martial arts expert, says the stick fighting moves will help the defensive linemen get through the opposing offensive line.

BSHS tracksters get 5-5A taste in Tall City Relays

MIDLAND — Both the Big Spring High School boys and girls track teams will get somewhat of a preview for the District 5-AAAAA Meet later this month here today and tonight when they compete in the Tall City Relays at Memorial Stadium.

The one-day affair is not a large one, but most of the teams are caliber outfits, with five District 5-AAAAA units competing in both the boys and girls divisions.

The Big Spring boys will compete in a seven team field which has all of the 5-AAAAA track leaders at present, with the exception of the pole vault. That is because Odessa Permian's boys are not in competition here. The seven team boys field consists of Big Spring, Midland, Midland Lee, San Angelo, Odessa High, Amarillo and Amarillo Tascosa.

Although there is no set favorite, it appears that San Angelo and Tascosa would be the frontrunners, although Midland and Lee could use their home town fans to advantage.

Big Spring brings a pair of 5-AAAAA leaders at present to the meet in the form of Edwin Matthews and Greg Jones. Matthews has the best long jump in 5-AAAAA, while Jones the top shot put.

Others expected to score points for the Big Spring team include Bobby Earl Williams, Joe Hicks, Tommy Madigan, Pat Connelly, and Javier Calderon.

The Steers have good potential in many areas, but depth has been somewhat of a problem thus far. They overcame that, however, last week in placing third in the always rugged San Angelo Relays.

The Big Spring ferns are one of five teams in the girls division, and all of the squads here are 5-AAAAA units from the Permian Basin. Besides the Steer girls paced by the versatile Carla Jackson, other teams entered include Midland, Midland Lee, Odessa and Odessa Permian.

These five girls teams have not all competed against each other thus far, and the winner would have to be considered among the 5-AAAAA favorites, along with Abilene Cooper.

Jackson has once again been one of the leading girls performers in West Texas. The talented BSBS junior who has dazzled her competition in the past two years is ranked in the top 4 in West Texas in her three individual events, and has helped the BSBS sprint relay and 800 meter relay quartet to among the top in the area.

Jackson has long jumped 19'2" this year, second best in West Texas and fourth best in the state, and has a West Texas best of 36'6" in the long jump. She has also run a 12.4 100-meter.

Other Steer girls with good chances to win their respective events include Shell Rutledge and Elise Wheat.

The prelims for the Tall City Relays were set for 2:30 p.m. today, with the finals beginning at seven tonight.

Philly faces Bucks next

76ers stop Pacers year

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers' playoff experience, and Indiana's lack of it, helped end the Pacers' first-ever appearance in the National Basketball Association playoffs with a two-game 76ers sweep.

Philadelphia's Julius Erving had a game-high 23 points as the 76ers advanced to the Eastern Conference semifinals against Milwaukee with a 96-85 victory over Indiana Thursday night.

The Bucks' 76ers series will open Sunday in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia led all the way against Indiana, turning back the Pacers' attempts to rally in the second half.

"We got up on them, they challenged us, but we had enough to reach back," said Erving. "Our playoff experience helped us."

The victory gave Philadelphia an 8-0 record against the Pacers this season — six of the victories coming in the regular season and two in the playoffs.

"Playoff experience might have been the difference," agreed Indiana Coach Jack McKinney, who guided the Pacers to their first winning berth and first playoff berth since the team joined the NBA in 1976. "We did make a lot of costly errors and we missed a lot of nice shots."

The Pacers shot just 36 percent from the field, making 35 of 91 shots.

"We were right there in the game," said Indiana guard Johnny Davis, who topped the Pacers with 21 points. "But we made a few mistakes in the fourth quarter that enabled them to build the lead back. From then on it was an uphill struggle."

Indiana, which trailed 52-41 at halftime, closed to within three points, 68-65, with 1:35 remaining in the third quarter. Darryl Dawkins then scored the final points of the period on a layup to start a 9-0 Philadelphia spurt. Dawkins also got the final basket of the surge to give the 76ers a 77-65 advantage with 10:29 remaining.

"The key was that we played defense as well as you can play it early in the fourth quarter," said Cunningham. "Our aggressive defense was magnificent. We helped each other and closed off the lanes."

Cunningham and Dawkins both said an improved performance by Indiana center James Edwards made victory more difficult than Tuesday, when the 76ers coasted to a 124-108 triumph in the first game of the best-of-three series. Edwards was scoreless in the first game but had 14 points this time.

"Edwards was a different ballplayer tonight," said Cunningham. "We couldn't give our centers any help and we got in foul trouble."

"They looked to go to Edwards more tonight," said Dawkins. "He moved around a lot more. It did create some problems and he got a lot of good screens."

When they host LA in biggie

Rockets want Moses for promised leader

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets Coach Del Harris is calling for a revival, exhorting his flock with the fervor of a tent preacher to follow Moses Malone into the promised land with a sweep of the defending NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers and a second-round playoff berth.

"I just asked them to play this game like it was the last game the Lord would ever let us play," Harris said.

Malone pumped in 38 points and pulled down 23 rebounds as the Rockets dealt a surprising 111-107 blow Wednesday night to the Lakers, who must win tonight or be eliminated from the playoffs and lose their chance at consecutive NBA titles — a feat not accomplished in more than a decade.

The 6-foot-10 Malone consistently outplayed his counterpart, Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who finished with 21 points, 15 rebounds and several costly mistakes.

The result proved shocking since the Lakers ended the regular season 54-28 and the Rockets only 40-42.

"They played really hard and they wanted to win. They got their confidence up ... and got the ball in low to Moses. Anytime he gets the ball in that deep — forget it," said the Lakers' Earvin "Magic" Johnson, star of last year's NBA finals.

But Houston's 26-year-old star also had a little help. Calvin Murphy came off the bench and tossed in 19 points.

