Black man released, but not ruled out

'Major' Atlanta suspect questioned

ATLANTA (AP) — A black man who was questioned for nearly 12 hours about some of the slayings of 28 young blacks and then was released today denied any connection with the case but said, "I still think I am a prime suspect."

The 23-year-old man said he was given a polygraph test when he was questioned by Atlanta police Wednesday night and early today and officers had searched his home and car.

"I have nothing to hide," he said at a news conference in his northwest Atlanta home, but he added he believes police still consider him "a prime suspect."

He invited to reporters to the conference on the condition they not use his name.

Officers armed with a search warrant went through his home late Wednesday, confiscating a yellow blanket, purple robe, green carpet fibers, fibers from a bedspread, carpet sweepings and dog hairs, he said.

They also used another search warrant to seize a tape recorder and brief case from his car, he said.

Published reports have said crime lab investigators found fiber evidence in several of the 28 slayings.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said a man questioned in connection with some of the 28 slayings was released early today because the interview produced no information "that would result in an arrest."

The man said, "They did call me a suspect. They said, 'You killed Nathaniel Cater. And you know it and you're lying to us.'" Cater is the 28th victim on the list of slayings being investigated by a special police task force.

The man told reporters he had been under surveillance since May 22, and "considered it harassment."

Whenever he left his home, he was followed by six to eight cars, he said. "We timed them going up and down the street 15 to 20 times in one hour," he said.

Technicians who have analyzed trace evidence in the cases worked through the night at the Georgia Crime Laboratory examining materials retrieved at the man's home, authorities said.

After FBI agents and members of a special police task force investigating the slayings had questioned the man at FBI headquarters, a haggard-looking Brown held a news conference at 3:15 a.m. EDT and announced, "Tonight we have made no arrest. He said the man was 'free to leave.'"

"If there was information that would indicate that anyone we were interested in was responsible for any of the homicides and we had sufficient information to present that before the courts and obtain a conviction, we will make an arrest," Brown said.

A spokesman for Mayor Maynard Jackson said the questioning began Wednesday afternoon, before the search warrant for the man's home was issued at about 4:30 p.m.

The 100-plus-member task force is investigating the slayings of 28 young blacks dating to July 1979 and the disappearance of a 10-year-old youth last seen in September 1980.

Police became interested in the man in late May while conducting surveillance of the Chattahoochee River, where the bodies of six victims have been found, the first investigative source said.

Officers who were staked out near the Bankhead Highway bridge in northwest Atlanta heard a splash on the night of May 21 or the morning of May 22, moved toward the sound and found a man who told them he had dumped some garbage in the river, the source said.

The body of 27-year-old Nathaniel Cater was discovered May 24 near the river site where the man was questioned. A medical examiner ruled Cater had been asphyxiated like 16 other victims.

Five inches soak Ackerly

Area rain 'good to excellent'

Although there were some reports of hail around Ackerly, the overnight rain reports in this area have to be described as "good to excellent."

Downpours of 5.5 inches were gauged at Fluvanna, located in the extreme northwest part of Scurry County. Some of that water, if the rain was widespread, will go into the Colorado River, which means it will eventually wind up in Lake Spence. Spence, however, likely will not get the full benefit of the Fluvanna rain until Sunday.

Two clouds passed over the Ackerly area, leaving an estimated five inches of moisture behind. There was some pea-sized hail reported in the fall. The heavy rain and the hail could mean that some farmers will have to plant over.

At Flower Grove in Martin County, some small hail accompanied a two-inch rain.

The official measurement at the Big Spring Experiment Station was 1.47 inches. That brings the year's total to 9.62 inches. The norm for the year through June 3 is 6.92 inches.

Boyce Hale, who resides four miles south of Big Spring, said his gauges showed 2.2 inches, bringing the total for the year to 10.16 inches.

At Moss Creek Lake, six miles southeast of Big Spring, Jim Byers said his gauge trapped 2.25 inches of rain from overnight rains and the rain was still peppering down at 9 a.m. today. The lake, one of the area's most popular recreational spots, is full but water is not going over the spillway.

At Knot, in the heart of the Howard County farm belt, the fall amounted to 1.2 inches, with no hail reported.

At Elbow, southeast of Big Spring, the measurement amounted to 1.9 inches.

At Lake Spence, one of the reservoirs maintained by the Colorado River Municipal Water District, the catch amounted to 1.9 inches while at Lake Thomas on the Borden-Scurry County line, the downpour ranged

Task force recommends doubling Canadian, Mexican immigrants

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House task force is recommending that President Reagan consider granting permanent amnesty to more than a million illegal aliens in the United States and that he double the number of immigrants permitted to enter the country from Mexico and Canada.

In a final draft of the report, obtained by The Associated Press Radio Network, the President's Task Force on Immigration and Refugee Policy also suggests that Reagan establish an experimental guest worker program.

The task force, headed by Attorney General William French Smith, recommends that the number of immigrants allowed to enter the country each year from Mexico and Canada be increased from 20,000 to 40,000.

The report said "there is no practical way to round up and deport" the 3 million to 6 million illegal aliens estimated to be in this country. As one option for dealing with that problem, it suggests granting permanent resident status to about 1.2 million illegal aliens who could prove they were in the United States prior to Jan. 1, 1980, and that they have lived here for five consecutive years.

The task force also suggests granting temporary worker status for another 1.5 million illegal immigrants.

A Justice Department spokesman said the report would be sent to the White House later this month, and other sources said Reagan is expected to act on its recommendations following his meeting next week with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

"Illegal immigration has caused impatience in Congress and the public with all migration into the United States, the report said, adding that some members of Congress and the public are especially concerned with the ethnic makeup of the latest waves of immigration, which was dominated by Hispanics.

In an attempt to bring the high level of legal and illegal immigration under control and encourage more diversity among the newcomers, the task force report puts forward a series of options for Reagan to consider. The president will make the final decisions.

The report recommends that the current immigration ceiling of 270,000 admissions a year be retained. In addition, spouses, children and parents of U.S. citizens would be admitted without regard to the calling, which would add another 150,000 newcomers annually, the report estimates.

Reagan rejects Demo tax-cut alternative

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pledging a fight for its three-year tax-cut plan and claiming the votes to win, the Reagan administration is rejecting a two-year, 15 percent Democratic alternative that would target extra relief toward lower- and middle-income families.

President Reagan "is committed to a three-year tax cut and will make a fight for it," says Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, signaling an apparent end to efforts to negotiate a compromise with congressional Democrats. "We think we have the votes."

One congressman who met with Reagan today said he is planning a nationally televised appeal to the public to support his tax-cut plan.

Whether the administration has victory in its grasp could be determined by the end of the day. The 47-member Conservative Democratic Forum was meeting today to discuss whether to side with the president or the Democratic leadership. On a crucial budget vote earlier in the year, most of the group went with Reagan.

James Earl Ray stabbed while in prison library

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to killing civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., was stabbed several times in the chest, arm and neck early today in the law library at Brushy Mountain Penitentiary, officials said.

Ray, 53, serving 99 years for King's murder in 1968 in Memphis, was taken to Oak Ridge Hospital under heavy guard and was undergoing surgery, according to Debby Patterson, deputy press secretary to Gov. Lamar Alexander.

He was in stable condition, and the operation was expected to last 1 1/2 hours, she said.

Four inmates, three black and one white, were held after the stabbing at 8:58 a.m. EDT, she said. Their names were not released. Guards also confiscated a weapon fashioned from a 12-inch metal brace taken from a window frame.

The maximum-security prison was locked down after the stabbing, but there were no disturbances, said Warden Herman Davis.

"These suspects will be held for investigation," he said. "I have in turn notified the Morgan County sheriff and we have sealed off the law library."

Davis said it would be up to the sheriff and district attorney general to pursue charges.

No motive was known, according to Ronald Bishop, director of institutional programs for the Correction Department.

"Ray was in the general prison population and had no known problems with the suspects," he said. The law library is accessible to entire population, he added.

Armed guards were stationed outside the hospital, 15 miles from the prison, Ms. Patterson said.

Barbara Washburn, a hospital spokeswoman, said Ray came into the emergency department, "was evaluated as having multiple stab wounds which he received at the prison" and sent into surgery.

Ray was a fugitive from a Missouri prison at the time King was slain April 4, 1968. He pleaded guilty to the slaying in March 1969, after his arrest in London, England, in return for a 99-year sentence. There was no testimony at his trial, only the statement by the prosecution outlining evidence against him.

He later recanted and has been trying periodically ever since to win a new trial or hearing in the case.

He escaped from the Missouri prison in 1977 from the east Tennessee prison and tried to escape on at least three other occasions.

Ray's wife, Anna Sandhu Ray, who lives in Knoxville, was not immediately available for comment.

Tornadoes in Denver kill one person, injure 42

DENVER (AP) — National Guardsmen were posted by the governor to watch for looters today after violent storms and at least a dozen tornadoes tore roofs off buildings, cut houses in two and scattered trees, killing one person and injuring at least 42 others.

The twisters sliced through a 30-mile arc Wednesday, leaving the most damage in the Denver suburb of Thornton, where the 42 were injured. The one fatality was a woman in another part of the state who was hit by lightning.

Gov. Richard Lamm declared a "disaster emergency" and assigned National Guard troops to Thornton after some looting was reported, said Lamm's press secretary, Sue O'Brien. Lamm planned to fly over the area today, she said.

Extra police officers were stationed in southwest neighborhoods of Denver to discourage looting.

"It started way up in the air and then all kinds of clouds gathered and it came down fast," said Peter Baker, who was standing in his Thornton yard when the tornado hit. "We could see it moving straight at us across the roofs of the houses."

"Then we ran into the neighbor's house and huddled in a corner. When the roof started coming off, I prayed to God for my life."

Baker's house was cut in two by the twister. Across the street, a two-ton camper was thrown 10 feet by the wind and flipped onto its roof. A light aluminum boat next to where the camper had been parked was untouched.

A spokeswoman for Valley View Hospital, Sonia Weiss, said Kim Franck, 18, of Thornton, was in critical condition with multiple fractures. Ms. Weiss said the hospital treated 33 tornado victims for minor injuries.

Several others were treated by other hospitals.

Mary McCarthy, 21, of Wharton, N.J., was killed after being hit by lightning near Brainard Lake about 50 miles northwest of Denver, and two other women with her were injured, officials said. Although no tornadoes were reported in the area, it was hit by heavy rain.

The first twisters touched down in the Lakewood suburb and at a busy southwest Denver intersection, scattering trees and broken glass and destroying the roof of an apartment complex. Some cases of looting were reported there, prompting local police to tighten security.

Minor injuries were reported from several car accidents.

No damage estimates were available.

The worst damage was reported at the D&B Shopping Center in northeast Thornton.

Final witness called

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Final defense witnesses have told a state district court jury that murder defendant Patricia Ann Frazier was not responsible for her actions at the time she cut the heart out of her four-year-old daughter.

The 25-year-old Wichita Falls woman has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the gruesome slaying of her daughter last year.

Dr. Sethurama Srinivasan, Director of the Maximum Security Psychiatric Hospital in which Ms. Frazier was incarcerated while awaiting trial last year, told the court Wednesday that the impact of the movie "The Exorcist" on Ms. Frazier's unstable personality contributed to her actions.

The two-week-long trial is the second for Ms. Frazier, whose first trial in Wichita Falls in November, 1980 resulted in a hung jury.

The case was moved to Denton when District Judge Keith Nelson ruled defense attorneys could not find an impartial jury in Wichita County because of publicity surrounding the first trial.

Jurors viewed "The Exorcist" earlier in the trial as defense attorneys argued that the movie caused Frazier to believe her daughter was possessed.

"I believe the movie contributed to the tragic killing," Srinivasan said.

Clinical psychologist and lawyer Robert Gordon, the defense's last witness, said after an evaluation of Ms. Frazier a week before the trial began, he concluded that she was unable to understand the legal consequences of her behavior at the time of the killing.

"She (Frazier) was suffering from delusions and hallucinations, a fantasy that someone was commanding her, so compelling that she was unable to act rationally and love her daughter," Gordon said.

In his cross-examination, Wichita County District Attorney Tim Eyssen suggested that Ms. Frazier might be a sociopath, consciously trying to escape the consequences of her actions.

Navy's cruise missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has authorized the Navy to build its new cruise missile with a long-range capability to strike deep inside the Soviet Union, the Pentagon acknowledged Thursday.

Spokesman Henry Catto said the decision was not in conflict with provisions of the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II) because a protocol covering the pilotless, hedge-hopping missiles expires at the end of the year.

He said the missiles would not be deployed on submarines and surface vessels before mid-1982 at the earliest.

"It is my understanding it is within the letter of the Washington Star, the Navy hopes to have full deployment by 1985.

The missiles, which can carry nuclear warheads, would have a longer range than the 372 miles specified in the protocol, the newspaper reported.

The protocol expires four years before the scheduled end of the basic treaty, which was agreed to by the United States and the Soviet Union in 1979 but has not yet been ratified by the U.S. Senate. The Carter administration insisted on the limited duration as a compromise between the Pentagon's desire to proceed with sea- and land-based cruise missiles and Soviet pressure to restrict them.

Oil prices slashed

NEW YORK (AP) — American motorists heartened by recent reports of a glut on the oil market have some more good news — several oil producers reportedly have decided to slash prices, likely meaning lower costs at the gasoline pump.

Wednesday's reported reductions by two members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and one American producer came on the heels of a $4 per barrel cut on Mexican heavy oil the day before and were expected to signal more crude-oil price cuts.

Among those that reportedly decided to cut prices Wednesday in the face of falling consumption and a growing oil glut was Libya, a militant OPEC member previously opposed to any price reductions. Libya has charged $41 a barrel, the world's highest price, for its best oil.

But Platt's Oilgram Price Reporter, a trade publication, said Wednesday a contract was being offered for Libyan oil at $36.

Iraq, whose oil exports are growing as its war with Iran slows, shaved 57 cents off its price by reducing pipeline fees, bringing per-barrel prices to $36.93. The reduction was disclosed by a government official in Japan, a major Iraqi customer.

And Standard Oil Co. (Ohio), the largest producer of oil on Alaska's North Slope cut its price by $2, reducing the price to about $33 a barrel. There are 42 gallons in a barrel.

Flip totals $23,000 auto; two men hurt

Two men in a 1981 Porsche fared much better than the $23,000 automobile in a one-car rollover Wednesday on FM 2230.

The automobile, driven by Mike Craddock, had been purchased earlier in the day from Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac. Craddock and Charles Neefe were taking the car out on an initial test run when the accident occurred.

Trooper David Hedgpeh investigated the accident, which was reported at 5:15 p.m. He reported that the car was a total loss. Both men were taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Shaffer Ambulance. Craddock was treated and released. Neefe is in stable condition, with lacerations to his face.

Sheppard became interested in mortuary science at age 12

By ANDREA COHEN

At the age of 12, Larry D. Sheppard, became interested in mortuary science when he took a job at a funeral home in Crane.

Today he owns five funeral homes, including a 12,000 square foot facility located on FM 700.

"I've been in it all my life," he says. When the other boys were playing cowboys and indians, I was a mortician.

In 1966 after graduating from high school, he moved to San Saba. He graduated from the Dallas Institute of Mortuary Science, in February 1968.

Three years ago, on June 4, 1978, he opened his fifth funeral home in Big Spring. His wife, Phyllis, and his two sons, Cody Dow and Bradley Dean make their home at 2806 MacAuslan.

The best part of his job, he feels, is "the feeling that you're helping people perhaps when there was no one else." The worst part is conducting services for a close friend.

