of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Lubbock, have spent several months reviewing city records, speaking with city staff members, and "just walking a lot of ground" to try to pinpoint the most serious problems.

"In the area of water mains, were found that at least half of the existing mains were constructed early in the century; some in the late 1800s," said

He explained that many of the existing water lines, most of which are cast iron or galvanized pipe, have either become severely corroded or encrusted with solid materials from

"In some cases, the pipes have become so encrusted that their water carrying capacity has been lowered by 75 percent," said Reaves. "During 1980, the breaks increased at an alarming rate. But we have good city records of where and how the pipes failed, so we were able to easily identify the problem areas," he ad-

According to Reaves, 99 percent of the water main breakdown occurred

Eighteenth Streets. During the first year of the program, the engineers have proposed the replacement of water lines along Washington; Goliad; portions of Birdwell; Runnels; Aylford; Douglas; Bell; and a downtown main needed by the water department as a cutoff.

Also proposed is a line running through the Kentwood and Highland South neighborhoods which will be connected to a new pressure plane during later phases of the program. The new pressure plane, which will include two huge ground storage reservoirs, will provide adequate and for potential growth areas to the east of the city.

Estimated cost of the first phase of the project at bid time in late summer is $1,081,500. Since only $770,000 of the 1981 funds have been earmarked for the project, much of the work may be delayed until the second phase.

Improvements to city streets will be done in conjunction with proposed water and sewer line replacement. The largest proposed street improvement will be the reconstruction and curbing of Wasson Road.

The entire legnth of the road will be reconstructed and widened from FM 700 to the south entrance of the Big Spring Airport. Special left-turn lanes will be added at several intersections. Also proposed for the first phase of the program is the repair of three streets in Highland South "There was some bad back-slope damage to Balmoral and parts of Scott and Owens. If they aren't fixed soon, there is a danger of losing water lines there." said Reaves. The engineers also proposed that intersections at 15th and Main, and 11th and Settles be reconstructed during the first phase of the program. In addition, it was suggested that repaired during the first phase. Estimated costs for these projects are: Wasson Road, $475,000; Highland South, $150,000; 11th and Settles, $50,000; 15th and Main, $30,000; West 11th drainage structures, $50,000.

north of Malone-Hogan Hospital, be

Proposals for the second phase of the program include the reconstruction of Goliad and widening, reconstruction and resurfacing of portions of Birdwell. The only sewer improvement for the first phase of the program is the construction of a new 24-inch line along Beals Creek. The line would run from the east end of Rutgers and terminate at the sewage treatment

'Because of excessive infiltration of the line by ground water, and inflow to the line from water after a storm, there is a real burden on the treatment plant," said Reaves. "We would like to reduce treatment costs by decreasing the quantity of plant influent through the system."

Projected cost is $385,000. During Phase Two, engineers proposed that a new line be constructed along much of the length of FM 700. This project would be done sporadically 'as funds become available," said Reaves.

The engineers also pinpointed an area along much of the length of Lancaster for future study.

Tax cut deal may be close

Reagan administration, after sending signals that it was not "locked in concrete" on its multiyear tax cut, is nearing agreement on a compromise 25 percent cut in personal tax rates over three years, congressional sources say. The first reduction would come Oct. 1.

There was no immediate comment from the White House on the latest indication that it was softening its position on the size and shape of its proposed 30 percent, three-year tax

House Democratic Leader Jim Wright, who has held several strategy sessions with White House aides, told reporters today that a compromise seems close at hand. He predicted that any agreement would include a multiyear tax cut, to please Reagan, and more tax relief for middle-income families than the president proposed, to gain support of Democrats.

There was not any indication of how the administration proposal would do in Congress, where the original tax cut plan has been called inflationary.

Wright emphasized that any compromise submitted by the White House would have to carry the full endorsement of Reagan.

Four conservative Democrats who helped hand President Reagan a budget victory took their ideas for a tax cut to the White House, where they met Wednesday with administration officials.

Some of those familiar with the meeting said the president's advisers were prepared to accept a smaller tax reduction that would begin three months later than Reagan proposed. The delay, they said, was designed to hold down the federal deficit.

One of the congressmen, Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, termed the meeting "an effort to understand just what the White House will negotiate on and what is not negotiable.

Another participant, Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, said he was surprised at how little the president's advisers were willing to give at Wednesday's meeting. "If we get a compromise, they're not going to give " Hance said Joining Hance and Gramm at the meeting, were Reps. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., and Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, After the session, the four met with Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. who is expected to play a major role in development of any compromise.

John Sherman, press secretary for with Rostenkowski. "They repeated the position they've held all along that they want to work with the Ways and Means Committee on writing a tax bill."

Sources familiar with the White House meeting said the four congressmen agreed among themselves on a package of tax cuts and that the president's advisers seemed ready to pursue such a compromise

Senate approves

Reagan's budget compromise 76-20

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is sending President Reagan strong signals that although it has endorsed a $695.4 billion compromise budget blueprint, the rest of his budget measures may face rough times. The Senate gave final congressional approval to the compromise today on a 76-20 vote.

The plan, which was agreed upon last week by House and Senate budget writers, accommodates the deep tax and spending cuts embraced by Reagan.

There was no debate today on the budget compromise, as the Senate which began work at 7 a.m. EDT to clear away pending business before quitting for a 10-day recess - merely interrupted consideration of a $12.3 billion supplemental spending measure for this year for the vote on the budget blueprint.

Bowen to be guest on ABC program

President Ronald Reagan was to have personally presented Smith with his medal and commendation but the attempted assassination of the president April 30 understandably altered Reagan's plans. Admiral C.E. Larkin, commander of the Coast Guard, instead pinned the award on Smith.

"Petty Officer Smith is cited for heroism on the morning of July 4, 1980, while serving as a crew member of MLB 44409 (a 44-foot rescue boat assigned to the Coast Guard station in Tillamook Bay). "During this period, Smith assisted in the rescue of four men from a cap-

School prayer plan OKed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Sen. Carl Parker questions whether a resolution on student prayer might lead to religion by majority rule.