Midland girls claim title

The Midland High girls golf team capped their 1981 District 5-AAAAA title here yesterday afternoon at the Comanche Trail Course by firing a final round 351 to boost their final winning total to 69 strokes over second place Midland Lee.

Midland, paced by the duo of Ann Combs and Janice Littlefield, ended the three-week 5-AAAAA girls slate with a 1018 stroke total. Lee was next at 1087 after shooting a 356 on the final day.

The Big Spring Steer girls ended in third place in the 5-AAAAA standings. Coach Howard Stewart's girls had a round of 397 on Thursday, and ended with 1204 strokes in district play.

San Angelo was fourth with a 1283 total.

Pacing the Big Spring charge on Thursday at their home course was Patricia Jones, who had a round of 93. Laura Mexia had a 95, with Lisa Bumgarner and Toni Subia having 101s, Karen Woodall a 108 and Rhonda Woodall a 109.

Mexia and Bumgarner were the top BSBS golfers in the final 5-AAAAA standings, as each finished with 290 strokes.

Combs fired a round of 78 on Thursday to win the medalist honors in 5-AAAAA. She entered the final round one stroke behind Littlefield, but Littlefield's 92 moved her to 250, with Combs finishing at 237.

By virtue of their finishing 1-2 in the team standings, both Midland and Midland Lee will advance on to the Region 1-AAAAA Tourney on April 24 in Lubbock.

Teenage League sign-up tomorrow

The American Teenage League will have its baseball sign-up tomorrow from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. at the Roy Anderson Complex.

All prospective players need to sign up, including the ones that were on teams last year. Players are reminded to bring their birth certificates and the sign-up fee of 10 dollars.

Bucs Berra not scared with 2nd base challenge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
While the Pittsburgh Pirates try to figure out whether their opening-day first baseman will be Jason Thompson or Jim Spencer, they'll get a chance to look at their new second baseman, Dale Berra.

Berra, a utility infielder who has played predominantly at shortstop and third base, aainstalled at second Thursday after Phil Garner, bothered by a sore right shoulder for much of the past two seasons, underwent surgery to repair a torn rim around the socket area.

Berra has no qualms about playing second base despite his lack of experience. "I'm going out there and be aggressive," he said. "I've played second base twice in my life — yesterday and today. But the job doesn't scare me."

The Pirates, who expect their longtime first baseman, Willie Stargell, to be sidelined opening day as well with a knee injury, got all the power they needed Thursday from another first baseman, John Milner.

He followed Tim Lincecum's first-inning double with a two-run homer off Nino Espinosa to beat Philadelphia 2-1 in their exhibition game. The Phils scored off John Candelaria in the fourth on consecutive doubles by Gary Matthews and Keith Moreland.

In that game, Lee hurler Alan Koonce limited the Cooper team to only four hits in recording the shutout. In his other 5-AAAAA start, he lost an extra inning 2-1 contest to Odessa High in which he allowed only five hits and struck out 14.

He was an All-District hurler last year, and has to be considered the top pitcher in 1981. Whether he pitches against the Steers tomorrow remains to be seen. Odds are that he will, as the Rebels face a somewhat weak Permian team on Tuesday.

The Steers will likely send Moe Rubio to the mound. His last appearance was against Midland High, a game the Steers lost in extra innings. If Rubio doesn't start, Coach Frank Ibarra will likely send either Waine Shipman or Tommy Rodriguez to the mound.

The Big Spring-Lee tilt is not the only contest of big first half importance tomorrow, as co-leaders Odessa and Abilene square off on the Eagles home field. In the other contests, Odessa Permian (1-2) hosts Abilene Cooper (2-1) and San Angelo (0-3) travels to Midland (1-2).

TRANSFERRED BIRD — Mark Fidrych, former Detroit Tiger right-hander, relaxes in his room following a 12-mile bicycle ride Wednesday afternoon. "The Bird" was told in an earlier meeting with Tiger general manager Jim Campbell that he cleared waivers and was optioned to the Tigers' Triple A farm club at Evansville, Ind. When asked if he usually rides his bike that distance, Fidrych said, "It depends on the mood I'm in. Just airing the mind out."

Midland College's Charles Johnson named to NJCAA First Team All-American squad

Midland College's Charles Johnson was named to the NJCAA's men's eight-member first team All-Star squad, announced by headquarters Thursday afternoon.

Johnson, a 6-6 performer who can do it all, earned the national distinction after being named as the Western Conference's Most Valuable Player.

The men's first team included one player from runner-up Lincoln, Illinois, but none from the national champion Westark of Arkansas team.

The NJCAA squad is chosen by a national basketball committee from the names submitted by the 22 regional directors following nominations by junior college coaches.

Joining Johnson on the first team were Ronald Jackson of Roxbury, Massachusetts; Greg Wiltjer of North Idaho; Elton Webster of Tyler, Texas; Nelson Johnson of Golden Valley Lutheran, Minnesota; Odell Mosteller of Hiwassee, Tennessee; Fred Watkins of Lincoln, Illinois; and Devi Parks of Arizona Western.

As Pirates, Yankees, Kuhn can't agree

Jason Tompson's site unsettled

NEW YORK (AP) — Jason Tompson, has made it from California to Pittsburgh, is still stalled about 300 miles short of New York and just may spend 1981 in the Steel City instead of the Big Apple.

That's the way Pete Peterson, the general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was talking Thursday night when the Bucs and the Yankees failed to restructure their trade that Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has blocked.

The first half of the three-way deal that was supposed to put Tompson in Yankee pinstripes was approved Thursday by Kuhn. In it, Tompson, a left-handed slugging first baseman, was dealt by the California Angels to Pittsburgh for catcher Ed Ott and pitcher

Mickey Mahler. But the second half — Tompson to the Yankees for veteran first baseman Jim Spencer, minor league pitchers Greg Cochran and Fred Toliver and cash — was halted by the commissioner because the cash exceeded his $400,000 ceiling.

