All systems are 'go' for shuttle launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts John Young and Bob Crippen paid a pre-dawn visit to launch pad 39A today, inspected the shuttle Columbia and said they are eager to fly the revolutionary spaceship on Friday.

"The forecast is 100 percent good" for liftoff at 6:50 a.m. EST, according to a top space agency official.

The astronauts stopped by the pad at 5 a.m., shortly after a large service structure had been rolled away, leaving Columbia bathed in floodlights, perched on its historic launch site, glistening with promise.

Young and Crippen told the launch crew they are "ready to go" and then climbed aboard executive jets modified to handle like the Columbia to practice emergency landings at a nearby 15,000-foot runway. They would use the strip Friday only if their engines quit early and they can't get into orbit.

The countdown, on time, went into a planned 11-hour 50-minute hold at 4:30 a.m., providing rest time for the launch crews.

Weather conditions, which earlier in the week had been threatening, continued to improve. The Air Force today forecast good weather for Friday morning, with no ceiling; thin, scattered clouds, light winds and 54 degree temperature.

John Yardley, head of the space shuttle program for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was asked early today about the chance of an on-time Friday launch? "They're looking just super," he said. "The forecast is 100 percent good," said.

Young and Crippen were to review flight preparations with launch officials later in the day and then retire in late afternoon. They have a 2:05 a.m. wakeup call on Friday.

"We look forward to the flight," Young said on arrival here Thursday. He then joined Crippen for an hour's aerial acrobatics, flying loop-the-loop aerobatic maneuvers to improve their proficiency for the orbital mission.

Get-well greeting from 1,336 area residents given to Reagan

WASHINGTON — News of a get-well greeting from 1,336 Big Spring area residents made its way to George Washington University Hospital Wednesday, where President Reagan spent his ninth day recuperating from the March 30 assassination attempt.

The greeting, a parchment map of Texas and a scroll with signatures, is one of dozens received from towns across the country. Word of the Texas effort was delivered to the president by Vice President George Bush.

Sponsored by Big Spring radio station KBST, the items were delivered by mail in the office of Rep. Charles Stenholm, R-Stamford. The White House has originally arranged to pick up the scroll and map at Stenholm's Capital Hill office, but then scheduled an informal ceremony in Bush's White House office at which the vice president accepted the package.

Stenholm, a leader of conservative House Democrats, spent more than 30 minutes with Bush Wednesday, prompting reporters to ask if the discussion had turned to strategies for aiding the president's economic plan in Congress.

"No," Stenholm joked, "it just took the vice president a long time to read all those names."

On launch pad 39-A, from which Apollo 11 left Earth for man's first walk on the moon, work crews were preparing to load, starting late tonight, more than 500,000 gallons of volatile liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen fuels to drive the shuttle's three main engines.

Young and Crippen flew here yesterday to meet with project officials and to make final preparations for a mission that is one of the most important in the U.S. man-in-space program. This nation's future in space — scientifically, commercially and militarily — is riding on this launching of the world's first reusable spacecraft.

It is strictly a test flight, with Young and Crippen slated to exercise all of Columbia's complex parts — its flight controls, cargo doors, engines, computers, fuel and life support systems, and its ability to land back on a runway like an airliner.

They are to orbit the Earth 36 times in 54½ hours. But this is the first time a spaceship has been flown by men without first being launched unmanned. So the astronauts are prepared to bring the 80-ton Columbia back to Earth at any time if there is a mission-threatening problem.

Young and Crippen flew here in separate T-38 jet trainers Wednesday and were met by ground crews wearing protective masks to guard against passing along an infectious disease.

Young, the mission commander, told reporters, who were kept 100 yards away: "Bob and I are about ready to fly this thing. We look forward to the flight. We're hoping everything will allow us to go on Friday."

"Columbia is in great shape," Crippen added. "The launch team tells us it's almost ready to go."

BRADLEY DIES — Gen. Omar Bradley, who led a million U.S. soldiers in World War II, died Wednesday in a New York hospital. He was 88.

World War II hero Omar Bradley dead at age 88

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley, the last of the nation's great World War II commanders and the last of its five-star generals, has died at the age of 88.

Bradley, a lanky, bespectacled Missourian who commanded U.S. invasion forces on D-Day at Normandy and was the first to chair the Joint Chiefs of Staff, suffered a heart attack Wednesday while attending a dinner at the 21 Club here and was pronounced dead shortly afterward at a hospital.

During his 69 years of active duty, the longest service of anyone in U.S. history, he commanded the largest force in U.S. history — 1.3 million men in World War II — and never lost a fight.

But, he once told a congressional committee, "as far as I am concerned, war itself is immoral."

Secretary of the Army John O. Marsh Jr. called Bradley "a great patriot, a peerless military leader and an individual dedicated to the cause of peace in the world."

"With his passing, the army and our nation have lost one of the most devoted and selfless men to ever wear the military uniform," said Army Chief of Staff Gen. E.C. Meyer.

The Pentagon said Bradley would be buried in Arlington National Cemetery outside Washington, D.C.

Bradley, who had come to New York from his Fort Bliss, Texas, home for the dinner of the local chapter of the Association of the United States Army, collapsed in an elevator of the 21 Club, said Bruce Snyder, a club official. Accompanied by his wife, Kitty, and three aides, he was rushed in a private car to the emergency room of St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center, where doctors tried for 20 minutes to revive him. He was pronounced dead at 7:35 p.m.

A hospital spokesman said doctors listed the cause of death as "cardiac arrest." A Pentagon statement (See permitted, page 2A, col. 1)

One absentee vote cast in city race

Only one vote had been cast, this morning, on the first day of absentee balloting for the runoff election for two seats on the Big Spring City Council.

Those wishing to vote absentee may do so from 7 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Deadline for absentee voting is 5 p.m., April 17.

City Secretary Tom Ferguson drew names, Wednesday, to see which candidate would be listed first in each race. In the Place 3 race, the name of Michael Randle will top that of Jack Y. Smith, while in the Place 4 contest, the name of Donna Fish will come before Robert "Russ" McEwen's.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Squeaky shoes

Q. Do you know anything that will take the squeak out of a pair of shoes?

A. A mousetrap.

If the squeak is from new leather, it can be removed by treating the shoes with a solution of equal parts of neatsfoot oil and castor oil. If you can't catch any neats, the oil is available at most hardware stores or large discount stores.

The solution will turn unpolished leather dark, so make sure the shoes are well-polished first. Once leather has been treated with neatsfoot oil it won't take polish well, as it tends to keep the polish from drying.

Apply the mixture with a cloth around the sides of the sole until the squeaking stops. You might have to let it soak into the bottom of the soles around the sides until they quit squeaking.

This will also make the soles waterproof, but the shoes should not be used until the oil has soaked in completely.

Food stamp program director won't be Reagan's 'puppet'

WASHINGTON — C. William Hoagland has been director of the Agriculture Department's Food and Nutrition Service for just two weeks — and already has misgivings.

Hoagland, a former Congressional Budget Office analyst who is considered a food stamp expert, vowed, in a recent interview, he will never be a "puppet" for President Reagan.

Hoagland's disenchantment stems from Reagan's oft-repeated statement that the food stamp program is beset by fraud and waste.

The Reagan administration has proposed a $1.5 billion cut in the $11.6 billion program.

"There were some statements made very early that I felt may have not been as accurate as I would have liked," Hoagland said, referring to the administration's claim that 40 to 50 percent of the program is wasteful.

Sources at the agriculture department say Hoagland has been accused by Office of Management and Budget officials of not being a "team player."

Hoagland maintains the program has a 10-10.9 percent fraud rate.

The USDA official emphasizes he supports food stamp reductions and will defend the administration's package. But he wants to ensure that the food stamp program is not "gutted."

"I'm trying to help the president and the Secretary (John Block) from making decisions they might live to regret," Hoagland said. "That doesn't make me any less of a team player."

But Hoagland admitted, "I must be quite frank. I had a lot of reservations ...misgivings about the job. I was concerned the administrator would be nothing more than a puppet, reacting only to, carrying out the wishes of either people in the administration without having an opportunity to have any impact."

A former CBO colleague says, "He feels he is not being listened to and he's upset about it." "And he's the kind of guy that the minute he thinks he's not being listened to he'll leave."

When asked if he would resign if the administration refused to listen to his views, Hoagland would only say, "I don't see there is a need for a person to stay on the job if they are not being used. It's a waste of taxpayer's dollars. It's not good for me or President Reagan."

Hoagland conceded he has met resistance from OMB but he discounted talk that he was not being "listened to."

"They (OMB officials) are definitely listening. I'm not entirely sure they believe my positions are always in the overall best interest," he added.

Permitted to stay on active duty for life

initially said Bradley died of a stroke, but officials later confirmed he had died of cardiac arrest.

Bradley was one of only five men to wear the five stars of a general of the army, a rank created during World War II and held by Gens. Dwight Eisenhower, H.H. Arnold, Douglas MacArthur and George C. Marshall. Eisenhower's death in 1969 left only Bradley still wearing the five stars.

The rank permitted the general to remain on active duty for life, but also to pursue outside interests. Bradley served for 15 years as chairman of the board of the Bulova Watch Co. after leaving the Joint Chiefs post in 1958. He remained honorary board chairman of the company until his death.

A native of Clark, Mo., son of a school teacher who named him for a local newspaper publisher and a local doctor, Bradley was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1915 along with Eisenhower.

He never made it outside the United States during World War I and thought his military career ruined.

But after attending the Command and General Staff school in 1929 and the Army War College in 1934, he commanded the 2nd Corps in the Northern Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns during 1943, and headed the 1st Army in the Normandy campaign the following year.

He got his million-man army as commander of the 12th Army Group, originally composed of the 1st, 3rd and 9th Armies with the 15th Army added later.

Bradley came to be known as "the doughboys' general" because of his reputation as a master tactician who tried to win with a minimum loss of lives.

"I'll see you on the beaches," he told his men before the invasion of Normandy, and he did. The June 6, 1944, D-Day invasion by 156,000 Allied troops marked the start of a year-long thrust to free Europe from the Nazi stranglehold.

When German Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt launched a desperate counteroffensive, against the advancing Allied troops in Belgium, leading to the Battle of the Bulge, Bradley refused to move his headquarters, only 10 miles from the front in Luxembourg.

His swift action in countering the German drive won him a Bronze Star, which the late British Prime Minister Winston Churchill said "seems to embody the feeling we Britons all have about your part in this great battle."

Eisenhower, his commander, called Bradley "emotionally stable" and "a keen judge of men."

He once raised an American flag over a German fortress to show

Germans that "the brutal-Nazi creed they adopted has led them ingloriously to total defeat."

But after the war, he said he never wanted to go through another. While opposing isolationism, he argued, "Atomic power makes it necessary that we have no more wars."

He headed the Veterans Administration during the critical World War II demobilization of the armed forces.

Bradley had been confined to a wheelchair for many years because of arthritis and suffered a stroke in 1975. Last February, he was hospitalized briefly with a viral infection, but recovered in time to attend a private celebration of his 88th birthday on Feb. 12.

His last major appearance was at President Reagan's inauguration, for which he was honorary grand marshal. He appeared in his wheelchair at the inaugural gala, accompanied by actor Jimmy Stewart.

Bradley's first wife, the former Mary Quayle, died in 1965 after 49 years of marriage. The following year he married Kitty Buhler, a screen writer whose television credits include "Dragnet," "The Untouchables," and "My Three Sons."

Also surviving is a daughter, Elizabeth Bradley Dorsey, of Washington, D.C.

Adm. Hyman Rickover, at 80, is now the oldest officer on active duty.

Third abduction attempt

The third attempted abduction of a young girl by a man driving a black Pontiac Trans Am was reported Tuesday morning.

Juvenile Officer Pat Dunham, was summoned to Bauer Elementary School, 10:43 a.m. Tuesday, to investigate the attempted kidnaping. According to her, a nine-year-old girl was walking outside of the school between classes when she was approached by a man driving a Trans Am who offered the girl a ride. When she refused, the man attempted to drag her into the car. The frightened girl managed to escape and run back into the school where administrators called police.

"We are pretty sure the man is actually driving a black Trans Am. All the girls so far have reported seeing a car with eagles on the front and back (a trademark of the automobile)," said Dunham. "We are trying to narrow it down, but you wouldn't believe how many people drive black Trans Ams."

The first reported attempt occurred on April 1. A 14-year-old girl was approached by the man in the black car on the 500 block of Johnson, 7:47 p.m. After being grabbed by the abductor, she was able to escape.

The second report came the next day at 3:10 p.m. A seven-year-old Moss Elementary School student narrowly escaped the man's clutches, and ran to safety inside the school.

"We really need a good description of the suspect to help us find him," said Dunham. "So far, the descriptions by the girls and some witnesses have varied so widely, they haven't been of much use. In one description he's blond with a moustache, and in another he's dark-haired with a full beard. It's really frustrating."

Correct market values called key to state aid

By CAROL HART
Correct market values of property can result in more state aid, according to Gene Pereira, chief tax appraiser for Howard County.

Pereira discussed market values during the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Board meeting Wednesday afternoon. He added that correct values can result in a saving of money with a chance to cut the tax rate.

The State Property Tax Board also favorably eyes those counties "trying to do a good job," said Pereira, adding that his department was doing a good job.

Pereira said that, by law, property values must be checked every two years, and information passed along to the State Property Tax Board. Figures for the appraisals are obtained from on-site reviews and in-house evaluations.

The State Property Tax Board "is doing a darn good job," said Pereira of the state agency. "They become more knowledgeable each year. I've seen how they've grown in knowledge."

Board secretary Lila Estes voiced concern that appraisals for the district would not be finished by the 1981 deadline, and questions whether more people should be hired.

Board President Roy Watkins said he felt that the deadline for appraisals would be extended statewide, giving everyone more time for thorough appraisals. Pereira added that he felt that employees in the appraisal office were doing an excellent job.

A Board of Review Public

Hearing for oil and gas was set by board members for 9:30 a.m. June 15.

Concerning workman's compensation insurance payment, board members requested that an exact figure for the payment be supplied, so that it could be budgeted.

Board members also decided to reinvest a maturing certificate of deposit of $10,000 before April 30.

West Texans making progress in controlling brucellosis

West Texas cattle producers are making significant progress in controlling brucellosis, Dr. John Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission, Austin, reports.

Currently, there are less than 300 herds under quarantine in the 133 counties of the West Texas Class A Control Area, Dr. Holcombe noted. That is less than two infected herds per county.

Brucellosis is a highly contagious disease of livestock.

A recent report shows the following counties in Class A Control Area have no counties with herds under quarantine for brucellosis:

Andrews, Armstrong, Brewster, Briscoe, Childress, Cochran, Crane, Dawson, Ector, El Paso, Gaines, Garza, Gillespie, Glasscock, Hall, Hartley, Hemphill, Hockley, Hudspeth, Kimble, Kinney, Llano, Loving, Lubbock, Martin, Midland, Odham, Parmer, Potter, Presidio, Randall, Real, Reeves, Roberts, Sherman, Sterling, Terry, Upton, Wichita, Winkler and Yoakum.

Sen. Benisen to discuss Salvation Army, events

Several civic and service clubs will be meeting jointly Tuesday when U.S. Sen. Lloyd Benisen speaks here at the Salvation Army luncheon at First Baptist Family Life Center.

Everyone is invited to the affair, stressed Lt. Bill Thrasher, who directs Salvation Army work here. Tickets, $7.50 for adults and $4.50 for students or children, are available from the Salvation Army Advisory Board members and several places in town. Included are the Chamber of Commerce, Prager's, Gibbs and Weeks, Wright's Pharmacy, and Salvation Army.

While Sen. Benisen will have something special to say about Salvation Army, he also will speak on matters of current national concern, and particularly those which may affect Texas.

After the luncheon, where he also will be available for questions, Sen. Benisen will appear at a reception-press conference in the small dining room in the Southeast wing of the church. The reception will be sponsored by the Howard County Democratic Club. Those unable to attend the luncheon will have a chance to visit with him there, and members of the press also will have an opportunity for further questions.

Sen. Benisen also will work in a visit at the VA Medical Center hospital to be briefed by John Steward, director, and to tour and talk with patients.

Time is short, and reservations for the luncheon should be made by Friday evening. Board members and various other individuals selling tickets are asked to check with Lt. Thrasher at that time so he can have some fair estimate on the number of plates to provide.

Ticket reservations must be made by Friday. It has been emphasized.

There is a possibility U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, State Senator Ray Farabee and State Rep. Larry Don Shaw will be present for the luncheon.

Cycle stolen

A red motorcycle with black seats was reportedly stolen from the Red Woodard residents, Jonesboro Road, this morning. The motorcycle, a 1971 Honda, belongs to the Big Spring Shrine Club.

Sweatt, Wagner display art at credit union

The Big Spring Art Association has selected both Ruth Sweatt and Bess Wagner to be featured in a showing at Citizens Federal Credit Union. The show, which features a dozen of their recent works, will run through April 30, and is open to the general public from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

While both individuals tend to paint in their own unique styles, both also share many similarities. Ruth Sweatt retired after teaching school for 38 years, and Bess Wagner is a retired legal secretary. Both enjoy painting in oils and both have won ribbons for their efforts.

Sweatt says she began painting, as a hobby, when she retired from teaching; adding that art was one of her favorite projects while teaching. "I enjoy painting landscapes, buildings, and flowers," Sweatt said. "When traveling, I make a collection of favorite scenes. These are usually painted in oils," she said.

She went on to say that she had sold a few paintings and won a few ribbons for her work, but that "my two boys usually take them home with them or put their name on the back of them. Painting for me," Sweatt said, "is the most relaxing thing that I can do. I forget the time, forget to eat, and really get lost when I paint."

Bess Wagner has been painting for 13 years, seven of which she said have been serious years of work. She says that she enjoys oils, acrylics and watercolor and has taken classes from many different individuals.

Wagner says her greatest accomplishment in art was when she won a blue ribbon on an ink cartoon at the Oklahoma State Fair when she was a senior in high school.

As for painting, Wagner says "I paint because I love it and for the satisfaction I feel when I paint one I really like. I can feel tired and depressed and start painting," she continued, "and I feel great. I paint also for the sheer joy I feel when painting."

Reagan getting his cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is getting nearly all the tax and spending cuts he wants from Republicans controlling the Senate Budget Committee, but at a higher cost than the administration counted on.

The committee agreed on a party-line vote Wednesday to make room in the 1982 budget for $51.3 billion in tax cuts Reagan has proposed. But it said the result will be a $60 billion budget deficit in 1982 — $15 billion higher than the administration figured and $10 billion higher than House Democrats predicted.

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the Budget Committee chairman, said Wednesday night that Reagan "may have to find administrative savings beyond anything we've imagined," but he expressed confidence the president can do it.

Domenici said he had no further cuts in mind to significantly slice the projected deficit, which was recalculated from the administration's own numbers.

"We have given the president everything he asked for," Domenici said.

That, argued Democrats on the panel, was a mistake.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, the ranking Democrat on the committee, said there is "no way to inflate the economy" with a large tax cut "and then, 'whoopie,' get a balanced budget."

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., said the committee was "rather blindly following" what he called the administration's "extraordinary experiment" in economics.

In the House, meanwhile, majority Democrats stepped up their counteroffensive against the Reagan program, calling it "the fiscal equivalent of faith in a free lunch."

An eight-page statement of "Democratic economic principles" issued after a closed-door caucus Wednesday echoed Reagan's general goals of less spending, lower taxes and a smaller government but assailed the specifics of his approach. It said House Democrats would reject a program "that puts the main burden of fighting inflation on the backs of the middle- and low-income workers while providing unprecedented benefits for the privileged few."

The House Democrats already have laid out their own budget blueprint, and their own tax-cut plan was to follow sometime today. The proposal, to be unveiled by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, was expected to be more complex and about $11 billion smaller than the administration version.

