Local DWI arrests double last year's number

By ANDREA COHEN

The number of arrests of persons charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) has increased to almost double of last year's total, according to statistics from the Big Spring Police Department.

A total of 30 arrests for DWI violations were made in May as compared to 17 arrests made in May, 1980.

From Jan. 1 to May 31 of this year, a total of 186 DWI arrests were made, compared to the 95 arrests made in the same period last year.

"We're concentrating on alcohol related traffic violations more than last year," said Big Spring Police Captain Sherrill Farmer. "A large percentage of accidents are related to drivers who are under the influence of alcohol."

The number of vehicle mishaps were down in May from last year from 97 to 86. However, accidents where persons were injured went from 23 in May of last year to 26 this month. The number of injured persons also increased to 42 from 38 last year.

Vehicle citations issued to date this year total 3,273, of which 2,201 were moving violations. For the same period last year, 2,797 citations were issued, of which the moving violations totalled 1,491.

Big Spring Police Captain Claude Morris credits the upswing in citations and the decrease in accidents to the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (S.T.E.P.) where the patrolman work off hours to enforce traffic safety.

The money for S.T.E.P. comes from a federal grant distributed through the Texas Office of Traffic Safety. The S.T.E.P. program is worked in concentrated areas which have been designated as high accident zones that are speed related.

"The S.T.E.P. program is supposed to cut down on injuries, but it hasn't," Morris said. "It hasn't gone up much, but it's gone up."

As with May of last year, no fatalities were reported, bringing the total number to one this year. For the five months period last year, two fatalities were reported.

The dollar amount of stolen property took a substantial jump in the city last month over May of last year.

According to statistics released by the Big Spring Police Department, $94,058 was stolen due to incidents of robbery, burglaries, larcenies and motor vehicle thefts, as opposed to $61,463 in May, 1980.

The increase is due to a large jump in the property value of motor vehicle thefts. Last month, 14 motor vehicles were stolen at a value of $64,550. In May of last year, 11 were stolen at a value of $24,900.

However, the property values from other crimes decreased last month compared to the figures from May of last year. Last month, 92 cases of larceny were reported with the value estimated at $7,588. In May, 1980, 68 cases were reported at $24,403.

One rape was reported last month as there was last May. And as with last year at the same time, no homicides were reported.

A total of three murders were reported between January and May of this year, down by one in the same period last year. As with the first five months of 1980, three rapes have been reported this year.

Assaults, larcenies and robberies have risen slightly so far this year as compared to last year, with motor vehicle thefts and burglaries declining.

"It seems like it's crawling upwards," said Big Spring Police Captain Claude Morris. "I feel like it's our courts and maybe probation officers are too lenient. I could be wrong. If violators knew that when they broke probation they'd have to go back to the pen, maybe it wouldn't go up. I think we need stricter probation laws and stiffer penalties in court."

Commissioners approve plan to send employees to college

County commissioners gave their permission today to a plan to send three county employees to college this fall.

Dorothy Moore, county tax assessor-collector, asked the commissioners to approve sending two of her employees to a computer course at Howard College. Mrs. Moore explained that she needs people in her office knowledgeable in computer science to serve as back-up workers on the county computer.

Bernie Franklin, county treasurer, was also given permission to attend a computer course at the college. Mrs. Franklin said she needed to know how to work the CRT unit in the treasury office.

The county employees will attend classes on Tuesday and Thursday mornings for an hour, and will attend a lab on Thursday afternoons.

Bill Mims, county engineer, told commissioners that seal-coating is under way on several miles of county roads in precinct three. More than 12 miles of seal-coating had been applied as of this morning, he said.

Commissioners also agreed to a request to undedicate a section of Cross Avenue in Sand Springs, which had been dedicated to private property. By undedicating the section of road, the property owner may clear up the title to the land.

Commissioners were told that Jack Watkins of the county tax appraisal board had struck a deal with Wayne Bristow to pay $3,000 in back payments for use of the county computer.

