Bowie County officials admit bribes, kickbacks

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A Bowie County commissioner and four others indicted by federal grand jurors investigating road material procurement irregularities in three states have pleaded guilty to accepting bribes and kickbacks.

Commissioner Milton Minter resigned his post Wednesday after the panel indicted him, former Bowie County Commissioner Howard Martin of Texarkana, Dallas Thompson of Arlington, John F. Lands of Atlanta, Texas, and George W. Tyson of Murphy. Minter pleaded guilty Wednesday to one count of accepting bribes and kickbacks from road material vendors and Martin pleaded guilty to two counts of the same charge before U.S. District Judge William Steger.

Both men face a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and a $50,000 fine. Thompson pleaded guilty to a single count of racketeering and faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and a $25,000 fine.

Lands entered a guilty plea to one count of promoting illegal acts and faces up to 5 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Tyson, his former son-in-law, faces a possible maximum penalty of three years in jail and a $500 fine for hiding the fact that Martin and Minter had accepted bribes.

Steger scheduled sentencing for May 26.

In Oklahoma, seven county commissioners, one former commissioner and the owners of two supply companies were charged Tuesday with participating in kickback and fraud schemes.

Suspect accused of indecent exposure flops as stunt man

A local man accused of indecent exposure attempted a feat that should be left to professional stunt men, 4:15 p.m. Wednesday.

According to police reports, Officer Bob Lester was writing parking tickets in the area near the Howard County Courthouse when a group of young girls ran up to him, frantic about a man chasing them in a car.

The girls told Lester that the man had stopped and exposed himself to them in the parking lot of the First National Bank, and then followed them when they fled.

Lester radioed for help, and Detective Pat Dunham and Patrolman Frank Smith responded. Detective Dunham loaded the girls into her unmarked car, and went on a search for the suspect.

He was spotted in an alley near the Permian Building, and climbed out of his car as Dunham approached. As she climbed out of the vehicle, however, the man slammed the door on her, and fled on foot.

Officer Smith was waiting for him, though, and it appeared as if the suspect was trapped. But apparently the suspect didn't think so.

He attempted to vault the patrol car, only to crash into its windshield. The windshield cracked, cutting a deep gash in the suspect's leg just above the knee.

He was arrested, treated for his wound, and taken to the Big Spring State Hospital. He could face charges of indecent exposure, fleeing and eluding arrest, criminal mischief and assaulting a police officer.

American teeth healthier Look Ma, no cavities! Look dentist, no job!

BOSTON (AP) — That old advertising pitch — "Look, Ma, no cavities!" — has come true for millions of American children. Fluoridated water, better toothpaste and good care are making the piercing whine of the dentist's drill a worry of the past.

But the good news for patients may mean uncertain times and a changing role for the 448,000 men and women who make their livings repairing tooth decay.

Study after study in recent years has documented a remarkable improvement in the health of American teeth.

Fluoridated water, now available to about half of all Americans, is given much of the credit for conquering cavities. But a soon-to-be-published report shows a dramatic drop in tooth decay even in towns where the water is not fluoridated.

Between 1956 and 1978, Dr. Robert Glass examined the teeth of 1,776 children in the school systems of Norwood and Dedham, two Boston suburbs. In 20 years, he discovered a 50 percent drop in the number of decayed, filled and missing teeth.

Glass, a researcher at the Forsyth Dental Center in Boston, said he found the statistics "amazing" because neither town had fluoridated water during that period. He attributed the change to fluoride toothpaste and mouthwash, more emphasis on brushing and flossing and the introduction of high-speed drills that have improved the quality of dentists' work.

The National Institute of Dental Research in Bethesda, Md., has noticed similar changes. Dr. William Bowen, chief of the institute's Caries Prevention and Research Branch, is overseeing a nationwide study of 49,000 children who live in both fluoridated and non-fluoridated areas.

The results are not all in yet, but Bowen predicts they will show a 25 to 30 percent reduction in cavities in the past 10 years alone.

The institute also is working on a cavities vaccine that Bowen says could be introduced within the next decade. It, too, would help eliminate cavities.

For dentists, cavities are big business. In 1979, Americans spent $3.7 billion on fillings, or about 27 percent of the nation's total dental bill.

Legislators vote to raise drinking age from 18 to 19

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — After weeks of wrangling over alternative proposals, the Texas Legislature has agreed on a compromise measure raising the state's legal drinking age from 18 to 19 effective Sept. 1.

Gov. Bill Clements was expected to sign the legislation as soon as it reached his desk.

The measure approved Wednesday was the third compromise on the drinking age bill to be offered in a debate over excessive drinking on public school grounds.

A Senate proposal that would also have raised the drinking age to 19 became embroiled in controversy when an amendment was added by the House requiring grocers, bartenders and liquor store clerks to verify a youth's age before selling him or her liquor. The amendment would have held liquor operators responsible for all sales of alcohol to minors.

A House-Senate committee voted 8-1 Wednesday to drop the amendment and defeated an effort by Rep. Don Lee, D-Harlingen, to raise the legal drinking age to 21.

Foreign representative defends foreign ownership of land

By JIM DAVIS

Harle-Hans Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Rep. L.P. "Pete" Patterson is finding it difficult to compromise with oil companies and Realtors over his legislation to limit foreign ownership of agricultural land.

But a representative of American Petrofina said that, considering his foreign-owned company's contribution to Big Spring and other Texas areas, it is difficult for him to understand why such legislation is needed.

Patterson, of Brookston in northeast Texas, presented to a House subcommittee Wednesday night six proposed amendments he said were designed to believe the opposition of principal opponents: oil companies, including two foreign-owned ones, and Texas Realtors.

"I've tried hard to address the differences for those folks. As I've said before, I don't want to hurt them. The main purpose of my bill is to guarantee our citizens that have at least an equal shot at acquiring land in this country."

But a few minutes after he said that, the chief lobbyists for those organizations testified before the subcommittee that they remain opposed to the legislation.

Subcommittee chairwoman Susan McBee of Del Rio called another meeting for Thursday evening to continue trying to work out a compromise.

Representatives of Shell Oil, American Petrofina, the Texas Association of Realtors and Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association kept up their attack on the legislation, however.

"We're against the whole premise of the bill," Realtor lobbyist Gerhardt Schutte Jr. told the subcommittee.

Gary Bruner, representing American Petrofina, Inc., said it is incredible to consider his company as a threat to Texas when it employs 2,400 Texans and invests millions of dollars in the state's economy.

"We're the largest employer in Big Spring," he said.

Patterson argued that he had written his amendments to exclude both American Petrofina and Shell from the bill.

Water protection association schedules local meet Friday

People interested in joining the Southwest Soil and Water Protection Association are invited to meet with members Friday, 7 p.m., in the parish hall at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1001 Goliad.

Features speaker will be Houston lawyer, James Blackburn, who has been hired to help prevent well losses and seek damages for water wells which are already ruined.

Formed two years ago, the Association has more than a hundred farmers and ranchers from over a ten-county area in West Texas, which includes Gaines, Yoakum, Lynn, Terry, Dawson, Andrews, Ector, Winkler, Tom Green and Howard counties. The purpose of the Association is to represent farm and ranching interests which have lost their water due to pollution and secondary recovery.

Blackburn says two issues prevail: —Oil company projects are wasting water from the Ogallala Aquifer, an underground lake that supplies the Permian Basin and High Plains with most of its water. Once the water is injected into an oil-producing formation, it never is usable again because it is contaminated by oil and salt.

—Fracturing underground formations and using pressurized water creates the potential for direct contamination of the freshwater table that lies above the oil formation. This happens when well casings are constructed or maintained improperly which allows the saltwater in the oil formation to breach the casing and reach the freshwater. Or, when waste oil and saltwater are disposed in an old well with a rusted casing, they can work their way into the freshwater zone.

Ranchers and farmers in Howard County are urged to attend this meeting and voice their problems to the Association.

BACK TOGETHER — Elizabeth Mackey, 18, lays her head on her husband's shoulder, a Chinese-born ballet dancer who was held overnight by the Chinese Consulate and released Wednesday afternoon in Houston. Li Cunxin, 20, has spent the last 18 months in Houston as an exchange student with the Houston Ballet.

Diplomatic tug-of-war over

Chinese dancer, American bride reunited to continue honeymoon

HOUSTON (AP) — A Chinese ballet soloist and an American ballerina who fell in love and got married, escaped today to a secret location to continue a honeymoon interrupted by a tense diplomatic tug-of-war.

Their 20-hour drama had a storybook ending Wednesday as Chinese consulate officials allowed Li Cunxin, 20, to leave their four-story, steel-grated building — a free man — with his bride of two days, Elizabeth Mackey, 18.

The newlyweds, whose romance blossomed while they were members of the Houston Ballet Company, hurried into a waiting automobile and sped away to a destination so secret even the bride's mother did not know where they were headed.

"They need time by themselves," said Janet Mackey. Asked where her daughter and her new son-in-law would spend the night, she said, "I have to go where they are and I don't know where it is."

Li's attorney, Charles Foster, said he planned to help the dancer apply for U.S. citizenship, but denied that Li would seek political asylum.

Li, a big hit with the Houston Ballet who became a guest soloist, was scheduled to return to China Wednesday. Instead, he informed consulate officials the night before that he had married an American girl and would not be returning after all.

At that point, Foster said, Li was forcibly detained by three Chinese officials.

When he and his bride emerged nearly a full day later, both appeared weary but happy. Li said the Chinese "regretted but respected" his decision.

"I am very happy to stay with my wife in America and work in America," Li said in halting English as the new Mrs. Li clung to him and rested her head on his shoulder.

She did not speak to anyone but held fast to Li's arm as the couple dodged a crowd of reporters shouting questions and fled in the car.

"She knows it's not going to be easy," said Mrs. Mackey, who arrived in Houston Sunday from her home in West Palm Beach, Fla. She said Li and her daughter, who moved to Texas to study at the Houston Ballet Academy, would return to West Palm Beach and live their "a couple of months, to establish residency" after their honeymoon.

Li originally came to the United States as a scholarship apprentice but the dancer impressed the critics last summer and was named a soloist for one season. At that time China granted him an extension to remain in the United States beyond the normal 18 months usually given cultural exchange artists.

Mrs. Mackey said Li met her daughter in November 1979 when the Houston troupe was on tour in Florida. She said their wedding had her blessing "absolutely."

"I found out they were in love last November, but it was growing before that — you could see the signs," she said. "They wish each other well — they care about each other, and that is a major part of love."

However, the marriage apparently took ballet officials completely by surprise.

"We didn't know they had been out (dating) and we were shocked that they could do something like this and we not know about it," said Marcia Carter, assistant to the artistic director of the Houston Ballet.

When the ballet officials learned of the wedding, which was performed Monday morning by a Houston justice of the peace, they advised Li to discuss his future plans with the Chinese officials.

Li agreed, but apparently wanted his dancing comrades to go with him to lend moral support.

So Tuesday night, Li, his wife and nine Houston Ballet officials walked into the consulate to break the news. Foster said that's when three Chinese officials forcibly removed Li from the room.

The others maintained a vigil inside the structure throughout the night, but neither they nor the dancer's teen-age bride was allowed to see or talk to Li, Foster said.

Digest

Reagan on human rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said today the United States should not negotiate with any nation persecuting its people for "whatever reason" if the country refuses to make such human rights violation a topic of the talks.

The president placed a new emphasis on human rights as he participated in a ceremony commemorating the Holocaust — the death of 6 million Jews under Nazi oppression.

Reagan's speech seemed to send a new signal to the Soviet Union, accused of persecuting its Jewish citizens, that this aspect of human rights would be a factor in the administration's dealings with the Kremlin.

However, administration officials said later the speech did not reflect any change in policy. Human rights violations have not been a focus of the administration's foreign policy statements.

"He was reiterating a long-standing U.S. policy that we oppose the persecution of any people, anywhere," said Larry Speakes, deputy White House press secretary.

In denouncing the Holocaust, Reagan declared: "It's up to us to ensure we never live it again."

Theodore Roosevelt said the presidency is a bully pulpit. "Well, I, for one, intend that this bully pulpit shall be used on every occasion where it is appropriate to point a finger of shame at the ugliness of graffiti, and certainly wherever it takes place in the world, the act of violence or terrorism, and even at the negotiating table never shall it be forgotten for a moment that wherever is taking place in the world, the persecution of people for whatever reason, persecution of people for their religious beliefs, that is a matter to be on that negotiating table or the United States does not belong."

Reagan's emotional declaration was warmly applauded by the audience in the East Room, which included two survivors of the Auschwitz death camp.

The president, still convalescing from a bullet wound in the chest, appeared in good health as he walked briskly into the room and mounted the podium, smiling and shaking hands with other speakers.

Consent for abortions

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A girl under 18 could not get an abortion without her parents' consent if a bill before the Texas House becomes law.

House members voted preliminary approval of the measure, 106-27, on Wednesday, and a final vote sending it to the Senate was expected today.

Several legislators wanted to amend the bill, but an unusual move to cut off all such attempts carried, 78-65, in the key test vote on the measure. The decision prevented what was expected to be long and emotional debate.

Representatives also refused to postpone the bill until May 8 so the attorney general could check its constitutionality. Rep. Bill Ceverha, R-Dallas, the sponsor, said Rep. Craig Washington's motion to postpone was a "ploy" to kill the bill.

Under Ceverha's bill, the only way a girl could get an abortion without her parents' permission would be to obtain approval of the probate judge in her county.

A doctor would have to keep a copy of the consent form signed by a girl's parents for two years.

City council runoff vote totals official

The votes of the special city council runoff election were declared official at the Tuesday night meeting of the Big Spring City Council.

For the Place 3 position, incumbent Jack Y. Smith won over his opponent Michael Randle. Smith received 791 votes to Randle's 441.

Robert "Russ" McEwen received 830 votes for the Place seat over Donna Fish, who finished second with 393 votes.

Smith and McEwen were sworn in Tuesday night.

Former city councilman Larry Miller, who chose not to run for re-election, received a plaque from his former colleagues at the meeting.

The council also passed a resolution on the second reading approving state house and senate bills giving $75 million to Texas cities for street repairs. Big Spring would receive approximately $200,000 from the fund.

Herald vending machines looted

Never say it can't happen here!

Sometime Wednesday night, thieves broke the locks on cigarette and vending machines inside the Big Spring Herald. An undetermined amount of change was stolen from each. Police will investigate further.

Thieves stole two glass T-tops from a 1981 Chevrolet Corvette belonging to Robert Petty, 2609 Wasson, sometime between 2 and 11 a.m. Wednesday. The T-tops were valued at $800.

A lawmower was stolen from the front porch of the home of Johnny Rueda, 1206 Mesa, sometime Wednesday afternoon. The mower was valued at $110.

When Anna Dugan, 1200 Johnson, tried to open her front door, 10 p.m. Wednesday, she could have sworn that someone on the other side was trying to prevent her from doing so. She called police from a nearby home, and they found the back door open, but nothing missing from the home.

Officials at Motel Six reported that the tenant who rented a room there for the last 10 days threw "a wild party," resulting in a broken bed and holes in the wall. Cost of the damage has not been estimated.

Four mishaps were reported Wednesday.

A vehicle driven by Carol Hollingsworth, Sand Springs, struck a gas meter at 1108 S. Scurry, 12:19 a.m.

Vehicles driven by Ronnie Long, Knott, and Agnes Morelton, 609 N. Goliad, collided on the 600 block of Goliad, 1:50 p.m.

Vehicles driven by John King, Sterling City Route, and Maria Wornack, 1104 Douglas, collided at Wasson and FM 700, 7:56 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Doris Randle, 3614 Parkway, and Bonnie Brown, 2202 Cindy, collided at Sixth and Gregg, 9:25 a.m.

Mrs. Taylor continued, "We cordially invite all area residents, especially our neighbors in Big Spring who have not already obtained a copy of Margaret's book to stop by for refreshments and a visit during this special event, planned not only to present a unique Mother's Day gift, but also to provide the public with an opportunity to contribute to the worthwhile Gazebo Fund in which we all are interested."

A fire, which resulted in severe damage to a mobile home was reported in the county early this morning.

Carl Dorton, fire marshal for the City of Big Spring, said that it is not known what caused the fire at the Dean Long resident on the Sterling City Route about 3:20 a.m. today.

Deaf youth 'talked' out of suicide leap

MARINA DEL REY, Calif. (AP) — A suicidal deaf teenager was "talked" off a sixth-story ledge in sign language Wednesday by a sheriff's deputy whose own child is deaf, authorities.

Randy Scott Butcher, 18, of Los Angeles, was perched at the edge of the parking structure at about 1 a.m. when he was spotted by a security guard, said Los Angeles County Sheriff's Deputy Merlyn Poppletton.

The guard tried to talk to Butcher and then called the sheriff's department, saying he believed the man was deaf.

Deputy Teresa Hamilton, 32, mother of a deaf child, happened to be in the area and answered the call with her partner.

"A number of our deputies have been trained in that (sign) language," Poppletton said, but in this case it was happenstance. "It wasn't planned that way," he said.

After communicating with the young man for about five minutes, Mrs. Hamilton persuaded him to move away from the edge, and he was taken to County Harbor-UCLA Medical Center for 72 hours of observation, Poppletton said.

In the course of the sign-language conversation, the youth "indicated he had just lost his job and had some financial problems," Poppletton said.

When Mrs. Hamilton first arrived, she signaled to Butcher: "What's wrong?"

Butcher raised his hands and answered: "My parents don't love me anymore, I'm out of work, I'm depressed, I just want to die."

He told her it was his third suicide attempt.

"Come off the ledge and we can talk about it," the deputy replied.

Butcher began to cry, then slowly got up and walked away from the ledge and into the arms of the deputy.

CONTROL ROOM SUPPORT — Tom Beaudin, left, Comanche Peak assistant shift supervisor, and plant auxiliary operator Scott Harvey discuss the role of the Technical Support Center, which has been located above Comanche Peak's control rooms as a result of the Three Mile Island accident. The TSC will provide engineering and management support for reactor operations in the event of an emergency.

16 changes aimed at enhancing safety of nuclear plant listed

More than half of 28 recommendations aimed at enhancing the safety of the Comanche Peak nuclear plant, made in late 1979 by the Comanche Peak Design Review Team, have been implemented or resolved, Texas Electric reported today.

The Design Review Team was appointed by T.L. Austin Jr., chairman of the board of the Texas Utilities Company, shortly after the accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant. The team's purpose was to review the design, construction and planned operation of Comanche Peak to determine if changes were needed because of the TMI accident.

After a six-month review, the six-member team reported finding no major deficiencies in Comanche Peak's design and operating plans. However, it made a number of recommendations for improvements.

The 28 recommendations involved the areas of plant engineering, operations and operator training and emergency planning and preparedness.

Of the 28 recommendations, 16 have been implemented or resolved. For example:

- Limit switches added to pressurizer safety valves will provide positive position indication, and a procedure has been prepared in the event relief or safety valves fail to reset.
- Additions have been made to the Comanche Peak operator training program and all appropriate personnel will complete the full and expanded training program before plant operation.
- Facilities in the plant and off-site which will provide technical, operating and communications support in the event of an emergency are being developed.
- The remaining 12 recommendations will be implemented at later dates.

For example:

- Emergency core cooling system pumps will be run during system start-up testing to verify proper operation.
- The reactor vessel and pressurizer will have the capacity to be vented.
- Before plant operation a test exercise of the Comanche Peak Emergency Plan will be conducted.

In addition, design changes to the plant's control room will include two which were indicated by the TMI accident as necessary improvements.

A display system will be added which will define for operating personnel the plant's safety status. Also, a preliminary control room design review has been completed and improvements will be made so that plant controls and indications will be clear to operators.

Comanche Peak is owned jointly by Texas Electric, Dallas Power & Light, Texas Power & Light, the Texas Municipal Power Agency, Brazos Electric Power Cooperative Inc. and Tex-La Electric Cooperative of Texas Inc. Texas Utilities Generating Company acts as agent for the owners in construction of the plant.

Bill gives booze tax to family violence centers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has tentatively approved a bill that would use some of the state tax on mixed drinks to finance shelters for battered wives and children.

The bill advanced on a voice vote Wednesday, with final passage expected today.

