Reagan to tell Congress to get moving on budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, capitalizing on rising popularity since last month's assassination attempt, reassumes public command of his budget battle tonight with an appeal to Congress to stop talking and start acting.

Aides said Reagan will tell a joint session in the nationally televised, 9 p.m. EDT speech that Congress must shed the "old and comfortable way" because "a day of decision is near" for his tax and spending cut proposals.

"High taxes and excess spending growth created our economic mess," one source said Reagan will say. "To enough Democrats will cross over to give him a victory in the House.

The address is Reagan's third on the economy but his first public appearance since he was shot March 30.

It comes on the eve of his 100th day in office, and the selection of the well of the House is intended to focus the drama of Reagan's re-emergence on the forefront of the fight for his economic program, which already appears to be picking up speed as Congress nears key votes this week.

One White House official, who asked not to be identified, said the president's attitude is: "Look, we've talked about the economy. We've analyzed it. Now it's time to do something. Now it's time to take the courageous measures to get the economy back on the path."

The president, who is not yet working full time in the Oval Office again, was putting the final touches on the speech today.

He worked on the message at his Camp David, Md., retreat over the weekend and met with his speechwriter, his congressional lobbyist and the deputy chief of staff when he returned to the White House on Monday.

The speechwriter, Ken Khachigian, took the notes Reagan had made on a draft and was preparing a clean copy for the president's final approval today, according to Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes.

The full House is likely to take up the budget by the end of the week. The House Budget Committee approved a $714.5 billion budget, and Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, and Rep. Phil Gramm, a conservative Texas Democrat, have proposed a $689 billion alternative that Reagan is expected to formally endorse in tonight's speech.

Speakes said the president also planned to make a personal reference to the assassination attempt, although that will be "something he writes out himself ... straight from his own hand."

Speakes said Reagan, who outlined his economic program in an address to the nation on Feb. 5 and also delivered a state of the economy address to Congress on Feb. 18, feels "it is important to go again to emphasize" his views on the economic legislation.

The administration seems to have regained momentum lost when Reagan was sidelined with a gunshot wound in the lung a month ago, and tonight's speech might be just icing.

"The president feels the day of decision is near and it is appropriate that Congress act as quickly as possible," Speakes said.

"The thrust is that we were elected in November to do something about the economy," he said. "As of yet, nothing has been done."

The spokesman predicted the vote on the Gramm-Latta proposal will be "very, very close ... tough, but doable."

"I've been in politics an awful long time and I know when you fight and when you don't fight," O'Neill said.

16 seniors named finalists in Youth Achievement Awards

Sixteen seniors students from Howard County high schools have been named as finalists in the 15th annual Youth Achievement Awards.

The students will be honored at a dinner on May 14 at Big Spring Country Club. The Youth Achievement Awards are sponsored each year by the Big Spring Rotary Club, the Big Spring Herald and Big Spring Rotary Club.

All 16 students, four from each high school, will receive plaques and gifts honoring their achievements. Judging was based on scholarship, citizenship and leadership.

One student from each high school will be honored at the dinner as the outstanding student from that school.

22 cases studied by grand jurors

Edwardo Maidique, charged with murder and aggravated assault in the shooting death of Linda Garcia, and the assault of Martha Esqueibel, will face a Howard County Grand Jury Wednesday.

Maidique's case is only one of 22 which are to be considered by the grand jury Wednesday at the Court-house.

HC, SWCID officials waiting for vote in House Thursday

AUSTIN — Officials with Howard County and the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf are going to have to wait until Thursday to find out if the Texas House will vote to officially establish the partnership of the two groups.

The House, in a voice vote Monday, decided to postpone consideration of the bill until Thursday morning. That action was taken to give House member the opportunity to vote on the Senate's version of the bill and thus speed up final approval.

The proposal, sponsored by House Speaker Billy Clayton of Springlake, and in the Senate by Chet Brooks of Pasadena, would give official state recognition to the West Texas school for the hearing impaired.

The school began its deaf program last fall with a $1.9 million grant in the Texas Education Agency. The federal government is deeding part of the abandoned Webb Air Force Base to the Howard County Junior College District for use by the special education school.

Proponents of Clayton's bill believe official state recognition of the bill would attract more students and increase the opportunities for federal funding.

The Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf is one of three post-secondary deaf schools in the United States.

Deaf programs currently administered by the junior college district through the school currently serves about 50 students. About 2,000 have already applied for fall classes.

Clayton's bill would include an appropriation of about $3 million for the coming biennium.

Protestant leader fears all-out war

IRA hunger striker close to death

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — With IRA hunger striker Bobby Sands reported near death today, guerrillas shot to death a member of Northern Ireland's Protestant militia and the Rev. Ian Paisley said the province appears headed for all-out sectarian war.

Supporters of the jailed Irish Republican Army guerrilla said his family had been told the next 72 hours would be crucial and Sands could die at any time. Today was his 59th day without food at Maze Prison near Belfast.

Sands is demanding restoration of special privileges enjoyed by guerrilla prisoners in the mid-1970s.

Pope John Paul II sent his personal envoy to demonstrate his concern "with the humanitarian aspects of the case," the British Foreign Office in London said. The Rev. John Magee, the pope's secretary, was to arrive in London today and travel later to Belfast. It was unclear whether he would try to see Sands.

All police leaves were canceled as authorities braced for the violent protest they expected would follow

Sands' death. A member of the locally recruited Ulster Defense Regiment was shot and killed today when terrorists ambushed a three-man undercover squad in a van near Castlewellan, south of Belfast, a military spokesman said. Another military man was wounded in the attack, he said.

Paisley, leader of the Protestant Democratic Unionist Party, said if Sands dies, "war ... will no doubt be unleashed with savage fury upon us." He told reporters the largely Roman Catholic IRA is "stockpiling weapons, ammunition, food and medicine" and demanded the British government send more troops to Northern Ireland to reinforce the 11,100 regulars now based here.

Action/reaction: Student suspensions

Q. Why do the Big Spring schools suspend a child for three days without notifying his parents?

A letter is also sent through the mail to the parents. The student suspended is also given a copy of the letter to carry with him, in case he is stopped and asked why he is not in school.

Alien ID card called 'police state idea'

WASHINGTON — A national identification card to help detect illegal immigrant workers may be a "police-state idea," former Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti told a House subcommittee Monday.

A former member of the Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy, Civiletti echoed a concern of U.S. Hispanic groups that requiring workers in the U.S. carry a card identifying them as eligible for employment is a potential threat to civil liberties.

The identification card proposal was narrowly approved as an option by the Select Commission last winter over Civiletti's objections. The Reagan administration's first act in immigration policy was to form an "interagency task force" to review, among other things, the commission's work.

SHUTTLESEERS — Thousands of people waited hours here to see the space shuttle Columbia as it made an overnight stop here at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma City en route to Florida. The jumbo jet and shuttle were scheduled to leave at 7 a.m. cdt Tuesday.

Space shuttle leaves Oklahoma on last leg of trip to Florida

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The space shuttle Columbia, perched atop a Boeing 747 jumbo jet, left here early today on the final leg of its long trip home to Florida.

The spacecraft took off from Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma City at 8:01 a.m. EDT, into a clear, blue sky with the mercury at 64 degrees.

Although the base was closed to the public this morning, thousands of people watched the take-off from nearby highways. The shuttle arrived here Monday afternoon to a cheering crowd of about 200,000 Oklahomans. The sightseers backed up traffic about two miles on Interstate 40, which runs by the sprawling military base in southeast

Oklahoma City. The overnight stopover was intended as a refueling stop for the shuttle's carrier. The final leg of the piggy-back flight was to take the jet and its precious cargo over Greenville, Ark.; Jackson and Meridian, Miss.; Selma, Montgomery, Troy and Dothan, Ala.; and Tallahassee, Ocala and Orlando, Fla., to Cape Canaveral, said Mark Hess, NASA spokesman at the Kennedy Space Center. The flight was expected to take about three hours and 20 minutes. The shuttle rocketed into space on April 12 and made a perfect landing on a dry lake bed in California two days later.