"Some of the families are very vulnerable," he says.

LARRY D. SHEPPARD

questions they may have and then we leave the room.

"With each coffin is the price of it and the service charges. We take off any service charges if they don't want them. The families have complete control.

"We're employed by the family we serve. What they want done is what we try to do."

He adds that pre-need, where the person decides what he wants before his death, is probably one of the greatest things a person can do for his family. "This way the family knows what the person wants."

According to Sheppard, pride is taken in the embalming of the deceased. "Not every funeral home cares," he says. "The burn victim is hardest to embalm. It's harder to do and it's a bad situation anyway."

Sheppard feels he has the finest facilities in West Texas.

"I want to thank everyone for the first three years," he said. "It's gratifying. We appreciate the business of the families."

El Paso youngster winner of National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paige Pipkin, 13, of El Paso, Texas, today avenged last year's defeat by winning the 54th National Spelling Bee.

Miss Pipkin and Jason Johnson, 12, of St. Joseph, Mo., were the last two contestants from a field of 130.

They survived a five-round duel of words — and then Johnson, misspelled "philippic."

Miss Pipkin spelled that word correctly and then spelled "sarcopteryx" in a slow, quavering voice for the victory.

After receiving her winner's cup, the small blonde stepped back from the microphone, tears streaming down her cheeks, and held up the trophy as onlookers cheered and applauded.

Miss Pipkin, who had finished second in last year's spelling bee, tearfully told reporters she had never really had any doubts about this year's contest.

"I just had to come back," she said.

Johnson, grinning widely to display a mouthful of braces, was a gracious runner-up.

"I loved every minute of it," he said. "I have no regrets. I'm not sad at all."

Miss Pipkin and Johnson were among 46 youngsters still in the running when competition resumed this morning. There were 120 entrants when the bee began Wednesday.

The contest started slowly, with only 30 youngsters eliminated in the first three rounds. But then things got tough in the crowded ballroom of the Capital Hilton Hotel, and 44 fell by the wayside in the fourth round.

Youngsters scurried through hallways, eyes buried in spelling books. They studied them at breakfast and lunch, and still they found they just didn't know every word.

Miss Pipkin proceeded through Wednesday's competition with deliberation, spelling "avocation," "villpend," "esurient" and "numen" before moving on to today's triumph.

Police may have located amnesia victim's father

DALLAS (AP) — An Indiana man was en route to Texas today to determine if a young amnesia victim, found wandering around a suburban motel pool, is his 18-year-old daughter.

Joe Thomas of Carmel, Ind., called the Dallas County Sheriff's Department Wednesday after a former neighbor who now lives in Dallas recognized the girl's picture in local newspapers and called him.

"Thomas gave us a description of his daughter, Terry, and it fit our girl to a T," said sheriff's Capt. Ray Abnor.

The girl, who told police she thought her name was Connie Russell, remained in Parkland Memorial Hospital, where she was taken for psychiatric treatment after a county psychiatrist diagnosed her as suffering from amnesia.

Abnor said Susan Knowles saw the girl's photograph and "recognized her right off." She told officers she

BSSH patients enjoyed Centennial activities

Local residents commemorated the 100th anniversary of the railroad arrival in Big Spring recently through numerous activities. These activities were staged in different areas of the community and were enjoyed by many.

Among those enjoying the activities were Big Spring State Hospital patients. These patients attended three of the major events — one off campus and two on campus. Seventy patients attended the "Iron Horse Revue," a spectacle depicting Big Spring's history.

Tickets to the event were donated by Cunningham Oil Co., First Presbyterian Covenant Sunday School Class, Sid Smith Construction Company and several other volunteers and organizations. The patients were entertained on campus by the Ft. Hood Band and the Centennial First Lady, along with her court dressed in fashions from the 1880's.

Rounding off the Centennial activities was "Project Youth Reaching Out." The project, which was coordinated by local junior high student Sam Gladden, brought out twelve students who volunteered for two hours in various departments within the hospital.

At the conclusion of the festivities, the Centennial Committee donated 16 cakes. The cakes will help celebrate patients' birthdays.

Elma Martinez, Coordinator of Volunteer Services said "We are grateful to the many fine and generous citizens who made it possible for the patients to be a part of the Centennial."

Weather Heavy rains dumped on most of Texas

By the Associated Press

Heavy thunderstorms dumped locally heavy rain on many sections of Texas during the night and early today, prompting the National Weather Service to issue flash flood warnings for some areas and flash flood watches for vast areas of the state.

Flash flood warnings were in effect early today for areas northwest of Abilene and a small area around the Bosque River at Stephenville, southeast of the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Street and stream flooding was reported during the night and early today in Scurry, Mitchell, Jones and Fisher counties. There were reports of up to five inches of rainfall in some areas of those counties.

All of North Texas, most of South Texas and the southeast portion of West Texas was under a flash flood watch through tonight.

The portion of South Texas not covered by the 'West Texas Igloo' Architect building experimental home

People may be giving it names like The Mound, West Texas Igloo, or Prairie Dog Hill, but Daryle Hohertz will be living in it and — he hopes — saving money.

Hohertz, a Big Spring architect, told Downtown Lions about his experimental home at 710 E. 22nd. It's back of Goliad school and north of Citizens Credit Union — and you'll probably get lost trying to go there right now.

Hohertz set out to build an unconventional energy-saving home. The key is insulation, and he's using earth for most of that. He excavated two feet and stockpiled the dirt so that once the concrete block walls are in place, the surplus can be back-filled to the roof line.

The beams against the wall will give the structure the appearance of blending into the hill and surrounding mesquite thicket. The roof will be built up of double layer insulation, and air-space, deck and another layer of polystyrene insulation.

The only windows open to the south, and slots are cut through the beams to the windows and protected with concrete retainers. Little moisture penetration is anticipated because of slope of the beams, but the exterior walls will be water-proofed just for safety.

There will be increased electric illumination, and heat will come largely from a Franklin stove with a boost from heat pumps. Air will be forced-circulated for good ventilation.

Hohertz hopes his total power bill — although the home will be all-electric — will be a fraction of what it was in his former home. There also will be savings on maintenance and on taxes, etc.

Next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock there will be a ladies night affair at Howard College, said Dub Martin, president, and new officers will be installed for the term beginning July 1.

Dr. Wayne Bonner said that results were good on the Lions paper collection at Highland South Texaco, John Davis Feed Store at Benton and E. 2nd, and that it is hoped to soon have a station at College Park. He also urged patrons to bring their 2-liter plastic soft drink containers along with their old newspapers, etc.

Volunteers are needed at BSSH

The Volunteer Department of Big Spring State Hospital offers unique and varied opportunities to individuals interested in spending a portion of their time helping others. These individuals are placed in assignments which will best utilize their time and talents.

Volunteers are needed to serve on committees, assist with music therapy, do clerical work in various offices, serve coffee on the unit, escort patients to appointments, sponsor parties and dances, assist with off campus picnic, and provide recreational activities.

If you are a student, retiree, person employed full time or a housewife interested in volunteering, please call the Volunteer Office at 267-8216 ext. 535, and ask for Elma Martinez.

White plans to intervene in KKK Vietnamese case

HOUSTON (AP) — State Attorney General Mark White, acting in behalf of Vietnamese fishermen, will petition a federal court judge today to close paramilitary training camps in Texas used by the Ku Klux Klan.

White said the state will intervene on the side of the Vietnamese fishermen sued to stop alleged intimidation by KKK members and native Texas fishermen who claim the Gulf waters have become overcrowded.

Earlier, White filed a friend-of-the-court brief in the case defending a state law restricting paramilitary activities by private citizens.

New coalition should help Sun Belt states

It goes without saying that Texas and other Sun Belt states are still paying for their sins brought on by the War Between the States.

The Windfall Profits Tax was a good example. It represented some of the worst legislation ever perpetrated against an industry. It was supported heavily by legislators from the energy-short northern tier of states and was written to cut the oil millionaires in Texas and Louisiana down to size.

UNABLE TO COMPETE with the Sun Belt states economically, some of the states in the Northeast and Midwest are forever looking to Congress for ways to get favored treatment. When New York City got in financial straits, its officials wanted the nation to bail it out. Some legislation has been pushed in the nation's capitol favors the users of heat in the Snow Belt over those using power to turn air conditioners in the South.

Jimmy Carter hailed from Georgia but he led the surge in Washington to write discriminatory legislation against the oil industry (while ignoring other fuels). The evils of the Windfall Profits Tax have not yet been erased, although Carter is long gone from Washington. Chances are good, however, that the Congress will get around to easing some of the burdens of the oil industry.

In the past, all too often the Sun Belt states have not always pulled together.

Indications are, however, the resolve for a more united front is strengthening among Southerners elected to the Congress.

Something called the Sun Belt Council, chaired by a Lufkin, Tex., Democrat, Rep. Charles Wilson, has been organized. Vice chairman is a South Carolina Republican, Rep. Floyd Spence.

Purpose of the Sun Belt Council, according to Wilson, is "to propose and monitor" legislation affecting states in the South and West and their residents.

IT'S NOT A compliment to this nation's people that such regionalism is necessary, but the Sun Belt States didn't lay down the ground rules, the Northeast-Midwest coalition did. The states in the South and the West have no choice but to close ranks. "Because the Northeast-Midwest Coalition has been so successful, generally at the expense of the South and Southwest, we felt the need for a counterforce that would push for good national legislation," Wilson said.

"We hope to defend the interests of the South and Southwest only as we perceive threats from the Northeast and Midwest ... Formulas, once cast, are often difficult if not impossible to change."

His reference was to funding formulas on everything from social services to highways. It's encouraging to see our congressmen recognizing rivalry for what it is and banding together to do something about it.

Tests relaxed

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's doctrinaire conservative supporters will be surprised to learn that the White House is practicing a kind of "political" reverse discrimination. Political loyalty tests apparently have been relaxed in the case of minority candidates for top jobs.

The idea of boosting an administration's image by seeking out women and minority nominees is nothing new, of course. In his recently published memoir of Cabinet life under Jimmy Carter, Joseph Califano claims that Carter ordered that all incompetents be weeded out of the government — with the exception of women and minorities.

THE REAGAN WHITE HOUSE hasn't gone that far. But its policy on minority appointments was explained by Vice President Bush at the April 2 Cabinet meeting three days after Reagan was shot. Bush's remarks behind closed doors were reported in a private memo to Energy Secretary James Edwards by the man who sat in for him, W. Kenneth Davis, the deputy designate. The memo has been reviewed by my associate Jack Mitchell.

"The vice president stressed the fact that the president had pledged to incorporate a substantial number of minority people at the top level in the new government," Davis reported.

"The vice president said that we were clearly not doing the job we had promised to do and that we needed to do a lot better for the remaining jobs. The point was raised that many of the minority candidates cannot pass the political tests. The vice president said that the tests were being modified in the case of minority candidates."

Davis had other news from the Cabinet meeting. "The vice president mentioned that there were a lot of business people coming in with interests seeking to get special concessions with respect to taxes and thought this was quite unfortunate and that the members of the Cabinet should do what they could to resist this type of pressure and counteract it," Davis wrote.

What makes this particularly interesting is that a top corporation executive was sitting in on that very Cabinet meeting. It was Davis himself. At the time, he was still a vice president of Bechtel Power Corp., which has more than $100 million worth of energy-related federal contracts.

AFTER HIS APPOINTMENT as Edwards' deputy, but before his confirmation by the Senate, Davis assumed his duties at DOE. The propriety of allowing a private corporation executive to run a federal agency is questionable when the executive's company is heavily involved in projects of sending a corporate bigshot to sit on a meeting of the supreme policy-making body in the federal government.

Davis' views on a potential conflict of interest between his corporate past and his government position were subsequently made clear during his confirmation proceedings. He outraged Senate investigators by asking for a waiver that would permit him to take an active part in DOE policy decisions affecting Bechtel. A compromise was worked out, and he was eventually confirmed.

Footnote: Davis was unavailable for comment, but a DOE spokesman stressed that Davis merely "sat in" for Edwards at the Cabinet meeting, but did not otherwise participate.

A Bush spokesman acknowledged that progress on minority appointments was of concern to both Reagan and Bush, and that the White House had hired aides to recruit women, blacks and other minorities to the administration.

BAD NEWS ON BAD DEBTS — President Reagan has given high priority to the recovery of billions of dollars owed to the federal government. Yet the Department of Education is quietly sabotaging this worthy endeavor.

The department is owed more than $1 billion by students who skipped out on government-backed college loans. Its loan collectors have managed to track down about 823,000 of the deadbeats and recover more than $159 million for Uncle Sam.

In a congratulatory memorandum, Education Secretary Terrel Bell praised his collection staff's "impressive record" and said: "Our collectors have returned more than $3 for every $1 of cost to the taxpayer. We should be proud of our accomplishments."

Bell then announced that 565 of the loan collectors would be fired. The secretary believes that private collection agencies should do the job. Yet his own department's studies show that private firms will cost more and be less successful.

Because they operate on commission, the private firms tend to go after the delinquent loans that are easiest to collect. The tough ones are turned back to the government to handle.

WATCH ON WASTE — The federal government doesn't subsidize sports generally, even our Olympic athletes have to pay their own way. But there's one flagrant and incredible exception: rifle shooting. Since 1968, the "civilian marksmanship program" has been generously supported by the taxpayers. Last year, more than $1 million in public funds were spent — $845,000 to the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, and $329,000 in free equipment and ammunition.

Defending defense

Joseph Kraft

Some day some kind soul may introduce the President of the United States to his Secretary of Defense. Then Ronald Reagan and Caspar Weinberger might meet for a long, candid talk about national security and public opinion.

Then, maybe, they could avoid doing what they did last week. That is, expressing nearly opposite opinions in nearly simultaneous speeches to nearly the same audiences on matters crucial to the development of a credible national strategy.

THE PRESIDENT GAVE his speech to the Military Academy at West Point on May 27. The thrust of his argument was that there had taken place, with his election, a fundamental change in the national attitude toward defense.

Mr. Reagan started with the immediate past. "We have," he said, "been through a period in which it seemed that we, the people, had forgotten that government is a convenience of, for and by the people."

During that period, he went on, "government neglected one of its prime responsibilities, national security, as it engaged more and more in social experimentation. Our margin of safety in an increasingly hostile social experimentation. Our margin of safety in an increasingly hostile world was allowed to diminish... There was a widespread lack of respect for the uniform, born perhaps of what has been called the Vietnam syndrome."

But presto, change. Now, according to the President, "The American people have recovered from what can only be called a temporary aberration. There is a spiritual revival going on in this country... The era of self-doubt is over."

The Secretary of Defense gave his speech to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs on May 27. Like the President, Mr. Weinberger started with the election. "Last fall," he said, "the voice of the American people clearly demanded that our nation be second to none in military power..." But Mr. Weinberger made no claims for a total change in national mood.

On the contrary, he pointed up the responsibilities incumbent on those in the defense establishment, and particularly the military, to behave in ways that did not undo a transformation which he acknowledged to be "fragile." He said:

"We, more than any of the other 200 million Americans, hold in our hands and in our daily work the potential to fortify or erode the public consensus in favor of a stronger defense. If we are perceived as wasteful, or unresponsive to new ideas of strategy or tactics, or if we do anything to lose the people's confidence, we might destroy the fragile national consensus so recently formed for stronger defenses, and the new national resolve to fight if necessary for our future."

IT IS POSSIBLE the President is correct in asserting that there has already taken place an irreversible change, stigmatizing what happened after Vietnam as "mere aberration." Possible, but not likely. For all the evidence goes with the more somber view set forward by Weinberger.