Four percent of the state's revenue from the tax on cocktails — over $3 million a year — would be dedicated to family violence centers. A shelter could get up to 75 percent of its funding from the state if the bill passes.

National leader of deaf speaks to SWCID class

Dr. Jack Gannon, a national leader of the deaf, is visiting the Howard County Junior College District at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus as a prelude to Deaf Awareness Week, which begins next week, according to officials of the institute.

Gannon, executive director of the Gallaudet College Alumni Association, will be speaking to students, staff and community groups about his new book, "The Deaf Heritage".

"The Deaf Heritage" will be part of the curriculum at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf next fall.

May 3-9 has been set aside in Texas as Deaf Awareness Week. The proclamation, signed by Texas Governor Bill Clements, stated that there are more than a million deaf and hearing impaired citizens in Texas.

Some of the sign language classes in the District will work on projects as part of Deaf Awareness Week.

Kangaroo Kourt, promenade Friday

"On Track" is an official column prepared by the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., and lists the various events and meetings being held in conjunction with the upcoming Big Spring-Howard County Centennial to be held May 21-30. Individuals wishing to list their activities and events in this column are asked to call Mel Prather at 267-6373, or bring their items by Citizens Federal Credit Union.

PROMENADE AND KANGAROO KOURT: The second of the promenades will be held at Highland Mall, beginning at 5 p.m. Friday from the Dunlap's parking lot. It will then enter the mall from the east door to TG&Y, travel around the interior of the mall, and exit to the Kangaroo Kourt site. The Kourt will get under way at approximately 5:30 p.m. All Belles, Brothers, and interested individuals are encouraged to attend.

CARAVAN SCHEDULED: The first of the two caravans to neighboring cities will be held on Saturday, May 2, and will visit the cities of Colorado City, Snyder, Gail, and Lamesa to promote the local centennial celebration. Individuals and groups wishing to participate in the caravan are being asked to decorate their cars, with the winning entry receiving a check for $25. The caravan will start assembling at 9 a.m. on the Centennial Store-Headquarters parking lot at 900 Main and depart the city at 9:30 a.m. for Colorado City. All people participating in the caravan are reminded to bring a sack lunch.

COMMEMORATIVE BOOK DEADLINE: All materials to be included in the special centennial commemorative book must be turned in to the Centennial Store-Headquarters no later than noon Friday, May 1. Committee chairpersons are responsible for insuring that all of the names of their committee members are turned in prior to the deadline. The materials can be turned in to Marguerite Cooper on Thursday and Dene Sheppard on Friday at the store.

PEDDLERS PERMITS: Area merchants who have sold their initial supply of Peddlers Permits are reminded that additional permits are available from the centennial store. The permits are to be sold to out of town salespersons for $2 each through the centennial celebration. The permits will be good at the various retail outlets in the city and should be shown by the salespeople calling on local businesses. If they do not have a permit, they may purchase a new one. All proceeds from the Peddlers Permits are to be forwarded to the Centennial Store-Headquarters.

MAY DAY LUNCHEON: Members of the Ladies Country Club Association are having a May Day Luncheon on Friday, May 1, at 11:30 a.m. at the Big Spring Country Club. The luncheon is open to all members and guests and all are encouraged to wear their centennial dress.

STOCK CERTIFICATES: Stock certificates for one share in the centennial celebration are still available to persons interested in purchasing one of these commemorative items. The cost is $5 each and all persons buying a certificate prior to noon Friday, May 1, will have their names included in the centennial program as stockholders in the local celebration.

SHAVING PERMITS: For those of you who may have witnessed the Kangaroo Kourt this past Friday, you are probably already aware that "smoothies" who fail to purchase shaving permits could be in trouble during the Kangaroo Kourt to be held tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. at the Highland Mall. The shaving permits are only $5 each and can be purchased only from the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 900 Main.

Bogus money can be made cheaper

If automobiles, television sets and radios can be made cheaper in other countries, it stands to reason that counterfeit money can be, too.

The story broke recently that bogus U.S. money is indeed being turned out in great quantities beyond our borders — in fact, 20 percent of the amount circulating in this country originates in some country other than the United States. That word comes from the Security Service, which keeps an eye on such matters. The funder the money gets, the less that arm of the Treasury Department laughs.

The job becomes complex for the Secret Service because its watch dogs can't attack the problem at its source.

THE MOST prolific producer of counterfeit money is Colombia where, coincidentally, much of the narcotics sold in this country originates. The Colombia connection has become so grave, incidentally, that the United States government has been seeking authorization for an official presence there.

Colombia-printed bills accounted for roughly 20 percent of the $5.5 billion in foreign counterfeits that were smuggled into this country last year. Far more than that — $60.8 million at face value — was confiscated abroad by resident authorities. Good news? Well, in a way but somewhat less so when you consider what it says about the magnitude of the foreign operations.

Like everyone else these days, both foreign and domestic operators are having to adjust to inflation. Given their way of making money, it's easy — just boost the face value of the bills. A one becomes a ten, a ten becomes a 20, and so on. Largely for that reason, the 'take' in bogus money during 1980 had a face value 20 percent above that of the previous year. The long established favorite phoney — the $20 bill — was down by five percent while $100 notes were up by 69 percent.

THE MARK-UP helps the Secret Service in a way. A counterfeiter trying to pass a $100 note knows that denomination is examined more closely whereas $20 have become rather ordinary. Few people bother to scrutinize them any more. You shake hands with Andrew Jackson often, putting it one way — you have to be introduced to Ben Franklin every time you see him. The Franklin bill is worth a lingering look — the only trouble is, we can't afford to hang onto him for very long, the way things are going.

Dose of theater

Around the rim

Carol Hart

"To Kill A Mockingbird," staged Monday night in the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium by the Dallas Theater Center, proved to be a painless way to enjoy a couple of hours of theater.

There are some people who find stage plays drawn out, but the Dallas Theater Center players found a way to put the classic "To Kill A Mockingbird," into a two-hour production which continued smoothly with plenty of on-stage action separated by a short intermission.

READER'S THEATER, according to the program distributed Monday, was the style in which the play was staged. It proved to be an effective way of retelling the Harper Lee classic to a group assembled for the production.

The actor's themselves served as narrators for segments of scenes which needed some introduction. The actors also explained action which had happened offstage, so that too much time wasn't wasted in aiding the audience with what was happening.

Those who remembered the book by Harper Lee, or the movie, starring Gregory Peck as the 1930s Alabama lawyer, Atticus Finch, weren't disappointed in the play Monday. Because of the great number of characters which take vital parts in the story, about seven actors took 24 different roles, changing their voices and costumes to match what they had to do to make the audience believe in them. And the change-overs were effective, as the seven actors gave each role they played considerable attention. The actors who took the leads in the production played only one part, and each did an excellent job with them. Tim Green was Atticus, the southern lawyer who defends a wrongly accused black man facing a charge of raping a white woman. Green was a very believable Atticus, capturing his slow talking, slow moving ways, and letter the wisdom of his character sparkle through.

PAUL MUNGER WAS Jem Finch, a typical 10-year-old who is always looking for something to get into, or looking for new ways to tease his little sister. Munger gave lots of energy to his role. George Speer was Dil, the neighbor boy who visits the Finchs during the summer.

And Ann Stephens was Scout Finch, the little girl who watches her father take on the most difficult assignment of his career, and who does a lot of growing up on her own during the play.

The play was not bogged down with lots of props, as the players each pantomimed several scenes during the evening. For example, when Jem puts Scout in a tire and rolls her into a neighbor's yard, there was really no tire on the stage, just Jem and Scout doing a believable job of make-believe.

I heard only one complaint about the production. That was that several people towards the back of the auditorium had trouble hearing some parts of the play. But the play was an enjoyable way to spend a Monday night.

Much ado

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — Sometime this fall the Congress may get around to voting on an Administration decision to sell Saudi Arabia five planes with highly sophisticated warning systems known as AWACS. The five will replace four American AWACS planes that the U.S. now flies out of Saudi Arabia for surveillance in the Persian Gulf. The sale of the five will not take place until 1985, and it is possible they will be manned by American crews under American orders. So why the terrible fuss over the AWACS sale now?

WELL, ISRAEL is in the midst of an election campaign. Prime Minister Menachem Begin needs every issue he can grasp to prove that he is a doughty defender of his country. So when the White House announced the AWACS sale last Tuesday, Mr. Begin assailed the decision the following day. But since everybody knows there's an election campaign in Israel, why did the White House announce the decision?

Well, Ronald Reagan has been shot, and nasty tongues in Washington are telling tales that he is not nearly as well as claimed. So the White House is unusually keen to prove the President is in charge. When reports of division about AWACS between the State and Defense Departments cropped up last weekend, the White House saw a chance to demonstrate the President's authority. But why was there division between Defense and State?

Well, unlike Secretary of State Alexander Haig, Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, and his deputy Frank Carlucci, believe the U.S. should woo the Saudis by doing them favors. But how was the Pentagon able to assert itself against the State Department on AWACS at this time? Well, the Saudis pushed the Defense Department to take action on AWACS. They intimated both publicly and privately that an early decision on AWACS was connected with a long-term Saudi policy to keep oil production high, the better to hold prices steady. But how come the Saudis, who are normally given to a low profile, suddenly took such an assertive position?

Well, the explanation lies in an action by Secretary of State Alexander Haig regarding sales of equipment to enhance some F-15 fighter planes bought by the Saudis three years ago. Mr. Haig agreed to sell them the enhancement equipment, but minus some bomb racks which were deemed menacing to Israel. That decision infuriated the Saudis. But why?

WELL, ISRAELI Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir had been consulted by Secretary Haig about that decision in the course of a visit to Washington at the end of February. Haig struck the bomb racks from the F-15 enhancement program, and also gave Israel some concessions on future military sales. The theory was that the Israelis would not then protest the F-15 enhancement program. But how did the secret deal between Haig and Shamir become known to the Saudis?

Well, Undersecretary of State James Buckley briefed two congressional committees on February 26. On February 27, the story of the Haig-Shamir deal appeared in the Washington Star. The Saudis had not yet been notified, so they learned of a decision affecting their security through the press after it had first been made known to the Israelis and the Congress. The story in the Star, moreover, indicated that Haig was giving the Saudis less in the way of F-15 enhancement than they had previously been offered by the Carter Administration. But how come the Reagan Administration offered a different deal?

Well, like most new administrations, the Reagan crew believes it can do everything better. So instead of signing on to the Carter position and ending the matter there, the Reaganites moved on their own and bought a lot of trouble.

Pellet implant kills prostate cancer

Dear Dr. Donahue: I have cancer of the prostate and the doctor wants to use radioactive pellets in the gland. What do you know about this practice? It sounds scary. — N.D.

Everyone is remarkably singular and so, to a large degree, is everyone's illness. Cancer behaves uniquely in each patient. There are a number of ways to treat cancer of the prostate. Which is the best for you will be decided by age, the extent of the cancer and any complicating health problems.

The treatment you speak of is not new or experimental, if that is part of your concern. It has been used for the past 10 years, but it is not done in all parts of the country. That doesn't mean it's not approved in some areas and is in others; it just hasn't caught on all over and it has its advocates and its non-advocates.

The prostate has to be exposed to implant the radioactive pellets, but is left in place. As time goes by, radiation from the pellets kills the cancer cells. It is an effective method of treatment.

I am sure the doctor has taken into consideration all other possible ways of treating you — total removal of the gland, externally-applied radiation and hormone therapy. He feels this is best for you. If my own doctor were to tell me I had prostate cancer and that this was the best way to treat it, I would let him do it. If your doctor knew of your concern about this method, I am sure he would explain why he feels it is the best for you.

Dear Dr. Donahue: Regarding diverticulosis, I would like to know something about when the "osis" becomes "itis." — M.S.K.

Your "osis-itis" refers to diverticulosis becoming diverticulitis, right? You put it nicely. "Osis" at the end of a term means a condition. If everyone had a lower G.I. examination right now, about half of those over 60 would have some degree of diverticulosis. That condition means diverticula (pockets) in the colon (large bowel). They're little sacs that protrude out from the bowel wall. "Itis" means inflammation of those pockets. People with the "Osis" make the "itis" less likely by including sufficient fiber in their diets.

But what if the sacs do become inflamed? For one thing, bacteria begin to grow in the inflammation-blocked sacs. Pain results. About 10 to 25 percent of those with diverticulosis are apt to get the "itis," for which the diet is different. For one thing, you don't want fiber then, but a diet that puts the digestive system to rest. Often bed rest is required, and only liquids are given during the period of healing. Hospitalization and antibiotics may be needed.

To simplify a matter that draws much mail: (1) If you have the pockets (diverticulosis), you add fiber, the stuff your mother called "roughage." (2) If you have diverticulitis (pocket inflammation), avoid fiber. Both conditions are discussed in the booklet "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You." For a copy, write me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Donahue: There may be others as ignorant as I am in this matter. I would like to know whether it is an old wives' tale that bleeding is necessary for the first time of intercourse? I find it somewhat embarrassing to be a young woman in today's fast-paced lifestyle, and not be properly informed, and yet I am reluctant to ask anyone. — In Doubt.

The hymen is a thin fold of skin with blood vessels in it. It is attached to the circumference of the vagina. It may be just a very small piece of skin, or, rarely, may completely cover the vaginal opening. With the prevailing use of tampons, and with so many girls now active in athletics, the hymen may break well before initial sexual experience. If it is still intact, then during initial intercourse the hymen does separate and there is a small amount of bleeding. Bleeding is not tantamount of virginity. That is an old tale. You attribute it to whom you wish.

Dear Dr. Donahue: When I was young I wasn't a very healthy baby, so my mother, being overprotective, did not have me circumcised. I am now 19 and find I have slight pain with sex. I want to know if it is too late at my age to be circumcised. — Anon.

It's never too late to be circumcised

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know that God has forgiven all my sins, but why can't I forgive myself? The memory of sinful things I've done haunts me all the time. What can I do? — C.S.

DEAR C.S.: Why should these things still have a hold on you? Jesus Christ died on the cross to take away your sins. He did this because you needed your sins taken away, and because he loves you. You are now a child of God if you have truly opened your heart to Jesus Christ and trusted him as your Savior and Lord. He has stamped "Forgiveness" on you, and nothing can take that away. The Bible says, "As far as the east is from the west, so far has he removed our transgressions from us" (Psalm 103:12).

Let me suggest several things. First, have you made thanksgiving and praise to God a constant theme of your life? Every day, begin by thanking him for his grace and mercy to you, and let that note of thankfulness be part of your life all day long. Make if you need to be. Explain your problem to your doctor.

Dr. Donahue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor: I would like to take this opportunity to say "thank you" to all the people who helped make the fourth annual Girl Scout Track Meet such a big success.

Specials thanks to — Carroll Hardison for his special way of announcing, to Jackie Hancock and Genie Carroll for their expert way of handling the chore of scorekeeping, to Dorrie Cook and all the people that helped with registration, to Virginia Oliver and all her helpers for the great job done in the concession stand, to Wesley Carroll, Cadette Troop 63, the Thixtons, Tom Henry, Judy Moss, and all the other people that helped keep the events running right on schedule.

Thanks to all the group leaders, and to the BSISD for the use of Blankenship Field. Also, we are obliged to Big Spring Athletics, the Herald and to the parents for their support and encouragement. But most of all — thanks to the girls who participated for their cooperation and terrific sportsmanship.

Guy and Debbie Burrow

the daily reading of the Bible a regular habit, and note how frequently it speaks of the forgiveness of God. "Praise the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits. He forgives all my sins" (Psalm 103:2-3). Perhaps you tend to be a perfectionist and failures bother you more than they do other people. But God can help you deal with that when you constantly thank him for his forgiveness.

Note the way Paul deals with his past in Philippians 3; the memory of his past was still with him, but he said, "forgetting what is behind, I press on toward the goal" (Philippians 3:13-14). He became so preoccupied with God's will for his life, that he did not have time to be worrying about the past. God had forgiven him, and also had things for him to do.

This is also true for you. Seek God's will each day, and thank him always for the grace he has shown you in Christ.

After 100 days

Evans, Novak

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — "Back Reagan!" Diane Rossi whispered to fence-sitting Rep. Lyle Williams as he entered the Holiday Inn-North here last Friday to face social workers lobbying against President Reagan's budget cuts.

Mrs. Rossi is a social worker herself, a supervisor in the Mahoning County (Youngstown) welfare department. But she told Williams that many welfare recipients "are loafers who can work if they want to" and the program "is full of waste."

Once inside the meeting, Mrs. Rossi was lost among 300 social workers frowning and shaking their heads over Reagan's budget outrages. The contrast symbolized her mood in this economically-ravaged former steel city after Reagan's first hundred years. While the city fathers are horrified, there is substantial support for the Republican president from the overwhelmingly Democratic electorate.

WHETHER OR NOT Reagan is the cause, there is hope for economic revival in the Mahoning Valley not visible to us on a reporting trip here almost a year ago. Industrialists who had given up hope for Youngstown have changed their minds because of the new spirit. The United Steelworkers Union has agreed on a plan to increase productivity at Commercial Shearing, Inc., plants here that will close unless they show a profit. General Motors management and the United Auto Workers at the notorious Lordstown plant nearby, after years of shouting at each other, sat down Friday to discuss productivity and quality.

This is the backdrop for the difficult decision facing Rep. Williams, who in 1978 moved from his barbershop to Washington as this district's first Republican congressman in 42 years. No conservative (42 percent by American Conservative Union ratings), he is disliked by businessmen. No liberal (33 percent by Americans for Democratic Action ratings), he is despised by the social welfare establishment. He won an unexpected re-election landslide in 1980 by coming home from Washington every weekend and by cutting a fine line down the middle.

But there is no middle on the budget. Williams soon must choose on the House floor between the Reagan budget and the Democratic alternative of Rep. James Jones. Williams discloses, "I'm interested in the Jones budget," making him one of a handful of Republican House members who might defect on Reagan's first decisive vote. Williams, who carried this district by 30,000 votes while Reagan was losing it by 7,000, does not want to appear as a regular Republican knuckling under to the president. City leaders try to exploit Williams' independence by making ferocious warnings. Pete Stark, senior member of the city council, says angered welfare recipients may kill for food. Mayor George Vukovich fears the city will be burned.

Such talk is fanned by the social welfare bureaucracy. The Holiday Inn emergency meeting was attended by paid professionals, men in three-piece suits and women in expensive dresses, with much at stake. Veteran County Commissioner Tom Barrett commented wryly as he entered the jammed meeting room, "It looks like a save-our-jobs rally by the social workers."

Williams has no intent of saving their jobs. "There is no question that you are going to be cut," he told them Friday. What bothers the congressman is Reagan's plan to eliminate the Economic Development Administration (EDA), credited with the forthcoming construction of a 1,700-job aircraft factory here. Unless Reagan offers a viable economic development alternative, Williams says he "absolutely" will vote with the Democrats for the Jones budget.

YET, WILLIAMS has no illusions about EDA, which he says created 13 new jobs at the cost of $6 million in trying to develop an industrial park here. A major change in Youngstown is that hardly anyone believes any longer that either the rusting steel mills will reopen or that the federal government will provide money for new industries. "This town is going to have to do it itself," contends Democratic City Councilman Roland Fabrizio.

There is help from Reagan's Washington, but not in money, as shown when bureaucrats at the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) started tangling up a modest Republic Steel Co. construction plan in Youngstown. Williams placed a call to the White House, the White House called EPA and the tangling ceased.

That incident helped build pro-Reagan," says highly-respected Democratic State Rep. Tom Carney. "I admit I like him. There's a lot in his program that makes sense." Mahoning County's outspoken Democratic Chairman Don Hanni says, "I think people like the idea of cutting taxes." GM assembly line workers also like welfare cutbacks, according to UAW leaders.

Perhaps you're wondering how we plan to get out of this. So have we.

Most Texas Congressmen did not need pep talk

WASHINGTON — For most Texas congressmen, it was a pep talk they didn't need.

President Ronald Reagan already had the support of most lawmakers from Texas. Many of whom have had a direct hand in shaping the administration's budget package in the House.

Chief among these congressmen is College Station Democrat Phil Gramm, mentioned by name as the sponsor of the measure the President called on Congress Tuesday night to support.

"Even the President's magic can't make a star out of me," said Gramm, a former Texas A&M economics professor. "We're going to win. I think it will be a tough vote but the stakes are high."