Manufactured housing Show lures Marsalis

Denton and Johnnie Marsalis, owners of D & C Sales Inc., Big Spring, left Monday to attend the Manufactured Housing Show, which is held in Dallas each year.

While there, Denton planned to attend a finance seminar, study the new design and floor plans of manufactured houses and visit the various display booths showing new supplies for the manufactured housing industry.

Marsalis recently returned from a Park Council and Legislative Committee meeting in Austin. Marsalis currently is chairman of the State TMHA Parks and Development Council. In that capacity, he is working with the various parks and manufactured housing developments throughout the state.

Delegates to the Austin meeting visited and worked with several state senators and representatives with bills effecting the manufactured home industry and manufactured home owners.

Woman-hater found guilty

DALLAS (AP)—A 42-year-old drifter who told horror stories of murder, necrophilia, mutilation and brutality while confessing to killing 12 women in the past nine years was found guilty of murdering three Dallas women.

Carroll Edward Cole, who testified he has killed more women than he can remember because he hated his mother, was ordered back into court today for sentencing. He faces a life prison term on each murder conviction.

Bigotry in 'Dixie'

'To Kill a Mockingbird' will be presented here

"To Kill a Mockingbird" will be presented in the City Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. April 27. The play is being brought to Big Spring by the Dallas Theater Center.

The stage adaptation of the Harper Lee novel is the story of bigotry in the small southern town of Maycomb, Ala., and is set during the Great Depression. The play, as adapted from the novel, focuses on a quiet, strong southern lawyer who defends a wrongly accused black man, as the lawyer's young children observe.

Director Robyn Flatt and the Dallas Theater Center cast have adapted the story to the demands of the stage, Flatt commented about the play, saying "it would be easy to create a theatrical monster out of the novel because there are many characters and many locations."

Tons of scenery would bog down the show so much that the simple story would take hours to perform.

"The challenge is to translate the eloquent simplicity of the novel to the stage in such a way that the flow of the story and the focus of the characters is not lost.

"The actors speak directly to the audience, describing the situation, the location and the characters. They then assume the roles of these characters. Thornton Wilder's Our Town is a familiar example of this style of theatre."

The Dallas Theater Center tour is made possible through support of the Texas Commission on the Arts, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a Federal Agency, Washington, D.C.

Roloff pleases judge

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—State District Judge Charles Mathews, who previously ordered evangelist Lester Roloff to close his youth homes, says his tour of the homes showed him clean and impressive facilities.

Mathews said he would rule by April 15 on whether Roloff can continue to run the homes without a state license. In comments from the bench Wednesday after final arguments, Mathews told of his visit to the Corpus Christi homes.

"I came away from that place that day and I just said to myself, 'If all the facilities of this kind in the state of Texas were operated by Lester Roloff we wouldn't need any state laws,'" said Mathews, drawing applause in the packed courtroom.

Assistant Attorney General David Young said Roloff should pay at least $46,500 in penalties. Pennsylvania lawyer William Ball, representing Roloff, repeated the oft-heard separation of church and state argument against state licensing of church-run homes.

The lawyers offered three days of testimony in November.

In a previous case in the eight-year court battle, Mathews ordered the homes shut. Roloff closed the homes, but only after a dramatic showdown in which Bible-toting preachers blocked the doors to Roloff's church.

Roloff closed the homes long enough to reorganize his ministry, placing the homes under his People's Baptist Church of Corpus Christi, instead of under Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises.

Mathews said the new structure makes the latest lawsuit "an entirely different case" from the one that forced the homes to close.

Young disagreed, saying, "The defendant engages in an activity subject to licensure. They don't have one and they don't intend to seek one but they do intend to keep operating."

Ball said state licensing of church homes is dangerous precedent.

"Eventually the state will be saying worship is also subject to the control of the state, as it is behind the Iron Curtain," Ball said, drawing a few "amens" from the crowd of Roloff backers.

On track

Centennial shirts priced at $6 each

"On Track" is an official column prepared by the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., and lists the various events and meetings being held in conjunction with the upcoming Big Spring-Howard County Centennial to be held May 21-30. Individuals wishing to list their activities and events in this column are asked to call Mel Prather at 267-6373, or bring their items by Citizens Federal Credit Union.

CENTENNIAL TEE SHIRTS: The Centennial Store-Headquarters has received its first shipment of Big Spring-Howard County Centennial tee shirts. The cost is $6.50 per shirt and they are available in the various sizes.

CENTENNIAL STAMPS: The Big Spring Centennial, Inc., has four rubber stamps with the centennial logo and years available to groups and organizations wishing to put the logo on their envelopes and other mailings.

CONCESSIONS: Groups and organizations who wish to provide either a food or drink concession during one of the centennial events are asked to contact either Harold David or Hayes Stripling by April 15. The concession rights will be awarded to the various groups and organizations wishing to participate once the concession committee has had a chance to review the requests following the April 15 deadline. Those groups purchasing concession booths at either the arts and crafts festival or the flea market need to get in touch with the individuals in charge of those events to reserve their concessions.

CENTENNIAL STOCK CERTIFICATES: The centennial stock certificates are available at the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 900 Main and are on display at the various financial institutions in the city. The certificates allow individuals to purchase one share of interest in the area-wide festivities and their name will be listed in the commemorative book as being stockholders. The cost for the certificates is $5.

FIRST LADY CANDIDATES: Nominations will continue to be accepted on First Lady candidates through April 12. Individuals and groups wishing to submit a nominee should be sure the person is over 17 years of age and a resident of Howard County. The initial meeting of First Lady candidates will be held on Tuesday, April 14, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Cactus Room at Howard College. Interested individuals should be sure to turn in their nominations to the Centennial Store-Headquarters before the deadline. They may also call in their nominations to 267-3641.

CAST AUCTION: The cast auction for the "Iron Horse Revue" will be held Thursday, April 16th at 7 p.m. in the Runnels Junior High School gym. Approximately 400 people will be needed for the large stage show and all interested individuals are encouraged to attend the auction.

HC literary contest winners announced

Lana Schooler took first place in two of the four categories in the Howard County Literary Contest, announced college officials.

Schooler placed first in essay with her paper, "January 20, 1981," while Greg Ward placed second in that category with "Dog's Best Friend." Schooler also placed first in poetry with "Hawaii in the Morning," Nick Brown was second with his entry, "An Independent Man." Brown also received an honorable mention in poetry for "Heather," as did Daniel Crady for his poem, "Blue Wave."

Rick Mound won first place in short story with "Used Car," while Sandy Robbins finished second with "Subtle Warning." Cay Lueddecke received an honorable mention for her short story, "The Challenge."

The winner in the music category was Bobby Rupard for his composition "Atanice Baroque," while Linda Mitchell won second with "Summer Sky." Archie Patton and Jack Nixon both received honorable mentions for their compositions, "Longing," and "Praise the Lord."

First place winners will receive plaques and other winners will receive ribbons during the awards convocation on April 21 in the HC Auditorium.

Concessions confusion

Progress of centennial committee evaluated

The executive committee of the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., met Wednesday afternoon at the Centennial Store-Headquarters. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the progress of the various division and committee heads, and to hear an overall evaluation of the progress of the local centennial committee.

Hayes Stripling, Jr., head of the revenue division, said there was still some confusion concerning the concession rights for the various centennial events. He said that all persons and groups wishing to have either a food or drink concession needed to get in touch with him or Harold Davis by the April 15th deadline for consideration.

Stripling said that they were still receiving requests for booths other than food and drink, and that they were being handled on a different basis.

John Taylor, general chairman of the local centennial committee, also said that concessions for both the arts and crafts festival and the flea market were also being handled differently.

He said persons wishing to have concessions at those two events should contact Sig Rogers for the flea market and Mel Prather for the arts and crafts festival.

Stripling said that he had framed several sets of the stock certificates and the limited edition train prints and had distributed them to the major financial institutions in the area. He said each institution selling the certificates would be responsible for obtaining the names of the buyers for inclusion in the commemorative book.

Frances Wheat of the ladies' participation division said that representatives of the Centennial Belles would be meeting in the near future and that the first promenade would be held on Friday, April 24, in the downtown area.

Travis Floyd of the men's participation division said that the initial meeting of the Kangaroo Kops would be held on Thursday, April 9, at 5:30 p.m. at the Centennial Store-Headquarters.

Representatives of the Centennial Belles chapters will hold a meeting at 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 22, at the Centennial Store. The Brothers of the Brush will hold a meeting of chapter representatives following the Belles at 7:30 p.m.

Bob Lewis, who is in charge of the show division, said that he would be meeting with representatives of the laser company of Los Angeles on Thursday to finalize plans. He said that he had also contracted for a firm out of Shreveport, La., to do the sound for the large "Iron Horse Revue."

Lewis said that Gary Welz of the Rogers Company would be arriving Monday, April 13, and that members of the show division would be meeting with him at 7 p.m. on that date. Lewis said the first cast auction would be held on Thursday, April 16, 1981, at 7:30 p.m. in the Runnels Junior High School gym. He said the cast should consist of 400 people and that it was important that they get a big crowd at the auction. He said members picked to appear in the major stage show would only need to get together for an hour once a week to go over their roles in the production.

Joe Pickle, one of the major contributors to the commemorative book, said that the bulk of the text for the book was at the printers and that he would be going over proofs in the near future.

He said that he was still working with churches and organizations in completing their histories, but again stressed the importance of their getting the information to him prior to the April 15 printing date.

'Decades of Progress' May 25 parade theme

The centennial parade, which will be held Monday, May 25, beginning at 4 p.m., will use the theme of "Decades of Progress."

Individuals and groups who are interested in participating in the parade are being asked to get in touch with Lynn Hise and Dr. Charles Hays by April 15, to allow them to firm up parade plans.

Lynn Hise, co-chairman of the parade, said that there is a catalog available to various groups and individuals in the area for ideas on floats. He said the catalog is now at the Big Spring School superintendent's office at 708 Eleventh Place.

"To carry out the theme idea," Hise said, "we are suggesting that entries select some 'happening' in one of the decades in the history of Howard County—1880s, 189s, 1900s, 1910s, 1920s, 1930s, 1940s, 1950s, 1960s, 1970s, and 1980s." He added that the details of the parade route and line-up information would be sent to all entrants on May 1.

Hise said the entries could include marching bands and musical groups, walking groups, floats, horses and animal stock, autos and motorized vehicles, or whatever else someone wished to enter in the parade. Individuals and groups interested in participating in the parade are asked to fill out the form below and return it to the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 900 Main at their earliest convenience.

24 HOUR CONTACT LENSES

You've probably heard, contact lenses are now available that can be worn around the clock including sleep. These lenses allow sufficient oxygen to pass through the lens maintaining the metabolic functions of the eye. Since the oxygen requirements of the eyes vary greatly from person to person more frequent professional care is necessary. This usually results in a slightly higher fee associated with the successful wearing of these lenses. Extended wear contact lenses can be a fantastic option in vision correction when proper instructions and professional care are followed.

Manufactured housing trade honored

Texans pause this week to pay homage to the people in the manufactured home business. Gov. Bill Clements issued a special memorandum citing April 6-12 as Manufactured Housing Week and Big Spring's Mayor Clyde Angel responded with a proclamation to that effect.

THE WEEK SHOULD have special significance here, since Big Spring boasts a factory that, while turning out an abundance of mobile homes, does much to spur the area economy. In addition, the city has dealers who not only sell on a local but an area basis. The manufactured housing industry in Texas builds and distributes more mobile-manufactured homes than any other state in the union. More than a million Texans now live in mobile-manufactured homes and modular-manufactured homes which sell as permanent single family residences. Simply put, the manufactured housing industry, built in a central facility with modern production-line techniques, is capable of providing homes that most Texans can afford.

The industry, as is the case with most great ideas, got a modest start. When Arthur G. Sherman, a wealthy laboratory owner, came up with a better idea for camping, little did he dream that it would turn into a multi-million dollar industry. Sherman disliked using a folding tent on his camping trips so he built a home with his own hands — a home on wheels to pull behind his car. That was in the summer of 1929, when Sherman wanted to take a trip through Michigan's upper peninsula. The idea of pitching a tent every evening and repacking it every morning repelled him.

He hired a carpenter and invested about $500 in materials. Then he designed his revolutionary vehicle — the forerunner of the modern mobile home.

Made of tin and iron, it was nine feet long and six feet wide. It had folding upper and lower bunks plus a coal-burning stove and windows to provide fresh air. It rested on a home-made chassis.

At the request of a friend, he built a second mobile home and let him have it at cost. The manufactured homes attracted a great deal of curiosity wherever they were taken. It dawned on Sherman that there just might be a market for them.

HE DECIDED to risk $10,000 to find out. He rented work space, employed two cabinet makers and started building trailers to sell for about $400.

The first vehicle they produced was exhibited at the Detroit Automobile Show in January 1930. People loved it.

In 1931, Sherman sold 117 vehicles. Incredibly, just six years later, his firm — the Covered Wagon Co. — was employing more than 500 people.

There were 2,057,000 new mobile home starts in 1973 alone. The industry is still in a growth period and obviously will be for a great many years to come.

Genuine shock

Around the rim

Carol Hart

Lee Harvey Oswald, at the time he made the headlines, was a 24-year-old ex-Marine who had lived in the Soviet Union for a while.

Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme was a member of the Charles Manson followers, a woman who spoke in riddles and rhymes and seemed out of touch with reality.

And then there's John Warnock Hinckley, formerly of Dallas, who attended the same school I did, Texas Tech. From all the reports I read, he lived in my neighborhood in Lubbock.

WHAT DO THESE people have in common? All of them have tried to kill a president of the United States. Fortunately, two of them didn't make it.

In the past, when assassins or would-be assassins made their marks on history, they left a small imprint on my mind. I grouped all of them, from Oswald to Fromme, in the monster category, someone who traveled in different circles, someone whose lifestyle was far-removed from my own.

When President Reagan and three others were shot March 30, John Warnock Hinckley seemed like another one of these unrealistic characters. Then the pieces of his background started coming together. At first, he was described only as a blond-haired man, somewhere between the ages of 22 and 35.

Then came the real shock. I don't remember ever seeing Hinckley or ever hearing anyone talk about him, but suddenly this guy took on a personality apart from the other disturbed individuals who had taken shots at public figures.

ANOTHER THING THAT brought the incident closer to home was when the networks aired interviews with people I know who knew Hinckley.

Kirk Dooley, who attended Tech, was well-known at the campus newspaper where I worked. He has been on the networks several times, recalling the man with whom he attended high school. At one he said "The John Hinckley I knew (in Dallas) couldn't have shot the president of the United States."

I wish someone could have gotten to John Hinckley before he shot at President Reagan. I feel very sorry for Reagan and the other men and their families. It's a terrible situation when public officials take their lives in their hands by just trying to mix with the public.

And as for Hinckley, I deplore what he did, but have some compassion for the guy, because he obviously needed help and didn't reach out for it. Instead, he took a shot at a man for no other reason than to satisfy a crazy thought within his own mixed-up mind.

I don't know any answers about how to help people like Hinckley. But it's scary, sort of like when your neighbor's house gets robbed, and you feel how close to home the situation is.

And I hope President Reagan and the other men can put this incident far behind them. I just wish we could protect them from such tragedies.

Nixon backs Haig

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon told a senior White House aide that Ronald Reagan should make whatever arrangement for crisis management best fits his needs, but that in Nixon's book, Secretary of State Alexander Haig is "tops."

That word was sent indirectly to Reagan over the weekend of March 14 when the president was in New York to see his son dance and take his wife to the theater. But there was an un-

NIXON TELEPHONED Haig several days later and reported the conversation to him, leaving the secretary of state with the impression that the senior White House aide had been undermining Haig. That partly explains the animosity between Haig and the White House. Presidential aides have since tried to clear the air and, on the surface at least, Haig has changed his mind about being undermined.

OLD TROOPER REAGAN. The ham actor in Ronald Reagan is still regaling nurses and doctors at George Washington University Hospital with jokes and anecdotes flashing back to his career under the lights.

When tubes were removed from the president after the operation that extracted the bullet, he sent intensive care unit nurses into uncontrollable laughter with this request: "All right, let's play this whole scene over from scratch, starting at the hotel."

Reagan's humor, for decades a stock in trade among his intimate friends in California, is now sweeping the land and adding to his popular appeal — a new factor that might help pass his economic program. Whether it does or not, the doctors and nurses at GW Hospital won't soon forget their famous patient.

GOLDWATER VS. NAVY. Any expectations by defense contractors that they would be on Easy Street with a conservative Republican administration and Senate were shattered April 1 by one of their most faithful friends on Capitol Hill for a generation: Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Presiding over the tactical air subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee, Goldwater cut back President Reagan's request of 60 new Northrop F-18 jet combat planes for the Navy in fiscal year 1982 and 63 in fiscal year 1982 to 53 and 58, respectively, for the two years. Northrop's lobbyists were stunned.

Although the Navy never has considered Goldwater (a reserve Air Force general) as overly friendly, even such staunch Navy backers as Armed Services Committee Chairman John Tower of Texas agreed with him. F-18 program costs have soared from $12.9 billion six years ago to $14 billion, partly because of constant design changes. Goldwater, an aviator himself, was set to pilot the F-18 April 3 at the Navy's invitation.

SUPPLY-SIDE PITCH. The attempted assassination cancelled what had shaped up as a fascinating dinner meeting in Washington the evening of March 30 between two ardent supply-siders and the two toughest tax cut skeptics in the White House: James A. Baker III, chief of staff, and David Gergen, staff director.

Baker and Gergen, both backers of Vice President George Bush for the Presidential nomination, have not been enthusiastic about President Reagan's tax policy as "voodoo economics."

THEY WERE SCHEDULED to dine with two of Rep. Jack Kemp's key backers: economic consultant Jude Wanniski and New Jersey Republican politician Jeffrey Bell.

Surgery corrects problems

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 50 and for many years I have had allergic nose discomfort with post nasal drip and difficulty breathing. I had an allergy work up and was helped with prescriptions, but recently I started having trouble, plus pain in the forehead and headaches. My ear, nose, and throat doctor says I have recurrence of infection of the maxillary sinuses. He now recommends I have surgery — Caldwell-Luc — to correct whatever abnormally exists in my sinuses. I don't know of anyone who has had this surgery and I am afraid. I fear undesired consequences. Can you endorse such surgery? — W.T.B.

Many people have had the Caldwell-Luc operation and are glad they did. In this, the entire lining of the sinus is removed and a new opening made for proper drainage. When a person has had sinusitis for many years, complex and irreversible changes can occur in the lining. It becomes thick, polyps may form and there may be tiny abscesses that are next to impossible to cure.

Furthermore, the sinuses have an opening into the nose. That is how they keep drained and ventilated. When the sinus is so thick that the opening to the nose is blocked there can be continuous infection and trouble. The Caldwell-Luc operation is designed to remove the lining and create new drainage into the nose.

Afterward, either a new lining grows back or the sinus becomes filled with scar tissue. Whichever happens, the result is the same. The chronic infection and inflammation is no more.

I cannot tell you that there is no complication to any surgical procedure. Nor can I assure you that you will not fall down and break your leg walking down a flight of steps. I can only tell you that many people have benefited from this particular surgery. If your doctor thinks this is your answer now, I would have it done. If that is the endorsement, so be it. For a discussion of sinuses see the booklet "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." For a copy, write to me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Do you have any ideas as to what causes dark circles under my eyes? I am a 24-year-old college graduate, and perhaps have over-strained my eyes in studying. I am generally in good health. Am I anemic? — N.F.

I have heard of all kinds of ominous diseases supposedly associated with dark circles under the eyes. My sister was alleged to be a sickly child because of them, yet I have never seen her ill. I cannot find in the medical literature, nor have I ever heard at any medical meeting, that dark circles under the eye indicate illness.

