'Great Big Spring Hold Up' nets gifts for three victims

WELCOME TO BIG SPRING — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sims, second and third from left, and their granddaughter Nancy, 9, were the first "victims" of the "Great Big Spring Hold Up" Tuesday, for summer, 1981. The event is sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and many other Big Spring businesses. Mark Sheedy, left, assistant chamber manager, presented the Arizona family with gifts, and State Trooper Glen Redmon drove the DPS car used to pull over the Arizona travelers. Rose Thomas, right, of Skipper Travel, will serve as a guide to a family which will be stopped June 28.

By CAROL HART
State Trooper Glen Redmon spotted the car with Arizona plates and sped down the highway after it. Passing motorists may have wondered why Redmon had four passengers in the car as he followed the other vehicle. Joe Sims, driver of the Arizona car, was "trying to figure out what I had done wrong." But, the offense was small on Sims part.

Following a routine license check, Redmon assured the Arizonian, his wife, Jane, and granddaughter, Nancy, that they had not done anything wrong. Rather, the three were "victims" of the "Great Big Spring Hold Up."

Then, Mark Sheedy, Rose Thomas, two of the coordinators of the event, and two members of the press piled out of the DPS car to tell the family what they had won, and to catch their reactions.

And the family soon learned that being "victims" of the "Great Big Spring Hold Up" wasn't such a bad deal after all.

Sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and KBYG radio, the "Hold Up" features a number of gifts for the family. After verifying that they could spend Tuesday night in Big Spring, the Sims were escorted to the Mid-Continent Inn, where they were to receive a free night's lodging.

Sheedy, who is assistant manager of the Chamber, told the family that they were to receive a meal at the Brandin' Iron Inn, tickets to "Alice in Wonderland," ice cream from "Baskin-Robbins," a tour of the Heritage Museum, and a breakfast at Herman's restaurant before the family hit the road again today.

The Arizona family was the third car to be pulled over by the Big Spring delegation Tuesday. A family from Missouri, and another from New Mexico, said they would like to stay, but felt they needed to move on down the road before nightfall.

But Sims and his family graciously accepted the offer to stay. The Sims are from Prescott, Ariz., and granddaughter Nancy is from Phoenix. The three had been to Dallas, where Joe had attended his class reunion. They were returning to Phoenix to leave Nancy with her parents.

The "Great Big Spring Hold Up" was reinstated this year after a lapse of a year, Sheedy said. The event was begun about three years ago, as a Big Spring promotional, in hopes that the family chosen would be good will ambassadors when they left the city. A vote from the Chamber tourist and convention committee this year was what it took to start the "Hold Up" again.

Quest for H. C. baseball coach under way

P. W. Malone Science Building dedicated

Tuesday's Howard County Junior College District trustee meeting occurred in two segments — the first session ended about 1:25 p.m., to permit those present to attend dedication ceremonies for the P.W. Malone Science Building.

Fellow trustees had voted to honor the veteran member of the college board a couple of months ago by naming the structure for him.

Both Dr. Malone and his wife were present for the ritual, which took place outside the south entrance to the building. The ceremony included the unveiling of a colored portrait of the co-founder of the Malone-Hogan Hospital and Clinic. It will shortly be located in a wall recess inside the building, protected by glass. Dr. Malone has been a member of the board for 35 years.

College district trustees voted unanimously to support HC President Dr. Charles Hays in his quest for a baseball coach, a decision which bids fair to restore baseball to the school's curriculum no later than next spring.

Board member Harold Davis applauded the decision but said he thought such a person should have dual duties. Davis also reminded the others present that trying to mold a baseball program without offering scholarships would not be easy.

Dr. Hays said it was possible that the baseball team would play a split schedule, operating in the late spring and again in the fall.

William Harvey Rothell, formerly with the Big Spring Independent School District, was hired as a school counselor. The college's new assistant librarian is Norris Maxwell, who succeeded Roy C. Kaufman, who resigned without revealing future plans.

The school's new journalism teacher will be Mrs. Jack Woodley, wife of the high school principal at Forsan. She succeeds Steve Lacey, who resigned several months ago, effective at the end of the 1980-81 school year, for the expressed purpose of returning to college to work on additional credits.

Both Marie Patterson was hired as an interpreter for Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. The board also voted to accept the resignation of James Fisher, an instructor at SWCID.

The Big Spring firm of Lee and Reynolds was retained as the auditor for the school district.

The trustees voted to issue a contract on a bid of $53,973 for the addition of a Westinghouse elevator to the Garrett Coliseum. It was one of two bids received. The elevator can be installed in about 60 days.

R&A Electric and Lighting Supply submitted the low bid of $5,600 for a 500 KVA transformer at Howard College. Two other firms also entered bids for installation of the transformer.

On the advice of Dr. Hays, the trustees decided to take no action on the removal of four buildings in the Big Spring Industrial Park to district property. Hays said that the lowest bid, which was in excess of $25,000, actually was for each building and did not include such items as site preparation, the removal of power lines and restoration of the buildings once they had been moved.

The board also delayed action on a proposal to provide SWCID with a mascot and school colors. Dr. Douglass Burke, chief executive officer at the college, said more attention would be given to the challenge of providing a name and colors before the next board meeting.

A special meeting of the board was set for June 20 by board president Don McKinney.

VETERAN TRUSTEE IS HONORED — Dr. P.W. Malone (center), 35-year member of the Howard County Junior College District, stands beside his portrait during a dedication ceremony which took place outside the district's science and math building Tuesday. The building will henceforth be called the P.W. Malone Science and Math Building. The portrait will hang inside the building. Participating in the brief ritual were Dr. Charles Hays (left), president of the junior college district; and Don McKinney (right), chairman of the district's board of trustees. Mrs. Malone also was present for the ceremony.

'We're sending them to prison to punish them'

Court's prison ruling pleases police chief

By ANDREA COHEN

Some local officials are happy about Monday's U.S. Supreme Court ruling that two prisoners to a cell is not unconstitutional.

The case involved Lucasville Prison, Ohio's only maximum security prison.

"I'm not surprised and I'm very pleased about the decision," says John Allman, superintendent of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

"What we have at work is a society and a prison where people will take a little piece of a large whole, take it out of context and make it look bad."

"They took one small part of an institutional environment and made it look bad. The Supreme Court looked at the whole thing and said it would be nice to put one man to a cell, but you have to look at everything. You have to look at the quality of the recreation, the food, the environment. The Supreme Court says this one minute point of two to a cell is not unconstitutional. That's wisdom."

By an 8-1 vote, the court ruled the practice of "double celling," a staple of prison life nationwide, does not necessarily violate the Constitution's protection against cruel and unusual punishment.

The decision reversed a federal appeals court ruling that would have forced Ohio's only maximum security prison at Lucasville, to stop housing two inmates in 63-square-foot cells.

"The Constitution does not mandate comfortable prisons, and prisons of (the Lucasville) type, which house persons convicted of serious crimes, cannot be free of discomfort," Justice Lewis F. Powell wrote in an opinion reflecting the judgment of five of the court's nine members.

'They pulled the crimes'

'we're not sending them to prison to give them pleasures of life'

The timing of the Supreme Court decision comes just before the state completes its appeal to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals fighting sweeping reforms of the Texas prison system ordered by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice. Included in Justice's order is a one man-one prison cell provision that must be met by Aug. 1, 1983.

The opinion of Powell appeared to be telling all federal judges to give greater respect to the administrative decisions of state legislators and prison officials.

"They're not saying we're taking a hands-off stance with prisons," says Allman. "They're just not taking that one piece of prison life. They're looking at the whole picture. If you took it as a whole, if the whole environment was bad, that would be unconstitutional."

"Ideally, one to a cell would be best. Reality is a theory, not a reality in most human existence. But it's not reality with money and priorities in incarceration. It's an unreal goal."

Big Spring Police Chief Elwood Hoherz also agrees with the decision. "I don't think the taxpayers are responsible to make prison life too luxurious after a crime is committed," he says. "They shouldn't live any better than they would outside the prison. Part of their punishment is being put in a prison that isn't too luxurious."

On the reforms ordered by Judge

Justice, Hoherz feels he is putting an undue burden on Texas citizens.

"Judge Justice has a liberal philosophy left of most of the population of Texas," he says. "He's saying either have the prisoners released or build new facilities where they would be provided better for than on the outside."

"I was afraid a lot of prisoners were going to be released because of overcrowding that would cause problems for the police community. They pulled the crimes. We're not sending them to prison to give them the pleasures of life. We're sending them to prison to punish them."

Calling the Texas Prison System a good system, Hoherz continues, "If anybody's ever eaten at the Texas Prison, the food is really good. They provide good food and good sanitary conditions."

Advance tickets for rodeo on sale

Advance tickets for the 48th annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion, scheduled June 24-27, have gone on sale at Ward's Boot and Saddle Shop, Hillman's Saddlery, Smallwood's Western Wear, Citizen's Federal Credit Union, Driver Insurance Agency, the Chamber of Commerce, First Federal Savings and Loan, First National Bank and Big Spring Savings.

The tickets sell for $4 adult and $2 children 12 years of age and under.

The show, which will be produced by Tommy Steiner, starts at 8:30 o'clock nightly.

WORDS OF FREEDOM

The land of America. Always the hope and the promise. And yet, in 1890, some census taker counted heads as best he could and declared that there was no more free land ... no more frontier. That was in 1890, mind you. Nearly a hundred years ago. And, yet today, there is still plenty of wilderness left. Beautiful, untouched wilderness.

"Young hearts, young leaves, flowers, animals, the winds and the streams all rejoicing together."

That's how John Muir described it. Sometimes, though, when we feel the beat of too many axes or the flow stilled in too many rivers, we worry and we wonder.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Actors rake in loot

Q. Who are the higher paid actors, those in the movies or those in television?

A. It's hard to say. Burt Reynolds is supposed to command a figure of $3 million plus a share of the profits for each motion picture he makes. TV actor Alan Alda is supposed to get $225,000 for each MASH episode plus writing and directing pay. If that be true, that would amount to $5,850,000 for 26 segments of the long-running series, plus residuals. Reynolds and Alda, however, accept work in both the movies and in TV.

Inside: Reagan meets press

THE NATION'S LARGEST television advertiser has withdrawn sponsorship from more than 50 TV shows, saying a large segment of the population is objecting to sex and violence. See story page 3A.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS ARE MOVING TOWARD undoing some spending reductions which President Reagan says 'they know cannot be made' and would only lead to congressional backsliding on the budget. See story page 7A.

Calendar: American Legion

THURSDAY

The American Legion Post 355 and Voiture 1538 will hold the election of officers at the Post home at 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening. All members are urged to attend this important meeting.

Miss Ebony beauty contest, Howard College auditorium, 8 p.m.

THURSDAY
The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees will meet at 8:30 p.m. for supper with a business meeting to follow at 7:30, at the Kentwood Adult Center.

FRIDAY
Third Annual Juneteenth Barbecue sponsored by the Webb Spring Lions begins at 11 a.m. The Barbecue will be held at the Old Settlers Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park. Cost is $4.50 a plate.

Tops on TV: 'Silent Victory'

Stockard Channing stars in the CBS feature of "Silent Victory." The story involves the life of Kitty O'Neil a deaf woman who conquered her affliction to become a Hollywood stunt woman, and is the holder of the women's land speed record. The big event will be shown at 7 p.m. as will the all new "Charlie's Angels" on ABC.

Outside: Warm

Fair and warmer this afternoon with continued warm temperatures through Thursday. Warmer tomorrow with the even warmer temperatures tomorrow afternoon. The high today will be in the upper 50's, the low tonight will be in the low 50's. The high tomorrow will be in the low 60's. Winds will be southerly at 10-15 mph increasing to 15-20 mph this evening.

First Ebony Pageant booked Thursday at HC

The Ada Bell Demont Civic and Art Club will present its first annual Ebony Pageant and fashion show Thursday at 7 p.m. in Howard College Auditorium.

Participants will model casual wear, swim, and evening wear.

The winner will be crowned about 8:30 p.m. and will receive a plaque and $50 as the prize. Runners-up will receive plaques.

Contestants are Cynthia Washington, Carol Cooper, Sharon Mathews, Pam Banks, Linda Magers, Debra Green, Kymme Pinkard, Teresa Ezell, and Diandra Domino all from Big Spring.

There will be singing and dancing as entertainment and the public is invited.

Admission is $1.

Debra Woods will present plaques and flowers. Miss Woods was a contestant last year in the Miss Howard College pageant where she placed second runner-up and was named Miss Congeniality. Milton Perkins will be emcee.

Several businesses in town donated flowers and decorations for the pageant.

The winner will be featured in a parade at 10 a.m. Friday beginning at Lakeview School, continuing down N.W. Fourth to the Lamesa Highway. Then the parade will turn north to Dairy Queen proceeding across San Antonio St. down 6th, and back to the school.

Formula industry blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The infant-formula industry's aggressive promotional practices, sanctioned by doctors and hospitals, are contributing to death and disease among thousands of American newborns, a coalition of health and minority rights groups charged today.

The groups told a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on oversight and investigations that at least 5,000 infants die each year in the United States due to misuse of infant formula and bottle-feeding among poorer families.

"Many hospitals, particularly those serving large low-income populations, do not provide an atmosphere conducive to breast feeding," said Lois Salisbury of Public Advocates Inc., a San Francisco law firm representing the coalition.

"Hospital practices such as the distribution of free samples of infant formula and literature published by the formula companies obviously promote formula use," she said.

The coalition petitioned the Reagan administration to adopt tough new rules to control the formula industry, proposing that the government cut off Medicaid payments to any hospital that allows companies to give away free samples of formula to new mothers.

The industry, represented by the Infant Formula Council of Atlanta, said the charges by Public Advocates are based on misleading figures.