Its takeoff from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., was delayed some three hours, to 1:15 p.m. EDT, while technicians installed a strut to secure a 17-piece aluminum tail cone to the shuttle. The white cone fits over the shuttle's rocket engines and reduces drag.

The departure from Edwards had been delayed six days as ground crews encountered minor but time-consuming problems with the complex servicing procedure. Before the Columbia could leave, its fuel lines and bays had to be cleaned of explosive fuels, its systems shut down and the entire 100-ton ship rechecked.

"Everything that could happen to us happened, but we're glad it happened on the ground, not on the flight," said Donald K. "Deke" Slayton, a former astronaut and shuttle test flight program manager.

Once back at Kennedy Space Center, the spacecraft will be outfitted for the second of perhaps 100 missions. NASA says the next Columbia mission may be within six months.

Can we afford it?

Regulations yardstick

WASHINGTON — Many people believe that if Congress speaks, then it must be the law. Unfortunately, that isn't necessarily the way things ultimately happen, as the federal government has grown in such proportions that the original intent of Congress is often lost in the shuffle among the three dozen federal departments and independent agencies that issue and administer the thousands of regulations under hundreds of statutes passed by Congress.

Almost every businessman or woman, especially owners of small businesses who may not have the resources (either financial or personnel) to tackle the mountain of paperwork required by the federal government, has cried out for help with this growing problem. These regulations are often complex and extremely difficult for business to deal with and many go beyond original congressional intent.

Congress itself must take responsibility for some regulatory burdens and correct past mistakes by rewriting specific regulations, but the regulatory process itself must also be reviewed and perhaps reformed.

An important first step toward such reform would be passage of "sunset legislation" through which the entire range of programs and regulations of each executive and independent agency would be reviewed by the Congress on a present schedule. I am currently sponsoring H.R. 58 in the House that would accomplish this.

I am also sponsoring legislation, along with Congressman Jack Hightower, that would ease the burden caused by federal requirements for citizens, businesses and other groups to retain records for varying periods of time. There ought to be greater coordination of this information retention policy because dealing with the uncertainty of differing requirements makes operating a business more difficult. H.R. 316 would place a four-year limit on any record retention requirement for a business or private citizen.

Congressman

We live in a society guided by rules and certainly many federal regulations are necessary to the protection of health and safety of our citizens, as well as other areas of responsibility. But the growth of the federal bureaucracy has fed on the stretching of boundaries and intentions set by Congress and we are fast reaching the point of being a nation governed by regulation rather than by law.

It is time to reassess regulatory priorities in terms of costs and benefits of new and existing regulations. Again, I come back to the final yardstick I use to measure the overall benefit of any federal action: Do we really need it? Can we afford it? Can it best be done at the state or local level? All three questions must be answered for all regulatory requirements.

Redfish lobby aims to hook foes

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Lobbying normally is a lesson in subtlety. If you're a lobbyist, you may give a politician a $10,000 campaign contribution, but you don't mention a favorite bill until later.

You try hard to defeat lawmakers who vote against you, but as soon as they win you smile and help pay off their campaign debts. You do these things, that is, unless you're a lobbyist for the Houston Sportsmen's Club.

If you're the president of that organization, you throw subtlety out the window and open up with both barrels.

The president, Ralph Robbins, has sent several senators a letter that gives "advance fair warning" about their political futures if they continue to oppose the bill to end commercial catching of redfish and sea trout along the Texas Gulf Coast.

Recipients are the six members of the Senate Natural Resources Committee who are blocking progress of the bill in the Senate.

Bill supporters have the votes in the Senate to pass the bill if they can get it out of committee. The House already has given its approval.

whatever steps necessary to insure that you never again serve in public office.

We are totally fed (sic) up with illegal netting and professional (as well as amateur) game law violators and we are especially fed (sic) up with those in public office that support these actions."

As if that, and the similar 12 paragraphs weren't enough, Robbins adds a two-paragraph "PS" that ends: "This issue will be hung around your neck like a gill net around a redfish. If you are so hell-bent on political suicide, we will oblige you by digging the hole and paying for the funeral."

When one of the senators, Bob Vale of San Antonio, sent the club a letter explaining his stand, Robbins chopped it into sentences and pasted them on club stationery with his reply to each part. One reply consisted of: "Your effort to save our redfish??? Come on, Senator."

The letter could make their job even harder.

Showers linger over Southeastern Texas

By the Associated Press

Scattered showers and thunderstorms continued to linger over Southwest Texas this morning and patchy fog extended from the lower Rio Grande Valley to the upper Coastal Plains.

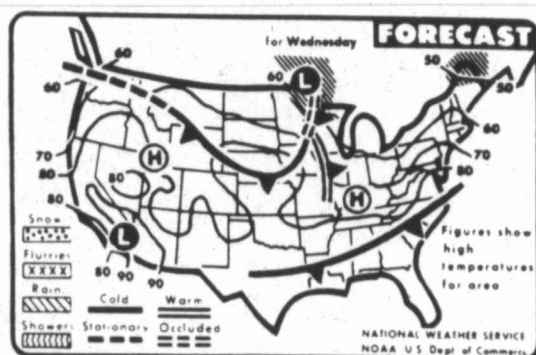

Elsewhere, cloudy skies prevailed over most of Texas, except for the northern regions where skies were mostly fair.

An unconfirmed tornado was spotted Monday night by residents in the northern portion of Yoakum County in the Texas South Plains. Golf ball size hail and heavy rain also was reported north and east of Plains, in Yoakum County.

Early morning temperatures were generally in the 60s and 70s except for some 50s in Southwest Texas.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Clear to partly cloudy Thursday through Saturday. Warmer toward the end of the week. Highs mainly in the 80s except mid and upper 90s lower elevations of the Big Bend. Lows 50s north to the low 60s south.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts rain for Wednesday in portions of Maine and Minnesota.

Constitutionality of local sales tax upheld, Bullock says

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock said a Travis County District Court Wednesday upheld the constitutionality of the local sales and use tax.

Bullock said Judge Hume Cofer in a summary judgment ruled in favor of the state in a suit filed by U.S. Steel which attacked the constitutionality of the optional one-percent city sales tax.

Cities which have adopted the extra one-percent sales tax collect the state four-percent tax and an extra one-percent while only four-percent state tax is collected in other cities and non-incorporated areas.

Bullock said the court turned down U.S. Steel's argument that the law was unconstitutional and discriminatory because tax rates were not uniform throughout the state and refused to order a $62,000 refund that the company had paid under protest.

If the ruling had gone against the state, according to Bullock, many cities could have faced economic chaos because the city sales tax in its present form could have been abolished.

Texas cities, Bullock noted, received more than a half-billion dollars last year in city sales tax rebates.

Is Haig about to vacate cabinet job?

It appears now that Alexander Haig, the man who aspired to be president, may be out as Secretary of State by the time the leaves start falling in the Autumn. That's what his critics think. His friends aren't saying much.

Maybe the international game of political chess is getting on Haig's nerves. There is no doubt but that he is star-crossed. Members of the anvil chorus delight in pointing out that he served Richard Nixon as NATO Chief and anyone who served with Nixon got chewed up pretty well.

THERE ARE OTHER scars Haig can show. He fired his transition team and that didn't set very well with some people. He has also been prone to be vocal about U.S. policy when it would have been better to keep quiet.

He began to take pot shots at Cuba in a bigger fight, the never-ending struggle with Russia. Later, he was depicted as being power hungry and short of patience when Ronald Reagan got shot and Vice-President George Bush happened to be in Texas. In that debate over crisis management, he did not make many new friends.

Haig probably could ride out these sort of crises were it not for the fact that segments of the news media are playing up his every mistake. President Reagan is riding at the crest of his popularity wave, but can he afford to go along with Haig? There have, in addition, been questions raised over Haig's health, which, of course, bring on new doubts about his ability to run the State Department.

Hopefully he can. He's paid his dues in international politics. He doesn't trust Russia, never has. The Russians know it and they get a little edgy when the Secretary begins to express doubt that they can be trusted at any bargaining table. The Carter team was more diplomatic and perhaps a lot more cowed in talking with the Muscovites than are Reagan and Haig. Reagan and Haig seem to react better in a crisis than did Carter and his Secretaries of State.

