years, is the show piece of the Big Spring-Howard County Centennial Celebration. Performances continue Monday through Wednesday night, beginning at 9 o'clock nightly. The entertainment is climaxed by a dazzling laser light show suggestive of the movie "Star Wars."

POSE OF A GLADIATOR — Cowboy Buck puts his foot on the 'carcass' of a 'steer' in a scene from the Old West, one of the highlights of Big Spring-Howard County Centennial Celebration's "Iron Horse Revue" in Memorial Stadium.

The show, which caps this area's first hundred years, will be resumed Monday at 9 p.m., and continues through Wednesday. An estimated 450 local residents have roles in the two-hour production. The clown at right is Ann Drake.

Religious Day grabs centennial spotlight

Today's Big Spring-Howard County Centennial Celebration program, designated Religious Day, will include individual church services in the morning, a 3 p.m., "Religious Perspective" program on the courthouse square and an All-Faith program in the Garnett Coliseum at 7:30 p.m.

Chief speaker for the All-Faith program will be Dr. Andrews Edington. Dr. Edington, president emeritus of Schreiner College in Kerrville, is a gifted speaker.

Born in Mobile, Ala., Dr. Edington was an outstanding all-around athlete at Southwestern College in Memphis, Tenn., where he graduated with honors. He later was formally inducted into the Southwestern College Hall of Fame.

He served as president of Schreiner from 1950 until 1979 and was in the U.S. Navy during WWII.

An author of several books, he is now serving as chairman of the Hal and Charlie Peterson Foundation and is a director of the First National Bank in Kerrville.

In 1967, he was named Kerr County Citizen of the Year.

The 3 p.m., program on the courthouse lawn, "Perspective," is being directed by Sherry Bordofake. It will feature several different religious groups singing religious and patriotic music.

Stated to appear will be a Jewish cantor, members of the Signal Mountain Singers, the Mount Bethel Baptist Church choir, the Ladies group from First Baptist Church and the Nuts and Bolts from the First United Church.

Other slated to appear include the Days Ago Quartet, with J.V. Davis, Darrel Shortes, Jack Alderton, and Sherry Bordofake, and a choral group from Big Spring High School.

The LaFaye Baptist Religious Band will fit into the schedule, which will last about an hour.

Today's schedule of events has been planned by a committee consisting of the Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, Dr. Edwin Chappell, the Rev. Bill Henning, the Rev. Carroll Kohl, Dr. Kenneth Patrick, Chaplain Clayton Hicks, Sue Corson, Mrs. Bordofake, Royce Clay, A.J. Prager, Joe Whitten and Charles Parham.

The day will not be devoted exclusively to things of a religious nature, however. The Centennial Flea Market in the College Park Shopping Center will be open throughout the day. Competition will continue in Centennial-related golf and racquetball tournaments here and at 2 p.m., there will be a baseball game in Steer Park between a squad called the Oldtimers and the Big Spring High School Steers. A second game will pit the Big Spring Yankees against the Big Spring Cardinals, two powerful sandlot clubs.

Big Spring's biggest parade ever spiced by 150 plus entries

What may be the grandest, most elaborate parade ever to wind through downtown Big Spring will take place Monday afternoon.

Over 150 entries, including horse patrols, marching bands, mule trains and what may be the longest float in the world, will gather at Owens and Sixth, 2:30 p.m. Monday. Organizers estimate that it will take between one and a half to two hours to see the entire procession.

The parade route will follow Sixth until it reaches State, where it will turn north. It will continue to Third, west on Third to Scurry; past the Howard County Courthouse, heading east on Fourth; and back to Owens and Sixth.

Leading the pageant will be Grand Marshall Cong. Charles Stenholm. Two military units, a marching band from Fort Hood and a color guard from Reese Air Force Base, will follow.

Four-footed entrants will include a mule train from Gail and a horse patrol made up of riders from the area. Forsan, Coahoma and Colorado City will all have units in the pageant.

The Big Spring High School entry is especially ambitious. The high schoolers have put together a float over 200 feet long with which they hope to break the Guinness world record.

Providing more music for the parade will be the Runnels Junior High Band, riding on a float, and the Big Spring High School Marching Band.

In addition, spectators should show up to see friends and neighbors on various floats of all shapes and sizes.

FASCINATING TOY — Curious youngsters are aboard the replica of an early day T&P steam engine, which will wind up pulling a float in Monday afternoon's big Centennial parade through downtown Big Spring. The float will share attention in the biggest parade ever staged in Big Spring. It's estimated it will take up to two hours for all the entries to pass by any given point. The parade will be routed east down Sixth Street to State, north to Third, then west to Scurry, south to Fourth and back to State. This picture was taken in College Park Shopping Center.

BSHS students build long, colorful float

Don't leave Monday's Centennial parade, scheduled for 4 p.m., Monday through downtown Big Spring, early. The last float will be the longest, the most historical and likely the most colorful in the procession.

Big Spring High School students have disguised a tractor as a train engine to be followed by ten cotton compress trailers. Each trailer will represent a decade of Howard County history from 1880-1980.

The first trailer, 1880-89 will depict the "Tent City" of Big Spring around the spring, with Comanche Indians, Captain Randolph Marcy and the Earl of Aylesford portrayed.

A windmill will be featured on the next trailer, 1890-99, portraying Western cowboys and ranchers with Signal Mountain in the background.

The 1900-09 era depicts a street scene of Big Spring showing the old J. & W. Fisher store, Grey Mule Saloon, Rix Furniture, the Big Spring Herald, the old jailhouse, the first motorized fire truck, 1909, and Big Spring Independent School District, 1901.

World War I Troop No. 1, the first Boy Scout Troop West of the Mississippi, will be shown in the 1910-19 era trailer.

An oil derrick, pump jack and Coden Refinery will depict the first oil boom in the county in the 1920-29 era.

The depression era of the 1930's with Works Progress Administration (WPA) projects constructed, Municipal Auditorium, the amphitheater in Comanche Trail Park, Big Spring State Hospital. Also Settles Hotel construction will be included.

The World War II era and arrival of Big Spring Bombardier School, will be depicted in the 1940-49 trailer. Howard College in 1945 and Veteran's Hospital establishment will be portrayed.

The 1950-59 era with the dance twist, beginning of Rock and Roll music, a juke box and 1950 dress will be on the next trailer. The 1963 BSBS football team as state finalists and arrival of Webb Air Force Base as a Jet trainer base are also included.

Construction of the shopping malls, increased building and the boost in population and housing will be shown on the 1960-69 era trailer.

The closing of WAFB and development of the Industrial Park, along with the preservation of historic sites such as Potton House, will be depicted in the 1970-79 and 1980 trailer.

All of this will be followed by a caboose.

$1,000 winner

Loretta Mindling of 2500 Dow St., Big Spring, was the winner of the $1,000 cash award in the Big Spring Centennial Bargain Days drawing, according to an announcement made immediately prior to the Saturday night production of "The Iron Horse Revue" in Memorial Stadium.

Local businessmen George Weeks and Jonell Smallwood were present when the drawing was staged Saturday.

Herald will go to press early

Because Monday has been designated officially as Memorial Day, the Herald will go to press about noon in order that employees can benefit from half a day off.

The Circulation Department, which ordinarily closes at 6:30 p.m., weekdays, will be closed at 5 p.m., for the one day.

There is still time to place items in celebration capsule

There is still time for people to place souvenir items in the Big Spring-Howard County Centennial Celebration time capsule.

The repository is now in the Centennial Store at 900 Main, where it will remain until noon Wednesday. For the modest fee of 50 cents, the public can deposit any flat item 8 1/2 x 11 inches or less, after paying a modest fee of 50 cents. The item will be stamped with the official Centennial emblem by store personnel before it is left in the capsule.

Wednesday afternoon, the three-foot long capsule, which was donated by Phillips Petroleum Co., and which will be sealed by Cosden laboratory personnel under the direction of Granville Hahn, will be taken to the Howard County Courthouse lawn where it will be buried, there to remain for 50 years before being retrieved. The marker for the capsule is being donated by Trinity Memorial Park.

Personnel at Cosden's laboratory will see that the capsule is airtight by purging the nitrogen in it, thus making sure that the gas that remains will be inert.

John Taylor, general chairman of the Centennial committee, said that many items have already been left for burial in the capsule but plenty of room remains for those who would like to participate.

Nix, Tolle share fiddlers' award

Jody Nix and Don Tolle split the grand prize in Saturday's old-fashioned fiddling contest, held in the Highland Mall in connection with the Big Spring-Howard County Centennial Celebration.

The two halved a $50 cash award after each had placed first in his category. Nix was an entry in the "up to 30" age division while Tolle was in the "over 55" bracket. The two also won $50 awards for placing first in their divisions.

In the 31-54 age group, Max Green placed first and earned a $50 cash award.

Chester Derrick of Odessa was second in the "over 55" bracket and earned $30 while Hoyt Roberts, 82-year-old Westbrook man, was third in the same classification, a finish that earned him $20.

Nix was declared the winner in a surprise category, that of playing the best waltz music and won a violin bow given by Denver Pettitt.

The contest, directed by James Horton, drew a large crowd of spectators.

Tops on TV: 'Silver Streak'

CBS will feature a little zaniness at 7 o'clock tonight. Gene Wilder, Jill Clayburgh and Richard Pryor star in "Silver Streak," a movie about a mild-mannered book editor who accidentally becomes entangled in a romance and a bizarre plot by an art thief during a cross-country train ride. Women will get their chance to ogle during "Men Who Rate A 10," airing at 9 o'clock on NBC. Gloria Swanson, Barbara Eden and Brooke Shields look at the most exciting men of recent generations.

Outside: Warm

The forecast calls for more of the same, today and Monday. The skies should be partly cloudy, while the temperature should hit a high in the mid-90s both days. Low tonight should be near 60. Winds are from the east at 10 to 15 miles per hour.

Farabee loses Howard County in Senatorial redistrict plan

Harro-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Senate passed a final senatorial redistricting plan with ease Friday, but encountered tougher going in approving their congressional map.

The next stop for the congressional bill is a joint conference committee, where the differences between the Senate and House redistricting plans will be hashed out.

For a time Friday, the Senate was unable to pass any kind of congressional redistricting plan.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby cast the deciding vote to send the congressional bill to a third reading, but backers had to lobby fellow members to round-up the necessary two-thirds majority to suspend the rules for a final vote.

Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, chairman of the Senate's Congressional panel on Redistricting, led the lobbying effort.

Without a two-thirds vote, the bill could not have been considered and a special session on congressional redistricting would have been assured.

That threat convinced enough senators to swing their votes for the rules suspension, which passed 24-5. The bill then passed by a three-vote margin.

The same plan cleared the Senate committee of the whole on Wednesday night by a 17-13 margin.

Sen. Kay Farabee of Wichita Falls supported the congressional map throughout the series of votes.

Only a few small census tract exchanges took place in the final amendments to the senatorial redistricting plan, which passed 23-7.

Farabee voted for that plan. His district was unaffected by the handful of population trade-offs.

Farabee's district will cover Archer, Baylor, Callahan, Childress, Clay, Cooke, Cottle, Dickens, Fisher, Floyd, Foard, Hardeman, Haskell, Jones, Ken, King, Knox, Mitchell, Montague, Motley, Nolan, Scurry, Shackelford, Stonewall, Throckmorton, Wichita, Wilbarger and Young counties. It also contains most of Denton County.

The district maintains a population of 460,075. It is 5.5 percent black, 8.3 percent Hispanic and 86.2 percent other.

Farabee loses Howard, Briscoe and Hall counties from his present district. Thus, much to his regret, he will no longer represent Big Spring.

holm's district would contain Borden, Calahan, Coker, Coleman, Comanche, Concho, Crosby, Dawson, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Lloyd, Garza, Glasscock, Jack, Haskell, Howard, Jones, Kent, Knox, Lynn, McCulloch, Martin, Mitchell, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Parker, Runnels, Scurry, Shackelford, Stephens, Sterling, Stonewall, Taylor and Throckmorton, Wise and Young counties.

Bess Truman responding

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bess Truman, still suffering complications from May 7 hip surgery, is "responding beautifully" to treatment for digestive problems, her personal physician said Saturday.

Dr. Wallace Graham said the 96-year-old former first lady, while still in serious condition at Research Medical Center, spent a restful night and her color is much improved.

Graham said Mrs. Truman's temperature, pulse and respiration were normal. The widow of former President Harry S. Truman had a tube put into her chest Friday because her body was not absorbing nutrients from food. The tube feeds nutrients into the bloodstream, bypassing the digestive tract.

Mrs. Truman was hospitalized after she fractured a hip in a fall at her home in Independence.

4,339 voters registered in Mitchell

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County now has 4,339 registered voters through March 1, 1981, figures from tax collector Mike Burt's office revealed.

The county received 40 cents for each new voter registered, plus 40 cents for each cancellation. State funds for Mitchell County amounted to $276 for the past year.

Thoughts of Mexican food, beer, ice water helped man survive ordeal

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Thoughts of Mexican food, beer and ice water kept 20-year-old Steve Hendley alive for four days after his companion died of hypothermia during a camping trip last week in the rugged mountains near Taos.

Hendley said in an interview Saturday from his Santa Fe hospital bed he used the body of his friend and roommate, Chris Dolby, for shelter against a blizzard as he waited to be rescued on a ridge near Wheeler Peak, the highest mountain in New Mexico.

dry food they brought along. Saturday morning brought no relief.

The two had removed their hiking boots the night before. In the morning, only one of Dolby's boots could be found.

"We decided there was no way we were going to stay there another day and make it," Hendley said.

"I had my ski gloves on and my cap and I had both pair of my hiking boots so I was elected to go up the mountain and see if I could get some help," he said.

"About 200 yards up the hill — sunglasses, hood and all — there was no way I was going to make it. It was so blinding, it was a white-out," he said.

Dolby later borrowed one of Hendley's boots to seek help, but got no farther than his companion before he turned back.

There was nothing left to do but wait out the storm.

Hendley tried to keep his friend's spirits up, and the two made a pact that when they got home they would go for barbecue and beer at a restaurant they favored.

"All night long he didn't think he was going to be able to make it. And about 8:30, I guess the wind came up and he went to try to put the tarp down from the sleeping bag," Hendley said. "That was the last sound he made or move he made."

"And so I lay there with him the rest of the night, using him for shelter because that was the only thing I could do. I couldn't move him," he said.

Trolleys may return to El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — David Martinez remembers driving the old trolleys through the streets of El Paso, carrying wide-eyed tourists and quiet workers back and forth between the city and Ciudad Juarez, Mexico.

Martinez, like most of the streetcar veterans, longs for the return of the clang-clang of the bell and the bustle of hundreds of passengers.

May 1974, when the system was dismantled and the streamlined old trolleys were stowed in a transit system shop to gather dust, spider webs and rust.

Most of the drivers went to work for Sun City Area Transit, or SCAT, the bus system that serves most of the city. But many would be ready to return to driving the streetcars, Martinez, 40, said.

applications for federal funds that would pay for reconstruction of a 2.16-mile downtown loop and renovation of six streetcars to run on it.

That's the next step toward getting the more than $8 million needed for the project, she said.

The application for $6.2 million in federal funds must be approved by the City Council and the regional and national offices of the Urban Mass Transit Administration. Another $1.9 million would come from the state and $540,000 would be paid locally, perhaps from private donations, she said.

"They'll march it around for while," Ms. Price said of the application. "They'll have to buck it all the way to Washington. It'll probably take 30 to 60 days once we send it up."

If some El Pasoans have their way, Martinez and the others may get their wish.

Local businessmen, city officials and nostalgia lovers are trying to get federal funds to revamp the streetcar system, or at least part of it, and to return to the downtown area a cheap mode of rapid transit.

"I don't think I could go back to driving them because of my position now," said Martinez, who is a supervisor with the city's bus system. "But a lot of drivers would enjoy going out and driving those streetcars, especially the old timers."

The electric streetcars ran in El Paso from 1912 until

"Buses are harder to maneuver downtown," said Martinez, who drove trolleys for seven years before switching to buses. "Overall, the streetcars are very, very easy to drive and handle. The track takes care of it."

"We enjoyed the driving," he added. "Business was good."

From the 1950s until 1973 when the franchise to Juarez was canceled by the Mexican government, the streetcar system carried 14,000 to 15,000 people per day, according to Judy Price, the city's transit planner.

Ms. Price is one of the El Pasoans working to revive the streetcar system. Currently, she is preparing getting the money was a study done by Bernard Johnson Inc. of Houston which said the system, once renovated, could pay for itself if 8,000 people paid 10 cents to ride each day.

Weather

Cold front triggers heavy thunderstorms

A cold front barged into Texas late Saturday, bringing isolated heavy thunderstorms to North and Central Texas as the sun went down. The National Weather Service issued a tornado watch for that region of the state that expired at midnight.

Volunteer weather watchers reported a very severe thunderstorm near Breckenridge Saturday night, with high winds and large hail. Radar spotted other isolated storms that reached all the way from Wichita Falls to Del Rio.

The rest of the state had somewhat milder weather as the Memorial Day weekend began, with temperatures generally in the 80s and 90s.

Forecasters predicted cloudy to partly cloudy and continued warm conditions statewide with scattered showers in the north, central and eastern sections through Sunday.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy with minor day-to-day temperature changes Tuesday through Thursday. Lows 50s north and mountains to 60s south. Highs 80s north to upper 90s Big Bend.

WEATHER FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy through Monday. Highs 75 north to 88 south, mid 90s Big Bend valleys. Lows 52 north to 66 south, upper 40s mountains.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today predicts rain for western Washington and Oregon. Showers are expected for northern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota, as well as for an area from eastern Texas to Indiana.

Americans on the move this summer—but not far

By LOUISE COOK
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

Americans are taking to the highways again for summer vacations, but the high price of gasoline and the uncertain state of the economy is causing them to stay closer to home and hunt for bargains.

"The discretionary dollar is getting tighter or drying up," said Tom Rohner of the California State Automobile Association.

An Associated Press spot check of the travel industry on the eve of the Memorial Day weekend showed a trend toward shorter trips, by car rather than by plane, to family-type attractions offering low-cost amusements and to campgrounds or parks.

Tourist officials were reluctant to predict what will happen as the summer wears on, but they were generally optimistic, encouraged by the availability of gasoline and the fact that fuel prices, while high, appear to have stabilized.

In St. Louis, Mike Right, public affairs director for the AAA Auto Club of Missouri, said the organization has handled about 25 percent more requests for tour information packages this year than last. "People, especially those with families, are driving more because of the high air fares," Right said. "The gas supply situation is much better. And people are becoming accustomed to the kind of prices we are paying for gas."

Patricia Duricka, spokeswoman for the Travel Industry Association of America, said a recent survey by the U.S. Travel Data Center showed 49 percent of American adults planned to take a trip in the next six months. That compared to 42 percent who said they planned similar travel at this time last year.