The attitudes associated with Vietnam were not, like a plague, something foreign that came, went, and is now gone forever. Far from being an abnormality, the so-called "Vietnam syndrome" was a logical response to a misbegotten war in which many, including many military men and at least one commander-in-chief, behaved ignobly.

The anti-military lobby — "the shrill voices," as the President called them — has been muted but not silenced. Witness the way most of us in the media went bananas about the dispatch of half a hundred American military men to El Salvador. Witness, too, the anti-defense writings of James Fallows in the Atlantic magazine, and of Prof. Lester Thurow in the New York Review of Books.

Around the rim Strangers in town

Carol Hart

Do you have a case of the post-Centennial blahs? Or, maybe a case of post-Centennial exhaustion? If so, don't despair. It's a pretty common ailment in Big Spring.

Sunday was sort of like the day after Christmas. The Centennial was really over, and unlike Christmas, it will be 100 years before the Bicentennial rolls around.

EVER SINCE SUNDAY, you may have noticed plenty of strangers in town. Actually, if you'll take a closer look, you may know these people after all.

Take, for example, the clean-shaven men you walk by without a second glance. Last week, these same men had scraggly beards or finely tailored mustaches, and longish hair. Now, they're totally different people, sans all that Centennial adornment. And women in fashionable skirts, blouses and slacks just don't look the same, after seeing them for six weeks in 1890-style dresses.

So, if a stranger approaches you like an old friend, don't call the police until you eye them closely. You probably know them after all, you just forgot their 1981 appearance.

Now, for that case of the post-Centennial blahs. There are several things coming up in the near future that may take care of the nothing-todoublets.

For example, the Spring City Theatre will hold auditions June 8 and 9 at 7:30 p.m. in Comanche Trail Park Amphitheatre for the SCT summer melodrama "Sweeney Todd, Demon Barber of the Barbary Coast." "Iron Horse Revue" stars, here's your chance to continue your acting career. According to a press release prepared by Cecelia McKenzie of Spring City Theatre, the cast calls for 11 women and nine men, plus a number of "citizens." There are also spots for people interested in working with scenery, publicity, lights, make-up and costumes.

THE BIG SPRING version of "Sweeney Todd" won't be a musical, according to Cecelia, but she adds that the play should offer lots of excitement. Those interested in the melodrama may come either June 8 or 9.

The Dallas Theater Center, which brought "To Kill A Mockingbird" to Big Spring in April, will return with "Alice in Wonderland" here June 16. The play will be staged in the Municipal Auditorium at 7 p.m.

It may be 100 years until the railroad bicentennial, but it looks like there's going to be plenty going on in the city this summer, anyway.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would like to become a Christian, but I'm afraid I wouldn't be able to last in my commitment. I guess I'm too weak to be a Christian. — C.A.

Dear C.A.: You are exactly the kind of person Jesus Christ wants as a disciple. Does that surprise you? If it does, let me explain what I mean because it is very important. All too often we have the idea that Christ only welcomes people who are already morally strong and spiritually vigorous.

But that is not true! Look at Peter, who was one of Jesus' closest disciples. Peter often was weak, and in times of difficulty he frequently forgot that he was a follower of Christ — or worse still, he openly denied it. And yet Jesus loved Peter, because he knew that Peter really believed in him and wanted to follow him.

I want you to remember several things. For one thing, the person who senses his own weakness often makes a good disciple because he knows he needs the Lord. He knows that he cannot resist temptation to his own, and he therefore knows he must stay near to Christ.

The person who believes he is strong enough to be a disciple is actually the one who usually gets in trouble, because he tends to rely on himself rather than Christ. Christ knows you are weak, and accepts you just as you are. Paul said, "When I am weak, then I am strong" (2 Corinthians 12:10).

Then remember that it is not your hold on Christ that counts — it is his hold on you! Yes, you are weak, but he is strong. And he is able to give you strength, and to help you grow spiritually. Bring your weakness to Christ, and let him take it away.

That does not mean that you will never face temptation, or that everything will be easy for you as a Christian. But God is with you and will help you if you turn your life over to him. "Be strong in the Lord and in his mighty power. Put on the full armor of God" (Ephesians 6:10-11).

In summary, your weakness should not keep you from Christ — it should cause you to seek him. Give your life to him, and then turn to him each day for strength.

Nose spray problem common one

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter has used nose spray for three or four years and seems to use it more frequently as time goes on. If she happens to run out of it she says she can't possibly breathe through her nose at all. She is miserable. I've talked to her and tried to scare her. Will she need surgery to break her habit? — T.Y.

This is a constantly recurring question.

Prolonged use of nose sprays can lead to rhinitis medicamentosa. There's a nice new word for you. Most nose sprays have an ingredient that shrinks blood vessels, thereby reducing swelling and congestion that make breathing difficult. However, after the effects of the medicine have worn off there could be a greater rebound in the blood vessels, making them even larger than before the spray was used. I'm not sure why this occurs, but it does and studies have shown it. Furthermore, too frequent use of nose sprays encourages a greater production of mucus in the nose.

I agree with you that your daughter may be headed for trouble if she continues this inordinate dosage of spray. She has to stop if she ever wants relief. If she doesn't stop she'll never really know if there is some condition causing her nasal problem that lends itself to treatment — allergy, for one. Right now she's masking the stuffy nose symptoms. I don't think she'll need surgery, just a resolve to quit the sprays and be examined.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Now some doctors are saying a little alcohol a day may not be harmful, but actually help control cholesterol. How much is a little? — B.B.

Yes, some studies have indicated that a little alcohol may help increase the so-called high density lipoproteins (HDLs) in the blood. Those are the kind of lipoproteins considered helpful in the general lipid picture.

What is a little? Well, some consider it as little as a beer a day. So the finding is certainly no green light for alcoholic binges. In excess, alcohol causes elevation of triglyceride levels and deposition of that in the liver.

Your letter indicates some confusion on other blood fat factors. You may want to study the booklet "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly." I am sending you a copy. Other readers may order one by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

SINAI SUMMIT — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt laughs as Prime Minister Menachem Begin (left) of Israel gestures at the start of their meeting in the Ofira "White House" near the city of Ofira, occupied Sinai, this morning. (AP LASERPHOTO)

Sadat urges Begin to not escalate tensions over Syrian missile crisis

OFIRA, Israeli-Occupied Sinai (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin said he accepted a request by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat today to give more time for American diplomacy to resolve the crisis over Syria's deployment of missiles in Lebanon.

Begin said at a joint news conference with Sadat after a six-hour summit that the two of them had "made important agreements, we reached serious solutions," but apologized for not disclosing the results.

"The solutions," he said, "will develop and become known in the process of their realization."

Begin said he had accepted "the request of my friend President Sadat to give more time to Mr. Philip Habib to try to solve the crisis in Lebanon, caused by the Syrians, by peaceful means."

Habib is the special U.S. Middle East envoy who is seeking to resolve the crisis. He spent three weeks last month shuttling between Mideast capitals, and is expected to return from consultations in Washington shortly.

In Washington, the White House announced that Begin and Sadat had been invited to meet separately with President Reagan in early August.

Israel Radio earlier quoted Egyptian sources as saying Sadat wanted Begin to promise not to escalate the tension over Syria's deployment of missiles in Lebanon.

Begin made no substantive comment when he emerged from the morning session of the one-day summit, and Sadat met alone with a group of Ofirans who presented him with a request to be allowed to stay in the area on the Sinai Peninsula after Israel's withdrawal next April.

Egypt has refused similar requests, pointing to the David peace treaty with Israel. Begin's aides said he wanted to clear up any possible misunderstandings on that point.

Begin's spokesman, Uri Porat, told reporters the crisis in Lebanon was the "single urgent reason" for the meeting, which Begin requested. Porat said talks were "to protect the peace treaty from any shock that may arise from developments on the Lebanese front."

Reagan invites Mideast leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has invited Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and the prime minister of Israel to meet with him separately in early August, a White House spokesman said today.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the Israeli invitation will be extended to Prime Minister Menachem Begin or whoever wins the Israeli elections June 30.

Speakes said he presumed the meetings would be held in Washington, although Reagan is scheduled to spend part of August at his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif.

Begin mentioned the strange situation resulting from Israeli election laws that forbid showing him on television during the four weeks before Israel's June 30 national voting for Parliament.

Sadat has condemned Syria for causing the current crisis in Lebanon. Butros Ghali, Sadat's minister of state for foreign affairs, has said Egypt's commitment to the other Arab countries could supersede the Camp

Nestles lawyer admits giving Lefever money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nestle Corp. lawyer told Senate investigators he gave $10,000 to a research center headed by Ernest W. Lefever, whose nomination as President Reagan's human rights adviser is clouded by conflict of interest questions involving the same company, Senate sources say.

Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., a leading opponent of Lefever's appointment as assistant secretary of state for human rights, said he would question the nominee about the additional $10,000 during a closed-door hearing by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today. Tsongas has called the $25,000 donated earlier an "ethics question."

The contribution was in addition to $25,000 that Nestle donated to the Lefever's Ethics and Public Policy Center in 1980 while the center was preparing and distributing an article that Nestle considered favorable to its sale of infant formula in Third World countries.

The lawyer, Thomas J. Ward, said the money, divided into two $5,000 donations, was contributed to the center through his Washington law firm of Ward and Grow, the sources said. The sources added that it was still unclear whether the money originated from Nestle.

Committee pushes statewide energy standards

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An advisory committee wants Texas' top elected officials to consider statewide standards for all new buildings — including homes — and tax breaks to persuade Texans to save energy.

The Advisory Committee on Energy Efficiency also went on record Wednesday as favoring possible legislation — rather than regulatory agency action — to help the poor with rising utility costs.

The committee possibly was thinking of proposed federal budget cuts in recommending state funds for such programs as those that provide money for low-income people to insulate their homes.

Committee members overrode a builder's protest that they were favoring a "Big Brother state" in recommending statewide energy standards for new buildings.

"I don't want you to think the Texas Association of Builders is against saving energy," said C.L. Reeves, Austin. "What we're basically afraid of is being regulated to death."

Reeves said he objected to a "Big Brother state that says 'thou shalt...'"

He said he opposed a single building code "for an outhouse in Podunk City and a 15-story office building in Houston, Texas. It gets to be a quagmire and an anthill. Every locale should be allowed to adopt its own ordinance."

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, committee chairman, said, "I fear that if the committee takes a hands-off approach" cities would seek new industry by advertising they had no building ordinances. "That's something we would want to avoid," he said.

Reeves cast the lone vote against a recommendation that the Legislature endorse statewide minimum energy standards for buildings. Cities would be required to enforce the standards by local ordinance.

Armstrong said the building recommendation and others will be submitted to the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council — TENRAC — on June 24.

A subcommittee chaired by Alan Erwin, former public utility commissioner, recommended encouraging utility companies to submit an analysis of conservation programs along with proposals for rate increases.

The subcommittee also recommended that if the Legislature feels utility rates are too high for "some ratepayers," it should consider setting up social welfare programs to resolve the issue and not depend on rate structures, such as life line rates.

"Utility rate structures should not be used to subsidize the energy costs of low- and fixed-income ratepayers," the subcommittee said.

Erwin suggested energy stamps might be atopic for the Legislature.

Susan Dirks, Austin, submitted a minority report to encourage the Public Utility Commission to develop "conservation programs aimed specifically toward the low income residential user."

She and Reeves clashed over her recommendations, including a proposal that utility regulatory agencies consider requiring electric utility companies to investigate spending money on conservation as a possible alternative to building new plants.

"I don't think one person's opinion should represent a mass unless it really does," objected Reeves.

"It is the opinion of many consumers in the state," responded Ms. Dirks, the consumer representative on the committee.

Her motion to submit the minority report to TENRAC was approved by the committee, with only four of the 14 committee members present voting "no."

The committee also recommended that the Legislature give all political subdivisions taxing power to operate transit authorities, regardless of population.

Other advisory committee recommendations included:

- Sales tax exemptions on materials used to improve energy efficiency.
- Temporary property tax exemptions as an incentive to make energy-efficient building improvements.

—State funds for cities to start energy planning and management programs.

—Additional state funds to tell drivers how to save gas in operating their vehicles.

—A law clarifying that an employer is not liable for any injury to an employee carpooling at the employer's request.

—Authorizing local governments to require ordinances that would promote the use of solar energy. Armstrong said Port Arthur already does this.

—State funds for low-income persons to make their homes more energy-efficient.

—A law that would allow any political subdivision or recognized transit authority to participate in the Public Transportation Fund.

The committee said

TENRAC should submit to the Legislature a report every two years on energy conservation.

Armstrong will present the committee's recommendations to TENRAC, which includes the governor, lieutenant governor and House speaker, as well as the land commissioner and representatives of other major state agencies.

Bank official charged with misapplication

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted a Kerrville bank official on charges that he created fictitious loans and took the money himself.

Bradford Clay Massey was charged with misapplying $35,000.35 from the First National Bank of Kerrville between Jan. 2, 1978 and Aug. 26, 1980.

Actual persons were named in the fictitious loans, but none was aware of the alleged scheme, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel Maeso.

The panel also issued a separate indictment charging three San Antonians with misapplying $11,771.18 in funds from a credit union.

Josafina Maria Torres, Fred Garay Mena and Olivia Valsquez Noriega were charged in connection with the misapplication of funds from the San Antonio City Employees Federal Credit Union between Aug. 15, 1979, and Feb. 22, 1980.

Damaging mail boxes violates federal law

Several incidents of damage to rural mail boxes have been reported to the Sheriff's Department and to the U.S. Postal Service the past week.

Postmaster Frank Hardesty warned pranksters or vandals who damage or destroy mailboxes and their contents may be in for a heavy fine or imprisonment, as mailboxes are protected by federal law.

The postmaster noted that some 25,000 mail receptacles were damaged or destroyed in the past year. He also noted that 2,641 persons were arrested up to May 1 for damaging or destroying mail receptacles.

Postmaster Hardesty quoted from the law: "Whoever willfully or maliciously injures, tears down or destroys any letter box or other receptacle intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail on any mail route, or breaks open the same or willfully or maliciously injures, defaces or destroys any mail deposited therein, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than three years."

This applies to all mail receptacles and the mail in them, even though the boxes are bought by citizens and are their personal property. Postmaster Hardesty emphasized.

"Pranksters — and especially children who do not know any better — should be made to realize the seriousness of their actions," Hardesty said. "A $1,000 fine or a term in jail is enough to take the humor out of any prank."

Mortgaged grader count names ex-Merkel man

Felony theft charges were filed in Abilene Tuesday against a man who allegedly sold a motor grader which was mortgaged to Coahoma State Bank.

Former Merkel businessman, Carl Peskor, was charged in the incident. The grader was allegedly mortgaged to Coahoma State Bank two days before it was sold to Harold Watts, Route 2, Merkel. Peskor is thought to be living in the Phoenix area now, and was charged by Justice of the Peace Roland Dunwoody, for the theft of $4,500.

Watts told investigators that he paid $4,500 for the grader Oct. 11, and found later it had been mortgaged to the Coahoma State Bank. The bank filed suit in 118th District Court, and it was ordered that the grader be turned over to the bank.

In the suit, the Coahoma State Bank alleges Peskor fled Texas to avoid paying his debts. The bank's suit, against Peskor, and his Peskor Corp., alleges a debt of $61,505.

The motor grader was among items of equipment mortgaged to the bank as security on a $107,734 loan, according to the suit.