The budget proposal Reagan supports — one offered by Gramm, and Rep. Dalbert Latta, R-Ohio — is '97 percent' what the President originally wanted from Congress, administration budget director David Stockman has said.

The "bipartisan substitute" contains beefed-up defense and veteran's programs, but proposes overall less in fiscal 1981 than the President originally called for.

The major alternative to that proposal is sponsored by House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones, D-Okla., whose committee passed a budget r toring many social spending cuts while outline next year's Reagan budget deficit in half.

Gramm said the basic difference between his proposal and the Budget Committee's blueprint is spending differences that increase in each projected year from $25 billion in 1982 to 549 billion in 1983 and $61 billion in 1984.

"Talking about taxes is diverting the attention away from the real issue, which is spending cuts," said Gramm.

Is a nationally televised speech to a joint session of Congress, a robust appearance Reagan called as the politicians to follow his path to "economic recovery" toward a balance budget in 1984.

Rep. James Collins, R-Dallas, said the Reagan budget could pass and said all but five Republican votes out of the House will go with the President.

Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, prescribed the bipartisan substitute would pass the House by 40 in 60 votes.

Hance and most other Texans said Tuesday their minds were made up before the President's first public appearance since the March 30 assassination attempt.

Only Rep. Bill Patman, D-Canada, and Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Laredo, said they had not made up their mind how to vote on the budget.

"He has lost some weight, you can see it in the shoulders," said Rep. Sam Hoff, D-Marshall. "But he has made a remarkable recovery."

Hall said he especially dislikes the Jones bill, which restores $200 million for the Legal Services Corp., scheduled for elimination in the Reagan budget. Hall has sponsored a bill eliminating the agency that provides free legal aid for the poor in civil cases.

Collins said the speech stirred the most enthusiasm he has seen in the House in eight years.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said "The president was an excellent communicator and I think he did what he set out to do. Increase popular support for his economic program, and reassure Americans that the President is back in full command after the attempt on his life."

Rep. Marvin Leath, D-Martin, said he will support the President, but added that the budget proposal should have offered a more substantial cut.

How to plant roses information blooms

DAVID G. FOSTER
 Extension Agent
 Entomology (PMA)
 Martin, Howard,
 Glascock, Upton,
 and Reagan Counties

If you want your rose bushes to give you years of beautiful blooms, start out by giving them a proper planting.

Before you actually start digging — scout out the best possible site for your roses. The spot should be well-drained and receive at least 6 hours of sunlight a day.

If you have a choice between afternoon sun and morning sun — morning sun is best. Morning sun dries dew earlier, cutting down on the likelihood of blackspot, powdery mildew and other common rose diseases due to dampness.

Also — don't select a spot too close to other shrubs and trees. Roses should not be in close competition with the roots of other plants for food and water. Don't plant in a windy area either — gusty winds can quickly destroy open blooms.

After buying the plant, soak the roots in a pail of water overnight. To plant properly — did a hole larger than the bush's root system and mold loose soil into a cone at the center. Prune back any dead or excessively long roots.

Spread the roots around the cone of dirt. After the roots are arranged, fill the hole with a soil-compost mixture until the grafting knob (the knob on top of the root shank at the base of the canes) is just above ground level.

Pour water over the filled hole and gently rock the bush back and forth and up and down. This will settle the soil and eliminate air pockets.

After planting, prune canes back to about six inches, removing any dried or broken wood at the same time. Make all cuts at a 45 degree angle about 1/4 inch above outside buds.

To prevent rose canes from drying out — mound soil 2-3 of the way up the plant. Leave this mound in place until new growth develops, then gradually wash the soil mound away. Once planted, your roses will have the head start they need to produce beautiful blooms for years to come.

When your rose is established be sure to maintain a regular care program including proper watering, fertilization, and spraying for insects and plant diseases.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of social-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

House committee okays tax package reform repeal

Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The author of a comprehensive property tax reform package adopted by the Legislature two years ago was visibly upset Tuesday as he reflected on what he called Republican demagoguery mirrored this week in a House committee that voted to repeal his plan.
 The House Ways and Means Committee, in a tension-packed meeting Monday, voted 7-6 in favor of repealing the tax reform bill that Rep. Wayne Peveto of Orange sponsored last session.
 Three of the seven members that voted to repeal the Peveto package were Republicans.
 The committee vote was in favor of a bill by Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood that would turn back the clock and reinstate the state's old property tax code, with certain exceptions.
 Nabers said he filed the bill because many local governments have run into problems implementing the comprehensive Peveto package.

 But in a move likely to trigger heated House floor debate, the Ways and Means Committee also voted to report out for House Consideration a 105-page bill by Peveto designed to fine-tune the program.
 Rep. Bob Davis, an Irving Republican who chairs the House committee, said the vote was indicative of a lack of support, at least in the committee, for continuing Peveto's comprehensive tax reform concept.
 "I've got to read it as a very damaging vote," Peveto said. "The committee never read Nabers' bill. They just wanted some kind of record saying they oppose tax reform. Tax reform isn't always the popular thing to do."
 "There are some problems with equal taxation," Peveto added. "Some peoples' oxes get gored."
 Peveto's 1979 tax reform bill, among other things, ordered:
 • The creation of county-wide tax appraisal districts to estimate property values for all the taxing jurisdictions in each area.

 • That property be taxed at 100 percent of its market value rather than just part of it — a measure aimed at evening out the tax burden across the state. Local government had been free to set their own assessment rates, the percentage of market value at which property was taxed.
 The committee action left House members in the unenviable position of having to write a property tax code on the floor of the House.
 "It can't be done," Peveto said. "If it is, there will almost certainly be a special session. It just can't be written constitutionally."
 Nabers, meanwhile, views the conflict differently.
 "The Peveto plan just isn't working," Nabers complained Tuesday. "It was just a great theory, and that was all."
 "It's simply not doing what a lot of people thought it would. In some counties it has meant a tremendous tax increase. One county in my area had to raise taxes $500,000 just to pay for the appraisal district."
 Nabers said he planned to sponsor amendments to his bill that would allow counties to keep the uniform tax appraisal districts and strengthen the appraisal process by ordering county commissioners courts to appoint boards of review, or equalization.

GUARDS THE TRUCK — Mary LaPorte, a 71-year-old Charlestown, Mass. resident and the mother of four firefighters, sits inside the fire station that houses Engine 50. Mrs. LaPorte is one of a cadre of housewives and retirees who have been occupying the closed down fire and police stations in Boston due to city budget cutbacks. Over 400 Boston police and firefighters have been laid off recently and the blame is being put on Proposition 2½, a new state tax cutting law, by the residents.

Boston's money woes threaten school system

BOSTON (AP) — As the mayor warned that financial woes are changing this city "from Camelot to Cleveland," the state Supreme Court was hearing arguments today on whether Boston's penniless school system would stay open for the rest of the academic year.
 Meanwhile, citizens angry over the city's recent layoffs of police officers and firefighters blocked some roads into the city for the second straight day today.
 About two dozen people paraded in front of the East Boston entrance to Summer Tunnel under Boston Harbor, one of the major routes into the city from the north.
 In the suburb of Brookline, parents and schoolchildren blocked Route 9 to protest the layoffs of school crossing guards.
 The schools exhausted their $210 million budget Tuesday.
 The full bench of the Supreme Court scheduled a hearing today to decide whether a lower court acted properly when it ordered the city to keep the schools open even though they are broke.
 Mayor Kevin H. White met Wednesday with two City Council members to try to break a deadlock blocking agreement on a school bailout plan.
 He and the full council were to meet late today in an effort to conclude a compromise that would provide money to keep schools open for the rest of the year, cover tax abatement payments the city must make and reopen some recently closed police and fire stations.

 But the issue of rehiring 400 laid-off police officers and firefighters still was unresolved.
 Council member John W. Sears, who was in touch with the negotiators, said the group agreed the city should authorize a $75 million bond issue to pay court-ordered tax refunds to businesses. That would free money already in the city treasury for the schools.
 At the heart of the city's problems is Proposition 2½, a law passed by voters last November that limits the amount of money communities can collect through property taxes.
 Because this means a drop in tax income, White had refused to let the school system overspend its budget, as it has routinely done.
 White warns that Boston may go bankrupt by July 1.

Motel tax funds split, seal coating bid voted

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Council plowed through a four-hour meeting Tuesday night, taking care of such items as the motel occupancy tax and awarding a seal coating bid to Bog and Bobby Nobles for a cost of $23,040; however, several other items for discussion were tabled.
 The council tentatively approved $15,000 to various organizations from motel tax funds. Robert Ramage made an appeal for $1,000 for a compressor for the Seven Wells Diving Club, which the council decided was ineligible, since it is not a non-profit organization.
 However, Ramage did agree if the city would give the $1,000 to the Volunteer Fire Department to buy the compressor, the club will pitch in the difference, to which the council agreed.

 In further action, Porter Richardson asked for funds for the Colorado City Playhouse expansion project, to which was given $2,550. A sum of $3,700 was given the volunteer firemen for three requested projects. Others, who previously had met with the council and were granted funds were: Kindercare, $1,250; Chamber of Commerce, $5,000, and the Jaycees, $1,500. One request for $5,000 for Christmas lights in the downtown area was denied.
 Wrapping up the meeting was approval to advertise for a new police car and for pumps at the sewer plant.

FDA allowing comments on toxic shock warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has given the public another opportunity to comment on whether tampon packages should include a warning that tampons are associated with toxic shock syndrome.
 The Food and Drug Administration placed a notice in Tuesday's Federal Register setting June 29 as the cutoff date for comments. It said new information had developed since the original comment period ended last Nov. 20.

 The FDA says it wants to determine if the need for a warning still exists because of widespread dissemination of information about toxic shock and the decline in the number of cases since last year.

Living costs in Big Spring below national average

Among the 14 cities of more than 500,000 population represented in the first quarter of 1981 Cost of Living Index, prepared by the American Chamber of Commerce Researchers Association (ACCRA), living costs ranged from 29 percent above the national average in New York City to three percent below the norm in San Antonio.

Twelve of the 14 showed living costs above the U.S. average. Of those was Houston, 6.6 percent above average. The averages was based on price data collected for 230 cities of all sizes throughout the country.

ACCRA Cost of Living Index (U.S. Average = 100)

City	Index
New York	129.0
San Diego	118.8
Chicago	116.1
San Jose	116.1
Detroit	109.7
Houston	106.6
Baltimore	105.6
Columbus	103.6
Jacksonville	101.3
Phoenix	100.9
New Orleans	100.8
Indianapolis	100.4
Memphis	99.9
San Antonio	97.0

In comparison, the all-items index for Big Spring was 97.2, or 2.8 percent below the national average for the quarter.

The ACCRA Cost of Living Index, which measures intercity differences in the costs of consumer goods and services, excluding taxes and nonconsumer expenditures, is based on 44 items, for which prices are collected quarterly by the chamber of commerce or some similar organization in each participating city. Intercity differences of three or fewer index points do not indicate statistically significant differences, according to ACCRA.

The all-items index is based on six components. Among the 14 largest cities in the first quarter report, the grocery items index ranged from 96.1 in San Antonio to 103.2 in Baltimore. The housing index displayed considerably greater variation, with a high of 163.7 in San Diego and a low of 92.1 in Jacksonville. Utilities showed the broadest range, running from 75.9 in San Jose to 198.5 in New York City.

For transportation, the range was bracketed by a high of 126.6 in San Diego and a low of 92.2 in Jacksonville. Health care was lowest among the large cities in New Orleans, which posted an index reading of 90.2, and highest in New York, where the index was 141.8. Miscellaneous goods and services cost least among the major cities in New Orleans, with a 97.2 index reading, and most in New York, where the figure was 119.6.

Medal for POWs is proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 142,000 persons would be eligible to receive the Prisoner of War Medal Rep. Robert Badham, R-Calif., wants Congress to authorize.

Badham introduced a bill Wednesday to award the proposed medal to military personnel taken prisoner during world wars I and II, the Korean and Vietnam conflicts and the seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo in 1967.

If a POW were deceased, the medal could be awarded to a relative or a representative. Badham said the medal would not be given to anyone whose service during confinement was less than honorable.

DEFENSE AWARD — Texas Gov. William Clements, right, accepts an award from the American Defense Preparedness Association at a dinner in Washington Wednesday night. Presenting the award is Thomas Pownall, chairman of the board of Martin Marietta Corp.

Rail workers protesting train service cutbacks

By the Associated Press

As a protest snarled rush-hour trains in New York and Philadelphia, thousands of angry rail workers converged on Washington in a nationwide demonstration against proposed cutbacks in government-subsidized Amtrak and Conrail systems.

A sick-out Wednesday by about 1,500 of Conrail's 5,400 employees in New York forced cancellation of 15 of 74 morning-rush trains on the Hudson and Harlem lines and the delay of many others. All 10 Conrail trains serving 3,000 Bronx commuters were dropped during the evening rush.

In the Philadelphia area, a Conrail spokesman said trains ran normally into Reading Terminal on Wednesday but were delayed at two other stations. Service returned to normal by 7 p.m. EDT.

"We had to consolidate some trains and go to an hourly schedule," said Joe Harvey. He said the number of trains affected and the number of workers who called in sick were not immediately available.

AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland, addressing a rally of more than 15,000 rail workers in Washington, called for strong government support of the nation's rail system.

He objected to administration proposals to sell off profit-making sections of the Conrail system to private railroads and abandon lines operating at a loss. Conrail, a private, for-profit corporation, was set up by Congress in 1976 to reorganize and consolidate six bankrupt Northeast railroads.

The administration also has proposed a reduced fiscal 1982 budget for Amtrak that officials said would reduce it to operating only in the Northeast corridor. The Senate Commerce Committee approved the proposal Wednesday. Amtrak was set up by Congress in 1970 to take over inter-city passenger operations from railroads that wanted to drop passenger service.

SMU disease remains a mystery

DALLAS (AP) — Despite the involvement of some of the top medical investigators in the country, SMU's "mystery disease" will probably remain a mystery, federal officials say.

The story began last fall when six SMU art students started losing hair and suffering nerve damage. No new cases have been reported.

Investigators sifted through hundreds of blood and hair samples and even analyzed dust found in closets in an effort to determine the cause of the disease.

The ventilation system in the art building has been improved since the outbreak, Kilbourne said.

Army private charged with 7 murders sought

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The head of a task force investigating the slayings of seven Buffalo-area blacks has begun extradition proceedings against Joseph G. Christopher, a white Army private, his attorney says.

The move came Wednesday after a grand jury returned a sealed indictment charging an individual with three counts of second-degree murder in three of last year's slayings.

Erie County District Attorney Edward C. Cosgrove refused to identify the suspect, saying the name would be revealed after he was extradited from Georgia and arraigned.

Mark Mahoney, Christopher's attorney, told The Associated Press in Atlanta that Cosgrove informed him extradition proceedings had been initiated against Christopher.

However, Mahoney could not say who was named in the indictment.

Meanwhile, detectives from Rochester and New York City, where similar attacks occurred, arrived here to confer with authorities.

"There are basic similarities in the cases," Cosgrove said, adding the person named in the indictment could be a possible suspect in the other slayings here.

The killings began Sept. 22 and 23, when three black males were shot to death in Erie County by a white man using a .22-caliber weapon. The next day, a black man was shot with the same weapon in nearby Niagara County.

Christopher joined the Army on Nov. 13 and was on leave Dec. 19 to Jan. 4.

Witnesses had described the "22-caliber killer" as a young white man with dirty blond hair, aged 25-35 and from 5-8 to 6 feet tall, police said.

Christopher, 25, of Buffalo, who stands a few inches under 6 feet, has dark curly hair and wears wire-rim glasses. He was described by acquaintances as a quiet man, a hunting and fishing enthusiast who reads the Bible frequently in his barracks.

ATTORNEYS SPEAK TO PRESS — Attorneys Kevin Dillon, left, and Mark Mahoney speak to the press Wednesday in Buffalo. The two lawyers have been hired by the family of Army Pvt. Joseph G. Christopher, who is stationed at Fort Benning, Ga.

— MICHAEL PAUL, MGR. —
SNYDER HWY. 263-4357

San Antonio, Texas (AP) — A retired Army First Sergeant whose daughter is married to convicted drug smuggler Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra says federal agents are using gестапо tactics in their investigation of the assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

"I fought against communism and gестапоism and come back here and find the Justice Department is doing the same thing," said Leon "Red" Nichols, whose daughter, Elizabeth, is married to Chagra.

Nichols made his remarks as a federal grand jury questioned his son, Edward, about the May 29, 1979, shooting of Wood, who was known as "Maximum John" because of the stiff sentences he handed drug traffickers.

Chagra, a target of the panel's investigation into the shooting, is serving a 30-year sentence in federal prison for a narcotics conviction.

His brother Joe and convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson also have figured prominently in the investigation.

The grand jury is expected to resume its investigation today.

Harrelson is being held without bond in Harris County jail on state narcotics and firearms charges. Joe Chagra is his attorney.

Nichols, who fought in Korea and served two tours of duty in Vietnam, said federal agents tapped phones belonging to him and nine other Chagra relatives.

He said neither he nor his son, who took the Fifth Amendment during the ten minutes he appeared before the panel, had any knowledge of the shooting and were being questioned only because they were Chagra's relatives.

"You can pick your friends, but you can't pick your relatives," said Nichols, who has testified twice previously about his connection with Chagra and accused the Justice Department of "harrasment."

Edward Nichols said after he testified that he had been ordered to return and testify May 20 and that he would waive his Fifth Amendment rights if he was granted immunity.

"I'll go ahead and testify. I don't have anything to hide," he said, adding he would continue to claim the Fifth Amendment if he was not offered immunity.

Records in federal court in Kansas show FBI agents taped conversations Jimmy Chagra had with his brother, his wife, their three children, the Chagras' mother, their sister, both the Nichols and Joe Chagra's legal secretary.

Other witnesses appearing Wednesday included Laura Latona, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Doug Mo, ShreveBbby Hot Las es, Nev., none of whom would comment on their testimony.

Bill tightening governor's control over paroles OKed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' bill tightening his control over paroles has won tentative House approval after representatives rejected another measure taking the governor out of the parole process altogether.

The governor's bill advanced, 103-35, and final passage was expected today. That would send the measure to Clements' desk for signature.

Before passing Clements' bill, the House voted 89-58 to table a measure by Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, stripping the governor of his power to approve or deny paroles.

In the forefront of the debate was the fact that Clements has denied 26 percent of the paroles submitted to him since he took office in 1979 — probably more than any other Texas governor.

Rep. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, sponsor of Clements' bill echoed the complaint of the governor's staff that the Board of Pardons and Paroles recommends too many prison inmates for parole.

"Texas has one of the most lax and most lenient parole systems of any state. You can be released after serving one-sixth of your time," Geistweidt said.

When Clements vetoes paroles, "he is speaking with the voice of the people. He is speaking with the street sense of the man on the street," Geistweidt said.

Washington said the governor and his staff lack the expertise to judge parole cases and he predicted that the system could lead to some future governor selling paroles.

"We will have a scandal in the governor's office by some governor who sells paroles," he said.

The three-member board and the six independent parole commissioners make up three panels that recommend paroles to the governor. The governor may grant only paroles recommended by the panels.

Clements' bill would take away the commissioners' independence and make them employees of the board. The governor, instead of the board members, would designate the chairman and vice chairman of the board.

Also in Clements' bill is provision for state-funding of halfway houses for parolees.

Six killed in blaze

HOUSTON (AP) — Two adults and four children died when an early-morning fire raged through their one-story, brick duplex in northeast Houston. Firefighters responded to the call at about 4 a.m. today.

A Houston fire department official said the duplex was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived at the scene. The bodies were discovered after the blaze was extinguished. The side of the duplex where the bodies were found was heavily damaged. One person in the other side of the duplex escaped injury.

No names or ages of the victims are available pending an autopsy, the fire department official said.

The cause of the fire is under investigation.

First sub-500 team to make NBA finals since 1959

Houston Rockets make history

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Who could have guessed it?

With a losing record in the regular season, the Houston Rockets were supposed to provide an early playoff tuneup for powerful Los Angeles and San Antonio, then humbly step aside to watch the championship finals of the National Basketball Association.