There are signs of worry in the industry, however. The airlines launched another round of promotions last week, designed to lure travelers and boost sagging business. Car rental companies also have announced discount rates to win customers. And many hotels, particularly in big cities, offer special weekend packages to fill empty rooms.

Olof Arnheim, general manager of the Philadelphia Marriott, said business has been helped by "promotions and gimmicks." The hotel woos local residents with "Escape Weekends." There is a "Lollypop Lounge" for children, with a skunk as an attraction.

Ben Segal, assistant manager for the domestic travel department of Pennsylvania's Keystone Automobile Club, said people definitely are taking shorter trips. "Our members are going as far south as Williamsburg, Va., and north to the mountains of Pennsylvania and New York and into Cape Cod, Mass."

The story was the same in California. "More short trips and fewer long trips," said Howard Goetzman, manager of touring and licenses for the Automobile Club of Southern California. Goetzman said business was really bad in 1979, when motorists had to line up for gasoline—if they could find an open service station. "Travel came back a little last year," Goetzman said, "although it still wasn't up to where it was in 1978. It's still too early to tell if this year will be better..."

Judge rejects black out plea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has rejected a former Peoples Temple member's plea to black out 15 northern California counties during a repeat broadcast of a film about the cult's demise.

Larry Layton claimed CBS' showing of "Guyana Tragedy," scheduled for next Wednesday, would make it impossible to pick a fair jury for his July 9 trial on charges of conspiring to murder Rep. Leo Ryan, D-

Calif. Ryan was slain on a Guyana airstrip in November 1978 shortly before the mass murder-suicide of about 900 cult members.

U.S. District Court Judge William Schwarzer noted that a fictitious character in the film named Larry has been deleted from the rebroadcast and that under U.S. Supreme Court rulings the First Amendment bars prior restraint except in extraordinary cases.

Former Big Spring resident gains doctor of osteopathy degree

FORT WORTH — Jim Pettit, former resident of Big Spring, was among the 75 new physicians who received doctor of osteopathy degrees May 16 at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine's eighth commencement.

Dr. Pettit, son of Jim and Gerry Pettit of Goldsboro, N.C., and formerly of Big Spring, will intern at Tucson General Hospital in Tucson, Ariz.

A 1966 graduate of Big Spring High School, Dr. Pettit earned his B.A. degree in biology at the University of Texas at Austin. During his four years of study at TCOM, he was active in the Atlas Club social organization.

He is married to Betsy Blaydes Pettit, a speech pathologist from Fort Stockton.

Fort Worth law firm hired to collect overdue taxes

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A Fort Worth law firm was selected Friday afternoon by the Mitchell County commissioners to handle delinquent tax accounts.

In additional business Friday, the commissioners approved the hiring of Annette Calloway on a temporary basis in the office of County Clerk Joann Beach.

The firm of Purdue, Brandon, Blair, Shiever and Fielder will begin collecting overdue tax accounts immediately.

In final action, the letting of bids for a pickup truck was tabled until June. The truck is planned for use by county agent Bob Benson.

Mitchell County's Caravan to take part in local parade

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County's Centennial Caravan is saddling its horses and harnessing to the wagons to join Big Spring's parade at 4 p.m., Monday.

Caravan Chairmen Joe and Vicky Weaver announced Friday a bus will be available at no charge for area residents to join the local caravan and ride in the parade. Seating capacity is 45 and persons are asked to be on hand at 1 p.m., Monday at the courthouse to get rolling.

Going, going, gone! Not auctions---they're booming

By LINDA ST. THOMAS
Smithsonian News Service

Mun'a, dol'ha two, dol'ha ree, and a four, four, four, savin, eight-a, nine. Sold. American.

It may be easy to recognize the tobacco auctioneer's chant; the problem is figuring out exactly what it all means.

A literal translation of the above would go like this — "One, dollar two, dollar three, four, seven, eight nine. Sold (to) American (Tobacco Co.)." Yet getting the message across is only half the auctioneer's work.

Whether he's selling dishes or hogs, any good auctioneer is doing several things at once. He's announcing bids, listening for the next highest offer, sometimes watching for non-verbal signals and constantly assessing the mood of the crowd.

The auctioneer's delivery, for example, is nearly as important as the content of his sales pitch. The tobacco auctioneer's spiel is fired off at a pace that is at least 10 times as fast as the average conversational speech. Besides moving along the day's sales, this speed helps create a bit of marketing excitement. (General auctioneer Victor Richardson is said to have set a record in New York with his chant of 888 words per minute. The average bid-caller whizzes along at about 340 words per minute.)

Today, just about everything can be and is sold at auction: personal property, industrial and farm machinery, horses, tobacco, fine art, new and used cars, livestock and commercial and industrial real estate. In fact, whether held in country barns or the rarefield atmosphere of international auction houses, bidding has become big business — so big that some retail antique dealers now feel threatened by the ever-increasing popularity of auction sales.

Whatever their product, many professional auctioneers spend years practicing sales pitch, often acting as an apprentice or helper with an established auctioneer before beginning their own careers. One such self-made man is Edward "Ned" Murrow, 62, of Shepardstown, W.Va., who became a livestock auctioneer "late in life," at the age of 37, after years of raising cattle.

"I remember spending about six months recording my own voice and playing it back until I got the sounds I wanted," Murrow said. "I had been to auctions all my life but I had never done one myself."

When he started, there were only three people working a huge two-county region of West Virginia. Like other auctioneers, Murrow had one specialty — livestock — but later branched out to sell real estate furniture, horses, farm equipment and antique cars.

"I can sell anything," Murrow says, "just give me the items, a platform, a microphone and a good crowd and I'll guarantee you some fast action. Once I sold a cemetery, already full, for about $100."

Murrow was one of the auctioneers at the Smithsonian's 1980 Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C., where pitchmen, street criers and auctioneers recently demonstrated their considerable verbal skills and also shared trade secrets with Festival audiences.

The best-kept secret, it seems, is that the auctioneer doesn't always know what he's saying. His chant, or roll, as it's called in the business, consists of the prices or bids mixed in with filler words, jokes and a few asides to the audience. The filler phrases, such as "will you give" and "do you want them at," as well as price series, become so routine that the auctioneer is not consciously aware of what he's saying at any given minute.

"The chant is our basic tool of the trade," says Buford Evans, president and founder of the Nashville Auction School and an old bid-caller himself. "Once you get the number brackets down pat, then you worry about increasing your speed and chopping up the filler words. Unfortunately, after just a few weeks of practice, a good auctioneer learns to butcher the English language."

There are as many different chanting techniques as there are auctioneers. Some are musical and others sound like machines," Evans says. No chant is exactly the same as another, even when delivered by the same auctioneer, because he's always changing his tempo, volume, inflection and word combinations to suit the occasion.

What's not a secret about the profession is that it requires non-stop talking. While the average auctioneer's time on the platform will be about two hours, some auctions may take up to 12 hours — a herculean task for most vocal cords. To prevent hoarseness of laryngitis, many auctioneers rely on breathing exercises, use a microphone, sip lukewarm water while working (cold water makes the voice raspy), suck on lozenges, avoid the wind and wear scarves on cold days.

Most professional auctioneers care for their voices the same way singers do, but learning to talk "from down here," Evans says. Using diaphragm muscles helps avoid straining the delicate vocal cords. And like a good singer, Evans and other auctioneers practice this breathing until it becomes natural.

But nowadays, it takes more than strong vocal cords and an entertaining chant to make a successful auctioneer. He needs to know about fees and commissions, state license laws, advertising, sales contracts, catalogs or circulars, signs, setting up for a sale and, most important, the value of items he sells.

In addition, many auctioneers are specialists in one or more fields — the sale of property, fine arts or livestock. The field of tobacco auctioneering, however, is unique in that its practitioners only sell tobacco. They must have a full knowledge of the product and, because they work exclusively with professional buyers, must be on the alert.

"It's a very demanding job, both physically and mentally," Buford Evans says. "These auctioneers walk up and down the aisles continuously, calling prices and recognizing bids as they go along, sometimes more than $2,000 worth of tobacco in 60 seconds. It's non-stop activity."

Whatever the specialty, every auctioneer knows how to take bids. At today's country auctions and estate sales, people usually communicate their bid to the auctioneer by voice or by raising numbered cards. The auctioneer recognizes the highest bidder and closes the sale either by announcing the buyer's name or number or by describing the buyer — "sold to the lady in the hat."

Taking non-verbal signal bids, the old wink-of-an-eye, tug-on-the-ear routine, is another matter. Many auctioneers, especially in the fine arts field, where buyers wish to remain anonymous, can recall a mix-up of complex bidding signals.

One of the most famous incidents occurred in London in the mid-1960s when a well-known collector bid on a painting in accordance with his pre-auction agreement. The agreement was given to the auctioneer like this: "...when Mr. X is sitting down, he is bidding. If he bids openly, he is also bidding. When he stands up, he has stopped bidding. If he sits down again, he is not bidding unless he raises his finger. Having raised his finger, he is bidding, until he stands up again." Understandably, the auctioneer lost track of those signals somewhere along the line, and the painting went to the second-highest bidder.

Man allegedly rapes daughter of girlfriend

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 28-year-old man is in custody after he allegedly raped the 12-year-old daughter of his girlfriend, according to police.

Lt. L.C. Swain said Thursday the suspect was arrested at John Peter Smith Hospital after he and the girl's mother had accompanied the child to the hospital for a rape examination.

Swain said the girl's school principal learned of the alleged assault and notified rape-counselors, who in turn called police.

The case was still under investigation late today.

Widow asked to repay money

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The widow of a school purchasing agent accused of taking more than $400,000 from the Fort Worth Independent School District has been asked to repay the money.

NOTHING NEW — Selling to the highest bidder is a tradition some say goes back to 500 B.C., when Babylonian maidens were auctioned as brides. Nowadays, auctions are often the best way to sell tobacco, livestock, furniture and real estate. At left, auctioneer Ned Murrow points to the next bidder at an estate sale held in Mercer's Auction House, Martinsburg, W. Va. His assistant, Gary Muck, holds up one of many items sold that day; they included a painting (selling price: $900) as well as inexpensive household gadgets. Murrow as one of the auctioneers at the Smithsonian Institution's Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C.

HOG AUCTION — Auctioneer Dan Baker and his ringman work a hog auction at Longmarsh Farm in North Carolina. Local farmers bid that day on special registered Yorkshire and Landrace hogs, normally used for breeding purposes.

Sailor stabbed to death

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A 19-year-old seaman was stabbed to death aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Saipan and another young sailor is being held pending an investigation of the slaying, the Navy said Thursday.

Marks C. McCaleb, of Dallas, Texas, was stabbed once in the left side of his chest about 8 p.m. Tuesday and was pronounced dead at the Naval Regional Medical Center about 1 a.m. Wednesday, following surgery.

The Navy has detained another Texas seaman, Charles J. Roberts, of Fort Worth, in connection with the slaying. Add Chief Petty Officer Skip Greese, a spokesman for the Atlantic Fleet Surface Force.

Roberts was taken to the Norfolk Naval Station brig Tuesday night. No charges have been filed, pending an investigation by the Naval Investigative Service.

Bond posted for pilot arrested in $1.2 million guns seizure

HOUSTON (AP) — The jetliner pilot arrested when U.S. Customs agents seized $1.2 million in military weapons scheduled for an alleged shipment to South Africa has been released under $100,000 bond.

Capt. Georg Bellamy, 57, of Vienna was released Thursday, two days after federal officials had dismissed similar violation of the U.S. Neutrality Act charges against his three crewmen.

Still being held in lieu of $110,000 bonds are two British subjects, John Parks, 43, and Peter Towers, 51. Prosecutors contend the two hired undercover Customs agents to purchase the arms and transport them to a private terminal at Houston Intercontinental Airport last week.

FIRST SIGHT OF BIG SPRING FOR MANY VISITORS — When Big Spring was established as a division point on the Texas and Pacific railway, what was described as the finest depot building between Fort Worth and El Paso was built around 1910. The first depot here was a plank-and-strip structure located near what is now First and Gregg Streets. Although primitive looking, the old structure served as the nerve center of the town. At one time, there was a restaurant in the left portion of this structure and the call to the dinner table was relayed to railroad passengers via a triangular steel bar, which an attendant rhythmically beat with a steel bar. This structure was ultimately razed in the 1970s, despite efforts by some of the citizenry to convert it into a museum.

EARLY ELEGANT HOME — One of the elegant homes of the early days in Big Spring was the one pictured here. Located at 606 Aylesford, the residence was built by G.L. (Bud) Brown. Brown came here not long after the railroad arrived in 1881 and acquired two Howard County ranches. He was also a prime mover in the West Texas National Bank and had large land holdings in Ector County.

Teens sentenced in girl's death

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Jurors have recommended 25 years in prison for two Austin teen-agers convicted of aggravated kidnapping in the abduction and slaying of a high school girl.

Nemecio Carmona and Ruben Castillo Tello, both 18, were found guilty in the June 27 kidnapping of Elaine McCuiston, 16, whose body was found in August near Waco.

Two other teen-agers were tried with Carmona and Tello. Joe Robert Riojas, 18, was acquitted. The jurors could reach no verdict for Faustino Gonzales.

Violations force closing home for the retarded

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Wharton home for severely retarded children has voluntarily closed after state health officials found a long list of violations, including improper use of restraints.

Owners of the Cartwheel Development Center decided to close the 106-bed home after the Texas Department of Health blocked Medicaid payments.

"I didn't think I had any choice but to decertify," said Jerry Bryant, chief of nursing home quality standards at the health department.

A March 24 inspection showed 46 violations of health department standards, including 19 "possible hazards to the health or safety of the children."

The violations included:

- Food as hot as 190 degrees served to children.
- Temperatures as low as 60 degrees in the homes.
- Chunks of ham served to children who could not chew them.
- Lack of developmental training.
- Children in restraints for the convenience of the staff.

Demeris Smith, president of National Living Centers, owners of the home, said the decision to close was made because, "We couldn't keep our staff any longer."

She said she thought the home had been improved when inspectors came through in May for a second survey, but department officials did not agree.

"I don't want to close down a facility," she said, "but I don't think we have a chance."

"The IQ of these children is below 27. They are mentally and physically disabled and also get normal childhood diseases. We were further handicapped by the fact that the Wharton Independent School District hadn't provided special education for these children as the law requires," she said.

A Denton home owned by National Living Centers was decertified by the health department in February, but it remained open after improvements were made.

"On this home (Wharton), we feel we've done all we could," she said.

Jan Zimmerman, an Austin woman whose daughter is in the Cartwheel Center, said parents have known of problems at the home for more than a year.

"We thought this was supposed to be a training center, but there was no training going on," she said.

"But we thought, 'Maybe we're irate mothers, maybe it would be better to ask someone at the health department to see what they thought.'"

The parents filed an "unofficial" complaint with the department.

"We didn't want to go public with what we saw because it would be upsetting to the parents who can't, for economic reasons, do anything," she said.

Doctors say pope out of danger

ROME (AP) — Pope John Paul II, out of danger and in "very satisfactory" condition recovering from gunshot wounds, should be out of the hospital and back at the Vatican within 60 days, his doctors said Saturday. One surgeon said the 61-year-old pontiff might even be discharged within two weeks.

"The pope could sit at home in the Vatican and heal just as well as he could heal here," Dr. Emilio Tresalti, the chief medical officer of Rome's Gemelli Policlinico Hospital, said in an interview.

Barring complications, doctors said, he will be out of the hospital within 60 days, although they said it might take longer for him to recover completely.

Doctors have said the pope needs another operation to reverse his colostomy — an intestinal bypass procedure performed in emergency surgery after he was shot in the intestines 11 days ago. The surgery could take place either at the Vatican in formary or at Gemelli Policlinico, doctors said.

One of the pope's surgeons, Dr. Francesco Crucitti, said the pope might be able to return to the Vatican within 10 days. Tresalti declined to speculate on a date, however.

John Paul was well enough Saturday to be planning to deliver his weekly Sunday blessing to pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Square by special radio hookup. A Vatican spokesman, the Rev. Romeo Panciroli, said it was possible the message would be broadcast live from the pope's hospital bed, but more likely it would be taped, as it was last Sunday.

Investigators questioning Mehmet Ali Agca, the Turkish suspect charged with shooting the pope and two American women May 13, said they were still unsure whether someone paid Agca to kill John Paul.

"We assume there was complicity," said Nicola Simone, official spokesman for the Rome police department. He said someone might have given Agca the money he used to travel around Europe in the months before the shooting, might have given him a gun or might have directly paid him to kill the pope. He did not elaborate.

Italian police said the suspect, Agca, admitted to them he had made a telephone call from Italy to West Germany shortly before the attack to a man identified as Hassan Taskin.

Top police officials, who asked not be identified because of regulations requiring Interior Ministry clearance before talking to reporters, told The Associated Press there was no evidence Taskin had anything to do with the shooting. No warrant was issued for his arrest, but the sources said police in West Germany were asked to question him.

Taskin is believed to be a leader of the Gray Wolves, a right-wing group of Turkish nationalists living in West Germany.

Italian and Turkish police suspect right-wing sympathizers helped Agca escape from jail in November 1979, where he was awaiting trial for the murder of a liberal Turkish newspaper editor, and helped him obtain the false passport and money he used to travel around Europe.

Agca was convicted of murder in absentia in April 1980 and was sentenced to death.

Charles Stenholm of Stamford, who represents Howard County in the House of Representatives, is shown delivering the Big Spring 'get well' message for President Ronald Reagan to Vice-President George Bush in Washington. After Reagan was shot last month, Radio Station KBST — responding to a suggestion made by Howard County GOP Party Chairman Bill Sheppard — appealed to local residents to sign the cheer card and 1,362 responded within 24 hours. The message was dispatched to Stenholm who called on Bush in person with the card. Bush, in turn, took the message directly to President Reagan's bedside. Stenholm, coincidentally, will be in Big Spring most of Monday to talk with constituents, deliver a keynote address at the VA Medical Center and serve as Grand Marshal in the Centennial Celebration parade.

Proper equipment needed to control garden pests

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

It's safe to say that if insects and diseases are not a problem in your garden right now, chances are they will be before long.

You may or may not want to use chemicals for pest control. This is one of the real advantages of growing your own vegetables. You can do it any way you want to! Plant by the moon, sprinkle irrigate, choose your own varieties, or garden without pesticides. It's your garden and you make the decisions.

For the sake of today's column, let's assume that you're one of the large number of local gardeners who will choose to control garden pests using cleared and recommended chemicals. Proper use of chemicals poses no threat to you or the people who enjoy eating vegetables from your home garden.