IF HAIG TAKES a fall, the man who could get his job is John Connally. The silver-tongued Texan probably has even more critics than does Haig. Connally was never timid about saying what ever was on his mind, and the habit has kept him in hot water. Connally is, if nothing else, a realist. He knows the United States must get along with the Arab countries if we are to continue to do business with them, but there are those who spooked when John suggested that the U.S. shift its backing from Israel to the Arabs on several key points.

There are those who say Connally doesn't have any experience in foreign policy. Surely he is as qualified for the job as most anyone in the Republican party, and he seems to cast a longer shadow than the last two Democrats who held the position, Cyrus Vance and Ed Muskie.

Reagan could do worse than consider Connally.

Around the rim

Richard Horn

One of Texas' best and most popular bands has finally released an album with a national record company. The Shake Russell-Dana Cooper Band has become a mainstay attraction of Houston's small clubs, and more than welcome guest around Texas and Louisiana for somewhere around five years. Now many of the long-time fans are hoping the rest of the country will catch on, if only so the group can record more songs.

SINGERS AND songwriters Shake Russell and Dana Cooper are Missouri boys who left Kansas City on the well-trodden path to music success. Cooper went to California and released an album of his own, while Russell came to Houston and Austin and slowly established himself with local fans.

By 1976, Russell was well known among a small circle of Houstonians. He would play in small clubs in front of loyal fans who had not only memorized all the lyrics, but had numbered all the songs to make requests easier. It was confusing to attend the concerts because you could never tell what the songs' names were; it was always "Play number 15, Shake!"

Cooper joined with Russell a couple of years ago. An album of old radio tapes was released in 1978 and everyone thought that a national album was close at hand. It wasn't. The two continued playing in the same clubs even though they were so popular it was impossible to get tickets for the shows.

The band plays basic folk rock music, although their songs are so well written and performed that it sounds like they've invented their own style. Take the lyrics to "Silver Heart," a song about the dream of a life-long love: "Then I changed your name - And I watched your hair turn brown to gray - I've so much to be thankful for." Or "Deep in the West," the group's most popular song: "So you hang on to me - And I'll hang on to you - Said together we're one - And divided we're through." Not poetry really, but they're sung with such conviction that they sound profound.

Their long-awaited "debut" album on MCA records sounds great, although I miss the roughness of their earlier tapes collected on the now out-of-print "Songs on the Radio." That's probably only because I enjoyed those performances for three years now. At any rate, their best compositions, such as "Temper, Temper" and "Pretty As a Picture" are still to be recorded.

WHAT IS UNUSUAL about the band is that while most big cities are producing groups like the Cars, the Police and other groups that travel under the "new wave" banner, Shake Russell is something of a throwback to the early 70s. The influences range from Hank Williams to the Band, to Neil Young and Jackson Browne.

Their music is difficult to classify. Billboard Magazine recommended that the new album be "pitched" to fans of Firefall and America, but that's not really close. Their best songs are easy-to-listen-to ballads, but their lyrics have the depth of Bob Dylan's best love songs. Dallas Morning News critic Pete Opper probably best described them as "Seals and Croft with soul."

None of the songs jump out as sure-fire Top 40 hits, which is a very good thing indeed. However that makes it hard for the band to get national exposure. It could be that they are best, and happiest playing small clubs in Texas and Louisiana. That's fine. At least they'd still be within ear-shot.

Make a bundle

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The paladins of justice are relentless in their pursuit of street criminals and small-time embezzlers. But when it comes to really big-time crime, the giant corporations with their high-priced attorneys seem to be able to flout the law with impunity.

Here's the latest sorry example: American consumers were robbed of an estimated $526 million in 1978 — not at gunpoint, but at the gas pump. It was a complex paper-shuffling exercise involving three major oil refiners and several crude-oil middlemen.

Here's the rub, though: A 27-page "referral," or a memorandum, laying out the scam was prepared last August, but Department of Energy officials sat on it. Now they are belatedly trying to get the case ready for the Justice Department, because of the Reagan administration's proposed drastic slash in DOE's enforcement budget, the effort may be too late. The whole investigation may go down the drain.

THE STILL-SECRET referral alleges that Carbonit Houston Inc., Aramada Petroleum and other crude oil resellers changed certification labels on oil from "domestic" to "foreign." This not only earned them a bigger commission, but allowed three refiners — Mobil, American Petroleum and Tesoro Petroleum — to sell the refined products at much higher prices, the document explains.

In a series of apparently sham transactions, the referral charges, Mobil converted 750,000 barrels of West Texas Sour Crude Oil from domestic to foreign with the help of Carbonit and Aramada. "By refining the West Texas Sour Crude Oil falsely labeled as foreign, Mobil made $4,272,315," the document says.

The domestic oil actually went — on paper — from Mobil to a middleman, then to the second middleman, where it was certified as foreign and resold to Mobil. The DOE investigators determined, "In the steps which led from Mobil's sale to its repurchase, Carbonit appears to have had knowledge of each step," the memorandum states. "Carbonit personnel arranged to purchase the crude oil from Mobil and sell it to Aramada."

Interestingly, Carbonit's president, Richard Johnson, worked for Mobil from 1959 to 1974. Company officials confirmed that at least five other Mobil employees were hired by Johnson.

"The Carbonit group made illegal profits of $757,000," the referral charges, adding: "All told, these activities resulted in an approximate overcharge of $43 million for September 1978. However, the activities are continuous for the period of January through November 1978 ... or approximately $526.8 million for 1978."

The DOE document states that "although DOE has only circumstantial evidence of grand design ... the multiplicity of false certifications and resulting benefits could not have occurred by chance."

CARBONIT'S GENERAL counsel told my associate Tony Capaccio that he hadn't read the DOE document, but that allegations of conspiracy were "absolutely false." He said: "If you know the oil industry, you know that the people ... mentioned don't sit around and rub each other's backs." The oil company's lawyers also threatened to subpoena my reporter to obtain the DOE material.

We submitted quotations from the DOE referral to Mobil for comment. More than two weeks later, a spokesman replied: "Without knowing the full contents of the report, Mobil cannot logically respond to the questions about it and will not attempt replies to selected pieces."

Footnote: Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, is investigating why it has taken so long for the DOE to refer the case to the Justice Department.

AN EXPERT HUNCH: An Iranian national with an intelligence background reportedly warned the Secret Service while President Reagan was on the operating table that the bullet in his lung might be explosive or poisonous.

It turned out to be both. The Secret Service admits a warning call was received, but contends that it came more than two hours after the bullet had been removed from the president. In any case, the surgeons operating on Reagan had no inkling the bullet was explosive.

Because of the importance of bringing out all the facts connected with the assassination attempt, we are running this story despite the contradictions between our sources and the Secret Service. Perhaps another forum will resolve the matter under oath.

The Iranian is Tommy Motlagh, who came to this country as a student 16 years ago, but maintained close ties to the Iranian intelligence apparatus during the regime of the late shah.

Dear Editor:

It is distressing to note that the Community Concert Series is no more in this city. Our community, remote and isolated as it is, did benefit from the presentations made possible by the hard work of many dedicated people who are interested in the arts and the enrichment of life in Big Spring.

Our thanks should certainly be extended to Mrs. J.W. Kuykendall and the many volunteers that assisted her in this effort for many years. The task is difficult and we of the Big Spring Symphony Association have a great deal of empathy for all who worked in that organization.

We also extend a cheerful invitation to any of that group and to the community at large to join with us as members of the Board of Directors or as interested citizens to continue to bring excellent music to our city via the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Choral and the Big Spring Symphony Association.

Our next concert will be in November and tickets will be available at the door and at several locations throughout the city.

Protecting

guns

Art Buchwald,

Rumor has it that the military is asking to go ahead with the ABM system, which had been scrubbed as too expensive and not practical by two U.S. presidents and Congress.

The Pentagon says it needs the anti-ballistic missile system to protect its MX missile systems, which is now being built.

It wouldn't surprise me if the next step would be a request to build a new system to protect the ABM system, so it could protect the MX system.