Dark circles reflect the transparency of your skin and this is an inherited trait. Gently pinch the skin under an eye and compare its delicacy to skin on the cheek below and you will note the difference. If the skin is quite transparent, blood vessels under it transmit a darker hue to the surface. Anemia, therefore, which is a lack of red cells in the blood, would not be indicated as dark circles, even though the skin can take on a pallor with that illness.

I cannot relate heavy reading to dark circles. You are left with one answer — heredity. I am sure you can find a picture of some ancestor with dark circles who may have lived to old age in perfect health. Cosmetic illusion is the only solution.

Dr. Donohue: For the sake of argument could you tell me when getting drunk on beer, is the alcoholic content as bad for the liver as getting drunk on whiskey or bourbon? Your answer will settle a bet. — C.R.P.

Alcohol is alcohol, whether it comes in beer, whiskey, bourbon or gin. The concentration of alcohol is greater in whiskey than in beer. You have to drink more beer to get the same amount of alcohol. But if you do, the liver will suffer just as much. Is this a barroom bet?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I know someone who has been fasting for three days and is taking diuretics as well. Yet she is retaining water. Every night she gains and her hands are so swollen she has a great difficulty removing her rings. Is it possible that the diuretics are causing this? Or is the fast? I have never seen anything like this. — L.T.

I have never seen anything like this. Your friend should report to her doctor. Something strange is going on.

In the early phases of fasting there is rapid loss of weight as the body adjusts to using its stored fat as fuel. This weight loss is mostly water. So water retention is very strange in the early phases of a fast. When it occurs in the face of water pill use, it is even more difficult to explain.

She should stop her fast until this matter is cleared up. She may be having a kidney problem. If her fast has been prescribed by her physician, he would want to know these symptoms.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I believe Jesus was divine, but I also believe there have been many other men who have had divine characteristics also. Does the Bible suggest this as a possibility? — A.M.S.

DEAR A.M.S.: No, it does not. The Bible sees Jesus as utterly and completely unique, because he alone is God in human form. Yes, the Bible indicates that every person has something of the divine image within him, because "God created man in his own image, in the image of God he created him" (Genesis 1:27). But sin has blurred and darkened that image. Only of Jesus Christ can it be said, "He is the image of the invisible God" (Colossians 1:15).

Jesus Christ was divine in his origin. Because He is God, he has always existed, and yet at a point in time he took upon himself human form and walked on this earth. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God... The Word became flesh and lived for a while among us. We have seen

Gets off hook

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Reagan not only has deregulated the oil industry; in effect, he has also granted oil companies amnesty for their illegal price gouges. This will save the companies a staggering sum, estimated between $11 billion and $15 billion, on top of the enormous profits that already are overwhelming their corporate coffers.

Apparently, the president didn't intend to dump all this additional lucre, like manna from Washington, on the oil profiteers. But under price controls, the major oil companies overcharged consumers by billions of dollars. Now Reagan's budget cutters are about to let some of the biggest offenders off the hook.

THE BUDGET SLASHERS have eviscerated the Energy Department's enforcement office, which has already identified billions in overcharges that should be repaid by the greedy oil producers.

The prospect of a toothless government watchdog nipping at its heels has already had a predictable effect on Big Oil. Texaco and Champlin have backed out of negotiations for settling their overcharges. Union, Shell and Farmland, which orally agreed to settle, are now holding back on signing agreements.

There are still $7.5 billion in unsettled civil claims against Exxon, Gulf, Arco, Mobil, Texaco, Conoco and other major oil companies.

The budget people, apparently so obsessed with saving a few million dollars before their eyes that they are blind to the billions of dollars that will be lost, have cut the enforcement office's budget from $44 million to $6 million.

This doesn't make sense even if the only objective were to balance the government's books. For one of the major beneficiaries of the compliance program has been the U.S. government, itself a big oil user. According to an internal study, the enforcement section has already returned $300 million to the Treasury; another $325 million could be expected by 1982 — if the enforcement budget is kept intact.

Shouldn't it be obvious that it would pay to spend $44 million to retrieve $325 million for the government, let alone the billions that the defrauded consumers would collect? This was pointed out to budget boss David Stockman by lawyers for the transportation industry. Their clients are entitled to $5 billion to $8 billion in overcharges, which the enforcement office will now be powerless to collect.

BUT THE FRUSTRATED lawyers came away convinced that Stockman is putting ideology above common sense. Sources told my reporter Sharon Geltner he stubbornly insisted that the goal of cutting the federal budget is paramount to any return that can be made from moneymaking compliance efforts.

So Stockman's ideologues are still clinging to their philippical hard line.

As one budget official wrote Energy Secretary James Edwards, keeping the compliance office at full budget "perpetuates (the) image of existing regulatory efforts," which are anathema to the budget ideologues.

This raises another multibillion-dollar question: How are the oil tycoons spending their fabulous profits? Remember their anguished testimony a couple of years ago when they pleaded for deregulation? Take off the federal shackles, they said, and we'll produce rivers of petroleum.

But the only rivers have been created by the incoming flood of money, not the outgoing flow of oil.

Instead of sinking their tremendous profits into oil exploration as they had promised, the oil companies have been investing billions in deals that have nothing to do with drilling oil or producing energy.

I have decried government red-tape and overregulation as stridently as Ronald Reagan has. But some people simply have to be regulated; there seems to be no other way to check the recklessly greedy oilmen.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: Good news from Central America, for a change: While most of the region is experiencing economic woes and civil strife, Panama is rising phoenix-like from the ashes of hard times.

Strongman Omar Torrijos and President Aristides Royo have succeeded in getting businessmen, unions and the government to cooperate and Panama has experienced a 7 percent economic growth rate since 1978.

— Right-wing Salvadoran extremist Roberto D'Aubuisson's statement that the Reagan administration would support a rightist coup in El Salvador was based, on conversations with Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, former head of the Defense Intelligence Agency and a former Reagan transition team member. Graham is furious, not because he doesn't share some of D'Aubuisson's views on communism, but because he never promised Reagan's support and saying so publicly would put the president in a bind. And that, said the general, would be foolish. "I don't mind being called a hard-liner or right-wing," gumbled Graham. "I just can't stand it when the press makes me look stupid."

— Two years ago, Egypt was declared a pariah by her Arab neighbors because of the peace accord with Israel. But the boycott didn't extend to the 2 million Egyptian workers abroad, whose wages earn Egypt nearly $3 billion a year. A secret Senate report explains: "90 percent of the primary school teachers in the Arab world are Egyptians, and the entire Libyan construction industry would collapse if Egyptian workers were expelled.... In the Gulf states, Egyptian workers are in high demand, and it would be self-defeating... to take any actions that would impact upon the availability of this labor force."

— The Polish crisis has diverted the attention of those who feared a Soviet invasion of Yugoslavia after Tito's death. But the CIA has been learning just how tough such an undertaking would be. The Yugoslavs have stockpiled enough food, medicine and arms in caves and tunnels throughout the country to provision guerrilla forces for more than two years.

Drug paraphernalia control threatened

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lawmakers throughout the nation are trying to fight drug abuse by passing laws against the sale of cigarette papers, waterpipes and other drug paraphernalia, but court rulings threaten to send the laws up in smoke. Fourteen states and hundreds of communities have adopted laws banning the sale of drug paraphernalia on the ground that the "head shops" where the pipes and papers are sold glamorize and encourage drug abuse, according to the federal Drug Enforcement Administration. And the trend shows no signs of slowing. The Oklahoma Legislature has passed a "head shop" bill that may go to Gov. George Nigh today. The Texas House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee — referred to in news accounts as the War on Drugs committee — this month recommended a bill that would punish both buyers and sellers of drug-related items. "The whole intent of the bill is to shut down the head shops," said state Rep.

Terral Smith of Austin. The paraphernalia industry is worth an estimated $500 million to $3 billion a year. The Drug Enforcement Administration has helped lawmakers by providing a model for a law against drug-related paraphernalia. Some judges, in overturning "head shop" laws, have said these items can have legitimate uses and that the laws give police too much power in deciding whether the items are intended for use with illegal drugs. Rolling papers for marijuana "joints," for example, can also be used for tobacco cigarettes. A paper clip can be used to hold the end of a burning marijuana cigarette. The issue of whether the sale of drug paraphernalia can be banned appears headed for the U.S. Supreme Court, possibly from the Cleveland suburb of Parma. Under the Parma law, making, selling or possessing drug paraphernalia is a second-degree misdemeanor, carrying a fine of $750 and 90 days in jail. It bans sale of devices such as hashish pipes, waterpipes, cocaine spoons, and prohibits the advertising of those and similar items.

'Blast Off for Heart' to attract youngsters

The Howard County Heart Association and Estes Industries of Penrose, Colo., will sponsor "Blast Off for Heart," a local fund raising event in which youngsters will build, decorate and launch model rockets, on April 26, from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. Boys and girls ages 10 to 18 are invited to take part in "Blast Off for Heart," according to Dr. David Rickey, a member of the Howard County Heart Association. Estes Industries, a model rocket manufacturer, has donated 150 rocket kits to the Howard County Heart Association for the "Blast Off."

The completed rockets are powered by a solid fuel engine ignited by remote control. An automatic parachute release returns the cardboard and balsa wood rockets safely to earth for relaunching. Joe Reed, a Big Spring High School science teacher and Estes rocket enthusiast, has calculated these rockets will reach an altitude of 1750 feet. Dr. Rickey said that Reed has an experience in rocket building and is advising the Heart Association on the event. Reed said the rockets will be launched under safety rules recommended by Estes Industries with adult supervision. The rockets should be built, then decorated any way one wishes. The rockets will be on display at Citizens Federal Credit Union from April 21-24. The most important step for participants is to obtain as many sponsors as possible to pledge an amount of money per second the rocket is in the air. The pledges collected will be donated to help support research, education, and public service programs of the Texas Heart Association. Prizes will be awarded by age groups 10-12, 13-15, and 16-18 for best construction and decoration, duration of flight, and person with the most pledges. The prizes are more advanced rocket kits donated by Estes Industries and local sponsors. Co-chairmen for the event are Darin Greenfield, 508 Highschool Dr., Coahoma; Cheryl Boydston, Sterling City Rte., Big Spring, and David and Charles Von-Rosenberg, 2617 Ann Dr., Big Spring. The free rocket kits and sponsor sheets are available from the co-chairmen and at Toyland, 1206 Gregg St., Mort Denton Pharmacy, 600 Gregg St., and The Medicine Shoppe, 1001 Gregg St.

Oral history bank shaping

In order to record the history of the part played by veterans in the early development of West Texas, the Big Spring VA Medical Center is establishing an oral history bank. Voice recordings on cassette tapes will be used to capture first hand accounts of local history as witnessed and remembered by individuals in West Texas. The actual recording of various accounts of West Texans will be done by volunteers at the VA Medical Center. The program will be sponsored by the Equal Employment Opportunity Committee.

service from West Texas and served with other West Texans. Also, the part played by Mexican-Americans and Blacks in the development of West Texas will be taped, as individuals' names, contributions and work are generally not well recorded. Most veterans to be interviewed will be above age 70. The actual recording of various accounts of West Texans will be done by volunteers at the VA Medical Center. The program will be sponsored by the Equal Employment Opportunity Committee.

SECOND IN ROW — Jean Hensley, president of the Big Spring Art Association, presents Frankie Noyola, freshman at Howard College, with a $100 scholarship for the Fall semester at Howard College. This is the second year in a row that the association has selected Noyola as their recipient of the scholarship, citing his outstanding abilities and potential in the art field as their reasons for selecting him again this year.

Tower, Stenholm deluged

Letter-writers favor budget cuts

WASHINGTON — Four times a day in an upstairs annex to Republican John Tower's Senate office, it is post time and a staff of nine races to keep up with their share of more than six million pieces of mail arriving monthly on Capitol Hill.

The Senate post office drops off more than 500 cards and letters addressed to Tower part of a house plus mailing the some 6 million pieces of mail arriving monthly on Capitol Hill.

Nine people on the Tower correspondence staff open, sort and answer the mail and tally the pro and con responses to the budget-trimming proposals with the help of an electronic letter opener and computer.

Although there is some indication opponents have become more vocal in the last several weeks as effects of the budget-cuts become better known, most members of Congress report a consensus from their districts to "give the president a chance."

Thousands of Texans have joined the vote-by-mail and according to a survey of most of the state's lawmakers in Washington, the call for cuts leads by more than a few lengths.

"There is an overwhelming response to cut, cut deep and cut now, even social benefits," says Jaymie Clayton, press aide to Rep. Charles Stenholm. D-Stamford Stenholm's office sent out a questionnaire some time ago asking constituents how they felt about an American Farm Bureau Federation recommendation for a one-year, 25 percent cut in Social Security cost-of-living increases. Overwhelmed with nearly 2,000 supportive responses, Stenholm's office quit counting.

The only group against the cut was those over age 65 and even there, the margin was close.

Opposition from a group affected by proposed budget cuts is a familiar theme in the letters and, according to the Texans surveyed, the only thing that keeps support for the Reagan plan from being unanimous.

Austin Democrat Jake Pickle's office has heard wide general support for the cuts, even from those who want a favored or "necessary" program salvaged from the heap. "We get tons of mail that says, 'Golly, we support the president, do what he says,'" recounts aide Sandy Dochen. "People feel it's okay if they aren't touched by anything, but it's predictable that if you rely on the school lunch program, you're against the cuts."

'Detrimental to her children'

Psychiatrist says Vickie has 'disorder'

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Austin psychiatrist Richard Coons today corroborated earlier testimony that Vickie Daniel, charged with killing husband Price Daniel Jr., has personality abnormalities that could be detrimental to her two small children.

Coons testified that male children raised by persons with hysteric tendencies tend to feel they can't make their mother happy.

"Therefore the male would feel he was not good enough to make that other person happy and would place part of the blame on himself," Coons testified.

He appeared in a child custody suit filed by Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph, to gain custody of her brother's two young sons by Mrs. Daniel.

Dr. Keenth Wetcher, a Nassau Bay psychiatrist, earlier testified Mrs. Daniel has a histrionic personality disorder and could harm her children both physically and emotionally during periods of stress.

Coons studied Wetcher's report prior to making his diagnosis today. He concurred that Mrs. Daniel had a histrionic personality disorder.

On Wednesday, attorneys argued over whether Coons, a surprise witness, could testify.

"It's not only unusual, but it looks to me very much like a desperate, last-ditch attempt effort to gild the lily and put frosting on the cornbread," said Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, attorney for Mrs. Daniel.

"That's beans for his cornbread," Zbrank shot back. "You could hardly expect him to say it was a death blow (to Haynes' case)."

Coons, who has never examined any of the principals in the child custody case, took the witness stand Wednesday to answer a hypothetical situation posed about Mrs. Daniel, who is charged with murder in the Jan. 19 shooting death of her husband.

Haynes was on his feet immediately, objecting that he was unaware that Coons would testify and therefore was unable to prepare his cross-examination.

After Family District Judge Sam S. Emison Jr. overruled Haynes' lengthy objection, Zbrank then took the hour to review Mrs. Daniel's personal history, details of the night Daniel died, allegations made against Daniel by his wife and problems Mrs. Daniel had in her first marriage.

Zbrank then asked Coons to offer an opinion concerning Mrs. Daniel. The doctor asked for five minutes to review the information. He then asked for another 15 minutes, then said he could not make a statement until he reviewed all the trial transcripts.

Haynes still was irked after the day's session.

"We were bound by a court order to give a list of our witnesses," Haynes said. "Now, all of a sudden, here we have someone not on the list."

Zbrank denied there was such agreement to list all witnesses scheduled to testify.

Prior to Coons' appearance, Mrs. Murph said she was afraid of being alone with her sister-in-law.

"I mean, one person has already been killed and I've heard some of these things and I don't know what might happen next."

Mrs. Murph, seeking custody of Franklin Baldwin, 3, and Marion Price IV, 1, said she would comply with visitation rights if she gains custody, but would have someone else present when Mrs. Daniel arrived for visits.

"I am extremely concerned about the children's safety. If she (Mrs. Daniel) is backed into a corner, she might decide to take her own life and take her children with her."

"I don't think the kids should be with her because of her emotional state."

Fourth body discovered in rubble

Cause of Corpus blast investigated

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Search teams were determined to go back into the smoldering rubble of a burned-out grain elevator today to look for two men believed buried in the debris of an explosion and fire that demolished most of the structure.

Many of those helping in the search were inside the building when it blew up Tuesday and believed, at the time, that they were going to die.

Four men were killed in the Tuesday blast, triggered when volatile grain dust was ignited in the huge, 10-story elevator, investigators said. Another 32 men were injured and 20 of those remained hospitalized, hospital spokesmen said.

The structure sustained $30 million damage and must be razed and rebuilt from the ground up, said Don Rodman, public information officer for the Port of Corpus Christi.

Israel Lopez, 24, an employee of the Corpus Christi Public Elevator, scrambled up a mound of crumpled concrete looking for one of the missing men as darkness fell Tuesday.

Huge chunks of the shattered concrete walls, held in place only by twisted steel reinforcing rods, hung precariously above Lopez head as he searched, but he refused to seek safety.

"The guy taught me all I know," Lopez said of the missing man. "He's in here somewhere."

Lopez was transferred to another job in the elevator before the blast, else he would have been standing where the missing man was. But he still feared for his life when the dust blew.

"I knew I was going to get burned and all I could think of was to cover my face so that they could recognize my body later," he said.

Lopez will stay on the job but a half-dozen or so of his friends plan to quit because of the powerful explosion and the possibility that it could happen again, he said.

put our lives on the line. I never knew how intense it could be until this happened. Grain dust is supposed to be 10 times as powerful as gunpowder," Lopez said.

"I got hit by a file cabinet that pinned me against the wall," said elevator superintendent Bill Jackson. "It probably saved my life. I was holding my face against the wall and all I could think of was, 'I'm going to die.'"

Cranes and bulldozers were moved into the area Wednesday to help clear the rubble and facilitate search efforts, which were halted at nightfall because electric power still has not been restored to the dockside area.

A 200-foot-high crane lifted firefighters to the top of the storage silos to check on fires that continued to smolder and see if more bodies could be spotted.

A fourth body was found shortly after noon Tuesday and identified as Pedro Delgado, 54, a Corpus Christi employee of the elevator.

Three of the dead were found immediately after the explosion.

Alfredo Canales, 52, a mechanic in the maintenance division, was found on the main floor of the headhouse.

"Somebody was standing next to him," said his son, Robert R. Canales. "He lived through it. What can you say? It's difficult. It really is."

Richard W. Pierce, a 44-year-old maintenance worker, was knocked through the rail dumping area and onto the ground.

Jose Valdez, 32, recently had been promoted to assistant superintendent. He was in the control room when the silos exploded.

The Port of Corpus Christi's engineering director, Nolan Rhodes, said investigators may never know what caused the dust to ignite or why the elevator's $50-million dust control system failed to work properly.

Port Director Harry G. Plomarity said, "We're terribly hurt, disappointed and grieved. They (dust control devices) were installed as they should have been. They were functioning and everything seemed to be in perfect working order before it happened." Two ships, waiting to load at the crippled elevator, were diverted Wednesday to the port of Houston by the Department of Agriculture.

"One of the things that we will have to figure out is what we are going to do with the grain that is in the elevator and how we will get it out," said Rodman. "The elevator equipment will not work. We will have to do some work to see what repairs can be done to get the grain moving again."

"We are completely out of business. Right now we do not know how long it will take to make the facility minimally operational if at all."

Authorities said traffic through the Corpus Christi ship channel continued to flow smoothly.

The elevator is governed by Nueces County and is not directly under the regulations of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, but "if OSHA wishes to come in they are certainly welcome," Rhodes said.