Senators asked Congress on Wednesday to initiate a constitutional amendment that would give states control over voluntary prayer in public schools 'Would there be a Baptist prayer or Catholic prayer?" asked Parker, D-Port Arthur. 'I guess it depends on who's on the school board," replied Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin.

'I guess the concept we're going to is the majority rules on religion," said Parker. Parker and Doggett opposed the resolution by

Sen. Dee Travis, R-Garland, although they said they had no objection to anyone praying. Doggett said he feared resolutions such as the one approved by the Senate "would expose" the U.S.

Constitution and Bill of Rights to complete revision.

U.S. mercenaries mission

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S.-backed mercenaries possibly including some American citizens made two secret forays into Laos recently but found no evidence to support persistent reports that American soldiers missing from the Vietnam War were captives at a jungle site, administration sources say

The first trip about six weeks ago failed when the mercenaries were "intercepted and there was a firefight," the sources said, adding that they did not know if there were casualties.

About two weeks ago, the mercenaries reached the jungle camp, described as appearing from highaltitude surveillance photographs to be a stockade, and took photographs of its occupants, according to the sources.

Analysts later concluded that no Americans were pictured and decided the site probably was "some sort of re-education camp" for Orientals, the sources said

The sources, who discussed the matter only on condition they not be quoted by name, gave indications that the mercenaries included several U.S. citizens, probably of Oriental descent. But the sources emphatically said no American military personnel were involved.

The group, which also included Laotians, was sent on the "remote possibility" that missing U.S. service personnel were at the site in communistcontrolled Laos, the sources said.

They said the camp been under observation for "some time" by a number of different methods, including satellite and spy plane photography.

The Washington Post reported Thursday that satellite photos showed human shadows on the ground which some analysts believed were too big to have been cast by Asians

Photos also showed tools thought to be too large for Asian use, what appeared to be a guard tower and earthen confinement barriers and that the word B-52 had been formed with bodies or logs, the Post said.

But with the possibility that Caucasians in the camp might be Soviet advisers, officials said the photographs could not be used to justify a rescue attempt by U.S. military personnel, according to the report

What wondrous changes have been wrought

Those people entering hospitals today should appreciate the treatment they invariably receive. It has not always been thus. This is not to say that the people in medicine have not always been compassionate, but the skills of the professionals have improved enormously

Too, those licensed to treat human illnesses are working with better tools and under far better conditions than at any time in history.

A hospital 200 years ago would bear little resemblance to what we recognize today as an institution for health care. Two centuries ago, the patient left the hospital in far worse condition than he arrived - if he was fortunate enough to leave at all.

PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL, FOUNDED by Benjamin Franklin and Dr. Thomas Bond in 1751, established the first surgical amphitheater. The only light available came from a skylight. For that reason, surgery had to be scheduled for high noon and then only on bright, clear days.

The famed Bellevue Hospital in New York City sprang from an infirmary in a public work house in 1736. It was not until 80 years later that Bellevue became a general hospital.

Two centuries ago, doctors and medical students wore street clothes while making the rounds and while performing surgery. Frequently, these same clothes were worn for months at a time, with the most obvious spots 'purified' with a little water and vinegar. Often, the doctors' shoes were soiled with horse manure from the streets. Hygiene, as we know it, was non-existent

The surgical instruments used in the 18th Century often introduced more germs and bacteria into the patient than were present, resulting in a high rate of infection.

Conditions caused the then Surgeon

General of the Continental Army, Benjamin Rush, to remark: 'Hospitals have robbed the United Benjamin States of more citizens than the Surgical patients were drugged with rum or opiates — sometimes both anything to render him or her unconscious. Once in that state, the patient was tied to the operating table while under the knife.

If several operations were scheduled, the same surgical instruments were used, without having been cleaned. Many infections without our antibiotics were certain killers. Complications from surgery were

BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS WERE unknown. In the 1800s, animal blood was experimented with in human transfusions, with disastrous results.

Patients today appreciate their privacy. Two hundred years ago, the beds were 52 inches wide and accomodated up to six patients, ranging from the post surgical to the dying. The rooms were unventilated and the wards contained numerous odoriferous 'slop jars.' The stench in hot weather was nauseous and ac-companied by a multitude of flies and crawling insects

The food fed the patients was atrocious. Most nurses lived within the hospitals and were expected to work 16 hours a day. Their first duty each day was to scrub the floors.

It was from those humble begin nings, however, that today's modern hospitals came into being. The past 60 years has brought more changes in medical, surgical and health care than all the other years down through

Perhaps, in another 200 years, people will be looking at what we today call 'modern medicine' with the same amusement and wonder. Who

Hollywood, here I come! This is it. Tonight, at 9 p.m., in Memorial Stadium, Howard County residents, and anyone else who is interested, will have the opportunity to see 450 area residents taking part in the "Iron Horse Revue."

THANKS TO THE able direction of Gary Welz, who also wrote the the hard work of stage "Revue." hands and stage managers, some snazzy sound equipment, a spectacular laser light show, and a hard working crew, it looks like the "Iron Horse Revue" will be quite a show.

Of course, reporters are supposed to be objective. The fact that I have a small (very small) part in the production shouldn't sway my opinion of the production.

In putting on a show like the "Revue," there are bound to be a few problems. Like, for instance, last week, the middle section of the stage blew down in an infamous West Texas wind. Fortunately, none of the crew was on the field at the time. I think it's a miracle that everyone had left the field when the stage went down.

Then, of course, when working with 450 people, some of us (don't look at me) are bound to get confused. Take for example, the group I was standing in. The first night of practice on the Memorial Stadium field, we had a discussion that went something like

"Am I supposed to enter now?" "I don't know. I don't remember rehearsing this part!"

"Quick, the director is motioning to me. What am I supposed to do?"
"Don't ask me. I'm confused."

(MEANWHILE, OUT FARTHER on the field, our director is screaming) "Stop the music! Who's supposed to enter?" (To which he receives a chorus of) "Don't ask us!"

No doubt, Gary got frustrated with some of us (I repeat, don't look at me.) But, he has a lot of patience, and sure enough, most of the bugs were ironed out.