But the Rockets will be playing, not watching. Writing one more chapter in a storybook season, Houston outscored Kansas City 11-4 in the final three minutes Wednesday night to defeat the Kings 97-88 and win the Western Conference championship four games to one. The Rockets, who finished the regular season 40-42, will face either Boston or Philadelphia in their first appearance in the NBA finals in the history of the franchise. And they are the first sub-500 club to reach the championship round since the 1958-59 Minneapolis Lakers.

"This team developed over the year," said Rocket Coach Del Harris. "It wasn't until the last 30 games I began to insert Billy Paultz into the lineup. Robert Reid has become a man in the NBA the past few weeks. This team went from being a bunch of individuals going off in all sorts of directions to a team of individuals who love each other."

Paultz scored 12 points and Reid 14, but it was center Moses Malone who destroyed the Cinderella season the Kings were trying to write. Malone scored 21 points in the first half to help erase a 23-12 Kansas City lead and finished with 36.

"We played solid defense," said Malone. "That's the only way we could get here. We got our heads together. We wanted to show the people of Houston we could make the playoffs."

Nobody thought Kansas City would get this far, either. Finishing with an identical 40-42 mark, the injury-racked Kings ousted Portland and Phoenix in early playoff rounds.

"I love both these teams," said Harris. "I would be proud to coach either one of them."

Kings Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said he'll be cheering for the Rockets.

"I want Houston to win the championship," he said. "My hat's off to them. I've got a great group of guys who never gave up. Finally, tonight, we just couldn't overcome. Moses was the biggest factor, but give credit to Billy Paultz, Robert Reid and all the rest of them. They just did a better job than we did and they deserved to win."

Portland and Phoenix in early playoff rounds. "I love both these teams," said Harris. "I would be proud to coach either one of them."

The Rockets never led until Bill Willoughby hit two free throws for a 79-77 advantage with 10:11 to play. After Sam Lacey's two free throws cut Houston's lead to 86-84 with 3:27 to play, the Rockets took control, with Malone, Tom Henderson and Reid hitting buckets and Paultz making two key rebounds.

Final NFL draft pick surprised

By the Associated Press
— Phil Nelson feared he had missed his only chance to play professional football by dropping out of Delaware after academic ineligibility forced him off the team midway through last season. But Nelson was the last player picked — No. 332 — when the National Football League completed its college draft Wednesday. The 6-foot-8, 225-pound tight end was the choice of the NFL Champion Oakland Raiders.

"I always wanted to play pro ball," Nelson said during a telephone interview from his girlfriend's apartment in this Washington suburb.

"I definitely thought my chances were lessened when I dropped out of school and the fact that I didn't start the last half of the season. I thought that element would affect my chances of being drafted and playing in the NFL."

But around 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nelson got a call from Raiders tight end coach Bob Michak who told him to "get ready to work" because the Raiders are a "proud organization."

Nelson said his first reaction was, "Wow!" "I don't know. I just have a lot of mixed emotions. A lot of people have been calling me and I haven't had a chance to sit down and think about it," the 22-year-old native of Washington, D.C. said.

And because he was the last pick in the draft, Nelson has won the Irrelevant Man of the Year award. The dubious honor will give him a trip to California where he will be entertained in a program June 27-28, sponsored by a group of businessmen.

Billie Jean King shocked at suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An attorney for tennis star Billie Jean King says a suit will be filed soon against a wheelchair-ridden hairdresser who has sued her for "palimony," claiming the two lived together in a homosexual relationship during the early 1970s.

King said in a statement Wednesday the allegations by Marilyn Barnett, 32, were "untrue and unfounded," and that she was "shocked and disappointed" by her former employee's action. Her attorney said King's suit will seek to have Barnett evicted from a house owned by King and her husband, Larry.

Barnett filed suit Tuesday for an interest in the house she says King bought for her BOSTON (AP) — A full house at Boston Garden, reliving past nightmares, poured onto the floor when it beheld a strange and wondrous sight — M.L. Carr latching onto a game-clinching rebound.

His retrieve with one second left secured Boston's 111-109 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Wednesday night that kept the Celtics breathing in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The thrilling victory left the 76ers with a 3-2 lead heading into the sixth game of the Eastern Conference championship series Friday night in Philadelphia.

Until the come-from-behind victory, the Celtics' playoff fortunes seemed to be repeating themselves.

Last season, the Celtics drew a bye in the opening playoff round, then won their first series in four straight games. It happened the same way this season.

Both times, with the home-court advantage, they then faced the 76ers and dropped three of the first four games, winning the second matchup here.

In the fifth game last season, the Celtics were eliminated in a one-point loss here.

"I could sense by the way we were playing that this would be different," said Boston forward Kevin McHale. "In the other games, instead of playing with poise at the end, we were clutching and not moving the ball well."

"Finally, at the end of the game we came through. The guys just didn't give up. I guess that's what the Celtics are all about," said Boston guard Gerald Henderson.

Philadelphia led 109-103, but Nate Archibald, who had 23 points, made a three-point play with 1:20 left. Larry Bird, who led all players with 32 points and 11 rebounds, then hit a basket with 47 seconds to go.

With 20 seconds left, Carr grabbed an offensive rebound and was fouled by Julius Erving. He made both shots and Boston led 110-109.

When Bobby Jones missed an off-balance shot, Carr got the rebound, was fouled with one second left and sank one shot. He deliberately missed the last two free throws, hoping the clock would run out in the rebound scramble.

But Philadelphia got the ball and called time out with one second to go. Bird tipped and Robert Parish stole Jones' inbound pass as time expired.

The 76ers were scoreless after Darryl Dawkins' two free throws with 1:51 to play. Philadelphia was hurt by the loss of playmaker Maurice Cheeks, who didn't score. He left the game 45 seconds into the second quarter and didn't return.

Guard Lionel Hollins led the 76ers with 23 points, and Dawkins and Erving added 21 apiece. But Erving had just two rebounds, and the 76ers' other starting forward, Caldwell Jones, grabbed just six and went scoreless in 34 minutes.

SQUEEZE PLAY — Philadelphia 76ERS Daryl Dawkins steals the ball from Boston Celtics Cedric Maxwell and Maxwell finds himself crushed between Dawkins and 76ERS Julius Erving during first period National Basketball Association playoff action Wednesday night at Boston Garden.

Trevino likes rough in Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Lee Trevino, a winner the last time out, heads a tour-tested group of Texans who rank as the major challengers in the $350,000 Michelob-Houston Open golf tournament.

Of the 17 Professional Golfers' Association Tour events held so far this year, six have been won by a handful of Texans who are expected to exert a major influence on the 72-hole fest which started today on the 6,918-yard, par-71 Woodlands Country Club course.

The winners include Trevino (Tournament of Champions), Dave Eichelberger (Tallahassee), Tom Kite (Inverrary), Bill Rogers (Heritage) and Bruce Lietzke (San Diego and Bob Hope).

They're joined by such proven performers as Ben Crenshaw; John Mahaffey, a former PGA champ and now representing the host club; Charles Coody, Don January and Miller Barber.

"It's a thrill to win any tournament," said Rogers, who shot a 64 in Wednesday's pro-am event, "but, yes, it would be something special to win here."

Trevino, Kite and Rogers have a history of success here. All finished in the top seven last year.

The course this season is lined by extremely deep, difficult rough, which places a premium on accuracy. And Trevino, Kite and Rogers are among the more accurate players in the game.

"Man, you get it off the fairway and you've got no chance of reaching the green," said Trevino, a playoff loser in this tournament a year ago.

"The rough is like (U.S.) Open rough. And I like it," he said. "That's the kind of course I like to play."

Curtis Strange is the defending champion. Although he has yet to win this season, he's played well most of the year and won more than $100,000, while finishing second in one event and third in two others.

Other standouts include Johnny Miller, winner of two 1982 titles, Hale Irwin, Hubert Green, Lanny Wadkins, Jerry Pate, Tom Weiskopf and Arnold Palmer.

Billy Brawl sparks A's over Angels

By The Associated Press
The Oakland A's were involved in two fights with the California Angels, and Manager Billy Martin was right in the middle throwing punches, right?

Well, not exactly. He acted as a peacemaker for the most part as the two teams tangled during and after Oakland's 6-4 victory Wednesday, giving the A's the best April record (18-3) in baseball history. But that's not to say Martin didn't appreciate the extra activity.

"It was a pretty good fight, I saw at least three guys get punched good," said Martin, who has achieved considerable notoriety for his on-and off-field fisticuffs in the past.

The first fight occurred in the eighth inning after Dan Ford hit a homer for California's final two runs. As he rounded the bases, A's catcher Mike Heath asked plate umpire John Shulock to inspect Ford's bat for doctoring, which incensed the Angels' outfielder enough to grab Heath, emptying both benches.

Martin was more involved in fight No. 2, which occurred after the game in a walkway leading to both clubhouses.

"Tom Morgan (Angels pitching coach and former Martin teammate with the New York Yankees) tried to get in a fight with our players. Coaches are supposed to break up fights, not start them," Martin said. "I pinned him up against the wall with my elbow against his throat. (Angels Manager) Jim Fregosi grabbed me and I appreciate it because I was ready to deck Morgan. I got stepped on and got three holes in my shoes and I didn't even get to throw a punch. The next time he does it I will personally deck him."

In other American League games, the Yankees beat Detroit 3-2, Toronto defeated Milwaukee 5-0 in 14 innings, Baltimore blanked Chicago 3-0, Texas shut out Boston for the third straight day, 5-0, and Minnesota and Seattle fought to a 7-7 tie in the eighth inning before rain washed out the game.

Mike Norris, a principal in a brawl involving Oakland and Seattle earlier this season, stayed out of the fights this time. He concentrated his energies on pitching his fourth complete game and picking up his fifth straight victory this season with a five-hitter.

Yankees 3, Tigers 2
Dave Winfield's two-run homer broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning and handed Detroit its 10th straight loss.

Winfield, who signed a eight-figure, free-agent contract during the offseason, has hit well for the Yankees so far, but his shot into the right field seats off Detroit starter Jack Morris, 1-3, was his first homer in a Yankee uniform.

WORDS OF CAUTION — California Angels coach Bobby Knoop (l) and Oakland A's manager Billy Martin hold Angels catcher Ed Ott after both benches emptied for a fracas in the eighth inning at Oakland Wednesday. The scrap started while Oakland catcher Mike Heath and umpire Vic Voltaggio examined Dan Ford's bat after Ford homered. A's won, 6-4.

Darwin's 1-hitter blanks Bosox again

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Guess what? Danny Darwin got guessed out of a slot in the no-hitter section of baseball's Hall of Fame.

Darwin guessed wrong in the sixth inning, Boston center fielder Rick Miller guessed right and the result was Miller's single to left field, the only hit the Red Sox managed off Darwin, who had struggled until Wednesday night.

"If I hadn't second-guessed myself I might have had the no-hitter," Darwin said after the 5-0 win, Texas' third straight shutout of Boston. "I shook off a fastball signal to throw him a slider."

"I was looking for a breaking ball," said Miller. "He hadn't thrown me anything but fastballs and with a 2-2 'waste' pitch coming up I guessed it would be a breaking ball."

"It was a good inside pitch," Darwin said, "but he is a good inside-out hitter."

Although Miller spoiled Darwin's no-hitter, he could not spoil the joy in the Ranger clubhouse at Darwin's first strong performance of the season.

Jackie Brown (pitching coach) got him straightened out," said Texas Manager Don Zimmer. "He was stepping wrong — stepping toward third and trying to throw across his body. Jackie worked with him for two days and look at the difference."

Brown, however, did not accept the credit. "He did it," Brown said, jerking his thumb in Darwin's direction. "He worked past tense to get his delivery straightened out."

"I looked at some films of my last game against New York (a 5-1 loss), then looked at some films from last year," Darwin agreed. "I was throwing across my body — it wasn't hard to fix the problem once I knew what it was."

Texas outfielder John Grubb got the game winning RBIs with a bases-loaded double off Boston starter John Tudor, 1-1, in the first inning.

Al Oliver added a 2-run homer in the eighth, driving a fastball into the right field bleachers against a stiff breeze.

Darwin recorded seven strikeouts and gave up five walks, but with the help of some defensive gems, faced only 31 batters, four over the minimum.

The only Boston batter to reach second base against Darwin was outfielder Dwight Evans who walked in the seventh and moved up on an infield out, but died there when Carl Yastrzemski lined out to first and Carney Lansford grounded to third.

Astros use uncommon power to beat Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — An "accidental" home run by Houston's Craig Reynolds and another homer by Denny Walling that Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox thought was a "routine fly ball" contributed to the Astros' modest three-game winning streak and sent the Braves reeling to a fourth straight loss Wednesday night.

Houston's Jose Cruz got the game winner with a two-out, ninth-inning, run-scoring single off loser Rick Camp, 2-1, to snap a tie and give the Astros a 5-4 victory.

The Braves had tied it at 4-4 in the eighth with a two-run blast by Dale Murphy and an RBI single by Bruce Benedict.

"Anytime I hit a home run you know it's an accident," said Houston shortstop Reynolds. "I am just a singles hitter who tries to find the holes."

Reynolds' solo shot, only his fourth in three seasons with the Astros, gave Houston a 4-1 lead and followed Walling's home run that just sailed over the glove of Dale Murphy and dropped over the center field fence in the seventh inning.

Until that inning, Atlanta starter Bob Walk had allowed only one hit and was locked in a 1-1 tie.

"I said great when Walling hit it. I thought it was just a routine fly ball and then it took off," said Cox.

The homer barrage set up the heroics for Cruz, who is hitting only .200 and was hitless in four at-bats until the ninth.

Reynolds scored three runs, including the game-winner, his double following Walling's one-out single. Walling was thrown out at the plate trying to score on a ground ball before Cruz ripped Camp's fastball to right field.

"Zero for four was enough. At least I got one and it was the big one," said Cruz, who said the game-winning hit was "nothing new. I had 16 last year."

So far, however, Cruz, a .300 hitter in three of his last five seasons, had only six RBIs and no game-winning hits before Wednesday night. "I'm no .200 hitter and I think everything's going to change now. I know I'm a .300 hitter," he said.

"It's a start," said Houston Manager Bill Virdon of the winning streak. "We still have a long way to go but we're not going to lose with the pitching we've got."

Frank LaCorte, 1-0, the Astros' fourth pitcher of the night, picked up the victory. Starter Vern Ruhle had to come out in the fourth inning when his back stiffened.

Five years ago, MERIT astonished critics of low tar smoking. Astonished them by delivering taste way out of proportion to tar.

And a new era in smoking began.

Today, former higher tar smokers are part of an unprecedented groundswell of support for MERIT.

Research Verifies Smoker Surge

Switching studies confirm it. 90% of smokers switching to MERIT are coming directly from higher tar cigarettes.

Fact: Since its introduction, MERIT has gained more smokers than any other low tar brand!

MERIT: Taste Success

MERIT continues to win higher tar smokers with its unique combination of taste, ease of switch, and long-term satisfaction.

Today's products: Better or worse?

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Modern technology has broken down.

Newer doesn't always mean better. To many people, it means worse.

Half of the people questioned by the American Society for Quality Control in a survey of 7,000 households late last year said the quality of American products had declined over the past five years.

The society, which is made up of people who work in the field of quality control, said one-fourth of the public thought quality had improved and one-fourth thought it had stayed the same.

A little more than 27 percent of the people questioned said foreign-made products are better than domestic ones; just under 24 percent said U.S. products are better. The rest said imports and domestic goods are equal.

There is no single, objective standard by which to judge the thousands of consumer products on the market. Quality frequently is in the eye of the customer.

People in business, in government and in the consumer movement generally agree that the basic quality of big-ticket items — cars, major household appliances and television sets, for example — is better than ever, whether the public believes it or not.

There is less of a consensus about things like small appliances, clothing and the gadgets of everyday life in the 1980s.

"It's mixed," said Ralph Nader, when asked about quality. "Some products are not made the way they used to be," said the long-time industry critic. Small appliances seem to break more quickly. "Clothes," Nader said, "are falling apart."

Does the public care? Monte Florman, director of the technical department for Consumers Union, the non-profit testing organization, said he believes that many of today's products break more quickly. The small appliance industry, Florman said, "has gone the direction of proliferation and throwaway ... But people don't seem to mind it."

Statistical measurements of quality can be tricky. The average age of the automobile on the road today, for example, is increasing. It was 5.5 years in 1968 and 6.4 years in 1979, according to the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association. Does that mean cars are lasting longer? Or does it mean that people are driving them longer because they cannot afford new ones?

The number of complaints to the Better Business Bureau is rising. The bureau handled just over one million complaints — a record — in 1979, the latest year for which complete figures are available. But most of those complaints dealt with services rather than with products. And no one knows whether the increase in complaints reflects an actual decline in quality. "People are much more likely to complain today," noted Nader.

Jay W. Leek, president of the 37,000-member Society for Quality Control, said things are not as bad as they seem. "Personally, I do not believe products are any worse today," he said. "In fact, I believe they're better."

Leek said, however, that there was a trend in the 1960s and 1970s toward "planned failure." Manufacturers kept changing products in an effort to get people to buy new models. Today, that policy won't work, Leek said. "Planned obsolescence is obsolete in the 1980s."

It is hard to assess quality. There are several reasons: —Modern technology is complicated. Repairing a television set is much more involved than replacing a tube or two. You can't simply take a screwdriver, tinker under the hood and fix your car yourself. Power steering and air conditioning didn't used to break down because there was no power steering or air conditioning. Automobiles, said Nader, are safer. "The problem is they're more complex." That means more things can go wrong.

—There is a shortage of skilled repairmen, particularly in the auto industry. What starts as a minor problem becomes a major headache when it isn't fixed the first time.

—We know more than we used to. Older products may have had just as many potential hazards, but we weren't aware of them. There was no mechanism for recalling unsafe items, for example. "The general quality (of products) has improved over the years," said John Bell, spokesman for the Consumer Product Safety Commission. But he said that publicity about problems has made the public more aware of them.

—There is no fixed definition of quality. Is durability the test? Cost? Is a new, lightweight, three-speed hairdryer that costs $15.95 and lasts two years better or worse than an older, heavier, two-speed model that cost $29.95 and lasted five years? How important are energy efficiency and safety? Nader said, for example, that people don't think about auto safety until they have an accident. "It's the rattles and the bugs that people complain about," he said.

At Consumers Union, Florman said: "Except for automobiles, I'd have to say things are better than they used to be ... Major appliances are probably better than they've ever been ... TV sets are terrific..."

The automakers take exception to Florman's exception. "By any objective measure, they (cars) are made better," said Thomas H. Hanna, senior vice president of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association. He said today's autos need less regular maintenance and fewer repairs than older models.

"We feel that our people are committed to building the best product we can," said Don DeVoto, quality control director at the General Motors assembly plant at Tarrytown, N.Y., which produces X-cars, the compact GM introduced in 1979 to compete with the imports.

GM is staking its quality reputation on its forthcoming J-cars, sub-compact which will go on sale May 14. The company says it has improved "fits and finishes" — things like body work and joints. The side frame of the four-door model will be stamped in one piece to eliminate joints and weld marks. Robots will be used for some of the welding and to check the accuracy of things like windshield size.

The number of automobiles recalled every year already has declined. Just under four million domestic vehicles were recalled last year, compared to about seven million in 1979, eight million in 1978 and a record 10.7 million in 1977.

At the same time, however, 62 percent of the more than 2,500 people questioned in January by the marketing research firm of H.R. Bruskin said the quality of new automobiles was not as good today as it was 5 or 10 years ago.

Other products fared nearly as poorly. Fifty-one percent of those surveyed said furniture isn't as good as it used to be; more than 45 percent said the quality of appliances and clothing was down. In each case, less than 20 percent of the public said quality had improved.

Leek also said the perception of poor quality is important. "Whether it's true or not becomes somewhat immaterial," he said.

Leek said that foreign manufacturers have "done a wonderful job in the past 15 years" of making their products last longer.

John Nevin, chairman of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., disagrees. "American quality tends to be very good," he said. "The perception of shoddy American quality is a uniquely American perception."

Nevin added, citing air planes, computer technology and weapons systems as examples of U.S. products that are in demand around the world.

Leek also said the perception of poor quality is important. "Whether it's true or not becomes somewhat immaterial," he said.

