Texas to appeal prison ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — State officials, stunned by a ruling from a federal judge ordering massive prison reforms on a strict timetable, say they intend to appeal the ruling "as quickly as possible."

The final decree in a nine-year-old lawsuit filed against the state's prison system came Monday from U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice after he turned down a request from state officials who had asked for a 30-day delay.

The 26-page decree orders reductions in the prison population, no more than one prisoner per cell by 1983, one guard for every six prisoners by 1982, no more than 500 inmates per prison unit by the end of next year, and says new prisons must be situated at least 50 miles from a big city.

At present, most cells house two to five convicts and there are 11 prisoners for every guard. The prison population has more than doubled in the past 10 years.

Texas Attorney General Mark White called Justice's ruling arbitrary and costly and said the federal judge "exceeded his authority."

"We'll ask for a stay of this order, and hopefully that will be granted and will permit us an orderly appeal," said White.

He said the single-cell order alone could cost Texas taxpayers $3 billion.

"There is no requirement for private rooms for prisoners," White said. "We're not required by the Constitution to build a hotel facility for the prisoners."

The ruling was Justice's final execution order after he issued a sweeping prison reform memorandum last December. It came as the result of a lawsuit filed in 1972 by eight convicts who claimed living in the prison constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

The 248-page memorandum handed down in December described "shocking" conditions in the Texas prison system, with inmates crowded into tiny cells with no privacy and living without adequate sanitary or recreational facilities.

to agree on specific remedies and return to him with recommendations so he could write the final order. Several points of agreement were reached in February, but others remained unresolved.

Then, last month, Justice Department officials under the Reagan administration said they were willing to compromise with state officials on several unresolved issues in the nine-year-old lawsuit. But on Monday, Justice denied their joint request for a 30-day delay to try to reach a settlement.

Points White hoped to resolve by negotiation involved single cells for prisoners, building new prisons in rural areas and limiting units to 500 inmates — all issues decided in Justice's final decree.

"It would be difficult to describe how this could get any worse," White said as he scanned the order before leaving the federal courtroom here.

In Washington, Gov. Bill Clements said he was "disappointed" at the ruling and said Justice "ignored our attempt to reach a reasonable compromise, but I suppose that should come as no surprise."

Clements said he planned to meet today in Washington with U.S. Attorney General William French Smith.

In a separate move, the federal judge also appointed former University of Toledo law professor Vincent Nathan as special master to oversee the changes required by the order. Nathan, 43, served as special master in previous cases involving the federal penitentiary at Marion, Ohio, and the state prison system of Georgia.

Justice's ruling effectively would impose a one-prisoner-per-cell rule on Aug. 1, 1983. The judge said as of that date, "no prisoner shall be assigned with another prisoner to a cell containing 60 square feet or less." Most of the prison system's 9,000 cells contain 45 square feet.

The order further says by Nov. 1, 1983, the population of the prison system must be equal to the number of cells "plus the number of persons who can be housed in dormitories that afford 60 square feet." White said such changes were arbitrary and costly.

"You're talking about several billion dollars," he said. "To set these arbitrary limits is indicative of how poor a place the courtroom is to determine prison policy."

Justice's order said the prisoner-to-guard ratio, which is now 11-1, must be reduced gradually until Nov. 1, 1982, when there can be no more than six prisoners for every guard.

"That means almost doubling the number of people involved. You're talking about a lot of money," White said.

Voter turnout 'slow' in city council races

Voting in the Big Spring City Council runoff election was described as "slow" at both polling places, this morning.

With off-and-on rains pelting voters, only 20 ballots had been cast at the Northside Fire Station, while only 175 had been cast at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, as of 11 a.m. today. Precinct 1 voters cast ballots at the fire station, while all other precincts voted at the coliseum.

The polls opened at 7 a.m. today, and they will remain open until 7 p.m.

The runoff became necessary when no candidate in the regular election was able to capture 51 percent or more of the total vote.

Place 3 incumbent Jack Y. Smith proved the dictum that even one vote can make a difference. That was the margin that denied him outright victory in the poorly attended election.

Second-place finisher Michael W. Randle, a teacher and assistant basketball coach at Big Spring High School, challenges for the seat in the runoff.

Eight votes make the difference in the race for the Place 4 seat on the council. Robert "Russ" McEwen, local insurance agent, failed to take 51 percent of the vote by that margin.

Runner-up Donna Fish, local housewife, also seeks the post in today's runoff.

Complete returns, including the tally of absentee voting, will be featured in Wednesday's Herald.

Committee blocks benefits for psychiatric day care

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Senate committee has blocked a bill that would extend insurance benefits to persons who receive psychiatric treatment on an out-patient basis.

A mental health volunteer and a psychiatrist urged the Senate Economic Development Committee on Monday to approve the proposal, stating it would provide better care for some and would be cheaper.

The committee, however, voted 7-1 to send the bill to a subcommittee.

Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, was the lone holdout for committee approval of his proposal.

"For some patients day care and home at night is the best course," said Carolyn Negley, the volunteer chairman of a day treatment facility in San Antonio.

She said such treatment allows patients "to keep in touch with the real world — that's what this bill is all about."

Dr. Martin Giffen, a psychiatrist on the faculty at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, said the cost of 24-hour hospital psychiatric care is $130 a day. "For that you could get a week or more of day care treatment," he said.

Traeger's bill would require insurance policies that offer hospital coverage for psychiatric care also to pay for day treatment.

Forrest Roan, an Austin lawyer representing Mrs. Negley, said the bill would "help reduce the cost of coverage to insurers. We think it will benefit the consumer and benefit the insurance industry."

Giffen said psychiatric day treatment often is "more humane and to the point and cheaper, too."

Robert Blevins of the Texas Life Insurance Association and Ronnie Volkening of Blue Cross-Blue Shield opposed the bill.

Lyndon Olson of the State Insurance Board said the board had no position on the proposal.

Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, questioned whether the bill was written to benefit only one facility, but Roan said it would apply to others, including community mental health centers.

Blevins said if the bill cleared the Legislature "exclusions would be far more prevalent than they are today."

He said he could not go to an employer carrying group insurance "and tell him this (day care coverage) would save him money."

Volkening said Blue Cross-Blue Shield "in no way objects to the concept of psychiatric day care treatment," but the bill "would remove our ability to review each facility" individually.

White House predicts economy will turn sour later this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, predicting the economy will sour again later this year, insists the president's tax and budget-cutting package should not be sidetracked by the unexpectedly strong economic growth recorded for the first quarter of 1981.

President Reagan's economic spokesman said Monday's report that the nation's economy grew at its fastest rate in nearly three years does not dampen the need for the program the administration is trying to push through Congress.

Nor do the robust economic figures alter forecasts of a sluggish economy for the rest of this year, contended Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, and David A. Stockman, Reagan's budget director.

In an effort to build support for his revitalization proposals, Reagan and his top advisers have spent the last few months describing the economy as being in deep trouble and in need of quick, dramatic remedies.

However, the Commerce Department reported that the real gross national product — the value of all goods and services produced in the quarter after discounting for inflation — grew at an annual rate of 6.5 percent. The figure was substantially higher than economists had predicted.

Stockman said the report was welcome news but cautioned that the figures "are hardly indicative of any trend" that Congress should consider as it ponders the president's program.

"Ours is a permanent program designed to deal with embedded problems" in the economy, the budget director said.

Weidenbaum said government and private economists agree that the rest of the year will see "a slow-growth economy." The consensus is that the economy will show a slight decline in the second quarter and an increase of about 1.5 percent for all of 1981, Weidenbaum said.

He added that the brisk economic growth of the first quarter should not "overshadow the fact that inflation and unemployment show little sign of near-term improvement."

The growth rate, helped along by strong consumer spending, showed the biggest quarterly gain since a 9 percent rise recorded in the second quarter of 1978.

Real GNP rose 3.8 percent in the final three months of 1980 as the economy recovered from a severe spring recession. For all of 1980, the economy declined 0.2 percent, the first full-year contraction since 1975.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige acknowledged that gloomier figures might improve chances of congressional passage of Reagan's tax-cut and spending-reduction proposals.

Atlanta police find possible 25th victim of child murders

ATLANTA (AP) — Like the two adults whose slayings are being investigated by a child-deaths task force, 23-year-old Michael C. McIntosh had a slight build. Like five of the 24 victims, his body was found disrobed along a river.

Police were investigating these and other similarities today to determine whether McIntosh's death should be turned over to the task force, which is investigating the deaths of 24 young blacks and the disappearance of one other over the last 21 months. No decision will be made, police said, until the results are in from an autopsy being performed today.

A farmer found the nude body Monday in the Chattahoochee River near where the bodies of two other young blacks were found three weeks ago. The slayings of those two, 13-year-old Timothy Hill and 21-year-old Eddie "Bubba" Duncan, are among those being investigated by the task force.

Joseph Bell, 15, the 24th victim on the task force list, was found Sunday in the South River in southeast suburban DeKalb County. He was clad only in undershorts, and medical examiners ruled Monday that he probably had died of asphyxiation, the same cause of death as at least 12 of the other victims.