Peskor's bond has been set at $5,000.

Heatly one of most visible, powerful men in Texas House

The Texas House of Representatives approved a plan to redraw legislative districts which puts Howard, Dawson, Borden and Lynn counties in the district currently being served by Rep. W.S. (Bill) Heatly, Democrat from Paducah, presently the dean of the House of Representatives.

This new district would be No. 150 and would include Cottle, Dickens, Foard, Garza, Kent, King, Knox, Stonewall and Wilbarber counties.

The final boundary lines of the district likely will be determined in a special session which will be called by Gov. Bill Clements.

At the present time, Howard County is represented in Austin by Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring, a freshman legislator who said that there might be a conspiracy among some veteran legislators to redraw the district lines in efforts to pit him against one of the most visible and most powerful men in the Texas House.

Rep. Heatly has been a member of the House of Representatives since 1955 and has served as a member of the Appropriations Committee since 1956. He served as Chairman of that Committee for 12 years, from 1959 to 1971. He has been a member of the Legislative Council and a member of the Legislative Budget Board for a record number of 22 years.

During the current Legislative Session, Heatly sponsored in the House, the Lateral Road Fund Bill which re-established this fund to the counties. This appropriation was vetoed by Gov. Clements in 1979. This appropriation was vetoed by Gov. Clements in 1979. As a result of this Bill, Borden County will receive $30,273 this year and approximately $10,091 each year thereafter.

Dawson County will receive $87,879 this year and approximately $29,293 each year thereafter. Howard County will receive $83,799 in 1981 and approximately $27,933 each year thereafter. Lynn County will receive $96,426 this year and approximately $32,142 each year thereafter.

Healy also co-sponsored with Rep. Bill Haley of Center, Tex., a bill that allows counties to keep additional money from vehicle license fees in the Road and Bridge Fund and will bring at least $3,457 additional money per year to Borden County, $184,772 more to Dawson County, $206,992 addition to Howard County and $90,457 more to Lynn County.

Heatly is also known as a staunch opponent of the Paveto Bill which revised the property tax codes, and throughout his career in the House, has opposed efforts to raise school taxes.

Heatly, married, has three married sons and nine grand-children. He graduated from Decatur Baptist College of Decatur, Tex., and received a B.A. Degree and a L.L.B. Degree from Baylor University in 1936. He has lived in Paducah since 1946 and has served in the following capacities there: City Attorney, Executive Board of N.W. Texas Area Boy Scouts, President of the Lions Club, Member of Pythias Lodge, 33rd Degree Scottish Rite Mason, Charter member of Chamber of Commerce and Board of Directors. He is an elder in the First Christian Church in Paducah.

He has served as a member of the board of directors of Baylor Stadium Corp., member of the Baylor Bear Club, member of board of directors of Baylor Bear Club, member Baylor Athletic Scholarship Club and is a lifetime member of Baylor Ex-Student Association.

He received an Honorary Doctor of Laws Degree conferred by Howard Payne College in May, 1968 and was voted "Outstanding Alumnus" of Dallas Baptist College in December, 1968.

He has received many plaques of recognition. Among others, they came from the State Bar, Texas Alcoholic Commission, Vocational Agricultural Teachers Association and the Easter Seal Society of Texas.

Bentsen says clean air standards too strict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The clean air standards of federal law are so strict that 11 Texas cities probably will never be able to comply with them, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Wednesday.

The act seeks "attainment of an unattainable standard," Bentsen said Wednesday afternoon during hearings on the Clean Air Act, which expires this year.

Testimony at Wednesday's hearing focused on Houston, which Bentsen said meets the oxidant standard 98 percent of the time.

"The law, however, requires that it be met over 99.9 percent of the time," Bentsen added.

"From 1978-80, 10 other cities in Texas failed to fully attain the oxidant standard — West Orange, Texas City, Clute, Beaumont, Dallas, El Paso, Arlington, Corpus Christi, Austin, Longview, San Antonio, Odessa and Waco."

Texas has developed state implementation plans showing that all cities outside the Houston area will meet the oxidant standard in 1982.

"But quite frankly, based on what I've observed, I must question whether any of these cities will be able to consistently meet the oxidant standard as it is currently stated — every hour but one for every year from now on," said Bentsen, the second-ranking Democrat on the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee.

The act's strategy is to reduce oxidants in the air by reducing hydrocarbon emissions into the air. It has failed to produce the oxidant reductions hoped for, Bentsen said, "yet the Clean Air Act compels the state of Texas to continue down this same path."

It must be understood, he said, that for some areas and for some pollutants, "attainment of the ambient air quality standards will be a goal and not a reality in the foreseeable future."

Bentsen said he favors continuing to achieve the lowest reasonably achievable levels of pollution in nonattainment areas, "but there must be a balance between what we desire and what we can do."

Dear Abby

Student Fires Up To Get Hired

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school senior and I'm looking for a job, but everywhere I apply I am told, "We need someone with experience."
 Abby, how can I get experience if nobody will hire me? I am willing to work hard. All I want is a chance to demonstrate my willingness to do more than is expected of me. Can you help me?
 DOUG IN COCOA, FLA.

DEAR DOUG: Every experienced worker was once inexperienced, but the applicant who shows the most persistence is the one who gets the job. Let it be known that you will take anything at any starting salary. Any job is better than no job.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently became friendly with a young couple I will call Jane and John. They frequently invite us to their apartment for supper. When we arrive, their stereo is turned up to a deafening pitch and the bass is turned so low that everything in the apartment vibrates. Also, their choice of music (disco) is the pits.
 Last evening while we were there, the occupants next door knocked on the wall to indicate that the noise was disturbing them. John turned up the volume just to irritate them further.

Several times during the evening, I had coughing spells because I had to shout in order to be heard over the stereo. I asked John to please turn down the sound a bit. He did, but after a while he turned it up again.
 When we left I had a splitting headache and a sore throat. Aside from this stereo problem, these people are very nice and I'd like to visit them again, but my husband refuses to go because the last time he left with a throbbing headache too. Is there a solution?
 Please answer in your column, as Jane and John read you in the Toronto Star.
 CANADIAN FANS

DEAR FANS: What's wrong with telling Jane and John the truth? You might also suggest that John have his hearing tested. He could be suffering from a hearing loss of which he's not aware. (P.S. I am wondering what kind of "nice" people turn up the volume when their neighbors complain about the noise.)

DEAR ABBY: Your explanation to CONCERNED IN SYRACUSE that her boyfriend's reluctance to shake hands is due to mysophobia (fear of contamination) may or may not be correct.
 Some people avoid a handshake because of arthritis or other infirmities. Tender knuckle joints can turn a smile of greeting into a grimace of pain with the clench of a hearty handshaker.

A couple of tricks to combat this problem are (1) put your right hand on the greeter's shoulder as a gesture of friendliness accompanied by a smile and warm word; (2) proffer your right hand as usual, but a split second before contact, pull the hand back slightly so that you end up gripping fingers instead of palms.
 Works for me!
 GEORGE IN LAKELAND

Exterior painting suggestions listed

COLLEGE STATION — Paint your house exterior yourself and save money — but know what you're doing, especially in using brushes and rollers correctly, advises Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Dr. Berry is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Painting successfully depends on proper preparation of the surface, organizing the work, using a brush or roller correctly and proper painting techniques, the specialist says. Here are her instructions on correct use of brushes and rollers:
 Dip half the length of the bristles into the paint. Tap the brush gently against the side of the can, but do not wipe it across the lip.

Hold the brush comfortably near the handle base, applying light pressure with your fingertips. Bristles should flex slightly toward the tip as you being the stroke, but do not bear down on the brush.

A roller speeds application of paint on flat surfaces such as masonry and floors. Cut an edge with a brush first, or, in other words, paint a border first.

Roll paint on over the edge strip. Roll as near the edge as possible, since the roller texture is different from the brush mark.
 Roll paint on in light, even strokes in different directions. If paint is rolled on too fast, it will spatter, so be careful.

Begin painting on upper areas, such as peaks, gables and eaves. If the house has siding, and if you're painting that, paint the under side edges first.

Once you get to the walls themselves, unload the brush in spots across the siding or vertical surface, and spread the paint with smooth, even strokes.

Paint a strip as wide as you can reach safely and comfortably from your ladder or plank. It's easier to move the ladder than mend a broken bone, so don't try to "over-reach."

Finish a complete side, or at least paint to a door or window, before stopping for the day. More importantly, don't start a new can of paint in the middle of a board or large wall area.

If the remaining paint in a can will not finish an area, mix some of the new paint with the partially filled can before starting the area. This helps blend the color.

Invitation extended to Altrusans

Eulene Jones, Knott, chief deputy in the County Clerk's office, gave the Altrusa Club an informative run-down on her duties and the functions of the County Clerk's office as they met May 28. The meeting was at noon in the Patio Room of the Holiday Inn.

Silent prayer was observed as the meeting opened for members who were ill or bereaved with special mention of Frances Hendricks upon the recent loss of her husband. The Altrusa Collect followed in unison with the pledge to the flag led by Deloris Albert.

Pat Highley, treasurer, gave the treasury report, stating that dues are now payable. A 10 percent delinquent fee will be assessed after July 10 on them.

Gertrude McCann reported on her incoming presidency and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Jones.

An invitation was read by Debbie Mitchem to the initiation of a new Altrusa club in Waco.

Summer beauty problems solved

The Heat is on. And it's time to face hot weather beauty problems like: melting makeup, bleeding lipstick, sunburned lips and a red, peeling nose. The solutions? Follow these beat-the-heat beauty tips from the current Family Circle magazine feature "Summer Beauty Secrets."

Keep all meltable stuff like lipstick and cream blusher in the fridge. Use a water-based foundation, water-proof eye makeup (it's less likely to smudge) and, for more staying power, apply a cream blush first, then a powder type. To help set makeup after you've applied it, pat an ice cube gently over your face.

Heat or perspiration sometimes causes lipstick to "bleed" into crevices around the mouth. To control, lightly blot lips with translucent powder. Then, outline with a sharp lip pencil in a shade to match your lip color; fill in with lipstick applied with a lipbrush, stroking the color on in an up-and-down motion. Blot with tissue.

Treat dry, sunburned and sore lips with cool water compresses and coat them with petroleum jelly to prevent cracking. (Already cracked? Apply lots of petroleum jelly at night and use a very creamy lipstick or tinted lipgloss during the day. Do not use a lip pencil — it only irritates.)

Keep that glowing nose moisturized. Avoid powders, water-based foundations, anything drying.

Austin residents grieve flood losses

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There are children in Austin who fear they failed their families because they were not "superheroes" who defied the recent flood by rushing in to save furniture and other belongings.

There are adults here who are responding to property loss by going into grief similar to that brought on by death in the family.

Sharon Danziger, a psychiatric social worker, is working with people having trouble coping with the massive cleanup needed after the Memorial Day flood that killed 12 and wrecked scores of homes and businesses.

"In general they are having the same kind of trouble as people who have to deal with a serious loss, like the loss of a loved one," she said.

Ms. Danziger works at Shoal Creek Hospital, named, ironically, for the nearby creek that swelled from its banks and left a trail of terror. The hospital is offering free counseling. It placed a notice on the Austin American-Statesman's special "lend a hand" page — a listing of flood-related help needed and help available.

"They talked about how frightening and how close to death they came," he said of the six people who came in for a Sunday session. It's particularly hard on children, she said.

"Children age 5 or 6 think the whole world revolves around them. They tend to think they should have been superheroes like in the comics. They're afraid they weren't real brave. The terror produces a lot of bad dreams," she said.

"They ask, 'Why is God punishing us?'" she said.

It's rained almost every day since the flood. Several of the showers have been threatening, sky-darkening storms that sparked flood warnings.

Ms. Danziger said the daily rain doesn't help people who are waiting for the furniture to dry or the carpet cleaner to show up.

Some of the victims are "overwhelmed" by the offers of help.

"They've had almost too much help. They're afraid they offend people by not making quick decisions about accepting things," she said.

The offers have been plentiful. The American-Statesman's daily list is a collection of things wanted and things available, property lost and property found, repairs needed and help available.

"We run all we get," said Dan Van Cleve, who was doing his turn answering the phones at the newspaper.

LEAVES HOSPITAL — Pope John Paul II waves to well-wishers as he leaves the Policlinico Gemelli hospital in Rome, Wednesday. The pontiff is recovering from bullet wounds he sustained during an assassination attempt during a weekly general audience 22 days ago. (AP LASERPHOTO)

Pope leaves hospital 'the same old rascal'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — "You thought you had changed me, but I'm still the same old rascal," Pope John Paul II told his doctors and nurses as he returned to the Vatican three weeks after the attempt on his life.

The 61-year-old pontiff looked pale and thinner, but he walked unassisted out of the Gemelli Polyclinic Hospital on Wednesday and blessed hundreds of patients waving to him from balconies.

Wearing white robes, a white skullcap and a gold cross, he climbed into a black convertible Mercedes limousine. A small group applauded as he arrived at the Vatican, and minutes later he came to the window of his apartment overlooking St. Peter's Square and raised his arms to greet a cheering, applauding crowd of about 300, many of them pilgrims from his native Poland.

The pope is scheduled to return to the hospital in about three weeks for a second operation to reverse the intestinal bypass performed after he was shot in the abdomen on May 13. In the interim, a member of the six-man medical team treating him will check him each morning in his apartment on the third floor of the apostolic palace.

The doctors said in a medical bulletin they discharged him from the hospital because his vital signs were normal and his strength was gradually returning.

His departure was announced less than an hour in advance by the Vatican. Earlier, the doctors refused to predict when he would be released. Rome newspapers reported last week that he might be sent home last weekend, but the doctors said he had been exerting himself too much and they were keeping him in the hospital to slow him down.

John Paul has canceled all major appearances for June, including a bishops' conference Sunday on ecumenism that he termed one of the most important Vatican gatherings in recent years.

Vatican officials said he may be able to resume official duties soon, perhaps starting with Sunday appearances at his apartment window to bless the crowd that gathers each week in St. Peter's Square.

Owners may try to remove hostage horses in Juarez

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A Dallas woman who owns four horses being held at the Juarez Race Track said owners of some of the animals being held hostage there had discussed trying to remove them today.

Another owner and the son of the former operator of the track, which is now closed, predicted there would be trouble if the owners made the attempt.

Pat Limage of Dallas said Wednesday that a loss of electricity and an endangered water supply at the track may lead the owners to take action.

About 150 horses and about 600 greyhounds have been held at the track for a month because of a strike by track employees.

The 325 employees of the track went on strike May 4 after the government announced it would award the track franchise to another operator. The strikers, fearing for their jobs, set up picket lines at the gates of the track.

Under Mexican law, no traffic can cross such a picket line so the owners of the animals have been unable to remove them. Most of the owners are United States citizens, which has led to frantic attempts to negotiate the release of the valuable animals.

Talks were under way late Wednesday in Mexico City, where Oscar Flores Jr. of El Paso apparently was attempting to intervene with the government. Flores, son of the former governor of the state of Chihuahua, has been reported to be in line to get the track franchise.

Demetrio Sotomayor Jr., son of the man who formerly held the track franchise, said his father also was in Mexico City on Wednesday night, attending the negotiations at the Mexican equivalent of the Interior Department.

Ms. Limage said the owners were "discussing the possibility of bringing out their animals on maize" to prevent the possible death of the horses and dogs that could occur because the electricity was cut off Wednesday.

She said she and other owners had filed for an injunction to get the animals with the Mexican government, but she said that would take at least 15 days and the animals may not last that long.