Although this is my unobjective view, I think the "Iron Horse Revue" will be a lot of fun. The show is set tonight through Saturday, and again Monday through Wednesday. Tickets may still be purchased at the Centennial Store, and there's room for 5,000 people a night,

Stance fuzzed up

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON - Profits and politics are old bedfellows, and it's not easy to discern the motives behind an elected official who acts in ways that benefit his friends and campaign contributors. It could be a matter of principle, a coincidence or a conflict of interest.

Such an official is freshman Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., a 38-year-old member of the New Right who has been enthusiastically trying to clip the wings of the controversial Consumer Product Safety Commission. Without making a judgment on the senator's motives, I think the public is entitled to know about Kasten's links to corporations that have reason to want the commission weakened or eliminated.

FOR EXAMPLE, THE commission has ordered installation of certain safety equipment on power mowers by next year. Fredrick Stratton. president of Briggs and Stratton, a giant in the mower engine industry, is an old friend of the senator. Kaster's father sits on the company's board of Furthermore, Kasten received thousands of dollars in campaign contributions from executives and political action committees of Briggs and Stratton, John Deere, Toro and other manufacturers. Kasten insists he hasn't made up his safety equipment issue.

Another example: The product safety commission has proposed a ban on the use of formaldehyde in home insulation because the chemical is a suspected cancer causing agent. Kasten received thousands of dollars from companies that produce either formaldehyde or dependent products. Five of the biggest contributed generously to Kasten's campaign: Georgia-Pacific Corp., $1,500; Tenneco, Inc., $3,500; Hercules, Inc., $500; Getty Oil, $1,000, and International Minerals and Chemical Wisconsin firms that have had products recalled by the product safety commission include John Deere, Briggs and Stratton, Ariens and the Kohler Corp. Kohler, whose executives gave Kasten $4,050 last year, was the subject of a commission order recalling 3,462, whirlpool tubs for safety reasons

In all. Kasten received at least $36,200 from executives and PACs of corporations that would stand to benefit directly if the CPSC is killed or

THERE IS ANOTHER source of pressure that could be brought to bear on Kasten in his role as chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee's Consumer Subcommittee: Wisconsin Republican National Committeeman Ody Fish owns a company that manufactures cellulose insulation. At one point, his product not only flunked the commission's flammability tests, but 24,000 bags of the product were seized to prevent its continued sale.

As I noted earlier, it isn't easy to tell what motivates a politician's activities. And indeed, Kasten has made no secret of his hostility to the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Footnote: Asked specifically about his father's presence on the board of a company that has had trouble with the commission, Kasten told my associate Tony Capaccio: "It doesn't make any difference at all. It won't affect my vote. The problem isn't in having the relationship. The problem occurs when I use my influence in some way to improperly influence legislation that would be to my benefit or the benefit of others.'

OF scandals, the General Services Administration still plays Tast and loose with the taxpayers' money. GSA auditors recently discovered that a deputy assistant administrator had been awarded a $5,000 bonus after being on the job for a grand total of 34

When questioned, GSA officials at the agency several months in a different post — though not as a appointee, for whom the Senior Executive Service Bonus Award Program was specifically designed.

In a recent confidential letter, the Office of Personnel Management noted that a performance award cannot be based, even in part, on the individual's work in a non-career post. That left only the 34 days in his career job as justification for the award. The OPM allowed the bonus to stand, while grumbling that it "can be presumed" that at least four months on the job was a more reasonable minimum for bonus consideration.

UNDER THE DOME: Two cut-rate barbers and a shop attendant in the Capitol have been trimmed from the Senate's budget at a savings of $65,000. But another barber shop in the Russell Senate Office Building has been spared because it is "cost effective.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., rode a stunning thoroughbred at the Las Vegas Frontier Parade this year. The horse, Helldorado, was purchased from the late Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to help defray debts incurred by an unsuccessful presidential bid years

I read an article by Larry Don Shaw, who believes we should keep the Blue Laws. I am very much against them, since they are not enforced. If he really believes what he says, he should not buy groceries, go a restaurant after church, buy gasoline, listen to the radio, watch TV, even read the newspaper (Sunday's) since all those people work on Sun-

The Blue Laws should be enforced all the way, everything closed, or everything open. People in the hospitals, firemen, policemen — they all work on Sunday. Bad? I am sure in the kitchen of his home and he called the fire station, would a recording say "Sorry, this is Sunday. Due to the Blue Laws, the station is closed. Please call again."

As I see it, it is unfair to a lot of people. I wrote about all these problems the laws cause and I was very surprised by the letter I received in which Mr. Shaw wrote that he agreed with me. "I want to assure you that I share your interest in the defeat of this legislation (the repeal of the laws) and I will oppose it on the floor of the house, etc., etc.," he said. This shows that Shaw never looked at the letter. I know he does not have time to read every one of them, but he should make a survey of those for and against. He should not answer if it is

He does lots of articles writing in the newspaper and in his Report From Austin, which I receive regularly through the mail. I hope Shaw writes less and reads more and finds out what the readers want, and that (he sees to it) the wrong printed answer is not mailed to the wrong person. OK, voters, if you are for or against the Blue Laws, it is your duty to write. Maybe if there were enough letters, the weight might count more than my unopened letter.

Diluting Package

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON - Bolstered by the Treasury as well as budget director David Stockman, President Reagan is inclined against diluting his tax package to round up enough conservative Democratic congressmen for a winning coalition in the House.

The decision must be made quickly because backroom decisions are beginning on the pivotal tax question. One option presented to the president would satisfy the "boll weevils" or 'Redneck Caucus'' - the conservative southern Democrats - and appease the bond market by delaying individual tax rate cuts until Jan. 1, 1982. But the odds are against Reagan taking that way out, in the opinion of well-placed administration officials.

THERE IS PLENTY of room for compromise between what the boll weevils want and Reagan's Kemp-Roth bill. That ushers in intriguing negotiations that will determine not only the thrust of economic policy the next two years but also redefine power relationships inside the House.

