EVERY DOG HAS IT'S DAY — The old adage may be true but Anthony, the male pet in the arms of Betty Wrinkle, appears to look upon all the hoopla of the Big Spring Centennial Celebration with some disdain. Could be he resents being dress like an 1880 belle, or perhaps he's just trying to step on his tongue.

One Republican defecting

Survey shows 29 Democrats to support Reagan's budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan apparently has enough votes to assure a major victory for his economic program when the Democratic-controlled House votes on a 1982 blueprint this week, an Associated Press survey shows.

The telephone survey, conducted as Congress returned from a two-week Easter recess, shows at least 29 Democrats will support Reagan's budget over an alternative being pushed by their party's leadership.

The 29 votes, coupled with GOP leadership claims that only one Republican will buck the administration's wishes, would enable Reagan to chalk up a two-vote victory for the economic recovery program.

But in addition to the 29, five Democrats said they were leaning toward a vote for the president's package, and another 12 Democrats said they were undecided which way to cast their votes.

Administration supporters privately count some of the 12 as definite "yes" votes on the president's side.

The budget blueprint Reagan is endorsing is tailor-made for the deep spending cuts he is asking for, as well as for his plan for three-year across-the-board cuts in personal income taxes.

Decisions about the actual cuts and the precise shape of the tax bill will have to be made later. The budget plan itself merely sets guidelines for Congress to follow as it drafts spending and tax legislation for the 1982 fiscal year.

The plan the White House is backing calls for spending of $688.8 billion and a deficit of $31 billion.

The Democratic plan calls for spending next year of $714.5 billion, but a lower deficit of $25.8 billion. The Democratic-backed bill calls for a smaller tax cut than Reagan wants for 1982, and does not guarantee tax cuts in 1983 and 1984, as the president's plan would.

The showdown votes are expected in the House Tuesday or Wednesday. The results of the AP survey generally were in keeping with private assessments made Friday by Republicans and Democrats.

The AP survey was conducted among the 47-member Conservative Democratic Forum, a group made up largely of southerners.

Spectacular laser show is booked during Centennial

Laser Media, Inc., of Los Angeles, Cal., has been hired by the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., to stage a 15 minute finale each of the six nights of the "Iron Horse Revue" later this month. The reputable firm, which performed at both the Winter Olympics and the President's Inauguration, will make its first appearance in a city as small as Big Spring with the local performance.

Under the company's guidance, lasers have redefined musical communications, providing a spectacular visual feast to complement the performances of groups such as Electric Light Orchestra, Kansas, Diana Ross and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. In addition, Las Vegas headliners, business giants, even theatrical productions, have all relied on Laser Media to enhance their shows with their laser wizardry.

Founded in 1974, Laser Media is the largest, most diversified laser special effects company in the world. In staging dazzling performances for millions of people across four continents, it has pioneered the use of lasers in a wide variety of entertainment areas.

Laser Media works with Argon & Krypton lasers of varying sizes to create modular systems, allowing for the addition of custom effects designed for specific productions and innovations due to rapidly expanding technology. Control systems are computerized to provide either pre-recorded or live effect generation.

Whether projected onto a screen or into the air, the lasers provide an array of spellbinding effects — three-dimensional beam sculptures hang suspended in mid air; innumerable patterns of pulsating images swirl, spiral and blossom into a rainbow of colors; a "tunnel" of misty ether appears to engulf a human form. Names, logos, even a person's image can be depicted in laser light by the electronic paint-brushes.

And even though the company has been able to keep up with the rapidly changing world of laser technology, they were unable to influence their scheduled appearance on PM Magazine on Channel 6 of Dallas this past week. The appearance, which had been set weeks before the telecast, did not go on as scheduled but will probably be rescheduled within the near future.

Laser Media will be in Big Spring working with various groups and individuals in making its preparations for its finale appearances after each performance of the "Iron Horse Revue." Persons wishing to see the finale, as well as the large stage show, should purchase their tickets from First Lady candidates currently selling the tickets for less than the gate admission price.

Stanton man found dead

STANTON — A 45-year-old Stanton man was found lying dead in the middle of Highway 80 just outside of the Stanton city limits, 11:45 p.m. Friday, said State Trooper C.W. Turner.

The body of Abdon Joe Cruz was found by his wife, Bonnie, in the middle of the highway, 300 feet west of their residence in the Stanton Motel, said Turner. Cruz was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace F.E. Kennedy.

"We were the first at the scene," said Turner. "The victim appeared to have suffered head wounds, and we are investigating it as an auto accident. But the cause of death is pending until we can investigate further," he added.

Troopers Turner and Freddy Gutierrez will join with the Martin County Sheriff's Office and the Stanton Police Department in investigating the incident.

Demands publication of manifesto

Former Trappist monk hijacks Irish jetliner

LE TOUQUET, France (AP) — A former Trappist monk reportedly armed with a bomb hijacked an Irish jetliner carrying more than 100 people Saturday and demanded publication of a manifesto, refueling in France and a flight to Tehran, officials said.

An Irish newspaper, the Sunday Independent of Dublin, said it agreed in principle to print the statement, but French authorities refused to refuel the plane and Iran said it would not allow the jet to land. French anti-terrorist police surrounded the plane at this small airport near the English Channel.

The Aer Lingus Boeing 737 was hijacked as it approached London's Heathrow Airport on a regularly scheduled flight from Dublin. It landed at Le Touquet shortly afterward, and four hours later officials said four women and five children were freed, leaving 99 passengers and five crew aboard.

A French regional government official, Hubert Perrot, said the hijacker was an Australian, aged 53 to 55 years, who was a Trappist monk in Rome from 1950 to 1955 and is now the father of five children.

Airport Manager Christian Lejeune said the hijacker may have been a Trappist monk who had been excommunicated and was "apparently mad." He quoted the pilot as saying the hijacker had "an explosive container."

The hijacker ordered pilot Capt. Edward Foyle to hand out a nine-page message from his cockpit that was signed with the name "Lawrence James Downey," Lejeune said. "The message seems to say we are going to have a lot of trouble in the world if there is no religious discipline," he said.

Airport officials said the hijacker wanted the world's press to publish the "third secret of Fatima."

Initial reports indicated the hijacker was a Moslem. Tehran is the capital of Iran, an Islamic nation, and Fatima is the name of the daughter of the Islamic prophet Mohammed. She is revered by Moslems and is the subject of mysteries and legends.

Fatima is also a town in central Portugal, and is a famous shrine and site of pilgrimages because of the reported apparitions of the Virgin Mary to three children there several times in 1917. The children said the Virgin Mary told them three secrets, which they communicated to the pope.

Two have been revealed, but the third has not.

The first secret described a vision of Hell, the second predicted the eventual conversion of the Soviet Union to Christianity, and the third was a secret message not to be disclosed before 1960.

The year 1960 passed without the secret being disclosed. In 1967, a Vatican-based cardinal said Pope Paul VI had decided the time was not yet ripe for the secret to be revealed.

Trio Relates Family Backgrounds

Deafness part of lifestyle

(Editor's Note: May 3 through 8 is Deaf Awareness Week. Three of the staff members at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf discussed growing up with deafness in their families. Shannon Gilley of the SWCID staff served as interpreter during the interviews.)

By CAROL HART
Imagine being deaf with hearing parents, or being a hearing child whose parents are deaf. Or, imagine having parents who are deaf, as you are.

Now, meet Delores Erlandson, who lost her hearing at an early age, but whose parents were hearing. And Bob Coltrane, who with his three sisters, can hear, but whose parents are deaf. And Art Dignan, whose brother, mother and father, were deaf, as he is. Delores Erlandson was born hearing to hearing parents, but a severe illness at 10-months of age left her deaf.

For a long time after the illness, "My parents thought I was a slow learner," said Miss Erlandson. It was her father who finally took her to doctor by train to Chicago, to check her hearing. There, it was discovered that she was deaf, and plans were made to send her to a residential school "far from home."

That was a big step for a little girl of seven, recalled Miss Erlandson. A social worker told the Erlandson's that Delores should attend the residential school, where students live on campus, because she would benefit from a communications program which would help her learn to read and write.

Her first reaction to the residential school, about 175 miles from home, was "homesickness," she recalled. But soon, she learned to fingerspell and use manual signs, and then "I didn't want to go home. It was here, at the age of seven, that Miss Erlandson first learned she had a name, through the use of fingerspelling.

Miss Erlandson said at home, she had no language with which to communicate with her parents. They had not learned to fingerspell, because they were told not to learn.

Fingerspelling and sign language have come into their own in the recent past. Educational methods for deaf Americans are changing. Her parents were told that it was better to use oral methods of communication, an idea not so readily accepted today.

But she is supportive of her parents. "My parents encouraged independence," she said. "Parents are often overprotective of deaf children, but mine weren't," she said, stressing that independence is important to deaf children.

Both Bob Coltrane's parents attended residential schools, one in South Carolina, the other in Kentucky. They met and married, and later had three daughters and a son, all four of whom could hear.

Coltrane feels that growing up with parents who were deaf gave him "more responsibility at a younger age. There were lots of situations where I had to interpret for my parents."

Being the hearing child of deaf parents resulted in Coltrane's feeling left out at times, a feeling that Miss Erlandson can relate to. There were times when both recall not being able to understand what was either being

House may take final action on SWCID proposal Monday

AUSTIN — Official state recognition for the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf cleared another hurdle Friday when the House unanimously passed to final reading a bill granting it that status.

Final House consideration on the bill, which has already passed the Senate, could take place as early as Monday.

The bill, authored by Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena, would forge ties between the Big Spring school and Howard College and appropriate $3 million in state funds for use by the institute in 1982-83.

Speaker Billy Clayton of Springlake was the House sponsor of the bill and his strong backing of the measure brought about its 125-0 passage on second reading.

Rep. Larry Don Shaw said he was very pleased and encouraged by the support of the bill by his fellow legislators.

"With proper administration and continued support of the Texas House, we can build an institution noted throughout the country and the world," Shaw said.

Deaf programs currently administered by the junior college district through the school currently serves about 50 students. About 2,000 have already applied for fall classes.

"It's off to an amazing start," Shaw said. "Its growth can only be slowed by how ably legislators fund it."

The Southwest Institute is one of only three colleges for the deaf in the United States.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Social Security

Q. I'm getting my late husband's social security benefits but I may get married again. Will my social security checks stop coming, if I do?

A. It depends on your age. Under ordinary circumstances, a widow loses her social security rights when she remarries. If you remarry at age 60 or older, however, your widow's benefits could continue. You should be getting 50 percent of the retirement your late husband was entitled to. Should your prospective husband get social security payments, you might wish to take a "wife's benefit" on his record, if the payment would be larger. Our advice is, check it out with the local Social Security office.

Tops on TV: 'Murder in Texas'

CBS may air an NBA playoff game at noon on its "Sports Sunday" show. If not, viewers will be treated to a grab-bag of sporting events. Texans should be interested in the NBC movie at 8 o'clock tonight. Farrah Fawcett stars as the daughter of a wealthy oilman who may have been murdered by her husband. Andy Griffith reportedly steals the show in the role of the overprotective oilman-father. The movie is based on the true story documented in the book "Blood And Money."

'Giving the deaf independence important' signed or said during a conversation. Coltrane said he had no trouble learning to talk on his own, because his grandparents, neighborhood kids, television and radio supplied him with plenty of vocabulary. He added "I learned to sign and gesture when I was a kid. I learned to fingerspell when I was nine years old. After that, it was terrible if I misspelled a word (with fingerspelling.) My mom forced me to do it again if I did it wrong. If I did it wrong again, I had to look it up and spell the word 100 times. It was frustrating, but now I realize it helped me. It's not often I misspell a word."

Erlandson and Coltrane had sometimes experienced. "My father was born deaf in 1907," said Dignan. My mother lost her hearing at an early age, possibly from a disease." Dignan's parents attended schools in Georgia and Kentucky. His father attended a school which stressed the oral method of education, and his mother attended a school which stressed the manual method of communication. "We assumed our deafness was hereditary," said Dignan. My brother and I attended an oral school, and learned manual communication at home. Dignan, who graduated from Gallaudet College in Washington, D.C., was originally discouraged from attending the school. He and his brother became printers, a trade taken up by many deaf Americans. But Dignan later changed his mind concerning career goals, and enrolled at Gallaudet. "Late is better than never," said Dignan. "My parents loved us," Dignan said. "They educated us." Through his parents, Dignan said he learned that although situations could be frustrating at times, "we could face things." Coltrane recalled that he was never ashamed of his parent's deafness. "It was normal to me," he said. He recalls getting angry with someone making fun of his parents only once. He said when he was 11 or 12, he and his parents and a friend were at the airport, and some children were making fun of the sign language the group was using to communicate with. "The little kids were laughing, so I punched them out," he said. "I got a spanking. My dad said, 'They are ignorant. Don't become like them.'" All three agree that giving the deaf their independence is important. All three said they felt deaf people should make their own decisions and handle their own lives. Dignan said "My wife and I swore we would never depend on our kids as interpreters. It's not fair. Even with phone calls, we'll get an interpreter. If they volunteer, it's O.K., but I'll never depend on them. We refuse to take advantage of our children." Dignan and his wife, Joyce, have two boys, age 5 and 3, and a five-month-old daughter. Coltrane is married to a hearing woman, Sharon.

3 women, 3 children shot

CLINTON, Md. (AP) — Three women and three children were shot to death Saturday in a home in this Washington, D.C., suburb, Prince Georges' County police said. One policeman told WJLA-TV of Washington that the scene at the secluded home was "pure carnage, the worst mass murder ever in the county." WJLA quoted an unidentified police officer as saying that robbery had been ruled out as a motive and that police were investigating a "domestic situation" in connection with the killings. Although the names of the victims were not released, there were reports that one of the women was a former District of Columbia police sergeant who was related to the owner of the home.

KEITH GRAUMANN

Musical Arts degree is earned by K. Graumann

Keith David Graumann, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Graumann of 1903 Nolan, has completed all requirements for and has been awarded the degree of Doctorate of Musical Arts in Conducting at the University of Oklahoma. Commencement exercises will be held on the school's Norman, Okla., campus at 2:30 p.m., May 9. The Fine Arts Awards and Honors ceremonies will be held at 11 a.m., that day. Graumann, a 1971 graduate of Big Spring High School, spent four years in the BSHS choir, directed at the time by Kenny Sheppard. Sheppard is now at Southwestern University in Georgetown. Keith also studied for two years at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, under Dr. Bev Hensen. When Hensen transferred to Oklahoma, Graumann followed suit in order to continue his studies under Hensen.

Dr. Graumann, who received both his Bachelors of Music Education and Masters of Music Theory at OU, did his practice teaching at Moore, Okla. He has received numerous scholarship awards and honors during his educational pursuits, among them a Fulbright Research grant. He spent a year in Turin, Italy, doing research at Biblioteca Nazionale Library. Prior to receiving this grant, Graumann had transcribed and edited four of Antonio Vivaldi's unpublished works. Appropriately, 15 more of Vivaldi's works have been included in Dr. Graumann's dissertation and will soon be submitted for publication. An Eagle Scout, Dr. Graumann is also an avid fisherman. He and his father will be attending the OU Men's Outing Bass Tournament at Lake Texhoma May 18-24. Dr. Graumann will be married to Miss Ann Barrow of Scotland in June. He has been active as a professional church musician for the past 10 years. He also conducted a choir for a year at the university and was founding conductor of the Norman Community Choral Society.

Police Beat — Pickup stolen

Elwood Carlile, 610 Ridglea, left his pickup for 15 minutes, and it was gone. According to reports, Carlile parked his 1974 Datsun pickup on the 200 block of East Second, at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, with the keys in the ignition. When he returned at 10:45 a.m., the pickup had been stolen. Value of the vehicle has not been estimated.

Vandals smashed the rear window of a 1977 Ford van belonging to Don Quinn, 3707 Calvin, while it was parked at 403 S. Runnels, Friday night. Damage was estimated at $150. Burglars broke into the T. Club, 311 N.W. 4th, sometime Thursday night. After kicking in the front door, the intruders stole nine cases of beer. Loss, including damage, was estimated at $75.

Intruders also entered the Boss-Linam Electric Company, 604 Warehouse, sometime between 9 and 11 p.m. Friday. The only item stolen was a house key, but the invaders also damaged a pool table and a desk inside. Total loss was estimated at $1,601.50.

Varied agenda faces council

STANTON — The Stanton City Council will hold its regular meeting, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. The bike was valued at $2,700. Larry Paredes, 602 N.W. 4th, believes he knows who stole $70 to $100 cash from a cigar box next to the cash register at the Super Save Store, 212 N. Gregg, while he was on duty Friday night. Police will investigate further.

Sometime Thursday night, thieves stole two fender-skirts from a 1976 Chevrolet Caprice belonging to Bobby Gene Merrick, 3239 Drexel, while it was parked at 610 E. 4th. Loss was estimated at $124.90. Two were treated at Malone-Hogan Hospital and released following a two-vehicle accident at North Lamesa and the South Service Road of IS-20. A third car figured in the wreck, but did not collide with either of the other autos.

Pastor Keith Fox of San Antonio will be the guest speaker at both the 8:30 and 10:45 a.m., services. A.A. Graumann will be the liturgist at both services.

Some of Pastor Kohl's favorite hymns will be sung by the church choir. Mrs. Suzanne Haney will be the chorale director. All church members are invited to the Ramada Inn Restaurant at noon for a Dutch Threat buffet lunch. At 3 p.m., a reception for the pastor and his wife will be held in the Parish Hall of the church. Parish workers headed by Lela Hansen will be in charge of refreshments. Young women of the Lutheran Youth Fellowship will help serve the refreshments. Mrs. Evelyn Pachall will preside at the registration table. There will be a money tree for those who want to contribute and a scrapbook showing important events in the Rev. Mr. Kohl's ministry will be displayed. Hosts of the reception are the elders and officers of the church and their spouses. The community is invited to take part in the day's festivities. Mr. and Mrs. Rob Haney of 2500 Morrison hosted an ice cream supper for the Kohls and parishoners Saturday night.

No longer a last resort

Shock therapy is proposed for Texas mental treatment

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Shock therapy — which received a bad name from "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" — could be used more liberally in state mental hospitals under rules proposed by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. Electroconvulsive therapy (ECT) no longer would be considered a last resort, but would be available as the treatment of choice in some cases. "In certain conditions, ECT should be the first thing that comes to mind rather than one of the last things," said Dr. J.R. Clemons, deputy commissioner for mental health. The Texas Civil Liberties Union and the Texas Mental Health Association are concerned about the proposed rules. "We are going to request a public hearing," said Mary Keller of the civil liberties union. She said she was concerned that the rules might not adequately protect patients against receiving ECT without their consent — a statement disputed by Clemons. MHMR Commissioner John J. Kavanagh's proposed rules declare that under certain conditions, ECT "may be the least hazardous and most effective treatment." Major depression, schizophrenia and "schizoaffective disorders" are listed among the forms of mental illness where ECT might be indicated as a treatment. Patients would have to receive cardiovascular examinations as well as the neurological testing now required before undergoing shock therapy. Clemons said that under existing rules, MHMR psychiatrists use ECT only as a last resort. "The way the rules were written, you almost felt you were doing something wrong," he said. Last year, Clemons said, fewer than 30 state hospital patients — out of 23,000 total admissions — underwent electroshock treatments. "I don't expect a large increase in the amount of ECT that is given," he said. Clemons said the American Psychiatric Association and certain research groups had studied ECT, which he acknowledged was "unpopular and under attack" for a number of years. "By and large, the reports were positive and said that in some conditions, ECT is the treatment of choice and the safest treatment," he said. "Shock has been out of fashion for some time and apparently is becoming more vogueish," said Martha Boston, an Austin attorney who specializes in mental health law. There is good reason to be leery of ECT, she said.