However, if the label on the chemical product you use says one teaspoonful per gallon of water, that's what it means. If the label says to wait three days after spraying before harvesting, it doesn't mean you have to wait a week or more. Follow directions on the container to the letter. If you do this, you won't have any problems with possibly dangerous chemical residues.

Using chemicals for pest control, generally means "spraying" to most gardeners. Therefore, you are going to need a sprayer of some type depending on garden size, location, layout and intended use.

Sprayers used most often in local gardens are compressed air and hose-on sprayers. Compressed air sprayers are mobile, self-contained units that are pressurized by periodic pumping. They come in various sizes and are made of either plastic, galvanized steel or longer-lasting stainless steel. An obvious advantage of compressed air sprayers is that they are completely portable. However, this portability is directly proportional to your strength.

In other words, a 5 gallon compressed air sprayer is heavy and unless you're physically able to lift and tote it around, don't try it. If your garden is small, a 2 gallon sprayer is probably all you'll need.

A hose-on sprayer is attached to the end of a hose, from which it receives its pressure. It's popular because it's light and doesn't need repressurizing by periodic pumping.

The main disadvantage of a hose-on sprayer is that it can only reach the length of your garden hose. Another problem arises in mixing ingredients. These sprayers operate on the principle of siphoning a concentrated amount of material and mixing it with a stream of hose water. To be easily siphoned, the mix must be liquid; yet many insecticides and fungicides are in the wettable powder form.

Although these materials are meant to be suspended in water, thorough mixing is difficult sometimes. To avoid some of the problems of plugging up the sprayer, it's a good idea to pre-mix wettable powder pesticides in a small bowl. This helps assure that large particles are broken up and will not clog the siphoning hose.

Regardless of the type of sprayer you use, it's important that you keep it in good condition. Rinse it thoroughly after each use to avoid future problems. If you use a compressed air sprayer, store it bottom side up with the hose drained.

Safe and proper use of garden chemicals can help most of you have a more productive garden. However, you must always use only recommended chemicals, treat only when necessary, follow label directions, and remember to take care of your equipment. Next time I'll deal with how to prevent and control common diseases found in your vegetable garden.

Attorney general's ruling asked on redistricting bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock has asked Attorney General Mark White for a quick opinion on whether a bill realigning Texas Senate districts is constitutional.

The Associated Press obtained a copy Saturday of Bullock's letter suggesting to White the Senate-passed bill might violate the Texas or United States Constitutions and the U.S. Voting Rights Act.

One problem, Bullock said, was the dividing of some counties between two or more Senate districts when it might be possible to draw a plan that does not split counties.

Bullock, a member of the Legislative Redistricting Board that would draw district lines if the Legislature fails to do so, asked White several other questions about the Senate bill.

Officers end prison riots in Michigan, Nevada

By the Associated Press
Scores of officers shielded by clouds of bullets and tear gas swept through two prisons Saturday to end uprisings by youthful offenders in Michigan and high-risk criminals in Nevada.
Meanwhile, inmates of the world's largest walled prison, the Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson, were back in their cells after a day of rioting that officials called the worst in almost three decades.
Three guards taken hostage at the Maximum Security Prison near Carson City, Nev., were released unharmed, while 42 inmates and four prison guards were hurt before Michigan authorities regained control of the prison and the state reformatory in Ionia.

Nevada authorities immediately launched an investigation to determine how the inmate accused of taking the hostages at Carson City got a gun into his cell block.
In Michigan, prison officials began the laborious process of assessing damages and making plans for repairs.

A meeting between authorities and inmates was scheduled in Jackson so prisoners could air complaints that led to rioting by more than 800 convicts.
The Nevada uprising, which involved 23 inmates, some of them on Death Row, ended before dawn when guards spraying bullets from automatic weapons pushed the prisoners back into their cells.
The captive guards were freed after 10 hours when prison officials agreed to give inmate David "Bang Bang" Wayne a sedative and let him talk to his girlfriend.

Wayne, who was serving a 20-year term for escape and attempted murder, had been accused twice before of taking hostages. He had been cleared Friday of charges in one incident after another inmate testified that he had forced Wayne to participate.
The guards were seized Friday evening after a brief rampage in which an inmate was beaten and stabbed, another convict beaten and windows and furniture broken.
The two injured inmates were accused on Easter Sunday of taking nine gospel singers and a prison chaplain hostage. The 10 were released unharmed, but prison spokesman Steve Robinson said the attacks may have been "reprisals because the other inmates didn't like the hostage-taking of religious people."
In all, 43 people have been taken hostage at the Nevada prison in the past year. None was injured.
In Ionia, Dale Foltz, warden of the Michigan Reformatory, said his youthful charges would be responsible for cleaning up the mess left by their eight-hour rampage.
That melee ended Saturday when guards and state troopers, firing choking tear gas, herded the inmates back into their cells.
Four guards received minor injuries during the incident. Eighteen prisoners were wounded, one critically, in fighting among the inmates, who range in age from 15 to 23.

Authorities said that uprising began when fights broke out during an exercise session in the prison yard. Guard who tried to stop the fights were robbed of their keys.
Foltz attributed the uprising to the disturbance in Jackson, 75 miles to the southeast, and to overcrowding and warm weather.
The reformatory, opened in 1877, houses 1,446 in a space for 1,125.
Some 24 inmates were hurt by other prisoners during Friday's outbreak in Jackson, which began when guards began an unauthorized lockdown which inmates feared would leave them in their cells for the Memorial Day weekend, said Corrections Director Perry Johnson.

Prison officials persuaded the inmates to return to their cells after about 13 hours. The uprising was said to be the worst at the 57.6-acre prison since a $2.5 million riot in 1962 that left one convict dead and four police officers hurt.

Marine denies killing woman

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A 21-year-old Marine corporal was being held on $50,000 bond after pleading innocent to the slaying of a 24-year-old woman who was killed in one of three sniper attacks.
Cpl. Phillip J. Steeves is accused of killing Mary Ann Montecalvo, of Arlington, Va., who was shot in the chest with a handgun as she drove her car on U.S. 1 in Alexandria about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday. Steeves entered his plea Friday.
Minutes before the shooting of Ms. Montecalvo, a man was shot and wounded on the nearby Woodrow Wilson Bridge across the Potomac River. Another car was shot at in Maryland Wednesday morning, but no injuries were reported.
Alexandria police said they assume the incidents are related.

Joan Kennedy receives degree as estranged husband watches

BOSTON (AP) — Joan Kennedy received a master's degree Saturday as her estranged husband, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, looked on. Like thousands of other graduates, Mrs. Kennedy said she was looking for a job.
The senator, joined by the couple's three children, watched as Mrs. Kennedy, 45, received her degree at Lesley College.
"I don't have a job," said Mrs. Kennedy as she left the other graduates to join her family. "I'm looking for a job in the medium of television." She said she had had no offers yet.
Lesley, a Cambridge, Mass., school which prepares women for careers in education, awarded Mrs. Kennedy a master's degree in education. She is an accomplished pianist who specializes in music.
The award concluded a three-year program of study

she has described as "the beginning of a whole new life for me."
It was one of the few times Mrs. Kennedy and the senator have been seen together in public since their announcement in January that they planned to divorce after 22 years of marriage.
Mrs. Kennedy has lived in her own Boston apartment since 1978 as part of her effort to seek therapy to overcome alcoholism. She briefly ended their separation and joined Kennedy in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.
After the ceremony, Mrs. Kennedy joined her husband. He murmured, "Hello, Mommy," and kissed her. The family left together for a party at the Harvard Club.
"The divorce is on track," Kennedy said, declining to say when it will become effective.

READY TO RUSH — Carson City deputies and flak-jacketed SWAT team members prepare to enter the Nevada Maximum Security Prison early Saturday, where inmate David "Bang-Bang" Wayne was holding three prison guards hostage. The guards were released unharmed and Wayne surrendered. The officers herded other inmates back into their cells. (AP LASERPHOTO)

Prosecutors mum on motive

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Prosecutors say they have come up with a motive for a barrage of gunfire that left four people dead and 19 wounded in a tavern packed with a ladies' night crowd.
Lawrence W. Moore, 25, of Scio, Ore., pleaded innocent by reason of insanity Friday to four counts of first-degree murder in the May 7 incident.
Assistant District Attorney Dale Penn said authorities have finally come up with a motive for the killings, but refused to disclose it. "We will present a theory to the jury," he told reporters.

'Y' programs begin June 1

The Summer YMCA programs will begin June 1. The Y will have the only handicapped swim lesson program in this area. This program will be taught by certified handicapped instructors.
In this program the handicapped are aided in learning to move through the water. Most doctors recommend swimming as therapy because it can be a rewarding experience for everyone.
These lessons are not restricted to any age or swimming level. Classes will be held June 1, fee is $7.50 for members and $15 for non-members.

Bond denied jail escapee

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A hearing was held Friday in Mitchell County's 32nd District courtroom for George Miles, who attempted to escape from the Mitchell County jail Sunday, May 17.
Assistant District Attorney Lonnie Markley asked that Miles be denied bond, a request the court sustained.
A second escapee, Darren Woody, is being held on a bench warrant from the state penitentiary.

Lawmakers scrambling to push own measures

Harte Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — With days rather than weeks remaining in the legislative session the frustration level is increasing and House and Senate members are scrambling to push through a few more pieces of their own legislation.

Here are some of the key votes by your local or area legislators:

HOUSE

On a motion to table, and thus defeat, an amended redistricting plan that would help protect the Democratic party's congressional seats. The motion prevailed 36-58.

For: Walter Grubbs of Abilene
 Against: Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring

On tentative approval of the House version of a congressional redistricting plan.

The motion prevailed 103-42. (The vote on final passage was 104-37).

For: Shaw, Grubbs.
 On a motion to adopt a conference committee compromise revising the state-required curriculum for public schools, dropping such subjects as penmanship, mental arithmetic and hygiene. The motion prevailed, 87-51.

For: Grubbs.
 Against: Shaw.

On a motion calling for a constitutional amendment allowing a political subdivision to exempt from property taxes a portion of the value of a homestead — up to 40 percent of the home's market value in 1982, 30 percent in 1983 and 20 percent in 1984 and thereafter. The motion prevailed 133-13.

For: Shaw, Grubbs.

On final passage of a bill providing for the arrest of someone for public intoxication if they are "an immediate danger" to themselves or someone else. Present law reads "may endanger" themselves or someone else. The motion prevailed 13-16.
 Against: Farabee.

The motion prevailed 81-59.

Against: Shaw, Grubbs.

On a motion to table, and thus defeat, a Senate bill that would allow insurance companies to raise the interest rates to a maximum of 15 percent in loans made to policyholders.

The motion prevailed 72-61. (A vote for the motion was a vote against allowing the increase in interest rates).

For: Shaw.
 Against: Grubbs.

On tentative approval of a bill requiring all local and state governmental entities to set aside 10 percent of their construction projects for bids from minority businesses, including those owned by women. The motion prevailed 68-65.

Against: Shaw, Grubbs.

SENATE

On final passage of a bill allowing the state to furnish non-religious textbooks for students attending private schools.

The motion prevailed 22-8.
 Against: Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls.

On a motion to ask Congress to propose a constitutional amendment allowing voluntary group prayer in public schools. The motion prevailed 26-5.

For: Farabee.

On a motion to consider a bill strengthening portions of the state open meetings law. One provision would make any action void if it was done in violation of the open meetings act.

The motion prevailed 23-7. (The bill passed on final reading 28-3).

For: Farabee.

On a motion to table, and thus defeat, an amendment to the bilingual education bill calling for those students unable to leave the program within four years to be placed in an alternative transitional language program until the student is able to meet exit criteria. The motion failed 13-16.
 Against: Farabee.

County commissioners call conference with librarian

Due to the Memorial Day holiday, Howard County commissioners will meet at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the commissioners courtroom.

A conference with Steve Childress concerning Trinity Memorial is on the agenda, as are conferences with Bill Mims, county engineer, and Bonnie Franklin, treasurer, who will discuss employee changes.

 A discussion about the De-Tox center with Dr. Lanier Dunn is planned, as is a conference with Judith Gray, librarian, concerning Cable TV.

The group will also consider sale of property belonging to the county, and will discuss a tax appraisal contract with the county.

PILE-DRIVING MEN — When the Texas and Pacific Railway was pushing westward toward Big Spring in the 1880s, wooden beams on the trestles that had to be built were hammered into place with this equipment. Men were assigned before to make sure that the supports were sunk in the right places.

House okays radioactive waste disposal bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill setting in motion the creation of a Texas burial ground for radioactive waste won final House approval today. The bill returns to the Senate, which passed it 29-0 earlier in the session, for action on House amendments, including one limiting the Texas disposal site to Texas-produced waste. Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, made a last attack on the bill, saying the kind of wastes that would be concentrated in the Texas burial ground would have radiation levels high enough to cause cancer.

House members passed the bill, 106-24. The bill would create a Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority with a six-member board, including a doctor, a health physicist, a geologist, a lawyer and two private citizens. The authority would be required by law to locate a site for a nuclear waste disposal site, acquire the land and either operate the burying ground itself or contract with a private business to run it. A site could be chosen only after a public hearing in the area concerned. Costs of operating the burial ground and of "perpetual care" after it is filled up and covered would be paid by those sending waste materials to the site.

Senators approve wiretap bill in daylong debate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Brushing aside arguments of "political expediency," Texas senators approved 23-5 Saturday a bill that would let state police officers place wiretaps in drug cases. The measure now goes back to the House for approval of numerous changes made by the Senate after the House passed it initially. "It's a question of giving in to political expediency or protecting our individual liberties," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, who talked for an hour and a half to end day-long debate of the bill.

"I think this is a despicable act," said Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, who offered an amendment to let Attorney General Mark White approve wiretaps, instead of the DPS director. Howard argued that the Texas attorney general does not have responsibility for enforcement of criminal laws. The amendment was tabled 20-8. Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, proposed elimination of a provision allowing "covert entry" to plant eavesdropping devices. "This just allows breaking and entering a private home or business, doing anything they want to do to plant a bug," said Caperton.

Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless, suggested that most "covert entries" would be made with a landlord's key or, at worst, by picking a lock. "They're certainly not going to kick down a door to plant a secret microphone," he said. Caperton's amendment failed 16-11. An effort by Doggett to allow wiretapping for official misconduct as well as for drug dealers failed 18-7. "I think we should let the government spy on itself," Doggett said.

Reagan rides favorite horse; neighbors gripe

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — While President Reagan went riding Saturday on his favorite horse at his remote mountain ranch, county officials and social workers here charged his proposed budget cut would strap his home county financially and force cutbacks in services for the young, old, disabled and poor. "We're President Reagan's neighbors," said Marty Klein, a sociologist who has studied the impact of the proposed Reagan budget on human services in Santa Barbara County and who called a news conference timed to attract members of the White House press corps who accompanied the president to the West Coast. A coalition of about three dozen social service agencies in the area has formed to fight the spending proposals. With restrictions on his activities lifted, the president also planned to clean up some of the brush downed in a March storm and split wood with a hydraulic gadget, his spokesman said. Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan had no plans to receive visitors at his ranch near here, where he is spending the weekend. Speakes said the president had reviewed a written national security briefing on the Middle East trip of his special envoy, Philip Habib. Although the White House physician, Dr. Daniel Ruge, was placing no restrictions on the president's physical activity, Speakes said, "I wouldn't say" that Reagan was "completely recovered" from the wounds he received during the March 30 attempt on his life. He said the doctor "was not saying he could jump tables or ride horses in a steeplechase." Speakes said the president and his wife, Nancy, had breakfast alone at their five-bedroom ranch house. The president was atop "Little Man," a 17-year-old "horoughbred, and Mrs. Reagan rode a horse called "No Strings."

For today's prestigious race

Dangerous Indy 500 scene set

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — field and a handful of hard-charging veterans are deep in the pack to provide the most volatile elements for the 68th Indianapolis 500 on Sunday.

The race shapes up as perhaps the most dangerous Indy since the three days of fire and rain in 1973, when one driver was fatally injured, one racing mechanic was killed, another driver was severely injured and several spectators were splashed by burning gasoline in a series of crashes and accidents in the rain.

"It's always dangerous, particularly at the start of the race when you have so many young drivers and a lot of guys toward the back who want to get up front in a hurry," said Unser, who took the pole with a four-lap qualifying average of 200.546 mph.

"But a lot of us have talked to the rookies about the pitfalls and we'll talk to 'em again before the race," Unser added. "And those other guys back there, like (Tom) Sneva, (Danny) Ongais and Mario (Andretti), know you don't win a 500-mile race in the first few laps."

Mike Mosley, who qualified at 197.141 mph, and A.J. Foyt, the only four-time Indy winner, at 196.078, join Unser on the front row of the 33-car field.

In the second of 11 rows of color-splashed racers are 1976 winner Gordon Johncock at 195.429, defending champion and three-time winner Johnny Rutherford at 195.387 and the fastest rookie, 22-year-old Josele Garza of Mexico at 195.101.

Other former winners in the field include three-time champion Al Unser — Bobby's younger brother — in row three, 1979 winner Rick Mears in row eight and Andretti in the middle of the last row.

Bobby Unser, struggling all month to get his new Longhorn racer going fast enough to compete with the other hotshots, wound up qualifying at 192.719. Mears had to abort a very fast qualifying attempt after two laps because of a bad coil and wound up putting the Penske team's backup car into the lineup at 194.018.

And Andretti had a driving commitment for last Sunday's Belgian Grand Prix, so he had to let old friend Wally Dallenbach qualify his car here. So even though Dallenbach sailed through the time trials at 193.040, Andretti wound up in the last row because the rules require any qualified car which has a driver change to go to the back.

Two of the fastest qualifiers wound up side-by-side in the seventh row. Sneva, who wasn't eligible to run for the pole because the car he put in the field was not in the original qualifying line, was the fastest at 200.691. Ongais, who lost his chance at the front because of a broken starter rod on the first weekend of trials, was third fastest of the 33 starters at 197.694.

BEARING DOWN — Los Angeles Dodgers rookie sensation Fernando Valenzuela shows his determination after delivering a pitch in the first inning of a game with the Cincinnati Reds. Valenzuela was not as effective as usual, but the Dodgers still managed to take a 9-6 extra inning win over the Reds. For story, see Page 3-B.

Errors spark UT win in regionals

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas scored two ninth-innings runs, including the game-winner on a two-out throwing error, to take a 3-2 win over Lamar in the NCAA baseball central regionals Saturday night.

Lamar, 54-25, will play Stanford, a 2-1 Saturday winner over Brigham Young, in an elimination game Sunday. No. 5 Texas, 57-8-1, will play the BYU. Lamar winner Sunday night.

Lamar pitcher Tony Mack baffled the Longhorn hitters until the bottom of the ninth. The Cardinals scored two first-inning runs and Mack, who lost a one-hitter to Texas this year, looked strong enough to make them stand.