The military should not be criticized for wanting to build all the new systems. It is charged with guaranteeing our security, and it's very difficult for a civilian to say the military doesn't need what it's asking for.

Let me give you an example of how it works.

AS PART OF OUR strategic defense, it was decided to build a 50-caliber machine gun emplacement in Utah manned by two soldiers, a PFC and a corporal.

Then someone in planning suggested that they put in an anti-aircraft gun to protect the machine gun. This was OK'd. But the Army officer pointed out that you couldn't have an anti-aircraft gun without infantry protection, and a battalion of GIs was ordered to build a perimeter around the anti-aircraft gun.

Air Force said you can't have a bunch of soldiers guarding a large gun without air protection, so the Army engineer's were called in to build a strip, and a squadron of F-16s was assigned to the area in the GIs' fighter cover.

As soon as the squadron was in place, strategic planners recommended an armored division to protect the planes against ground attack. But everyone knows an armored division is vulnerable without tactical nuclear weapons. So a top-secret tactical nuclear force was assigned to protect the tanks.

There was some nervousness in the Pentagon that the tactical nuclear weapons were subject to a surprise attack by the Russians, since they were only capable of firing ground-to-ground missiles. So the Air Force was assigned the job of digging silos for ground-to-air missiles with the role of knocking down the Soviet missiles before they could wipe out a large part of Utah.

PENTAGON intelligence got word that the Russians had the area pinpointed and told their bosses that, in a first-strike raid, they found the commies could knock out the ground-to-air missiles, endangering the armored division, the fighter strip, the anti-aircraft gun and the machine gun emplacement.

A meeting of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was called, and it was recommended that a SAC bomber base be placed in the area as a warning to the Russians that we intended to protect our 50-caliber machine gun at any cost.

But there were those in the Pentagon who felt this would not be a strong enough deterrent. They recommended we build a MX missile system in Utah, making it possible to move our missiles around underground, so the Soviets would not know where they were. The cost was estimated at $30 billion, but because of inflation and delays, the true price placed on it was $60 billion.

To really do it right, they would need 25-percent of Utah and Nevada for the construction site.

The president was all for it and said he wanted the project to proceed right away.

It was only after work started on the MX missile system, that a Pentagon task force came up with a report that the system had a weakness.

Weight loss shouldn't mean nutrition

Dear Dr. Donahue: A group of us in our seniors club, all of whom read your column every day, decided we would pose this question to you, one that concerns a lot of older people. It's about nutrition. We are all interested in keeping our weight down. I, for one, know I don't have the appetite I used to have, but wonder if older people should eat as much as they did when they were younger. We don't want to starve ourselves or get deficient in anything. — Mrs. T.F.

As people grow older they need fewer calories. That's true. Their body machinery slows somewhat and their level of activity is less. I hope no one in the club is offended by that last statement. But you have to admit you don't run around quite so much at 70 as you did at 17.

Now, even though you need fewer calories you do need the same variety of nutrients (protein, minerals and vitamins) you always have. Actually, you need more of those in proportion to the fewer calories you take in. What I mean is that the calorie requirement goes down, but the vitamin, protein and mineral requirements stay about the same for your body weight. So it is important for the elderly to have nutritious, well-balanced diets, even if they eat less.

There is another thought. The senses of taste and smell wane a bit as we grow older and that affects the attractiveness of food. So we become less interested in it.

If your club members are getting well-balanced diets, even if the amounts are less, you won't starve or develop deficiencies. If you are not eating well, then it might not be a bad idea to take a daily multi-vitamin tablet. That's a compromise. It would be better to make sure you get a nutritious diet.

I'll bet your club could get a nutritionist in to speak to you on the subject and make some important specific suggestions. You'll find tips on keeping weight down in the booklet "Lost Secrets of Reducing," which I'm sending along. Others can obtain a copy by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donahue: What symptoms do you have with an ulcer? — H.L.

Gnawing or burning upper mid-stomach pain coming on about an hour and a half to three hours after eating. It is pain that is relieved with food of antacid. That's the typical ulcer pain. But it can be mistaken for a variety of other illnesses, so it is not wise to try to diagnose and treat an ulcer by yourself based on the symptoms I described. Many people have thought they were having only indigestion or that their ulcer was "kicking up" on them when in truth they were having a heart attack.

Dear Dr. Donahue: I have had several EKGs and the report comes back "insufficient blood." I have had eye problems and the eye doctor said, "insufficient blood." I'm 72. How does a person cure insufficient blood besides transfusions? — Mrs. H.R.

I understand your confusion. Now that you point it out to me, the expression is misleading. It does not mean you do not have enough blood. It means that your blood cannot get to where it should be because your arteries are narrowed. The eye and the heart are not getting sufficient blood, not because there is too little of it to go around, but because the pipes to them may be blocked by fatty rust. So you do not need to make more blood.

Can you remove the fatty deposits from your arteries? (another reader's question). That is a controversial matter. You can, however, slow the

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My problem is my homosexuality. A lot of my friends think I'm happy, but down inside I'm very unhappy. Can God really help me change? — P.S.S.

DEAR P.S.S.: God wants you to change, and wants to help you. Homosexual relations are wrong in God's eyes: the Bible clearly states: "Do you not know that the wicked will not inherit the kingdom of God? Do not be deceived: Neither the sexually immoral nor idolaters nor adulterers nor male prostitutes nor homosexual offenders ... will inherit the kingdom of God" (1 Corinthians 6:9-10).

The first step is for you to open your life to Jesus Christ. God loves you, no matter what you've done in the past. He loves you so much that he sent his Son to die on the cross for your sins. Christ paid the penalty for your sins, and he wants to enter your life and make you a new person in him. I urge you to take that step of faith and invite Jesus Christ to come into your life as your Savior and Lord. Make him the center of your life.

Then seek God's help with your problem. God knows all about it, and he wants to help you. How will he do this? I don't know exactly, because God deals with us as individuals. But let me make several suggestions. For one thing, make it your firm commitment to grow closer to Christ each day through studying his word and prayer. Also, you need Christian friends who can help you; pray that God will lead you to someone who will accept you and to whom you can turn if times of temptation should occur.

Then realize that God's Holy Spirit has been given to us when we come to Christ, and he is able to strengthen us when we admit our helplessness and turn to God for strength. "Let us then approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need" (Hebrews 4:16). This does not mean that all your homosexual temptations will vanish — although with some people that may happen. But God will give you strength to become a new person in Christ as you yield yourself to him.

Dear Abby

Weight-Conscious Man Acts Like A Fathead

DEAR ABBY: A month ago I met a gentleman in a nightclub. I gave him my phone number and the next day he called me for a date. We went out and had a wonderful time just talking and getting to know each other. I told him I had recently lost 40 pounds and planned to shed another 25. I didn't hear from him for a month. Then I received this letter:

"Hi. You are probably wondering why I haven't called you, so I might as well tell you the truth. First let me say I think you are a nice, cute girl and a wonderful person to talk to or I wouldn't have taken you out. I like you and I think you like me, but before I take you out again you must lose 25 pounds!"

"I am very picky about girls. They have to be TRIM! When you've slimmed down, call me. Take care."

Since receiving this letter I have lost more weight — for myself, not for him. Abby, please tell me, do you think this gentleman was trying to do a fat girl a favor? Or was he just showing himself for what he is — a conceited creep? What should I do?

FAT CHANCE

DEAR CHANCE: Revenge is sweet (and zero calories), so indulge yourself. Slim down, but don't call him. Arrange to run into him "accidentally," and if he asks why you haven't called, tell him you are "picky" about men. You prefer men who judge a woman by her character and personality, not her weight.

DEAR ABBY: We have a big problem at work. We are two women who manage a women's retail store. The dressing room is next door to our boss's office. We have found small holes in the walls in his office, which enable him to look into the ladies' dressing room. (The holes are covered by pictures.)

Do you have any ideas, Abby? We can't come right out and confront the boss or we might get fired.

NO NAMES, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAMES: A confrontation is not necessary. Every morning, check the dressing room wall for "holes," then cover them with adhesive paper. Do this routinely and your boss will soon realize that you are on to his dirty little peeping game.