"All the psychiatrists I have talked to say nobody knows why ECT does what it does and believe it causes some kind of permanent brain damage. You are still running electricity through somebody's head without knowing what you are doing," Ms. Boston said. Clemons said an American Psychiatric Association task force and other researchers had "studied ECT for three or four years and have not demonstrated any brain damage from ECT when applied consistently with good medical practice. There is no evidence of any kind of tissue damage." Mary Nudd, executive director of the Texas Mental Health Association, said she was concerned that MHMR was "trying to expand the use of ECT. I don't know if it is a legitimate expansion or not." She agreed with Ms. Keller that a public hearing should be held before the rule is adopted by the state MHMR board. Mrs. Nudd added that ECT as given today is far different from what it was a few years ago. "In the movie 'One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest' — widely viewed in theaters and on network television — a mental patient played by Jack Nicholson is given ECT to break his will. It's a shattering, painful scene to watch. "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is not an accurate depiction of ECT today," Ms. Nudd said. Ms. Nudd said that compared with 15 years ago, a "really small amount of voltage" is used in ECT. "They used to really zap them."

Democrat committee votes support of primary move

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The State Democratic Executive Committee voted 43 to 20 Saturday to support legislation that would move party primary elections from May to July. The legislation, if adopted, would restore the state primaries to the calendar date they occupied 21 years ago. The recommendation by the party's legislative committee was approved after delegates voted 45 to 18 to defeat a motion by delegate Larry Daugherty of Houston to table the matter. The SDEC recommended that party primaries be conducted on the third Saturday of July, with runoff elections set for the third Saturday of August, instead of the current first Saturday in May, with runoffs the first Saturday in June. Under the plan, the presidential preference primary would be abandoned and the party's presidential nominee would be chosen by convention. Precinct conventions would be held in May during presidential election years. But the bill introduced by Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman "fails to take into account the vicious New Right's tactics," said committee member Carrin Patman.

THREE GENERATIONS — Three-year-old Krystal Choate is enjoying herself as she dresses up in celebration of the centennial. She is joined by her grandmother, Darlene Hipp (left) and her mother, Darla Choate.

She said she strongly agrees with the part of the proposed rule that requires a cardiovascular examination before a patient receives ECT. Such an exam is "a real good idea because it (ECT) probably could negatively affect the health of some people if they didn't check it out," she said. The MHMR department recently settled a lawsuit attacking its treatment policies. One part of the settlement says all rule changes must be submitted to plaintiffs in the suit, including the U.S. Justice Department, for review. A three-person review panel, yet to be named, must approve proposed rules such as the one on shock therapy. ECT was an issue in the suit. Roger Gette of Dallas, lawyer for the plaintiffs, said expert witnesses would have challenged certain uses of ECT if the suit had gone to trial instead of being settled. "They would have testified (ECT) is a treatment of last resort for true chronic depression and catatonic schizophrenia — a totally uncommunicative, almost vegetable-type, state," Gette said. "The proposed rule goes quite a bit beyond that," he added.

Prince Charles greeted warmly in colony visit

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles, speaking Saturday at the College of William and Mary, called for a rededication to learning and a return to the traditional values behind British-American friendship. Noting that he was speaking only a few miles from Yorktown where the surrender of Lord Cornwallis in 1781 assured America's independence from English rule, Charles said the common heritage lives on and should light the way to the future.

"The common love of justice, liberty, rule of law and the determination and the courage to defend the right ... was inherited and has remained one of the most powerful factors in the friendship and the understanding which exist between our two countries," he said. "So far as Virginia is concerned, there will always be an England," responded Gov. John Dalton. Virginia was England's first colony in America.

New priest offers first mass today

The Rev. Mr. Vince Wiggins, 2, a son of James and June Wiggins of 3613 Connally, Big Spring, will say his first mass at Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church at 10:30 a.m., here today.

Wiggins was ordained into the priesthood at the Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo at 11 a.m., Saturday, Bishop Joseph A. Fiorenza of the San Angelo Diocese officiated.

Vince's father, a veteran of the Air Force, is employed by the Montgomery Ward store here. Vince was born in Newfoundland.

Vince attended elementary school in Colorado Springs, Colo., and Lamesa before the family moved to Big Spring in 1966. He attended Goliad Junior High here and graduated from Big Spring High School. He made his decision to study for the priesthood while a student at Howard College. He later attended Angelo State University and St. Thomas Seminary in Denver, Colo., before transferring to Assumption Seminary in San Antonio.

He was ordained a deacon Dec. 13, 1980 and has been serving at St. Theresa's Church in Junction and Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Menard.

An estimated 50 parishioners from Big Spring attended the San Angelo ceremony, including the Rev. Mr. Bernard Gulley, pastor of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church.

Heavy rains sweep across Hill Country

Heavy rains swept across the Texas hill country and South Texas Saturday, prompting flash flood watches and several road closings. Areas west of San Antonio received up to four inches of rain in a 24-hour period.

At 4 p.m. rain was falling from the southern tip of the state as far north as Austin and Freeport. A flash flood watch was in effect Saturday night for the cities of Del Rio, Laredo, Austin and San Antonio.

Late afternoon temperatures ranged from a low of 66 degrees at Lubbock to a high of 88 degrees at Brownsville.

Continuing funds sought for Head Start Program

The Big Spring Independent School District has asked the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for continuation funding of the Head Start Program for Howard County.

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission will consider a resolution regarding the application during its regular meeting, 1:30 p.m., May 13. BSISD has requested $260,795 from HEW, with matching local funds of $58,418.

The project is scheduled to start in September, and to continue for 12 months. Goal of the project is to supply "environmental stimulation" for students and to increase knowledge among parents and involve them in the basic educational opportunities of their children.

The program will serve 215 children ages three and four years. About 66 percent of these children are Spanish-speaking, which 12 percent are black and 22 percent Anglo.

Ninety percent of the children will come from homes below poverty level. Funding will provide for an administrator; 10 teachers; a nurse; a social worker; 10 teachers' aides; a clerk; a bookkeeper; and a custodian.

Bus transportation will be contracted with public schools. The application cites inflation as the largest problem encountered by the program. "Increased funds have not kept up with costs and employee state pay raises. When a staff member gains several years experience, he often transfers to other school district programs" that offer higher pay.

One of the strengths of the program, states the application, is that the Head Start Program has the total support of all the auxiliary services of the BSISD, and has very good ties with the rest of the school district.

TDC had troublesome month

Estelle demands evidence of Texas prison beatings

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas prison Director W.J. Estelle has challenged anyone with evidence that his guards are beating prisoners to step forward and present it to a grand jury.

"I have no evidence that it has ever occurred, and if somebody does have evidence to the contrary, I'd be as much interested as anybody in seeing it brought to light in the proper arena," said Estelle.

He was interviewed Friday at the state prison headquarters in this wooded town in Southeast Texas after a troublesome month for the Texas Department of Corrections.

Two prison supervisors were killed by an inmate, a federal judge issued a final decree calling for swift and sweeping reforms, and convicts staged a work stoppage for several days apparently in sympathy with the decree — all during the month of April.

In addition, an attorney for the inmate accused of killing the two prison officials suggested the incident occurred when his client was about to be taken to a remote section of the rural Ellis Unit known as "the Bottoms" for a beating, and a veteran warden lost his job after telling a newspaper reporter such beatings "probably" take place.

Estelle, 50, speaking slowly and deliberately, said they do not, and called the remark by former Assistant Warden G.P. Hardy "irresponsible."

"He didn't present any evidence. I view his comments as really pretty irresponsible. I'm waiting for somebody with some evidence to bring it to a grand jury's attention," Estelle said.

Hardy, whose comments appeared a week ago in the Dallas Morning News, was also asked how prisoners cope with overcrowded conditions. "Hell, these people were brought up in crowded homes. They are used to crowds. These people were raised by whores and slept on the floor," he told the newspaper.

Estelle said Hardy, a 20-year veteran officer, resigned Tuesday. "He recognized that his effectiveness had been compromised as a result of that newspaper article," the director said.

The same day Hardy resigned, 2,800 of the 3,050 inmates at the maximum security Ellis Unit staged a work stoppage, and similar actions were taken by prisoners at three of the other 17 units in the prison system.

Prison spokesman Rick Hartley said the prison was "back to normal" Friday and all but 32 prisoners were working again. He said officials believe the strike was linked to reforms ordered by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who issued a final decree April 20 ordering drastic changes.

Estelle conceded his prison was overcrowded, but he called the decree "unreasonable" and said it deals with many issues that have nothing to do with the U.S. Constitution.

Justice's order includes demands for reductions in the prison's population, no more than one prisoner per cell by 1983, one guard for every six prisoners by 1982, no more than 500 prisoners per unit by the end of next year.

What's the cure for inflation? Profitable agriculture, according to Secretary of Agriculture, John Block. In a recent address, Block felt the best remedy for the nation's inflation was strong, productive and profitable agriculture. Block recently cited several impediments toward that goal which, he said, the Reagan administration has marked for correction. These include eliminating the target price concept, unnecessary food labeling regulations and the soaring cost of national government. Many responsibilities currently handled by the government, he believes are best left to local, state and private sectors. Urging cutbacks in many areas, one marked exception was agricultural research. Block believes it is urgent to continue to improve agriculture technology through additional research to meet the needs of the future.

Visitation rights law in state may change

By MICHAEL DUPUNI
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Scared and alone, the young child was bundled up and placed aboard a Greyhound bus to travel the several hundred miles across West Texas for a visit with an alcoholic grandfather.

The child did not want to go. The child's foster parents did not want the visit to take place. The child's other set of grandparents spent $30,000 in legal fees to stop the trip.

Still, the child went. A district court judge ruled that the visit must take place.

Rep. Gary Thompson of Abilene said the preceding episode occurred to one of his constituents. Thompson admits it is a rare case but one that can take place under current Texas law.

Thompson presented a bill Tuesday night to the House Judiciary Committee that would strip district court judges of the sole right to assign visitation rights for grandparents.

Rep. Bob Bush of Sherman, the committee chairman, assigned the bill to a subcommittee for further study.

Texas is one of only three states that allow courts to grant child visitation rights to grandparents without parental consent, Thompson said.

Thompson admitted that most judges use discretion in granting visitation rights but that in his constituent's case the judge ignored the family's objections.

"This takes the primary responsibility from the people most responsible — the parents," Thompson said. "It weakens something very dear in our culture."

His bill would remove the district judges' statutory authority to assign grandparental visitation rights and leave the decision in the hands of the child's parents.

Thompson said Department of Human Resources officials told him they would not oppose the repeal of the judge's authority, even though abuses of the power are few.

"This was an exceptional case," Thompson said. "I just wanted to highlight the situation; it's a big enough problem to bring to the legislature and see how to solve it."

It may be too late in the session to get the bill passed, although Thompson said it has an outside chance, but it will certainly lay the groundwork for interim study committee, he said.

Q. Which costs less, renting or owning a home?

A. Say you now spend $200 monthly for rent and your only other expenses are utilities and insurance. Suppose you buy a home, payments on which are $200 monthly, including taxes, interest and principal payments. Your only other expenses are utilities, insurance and maintenance. At first glance, it appears renting is less costly than ownership. But you have made no allowance for the adjustment on your taxable income that results from payment of real estate taxes and interest in your mortgage. Nor have you figured the increased equity you receive in making payments against the mortgage principal. With land values rising, along with demand for housing and increasing costs for labor and materials, owning a home is almost always less expensive than renting.

Board has fallen short of expectations

There is a Catch 22 situation concerning at least one government agency, the Merit System Protection Board. Created to track waste, mismanagement and fraud within government, it is often wasteful, frequently mismanaged and has been accused of being downright fraudulent at times.

It should not surprise anyone that the board has fallen several leagues short of fully achieving its goal.

The Merit System Protection Board came into being three years ago to protect those who wished to report improper acts by other government workers. So far, the board's most obvious shortcoming has been its failure to convince employees they will not face reprisals for turning in offenders.

A recent survey of federal employees showed that nearly half — 45 percent — had observed fraud, waste or mismanagement in their agencies within the last year. Of those who were knowledgeable of wrongful acts, 70 percent did nothing about it.

The survey also shows that, had those who viewed abuses reported them, an estimated $23 million could have been saved.

Most of the silent observers said they feared losing their jobs or otherwise having their careers adversely affected. Others believed nothing would have been done even if they had taken their information to the board.

The Merit System Protection Board is a good idea. More importantly, it is necessary to police bribes, kickbacks, fraud and poor management. However, considering its success rate, it is apparent the board needs a strong shot of credibility.

That boost can only come from President Reagan.

For the merit system program to be workable and meaningful, honest government employees must know the administration is sincere in its effort to eliminate waste and abuses of funds from government.

They must know they will not be punished for providing information. For that message to be made clear, it may be necessary to offer some type of incentive — not with the idea that it is a reward, but simply to reassure workers their careers will not suffer.

We should not assume most people in government service are dishonest. However, we know some are, and we should not assume their dishonest practices will disappear.

It is no secret many government workers tend to be free and loose with tax dollars. The Merit System Protection Board was designed to be a way to bring some of those abuses under closer scrutiny.

But unless President Reagan is able to convince government employees they will not face reprisals, and that the government is truly interested in curtailing abuse, the merit system program will take the same route as others whose roles have become useless and their power ineffective.

Art Buchwald

The beleaguered used-car dealers in America have finally gotten a break. A Federal Trade Commission proposal to prevent deceptive sales practices has been abandoned. The ruling, had it gone into effect, would have required used-car dealers to check the brakes, the transmissions, electrical systems and 11 other key automotive components and put a sticker on the windshield telling the buyer whether they worked or not. If the sticker said the components were in order, and it turned out they weren't, the used car dealer would be held responsible, and would have to either fix the car or take it back.

"CRAZY CHARLIE," ONE of the largest used car dealers in the area, was jubilant when he heard the news and said, "It's about time the government got off our backs. The idea of guaranteeing a used car is against everything this country stands for."

"I guess the customer must now take your word for it that the car he's buying actually works," I said.

"That's the way it's always been. A used car dealer's word is worth 20 government stickers. A handshake from one of my salesmen means more than any warranty thought up by some government bureaucrat."

"I guess the FTC was just going overboard because of the few bad apples in your business."

"If there are any bad apples in this business, I've never met them," said Crazy Charlie. "I can personally guarantee you that when someone comes on this lot he's going to get value for his money."

"Even if the brakes don't work?"

"It's a used car," he said. "It's not going to be perfect. The customer knows that. He doesn't have to have a sticker to tell him what he's getting into. The important thing is not what's wrong with a car, but how much it costs. Look at this beautiful 1976 four-door sedan. I'm selling it for $2,400, though the blue book says I should get $3,000 for it. That's why they call me 'Crazy Charlie.'"

"It's a lovely car," I admitted.

"Now if I had to put a sticker on it I would be obliged to tell you the transmission is shot. How would you feel about that?"

"I probably wouldn't want to buy it."

"EXACTLY. THAT STICKER could break your heart. I have too much respect for my customers to hurt them by telling them every little thing that could go wrong with a car."

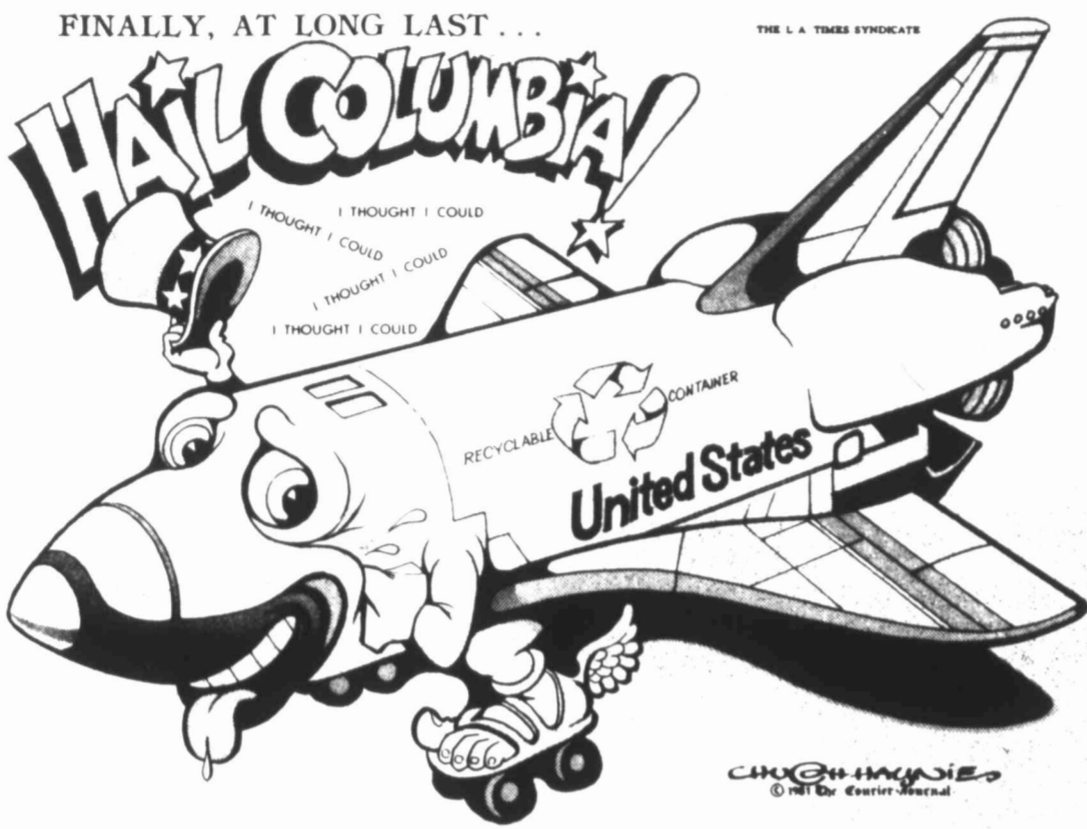

"But won't they find out sooner or later that the transmission has to be replaced?"

"It depends on how much the person cares about the transmission. Most people don't even know what it does. If we have to check out every car that comes on the lot, we're going to have to pass on the cost to the consumer."

