AT SCENE OF FATALITY — County Judge Bill Tune, Officer Mike Dawson and State Trooper Bill Jennings examine an 18-wheeler which was involved in an accident with a pedestrian Saturday night. Woman dies on IS 20

A Big Spring State Hospital patient was killed in an apparent suicide Saturday evening, according to a report filed by Trooper Bill Jennings of the Texas Highway Patrol. Andrea Charles, 23, of Midland, was killed when she was struck by an 18-wheeler truck at 10:30 p.m. Saturday west of the Ramada Inn on Interstate 20. Driving the vehicle was Stephen Mark Goodman, 27, of Ontario, Calif. A report filed in the accident stated that Ms. Charles was on the center median on Interstate 20 and ran into the path of the truck. She was pronounced dead at the scene by County Judge Bill Tune, and taken by Shaffer Ambulance to Nalley-Pickie Funeral Home. She was later removed to Thomas Funeral Home in Midland.

Arms talks may begin

Haig tells NATO leaders U.S. to meet with Soviets

ROME (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. told the NATO foreign ministers today that the United States intends to open talks with the Soviet Union before the end of the year to limit medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe. Haig reportedly linked progress in the negotiations to Soviet conduct around the world.

Haig outlined the Reagan administration's first arms control initiative at a meeting of the North Atlantic Council, the highest policy-making body of the 15-member Western alliance.

Before the U.S. secretary spoke in a closed-door meeting, he heard Italian and Belgian appeals at the opening

Syria won't move missiles from Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria took a hard line today on the anti-aircraft missiles it moved into Lebanon, vowing to pay no heed to any "red line" that Israel draws for Syria's military activity in this nation.

Israel Radio reported that President Reagan asked Prime Minister Menachem Begin for more time to persuade Syria to remove the surface-to-air missiles. But Radio Damascus said before word of the Reagan message became public, "Syria will do what it has to do, and no one else, can draw red lines in Lebanon."

Syrian government-controlled newspapers made their first reference to the presence of the SAMs in Lebanon and attacked the United States and Israel for their "pretentious concern." Meanwhile, Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam arrived in Beirut for new talks with Lebanese government leaders.

Coahoma election results to be contested by Cobb

By CAROL HART Ken Cobb, who lost a bid as candidate for the Coahoma Independent School District board of trustees by a single vote, has filed a lawsuit in 118th District Court contesting the results of the April 4 election.

Controversy arose in the election following allegations by Cobb that the ballot boxes were illegally opened, and votes incorrectly tabulated.

The petition, on record in 118th District Court, states that the ballots in the race were delivered to the trustees of the CISD after the closing of the polls. Then, according to the petition, the trustees, without the authority of the Court or other legal authority, improperly opened the ballot boxes, improperly examined each ballot cast at the Coahoma Fire Station, and improperly discarded at least one vote that was cast for Cobb.

The petition reads "The school board then, erroneously concluded that the total number of votes cast for Clovis Phinney Jr., contestee, was 189 and that the total number of votes cast for contestant was 188."

The petition further states that ballots cast at the Sand Springs Fire Station were also illegally and improperly examined. "However, such examination revealed that at least two votes which were counted as being cast for Clovis Phinney Jr., were improperly counted and were illegal and should not have been counted.

The exclusion of the illegal ballots cast in the Sand Springs box would have resulted in the election of contestant to the office of trustee of the CISD."

Cobb, through the petition filed, charges that although a new election was requested, the request was not honored, and Phinney was elected to the office by majority vote.

Phinney was not available for comment as of press time today. He was in a meeting at his office.

Cobb, through the petition, states that either he should be named winner, or that a new election be held.

Cobb is seeking that the ballot boxes containing votes from Coahoma, Vincent and Sand Springs and Howard County, including absentee votes, be impounded until a date is fixed for the trial, together with a copy of the election returns, tally sheets, list of voters, and poll list of the election.

Attorney for the contestant in the case is Lanny Hamby.

Pentagon rally 'peaceful'

Thousands protest Reagan's policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American left, marching by the tens of thousands against U.S. involvement in El Salvador and cuts in domestic social programs, has shown it can still rally its troops in the big battalions characteristic of the anti-Vietnam protests of 1960's.

Demonstrators marched in May sunshine Sunday from near the Lincoln Memorial, past the State Department to the main parking lot of the Pentagon for a rally intended to signal resistance to Reagan administration policies at home and abroad.

