Study may spark industrial windfall in Mitchell County

COLORADO CITY (SC) — After several months of plans, Texas Electric Service Company has announced a feasibility study will be made at TESCO's Morgan Creek power plant.

If results prove desirable, a common dioxide recovery plant will be built. The facility is designed to recover CO₂ from Morgan Creek stack gases and will be built by Carbon Dioxide Technology Corp., of Houston.

The project, which would result in a large number of construction workers based in Colorado City, would be built at an estimated cost of $80 million and would begin in early 1982, with approximately 18 months involved until the project is completed.

Additionally, if the Houston-based company decided to go ahead with the project, Mitchell County will receive an industrial windfall.

Gasoline, grocery prices fall to steady inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline and grocery prices fell in April, holding the nation's overall inflation increase to 0.4 percent — an annual rate of 5.1 percent and the best monthly performance since July, the government reported today.

Inflation is averaging about 8.4 percent this year, 4 percentage points under the 12.4 percent rate for all of last year.

The April figure, which follows a 0.6 percent increase in March, is the best since the 0.1 percent rise in July.

Overall food prices, which many economists expected to rise substantially this year, remained steady in April after gaining only slightly in the previous two months, according to today's consumer price index released by the Labor Department.

Prices for food at groceries actually fell 0.2 percent, but prices for restaurant meals and alcoholic beverages were slightly higher.

Gasoline prices declined 1.4 percent in April after rising 13.4 percent in the first three months of the year, the report said. And economists say a worldwide oil sea makes it unlikely there will be any big energy-cost increases in the next few months.

Transportation costs in general declined 0.1 percent in April, with the gasoline-price drop-off partly balanced by a 1.8 percent rise in new-car prices with the end of big rebate programs.

All of the figures are adjusted for seasonal variations.

The report said the unadjusted consumer price index rose to 266.8 in April, which means that goods and services that cost $10 in 1967 would have cost $26.68 last month.

The Labor Department also said real spendable earnings — after taxes and adjusting for inflation — dropped

Actor Doug McClure will join parade

The familiar face of actor Doug McClure can be spotted in Monday's Centennial Celebration parade.

McClure, perhaps best known here for his role in the television serial, "The Virginian," will be riding the OIL float. Quite likely, he will be accompanied here by his wife.

The OIL float will be most discernable, since it will depict an oil rig and will be pulled by a one-ton pickup.

0.1 percent in April for an average married wage-earner with three dependents.

Real spendable earnings were down 2.5 percent from April 1980, while the CPI was 10 percent higher for that 12-month period.

In specific categories in April: —Housing costs rose 0.7 percent, with a 0.2 percent decrease in house prices outweighed by a 1.6 percent rise in mortgage interest costs and a 0.7 percent increase in home fuels and utility costs.

—Prices for clothing and upkeep rose 0.2 percent.

—Medical care rose 0.9 percent, the same as the previous two months.

The Reagan administration predicts an 11.1 percent rate for this year, but many economists say overall inflation may be lower.

Some analysts say the inflation rate probably won't heat up much until late summer — and maybe not even then.

Vehicle inspections voted down in House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Annual auto inspections would be out if a bare majority of the Texas House has its way.

By a 74-66 vote, representatives approved Thursday a bill to repeal the motor vehicle inspection act and at the same time raise drivers' license fees to finance more highway patrols.

A final House vote is needed before the measure goes to the Senate.

"This will save Texans $50 million a year," claimed Rep. Jim Horn, R-Denton. "We will be able to transfer 118 Department of Public Safety officers from clerical duties and put them out on the highways... We kill people on the highways by speeding and drunk driving."

Horn's bill would wipe out a state law that since 1953 has required automobile and truck owners to have their vehicles inspected for safety each year. The inspection fee currently is $5.

Effective this Sept. 1 the regular drivers' license fee would be increased from $7 to $13 for four years. Commercial operators licenses, good for two years, would go from $10 to $19 and a chauffeur's license from $13 to $22.

Syrian missiles down two Israeli spy planes

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian surface-to-air missiles downed two Israeli spy planes over eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley today, the Damascus command said. Israel admitted one pilotless craft downed by the missiles it demands be removed and which Syria refuses to budge.

The Syrian command in Damascus said the planes were brought down at 12:19 p.m. — 6:19 a.m. EDT — while they were on a "spying mission. One plane crashed near Kafraya and the second near Jib Jannin. We have collected the wreckage of both planes."

Kafraya and Jib Jannin are 12 miles southwest of Chtaura, the Bekaa city that houses the command of Syria's 22,000-man army in Lebanon.

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv said one pilotless drone was downed over eastern Lebanon. It was the second one shot down since May 14, two weeks after Syria deployed the missiles in the Bekaa Valley and following the downing of two Syrian helicopter gunships in the area by Israeli jets.

President Reagan's envoy, Philip Habib, returned to Beirut and told reporters after 2½ hours of talks with Lebanese President Elias Sarkis, "As you know I have been saying diplomatic efforts continue and they are continuing. I have nothing else to say."

Artillery shells also exploded within the Beirut residence compound of U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean, touching off small brush fires, as Syrian forces and rightist Christian militias fought a nightlong duel in the capital.

A shell smashed into the study of Sarkis at the nearby presidential palace just before midnight. There were no casualties at the palace or the ambassador's compound, but Beirut police reported three civilians killed and 11 injured in the night of fighting.

U.S. officials in Tel Aviv said Habib, after a three-day stay in Jerusalem, would talk with leaders of the Lebanese government in Beirut. The American officials said they had no information about plans for Habib to visit Syria, once again, although a report on Israel's Armed Forces Radio said the American diplomat would go to Damascus for more consultations.

Pre-conference reports from the Tunisian capital Thursday indicated the Arab ministers are likely to support Syria in the showdown with Israel over its deployment of anti-aircraft missiles in Lebanon.

Representatives of 21 Arab nations are expected to attend the emergency conference, requested by Algeria — which mediated the U.S.-Iranian hostage crisis — and the Palestine Liberation Organization, whose guerrilla camps in Lebanon have come under repeated Israeli attack.

It was not clear how the two-day closed-door meeting might affect Habib's two-week-old shuttle mission aimed at defusing a possible Israeli-Syrian war over the missiles.

In Beirut, artillery shells exploded inside the compound of U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean's residence and damaged the Lebanese presidential palace as Syrian forces and Christian militias fought a nightlong duel across the capital's Moslem-Christian demarcation line.

The Lebanese governor's office in the port city of Sidon said Israeli frogmen sank a Lebanese ship at daybreak. It said the 8-year-old son of a Lebanese sailor drowned after explosions ripped through the vessel.

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, in a nationally televised speech from Tbilisi, capital of the Georgian Soviet Republic, warned today that if fighting breaks out the "flames of war" could spread beyond the Middle East.

"What is happening in the Middle East is profoundly tragic and dangerous," Brezhnev said in a nationally televised speech from Tbilisi, capital of the Georgian Soviet Republic.

"One miscalculation and the flames of war could sweep the entire Mideast region. And it is not known how far the sparks of this fire could scatter," he said.

The Soviet leader said tension in the Persian Gulf region "is being sharpened because Washington is trying to bring gross pressure on Iran and organize intervention against the Afghan revolution. The strain is aggravated by the unprecedented concentration of military forces of the United States in the entire region."

Iran has been fighting Iraq, a Soviet ally, for eight months. The Soviet Union has based at least 85,000 troops in Afghanistan since January 1980 to help the pro-Soviet Afghan regime battle anti-communist Moslem rebels.

New amendment 'damaging'

Senator ponders dropping bilingual education fight

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A senator who claims Texas resisted for more than 50 years teaching in any language other than English pondered today whether to give up his crusade for bilingual education in public schools.

Sen. Carlos Truan, who speaks Spanish as well as English, faced the task today of changing Senate votes to push forward a bilingual program he initiated in 1969.

The Senate halted debate on Truan's bilingual bill Thursday night after adding an amendment he said was "horrible" and "would gut the bill."

Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said an amendment by Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, "is the most damaging and would leave the bilingual education program as it is now."

"We may as well not have one (a bill)," Truan told reporters after the Senate had ended 3¼ hours debate without taking a vote. "I'd rather not have a piece of legislation that does not do (the program) justice."

The amendment states that if an elementary student has not made enough progress in English after four consecutive years of bilingual education, he may be placed "in an alternative transitional language program, such as English as a second language," until the student meets the standards to leave the program.

The amendment was adopted, 15-14, with two senators absent.

Senators also approved on a 17-13 vote an amendment by Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson, D-Midland, that could cut in half Truan's proposed funding for bilingual education.

Bilingual education in Texas public schools is now mandatory from kindergarten through the third grade, with the local option of carrying it through the fifth grade with state financial aid.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice last month ordered Texas to adopt a court-mandated program for extending bilingual education to all grades by 1986. State officials have appealed the order, saying Justice improperly denied them time to come up with a plan of the state's own design.

Truan's bill would have made bilingual instruction mandatory through the elementary grades, which would be the fifth or sixth grade, depending on the school district's curriculum, with the option of extending the program through the eighth grade. The program, however, would be mandatory only in those districts where 20 children of limited English efficiency could be identified in a grade.

In support of his amendment Jones said, "It's a horrible thing to isolate a student with a language barrier."

Sutcliffe found guilty of 13 'Ripper' murders

LONDON (AP) — Truck driver Peter Sutcliffe was convicted today of the Yorkshire Ripper murders of 13 women and sentenced to life imprisonment with a recommendation that he serve a minimum of 30 years. The jury turned down his plea of insanity.

"This is a long period, in my opinion, but you, I believe, you are an unusually dangerous man," the judge, Sir Leslie Boreham, told the 34-year-old Sutcliffe, who confessed to the brutal murders. Britain does not have capital punishment.

Sutcliffe, flanked by five prison officers, stood impassively in the oak-paneled dock of London's Old Bailey Criminal Court when the jury formally pronounced the words "guilty of murder" as the names of each of the victims — eight of whom were prostitutes — were read out.

Long lines formed outside the court, and about 20 women waving banners declaring "English Collective of Prostitutes" kept up a chant demanding a murder verdict.

After nearly six hours deliberation, the jury by a 10-2 majority found Sutcliffe guilty of murdering each of the 13 women found brutally hammered to death, mutilated and stabbed between 1975 and 1980.

Sutcliffe had pleaded guilty to lesser charges of manslaughter on grounds of diminished responsibility, or mental incompetence. He said he had a "divine mission" to kill prostitutes, and psychiatrists for both the defense and prosecution said he was a paranoid schizophrenic.

The judge recalled the jury Friday after they had deliberated for more than five hours and announced he no longer required a unanimous verdict, but would accept a 10-2 majority decision.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Cancer figures

Q. Is cancer more or less common than people think?

A. It is estimated that one of every four Americans will develop cancer sometime during their lives, if the present rate continues. This year, cancer is expected to be diagnosed in some 765,000 American men, women and children. Surprisingly, while cancer is certainly a major health concern of most people, the general public tends to under-estimate cancer incidence. A study done in late 1978 showed that only 24 percent of people questioned underestimated how common cancer really is.

Abortion ruling faces fight in Congress today

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major victory for foes of legalized abortion, Congress is moving toward final approval of the most stringent anti-abortion legislation ever endorsed by both houses.

The Senate voted 52-43 on Thursday to remove incest and rape as justification for abortions under the federal Medicaid program. That means that a low-income woman will qualify for federal funds to end a pregnancy only if her life is threatened.

Opponents of the change said only 5,000 to 10,000 women might be disqualified by the legislation. But the vote provided a vivid demonstration of the strength conservatives are likely to have later this year on more general legislation seeking to reverse the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortions.

The House also voted to eliminate financing for abortions for federal employees, and that difference will be worked out in a House-Senate conference committee when Congress returns from a 10-day Memorial Day recess which began Thursday.

Before Republicans took control of the Senate in January, it had resisted tougher abortion restrictions frequently voted by the House.

In Thursday's debate, the 47-member Democratic minority remained silent, letting Republican supporters of legalized abortion carry the losing fight.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said fundamentalists, conservatives were attempting to force their opposition to abortions through the Senate, even though most Americans do not object to permitting women to make their own decisions on whether to end a pregnancy.

IN THE SPIRIT — Faculty and staff members of the SouthWest College Institute for the Deaf wear the proper garb for the Howard County-Big Spring Railroad Centennial celebration. SWCID will be in charge of the pre-show entertainment of the "Iron Horse Revue" tonight. Pre-show events begin at 8:30 p.m., followed by the "Revue" at 9 p.m.

Reagan is willing to compromise on solutions for Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, stung by his first rebuke from Congress, now is telling its leaders he "is not wedded to any single solution" for saving the Social Security system from bankruptcy.

Reagan assured House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker that he is willing to compromise on his far-reaching but unpopular proposals to make Social Security solvent, and he asked them to join him in a bipartisan effort to rescue the system.

But the conciliatory letter sent late Thursday also warned bluntly, "Unless we in government are willing to act, a sword of Damocles will soon hang over the welfare of millions of our citizens."

Reagan made no mention of the most widely condemned feature of his proposal to reduce Social Security costs by $88.4 billion over the next five years: slashing early retirement benefits for 62-year-olds starting next Jan. 1 by up to 43 percent.

He said only that he would insist that any plan to rescue the beleaguered program be built around three principles: holding down the payroll tax, preserving the integrity of the trust fund and eliminating "all abuses in the system that can rob the elderly of their rightful legacy."

"For generations of Americans, the future literally rests upon our actions," Reagan declared. "This should be a time for statesmanship of the highest order."

A senior White House official said earlier Thursday that the president does not want to raise the regular retirement age above 65, bail out Social Security with general revenues, or raise the payroll tax.

The official, who asked not to be identified, conceded that the White House was surprised at the vehemence of the reaction, which, he said, had distracted Congress from Reagan's economic plans.

But, he said, "There's no better time for any president to do something like this than when he's strong politically."

An Associated Press-NBC News poll released Thursday found that 74 percent of Americans have little confidence that Social Security will have the money to pay them retirement benefits. Only 22 percent expressed such confidence, and 4 percent of the 1,599 polled by telephone were unsure.

Many were unaware of Reagan's proposals. Those who were familiar with them were opposed, 58 percent to 28 percent, to Reagan's plan to cut benefits for all future retirees. But the cuts in early retirement were opposed by 48 percent, compared to 43 percent in favor of the reduced benefits. In both cases the rest were unsure.

Reagan's Social Security package caught most lawmakers by surprise, and some GOP officials have complained bitterly about the president's failure to consult with them beforehand.

Reagan said he had instructed Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker, who led the secret review that produced the original proposals, to meet with leaders of Congress "as soon as possible to launch a bipartisan effort to save Social Security. I have also asked him to make the full resources of his department available for this effort."

Reagan said the old age fund's deficit could hit $11 billion in the next five years. "None of us can afford to underestimate the seriousness of the problems facing Social Security," he said. "In the decades ahead, its unfunded obligations could run well into the trillions."

On advice of Dr. Christopher Buttery, city-county health director, the school's furniture and floors will be scrubbed and the rugs steam cleaned.

"The amount here is very small," Buttery said. "It was an accidental exposure, a once-in-a-blue-moon type of thing. I wasn't supposed to happen, but we just don't want to take any chances."

Schilhab said he suspects chlordane was sprayed in some classrooms but maintenance officials halted use of the pesticide before the entire facility was covered.

The school district usually uses another pesticide, diazinon, to kill fleas that periodically infest buildings. Schilhab said for some unexplained reason, a worker accidentally sprayed with chlordane solution mixed with water.

In 1975, the EPA restricted chlordane use to certified exterminators for termite control. Environmentalists have compared chlordane's toxicity to DDT, a pesticide banned in all use for its accumulative build up through the natural food chain.

Pesticide is sprayed in school

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — After investigating complaints of headaches by students and teachers, school officials have discovered a banned pesticide accidentally was sprayed inside a local school last week.

A maintenance worker mistakenly used chlordane, banned by the Environmental Protection Agency for above-ground use, to spray hallways, restrooms and possibly classrooms of the Alternative Education, said Eugene Schilhab, maintenance and operations officer for the Corpus Christi Independent School District.