The first of the five victims found along rivers was discovered in November.

Fulton County Assistant Police Chief Louis Graham said McIntosh, who had a criminal record, lived alone on the city's southwest side — near where two of the other victims were last seen.

Only two of the cases assigned to the task force so far involve adults, and in both those cases, like McIntosh, the victims were small in stature. The two earlier adult victims were described by police as mentally retarded.

Graham said that while there is no record that McIntosh is retarded, "based on what we learned tonight...there's the possibility that he might have been slow."

McIntosh stood 5-foot-5 and weighed 120 pounds when he was arrested last fall, Graham said. He said the victim's arrest record included armed robbery, theft, criminal trespass and possession of a small amount of marijuana. Records on the disposition of those cases were unavailable.

Fina starts enhanced oil recovery project

American Petrofina has initiated an enhanced recovery project in the oldest oil field in West Texas. The tertiary program is designed to recover additional oil by the injection of a polymer into the reservoir of Fina's Westbrook Southeast Unit located 26 miles east of Big Spring.

Richard Bott, manager of Fina's Big Spring production district, states that 4.8 million pounds of polymer will be injected into the Clearfork zone over a five year period and should recover an additional 1.7 million barrels of oil.

Oil leases in the Westbrook field were unitized in 1968 forming the 4,740-acre Westbrook Southeast Unit to allow waterflooding of the Clearfork pay at 2,900 feet. Fina is operator of the unit, owning 58 per cent. There are 29 non-operating joint interest owners, both major oil companies and independents.

Waterflooding started in 1969 when the unit was producing 18,000 barrels of oil per month. A peak production of 100,094 barrels per month was reached in July 1972. Oil production began declining in 1977 at the rate of ten percent per year to its current level of 57,000 barrels per month.

Currently 29 wells are used to inject water, with 126 producing wells in the unit. The tertiary project was kicked off Dec. 31, 1980, by adding liquid polymer to the waterflood injection water at a concentration of 300 parts per million. The polymer-thickened water is pumped into the injection wells under 800 psi pressure at a rate of 500 barrels per day into each well.

The Westbrook field is unique in oil history, since it was the first commercial field in West Texas. Well No. 701 on the Fina unit was drilled in 1920 on the W.H. Abrams lease. It was drilled by Underwriters Producing and Refining Company of New York, which was encouraged to enter the venture by the Colorado City (then Colorado), Texas, Chamber of Commerce. It was Underwriter's first oil venture.

The well was completed in the Clearfork zone at 2,870 feet, and initially produced 129 barrels of oil per day, making it the first commercial well in West Texas. The well is still producing at the rate of two barrels of oil per day.

The Santa Rita No. 1 near Big Lake, drilled in 1923, was the first high volume producer in the Permian Basin and is credited with opening up the West Texas drilling boom.

The tertiary project became economically feasible as a result of the deregulation of oil prices in conjunction with favorable "windfall profit" tax treatment granted by the regulations to encourage enhanced oil recovery projects such as this.

Polymer injection for the Westbrook field was first investigated in 1966, and a pilot injection program was conducted that year. Oil was then selling at less than $2.30 per barrel, and the pilot project was discontinued because it appeared uneconomic. Later, model simulation work and reservoir studies were done in 1968 and 1971, but the oil price was still too low to afford a polymer project. After oil price deregulation, the crude price went to $35.45 per barrel, making it possible to afford the high cost of enhanced recovery.

To take advantage of the improved sweep efficiency of the polymer augmented waterflood, Fina drilled five injection wells and four producers in 1980 at a cost of $1,290,000. Plans for 1981 are to drill an additional ten injection wells and seven producers that will cost in excess of $3 million. A drilling rig is scheduled to start drilling these in April.

Richard Bott points out that it was possible to get this project in operation much faster than most tertiary projects due to the background of technical data that had been amassed on the unit in previous years and a concerted effort by Fina's engineers and field personnel.

A meeting of working interest owners was held on October 23, 1980, to secure approval of the project. It was self-certified with the Department of Energy on November 26, 1980, and in December a hearing was held by the Texas Railroad Commission and the project was certified by that body.

Fiberglass tanks and metering injector pumps to handle the liquid polyacrylamide were installed in December, and injection of the polymer commenced December 31, 1980. This is the largest tertiary project in operation in Texas, with only one in Mississippi and one in Louisiana being larger.

The project is significant for this area because it is the largest polymer injection in a carbonate reservoir, which is the predominate producing rock in West Texas.

In the first three months of operation no injection problems or increased injection pressure have been encountered. The polymer concentration is being held at 300 parts per million, which causes a significant increase in the water viscosity. The viscous water sweeps the oil from the reservoir with higher efficiency than the normal waterflood.

The 1.7 million barrels of tertiary oil recovery calculated by Fina amounts to an additional two percent of the original oil in place. Total water injection for the project is currently 14,000 barrels per day. Three thousand barrels per day comes from produced water on the unit, and 11,000 barrels per day of "make-up" water is filtered process water piped from Cosden's Big Spring refinery.

Police Beat Pocketbook snatched

Lou Ann Balderas, 1002 N. Main, fell victim to a purse snatcher, 2:30 p.m. Monday.

According to reports, Ms. Balderas was walking across the Gregg Street Viaduct when a youth, who appeared to be in his mid-to-late-teens, grabbed her purse. The pocketbook had contained $50 in cash, $200 worth of food stamps, several personal papers, makeup, a pair of glasses and a set of house keys.

Corliss Warren, 1804 Hearn, told police that while she was stopped on the 300 block of Northwest 14th, a man she knows climbed into her pickup and punched her with his fists. She sustained several cuts and bruises on her face and body.

Early Monday morning, someone borrowed a pickup with a welding machine attached belonging to Guy Harrison, Midland, while it was parked at the Crestwood Trailer Court. The truck and equipment was valued at $14,000. Police found it parked at the Bogart's Club, around 7:30 the same morning, and will investigate further today.

While a car belonging to P.J. McIntyre, 710 E. 13th, was parked in front of his residence, Monday, burglars rifled it for two spice racks, some lumber and a case of beer. Loss was estimated at $64.65.

Vandals smashed the windshield of a pickup belonging to Clark Leshner, 616 Ridgela, while it was parked in front of his home, Saturday night. Damage was estimated at $150.

Vandals also threw rocks at the side of a trailer home belonging to Bella Moore, 1212 Madison, sometime Sunday night.

Damage to the residence was estimated at $50.

Sometime over the weekend, a man known to Lynn Lee Askew, 1905 Wasson, slashed the door of her apartment with a sharp object. Damage was estimated at $25.

Two mishaps were reported, Monday.

Vehicles driven by Thomas Harvell, Canyon, and Ora Ashinhurst, 1700 Lancaster, collided at 1600 E. 4th, 1:03 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Bonnie Neel, Coahoma, and Glenda Wright, P.O. Box 30, collided at 710 Scurry, 4:51 p.m.

Burial will be in Midland's Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. James died early Monday in a local hospital.

Mrs. Jones was born Nov. 14, 1890, in Van Alstyne, and grew up in East Texas and Oklahoma. She was married to William Dillard James Sept. 20, 1908, in Durant, Okla. They moved to Merkel in 1929, Big Spring in 1936, and Midland in 1950. Her husband preceded her in death March 1979.

Survivors include three sons, O'Neill James, Midland, Cecil James, Brownwood and Leonard James, Ventura, Calif.; four daughters, Elsie Richardson and Mozelle Herring, both of Big Spring, Eula Schuss of Oxnard, Calif., and Virgie Atkinson, Midland; 10 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Man to serve time in prison

Mark Kelvin Watson, 26, of No. 3 September Lane, was transferred to county jail and held without bond Monday, following a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Watson's probation was revoked following the charge.

James Michael Hobbs, 31, of San Angelo, was returned to Howard County jail from the sheriff's office, Colorado City, on a warrant from Howard County. He is being held without bond, and his probation has been revoked.

Hunt for body in Lake Thomas

KNAPP — Authorities have still not found the body of Lynn Rahmann, 35, of Lake Thomas.

The accident occurred Monday afternoon. Details are sketchy.

However, it is believed Lehmann was alone in a boat. It was not sure if the boat overturned or he fell out of the boat.

Authorities resumed the search this morning at the lake.

Tot killed by terrier

SUNDOWN — Kelly B. Brown, age 2, who wandered away from home Monday afternoon, was attacked and killed by a neighbor's dog.

He walked within reach of a pit bull terrier at the home of Charles Cotton and the dog mauled him, according to Sundown chief of police D.L. Phipps.

Justice of Peace Ted Clark ruled the death accidental. The child suffered severe bites all over his body. The animal's range was limited to 30 feet by a chain attached to his neck.

Kelly was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown.

Mitchell County Centennial Historical Book plans unfold

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Plans are well under way for the Mitchell County Centennial Historical Book.

According to Mrs. Willie Landau, some residents have already asked that the books, expected to be collectors items, be reserved. Only 2,000 books have been ordered in the first printing and unless there is a great demand, no others will be available.