In marked contrast to many of the Vietnam War protests, Sunday's was peaceful and orderly.

The crowd represented labor, religious, anti-draft and anti-war groups, as well as homosexual, black, Indian and Hispanic rights organizations.

Both the U.S. Park Service police and the Federal Protective Service, responsible for protecting government buildings, estimated the crowd at 25,000. Rally organizer Larry Holmes put it at 100,000, and Bill Masters, press aide for the sponsoring People's Anti-War Mobilization — PAM — said: "Next time we'll set up turnstiles."

One of the 26 speakers, former Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., told the crowd: "The same gang of crazies in the Pentagon and at the White House that brought us the war in Vietnam are now trying to get us into a war in El Salvador."

"The main threat to our security comes from the violence ... of the Pentagon; the Reagan government and their collaborators in Congress and co-conspirators in the Moral Majority," she said.

Rally organizers were delighted at the end of the day.

"It proves there's a real movement," Masters said. "It's a major step forward and the opening of resistance to the Reagan administration at home and abroad."

Smaller marches were held in Seattle, San Francisco and Kansas City.

There was only one arrest at the Pentagon, a man who allegedly splashed a red substance on the building's columns. He was given a citation, similar to a traffic ticket, for defacing government property and let go. His name was not released.

The inevitable comparison was with the October 1967 march on the Pentagon against the Vietnam War, one of the first large anti-war protests at a time when the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam was approaching half a million, draft calls were escalating and scores of American soldiers were being killed weekly.

The United States has sent 54 military advisers and $25 million in aid to bolster the ruling civilian-military junta in El Salvador. The Reagan administration has accused the Soviet Union and Cuba of arming the Marxist insurgents, although the communist countries have denied it.

The 1967 crowd was officially estimated at 35,000, and some Pentagon aides on hand for both events said privately that Sunday's rally seemed as big.

Bush says Democrat leaders thwarting 'people's mandate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush said today the congressional Democratic leadership was trying to "thwart the mandate of the people" by opposing President Reagan's economic package.

In remarks prepared for delivery to the American Newspaper Publishers Association in Chicago, the vice president said the president's opponents are suffering "a kind of political amnesia as to the meaning of last November's vote."

He criticized House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, D-Mass., for having said that Americans oppose Reagan's proposed budget cuts.

"It should be noted that this is the same speaker who, after the election, when it became clear that the president meant to carry out his mandate for economic reform, said that sometimes the people don't really know what's good for them."

"Well, perhaps it's that kind of attitude on the part of the established opposition leadership in Washington that's contributed so much to the public's cynicism and lack of confidence in our system in recent years," Bush said.

"I think the speaker was wrong over the weekend as he was when he expressed the view that the politicians know best what's good for the people. The American people do support the Reagan economic program, today as they did last November."

Bush said Reagan's economic program was spelled out in such detail during the presidential campaign "that no one who followed last year's campaign can doubt that when the majority of the American people cast their ballots for Governor Reagan, they knew exactly what he stood for and what he proposed to do to save our country from economic disaster."

He said the reason for the economic trouble was "the economic policies of the past — the economic policies fostered by the very opposition leadership that now is trying to obstruct President Reagan's program and in effect thwart the mandate of the people."

Response has been good to Cee City contest

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Response to the "Name the Spectacular" Centennial pageant are coming in nicely, according to Bob Reilly.

Reilly comments, "the response has been very good. We've had several entries each day and still have a few days left before the selection is made. We want to encourage everyone to enter the contest."

Additionally, Reilly added, "it's a lot of fun thinking of names in two or three words or a phrase that will cover 100 years of Mitchell County history. This contest is for all ages. If you're too young or too old to write, have someone write your suggestion for you, postmark it prior to May 15 and mail it to Box 847."

Chairman of the selection committee is Mrs. Louise Johnston, Middle School librarian, with Mrs. Bill Denison and Mrs. Bebe Colaw also on the committee.

In a final statement, Reilly said, "it'll be hard to make a decision from all the good entries we're receiving and I'm glad it's not my job to make the selection."

'Cat Claw' scratches drug dealers' wallets

MCALLEN, Texas (AP) — Drug Enforcement Agency officials call it the "wave of the future" in the war against narcotics traffickers, but civil liberties attorneys say it's unconstitutional — maybe.

It is a little-known law passed in 1978 that allows federal agents to seize all property, including homes, regardless of whether criminal indictments have been filed.