Principal Jim Todd said some of the 300 students and 16 teachers reported headaches but no one fell ill enough to leave school.

Five teachers complained to the American Federation of Teachers after becoming ill and the organization relayed the complaints to Schilhab.

On advice of Dr. Christopher Buttery, city-county health director, the school's furniture and floors will be scrubbed and the rugs steam cleaned.

"The amount here is very small," Buttery said. "It was an accidental exposure, a once-in-a-blue-moon type of thing. I wasn't supposed to happen, but we just don't want to take any chances."

Officers posing as prostitutes responsible for arrest of 60

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Fort Worth police say two women officers posing as prostitutes were responsible for the arrest of 60 men during a two-day crackdown on illicit sex activity.

The men, one of whom police said was a minister, were all charged with a Class C misdemeanor count of soliciting sex, said Capt. C.E. Hogue, head of special investigations.

If convicted, suspects could be fined as much as $200.

Hogue said the operation took place Wednesday and Thursday in an area on the east side of Fort Worth frequented by prostitutes.

Two elevator employees were in critical condition today from the Thursday blast, which leveled the 50-foot-tall Inola Grain Elevator. Two others remained hospitalized with burns.

Either a welder's torch or an electric motor apparently ignited the volatile grain dust at about 3 p.m.

Warren is being held without bond on the authority of Judge Lewis Heflin.

Four charges hit probationer

Ricky P. Ornelas, 18, of 508 NW 10th, was transferred to county jail Thursday following charges of auto burglary, robbery and assault. A total of $40,000 in bonds were set for the charges.

Ornelas, who was arrested by the sheriff's office, was also charged with revocation of probation on a charge of aggravated assault. No bond was set on this charge.

County offices closed Monday

All offices in the Howard County Courthouse, except the Sheriff's office, will be closed Memorial Day. Business as usual will result Tuesday. The county commissioners are planning to meet Tuesday.

DR. P.W. MALONE AT WHEEL OF 1909 HUPMOBILE
Amused crowds watched parade in 1949 Big Spring Centennial

Dr. Malone's 1909 Hupmobile long gone, but not forgotten

Dr. P.W. Malone, whose exuberance for life and for jubilees like the 1981 Big Spring Centennial hasn't lessened, went to considerable pains to be a part of the parade in the 1949 Big Spring Centennial.

Dr. Malone, who with the late Dr. John Hogan founded the Malone-Hogan Hospital and Clinic, was president of the old Howard County Museum at the time.

In that capacity, he accepted the gift of an old 1909 Hupmobile from a man named Eddins. The ancient machine was close to being a basket case at the time but, with the help of some of the best mechanical brains in town, Malone somehow got the Hupmobile to running.

Ultimately, it ran well enough to be entered in the big downtown parade marking the beginning of the Centennial. It protested from start to finish with seizures and violent belches of smoke but Malone and his mechanic somehow completed the ride.

Malone recalls the vehicle was a four-cylinder job, with a right-hand drive. It boasted wooden spokes, clincher tires and acetylene headlights.

Following the parade, the Hupmobile was taken back to the museum, which was then located in City Park (now Comanche Trail Park).

The museum, operated inspirationally by Mary Bumpass, a Big Spring High School teacher for years, ultimately closed. The ancient vehicle was all but forgotten.

Years later, Malone was asked as to the whereabouts of the old car. He assumed it was still stored in the old museum building but a check proved that some unscrupulous individual or individuals had removed the Hupmobile without being detected.

Vintage automobiles have since come to be worth a lot of money, if they are kept in mint shape. It is to be assumed that the car, where ever it might be, reposes in the fleet of some's collector.

MARKING OFF SPACES — Charles Smith, Sig Rogers and Joe Mata take time out from marking spaces on the College Park Shopping Center parking lot to do a little advertising for the Centennial Flea Market, which runs through Monday. Senate rejects nomination of Brand to Prison Board AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate today rejected the appointment of McAllen Mayor Othal Brand to the State Prison Board.

Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, saying "I do not enjoy what I must do," asked fellow senators to observe senatorial courtesy and refuse to confirm the appointment, which he called "ill-advised."

The Senate voted 30-0 to reject the appointment.

Uribe was joined by Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, chairman of the Senate Nominations Subcommittee, in urging that the confirmation be denied. McKnight said Brand probably would be a good appointment to other state positions, but because of the pending federal court order on conditions in Texas prisons, he did not think Brand suitable for the prison board.

The Senate Nominations Subcommittee vote 4-0 Thursday to make no recommendation in Gov. William Clements' appointment of Brand, who has been criticized for his handling of allegations of police brutality in McAllen.

Uribe said the question was not so much whether Brand had acted illegally, but whether he should have known about the actions of the police.

"I was singularly unimpressed with his remarks about the first lawsuit filed in 1976, ... and his constant theme has been, 'I was not aware,'" Uribe said. "I think we all are ultimately responsible for the conduct in office of those we supervise and control." Witnesses said Brand has been a "divisive" force in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The subcommittee also was told Brand ordered the erasure of some videotapes of police brutality in McAllen.

Brand denied the allegations, and said he was the man who called for outside investigations of the police brutality.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL
Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus (Acts 8:35)

I entered once a home of care,
And penury and want were there,
But joy and peace were withal,
I asked the aged mother whence
Her helpless widowhood's defense;
She answered, "Christ is all."

I saw the martyr of the stake,
The flames could not his courage shake,
Nor death his soul assail,
I asked him whence his strength was given,
He looked triumphant to heaven
And answered, "Christ is all."

I stood beside the dying bed,
Where lay a child with aching head,
Waiting Jesus' call,
And as his spirit passed away,
He whispered, "Christ is all."

I dreamed that hoary time had fled,
The earth and sea gave up their dead,
A fire dissolved this ball,
I saw the church's ransom'd throng,
I caught the burden of their song,
'Twas this, that Christ was all in all.

A people waiting for the Lord, loving the Lord, serving the Lord, committing heart and life to the blessed Jesus we are to be. "And he preached unto him Jesus." Only Jesus. Jesus only.

Nelson plays for inmates

Nelson, one of the nation's top musical entertainers, gave the free concert Thursday at the maximum-security prison at the invitation of some 1,500 inmates and 200 guards who signed petitions wishing him a happy birthday last month.

Tourism becomes a major industry here

Time was when Americans were expected to do all the traveling in foreign countries. The rest of the people inhabiting Planet Earth were either too poor to venture to the United States or satisfied they would be better off staying at home. Happily, that time is past.

The trouble the American dollar has had getting the proper respect has contributed a lot of the change. The British are coming. So are the Mexicans, the Canadians and the Asians.

As a matter of fact, there are more tourists from overseas coming to this country these days than Americans visiting overseas. It's a marked change in international travel patterns, and American business is happy about it.

FOR NEARLY A century and a half, Americans have been crossing the seas to visit those tourist attractions they had read about all their lives. Only since World War II ended, however, has overseas tourism been conducted on a large scale. Many went even before Europe had a chance to remove the scars left by WW II. In the 1960s and 1970s, Europe was literally swarming with curious Americans.

It finally became obvious to American leaders that such travel could be reciprocal and the United States was missing out on a substantial source of income simply for want of trying.

During Dwight Eisenhower's stay in the White House, the effort to lure foreign visitors here was stepped up. By 1961, the Congress had passed the International Travel Act. The act directed the Secretary of Commerce to "develop, plan and carry out a comprehensive program designed to stimulate and encourage travel to the United States for the purpose of study, culture, recreation, business and other activities as a means of promoting friendly understanding and goodwill."

As a result, the U.S. Travel Service was established within the Commerce Department, and offices were opened in Canada, Mexico, France, the United Kingdom, Germany and Japan.

The primary function of most of the offices remains to put this country's travel services in packages to be sold to agents abroad. Today, the U.S. is a package that sells.

After the top three American exports — chemicals, motor vehicles and parts, and grain and cereal preparations — tourism brings in the most revenue.

In 1980, foreign tourism accounted for an estimated $12 billion in U.S. export earnings.

Expenditures by foreign visitors in the U.S. have been growing faster than other measures of U.S. economic activity — they shot up by 250 percent in the 70s. The travel industry in the U.S. is now the third largest in the country, employing more than six million people and producing more than $18 billion in annual travel sales.

Last year, 8 million Americans visited overseas while 8.1 million visitors came here from other countries. That balance will likely widen because of the strength of currency in such places as Japan, West Germany and Mexico.

Up-to-date Around the rim

James Werrell

Kids grow up so fast nowadays. No sooner have they left the cradle than they are faced with the ever-mounting encumbrances of the 20th Century. Instead of kick-the-can, they play Space Invaders on a video display screen. Instead of books, they are given mini-computers specially built for young programmers.

How long can it be before the doll makers revolutionize their industry to fit the needs of the space-shuttle generation?

I understand, for example, that in these days of Reaganomics and budget wars, the Raggedy Andy doll will soon be replaced by a Welfare Willie model. With the aid of micro-computer chips, Willie will be able to walk to the mailbox, buy a fifth of cheap wine and sleep it off.

Kids that want to get a taste of the singles-scene early in life may want to order the Vinnie Vegas-Macho Man Set. Vinnie comes complete with lots of gold chains, and shirts that don't button past his little, plastic navel.

He is programmed to say, "Hey, baby, what's your sign?" and "My girlfriend doesn't understand me."

LITTLE GIRLS MAY like Libby-Today's Liberated Woman Doll. She comes complete with lots of gold chains, and shirts that don't button past her little, plastic navel.

She is programmed to say, "Hey, baby, what's your sign?" and "My girlfriend doesn't understand me."

Where, in the past, most little dolls were content with water and pablum, the dolls of the future, such as Danny and Debby Depressed, will eat whole pies, bags of Fritos and Valiums. On the opposite end of the spectrum, the I-Are-A-Irishman Dolls will refuse to eat anything.

For transportation, the dolls will travel in American-made toy cars that require twice as many batteries to operate as the Japanese toy cars. Each American model will come with a genuine factory recall notice with options for an exploding rear-end or faulty brakes.

Some dolls will travel on the all-new electric trains, guaranteed to arrive late, if at all. More sophisticated models will derail and spill dangerous chemicals on the carpet.

Finally, the rumor is out that a local plant is being built to produce special Big Spring Centennial Dolls. They will come equipped with a wardrobe full of silly clothes, and will sprout scruffy beards or sideburns within a couple of months.

The great thing about these dolls is that they will jump at an opportunity to hold a celebration (refer to electric trains, above).

EVEN KEN AND Barbie will be altered to fit the realities of modern-day life. Each will have a paunch, and a small button in Ken's back will enable him to smoke too many Kenzie cigarettes. Barbie can get migraines.

The entire Ken and Barbie Marriage Set features a house that they can't afford on two salaries; a lawn that needs mowing; a roll-out couch that sometimes doubles as Ken's bed; and a complete Neighborhood Tavern to set up a few blocks from the house.

The tavern includes the Lester Lush doll, Ken's best friend. When Ken stays too long at the tavern, Barbie is programmed to say, "You always (fill in the blank)." or "You never (fill in the blank)." or "Why don't you just go live with Lester the Lush."

There is room on the couch for Lester. There is also room for Ted and Alice, dolls that come with the optional Ken and Barbie Open-Marriage Set.

Dark side of Islam

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — Who would want to kill the Prophet? Millions ask themselves that question and, not finding an answer, embrace the faddist theory of a terrorist plot.

In fact, the gunman was the crazed product of a notorious cultural milieu. I speak of the milieu of Islamic fundamentalism.

Islamic fundamentalism has made its mark many times in many places. The Iranian revolution and the seizure of the American hostages in Tehran were the work of Islamic fundamentalists. The murderous ruler of Libya, Moammar Kadafi, is an Islamic fundamentalist. Similarly, the gang that occupied the Grand Mosque of Mecca back in 1979.

Most Westerners, for a variety of reasons, prefer to ignore this dark side of Islam. If nothing else, censorious scrutiny of other people's religion is a kind of bad form. But what is at issue is not so much religion as sociology and politics.

ISLAM, APART FROM being a personal credo, represents a system of social organization. In general, Islamic society has been characterized by economies that are agricultural and rural; by institutions that are at the level of the family, the tribe, the guild; and by customs that emphasize established hierarchies that limit mobility.

Modernization, inevitably, had a staggering impact on Islam. Rapid communication, literacy and the growing population because of improved medical care worked to break down hierarchies and promote mobility. Industry came, and with it the move to large urban centers. On top of families and tribes, there was superimposed the national state.

European imperialists undoubtedly played a role in bringing modern ways to Islam. But less so than often supposed. The Europeans were quickly routed by the anti-colonial movements that swept through the Middle East, Africa and Asia after World War I.

Far more important were the local elites trained in Western skills, and imbued with Western ideals. From North Africa through the Levant and the Arabian Peninsula, and on to Indonesia and the Philippines, local pro-Western elites became the chief agents of modernization in the Moslem world.

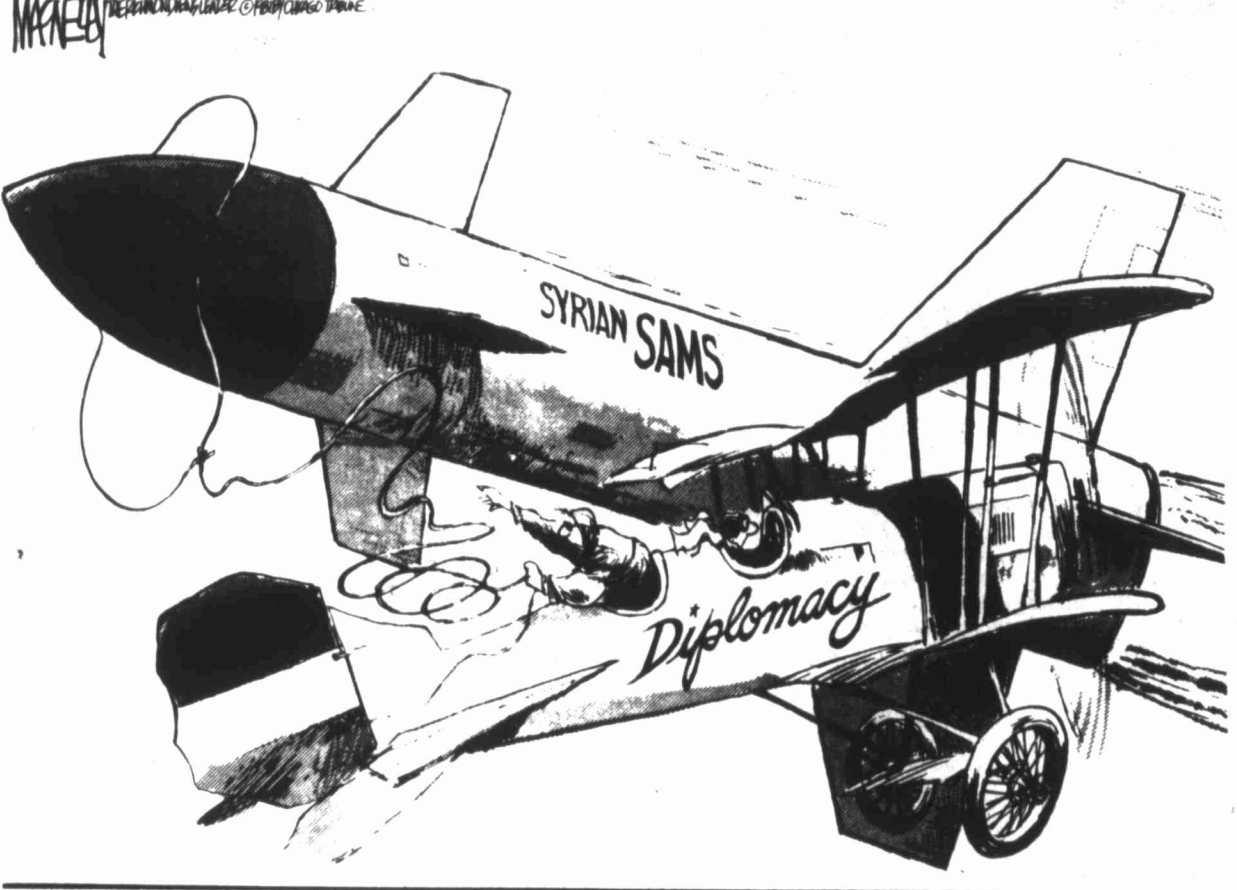

Islamic fundamentalism is in large measure a protest movement against the modernization imposed by the local elites. As Professor M.F. Yapp, a British Islamicist, wrote in an article called "Contemporary Islamic Revivalism":

"As modernization proceeds, people are drawn into great participation ... and especially as urban immigrants. Observing the gulf separates their conditions from that of the older Westernized elites ... they put forward their demands in the form of an assertion that the Westernized elites have betrayed the values of Islam."