The historical book includes pictures and family genealogy of early day residents of Colorado City and Mitchell County, a history of the county and a memorial section.

Mrs. Landau reminds area residents that anyone can have his family history published in the book, which also will include a history of many of the early day businesses in the county.

Forms are available from Mrs. Landau for persons wishing to fill out family histories.

Former nanny says she saw Daniel mistreat his wife

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — A 66-year-old grandmother who was hired as a nanny by former Texas House speaker Price Daniel Jr. says she saw Daniel drink to excess and slap his wife Vickie during a week-long stay at the couple's Liberty ranch home three years ago.

Dorothy Williams of Houston said she was hired to care for the Daniel's young son, Franklin Baldwin Daniel, now 3, shortly after the child was born.

She testified in a child custody suit Monday that the first time she met the former state legislator, he "couldn't walk straight" because he had been drinking. Daniel once deliberately poured a glass of liquor on the floor, then demanded that Mrs. Daniel clean it up, she said.

She also said she saw Daniel slap his wife in the face during an argument at their home.

Earlier Monday, a real estate broker testified that he disassociated himself from Daniel in 1977 because of the former Texas House speaker's drinking and marijuana use.

David Parker of Liberty, testing in the sixth week of a child custody suit filed against Daniel's widow, said the woman who filed the suit telephoned him a few days after Daniel was shot to death and told him he "had better not say anything else against (Daniel)."

Daniel's sister, Jean Daniel Murph, is trying to wrest custody of her brother's two young children from Mrs. Daniel, claiming she is an unfit mother and prone to violence.

It was during a 1976 visit to Daniel's law office, Parker testified, that he saw the former Texas House speaker smoking a cigarette "that had a pungent, acid odor of marijuana."

Probation revoked

Clarence Alvin Pearson, 64, of Andrews, had his probation revoked today in 118th District Court.

His probation was revoked following a charge of operating a motor vehicle upon a public highway while intoxicated.

Pearson was given five years in the Texas Department of Corrections, Huntsville.

Man injured in truck flip

Jesus C. Hernandez suffered minor cuts and abrasions in a one-vehicle rollover today, according to State Trooper Bill Jennings.

Hernandez was driving a 1966 white and red Mac truck, owned by Quality Transport. The rollover occurred one mile east of the county road exit on FM 700.

The vehicle Hernandez was driving was headed east on the county road, ran off the roadway and turned over.

Rain pelts local areas

Parts of the Big Spring area were visited by heavy rain showers shortly after 8 a.m., today, with indications more was on the way. The forecast gave the rain a 50-50 chance to continue during the day.

The gauge at the Big Spring U.S. Experiment Station trapped an additional .03 of an inch of moisture prior to 8 a.m., bringing the year's total to 4.47 inches. Normal for the year through April 20 is 2.89 inches.

Representative Larry Don Shaw Reports from Austin

Water trust fund passes House as pace picks up

I'm told by the veterans in the Legislature that the pace early this session was considerably slower than in past years. That may be, but I'm certain that we're working at as hectic a pace now as any House ever has.

I was pleased this last week as the House overwhelmingly approved Speaker Clayton's proposal to establish a giant state water trust fund. The plan, as I explained in an earlier column, would put any unspent state revenues at the end of each biennium into (1) a fund to cover the principal and interest on any outstanding state indebtedness and (2) a water trust fund to back water development, flood control and other conservation projects in the state.

Over the years, when enough money is finally deposited in the first fund to cover the outstanding state bonds, the unspent budget surplus each biennium would be divided equally between (1) the water trust fund and (2) a separate "discretionary" fund which could be spent for any purpose approved by four-fifths of the Legislature.

If four-fifths of both houses of the Legislature can't agree on a purpose for these special funds, the money would simply remain in what amounts to a state savings account, a hedge against the future years when the State's income from oil and gas production declines.

Several amendments were introduced to change the bill, but I voted to keep it intact. It will be important to Houston and other areas of the state where skyrocketing populations are putting a strain on their water supplies, but this fund is especially critical to our future water needs in West Texas. The Governor has already endorsed the idea, so if the Senate approves it, it should become law within a very short time.

Karmelkorn Shoppe plans to open in Big Spring Mall

Plans to open the Karmelkorn Shoppe in Big Spring Mall, have been jointly announced by Ainbinder-Bramalee Shopping Centers of Houston and A.L. Tunick, Chairman of the Board of Karmelkorn Shoppes, Inc.

In addition to its original Karmelkorn popcorn candy, the 540 foot shop will also feature such goodies as Homemade Kitchen Kandies, Cheesekorn, sculptured popcorn novelties, edible centerpieces, party snacks and novelty items made to order.

Karmelkorn was first introduced to the public in 1929 in Casper, Wyo. Now headquartered in Rock Island, Ill., Karmelkorn's Big Spring Mall location will boost its number of stores to 251.

A unique feature of the Karmelkorn Shoppe is that customer space is designed so that product preparation may be observed.

Karmelkorn will open along with JC Penney, Beall's, the already existing Kmart and some 30 other shops in Big Spring Mall located at the intersection of FM 700 and Birdwell Lane. The mall is scheduled to open in the early Spring of 1982.

Specific leasing information for additional space available in Big Spring Mall should be directed to Alan Smith, Ainbinder-Bramalee Shopping Centers, 5850 San Felipe Suite 500, Houston, 77057. Telephone 713-978-7800.

Cuba's release of U.S. sailors seen as attempt to clean image

WASHINGTON (AP) — The quick release of four U.S. sailors who strayed into Cuban waters is being viewed here as an attempt by the Havana government to project a reasonable image in dealings with the United States.

The four sailors, set free Monday after 24 hours in Cuban custody, were due to return to the United States — probably Miami — sometime today.

U.S. officials, who asked not to be identified, said the release was part of Cuba's plan to demonstrate that it can work with the Reagan administration. They said Cuba apparently hopes to give the impression that Washington is to blame for the poor relations between the two countries.

The sailors were fishing Sunday in two recreational boats borrowed from the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay when their craft apparently strayed from U.S. jurisdictional waters off Cuba's southern coast. They were intercepted by a Cuban patrol boat, and, according to State Department spokesman Dean Fischer, the Cubans "apparently fired one shot across their bow."

Cuban President Fidel Castro has repeatedly demanded that the United States abandon the Guantanamo naval base, and U.S. officials said Monday that American personnel there have been warned to stay out of Cuban territorial waters.

Relations between the United States and Cuba worsened in February after the Reagan administration accused the communist island nation of being the principal architect of alleged Soviet-bloc arms deliveries to Marxist rebels in El Salvador. Cuba denied the charge.

After being detained at Boqueron, in eastern Cuba, the sailors were transferred to Havana, where Wayne Smith, head of the American diplomatic mission there, took custody of them Monday afternoon.

The sailors, all enlisted men, were identified as Boiler Technician 2nd Class Hal Carlson of Chicago, Boiler Technician Fireman Apprentice Timothy L. van Engelenhaven of Sioux Center, Iowa, Machinist Mate Fireman Michael G. Kurchock of Pottsville, Pa., and Fireman Apprentice Otis L. Craycraft of Miamisburg, Ohio.

Man accused in sniper-shooting of Houston boy goes on trial today

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — A Texas truck driver says his first thought was to drive to safety after a 9-year-old Houston, Texas, boy was shot in his car on the Natchez Trace Parkway in December.

Kenneth Brinkley testified Monday as the trial of a Webster County man charged in the sniper slaying opened in federal court here.

Brinkley, driving the car in which Terrell Johnson Jr. and his sister Lachelle Johnson, 13, were riding when the boy was shot, testified Monday in the murder trial of Ronald Glen Shaw, 29, of near Mathiston. Brinkley told the jury "it sounded like a cannon went off in the car."

"The children started screaming," he testified. "I turned on the interior light. Linda turned around and started screaming. 'Oh my God, they've shot my baby.' 'I hit the gas. I just wanted to get out of there.'"

Robert Doyel, Shaw's defense attorney, told the jury during opening arguments that Shaw did have a gun on the Trace on Dec. 26 and that "there is also no question in the shooting of that gun." "The only real issue in the firing of that gun is whether it was intentional or not," Doyel said.

Shaw was indicted by a federal grand jury in January on charges of premeditated murder in the shooting of Terrell Johnson Jr. Shaw also is charged with assault with intent to murder Lachelle Johnson.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Al Moreton made no opening statements after a jury was seated Monday and Doyel made his remarks. Testimony in the trial was expected to continue today.

Notice to Telephone Customers

WE ARE PROPOSING CHANGES IN THE RATES FOR INTERSTATE SERVICES.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, consistent with action by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), has filed a new schedule of rates which increases charges for all Long Distance calls made out-of-state within the Continental U.S., and for all calls between the U.S. and Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands, and for certain calls between the U.S. Mainland and Hawaii and Alaska.