The Yankees reportedly paid — or tried to pay — $50,000 to the Pirates for Tompson, who batted .288 with 21 home runs and 88 runs batted in last year.

"As of now, Jason there is a possibility he might remain a Pirate," Tompson said from Bradenton, Fla., after the end of Thursday's futile talks with the Yankees. They were to resume today and Peterson noted: "I'm not optimistic that we can work it out, but we'll keep trying."

But he defended the trade. The Pirates have been criticized because Tompson, 26, is seven years younger than Spencer and had a far better year than the Yankee veteran. Spencer hit .236 with 13 homers and 43 RBI in 1980.

"We think Spencer can help us a little bit more than Tompson can this year, and we want to win this year," Peterson said. "First, Spencer is an outstanding fielding first baseman and Tompson isn't. Second, Spencer (also a lefty) hits left-handed pitches better than Tompson."

Kuhn has stood pretty firm in his resolve to bat one team from playing more than $400,000 for a single player, a policy he began when Charles O. Finley, the owner of the Oakland A's in the 1970s, tried in vain to peddle several of his superstars.

Wichita Falls company sued by NFL Properties on jerseys

DALLAS (AP) — National Football League lawyers are blitzing a Wichita Falls man in federal court, trying to make him stop selling football jerseys that look almost like the real thing.

An NFL subsidiary, NFL Properties, Inc., of New York, has sued Wichita Falls Sportsweaver, claiming the company markets football jerseys that resemble those worn by NFL teams.

That, says NFL Properties President Robert Carey, violates NFL trademark rights.

But the man who owns the Texas jersey company, Leo Cook, says the shirts he sells carry no team names and he does not try to imply they are official NFL-approved jerseys.

District Court Judge Barbara Rothstein of Seattle, Wash., has ruled in a preliminary hearing Cook may continue to market the jerseys if each contains a tag stating that it is not an official NFL jersey.

Cook says his company is complying with that ruling. Carey, however, says NFL Properties is not satisfied with the ruling and will fight the jersey issue when the case comes up for a full hearing July 6.

Cook says he thinks the NFL subsidiary is picking on his company because it is small — with less than $500,000 worth of jersey business annually. Much larger manufacturing companies are producing similar jerseys in greater volume but have not been sued, he says.

Van Hoose's 9 birdies spotlights Colgate

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Myra Van Hoose, who had a most unpredictable opening round in the $250,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore tournament, predicts more of the same.

"I'm an unpredictable golfer," Van Hoose said Thursday after her sparkling 5-under-par 66 gave her a 3-stroke lead in the Ladies Professional Golf Association's richest tournament. "I'll just try to keep it going."

Van Hoose, the LPGA Rookie of the Year in 1980, carded nine birdies — one short of the women's tour record — and three bogeys en route to the best round of her life. And she did it in chilly winds, gusting to 40 mph, during her first round ever over the 6,242-yard, par 36-36-72 Mission Hills Country Club course.

"I was hitting greens, I hit 16 of them, and rolling in putts," said Van Hoose, who is seeking her first LPGA triumph. "I'm pumped up for this tournament. It's exciting for me to play in it."

Four players — Judy Rankin, Jan Stephenson,

Penny Pulz and Barbara Moxness — had first-round 69s to tie for second place heading into today's second round of the 72-hole event.

Sally Little, Sandra Palmer and Carolyn Hill were another stroke back at 70, while Nancy Lopez-Melton, Jane Blalock and Vicki Ferguson carded opening 71s.

Defending champion Donna Caponi settled for a 74, as did 1981 LPGA earnings leader Pat Bradley. JoAnne Carner, one of the favorites in the tournament, had a 73.

Van Hoose, a 25-year-old native of Lexington, Ky., said she's never led after the first round of a tournament.

"It was nice to look up at the leader board through the round and see my name up there," she said. "My main goal this year is to win a tournament; I'm looking for that first win."

She clipped four strokes off par on the front nine, then, aided by putts of 20, 10, 20, 22 and 35 feet on the back side, carded a scrambling 34.

Bouton didn't stop after Ball Four

By the Associated Press
In 1969, while essaying a baseball comeback at the age of 30, Jim Bouton admitted that he was consumed by the wildest fancies.
"I dream my knuckleball is jumping around like a pingpong ball in the wind," he said, "and I pitch a two-hit shutout against my old team, the New York Yankees, single home the winning run in the ninth inning and, when the game is over, take a big bow on the mound at Yankee Stadium with 60,000 people cheering wildly."

After pitching four consecutive shutouts for the Seattle Pilots, in his ethereal imaginings, he is bought in August by Detroit where he pitches the Tigers to the pennant and gets his picture on the cover of Sports Illustrated as "Comeback of the Year."
Of course, it doesn't happen that way.
Instead, today at age 42 — 43 next Wednesday — he must settle for a different niche in sports history — maverick author, "resident deviant" (his own accolade) and leading manufacturer of bubble-gum.

Jim Bouton is not disappointed.
"I prefer where I am to what I aspired to be," he said. "I am not disappointed that I will not be enshrined in the Hall of Fame."
"Some day, after I'm dead, I hope some kid will read my book in the library and get a realistic picture of baseball. That will be my mark of immortality."

The book is "Ball Four," a revealing treatise of the great American pastime which reflects not only baseball's virtues but its warts and callouses as well.
The baseball establishment didn't like it. Former teammates snubbed him. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, he said, summoned him to the inner sanctum and urged him to apologize and renounce his book as a "bunch of lies." He refused.

He did more than that. He proceeded to write an addenda to that best-selling volume which is going on the book stalls this month. The title is: "Ball Four Plus Ball Five, an Update."
It should make him a bundle. It is every bit as controversial and provocative as the first, detailing the negative reaction of his "kiss and tell" revelations in the first book plus his unusual experiences as a sportscaster.