Actually, Reagan's tax proposal for annual, across-the-board 10 percent rate cuts for three years starting July 1, 1981, never had a chance. It is so nearly the replica of the partisan Republican Kemp-Roth bill that not even the boll weevils will vote for it. Indeed, House Democratic leaders drool at the prospect of bringing it to a vote for the psychic and political joy of beating Reagan.

Reagan can escape this predicament in the Democratic-controlled House by making a deal with the Conservative Democratic Forum (CDF) — the Redneck Caucus. But Rep. Kent Hance of Texas, a CDF member on the House Ways and Means Committee who has been talking secretly to the Treasury, is insisting on no tax rate cuts at all in 1981 and only a 5 percent cut in 1982 (to be followed by 10 percent each in 1983 and 1984). Thanks to inflationary bracket creep, that means significantly higher tax rates through the 1982 eleciton

This would reduce Reagan's estimated budget deficit for the next fiscal year by some $30 billion. The immediate tax cuts would be slashes in "unearned" (dividends and interest) income that show little revenue loss

Some boll weevils also eye longrange ideological goals. Rep. Phil Gramm of Texas, perhaps the CDF's most conservative member, sees vast political-economic rewards in "backloaded" tax cuts — cuts that go deeper in future years. Like back-loaded spending programs enacted in the Lyndon B. Johnson era, they constitute a Fabian strategy of social

The CDF alternative entices senior Reaganites - but, contrary to fears of edgy Treasury officials, not Stockman. As budget director, Stockman naturally is interested in any deficitreducing scheme. But as a supplysider and Republican politician, he sees dangers in what Hance and Gramm propose. The CDF alternative would permit only 5 percent before the 1982 election. That 5 percent compares with Reagan's campaign pledge of 20 percent and his actual proposal of 15 percent. While the CDF alternative would please the bond traders, it would do nothing for the blue-collar working man. That is not what Jack Kemp, David Stockman or Ronald Reagan intends Politicis aside, the CDF alternative flunks the test for supply-side tax cuts as set by founders of the supply-side

Iron pills (when needed) really work

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: 1 am a 72-yearold woman. I felt I had no problems until a few months ago. I was until a few months ago. dragging myself along half dead. Finally I got an appointment with my doctor. He took blood tests and said I was anemic. He gave me iron tablets to take and in about four days I began to feel more like myself. When I went back and was tested again, the blood count had not changed much. Was I just fooling myself into thinking I was feeling better, or did the medicine really do something for me, even though the blood count was the same? Is this a case of mind over matter?

Mrs. E.E. Probably not. Anemia is a very much misunderstood condition. When there is iron shortage sufficient to disturb the red blood cell count (anemia), that shortage is also sufficient to affect many other body functions that depend on iron. Iron is found in places other than the red blood cells. For example, it is needed by muscles. Iron supplements. when needed, really do work. I would bet your feeling of well-being occurred because the iron stores in your muscles were being restocked.

Your blood count should begin to show improvement in time. It takes a little longer and varies between individuals. Often people begin to feel better on iron supplement therapy well before the blood count returns to normal. The lesson here is not to get yourself into the same situation again. How's your nutrition?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I don't eat eggs or fried foods, but I do eat about two pounds of butter a week. Is that too much cholestrol-forming food to consume? - D.H.

Dairy butter, as I'm sure you know does have a large amount of cholestrol about 1,135 milligrams per pound. So you are getting 2,270 milligrams of cholesterol every week just from that source. The suggested healthful daily intake of cholesterol is about 300 milligrams, less than you are getting from butter alone.

I am positive that you are getting additional amounts from other foods, even though you don't eat eggs or fried foods, admittedly high-

50 cents. Dear Dr. Donohue: I had an infected bartholin cyst. After the last examination, the report had the words, "marsupialization tensive cellulitis." Can you clarify what this means? - F.R.

Marsupial is a reference to a pouch. Kangaroos are marsupials because, as you know, they have pouches in which they carry their young. For the sake of simplicity, at some sacrifice to accuracy, think of a cyst as a blister, which it vaguely resembles. Marsupialization is the making of a pouch out of a cyst. The top part of the cyst is slit and the cut edges tacked down to its inner sides. So now you have a permanent opening for drainage. So long as a cyst can drain, infection can be kept under control. The cvst will not fill up with pus and become swollen, painful and a haven for germs. This is an accepted procedure.

Cellulitis is inflammation of the surface of the skin, in your case of the vagina next to the Bartholin cyst. It is a spread of the infection Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 13 years old. A whitish discharge is present from my vagina. Nearly everyday. My mon says this is drainage, but won't or can't tell me what it means. Can you help? – B.B

A normal whitish discharge happens in many young girls a year or more before their menustral cycles begin. It is a signal that some hormone production by the ovaries has begun, but it isn't sufficient yet to begin the cycles. The glands of the reproductive tract are responding to this limited hormone production. That uestion about the nature of the kind of discharge you are having, it is worth mentioning to your doctor, who can give you firsthand reassurance.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes - and cures - for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden ' To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, selfaddressed, stamped envelope and 50

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have some bad habits I'd like to get rid of. A friend of mine wants to hypnotize me; he says it will help me conquer the bad habits. What do you think about this? - F.A.

DEAR F.A.: I would not claim to be an expert on hypnotism, but I believe you would be unwise to do this for several reasons. One is that there are many things we do not fully understand about the human brain, and it is best to be cautious about anything that might affect it - whether drugs, alcohol, hypnotism, or whatever. But there are some spiritual reasons I would emphasize as well, and I belie e they are actually more important. In the first place, even if this (or some similar technique) were to work — which is not at all certain there is a deeper spiritual need which you have.

Let me approach it this way: Have you ever asked yourself what God wants to do in your life? You have some bad habits, and you know you would be a better person if you could get rid of them. These habits are not pleasing to God either, but God is not just concerned that you get rid of the bad habits

More than anything else, God wants you to learn what it means to put Christ at the center of your life. Right now you are controlling your life, but Christ wants to be Lord

God created you, and loves you very much. In fact, he loves you so much that his Son was willing to come to earth and purchase your salvation. God wants you to commit your life to him - and he is worthy of your commitment. That is the first step you should take. By a quiet prayer of faith and trust you can yield your life to Christ and have him come into your

Then God can give you strength to resist temptation and conquer those things in your life which are wrong You have discovered that you cannot conquer these things by your own strength. But God can help you. Turn your life over to him, and then look to him each day. Grow closer to him, and you will find he will help you.