Leek said that foreign manufacturers have "done a wonderful job in the past 15 years" of making their products last longer.

Casinos allowed choice of entertainment policy

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Atlantic City casino hotels may offer as little entertainment as they wish for the next six months under a New Jersey Casino Control Commission experiment.

The commission Wednesday voted 3-2, with Chairman Joseph P. Lordi and Commissioner Don M. Thomas dissenting, to allow casino hotels to set their own entertainment policies between now and late October, traditionally Atlantic City's busiest period.

The commission will study the industry's show offerings during the six-month period before deciding whether to abolish permanently a rule requiring live theater entertainment nightly, according to commission spokesman Ben Borowsky.

Lordi and Thomas said they favored minimum entertainment requirements during the experiment. The commission also agreed to consider a proposal to require casino hotels to offer live theater entertainment for at least five nights a week from Easter week through Thanksgiving week and at least three nights a week throughout the winter.

Borowsky said the proposal would allow an average of three and five nights of entertainment a week, meaning that casino hotels could offer a show daily for several weeks and close its theater for a period afterwards.

The casino hotel industry had cited the commission's requirement for nightly live entertainment as "one example of state 'over-regulation' it claims is cutting into profits and stifling future investment."

The industry contends it should be free to set its own entertainment policy according to patron demand. It claims that name acts and Las Vegas-style revues often play to a handful of customers, especially during winter weekdays.

Arnold Fleischman, executive vice president of the Golden Nugget casino hotel, said the facility lost about $250,000 when Willie Nelson performed during a week in December. Fleisch-

Blinky the Lion will be knocking on local doors

Blinky the Lion will be knocking on Big Spring doors next week.

It's time for the annual Downtown Lions Lightbulb sale, and teams will be canvassing the city starting Monday afternoon.

In addition to the traditional packet of six bulbs (60, 75 and 100-watts), Lions this year will be offering three-way bulbs.

All net proceeds go to humanitarian projects of the club, principally blind and sight conservation work. Normally, the club furnishes upwards of 100 pair of eye glasses to children who could not afford to buy them. Some also go to adults. Lions also said in deaf programs, also support the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children, the camp for diabetic children, also youth programs.

Team captains for the effort are Jimmy Holmes, Frank Wentz, Carl Smooth, Tommy Welch and Vic Keyes.

man complained that Golden Nugget's 524-seat show theater did not all out for Nelson's engagement.

Howard Casper, attorney for Musicians Union Local 661-708 of Atlantic City, argued against suspension of the daily entertainment rule. Casper said the suspension will put musicians and other performers out of work.

Stock in the Great Bay Hotel Corp., a parent firm of the Brighton, is expected to be transferred to the Texas firm on Friday.

Baylor president opposes Smith as Baptist leader

DALLAS (AP) — Baylor University president Abner McCall has agreed to oppose the current president of the Southern Baptist Convention, Bailey Smith, in the race for presidency of the world's largest Protestant denomination.

McCall, 65, said Wednesday he did not seek the nomination but agreed to accept it because "a substantial segment of Southern Baptist people" are being excluded by those who support Smith.

McCall has announced his plans to retire after 20 years as president of the Baptist university in Waco.

Moderate Baptists have said they are "truly disappointed" in Smith's leadership and their apprehension grew last week when Smith released committee appointments.

The fundamentalists who backed Smith's election have been carrying out a 3-year plan to take over the denomination through elections and committee appointments.

The moderates say

Smith's recent appointments were stacked in favor of the fundamentalists who favor agency and institutional staffs and faculties who share their belief in a literal interpretation of the Bible.

Dr. Ralph Langley, pastor of First Baptist Church of Huntsville, Ala., will nominate McCall.

"I have asked for and received Abner's permission to put his name into nomination. His nomination will give the convention a clear-cut option," Langley said.

this child's precious feet are brought to you with love from Buster Brown.

Most children are born with beautiful feet. Imperfections may develop later because of poorly fitted shoes. But with our Buster Brown 6-Point Perfect Fit Check, we can determine if your child's shoes really do fit.

1. First, we'll check all-over length from the topmost part of the toes to the hindmost part of the heel.

2. Next, width. It's taken across the ball of the foot ... that cushiony little pillow up front that bears your child's weight.

3. Another length check, from ball to heel.

4. Ankle height has to be just right. Too high or low may cause blisters or the shoe to slip.

Fit is more than just how shoes feel or look. Fit is a whole system of checks and balances which make sure your child's shoes contribute maximum balance and support. Trust Buster Brown. Because even though your child's feet go back a year or two, Buster Brown's perfect fit goes back seventy-six years.

Names in the news

Three Beatles combine

NEW YORK (AP) — They weren't together to record it and aren't back together as a group, but the three surviving Beatles have combined their talents on a record for the first time in more than 10 years, according to published reports.

George's Harrison's new single, "All Those Years Ago," features Ringo Starr on drums and Paul McCartney and his wife, Linda, singing harmony, say the New York Post and New York Daily News.

The Post said the song was about the early years of the Beatles and was a tribute to John Lennon, who was shot to death here last year.

The three former Beatles, who split up in the early 1970s, taped their contributions separately and sources said the reunion was a one-song affair, the Post reported.

But after Starr's marriage to Barbara Bach on Monday, the survivors of the Fab Four spontaneously took to the stage of a London club, the first time they performed together in 11 years, the Post said.

Carter may visit China

ATLANTA (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter wants to do some traveling now that he's not in the White House, and he's interested in visiting China this fall, according to a Carter aide.

Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, are "interested" in making a trip to China sometime this year, possibly with their daughter Amy, aide Phil Wise said Wednesday. Carter earlier expressed an interest in visiting Japan this year.

Danny Kaye to conduct

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Danny Kaye, who says conducting an orchestra is "the greatest feeling of neurotic power in the world," will get a chance to display his brand of lunacy with the New York Philharmonic.

Conductor Zubin Mehta will yield his baton to Kaye in a Sept. 23 "Live from Lincoln Center" broadcast on PBS. The concert will benefit the musicians' pension fund.

"When you think of it as a symphonic concert, it is really not," Kaye said Wednesday. "A lot of craziness goes on."

Mehta said orchestra rehearsals by Kaye are professional and serious. "He has got a clearer beat than three-fourths of my colleagues," the conductor said.

Kaye, who studies by listening to records but can't read a score, has raised $5.5 million for musicians' pension funds with his concerts.

Elton buys 'Goon' scripts

LONDON (AP) — Although the material up for bid was comic, the cash was serious at Christies auction house in London.

When the gavel fell, rock musician Elton John had spent $31,000 for 232 original scripts from the popular British radio series, "The Goon Show."

The comedy series, which starred the late Peter Sellers, still has a big following in Britain despite having ended more than a decade ago.

(AP LASERPHOTO)
NIPPER TO HELP IN ROYAL TV COVERAGE — "Nipper" — the female ferret that is to help Thames Television in London cover the Royal Wedding in July — goes through her paces in London Tuesday. She is to pull a nylon cord — attached to her tail — through a narrow pipe from Buckingham Palace forecourt to a commentary position on the Victoria Memorial outside the Palace. The cord will then be used to pull a TV cable through.

Water district ruling

Supreme Court limits one person, one vote principle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, further limiting its "one person, one vote" principle, says a government-backed Arizona water district can be controlled by people owning at least an acre of land.

The justices, on a 5-4 vote, ruled Wednesday that it was constitutional to exclude the non-landowners from choosing directors for the Salt River agricultural and power district.

The district, referred to by the high court as a "governmental entity," sells electricity to virtually half the population of Arizona through its hydro-electric operations.

The district was authorized and given substantial taxing and other powers by the state Legislature, although the Supreme Court said it had only a "nominal public character."

The project also involved flood control and environmental management and provides water to 236,000 acres of land in the central part of the state.

The Supreme Court set down the "one person, one vote" principle in a 1964 decision governing the election of state legislatures. The ruling said allotment of a legislature's seats must be based on population, not geography, to emphasize the importance of a popular election.

"The functions of the Salt River district are...of the narrow, special sort which justifies a departure from the popular election requirement of the (1964 decision)," Justice Potter Stewart wrote Wednesday for the majority.

The court expanded the 1964 principle to include county officials and later said popular elections were required for trustees of a community college district.

However, in 1973, the justices said the "one person, one vote" principle didn't extend to control of a water district serving a sparsely populated, agricultural population.

The 1973 ruling was based on a finding that the district didn't exercise enough governmental powers to require popular elections.

The court came to the same conclusion Wednesday, even though the Salt River district exercises some traditional governmental powers such as condemning land, selling tax-exempt bonds and levying taxes on real estate.

Measles epidemic prompts vaccinations of students

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A measles epidemic has prompted the vaccinations of 500 high school students and teachers here not protected against the disease, public health officials say.

Dr. Bernard Rosenblum, City-County Health Unit director, Tuesday declared the disease had reached epidemic proportions and ordered the vaccinations to be given to all El Paso public school students who have not been vaccinated or whose vaccinations have lapsed.

School officials said Wednesday they had no idea how many of the approximately 100,000 students enrolled in El Paso public schools will need the vaccine.

Many of the younger students have already received their shots because of state law requirements, officials said.

Rosenblum declared the epidemic after 64 cases of the disease were reported this month. There have been 66 cases reported in El Paso this year. Dr. John Bradley, a state health official, said adequate vaccine was on hand to give the immunization shots.

Officials said the diseases takes from three to seven days to incubate and is marked by fever and a red rash that breaks out on the face and spreads down on the body. The disease usually runs its course in from two to three weeks.

In severe cases, it can cause a swelling of the brain and require hospitalization.

Most of the students who have contracted the disease attend Eastwood High School, officials said.

Outbreaks of measles have declined nationwide, but Dr. John Bradley, director of the state Health Department's Region 3, said there are an increasing number of cases in Texas.

Bradley, whose region includes El Paso County, said the state has "hot spots" for measles in El Paso, Houston and the Lower Rio Grande Valley counties of Hidalgo, Cameron and Starr.

CBS lists top 5 shows to win prime time race

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS entered the rerun portion of the 1980-81 prime-time season in the week ending April 26 in full stride, claiming the five highest-rated shows and six of the first 10, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

CBS' average rating for the period was 16.7, to 16 for ABC and 14.2 for NBC. Nielsen says that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 16.7 percent of the nation's homes with television were tuned to CBS.

A repeat of CBS' "Dukes of Hazzard" was the week's highest-rated show, with a second episode from the same series — pre-empting "Dallas" the runnerup. The rating for the No. 1 show was 24.

Nielsen says that means of all the country's TV-equipped homes, 24 percent saw at least part of the episode.

ABC's "Three's Company" was the highest-rated non-CBS program, in sixth place, with NBC's "Diff'rent Strokes" seventh. CBS had the only two original programs in the week's Top 10 — "Private Benjamin" in fourth place and "Nurse" tied for eighth.

NBC's last-place finish was the network's eighth in a row, though the picture was not entirely bleak. "NBC Magazine," a flop in the ratings all season, opposite the year's No. 1 show, CBS' "Dallas," more than doubled its rating in a new Thursday night slot.

The rating for "Magazine," in the No. 26 position, was 17.5, compared with the 24 for the week's No. 1 show.

NBC and ABC each had two shows among the week's five lowest-rated. "The Gangster Chronicles" NBC was No. 63, followed by "Palmerstown" on CBS, "NBC White Paper," "ABC News Closeup" and "Those Amazing Animals" on ABC.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

"Dukes of Hazzard," with a rating of 24 representing 18.7 million homes, "Dukes of Hazzard," 10 p.m., 23.2 or 18.1 million, "M-A-S-H," 23.2 or 18 million, "Private Benjamin," 22.5 or 17.5 million, and "The Jeffersons," 22.4 or 17.4 million, all CBS; "Three's Company," 22 or 17.1 million, ABC; "Diff'rent Strokes," 20.8 or 16.2 million, NBC; "Nurse," CBS, and "Too Close for Comfort," ABC, both 20.4 or 15.9 million, and "Facts of Life," 20 or 15.6 million, NBC.

The next 10 programs: "60 Minutes" and "The Two of Us," both CBS, tie; "Barney Miller," ABC; "Alice" and "House Calls," both CBS; "Magnum, P.I.," CBS, and "Real People,"

Reagan's young letter writer tired of success

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, N.Y. (AP) — Eight-year-old Peter Sweeney was excited to learn that his get-well letter was quoted by President Reagan in his speech to Congress and the nation but he said today he hoped "this celebrity stuff gets over."

The child was fast asleep at 9:10 p.m. Tuesday when Reagan read the letter, and his father, also named Peter, wouldn't wake him up.

When the boy rose this morning, he said, "My dad told me I was famous, a celebrity... I didn't even hear it!"

He added that he wanted things to get back to normal "so I won't have to take so many telephone calls."

The get-well letter was written as a project for his second-grade class at Riverside School to wish Reagan a quick recovery from the wound he suffered in the March 30 attempt on his life.

The line Reagan quoted said, "I hope you get well quick, or you might have to make a speech in your pajamas." A postscript added: "If you have to make a speech in your pajamas, I warned you."

Reagan wore a blue suit as he addressed a joint session of Congress and read the note.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Congress is back from its Easter recess, and work is beginning again on the President's plan for economic recovery. Though all indications are the public is still solidly behind the Administration's proposals, it will be a tough fight to get them enacted into law. In a representative government, that may sound like an odd contradiction, and it's logical to ask why there is a problem with a plan the people support.

Much of the increased federal spending that has led to recent massive deficits has been for programs designed to provide small amounts of assistance to relatively small numbers of people. The programs frequently became "entitlements," with virtually unlimited access to federal dollars for people who meet the program qualifications. We have learned the hard way that certain people who were not the originally intended beneficiaries learn very quickly how to qualify for assistance.

The result has been spending at much higher levels than originally envisioned — and small but vocal, and sometimes well organized, groups with a direct interest in keeping a specific program in the budget.

In addition, each program has spawned armies of bureaucrats who make their livings administering the disposition of benefits. Regrettably, there are unmistakable indications that in some cases these bureaucrats are spearheading letterwriting campaigns among their constituencies. I have even received multiple photostats of letters with a signature scrawled at the bottom, next to a check mark which presumably was placed by the distributor so the signer would know where to put his name.

It is not surprising that the people receiving the money want to continue to do so. Nor is it surprising that the people who have found jobs administering the program want to keep them. Most of the program beneficiaries can show that the money helps them satisfy some need.

But the problem is that the people paying the taxes also need that money to help make ends meet. The tax burden has become so heavy that there is a real risk of doing irreparable damage to the hard-working men and women who must earn the money that is taxed. We must begin to reduce the crushing tax burden and enable the working people of America to decide once again how to spend their own money.

Let me emphasize that the most needy will continue to receive help from the "safety net" programs. Those who do not fit neatly into the safety net also will benefit, however.

As the size of government shrinks, so will the tax burden. More money will be available for private business investment, and more jobs will be created. That will make it possible for those at the end of the economic ladder to get a solid foothold in the job market.

But an even more important benefit will come from controlling inflation, which hurts the poor proportionately more than it does the affluent. This is because those with the lowest income spend almost all of it on necessities. Price increases don't mean fewer luxuries to these people; they mean fewer necessities. The old economics-as-usual has made our inflation problems worse, and more of the same will mean even higher inflation rates.

For these reasons, it would be extremely short-sighted for the people's representatives in Washington to ignore the often quiet working taxpayer in favor of vocal interest groups.

ANY VOTES OUT THERE — Vice President George Bush, left, and Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. look over members of a joint session of Congress

Tuesday night on Capitol Hill assembled to hear President Ronald Reagan speak to them on his economic package.

Texas congressmen praise Reagan's speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas congressmen reacted enthusiastically Tuesday night to President Reagan's speech, and most of them said his appeal guaranteed passage of his economic recovery program now before them.

"He did an excellent job. He had a firm grip and a great smile and it was apparent he was glad to be back in front of Congress," Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, said after the address.

"My prediction is the bipartisan budget proposal will pass by at least 40 to 50 votes. There's no doubt he won votes tonight, and the speech was so excellent he'll pick up even more votes between tonight and next Tuesday," Hance added.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, termed Reagan an excellent communicator and said he accomplished what he set out to do — "increase popular support for his economic program and reassure Americans that their president is back in full command after the attempt on his life."

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said: "The president has sounded an impressive rallying cry to the Congress for support of a program the vast majority of our people want, a program that will set us on the road to economic recovery."

Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas, said he greeted the president as he was leaving the House chambers.

Lions receive prevue of jillion-ring circus

Downtown Lions received a prevue Wednesday of the jillion-ring circus — The Centennial celebration marking the coming of the T&P railroad and the beginning of Big Spring and Howard County.

Johnnie Lou Avery, in charge of special events, ran past a dazzling array of events for the 10-day super-party.

Katie Grimes appealed for a couple of dozen male volunteers to fill the remaining roles in the "Iron Horse Revue," the colorful extravaganza to be given nightly at Memorial Stadium.

Each of these performances will be climaxed by a laser production similar to that in the Orange Bowl and President Reagan's inauguration. Less than a dozen cities in the nation have seen this production.

There will be a super-bargain season for merchants, a huge flea market; outdoor arts and crafts fair; an all-faith religious, conclave, "Faith of our Fathers" in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum; a railroad day and birthday; centennial ball, and a host of other events.

Just for good measure, a centennial barbershop quartet comprised of Dan Conley, Bill Birrell, Lyn Hise and Chris Showalter, added musical spice to the Wednesday presentation.

President Dub Martin presented Dawn Estes, club sweetheart, with a trophy as third runnerup in the District 2A-1 queen contest last weekend. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Estes, were guests. Martin also read a note of thanks from a Bauer School youngster for whom the club purchased a hearing aid.

Texas prison warden resigns

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Assistant Warden G. P. Hardy has resigned his position with the Texas Department of Corrections' Walls Unit amid controversy over Hardy's published remarks about Eroy Brown, an inmate accused of murdering Ellis Unit Warden Wallace M. Pack and prison farm manager Billy Max Moore.

TDC Director James Estelle announced Hardy's resignation Tuesday.

Hardy was quoted in published remarks as saying, Brown "will die on the needle, and you can count on that." Hardy was referring to his hope that Brown would be executed by the state with a lethal injection. Hardy also said he wanted to administer the injection.

Estelle called Hardy's remarks "not the official statements of TDC. They were the statements of a man who showed mighty poor judgment, who would not have been allowed to do what he stated he would do."

Hardy, who has served as assistant warden at the Walls Unit since 1974, said in his resignation letter to Estelle, "I respectfully seek your permission to retire from service with the Department of Corrections. I would like for this to be my final working day."

BETA SIGMA PHI WEEK — Mayor Clyde Angel, center, has proclaimed this week as Beta Sigma Phi Week, in honor of the organization's 50th anniversary. Accepting the proclamation are Connie Edgemon, City Council secretary, left, and Nancy Fulgham, president, right.

Beta Sigma Phi celebrates fiftieth anniversary today

Political officials ranging from President Ronald Reagan to governors and mayors throughout the United States and Canada have signed proclamations honoring chapters of Beta Sigma Phi all over the world. Today, the woman's social, service and cultural organization is celebrating its 50th anniversary with Founder's Day activities ranging from small gatherings to banquets for thousands of members.

Beta Sigma Phi is the largest Greek letter sorority, and has grown in its 50-year history from one chapter of seven women to a sorority of 250,000 women in chapters in 32 countries.

Beta Sigma Phi has recently been recognized by President Reagan for its philanthropic work, as well as its 50th anniversary. Across the United States and Canada, local and state government officials are signing proclamations that recognize April 30, 1980, to April 30, 1981, as "Beta Sigma Phi Year."

Beta Sigma Phi is also working hard this year to form new chapters in places that have not previously had the benefit of being a part of this sorority. Already, members have formed new chapters in Papua, New Guinea, the Marshall Islands, and United Arab Emirates. More chapters will soon be formed in Indonesia, Samoa, Jamaica, and Bolivia. This effort to form new chapters is symbolic of two goals shared by all members of the organization: that is, to extend the hand of friendship to community women; and to enjoy, to the fullest extent, the opportunities for personal growth that Beta Sigma Phi offers every member.