The government doesn't think of that when it comes up with its silly rules. Customers don't want us to put stickers on windshields; it takes all the fun out of buying a used car."

"I must say your lobby did a good job in killing the sticker regulation."

"The only reason we were against it was because it was totally unnecessary. If a person can't trust a used-car dealer in this country, who can he trust?"

Strength training good for all sports

Dear Dr. Donahue: My father says not to train with weights. He says that I will throw off my timing by over-developing my muscles. He has told me about famous athletes who ruined their careers by weight training. We'll both go by what you say. — C.G.

With all due respect to your father's opinions, I must differ with him on this business of weight training. I have heard the same stories — They are just that — stories, myths. No one can ever blame weight training for a loss of athletic ability. A stronger athlete is a better athlete.

I don't mean this to apply only in those sports that involve physical contact and depend on great body size, like football. Strength training is equally important in sports that depend on agility and great reflexes, like basketball or baseball. I can give you specific examples.

A famous, nationally-ranked collegiate basketball team demands that its players participate in a vigorous program of weight training. This college has documented evidence that with weight training its players could jump better, had better endurance and, not so incidentally, had a better won-loss record. It is the same for every sport.

You must remember that unstructured weight training programs may not be helpful. You have to have a well-planned program to emphasize the muscles you use in a sport. I admit, it does not help a basketball player to bench press 300 pounds. But it does help a basketball player to develop his jumping muscles, his quadriceps and hamstrings (the thigh muscles), and his calves. It helps to develop his abdominal muscles and his low back muscles for the rotation movements he must make. But the idea of the muscle-bound body builder is antiquated and should have died a long time ago.

Dear Dr. Donahue: I play softball during the summer months and last July I was hit in the thigh with the ball. The result was a very dark bruise there. Now, although the leg feels fine, I can still see where the bruise was. The skin is still discolored, almost like a shadow. My question: Should I be concerned? Why is the discoloration there after all this time? Is it a blood clot? I am female, age 26. — P.E.S.

If you are having pain when you straighten your knee or if the bruised area is tender to the touch, then I would be concerned. The bruised area is not a blood clot. When you were hit with the ball, blood vessels were broken and blood leaked out beneath the skin and into the muscles of the thigh. The color of the bruise comes from the pigment in the leaked red blood cells as they were being broken down and reabsorbed by the surrounding tissue. That pigment has remained in your skin. It may eventually go away.

But I want to caution you about making sure you have no pain or limitation of motion. At times, a severe muscle bruise can become calcified. That is called myositis ossificans. The calcified lump in the muscle produces pain and limited leg movement. If you have either of those signs or if you feel a lump, then you should have a doctor examine the leg. If you have only the slight discoloration, then I would expect that cosmetic problem to disappear with time.

Dear Dr. Donahue: I just received a brand new 10-speed bicycle. I wonder if biking would trim the interior thigh, not near the knee, but up about a foot or more? — D.C.

It depends on how much of the undesired thigh bulk is fat and how much is muscle. Exercise will trim excess fat from all the places in the body where it might be stored. If you were to lose 20 pounds and if a pound or so of that happened to be in stored fat in the areas you mention, you could expect to lose a proportional amount of girth in that area. But it won't be lost there preferentially just because your exercise involved the legs.

The key to it all is total calories lost. How much of the calories stored are in fat and where those fat deposits are located. If you have large fat deposits in your abdominal area you will lose a proportionately greater amount of weight in that area from your biking. How many other ways can one state this principle, which most people seem to find so unbelievable?

Dear Dr. Donahue: Do you have any suggestions for exercise for a rheumatoid arthritis that is in the hips? D.S.

The key concern is development of rigidity of hip joints. Passive stretching can avoid this. One way is to lie in a prone position for 15 to 20 minutes a couple of times a day. This will help achieve the maximum passive stretching and should be beneficial.

Dear Dr. Donahue: Can one pick up scabies or body lice from toilet seats? — N.F.

In theory it is possible. A practical thing it very seldom happens.

What can vitamins really do for you — and what can't they do? In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donahue separates the common sense from the nonsense about this controversial health aid. For your copy of "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donahue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donahue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I want to know how to be saved. What are your ideas about salvation? — S.P.

DEAR S.P.: What you need to know is what God says about salvation. That is why the Bible is so important — it is God's Word, and in it you can discover how to be saved.

First, God tells us that we need to be saved. I am thankful you have already sensed your need of salvation; there are many people today who, unfortunately, have not reached that point. They believe they're good enough to earn God's favor, or that God would never judge them for their sins since He is loving. But the Bible clearly says, "There is no one righteous, not even one... for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:10, 23). We need to be saved because we are sinners; our greatest need is forgiveness.

The Bible also teaches that we can never save ourselves, no matter how good we are or how much we try to please God by our deeds or religious acts. God's standard is perfection, and none of us are without sin in our lives.

How can we be saved if we can never win God's approval on our own? There is only one way — only God can bring us salvation. And that is what He has done! God sent His Son, Jesus Christ, into the world to make atonement as a sacrifice for our sins. Jesus Christ was perfect and without sin, and yet he took upon himself your sins and mine. He died in your place.

How can you be saved? By giving your life to Jesus Christ. In a simple prayer of faith, you can confess to him that you know you are a sinner and you are sorry for your sins. Confess that you believe Christ died for you, and ask him to come into your life. If you do that, God has promised to make you his child and to help you every day as you live for Christ.

Janice Archer, vocal instructor at Midland College and the University of Texas at the Permian Basin, will give a concert at 8 p.m., May 8, at the Howard College Auditorium. She will be assisted by Dr. Donald R. Grant, clarinetist and Nancy Knapp, pianist.

Ms. Archer, spinto-coloratura soprano, has the unusual combination of a three-octave range and mezzo qualities in the lower and middle registers. She began singing at a very early age and attended Hastings College on music, scholastic and "Miss Nebraska Pageant" scholarships where she was chosen as the outstanding graduating performer and graduated cum laude receiving a B. A. in vocal musical education.

She then attended the University of Missouri in Columbia, as a graduate assistant in voice from where she received an M. A. in Music History with vocal emphasis.

She has continued her vocal studies with world renowned vocal instructors: in Graz, Austria with Nina Setaro Jones; in Paris, France with Andre' Huc-Santana; with Horst Guner from Freiburg, Germany and with Pierre Bernac of Paris, France in a master class.

She has performed in a number of musicals, operas and given concerts throughout the Midwest and in Texas. She has also sung at Marie's of Denver, and the Fountainebleau-Hilton of Miami Beach.

Her recent leading role as Rosalina in "Die Fledermaus", Midland's first operatic endeavor, was a smashing success and as a direct result of that performance she is appearing in a movie, now being produced in New Orleans, entitled "You Never Gave Me Roses" in which she plays the role of a night club entertainer and sings the theme song as well as other portions of the sound track.

Nancy began as a fitted young pianist winning contests which launched her studies and career. She was the recipient of the prestigious National Eva Browning Piano Competition to Texas Tech, from where she received her B. M. and M. M. degrees.

Additional graduate work was facilitated by the Haldeman Music Scholarship at the University of Arizona. In addition to several other brilliant awards, she was a recipient of the Elizabeth McDowell Marshall Piano Scholarship to Chatauga Institution, from which she received a performance diploma.

Nancy has appeared with the Texas Tech University Symphony Orchestra and the Forrest Heights Chamber Orchestra as well as concertizing throughout the Southwest. She is presently a private instructor and a pianist for Midland College.

Donald Grant's illustrious career as a clarinetist and saxophonist began while he was stationed in Europe where he was solo and lead in several Navy bands. While there he studied clarinet under the tutelage of M. Amiel of the Opera d'Nice and with Sr. Vincent Morales of the Academy of Liceo in Barcelona, Spain. He completed his B. M. and M. in music from the University of Indiana during which time he studied with Bernard Portnoy, formerly of the Cleveland and Philadelphia Orchestras and Juilliard School of music and M. Deffayet of the Paris Conservatory. Subsequently he has played in a series of fine orchestras in the United States.

El Paso demonstrators march for socialist Chicano state

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — About 350 demonstrators marched through the streets of El Paso Saturday, protesting alleged oppression and calling for a socialist Chicano state.

Waving red flags and chanting slogans in Spanish, the demonstrators peacefully tromped through the South Side and downtown areas as a dozen policemen followed. One bystander shouted obscenities at the marchers until officers persuaded him to stop.

The march was a repeat performance of a May Day march held in neighboring Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, on Friday. About 1,500 people participated in that march, supporting socialism and organized labor.

The groups participating in Saturday's march were potpourri of ethnic and socialist causes. The leaders were members of the National Liberation Movement, which wants Mexico and the southwest United States united into a socialist state. They were joined by advocates of the Puerto Rican liberation movement, the Republic of New Africa, the Mexican Popular Defense Committee and the Canadian Party of Labor.

One bearded young man who wouldn't reveal his name said he had driven from Quebec to participate in the protests. He joined Puerto Ricans in carrying a banner in the two-block long trail of demonstrators.

"The struggle for independence in Quebec is the same as in Puerto Rico," he said. "We're fighting for the same thing."

Another long distance traveler was 73-year-old Juan Antonio Corretjer, who came from his home in Puerto Rico to attend the march and the rally that followed in a private activities center.

"It's a very good march," he said, adjusting his black beret. "I am glad we got so many people to come out."

Most of the marchers were in their 20s and many were Anglos from as far away as New York, California and Colorado.

Ricardo Romero, a member of the National Liberation Movement in Colorado, said the South Side barrio was chosen for the march because the people there sympathized with his cause — unifying Hispanics on both sides of the border.

Y to open new round of classes

The YMCA will begin its new session of Fitness Fantasia classes Monday. The local YMCA has two national YMCA Fitness Fantasia instructors who have undergone extensive Fitness Fantasia Instructor workshops to qualify for their titles.

Nationally certified are Teri Bryant and Linda Ward. Included in these workshops are exercise routines put to music which women across the nation are doing at their local YMCAs. Instructors also have training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation and carotid palpation is monitored throughout the classes.

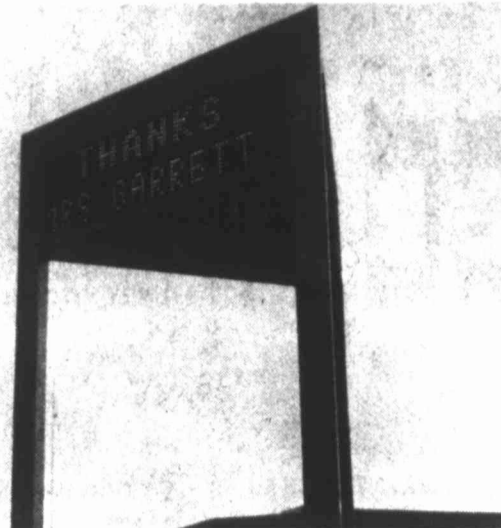

Fitness Fantasia consists of three one-hour exercise periods a week. Over a course of six to eight weeks, Fitness Fantasia participants have a chance to decrease body fat, increase muscle tone, increase their stamina, and increase their ease of movement from increased flexibility and agility, according to Miss Bryant.

Each course of Fitness Fantasia offers choreographed exercise routines set to music. All exercises are selected to offer a total fitness program, said Miss Bryant.

Classes are May 4-May 29, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. or Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. or from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

The morning and afternoon classes have a fee of $6 for Y-members and $17 for non-members. Fees for the evening class are $3 for members and $8 for non-members.

Instructors are Miss Bryant, morning, Hannah Coleman, afternoon, and Miss Ward, evening. Further information may be obtained by calling the YMCA at 267-8234.

NEW ADDITION TO HC CAMPUS — Work on the new digital display sign, located on the northwest corner of the Howard College campus, is close to completion. Only the lettering to be placed at the base of the sign remains to be completed. The 30-foot tower, donated to the college by Mrs. Dorothy Garrett, is a computer program sign with the computer located inside the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. This sign, constructed from Tri-Plex Sign Company of San Angelo, and designed by Gary and Co. of Big Spring, is triangular in shape with two lines for displaying various messages. College officials noted that community organizations may also use the sign for displaying their messages. Any organization wanting to make use of the sign may contact Jan Foresyth at 267-6311, ext. 38 or 26.

Georgia governor allows extradition of soldier

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Gov. George Busbee signed extradition papers Saturday to return to New York a white Army private reportedly charged in the slayings of three black men in Buffalo, N.Y.

The papers were rushed to Muscogee County Sheriff Gene Hodge by a state trooper at the request of Erie County, N.Y., District Attorney Edward Cosgrove, who is trying to speed up the extradition of Pvt. Joseph G. Christopher, 25, of Buffalo, a spokesman for the governor said.

There was some need, expressed by the district attorney in Buffalo, to expedite it, spokesman Duane Riner said.

Cosgrove said he wants to speed up the extradition process, possibly arranging a hearing Monday. But Georgia prosecutors and a source close to the investigation said it is unlikely that Christopher's attorneys would agree to a change in a court hearing date, now scheduled for next Friday.

Chambers plan 3-city contest

The Chambers of Commerce in Big Spring, Lamesa and Snyder have agreed to have a contest to recruit new members. Each Chamber will have a kick-off next Friday, with prospects assigned to their New Member Committees.

The contest will end Thursday, May 19. The Chamber that recruits the most new members will receive a steak dinner from the losing Chambers. The losers will feast on beans and cornbread.

Terry Hanson, president of the Big Spring Ambassadors who originated the idea of the contest, suggests that no one will be a loser because each Chamber will gain new members and all three communities will have an opportunity to become better acquainted.

AREA WINNERS — Staci Wilkerson (left) of Garden City and Stephanie McAdams of Lorraine were among area students who placed in Region 1-A competition at Levelland recently. Staci wound up second in typing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wilkerson of Garden City. Stephanie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall McAdams of Lorraine, was third in typing. Miss Wilkerson and Miss McAdams advance to May 5 state competition in Austin.

On track Lyricists urged to go to work

"On Track" is an official column prepared by the Big Spring Centennial, Inc., and lists the various events and meetings being held in conjunction with the upcoming Big Spring-Howard County Centennial to be held May 21-30. Individuals wishing to list their activities and events in this column are asked to call Mel Prather at 267-6373, or bring their items by Citizens Federal Credit Union.

REHEARSALS CONTINUE: Rehearsals for the "Iron Horse Revue" will continue this week at the Rannels Junior High School gym. This will be the last week of rehearsals for many cast members and all persons who will be appearing in the large stage show are being encouraged to attend these rehearsals.

SONG WRITING CONTEST: A contest is currently under way for a song about either Big Spring or Howard County that features a West Texas or railroad theme. Individuals interested in submitting an entry for consideration should have the song taped on either a reel to reel tape or cassette, including the lyrics with the tape; have an accompaniment — whether it be a guitar, piano, or orchestra; and have the entry into the Centennial Store-Headquarters prior to May 21, 1981. The winning entry will have their song performed during the centennial festivities and will receive a $50 cash prize. Interested individuals should submit their entries to: Song Contest, Centennial Store-Headquarters, 900 Main, Big Spring, 79720.

PARADE ENTRY DEADLINE: Individuals, groups, organizations, and businesses will have until May 15, to submit entries for the Centennial Parade to be held Monday, May 25. All persons interested in entering a float, marching band or musical group, walking group, horse-animat stock, auto-motorized vehicle, or other items, are asked to contact either Lynn Hise at Big Spring High School or Dr. Charles Hays at Howard College prior to the Wednesday deadline. The previous deadline had been set for April 15, but was extended due to the overwhelming number of entries received by the parade committee.

BELLES AND BROTHERS BUTTONS: The third, and final, shipment of Centennial Belles and Brothers of the Brush buttons was received at the Centennial Store-Headquarters this past week. The demand for these commemorative items has been exceptional and those persons wishing to join one of these two groups and receive one of these buttons must do so before the final shipment is depleted.

County Library growing

By JUDITH GRAY
County Librarian

Each year County Librarians across the State of Texas prepare annual reports for their respective libraries to be sent to the Texas State Library. The information is compiled and placed in TSL's published report: "Texas Public Library Statistics for (year)".

Both the individual library's report and the State Library's report enable one to see growth in services and collections, financial support, use of the library and its collections of books and materials, as well as the various services that are provided.

In referring to the Howard County Library's report for the Fiscal Year 1980 (October 1-September 30), I

AARP chapter meets Tuesday

The Howard County AARP Chapter 1645 will conduct its monthly meeting at 10 a.m., Tuesday in the Kentwood Older Adults Center, 2805 Lynn Drive.

All members are being urged to attend the meeting in Centennial dress in order to make everyone more conscious of the May 21-30 celebration here.

Following a business meeting, members and guests will be entertained by the All Girls Choir of Goliad Middle School, which will be under the direction of Marsha McCoy.

can report that there was growth. This is important, because all things (people, institutions, businesses, communities) must grow or they stagnate.

I reported to the County Commissioners and at their suggestion, I will share the information with you.

The following statistics will be given, the FY 80 figure then the FY 79 in parentheses for comparison, for bookstock, magazine, recordings, art prints, sculpture, filmstrips. First for number of titles, the exact amount or an estimated figure (indicated by an asterisk) will be given.

Bookstock:
41,050 *(38,692 *titles);
43,780 (41,355 items); 88,727 (70,478 * circulation).
Magazines: 185 (82) titles;
657 (1415) items — many were bound in the course of the year, and bound volumes are included in bookstock; these items do not circulate. They do receive heavy use in the library, but there is no statistic kept for this use.
Recordings: 1196 (1127) titles; 1601 (1138) items; 3919 (1967) circulation. Art Prints: 70(49) titles; same for items; 665*(199) circulation. Sculpture: 23*(31) titles; 27*(31) items; 39*(5) circulations. Filmstrips: 56 (87) titles; 146*(87) items; 540 circulations — not kept previously.

We belong to two film circuits and receive packets of films once a month from one of them and a packet every two months from the other. We "borrowed" films from our system circuit. 352 in FY 80 and 303 in FY 79. From the other circuit, we borrowed 124 films in 80 and 129 in '79. A total of 860 films from both circuits were circulated in '80 at 1,183 showings with a viewer total of 38,624.

Dorm fight ends in fatal shooting

CANYON, Texas (AP) — A 21-year-old student at West Texas State University was fatally stabbed with a screwdriver early today following an argument in a school dormitory authorities said.

Kenny Henderson of Muleshoe was pronounced dead at an Amarillo hospital shortly after midnight. Authorities said efforts to save Henderson's life with cardiopulmonary resuscitation failed.

Stranded ship steaming home, passengers just steaming

ABOARD THE NORWAY (AP) — The SS Norway, the world's largest cruise ship, steamed toward Miami Saturday after its second breakdown in eight months left 1,780 passengers without electricity and water for 24 hours. Some passed the time watching the crew throw chickens to circling sharks. Others fumed.