Turkey presents a striking example of that phenomenon. Modernization was imposed from above by the great reformer, Kemal Ataturk, whose centennial is being observed this week. Ataturk established a modern state, secularized Turkish society and instituted as guardians of his reform a professional army.

WHEN ECONOMIC MODERNIZATION picked up speed after World War II, millions of Turkish peasants left the barren eastern plains for jobs in Istanbul or, as guest workers, in the industrial centers of Western Europe. Though far better off than before, they had cut their cultural moorings and were clearly lower in status and relative wealth than many around them. Some, in protest, joined left-wing or progressive movements.

Uterine fibroids common finding

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For the past few years my doctor has mentioned that I have fibroids on my uterus and that the uterus is slightly enlarged, but not to worry about it. However, this year he said my uterus had grown to a size of a five-month pregnancy and I should be rechecked in a few months. I am not pregnant. If it has further enlarged a hysterectomy may be done. I was so shocked that I didn't think to question him further. What are fibroids and what causes them? I haven't had any symptoms I know of.

—Mrs. K.T.

A fibroid is a benign tumor of a muscle. The uterus is muscular, and about four of every five women over 35 have at least one fibroid. It is not well understood why they appear, but it may be that estrogen stimulation plays a role. At least the growths tend to shrink after a woman has experienced menopause, when estrogen production wanes. There is no medicine to shrink them. Most fibroids produce no symptoms and just having them does not mean they have to be treated.

So why has your doctor mentioned hysterectomy? Excessive menstrual bleeding is one reason for removing the uterus (hysterectomy). The other reason is quite mechanical. If the fibroids grow large, they can press on the urinary bladder causing urinary tract obstruction and threat of infection there. They may also become painful.

If they cause these problems, or threaten to, then the uterus is removed. Even if the fibroids are not causing symptoms they should be checked every few months because they can enlarge quite dramatically at times. Your doctor compares your uterus to one of a woman five months pregnant. Pressure symptoms usually arise when the uterus gets to the size of a three-months-pregnant state.

Don't be shocked. You have a very common condition. Keep your appointment. You may or may not need surgery. Many women are walking around with harmless fibroids of the uterus.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been diagnosed as having vasculitis. I have a rash and the diagnosis was found through skin biopsy. My two problems are leg aches and the skin rash. I was taking Deltasone, but that has been discontinued. They tell me there is no cure, just control. Can you discuss this? —Mrs. A.T.

Vasculitis is the surname for a large family with many members. Periarteritis nodosa, Wegner's granulomatosis and hypersensitivity vasculitis are three brothers and sisters of this family. They have the same inflammation of blood vessels in common. However, they produce different pictures in the family album because they affect different blood vessels and different body organs.

I don't know which family member you have encountered, but it does sound from your letter that you have the hypersensitivity vasculitis. In this, the small blood vessels are inflamed. The skin shows signs of the inflammation in different ways. There can be hives, bruises or little nodules. Since vessels to muscles are affected too, there can be muscle aching and pain, like those you are having in your legs.

Steroids are used for brief periods in treatment. Deltasone is a steroid. Often, there is complete improvement; at other times, the illness lingers for longer periods. I hope yours goes away entirely and soon.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please print something about lumps in young women's breasts? Mine are called fibroadenoma and doctors say they are not malignant and not to worry about them. How does a surgeon distinguish these lumps from malignant lumps, and are they mostly non-malignant? —S.P.

Fibroadenomas are benign (non-malignant) breast tumors most commonly seen during the 20s and early 30s. Their cause is not known — at least by me. They can be distinguished from cancerous ones by the way they feel. They are smooth, firm, have a rubbery consistency and can be moved around. Your reference to a surgeon makes me believe that the wise thing was done — a biopsy to confirm the status of the lumps.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 45-year-old female and within the last few years I have developed an intolerance to milk and dairy products. Would it be a good idea to take calcium supplements? Without calcium I am afraid there would be risk of brittle bones. —Mrs. A.C.

Dairy products are a chief source of calcium for us, and you are correct in thinking you do require calcium. If your diet is so restricted that you cannot take any dairy products it might not be a bad idea to take a calcium supplement. To keep us in balance, that is, with the amount of calcium taken in equating that lost daily you have to have between 500 and 1000 milligrams of calcium daily from whatever source. Aside from dairy products, sardines, collards, beet greens, broccoli, mustard greens and kale have decent amounts of calcium in them.

Because of your unusual situation and because of your inability to take the most common sources of calcium, a supplement will not hurt you. It will help prevent osteoporosis later on. You must realize that this is not the only factor involved in bone brittleness, however. That is a very complicated subject and has to do with hormone production, general nutrition and perhaps even the level of exercise of the woman.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have some health problems that seem to be getting worse. Do you think God would take these away if I prayed enough? —Mrs. L.C.

DEAR MRS. L.C.: There certainly may be times when God intervenes and heals in ways that are beyond human explanation; he is all powerful and able to act in this way.

However, He does not always do this and, in fact, it is not necessarily his normal way of healing us when sickness strikes. Remember that God also has given doctors the skills they have and given us the means to develop medicines also.

Now, then, should you respond to the physical problems you are facing? First of all, pray. Commit this whole matter to God, and pray that his will may be done. In this connection, I want you to face honestly a very important question:

Are you honestly seeking God's will for your life? What if it were not his will to restore you to complete health at this time? Would you accept that joyfully, knowing that God's will is always best for us?

God has not promised to answer any

THE LAW REQUIRES that recipients of AID loans "buy American." It's a logical requirement. There's no reason American taxpayers should lend money to giveaway rates to businessmen or nations so they can hire German or Japanese companies to build their dams or factories. And indeed, many AID borrowers acknowledge that without the inducement of AID funds they probably would have thrown their business elsewhere.

The result is that scores of American firms have set up branch offices in Cairo to handle their share of the AID pie. And they have taken to lobbying the agency for help in competing with European companies for lucrative Egyptian development contracts.

For example, AID is currently participating with the World Bank and some European countries to install a new telephone system in Cairo. Now American business representatives are pressuring AID to take the lead on the follow-up project — switching stations for long-distance calls.

"We want AID to give more funding, so U.S. manufacturers will get the market for the switches," said one American telecommunications consultant, adding: "Other governments help their industries. It's time we started helping ours."

But in their scramble for profits, American corporations often take advantage of the "edge" that AID gives them. Several Egyptian businessmen complained that U.S. exporters often jack their prices up when AID money is involved, knowing that the Egyptians are required to buy American.

Adel Rezika, the owner of a candy factory in Cairo, told my roving correspondent Peter Grant that the price of a sugar pulverizing machine he bought from a New Jersey company had gone from $7,800 to $11,000 in just two years — a 41 percent increase. "It is against the reason of the AID program," he complained.

Sometimes, in fact, it appears that steering contracts to American firms is the primary goal of the AID program.

bureaucratic bungling. And fighting between Egyptian government agencies has prevented implementation of technological improvements to the Aswan Dam, recommended in an AID-funded study by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which could save Egypt $40 million a year.

DRUG DEALING — For years, the big American drug companies had their own little "OPEC," rigging world prices to extract the maximum profit.

Now, faced with lawsuits by foreign governments claiming hundreds of millions in overcharges and price-fixing, the pharmaceutical fatcats have turned to their friends in Congress for help. Proposed legislation would block the foreign governments from pursuing their lawsuits, which are scheduled for trial next month.

Diplomats from West Germany, India, Colombia and the Philippines have raised howls of protest, sources told my associate Jack Mitchell.

The controversy began 20 years ago when the Federal Trade Commission accused several drug giants, among them Pfizer, Bristol-Myers and American Cyanamid, of patent and antitrust violations in sales of common antibiotics. The drug firms wound up paying some $200 million as the result of lawsuits in this country.

Later, several foreign countries also sued. Led by Pfizer, the pharmaceutical companies argued that the countries had no right to sue — but in 1978, the Supreme Court ruled otherwise.

That left the drug firms one escape route: special-interest legislation by Congress. They apparently found a friend in Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Hearings on the legislation were held without calling opposing witnesses — including the foreign governments that were suing.

The Justice Department's antitrust chief, William Baxter, testified that he didn't oppose the legislation that would let the drug companies off the hook. The State Department waffled.

Diplomats protested bitterly to Deputy Secretary of State William P. Clark — who also heard from Thurmond.

The West Germans went so far as to say it was "improper" for Attorney General William French Smith to take part in the legislative consideration, because his old law firm represented Pfizer in the antitrust litigation. Though acknowledging Pfizer is a client, the law firm denied that it represents the company in the lawsuit.

Dear Editor:

I realize that Big Spring is making a good attempt to handle some of the housing shortage by construction of some new apartments on Parkway. This, of course, will generate much new traffic on Wason Road. Wason Road has too long been a pot-holed rickshaw, and it needs lane striping. Won't this road ever be repaired?

I thought it was due to be repaved a long time back. What has happened to the money that was budgeted for this area of repair?

Western Drifters report on campouts

Hosts for the Western Drifters Good Sam campout were the Delbert Simpsons of Odessa, the Victor Jacksons and the Welby Jacksons at Colorado City State Park when 13 rigs were represented. Guests were Dean & Doris Lynn of La Junta, Colorado.

Campouts of members were reported from such places as Aransas Pass, Lake Mathis, and Kerrville. A number of members who were ill, or in the hospital, were reported.

It was learned that the A. J. Statzers' daughter, Linda, has just received her Bachelor of Science Degree in P.E. and is working in McKinney.

The monthly pot luck supper & business meeting was held recently in the Energas Flame Room. It was reported by Evelyn Vigar, president, that Texas has the distinction of another "first", that of being the only state with an all Black Chapter of Good Sams.

It was brought to our attention that Texas Parks & Wildlife have money appropriated for improvements to our state parks. The only way they know where the people need and want improvements is to write Larry Don Shaw, state representative, and Ray Farabee, state senator. Colorado City State Park does not have any shade and many who use this facility would like to have enclosed pavilions for the use of all who use the park.

A few places are still available for camping at Cloudcroft May 31 to June 6. The limit of reservations has not been set by our club, but by the National Parks Board.

TALKS OF MEMORIES — Louise Blackwell Dillow sits in the kitchen of her South Padre Island, Texas home with a miniature cookstove talking about the recipes in a cookbook she wrote about memories of the Depression. She grew up on a farm near Corsicana, Texas.

Quiett family reunion is held in Big Spring

By GARNET QUIETT SNYDER — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Engle hosted a reunion of the Quiett family, long-time residents of Scurry County, at their home in Big Spring Saturday.

Lunch was served to the twenty-eight people present. A session of picture taking followed in the afternoon.

Only three children are living of the ten children of the late Sam Houston and Elizabeth Quiett. They are: Mrs. Jessie Johnston, Houston Quiett, and Vera Bernice Quiett.

Sam Houston Quiett was born in Washington County, Ark. He was named after General Sam Houston, who was an American General and President of the Republic of Texas. Quiett came to Texas when a young man and married Florence Elizabeth Hobbs in Wolf City, Hunt County, in 1887.

The couple came to Eastland County in a covered wagon and settled at Pleasant Grove where they lived until coming to Scurry County in 1915. They brought their family to Dunn in a covered wagon pulled by two mules. The first day at Dunn, they lunched under the Methodist tabernacle and moved into a house that afternoon. They were engaged in farming in the Dunn community until their retirement.

Quiett's grandfather came from Ireland to America. The name was spelled Quot (pronounced, "Watt") in Ireland, but became Quiett, in translation when he came to America.

Those attending the reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Benson of Salyer, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McClaren of Pueblo, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnston of Corpus Christi;

Dear Abby

High-Rent Neighbor Doubts Low-Rent Visitors

DEAR ABBY: Two men who claim to be father and adopted son just bought an old mansion across the street and fixed it up. We notice a very suspicious mixture of company coming and going at all hours — blacks, whites, Orientals, women who look like men and men who look like women. We even saw a nun and a priest go inside.

People come in everything from motorcycles to Cadillacs. This has always been considered one of the finest sections of San Francisco, and these weirdos are giving it a bad name. How can we improve the neighborhood?

NOB HILL RESIDENTS

DEAR RESIDENTS: You could move.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is having a nervous breakdown. Her home was robbed last week and she lost all her jewelry and silver. (No insurance.)

You had a letter in your column some time ago from a woman who had lost all her treasures in a flash flood. Your reply was brilliant. Now I'm sorry I didn't clip it out and save it so I could show it to my mother. It might put material things in their proper perspective. Please try to find that column and run it again. Thank you.

DEAR PALM SPRINGS: I found it. And here it is. About a month ago we had a flash flood, and I lost nearly all the treasures I had saved for 45 years. Albums filled with pictures and snapshots, letters, clippings — none of which can be replaced. I had them stored in plastic containers, and when I opened them, all I found was mud and water!

It seems that a part of my life is gone, and I am heartsick over it. I am 60 and have had a very happy life. Our children are married and gone, and there are just the two of us.

I've tried to keep busy and not dwell on my loss, but it is on my mind constantly. I wish I could forget this terrible nightmare.

Somehow I feel that you can help me. Abby, have you ever lost any of your treasures? And if you have, how did you get over it?

DEAR DEPRESSED: Yes, dear. I lost my beautiful mother in 1945. (She was only 57.) And a few years later, I lost a wonderful father. (He was 62.) And not a day passes but I don't thank God for letting me have my parents for as long as I did. I know many who were not nearly as blessed as I, and I think of those who have survived a far greater tragedy — losing their children.

Now, what were you saying about clippings and pictures and other "treasures"?

DEAR ABBY: I own my own business and I hire many high school students for part-time work. Abby, you cannot imagine how many parents call me and ask if I have a job for Ann or Tom!

If Ann and Tom want to work, I think they should do the asking. Having Mama or Dad ask for them doesn't say much for the child's initiative.

I feel it is important for young people to work and I give as many of them a break as I can, but I have made it a policy never to hire anyone whose mother or father calls and asks me to give the child a job. If a boy or girl is old enough to draw a salary, he or she is old enough to ask for a job.

I am sure other employers share my viewpoint. And if this letter helps to wake up just one teen-ager, it will have been worth the time I took to write it.

DEAR E: I'm glad you wrote. I'm sure you woke up more than just one teen-ager. (And a few parents, too.)

Americans fear Social Security failure

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the 115 million American workers who pay Social Security taxes have little faith that they will ever get benefits in return from the financially troubled system, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Senator blocks tuition hike

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senate committee consideration of a bill that would let regents at state colleges raise tuition was held up for 48 hours today, lessening chances for passage this session.

Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, "tagged" the measure implementing the hike. Under Senate rules, any senator can delay committee consideration of a bill.

"I have always opposed any increase in the tuition charged at our state colleges and universities, and decided to act now to block the possible passage of this measure," Santiesteban said.

The bill may be brought up in the Senate Education Committee no earlier than Sunday. The legislative session adjourns at midnight on June 1.

"The cost of a college education is already a too heavy burden for many students and their families, and raising tuition can only have the effect of forcing many students to either drop or delay their educational plans," he said.

The original plan had called for a 100 percent increase in undergraduate tuition, and a 900 percent hike at Texas medical schools. As amended, the bill now gives regents the power to raise tuition.

Santiesteban said the amended bill is still unacceptable.

"Even if it passes the buck" to the regents, it still will mean that college tuition will be increased," he said.