"It's a civil action. We weren't even looking for any arrests," says DEA Agent-in-Charge Ken Miley of the newest tactic used by officers in the continuing battle against illicit drug activity.

"This is the wave of the future in the war against drug traffickers," he says. "This lets us hit the drug peddlers where it hurts — in the pocketbook."

The latest pocketbooks to be dented belong to Benito and Matias Montemayor, two brothers who have past narcotics convictions and have been targeted by the DEA for civil action.

Among other things, the Montemayors own ranches in Mexico, 13 expensive horses, diamond watches, dozens of handmade boots — and a pair of sprawling, walled-in estates in this South Texas border town.

But the homes — one valued at $180,000 and the other at $98,000 — came into the hands of the DEA during a raid Tuesday when agents carrying warrants swooped down and confiscated the houses and the personal possessions valued at $200,000.

The goods and property seized eventually will total between $800,000 and $1 million, Miley said.

The Montemayor brothers could not be reached for comment. Both were in Mexico when the raid occurred, DEA agents said.

"We call this Operation Cat Claw," says Miley. "It's the first time the law's been used in Texas and the first time in the U.S. when there weren't companion criminal cases."

Jim Harrington, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney in nearby San Juan, says he believes the action "has got to be unconstitutional."

But Miley contends, "you can't violate the civil rights of an object."

"This thing has been carefully investigated over a 5-year period and includes agency reports all over the U.S. and Mexico," he said.

Matias Montemayor is listed as the owner of construction company Monterrey, Mexico. "Hell, if a chain-link fence around a broken-down bulldozer makes a construction company, then he's got one," Miley said.

Miley says the action taken against the Montemayors is just the first step.

Weather: Nine inches of rain dumped on Houston

By the Associated Press

A slow moving system of thunderstorms dumped nearly nine inches of rain over parts of Southeast Texas, spawning several twisters and leaving one dead, another reported missing and at least eight persons injured.

On a widely scattered basis, rain entered some homes and buildings as streets and roads in the coastal plains as bayous in the Houston area left their banks in Sunday's deluge.

More heavy rain had been anticipated today but the flood warnings were lifted as the major portion of a massive low pressure system in the Gulf of Mexico remained offshore.

Harris County flood control officials in Houston said most streams were receding and the general area would be in good shape barring additional downpours.

One has stopped drug bill How influential are lobbies?

By JIM DAVIS

Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — If you've wondered how much influence the lobby has on legislation in Texas, answer your own question by examining the generic drug bill this session.

For six years, Sen. Chet Brooks, a Pasadena Democrat, has been pushing for legislation to allow consumers to purchase generic drugs from their pharmacists.

For six years, the basic arguments have been the same.

Consumer groups said buying the chemically and therapeutically identical generic drugs instead of name-brand drugs would save consumers money — an estimated $12 million to $16 million a year.

But the medical lobby said a doctor should have total control over the medicine he or she prescribes for a patient. Drug companies fought hard to keep the costlier name-brands in favor, questioning arguments that the cheaper drugs are equal in therapeutic value.

So, Texas has stayed in the ranks of the three or four states that don't allow generic substitution.

Suddenly, last week, Brooks' much-battered bill came flying out of committee and passed the Senate on a voice vote. It is expected to receive a similar embrace from the House and become law upon signature of the governor.

The reason for the change: The powerful lobbies involved had agreed to "sign off" on a compromise bill, dropping their opposition.

Once the okay signal had been received from the lobby, the senators jumped on the pro-consumer bandwagon.

Those who previously had kept any form of generic drug bill from being considered suddenly were yelling "Aye" on final passage with as much gusto as Brooks.

Only Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, a conservative Republican from Dallas, held out against the bill to the end.

Wichita Falls is a long way from the Texas Coast, but the Texas senator from there says he understands concerns about evacuation plans for coastal areas.

Sen. Ray Farabee offered his support to Sen. James

"Buster" Brown's resolution asking state highway planners to consider evacuation needs when designing coastal highways.

Brown, senator from Lake Jackson near Houston, said such planning could help save lives in some future hurricane.

Recalling the 1979 Wichita Falls tornado, Farabee said at least there is some advance warning with hurricanes and evacuations are possible.

It was two years ago last month that Farabee and other legislators from that area had to leave the 1979 session and fly back to Wichita Falls to try to help their damaged community.

