

TEARFUL MOMENTS — Ramona Luna reaches to embrace her sister, Elenor Castilleja near the entrance of the Dutch Creek coal mine at Restone, Colo. on Friday. The two had just been told that their brother, John Ayala, 40, had died as a result of Wednesday's explosion at the mine. Officials recovered bodies of 14 of the 15 miners who were trapped in the mine.

Victims died instantly

Bodies of 15 coal miners recovered

REDSTONE, Colo. (AP) — Rescue workers found the bodies of 15 coal miners early today, a day and a half after an explosion ripped through the Dutch Creek No. 1 mine in the Colorado Rockies, a spokeswoman for the mine operator said.

The discovery of the 15th body just after sunup today concluded the search for those killed in the explosion Wednesday afternoon, said Marvin Meyers, personnel director for Mid-Continent Resources Co., which operates the mine 30 miles west of Aspen.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately known, but there was speculation that the miners might have hit a methane gas pocket, which triggered the blast. Miners say being near a methane explosion in a mine shaft would be like being in an exploding gun barrel.

Nine bodies were discovered in the main tunnel just before midnight Thursday, and five more were found about three hours later in a branch corridor about 1,000 feet from the first group, said spokeswoman Mary Boland.

Meyers said the last miner, identified as Kelly B. Greene, 25, of New Castle, was found 3 1/2 hours after rescue workers found the second group of bodies.

Ms. Boland said Mid-Continent President John Reeves was with the rescuers who discovered the first nine bodies, and he reported that the victims appeared to have been killed instantly by the explosion.

The first nine victims were identified as Kyle Cook, 33, of Silt, Colo.; Richard Lincoln, 22, Glenwood Springs; Loren Mead, 35, Rifle; Ronald Patch, 34, Carbondale; Terry Lucero, 28, Glenwood Springs; Glen Sharp, 31, El Jebel; John Ayala, 40, Carbondale; John Rhodes, 29, Carbondale, and Robert Ragle, 29, New Castle.

Meyers released the names of the five other victims: Thomas Vetter, 24; William E. Gutherie, 32; Daniel Litwiler, 21; and Hugh W. Pierce Jr., 20, all of Glenwood Springs; and Brett Tucker, 30, Carbondale.

He said the bodies were being removed from the mine district office to Farnham Richardson Mortuary in Glenwood Springs.

"It's so heartbreaking," he said. "I hired some of those guys and sent them into the mine, and look what happened."

Some of the miners' families were huddled around campfires near the gate at the mine road entrance when someone ran up shouting, "They're all dead! They're all dead!"

Members of the family of one miner jumped up, their bodies racked with sobs.

Ramona Luna of Colorado Springs, sister of victim John Ayala, hugged another relative and said, "Johnny just didn't make it. He just didn't make it. He's down there."

There were 22 men inside when the blast occurred Wednesday afternoon. Seven men made it out immediately after the explosion, which officials have said could have been caused by methane gas. Three were hospitalized for burns, bruises and shock.

Crews with breathing equipment moved down the 13-degree-slope tunnel in front of miners who were rebuilding the ventilation system and shoring up the corridor with timber to make certain there would be no cave-in. They also had to pump out water which had seeped into the tunnel from water pockets inside the mountain.

Doug Bowman, environmental coordinator for Mid-Continent, said the cause of the blast had not been determined, but equipment used by the miners might have sparked an explosion in a pocket of methane gas.

One of the miners who escaped the blast said he thought it had been caused by a buildup of methane.

Methane monitors were in operation in the mine to detect potentially dangerous high levels of the gas, which is odorless and colorless.

Robert Delaney, vice president and general counsel for the mine operator, said the sloping mine "is a very gassy coal seam and always has been." Nine miners were killed in a methane blast there in 1965.

Don McCauley, director of the Colorado Division of Mines, said recent inspections at Dutch Creek No. 1 have been "pretty good."

"We've seen no serious violations showing imminent danger to workers there," he said, adding the last inspection was April 2.

Death of aged man in house fire poses puzzle for local police

By JAMES WERRELL
Police will try to solve a "big puzzle" regarding the death of 81-year-old Charlie Beard on April 7, said Lt. George Quintero, this morning.

Beard died when his home at 404 N. Bell suddenly caught fire during the night, burning him and reducing the residence to ashes. Big Spring Fire Marshal Carl Dorton stated, the following day, that arson had been ruled out, but it was revealed Thursday that an arson investigation has been ongoing since the day of the fire and that State Arson Investigator Bill Thompson arrived here from Austin on Monday to assist in that investigation.

The interest of both police and fire investigators was aroused because of several unusual occurrences on the night of the fire. Police found an empty money bag still intact at the scene when it should have burned in the fire, leading them to believe that it may be placed there later, said Quintero.

It was also learned, during an autopsy, that Beard had sustained three broken ribs and several bruises just before he died.

The autopsy also indicated that because Beard's death was caused by "the rapid onset of flames and heat," the fire must have started very quickly. A slow smoldering fire, which would have caused death by asphyxiation, was ruled out by doctors.

Detectives Bud Jones and Bill Price had questioned a 17-year-old local woman on Thursday, and had almost decided to charge her with murder when authorities chose to bide their time, said Quintero.

"We had drawn up an arrest sheet and read her her rights when we took another look at the body of evidence," he said, today. "It just wasn't a solid case; too many loose ends. She may still be charged in the future, but we need to talk with some more people first," he added.

Quintero said six "witnesses" have told investigators two different stories of what happened on the night of April 7, and police are searching for other people who might be able to clear up the mystery.

Earlier, on the day that Beard died, Beard had complained to police that an acquaintance had stolen a .38 caliber pistol from his home. Officers believe the revolver may have changed hands several times immediately after the theft, but that the man who ultimately received the weapon may have valuable information regarding the incident, said Quintero.

"Right now, it would be very premature to make any arrests or say we have a list of prime suspects. It's still a great big puzzle, and we will have to do a lot of work to validate any of the stories we've heard," he said. "If anyone has information, or was in contact with Beard on the day of the fire, we wish they would call us," he added.

Absentee voting deadline nears

As the deadline for absentee voting in the Big Spring City Council runoff election neared, voters had cast 80 ballots, this morning.

Deadline for voting absentee is 5 p.m. today. Three ballots which were mailed to voters will be accepted until 10 a.m. Monday.

The runoff election for two seats on the council will take place from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Tuesday. Incumbent Jack Y. Smith faces a challenge for the Place 3 seat from Michael W. Randle. Robert "Russ" McEwen and Donna Fish top vote-getters in the regular election, will vie for the Place 4 seat.

Husband jailed, gun found

Local woman shot to death

By ANDREA COHEN

A 24-year-old Big Spring woman was slain Thursday night. Police said they believed she was involved in a domestic quarrel with her 57-year-old husband.

Margo Domino, 3622 Calvin, was shot once in the left chest with a bullet from a .25 caliber automatic handgun at approximately 8:05 p.m.

Arrested in connection with the shooting was her husband, Odell Domino of the same address.

According to police reports, the couple was believed to have been arguing at their residence when the woman was shot. The bullet went through the woman's left hand and into the left area of her chest. An autopsy was scheduled to be conducted this morning.

Big Spring police officers arrived at the scene shortly after receiving the call at 8 p.m. When Sgt. Dave Spilman entered the residence, he found Domino talking on the telephone to police. He later found the body of the victim in the family room. The alleged murder weapon was found on the washing machine, located in the family room.

Shaffer Ambulance was summoned. The woman, however, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin. Two children, who were in the residence at the time of the shooting,

End of eight year battle

Judge rules Roloff's school does not require licensing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state district judge ruled today that radio preacher Lester Roloff can operate his homes for wayward youth without the license the state of Texas has tried to make him get for eight years.

Judge Charles Mathews' ruling marked the first time a judge has said Roloff can run unlicensed homes. The evangelist has long argued that a church-run home should not be subject to state licensing.

He recited Roloff's numerous claims that state regulation of his Rebekah Home for Girls and two boys' homes would violate the U.S. Constitution, including the requirement that church and state be kept separate.

The judge did not rule on any of Roloff's specific defenses but he indicated the church-state argument was decisive.

'Then Came Sunday' information timely

For those planning to attend sunrise services Easter morning, the sun in Big Spring rises at exactly 6:13 a.m., Sunday.

Families planning to attend the program "Then Came Sunday" in the Garrett Coliseum Sunday likely will want to at least set their alarms for daybreak, since the program gets under way at 8 a.m., and breakfast will be served prior to that time.

"Then Came Sunday" is a musical program which tells the story of Christ's trial, sentence and resurrection. It is sponsored by the First Baptist Church.

"Based upon ... the law as this court understands the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Texas ... the court concludes that it must deny all the relief sought by the State of Texas in this cause," Mathews said in a letter to the parties in the case.

The relief sought by the state was an order commanding Roloff to get licenses for his children's homes and to pay $46,500 in penalties for operating them without licenses since 1979.

In a telephone interview from his Corpus Christi home, Roloff said today, "I'm thankful to God for Judge Charles Mathews. He's the friend of every red-blooded American."

"It ought to have been eight years ago," he said of the ruling. "We haven't changed. We're preaching the same gospel and helping the same children."

In a previous case, Mathews ordered the homes closed. Roloff shut the Corpus Christi facilities long enough to reorganize his ministry, placing the homes under his Peoples Baptist Church.

Roloff lawyer William Ball of Harrisburg, Pa., argued the state cannot order Roloff to get licenses because the homes are under the church. In the previous suit, the homes were under Roloff Evangelical Enterprises.

Mathews said in his letter, "this is an entirely different case" from the one in which he ordered the homes to get a license or shut down.

"In the former case the properties were not those of the church. ... Here we have new parties — especially the church as a primary party — and most important, new issues,"

Mathews said. Assistant Attorney General David Young, who handled the case for the state, said no decision has been made on whether the ruling would be appealed. "I don't know. That's a judgment we will have to make after we think about it and it soaks in," he said.

Theft, vandalism cases investigated

A theft and a case of vandalism were reported to local police, Thursday.

Thieves stole a tire and a wheel from a 1981 Ford belonging to the Bob Brock Ford Dealership, 500 W. 4th, sometime Wednesday night. Loss was estimated at $200.

Vandals used two closet poles to poke holes in the wall and ceiling of a home in the Greenbelt Addition, 2620 Dow, sometime recently. Cost of the damage has not been estimated.

Three mishaps were reported Thursday.

Vehicles driven by Irma Gonzales, 307 San Jacinto, and Mike Johnson, 2507 Peach, collided at Grant and West Highway 80, 10 a.m.

Vehicles driven by James Beard, 1410 Circle, and Paula Martinez, 1510 Oriole, collided on the 1500 block of Oriole, 3:51 p.m.

A vehicle belonging to Thomas Shirley, Route 1, was struck by a vehicle that left the 1700 block of Gregg, 9:05 p.m.

Panda banished

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chia-Chia is being sent back to London in disgrace.

As a lover, the imported male panda was all bluster, leaving the lissome Ling-Ling to spend another year untroubled by the demands of motherhood.

Perhaps more disappointed than Ling-Ling is the National Zoo, which has failed to breed her in eight years of trying.

Now, she's out of heat.

"Of course we're disappointed," said zoo spokesman Michael Morgan. "We had hoped Ling-Ling and Chia-Chia would be compatible and understand each other's signals, but they just didn't respond in the way we had hoped."

Chia-Chia was flown over from London to take the place of Hsing-Hsing, the well-intentioned but hapless male who had shared Ling-Ling's accommodations since the two were given to the United States by China in 1972.

Chia-Chia's problems with Ling-Ling were perhaps more a matter of attitude than ability.

He was too macho.

His only encounter with the lady panda late Tuesday night was so rough and tumble that she was too tired and bruised to try again.

And now it's too late.

So Chia-Chia's six-week stand is, for all productive purposes, over. The out-of-town gun-slinger will be shipped back to the London Zoo as soon as arrangements can be made. That will probably take about a week, said Morgan.

Reagans meet with Cooke

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, met today with Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York, who offered a Good Friday wish for a happy Easter to the first family.

"It made me very happy to think that I could have this visit with him (Reagan) and I'm very happy not only for our American brothers and sisters, but for people all over the world that we have his strong leadership in the days ahead," Cooke said just before departing the White House in the rain.

The first lady, dressed in red, accompanied him to the same time, the president issued a written Easter and Passover statement.

"Nancy joins me in extending to all who celebrate Passover or Easter our warmest wishes for a time filled with joy and spiritual fulfillment and our hope that one day men and women everywhere will be able to worship God in the manner of their choosing," the statement said.

Reagan said, "Here in America, religious beliefs are central to our founding principles. We draw special strength from our unity as a people who trust in God, and from the lessons for us and our children in our rituals."

Cooke, who spent about a half hour in the White House living quarters, said, "I had the opportunity of wishing him a very happy Easter, praying, of course, for peace, joy and peace for him, his family and all whom he serves."

Asked what he and Reagan had discussed, Cooke said, "We spoke about many things, but most of it was reflections about the great hope for peace in this world of ours."

Coal talks break off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations to end the 22-day coal strike broke off after less than two hours today as industry and union officials failed to reach agreement on terms designed to win approval from miners who said the first proposed contract wasn't good enough.

No further talks are scheduled between the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

The chief industry negotiator, B.R. Brown, left the bargaining table shortly before noon, saying he had once again rejected the union proposals. He also said no talks are scheduled this weekend or next week.

"They rejected our proposal and asked us to reconsider their original proposal," said Jack Perry, president of UMW District 17 in West Virginia and a member of the negotiating team. "We obviously can't do that. They find our proposal unacceptable, and their proposal is certainly unacceptable to us."

UMW President Sam Church remained secluded in the bargaining room after the talks broke up and was not immediately available for comment.

Talks between the UMW and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association had recessed Tuesday with the two sides far apart on a contract that would allow some 160,000 miners to return to work.

Water superintendent quits

Jobs of city marshal, municipal judge axed

ASPERMONT — The City of Aspermont is eliminating the jobs of city marshal and municipal judge and will no longer have a municipal court after May 1.

After word was put out that the positions and the court were being eliminated, water superintendent Eddie Jones said he was quitting, effective immediately, to move to Breckenridge.

The decisions concerning the elimination of the positions and the court were made by the city council, which includes three members elected for the first time earlier this month.

Most parts taken quickly

Representatives of the various groups and businesses in the Big Spring area showed up for the cast auction Thursday in the Runnels Junior High School gym. After the spirited auction was over, only a very few parts remained to be filled for the centennial "Iron Horse Revue."

Each group has its own unique way of recruiting members and volunteers, but the cast auction held Thursday for the parts in the "Iron Horse Revue" had to be one of the most effective.

By the end of the short historical spectacular, most of the 400 to 500 parts for the major stage show had been filled.

Gary Welz, director of the historical spectacular, said the outdoor "Iron Horse Revue" would "dramatize the challenge facing modern man in the light of past, present, and projected history. The stage for this great show," he said, "encompasses most of the Memorial Stadium football field and will be over 200 feet long and include screens for pictorial slide projections and the extraordinary Laser Media light show — a 15 minute presentative of special lighting effects that will be incorporated into the grand finale of the program," Welz said.