Life, learning, and friendship are the bywords of Beta Sigma Phi. Begun in the midst of the Depression by Walter W. Ross, Beta Sigma Phi was originally designed to provide an outlet for women who, in those hard financial times, could not attend college and were obliged to remain home and support their families. Walter Ross provided these women with a program of cultural study so they could have a chance at intellectual and social growth.

From the first chapter formed in Abilene, Kansas, Beta Sigma Phi has grown from a small social and cultural group into an international sorority that devotes much time to service efforts. Hardly a charitable, health or cultural group exists that has not been helped in some way by the sorority.

Internationally, the chapters have created several special funds to which they contribute: the International Loan Fund, through which members help each other; the International Endowment Fund, which has donated over a million dollars to health research groups, homes for underprivileged children and many other causes; the Exemplar Fund, which helps support Literacy Village in India; and a college scholarship fund for members or their sons or daughters.

The upcoming Founder's Day celebration will be held today at the Big Spring Country Club. Nancy Fulgham, City Council President will serve as chairman of the Founder's Day activities. She will serve as toastmistress for the evening with other City Council members taking part in the program.

Connie Edgemon, Mu Zeta, City Council Secretary, has been selected to present a special message from the International Executive Council of Beta Sigma Phi. Awards will be presented to local members, and outstanding members will be recognized for their work in the sorority and community.

The Howard County Woman of the Year, selected by the membership of the Big Spring Beta Sigma Phi City Council, will also be presented and honored at this celebration.

Local Beta Sigma Phi City Council projects include the Annual Valentine Charity Ball from which profits are used to purchase needed equipment for local charitable organizations. This year the City Council purchased a knee therapy table for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Next year's charity project is still being explored by the council.

Beta Sigma Phi members not presently affiliated with a local chapter and wishing to attend the Founder's Day Celebration may contact Nancy Fulgham, 263-0692 after 5:00 p.m.

Parents announce birth of son on April 26

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Don Myers, Forsan, announce the birth of a son, Chad Ray, at 6:45 a.m. April 26, in Malone-Hogan Hospital. The infant made his debut weighing 7 pounds 12 ounces and measuring 20½ inches in length. Chad's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wise, 707 Aylford. Mr. and Mrs. Don Myers, Coahoma, are his paternal grandparents.

The new arrival's great-grandparents are Mrs. Nell Hubbard, Mineral Wells and M.C. Forbes, Odessa.

Center acquires Cybex II

Anita Morales, a licensed physical therapist with the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, will attend a three-day conference on orthopedic rehabilitation and sports medicine using the Cybex II Isokinetic Exerciser.

The Cybex II unit is a testing and exercise machine which tests muscle and joint strength, and is used in exercise programs to strengthen weak or injured muscles.

The conference, to be held in Las Vegas, Nevada May 1-3, will stress all aspects of the Cybex II unit as well as the legal aspects of total clinical application of the unit.

The Center purchased the Cybex II unit with funds made available by the Dora Roberts Foundation.

Larry Bristo, executive director of the Center, said, "The generosity of the Foundation has made the Cybex II unit available in Big Spring. This unit is the only one available in an outpatient rehabilitation center between Dallas and El Paso. Big Spring is extremely fortunate to have such a unit available for the use of all interested physicians in our area."

"The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center strives not simply to provide service, but to provide the best services in the most competent and professional manner possible," Bristo concluded.

Bride-elect is honored with shower

Michelle Couvillion, bride-elect of Daniel Calhoun of San Angelo, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Saturday morning at the Big Spring Country Club.

The honoree, her mother, Mrs. Donald Couvillion and the groom's mother, Mrs. Millard Calhoun, were presented with silk rose and carnation corsages in the bride's chosen colors, peach and ivory.

Special guests were the bride's sister, Janene Couvillion of San Angelo, the prospective groom's sister, Angela Calhoun of San Angelo, and the prospective groom.

Hostesses were Dottie Mullen, Elizabeth Crenweige, Wanda Reese, Shannon Mullen, Elaine Watson, Kay Moore, Mary Dudley and Phyllis Graumann.

The couple will be married in St. Mary's Catholic Church in San Angelo, August 2 at 1 p.m.

Dear Abby

Whole Truth Will Mend Parents' Broken Hearts

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 28 and a nurse. She took a job several thousand miles from home and has been gone nearly a year. We were hoping she'd come home last Christmas, but she said she'd come home next summer and bring her fiance. (She had written about a young man whom she'd fallen in love with, describing his "beautiful attitudes, brilliant mind and outstanding character.")

Now we know why she didn't bring him home for Christmas. He's an amputee! He lost both legs just below the knee in an accident. We learned this yesterday from a letter she wrote us.

We are heartsick. She's such a beautiful girl and could easily get a whole man. Abby, how do parents adjust to knowing their daughter will spend the rest of her life caring for an invalid?

BROKENHEARTED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: What makes you think he's an invalid? You would be amazed how well some people can manage on artificial limbs. There is no reason to be heartbroken. If he's "whole" enough for her, it says a great deal for her values. Theirs could be a completely beautiful and fulfilling marriage.

DEAR ABBY: When my friend's children entered school, she was free to do all the fun things — bridge, golf, women's clubs, business trips to exotic places with her husband, etc. She paid no income or Social Security taxes.

When my children entered school, I went back to work, attended classes on a part-time basis and earned a college degree. With each promotion, my income and Social Security taxes increased.

We are now at retirement age. My friend draws an amount equal to half the Social Security benefits received by her husband. I cannot draw half of my husband's benefits nor can he draw half of mine.

My advice to women is: Don't work! That way you can have your cake and eat it, too. Sign me,

NOT AS SMART AS I SHOULD HAVE BEEN

DEAR NOT AS SMART: My sources at Social Security tell me that a wife who worked can take one-half of her husband's benefit or draw a benefit on her own record, whichever sum is larger.

The architects of the Social Security Act probably reasoned that the non-wage-earning wife needs half the Social Security benefits received by her husband because she has none of her own.

DEAR ABBY: Last year I had open-heart surgery. I have suffered nearly all my life with asthma, and just lately I developed emphysema. I stopped smoking seven years ago and cannot tolerate cigarette smoke.

For years I have allowed a neighbor to use my telephone. She's a chain smoker who comes to my door smoking a cigarette, with a pack of cigarettes in one hand and a lighter in the other. She walks in, starts looking for an ashtray, then proceeds to fill my place with smoke! She is also an alcoholic, and has telephitis when she is on a toot.

After so many years of letting her use my telephone, I don't think I could refuse her now, although she is much better off financially than I am.

What should I do? THE COUGHER
DEAR COUGHER: Tell your nery neighbor that you cannot tolerate cigarette smoke and she may not smoke in your place. Period.

Add zest to day

If you need to put a little zest into a lazy day, try Strawberry Spring Tonic: combine two cartons (8-oz. each) strawberry yogurt, one cup each milk and unsweetened pineapple juice and one tablespoon grenadine syrup in a blender container. Cover and blend until smooth. Add four ice cubes and blend again. Serve immediately, garnished with a fresh strawberry slice. (Yield: 4 cups.)

Auxiliary hears convention report

The Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary met Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Driver Rd. Gertrude McCann, commander, presided.

Opening ceremonies were held with Myrtle True, chaplain, invoking the blessing. Lois Ferguson, patriotic instructor pro-tem, led the Pledge of Allegiance.

A report was given on the Region I Spring convention at Lubbock by Mrs. True. Delores Scott, Junior vice commander and Clara Lewis, adjutant.

Mrs. True, Americanism chairman, told the annual Americanism program, conducted by Ben Johnson, music director of Coahoma Junior High and Elementary Schools. Some forty of his fourth and fifth grade students were on the program.

Out-of-town guests attending were Commanders Robert and Ruth Biers, Dallas; Merle Lucy, state representative, and her husband, El Paso and Robert and Ernestine Tedford, chaplains of Region I, Lubbock.

Commander McCann passed out the annual reports to each chairman. She thanked Connie Manuel, entertainment and refreshment chairman, for her outstanding contributions to the Auxiliary.

Delores Scott, Veterans Administration Medical Center and Big Spring State Hospital chairman, reported that 55 patients and the VAMC were served coffee and cake by Clara Lewis, Katie Spivey, Katie Nelson and herself.

Mrs. McCann appointed Oletha O'Neil, Ethel Knapp and Margaret Barnett to the audit committee. Fannie Clark, Gladys White and Lois Ferguson were appointed to the nominating committee.

The meeting closed with regular closing ceremony and prayer by the chaplain.

TwEEN 12 and 20 Marijuana menace not a myth

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I realize it's not easy to write an advice column geared for impressionable youngsters, and you do a commendable job. There is, however, one field in which you are invariably uninformed, and often hand out advice that serves only to confuse your readers. The subject is marijuana. In efforts to remain on the safe side you regard the old fallacies and myths as safely established facts. Marijuana does NOT lead to hard drugs. You recently wrote: "Almost 100 percent of all heavy drug users started out by smoking marijuana." Why not go one step further and say "cigarettes"? Most hard drug users have smoked cigarettes.

It is the very myths and unfortunate laws which you support that help lead people to hard drugs. When a teen is told that marijuana is bad and dangerous, and then discovers for himself that it's not, he'll begin to doubt all the talk he's heard about cocaine and heroin. — J.R., Tacoma, Wash.

J.R.: I'll take back the statement that "almost 100 percent of all heavy drug users started out smoking marijuana." I could have used better logic. But your statement that a "kid discovers for himself that marijuana is not bad and dangerous" is wishful thinking on your part.

The widespread use of marijuana is relatively a recent phenomenon. Therefore, scientists do not have all the facts as to the harmfulness, if any, of regularly smoking marijuana but much research is being conducted. The best source for information that I have seen is the book, "Marijuana: Time For a Closer Look," by Curtis Janeczek who was a senior medical student at Ohio State University College of Medicine. Janeczek's book, written in 1980 for the teen-ager, gives an update on current and past scientific research on the use of marijuana. I'll paraphrase some of the more important aspects.

1. The chemical that makes people "high" when smoking pot is THC.
2. Alcohol and pot have little in common. Alcohol leaves the body within six hours after drinking. When smoking pot, THC is stored in cells and experiments show that it takes the body from two weeks to a month to get rid of the chemical. Marijuana is poison to cells. Dozens of experiments have proved that pot messes up cell growth and cell division in humans and includes lung cells, blood cells, sperm cells and brain cells.

3. In one controlled college study a group of healthy males (who were not pot smokers) were told to smoke all the pot they wanted for seven weeks. (They were not allowed to drink or smoke cigarettes.)

When the study began all had normal lungs. When the study ended (each subject averaged four marijuana cigarettes per day) they tried to blow air out of their lungs but all couldn't do it as fast as they could before they started smoking pot. Scientists considered this an early sign of lung trouble but the seriousness of the trouble is debatable and is being studied intensely.

4. In 1980 Dr. Mitchell Rosenthal, president of Phoenix House Foundation, the largest live-in program for the treatment of drug abuse, addressed the U.S. Senate on the subject of marijuana. According to Rosenthal almost every one of 15,000 young patients who asked for help has smoked pot and many young people had not used hard drugs. Pot alone caused them to seek help.

From his experience, he believes pot's most damaging effects are on behavior — the impairment of memory or learning disability and the loss of motivation, coordination or motor skills.

Rosenthal stated that pot tends to damage the emotional growth of regular users.

Does this sound a bit harsh, that he doesn't know what he is talking about? Rosenthal has worked with thousands of marijuana-smoking young men and women. That is why the Senate invited him to Washington. That is why he was used as a reference.

There are some (including you) who feel that smoking pot is harmless. Scientific research convinces me that it is harmful.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Serve children "Berry" interesting snacks

Do you have a hard time getting your children to eat, particularly the foods that are good for them?

Appeal to their sense of color with a variety of fresh foods. Serve bright, lustrous red, fresh strawberries, especially while in season.

Berries are a good source of vitamin C and like all fruits, contribute fiber and nutrients to your diet, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Usually you'll find strawberries at their best during the peak season from April through June. Look for berries with a full red color and a bright luster, firm flesh and the cap stem still attached, says USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service.

The berries should be dry and clean and the package unstained. Usually medium to small strawberries have better eating quality than the larger ones.

Avoid partially green berries. Strawberries do not continue to ripen after picking and the green is an indication that the berries were picked before mature.

You can usually find a few less desirable berries in most containers of strawberries. But try to make sure the berries at the bottom of the container are reasonably free from defect or decay. Mold can spread rapidly from one berry to another.

Remember, strawberries are so delicate they must be picked by hand, and so perishable shippers send field fresh berries to your grocer under refrigeration as quickly as possible.

Epilepsy myths are cleared in article

NEW YORK, N.Y. — More than two million Americans have epilepsy. Yet so much public ignorance surrounds this disorder that its victims often suffer senseless cruelty, says writer Fred Scott in a recent issue of Seventeen.

Medical science has learned enough about the disease that with proper care, 80 percent of those who have it can lead normal lives. But according to one expert, "The host of psychological and social problems — misunderstanding by family and friends, inability to get a job — that epilepsy can carry with it can be more difficult to handle than the seizure problem itself."

Epilepsy is usually the result of a brain injury occurring during pregnancy or delivery or from serious childhood infections.

Alcoholism, lead poisoning, and blows to the head from sports have also been linked to its development. It doesn't take much to spark epilepsy.

If as few as seven of the ten billion nerve cells in the brain malfunction at the same time, a seizure can result.

While there is no known cure for epilepsy, twenty different drugs can be used to prevent, or lessen the severity of seizures so that half of all patients enjoy total seizure control. Another 30 percent are vastly improved.

If someone near you has a seizure, keep calm. The person is seldom in pain or danger. You cannot stop a seizure, so don't try to hold down or restrain the individual. It's a good idea to loosen tight clothing and clear any hard objects out of the way. Don't force any object between the person's teeth to prevent her from biting her tongue. Such biting is rarely severe, and the danger of injury from objects a "helper" tries to insert in the mouth is much greater. (It's a myth that you can swallow your tongue during an epilepsy seizure.)

You don't need to call for medical aid unless a seizure lasts more than ten minutes.

'Notvland': tale is told

COLLEGE STATION — Heard any good fairy tales lately?

Here's one related by Cindy Wilson, a family life education specialist on home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System:

Once upon a time, before the year 1974, there was a town in Canada which had no television.

In "Notvland," children played together most of the time without fighting.

Children were imaginative and developed reading abilities early in life.

The children tended to see themselves as young people with many abilities — and they were not stereotyped into thinking boys should do only certain things and girls should do only certain things.

Notvland adults enjoyed participating in many community activities.

All in all, the inhabitants of Notvland were active, involved and happy people. Then — things changed.

In 1974, television came to Notvland and the town was renamed "Viewercity."

Two years later scientists discovered that children in grades one through three had declined in their ability to read.

However, scientists also found something else: Viewercity children who had been in the fourth and fifth grades when they began viewing television could read far better than children of two other towns who had watched television all their lives.

Since watching two years of television, children in Viewercity had become more aggressive physically and verbally.

They also began thinking in terms of "pink" and "blue" — that boys should only do and be certain things and that girls should only do and be certain things.

Forsan Study Club has health program

The GFWC Forsan Study Club met April 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Emily Elrod.

Kathy Pickett, corresponding secretary, read a letter from the Department of Human Resources at the State Hospital urging people to consider having a foster home for out-patients. Another letter was considered from Mrs. Earl S. Drake, Texas Federation Chairman for Child Abuse Legislation Reforms. The club voted to support the upcoming campaign.

Mrs. Pickett reminded the club of the Community Improvement Project Awards to be presented on national and state levels. The club elected Mrs. Pickett to organize the Community ice cream social and clean-up day. The annual clean-up day has been scheduled June 20.

Mrs. Susan Alexander encouraged each member to sell tickets for the Iron Horse Review not only to support the Centennial, but to support the club's First Lady candidate, Nola Story.

Members voted to send a contribution to the Western District fund for M.D. Anderson. They also decided to present a money tree to the Howard County Library.

Judy Williams gave the Federation Counselor's report. She pointed out some of the legislative news from the General Federation Clubwoman Magazine.

Brenda White introduced the program for the evening. Susan Gaston spoke on nutrition and health habits. She pointed out that nutrition determines the kind of person you are. She then led the members in a relaxation exercise.

Mrs. Pickett reported on old-fashioned health hints and home remedies that have proven effective. She began the presentation by dramatizing the slow way grandma used to get up in the morning.

Ways of saving advancing hospital costs

If you have to be hospitalized on a non-emergency basis, here are some ways to make your stay as inexpensive as possible, suggests the Health Insurance Institute.

Before you're hospitalized, find out how long you will be there and what tests or treatment you'll receive. You may be able to take a good number of these tests before entering the hospital at a healthy saving.

If you are to be operated on, discuss the procedure and fee with the surgeon in advance. If minor, outpatient surgery may be preferable. You may also want to consider going to a surgi-center so you can have the surgery and return home in the same day.

Next, check your hospitalization policies to determine what your health insurance will cover — room allowance, diagnostic tests and the like.

You should also ask your doctor's office to send your medical records to the hospital. X-ray or laboratory reports you have on file may save you from taking and paying for these tests again.

Unless you or your doctor believes you must have privacy, a semi-private room — the kind paid for under most private health insurance plans — may be preferable.

However, if you prefer a private room and your health insurance only covers a semiprivate one, be prepared to pay the difference.

One way to save time and costs, if your hospital stay is elective, is to sign in early in the week. Tests and treatment are rarely initiated on weekends.

If you are hospitalized for a non-emergency, see if you can check in during a pre-holiday period, such as the week preceding Thanksgiving or Christmas. Although the season may seem a lot less festive, the hospital will be less crowded and you may receive closer attention from the staff.

Final tip: When leaving the hospital, go early in the day. Hospitals usually have an early checkout time after which patients are charged for an additional day.

Sue V. Holguin discussed the importance of vitamins, pointing out that most deficiencies show up first in the hair and nails. She then passed around a vitamin wheel showing the parts of the body each vitamin benefits.

Mary Gressett's door prize was won by Mrs. Holguin.

The next meeting will be May 4 at 7 p.m. at the Forsan High School Cafeteria. It will be a kid party for the Senior class. Seniors and the club members should come dressed like kids.

The end of the year luncheon will be May 16 at 12:30 p.m. at K-Bob's Steak House. All former members are invited to attend. The cost of the meal will be $6.75. Anyone wishing to attend should contact Frances Casselman at 457-2291 or Eunice Thixton after 4 p.m. at 263-4874. These ladies need to be contacted by May 10.

Women are living longer

Women live longer. Peasant or princess, housewife or careerist, women live longer. And she's the same all over the world.

That's the view of the American Council of Life Insurance based on its analysis of Federal and World Health Organizations (WHO) statistics.

The WHO evidence in every culture has found that women are more durable than men.

According to life insurance statistics, the life expectancy gap between the sexes in the U.S. has increased in this century.

In 1900, American women at age 65 had a life expectancy of 12 more years, 6 percent greater than men. Today, however, women at age 65 have a life expectancy of 18 years — more than 30 percent greater than men.

A similar range in life expectancy occurs among people covered by pension plans — supporting the belief that economic and environmental stress is not the key factor in longevity, says the Council.

Hot water bath dangers are revealed in article

WARNING: Bathing in water hotter than 100 degrees can cause fetal damage during the first three months of pregnancy, cautions the "Here's News in Medicine" column in a recent Family Circle magazine.

Moreover, warns Family Circle, people with histories of heart disease, diabetes or blood pressure problems should not take hot tubs without first consulting a doctor. And, people using anticoagulants or medications which cause drowsiness, such as tranquilizers and antihistamines, are also warned not to use hot tubs.

Everyone should avoid baths at water temperatures above 104 degrees. When the water is 106 degrees, body temperatures can be raised to the point of heat stroke, potentially fatal even for a healthy adult.

awards went locally to the Big Spring Council of PTAs, College Heights PTA, Kentwood PTA and Marcy PTA.

Among cultural arts winners in district level competition of the National PTA's "Reflections" contest, the following Big Spring elementary school students were recognized: Kathy Watson, College Heights; Amy Parrish, Washington; and Alan Cox, Kentwood.

Local educators who presented workshops in the district PTA conference were Sue Willbanks, chairman of the Big Spring High School homemaking department; and Virginia Martin, Big Spring High School homemaking teacher.