A special note to those, such as Comptroller Bob Bullock, who wish to see sizzling letters of disagreement concerning column items, or even just a news release: We've moved.

The Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau now is set up at Suite 515, 1011 Congress, Austin, Texas, 78701.

Supreme Court will decide on illegal alien education

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether states must provide free public education to illegal alien children.

The justices will hear an appeal by Texas authorities aimed at reinstating an invalidated state law that allowed such children to attend public schools only if tuitions were paid.

The court's eventual decision, not expected until sometime next year, likely will establish whether or not illegal aliens in the United States are entitled to equal protection of the laws.

The issue is an especially important political one for those states bordering Mexico.

U.S. District Judge Wayne Justice last year struck down the Tyler Independent School District's charging of a $1,000 tuition for illegal alien children who attended its schools.

In a separate case from Brownsville, U.S. District

Judge Woodrow Seals struck down the 1975 Texas law barring free education to illegal aliens, ruling that it violated the equal-protection rights of illegal alien children.

The Constitution's 14th Amendment declares: "No state shall ... deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

In upholding Judge Justice's ruling last Oct. 20, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said, "We conclude that all aliens — even those illegally within the territorial boundaries of the United States — are entitled to the equal protection of the laws."

It added: "When national immigration laws are not or cannot be enforced, it is the states, most particularly the border states, that bear the heaviest burden. This court can readily understand the problems faced by a state such as Texas."

"However, this court cannot suspend the operation of the Constitution to aid a state to solve its political and social problems."

Texas authorities estimate that some 120,000 illegal alien children reside in the state.

In seeking Supreme Court review, Texas Attorney General Mark White argued that illegal aliens should not be protected by the 14th Amendment.

He said that because states are preempted by federal immigration laws to deport illegal aliens, such persons are not "within the jurisdiction of a state." Therefore, White contended, they are not entitled to constitutionally guaranteed equal protection.

Before reaching its decision in the Tyler case last October, the 5th Circuit court had postponed the effect of Seals' ruling in the Brownsville case.

Vegetarian diet needs basic four

Vegetarians, as well as everyone else, should bear in mind the four-food-group approach to good nutrition. Recommended servings for each of the basic four (meat, milk, vegetable-fruit, bread-cereal) can be geared to include non-meat foods.

For instance, within the meat group are foods such as nuts, legumes, fish and meat substitutes usually made from soybeans. Daily servings should include two for children, teenagers and adults.

The recommended daily number servings from the milk group is three for children, four for teenagers and two for adults. Each age group should receive four servings from the fruit-vegetable group as well as the bread-cereal group each day.

Vegetarians need to make certain their diets provide sufficient quantities of crucial nutrients, including complete protein and essential vitamins and minerals.

If an individual is a strict vegetarian and does not consume any dairy products, eggs, fish or meat, he will have a more difficult time of insuring an adequate intake of essential nutrients found in these foods.

Nutrients posing specific problems for the strict vegetarian are protein, calcium, riboflavin, iron, and vitamin D. For example, we usually obtain 75 percent of our daily calcium intake from milk group foods.

When utilizing foods of plant origin as your primary source of calcium, the quantity one must consume is often many times that of a normal serving. For example, to equal the calcium in 8 ounces of milk or 1-1/2 ounces cheese, one would need to consume either 10 eggs, 1-1/2 pounds carrots, 7 oranges, 7 pounds potatoes or 1-1/2 pounds cabbage.

Practicing vegetarianism and being well-nourished requires special care in choosing a variety of foods from the basic four food groups.

Dear Abby

Happy Celibates Want To Stay That Way

DEAR ABBY: Recently you wrote, "No healthy normal man (or woman) is supposed to be 'happy' in abstinence" (from an active sex life).

I hope you will rethink your position. You have been, over the years, a great friend of hetero-, homo- and even bisexuals. How about a good word for those of us who are genuinely asexual? We are truly a forgotten minority.

I, for one, am quite happy without sex. Personally, I am repelled by sex, although I am heartily in favor of a happy, normal sex life for those who favor it. I do not want to be thought of as "unhealthy" or "abnormal." I am living in the way that is right for me. Unfortunately, because I am not married and do not have a lover, many people assume that I am a lesbian, which I definitely am not.

Some of history's most creative people have been celibate by choice. Please think about it, Abby, and give us a break.

AGE 42 AND STILL A VIRGIN

DEAR 42: To each his (or her) own. Meet another happy celibate:

DEAR ABBY: I must object to your comment to NO ACTION IN WASHINGTON STATE. You said: "No healthy normal man (or woman) is supposed to be 'happy' in abstinence."