DEAR ABBY: Should we be thankful for having more "choices" today? When I was in high school 30 years ago, my English teacher would stress, "You have a choice — you can go to the movies or you can stay home."

Never would she say, "You have two choices, you can go to the movies or stay home."

Was my teacher right? Everything you read today has "two choices."

STYMIED READER

DEAR STYMIED: According to my word maven, William Safire, "You can have a choice or two choices. Both are correct. But you cannot correctly say, 'You have two alternatives.' An alternative is, the other choice."

So, take your choice.

Luncheon, book review planned by Altrusa Club

The Altrusa Club of Big Spring will sponsor a luncheon and book review by Annie Matt Angel Saturday, in the Garrett Hall of First United Methodist Church, 4th and Scurry. Mrs. Angel has chosen to review a combination of three books in honor of our centennial celebration, "Big Spring" by Shine Phillips; "If It's Raining, This Must Be The Weekend," by Nancy Stahl; and "How I Got To Be Perfect" by Jean Kerr.

Camille Patterson, High Bustle of the Choo-Choo Belles, reported on the Centennial plans.

Tickets for the Book-Review-Luncheon may be purchased from any member of the Altrusa Club. For more information, call Doris Guy, 263-7432.

The Altrusans met at the Patio Room in the Holiday Inn, April 23. The meeting opened with the blessing and pledge to the flag. The minutes were read and approved. Pat Highley gave the treasurer's report and requested a count on luncheon tickets sold.

The program speaker was Bobby Wooten, Governor's Committeewoman on Texas' War against Drugs. She spoke on the drug abuse program and showed some of the paraphernalia available to children. She stated that 11 percent of the seniors in high school are daily users of marijuana.

Artificial skin is saving lives of severe burn victims

BOSTON (AP) — A compound that sounds as though it might have come from a witch's cauldron has been used to make artificial skin for victims of what would have been fatal burns, and doctors hope the covering will never have to be removed.

The skin — made from cowhide, shark cartilage and plastic — has been used so far to treat 10 patients, doctors say.

The skin has been under development for 10 years by Dr. John F. Burke of Massachusetts General Hospital and Dr. Ioannis Yannis of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Without the new skin, Burke said, three of the first 10 recipients probably would have died. The victims' third-degree burns covered between 50 percent and 90 percent of their bodies.

"They were very badly burned," said Burke. "On a scale of one to 10, they were 11. We chose these patients because we felt we had an enormous lot to offer."

Yannis said the goal of the skin development was "to treat the patient so he would survive and go back home."

"After that, the intention was to create a skin covering for the patient that would enable him to look like he did before he was brought into the hospital," Yannis said. "These goals were achieved."

Severe burns must be closed while they are healing to prevent potentially fatal loss of fluid or infection.

Although the skin does not look exactly like the un-burned variety, Burke said its appearance is better than natural skin that has been transplanted from elsewhere on the patient's body.

Burke said the new skin actually becomes part of the patient's body.

"The nerve fibers from below, which are still alive, grow up into the new material, just like blood vessels and connective tissue," he said. "So these patients have the same kind of sensations as with a skin graft. It isn't perfect, but it is very good."

Yannis said the artificial skin can be used in 6-by-10 inch patches and may be stockpiled at hospitals so that it is immediately available for burn emergencies.

Like real skin, the artificial variety has two layers. The innermost surface is made from connective material found in cowhide and a chemical derived from shark cartilage. The outer layer is a kind of medical plastic called Silastic.

The usual method for treating large burns is to cover the wound temporarily with skin taken from pigs, human cadavers or living donors. However, this skin must be removed in a few days and replaced with grafts taken from elsewhere on the victim's body.

However, such skin for grafting is hard to obtain when patients have extensive burns.

Hyperion club elects officers and First Lady candidate

The 1970 Hyperion Club met April 10 in the home of Mrs. Bill Sheppard. Mrs. Robert Haney was co-hostess.

Bill Sheppard spoke to the group about casting, a process used in the making of gold and silver jewelry and artifacts. He explained the process and displayed some of the pieces he has made.

Mrs. Ray Alexander presided over the business meeting. New officers were elected for the coming year. The officers are: Mrs. A.J.

Pirkle, president; Mrs. Skipper Driver, vice-president; Mrs. John Key, secretary; Mrs. Travis Hunter, treasurer; Mrs. Jerry Phillips, reporter.

Crisp salad tips are given

Truly crisp salads are always done by hand. Lettuce leaves should be torn by hand and the salad itself should be tossed by two hands. This insures greens won't be beaten soggy by bruising utensils.

Mrs. Bill Sheppard, historian; Mrs. Ray Alexander, parliamentarian; Mrs. A.J. Pirkle, council representative.

Mrs. Bill Sheppard was chosen as the club's candidate for First Lady of the Centennial celebration.

Installation of new officers will take place at next month's meeting and spring luncheon.

Crimmins, who was a Metropolitan Opera House stagehand, is charged with killing 31-year-old Helen Hagnes Mintiks last July 23 after attempting to rape her.

Lawmaker says lenient drug laws festex drug smuggling

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Charles Evans, D-Hurst, says drug smugglers use Texas as a point of entry more and more because Texas has the lowest dope penalties of any Gulf Coast state.

House members acted Monday to remedy that situation, tentatively passing two bills greatly increasing penalties for drug dealing. Both bills were recommended by the Texas War on Drugs Committee, headed by Dallas electronics millionaire H. Ross Perot.

One bill would make delivery of a drug — including marijuana — to a person under 18 a first degree felony, which carries a minimum of five years in prison and a maximum of life.

The other bill provides increased prison sentences and potentially massive fines — including $1 million for those who bankroll the drug trade — for drug traffickers.

A heroin, opium, cocaine or LSD pusher could get 15 years to life and a fine of up to $250,000.

Maximum life sentences and fines of up to $100,000 would be provided for dealers in hallucinogenic drugs and "speed." Life sentences and fines up to $100,000 could be assessed in cases involving stimulants, barbiturates, valium, codeine, depressants, quaaludes and peyote.

A milder bill was approved by the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, but Evans put together the votes to restore the Perot committee's tougher version.

Rep. Terral Smith, R-Austin, defended the committee bill, saying the penalties in the Evans version were so extreme that prosecutors would either dismiss some cases or charge people with lesser offenses.

"The committee's bill is a good, tough drug bill, and I resent anybody who says it isn't," Smith said.

Texas has the lowest penalties of any state along the Gulf Coast.

Dallas schools win black disciplinary action suit

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — More blacks than whites may run into disciplinary problems in Dallas public schools but that is not a civil rights issue, a federal appeals court said Monday.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling upheld U.S. District Judge William M. Taylor of Dallas, who had ruled that the complaints were not supported by evidence.

Eddie Mitchell Tasby and other plaintiffs had contended that the student disciplinary policies and practices of the Dallas Independent School District discriminate against black students and violate due process of law.

statistical data. Citing the numbers, the suit sought to prove that black students were disciplined more frequently than white and Mexican-American students and drew heavier punishment.

Reagan, Bush to pay S.S. taxes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forcing President Reagan, Vice President George Bush and every congressman to pay Social Security taxes wouldn't solve the retirement system's problems, but a lawmaker says it would comfort the nine of 10 American workers who do pay them.

"We must prove that Social Security is alive and well," Rep. Greg Carman, R-N.Y., said Monday as he introduced legislation to add Reagan, Bush and his 534 colleagues to the Social Security system.

"What better way to do that than to require the top elected officials of this country to join Social Security?" he said. "I'm not claiming that adding 537 people to Social Security is going to solve all of the system's problems."

BUILDING'S BIRTHDAY — The Empire State Building begins celebrating the 50th anniversary of its opening April 30, no longer the world's tallest building but still the most famous tower in the Manhattan skyline.

King Kong's perch celebrates birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — King Kong swung from it. An errant B-25 bomber smashed into the side of it. Sixty million people have savored the view from the top of it, and 17 have jumped from it to their deaths.