Texas pulled to within a run in the seventh when designated hitter Mark Reynolds homered to right. Reynolds also started the ninth-inning rally with a one-out single to left. Catcher Burk Goldthorn followed with a twisting drive to left that dribbled out of Jeff Kennedy's glove as he dived for the ball. Jim Tompkins, running for Reynolds, wound up on third and Goldthorn made it to second.

Mack intentionally walked Randy Richards, and pinch-hitter Kirk Killingsworth knocked in the tying run with a sacrifice fly to right.

Centerfielder Randy Day, a last-inning substitute, hit a slow bouncer to third baseman Kim Christenson. But Christen's throw to first skipped by Lew Surratt and Goldthorn scored the winning run.

Mike Withrow, who relieved Texas starter Robert Culley in the sixth, pitched 31-3 scoreless innings to get the win.

Stanford's win over Brigham Young was also due to a ninth-inning throwing error. Shortstop Dave Meier ripped a single to right and dodged a tag on his way to second to allow Stanford to score the winning run.

BSHS great athletes to be honored Wednesday

Big Spring will honor its outstanding athletes during the past century on Wednesday evening at K-Bob's Steakhouse as a part of the Centennial Celebration.

The affair, which will begin at six o'clock, will honor those athletes that have done extraordinary well in the world of athletics beyond their career at BSHS.

Many of these exes were invited to attend, but some could not attend. Among those expected to be in attendance are Cliff Patton, John Thomas Smitin, among others. Charlie Johnson, former NFL star quarterback for St. Louis Houston and Denver and BSHS grad in the late 1950s, might also attend.

Many awards will be presented in the evening, according to Big Spring Athletic Director Ron Logback, who has arranged the small banquet.

Features Old-Timers vs. BSHS team Centennial Baseball Game today

Baseball fans who followed the Big Spring professional teams here through the 40s and 50s should get a kick out of a 2 p.m., exhibition scheduled today at Steer Park.

A team composed partly of former professionals and partly by local sandlot standouts of another era will oppose Frank Ibarra's Big Spring High School team.

Al Valdes put the team of former pros and sandlot standouts together. He expects to have such former greats as Pat Stasey, Oscar Reguera, Manny Junco, Pepper Martin and Tito Arenchiba available for play.

Also in uniform for the Oldtimers will be Cotton Mize, Marion Tredaway, Jim Baum, Ron Logback, Jimmy Roger, James Hollis, Huck Doe and others. Invitations were extended to Carlos (Potato) Pascual, Charley West and Gil Guerra but Valdes couldn't get commitments from them.

In reality, there will be a doubleheader today, with two powerful local sandlot clubs, the Cardinals and the Yankees, tangling in the afterpiece.

The first game, which is part of the Big Spring-Howard County Centennial Celebration program, will even have cheerleaders. Sherry Bordsoske, Kay Burns, Frances Wheat, Patty Horton and Johnny Lou Avery are among those who have volunteered to lead the fans in cheers.

Admission for two contests is a modest $1.

History says pole position helpful

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Does it really matter where a driver starts the Indianapolis 500? Does a front-row start provide that much of an advantage in an automobile race that lasts 500 miles and takes more than three hours to run?

Historically, yes. The pole-position starter has won 11 of the previous 64 runnings of the world's richest automobile race, and the car starting from the second spot on the front row has carried the winner 10 times.

The next-best starting spots for eventual Indy winners have been the outside of the front row and the inside of the third row, with six victories apiece. No other starting position has had more than four winners.

There's a logical reason for this, of course, since the starting spots toward the front of the 33-car field are awarded on the basis of four-lap qualification speeds. And the better cars, with the better drivers, usually log the better speeds to get the better spots.

Thus it's no mystery why Bobby Unser is starting Sunday's race on the inside of the front row. He was consistently the fastest driver in practice all month and grabbed the pole position with a qualifying average above 200 mph.

Mike Mosley, a veteran of 13 previous Indy races, has never finished higher than third, but he qualified in the middle of the front row. A.J. Foyt, the only four-time Indy winner, will start on the outside of the front row.

Both winners in 1979 and 1980 — Rick Mears and Johnny Rutherford — started from the pole, and no winner since Rutherford in 1974 has started farther back than fifth. That can't be much comfort to a handful of fast drivers who for one reason or another are starting well back in the lineup this year.

Winfield muscles NY win

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Winfield's tie-breaking two-run homer in the third gave the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over Cleveland Saturday night in a game that featured a triple play by the Indians.

Dave Righetti, 1-0, allowed four hits in seven innings. He was relieved by Ron Davis, who got a save.

Dennis Werth opened the three-run Yankee third off loser Rick Waits, 4-3, with a single and scored on Larry Milbourne's double. One out later, Winfield connected.

Heading into final day on Nicklaus' course

Tie develops at Memorial Golf

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — From a commanding lead, Craig Stadler fell victim to consecutive double bogeys and dropped into a 3-way tie for the top spot Saturday in the third round of the Memorial golf tournament.

Stadler, still chunky but 40 pounds lighter than when he won two titles last season, finished with a 1-under-par 71 and a 212 total, four strokes under par on Jack Nicklaus' grindingly difficult, 7,116-yard Muirfield Village Golf Club course.

He was tied for the lead with Tom Kite and 41-year-old former Masters champion George Archer. Kite, a winner in Florida earlier this season, and Archer each had a 69 in the warm, hazy weather.

Tom Watson, the British Open and Masters champion, pulled his game together for a string of three consecutive birdies that produced a 69 and left him one stroke back at 213.

"It was a sloppy round. I didn't hit the ball all that well. I wasn't consistent. That's the problem," said Watson, who has won player of the year honors the past four seasons.

But he's in position to make a challenge for the title he won in 1979. "The key to tomorrow is getting off to a good start," he said. "If you get off to a bad start, this course is too difficult to make up much ground."

He was tied with second-round leader Keith Fergus, Ben Crenshaw and D.A. Weibring. Fergus slipped to a 74; Weibring and Crenshaw had 70s.

Jack Renner, Mike Sullivan, Bob Murphy and Canadian Dan Hallderson were at 214, putting 11 golfers within two strokes of each other going into Sunday's final round in the chase for a $63,000 first prize. Renner had a 69, Sullivan a 70, Murphy, 71 and Hallderson, 74.

Nicklaus, the host, tournament founder and course designer, was within striking distance before bogeying the 15th and 16th holes for a 74 that left him five shots back at 217.

TUMBLING INTO A TIE — Craig Stadler, left, flips his ball out of the creek on the 14th hole and George Archer, right, watches his shot from the bunker on the 18th as each golfer dropped from the lead in the third round of the Memorial Tournament in Dublin, Ohio, Saturday, after encountering problems. The water hazard was the start of a bad streak for Stadler while leading and Archer's bogey on the 18th dropped him into a tie for the lead.

Sutton surprised in spitball lesson

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A spoof on baseball featuring illegal pitches was supposed to be a "surprise," NBC says. But the TV network was forced to scrap the project when its crew was surprised by observers, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Don Sutton of the Houston Astros, was to don a mask to demonstrate the illegal throws, the newspaper said Thursday. The network even planned to reverse the film so Sutton would look like a lefty.

But Sutton refused to go ahead with the project when a Globe-Democrat reporter, Dick Wagner, and photographer Jack Fahland showed up at the University of Missouri practice field Wednesday.

"That's it, I'm not doing it," Sutton said. "I'm 36 years old and I don't need this." Sutton reportedly told people at the field he was worried umpires might find out he was selected as the expert for the project.

"I don't know anything," Sutton said when contacted later.

Hite has rare lead in Corning

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Kathy Hite, changing her luck with an 80-foot birdie putt, fashioned her third straight under-par round Saturday to open a 3-stroke lead with a 6-under-par total of 210 in the $125,000 Corning Classic women's golf tournament.

Rookie Patty Sheehan, the first-day leader with a 66, fired an even-par 73 for second place with 212 in the Ladies Professional Golf Association event.

Cathy Morse, who shared the 36-hole lead with Sheehan and Hite, and Kyle O'Brien, another rookie, were third with 214 total, while Jan Ferraris, Debbie Austin and Nancy Lopez-Melton were bunched five shots off the pace at 215.

Odessa College easy winner at NJCAA

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Odessa College of Texas won both relays and three individual events, piled up 100 points and romped to a one-sided victory at the 40th annual National Junior College Athletic Association track and field championships Saturday night.

Odessa took the 400 meter relay in a time of 40.30 and the 1,600 meter relay with 3:06.81.

Ruffell Mitchell, named the outstanding men's division performer, won the 400-meter dash in 46.20 and the long jump with a wind-aided 25-8 1/2.

Mitchell was one of three double winners. Wilson Kigen of South Plains won the 5,000 and 10,000 meter runs, and Brian Muir of Scottsdale, Ariz., who won the shot put and discus.

Carl Young of South Plains set a record in the 400 meter hurdles with a time of 50.13, breaking his own record of 50.84, established Friday in the semifinals.

Mount Hood, Ore., College, led by sprinter Kim Parrish, captured the women's division by an 82-44 margin over cross-state rival Lane Community College. Parrish was named the division's outstanding performer, taking wins in the 100 and 200 meter dashes and anchoring Lane's winning 400 meter relay team.

Mississippi Valley wins 2nd straight NAIA track crown

HOUSTON (AP) — Mississippi Valley, anchored by Larry White in the 400-meter relay, sprinted to a come-from-behind victory and its second consecutive National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics track and field championship Saturday night.

The defending champions, who trailed Abilene Christian going into the final event, jumped ahead in the first lap of the 400-meter relay and never trailing. Texas Southern, trying to win its third national championship in four years, finished second in the event for the runner-up honor, and Abilene Christian dropped to third.

Howe reaches 22 in Astro win

HOUSTON (AP) — Cesar Cedeno and Alan Ashby both drove in two runs and Art Howe extended his hitting streak to 22 games as the Houston Astros defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-3 Saturday night.

Cedeno staked the Astros to an early 2-0 lead with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and RBI single in the third, scoring Terry Puhl each time.

Puhl walked, stole second and was sacrificed to third prior to scoring in the first inning. Puhl doubled and went to third on Craig Reynolds' grounder before scoring the second time.

Houston chased San Francisco starter Ed Whitson, 1-5, with two more runs in the fifth inning on a double by Ashby and a single by relief pitcher Bobby Sproll.

The Giants scored a run in the fifth when Enos Cabell doubled and came home on Darrell Evans' single.

Braves sparked by Rufino

ATLANTA (AP) — Rufino Linares belted a three-run homer and delivered a game-winning, 11th-inning single Saturday night as the Atlanta Braves defeated the San Diego Padres 7-6.

Linares' single scored Rafael Ramirez, who had doubled off Gary Lucas, 3-5, the Padres' fifth pitcher. The victory went to Rick Camp, 4-1, who hurled three scoreless innings in relief.

Ump helps triple play

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cleveland Indians turned a triple play in the sixth inning of Saturday night's game against the New York Yankees.

Barry Foote opened the inning with a single and Graig Nettles bunted. Both were safe. Bucky Dent grounded to third. Indian third baseman Toby Harrah stepped on the base forcing Foote and threw to second baseman Alan Bannister to force Nettles.

When Nettles barreled into Bannister, spoiling any chance at a relay to first, second base umpire John Shulock ruled interference, completing the triple play.

It was the third triple play in the American League this season and the second in two nights. Oakland and Seattle completed the others.

best round of the afternoon, were at even-par 216.

Hite, 32, a seventh-year tour veteran, never has won over $14,100 in a single year and has just $3,488 in two tournaments this season. But she shot herself into the driver's seat for the $18,750 first prize with a hot 69 on the 6,286-yard Corning Country Club course.

She picked up two strokes on Morse and Sheehan, her co-leaders at the tournament's midway point, with her long putt on No. 13, a 420-yard par-4 with a two-tiered green.

"I was right at the bottom and couldn't see where it was going, but when it went in it really picked me up. I think that was the turning point. I picked up two strokes," Hite said.

Sheehan and Morse both bogeyed the 13th to rise to 2-under-par while Hite was dropping to 7-under.

A's finally win in 15th

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Mitchell Page raced home from third base on Rickey Henderson's shallow bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 15th inning Saturday, giving the Oakland A's a 3-2 victory over Toronto.

The A's loaded the bases with none out. Page drew a leadoff walk from Luis Leal, 2-5, Rob Picciolo singled and Shooty Babbitt beat out a punt

Frankie Rubio earns MVP at Midwestern

Frank Rubio, a native of Big Spring and a graduate of Big Spring High School, has completed a two-year baseball career with the Midwestern State University Indians.

The 6'2" right handed pitcher transferred to MSU from Texas Southwest College in Brownsville. As a junior at Midwestern "Rube" participated in only four games because of an injury.

As a senior, Rubio started on the mound in 16 games with a 11-3 record on the year. He pitched 96 innings with an era of 4.31.

His performance as a senior was outstanding and Frank was named to the NAIA All-District as a right-hander and the MSU 1981 Most Valuable Pitcher.

DeCinces boosts Orioles

DETROIT (AP) — Doug DeCinces belted a pair of two-run homers and Eddie Murray had a solo shot Saturday to back the nine-hit pitching of Mike Flanagan and Sammy Stewart as the Baltimore Orioles romped to a 9-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Rozema, 24, in the fourth, Ken Singleton hit a leadoff triple and scored on Murray's grounder.

DeCinces singled to start the fifth, went to second on a wild pitch, took third on a grounder and came home on a single by Al Bumbry. Murray led off the sixth with his fourth homer, chasing Rozema.

Flanagan, 6-3, allowed five hits and struck out seven in the 5-1-3 innings he worked.

Gold stops Black rally in final seconds

By NATHAN POSS

The Gold squad held off a frantic sixth quarter rally in the final seconds to take a 20-16 win over the Richard Evans led Black in the Big Spring Steer spring training football finale.

The wild final quarter made for a more exciting than usual spring training game, but much of that could be attributed to the seeming intensity on the part of both teams.

The Gold actually drove to the Black 22 yard line in the final minute, but at that point the Black team stiffened, forcing the Gold to give the ball up on downs with 16 seconds remaining.

The Black's surge began with only seven minutes left as they trailed 20-8.

First, Evans led them on a 75-yard march in which he picked up the majority of the real estate, negotiating the final 27 steps through the right side to score and narrow the Gold lead to 20-14. Evans then raced around the right end for the two-point conversion and move the score to 20-16.

The Black got the ball one more time and began to move, with a quick 25 yards by Evans moving them into Gold territory. They made one more first down, but by this time the clock was also a factor against them.

Nearly forced to throw at this point, the Gold secondary rose to the occasion.

The Gold took the early lead in the contest on the first play of the game on a run by Eric Sherman.

But the Black came back to count eight points during the JV section of the contest, which lasted for the first two of the six quarter bout, giving them an 8-6 lead.

But Sherman put the Gold back on top for good in the fourth quarter on a plunge up the middle and a 14-8 lead following the successful two-point conversion.

The Gold, which was victimized by fumbles throughout the contest, moved to inside the Black one-yard line late in the fifth stanza, only to fumble and see the Gold recover in their own end zone for a touch-back.

But the Gold put on what proved to be the clinching touchdown three minutes into the final stanza, and it was on a perfectly executed reverse pass-play.

George Bancroft took the ball from his outside position on the right on the reverse and headed left. As the Black secondary read the play, they pursued up field, leaving Alan Trevino wide open deep down the left sideline. Bancroft played the role of Fawcett perfectly, drilling a perfect strike to Trevino, who accepted it and easily loped to the end zone.

That set the stage for the Black comeback, which was to fall short.

Returning starter at quarterback, Tracy Spence, who directed the Gold team for much of the night, felt his team should have won by a larger margin. "We should have scored five or six touchdowns, but we just kept fumbling," said Spence.

George Bancroft (5) also seems to be moving his own man back, although it was surely to be a block. Other Black defenders pursuing the play include Tony Molina (76), Mike Sauls (8) and Bill Amos (41). The Gold won, 20-16.

Spence revealed that he believes the Steers to be much further ahead of last year at this time, when the squad was just getting used to Coach Ralph Harris and his basically new staff.

"We're so much stronger and playing a lot better after this spring. We've got some depth this year, especially at the running back position.

Richard Evans has really improved as a running back, getting much quicker and stronger," and Danny Stephens looked good in the spring. When we get Bobby (Williams, the Steer All-District runner last fall) back in the fall, our backfield should really be tough. "We've still got some things that we need work on," Spence continued, "but if we work hard for this season and keep a good attitude, we should have a good team."

Roadrunner Classic popular second time around

Over a hundred runners showed up early Saturday morning for the Second Annual Roadrunner Classic, with numerous winners being awarded in the various age classifications.

The top female runner in the five-mile run was Sherrill Easterling, as expected, who ran a time of 35:58. The top male runner in the longer five-mile event was Stephen Stallings, who edged John Bednarski by only two seconds, 27:08 to 27:10.

In the two-mile competition, the pace setters in their respective sexes were James Hodges and Mary Tollison. Hodges ran a time of 11:15 to edge BSHS track teammate Javier Calderon by nine seconds, while Tollison's time of 13:50 was nearly one minute ahead of her closest competitor.

The race began and ended at the Comanche Trail Park Pavilion. The event was sponsored by the Herald, Big Spring Athletics, and the YMCA.

Dodgers save Valenzuela, game

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pinch-hitter Jay Johnstone got rookie sensation Fernando Valenzuela off the hook with a ninth-inning homer and Los Angeles scored four times in the 10th on a pair of bases-loaded walks and Ken Landreua's single to defeat Cincinnati 9-8 Saturday.

Cubs rip Expos

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Dillard and Ivan DeJesus delivered the tying and lead runs with singles in the seventh inning Saturday to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 6-4 victory over the Montreal Expos.

The runs came off reliever Woody Fryman, but Ray Burris, 2-4, took the loss. Rick Reuschel, 2-5, was the winner, with Dick Tidrow pitching the last two innings and gaining his second save.

The Expos took a 2-2 lead into the seventh and rookie Tim Raines stole home to make it 3-2. But with one out in the bottom of the seventh, Jerry Morales singled, Ken Reitz was hit by a pitch and Dillard and DeJesus knocked in two runs.

The Cubs added two runs in the eighth and Raines homered in the ninth.

The Boston-Milwaukee baseball game has resumed in the sixth inning after a 56-minute rain delay.

Valenzuela, 8-1, went eight innings as he failed to post a decision for the first time in 10 starts. He yielded eight hits, six walks and five runs, as his earned run average rose to 1.24.

Winner Dave Stewart, 3-0, Terry Forster and Bobby Castillo combined on two innings of relief. Three double plays helped Valenzuela, and the Dodgers slammed four homers, including Johnstone's off Tom Hume.