There has been a sharp decline in infant deaths in the last 10 years, including those born to poorer families, the council said, adding that the coalition "appeared to be proposing a campaign of enforced universal breast feeding regardless of the mother's or the physician's choice."

Congress is turning to the domestic side of the formula controversy following approval of a House resolution denouncing the Reagan administration's opposition to an international code on marketing the product.

Firemen want raise

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Firefighters here, negotiating with city officials, say they want at least a 12.5 percent pay raise and a four-hour reduction in their work week.

"We want nothing less than the cost of living last year, somewhere between 12.5 and 13 percent," said Buddy Mass, president of the local International Association of Firefighters union. "That will be our bottom line."

Currently a rookie firefighter earns $1,131 a month, while a veteran entering his sixth year makes $1,461.

Mass said that Austin now has passed San Antonio in firefighter pay.

"We are doing a study," he said. "We think San Antonio now ranks fifth or sixth, maybe even seventh, among Texas cities." The city ranks third in population.

Mass said all city employees should be given a pay boost equal to the annual cost-of-living increase in negotiations with city officials that opened Monday.

AJRA Queen candidates will be selling tickets

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Rodeo Queen entrants in the American Junior Rodeo Association rodeo, to be held July 1-4 in Colorado City, were announced Monday during a news conference at the Chamber of Commerce.

The three young ladies are Diane Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gregory; Jody Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.A. Whitesides; and Jana Northcutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Northcutt.

AJRA Queen candidates will be selling tickets as part of the competition as well as being judged on a basis of personality, horsemanship and appearance.

Recovery of $5,186,664 plus damages requested

A suit was filed recently in 118th District Court by Betty Rogers against Herbert R. Gibson Jr., Seagoville, and Gibson Discount Centers Inc.

The petition filed in the suit states that Mrs. Rogers was owner of 598 shares of the common stock of Gibson Products Company of Hobbs, Inc. on or about Dec. 2, 1972, in Howard County, defendant Gibson "through fraud, deceit, cunning and misrepresentation secured the transfer of all of the plaintiff's stock in the company to respondent Gibson's Discount Centers, Inc."

The petition states that Mrs. Rogers and Gibson are family members, and that Gibson had been put in charge of Mrs. Rogers stock when she was ill. She is now seeking the recovery of $5,186,664 plus exemplary damages.

Arizona professor amazed at progress of SWCID

Dr. Armin Turechek, a professor at the University of Arizona, was in Big Spring recently to inspect progress at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Turechek was formerly superintendent for the Colorado School for the Deaf. He also has served as director of the Rehabilitation Counselors for the deaf at the University of Arizona.

Dr. Doug Burke of SWCID, a personal friend, said Turechek "was amazed at the progress of SWCID over the last nine months."

Turechek is now on his way to Rochester, N.Y., for a convention of American Instructors of the Deaf.

Police Beat Chase nets four arrests

Police were summoned to the intersection of Virginia and Washington around 10 p.m. Tuesday in response to a call about an automobile accident.

Officers reported that when they arrived a man identified as Sam Ben Johnston pointed to a stopped vehicle and shouted, "It's them. Get them."

Police said they pursued the vehicle at high speed through a residential area until the car hit a trash can and curb at 407 Washington.

Arrested on misdemeanor charges were Jose Luis Monje, 1005 E. 13th, for carrying a prohibited weapon and fleeing police; Sam Johnston, 2107 Runnels, for public intoxication; Jeff Dekeyser, 1205 Lindbergh, for public intoxication and driving without a license; and a 16-year-old white male.

Mary Diaz, 1001 N. Main, told police that around 2 a.m. today someone known to her took a container of gasoline and emptied it over the front door of her apartment. After igniting the door, the perpetrator fled the scene in a dark blue or black vehicle, police said.

Two incidences of assault were reported in the parking lot of the Sandra Gale Apartments, 2911 W. Highway, around 5 p.m. Tuesday. John York, 1508 Wood, said someone known to him kicked him in the shoulder, while Allen York said two white males known to him assaulted him with their fists.

William Kayser, 516 Edwards, said he took his 1971 Ford station wagon to Bob Brook Ford around 2 p.m. Tuesday for some service work. He said after he left the car unattended with the key in the ignition, two black persons got into the car and drove it to 1510 Douglas St., where the vehicle hit a brick fence, was driven into a nearby alley and hit another brick fence and a gas meter.

William Dimmer of Bethesda, Md., said he was in the parking lot of McDonald's restaurant early Tuesday morning when he left a green vinyl travel bag either on the sidewalk or on top of his car. Officers searched the parking lot and a stretch of Interstate 20 but were unable to locate the bag, which reportedly contained $600 and personal papers.

Brian Hash, 3006 Cherokee, told police early Tuesday afternoon that a 22 rifle and case valued at $115 were stolen from him.

Root Hospital given award

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Texas Hospital Association has credited Root Memorial Hospital with attacking the rising costs of health care.

As a result of its commitment to a policy of cost effectiveness and restraint, Root Memorial has been awarded a 1981 Certificate of Participation by the Texas voluntary effort.

Root Hospital Administrator Ray Dillard notes hospital costs have been increasing due to a number of factors, most of which are beyond control. "Nevertheless," Dillard comments, "we will continue to contain aggressively the increase in our expenses, while at the same time, preserving the high standards of service we currently provide our community."

Hunting stamp bill is signed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas sportsmen will have to buy a $5 stamp in order to hunt waterfowl during the 1981 and 1982 seasons.

Gov. Bill Clements on Monday signed into law a bill aimed at paying for programs to benefit waterfowl and their habitat in Texas. The measure was approved by the recent session of the Legislature.

The law, which goes into effect Aug. 31, will require hunters to have the stamp, in addition to a hunting license and the federal migratory bird stamp.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said they are accepting bids for design and production of the new stamp.

Permian Airways not out of business, stockholder says

Permian Airways, which served Big Spring briefly last year, has sold four of its airplanes but John Andrews, former president and current stockholder in the Midland-based airline, denied the company is going out of business.

"We are still a Texas corporation," Andrews said, upon his return to Midland Tuesday. "We have liquidated our planes but we are not doing away with the airlines. We have some problems to solve before we can get in the air."

Financial problems and the high cost of fuel contributed to Permian's shutdown of operation, Andrews said.

The company's fleet of four Navajo Chieftains were purchased by a non-commuter group in Arizona, Andrews stated. Andrews also said that Permian likely will not fly its routes anytime within the next few months.

A spokesman for the Texas Aeronautics Commission said Tuesday in Austin that Permian's six-month extension granted by the agency to resume operations or lose its operating certificate ended at 5 p.m. Monday.

Permian canceled all flights last Sept. 16. At the time, airline officials called it a temporary action.

School employee buys Bulding Trades house

COAHOMA — In a meeting held Monday night, the Coahoma school board accepted the highest of four offers made for the Building Trades house completed earlier this year. It came from Ronnie Bourland in the amount of $98,700. Bourland is a new employee of the school system.

Others who bid on the structure were John Bingham, Tom Fadal and Bill Gressett.

In other business at their regular meeting Monday evening, the trustees accepted the bid of Clawson Lumber Company to repair school houses, tabled action on a proposal to provide a public announcement system at the football stadium and accepted a bid by Holley Gym Specialist to resand, paint and finish the high school gymnasium.

In addition, the board voted to seek bids on new band uniforms for the high school, authorized the school architect to prepare plans and specifications for a new roof, ceiling, fascia and painting of the high school gymnasium, approved hardware and carpeting for the new elementary school building and approved assignment of school aides and an additional English teacher for the junior high school. Applications for that position are now being accepted.

In other action, the board reviewed TABS testing results. The lettering policy for all athletics within the school system was reviewed. Before adjourning, the trustees discussed moving the band practice field to the parking lot on the west side of the football field.

Reagan not sure Iraq built atomic weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration does not agree with Israel that Iraq was definitely building an atomic weapon but was concerned about that possibility, a top official told Congress today.

"We have not made any definitive conclusion that they were aiming at a weapons program," Undersecretary of State Walter J. Stoessel Jr. testified at a House hearing.

"So you don't agree with Israel that Iraq was making a bomb?" asked Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House Middle East subcommittee.

"No, we would not agree with that position by Israel," Stoessel said.

"Do you agree that Iraq ultimately sought nuclear weapons?" Hamilton asked.

"No, we have no definitive conclusion on that," Stoessel replied.

But he said the United States was concerned that the reactor destroyed by Israel June 7 would have given Iraq the ability to develop nuclear weapons later.

Stoessel testified at a hearing by two House foreign affairs subcommittees on the Israeli attack, carried out with U.S. planes, which destroyed Iraq's reactor.

He also said "we cannot but be dismayed by the damage that has been done" by the Israeli raid to U.S. efforts to develop a Middle East peace.

Stoessel said Syria and Saudi Arabia have also told special presidential envoy Philip Habib that the Israeli attack has hurt his efforts to negotiate peaceful removal of Syrian anti-aircraft missiles from Lebanon near Israel's border.

Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., one of Israel's leading supporters in Congress, said he was "amazed and appalled" that the administration had not concluded Iraq was developing nuclear weapons.

The application for the El Reposo apartments indicates that the area, located in close proximity to the industrial site at the municipal airport, is properly zoned and within city limits. According to other reports, though, the site is just outside the corporate limits.

Municipal services can no longer be extended to new customers outside the city, and there are no plans to annex properties in that section, which could pose problems for services such as water and sewage.

County Judge Bill Tune said that the residents could be responsible for their own trash, and might have to get water from a well.

Paula C. Ybarra, Barbara Kayler and Gene Gaylor will meet with the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission board of directors at 1:30 p.m. today in Midland to review their application for project mortgage insurance to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and to insure a loan to be used in construction of the apartment complex. Total replacement cost of the project is $2,960,500 and the amount insured is $2,563,570.

A proposal to build a 100-unit apartment complex on a 10-acre site in south Big Spring has run into a snag concerning corporate limits of the city.

Dumpers of trash face $200 fines, sheriff says

People who throw debris on county roads may face fines up to $200 if they are caught, according to Sheriff A.N. Standard.

Several members of Longshore Road have notified the sheriff's office that the road is being used in spots as a dumping ground. Standard said that "we will attempt to file complaints" against people dumping trash in unauthorized areas, adding that cases filed "will be processed through the court to discourage the dumping of trash."

Maximum fine for throwing debris on county roads is $200.

Standard said that he encourages residents and others who see someone throwing debris on county roads to report the situation. If possible, try to get a license number of a vehicle, he added.

"We'll attempt to prosecute those in violation," he said.

Proctor & Gamble refuses to sponsor sex, violence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's largest television advertiser has withdrawn sponsorship from more than 50 TV shows, saying a "large, serious and increasingly vocal segment of our population" is objecting to sex and violence.

"For sound commercial reasons, we are not going to let our advertising messages appear in an environment which we think many of our potential customers will find distasteful," said O.B. Butler, chairman of the board of Procter & Gamble Co.

In a Monday night speech to the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, Butler did not list the programs from which Procter & Gamble is withdrawing.

Procter & Gamble products include Ivory soap, Tide and Cheer detergents, Sure and Secret deodorants, Folgers coffee, Duncan Hines cake mixes, Charmin' toilet paper and many more. Last year, it had gross sales of more than $10 billion.

Butler said the company was not reacting to threats of consumer boycotts: He said sponsors "must be responsible for the environment in which our commercials appear" without turning that responsibility over "to any group, no matter how highly motivated and how well-intentioned they are, by permitting our program choices to be dictated by threats of boycott."

A number of conservative religious groups, including the Moral Majority Inc., have urged consumers to boycott the products of companies advertising on shows they deem immoral.

Cal Thomas, a Moral Majority vice president, applauded Butler's speech as "an extremely responsible statement."

The Moral Majority is a national organization founded by the Rev. Jerry Falwell of Lynchburg, Va., advocating a back-to-the-Bible morality in America.

It has joined a campaign by the Rev. Donald Wildmon's National Federation for Decency to urge boycotts of sponsors whose programs are judged offensive. The Coalition for Better Television has threatened a product boycott to begin in July if the warning to clean up "dirty, profanity, vulgarity and sex" on the screen went unheeded. Wildmon says the coalition claims about 300 groups nationwide.

Butler said Procter & Gamble has "withdrawn sponsorship from over 50 programs, including movies, for reasons of taste."

Last month, some of the television industry's top decision-makers held a three-day workshop in Ojai, Calif., to discuss special interest groups such as the Moral Majority.

"Roots" producer Stan Margulies told the Ojai workshop that TV is too sensitive to criticism from such groups.

"Television is overreacting to pressure groups now because it has had a free ride for such a long time," he said. "Now, many groups are discovering the way to get a free ride is to attack television. We are not persuaded that the Moral Majority is a majority."

James E. Duffy, president of the ABC television network, last month warned ABC affiliates against yielding to pressure groups, which he described as "a band of moral zealots busy inventing" a national problem.

By the Associated Press
Darkness forced rescuers to halt efforts to find a man described as a transient who was swept into the overflowing San Antonio River, the latest victim to be claimed by heavy flooding that has claimed at least 22 lives in Texas since Memorial Day.

The victim, who was thought to be in his late 30s, apparently fell into the river Tuesday morning after heavy rains had drenched the area.

Officials said Tuesday night darkness halted the search, but that efforts to find the man would resume today.

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Sweetwater and music by Dave Adams of Abilene. According to Mrs. Fuller, "The ball committee is working hard to make this an elegant, memorable event for everyone in Mitchell County with delicious food, excellent music for dancing, entertainment, all bound together in an exquisite, unforgettable setting."

Date and time for the event, which, if preparations are any indication, will be a truly spectacular evening, are July 18 from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., in the Colorado City Civic Center.