"The show shall include dance, drama, battle reenactments, horses, wagons, old-time cars, and special lighting effects in a magnificent total theatrical experience," he continued. "A production to be remembered for years to come."

Approximately 400 people are slated to appear in the large stage show, with the hopes that the number could be much higher depending on the cast participation. There will be no lines to memorize and rehearsals will be short and interesting and will begin Wednesday, April 22, at the Runnels gym. Welz said that they would also be auditions for eight narrators, who will tell the story of the highlights of Howard County's glorious past.

As far as the cast is concerned, Welz informed those attending the auction that all costumes, with the exception of modern dress, would be supplied to them at no cost. He also said that all cast members would be listed in the historical cast program, provided they registered before the program deadline.

Welz stressed the importance of cast members being prompt and showing up for the rehearsals. He said all initial rehearsals would be held in the Runnels Junior High School gym and would be moved to the Memorial Stadium football field as the rehearsals drew closer to the opening of the major stage show May 21, at 9 p.m.

Auditions for narrators and principle roles will be held on Monday, April 20, and Tuesday, April 21, at 7 p.m. at the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 900 Main. Interested individuals may audition for both kinds of roles at the same time and may come to either night of the auditions.

And for those who may have been awaiting the outcome of the cast auction, Janet Mahoney got the role of one of the four saloon girls in the "Iron Horse Revue."

Groups and businesses in Big Spring had volunteered the services of their fellow members and employees for roles in the major centennial production.

Apartment fire kills 6 people, injures 35

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A smoky, five-alarm fire erupted in a 10-story apartment building early today, killing at least six people and injuring 35 others, including six firefighters, authorities said.

"If the people had kept all their doors closed and stayed in their rooms, every one would have gotten out," said Fire Department spokesman Harold Knabe. "But, of course, it was a panic situation."

More than 60 of the residents were evacuated by ladders from the rear of the building, he said.

Police Sgt. Jim Treece said that when firefighters first arrived at the scene dozens of people were leaning out of windows all over the building.

"Fortunately, no one jumped or we would have had a real problem," he said.

The brick and concrete Westport Central Apartments contained 180 units, mostly studio apartments. Authorities said that almost 99 percent of the 184 residents were senior citizens and estimated their average age as 60.

Treece said officers originally listed eight dead because of a mixup with a hospital report. He said nearly all of those injured were suffering from smoke inhalation or cuts and bruises.

The fire was discovered shortly after 2 a.m. CST and was reported under control about two hours later.

The Howard County Junior College District was among 34 educational institutions recognized in the 1981 Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) Southwest District Communication Awards Competition.

The competition drew 467 entries from 57 educational institutions. Winners were announced April 15 during the CASE District IV Conference in Austin.

Among the winners was David Partlow, Director of College Information for the Howard County Junior College District. Partlow was awarded a special judge's award for his entry, "The Deaf Texan", under the admissions and recruitment literature category.

"The Deaf Texan" is the official publication of the Texas Association of the Deaf.

"I had originally written a story about the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, and sent it to the 'Deaf Texan' in hopes they would use it in their publication. They liked the story, and letter, and prepared it camera-ready for the printer," said Partlow.

"I feel it is a great honor to receive this award, as I was competing against almost every major college and university in the Southwest District," added Partlow.

Texas A&M University garnered the most awards with 19, including six grand (first place), five excellence (second place), six achievement (third place) and two special judge's awards.

Among the other entrants winning five or more awards were Louisiana State University, eight; North Texas State University, seven; and The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, six; The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, five; and The University of Texas System Cancer Center, five.

CASE District IV membership includes educational institutions from Arkansas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Mexico.

DAVID PARTLOW called me to see if I would do an 8-page special edition about the institute," said Partlow.

Polish farmers' union allowed by government

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Representatives of Poland's 3.5 million private farmers and the communist government signed an agreement today that will allow legalization of an independent farmers' union, a spokesman for the independent union Solidarity said.

The signing had been delayed for several hours by wrangling over final details.

The farmers' leader, Jan Kulaj, wanted the agreement to "say clearly that the union will be registered," while the government apparently believed a declaration of intent was sufficient, a Solidarity spokesman said.

The problem seemed to center on that part of the pact which said the government "will work" to get the private farmer's union registered by May 10, rather than stating outright that registration would be accomplished at that time.

The two sides met in Bydgoszcz, 140 miles north of Warsaw, where farmers have been holding a sit-in since mid-March to demand their own union.

"The trail to the registration of a self-governing trade union of private farmers has been blazed," Stanislaw Ciosek, minister for trade union affairs, was quoted as saying.

Government recognition of such a union would be unprecedented in the communist world, as was the acceptance of Solidarity, a 10 million-member federation of trade unions that is independent of the Polish government.

Warsaw Radio said the Bydgoszcz agreement, to be signed later today, calls for registration of the union no later than May 10. A Solidarity communique said the accord "takes into account all demands" made by the protesting farmers, the radio reported.

Farmers formed the organization Rural Solidarity last summer, shortly after the communist leadership recognized Solidarity, the first Soviet-bloc trade union not run by the Communist Party.

But while the 10-million member Solidarity federation was chartered by the government, Poland's Supreme Court said Rural Solidarity could not get similar recognition without specific Parliamentary action.

Warsaw Television said Thursday that language recommended by the Parliament's special committee for implementation of social contracts "would ensure the possibility of the establishment of trade unions of individual farmers." The language would be added to an omnibus unions bill currently being drawn up to codify the rights won by Polish workers, the broadcast said.

Agriculture in Poland already is unique among the heavily collectivized Soviet-bloc countries since the nation's private farmers own 75 percent of the land and produce 80 percent of the food. Rural Solidarity claims to represent as many as 1 million of the farmers. By contrast, the official United Peasants Party, an arm of the Communist Party, has 500,000 members.

Recognition of their union has been a key demand of farmers sitting in at United Peasants Party headquarters in Bydgoszcz.

Dance raises $1,658 to battle cancer

GAIL — A dance benefiting the American Cancer Crusade, staged here recently, raised a total of $1,658.51 at the gate and in concessions sales, Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys provided the music.

The income from the dance added substantially to the funds derived from a steer raffle, bringing the total to $3,388.51.

The sponsoring organization, the Borden County Cancer Society, is authority for the claim that the county may be No. 1 in the state again in per capita giving, a position it has held for a decade.

The year's drive exceeded by $200 the amount raised in 1980.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith of Gain won the steer in the drawing. The animal was donated by a Snyder firm as a crusade gift. It weighed 1,000 pounds.

Former Iranian hostages complete 'last farewell'

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — What may be the last chapter of a saga that shocked much of the world and united America is coming to a quiet ending at a mountain resort 12,000 miles from where it began.

Thirty-one Americans held hostage in Iran, bound by 444 days of captivity and 90 of fervent acclaim, were saying goodbye to each other today and preparing to head for new jobs in posts around the world.

A small number planned to spend the Easter weekend at The Greenbrier, a lush Allegheny Mountains resort where they relaxed and underwent medical and psychological tests for three days.

Most of the former hostages who attended the reunion said they felt it was time to go their separate ways.

"It's over now," said Frederick Kupke. "I see no reason to have any more hostage celebrations or reunions. It's time to get on with things."

William Keough agreed, saying, "It's finally ending, like the sun setting on the horizon."

A team of 20 government psychiatrists and psychologists met with the former hostages several times during their stay, which was sponsored by the State Department and paid for by The Greenbrier. On Thursday, the doctors gave the returnees a clean bill of health.

"The ex-hostages are functioning well within their family and peer groups and are returning to work," the doctors said in a statement.

They added that "lessons learned from the group should be of use should a similar situation occur in the future."

State Department spokesman David Nall said the physicians, members of the same medical team that examined all 52 of the hostages upon their release Jan. 20, chose not to meet with reporters.

Nall said the 21 hostages who didn't attend chose not to come for various reasons including "prior commitments."

Louisa Kennedy, wife of former captive Moohamad Kennedy and spokeswoman for the Family Liaison

Action Group, said some of the families talked of adjustment problems during the group discussions.

"They were the normal problems of families coming back together after long separations," she said. "But there were no serious problems that I am aware of."

Asked if she felt it was time for the nation to put the hostage crisis behind it, she replied: "Certainly—I think we should draw a veil over it and let it rest in peace."

Before leaving, some of the former hostages talked about their coming foreign service assignments. Some said they were headed for Europe while others mentioned domestic assignments.

Kupke, of Francesville, Ind., said he was going to Bangkok, Thailand. Intelligence officer Richard Queen, released early because of medical problems, has been assigned new duties in London.

"This is where we wrap up the public celebration," said Donald Cooke, who's headed for Paris.

Weather Showers remaining in Texas forecast

By the Associated Press

Scattered showers and thunderstorms threatened to spoil outdoor activities for Texans as the Easter holiday weekend began today.

Forecasts called for mostly cloudy to partly cloudy skies, warmer temperatures and scattered showers and thunderstorms statewide today. Highs were to be in the 70s and 80s. Some of the showers and thunderstorms were expected to linger around the state through Saturday.

Some light rain was reported during the night along the Rio Grande in South Texas and some fog was reported during the dawn hours along the coastal bend and in the South Plains.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 50s and 60s. Extremes ranged from 48 at Dalhart to 71 at Port Arthur.

MIDDAY WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service Forecast for Saturday predicts rain or showers through most of the central and southern-central states.

Stockman promises budget setbacks will be reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget director David A. Stockman is guaranteeing that the setback the Reagan administration suffered at the hands of the Republican-dominated Senate Budget Committee will be reversed swiftly when Congress returns to work.

Three Republicans sided with the panel's Democrats last week in providing the votes needed to reject a budget blueprint drawn to meet the specifications of President Reagan's tax and spending proposals.

But Stockman, appearing Thursday at a White House briefing, said, "I would guarantee to you here today" that the problem that led the three Republicans to vote against the plan will be solved quickly.

He offered no details, but his comments echoed those of Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., who voted against the budget plan.

"In all likelihood, we're going to be able to put it together with very little difficulty," a vacationing Armstrong said by telephone from Florida. Both houses of Congress are on a two-week recess that ends April 27.

Armstrong was joined by Sens. Charles Grassley of Iowa and Steven Symms of Idaho in rejecting the budget proposal. They complained that the Reagan package would not guarantee the balanced budget that the president says his economic program will produce in 1984.

The administration has to come up with more than $70 billion in additional budget savings for 1983 and 1984 to balance the budget, but so far has resisted outlining specific cuts.

Meanwhile, a top Treasury Department official predicted that the administration's economic policies would moderate inflation and that interest rates should moderate later this year.

"We anticipate as the year continues we'll see further evidence ... that prices are no longer surging upward because we have changed policy," said Beryl W. Sprinkel, undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs.

"If we continue to get stable, moderate growth of money, I expect that on average, interest rates are going to continue on downward," he told a news conference Thursday.

The administration predicts that as prices are followed, inflation will drop from a 12.4 percent rate in 1980 to about 7 percent in 1982.

Reagan's anti-inflation proposals include cutting the federal budget and urging the Federal Reserve Board to maintain a steady, slow growth of the nation's supply of money. He also has called for tax cuts that he contends would stimulate real economic growth.

On Thursday, Treasury Undersecretary Norman B. Ture, a principal architect of Reagan's proposal to reduce personal income taxes by 30 percent over three years, said he never suggested a compromise on the tax-cut plan during a meeting last week with House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones, D-Okla.

The discussion set off a flurry of congressional claims — and White House denials — that the administration might accept a one-year tax cut plan instead of the three-year proposal pushed by Reagan.

Reagan has said he is not willing to compromise on the multiyear tax-cut proposal.

Stockman, meanwhile, insisted that a new study by the Congressional Budget Office demonstrates that the president's program will maintain a "safety net" of protection beneath the nation's neediest citizens.

On track Auditions for narrators, principle roles scheduled

"On Track" is an official column prepared by the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., and lists the various events and meetings being held in conjunction with the upcoming Big Spring-Howard County Centennial to be held May 21-30. Individuals wishing to list their activities and events in this column are asked to call Mel Prather at 267-4373, or bring their items by Citizens Federal Credit Union.

AUDITIONS FOR NARRATORS AND PRINCIPLE ROLES: Auditions for the narrators and principle roles in the "Iron Horse Revue" will be held on Monday, April 20, and Tuesday, April 21, at 7 p.m. at the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 900 Main. Interested individuals may audition for both types of roles at the same time and may come to either night of the auditions.

CAST PARTS: Individuals who would like to be in the cast of the "Iron Horse Revue" that were unable to make the cast audition on Thursday night should contact the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 267-3641 prior to Wednesday, April 22, 1981.

TICKETS FOR REVUE: Tickets for the "Iron Horse Revue" are available from all First Lady candidates. Since the tickets count towards the candidate's points, individuals should purchase their tickets from the First Lady candidate of their choice.

Housing starts up 5.8 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing starts rose 5.8 percent in March after a 27 percent decline in February but building permits for future construction fell for the fourth straight month, the government says.

The 3.2 percent March decline in permits — coupled with rising mortgage interest rates — means builders "have all but lost whatever chance we had of mounting a strong housing recovery later this year," an industry spokesman said Thursday.

Herman J. Smith, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said his group expects housing starts to drop from March's seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.28 million units to less than 1 million later this spring.

That decline will bring as many as 300,000 new layoffs in construction and construction-related industries on top of more than 600,000 in the past few months, he said.

Oral confessions bill heads for Texas house

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — black gun on his hip he has the sanctity of the court wrapped around him. He is a super witness.

"Under your bill, when an officer takes the stand he has a tape in his hand. When the defendant takes the stand he has nothing," said Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville. "The questioning may last three or four hours but all you are going to hear in court is the last three or four minutes of tape."

"If officers don't have to tell a man he is being recorded, they will start hiding recorders in the jail cell, under the table when he talks with his attorney, which has already happened," said Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, who offered the amendment. It failed 21-9.

Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, offered the successful amendment that would require any tapes made of statements by defendants to be kept until the appeal is final. "All this does is make sure these statements are kept and don't get lost," he said.

The Caperton amendment won by an 18-12 vote.

Appeals court orders Midland bank to pay additional taxes

Marle-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court agreed Wednesday with a lower court opinion that Midland National Bank must pay additional taxes to Midland and four other taxing authorities.

Midland National had hoped to overturn an El Paso appeals court ruling that ordered payment of $219,094.45 in back taxes, plus penalties, interest and all court costs.

The question was whether the bank is entitled to deduct the value of The Midland National Bank Tower in arriving at the amount of valorem taxes owed to the state and four local taxing authorities.

While owning the real estate on which the tower is located, the bank has a long-term lease arrangement with Gerald Hines.

According to court records, Hines constructed the tower and leased part to the bank, with both sharing profits from leasing to other tenants.

The bank said the tower was part of its realty and thus its value could be deducted from the bank's value of stock shares in determining the tax rate as provided by state law.

Taxing authorities treated the tower as the realty of Hines and refused to allow the bank its deduction.

Court records show that District Judge J.H. Harley issued an injunction on Aug. 14, 1979, preventing the taxing authorities from collecting taxes without allowing the bank the deduction.

