

Reagan may support House busing curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-backed curbs on future court-ordered busing of school children are likely to find a sympathetic president in the White House if they receive final congressional approval in the Senate.

The measure, designed to prevent the Justice Department from filing future busing suits to achieve racial desegregation in the nation's schools, easily passed the House on Tuesday. Its sponsor, Rep. James Collins, R-Texas, predicted it would pass the Republican-controlled Senate and be signed into law by President Reagan, who already has said he opposes court-ordered busing.

"This is a different year and we have a different president and we have a different Senate," Collins said. Last year, a similar effort passed the House and a reluctant Senate only to be vetoed by then-President Carter.

The busing amendment was attached to a bill authorizing funds for the Justice Department in fiscal 1982.

Collins called the passage "the biggest win we ever had" in 12 years of fighting school busing. "It's the real breakthrough," he said.

Collins noted that the last time the House considered the amendment, the vote was 209-190. This time, the margin was 265-122 — a switch of about 70 votes.

The bill prohibits the Justice Department from spending any of its money to require any student to be bused to any school other than the one nearest his or her home. It makes exceptions for physically and mentally handicapped students who might need to attend special schools.

The measure would apply only to future Justice Department actions and would not affect any suits now in progress.

Collins said the amendment means "you can't force any student to go beyond the school nearest his home."

The amendment, supported by both Democrats and Republicans, attracted little debate.

Democrats, led by Southern conservatives, supported the proposal by a 120-96 margin. Republicans backed it by 145-24.

Opposition came both from Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., head of the House Judiciary Committee, and from Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights subcommittee.

Rodino contended the nation still has many illegally segregated schools and the Justice Department should be given whatever tools necessary to remedy the situation.

Edwards contended the bill would set back integration by 25 years.

But Collins cited public opinion polls showing 72 percent of all Americans oppose forced busing.

And Rep. Bobbi Feidler, R-Calif., who began her political career as a staunch foe of busing in Los Angeles, argued that busing had failed to improve the quality of education.

Adoption of the amendment came shortly before the House passed the overall bill, which authorizes the Justice Department to spend up to $2.3 billion in fiscal year 1982.

Three Texas Democrats — Jim Wright of Fort Worth, Richard White of El Paso and Jack Hightower of Vernon — did not vote.

Wright was closeted with other House leaders in a briefing on the Israeli bombing of an Iraqi nuclear facility. Had he been present, Wright would have supported Collins' amendment, Wright's office said.

Collins asked for a record vote after his amendment had already been declared as passed by a voice vote.

"We wanted to give the Senate a message," he said, noting that the measure barely carried a year ago in the Senate.

"When the fellows in the Senate see the overwhelming feeling of the House, a lot of senators who haven't understood it will understand it now."

Howard County's cotton prospects looking good

Howard County's 1981 cotton crop prospects, at this stage, are among the best on record. All of the crop is in the ground, some of it is up.

Even though the outlook for cotton is tremendous, farmers are keeping their fingers crossed. An extended hot spell, like the Southwest experienced last year, would hurt the harvest. The hot dry winds could dry out the surface moisture and stunt the cotton.

To date, though rainfall has been above normal and very little of it has been damaging. Farmers in the Achery and Vealmoor areas were hardest hit by the hail and heavy thunderstorms last week. For that reason, cotton had to be replanted in those fields.

Insect infestation has been light so far. Mostly, the trouble, what there has been of it, comes from leaf hoppers and thrips.

County Extension Agent Don Richardson said that his office will be holding training seminars which teach enrollees how to recognize and control the insects. Dates for the seminars will be announced at a later date.

The exact number of acres devoted to cotton in Howard County likely will not be known before Aug. 4, when it must be certified with the ASCS office. However, it is extensive, perhaps similar to that devoted to the crop two years ago.

Polish Communist Party leader urged to resign

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Communist Party chief Stanislaw Kania, under Soviet pressure to curb labor and political unrest, was accused of being incapable of solving the Polish crisis and indirectly urged to resign today by a hardline member of the 11-man Politburo.

"The Politburo for some months has not been a consolidated, cohesive leading team," Tadeusz Grabki told a Central Committee meeting that appeared to have turned into an open power struggle between hardliners and moderates.

In remarks reported by the official PAP news agency, Grabki declared that the Politburo "in its present composition and under the leadership of Kania is unable to lead the country out of the crisis."

Grabki said that speakers at the Central Committee meeting repeatedly offered motions for a vote of no-confidence for the Politburo and expressed doubts whether it could continue preparations for an emergency party congress called for mid-July.

Central Committee member Zygmunt Rybicki asked for a break in the meeting so Kania could respond to Grabki.

FAP said another Politburo member, Kazimierz Barcikowski, then took the floor and "stressing the historic decisions being taken" at the plenum said he was ready to resign from both the Politburo and the Central Committee.

Barcikowski said Kania's proposals in his speech Tuesday "are the best political line for Poland and the party and are by no means a capitulation line."

Kania promised in his speech to rein in the independent labor movement Solidarity and reformers within his party, but also to pursue reforms.

Kania said Poland's socialist allies were "indignant at the filthy wave of anti-Sovietism and anti-communism in Poland."

Kania said the Soviets' concern was "fully justified."

"There cannot be any more tolerance for activities directed against socialism, against our alliances, against the friendly relations with the Soviet Union," he declared. "About such a practice one must give evidence starting tomorrow."

Kania's speech was his toughest since taking office after the nationwide strike wave last summer that resulted in legalization of the Soviet Bloc's first independent strike movement and a growing grass-roots reform movement in the Polish Communist Party.

Panel proposes restoring of federal death penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee is recommending restoration of the federal death penalty amid charges that the legislation is unconstitutional.

The committee voted 13-5 on Tuesday to re-establish the death penalty for a number of federal crimes, including aircraft hijacking, the attempted or actual assassination of a president, kidnapping, treason and espionage.

The vote makes it almost certain that capital punishment will be the first major social issue the Republican-controlled Senate will consider this year.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the committee chairman, has made the death penalty a major priority. After President Reagan was shot in an assassination attempt March 30, he pushed for an amendment to make an attempt on a president's life a capital offense.

The death penalty was approved by the judiciary panel last year but did not reach the full Senate. With a new conservative, Republican majority, however, passage seems likely in 1981.

Groups such as the American Civil Liberties Union say the proposal approved Tuesday is unconstitutional and will face court challenges if it becomes law.

Four Democrats, Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Joseph Biden of Delaware, Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio and Patrick Leahy of Vermont, were joined by Republican Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland in voting against the bill, which was approved after only perfunctory debate.

On the Senate floor, Leahy is expected to urge that the crimes specified in the bill be made punishable by a mandatory life sentence.

Thurmond's amendment to include attempted assassination of the president says such an attack could bring the death penalty if it "results in bodily injury to the president or otherwise comes dangerously close to causing the death of the president."

Water deposits policy debated

By JAMES WERRELL

Big Spring City Councilmen waited until the end of Tuesday night's regular meeting to comment on a complaint against the water department made by Gene Bryant.

Bryant was allowed to lodge his complaint before the council shortly after the meeting had begun. Bryant, for several weeks, had resisted paying the $30 deposit to the city in order to have his mother's water turned on, arguing that she was a senior citizen who owns her own home and has a good credit record.

City officials reported that the $30 deposit was required of every new customer, and that they could not make exceptions.

During his presentation to the council, Bryant proposed that exceptions should be made for elderly citizens with good credit ratings.

"I think exceptions should be made for people on Social Security or with a limited income. If they own their homes, they could have a relative or close friend sign a letter of guarantee, or submit a letter from their bank," said Bryant. "There has to be some alternative to cash on the barrelhead."

Bryant also complained that he believes deposits are not being returned to water customers.

"The city says that the money will be returned in a year. But some may have to wait a few years, and some never get their money back at all," he stated.

percent interest, to customers within a year.

During his city manager's report, Don Davis announced that the city will adopt a new policy in seeking damage estimates for vehicles involved in accidents for which the city is liable. In a recent case, two estimates obtained by the victim were almost identical.

In order to make sure that estimates are reliable, the city will now require three estimates.

"In the future, anyone wishing to file a claim for damages resulting from an automobile accident will be required to obtain three estimates. Additionally, one of our (the city's) personnel must accompany the claimant at the time he is obtaining the bids," wrote Davis in a memorandum to the council.

Two of the body repair shops will be chosen by the claimant, while the third will be chosen by the city.

The city will test the feasibility of a diesel-powered auto fleet with the purchase of a new car for Big Spring Fire Chief Jim Ryals. Ryals' previous auto was wrecked in an accident for which the other party was responsible, recently, and the council voted to replace it with a diesel car.

Councilmen also passed on final reading a resolution to lease the former Webb Air Force Base ammunition storage area to Strickland and Knight, Inc., a contracting firm. The area will be used for storage of building materials.

The city will publish notice of intention to lease city-owned property on the industrial park for oil and gas exploration and extraction. A survey of the property was conducted by John Coffee, local attorney, which revealed that the city owns 1,190.12 acres of mineral rights on the park.

Coffee was paid $3,000 for his work.

The council voted to designate Birdwell Lane as a four-lane thoroughfare between 11th Place and Purdue.

"Essentially, people are now treating this strip as four-lane," said Davis. "It is just a quirk that it has never been designated. It's a technicality, but something we need to clean up," he added.

A review of four city maps revealed that they needed to be rescaled and updated. The firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Inc., a Lubbock engineering concern, proposed the improvement of maps of city streets, city subdivisions, the local water distribution system, and the sanitary sewer system.

Estimated cost for the revamping of all four maps ranges between $4,300 and $7,100.

Following the speech, councilmen made no comment, and moved on to the next item of business on the agenda. Bryant left the council chambers shortly thereafter.

Near the end of the meeting, however, Councilman Russ McEwen commented that Bryant had come before the council "in good faith" to propose an alternative to the $30 deposits, and the council should discuss it.

The upshot of the discussion was that the three members present, McEwen, Robert Fuller and Mayor Clyde Angel, feel that the $30 deposit is legitimate, and that the system should remain as is. Bill Brown, assistant city manager, assured those present that the city has regularly returned the deposits, including a 6-

"The people I've talked to say that we could pay off the additional investment in three years or less with the low cost of fuel," said Councilman Fuller. The new car is expected to cost approximately $2,000 more than a gasoline-powered one.

Specifications for the car will be sent to area dealers for bids.

The council passed the first hurdle in approving a multi-story, 72-unit apartment complex to be located at 3500 Parkway. The project, owned by Sid Smith Enterprises, was approved on June 2 by the Planning and Zoning Board, and was relayed to the council for two public hearings.

