Big Springers take to streets

Burt Whitaker took the mike and began calling the shots for the Big Spring Squares, as the dancers began weaving patterns on Main Street to the delight of a small but enthusiastic crowd Tuesday.

It was the annual street dance, the official kick off of the Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion. First performance of the rodeo is at 8:30 p.m. today.

In the crowd, Bill Vegso told the Herald that he and his wife had come all the way from Youngstown, Ohio, to watch the festivities. He said they had been coming to Big Spring for several years to watch the rodeo and all that goes with it. Vegso and his wife are one-time residents of Knott.

Henrietta McKeown, who was in the audience with her dad, Henry Harris, said she had just moved back to Big Spring after an absence of many years. She had been living in South Texas.

Spectators were urged to join in most of the dances Tuesday. The fun continued until darkness set in.

Meters never read, taxpayer claims

City water policies assailed

By BILL ELDER
The city council quickly and unanimously approved several items of business last night which dealt with leasing city property, authorizing the sale of bonds and other matters.

Gene Bryant, who describes himself as a "concerned taxpayer," led off the meeting with several inquiries to the council regarding the city's water policies. Raising the same point as he did at the last council meeting, Bryant asked the council why some residents pay a $30 deposit to have their water turned on, only to never get the deposit back as they are supposed to (providing their bills are paid).

Councilman Jack Smith asked for the names of the persons who hadn't gotten their deposits returned and Bryant said he would turn some names over, expressing reservations about doing so because the persons might be "harassed." Smith indictated the problem would be corrected.

Bryant also questioned why the city wasn't extending water service outside the city limits and Smith explained that the council originally had been "doing people a favor" by extending such service outside city limits, but had retracted the service since the people weren't paying city taxes.

Bryant also asked the council what it knew about water meters that are "never read and billed." Smith informed Bryant that the council was aware of the problem and conceded it's "an ongoing problem."

In other action, the council expedited the notice of sale of $2.3 million in general obligation bonds, which will be used to begin construction of water and sewer projects. The bonds have an average maturity date of 10 years, with a projected interest rate of 11 percent.

The council heard the second and final reading of a resolution declaring notice of the city's intention to lease land within the Industrial Park for oil and gas exploration and extraction. Several shallow wells immediately west of the park have spurred interest in the sites to be leased by the city.

Another matter concerning the Industrial Park was the second and final reading of a resolution allowing Fiberflex to lease approximately eight acres in addition to the two acres it currently leases at the park.

Fiberflex plans to build an office and manufacturing facility on the property.

The lease consists of several intervals during which Fiberflex has the option of renewing the lease, and should it default or go bankrupt, it would have to make payments up to the next renewal period. The city will receive about $2,315 a month from the lease.

The council heard the first reading of a resolution which would result in construction of a boat ramp on Moss Lake 100 feet northeast of the existing ramp. The state would pay for 70 percent of the cost and the project has the approval of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

In personnel matters, the council approved the continuation of Dr. Clyde Thomas as the City Health Officer, awarded David Miramontes of the Sanitation Department a five-year service pin, and "reluctantly" accepted the resignation of Councilman Hal Boyd.

Boyd recently was appointed to manage the Industrial Park. The council must pick a replacement for Boyd, who will serve until the April election, at which time he or she must run to keep the job.

Urges Congress to pass tax cuts

Reagan speaks in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — President Reagan, contending "some in government never met a tax they didn't hike," challenged Congress today to enact his entire economic program and stop the practice of "tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect."

Taking the campaign for his tax and budget cuts on the road in hopes of building public pressure on a wavering Congress, Reagan addressed a convention here of the 300,000-member U.S. Jaycees. It was the first stop on a six-day trip that includes two more speeches and a weekend at his California ranch.

Reagan declared that the future of the American economy is in the hands of Congress. Unless he gets his entire program, he said, "we cannot guarantee that we will end this terrible cycle of economic retreat."

The president asked congressional committees and the House Democratic leadership to "join me in going the last mile." He said he would support Congress "if they act responsibly and courageously. We will help them shoulder the burden of talking tough but necessary action."

Reagan is engaged in a tough fight with House Democrats to win approval of his budget cuts, and the House Ways and Means Committee is balking at his proposal for a three-year, 25 percent tax cut.

Speaking to a group that already has endorsed his program and is actively lobbying for its enactment, Reagan said programs like food stamps and housing subsidies "have truly turned out to be good intentions run amuck" because automatic spending increases have caused costs to rise dramatically.

"They are budgetary time bombs set to explode in the years ahead," he said. "Their effect is to pile enormous new debts on the backs of our children — heavily mortgaging their future for the sake of temporary social cures."

Reagan said he didn't want to criticize Congress but contended, "There are too many automatic spending programs that still have not been reduced sufficiently. Without those added reductions, we will have given up just as we are on the brink of a great national victory."

If Congress does not "finish the job" and complete the tax and spending cuts he wants, Reagan said,

"America will have merely delayed the day of reckoning — the day which will cause us to slip once again into the terrible quicksand of built-in inflation, high interest rates and government out of control."

He admitted he has compromised on his original plan for a 30 percent tax cut retroactive to Jan. 1 but reiterated, "I don't feel I can accept any further changes," such as the two-year, 15 percent tax cut being pushed by House Democrats.

Reagan called it "economic nonsense" to say that lowering tax rates will add to budget deficits. "We've had tax increases and the deficits increase anyway because government doesn't tax to get the money it needs. Government will always find more needs for the money it gets."

Summer gardens having problems

DON RICHARDSON
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Summertime hits West Texas like a blast furnace and gardens do suffer because of it. Mild spring weather and abundant moisture resulted in luxuriant growth in many gardens. Now, high temperatures and drying conditions make regular watering necessary.

Don't let just the mid-day wilting of plants fool you into watering however. This is only natural for the plants. Check the soil before you water. If it is dry down a few inches then water thoroughly. Be sure and drip irrigate or flood it — sprinkling it can result in leaf scald and burning of the leaves.

Nematodes are hitting area gardens. Not a lot can be done now for this. Consider using a soil fumigant like Vapam and work for a fall garden.

Curly-top is continuing to hit tomatoes. This is a virus disease and not a lot can be done for it. If you have a sick plant affected by it, remove it from the garden before it can be spread to healthy plants by sucking type insects.

Blossom-end rot is hitting some tomatoes. Keep your soil moisture level as uniform as possible to help them. A little calcium on the plants could help some too.

Peaches and other fruit trees are showing up with yellow leaves. This is a lack of iron. Spray with iron sulfate late in the afternoon to help this. Some new chelated forms of iron are now available that can be added to the soil with success. They are expensive but do a good job.

Pecan trees are starting to show up with rosette, a zinc deficiency problem. Use NZN on these trees in a good spray program for this. Early symptoms of this are tiny black spots and browning of the leaves. Stunted terminal growth is also a symptom. Be sure and spray late in the day to avoid leaf burn on your trees.

Aphids are causing "honey-dew" on pecan trees now also. Malathion usually controls this pest. As with any insecticide be sure and follow label directions.

You might also fertilize tomatoes, peppers, and egg plants now with one level tablespoon per plant. Repeat every four weeks. Vine crops can be fertilized when vines are one foot long with one level tablespoon per plant. Whenever side dressing, avoid getting fertilizer on plant foliage and always water thoroughly after each application. A good garden fertilizer is ammonium sulfate. (21-0-0).

Good luck with your garden and don't hesitate to call if you are having problems.

THANK YOU MR. PRESIDENT — Mayor Maynard Jackson of Atlanta shakes hands with President Ronald Reagan in the Oval Office at the White House Wednesday after thanking him for his help in efforts to solve the killings in Atlanta. Jackson also presented Reagan a certificate making him an honorary citizen of the city of Atlanta.

By the Associated Press

Scattered showers were forecast today for the mountains of Southwest Texas, northwestern sections of the Panhandle, South Central Texas and East Texas.

The remainder of the state was to have mostly clear skies.

Highs today were to be mostly in the 90s although the mercury was expected to approach or reach 110 in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Light showers were reported before dawn along the coastal bend while skies were clear over the remainder of the state.

Rep. Hightower labels radio ads threat 'clumsy'

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jack Hightower of Vernon calls it "clumsy," his aide calls it a "bribe," and for the time being, it is postponed.

The National Tax Limitation Committee Monday called off plans to air a series of radio "spots" disclaiming Hightower and eight other conservative Democrats need a nudge from constituents to prevent the lawmakers' defection from the camp of Reagan budget loyalists.

Last Thursday, NTLC lobbyist William Worthen dropped by Hightower's office here to warn the congressman the radio "spots" would be played in his district. Worthen missed Hightower and spoke instead to aide Levi Bivins.

Bivins said Worthen wanted a guarantee Hightower would vote for Gramm-Latta II, the off-spring of the House budget-slashing, Gramm-Latta bill, that seeks to insure cuts are made where the president wants them.

"He said if he didn't get the commitment, then they would play the radio ads," Bivins said. "The language in the ads made it sound like Hightower was a lackey of (House Speaker) Tip O'Neill. It was tantamount to blackmail and really would qualify as a bribe."

The advertisements urge voters to call and write Hightower and urge him to stand firm, because O'Neill "has devised a scheme that takes a mockery out of the president's budget." The scheme, the ad suggests, is to urge Democratic supporters of the president's budget to vote instead with their party's majority when the House gets down to cutting specific programs, called "reconciliation."

Hightower read a transcript of the radio ad and termed it "a rather clumsy effort at intimidating a member of Congress." He said he will offer no guarantee to vote for an administration-backed reconciliation plan.

William Shaker, executive vice president of NTLC, said his group made no attempt at intimidation.

Colorado City reunion

Old-timers to hear 'Tumbleweed Smith'

COLORADO CITY (SC) — One of the highlights of Mitchell County's Centennial observance will be the guest appearance of "Tumbleweed Smith" of Big Spring, creator of the radio program, "The Sounds of Texas."

"Tumbleweed" will be speaking to the noon meeting of the old-timers reunion July 25 in the Civic Center.

When asked to comment on his increasing itinerary of speaking engagements, "Tumbleweed" commented, "I've really been blessed and I think it's because people like to hear Texas humor and that's what I'm all about."

Emceeding the old-timers reunion portion of the Mitchell County Centennial celebration will be former Big Spring Jim Baum.