The El Paso appeals court disagreed and ordered the following payments: Midland, $66,550.37; Midland County, $30,354.59; the state, $3,834.26; Midland Junior College District, $18,640.89; and the Midland Independent School District, $97,714.34.

The Supreme Court found no error in the record and declined to consider overruling the appeals court.

Man charged with shooting deaths of two near Mertzton

MERTZTON — Mortimer (Bubba) Hall, 75, has been indicted here on two murder charges, filed in connection with the March 22 shooting deaths of two men near here.

Victims in the shootings were David James Adams, 32, of Rolling Acres and John Bernardon, 34, Midland, who were shot to death in a rowboat on Spring Creek, about seven miles east of Mertzton. Their bodies and the rowboat were recovered near Hall's property.

Bond has been set at $50,000 on each indictment. Hall reportedly checked into a hospital Wednesday afternoon. He reportedly is undergoing treatment for high blood pressure and excessive use of alcohol.

What does the Resurrection of Jesus Christ mean to you and me? It means that there is power for a victorious life. Scripture says that the same energy, the same atomic power of God that was used to raise Christ from the dead, is the power that He gives to live victoriously every day.

Easter also brought an end to loneliness. It was the risen Christ who said, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." God did not create us to live in unbearable solitude. Christ, through His life, death, and resurrection, provided an effective cure for the inherent loneliness of humans. He restored our lost fellowship with God and bridged forever the gap.

The Easter bells also peel out the message of immortality. Death stalks us relentlessly, cutting off people in the prime of life and in the midst of their most exciting work. But in Easter's message there is hope that those who believe in Him shall some day rise from the dead. To the Christian death has lost its fear and sting. Because Christ lives, we have the hope that we shall live too.

Louis was champ inside, outside ring

A man for all seasons, Joe Louis, died the other day. It would be trite to say that he was a credit to his race — the human race, that is — but he brought credit to all.

Joe, who came out of the cotton fields of Alabama to reign supreme in the boxing ring for a dozen years, was a tiger inside the ropes and a pussycat outside them. When he thought he had more money than he needed, he was the softest touch in sports — and seemed accessible to everyone.

He would dig into his pockets for a loan to a fellow who said he "had a friend who knew you." He played golf only reasonably well but he would risk a thousand dollars a hole betting against some hustler he knew could beat him.

IN HIS PRIME, Louis dominated his fight division as no other man who fought before or after him. He fought so often that his opponent of the moment became identified as a member of the "Bum of the Month Club."

A bigoted world looked with disdain upon the Black race when Joe started fighting his way to the top. White champions did not always have to offer excuses when they dodged black contenders in those days. Joe accepted the prejudice for what it was and bided his time. As the saying goes, he never made waves.

He was content in the knowledge that the power in his punches made it impossible for boxing promoters to defend a racial bias that today is looked upon as not only disgraceful but silly.

Joe had great confidence in his ring savvy and his ability to take out an opponent. Once, when Billy Conn — a garrulous Irishman with crowd appeal — boasted how he was going to outfox Louis in the ring, Joe, without rancor, replied: "He can run but he can't hide." They met twice in the ring, and Joe won both fights. The first time, Conn did a masterful job of staying away from Joe and was ahead on points. Conn blundered when he tried to outslug the champion in the 13th round and Louis put him on Dream Street.

Louis never went parading around the ring with a miniature flag in his hand, as did one of his successors, George Foreman, but he did much to buy American pride and American hopes when he came back to beat Max Schmeling in a fight that had a lot of political overtones. At the time, Hitler was beginning to ripple his military muscle in Germany and Schmeling was being touted as a representative of Hitler's "super race."

Louis never brought disgrace upon himself. Jack Dempsey, in his prime, may have been more popular but Louis brought greater dignity to the game. Never one to boast of his accomplishments, he let his fists do his talking for him.

Louis' generosity, in the end, cost him his fortune — that and an ignorance of the income tax laws. When it came time to settle up with Uncle Sam, he admitted he was tapped out. Some of the people who had posed as his friends were thieves who had rifled his pockets.

He was beset with financial and domestic woes during most of his last years on this earth, forced to take jobs that his true friends, on occasions, considered undignified. He did it without ever complaining, though — a champion to the last.

The world may not see his likes again.

Dining rules

Around the rim

James Werrell

The old rule goes that the best place to eat along the road is a restaurant with a bunch of trucks parked out front.

The rule is based on the reasoning that truckers have passed this way before, and have found that the eggs aren't too soft; and the chili doesn't contain many foreign objects with legs on them. Logical, I guess.

CALVIN TRILLIN, AUTHOR of "Alice, Let's Eat," wrote that the true test of the caliber of a Mexican-food restaurant is whether menudo is featured on the menu. Never, under the menu, he adds, but if it's there on the menu, you are in for a good meal.

So, there are a couple of rules to follow when dining out. And here are a few more that I have picked up on my own:

- The quality of a barbecue restaurant is inversely proportional to how clean it is. The bottom of the restroom sinks should look like a Rorschach test; each sink should have a half-dollar-sized chip of Lava soap with moss growing on the north side; and the sign above the sink should read, "Wash your hands if you feel like it."
- Preferably, the joint should have a booth reserved for roaches.
- Never order a hamburger named after the owner: Sandy, Rusty or Harryburgers, for example.
- Never order from a waitress with a fever blister that won't heal, or with hair that cracks in a stiff breeze.
- Never order the bouillabaisse from a drive-in restaurant. The borscht is O.K., but never the bouillabaisse.
- Avoid French restaurants that feature entertainment by The Amazing Johnny And His Wonder Organ, the Harmonicats or the Ventures.

If you are in the Hollywood area, run from a restaurant where the only person you can recognize on the celebrity wall is Ed Begley.

You would, obviously, avoid restaurants with names such as Billy Bob's Continental Cuisine or Achmed's Country Cookin'.

— Don't order ribs from a waiter with a bone through his nose.

— Don't eat blue hot dogs. Don't eat hot dogs that move, or make noises when you bite into them.

— THE MORE ADJECTIVES used to describe it, the worse the food. When dining at the Dew Drop Inn, for example, pass on the Generous Order of Tender, Flaky, Batter-Dipped, Deep-Fried, North Atlantic Whitefish. Mrs. Paul has probably preceded you.

— Jump at the chance to try exotic new dishes, but avoid eating animals that live underground or in caves.

— If a restaurant has a special, offering all the oysters you can eat for 50 cents, check to make sure the month has an "R" in it.

— If you are looking for a romantic little Italian restaurant, retreat from the places that urge, "Try our delicious Raviolios."

By the way, I checked out one of those truck stops with all the big rigs out front, and I couldn't believe it! The food was terrible!

I wondered what the attraction was, so I asked this waitress that all the guys were calling Old 38-24-36, and all she said was, "Well, I guess rules were made to be broken, big fella."

Sinks admirals

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — A hospitalized President Reagan did not wait for the tragic sinking April 10 of a Japanese trawler by a missile-firing Polaris submarine to bring the admirals to heel by ordering full speed ahead on a vital submarine communications system they wanted stopped.

From the White House last week, an undated memorandum ordered Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger to countermand the Navy's decision to cancel its extremely low frequency (ELF) communications system. The memo bore only Reagan's name, not his signature, but it had been orally approved from the hospital bed of the invalided commander in chief.

There shall be no funding reductions," Reagan said. "You should advise the Navy that I am not inclined to terminate this much-needed program without compelling evidence to do so."

THAT PRESUMABLY SCUTTLED the effort by the admirals to play the familiar old Navy game: Put aside currently needed projects at the expense of funding futuristic systems. Surprisingly, the Pentagon civilians did not bring the Navy brass up short; the decision on a piece of hardware had to go all the way to the president's hospital bed.

The Navy leaked the first news of it to the public via no champion of a Pentagon: Sen. Carl Levin of Michigan, a liberal Democrat and all-out environmentalist foe of ELF, a system destined for his home state. When Levin passed the word to the Detroit News, it exploded with the force of a Polaris missile among defense leaders on Capitol Hill.

For 20 years, the Navy and a few brave politicians willing to take on the environmentalist lobby had preached the soundness and safety of ELF. Without it, the president cannot communicate with submerged U.S. submarines; they must come close to the surface and trail their antennas.

That is probably what happened, Navy submariners told us, in the East China Sea tragedy April 10. The U.S.S. George Washington, a Polaris missile sub, was almost certainly surfacing to pick up new orders. That maneuver would be unnecessary with ELF.

In an international emergency, the president could not order U.S. strategic submarines to prepare for possible missile firings, or to rush to a new location, without risking their destruction by an enemy as they expose their surface antennas. ELF is "the critical linchpin" to wartime deployment of the subs, wrote Sen. John Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, in an angry note to Weinberger when he first heard about the Navy's decision.

Why, then, did the Navy risk congressional wrath and the commander in chief's personal affront by cancelling ELF? The full reason is shrouded in Pentagon mists, but defense specialists — including many submariners — say the reason was simple greed for defense appropriations.

THE NAVY BRASS decided the $34 million earmarked for ELF in the coming fiscal year could be used to develop a futuristic aircraft for communicating with submarines called TACAMO. Then, in another year or two, it could return to ELF, knowing that growing congressional support of the ELF system would still guarantee delivery of the funds.

Can be only daily blahs

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I think I have hypothyroidism. I have the symptom — fatigue. The only test my doctor gave me was a blood test that showed no deficiency. I have read there are other tests to determine the condition. Maybe you could devote a column to this. — Mrs. K.K.

The symptoms of hypothyroidism are common to so many other conditions that it is very hard to diagnose that illness by yourself. In fact, the symptoms, especially early on, are often the ones most of us feel, not because of ill health but because of the daily blahs.

The hormone made by the thyroid gland keeps the body running at peak efficiency. When the gland stops making its hormone for whatever reason (hypothyroidism), the body slows down, and fatigue becomes a common symptom. It is difficult to blame lack of thyroid hormone for all the fatigue in the world. Other symptoms — dry skin, dry hair, deepening of the voice, intolerance to cold, menstrual irregularity and weight gain in the face of decreased appetite — are a part of the picture. But even all these do not necessarily point to deficiency of the hormone.

The doctor probably checked your reflexes with a rubber hammer. Slow reflexes at the ankle suggest a lack of thyroid hormone. As your doctor did for you, the level of the hormone in the blood can be measured. If that was normal, it is unlikely that you have hypothyroidism.

A blood test, one that checks the level of the specific hormone that turns on the thyroid gland, adds valuable information to confirm the diagnosis. If both hormone levels are normal the diagnosis of hypothyroidism would be very difficult.

I wish you had included other symptoms that make you think you have hypothyroidism. While it is true that in early hypothyroidism the diagnosis is difficult, the array of symptoms, the doctor's evaluation and laboratory tests ought to be enough to provide a safe evaluation of thyroid activity.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been trying to get pregnant for two years.

My husband went to a urologist and found out he has a very low sperm count. One of the reasons is a varicocele vein. The doctor suggested an operation to remove the vein. How successful is the operation and what are the chances it will improve the situation? — R.D.

A varicocele is somewhat like a varicose vein of the testical. Varicoceles can lead to a low sperm count and decreased motility (movement) of the sperm and contribute to infertility. Having the varicocele surgically corrected is a very safe operation and does restore fertility if that was what was hampering it to begin with. The exact prediction of that cannot be made unequivocally. Under the circumstances you describe, I would certainly advise your husband to have this operation done, so long as it has been established that you, yourself, are fertile.

You say the varicocele is "one of" the reasons for his low sperm count, but you don't mention the others. That, too, would be important to know in a decision concerning varicocele surgery.

Dear Dr. Donohue: We have always thought that one's blood type remains the same during one's lifetime and that one should know their blood type in case of accidents, when transfusion may be needed. Now I hear it does not go to know it because it can change. Our blood types, both mine and my husband's, were not listed as part of our recent complete physicals. Can you explain? — Mrs. N.A.H.

Ordinarily, blood types stay the same for life. As with most medical answers, there are a few "buts" and "depends on" to be added.

You inherit blood type from your parents. For the most part, it is safe to say that if you are type A, you remain type A, and so on. In a very few illnesses the mosaic covering of the red blood cells (which determines blood type) can change. These are rare happenings. In any event, present blood type, even if it has changed, can be determined as easily as if it had not changed. For this reason, I suspect that your blood type was not included in your recent physical examination report because it was not tested for.

I'm sure it would if you were to ask specifically for the tests. It is important to know blood type for extreme emergencies. However, blood compatibility can be quickly determined in most situations, and even if a person doesn't know his type it can be learned prior to transfusion.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role — in everything from eyesight to fertility. The booklet "Your Thyroid: How It Works for You" explains this important, and misunderstood, gland. To get a copy, enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently someone asked me to sign a card which would give the doctors the right to transplant some of my organs (such as kidneys) when I die. Do you think there is any Biblical objection to this? — R.B.

DEAR R.B.: No, I find nothing in the Bible which would prohibit this, and in fact I would encourage you to do it if your family agrees. By this means you will be helping another person, and in some instances you may even be providing a person with something (such as a kidney) which will enable them to live much longer than they would otherwise. Remember the words of Jesus: "In everything, do to others what you would have them do to you, for this sums up the Law and the prophets" (Matthew 7:12). If you were facing something like blindness or even death which could be cured by an organ transplant, I am sure you would want others to donate those organs to you.

Although this could be a good and loving thing for you to do, I want to suggest that there is something you can do for other people which is even more important — and which you can do right now. If you are a Christian, you know that Jesus Christ has saved you and that you are his child forever. He has forgiven you of all your sins, and he has come to dwell in you by his Holy Spirit. Because you are his, you have the wonderful privilege of prayer. And the greatest thing you can do for others is share God's great gift to them — the gift of his Son. There are countless people around you — maybe even some in your own family — who do not know Christ. Are you praying for them, and are you seeking to be a witness for Christ to them? Are you doing what you can to extend the Gospel through your prayers and your gifts to Christian ministries?

Some day each of us will die. Even a person whose life has been extended through the wonders of modern medicine will eventually die and go into eternity. Be sure that you belong to Christ, and then seek to share the good news of his salvation with others.

Cover up

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Attorney General William French Smith's top priority isn't violent crime, but reform of the systematic, high-level coverups within the Justice Department, which threaten to undermine the effectiveness of the nation's chief law enforcement agency.

Smith is not responsible for the "see-no-evil" attitude of subordinates he inherited, of course. But the relaxed way that Justice Department probes go after allegations of misbehavior by the big fish remains at the scandalous level reached under the Carter administration.

ONE EXAMPLE INVOLVES Peter Besinger, whose unquestioned competence and political savvy have enabled him to remain head of the Drug Enforcement Administration during three administrations. Besinger's success as a narcotics bloodhound is attested to by numerous spectacular busts, which resulted in confiscation of hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of illicit drugs.

My associates Jack Mitchell and Indy Badwar have learned that the Reagan transition team was offered substantial charges of misconduct by Besinger. The allegations include misuse of DEA agents for personal convenience and exotic shopping trips while Besinger was traveling on official business.