He also tells how he got into the bubblegum business — an enterprise that may foot the college bills for his restructured family of five kids, aged 15 to 20.
The invention is called "Big League Chew." It's shredded bubblegum in a tobacco-style pouch designed for both grownup players and kids. Little Leaguers can chew and spit just like Luis Tiant and Don Zimmer.

HAMMING IT UP — New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner poses with Yankee fan Patty Martin after Monday's Yanks-Dodgers game in Ft. Lauderdale. Martin — no relation to former Yanks manager Billy — was having her picture made with the owner by her boyfriend while an enterprising professional snapped this one.

In Gymnastics competition

Hartung led Nebraska leads NCAA

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Defending champion Jim Hartung was pleased to find himself atop the all-around standings at the 39th NCAA gymnastics meet, but he was more concerned about something else.
Hartung, a junior from Nebraska, held a slim lead over archrival Bart Conner in the all-around competition after Thursday night's compulsory routines. However, he was even happier about Nebraska's first-place standing in the team race.
"I'm not going to worry about it, I'm not going to think about it," Hartung said of his battle with Oklahoma's Conner. "Our first goal is the team championship. Whatever individual championships come out of that is frosting on the cake."
Hartung, putting together solid routines in every event, compiled 57.80 points in the opening round. Conner, who won the 1978 NCAA title and has beaten Hartung in their three previous all-around meetings, was a shade behind at 57.60.
Sophomore Peter Vidmar of UCLA, runner-up to Hartung a year ago, was next with 57.20 points, followed by Nebraska's Phil Cahoy at 56.90, Ron Galimore of Iowa State at 56.85 and Mitch Gaylord of UCLA at 56.40.

Hartung and Cahoy helped Nebraska to a slight edge in the battle for team honors. The Cornhuskers, who are seeking their third straight championship, had 280.50 points heading into tonight's optional competition. Oklahoma had 279.85 and UCLA 278.60.

Hartung's score was one of his best in compulsory competition, in which all gymnasts perform the same routines. He attributed that to extra work in practice after the Cornhuskers' second place finish to Oklahoma at the Big Eight Conference meet in early March.

But Trevino looks primed for win

Duo share Greensboro lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bill Kratzert and Jay Haas shared the lead in the $300,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament when today's second round began, but it was understandable if they were casting anxious glances over their shoulders.
For there, only a single stroke off the pace, loomed the formidable figure of Lee Trevino.
Only an 18th hole lapse — following a string of five consecutive birdies — kept Trevino away from a tie for the first round lead, set at 68 by Haas and Kratzert.
"I'm starting to strike the ball pretty well again," said Trevino, who rewarded his big gallery with that exciting burst of birdies coming home Thursday on the 6,984-yard Forest Oaks Country Club course.

And, said Trevino, who shot a 3-under-par 69 in the warm, sunny weather, he may have something else going for him.
"I like this golf course," he said. "It's a U.S. Open-type course. They could play the Open here. But if they ever let the rough grow up, it'd take two weeks to finish it."
Trevino, of course, generally recognized as one of the finest shotmakers in golf's history, has a record of success on the tougher courses, the U.S. Open-type courses. He's won the American national championship two times, along with two British Opens, and last year won the Vardon Trophy with the lowest stroke average in 20 years.

"I like these courses where you know nobody is going to burn it up, where par is a good score," Trevino said.
He was tied with George Burns, Larry Nelson, Leonard Thompson, Doug Black and rookie Tim Norris.
Lanny Wadkins topped a big group at 70. Tom Weiskopf, needing a victory here to qualify for next week's Masters, shot a 71. Defending champion Craig Stadler was another stroke back at 72.

Charley Finley sued for suing charge

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago law firm has filed suit against former Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley, claiming he owes more than $42,000 in legal fees as a result of a 1976 court battle.
The firm of Pope, Ballard, Shepard & Fowle claims in the suit, filed Thursday in Cook County Circuit Court, that Finley owes the money for services rendered in his behalf between 1976 and 1978.
At that time Finley was suing baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who had blocked the sale of outfielder Joe Rudi and pitcher Rottier Fingers to the Boston Red Sox for $2 million and pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million. Finley eventually lost the suit.
In its suit, the law firm listed expenses of $5,311 and legal fees of $51,000.
Charles O. Finley and Co., Inc., also named as a defendant in the suit, paid only $13,000 of the total.

SERVING WEST TEXAS OVER 46 YEARS

But Virdon pleased with flamethrower's progress

Astros put JR Richard on disabled list

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — players, the Houston Astros Trimming their roster to 26 have placed veteran pitcher

J.R. Richard on the 60-day disabled list and traded shortstop Mike Fischlin to the Cleveland Indians.

Pitchers Gordie Pladson and Bert Roberge, catcher Alan Knicely and infielder Joe Pittman were assigned to Houston's Class AAA Tucson affiliate.

Manager Bill Virdon made the cuts as the team prepared today to switch its spring exhibition game schedule from Florida to Arizona.

Richard's move to the disabled list had been expected although Virdon has been pleased with the fastballer's progress since suffering a major stroke and undergoing two operations last year. Richard has worked out daily since the start of spring training with an announced objective of returning to the starting rotation.

Rockets could ruin Laker chances at NBA repeat points, including outside shots from 18 feet. Billy Paultz scored 15 and hauled down 10 rebounds.

"I'd be lying to say that our backs aren't against the wall," said Jamaal Wilkes of the Lakers. "The rest of the way isn't going to be easy, but we beat them in Houston twice this year so we're not quite out of it yet. We can't spot them many points ... and still hope to win."

At one point Wednesday night, the Rockets held a 16-point advantage. The Lakers twice cut the margin to two in the second half and with 19 seconds left trailed by three.

Then Mike Dunleavy sank a pair of free throws, only to be matched by a field goal from Johnson at 110-107. Malone's free throw iced the win.

But Paultz fears the embarrassing defeat only intensifies the Lakers' desire for revenge.

"They are going to come in here fighting us like crazy to stay alive. We're going to have to have another exceptional game to beat them," he said.