Federal threat to cut funds HC officials awaiting word of proposal's fate

Maric-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — After months of work on an equal education plan to alleviate minority discrimination in higher education, Texas lacks only federal approval before implementation.
Howard College officials at Big Spring is one of the Texas colleges anxiously awaiting word of the plan's fate from the United States Civil Rights Office.
The Texas Equal Education Opportunity plan was submitted by Gov. Bill Clements on June 18 in answer to a federal threat to cut $295 million in aid if a state plan to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act was not drafted.
Numerical goals for increasing enrollment and graduation rates of Black and Hispanic students are a major component of the plan, which calls for an additional enrollment of 2,955 black students and 3,872 Hispanic students in Texas by 1986.
These goals require each traditionally white senior college to enroll annually a minimum number of additional minority students, based on the ethnic composition of its service area.

Although junior colleges are not required to meet numerical goals, they must take steps to eliminate any existing disparity between the proportion of minority high school graduates and those entering college.
Howard College reported a 7 percent disparity in black enrollment and a 4.7 percent disparity in Hispanic enrollment.
Affirmative action programs to increase the number of black and Hispanic faculty members and administrators also are required for each institution by the plan.
A general commitment to increase the number of blacks and Hispanics appointed by Clements to higher education governing boards also is included in the plan.
Howard College is governed by a seven-member, all-white, elected board.
Measures to enhance Texas Southern University and Prairie View A&M University, the state's two traditionally black institutions, also are proposed.
The state plans to provide major funding for upgrading program development, faculty salaries and physical facilities at the schools.
A total of $23.3 million beyond normal operating expenses was appropriated by the 1981 Legislature for the two schools.
Texas was one of 17 states found in violation of the Civil Rights Act last year after a federal investigation. It was the only state given additional time to develop a plan.
If the Civil Rights Office accepts the plan, it will be implemented beginning this fall and monitored through 1986.
If the plan is not found in compliance with the act, the Civil Rights Office will work to settle any differences with the state, before taking enforcement action that could cost Texas $295 million in federal aid.

DETERMINATION PAID OFF — The determination of the men pictured here and others like them led to the establishment of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, which tonight begins its 48th year in the Rodeo Bowl next to the Howard County Fairgrounds. The picture was made by Bradshaw Studios in 1934 and includes all but two of the original directors of the rodeo association. From the left, they are Harry Lees,

Blind Need Eyes Opened Problems of Blind

DEAR ABBY: I am a blind woman who has recently moved to Westerly, R.I. from Florida, where I lived for many years, and I find that all people are alike. Will you please tell your readers that just because a person happens to be blind that doesn't mean he can't answer questions, sign his name and do any number of things for himself.

One thing we can't do is recognize people, so if sighted people would please speak first, we would appreciate it.

Please publish this, Abby. It could help a lot of people.

IRMA HAGMAN

DEAR IRMA: I will not only publish your letter, I'll add some of my own suggestions to it.

When you meet a blind person, offer your help, but don't be surprised (or hurt) if the blind person would rather do without your well-meaning help. If you aren't sure how much assistance a sightless person wants or needs, ask an expert — the person you want to help.

When you enter a room where a blind person is (or if he enters), let him know that you're there by speaking up. For openers, mention your name. And be sure to say goodbye when you leave the room.

Never grab a blind person's cane. And never pet his guide dog without first asking the master's permission. (Guide dogs are trained to protect their masters as well as guide them.)

If a blind person gives you permission to walk with him, never grab his arm. Don't "guide" him or steer him as though he were a piece of furniture. Let him take your arm.

The blind are not deaf. And please don't talk to a blind person as if he were a child or a fool. Always speak directly to him. It's amazing the number of sighted people who thoughtlessly ask the person who is with someone who's blind, "And what will he hear?" Though blind, he is able to hear well, and certainly able to answer for himself.

When talking with a blind person, don't try to avoid using the words "look," "see" or "blind."

City is out. Many blind people have adjusted to their blindness very well. So well, in fact, that they have become teachers, musicians, machinists, secretaries, lawyers, salespeople, psychologists, writers, social workers, and even expert skaters, golfers, bowlers and swimmers. The list is endless.

I hope you see some merit in these hints. I know the blind will.

DEAR ABBY: When a wedding ceremony is being performed and the preacher says, "If anyone present knows why these two should not wed, let him speak now or forever hold his peace," an objection objects, does the wedding go on? And how long does a wedding stopped for that reason?

URGENT IN LAKE ORTON

DEAR URGENT: If someone objects, and the bride, groom and preachers want to proceed with the wedding, the wedding goes on. And if a wedding has ever been stopped because of such an objection, I'm sure someone will write to you and report the incident.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GAYLE P: Please send me your address. I want to return Lisa's Mother's Day card you shared with me. It's a treasure I know you want to keep.

You're never too young or too old to learn how to make people like you. Get Abby's new booklet of practical advice. Send $1 and a stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Belated birthday celebration is held

The couple will be married Aug. 1 at College Baptist Church.

For the record

The Herald regrets these omissions and any inconvenience or embarrassment they may have caused.

GRIEF OVER FIRE — Belva Gibson and Larry Schoenfeldt survey the remains of their home after a raging fire destroyed more than 23,000 acres in Napa County, Calif., Tuesday morning.

Winds contain California fires

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — A shift in the wind is helping firefighters contain a 25,000-acre arson fire that has blackened the hills over the Napa Valley wine country, destroyed more than three dozen homes and injured at least 12 people.

Officials said the fire was started by incendiary devices tossed along the Silverado Trail Monday, touching off four separate fires that merged into one giant inferno.

"If the current situation continues, we may begin recalling some equipment in the morning," fire Capt. Jeremy Lord said Tuesday night. The wind direction turned against the blaze and speeds dropped to 10-15 mph from their original 50 mph.

Fire officials said 35 to 40 homes, some worth $500,000, were among 65 structures destroyed as flames roared over the tinder-dry scrub, brush and trees. No wineries were damaged, although flames briefly threatened at least one vineyard. The quality of this year's crop was not expected to be affected. Damage to homes and property was estimated at $30 million. State Sen. Jim Neilsen, R-Woodland, who represents the area, said the Napa County Board of Supervisors would be asked to seek "local emergency" status allowing homeowners to obtain low-interest loans.

At least 12 people were injured, including three firefighters, but none was reported in serious condition.

An army of 1,600 firefighters had contained about 20 percent of the fire late Tuesday.

Using 142 fire engines, 16 air tankers and eight helicopters, the firefighters prevented the fire from spreading to the posh Silverado Country Club and 18 wineries closest to the blaze.

Al Achilles escaped with his wife and the family dog only to watch flames destroy his $250,000 home.

Fort Stockton Water Carnival July 16-18

FORT STOCKTON — A rare summer treat, the annual Fort Stockton Water Carnival, will again entertain visitors to the city July 16-18.

The water extravaganza, featured on an "Eyes of Texas" episode after the 1980 show, is a spectacle all summer in the making.

This year, Neptune, king of the sea world, comes to life to rescue two young survivors of a sinking ship as the show opens at historic Comanche Spring's olympic-sized swimming pool.

The "Underwater Odyssey" will feature swimmers of all ages performing in synchronized water ballets as tropical fish, lobsters and sharks while spotlights glisten on the pool's surface.

First held in 1934, the show is a tradition-rich affair involving more than 400 Fort Stockton residents each year. Sons and daughters of Man faces trial for murder

DALLAS (AP) — A U.S. District Judge has ordered a man sentenced to death three times for murder to stand trial a fourth time, saying the man's right to protection against double jeopardy has not been violated.

A new trial was granted after the first conviction because the jury had heard inadmissible evidence, and the two later convictions were reversed on appeal.

U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders ordered the retrial Monday for Howie Ray Robinson, who is charged with killing a Dallas convenience store operator.

The 29 year old defendant has been sentenced to death three times in State District Judge Richard Mays' court

After the second trial, Robinson's attorneys successfully argued that the prosecution made "prejudicial statements" and engaged in "gross misconduct."

He was granted a fourth trial after the court clerk's office lost parts of the transcript of his third trial.

FIRST FEDERAL HONORS
The Rev. and Mrs. Elra H. Phillips
A PART OF HOWARD COUNTY'S HERITAGE
Thurs. June 25

COME BY AND VISIT WITH THEM BETWEEN 10 A.M. AND 4 P.M.

The Rev. Elra H. Phillips, a retired Methodist preacher, was a barber before he turned to the ministry.

Elra had moved to Howard County with his parents in 1916 and grew up on a farm north of Big Spring. He turned to the barbering profession at the age of 18.

He decided to undertake a study of Theology, enrolling at McMurry College in Abilene and later in the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University.

While still in school, he was appointed to serve as minister of the Sylvester church near Abilene. He later was moved to the Camps Methodist Church and remained there until he finished college at McMurry. His first appointment after he had earned his degree was at Merkel. He went from there to Sparenburg, where he remained for two years, then on to Wolfforth for four years and then to the Cooper Methodist Church in Lubbock for another four years.

During a four-year commitment he filled at Hart, he developed a suspicious growth on his throat and went into temporary retirement.

Ultimately recovering from that ailment, Phillips worked for a time at a private school. He later was pastor of the North Birdwell United Methodist Church in Big Spring before he was appointed associate pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Big Spring, a job he kept for four years.

He returned to the church at Hart for four years before entering into retirement.

He didn't quit work completely, however. He was on the staff at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home until his wife became ill, after which he bowed out to spend more time with her.

Elra married the former Emily Owen Dec. 28, 1923. He feels his wife has been a key factor in his success as a minister. Born to the Phillips union was a daughter, who now resides in Tyler. They also have two grandsons.

Both grandsons are medical technologists. One is associated with Lubbock Methodist Hospital. The other works for a clinic in Farmington, N.M. Elra and Emily also have five great-grandchildren, the oldest of whom graduated from high school in Farmington this spring.

While he was assigned to the Wolfforth Church, Elra taught school for four years and helped coach the football team at Hart High School. The team won or tied for the district championship all four years he was there, once advancing as far as regional.

Presently, Elra teaches the Men's Bible Class at First United Methodist Church here. Once a semi-pro baseball player himself, Elra enjoys watching baseball. He also has a fondness for golf. He says his favorite teams are the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Dallas Cowboys. His alltime favorite baseball player was Roy Campanella.

Elra came from a family that included an even dozen children. All are still alive and nine reside in Big Spring. That is one of the reasons he chose to return to Big Spring to live.

Licensing of brokers tightened

AUSTIN (AP) — After next Tuesday, real estate brokers in Texas must have two years of experience as a salesman before obtaining a broker's license, the Real Estate Commission said Tuesday.