In addition, I've received reports that the Justice Department is aware of allegations that DEA agents were assigned to chauffeur Besinger's relatives around various vacation spots abroad. And his mother has been helped through customs by DEA agents on a VIP basis on several occasions.

Furthermore, when the allegations against Besinger by DEA employees were made to Senate investigators and offered to the White House transition team, the informants said they could get virtually dozens of agents to testify under oath on their knowledge of the abuses charged.

I should emphasize that Besinger hasn't been found guilty of any wrongdoing. But the widespread knowledge of the allegations within the DEA has affected employee morale. If for no other reason, the charges should be given a thorough airing.

One serious charge of improper behavior was referred to the Justice Department recently. It got the same halfhearted investigation that has become the hallmark of the department's handling of political big shots.

ACCORDING TO THE allegation, Besinger or a subordinate sent a DEA agent from New York to Washington just to hand-carry a Latin American vase the director had bought overseas. To give the trip some faint color of official business, the agent was given a dictation tape to deliver to Washington. According to a DEA source, another agent had already refused the assignment.

The agent who did make the trip said in a taped conversation that he didn't think it was a proper use of his time. He turned Besinger's vase over to a DEA official at Washington's National Airport — and mailed the dictation tape the next day.

A formal complaint was made to the Justice Department, and it was referred to the Public Integrity Section for investigation. Even though the DEA's New York office was already being probed by the FBI on a variety of other charges, the investigation of the "vase affair" was perfunctory at best. It consisted of an inconclusive interrogation of the agent and a brief interview with Besinger, who denied any impropriety.

Michael Shaheen, chief of the Office of Professional Responsibility, apparently made only a cursory check on the case, despite Besinger's rank and repeated inquiries from a senator and various reporters. "After logical leads were pursued, it was reviewed by me and the matter is closed," Shaheen said.

Footnote: Besinger assured us that there was "nothing to" the vase incident, and insisted the record would show he has "never taken advantage of" the agency he heads. A Besinger aide claimed the vase was worth $6. The assistance offered to the director's mother, said the aide, was "routine."

FOOD FOR POLAND: I've already reported on the efforts of Ed Piszek, president of Mrs. Paul's Kitchen, to avert starvation in Poland. With the help of the Catholic Archdiocese of Philadelphia, Piszek, who is of Polish descent, is shipping 40 million pounds of frozen fishcakes to the Poles, whose harvest last year was devastated by floods.

Piszek has now expanded his humanitarian campaign to feed Poland. On a recent trip to Warsaw, he got support for his efforts from Lech Walesa, Solidarity union head, and Premier Stanislaw Kania. And when he got back, he found he also had the support of yet another Pole — Pope John Paul II. The pontiff wrote Piszek that he was giving him and those who are helping him an Apostolic blessing.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor: We have a problem in Robert Lee. Our county commissioners recently closed the thoroughfare known as 'Friendship Road' in two places — where it enters Lake Spence property.

This is a loop road, so this results in the actual closing of the only two roads between the north end of the dam and 'Rough Creek Park.' These two small parks will be the only places left for the public to use on the whole northeast side of the lake.

There is no other place we can get to the lake without crossing private property.

The commissioners closed the road in defiance of 289 people who signed a petition opposing such action.

We believe this is a simple overstepping of authority by the commission that can be corrected in the district court.

We have formed a group called 'Lake Improvement Committee' and retained a lawyer to file suit to correct this injustice. Robert Lee, a small town, is divided on this issue. About half the people in town are related to someone on the commission or to the judge. This makes it hard to get enough money to pay legal expenses. Fishermen who would like to help us reopen our roads can give any amount. It will be appreciated.

Send it to Lake Improvement Committee, Box 697, Robert Lee, Tex., 76045.

Princess - Her Easter Bonnet

Twenty-five years ago Dad placed this snapshot in Baby Book - Volume Two. His own firm hand wrote the caption, PRINCESS - HER EASTER BONNET.

While Dad often poked fun at women's hats and had a sort of patient tolerance of the whole fashion bit, Easter was a day he took very seriously.

As I grew up he used to reason with me. "Princess," he'd say, "if Christ never rose from the dead - well those disciples sure fooled a hundred generations."

"But you and I believe he did arise. And that makes Easter the greatest day of all time. You can't really celebrate it, therefore, by what you put on your head. You can only celebrate it, Princess, by what you put in your heart."

With Mother and our two children, Bob and I will be in church next week... renewing in our own hearts that firm belief in eternal Life that Dad always cherished.

Doctors not sure why

New Mexico cancer patients find relief with marijuana

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Some 100 cancer patients in New Mexico, most of them terminally ill, have smoked marijuana over the past two years to ease their chemotherapy-caused nausea and vomiting. Doctors still don't know why it works — or why it fails with other patients.

"I see the drug as being useful, but not a panacea," said Dr. Dan Dansak, assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of New Mexico. "There are still a number of patients who don't respond too well to it and we don't know why."

"More work certainly needs to be done to see why people respond and why they do not — we still need something for those who do not respond."

On Jan. 16, 1979, New Mexico became the first state to begin giving cancer patients marijuana or its active ingredient, delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol or THC, to combat the side effects of chemotherapy.

Dansak is one of three members of a review board, composed of a psychiatrist, a cancer specialist and an ophthalmologist, that reviews applications of cancer patients to receive marijuana.

The Legislature had been urged to adopt the marijuana program by a 28-year-old cancerpatient from Albuquerque, Lynn Pierson. On Feb. 21, 1978, then-Gov. Jerry Apodaca signed into law the Controlled Substances Therapeutic Research Act. The state received approval from the Food and Drug Administration Dec. 1, 1978, for use of marijuana by cancer patients.

Pierson died in August 1978. Seven months later, Gov. Bruce King repealed the 1978 law and established a permanent program — the Lynn Pierson Therapeutic Research Program.

Since then, Louisiana, Illinois, Florida and Washington state have started similar programs and at least a dozen other states have enacted laws modeled after the New Mexico statute, Dansak said.

Dr. Edward Deaux of the New Mexico Department of Health and Environment said that among the New Mexico patients, the marijuana in cigarette form seems to work better than the THC in capsule form.

"The inhaled version works better than the oral version," Deaux said. "It could be the absorption is different. It could be the drug gets into the blood faster through smoke. It could be that different drugs used in chemotherapy react differently."

The eight patients currently in the program declined to discuss their experiences for reasons of privacy, Dansak said.

"They have concerns about neighbors and how the neighbors will receive them, concerns about how churches and relatives will receive them," he said.

The marijuana used in the New Mexico program is grown at the University of Mississippi and distributed by the National Institute on Drug Abuse. It comes pre-rolled in tins of about 300 cigarettes each, with each cigarette containing 14 1/2 to 15 milligrams of THC.

The capsule form of THC is mixed with sesame oil and comes in gelatin capsules of five to 15 milligrams.

The cigarettes or capsules are administered every 4-to-6 hours over two-day and five-day cycles, he said.

Dansak said roughly 60 percent of the patients who have been in the program have had positive responses and 40 percent have had negative responses.

"Older women don't seem to respond as well to the drug as younger women, and younger women seem to respond as well as older and younger men. I think in general, male patients are a little more willing to use it. ... They might be a little more adventurous," he said.

MARIJUANA PROGRAM PIONEER — Lynn Pierson, who died of cancer in 1978 at age of 28, pushed a program through the New Mexico Legislature making the state the first in the union to begin dispensing marijuana to cancer patients to combat the side effects of chemotherapy. He is shown in photo taken a month before his death growing marijuana plants in his back yard. Today, doctors still are puzzled why the drug works for some patients but not for others. (AP LASERPHOTO)

"And there are religious reasons that people are reluctant to take it."

Marijuana relaxes some patients, while others get giddy, he said. Still others seem completely unaffected.

Appetites, sometimes seriously curtailed by chemotherapy, are occasionally revived by marijuana, Dansak said. "We have some patients who get appetite stimulation. They maintain their weight better with marijuana. It's a very small number of patients — three of four at the most — but it's gratifying to see it."

List of First Lady candidates growing

The number of candidates competing for the Big Spring Centennial's First Lady honors and prizes increased during the week as more ladies signed to participate in the contest. Being named First Lady of the local celebration will be an honor in itself, in addition to receiving an all expense paid trip for two for a week in Hawaii.

The First Lady winner will be honored during each of the six pre-shows of the "Iron Horse Revue," have her own float in the parade, and be the special guest at the Centennial Ball to be held Saturday, May 30.

The winning contestant will be determined by the number of points that individual receives from selling advance tickets to the major stage show. Those contestants competing for First Lady honors include:

- Frances Abernethy, Deloris F. Albert, Shirlene L. Allman, Annie Matt Angel, Sue Armstrong, Johnnie Lou Avery, Sharon Balderach, Annie Baskin, Zarah L. Bedner, Joan D. Bell, Betty Jo Birdwell and, Zay Birrell, Dorothy Blevins, Darlene Brooks, Donna E. Carey, Linda L. Calvey, Geneva Clinkscales, Nelma Colclaster, Lona Crocker, Ann Cunningham, Agnes Currie, Jen Davidson, Shirley Deal, Cindy DeNike and, Ann Drake, Leslie Earnst, Mary Ernating, Lila K. Estes, Martha Ferro, Claudine Floyd, Cindy Frank, Mary Garner, Dorothy Garrett, Sandra Haney and, Lela A. Hansen, Carol Harf, Frances Hendrick, Jean Jenkins,

- Elizabeth Johansen, Angel Jones, Barbara Justis, Jean Kuykendall, Lou LaRochelle, Patricia Lawlis and, Nancy Little, Elma Rosas Martinez, Ethelyn McCann, Becky McCasley, Laura McEwen, Lydia Molina, Thelma Montgomery, Brenda Moore, Pat Moore, Charlic Morehead, Donna Morris and, Marilyn Newsom, Delores Patterson, Peggy Payne, Donette Phillips, Nancy Porter, Martha Poss, Margaret Ray, Lillian Rhyme, Janie Rodriguez, Helen Segrest, Anna Shedy, Edna Faye Smith, Vaurie Smith,

Federal waste hotlines open

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new list of "whistleblower hotlines" is out with the Reagan administration promising confidentiality to anyone using them to report suspected fraud, abuse or waste in government.

Most of the telephone hotline numbers have been in use many months. But new ones recently have been installed at the Defense, Treasury and Justice departments, deputy budget director Edwin L. Harper said Thursday.

The government Wednesday released a study in which 45 percent of the federal employees surveyed said they had observed fraud, waste or inefficiency in the last year.

By his resurrection Christ was declared to be the Son of God with power (Romans 1:4). Unto him, as a living Lord, millions have surrendered their lives through the centuries.

Now, after more than 1900 years, we pause to commemorate his resurrection; not by observing an annual holiday called Easter, but by assembling for worship each Sunday.

This Sunday morning the subject of the sermon will be, "If Ye Then be Risen With Christ." Join us this, and every Lord's day.

REV. JESSE K. MOON

Crusade at local church

Rev. Jesse K. Moon, interdenominational evangelist from Springfield Mo., will lead an evangelistic crusade at First Assembly of God Church, 4th and Lancaster, today through Sunday, at 7 p.m. nightly and 10 a.m. Sunday, according to Rev. Rick Jones, pastor.

Dr. Moon is engaged in evangelism throughout the nation and in many other countries of the world. He has a fourfold outreach through crusades, media, publications and seminars.

The crusade will feature Bible preaching on a variety of vital subjects; ministry in song with harp, soundtrack and live accompaniment and prayer for deliverance, spiritual therapy, deeper life and healing.

Dr. Moon, preacher, educator and author, has published several religious books and contributes articles frequently to religious periodicals and professional journals. After several pastorates, he was for five years president of the North Texas District Youth Department. He later served for thirteen years as professor and campus pastor at Southwestern Assemblies of God College in Waxahachie.

He resigned after six years as academic dean to give full time to international evangelism. Over the years Dr. Moon has traveled extensively, ministering in spiritual life conferences, seminars, youth rallies, conventions, camps, college convocations, district councils, ministers' institutes and evangelistic crusades. Dr. Moon is presently serving as Bible Theologian of Central Bible College in Springfield, Mo.

VAMC will have Easter service

An Easter Sunrise Service will be presented at the Veterans Administration Medical Center Sunday at 7 a.m.

Dr. Phillip McCleendon of Hillcrest Baptist Church will deliver the Easter message and Jackie Hancock of Hillcrest will supply special music. Patty and Charles Parham of the First United Methodist will also perform selected music.

Speakers will be used inside and outside VAMC and patients who are able will be brought outdoors in wheelchairs to participate in the service.

Everyone is requested to use Gibson's parking lot across Gregg Street east of the hospital.

For the record

The presiding overseer of the Salon del Reino, Jehovah's Witness Spanish organization, is Frank Basquez, rather than Loren H. Spencer as published in the Newcomer's Guide April 9 in the List of Churches.

Young people compete

The Young People of the Big Spring Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints attended the Roadshow Competition in Midland April 11. The theme of this year's road show was Fractured Fairy Tales. Eight Wards from the Odessa Texas Stake competed in the annual affair.

To compete in this program, a Ward must design and prepare costumes and scenery, and leaders must prepare a script and assign parts to the young people. An allotted time of about three months are given each group to prepare for the event. The skits are timed and judged. Approximately twenty minutes is given to each group for their drama.

Mrs. Larry James was the Mistress of Ceremonies and gave the welcome and introductions. Dave Keller, president of the Midland Young Mens Association, gave the opening prayer. Judges were Wendy Linde and Vickie Spackman, Speech and Drama graduates of Brigham Young University. Del Main was time keeper.

Competing in this year's Roadshow, were Princess and the Pea, Seminole Branch; Following the Yellow Brick Road, Odessa 2nd Ward; Dragon Trouble, Abilene 1st Ward; Cinderella and The Three Dwarfs, Odessa 1st Ward; The Little Red Hen and How The Cornbread Got It's Fire, combined Midland 1st and 2nd Wards; Sleeping Handsome, Big Spring Ward; Repulsive Rapunzel, Abilene 2nd Ward; Ali Baba Daba and the Seven Snivelling Snitchers, San Angelo.

Several skits were given between dramas to give each Ward time to set up their scenery. The Kickers told Why Mormons Don't Tell Jokes on the Stake Farm. One group did the old favorite telephone line, No Gum Drops, But Lots of Suckers. Joy Horn sang a special to the tune of the Clampits Texas Tea, accompanied by Marshall Horn on the guitar.

Awards to the group of young people who range from age 12 to 18 were the following: Excellent to Seminole, Odessa 2nd, Odessa 1st, Big Spring, Abilene and San Angelo, 2nd. Superior to Midland combined Wards, and to Abilene 1st Ward. Best Use of Set went to Seminole; Best Costumes, Odessa 2nd; Best Acting, Abilene 1st; Most Imaginative, Odessa 1st; Best Appeal Effectiveness, Midland; Best Characterization, Big Spring; Best Set, Abilene 2nd; Best Staging, San Angelo.

Closing Prayer was given by Peggy Bolton, President of Midland's Young Women's Association. The Midland Youth hosted a cast luncheon and party after the Judging.