Officials said that in the elevator when it exploded were 2.9 million bushels of grain — sorghum, corn and hard winter wheat — slightly more than half of the 5.6 million bushel capacity.

T.D. Sexton, port commissioner, said the explosion would have a "substantial economic impact on the area. Obviously we are not going to be able to handle any grain for an extended period of time."

He estimated the economic loss to area "in excess of $100 million."

Seven exporting firms use the elevator.

This was not the first accident at the elevator. Lightning touched off an explosion July 27, 1968. It killed one person, caused $2 million damages and shut down the elevator for a year.

Eighteen people remained in Memorial Hospital Wednesday, said spokeswoman Kay White. Six were in critical condition, one in poor condition, and 11 in fair condition. Seven of the victims were in the burn unit, she added.

She said 12 others had been treated and released.

Spokesman Vince Heley of Spohn Hospital said two people remained hospitalized Wednesday.

Start average billing before you start your air conditioner

If you use the same amount of electricity this summer as you did last year, you're going to see a big increase in your summer bills.

Our Average Billing Plan can help, because it "averages out" your electric bills. You still pay for all the electricity you use, and your payments will still vary from month to month. But in high-use months you pay for less electricity than you use, and in low-use months you pay for more than you use.

Many customers find this helps ease the impact of high summer air conditioning bills. Our average billing plan is available to both residential customers and churches. If you'd like to know more, give us a call at Texas Electric.

Bradley's death mourned by friends in Texas

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Texas congressmen, local officials and Army officers who knew Gen. Omar Bradley mourned Wednesday after learning of the general's death in New York at the age of 88.

"The last of our great World War II commanders has crossed the river to join a distinguished company," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas. "His countrymen and free men everywhere will reflect on his monumental service and mourn his passing."

Gen. Chester Ward, commanding general of the William Beaumont Army Center in El Paso, described Bradley as "one of the most impressive individuals I've ever had the opportunity to know."

Ward, who has been one of Bradley's physicians since he took over at Beaumont eight months ago, said the general was generally in good health for a person his age despite the series of strokes that had wracked his body.

"Everything considered, he was in pretty good shape," Ward said. "He was a superb patient. He was cooperative and had an understanding of what's going on and was appreciative."

Ward said Bradley enjoyed entertaining listeners with tales of his war adventures.

"But he didn't tell what we call 'war stories,'" Ward said. "He was much more of a historian. There was no bravado, no exaggeration. He certainly had some interesting situations to recount."

"He had an ability to

Tourism merger plan postponed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements must wait a week to find out what the Senate State Affairs Committee thinks about his merger plans for tourist and industrial development agencies.

The committee got mixed advice from witnesses Wednesday and decided to put off a vote on the bill at least a week.

"Collectively we could do a better job than is being done by these three agencies now," said Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, author of the measure to abolish the current Industrial Commission, Texas Tourist Development Agency and Texas Film Commission.

The new agency would be known as the Texas Department of Commerce and Economic Development.

"These fragmented agencies today are not effective," said Paul Wrotenbery, Clements financial adviser. "It is a great opportunity for economies and efficiencies."

"The tourist and film agencies have done outstanding jobs over the years," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin. "I think we should let them continue."

William Ochse, owner of the St. Anthony Hotel, San Antonio, and a member of both the tourist and film commissions, said the tourist development board voted March 27 to endorse the bill.

"Although some board members have the attitude that 'if it ain't broke why fix it' we are willing to give the merger plan a trial," Ochse said.

"We're apprehensive," said Jim Battersby, president of the privately financed Discover Texas Association. "Some of the aspects of this bill could damage or demolish the multi-million dollar tourist business in Texas."

Dominic Bernardi Jr., El Paso banker, said "all efforts to sell Texas have a common denominator. For instance, advertising and market research could be consolidated."

communicate with a wide range of people, particularly young people," he added. "You know, a lot of old people have trouble talking with people who are in their 20s. But we were at one function recently and there was bunch of them gathered around him mesmerized."

"He was the epitome of a great soldier," Ward said. "He probably was one of the greatest logisticians in military history."

Tower, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and U.S. Rep. Richard White, D-El Paso, all issued statements praising Bradley and expressing their sympathy to his family.

White called Bradley "a friend to the foot soldier, and more parochially, a friend to El Paso."

Bradley and his wife Kitty moved to El Paso in November 1977 from their Beverly Hills, Calif., home.

El Pasoans treated Bradley as a local celebrity, honoring him frequently for a career that spanned more than half a century.

El Paso Mayor Tom Westfall said the city had given Bradley "almost every honor the city has, but I am sure we will have a complete day of mourning. It has been a great, great honor for El Paso to have been the home for this great soldier."

For some, the memories of Bradley were from earlier years.

Paul Griego of nearby Las Cruces, N.M., was wounded and taken to a Paris hospital while a master sergeant in World War II. His memory of Bradley was of the general presenting him with a Silver Star and the Purple Heart, telling him, "You're a good soldier."

Brig. Gen. Willie Scott, adjutant general of the Texas National Guard, also met Bradley in Europe during World War II.

"He was a soldier's general," Scott said. "He was a great symbol ... the last of our great World War II generals."

For others, the memories were more recent and more personal.

Richard Knowles, former assistant chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Bradley "was the type of person who would always remember your name. He was so comfortable to be with."

"He was very active not only in the military sense but throughout the community of El Paso and the world," said retired Lt. Gen. R.L. Shoemaker of El Paso. "He was crippled by a series of strokes, but he never gave up."

Bradley was an avid worker throughout his long career and spent several hours each day in his sand-colored office at nearby Fort Bliss.

His office was lined with pictures of his contemporaries — Winston Churchill, Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery and former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman.

And now Bradley, the victim of yet another of the strokes that he suffered, has joined them.

El Paso war games like the real thing—almost

By STEVE BREWER
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — "Yeah, war is hell all right," grinned the grimy soldier as he hustled off to his armored personnel carrier for another skirmish in the war games along the Texas-New Mexico border.

The carrier and the tanks it accompanied threw up plumes of sand as they roared over and around the brush-covered dunes of the south New Mexico desert. Helicopters and jets performed an aerial ballet overhead.

Nearby, Capt. Kirk C. Durante barked orders into a radio: "Watch yourself there, Charley. Watch that aircraft at the intersection. OK. Here they come. Fire 'em up."

More scrambling around and then, as quickly as it had begun, it's over. No shots were fired.

"Well, we whipped them again," said Sgt. Harvey Frank of the Montana National Guard. "That's about eight times in the past 24 hours."

Frank is one of 21,000 Army, Marine, Air Force, Navy and National Guard troops participating in Border Star '81, major war games being conducted by the United States Readiness Command to test the preparedness of the nation's military.

The games have brought tanks, armored personnel carriers, jet fighters, helicopters, Jeeps and soldiers all together in the desert country north of El Paso.

"This is one of the biggest operations we've ever conducted," said Lt. Col. Dick Beaudry, a public affairs officer for Readiness Command. "It's so com-

Attorney says juror coerced into verdict

HOUSTON (AP) — A defense attorney says a juror who opposed the death penalty was "coerced" into going along with the 11 other jurors who recommended that convicted baby-killer Allen Wayne Janecka be put to death.

After the verdict was returned Wednesday, "it was obvious one of the jurors was coerced or affected by some of the court's instructions," said defense attorney Ken Sparks.

"It was a very emotional situation. It was an emotional situation that caused her to return the verdict she did," Sparks said.

The jury returned the death recommendation after having reported late Tuesday it was hopelessly deadlocked, 11-1, in favor of death.

On Monday, the jury had found Janecka, 31, guilty on a capital charge of being hired to murder 14-month-old Kevin Wanstrath, whose body, along with those of his adoptive parents, was found in a fashionable West Side home on July 5, 1979. Each had been shot in the head.

Janecka also is charged with capital murder in the deaths of John and Diana Wanstrath, as are Markham Duff-Smith, 34, an adoptive brother of Mrs. Wanstrath, and Walter A. Waldhauser Jr., 27, a real estate broker and friend of Duff-Smith.

Prosecutors contend Duff-Smith masterminded the slayings and received about half of the $800,000 Wanstrath estate.

Waldhauser, in a bargaining agreement, entered pleas of guilty last week to three capital murder charges and agreed to testify later against Duff-Smith. Waldhauser will be sentenced later but prosecutors have indicated he will draw a 30-year term.

Jurors heard prosecutors read a statement Janecka was said to have made after his November arrest. Janecka said he and Waldhauser entered the Wanstrath home claiming to be homebuilders and carrying a bottle of champagne as a "little gift."

On a signal from Waldhauser, Janecka said he shot Wanstrath and then the wife as Waldhauser sprayed her with Mace. The baby was killed in its upstairs crib.

Medical examiners originally returned a verdict of double murder and suicide although no weapon was recovered. The verdict was changed to triple murder after Janecka's arrest and the recovery of what prosecutors said was the murder weapon.

licated you wouldn't believe it."

But for the soldiers who have spent up to a week piloting tanks and armored personnel carriers around the New Mexico desert, it's much simpler.

"Remember when you were a kid and you'd play with those little soldiers in your sandbox?" said Spec. 4 Kerry Wallace. "Well, this is just bigger soldiers and a bigger sandbox."

"You're out here to see action and you see it, but here again you don't see it," agreed Spec. 4 Roger Ayers. "Most of it's done over the radio. It's all on paper."

"Just the same, we take what we're doing seriously," he said. "They ought to do more of this. When you're just assigned to one base all the time, you don't get the kind of experience you'd need in a real combat situation."

That's exactly the purpose of the desert exercises, Beaudry said.

"Generally, desert is desert," he said. "The desert here is like the desert in Afghanistan or the Persian Gulf. Those are obvious areas that we're concerned about. Our guys need that kind of training."

"The only other thing you can do with these troops to make it more real is to shoot them," he said.

While most of the soldiers interviewed emphasized the value of the training, they said the real war was against the terrain and the climate.

"It's been seven days since I had a bath," Ayers said, looking at his hands, which were covered with grease and grit.

"It's kind of dangerous taking reporters out here after the guys have been out in the desert this long because you don't know how they'll react," said Maj. Don Patterson. "They look at you and they know that you've had a shower and you get to go home and sleep in a bed tonight."

"Those kids get out there for a few days and probably wonder why they ever signed up," he said.

Sgt. Jerry Embry, who heads up a tank unit, said his crew had operated "all night last night and the night before."

"It's rough driving these babies around these dunes at night," he said. "One minute you're inside your tank and the next minute, you're on the outside trying to hang on."

"Most people really get a kick out of all this when the weather's good," he said. "The weather has been lousy this time."

Besides the dirt, Ayers' main complaint was lack of sleep. He and other members of his crew were cramped inside their armored personnel carrier in the heat of the afternoon, napping.

"It's been three days since I got any real sleep," he said. "What a way to get a paycheck."

"I threw my sleeping bag on a dune the other night and I said to myself, 'If a snake gets in this sleeping bag, he'd better be quiet,'" Wallace said.

"When you come out here, your standards of living here definitely drop," said Embry, as rock n' roll music bleared out of a radio inside his tank. "Some guys bring radios. Some bring extra clothes or gear. But no matter what you do, you're still out in the desert."

Despite all of the hazards, Embry and others say the war games, to a certain degree, are fun.

"What's going on out here is kind of fun," said Patterson, a Vietnam veteran.

"But nobody's getting hurt. You're not sending anybody home in a body bag. That's what this is all about. Maybe we won't have to."

Depression-era kitchen secrets recorded for today's cooks

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — Few modern cooks would return to the days of backyard hog-killings, wringing chicken necks or rendering lard.

But for the curious and those who remember such once-routine, rural activities of the Depression, author Louise Blackwell Dillow has recorded them for posterity.

Her "Mrs. Blackwell's Heart of Texas Cookbook" recalls days of growing up on a farm near Corsicana when the only store-bought things were flour, salt, sugar, coffee and tea.

"My whole memory of my mother is her preparing food. She did that all day long," said the retired child welfare worker who was born fifth of nine children.

Published by Corona Publishing Co. of San Antonio, the book's first printing of 6,000 copies is being marketed only in Texas.

The project started strictly as a way to preserve family recipes.

Once on a trip home to Corsicana, Mrs. Dillow drove around to see the numerous homes she had lived in when her father was a tenant farmer. Hardly anything remained.

She and her sisters began reminiscing about their mother's well spread table and soon regretted that few family recipes were written down.

She took it from there, collaborating with an older sister, Deenie B. Carver, on the cookbook which combines anecdotes of growing up with recipes from a country kitchen.

"I don't expect people to try everything," Mrs. Dillow said during an interview on her beachfront condominium.

"Lye soap is one of the 'good ol' days' products that I've never had a hankering to go back to," she writes.

In a section on chicken, she adds, "The gizzard was a coveted piece of chicken in the Blackwell family until someone told us that eating gizzards would make a girl's breasts grow bigger."

The Blackwell family boasted seven girls and two boys.

Mrs. Dillow went off to Mary Hardin Baylor College in Belton for a bachelor's degree, attended the University of Chicago and earned a master's degree from Howard University in Washington. She worked in child welfare departments across Texas, married and reared three children in the Washington, D.C., area where her husband worked for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

They retired to this South Texas resort where he died less than a year ago.

She said she had to leave the cotton fields of North Central Texas to appreciate her childhood but she does not paint a rosy picture of the Depression.

"We knew we were poor and we didn't like it. My parents were always wanting to do better for us. We came out all right in spite of it, not because of it," she said.

Meals were cooked on a wood-burning stove and there was no electricity.

"If it got too hot in the summer, we'd get in the Model T, if we could afford the gas, and take a drive to let the breeze cool us," she remembered.

Beef could not be stored long and the family would can steaks.

"Can you imagine," she said.

Chicken was reserved for Sunday dinner. Pork was the second-favorite meat, often consumed with red-eye gravy.

Other regular fare at the eight-foot-long table were fresh vegetables from the family garden, potatoes, rolls, cornbread, pies, cakes and cobbler.

Her favorite recipes remain beet pickles, Sunday chicken and coconut cake. Mrs. Dillow says she probably was the most unlikely family member to write a cookbook.

"Father once said I was the dumbest country girl he knew," she said with a smile. "I couldn't milk the cows and by the time I came along my mother was tired of teaching little girls to cook."

KKK aims attacks at fire chief

ADA, Okla. (AP) — A harassment campaign with apparent racial overtones is being aimed at Fire Chief Bill Gray and this town's newspaper — and Gray says he fears for his family's safety.

Recently a cross was burned out of town and bumper stickers saying "The KKK is Watching You" were stuck on Gray's office door, the newspaper office and on many Ada Evening News vending boxes, he said Wednesday.

"My three boys don't play in our front yard anymore," said Gray, who is black.

Gray said he believes the acts are linked to efforts of his wife, Barbara, who headed a move to save a swimming pool in Ada's black community.

There also was speculation the harassment may stem from an employee complaint against Gray. Gray was suspended with pay from Feb. 23 to March 4 after a woman employee complained of sexual harassment and use of profanity. He was cleared in an administrative investigation and was reinstated.

"I feel no matter what anyone else tells me that this all happened because of my wife's actions," said Gray, who has been chief for two years.

Mickey Thompson, Ada Evening News managing editor, said he believes the paper's problems with the harassment incidents originally stemmed from an editorial he wrote Jan. 19, urging members of the black community to rally to save the swimming pool. The city manager had recommended it be turned into a storm shelter.

Thompson said the editorial apparently helped fuel a large turnout of black residents at City Council meetings at which the swimming pool measure was to be discussed.

"Our black community has been noted for not being very vociferous," Thompson said. "So we suggested in an editorial it was time for the black people of Ada to stand up, make their voices heard and keep their swimming pool."

The pool will be open again this summer.

Thompson said he believes the complaints against Gray stemmed from Mrs. Gray's work to save the swimming pool. He also said he thinks only "a couple" of people are harassing the paper and Gray.

The cross was set aflame just south of town March 25.

A sign at the site, addressed "To whom it may concern," urged an end to mixing of races and to Communism, and called for a boycott of the Ada newspaper. It was signed, "The Ku Klux Klan."

Klan pamphlets had been handed through the fence to children at a local grade school, Thompson said.

City Manager Leonard Briley lauded Gray's work with the city, adding there had been no complaints against Gray until the one filed by the woman employee.

Congressional Comment

To support reductions in White House budget

WASHINGTON, D.C. — reductions in the White House budget as well as the Congressional budget. Total employment in the legislative branch of government averaged about 39,500 persons in 1980, with only 1,770 of those represented on committee staffs.

That number is about six-hundredths of 1 percent of total civilian federal employment; less than 5 percent of total employment in the legislative branch and only 15 percent of the total number of House employees; and less than the number of persons employed by such federal agencies as the National Labor Relations Board, Interstate Commerce Commission or the Smithsonian Institution.

Both the Library of Congress and the General Accounting Office employ nearly three times as many people. Even the Architect of the Capitol has more employees than all House committees combined.

I would also point out that House committee staffs are tiny compared to the departments and agencies over which they have jurisdiction. For instance, the Banking Committee employed 97 people in 1980, but his jurisdiction over programs employing nearly 70,000 federal employees.

The population of the U.S. has grown significantly since Woodrow Wilson's day. Government, unfortunately, has grown as well. I pledge my continued effort to reduce federal spending and therefore the growth of government, at all levels.

But until we curb the overall growth of the bureaucracy, it is important to keep the size of the legislative staff required to oversee that government in order to reduce its size fairly and equitably.

Reagan's Executive Office will employ 16 percent more staff than all standing and select House committees combined this year. No reductions have been recommended for fiscal year 1981. I intend to support

Sensible eating, exercise keys to good health, Lions advised

Sensible eating and exercise are the keys to good health and strong bodies, according to Douglas Beams.

Beams, a Big Spring native who has opened a health center here, addressed the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday.

His advice is exercise (work up to the vigorous ones gradually) on a consistent basis; lay off the fats and cut down on quick energy carbohydrates. Older people are in need of exercise as much or more than those in younger and middle years, he added.

The newspaper collection point has been moved from Highland parking lot to John Davis Feed Store at East Second and Benton, or the paper yard at 1406 East Second.

President Dub Martin announced that the annual election of officers was slated for next Wednesday; he also urged attendance at the Salvation Army luncheon Tuesday when U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen will speak.

Should Something Go Wrong

ABORT PROCEDURES — Illustration shows space shuttle Abort Procedure, should something go wrong after liftoff.

Young, Crippen not bothered by potential shuttle hazard

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space shuttle Columbia is the first spacecraft assigned to carry astronauts without first being tested on unmanned flights. Its two pilots say they are unconcerned.

Astronauts John Young and Bob Crippen concede the maiden journey carries the potential for a disaster that could cost them their lives, but note Columbia is laced with safety features for emergencies from launch to landing.

"We obviously think the vehicle is safe; otherwise we wouldn't be flying it," said Young, 50, the mission commander who has made four earlier space trips, two each in the Gemini and Apollo programs.

The Mercury, Gemini and Apollo craft each were flown on at least two unmanned flights, and two chimpanzees, Ham and Enos, tried out Mercury before Alan Shepard and John Glenn went.

But the shuttle is too complex a vehicle to send up without pilots.

"There's probably a way to do it, but it would probably cost as much as $500 million and delay the program another year," Young told the Associated Press.

"Just about anything can break and we'll decide to go ahead and terminate" the 54-hour mission, Crippen said.

"We've taken a very conservative approach — we're going to play it safe," said Flight Director Charles Lewis.

The most dangerous part may be when Columbia's three main engines and its two solid-fuel booster rockets ignite on the launch pad.

Earlier American spacecraft were equipped with an escape tower — a rocket attached to the nose — intended to pull the craft swiftly away from an exploding rocket during liftoff and parachute it to safety.

But Columbia's 80-ton weight and its shape precluded an escape tower. Instead, the astronauts sit in ejection seats.