"But since there are two sides to the issue, they are going to have to play an exceptional game in order to beat us."

A third game, if needed, will be played Sunday afternoon at the Forum.

Hollywood Henderson agrees to pay woman for accident

Former Dallas Cowboys linebacker Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson agreed Thursday to pay $1,000 in court costs arising from a woman's lawsuit against him for injuring her in a traffic accident.

Ellen H. Boyter sought $10,000 in damages from Henderson, but settled for the lesser amount as part of an agreement between her attorney and Henderson's.

Miss Boyter accused Henderson of recklessly driving his car into hers while traveling "at an excessive and unsafe rate of speed" last April 27.

Henderson, who now lives in California, did not appear at the hearing. He was represented by Dallas attorney Charles Caperton.

An impossible dream? Not at all. Men have already gone to the moon and women will follow. This girl, if she really wants to, may be one of them.

If she really wants to. That word "really" is often the key to success. It may take hard work, courage and time, but if a person really wants to achieve, the chance is that they will. But both men and women need strength in order to succeed — the kind of strength that the church offers. Take a look at the record. You will find that some of the greatest pioneers both on earth and in space have also been churchgoers.

Don't you think there must be a reason for it?

HARRY S. TRUMAN RESEARCH INSTITUTE — This institute for the Advancement of Peace is on the Mount Scopus Campus of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Catholic priest chairs Hebrew University's Philosophy Department

Jerusalem — Father Marcel Dubois never dreamed that he would become one of the academic leaders at the world's largest Jewish university when he came to live in Israel 18 years ago. Things just worked out that way.

Today the 60-year-old Dominican monk is the new chairman of Hebrew University's Department of Philosophy, the first non-Jew ever to head an Israeli university department.

Father Dubois resides at Maison Isaie ("Isaiah House"), a small Dominican monastery some 500 meters from the Old City walls. It is surrounded by olive trees, and the whitewashed corridor leading to his second-floor study is decorated with pictures of saints and Holy Land sites. Inside his study, he sits at a desk piled high with books in French, Hebrew, English and Latin. There is a white cassock hanging from a peg on one wall, a crucifix on another. Dressed in modern slacks and a short-sleeved jersey, Father Dubois talks of his "faith in God's love for the Jews" and his commitment to his life in Jerusalem exploring the many facets of that relationship.

"I came to Israel to pursue my study of Jewish philosophy, to play my role in helping to correct 2000 years of Christian damage to the Jewish people," he says.

"My field of specialization led me to give an occasional lecture at the university, however, and in the course of time I was appointed a senior lecturer in the Philosophy Department. "It was nevertheless surprising when I was offered the chairmanship of the department this spring, a pleasant surprise," he confides.

Dubois, born in Flanders, entered the Dominican Order of Roman Catholicism in 1939 at age 18. He took degrees within the educational system of the Order itself and spent one year each at Harvard University and the Vatican's Pontifical University to round out his course work. He was already teaching at his Order's Paris University Saulchoir when the call came from Jerusalem.

"It was a natural concurrence between my personal inclinations and the will of my superiors," he recalls. "I always felt a deep natural affinity for the Jewish people and religion.

Pastor and woman are slain in El Salvador

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — The American Baptist Convention says it has confirmed the killing of one of its pastors in El Salvador, the Rev. Salvador Castro Rodriguez of rural Chapeltique.

He was shot at his desk, apparently by a paramilitary right-wing death squad after he had been reported to the government as a subversive, the denomination says.

An unidentified woman member of the congregation also was reported slain and two other Baptist pastors who had received warnings they would be killed were said to have fled.

The denomination's Latin American specialist, Victor Mercado, says he also has been informed that three

The possibility of coming to Israel strengthened this. And my superiors felt that I was the right person, with the right background, to accomplish a special purpose here."

What precisely is this purpose? "I am able here to learn more about Judaism, the religion; about Jews as people, both religious and non-religious; and about Israel the country, the society." As a token of their commitment, Dr. Dubois and his fellow brothers at Maison Isaie have adopted Israeli citizenship.

There is another Dominican institution in Jerusalem, in the eastern portion of the city. When that section was under Jordanian occupation between 1948 and 1967, contact between the two institutions was all but cut off. Dubois wryly remembers the ironies of the divided city: "When we wanted to see each other — and we wanted to, because some of my former teachers were in the Jordanian part — it was easier to get together in Paris than in Israel!"

Jerusalem is very much on his mind. It is home, the seat not only of Israel's capital but of its academic life. In assessing the changes he has witnessed in Jerusalem, he notes, "The unity of the city since 1967 is of course preeminent. Yet from a strict Catholic view, in spite of the wonderful unity, the city is still divided: between the pulls of tradition and modernity, between the churches that were and are basically anti-Judaic and the ones that want very much to become closer to Jews, and between the churches that serve Palestinian Arabs and those serving Israeli Arab citizens."

Dubois is confident that the "beginning of a new era" is at hand for interfaith relations, but he counsels his students not to push for too much at once. The Pontifical Commission on the Jews and Judaism in 1974, for which he was called to Rome, was a milestone along the path, but it is indeed a long, sometimes tortuous road to traverse.

He feels that the reversal of 20 centuries of wrongs against the Jews cannot take place overnight. Rather, sincere and nonstop efforts must prevail, with the aim of achieving a long-range cumulative effect.

Throughout his philosophy, influenced deeply by St. Thomas Aquinas, a philosopher-priest of days gone by, is Jerusalem's significance for humanity: "Jerusalem is a symbol of longing for unity through a built-in tension of differing values and mentalities. Perhaps this process of seeking unity, not even so much the eventual realization of his dream, is what Jerusalem is all about."

With that said, it is time for Marcel Dubois to start a new day of teaching, learning and living in Israel, his adopted home.