The new schedule provides for a uniform increase of 16 percent for most interstate services in accordance with the FCC decision authorizing a 12.75 percent rate of return. AT&T has requested permission to implement the new schedule five days after the effective date of the FCC's decision. This increase is needed because of higher costs resulting from inflation and is only the second general rate increase in the last five years.

Rates for the following Interstate Services will be increased by the same percentage:

- All Interstate Long Distance Calls — Within the Continental U.S. — Between the U.S. and Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands
- Most Private Line Services
- Facilities for Other Common Carriers

- Interstate Wide Area Telecommunications Service (WATS) — Within the Continental U.S. — Between the U.S. and Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands
  - All VHF Maritime, Coastal Harbor, High Speed Train, and Air-Ground Services.
- In certain cases rates for Long Distance Service and WATS between the U.S. Mainland and Hawaii and Alaska will also be increased.

Dear Friends,

Concerning the Rehab Opry in Big Spring this coming Saturday night. There will be NO contribution required to come and enjoy a great night of country music. There will be an admission charge of $3.50 adults, $2.00 students at the door. It will be a great night of entertainment for the whole family, with Fonda Crawford of Big Spring, Rona Reaves & Texas Gold with RCA Records, formerly of Big Spring, Tammy Jo Whitmire and two great country bands. Because of our interest in the handicapped of the Southwest, all proceeds will be donated to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, which provides care for over 9,000 handicapped children and adults all over West Texas, including several in the Big Spring and surrounding area.

I, as a former patient of the Dora Roberts Rehab Center while many months in a wheel chair, encourage needed support for the local facility and commend the fine job they do, however there are many thousands of handicapped persons here in West Texas in need of yours and my help. So come join the fun of country music in concert at 7 p.m. this Saturday night at the City Auditorium.

Kidde may have big plans for Big Spring

What does the acquisition of OIL by Kidde Inc. mean to Big Spring and environs? It obviously will mean a lot. Anytime a conglomerate like Kidde, with sales averaging $2.5 billion a year, invests in a community, it obviously has great faith in its host city's growth potential.

THE ARRANGEMENT BETWEEN OIL and Kidde means an increase in tax revenues for Big Spring. Approximately 50 percent of OIL's sales in Texas are made to Texas firms. These sales will produce $2.5 to $5 million in sales tax revenues. For the city of Big Spring, it means from $500,000 to $1 million in additional revenue.

Other ways the community is almost sure to benefit is through a boost in population, school taxes and school enrollment, bank deposits, the number of retail establishments and sales, more business and residential construction, a bigger tax base and countless satellite industries.

Kidde's involvement with OIL and Big Spring should further add stability to the industrial growth of the area.

An industry employing only 100 workers adds 351 more people, 97 more families and 79 more school children to a community.

It also adds $1,036,000 more personal income per year, 68 more people employed in non-manufacturing, one more retail establishment and $565,000 more retail sales per year.

figures by seven (the number of times such money turns over in a community) and you get an idea of what a tremendous asset the firm can be there.

OIL plans to move its headquarters to Big Spring. Kidde indicates it may shift other industries here. As far as Big Spring is concerned, everything is turning up roses — as is said in the song.

Everyone in the community says "a big West Texas howdy" to the firm and its people.

Space luggage

Art Buchwald

The "Columbia" Space Shuttle went off without a hitch. That was because it was on television, and everyone involved took extra pains to see that nothing went wrong. But in several years when we take Space Shuttle flights for granted, astronauts can expect the same problems that people who fly commercial airlines encounter.

"Are you in charge of luggage for the spaceship 'America'?"

"Yes sir."

"Well I was on it, and my luggage didn't arrive. It had my electric razor and all my food-paste in it."

"These things happen. Could you show me on this card what bag it resembles the most?" "This one here."

"I SEE. WELL, let me call and check if Cape Canaveral knows anything about it. . . . George, Harry here at Edwards Air Force Base. You haven't seen a brown three-suit with green straps, that was supposed to be on the 'America' flight today? Yeh, it was routed from the moon, via Atlanta. The number is 43216-E, like in Eastern Airlines. Take a look around will you? Hmnm. You haven't? Thanks, I'll check with Atlanta."

"Did they locate it?"

"No sir. But I'm sending a telex to Atlanta to see if it might have been offloaded and put on our red-eye flight to Venus."

"Yes, have to find it. I've got film in it of the Earth that has never been seen before."

"Now don't get excited. I'm doing the best I can."

"Why can't you people at NASA be more careful with people's luggage?"

"I only work in Lost and Found. I'm not responsible for the entire space program."

"I'm expected at the White House tomorrow for a dinner with the President of the United States. My tuxedo is in that bag."

"Just calm down. We'll find it. Atlanta should be back to me any moment."

"Why, when I take a flight to the moon, does my luggage have to go through Atlanta?"

"Everything has to go through Atlanta. It's an FAA regulation."

"I'm going to write to the head of NASA about this."

"You'll only get a form letter back."

"I'm not leaving until you find it."

"Here comes the reply from Atlanta. Hmnm. There seems to have been a slight mixup. Your bag was apparently put on our super-shuttle flight to Jupiter."

"When will I get it?"

"Let's see, it will take a year to get there, and a year to get back. You should have it by June of 1987."

"I can't wait that long. I packed all my moon rocks in the suitcase."

"Now that was a silly thing to do. Why didn't you put them in your carry-on bag?"

"Because I had to put all my oxygen gear in my carryon bag."

"Please don't shout. You're making the other people who lost their luggage nervous. What hotel are you staying at? We'll send it by taxi as soon as it arrives."

"I don't know what hotel I'll be staying in."

"We'll be very happy to supply you with a toothbrush and shaving gear until the Jupiter Shuttle returns."

"I don't want a toothbrush. I want my luggage."

"Oh dear, I hate to see an astronaut cry, sir. Maybe Atlanta made a mistake and your bag was only sent to Mars. Then you'd get it back by next winter."

"What you're really trying to tell me is that you have no idea where my luggage is, and you just gave me this cock-and-bull story about it going to Venus or Biloxi, Mississippi. When our people tag the luggage, they always get the two places mixed up."

"As always, he can't see my viewpoint, 'cause that yo-yo's got tunnel vision."

Itchiness, dry skin unhappy companions

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I consider myself pretty healthy for a 79-year-old girl. If you could help me get rid of one problem that is driving me out of my wits, I'd be forever grateful to you. It is body itchiness. I have tried lotions, but nothing works. Is there anything to give even a little relief? I scratch a lot. — Mrs. R.P.

You should be able to get rid of this itch. Itchiness almost always goes along with dry skin. And older persons who live in cold climates tend to develop dry skin. This is exaggerated by the fact that as we grow older the skin oil glands become less active: it is this oil that keeps skin hydrated.

If your house is excessively warm and dry, you may need a humidifier, brief, tepid baths. Long hot baths are counterproductive. Use a skin softener and water retainer (an emollient) as a cream or lotion on your skin. If you still have no improvement, you may want to try a weak cortisone cream for a brief period. Antihistamines, again for short time, may help alleviate some of the discomfort until the skin becomes hydrated again.

You should stop scratching. You will hurt your skin.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What causes enlargement of a man's prostate gland? What medicines help? Will medicine halt the enlargement? — S.L.

The prostate is a walnut-sized gland at the base of the urinary bladder in men. Passing through it is the urethra, the tube that empties the urinary bladder. When the gland enlarges it presses against the urethra, making it difficult to empty the bladder.

The prostate has a hard outer shell, so as it grows the inside of the shell becomes crowded. We don't know why enlargement occurs, but it probably is related to a change in sex hormone production. By age 40, one man out of 10 has some enlargement and by age 60, almost all men's glands have enlarged, but not usually to the point where urination is interfered with seriously. The doctor can evaluate the status of this gland by feeling it with his finger.

When urination troubles arise the gland is removed. The most popular procedure is T.U.R. (transurethral resection). A scope is inserted into the urethra and the inner part of the prostate is removed. Female (progesterone) and male hormones have been used to stop the process of enlargement. They do not work for all. Most enlarged glands have to be removed when the ladder cannot be emptied. Remember, what we have just talked about is non-cancerous enlargement of the prostate. As an aside, men aren't the only ones with

Touch of sleaze

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — A Russian diplomat believed to be a KGB agent got himself mixed up in some tawdry capitalist decadence recently while drunkenly trolling for homosexual adventure a few blocks from the White House at 5 in the morning.

Within hours, the gay secret agent, Yuri Igorevich Osipov, was shipped back to Moscow, where he may still be trying to convince KGB interrogators that his fantastic version of the affair is true. A far likelier account was obtained by my associate Les Whitten from an eyewitness to the undiplomatic episode and from a secret police report.

OSIPOV'S "COVER" AT the Soviet Embassy was a job in the cultural exchange office. But it wasn't culture he was looking to exchange in the predawn hours of Feb. 24, when he ventured into Malcolm X Park after a marathon drinking bout that had begun the previous evening at an embassy reception about a dozen blocks away.

Drunk and disheveled, Osipov was a most unintelligent intelligence agent even to venture into the park. It is a known hangout not only for homosexuals, but for muggers, and was the scene of a recent murder. U.S. counterparts have concluded that Osipov was probably seeking a homosexual tryst.