"I guarantee if you pull that little handle, you will eject, and all the data shows there should be no problem with survivability," he said of the possibility he could be ejected into a fireball.

If the four test flights are successful, NASA will consider the spacecraft to be as reliable as a jetliner and remove the seats.

To handle a problem — such as an engine failure — once Columbia is off the pad, NASA devised a number of "abort modes" for a fast emergency landing.

If trouble occurs in the first 4 minutes and 23 seconds, the shuttle, having jettisoned its two boosters but still firing its main engines, would swing around and return to a 15,000-foot landing strip at Cape Canaveral.

Shuttle craft eventually will land back at Canaveral, but for the first three or four flights, landing is planned for the wide-open lake bed at Edwards Air Force Base in California, allowing a large margin for error if runway landing goes awry.

The most important in-orbit test comes early in the flight: The open and closing of two giant doors on Columbia's 60-foot-long cargo bay. Silvery panels just inside them are designed to radiate heat from the crew cabin and from electronic devices throughout the spaceship.

If the doors don't open, the astronauts would quickly return to Earth, because they have only enough backup cooling to stay up for about nine hours.

Ten pairs of motors drive the latches that close the doors. If any one motor fails, the shuttle would then return to Earth. That's because, if the second motor in the pair should later fail, the doors probably could not be closed and the ship might not be able to survive re-entry.

Upon its re-entry to the atmosphere, Columbia enters a region of hypersonic speeds where no winged craft has ever flown before.

It is not precisely known how well pilots can control the craft in this region from about 400,000 feet down, so Columbia's computers will command the critical re-entry, with Young taking over at 40,000 feet for the landing.

Mission Control will monitor closely during this phase to see if any of the spaceship's 30,922 heat shield tiles have loosened or fallen off. If any tiles have detached from high heat areas, where 2,700-degree temperatures sear the spacecraft, critical systems could be burned, perhaps making a safe landing impossible.

In such a case, if they are below 100,000 feet, the astronauts could eject.

Old Time Medicine Show maps 'Search for Talent Contest'

Sponsored by the Big Spring Sports Boosters Club, Tommy Scott's Old Time Medicine Show will offer a performance here starting at 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 20, in the City Auditorium.

Proceeds beyond expenses will go toward expenses incurred by the BSSBC for the annual Spring Sports Banquet, which honors all varsity sports performers in the local high school.

The Medicine Show is a family entertainment event. In addition, a "Search for Talent Contest" will be conducted. Anyone who sings, dances or plays musical instruments and wants to participate will have an opportunity to do so.

The only rule is that the participant arrive at the auditorium an hour before showtime. Each person must bring his own accompanist with him or her.

Winners will be judged on audience applause. The efforts of the top talent will be submitted to a Nashville Talent and Record Agency.

Advance tickets are on sale at Big Spring Savings, First Federal Savings, YMCA, Citizens Federal Credit Union, First National Bank, Big Spring High School office, the United Way office and Big Spring Athletics.

Tickets can also be purchased at the door beginning at 6:30 p.m., the night of the show.

Approximately 130 merchants have purchased advance tickets which they plan to give away.

Sherrie Bordofsky, president of the Booster Club, states: "The Booster Club would like to express our appreciation to all of the Merchants who purchased the tickets in advance. This is a great asset to the success of the show. This show is fabulous for family entertainment and proceeds will be used for our sports program in Big Spring. We urge that all citizens who care for our young people, attend this show which corresponds with the Centennial Celebration."

PRESIDENTIAL GIFTS — Volunteers show off gifts received at the White House Wednesday for the recovering President Reagan. Among the gifts received, a fishbowl containing a fish, jellybeans and many cards.

Continental employees say they're buying control of company's future

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Continental Airlines workers, declaring they have "sweat equity" in their employer, are banding together in a unique effort to buy control of the company and block its acquisition by Texas International Airlines.

"We have invested our lives and our energies in this company and as a result we have sweat equity," pilot Paul Eckel, chairman of the newly formed Continental Employees' Association, said Wednesday. "We think that sweat equity needs to be recognized. If ownership of the company is to transfer, it should be to the employees, not the speculators."

Eckel said the CEA, with management's blessing, plans to acquire control of Continental by purchasing 15.4 million newly issued shares of common stock through an

Stenholm's farm legislation to be detailed at local meet

U. S. Rep Charles Stenholm's proposed legislation, which calls for agricultural farm supports, will be discussed at length at a meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Monday at the Dora Employe Stock Ownership Plan. He said the $185 million needed to buy the stock would be borrowed by the ESOP, with the loan to be secured by Continental and repaid with funds generated by having the airline's more than 10,000 employees forego raises for several years.

"The plan basically involves acquiring money from the lenders that will allow us to buy a controlling interest in the ownership of Continental Airlines," Eckel told a news conference at company headquarters here.

More than 3,000 U.S. companies have formed ESOPs, which have generally been used to allow employees to purchase relatively small amounts of the firm's stock. However, the use of an ESOP to buy outright control of a corporation is a new twist on that theme — one which could be challenged in court.

In Houston, Texas International spokeswoman Stephanie Ross said the company would have no immediate comment on the CEA announcement. The firm already has spent some $93 million to purchase more than six million shares of Continental stock, but Eckel noted that if 15.4 million more shares are issued, the Houston-based airline will no longer have controlling ownership.

A majority of Continental's employees must approve the ESOP plan before it can be implemented, but Eckel said 10 percent have already done so and predicted the idea would win overwhelming support.

Food standards won't be relaxed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block and at least some key segments of the food industry are trying to assure consumers that federal standards will be maintained as government regulations are relaxed.

"Be certain that the administration's commitment to a sound food safety policy is strong," Block said Wednesday. "USDA's goal is to maintain public confidence in our food supply. But the real goal is to keep the food supply safe. Consumer confidence will follow."

Block made his comments in a speech to the National Food Policy Conference.

An Illinois farmer and former state director of agriculture, Block said he is proud that his home state has "one of the top state-run inspection programs in the country."

"And I want to go on record as continuing my advocacy for sound inspection now that I'm at the federal level," he said.

Block, before, plugged hard for Reagan administration objectives of reducing federal regulation and relying more on state and local authority.

"Less regulation can be more effective regulation," Block said. "Less regulation can be more responsive regulation."

Block said federal officials are reviewing laws and regulations that prohibit the use of any food additive which is shown to cause cancer. He referred specifically to the "Delaney Clause" in a 1962 federal law that prohibits such additives.

"I want to stress that the issue isn't a toss-up between cutting government regulatory costs and keeping our food supply safe," Block said. "We can have it both ways. And we will."

On Tuesday, a meat industry official told the conference — which was sponsored jointly by the Community Nutrition Institute and the Food Marketing Institute — that there is a growing consensus for changes in food safety laws.

C. Manly Molpus, president of the American Meat Institute, said that while the American food supply system is working well "one key part ... is flawed and needs overhaul."

But Molpus said people who seek change "are not attempting to eliminate or 'gut' the Delaney Clause or the food safety statutes" in the process.

"It would not serve our interest or the public interest to, in any way, diminish the integrity of our food supply," Molpus said. "Food produced in the United States is the safest and most wholesome of any country in the world. We have a vested interest in maintaining that standard. We intend to do so."

Production of farm-grown catfish is expected to reach record levels this year, but the outlook for farm-raised trout "is less certain," says the Agriculture Department.

"Fish farmers' production costs will rise primarily because of higher fish feed and fingerling costs," the department said Wednesday in a summary of an "agriculture" report to be released later this month. "Tight food budgets and higher travel costs may mean less consumer fish purchases from restaurants and food services, which account for over two-thirds of retail fish and seafood sales," the report said.

"However, red meat and poultry prices this spring and summer should provide some support for catfish and trout sales."

Output of farm-grown catfish was a record 46.5 million pounds last year, measured on a live-weight basis, a 14 percent jump from 1979. Prices paid to producers averaged 67.6 cents a pound, up about 10 percent from 1979.

Production of farm-raised trout in the first seven months of 1980 — the most recent figures available — was 28.2 million pounds, with Idaho accounting for 24.8 million pounds. Prices paid to producers averaged 73 cents a pound. No comparative figures for a year earlier were included.

"Although Idaho likely has potential for larger output, high production and distribution costs and marketing problems may moderate growth," the report said. "However, trout production in other states may climb to meet a projected increase in fee and recreational fishing."

WASHINGTON (AP) — China experienced a "rapidly rising demand" for cigarettes last year, triggering some shortages and rationing, the Agriculture Department says.

Production in 1980 was about 750 billion cigarettes, a boost of 15 percent or about 100 billion cigarettes from 1979, the department said Wednesday. But production lags caused short supplies, officials said.

All-Conference scoring ace won't stay here for sophomore year Corker leaves Hawks for Virginia Commonwealth

SIGNING UP... Howard College's All-Conference freshman scoring ace Randy Corker signs a national letter-of-intent with Virginia Commonwealth yesterday. Corker, who was the sixth leading scorer in the nation in the junior college ranks, had one more year of eligibility left with the Hawks, but decided instead to head the major college at this time. (See Related Story)

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

After dazzling the Howard College Hawk fans with his high scoring and versatile style on the basketball court, Randy Corker is making somewhat of a premature exit from the local scene.

Corker, a freshman, decided to move on to the big time a year before Howard College Coach Harold Wilder would undoubtedly like him to, signing a national letter-of-intent yesterday with Virginia Commonwealth.

Virginia Commonwealth, although not a familiar name to most college basketball fans in this part of the country, is no slouch. It won the newly formed Sun Belt Conference tournament the past year after finishing in a three-way tie with Alabama-Birmingham and South Alabama. Their tournament championship, in which they defeated Alabama-Birmingham in the finals, gave VC an automatic berth into the NCAA Tournament.

In the NCAA Tourney, Virginia Commonwealth topped Long Island University in the first round before falling to Tennessee in overtime in the second round. Tennessee, meanwhile, lost a slim decision to Final Four participant Virginia in the East Regional.

Meanwhile, Sun Belt foe Alabama-Birmingham also gave the conference a bigger chest, defeating three foes before losing to eventual national champion Indiana in the Mid-East Regional finals. One of Birmingham's victims was Kentucky.

And even with those Sun Belt credentials, Virginia Commonwealth Assistant Coach Snuffy Smith feels that Corker should contend for a starting position when he arrives.

"We feel he'll be ready to play for us his first year, that's one of the main reasons we're recruiting him as a freshman," Smith said. "We're going to play him as a small forward."

"He has all the attributes that any major college coach is looking for," Smith, who is an aide to VC head man J.D. Barnett, stated. "He's got strength, quickness and a lot of skill with the basketball. We lost his position, as well as a point guard and our other forward, so we're really looking for some immediate help from Randy."

And while the Virginia Commonwealth coaching staff was impressed with Corker, who finished sixth nationally in scoring with a per game average of 25.6 points, the bulky freshman from Trenton, New Jersey, was equally impressed with the program he is getting into.

"The main reason I'm signing with them is that I feel that they have an excellent program," Corker explained. "That, plus I know I can step in and play."

"They also have a great coaching staff, which will hopefully better my game," Corker mentioned.

Virginia Commonwealth is a school with an enrollment of 19,000 which is located in Richmond. It's not around the corner from his Trenton home, but still only a four-hour drive, and that's closer than most of the schools looking at Corker.

Corker maintained, however, that VC's geographical location wasn't his primary reason for signing.

"That's another reason, but it's not that big. Mainly, I signed with Virginia Commonwealth because of the program. They have the potential to win, and I want to be a winner."

Corker undoubtedly has exceptional basketball talent for a collegian, but there are other things that go into being a successful person on a successful team. And Smith feels Corker and VC will have that chemistry.

"He's got some personal traits that we always look for in players that we recruit," the coach with the cartoon name continued. "He's got some humility, and he's somewhat modest, although he'll tell you how good he thinks he is if you ask him."

"But, actually," Smith explained, "our players did most of the recruiting. When Randy visited, he really blended in well with our players, and I think that's very important on an athletic team."

Corker was an All-Western Conference selection at Howard this year, and also was named on the Region V All-Star team, as well as leading the conference in scoring and finishing high in rebounding assists, field goal percentage and free throw percentage. But still, Smith sees him only becoming better and better.

"There's no doubt he's got great credentials, great potential and three years to play with us in a tough league," Smith said, gradually turning to a philosopher. "And he'll only get better when he hones his skills."

TCU, SMU get needed big man

By the Associated Press

Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, two teams that struggled through the 1980-81 basketball season, both signed players to fill big gaps in their lineups on national letters of intent day.

Each team signed a highly sought big man to play center, a position where each team was vulnerable last season.

TCU coach Jim Killingsworth signed 6-10, 230-pound post man Brian Christensen from Southwest Oklahoma Junior College in Oklahoma City.

"This is the guy we were after; the one we had to have, and we got him," said TCU sports information director Pesky Hill after the signing.

Meanwhile, SMU coach Dave Bliss got the signature of 6-9 center John Koncak of Center High School in Kansas City, Mo. Bliss also celebrated the signing of heavily recruited Reginald Pink, a 6-4 blue-chip forward from Dallas Kimball High School who may be moved to guard in college.

Koncak averaged 27 points, 14 rebounds and 5 blocked shots per game.

Bliss said "Koncak fills our greatest void at SMU. He's a capable big man who definitely will play for us next season."

Pink averaged 24.6 points and 14.2 rebounds per game.

"We signed two good ones," said Bliss. "Pink is a strong, square-shouldered young man who can play either inside or outside."

Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers announced the signing of four players — 6-5 all-stater Vince Taylor of Hobbs, N.M., and 6-9 Quentin Anderson of Athens, Ala., along with 6-6 junior college All-America Charles Johnson of Midland College and 6-9 All-Stater Dwight Phillips of Levelland.

"I couldn't be happier ... These are all players we wanted badly," said Myers.

Taylor averaged 24 points and 17 rebounds and was named the Player of the Year in New Mexico in leading Hobbs to a 26-0 mark and the state championship. His older brother Jeff has led the Red Raiders in scoring the last two years.

Phillips averaged 16 points and 16 rebounds per game for Levelland.

Baylor landed 6-5 all-state Russ Capps, who averaged 18.6 points per game in leading Clear Lake High School to a 38-2 record.

Texas Coach Abe Lemons snared guard Jack Worthington who averaged 27 points, six assists and six steals per game for Spring High School.

The Houston Cougars collected a prize by signing 6-7 center-forward Gary Orsak of Alvin High School, a two-year all-district player.

Baylor also went out of state to sign 6-7 forward David Glover of Chapel Hill, N.C. High School. Glover was a member of that school's state championship. He averaged 19 points and 12 rebounds on the 29-3 team

Dibbs escapes, but barely

HOUSTON (AP) — An exhausted Eddie Dibbs narrowly escaped joining three other seeded players who have been eliminated from the $175,000 Houston National Tennis Championships.

Dibbs, who managed to hold on Wednesday for a 6-3, 3-4, 6-4 win over Rick Fagel, said the high moisture content in this Gulf Coast city began to wear him down in the second set.

"I don't know what happened except I've had this problem before when the humidity is high. I had trouble breathing the last two sets," he said.

Three other seeded players were eliminated in the first two days of the week-long tournament at the River Oaks Country Club. But on Wednesday the ranked players all prevailed, including No. 1 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, who eliminated Jaime Fillof of Chile, 7-5, 6-1.

No. 3 seed Harold Solomon beat Ben McKown 6-1, 6-2 and eighth-seeded Jose Higueras of Spain defeated Richard Meyer, 2-6, 7-6, 6-4.

In other second round matches Wednesday, Victor Pecci of Paraguay eliminated Ramesh Krishnan of India, 4-6, 7-6, 6-3. Mel Purcell beat Mark Edmondson of Australia, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. Sammy Giammalva defeated Terry Moor, 6-4, 7-5, and Bruce Manson eliminated Paul Kronk of Australia, 6-3, 7-5.

With guards gone, Kings go to the 'King'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — With guards Otis Birdsong and Phil Ford sidelined with injuries, Kansas City Kings Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said his team "had to play the cards dealt us" Wednesday night against the Phoenix Suns.

Subsequently, Kansas City relied on a "king" — forward Reggie King — to trump the Suns, 88-83, in their National Basketball Association playoff and square the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series at one game apiece.

King paired with guard Scott Wedman for 21 points in a pivotal fourth period as Kansas City recorded its first post-season victory at the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum in six games over a three-year span.

The series shifts to Kansas City Friday night.

Career high performance helps Spurs even series with Rockets

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Tempo has emerged as the key factor in the Houston-San Antonio NBA semi-final series.

The Houston Rockets like a slowed-down type of offense, while the San Antonio Spurs like to run, run, run.

The Spurs lost the first game here Tuesday night, 107-90, when the Rockets shut off San Antonio's fast break and controlled the tempo by walking the ball up the floor.

But Wednesday night the Spurs got their running game going and, sparked by a career high 34 points and an excellent defensive effort from power forward Mark Olberding, downed the Rockets, 125-112.

Now the two teams move to the Houston Summit for Friday night and Sunday afternoon encounters in the best-of-seven series.

Spurs coach Stan Albeck hopes to get revenge and regain homecourt advantage by winning at least one of the two contests.

"We're looking forward to going to Houston," said the superstitious Albeck, who began wearing his cowboy boots again Wednesday night for good luck. "Take a look at the Western Conference Playoffs. Ten of 16 games have been won by road teams. I don't think homecourt means anything."

Houston disproved the homecourt advantage theory by downing Los Angeles twice in Los Angeles to knock the world champion Lakers from the playoffs and then shocking the Spurs in HemisFair Arena in the series opener Tuesday night. Besides his stellar of-

Ruidoso closes Sunday

The biggest ski area in southern New Mexico announced on Sunday that it will close for the season this Sunday, April 12.

Originally, Sierra Blanca, which sported a Monday morning midway depth of 45 inches, had hoped to close on Easter Sunday, April 19.

However, there was good news at Taos Ski Valley. Nineteen inches of new snow fell last Friday and Saturday at the largest ski area in New Mexico.

Early Monday morning, Taos Ski Valley reported 57 inches at midway and 60 out of 62 runs open.

Four inches of new snow from the same storm fell at Santa Fe.

There was 35 inches at midway on Monday morning. Ninety percent of the runs were open.

Both Taos Ski Valley and Santa Fe still plan to close on Easter Sunday, April 19.

Record setting coach axed for affair with cheerleader

DIBOLL, Texas (AP) — Coach Johnny Brown and cheerleader Marty Grantham shared the sidelines this year as Diboll High School compiled the best basketball record in school history.

Now they plan to share the rest of their lives together, a life that starts with a search for a new job for Brown.

The school board in this East Texas timber town of 1,000 fired Brown, and he said it's because he plans to marry Miss Grantham on June 26.

The 31-year-old coach and 17-year-old senior cheerleader fell in love during her junior year. Brown said Monday they never tried to hide it. He told his bosses and she told the cheerleader sponsor.

"We bent over backwards to ignore each other during school hours," he said.

He also told Miss Grantham's parents, and they tried to help him keep his job.

"Why condemn two people for falling in love?" Dale Grantham, the cheerleader's mother, told the school board.

The board, however, voted last Thursday not to renew Brown's contract. They acted on Athletic Director Bobby Baker's claim that Brown "failed to maintain a certain degree of professionalism."

Brown said Monday he planned to resign even if his contract had been renewed.

"It's best for the school and her and everyone," he said. "Cont. on Page 3-B 'Cheerleader's mom'"

Nicklaus makes Masters prediction

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Raymond Floyd and Jack Nicklaus hold the Masters scoring record of 271, and both predicted it will never be broken if it survives this year.

professionals, teed off today in the opening round at the 45th Augusta National Golf Club. The Masters is the first of the year's four major championships. The two contenders agreed the new bent grass greens, when they mature, will put their 72-hole scoring mark out of reach.