"This is definitely my first cruise and my last cruise," one woman yelled when all hot food service stopped Friday. She declined to be identified or say how much she paid for the seven-day cruise, which cost as much as $1,450 for some.

Capt. Aage Hoddevik said the Norway received sufficient power to start again at about 4 a.m. EDT Saturday. He insisted the ship was never in any danger during the outage and no passengers had suffered health problems. "Of course, it was not an emergency," he said.

The Norway was expected in Miami Monday after canceling a scuba-diving stop. The Norwegian Caribbean Lines in Miami said the firm was working on a refund program, and that the boiler breakdown was not as serious as the electrical wiring outage that paralyzed the ship for 28 hours in August.

The plush, 15-year-old, 1,034-foot-long ship, formerly the SS France, underwent a $50 million renovation in 1980. But all the luxuries provided little relief for sweltering passengers during the ordeal.

Ralph Doran, 38, of Toronto, bedded down under the lifeboats to get a breeze that his non-functioning air conditioner couldn't provide. "If I'd known we were going to camp out I'd have stayed at home and gone to the woods," he said.

Anne Coyne of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., said: "I love this ship and I would go again. It's a real Cadillac but maybe it's a lemon." She said she was grateful the ship was moving again. "I'd use an oar to row it there if necessary," she added after a night in an airless cabin.

Untold tales of Texas women will be featured

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Texas women saved Alamo, rode and roped, flew flimsy early aircraft, robbed banks, drilled oil wells and set records in sports events.

They ran the Texas Supreme Court, made boots, invented liquid paper, wrote plays, sewed and designed clothing, cooked, changed diapers, worked in sweat shops, lobbied for the vote and inspired their men and children to great achievements.

Texas women, like the men, worked and played hard and helped tame a tough frontier state. The roles women played in developing Texas have been largely untold, says the Texas Foundation for Women's Resources, a condition the foundation plans to remedy beginning next week.

On May 10 an exhibit called "Texas Women — A Celebration of History," premieres at the Institute of Texas Cultures to tell a story its planners say has been neglected in most history texts until now.

"I don't think the people who write textbooks can plead ignorance of Texas women again," said Mary Beth Rogers, an Austin publicist who is directing the exhibit, the first of its kind in the nation.

Ms. Rogers and her helpers spent two years gathering the more than 200 rare photographs, costumes, paintings, documents and relics of the past from 2,000 sources including attics, diaries, museums and libraries.

The survey uncovered some 500 women who made significant contributions to

Teen survives ditch mishap

MIDLAND — Alejandro Ortega Vasquez, 17, was buried alive while working at a construction site here Friday, but lived to tell about it.

Vasquez was buried under eight inches of dirt when the walls of a ditch caved in on him. He was helping install a telephone conduit at the time.

He was buried about 55 minutes before fire department teams freed him. Vasquez suffered minor head and leg injuries.

their communities of the state, many achieving firsts in the nation. "We could fill a whole museum, but because of space limitations we can tell the stories of only a few," Ms. Rogers said.

"Texas Women" will be on exhibit at the Institute of Texan Cultures throughout the summer, then will make a two-year tour of the state. It is accompanied by a soon-to-be-published book detailing the exploits of traditionalist, as well as non-traditionalist women of Texas.

The display was conceived four years ago when Ann Richards, a Travis County Commissioner, toured the Institute of Texan Cultures, a permanent exhibit telling

Children had their day on Capitol Hill Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Children have a disarming air about them when they have something to say. They tell it like it is, even when the object of their attention is a U.S. senator or the president of the United States.

In the stately halls of Congress on Friday, a third-grader from the District of Columbia caught one U.S. senator off guard.

"Why do poor people have to pay taxes and the rich don't?" 9-year-old Sharon Hewlitt asked Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Dodd gulped and replied: "When you see my friend Dave Stockman today, you ask him that."

About 200 other youngsters broke into applause.

After meeting with Dodd, the youngsters, between 9 and 13 years old, gave budget director David A. Stockman a message for President Reagan — letters from 20,000 children describing the nation's major problems.

The children said inflation was the major problem facing the country. Other areas of concern were crime, child abuse, divorce and the breakdown of family relations and world hunger and poverty.

It was all part of Children's Day, a date proclaimed by more than 40 governors on behalf of Save the Children, an international non-profit agency committed to helping the stories of the various ethnic groups that settled in the state.

Mrs. Richards was accompanied by her two sons and two daughters, and after the tour one of the girls asked their mother, "where were all the women?" Mrs. Richards' attempt to answer that question eventually led to development of the exhibit.

The ensuing two-year survey discovered that women created most of the cultural life in Texas — the museums, symphonies, parks, monuments and libraries — 85 percent of which were organized by Texas club women.

Women were also effective politicians and reformists, needy children through community development.

Twenty youngsters appeared as witnesses before the international relations subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a session chaired by Dodd.

They read the formal Children's Agenda for Action for the family and letters from youngsters around the country.

In their agenda, the children attributed much of the tension and strain in their homes to inflation and expressed concern that their mothers must work to pay the bills. The children asked President Reagan and Congress to assist them by lowering prices and raising salaries so that life would be easier for their parents and themselves.

In their letters, the children also suggested that many of the "robberies, muggings, murders and kidnappings" in the news are committed by people who need money for their families. They asked Congress to do what it could to "make our world a safer and more peaceful place for everyone."

Some of the most poignant letters read at the hearing concerned divorce, with children relating the agony of custody battles that forces them to choose between mother and father.

responsible for enacting legislation on child labor, infant health care, women's suffrage, prohibition, education and prison reform.

The exhibits range from the 38-caliber revolver that outlaw Bonnie Parker carried while she and Clyde Barrow rampaged across the state to a replica of the pink drilling rigs used by modern-day San Antonio oilwoman Irene Wischer.

Using photographs, artifacts, diary excerpts and words of the women themselves, the exhibit attempts to depict not only the state's most accomplished heroines, but also reveals the struggles, sorrows and joys of the more typical women, Ms. Rogers said.

"We've tried to include stories of interest to men and children, as well as women," she said. "It has a broad appeal to traditionalist women, club women, working women, career women... It's free. We wanted it to be free. We wanted people to come and see it."

The Texas Commission For Humanities provided the initial seed money for research and development, but the women supporters of the project raised another $300,000 from private sources to complete the exhibit.

"I don't think that much money has ever been raised by women for a project about women before," Ms. Rogers said.

A sampling of women depicted in the exhibit includes: —Heffie O.A. Conner, Texas's first black county home demonstration agent who helped eliminate the public school common drinking cup — a source of continuous illness among school children.

—Clara Driscoll, the Corpus Christi heiress who wrote a $25,000 check in 1908 to save the Alamo from commercial exploitation and who later was a successful Broadway playwright.

—Bette Graham, a Dallas secretary whose kitchen experiments produced liquid paper and a multimillion-dollar corporation. The mixer she used to create the product is on display.

—Jovita Idar, who organized La Liga Feminil Mexicana in San Antonio in 1911 to promote the rights of women.

—Henrietta King, who registered the first brand for the famous King Ranch and was its sole owner for 40 years.

—Jane Y. McCallum, who organized the "Petticoat Lobby" of the 1920s.

—Nurse May Smith, known as "mother to 55,000 Dallas babies," because she set up a "baby camp" in Red Cross tents on the grounds of Parkland Hospital in 1913.

—San Antonio aviator Kathrine Stinson, one of the nation's first female pilots who had fan clubs throughout the world and may have been history's first skywriter.

WHICH CONTACT LENSES?

There are numerous types of contact lenses available today. Hard lenses, soft lenses, extended wear and gas permeable lenses all have their advantages. Your vision prescription, working conditions, tear chemistry as well as other factors should be considered in lens selection. Diagnostic procedures allow the carious lenses to be evaluated prior to ordering. This can eliminate many of the minor problems associated with lens wear. No lens is a panacea and without proper fitting and follow-up care the real enjoyment possible with contact lenses may never be realized.

TRAVEL AND ENTERTAINMENT EXPENSES (Substantiation Requirement)

Even though a taxpayer appears to meet every requirement of the Internal Revenue Code on travel and entertainment expenditures, he may still be disallowed a deduction for failure to meet the "substantiation" requirements. Ever since 1962, the IRS has had the authority to disallow deductions based on approximations. Your unsupported verbal testimony or plea for mercy will not constitute substantiation.

There are five basic elements to be proven with respect to "each" expenditure for entertainment.

- 1. AMOUNT — Each separate expenditure must be accounted for separately except incidental expenditures which may be lumped on a daily basis.
- 2. TIME — The date the entertainment took place.
- 3. PLACE — Include name, address and type of entertainment.
- 4. BUSINESS PURPOSE — State the nature of business discussion or activity. Unless the type of business is obvious, give enough details to establish the specific business activity.
- 5. BUSINESS RELATIONSHIP — Give the name, occupation or title of the person being entertained.

Of the above elements only the first four apply to travel. Under the category TIME, give dates of departure and return for each trip and the number of those days spent on business.

As a general rule, if you keep a "timely kept" diary with the required elements of substantiation, you will be able to defend your deduction. A timely kept diary is one in which the entries are made at or near the time the expenditure was made. When the expenditure is $25,000 or less, an actual paid receipt is not required as long as you have the information recorded. A cancelled check by itself will not necessarily support a deduction.

Taxpayers who have had their "T and E" deductions substantially slashed during examination will vouch for the Internal Revenue Service's strict application of these substantiation requirements.

Pleasant Colony Derby champ

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Pleasant Colony, trained by Johnny Campo, who has predicted a Triple Crown for his colt, took the first step toward that goal Saturday when he put on a big stretch run to win the $404,700 Kentucky Derby.

Ridden by Jorge Velazquez, who won the Derby for the first time in six attempts, Pleasant Colony thundered home in front of Woodchopper, who closed strongly on the outside. Partez, a member of the mutual field, finished third.

Pleasant Colony completed the 1 1/4 miles of the richest running of the 107-year-old Derby in 2:02 for his convincing victory.

Before the race, Campo, a 5-foot-7, 250-pound wisecracker of the streets of New York, was asked to predict who the first four finishers would be. "I can't give you second, third or fourth," said Campo, leaving no doubt who he thought the winner would be.

"The only class in the race if you're handicapping is Pleasant Colony."

The dark colt who races in the colors of Thomas Melon, Evans' Buckland Farm was certainly the class of the 21-horse Derby field on a bright, pleasant afternoon.

It was a trouble-free Derby once the starting gate sprang, sending the 21 3-year-olds on a quest of a winner's purse of $317,200. The old gross and first place money records were $326,800 and $274,000, respectively in 1974 when Cannonade led 22 opponents across the finish.

This Derby will be remembered as a court case as well as a horse race. Twenty-three horses were entered Thursday, but Churchill Downs invoked its 20-horse limit, based on career money earnings.

With 2-1 win over Abilene Cooper

Steers stay alive in district race

BY NATHAN POSS
SPORTS EDITOR

For six innings, the Abilene Cooper Cougars played perfect baseball in the field behind hurler Brad Morrison. But on one wild play in the bottom of the seventh, they committed two throwing errors while trying to corral a runaway Steer, Beef Armendariz.

The Steers took advantage, too, as Mark Warren's sacrifice fly to left field scored Armendariz with the winning run in boosting BSHS to an exciting 2-1 victory.

The win allows the Steers to retain their slim hopes at the 5-AAAAA title. They moved to 3-1 in the second half of district play, and 14-10 on the year.

Cooper, the first half tri-champion along with Midland Lee and Abilene, fell to 1-3 in the second half.

For the second straight Saturday, the Steers got an excellent mound performance from senior Wayne Shipman. But they had to have it, as Cooper's Morrison, despite allowing nine hits, was effective in limiting the Steers output.

Shipman allowed only five hits in the contest and walked but one. He also retired the last seven hitters he faced.

The Steers opened the game with a pair of singles by Warren and Dickie Wrightsil, but could not move them around.

In the second, Tim Shaver led off with a single and promptly stole second, but was stranded there.

But in the third inning, the frustration stopped. Ater Warren led off with a single, Wrightsil doubled him to third. One out later, Tommy Olague singled up the middle.

Warren scored easily, but the swift Wrightsil was pegged at home on a beautiful throw by Cooper centerfielder Lanny Dycus.

Cooper tried to tie it in the fourth, but Scott Harris was nailed at the plate by the Rodriguez brothers. Shortstop Tommy Rodriguez had retrieved a ball hit by Cole Erwin into shallow center, and hurled the ball to brother Marty, a freshman who did an outstanding job in the game. Marty caught the ball to the right of the plate, and then wheeled back to his left to tag Harris.

In the fifth, the Cougars did tie the game at 1-1, and nearly got more. It all started with two outs on an infield hit by Shane Awall.

Awall stole second, and the score on a single by Larry Blackburn Dycus was then safe on a two-base error by first sacker Olague, moving the two Cougars into scoring position. But Shipman whiffed Jay Arnold to end the inning and prevent any further damage.

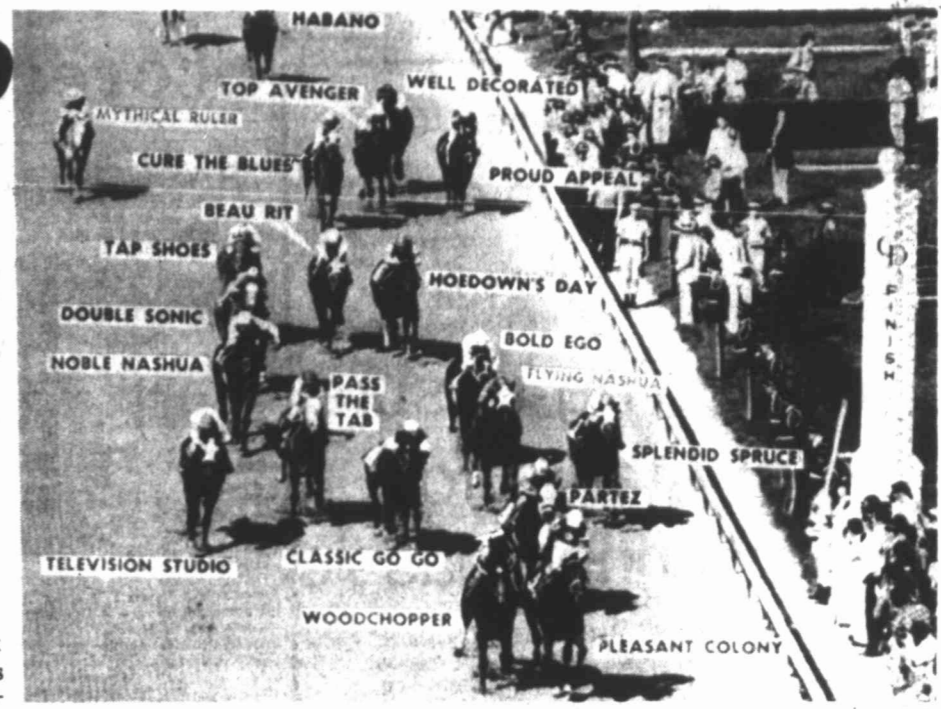

Both pitchers blanked the opposition until the bottom of the seventh, when Armendariz led off with a single. Pinch hitter James Walker squared to bunt, and took the first pitch. Cougar catcher

Harris then tried to pick Armendariz off first, but his throw was wild into right field.

Armendariz off first, but his throw was wild into right field. Armendariz took off for second, and as he arrived, Cooper right fielder Joe Scarborough's throw was off the mark, travelling all the way past the left field foul line. Armendariz made it to third easily.

Morrison then walked Walker, bringing Warren to the plate. Warren lined his game winning sacrifice in medium range along the left field line. Cougar left fielder Billy Mitchell caught the ball, and hit the relay man quickly, but third sacker Tom Blankenship's shot home wasn't in time to catch the sliding Armendariz.

The Steers return to their home field for their final Big Spring appearance in 5-AAAAA play on Tuesday against Odessa. They then end their regular season on the road Saturday against San Angelo.

Steer grid coach excited as spring training begins

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers football team begins live preparations for the 1981 season Monday, and Head Coach Ralph Harris feels that more than just himself is ready.

"I'm ready to get out there, and I know the kids are," he said in his office earlier this week. "I think they're (the athletes) are ready to get out there and hit somebody."

This will be Harris' second spring training since taking the BSHS post just over a year ago, and he definitely feels progress has been made in the football program.

"I feel we are much further along right now than we were a year ago," Harris said. "In fact, I know we are."

"I don't think anybody around the district feels we'll be much of a factor next year, but I know that we have the players that can do it. People will say that Big Spring's making improvements and that they'll have to prepare for us, but deep down I know they think if they put forth a good effort and just play a good game, they'll beat us."

"But I know that with what we've got for next year, that the day is coming that they (other 5-A-A-A-A-A teams) can play a good game and lose to us," Harris stated.

Much of Harris' optimism is due to the fact that the Steers returned 14 lettermen, with six offensive and eight defensive regulars back from the 3-5 team in 1980. That, plus the fact that the athletes are more accustomed to what is expected from this coaching regime.

And while the BSHS gridders were learning yet another new system under Harris and his staff last year, the Steer mentor also said that his performance should improve next fall.

"I really didn't feel like I did a good job of coaching last year many times. I came into this district, which has to be one of the toughest in the state, and we tried to play a defense that maybe flew around too much. This is a power type football district, and we hurt ourselves on defense last year too much on misdirection. Such things as the counter-option hurt us all year," he explained.

"We were putting the kids into a position that they would be out of position and really couldn't get to the play," Harris continued. "Hopefully, we'll correct that."

And while Harris feels that the Steer gridders have made improvement since last year, he is also expecting a bigger turnout when the team hits the field tomorrow afternoon.

"We've got about 120 out right now, whereas last year we only had about 80. And that's hard to say, because a lot of them left during the first week. There were days in the first week of spring training last year that we'd have five or six walk off," Harris noted.

To help the situation at BSHS, little change has been made on the coaching staff. Stan Caffey, a Steer aide last fall, left to join the staff at Lubbock Christian College. Harris moved Dennis Lanerney to the varsity staff to take Caffey's place, although they won't have the same positions to coach.

Lanerney will coach the wide receivers, with Robin Wall moving to tutor the defense ends.

Harris will have charge of the offensive backs, as well as the team. "I really should have the easiest job in the district. We've got some outstanding backs, and one of my main concerns is just not to mess them up," he said.

Heading those offensive backs are the trio that started last year. That includes quarterback Tracy Spence and running backs Bobby Earl Williams and Richard Evans.

Williams was an All-District running back as a

One of the Eastwood winners was Jim Jordan in the shot put, with a throw of 62'.

Howard Stewart finished an excellent round with an eagle on the 18th hole to push himself and teammate Royce Cox into the lead after the first round in the two-day Big Spring Municipal Partnership.

Stewart and Cox are the defending champions in the event, and their first round total of 64, seven under par, gave them a one-stroke lead over next duo, Bruce Carroll and Tom Spillman.