Attending cast from Big Spring Ward were, Phillip Harrison, Prince Handsome; Jennifer Fortner, Queen; Ronnie Christensen, King; and Catherine Jones, Princess Sneezy. Others of the cast were Scott Jones, John Brown, Victoria Logan, Rachel Jones, Susan and Cathy Davis, Shannon Marshall, and their Adult leaders Linda Marshall, Bob Florence and Marsha Bailey.

SCRIPTURES FOR THE DISABLED—1981 has been declared the Year of the Disabled. In this photo a hearing-impaired boy focuses on the story of the Birth of Jesus in Signed English. Signed English is a pictorial presentation of the narrator highlighting the signs and providing oral cues through facial expressions. Since 1984, the American Bible Society has supplied the Holy Scriptures to the blind and visually handicapped. For the hearing impaired, Signed English Scriptures were received by more than 7,000 people.

Two festivals with a comparable meaning celebrated at Easter

Both Judaism, and its offspring, Christianity, celebrate their major festivals of hope this weekend, Passover and Easter. They're linked in history and also hold a comparable meaning — deliverance.

For Christians, that deliverance is pioneered for humanity in the resurrection of Jesus from death, a triumph celebrated this Sunday.

For Jews, the week-long Passover observance starts Saturday evening, commemorating deliverance of their people from slavery in Egypt.

"Let my people go!" Moses demanded, and they got away.

"He is risen!" the report spread about Jesus, and his followers concluded that with him nothing could beat them, not even dying.

The concurrence of the observances "provides an interreligious mutuality founded in brotherhood," says David Hyatt, a Catholic and president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Both occasions, he points out, have a timeless quality, focusing not just on past events, but on their continuing significance for the present and the future.

"... Next year may we all be free!" goes a prayer of the Seder meal of Passover.

The words "speak to us with perennial truth," says Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld, president of the Synagogue Council of America, citing continuing oppression, persecution and brutalities in the world.

The Easter celebration also holds up a vision of the ultimate victory of goodness, of a world in which even death is overcome, as heralded in history by God's

Easter pageant scheduled

The Kendrick Religious Pageant, The Life of Christ, will begin its 12th year of production with the annual Easter Pageant to be presented at 3:30 a.m. on Easter Sunday, ending at sun up.

This pageant was termed by the July 1980 edition of the Texas Monthly Magazine as the best outdoor drama in Texas. It is the complete Life of Christ from birth through the resurrection, portrayed in sixty scenes by a cast of dedicated Christian people of all walks of life and religious denominations. It is non-denominational, with the script being taken from the King James version of the Bible.

Included in the cast is a grey donkey for the Mother Mary, a white donkey for the Triumphant Entry of Jesus, sheep for the shepherds in the field, and a camel for the Wisemen. Admission is a freewill offering. Free parking and overnight camping are allowed on the grounds. Restrooms and concession stands are available.

Summer productions of the pageant will begin June 18 and will be presented each Thursday and Friday night at 9 through August 14.

Beginning at 3 a.m. Easter Sunday, there will be a special Memorial Service for the late J.H. "Pop" Kendrick who founded and produced, with his wife, the Life of Christ Pageant.

"Pop" Kendrick was an active member of the pageant cast until his death in July 1980, playing the parts of a Wiseman and John, the disciple of Christ. During this memorial service, the robes of "Pop" Kendrick will be retired and placed on permanent display in the Religious Diorama and Museum adjacent to the pageant grounds.

This Diorama and Museum is Texas' only All Religious Diorama and Museum and is open every day of the year from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. During Easter weekend, it will be open continuously from 10 a.m. Saturday through 5 p.m. Easter Sunday with the exception of pageant presentation time.

The Diorama contains scenes from the Bible set as realistic as is possible with life sized figures, narration, and soft organ background music for each scene. As you view the scenes, you are actually standing right in the midst of the figures, giving you the feeling of being right there with Jesus and His followers. The old testament section of this Diorama will have its opening during Easter weekend for the public to view.

Take a trip to the Life of Christ Pageant halfway between Cisco and Eastland on U.S. highway 80. For further information, contact the Kendrick Amphitheater, "The Life of Christ" Route No. 2 Box 46 Cisco, Texas 76437 or Phone 817-629-2732.

The Jewish celebration strikes similar notes of persistence, hope and ultimate victory over the destructive forces of the world.

It "points the way to the future," says Maynard I. Wisner, president of the American Jewish Committee, to a time of "cosmic liberation" when, as symbolized in Scripture, "the wolf shall dwell with the lamb," when "the dry bones" of those "thought to be utterly destroyed by the wicked will live again."

Passover is seen as foretelling that dream, a sign of God's endless caring for humanity. Other signs are seen, including the choosing of Abraham's people, the giving of the Ten Commandments, the prophets.

Christians, too, affirm these revelations, but see Jesus as the capstone of them, "our Passover."

transferred to a Johannesburg convent where she might enter the field of adult education.

At the same time, Hamilton quietly left town, leaving all her possessions to other relatives, including the home she had shared with her husband.

Hamilton did part-time carpentry work for the convent and moved into a house on the grounds to look after Sister John's stepmother, who was visiting from Germany.

"All I know of Dr. Hamilton is that he was very quiet and seemed very devout. I used to see him going to Mass, sometimes twice a day," a former neighbor said.

Sister John retired as principal of the Outeniqua Convent Primary School last month, saying she was to be

Mother superior, 63, marries retired doctor in Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—After 40 years as a nun, the 63-year-old mother superior of a Roman Catholic convent has married a retired doctor, the Sunday Times reported.

The paper said Sister John Laudenklos, the head of the Holy Cross Convent in the south coast resort town of George and the principal of the convent's primary school, married Dr. Christian Hamilton, 72, recently. It said they had gone to West Germany to visit her stepmother in Beilbronn, near Stuttgart.

The Sunday Times gave this account: Sister John, described as stern and forbidding by several townspeople who knew her, met Hamilton several years ago when poverty forced him to seek help from the church.

An osteopath from Canada, he had moved to George six years ago with his second wife. She died suddenly of a brain hemorrhage three years ago, leaving all her possessions to other relatives, including the home she had shared with her husband.

Hamilton did part-time carpentry work for the convent and moved into a house on the grounds to look after Sister John's stepmother, who was visiting from Germany.

"All I know of Dr. Hamilton is that he was very quiet and seemed very devout. I used to see him going to Mass, sometimes twice a day," a former neighbor said.

Sister John retired as principal of the Outeniqua Convent Primary School last month, saying she was to be

Special recreation available

Carolee Caudill, 2609 Wasson Rd., is Big Spring Independent School District's first recreational therapist.

Mrs. Caudill works with Special Education children in Moss, Washington and Marcy Elementary Schools, Goliad Middle School and Runnels Junior High School.

The goal of the recreational program is to enable special education children to become a part of the family by entering into leisure-time activities with them.

Social skills are developed through games and other means. Communication skills and academic skills taught in the classrooms are reinforced.

Increasing attention span and mental alertness in students who range from 3 years to 21 years is worked on. Motor skills, and rhythm are given attention.

Mrs. Caudill was an early childhood teacher at Moss Elementary for six years prior to her new assignment. She has two daughters, Laura, 20 and Pam 17.

Prior to coming to Big Spring, Mrs. Caudill taught physical education in Odessa.

She holds a bachelor of science degree from North Texas State University at Denton and a master degree from Sul Ross University at Alpine.

Mrs. Caudill helps the students train for Special Olympics and helps with the track and field meets.

The Ladies Elks Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the Elks Lodge.

Newly elected officers took over their positions with Becky Scott, president, Bonnie Cofer as vice president, Shirley Bodine, secretary and Helen Lewis, treasurer.

Saturday is family night at 7 when a ham, prepared by Kirby Kee, will be served with covered dishes brought by each lady.

Spring Clinic with the District Inner Lodge will be held here April 25-26 with representatives of lodges from El Paso to Big Spring attending. A Sweetheart dance will be held April 25. A Hospitality Room will be set up at the lodge from 2-5 p.m.

Ladies of the hostess lodge will take out-of-town visitors to the Unique Boutique to view an art display the morning of April 26.

Dear Abby

Are Indians Chiefs When It Comes to Sex?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old man who's in love with a beautiful, 28-year-old divorcee. I want to marry her, but she keeps wanting more time to think it over.

In the meantime, she's seeing another man, and I'm afraid he has the edge on me. You see, he's part Kickapoo Indian, and I hear Indians are superior to the white man when it comes to lovemaking. Closely guarded tribal secrets on how to satisfy a woman. I passed down from father to son. If there is any truth to that, I'm willing to pay whatever is necessary to find out.

Let me say that I was married for four years and I never had any complaints from my wife, but if Indians are better lovers than white men, I would like to find out why. Maybe your readers can help. Thank you.

ED

DEAR ED: I wouldn't touch your request with a 10-foot totem pole. But you can try the Bureau of Indian Affairs or the American Indian Movement.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 26 years is my problem. We have six daughters whom he teases until they are in tears and nearly hysterical. He pretends that his tickling, pinching and slapping (hard) on the rear is done in the harmless spirit of playfulness, but he actually hurts them. The girls, who are from 5 to 22 years old, frequently spend their evenings in their rooms so they won't have to put up with his teasing.

Abby, could his actions have sexual overtones? He and I have not had sexual relations in 3 1/2 years — he's either "too tired" or not in the mood. I think Dad is getting his jollies from teasing his daughters. What do you think?

DISGUSTED IN OHIO

DEAR DISGUSTED: I think you hit the nail on the head. Dad's masked cruelty is bound to influence his daughters' feelings toward men and their future relationships with them.

Dad needs a psychiatric consultation for his sake as well as his daughters'.

DEAR ABBY: Some years ago I had a partial laryngectomy, which left me with only 10 percent of one vocal chord. As a result of this, my voice, especially on the phone, sounds like something between a croak and a whisper.

I'm fed up, angry and often enraged when I make a telephone call and the person who answers the phone impatiently asks me to speak up, or worse yet, accuses me of trying to be "funny" or making an obscene phone call.

Please publish this letter, Abby. There are many others with speech impediments who need the understanding of thoughtful strangers who jump to the wrong conclusion when they hear us on the phone.

MR. CROAKER

DEAR MR. CROAKER: You could save yourself much hurt and anger if you were to begin every phone conversation with, "Hello, I hope you can understand me. I've had throat surgery and it's sometimes difficult to understand me, so please be patient."

Try it. I'll bet it works.

You're never too young or too old to learn how to make people like you. Get Abby's new booklet of practical advice. Send $1 and a stamped (35¢), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Furniture's new trends discussed

The Big Spring Child Study Club had its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Bill Pollard with Mrs. Bob Cruson as co-hostess.

Barbara Hall, Interior and Home Furnishing Consultant and owner of Fraser-Hall Designs, spoke on the "New Trends" according to the Texas experts.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Lenny Prudhomme, president. The following slate of officers were submitted to the club by the nominating committee: Mrs. Bill Pollard, president; Mrs. Gary Cox, vice president; Mrs. Michael Emerson, secretary; Mrs. Ben Neel, treasurer; Mrs. Guy Speck, librarian and historian and Mrs. Prudhomme, parliamentarian. The slate of officers was accepted by acclamation.

The new officers will be installed at the salad luncheon meeting in May at the home of Mrs. Dub Moore, 528 Scott Street, with the present officers serving as co-hostesses.

Janet Wolfe and Jean Prudhomme delivered cookies to the Big Spring State Hospital for the club. The club received a letter of appreciation from the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf for $50 donated to the S.W.C.I.D. library.

A committee composed of Jane Cox, Sandra Haney, Kay Fraser and Lora Mae Pollard were appointed to pursue the possibilities of having a study course for the coming year. Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

Milk and dairy products vital to nation's health

Did you know that the quality of American milk is the highest in the world? You can drink it anywhere in the United States and find it safe and delicious. Americans take advantage of that quality by consuming a lot of dairy products. Last year alone, Americans consumed over 17 pounds of cheese, 4.5 pounds of butter, and over 29 gallons of milk per person.

Milk and dairy products are vital to the health of our nation. Three eight-ounce glasses of milk a day provides 57 percent of all our protein needs.

Cinderella Girl pageant planned

The Big Spring Cinderella Girl Pageant will be held again this year. Sponsored by the Cactus Chapter of American Business Women's Association, all girls ages three through 17 are eligible to enter.

Entry forms for the May 2 pageant are available at Kid Shop, Tot-Teen, Miss Texas, Treehouse, Merle Norman and Connies.

"We hope this will be the one of the best pageants we have had," said Nelda Colclazer, director. She is her co-director, Gail Egan, and Pam Welch, Ways and Means Chairman for the event, are making plans for the pageant to be held at Howard College Auditorium.

The pageant is divided into four divisions: Cinderella Tot, 3-6 years of age, Cinderella Miniature Miss, 7-9, Cinderella Miss, 10-12, and Cinderella Teen, 13-17.

All girls will model party dresses and sportswear. Girls 7 through 17 will also participate in talent competition. Contestants may be sponsored by a business or personal sponsor.

Crown, trophies and banners will be awarded the winners of each division.

Those wishing more information should contact Nelda Colclazer, 263-6177 or Gail Egan, 263-1330.

Advance tickets will be sold by ABWA Cactus Chapter members. Adult tickets will be $2 and children's tickets will be $1.

Americans are healthy, fortunate

If you're peeved because you can't make house calls, consider the plight of families in developing countries, suggests the Health Insurance Institute.

Major causes of death in these countries include diseases that we have already tamed, such as measles and the whooping cough, reports the World Bank director John Evans.

There is a serious need to extend quality health care to these countries, he said, and western nations should be able to provide the necessary medical aid.

In several African and Asian countries, he says, one-half of the children die before they are five years old because health care there lags 200 years behind the west.

Poll shows Americans split on aid to El Salvador government

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are not happy with U.S. involvement in El Salvador, with many judging that the conflict there is mainly a civil war rather than an instance of communist aggression, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

The Reagan administration's decision to send military advisers to the Central American country as part of a military aid package meets with disapproval from most of those Americans aware of the situation, even though they are not overly worried that the situation will turn into another Vietnam.

U.S. support for the government of El Salvador has split the public sharply.

To begin with, 32 percent said they had not heard of the conflict that is raging there.

Those who had heard split, with 31 percent opposing U.S. backing of the government and 26 percent agreeing with such support. Eleven percent of the 1,004 adults interviewed by telephone across the country Monday and Tuesday were not sure.

The basic Reagan administration argument about El Salvador is not well received by many Americans. The administration has argued that the government there must be supported to stop what it says are communist-led and supplied guerrillas from taking over the country.

In the poll, only 38 percent chose the position that the "U.S. government must support the government of El Salvador to stop communist aggression."

A majority — 51 percent of those who knew of the situation — said they agreed that the fighting is a "civil war in which the U.S. government should not get involved."

Eleven percent were unable to pick either position.

Earlier this year, the Reagan administration agreed to send more than 50 military advisers to El Salvador to help train that country's armed forces in the use of U.S.-provided military equipment.

That action has also drawn substantial opposition. Fifty-two percent of those who knew of the conflict said they opposed the dispatch of advisers. Forty-two percent approved of sending the advisers and 6 percent were not sure.