All Mitchell County residents are urged to make their reservations early, due to limited seating space. Reservations will be taken beginning at 10 a.m. June 27 through 4 p.m. that same day at a charge of $30 per couple. Persons are encouraged to wear formal dress from any era of the last 100 years.

The gala will include a grand march, a coin set auction and the presentation of Mitchell County's "First Lady."

The Centennial Ball committee reminds area residents reservations must be made in person at the Colorado City Centennial Headquarters, just north of CC Athletics, June 27.

Included in the "Gilded Cage Ball" will be a catered buffet by Lula Adams of

House committee restores funds for student loans, impacted aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Education and Labor Committee voted today to restore millions of dollars for student loans, impacted school aid and programs for the elderly and handicapped which the panel had cut only last week.

The committee got the money for restoring those cuts by making further cuts in child nutrition programs, public service employment and emergency school aid.

"Welcome to the club," exclaimed Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, ranking Republican on the committee. "You've seen the wisdom of the Republican position."

He noted that the latest plan approved by the panel "moved in the direction" of the substitute package offered by Republicans last week.

The committee voted 26-6 to accept the restoration proposal worked out by Democrats after it became apparent they would not get the chance to offer floor amendments restoring some of their favorite programs when the overall budget bill comes before the full House.

In its action today, the panel restored $250 million for guaranteed student loans, raised the initial assessment for the loans from 3.5 percent to 4 percent and removed the previous eligibility standard of $25,000 in family income.

It also restored $414 million in special impacted aid for schools in districts with substantial numbers of children of federal employees.

Also, the committee restored $205 million for the Head Start program for disadvantaged preschoolers, $105 million for vocational education, $400 million for elementary and secondary education, $141 million for feeding the elderly, $130 million for education of the handicapped, $88 million for elderly employment and $19 million for the foster grandparent program.

The panel made further cuts of $1 billion for the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, $150 million for child nutrition and $119 million from emergency school aid.

The package of restorations was fashioned by Democrats during a day-long caucus Tuesday called by Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., the committee chairman.

One plan was to switch some $1 billion previously retained for public service jobs to the popular education and nutrition programs.

Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the committee, called a meeting of the full panel today to refashion its package of budget cuts.

Truck hijack attempt foiled in El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Two men were to be arraigned today in connection with the hijacking of a tractor-trailer loaded with 800 cases of cigarettes earlier in the day, an FBI official in El Paso said.

Ronald A. Hoverson, special agent in charge of the El Paso FBI office, said the Arizona man and the New Mexico man were arrested Tuesday and being held in the El Paso County Jail after being questioned by FBI agents.

The men turned themselves into Anthony, Texas, police, who turned them over to the FBI, said Anthony Police Chief Jerry Posey.

Hoverson said the FBI is trying to locate and arrest another New Mexico man, who along with an unidentified female, aided the men in the hijacking.

Professor has confidence in our future

Those who think America is going the way of ancient Rome will get an argument from Dr. Clifton Grubbs, the Killam Professor of the Foundations of Economics at the University of Texas in Austin.

America might tear itself to pieces with change, Dr. Grubbs says, but it will never repeat itself to death like Rome. The professor disagrees sharply with the doom-and-gloom predictors who see little or no hope for Western civilization.

ROME SLOWLY CRUMBLED for 300 years and was technologically stagnant, Grubbs points out. Our nation is not even that old. Rome failed to produce a single significant mathematician in its 900-year history, the professor reminds, while we are "rather a scientific and technological culture."

"True, we do not have unlimited resources, unlimited powers or unlimited national genius," Grubbs says, "but then we never did."

The critical consideration, as Dr. Grubbs sees it, is time — and contrary to some opinions, we can't accomplish the difficult immediately nor the impossible in just a little longer.

"Looking back," Dr. Grubbs says, "I am absolutely confident of the survival of this society and of capitalism."

The UT professor also believes that President Ronald Reagan's policies should be given a chance, but adds that in some areas Reagan likely will experience difficulties.

On checking the direction of social-service spending, up by 600 percent in 10 years' time, Dr. Grubbs says that we are almost of the unanimous opinion that it cannot continue but warns that care must be taken in how far the cuts can go.

Grubbs says Reagan was way off base with his Social Security proposals, but concedes that other changes must be made.

If cuts in government workers' pay are too deep, Grubbs thinks that might cause a 'brain drain,' leaving only the incompetent and the lazy in Federal bureaucracies.

THE PROPOSAL TO cut taxes is kind of a two-edged sword, according to the professor, pointing out that in supply-side economics theory a tax reduction can be made and lead to an increase in the revenue the government is getting through stimulated production; however, if the cuts do not lead to more revenue, there can be more inflation.

The term "balanced federal budget" is a myth, Grubbs says. There is no way to balance a Federal budget because the government cannot completely control its amount of tax revenue in relation to Federal spending.

On inflation, he says the historically cruel remedy of a depression is too dangerous even to be considered. To stop inflation, productivity and wages must keep pace; and Grubbs advocates an end to automatic pay boosts without increased productivity.

Grubbs offers no encouragement for the Russians' way of doing things, says there is nothing super about that society. In fact, there are numerous difficulties besetting that nation which could lead to internal turmoil before the century is out.

Involvement covered up

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Twice in seven years, federal grand juries probably would have indicted the president of the United States if the Justice Department had not dissuaded them.

The first president to arouse a grand jury's suspicion, of course, was Richard Nixon in the Watergate case. By a 19-0 vote, the grand jury named Nixon as a co-conspirator but refrained from indicting him after the prosecutors strongly advised against it.

THE SECOND PRESIDENT to become involved in a criminal investigation was Jimmy Carter. In the Robert Vesco case, "the Justice Department told the grand jury there would be no indictments," the foreman reported to the judge, "because they would sign none." But the grand jury flatly refused to exonerate anyone, including the president.

The grand jury had received evidence that Carter was implicated, perhaps unwittingly, in a $10 million attempted political fix. The evidence contained in Justice Department documents, intended for official eyes only, which my associate Indy Badhwar has examined. Here are the highlights:

The notorious Vesco, an international swindler on the lam from the law, gave some Georgians a $10 million cut of his allegedly stolen stocks. In return, they promised to use their influence with the Carter White House to get the federal government off Vesco's back.

The contact man between the Georgians and the Carter crowd, Spencer Lee IV, dropped by the White House on Feb. 8, 1977. Afterward, he told one of the Georgians, R.L. Herring, that he had discussed the Vesco deal with both the president and one of his aides, Richard Harden.

Lee later denied this under oath. But a Justice Department memo, describing "the results of two polygraph examinations administered to Lee," tells a different story. It states that Lee showed "deception" when he denied telling Herring "that he had spoken to the president" and, again, when he denied disclosing "details of the Vesco offer ... with Harden in the White House."

A key figure in the plot was Costa Rica's President Daniel Oduber, whom Vesco boasted was in his "hip pocket." In January 1977, Vesco arranged for Lee to meet with Oduber's foreign minister in Costa Rica.

VESCO WANTED LEE to put President Carter in touch with Oduber. The day after Lee visited the White House, Carter placed a telephone call to Oduber. Carter explained to FBI agents that he had called merely to congratulate the Costa Rican president for receiving a "conservation award."

It seems unlikely that Carter, who had served less than a month in the White House and was steeped in the overwhelming problems of the presidency, would stop everything to congratulate a minor Central American ruler over some obscure award. Certainly, the jurors considered the timing of the call to be suspicious.

According to the White House, Harden learned about the $10 million bribery plot the evening of Feb. 8, 1977, and admonished Lee to withdraw from the conspiracy. This is disputed not only by Lee's lie detector test but by telephone records and other witnesses.

Then by the White House account, Harden waited a week to tell the president that a fugitive from justice had tried to bribe his aides. Harden related the full details of the bribery scheme, according to the official version, to Carter on Feb. 15, 1977.

Yet the Justice Department investigation established that Harden had spent no more than five minutes with the president on Feb. 15. This was hardly enough to explain the elaborate details of the Vesco plot to a president who should have been inquisitive about this blatant attempt to corrupt his staff.

Five minutes was just long enough, however, for the president to scribble a note asking his attorney general to "please see Spencer Lee from Albany when he requests an appointment." The note didn't ask the attorney general to investigate the bribery attempt, as Carter was required by law to do. The note merely sought an appointment for Lee, who had been asked by Vesco to halt extradition proceedings against him.

Shortly thereafter, the extradition proceedings were halted, though there is no evidence that Lee ever spoke to the attorney general. It is quite clear, however, that the president never sought an investigation of the bribery plot. Rather than investigate Lee, the president appointed him to a judicial nominating committee to help select federal judges.

The Carter administration tried to dismiss the Robert Vesco case as merely "a little bit of influence peddling." This was reminiscent of the Nixon administration's attempt to characterize the Watergate case as a "third-rate burglary."

It took an uncompromising federal judge, a determined special prosecutor and a relentless investigative press to bring the Watergate conspiracy into the open. Except for my own modest effort, which at least forced a grand jury investigation, none of these pressures were brought to bear on the Robert Vesco case.

This made it easy, in the words of the grand jury foreman, for "the cover-up activities (to be) orchestrated within the Department of Justice under the concept that the (Carter) administration must be protected at all costs."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My life is a shambles. I have tried to live my life without God, but all I have done is wreck everything. Is there any hope for someone like me? — W.I.

DEAR W.I.: Yes, there certainly is, because God is in the business of changing lives. There is hope because God loves you, in spite of your neglect of him, and wants to help you. Furthermore, he is able to help you if you will let him come into your life. I have seen it happen over and over again in the lives of people like yourself who have wrecked their lives and then discovered Christ.

There is first of all hope for forgiveness. God created you, and yet you have turned your back on him. Wouldn't it be wonderful to know that all the sins you have ever committed were completely washed away, and you could stand before God without guilt or shame? This is possible — and it is possible because of what God's Son, Jesus Christ, has done for you. He was without sin, and yet he took upon himself your sins and mine when he died on the cross. My prayer for you is that you would experience this forgiveness for yourself by turning to Christ and trusting him as your Lord and Savior. You can do that by a simple prayer of confession and faith. The Bible promises that "everyone who believes in him receives forgiveness of sins through his name" (Acts 10:43).

Then there is hope for new life. When Christ comes into our lives, he gives us a new desire to follow his way for our lives. He also helps us by giving us the spiritual and moral strength we need as we turn to him each day. He gives us the power to turn our backs on those things which we know are wrong in God's eyes, and to seek God's will instead. This can be your experience if you will turn to Christ now.

As a footnote, it may be that there is someone reading this who has decided to leave God out of his life, just as you did. Your testimony is a warning to such a person.

"Now, doggone it... you conservatives COME BACK HERE!"

Electoral games

Joseph Kraus

WASHINGTON — A copious crying of crocodile tears marked the world's reaction to the Israeli strike against Iraq's nuclear facility. Despite their condemnation, most countries — including most Arab countries — benefit from the action.

Israel's gains, however, are more than offset by deepening isolation in the international community. When Israeli voters go to the polls three weeks hence, they should know that the government of Menachem Begin is alienating even their best friends, the U.S.

THE CURRENT IRAQI regime, to be sure, is one of the world's most beastly. President Saddam Hussein and a few members of his family rule thanks to a series of purges that brought violent ends to scores of former collaborators. Opponents of the regime have been hunted across international borders and murdered in such capitals as Paris and London.

Force, or the threat of force, has been directed by Iraq against most of its neighbors — including Turkey to the north, Kuwait to the south, and Syria to the west. The war launched by Iraq against Iran in the east last September was a case of naked aggression largely undertaken to assert primacy in the Persian Gulf.

The world's true opinion of Iraq, and of the regime of the Ayatollah Khomeini in Iran, is that they deserve each other. Hence the striking passivity, the well nigh incredible tolerance, shown for an ongoing war by most of the world's leading claimants to be makers of peace or keepers of order.

The U.S. has not lifted a finger to stop the fighting between Iran and Iraq. Russia has sat on its hands. Kurt Waldheim, the U.N. Secretary General, has shown more than his usual ineffectiveness. The Pope has been virtually mute.

Even the occasional shuttle between Baghdad and Tehran by the organization of Islamic countries has its cynical elements. Saudi Arabia finds in the war an occasion to create a five-nation council of the Persian Gulf that Iran or Iraq would have squashed had they not been otherwise engaged. Pakistani officials, fully mindful that a settlement is not on, participate in the peace effort as a way of burnishing their Islamic credentials.

So diminishing Iraq's potential to do harm, particularly nuclear harm, is no big bad thing. What is a big bad thing is the disposition of the Begin government to show contempt for the U.S., to act as though Jerusalem could define its security objectives without reference to Washington, could behave, indeed, as though Israel could tell the U.S. to "stuff it."

THE UNDOUBTED FACT is that the raid was made without any sensitivity to American interests or American problems. The Israelis struck at a time when American diplomacy was engaged, through the mission of Ambassador Philip Habib, in a promising effort to ease tension in the Middle East by restoring the integrity of Lebanon. In conducting the raid, the Israelis violated the air space of a country crucial to the Habib mission — Saudi Arabia. They also embarrassed the leader of a country absolutely central to American hopes in the Middle East — Anwar Sadat of Egypt, who was compromised because the strike followed by only three days a meeting between Begin and the Egyptian President.

Around the rim Camping options

Tina Miller

It's vacation time again. Yes, the time of year when you can no longer take what you've been taking all along, and are finally rewarded for 50 weeks of hard work with two weeks of relaxation.

For those two weeks, more or less, you can be free from telephones, typewriters, interoffice memorandums and the entire 9 to 5 routine.

What's your idea of a perfect vacation? The beach, Las Vegas, a cruise, or just sipping lemonade at a motel pool anywhere? These vacations are well and good for those who don't mind being surrounded by people and noise, but what about those who want to get away from it all?