George Warner, attorney in the enforcement division, said the change, voted by the recent Legislature was a return to the licensing procedure before 1979.

Warner said prior to Sept. 1, 1979, a two-year apprenticeship as a salesman was needed to qualify for a broker's license. Then the 1979 act allowed a certain amount of educational background, about 60 semester hours of certain college work, to substitute for the selling experience.

Finger of blame pointed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pogo said, "We have met the enemy and he is us."

The finger of blame for big government spending, if we must find one, is pointed toward every citizen who depended on Uncle Sam to solve a problem that could better have been solved at the local level.

It points to every American who has demanded, for good cause or bad, action by the federal government; programs by the federal government; assistance from the federal government.

I don't know of any Congressman who begins his day by thinking up deliberate ways to waste government money. Legislation is almost always initiated to redress some wrong and the demand for such action almost invariably comes from you, the people.

The mistake that Congress has made in the past is listening to a small segment of society and judging that voice to express the will and the needs of the people.

Cattle on feed

The total number of Texas cattle on feed stands at 1,560,000 head, a 2 percent drop from 1980.

According to the June 1 report from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, placements during May were 11 percent above 1980 and 5 percent above the previous month. May cattle marketings stood at 310,000, unchanged from last year but 16 percent above last month's total.

Nationwide, cattle and calves on feed totaled 7.05 million head, a 3 percent increase from a year ago.

Texas is the nation's leading cattle state and produces almost one-fifth of the total supply of grain-fed beef," Brown noted. "In addition, the cattle industry adds almost $28 billion annually to the Texas economy with money from cattle production, meat packing, processing and retailing."

'81 deficit hits $64.4 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's finances showed a $16.1 billion deficit last month, pushing the shortfall for the first eight months of fiscal 1981 well past the Reagan administration's projected deficit for the entire year.

The deficit for the first eight months of the fiscal year was $64.4 billion, well above the administration's target deficit of $54.9 billion for all of fiscal 1981, which ends Sept. 30.

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm Congressional Comment

Some of the aims and objectives have been honest ones, but expensive nonetheless. There were good reasons to establish the Environmental Protection Agency, and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the Department of Education and the Department of Energy: We, the people, asked for them.

The same is true with problem after problem — agency after agency. The more often we look to Washington to take care of a problem that might best be handled on the local level, the more problems we ultimately seem to create.

Energy prices are too high, the American public complained; so an obliging government established the Department of Energy to regulate energy prices. We need cleaner water and cleaner air, the public cried out. The Environmental Protection Agency soon followed.

Each patient receives a $3 canteen book per month. Patients may then purchase items at the canteen. According to Elma Rosas Martinez, coordinator of Volunteer Services, "There are several names on the waiting list for the program. Consequently, we need more sponsors."

The difficult decisions of which areas of federal spending to cut are now being made through the budget reconciliation process in the House. I have often said the vote I cast to cut the budget was the easiest vote I will make this year: The hard ones are coming up in every committee on the Hill right now.

I am aware of the danger of being labeled a "barn-burner." That's a farmer who would burn his barn to get rid of the rats. We must use caution to prevent throwing out the good with the bad and use reason and good judgement to spread the projected $695.44 million we have been allotted to spend in such a way to provide the most good for the most people.

But at the same time, we must not lose sight of the main objective, the return of fiscal responsibility to our federal government.

Deputies won't testify at drownings hearing

GROESBECK, Texas (AP) — An attorney for two deputies who invoked the Fifth Amendment during a Court of Inquiry investigating the drownings of three black teen-agers says his clients would rather talk to a grand jury.

W.C. Haley, one of two attorneys for Limestone County Sheriff's Deputies Kenny Elliott and Kenneth Archie, said his clients didn't testify Tuesday because the inquiry was "an inconclusive proceeding."

"We will wait and take our case to the grand jury," Haley said. "We prefer to present our case at that time in a more normal, legal manner."

Baraka said he had not heard "anything that would merit criminal charges," but suggested a civil suit might come out of it. "All I've heard so far is gross acts of stupidity," he said.

The three officers in the 14-foot motorboat swam to safety after the craft sank about 40 yards from shore. The victims had been arrested for alleged drug violations and were being taken across the lake by boat because a one-lane bridge was cluttered with cars, preventing the deputies from driving to the other side where a temporary command post was located.

The NAACP and the FBI are conducting separate investigations, but Deputy Sgt. Dennis Wilson, who took the stand Tuesday, said he knew of no departmental investigation being conducted and said no official report on the incident had been made.

Protests halt city Little League playoffs

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

A pair of controversial protests postponed the Big Spring Little League City Tournament's games on Tuesday night, and in the process possibly ruining the very popular city playoffs in future seasons.

This year's city playoffs will continue, however, with all of the action simply being moved back one day. That puts the four second round games for tonight, the semifinal matchups for Thursday night, with the city championship game moving back to Friday night.

Both protests concerned the use of ineligible players. The first, and the one that has been told to the Herald by every party, and then some, concerned the battle Monday night at the International League between the American League Pirates and the International League Rangers.

The second protest was lodged Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock by Bill Mims, manager of the National League Yankees, who had lost to the Texas League Tigers the day before. With the first game of the second round set to begin just one hour later, District Commissioner Jack Barber simply postponed the second round action until the protest committee could review the Yankee-Tiger protest.

But before the committee could review the Yankee protest, Mims, understanding the problems that had been caused through the Pirate debacle by parents and coaches, withdrew his complaint out of respect for the harm that it would create.

Needless to say, both the Pirates and Yankees had lost their first round games.

The Pirates protested their game with the Rangers over the use of an illegal player by the winning team. But their manner in protesting was also wrong.

Here was the situation.

After the regular season ended, a trade in the International League moved a 13-year-old from the fourth place Pirates to the second place Rangers. The Little League rule states that a trade is legal if made from the end of the regular season to two weeks after the regular season begins.

But the rule regarding the city playoffs states that a player must play at least one-half of the season on a team in order to be eligible to participate with that team in the city playoffs.

In that sense, the Rangers were playing an illegal player in the city playoffs.

But on the other hand, there is also a guideline concerning protests in the city playoffs, which was decided on by the protest committee at a meeting on June 14. The protest committee is composed of the four league presidents (Dearl Pittman of the National League, Ed Lawson of the International League, Johnny Green of the Texas League and Jerry Kilgore of the American League), with long-time Little League executive J.W. Dickens serving as the head of the committee.

The guideline reads "There will be no protest, but if a protest is filed, it will be settled before the next play. If not protested then, it will not be allowed."

If a protest were to be filed, Dickens related, it was to be done so with the Tournament Director, with each league president serving as the TD at their respective parks. In this instance, the Pirate coaching staff should have immediately protested the game to Lawson when they realized that the Rangers were starting an illegal player.

According to Dickens, both Pirate manager and coach, H.L. Eason and Charlie Ogle, were aware of the protest guideline.

The illegal player did perform in the first four innings. He committed two errors that allowed Pirate runs and left the game shortly after. At the time of his departure, said Dickens, the Pirates held a 7-2 lead.

The Pirate coaching staff knew the player was illegal from the beginning, but Eason claimed that Barber said during the game that he could protest at any time before the final out.

Eason then waited until the Rangers began rallying in the late stages of the game to file the protest. Eason claims that he filed the protest while his team was still ahead, but Lawson, Barber and Dickens stated that the protest was not lodged until the Pirates trailed. Either way, the protest was not lodged with the proper person, Lawson, but with the umpire. The protest was also too late.

In reviewing the case, the protest committee had a most unusual circumstance in having to reach a decision.

"First of all," Dickens explained, "the International League team (Rangers) was wrong, and the American League team (Pirates) was wrong. They were both equally wrong in the eyes of the committee."

"Secondly, the kid had no bearing on the outcome," Dickens continued. "He made two costly errors and left the game with a bad stomach and his team looking like they were going to get beat."

"We ruled due to circumstances," Dickens explained. "It's unusual circumstances, for sure. Because of the unusual circumstances, he (the illegal player) had nothing to do with the outcome. The Rangers won the game after he had been taken out."

"Regardless of what the case is, everybody must go by the rules," continued Dickens. "One rule violation is just as bad as the next one."

"Both teams were wrong. Any way you go you're going to penalize the kids involved. We (the committee) felt the Rangers would have been penalized

KATHY RINALDI makes Wimbledon history in winning 1st round match.

Cowboys Monday nite game with Patriots nixed by Foxboro

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The National Football League and network television may call the shots in the big city, but not in this small, rural town, the home of the New England Patriots.

The three-member Board of Selectmen jolted pro football powers Tuesday night, voting unanimously against a Monday night game as scheduled at Schaefer Stadium this fall.

The selectmen routinely approved licensing of seven Sunday afternoon games. However, they balked at okaying the Patriots-Dallas Cowboys game Sept. 21 unless the start is moved up at least one hour from the customary 9 p.m. kickoff.

"There's no way the league and ABC will allow the game to be played starting at 8 p.m.," said Patrick Sullivan, the Patriots' assistant general manager who had been openly optimistic before the town meeting.

"I'm somewhat at a loss," Sullivan said. "Where does this leave us? I don't know what we're going to do." "We never remotely considered this would happen. We're just shocked."

The selectmen heard Timothy Sullivan, head of its stadium advisory committee, salute the Patriots as "good neighbors."

However, citing Monday night violence in past years, Sullivan and his committee sharply opposed the scheduled 9 p.m. start. Sullivan is no relation to Patrick Sullivan.

After hearing other pro and con arguments, the selectmen voted 3-0 to withhold approval unless an earlier starting time is set.

"The Patriots have been very beneficial to the town of Foxboro," said Selectman Peter Stanton. "That is not the issue. The real issue is violence. Our opposition to night games has been very well known. However, we have no control over the schedule. The league should have known of our opposition."

Becomes youngest player to win in 104 years of coveted tourney

14-year old Rinaldi makes Wimbledon history

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Kathy Rinaldi created Wimbledon history as America's tennis teenagers made their mark on the women's singles at the All-England championships.

Rinaldi, the shy blonde 14-year-old daughter of a Florida dentist, had a 2½-hour baptism of fire before defeating Sue Rollinson of South Africa 6-3, 2-6, 9-7 Tuesday to become the youngest-ever winner at Wimbledon.

Kathy's cool, calm approach in only her second tournament on grass captivated a full house on Court No. 2. The little American saved a match point at 5-6 in the final set before clawing her way to a gutsy victory.