The Empire State Building begins celebrating the 50th anniversary of its opening Thursday, no longer the world's tallest building but still the most famous tower in the Manhattan skyline.

Although King was only Hollywood illusion, and Fay Wray was never in peril high above 34th Street and Fifth Avenue, the great ape's exploits symbolized the skyscraper's siren call: Get to the top.

The Michelin guide to New York gives the building three stars, its highest rating, and recommends two visits: during the day for the view, which is 80 miles in clear weather, and at night for the city's spectacular lights.

Derisively called the "Empty State Building" when it opened in the midst of the Depression, it is said the Empire State Building relied on visitors for several years to help pay its taxes. Last year, almost 2 million people — a record for the building — took the trip to the top.

John Raskob, the Empire State Building's millionaire principal developer, posed one question to architect William Lamb:

"Bill, how high can you make it so that it won't fall down?"

Lamb's answer was 1,050 feet, or four feet higher than the spire on the new Chrysler Building eight blocks uptown. But Raskob was said to fear a trick — perhaps a pole popping out of the Chrysler Building's spire — so he added a 200-foot mooring mast for dirigibles, envisioning his building as the debarkation point for airship passengers from Europe.

Only one small dirigible ever moored there. Another managed to drop a bundle of newspapers while almost yanking assembled celebrities to eternity in a test in 1931. The top of the mast, 1,250 feet, is the building's official height, although a television transmitter added another 222 feet in 1950.

In 1970, the World Trade Center became the world's tallest building at 1,350 feet. Soon afterward, the Sears Tower in Chicago reached 1,450 feet.

Lamb's restrained Art Deco essay in Indiana limestone, granite and chrome-nickel steel was admired by Frank Lloyd Wright and Le Corbusier, the great French architect.

But it is sheer height, not taste, which lures the sightseers and helps sell the souvenirs.

Some people have been married at the top, and a few have had their ashes committed to the winds there. In 1938, the Congo's Shogola Olaba dancers chose the observatory as an auspicious site for dispelling the evil spirits thought to be cursing their New York engagement.

Since 1978, a race up 1,575 steps to the 86th floor has been an annual event. The best time for a man is 12 minutes, 19 seconds; for a woman, 14:03.

Even before it opened, the Empire State Building also attracted desperate people. One discharged worker hurled himself down an elevator shaft. Eighteen months after the opening, a man jumped from the dirigible platform at the 103rd floor; 15 other people have jumped from the 86th floor.

One woman got over the fence in December 1979, but a gust of wind blew her back to the building. She landed on a ledge at the 85th floor, fracturing her hip.

Ragsdale claims Texas breeds assassins

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The "frontier mentality" that made cowboys strap on pistols to shoot "varmints or cattle rustlers" is making Texas a "breeding ground for presidential assassins," says a state lawmaker.

Rep. Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, waited six years to get a hearing on his handgun control bill. A Texan's shots at President Reagan on March 30 helped Ragsdale get his long-awaited hearing on Monday. He offered an updated bill with tighter controls on handguns.

"Too many handguns are turned loose on the Texas public for my well-being," said Ragsdale. "I'm not saying this bill is going to stop all killings."

Ragsdale wants a 72-hour "cooling off" period between when a gun is bought and when it can be taken home. He also wants to bar sale of pistols to people under 21, and restrict manufacture and sale of cheap pistols — Saturday night specials.

The bill was sent to subcommittee. Bill Blythe, R-Houston, serving as chairman of the House Committee on State Affairs, rejected Ragsdale's claim that Texas breeds assassins. He reeled off a list of assassinations with no Texas connection.

Ragsdale pointed out that Lee Harvey Oswald and John Hinckley had Texas connections. Hinckley, accused in the Reagan shooting, bought his cheap pistol at a Dallas pawn shop.

"It stems from what I describe as a frontier mentality," Ragsdale said.

His bill, which failed to get a hearing in 1975, 1977 and 1979, sparked spirited debate between Blythe and a Houston lawyer whose brother was murdered with a pistol.

David Berg, who has written magazine essays favoring control of handguns, said Texans are viewed as "gun-toting rednecks." The Houston lawyer said laws should prevent people such as Hinckley and Mark Chapman — accused killer of John Lennon — from buying pistols "like so many groceries from a grocery store."

Blythe said, "We're not going to stop the nuts with a gun law." He told Berg he likes a criminal to be "hesitant because he doesn't know how I'm armed."

He blasted Ragsdale's idea as "a foot in the door" that threatens the right to own guns.

Berg replied, "If it's a foot in that door then it's a door I'd like to kick down."

Blythe predicted that Hinckley would suffer little punishment because of laws made by people who are "soft on crime."

"We're going to go through all these mental tests and everything."

Of New Orleans Saints

As expected, Rogers No. 1 pick

NEW YORK (AP) — The New Orleans Saints opened the 46th National Football League draft today by selecting running back George Rogers of South Carolina, the 1980 Heisman Trophy winner and fourth leading rusher in college history.

Rogers made an immediate appearance next to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle at the podium, holding aloft a Saints' helmet.

"I'm too excited really to say anything," said Rogers. "I'm certainly going to give my best every time on the field."

The New York Giants, with the second pick, wasted no time in selecting linebacker Lawrence Taylor from North Carolina.

The New York Jets were next and they picked UCLA running back Freeman McNeil.

The crowd of hundreds of fans ringing the balcony at draft headquarters, fans who cheered the Giants' announcement of Taylor, booed when McNeil's name was read.

Rogers, a 6-foot-2, 220-pound tailback, led the nation in rushing last season with 1,781 yards, averaging 161.9 yards per game. His career total was 4,958 yards, fourth place on the all-time NCAA rushing list. Rogers wound up his career with 22 consecutive 100-yard games. His best game was a 237-yard effort against Wake Forest in 1978.

The defense-poor Seattle Seahawks were next. Unlike the Saints, Giants and Jets, all of whom made their selections quickly, the Seahawks took 9:10 of their allotted 15 minutes. Then they named McNeil's UCLA teammate, free safety Kenny Easley, a three-time Associated Press All-American.

Each of the 28 NFL teams had 15 minutes on the first two rounds and five minutes for the remaining 10 rounds of the two-day draft.

McNeil, the Jets' No. 1 selection, missed two games last season but still rushed for 1,105 yards on 203 carries, a 5.4 per-carry average to Rogers' 6.0.

Taylor, who played defensive end in North Carolina's five-man front, is an imposing physical specimen at 6-3, 240 pounds. He was the Player of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference. His 22 tackles for losses included 16 quarterback sacks.

Easley was the first player in Pacific-10 history to win first-team all-conference honors four times, the only freshman ever chosen to the first team. He holds the UCLA career record of 19 interceptions, returning them for 186 yards and one touchdown. That came in his senior year when he intercepted only two passes, the only time he failed to lead the Bruins in that category.

The St. Louis Cardinals, taking nearly the entire 15 minutes, selected E.J. Junior, an outside linebacker from Alabama.

The Green Bay Packers, desperate for a top-flight quarterback to revive its offense, selected California's Rick Campbell, a 6-5, 220-pounder.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers, already solid on defense, strengthened themselves by picking Pitt lineman Hugh Green, who is expected to play linebacker in the pros. Green, like Easley, is a three-time All-American. Green will play alongside Dewey Selmon and behind Dewey's All-Pro brother, Lee Roy, an end.

The Cincinnati Bengals took wide receiver David Verser of Kansas.

CONFUSION DELUXE is what occurred in the fourth inning of the Big Spring-Odessa Permian baseball game Saturday afternoon. After what had been ruled a foul ball, and then a ground-rule double, and then a foul, hitter Tommy Olague smashed a home run. (See Related Story).

RATES NO. 1 — George Rogers, Heisman Trophy winner in 1980 and a halfback from South Carolina, appears on NBC-TV's "Today" show Tuesday in New York. Rogers later was drafted number one by The New Orleans Saints.

Rogers: "I don't think I'm an Earl Campbell"

NEW YORK (AP) — George Rogers, the first choice in today's National Football League draft, dismissed suggestions that he would be the immediate savior for the 1-15 New Orleans Saints. "I don't think I'm an Earl Campbell," he said.