Ron Cey started the Dodgers' 10th-inning burst with a one-out single off Paul Moskau, 1-1, the third Reds pitcher, and Pedro Guerrero singled Cey to third. Moskau fielded Steve Yeager's tapper and threw to first for the out as Guerrero took second.

Pepe Frias was intentionally walked to load the bases and set the stage for run-scoring walks to Joe Ferguson and Bill Russell.

Benitez makes boxing history

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wilfred Benitez became the first fighter to win a title in three divisions in more than 40 years Saturday with a stunning one-punch, 12th-round knockout over Maurice Hope for the World Boxing Council super welterweight championship.

Benitez hit Hope square in the face with a jarring right to win at 1:56 of the round in a nationally televised fight from the Sports Pavilion at Caesars Palace. The referee didn't even bother to count.

Benitez, 22, of Puerto Rico, virtually finished the fight in the sixth round, then toyed with Hope, of England, for the next six rounds before the final telling blow.

Hope went down in the 10th round from a right hand high to the head, but was back up almost immediately. Hope had been backing up and the blow could have thrown him off balance.

Hope remained down for several minutes after the fight ended and was examined by ring physician Donald Romeo.

Benitez became the first Puerto Rican to win a title in three boxing weight classes. Armstrong lost the last of his titles, the welterweight championship, in 1940. Other triple champions include Bob Fitzsimmons, Tony Canzoneri and Barney Ross.

The other titles won by the Puerto Rican were the universal junior welterweight title and the WBC welterweight title, which he lost to Sugar Ray Leonard in 1979.

Hope, 29, born on the West Indian island of Antigua, was defending the title for the fourth time.

Hope's troubles began in the sixth round when a solid right, left, right combination put him on the ropes where Benitez raked him a series of combinations to the head and body. Hope's face swelled almost immediately and he was bleeding from the mouth at the end of round. At one point, the defending champion stumbled while backpedaling and nearly fell through the ropes.

Benitez was cut over each eye, once in the fourth round and again in the ninth. But neither cut appeared serious.

From the sixth round on, Benitez, who also scored well to the body, literally played with Hope, staying either in the corner or on the ropes, but still outpunching the defending champion. Benitez simply was biding his time.

Each fighter weighed 153 1/2 pounds, three-quarters of a pound under the class limit. Hope, now 29-3-1, received $250,000 while Benitez, now 41-1-1, earned $175,000.

Red Sox roll

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dave Schmidt lined a solo homer, Dave Stapleton drove in three runs and Tony Perez hit a two-run single, leading Boston over the Milwaukee Brewers 8-1 Saturday.

Boston took a 1-0 first-inning lead and it was 3-0 in the second after Schmidt's homer.

Boston's Mike Torrez, 4-2, carried a three-hitter into the bottom of the sixth when rain delayed play. When the game resumed, singles by Jim Gantner, Yount and Cooper filled the bases with one out.

BACK TO MINORS — Major league veterans Luis Tiant, left, and Willie Horton — combined age 77 — are back in the minors with the Portland Beavers of the Class AAA Pacific Coast League. Tiant and Horton are the elder statesmen on an unusually old minor league club that has seven players over 30.

Wilder's Camp sets July dates

Harold Wilder, director of the popular basketball Camp of Champs, hosted each summer by Howard College, has announced the dates for the ninth annual basketball camp.

Camp dates for girls will be July 6-10. The camp dates for boys will be July 13-17.

The Camp of Champs was conceived with the idea of providing youngsters with top flight basketball instruction in all fundamentals of basketball.

Corsicana hosts Jr. golfers

The Sixth Annual Corsicana Daily Sun Junior Amateur Golf Championships will be held July 11-12 at the Oaks in Corsicana.

Junior golfers will be competing in six age groups in boys and girls divisions. Boy's division players will compete in age groups from 9 thru 17 and girls 10 thru 17.

Entry fee for the 36-hole event are $10 for those 12 years of age and over and $5 for all others.

Entries may be mailed to The Corsicana Daily Sun, P.O. Box 622, Corsicana, Texas 75110. Information may be obtained by calling during business hours at 214-872-3931.

Marquez Bros. handball next weekend

The Marquez Brothers Invitational Handball Tournament has been set here for May 29-30 at the local YMCA, with any and all area players welcome to participate.

There will be an A, B and C division, with singles play only. Those losing their first round matches will be pitted into the consolation bracket.

The entry fee should be made payable to the local Y, with the cost being 15 dollars. Entry deadline is May 26.

As well as the normal prizes offered by the Marquez Brothers, there will be a homemade Mexican food at noon served. Regular prizes include trophies for first, second and third place winners, as well as consolation survivors. T-shirts will be given to all contestants.

Reservations for the tournament will not be accepted by phone. Play will start on May 29 at 5:00 p.m. All winners must referee the next match or forfeit.

The 1980 winners in this competitive affair were Bill Arencibia in the A Division, Tom Cherryhomes in the B Division, and Tony Marquez in the C Division.

Texas Hall of Fame gets rave reviews early

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Rave reviews greeted Saturday's long-awaited opening of the $4.5 million Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

"It's much more than I expected...they've done a great job," said Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, an enshrinee himself, after a tour of the two-story building crammed with Memorabilia, displays and exhibits.

Landry said he particularly liked the era exhibits which included in one instance an old Dallas street car, depicting the 1930s.

"This Hall of fame certainly brings back a lot of memories," he said. "And sometimes you forget that such greats as Willie Shoemaker and Ralph Guldahl and other people like that were Texans."

The shrine for Texas sports heroes was about 80 percent complete when the doors swung open Saturday after a banquet Friday night and a series of speeches Saturday.

A pennant explosion officially opened the structure. A small explosive device was affixed between some Hall of Fame pennants and on signal young boys and girls tugging in the opposite directions, causing it to go off.

On hand were such dignitaries as Lamar Hunt, the chairman of the Texas Sports Hall of Fame Foundation, millionaire Amon Carter, a strong backer of the project, Texas Sports Writers Association President Jones Ramsey, and Thad Johnson, the retired sports editor of the Beaumont Enterprise who conceived the idea for the Texas Sports Hall of Fame 32 years ago.

"I was surprised they had this much ready," said Hall of Famer Dr. Jim Swink, former TCU All-America selection. "I enjoyed it."

The oldest enshrinee to tour the building located just off Interstate 30 in Grand Prairie was 96-year-old Ray Morrison, who used to coach Southern Methodist's Flying Circus. Morrison came all the way from Florida for the occasion.

Hunt said, "We hope the building is fun and we want to bring back a lot of memories."

Memorabilia from the lives of most of the 250 enshrinees was on display inside the 25,000 square foot building with the notable exception of golfer Ben Hogan, who has yet to donate any golf clubs or the like from his many major tournament triumphs.

"It's amazing what they have done here," said recent enshrinee and former Baylor Coach and Athletic Director Jack Patterson. "You can thoroughly enjoy yourself in this place."

Lewisville homers end Lee season Cards steal from Giants

LEWISVILLE — For the second straight game, Lewisville used the home run to defeat the Midland Lee Rebels, and in the process send the District 5-AAAAA champion home from the state baseball playoffs.

Lewisville toppled the Rebels of Coach Ernie Johnson for the second straight game in this best of three bi-district series.

Phillies rally past Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manny Trillo tripled home two runs then scored the winning run on Garry Maddox's sacrifice fly as the Philadelphia Phillies rallied for three runs in the eighth and defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 Saturday night.

36-pound yellow catfish at Spence

Striped bass and catfish were the hottest varieties on the fishing report from Lake E. V. Spence during the past week.

One yellow catfish weighed in at just under 36 pounds, and a blue catfish at 18½ lbs. There were numerous striped bass in the intermediate range. Inflow into the lake finally eased off with the lake peaking at 1879.19 elevation. Some of the reports from the lake were:

Wildcat Fish-A-Rama — Bobby Smith, Kermit, and Doug Bair, Odessa, 5 lb. and 4 lb. strippers; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Masburn, Abilene, eight strippers at 9 lbs.

Skinny's Hillside Grocery — Wallace Turnilton, 11 channel catfish to 4 lbs. and a 4 lb. yellow catfish.

Wanorek's Point Creek Marina — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sonnamaker, Hobbs, N.M., two strippers 5 lbs., 14 oz. and 4 lb., 10 oz.; Robert Howard and Earl Barber, Odessa, a 35 lb., 14 oz. yellow catfish; T. R. Noe, Odessa, a 10-lb. striped and several small channel catfish; Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Walker and Alton Underwood, Big Spring, a 18-lb., 9-oz. blue catfish and a 7½ lb. striped; Doug and Cindy Phillips, San Angelo, two blue catfish 8 and 7½ lbs.; Mark Miller, Midland, 1 1½ black bass.

winning by a 3-1 count. All three of the runs were scored on home runs, one being a solo homer by Sam Burgess, and the other a two-run shot by Kevin Miller, the hero of game one.

Mike Crusoe who won game one, was matched in a scoreless duel with Lee's Randy Velarde until the sixth inning.

The Rebels had the bases loaded when Bron Beal came in for Crusoe to get Lee's Alan Koonce to pop out and then picked a runner off third to end the threat. Beal got the win on Friday, and picked up the save in Game 1 on Tuesday.

Lewisville was quickly decisive in the bottom of the sixth. First Burgess homered to tie the game at 1-1, and then following a single by Guy Larson, Miller tagged his big two-run blast over the left field fence.

Lee scored in the seventh when Bill Derr, who had walked, came home on a double by Barry Corley.

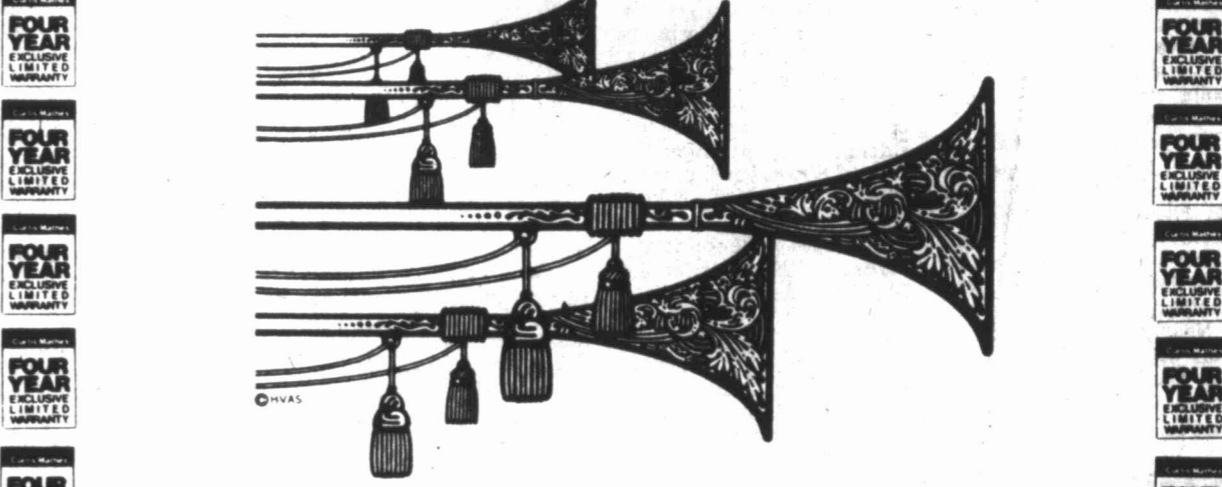

The win sends Lewisville into a regional battle against Arlington Sam Houston. Lee finished their season at 16-8.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals stole four bases and took advantage of six walks to score six times in the first three innings, including a two-run single by Ken Oberkfell, and went on to an 8-2 victory Saturday night over the New York Mets.

Winner Bob Forsch, 4-2, was lifted after two straight New York hits Jim Kaat got his third save.

It was bumpy week for Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Reagan's proposals, the road had been smooth. His spending cuts had been winning bipartisan support in Congress and editorial cartoonists were portraying Reagan atop a steamroller.

But a few potholes turned up last week, making the ride a bit bumpier. His Social Security proposals were soundly rebuffed. A key nomination was in deep trouble. And Reagan aides finally acknowledged they had to compromise over his plan to cut taxes.

In addition, pickets marched in front of the White House protesting the administration's vote in the World Health Organization against a code to ban promotion of infant formulas that could discourage breast feeding.

White House staff director David Gergen conceded it was "a rougher week" than normal, though he declined to characterize it as the president's worst.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said the nomination was in serious trouble, and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, privately urged the White House to withdraw the nomination.

But Reagan said Friday: "I'm committed," and his aides echoed that theme.

Lefever has been accused of insensitivity to human rights abuses by right-wing governments and of possible conflicts of interest in his opposition to curbs on the sale of infant formula in poor countries.

The White House is also concerned about bad publicity from its vote — only two other nations voted the same way — against the infant formula code.

The administration had what were described as "serious concerns" over WHO's involvement in commercial codes and objected to the setting of rigid rules affecting companies, health workers and the health care system around the globe.

City manager orders audit of police department funds

TYLER, Texas (AP) — City Manager Ed Wagner says he has ordered an audit of police department financial records because of allegations that money in an undercover narcotics operations may have been used improperly.

"I set this up without anyone knowing it," he said. "It has no impact unless it's done unannounced. I doubt if the people at the department know it's being done."

The allegations surfaced after a Texas Ranger met 10 days ago with U.S. Attorney John Hannah Jr. and Smith County District Attorney Hunter Brush to discuss tactics used by the department during a 1978-79 drug operation that resulted in the arrest of 97 people.

Two undercover officers, Kimberly Ramsey and Craig Matthews, who later married and left the force, played a key role in the operation.

The were both wounded in the spring of 1979 when a shotgun was fired into a house trailer just outside Tyler. Kenneth Bora was convicted of the shooting in 1980.

Hannah said after the meeting that a review would be conducted of the procedures used by police involved in the drug operation, but declined to elaborate further.

A federal grand jury that was to meet Tuesday but postponed the meeting due to a scheduling conflict has subpoenaed police and fire department records concerning the April 30, 1979 fire bombing of Kimberly Ramsey's car after the drug investigation had ended.

Wagner said the audit was not "casting doubt on anyone about doing this." He said he ordered it after people began "making allegations about missing money."

Wagner also said he has appointed a three-member panel to handle "internal management concerns" in the department and that the panel would report to the city manager and the city council.

Wagner said he would announce the results of the audit, being done by a Tyler company, at a news conference.

Beach traffic control bill passes Senate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senators approved 20-5 and sent to the House Saturday a bill that would control motor traffic on Texas beaches.

The bill, which was the object of delaying tactics for much of Friday quickly passed the Senate Saturday after a 14-12 vote to limit debate on the bill.

The measure, by Sen. James Brown, D-Lake Jackson, would allow cities or counties to prohibit vehicle traffic on beaches provided they furnish adequate access roads to the beaches and provide parking lots.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, and others, argued Friday the bill was backed by owners of condominiums and beach houses who want to close the beach to the public.

On the tax plan, Gergen cited progress in negotiating a compromise as a plus for the administration, but it looked certain that Reagan would be forced to back down from his desire for a 10 percent cut for three successive years.

One issue on which Reagan refused to budge is the nomination of Ernest W. Lefever to be his representative on human rights issues.

Anyone with special concerns about the well-being of the state's older population is invited to attend these forums," according to Mrs. Chris Kyker, Texas conference coordinator.

FUNERAL FOR HUNGER STRIKER — Father Brian McCreesh, brother of dead hunger striker Raymond McCreesh, is visible holding front of casket at right, and other unidentified men bear casket through the village of Camlough, Northern Ireland, en route to the cemetery Saturday. Flanking the procession are masked, uniformed members of the Irish Republican Army. (AP LASERPHOTO)

More violence stirred by death

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The flag-draped coffin of Irish Republican Army gunman Raymond McCreesh, carried by four brothers and flanked by six hooded IRA men, was carried to a hometown grave in Camlough near the Irish Republic border Saturday.

In Belfast and Londonderry, youths avenging the hunger striker's death attacked British troops and police.

An estimated 10,000 people were drawn by McCreesh's funeral to the tiny village of Camlough, deep in the heart of what the British army calls "bandit country."

Black flags hung from every building in the Republican stronghold as McCreesh's coffin, draped in the orange, white and green Irish tricolor, was carried from his home to St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church on a hill overlooking the village.

The cortege was led by a kilted bagpiper playing a lament. Six hooded IRA men in combat gear flanked the coffin and 12 women in black IRA uniforms marched behind.

Father Thomas Waisey said funeral Mass, and observed sadly, "Raymond would never have been involved in this type of situation, but for the historical circumstances in this land."

IRA gunmen emerged from the throng at the church gates to fire three volleys before quickly melting back into the crowd.

Several thousand troops and police moved into the Camlough area overnight to prevent trouble. But they kept a discreet distance, and the only visible military presence was a helicopter circling.

The burial of McCreesh, 24, followed two nights of violence in Belfast and Londonderry in reaction to his death early Thursday and that 21 hours later of 24-year-old Patrick O'Hara Thursday night. O'Hara is to be buried in his native Londonderry Monday.

Youths in Londonderry pitched gasoline bombs and homemade grenades packed with nails at authorities, police said. In Belfast, police reported the rioters used two new — and lethal — weapons: crossbows and catapults, but reported no one was hit.

Hospital officials in Belfast reported treating dozens of victims.

Police sources said that although the embattled province was quiet during the day Saturday, they expected renewed violence later in what has become a daily event since the death of hunger striker Bobby Sands May 5th in the Maze Prison near Belfast. Fellow faster and IRA-man Francis Hughes died May 12.

Sands and the others were fasting to back demands that they be allowed to wear their own clothing, associate among themselves and refrain from prison work — treatment that would amount to special political prisoner status.

McCreesh, 24, died on the 61st day of his fast. He was a member of the IRA's militant "Provisional" wing. The army said he was involved in a number of ambushes before he was captured in a shootout with paratroopers in 1976.

Host cities for forums on aging are listed

AUSTIN — Texas delegates to the national White House Conference on Aging will conduct five regional forums this summer in preparation for the Washington conference, Nov. 30-Dec. 4.

Host cities for the forums will be: Corpus Christi, June 2 (La Quinta Royale); Houston, June 16 (University of Texas Medical School); Tyler, June 25 (Tyler Junior College); Odessa, June 29 (Ector County Senior Citizens Center); and Lubbock, July 9 (Lubbock Christian College).

Anyone with special concerns about the well-being of the state's older population is invited to attend these forums," according to Mrs. Chris Kyker, Texas conference coordinator.

"At each forum, delegates will review and validate recommendations for resolving some of the major problems facing older

House approves sales tax interest measure

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House passed Saturday a bill giving the state half the interest that stores and credit card companies earn on the sales tax portion of installment purchases.

The bill went to the Senate on a voice vote.

Speaker Bill Clayton is a sponsor of the measure, which would raise an estimated $44.8 million over the next two years for the Higher Education Endowment Fund he has proposed.

