'What a way to come to California'

Columbia landing successful

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — America's rocketship Columbia and her two pilots swooped safely back to Earth today, surviving a blazing plunge from orbit and a heart-stopping landing on a hard-sand runway in the Mojave Desert.

Astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen guided the 80-ton spaceship to a flaps-up, wheels-down landing at about 1:21 p.m. EST on runway 23 on expansive Rogers Dry Lake, climaxing a brilliant and historic 2 1/2-day flight that could set this nation's course as a space-faring nation.

"What a way to come to California," said Crippen as Columbia soared over the Golden State coastline. Two sonic booms exploded over the landing area.

Columbia came home like a gigantic glider, starting its descent an hour before touchdown with a 2 1/2-minute burst of two engines that broke its orbital speed 172 miles above the Indian Ocean.

The spaceship slowed from 17,400 miles an hour to about 16,000 mph in minutes and dipped into the upper edge of the atmosphere, where gravity gripped the vehicle and protective tiles began to glow with re-entry heat.

"Hello Houston, Columbia here," Commander John Young reported when the ship escaped its blackout. "Columbia, you've got perfect energy, perfect ground track," said Shuttle Control. The tiles held.

After 54 hours, Young and Crippen had left their weightless world. Columbia, diving ever closer to Earth, her speed declining, passed north of Australia and headed out over the Pacific. For 15 minutes, during the hottest part of re-entry, temperatures up to 2,700 degrees seared the ship and ionized gases enveloped it, blocking communications between crew and ground.

It was nail-biting time in Shuttle Control at the Johnson Space Center in Houston. Would a winged vehicle come through this period of stress? "Would the tiles hold out the heat?"

The answer came at 1:06 p.m. Columbia dashed out of the blackout and there were a lot of smiles in the control center.

"Lookin' good underneath," said a chase plane pilot as Columbia headed for touchdown.

Shuttle Control said the staff in Houston would have "15 seconds for whoopee" after landing, and then it's back to work. That's because the astronauts will remain in their ship for 45 minutes after landing.

Young and Crippen were 34 miles up, 550 miles from the runway and 12 minutes from landing.

Touchdown was perfect. The ship trailed a plume of dusk nearly 10,000 feet in its wake. As the craft rolled to a stop, Young asked, "Do we have to take it to the hangar?"

"We're going to dunk it off first," said capsule communicator Joe Allen.

From Shuttle Control, he added, simply: "Welcome home Columbia."

But there was also confidence enough to go around.

Before descent began, the shuttle's historic maiden voyage had gone more smoothly than its most ardent supporters had dreamed. A perfect launch, flawless operation of its major systems, routine repairs of minor glitches.

Commander John Young, five times up in space and four times down, was looking forward to a drink on terra firma and told capsule communicator Henry Hartsfield, "I understand you're buying."

Pilot Robert Crippen, now a space veteran but anticipating his first return, was so relaxed he didn't need a sleeping pill last night.

"We've done every single thing we wanted to do and now it's time to get on with the entry," flight director Neil Hutchinson said today.

Atlanta police far away from solution

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson urged FBI Director William Webster today to stop making "casual press statements" about the Atlanta child killings, and police officials said they are not close to solving the cases.

Webster was quoted in The Atlanta Constitution as saying authorities investigating the deaths of 23 black youths have a suspect in 12 to 16 cases and have "substantially solved" three or four other, unrelated cases.

But Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown told a news conference today that police are not close to arrests in any of the cases.

"Have we solved the cases? The answer is no. We know more about some than others, but we do not have sufficient evidence to indict," Brown said.

In a letter released by his press secretary, Jackson told Webster: "I do not wish to be indelicate, but I respectfully urge that you consider the impact of your casual press statements on our local situation here. Your statements undermine the public's confidence in our investigation and create a great deal of misdirected media speculation and invective."

Jackson said Webster's statements about the Atlanta cases "are starting to hurt. We need Washington's help, not more problems."

In an interview published today, the Constitution quoted Webster as saying the latest suspect was identified after the case against an earlier suspect "bogged down."