Rinaldi, who reached the quarterfinals of the French Open by defeating seeded players Dianne Fromholtz and Anne Smith, was joined in the second round at Wimbledon by a group of young competitors.

They included comparative veterans in Tracy Austin and Andrea Jaeger, 18 and 16, respectively, and Pam Casale, 17, and Mary Lou Piatek, 19.

Yet another teenage star, 16-year-old Susan Mascarin, had a first-round bye and faces two-time champion

Martina Navratilova in the second round.

Jaeger, who turned 16 earlier this month, was far too consistent for Australia's Nerida Gregory and cruised to a 6-1, 6-1 victory. Austin, seeded two places higher at No. 3, ousted Jennifer Mundel of South Africa 6-0, 6-2.

Jaeger, playing in only her second Wimbledon, is now as confident as any of the veterans on the difficult grass courts.

Piatek, the top junior in the world two years ago, made an impact at Wimbledon for the first time by upsetting Sylvia Hanika of West Germany, the No. 9 seed, 6-4, 7-5.

Piatek, from Munster, Ind., is a student at Trinity University in San Antonio, Texas.

Casale, of Fairfield, N.J., beat Kate Brasher of Britain 7-5, 6-3.

 more because they actually won the game."
 The Pirate coaches, parents and players have argued with Barber, who ironically sponsors their team, that he should have intervened. But Barber has nothing to do with the protest committee, as he explained.
 "I have nothing to do with the protest committee," the long-time district Little League czar said yesterday. "Their decision is the final word. I think many of the people with the Pirates felt I should have stepped in and used my authority as district commissioner to make the protest work for them, especially since I sponsor the team. But I will not do what is not right, and what the protest committee did was right!"

 Dickens seemed very concerned with the future of the Little League city playoffs, with both the use of illegal players such as the two cases yesterday, and with the opposition that waits until the most beneficial time to lodge the protest so that they can win, when in actuality they lost.
 "It's bad either way it goes," said Dickens, like Barber, a long-time friend of Little League baseball who devotes his time out of the love of the kids and their desire to play. "But the protest committee made the decision, and I think in considering all of the circumstances, it was the right one."

Hearn-Leonard no sure bout

HOUSTON (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard goes after another title and Thomas Hearn defends his share of the welterweight championship Thursday night, and no renegotiation of their showdown fight contract should be needed after the action ends.
 Hearn has signed to fight Leonard for the universal welterweight title. Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney, said that Leonard will sign the contract after his challenge against Ayub Kalule, the World Boxing Association junior middleweight champion, in the Astrodome.
 There reportedly is a clause in the Leonard-Hearn contract that calls for renegotiation if either loses Thursday night.
 Leonard appears to have the tougher test. In Kalule, an Ugandan living in Denmark, he will be facing a left-hander who has won all 36 of his pro fights and was a world amateur champion in 1974. Kalule has scored 18 knockouts, but is not known as a power puncher.
 Hearn, a devastating hitter who has scored 29 knockouts in winning all 31 of his pro fights, will defend the WBA welterweight title against 22-year-old Pablo Baez, a Dominican living in Los Angeles, who became the WBA's ninth-ranked welterweight in May, two months after he signed to fight Hearn.
 The promoters listed Baez' record as 14-0-2. He says it's 19-6-1. The most impressive figure for him is his $75,000 purse, which is much higher than his total previous purses.
 Most observers feel Hearn should have an easy $500,000 payday against an opponent, who at 6-foot-1 is the same height as the champion.
 But Hearn said, "I'm not thinking of the fight as a tuneup for Leonard. I never take an opponent lightly. If I paid attention to what people said about me and my opponents, I'd be crazy."
 He also said, "It's just a matter of time before I go after the other half of the welterweight title and win that."
 Leonard, the president of Sugar Ray Leonard, Inc., makes his bid to become a double champion sound like an advertising campaign.
 It's also a test to see how Leonard handles additional weight. The welterweight limit is 147 pounds.

Pawtucket wins baseball's longest game in 33rd

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) — It's over.
 After 66 days, 33 innings, and one dramatic hit, professional baseball's longest game is finally over.
 It ended when Dave Koza reached for an outside curve and sent it on its historic course into short left field.
 His clean single with no outs and the bases loaded off Cliff Speck in the bottom of the 33rd inning Tuesday night gave the Pawtucket Red Sox a 3-2 International League victory over the Rochester Red Wings.
 The decisive blow was struck just 18 minutes after the resumption of the game, which began at 8 p.m. on April 18 and was suspended at 4:07 a.m. the next day after 32 innings. The total elapsed time was eight hours, 25 minutes.
 "Justice, gentleman, justice," Pawtucket Manager Joe Morgan, who had been ejected in the 22nd inning, proclaimed as the first wave of the more than 60 reporters covering the game flocked into the winning clubhouse. "The guy who knocked in the winning run was the guy who performed best in 32 innings."

Don Meredith won't buy Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ruly Carpenter says five or six potential buyers are still involved in trying to buy his Philadelphia Phillies.
 Carpenter said Tuesday that information sheets prepared by an independent accounting firm have been distributed to the groups still interested.
 He refused to comment on a report that each group had to put up $100,000 to see the information sheets.
 "The (Carpenter) family probably will talk with the groups still interested within the next 10 days," Carpenter said.
 "We should get some interesting offers and make a decision sometime next month."
 Carpenter reiterated that the potential buyers would set the price, believed to be close to $30 million. He also made it clear that if he isn't offered what he thinks the club is worth, it will not be sold.
 Carpenter said preliminary meetings already had been held with the groups interested. He confirmed that one involving Ben Alexander, Herb Barnes and Don Meredith had withdrawn.
 Carpenter noted that he was well aware of the price teams have brought in recent months. He pointed out also that clubs such as the Chicago White Sox and New York Mets were in two-team cities.
 "Certainly franchises like the (Boston) Red Sox and Phillies are worth more in a single market," he declared.
 On the other hand, Carpenter said, real estate (ball parks) was involved in the White Sox and Cubs deals.
 "We don't own the ball park or the land it was built on. That belongs to the city," he noted.
 Bill Giles, Phillies' executive vice president, said he was still in the purchasing game. He said he's busy on the telephone looking for investors. His group is not complete.
 Koza's five hits were more than anyone else had. Of the eight Pawtucket players who went all the way, he was the only one to raise his batting average, climbing from .253 to .259.
 The 26-year-old first baseman, who has never been in the majors and is in his third full season with Pawtucket, also was

Red Sox rally by Merkel

The Big Spring Red Sox raised their record to 7-4 by taking a 10-7 win over the Merkel Tigers in the semi-pro baseball action.
 Winning pitcher Louis Rodriguez improved his personal record to 4-1, in hurling a complete game. The loser was David Stout.
 The game was no easy one for the Red Sox, who had to come from behind twice. The final rallies came in the sixth and seventh innings.
 Trailing 7-6, the Red Sox put two runs up in the sixth and added two more in the seventh to take the 10-7 win.
 Ernie Garcia had three hits in the game for the Red Sox, with Adam Yanez and Mike Gombo adding two each.
 The Red Sox return to action on Sunday when they visit Ozone for a doubleheader.

"Look, I've bitten out Idaho!"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when secondary matters require your attention. Formulate a plan for handling them without delay and get the results you want. A new project needs more study.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to be meticulous in whatever you do today and get excellent results thereby. Spend your money wisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Taking the proper health treatments will make you feel better and improve your appearance. Show others you have wisdom.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what is desired by family members and establish more harmony at home. A new outlet needs further study.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get busy at the tasks ahead of you and do them in a precise manner. Don't neglect important correspondence.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Cut down on expenses and you can easily add to present abundance. Show increased devotion to loved ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Take the necessary treatments so that you can improve both health and appearance. Engage in more social activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Forget all that social meandering today and get right down to the work that has to be done. Evening is fine for romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan time to think over what your true aims are and figure out the best ways to gain them. Attend a group affair tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care of unfinished duties early in the day. Don't overlook a pressing bill. Think along logical lines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go to the right sources for the information you need. Making new contacts can bring interesting results now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try a new approach to have more accord with associates. Be sure to keep your promise. Think constructively.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Discuss mutual aims with associates. Take time to improve your appearance. Use your own excellent taste.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she could easily become a perfectionist but is likely to be intolerant of others who are not similarly endowed, so teach to make allowances for the shortcomings of others. Give ethical and spiritual training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Savings incentives

Reagan may intervene in housing dilemma

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats have asked President Reagan to intervene in a dismal housing picture and come to the aid of floundering savings and loans institutions.

"The withdrawal of depository reserves in the nation's thrift institutions amounted to $28 billion in 1980 and have continued at the same pace through the first quarter of 1981," said a caucus resolution agreed to Tuesday by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and his Democratic colleagues.

"This constitutes the greatest reduction of monetary reserves in the history of this country."

If interest rates could be forced down from 16 percent to 8 percent Americans could pay $335 a month less on their house payment, Bentsen told a news conference that followed the Democratic caucus.

"With mortgage rates at 16 percent, only 5 percent of the people in this country seeking to buy their first home can afford the cost," the Texas Democrat said.

Bentsen and 25 other Senate Democrats began a series of speeches Tuesday on the Senate floor and will continue them today on the need for savings incentives that might drive interest rates down.

The average home in America today costs $69,000, Bentsen said. On a 30 year mortgage, virtually the entire first year of the payment is mortgage, he estimated.

"The dream of owning your own home is basic in this country, but it is gone, evaporated for all but a handful of those who seek it. I wish to bring it back, and to do that we need a savings incentive that is targeted at lowering home mortgage rates," Bentsen added.

Bentsen is the second ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, which adopted an "all savers" incentive Monday as part of the tax cut it is considering.

The proposal would allow financial institutions to sell $1,000 savings certificates to individuals and $4,000 certificates to married couples for a one year period ending Sept. 30, 1982. Interest earned on the certificates would be tax free.

Bentsen has gone on record as supporting the president's tax cut proposals, but that doesn't mean he can't try to improve it, he said in explaining his stand.

"I told the president and his White House aides all along I was going to do this, that we needed strong savings incentives included in this, to make homes affordable again," Bentsen said.

He said the incentive added Monday by the Finance Committee will help, but that more help is needed for the savings and loan industry — an industry that had a net loss of deposits totalling $28 billion last year.

"The fact is that only 40 percent of the new deposits generated by these new certificates will go to home mortgages. These incentives should be targeted better than that, to help young Americans who can't afford the cost to buy their own homes," he said.