In general, Republicans and conservatives are the major supporters of the Reagan administration policies in El Salvador. As groups, women, Democrats, independents, liberals and moderates all tend to be opposed to the Reagan policies.

While the public is sharply divided over the El Salvador issue, they are not at this time overly worried that U.S. involvement will turn into a Vietnam-like problem, a worry constantly raised by critics of administration policy.

Forty-five percent of those aware of the situation said U.S. involvement was not likely to turn into a situation similar to that in Vietnam in the 1960s and 1970s. Thirty-two percent said it was somewhat likely and 20 percent said it was very likely. The rest were not sure.

Narcotics offenders now younger, more violent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Narcotics addicts are increasingly younger and are turning more and more to violent crime, such as armed robbery, to support their habit, according to research presented to a federal task force.

Witnesses at the task force's opening day of hearings Thursday said violence, drugs and money are inseparable and additional drug enforcement could help curb violent crime.

"The addict population is growing younger and seems to be much more involved in violent crime," said Dr. David N. Nurco, a professor in the University of Maryland's psychiatry department who studied narcotics addicts in Baltimore between 1952 and 1976 and another group of addicts in 1979.

He also cited a study by Dr. James Inciardi of the University of Delaware which found that about half the addict population checked in Miami engaged in violent crimes.

"Dealing with the opiate problem is an important way to make an impact on crime in the United States," Nurco said. He noted that a study found that fewer than 1 percent of the addict crime resulted in an arrest.

The task force, created by Attorney General William French Smith, was holding a second day of hearings here today. Between now and August, it is expected to hold additional hearings in Atlanta, Miami, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles and again in Washington.

FBI Director William H. Webster said 39 percent of bank robbers identified in 1980 were found to be narcotics users. He said he was discussing the expansion of the FBI's role in enforcement, particularly along with the Drug Enforcement Administration in tracking the finances of major drug traffickers in south Florida.

Drug Enforcement Administrator Peter Bensinger told the task force, "Your work is going to have a greater impact on our agency than perhaps any other, because violence, drugs and money are inseparable."

"The havoc wrecked by violent crime in our society is clearly linked to, if not fostered by, the illicit trafficking in and abuse of controlled substances," Bensinger said. "It is not only the drug traffickers that are integrally involved in violent criminal behavior. Many of the nation's drug abusers resort to property crime and crimes of violence to support their addiction."

Bensinger vehemently proposed a stiffer federal bail law and got a good reception from the panel. He noted that one smuggler of a half-ton of heroin made $1 million bail in 15 minutes and is now back in Bolivia.

"Bail is like a parking ticket or a normal business expense to our offenders," Bensinger said.

Norman Carlson, director of the federal Bureau of Prisons, told the task force that one-third of the 24,500 federal prisoners have had a drug problem at one time. He also noted that the percentage of federal prisoners who committed violent crimes has increased from 20 percent in 1970 to 33 percent today.

Abilene oilmen sentenced

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Two Texas oilmen have been sentenced to 14 months in federal prison after pleading guilty earlier this month to charges of illegally increasing crude oil prices.

John T. Troland and David W. Ratliff, both of Abilene, also were fined $10,000 each in the Thursday hearing before U.S. District Judge James Ellison.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The public debate over federal budget reductions in social services has generated so many misconceptions, I think it is time to put things in perspective. The Administration's social service cuts will not cause the truly needy to suffer, nor are those programs the primary targets of the budget scalpel.

In fact, the Department of Health and Human Services budget was reduced only by a total of 3.5 percent from the Carter proposal. Other federal departments, excluding defense, underwent budget cuts totaling 13.4 percent. The Administration's revised fiscal year 1982 budget includes $21.5 billion more for Health and Human Services program than the fiscal year 1981 budget. That means more than half — 54 percent — of the total increase in federal outlays for fiscal year 1982 will go to Health and Human Services.

Much of the budget cutting that was done on these programs resulted from consolidating specific programs into block grants. In addition to the economic efficiencies that can be derived from eliminating significant amounts of administrative overhead, this change has other benefits. It improves the effectiveness of services by assigning responsibility to the states, which are closer to the problems to be addressed. It provides the states with resource control and flexibility, and allows the states to meet the particular needs and priorities of their own citizens.

Thus, 15 health service grant programs have been consolidated into a health service block grant program. Another 10 preventive health service programs have been consolidated into a block grant system. Emergency assistance under the Social Security Act has been combined with low-income energy assistance to provide a block grant program covering emergencies ranging from home energy costs to emergency food and shelter. And, finally, 12 social service programs ranging from foster care to day care have been consolidated into yet another block grant program.

Our nation's spending on social welfare at all levels has more than doubled in the past 10 years. In 1970, federal spending for social welfare programs totaled $213.3 billion, with $77.3 billion of that the federal share, and the rest paid for by state and local governments and the private sector. By 1978, that total had grown to $560.5 billion, with the federal government's share $240.3 billion.

"Safety net" programs took 25 percent of the federal budget in 1962, 37 percent in 1981 and are projected to take 41 percent in 1984. The portion of the budget devoted to programs now under the Department of Health and Human Services grew from 24.8 percent in 1970 to 36.1 percent in 1982.

Every one percent increase in the inflation rate makes the cost of Medicare, Social Security and Supplemental Security go up by $1.95 billion. That means that we must bring inflation under control if we wish to preserve our ability to meet the needs of our elderly and disadvantaged citizens. Further, the only way to bring inflation under control is to bring the federal budget into manageable proportions.

Therefore, the Administration's budget revisions are essential to the poor, and should be viewed in that light.

Steers go for 5-AAAAA first half title today

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

After three days of waiting and wondering, the Big Spring Steers will host the San Angelo Bobcats today at four o'clock in Steer Park in what has shaped into a title bout.

The reason for the significance of the Big Spring-San Angelo contest is that Abilene defeated Abilene Cooper yesterday, throwing the District 5-AAAAA race into at least a two-way tie between those two schools.

But the Steers can gain a share of that first half title, along with possibly Midland Lee, if they defeated the Bobcats today. That would give the Big Springers a first half mark of 5-2 along with Abilene and Cooper.

Lee is set to finish its first half slate against Midland today, while Permian and OHS tangle in a meaningless game as far as the standings are concerned.

All of the first half ending games were originally set for Tuesday afternoon, but the continued rain forced them to be moved back.

The Steers will send Wayne Shipman to the mound against the Bobcats, who are 1-5 in the first half. But the Bobcats are fresh from an extra inning triumph over Odessa Permian, and could have overcome their early difficulties in district play.

Big Spring Coach Frank Ibarra will send a lineup into today's game that features Mark Warren in left field, Dickie Wrightsill in right field, Lupe Ontiveros catching, Blake Ross as the designated hitter, Rusty Hayworth at third base, Tim Shaver in left field, Tommy Olague at first base, Beef Armendariz at second base, Tommy Rodriguez at shortstop and Shipman on the mound.

AWARD WINNERS — Two of the award winners at last night's Howard College Sports Banquet were Kenneth Jones (left) and Kelly Lyons (right). Jones, who is headed for New Mexico State on a basketball scholarship, was honored as the Hustlingest Hawk, as well as earning a Sophomore Award. Lyons also won a Sophomore Award, but even more importantly was named the Hawk Queens MVP, as well as being presented with her certificate as a First Team All-American in the juco ranks. (See related story).

At Howard College Sports Banquet Myers gives success guide to Hawk athletes

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

Howard College athletes were honored last night for their achievements during the past year, with former Hawk great Archie Myers providing a short but effective message as the guest speaker.

Myers, an All-American while at Howard during the 1970-71 and 71-72 seasons, was introduced by Men's Basketball Coach and Athletic Director Harold Wilder.

Wilder noted that Myers, who ended his career at HC as the leading national all-time scorer in junior college basketball, was more than simply a basketball player. "I think I will always remember him more for the other things he did," Wilder told the audience.

ARCHIE MYERS

Myers, who now is the assistant basketball coach for the rugged Midland College team as well as serving as that school's Director of Intramurals, spoke first of the work that one must sacrifice in order to be a success.

He mentioned getting up at four in the morning to shoot hoops in an effort to make the basketball team in high school and being laughed at by the players that at that time were better players than him. But as time passed, the work paid off.

His talk led directly into a theme of meeting the challenge. "We all talk about success," Myers said, "but few are willing to sacrifice for it. There are a lot of talkers, but few doers."

While thanking Wilder for his "great inspirational help" during Myers stay at Howard, the guest speaker continued. "There are no limits on your achievements, no matter what people say. I loved to play and to be successful, but in doing so I never wanted to leave the court and say, 'If'."

"The future and what you can achieve is yours," concluded Myers, "don't mess up!"

Following Myers talk, awards were presented for intramurals, cheerleaders, the rodeo team, the women's basketball team and men's basketball team.

Rodeo Coach Skipper Driver, whose team is still in the running for a berth in the NJCAA Rodeo in Bozeman, Montana, praised his team and presented special awards to Tracy Glover, Cliff Kirkpatrick and Gib Bell.

Don Stevens, the women's basketball coach, praised his team for their 29-8 record that included advancing to the Region V finals. That was a team consisting of only two sophomores, Kelly Lyons and Jill Floyd.

Stevens presented both of those players with their sophomore certificates, as well as presenting Lyons with the team MVP and her certificate from the NJCAA as a First Team All-American selection. She is the first All-American in Hawk Queen history.

Wilder then presented the men's basketball team, which finished with a 23-9 mark, including second place in the Western Conference and a berth in the Region V Tourney.

Randy Corker was a double winner, taking the Newcomer of the Year Award and the Free Throw Award, while Kenneth Jones was presented the Hustlingest Hawk Award and Crushon Loving the Assisist Award.

Abilene throws 5-5A into tie with biggie

ABILENE — Mike Hargeshimer hurled a four-hitter and boosted the Abilene Eagles to a very important 3-2 win over the Abilene Cooper Cougars in a District 5-AAAAA first half finale Thursday.

The Abilene win puts both the Eagles and the Cougars tied at 5-2 in the final first half standings, and they will at least share that first half title. Big Spring and Midland Lee can gain shares by defeating San Angelo and Midland, respectively, today.

Abilene scored all of their runs in the bottom of the second off Cooper hurler Tommy Clemons. Most of the Eagle damage came at the bottom of the line-up.

Lanny Dycus knocked in Cooper's two runs with a single in the top of the third, but that was the extent of the damage off Hargeshimer.

It was the first baseball win for Abilene over Cooper since 1978.

much time to celebrate if they defeat San Angelo, however, as they will have to open the second half against Abilene tomorrow afternoon on the road. That could be a most important game, too, as any advantage the Steers can gain on any of the teams in the second half could propel them to a final 5-AAAAA title.

Moe Rubio is set to pitch tomorrow for the Steers.

Diversified group mourns Joe Louis

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The time had come to say goodbye to The Champ.

From around the country came the fighters and the hangers-on who are part of the boxing world, entertainment personalities and some non-celebrities whose lives somehow may have been touched by Joe Louis.

The farewells were made today in this city that had been home to the former king of heavyweights in his retirement and, later, his illness. The sports pavilion of Caesars Palace, where Louis had watched many prize fights in recent years, was the setting for a memorial service. The eulogy was to be delivered by the Rev. Jesse Jackson while Frank Sinatra and Muhammad Ali were to be among the pallbearers at the service.

The sports hall was draped in black bunting and Louis' coffin was placed in the center of a boxing ring for the services and public viewing Thursday at which more than 5,000 persons filed past the coffin to pay their last respects.

The public viewing began a memorial observance to be culminated Tuesday with Louis' burial at Arlington National Cemetery in the gentle green hills of northern Virginia. President Reagan waived armed forces regulations that normally would have barred Louis from being buried in the nation's most historic national cemetery.

Other pallbearers Friday were to be World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes and fight promoter Don King, while the honorary pallbearers included many boxing stars of yesteryear — Jersey Joe Walcott, Sugar Ray Robinson, Floyd Patterson, on 3-B "Al, Sinatra"

As Rockets-Spurs battle in deciding game

Wild, crazy NBA playoffs resume

By the Associated Press

The Kansas City Kings are survivors, the Houston Rockets are strugglers, and both face critical tests tonight in their improbable drives through the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Kings and Rockets, who posted 40-42 records during the regular season, are each just one game away from becoming the first sub-500 teams in 14 years to reach the next-to-last round of the playoffs.

Kansas City, leading 3-2, hosts the Phoenix Suns in one Western Conference semifinal while Houston visits the San Antonio Spurs in the other, which is tied at three victories apiece. In tonight's other game, the Philadelphia 76ers, leading 3-2, try to wrap up their East semifinal at Milwaukee against the Bucks.

The Kings have the homecourt advantage for the final time tonight against the Suns, but one more victory is all they need to complete their stunning upset of the Pacific Division champions, who won 57 games in the regular season and were heavily favored in this series.

"It's hard to survive and we shouldn't be surviving now," said Kings Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, whose team has played this series without star guards Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong, both of whom are injured. "We never had a team this wrecked by injuries. We should have laid down like good people and died. But we're not going to. We have a lot of character on this team."

"We've done what we needed to do. We went out (to Phoenix) and split the first two games and won our two home games. So we still have the edge, and we're hoping to close it out at home."

The Kings will again use their makeshift backcourt of Scott Wedman and Ernie Grunfeld, and Fitzsimmons will try to get as much mileage as possible out of his top six remaining players. But in Wednesday's 101-89 victory at Phoenix, the Suns' reserves outscored the Kings' substitutes 44-10. Phoenix also outscored Kansas City 52-35, giving hope to Coach John MacLeod that his Suns might be on the rise.

"We reacted better to their offense," said MacLeod. "We had less jumping around defensively and that helped us on our rebounds. They had been making all their shots. Possibly things are starting to turn."

The homecourt has been anything but an edge in the other West semifinal, the Texas shootout between Houston and San Antonio. Each team has won twice on the other's court, as well as once at home, to set up tonight's decisive seventh game.

"Our middle name all year has been struggle," said Rockets Coach Del Harris. "We never do anything the easy way."

Since tonight's game is being played at San Antonio, the Rockets are hopeful the homecourt disadvantage will continue — and the Spurs are wary.

"The homecourt keeps meaning nothing in this series," said San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck. "This is getting ridiculous."

Paul Griffin, who, with Mark Olberding and Dave Corzine, has had the task of trying to contain Rockets center Moses Malone, said: "If we lose three games at home in a playoff, we don't deserve to win the series. There's no way you should lose three games at home."

And George Gervin, who has averaged 29 points per game for the Spurs in this series, added, "It's about time we took advantage of our fans screaming for us to put it away. We have been a strong home team in the regular season and I think it's time to get it back."

Marques Johnson's back is a prime concern of the Bucks. Johnson suffered back spasms in a workout on Tuesday and managed just nine points in Wednesday's 116-99 loss at Philadelphia, leaving the game for good with 1:35 to go in the third quarter.

As Curtis Strange birdies last four holes for lead Strange ending at Tourney of Champs

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — The last four holes at the La Costa Country Club measure exactly one mile and comprise one of the toughest finishing sets in golf.