In order to receive final approval, the council will be required to okay the site plan and designate the project Planned Development. It will be known as Commanche Trail Apartments, said Smith.

In other business, councilmen: — Approved the final reading of a resolution to lease the Northside Day Care Center to the Salvation Army. — Approved the final reading of a resolution to lease Building 66 at the Industrial Park to Oilfield Industrial Lines, Inc. — Passed on final reading a resolution to lease Building 46 at the Industrial Park to Rig Lighting Service, Inc. — Appointed the firm of Lee, Wilson, Reynolds and Company, as official auditors for the city. — Awarded a five-year service pin to Henry Ashford, employee of the City Sanitation Department. — Awarded a bid to repair the roof on the Cotton Machinery Company building at the Industrial Park to Westex Roofing Company. Estimated cost is $4,999.

Horse training not easily mastered, performer says

Dianne Olds, one of the featured performers in the 1981 Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion, can't remember when she wasn't enchanted by horses.

Most little girls go through a period when they're 'horse crazy.' They beg their parents to buy one for them. If that ploy fails, they want to go to a corral just to be near one.

Dianne is now one of the few women horse trainers and performers in the country.

It all started, she says, when she was just a child.

"I went to a girls' school that had lots of horses around, and that's what kept me there," she recalls. "After that, I went to college for a year and a half, but it was a waste of money and time, because I just kept going back to horses."

She spent 13 years working with three of the five top-notch horse trainers in the country learning to work with quarterhorses, Arabians, Lipizzans, saddle horses and thoroughbreds.

Although her roots are in Pico Rivera, she's been all over the world as she worked to perfect her craft. She held as many as three jobs at one time to enable herself to apprentice with the best.

"I could probably go just about any place in the world and earn a living," she says now. "I could just fit in any place."

Horse training is not a talent easily mastered, Mrs.

Olds says. You either have it or you don't.

"It takes a very dedicated person, very naturally gifted in timing and psychology with the animal," she explains, adding that the trainer communicates with a horse through the use of his hands, legs and feet.

It is not easy, she says, to get these high-strung and very intelligent animals to do what you want under conditions that are abnormal, as in a show.

One of the keys to successful training, she says, is to know what a particular horse's good points are.

"Every horse has a talent for something, and you have to try and develop that horse for that talent. He will show you what he's best at during the training time." It takes three years to thoroughly train a horse.

Mrs. Olds owns over 20 horses, $20,000 being the value of the least expensive of the lot. Once a horse is trained, there is no price tag she could put on him. The horses are born and raised on Mrs. Olds' breeding farm in Oregon, where she spends part of her time.

Much of the year, however, is spent on the road with her husband and three show horses. It's a hard life, with many overnight jumps from one town to the next.

"I have to do a lot of the driving myself, and even when you stop, there's no rest. The horses have to be fed, watered and groomed.

We travel with a mobile home, truck and horse van, and it's expensive. It costs $70 to fuel up, and that'll take us 200 miles on flat road, unless it's uphill."

The horses must be washed and the tack cleaned every day, Mrs. Olds says, and she's very particular about that — so particular that she's gone through three grooms in six months. They start out thinking it'll be a fun job, but find it's very hard work.

She has good reason for requiring such exacting care for the horses.

There are only 250 Andalusians, the kind she works with, in the United States, which accounts for their value. But Mrs. Olds says they are special in every way.

"They are very high strung, but very kind animals," she says, smiling at the thought of them. "They look like they're ready to explode, and they are. Sometimes, they're so smart that they'll outsmart you. Although I spout them terribly, I do let them know who's boss."

Although Mrs. Olds says there is money to be made in breeding Andalusian horses and there is an equal amount of sacrifice. But the best reward she says, is just being able to do what she loves.

"A lot of it is self-rewarding. I'm doing what I want to do and what I love to do. I get to travel all over the world, and I have the feeling of being accomplished and respected."

It makes her feel terrific, she says, when a member of the audience, after seeing her horses perform, can only say "Gee, wasn't that beautiful?"

White able to intervene in Klan-Vietnamese clash

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Attorney General Mark White has been allowed to intervene in a lawsuit brought against the Ku Klux Klan by Vietnamese fishermen living on the Texas coast.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald signed an order Tuesday authorizing White to present evidence to support the state's contention that two paramilitary camps operated by the KKK should be shut down.

White's petition to intervene was filed last Friday with Ms. McDonald, who earlier granted a temporary injunction ordering the KKK to halt any alleged harassment of the settlers, but refused to halt the Klan's paramilitary operations.

Ms. McDonald agreed to hear arguments on the matter of closing the camps at a later hearing on the refugees' request for a permanent injunction.

Good old days were really hot

If you thought Tuesday was hot and that it's even hotter today, that ain't nothing compared to the temperatures of yesteryear. On this date in 1958 it was 108 blistering degrees, on yesterday's date it was 107 degrees. For Thursday, June 11, the record is another scorching 108 degrees set in 1917.

The complaints are growing steadily concerning the little heatwave, but it is nothing compared to those temperatures of the years of 1958 and 1917 respectively. In those years most of our records are still being held with little competition.

Willie Nelson Concert nabs first for Jaycees

The Big Spring Camp Jaycees are still accepting kudos for the success of the Willie Nelson Concert, staged in Memorial Stadium in 1980.

The local Jaycees were awarded first place in Outstanding State Project competition in the recent state convention, which was attended by seven members of the Big Spring club.

It was one of seven first places captured by the Big Spring Camp Jaycees at the convention. Others included: Jaycee President of the Year Award (highest ranking honor in the Jaycees) — Charley Johnson; Outstanding State

Project — Willie Nelson Concert; Beautify Texas Award; Recruitment of 253.13 percent of original membership; doubling their membership in one year; and retention of their original members.

The local Jaycees also won second place awards in mental health and mental retardation work (Don Kluck, chairman); and promotion of health and safety (diabetic bike-athon).

Third places were won by the local unit in youth assistance (YMCA run); and health and safety.

The Big Spring Camp

Jaycees made a contribution exceeding $50,000 to the Texas Jaycee Campus for the Handicapped, proceeds realized above expenses for the Willie Nelson Concert. That was the highest amount of money contributed to the Jaycee Campus for the Handicapped from a single Jaycee organization.

Charley Johnson has been nominated for the National President Award, winner of which will be determined at the national convention this month.

The success of the Willie Nelson Concert will also be considered as the National Project of the Year by the National Association.

Mexico, U.S. move toward multilateral development

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Mexico, despite deep differences over the turmoil in Central America, are taking tentative steps toward cooperating in a multilateral development program for that region.

Mexican Secretary of Foreign Relations Jorge Castaneda said Tuesday that the proposal was suggested by President Reagan during his meetings with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo and that the Mexican leader gave his conditional acceptance.

Lopez Portillo insisted that the plan not have a military aid component, that it not be used as an instrument to "fight the Soviet Union or communism in the region" and that no country be automatically excluded from it, Castaneda said.

Without these conditions, "the plan might do more harm than good," he said, adding that the American side accepted the conditions.

The Reagan administration has been developing a plan for the entire Caribbean-Central American area, but Castaneda said the proposals discussed related only to Central America. He said Venezuela and Canada also may cooperate in the program.

Castaneda spoke hours after the conclusion of the Reagan-Lopez Portillo summit, which was characterized by unusually warm expressions of friendship by the two leaders.

"Mi casa es su casa," Reagan said in a toast to his guest after a state luncheon, repeating the age-old Spanish offer of friendship: "My house is your house. If problems arise between us, we must always remember: we are the solution. There is nothing that with mutual respect and honest communication we cannot work out," Reagan said.

Lopez Portillo's response contrasted sharply with the chilly remarks he offered during a visit to Mexico City by then-President Carter two weeks ago.

Haig's visit to China signals the administration's decision to push ahead with normalization, despite Reagan's own personal expressions of support for Taiwan.

"The president has made it clear his intentions are to continue on with the normalization process," Haig said in a recent interview with The Associated Press. "It is our view that our relationship with the People's Republic of China is a strategic reality."

Reflecting the policy, the Reagan administration is putting a request from Taiwan for high-performance jet aircraft on the back burner. The inaction stems both from concern that such a sale could anger China and from the administration's judgment that Taiwan doesn't need the aircraft, known as FX jets.

A time for harvesting and thought

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

The past four weeks I've talked a lot about the "whys" and "hows" of growing a successful vegetable garden in Howard County.

If you've been doing the right things at the right times such as planting the right varieties and fertilizing, watering, mulching and controlling pests properly, chances are you've begun to enjoy the "fruits of your labor."

Most inexperienced gardeners have a tendency to believe all that's left to do is to sit back and enjoy all those tasty, fresh vegetables. Believe me, that's wrong! If anything, you should pay even closer attention to your garden and what's going on out there. An outbreak of disease, an infestation of damaging insects, or even a short drought period can wreck your garden and make all your efforts worthless.

Also, make it a point to harvest all your vegetables when mature. To get them from your garden, harvest you vegetables at their best stage for eating. This is also a must for canning and freezing. The final quality of your preserved vegetables is no better than the quality you began with. In other words, what you put in the jar is what you take out.

After all the effort you've put into growing your garden this year, make sure that you enjoy your vegetables at their peak of quality. It's important to remember that once a vegetable is removed from your garden, it has no further source of food nor can it replace loss of moisture. So, make the time between harvesting and eating or preserving as short as possible.

Now it's time for a little philosophy. Gardening is a great activity — for everyone. Its rewards are many, but there's one that's overlooked by most and that's an appreciation of agriculture. You haven't been gardening, you've been "backyard farming."

If you have been successful this year, you owe a lot of the success to the advances brought about by modern science and research conducted by land grant universities and private industry. New varieties, improved cultural techniques, high efficiency fertilizers, and safe and effective pest control chemicals are all the result of a highly sophisticated agricultural system like no other anywhere in the world.

If your garden was a failure of just didn't live up to your expectations, try to figure out what went wrong. Vow to do better next time. And on your next trip to the local grocery store, be appreciative and thankful for the small number of farmers doing a great job to feed America.

I hope you've enjoyed the information I've provided you these past several weeks. Its purpose was to help you have a better garden during 1981. My office has numerous publications on vegetable gardening which are yours for the asking. Drop by, or give us a call, and good gardening.

Weather Thundershowers possible today

Widely scattered thundershowers were forecast today for the Texas Panhandle and the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas, but more hot weather was in store for most of the state.