Bentsen also favors a program of three years or longer instead of the one year lifetime put on his proposal.

PATROLLING THE VILLAGE — Virgil Attaway of Smith Protective Services and his mount, Linc, pause to chat with Bonnie Ellis during a patrol ride through a group of North Dallas apartment complexes Monday. The horses enable the officers to patrol areas of the 6,439-unit complexes inaccessible by car, faster than an officer on foot.

Force powered by oats

Men and horses protect 10,000 Village dwellers

Ed's Note: This has the classic ingredients of an old west novel — a tall Texan, his horse and the dark of night. Except this is a story about a man and his horse and their fight against apartment complex crime.

DALLAS (AP) — Virgil Attaway and his quarterhorse Linc spend night after night together prowling a 400 acre stretch of rolling hills under the vast Texas sky looking for robbers, bad guys and damsels in distress.

But unlike Texans of a century ago, their job isn't getting a herd of cattle to the railroad on time.

The "herd" Attaway and his stocky steed watch for 80 hours a week is made up of an estimated 10,000 residents that live in the "Village," a 6,439 unit apartment complex that is one of Dallas' largest.

Usually, the sorrel horse and its rider corral prowlers or burglars who might prey upon the 10,000 Dallasites who make their homes in the sprawling Village apartments' 6,439 units.

"I can come up on people and they don't even know how I got there," says the 30 year old Attaway. "I just get off Linc and he'll stand there and wait for me."

Both Linc and Attaway are employed by Smith Protective Services Inc., who in turn are employed by Lincoln Property Company — hence the name Linc — to guard the predominately young, single Village population.

Another horse, dubbed Smitty in honor of those who help provide his oats, also wends its rounds through the 2½ square mile beat, often with Smith guard Dave Moore.

"Sometimes I'd like to get in the patrol car," Moore says, referring to frequent 100 degree plus summer days. "It's already gotten so hot."

Most often the man and horse team guides lost people or lets locked out Village residents into their apartments.

Both Linc and Smitty navigate the manicured green lawns and flagstone steps that cut through the apartments' concrete corridors with easy handling, though their nature lends them more to the rough and tumble business of cutting cattle than clip clopping down sedate sidewalks.

Smitty actually is Smitty II. The original company namesake was just "too hot blooded" for the work, says Jim Nelson, manager of the Smith patrol division.

Nelson says he dreamed up the idea of horsing around the apartments in February 1980, when the country was saddled with rising fuel costs and the Village needed a means to effectively patrol its meandering jogging trails — practically inaccessible to a patrol car.

"We've made a pretty good savings," Nelson says, "and we're thinking of adding another horse to some other apartments."

He emphasizes that the public relations plus hasn't hurt either.

"Now officers are good guys to kids in the area. Before we just didn't have the rapport. The patrol car used to drive up and we couldn't get anything out of them," he says.

The mounted officers are equipped with radios they can use to signal backup assistance and cars often still are used to patrol the Village area.

An unmarked car is quietly effective — but results with an unmarked horse can be just as arresting.

Though riders wear law enforcement blue Smith uniforms — complete with what Nelson calls "Smokey the Bear hats" — they can surprise a suspicious person with no lights, no engine noise, no conventional means of approach, he says.

The only mishap Nelson can recall happened in the first few months of his brainchild, when a horse tisd to a flagpole broke its rope and wound up crashing through a car windshield.

State's future may be limited

Texas must live with available water

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Three-fourths of all water used in Texas goes for irrigation, and a "water crisis" is forcing farmers and ranchers to become much more aware of bushels — or bales — per gallon, water researchers say.

"Texas agriculture has no choice but to reduce its thirst for water," says a publication from the Texas Water Resources Institute at Texas A&M University.

The monthly Texas Water Resources publication quoted Herb Grubb of the Texas Department of Water Resources as saying "the state's future economic opportunities may be limited from lack of sufficient quantities of water."

"The state must learn to live within its available water resources, however, for many years to come because there are many obstacles — institutional, political and economic — to bringing water from outside the state," said Grubb.

He said because of competition for water and the cost of making it available agricultural producers probably will have to reduce their use of water for irrigation.

Over 60 percent of all crops in Texas are produced on irrigated land, Grubb said, including 100 percent of Texas citrus and 87 percent of all vegetables.

"Just as the energy crisis made motorists aware of their miles per gallon, the water crisis is forcing Texas irrigators to evaluate the amount of water their crops require," said Grubb. "They will be much more aware in the future of bushels (or bales) per gallon."

If just half an inch of water a year could be saved on the High Plains alone, it would save farmers there $12.5 million annually, he said.

To meet the challenge, says Neville Clarke, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the staff has developed a sprinkler system to apply water near ground level.

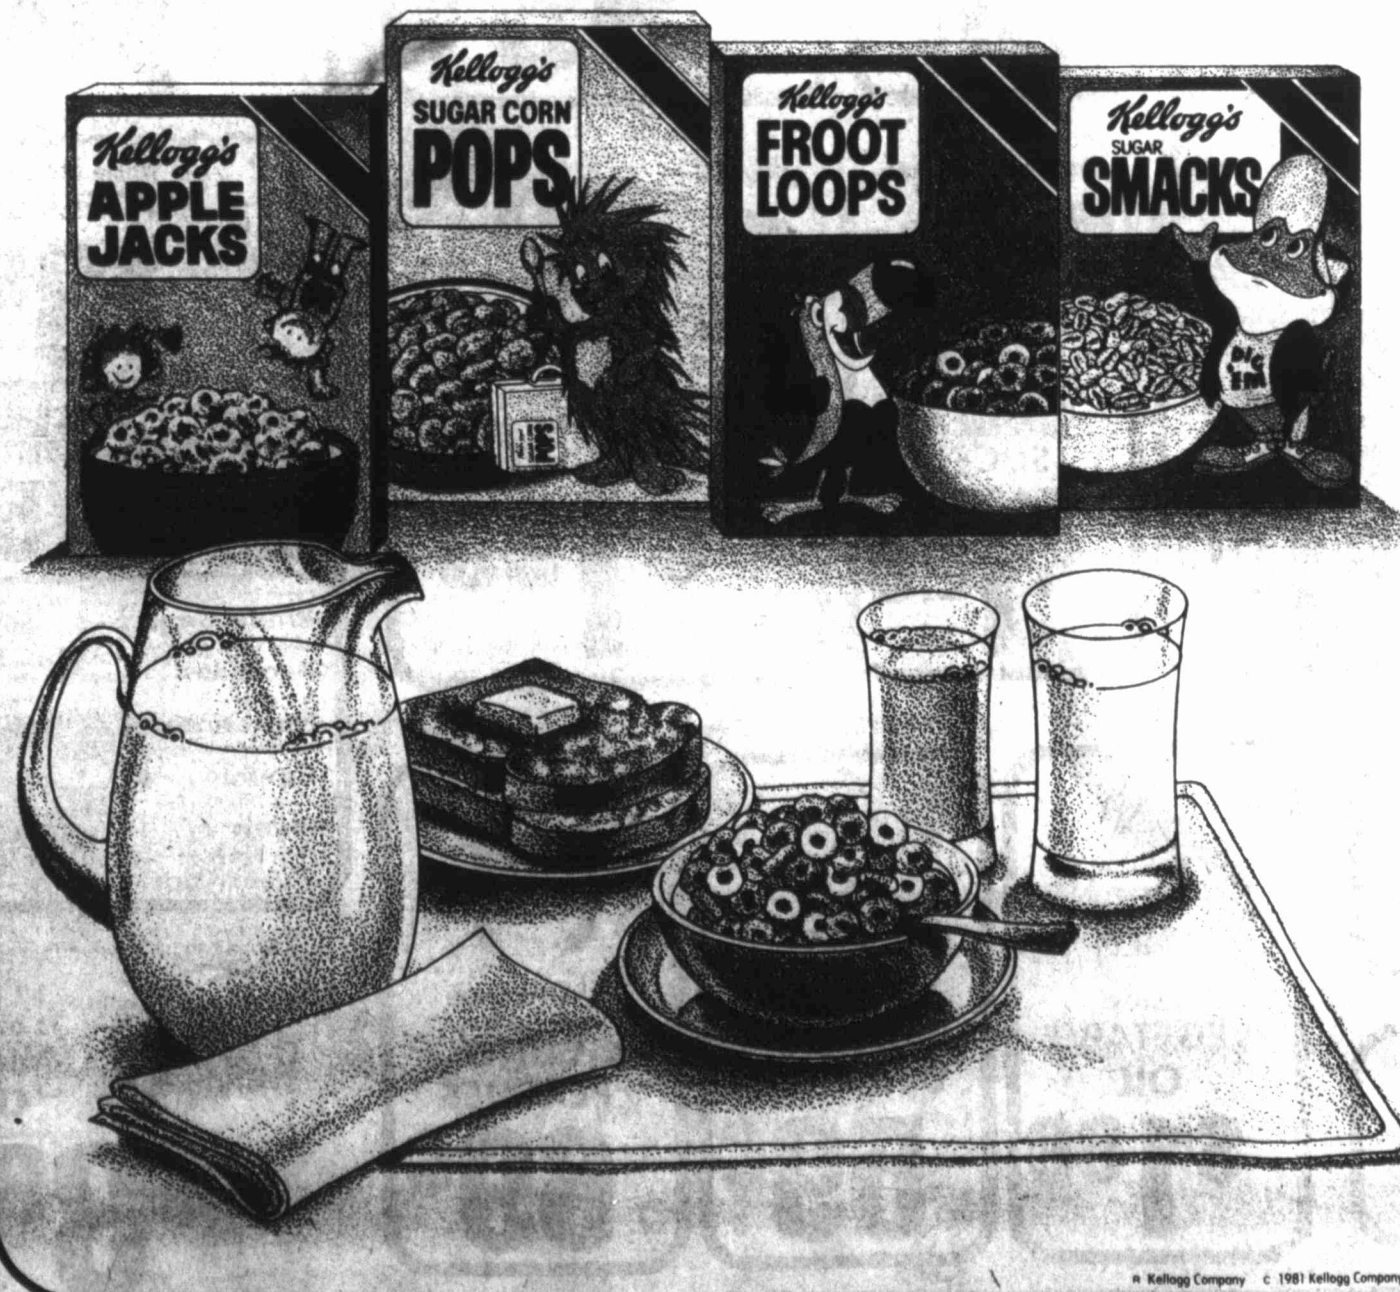

"It distributes water with little or no evaporation and little or no runoff and applies an exact amount of water precisely where and when a crop needs it," Clarke said.