Webster said, the FBI was virtually certain last month it had found the person responsible for the slayings of 12 to 16 young blacks in the past 21 months, but the case against the suspect was weakened in some critical fashion. He would not elaborate.

"I was sure we had the guy," Webster said. "We've had some heartbreaking leads, only to get bogged down again. But they looked so good. I was certain they would take us to him."

Since that setback, a new suspect has been identified, he said.

The three or four cases that have been "substantially solved" are not related to each other or to the 12 to 16 slayings, Webster said.

FBI spokesman Robert Young said Monday night that Webster's comments should not be interpreted as meaning authorities are ready to press charges in any of the three or four cases.

NO INJURIES — No one was hurt early this morning when a set of doubles, driven by Clifford Wooley, an employee of Merchant Freight Line struck a guardrail on the westbound lane of IS 20 near Bowlaroma and flipped over in the ditch. Wooley, of Cedar Hill was traveling westbound from Dallas to Odessa, hauling miscellaneous freight. He received no injuries in the mishap.

White House promises no compromise on cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — From President Reagan on down, officials are singing a chorus of "no compromises with Congress" on elements of the administration's program of tax and spending cuts.

But at the same time, the president's spokesman is taking care to avoid saying the president will never make a deal with the House and Senate on his economic package.

Howard County soaks up rain

Spotty rains hit Howard County and the weatherman gave the area an excellent chance to soak up more moisture during the day.

Rain started falling in Big Spring about 3 a.m., today and continued off and on well into the morning.

The gauge at the U.S. Experiment Station, located immediately north of town, had trapped .80 of an inch by 8 a.m., today. That brings the year's total to 3.49 inches, almost an inch above normal.

The average through April 14 is 2.58 inches.

Joe Swinney, the Coahoma mayor, reported that .70 of an inch fell in that community after 3 a.m. The Wilkerson Ranch west of Big Spring soaked up .70 of an inch before daylight.

The fall was only slightly less at Luther in the northeast section of the county, where .60 of an inch fell. At Elbow, Bill Cregar said his gauge showed the fall totaled .70 of an inch and came at the 'right time' because the winds had been drying out the soil.

All of Big Spring took on a new look, thanks to the rain. Grass and plants which had been struggling to stay alive in the ceaseless winds of March and early April began thriving this morning. Even the birds seemed to be excited by the changing of the seasons. Many were in full voice.

"I am convinced the American people strongly support my program and do not want it watered down," a recuperating president was quoted as telling his closest aides at the White House on Monday.

One day after a key House member said middle-level officials were indicating unofficially they were willing to make a deal for a one-year tax cut instead of a three-year plan, Reagan's spokesman volunteered the word that president said he "had authorized no one in his administration to offer legislative compromise."

But asked if that meant the president would never compromise on his program, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters: "Well, I never say never from this podium, I hope."

And congressional aides said the administration's firm rejection of a compromise was predictable, at least until they can gauge their support in preliminary votes.

But for now, Reagan's own comments set the tone.

Vice President George Bush, appearing before a group of trade association executives at the White House, said, "The president is not about to feel that we need to compromise."

"I don't know who's putting out that there's a compromise in the wind. But I haven't heard it here and it's much more important that the person upstairs hasn't heard it," he added, standing a few floors beneath the living quarters where Reagan is recovering from a gunshot wound suffered in an assassination attempt March 30.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, meanwhile, declared that a one-year tax cut is "totally inadequate" and vowed the administration "will continue to press for the president's proposal."

What prompted Reagan's firm and uncompromising stance was a statement Sunday by Rep. James Jones, D-Chia., chairman of the House Budget Committee.

Action/reaction: Cowboy tickets

Q. Are Dallas Cowboy tickets sold anywhere in Big Spring? I would like tickets for the game with the Philadelphia Eagles. Why doesn't Dallas play the Atlanta Falcons anymore?

A. Dallas Cowboy tickets are not sold anywhere in Big Spring. The Cowboys have a difficult enough time taking care of all their ticket demands in the Dallas-Irving-Fort Worth areas. The Cowboys will play Atlanta again in time. One of the NFL rules dictates that each league club play all other NFL clubs with a time period.