I consider myself a happy, normal, healthy male, and abstinence is my choice. As a matter of fact, like thousands of others who have taken the vow of celibacy, I feel that for me, celibacy is an important part of my life. SIGNATURE: HAPPILY CELIBATE IN N.Y.

DEAR CELIBATE: NO ACTION complained that his wife had been depriving him of marital relations for 15 years. (He was 56.)

I agree, one who takes the vow of celibacy can indeed be happy, normal and healthy. But a man (or woman) who takes the marriage vows, then decides to become celibate, does his wife (or husband) a terrible disservice.

DEAR ABBY: We are a couple in our late 20s (call us George and Georgette) who have been married for six years. We both work, have no children and are very happy with our lives.

We need an outside opinion. We recently had a portrait painted of Georgette in which she is wearing only the bottoms of her French-cut bikini. It is a tasteful, accurate and beautiful painting. We are planning to hang it in our home but are concerned that some of our friends may be ill at ease knowing the model was Georgette. But we do want to share it with others.

What do you think?
GEORGE AND GEORGETTE

DEAR G. AND G.: When in doubt — don't!

DEAR ABBY: I am the wife of an airline pilot, and I used to worry myself half sick wondering what my captain might be doing with some cute young airline hostess, until one night a highly respected, much-admired professional man knocked on my door while my pilot was gone. He certainly had some swinging plans for us. And to think for years I had envied this man's wife because she had an 8-to-5 husband!

That's all there is to my story, Abby. But the point is this: Occupation doesn't determine fidelity — or the lack of it — in a marriage. I know airline captains' wives who have more going for them while their husbands are away than their husbands have.

Vitamin C rich oranges make delicious deserts

Looking for a perfect ending to a delicious meal? Try desserts made with fresh oranges. Light, tangy, refreshing, and full of Vitamin C, they fill the bill to perfection. Here are a few ways to use fresh oranges, along with other seasonal fruits, to make delicious Spring desserts.

The fresh orange supply is adequate and the processed orange supply is plentiful, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. So now is a good time to try oranges and processed products in new and unusual ways.

For the simplest possible use of oranges, merely peel them, making sure to get all the white pith off and then, using a sharp knife, cut between the sections and remove each section whole. Arrange them attractively and sprinkle sugar on them. For a truly special touch, add a little Grand Mariner or Cointreau.

Ambrosia is another refreshing and satisfying dessert featuring oranges.

1/4 cup (0.06 L) sugar
4 teaspoons (20 mL) grated fresh orange rind
Few dashes salt
2 medium bananas, sliced
1/2 cup (0.12 L) fresh orange juice
1 tablespoon (15 mL) fresh lemon juice
1 small pineapple, peeled and cut into finger-shaped slices
2 medium apples, cored and cut in wedges

In blender, combine eggs, butter, sugar, orange rind and salt; blend for one minute. While the blender is running, add orange juice and lemon juice. Pour mixture into the top of a double boiler and stir constantly while it cooks over simmering water. Cook until mixture thickens, for about 10 minutes. Cover. Chill. Serve with cut up fresh fruits. Serves eight to 10.

Rosebud Club plans horticulture show

The Rosebud Garden Club luncheon meeting was held at the Big Spring Country Club Tuesday.

Mildred Beckcom presided as club members planned a horticulture show that will coincide with the Railway Centennial Celebration. The show, which will be sponsored by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs, will be open to the public at the First National Bank, May 22, 3-6 p.m. Anyone wishing to participate is invited to bring plants and one specimen flower to the bank by 10 a.m. May 23.

Jane Thomas agreed to let the club members hold a garage sale in her carport on June 20.

Mrs. Beckcom, who spoke on the subject of wild flowers, told the Comanche Indian legend of the beginning of the blue bonnet flower. She said that there are five species of the blue bonnets in Texas and all are considered the state flower.

Kitchen up-date saves time for busy moms

If you don't have as much time as you would like to spend in cooking, make the most of those moments in the kitchen by using the many new, time-saving appliances now available.

Slow cookers are the answer to the busy Mom's prayer — you can prepare dinner in the morning, let it cook all day while you go about your business, and have it ready to serve by dinner-time!