"Usually, you can figure if you play them about one over, you haven't lost any ground," Tom Watson said before opening defense of the title he has won the last two seasons in the $300,000 MONY-Tournament of Champions.

But Watson, who won the Masters last week, played those four holes 2 over par Thursday in the first round of the T of C and lost six shots to leader Curtis Strange.

"Just something that happened," shrugged the 26-year-old Strange, who became the first man in the history of the exclusive tournament to birdie all four of the finishing holes.

It completed a 6-under-par 66 that gave him a one-stroke lead over Lee Trevino and eight over Watson, who struggled to a 74 and then headed for the practice tee and a long workout.

Trevino, a four-time runnerup in this elite tournament that brings together only the winners of PGA Tour titles from the last 12 months, birdied three of the last four holes which he called "as good as any finishing holes I've ever played."

Bruce Lietzke, who finished second in this tournament the two previous times he's played here, had a 68 as Strange's partner in the cool, breezy weather. He waded with Bill Rogers, also 4-under-par and only two strokes back in the chase for a $4,000 first prize.

"A fantastic finish," Lietzke said of Strange's closing burst. "Curtis wasn't playing all that well for the first 10 holes or so, then he put on an absolutely fantastic finish."

Tied at 69 were Canadian Dan Hallderson, Howard Twitty, Ray Floyd and Tom Kite.

Jack Nicklaus, who chased Watson to the Masters title last week, matched par 72.

"Nothing to write home about," he said. "I was playing pretty decently, had it 3-under-par after 12 holes, then couldn't finish the round. I drove it into the rough three times, couldn't get the ball on the green and made bogey."

THE LIGHT TOUCH
By Sherry Wegner

Last Sunday evening I had laid a week's supply of lunch money on the table & my youngest child Toni came by counted out her half & left the rest for her brother, boasting as she left the room, that she had selected all the crisp new bills for herself, left the worn ones for Billy. A few minutes later she returned with the crisp ones & said, "I felt guilty taking all the new bills, so I came back to share them with Billy."

The hat was passed around one Sunday at a tight-fisted church & returned absolutely empty. Upon receiving the empty hat, the preacher raised his eyes to heaven & said reverently, "Oh Lord, I thank thee that I got my hat back."

A young man who was to make his first public speech came to the podium & murmured nervously: "M-m-m-my f-f-friends, on the way to the banquet only God & myself knew what I was going to say to you ... & now only God knows."

C.P.A. to client: "The good news is taxwise you had some good losses ... the bad news is it wiped you out."

Hangin' Out With Nathan Poss Region V Tourney in trouble?

Next year's Region V Basketball Tournament, both the boys and the girls sides, will be held in Big Spring's Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. That could be historic, too, as it might well be the final Region V affair in history.

The Northern Conference, you see, is in favor of doing away with the annual tournament which involves ten teams, with the final survivor going to the national tourney in Hutchinson, Kansas. The NJCC simply wants to have a championship vs. championship shootout.

The WJCC, meanwhile, wants to see the Region V Tourney continue as is. The main reason no doubt evolves from the fact that with the current set-up, it provides many teams with something more than pride to play for in the latter stages of the season.

At the Region V Tourney in Brownwood a few weeks ago, the two conferences met and voted on the issue, and it reached a 10-10 tie.

The NJCC teams protest is that it simply costs too much to food and house their teams for the possible four days at the tourney.

NOTES AND QUOTES ... When was the last time Odessa Permian lost more than two games in a football season? In 1969, when the Panthers went 11-4, with their final loss coming in the state championship game.

RED MILLER, dismissed as the Denver Broncos head coach, only compiled a 40-22 record in his four years, leading the team to the playoffs in his first three years. No one has ever done that before at Denver, but you saw what it got Red. An axe. Same as BUM PHILLIPS for doing something similar. But so far, Bum's still on his feet, traveling east to a bigger Dome to play in ...

New Mexico Junior College played 31 games, winning 16 and losing 15 this season. In a weird stat, NMJC both scored and allowed 2883 points in the season, an average of 93 per game.

When Tampa Bay acquired big fullback SAM BAM CUNNINGHAM, Coach JOHN McKAY gave this reason: "Our backs were the worst group of blockers I've ever been associated with." ... Minnesota Twins manager GENE MAUCH resigned earlier this year with a major league record I'm sure he's not proud of: 22 straight years without a championship...

The Nebraska football team should have quit after the first quarter last year, as they combined for 118 points during the season in Quarter 1 while allowing only six points. ... Meanwhile, the Texas Longhorns set a penalty record for the SWC. They were penalized 1,037 yards ... An insider with the NCAA, says there are bigger recruiting abuses in basketball than football. He explains: "I've seen some great football players go into a program and just disappear. But in basketball, just one great player can make quite a difference in a team's success. I'd say the incentive to cheat is probably more great in basketball."

While most football observers wait and see if Georgia freshman Herschel Walker will forego the remainder of his collegiate career and sign with the Montreal Alouettes of the CFL, that pro team from north of the border are trying to raid NFL as well. Los Angeles QB VINCE FERRAGAMO is said to have signed with the Alouettes, with wide receivers BILLY (WHITE SHOES) JOHNSON of Houston and LYNN SWANN of Pittsburgh of the Montreal negotiating list at present.

Proponents of the designated hitter rule in the majors note that in the American League (where DHs are used), the team batting averages are nine points higher than in the National League, with the AL teams averaging 29 more homers per team in a season ...

Yankee relief ace GOOSE GOSSAGE says relievers shouldn't be judged on ERA, but on their run prevention ratio. What, you ask? Goose explains by saying it is the percentage of runners on base who don't come around to score.

When BEAR BRYANT left Texas A&M in the late 50's, it was a young coach named TOM LANDRY that wanted the job. A couple of years later he landed an even bigger one.

TONY FRANKLIN, after explaining to reporters during Super Bowl week that he originally is from Big Spring, Texas: "I come from red, white and blue country — red necks, white socks and blue nuthers."

TED WILLIAMS, explaining why he hopes George Brett, or anyone else, would reach the magic batting average of .400: "If somebody does hit .400, people will stop asking me if I think anyone can go that high ever again. They'll have to ask him."

FRANK ROBINSON, after being named the manager of the San Francisco Giants on his problems while managing the Cleveland Indians: "I had no trouble communicating. The players just didn't like what I said."

A's win again, set sights on major league record

By The Associated Press
"I'm getting pretty tired of this 'Billy Ball' stuff," says Billy Martin, manager of the Oakland A's.

It's become the buzzword of the American League this season. What it means is heads-up, go-for-broke ball. And has it ever worked so far!

The unbeaten A's 5-1 victory Thursday night over California was their eighth. That's one short of the team's longest winning streak since it arrived in Oakland in 1968 and two short of the modern-day major-league record for victories at the start of the season.

So what could be bugging Mr. Martin? "The Oakland manager — and director of player development — sported. 'I'd rather have it called A's ball. It's the same way we are playing in the minor leagues.'"

And that's the way he hopes the A's will be playing tonight, when they play their home opener against Seattle. They'll find a most remarkable sight — the first full-priced sellout in the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum since the 1975 World Series.

"We are bringing the baseball fan out of the closet," said Martin. "It's just great. I never thought we'd get a sweep in Anaheim. I didn't think we would sweep four in Minnesota, either."

"That's what makes baseball such a great game."

In the only other AL games, Cleveland beat Milwaukee 1-0 and Detroit defeated Toronto 2-0.

Matt Keough, who pitched a five-hitter for his second complete game (and Oakland's seventh of the season), said the A's goal this year is "to prove that last year wasn't a fluke." That's when Martin, in his first year as Oakland's manager, guided the A's to a second-place finish in the West.

"The key to our success," Keough said, "is that everyone is forgetting about statistics and trying to fulfill the role that Billy and the coaches have drawn up for us. If we keep that as our top priority, we'll be all right."

Keough gave up a first-inning run on Fred Lynn's single, Oakland tied it in the fourth on Wayne Gross' single, then the A's broke it open with three runs in the sixth off rookie Mike Witt.

Rickey Henderson singled, Dwayne Murphy beat out a bunt, then Henderson scored when first baseman Rod Carew fielded Dave Revering's grounder and fired it wildly past second.

Gross' grounder to Carew moved Revering to second — Murphy held third on the play — and both runners scored when Tony Armas doubled down the left field line.

OAKLAND WINS AGAIN — Members of the Oakland A's congratulate each other after defeating the California Angels for the fourth straight time Thursday night in Anaheim and winning their eighth straight against no losses. Pitcher Matt Keough (27) posted the win and completed the game. The completion by Keough brought the Oakland pitching staff to seven out of eight complete games. (AP LASER PHOTO)

Red hot Pete Rose leads Phillie sweep of Pirates

NL Roundup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Life at 40 is treating Pete Rose just fine these days.

Rose belted two doubles and a single Thursday night while Mike Schmidt drilled a solo homer as the Philadelphia Phillies beat Pittsburgh 5-3 to sweep a three-game series from the Pirates.

The Montreal Expos blanked the Chicago Cubs 7-0 and the St. Louis Cardinals topped the New York Mets 5-1 in the only other National League games.

Rose, who turned 40 on Tuesday, has 13 hits (including five doubles) in 26 at-bats this season. He needs 61 hits to set the all-time NL hit record, now held by Stan Musial with 3,630.

"I think it's my best hitting start ever," said Rose, playing his 19th season. "It might seem impossible, but I think I might swing the bat even better in the next weeks."

Phillies Manager Dallas Green isn't so amazed. "Pete had a good stroke when I pitched to him. He hit home runs off of me," said Green, a pitcher for Philadelphia in the 1960s. "He's got one thing on his mind right now and with the way he's going, he might set the record before May 29," the day the players say they may strike.

Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, meanwhile, isn't too worried about his team's slow start.

"We came in here and hit the ball hard at people. Pretty soon they'll start falling in," said Tanner, who noted his 1979 world championship team also got off to a 1-4 start.

Dick Ruthven, 2-0, had a shaky first inning. Pittsburgh leadoff hitter, Omar Moreno reached on an error, stole second and dashed home on Jason Thompson's single. Pirates sparkplug Bill Madlock, who collects fine wines in his spare time, collected a fine hit — one of his three — after a Mike Easler single to make it 2-0.

Ruthven then mixed his pitches well until Tug McGraw retired the Pirates in order in the ninth to gain his first save. It was the 700th game for McGraw, one of only 18 pitchers to make that many appearances.

Schmidt's second homer of the season cut the Bucs' lead to 2-1 in the second. Rose doubled home a run in the third and, moments later, slid past catcher Steve Nicosia on Luis Aguayo's hit to put the Phillies ahead 3-2.

Singles by Gary Matthews and Garry Maddox — who had three hits — opened the Philadelphia fourth against loser Don Robinson. Matthews scored when Nicosia fielded Larry Bowa's bunt single and threw wildly past third.

Pittsburgh pinch-hitter Willie Stargell's RBI single made it 4-3 in the seventh. It was only the second at-bat this season for the veteran slugger, who says it might be another week or two before he recovers from a lingering injury. Maddox's two-out triple and a wild pitch by Pirates reliever Eddie Solomon in the eighth ended the scoring.

Scott Sanderson used to be able to count his RBIs on one hand. "I don't think I ever had four in a season, let alone in one game," he said after his batting prowess — a run-scoring double in the second inning and a three-run double in the fifth — powered Montreal past the Cubs.

Sanderson was more than correct. Going into this season, he had two RBIs in his entire big-league career.

"Just because I got two hits today doesn't mean I'm going to continue that way for the rest of the year," he said. "But if I can keep on working at it, my hitting might help us win a few extra games."

Striking police threaten Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Pressure is mounting on a police patrolmen's union to cancel plans to block the path of the Boston Marathon with a demonstration protesting the layoff of 200 officers.

"As of this moment, the plan is still in effect," Frank McGee, attorney for the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association, said Thursday night after the state attorney general met him and the union chairman, Chester J. Broderick, to plead for an end to the threat. "It is a mandate." But Broderick promised Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti the association membership would have a chance to vote to rescind demonstration plans at a Saturday meeting.

Broderick had said the association would meet at noon Monday at Cleveland Circle, about 7 miles from the end of the 26-mile, 385-yard race.

The Marathon starts in Hopkinton, with the first runners reaching the finish line in central Boston about 2:15 p.m. Marathon Director Will Cloney, who had said Wednesday that "the race is in jeopardy," said Thursday: "I have every expectation (the marathon) will be run on schedule."

Meanwhile, an association of senior police officers condemned as "ill-advised ... any action that disrupts or appears to disrupt this event."

Bellotti, insisting he was speaking as a friend of the police and not as a law-enforcement official, met for two hours in a North End restaurant with Broderick and McGee.

"He called the Marathon an institution of international importance and said it was not in our best interest to try to block it," McGee said.

"I think Frank Bellotti's word is a very strong word," said McGee. "But we've got 200 laid-off men and another 200 scheduled next month. We've got a very angry group of men."

Brooks gets state honor

CORPUS CHRISTI — Big Spring's Ginger Brooks finished 18th in the state in the recent Texas State Gymnastics Meet, with a pair of high finishes in her repertoire.

Ginger, competing in the Class IV group, which is made up of girls aged 9-11, placed eighth in the state on the balance beam, and finished 17th in the uneven parallel bars.

Ginger and two other Big Spring girls competed in the State Meet. The other Big Springers were Cassandra Keyes and Gina Johnson. These three girls qualified for the state affair with outstanding performance in Midland.

Events that Ginger competed in were the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vault and floor exercises. The total score on all four events makes for the all-around score.

A total of 52 teams were represented in the meet, with a total of 400 children competing. Brooks, Keyes and Johnson were from the Midland School of Gymnastics team, although they live in Big Spring.

In waiving the regulations allowing Louis to be buried in the city, Mayor Reagan was quoted by a White House spokesman as saying, "Joe Louis wore the uniform of the United States and was paid $45 a month as a sergeant in World War II. He (Reagan) thought Joe Louis had served his country honorably." Deputy Press Secretary Larry Speakes. It's obvious that Joe Louis, at the prime of his career, when he could have been earning many thousands of dollars, served his country." Louis, 66, died Sunday of cardiac arrest. He had been in ill health since 1977 when he suffered a stroke and underwent heart surgery. He had worked at Caesars as a casino host since 1971 and had remained on the payroll as a goodwill ambassador.

Louis gained the heavyweight title in 1937 and wore the crown for 13 years, longer than any other champion.

His greatest boxing victory helped destroy Nazi claims of Aryan superiority when he knocked out Germany's Max Schmeling in the first round at Yankee Stadium in June 1938. Louis' first loss as a fighter had come at the hands of Schmeling two years before.

Schmeling said in Hamburg, West Germany that he could not attend the funeral. But a large floral wreath bearing his name stood before the ring where Louis lay in repose.

Court may order father to visit his daughter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a twist in child-custody cases, a girl born out of wedlock 4½ years ago is suing in an attempt to force her father to visit her.

But state Court of Appeal Justice Robert Kingsley said Tuesday that even if the court issued an order requiring Owen C. Olpin to visit his daughter, he was uncertain it would be enforceable.