FATHER MARCEL DUBOIS

Four speakers to end ACU's 75th

ABILENE, Texas — A U.S. senator, a former Dallas Cowboys football player and two university presidents have been selected as keynote speakers for a National Christian Education Conference that will be sponsored by Abilene Christian University in July.

Speakers for the conference, which will be conducted July 17-19 on the ACU campus, will be U.S. Sen. Orrin Hatch, a Republican from Utah; Roger Staubach, former quarterback for the Cowboys; Abner McCall, president of Baylor University in Waco, Texas; and William S. Banowsky, president of the University of Oklahoma.

The conference is designed to allow educators in all major areas of Christian education to assemble for a meeting of special interest programs, according to Dr. J.D. Thomas, conference director and professor of Bible at ACU.

The meeting officially will conclude a year-long celebration of Abilene Christian University's 75th anniversary. The university was founded in 1906 as Childers Classical Institute. Since September, 1980 a number of special activities and events have been conducted by ACU to celebrate its history.

Twenty-eight special interest groups are planning to conduct meetings during the July conference. Thomas said, to discuss problems and topics relating to that particular group. All of the groups will participate in the four dinner meetings for which the main speakers are scheduled.

The conference will open July 17 with McCall speaking on "Independent Higher Education." Sen. Hatch will speak at noon July 18 on the subject "Education and the American Way."

Staubach will speak at the evening dinner July 18. His topic will be "Character Building and America's Future."

Banowsky's presentation at noon July 19 will close the education conference and open the four-day Bible Teachers' Workshop, a series of classes and presentations conducted annually on the ACU campus and attended by several hundred people. Banowsky will discuss "Confronting the Moral Issues."

Among the special interest groups planning to meet during the conference are college and university presidents, Bible college personnel, trustees, deans, vice presidents for development, vice presidents for finance, preacher school personnel, Christian schools personnel, Bible department heads, Christian journalists, Christian editors, missions faculty, Christian camp administrators, Christian scholars, lectureship directors, education directors, youth ministers, Christian coaches, women's support groups, Christian child care agencies, alumni directors and Christian librarians. An elders workshop also is planned.

"Many of these special groups, such as the college and university trustees," Thomas said, "have never had a national meeting before, and these men from the various institutions have never before had an opportunity to meet with each other to discuss their common problems."

"We believe for many groups there will be a tremendous amount of inspiration received from their own special meetings in addition to the great challenges to be received from the major speakers."

An individual has been assigned to coordinate the program for each group, and plans for those programs will be announced as they become available.

In addition to the group meetings, other activities planned during the three-day conference are a panel discussion concerning federally-funded tuition grants for students in private schools.

Farabee, Shaw differ College leaders to fight proposed tuition hike

By SHONDA NOVAK
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Their protests may lack the fury and rage that marked the college campus riots in the 1960s. But judging from their arsenal of statistics, college leaders across the state are ready to fight a proposed 100 percent tuition increase with the same dedication their predecessors protested the Vietnam War.

The students emphasize, however, that their protest is not a knee-jerk rebellion against authority.

"We are not irresponsible and reactionary students unwilling to hand another penny over to the state," says Amy Johnson, a member of the Texas Student Lobby.

"We do believe that before Texas taxes its students more, it must first prove that money is needed, and secondly that the money should come from students and their parents and not from other sources," says Ms. Johnson.

A special higher education committee has recommended that resident tuition at the state's public institutions be raised from $4 to $8 a semester credit hour.

Out-of-state tuition would climb from $40 to $80 a semester credit hour under the proposal, and tuition would increase from $400 to $3,600 a year at state medical schools and from $400 to $2,500 at dental schools.

Money from the tuition increase — minus 10 percent for scholarships — would be placed in a special fund for 17 public institutions left without new construction funds when lawmakers effectively abolished the state property tax in 1979.

Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls says he favors a "reasonable" tuition increase because "if we want quality education, we're going to have to contribute more to it."

An across-the-board increase, Farabee says, probably wouldn't prevent anyone from obtaining a college education.

"I foresee there being additional scholarship and loan funds for some students. And even if we double the tuition, we still are going to have one of the lowest tuition rates in the country."

Rep. Walter Grubbs of Abilene says doubling tuition is not an unreasonable proposal, but he labels as "extreme" the proposed increase in medical school tuition.

While Grubbs has not decided how much of an increase he will support, he says: "In view of our problem with financing public higher education, we have to do something."

But Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring opposes any increase, saying it would contribute to already declining enrollments and burden middle and lower income students.

The committee's report estimates that the tuition increases at senior colleges and universities will generate $59.3 million to $65.1 million a year, depending on how the increase affects enrollment.

Texas would rank 39th in tuition rates among the nations' public senior colleges instead of 46th if tuition were doubled.

If we are to avoid tragic events like the attempted assassination Monday, our children must be taught that man is more than a highly developed animal. Animals are killed every day. This knowledge that human life is sacred is taught, not in most educational institutions, but in church. Bring your family to services at 14th and Main this Sunday.

LDS missionaries to serve Big Spring area two months

Elders Lance Wilcox and Rick Hildebrand are Latter Day Saints missionaries assigned to Big Spring area. They serve from Missionary Headquarters in Dallas which directs missionaries covering the north half of Texas. They have served this area the last four months.

Elder Wilcox, 19, is from Bremerton, Wash. He is a graduate of Kitsap High School and plans to go to Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah or Ricks University in Idaho upon completion of his two year missionary tour.

Elder Hildebrand, 20, is from Mesa, Ariz., and is a graduate of Westwood High School where Danny White graduated. He attended Community College in Mesa before beginning his missionary tour in Mesquite where he served six months.

Latter Day Saints missionaries are LDS boys who want to and who meet the requirements, serve two years missionary duty at their own or their families' expense. Missionary couples served from 6-12-18 months and sister or girl missionaries 18 months. Girls must be 21 years of age.

The missionaries go "tracking" from door to door, telling people about their belief. After the first lesson if the seekers desire, appointments are set up for six more one hour lessons at their convenience.