Another alternative to slow cooking is high-speed cooking, which lets you get home late from work or errands and still be able to prepare meals on time. Microwave cooking is a boon to busy women, and the hot air turbo-oven, while not as fast-cooking, is also a time-saver.

The newest blenders can save you time, too — and they also save money by enabling you to use those leftovers to make soups, and sauces.

Updating your kitchen with the latest appliances can make cooking more enjoyable and less time-consuming for you!

Alternatives to tight credit

Buying a home can be done, in spite of tight credit. Many people postpone buying a home due to high interest and tight credit. However, when a suitable mortgage from a recognized financial source is not attainable, other non-traditional financing options are available, says Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Explore the possibility of the seller taking back a second mortgage or a short-term contract sale, she advises.

Dr. Berry is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Fernando Valenzuela has been doing it in Los Angeles. Do you know how well he's doing?

On Sunday, Valenzuela needed some help from his teammates to get the 10-inning trip to Montreal.

"This one is tougher than the last one," said Valenzuela.

It was the first game of the season for Valenzuela. He had a previous star performance in four shutouts but one run game.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Don Sutton, in his first season as a pitcher, drew three hits in one game.

"And if I had three more of those, I would have won the game," Sutton said.

One walk, one error, one run, another alive and led to victory over the Pirates.

"I wasn't too good," Sutton lamented. "That's the bad news. I'm a pitcher, not a hitter."

After Jose Cruz stole a base and Art Howe loaded the bases, Sutton hit Cruz to give the lead.

"In Bibby's first game, he was trying to hit Sutton. It's just a point, but it's no logical point."

Defecting Texans chided

Stenholm visible as leader of conservative Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas congressmen have been particularly visible in the recent influence of the Conservative Democratic Forum in the budget discussions.

One of the major news magazines arranged this past week for Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, Rep. Phil Gramm of College Station and Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock to pose for a picture. The photographer took a roll of black and white and a roll of color; supposedly the picture will run inside, not on the cover.

Stenholm is the president of the 47-member coalition that was established late last year to give conservatives more of a voice in party affairs, but which has expanded recently. Many members of the party, including all eight of its Texas members, have lined up behind President Reagan's economic recovery program to reverse what was otherwise a Democratic majority in the House.

Gramm, a member of the House Budget Committee, is the CDF's leader on budget matters and drew up the budget version known as the Gramm-Latta bill that contains the president's far-ranging spending cuts.

Hance, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, is the CDF's leader on tax matters.

The Democratic leadership has already come up with its alternative to the president's proposals, but Hance's staff is now working on a new revision, keeping many of the president's ideas but inserting some savings incentives to meet objections many Democrats have with the president's proposal.

The result could be a Hance-Conable bill, co-sponsored by Rep. Barber Conable Jr., R-N.Y., the ranking Republican on the committee, in a bi-partisan tax bill that would — like the Gramm-Latta budget proposal — become the "president's" proposal before Congress.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, is unhappy with the refusal of Texas Democratic congressmen to support the party budget alternative. He's expressed particular rage with the role Gramm has played in carrying the administration bill.

Sparks reportedly flew Wednesday during Texas' weekly delegation luncheon at the Capitol. Several of the conservative Democrats reportedly told Wright he is on the wrong side in this issue: that Texas voters want Congress to give the president a chance to see if his economic policies will stop inflation.

Hance acknowledged that the leadership is not pleased with the position he and the others have taken as members of the CDF "but I think they understand."

"One thing that's important for the people to realize is that Jim Wright may be pursuing a different proposal, but he and (House Speaker) Tip O'Neill have gone out of their way to make sure the president's program got a fair shake on the floor. They have not tried to kill it," Hance said.

Even if the budget version supported by the Democratic leadership should win, it would be the most conservative budget proposal that Congress has passed in 20 years, the second-term Democrat said.

"Our choice this time has been between a very conservative budget and a very, very conservative budget, and I don't think the public ever thought they would see that," he added.

"Wright has had a difficult time dealing with ultra-liberals, partly because they have been putting a lot of pressure on him. But his being majority leader of the Democratic Party is important to Texas and important to all of us. He's gone out of his way to make things smooth when he could have taken tactics to kill the program."

An aide to one Texas congressman said he became convinced Reagan's economic recovery program would pass in the House of Representatives when he heard that Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, would support it.

Of the nine Texas Democrats who indicated they would vote for the Gramm-Latta bill, eight were members of the CDF. Wilson's commitment to it caught many by surprise.