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Lighting & Power Company tried to pressure Texas Attorney General Mark White into withdrawing from a hearing on the South Texas Nuclear Project, an opponent of the controversial project has charged.

Lamy Sinkin asked a Nuclear Regulatory Commission hearing Wednesday to subpoena White, a former White assistant, Rick Lowerre, and James Nance, a lawyer-lobbyist for HL&P.

Sinkin said HL&P tried to intimidate Lowerre, then representating the state in the nuclear licen-sing proceedings, by "bringing pressure on the attorney general."

Sinkin said another prospective witness was threatened with the loss of his job if he published an article critical of the project.

HL&P denied the charge and opposed the issuing of subpoenas for the three men. HL&P attorney Finis E. Cowan said their testimony would be totally irrelevant to HL&P's ability to manager the

A key issue in the NRC hearing is whether HL&P has the managerial character and competence to operate the $2.7 billion nuclear plant safely. Sinkin's charge was based on an incident that occurred in January 1979 on the day Bill Clements was inaugurated, Cowan said.

Cowan said HL&P executive vice president

George W. Oprea Jr. and two other attorneys, Nance and Bert Schwarz met with White and told him the attorney general's role in the nuclear proceeding was limited.

They also told White, Cowan said, that Lowerre was "more active and more favorable to the intervenors than was justified.' Cowan said that at a later public meeting, Lowerre accused Schwarz of trying to get him fired.

'Ruined' Husband Buried in Self-Pity

DEAR ABBY: You said, in defense of divorce, "I think it's more important to save people than marriages. And often, in an effort to save a marriage that isn't worth saving, people have destroyed themselves and/or each other." I disagree. After 29 years and three grown (and left-home) children, my wife walked out. Her reason: "I want to do my own thing in my own way."

By your logic, Abby, she saved one person (herself) and ruined four (our three sons and me).

One son stood in our home and said, "I am the product of a broken home and I always will be." Then rivers of tears streamed down his face. Need more be said?

I.S. (BEEN AROUND)

DEAR M.: Yes. Much more. It's difficult to understand how your wife could "ruin" a husband and three grown (and left-home) children by walking out after 29 years.

Every day thousands of people who are "left" by death and/or divorce manage to survive. It's not the end of the world. And if your son is going to blame whatever inadequacies he has or may have in the future on being "the product of a broken home," he will never be a man - no matter how tall he grows.

Sen. Farabee helps defeat conservatives' remap plan

AUSTIN - Senate Democrats beat back the challenge of a conservative coalition Wednesday night to guide through a senatorial redistricting map more favorable to Democratic incumbents. The coalition of seven Republicans and a handful of conservative Democrats rushed a redistricting plan drafted by Democratic Sen. Ed Howard of Texarkana, but that proposal was tabled by a 21-10 vote. The Senate, acting as a committee of the whole, then adopted the plan moved Tuesday by the Democratdominated Senate redistricting subcommittee.

Sen. W.E. (Pete) Snelson, Midland, was the chairman of the Senate Panel on Redistricting that drew in the original version of that plan. He said it was the plan that most members expressed interest in, even though it did not meet the exact preferences of any senator. "It's hard enough to draw

Three witnesses who previously invoked their Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination testified under immunity Wednesday, and two said they were asked about a "payoff trip" allegedly made by the wife of convicted drug trafficker

Grand jurors planned to return today to hear Las Vegas gambler Bobby Hoff, who pleaded the Fifth Amendment during an April 29 ap-

Edward Nichols, Chagra's brother-in-law, said he was asked if his sister, Elizabeth, who is Chagra's wife, "ever discussed any payoff she made to somebody."

Nichols said he was asked if he accompanied his sister to Corpus Christi or Brownsville in connectin with a "cash payment" and if he knew convicted contract killer Charles V. Harrelson; Harrelson's wife or her

He said he told the panel he did not know any members of the Harrelson

Grand jurors also asked Nichols if he knew anything about Woods' death. "I gave them a big no, but I laughed first," said Nichols. Las Vegas charter pilot Jimmy Walker, also testifying under im-munity, said he was asked if he flew

Mrs. Chagra to Corpus Christi or Brownsville in 1979.

Walker, who has turned over his flight records to the panel, said he recalled no such flight and added, "I can't recall anything that was helpful to them." He said he also was in-terrogated about numerous charter flights of the Chagras over a five-year

Wood, known as "Maximum John" for his stiff narcotics sentences, was scheduled to preside at Chagra's trial for drug-related continuing criminal enterprise.

Harrelson was identified in a police

Chagra family friend who allegedly introduced Harrelson to Harrelson businesswoman Virginia Farah last year in El Paso. Harrelson, using an alias, worked as a bodyguard for Mrs. Farah until he ws captured at Van Horn on Sept. 1, 1980.

Also appearing briefly Wednesday was Charles Joseph Chalin, 44, a Houston salesman who said he was an acquaintance of Harrelson. He told reporters he pleaded the Fifth Amendment and expected to be granted immunity on his return in

Mrs. Harrelson, 40, who pleaded the Fifth Amendment and marital privilege during a December ap-pearance, arrived at the courthouse but she did not testify because of a government motion to disqualify Houston lawyer Don Ervin as her

Ervin said the sealed government motion claimed a "conflict of interest" in his representing all three members of the Harrelson family, but that he did not intend to withdraw as Mrs. Harrelson's lawyer.

Mrs. Jasper, 24, has been jailed in Uvalde on a contempt citation since she refused, on Ervin's advice, to answer the panel's questions on March 27. She was informed in open court of the alleged conflict of interest, but chose to keep Ervin as her

The thin, blonde Mrs. Harrelson said she likely would not testify if Ervin were disqualified.