Fundamental beliefs of the church are taught along with how and when the LDS church was established, its foundation and organization.

The missionaries also present film and talk presentations to civic and other club organizations who request them.

Missionaries stay from one to six months in an area before moving to another area in the same district.

Bible teacher and writer will hold meeting at Church of Christ

The Birdwell Lane Church of Christ announces a Gospel Meeting to begin Sunday. Owen Cosgrove of Midland will be the guest speaker at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday, and at 7:30 p.m., Monday through Wednesday.

Cosgrove has received B.A. and M.S. degrees in Bible and Greek from Abilene Christian University. He also has the M.A. degree from Sul Ross State University at Alpine. He holds the Ph.D. degree from North Texas State University where he majored in the College Teaching of English.

Cosgrove has preached regularly for more than thirty years. He also prints and publishes numerous tracts and booklets. He has served as a writer of television scripts for the nationally televised Herald of Truth program. He taught at the Church of Christ Bible Chair at Sul Ross State University in Alpine and has taught Bible courses by extension for Ft. Worth Christian College for three years. He also has taught Bible by extension for Lubbock Christian College.

He now serves as the minister of the new Midland Church of Christ in Midland.

Byron Corn, local minister for the Birdwell Lane Church of Christ said, "We invite all OWEN COSGROVE in this community to hear Cosgrove in this series of Gospel messages."

WCG holds its Spring convention

Approximately 100 delegates registered from 28 cities throughout Texas.

The guest speaker, Juanita (Mrs. Orman) Baker of Dallas, addressed her audience from the theme: "With Joy Advancing."

Jean (Mrs. R.E.) McCray, First Church of God pastor's wife of Big Spring, gave the closing worship. Rev. W.O. and Dorothy Myers served Communion.

State officers held a "Leadership Workshop" on the morning of March 21 for all delegates.

Officers elected included Joy Perry, Vice President, Pasadena; Pat Reinholz, Secretary, Austin; Mrs. Roy (Irene) Moad, Treasurer, Odessa; Mary Naumann, Spiritual Life Director, Houston; Kathleen Carver, Missionary Education, Houston; Gerri Craig, Publication's Chairwoman, McAllen, and Kathryn Thomas, Membership & Attendance, Big Spring.

Seven delegates from Big Spring attended this convention which was a rare blend of fellowship, inspiration, learning, and recreation.

Exec resigns post because of principles

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — For religious reasons, Harold Kelly, 50, has resigned as president of the 120-store, $620-million-a-year supermarket chain, Bi-Lo Inc., because its executive committee decided to sell beer and wine in its six Charlotte, N. C. stores.

"I cannot be part of that," he says, citing effects of drink on families, children and those who become alcoholics. "I could not live with myself knowing I was part of it." He says he hopes his action will "be a witness for the Lord."

Williams wins bales guessing contest in Mitchell County

COLORADO CITY (SC) - Last September's farm tour has produced a winner in the contest to guess the total number of bales of cotton ginned this year in Mitchell County.

Jimmy Williams guessed the number at 18,000 bales, besting out his neighbor, Tommy Fuller, by an estimate of only two bales.

In announcing the winner at Thursday's Chamber of Commerce meeting, County Agent Bob Benson said "estimates ranged from a low of 2,206 bales to a high of 48,888 bales. The official ASCS office county is 18,106 bales produced in Mitchell County during the 1980 crop year."

Soviets to counter shuttle launch with anniversary

MOSCOW (AP) - Not to be overshadowed by the planned U.S. space shuttle launch, the Soviet Union is taking the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the first manned space flight, Cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin's 108-minute voyage into history, to highlight Soviet exploits in orbit.

Since Gagarin's historic flight on April 12, 1961, the Soviet Union has launched a numerous manned missions in low earth orbit, concentrating on frequent launches and extended stays aloft.

"The main thrust of our program is toward piloted orbiting space complexes which will become increasingly sophisticated," said Sergei D. Grishin, one of a panel of Soviet space officials who spoke to foreign reporters recently.

Soviet rockets have launched 52 cosmonauts in Gagarin's wake, 44 of them Soviets and eight from its allies.

Cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova, who orbited the Earth 48 times in June 1963, is the only woman to have flown in space. Alexei Leonov was the first to walk outside a spacecraft, leaving his Voskhod-2 capsule for 12 minutes in March, 1968.

Leonov headed the cosmonaut team on the joint Soyuz-Apollo flight in July 1975, at the height of Soviet-U.S. space cooperation, and the last manned American flight before the shuttle, which is set to lift off April 10.

Soviet cosmonauts have shattered the 84-day space endurance record posted by a U.S. Skylab crew. Vladimir Lyakhov and Valery Ryumin lived aboard the Salyut 6 space station for 175 days in 1979, and Ryumin and Leonid Popov spend 185 days on Salyut-6 in a flight that ended last Oct. 11.

"At no stage in the last 20 years were we seeking prestige or records," Lt. Gen. Vladimir A. Shatalov, head of Soviet cosmonaut training and a veteran of three space flights, claimed in an interview with The Associated Press.

"At the same time, the U.S. program has been proclaimed as vital to the prestige of the country," Shatalov said. "Of course, the United States has made great technological progress, such as landing a man on the moon, but it is a pity this was done not for science but for glory."

Despite Shatalov's assessment, Soviet space successes have been used for political effect both at home, where Gagarin is a national hero, and abroad, particularly through the so-called Intercosmos launches involving spacemen from Czechoslovakia, Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria, Hungary, Vietnam, Cuba and, most recently, Mongolia.

Braniff flights will increase

DALLAS (AP) - About 200 employees laid off in Braniff International Corp.'s desperate attempts to stop losing money will be temporarily re-hired for a summer route expansion, a company official said.

The airline company said the employee recall will be part of plans to increase the number of flights from Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport by 10 percent, said public relations spokesman Mike Kaeser.