Efforts also are underway to breed plants to make them more drought resistant, says Clarke.

Texas World Music Festival set for July 18 in Astrodome

The Fourth Annual Texas World Music Festival — a highly regarded rock 'n' roll tradition in Texas — has been set for the weekend of July 18, 1981, in the Astrodome in Houston. This year's festival gets underway at 2 p.m. Friday, July 17, when the popular Rock 'n' Roll Supermarket opens in the spacious Astrodome and culminates in the Fourth Annual Texas Jam at 3 p.m. Saturday, July 18, in the Astrodome.

Headlining this year's Jam will be REO Speedwagon, Heart, Foghat, Blue Oyster Cult and the Rockets. Tickets go on sale at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 13, at all Ticketmaster locations in Houston (except Montgomery Ward's, where tickets go on sale Monday, June 15), all Rainbow-Ticketmaster outlets in Dallas and San Antonio as well as many other ticket outlets all over the state. Ticket prices are $17 general admission and $18 for a limited number of reserved seats.

As has been the case for the last three years at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, the promoters are expecting a capacity crowd. As has not been the case in the Cotton Bowl shows — where Texas' summertime sunshine frequently baked music fans at temperatures estimated as high as 125 degrees on the unprotected stadium grounds — this year's show promises to be cool and comfortable regardless of the weather thanks to the controlled environment of the world famous Astrodome.

"The health and safety of the fans has been an almost overwhelming factor at these festivals in the past," Louis Messina, producer of the Texas World Music Festival since its inception in 1978, says. "I've got a lot more peace of mind this year, knowing that I don't have to expose 60,000-plus people to dangerous 120-degree temperatures.

"Plus, I think this year's line-up is the best we've ever put together," he says. "I'm really proud to have REO — which is currently riding the top of the charts with its album, Hi Infidelity — and Heart — who has always been a Texas' favorite and previously co-headlined what turned out to be the largest single-day rock 'n' roll event in Texas when they played the Festival in 1979 — sharing the bill. I think it's a really strong show."

The Fourth Annual Texas World Music Festival is a co-production of Pace Concerts and Contemporary Productions with 104KRBE serving as radio host for the show in Houston. Since this is the Festival's first year in Houston, special emphasis is being placed on the Rock 'n' Roll Supermarket in the Astrodome. In addition to retail and display areas for merchandise ranging from T-shirts and waterbeds to motorcycles, stereo equipment and electronic games, the Rock 'n' Roll Supermarket will house a roomy beer garden, a roller rink, a movie theater and much, much more.

On Friday, July 17, the Rock 'n' Roll Supermarket will host a special Mini-Jam featuring several live bands to warm up fans for Saturday's Texas Jam. Coca-Cola, one of the presenters of the Texas World Music Festival '81, will provide free admission to the Rock 'n' Roll Supermarket Friday to anyone with a bottle cap or empty can from Coke. Regular admission will be $2.50.

First day ticket sales exceed 20,000 for fest

More than 20,000 tickets to the FOURTH ANNUAL TEXAS WORLD MUSIC FESTIVAL were sold Saturday (June 13), making the first-day ticket sales for this year's festival the largest in the festival's history. It tops even the first-day response to the 1979 TEXAS WORLD MUSIC FESTIVAL, which ultimately sold out the 80,000-seat Cotton Bowl in Dallas 10 days prior to the show — which turned into the largest single-day musical event in Texas history.

Moreover, this year's initial ticket sales represent a considerably larger portion of the potential total sales figure since only 55,000 tickets are available to the July 18 event in Houston's Astrodome, compared to the 80,000 tickets available for the previous Cotton Bowl shows.

"This could be the fastest sell-out in TEXAS JAM history," Louis Messina, producer of the TEXAS WORLD MUSIC FESTIVAL since its inception in 1978, says. "It just goes to show that if you put together the best line-up in the most comfortable venue, the people will respond accordingly. I think this proves our decision to move the festival indoors into the Dome was a sound one."

Sul Ross to present two comedies

ALPINE — Sul Ross State University opens its 16th season of the Theatre of the Big Bend July 3 with David Grote's "The Medicine Man," a two-act farce.

The second production of the season, "Bedroom Farce," by Alan Ayckbourn, will open July 10.

American wild west. According to Bradley, the show "will provide good, hilarious entertainment for the entire family." An Olio will follow the two act play and will include four to five musical numbers.

Additional performances are scheduled for July 11, 17, 18 and 24.

Cast members include Bradley, Madelyn Collier, Julie Wilson, Mark Martin, Darrell White, Mark

Bradley, Rilda Caudle, Lionel Hernandez, Shanna Cowell, Debbie Dunbar, Ana Lopez and Tim Scott.

McMillan said "Bedroom" was one of Ayckbourn's funniest comedies.

Final casting for the musical, "Three Penny Opera," will be announced next week. Director June Compton plans to open the musical July 31. Both "Medicine Man" and "Bedroom Farce" will be presented at the university's Outdoor Theater at Kokernot Lodge with curtain time at 9 p.m.

"Medicine Man," under the direction of Dr. George Bradley, chairman of the Department of Communication and Theatre, will be presented by Medicine Man's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" and moved to the

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR FOR TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

One of the most basic principles of our government is due process of law. The government cannot imprison its citizens, or search their homes, or deprive them of property without giving them recourse through the legal procedure to argue their case. In fact, the burden of proof is on the government, which must show there is a justifiable reason for the action.

Yet, because of court decisions which define long distance telephone records as the property of the telephone company, the government can subpoena and obtain your records — and you might not even know that it had been done for 90 days after the records are in the government's possession.

I have introduced legislation to give telephone customers due process of law in the procedure. It would not keep the Justice Department or other government entities from getting records needed in criminal cases. But it would insure that this process is not abused, and that individuals and businesses have the fundamental right to know when their own activities — making long-distance telephone calls — are being used against them.

There is precedent for this law. In fact, it is patterned after similar legislation regarding banking records. That legislation has not impeded the judicial process. When the government needs an individual's bank records, it issues a subpoena. If the individual wishes to contest it, he appears at a court hearing and provides the reasons. The judge then makes a decision after hearing BOTH sides.

The government has moved too far in recent years in injecting itself into the lives of its citizens. Reversing that process must be one of the highest priorities of our government.

In some cases, that will mean eliminating regulations which either fail to accomplish any worthwhile purpose, or which fall outside the jurisdiction of the federal government.

In other cases, it will mean changing the federal funding structure from specific, highly regulated categorical grants to less specific block grants which return the decision-making process to more local levels.

But this bill would not be limited in its applications to reporters and their news organizations. It is a protection all Americans deserve.

I introduced a similar bill in the last Congress, and no action was taken. It is my hope that it will be enacted, either as a separate bill or as an amendment to related legislation during this Congress.

Is inflation getting worse? Who knows?

NEW YORK (AP) — You can scratch your head bald and bloody trying to figure out what to make of the latest consumer inflation figures.

Inflation is said to have risen from April to May, for example, but did the May increase really take money out of your pocket?

Is inflation really getting worse? Or is it perhaps being reduced? And if it is, who should get the credit? Is the news good or bad?

Few answers emerge in clear focus, but one thing is certain: The May price rise of 0.7 percent, equal to an annual rate of more than 8.4 percent, will be deemed almost meaningless by some.

Housing costs, which include interest rates and carry inordinate weight in the calculations, rose sharply, as anyone who couldn't afford to buy a house knows well.

People weren't buying houses. They withdrew from the market, as sensible people do when they perceive terms to be unfair. In the existing home market, for example, this has been the worst sales year since 1975. The reason is extraordinary interest rates.

Besides, how many people ever are in the housing market? A boom year in housing, which isn't likely, would consist of about 5 million sales of new and existing homes. Yet the assumption in the consumer price index is that everyone is always in the market for a house.

The cost of housing rose 1.3 percent in May, helped by an increase of 2.1 percent in mortgage interest rates, 0.9 percent in house prices and 0.8 percent in rents. It distorted the price index.

It probably means the news actually is better than it appears. Certainly there is good news because for the first time in two years the consumer price index for a 12-month period fell into the single digits. The May to May inflation rate was 9.8 percent.

But it has another side. There is a sluggish economy and unemployment at 7.6 percent. The auto industry is in a slump. Small businesses are in distress. If inflation is slowing, then a slowing economy has a bit to do with it.

And who gets the credit? There is no answer, but there are observations.

Not President Reagan because he hasn't been in office that long, especially since the 9.8 percent inflation rate in the May 1980-May 1981 is lower than his own forecast of no less than 10.2 percent.

Forecasters can't get credit either. Few foresaw events that could produce a single-digit inflation rate for 1981. Events such as the oil glut and the drop in commodity prices and even, for a time, a dip in housing prices.

Debate erupting over Urban National Parks

EDITOR'S NOTE: America's national parks originally were established to preserve rare scenic wilderness. But in recent years, parks also have been created to serve people. In the third of a five-part series, AP Writer Paul Simon examines a heated debate over these new urban parks.

By PAUL SIMON
Associated Press Writer

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — With their spectacular vistas of the Pacific, the mountains and the lights of Los Angeles, the Santa Monica Mountains represent the quintessence of the coveted Southern California lifestyle — free and easy and outdoors. The green hills, serene valleys and jagged peaks of the mountains stretch out from the heart of the nation's third-largest city for 40 miles along the Pacific Coast.

A "scenic experience," conservationists call it, in the beautiful land of Hollywood make-believe, the Beach Boys and California dreamin'.

A wonderland, they say, of these mountains rising out of the urban sprawl and tangled freeways of smog-plagued Los Angeles.

A blessing, they add, that this grandeur was to be taken out of reach of the developer's covetous grasp — protected as the Santa Monica Mountains National Recreation Area.

But is it all really safe from the designs of man? Can the National Park Service safeguard the 150,000 acres of these mountains that Congress in 1978 ordered it to preserve?

A bigger question: SHOULD the government protect it? Is it grand enough or needed enough to ask taxpayers in Delaware, the only state with no national park, recreation area or historic monument, to help pay?

These are some of the questions the budget-conscious Reagan administration and Congress are struggling to answer in what has become a heated debate over the purpose and the future of the National Park System.

Interior Secretary James Watt initiated the discussion when he froze funds designated for park acquisition, a move that hit hardest at so-called urban parks created during the 1970s to meet the needs of cities wracked by social unrest in the previous decade.