The fund would pay for construction, building repairs and library book purchases at state colleges outside the Texas A&M and University of Texas systems.

When merchants make an installment sale, the sales tax is added to the total bill on which they charge interest each month. The sales tax is not sent to the state, however, until the final installment is made.

The bill, co-sponsored by Clayton and Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, would entitle the state to half the interest earned on the sales tax part of a customer's debt.

The bride wore a camouflage hunting outfit

SEBEC, Maine (AP) — Some would have thought it was another couple trying for a far-out wedding — the bride and groom decked out in camouflage hunting shirts and blue jeans with two black bears strung up on a pole behind them.

But Jim and Barbara Spackey just happened to be on a hunting trip when they decided to get married.

The Logan, Ohio, couple was in Maine "and then we decided to get married," said Spackey, 38, in a telephone interview from Foggy Mountain Camps, his honeymoon cabin in northern Maine.

About 30 hunters, many of them strangers who "just happened to be around," witnessed the 15-minute ceremony, conducted by Justice of the Peace Kenneth Jones of Dover-Foxcroft.

"The black flies were wonderful," said Donna Bosowicz who, with her husband, Wayne, lives at the cabin where the wedding was held.

Coffee and cake from a Dover-Foxcroft bakery were served at a quick reception before the hunters grabbed their gear and returned to the woods.

tax & financial planning

40% PROFIT OR MORE (Tax Deferred)

It is entirely possible for your investment program to include property which will give you 40% 80% or perhaps 100% annual return on your invested capital and create no income tax currently on the gain.

This might work as follows: you purchase a $200,000 commercial building for $50,000 down, the balance to be paid in installments. If the rents pay all of the operating expenses and debt service, but return no cash on your investment, you can still look to the appreciation of the property for your gain. If the appreciation happens to be 10%, you would have a $20,000 increase in the property value. This gives you a 40% return on your invested capital. Such paper gains are not taxable until such time as you dispose of the property.

If the price you paid for the property was determined by the "rental income" you might increase the total rents by certain improvements to the property. Certain residential rental property will command a higher rent by simply cleaning, painting and repairing minor items. If you were able to raise a $200 monthly rental unit to $250, you have "forced inflation." If you resell the building based on a multiple of the net rental income, you would enjoy a 25% increase over your original purchase price. This means that the unit for which you paid $200,000 could possibly sell for $250,000. If this proves to be the case, you would have a 100% return on your $50,000 investment. Even though this is hypothetical, these situations happen in the real estate world frequently.

Since your gains are not taxed until you dispose of the property and receive the payments, this makes an ideal investment package for a high bracket taxpayer. He might receive a 10% cash return which is sheltered in part by depreciation deductions and the remainder of his return would be in the appreciation of the property. The investor who would like to maintain a 25% return on his money can do so without having it all subjected to his current year high income tax bracket.

A further deferral is available if the investor chooses to exchange this appreciated property for other qualifying real estate. This tax free exchanging is an excellent vehicle for leveraging your way into a larger commercial property without paying income taxes currently.

Seek qualified assistance when entering into real estate transactions.

Q. You've mentioned several different types of alternative financing used in home buying. Are there others besides taking back a second mortgage and variable mortgages?

A. Yes, there are. One of the most popular "unconventional" mortgages is a variation of the assumable loan called a "wraparound." In this type of financing, the seller retains title to the property or inserts a foreclosure clause in the sales contract. This gives the seller protection in giving the buyer a first mortgage for the entire sales price, less a down payment. The seller continues to pay off the old original mortgage of the original interest rate. The buyer stipulates that he will honor his contract with the seller for a set number of years, then pay off the old mortgage with a balloon payment.

Habib leaves Beirut for Israel

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — American envoy Philip C. Habib flew out of war-torn Beirut to Israel today as Syrian forces and rightist Christian militias traded artillery, rocket and tank fire in escalating hostilities. Shellfire hit the Presidential Palace earlier, forcing Lebanese President Elias Sarkis into a bomb shelter and setting set fires around the nearby U.S. ambassador's residence where Habib was staying, palace and police sources reported. Habib left the ambassador's residence in a motorcade of six bulletproof cars, witnesses said. A U.S. spokesman said Habib went to Beirut's international airport and took off for the trip to Jerusalem shortly before 11 a.m. — 5 a.m. EDT — on his shuttle attempting to avert a military showdown between Syria and Israel. Shells from the Syrian-Christian fighting earlier blasted the glass-and-stone presidential palace and at least one shell went off only 60 yards from Ambassador John Gunther Dean's mansion, a police spokesman said. Habib spent the night in Dean's villa, which is 500 yards from Sarkis' palace and five miles east of the Lebanese capital. Police said there was no damage at the villa but at least one Presidential Palace guard was wounded in the palace bombardment and four other civilians were injured in other embattled neighborhoods. A spokesman said at least two shells struck the palace and several exploded in the gardens as the Christian president held urgent telephone contacts from the palace bunker to arrange a cease-fire. The police spokesman said the artillery exchanges that broke out at daybreak tapered off to intermittent shelling at midmorning, when Habib left on his fourth trip to Israel in his 16-day attempt to resolve the Syrian-Israeli missile crisis.

Muller-Lux portrait prices to increase

William Muller-Lux, the popular Bohemian portrait artist, has announced that his introductory prices for commissioned portraits will end May 31.

The well-known artist, who is working through The Biarritz Gallery at 115 E. Third in Big Spring, said the demand for his work had reached such a level that he could no longer continue to paint portraits at the current price.

Muller-Lux was born in Wichstadt, Bohemia, in 1911, when his native country was still a part of the Austro-Hungarian empire. At the age of 15, he enrolled at the Gablonz Goldsmith School. A year later he won the first prize for Czechoslovakia in a national contest for jewelry design.

Five years of studying sculpture and paintings at the National Academy of Fine Arts in Prague followed. During that time, he supported himself on a small allowance from home and occasional portrait orders.

The following three years found Muller-Lux in Paris where he studied at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts and spent his afternoons at the Louvre copying paintings of the Old Masters. And at different times, he also worked in the studios of Derain and Despiau, which provided him with a unique opportunity to watch the masters at work. The years in Paris had a decisive influence upon the development of the young artists and Muller-Lux says that "France has been my spiritual homeland ever since."

In his paintings, Muller-

Lux provides us with a penetrating insight into the people he paints. Only a complete mastery of the centuries-old techniques of color and tone allows the artist a free interpretation of his subject, which allows him to portray them in the colors and media that he feels best brings out the "inner person."

Talking about his interpretation of his subjects and use of some abstraction, Muller-Lux said "It's like walking a tightrope — I try to achieve a balance between the artistic demands of the painting and nature. Also, I think that one of the essential ingredients of art is communication, so the artist has to draw upon experiences that are common to all mankind."

The ability to capture the essence of a personality is a faculty that has stood him in good stead as a portraitist. "I try to convince my clients to let me paint their portraits as I see them. If you capture the essence of an individual," he said, "the surface likeness comes by itself."

Works by this popular artist have found their way into the permanent collections of such places as the Municipal Museum of Fine Arts, Dusseldorf, Germany; Galerie Maywald, Paris, France; and the Este Gallery, New York City. His works are also in private collections in Germany, France, Holland, Sweden, Spain, Austria, Canada and the United States.

Persons interested in commissioning this well-known artist to do their portrait should contact Jan Iden at 263-6953 for details and appointments.

West Texas Twirling Clinic set June 1-5

The West Texas Twirling Clinic will conduct a week long twirling day camp at the Wallace Gym in Colorado City, June 1-5. Co-Directors of the camp are two locally talented and qualified instructors, Cheryl Hines of Colorado City and Donna Nall of Abilene.

Donna Nall is a former Miss Majorette of Texas, holds state and national titles in solo and strutting events. She is a former feature twirler for West Texas State University. Donna is a teacher and director of various band and twirling camps throughout Texas and Oklahoma. She also serves as a top NBTA and UIL judge. Donna has over 300 awards in twirling to her credit.

Cheryl Hines, is a former head twirler for Colorado City for four years and served three years as head line twirler for Angelo State University.

Cheryl competed in both NBTA and UIL earning many awards to her credit. Cheryl is a certified NBTA teacher and judge and she also directs local twirling contests.

Cheryl owns and operates a local twirling and dance studio in Colorado City with over 100 students enrolled in classes. She teaches at numerous twirling camps throughout the Texas area.

The West Texas Twirling Clinic will feature classes for "just beginning" twirlers through advanced. A special Tiny Tots class designed for 4 and 5-year-olds will be each morning from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. at a low cost of $15 for the five-day clinic.

Solo classes for 6-year-olds and up will focus on fundamentals of twirling and marching — Solo tricks and basic routine construction. Novelty twirling for learning hoop, flag and two-baton routines. Poise, projection and showmanship will be stressed. Half day instruction from 9:00-12:00 daily, June 1-5. Cost for these classes is $30 per girl.

Afternoon sessions will focus on Majorette line routines. Open to all Junior and High school Majorette lines. Program will teach UIL Ensembles, field routines, dance-twirl routines, field struts, and novelty twirling — hoops, fire, two-batons and flag. These classes will meet from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Tuition will be $30 per girl.

Special rates will be given to families with more than one child attending. Students may register at 8 a.m. June 1 at the Wallace Community Gym, located on South 208 in Colorado City. For more information call Cheryl Hines at 573-7896 (home) or 728-5724 (studio).

More say they'll vote Republican than Democratic in House races

NEW YORK (AP) — In a historic reversal of opinion, more Americans now say they will vote for the Republican candidates for the U.S. House than for the Democratic contenders, the latest AP-NBC News poll says.

This shift of partisan preferences in the wake of the Republican election victories of 1980 comes in step with another significant change — more and more Americans say they are Republicans, and fewer are identifying with the Democratic Party. The GOP is the closest it has come to overtaking the Democrats since 1944.

The changes in both partisan identification and partisan preference could signal the start of the forecast, but never realized, realignment of American politics, with the decades of Democratic dominance at stake.

For the first time in almost 30 years, Republicans came out on top in a question of preferences in congressional races in the AP-NBC News poll conducted May 18 and 19.

Forty-three percent of those questioned said they would vote for the Republican candidate for the U.S. House, while only 35 percent said they would vote for the Democratic contender. Twenty-two percent of the 1,599 adults interviewed nationwide by telephone were not sure.

In all AP-NBC News polls since 1977 that included the congressional vote question, the Democrats held a decided advantage over the GOP. For example, in early January 1980, 48 percent said they would vote for the Democratic candidate and only 34 percent for the Republican.

The Gallup Poll has asked a somewhat similar question for more than 40 years. Since the early 1950s, the Democrats have always come out on top. And even when the GOP led in the 1950s, the margins were always only a handful of percentage points.

The questions, though, have limitations. The congressional elections are nearly 18 months away. Congressional races are 435 district contests, not national ones. The incumbent's party is one of the major determinants of the outcome of a contest.

But this question does give one good measure of the partisan sentiment of the public. And right now, that sentiment is Republican.

The GOP is gaining as well in terms of how many Americans identify themselves as Republicans.

In the latest AP-NBC News poll, 28 percent of those questioned now call themselves members of the Republican Party. That's up about 6 percentage points from the AP-NBC News polls of the springs of 1980 and 1979.

Thirty-one percent of those questioned said they usually think of themselves as Democrats, down 7 percentage points from the findings of the AP-NBC News polls in early 1979 and 1980.

Thirty-six percent said they are independents in the latest survey. Two percent cited other parties and 3 percent were not sure.

Looking at the leanings of those who call themselves independents shows the depth of this shift.

All of the self-identified independents were asked if they thought of themselves as closer to the Democratic or Republican party or if they were "strictly independent."

Lumping together the Democratic leaners with the Democrats and the Republican leaners with the Republicans — and not counting those from other parties or those who were not sure — produced these results:

Democratic group, 40 percent; Republican group, 41 percent; Independents, 19 percent.

As recently as the January 1980 AP-NBC News poll, the similar figures were Democratic group, 51 percent; Republican group, 30 percent; Independent, 19 percent.

Since the Gallup Poll began asking about partisan identification in the 1930s, the Democrats always have held the lead. The closest the Republicans came — until now — was in 1944, when 41 percent said they were Democrats and 39 percent said they were Republicans.

As with all sample surveys, the results of the AP-NBC News polls can vary from the opinions of all Americans because of chance variations in the sample.

For a poll based on about 1,600 interviews, the results are subject to an error margin of 3 percentage points either way because of such chance variations. That is, if one could have talked to all Americans in the country with telephones this week, there is only one chance in 20 that the results would vary from the results of polls such as this one by more than 3 percentage points.

The results could vary from other polls for a number of other reasons as well. Differences in the exact wording of questions, different methods of interviewing could also cause variations.

Rain dance tape works too well

GALLUP, N.M. (AP) — Residents of drought-stricken Sarasota, Fla., may think a tape of a Zuni Indian rain dance sent to Florida from New Mexico works too well.

The manager of radio station WSRZ in Sarasota, Charlie Jones, contacted Jack Chapman, owner of KGAK-KQNM radio in Gallup Tuesday, asking for a tape of an Indian rain dance. Jones used to live in Albuquerque.

Chapman provided a tape of the Zuni dance to the Florida station, which began playing it during its weather forecasts and on the morning show done by program manager Norman Hale.

Within a day of playing the chant, Hale reported, a trace of rain was sighted in Sarasota. Hale said at first, people thought the idea was humorous until clouds started building up.

Then, he said, some listeners began calling Friday to ask the station stop because they didn't want a rainy weekend.

Rooster gets court date

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Because a neighbor cried fowl, a Chattanooga man has been ordered to appear in court on a charge that his rooster is interrupting the neighbor's sleep.

Police officer Bob Martin said Friday he served a warrant Thursday on Jeff Petty, charging him with violating a city ordinance that forbids residents to let fowl run loose.

"This is the first time in my 20 years that I've had to do something like that," Martin said. "It called for arresting him, but I just ordered him to court instead of arresting him on something like that."

Police said the irate neighbor swore out a warrant in City Court alleging that Petty's rooster was disrupting his sleep.

Wall Street seems unimpressed by improved inflation outlook

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs of a marked improvement in the inflation outlook have begun to accumulate in recent weeks, but so far Wall Street seems unimpressed.

The latest bit of evidence came on Friday, when the government reported that the consumer price index rose just 0.4 percent in April, its smallest increase in nine months.

In March, the index rose 0.7 percent. Should similar figures continue in the months ahead, the nation would have a good shot at its first year of single-digit inflation since 1978.

Many economists in the financial community think it will happen. For instance, Schroder Capital Management Inc. is projecting a rate of about 8 percent for the year.

"We expect the current softness in the world oil markets to last throughout this year before the markets gradually tighten in 1982," Aubrey H. Zaffuto, the firm's economist, wrote recently.

"We also expect monetary policy to remain tight and short-term interest rates to remain at relatively high levels. Thus, price increases in debt-intensive industries (such as housing and commodities) will be limited."

The gold and currency markets seem to reflect similar expectations. The price of gold hovered around $470 an ounce last week, after being above $700 as recently as last September.

The dollar, meanwhile, has been conspicuously strong against most leading foreign currencies.

But the stock and bond markets have shown little response. Bond prices, which are highly sensitive, most of the time to shifts in inflationary expectations, have been struggling to rally from record lows.

Since early this year, the stock market hasn't been able to establish any clear trend. In the past week the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 14.23 to 971.72.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index lost 18 to 76.26, but the American Stock Exchange market value index gained 2.63 to a record high of 373.53.

Big Board volume averaged 42.93 million shares a day, against 41.78 million the week before.

The wariness of stock and bond traders has been ascribed partly to skepticism, born of long experience, about the government's willingness to stick with a consistent anti-inflationary policy.

On top of that, there is the question mark overhanging President Reagan's proposed tax cuts and their implications for inflation.

The administration's "supply side" argument is that the reductions will stimulate saving and investment, helping to increase productivity and thereby reducing inflationary pressures.

"But people may not respond that way," contends Henry H. Biel, an analyst at Janney, Montgomery & Scott Inc. "Tax bracket creep and higher Social Security taxes will offset much, if not most, of the tax cut benefits for many people, while continuing inflation will make them want to spend rather than save whatever additional income may accrue to them."

Two-year-old boy in coma after being hit by hail

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The lattice-work lightning and booming thunder that accompany spring storms in Texas often scared two-year-old Mikey Vega so badly he would toddle into his father's arms crying "Hold me, Daddy."

But Mikey doesn't worry about that now. He's been in a coma for the past two weeks after one of the storms he feared so much unleashed a piece of softball-sized hail that struck him in the head.

"He was crying and rubbing his head (after the hail struck him) and I said, 'It's all right, Mikey,'" said Miguel Vega, as he and his wife, Krishna, sat in the waiting room outside the intensive care unit at Harris Hospital-Methodist where their son has been for the past 15 days.

"Then I felt the bump on his head and saw him rolling his eyes and I knew something was wrong."

Vega, 32, returned to his job last Monday after keeping an around-the-clock watch on his unconscious son with his wife. But Krishna has left the hospital only to change clothes each day.

She is allowed to stand next to her son's bed three times a day for ten minutes.

"He was just beginning to run and talk," she said, gazing down at the tubes connected to her child's body. "I know if he would just wake up, he would get all right."

Mikey's ordeal began when he and his parents, who had been visiting relatives, were returning home May 8. They encountered the violent, swirling storm only a few blocks from their home.

Vega said the pounding rain, wind and the noise from the huge chunks of hail striking the car made driving impossible. A piece of hail shattered the car's windshield and the family decided to stop and seek shelter in a nearby home.

"My wife kind of panicked," Vega said, reaching over to pat her gently on the arm. "She grabbed our little boy, got out of the car and ran into some people's house. I ran after them. You don't think clearly."

"At the moment, you think you're doing the right thing."

Both Vega and his wife were struck by the huge chunks of ice. Mikey was hit behind the right ear. The impact ruptured a blood vessel in his brain, and a large blood clot formed. He had a seizure seconds later. Vega tried to call an ambulance, but the phone lines had been knocked out by the storm, so he had to wait until the worst of the weather passed before he could drive his son to the hospital.

The days and nights have been hard for the Vegas. Their son's condition will improve slightly, then worsen. Money has become a problem and a fund has been set up at Gateway National Bank in Fort Worth to help cover expenses.

"It's like a bad dream where you wake up scared, but you know it's nothing," Vega said.

Harte-Hanks buys stock in cablevision firm

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc. announced Friday it has purchased $15 million of common stock from AEL Industries Inc., a cable television operator.

In addition to the purchase of 750,000 shares of Class A eight percent Series A Cumulative Preferred Stock, Harte-Hanks has signed an option to acquire the stock of UltraCom Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of AEL, said Robert G. Marbut, president of Harte-Hanks.