Judge awards youth crippled by measles

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Judy Scales says her 3-year-old son Charles should never have been born, and a federal judge agrees with her.

U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts Tuesday awarded $625,000 to the retarded boy who was born with multiple birth defects after Air Force doctors failed to advise his mother of the dangers of having a baby after she had contracted German measles during her pregnancy.

Mrs. Scales, a former Air Force recruit, filed a $1.25 million "wrongful life" suit against the government on behalf of her son, claiming he was damaged by the measles. Testimony during the trial, held in April, showed that most of the boy's major organs were damaged at birth and that he has since had open heart surgery and faces more surgery.

A health care expert also testified the boy may be seriously retarded and could need full-time or residential care for the rest of his life.

Briefs at the trial showed only one other "wrongful life" has been filed and was upheld in the California courts.

Attorney Bob Gibbins, representing Mrs. Scales, argued she would have had an abortion if she had known her son would suffer birth defects.

Gibbins argued that doctors at two bases where Mrs. Scales was stationed failed to advise her of birth defects that could result when a woman contracts German measles during pregnancy.

"I'm just tickled to death," Gibbins said after the verdict. "That's one hell of a verdict. It will start a whole new trend in Texas. It's a first in Texas on the wrongful life theory."

In his opinion, Roberts said doctors at Lackland Air Force Base doctors were negligent because the disease "was a proximate cause of (the child's) being born with congenital rubella syndrome."

Roberts ruled that doctors at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss. — where Mrs. Scales was transferred after she contracted the disease at Lackland — failed to get medical records from Lackland, which would have shown the bout with rubella.

The Keesler doctors also should have given a test for recent rubella exposure, Roberts said.

Board told water aid unlikely

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The state Water Resources Board has been warned that Oklahoma could head into a sweltering summer without a way to help cities solve emergency water problems.

Applications totaling $482,500 have been filed by eight local governments and public works authorities for grants under a program approved but never funded by the Legislature, Rick Smith, head of the agency's planning and development division, said Tuesday.

He said more than 350 towns and rural water districts had severe problems last summer.

Water officials had hoped the 1981 Legislature would raise the limit on individual grants from $50,000 to $200,000 so that lawmakers would fund the program.

The Legislature will return from a two-week recess Monday to consider appropriation bills, but board staffers noted there has been little enthusiasm to fund the program.

James Barnett, executive director, said the agency had sent letters informing legislators of the situation, but board members said they would talk personally with lawmakers.

In other action, the board voted to schedule a required, controversial meeting to issue permanent groundwater permits for Texas County.

The hearing has encountered strong opposition from the Texas County Irrigation and Water Resources Association, which contends the board has no authority to allocate groundwater.

A letter from Allen K. Harris, Oklahoma City attorney representing the association, was presented to the board members Tuesday.

The letter said various Texas County groundwater cases have established the principle that ownership of groundwater goes with ownership of the surface land, and the OWRB has no authority to control groundwater unless it is wasted or polluted.

R. Thomas Lay, board general counsel, said the board will proceed with the hearing after it establishes tentative yields.

The board voted unanimously to schedule the hearing for November.

Private group plans commercial space launches 'at a discount'

HOUSTON (AP) — NASA mapped the trail America blazed in space and found a way to make it profitable with a reusable craft that climbs to orbit on tongues of fire and then glides to earth — but now a Houston company plans to compete with the government agency by selling the cosmos at a discount.

Space Services Inc. can't match the cut-rate fee for the Space Shuttle, but the shuttle already is booked through 1985 and company officials say they can beat the price NASA charges for launching satellites with the more conventional Delta rockets.

"Private space launch is the wave of the future," said Gary Hudson, whose GCH Inc. is building the Percheron rocket that Space Services officials hope will make space a paying venture.

"It's a seller's market," said Space Services Vice President Charles Chafer. "There appear to be many more people who want to put things in orbit than there are people who can do so."

Space Services has not put anything into space, but Chafer said preliminary testing has been completed on the first Percheron — a rocket named for a work horse and modeled on those NASA used in early manned flights.

Chafer said the company will conduct three 30-second test burns in early July. "We're not counting on more than a 50-50 chance that those will be successful, but if they are, we'll try to have a (sub-orbital) flight up in July," Chafer said.

Space Services President David Hannah Jr. said that first flight, which the company intends to launch from a leased site on Matagorda Island on the Texas Gulf coast, is intended chiefly to demonstrate that the company has the right stuff.

He said the 53-foot-long rocket is expected to reach an altitude of about 50 miles and splash down in the Gulf of Mexico. "If this is successful, I think we will have established our credibility," said Hannah.

Big Spring adds new truck rental agency

One of the newest of the truck rental agencies, Jar Tan, has come to Big Spring.

Jar Tan is a nationwide organization which keeps in stock all sizes of trucks and trailers from the small trailers to the giant 22-foot long trucks.

Owner and operator of the local firm is Bill Petty who with his wife, Betty, moved to Big Spring about a year ago. Petty has retired from the Army as a Chief Warrant Officer after a career that encompassed 22 years. He was attracted to Big Spring because other members of his family resided here.

Bill says he is here to stay and both he and his wife are pleased with the economic opportunities available to local residents. Bill has three children and two grandchildren.

Bill currently operates the Shamrock Service Station at FM 700 and Birdwell Lane. His new truck rental agency is, of course, located there. Because he is optimistic about the rental business, he has ordered more trucks from the home office in Garland.

BILL PETTY STANDS ALONGSIDE JAR TAN TRUCK
New resident also operates service station

However, a successful flight still hinges on government approval, and the government has yet to say if it will allow private companies to launch rockets, or to what extent it will regulate whatever space flights are made.

And Peter Eaton, NASA program director for Delta Launch Vehicles, said he believes private groups have no place in the space business.

However, NASA spokesman Terry White said the Space Shuttle can carry 65,000 pounds of payload into space for $26.3 million, which breaks down to a bargain-basement price of slightly more than $400 a pound.

Eaton laughed at Hudson's cost estimates and said Space Services' executives probably don't realize how complicated space flight is.

He said the company carries $25 million in flight insurance and has two prospective launch sites — that will allow launches over larger bodies of water than the Matagorda Island site — for its orbital flights. He declined to discuss where the sites are located.

He said if the first flight is successful, Space Services will attempt to put a payload in orbit about 80 miles high at the end of the year.

Waterbeds replace cradles in helping newborn babies

By MARJORIE CLAPP
San Antonio News

San Antonio, Texas (AP) — Waterbeds are taking the place of cradles at Bexar County Hospital, sending infants off to dreamland quicker than a lullaby.

Nurses say the waterbeds are healthier for the newborn. Ten specially designed waterbeds for premature infants have been installed in the hospital's Nursery Intensive Care Unit.

Consider one-month-old Johnny Garcia, a three-pound, 15-ounce tyke who has lived on a waterbed all his life. The infant is one of 10 who has lived in the environment of the special incubator because it's helping to keep him alive.

The special incubators, made in Ohio, are a decided improvement over the older type incubators and have several advantages, medical experts say.

A spokesman said the hospital's perinatal center was the first in the world to obtain these particular incubators, with their controlled environment, quick access in case of emergency, easy positioning and, of course, the waterbeds.

As is the case with the other infants, young Garcia's stay on the waterbed isn't just for easy sleep or fun. According to Thelma Bowen, nursery supervisor, clinical studies have shown that premature infants on the waterbeds normally breathe better.

Respiratory problems are common among premature infants, she said. But on the waterbeds, infants seem to stop breathing less often because of the slight movement of the water.

Ms. Bowen also noted that skin breakdown and malformation of the head occurred less often in infants who have to be immobilized for long periods of time.

"The babies on the waterbeds seem to be less irritable than other babies," she said, "perhaps because the waterbed, combined with the environment of the incubator, simulates the womb of the mother."

The environment of the incubator is regulated by probes taped to the infant so that his or her skin temperature remains constant between 97.7 and 98.8 degrees.

Local judge presents program to ABWA Scenic Chapter

Bob Taylor, better known as "Your Honor," manager of KBYG Radio Station, presented the program to the Scenic Chapter American Business Women's Association June 2 at Herman's Steak House. Taylor is a local Judge for Coahoma and Big Spring, and shared some excuses given him for speeding. He also shared several "bloopers" which he has recorded from the air waves over the years.

Deloris Albert, president, presided over the 14 members and three guests at the 7 p.m. meeting. Marie Rowland voiced the in-vacation, followed by the Pledge to the flag. Guests were Fern Young, Taylor and Margret Wiles, a member of the Cactus Chapter ABWA.

Delores Le Vier, program chairman, introduced Marie Rowland, realtor, giving the vocational talk, stating that houses are very hard to buy since interest rates make payments up in the hundreds. Mrs. Rowland has been in real estate for 30 years. She said that she could place 25 families a day if there were enough rent houses available which there aren't. More and more people move to Big Spring every week.

Officers elected by the chapter were: Audrey Wilson, president; Alyce Butler, vice president; Billie Barron, corresponding secretary; Phyllis Gautreaux, recording secretary and Geraldine Dietz, treasurer.

New officers were installed by the outgoing president, each receiving a carnation.

Pearlle Nason, outgoing treasurer, pronounced the benediction prior to adjournment.

Dear Abby

Secretary Follows Dictates of Conscience

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter from NO GUTS, on secretaries doing personal work for bosses: That problem will never improve unless we secretaries speak up for our rights. It isn't necessary to be discourteous or surly, a simple "I prefer not to do your personal correspondence for you" should suffice. I've done secretarial work for 10 years and have always spoken out when I've felt a boss's request was an imposition on my workload. The idea of the catch-all underling secretary and the big superior boss will disappear only when secretaries stop thinking of themselves in those terms. My three basic rules:

1. Take your complaints to your boss, not to everyone in the office.
2. Don't compromise your values by doing anything that is against your principles.
3. Don't do extra work without pay. No one else does.

MAD IN SIERRA FOOTHILLS, CALIF.

DEAR MAD: Your "basic rules" are fine, but in applying for any kind of job, it is essential to have a clear-cut understanding of what the job will consist of. However, the applicant for a secretarial position who tells a prospective employer that she "prefers to do no personal correspondence" may be looking for a job for a very long time.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a psychiatrist. A patient has asked him to play the role of her father (give her away) at her wedding. The ceremony is taking place in Nevada and she will pay for his trip. I was not invited. When I objected to my husband going without me, he said that there was no "mother figure" in therapy, and he was annoyed that I would object. I don't feel good about this and would appreciate your thoughts on the matter.