But there was no "probably" about it, according to Sammie Smith, a husky 19-year-old black man who was crossing the park on the way home from a visit with his girlfriend.

Smith said the Russian was ardently importuning a known homosexual when two men started jostling him, obviously as a prelude to rolling the inebriated stranger. Smith said he talked the two out of their intended robbery and volunteered to help Osipov find some documents he had lost in the scuffle. Then he and Osipov drove off in the Russian's car.

The amorous spook "tried to grab my privates," Smith recounted. The overture was indignantly repulsed; both Smith and his friends attest that he is strictly a ladies' man.

The frustrated Russian parked outside a drugstore and tried to strangle Smith — who showed my associate bruises on his throat to prove it. Smith's testimony was also supported by a bystander, Reginald Ten Eyck, 24, who strolled over to see what was happening. "The white man was choking the brother," Ten Eyck told police.

prostate troubles. Ligas have them too. For further reading, see "The Pesky Prostate." For this booklet, write me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

robbed, Osipov refused any information until an embassy official, summoned by police, arrived on the scene.

The Soviet official, Vladimir Vikulov, a political officer, spoke rapidly with Osipov and then gave Detective James Pawlik this weird story: Without explaining what he had been doing in Malcolm X Park, Osipov claimed that "two black men . . . tried to make (me) perform oral sex on them." When he refused, Osipov said, he was robbed of diplomatic papers, his watch and some cash. He also claimed that Smith was involved in the robbery, but did not explain how. Smith, on probation for a drug charge, emphatically denied the charge, and indeed was not arrested.

As for the driving violation, Osipov explained through Vikulov that he hadn't been driving. "Somehow the person who drove the car hopped over from the driver's side to the passenger side" when the police car pulled them over, he said. The Russian also claimed there was a man with a knife in the back seat, who "somehow" leaped out and fled without the policeman catching sight of him.

For diplomatic reasons, the police have clamped a firm lid on the episode. The first page of the official report states: "This report is the property of the Metropolitan Police Department, Washington, D.C. Neither it nor its contents may be disseminated to unauthorized personnel or agencies."

As for the Soviet Embassy, they would confirm only that Osipov had been at the embassy party and had been sent back to Moscow. Asked what happened, Vikulov murmured diplomatically, "It is difficult to judge."

TWO FACES OF HENRY: The National Security Council under Henry Kissinger was supposedly above the "dirty tricks" that characterized the Nixon White House. But at the NSC's request, the FBI dutifully submitted raw data and rumors that falsely accused a prominent Greek exile of sexual and other misconducts.

The smut reports from the G-men to the NSC occurred from 1972 to 1974, when Kissinger was in charge, according to documents that have now been declassified. One FBI report, sent "per request of A. Russell Ash, National Security Council," detailed a supposed romance the Greek bachelor, Elias Demetracopoulos, was having with a beautiful Washington socialite. Another linked him to Daniel Ellsberg, the former NSC aide who leaked the "Pentagon Papers" — and whom Demetracopoulos doesn't even know. Other reports dealt with the exile's credit cards and checking accounts.

Some presidents have all the luck.

Less than 100 days into Ronald Reagan's administration, the space shuttle performed beautifully in a mission that was at least as significant as the 1969 moon landing. The only news NASA made during poor Jimmy Carter's presidency concerned Skylab's assault on Australia.

That wasn't Carter's fault, and the space shuttle isn't Reagan's achievement, but whoever is responsible for what, it's good to have space exploration back in the news.

ECONOMICS HAS BECOME the number one bumper headline story of the year. Not just the national or world economy, but baseball's, football's, the screenactors', the screenwriters', even Mickey Mouse's. Everywhere you look, money problems are probably in the vicinity. The space shuttle changed that, at least for awhile — and a pleasant change it was.

I'll never forget the sight of the Columbia falling out of the sky, looking like some guy had tossed an anvil out of a space station door. After so many problems on the ground, I was having doubts about the safety of such a landing, but fortunately I know nothing about it. Young and Crippen made it look like kite-flying. I can't even land a model rocket without it turning into a cartwheeling mass of shattering plastic. Space exploration is important to the national mood it seems. We love the pioneer heritage of the United States, and the idea that this country was built out of rugged land, into comfortable civilization. There's no reason that we can't believe that the same can't happen in space — the 'last frontier' as Captain Kirk calls it.

BUT UNFORTUNATELY, SPACE in the future won't be a "Star Trek" paradise — it's going to be a battlefield. If we do send a star ship on a prolonged mission of exploration, there won't be an Ensign Chekov on board, not for a long while anyway. The primary effects of the space shuttle will be military.

The Soviet Union was quiet about the Columbia mission, as you can well imagine. In the science museum in Moscow, there is a model of the Apollo-Soyuz space hook-up. It's a very nice model, except the Soviet ship is shown as being four times as big as the American ship. It looked like the Soviet Union had asked us along to play with the big boys for awhile.

If the Russians are going to be like that, we don't want them along on our starship voyage anyway. Of course they probably wouldn't want to come along, unless one of their guys could play Commander.

I hope the shuttle program has a long and prosperous stay in the news. Already the evil economics monster has made its attack. NASA has spent a lot of time convincing Congress that the nation needs the scientific benefits of the shuttle, only to have it snatched away by the Pentagon, our very own monument to Murphy's Law.

All we can do is wish it well.

Dear Editor:

I'd like to publicly thank J.D. Nelson and the Security State Bank for the recent construction of a ramp on the east side of the bank. I spoke with Mr. Nelson some time ago about one and gave some suggestions for it so that the bank would be accessible for some of us in wheelchairs. I must say they went above and beyond the specification of American National Standards Institute (ANSI). The ANSI standards, "Specifications For Making Buildings and Facilities Accessible To and Usable By the Physically Handicapped" are the guidelines for the implementation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973-74.

The Act requires that all buildings and programs funded with Federal money be accessible to and usable by the physically handicapped. It also states that "public" buildings (those open to the general public) should be made accessible.

Compliance with these laws and standards has been good in many areas; i.e., some businesses, some restaurants, some hospitals and some office buildings have made strides toward accessibility. Others have made strides, but have only made the facility "look" accessible and in effect have caused a possible hazard. In these cases they have built ramps which are 20-45 degrees of incline and are too steep. The standard calls for an 8.33 percent rise or 4 degrees 50 minutes (one foot of ramp for one inch rise). Consequently, some places should have saved their money. Checked out the standards, and then done the job right.

In some cases the accessible entrance may be obtained with little expense and I encourage other establishments to follow the example of Security State Bank.

I will be glad to give helpful FREE advice which may save you money and make your facility usable by all.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I really don't get very much out of church, and I think it probably would be more beneficial for me to stay home, read the Bible, and maybe watch a church service on television. — Mrs. M.R.

DEAR MRS. M.R.: It is important for you to read the Bible; in fact, you should take time every day to read a portion of God's Word and to pray without being distracted by anything. These are means that God has given us to help us grow spiritually. You also may benefit from Christian radio and television programs in which the Bible is taught, and there may be other ways in which your spiritual life can be nurtured and helped (such as Christian books and magazines).

But none of these is a substitute for your active and personal involvement in a church. Let me mention several reasons for this, and why you should not let other things be a substitute for church. One is that God wants us to join with other believers in public worship. The Bible commands, "Let us not give up meeting one another" (Hebrews 10:25). Even if we had no was worthwhile since I was working for the welfare and better education of our children. To Charles Bell, and Dewayne Fraser, my best wishes, my full support and my commitment for assistance in any way I might help.

I entered this race with a deep concern and sense of dedicated responsibility. I asked for nothing and expected nothing from this office I sought except for a chance to use my time and experience to serve my community and especially our children, in what was told and described to me as a "thankless job". I want to thank The Herald, KBST, KBYG and the fine organizations of our schools and community for inviting me to address them and respond to their questions.

I chose a campaign of going to the people personally to make this element of public office truly responsive to the people and their needs, rather than paid advertisements which all too often resemble news releases that dictate to the people what you want them to know rather than listen to what they have to say. I am a relative newcomer to Big Spring, so I could not offer the tales of residential longevity nor magnitude of public acclaim for my public and civic service. No matter how long I would live in a community, I will hope that I can offer public service based on innovative and sincere programs for the future needs rather than rest on past accomplishments and the good ol' boy acquaintances.

Our community was the only loser at the polls last Saturday, demonstrated by the voter apathy. With so many concerns and needs in our community and our schools, it is pitiful when only 1,600 residents take the time to vote.

Again my sincere thanks to each of you and since last Saturday was not a loss but rather a slight diversion on the road, I say — until next time.

other reasons for meeting together as Christians, God's command would be enough.

But there are certainly several other reasons why God wants us to be associated with other believers. For example, our involvement in church is a witness to others of our faith in Christ. All around you are people who do not know Christ and have never committed their lives to him. Your willingness to attend church is a silent witness to them, telling them that Christ means something to you. Perhaps it would even open the door for you to share personally what Christ means to you.