"Is the sheriff going to go out and handcuff papa, drag him to mama's house and say 'Sit there for two hours and I'll let you go home?'" Kingsley asked.

The suit was brought against Olpin, a member of the prestigious Los Angeles law firm of O'Melveny and Myers, on behalf of Kimberly Anne Olpin, Kimberly's mother, Virginia M. Loudon, says she filed the suit despite a court order that the mother not aid the child in contacting the father.

"If an adult has a right to enforce visitation against children, the child has a right to enforce visitation against an adult," said Ms. Loudon, a licensed attorney in other states who has yet to pass the California bar exam.

She said the visitation idea came about after the child began coming home from school demanding: "Where's my daddy?"

"She started telling people he was on Mars, he lived in a space ship," Ms. Loudon said.

The Superior Court in which the suit was originally filed rejected the suit, which the mother said upset Kimberly.

"She cries about it," she said. "The court has given its approval to emotionally abandoning a child."

The 2nd District Court of Appeal has 90 days to decide after Tuesday's oral arguments.

Olpin, who initially acknowledged being Kimberly's father and voluntarily contributed to her support, stopped the payments a year after her birth in 1976. But Ms. Loudon established paternity in a Superior Court judgment against him in 1979, which he did not contest.

During Tuesday's hearing, Kingsley wondered if forcing Olpin to visit his daughter wouldn't simply result in frustration for the father and daughter because of the lack of spontaneity or happiness. "We can lead a horse to water but can't make him drink. Isn't that case?" Kingsley asked.

SUES FOR DAD'S COMPANY — Kimberly Anne Olpin, a 4½-year-old born out of wedlock, holds picture of her acknowledged father, Los Angeles attorney Owen C. Olpin, in the Los Angeles home of her mother recently. The child, with her mother's aid, has gone to court to seek visitation rights from her father, who doesn't want to see her.

Attorney James Griffin, arguing on behalf of the girl and her mother, conceded that could be a problem but insisted such an order was a proper first step rather than simply allowing him to "take a walk" out of his daughter's life.

"It is one thing to order him to spend the time and another to pass judgment on the quality of the time spent," Griffin said. "The court can order such a thing to happen. What happens is left up to the human qualities of the parent."

Ms. Loudon added, "How many children would not have taken a road to crime, impoverishment and jail had they had their father's at-ention and love and not been shunned first by their fathers and then by society for having been born out of wedlock?"

Pleading on behalf of the father, attorney Lesley A. Andrus argued that there was no legal authority for such a court order, and that to issue one would violate the 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution forbidding involuntary servitude.

"While the goal of any society should be to foster and encourage close parental-child relationships, such relationships cannot be legislated or judicially ordered," Ms. Andrus said.

Hitting the low notes

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — University of Tulsa students plan to go to great heights to reach some new musical lows.

The students are hoping next week to break the world record in piano dropping.

Student Association President Greg Frizell said the existing piano dropping record is 50 feet.

The Great TU Piano Drop, part of the school's annual Springfest celebration, will be from an altitude of 100 feet. The upright piano will be hoisted by a crane.

Lawmakers don't pay up

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — At least one Idaho lawmaker would like to thank the unidentified woman who plunked down $115 in cash at City Hall to pay off all the legislators' outstanding parking meter violations.

Mayor Dick Eardley said the woman was not known to any of the clerks in the parking ticket division and she refused to give authorities her name Thursday.

"There's nothing in the law that says someone can't pay someone else's fines," the mayor said. "As far as the city is concerned, all the fines have been paid."

When lawmakers left Boise last month, eight left 56 unpaid parking meter violation tickets unsettled. For years, the city had granted free parking privileges to legislators. This year the City Council decided to make them pay.

Braniff shows some operating profits

DALLAS (AP) — Citing a "new spirit of cooperation" among employees, Braniff chairman John J. Casey has announced that the troubled airline showed an operating profit of $464,000 for the first quarter of 1981.

But the firm still suffered a net loss of $24.6 million.

Casey called the operating figure gratifying.

"Our efforts to reduce non-profitable routes and place equipment and personnel in more productive areas are showing an effect," Casey said.

The net loss compares with a loss of $21.9 million for the first quarter of 1980. Braniff recorded a record $130 million loss for the 1980 fiscal year and an independent financial study of the airline released earlier this week questioned whether it can survive as a "going concern" in future years.

About 11,500 Braniff employees took a 10 percent cut in pay last month to help the company weather its financial crisis.

Last year's quarterly loss figure included $11.7 million in capital gains and $6.4 million in income tax credits. The 1981 figures do not include any capital gains or tax credits, Casey said.

New 'Saturday Night Live' being rebuilt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It is clearly time," said Al Franken, in one of the infrequent successful routines of last week's "Saturday Night Live," "to put this tired old format to sleep."

Alas, Al Franken, you may be right.

The latest "new" "SNL" was meant to remind us of the old "SNL," the one that made us laugh and marvel at its daring efforts. But this new "SNL" resembled nothing so much as a dear, palsied old pet painfully trying to please with tricks long lost to it.

The faithful were willing to believe, and their belief was sustained at first when Chevy Chase appeared for the patented SNL "cold opening." Chevy ventured into his old dressing room, now supposedly a storage room filled with mementos of happier Saturday nights long gone — Conehead getups and the like. And who did Chevy find in the ash can? Old friend Mr. Bill, whose silly putty being was soon enough ripped asunder in a spectacular Chase pratfall. Classic.

And there were encouraging signs of life behind the eyes of some of the third-generation SNL players, especially Tim Kazurinsky, whose "I Married a Monkey" sketch displayed the spontaneity and free-flow absurdity viewers once expected from SNL.

But, oh, those tedious in-betweeners, exemplified by Chase's marathon "Weekend Update." Chevy picked his nose, Chevy did his Francisco Franco-is-still-dead gag, Chevy did everything except make us laugh.

Dick Ebersol, the producer who helped develop the original SNL and who replaced Jean Doumanian (who rode helm over the show's utter demise this season), says the presence of Chase and Franken and Mr. Bill was not a nostalgia trip so much as a comfort for the SNL audience "which has been bashed around enough already."

Ebersol's idea was to establish a link to the glorious past in last week's show, giving about 25 percent of the time to old-timers. That's why the new cast members were scarcely present. This Saturday, when Dan Aykroyd was to have been the guest host, "we were going to give nostalgia about 10-15 percent," he says. "By show five, we were going to be all on our own."

A nice thought, but warm connections are no replacement for funny material.

Cuts called cruel

LULAC rips Reagan budget proposal, Stenholm, Hance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest Hispanic group today attacked President Reagan's suggested cuts of social programs as insensitive and cruel and promised to work to defeat congressmen who support his budget proposal.

Arnoldo Torres, congressional liaison for the League of United Latin American Citizens, said Reagan's budget cuts "fall very short of meeting his expressed concern to help the truly needy."

Torres singled out Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, and Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, a member of the House Budget Committee, for more scathing criticism. Both represent districts whose Hispanic population is more than 50 percent, he said.

"One is a Republican and the other is a Democrat and both have always expressed concern for the needs of the Hispanic community, but their actions of the past month reflect instead an insensitivity to those needs," Torres mentioned by name the eight Texas congressmen who, as members of the Conservative Democratic Forum, have supported the spending cuts recommended by the president.

He and other LULAC officials have spoken with several of those congressmen, Torres said, "and we will continue to speak to them as much as we possibly can and have the Hispanic people in their districts to speak to them as much as they can."

The chairman of the CDF is Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford. Other Texas members, besides Gramm, are Kent Hance of Lubbock, Richard White of El Paso, Jack Hightower of Vernon, Ralph Hall of Rockwall, Sam B. Hall Jr. of Marshall and Marvin Leath of Marlin.

LULAC supports a budget, offered by the House Budget Committee as an alternative to Reagan's, which cuts social programs less severely. Gramm was the only Democrat to oppose it and has a budget proposal with even deeper cuts than Reagan's that he will offer on the House floor.

Torres said LULAC particularly abhors that proposal, sponsored jointly by Gramm and Rep. Delbert Latta of Ohio, the ranking Republican on the House Budget Committee. The Hispanic group will be keeping Hispanic people across the country informed of representatives who support the Gramm-Latta bill, Torres said.

"The Hispanic people of Texas and other states will not forget these votes in 1982 and 1984. We want to make sure our people remember these votes," he said.

"I can't see how Mr. Gramm can claim to be sensitive to the needs of Hispanic people and blacks in south Dallas and south Fort Worth. The programs he would cut are not the ones reflecting waste and fraud. There is no program that can fill the terrific void the president's cuts would make."

Vietnamese sue Ku Klux Klan; hoping for federal protection

HOUSTON (AP) — Vietnamese fishermen, saying they fear what could happen to them if they are still working in Galveston Bay after a May 15 deadline, have filed suit asking the federal government to protect them against the Ku Klux Klan and others.

The suit seeks injunctions against the Klan and asks for federal deputies and the possible assistance of the U.S. Coast Guard in the bay where tensions have run high between local fishermen and refugees of the Vietnam war who settled here.

Klan members said they welcome Thursday's lawsuit because it "shows we're effective" and takes the issue to court where the Klan says it will "expose these Vietnamese for the parasites they have become upon our society."

The Vietnamese complain they have been victims of intimidation, harassment, threats, violence and other illegal actions to obstruct them from fishing in Galveston Bay.

Two Vietnamese boats have been burned in recent weeks, and Klan members have held rallies, burned crosses and mock boats and ridden "patrol boats" in the bay carrying guns and wearing robes.

The "grand dragon" of the Texas Klan, Louis Beam, called another rally in the bay area for May 9 and said "only a fool can expect these Texans to give up their birthright without a fight."

The Vietnamese say the Klan has warned them to get out of the area by May 15 of the Klan would be forced to "take matters into its own hands," according to the suit.

Asked what would happen if the refugees were still in the bay after that day, Beam said, "I'm not a prophet or a seer. Violence is possible, but it is avoidable at this point."

The class action suit was filed by the Vietnamese Fishermen's Association, which represents 58 fishermen owning 51 boats in the bay area.

They are among about 2,500 Vietnamese who settled on the Texas coast after the fall of Saigon in 1975.

Resettlement agencies placed the refugees along the coast on the assumption that its warm climate and fishing opportunities would be familiar to the Asians. But instead of a peaceful coexistence, there have been clashes between the natives and the newcomers for the past two years.

"We came to this country seeking a land of freedom where we could raise our families in peace," said Nguyen Van Nam, a former colonel in the Vietnamese army and now president of the refugee group. His wife and two young daughters accompanied him at a press conference called to announce the federal civil suit.

Native fishermen claim the Vietnamese overcrowd prime shrimping waters, violate game laws and threaten to wipe out certain shrimping areas by over-fishing. The Vietnamese say they are just trying to make a living and want to obey local laws.

"My wife over there and my children and the others — they worried. They scared," Nguyen said.

Previously he and most of the members of his association agreed to leave the area if they could sell their boats, but Nguyen said so far not a single one has been able to do so. He said if the vessels are not sold by May 15, they will continue to shrimp in the bay as before.

"I don't know from today to May 15 we can sell our boat or not. But I think in near future I will get out from this area. I keep my word what I promise," he said in halting English.

An attorney for the Vietnamese, Morris Dees, said the refugees will not sell out for cut rates just because of the Klan's activities.

"None of our clients will leave this area with a gun to their heads or with an armed patrol boat patrolling the back of their houses like they did Col Nguyen's home recently, shouting threats to his family," he said. "If they decide to sell their boats, the prices they get will not be prices that come from extortion."

Beam said although the suit accuses the Klan of advocating violence — "exactly the opposite is the case. The Klan under my leadership has served as a moderating influence."

Another defendant, Eugene Fisher, president of the fisherman's coalition in Seabrook but not a member of the Klan, said he was glad the Vietnamese were suing.

Chiles will keynote Hall of Fame dinner

H.E. Chiles, of Fort Worth, chairman and chief executive officer of the Western Company of North America, will speak at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum's eighth Hall of Fame Dinner on Wednesday, May 6, in Midland.

Chiles, whose famous "I'm mad!" radio commercials made "Eddie Chiles" a household name throughout much of the country, will be speaking at Green Tree Country Club before an audience gathered to honor four recent electees to the museum's Hall of Fame: J.C. Barnes Sr., N. Ford Chapman, Charles V. Lyman and Stanley C. Moore.

Himself a West Texas oil pioneer, Chiles was born in Itasca, Tex., and was graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a degree in petroleum engineering. He founded The Western Company on a shoe-string, drove trucks, and finally built it into a worldwide organization of more than 5,000 employees that specializes in fracturing, acidizing, cementing, and offshore drilling.

A believer in the need for citizens to involve themselves more closely with political affairs, he has preached this conviction and his strong support for the free enterprise concepts through the media and in personal appearances throughout the nation.

He has received numerous awards for his business and engineering leadership, is a member of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, regent of North Texas State University, and currently a board chairman of the Texas Rangers Baseball Team.

Tickets to the Hall of Fame Dinner are open for sale to the general public at $15 each through the museum office in Midland.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good day to look over your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Devise quicker ways to handle chores. You have a good chance to gain greater success now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make plans to gain your finest aims. Find out what close ties expect of you. Keep poised and serene at all times.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can now develop good ideas by studying events in newspapers and magazines. Use tact in a communication.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Express your talents to one in authority. Showing increased affection for loved ones brings excellent response.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to gain greater success.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) There is much work ahead of you so waste no time in accomplishing your tasks. Avoid one who is always asking for favors.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Stay within your budget if you go out for amusement or you will regret it later. Follow advice of experts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle routine chores early in the day so you'll have time for recreation later. Be more outgoing at a group affair.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to study your monetary position and figure out a sensible way to improve it. Take it easy tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make needed changes in your surroundings and improve the quality of your life. Make this a most productive day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Making plans early in the day to gain your personal goals is wise. Take time tonight for proper recreation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day to engage in recreational activities that appeal to you. Show more affection to family members.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan how to make your future brighter. Listen to what co-workers have to suggest. Strive for more happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those brilliant young persons who can communicate well with others. Teach to handle money wisely and to be more considerate of others. Don't neglect religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Minority groups prepare to take on major networks

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A coalition of minority organizations has objected in an official protest to the Federal Communications Commission to attempts by the three big networks to enter the new low power television market.

Ruben Bonilla, national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said Thursday that his organization had joined with a dozen other groups — representing 52 million minority Americans — in filing the challenge to the FCC's "attempted entrance and domination of the newly created low power television market."

The coalition contends in its formal protest filed Wednesday that the major networks have ignored or stereotyped minorities in their programming and now are attempting to encroach on the low power markets which afford minorities an opportunity to obtain channels.

Bonilla said the coalition's opposition to NBC's application to enter 11 cities, including San Antonio, Houston, El Paso, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C., violates the FCC's announced goal to increase minority ownership of the low-cost, low power stations.

He said the FCC in January began permitting low power stations which can be started for as little as $100,000 and are designed to transmit no farther than 10 miles.

Similar protests also have been or will be filed against attempts by ABC and CBS to obtain low power channels, Bonilla said.

The formal protest also