DEAR LEFT OUT: It's not unusual for a psychiatrist to become a father figure in the course of therapy, and in some therapeutic situations he might even act as a surrogate father at a patient's wedding — assuming her own father is dead. However, you should have been invited to accompany your husband, and your husband should have insisted upon it.

DEAR ABBY: A waitress in Milwaukee asked why people always seem to want tables that have not been cleared. You said it was because of the coziness of clutter. Well, there are other reasons.

Waiters and waitresses know which tables are the least desirable, and they try to get those tables filled up first. For instance, if a table is under an air-conditioning vent, or near the radiator, or right next to the restroom, or in the line of traffic, or facing the wall, or too near the kitchen, or too close to the music, it's not the best table in the house. On the other hand, some people prefer a table near a window so they can watch their car or enjoy the view. Some people choose a table so they can be in a certain station to get a preferred waiter or waitress. Some like to watch the door so they can see who comes in (especially if they're with someone they don't want to be seen with). And some people sit at a table that hasn't been cleared to ensure instant service. They know that the waitress will be there in two seconds to be sure the newcomers don't pick up her tip!

Change of address kit usage can save taxpayers millions

"Americans are receiving more mail — important mail — than at any time in postal history," says Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty. "Yet, when it comes time to call the movers, one of the most over-looked of all procedures is notifying the proper parties of the change of address."

"In addition to the personal expense and inconvenience to the homeowner and mailers, undeliverable-as-addressed mail has become one of the hidden costs of mailing."

Hardesty says the Postal Service spends about $550 million a year to handle an estimated 4.5 billion pieces of mail that is undeliverable. "This expense ultimately ends up within the price of postage stamps, and worse, it is unnecessary. Change of address is a simple matter today."

The Postal Service has been urging its customers to inform all correspondents promptly of address changes at least 30 days before a scheduled move. With an assist from moving companies, real estate agents and others, the Postal Service distributes from ten to 16 million change of address kits every year to make it easier to notify correspondents and publishers.

"The primary strength of this program is that everyone benefits from it," Hardesty said. "The family that is moving benefits because their mail continues to arrive promptly, stores and other business correspondents can avoid billing problems, and the Postal Service is able to process and mail more efficiently and at less cost."

Hardesty says the Postal Service is now launching a new effort to get change of address kits into circulation. A direct mail campaign is asking commercial organizations such as truck rental firms, moving companies and real estate firms and others who deal with people on the move, to help distribute the Postal Service's handy Change of Address kit.

The kit contains convenient cards for notifying the postmaster, publishers, businesses, doctors, state and local agencies and utilities. The kit also includes a checklist of groups and individuals to be contacted prior to a move.

The direct mailing campaign to commercial organizations includes a two-part reply card which firms can use to order supplies of the kits from their local post office.

"We know that peak moving dates fall between June and August, and as we approach this season, it is important for anyone planning to move to use one of the kits. All they have to do is ask for one, either from one of the participating service companies or at the post office," Hardesty says. "We are all aware of the need to economize and seek more efficient ways to use our resources," Hardesty says. "Well, here's a place where the effort can start at home. The movers can help themselves, their correspondents and the Postal Service save more than $550 million a year that we simply don't have to waste."

Many Arabs blame U.S. for Israeli raid

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Many Arabs blame the United States for the Israeli attack on Iraq's nuclear reactor because it supplies the arms that make such raids possible. But Western and Arab observers in the Middle East don't expect an oil embargo or the flight of oil money from U.S. banks.

Arab observers in the Persian Gulf region suggest that the Arab foreign ministers at their meeting opening in Baghdad Thursday will be limited to issuing resolutions condemning Israel and pressuring the United States to contain its ally.

"The real pressure will come from the Arabs on the United States because the Arabs are convinced that only the United States can hurt or tame the Israelis," said an official in the United Arab Emirates who declined to be quoted by name.

"It will be a serious Arab-U.S. confrontation this time," he added.

The Palestine Liberation Organization called for "collective Arab retaliation in the political, economic and other spheres" and named the United States along with Israel as the target.

Syria's pro-Moscow regime said in the government newspaper Tishrin: "We want to hear no more of so-called Soviet danger to the Arab nation. There is only one main danger facing the Arab nation and that is Israeli expansionist aims supported by the United States."

However, effective Arab action against the United States depends on Saudi Arabia, the biggest oil producer and the biggest Arab investor in the United States.

One Western diplomat stationed there suggested the Saudis may "mute" their criticism in hopes of improving the chances for congressional approval of the controversial Saudi-U.S. arms deal.

Jury convicts El Paso teen in 'gay murders'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A jury has convicted an El Paso teen-ager on a reduced charge of voluntary manslaughter in the strangulation of another youth.

Jurors deliberated three hours at the end of a two-day trial before returning the verdict Tuesday against Efrén Castro Ibanez, 18.

Ibanez had been convicted by an El Paso jury of capital murder and sentenced to death earlier this year in the similar slaying of an older man.

El Paso District Judge Woodrow Wilson Bean II, presiding on a change of venue, asked the jurors to return today to set punishment for Ibanez in the killing of Arnolfo Rodriguez, 17, on Jan. 13, 1980, at El Paso.

Ibanez was sentenced to death earlier this year in El Paso on a capital murder conviction for the robbery-strangulation of William Morris, 38, on Jan. 28, 1980. Morris' automobile was stolen at the time of his death.

The prosecution alleged that Ibanez met both of his victims at gay bars in El Paso.

Testifying with the aid of an interpreter, Ibanez admitted Tuesday that he strangled Rodriguez during a quarrel after Rodriguez allegedly agreed to have sex with the defendant.

The defense contended that Ibanez should be convicted of manslaughter — instead of murder — because the killing was committed in the heat of passion.

After today's punishment phase, Bean plans to preside here in another trial of Ibanez on an escape charge.

Officials close abortion clinic

HOUSTON (AP) — Yielding to pressure from right-to-life groups, the Harris County Hospital District has agreed to close a controversial abortion clinic at Jefferson Davis Hospital.

The board unanimously agreed Monday to shut down the operation and transfer $127,000 earmarked for the clinic to the hospital's labor and delivery service.

"We are deleting this fund under protest," said Marc Shapiro, who heads the board's fiscal affairs committee.

Board members will attempt for a third time to outline a 1981-82 budget at a special meeting today.

Resignations, retirements two items to be studied by trustees

Resignations and retirements will be two of several items facing members of the Big Spring Independent School District's Board of Trustees, when they meet Thursday at 5:15 p.m.

Trustees will also study a commitment and application to receive regional media services for the 1981-82 school year. They will consider paper bids and hear a report on the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills.

Accreditation report, and a Southern Association Report will also be heard.

Memorial is planned for Allen Ludden

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A memorial service was scheduled for Thursday for popular game show host Allen Ludden, who died at age 63 after a lengthy bout with cancer.

Ludden, the longtime show host of TV's "Password" and "G.E. College Bowl," died early Tuesday at Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles, said hospital spokeswoman Betty Sheller.

At his bedside was his wife, Betty White, who had been with him almost constantly since Ludden was hospitalized a week ago, said family spokeswoman Pat Schrott.

"He was a very dear friend to me and my wife, both off and on the tube," said Tom Kennedy, who succeeded Ludden as host of "Password" after the actor suffered a seizure last October. "No one will ever fill his shoes. We're just thankful for having had a friend like him during our lives."

Ludden had been in and out of the hospital in recent months due to ailments stemming from the cancer, which was diagnosed a year and a half ago, said Miss White's publicist, Larry Bloustein. A malignancy had been removed from Ludden's side in an operation last year.

Last fall, during a visit to Northern California, Ludden lapsed into a coma and was forced to leave "Password," which he had emceed since its inception in 1961. Doctors diagnosed the seizure as being caused by a calcium imbalance related to cancer therapy.

As late as this January, Ludden said he hoped to return to the screen, but he never did. His only acting since then was in two brief radio spots for the Southern California Gas Co. in February.

Ludden, a native of Mineral Point, Wis., began his broadcast career before World War II.

After teaching high school English in Austin, Texas, and working briefly at radio station KEYS in Corpus Christi, Texas, Ludden entered the Army in 1942. He produced and directed 40 radio shows in the Pacific and, after the war, became personal manager of Shakespearean actor Maurice Evans.

Following a stint at radio station WTIC in Hartford, Conn., Ludden in 1953 became moderator of the radio forerunner of "G.E. College Bowl" and emceed the popular television quiz show for four years starting in 1959.

From 1957 to 1959 he also was program director for WCBS radio in New York City and for two years after that was director of programs for all CBS-owned radio stations. Before moving to "Password" he was director of creative services for CBS News.

Second GI charged in shooting

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The Army has charged a second American soldier with murder and is looking into a possible racial motive for the shootings of five members of his unit during rifle practice, a spokesman said today.

It was the first indication a second soldier might have taken part in the shooting spree Friday at a firing range near Camp Casey, 24 miles north of Seoul.

Both soldiers charged are black. The four soldiers slain by the spray of M-16 bullets and a fifth soldier who was wounded were all white. The Army spokesman said investigators were trying to determine whether there was a racial motive for the shootings.

Spec. 4 Archie R. Bell III, 21, of Long Branch, N.J., was charged Friday with four counts of murder and one count of attempted murder.

The Army spokesman said today the investigation led to a murder charge against Pvt. Lacy M. Harrington, 19, of Baltimore, Md., in the death of Sgt. James M. Elliot, 24, of Columbia, S.C.

Harrington was not charged in the other cases, the spokesman said.

Church leaders call it 'absurd'

Researcher says religion is major factor in childrens' intelligence

HOUSTON (AP) — Religious leaders and educators have challenged a study by University of Houston sociologist Zena Blau that concludes religion rather than race is the important factor in determining a child's intelligence.

Ms. Blau, who studied the IQ scores and family backgrounds of a group of Chicago-area children, said her 12-year research showed upbringing in a strictly religious household has a negative effect on intelligence.

According to Ms. Blau's study, both black and white children scored lower on IQ tests if they came from "fundamental, doctrinaire" religious backgrounds. She said the lowest IQ scores in her sample were children of Roman Catholic and Baptist mothers.

"In a society that is changing so rapidly, where self-control and self-direction are important to an individual's performance, the impact of the high-control religious institutions is adverse to a child's intellectual development," she said.

Bishop John E. McCarthy of the Catholic Diocese of Houston denounced the study.

"My first reaction would be to call these alleged findings patently absurd," McCarthy said.

McCarthy admitted he has not seen the study but said,

"A religious frame of reference that provides stability, continuity and meaning in a person's life is not an obstacle to learning, but an extraordinary advantage as a beginning point."