"The bent grass is going to make the greens like lightning," said Floyd, this season's leading money-winner and the 1976 Masters champion. Added Nicklaus, a five-time Masters winner: "If they're going to beat 271, they better do it this year. It may be their last chance."

Scores will start going up." There were no clear-cut favorites for this 45th Masters, but among those in the forefront were: —Defending champion Seve Ballesteros, the dashing, carefree Spaniard who insists he must be lucky to repeat. —Tom Watson, the PGA Player of the Year for the last four seasons, but fighting a mild slump. The 1977 Masters champion is winless in the first 13 tournaments of 1981. —Johnny Miller, a two-time winner this season who contends he has not totally regained his magical touch of the mid-1970s. —Lee Trevino, needing a Masters title to become just the fifth player in history to win the four majors.

Angels ready to unleash high priced bats in 81

California Angels Manager Jim Fregosi can't wait for his team to turn on the power.

"If we stay healthy, we're going to challenge the club record for runs scored," says Fregosi.

The Angels, who set that mark with 866 runs in 1979, start swinging for what Fregosi hopes will be a new high when they host the Seattle Mariners in their American League baseball opener tonight.

It is one of eight major league games on tap, following Wednesday's official Opening Day featuring Cincinnati's 3-2 National League victory over the World Champion Philadelphia Phillies.

Geoff Zahn, who had a 14-18 record for Minnesota last year, will be California's opening-day pitcher against Seattle's Glenn Abbot (12-12).

In today's other AL games, Texas visited New York, Oakland was at Minnesota and Toronto to Detroit. In the National League, it was Montreal at Pittsburgh, New York at Chicago, Houston at Los Angeles and San Diego at San Francisco.

Fregosi's optimism is a rebuilt lineup that includes new additions Fred Lynn, Butch Hobson and Rick Burleson, whom California acquired in trades with the Boston Red Sox. Among the returning Angels are Don Baylor, the AL's most valuable player in 1979 who hit .296, knocked in 120 runs and hit 36 homers last season, and evergreen Rod Carew, who hit .331 last year. The Mariners, meanwhile, acquired some power of their own in Richie Zisk and Jeff Burroughs in trades with Texas and Atlanta. However, Seattle Manager Maury Wills isn't nearly as optimistic as Fregosi, considering that his team finished with the worst record in baseball in 1980.

Both he and club president Daniel O'Brien have said they'd be happy with a .500 season in 1981. The Mariners, though, haven't exactly been the Good Ship Lollipop so far this spring. Wills himself created a good deal of disturbance among the Mariners when he left the team with no explanation in the middle of an exhibition game and went home. O'Brien has since made peace with his manager.

For the moment, Wills will have to deal with at least one disgruntled player, newly-acquired Dick Drago. The Mariners acquired the right-handed relief pitcher in a trade for reliever Manny Sarmiento, but Drago bitterly denounced the deal.

"It stinks," the 12-year veteran said of the deal. "I would have been better off if they released me so I could have made my own deal."

Reds use free pass from Tug for opening win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dan Driessen, the National League leader in walks last season, wasn't about to disdain a free pass Wednesday with the baseball's traditional opening day game on the line.

The Cincinnati Reds first baseman worked Philadelphia Phillies reliever Tug McGraw to a 1-0 count with the bases loaded, then watched a low slider nip the dirt for a ninth-inning, 3-2 victory over the defending world champions.

"It was just a matter of not jumping at the ball and being a little more selective," said Driessen, given 93 bases on balls last season. "You know they're going to try to make you hit their pitch." That's exactly what McGraw did. The pitch broke low into the dirt, and Ken Griffey loped home from third base.

"Until they lower the strike zone six inches below the plate, I'm going to have to live with that one," McGraw said of his last pitch.

The showdown supplied a final drama in an opening game that remembered two far more critical dramas earlier this year.

Col. Leland Holland and Bert Moore, two of the Americans held hostage in Iran, received lifetime baseball passes from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on the field before the game.

Then the sellout crowd of 51,716 rose in a moment of silence for the speedy recovery of President Reagan, wounded in an assassination attempt last week. The president was unable to attend and throw out the first pitch as planned.

Pitching was the featured attraction in the first Cincinnati opening day meeting between the two clubs since 1962. But neither Phillies' starter Steve Carlton, the 1980 Cy Young Award winner, nor Cincinnati's Tom Seaver figured in the decision.

Seaver, like Carlton a three-time Cy Young winner, scattered six hits over eight innings.

"The minimum I wanted to do was pitch seven innings and keep us in the ballgame," Seaver said. "That's the way it worked out."

Carlton, who topped the league with 24 victories last year, pitched into jams in four of his first five innings, but only in the third did the Reds score. Shortstop Dave Concepcion, who had three hits, doubled home Dave Collins.

Consecutive singles by Del Unser, Pete Rose and Manny Trillo tied the game in the

Texan makes request for Rumanian coach

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman, successful in past attempts to persuade Romania to allow relatives of defectors to join them in the United States, dispatched a letter Wednesday in behalf of the gymnastics trainer who coached Nadia Comaneci to three gold medals in the 1976 Montreal Olympics. Bela Karoly, his wife, Marta, 38; and Geza Pozsar, 31, the top choreographer for the Romanian women's gymnastics team, decided not to return to Romania after the Romanian women's team completed a 4-week tour of the United States on March 30. They informed Romanian officials Tuesday of their decision to defect.

"We would deeply appreciate your assistance in obtaining permission for the emigration of Andrea Karoly and Maria and Karina Pozsar as soon as possible," Rep. Bill Archer, a Houston Republican, wrote in his letter to Nicolae Ionescu, Romania's ambassador to the United States.

Archer and nine other members of the House Ways and Means Committee, including its chairman, Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., signed the letter. All but Rostenkowski are members of a subcommittee that will decide later this year whether to recommend continuation of "Most Favored Trade" status with Romania.

Upsets shock top seeds as NHL playoffs begin

By the Associated Press
Upsets and overtime. And a dynamic performance by the defending champions. That was the story of the first night of the National Hockey League playoffs.

The biggest shocker of the night came from the hallowed Montreal Forum, where the Canadiens, hockey's most successful team, were humbled 6-3 by a trio of kids barely out of their teens.

The second biggest surprise came out of Boston Garden, another arena where visitors often fear to tread or skate. The Minnesota North Stars, who had never left the Garden with a victory in 35 trips there, broke their maiden with an exciting 5-4 overtime triumph.

And, about 3,000 miles away in another Forum, the New York Rangers continued the defensive mastery that they discovered only during the last two weeks of the regular season and upended the Los Angeles Kings 3-1.

Back east, the Vancouver Canucks extended the Buffalo Sabres to overtime before falling 3-2 on rookie Alan Haworth's goal five minutes into the extra session. About the only favorite that didn't need to struggle was the New York Islanders, who appeared ready to roll to their second straight Stanley Cup after blowing away Toronto 9-2.

TV sports network wants Thursday night coverage, but baseball says no

ESPN finding problems with major league baseball

By the Associated Press
Chet Simmons, president of ESPN, is looking to contract a case of baseball fever. But baseball won't let him catch it.

Baseball, however, has strong reservations about saturating television with too many games. Baseball also realizes cable TV will be an important TV and financial vehicle for the sport soon and wants to exercise any control it can over this giant before it's too late.

on baseball's Thursday night cable package, which the USA Network bought for the 1980-81 seasons. "They wanted me to black out the 26 major league markets and I just wouldn't do it," said Simmons.

programming is bad business. Tom Villante, baseball's director of broadcasting, says the clubs don't want competition, be it on cable or free TV, for their local broadcasts, a source of significant revenue and exposure. But Villante thinks the clubs can effectively use at all until they give us a network that is tailored to our needs," said Villante. "If ESPN wants to join the baseball community, it must do so under our ground rules, not as an adversary to baseball."

Beneath those strong words is baseball's concern that too many games piped into baseball markets hurt the local teams' telecasts. The fear is that local fans will desert their teams for more attractive games.

Dressings add flavor

Salads offer variety, nutrition

Just because an interesting tossed green salad takes time and patience to put together after work, many people just quickly dish up some iceberg lettuce and a bottled dressing.

Monotony swiftly sets in, decreasing the frequency of a healthful, fresh green salad on the dinner table.

Salad lovers can solve this problem by taking time one evening to prepare a big, extra-portion salad in advance. To the chorus of "but the greens will wilt!" the answer is no, they won't.

Refrigeration and a tightly-sealed container will help torn greens to stay crisp, according to the Educational Services Department of Tupperware, which also notes that cellophane-wrapped lettuce, straight from the store, is not sealed tightly enough against the drying effects of air and may wilt before you've a chance to use it. A special lettuce storage container helps water to drain away from leaves, too.

You can prepare an extra-large tossed salad of dry greens and other non-juicy ingredients one night, seal it tightly in a plastic serving or storage bowl, and dip into the greens several times. On other nights, preparation time is minimized to just adding tomatoes or any other moist ingredients you fancy.

Zippy, homemade salad dressings such as a perky "Sorrento" made with yogurt, and a fruit salad dressing flavored with sesame seeds go into liquid-tight plastic salad dressing containers to preserve their fresh flavors.

For special personality try one or more of these nutritious extras in your salad: sliced red onion, drained canned corn, pineapple chunks, anchovies, mandarin oranges, canned potato slices, green and red pepper, sliced unpeeled raw zucchini, sliced raw green beans, radishes, shaved carrots, shredded chicken or diced cooked beef, cucumbers, mushrooms.

Moister ingredients, such as canned or fresh tomatoes and asparagus, should be added at the last minute before serving.

Whether you tear greens or cut them, salads are easier to eat if greens are in smaller morsels. Use two or three varieties of dark and light greens for more nutrition and flavor. Try romaine, iceberg and leaf lettuce, escarole, spinach, arugola, chicory, endive, Boston lettuce, and watercress.

An easier way to apply dressing to a large tossed salad is to first measure the dressing into the empty bowl, then add the salad and toss.

Featured is a lovely Molded Apple-Pear Salad, filled with tangy cranberry sauce, crunchy apple and celery pieces, and tender pears. The recipe yields ten to twelve servings, making this gelatin mold ideal for a company buffet table, or dinner and a lunch for the family. Because this salad is somewhat sweet and fruity, another way to serve it is as a light, refreshing dessert, with a dollop of whipped cream topping.

Anyone who has ever had difficulty with gelatin rings will appreciate using Tupperware's sturdy plastic mold. A convenient inner seal allows for easy release, permitting the salad to readily slip out. A liquid-tight top seal, protects the gelatin from picking up other food odors in the refrigerator.

For a different type of salad, 12-Hour Vegetable Salad is a delicious way to conserve both time and food dollars. Kidney beans and corn supplement the protein in your meal, while the herbed sweet-and-sour dressing turns plain-jane veggies into princesses. No last-minute work is required, since the salad should be assembled in advance to permit the subtle blending of flavors. Storing this salad in a big, sealed, plastic bowl will guard against other foods in the refrigerator picking up the aroma of herbs, and then you can use the same bowl for serving.

Both recipes include celery, a vegetable that is delightful when crisp and crunchy but unappetizing when limp and soggy. To assure maximum freshness, store celery in a long plastic container with a removable grid on the bottom to protect the stalks from moisture. A tight fitting seal maintains the natural humidity of the celery and protects it from drying air. Such a storage container also makes an ideal tuck-away for asparagus, rhubarb or Chinese cabbage.

12-HOUR VEGETABLE SALAD

1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans, drained
1 can (1 pound) cut green beans, drained
1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained

2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
3/4 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 teaspoons water
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dried leaf oregano
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

In large mixing bowl, combine kidney beans, green beans, corn, celery, onion, green pepper and pimiento. Combine remaining ingredients in plastic container with tight fitting seal; shake vigorously. Pour over vegetables; stir. Cover. Refrigerate at least 12 hours, stirring occasionally. Yield: 12 servings.

Place gelatin in large bowl. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin dissolves. Stir in cranberry sauce. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Cut pears in large chunks. Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Combine butter, Worcestershire sauce and seasonings; mix well. Drizzle over cereal, tossing lightly until thoroughly coated. Sprinkle with cheese, tossing lightly until evenly coated.

Spread into ungreased 15 x 10-inch jelly roll pan; bake about 12 minutes or until crisp. Store in tightly covered container in cool dry place or in refrigerator. Makes about 3 and one-third cups.

MAKE AHEAD — Time-consuming salad preparation can be done in advance, keeping the dry, torn greens in a sealed container such as the Tupperware salad bowl and adding moist ingredients just before serving. Dry greens can be used all at once or remaining portions can be sealed and refrigerated again.

Fraud Squad puts casinos on losing streak

LONDON (AP) — Lady Luck has quit London's casinos, along with many of the high rollers, after a three-year crackdown by Scotland Yard's Fraud Squad that has closed a quarter of the city's biggest gambling houses.

Two of the country's four major gambling chains, Ladbroke's and the Coral Leisure Group, have been forced out of the casino business in the cleanup campaign aimed at stamping out corruption, fraud and tax evasion.

Judge Gordon Friend of Knightsbridge Crown Court last week forced the shutdown of three of London's most lucrative casinos by rejecting appeals to restore licenses canceled last year because of violations of the 1968 Gaming Act.

Altogether, seven top casinos have been closed since the Yard's fraud specialists moved in.

Detectives last month raided the Playboy Club owned by Hugh Hefner's empire and seized financial records. The papers were returned after lengthy scrutiny.

The future of several of the surviving 17 casinos is now in doubt after the London police commissioner, Sir David McNea, blocked moves by big business to buy the closed casinos.

One of the nervous survivors is Crockford's, the capital's oldest gaming house which opened in 1831. The Duke of Wellington, victor of Waterloo, once headed a membership list that still includes some of Britain's elite.

Coral sold the club to a mining conglomerate, but police are blocking transfer of its gambling license because of what state attorneys termed "a four-year wave" of casino crime.

The crackdown marked the end of a gambling boom that had turned the British capital into a Las Vegas on the Thames. Three years ago, London had 24 casinos, more than any other city in the world except America's gambling capital. Two years ago, Britain collected the equivalent of $889 million in taxes on gambling and betting.

The ripples of the crackdown have been felt in the United States, where Coral had a 20 percent stake in a planned casino complex in Atlantic City, N.J., the only place in the United States outside Nevada with casino gambling.

Sources have hinted that Coral's difficulties in Britain could delay the Atlantic City project.

The Yard closed in after the government-sponsored Gaming Board voiced "grave disquiet" about gambling industry irregularities and fears that major crime syn-dicates, including the mob, were muscling in.

"If it wasn't for the board and its inspectors, there's no doubt that the gangsters would move in force," board chairman Lord Allen of Abbeydale said recently.

"There has been a steady flow of crime in casinos... And there's an increasing need for vigilance... The more casinos spread and the more money is floating around, the greater risk of criminal infiltration."

Allen believes the clean-up has succeeded and noted: "We've really shaken up the industry... I hope that after this the operators are going to take much greater care about what they do."

The board has been pressing for tougher powers to control a gambling business that was legalized only 13 years ago, particularly since it boomed suddenly in 1975.

That was when oil-rich Arab sheiks, driven out of their usual gambling haunts in Beirut by the Lebanese civil war, poured into London with their petro-dollars.

It was bonanza time at the casinos and "the drop," the stake money exchanged for chips, soared from the equivalent of $450 million in 1973 to almost $2.2 billion in 1979.

One Kuwaiti sheik reportedly dropped $2.2 million in a three-day losing streak at the swank Curzon Club.

But the strength of the British pound and high prices eventually made London less attractive for visiting gamblers. The Arabs moved off to greener tables and the "drop" last year was down $220 million.

It was then, police say, that casino bosses, faced with dwindling profits, began illegally hustling for business, luring big spenders from rival clubs in what became known as "the poaching war."

It was this activity that precipitated Ladbroke's downfall. Police said the group spent an estimated $1.14 million luring gamblers from other clubs with girls, lavish gifts and kickbacks to the hustlers who steered big losers their way.

Coral's casino profits soared by $24.2 million. Two hundred officers raided Coral's Victoria Sporting Club and uncovered a big skimming operation. Detectives say the club lost at least $3.96 million from the blackjack tables alone.

Twenty Coral executives were arrested on conspiracy charges. These were later dropped, but Coral's onetime gaming director, Alan Watts, is still wanted on charges of stealing $946,000. He is believed to have fled the country.

'Park Place': Imitation that works

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Imitation, network television's version of creativity, is at once TV's wellspring and its curse. Derivation yields programs in abundance, but the common by-product is mediocrity.

Occasionally, though, television's great imitation machine spits out a product that's worthwhile. CBS may have gotten its hands on such a rarity in "Park Place," a sitcom checking in tonight that has the makings of class TV series ... and that class series is "Barney Miller."

"Park Place" seems to be wholly derived from ABC's enduring hit, in style and spirit. "Barney" is a comedy drawing its humor from an assemblage of rich characters populating a Greenwich Village precinct house. "Park Place" is a comedy drawing its humor from an assemblage of characters populating a Park Place legal aid office. In "Barney," the drollery turns on a keen sense of the absurd, and the proceedings are presided over by a low-key, distinguished-looking fellow with a mustache — Hal Linden. Ditto "Park Place," which features Harold Gould.

So? This "Park Place" goes a step beyond borrowing a structure and a style; this show comes equipped with quality material and cast and seems capable, judging from the first show, of working that mix to very satisfactory ends.

It could be, in time, as good as "Barney Miller." Should be, in fact. "Park Place" was created by Reinhold Weege, who produced and wrote tonight's premiere episode. As a writer, Weege helped shape "Barney Miller."

The Weege touch as evidenced in "Barney Miller" is very much in display in tonight's opening episode. The show begins with a crowd of beleaguered citizens pressing into the legal aid office at opening time. An irritable clerk hands out service numbers, "very much as it's done at the bakery," he says.

A nice little lady in the crowd raises a 38 above her head and sweetly announces, "I murdered my husband." She gets No. 1.

Inside, the staff questions her. Why did you shoot your husband? "We had an argument over what to have for dinner. I had thawed some chicken but Arnold said he didn't want that, he wanted a roast. I said as long as it's thawed, why not have chicken?"

"Did your husband ever beat you?" "Oh, that's disgusting! Arnold never laid a hand on me in 38 years of marriage."

"Yet, you shot him over some chicken...?" "It was thawed!" Gould has a nice, easy-to-take manner and his ensemble demonstrates good chemistry. Standouts are David Glennon as the designated straight man and Don Calfa is fine as a smarmy opportunist.

Senate approves triplicate prescription drug measure

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Many prescription drug users are one step closer to having their names stored in state computers after the Senate Tuesday passed a triplicate prescription drug bill pushed by Dallas computer magnate H. Ross Perot and his Texans' War on Drugs committee.

Passage of the measure, sponsored by Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls, came by a voice vote with only two senators, Democrats Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and Peyton McKnight of Tyler, voting against considering the anti-drug bill.

The bill would require pharmacists dispensing Schedule II drug prescriptions — including Dilaudid, Preludin, methamphetamine and methaqualone — to forward a third copy of the order form to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Information on that order form would be stored on DPS computer tapes. Proponents of the bill believe the computer information could help identify people whose prescribing, dispensing or consuming patterns are excessively high.

High consumption or distribution rates, Farabee and others claim, could indicate black market trafficking or illegal dispensing of prescription drugs.

The measure now goes to the House for consideration. Farabee's bill is the second of five bills filed by legislators at the request of the Perot-led Texans' War on Drugs committee.

Slim opposition greeted the proposal despite warnings by Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, that legislators were "catching the flea and letting the elephant get away."

Sen. Carl Parker, of Port Arthur, questioned Perot's involvement in the bill. "The fellow that proposed this great war on drugs," Parker said, "isn't he in the computer business?"