FOR THESE PEOPLE, a wonderful vacation has been invented called camping. And, camping can be as economical or as extravagant as the person wishes.

For the frugal individuals who are also quite rugged, there is primitive camping. Translated, that means taking only what can be stuffed into a backpack, sleeping on the cold, hard ground, eating dehydrated foods and being deprived of soap and water.

Most people, however, are not particularly inclined to share their sleeping bag with various creatures of the desert or forest, and for these people, there are vans and pop-up tents. They can carry some of the conveniences of home, such as butane stoves, soft, warm beds and ice chests. These people are easily distinguished from the previously mentioned campers by these conveniences, as well as the fact that they occasionally feel the need for a hot shower.

FINALLY, THERE ARE the luxury campers. These fortunate individuals have all the comforts of home, including refrigerator-freezers, hot and cold running water and refrigerated air. Occasionally, a TV antenna can be seen on the roof of the trailer or motor home in order to keep in touch with the world.

Personally, I fall into the van and pop-up tent category. I'm not tough enough to be a primitive camper, and not rich enough to travel in luxury. And frankly, when I'm on vacation next week, I don't want to keep in touch with the world.

So, if you need me, I'll be the one in the faded out jeans, sitting beside a waterfall, at the foot of a mountain somewhere in Colorado.

You can minimize cyclic edema

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a female, 28. My problem is that two weeks before my menstrual period my hands and feet swell and I have a bloated feeling. This swelling usually lasts until my period starts. This is a very uncomfortable sensation. My doctor gave me water pills, but they didn't help. I need some kind of relief. What's the answer? — F.K.

The swelling that so often coincides with menstrual periods is called cyclic edema. Abdominal bloating is often a part of it. It may be related to hormone changes in the body related to the menstrual cycle. No one is quite sure.

There are a few things you ought to try to lessen retention of fluid. Stay off your feet as much as possible. When you are on your feet during the day, any excess fluid tends to accumulate in the limbs — arms and feet. Swimming is one practical form of exercise that does seem to help rid the body of retained fluid. If you can get to a pool, this is worth trying. Cut down on salt intake. Salt holds fluid in the body. Use full-length elastic hose and put them on first thing in the morning.

Water pills should help you, but how you take them can be an important factor in their effectiveness. Try taking the water pill at 6 p.m. When you are on your feet during the day, there is less blood being filtered by the kidney, so the pill may have less effect at that time. The pill may work better for you in the evening. Of course, there is more than one kind of water pill. If your present one is not working, you might benefit from a change. You may never be able to eliminate this problem entirely, but with the few tips I've given you you may be able to minimize the unpleasantness.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am interested in post-heart attack exercise. How much does my heart attack limit my program? My wife is concerned. She fears I will overdo. How about some general ideas on this? — B.J.

Well-regulated and supervised exercise programs are within reach of almost everyone who has had a heart attack. Very often, in fact, modest programs are begun while the patient is convalescing in the hospital. There, it is a physician-prescribed, just as medicine is.

Your doctor has intimate knowledge of your heart attack, its type, severity, etc., and can guide you by measuring your heart status in his office while you are exercising.

Some areas offer supervised gym classes for post-heart attack victims. Many YMCAs offer them. I'm with your wife. Supervision and guidance are the keys for you if you are an impetuous person who may easily overdo. Remember that when you exercise, your heart gets a relatively lesser portion of your blood circulation than when at rest.

A typical post-heart attack program might be as follows (if the doctor approves): When the person gets word that his heart has sufficiently recovered, he walks a mile in about 15 minutes or at whatever slower pace seems comfortable. He should be able to carry on a conversation easily at whatever pace he sets. In two weeks, if all is well, two miles can be walked in 30 minutes.

Reagan uses press conference to light fire under Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Reagan calls for a tax cut now, "not somewhere down in a misty future," House Democrats are drafting alternatives in a move that could dash Reagan's hope of delivering the first installment on Oct. 1.

At a news conference Tuesday, Reagan challenged the lawmakers to live up to a commitment to have the tax bill, along with a budget, on his desk before starting their August vacation.

"Only then can we say as elected representatives that we truly deserve a rest," he said.

But there were growing concerns that final action will not be taken on the bill until perhaps early October.

The House Ways and Means Committee now plans not only to dump the president's proposed 25 percent across-the-board cut in personal tax rates but to rewrite his business tax-cut plan as well. And whatever plan is passed by the House must be reconciled with the Senate version, which likely will be much more to Reagan's liking.

Reagan said the public and the calendar are calling for quick action.

"Just to take care of the paperwork associated with the tax changes that would be effective on Oct. 1, we must quickly have the legislation on the books," the president said.

"More important, and let us never forget, the mandate of November," he added. "The people of this nation have asked for action, and they deserve it now, not somewhere down in a misty future."

A Democratic task force from the Ways and Means Committee is putting the finishing touches on a substitute personal tax cut that would deliver considerably more relief than Reagan proposed for those making less than $50,000 a year.

A second task force, working on the business tax reduction, is presenting the committee several alternatives, none of which includes the president's proposal. Reagan wants to allow businesses a faster tax write-off for money spent on buildings and machinery. Democrats are concerned that such changes would do little for companies whose biggest investment is for labor; they want to concentrate more on cutting the corporate tax rate.

Reagan wants high-income Americans to get a full 25 percent cut in tax rates, just as low-income earners would, on grounds the well-off are more likely to invest their tax reduction in ways that would benefit the economy.

Democrats are upset that the Reagan plan targets only 17 percent of its tax relief to the 63 percent of couples and individuals who earn less than $20,000 a year. That group pays 16.2 percent of current taxes.

BUDGET CUTS — President Ronald Reagan answers questions for reporters crowding the podium at the end of his televised press conference in Washington

Tuesday. The president said some House committees are approving budget cuts "they know cannot be made."

House Democrats draft alternative tax plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 99-degree day, President Reagan decided to turn up the heat.

After five months of talking about cooperation, partnership and bipartisan efforts to deal with the economy, the nice guy in the White House took out after the Democrats in the House of Representatives.

His news conference rhetoric was as hot as the sweltering city. He saw sleight-of-hand in the Democrats' budget cuts, demagoguery in their leader and political trouble in their future.

"Let us never forget the mandate of November," Reagan said, in a favored phrase he doesn't let anybody forget. "The people of this nation have asked for action and they deserve it now, not somewhere down in the misty future."

Reagan said he wants his budget cuts, intact, and his three-year tax reduction, in a hurry. He gave Congress about six weeks to deliver a tax bill to his desk, and that would be record time.

On spending, he won virtual assurance Tuesday that the securely Republican Senate will deliver $39.6 billion worth of budget reductions. But he accused the Democratic House of funny business in shaping the $36 billion slash it is supposed to produce.

"There is now a clear danger of congressional backsliding and a return to spending as usual," Reagan said. "Some House committees have reported spending cuts they know can't be made, closing, for example, one-third of the nation's post offices...."

"This practice is unconscionable," Reagan said, and he warned that the administration will if necessary try to reassemble a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats to discard the handiwork of the Democratic-controlled committees and pass a substitute budget.

Reagan has played congressional hardball before, on the budget and in demanding his three-year tax reduction bill instead of the abbreviated, revised version the Democrats favor. But even when he was getting tough, he didn't talk that way.

The tone changed Tuesday especially when he came to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr.

Officers elected by social workers

Howard County National Association of Social Workers members elected new officers at their June meeting at La Posada. Officers elected for a two year term beginning on July 1 were Mark C. Miller, chairman; Chuck Preston, vice-chairman; and Shirin Chinoy, secretary-treasurer. Miller is a social worker for the Veterans Administration Medical Center and works in Community Care Programs and on the Alcohol Treatment Unit. Miller received his Master of Social Work degree from Indiana University, and, before coming to Texas, worked for the Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training School and a VA Medical Center in eastern Illinois.

in India, then received an M.S.W. at Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo, Mich. and practiced in the midwest before coming to Texas. Miss Chinoy is a supervisor of social services on a Big Spring State Hospital admissions unit.

Other items on the agenda of the meeting were the passage of by-laws and naming of chairpersons of two committees. Barry McDonald accepted the appointment as chairperson of the Social Work Month committee. Jake Glickman is chairman of the Membership committee.

NASW members voiced their appreciation for the work of outgoing officers; Ms. Marilyn McCorkle, John Webb and James A. Janeway.

Candidates for West Texas Unit office were invited to present their views to the membership. Miller thanked the membership for its support.

The next meeting will be on July 1 at noon at the La Posada.

Every day is poppy day for hospitalized veterans

For hundreds of long-term disabled veterans in Veterans Administration Hospitals and Domiciliaries and in State Veterans Homes, every day is V.F.W. Buddy Poppy Day.

These are the men who assemble the Poppies, tie them in bunches of 10 and pack them in boxes of 50 or 1,000 for shipment to some 9,000 Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts and Auxiliaries throughout the nation.

Poppy assembly is a year-round project in some 15 veterans facilities and a part-time program in others. Some are under the direction of the V.F.W. organization in the state in which they are located, and others are supervised and directed by the National V.F.W. Buddy Poppy Department.

The assembly procedure varies from facility to facility, depending upon the emphasis given to the various aspects of the program by the project director.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars pays the disabled veteran for his work. In most cases, the money provides extra income for the disabled veteran to pay for the little luxuries which make hospital life tolerable.

Sometimes the Poppy assembly is used as a therapy program, under direct supervision of hospital personnel, to provide exercise for fingers and hands crippled by wounds, disease, and the effects of old age.

One of the most successful adaptations of the Buddy Poppy assembly program is its use as a step toward the rehabilitation of psychiatric patients. The experience and training in concentration and supervised work in assembling Poppies has led to more complicated duties and eventual discharge.

From the time it leaves the hospital till it reaches the coat lapel or dress front of the individual citizen, the Poppy provides care for the widow and orphans of deceased veterans at the V.F.W. National Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich., provides funds for veterans rehabilitation services on the State and National level, pays for direct relief to the families of needy and deceased veterans, and serves as a memorial to the dead of all wars of the U.S.

More than 15 million Buddy Poppies will be assembled this year and will be sold by V.F.W. Posts and Auxiliaries throughout the nation. Buddy Poppies will be sold locally on June 20 by VFW and Auxiliary members.

Saturday bridal coffee honors Suzanne Smith

Suzanne Smith, bride-elect of Andy Clark, was honored with a bridal coffee Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. C.D. Turner. Other hostesses for the event were Mrs. John Richard Sparks and Mrs. Gary Turner.

A vase containing a free-form arrangement of mixed flowers, in shades of lavender, with ivy and grapevine was centerpiece for the glass-top serving table. Similar arrangements were used on the registry table and in the entry hall. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Guests were greeted by Miss Smith, her mother, Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, and her sister, Mrs. Louis Dunnam.

The hostesses presented Miss Smith with a pair of silver salt and pepper shakers.

The couple will exchange vows June 27 in the First Baptist Church.

Few clues solve men's fashion problems

There's an unsolved mystery filling the casebooks in America today. Lurking around corners, hiding under street lights and sneaking into building after building are men dressed unflatteringly. Fortunately, a few simple clues will solve the case for the fashion-conscious male.

The key to successful dressing is proper fit," said Burton B. Ruby, chairman of Jaymar-Ruby, Inc., the nation's largest manufacturer of men's quality slacks and a trendsetter in sportswear. "A well-tailored look gives men the professional image needed in the business world today.

The first step in the right direction begins even before entering the store. When shopping for business attire, a man should have specific styles, colors and fabrics in mind based on his current wardrobe needs. This inventory provides direction that will save the shopper time after entering the store. A man should wear the pair of shoes that most likely will be worn with the new ensemble. Many department and specialty stores have extra shoes on hand for fittings, but because proper slack length depends on the heel size, the wearer's own shoes guarantee an accurate measurement.

When shopping for suits, men should select one off the rack that allows a reasonably good fit in the jacket. Jackets normally are more difficult to alter than slacks, so the better the fit at the start, the easier alterations will be later.

After selecting a sportcoat and slack ensemble, or a suit, the slacks should be fitted first. The shopper should make sure the waistband is slightly below the navel and parallel to the ground all the way around. It is also important not to be afraid to question the tailor as he or she is working. Proper length allows slacks to break slightly across the shoe in front and be 1/2-3/4 inches longer in back, or at mid-heel.

Next, the sportcoat or suitcoat should be tried on over a well-fitted pair of slacks. The outcome after the fitting should allow the jacket to feel comfortable when buttoned — both standing and sitting.

Jacket length should be measured when the wearer is standing upright. He should be able to curl his fingers under the bottom of the hem. The edge of the sleeves should come approximately 5 inches off the tip of the thumb and allow approximately 1 inch of the shirt sleeve to show. Nearly 1 inch of the shirt collar should show above the jacket collar at the neck in back.

Rare is the man who tries on a perfectly fitted garment from the rack.

And that closes the case for successful dressing.

Books are hot item as gifts

STAMFORD, Conn. — While media report a decrease of sex-role differentiation in American society, there are clear-cut differences in the books selected as gifts for the nation's mothers and fathers, according to a book industry authority.

Susan Reich of Waldenbooks, the nation's leading book retailer, reports that Mother's and Father's Day gift book sales at their more than 700 stores nationwide reflect traditional male and female interests.

"Father's Day sales will fall heavily in the sports, how-to and home repair categories," she says. "Mother's Day sales were largely of cookbooks, crafts and gardening books, spiritual literature and poetry. Both sexes receive fiction, physical improvement and health books."

Ms. Reich says Waldenbooks stores will be well stocked for Father's Day gift-giving with bestsellers including "Noble House," "Pavarotti: My Own Story" and "Cathedral" among many others.

"With money being high on everyone's list of concerns this year," she says, "we are expecting heavy sales for 'Fortune At Your Feet' and 'How to Save A Fortune.' In the how-to group, Reich thinks 'Chilton's Auto Repair Manual' and 'Bob Mechanics Home Appliance Repair Manual' and 'Bob Villa's This Old House' will sell well.