Cox and Stewart also had six birdies, one bogey and nine pars to go with their finishing eagle. Carroll and Spillman, eagled the fifth hole, and also had six birdies, two bogeys and nine pars.

Barron were next at 67, along with the irrepressible duo of Tommy Fletcher-Johnny Scott.

The First Flight started at the 72 mark. There was a seven-team tie for that flight.

The Third Flight started at 77, with a total of five teams sharing that lead.

In all, there were 42 teams, or 84 golfers, that entered the Partnership. Action will conclude this evening, at which time the awards will be given.

Tech aide at BSHS Sports Banquet

The popular Texas Tech basketball assistant, Rob Evans, will be the guest speaker at the Big Spring Booster Club's Spring Sports Banquet.

That fete is slated for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Howard County Fair Barn, with a five dollar charge for entrance.

All of the spring sports will be introduced by their respective coaches, with awards in each.

As usual in this end of the school year sports banquet, the night will be capped off by the Obie Bristow Award, given annually to the best athlete at Big Spring High School in the past nine months.

Tickets can be purchased either from any Booster Club member, or at the door.

Jackson, Wheat shine in biggie

WACO — The Big Spring pair of Carla Jackson and Elise Wheat combined for 48 points to give the Steer girls a fourth place finish in the 48-team Heart of Texas State Qualifiers Track and Field Meet.

The two totalled 32 points in the meet before state, which will occur in Austin next weekend.

Jackson had 26 of those points, which was enough to tie her for the prestigious MVP with Stacey Morgan of Georgetown.

Jackson's placed first in the long jump, and second in both the 100-meter dash and triple jump. Wheat was third in the discus.

Jackson's winning long jump was 18' 11 1/2". That was a new Heart of Texas girls record, but it was not her best ever.

She was timed in 13.3 in the 100, and tripled jump 37' 9" for her second place finishes. Wheat's throw was 123' good enough for third.

Big Spring Coach Vicki Fitzhugh was pleased with the results, and undoubtedly hopes for something similar next week in Austin. But that will be tougher, as there will be much more competition, although Heart of Texas was an outstanding affair.

"I'm very happy with the way it turned out," she said. "Especially considering that we had only two people in our field events, and the fact that we didn't have a relay team here."

Centennial Game special

One of the highlights of the Big Spring Centennial Celebration will be a seven-inning baseball game at Steer Park pitting a team called the "Old Pros" against the Big Spring High School Steers. The contest is scheduled for 2 p.m., Sunday, May 24, in Steer Park.

Admission will be $1 per person. Al Valdes, who caught from some of the Big Spring teams in the old Longhorn League, will manage the Old Pros.

Others who could play for the Old Pro club include Pat Stasey, now of San Angelo, who managed here in the late 40s and early 50s; Carlos (Potato) Pascual, now of Florida; Charley West, who was offered a contract by the Cincinnati Reds but instead went into the NFL; Manny Junco, Tito Arencibia, Oscar Regueram, Cotton Mize, Marion Tredaway, Jim Baum, Ron Logback, Jimmy Roger, Gil Guerra, James Hollis and Huck Doe.

Pascual is undoubtedly one of the most popular players ever to perform here. He was both a third baseman and a pitcher, once pitched two shutouts against Midland in a single afternoon. He later was with the Washington Senators briefly.

Stasey was one of the best hitters in the Longhorn League. Junco was an outstanding first baseman.

Arencibia had the lowest earned run average in the history of the Longhorn League.

Mize made his mark in softball as did Tredaway. Baum was in professional baseball briefly (in the old PONY League). Logback played pro ball briefly.

Roger is a good all-around athlete, especially adept in softball. Guerra was a 26-game winner one year for the Big Spring pros.

Doe was a stellar catcher for Big Spring the first year it had a professional team following WW II.

Valdes, now a Big Spring resident, planned the contest as a reunion for the old players. He said he may add more players later to the roster.

Easterling unsure of status for Roadrunner Classic

The Second Annual Roadrunners Classic, a big success last year, might have to run without its defending women's champion, Sherrill Easterling. "I really can't say right now," Easterling said in reference to returning to the Roadrunner Classic while working with some weights at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Friday. "If I'm able, I will."

Easterling ran in the prestigious Boston Marathon two weeks ago tomorrow, and admitted that some parts of her legs haven't mended from the 26-mile plus race.

"I still have a little fluid down here," she mentioned, pointing toward the area around the ankle. "If it's feeling better, I'll run."

The conversation switched to whether I would run, and I explained that I would if I felt I was in shape to run at least respectfully before regurgitating.

"Have you been running much lately," Easterling inquired.

"Oh, yeah, lately I've run harder than I had been doing," I answered.

I thought I had, putting in four miles a couple of days this week. But I was soon to learn differently.

"Have you been able to run much since your leg is hurting," I asked the Howard College professor that is an excellent marathon runner in her field.

"No. Not really. I've run a little the last week," she said.

"How much is a little," I asked.

"Oh, about eight miles or so," Easterling replied quite seriously.

Suddenly, I felt fat and out of shape.

But for most of the people that will participate in the Second Annual Roadrunners Classic, you won't have to be a marathon ace to survive. More than 200 people turned out last year, and most of them were strictly social runners like me.

The Roadrunners Classic, which will be sponsored by the Herald, Big Spring Athletics and the YMCA, is set for Saturday morning, May 23.

It will have divisions for both men and women, with both sexes being put into age categories. Those categories are 12 and under, 13-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49 and the Masters.

Medals will be given for the first, second and third place finishers in each age division, as well as complimentary T-Shirts for all pre-registered entrants.

Running shoes will also be presented to the best male and female overall runners, so there is some incentive to the more serious and gifted runner.

As was the case last year, the race will begin and end at the Comanche Trail Park Pavilion at 8:30 a.m. Many people complained about the early starting time before the race last year, but most agreed after it was over that the early running time made for cooler and less painful running.

The entry fee per person will be three dollars per person. Early registration deadline is May 15 at the YMCA, with those people getting the Roadrunner Classic T-shirt. But entries will be taken until the time of the race.

To break Astros winning streak Pirates use 12 innings

PITTSBURGH (AP) — John Milner raced home with one out in the 12th inning on Mike Easley's grounder which was bobbled by Houston second baseman Kiko Garcia, giving the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 victory that ended the Astros' five-game winning streak.

Milner drew a one-out walk off loser Dave Smith, 0-3, and took third on Bill Madlock's single. With the infield drawn in, Milner broke for the plate on Easley's grounder, which Garcia bobbled and then threw home too late to get

The victory went to Eddie Solomon, 1-1, the fifth Pittsburgh pitcher, who worked the 12th inning.

The Pirates had tied the score with a run in the bottom of the 10th on Tim Foli's double, Milner's pinch infield hit and a grounder by Madlock which forced Milner. The relay to first was too late to get Madlock as the tying run came home.

Cesar Cedeno led off the Houston 10th with a single, took third on a single by Jose Cruz and scored on Mike Ivie's sacrifice fly to give the Astros a short-lived 4-3 lead.

Hawks Kenneth Jones inks with New Mexico State

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

Howard College's Kenneth Jones, who excited the local basketball fans with his enthusiastic brand of performing the past two years, recently signed a national letter-of-intent with the New Mexico State University Aggies.

Jones made his decision on attending NMSU after considering other offers from University of Arkansas at Little Rock, Indiana State and Loyola-Marymount.

"I like the head coach, and he's been in contact with me for over a year now. I just felt like I would enjoy playing there," Jones said in explaining part of his decision.

But as many collegians on athletic scholarship don't fully concentrate on their education, Jones makes it clear that he does. That was one reason he liked New Mexico State.

"They have a real good business program, and I'm very interested in that," he explained. Jones will major in Business Management at NMSU, later planning a career in some capacity in that field.

The Hustling Hawk for the last year, Jones came to hindered Jones' career when he first arrived.

"I kept telling him that he had to play inside with his back to the basket, but Kenneth kept telling me he was better playing a little more outside with his face to it. When I finally wised up, it really helped him and our program," Wilder explained.

Jones was a two-year starter for the Hawks, averaging over 14 points and 9.5 rebounds per contest. He was a vital performer in the Hawks 23-9 season in 1980, which placed them second in the always tough Western Conference.

Jones was an Honorable Mention All-WJC performer, although many felt his role with the Hawks was a bigger one than the honor would indicate.

As Wilder noted, "Kenneth always played with lots of enthusiasm."

And that's undoubtedly to his advantage, as Jones will be playing in a very tough Missouri Valley Conference while at New Mexico State. That league includes such toughies as Tulsa, Indiana State, West Texas State, Wichita State, Drake, Bradley and Creighton.

junior, covering 967 yards rushing to lead 5-AAAA. Evans also proved to be an explosive back and Spence's experience in running the option also excites Harris.

Harris also mentioned that the backfield should have depth, with such performers as Bill Amos, Danny Stephens and Kenneth Hart ready to step in.

"Tracy has really worked hard to improve his passing. I don't give him enough credit, but we should be able to pass the ball this year," Harris said, then continuing, "We're not going to have the complicated passing game that you guys had at Rice, but we're going to be able to throw the ball."

That a passing game will also compliment the Bovines ground game, which should be as strong as any in the league next fall. If the passing game develops like Harris hopes, Big Spring's offense could be deadly to the opposition.

Not many position changes are on the agenda when the gridirers hit the field tomorrow. Harris did mention that Tony Kennedy has been moved from middle to outside linebacker, but that is so he and George Bancroft can be on the field at the same time.

The Steers will work out every afternoon Monday through Friday from four o'clock for two to three hours. They will also have some sort of conditioning or teaching sessions during their first period Athletics class.

"We're going to demand a lot of varsity players time," Harris said. "But I think they're ready for it. I think they realize that we can have a good football team next fall if we make some of these sacrifices."

Billie Jean King goes public

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Saying she loved her husband and had "made a mistake," tennis star Billie Jean King has admitted having a homosexual affair with a former secretary.

But she says she never promised a thing to the paraplegic former secretary, who has filed a "palimony" suit seeking lifetime support from Mrs. King.

"First, you have to live with yourself," Mrs. King said Friday during a surprise news conference. "That's why I'm here today."

Sitting next to her husband, Larry King, and her tearful parents, Mrs. King said she called the news conference against the advice of family, friends and lawyers to admit the affair with Marilyn Barnett.

Miss Barnett, 33, now a paraplegic, filed suit earlier in the week claiming the tennis star had been her lover and owed her lifetime support and title to a Malibu beach house.

"I felt very strongly that I've always been above board with the press, and you've always been fair to me," she said. "So, I've decided to talk with you as I've always talked — from my heart.

"I'm very disappointed and shocked that Marilyn has done this, not only to herself — a very self-destructive thing — but to other people who care for her," Mrs. King said.

She described Miss Barnett, a former hairdresser, as "unstable" and said of their love affair: "I made a mistake. I will assume that responsibility."

Then, turning to her husband who sat beside her, she said, "It's very important to me to thank Larry. I love him. He's my husband, my lover and best friend. He's been that for 19 years."

She also thanked her parents, Betty and Bill Moffit, who sat nearby with tears in their eyes.

"I now know who my friends are," she said.

"I discussed it with Larry," she added. "In some ways, I think we're much closer than we've ever been, and our marriage is stronger."

At times during the emotion-charged news conference, Mrs. King, 37, rested her head on her husband's shoulder as they sat side-by-side.

King, a sports promoter, introduced his wife to reporters as "the person I love dearly" and expressed his support before she spoke.

"This is a difficult time for Billie Jean, her family and friends," he said. "I've known Billie Jean for 19 years. We met at L.A. State (College). I love her dearly. I don't think anything that transpires will change our relationship."

King said he understood his wife's forthrightness — "Above all, she has to be Billie Jean."

Mrs. King said the love affair with Ms. Barnett ended "several years ago" but declined to go into detail about dates.

At first, when Miss Barnett filed her suit, Mrs. King's publicists said the allegations were "untrue and unfounded."

Ms. Barnett sued under a landmark decision by the California Supreme Court, which ruled in 1979 that unmarried persons living together may claim property rights when they split. The ruling stemmed from Michelle Triola Marvin's lawsuit against actor Lee Marvin, in which Ms. Marvin asked a settlement of $1.8 million. She was awarded $104,000.

No such "palimony" case involving homosexual lovers has ever reached the trial stage.

In her suit, Ms. Barnett claimed she and Mrs. King began dating in 1972 and that sexual intimacy occurred six months after they met. She said they had joint credit card accounts, that Mrs. King signed blank checks for Ms. Barnett's use and purchased the Malibu beach house for her in 1974.

She claimed the tennis star promised to take care of her for life.

But Mrs. King, questioned about these allegations, told reporters in a firm voice: "I never promised her anything."

Ms. Barnett's attorney, Joel Ladin, was unavailable for comment on Mrs. King's statements.

Mrs. King indicated she had agonized about her decision to acknowledge the affair because "I've always felt it's very important for people to have their privacy."

Mrs. King's attorney, Dennis Wasser, said the suit was prompted by the Kings' decision to sell the Malibu house and their request that Ms. Barnett move out. They still are trying to evict her, he said.

"I worry what my loved ones are going to go through," she said. "This affects a lot of people."

Asked whether there would be an impact on her tennis career, she said, "I have no idea...As far as my fans are concerned — I hope they'll try to understand."

Red Birds stay red hot

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Kingman's two-run homer in the first inning and Doug Flynn's two-run single in the third keyed a pair of three-run bursts Saturday which gave the New York Mets a 6-2 victory over San Diego and snapped their seven-game losing streak.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Oberkfell drilled three hits and drove in three runs to back the six-hit pitching of Bob Shirley and lead St. Louis past Cincinnati 7-3 Saturday, the Cardinals' 10th victory in 11 games.

Shirley, 3-0, who struck out five and walked one, beat the Reds for the second time in two weeks. The 26-year-old left-hander, whose major league career record is 42-57, owns a 12-7 mark against Cincinnati.

TENNIS STAR INVOLVED IN PALIMONY SUIT — Tennis star Billie Jean King accompanied by her husband Larry makes a startling public admission Friday during a press conference in Los Angeles that she had a homosexual love affair with a woman who is suing her for support.

Streck putts to lead in Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Ron Streck one-putted 13 times on the way to a record-setting, 9-under-par 62 that staked him to a three-shot lead

Saturday in the third round of the $350,000 Michelob Houston Open Golf Tournament.

"The greens were putting very well. I got it going and everything went in," said the 26-year-old Streck, who set the course record on the 7,071-yard Woodlands Country Club layout and matched the best 18 hole score of the year on the PGA Tour.

Although he has won only once in his five years on the tour, it is no stranger to extremely low rounds. His only previous victory, in the 1978 San Antonio-Texas Open, was capped by closing rounds of 63-62. The 125 total is the lowest for 36 holes in the history of the tour.

"I'd like to break it," he said after posting his current 54-hole total of 198, 15 strokes under par.

A pair of former U.S. Open champions, Hale Irwin and Jerry Pate, shared second at 201. Pate had a 66 in the warm, windy weather and Irwin shot a 67 that included bogeys on the first and last holes.

"I'm still experiencing erratic play," said Irwin, twice a winner of the American national championship and usually one of the game's steadier players.

"I'm getting birdies in bunches," he said. "For the third day in a row, I made four birdies in a row. And then I play some holes badly. I guess it's just lack of concentration."

Irwin and Pate were followed by Jay Haas and Ben Crenshaw at 202. Crenshaw bogeyed the last hole for a 67 and Haas shot a 68.

The group at 203, five shots back and very much within striking distance, included Bruce Lietzke, second-round leader Bob Gilder and Tom Kite. Lietzke had a 67, Kite 70 and Gilder matched par 71.

Defending champion Curtis Strange was 69-206, Lee Trevino shot 71 and was at 213. Arnold Palmer was far back at 218 after a 76.

Catfish highlight Lake Spence

It might as well have been blue and yellow catfish in Lake E.V. Spence. Most of the reports from fishermen there concerned channel, blue and yellow catfish in respectable weight ranging up to 35½ lbs.

At Lake J.B. Thomas, Red Pinkerton landed a 7-lb. black bass, fishing with artificial bait. Crappie fishing there was good in the brushy and rocky areas, black bass fishing fair to good, and both channel and yellow catfishing good. Results with Walleye and white bass were poor. Jody and Todd Iglehart, Snyder, boated a 12-lb. yellow catfish.

Reports from Lake Spence included:

Skinny's Hillside Grocery — Jack Ray, Sonora, two Triangle Grocery and Bait — L.G. Bailey, Denver City, seven blue catfish 5 to 10 lbs.; Herbert Stiefvater, Odessa, 50 channel catfish to 3 lbs.; Mark and David Williamson, Odessa, a 35½-lb. yellow catfish; Ronnie Wilhite, Lubbock, 13 channel catfish to 3 lbs.

Dodgers stop Expos streak

MONTREAL (AP) — Ron Cey's three-run homer in the fourth inning and Ken Landreaux's solo shot in the fifth backed a seven-hitter by Jerry Reuss as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Montreal Expos 4-0 Saturday.

Reuss, 2-1, was helped by three double plays as the Dodgers handed Montreal its first loss at home in 10 games this season.

Landreaux started the decisive fourth inning with a single off Scott Sanderson, 3-1, then Steve Garvey walked before Cey hit his first homer of the season, the 192nd of his career.

In the fifth, Landreaux hammered the first pitch from Sanderson against the right field foul pole for his fourth homer.

Montreal rookie Tim Raines stole the 27th consecutive base of his major league career — his 20th this season — in the first inning. But catcher Mike Scioscia nailed him attempting to steal third.

Twins explode by Bosox

BOSTON (AP) — The Minnesota Twins bombed Mike Torrez and Bob Stanley for nine runs in the first two innings Saturday and breezed to a 15-hit 11-2 victory over Boston, extending the Red Sox's losing streak to six games.

Al Williams, who had lost his first three decisions, scattered seven hits over eight innings, walking two and striking out three for his first victory. The Red Sox have managed only seven runs in their worst slump since 1977. Torrez, 1-2, lasted only two-thirds of an inning as Minnesota scored six runs in the first.

Ron Jackson collected a two-run double off Bill Campbell, the fourth Boston pitcher, in the eighth. It was Jackson's third hit of the game.

At Ruidoso Downs

More thoroughbreds wanted

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Ruidoso Downs has been the showcase for American Quarter Horse Racing. That's fine. And Ruidoso Downs Racing Secretary Donald Rausch wants to keep the mountain track at the forefront of the country's quarter horse operations.

It's just that when Ruidoso Downs opens its 70-day horse racing meet on May 9, he wants the thoroughbreds to command a prominent position, too.

"I want to have more thoroughbreds at Ruidoso Downs," he said as he begins his first complete season as Ruidoso Downs Racing Secretary. "I beat the drums at Phoenix and the California Fairs to get thoroughbreds. Some of them just don't quite fit the conditions at Hollywood Park. You can bring a thoroughbred down to Ruidoso and make a pretty good living."