U.S., Argentina agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Argentina have signed an agreement calling for "expanded scientific and technical cooperation" in the fields of agriculture, livestock and forestry.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said Thursday that it was "a significant step toward furthering positive relations with Argentina."

Block and Jorge Aguado, Argentina's minister of agriculture and livestock, signed the agreement Wednesday, officials said.

Areas covered include cooperation in agricultural technology, animal husbandry, information on agricultural production, extension and training services, plant health, crop forecasting, crop insurance, forestry, soil conservation, farm management and "other matters of mutual interest," Block said.

Despite this remarkable lack of faith, the public generally doesn't like Ronald Reagan's plan to save the system from bankruptcy.

In particular, those who are familiar with Reagan's plan oppose by a two-to-one margin the suggestion that benefits for all future retirees be cut an average of 10 percent.

The lack of support for the Reagan plan does not mean the public knows how to solve Social Security's problems, but putting limits on benefits and using general tax revenues to fund the system do get some support as possible solutions.

Americans have a stunning lack of confidence in the soundness of the Social Security system, which now collects taxes from 115 million workers and their employers and then pays benefits to 36 million people.

About three-quarters of the public — 74 percent — said they have little or no confidence that the Social Security system will have the money to pay them retirement benefits. Only 22 percent of those questioned said they have complete confidence or a great deal of confidence that the system will have the funds available. Four percent of the 1,599 adults interviewed nationwide by telephone Monday and Tuesday were not sure.

As one might expect, young Americans with the longest to go before retirement are the least confident in the system and those close to retirement the most confident.

But Reagan's ideas to save the system from its financial problems have little backing.

Over the past decade, there have been warnings that the Social Security system faces a variety of financial problems because of high inflation, high unemployment and low productivity and because of the changing makeup on the American population.

Recent efforts to cure the financial ills have fallen short, leaving the system facing a cash crunch in the next two years and much larger problems about 30 to 40 years in the future.

To start with, 45 percent of the public said they had not even heard or read about the proposals.

percent favored the proposals and 20 percent opposed it. Seven percent favored some of the proposals and opposed others. Nine percent were not sure.

The financial keystone of Reagan's plan was soundly rejected by the public.

Only 28 percent of those who are aware of the plan said they support the proposal to cut back benefits for future retirees by about 10 percent. Fifty-eight percent opposed that suggestion and 14 percent were not sure.

Reagan's plan to slash benefits for those who retire after age 62 but before 65 drew a bit more support. Forty-three percent favored that suggestion, while 48 percent opposed it. The rest were not sure.

Tired of paying rent, Gillem founded Sand Spring in 1938

The escalating cost of rent isn't peculiar to today's society alone.

The late W.E. Gillem had come to the conclusion that paying rent every month was burdensome. He had lived in several West Texas communities, among them Big Spring, Abilene, Post and Coahoma.

On Oct. 12, 1938 — the anniversary of an explorer named Christopher Columbus — Gillem acquired a deed from J.R. Merrick for 13 acres of land along US 80 almost midway between Big Spring and Coahoma. The community of Sand Springs thus came into being. Since that time, scores of families have moved to the area. The settlement has never been incorporated but it keeps thriving, expanding mainly to the south.

Gillem opened a business establishment that included a cafe, store, tourist camp and service station at Sand Springs. He plumbed the ground and hit abundant water at a depth of 26 feet. It tested out to 100 percent pure.

The water still flows so copiously that Sand Springs has come to be regarded as an oasis where lawns, trees and vegetable gardens thrive.

Mrs. Gillem, who is still living, helped her husband set out grass and trees. Locust, chinaberry, Chinese elm, cottonwood, pecan, walnut and cherry — they all seemed to thrive in the area. Some of the tree saplings he bought, others he started from branches. Several even grew from seed.

Gillem sold others on the idea of moving to the area, pointing out they could live cheaper and grow things. He disposed of some of his original acreage, sharing it with people who decided to become his neighbors.

Because the entire area seemed to be sand laden, Gillem conferred the name "Sand Springs" on it.

Residences now have all the modern conveniences — telephone, electric lights, gas lines and running water.

Numerous employees of Cosden Oil and Chemical company's refinery, located three miles to the west of Sand Springs have built houses in the area.

Gillem died several years ago but member of his family, in addition to his wife, continue to live in the area.

Museum presented artifact

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Museum received a valuable artifact during ceremonies Thursday afternoon in the museum.

Poster Stephenson, who is credited with discovering a buried hammered copper pot on Lone Wolf Mountain in 1921, presented the find to the museum.

At the time of discovery, Stephenson was playing on the mountain with a brother, Frank, and his sister, now Mrs. Susie Stephenson Graham, when they discovered the artifact buried in a grave.

The public attended the special presentation ceremony in the museum.

Congress adjourns for 10 days after 'drastic spending cuts'

WASHINGTON (AP) — After establishing the "most significant and drastic spending change by the federal government in 25 years," congressmen headed home today for a 10-day vacation.

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., used those words to describe the "watershed resolution" the Senate approved 76-20 Thursday in adopting a $695.4 billion budget outline tailored to President Reagan's tax and spending program next year.

The Senate action came a day after the House agreed to the compromise hammered out last week by budget writers for the two chambers. The package calls for massive cuts in social programs and increased defense spending.

After returning from the Memorial Day recess, Congress will resume the more difficult task of actually cutting individual programs to fit the targets set by the non-binding outline.

Meanwhile, the Reagan administration and key Democrats are inching closer to agreement on a tax-cut plan but neither side wants to take the final step without a guarantee that the other will go along.

"We couldn't ask members to support a package giving the president three-quarters of what he asked for only to have the president disown and denounce it and work with others to seek something different," House Majority Leader Jim Wright said Thursday.

"If Congress is going to give birth to his child, then he must own up to its responsibility," the Texas Democrat added.

Despite the session by both sides, a Treasury Department official confirmed Thursday that the administration generally supports a substitute offered by conservative Democrats that would cut personal tax rates by 25 percent over three years instead of the 30 percent cut Reagan sought.

Reagan won't be drawn into the discussions until congressional leaders give their assurance that the substitute can be passed without a long, costly fight, the officials said.

In a major victory for foes of legalized abortion, the Senate voted 52-43 Thursday to remove incest and rape as justification for abortions under the federal Medicaid program. That means that a low-income woman will qualify for federal funds to end a pregnancy only if her life is threatened.

The vote provided a vivid demonstration of the strength conservatives are likely to have later this year on more general legislation seeking to reverse the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortions. The House already had approved a similar amendment.

In other action Thursday:

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., reportedly has urged the White House to withdraw the nomination of Ernest W. Lefever to be President Reagan's human rights adviser. Lefever, accused of ignoring human rights abuses by right-wing governments, faced tough questioning this week by Percy's Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Richard Fairbanks, an assistant secretary of state, said any such request "will not be followed."

The Senate voted 49-46 to approve an extra $538 million for food stamps to avoid a cutback in the program this summer. The Agriculture Department said that without the extra money, it might be necessary to reduce food stamp outlays by 17 percent for some 23 million Americans who receive the coupons.

The Senate voted 50-48 to kill a move aimed at shelving a controversial Reagan administration plan to spend $20 million on a new generation of nerve gas weapons. The House already had approved $20 billion for the program. The money would be used to produce so-called binary nerve gas that is harmless until chemicals from separate chambers are combined on impact.

The House Interior Committee voted 23-18 to prohibit the Interior Department from approving oil or natural gas drilling leases on 1.5 million acres in the Bob Marshall Wilderness Area of Montana. Democrats said the vote to invoke the obscure section of federal law was in response to Interior Secretary James Watt's attitude toward wilderness preservation.

Judge's ruling favors airline wages plan

DALLAS (AP) — Prospects for American Airlines flight attendants' reservation agents' schools do not have to be paid the federal minimum wage, according to a federal judge who overturned an earlier edict by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Federal Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham, in a 17-page ruling, said the airline did not violate the Fair Labor Standards Act by providing initial training for potential flight attendants and reservations agents without pay.

The Labor Department had contended the trainees should be paid the minimum wage.

House that Coahoma students built to be displayed Sunday

COAHOMA — Open house will be held Sunday from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. to display a house built by the Building Trades and General Construction Trades classes of Coahoma High School as a class project.

The all electric, energy efficient house features storm windows and extra insulation for energy conservation, a wood burning fireplace with circulators, central heat and air conditioning.

The 1,884 square foot house, built by the 22 members of the two classes has a brick veneer, three bedrooms, two baths, a large family room and living room, dining room, kitchen, utility room, outside storage and carport.

The house is carpeted, has a drop-in range, a dishwasher and garbage disposal, a large walk-in closet in the master bedroom and large closets throughout the rest of the house.

The house was started in August as a class project. All work done during the class was supervised by Weldon Weaver. The house is located on Fifth St. in Coahoma and will be open to the public.

Mail deluge dispels myth of apathy in U.S.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "I didn't fill out your card (the response card on my questionnaire) because you don't read them and only a computer will ever see it."

That was one of the letters triggered by my latest questionnaire. Contrary to the writer's assumption and similar comments attached to mail from constituents from time to time. I do read every letter that comes into my office. And every letter receives a personal reply. I have maintained, since first coming to Washington, that a voter who took the time and effort to let me know their views on any issue deserved the same attention from their Congressman. That is a policy that I don't intend to change.

Obviously, when material goes to over 200,000 postal patrons, however, it is more practical and economical to use computer technology to count the returning responses rather than tie up every member of my staff counting reply boxes. I simply cannot answer every questionnaire — unless specific comments are included — but I will report the consensus of the questionnaire to everyone through the press when the results are compiled.

Questionnaires are an important communications tool, reaching a large number of people that might not ordinarily think that their voice is heard and encouraging them to speak out. I realize that this approach is considered impersonal by some, but there is simply no other means to question so many, so quickly! And the answer to those questions are so vital to me as each of these issues is dealt with in the House of Representatives.

Speaking of mail in general, people all over the United States seem to have taken pen in hand to let their Representative know their opinion, resulting in the largest backlog of mail delivery experienced by the House Postal Service in nine years.

Mail now being received in my office is around two weeks old and consequently my own response to that mail has been slowed considerably. I apologize for the delay, but this is an unusual situation. Normally, I receive 400-500 pieces of mail each day and right now I would estimate that the count has tripled.

I'm certainly not complaining. This great outpouring of opinion by the people has proven that Americans can no longer be called "apathetic" about the circumstances that touch their daily lives and are letting those who were elected to represent them know about it.

Constituent communications are the most important means a Congressman has of measuring the will of the people and, if anything, more and more individuals should be taking part in that process.

I would encourage everyone to keep on writing, but ask for patience. I'm answering those letters as quickly as I can during this busy legislative session.

NEW MISS USA — Kim Seelbrede, Miss Ohio of Germantown, shows elation Thursday night after capturing the Miss USA title. At left is master of ceremonies Bob Barker.

Modeling instructor from Ohio crowned Miss USA in pageant

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — As Miss New York sat in the audience, "depressed" by her disqualification for padding her swimsuit top, a 20-year-old modeling instructor representing Ohio was crowned Miss USA.

The winner, Kim Seelbrede, gave no indication that her victory was marred by the padding controversy.

"Pageants are stigmatized as being a lot of hard work with tough competition and cut-throat girls. But it's really not like that," said Miss Seelbrede, who was Miss Ohio. "I've gotten to meet a lot of super girls. They're all very nice. They're not cut-throats like I had anticipated."

Miss New York, Deborah Fountain, was a paying spectator in the pageant audience Thursday night, and no substitute was allowed to represent New York State in her place.

"I'm very depressed," she said as she walked from her hotel to the Mississippi Coast Coliseum, where the pageant was held.

Miss Fountain had filed suit to force pageant officials to readmit her, but the suit was dismissed Thursday afternoon by a New York Supreme Court Justice who ruled there was not enough first-hand information to support such an order.

The 25-year-old Bronx resident vowed to continue her legal battle, however, to "let them know I haven't been treated fairly."

"The absence of a Miss New York was not explained to the national television audience but Miss Fountain was shown briefly with other contestants modeling swimsuits in a portion of the program taped before she was ejected.

Miss Fountain said she padded her swimsuit top because the garment was ill-fitting and the pageant staff had refused her requests to alter it. She contends a pageant official took her into a restroom and pulled down the front of her swimsuit after an unidentified contestant had complained.

Miss Fountain also charged Wednesday that at least five other contestants had silicone implants in their breasts to improve their figures and as many as 20 had padded their swimsuits.

A statement prepared by the contestants Thursday said they were "incensed and outraged by the self-serving charges of widespread padding and infractions by Miss USA contestants...and we categorically deny them."

Public school teachers laid off by budget cuts

By the Associated Press

About 10 percent of the nation's 2.19 million public-school teachers are losing their jobs, in large part because President Reagan wants to slice federal aid to education, major teacher and school groups say.

"We're in a real pickle. We're facing severe cuts in federal aid and we have to lay off teachers. It's going to be massive," said Anita Epstein, director of governmental affairs for the National Association of State Boards of Education.

"Teacher layoffs are inevitable," said Willard McGuire, president of the 1.7-million member National Education Association. "The lack of federal money definitely means jobs."

The proposed 25 percent cut in federal education aid was included in budget ceilings adopted last week by Congress and would come in the 1982 fiscal year, which begins October 1.

Exact numbers of laid-off teachers are not yet available because no one knows exactly how much federal education aid will be available.

The NEA is braced for federal education cuts expected to total about $4.5 billion in the fiscal 1982 budget, said NEA spokesman Howard Carroll, and braced for "upwards of 200,000" layoffs as a result.

The American Federation of Teachers is projecting "roughly 25,000 layoffs for each $1 billion in cuts to federal aid to education," said Greg Humphrey, an AFT official.

Congress has not yet voted a fiscal 1982 budget. Nor has Congress voted on cuts sought by the administration in "forward funding" — educational funds approved last year for use in the coming school year.

Most school boards are required under law to tell teachers by May whether they will be rehired. Many boards are taking a cautious course until federal aid questions are resolved.

"If you don't know how much money you'll have for fall, you don't want to get into any binding contracts," McGuire noted. "Some boards are issuing more pink slips than necessary and plan to hire some teachers back in the fall."

Bank president's ploy bought time for rescue

HOUSTON (AP) — Police officials credit a quick-thinking bank president with buying enough time for a SWAT team to rescue a Freeport couple from a kidnapper who was trying to extort $20,000.

Officials said they expected charges to be filed today.

The gunman abducted Glen and Marie Maness at gunpoint from their Freeport home early Thursday, ac-ording to Lt. Jim Gunn, head of the Special Weapons and Tactics team. Gunn said the man told the couple an accomplice was holding their older daughter hostage and that a bomb had been planted in their younger daughter's car.

Gunn said that there was no accomplice and no bomb. He said Freeport police kept both daughters in protective custody until their parents returned home Thursday evening.

SECOND TIME AROUND — New York Islanders team captain Denis Potvin holds the NHL Stanley Cup as he celebrates with his teammates on the ice at the Nassau Coliseum. The Islanders defeated the Minnesota North Stars 5-1 in the fifth game of the series to take the Stanley Cup for the second straight year.

Islanders convincing in winning second straight Stanley Cup

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Long before the final buzzer had sounded, fans of the New York Islanders roared their approval and the players began the ritual of congratulatory handshakes and hugs.

The Islanders dissected the Minnesota North Stars 5-1 Thursday night to win their second consecutive National Hockey League Stanley Cup championship, taking four of the five games in convincing fashion.

"It was a helluva lot more fun this way," said Bob Bourne, referring to last year's title, which ended after six games when Bob Nystrom scored in overtime.

"The last five minutes we had nothing at stake," Bourne said. "We knew we were going to win the game and the Cup."

Sparked by Butch Goring, who won the Conn Smythe Trophy as most valuable player in the playoffs, New York built a lead of 3-0 before the North Stars were able to score. The Islanders, in fact, dominated from start to finish, and probably earned the respect they felt was missing for much of the season.

"It means last year was no fluke," said Bryan Trottier. "And we're still hungry. It's a great feeling."

Minnesota avoided the embarrassment of a four-game sweep by winning 4-2 Tuesday night in Game 4. But there was little doubt about the outcome Thursday, especially when New York exploded for a 3-1 first-period lead.