"If he is disqualified, I would probably not testify at all because I can't think of anybody else I would want to represent me," she said.

Asked whether she would risk jail for contempt of court by refusing to testify, she replied, "if necessary,

Measles hits vaccinated

El Paso teens EL PASO, Texas (AP) -National experts have been asked to find out why dozens of area residents fell victim to a measles outbreak, even though they were vaccinated against the virus after 1968. Scientists from the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta were asked to study the discovery that almost half of El Paso's recent measles victims had been immunized with a post-1968 vaccine that should have been effective, a local health official said Wednesday. Of the 180 El Pasoans who caught red or three-day measles since March, 42 percent had been immunized since 1968, said Dr. Bernard Rosenblum of the El Paso City-County Health Unit.

Health officials have warned that a "killed-virus" vaccine used before 1968 may not adequately protect a person against measles, but no one has questioned the effectiveness of the livevirus vaccine given after

Local health officials have no clues why the vaccine apparently didn't work, Rosenblum said.

National disease experts hoped to stop measles in the United States by the fall of 1982, but the goal was tar-nished when a measles outbreak started in Texas

Measles hit Houston and the Lower Rio Grande Valley area in February, and El Paso's cases started in

While most Texan measle victims were small children, Paso's outbreak focused in high schools, particularly in the upper-middle-class Eastwood area.

Rosenblum said the majority of all measles victims — about 44 percent — were age 15hrough 19.

FBI investigating undercover drug probe

DALLAS (AP) — A three-month investigation by a Texas Ranger has led the FBI to start its own check of a police operation that led to 121 drug indictments in 1979 and a judge has agreed to decide whether a man convicted in the drug operation is entitled to a new trial.

An FBI spokesman in Dallas confirmed the agency entered the case after the U.S. attorney's office asked it to so to look innto "several aspects of the allegations that have arisen nfrom the Texas Ranger's investigation." The Ranger, Stuart Dowell, gave his findings to federal and state prosecutors last week. After he did so, attorneys Bora and the others were indicted largely through the undercov r work of Tyler narcotics officers Craig Matthews and his partner, Kim Ramsey, who later were married and left police work.

Several of those indicted accused Matthews of using and selling narcotics during the investigation.

As spring training ends tomorrow

Steers set for fun

The hot May spring training workouts are over and the fun is ready to begin for the Big Spring Steer gridders for the upcoming season, as they split up teams today in preparation for tomorrow's annual Black-Gold contest.

The game, which is divided as evenly as possible to culminate the three weeks of spring training, will begin at 7:00 p.m. at Blankenship Field.

For over two weeks, the Steers worked on improving for the 1981 season, throwing in an occasional nongame related scrimmage. But yesterday, Coach Ralph Harris and his staff let the troops get after each other in game type conditions, matching next year's seniors against next year's juniors.

As expected, the seniors won, using a pair of Tracy Spence touchdown passes to take a 14-0 win. But it was not until the juniors to-be had put up a spiritied fight. Both touchdown passes, to receivers James Woodard and Raymond Ford, came on play action.

Going into spring training, there were many areas of concern for Harris and his staff, with one vital area of improvement being the defensive line. After two-anda-half weeks of work, Harris feels that that part of the Steer defense should be very much improved.

'We've changed our whole front four philosophy, Harris said earlier today. "Last year, we had more of a penetrating and pursuing defense from our front people. But that was a coaching mistake that took me awhile to figure out. In this league, you've got to play a more physical style up front, taking up blockers and holding your ground. Especially with the experience and quality of our linebackers."

But the defensive line has done what Harris and the defensive line coaches of Larry Helton and Robin Wall have asked, with Tony Molina, a defensive tackle, drawing extra praise from Harris.

"Tony Molina has been nothing but great his spring," said Harris. "We were really was and about that going into spring, but he's done an extendat lob. The other tackles, Mike Schooler, Donnie Pavlosky and Pat Burke have also done a god job at what we're asking from our tackles, and that is to be more physical and play a slow style.

At defensive ends, Harris mentioned that Greg Scarbro and Bill Amos have come to the top, making the front four look salty at this time of the year.

in shoulder pads so thin they could have been filled with papier mache. Today's player wears heavy armor sensibly designed to protect his most vulnerable areas.

The athletes on the 1921 team had a singular objective - to run over the opposition. Usually, the team with the most strength and determination won. Coming into its playoff with Abilene, the Big Springers suffered becau of injuries to key personnel

The 1921 team was called the Jayhawks. It wasn't until 1924 that a coach named Joe Ward, who had come here Austin after playing for the University of Texas, renamed the club the 'Steers' for his Alma Mater. The schoolboys played their home games on a grassless field not far from where the Heritage Museum is now located. It had been a cowpasture at one time and the backs tried extra hard not to be tackled because of the threat of falling into cockleburrs.

At the 1949 reunion, the team to a man agreed "We should have beaten Abilene." Sixty years have passed since the 1921 season but there is still a spirit of camaraderie among the six who survive.

The 1921 club opened with a 28-0 victory over Midland High, beat back Midland College, 15-0; slaughtered Fort Stockton, 69-0; and inally losing to Lubbock

Midland High, the Jayhawks won, 39-0; then humbled Roscoe, 35-13; and San Angelo, 7-0; before coming a cropper in the Abilene game. The Jayhawks then closed out with a 21-0 victory over a

In the 1980 initial Roadrunner Classic, nearly 200 runners participated, ranging from the serious competitors to the run for fun joggers.

And as that is the case, there will be plenty of prizes in order to give most of the runners a chance at sharing in the awards There will be medals awarded for the first, second and third place male and female finishers in each of the six divisions. Those divisions include 12-and-under: 13-19; 20-29; 30-39; 40-49 and the Masters Division. As well as the six divisions for both male and female.

there will also be two different distances in which the runners may choose. One is a two-mile race, while the other is a five-mile course. The event has both its origin and ending at the Comanche Trail Park Pavilion. Warm-up time is set for 8:00 a.m., with the first race beginning at 8:30 a.m. Entry fee is three dollars per person. Included in that fee is free Roadrunners Classic T-shirt to all pre-registered participants.