His assistant's internal memo suggesting divestiture of Santa Monica and other urban parks fueled the controversy, which recently reached a flashpoint when Watt ordered an investigation of alleged improprieties in the setting of boundaries for several new seashores, lakeshores and recreation areas.

The moratorium, affecting $56.6 million unspent or budgeted for Santa Monica, could produce a "crisis" that would permanently alter the area, says Margot Feuer of the Sierra Club's recreation area task force and a member of the advisory committee overseeing development of Santa Monica.

So far, $29 million has yielded 3,000 of the 55,000 acres the Park Service planned to buy. Some 36,000 acres is state parkland within the recreation area. The rest of the 150,000 acres is subject to development restrictions.

Since the moratorium, one developer has expressed interest in buying back land it had sold to the government, however, confirming conservationists' worst fears. Still, much of the private land may be too rugged for development.

Watt, who deplores the condition of America's parks, argues that too many have been added to the system too quickly — 107 in the last decade, nearly a third of the total — and too little attention has been given to caring for existing areas.

"The real question in today's world of limited fiscal resources is that we find the urban national recreation areas compete to an extraordinary degree for the small available resources that are there," says Parks Service Director Russell Dickenson.

At a time when the Park Service has a $1.6 billion backlog of maintenance and development projects, Watt says, completing the acquisition of the Santa Monica area alone would cost between $500 million and $600 million.

"We don't need a park in every congressional district," he adds, in a blunt reference to a key element in national parks policy — politics.

Fifty-four parks and recreation areas — nearly a quarter of the total — were added to the system between 1977 and 1980, when Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., was chairman of the House National Parks subcommittee.

"We would wake up in the morning and find that Congress had voted in five new parks," recalls Hugh Miller, chief architectural historian for the Park Service. Some were created without hearings, including some that "many of us feel are marginal and don't meet standards," he said.

Since 1970, the National Parks Advisory Board has opposed the addition of only seven parks, including Santa Monica and the 32,000-acre Cuyahoga Valley National Recreation Area near Cleveland.

Another of these parks, the Chattahoochee River National Recreation Area in Atlanta, was added when Jimmy Carter, a Georgian, was president.

"We are beginning to build up recreation areas that are little more than patchwork quills behind the great cities because of heavy lobbying by congressional delegations," says Robin Winks, a Yale University history professor who is to be the new chairman of the National Parks Advisory Board.

He points to the Gateway National Recreation Area in New York City as an example of the problem. That park, like the Golden Gate National Recreation Area in San Francisco, was created to demonstrate what cities and states could accomplish for urban dwellers.

Birds and supersonic jetliners share the sky over 26,000-acre Gateway, which attracts four times as many visitors as Yellowstone to an area a hundredth the size. Winks supported Gateway but opposed the subsequent addition of Jacob Riis Beach, a former city park. "There is no reason that a taxpayer in Montana ought to be paying for a bathing beach in New York City," he says.

"Cities lack the funds to maintain these sites and the federal pork barrel is one way to transfer responsibility," he adds.

It is such assertions that proponents of urban parks are challenging. Parks, they contend, are for people. And the nation's parks should not be limited to remote areas of spectacular natural beauty accessible only to those with enough money and time to visit them.

"He (Watt) feels that unless the individual makes a trek to a Yellowstone or a Yosemite, it is of little significance," says Ms. Feuer of the Sierra Club. "He forgets the day-to-day experience that is necessary for quality of life."

Adds Burton, "It is quite startling in this day of energy conservation and the cost of automobile transportation that this idea of bringing parks closer to the people should be under assault. I would think it would be nurtured."

At Santa Monica, inner-city youngsters and senior citizens, hospital patients and the handicapped come by bus to enjoy the mountains and adjacent beaches. The area attracts 1 million visitors a year.

"It's a hard to believe, but some of these people from Los Angeles have never seen the ocean or been in the mountains," said Bill Anderson, director of visitor services.

Gateway, along the New York harbor, is accessible by subway and bus. Last year, it drew 9.4 million visitors. Says Superintendent Herbert S. Cables, it "gives a lot of people around here the opportunity to appreciate the magnificence of our national parks."

Five million people a year visit Cuyahoga Valley, with its two golf courses, pair of ski areas and the Blossom Music Center, summer home of the Cleveland Orchestra.

And thousands of youngsters take to the IMPACT ON PARKS UNKNOWN — Conservationists and Park Service employees wonder what changes Interior Secretary James Watt, left, will bring. Sierra Club Executive Director Michael McCloskey said Watt "shows no concern for the protection and enhancement of our environment."

Chattahoochee along Atlanta's north side to enjoy a cool rubber raft trip down the river on hot summer days. The Park Service and local groups conduct summer programs for inner-city youths. There are, of course, problems in these urban parks. City crime and urban ways. Stripped and abandoned cars at Gateway, endless litter at Chattahoochee, and a plan to create a trash and garbage landfill on private land within Cuyahoga Valley.

MIDLAND — William L. Teichmann, 28, of Stanton, injured when his motorcycle struck a pole about 3:30 p.m., Sunday on US Highway 80 about a mile west of Stanton, was reported in stable condition Monday night in Midland Memorial Hospital. Teichmann was suffering from head injuries.

Reagan's pledge to appoint woman to court was sincere

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's promise to name a woman to the Supreme Court was no offhand campaign comment — it was in the script, and it was a pledge with a purpose. It was hedged just enough so that Reagan is not committed to make his first court appointment the court's first woman justice. He said it would be one of the first.

House political aides say he will seek re-election in 1984. Richard M. Nixon shaped the current court with four appointments during his presidency. There were none at all during Jimmy Carter's term. Stewart is one of two current justices appointed by Dwight D. Eisenhower. John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Gerald R. Ford each named one of the men now on the high court.

Reagan's promise to send "the most qualified woman I can find" to the Supreme Court was made last Oct. 14, as he sought to fend off campaign accusations that he didn't favor equal rights for women. That stemmed from the Republican platform, and from his own opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution. He said equality could better be achieved by statute than by constitutional amendment.

Frost opposes AWACS sales to Saudis WASHINGTON (AP) — The sale of sophisticated arms to Saudi Arabia should be voted down by Congress because of its dangerous consequences for Israel, Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas, said Tuesday. President Reagan has indicated he will sell Airborne Warning and Control Systems (AWACS) planes to Saudi Arabia, and the sale will automatically be approved unless both the House and Senate reject it by a majority vote within 60 days after the proposed sale's formal submission to Congress.

Beautiful and practical Salads are summer favorites

If salads are nature's gift to the menu-maker, then summer is the season of generosity. With fresh produce filling grocery bins and roadside carts, the time is ripe to add new salads to your menus. Celebrate summer with salad suggestions from the Kraft Kitchens. With each colorful collection of fruits and vegetables there's an extra special dressing idea created to enhance the salad flavors and yet assert a distinct character all its own. After all, produce is only the beginning. Real salad "savvy" shows in a memorable dressing. From a light summer luncheon to a Sunday night supper, here are six ideas that spotlight fresh fruit and vegetables for irresistible summer eating.

The three salads on the right are each unique, but each uses a piece of fruit as the "Salad Server." The Cantaloupe Fruit Bowl starts with a cantaloupe to provide the server for a cool, refreshing fruit salad with an interesting dressing to top it off. Hawaiian Delight features the ever favorite pineapple in the traditional way, chunks on a skewer, with chunks of ham, tomatoes, bananas, and green pepper. The pineapple itself holds the dressing to make it a "Salad Server" too. Avocado halves filled with rice salad and topped with French dressing are perfect for the light lunch.

Casual get-togethers and picnics mean lots of help-yourself salad fun for active appetites. Main dish salads as shown below can be served in a variety of ways. Zesty Potato Salad combines favorite potato salad ingredients and turns them out in a spectacular new way! Sunshine Salad Toss mixes those sweet and sunny flavors of California fruits with lettuce, chicken and creamy cucumber dressing to create a summer supper. Another main dish is the Hearty Potato Platter. Create an attractive salad by arranging potatoes, roast beef slices, chopped tomatoes and onion on a bed of lettuce. Crumbled blue cheese and bottled thousand island dressing add that special occasion flair for another tasty summer salad. Fresh and refreshing, these salads and dressing ideas help you create summer favorites with great taste and style.

Common Sense Cooking

by Ruth McDaniel

Dear Ruth,
I need help! I'd like to know how to make Apple Fritters. The kind that is made out of sweet dough and is deep fried like doughnuts.

I love your column in the Hastings Reminder.

Mrs. F.A., Hastings, Mich. Dear Mrs. F.A.,

This recipe can be used to dip sliced fruit in or you can also fold in small fruits such as blueberries or raspberries in batter and drop by teaspoonsful into hot grease.

APPLE OR OTHER FRUIT FRITTERS
After mixing batter, let rest at least 2 hours after mixing (to let batter ferment a bit - this is very important - it can even be mixed one day and used the next). Be sure the fruit is ripe but not mushy. Keep fruit slices about 1/4 thick. Use apples, cored and cut crosswise, pineapple, orange sections, halves of canned apricots or bananas cut in 3 or 4 diagonal pieces. It helps to marinate the fruit in a little rum or brandy for a couple of hours and then drain fruit well and dust with powdered sugar just before dipping fruit into the batter.

FRITTER BATTER FOR FRUIT
This makes enough to cover 2 cups sliced fruit or to hold about 2 cups of small fruits and berries that are mixed directly into batter.

Heat fat to 375 degrees. Beat together:
2 egg yolks
1 Tbsp. melted butter
1 Tbsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
2-3 cup milk or liquid from fruit marinade
1 cup flour
Combine liquid and dry ingredients. Let set at least 2 hours, covered and refrigerated. Just before using the batter, whip until stiff but not dry, 2 egg whites and fold them into the batter. Dip into the batter, the well-drained sugared fruit, and dry in hot deep fat. The fritters take about 3 to 4 minutes to brown. Drain on brown paper and dust with powdered sugar.

Invasion of squatters spells trouble

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Pedro Lopez arrived in Juarez on June 1, along with his family, a few possessions and high hopes. Less than two weeks later, he was jobless, hungry and seeking handouts for medicine for his children.

Lopez, 56, had traveled from the state of Guanajuato in central Mexico with plans to work in the fields in the United States as he had as an illegal alien in 1951.

But upon his arrival, he found there were long waiting lists for papers to cross the border and he could not find a job in Juarez.

"If I don't find work soon, I'll sneak across the river again," he said. "I'm trying to wait for the papers to come over, but I must work."

Lopez's story is not uncommon in Juarez, a bustling city of nearly 1 million people across the Rio Grande River from El Paso.