Also, God has given us other believers to help us and encourage us. But we cannot receive their help if we are cut off from them. I would suggest, incidentally, that you become active in a church — not just attending Sunday morning worship and then leaving, but getting to know people through other activities as well. God will bless you through them — and he may want to make you a blessing to them as well.

Dear Abby

Housekeeper Gets Taken to Cleaners

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 35-year-old divorcee in love with a 39-year-old professional man I'll call Ben. Ben is divorced and has custody of his two sons, 7 and 10. Ben and I started seeing each other last November. In January he lost his housekeeper, so he asked me to move in with him. He said I would stay in the maid's room and we'd tell the boys that I was the housekeeper so as not to upset them.

I do all the housekeeping and cooking and look after the boys. They're good kids, but they are a handful. Ben and I have to sneak around to see each other. I saw more of Ben when I had my own place.

"Mr. G." (as I must call him in front of the boys) frequently goes out in the evening and stays until morning. Women call him here and I have to take their messages. I am hurt and jealous. Also, I don't like being treated like a servant.

I love Ben but I don't know how much longer I can stay in the job. I used to make between $350 and $400 a week as a cocktail waitress. This housekeeper's job pays $200 a month. What do you think of this setup? And what should I do?

UNHAPPY HOUSEKEEPER

DEAR UNHAPPY: I think this setup is wonderful — for Ben. Resign your job as housekeeper and tell Ben you were much happier being a waitress and his girlfriend.

DEAR ABBY: While visiting my 25-year-old daughter in her college town, I extended an invitation for dinner to include her semi-serious boyfriend, who is by no means poor. He selected an expensive Japanese restaurant. The food was excellent and the evening pleasant.

When the bill came, I put my money on the little tray. When the change was returned to me, I left what I considered to be a fair tip.

As we were leaving, the gentleman took a couple of dollars out of his wallet and put them on the tray! I felt humiliated, but said nothing. Am I wrong to feel that I was made to look cheap?

SACRAMENTO MOM

DEAR MOM: I doubt that the gentleman's intention was to humiliate you or make you look "cheap." He may have acted clumsily, but since he's obviously generous, "semi-serious" about your daughter and "by no means poor," as a favor to your daughter, don't make waves.

DEAR ABBY: I was married three years ago, but for some reason or another I have managed to send out only a fraction of the thank-you notes I owe for my wedding presents. I feel just awful about this and it's been a heavy burden on my mind.

Should I just forget about them, or start writing them even though they are terribly late? If I should write them, how can I possibly explain my lateness?

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Of course you should write those thank-you notes. Late thanks is better than none. Don't try to "explain" your lateness, but do apologize for it. A simple, "Please forgive my inexcusably tardy acknowledgment of your wedding gift," etc.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

USDA advises best way to store poultry

Fresh poultry is a popular protein source, and proper storage at home will allow the safe purchase of larger "family packs," which usually cost less per pound. Broiler-fryers will be in plentiful supply, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Production rates are expected to average 8-10 percent above the 1978-80 average with more than enough to meet normal needs.

Specialists at the Food Safety and Quality Service (FSQS) of USDA recommended keeping fresh poultry from one to two days if refrigerated at 35 to 40 degrees F. (1.4-6.4 degrees C). When frozen at 0 degrees F. (-18 degrees C), the whole bird may be kept safely for one year. Cut-up chicken has a freezer shelf life of nine months. Giblets will keep well if frozen for three months.

Cooked poultry pieces not covered with broth may stay only one month in the freezer. Those covered with broth or included in cooked poultry dishes may spend six months at 0 degrees F. Four months is the limit for keeping frozen fried chicken.

If you have a few leftovers after preparing a meal and plant to cook them within two days, refrigerate as soon as possible. Immediate refrigeration or freezing of foods after preparation retards the growth of harmful bacteria. When poultry dishes, are allowed to stand at temperatures above 44 degrees F (7 degrees C) for two hours or more the chance for bacteria multiplication is greatly enhanced.

Thawing frozen poultry just before preparation, saves energy by taking one-third less cooking time than that required for cooking frozen poultry, according to FSQS specialists. To thaw safely, simply place the poultry into a double-wall grocery bag at the recommended room temperature at 70 degrees F (21 degrees C) or below. A 12-pound bird will thaw in about 15 hours; a 25-pound turkey will take 20 hours. The thawed poultry will no longer feel solid, although it may feel somewhat icy.

Equipment donated to Dora Roberts Center

The Beta Sigma Phi Council, 1980 and 1981, has donated a new piece of equipment to Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Nancy Fulgham, president of the 1981 Beta Sigma Phi Council, said that the Council's project for both 1980 and 1981 has been to provide equipment for the Rehabilitation Center.

"We just called Larry Bristo (executive director of the Center) and asked him what he needed," she said.

The Council decided on the purchase of a new knee exercise table, known as an NK table, for the Center. The 1980 Council had raised $250 toward its purchase, and this year's Council held a Valentine Ball in February to raise additional funds.

The NK table, which cost nearly $500, is used to strengthen patients who have had any kind of knee injury or weakness.

Larry Bristo commented, "We wish to express our gratitude to Beta Sigma Phi for their generosity. Without the assistance of the Council and other civic-minded groups, the Center would not be able to provide the range of services that it presently offers. We are very grateful."

Exercise improves outlook

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Significant improvement in psychological outlook and attitudes were achieved through exercise by a group of 48 sedentary men aged 30-55 employed by Stanford University in California who participated in a one-year randomized, controlled trial.

A team of Stanford researchers found that the exercise group became less anxious than the control group of 31, that they evidenced less depression, had greater ease of elimination, increased marital satisfaction, and tended to show less Type A (coronary prone) behavior.

The researchers also state that their groups were fairly atypical, and undisturbed psychologically, and that "general conclusions about the impact of exercise on psychological functioning should be entertained with appropriate caution." The findings were presented at the American Heart Association's annual meeting on epidemiology.

Plant parenthood studies conducted by scientists

"Move over," said the lettuce to the chrysanthemum, "it's your fault my leaves aren't green."

A fantasy conversation overheard by a gardener under the light of a full moon?

"No," says Michael Lafavore whose article, "Plant Versus Plant," appears in the April issue of Organic Gardening magazine, published by Rodale Press. "Many plants are harmful to each other and it's common to see symptoms of discoloration and sunken lesions on leaves."

The phenomenon is called allelopathy (pronounced "al-il-oh-path-ee"). A word derived from the Greek meaning "mutual harm," allelopathy describes the ability of some plants to produce substances which poison other plants. Some allelopathic plants exude toxins from their leaves, others from their roots, and others only after the plant has died and begun to decay.

While research has only recently begun to investigate the positive aspects of its practical application into plant breeding and weed control, the phenomenon is not new. Any gardener worthy of a trowel can tell you that certain plants don't "get along." Barley "smothers" by growing too vigorously; sycamore trees inhibit the growing of grasses and hardly anything will grow in the shadow of a black walnut tree.

The ordinary sunflower achieves a horticultural distinction in fending off encroaching plants and has scientists searching for ways to dissect its allelopathic talents. Lafavore believes experiments with sunflower extracts may one day enable plant breeders to give crops the ability to keep weeds down by themselves.

But if the sunflower yields its allelopathic charm to survive, still other plant species find themselves committing a slow suicide. Autoallelopathy is the killing buildup of toxins in the soil by the very plants that produced them. It's something akin to too much of a good thing.

"If ever you've tried to replant an old orchard, particularly apple or peach," explains Lafavore, "You'll find young saplings can't survive and their offspring will be stunted. It takes a new crop to change the soil."

Lafavore suggests that, armed with a basic knowledge, we experiment with allelopathic theory while tending our gardens. "Try growing sunflowers in weedy patches to keep out unwanted invaders. But, he cautions, "keep them away from the pole beans which are as susceptible to the toxins as the ragweed and mugwort."

Vice president pushes tax plan to businessmen

DALLAS (AP) — Using a "hard-sell" approach, Vice President George Bush told members of the Dallas business community that nothing short of the president's economic package will cut taxes and rein government spending.

The country can expect a balanced budget "by 1984," he said Monday, if the entire Reagan program can be put into effect as of June 30.

Bush acknowledged that President Reagan's economic proposal has come under severe criticism by Democratic members of Congress, but he said an alternative plan from the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee would offer only "short-term" benefits and was a "poor" imitation of the Reagan plan.

Bush, returning to his home state for the first time since the assassination attempt on the president, said the country "can't afford to accept substitutes that would water down or otherwise weaken the cure needed for our country's economic recovery."

Reagan's program calls for cuts in government spending, expected to affect about 300 federal agencies and programs, and a three-year, 30 percent, across-the-board cut in income tax rates.

About 40 health and social services programs and numerous grants would be affected by the cuts in government spending, aimed at a budget savings of $4.6 billion, Bush said.

States would receive aid in block grants, versus categorical grants, and it would be up to the state to decide how to spend the money, Bush said amid applause from more than 1,000 businessmen and women.