"I'm really pushing the thoroughbreds. A lot of people take it for granted you can't run a thoroughbred at Ruidoso, but you can," he said. "We run seven races a day for thoroughbreds. There's plenty of room for thoroughbreds."

Rausch's hustling apparently obtained results. Among the new thoroughbred stables at Ruidoso this season are Kelly Winters from California and Red Duncan and Billy Jacot, who were stabled at Turf Paradise in Phoenix over the winter. "The quality will be better than ever, especially thoroughbred-wise," said Rausch, who took over as racing secretary with about six weeks left in last season's Ruidoso meet.

The quality should be the highest ever. The competition for the 1,900 available stalls was the fiercest ever with 4,800 applications for stall space.

"I've talked to the last three secretaries and they said that's the most applications ever received. With the purses so high, everyone wants to run at Ruidoso," he explained. "It's hard to tell a man who wants to bring seven or eight horses he's been making payments on for futurities that he can't have stall space."

"It's a very tough problem to get 4,800 horses into 1,900 stalls," Rausch said.

While Rausch has upgraded the thoroughbreds, the quarter horses certainly haven't slipped in prestige, either.

Almost all the standouts at last year's meet will return, headed by Hightester Jet. The Pine's Easter Jet gelding has been resting at Austin, Tex. since capturing a nose decision in last Labor Day's $1,280,000 All-American Futurity, the centerpiece of quarter horse racing in this country.

Forcing 7th game in Boston Garden

Celtics stay alive in thriller

PILEUP — Boston Celtics Larry Bird (33) falls on a pile of players including Nate Archibald (7) and Sixers Clint Richardson, right, Friday night in NBA Eastern Division playoff game at Philadelphia. Bird has just missed a shot and a foul was called on Richardson. Celtics won, 100-98, to even the best-of-seven series at 3-3.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bert Parish called it poised. Eric Maxwell said it was a combination of drive, determination and character. M.L. Carr talked out intently. Larry Bird spoke about not knowing when to quit.

Whatever it is, these Boston Celtics are clearly something special, and they showed it again Friday night by storming back in the second half to beat the Philadelphia 76ers 100-98 and send their emotion-charged National Basketball Association playoff showdown back to Boston Garden for a deciding seventh game on Sunday.

"The Garden is going to be rocking," promised Celtics rookie Kevin McHale, whose block of an Andrew Toney shot with 14 seconds left helped preserve Boston's victory. "We stuck it out and we didn't quit. I've never been involved in a more joyous occasion."

As they have in each of the last four games of this best-of-seven Eastern Conference final, the 76ers raced out to a big early lead only to see the gritty Celtics claw their way back. Philadelphia led by 17 in the second quarter and 15 early in the third, but Bird scored 11 points as Boston outscored the 76ers 28-14 to climb back to 71-70 late in the third period.

After that it was tight all the way. The lead changed hands nine times in the final 7:34. Nate Archibald finally putting the Celtics ahead to stay 96-95 by sinking two free throws with 2:16 left. Lionel Hollins and Darryl Dawkins missed shots for Philadelphia before Bird hit an 18-footer for a three-point lead.

Toney came back with a 21-footer to make it 98-97, then brought the raucous, capacity crowd of 18,276 to its feet by stealing the ball from Bird with 30 seconds to play. But when he tried to drive the left side, the 6-foot-10 McHale got a piece of his shot and then smothered the rebound.

Bird, brilliant as ever, led the Celtics with 25 points and 16 rebounds after a slow start. Parish, the 7-foot center who was coming off three bad games, contributed 21 points and 10 rebounds.

Archibald, who missed six minutes of the second half after his left foot was stepped on by Dawkins, had 19 points and Maxwell, who went charging into the stands after a fan during the third quarter, an incident that saw both benches empty before order was restored, scored 17. Dawkins was high man for Philadelphia with 24 points, the second straight productive game for the four-prong center.

It was the Celtics' first victory here since Jan. 20, 1979, ending an 11-game streak. And coming on the heels of Wednesday night's dramatic 111-109 win in Boston, when they scored the last eight points of the game and held Philadelphia scoreless for the final 1:51, it had the Celtics going home sky high.

Only three teams have ever come back from 3-1 deficits to win a playoff series — the 1968 Boston Celtics, the 1970 Los Angeles Lakers and the 1979 Washington Bullets. Ironically, all three did it in the semifinal round, a pattern these Celtics are hoping will continue.

For WCT championship today

Kriek, McEnroe to battle

DALLAS (AP) — Johan Kriek says luck dealt him his ace Friday night.

The South African smashed 20 aces but had 13 double faults as he beat Roscoe Tanner in a semifinal match of the World Championship of Tennis at Reunion Arena. Kriek won 7-6, 6-3, 4-6, 0-6, 6-4.

Unlike most players, Kriek refuses to take any steam off his second service. "I'm a gambler," he said. "Sometimes it doesn't work. Sometimes it saves me."

Kriek will meet John McEnroe Sunday afternoon for the $100,000 first-prize check. McEnroe whipped Brian Gottfried 6-3, 6-4, 6-1 in the first semifinals match Friday.

Kriek gambled on more than his serve in his match with Tanner. He admitted he gave away the fourth set after losing the first few games and concentrated on winning the fifth.

"You just have to relax," he said. "I wasn't worried."

Kriek called the match a milestone in his career because he beat two of the top players in the world. He knocked Poland's Wojtek Fibak out of the competition in a quarterfinal match Thursday.

"It's important once you get to the stage where you beat them consistently, not just once in a while," Kriek said.

Tanner rallied with the third set tied at 4-4, breaking Kriek's service and holding his own to win the set. He then broke Kriek's service all three times in the fourth set and won easily.

But Kriek managed to break Tanner's service in the fifth set and held on for the match.

In Friday's earlier match, the fifth-seeded Gottfried, who used eight jobs to beat Sammy Giammalva in the opening match Friday, found his favorite weapon useless against McEnroe, whose quickness allowed him to move easily between the net and backline.

McEnroe stalled only once, after what he considered a bad call early in the second set. But he recovered to break Gottfried and take a 2-0 advantage in the set. In all McEnroe broke Gottfried four times, while Gottfried managed just one break point against McEnroe.

"A couple of times I might have gotten careless. I was starting to get lazy. But once I broke him I was OK," said McEnroe.

The university was caught up in the dispute between its star quarterback, Wilson, and the Big Ten, which has ruled him ineligible. Wilson dazzled fans with his record-breaking passing in 1980, playing for new Coach Mike White under a court order. He wants the courts to clear the way for him to play again in 1981.

Illinois may fight Big 10 decision

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Because of the controversial eligibility case of University of Illinois quarterback Dave Wilson, the Big Ten Conference plans to bar Illinois from post-season play in all sports for three years and withhold television revenue for two years, it was reported today.

It would be the most serious setback to UI athletics since the slush-fund scandal 14 years ago.

University sources say the Big Ten decision could cost the school $2 million and wreck its athletic programs, the Champaign-Urbana News Gazette said, and some favor leaving the conference rather than accepting what they consider unfair sanctions.

"The financial blow is of a magnitude that would bankrupt half the athletic programs in the conference," a university official said, but added that the loss of revenue was only one factor.

"It's what it does to the program in terms of recruiting, elimination of post-season play as a goal, the splintering of the staff, all those side effects."

The Big Ten notified Illinois of its decision, and UI officials met Wednesday to discuss the case. They declined public comment, saying the Big Ten wanted to make the first announcement, probably at a Saturday news conference in Schaumburg, where the Big Ten is headquartered.

Privately, UI officials said they were stunned.

"It is as though the conference members want to force us out," a source told the News-Gazette. "It's almost as severe as the slush-fund penalties and yet the University of Illinois has done nothing wrong."

The university was caught up in the dispute between its star quarterback, Wilson, and the Big Ten, which has ruled him ineligible.

Wilson dazzled fans with his record-breaking passing in 1980, playing for new Coach Mike White under a court order. He wants the courts to clear the way for him to play again in 1981.

Indy 500 excites Rutherford

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Johnny Rutherford knows his way around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway track as well as anyone. He's got three Indy 500 victories in the past seven years, and he's the early favorite to log a record-tying fourth triumph this month.

Still, the 43-year-old Texan is as excited as a schoolboy about driving in the world's richest auto race and the thought of another trip to Victory Lane.

"That would be absolutely fantastic," says Rutherford, whose bright yellow Chaparral racer has dominated champ car racing the past two years. "I've been fortunate to win here three times, and to win my fourth would be just so much better."

It also would make him the only driver in Indy history other than A.J. Foyt to win the 500 four times and the first one since Al Unser in 1970-71 to win it two years in a row.

Practice for the May 24 race was to begin today. Pole-position qualifying is scheduled for May 9, and the 33-car starting field will be completed with time trials May 10 and May 16-17.

Rutherford said his first Indy victory in 1974 "was probably the most gratifying because of the circumstances. I had to start 25th, charged to the front and had to duel with A.J. until his car broke. That type of racing is always exciting because of the mental gymnastics involved."

BS Yankees home opener today vs. Miles Outlaws

The Big Spring Yankees open their home season today when they play the Miles Outlaws in a semi-pro doubleheader. The first game will begin at 2:00 p.m. All action is slated for the Roy Anderson Complex.

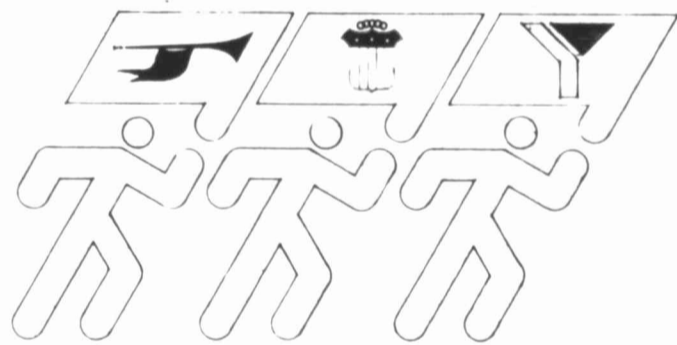

The Yankees opened the season last week by taking a pair of games from the Outlaws. But Yankee skipper Chris Uchman feels they will be tougher this time, as two of their starting pitchers were not available last weekend.

The Yankees are slated to start Ricky Myers and either Luis Velez or Tommy Arguello on the mound in the doubleheader.

FIRST VISIT — Pittsburgh Steelers' first round draft pick Keith Gary, a defensive lineman from the University of Oklahoma, meets with Steeler head coach Chuck Noll, left, after arriving Friday for an orientation session with the rest of the Steeler rookies.

Downtown Lions to begin annual lightbulb sale

The Lions "light-kreig" will strike quickly this week when Downtown Lions stage their annual lightbulb sale. They also will pick up old or discarded eye glasses.

All net proceeds, as in former years, go to sight conservation and blind work, together with aid to the deaf, crippled and diabetic children's camp.

"Although we feel that our friends receive a good value in the bulbs," said Dub Martin, president, "we deeply appreciate their help year by year to keep these compassionate aids going to youngsters and adults in need. We want to thank you again in advance for receiving our members in their home delivery effort."

Tom Arcand, chairman of the project, said that there will be five teams canvassing a large part of the city. The conventional package of six bulbs (60, 75 and 100-watt) will be $3.50, and for the first time three-way bulbs (50-100-150-watts) will be offered for $1.75 each.

In addition to buying scores of pairs of glasses for needy youngsters and a few adults, the club also has purchased an expensive hearing aid for one disabled lad, and a teletype hookup which enabled students at SWCID (SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf) to communicate on an emergency basis with Mrs. Carla Warrington, who in turn can relay the messages. Around $1,500 went toward the regular program and a new building at the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled and Diabetic Children at Kerrville. Youngsters may attend the camp without fee or transportation charges.

Arcand also stressed that Lions will be pleased to pick up pairs of discarded eye glasses. These may be rehabilitated and used in international projects.

American Petrofina declares dividend of $1.60 per share

NEW YORK — The board of directors of American Petrofina, Inc., meeting here Wednesday declared a semi-annual dividend of $1.60 per share on the Class "A" and Class "B" common stock of the Company for the first half of 1981. The dividend is payable May 19, to shareholders of record at the close of business on May 11.

Also, the Board approved a change in the dividend policy. Beginning with the second half of 1981, plans are to pay a quarterly dividend on Aug. 1, 1981 and Nov. 1, 1981. The amount of the quarterly dividend has not been set.

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Burglars had better beware when Marshal M.L. "Cotton" Owen straps on his pistol and calls out the rangers in the town of Palm Valley Estates.

Since Owen and others organized the volunteer force in February, the newly incorporated town has cut its burglary rate to zero among the 421 spacious houses patrolled.

What makes the crime-fighting force unique is that one-third of the 41 rangers ride their golf carts around the affluent neighborhood that lines the Harlingen Country Club golf course.

Owen, a 62-year-old retired contractor from Kansas City, was elected town marshal in January after the area incorporated. It had asked to be annexed to the city of Harlingen but was turned down.

The marshal and resident Bill Harrison asked fellow townspeople to help patrol the streets after a series of burglaries that snatched $300,000 from 11 homes.

On weekends, parades of motorists came through the area, congesting traffic and making residents nervous about "suspicious" persons.

"It started to look like the Indianapolis 500 on Saturday and Sunday nights," said Harrison.

The rangers started out with five volunteers. About half of the force are part-time residents who return to the Midwest during the summer.

Rangers sign up to patrol the area in two or four-hour shifts between 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. The watch lasts longer on some nights. Volunteers drive either their golf carts or personal cars equipped with citizen band radios.

Each monitors a frequency connecting them with Owen, the other two marshals and the Cameron County sheriff's department.

If a ranger spots a car driving with no lights, stopped for no apparent reason or displaying other questionable behavior, he notifies Owen to come check it out.

More often, a ranger will simply follow an unfamiliar car through the area until it leaves.

"If you see someone following you, you're going to leave if you have no business in here," said Owen, whose own police car is a Cadillac Seville.

When the program first started, neighbors did not recognize each others' cars and sometimes followed themselves. The rangers now have reflective stickers and residents soon will get town car stickers.

If a driver is stopped, his vehicle tag numbers quickly are run through the sheriff's computer by radio to see if the registration matches the drivers license information,

Owen said. Sheriff's deputies provide backup if Owen and his rangers feel they're in over their head. On a recent call for assistance, deputies found a teenager smoking marijuana behind a fence.

The golf carts can ride both on the street in front of a house and along the golf course behind it, where burglars likely would break in, said Owen.

He is proud of his record against burglaries but is realistic.

"They're going to hit us sooner or later we've got it cut down," he said.

The system works so well because 75 percent of the town residents are retired, many of whom moved here to play golf every day and take it easy.

Harrison, who moved from Illinois three years ago, found life become too slow after a while. He had installed a CB on his golf cart to check in frequently with his wife, who has a heart condition.

Their house turned into radio central when the ranger program started. His wife, Gladys, monitors the base radio almost every night.

"This ranger business has really helped give me something to do," Harrison said.

On the light side Pays city with bent wheel

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Keith Smith's check to pay his city income tax didn't bounce, but it caused city officials consternation just the same.

Smith, upset because his car was damaged after it hit a piece of asphalt on a city street, fashioned his check out of one of his auto's bent wheels.

He and his wife, Frances, drafted the $7.42 non-resident tax check that way to let officials know they weren't pleased over the city's refusal to pay $78.91 for the damaged wheel and tire.

Smith, 27, who lives in Mason, Mich., wrote the round, metal check with an engraving tool. He had to get written authorization from his bank, which later accepted the wheel when the city deposited it.

City officials weren't amused.

"It's a minute amount, but I have to take it to the bank special and it has to be treated special," said Deputy Treasurer Kenneth Brown.

But the city got the last laugh. The protest more than doubled Smith's tax bill because the bank charged him $7.50 for the extra trouble of processing the unusual check.

Rubber snakes don't work

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — It was a nice try, but a few rubber snakes just don't scare the pigeons flocking around the Lewiston City Hall.

Four of the foot-long bogus snakes were placed on a ledge atop the building, where flocks of pigeons congregate daily, forcing the janitors to come out each day and wash the marble steps below.

An anonymous employee dropped the rubber-snake idea into the city's suggestion box, and Public Works Director Roger Pruneau decided to try it out.

"The idea of putting rubber snakes where the pigeons nest is a novel one to me. This department has done a lot of research in trying to find ways to relieve this obnoxious problem and has not as yet been able to come up with anything that would be a long-term solution," he said in a memo to the city manager.

But after a five-day trial, city officials said the snakes didn't help. They're at a loss as to what to try next.

Mathematician can teach course in casino gambling

NEW YORK (AP) — Odds are you have not met Professor Harold Shane.

He is a small man, compact, in his 40s, with a high, academic forehead, steel-rimmed glasses, an authoritative grip. If you are one who views life as a roll of the dice, you would like very much to meet him, odds are. He is a mathematician. Some years ago he began putting that science to a most humane use. He taught gambling.

"I did not teach people how to win at gambling," he says, shaking his finger like a windshield wiper. "No way. I taught them that if they were determined to get sheared, they might as well get sheared slowly, make the inevitable take more time."

"Mathematics is not an exact science. But the laws of probability are dreadfully accurate. Don't mess with them."

Professor Shane is really hooked on math—in the way some people, you might say, are hooked on playing the ponies. "In this country," he says, "the average person's background in math is absolutely feeble." As head of the math department at Baruch College, and in every other way that presents itself, he tries to correct that.

So when casino gambling became legal in Atlantic City, just a short drive from here (the odds of finding a room on a weekend are short, too), he started a course in his college's continuing studies program on Casino Gambling.

Students flocked to his classroom, eager to brush up on math.

"I tried teaching a simplified course on the probability theory. I find it terribly interesting," he says.

"Well, they didn't. I finally boiled out all the math theory and just taught them how to play the games. That's what they wanted. You know, like in blackjack always split eights, never split fives, double down on 11 unless the dealer is showing an ace, things like that." Got it, math students?

"I taught how to play roulette. That was easy. I taught craps; much more interesting, from a mathematical standpoint. I taught how slot machines work. I taught keno, parimutuels, the works.

"I taught various betting systems for all these games, but always stressed that no betting system can make an unfair game fair and that all the games are unfair or the casino wouldn't make money."

Professor Shane, himself, does not gamble. Oh, he likes a good bridge game, or gin, or poker, but that's different.

"The fun of card games is pitting your skill against another person's," he says. "Betting money is a way of keeping score." And how has the professor done in the scorekeeping department? "Over the years, ahead." You tend not to doubt him.

"Casino gambling is different. I have no moral scruples about it. I just find other ways of spending my money to be more entertaining and less expensive.

"If someone would rather spend $50 at a dice table than on a dinner and a show, I have no quarrel. Trouble is, the casino's lure is such that it is hard to stop at your allotted $50. People who try to chase their losses will never catch them. Not in the long run.

European countries seek Japan car curbs

TOKYO (AP) — Common Market nations, fearing Japan's automakers will divert to Europe the cars they've promised not to ship to America, will seek a similar Japanese vow of export restraint, European diplomats said Saturday.