"There's a unique book choice for every dad," says Ms. Reich. "If he's a golfer, there's 'Jack Nicklaus' Playing Lessons.'"

I.D. Tags Spell Difference Between Lost and Found

DEAR ABBY: I work in the baggage department for Eastern Airlines. Today I am sending an unclaimed piece of luggage to our tracing center in Miami because there is no identification in or on it. It is filled with small antiques and personal items. I'm sure the emotional loss to the owner will be enormous. I completely unpacked the case, hoping to find a clue that would lead me to the owner. There was none. This case will join thousands of other unidentified pieces of luggage in our warehouse to be auctioned off eventually.

Abby, please tell your readers to put ID tags on their luggage (outside and in), and also on their carry-on items — cameras, eyeglasses, raincoats, books and company documents! So many beautiful unidentified items are left on airplanes and not even missed until the plane is 1500 miles away.

Travelers spare no expense to buy nice clothes, costly souvenirs and gifts on vacation trips, pack them into expensive luggage, and don't bother to label anything! I hope you will think this is important enough for your column. It's heartbreaking to see so much valuable property lost forever.

DONNA T. IN SEATTLE

DEAR DONNA: Thanks for a timely contribution to this column. (Now, where did I put my nametags!)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old, reasonably attractive girl. I live at home and work in a large office. How can I refuse a date without hurting the man's feelings, and at the same time keep him from asking me again? If I say I am busy, he asks me again, or worse yet he'll ask for my first free evening, and then I am really stuck.

You see, I don't want to date anyone outside my own religion. I'm not that hung up on religion, but my parents are so much against it, I decided it would just eliminate lots of arguments at home if I just dated men of my own faith. My parents have been wonderful to me and I don't consider it too big a sacrifice if it will make them happy.

So, how can I politely turn down a date without appearing rude, and at the same time discourage that fellow from asking me again?

THERESA

DEAR THERESA: What's wrong with telling him the truth?

DEAR ABBY: You told ANONYMOUS in a recent column to resolve her anger, and then you quoted a line from a poem that was written by George Roemisch, a former schoolmate of mine. The quote, "Forgiveness is the fragrance of the violet on the heel of the one who has crushed it." That is only part of his poem titled "Forgiveness," which I am enclosing in its entirety.

Thank you, Abby, for using that particular quote, for it reacquainted me with George's poem.

And thank you, George, wherever you are.

DONNA SMITH IN THE BRONX

DEAR DONNA: Unfortunately, space does not permit printing the entire poem, but the following portion merits quoting, and I thank you for it. "Forgiveness is the broken dream which hides itself within the corner of the mind, oft called forgetfulness so that it will not bring pain to the dreamer. "Forgiveness is a God who will not leave us after all we've done."

Committee reports were given. Mrs. Knapp reported that cake and coffee were served at Veterans Administration Medical Center by members June 1. The presentation of United States Savings Bonds to Carolyn Torres, the local Voice of Democracy winner, at Big Spring High School's Senior Achievement Assembly May 21 was reported.

Mrs. Spivey reported the presentation of the Auxiliary's Teacher of the Year award to Mamie Lee Dodd, fifth grade teacher at Marcy Elementary School in May.

The ladies' were reminded that Buddy Poppies are to be sold June 20.

Lifting of arms ban 'normal'

Haig completes China visit; goes to Manila

PEKING (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. concluded his visit to China today after announcing that the Reagan administration is lifting the 31-year-old ban on the sale of U.S. war weapons to its Korean War foe.

Haig told a news conference Tuesday night his government has decided to remove China from the list of nations — including the Soviet Union and most other communist countries — barred from buying lethal military equipment from the United States.

President Reagan told a news conference in Washington Tuesday removal of restrictions on arms sales to China was "a normal part of the process" of improving relations between the two countries.

A Chinese military delegation is to go weapons shopping in the United States in August. But Haig said each arms request would be considered individually, and that China might ask for weapons which "it would be imprudent to provide at this juncture."

The secretary of state described an expanded military relationship — but not a military alliance — between the two governments that became foes after the Communists defeated President Chiang Kai-shek's U.S.-backed Nationalists in 1949.

He said Reagan, long a supporter of the Nationalist regime on Taiwan, "intends to treat China as a friendly nation with whom the United States is non-allied but with whom it shares many interests."

Chief among those interests is mutual opposition to the Soviet Union. Haig said both the United States and China agreed on the need to oppose Soviet expansionism.

China recently slashed its budget for military spending, but Haig said it could purchase American military equipment and technology with $2 billion in credits promised by the Carter administration.

Carter's defense secretary, Harold Brown, visited China in January 1980 and said the United States would make available certain technology and such non-lethal, defense-related equipment as trucks, helicopters and radar. But China made no such purchases.

Haig said his three days of talks in Peking were "not only unusually significant but unusually successful." The Chinese reaction was more measured. In a farewell banquet toast Tuesday night, Foreign Minister Huang Hua said the U.S. and Chinese governments "do not entirely share the same views," and the United States must prove with its actions that it wants sound bilateral relations.

Haig told his news conference the United States would continue its unofficial relations with Taiwan.

Names in the news

FRANK ZAPPA

TOM SNYDER
RONA BARRETT

Barrett quits 'Tomorrow'

CHICAGO (AP) — Pssst! Rona Barrett and Tom Snyder are on the rocks again.

The Hollywood insider is quitting NBC's late-night "Tomorrow Coast-to-Coast" program immediately because she doesn't "want to be on any show with Tom Snyder anymore," according to the Chicago Sun-Times.

In a story from Hollywood, the newspaper quoted Miss Barrett saying she might also resign from NBC's "Today" show if the network does not live up to its contract with her.

Of her co-host Snyder, Miss Barrett said: "We are philosophically miles apart. I wish him all the luck in the world, but I won't play second fiddle to him or anybody else any longer."

Zappa conducts

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The orchestra's rehearsal was "cloaked in secrecy," because the maestro, avant garde rock satirist Frank Zappa, needed privacy for his special project.

"He was here, practically speaking, to see how long it would take to rehearse the music before he could present it on a stage," Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra spokeswoman Vicki Vigorito said Tuesday.

Plasmatic trashes TV

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Wendy O. Williams, the outrageous lead singer of the Plasmatics, has delivered another blow against "pushbutton pleasure."

As 17-year-old Bill Valentine and his parents looked on Tuesday, the punk rocker, dressed in skintight leather pants and a white undershirt, destroyed one of the Valentines' televisions.

The Valentines and about two dozen neighbors and reporters cheered as Miss Williams transformed the wood-console TV set into a pile of broken glass, vacuum tubes and splinters.

The visit by Miss Williams and the trashing of the television set was Bill Valentine's first prize in a contest sponsored by local radio station KROQ and Miss Williams' record label. The elder Valentines were happy because the radio station had also thrown in a brand new TV for the winner.

Gain tentative contract

Striking coal miners withdrawing pickets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking mine construction workers are withdrawing pickets after gaining a tentative contract that would allow full-scale coal production in the East and Midwest for the first time in almost three months.

Three hours after negotiators returned to the bargaining table here Tuesday, they announced settlement on a 40-month contract likely to end the 63-day strike by 11,500 construction workers, whose picket lines delayed the return to work by as many as 60,000 miners in seven states.

Willard Esselstyn, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, said the pickets would be withdrawn, meaning that some 160,000 miners who approved a 40-month contract of their own on June 6 will be free to dig the coal. He said he didn't expect any problem in winning approval of the contract in the coalfields.

In Alabama, miners began returning to work at the 11 p.m. shift change Tuesday after the pickets were taken down.

The UMW called a meeting of the 39-member bargaining council today, beginning the 10-day ratification process. Some union officials said they thought the process could be completed sooner.

The miners and the construction workers have separate contracts with industry. The UMW miners ratified by a better than 2-1 margin an accord with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, but the construction workers, also members of the union, had not been able to agree on a separate pact with the Association of Bituminous Contractors, representing some 350 contracting companies.

Intensive weekend bargaining failed to produce an agreement that Esselstyn had said on Saturday seemed "pretty close."

The two sides broke off talks late Sunday and spent the next day assessing their positions.

Reagan softens criticism of Israeli raid on Iraq

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, softening his condemnation of Israel's raid on an Iraqi nuclear plant, says the Jewish state might have sincerely and justifiably believed that it was acting in self-defense.

"I do think that one has to recognize Israel had reason for concern in view of the past history of Iraq, which has never signed a ceasefire or recognized Israel as a nation," Reagan said Tuesday at his first news conference in 3½ months.

The day after the June 7 bombing of the nuclear plant outside Baghdad, the United States condemned the Israeli raid, which utilized American-made warplanes, as a "possible violation" of an agreement barring use of the aircraft for offensive purposes. Reagan then suspended delivery of four more F-16 jets to Israel.

Nevertheless, Reagan reserved judgment Tuesday on the nature of the raid, saying he is awaiting the completion of a congressional review on the incident.

"But what I would have to say is I think, in looking at the circumstances that I outlined earlier, that we can recognize that very possibly in conducting that mission Israel might have sincerely believed it was a defensive move," he said.

The president said he hasn't "given very much thought" to the fact that Israel has refused to sign a nuclear non-proliferation treaty and said it would be difficult to view Israel as a threat to its neighbors.

However, the raid "is further evidence that a real peace, a settlement to all of the Mideast problems, is long overdue," Reagan said, adding that he told representatives of several Arab countries it is a "compelling reason why we should once and for all settle this matter and have a stable peace."

How Texans voted

Food stamps funding slash backed by Bentsen, Tower

WASHINGTON — The Senate last week sharply cut Food Stamp Program funding and filled the position of Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs. The House authorizes funding for the Department of Justice and the Federal Communications Commission.

SENATE:
ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE: The Senate confirmed the nomination of Chester A. Crocker, of the District of Columbia, to be an Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs. Crocker, approved by a 84-7 vote, has served as a staff member of the national Security Council and as a professor of political science at Georgetown University, specializing in African affairs.

Opponents of Crocker's nomination, led by Sen. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.), said they recognized his qualifications for the position, but felt his opinions on U.S.-African relations were not in keeping with President Reagan's policy. They argued that Crocker's positions mirror that of his predecessor, Richard Moose, and represent the establishmentarian approach to foreign policy.

FOR: John Tower (R), Lloyd Bentsen (D).

FOOD STAMPS PROGRAM AUTHORIZATION: The Senate today approved funding for the Food Stamp Program, 77-17. The measure reduces spending for the program by $1.5 billion in fiscal year 1982 and will cut 1 million recipients from the rolls. The legislation tightens eligibility for food stamps by instituting an across the board eligibility requirement and prorating payments of benefits from the date of application.

Members voting against approval of the program contended that it was still too easy to qualify for food stamps despite the revisions in eligibility requirements.

FOR: Bentsen. AGAINST: Tower.

An amendment by Sen. Steven Symms (R-Idaho) requiring recipients to pay for part of their benefits was defeated, 66-33.

FOR: Tower. AGAINST: Bentsen.

Also, an amendment to include federal energy assistance as income when calculating food stamp eligibility was defeated, 74-25.

FOR: Tower. AGAINST: Bentsen.

HOUSE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE AUTHORIZATIONS: The House, Tuesday approved, 353-42, legislation authorizing $2.3 billion in funding for the Department of Justice and related operations. The measure funds the department for fiscal year 1982 and covers the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the federal prison system and the FBI.

The funding restores funds cut last week by the Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control to DEA, Immigration and Naturalization Service and U.S. Marshals, attorneys and trustees. The $38.8 million in additional funds brings Department of Justice appropriations over the administration's 1982 budgetary guidelines.

Infant found in stolen car

HOUSTON (AP) — An insurance agent who suspected a car parked in his company's lot did not belong to an employee found a stolen baby as well as a stolen car Tuesday.

Eight-month-old Bonnie Decker was wedged between the driver's seat and the door of her mother's closed car when Irvan Atkinson discovered the abandoned car about 10:30 a.m.

"It's good we found her when we did," Atkinson said. "She might have died because of the heat."

Atkinson and other employees of the National Life and Accident Insurance Company bathed the child in cold water and fed her a crushed popsicle to cool her off.

ACTING HIMSELF — Pittsburgh Steelers defensive lineman Joe Greene relaxes in the weight room of Owenby Stadium on the SMU campus between takes of a film. The movie, "The Steeler and the Pittsburgh Kid," was inspired by the soft drink commercial in which Greene captured millions of hearts.

Filmed in Dallas, not Pittsburgh

Mean Joe Greene's first film inspired by his famed cola ad

DALLAS (AP) — Where do you go to make a film about a Pittsburgh Steeler football player called "The Steeler and the Pittsburgh Kid"?

Pittsburgh, right?
No, Dallas. Where else?
Mean Joe, that fearsome presence on the Steelers' defensive line, is currently in the midst of his summer training program. He did not have time to go scurrying off to Hollywood to make a TV film. Dallas, in addition to being a rapidly developing film center, is also Mean Joe Greene's hometown.

So Greene and Franco Harris, another Pittsburgh Steeler—terror, have been working out for real and for the movie in the weight room at Southern Methodist University's Ownby Stadium this week. They have been filming a scene that—in fictional terms—takes place in the weight room in Pittsburgh.

We can only speculate what the reaction may be in Pittsburgh when "The Steeler and the Pittsburgh Kid" is telecast next fall and hometown Steelers fans see a film about one of their Sunday afternoon heroes taking place in Dallas.

What conspiracy theories that may set into motion involving the Cowboys, America's team, et al, can only be guessed at.