The Democratic compromise calls for a one-year cut of varying amounts, changes in brackets to offset inflation, and savings and investment incentives.

But Bush said the president "is in no mood to compromise."

"President Reagan's program must not be diluted if it's to bring about the economic recovery the American people need, want, and indeed, mandated last November," he said.

Bush also pushed a Reagan proposal for regulatory relief in American industry.

An example, he said, is Reagan's recently announced plans for cutting back regulations in the automobile industry. Bush said the plan calls for "reviewing" regulations such as time limits allowed companies for compliance with environment standards and passive restraints, such as air bags.

In a question and answer session after his remarks, Bush defended the administration's position on El Salvador and offered his viewpoint on how to deal with immigration problems involving Mexico.

Bush said the Justice Department is reviewing the "whole immigration" issue and that one possible solution would be to "register" aliens crossing the border into the United States.

The registered aliens would be permitted to "come into this country for a period of time to work," he said.

"A possible solution would combine legalization with a sensitive program to help Mexican industry (along the northern border)," he said. "This may solve some of our (immigration) problems."

Bush also said the United States was responsible for "checking the flow of weaponry (from communist countries) into El Salvador."

Maryland court seeking Agnew bribe repayments

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The former vice president is not expected to attend, but Spiro T. Agnew's tax records have been ordered into an Annapolis courtroom as the state seeks repayment of bribes he allegedly accepted while governor.

The state is seeking repayment of more than $200,000 plus interest in the trial, which was opening today with preliminary motions.

Circuit Judge Bruce C. Williams refused last week to order Agnew, who resigned the vice presidency in 1973, to appear as a witness. But Williams directed Agnew's lawyer, Thomas R. Harrison, to turn over some of the former vice president's tax records.

Included in those records was the settlement which Agnew, then Richard Nixon's vice president, negotiated with the Internal Revenue Service after pleading no contest to a charge of federal income tax evasion in 1973.

Federal prosecutors alleged in 1973 that Agnew received money through an alleged kickback scheme involving state construction contracts. The prosecutors alleged that the scheme extended back to the time Agnew was Baltimore County executive in the mid-1960s.

Agnew has maintained he is innocent of the charges. He was elected governor in 1966 and resigned in 1969 to become vice president.

US, Mexican drug agents plan meeting

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Drug enforcement and police officials from throughout the United States are being invited to meet with their counterparts in Mexico in an attempt to stop the flow of dangerous drugs across the border.

A series of three-week forums, sponsored by the Law Enforcement and Security Training Division of the Texas Engineering Extension Service, will be held in Mexico City beginning April 26 for police chiefs, sheriffs, district attorneys, judges, drug agents and others.

"Drug traffickers on both sides of the border know each other all too well," said Ira A. Scott, law enforcement division head at Texas A&M University. "Now it is time for the people fighting narcotics distribution to work just as closely together."

In addition to discussions on drug traffic control, tactical policies and future strategies, the group will tour a federal prison and the national police academy.

SPIRO AGNEW

Details of the settlement with tax authorities had been kept secret.

However, the Washington Post said today that Agnew paid $172,000 in taxes, penalties and interest on unreported income from 1967 to 1972 under the agreement with state and federal tax authorities.

The newspaper quoted Harrison as saying Agnew paid about $158,000 in federal income taxes, penalties and interest in early 1974. Documents in the civil case show Agnew paid more than $14,000 in Maryland income taxes, penalties and interest in December 1974, the Post said.

Myron Mintz, another of Agnew's lawyers, said Agnew paid the extra taxes for the five years from 1967 to 1972 under protest.

The Post said the documents show Agnew reported taxable income of about $316,000 for the five years.

However, the sources of the money that allegedly went unreported for tax purposes have not been disclosed.

Jerome B. Wolff, who served as Agnew's state roads commission chairman, also is a defendant in the suit and has agreed to testify, according to documents filed in court last week. He is expected to be dismissed as a defendant after he testifies, under an agreement with the plaintiffs. Under the agreement, he would not have to pay any of the damages.

Last year, Agnew published a non-fiction book entitled "Go Quietly or Else," about his days in the White House. Details of the book contract have not been disclosed.

Bums stay hot, keep Astros on skid row

HOUSTON (AP) — The script was different but the outcome was the same as the Los Angeles Dodgers continued their hot streak and the Houston Astros kept sliding deeper in the National League West standings Monday night.

The Astros had been getting fine pitching and poor hitting. But Monday night the pitching wasn't good enough to make up for the lack of hitting as the Dodgers took a 5-2 victory.

The victory gave Los Angeles a 9-1 record while Houston lost its fourth straight game, falling to 2-8, seven games behind the division-leading Dodgers.

In other NL games, the Montreal Expos nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-8, the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-1 and the San Francisco Giants pounded the San Diego Padres 9-0.

Someone suggested that a team meeting might be in order but pitcher Joe Niekro figures "a couple of wins would do us more good."

The victory was also the fourth straight over Houston for the Dodgers, who lost a one-game playoff to the Astros for the division title last year after sweeping a three-game series to catch them. Although there is no revenge motive, second baseman Davey Lopes has gained a certain amount of enjoyment from the victories over Houston.

HOW SWEET IT IS — Japan's Toshihiko Seko emotes at the finish line with his laurel wreath after winning the Boston Marathon Monday. He finished the 26-mile, 385-yard course from Hopkinton, Mass., to Boston in 2 hours, 9 minutes and 26 seconds.

In Boston Marathon Seko dethrones Rodgers

BOSTON (AP) — Japan's Toshihiko Seko, a speed merchant with physical endurance to burn, appears ready for an all-out shot at the world marathon record after his Boston Marathon victory, but his coach may have other plans for the immediate future.

Seko, 24, avenged one of his rare defeats Monday and ended Bill Rodgers' domination of the Marathon.

He shaved one second off the American distance king's course record in winning the 85th annual run in 2 hours, 9 minutes, 26 seconds.

Two years ago the Japanese sensation pressed Rodgers to the fastest marathon in U.S. history before losing by a narrow margin. On his return, he put Rodgers away with about six miles to go and then wore down unheralded Craig Virgin on the hills.

Seko's training both in speed and on the hills during 26 days in New Zealand before coming here paid off. He breezed over three hills, including famed "Heartbreak Hill" which proved his undoing in 1979, but missed the generally recognized world mark of 2:08.33 set by Derek Clayton in Belgium 12 years ago.

Asked about his future, Seko, whose three Fukuoka International victories and Boston visits represent his only marathons since late 1968, said through an interpreter: "I don't know. Ask my coach."

Coach Kiyoshi Nakamura hedged a bit before mentioning a possible 10-kilometer race in Prague July 19. Nakamura may want his young protegee to try for shorter distance records.

Seko appeared to be in command after easily clearing "Heartbreak Hill," although Virgin, also a speedster running only his third marathon, hung tough. Seko pulled away as he passed Rodgers' sporting goods store with less than four miles to go.

"I ran my own race, set my own pace, even though I knew where he (Rodgers) was all the time," Seko said. "I've been training for the hills and they didn't bother me today. I just didn't want to have to fight at the end."

Then, turning to Rodgers, he said, "I'm sorry I broke your record."

Rodgers, 33, bidding to become the first runner to win the Boston Marathon four years in a row, said "Toshihiko was better than anyone here today."

Virgin hung on for second in 2:10.26. John Lodwick was fourth in 2:11.33, followed in order by Malcolm East in 2:11.35, Finland's Jukka Toivola in 2:11.52, Dennis Rinde in 2:12.01, England's David Chettle in 2:12.31, and Colombia's Victor Mora-Garcia in 2:12.55.

Untested New Zealander claims women's marathon

ALLISON ROE, a New Zealander, won the women's division of the Boston Marathon Monday in a remarkable performance for a runner who was only competing in her fifth marathon.

The time of 2 hours, 26 minutes, 45 seconds by the Auckland doctor's wife was only 1:03 slower than the world record of 2:25:42 set in 1980 by Grete Waitz of Norway, and made her the second fastest woman marathon runner in history.

Roe did not run her first marathon until February 1980.

She never had run more than 18 miles and she told her parents not to go to Boston Monday and watch as she probably would "bomb out" about halfway through the 26-mile, 385-yard race.

Coach Gary Elliott said he believed her victory was due to the quality work in her training of 85 miles per week.

Elliott said he was thinking of a future schedule of strength work, involving distances of between 100 and 110 miles per week, and was looking for Roe to drop her time to the low 2:20s.

The New York City Marathon in October is on their program, he said.

While still a secondary school student, Roe won the New Zealand women's cross country title and used to love to run with her father along Auckland's Takapuna Beach.

She won her first New Zealand title after a bout of glandular fever. Later, there was a setback from a hairline fracture of the hip and a struggle to overcome a nagging foot injury.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — After close to five hours of deliberation, an eight-member jury cleared former Arizona State University football Coach Frank Kush of forcing punter-defensive back Kevin Rutledge to quit the team in 1979 through verbal and physical harassment.

The Maricopa County Superior Court jury of six women and two men cited "a lack of sufficient evidence" in the second phase of Rutledge's $2.2 million damage suit.