Sotomayor said, however, that it would be a bad idea for the owners to take action.

STEPPING OUT — Aerialist Jay Cochrane gets a bird's eye view of Cleveland Stadium as he walks a tight wire across the outfield prior to Wednesday night's Boston Red Sox — Cleveland Indians baseball game.

The 40-year-old from Ontario, Canada, studied the art under the late Karl Wallenda who himself crossed the Stadium several years ago.

1,500 march through Juarez to protest squatter dispute

CUADRUAR, Mexico (AP) — Led by a station wagon carrying the body of a martyred leftist, about 1,500 grim protesters marched through downtown Juarez on Wednesday to protest a dispute among residents at a squatters' village.

There was no violence, although Carlos Gonzalez, chief of the state judicial police in Juarez, had said earlier that police expected more trouble from the leftist Comite de Defensa Popular.

The march was staged by the committee, which is headquartered in the squatters' village, or colonia. Leading the parade was a van that blared accusations

Radio station raising funds for Vietnam veteran memorial

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 50,000-watt station has joined in an effort to raise $7 million to build a memorial to Americans who served in the Vietnam War.

WOAI radio announced it was planning a continuous 39-hour radiothon Friday and Saturday to raise money for the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund. Donations to the fund will be used to build a memorial at Washington, D.C., in honor of the 2.7 million Americans who served and 57,692 who died in the Southeast Asia conflict.

Officials of WOAI-AM radio said it was the second radio station to join in the effort to construct the memorial on a two-acre site, provided by the government across from Lincoln Memorial. Names of the war dead will be inscribed on a monument at the site, they said.

against Juarez Mayor Jose Reyes Estrada and the station wagon carrying the casket of Jose Fernandez Mejia, 39.

Fernandez was shot to death and 10 other people were injured Sunday when members of the committee attempted to evict some residents of the squatter's village, or colonia.

Two people were charged in the incident Wednesday, Gonzalez said. He said Jose Victor Zigarroa was charged with murder in the slaying of Fernandez and Humberto Soto Grajeda was charged with assault and battery for allegedly cutting five people with a knife. Gonzalez said another man may be charged if ballistics tests showed he also fired shots during the incident.

The suspects are residents of the colonia who were being evicted when the incident occurred, Gonzalez said. Fernandez was described as a "lieutenant" of Pedro Matus, the leader of the committee.

The committee runs the colonia, which has grown from a cluster of cardboard shacks a few years ago to a neighborhood with a school and medical facilities.

Committee members evicted about 45 people from the colonia earlier this week because those evicted had accepted titles to the land where they live from Reyes Estrada.

Matus and the committee members have blamed Reyes Estrada for the shooting, saying his actions led to the evictions and the conflict. As the protesters marched, demonstrators carrying buckets of paste made from flour plastered posters along the parade route which read: "We denounce Reyes Estrada as a murderer and demand his suspension and punishment."

EVICTED — Lorenza Patricia De Leon plays among her parents' belongings at a municipal gymnasium in Juarez. The belongings of the De Leon family and other families were moved to the gym after they were evicted from a squatters' village by a leftist committee that runs the village. A dispute between those evicted and committee leaders resulted in the death of one man and the injury of 10 others.

Mount St. Helens: Looking back, looking forward

By THOMAS HARNEY
Smithsonian News Service

On the lower slopes of the mountain, lupine and other wild flowers are bursting forth in places from the grey ash. The tracks of rabbits, deer and other wild animals smothered by the ash are still visible. A year after the catastrophic eruption of Mount St. Helens, plants and animals are regaining a small foothold on the devastated slopes.

Not so on the mountaintop, where the eruption blew out a crater, 2,100 feet deep, one mile wide by 1.9 miles long. Around the crater's volcanic dome, hot and hissing clouds of poisonous gas vent from fissures. It is still an inhospitable landscape to any plant or wild animal — let alone man.

Yet despite its dangers, the crater has visitors, by necessity — scientists such as Dr. William G. Melson, a Smithsonian volcanologist, whose work requires a first-hand look at the volcano's innards. His research, carried out for more than a decade, indicates that the volcano will continue to be unpredictably volatile for at least three more years.

Melson's investigations and those of many scientists from the U.S. Geological Survey and universities around the country are aimed at understanding and eventually predicting phases of eruptions of Mount St. Helens and other volcanoes in the Cascade mountains and elsewhere in the world.

Getting at this understanding means venturing into the volcano's inner crater. It is a risk — but one that Melson and others believe is worth taking, for the information cannot be gained in any other way.

Melson, along with Dr. Donald Swanson of the USGS, was last at Mount St. Helens this past January. After a short flight from Vancouver, their helicopter circled for a brief reconnaissance of the mountain, then landed in the huge amphitheater-shaped crater. Leaping from the craft, with collecting bags slung over their shoulders and measuring equipment in hand, Melson and Swanson began to hike cautiously towards the inner crater area.

Behind them, they could hear the comforting idle of the helicopter motor. Should the volcano show any signs of beginning a new eruption, the pilot would be ready to make a quick departure with his passengers.

For now, their destination was the volcanic dome — the "cap" over Mount St. Helens' subterranean vent of magma, the molten rock below the surface of the Earth. A steep-sided mound of solidified black volcanic rock known as dacite, the dome was then 100 feet high and 300 feet in diameter. Protuberances of lava, magma that had erupted, dotted the irregular breadcrust-like surface of the dome.

Fissures in the crater floor radiated outward from the dome, and the two men wore gas masks to protect themselves from the caustic fumes that swirled up from the fissures in a dense fog. Peering down into the fissures, some of them 3 feet wide, the scientists could see the glow of red-hot rock.

"It's very scary to walk up to the dome," Melson recalls, "because you know that you're right on top of the magma chamber. A tremendous volume of molten lava is only 10 or 15 feet below your feet."

Among other instruments they carried that day was a geodimeter, an electronic laser beam instrument that can detect minute changes or deformations in the floor around the dome. Swelling in the floor indicates that additional magma is probably being pumped up into the magma chamber, increasing the internal pressure and the likelihood of new eruptive activity. Flattening or deflating of the crater floor indicates the opposite — a shrinking or drainage of the magma chamber that means it is less likely to erupt.

On this occasion in January, the reading seemed to be ominous — a slow dome uplift was occurring. The dome on Mount St. Helens is seldom quiet for long. The dome that formed in June 1980 after the big May eruption was torn apart by explosions in July, and the dome that replaced it in August was blown out in October 1980. The current dome began growing in mid-October. New extrusions of lava in December, February and early April further increased the dome's size. As this article is written, the dome is still in place, yet at any minute, a pulse from deep in the Earth could shoot new magma to the surface, destroying the dome a third time.

When Melson and Swanson reached the dome, Melson began chipping away with a geologist's hammer, filling his bag with samples of rock for the Mount St. Helens reference collection he is building at the Smithsonian's Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C.

Melson started the collection 11 years ago with samples he gathered at Mount St. Helens with the assistance of Dr. Clifford Hopson of the University of California, Santa Barbara. Melson analyzed the chemical and physical properties of the material at the Smithsonian, and Hopson used the data to establish the occurrence and characteristics of the major eruptions that have taken place during the past several thousand years.

This historical material, combined with samples collected at Mount St. Helens in the past year, has made it possible for Melson to correlate the characteristics of magma from different eruptions with the nature of those events, thus shedding light on scientists' understanding of the various phases of the volcano's eruptions and the mechanism that lead to them.

For instance, Melson's analysis revealed that magma from the May 18 eruption and other violently explosive eruptions in the past contains a high concentration of dissolved water.

"Dissolved water in magma is like the gas confined in a bottle of ginger ale," Melson explains. "It creates pressure. Evidently, after a large period of repose — in this case, about 130 years passed before the mountain exploded in 1980 — the magma beneath the volcano becomes increasingly rich in dissolved water.

"Eventually, as more and more of this gaseous magma rises from deep within the Earth's interior, the pressure becomes so great that the volcano begins to deform. Finally, the magma chamber cracks open. The water and other gases are no longer confined under great pressure and they come out of solution — explosively."

Melson believes there won't be any more catastrophic explosions like the ones at Mount St. Helens last May 18 and July 18, at least not in the immediate future. "The volcano is venting gas and lava now and large pressures can't build up," he says. "Explosions can still occur, but they are likely to be of lesser magnitude."

How long will the explosions continue? By analyzing magma samples, Melson can make a tentative prediction. "Historically," he reports, "Mount St. Helens' magma at the beginning of an explosive phase has a high silica content. This is dacite magma. But with the passage of time, the silica content declines and so do the explosions."

For Hawk Queens program

Toran's ink caps fine recruiting

Howard College Hawk Queens Coach Don Stevens capped off an already excellent recruiting season by inking the highly touted Yancie Toran recently.

Toran is a 5'5" point guard that helped pace the Hardin team to the two berths in the state girls tournament, including the state championship the past season.

A two-time All-District selection, Toran was a regular on the All-Tournament squads during her career, capping her high school stay by being named to the AA Girls State Tournament team. She averaged 12.5 points per game over her four-year varsity career.

Despite those impressive credentials, Coach Stevens seemed even more soul stirred at his final inking for the upcoming season. "I watched her play in the state tournament and was very impressed. Put a star by her name, underline it and put it in the margin. Don't forget this one, stupid," said Stevens.

As well as her excellent basketball abilities, Toran also was a very popular person on the Hardin High campus, with her personality boasting excellent leadership qualities.

Stevens indicated that many roundball fans of the successful Hawk Queens, which have advanced to the

YANCIE TORAN

Region V finals the past two years, might not take Toran seriously from her press clippings and from a first glance. But that should change.

"Our fans will be back to watch Yancie play once they watch her on the floor. She has many ways to hurt an opponent and figures out the best way to go about it," Stevens said.

Although not promising Toran a starting position, Stevens seemed to relate that he expects her to be a regular next fall when the season begins. "Our floor game will be in good hands now that we have Yancie," the Hawk Queen mentor continued.

"She transfers her confidence to the rest of the team. She is a natural leader."

Kuhn's baseball doom concerned balance

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's comments on baseball's financial condition bear no relationship to management's ability to pay for hefty free-agent contracts, according to Ray Grebey, director of the owners' Player Relations Committee.

Grebey testified Wednesday at a federal court hearing in which the National Labor Relations

Board is seeking a preliminary injunction ordering the owners to rescind for one-year their controversial free-agent compensation proposal.

A key part of the NLRB case being heard by Judge Henry Workler is built around Kuhn's "gloom and doom" speech delivered at baseball's winter meetings in Dallas last December. The commissioner said at that time that teams would have to "discover oil wells under second base," in order to continue to operate. "There are those who argue that baseball's increased operating revenues are more than adequate to meet the rising costs of our business, particularly player compensation," Kuhn told the convention. "This simply is not so."

But Grebey told the court that Kuhn's remarks were strictly personal and did not reflect owner policy.

"He spoke not as an agent of the bargaining committee," Grebey said. "It doesn't express the policy of the Board of Directors of the Player Relations Committee."

And Kuhn testified that his Dallas remarks referred to baseball's competitive balance, not its financial condition.

The NLRB has charged medication right now and he has been consulting a doctor."

Cooney, who was sitting beside Kunkel when the latter made his comments, was asked if he had suffered such injuries.

Cooney nodded in affirmation and said, "I'd rather not discuss it now."

Cooney, who worked the Angels-Blue Jays game here Wednesday night, said he filed charges in hopes of protecting umpires and referees in the future.

"I feel that I may not realize any benefit from my actions," said Cooney, "but somewhere down the line, some official — whether it be in hockey or whether it be in basketball or football or baseball — is going to realize my efforts were not in vain."

Justice Donald Begley said Wednesday that Martin would be served with the summons the next time the A's play the Blue Jays here Sept. 21.

In Philadelphia, Richie Phillips, counsel to the Major League Umpires Association, said his group planned to seek an unspecified amount of civil damages against Martin in the United States.

Martin, who was in Chicago to manage the A's against the White Sox, said that he could not comment on the charges, on the advice of his attorney, Ed Sapir.

Martin, who sat out three days of a seven-day suspension imposed by American League President Lee MacPhail, was allowed to return to managing the A's Tuesday pending a hearing on an appeal he has filed. No date has been set for that hearing.

Assistant Crown Attorney Paul Culver said Cooney met in Toronto Wednesday with him and the police detective who investigated the run-in during the fourth inning of last Friday night's game at Exhibition Stadium.

Board is seeking a preliminary injunction ordering the owners to rescind for one-year their controversial free-agent compensation proposal.

In French Open

American men falling

PARIS (AP) — John McEnroe was it. Down two sets in a quarterfinal match Wednesday night before it was halted by rain and darkness, McEnroe remained the last slim hope for the first American men's victory at the French Open tennis championships in 26 years.

Jimmy Connors, the No. 2 seed behind Bjorn Borg, lost his chance for a spot in the semifinals Wednesday to Jose Luis Clerc, a 22-year-old Argentinian. They battled for four hours and 26 minutes before No. 7 seed Clerc put it away 4-6, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-0.

A controversial call against Connors on a critical point pushed 16,000 fans into a screaming frenzy that lasted several minutes.

Third-seeded McEnroe was trailing Ivan Lendl, the No. 5 seed from Czechoslovakia, who took the first two sets, 6-4, 6-4. McEnroe, a 21-year-old New Yorker, was leading 3-2 in the third set and 30-love in the sixth game before the rain started.

In another major upset Wednesday, the No. 2 women's seed, Martina Navratilova of the United States, fell to No. 6 seed Sylvia Hanika, 21, from West Germany. Hanika completed her 6-2, 6-4 victory after the match had been halted Tuesday night by rain with Hanika leading 4-1 in the first set.

The tournament continued today with two women's semifinals. American Chris Evert Lloyd, favored to win her fifth French Open title, met Hana Mandlikova, the fourth-seeded Czechoslovakian.

In the other women's semifinal, Hanika faces No. 3 seed American Andrea Jaeger, who was playing on her 16th birthday.

Borg, who has not lost a set on his path towards a record sixth French Open title, comes up against 6-foot-4 Victor Pecci of Paraguay on Saturday, Borg's 25th birthday.

Say Georgia sprinter as NCAA begins

100-meter record in jeopardy

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — This could be the week — maybe even the day — an American collegiate sprinter breaks the 10-second barrier in the 100-meter dash, said Mel Lattany of Georgia.

Lattany said he and Houston's Carl Lewis had a good chance to break the barrier today in preliminary heats at the NCAA Track and Field Championship.

Lewis ran a 10.0100 meters earlier this season to establish the American collegiate record. Only two people have ever run faster. Jimmy Hines of the United States set the world record with a 9.95 in the 1968 Olympics. Sylvio Leonard of Cuba ran a 9.98 in 1977.

"The way Carl's been running and the way I've been running we could push 9.9," Lattany said after a light workout Wednesday evening.

"Right now I think this is the year someone will run a 9.9," Lattany's best time in the 100 meters this season was 10.04, which equalled the previous collegiate record set by Lennox Miller of Southern Cal in 1968.

Both Lattany and Lewis are scheduled for a busy meet.

Lattany is entered in the 100 meters, 200 meters and 400-meter relay. Lewis is entered in the 100 and the long jump.

Lewis has the second longest jump in history. He soared 28-3/4, assisted by a wind, earlier this year.

Lattany said he respects Lewis and enjoys his company off the track, but he also said he is not awed.

"He ran a 10 flat and I ran a 10.04. Anybody can be beaten on any given day," he said.

"We may be rivals on the track but off the track we're very close."