The event is being sponsored by the Herald, Big Spring Athletics and the YMCA.

The grand prize will be awarded to the best male and female runners in the popular event. That award is a new pair of running shoes.

As well as the shoes, yet another late prize will be the issuance to the overall winners of the revolutionary Fitness Weight Gloves. While most people consider running to be a very effective aid in improving the legs and overall health of the person, the Fitness Weight Gloves, developed in Midland by Del Poss Enterprises, finishes the job on the body by conditioning the upper

Operation Game Thief seeks to head poachers off at pass

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Payoffs have been made in bars, parking lots and even brothels, and the names of tipsters who finger the killers are closely

Officials are out to stop the slaughter of wildlife, and Operation Game Thief — a program that trades cash for information on poachers - is proving a potent and popular weapon.

"The casual poacher, if there is such a thing, probably looks over his shoulder long enough now that the deer has a chance to run off before he has a chance to kill it," said Dan Pursley, assistant chief of law enforcement for the state Department of Game and Fish The program, which is funded by private donations, began in 1977. It has a toll-free telephone line and pays for information leading to arrests. Rewards vary, based on the animals involved: $200 for a deer, $300 for an elk.

The success of Operation Game Thief, which state officials say has a conviction rate of 99 percent, has spawned many similar efforts, especially in Western states with vast wilderness areas. Some states don't offer rewards, but get information anyway - Washington, for example, received 1,250 tips in the first year of its Help Stop Poaching program.

Tipsters have many reasons for coming forward. One bow-and-arrow hunter called Arizona's Help Our Wildlife hotline after he stalked a deer for hours during the bow season only to watch a man jump from a pickup truck and shoot it with a gun.

"That bow-and-arrow fellow was really mad, and not so much because he lost the deer, but that anyone could kill with a gun out of season," said Don Vance of the Arizona Game and Fish Department. "He gave us a description of the other fellow and the pickup's license number and a

Other tipsters call to settle a score

"We may be talking about ex-girlfriends, ex-wives, ex-buddies," Pursley said in a telephone interview from his office in Santa Fe. "A guy may have sat on something for 20 years that his friend did to him and he never really truly forgave him for...

"An ex-girlfriend is a fairly typical situation. They have a falling out and she decides she not only could use the money but she might get even with the rascal to boot."

And then there was the mental patient who turned in a staff member at a state facility for killing hawks. The offender, Pursley said, promised "...never to kill one again...because they tasted horrible."

The cash-for-information formula has drawn some criticism. "Some people feel it is not American to be a stool pigeon," Pursley said. "There are some individuals that feel this is not the American way and that it is kind of a big brother tactic."

Colorado officials were unhappy enough with their program to cut off $31,000 in state funds. The Republican caucuses and Joint Budget Committee argued that people charged with poaching cannot face their accusers, and said the program had the potential for harassment.

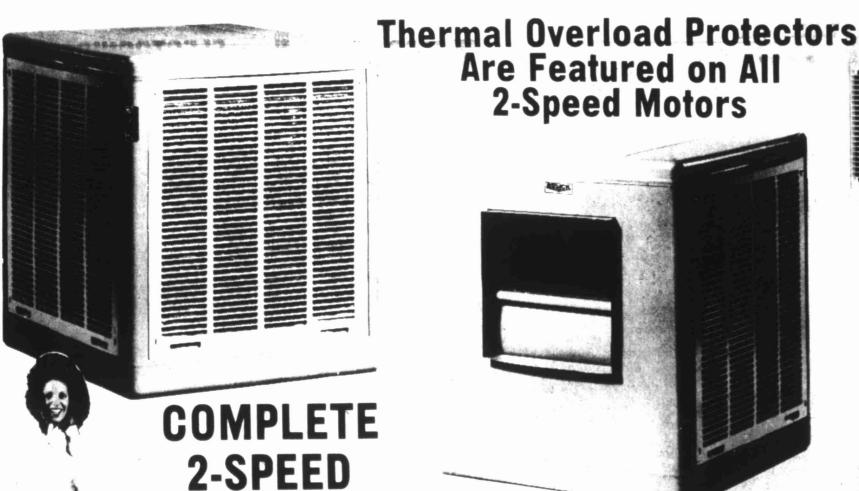

But authorities in most states are enthusiastic. In Wyoming, where fines from the Stop Poaching Program go to school districts, the biggest case so far netted $3,260 in fines against five people convicted of using artificial light to shoot deer out of season. The tipster got $300. In New Mexico, the largest reward was $1,100 for information on the killings of six elk. In all, New Mexico has paid nearly $40,000 in rewards since 1977, there were 1,426 related arrests and fines totaled nearly $80,000.

UNICORN PLANNED - Actor Guich Koock and unicorn friend prepare for the "Return of the Fifth Great Sometimes Annual Luckenbach World's Fair" set for June 26-28 and July 3-5 at a ranch near this wellknown Hill Country town, population 3.

Tomfoolery returns to Hondo's town

Luckenbach world's fair to feature unicorn

LUCKENBACH, Texas (AP) — After an absence of several years, genuine tomfoolery is almost returning to Luckenbach, Texas, population 3, aided by television actor Guich Koock, the mythical unicorn and the lowly armadillo.

Luckenbach, immortalized in song by Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson as a place where "there ain't nobody feeling no pain," was the frequent site of weekend beer bashes until storyteller and self-professed ''imagineer'' Hondo Crouch died in 1976,

The white-bearded Crouch, a former Olympic swimmer, surrounded himself with underground country musicians, poets and practical jokers who told tall tales at the old country store-beer parlor and needed little reason to put on a spoof.

In those days, hundreds of free spirits gathered in this dilapidated old German settlement in the Texas Hill Country about 60 miles northwest of San Antonio to the frivolity.

Crouch conceived such ideas as "Washer Olympics," "Drunk and Falling Down Contest," "World Champion Moseying Contest" and the "Hell Hath No. women's chili

But after Crouch's death and the "Luckenbach, Texas" song ran its course, current town owner Kathy Morgan got cross-wise with some of the spoofers and the last big bash, "When the Mud Daubers Return to Luckenbach" celebration, was in 1977.