"Parenting Challenges for the '80s," Mrs. Willbanks topic, dealt with current changes in the family structure, their affect on parenting and with ways to cope with society's pressures on parents and children.

"To perform, to be best" is a major pressure on today's children, said Mrs. Willbanks. "Some children get so scheduled there's no time left to be a child."

Mrs. Willbanks posed this challenge to parents, "Get control of time for the family to spend together."

One suggestion she offered was for families to sit down together to establish a value system: "What is worth our time, attention and money?"

"Nutrition Can Affect Your Child's School Success and More" was Mrs. Martin's topic. She emphasized that today's parents are becoming more aware that diet affects not only a child's growth but his emotional and psychological development.

Current thinking on the effect of diet on hyperactivity and weight control was presented by Mrs. Martin. She helped parents sort through a maze of food additives ranging from chemical preservatives and artificial flavors to natural dyes.

Working with the Big Spring Council of PTAs and the District 17 PTA Board, local PTAs from College Heights, Kentwood, Marcy, Moss and Washington elementary coordinated conference plans and provided volunteers to staff the conference.

Valley delegation disappointed in search for air radar system

WASHINGTON (AP) — A disappointed delegation from the Rio Grande Valley returned to Texas today, their hopes dampened for a radar surveillance system to serve airports in Harlingen, Brownsville and McAllen — as well as Mexican airports in Reynosa and Matamoros.

"Although your increase in air traffic may seem to you to be great, we hear from other airports whose increase is even greater, and they're just under the cutoff line, just like you are," Lawrence O. Fortier Jr. of the Federal Aviation Administration told them Tuesday afternoon.

None of the three Texas airports meets FAA criteria, but mayors Randy Whittington of Harlingen, Cesar Gonzalez of San Benito and Emilie Hernandez of Brownsville had come to Washington in hopes of having the three grouped for consideration.

The mayors met Tuesday morning with new FAA administrator J. Lynn Helms.

Without specific legislative mandate, chances are slim for their airports getting the okay anytime soon for radar, the FAA officials added.

"We are sympathetic, and if it was up to us you'd have it. But economics dictates that you may not get it," said the FAA's Thomas Hamill.

The FAA rebuff came after the Valley officials had come to believe the agency was on the verge of approving a radar system. Their only remaining worry, they had speculated, was getting approval for the funding.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, who set up the meetings between his constituents and FAA officials, sensed the letdown of the Valley group.

"They're disappointed and somewhat frustrated because we've been working on this a long time," de la Garza said after the meeting.

"The FAA's handling of this matter is probably in accord with the time frame they're working under, but it doesn't fit ours at all. We're competing with several other airports in the same situation, and like any other competitive situation, you wait in line for available funds."

Several Chamber of Commerce officials, while attending a national meeting in Washington, also participated in the discussion with Fortier and Hamill.

Art Wendt and Bob Woodall, directors of aviation at Brownsville and Harlingen respectively, said the airports are a catastrophe waiting to happen because of increasing private and commercial air traffic in the area.

Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene snubs Democratic caucuses

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Surprise guest ... When Democratic senators broke a longstanding tradition against partisanship last month by holding weekly caucuses, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby was neither invited nor enthusiastic about the arrangement.

Hobby, the Senate's presiding officer, was worried initially that the caucus would divide the 31-member Senate along political lines. Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, the instigator, said Hobby wasn't invited because he is not a senator.

But there he was at the April 15 meeting. Discussion has limited to table chatter, a senator said, but the presence of the lieutenant governor and host of the Senate's 24 Democrats was significant.

"Just the fact that you can get all the Democrats together in one room to talk about things is good," the senator said.

Those snubbing the Wednesday meetings include Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene. Jones attended the first luncheon in mid-March but, when most-McKnight polled the diners about whether the caucus should be held regularly, Jones indicated no.

Others staying away are Sens. Ed Howard of Texarkana, John Wilson of LaGrange and Bill Meier of Euless. After his months of flirting with the Republican Party, Meier is no surprise as a no-show.

Gutsy Guy ... Sen. John Wilson may be gone from the caucus luncheons, but he's not forgotten. Discussion recently concerned his bout with cancer, and a recent treatment that nearly killed him. Wilson subsequently returned to his legislative duties against doctor's orders.

Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur subsequently praised Wilson's courage in a release to his constituents, and reporters picked up the story "I'm no Wilson fan," another senator said, "but you've got to admire his guts." *******

Pulling rank ... When Sen. Carl Parker went to bat against Sen. Grant Jones at a recent Senate Finance Committee meeting, Chairman Jones won every time in their disputes over funding for higher education.

First, Jones said the committee would cut a point off a proposed 18.6 percent pay-raise for college faculty. Parker popped off, "That reminds me of a sermon at a funeral — 'The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away.'"

Next, when Parker tried to make a motion to cut funding for some junior college courses, Jones abruptly adjourned the meeting. When it reconvened, Jones ignored Parker's repeat attempts.

Then Parker moved to subtract $11 million targeted for tuition grants to private colleges.

Jones, whose hometown includes three private schools — Abilene Christian University, McMurry College and Hardin-Simmons University, refused to recognize Parker's motion.

Finally, Parker stormed from the meeting.

Copy-catting ... When 81-year-old Jesse Johnson of Grimes County needed help in saving his East Texas farm from state ownership claims, both Reps. Senfronia Thompson of Houston and Jim Turner of Crockett came to the rescue with proposed constitutional amendments giving Johnson clear title to the land.

Ms. Johnson, a black like Johnson, was first with an offer of aid. And if she was not angered when Turner, the representative for Grimes County, came forward with a similar offer, her aide certainly was.

"You plagiaristic A-," he said to an obviously shocked Turner at a recent committee hearing. "You tried to steal her bill."

Look out for the bull ... Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan, nicknamed "The Bull of the Brazos," is gone from the Senate after three decades but he still comes crashing into conversations like the animal in the commercial for malt liquor.

Recently, Texas Supreme Court Justice Joe Greenhill was testifying at a committee for a bill providing non-partisan election of judges and referred to the bill's sponsors as "Sen. Farabee and Sen. Moore."

Greenhill was right about Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls but the co-sponsor is Sen. Bill Meier of Euless.

Adding to Greenhill's embarrassment over his mistake was the presence on the committee of the man who defeated Moore last year, Sen. Kent Caperton of Bryan.

To an amused Caperton, the Chief Justice of the state's top civil court quickly added, "I apologize, senator. Need a shoe shine?"

The end justifies the means ... The Texas Civil Liberties Union, which vigorously opposes the death penalty, is especially opposed to a proposal of Rep. Ken Riley of Corpus Christi. Riley, a Republican, wants to apply the penalty to persons who murder state officeholders.

John Duncan, TCLU's executive director, has another idea for such an offense.

"I think they should put it under the part of the criminal code that deals with justifiable homicide," Duncan quipped.

Wings splitting up?

LONDON (AP) — Ex-Beatle Paul McCartney, who formed the group Wings after the Beatles split up in 1970, is now facing problems with his band.

Denny Laine, the band's drummer since it was formed in 1971, quit suddenly Tuesday in a disagreement over McCartney's decision to halt the group's public appearances temporarily.

The departure left only two permanent members of the group, McCartney and his wife, Linda. "There is no row," said Laine's manager Brian Adams. "But Denny likes to tour and Paul has decided that Wings will not make any tour plans for the future."

No segregation for Frank

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although Frank Sinatra will appear in concert in South Africa this summer, a spokesman for the entertainer says the contract will ban racial segregation at the performances.

Publicist Lee Solters said a standard clause was included in Sinatra's contract prohibiting segregation during the July 24 to Aug. 2 concerts at Sun City in Bophuthatswana.

The clause reads: "Promoter warrants and represents that there will be no segregation practiced at Sinatra performances in Sun City, either in the hotel or the site of the performances, and that all people, regardless of their race, color or creed, will be allowed to use all the facilities of Promoter and Southern Sun Hotels in Bophuthatswana."

Pricetag on sexual harassment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board has put a pricetag on sexual harassment of federal employees: $95 million a year in lost productivity, medical bills, sick leave and replacement of workers who quit because of it.

The board, which estimated that at least 18,000 women quit federal jobs because of harassment in the last two years, recommended strong enforcement of anti-harassment rules, creation of complaint channels and informing employees and unions about remedies.

Groups protest lifting of ban on kangaroo hides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Animal protection groups say millions of kangaroos will be slaughtered as a result of the Interior Department's decision to lift the six-year-old ban on importing kangaroo hides into the United States.

Spokesmen for groups including the Fund for Animals, Humane Society and American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said the decision weakens the nation's commitment to saving threatened species.

Ordinances regulating vending machines, food firms approved

By ANDREA COHEN
The Big Spring City Council passed three ordinances on the first readings Tuesday night, regulating food service establishments, retail food stores and vending machines which sell unpackaged foods.

The ordinance for food establishments is a modified version of the Texas Health Department Regulations. The ordinances for retail food stores and vending machines follow the ordinances proposed by the United States Food and Drug Administration.

The new city ordinances will require an annual fee which will cover the costs of inspections and upholding the ordinances, according to City Manager Don Davis.

The fees for the businesses will be prorated according to the number of employees. In the case of the vending machine permits, the fee will be based upon the number of machines operated by the licensee.

The ordinances were passed after incumbent Jack Y. Smith and Robert "Russ" McEwen were sworn into office. Both won their respective city council races in a special runoff election held April 21.

The council decided to hold a work session revising the budget which is in effect until Sept. 31, 1981. The work session was suggested by Councilman Robert Fuller because of "a lot of questions I have about the budget."

The council also waived the fee for use of the Shadow Retreat Pavilion to the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Services Council when they hold a picnic for some of their patients May 12. The same request was made for other picnics they plan to have this summer. The volunteer services council was told the request would be considered on an individual basis each time.

In other business the city council —passed an ordinance on the final reading rezoning a seven-acre tract of land in the Highland South area to a single-family dwelling district. They also passed an ordinance on the first reading annexing the land to the city limits.

—passed a resolution on the final reading authorizing half of the Industrial Park Building 609 to Randy Dewees on condition he pay $600 he owes to the city for insurance. They also passed a resolution on the first reading to lease the other half of Building 609 to Frito Lay for the use of storage. The company will sign a one-year lease.

—passed a resolution on the final reading authorizing the use of Industrial Park Building 238 to Jerry Owens.

—passed a resolution on the final reading authorizing Dale Kirkpatrick to lease the test cell area of the Industrial Park to store oil field chemicals.

—passed a resolution on the first reading allowing Cotton Machinery

Corporation to lease Industrial Park Building 2 to accommodate a striping unit.

—passed a resolution on the first reading allowing the Howard County Detox Center and Foundation to use Firehouse 6 on condition the staff accept the city's referrals at a cost to the city of $200 per patient.

Davis also commended the work of the fire department for their work Monday night when a major mishap occurred at 18th and Johnson. A victim had to be cut out of a vehicle with the Jaws of Life.

Week is designated

Volunteers play major roles in Big Spring

By CAROL HART
As they do across the nation, volunteers play a big part in Big Spring.

The staffs of Malone-Hogan Hospital, the Veteran's Administration Hospital, the Big Spring State Hospital, West Side Community Day Care Center, nursing homes and the nutrition center are only a few facilities benefiting from service by volunteers.

National Volunteer Week is designated each year to honor the people who work across the United States to aid others. This year, April 27 through May 3 has been designated as National Volunteer Week.

The Veteran's Administration Medical Center benefits greatly from volunteer's work. According to Lupe Dominguez, director of voluntary services, VAMC has about 250 volunteers working at the medical center each month, and 525 people on the rolls who donate their time at some period during the year. Of that number, 301 drive in to Big Spring from out of town, said Mrs. Dominguez.

The VAMC has an average of 200 patients daily who are aided by volunteers.

Janie Clements, wife of Governor Bill Clements, is actively involved in voluntary services throughout the state, said Mrs. Dominguez. A Texas Volunteer Conference is set May 6-8 in Austin, and Mrs.

Dominguez plans to attend the event.

VAMC is planning a Volunteer Recognition Ceremony at 7 p.m. May 11. The Nuts and Bolts will provide entertainment, and volunteers will be recognized for their contributions.

The event will be held in the Cactus Room at Howard College.

At the Big Spring State Hospital, volunteers give thousands of hours of aid to patients, family and staff.

In fiscal year 1980, donations totaling more than $6,115,434 were collected by the Volunteer Office at BSSH from people and businesses wishing to help with items for patients.

On a monthly basis, 311 volunteers donate directly their time, and indirectly with goods for patients.

Many drive from Midland, Colorado City, Lamesa, Ackerly and Odessa to work with patients, while many others are located in Big Spring.

Elma Martinez is coordinator of the Volunteer office. Denise Crenwelge is assistant coordinator. Sonya Swindell is circuit rider director, Billie Christie is secretary, and Maria Alvarez is clerk.

The staff of BSSH is planning a reception for all volunteers from 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Tollet All-Faith Chapel. Dr. John J. Kavanagh, commissioner of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, will fly in from Austin for the event. Four others from Central Office are also slated to be in Big Spring then.

At Malone-Hogan Hospital 65 members compose the Malone-Hogan Hospital Volunteers, a group which serves as liaison between patients and families, and aid staff and faculty at the hospital.

According to Emily Ward of the Malone-Hogan staff, volunteers deliver mail and newspapers to patients, operate the hospital gift shop, sponsor Kindergarten Day, Doctor's Day, and provide scholarships to Howard College and the Malone-Hogan School of Radiology.

Volunteers also host an Employee of the Year event, and help admit patients, and aid with their discharges.

May 5, the Malone-Hogan volunteers are planning a banquet, during which several recognitions will be given out, and new officers installed. The event is set at the Big Spring Country Club.

Outgoing president of the group is Jerry Hull. President elect is Margarita Palmer, vice-president is Helen Ebling, secretary is Sammie Turner and treasurer is Kate Irons. Incoming officers, in addition to Mrs. Palmer, are Helen Draper, president-elect, Jean Cook, vice-president, Anita Brosig, secretary and Kate Irons, treasurer.

How to protect your bicycle from thieves

One of the most common crimes is also one of the most preventable. That crime is bicycle theft — some 700,000 bikes a year "walk off," never to be seen by their owners again.

But with the right kind of protection, purchased in any hardware store or cycle shop, most bicycle thefts can be avoided.

Nothing attracts thieves faster than an unlocked bike. Even locked bikes are inviting targets ... and can easily be trucked away if they're not secured properly.

According to George Villwock, president of Master Lock Company, locked bicycles often disappear simply because their owners tried to save a couple of dollars on locks, chains, or cables. Not all locking devices afford the same degree of protection, he said. The least expensive padlocks, naturally, offer the least protection.

Villwock offered these tips on locking a bike to be sure it is there when you return:

While "keyless" combination padlocks are among the most popular bike locks, protecting property of substantial value requires a "pin tumbler" high-security padlock. Inside this lock is a complex arrangement of steel pins, springs, and other precision parts that make it tough to beat. You can recognize a pin tumbler lock by its key — flat and smooth on one edge, with irregular serrations on the other. A less expensive lock is distinguished by a straight key with matching notches along both edges. Also, better pin tumbler locks lock each leg of the shackle independently for twice as much resistance against picking, forcing, prying, or rapping.

For added security, look for the words "hardened" or "case hard" stamped on the curved shackle. This means the shackle has been specially treated to give it an extra-hard outer layer to resist cutting or sawing.

The chain or cable you choose for securing your bike to a tree or post must be as strong as the lock. Look for case-hardened steel chains specifically designed for tough resistance to cutters, saws and files. Individual links should be welded, not just twisted, to resist being pried apart.

Multi-stranded steel cable is available for equivalent protection, with the added benefit of light weight. In general, the thicker the cable, the greater the protection. Examine cable closely, though, as some manufacturers add a thicker than usual coating of vinyl to make a small diameter cable look bigger.

When locking your bike, wrap chain or cable through both wheels and frame and around a sturdy post or tree. Position the lock and cable or chain as high off the ground as possible. This makes it difficult to gain extra leverage by bracing one leg of a bolt cutter against the ground.

Finally, lock your bike every time you leave it, even for just a few minutes. "There's nothing easier to steal than an unlocked bike," Villwock said. "The thief just hops on his loot and rides away."

BIKE LOCK — A sturdy cable and a good lock, used correctly, will prevent a bicycle from becoming one of the 700,000 that "walk off" every year. Wrap the cable through both wheels and around the frame and attach to a post or tree.

Big Spring Howard County Centennial

May 21-30, 1981

TELLING THE WORLD — Two signs leading into Big Spring on both the east and west entry to the city have been repainted by the Lamar Advertising Company of Midland to help promote the local railroad centennial celebration. The signs, which are owned by the Tourism Development Council, were painted by the Lamar Company without charge as a gift to the residents of the area.

Last call for fun

Chuck Wagon party deadline nears

Last call for Chuck Wagon party tickets. No tickets will be sold after May 4, deadline.

This Centennial year will no doubt swell the attendance at our annual Chuck Wagon party to the largest in its history, according to Gerri Atwell, curator. She said tickets were selling well and that we were expecting more out-of-town guests than ever before.

The Centennial has generated more interest, city-wide, than anything has since the 1949 celebration of the discovery of the spring, for which our town was named, 100 years earlier.

The Centennial officers, committee chairpersons, and workers are all to be highly commended for their enthusiastic way they have "pitched in" and making it a successful celebration ... We are all looking forward to seeing the "Iron Horse Revue" pageant.

The Museum's entire collection of Taylor paintings are on display at Heritage Museum.

Following are some out-of-town guests who plan to attend the Chuck Wagon party: Gil and Colleen Steward of Leakey, long time museum members;

Mrs. Stella Floore, Fort Worth, who has a perfect attendance record at the party; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lyman, College Station, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Britt of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jones, Colorado City; and Mr. and Mrs. John Ryder, Galveston.

WATCH'EN GROW — The "pot method" of fertilizing tomatoes results in high yields of large fruit.

How to raise best tomatoes ever

DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

To many of us, gardening simply means growing tomatoes. A few tomato plants in the backyard garden can be a fascinating and rewarding activity or they can be a disaster. Sickly tomato plants which produce few, if any fruit, certainly do not help the gardening spirit.

Some simple advice might help those growing tomatoes for the first time and perhaps even increase yields and satisfaction for you experienced gardeners.

First, you should not attempt to grow tomatoes unless they can be placed in an area that receives sunlight at least six hours a day. They will grow with less light but simply will not produce much of a crop if placed between tall shrubs, beneath trees or between buildings.

Secondly, soil that has been well prepared and properly fertilized is essential for good growth and high yields. Poor soils can be improved with liberal amounts of organic matter and proper fertilization. A dark, heavy clay or even a fine sand can be improved by working 3 to 4 inches of organic matter and a small amount of fertilizer such as 10-20-10 or 12-24-12 into the area where your tomatoes are to be planted.

Variety selection is of utmost importance and is one of the keys to growing tomatoes successfully in Howard County. Spring Giant, Big Set, Better Boy or Bonus or the small-fruited Small Fry are excellent for this area.

Transplanting guidelines discussed earlier certainly apply for tomatoes. Something that you should do is use a starter solution when planting tomatoes to insure adequate fertility during early stages of growth. Starter solutions can be purchased at local garden centers or they can be made at home by mixing one or two level tablespoonfuls of a complete fertilizer in a gallon of water. Pour about a cup or so of the starter solution into the transplant hole prior to planting.

For best results set transplants in your garden on cloudy days or later in the afternoon. Space plants at least 3 feet apart in the row and 3 to 4 feet apart between rows. Protect plants from adverse conditions such as high wind and excessive heat for a week or so after transplanting.

Stake, trellis or cage all tomato varieties for best results. I highly recommend using cages to support plants. Cages are nothing more than cylinders of concrete reinforcing wire, hog wire or similar material used to support plants and keep fruit off the ground.

Make the cylinders 18 to 20 inches in diameter and from 2½ to 5 feet tall. Concrete reinforcing wire is readily available and is generally considered best for tomato cages. It usually comes in 5-foot widths, and a 5½-foot length will make a tomato cage about 18 inches in diameter.

The cage can be held together by bending or crimping the wire ends around one of the vertical wires.