"I've seen the guys up before," said Clark Gillies, "but never like tonight in the first period. Butch told me he wasn't going to play more than five games, so it's a good thing we won tonight."

Goring opened the scoring at 5:12 of the first period with a power play goal, the first of his two goals in the game.

With rookie Brad Palmer off for hitting, Goring took a pass from Bourne at the right faceoff circle and drilled a slapshot past Don Beupre, Minnesota's 19-year-old goaltender.

Just 25 seconds later, John Tonelli slipped a pass from behind the net to Wayne Merrick and Merrick banged it past Beupre for a 2-0 lead.

At 10:03, Goring notched his 10th goal of the playoffs for an insurmountable 3-0 bulge.

Steve Christoff scored for Minnesota at 16:06, trimming the margin to two goals, but the rest of the game belonged to New York.

The Islanders outshot the North Stars 16-4 in the second period and almost came away empty-handed before Bourne scored from the faceoff circle at 19:21 after Minnesota failed to clear the puck from behind its net.

If a three-goal lead wasn't enough, Mike McEwen took care of that with his sixth goal of the playoffs with only 2:54 remaining in the game.

Steers end spring drills with Black vs. Gold fight tonight

By NATHAN POSS
 Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers close out their three weeks of spring training with the annual Black-Gold intrasquad contest at seven o'clock tonight at Blankenship Field, with most of the gridders more than anxious to break away from the practice-to-practice routine.

The teams have been fairly evenly divided, with the Gold squad having the one noticeable advantage in experienced quarterback Tracy Spence. Opposing Spence as the signal caller for the Black team will be Mark Johnson and Marty Rodriguez, a sophomore and junior, respectively.

Spence started all 10 games last year in the Steers 3-7 season, showing gradual progress during the course of the season. He has continued to improve, according to Harris, who also claims that the young quarterbacks in the Steer future down the road, including Rodriguez, Johnson and Dean Gartman, have also shown considerable progress.

The spring training finale could seem to be a marathon before it is over, as a total of six quarters will be played. The first two will match the younger members of the team (sophomores and JV players), while the final four quarters will be between what basically will comprise the 1981 varsity team. There are exceptions to this, however, as injuries have taken their toll. Some are related to football, others not. Those missing the game tonight will be returning All-District runner Bobby Earl Williams (knee), as well as Jay Dawdy (knee), Kenny Hart (ankle), James Terry (broken leg), Pete Crabtree (knee), Robert Burgess (cartilage tear in rib), and Bill Melton.

But, as Harris pointed out, some of the injured have allowed others to display some excellent depth for the Steers.

"We've had some people step in when others have been hurt and show us some very positive things," the Steer mentor stated. "One is Danny Stephens. He's come at Bobby Earl's backfield position and shown that he's first class runner. He doesn't have the big play speed that Bobby has, but he is a strong kid, runs hard inside, and makes good decisions when he gets the ball. He's been a real boost."

Stephens also is one of four returning linebackers that Harris spoke of with special words for their spring training. The others are middle linebacker George Bancroft, and outside linebackers Tony Kennedy and Marty Rice, as well as newcomers Emmitt Bartee and Manuel Ramirez.

"We're solid at linebacker, both starting and in our backups. Some of that is due to the fact that we've got some experience back there, too," Harris noted.

Those linebackers will continue to be heroes, especially if the defensive front continues to improve like Harris says they have. "We have made tremendous improvement on the defensive line. Going into spring, that was our biggest challenge, but we have emphasized a different style of play for them, one which we probably should have used last year," he mentioned.

Three of the Steers defensive backs return, (Bobby Earl Williams, Richard Evans and Rod Harris), but a newcomer that has caught Harris' eyes has been James Woodard, a cornerback. "He has really blossomed into something good. He's still not fundamentally as sound as he should be, but we know he can play," the Steer boss said.

One thing that local fans will probably notice in tonight's game is an improved passing game, something that was all but absent last fall.

Spence is throwing the ball with more authority and with greater understanding of the opposing defenses this fall, and that no doubt is something that will help take the burden off the Steers' running game.

Heading those running back positions tonight for the Gold will be Eric Sherman, Jesse Woodruff, Jim Eggleston and Stephens, while Richard Evans, a returning two-way strater, Bill Amos, Jim Gonzales and Jay Green will ramble for the Black team.

Harris will not coach tonight, rather leaving these assignments to his assistants in a chance to run their own show. The Black coaching staff consists of Tom Koger, Robin Wall, Fred Maples, Noel Pando, John Velasquez, Terry Brenner, Frank Ibarra and Bobby Zellars.

The Gold coaching staff will have the minds of Quinn Eudy, Larry Helton, Bob Purser, Dennis Launera, E.C. Robertson, Randy Britton, Jimmy Stringer, Jett Wilson and Patterson.

AIRBORNE — Lori Risenhoover, a freshman from Adams State College (Colorado), flies through the air during Women's Long Jump competition Thursday of the 30th Annual Mens and 1st Annual Womens NAIA Outdoor Track and Field Championships. Risenhoover's jump of 5.96 meters was the best of the meet as she tied two others for the honor. She placed third overall in the event as her 2nd best jump determined that.

Hangin Out with Nathan Poss Steer coach views spring pros, cons

It was the beginning of the end of the second spring training for BSHS Football Coach Ralph Harris, and as his assistants prepared to send their divided teams into one final preparation for tonight's Black vs. Gold intrasquad contest, the Steer grid boss reflected on what has and has not been accomplished in the past three weeks.

Coming into a situation last year that had seen the BSHS football team win only three games in four years, Harris and his staff helped direct a somewhat young team to a 3-7 record, including their first 5-A AAAA win in six years.

Things look bright for the coming year, with an abundance of starters returning. But as far as comparing last year's team with this year's concerning their respective spring training performances, Harris related that you really could not.

"Last year, we had a lot more false security. We had nothing to compare but ourselves. We knew we were making progress, and that's what people felt good about," said Harris.

"Now we have the opportunity to compare ourselves with something more telling," he continued. "Not only ourselves, but the people that we will be playing."

And that is very important, as Harris and his staff have made some adjustments, especially defensively, that should help the Steers have a better chance at winning this year.

The big defensive change is in the defensive front four, where the Steer defenders have been taught to play more of a physical, slow-reading style of play. Last year, as Harris explained, they in many times penetrated too much upfield, therefore running themselves out of position to make the play on the enemy ball carriers.

But to make the job of teaching the defensive front a little tougher, it was one of the few spots on the team that didn't have a bevy of returning experience.

The big returner, 210-pound Tony Molina, who bench presses 330 pounds, has done an excellent job in adjusting this spring, as have other front four members such as Bill Amos, Greg Scarbro, Mike Schuler and Donnie Pavlosky.

"We're asking them to hold everything up and not get blown off the line like we did many times up front last year," Harris noted. "We've got a lot of experience back at linebackers, and the improvement in the defensive line should help the linebackers be able to roam around and be more effective."

Offensively, the Steers emphasized the outside pitch off the option, and the passing game, during spring training.

"I'm real pleased in the progress in the passing game," said Harris, mentioning an area that was very ineffective last season. "We're still not a good passing team, but we've made enough improvement that if we get the running game going like we should, our passing game should be able to complement it and take some of the pressure off."

"We've looked great on the passing game during skeleton drills," Harris continued, "but our pass protection needs work. When we bring it all together (full team), we've had problems with it. But we're still making progress. Tracy (Spence) has really improved as a passer, and the young quarterbacks have really come along."

A very big, but in many times unsung part of any successful team is the offensive line. And with the Steers outstanding running backs in Richard Evans, Danny Stephens and the injured Bobby Earl Williams, that is very important.

"Our offensive line has been a big factor in a good spring training," Harris said. "We've seen some very good things. Our line is not tall, but they're strong physically. We still need to improve our foot quickness and pass protection, but we haven't been leaving people unblocked too often."

"Two areas that Harris feels improvement need to be made are in tackling, especially open field, and in the ever present area of numbers at BSHS in comparison to other 5-A AAAA teams."

"We haven't tackled as well as we should," the Steer coach noted. "We tackle too much out of control. There is no fear of stabbing somebody, or in pursuit or effort, though."

Big Spring will try to field varsity, JV and sophomore teams in the top three grades next year, something that might be hard to do with the 77 players out right now.

"We're disappointed in the lack of numbers," Harris pointed out. "We could have more out, but that wouldn't be fair to those that have stayed in the program all year and have been paying the price when it wasn't a lot of fun. You always get some late volunteers when the fun starts when you put the pads on, but we haven't allowed that this year. To me, it wouldn't seem fair to those that have worked together in the off-season the past year."

With both the pros and cons, Harris seemed happy with the way the team looks for the upcoming year. And when looking at the returners and some of the potential on the team, it is not false enthusiasm.

"We've got a bonafide shot to be in every game next year, with a chance to win every one of them. No one's going to be able to go in and have the attitude that 'if we play well, we'll beat Big Spring.' They might play well and not beat it! Big Spring this year," Harris said confidently. "But we need to keep people well to do that."

Roadrunner Classic tomorrow morning

The Second Annual Roadrunner Classic will be run Saturday as one of the many features of the Railroad Centennial, with officials hoping for a turnout similar to last year.

In the 1980 initial Roadrunner Classic, nearly 200 runners participated, ranging from the serious competitors to the run for fun joggers.

And as that is the case, there will be plenty of prizes in order to give most of the runners a chance at sharing in the awards.

There will be medals awarded for the first, second and third place male and female finishers in each of the six divisions. Those divisions include 12-and-under; 13-19; 20-29; 30-39; 40-49 and the Masters Division.

As well as the six divisions for both male and female, there will also be two different distances in which the runners may choose. One is a two-mile race, while the other is a five-mile course.

The event has both its origin and ending at the Comanche Trail Park Pavilion. Warm-up time is set for 8:00 a.m., with the first race beginning at 8:30 a.m. Entry fee is three dollars per person. Included in that fee is free Roadrunners Classic T-shirt to all pre-registered participants.

The event is being sponsored by the Herald, Big Spring Athletics and the YMCA.

Texas Sports Hall of Fame impressive

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — A lasting shrine to Texas' sports heroes becomes more than just a 32-year dream Saturday with a pennant-snipping which officially opens the doors of a unique $4.5 million facility.

Located just off the old turnpike (Interstate 30) in Grand Prairie midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, the Texas Sports Hall of Fame houses memorabilia from the lives of most of the 122 enshrinees. Golfer Ben Hogan has yet to donate any of equipment from his many major tournament triumphs.

The idea for a Texas Sports Hall of Fame was born in 1949 at the Texas High School Coaches Summer convention in Beaumont when Thad Johnson, then the sports editor of the Beaumont Enterprise, suggested it would be a good way to honor the state's athletic giants.

In 1961, baseball's Tris Speaker became the first inductee.

Some of the memorabilia in the building includes a photograph of Speaker with the 1920 World Champion Cleveland Indians, the golf clubs of the late Babe Didrikson, the riding gear of Willie Shoemaker, etc.

Race driver A.J. Foyt has donated the car in which he captured the Indianapolis 500 and Lee Trevino's homemade golf clubs from his first U.S. Open victory are on display along with all of footballer Bobby Layne's old trophies among other items in the two-story building.

There are four theaters for baseball, football, nostalgia and sports in general. Former Dallas Cowboy Don Meredith, an enshrinee himself, does the narration on one of the football films.

More than 100 persons can be seated on realistic football-style bleachers in the theater.

Baseball strike looks imminent

NEW YORK (AP) — On the anniversary of a marathon negotiating session which prevented a strike in 1980, baseball is just seven days away from another scheduled walkout which could shut down the sport.

The difference is that a year ago, management negotiator Ray Grebey was a lonesome voice of optimism surrounded by gloom. He kept declaring then that there would be no strike. This time, he's not so sure.

The two sides talked for the better part of 19 hours on deadline day last year before hammering out a settlement. But Grebey always felt there was room for a settlement then.

"There were 100 issues on the table then and, with that much room to move, it was unrealistic to be so certain there would be a strike," he said.

"But now, we have only one issue. I'm not optimistic about the situation. Right now, I'm very pessimistic."

Grebe went back to the bargaining table with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, today after both sides reported no progress Thursday.

The players reported no enthusiasm for changes in the compensation clause which management offered earlier this week.

Grebey would not term the changes a new proposal, describing them as "alternatives."

"What we said is we've taken our best shot, put all we have and all we know on the table," he said. "If they like it we'd be glad to substitute it for what is already in the basic agreement."

The players, however, don't like it.

"We need a workable definition of who's in the (ranking) group," said Miller. The players have offered a plan whereby no more than 5 percent of free agents would require compensation. The owners' plan calls for 50 percent.

"We're not saying our 5 percent is scientific or exact," Miller continued. "We are saying that 50 percent is absurd."

OUT OF THE LEAD — Golfer Bobby Clampett confers with PGA official Clyde Magnum, top photo, before blasting out of a sand trap on the 17th hole during first round action in the Memorial Tournament Thursday at Muirfield Village Golf Club in Dublin, Ohio. Clampett double-bogeyed the hole to drop out of the lead. He finished with a four under par 68 behind leader Mark Hayes who carded a 67.

For removing stone in weird scene

Clampett not penalized at Muirfield

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Bobby Clampett was sure he had broken one of golf's rules — you don't touch an obstruction in a hazard.

Clampett, who turned 21 a month ago today, flicked away a stone from a bunker at 17 at Muirfield Village at a time Thursday when he was the sole first-round leader in the $400,000 Memorial Tournament.

The Professional Golfers' Association Tour rookie got away with it because of what Clyde Magnum, Tour deputy commissioner, called odd circumstances.

Instead of taking an 8, slipping from 6-under to 2-under and three shots behind, Clampett was just one shot behind Mark Hayes heading into the second round today.

Hayes fashioned a 5-under-par 67, his best round ever in this six-year-old tournament. Clampett shared second with Tom Purtzer, D.A. Weibring and Larry Wadkins, clustered at 68.

"All I could tell myself when I left that (17th) green was, 'It's only a game,'" Clampett said. "I figured I had lost the ruling."

To aggravate his nerves, Clampett was forced to wait again on the 18th tee for a ruling involving the threesome in front of him.

He had waited another 15 minutes before playing out the 17th hole, leaving his third shot in the bunker, blasting onto the green and two-putting from 35 feet.

"It might have been the longest two holes I ever played," said Clampett, the low amateur in this international invitational a year ago.

Here was the scene on the 17th, a 430-yard-par-4:

Clampett and his playing partner, Mike Gove, both hit their approach shots in the back bunker a foot apart. Gove was away. He asked Clampett to mark his ball.

After holing his trap shot, Gove raked the bunker. Clampett was removing his marker and replacing his ball in the sand when he noticed a stone resting against his marker.

"It wasn't there on my original lie. Instinctively, I flicked it away," he said.

Clampett was positive he had broken the hazard rule and would draw a two-shot penalty. He asked for a ruling before he played his third shot.

Mangum, however, delayed his decision until he telephoned P.J. Boatright, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association in New Jersey.

"The rules of golf do not allow you to remove an obstruction in a hazard, but this was an odd situation. There was precedent that gives you relief in this situation," Mangum said.

"A player had pitched his wedge shot and his divot was thrown in a bunker and covered up another player's ball. In that case, he was allowed to remove the divot. In my mind, I couldn't separate a divot or a stone," said the PGA official.

Boatright agreed with Mangum that no penalty should be assessed.

"I learned a very important lesson from it," said Clampett, the winner of almost $60,000 in his first professional year. "I got a good lesson on the rules of golf."

Iron Men pitchers ready

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwest Conference champ Texas and Western Athletic Conference winner Brigham Young will match iron-men pitchers tonight as they begin a weekend of play that leads to a berth in the college baseball world series in Omaha.

The double-elimination NCAA Central Regionals opened today with hard-hitting Stanford, 40-20 and Pac-10 runnerup, playing Southland Conference champ Lamar, 53-24.

BYU Coach Gary Pullins said Peter Kendrick, 16-2, should be ready to go against the No. 5 Longhorns. Kendrick was the winner in both ends of a Monday doubleheader win over Hawaii for the WAC title.