The options for UltraCom stock are exercisable in 1984 and 1985. Additional terms were not disclosed.

AEL, an over-the-counter Pennsylvania company, through its wholly-owned subsidiary American Electronic Laboratories Inc., has defense contracts with the United States government and its Western allies in electronic warfare, radar and communications services. Through its principal wholly-owned subsidiary, UltraCom Inc., AEL Industries operates cable television systems in eight states.

The announcement of the sale was made by Dr. Leon Reibman, president and chief executive officer of AEL, and Marbut.

Commenting on the stock acquisition, Larry D. Franklin, executive vice president of Harte-Hanks, said, "We are pleased to be associated with AEL Industries and Dr. Leon Reibman. UltraCom has an excellent management team, headed by Jesse H. Reibman, and we are excited about the opportunity to work with them in developing the systems in these fine markets."

UltraCom has 12 fully-operational cable television systems in eight states, serving approximately 38,500 equivalent basic subscribers out of 72,304 households. In addition, UltraCom has three cable television systems under development, in Dade County, Fla., and Montgomery County, Pa., passing a total of 132,000 households. Basic subscribers in the start-up systems are approaching 5,200.

Harte-Hanks Communications Inc. operates in 87 markets in 27 states. The company owns and manages cable television systems, and operates 30 daily newspapers and 75 non-daily publications. Also owned and operated by the New York Stock Exchange company are seven direct-mail or alternate delivery systems, four marketing services companies, four VHF network affiliated television stations, five AM and six FM radio stations and a division which develops entertainment programs and products.

Centennial Ball will be grand finale of celebration

One of the most elaborate events in recent Big Spring history, the Centennial Ball, will be the grand finale of Big Spring's Centennial celebration.

Staged at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Saturday night, the ball promises to be one of the most memorable of the Centennial activities.

Coliseum doors will open at 8 p.m., with the dance beginning at 9 and ending at 1 a.m. Tickets for the ball are now on sale at Centennial Headquarters, 900 Main, on a first come, first serve basis. Those who are unable to go by the headquarters may call the store at 267-3641 and request that tickets be held. Tickets may only be held for a short time, however, and arrangements should be made to pick up the tickets as soon as possible.

According to Joyce Wash, chairperson of the ball committee, slightly less than half of the 1,040 available tickets had been sold as of Wednesday afternoon. The ticket price, a $15 tax deductible donation, includes all food, beverages and entertainment for the evening. According to Mrs. Wash, the ball will be the first event of its kind to be held in the coliseum, and also the first time that a large number of people will be seated on the main floor of the building.

As the diagram shows, most of the tables are round, and each of these 60-inch tables seat eight people. Rectangular tables, seating 16-18 people, will also be used. Due to the seating arrangements, those who wish to sit together should make prior arrangements to do so. Those who come as individuals or small groups will have the opportunity to make new friends.

Only one entrance, the east ramp, will be open during the event. Security personnel will be stationed on the parking lot of the coliseum to prevent any possible vandalism. Tickets must be presented at the door. Tables, like the tickets, are not reserved and those who wish to sit at a front table should plan to arrive early.

The coliseum will be fully decorated in keeping with the Centennial theme, and fresh flowers, courtesy of the Big Spring Florists Association, will accent each table. Two 16-foot food tables, one on the east side and one on the west side, will be filled with various fruits, cheeses, chips and light hors d'oeuvres. Four beverage areas, one on each side of the food tables, will provide all types of beverages.

Centennial dress is optional for the event, but any Centennial costume from any era is certainly acceptable. Contemporary attire is also welcomed.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by Dave Adams Big Band Sound. The group, a 20-piece band, is from Abilene and will also feature four vocalists to add to the performance. The band will follow the Centennial theme by performing "100 years of music," including "disco," "country," "rock" and the "big band" sounds of Tommy Dorsey, Count Basie and others.

Anyone have questions, or wishing to work in the service areas during the ball should contact Mrs. Wash at Centennial Headquarters.

CENTENNIAL BALL FLOOR PLAN — This diagram shows the seating arrangements, food and beverage areas, and the ample dance floor. The only entrance to the coliseum that will be open for the event is the east ramp. As shown by the darkened tables, the round tables seat eight people, while the rectangular tables seat approximately 16-18 people each. The food and beverage areas are located on the east and west sides of the coliseum floor.

Common schools served as community centers

School days were rocky days in olden times

By MICKIE DICKSON
(Editor's Note: This is another article in the School History series. Any information readers may have on the early day schools in addition to what is published in The Herald, or any corrections of information printed in these articles according to your memory, we would appreciate having.)

"School days, school days, good ol' golden rule days, 'readin' and 'ritin' and 'rithmetic," taught to the rule of the hickory stick," was more truth than poetry in the early Howard County school history.

The District Common Schools that existed in Howard County from 1892 until the 1960's were one to three room buildings presided over by one to three teachers. All or several grades would be taught in the same room, and discipline was strict.

The curriculum covered the basics mentioned in the quote above from an early popular song plus any other subjects the individual teachers were proficient in.

The school was also the community center in which socials, plays, pantomimes, preaching, singing and civic functions were held.

Students came to school by buggy, wagon, horseback, donkey or donkeycart and walking. Many walked several miles, thinking nothing of it. Means of transportation and roads were poor and at times nonexistent.

Students came with their homemade oilcloth book satchel held by a long strap slung over their shoulder, containing books, slates, cedar pencil and Big Chief tablet.

All except those living near the school carried lunch pails or a syrup bucket with holes punched in the top to insure freshness. Lunches usually contained a big buttered biscuit or two hard boiled eggs, a long, sour cucumber pickle, fried sugar pie and sometimes a little jar of syrup or honey and butter and a fried pork sausage.

The kids all raced to the "Chick Sales" outdoor toilet at recess time (boys on one side and girls on the other). The zinc bucket or wooden barrel of water with one big tin dipper containing drinking water from a cistern was another popular spot at recess and lunch time.

Entertainment was simple. Students played jacks, pop the whip, ring-around-the-rosy, drop the handkerchief, London Bridge is fallin' down and tag.

Friday afternoons the teachers gave them a treat by having a spelling match with one grade competing against another.

Hardly anybody missed school for any reason, sickness was practically unknown. One former student recalls that "If we had germs they blew off or froze off before we got to school! If you took the itch, what of it? Everybody had it so we just scratched it off. Whooping cough was bad, but you went to school 'til you started whooping, then you were sent home."

Many early day students recall the terrific sand storms, blue northers and blinding snow encountered on the way to and from school. One woman said that she could never understand why, when she had walked two miles home in freezing weather, her mother doused her feet in cold water!

The long sleeved, long legged "union suits" over which were worn black bloomers, petticoats, long ribbed stockings and thick woolen outer clothes served to keep the youngsters warm. As one who knows said, "Everything we wore either drooped, wrinkled or showed!"

Johnson Heights, Common School District No. 1, was located seven miles Southeast of Coahoma on land donated by L.C. Denman in 1906, an uncle of R.D. "Dink" Cramer, 1609 E. 16. The land was purchased by Denman from a Mr. Johnson, hence the name. Cramer is the proud owner of the teacher's chair.

Ella Stockton was the teacher of the 11 children attending in 1913-14. Miss Stockton boarded with J.M. Cramer, Dink's father, as did the last teacher, Minnie Bullock. The student body was six Cramer children, Raphael Cole, three Tidwell girls and Tommy Dykes.

Miss Stockton would walk with the six Cramer children the mile to school, preceding them with a big stick to strike the weeds aside to make sure there were no rattlesnakes. She would sometimes have parties or picnics after school for the children.

Johnson Heights consolidated with Coahoma School District No. 2 in 1916.

Coahoma School District No. 2 was one whose enrollment held up so well through the years that it became an independent school district. However, it started as a one-room schoolhouse in the early 1800's with a slate or blackboard in front, a barrel of water in the back and a pot-bellied stove for heat. The building was located one and a half miles northeast of the present campus.

Some children walked as far as four or five miles to school, some rode horseback and a few came in buggies. According to an early day Coahoma resident, some of the early teachers were called "professors", one of whom was Prof. J.L. Webb.

"Occasionally they hired a mean teacher who would nearly beat the kids to death. At that time no one had ever thought of 'child abuse.' You did as you were told or suffered the consequences. The big boys sometimes stepped in to balance the power. The school board took a hand if it got too bad," reminisced the mother of Annie Phinney of Coahoma.

A brick building was constructed in 1910 which really became a community center in addition to being an educational institution. The first floor contained three rooms, a cloak room and a principals office while the upstairs was a big auditorium. The cloak room was a small room near the door which held the children's assorted coats, hats, umbrellas, overshoes and lunch buckets. Classes were divided and one teacher had all high school, one about three or four junior high and elementary classes and a third teacher all the rest.

COAHOMA, SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 2 — Built in 1910, this building was preceded by two frame buildings, the first, a one room, was erected in 1891, or 92 and was located 1 1/2 miles northeast of the present plant. The second was a three-room building, just west of the present campus, that burned. This one had three classrooms, a cloak room and principals office downstairs and a large assembly room upstairs.

VINCENT SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 4 — This school in the northeast part of Howard County was originally Shiloh in 1900-01. It consolidated with Flat Top, No. 25 and became Vincent when Vincent was declared a townsite then consolidated with CISD. It had 22 students in 1906-7 and 55 in 1907-08. Teachers in 1937-41 were Jane Hodnett and Paul and Ruth Sweatt.

The "drag" of going to school was often broken by some of the older boys slipping into the cloak room and eating someone else's lunch. Mrs. Phinney had that happen to a lunch packed for her by her grandmother, a well-known "good cook" and she cried all afternoon over it.

At Halloween time the kids provided their own risky entertainment. One such holiday, the big boys put a cow upstairs in the auditorium and, to complicate the problem, greased the stairs good with floor oil. It is said that she slid all the way down.

The next year students dismantled a wagon, carried it up the stairs piece by piece and assembled it again up there. The fun they had perpetrating these two pranks outweighed the consequences suffered.

R-Bar, School District No. 3, located just northeast of Coahoma, on the O'Barr family ranch, began prior to 1906. Students numbered 49 in 1906, escalating to 64 in 1911. Helen Crease Early reported in her book on churches, that there were reports of evangelistic meetings being held in a Brush Arbor near the school before 1906. The school children presented a play at the end of the school term and a Christmas program was always to be counted on in this and other schools.

Vincent District School No. 4, to which Shiloh and Flat Top consolidated when Vincent was declared a townsite in 1908, is located in the northeast corner of Howard County. The community had a good Union Sunday School and many singing meetings. Several singing schools were taught there and Jim Aslin was a well-remembered teacher. J. Fred Whitaker, a well-known singing school teacher later, took his first singing lessons from Aslin at four years of age. The Methodist Church that was built soon after the town was incorporated was demolished by a cyclone and never rebuilt, so the school was the center of the community.

This article contains information on only four of the 28 Common School Districts in Howard County on which we have meager information compared to two of the Independent School Districts. Early written records of County Commissioners, School Boards and the County School Board give statistical information, but not much of what occurred in the buildings as community centers which were unifying forces among neighbors for years. Additional information from the memoirs of early residents is welcome.

R-BAR, SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 3 — Located just East of the center of Howard County on the O'Barr-Ranch, R-Bar began operation in 1906-07 school year with 49 students and had 71 in 1909-10. It consolidated with Coahoma Independent School District in 1941-42. The long part of R-Bar School was moved to Coahoma and used for the Agriculture Shop.

MRS. MARK KEVIN REYNOLDS

Vows are exchanged in Baptist ceremony

Brenda Kay McDonald became the bride of Mark Kevin Reynolds in a Saturday afternoon ceremony in the Hillcrest Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry W. McDonald, Rt. 1. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. Reynolds, 2509 Albrook.

Dr. Philip McClendon, pastor of the church, performed the 4 p.m. ceremony before an altar decorated by a 15 light candelabra flanked by two 7 light candelabras. A pair of three light candelabras stood on the front of the altar, and a Unity candle completed the altar decorations.

Traditional wedding selection were performed on the piano by Mrs. Oney Mason. The bride performed an acapella selection at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The bride chose to wear a formal-length gown of white organza and chantilly lace. The gown featured a Queen Anne neckline, outlined with lace and a ruffled lace yoke, and sheer, fitted sleeves with lace ruffled cuffs. The tiered bouffant skirt fell from a natural waistline, and the chapel-length train was edged with lace and sashed with a satin ribbon. A fingertip veil of illusion was bordered with matching lace. The veil attached to a lace bandeau headpiece encrusted with pearls and crystals. She carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations and peach rose buds, sprinkled with lily of the valley, white stephanotis and baby's breath. The bouquet was tied with satin and lace streamers of white and peach.

Mrs. Tommy Halfmann, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Lisha Pierce, Littlefield, and Tori Thompson, Tulia, were bridesmaids.

Richard Reynolds, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Rex Reynolds, San Antonio, brother of the groom, and Guy McDonald, brother of the bride. Candles were lighted by Jessie Metcalf and Nick Lowe, cousin of the bride. Guests were seated by the groomsmen.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and featured a brass candle ring accented by peach candles and flowers.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Myrtle Burns, Mrs. Terry Carter, Mrs. Alma Pye, Mrs. Rex Reynolds and Mrs. Richard Reynolds. Guests were registered by Darlene Battle.

Out-of-town guests attended from Snyder, Plymouth, Ind., Michigan City, Ind., Tippecanoe, Ind., Rochester, Ind., Austin, San Angelo, Stinnett and Plainview.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and is presently enrolled in the School of Nursing at West Texas State University, Amarillo.

The groom is a graduate of Colorado City High School and the Mary Meek School of Nursing. He is currently employed by the Northwest Hospital, Amarillo.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed location, the couple will make their home in Amarillo.

Goals exceeded by PTA

Texas PTA has exceeded its goal of 725,000 members for 1980-81.

Big Spring PTAs played a prominent part in the increase, according to the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Fall and spring membership campaigns of Texas PTA netted the organization a membership of 728,156, the largest Texas PTA membership since 1966. That figure showed Texas PTA nearly 19,000 members ahead of the previous year's membership, and Big Spring's five PTAs are credited with 903 members of the increase.

Big Spring's PTA Council was noted in the May issue of Texas PTA Communicator as one of two councils in Texas in which 100 percent of the local units showed increases of 25 or more members for the current year. Brownwood's PTA Council was the other.

These figures put Big Spring PTA membership at 2,113 now as compared to 1,197 one year ago.

Students to receive scholarships

The American Association of University Women's voted to award two $500.00 scholarships at a dinner meeting at Alberto's Restaurant Monday evening. A committee composed of Evelyn Hyman and Cara Lee Caudell reviewed applications of Big Spring High School girls and recommended the two recipients. They will be Dee Earhart, who plans to study accounting at Angelo State University, and Belinda Domino, who will be majoring in English at the University of Houston.

Helen Gladden, elementary school coordinator of the Big Spring Schools, installed the new officers for the 1981-82 year. Using magnolia, lilac, English ivy, and mint leaves, Mrs. Gladden showed how they symbolized the duties of the officers. Those installed were: Carol Brown, president; Cara Lee Caudell, first vice-president; Evelyn Hyman, second vice-president; Shirley Shroyer, third vice-president; Helen Ewing, corresponding secretary; Suncha Christensen, recording secretary; and Betty Birdwell, treasurer.

Frances Wheat, president, thanked officers, committees, and other members for their part in making the year a good one.

Newcomer Greeting Service hostess, Joy Fortenberry, welcomed 15 newcomers and their families to Big Spring during the week of May 8-14. Five of the newcomers are former residents of New Mexico, and most are involved in oil related businesses.

Thomas C. Hancock, formerly of Waco, comes to Big Spring as an attorney at Jones and Patterson. Thomas and wife Laura enjoy backpacking, hiking, sewing and reading.

Bridge, ballroom dancing and sewing are the hobbies of R.D. Gibbons and wife Billie. From Plano, R.D. is the owner and operator of Tallant Printing and Office Products.

Southwestern Bell Telephone is the employer of A.W. Stansel from Odessa. A.W., wife Donna and son Stephen, 12, enjoy sewing and sports.

Moran Brothers Drilling Company is the employer of Michael Ross. Michael hails from Clayton, N.M. and lists his hobbies as horses, fishing, water skiing and football.

Also from Clayton, N.M. and employed by Moran Brothers Drilling is Albert L. Phillips. Albert and wife Judy enjoy music in their spare time.

Ray Adams and wife Debbie come to Big Spring from Ruidoso, N.M. The couple enjoys volleyball, croquet and ceramics, and Ray is employed by Halliburton.

Howard College's new employee, J.D. Perez, is from Goodland, Kan. Model cars, woodworking, Indian jewelry and the National Guard occupy the spare hours of J.D., wife Darlene, daughter Evy, 4, and son Chris, 3.

Ronnie Dugan, from Wichita Falls, is a painter for Oilfield Industrial Lines. Ronnie and wife Terri enjoy fishing and sewing. Sweetwater is the former home of B.J. Sledge, wife Jo and daughter Lisa, 21. B.J. is employed by Texas Electric Service Co., and the family enjoys golfing, fishing, hunting and sewing in their spare time.

Employed by the City of Big Spring Water Department, Bill Mercer comes to Big Spring from Ballinger. Bill lists his hobbies as softball and fishing.

Also from Ballinger, B.R. Dittmer is employed by B.M. & H. Drilling Co. B.R., enjoys fishing and playing pool. Another former Ballinger resident and employed by B.M. & H. Drilling is Mark Corcoran. Mark's hobbies are fishing, hunting and pool.

The new manager of Church's Fried Chicken is Edward Miles from Albuquerque, N.M. Edward, wife Dolores and daughter Gloria, 16, enjoy bowling, reading, croquet and baseball.

Music is the favorite spare time activity of Billy W. Phillips, wife Carol, son Danny, 6, and daughter Pam, 15 months. The family is from Clayton, N.M., and Billy is employed by Moran Brothers Drilling Co.

Aransas Pass is the former home of Guinn Sullivan, wife Francine and daughter, Nicole, 15 months. Guinn is a contract welder for O.I.L., and the couple enjoys golfing and reading.

So Proudly We Hail...

There was a time in this country when the things we made, we made by hand. Skilled craftsmen who cared about the work they did took the time to do the job right. And every object they made was stamped with pride.

That spirit of endeavor is not lost today. You'll find it in Americans from coast to coast — men and women who still care enough to do their best. From artist to accountant, farmer to factory worker, Americans can be proud of the work they're doing. Just as they can be proud of the country that work has built.

We're proud of America — proud of the old-fashioned values this country stands for — and still has.

America, you're the greatest!

Wife's Lover a Skyrocket; Her Husband's a Dud

DEAR ABBY: I have been married (in name only) for five years. I was a lonely divorcee (age 47) and John was a well-to-do widower (60) when we were married.