Peanut program works

Washington, D.C. — There are more government programs that are unworkable, uneconomical, and unpopular with the people the programs were supposed to assist than I could possibly list in six of these columns.

Congress has taken a hard look at all government programs this year, with an eye toward trimming unnecessary and expensive programs. Members of the House Subcommittee on Tobacco and Peanuts, myself included, balked this week, however, at dismantling a program that does work, is economical, and has proven itself to the people it was designed to assist — the peanut producers.

The Reagan Administration had targeted the peanut program for extinction, with the intention of gutting the program of its most vital supply-management provisions.

The current peanut program works. In fact, it works far more economically than the Administration's proposal would work. The federal cost of the current peanut program has been reduced

Congressman
Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

60 percent in the last three years and peanut growers have proposed a program to continue this trend to a point of zero cost in 1985. To ignore the producer request this year is to ignore the personal sacrifice they have made over the last three years attempting to reduce federal costs and produce peanuts competitively priced for the world market.

The current program has also been beneficial to the consumer by encouraging production of a steady supply of peanuts over the last 25 years, even though this years supply has been shortened by a rare national drought. With a normal production year, the price of peanuts and peanut products can be expected to return to pre-drought levels.

Peanuts, although grown in only a few counties in the 17th District, play an important social and economic role throughout the state of Texas. If the current government program is phased out, production in the Southwest area of the U.S. would be curtailed, resulting in much larger farms fewer people residing in rural areas, and fewer jobs for everyone in those areas.

I plan to continue to examine government programs with a critical and perhaps miserly eye, in light of our current economic problems in this country, but a program supported by farmers that works as well as the peanut program has worked should not be scrapped to accept a program that will cost more and not work.

Harrelson pleads innocent to drugs, weapons charges

VAN HORN, Texas (AP) — A convicted hit man whose name has surfaced repeatedly in the investigation into the assassination of a federal judge has pleaded innocent to unrelated state narcotic and firearms charges.

Charles V. Harrelson was released and smiling Monday when he appeared before State District Judge Sam Callen and pleaded innocent to charges of possession of cocaine and illegally possessing a firearm.

Callen appointed El Paso attorney Joe Chagra, whose name also has surfaced in the investigation into the May 29, 1979, slaying of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., to represent Harrelson.

Chagra, who is Harrelson's attorney of record in the Wood investigation, denies any involvement in the shooting of the judge but says he expects to be indicted in connection with the inquiry. His brother, convicted drug trafficker Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra, also has been a focus of the massive federal investigation.

Callen appointed a lawyer for Harrelson, who was arrested last Sept. 2 after a lengthy stand-off with police in nearby Michigan Flat, after Harrelson told the judge he was destitute.

"I am destitute... I maybe have $150. Mr. Chagra's fine..." said Harrelson, dressed in jail "whites" and heavily manacled during his 90-minute stay in Van Horn.

Chagra told reporters he did not know why he had been asked to appear at the hearing, but thought it might be because he already represented Harrelson. "Mr. Harrelson does not have an attorney for the charges here. I have not been retained. I assumed I was notified because of my representation of him in Houston," Chagra said.

Callen, who scheduled Harrelson's trial to begin April 27, told Chagra he could ask for a delay if he needed time to prepare a defense.

Harrelson was flown to Van Horn from Houston by a U.S. Customs aircraft and taken from the airport to the Culverson County courthouse in a convoy of five police cars.

He was transferred to Harris County jail late last year after federal investigators said he had become a suspect in the shooting of Wood.

The federal panel three weeks ago heard testimony from relatives and friends of Harrelson.

Centennial Arts, Crafts Fair scheduled May 23

The first annual Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair will be held Saturday, May 23, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Community Center. The fair, which will be fairly similar to the large festival held here in the fall, will be held inside the center and on the grounds surrounding Cosden Lake.

"For example," he continued, "if an artist or craftsman has other works of art that they would like to sell, they will be able to do so during the fair. This will provide them an outlet for arts and crafts that they may no longer have room for," Prather explained.