"Nobody remembers the guy who came in second," Lattany said. That has been one of the sprinter's problems throughout his career. Even freshman teammate Herschel Walker draws bigger crowds of reporters and autograph seekers than Lattany does. Walker's fame as a running back carried over into the track season.

"That really doesn't bother me," Lattany said. "People are going to make their stars out of whoever they want to."

Walker appeared a bit embarrassed about the attention he received. He will compete in the 100 and the 400-meter relay.

Walker said he is getting out of the blocks much better at this point in the season and expects to have a good NCAA meet.

UT-Miami meet in eliminator

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Oklahoma State is on a roll. In two College World Series baseball games, the No. 3 Cowboys have belted 32 hits and scored 20 runs.

"For the past seven or eight games we've been on a roll," said John Cardinali, OSU third baseman who drove in the eventual winning runs in a 12-6 whipping of second-ranked Miami, Fla., in the Wednesday night winner's bracket semifinal.

The loss sends 61-9 Miami against No. 4 ranked Texas in Thursday night's elimination game to feature the nation's two first team All-American pitchers. The Hurricanes will go with 16-0 lefty Neal Heaton against 17-1 right-hander Tony Arnold for the 59-10-1 Longhorns. That game will follow the 45-14 South Carolina matchup with 46-16 Mississippi State.

Oklahoma State's win puts the Cowboys against No. 1 Arizona State with its 52-12 mark in the Friday winner's bracket final.

Gambling ace says bet on humans

If you happen to be one of the some 20 million people who bet more than $100 billion annually on a sports event, you'd be better off putting your money on a human animal rather than a horse, says Robert Kalich.

Who is Robert Kalich? What gives him the right to sound off? Who is he to upstage Jimmy the Greek and the Las Vegas oddsmakers? That's something you will have to decide for yourself.

Professionally, Kalich is a former sports freak who spurned a musical career, attended New York University, got his BS in journalism from Columbia, worked as a horserace handicapper, turned to the literary world and wrote a book.

His product, "The Handicapper," a book of the Month Club alternate selection, is a novel based on eight years of researching one of the nation's lushest industries through contacts with athletes, bookies, gamblers and even organized crime.

"In all humility, I believe my knowledge of the subject is as great or greater than any professional gambler in the country," says Kalich immodestly.

Although he worked for a time as handicapper for the now defunct New York Daily Mirror, Kalich advises serious bettors to concentrate on team events — big league baseball, pro football, pro and college basketball — rather than the nags.

"You can get a greater personal thrill from betting the races where the immediate return is larger — 5-1, 20-1, sometimes, if you're lucky, with a longshot 50-1 and even 70-1," he said. "But to proliferate profit and eliminate loss, the more solid investment lies in the one-on-one character of sports contests, college and pro."

Such counsel certainly wouldn't set well with Belmont Park and New York's legalized Off-Track Betting (OTB) parlors, where some $10 million is expected to be wagered Saturday on the Belmont Stakes program alone. Such talk is an anathema to Pete Rozelle (NFL), Bowie Kuhn (baseball) and Walter Byers (NCAA), guardians of the sanctity of major pro and college sports.

Kalich puts gamblers into three basic categories — the professional who makes a living at it, the compulsive addict who is a chronic loser and those who bet modestly for kicks.

Kalich is a strong supporter of legalized gambling.

Royals Grote proves retire, divorce, return theory

By the Associated Press
 Jerry Grote, who was playing softball in a bank league a year ago, made his reputation as a defensive stalwart as starting catcher for the pennant-winning New York Mets in 1969 and 1973.
 On Wednesday night, he made his mark on the Kansas City record book as an offensive star with seven runs batted in, including a grand slam homer, as the Royals outlasted the Seattle Mariners 12-9.
 "The older the violin, the sweeter the music," said his

AL Roundup
 38-year-old Grote, who is back in the majors this year after a two-year retirement. "It just happened to be there tonight."
 Ironically, a personal disappointment that dates back to exactly a year ago was in part responsible for getting Grote out of retirement. The Royals, in need of catching help after losing Darrell Porter to free agency, were able to sign Grote only after he lost his wife to divorce.

 In other American League games, California bombed Toronto 17-6, Cleveland topped Boston 4-1, New York blanked Baltimore 2-0 in 11 innings, Oakland swamped Chicago 8-3, Texas beat Minnesota 6-3 and Detroit defeated Milwaukee 4-1.
 Grote's seven RBI helped offset four homers by the Mariners, including two by Tom Paciorek and one each by Gary Gray and Bruce Bochte.
 Angels 17, Blue Jays 6
 Rick Burleson, Dan Ford and Brian Downing were the big guns in California's 19-hit attack against Toronto.
 Burleson was 5-for-5 with three RBI, Ford knocked in four runs and Downing blasted a three-run homer, while Rod Carew and Butch Hobson pitched in with three hits apiece. Geoff Zahn, although he allowed 12 hits and six runs, including two homers by Otto Velez and one by George Bell, snapped a personal three-game losing streak.

Yankees 2, Orioles 0
 Graig Nettles gave New York its second straight extra-inning victory over Baltimore, both coming on two-run homers in the 11th inning.
 Dave Righetti and Ron Davis shut out the Orioles — who got their leadoff man on base seven times — on nine hits, with Davis allowing one in the final three innings for his second victory in four decisions. The lanky right-hander now has 57 strikeouts, most in the league, in 402-3 innings.
A's 8, White Sox 3
 Wayne Gross slammed a three-run homer and Brian Kingman scattered seven hits to give first-place Oakland its second straight victory over Chicago, which fell to third in the West.

Rickey Henderson singled and Dwayne Murphy walked to start the game, and Cross hit his fifth homer to give the A's a 3-0 lead before Francisco Barrios had retired a batter.

 Chet Lemon and Harold Baines hit homers for the White Sox.
Rangers 6, Twins 3
 Bump Wills knocked in three runs with a triple and a single, Buddy Bell homered and Rick Honeycutt won his fifth game in six decisions to lead Texas over Minnesota.

 It was Honeycutt's second victory of the season over the Twins and improved his lifetime record against them to 8-2.

Games cancelled
 The Big Spring Industrial League Slow-Pitch games at Johnny Stone Park slated for tonight have been cancelled. They will be replayed sometime next week.

Box Score

AMERICAN LEAGUE (MINOR) — The Optimist Club Sports scored at will in taking a 26-13 win over the Elks Club Elks on Tuesday.

The winning pitcher was Eric Torres, with Danny Ditto the loser.
 Willie Woodard's five hits and Charley Newton's three singles paced the way in the Sports 16 hit attack. Of Woodard's hits, one was a double and one a triple.
 Chris Sims had four hits in leading the Elks, who dropped to 0-8-1 in the loss.
 The Sports rose to 4-5 with the win.

Reds Pastore likes Candlestick

By the Associated Press
 The Cincinnati Reds have been complaining of late about the brutal winds at San Francisco's Candlestick Park. But when Frank Pastore pitches, the wind always seems to blow Cincinnati's way.
 "I sure do well here," said the Cincinnati pitcher after Wednesday night's 6-2 victory over the Giants. "Can anyone tell me why? I just don't know. All I know is I've got a 4-0 record with four complete games in this park."
 In three previous games, Cincinnati pitchers had been pounded for 36 runs, including a 15-7 loss to the Giants in windy Candlestick Tuesday night. But for a change, the Reds did the pounding — and got some pitching as well.
 Leading the Cincinnati offense, as he has been most of the season, was Dave Concepcion, who had three hits and drove in two runs to boost his RBI total to 40 for the season.

Braves 4, Dodgers 2
 Brian Asseltine homered, doubled and singled to back the four-hit pitching of Phil Niekro and Rick Camp as Atlanta defeated Los Angeles. Asseltine hit his first homer of the season, a two-run shot, in the first inning when the Braves knocked out loser Burt Hooton, 7-2.
Cardinals 3, Expos 2
 Orlando Sanchez tripled to open the 11th inning and scored one out later on Tommy Herr's single, leading St. Louis over Montreal.
 Sanchez's wallop and Herr's game-winning hit came off Elias Sosa, 1-1, the fourth Montreal pitcher.

Mets 6, Phillies 2
 Rookie right-hander Greg Harris allowed just two hits over seven innings and New York took advantage of some loose Philadelphia fielding to beat the Phillies.
Astros 6, Padres 1
 Terry Puhl snapped a seventh-inning tie with a run-scoring double and Cesar Cedeno had three hits and scored three runs to lead Houston over San Diego.
 Loser Rick Wise, 2-5, left with two out in the seventh after Alan Ashby singled and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by pitcher Don Sutton. Puhl greeted reliever Danny Boone with a double to break a 1-1 tie.
 Sutton, 4-6, allowed seven hits.

'Hope's Birthday' top show

NEW YORK (AP) — "Bob Hope's Birthday Party" was NBC won the week's ratings race, but CBS listed seven of the 10 highest-rated programs to win the networks' competition, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.
CBS' average rating was 15.1, compared to 14.3 for ABC and 13.8 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 15.1 percent of the TV-equipped homes in the country were watching CBS.
CBS, No. 1 in the recently completed 1980-81 TV season, now has won the three-way race two weeks running.
The rating for "Bob Hope's Birthday Party" was 21.3. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the nation with television, 21.3 percent saw at least part of the program.
The first-place finish for Hope's special was no real surprise; the comedian regularly scores ratings points for the network. NBC may have been cheered more by the No. 19 finish in the week ending May 31 for "Hill Street Blues."
The series was introduced last season to critical acclaim but low ratings. NBC has renewed the series for next season, and is making a determined effort to build an audience.
Most programs broadcast during week were repeats. The few original movies and specials broadcast in the period week were only moderately successful. "Don't Look Back," a made-for-TV film on ABC on the life of baseball legend Leroy "Satchel" Paige, tied for 24th place, with the "National Cheerleading Championship" on CBS No. 31.

Budget cuts may discontinue most service

Giant Amtrak repair shop facing extinction

BEECH GROVE, Ind. (AP) — Amtrak's Beech Grove repair facility is a giant fix-it shop facing possible extinction. Sprawled over 65 acres just south of Indianapolis, it is the largest in the Amtrak system and the only one where old and decrepit passenger cars are reconditioned to meet the needs of the 1980s. "Anything in a railroad car you can't buy," boasts general manager Walter Barrick, "we make right here."

Here, also, damaged railcars are repaired, faulty wheels are righted, multi-ton locomotives are overhauled. There is a woodshop that turns out everything from window frames for dining cars to new tables for the plant's lunchrooms. The storehouse, which could easily hide a couple of jumbo jets, holds everything from refrigerators to rock salt. In the upholstery shop, workers in hard hats man sewing machines, repairing seats. But the shops may be forced to close if President Reagan's budget-cutters get their way, and 1,300 employees would be out of work. The White House wants to cut Amtrak's current budget of $920 million to $613 million for the next fiscal year. Amtrak has asked for $853 million.

The $613 million budget, Amtrak President Alan S. Boyd says, would allow the system to maintain service only in eight northeastern states. Recent congressional budget compromises allotted $700 million to Amtrak, but the final decision of what stays and what goes has not been made.

If the bulk of Amtrak service goes, the Beech Grove facility and its $2 million annual payroll would go too. It costs $62 million a year to operate. Eldon Geshwiler, mayor of this city of 13,000, says, "It would have a tremendous impact on the operation of our city. I would say that perhaps as much as 12 to 15 percent of assessed valuation, as far as our operating budget, is based on Amtrak in Beech Grove."

"You can't get away from the fact that Amtrak is the No. 1 taxpayer in the city."

The Beech Grove operation consists of nine enormous buildings, construction victims remain critical

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Four Navy men severely burned in the USS Nimitz crash are reported "stable and responding to treatment" at Brooke Army Medical Center.

All four are still listed in critical condition, Brooke spokesman Jerry Du Bois said Wednesday.

Airman Recruit Richard Simpson, 22, Gray, Mo.; Petty Officer Second Class Richard M. Hokanson, 21, Hauppauge, N.Y.; Airman Apprentice George W. Butz, 23, Hockens, Del., and Seaman Apprentice Stephen Bass, 21, Calhoun, Ga., were airlifted here on May 28 from Jacksonville, Fla.

taining 16 different shops. Purchased from the old Penn Central system in 1975 for $3.8 million, Amtrak has sunk an additional $20 million into expansion and refurbishing the buildings, many of which were built before 1910. Here each month, 24 to 26 steam-era railcars are gutted, re-equipped with electrical heating and air conditioning, and completely refurbished.

It costs between $250,000 and $400,000 each, but Amtrak officials say that is still a lot cheaper — and faster — than buying new cars from the one remaining manufacturer in the country. It costs $190,000 to overhaul one locomotive. At Beech Grove they average two a month. Old passenger cars, sleeping cars and diners, some 25 years old, are fumigated, then stripped carefully so everything that is needed can be put back. Even the window shades are numbered and stored for later use. The cars are then re-insulated and rewired. New water tanks and air conditioning and heating units are installed. "We can do it for about one-third of the cost of a new car," says Barrick. He added that Amtrak's increased ridership in recent years has created a demand for more cars that manufacturers can't meet. "Passenger complaints dropped 40 percent last year," says Christopher Knapton, an Amtrak spokesman in Chicago. "The complaints we are getting now are about not having enough seats." "We rolled everything we had over the five-day Easter holiday weekend and still had 2,000 standees just out of Chicago. There were 9,000 standees in the northeast corridor." "No two cars are exactly alike," Barrick said. "Many pieces are custom made. No dealer exists to supply many of the parts we need." So new locks and gears and pipes are made in the machine shop. New interiors are created in the fabrication, tin, wood, trim and paint shops. New undercarriages are made in the truck shop.

When the job is complete Amtrak has a shining "new" car with a stainless steel exterior and a life expectancy of 10 to 12 years, although Barrick says it's more like 15-20 years. "We're in the process of expanding Beech Grove to handle diesel heavy maintenance," says Knapton. "We've completely changed the engine diesel maintenance overhaul facility. When it opens we expect to provide 75 to 100 more jobs." But then there's the matter of the budget. "Alan Boyd president of Amtrak has stated he could see no reason for keeping the Beech Grove shops open if most of Amtrak's service is discontinued," Knapton says. "Most of the trains in the northeast corridor are electrical. The shop at Wilmington, Del., handles those trains. There would be no need for Beech Grove."

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, JUNE 4, 1981

One of them will be reopened

Two school properties sold

The Big Spring school board has announced the sale of the old Park Hill and Cedar Crest school properties.

The trustees had asked for bids on the two properties and received only one offer on each piece of land and buildings thereon.

The Park Hill school, along with 10 acres of land, was sold for $226,000 to St. Mary's Episcopal Church of Big Spring. Plans for an expanded educational program had already been announced by the church. The Park Hill property contains eight classrooms, a library and office space. It was built in the 1950s.

The Cedar Crest property, embracing a block and fronting on West Eighth Street immediately west of Aylford St., was obtained by Jimmy Ray Smith on an offer of $7,000. Smith said he had no immediate plans for the property.

Both schools were abandoned here in 1977 when Big Spring school attendance began to slump.

The Park Hill property inspired a much higher offer because of its more desirable location, according to Superintendent of Schools Lynn Hise.

The 17,000 square-foot building, located at 1020 Cedar Road, is slated to undergo major renovations and refurbishing prior to the school's move to the facility later this summer. According to Church officials, the building was purchased to allow the local private school to accommodate more students through more grades.