Rogers, the Heisman Trophy winning running back from the University of South Carolina, said he would like to build the Saints into a winner, just like Campbell, once a Heisman Trophy winner at the University of Texas, has done for the Houston Oilers.

"But I can't turn it around by myself," Rogers said. "I'm not a one-man team; I play with a team."

Bum rookie Valenzuela continues amazing ways

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a World Series atmosphere that gripped Dodger Stadium. Fans were arriving as early as three hours before the game and more than 100 members of the media were on hand to witness the latest performance of the remarkable Fernando Valenzuela.

So where was Valenzuela, the rookie Los Angeles left-hander, while all this was going on Monday night?

"He's getting up for the game, all right," said Dodger shortstop Bill Russell. "He's in there on the trainer's table, sound asleep."

The 20-year-old Valenzuela was wide awake a little later as he continued his incredible performance on the mound and at the plate. Valenzuela shut out the San Francisco Giants 5-0, allowing seven hits.

Philadelphia trimmed Montreal 3-1 in the only other National League game

Monday night.

Valenzuela has started five games in his brief major league career and won them all, four via shutout, and in 45 innings this year, he has allowed only one earned run.

Monday night's performance lowered his earned-run average to 0.20. With his third straight shutout, he has a string of 28 1-3 scoreless innings.

"Webster has no words to define him," said Los Angeles second baseman Dave Lopes, who helped the preserve Valenzuela's latest shutout with a running, over-the-shoulder catch of a fly ball in the second inning when the Giants had runners at first and third and nobody out.

The crowd of 49,478 accorded Valenzuela numerous standing ovations, on the mound as he strung out one shutout inning after another, and at the plate, where he collected three of the Dodgers' 11 hits and also knocked in the game's first run.

"He's entitled to all that acclaim," said Lopes. "He's done things no one else has done. He's a star. He owns the city right now. He's a super kid and a great pitcher."

San Francisco Manager Frank Robinson, referring to Valenzuela's darting screwball, said, "He throws a pitch you don't see too often, and when you do see it, you don't know what to do with it."

San Francisco outfielder Jerry Martin, who had two of the Giants' seven hits, said, "He has more poise than any 20-year-old I've ever seen — that is, if he really is 20."

Baylor led Angels nip red hot A's

By the Associated Press

The way April has been going for Don Baylor, he'll take any kind of a hard-hit ball — even if it does result in a triple play.

Of course, he felt much better after hitting a home run as well Monday night.

"I've just been playing to get in a frame of mind where I could hit the ball good," he said after leading his California Angels to a 3-2 victory over the red-hot Oakland A's. "I haven't been able to do it all spring, but tonight I've had four good at-bats."

One of Baylor's four hard-hit balls was turned into a triple play in the sixth inning by the A's, thrilling a half-price night crowd of 41,760 at the Oakland Coliseum. But earlier, Baylor — who went into the game batting a paltry .058 — also had a sacrifice fly for his first RBI of the season and a tie-breaking home run.

"That's the first time this season he's swung the bat like I know he can swing the bat," said California Manager Jim Fregosi of Baylor, the American League's Most Valuable player two years ago.

Incidentally, it was only the second loss in 19 games this season for the West Division-leading A's.

In other AL action, it was (Con't. on 2-B) "Rangers"

Steers benefitted on Olague HR after objection overruled

By NATHAN POSS Sports Editor

Sometimes a repeat performance turns out better. The Big Spring Steers found out in a big way Saturday afternoon in their baseball game with the Odessa Permian Panthers.

Trailing 3-0 in the bottom of the fourth, with runners on first and second, the Big Springers needed some runs, whether they be controversial or not.

Tommy Olague provided the runs and the controversy.

First, he drove a pitch from Permian hurler Jack Moore deep down the left field line. To most of the fans, it looked just fair, but umpire Jack Griffin looking down the line, ruled it foul.

Steer Coach Frank Ibarra, who noticed that the ball was easily in fair territory when Permian leftfielder Mike Williams picked it up from underneath the fence, then approached base umpire Dub Taylor.

"I asked him if he saw where their outfielder had picked it up, and he saw the same thing I did," Ibarra explained.

Taylor then tried to rule a ground-rule double, which would have scored one run and left Steer runners on second and third with two outs.

But Permian Coach Lonnie Hobbs this time let the umpires know his feelings, and after a discussion, Griffin decided the only fair thing would be to revert to his original foul ball ruling.

Hobbs seemed happy with the ruling, but it turned out that the ground rule double would have been better for his team.

Olague, you see, then smashed a Moore football deep over the left centerfield fence for a three-run homer, tying the game at 3-3.

And until the bottom of the ninth, when the Steers pushed across the winning run in the 4-3 decision, Olague's three-run smash was it for the BSHS offense.

"We argued that it was fair, and there was no doubt that it was," said a happy Ibarra. "But we would have gotten only one run out of it, so I guess everything turned out for the best."

The Steers will no doubt be hoping for some more good luck this afternoon when they visit Midland Lee in a battle of second half leaders in District 5-AAAAA.

Start average billing before you start your air conditioner.

If you use the same amount of electricity this summer as you did last year, you're going to see a big increase in your summer bills.

Our Average Billing Plan can help, because it "averages out" your electric bills. You still pay for all the electricity you use, and your payments will still vary from month to month. But in high-use months you pay for less electricity than you use, and in low-use months you pay for more than you use.

Many customers find this helps ease the impact of high summer air conditioning bills. Our average billing plan is available to both residential customers and churches. If you'd like to know more, give us a call at Texas Electric.

Celts must win tonite

BOSTON (AP)—It was the kind of play by which champions are crowned, the kind basketball purists savor — and the kind Bobby Jones makes as a matter of course.

And in a playoff series between two teams like the Philadelphia 76ers and Boston Celtics, who hounded each other throughout the National Basketball Association's regular season only to finish with identical 62-20 records, it was the kind of play that can make all the difference in the world.

Nate Archibald, Boston's veteran point guard, appreciated the play even though he was victimized by it. As he sat in front of his locker and replayed it in his mind, Archibald said, "The only thing between us and overtime was Bobby Jones — and he made a great play."

What Jones did was anticipate Archibald's half-court lead pass, step in front of intended receiver Larry Bird and, with the form of an all-pro free safety, pick off the ball with two seconds left to preserve the 76ers' 107-105 victory Sunday in Philadelphia.

That gave the 76ers a 3-1 lead in the series and a chance to wrap up the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final here Wednesday night.

Bill Fitch, the Celtics' coach who watched his team lose its 11th straight game in Philadelphia, refused to blame Archibald for the defeat.

"The game wasn't lost on 'hat play at the end,'" he said. "The game was lost in the first half. We were miserable in the first half. If we had done things right in the first half, we might have been looking at a Boston blowout."

But instead it's the Celtics who are in danger of being blown out of the conference finals by Philadelphia for the second straight spring.

Rangers shutout Red Sox

Baltimore 5, Chicago 2; Seattle 8, Minnesota 3 in 10 innings; Texas 10, Boston 0; New York 3, Detroit 1 and Milwaukee 4, Toronto 3 in 12 innings.

Right-hander Ken Forsch, 3-0, pitched a three-hitter to stop a six-game Oakland winning streak. At 17-2, the A's are one victory short of the major league record for most victories in April.

Steve McCatty, 3-1, was the loser, but pitched his fourth complete game and the 16th of the year for the A's staff.

Orioles 5, White Sox 2
Red-hot Ken Singleton rapped four hits and drove in the winning run as Baltimore beat Chicago and snapped a six-game winning streak for the White Sox.

Scott McGregor, 1-1, a 20-game winner last season, scattered 11 hits, struck out six and walked two before needing relief help from Tippy Martinez in the ninth.

Mariners 8, Twins 3
Lenny Randle capped a five-run 10th inning with a grand slam home run to lift Seattle over Minnesota. Earlier in the inning, Dan Meyer had delivered the tie-breaking run with a single.

Rangers 10, Red Sox 0
Buddy Bell smacked a two-run homer in the first inning and Texas added four more runs in a sixth-inning outburst highlighted by a three-run Boston throwing error as the Rangers defeated Boston.