"It should be exciting to see him against Tony Arnold," said Gilligan, adding that Kendrick would pitch only if he is "100 percent."

Arnold went 14 innings last Friday night against Rice in the SWC tournament. He shut out the Owls over the last 11, and Texas tied the game with two outs in the ninth. The Horns won the rain-delayed game 7-6 in the 20th inning on Saturday.

"There's no soreness and I'm well rested," said Arnold, 15-0.

The Cougars are sparked by an aggressive hitting attack, keyed by leadoff hitter Steve Campbell who hit seven game-opening home runs this year.

Indy 500 pulse slows as race nears

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The speeds at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway dropped drastically again today. The only activity on the track was the intermittent appearance of a jitney, a little white tour bus circling the 2½-mile track at about 20 mph, one-tenth the speed which will prevail Sunday.

On Indianapolis newspaper

AJ Foyt files suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt, angered by an article in the Indianapolis Star, has filed a $3 million libel suit against the newspaper claiming he was falsely accused of racing misconduct.

The four-time Indy winner claims in the suit filed Thursday that the story was defamatory, false and malicious libel that "was published solely to create animosity between the plaintiff and other race car drivers, to ridicule the plaintiff and amuse subscribers and readers."

He said in the petition that the story's author, Robin Miller, should have investigated the allegations, or, failing to do so, should have retracted them as requested by Foyt.

"The Star stands behind the column. We see no reason to retract it," Managing Editor Lawrence S. Connor said Thursday.

"We heard it (the filing of the suit) from the Houston paper, and then our attorneys called the law office there and they confirmed it was filed, but we haven't been served with it yet," said Connor.

The suit against Indianapolis Newspapers Inc. claimed animosity caused by the false accusations "could carry onto the race track and cause physical harm to the plaintiff."

The article recounted allegations that Foyt carried a nitrous oxide bottle, providing more engine power, in his driver's suit at the 1980 World Series of Auto Racing at Pocono, Ind.

The story also noted, among other allegations, charges that Foyt used an oversized engine at the 1973 Indianapolis 500 and used an oversized sprint engine at Pocono in 1974.

"Now, all of these alleged infractions have never been proven or even protested, but still have been the subjects of discussions among members of the immediate racing family," the newspaper article said.

Smashing NAIA track records

Barnett brothers tough

HOUSTON (AP) — Doug Barnett of Azusa Pacific College turned in a shocking performance—literally—in setting a hammer throw record at the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics national track and field meet.

Barnett, a 6-3, 245-pound junior, heaved the hammer 205-5 to break the existing eight-year old record and his brother Mike, a sophomore at Azusa, also set a meet record in the javelin Thursday night to highlight the opening of the three-day meet.

But the elder Barnett will also long remember one of his preliminary tosses that struck a live electrical wire in the infield creating an explosion and delaying the event 45 minutes.

"There was this cage in the middle of the field and this wire strung across the field," Barnett said, describing the scene at San Jacinto Junior College.

"When I threw the hammer, the chain wrapped around the wire and there was this huge explosion. My hammer was fused to the wire and there was a 45-minute delay."

Mike Barnett did not cause any explosions with his javelin loss of 255-8, but he did break a 23-year-old record of 251-8 set by Pacific Lutheran's John Fromm in 1958.

"I really wanted to break the record and I felt that I could," Mike Barnett said. "I knew I could get it if I threw up to my capabilities."

Gabe Paul greedy, even with Tribe

By the Associated Press

Gabriel, come blow your horn. Gabriel Howard "Gabe" Paul comes back to Yankee Stadium tonight — still as a friend, but mainly as a foe.

"The one thing I want in life at this late stage," says the president and chief executive officer of the Cleveland Indians, "is to win with this club."

Gabe doesn't mean win a few games, a series or even more than he loses. He wants to win it all — the American League pennant and the World Series — not unfamiliar territory.

Don't count him out. If not this year, maybe next or the year after. The Indians, in New York for a three-game series with the Yankees, are a fast-developing club. And they bear the thumbprint of a baseball architect who has learned the craft from the basement to the roof.

After leading the AL's Eastern Division through much of the first month and a half of the season, the Indians are now in a three-way dogfight with Earl Weaver's blast-hot Orioles and the resurging Yankees for the division's top spot.

It's admittedly the toughest division in all baseball, and you can cover the three main contenders with a postage stamp, with some of the mudlucage rubbing off on the Milwaukee Brewers.

As he watches proceedings, apparently from the cozy, catered, glassed-in box of Yankee owner George Steinbrenner, Gabe is certain to suffer mixed emotions.

He will be looking at the club which he has brought from next-to-last place in 1980 going against the powerful unit which he helped put together in concert with Steinbrenner before he returned to Cleveland at the start of the 1978 season.

Ex-SMU griddier turned sportswriter dies at 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Globe sportswriter Walter L. Haynes, who last month wrote about the cancer that was killing him in a piece entitled "One Last Shot," is dead at the age of 31.

Haynes, who died Thursday in Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md., wrote about the frustration and pain that cancer patients have to endure while hospitalized and undergoing treatment. The piece appeared in the April 26 edition of The Sunday Globe Magazine.

Haynes, a Little Rock, Ark., native, covered, among other things, the New England Patriots for the Globe, and once wrote of his experiences of "trying out" as a rookie for the National Football League team.

He also boxed one round with former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali for charity.

"I always thought he was a cross between George Plimpton and Dick Gregory. A dreamer who'd speak out," said Jerry Levas, a teammate of Haynes at Southern Methodist University and a former professional football player with Houston and San Diego.

"The thing about him was, though, that he was outspoken, but everybody liked him. He was gregarious, a terribly outgoing fellow. I'd get to meet people just because they'd met Walter," said Rufus Cormier, who with Haynes and Levas were the only three black football players in the whole Southwest Conference in the late 1960s.

The sleek, shrieking machines which made brief — and uneventful — appearances on the track Thursday for the drivers' final practice sessions were cradled in their Gasoline Alley garages. Their mechanics and crews spent the day looking for the extra bit of horsepower, the extra inch of mileage for Sunday's 65th running of the Indianapolis 500.

Saturday, too, the track activity will be limited to more tinkering and a perfunctory appearance by the drivers. It is called a meeting. It is, in fact, another moment of pre-race hype. It is a class picture, as it were, of 33 men sitting on a three-tiered bench, hearing from chief steward Tom Binford instructions they all have heard before.

Bobby Unser had no problem reaching back for something extra during Thursday's runs. Unser, owner of the inside front-row position with his qualifying run of 200.546 miles an hour, put in the day's fastest practice lap, 197.413 in his Penske PC-98.

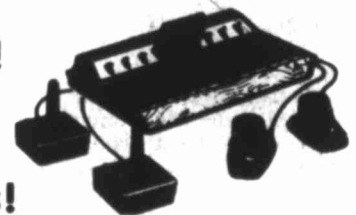

Johnny Rutherford, the defending champion gunning for a fourth victory here, and Mario Andretti, whose car was qualified by Wally Dallenbach and who therefore will start in the last row, each surpassed 193 mph in practice laps.

Jerry Karl didn't get in any laps in his McLaren with the stock-block Chevrolet engine. He was busy, shortly before practice began, being hauled away from the track in handcuffs.

Karl was arrested on contempt-of-court citation.

BASEBALL

By the Associated Press

It was a long time between wins for Doug Rau — two years and 10 days — but it was worth waiting for.

The 32-year-old left-hander's career appeared to be history when he was released by the Los Angeles Dodgers over the winter after more than a year of recuperation from rotator cuff surgery. He had not won a game since May 11, 1979.

But the California Angels, desperate for pitching, gave him a shot in the minors and brought him up earlier this month. Rau paid his first dividend Thursday night, yielding five hits in five innings — no walks, one strikeout — in the Angels' 2-0 triumph over Baltimore that snapped the Orioles' eight-game winning streak.

"I don't expect any great things," Rau said. "The best thing that could have happened was to get on the 'W' side of the ledger. I didn't have great stuff, but it was better than I had in Detroit." The Tigers shelved him in the fourth inning last Saturday.

Thursday's major league schedule was a slim one but it was a day for streaks. In other American League action, the Boston Red Sox extended Oakland's losing streak to eight games by blanking the A's 3-0. Milwaukee pounded Minnesota 8-2 — the Brewers have won six straight, the Twins have dropped eight in a row — and the Seattle Mariners downed the Cleveland Indians 6-3.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs, who had lost eight in a row, trimmed the Cincinnati Reds, who had won eight straight, 5-1 and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Houston Astros 3-1.

"I tried to convince myself that I would get back last year, but I was fooling myself," said Rau, who sat out the 1980 season. "I was depressed and disappointed when the Dodgers let me go. I wasn't bitter, but I was confused why they didn't give me through spring training this year instead of releasing me in February after being with the organization 11 years."

Baltimore pitching coach Ray Miller said Rau "spotted the ball well in the first three innings. In the last two, he got the ball up and we hit it hard. He looks like a guy coming off of arm trouble, but he has experience and poise and could help that club."

Don Aase worked the last four innings to pick up his fourth save.

Red Sox 3, A's 0
Jim Rice lined a three-run homer with none out in the ninth inning and Dennis Eckersley pitched a two-hitter and struck out 12.

Oakland's Brian Kingman scattered five hits before faltering in the ninth. Dwight Evans led off with a single and Carl Yastrzemski, after failing to sacrifice, also singled. Rice then drilled the next pitch for his fifth homer.

Brewers 8, Twins 2
Gorman Thomas drove in five runs with a pair of homers, his 10th and 11th of complete game of the season, and the third of the season for the Cubs' beleaguered pitching staff. The triumph was only the sixth of the season for the Cubs, who have lost 27.

Cardinals 3, Astros 1
Rookie John Martin fired a four-hitter and the Cardinals converted four hits and two Houston errors into a 3-1 victory. Martin, a 25-year-old left-hander who started the season in the minors, outdueled Nolan Ryan, who left after 62-3 innings.

"He (Martin) had more complete games than anybody in our organization," Manager Whitey Herzog said. "His chances of pitching a complete game were good because we didn't have Bruce (Sutter), we didn't have Jim (Kaat) and we had a tired bullpen."

It was Martin's first start since the Cards called him up from Springfield of the American Association on "I think I sawed off a few bats," Martin said. "My fastball was running in a little bit and my slider was running in on the right-handed hitters. I think I had a little bit of adrenalin going."

High interest rates bring firms down

Going under is latest business trend

By FLOYD MORRIS
Associated Press Writer
Business has not been good for the last year, but Jack Davidson thinks his truck and farm equipment dealership could have survived if it weren't for high interest rates.
"We've paid 17 to 23 percent to borrow over the last year," said the president of Jackson Kitchel Inc. of Logansport, Ind. "With inventory that you can't sell, it becomes too expensive."
As a result, the International Harvester dealer is closing its doors today after 33 years in business.
Davidson is not alone. So far this year, 5,885 businesses have failed, up 47 percent from a year ago. And 1980 was the worst year since 1967 for business failures, according to Dun & Bradstreet Corp., which keeps track of such things.

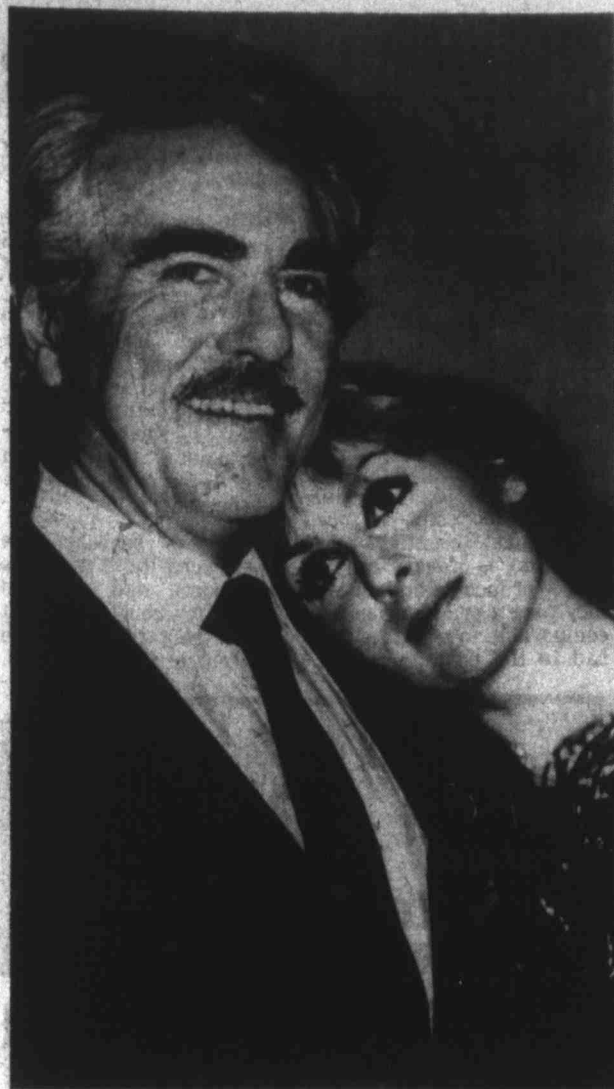

The 58-year-old Davidson is proud that he is leaving behind no debts, that neither suppliers nor customers will lose money.
"We wanted not to hurt anybody," he said, adding: "We're turning 38 people into a job market in which there are very few jobs."
The rising tide of business failures comes at a time when the economy apparently has been growing rapidly. The government says the economy grew at an annual rate of 8.4 percent in the first three months of the year, the highest rate in nearly three years.
But that growth has been uneven, and it followed a year that included a recession and finished with almost no growth.
"There are a lot of pockets of weakness in the economy," said Thomas Thomson, the chief economist of Crocker National Bank in San Francisco. "We really have several economies."

He says that while such businesses as oil drilling have never been better, "automobiles and housing are in a deep recession." Such industries as appliances and home furnishings have been hurt by the housing slump. Regionally, the Rocky Mountain area is booming while the industrial Midwest has major problems.
There were 434 business failures last week, the highest weekly total in 20 years, according to Dun & Bradstreet, and 68 percent more than a year earlier.
Some of those failures can be traced to last year's economy. "It takes some time before the failures come in," said Rowena Wyant, a vice president in

Dun & Bradstreet's business economics department. "Retail firms tried to last through the end of the year, to see if Christmas would pull them out."
Raymond "Buddy" Sheely ran one such retail operation, a small department store in Elizabeth City, N.C., that was started by his grandfather 78 years ago. It closed in February.
"Things were tightening up," said the 53-year-old Sheely, who notes that there had been layoffs at a local lumber mill and says his problems were aggravated by a new suburban shopping mall that hurt all downtown businesses.
While there are usually dozens of reasons for the failure of an individual company, ranging from bad management to bad luck, the increase in failures can be traced in significant part to high interest rates. Davidson, who hopes to start a business to repair farm equipment, said he thinks those rates provided a double whammy for his business. Not only did it cost much more for him to borrow, but his customers stayed away because they couldn't afford finance charges. His sales fell from $8 million in 1979 to $7 million last year, despite higher prices.

High interest rates have affected all companies, but small ones are in some ways more vulnerable because they usually cannot sell stock to the public or borrow from anyone but a bank.
"Big firms can hold out. Some small ones can't, and they can't make the payments," said Rachel Balbach, an economist with the First National Bank of St. Louis. Big companies frequently can negotiate to borrow from banks at less than the prime lending rate, which is now 20 percent. But small companies often are charged rates higher than the prime.

"We've had companies tell us that they had to fire people to get the cash to pay loans," said William Dunkelberg, an economics professor at Purdue University and a consultant to the National Federation of Independent Business, a trade group for small companies. His survey says 44 percent of its members had to borrow money in the first quarter.
Most economists, including those in the Reagan administration, think the economy will not grow as rapidly for the rest of the year as it did in the first three months. Some expect another recession.

Chavez testifies in own defense in murder trial

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Closing arguments were scheduled for today in the trial of Richard Chavez on a charge of attempted murder in the wounding of Steve Prewit in a Aug. 13, 1980, shootout at a Pecos drive-in restaurant.