Under the proposed plans, St. Mary's school will move to the former Park Hill school during the next few weeks, with plans to open an office at the facility July 1. Under the current proposal, grades ranging from pre-kindergarten through the fifth grade will open at the larger facility in the fall of 1981. Additional grades are slated to be added at the pace of one grade per year until the private school reaches its objective of providing classes through the eighth grade.

The Rev. Mr. David Bristow of St. Mary's said classes would be limited to a maximum of 20 students per grade, with an aide being assigned to each teacher with a class of 12 or more pupils. Talking about the program of education at the school, The Rev. Mr. Bristow said the teachers at St. Mary's were trained in an "open court" program of curriculum, with many set to attend seminars in the high level phonic system during the summer.

"When used right," Father Bristow explained, "the open court system teaches children to read fast and well, with a high degree of comprehension. This type of curriculum is designed specifically for this type of school," he said.

As for the enrollment at the local private school, Bristow said some of the classes were nearing their maximum capacity of 20 students and that interested persons should contact the school in the near future if they wished their children to attend the school in the fall. Once the classes are filled, he said additional ones would not be considered until the requests reached a point where additional classes were feasible for the modern educational facility. Persons interested in enrolling their students in the school are being asked to call 267-8201 for additional information.

In other action at its meeting Thursday evening, the school board voted not to change the seating arrangement at Memorial Stadium, agreed to a plan to let music students of Immaculate Heart of Mary School attend music classes at Goliad Middle School and approved the purchase of vocational equipment for the schools, which will be 95 percent funded by the state. In addition, the board approved an application for Title I and Gifted and Talented Students money from the state.

Legislative session 'different'

Strange is normal in Austin

By JIM DAVIS
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — This has been a strange session of the Texas Legislature.

Anyone who has watched the Legislature close up — this is my fourth — knows that strange is normal in the final days of a session. This session's strange is different. Redistricting probably is the culprit.

About this time, the House of Representatives, consisting of 150 mostly gregarious, high-ego sorts, should resemble a cross between a Wall Street crash and a Houston Oilers victory party.

Daily calendars are long and usually boring in the final days. It's not easy to sit there and listen to hours of debate of regulating persons who fit eye glasses. At some point the interest must wane and the legislators gather in small groups to swap stories on other things or to lobby each other or pet bills.

There's still a fair amount of that sort of thing going on, but, it seems not as much. During the period before adoption of the House redistricting plan, the atmosphere in the chamber has strangely subdued.

Much wrangling and arguing was going on, but most of it in groups behind closed doors. Even those gatherings on the House floor involved quiet discussions rather than the usual guffaws.

Redistricting is a serious business for the legislature. The boundary lines drawn this year will determine the political patterns of the 1980s. Every legislator who plans to seek re-election or to run for the Texas Senate or for Congress knows his or her fate could be at stake.

"When redistricting begins, every thing else stops," is how one legislator put it this year.

That's a slight exaggeration, but only slight.

One thing is normal in the State Capitol these days.

Lobbyists know that the session is running out and will die at midnight Monday. Some have pet legislation they desperately want to see passed. Others are worried that bills they oppose will slip by in the end-of-the-sessions flood of action.

The gathering spots for lobbyists are the hallways — or lobbies — just outside the House and Senate chambers. They send in notes asking particular legislators to step outside for a word, or they just buttonhole any lawmaker passing by.

The action got so heavy last Thursday that Rep. Ron Wilson, a Democrat from Houston approached the House's back microphone with a strange request.

There were so many lobbyists in the hallway outside the House that members were having trouble leaving to go to the restroom, he said.

Always anxious to please legislators, lobbyists in the hallway spread out a bit after Wilson's comment. But they stayed on the job.

Police Beat Thugs loot apartment

Burglars cleaned out Armella Shappie's apartment at 506-A South Nolan, sometime over the weekend.

After breaking into the apartment, the intruders lifted a black-and-white television set, five blankets, a bedspread, a jewelry box, a gold-and-diamond wedding band set, an emerald ring, two opal rings, a ruby ring, two necklaces, two sets of earrings and $40 in cash.

Total loss has not been estimated.

While Sue Villalpando, 2202 Nolan, was working at the Town and Country Store, 3104 Parkway, Tuesday night, someone broke into her car and stole a checkbook from the glove compartment. Fortunately, the checking account had been closed.

The owner of Kothman Construction Company, P.O. Box 1362, believes he knows who forged a company check for $450 on May 25. Police will investigate.

A man walked into the Seven-Eleven Store at 2301 Wasson, 11:20 p.m. Tuesday, and stole two six-packs of beer. He was last seen running east on Wasson.

Four mishaps were reported Tuesday.

Vehicles driven by Paul Chappell, 1809 Owens, and Ludis Roberts, 1406 Wood, collided on the 1000 block of S. Scurry, 2:41 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Mary Rallsback, Knott, and David Chavarria, 1111 W. 2nd, collided on the 500 block of W. 11th, 4:41 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Ruth Robinson, Route 3, and Haskel Hudgins, 1008 Howell, collided on the 100 block of East Second, 5:26 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Audry Wilson, 2109 Grace, and Danny Love, Durant, Okla., collided in front of the Wilson residence, 10:46 p.m.

JUANITA JONES
Juanita Jones retires from Hall-Bennett

When the doors of the clinic at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital were secured at the close of day Friday, the final chapter in a book of memories and rich experiences were recorded. For Mrs. Relerce (Juanita) Jones, the turn of the locks had a special meaning. She has retired after more than 29 years of service to the hospital, its staff and its patients. To patients, it will mean the absence of her friendly smile and helpful service and her consideration for those in distress. To the hospital and clinic staff, says hospital administrator Charles A. Weeg, it is a tremendous loss. Weeg remarked, upon learning of Mrs. Jones' retirement:

"You just can't replace 29 years of experience and dedicated service overnight. All of us will miss Juanita so much."

Members of the hospital and clinic staff feted Mrs. Jones with a retirement party in the dining room of the hospital May 22. Mrs. Jones was presented with a money tree and numerous other gifts.

Weeg presented her with a plaque in recognition of her long tenure and in doing so, mentioned that he was presenting it on behalf of the board of directors and all of her co-workers.

Weeg wished her much happiness and expressed the hope that her retirement years would be the golden era of her life. Juanita's husband, Relerce, and Lydia Minchew, sister of Mrs. Jones, were special guests at the party.

Mrs. Jones is being succeeded as clinic registrar by Norma Cherry.

Coahoma 4-H club members elect officers

The Coahoma 4-H club meeting was held Monday at Coahoma Junior High School. Officers for the coming year were elected. President for 1981-82 is Robin Ethridge. Vice-president is Reagan Brooks. Other officers are Paula Allen, secretary, Stephanie Dobbs, treasurer, Traci Dorsey, reporter, and Terrie Duffer and Nora Dawn Phillips, song leaders. Wade Carper and Shanna Fowler are junior program chairpersons. Adult leaders are O. T. and Dottie Carper. Stephanie Dobbs was elected to represent the club as candidate for junior rodeo queen.

HIGHEST HONOR — Donna Gwynn Bernhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Daughtery, 603 Washington Blvd., graduated Friday from the Mary Meek School of Nursing in Abilene. In a ceremony held at the Pioneer Avenue Baptist Church, Mrs. Bernhart was also awarded the Behrens Nursing Award, presented each year to the graduate who has maintained the highest scholastic grades over the four year course. Mrs. Bernhart's final grade point average was 3.86. Mrs. Bernhart, who is married to TSgt. Joe Bernhart, will be employed by the Abilene Mental Health-Mental Retardation agency as a mental health nurse.

Save as much as $250 on Culligan appliances

The first thing a newcomer often mentions upon his arrival in Big Spring is the unusual taste of the local water. Even people who have lived here for some years admit that it takes some getting used to. Culligan man Richard Wright has announced that customers can save up to $250 on both a Culligan water conditioner and drinking water system during a sale that will last through the month of June. Not only will the Culligan water conditioner provide a good alternative to Big Spring water, but it will also save you money by increasing the efficiency of home water heaters. A recent study by the New Mexico State University showed that gas water heaters operated exclusively on hard water consumed 29 percent more energy than heaters operated on soft water. This is caused by hard water minerals contributing to scale build-up on the inside of the water heater. The scale deposits interfere with the heater's operation, causing it to work harder and use more energy. The addition of a home water softener would eliminate the hardness materials, removing the threat of scale build-up. Another big savings being offered by Culligan this month comes with Aqua-

Clear Drinking Water Units. This will enable you to have clean, fresh, crystal clear drinking water right at your fingertips. What Culligan is offering is a 10 percent savings if you buy the Aqua-Clear, 10 percent savings if you buy the Water Conditioner, and a 20 percent savings if you buy both. That can be as much as a $250 savings. Add that to the savings you can make just from the convenience and efficiency of having these in your home, and you'll see this is a deal that you shouldn't pass up. This special offer is limited, so call today. Call 263-8781. The local Culligan office is located at 503 6th St.

Small-fry can help with fun-to-make snacks

Kids of all ages enjoy summertime sweets

Remember hearing as a child the sound of the bells on the ice cream truck, and then chasing it down the street? Nowadays, ice cream trucks are harder to find, but active children still clamor for cooling summer treats to quench thirsts and satisfy appetites during hot summer days.

This summer, let children make their own summer coolers. They're more nutritious, economical and fun to make, too.

Fresh fruits with bright natural flavors and colors are the start of Frozen Fruit Shakes, icy cold blender treats that you can pop out of the freezer any time. Yogurt, milk and non-fat powdered milk are whirred with combinations of fresh fruits and sweetened with sugar for an energy-rich drink, high in protein and natural vitamins. Freeze shakes in the same containers as you serve them.

Popsicles are children's all-time favorite summer snack. Youngsters can make their own high-protein varieties with fruit juices, yogurt, sugar and non-fat powdered milk. Just mix together and pour into molds of paper cups with plastic spoons, or the plastic popsicle molds available in dime stores.

Even small children can have fun baking wholesome Crispy Cookie Cups and inventing recipes for cooling, tasty fillings. Cookie Cups are easy to make: a simple dough of flour, wheatgerm, butter and brown sugar can be mixed with hands and molded into muffin tins for baking. When done to a golden brown, they turn out of the molds and are ready to be filled with a variety of nutritious summer treats: fresh fruits, yogurt or sherbert. A great summer snack; like an ice cream sandwich with trimmings.

Next time children come in hungry from the sandbox or baseball field, let them make their own summer treats. Homemade summer coolers are twice the fun, and have the energy and nutrition children need to keep them going during active summer days.

FROZEN FRUIT SHAKES

1 medium banana, sliced
1 cup strawberries, hulls removed
1 cup plain yogurt
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk (optional)
1/2 cup milk

Combine fruit, yogurt, sugar, dry milk and milk in electric blender. Whir until smooth. Turn into small paper cups. Cover and freeze until firm. Partially thaw (about 30 minutes) before serving.

Cantaloupe shakes: Omit banana and strawberries. Substitute 2 cups pared, cubed cantaloupe.

Pineapple-orange shakes: Omit banana and strawberries. Substitute 1 small pared, cut-up orange and 1 cup fresh or canned pineapple chunks.
Makes four 8-oz. or five 6-oz. servings.

YOGURT FRUIT POPS

1 1/2 cups pineapple or orange juice or apricot nectar (12-oz. can)
1 cup plain yogurt
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk (optional)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine all ingredients in electric blender. Whir until blended. Pour into ten 2-oz. plastic popsicle molds. Freeze until firm. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.
If preferred, use four 5-oz. paper cups. Freeze until partially firm. Insert a plastic spoon into each and freeze until firm.
Makes ten 2-oz. popsicles or four 5-oz. cups.

CRISPY COOKIE CUPS

3/4 cup all-purpose flour
1-3rd cup regular toasted wheat germ
1/4 cup brown sugar, packed
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
1 egg yolk

Combine flour, wheat germ, brown sugar, butter and egg yolk in bowl. Mix with fork or fingers to get a soft dough. Divide dough into 8 equal-size pieces.

Press each piece into greased 2-inch wide muffin cup to cover bottom and sides in an even layer. Extend upper edge about 1/4-inch above pan.
Bake in a 350 degrees oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned.

Cool 15 minutes. Remove from muffin cups, using knife point if needed to gently loosen. Fill with yogurt and fresh fruit or sherbet.
Makes 8 cups.

IF THERE'S AN IGLOO

When you're hungry for something tasty and nutritious, open your freezer. The makings for a Fudgy Igloo dessert are probably there right now. To begin, find that carton of vanilla ice cream in the corner. Cut the ice cream into slices and roll them in shredded or flaked coconut.

Return the coconut covered ice cream slices to the freezer — but don't close the freezer door yet! The frozen jumbo waffles you always have on hand for a quick vitamin fortified breakfast form the base of your Fudgy Igloos. But how fortified are those waffles? They are fortified with thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, B6, B12, iron and calcium.

Next, heat up the fudge topping. You can imagine how great it will taste spooned on a slice of coconut covered ice cream on a crispy jumbo waffle bed. What a delicious dessert to follow a nutritious roast beef, mashed potatoes and green bean dinner. When you taste a Fudgy Igloo, you'll know it's good. But even more important, you'll know why.

FUDGY IGLOOS

One half 10-ounce package frozen jumbo original or buttermilk waffles
1 pint ice cream
1/2 cup shredded or flaked coconut
1-3rd cup fudge ice cream topping
1 to 2 tablespoons kirsch

Toast waffles according to package directions. Cut ice cream into 4 slices; roll ice cream slices in coconut. Top with remaining coconut; freeze about 10 minutes or until ready to serve.

Combine fudge topping and kirsch in 1-qt. saucepan; heat thoroughly. For each serving, top 1 waffle with 1 prepared ice cream slice; spoon fudge topping mixture over ice cream. Garnish with maraschino cherry, if desired.

Makes 4 servings.

Variation: Substitute 1/4 teaspoon almond extract plus 1 tablespoon water for kirsch.

SPICED APPLE-RAISIN COOKIES

3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) butter
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 1/2 cups uncooked oats
1 cup finely chopped unpeeled apple
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Combine flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and spices. Gradually add to creamed mixture; blend well.

Stir in oats, apple, raisins and nuts. Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly buttered cookie sheets.

Bake 10 to 12 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool completely.

Store in covered container in cool place.

Yield: approx. 5 dozen

Common sense cooking

By RUTH McDANIEL

Dear Ruth: When I make a lemon or cream pie, the crust ends up soggy. Any solution? J.M. Beloit, Wis.

Dear J.M.:

My readers have some good tips for you. A baker from Iowa writes he sprinkles the crust with a fine sprinkle of sugar before pouring in filling. From Los Angeles: "Sprinkle tapoca on bottom crust to absorb moisture and add flavor." A Chicago reader says, "remove crust from a slice or two of bread. Tear into large crumbs and scatter over bottom of pie shell.

Pour hot filling over crumbs, cover with meringue. Seal well and brown in oven. IT WORKS!! The crumbs just disappear! Remember, though, keeping pie in the refrigerator too long will undo any crispy crust.

Try my recipe for flaky crust that melts in your mouth. Guaranteed never to fail. Makes 5 single crusts. Dough freezes well, so you can always have it on hand.

PERFECT PIE CRUST

Mix together:
4 cups flour

1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
Add:
1 3/4 cup shortening and mix till crumbly.

Beat together in small bowl:
1/2 cup ice water
1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 egg

Add to flour mixture and stir till ingredients are moist. Divide dough into 5 balls. Wrap each and refrigerate at least 1/2 hour before rolling.

Keeps in refrigerator 3 days. For longer time, put in plastic baggies and store in freezer.