But Ms. Blau stood by her research.

"In every instance in my sample, average IQ scores of Catholic children were lower than those who are Methodists or higher protestants or non-denominational," she said.

Ms. Blau's study was based on IQ scores of 523 white and 549 black Chicago-area fifth and sixth graders and sociological data supplied by the children's mothers.

University of Texas sociology professor Bill Kelly took issue with the study because of its use of IQ scores as data. Critics of the tests say they are not a true yardstick of intelligence because they don't take into account socio-economic variables.

"The problem with studies like these is that they frequently look at just two or three variables," Kelly said. "It's like the studies that correlated race and IQ — the results could be based on socio-economic factors that are correlated with IQ. When you add other control factors, you get different results."

Arkansas governor sees no concern about creation law

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The lack of publicity about the fact that Arkansas schools are using biology textbooks that deal with creationism shows there is little public concern about the state's new creation-science law, Gov. Frank White says.

Five biology textbooks approved for Arkansas schools deal with the creation-science viewpoint, but four of them may not qualify under Arkansas' new creationism law because they refer to the Bible.

The state's creation-science law says the teaching of creation-science or evolution-science may not include any references to religious writings.

The law White signed also says that schools teaching either view must give balanced treatment in lectures, texts and teaching materials to the other view.

White said he was not suggesting that the books give equal treatment to evolution and creationism.

"I just wanted to point out that it is being taught in some districts without any uproar about teaching religion in the schools," White said.

White told a Little Rock civic club Tuesday that he believes there is no great public concern about the new law. He said he recently asked seven legislators what they were hearing about the new law.

"Only two of them said they had heard anything at all from a constituent," White said.

A lawsuit filed in federal court last month challenges the constitutionality of the law. A Little Rock law student, William Jones Jr., took a petition bearing 167 names of Arkansas citizens to White's office Tuesday.

The petition asks that the Legislature reconsider the law.

Each of the five biology textbooks approved for Arkansas schools gives more space to evolution than to the theory of creation.

Coupon caper gets results

CHICAGO (AP) — The giant grocery store-style coupons plastered on buses and in subway stations were meant to be a gag; the owners of Lettuce Entertain You Enterprises never dreamed the advertisements would be dragged into the company's nine Chicago-area restaurants for redemption.

But the joke — and dinner — was on the restaurant group as about 100 patrons showed up at the eateries lugging the posters — some of which were 12 feet long and weighed as much as 40 pounds — and demanded the promised free meals.

The posters read in part: "If you redeem this poster and take us up on this offer of a free meal, we'll serve you some good eats — and you'll probably serve some time."

"So just bring this poster to (any of Lettuce Entertain You's restaurants) for a free meal. And for dessert we'll call in the authorities."

Rich Melman, co-founder and president of the company, which owns restaurants ranging from inexpensive to the fashionable Pump Room, said 200 of the posters adorned buses and about 25 were put up in subway stations and on elevated train platforms.

"It was just to promote our corporation's 10th anniversary celebration Wednesday," says Melman, 59. "I thought people would laugh. We thought at most we'd get 10 or 15 of them back."

The posters came in two sizes, 6 feet and 12 feet long. Michael Jays, head of promotions for Lettuce Entertain You, said promoters "had no idea people would actually begin removing them — and in some cases it was tough to do."

"A few were on the back wall of subway stations, and we learned that someone had actually crossed the third rail to get over and peel it off the wall," Jays said. "We took the rest of those down right away."

And then there was the couple riding a motorcycle who spotted one of the giant coupons on the back of a bus.

"They came to a light and hopped off to remove part of it. The light changed, and they followed to the next light where they got a little more. It took them three lights before they got it all," Jays said.

"I guess the lesson here is never underestimate someone looking for a free meal," he added.

There are still about 100 coupons out there, but sorry folks. The offer expires today, June 10.

Spinks makes promise to fans

DETROIT (AP) — "Tell Larry Holmes he's got my blessing and I wish him the best of luck," says Leon Spinks.

While wishing Holmes well, Spinks made a promise to the unbeaten World Boxing Council heavyweight champion who he will fight Friday night in the Joe Louis Arena.

"I'm going to cling to him like a T-shirt and punch more than I ever did against Muhammad Ali," said the 27-year-old Spinks who will be making his second title bid in just his 15th pro fight.

In his eighth pro fight, using the pressure tactics he promises to use against Holmes, Spinks won the universal title by scoring a 15-round split decision over Ali Feb. 15, 1978, at Las Vegas.

But he admittedly didn't handle well the pressure that goes with the title, and he had problems that led to bad press, mostly involving his driving habits and his life style.

On Sept. 15, 1978, Spinks, in an uninspired performance lost the World Boxing Association title to Ali in New Orleans. He earlier had been at stripped of title recognition by the World Boxing Council for failing to sign for a defense against Ken Norton. Norton became WBC champion and lost the title in his first defense against Holmes June 9, 1978 at Las Vegas.

Now he feels he is ready to be champion.

"I won't make the mistakes I made the first time," Spinks said after concluding his training Tuesday. "I had to do it all myself. I had nobody to show me what to do. Now I got a better understanding of what being a heavyweight champion (Con't. on 3-B) "Spinks"

SMU football on probation?

DALLAS (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has found the Southern Methodist University football program guilty of 20-30 recruiting violations and will place the program on probation for two years and ban the team from television and bowl game appearances for one year, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

In a copyright story, the newspaper reported that SMU will not appeal the penalties and said the NCAA is expected to make an official announcement of the action soon, perhaps today.

SMU President Dr. L. Donald Shields would not confirm the report when contacted Tuesday, the Dallas Morning News said. "We're still working with the NCAA on the whole process and if things go well we expect things will be made public by the end of the week, but I hope it's earlier," Shields said.

The newspaper did not name any of the players involved in the alleged recruiting violations.

SMU football coach Ron Meyer and other members of the coaching staff have remained silent on the NCAA investigation since Feb. 12 when Shields confirmed a report by the Dallas Morning News that the NCAA investigation was under way.

First reports of the investigation surfaced the same day that former SMU athletic Russ Poits announced that he was resigning to take a (Con't. on 3-B) "Probation"

Picks should improve those teams considerably

Lowly Mavs, Pistons, Nets take giant steps toward contention

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks, Detroit Pistons and New Jersey Nets, teams needing help at nearly all positions, took solid strides toward respectability in the National Basketball Association's college draft Tuesday.

The other clubs picked players to fill specific needs.

The Mavericks opened the proceedings by selecting Mark Aguirre of DePaul who reportedly has agreed to a five-year, $2.5 million contract. Then, with the ninth pick on the first round, the Mavs landed 6-6 Rolando Blackman of Kansas State. That gave them the players regarded as the best small forward and the best big guard in the draft.

"Even though I knew I'd be going No. 1, it was still the greatest feeling in the world," said Aguirre. "I have been dreaming about this for a long time. I can't wait to get going."

And Blackman said, "I'm really elated. I hope we can turn it around and make the team a winner."

While it's questionable whether their impact will be that pronounced, there seems little question that with two prize rookies joining holdovers like Tom LaGarde and Brad Davis, the Mavericks should improve on last season's 15-67 record. "We'll be a much more accomplished team, I don't think there's any question about that," said Mavericks Coach Dick Motta.

Detroit, which lost a coin flip with Dallas to determine which team would open the draft, got the player it wanted anyway with the No. 2 pick — point guard Isiah Thomas of Indiana. The Pistons used their second first-round pick, No. 12 overall, to take scrappy 6-6 forward Kelly Tripucka of Notre Dame.

Pistons General Manager Jack McCloskey said Thomas, who led Indiana to the NCAA title, "has that charisma, that magic touch. He is loaded with talent. This is what we've been waiting for, a player with the ability to finish a play, whether it's scoring or getting the ball to the right man."

New Jersey had three first-round picks and landed 6-8 Buck Williams of Maryland No. 3, 6-6 Al King of Maryland No. 10 and 6-9 Ray Tolbert of Indiana No. 18. Those three will join guard Otis Birdsong and swingman Mike Woodson, two trade acquisitions within the last 48 hours, to give the Nets a very new look.

"I don't think we're ready to challenge Boston, Milwaukee or Chicago yet," said Larry Brown, the Nets' new coach, "but with the draft picks and the veterans, we are a heck of a lot closer than I ever imagined at this time. We have a chance to move up quickly."

Aguirre and Williams turned pro after their junior years and Thomas left school as a sophomore, making this the first time since the draft was opened underclassmen by federal court order in 1970 that the first three players picked were non-seniors.

Rockets draft overshadowed by trade for Big E

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets risked their first choice in the National Basketball Association draft on a flashy forward from a small Texas college, but they invested two others in a trade for a grizzled veteran who is a hometown star.

The Rockets, who had forfeited the first-round pick to Utah earlier, used a second-round pick acquired in a trade with Boston to select 6-foot-7, 190-pound Ed Turner of Texas A&I — the 45th player chosen in Tuesday's college draft.

"I'm just pleased that I'll have a chance to play in the NBA, and now that this chance will come in Houston, I'm twice as pleased," he said.

Turner — who was drafted by the Rockets in the 10th round last year but declined in order to complete his last year of eligibility — won the Lone Star Conference scoring title the past two seasons, averaging 27.4 points a game as a junior and 18 points a game as a senior.

He also averaged 12.5 rebounds a game as a junior, 11.7 as a senior and was named to the all-conference team all three years he played at A&I.

But Turner's selection by the Western Conference champions was overshadowed by Elvin Hayes' return to the team he left nine years ago.

On Monday, the Rockets spent the other second-round choice in this year's draft and their second-round pick in 1983 to reacquire the 12-time All-Star center from the Washington Bullets.

Hayes, a former University of Houston star who had said he wanted to finish his professional career with the Rockets, was brought back primarily to lend assistance to center Moses Malone.

"This will be the first time in my career that I'll be playing next to a big guy," the 13-year NBA veteran said. "I've never had that luxury before, and that can't help but prolong my career."

And Hayes insisted he would not be upset if Coach Del Harris chose not to start him next season.

"I have the same attitude as Calvin Murphy — whatever works best for Houston will work best for me," he said.

Despite low draft, Spurs very happy

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs did not get a pick until the second round of the National Basketball Association draft, but coach Stan Albeck said the team still got two forwards high on its shopping list.

San Antonio, one of four teams with no first-round choice, exercised the 28th and 30th selections to choose 6-7 forwards Eugene Banks of Duke and Ed Rains of South Alabama in the second round.