Koock, a star in the former "Carter Country" television series, though, plans to carry on the tradition the weekends of June 26-28 and This caused Sam Lewis of July 3-5 by putting on the "Return of the Fifth Great Sometimes Annual Luckenbach World's Fair" at a nearby ranch.

Koock has sponsored the sporadic mock world's fairs armadillo. previously in his native Fredericksburg, beginning armadillos from birth," the last one two years ago.

This year, Koock is exploiting the unicorn-armadillo controversy in the Texas Legislature to draw attention to the upcoming mock world's fair, at which he promises to display what is billed as the only known live unicorn.

Koock started the controversy by complaining to the Legislature about a proposal to make the armadillo the Texas state mascot. Koock contended that the lovable unicorn was more appropriate as a state animal than "the lowly, to the state's reputation.

This caused Sam Lewis of San Angelo, inventor of the jalapeno lollipop and selfappointed president of the World Armadillo Breeding and Racing Association, to come to the defense of the

"Guich has had it in for Animals," family's pet armadillo gave birth the same day his ma had him. They named the (baby) armadillos Mike, Sam, Jack and Texas. That about used up all the good names so they called the kid Guich. I guess you can't blame him for not liking armadillos." Lt. Gov. William Hobby sent Koock a humorous letter saying Hobby preferred to back the armadillo, suggested by the school children of Texas as the state mascot, instead of a mythical animal supported "one irate citizen of Luckenbach." Koock has arranged to bring the unicorn, a onehorned Angora goat owned by Otter and Morning Glory G'Zell of Los Gatos, Calif., as a major attraction to the world's fair. The rare animal, born with a single spiraled horn in the center of its forehead, has been Lewis countered. "His Griffin Show," Koock said.

"The showing of the unicorn is part of our program to turn America around and have people get a positive image of mankind," said Koock, grand exalted ringmaster for the fair. "For too long America has sufferd what some so-called smart folks labelled a 'mailaise." The folks saw everybody as depraved, vicious, hatin' and stealin' and fornicatin'. That ain't the way we look at things in the Texas Hill Country.

The legendary timid unicorn is reputed to be a self-sacrificing symbol of innocence that could only be awakened from sleep by the kiss of a virgin, Koock ex-

He said the fair will feature armadillo races, chicken flying contests, "back door races" in which featured on "Those Amazing men in red long-handled "That's underwear must dress while spider, they kill their Incredible" and "The Mery searching for an exit, and most patriotic celebration of the Fourth of July."

Koock said a unicorn race was suggested but "since there is only one unicorn that would cut down on the excitement of seeing a photo

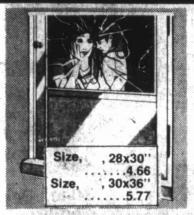

He said he took a armadillo with him to California to pose for pictures with the unicorn and the two animals got along swimmingly.

"We think the result is going to be an armacorn,? said Koock, who will star with Gabe Kaplan in a new television series this fall.

"They will cross," he said, warming up for the punch-line. "Armadillos are notorious about crossbreeding with anything they come across. They favor Mack trucks. Attemptin' to breed a Mack truck is very much like a black widow

With the resurgence of the American spirit we have erienced during the crises and uncertainties of the t year and a half, this is a good time to make Memorial Day mean more than the beginning of summer and the hidianapolis 500.

Memorial Day was meant to be — and should be again time to remember those who were called upon to give their lives for their country. Our nation was born from a fight for freedom, and over and over again young men have given their lives for our nation. We honor all those who have served in war over the past two centuries, but this year we should pay special tribute for those to serve in the Vietnam conflict. The entire Vietnam experience was a troubling one for our citizenry, and in the national ambivalence that surrounded it we for too long neglected to honor those who served, and those who died. For after all of the rhetoric, after all the debate, after all the hindsight realizations about what we could or should have done in Vietnam, we have thousands and thousands of young people who did their country's bidding. We owe honor to their patriotism. We owe honor to their

I am gratified to see the growing appreciation of these fine people. The most tangible expression is in the form of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, to be built in Washington, D.C. and to stand alongside other monuments to great Americans. Congress has set aside the land for this memorial. I might add that in an almost unprecedented show of unity, all 100 senators co-sponsored the legislation to authorize the memorial

Battalion of scientists uniting to battle pests

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Armed with $9 million from the federal government, a battalion of scientists from 16 universities has pledged to eradicate the pests and diseases that destroy of millions of dollars of crops yearly.

The resear ers. financed the Environmental Protection Agency and the Agriculture Department, are searching for a combination of controls that would protect crops with minimum damage to the environment.

The consortium was formed amid rising concern over the world food crisis, the energy shortage and the use of new and exotic pesticides and fertilizers, said Dr. Ray Frisbie of Texas A&M University, the program's executive manager.

Dr. Perry Adkisson, deputy chancellor for agriculture of the Texas A&M University

Other universities participating in the program include Clemson, Louisiana State, Mississippi State, State, Pennsylvania Washington State, Cornell. Michigan State, North Carolina State, Southern Illinois University and the universities of California, Illinois, Wisconsin, Florida, Arkansas and Kentucky.

Pesticides, which virtually have replaced all other means of insect control, have resulted in the rise of pesticide-resistent bugs, disrupted natural biological controls, health hazards to humans and, in some cases, organisms, Frisbie said.

We want to develop a system that holds pest populations below crop damaging densities, is less energy dependent, economically feasible and causes the least damage to the environment," he said.

Much of the research focuses on four major crees cotton, alfalfa, soybean

The five-year project was initiated in September 1979, followed by a year of academic research and another year of hands-on research at farms. It is now in its second year of crop production. Frisbie said.

In the High Plains region of Texas, a bollweevil suppression program has increased cotton production by about $20 million and decreased insecticide use by 8 to 20 pounds per acre, Frisbie said. In the Rolling Plains. uniform-delayed planting has reduced insecticide costs by about $5 million, he added.