A defensive Farabee replied that Perot has made several public statements indicating black market trafficking or illegal dispensing of prescription drugs.

Neither Mrs. Andujar nor Parker voted against the measure. Neither did Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, who said the state wouldn't need to undertake the effort if the DPS would effectively perform its duties.

"I expected more opposition," Farabee said after the vote. "There was more opposition at the committee level. We tried to meet the objections and the reasonable requests of the people that are going to have to live with this."

Both houses already have passed another Texans' War on Drugs bill that would require the automatic license suspensions of health care professionals convicted of drug-related felonies.

Revised budget approach angers Juco officials

By MICHAEL DUPONT
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Junior college officials were furious Monday after the Senate Finance Committee considered pruning $48.1 million from school appropriations already recommended by legislative budget-makers.

Triggering their anger is a revised formula that school officials contend would change the rules for junior college financing late in the appropriations game and increase the burden on local revenue sources.

The Senate committee deferred action on the new formula and its attendant budget cuts until later this week, but they did not quiet the grumbling of college administrators.

"They really zapped us," said Jan Sanders, special assistant in the Dallas County Community College District. "We're sweating blood."

"I'm extremely disappointed they're even considering it," said Al Langford, president of the Texas Public Community and Junior College Association. "They're changing their funding pattern in the middle of the stream."

The proposed budget alterations come at the request of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who appeared before the committee last week and told members they must trim $394.2 million from year-ended appropriations.

Legislative Budget Board staffers Monday presented a revised formula that would accommodate Hobby cuts in the junior college area.

The formula would appropriate funds to two-year schools based only on previous state allocations. Local contributions would not be figured into the new equation, as they have been.

Application of the new formula to 1982-83 public junior college appropriations would chop $33.2 million for academic education and $14.9 million in vocational-technical education from the $722.6 million budget originally recommended by the LBB.

Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene, committee chairman, backed the new formula since it removed "a double-whammy effect on state funds."

However, Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland said he likes the old formula. "It seems to me we want to create local encouragement to spend funds," he said.

Sen. Peyton McKnight of Texarkana said he wanted to know who would pick up the $48.1 million slack in funding.

When told it would be up to the localities, he said, "That's lots of slack." LBB staffers said that financing for four-year universities is based only on previous state appropriations but that it would be a new wrinkle to the approach for junior colleges.

It was the suddenness of the attempted change that angered college officials. "We don't feel like we've been treated like a full partner," said Langford, also president of Midland College. "We'd be willing to take a cut across the board with other agencies, but we're disappointed in being singled out."

Jim Williams, president of Vernon Regional Junior College, said the formula change would only further strap small community colleges that already are heavily dependent on local funds.

Williams said college officials would remain in Austin this week to lobby their Senators on the proposed change.

Shuttle followed tortured path

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space shuttle Columbia followed a long and tortuous path to the launch pad, suffering technical nightmares and the barbs of critic who called it a lot of unflattering things: Space Turkey, Aluminum Dumbo, The Spruce Goose of Outer Space.

The criticism evaporated in recent weeks when it appeared the space agency resolved Columbia's problems and was ready to send this revolutionary new machine into space.

More than two years behind schedule, it's a marvel the shuttle made it to the pad at all.

"From the very beginning of the program, a lot of things were done wrong," said Robert Gray, manager of the shuttle project office here. "The biggest problem has been money."

Budgetary and technological compromises, bureaucratic maneuvering, and underestimating the complexity of building reusable spacechips all figure in the story.

It begins with the dropout in the U.S. space effort after the first Apollo moon landing in 1969.

Euphoric after that success, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration prepared ambitious plans: Large manned space stations, moon bases and an astronaut flight to Mars before the end of the century, all based on the economics of reusable vehicles to shuttle between Earth and Space.

But the political environment in the early 1970's was not conducive to such grandiose ideas, and NASA's dreams were derailed by Congress and the Nixon administration.

Only the shuttle survived, chiefly because any future space operations could be done much more cheaply with a reusable booster.

The original plan called for a shuttle the size of a Boeing 747 jetliner to boost a smaller craft, the size of a Boeing 707, into orbit. Both would be mated and the larger ship would land immediately after launch on a concrete runway near the launch pad. The orbiter vehicle would have jet engines to facilitate landings.

The space agency estimated the cost of this dual, fully reusable machine at $10 billion. President Nixon's budget directors told NASA to do it for half that.

Because the Defense Department would be a major user of the shuttle for its spy satellites and other military assignments, the agency also had to design the vehicle to meet more stringent weight, re-entry, thermal and other requirements than it had intended.

That military role, in fact, has kept the project from slipping even further behind. In late 1979, the Pentagon convinced President Carter that the shuttle was vital to national defense, and Carter provided more money.

Engineers redesigned, reprogrammed and came up with the present shuttle configuration: An orbiter the size of a small DC-9 jetliner boosted into orbit by rockets, both intended for recovery and reuse. At super speeds, the craft glides to Earth; there is no jet engine to aid a landing.

Congress hesitated to fund even the cut down project. Defense-minded congressman came to NASA's aid. In a major miscalculation, NASA said the program would need no technological breakthroughs.

But two major areas called for breakthroughs: the three engine hydrogen oxygen powerplant which carries the shuttle into orbit, and the shield tiles that protect the craft from re-entry heat.

Early in the program, it became apparent the high powered engines would have to be developed as a new rocket system. They burn fuel at temperatures above the melting point of most metals and deliver total thrust of more than one million pounds.

They pack three times more power for their weight than the Apollo engines. They are to be reused for as many as 55 flights.

During the earlier manned programs, engine components were tested individually and then were assembled for final evaluation. For the shuttle NASA and the engine maker, Rocketdyne, adopted a "success-oriented" program that assumed all the major components would work and could be tested at a unit in the engine.

"They were gang-tested only after the systems were assembled," said one NASA official. "The result: Bearings overheated and started fires."

Councilmen to stop sending water, sewer bill to firm

LORAIN (SC) — Before adjourning Tuesday night, the Loraine city council voted to stop a business practice it has practiced for 25 years — that of sending a water and sewer bill to Continental Telephone Company of Baird.

The council arrived at its decision after the firm, which maintains an office in Loraine, petitioned the council to straighten out its billing business. Although Continental has been paying the city the minimum bill since 1956, its office building has neither water nor sewage connections.

The council swore in three new members Tuesday night after it was announced incumbent Everett Henderson withdrew from a runoff with Jack Brewer. Both men had pulled 55 votes in last Saturday's election. Brewer, along with Tommy Green, Calvin Forbus and Mayor Vance Dickerson, were administered the oath of office.

Approval of the 1981-82 budget was next on the agenda with the figure set at $157,100, down from last year's figure of $176,000.

Also approved was a resolution which provides for the taxing of family cars and light trucks. City Secretary Linda Lee stated this tax brings in approximately one fourth of the city's tax roll. The vehicles will be taxed on 100 percent valuation but, with a reduced rate of 84 cents per $100 valuation, which amounts to the same dollar and cent figure as last year, when vehicles were taxed on 80 percent valuation.

Additionally, the council amended its ordinance with Lone Star Gas, redefining a gas "service-line," and the council agreed to buy the fire department 250 feet of hose.

Demolition of five structures approved

After meeting for the first time in nearly a year, the Big Spring Structural Standards Board voted Tuesday to approve demolition orders for five local structures.

"The board hasn't met since June of last year. There was no case load, and the demolition and improvement projects in connection with the Community Development Block Grant Program had been moving in another direction," said Assistant City Manager Paul Feazelle. "This meeting came about pretty much because of the new community cleanup program."

Members of the board gathered in City Council Chambers, 9 a.m. Tuesday, to review the cases for five buildings slated for demolition. During the meeting, owners had the opportunity to comment on board's decisions.

Suspect arrested

Man is shot dead

By JAMES WERRELL
An argument about the results of a drag race resulted in the death of a 20-year-old local man, early Sunday morning, said local investigators.

Daniel Ruiz, 1005 E. 14th, was pronounced dead, 2:45 a.m. Sunday, at Malone-Hogan Hospital. He had been shot once in the right side of the head during an altercation just after midnight.

Big Spring Major Crime Task Force Officers and Lt. George Quintero arrested Porfilio Rios, 18, 2100 Morrison, at his home, 6:15 a.m.

Sunday, on suspicion of murder. He was released this morning on $25,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

According to Quintero, Ruiz had been one of three people inside a 1968 Chevrolet Malibu involved in a drag race down the middle of East Third, around midnight Saturday. Driving the auto was Rudy Carpenter, 18, 1506 W. 1st, half-brother of the victim, while Ernesto Gomez, 19, 1505 W. 1st, a cousin, was seated between Carpenter and the victim.

The other auto, a 1972 Chevy Malibu, was driven by Rios. A male juvenile passenger rode with him.

Detective Bud Jones stated that the race began on West Fourth Street. The two cars rounded the corner onto East Third and continued until the 1400 block of the street where the shooting occurred.

"All down Third, they were throwing beer bottles and cans at each other. We heard that one of the cars was trying to run the other off the road at one point," said Jones. "They were coming to a stop when the shooting occurred, and then the other car sped away."

Police can account for four shots. Two struck the fender of the car, one shattered the passenger-vent window, and the fourth struck Ruiz.

A pistol, an RG .38 caliber revolver thought to have been the murder weapon, was surrendered to officers this morning by Attorney Wayne Basden, who is representing the suspect, said Detective Lonnie Smith.

RG pistols have surfaced recently in both local and national news. An RG .38 caliber gun is thought to have been the weapon used in the March 21 shooting of Linda Garcia here, and an RG .22 caliber pistol is thought to have been wielded by the assailant who attempted to assassinate President Ronald Reagan March 30.

"RGs are imported, I believe, from South America by a company in Miami, Fla.," said Detective Smith.

"It's basically a cheap handgun made with a not very good steel. But they carry the whole range of pistols, and they're popular because of the inexpensive price," he added.

The bullet that struck Ruiz entered through the open passenger-side window of the car. No one else in the auto was injured.

Rios was arrested based on a description of the suspect and his car given by witnesses in the other auto, said Quintero.

Woman killed, two passengers injured when auto overturns

By JAMES WERRELL
A 27-year-old local woman died after being thrown from the car she was driving east on FM 700, 7:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Susan Kim Guthrie, 5 Indian Ridge, was pronounced dead at Malone-Hogan Hospital, following a one-car, rollover accident at the intersection of FM 700 and the South Service Road.

Two passengers in the car, Lisa E. Burnett, 25, 1407 Young, and Leslie Kay Farrell, 23, Wesson Road, were treated for minor injuries at Malone-Hogan and released.

According to reports, the 1979 Dodge Magnum driven by Miss Guthrie had been eastbound on FM 700 near the Highland South Shopping Center. The auto struck the median between the east and west lanes; the two left tires of the car crept onto the median, and from that point on the car was out of control.

After jumping off the median, the car sped erratically across the two east lanes, struck a curb and a streetlight, and then jumped onto the dirt median between FM 700 and the service road. After traveling approximately 200 feet on the median, the car struck a concrete culvert, breaking off a wheel, and causing the auto to roll several times.

During the roll, the driver was thrown from the car.

She was pronounced dead at the hospital by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Services for Miss Guthrie are set for 10 a.m. Thursday in the Nalley-Pickie Rosewood Chapel with Dr. Edwin Chappell, pastor of First United Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Trinity Memorial

Aged man dies in house fire; fire marshal rules out arson

Park. She was born May 6, 1953 in Big Spring. She was a life-time Big Spring resident. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church, and was a graduate of Big Spring High School. She later attended Howard College, and the University of Denver. She was active in the training of horses, and was involved in the oil and gas business.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.K. Guthrie; a brother, Will Guthrie; a sister, Kate Guthrie; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wesson; paternal grandmother, Mrs. C.W. Guthrie; and an aunt, Mrs. Stewart Thompson, Navasota.

Funeral services will be Craig Medley, Craig Zellars, Bill Curry, Jerry Currie, Jay Turner and David Nichols.

Charlie Beard, 80, 404 N. Bell, died Monday night when flames engulfed his home.

Police arrived first at the scene, around 10 p.m. Monday, but were unable to approach the blazing home. Firefighters arrived almost immediately but were equally unsuccessful in fighting a path through the fire.

When the flames were doused to an extent that firefighters could enter, the victim was found in a south bedroom of the home. Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin ruled him dead at the scene.

In an unrelated incident, Beard had reported to police earlier in the day that someone he knew had stolen a .38 caliber Colt revolver from his home Sunday morning. The pistol was valued at $150.

"We definitely ruled out arson," said Fire Marshal Carl Dorton, this morning. "We believe the fire started in the living room, but we haven't figured exactly how it started. As this point we think it was either a cigar in a box or a magazine near a heater."

"This is about the fourth time in the last few months that we've been called to that address," said Fire Chief Jim Ryals. "They were in minor fires. As a matter of fact, we put one out just three or four days ago," he added.

Services for Mr. Beard are pending at Sheppard Funeral Home.

Police Beat Car keys stolen by armed bandit

Reed Holler, 2519 Gunter, had his car keys stolen at gunpoint, 11 p.m. Tuesday.

According to reports, Holler had stopped his 1976 Dodge Colt at the intersection of Navajo and Comanche when he was approached by a man he knows. Holler told police that the man "held a gun in his face," and demanded the keys to the car.

The key chain also held keys to Holler's business and his home. After stealing the keys, the man forced Holler and a passenger, Kyle Lister, also of 2519 Gunter, to flee the scene on foot. The gunman then took off in his own car.

Detectives Pat Dunham, William Price and Bud Jones arrested four boys, 1:19 p.m. Tuesday on charges of burglary. The four youths are suspected of damaging the Windy Hill Gun Club building on Knott Route, and stealing soft drinks, candy and ice cream sandwiches from inside on March 31. Loss was estimated at $209.40.

Burglars broke into the residence of Cinnamon McKinney, Southland Apartments, Tuesday afternoon. Stolen were a black-and-white television set, a portable color set and a children's record player. Loss was estimated at $255.

Brenda Sue Priest, 4112 Dixon, reported that someone she knows tried to run her car off of the road on the 1200 block of Gregg, 3:45 p.m. Tuesday. The same person, said Ms. Priest, has threatened her before.

Thieves stole two rear-window guards for pickup trucks from Chuck's Surplus Store, 900 W. 3rd, sometime Tuesday morning. The window covers were valued at $120.

A clerk at the Seven-Eleven Store, 1801 Gregg, reported that a stocky man with a moustache, wearing a brown cowboy hat with a feather in it, walked into the store just after midnight Tuesday, and set $3 on the counter for a six-pack of Budweiser Beer. The clerk told the man that it was afterhours, and she could not sell him beer.

He told her that she would have to call the police, and walked out of the store with the beer, leaving the $3. She called the police.

'Same Time, Next Year' called fun to watch

Robert Horton and his real-life wife, Marilyn are fun to watch as a couple happily married, but not to each other, in "Same Time, Next Year," on stage now at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre, located in Odessa on Highway 80.

Horton may be remembered as the scout in "Wagon Train," a popular series a few years ago. Now, he and his wife play a couple who meet during a weekend in California, and who plan to keep meeting the same time each year for a weekend of togetherness. The play takes place over a 25 year period, showing the couple meeting every five years.

The characters go through quite a transformation during the time they are on stage, as the play encompasses a period from the 1950s to the 1970s. Each five year period elapsing between scenes has the players coming back older and wiser. Their respect for one another also grows as the play continues.

"Same Time, Next Year," is running nightly, except Mondays, at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre through April 18. Buffet food service at the theatre begins at 6:30 p.m. each evening.

ROBERT HORTON
...Playing in Odessa with show time at 8 p.m. Sunday evenings, the doors open at 6 p.m., with performances at 7:30 p.m.

Horton, in addition to his role on "Wagon Train," has appeared in "The Man Called Shenandoah," and "The Rainmaker," which he created on Broadway in the play's musical version, "110 in the Shade."

Recent movies, he has appeared in "Battle Beyond the Stars," and "The Dangerous Days of Kiowa Jones."

Ticket information may be obtained through the Country Squire Dinner Theatre.

Dr. Malone surprised when HC building named for him

A surprised Dr. P. W. Malone learned at Tuesday's meeting of the Howard County Junior College District's board of trustees that the Science and Math building at Howard College has been named for him.

Formal ceremonies are scheduled later and the long-time member of the board will be presented with a suitably worded plaque.

Dr. Malone has been a member of the board for 35 years, once served as its president and has seen the college grow from a few small wooden buildings at what was once Webb AFB to its present multi-building complex off Birdwell Lane between Kentucky Way and 11th Place.

When Board President Don McKinney rose to inform Malone that other members of the board had voted unanimously to lend the doctor's name to the structure, Malone appeared stunned but managed to express his thanks to the trustees for their action.

Nominations for First Lady candidates deadline nearing

Nominations for First Lady candidates are beginning to pour into the Centennial Store-Headquarters as the April 12 deadline nears.

The nominees, who will compete for numerous honors during the upcoming celebration, will also be competing for some very valuable prizes, including a trip for two to Hawaii for a week.

Ann Turner, chairperson of the First Lady contest, said the number of names being turned in was beginning to increase as the deadline approaches.

However, she was quick to remind groups and organizations that they needed to turn in their nominations prior to the April 12 deadline if they wished to compete for honors and prizes during the upcoming festivities in May.

Turner said that candidates would not be accepted after the deadline and only the registered nominees could compete for the valuable prizes.

Talking about the prizes, Turner said that many merchants and businesses in the city had donated some nice prizes to the First Lady candidates. The first award will be an all-expense paid trip for two in Hawaii for a week.

Turner also explained that in addition to the First Lady, there would also be a court of six that would also be receiving honors and prizes during the centennial celebration in May. The six in the court will be made up of those individuals placing second through seventh in competition. She also said that persons who did not get selected to be in the court could still win some very nice gifts.

pageant, Turner went on to say that all candidates must be over 17 years of age and residents of Howard County. She said that groups, clubs, churches, and organizations could turn in their nominations, and that individuals could also submit the names of their friends, as well as their own name.

The rules and additional information concerning the First Lady contest will be presented to all First Lady candidates at the initial meeting of nominees on Tuesday, April 14, at 7 p.m. in the Cactus Room at Howard College.

Big Spring Employment puts right person in job

Success in finding a job or in finding the right person to fill a position is better assured by calling a professional employment service such as Big Spring Employment Agency, located in the Coronado Plaza.

Each employer has the right to demand the person best qualified for the job, considering the requirements for the work, the salary to be offered and the availability of applicants. With this in mind, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Taroni carefully evaluate each applicant so employers do not waste time interviewing persons not qualified for the job opening. The agency refers only those who measure up to the job's requirements.

Thus, fewer rejections plague the employer or the applicant. The employer sees fewer applicants, and fewer rejections make for better public relations. There is also a smaller personnel turnover, and the efficiency of employees tends to rise.

Many highly qualified job applicants prefer to use the services of a private employment agency, thus protecting their own identity.

Big Spring Employment Agency offers an extensive testing program in the area of office skills, exposing applicants to personnel tests in business and industrial situations.

FINDING THE RIGHT JOB
...Rubi Taroni, Sue Brown

Both the employment counselors and the employers may refer to these tests as an indicator of future possibilities.

All services are handled on a confidential basis. From the minimum-wage clerk to the highly-paid executive, job applicants come to Big Spring Employment because they know private agencies are specialists in job-hunting and can, because of experience and contacts, place them in desirable jobs sooner than they can locate jobs themselves.

Applicants desiring employment in other parts of the state or country can be referred for interviews through associated agencies.

LIFT OFF... Big Spring's Elise Wheat prepares to send off the shot put during a practice session yesterday as the Steer girls prepped for the District 5-A AAAA Track and Field Meet in San Angelo Friday. Wheat has an excellent chance at winning the 5-A AAAA title in both the shot put and the discus. Her discus toss of over 127 feet last week was a personal best and a record at the Concho Belle Relays, and it appears the BSHS junior is reaching her peak at the right time of the season.