Tuesday, the weight room was filled with lights, microphones and a camera along with all the other paraphernalia needed for filmmaking—including a Steelers logo hanging on one wall. Greene, dropping a set of weights back into a holder at the end of the first take, said laughingly that he was working out harder for the camera than he would be doing on his own.

The room also was packed with what could pass for prime Steeler beef, supplied by players from the new local semi-professional football team, the Texas Wranglers.

Supervising producer Philip Barry (an Emmy winner for such TV films as "Kent State" and "Friendly Fire") said he was involved in one of those typical cases of the mountain coming to Mohammed—although with Greene one might argue which is the mountain. Since Greene couldn't come to Hollywood, Hollywood came to Dallas. Barry knew the film could be made here as well as in Hollywood. It was the only feasible way not to interfere with Greene's training.

From Greene's point of view, he insists, football remains his No. 1 priority.

"The Steeler and the Pittsburgh Kid" was, obviously enough, inspired by the familiar Coca Cola commercial in which Greene captured millions of hearts. It showed Greene limping up the ramp at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh pausing to accept a Coke from one of his young fans, then giving the kid the thrill of his young life by tossing the youth his sweaty jersey.

Such 60 second spurts on TV bring not only capsule dramas but send lines rocketing up sales charts of commercial products. Greene can't supply any figures as to how many Cokes the commercial sold. He does recall numerous letters from grateful Coke bottling plant managers telling him how the commercial had boosted their sales.

From those acorns also grow such ideas as "The Steeler and the Pittsburgh Kid."

"The idea of doing the film came about last summer, but it wasn't until October until we began to talk about it seriously," said Greene during a break in the action. The film, brain-storm of producer George Wallach, is a joint Osmond Television Jener Wallach production. It is being shot for NBC's prestigious Peacock Production series of children's specials.

Capsuling the storyline, Barry said it follows the limping Greene into the locker room. A TV sportscaster (being played by Channel 5's peripatetic Jim Brinson) sees something symbolic in Greene handing his jersey over to the young boy. Greene, he predicts, is retiring from football.

This causes the boy to think he may have something to do with that shattering decision. He tries to return the jersey. But Greene and the Steelers have gone to Dallas to play the Cowboys. A sympathetic airline stewardess helps the boy get on a plane to Dallas, where he makes contact with Greene. A warm relationship develops between the two.

Schizophrenic state weather goes from drought to drench

DALLAS (AP) — A year ago, many Texans would have traded their tans for a cool, drenching shower. This summer, they're wondering if the sun is still in business.

From record high temperatures to record rains, the meteorological schizophrenia has caught the National Weather Service a bit by surprise.

The NWS predicted in May that a ridge of high pressure again would spend the summer over the northeast half of the state, sending temperatures into the 100s and turning lakes into arid basins.

Instead, it's an upper level trough that is entrenched over Texas, dumping record amounts of rain and sending the same bodies of water over their banks.

"It's almost the opposite of last summer," said Dr. Donald Gilman, chief predictor at the National Weather Service's Climatic Analysis Center in sunny Camp Springs, Md.

But Gilman added Tuesday that "it is not at all uncommon to go to completely different patterns from year to year. There is a tendency for successive summers in the United States to resemble each other but it's not a strong tendency."

"We did call for a summer with some resemblance to last year," Gilman conceded. "It's still possible for that to be correct, but it's also a slow start."

He pointed out that the forecast was for all three summer months and not specifically for June.

"On the other hand, if the recent and immediate patterns are dominant for the summer, then our summer outlook will be quite wrong," he said, adding that a new forecast will be made at the end of the month.

The mid-June to mid-July forecast, made a few days after the summer forecast, predicts most of Texas will be cooler and wetter than normal.

The high pressure system aloft has been replaced by a trough of low pressure that acts as a slide for cold fronts from the northwest and moisture from the Gulf of Mexico, he said.

Last month's early season tropical depression in the Gulf probably was lured by the trough, Gilman said.

Spurs trade Silas to Cavs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs have traded nine-year veteran guard James Silas to Cleveland in a deal for the Cavaliers' second-round draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

As part of the trade, the Spurs also gave Cleveland the signing rights to Rich Yonakor, San Antonio's fourth-round draft pick in 1980, the team announced Tuesday.

General Manager Bob Bass said the dealing of Silas, 32, was part of the National Basketball Association team's move toward youth.

The 6-foot-3 Silas, a native of Tallulah, La., who played his college ball at Stephen F. Austin, was the only original Spur remaining, having come to San Antonio when the team moved here from Dallas in 1973.

Frankie Rubio drafted

By NATHAN POSS

Former Big Spring High School baseball standout Frankie Rubio has signed a contract with the Philadelphia Phillies organization after being drafted in the 31st round of the regular phase of the summer free agent selections.

Rubio was drafted out of Midwestern University in Wichita Falls, Tex., and after signing the contract with the Phillies organization, was sent immediately to rookie camp in Helena, Montana. The Phillies had kept a keen eye on Rubio throughout his college career at Southmost College and Midwestern, where he compiled an impressive pitching record the past year.

A total of 50 players reported to the Helena camp yesterday, and that group will be divided into two teams for the 70 game rookie schedules, which will begin next Monday. Those 70 games will be packed into 71 days, with the season ending in latter August.

A spokesman for the Phillie organization in Helena indicated that Rubio would either be placed on the team in Helena, which plays in the Pioneer Rookie League, or in Bend, Ore., which participates in the Northwest Rookie League.

Both Helena and Bend are classified as half-A leagues, which consists of rookies and plays the 70-game schedules. Class A, AA and AAA farm teams all play 140 games in a season, with the next step after AAA being the major leagues, which plays the 162-game schedule.

The spokesman for the defending world champion Phillies said that the Rookie League provides the organization a chance to more fully evaluate the newly drafted prospects and gauge where they should be placed in future plans. Rubio is listed by the Phillies Baseball Club as a right-handed pitcher with dimensions of 6'2", 200-pounds.

As a performer at BSHS in the 76 and 77 seasons, Rubio did much more than pitch. He was an outstanding hitter as well, earning both All-District and 5-A-A-A-A-A Most Valuable Player honors.

Some even filing suit on striking players

Baseball fans appear fed up

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says he won't get involved. Three owners of major league teams would like to end the baseball strike continued to show no progress, the ballparks remained empty.

And, as the negotiations aimed at ending the baseball strike continued to show no progress, the ballparks remained empty. On Tuesday, negotiators for management and the players met for the first time since major league baseball was struck by the players last Friday over the issue of free agent compensation. Another meeting was set for today.

Representing the owners in the talks — as he has throughout these negotiations — was Ray Grebey. Kuhn, George Steinbrenner, owner of the New York Yankees, Edward Bennett Williams, owner of the Baltimore Orioles, and Eddie Chiles, owner of the Texas Rangers, were not.

The three owners met with Kuhn and American League President Lee MacPhail Tuesday morning, apparently in hopes of getting more input into the negotiations. Williams and Steinbrenner were among the owners instrumental in averting a strike in May 1980.

They also may have been trying to get Kuhn to use his influence on Grebey and the Player Relations Committee, the owners' bargaining unit, to get them to change their approach in negotiations. Grebey said, "I'm always in contact with all the owners" and Kuhn reiterated that he was "not a spokesman for any bargaining group."

"The emphasis should be on the two bargaining teams," said Kuhn. "That is where the solution should be found." Meanwhile, five players joined Donald Fehr, counsel to the Major League Players Association, in the two-hour negotiating session. Marvin Miller, the union's executive director, took himself out of the talks when the strike began.

The five players — Bob Boone of the Philadelphia Phillies, who is the National League player representative; Rusty Staub of the New York Mets; Steve Rogers of the Montreal Expos; Tom Seaver of the Cincinnati Reds, and Mark Belanger of the Baltimore Orioles — were brought up to date on the bogged down talks.

Boone was not happy with Tuesday's meeting. "There's no merit to rehashing old things," he said. "We need to explore new avenues to ending this thing. As to getting to the issues, that didn't happen today." The only issue is the degree of compensation to teams losing free agents through the re-entry draft. The owners' compensation plan provides that a major league roster player as well as the amateur draft choice be awarded to any team losing a "ranking" free agent. The players say such a plan forces them to give up freedom to move from team to team won in previous negotiations and in court.

So the major leagues entered its sixth day of non-agriculture and the owners drew closer to collecting on their $50 million strike insurance policy — after 153 games are cancelled, the owners begin collecting $100,000 per date. The 26 teams already are sharing in a mutual assistance fund estimated at $15 million.

Baseball fans throughout the United States have been frustrated by the first midseason strike in the sport's history. William Halloran, a busdriver in Philadelphia, filed suit in a U.S. District Court on Tuesday claiming that his civil rights are being violated by the strike and asking a judge to order immediate resumption of play.

The suit, which names the National Labor Relations Board as defendant, also seeks to have a yet-to-be-formed "Baseball Fans of America" organization recognized. About 200 fans demonstrated outside Memorial Stadium in Baltimore Tuesday night to protest the strike. At the rally, a petition was passed among the fans, demanding that Kuhn "take the reins away from the bumbling idiots and return a sense of sanity to the negotiations before irreparable harm is done to our national pastime."

In San Francisco, a fantasy strike settlement was orchestrated by rock music impresario Bill Graham. "I simply had enough and I didn't feel like waiting around all summer to see if Ray Grebey and Marvin Miller could sit at the same table for 15 minutes," Graham said.

In rare civilian summer

Players go separate ways

By the Associated Press

Nolan Ryan is back on the ranch. Buddy Bell's raising money for charity. Carl Yastrzemski hung out the "Gone Fishing" sign. Pete Rose, who just couldn't stay away from the game, is playing softball. George Brett took a doctor's holiday on the golf course. Pat Zachry is attending to his newborn son. And Mike Hargrove saw the movie "Herbie Goes Bananas."

Major league baseball's richest players — the ones who stand to lose the most and suffer the least from the 6-day-old players' strike — are occupying their time with more mundane activities these days. During this break from summer's traditional pastime, players are returning to their homes to exercise on their own, putter around the house, spend time with their families and attend to their own businesses. For the first time since their childhoods, many have become summer civilians.

The gentlemen farmers included Ryan of the Houston Astros, who owns a ranch in Alvin, Texas; Gaylord Perry of the Atlanta Braves, who is working his farm near Williamston, Texas, and the Texas Rangers' Ferguson Jenkins, who works a spread in his native Canada, near Blenheim, Ontario.

Charity work will occupy much of the time of Bell, third baseman for the Rangers, who is chairman of the Leukemia Society of America's Super Swim Classic this weekend in Arlington, Texas. The Braves also say that pitcher Phil Niekro has become involved in several charities in Atlanta.

"I'll do a lot of fishing and keep myself in shape by running and working out," says the 41-year-old Yastrzemski, who lives on Cape Cod in Massachusetts.

Rose will appear tonight in a charity softball game at Fairfax Elementary School in Cincinnati, where more than 2,500 people are expected to attend at $2 a head, sponsors say. Rose normally plays in the game after the season, but the game was moved up this year because of the strike. The strike began after Rose tied Stan Musial for the most lifetime hits in the National League, 3,630.

Brett, last year's American League batting champion with a .390 average, told a television interviewer he was going shopping for some golf balls because it was the first chance he'd ever had to play golf in Kansas City during the summer.

For many players, the strike was a welcome opportunity to spend time with the wife and kids during the summer, a season when daddy-the-ballplayer usually becomes a stranger. In the case of Zachry, a New York Mets pitcher, the strike could not have been better timed.

Zachry's wife, Sharron, gave birth to 8-pound, 9-ounce Joshua Paul Zachry at 7:15 p.m. Friday, the first day of the strike, and the parents brought their son home Tuesday morning.

QB Williams says prejudice

GRAMBLING, La. (AP) — Prejudice stood between Mike Williams and a chance to play in the National Football League, the former Grambling University quarterback says.

Instead, the younger brother of Tampa Bay starting quarterback Doug Williams is trying to catch on with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

"Whenever I stand for Canada's National Anthem to be played, I think about the American National Anthem and how I should be playing in America if not for prejudice," Williams said in a telephone conversation with the Grambling sports information department.

He didn't explain, however, whether being ignored in the NFL draft was some form of racial prejudice, prejudice against small-college quarterbacks or some other form of bias.

Williams is black and Grambling is a mostly black university located in rural north Louisiana.

Wrigley family sells Cubs

NICKLAUS AND NICKLAUS — Jack Nicklaus and his son, Jack Jr. watch a drive down a fairway Tuesday afternoon during a practice round at the Merion Golf Club, site of the 1981 U.S. Open in Ardmore, Pa. The youngest Nicklaus is caddying for his dad in this tournament.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, charter members of the National League who have not won a pennant in 36 years, have been sold for $20.5 million by William Wrigley to the parent firm of the Chicago Tribune.

Wrigley, a chewing game magnate and head of the William Wrigley Jr. Co. whose father and grandfather before him owned the club, agreed Tuesday to the sale of the team to the Tribune Co., a privately owned firm with newspapers, radio and television stations and cable TV operations.

The sale was quickly approved by the club's board of directors and now needs the approval of the National League and the club's stockholders.

Stanton R. Cook, chief executive officer of Tribune Co., said he was elated over the transaction, noting the Cubs and Tribune Co. broadcasting properties have been associated for years.

WGN radio first broadcast Cub games in 1924 and WGN-TV began its television coverage in 1948.

Cook said Tribune Co. newspaper and broadcast subsidiaries would continue independent coverage of the news of baseball consistent with the company's editorial tradition.

In announcing the sale, Wrigley said he is turning the club over to a stable and well established entity committed to keeping the Cubs in Chicago and that the Tribune Co. is financially able to meet its commitments to the shareholders of the club and the National League.

Wrigley controlled 81 percent of the stock.

The Cubs are one of eight original charter members of the National League along with New York, Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Hartford, Louisville and Cincinnati. The Cubs are the only team of that group to remain in the same city where they started in 1870.