Another important difference between the two will be the fact that the booth assignments will be much more relaxed than the fall festival. Booths will be assigned on a first come, first served basis, with the first entries receiving booths inside the community center, and latter entries being assigned booths on the grounds surrounding Cosden Lake.

In addition, persons wishing to participate in the spring fair will also be required to bring their own tables and chairs. Individuals who do not have folding tables and other props for their items will be asked to either borrow them from friends or rent them from one of the local rental centers. Prather said this was being done because the community center did not have sufficient folding tables for the fair and that it would be hard to control tables rented to booths on the grounds surrounding Cosden Lake.

The booth fees will be $10 for the day and Prather said that he had been informed that the booths and entries to be located inside the center could probably set their display up Friday evening.

He said he would know more about that as the show date drew nearer. He also said that persons wishing to rent a space for the fair should begin submitting their requests to: Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair, Centennial Store-Headquarters, 900 Main, Big Spring, TX 79720.

Prather said that he felt the spring fair would take some of the pressure off of the fall festival and would allow more people to exhibit in Big Spring. As it stands now, over 400 requests have been received for the 145 booths in the fall festival. "Some of those individuals have been on the waiting list for two and three years," Prather said, "and this will provide them with an opportunity to exhibit in our city."

To become more energy-independent...
let's use what we've got.

We Americans learn early to be independent and self-reliant, and to use the resources we have. But today we're importing oil for nearly a fourth of our energy needs. This is dangerous because it undermines our economy and threatens our national security. And it shouldn't be necessary, because we have the world's largest known energy reserves right here in the United States. We can help make America self-sufficient by using alternative fuels like coal and uranium. We can stretch our supplies of oil and natural gas by conserving. We'll develop nuclear fusion, while making more use of other sources such as solar, biomass and wind. But not today. For the next 25 years or more, the energy we need must come from the resources and the know-how we have now. At your electric company, we're building plants to use the energy and technology we have now. At the same time we're supporting development of other sources of energy, so we'll have them as soon as possible.

To become more energy-independent, let's use what we've got.

This comparison illustrates why Dr. John McKetta, former chairman of the National Energy Policy Committee, insists we must develop the domestic energy we have.

Correct row spacing and planting depths critical.

Planting garden is fun part for most folks

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Now that you've decided what you are going to grow in your garden, worked up the soil and added the necessary fertilizer, the hard work of gardening is over. Planting the garden is the fun part enjoyed by most folks. Now it won't be long until at last you will have something actually growing in the garden.

Planting is generally done in two ways — by seeding or by transplanting. Good advice when seeding vegetables in the garden is to use fresh, high-quality seed of recommended varieties purchased from local garden centers or nurseries or from reputable seed order catalogs.

Vegetables which should always be seeded directly in gardens include all types of beans, beets, carrots, collards, sweet corn, cucumbers, cantaloupes, okra, peas, pumpkins, radishes, spinach, squash, turnips and watermelons. Transplants of some of these vegetables may be available at local garden centers and nurseries, but they offer no real advantage over seeding directly in the garden.

When seeding time rolls around, the soil should be moist but not too wet. To check, squeeze together a handful of your garden soil. If it crumbles readily rather than sticking together, it's in ideal condition for seeding.

Most garden seed are planted by dropping the seed in shallow furrows or rows or raised beds. Make the seed furrow with a hoe handle, the corner of the hoe plane, your hand or a stock. Don't get your vegetable rows too close together. Most garden vegetables do best when planted in rows 18 inches to 36 inches apart.

Although it may seem wasteful, always plant more seed than needed in case some don't germinate and come up. One common mistake many gardeners make is to plant seed too deep. Proper planting depth will be, on the average, two to three times the widest measurement of the seed. Cover seed to the right depth and then firm the soil lightly over the seed. Ideally the soil moisture content should be sufficient for good seed germination and emergence. However, during extremely dry periods, it's a good idea to water to insure a good stand.

After vegetables come up, remember that too many plants in an area are just as bad, if not worse, as too few. Thin vegetables to the proper distance between plants. Remember, it's for their good as well as yours.