"If you had told me from the start we could have Banks and Rains, I would have taken it and run," Albeck said.

San Antonio had given up its first-round selection to New Jersey as compensation for shot-blocking center George Johnson and its second-round pick to Washington in return for backup center Dave Corzine. However, it picked up the two second-round picks when free agent forward Larry Kenon signed with Chicago last year.

Albeck said the Spurs also hoped to pick forward Eddie Johnson of Illinois, but Kansas City selected Johnson as the 29th player chosen Tuesday.

"We had hoped to get two forwards. We really are happy the way the draft fell," Albeck said. "Philadelphia and Boston picking guards at the tail end of the first round, and then Portland taking Bryan Jackson was a surprise. At that point, we knew we'd get two excellent players."

Albeck was particularly high on Banks, who averaged 16.8 points during his four years at Duke where he signed after being the No. 1 high school college prospect in 1976. Banks was a high school All-American selection for three consecutive years at West Philadelphia, Pa.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Mark Aguirre, the $2.5 million prize of pro basketball's 1981 harvest, hopes to change his image when he starts playing for gold instead of glory.

"I know I got a bad reputation in college — partly my fault, partly not," said the 6-foot-6 All-America forward from DePaul

Faulkner has big weekend

FREDERICKSBURG — Big Springer Joe Faulkner capped an excellent weekend at the Fredericksburg race track by being named the Outstanding Trainer, with the man that rode his horses being awarded as the Outstanding Jockey.

Deep Chic, a six-year old bay gelding owned and trained by Faulkner, was the only horse who won a race on each day of the meet. Deep Chic registered a time of 17.7 on Saturday to win a 330-yard event, and then came back Sunday to win a 440-yard race, clocking a time of 23 seconds. Prior to the back-

"In college, I shied away from publicity because I didn't want to hog the limelight from my teammates. It was misunderstood. What happened was it didn't make the media go to them, it only made them think worse of me."

Personally, Aguirre, whose rare skills were fashioned on the concrete play yards, in the streets and alleys of Chicago, had hoped he might be chosen by the Chicago Bulls.

The Bulls let it be known publicly that they hoped Aguirre would be plucked — as he was — before the draft got down to their fourth rung. They didn't want to be put in the awkward position of having to pick a hotshot hometown kid whom they regarded as having a "bad attitude."

That was okay with the Mavericks, who previously had indicated a preference for Indiana's Isiah Thomas, the brilliant, little playmaker of the 1981 national collegiate (NCAA) champions.

The Mavericks chose to gamble on Aguirre's recognized raw talent and forget his press clippings. So Thomas, the No. 2 pick, was eagerly grabbed by the Detroit Pistons.

Being a second choice to Aguirre was no wound to the pride of Thomas, who acknowledged, "Aguirre is the best player in the draft."

No one would have disputed that a year and a half ago when Aguirre was burning up the hardwood as college basketball's "Player of the Year." He scored 40 or more points in 17 games, four times rang in 40-plus and led scoring each year on a team that went 26-6, 26-2, 27-2. He was on everybody's All-America.

But his critics said he had a "Bad attitude." "Indifferent." "Enormously talented but lazy." "Doesn't put out in easy games." "Stand-offish." "Uncooperative."

Aguirre said he read the criticisms and died inside.

"They were not me at all," he explained. "Ask Magic (Magic Johnson, the flashy Michigan State star who

Hawk Queens gets 14th signee in Holloway

Justin Northwest's Hollie Holloway has signed a letter of intent with the Howard College Hawk Queens, Coach Don Stevens announced yesterday.

Holloway, a 5'9" two-time All-District selection, comes from the school that is just outside Denton. As well as earning the All-District selection in basketball for two years, she was also All-District in volleyball and voted the best all-around athlete at Northwest High.

She ended her high school career by averaging 18 points and 11 rebounds per game.

Stevens said the attractive post performer should add some depth to the Hawk Queens team, which now will total 14, the highest ever during Stevens' tenure.

"She is a strong, agile player with a good shooting touch," he commented. "She played post in high school and will be used at the high post and wing position at Howard. She is extremely enthusiastic and should be a versatile player for us."

Spinks seems primed for return to throne room

(Con't. from 1-B)

The 6-foot-1½ Spinks will be spotting 1½ inches in height, five inches in reach and probably about 10 pounds in weight to the 31-year-old Holmes.

But Spinks appears to be in superb physical condition, as does Holmes, and he also seems to have his mind on his mission, something that hasn't always happened in the past.

"I've been pushing harder," says Spinks. "Everytime I think of the fight I try a little harder, make myself hurt a little more."

Spinks seems so organized for this fight that he appeared a little early for his workout and jested about his penchant for being late.

"I'm on time today," he added that he certainly will be on time Friday night.

Holmes also concluded his training Tuesday. The weigh-in will be Thursday for the fight which will highlight an ABC telecast from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. EDT.

It appears Detroit's first heavyweight championship fight since Joe Frazier knocked out Bob Foster in the second round at Cobo Hall Nov. 18, 1970, will not fill the 21,000-seat Joe Louis arena.

Spinks, who is getting about $500,000 — Holmes is being paid about $2 million — said the size of the crowd really doesn't matter to him.

But, he added, "I want to see the house sell out. I think it's going to be a hell of a fight and I don't want people to miss it."

earned from television and bowl appearances.

SMU appeared on regional television against Houston and Texas A&M last season on ABC-TV and climaxed their 7-4 season with a 46-45 last-second loss to Brigham Young in the Holiday Bowl. The bowl game was televised nationally.

The News said that if SMU had appeared the same number of times on television and in a bowl game this coming season there would have been $1 million to divide between the school and the conference.

The latest probation would be the fifth such penalty for SMU and would tie the school with Wichita State for the most times to be placed on probation, the newspaper said.

ODESSA — The Big Spring Oil Orange Crush placed second in the 20-team UGSA Division II softball tournament the past weekend.

Teams from Odessa, Midland, Big Spring and Jalisco, New Mexico competed in the tournament.

The Orange Crush won three straight games before falling to Odessa's Evans Pharmacy by 24-9 in the championship game.

They defeated two teams from Odessa and one from Jalisco along their route.

Miller, executive director of the players association, said the future change in the union's bargaining unit was inspired by what he called the owners' "underlying assumption that they can sell the players the Brooklyn Bridge and I'm the only one that stands in the way."

The latest owner to voice that opinion, Miller said, was Philadelphia's Ruly Carpenter in an informal chat

Baseball talks tense

Baseball's owners may get a chance to test a theory that, if they get Marvin Miller away from the bargaining table, the legs will fall out from under the players' position and bring a settlement.

"The owners and negotiators apparently feel they can sell the players the Brooklyn Bridge. Now they will have the opportunity to do so," Miller said Tuesday in announcing that, in the event of a strike, the players would handle the

Beautiful foods to honor the bride and groom

For the wedding at home

Today's bridal couple sees marriage as a very personal commitment, and the wedding is often shared only with their families and closest friends. To keep this intimate atmosphere, home weddings have become increasingly popular and elegant simplicity prevails.

The beautiful bridal buffet featured here captures the spirit of the occasion perfectly. Whole poached salmon from the icy waters of Alaska shimmers in aspic, and it's a subtle flavor contrast to the rice salad flavored with curry.

The Spiced Pear Wedding Cake is in the best tradition of "something old and something new." Canned Bartlett pears, so familiar to all of us in salads, compotes and as partners with other foods, produce a wedding cake with a new flavor and a new look. The delicate, sweet flavor is a perfect complement to the festive champagne punch.

Bountiful enough to serve 20 guests, this menu can be prepared a day or so ahead. The bride may do it herself, if she wishes, as her very personal "Thank you!" to those sharing her day.

POACHED SALMON WITH MUSTARD MAYONNAISE

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1-3 cup each chopped onion, carrot, celery and green pepper
- 2-1/2 quarts water
- 1/4 cup lemon juice

FOODS FIT FOR A WEDDING— Champagne Grape Punch (top right), Spiced Pear Wedding Cake and Poached Salmon with Mustard Mayonnaise, accompanied by Curried Rice Salad make sumptuous wedding feast to honor newlyweds.

Watercress or parsley
Small clusters fresh grapes
Mustard Mayonnaise
Rinse salmon; remove head and tail, if desired. Melt butter; saute onion, celery, carrot and green pepper 5 minutes. Add water, lemon juice and seasonings; heat to boiling. Wrap salmon in cheesecloth leaving long ends on the cloth to serve as handles for removing from poaching liquid. Immerse salmon into boiling liquid; add additional boiling water, if necessary, to cover salmon. Cover, reduce heat and simmer gently. Allow 8 to 10 minutes per pound or 10 minutes per inch thickness of fish. Remove salmon from liquid; gently remove skin while still warm. Strain liquid; cool completely. Soften gelatine in 2 cups cooled liquid; heat to dissolve gelatine completely. Chill until mixture barely starts to thicken. Spoon gelatine mixture over salmon, using just enough to coat salmon completely. Chill. Decorate salmon with cucumber; spoon a thin layer of gelatine mixture over decorated salmon. Chill. Garnish platter as desired. Serve with Mustard Mayonnaise. Makes about 20 servings.

Mustard Mayonnaise: Combine 2 cups mayonnaise, 1/2 cup minced parsley, 2 tablespoons each minced onion and Dijon mustard and dash white pepper. Chill thoroughly. Makes about 2 cups.
CURRIED RICE SALAD
2 tablespoons curry powder
1-3 cup butter
6 cups chicken broth
3 cups uncooked rice
1/4 cup each chopped green pepper and green onion
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups mayonnaise
3 tablespoons milk
1 cup frozen, thawed peas
1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds

Parsley
Saute curry in butter several minutes. Stir in chicken broth; bring to boil. Add rice and green pepper; cover and simmer 20 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed. Stir in green onion and lemon juice. Chill thoroughly. Combine mayonnaise and milk; blend well. Stir into rice mixture along with peas and almonds. Garnish with parsley. Makes about 20 servings.
SPICED PEAR WEDDING CAKE
1 can (16 ounce) Bartlett pear halves or slices
2-1/2 cups flour
1/4 cup each sugar and packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1/4 cup each shortening and softened butter
1-1/2 teaspoons each baking soda and salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon each baking powder, ground cloves and allspice

1/2 cup finely chopped nuts
Powdered sugar

Drain pears, reserving 2-3 cup syrup; puree pears in blender or food processor. Combine all ingredients except nuts and powdered sugar in large mixer bowl. Beat at low speed 30 seconds, scraping bowl constantly.