The Wrigley fly came onto the baseball scene in 1916 when William Wrigley Jr. and several other Chicago businessmen purchased the club from the Taft family of Cincinnati. Wrigley became majority stockholder in 1921 and ran the club until his death in 1932.

P.K. Wrigley took over at that time and ran the team until his death in 1977 when young William Wrigley assumed operation of the club.

other.

The Chicago Sun-Times reported the club faces a possible $3 million loss this year. Attendance is down more than 200,000 compared to the same number of home dates last year.

The Wrigley hold is believed to be the longest continuous ownership of a team in the National League. In the American League, the Griffith family has owned a majority interest in the Minnesota Twins, formerly the Washington Senators, since 1912.

Wrigley Field remains the only park in baseball without lights and night baseball.

Wrigley always considered baseball a day game and he felt lights and night games would hurt the neighborhood.

State tourney expensive

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — This year's state schoolboy baseball tournament probably will be remembered by spectators as the year the rains came.

For five teams, however, the delays were worth the wait — and the cost.

Bremont in Class A.

Shiner in 2A, Somerset in 3A and South San Antonio West in 4A all won their first state baseball championships.

Lubbock Monterey's Plainsmen seemed a little less excited in capturing the school's third title in eight trips to the tournament since 1961.

Heavy rains washed out opening day last Thursday and all but one game on Saturday and extended the two-day tournament to six days.

Monterey Coach Bobby Moegle estimated his team's expenses at about $900 a day for meals and lodging, plus charter bus rental. He said the Plainsmen had to switch hotels twice — first to get into a cheaper one and then because their reservations ran out.

Angels sweep Big Lake twice

The Big Spring Angels swept a doubleheader from the Big Lake Tigers Sunday afternoon, limiting their foes to only three runs in the process.

The Angels won the opener by a score of 12-2 in a contest called on the 10-run rule after the fifth inning. In that contest, Felix Martinez rapped out three hits, including a double and a triple, to pace the Angels. Jinx Valenzuela was the winning pitcher.

The nightcap was more difficult, as the Angels managed only four hits but still picked up a 5-1 triumph behind the combined no-hitter of Billy Pineda and Jody Flores.

Ysa Rubio had two hits to pace the Angels in the win, which boosted their season record to 10-2. They return home this weekend to host the San Angelo Superstars.

other.

But they will still play biggie with pain US Open field battered

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — At least four potential leading contenders — including defending champion Jack Nicklaus — are suffering from a variety of ills and ailments on the eve of the first round of golf's 81st United States Open Championship.

Lee Trevino, Johnny Miller and David Graham join Nicklaus on a list of the walking wounded that would be more appropriate to a National Football League training camp than a golf course.

And still another top player, Andy Bean, is injured so badly he isn't competing. Bean, winner of the Bay Hill Classic three months ago, has his hand in a cast in an attempt to repair some torn ligaments.

Nicklaus, who is gunning for a record fifth American national championship, has been troubled by a stomach ailment for three months. He checked himself into a clinic for diagnosis and treatment last week and has been given a clean bill of health.

Trevino, who beat Nicklaus in a playoff for this title in 1971, the last time the Open was played at the historic Merion Golf Club, hasn't eyed competitively in a month and had a brief hospital stay for treatment of a chronic back ailment.

Miller, a former Open champion and a two-time winner this season, has been troubled by a shoulder injury that, at one time, threatened to knock him out of the 156-man field. He took cortisone shots early this week and said "I'll play if I have to crawl around."

He has not won this season but, at age 41, he plays a light schedule and concentrates solely on golf's Opens and the Masters and PGA.

Graham, a former PGA champion and winner at Phoenix early this year, declines to discuss his physical problem but has sought medical help in the last couple of weeks.

Nicklaus, greatly relieved that his problem was of a relatively minor nature, shot a 65 in his first practice round at Merion and appears to be near the peak of his game.

His chief rivals are Ray Floyd, Tom Watson and Tom Kite, all of whom are healthy.

Floyd, enjoying the best season of his 19-year career, scored his third victory of the season last week. A former Masters and PGA champion, he has finished lower than 12th only once since January.

Watson is, quite simply, the best player in the game. He has won the Masters and two other events this year, holds his customary spot atop the season's money-winning list and is seeking a fifth consecutive Player of the Year title.

NFL players should take baseball hint

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Professional football players should pay close attention to the strike by their baseball colleagues, says Cleveland Browns guard Henry Sheppard.

"We, the football players association, can learn a lot from the baseball players," Sheppard said. "The baseball players are a much more cohesive union than we are, and we should follow their example of sticking together."

For some time, football players have been discussing the possibility of a strike in 1982, when their contract with club owners expires.

But Sheppard points out that issues concerning football players differ from those that sent baseball players walking Friday.

Baseball players are fighting to keep the free-agent system as it existed in their previous contract, allowing a veteran player to sell his services to the highest bidder while compensating his former team with an amateur draft choice.

Owners would like to see the free agent's former team receive a Major League player as compensation, in some instances.

"Our case is not the same as in baseball," Sheppard said. "What the (baseball) owners are really asking in the compensation issue is for the players association to give back something they (the players) already have won. The owners want to be protected against themselves, is what it amounts to."

"But we are not looking for the same thing. We're not that concerned about free agency. What we want is a fair share — at least 55 percent — of the teams' gross profits."

Sheppard is one of the Browns' two representatives to the National Football League Players Association. The starting left guard is currently on the disabled list, after surgery last week to repair a slipped cervical disk in his upper back.

"I can't speak for everybody, but in my mind I felt we'd have to go out (on strike) even before the baseball players did," he said. "It's not that we want a strike. It's just that it might be the only way for us to get a fair share of the profits being made in football."

Yankees split with Snyder

The Big Spring Yankees split their second straight double-header here Sunday afternoon, losing their opener to the Snyder A's by 10-1 before rallying for an 8-5 triumph in the nightcap.

The Yankees were victim of an excellent pitching performance from Snyder's Bill Robinson in the opener, as he limited the Yankees to only five hits and struck out 11 in the process.

Ricky Myers was the losing hurler. Keith Stone had two hits in the contest for the Yankees.

In the 8-5 triumph, the Yankees used the five-hit pitching of Charlie Vernon to move their impressive season record to 13-2. Mark Warren, just off the high school diamond where he was an All-District 5-A-A-A-A performer, had two singles, as did Vernon.

Warren was the lone Yankee to hit for extra bases in the contest, driving out a double.

The Yankees return to action on Sunday when they visit the same Snyder A's team.

Scorecard

Local Baseball

NATIONAL LEAGUE (MAJOR) — The Herald Rangers finished a perfect 15 game season without a loss Tuesday night in defeating the Lions Club Lions by a 9-1 score.

Grant Nichols and Mitch Griffin hurried the season ending win for the NL champion Rangers, and limited the Lions to only one hit. Donnie Peacock was the losing pitcher.

Nichols led all hitters in the contest with four hits, while Doug Marriot and John Hart both had two hits each for the Rangers. Griffin, Mike Sparks, Dean Marloff, Carey Fraser and Dieter Garnterberger all had singles.

The lone hit for the Lions was off the bat of Peacock.

The unbeaten Rangers will draw a bye in the city playoffs by virtue of winning the National League race.

Senior League

The Saunders Company Angels rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to take a lopsided 8-7 win over the Gartman-Johnson Trojans in Senior League action Monday night.

The two-run rally in their final at bat ruined a three-run uprising in the top of the seventh by the Trojans.

Paul Holquin had a triple and a single for the Angels, with Paul Guiterrez adding two singles. Freddie Rubio had a double and David Benitez a single for the winning team.

The Trojans managed only three hits off Angel pitching. Chris Lamb had a double, with John Sanders and Tommy Gartman adding doubles.

Abel Moreton was the winning pitcher for the Angels, who are now 8-3. The losing pitcher for the 4-5 Trojans was Chris Lamb.

American League (Major)

The Fiber Flex Falcons overcame the drizzling rain and the Barber Glass Pirates to take a 1-0 win and clinch the championship of the American Little League.

Johnny Arispe was the winning pitcher in the contest that assured the Falcons a bye in the first round of the city playoffs. Jimmy Churchwell was the losing pitcher.

Heath Stewart had two singles to pace the Falcons, with Eric Thompson adding a double and Jimmy Casey a single.

Charley Ogle and Churchwell both had a pair of singles for the Pirates, with Tom Cruz adding a single.

National Music Devils

The Anderson Music Devils danced to the tune of a 19-11 win over the Dibrrell's Yankees in NL Major League action.

The win pulled the Devils mark to 7-6, while the Yankees fell to a 3-10 with the loss.

Mike McCreath had a triple and a single for the Devils, with Randy Odom adding a pair of singles. Matt Garrett, Lance Soles, David Woods, Chad Wash and Todd McKimmy all had one single each, with Bobby Medigan chipping in with a triple.

Joe Bingham had two doubles for the Yankees, with John Olson adding a double, and Kelly Garrett, Bert Patterson and Rocky Sharpnack all having singles.

McKimmy was the winning pitcher, with Olson the loser.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

On June 15, 1961, I took the oath of office for the United States Senate for the first time.

It was truly an awesome moment for a 35-year-old political science professor from Wichita Falls. It also was a dream come true, because I had had a lifelong interest in politics and public service. Then, as now, I could think of no greater privilege than representing the citizens of the greatest state in the nation in the Senate.

This twentieth anniversary of that occasion is a time to reflect on these exciting years, and to thank you for allowing me to serve you.

These years have been momentous ones for our country. We have achieved many things, and suffered from many problems. We put a man on the moon, but allowed our national defense posture to deteriorate. We made great strides in bringing equal opportunity for all Americans closer to reality, but allowed government to intrude unnecessarily in the lives of individuals and business.

We have endured war, assassinations, riots and natural disasters.

Yet as I look at our nation today, I see the American spirit as undaunted as ever. Patriotism has surged in the past year, even as pressures on freedom in the world have increased. In the face of the problems facing our economy, I sense a determination to pull together to endure short-term sacrifice while working for real long-term solutions which will leave us in better shape than ever.

Looking at the Senate as a body, I also sense a new mood there among my colleagues. Senators seem less sure now than they did 15 years ago that government intervention is the way to solve problems. In this Congress, there is more emphasis on the essential responsibilities of government — defense among the foremost — and less on finding new things with which to concern itself.

In fact, there is growing realization that government has gone too far in injecting itself in the lives of its people. And there is a real possibility of giving back some of the control that has been assumed in recent years.

Over the past 20 years, my own responsibilities have grown, particularly during this Congress as I have taken on the chairmanship of the Senate Armed Services Committee. The responsibility which goes with that job is one I take seriously, for I truly believe the future of our way of life depends on maintaining a strong U.S. defense capability. But my primary purpose for being in Washington is still to represent you, the citizens of Texas.

The past 20 years have been exciting and challenging. But never have I felt greater opportunity, greater responsibility or greater optimism than at this juncture of history.

Together — we who serve you and you who keep us in touch with your needs — can seize the moment and go beyond our current problems to a better future.

Relatives post reward for missing Iowa pilot

DECORAH, Iowa (AP) — Saying they could not stand the "desolation and despair" of doing nothing, relatives of a missing Iowa pilot traveled to wooded, hilly areas of Arkansas and Oklahoma today to tack up posters asking hikers to search for him.

Joyce Strand, her five children and the elderly parents of her missing husband, Paul, left Decorah early today.

They were bound for the vicinity of Heavener, Okla., and Mena, Ark., where they planned to begin tacking up 2,500 posters in campgrounds and country grocery stores announcing a $10,000 reward for help in locating Strand's single-engine craft and its two occupants.

The plane piloted by Strand went down June 6 somewhere between Paris, Tex., and Fort Smith, Ark., as Strand and a passenger, Raymond Haugen, both 50 and from Decorah, were returning from a business trip to Brownsville, Texas.

"It's a long shot, but that's what we're playing," Mrs. Strand said in a telephone interview Tuesday.

"All we want is somebody to help us, to do something. As each day passes, our hope for their return dwindles."

She added, "I have five children. Doing nothing fills you with such desolation and despair when nobody else is doing anything."

The reward offer and the family trip were done at the insistence of Strand's father, Lloyd, 72.

"Grandpa just will not be satisfied until we do something and we can't let him go down alone," Mrs. Strand said. "It's our only chance."

"I guess anything is worth trying," Mrs. Haugen said. "I am optimistic they are still alive. It's such a vast area. I think the reward is great and it will work better than anything else."

The Civil Air Patrol had searched a 79,000-square-mile area in parts of Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas. Officials gave up the search Monday, saying all leads had been exhausted. However, CAP spokesman Charles Oliver said the mission would be reactivated if any reasonable leads were uncovered.

Mrs. Strand said she was not acting out of dissatisfaction with the CAP's search effort, which involved as many as seven planes at a time and 10,300 man hours and was concentrated along the Oklahoma-Arkansas border.

"There is no question it (the plane) is down, but they (the CAP) feel the foliage is so thick and so heavy until they get some good leads they are not going back up," she said.

"Probably in five or six weeks some camper or hiker is going to come in and say they have found the plane."

"Paul and Ray are both strong, resourceful individuals. They don't lose their heads. If there is any hope of finding them alive, we can't wait five or six weeks," she said.

Commissioner will testify in kickback trial

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Blaine County Commissioner Orville Pratt was expected to testify in his own defense today in the concluding phase of his federal court trial on a two-count indictment alleging he took $1,870 in kickbacks.

U.S. District Judge Luther Eubanks said he expects the trial testimony to end today, adding that Pratt's fate should be in the hands of the jury early Thursday.

The government concluded its case against Pratt on Tuesday by presenting testimony by two witnesses and a tape recording to verify the payoff claims.