To make the job of thinning less painful, thin plants periodically. For example, if snap beans are to be thinned to four inches between plants, thin small plants until they are about two inches apart. Then allow remaining plants to grow for a period of time until they begin to crowd together. At that point, complete thinning so plants are the recommended distance apart.

It's a good idea when removing larger plants to use a knife or clippers to cut the stem at the ground level. This will not damage the root systems of remaining vegetables as pulling out of unwanted plants might have done.

Remember that thinning your garden vegetables to the correct spacing is one of the most important "follow-up" activities after planting. Contact the County Extension Office for additional information on correct spacing for commonly-grown vegetable plants.

House rejects proposal for Biblical creation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — "The idea came from the people hollering, 'We've got to get back to basics,'" said Rep. Bill Haley, D-Center, sponsor of the bill. He said the bill was not an attempt to give new power to the Board of Education but to eliminate the "hodgepodge of courses" mandated by state law. Haley noted that 12 bills have been introduced to add even more required courses, including parenting, racial tolerance and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

Rep. Mike Martin, R-Longview, failed in his effort to add an amendment to a curriculum reform bill that advanced Monday on a preliminary voice vote. A final vote is expected today. It would have required schools to teach "creation-science" on a par with the theory of evolution. "Your constituents will love it," Martin said of his amendment. He said evidence of non-evolutionary creation is "suppressed in our public schools."

"Don't you think all Mr. Martin would need to do is look around this chamber and see evidence that man descended from a monkey?" observed Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas. Representatives were not anxious to tackle the curriculum package by Rep. Bill Haley, D-Center. It took a tie-breaking vote by Speaker Bill Clayton to block a move to postpone debate for a week. The bill, backed by Gov. Bill Clements, repeals state laws requiring specific courses, including kindness to animals, ten minutes of "intelligent patriotism" daily, penmanship, protection of bird-nests and eggs, and consumer education. The bill would put the State Board of Education in charge of prescribing curriculum.

BBB warns consumers about Texas 'checks'

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Residents here are being warned about $200 "checks" they may receive in the mail as prizes or because they have been selected by a computer. An Irving, Texas, company which has been sued in its own state on grounds the checks are worthless is operating in the Lincoln area, according to Lois Tefft, Cornhusker Better Business Bureau manager.

In Texas the checks have been awarded to high school students, senior citizens and other mail-order customers of World Marketing Associates, according to a suit filed in February by the Consumer Protection Division of the Texas attorney general's office. They are being awarded as "second prizes" in state fair drawings and have been sent with congratulatory letters stating the consumer has been "selected by computer to participate in an advertising campaign."

According to Texas authorities, the firm offers housewares, luggage and sewing machines which can be purchased with the "checks" for $200 off list price. Postage, insurance and handling are extra. Although the "checks" carry a disclaimer, some mistakenly have been cashed, according to Texas officials.

Senators vote supplemental funding for 1981 defense

WASHINGTON — While the House debated President Reagan's proposed budget in committees, the Senate turned to funding measures. No key votes were taken in the House this week. SUPPLEMENTAL DEFENSE FUNDING: The Senate approved by voice vote $2.8 billion in supplemental funding for the Department of Defense. The measure allows for increased military construction, procurement and research and development in fiscal year 1981. By a vote of 79-15, the Senate tabled an amendment cutting $7 million in supplemental funding for the MX missile system. FOR: John Tower (R), Lloyd Bentsen (D). Also tabled, by a vote of 69-23, was an amendment denying the use of funds for the reactivation of the 39-year-old battleship New Jersey. FOR: Tower, Bentsen.

EXPORT TRADE COMPANY BILL: The Senate unanimously approved a measure promoting the formation of export trading companies as a means of increasing export revenue. The bill particularly targets small U.S. companies that presently limit sales to domestic markets. The Senate rejected, by a vote of 68-25, an amendment that would have helped pay the expense of an export manager for small businesses. FOR: Tower, Bentsen.

Reagan pays $67,465 in income tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, waiting until the last week to file their 1980 federal tax return, are due a refund of almost $30,000.

Although Reagan's income was more than halved last year when he ran for the nation's highest office, he still made almost a quarter-million dollars and paid $67,465 in income taxes and $2,098 in Social Security, self-employment taxes.