Approval was also given for a cable right-of-way for West-Tex telephone Corporation. An easement was approved north of Sand Springs, running two miles to the Colorado Road, then veering to the Snyder Highway, to the Centerpoint Road, and ending up across the Gail Highway, four miles north of Highway 350.

Leland waging 'open warfare' against Stenholm, two others

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heat is on for a new — in one form or another — for several Texas Democrats who again rebuffed party leaders to help give President Reagan a crucial victory several days ago on his budget.

Rep. Mickey Leland, a Democrat who represents an inner-city Houston district, declared open warfare Saturday against Reps. Kent Hance of Lubbock, Phil Gramm of College Station and Charlie Stenholm of Stamford.

Gramm, as author and co-sponsor of the bipartisan budget bill favored by the president but despised by liberal Democrats, has drawn the biggest fire.

But Hance and Stenholm are being fired at more and more — Hance because he is co-sponsor of the president's bipartisan tax cut bill and Stenholm because he is chairman of the conservative coalition that has provided the bulk of the Democratic defections in support of the president.

Charles Manatt, Democratic national chairman, has said he'd like to kick Gramm out of the party, and Rep. Toby Moffett, a liberal Democrat from Connecticut, is planning to circulate a petition to boot Gramm out of his spot on the Budget Committee.

Leland told the Texas Coalition of Black Democrats in an Amarillo speech that all three should be stripped of their important committee assignments; that future support and funds of the Democratic Party, either nationally or in Texas, should be denied them; and that "real" Democrats should be sought to oppose them in future elections.

Stenholm is chairman of the 47-member Conservative Democratic Forum, which was organized last November to give conservatives more clout. It resulted in conservatives like Hance and Gramm, both only second-term members of Congress, being named to important committee spots — Gramm to the Budget Committee and Hance to Ways and Means.

The coalition delivered 29 votes to the president Thursday and Friday, allowing him to win approval for his budget, despite the GOP being outnumbered by more than 50 seats in the Democratic-controlled House.

"The truth is, these turncoats are not members of our party. They have abandoned us and have already divided the party," Leland said, adding that he will seek "real Democrats" to run for election in 1982 against Hance, Gramm and Stenholm, whom he called "three evil men."

Gramm said he has no plans to switch to the Republican Party, despite the fire he has come under.

He acknowledged that in accomplishing his "finest hour" with the victory on the budget bill, he might very well not be re-named to the Budget Committee in the next term of Congress.

"That may well be," he said. "I was elected, and they could very well un-elect me. Getting on the committee was an opportunity for me to do a job that needed to be done, and obviously I'd like to stay."

In all, nine Texas Democrats voted for the bipartisan budget bill, which won by such a small margin that if four of them had remained with the leadership, the Democrats would have prevailed.

"Although I have no patience with those members of the Texas delegation who vote with Reagan — or especially those like Charlie Stenholm who appear with the president and reap the personal attention and publicity — and would like to see them defeated, Hance and Gramm deserve a forceful immediate response from the Democratic party. They ought to be punished," Leland said.

Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, the House Majority Leader, hasn't been on speaking terms with Gramm for weeks. He feels betrayed after having used his influence to help get Gramm and Hance their committee spots. But he opposes taking their positions away.

"I never have favored punishing anybody," Wright said.

"Discipline? Just what do you suggest I do? There's darn little discipline we can employ any more. I have no rewards to grant or punishment to inflict, and wouldn't want to," he added.

"If I'm not able, by persuasion, to do my job, maybe somebody else should take it over," he said.

Asked if there are some he considers unpardonable, Wright couldn't suppress a grin. "I've almost come to that conclusion."

The House floor became a battleground Friday as Republican and Democratic leaders exchanged harsh diatribes in the battle for votes.