HC star players ready for big time

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

In fitting style for the successful years that both the Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens enjoyed the past basketball season many of their outstanding performers will be leaving to become student-athletes at major universities around the nation.

The national signing date is today, and college recruiters throughout the country were scurrying around in hopes of landing the best of the high school and junior college talent available.

Among those high on the recruiters list were Howard men Randy Corker, Ron Akins and Kenneth Jones, while HC fem All-American Kelly Lyons has also been recruited heavily.

Corker became the first to sign, inking this morning before lunch at The Herald with Virginia Com-

Watch The Herald tomorrow for an in-depth story on Corker's signing with Virginia Commonwealth. Corker actually signed earlier than most junior college players do, as he is just a freshman.

That's not the case of Akins, Jones and Lyons, who all waited until their sophomore seasons to ink letters of intent with four-year schools.

Akins is expected to sign with Idaho State next week, and Jones with New Mexico State. Lyons, meanwhile, has committed to Baylor and will sign sometime this week.

Howard College Men's Coach Harold Wilder also indicated that Jeff Faubion will sign with Cameron State in Oklahoma.

Cooper takes 9-4 win

Steer errors cost 5-5A lead

ABILENE — The Abilene Cooper Cougars scored seven unearned runs after two men were out in the bottom of the sixth inning en route to an important 9-4 win over the Big Spring Steers in a District 5-A AAAA first half contest here Tuesday afternoon.

The Steers held a 4-2 lead in the sixth, and hurler Wayne Shipman had two outs and a man on first. But Scott Harris singled to left off Shipman, and when BSHS outfielder Tim Shaver bobbled the ball, Lanny Dycus and Harris were on third and second, respectively.

Moe Rubio was then called on to replace Shipman on the mound. The first hitter he faced, John Arnold, hit a ball toward first baseman Tommy Olague, who fielded the ball cleanly. But BSHS catcher Lupe Ontiveros was called for interference on the pitch, awarding Arnold first base and allowing Dycus to score, narrowing the lead to 4-3.

Cooper then put pinch-runners on both first and third and went for the double steal. The Steers had Cooper's Roger Forkner nailed at the plate, but Ontiveros dropped the ball after the tag, allowing Cooper to tie the game at 4-4.

From that point, the roof caved in on the Steers, as the Cougars raked Rubio for four hits and a walk in increasing the margin to 9-4 before the inning ended.

The win allowed Cooper to remain in a 5-5A AAAA race, boosting their mark to 4-1. The Steers are now 3-2, and in a must-win situation if they are to have a chance at tying for the first half title. Big Spring is 9-8 on the year.

Both Mark Warren and Dickie Wrightsil had two hits to pace the Steer attack, and Tim Shaver added a pair of runs batted in.

No Cooper hitter had more than one hit, but the Cougars rapped out four extra base hits, including a home run by Dycus.

The Steers return to action on Saturday when they visit Odessa.

Portable gift wrapping center can be helpful

A well-run household never runs out of bread, orange juice or paper napkins. But when it comes to gift wrap, the cupboard is often woefully bare.

"Gift wrap is something that's supposed to be there when you need it," says Judy Prada, a gift-wrapping expert at Hallmark Cards, "but rarely is." You find yourself searching through kitchen drawers, reusing paper that's only a little bit wrinkled and tying a carefully selected gift with any ribbon or yarn that's handy.

"Some people dutifully save leftover gift paper," says Prada "but when they need to wrap something, all the pieces seem to be 10 inches wide and 30 inches long. Unfortunately, very few packages are 4 by 14 inches."

"Every well organized house could use a portable gift wrap center—a basket or tote filled with a variety of nonseasonal wrapping paper, coordinating ribbons and bows and gift cards," Prada suggests. A package each of solid color, striped, masculine, feminine and juvenile patterned paper would establish a basic gift wrap wardrobe. Tissue paper, brown paper for mailing packages, cellophane tape and scissors (the latter item is never around when you need it) completes the supply center.

In the most egalitarian households, each person who uses materials from the center would replenish them, but that's not likely to happen very often, says Prada. So it will probably be the job of the person who was thoughtful enough to set up the portable wrapping center to refill supplies from time to time.

Nominating committee members named

The Auxiliary will close its year in May with a luncheon and installation of new officers.

Dear Abby

Coed Slumber Party Gets Mixed Reviews

DEAR ABBY: I teach sixth grade at Lockwood Elementary School in Bothell, Wash. The students are between 11 and 13 years old.

We had a very interesting discussion concerning a letter in your column signed VIRGINIA DAD.

Dad's 12-year-old son wanted to have a slumber party and invite six of his neighborhood friends. One of the friends just happened to be a girl, but since she was considered "one of the guys," the boy thought she should be invited without any concern for her sex.

Dad said that even though the party would be well chaperoned by him and his wife, he didn't think the girl should be invited to spend the night with six guys.

Abby, your answer read: "Dear Dad: Even though the gal is considered 'one of the guys,' underneath it all, she's still a gal. I would not invite her."

I asked the class what they thought of your answer. Enclosed are their letters. I hope you enjoy them. Sincerely, MICHAEL NELSON

DEAR ABBY: I think your opinion is wrong on not letting that girl go to the slumber party. If you are 12 years old, you are not going to do anything. I'm 12 and I've gone to a girl's house and nothing big happened.

JIM WALKER

DEAR ABBY: About your answer to the parents of the 12-year-old boy who wanted to have a girl at his slumber party, I think that the father is a paranoid person and is just expecting something to happen. I am 11, and think it would be perfectly all right to invite the girl, no questions asked.

DAVID BLACK

DEAR ABBY: I think you made a wrong decision about the slumber party. (No offense, Abby.) If the girl is considered "one of the gang," she should be invited. The parents would be there, and if anything did get out of hand, the girl would either be asked to leave or they would give her one more chance.

LAURA VARA

DEAR ABBY: About that 12-year-old boy wanting to have a slumber party and inviting a 12-year-old girl to sleep over with six boys, I think that's going a little bit too far. That is my opinion.

CHRISTY BOAS

P.S. I wouldn't go.

DEAR ABBY: I think you made the wrong decision. You made it sound like the parents don't trust their own son. What do you think is going to happen anyway? Do you think they are going to have sex or something with five other boys around? No way.

KENNY BALDWIN

DEAR ABBY: I think if they all got into their own sleeping bags and stayed there, nothing could happen. I know how that father thinks. My mother thinks the same way. Not trusting. As for me, I don't think I would go, and I am a girl.

BETH

DEAR ABBY: I am 11½ and I do not agree with your answer. I think if the girl was asked to a boy's slumber party, it would be up to the girl. I know if I were asked to a boy's slumber party that was well-chaperoned, I would go.

KATHY

DEAR ABBY: I think your opinion is OK. The girl shouldn't be there with six boys. But if it had been OK with the parents, it would have been OK with me, too.

GERALD WILLIAMS

DARs choose name for Centennial

The Captain Elisha Mack Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Pottin House with Mrs. Polly Mays, who took the group on a guided tour of the house. In an atmosphere of the early 1900's, Mrs. Mays told of the finding of a copy of the original floor plans, which guided them in the restoration of the building. The floors are of the original wood and are beautifully preserved. The parlor's wall-to-wall carpet is a replica of the original pattern. The china is the same that was used by the Pottin Family.

Trustees vote to buy CCA telephone system

Trustees of the Howard County Junior College District voted unanimously to accept the recommendation of Howard College President Dr. Charles Hays and purchase a telephone system from Communications Corporation of America (CCA).

The college will effect a savings of $104,445 over a ten-year period, Dr. Hays stated. At the end of seven years, the college will own the system outright whereas if HC had dealt with the other bidder, Southwest Bell Telephone, it would have continued to lease the equipment.

CAA's final offer for installation of the system was $173,367. The only variances will be line charges exacted by Southwestern Bell.

The system has a station capacity of 230 at Howard College and 214 at SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, a Howard College adjunct.

A hundred phones will initially be installed at Howard College, 40 at SWCID.

Work on the system will likely get under way late in May or early in June, according to Mike Bruner, vice president-business at Howard College.

All administrative contracts were renewed for one year in other action taken by the trustees. The board will use a later session to discuss salaries of administrative personnel.

The resignation of Gary Prater, head of Howard College's Automotive Mechanics class was accepted.

Members of the board were extended special invitations to take part in Western Day activities at the college this week, at which time high school students from throughout the area will be special guests of the college.

A committee chaired by board member Harold Davis was named by Don McKinney to come up with recommendations for standard policies and rates for the school's Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Other members of the committee include Curt Mullins and Dr.

Charles Warren. The college will begin interviewing applicants for the jobs of director of the Automotive Mechanics class and director of the school's ADN (nursing) school. It was decided to forego the regular April meeting of the board. The next regular meeting is scheduled for 12:30 p.m., Tuesday, May 19.

Clayton will be featured speaker during farm tour

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Texas Speaker of the House Bill Clayton will be the featured speaker at August's Mitchell County Farm Tour.

Clayton scheduled appearance was announced at Monday night's Chamber of Commerce meeting with arrangements having been made by Mayor Elmer Martin.

In other action, George Walker presented two bids for new bleachers and a concessions stand at the Rodeo Arena, one for $14,940 and the other for $16,000. Walker was asked to get new bids on a scaled down project.

Other Chamber business included plans for a membership drive the latter part of this month with the drive being headed by Murrell Blasingame, voted to drop sponsorship of a 'fly-in' this year and accepted the resignation of board member Travis Cawthorn, who is being replaced by Dr. George Lindsey.

Recount due in Coahoma race

COAHOMA — The Coahoma school board has acceded to a request made by Ken Cobb for a recount of votes in Saturday's school board election and will meet this evening to name a committee which will undertake the chore.

Cobb was defeated by one vote by Clovis Phinney Jr., 189-188, in the contest for the second spot open on the board. Bruce Griffin led the field with 227 votes.

In the first tabulation of votes Saturday night, conducted by election judges, there was a discrepancy in the vote tally. A Coahoma resident later contacted the Herald, suggesting an impropriety might have occurred in the election because the contents of the ballot boxes had been seen by someone other than the judges.

Supt. of Schools Richard Souter said that, as far as he knows, no election statute was violated. A second vote was undertaken before the results were released to the news media with the results the same.

The recount, by state law, must take place in 'from two to four days' from the time the committee is appointed.

HC hosting Western Day festivities

Howard College is hosting its annual Western Day festivities today and Thursday with this year's agenda highlighted by a speech from Jim Post, a noted chaplain at the Kansas State Prison, who was extensively portrayed in Truman Capote's book and movie, "In Cold Blood".

In addition to this speaking engagement, there is a computer date-dance, a lock-in, a cow chip throw, a gunfight and a barbecue lunch. Area high school seniors will be invited.

Post, who has had over 2,000 speaking engagements, talks about the bewildering problems of today's youth and on serious issues of today.

His talks are sprinkled with humor, yet contain words of counsel and advice. With his background, he is equipped with an awareness not only of the problems, but workable answers.

Registration begins this year's program from 8 until 9 p.m., today at the Student Union Building.

The computer-date dance will begin immediately after registration and will be held in the SUB.

Students will then be 'locked-in' at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum from 12 midnight until 8 a.m. Thursday. At the lock-in, students will be furnished with games, a movie and an all-night pizza party.

Thursday morning, students will have a continental breakfast from 8 until 10:00 a.m., which will be followed by Post's speech in the Tumbleweed Room of the SUB. HC classes will be dismissed at 10 and cancelled for the rest of the day. Night classes will meet.

TESCO urging customers to reduce cooling bills

The cost of electricity per kilowatt-hour this summer will be at least 50 percent higher than last year. For that reason, Texas Electric is urging its customers to take early steps to help hold down hot weather bills.

Bills could be substantially higher than they were last summer even if the coming summer months are cooler than last year, said TESCO President Bill Marquardt.

The cost of electricity will be higher primarily because of higher prices the company is having to pay for fuel to produce electricity, but also because of a rate increase approved and put into effect last fall, he said.

"Our biggest long-term contract for low-cost natural gas expired Jan. 1, and we are having to buy progressively more expensive gas to replace the amount supplied by that contract," Marquardt said.

"This summer, because we no longer have the low-cost Old Ocean gas available and because the prices w're having to pay for all our fuels are continuing to increase, we expect our overall fuel cost to be more than double what it was last summer."

Marquardt said the company is encouraging customers to leave their air conditioners off until they're really needed.

Ceiling fans and ordinary floor and table fans can be very effective in reducing the need to run air conditioners. "We believe people who use fans will find they can run their air conditioners at higher thermostat settings—and in fact can leave them off entirely some of the time," he said.

Also, he said, customers may want to consider going on TESCO's Average Billing Plan.

Customers on the Average Billing Plan still pay for all the electricity they use, but their payments are averaged out over a 12-month period. In the high-use summer months, customers pay for less electricity than they use, and make up the difference in the low-use months by paying for more than they use.

"A number of conservation steps, if taken before hot weather arrives, also can help bring about savings on bills," Marquardt said.

"We would urge people to have their air conditioners checked out in order to make sure they are operating with maximum efficiency. And we're encouraging customers to attend one of our free neighborhood Operation Tighen-Up workshops for demonstrations on how to make conservation improvements around the house."

Information on effective and low-cost ways to insulate, weatherstrip and caulk homes and on other conservation measures can be obtained at Operation Tighen-Up meetings or by calling TESCO.

As one part of its effort to hold down the price of electricity, TESCO last week announced it will begin a Residential Load Management Program April 15 to encourage customers to install highly energy efficient air conditioning and water heating equipment.

Equipment with higher Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) ratings uses less electricity, thereby helping customers who install it save money on their bills.

The program will help hold down the number of new power plants the company will have to build, and therefore will benefit all customers by holding down electricity price increases.

The company will be providing financial assistance to customers who buy energy-saving higher-EER equipment. Details on the program will be available by April 15.

City is suing over bills

Two lawsuits seeking payment for water, sewer and trash service have been filed in 118th District Court by the City of Big Spring.

Both suits were filed seeking delinquent payment on water, sewer and trash services at 108 Lockhart St., according to petitions filed in the cases.

The first suit is the City of Big Spring vs. Jesus Hernandez and Inez Hernandez, 108 Lockhart St. The suit is seeking back payment of city services from 1978, and states in the petition that "defendants failed or refused to pay their account." Amount sought is $33.25.

The second suit is the City of Big Spring vs. Ernest Moreno et ux and Inez Moreno, 108 Lockhart St. The city is seeking payment of services from 1980, in the amount of $215.92.

Elliott Mitchell, city attorney, told the Herald that the city may begin filing similar suits against delinquent accounts for water, sewer and trash services in the city.

"We're going to take a long, hard look at delinquent accounts," Mitchell said.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The Corps of Engineers treatment of "navigable waters" is perhaps the classic case of a simple, clear-cut law being turned into an oppressive and nonsensical regulatory beast.

In 1972, Congress passed the Federal Water Pollution Control Act authorizing the Corps to issue permits for activities in navigable waters involving the discharge of dredged or fill material. "Navigable waters" had been defined since 1899 as "waters navigable in interstate of foreign commerce," and certainly the federal government has an obligation to regulate those waters.

But in the regulatory process, the term has been expanded to mean the "waters of the United States" — a definition so broad the Corps could claim jurisdiction over a backyard swimming pool.

The effect of this broad definition is to deny landowners the right to discharge material on their own property. In Texas coastal areas, the Corps' interpretation has been to delay and add to the cost of needed flood control projects. In other parts of Texas, the regulation has been invoked to control what landowners do with obviously un-navigable farm ponds on their property and "draws" which flood farm property but are dry except when it rains.

I have introduced legislation this year to limit Corps activities to truly navigable waters. The legislation also would leave the question of federal assistance in the regulation of non-navigable water up to the states.

If passed, it would end the prolonged delays and piles of red tape which continue to erode public confidence in and support of the legitimate objectives of the clean water effort.

It would return to the states the right to evaluate and protect wetlands adjacent to navigable waters on a local basis, and to seek federal assistance if — and only if — that is necessary.

I might note that the Texas Legislature has passed a resolution supporting this principle. This resolution also commits the state, through the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council and other appropriate agencies, to recognize and accept responsibility for the management and protection of all coastal wetlands.

Legislation similar to that I have introduced this year passed by large margins in the House in both 1975 and 1977, but was narrowly defeated in the Senate. I introduced it again in 1980, but neither House nor Senate had time to consider it prior to adjournment. I am hopeful that this year favorable action can be taken.

The import of this legislation goes beyond the specific relief it would provide. If we are to control the size and scope of government, Congress must behead the regulatory beast. Congress must exercise its oversight responsibilities and bring regulatory agencies under control when congressional intent has been so blatantly distorted.

Enacting this legislation will send a message to the bureaucrats. It will tell them Congress no longer will allow them to legislate through regulatory interpretation.

Bringing the federal government back under control is our goal. We can meet the goal only by systematically rooting out unwarranted intrusions on state responsibilities. Certainly this legislation concerning navigable waters is a good starting point.

House OKs compromise on product liability

By JACKIE CALMES
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Woth pro-business and consumer-oriented interests having fought their battles in private, a products-liability bill tentatively passed the House Tuesday with little debate and no bloodletting.

The bill would provide Texas, with first its law governing legal suits brought by consumers against manufacturers. Currently, legal guidance comes from court precedents.

The bill comes up for a final vote Wednesday and is expected to pass easily. It will when it goes to the Senate, where bill-carrier Sen. Bill Neier of Euless has been unable to muster support to bring his bill up for consideration.

In Tuesday's House action, only Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood bucked a no-amendments-on-the-floor agreement both sides had forged. His amendment, to exempt manufacturers from liability for heavy machinery older than 25 years old, went down 112 to 33.

The bill then passed on a voice vote, quickly gavelled through by Speaker Bill Clayton. Clayton had signed on as co-sponsor and initiated the behind-the-scenes negotiations.

The primary House sponsor, Republican Rep. Bob McFarland of Arlington, said the bill has "a carefully orchestrated compromise among competing interests," and that it would turn back a pendulum that had swung too far in consumers' direction.

"Neither side is excited about it but they have endorsed it," he said.

On one side were lawyers for consumer-plaintiffs, the Texas Consumer Association and the AFL-CIO. On the manufacturer-defendants' side were lobbyists for auto dealers, truckers, restaurateurs, chemical producers and the Texas Association of Business.

The only group to balk was the Texas Association of Defense Counsel. President Paul Green said it increases liability for individuals, businesses and political subdivisions like cities and counties.

The highlights of the bill favoring manufacturers are two new defenses to use in lawsuits: "state of the art" and "useful safe-life" of a product.

Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring supported the bill. "When both sides say, 'I can live with this,' then you've come up with something that's okay," he said.

He said it was a fair compromise that would protect consumers without "regulating industries to the death."

"If a manufacturer expects a fair profit, he also has to respect the people who are going to be using his product," Shaw said.

'80 safest year ever for city employees

City employees had their safest year ever, during 1980, said City Manager Don Davis, today.

The figures for accidents are tabulated from November to November in a given year because insurance policies were assigned during that month, said Davis. Only five accidents, with total paid claims of $325,92, were reported last year.

The City Safety Program was begun in September of 1978. Its purpose is to promote safety awareness among employees and to reduce the number of on-the-job injuries.

"These goals were far surpassed last year, as the figures reflect," said Davis. "The city would like to commend its safety committee members as well as the employees for working in such a safe and efficient manner."

The following figures show the improvement in safety over the last four years:

Year	Claims	Amount Paid
1980-81	Five	$3,259.92
1979-80	36	$11,718.73
1978-79	47	$12,967.74
1977-78	74	$45,760.92