Only $232 in taxes were withheld from the president's income of $227,968, but he listed $99,000 in estimated tax payments. He asked that his $29,969 overpayment be applied toward his 1981 estimated taxes.

The Reagans' joint tax return for 1980 was dated April 8, a week before the filing deadline, and was released Monday by the White House. Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said it probably would be filed today.

Speakes said the president's 1980 income was lower than the $515,878 he earned in 1979 "because he was campaigning. He cut out his speaking engagements."

Because of the sharp drop in income, Reagan's federal income taxes in 1980 amounted to about 29 percent of his income, compared with about 44 percent the previous year.

Reagan paid $230,886 in federal income taxes in 1979 and $32,050 in California taxes.

The 1980 return showed that most of the president's income — $164,337 — came from interest. He took a $25,400 deduction for state and local taxes, but those returns were not released.

The president, whose general election campaign was financed by taxpayers, did not check the box for the presidential election campaign fund because he is philosophically opposed to it, Speakes said.

The president took three exemptions: for himself, his wife and one because he is over 65.

Woman

turns quarter into $246,500

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Nev. (AP) — Grace Steblay was so busy feeding quarters into a slot machine that she almost didn't notice the bells and lights signaling a jackpot of $246,500.

"She almost put another quarter into the machine," said Phil Weidinger, a spokesman for Caesars Tahoe casino, following the jackpot Sunday on a progressive slot machine.

The 22-year-old Fremont woman, who works at the General Electric Credit Corporation, had put about $5 in quarters into the machine before she hit the jackpot.

Mrs. Steblay was at the south shore resort with her husband Jeff, who runs a photo finishing business, to celebrate his 25th birthday. They were down to their last $50, and planned to save $20 for gasoline and food on the trip home.

"We just bought a house and I'm going to feel a lot more secure about making the payments," Mrs. Steblay said.

Weidinger said Steblay jokingly suggested she bet the jackpot winnings on No. 7 at the roulette table.

"She wouldn't go for it," Weidinger added.

Valuable clock stolen here

L.A. Griffith, Neal Road, reported to the Howard County Sheriff's Department that someone had taken a very old and expensive clock from his home sometime between April 1 and 7.

The clock, valued at $1,000, was described as a Grandmother's Kitchen Clock, and was made in 1876. There were no signs of forced entry at the home.

The clock was made of dark oak, and had a small chip on the left rear corner. The Griffith name was carved several places on the clock.

Stenholm to attend farm bill hearings

Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, will join Rep. Arian Stangeland, R-Minn., for hearings on the proposed new farm bill in Abilene on April 20, Lubbock on April 21 and Amarillo on April 22. They will be joined by Hance in Lubbock and Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, in Amarillo.

Hightower also plans to attend hearings on the MX missile that are planned for Amarillo on April 20 and Dalhart on April 21.

Stenholm, Hance and Hightower will be feted at a barbecue in Tullia the night of April 21, sponsored by rural electric cooperatives in the area.

Rep. Sam B. Hall Jr., D-Marshall, is headed for hearings scheduled by the House Judiciary Committee for Tuesday through Saturday in San Diego, Calif., on immigration problems, particularly those involving Mexican aliens crossing the border.

Rep. Richard White, D-El Paso, had to re-arrange some speaking engagements because of the death of General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, an El Paso resident. White plans to attend Bradley's funeral in Washington today and then return to Texas for visits around his district.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, chairman of a housing subcommittee, will remain in Washington this week for more hearings.

Stenholm spent as much time off because of his role as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. He's going to spend a few days in Texas, but will go to Groton, Conn., April 25 for dedication of a new nuclear-powered attack submarine, The Corpus Christi.

The submarine was so named because of his recommendation, and a large delegation from Corpus Christi is planning to be on hand when Tower's wife breaks a bottle of champagne to christen the ship.

Volcanic eruption earns newspaper Pulitzer Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — An author who committed suicide while his novel went ignored and a small-town newspaper that found an erupting volcano in its back yard have been awarded Pulitzer Prizes for their contributions to the arts and journalism.