Beat at high speed 3 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Fold in nuts. Pour into greased and floured 10 cup tube or bundt pan. Bake at 350 degrees F 50 to 55 minutes or until wooden pick inserted near center of cake comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan and finish cooling on wire rack. Dust with powdered sugar. Decorate with fresh or silk flowers. Makes 16 to 20 servings.

CHAMPAGNE GRAPE PUNCH

- 3 cups green, red or blue-black grapes, halved and seeded if necessary
- 1/4 cup orange liqueur
- 3 fifths champagne, chilled

In punch bowl, combine grapes and orange liqueur; let stand 30 minutes. Pour champagne over grapes and liqueur. To serve, ladle punch and a few grapes into each glass. Makes about 24 punch cup servings.

Recipe may be doubled or tripled.

For the bridal shower

Part of the excitement of a wedding is the bridal shower. The hostess knows that the fun of opening gifts (without breaking the ribbons!) will be hard to top. Ambrosia, the food of the gods, should keep the high spirits going. This Pear-Grape Jewel Ambrosia is a luscious version of everyone's favorite dessert—cheesecake.

Festooned with slices of canned Bartlett pears and succulent California table grapes, it's lovely enough to please the ladies and hearty enough to please the men, if the party adopts the new mode of including both sexes. The grapes add history as well as beauty. There were references to grapes as far back in time as 4000 B.C., though today's improved strains provide bigger, juicier varieties. Luscious in flavor, they continue the wedding tradition of something old.

PEAR-GRAPE JEWEL AMBROSIA

- 1 can (16 ounce) Bartlett pear halves
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 tablespoons sugar
1 cup dairy sour cream
Coconut Crust
1/4 cup green, red or blue-black grapes, halved and seeded if necessary

Glaze

Grape clusters
Drain pears; reserve syrup. Set aside 3 halves for garnish; chop remaining pears. Soften gelatine in 1/2 cup reserved pear syrup; stir in beaten egg yolks and milk. Cook and stir over boiling water in double boiler 5 to 10 minutes or until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. Cool 10 minutes. Beat cream cheese, lemon juice and peel and vanilla until smooth; slowly add cooled gelatine mixture. If necessary, chill mixture until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually beat in sugar until stiff peaks form. On low speed of electric mixer, beat egg whites and sour cream into cream cheese mixture. Fold in chopped pears; turn into crust-lined pan. Refrigerate at least 4 hours. Several hours before serving, slice each reserved pear half in fourths; arrange pears and grapes on cheesecake. Spoon glaze thinly but evenly over all. Refrigerate until glaze is firm. Run warm knife around edge of cheesecake then remove sides of springform pan. Garnish with grape clusters. Makes 16 to 20 servings.

Coconut Crust: Combine 1-1/2 cups flaked coconut, 1/4 cup finely chopped almonds and 1/4 cup butter or margarine in 8-1/2 or 9-inch springform pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. about 15 minutes or until golden; stir occasionally. Press over bottom of pan. Cool completely.

Glaze: Combine 2 teaspoons cornstarch and dash salt. Add water if necessary to remaining reserved pear syrup to equal 1/2 cup liquid; gradually stir into cornstarch mixture. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Stir in 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Cool slightly.

Alaska's Denali more like an ecosystem than a park

EDITOR'S NOTE: There are 334 sites in the National Park System. In the first of a five-part series, AP Writer Bruce Bartley looks at one national park that has escaped the problems of overcrowding and commercialism that afflict many others.

By BRUCE BARTLEY

DENALI NATIONAL PARK, Alaska (AP) — Denali National Park doesn't try to be all things to all people. It's more a park for animals than for humans. Even Mount McKinley — North America's highest peak — is a secondary attraction.

It is 5.7 million acres of splendid solitude, bigger than seven states. The National Park Service doesn't talk about managing a park, it talks about managing an ecosystem. Unmarked by pollution, hundreds of miles from anything remotely resembling a big city, and with only one road running through it, the 64-year-old Denali is a park from the past. Rangers still use dog sled teams for working and patrolling in the winter.

"We're probably where Yellowstone was 50-60 years ago," says Bill Truesdell, Denali's chief naturalist.

At the same time, Denali may be a park of the future when it comes to coping with ever-increasing hordes of visitors.

Private vehicle traffic virtually is prohibited along its mostly gravel 87-mile road, with free shuttle buses substituting for the traffic jams plaguing many of the nation's most popular parks.

Superintendent Bob Cunningham, a wildlife biologist, says he believes the lack of traffic contributes significantly to healthy animal populations. He says his mail indicates most visitors support the auto restrictions.

Truesdell says a minimum of 200 grizzly bears, 1,000 caribou, 1,200 moose and a like number of sheep are in the core area of the park.

The large mammals are the most visible during the peak visitation period from May through August, but more than 30 other wildlife species and 155 bird species share the park habitat.

Among the exotic birds using the park tundra for their nesting grounds are the long-tailed Jaeger, which migrates from Japan, and the arctic tern, which comes from Antarctica each year.

There are no flashy curio shops and junk food emporiums that blaze the way to many national parks. Denali is announced simply, by one of the Park Service's distinctive brown wooden signs.

There are hotel-type sleeping accommodations for only about 300 people in the park boundaries and a lesser number near the entrance. Two train cars, each sleeping about 50 people, serve as a youth hostel, the only other pillow space for rent. There are seven campgrounds with 228 spaces available.

Others spending the night in the park must do so in a tent or under the stars. The inner park area is divided into 34 backcountry units. From eight to 50 campers are allowed into each unit each night. Their camps must be at least one-quarter mile from the road.

What used to be called McKinley National Park now is a park within a park. Laws enacted in December expanded the park from 1.9 million acres to 5.7 million acres and changed the name to correspond to the Indian name for the mountain, meaning "Great One."

A proposal to rename the peak is pending before the U.S. Board on Geographic Names. The Ohio congressional delegation is opposed, on grounds that it would be an affront to a native son and the nation's 25th president, William McKinley.

The "old park" will be managed strictly as a wilderness. In areas surrounding the core, local residents who traditionally have hunted and fished in the lands now encompassed by the park boundaries may continue to do so. And in the extreme northwestern and southwestern corners of the "new" park, sport hunting will be allowed.

Denali is not without problems. Despite its size, probably 80 percent of the visitation takes place along the road. The location of the road and park headquarters at the northeastern end of the park, some 80 miles from Mount McKinley, creates an uneven distribution of people.

Although the mountain's presence dominates the park, the closest visitors get to its summit on the road is about 30 miles.

The shuttle bus system is approaching saturation.

Cunningham says. A fleet of some 50 leased school buses plies the road throughout most of the daylight hours with a goal of one bus past any given spot every half hour.

"But probably the worst thing you could do is put more roads in there," Cunningham says. Of Denali's annual operating budget of $3 million, the bus system eats up $1.2 million.

Cunningham says existing facilities are designed to handle the 45,000 people who visited the park annually prior to 1972. That year, the first that the Parks Highway between Fairbanks and Anchorage was open, visitation doubled. By 1974 it had doubled again. Now it has reached 250,000 a year.

Denali, like other national parks, has traditionally lacked money to maintain facilities, says Cunningham, who worked at the Theodore Roosevelt, Yellowstone, Cascades and Gateway park units before coming to Alaska last fall.

Still, Cunningham says even if he were given virtually a blank check he wouldn't add a lot of facilities or personnel.

"Our biggest long-term problem is to maintain the ecosystem as we received it," he says. What he really needs, he adds, are more biologists to care for park animals and money to buy or lease an airplane to help protect the park's wildlife.

SPLENDID SOLITUDE — Alaska's Denali National Park is 5.7 million acres of splendid solitude, bigger than seven states.

President Grant first to set aside parkland

President Ulysses S. Grant began it all on March 1, 1872, when he signed into law a bill setting aside Yellowstone National Park as a "pleasuring ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people."

The 2 million acres in northwestern Wyoming became not only the first national park in the United States but the first in the world.

Since then, the system has grown to 334 parks covering 81.5 million acres in 49 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, Saipan and the Virgin Islands. Delaware lacks national parkland.

Last year the parks were visited by 220 million people — a far cry from the handful of visitors Yellowstone attracted in its early days.

Those early tourists had to travel two weeks on horseback from the nearest rail line to reach the park, home of Old Faithful and other geysers. They had to keep a lookout for possible Indian attacks.

In the 1890s, four additional national parks were established — Yosemite, Sequoia and General Grant, now known as Kings Canyon, all in California, and Mount Rainier in the state of Washington.

In 1906, Congress passed the Antiquities Act to stop looting at prehistoric Indian sites in the Southwest. The law gave the president authority to designate land owned by the government as a national monument for protection. President Theodore Roosevelt, an active outdoorsman, created 18 such monuments including the Grand Canyon.

The National Park Service was created in 1916 as the agency in the Interior Department responsible for running the parks.

Its first director, Stephen Mather, a wealthy Chicago businessman, began an aggressive expansion program. When he retired in 1929, the service had grown to 25 national parks and 32 national monuments.

In 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt got Congress to transfer to the Park Service more than 70 national battlefields and monuments being managed by the War Department and the Forest Service. The Civilian Conservation Corps also was responsible for adding $220 million of badly needed roads, campgrounds, trails and visitor facilities.

In World War II's gasoline rationing, the Park Service fell on hard times. By the late '40s, it was warning that its badly deteriorating facilities were in need of $321 million in improvements.

In 1956 Congress began a 10-year, $1 billion effort to upgrade every park by the service's 50th anniversary.

In 1961, Congress approved the Cape Cod National Seashore, the first time federal funds were used to buy park land. Since 1978, the Park Service has nearly tripled in acreage, largely due to the addition of 44 million acres of parkland in Alaska.

Eight stores burned in Brooklyn grocery war

NEW YORK (AP) — When a "grocery war" in Brooklyn got tough, and triple-coupon days and ground beef specials no longer brought in the customers, some of the stores started going up in flames.

It was, said Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold, the "boldest and most unique arson-for-profit scheme yet uncovered."

Ten supermarket owners, all Latin Americans, were indicted last week on charges they hired arsonists to torch the stores of eight competitors in 1980. Two men were accused of actually starting a grocery store blaze.

Gold said the store owners and their associates are connected with as many as 150 grocery stores in Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens and The Bronx.

"It's basically an anti-trust case — they were trying to get rid of their competition," said Rhonda Nager, a spokeswoman for Gold.

Supermarket arson is not uncommon in the inner cities of America, but law enforcement officials say it usually involves a store owner in financial straits who burns his own store, as depicted in a recent film by the National Fire Prevention Association.