"If Charlie Wilson's anything, he's a moderate or liberal. If he votes for it, there's no way it's not going to pass," the aide said.

Wilson made up his mind, he said, after he went home to Southeast Texas during the Easter recess and saw the widespread support for the president among his constituents.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, sent out invitations recently that brought smiles to many faces in Washington.

Gonzalez is hosting a "Cinco de Mayo" celebration in the courtyard of the Rayburn House Office Building featuring a mariachi band "and incomparable Mexican food."

Mexican food, the way it's served in Texas, is almost impossible to find in Washington.

In addition to celebrating Mexico's defeat of French invaders in the May 5, 1862 battle of Puebla, the affair also will serve as a belated 65th birthday for Gonzalez, who was born May 3, 1916.

Collins says Legal Services lawyers not only have been representing illegal aliens but had violated state bar rules by soliciting such business.

Barbara Belejock of the Dallas Legal Services Foundation went to an Immigration and Naturalization Service suboffice in Grapevine and asked to see illegal aliens who were awaiting deportation, Collins said.

"She informed an employee of the INS that she had not been retained to represent any of the aliens. However, she wanted to see any of the aliens wanted her to represent them," he said.

Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas, has asked for a further investigation of lawyers in Texas who have been using federal funds to represent illegal aliens.

The General Accounting Office began an investigation of Legal Services groups in Dallas, Fort Worth, Hereford and East Texas last month after Collins complained they were violating federal regulations.

Writer's article earns Phinney place in book

Clovis Phinney Jr., business manager of the International Union of Operation Engineers, Local 826, has been presented with a Personalities of the South plaque by the Editorial Board of American Biographic Institute, the result of an article about Phinney which appeared under the by-line of Richard Horn in the Sunday, Oct. 5, 1980, edition of The Herald.

The American Biographic Institute is a division of Historical Preservations of America, which sponsors an annual publication in which Phinney's picture will appear. The publication recognizes past achievements of individuals and their outstanding service to their communities, states and their nation.

Born and raised in Coahoma, Phinney graduated from Coahoma High School in 1946 and attended Howard College. He went to work for Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., in 1949, at a time when membership in the local union was required for employment. He has been active in local committee of the union since 1957, and has served as both treasurer of the board and as union president.

The office of business manager, a salaried position, is a full-time job. Its duties include arbitration, representation and contract negotiations. Since it was chartered in 1943, Local 826 has merged with locals in other cities, including Colorado City, Odessa and Hobbs, N.M.

Phinney is charged with the responsibility of running the union, but everything he does on behalf of the union must have the approval of the local's executive board and membership.

Phinney is involved with the CDF's president and is area director for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy campaign.

Charles, Diane reunite

LONDON (AP) — After a month's separation, Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer are back together, friends say.

The heir to the British throne, who in recent weeks has toured Australia, New Zealand and the United States, arrived in Scotland on Sunday and took off for Balmoral Castle.

His fiancée flew to Aberdeen, Scotland, and left there by car. Her plane had been hit by lightning shortly after takeoff from London, but no damage was reported.

Buckingham Palace declined to say if the two were meeting, but friends said the couple planned to spend five days together.

Harris almost crushed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Richard Harris says he was in the wrong place when the lights went out during a performance of "Camelot" and narrowly missed being crushed beneath a one-ton set that was being lowered to the stage.

Harris, who took over the part of King Arthur when Richard Burton was ailing, said he was nearly hurt Saturday when the set was lowered after one scene in preparation for the next.

"There was a luminous mark, which you can't go beyond, and I seemed to have missed it in the action of the play," said Harris, who played King Arthur in the movie version of the musical.

Orlando set in 'Barnum'

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Tony Orlando, who has suffered from personal and professional setbacks in the last few years, says he is taking on "the biggest challenge of my life."

Starting this week, he will replace vacationing Jim Dale in Broadway's musical hit "Barnum" for three weeks.

For the 37-year-old Orlando, playing the legendary circus showman is no easy task. Each night, he must walk a tightrope, dance, juggle, bounce on a trampoline and sing nine songs.

"Things I never imagined doing I now must pull off gracefully and believably," he told People magazine.

Orlando, BEST KNOWN FOR THE HIT SONG, "Tie a Yellow Ribbon Round the Old Oak Tree," trained for the show for weeks, practicing the stunts and working with a dance and singing coach.

He told People that his nervous breakdown nearly four years ago stemmed from physical and emotional exhaustion.