"I'm very proud and overwhelmed," said Thelma Toole, mother of the late John Kennedy Toole, winner of the 1961 prize for fiction for the comic novel "A Confederacy of Dunces." He committed suicide in 1969 at the age of 32.

The Pulitzer Prize for Journalism went to Longview (Wash.) Daily News "erupted in cheers" when it heard its coverage of the eruption of Mount St. Helens had won them the prize for general reporting.

The Charlotte (N.C.) Observer received the coveted gold medal for public service in journalism for its series "Brown Lung: A Case of Deadly Neglect."

The Pulitzer, awarded annually by Columbia University on the recommendation of a jury, were endowed by Joseph Pulitzer, late publisher of the old New York World.

The international reporting award went to Shirley Christian of the Miami Herald for her coverage of events in El Salvador and other Latin American countries.

New York Times writers took two Pulitzers.

Houston correspondent John M. Crewdson, who "walked across the Mexican desert at night with smugglers," received the national reporting award for a series on the treatment of illegal immigrants which led to Justice Department investigation.

Times sports columnist Dave Anderson was honored for distinguished commentary.

Clark Hallas and Robert B. Lowe of the Arizona Daily Star received the prize for their investigation of the sports department at the University of Arizona.

The prize for editorial cartooning went to Mike Peters of the Dayton (Ohio) Daily News, while the award for spot news photography went to Larry C. Price of the Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram, who took extensive pictures of a firing squad in Liberia that executed members of the ousted Liberian government.

Taro Yamasaki of the Detroit Free Press was honored for feature photography for photos taken inside a state prison; Jonathan Yardley, book reviewer of the Washington Star, received the prize for criticism; and Janet Cooke of the Washington Post was honored for feature writing for her report on an 8-year-old heroin addict.

The Pulitzer board gave the history prize to Lawrence A. Cremin's "American Education: The National Experience, 1783-1876;" the biography award to Robert K. Massie's "Peter the Great: His Life and World," on the life of one of Russia's greatest czars; the poetry prize to "The Morning of the Poem," by James Schuyler, and the award for general non-fiction to "Finds-Steele Vienna: Politics and Culture," by Carl E. Schorske.

SEN. GRANT JONES
Jones seeking higher lending rate ceilings

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Grant Jones says he does not like high interest rates any more than anyone else but the Legislature has no business telling Texans what they can pay to borrow money.

"I would prefer removing interest ceilings altogether," said Jones, D-Abilene. "I think it is a form of arrogance on the part of the state" to set a ceiling.

For the second time in six weeks Monday the Senate Economic Development Committee approved Jones' proposal to raise the state ceiling on interest rates, including those on credit cards such as VISA and Mastercard.

Federal legislation lifted the cap on home mortgage loans last year.

On March 2 the Economic Development Committee voted 9-0 to set a 30 percent cap on interest rates, but the House lowered the proposed ceiling to 24 percent.

Monday the committee accepted the 24 percent cap on consumer loans but approved Jones' amendment to add a 28 percent limit "for commercial borrowers who borrow money in 'high risk' ventures."

As an example, Jones mentioned the apparel industry where, if a line of clothes is not well-received, "Brother, you're dead in the water."

John Gronouski of the University of Texas LBJ School of Public Affairs said the bill "would be devastating with respect to small loan consumers."

London riots in fourth day

LONDON (AP) — Black gangs in London's Brixton slum district went on a rampage for the fourth straight night, smashing windows and setting fires. But the rioters stayed away from the police, and no new injuries or arrests were reported.

Large numbers of blacks again surged through Brixton, in South London, after dark Monday. They attacked several stores and a post office building, adding to destruction Saturday and Sunday nights estimated at more than $2 million.

Police with riot shields moved into the area, but no clashes between police and rioters were reported.

With 200 people injured and 199 arrested, the weekend rioting and battles between police and mobs of blacks and some whites was Britain's worst racial violence. Black leaders said it was touched off by "heavy-handed" police action. But they said it stemmed from anger and frustration over unemployment — about 20 percent, or twice the national average, in Brixton — and discrimination against non-whites from the former British colonies in Asia, Africa and the West Indies.