The Brussels-based European Commission, which represents the 10 nations of the European Community, or Common Market, "will ask for comparable treatment," said one diplomatic source, who asked not to be identified. The commission already is projecting a trade deficit with Japan of $10 billion this year, and there are predictions it could reach $15 billion next year. By comparison, the 1979 deficit was $8.2 billion. Imports of Japanese cars are a key factor.

Clements due to sign teacher pension hike

Austin Harris-Harris Bureau

AUSTIN — A $95 million bill that will increase pension benefits for Texas teachers has passed the Legislature and is expected to be signed by Gov. Bill Clements sometime next week.

The bill, which follows an earlier 5.1 percent emergency hike, calls for the following increases:

- 21 percent for those who retired before Sept. 1, 1963.
- 16 percent for those who retired on or after Sept. 1, 1963 but before May 31, 1971.
- 14 percent for those who retired on or after May 31, 1971 but before May 31, 1977.
- 2 percent for those who retired on or after May 31, 1977 but before Aug. 31, 1979.
- 7 percent for Aug. 31, 1979 retirees, who didn't receive the emergency 5.1 percent increase.

won't be distributed until Sept. 1, the $95 million appropriation will be invested as soon as Clement's ink on the bill is dry, said a staffer in the office of Sen. Ray Farabee (D-Wichita Falls), who authored the bill.

Estimates of how much revenue the investment will bring ranged from $3 million to $6 million, according to the staffer and Legislative Liaison to the Governor James Kaster respectively.

Because earlier investment means additional revenue, the staffer said, "Gov. Clements has given it an emergency tag."

The original bill was introduced on Jan. 29, but a substitute was reported out of the Senate Finance Committee on March 30. It passed the Senate the next day, and was unanimously approved by the House on April 23.

New officers installed at annual Spring Ball

ODESSA — The Permian Basin Purchasing Management Association (PBPM) held its annual Spring Ball at the Odessa Country Club recently to mark the beginning of its new fiscal year and to install new officers and board members.

George Elliott, with The Ortloff Corporation, in Midland, was named president; Bruce Kennedy, El Paso Products, was selected as director of national affairs; Bill Derringer, Star-Adair Insulation Company, Inc., was elected first vice president; Ray Winter, Grant Supply, was chosen as second vice president; and Margaret Beck, Thompson Office Supply, was elected secretary-treasurer.

New board members include Mark Phillips, Martha Lucas and Perry Payne, of Ortloff; Ellsworth Boswell, with American Quasar

Petroleum; Curt Strong, Big Spring, with Cosden Oil and Chemical; and Ken Calley, with Rexene Polyolefins Company.

After a buffet dinner, members and guests enjoyed music and dancing provided by the Jade band.

The PBPM is affiliated with the National Association of Purchasing Management (NAPM) and is a nonprofit organization established for the purpose of promoting the professional development of its members in purchasing and materials management techniques through continuing education and association with other members. The NAPM has over 22,000 members nationally.

The association is open for membership to persons in the Permian Basin who are directly involved in purchasing or other materials management functions.

FOR YOUR FATHER — Tanya Yankelevich, step-daughter of Soviet physicist and Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov, accepts a cowboy hat for her father from University of Texas professor John Wheeler Friday in New York during the opening of a two-day conference honoring Sakharov.

Paternity suit filed against 14-year-old football player

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — A paternity suit has been filed on behalf of an unmarried 15-year-old mother of two sons who says a ninth grade football player fathered the couple's first child when they were both 13.

The suit, filed in state district court by the Texas Department of Human Resources for the girl, alleges the 14-year-old boy fathered two children, one in October 1979 and the second in September 1980.

State District Judge William Ralph Elliot Friday ordered blood samples be taken from the couple and the two children before he takes any action in the suit.

TDHR officials filed the suit in March after the girl, who is unemployed and has dropped out of school, applied for welfare payments under the aid to families with dependent children program, said David Ferris, TDHR child support enforcement division in Austin.

Both teenagers still live with their parents, records show.

Elliot ordered the tests after hearing evidence and testimony at a pretrial hearing Thursday.

Ferris said the suit sought to have the children certified as legitimate and to collect child support, even though the boy's attorney argued that the Sherman High School student has never worked and has no income.

"If the father has the ability to pay, it is in the best interest of the child to take action to obtain some of that income for the child's benefit," Ferris said.

"We have to look at the big picture, the total ability to pay," he said.

"We also have to consider the financial status of teenagers mother and father. If a boy has wealthy parents then, by law, he has a right to a certain amount of those assets."

He has an income

"Sometimes, we ask for a small amount initially and retain the right to go back into court for a larger amount, should the respondents (father) financial circumstances change," he said.

Ferris said the suit was filed against the boy because Texas law requires such actions to be brought within a year of the birth of the child.

"Just because one child may be older than the statute allows doesn't prohibit us from filing the case," Ferris said.

"Usually, when more than one child is involved in a case we try to protect the children's rights."

Stock market facing troubled times?

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street analysts who like to track seasonal patterns in stock prices caution that the market is heading into a potentially perilous period.

"Warning: the next month or two might be hazardous to your wealth," declares investment adviser Yale Hirsch in his annual "Stock Trader's Almanac."

After studying the market's behavior over the past decade and a half, Hirsch dubbed the fifth and six months of the year "the May-June disaster area."

From 1965 through 1980, he calculated, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials averaged a 1.9 percent decline in May and a 0.8 percent drop in June.

"In most years, if one month didn't get you the other did," he observes.

As with most any generalization about the market, Hirsch acknowledges, this one has not held true in every case. In 1975, as a bull market was gathering momentum, the Dow Jones industrials posted a 1.3 percent gain in May and jumped 5.6 percent in June.

Again in 1980 — another bull-market year — the "jinx" was broken with a 4.1 percent rise in May and a further 2 percent gain in June.

That has not been enough, however, to erase the poor long-term record for stock prices in this particular two-month period.

A good many analysts, of course, put little credence in trying to link investment decisions to the calendar. Any patterns that appear, they contend, are most likely sheer coincidence.

And anyway, they say, if history alone were a reliable guide to the market's future performance, making money in stocks would be a lot easier than it actually is.

Hirsch acknowledges there is no one compelling, rational explanation why May and June should be bad for the market, just as there is no guarantee that every year will produce a traditional "summer rally."

He notes there has been a series of unsettling news developments in past Mays. In May 1973, for example, news was breaking rapidly about the Watergate scandal in Washington.

"The most logical reason for weak Mays in our opinion," he concludes, "is that the market tends to rise sharply in bull years through the first quarter and into April, becoming overextended in May."

"In bear years, declines start slowly and pick up steam in May and June."

Fire death investigated

A Howard County grand jury spent much of its time this week going over details in a possible case of arson which resulted in the death of Charlie Beard, 81.

Beard died when his house at 404 N. Bell caught fire and burned to the ground on April 7. Since that time, an arson investigation has been conducted, with a state arson investigator having been called in.

The grand jury did not reach any conclusions this week, said Ricky Hamby, district attorney, but will resume the investigation when they meet again in May.

Chuck Wagon Party introduces Caylor book

Introduction by
MICKIE DICKSON

The annual "Fun" event of the year, the Heritage Museum Chuck Wagon Party, will host more than 600 persons Thursday evening at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The famous Chuck Wagon Gang of Odessa will again be serving delicious Barbecue fare.

This year the museum has joined with Texas A. and M. University Press to produce a commemorative book of Harvey Wallace Caylor paintings. The Chuck Wagon Party is the occasion of the unveiling of the Caylor book. This collector type book has 53 high fidelity reproductions of Caylor paintings, and the party will be the first opportunity for owners of reproduced paintings as well as the public to see the publication and to purchase it.

This year for the first time, the Chuck Wagon Party will be open to the general public because of the special introduction of the Caylor book, which will be offered at a special price.

The Chuck Wagon Gang will begin serving at 7 p.m. and the program proper will start at 7:45 with Bob "Tumbleweed Smith" Lewis as master of ceremonies. Tom Castle and his band, who have become fixtures for the annual event, will entertain with string music. Tumbleweed has a novel presentation arranged for the various paintings plus recognition of the owners who granted permission for their use in the publication.

More than a score of owners of pictures by the frontier artist will come from over the state and nation to see the reproduction of their paintings in the book. This will also be the first time for many of them to view the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and attend a Chuck Wagon Party.

Among those who have been involved in preparations for the event in leading roles are John L. Taylor, general chairman of the Caylor project, aided by the publications committee and the arrangements panel. Members of the publications committee are Susan Lewis, Frances Wheat, Jerry Worthy, Gerri Atwell and Joe Pickle, who wrote the book text. The arrangements panel includes Mr. and Mrs. Arlis (Barbara) Ratliff, general chairmen, John and Beverly Taylor, Toots and Mary Nell Mansfield, Gary and Ann Turner, Harry and Janet Middleton, Cecial and Ruby Allred, Wade and Toni Choate and Jerry and Louise Worthy.

Ordinarily, the Chuck Wagon parties are open only to Museum members and their guests, but this year's event has been opened because of the Caylor book, which, incidentally, will be offered at a special discount only at the party. Deadline for acquiring tickets is tomorrow.

Caylor was a highly regarded artist on the frontier of the West, although with his death he dropped almost into obscurity. Part of the impetus for a renaissance of interest in his works stemmed from the efforts of Howard C. Duff, one-time Big Springer and now a retired U.S. Navy officer at Edmonds, Wash. He is married to the former Pauline Melton, who resided diagonally across the Eighth and Main intersection from the Caylor at 800 Main.

Quite by chance, Duff became fascinated with a Caylor painting, and then learned that Mrs. Melton knew Mrs. Caylor intimately. They began to acquire a modest collection, from which Duff experimented with lithographs (incidentally, copies of these will be available), which had limited distribution. Nevertheless, he persisted in the belief that Caylor needed a wider form of recognition, which has been fulfilled in this book.

He was not alone in this conviction, but J. Frank Dobie, the famous Texas folk-artist shared this view, as did Florence Caylor.

Caylor was a native of Indiana, and because of his interest in and natural aptitude for sketching, he received some limited instruction as a lad. Mostly, however, he was self taught.

When only a stripling, he took off for the West and spent time in Kansas visiting relatives working as a cowhand to sustain himself with something besides his sketches.

Long before he was out of his teens, he had worked as an itinerant artist and grub-line cowboy all the way to the West Coast, back through the Rocky Mountains to Kansas. It was there that he met Florence Nephier, several years his senior, but with whom he instantly fell in love. It was a perfect match, and she became his staunchest supporter and booster. After his death in 1932, she held fiercely to her belief that he had a God-given talent and was one of the important artists of the west. Caylor would have discouraged her, for he was a modest, retiring type of individual, but a man of great depth and dignity.

Caylor was one of those rare individuals who was able to put down on canvas the magic moment when the great romantic era of the West was giving way to settlement and development. He caught the scene without extravagant colors or embellishment in that transition from

TOM CASTLE BAND — Tom Castle, center, and his band one. The band will provide dinner music and will play after the Caylor book sale. Parties and will perform Thursday evening at the eighth frontier to barbed wire.

A peculiarity about Caylor's popularity was that it lay originally among the patron ranch families who commissioned much of his work. Perhaps the majority of his works are still in the hands of these families.

When he died, Florence had his epitaph carved: "The Artist." He would be amazed at the affair in his honor Thursday.

Among out-of-town guests, most of them owners of Caylor paintings appearing in the book, who are planning to attend the Chuck Wagon Party are Commander and Mrs. John T. (Tommy) Quinn, USN, who with his mother have the greatest number of paintings, of Washington, D.C.; Dr. and Mrs. W.M. Winter, San Antonio; Mrs. Kittie West Burns, Mr. and Mrs. H.M. (Louise Mauldin) Kellogg, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gray and his mother of Galveston; Wayne Allen, who is representing Arthur Letzig, president of the Kansas City Stockyards; Dr. and Mrs. W.T. (Tyree) Hardy, Sonora, Mr. and Mrs. John Ryder, Galveston; Mrs. P.J. Professional clowns entertain crowd

Story by Tina Miller

What do you get when you dress 77 kindergarten students in cowboy hats and red bandanas, and then put them on stick horses? A kindergarten rodeo, of course!

Approximately 600 participants, spectators, parents and other school children attended Coahoma's Third Annual Kindergarten Rodeo Tuesday afternoon. The event took place outside the school's primary building, with every child enrolled in the Kindergarten class participating.

The idea of a kindergarten rodeo was first conceived by Sandra Wanner, a former Coahoma teacher from Ohio. After moving to this area from Ohio, she began attending local rodeos and playdays. From these events, she developed the concept of a children's rodeo. She then contacted Quail Dobbs, world-famous rodeo clown, who volunteered his assistance. This year Dobbs continues to play a most important part in the event.

According to Linda Dick, kindergarten teacher, plans for this year's rodeo began last October. "At that time," said Mrs. Dick, "we began to make arrangements with Quail Dobbs to fit his schedule, and with advertising sponsors. Through Dobbs, we were able to obtain advertising from Nestea, who has helped us each year, and Frontier Airlines."

She continued, "Both companies supplied us with advertising banners, and Frontier provided us with the identification numbers that were worn by each participant."

Intense planning of the event began in March, when teachers began coordinating the events and assisting the students in learning their part in the rodeo. "It takes a great deal of strength and coordination for the children to participate," stated Mrs. Dick, "and the development of these motor skills justifies the time we devote to the rodeo."

Volunteer parents made the heads of the stick horses from poster board and glitter, while the school furnished each child with a red bandana.

Parents of the children also provided a mop or broom handle for the body of the horse. Teachers of physical education, music and art helped the children develop their motor skills, sing songs, and create instruments for the band and other props. Also getting into the spirit of the day were several senior students who are enrolled in the school's child care program. These students moved barrels, poles and other props between each event. With parents, teachers and students working together, the rodeo is truly a joint effort.

Events in the kindergarten rodeo closely follow those of professional rodeos everywhere. Bull riding and bronc riding as well as barrel and potato races took place, and a live "cowboy band" entertained the crowd with its versions of "Deep in the Heart of Texas" and "This Land is Your Land."

The rodeo is carefully planned in order to assure that each child is able to participate in two events as well as the grand entry. By doing this, Mrs. Dick explained, each child feels that he or she plays a very important part in the activities.

Quail Dobbs captivated the crowd with his clown acts, assisted by his "wild" mule and dog, Phyllis. Tom Spell, school principal was roped into riding the mule, while Phyllis performed tricks such as jumping rope with Dobbs.

Also providing entertainment for the crowd was Kevin Cahoon, nine year old professional rodeo clown. Kevin, accompanied by his father, came to Coahoma from Houston for the event. According to Kevin's father, young Cahoon has been a rodeo clown for six years. He got his start by winning a clown makeup contest sponsored by Foley's department store, and has since become the youngest clown on the rodeo circuit.

"I'm trying out for parts in movies and television and commercials," said Kevin, "but I want to be a clown and a veterinarian when I grow up."

Kevin's goals thus far are very realistic since he has been a clown in 32 rodeos, including a performance last year with Quail Dobbs. Should he decide to change careers, however, Kevin already has a head start on becoming a zoo keeper. His current menagerie includes three horses, a pony, three donkeys, one goat, eight dogs, six chickens, two rabbits and a turtle. Kevin's next scheduled event is his own float in the upcoming Houston parade.

The rodeo is a wonderfully unique event for its participants. While providing fun and exercise, it also teaches the students to cooperate with one another. Add to this the development of coordination and motor skills, and Coahoma's Kindergarten Rodeo is the most important learning experiences of the year.

'I PLEDGE ALLEGIANCE' — The 77 participants in the rodeo, as well as spectators, pause in the opening moments of the event to salute the American and Texas

BRONC RIDER — Joe Eddie Cozart is deep in concentration as he tries to stay on the bucking horse. His efforts were well rewarded, as he managed to stay on till the buzzer sounded.

CLOWN AND NARRATOR — Quail Dobbs, left, professional rodeo clown, has been a part of the kindergarten rodeo since its beginning in 1979. Kirby Brown, right, served as announcer for this year's event. Kirby kept the crowd informed of each event, as well as announcing the names of each contestant.

Dear Abby

Hot Question Gets Lukewarm Answers

DEAR ABBY: The letter from BLISSFUL IN BALTIMORE left me in a fog of confusion. I am a male, past 50, experiencing declining virility. Five of my male friends, all about my age, seemed as confused as I when we discussed BLISSFUL'S letter.

She said: "Your column is filled with letters from women who complain that they are married to cold sex machines who don't know the first thing about how to satisfy a woman. For heaven's sake, who knows better than the woman herself what it takes to satisfy her? Just ask her to be honest. And when she tells you, believe her."

My friends and I asked our wives and received the following responses:

- My wife: "You know everything I know."
- Wife No. 2: "We're too old for that nonsense."
- Wife No. 3: "How should I know?"
- Wife No. 4: "Sex is all you ever think about!"
- Wife No. 5: "You aren't planning on starting that foolishness again, are you?"
- Wife No. 6: "Go read a book, and don't bother me."

Regards, CHARLES

DEAR ABBY: I'm 42, very happily married with four teenage children. The oldest married six months ago. Our family has been complete for 14 years — and now I'm pregnant again!

Abortion is out of the question. The only thing that will sustain me through this pregnancy is the knowledge that someone else who desperately wants a child will receive fulfillment and happiness from my labor. Yes, I want to put this child up for adoption, but I am concerned about the social pressures against such action.

My husband has called this pregnancy "a cruel blow" and "a great disappointment." He said that if I'm lucky I will have another miscarriage (I had one). But thus far I have not been able to get him to go along with giving up the child. We are active in religious education and practically run the Sunday school at our church. We had looked forward to our middle years together — unencumbered. This would be impossible with a new baby to raise.

The main fact of this mess is that I can't mentally or physically face this middle-age pregnancy without the thought that I will be relieved of the burden in November. What counsel can you give me?

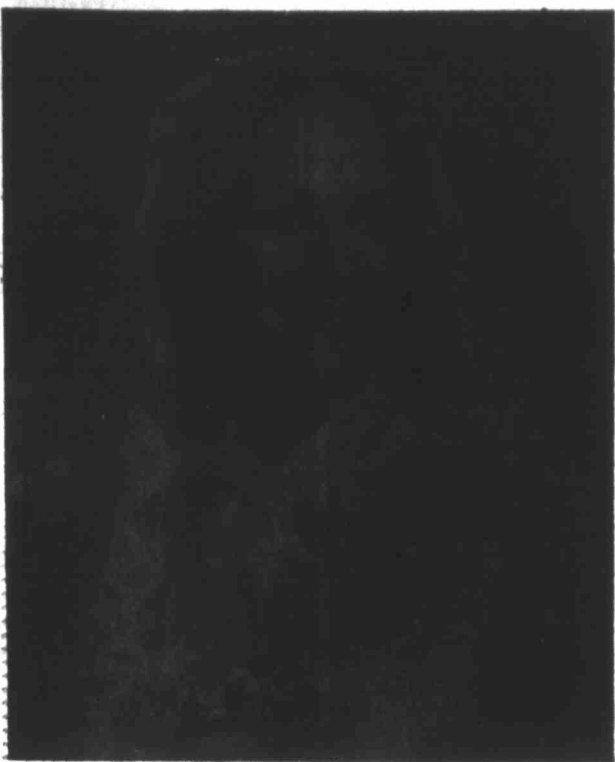

NAMELESS IN LOUISIANA

DEAR NAMELESS: I beg you not to make a decision while you are in this emotional state. Please wait until all the anger, disappointment and shock are dissipated, then decide together with your husband and children what to do about this unplanned child. Write again, my dear but troubled friend. I want to know of your decision.

(Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply, write to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Musicale kicks off National Music Week

The 57th Annual National Music Week is being observed in Big Spring, led by the Big Spring Music Study Club. The first observance was in 1924.

The 1981 celebration features the club's ensemble, the Bell Ringers of the First United Methodist Church and Mona Lue Tonn, vocalist, in seven performances from May 3-10.

The club's ensemble will present a musical at the Potton House, 200 Gregg, at 3 p.m. today with a repeat performance at 4 p.m. at Canterbury Apartments, 1700 Lancaster. The public is invited to attend the events featuring Joyce Bradley, soprano, accompanied by Joan Bell; Danna Moore, violinist and Mary Skalicky, pianist, in a program of "Drawing Room Favorites". The $1 admission charge at Potton House will go toward the Potton House restoration fund.

Mona Lue Tonn, vocalist, will present a gospel music program today at 9:30 a.m. at the United Christian Care Center and will repeat her selections at the Veterans Administration Medical Center Chapel May 10 at 6:30 p.m. The Bell Ringers will present a Mother's Day Handbell Concert at 3 p.m. May 10 at the First United Methodist Church, directed by Susan Dawes.

The Big Spring Music Study Club held its first meeting Sept. 28, 1936, to elect officers. The club was affiliated with the Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

The Big Spring Herald featured a front page article about the new club on Oct. 11, 1936. That article reported an "Assembly Day" meeting of officers and members of the local club held at the Crawford Hotel Ball Room.

The first meeting of the Ninth District, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, was held at the Settles Hotel on Jan. 21 and 22, 1938, hosted by the Big Spring Music Study Club. Throughout the years, the aim of the local club has been to foster an appreciation of good music in the home and in the community.

Big Spring is indebted to the original charter members of the club, including Elsie Willis, Roberta Gay, Mrs. H.G. Keaton, and Mrs. J.E. Hardesty for their untiring efforts to bring and to share the best in classical music with citizens of the area. One of the club's most notable accomplishments in the early years was their assistance in the acquisition of the Baldwin concert grand piano for the Municipal Auditorium.

An outstanding musical event during the early years of the club was an annual recital by the piano ensemble during "Music Week". Large audiences attended to hear an ensemble of eight pianists perform on four grand pianos at the auditorium.

The club consists of twenty-three members of which eleven are professional teachers of music in school and in the home. Numerous members are active in church music programs. All are united by a common love of music and a desire to share it with others.

New officers for the 1981-82 year installed Saturday are: Mrs. J.W. Cowan, president; Mrs. Mike Skalicky, first vice-president; Mrs. Rudy Haddad, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Bernard Zilberg, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Melvin Newton, recording secretary; Mrs. Tommy Dodson, treasurer; Mrs. Clyde Cantrell, reporter-historian and Mrs. Cleo Carlile, parliamentarian.

JUNE CEREMONY — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Chrane, 2102 Allendale, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carla, to David Bremmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orland Bremmon, Britton, South Dakota. The ceremony will take place June 20 in the Lutheran Church of the Risen Lord, Odessa, with Rev. James Otterness, pastor, officiating.

Don't expect miracles from face lift, says article

The best a face lift can do is make a patient look 10 years younger, according to a recent Family Circle magazine's "Here's News in Medicine" column. Dr. Frank Dunton, of the University of Texas surgery department, suggests in the magazine that anyone thinking of having this cosmetic operation do this first:

Lie flat on your back in bed. Then lift a mirror straight up over your head. Gravity will cause the loose skin that normally falls forward to fall back, and you will look about what you would look like after a lift. If what you see is not enough change for you, Dunton says, don't plan on a cosmetic face lift.

Children's seminar will be presented

A local children's educational seminar that was featured in a hospital trade magazine last winter will be presented for the fourth time May 12, 13, 14, at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Hospital volunteers will stage their Kindergarten Days to familiarize kindergarten students with the hospital world.

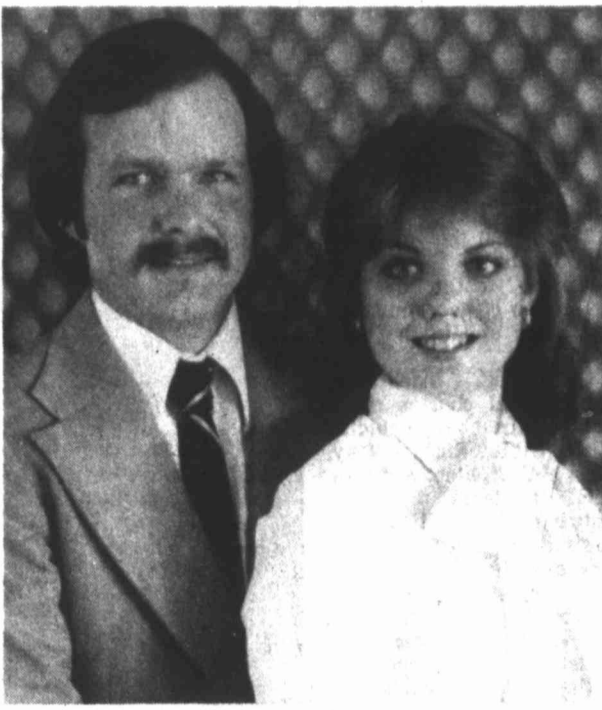

The group's project was the topic for a double-spread in Interchange, a publication of Hospital Corporation of America, of which Malone-Hogan Hospital is an affiliate. Pictures of several local children were used to illustrate the article.

Over 500 children will participate this year from eight local schools.

A poster contest, focusing on the Railroad Centennial, will precede the event, and will hang in downtown and outlying business malls, before being brought to the hospital for a special display during National Hospital Week, May 10-16. Winners will be recognized during that week.

Jean Connelly, Director of Nurses, will direct the skit performed by hospital employees. The skit is about a pretend tonsillectomy, and teaches the child what to expect if he or she has to come into the hospital for a tonsillectomy.

Volunteer Larueta Glass is coordinating the event; P.D. Heith, another Volunteer, is in charge of hosting arrangements for the skit.

Volunteers are vital to area hospitals

By CAROL HART
 (EDITOR'S NOTE: In the article below, three volunteers at the Veteran's Administration Medical Complex are featured. Several area facilities have been honoring their volunteers this week, and plan more fetes next week. The three people listed here are just a small sampling of the work contributed by volunteers.)

Florence Casey is 92 years old, and has been a volunteer worker at the Veteran's Administration Hospital for 10 years. Working for the VAMC as a volunteer is an activity that she enjoys, she says, and one she plans to continue.

Mrs. Casey folds towels for the VAMC, and has also worked in the pharmacy.

Although she used to come to VAMC several times a week, Mrs. Casey has cut down her visits to twice a week now, but still stays busy when she comes to the facility. She has more than 2,251 hours of service donated to the facility, adding more hours every Tuesday and Friday morning.

"I work wherever I'm needed most," she said.

Although she has been at VAMC over 10 years, she has been a volunteer much longer. "A lady asked me to come and help decorate a patient's dining room during World War I," she recalled. "I've been working ever since."

Mrs. Casey was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., and came to Big Spring from Minnesota. She lives at Canterbury. She has a daughter living in Seabrook, whom she visits several times yearly. J.H. Taylor has been working 12 years as a volunteer at VAMC, and has the second highest number of volunteer hours at the hospital, with 14,460. He is a Disabled American Veteran, injured during World War II.

Taylor serves VAMC by working as an escort, a person who carries patients to various destinations in wheelchairs. According to Lupe Dominguez, voluntary specialist at VAMC, Taylor comes to work every day from 8 a.m. until shortly after noon. "He is dedicated," added Mrs. Dominguez.

"If someone doesn't show up to work their shift, he stays until a replacement can be found," she said.

Martha Moody is the VAMC volunteer with the most hours of service locally. She has over 16,000 hours to her credit, and has been working as a volunteer since her high school days.

"I was a junior in school during World War I, and the Red Cross was started here. The juniors meet in the Baptist church basement to donate their services, such as rolling bandages."

"We were very patriotic," said Mrs. Moody. "We wouldn't have missed going to make our bandages."

Patriotism is very important to Mrs. Moody, who feels that children should be taught patriotism at an early age, and that patriotism should be stressed at home.

During World War II, Mrs. Moody recalled that she and others had sons fighting in the war. She did volunteer work, such as knitting, at home.

During the Korean War, her youngest son, Charles, was declared missing in action. Her son-in-law was also killed during the war. "I started in Red Cross work again. I appreciated the effort (the Red Cross) made in trying to find Charles."

"I have met many nice patients while volunteering. I've written letters for them, and played the piano for them. I also read the Bible to patients."

In addition to her volunteer work, Mrs. Moody is a Gold Star Mother, a member of the Eastern Star and the Red Cross, belongs to the Fireman Ladies, the National Association of Letter Carriers Auxiliary, and is active in the First United Methodist Church.

Catholic ceremony joins Batla-Hillger

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hillger are on a wedding trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. following their marriage Saturday afternoon in the Saint Lawrence Catholic Church.

The bride, the former Nancy Batla, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Batla, Saint Lawrence. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hillger, Saint Lawrence.

Rev. Bill de Haas, cousin of the bride, performed the 3 p.m. ceremony before an altar decorated with two spiral candelabums and two baskets of burgundy and mauve carnations. A Unity candle completed the altar decorations.

The bride chose to wear a formal-length gown of white organza and Chantilly lace. The bodice was designed with a fitted natural waistline and a Queen Anne neckline, accented with lace and irridescent. The full Bishop sleeves were accented with lace cuffs and ruffles, and the full skirt was fashioned with five tiers of organza down the center and trimmed with Chantilly lace. The chapel-length train was edged with a deep ruffle of organza and Chantilly lace.

The two-tiered veil featured matching lace and lace appliques and fell from a Juliet cap covered with lace.

A cascading bouquet of white carnations and mauve roses completed the bridal ensemble.

Mrs. Jody Schwartz, Garden City, and Mrs. Steve Livingston, Midland, sisters of the bride, were matrons of honor. Lani Kay Frerich, Denton, cousin of the bride, and Theresa Schraeder, San Angelo, were maids of honor. Bridesmaids were Bee-Bee Dee, Garden City, Mrs. Greg Frerich, Garden City, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Dennis Milner, San Angelo, cousin of the groom, and Dana Hillger, Saint Lawrence, sister of the groom.

Ushers for the event were Larry Batla and Garry Batla, brothers of the bride, Saint Lawrence, and Robert Hillger, Greenwood, and David Hillger, Big Spring, uncles of the groom.

Flower girls were Jamie Cornwell, Garden City, cousin of the groom, and Misty Kay Batla, Saint Lawrence, niece of the bride. Ring bearers were Eric Tanner, San Angelo, cousin of the groom, and Bradley Batla, Saint Lawrence, nephew of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception and dance was held at Saint Lawrence Hall. A five-tiered cake, featuring a fountain, was served from the bride's table. A chocolate cake, decorated with a farm scene, was served from the groom's table.

The bride is a graduate of Garden City High School and attended Angelo State University. The groom is also a graduate of Garden City High School, and is currently working as a farmer.

Following their return from Fort Lauderdale, the couple will reside near Lomax.

Energy tight homes plagued by mildew

There's hope for solving today's mildew problems, plaguing energy-tight houses where moisture has become trapped.

The best rule of thumb is to prepare ahead of time to avoid mildew problems. To prepare, remember the key is a well-ventilated house.

Most mildew problems will focus on the bathroom and closets. These areas need more ventilation and more heat. As a general prevention step, you can use dehumidifiers or ventilate the house more thoroughly and frequently.

For a more concentrated airing—in the bathroom, for example, install a small ventilating fan.

In closets, install an incandescent (conventional or ordinary) light, and keep it burning during warm humid weather. One 75-watt bulb should generate enough heat for a closet as large as six-feet-square.

Even the best ahead-of-time steps can't always prevent mildew, although certainly they will help reduce its possible damaging effects. So, if after all, you're face-to-face with prolonged humidity, be ready to fight mildew.

Start by even more ventilating of the house, and use heat to dry out the house.

If mildew does start growing on walls and ceilings, wash them with a strong solution of chlorine bleach. Be careful with the cloth you use and change cloths often so you don't spread the mildew to uncontaminated areas.

For mildew-stained ceilings and walls, you can try washing them with 2-3rd cup trisodium phosphate, one quart chlorine bleach and three quarts warm water. If the stains aren't too bad, this will help in some cases.

Remember, though, washing the walls and ceilings with chlorine bleach will help remove mildew, but it does not keep mildew from returning. Again, only enough ventilation and heat can really stop mildew.

If you plan to repaint walls or ceilings, use a paint that has a mildew retardant.

Do not paint a mildewed wall until you remove the mildew and dry the wall well. Otherwise, the mildew will come back again.

To get mildew stains and odors out of upholstered furniture, take it outside and sweep it with a broom to remove as many mildew spores as possible. Then vacuum to remove embedded spores. Discard the vacuum bag so spores don't spread.

Air furniture in the sun for several days. Be sure to bring furniture inside at night to keep it out of damp night air. After airing in the sun, remove stains with a mild detergent solution.

If that doesn't work, mix lemon juice with non-iodized salt, rub it on the stains, and allow them to bleach in the sun with the solution still on them.

Use the same steps on mattresses. Be sure to expose the mattress to hot air and sun.

To clean mildewed books, open them and let the pages air and dry in a warm room or, even better, in the sun. Then brush off the mildew.

Clean cloth covers with a cloth wrung out in mild soap suds or detergent. For leather covers, use a diluted solution of alcohol.

To get mildew off a leather covered chair, wash with saddle soap or a cloth dampened slightly with diluted rubbing alcohol. Then wipe dry.

JULY WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lee Grantham, 1602 Osage Road, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ladon, to Ricky Wayne Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Patterson, Colorado City. The couple will exchange vows July 18 in Saint Mary's Episcopal Church.

Couple is united in home ceremony

Tina Daily became the bride of Bob Fitzgibbons in a ceremony held April 24 in the home of the groom's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Paula Dodd, 2201 Runnels, and Bob Dailey, 4104 Johnson. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fitzgibbons Sr., 2513 Carleton.

Rev. Lee Butler performed the 7:30 p.m. ceremony before an archway centered between candelabras decorated with silk roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, O.H. Daily Sr., Fort Worth, was attired in a street-length dress of white silk organza, accented by a ruffled neckline. A bouquet of beige silk roses, white carnations and cascading yellow rosebuds completed the bridal ensemble.

Cheryl Barber attended the bride as matron of honor. Kennie Fowler was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the groom's parents.

A two-tiered cake topped by small wedding bells was served to the guests.

Out-of-town guests attended from Alamogordo, N.M. and Fort Worth.

The bride is currently a senior at Big Spring High School. The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is presently employed by Tilley and George Construction.

Following a brief wedding trip to Lubbock, the couple is at home in Big Spring.

RECITAL TODAY — Beverly Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Wheeler, will be presenting her senior voice recital today, at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church Chapel. Miss Wheeler is a voice student of Mrs. Barbara Acreman, Odessa. She will perform selections by Purcell, Scarlatti, Schubert, Puccini, Gerstwin and others. Following the recital, a reception will be held in the church parlor.

Head Start, kindergarten registration date is set ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Roger Fleckenstein, Stanton, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Cheryl Lyn, to Kenneth Wayne Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cook, Stanton. The ceremony will take place June 13 in the First United Methodist Church, Stanton.

The Big Spring Independent School District annual Head Start and Kindergarten registration for students entering school next term is set for Thursday at both Kentwood and Lakeview Elementary Schools. Parents are asked to bring their children, along with birth certificates and immunization records to either Kentwood or Lakeview for the official registration of Head Start and kindergarten students.

Parents should take note of the following information:

Registration Programs Thursday are at Kentwood (half-day kindergarten program): Program begins at 2:30 p.m. and ends at 3:30 p.m.

Lakeview (full-day kindergarten program and Head Start): Parents may register children in gymnasium any time between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Items to bring to registration programs are birth certificate, and immunization (shot) records. Head Start students should also bring income verification information. Kindergarten students must be 5 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1981. Head Start students must be 3 years, 6 months on or before Sept. 1, 1981.

State Immunization requirements for kindergarten students are: Polio, at least 3 doses of vaccine, provided one or more doses have been received since the fourth birthday. Diphtheria-Tetanus — At least 3 doses of DTP and — or TD vaccines, provided at least one dose has been received on or after the fourth birthday. Measles — having had one dose or provide proof of illness. Mumps — having had one dose or provide proof of illness. Rubella (3-Day or German Measles) — Having had one dose.

On the polio and diphtheria-tetanus immunizations, "the law specifically requires that at least one dose of each of these vaccines must have been received since the fourth birthday. This is the state law and takes precedence over any medical interpretation or personal opinion of any physician. In order for a student to enter and — or remain in school, this requirement must be met, along with the other requirements." (Communication from Texas Department of Health Resources-May, 1977.)

Immunization requirements for Head Start students are the same as for kindergarten students with these exceptions:

Polio (oral) 4 doses required since age 4.

Diphtheria-Tetanus, 4 doses required since age 4.

At the time of registration, principals and teachers will explain programs, distribute materials, and answer questions parents may have.

Present enrollment in the Big Spring Independent School District Head Start and kindergarten program is approximately 540 students. In addition to classroom teachers, the services of counselors, speech therapists, nurses, and librarians are incorporated.

Parents who have questions concerning registration or the Head Start-kindergarten programs should call the central administration office at 267-8245.

The school district stresses the importance of attendance at one of the registrations in order that necessary planning be completed before school begins in August. The cooperation of parents is appreciated.

Tossing The Bridal Bouquet

It's a good time of year for a wedding, and if you're not having one yourself — why then, you can always hope to catch the bridal bouquet! Here at the ACCENT SHOPPE, we have learned that originally — in 14th century France — the coveted item was not a bouquet, but a garter. Unfortunately, the poor bride often got so mauled in her attendants' efforts to remove it that the traditional item was quickly changed to a stocking. But the stocking too was difficult to get off, so one day an unknown bride thought of tossing out her bouquet instead — and thousands of lucky attendants have been getting married ever since.