Place cages over plants shortly after transplanting. One plant per cage is recommended. To provide support, cut off the bottom ring of the cage so the ends can be pushed into the ground. You may want to support cages with wooden or metal stakes to keep them from falling over later in the season. The great thing about caging is that plants are allowed to grow naturally within cages. No pruning or suckering of plants is necessary.

Another advantage of cages is that they can be used to protect plants from cold temperatures or high winds. If the weather looks bad, take a plastic trashbag and put it over the cage. For a greenhouse effect, use a light-colored bag.

Cee City plans pick up speed

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado City Centennial activities will hit high gear at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in the Civic Center when several plans are implemented prior to July's Centennial Celebration.

According to George Walker, chairman of the Brothers of the Brush, "this will be a kickoff for this group as well as for the Centennial Belles. Charter for both groups will be available, as well as packets of materials for distribution to all local organizations."

Walker added "We have sent letters to all local groups and we hope to have a representative from each one to pick up a packet and get us all off to a strong Centennial celebration."

Students from Hutchinson School will present a short play depicting Mitchell County history, which will be followed by a style show featuring fashions from the 1880s onward, ranging from early era bathing suits to fall gowns.

Walker indicated he will be modeling one of the bathing suits if he can figure out how to get in to it.

Fraud counts are dropped

ABILENE — A nine-count federal mail fraud indictment against Don M. Martin, Dorna Corp., and Caprock Services Co., Inc., all of Abilene, was dismissed Friday in by Chief Judge Halbert O. Woodward in Abilene U.S. Federal District Court.

A grand jury in Wichita Falls had indicted Martin and the two firms in an allegedly fraudulent crude oil billing scheme last Feb. 3. Martin is president and chief operating officer of the two firms.

The indictment had alleged that the defendants had mailed monthly invoices for the sale and delivery of heavy industrial-use fuel oil that had, in fact, been never sold nor delivered.

Attorneys for both sides recommended dismissal of the charges.

Dismissal was based on Woodward's findings that the constitutional rights of the defendants were violated when their former attorney, Reagan Morris of Dallas, voluntarily and without consent of the defendants had testified before the grand jury.

Forum displays project awards

The GFWC Modern Woman's Forum met April 24 in the home of Mrs. Bert Affleck for a Federation Day program. Mrs. Cass Hill, president, led the opening pledges and presided.

Mrs. Hill displayed the awards received by the club at the recent Western District Convention. These were a first place award for projects on Veterans' Administration Volunteer Service, and on Able and Disabled, and a second place on the project, Girlstown USA, as well as a second place on the program on Crime Reduction. Mrs. Hill received an honorable mention for the District Clubwoman of the Year.

Mrs. C.R. Moad presented "A Book Review for Federation Day" in celebration of General Federation of Women's Clubs 91st anniversary.

Dr. Karen J. Blair declares in her recent book, "The Clubwoman as Feminist: True Womanhood Redefined, 1868-1914," that women proclaimed their right to work for civic improvement. This was the great significance of the women's clubs movement, and is true today. She said that they did not argue against the prevailing ideology of women's instinctive domestic and moral traits, but utilized these concepts to influence civic problems that dealt with their special sphere.

She said that the Federation did not join in the clamor for equal rights, nor did it work specifically for suffrage in the early days.

However, with the movement, women began to develop pride female abilities and yearn for wider participation in public affairs. As a result of women joining together, an avalanche of civic improvement projects swept through our towns and cities in the early years, and continues today.

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs was organized in 1897 in Waco, and its purpose is similar to GFWC's: to unite women's clubs and organizations throughout Texas for promotion of activities in the areas of conservation, education, home life, international affairs, public affairs, arts, Texas, Americanism, and many civic projects, which increase from year to year.

It is clear that women's power has never been stronger than it is today. GFWC has learned that it yields a lot of clout as the largest volunteer women's service organization in the world, with horizons and challenges constantly expanding in an effort to meet the needs of today's woman.

The next meeting will be a luncheon on May 8 at Canterbury House, with Mrs. Ruby McElrath as hostess.

Dear Abby

Daughter Eager to Date; Mother Anxious to Wait

DEAR ABBY: I have a very pretty and bright 11-year-old daughter who for the past several months has been asking for permission to "go with" boys. Many of Debby's friends (her age) are forming such attachments, however temporary and innocent, and Debby wants to follow suit.

I told her I thought she was much too young to be going with boys, and she was very disappointed and resentful. Abby, if you agree with me, please tell me how to handle this without alienating my daughter. It is so important that Debby and I be good friends during this very important time in her life.

DEBBY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I'm not sure I know what "going with" means in this case, but don't panic. To some youngsters, a telephone conversation once a week means you're "going with" someone.

I agree, an 11-year-old girl is much too young to date boys, but as soon as children indicate that they want to socialize with the opposite sex, they should be allowed to do so in order to build healthy boy-girl relationships. Encourage well-chaperoned get-togethers, and make all Debby's friends welcome in your home. You will not alienate your daughter by refusing to let her go out with boys at her age. All youngsters need guidelines and rules. They feel more loved and secure when they know their limits.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, middle-aged, still fit and attractive. I have many friends, divorced or widowed—all women. In seeking male companionship we have tried the singles clubs and find them abhorrent. We don't want to go to singles bars. Everyone says, "Engage in activities that interest you and you will meet men who are interested in similar things."

OK, I'm doing that, but, Abby, how do you know who is single and who isn't in big, general gatherings? I'm considering starting a trend of having single people wear a button—maybe with an "S" or "Single"—so we can identify each other on trains, planes, walking on the beach, at an art gallery, whatever.

Is this a sound idea, or would such a button look like a come-on, or worse yet, solicitation? I'm desperate, but not that desperate.

M.

DEAR M.: It wouldn't work. Married folks who want to pass as singles would wear the button.

DEAR ABBY: In CONFIDENTIAL TO THINKING IT OVER IN SALEM, N.J., you wisely pointed out that "money isn't everything."

That caused me to recall the words of B.C. Forbes, the founder of Forbes magazine: "The money or place of fame that our endeavors may bring when crowned with so-called success will not yield all the joy we anticipated; such things may charm, may tickle our vanity, may effervesce a hectic sort of happiness for a little while, but we soon find our teeth grating at the core. The consciousness of the worthwhileness of the achievement itself can alone produce in us a state of happiness. Riches are mental, not material."

Interested citizens are urged to call any of the following numbers for further information or to offer assistance on any committee, and are encouraged to attend the next meeting scheduled for May 11, 7 p.m. at the Senior Citizen's Center.

Committees and chairmen named are Court Watchers, Lowell Jones, 263-6856 and Victor Sedinger, Youth Activities, 267-7851, office; Other committees are Telephone, Paraphernalia, Programs, Speakers, and Publicity. Other numbers: Bobbie Wooten, 263-7473 and Londa Bradley, 267-8143.

Nutrition vital in looking young

Women who look younger than their years eat fewer calories, consume substantially less fatty foods of all types, and take more of vitamins B1, A and C than those who appear older. These, according to a recent Family Circle magazine article, "How to Stop the Biological Clock," were the conclusions of a 30-year study by longevity researcher E.D. Schlenker and his colleagues at Michigan State University.

Officers elected for the 1981-82 term are: Kathy Schrum, president; Karen Bellinghausen, vice president; Diane Turner, recording secretary; Carla Shaw, corresponding secretary; Sharon Richardson, treasurer; and Susan Rains, extension officer. City Council representatives are Connie Edgemon, Peggy Payne and Debbie Wegman.

District 6 4-H members capture honors

District 6 4-H members attended a Method Demonstration Elimination Contest April 22 at Sul Ross State University, Alpine.

The team of Lance Robinson, Knott 4-H, and Duncan Hamlin, Gay Hill 4-H, captured first place in the Beef Cattle Junior Symposium.

Nancy Hardison, Coahoma 4-H, won second place in Safety and Accident Prevention. Tonya Rock, Forsan 4-H, won second place in the Sheep and-or Goats division, and James Bristo, also of Forsan, captured second place in Public Speaking.

Elected to the District 6 council were Reagan Brooks, Coahoma 4-H, Boy's chairman; Robin Ethridge, Coahoma 4-H, Girl's chairman; and Janie Phillips, Lucky Acres 4-H, secretary-treasurer.

Agents attending the contest were Janet Rogers, Andy Vestal, Don Richardson, and Scott Robinson, outgoing president of District 4-H council.

A Centennial Belle Chapter was formed and named "Sadie's Ladies." All participating in this chapter will dress in the "Roaring Twenties" time period. Plans for a float for the Centennial parade were discussed.

Coufunds are newest form of rebate

Combine the dollar-saving benefits of a coupon and a refund and what do you get? A "coufund," the newest form of rebate for shoppers. Family Circle's refunding expert, Susan Samtur, notes in the magazine's current issue that a coufund requires proof of purchase the way a refund does, but that it is redeemed at the checkout like a coupon.

Among the benefits of coufunds (which have been appearing in supermarkets, Diane Turner presented the program, "Weight Loss and Exercise." Fad diets were discussed as well as facts and fallacies regarding various diets.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Kathy Schrum's.

newspapers and magazines): You pay no postage and handling costs; there is no limit on the number redeemed, provided each coufund is accompanied by a purchase; and, best of all, you don't have to wait for the refund to arrive by mail.

Ms. Samtur's Family Circle article, "Save Over $45 At The Checkout," lists the latest refund offers, including 22 requiring no special forms.

FOR A FINE SELECTION OF UNIQUE GIFTS... visit the Rainbarrel Gift Shop in College Park Center

Rainbarrel has unique, unusual gift selection

If it is unique or unusual, chances are it was purchased at the Rainbarrel in the College Park Shopping Center.

That's right, Steve and Amy Lewis, owners and operators of this Big Spring novelty shop, have gone out of their way to bring you what you can't find anywhere else in town. They have brought a little of the big city shops to their home town.

At the Rainbarrel there is a rustic atmosphere. Steve and Amy invite all of their customers to feel at home, to touch the merchandise, pick it up and see what makes it tick.

The name of the shop comes from the decor, many solid oak barrels scattered throughout the building.

The Rainbarrel pre-shops for their customers. While at market Steve and Amy won't buy anything that is not a good value and would be too high a price for their customers. They are in the medium to low range price range for gifts.

Some of the items that can be found at the Rainbarrel are chrome kinetics, solar powered objects, pewter jewelry and other pewter items. In fact, an item from the Rainbarrel, a pewter lion's head letter opener, was used in the filming of the movie, "Hangar 18."

The Rainbarrel also has stained glass, chimes, candles and gag gifts.

So if you are in the market for something unique and unusual drop by the Rainbarrel in the College Park Shopping Center and let Steve and Amy help you out.

Flowers by Dori offers best for Mother's Day

Mothers have the most difficult job around, one where there are few fringe benefits, no fancy conventions in Dallas, and not that many three-martini lunches. Mothers seldom make the cover of Time Magazine.

The thing to remember is, mothers don't care about all that. That is why it's so important to remember them on Mothers Day — a holiday which is fast approaching (May 10).

When you look for that Mothers' Day gift, you can find what you want at Flowers by Dori, 2008 Gregg. Flowers by Dori offers fresh, beautiful arrangements that will surely please the mother in your life.

Mountain gorilla numbers down by half in 20 years

National Geographic News Service
WASHINGTON — Dead gorillas. Their heads and hands hacked off for grisly trophies. Their bodies mutilated. Their mountain homes invaded by man's unrelenting encroachment.

In just 20 years, the number of mountain gorillas has been cut in half. Today there are only about 220 left in central Africa, their only habitat. And by the year 2000, Gorilla gorilla beringei may be extinct. Even its more numerous relative — the lowland gorilla, familiar to zoo-goers — faces a similar fate in the wild.

Expanding human populations and poaching have forced the mountain gorilla higher and higher up within its natural range and have accelerated social changes among its members.

Dr. Dian Fossey, a primatologist who has studied the mountain gorilla in the wild longer than any other person, has witnessed a recent period of violence, disruption, disintegration, and readjustment among the groups she observed.

Writing in the April National Geographic, Fossey, who has spent 13 years in the gorillas' Virunga Mountain homeland, reports some of the grim statistics: Over the entire study period, six of the 80 gorillas she regularly watched were killed by poachers. And evidence from 64 skeletal specimens collected indicates that poaches may have been involved in two-thirds of all the deaths.

She also recounts the first recorded incident of an adult gorilla killing another adult and cites six cases of adult gorillas killing infants. These killings occurred, she believes, to ensure the perpetuation of dominant male bloodlines.

Liberals take aim at Stenholm

States News Service
WASHINGTON — A liberal group, the National Committee for an Effective Congress, Monday launched a campaign to defeat 68 "right-wing" congressmen, including 11 Texas lawmakers.

ACEC staffer Mark Gersh said the group picked Republicans who may have been swept into office on Reagan's coattails or conservative Democrats whose constituents would turn out if they had a strong liberal alternative.

Included on the hit list were: Reps. Sam Ball, D-Marshall, Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall, Phil Crane, D-College Station, Jack Fields, D-Houston, Marvin Keath, D-Marlin, Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, Zika de la Garza, D-Mission, Richard White-D-El Paso, Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, Don Paul, R-Lake Jackson and Abraham Laren, D-Laredo.

At a news conference Monday, Director Russell D. Heveday said NCBC is targeting vulnerable congressmen more than a year before the 1982 elections in counteract "swear campaigns" already launched by conservative groups and to recoup huge losses suffered by liberals last November.

He said the group would "try to beat people who are out-Reaganing Reagan" to rounding up progressive challengers, then funding their polls, TV ads and get-out-the-vote campaigns with a $2.5 million fund the NCBC hopes to raise.

Homenury claimed campaign techniques used by the NCBC in the last election will be more effective next time around. "Electoral, 1982 was a disaster, but now I'm bullish that the liberals are waking up."

Gramm reacted philosophically to the announcement he was on the hit list: "As Abraham Lincoln said, if you have strong views you'll have strong enemies."

Through her years of research, continuously supported by the National Geographic Society, Fossey has been in the forefront of scientists who have revealed that the giant creature with the mencing King Kong image is actually a shy, gentle vegetarian and family man. She now shows gorillas reacting to the stresses of survival.

Her article opens with what she calls "probably the saddest event" in all her years with the gorillas — the brutal killing of her "beloved Digit." Digit was speared to death in 1977 while helping Uncle Bert defend his family against six poachers and their dogs. He was the first gorilla in Fossey's study groups to be killed by poachers.

Six months after Digit's death, Uncle Bert and his mate, Macho, were shot to death while trying to protect their son, Kweli. Kweli, shot in a capture attempt, died from bullet wound complications.

The mountain gorilla is legally protected within Rwanda's Parc National des Volcans, where Fossey's Karisoke Research Centre is located. But that has not completely stopped the poaching and the pressure for more land in overpopulated Rwanda.

"Tradition and circumstance complicate the poacher's motivation in gorilla killing," Fossey writes. "Sometimes he inadvertently catches gorilla young in traps set for antelope or buffalo. Other times, bolstering his courage with hashish for a hunt after buffalo or elephant, he meets a gorilla and kills the formidable 'foe' for killing's sake. Not infrequently, a poacher is promised money to capture a young gorilla for exhibit in a foreign zoo or for sale as a pet to local Europeans."

The loss of a dominant male or silverback disrupt the family group. Uncle Bert's group became a casebook example of disintegration.

In the power play for new leadership of such a group, infants are sometimes killed by contending males. Infanticide claimed six of the 38 gorillas born during Fossey's 13-year study period.

1981 National Geographic Society

PLAY TIME — It's playtime for 3-year-old N'Gee and his mother, Papoose. But a few months later, N'Gee disappeared — a victim of poachers. Poaching may account for two-thirds of the mountain gorilla deaths in central Africa.

Welz will direct 'Iron Horse Revue'

Gary Welz, an employee of the Rogers Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., for the past ten years, has been named director of the "Iron Horse Revue."

The large outdoor stage show, which will be held six nights during the centennial celebration in May, will consist of a cast of approximately 400 members and be in rehearsals for the next four weeks.

Welz, a native of Tempe, Ariz., attended college at both Occidental College in Los Angeles, Calif., and London University, in London, England. ### CRMWD bill gains House ok

AUSTIN — A bill enabling the Colorado River Municipal Water District to cooperate with area public agencies and private industry to provide anti-pollution facilities sailed through on second reading in the House of Representatives here Tuesday.

Rep. Jay Gibson, Odessa, shepherded the measure through the House on a voice vote without opposition. The bill (HB 1801) was expected to gain final passage in the House today. In that event, Sen. W. L. Short, Tahoka, will seek to substitute the house bill for his SB 618 and ask for final adoption by the Senate.

As matters now stand, cities, counties and industries in the West Texas area served by CRMWD do not have an agency to which they can turn to help in planning, building or financing of anti-pollution works mandated by state and federal law. Under HB 1801, tax exempt revenue bonds could be issued for these purposes.

Another section of the bill amends the CRMWD act to redefine the primary district boundaries to conform with the corporate limits of the member cities — Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder — as of Jan. 1, 1981 instead of the original March 1, 1949. This also would enable the District to annex territories annexed subsequently by the member cities.

Rep. Gibson said he regarded HB 1801 as being vital to the growth and development of West Texas. Co-sponsors with him were Reps. Larry Don Shaw, Big Spring, Walter Grubbs, Abilene, Dick Burnett, San Angelo, Jerry Cockerham, Monahans, and Mary Polk, El Paso. Sen. Ray Farabee has been closely allied with Sen. Short in the companion effort in the Senate.

1,259 rigs busy in Texas

The number of working oil rigs in Texas rose slightly this week.

As of Monday, the number of rigs making hole totaled 1,259, compared to 1,237. This represents a rise from the 1,244 total for a month ago, and the 946 total for this time last year.

The rise in Texas was reflected in the national total. As of Monday, 3,784 rigs were making hole, compared to 3,756 during the previous week. This tops both the 3,656 total for last month and the 2,748 total for last year at this time.

San Angelo man prison bound

Albert Agüero, 28, of San Angelo, entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court on Tuesday to charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Agüero was given a five-year term in the Texas Department of Corrections, Huntsville.

Mark Kelvin Watson, 26, of 700 Galveston, had his probation revoked in 118th District Court Tuesday, and was given a four-year sentence in TDC. Watson had been placed on probation following a felony theft charge.

Wrenches stolen

Ray Womack of Price Construction reported the theft of a set of wrenches from the construction firm Tuesday.

Womack told members of the Howard County Sheriff's Department that the wrenches were valued at $250.

with around 90 percent of the story being based on local characters and material."

He went on to say that the "Iron Horse Revue" should be "very visually exciting," explaining that this would be "the first time laser technology has ever been used in a live performance of dramatic material," Welz said.

The laser technology Welz was referring to was the 15 minute finale that would be staged by LaserMedia, Inc., of Los Angeles, Calif. The company, which has performed at such major events as the Winter Olympics and President Ronald Reagan's Inauguration, will make its first appearance in a small city during the upcoming centennial celebration in Big Spring.

Talking about the local production, Welz said "it's a very locally oriented show.

LaserMedia will also be featured on PM Magazine on Channel 8 of Dallas today, for those persons wanting to learn more about laser light shows.

As to Welz's philosophy concerning the stage show itself, he says "the most important thing is to have fun — this includes me and the cast and crew. If we enjoy ourselves," he said, "then the audience will also."

Persons wishing to participate in the "Iron Horse Revue" should contact Gary Welz at the Centennial Store-Headquarters at 267-3641. Rehearsals for the major stage show will last for four weeks, with specific parts rehearsing at predetermined times at the Runnels Junior High School gym.

Jenkins leading in contest

With two weeks to go in the contest to pick the First Lady of the May 21-30 Big Spring Centennial Celebration, Jean Jenkins has retained the lead.

She is being pressed for the top spot by Donna Carey, Brenda Moore and Sandra Haney.

Spirited campaigning is going on among the campaigners, however, and it is still possible for anyone among the top 20 entries to win.

The winner is determined by the total number of "Iron Horse Revue" tickets sold by the First Lady contestants.

MORE PRIZES — Tuesday was the second official ticket turn-in day for Big Spring Centennial First Lady candidates. The winning candidate after the following two weeks of competition will receive an all-expense paid trip for two for a week in Hawaii. The six runners up will split 57 valuable gifts between themselves, including those in this photo.