Kush in an interview with ABC Radio Sports says he was very concerned and nervous throughout the entire proceedings.

Armas, Collins cop major league honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Tony Armas, whose bat helped lead the Oakland A's to a major league record 11 consecutive victories from Opening Day, was named the American League's Player of the Week for the period of April 13-19.

and outfielder Dave Collins of the Cincinnati Reds received the honors in the National League.

Armas, the first player ever to win the honor the first two weeks of a season, batted .375 with four doubles, four home runs, 14 runs batted in — three of them game-winners — and six runs scored.

Collins, who hit .421, was on base 13 times in the Reds' five games, drove in three runs, scored six times and stole three bases.

Unheralded Rockets, Kings begin quest for NBA West

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets have grown comfortable in their role of underdogs in the National Basketball Association playoffs and guard Calvin Murphy doesn't think it should change just because they are now playing the Kansas City Kings, also noted giant-killers.

"In a series like this you still have to look at us as the underdog and forget they've lost (Otis) Birdsong and (Phil) Ford," Murphy said. "This team beat us four straight times in the regular season and they are scrappers and have a lot of pride."

"In other words, I hate to play a team like this because they never give up."

The Rockets and Kings have advanced to the NBA Western Conference finals playing roles of the downtrodden, injury-riddled patsies, providing only a warmup for the favorites like Phoenix and San Antonio.

Instead, the Rockets and Kings, with 40-42 regular season records, find themselves battling tonight in the first game of a best of seven series for a spot in the NBA championship finals.

Murphy is as content in his role as sixth man, as he is with the Rockets' Cinderella tag.

Murphy, a starter much of his career with the Rockets, started Friday for the first time since early November and pumped in 42 points in the decisive seventh game against San Antonio.

"Being a starter is an ego thing and I don't feel I have anything left to prove," Murphy said. "Del (Harris) and I talked about it and I've never made an issue of it."

Slow-Pitch games cancelled

All games in the Industrial League Slow-Pitch Tournament set for tonight have been cancelled, according to prexy John Weeks. Weeks said that unless the field conditions improve dramatically by tomorrow, in all likelihood that games set for later in the week will be called off, also.

Louis remembered by fans across US

WASHINGTON (AP) — Old and young and black and white by the thousands are paying their last respects to Joe Louis, an American legend being buried among the nation's heroes.

"That's the great Brown Bomber," Moses Quarles said as he leaned forward to get a better view in the hushed sanctuary of Washington's 19th Street Baptist Church. "There will never be another man like him. He was one of a kind."

Louis, 66, who held the world heavyweight boxing championship longer than any man in history, died of a heart attack in Las Vegas on April 12.

President Reagan waived regulations to allow Louis, an Army sergeant in World War II, to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery, the nation's most historic military burial ground.

Louis donated almost $100,000 from two championship fights to the Army and Navy. As a soldier during the war, he fought 96 exhibitions around the world, entertaining 2 million troops.

"He was a great person," said 16-year-old Terrence Holt of Washington. "I'm glad he is being buried in Arlington Cemetery."

The crowds of mourners, some carrying pocket cameras for their last picture of the man who won 68 of 71 professional fights, filed past the gold-colored casket for eight hours Monday. They wore suits and dresses, jeans and jogging outfits.

Louis' widow, Martha, paused only momentarily before leaving for the rear of the church with several friends.

Another viewing was scheduled today before the body was taken to Arlington for the funeral and burial services.

"He was the greatest," said Milton Hamilton of Washington, who recalled listening to Louis' fights on radios in the 1930s and 1940s.

"Those were the days. People would gather around the radio and root for Joe Louis. And when he won, this town would be jumping. My mother used to go outside and beat on a dish pan with a stick every time he won."

Pitching the key to A's early season success

By the Associated Press
Some people are never satisfied. Take Art Fowler, pitching coach of the high-flying Oakland A's.

In rolling to a 12-1 record, the A's have thrown four shutouts, including Matt Keough's five-hit 3-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday night. The Oakland staff has not allowed more than three runs in any game while completing 11 of 13 starts and Fowler's flingers have allowed only 17 runs in 117 innings for a team earned run average of 1.31.

You'd think any pitching coach who ever lived would be pleased with that kind of record.

"The one area we've been lacking in is we've been giving up too many walks," says Fowler. "I just tell them to get the ball up to the plate, and when they hit their spots more consistently they'll be even better than they have been."

In other American League action, the Cleveland Indians downed the Kansas City Royals 4-2, the New York Yankees trimmed the Detroit Tigers 6-2, the Boston Red Sox defeated the Texas Rangers 4-2, the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Toronto Blue Jays 5-4 in 12 innings and the California Angels beat the Seattle Mariners 6-1. The Baltimore-Chicago game was postponed by cold weather.

Keough, 3-0, struck out six and walked one. He has allowed only one run and 15 hits in his three outings — his earned run average is 0.33 — and has pitched two shutouts against the Twins. Keough was backed by home runs from Mike Heath and Rob Picciolo off Jerry Kosman.

"I was a little worried about this game after the loss on Sunday," Manager Billy Martin said, referring to the end of the A's record 11-game season-opening winning streak in the nightcap of Sunday's doubleheader.

"You have to be concerned when a streak ends that a team will go in the dumps," he said. "To me, this was our Zimmer, who coached and managed the Red Sox for seven years before he was fired last October, doffed his cap when he returned to the dugout.

"Very mild, very calm," he said of his reception by the 26,844 spectators. "I didn't know what to expect."

Nebraska stops Dallas for WPBL

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Rosie Walker scored 39 points to lead the Nebraska Wranglers to a 99-90 victory over the Dallas Diamonds to win the championship of the Women's Professional Basketball League Monday night.

Walker hit on 13 of 16 shots from the field and on 15 of 17 free throw chances while her team was holding Diamonds star Nancy Lieberman to 12 points, 14 under her average.

The Wranglers used a 10-2 spree late in the contest to build an 88-80 lead and got seven free throws in the last 74 seconds to win the best-of-five series, three games to two.

This summer electricity will cost at least 50% more than last summer.

Here's why:

- All the fuels we use to make electricity are more expensive. As longstanding contracts for low-cost natural gas expire, new gas costs a lot more, and the price keeps climbing. Even lignite coal, our most economical fuel, is becoming more expensive.
- Since last summer, a rate increase has been approved and gone into effect.
- You'll see the full effect of these increases — fuel costs and the rate increase — this summer when electricity usage is at its highest level.

Here's what you can do to help hold down your bill:

- Leave your air conditioner off unless you really need it. It probably uses more electricity than your lights and all your other appliances combined.
- When you're away from home, turn it off.
- At night, unless it's really hot, turn it off. Try sleeping with open windows and a fan to circulate the air.
- Turn off anything that's not in use.
- Live a little warmer. The higher you set your thermostat, the more electricity you'll save.
- Use fans to keep air moving. It feels cooler.
- When the air conditioner is on, keep your cool inside. Close windows, doors, blinds, draperies and fireplace dampers.
- If you're installing or replacing an air conditioner, be sure it's energy-efficient. Use the "Energyguide" on every new unit to compare. It may cost more, but it will help you hold down your electric bills.
- Weatherstrip, caulk and insulate. Call us for free booklets that show how to do it, or to learn when we'll have an "Operation Tighten-Up" workshop in your neighborhood.

NURSES ARE SPECIAL AT LUBBOCK GENERAL

Nursing at Lubbock General Hospital is a two-way experience. It encourages you to give of yourself and it rewards you with a unique fulfillment. Lubbock General Hospital nurses are not merely a part of one of Texas' finest medical centers. They are one of the major reasons that we are one of the best.

The primary commitment of all our employees is excellence in patient care. As members of the health care team, nurses work closely with physicians, therapists, and technicians to meet the patient's total needs. Staff nurses do not do clerical work. They spend their time working directly with their patients; providing medical and emotional support, explaining medical problems, teaching patients to care for themselves, and responding to individual needs.

We believe that today's nurses are devoted to good nursing, and that it is our responsibility to help develop their potential. To this end, Lubbock General Hospital provides extensive and challenging programs in staff development and continuing education. In every clinical area, from Emergency to Neonatal Intensive Care, our nurses never stop learning.

We invite you to share in and contribute to our unique health care efforts.

Because we would like you to be one of our special nurses, Lubbock General now offers the most comprehensive benefits package on the South Plains...

Murphy: 'The hungry dog gets the bone'

Although praising the Kings, Murphy isn't conceding the series.

"The hungriest dog is going to get the bone," Murphy said. "I personally feel the series will be based on a lot of pride. It won't be a short series. You'll see a lot of diving for loose balls by the 5-9 guys and some sevenfooters too."

Murphy is the Rockets' No. 2 scorer in 10 playoff games with a 24-point average. His 42 points against the Spurs was a club playoff record.

The Rockets also likely will feel "at home" in Kansas City tonight. The Rockets, in 10 playoff games, have posted a 5-1 record on the road with a 1-3 standard at home.