Dear Abby

Second Opinion Might Save a Breast

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to your request to hear from women who had been treated with radiation therapy instead of undergoing a mastectomy.

On my 35th birthday I learned that a golf ball-sized lump that had been removed from my right breast a few days before was malignant. After discussing the situation with my surgeon and learning that he felt he had removed all of the cancerous tissue (the procedure is called lumpectomy), I could not bring myself to accept the "usual" next step of a modified mastectomy.

My surgeon referred me to a radiologist who, after reviewing my medical record, decided that I was a good candidate for radiation therapy.

I then underwent six weeks of radiation therapy. Unlike the side effects experienced when many other parts of the body are treated, those produced by radiation on the breast are minimal — a slight cough, loss of hair under the arm, and the skin that is treated becomes less soft, darkens slightly, peels and becomes itchy.

It has been five years since my lump was removed, and the only visible evidence of my bout with cancer is a barely noticeable "inch scar".

Please feel free to use my name.

SUZANNE PHILLIPS, ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR SUZANNE: Thanks to Juliet R. Ristom, who refused to accept her doctor's decision to undergo an immediate mastectomy for breast cancer, California became the second state (Massachusetts was the first) to require every physician to give a written summary of all options available to breast cancer patients.

I would urge every woman with breast cancer to get several opinions before deciding on therapy. Ask to be referred to a surgeon and a radiation therapist. And please, practice breast self-examination faithfully every month, because the only women who even have a choice are the ones who detect it early.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a healthy young man married one month, who says to his bride "I won't bother you very often for sex. I want a pal, not a sweetheart." And he's living up to it, too.

NOT BOTHERED

DEAR NOT: He may be "healthy," but your marriage is sick. Tell him that unless he tries to fulfill his role as a husband, as far as you're concerned, the marriage won't work — that you didn't get married to live with a "pal." If he wants to be a husband, but can't, he should see a doctor. If he just plain doesn't want to, you should see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for something I read in your column a long time ago that came in very handy when I needed it. It was the perfect answer to a rude and prying question.

Yesterday I ran into an acquaintance I had not seen in a long time. I am now in my eighth month of pregnancy, which is certainly obvious. When this acquaintance noticed my condition, she said, "Oh, I see you're expecting again." I have three children who are all in school now. Then she asked, "Is this one planned?"

Pausing your column, I smiled sweetly and said, "If you ask me, you just tell 'em you don't know."

At she was speechless. When she found her tongue, she giggled and said, "I'm sorry. I suppose I shouldn't have asked that question."

Barnetts gather for family brunch

Miss Jeannette Barnett, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. W.C. Barnett Sr., entertained members of her family and some local friends, with a brunch at Mountain View Lodge Friday morning. Jewell Forrest and Mamie Roberts were co-hostesses.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Emily Barnett Daniel and her daughter, Joan Barnett, Dallas, her son Mr. and Mrs. Milburn C. Barnett, and two of their daughters, Brenda and Paula of Arlington, Texas; also Mr. and Mrs. W. Carroll Barnett, Jr. of Kerrville, Texas.

Mrs. Emily Ward provided each member of the family with the Heritage news letter, and Big Spring Herald clippings honoring the four early local doctors.

The group attended the Malone-Hogan Centennial exhibit Thursday evening, greeting old friends and enjoying pictures of the early settlers.

The family gathered again at 2:30 p.m. in Miss Barnett's room for a celebration of her brother, Carroll's, 83rd birthday. Songs were sung and good wishes made. Birthday cake was served by niece, Joan, that her mother baked.

Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Barnett, Brenda and Paula, returned to their homes Friday following the party. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Barnett Jr. returned Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. G.A. Barnett of Richardson were unable to attend due to illness, as well as Mr. and Mrs. G.A. Barnett II.

Everyone expressed delight in the doctors display, the Heritage Museum, and the excitement of the Centennial.

Summertime sewing tips are given for sportswear

CLEVELAND — With nice weather upon us, everyone gets a chance to indulge in their favorite outdoor activities. Wearing the proper sports clothing is important to help you get the most out of various outdoor activities. Sewing your own active sportswear in knit and stretch fabrics can give you the kind of comfort, style and professional look you want.

To help you avoid some of the pitfalls of sewing active sportswear, Jan Saunders, education director for White-Elna Sewing Machine Company, offers these simple tips.

"The stretch qualities that make the fabrics in active sportswear great for jogging and tennis are the same ones that make these more difficult to sew. It is important to allow fabric for T-shirts, velour tops, stretch cotton terry outfits and jogging suits do what they were intended to do: stretch," says Ms. Saunders.

"If you are experiencing skipped stitches, use either the multi-purpose needle or special size No. 11 stretch needle. Stretch needles are usually blue in color so you can differentiate between them and your regular needles.

"If you follow these suggestions, you should be pleased with the results," concludes Ms. Saunders.

Supplements are suggested for vitamin-depleting cases

Smoking, living in a major urban area, losing hair, drinking lots of coffee and taking the pill are among 20 stressful conditions that deplete the body of various vitamins, according to nutritionist Earl Mindell in a current Family Circle magazine report. He suggests in the article which specific vitamin supplements to take for each of these conditions.

If you take vitamin supplements for more than one condition, Mindell advises reading vitamin labels carefully and adjusting combined regimens so that only the additional vitamins are added, and you don't double dose yourself. He notes that the regimens he gives in the magazine are "recommendations," not prescriptions, and advises that before starting any new program, individuals should check with a nutritionally oriented doctor. Also, he says, when starting a regimen, always increase the intake slowly. Among the vitamin regimens Mendall recommends in the magazine are the following:

For smokers and would-be ex-smokers: Every cigarette smoked destroys about 25 mg. of vitamin C, says Mindell. Compensate with: 2,000 mg. vitamin C, a.m. and p.m.; 400 to 1,000 I.U. of vitamin E, depending on how much you smoke; vitamin A, 10,000 I.U. daily.

If you're quitting smoking there are natural tranquilizers you can take to cope with irritability (the most common nicotine withdrawal symptom), says the article. Try Tryptophan, 1 tablet (667 mg.) 3 times a day; B complex, 1,000 mg. (time release) taken with evening meal.

For major, urban-area dwellers virtually all city dwellers breathe polluted air. Vitamins, says Mindell in Family Circle, are your first defense against potentially hazardous pollutants, including: vitamin C, 2,000 mg., a.m. & p.m.; vitamin A, 10,000 I.U. daily; vitamin E, 400 to 1,000 I.U. daily.

For women on the Pill: Women who take oral contraceptives are more likely to be deficient in vitamins B6 and B12, which, says the article, may account for common side effects such as irritability and depression. Supplements to take are: B6, 50 mg., 3 times daily (a natural diuretic); B complex, 100 mg. (time release), a.m. and p.m.

If you're losing your hair: though there's no sure cure for baldness, this regimen, says Mindell in the magazine, could help you hold on to the hair you have a lot longer: A multiple-mineral formula with calcium and magnesium, 1 daily; choline and inositol, 1,000 mg. each daily.

Local girl is confirmed

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Palmer, 2508 Larry Dr., announce the confirmation of their daughter, Marga Palmer, age 14, on May 31, by the Rev. Carroll Kohl at the St. Paul Lutheran Church.

Marga's godmother is her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Irmgard Onken of West Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knocke, 1310 Wood St., were Marga's sponsors for the year of confirmation study.

A reception and lunch was held for the confirmands at the Parrish Hall immediately following the confirmation service.

PTA gives TV guide for parents

Summer can stretch youngsters' TV time to a yearly peak.

To help local parents make those hours quality hours, the Big Spring Council of the Parent Teacher Association releases results of the National PTA's prime time TV monitoring project.

Named as the top 10 programs that PTA members consider to be excellent for family viewing are: "Those Amazing Animals," "Little House on the Prairie," "60 Minutes," "Lou Grant," "The Waltons," "NBC Magazine," "20-20," "Disney's Wonderful World," "Eight is Enough," and "CBS Specials."

Some 6,000 monitors, representing all 50 states and the District of Columbia, judged television programs based on three areas: positive contribution to the quality of life in America, lack of offensive content, and high artistic and technical merit.

This is the sixth such massive monitoring effort by the National PTA, according to the Big Spring PTA Council.

Cited by PTA as distinguished television advertisers because they bought 100 percent of their ads in the most exemplary programs are three corporations: Chrysler, Holiday Inns and Timex.

Programs rated poorest in overall quality are: "It's a Living," "Vegas," "ABC Movies," "Soap," "NBC Movies," "Flo," "Ladies Man," "Three's Company," "Fantasy Island," and "The Jeffersons."

Programs considered objectionable for violent content are: "Vegas," "ABC Movies," "Dukes of Hazzard," "Incredible Hulk," "Enos," "NBC Movies," "Dallas," "Fantasy Island," "Hart to Hart," and "Chips."

Warren is named to all-district team

The Midland Lee Rebels dominated the District 5-AAAAA All-District baseball team with five first team selections. One of those was Randy Velarde, named the Most Valuable Player in the conference.

Locals win tourney

Two members of the Big Spring Herald made up the winning team at the Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc., Southwest Group Golf Championship in Greenville, Sunday.

The team of Bob Rogers, production manager, and Tom Watson, publisher, (not to be confused with the professional golfer of the same name) shot a team-total 145 to lead the field of 36 players. Rogers also took second place in individual competition with a low-gross score of 76 for the day.

Another local winner was Rogers' son, Mike, who captured second place in the tennis tournament, also sponsored by Harte-Hanks. The young Rogers had tied for first in competition with eight other netters, but fell to second in the playoffs.

Howard producer gauged

A confirmer has been scheduled and an outpost drilled in Howard County.

The Red Draw (Fusselman and Mississippian) field of Howard County gained its second Fusselman producer and a 3/4-mile southeast extension to that pay with completion of North American Royalties Inc., Midland No. 3 Flanagan, for 115 barrels of 42.5 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 1.820-1.

Production was through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 9,478-90 feet, which had been acidized with 300 gallons.

Location is 1,880 feet from the south and 2,005 feet from the east lines of 13-32-1S-T&P.

The Fusselman opener, the firm's No. 1 Flanagan, was finished Sept. 2, 1980, to pump 47 barrels of 41.7 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 3.404-1, through perforations at 9,168-318 feet.

Bonray Energy Corp., Oklahoma City, Okla., will drill the No. 1-20 Read, as a 1 1/4-mile northwest and 1 1/4-mile southwest outpost to Fusselman oil production in the Coahoma, North multipay field, one location north of an undesignated Fusselman oil discovery and four miles north of Coahoma. Location is 2,173 feet from the north and 990 feet from the west lines of 20-30-1N-T&P.

Cisco mayor to improve image of city

CISCO — Eris Ritchie, new mayor of Cisco, says one promise he intends to live up to is to give the city a favorable image.

Ritchie fills the unexpired term of Roy Cartee, who along with four councilmen were recalled in a special election held April 4.

Ritchie, a native of Athens, Ala., moved to Cisco in 1959 to serve as band director of the Cisco public school. Nine years later, he joined Cisco College as director of bands and public relations.

CELEBRATING — AGAIN — Ray (Red) McMahan says he's not growing older, just sweeter. McMahan found cause to celebrate both of Big Spring's Centennials — the one held here in 1949 and the one just completed. The picture at the left was made 32 years ago, the other last week. The beard is a little greyer and Red now wears glasses. Otherwise, there hasn't been much change. McMahan, one of the few people in town who can make a pressman's cap out of a newspaper, was aboard The Herald's float in last week's Centennial parade.

Spraying facts for yard and garden

Using pesticides safely

DAVID G. FOSTER
Extension Agent
Entomology (PM)
Martin, Howard, &
Midland Counties

An effective spray program can mean the difference between a garden that thrives and one that dies on the vine.

Pesticides are substances or mixtures intended to destroy or control various kinds of pests. They are a valuable resource for the homeowner — providing an easy and effective way to protect yard and garden from pests.

It is important to understand how to use pesticides safely for effective pest control. Whether you're a veteran, or a novice, there are some basic spraying facts every gardener should keep in mind.

KNOW YOUR ENEMY — First identify the pest causing the trouble. The three most common pests that homeowners face are insects, weeds and plant disease.

USE THE RIGHT PESTICIDE — Resist the temptation to use whatever happens to be on your shelf. Always use the right pesticide for the job. All pesticide labels list the pests it will control. Using the right pesticide allows you to control the pest without disturbing unaffected plants. The wrong pesticide may damage the environment and leave your target unharmed.

READ THE LABEL — All pesticide labels will tell you how to use the product correctly. Observe all label instructions and be sure to measure accurately. This way, your garden chemicals will perform their assigned tasks efficiently, economically and safely.

MIX SPRAY MATERIAL AS RECOMMENDED — Start with the proper spray material. Then follow all directions and precautions on the label of pesticide. A common misconception is that if one tablespoon of pesticide is recommended, two tablespoons will be twice as effective. Effectiveness will not be increased by doubling the amount of chemical. In fact, higher concentrations of pesticides can harm plants.

MIX ONLY THE AMOUNT OF SPRAY NEEDED FOR THE JOB — Spray which is diluted and left over should never be stored. Leaving it in the sprayer can damage your equipment. Putting it in an old container on the shelf creates a serious risk of poisoning by accidental misuse, particularly by children. The best way to use extra spray is on the job for which it was intended.

TIMING IS IMPORTANT — The best time to spray is early morning or evening when there is little wind. Wind causes spray to drift. "Drift" wastes spray, minimizes the effectiveness of the pesticide and can hit non-target areas. Also, avoid spraying when temperatures are high or when rain is expected. Sizzling temperatures cause some pesticides to evaporate quickly and leave an oil base residue that can harm plants. Rain or watering, after spraying, can reduce effectiveness by washing the pesticide off plant leaves. Drift can also be minimized by spraying at a lower pressure and using the largest practical nozzle opening.

USE MEASURING UTENSILS — Don't guess at amounts. Measure the pesticide carefully and mix only the amount needed for the job.

SPRAY ON TARGET — When you spray, remember that "How You Spray Does Make A Difference." Spray on target, especially under leaves where insects settle and plant disease begins. A haphazard application will not curb an infestation of insects or stop the spread of plant disease.

SPRAY JUST TO THE POINT OF RUN-OFF — Never drench plants. You may think more spray is better, but over-spraying can injure plants. And excess run-off may hit non-target plants.

USE PROPER EQUIPMENT — On-target spray application requires equipment which gives you control over the spray. Use a sprayer with "control" features: an adjustable nozzle for various spraying jobs, a positive on-off valve for precise application and a long spray extension for easy reach under leaves.

DRESS FOR THE OCCASION — Be careful not to get pesticide on your skin. Always wear a long-sleeved shirt and full length pants. Some pesticides may also call for waterproof gloves. When spraying overhead, wear a wide brimmed hat to protect your hair and eyes. If pesticide does get on your skin, wash immediately with soap and water.

DON'T EAT, DRINK OR SMOKE — Eating or drinking while spraying could cause you to ingest pesticide that might accidentally have gotten on your food or drink. Smoking is not recommended for two reasons. First, some sprays are flammable and second, inhaling cigarette smoke may draw spray into your body with it.

STORE PESTICIDES PROPERLY — Store pesticides in their original container. Not only is it important to keep all original label information at hand, but keeping pesticides in tempting pop bottles or other unmarked containers is dangerous. Always store under lock and key.

An effective spray program starts with the proper spray material and best equipment for the job at hand. Keep these spraying facts in mind and your job will be easier, faster and more successful.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of social-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.