Chavez, 24, of Pecos testified in his own defense as testimony ended in the trial, which began Monday. The trial is being held in El Paso on a change of venue from Pecos.

Chavez's voice broke with emotion as he recounted the House against paramilitary schooling

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members quickly approved Thursday, without comment, a bill to outlaw military training camps operated to create civil disorder.

"This would be aimed at these paramilitary camps," said Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston.

There have been recent reports of Ku Klux Klan training camps in various parts of the state which taught use of weapons and military tactics.

The bill, which needs a final House vote before going to the Senate, would make it a felony, with fines up to $20,000 and 20 years in prison to assemble persons for training with weapons if there were indications the persons intended to create a civil disorder.

The bill would prohibit carrying a weapon in a procession with exemptions for persons in historical reenactments, members of the armed forces or National Guard, prison guards or on-duty police officers.

In another action Thursday, the House gave preliminary approval to another bill that would allow peace officers to carry weapons at all times. Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, said a police officer is considered on duty whenever present where a crime is being committed, whether in uniform or not.

shootout at a Pecos drive-in restaurant that left his brother, David, 20, his friend, Jaime Villareal, 24, and Clifton Glenn, 24, dead. Prewit, 22, was wounded in both arms in the gun battle.

Chavez testified that he and four Mexican-American friends approached Glenn, Prewit and David Armstrong, 18, after Glenn pointed a rifle at the nearby Chavez residence and shouted obscenities.

He said Glenn pointed the rifle at Villareal and said, "I'm going to blow you away" several times. Chavez said he ran to Villareal's car and was returning with an AR-15 rifle when Glenn shot Villareal and David Chavez.

He said he shot Glenn several times because "it was dark. I didn't know if I had hit him."

As he was shooting Glenn, he said, Prewit fired a shot from a pistol that whistled past his head.

"I don't know how me missed me, but I turned and fired some shots at him," Chavez said. Prewit was hit with three shots.

Earlier in the day, Prewit testified that he never had a pistol at the drive-in restaurant.

Prewit said he had gone to the drive-in expecting trouble because his friends and the Mexican-Americans had exchanged words earlier in the evening.

"They said there were some people giving them trouble and stuff and they wanted me to stick around," Prewit said.

Prewit said Villareal hit Glenn with a club and Glenn fired into the air as he staggered backward. He said Chavez then shot Glenn, who killed Villareal and Chavez as he collapsed to the ground.

Prewit said he tried to take the gun away from Chavez and was shot himself.

Defense attorney Richard Abalos of Odessa also called to the stand Jesus Chavez, 60, of Pecos, who is no relation to the Chavez family, but was at their home that night.

Jesus Chavez said he saw a man standing near the Anglo group's car, firing a pistol. He said he did not see what happened to the man, however.

Reeves County Prosecutor Jack McGowan, who is prosecuting the case, tested Jesus Chavez' vision in the courtroom, but the man passed the test.

Police did not recover a pistol from the scene of the gun battle, but Prewit said under questioning that he did own a .22-caliber revolver.

Bentsen says Reagan misjudged SS plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan may have assumed that the national acceptance that greeted his spending cuts would carry over to his recommendations on slicing Social Security benefits, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says.

If so, it became quickly evident he had misjudged the situation, Bentsen said Thursday at his monthly news conference.

"I think they presented this proposal without a lot of thought, obviously, when you saw it rejected unanimously by a vote of the Senate," by Democrats and Republicans," Bentsen said.

"And they're going to have to do a better job of consulting, trying to work out something that is acceptable than they did in this particular instance," he added.

"I understand the chairman of the Finance Committee, which has the responsibility for it, didn't find out about it until the day before it was announced. Obviously, it was a very inept proposal."

Some changes are going to have to be made in the Social Security program to keep the fund solvent, Bentsen said Thursday, but he criticized as "unduly harsh" the early retirement penalty the president recommended last week.

Bentsen said he will wait until the Senate holds hearings on the matter to decide his position on changes in the Social Security program.

He agreed that benefits may have to be lowered eventually for those who retire before 65, "but to say you're going to start next year, people who've already made up their minds to retire, and cut that retirement from 80 percent to 55 percent if they retire early... is unduly harsh."

"And when you take a look at the overall proposal and find that they had gone far beyond what was necessary to keep the fund solvent — far, far beyond — and that in effect they were using some of the additional amount to help balance the budget, I think that's improper utilization of Social Security."

The outcry among Social Security recipients in Texas generated more phone calls to his district offices than any other issue of the past two years, Bentsen said.

"The people are voicing deep concern and worry about their benefits and what's going to happen to their monthly payments," he said.

"I'm telling them that a great deal of the information they've been getting is misinformation, and that so far as that part that would make a substantial cut in their retirement next year, I oppose that. And as to taking away the minimum payment, I oppose that."

On other topics, Bentsen said:

— the suggestion by Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas, that Bentsen is the most liberal senator in the South "is obviously not correct. I think that would come as a great surprise to some of the senators in the South who consider that title theirs."

Bentsen said Collins is one of several who has considered running against him next year and that he expects several opponents. Asked whether he thinks Gov. Bill Clements will oppose him, he replied: "I don't expect that, but you ought to ask him, not me."

— the state's peanut farmers have "a real problem" with the agriculture bill. "We have places competing with the South, places like Georgia, and yet for some of our agricultural counties that (peanuts) is a very major source of income and unless they have a peanut program comparable to what they've had in the past, there are obviously going to go out of business."

— it would be "a serious mistake" for Congress to reverse itself on the budget cuts it approved by adding money to programs later in the session. "Inflation is the most difficult problem we have in the country today. We've just got to get it under control. ... These cuts have been painful, they've been difficult, but overall they've been necessary."

— Texas schools have experienced less problems than some had expected because of a court ruling that forced them to accept the children of illegal aliens.

GO WHERE THE ENERGY IS

No one is sure whether Hiram Hegarman built the dam — it may have been there before his time. The lake has given its own legacy of refreshing beauty to the country-side.

But Hiram built his mill by the waterfall — where the energy was. There he and his sons spent most of a century grinding corn for their neighbors.

His descendants remember Hiram as "a God-fearing man." Not surprising, of course... you'd expect a man who goes where the energy is to have a deep respect for the Source of all energy.

Think about building your life... your family's future... close to the spiritual resources of your church or synagogue. Go where the Energy is!

Prince presented Good News Bible

NEW YORK — His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was presented with the 750,000th Australian copy of the Good News Bible, the Bible in Today's English Version, at a recent ceremony in Canberra, the nation's capital city.

Prince Charles, heir to the Royal throne of England was guest at the national headquarters of the Bible Society in Australia where he received the inscribed Bible.

Mary Hughes, National Youth Officer for the Australian Bible Society presented the Bible bound in Australia's green and gold colors.

On receiving the Bible the Prince, seeing a large crowd of people including Canberra, tourists and media, observed, "they have never had such a long queue for Bibles before."

As a surprise gift, a Good News Bible bound in white was given to the Prince for his bride-to-be, Lady Diana Spencer.

The Good News Bible, first published by the American Bible Society, has sold more than 11.5 million copies since it appeared in 1976. It is distributed in English-speaking countries throughout the world.

The American Bible Society, founded in 1816, is a nonprofit, interconfessional organization whose sole purpose is the translation, publication and distribution of the Holy Scriptures without doctrinal note or comment.

MUSICAL FAMILY — Jerry Wayne Bernard, center, flanked by four daughters who will sing with him Sunday morning and evening at the Fourth Street Baptist Church.

East Fourth Baptist Church presents Jerry Wayne Bernard

Jerry Wayne Bernard, well-known Bible Teacher-Evangelist-Singer, is to be with East Fourth Street Baptist Church for both the morning and evening services Sunday. He will be preaching at the morning service as well as ministering in song, and will have a full hour concert of sacred music Sunday evening.

The morning service begins at 11 and the evening service at 6. Singing with him at both services will be his four daughters, Robyn and Crystal, who are students at Baylor University, Waco, and Scarlett and Angelique, grade school students.

Born at Pilot Point in 1937, Bernard was adopted by Floyd and Alice Bernard. He was saved at age 11 and surrendered to preach at age 17. He was ordained as a Southern Baptist minister in 1958, and attended Baylor University 1955-59. He and Gaylon Fussell were married in 1958. He served as Music Director and Associate Pastor in several Texas Baptist churches from 1968 to 1969, including Valley View Baptist Church, Longview, Miller Road Baptist Church, Garland and Broadway Baptist Church, Houston.

Bernard was co-founder and director of Houston's first drug rehab center in 1963, Teen-Liberators. He served as vice-president of Ambassadors for Christ and Country from 1968-1975 and as a Trustee of Broadway Baptist School from 1969-1972.

Bernard has recorded 17 long-playing albums for Lamb Records, Rainbow Records and Skylight Records. He has traveled in over 20 foreign countries preaching and singing the Gospel of Jesus Christ. He served as soloist for the 1978 Presidential National Prayer Breakfast in Washington, D.C. He has ministered in over 700 revivals, crusades and concerts. Many in Big Spring will remember him as the Evangelistic Singer at a city-wide crusade held in the Amphitheatre in the summer of 1979.

Bernard appears on the Sunday morning Channel 39 T.V. Paul Stevens Program in Houston, and each week on T.V. in Indianapolis, Ind.; Hollywood, Fla. and South Bend, Ind. He also appears weekly on 105 cable T.V. across America. He was invited by the president of Evangelical Christian-Baptists of USSR in Moscow, U.S.S.R., Andrei E. Kimimendo, to preach and sing for the Baptist Christians there in 1978. He was nominated Best Male Singer by Gospel Music Association, Nashville, Tenn. in 1981.

Bernard says, "The great satisfaction and feeling of fulfillment of our work is the large response to our Bible studies and concerts during each crusade."

Local minister attends Dr. Peale's school in N.Y.

PAWLING, N.Y. — The Rev. Herbert C. McPherson of the Calvary Baptist Church, 1200 W. 4th, was among more than 100 members of the clergy who attended a recent School of Practical Christianity conducted by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and his wife, Ruth Stafford Peale.

This was the 16th session held in this Berkshire community since the school was begun in 1975 to offer practical support to pastors who felt isolated in their pulpits. The program featured discussions of nearly every aspect of parish life: sermon content and delivery, lay activities, filling community needs, the role of the minister's wife and the organization of small-group activities.

Under Dr. and Mrs. Peale's leadership, the faculty of clergy and lay people from churches in cities, towns and rural areas joined the participants in wide-ranging discussions both structured and informal. Dr. Peale shared his insights as a clergyman with the visitors, while Mrs. Peale met with wives to discuss some of their common problems.

A total of more than 2,000 clergy and spouses from nearly every state as well as Scotland, England, Germany, the Bahamas and Indonesia have attended sessions of the School of Practical Christianity, which is sponsored by the Foundation for Christian Living. This is a nonprofit, nonsectarian organization established by Dr. and Mrs. Peale 41 years ago.

Most of the sessions of the most recent school were held at the Holiday Hills YMCA Conference Center in Pawling, a short distance from the Foundation for Christian Living's world headquarters. Regular mailings of inspirational literature are sent to nearly 800,000 people in 120 countries from here.

The Foundation also distributes a weekly column, THERE'S AN ANSWER!, by Dr. and Mrs. Peale to more than 600 newspapers with nearly 28,000,000 readers. Before leaving for their homes, the participants in the School of Practical Christianity traveled to New York to attend a service at Marble Collegiate Church conducted by Dr. Peale.

Contractor retires to become a priest

WARMINSTER, Pa. (AP) — Retired contractor Eugene McCarty spent a lifetime building a family and a career. Now, at 72, he's ready to begin a new life as a Catholic priest, ordained in a church he helped build.

And sitting in the pews of the Nativity of Our Lord church during his recent ordination were his 10 children and 19 of his 22 grandchildren.

"I'm 72 years young and I have my ambitions yet," the blue-eyed, burly McCarty said recently.

Becoming a priest is fulfillment of a lifelong dream McCarty gave up 32 years ago to get married and have a family.

A native of Altoona, Pa., McCarty attended a Catholic preparatory school in New York and was a novice in a seminary for a year before he was forced to return home to help support his family after his father's death.

After five years in Altoona, the seminary refused to readmit him, and his parish priest advised him to give up the priesthood and get married.

Because of the Depression, McCarty and his wife, Marjorie, came to Philadelphia in 1940 with their three children. He took a job as a paper hanger, eventually building up his contracting business.

Supervising construction of the Nativity of Our Lord church was one of his projects 18 years ago.

"Because my wife was still living, I never gave it (the priesthood) a thought," said McCarty. "I said, 'Don't worry, we'll both die the same day.' But she died, and this (entering the priesthood) is better than sitting in a rocking chair waiting for the undertaker."

Following his wife's death in 1977, McCarty decided to seek the priesthood, but his attempts to get into a seminary were rebuffed.

"They already had lots of old priests in nursing homes and didn't want another one, I guess," McCarty said.

He eventually found a seminary in Milwaukee, a sponsoring bishop in Dallas and finally, two years later, a new career as a priest.

McCarty has been assigned to work with nursing home residents in the Dallas diocese.

"I don't mind leaving (Warminster), not when I'm doing something I like to do," said McCarty. "Maybe it's the fact that four of my children live in Dallas."

"I have a lot of good friends down there and here...it (moving to Texas) will keep cobwebs off the mailbox."

BABY PARADE — Lathaisa Hurrington, Mt. Bethel Baby of the Year, (l) Channing James, second runner-up and Charles E. Tate Jr., third runner-up.

Baby Parade at Mt. Bethel Church nets three winners Sunday night

The Sunday School and Training Union of Mt. Bethel Baptist Church sponsored a "baby parade" in the Fellowship Hall last Sunday evening at 7 p.m. This project was conducted by the training union, director Mrs. Faye Warner, and the Sunday School superintendent, Ivory Harper. The Rev. F. Nelson is the pastor.

Charles E. Tate Jr., was sponsored by his father, Charles E. Tate Sr.

Nicole Woodruff was sponsored by her grandmother, Cynecether Woodruff.

Zephani Gaston was sponsored by his mother, Zassar Gaston.

Channing James was sponsored by his cousin, Faye Warner.

Roandrea Glover was sponsored by her grandmother, Rosetta Nelson.

Lathaisa Hurrington was sponsored by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Isaiah.

Kevin Boyce was sponsored by a friend, Ivory Harper and Nadia Cole was also sponsored by a friend, Jo Smith.

James Woodruff served as photographer. He made several poses of each contestant as they promenade down the aisle. The photo of the winner will be framed and placed on the bulletin board in the annex.

The "baby parade" was narrated by Mrs. Charlene Voorhies, youth directress. She related interesting data along with hobbies, habits, talents and traits of each young tot as he entered the march with his sponsor. At the end of the march, a sealed envelope containing the monies raised by each tot was turned in to the finance committee.

Proceeds from the financial drive will be used to pay expenses of the youth delegation to the Original West Texas Baptist Sunday School & Training Union Congress which will be held in Fort Worth June 8-12. The youths will attend June 11 on "Youth Day."

The winner who raised the highest amount of money was Lathaisa Hurrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurrington. She was named "Mt. Bethel Baby of the Year." Second runner-up was Channing James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar James; Third runner-up was Charles Earl Tate, son of Shirley Tate and Charles Tate.

Rev. Calvin Lorts will speak here three nights

Christ's Fellowship Church will have as their special speaker, Calvin Lorts. He will be speaking on Sunday 7 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The church is located at FM Rd. 700 and 11th Place.

Cal Lorts is from Casa Grande, Ariz. He is a pastor of the 91st Psalm Ministries Church in Casa Grande. He is a charter class RHEMA graduate from Tulsa, Okla. Personal ministering in Pastor Cal, he presents the faith message on a practical plane. He preaches the gospel in a manner where God's people can apply it to their daily lives, enabling them to the fullness of God.

Come and hear what God can do for you. You'll be blessed. Nursery will be provided.

REV. AND MRS. CALVIN LORTS

Mrs. Angel to give book review

Annie Matt Angel will present a book review on the theme "Love Made Visible" at the United Methodist Women's Spring Extravaganza Tuesday morning at 9.