The first night we were married I found out he was impotent. I know it's not his fault, but he should have told me. (He later said he was afraid he'd lose me.)

We had everything a happily married couple could want — a lovely home, friends, trips. I can't say I wasn't living a good life, although I missed the physical side of marriage some.

Now I have met a wonderful man. He is my age (52) and it was skyrockets and Roman candles the first time we were alone together. We're in love and want to get married, but hate to hurt John.

Would it be wrong to leave John and grab what little happiness is left in life?

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: If you want to justify leaving John, the fact that he failed to tell you about his impotence is sufficient. (That's probably grounds for an annulment.) Trying to keep an affair a secret will be like trying to smuggle down past a rooster. You'd better tell John before he tells you.

DEAR ABBY: Everybody starts out by saying they have a problem, and that's the way I am starting out, but don't throw this away yet because I get better as I go along. (Ha ha)

I am a married man with three kids, 9, 12 and 13. I always wanted to be a writer but I can't seem to break into the field. I bet I sent 100 short stories to different magazines, but I never heard back from nobody. A person would like to be told what is wrong with their stuff, wouldn't you think?

You must know a lot of big shots in the publishing business, Abby. Can't you put in a good word for me? I don't expect you to say I am any good unless you see some of my stuff, so I am sending you 26 stories I've wrote. If you are too busy to write and tell me what you think of them, you can call me up. I'm sending you my phone number, and if the line is busy, keep calling because my kids are on the phone a lot. In the meantime, have you got any suggestions?

LOVES TO WRITE

DEAR LOVES: Please don't send me anything, because my lawyer advises against reading unpublished material. And in the meantime, don't help your kids with their English.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old, and my parents force me to go to church every Sunday.

I hate going to church because I see people there who I know are drunkards, gossip, liars and cheats, and they are right there every Sunday saying their prayers and singing the hymns. I don't have any respect for hypocrites and our church is full of them, my own parents included.

I am only 13, so maybe my opinion doesn't count, but I don't see any sense in my going to church with a bunch of hypocrites.

ONLY A BOY

DEAR ONLY: Christ became a man at 13, and you are not too young to become a man either. One goes to church to learn about the Bible and the word of the Lord, although God dwells in one's heart, and it's not necessary to "go" to church to communicate with Him.

A church is not a museum for saints. It's a hospital for sinners, so "judge not, lest ye be judged," young man.

Poolside engagement party honors couple

An engagement announcement party honoring Cynthia Burgess and Richard Flora was held poolside at the home of Col. (USAF Ret.) and Mrs. Harry Spannaus, 2900 Hunters Glen.

Mu Zeta awards scholarship to Anne Barno

Anne Barno was awarded a $100 scholarship to Howard College Thursday from the Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Sharon Richardson, treasurer, presented the award.

Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Thomas, 1609 Stadium, and a senior at Big Spring High School. She carries a 3.5 grade point average, and has been active in the Future Homemakers of America, the fellowship of Christian athletes and a member of the varsity swim team for four years. She received a varsity letter jacket for both her junior and senior years.

Ms. Barno is active in the Order of the Rainbow for girls and currently holds the office of charity. She will be installed Saturday as worthy associate advisor. In the past, she has held the offices of patriotism, drill leader, faith and hope. Ms. Barno also does volunteer work at the Big Spring State Hospital. She plans to study either criminal law or child psychology.

The scholarship was available to Howard County students who had at least a "B" average and planned to attend Howard College. This is the third year that Mu Zeta has funded this $100 scholarship. Past recipients have been students from Big Spring and Coahoma High Schools. Applications may be obtained from student counselors at high schools in Howard County.

MRS. ROGER SCOTT WILDER

Couple is united in home ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Scott Wilder are on a wedding trip to Hawaii following their marriage Friday in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, formerly Jennifer Lou Speegle, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Speegle, 709 Avondale. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilder, 2906 Hunters Glen.

Dr. Kenneth G. Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the afternoon double-ring ceremony. The couple exchanged vows before a massive arrangement of spider mums, daisies, statice and stock in shades of lavender and orchid accented with baby's breath. The arrangement was set atop a brass pedestal which centered the fireplace. Green plants in natural baskets completed the setting.

Wedding music was performed on the piano by Mrs. Ray Dabney.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer gown fashioned of antique ivory satin. It featured an ivory satin camisole with an over-b blouse of ivory chantilly and schiffle lace. The waistline was accented with ivory satin ribbons. Chantilly and schiffle lace adorned the full skirt, which featured a contoured hemline. A deep flounce of chantilly lace and ivory satin ribbon bordered the skirt.

The shoulder length bridal veil, edged in schiffle lace, cascaded from a halo of ivory silk babies breath.

She carried a folding ecru lace fan, adorned with a European cluster bouquet of gardenias centered with a lavender orchid and tied in ecru lace.

Following tradition, the bride wore pearl earrings belonging to her mother for something borrowed. She wore an ivory lace garter

Wedding plans are revealed by couple

Dr. and Mrs. R.D. Mitchell, Tularosa, N.M., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Annette, to William Jack Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Young, 2903 Lawrence, and the late W.J. Watson. The couple will marry June 5 in the First Methodist Church, with Rev. Elra Phillips officiating.

Sodium-restricted Stork club diets treat diseases

Sodium is an essential nutrient needed by our body to function properly. Dietary deficiency of sodium probably never occurs as we generally eat more sodium than necessary. It is found in almost all foods, but in varying concentrations.

Table salt probably contributes the greatest amount of sodium to the American diet. Foods from plants contain less sodium than foods from animals and for this reason are often used by individuals on sodium restricted diets.

Sodium-restricted diets are commonly used to treat a number of disease states associated with sodium retention, such as hypertension, cardiac failure, nephrosis, cirrhosis and toxemia of pregnancy.

The normal daily intake of sodium is from 3000 mg. to 6000 mg.

Because of the numerous sodium compounds used in food manufacturing, it is essential to read labels carefully. Many foods contain added compounds which indicate the presence of sodium. Watch the ingredients section of the label for the following: sodium, salt, SAS, soy sauce, solids, disodium, inosinate, MSG or other related terms.

Certain food companies produce specially designed products low in sodium. Regularly canned vegetables and other processed foods are high in sodium because of processing methods, flavoring, and packing fluid.

Most recipes from standard cookbooks are easily adapted to sodium restricted diets. Omit salt from any recipe. Use potassium bicarbonate instead of sodium bicarbonate (baking soda). Preserve foods at home without added salt. Use distilled water to replace tap water that is high in sodium.

Other information on sodium restricted diets is available free of charge from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Request the pamphlet "The Sodium Restricted Diet" from Janet Rogers, County Extension Agent—Home Economics at 267-9469.

Roanne Riley earns degree in nursing

Roanne Kay Riley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W.A. Riley, Silver Heels, graduated from Baylor University, Waco, with a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing.

Miss Riley was on the Dean's list her final semester with a grade-point average of 3.73.

Roanne will be working at All Saints Episcopal Hospital, Fort Worth, in the critical care area and will attend Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary this fall on a part-time basis.

Miss Riley will be at home in Silver Heels until June 15.

ROANNE KAY RILEY

Wiatrek-Stipp unite in San Antonio rite

Vows were exchanged May 16 in the Holy Trinity Presbyterian Church, San Antonio, between Kathleen S. Wiatrek and David L. Stipp.

The bride is the daughter of Chester Wiatrek and Lucille Wiatrek, San Antonio. The groom is the son of Ann Bond, Conroe, and Louis Stipp, Houston, formerly of Big Spring.

Dr. Fred Morgan, pastor of the church, performed the 5:30 p.m. ceremony. Organ music was performed by Joann Carter.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in an original gown of peau d'ange and poly chiffon. The sweetheart neckline and bodice were covered with alencon lace, textured with pearls and sequins. She wore a picture hat of matching lace and beaded with pearls and sequins. A cascading bouquet of white roses and daisies completed the bridal ensemble.

Mrs. Linda Inglehart, San Antonio, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lisa Davis, San Antonio, and Virginia Stipp, Conroe. Mark Hoover, Conroe, was best man, and Steve Landry, Conroe, was groomsman. Ushers were Douglas Wiatrek and Curtis Wiatrek, San Antonio.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the Hacienda room of Los Patios restaurant.

The bride is a graduate of Roosevelt High School, San Antonio and is attending Texas A&M University, College Station.

The groom is a graduate of Conroe High School, and is also attending Texas A&M.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will make their home in College Station.

HAS AN OLD IDEA IN A NEW METAL

Armetale metal is a fusion of ten different metals that has the look and feel of fine pewter — yet offers many practical advantages. It won't break, chip, or crack. You can cook with it. And eat and drink from it. It's completely non-toxic.

Every piece of Armetale metal gift and dinnerware is individually cast in its own sand mold and painstakingly finished in the Colonial tradition.

So that today's Armetale collectible is sure to become tomorrow's heirloom.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TODAY, MAY 23, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An especially good day and evening to extend your knowledge beyond present boundaries. You may be eager to make CHANGES NOW BUT THIS IS NOT THE RIGHT TIME.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Contacting progressive and clever individuals can result in your own advancement at this time. Strive for happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Follow your intuitive hunches now since they can be helpful in your dealings with others. Flash that winning smile more.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Contacting influential persons today can be the best means through which you can advance in career matters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Your intuitive perception is keen now. So put it to good use and gain your objectives. Plan the coming week's activity.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Study contracts you have made and if any revisions are necessary, get at them early. An expert can give excellent advice.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Study new ways to cut down on expenses. Listen carefully to what a family member has to say and follow the advice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Engage in recreational activities with companions. Carry through with ideas of a creative nature in your spare time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Study your surroundings and make improvements where needed. Make plans to have more abundance in the days ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): A good day to visit places where you can gain a better appreciation of life. Think kindly of others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Plan now to make your possessions more valuable. Ideal day for meditating and searching for the truth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Visit good friends and show that you value the relationship. A day when you can easily make a good impression on others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Engage in recreational work that could make the future loom brighter for you. Express happiness with close ties.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be interested in the latest trends and inventions. Be sure to give the right spiritual and ethical training to keep this mind working along constructive channels. Give the finest education you can afford.

MRS. RICHARD CARTER CAULEY

Couple is united in Tulsa ceremony

Dr. and Mrs. Richard Carter Cauley are on a wedding trip to Nassau and Orlando, Fla., following their marriage Saturday evening in the New Haven United Methodist Church, Tulsa, Okla.

The bride, the former Deede Lee Hinckley, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. De L. Hinckley, Jr., Tulsa. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. M.Q. Cauley, 524 Scott.

Dr. De L. Hinckley Jr., father of the bride, and Dr. William Hestwood performed the 8 p.m. ceremony before an altar adorned by candles and greenery.

Rev. William Hestwood, Muskogee, Okla., performed wedding selections on the organ. Jan Chenoweth, Dallas, provided vocal selections and accompaniment on the guitar.

The bride was attired in a formal-length Bianchi gown of candlelight color. Candelight and white beaded lace accented the gown, which featured an empire bodice and rounded neckline.

A chapel-length veil, edged in lace, completed the bridal attire. She carried a bouquet of white bridal roses.

Debra Jean Hinckley, Tulsa, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Pearson, Dallas, Dale Stasney, Bellevue, Wash., Leigh Schopfer, Dallas, and Lyn Utterback, El Paso.

Dr. Lynn Cauley, Gonzales, La., was best man. Groomsmen were David Hinckley, Moore, Okla., James Hinckley, Oklahoma City, Okla., John Russell Thomasson, Crockett, and

The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railroad Employees met at the Kentwood Older Adult Center, Thursday at 8:30 p.m. for a pot luck supper, followed by the regular business meeting. W.C. Cole, president, presided, Hubert Ross protomed as chaplain.

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery met with the group to give details of the events as planned for the Railroad Centennial on May 28, the day the railroad entered Big Spring in 1881. Activities will center in and around the freight office, at the foot of Main Street. School children will be given a tour of the railroad yards and equipment from 9-11 a.m. The main event will take place at 3 p.m.

Members of the NARVRE, who were previously assigned as hosts and hostesses for the day, were asked to assist with the tour for the children. They were also asked to be present at the freight office by 2:30 p.m. for badges and instructions as to their assignments. Members are requested to wear uniforms or such clothing as their

Advertise to promote work at home

COLLEGE STATION — Tempted by a "work-at-home" offer?

Be careful, and proceed with caution — or create your own "work-at-home" business, advises Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

Mrs. McCormack is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In many "work-at-home" cases, the potential "employee" or "investor" (you) is asked to send a membership or registration fee to a company "for more information" or "to obtain the materials necessary to start the job," Mrs. McCormack notes.

Too often, these "job materials" and "investment secrets" turn out to be simply promotional literature — not work, she says.

PAUL PRATHER

MARK PRATHER

Two brothers graduate in spring exercises

Mark and Paul Prather, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McCasland, 618 Bucknell, and the late Cliff Prather, are graduating in the spring commencement exercises of their respective colleges.

Mark will graduate June 6 from the University of Minnesota with a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism. He plans to pursue a career in the advertising field following his graduation. Mark has been a professional trumpet player in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area since his graduation from Big Spring High School.

Home remedy for relief of menstrual cramps

The following formula, rich in calcium and magnesium, helps relieve menstrual cramps, tension and anxiety, according to a current Family Circle feature, "Natural Remedies for Women's Problems."

Stir on teaspoon of dolomite (calcium and magnesium) powder into half a glass of fruit juice and take with it a teaspoon of cod liver oil (the best source of vitamin D3) or in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area since his graduation from Big Spring High School.

Paul graduated May 15 from Southwestern Oklahoma State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in pharmacy. He will be employed by Revco Drug Stores in Dallas.

Grandparents of the graduates are Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Stamps, 1018 Bluebonnet, and Mrs. Josie Prather, Gail Route.

cod liver oil capsules, which are equivalent to the same dosage as a teaspoon. The Family Circle article explains that women need calcium before and during menstruation because of the sharp drop in the blood's calcium level. This calcium deficiency is (at least partially) the cause of premenstrual tension, anxiety attacks, backaches and muscle cramps.

Many are deficient in zinc

COLLEGE STATION — We all need zinc, but some people don't get enough, according to Cass Ryan-Crowe, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Human nutrition researchers report that some people in the United States may be marginally deficient in zinc, she says.

Some symptoms signalling that deficiency are diminished taste ability and poor wound healing.

Dr. Ryan-Crowe is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Who Is Deficient? Individuals who eat a diet predominated by vegetable products are the most likely to be deficient.

Vegetable and grain products contain phytate, a "chelating" or binding agent that adversely affects the absorption by the body of zinc.

How much is needed? The Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for zinc is 15 milligrams per day for each adult — with the consumption of a mixed diet or a diet that includes animal products.

Meat, liver, eggs and seafoods are best sources of zinc.

On the other hand, whole-grain products, such as whole wheat, rye and oatmeal and poor sources of zinc.

Management skills pay off when planting narrow row soybeans. That's the advice from one expert on how to better insure a successful narrow row crop. Dr. Charles Laible, a breeder with one of the industry giants, recommends the following management procedures: good seed bed preparation, earlier planting of solid seeded beans, and a relatively accurate planting depth — necessary for good stand establishment and to prevent lodging. He also stressed the importance of planting soybeans per acre and not per pound. Three years of research by Dr. Laible's team confirm the advantages of planting with an average yield increase of 10-12 percent. He also forecasts an increase in planting soybeans by the narrow row method in areas where farmers have a good control on weeds because closer planting means an increase in production and profit.

PLANS ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Don Fite, Colorado City, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Tracy Jean Gassiot, to Ricky Leon McPhaul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat McPhaul, Colorado City. The couple will exchange vows July 18 in the First Baptist Church, Colorado City.

AUGUST CEREMONY — Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Kimmel, Colorado City, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janice Lyn, to Michael Warren, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Warren, 905 Mountain Park Drive. The couple will marry August 1 in the First Baptist Church, Colorado City, with Rev. Glenn Roentfeldt, pastor of the church, officiating.

Vegetables offer flavor, fiber, provide versatility and nutrition

COLLEGE STATION — Enjoy vegetables for their flavor, eye appeal and versatility. Their nutritional value is really an added bonus, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Vitamin A abounds in deep green vegetables like spinach and collard greens and in dark yellow vegetables like carrots, sweet potatoes and winter squash. Broccoli, cauliflower and cabbage offer vitamin C, but to preserve this nutrient, cook the vegetables quickly in a minimal amount of water, the specialist advises. Fiber is another health benefit in vegetables. Fiber adds bulk to the diet and provides good exercise and cleansing effect for gums and teeth. Because vegetables contain different amounts of cellulose, hemicellulose and lignin, they differ in dietary fiber value. Raw vegetables like cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower make great snacks and can give the diet a fiber boost. Vegetables are naturally low in calories. Serve them with herbs and spices instead of butter or high-calorie sauces, Mrs. Sweeten continues.

'His Children' entertain ABWA

The chapter of American Business Women's Association was entertained by "His Children" at a covered dish supper in the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall Monday evening.

This group is a ministry of the church, directed by Joe Whitten, singing mainly for prisons in several states. He gave a short talk on some of the experiences they encountered as they visited different prisons, and what this program has meant to people who might never have heard of Jesus Christ.

Allie Moore gave the invocation, and led the Pledge of Allegiance.

The vocational talk was given by Allie Moore, who spoke about her Century plans. She invited everyone to come by her house and see the plant that is about to bloom.

Laverne Rogers was named "Woman of the Year" by the chapter. This honor is based on the member's achievement in her field of business, education, participation in the association, and in community activities.

A nominating committee, Helen McDonald, Sybil Horne, and Mary Holloman, was elected.

Nelda Colclazer, president, appointed

Onion flavor is in the oil

Oil in onions gives them their flavor — and that's a key in cooking with onions, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist.

This oil blends with fats and oils in other foods, so to enhance the onion flavor in stews, for example, heat chopped onion in a little fat for a few minutes. Then add the onion to the other ingredients, she says.

Ms. Haggard is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Jerel D. Fleming, Libertyville, Ill., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nita Louise, to Charles Lynn Mouser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard O. Mouser, Midland. The ceremony will take place May 30 in the Crestview Baptist Church, Midland, with Rev. Don Turner, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Midkiff, officiating.

Forsan students tour Dora Roberts Center

The seventh-grade home-making class from Forsan Junior High School took a tour of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center May 19 as part of a class field trip.

The students financed the field trip with funds raised from a drawing to give away their class project, a "1,000 Pyramid" patchwork quilt. By selling tickets for the quilt to be given away at a random drawing, the class raised over $200.

The class plans to donate any remaining funds from the field trip to the Center.

In addition to the Rehabilitation Center, the students visited Safeway, Kirby Dry Cleaner's, and Walls Industries, Inc.