No specific statistics on such fires are available, but there is evidence that it is not a rare occurrence. Prior to last week's indictments, some insurance companies had held up payments to owners of the Brooklyn stores that were torched, believing it may have been the work of the owners themselves.

"When someone does do that, he's usually in dire straits," said Jack Cergol, a spokesman for the Food Marketing Institute, an industry group. "Traditionally, the ones that go under are the ones that are not providing a service to the community."

In the Brooklyn case, the supermarket owners were accused of paying the arsonists between $150 and $400 per man, per fire, plus bonuses and spending money between jobs.

In addition, expenses were paid — usually $60 for axes and gasoline — as was the cost of lookouts hired to stand guard as the arsonists hammered holes in the roofs and set the fires, authorities alleged.

Nine of the owners are Dominicans and the other is a Colombian. That ethnic tie, apparently played a major part in the conspiracy.

"They're a very close-knit group, like a lot of groups that come to this country," Ms. Nager said. "They were in constant touch, constantly talking. They didn't have to meet."

Sy Lewenthal, executive general manager of Pioneer Supermarkets, said, "The industry itself is ultra-competitive, but I never thought I'd see anything like this." Two Pioneer stores were hit by fires that caused $5.9 million in damages. One still has not reopened.

Arnold Katz, owner of Speedway Met Supermarket, said he, too, found it hard to believe. But he said he "rather suspected" that a competitor was behind the string of fires.

Katz explained that there are three supermarkets in his neighborhood, including his own, a Key Food Supermarket and an Elite Supermarket.

The Key Food mart was torched on May 23. The fire caused $3 million in damages and the store still has not reopened. Then, after an botched arson attempt on June 24, Katz's store was gutted by a $490,000 fire on Aug. 7.

True to its name, the Elite Supermarket alone was unscathed. It is one of the markets owned by the men charged with the conspiracy, according to Ms. Nager.

Katz's market, like most of the others that were torched, is in a poor neighborhood that is growing poorer, with public housing nearby.

"The area really can't support more than a couple of markets," said Katz, "and there were three. They just decided to burn down the others."

Half of the supermarkets that were burned have not opened their doors since. Pioneer's Lewenthal said many have been waiting for their insurance companies to pay off.

"I think that it's been a shame that insurance companies have held back payments," he said. "These are people who work seven days a week, 18 hours a day, and they don't deserve this. Maybe now, with the indictments, we'll get some action."

But Lewenthal pointed out that in the year since the fires hit, inflation has frittered away insurance benefits, and some owners may not be able to rebuild.

Stores that have reopened report business as usual. Dan's Supreme Supermarket sustained $1.2 million damage in three fires on April 27, June 25 and July 24. It re-opened after four months.

"The people — the customers — are pleased," said Paul Julme, assistant manager of Dan's Supreme. "They're glad to have their store."

The fires, Julme said, were something of a compliment. "We must be doing something right."

Katz also says he won't be driven out of the neighborhood by a fear of arson.

"We've been here for 33 years, and we're not going to stop now," he said.

Rev. Smith re-elected as Baptist president

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Re-elected in the face of the strongest opposition to a Southern Baptist president in more than 20 years, the Rev. Bailey Smith says the 40 percent vote against him "wasn't a protest of anything."

Smith, 42, was re-elected Tuesday by a vote of 6,934 to 4,524 over challenger Abner McCall, chancellor of Baylor University. The contest was an unusual break with custom that normally gives the president of the 13.6 million member denomination an unopposed second term.

McCall said his reluctant candidacy was to "carry the standard" for those who were protesting pressure for a strictly literal interpretation of the Bible.

Some of Smith's backers had been demanding that professors and officials at Southern Baptist seminaries and other agencies of the denomination meet stricter standards on the issue of Biblical inerrancy — the belief that the Bible is a completely accurate rendering of God's word.

At a news conference following his victory on the first day of the Southern Baptist Convention, Smith said, "I wish everybody believed every word of the Bible, because it's the truth, but I have no plans or agenda to attack anyone... I think what we don't need is to be rude or use it (Biblical inerrancy) as an ax."

Smith, speaking to 13,009 "messengers," refused twice during the news conference to answer questions on whether he still believes that "God Almighty does not hear the prayer of a Jew."

Smith made that statement last August when he spoke to the National Affairs Briefing in Dallas sponsored by The Roundtable, a right-wing political-religious group.

Smith explained that a subsequent remark in a sermon that Jews "have funny-looking noses," was a private joke with a Jewish friend who was in his audience. He has never retracted his statement about Jewish prayers.

He said the major thrust of the Southern Baptists will be "to win people to Christ."

He also said, "All of us need to be concerned about world hunger and Baptists have to be more aggressive in helping blacks. Southern Baptists must say to the world, 'There is only one kind of person in the world, a person for whom Jesus Christ has died.'"

Regarding the election, Smith said, "The only reason Dr. McCall got so many votes, is because he deserves them."

But McCall said he was surprised at the size of the vote for him and commented that those who come to a Southern Baptist Convention aren't delegates. "They're messengers, and I think they sent a message."

"Our program depends on the complete voluntary cooperation of every Baptist and each individual autonomous church," said McCall. "When 40 percent of the people in a cooperative program register a protest and say 'we don't like the way things are going, this is a significant number of disaffected people.'"

Smith had made some concessions to the moderate faction earlier in the day, including an agreement that past doctrinal statements are sufficient.

Striking mine workers picket in five states

By the Associated Press

Striking mine construction workers picketed in five states today and thousands of coal miners, just back from their own 10-week walkout, stayed off the job in what one union official described as "brother fighting brother."

Meanwhile in Washington, talks between the strikers and the Association of Bituminous Contractors recessed after contractors asked for time to "research" issues in the walkout by 11,000 mine-construction workers, according to Tom Toler, chief negotiator for the United Mine Workers' construction workers.

Pickets appeared at coal mines in West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Alabama and Illinois early today at the start of the midnight "hoot-owl" shift, union officials said. On Tuesday, picket lines by construction workers in six states idled some 8,000 miners.

"Right now what you have is brother fighting brother. That's what it amounts to," said James Kelly, president of UMW District 4 in Pennsylvania. He said the miners, who adopted a new contract last weekend, are anxious to get back to work.

Job security and wages are the key issues in the construction talks, said Toler, president of UMW Construction Local 1582 in southern West Virginia. He returned to Charleston from Washington, D.C., Tuesday.

"We're still far apart on seven or eight issues, including job security and the monetary issue," he said, refusing to elaborate.

Toler predicted, however, the construction workers could be back on the jobs in two or three days if contractors "get down to some serious bargaining."

workers' contract expired April 6, but they quit working March 27 when the 160,000 UMW miners went on strike. Miners returned to work Monday after a 72-day strike under a new contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

UMW construction workers, who build the mines and coal preparation plants that miners work in, negotiate separately with contractors.

"I think the feeling of all the miners and all the construction workers is that the contracts should be negotiated and expired at the same time," said Kelly.

Toler said he didn't know anything about the picketing, but the local's recording secretary, Clarence George, vowed the picketing would continue until the construction locals get a contract.

Local 1582 is the UMW's largest construction local, with 2,300 members in 19 southern West Virginia counties. The local had pickets out in six counties Tuesday, George said.

The most widespread picketing Tuesday appeared to be in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. In West Virginia, UMW District 17 Vice President Cecil Roberts said about 65 percent of the mines in the district, the union's largest, were shut down.

ABC headquarters in Washington referred questions Tuesday to spokesman William Howe but said he was not available for comment.

Studies show couples waiting longer to divorce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women opted for divorce in 1979 at twice the rate they did 12 years earlier, according to a new government study.

But the National Center for Health Statistics says couples destined for divorce courts are waiting longer to make the split and are leaving fewer children behind from each broken marriage. The number of divorces granted in the United States tripled in the last 20 years to reach 1.181 million in 1979. Nearly a third, 439,000, occurred in the 17 states counted as the South, the center said in its report released Monday.

The 1979 national total is the largest ever recorded in the United States. It compares with 1.13 million divorces granted in 1978 and 395,000 granted in 1959.

The divorce rate also has climbed significantly over the past two decades. Some 5.4 divorces per 1,000 population were granted in 1979, nearly 2 1/2 times the rate for 1959.

There were 22.8 divorces for every 1,000 married women (15 years and older) in the population in 1979, more than double the 11.2 divorces per thousand married women in 1967, the report said.

The median length of marriages dissolved in 1979 was 6.8 years compared to 6.6 years in 1977 and in 1978 and a range of between 6.5 and 6.7 years during 1970 to 1976.

While the report showed that more children were involved in broken marriages — 1.18 million children in 1979 compared with 562,000 in 1963 — the average number of children per divorcing couple has declined steadily from the all-time high of 1.36 in 1964. In 1979, it amounted to one per couple.

The center's statistics are based on sample data from 30 states which comprise a divorce registration area. Besides the 439,000 divorces in the South there were 293,000 in the north central states, 272,000 in the West and 177,000 in the Northeast.

The West had the highest divorce rate with 6.6 per 1,000 population. It compared with 6.1 per 1,000 in the South, 5 per 1,000 in the north central states and 3.6 per 1,000 in the Northeast.

The states granting the largest numbers of divorces were California 137,683; Texas 92,399; Florida 69,707; New York 64,420; and Ohio 59,548. North Dakota, a state with one of the smallest populations, had the fewest divorces, 2,094, in 1979.

Analyst: Daily papers threatened by weeklies

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The daily newspaper is threatened by new electronic information systems, a newspaper analyst says, but a far greater danger lies with smaller weekly and free "shopper" newspapers that lure local readers.

But John Morton, vice president of John Muir & Co. of Washington, assured about 1,700 newspaper industry executives Monday the modern daily newspaper is far from obsolete and will continue to serve its readers well into the next century.

Morton spoke at the opening session of the 53rd annual production management conference of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Newspapers, Morton said, are threatened by new developments in electronic information systems that utilize television screens to deliver large amounts of information from computers.

These systems, now available in some libraries, universities and large businesses, "are very good at answering specific questions, at supplying specific data to fulfill specific requests," Morton said.

But, Morton said, sophisticated consumers who call upon newspapers for their information also want to be informed about happenings for the first time.

"The problem for the consumer comes when he does not know what he wants to know," Morton said. "They pick it (a newspaper) up and page through it because they want to know what's in there. That's why advertisers put ads in there."

In addition, Morton said, electronic information systems are not expected to be affordable for home use for years to come.