Pratt's defense, as outlined earlier by his attorneys, will be that he accepted the kickbacks, but is innocent of any criminal wrongdoing because he was "just playing along" to find out who was behind the scheme.

Frank Fisher, a special FBI agent from Enid, testified as the concluding government witness Tuesday that Pratt signed a statement admitting accepting a kickback from equipment salesman Guy Moore on Feb. 16, but refused to sign an agreement to plead guilty.

During cross-examination, Fisher said the other Blaine County commissioners — Robert Petticrew of Geary and Monte Compton of Watonga — have signed agreements to plead guilty to kickback charges and cooperate with federal officials in their ongoing statewide investigation of county government corruption.

Fisher also said former commissioner Cecil Parker of Watonga has signed a similar agreement to plead guilty and cooperate with federal officials.

Pratt's attorneys say Pratt will admit accepting $1,810 in kickbacks from Moore, but will contend he is innocent of the charge because he was involved in a feud with Petticrew and Compton and was just "playing along" to see what they were trying to do when he took the kickback.

He contends they helped the FBI set him up. District Attorney Earl Goerke, whose five-county district includes Blaine County, testifying as a defense witness late Tuesday, said Pratt came to him on April 11, gave him an envelope containing $1,810, and said: "Earl, I think I've been set up."

Goerke, on cross-examination by Assistant U.S. Attorney William Price, said Pratt did not tell him that he had already signed a statement for the FBI admitting taking a kickback.

Pratt admits keeping the money 54 days — from Feb. 16 to April 11 — but contends he is innocent because he did not spend the money and ultimately turned it over to Goerke.

In the statement he signed and gave to Fisher on April 9, Pratt admitted taking the money from Moore, but said it was "the only time I ever accepted a kickback."

Moore, who owned a Midwest City supply company for 28 years before he began cooperating with federal officials in their statewide investigation, testified he made two separate kickbacks totaling $1,870 to Pratt on Feb. 16.

Execution stay to be issued

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — State prison inmate James White technically should have been executed Monday, but apparently wasn't because no one knew.

A stay of execution is expected to be issued today, a Corrections Department spokeswoman says.

White, 24, sentenced to die for two first-degree murder convictions, was sent to the Oklahoma State Penitentiary in March. He had been sentenced to die June 15.

Corrections Department spokesman Nancy Nunnally said department officials "assumed the man was going through an appeals process."

One hurt when plane, helicopter crash

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) — A Danburyman was in fair condition Tuesday after a helicopter and a light plane collided as both craft were landing at Balles Airport in Brazoria County, officials said.

Timothy Salaika, a 32-year-old flight instructor, sustained a compression fracture of the spine, according to an Angleton Danbury General Hospital spokesman.

Alejandro Cortes, an 18-year-old flight student from Vera Cruz who also was in the helicopter, was treated for minor injuries and released.

The name of the pilot of the plane was not immediately available, but he was uninjured, according to Barney Woodard, a Brazoria County Sheriff Department investigator.

The plane made an emergency landing in a nearby rice field, officials said.

Woodard said it had not been determined who was flying the helicopter at the time of the accident.

Felton Baker, president of the firm that owned the helicopter, said the plane apparently struck the helicopter near the rear rotor when both craft were about 300 feet off the ground.

On the light side

Sprinkle a sound

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Music may make the world go 'round, but it won't do much to make plants grow.

Or so say some irate farmers, who complained to authorities when music mysteriously started spouting from computers they use in their greenhouses to control water-sprinkler systems.

Police last Sunday finally located the culprit — "Radio Hofstad" (Court City Radio), which they identified as one of the estimated 10,000 pirate radio stations infesting the airwaves of The Hague and other Dutch cities. Two broadcasters were arrested.

Authorities say the pirate stations are a problem because they transmit illegal advertising and interfere with other transmissions, such as police calls.

Real funny money

ROENNE, Denmark (AP) — Police swooped down on a printing shop and all the bookstores on the Baltic island of Bornholm and confiscated about $2.7 million worth of counterfeit bank notes. Or did they?

Arne Loesholt, chief of the Roenne criminal police, said Tuesday's raid was ordered because the notes, printed by the non-existent National Bank of Bornholm, "offer a considerable likeness to real money" and might fool some tourists.

But the 48,000 islanders can't decide whether to scream or laugh following the police sweep. The "counterfeit" money, you see, was play money printed to go with a new game similar to "Monopoly."

Artist Bent Kaas, who designed the notes, was especially astonished because the notes carried the words "play money," "Bornholm Game" and "National Bank of Bornholm."

Ridiculous regulations

Congressman

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Volumes seem to have been written concerning the problems of the marginally-employed worker and the need to protect the employee from the abuses of the employer.

Little thought has been given, however, to the multitude of problems facing the employers of such labor, whether that employer runs a household and depends on a part-time housekeeper or a hamburger stand and hires teenagers after school.

The inclusion of such workers under the minimum wage law creates the first set of problems with many employers simply unable or unwilling to hire workers at the standard minimum rate.

Even if the federal minimum hourly wage rates are met, the employer may well find himself in the position of the case outlined in the publications. The Exchangeite, recently. The retired businessman, a widower, told of his experiences in trying to hire a part-time housekeeper.

The employee had medical problems that would make it difficult to find employment elsewhere and really needed the job.

And even though the employer met federal wage standards, in order to employ her legally, he was required to fill out and file 13 different state and federal forms, plus pay a total of $442.35 a year in Federal Social Security taxes and state and federal unemployment insurance taxes.

All of these problems were encountered, I might add, after the man had found someone willing to do the work. Many potential employees turned down the minimum wage job to live in government-subsidized apartments at low rentals and subsist on welfare or Social Security payments, bank interest and other types of minimal income. Their desire and will to work have been destroyed by the federal largess, he believes.

No wonder that many employers and employees now agree on wages paid in cash from hand to hand, with such income never reported. I am not justifying breaking the law, but I do understand the frustration that can lead to such a practice.

Federal rules and regulations have reached the height of the ridiculous. If I have work to be done and am willing to pay you to do that work; if you need work and are willing to perform the task I advertise for the pay I offer, to what degree does the government have the right to interfere? That is the question.

I sometimes think government has been determined to legislate and regulate common sense right out of the picture and has become far too successful.

We now have a golden opportunity to make significant changes in the way government affects us.

Brilab lawyers thrown curve; trial recesses

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Defense lawyers had all day today to figure out how to deal with the curve thrown them by prosecution.

Brilab federal bribery trial.

The trial was in recess until Thursday.

After waiting anxiously to get at Joseph Hauser, a twice-convicted scoundrel from Los Angeles who turned to undercover work for the FBI, defense lawyers found themselves hobbled by his sketchy testimony on Tuesday.

Cross-examination normally can go only into areas brought up during the direct examination of a prosecution witness. The examination of Hauser covered only a few specific incidents — and did not open him up to questions about areas the defense wanted to get into.

These included monologues Hauser apparently faked in an attempt to create damaging evidence against Brilab defendants.

Nearly the entire case was presented in testimony from FBI agent Michael Wacks.

When Hauser was brought on, they hit the high spots and that was it.

Eades Hogue, head of the New Orleans office of the Organized Crime and Racketeering Strike Force, replayed snatches of several 1979 conversations secretly recorded by the FBI.

Once again, the jury heard the offguard conversations of the defendants, who include reputed Mafia godfather Carlos Marcello, 71, of New Orleans, and Charles Roemer, 58, Baton Rouge, state commissioner of administration at the time.

Other defendants are I. Irving Davidson, 59, Washington; New Orleans lawyer Vincent Marinello, 43; and Aubrey Young, 58, Baton Rouge.

They were all charged with conspiracy, racketeering, interstate travel to bribe, and wire and mail fraud.

The indictment resulted from a covert operation code-named Brilab. In it, Hauser and two FBI agents, posing as crooked insurance salesmen, offered bribery "opportunities" to politicians or labor leaders in big insurance deals.

Hogue replayed snatches of allegedly incriminating conversations on each defendant except Young, a former aide to Lt. Gov. Bobby Freeman who also was Marcello's contact man in state government.

LULAC opens Albuquerque convention

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The 52nd annual convention of the nation's largest and oldest Hispanic organization opened here today as thousands of delegates converged to discuss issues ranging from education to President Reagan's economic policies.

Vice President George Bush is scheduled to briefly address the League of United Latin American Citizens convention Thursday afternoon.

His visit was announced Sunday. Earlier, LULAC executive director Anthony Bonilla of Corpus Christi, Texas, had criticized the Reagan administration for failing to send a representative to the convention.

Today's program included discussions of the "The Hispanic Role in Engineering and Technology."

Herb Fernandez, head of the Joseph M. Montoya LULAC Council 8020, hosts for the convention, said education would be stressed throughout the sessions.

Fernandez said nearly 40 percent of all Hispanics leave high school before graduation, a rate three times higher than that of Anglos.

The theme of the convention is "Education: The Key for Hispanic America."

Fernandez also said delegates would address the effects of the administration's economic policies, employment and immigration.

LULAC wants to focus public attention on the alien problem.

He said the United States has long ignored Latin America and Mexico economically "from a mutual assistance standpoint."

And he said the organization supports a Common Market of Mexico, the United States and Canada.

Discussions of economic cutbacks will include ways that private enterprise can pick up the slack in training people for jobs, he said.

The convention officially will open Thursday at 10 a.m. with an opening statement from Ruben Bonilla, a Corpus Christi attorney who has headed the organization for the past two years.

Keynote speaker will be former New Mexico Gov. Jerry Apodaca.

Speaking at the convention's noon luncheon Thursday will be Rep. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M.

Bush is slated to address the delegates at 2 p.m. He will leave Albuquerque immediately after the speech.

Afternoon sessions will include panels on both broadcast and print media and a panel on energy.

The Conference of U.S. Catholic Bishops and the LULAC Council 8020 will co-sponsor a mass by the archbishop of Santa Fe, Robert Sanchez.

On Friday, the conference plans an informational workshop on the census. Scheduled speaker is David Buentello of the U.S. Census Bureau office in Dallas.

Panel discussions include Reagan's proposed changes on affirmative action as it may affect Hispanics, and "Federal Employment Policy: What Lies Ahead for Hispanic America."

Speaker for the noon luncheon, which has the theme "Salute to Corporate America," will be Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt.

The afternoon session will feature a discussion of liberal and conservative political philosophies, immigration, and "National Public Policy Changes: Implications for Improving State Level Advocacy Capabilities."

Saturday's agenda begins with a panel on women's issues, including national consumer issues affecting Hispanic women and the political process and its effectiveness for Hispanic women.

TWIGGY AND DAUGHTER ARRIVE — British actress and singer Twigg, takes a seat with her daughter Carly, aged 2, after arriving at London's Heathrow Airport from Los Angeles Tuesday. Former leading model Twigg, is to star in a television production of Shaw's "Pygmalion" — a story of a London flower seller transformed into an elegant socialite by a language professor.

CBS defense documentary helps network in ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS broke new ground with its five-part series, "The Defense of the United States," and the premiere installment won the network with an extraordinarily high rating for a news documentary, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The rating for Part I in the series, which started Sunday night and continues through Thursday, was 16.2, compared with a rating of 19.8 for "M-A-S-H," the No. 1 show in the week ending June 14.

Nielsen says the rating means that of all the nation's homes with TV, 16.2 percent saw at least part of the "CBS Reports" production Sunday night.

The rating was good for a tie for 20th place and contributed to CBS' fourth consecutive first-place finish in the weekly competition. CBS had the three top-rated shows and five of the first 10.

Only two programs — ABC's broadcast of the heavyweight championship fight between Larry Holmes and Leon Spinks, in sixth place, and ABC's "20/20," tied for eighth — were original programs among the Top 10.

Odessa Globe Theatre plans historical play

When Rick Smith's "Whenever it Rains: A Celebration of the Spirit of Odessa" opens at the Globe of the Great Southwest July 3 as part of the Celebrate Odessa 100 activities commemorating the arrival of the Texas and Pacific Railway in the Odessa area 100 years ago it will be the culmination of a collaborative process begun last summer involving the Globe, the Ector County Historical Commission, and Mr. Smith.

Both the Globe and the E.C.H.C. saw the centennial celebration planned for the summer of 1981 as a perfect time to produce an original play dealing with the birth and early growth of Odessa. A dramatic production seemed to be an ideal way to communicate to the citizens of Odessa and West Texas the fruits of extensive research on the history of Odessa, and the pioneering and entrepreneurial spirit which molded the community.

With the E.C.H.C. agreeing to provide research assistance and the Globe providing production capabilities, the search was begun for a playwright capable of shaping the historic material into a living script. After meeting with playwrights from as far away as Indiana and California, the decision was made to commission Rick Smith, a native West Texan, from San Angelo to create the script.

Public Notice

CITATION BY PUBLICATION THE STATE OF TEXAS

To CARL PESKOR, SR., if living, and if not living to his unknown heir or heirs, as Defendant in the cause numbered and styled hereunder.

You are hereby commanded to appear before the Honorable District Court, 11th Judicial District of Howard County, Texas, at the courthouse in Big Spring, Texas at or before 10:00 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from June 1, 1981, the date of issuance of this citation, by filing a written answer to Plaintiff's Original Petition that was filed in said court on November 24, 1980, numbered 84-13 on the docket of said court, and styled Coahoma State Bank, Plaintiff, vs. The Peaker Corporation, et al, Defendants.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows: The Plaintiff is seeking judgment for the unpaid balance now due and owing on certain notes executed by The Peaker Corporation and Carl Peaker, Sr., as well as foreclosure of various liens on various items of property of said Defendants which were given as security for the payment of such notes and indebtedness, as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Original Petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve it and make due return thereof according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, issued under my hand and the seal of said court at Big Spring, Texas, on the 1st day of June, 1981.