All women are invited to the Continental Breakfast at 9 in Garrett Hall preceding the program featuring Charles Farham at the organ, an outstanding book review and Penny Hollar singing special musical selections.

Mrs. Angel is taking her review from three books, "Lord Let Me Love" and "Hold Me a Little Longer, Lord" by Marjorie Holmes and Thomas Mullen's book, "Birthdays, Holidays and Other Disasters".

For the luncheon, all are asked to share their favorite salads and enjoy the fellowship of other beautiful Christian women. Don't miss this opportunity to be inspired and uplifted.

Protestant seat holders in Congress are gradually decreasing in number

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious affiliation apparently is an asset nowadays in winning a seat in the U.S. Congress. Indications are it usually has been, at least in the past for Protestants, but this time the figures suggest it across-the-board.

In the 97th Congress, both Roman Catholics and Jews have increased their share of seats, as they have generally over the last decade. Both now hold a slightly greater share of seats than their proportion of the population.

So also do Protestants, but shrinkingly and only as compared to active membership.

In short, the situation now is that for Catholics and Jews as well as Protestants, a bigger percentage of winners claim religious affiliation than is recorded for the population, implying a plus factor about it now in all three cases in gaining office.

While Protestants still strongly predominate in the present Congress, it's to a steadily lesser degree. They hold 355 or nearly 67 percent of the 535 seats.

But their proportion gradually has declined for the past decade, dropping from a total of about 400 seats, or 74 percent of them, in that period, and down this time a fraction of a percent through loss of nine seats.

In contrast through that period, Roman Catholics and Jews have increased their seats. With their gains this fall, Roman Catholics now hold an all-time high of 135 seats, or 25 percent of the total. This is up by 3 percent — 20 seats — over the decade, up six seats this time.

The number of Jews has more than doubled in a decade to a record 33 seats, about 6 percent of the total, with three additional seats won this time.

The breakdown of religious affiliation was compiled by the evangelical fortnightly, Christianity Today, which in recent years has regularly kept tab on the religious balance in Congress.

Expo challenges stewardship

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Protestants and Roman Catholics are cooperating to provide a "theological presence" at the 1982 International Energy Exposition here and to challenge visitors to be responsible stewards of God's creation.

Theme of the world fair, which is expected to attract millions of visitors between

May 1 and Oct. 31, 1982, will be "Energy Turns the World."

The Rev. Harold K. Bales, a United Methodist official of Nashville, has been named director of the fair's ecumenical project, which will involve an exhibit hall providing a short film and stewardship.

'Terrorism runs amok' says Notre Dame president

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A fury seems loose in the world, many church leaders and others say, a kind of violent contagion, random, irrational, circulating unpredictably.

The sense of it was sharpened by the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II, following so soon after the shooting attack on President Reagan, and a long, swelling chain of other aimless acts of violence in many forms and places.

"We see terrorism run amok," says the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame.

Yes, many agree, but why? What's behind it? "We wonder what sort of madness is abroad in the world," says Cardinal Gerald Emmet Carter of Toronto. Where are all the crazy blasters coming from?

The Rev. Joseph F.

Woiwiak of Thomas, W. Va., a long-time friend of the pope and a fellow Pole, shattered by the attack on the pope, says, "Our times are very marked with the fury of evil, organized evil." Yet the shootings, forays and bombings usually appear so directionless, without specific military, ideological or other objectives, and merely for shock and attention.

So it was with the latest assaults and so it was with the bombing murder of Britain's Lord Mountbatten, the killing of Italy's Aldo Moro, Ireland's Sir Norman Stronge, the nuns and U.S. agricultural specialists in El Salvador and a host of others, coupled with seizures and sometimes slaying of innocent hostages on planes, from mission stations and embassies.

Sad to say, such actions "have become commonplace in our time," says Archbishop Raymond G.

Hunthausen of Seattle. A Phoenix, Ariz., pastor, the Rev. Robert Alvarado, adds, "It's the world we live in."

But why is it now "such a violent world?" asks Bishop Maurice Bingham of Des Moines. "I think each one of us should ask ourselves that question."

Poet-playwright Archibald MacLeish of Conway, Mass., says the modern generation has become "degraded by a clatter of unmeaning pain." Unlike the past, he says, the modern assassins are not after some tyrant or other cause, nor even mad, but only fools.

Elie Wiesel, a Jewish survivor of the Holocaust and author of haunting reminiscences about it, sees an "explosion of many dark, subterranean forces" at work, a spreading nihilism.

"It is the age of violence and now the violence is reaching into the highest places," he says.

Master plan of Methodists is answer to church growth

HOUSTON (UMN) — New United Methodist churches spring up in the population-expanding Houston area are not due primarily to the influx of people but rather to the church's strategy, according to the denomination's chief official here.

"Church growth is not accidental," said Bishop Finis A. Crutchfield, leader of the Houston area for the past four years. "We have a master plan and motivation for church growth. Responsibility is assigned at every level of the denomination, from the local church to the district to the bishop."

Since 1976 the Houston area — which also includes a swath of East Texas going north to Texarkana — has grown by 15,141 new members and 15 new congregations. For a denomination that nationwide has lost membership for the past decade, those figures are impressive.

Each of the last four years the Houston area has set an example for the 9.1 million-member denomination by its evangelistic emphasis, recording gains in 1976 of 2,590 new members. In 1977 — 2,975, in 1978 — 3,178, and in 1979 — 3,568. Although the figures for 1980 will not be available until later this year, officials expect another significant increase.

In addition to the 15 newly organized congregations which are predominantly white, the denomination has also established a new Korean congregation in Houston, two new Hispanic churches, and is sponsoring an interfaith Laotian congregation. Of the 15 new congregations, 11 are in Houston, with one each in Longview, College Station and south of Beaumont.

The idea of congregational growth is simple: place churches where people are building new homes, claimed Dr. Charles Williams, who helped guide the strategy for the past four years as area Provost officer. "We've done better in the last four years than in the previous 10. Until 1976, we hadn't started a new church in 10 years," said Dr. Williams, presently superintendent of the East Houston District, headquartered in Baytown.

The blue print for the effort was developed by a Blue Ribbon Committee of some 60 persons, mostly laypersons, Dr. Williams said. They designed a comprehensive plan for evangelism and new church growth in which every church and every member could participate. One of the emphases of the plan was that every local church make worship meaningful, he said, "so when visitors come they would have a good experience." The plan also called for religious surveys of neighborhoods and the visiting of new residents.

"Perhaps the main part of the plan is simply getting people aware of their responsibility to reach new people for Jesus Christ," said Dr. Williams.

Church growth results additionally from the selection of the right person for the right job, believes Bishop Crutchfield. He praised the 12 persons who work with him, denominational officials called district superintendents who supervise the work of a geographical grouping of anywhere from 40 to 80 churches. "The key is to have a district superintendent who really cares, who wants the church to grow. Then to find pastors of profound Christian experience," said the bishop.

Black United Methodist congregations, however, are not growing "by leaps and bounds," admits the bishop. "But their growth is solid."

One church that has doubled its membership in the past two years is a former all-white congregation that now has a black pastor, said Bishop Crutchfield. The Rev. Ernest McGowan came to Wesley Church in north Houston three years ago and now the congregation consists of both black and white members.

80 Texas inmates moved into U.S. Army tenting

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Prison officials who say they are trying to comply with a federal court order to relieve overcrowding ordered the first 80 inmates to move into temporary housing today — U.S. Army tents draped over wooden frames.

Prison spokesman Rick Hartley said that by June 1, the Texas Department of Corrections hopes to have 165 of the eight-man shelters erected within the prison's 16 all-male units.

"We've got 3,000 people sleeping on the floor. As you can see, these tents provide a lot more liveable conditions," Hartley said Thursday as he showed a group of reporters several of a dozen shelters set up at the Diagnostic Unit a mile north of Huntsville.

Tents borrowed from the Texas National Guard serve as ceilings over the plywood-walled and -floored shelters, and the sides of the tents can be unrolled to cover screened windows in case of rain.

Hartley said the 16-foot by 32-foot shelters would give each man inside 64 square feet of living space.

The TDC is under federal court order to stop housing three men to a cell by Aug. 1, and the state corrections system must put only one inmate per 45 square-foot cell by August 1983.

There are more than 31,000 inmates in the Texas prison system, Hartley said.

Twelve shelters were ordered pressed into service today — 10 as dormitories and two, equipped with plumbing, as washrooms.

Hartley said concertina wire was added to the top of one of two 12-foot fences around the prison unit to discourage escape attempts, since technically, the prisoners in tents will not be behind bars.

Shelters were being erected at three other units, and Hartley said they would later be put into several other compounds.

The pine structures, resembling shelters at a summer camp, were built by inmate labor, but of half a dozen convicts involved in the project, none said he wanted to live in the tents.

Hartley described the tents as "open and roomy" and said "many of our men in the armed services never had living conditions anywhere near this."

But he said he knew of no prisoner who had volunteered to sleep in the tents.

Steven Anthony, 30, of Beaumont, who was convicted of stabbing a man to death, said he would not volunteer to sleep in the tents.

"They are just gonna be too hot in the summer time, and the bugs are going to be bad — the mosquitoes are already bad."

Hartley said summer heat would be no more a problem in the shelter than it is in the cells.

"None of our units are air conditioned. It gets hot in the buildings also," he said.

"If the convicts have to spend the winter in the tents, the flaps are weather-proof" and Hartley said they would be warm enough inside.

Letterman wins Daytime Emmy

NEW YORK (AP) — David Letterman, whose daytime series, "The David Letterman Show," was canceled by NBC several months ago, has been honored as the season's top variety show host during ceremonies for presentation of the Daytime Emmy Awards.

"Obviously, there's been some sort of mixup here," Letterman cracked as he took his award Thursday — one of three given NBC programs and performers.

Letterman's was not the only canceled show to win an award. ABC's "$20,000 Pyramid" was honored twice, once as the outstanding game show and once for direction. Peter Marshall of NBC's "The Hollywood Squares," which leaves the air this year after 15 seasons, was cited as the outstanding game show host.

ABC, the dominant network in daytime, had the most nominees — 35 in 13 categories — and won the most Emmys — seven. CBS had five, syndicated shows received two other Emmys, for supporting actress and direction, more than any other single program.

Douglas Watson, Mac Cory on NBC's "Another World," was cited as the outstanding actor in a daytime series, and Judith Light, Karen Wolek on "One Life to Live," the outstanding actress.

Vietnamese refugee defeats 188 Texans in spelling bee

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Vietnamese refugee has defeated 188 Texans to represent a 14-county area and advance to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C. next month.

"English isn't hard to learn," professes Huan Nguyen, who spoke no English when he arrived in the United States six years ago.

Huan, 11, mastered the English language in a short period of time has been made an issue locally in the current debate over whether bilingual education is a help or hindrance to Hispanic children.

Some Hispanic groups contend bilingual education is essential to reduce a high dropout rate among Mexican-American children and have won a federal court ruling requiring it in Texas schools.

But some school districts contend total immersion in English-as-a-second language courses are superior. Since Huan's victory, proponents of 'total immersion" have begun citing Huan's success as proof that bilingual education is an inferior concept.

Huan recently defeated 188 students in the 27th Spelling Bee sponsored by the San Antonio News and will represent the area in the national contest.

Huan, now a student at Hobby Middle School, said he was provided a tutor to help him learn English the 11. wo years he was a pupil at Shenandoah Elementary School. Then he went on his own.

Huan's family fled Vietnam in 1975 days before the North Vietnamese marched into Saigon.

"We left when the Marines did," the boy said. Huan's father was a major in the South Vietnam Air Force who sent his family to the United States and remained behind another week "until the last day of the war," Huan's mother, Huong, said.

Today the family lives in a modern suburban home in one of the city's newer additions and the father is looking for a new career after working for six years in fast food stores.

Huan said he recently wrote to Harvard, Stanford and UCLA inquiring about possibly studying to be a surgeon. He said he was leaning toward Stanford, "because they have a good medical school."

"He has big plans," his mother said. Huan said he enjoys American sports such as bowling, tennis, swimming and football, but spends most of his time studying.

"All the time with him it's books," Mrs. Nguyen said. Huan was second in last year's regional Spelling Bee so he said he was not overly surprised that he won this year.

"Last year I didn't think I would place that far, but this year I wasn't so nervous. It wasn't too difficult," he said. Huan departs May 31 for Washington and the national spelling championships.

"There will be 180 champions there. I don't know if I can win, but I'm going to sure try my best," he said.

Belfast rioting breaks out over hunger striker death

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Fierce rioting, firebombing and sniper fire swept this British-ruled province today after the death of another Irish nationalist hunger striker. Authorities said one rioter was killed and about a dozen others, including five soldiers, were injured.

The unrest followed the death Thursday night of Patrick O'Hara in the Maze Prison outside Belfast. He died 21 hours after hunger striker Raymond McCreech. Both began their fasts on March 22.

Another hunger striker was reported seriously ill today with internal bleeding in the eighth day of his fast, and the Northern Ireland Office said he was refusing medical aid. At the Maze Prison outside Belfast, authorities said another Irish Republican Army prisoner had refused breakfast, joining the IRA hunger strike to back demands for political prisoner status.

Police arrested about 25 people in the rioting, which raged until the early hours in Roman Catholic areas of Belfast, Londonderry, Dungannon and Newry.

O'Hara, 24, was the fourth hunger striker to die in Belfast's Maze Prison, but the first fatality from the outlawed Irish National Liberation Army, a radical faction allied with the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing. The INLA issued a statement threatening "fierce retaliation" against all aspects of British rule in Northern Ireland.

Hunger strikers Bobby Sands, who died May 5, Francis Hughes, who died May 12, and McCreech were members of the IRA, which is also outlawed.

In Londonderry, O'Hara's home town and the province's second-largest city, arsonists destroyed 12 buildings, including bars, shops and travel agencies.

Police said mobs of young Catholics attacked troops and police in Londonderry, with gasoline bombs, homemade hand grenades and rocks. A police spokesman said a bakery on the edge of Londonderry's Catholic Bogside district, where O'Hara's family lives, was firebombed and gutted and that elsewhere in the city a supermarket and five shops and offices were set on fire.

Five British soldiers were reported hurt in Londonderry — four injured by home-made grenades, which usually consist of nails and explosives packed in small cans. The fifth was hit in the face by a brick. Troops returned fire when gunmen opened up on an army patrol and police said an injured youth later was admitted to a hospital.

In Catholic west Belfast, where gasoline bombers set a bank and a liquor store ablaze, police escorted fire crews to the scene to protect them from the rioters.

Police described the bombardments of Molotov cocktails as "heavy" and one officer said the rioters seemed to have "an endless supply." Other rioters attacked troops with acid bombs — milk bottles filled with sulphuric acid.

In Dungannon, 40 miles west of Belfast, gangs of Catholics tossed gasoline bombs at security forces, police said. IRA firebombers caused damage estimated at $2 million in a blitz on the town Sunday.

The British government has refused to yield to the demands of the hunger strikers, saying to do so would legitimize the guerrillas' fight to drive the British from the predominantly Protestant province and unite it with the overwhelmingly Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

The Roman Catholic Primate of all Ireland, Cardinal Tomas O'Flaherty, appealed Thursday in "near desperation" for compromise and warned: "If the (British) government continues its rigid stance on prison dress and work it will ultimately be faced with the wrath of the whole Irish nationalist population."

But he also urged the hunger strikers to drop their "all or nothing" demands for prison reforms amounting to political status.

Bribery law reform favored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige says the Reagan administration will promote faster growth of U.S. exports by taking a tougher stance against countries that practice unfair trade and by getting government "out of the way" of private business.

Baldrige told a National Press Club luncheon Wednesday that one key objective is to loosen the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, which bars U.S. companies from bribing foreign officials to gain business.

A bill to change the law has been introduced in Congress by Sen. John H. Chafee, R-R.I., with the administration's backing. Baldrige also said the administration also wants to change a law that taxes the income of Americans working abroad. Saying the United States "is the only country that shoots itself in the foot this way," Baldrige contended the tax law discourages the hiring of Americans overseas and results in a decline in exports.