Doc Medich, 2-1, shut out the Red Sox on eight hits and helped his own cause on a fifth-inning double play, snaring a line drive from Gary Allenson and doubling Carney Lansford off first. Medich walked only one batter and struck out three during his route-going performance.

Yankees 3, Tigers 1
Bucky Dent hit a two-run homer and Ron Guidry scattered five hits in eight innings, as New York defeated Detroit to extend the Tigers' losing streak to eight games.

Guidry, 2-1, and Detroit rookie left-hander Howard Bailey were locked in a pitcher's duel until the seventh inning when the Yankees scored all their runs.

Brewers 4, Blue Jays 3
Larry Hise's single scored Cecil Cooper from second base with two out in the 12th inning, lifting Milwaukee over Toronto.

Reggie Cleveland, 1-0, the fourth Milwaukee pitcher, earned the victory with two perfect innings of relief.

FOR A FINE SELECTION OF UNIQUE GIFTS...visit the Rainbarrel Gift Shop in College Park Center

Rainbarrel has unique, unusual gift selection

If it is unique or unusual, chances are it was purchased at the Rainbarrel in the College Park Shopping Center.

That's right, Steve and Amy Lewis, owners and operators of this Big Spring novelty shop, have gone out of their way to bring you what you can't find anywhere else in town. They have brought a little of the big city shops to their home town.

At the Rainbarrel there is a rustic atmosphere. Steve and Amy invite all of their customers to feel at home, to touch the merchandise, pick it up and see what makes it tick.

The name of the shop comes from the decor, many solid oak barrels scattered throughout the building.

The Rainbarrel pre-shops for their customers. While at market Steve and Amy won't buy anything that is not a good value and would be too high a price for their customers. They are in the medium to low range price range for gifts.

Some of the items that can be found at the Rainbarrel are chrome kinetics, solar powered objects, pewter jewelry and other pewter items. In fact, an item from the Rainbarrel, a pewter lion's head letter opener, was used in the filming of the movie, "Hangar 18."

The Rainbarrel also has stained glass, chimes, candles and gag gifts.

So if you are in the market for something unique and unusual drop by the Rainbarrel in the College Park Shopping Center and let Steve and Amy help you out.

BS Yankees open year with sweep

MILES — The Big Spring Yankees swept a twinbill from the Miles Outlaws here Sunday in the season opening games for both teams.

The Yankees bats took advantage of the absence of the top two Miles pitchers in the games, rapping out a total of 33 hits and batting .525 as a team.

The Big Spring team won the opener by a 17-3 score in a contest called after four innings. Ricky Myers hurled the win, allowing only five hits and whiffing six.

In the nightcap, the Yankees had to rally twice to take a 13-9 win. Louis Velez was the winning hurler, despite the fact that he allowed 12 hits. Velez struck out seven Outlaws.

Leading hitters for the Yankees were Keith Stone (7 for 8 with 5 RBIS), Ricky Stone (6 for 6 with 2 RBIS) and Tommy Arguello (6 for 9 with 5 RBIS).

Yankee Manger Chris Uchman and his squad will return home this Sunday and face the same Miles team. Uchman is hoping that the Outlaws starting hurlers play in those contests in order to give his team a little more competition.

Why he stood her up for WCT

Giammalva hopes date understands

DALLAS (AP) — Teen-age Sammy Giammalva hopes the girl he was supposed to have a date with Monday night understands, because he still isn't sure himself it all happened.

The 18-year-old from Houston was practicing Monday afternoon when he was informed he had an emergency telephone call.

"I was worried because I thought a relative might be sick," he said.

"Then I got to the telephone and I couldn't believe it...it was like a dream. The WCT (World Championship of Tennis) officials told me there was a 50-50 chance I would be playing tonight."

What had happened was that France's Yannick Noah, a quarter-final foe of Brian Gottfried, was suffering from tendonitis in his right bicep that left him barely able to serve.

"I was so excited I didn't shower," said Giammalva, who wasn't the most ideal seating companion on the flight to Dallas.

"I forgot to eat lunch. When I got there I didn't even know if it was three out of five sets."

"I had to ask somebody what time I was supposed to play. Then they had that ceremony where they introduce each player individually. That was a surprise. I was in a daze and I didn't even have my name on a jacket like everybody else did."

The Horatio Alger story ended there.

The veteran Gottfried, taking advantage of the recent high school graduate's inexperience, whipped the 1980 national junior champion 7-5, 6-3, 6-1 to advance to Friday's semifinals against the winner of tonight's meeting between Sandy Mayer and John McEnroe.

Mayer is a substitute himself, filling in for defending champion Jimmy Connors, who called in last week with a virus and said he couldn't play.

But back to the charming Giammalva, who only turned pro in March, advancing to the finals of the WCT-Houston tournament only to lose to Guillermo Vilas.

"I had a date Monday night and I hope she understands," said Giammalva. "I hope she will go out with me again. I think I would have had a better time with her than going out and getting strummed by Gottfried."

The 29-year-old Gottfried, ranked No. 14 in the world and a former All-American at Trinity and a semi-finalist at Wimbledon, unnerved Giammalva with a series of deft lobs.

He also scored heavily by serving to Giammalva's two-fisted backhand.

"I served to his backhand about 80 per cent of the time because the court is relatively fast and I knew it wouldn't give him much time to react," said Gottfried, a Baltimore native.

"He (Gottfried) never let me in it," said Giammalva, who was going to Southern Methodist before he turned pro. "His lobs put a lot of pressure on me."

Giammalva, who won $17,500 at Houston and $7,000 for his brief appearance in the WCT, said he will call his girlfriend back this week.

"Maybe things can get back to normal," he said. "A lot has been happening to me lately."

Hunt family's battle with SEC resumes

DALLAS (AP) — "Update letters" requesting financial information on the dealings of the wealthy Hunt family were misinterpretations of the Right to Financial Privacy act, not violations of the law, says the general counsel for the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Ralph Ferrara testified over the weekend that the letters, which sought to update subpoenas issued in February, didn't violate the Hunts' financial privacy because no records were ever received in response to the SEC request.

But Ferrara, testifying in a federal hearing called after attorneys for the family requested a halt to the SEC investigation, which started a year ago after the silver market collapsed, did say the commission had not properly notified the Hunts of the new requests.

The SEC and the Futures and Commodities Trading Commission are conducting investigations into the Hunt family's dealings in the silver market.

FDR's youngest son dies

NEW YORK (AP) — John A. Roosevelt, investment banker and youngest of four sons of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has died of heart failure at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center at age 65.

Roosevelt, whose only encounter with politics was when he ran unsuccessfully in the 1957 New York City mayoral race, died Monday.

He was the only Republican in a staunchly Democratic family. The list of noted Republicans he supported included President Ronald Reagan, former Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Dwight D. Eisenhower, the late New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and former Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York and Clifford P. Case of New Jersey.

Born in Washington, March 13, 1916, Roosevelt graduated from Harvard in 1938 and was briefly employed by William Filene's Sons Co., a department store in Boston, before joining the Navy in 1941.

During his five years in the Navy he attained the rank of lieutenant commander and served aboard the aircraft carriers Wasp and Hornet.

He was the holder of the Bronze Star.

For several years after leaving the navy he was with Grayson-Robinson Stores in Los Angeles. After stints as president and director of the Regency Fund investment company and president of Universal Products Inc., Roosevelt joined Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc. in 1957. He retired as senior vice president and board member at Bache last December.

Roosevelt had served as a trustee of the State University of New York, Marist College and the Eisenhower Exchange Fellowship Foundation, and had been director of the American Foundation for the Overseas Blind.

Roosevelt raised funds for many philanthropies, including the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis — founded by his father — and served on the executive committee of the Greater New York Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

At the time of his death Monday, Roosevelt had homes in New York City and in Tuxedo, N.Y.

He is survived by his widow, the former Irene Boyd, whom he married in 1965, and two daughters by a previous marriage, Anne Roosevelt Luke and Joan Roosevelt Schoonmaker.

Also surviving are three brothers, James, Elliot and Franklin D. Jr.