Every day, between 80 and 100 people from the interior of Mexico pour into Juarez, looking for jobs or an opportunity to cross the border.

For many, the only option upon arrival is to move to the "colonias," squatters' villages that have sprung up along the outskirts of the city. There, they set up housekeeping while they search for work, immigration papers and a better life.

Nobody knows for sure, but it's been estimated that about 200,000 Mexicans live in the colonias around Juarez, according to Juarez Mayor Jose Reyes Estrada.

They live in shacks and houses constructed from whatever is available — adobe, cinder blocks, scrap wood, tin, even cardboard. Some of the colonias have electricity and running water; many don't. The land where they build belongs to someone else and they may or may not pay rent.

Many die from dehydration or heatstroke when the summer heat rises above 100 degrees. Others freeze to death in the winter because they cannot find enough wood or kerosene to heat their homes.

"Ever since Juarez has been Juarez, the problem has existed," Reyes Estrada said. "There's such a demographic explosion in our country, people tend to go to the border. Some of them want to cross the border and others have the impression that there is more work here."

"What we receive here are people who are not linked to the city and who have no jobs," he said.

The flow of squatters into the city has been steady since the mid-1960s, when there was a near-revolt by lower class Mexicans demanding land. Most of the conflicts between the government and the squatters occurred in ranch lands further south, but the squatters also were making their way to border cities like Juarez.

They were called "paracaidistas," or parachutists, because it was as if they had dropped from the sky.

As the colonias grew, the residents turned to local leaders or committees to police the neighborhoods and intervene with the city government. Some of the leaders were leftists and troublemakers, Reyes Estrada said.

"Many leaders of the squatters have emerged in the different parts of the city," the mayor said. "They naturally tried to control as many people as possible. Their main encouragement with the people is that they're going to get them their land titles at the lowest price possible."

Ownership titles to the land where the squatters live recently was the cause of an outbreak of violence in Juarez that still is rumbling in the city.

May 31, Jose Fernandez Mejia, 39, was killed and 10 people were injured in a shootout between colonia residents and members of the leftist Comité de Defensa Popular.

The committee runs a colonia of 1,500 people called Tierra y Libertad — Land and Liberty.

Some residents circumvented the committee and went directly to Reyes Estrada in their search for the land titles. When the titles were distributed, committee members met to plan the eviction of the residents who had taken them. Shooting started when the residents arrived at the meeting, police said.

In subsequent protest marches, the committee blamed Reyes Estrada for the shooting, saying his actions led to the violence. But the mayor says the accusations are merely an attempt to turn attention away from the internal problems of the committee.

"The bigger the lie, the more effective it is to distract attention from the main problem," he said. "This committee is the only one that has caused any problems. There are hundreds of groups, but the rest are quiet and calm."

Despite the recent trouble, Reyes Estrada said the city will continue to give the land titles to the residents. The city has been buying the colonia land from the owners and then selling it in small parcels to the squatters.

"The city has been issuing titles at an extremely low price," the mayor said.

"When people are so poor that they cannot pay anything for their land, their title is issued to them exempt of payment."

Other projects designed to help the residents include government-subsidized markets and day-care centers opening in various parts of the city, 10 free medical clinics and employment programs.

"The federal government is making a big investment — 1,800,000 pesos (about $75,000) — to solve the water and sewer problem," Reyes Estrada said. "We are opening service to all of the outlying areas."

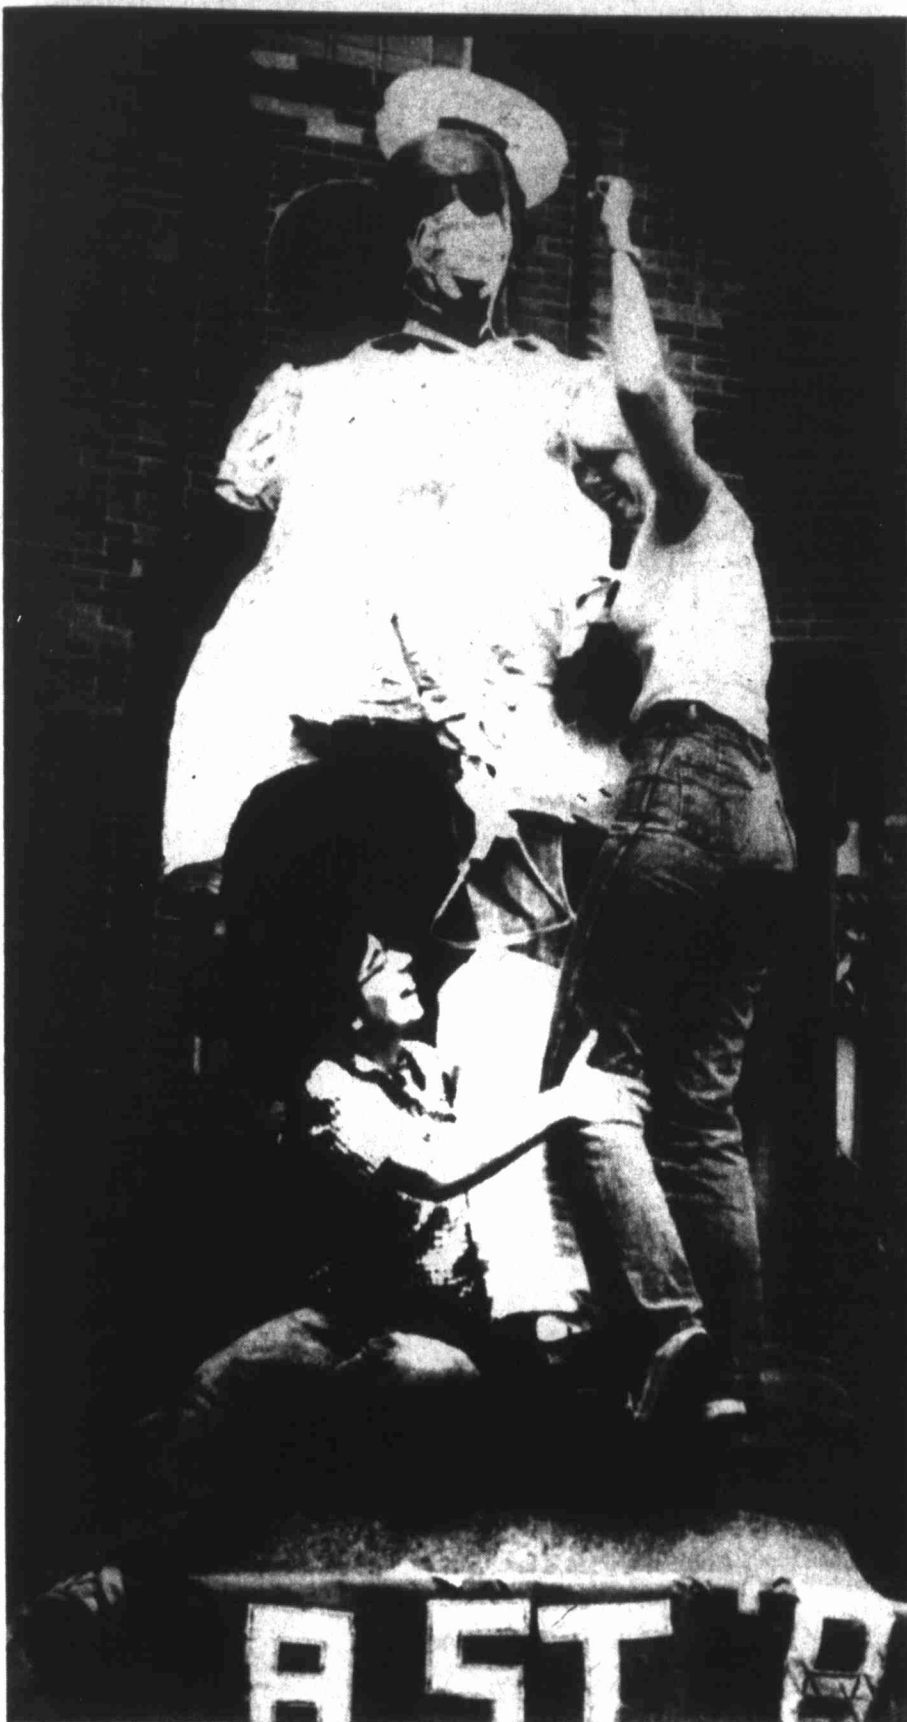

Although the new programs help, Reyes Estrada said, "the city is growing so fast that when one problem is solved, 10 more spring up."

He says the real answer lies in the national economy, in the ability of poor Mexicans to find jobs in their hometowns rather than coming to Juarez with few skills and high hopes.

New legal troubles hit cattle leasing baron

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — The financially troubled empire of cattle leasing baron Clayton McKenzie has received another setback in the form of a multimillion lawsuit filed by a Denver, Colo. agricultural bank, a Palestine newspaper says.

McKenzie, known as a "messiah of milk producers" after he founded a $25 million rent a cow business, is accused in the suit of conspiring to "cheat, defraud and deceive" Wells Fargo Agricultural Credit Corp. to obtain a $6.5 million loan last January, The Palestine Herald Press reported.

The suit names as defendants McKenzie's Quality Holstein Leasing Associates Limited Partnership, McKenzie and his wife, Sharon, and Allen Nicholas, Pat Marler, Dan Scarbrough and Matt Swift, the newspaper said.

Last week, attorneys for McKenzie, Quality Holstein Leasing, Inc. and two affiliated companies filed petitions for reorganization in a federal bankruptcy court in Dallas. McKenzie is seeking to freeze action on demands for payment filed by 180 creditors of his Anderson County enterprises. The Wells Fargo suit was filed in April in a federal court in Denver. The Herald Press said. The Denver bank is seeking $6.5 million in actual damages and a $30 million punitive award.

Last January, Wells Fargo loaned QHL, Inc. nearly $6.5 million to purchase dairy cows later to be leased to qualified dairy operators the suit states. Under the credit agreement, Wells Fargo claimed security interest in all QHL accounts and rights to all rent payments on all cattle leases, the suit said.

To monitor the leases, Wells Fargo requested that QHL provide copies of all lease agreements, bills of sale, and other supporting documents.

Between January and March, QHL officers met that requirement by submitting copies of lease agreements to WF officials and attesting to signatures on leases, the suit says.

But Wells Fargo alleges that Nicholas, Marler, Swift and Scarbrough attested to forged signatures on lease agreements that later were found to be invalid.