"We're putting our resources on the routes that are our strongest," Kaeser said Thursday. "We're strengthening the D-FW hub."

About 50 pilots and 140 flight attendants will be asked to return when the summer travel season schedule takes effect April 26, and more flight crew members will be added June 1, when more flights are added, he said.

By June 1, the number of Braniff flights will have risen from 182 to 200 weekly. The Braniff move follows announcements of increased D-FW service by American Airlines and Delta Air Lines.

Two television executives doubt Rand's predictions

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Did psychic Tamara Rand really foretell the assassination attempt on President Reagan, complete with details on his wound and the suspect? Or did she do her "predicting" the day after he was shot?

Two television executives say they have reason to doubt her, but she says she stands by her account.

Ms. Rand won wide attention Wednesday night when a videotape labeled "Jan. 6" was shown on the Cable News Network. On the tape, Ms. Rand predicted a "thud" in President Reagan's "chest area" during "the last few days of March."

Reagan was shot March 30 - in the chest. CNN said the tape was of the Richard Maurice talk show, recorded Jan. 6 for broadcast later in the month on Atlanta station WTBS.

News services carried reports about the tape, and NBC and ABC ran portions of it on their Thursday morning news shows.

General manager Ed Quinn of KTNV, the Las Vegas television station where the tape was made, said, "We have reason to believe the interview was taped on March 31, the day after the assassination attempt."

Ms. Rand, 32, disputed his claim, although she admitted that she had participated in a taping session at the station on March 31. She said the purpose of that session was to tape several other segments and to "rearticulate" her earlier predictions.

Quinn said his review showed that a Maurice show on which Ms. Rand appeared was broadcast on KTNV on Jan. 25, but he said it did not contain any of the predictions.

Ms. Rand said, "I slurred and stumbled over the words and that's why that particular segment (prediction) of the Jan. 6 interview was deleted."

Quinn said he had not watched the taping, but had talked to "five people (crew members) that viewed the tape on the 'Today' show and were involved in taping the show on March 31. And they said it was the show they were involved in," he said.

Arthur Lord, director of West Coast network news for CBS, said early today, "We now have grave doubts about the authenticity of the tape we aired on the 'Today' show."

The talk show host, Richard Maurice, and his producer, Gary Grecco, insisted that Ms. Rand's predictions were taped Jan. 6. Maurice branded Quinn's statement "ridiculous."

In the segment shown Wednesday night on CNN and ABC's "Today" and ABC's "Good Mornin' America," Ms. Rand said that "someone fair-haired" with a name like "Jack Humbley" would be involved in the incident in March.

Vernon Lee White was transferred to county jail Thursday afternoon following his arrest on a theft charge.

White, 27, of 109 E. 16th, was charged with theft over $5-and-under $20. He also faces revocation of probation from a delivery of marijuana charge. There was no bond set on the revocation charge, and a $1,500 bond set on the theft charge.

Two hangar doors stolen

Paul Silva of the Howard County Sheriff's Department is investigating the possible theft of two large hangar doors at the Big Spring Industrial Park.

A T-41 hangar at the airport was found to have two doors missing Thursday.

Rivera draws probated term

Paulo Rivera, 33, of Big Spring, entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court to a charge of forgery by passing a check. He was given a 10-year probated sentence and released.

Takes Crosby County job

Andy Vestal resigns

Howard County ag post

Andy Vestal, Howard County Extension Agent-Ag, who has served as coordinator of the Howard County 4-H program since December, 1977, has resigned that position effective April 30, to become County Extension Agent in Agriculture for Crosbyton County May 1. He will headquarter in Crosbyton County.

While serving as 4-H coordinator of the county, Vestal was instrumental in guiding local 4-H club members to a succession of top honors and recognition in district, area and state programs, awards and contests. In addition, local 4-H members achieved recognition in areas of leadership and skills.

Vestal worked with local leaders and 4-H members in attaining many honors at major livestock shows and contests.

Don Richardson, Howard County Extension Agent, in announcing Vestal's resignation, said that this move for Andy represented a promotion.

"He goes with the best wishes of everyone here," Richardson said. "We wish him success in his new job. His leadership and skills will be missed in Howard County and his dedication and service to the program while serving in his position here has been commendable."

A replacement for Vestal has not yet been named. Recommendations from District Extension Director Mrs. Roberta Johnson of Fort Stockton will first be weighed after which approval of the nominee must be considered by the Howard County Commissioners Court.

Massive 'Masada' begins four-night run on Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Masada," ABC's long-delayed, $20 million epic of Roman soldiers, Jewish Zealots and a superduper desert fortress, begins its four-night run on Sunday, proving once again that the problem with miniseries is that they're never mini enough.

Despite its exasperating overlength, eight hours, "Masada" will stand beside "Shogun" as this year's towering television triumphs.

The miniseries is drawn from the legendary six-month Roman siege of the impregnable desert citadel Masada. The legend, based on sketchy historical data, was fleshed out into a two-man war of wills in an Ernest Gann novel, "The Antagonists," which pitted an imperious Roman commander against a Jewish Zealot, bent on driving the intruders away. Eleazar ben Yair and his band of guerrillas fight a weary Roman legion eager to declare Judea subdued and go home.

From the novel — which has been reprinted under the title, "Masada," in hope of scoring a multimedia smash — ABC has fashioned a stunning, if bloated, spectacle that transcends ordinary television on the wings of elegant words and breathtaking pictures. That pretty much assures some special TV.

To the pictures, first: "Masada" was filmed in the Israeli desert, and full-scale replicas of the fortress and Roman assault tower, complete with battering ram.

And the words. Peter O'Toole, the gaunt, homeward-looking Roman general, Flavius Silva, is granted such as this:

"These aren't Britons or Gauls we're fighting, good, honest rustics who stand out in the sun-like archery targets and dare you to do something about it... These are more like Egyptians, brainy... without a dram of ethics."

You can imagine the magic that the lyrical O'Toole method makes of those words.