FIREMAN HAS HOT STICK — Big Spring Fire Department's Rodney Phillips takes a cut and connects off a pitch from Police Department pitcher Eddie Almond during yesterday's charity raising Slow-Pitch game between the two local forces. Umpiring is Doug Taylor. The two teams split the doubleheader, with the Fire Department winning the opener 10-9 before dropping the nightcap 4-2. A total of 132 dollars was raised during the festivities, which will be split between the Firefighters and Smokies. Fire Chief Jim Ryals explained that his team will play more charity games this summer, and at the end give the donations raised to an organization to be named at a later date.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: 'Poor' presidents

Q. Some United States presidents seem to live in such opulence. Didn't others die broke, however?

A. Yes, among them Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and James Monroe. Jefferson, a brilliant man, needed help extended by congress to survive. Madison died penniless while Monroe's financial woes hounded him the last few years of his life.

Words of freedom

The American spirit is not the conscience of America, and yet the two are inseparable.

The spirit of America ... the very same spirit that inspired the men at Lexington and Concord ... Philadelphia and Valley Forge ... the very same spirit that burned in Davy Crockett, Brigham Young and Sam Houston ... the very same spirit that drove the likes of Henry Ford and the Wright brothers, Charles Lindbergh and Thomas Edison, was also in the trenches at Verdun, in the mirrored corridors of Versailles, and on the street in the wild and turbulent America in 1929.

This same spirit, America's incredible resiliency and her ability to laugh through her tears and at herself, gave us all the new-realizations that America's strength lies in her determination, and in the spirit of her people.

—O.J. Simpson

Calendar: Swimming party

MONDAY

The Howard County Democratic Club will hold a swimming-and-ice-cream party at the Ponderosa Apartments, 1429 E. 6th, from 6 to 10 p.m. All members, their families and fellow Democrats are invited.

American Petrofina names general manager

DALLAS — Appointment of Charles R. (Buddy) Carswell to the newly created position of general manager, Drilling and Production in the recently combined Production and Exploration Department has been announced by American Petrofina, Inc.

Carswell joined Fina as a district engineer in East Texas in June 1959, and was promoted to area engineer in the Dallas office in June 1961. He moved to Corpus Christi as district manager for the Gulf Coast in June 1965.

A native of Tyler, Texas, Carswell received a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Texas at Austin.

Carswell moves to Dallas from Corpus Christi, where he has served as district manager, Gulf Coast production, since June 1965. In the newly created post, he will report to R.B. Wilkins, vice president, Production. Carswell will be responsible for coordinating all production activities as well as creating a new specialists group to follow Fina's increasing drilling activities.

Carswell joined Fina as a district engineer in East Texas in June 1959, and was promoted to area engineer in the Dallas office in June 1961. He moved to Corpus Christi as district manager for the Gulf Coast in June 1965.

A native of Tyler, Texas, Carswell received a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Texas at Austin.

Digest

High court sets aside

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today set aside the death sentences of seven convicted Texas murderers.

The justices told a state appeals court to restudy the sentences in light of their latest decision involving the rights of defendants facing possible capital punishment.

At the same time, however, the nation's highest court left intact the death sentences of six other Texas murderers whose appeals also raised that issue.

On May 18, the Supreme Court ruled in a Texas case that murder defendants must be warned prior to psychiatric testing if the test results are used after conviction to help choose life or death as punishment.

It is possible that new sentencing trials will have to be held for each of the six men.

Today's action set aside the death sentences — but not the murder convictions — of these Texas death row inmates:

- John Wilder, sentenced to die for the Dec. 22, 1975, shooting death of Duane Jaixen, a 19-year-old attendant at a service station along Interstate 30 near Hooks in Bowie County.
- Artie Armour, also convicted in Jaixen's murder.
- Moses Lopez Garcia, convicted for the Sept. 26, 1974, slaying in Houston of David Lewis during a robbery.
- James Charles Simmons Jr., convicted in the Jan. 5, 1979, beating and stabbing death of Truett Ledford, the 70-year-old owner of a Hill County service station.
- Thelete Brandon, who was convicted in 1976 for the stabbing death of Waco police sergeant Roger Barnett.
- James R. Parker.
- Mag Daleno Rodriguez, convicted in the Feb. 8, 1977, shooting death of Maria Guajardo during a grocery store robbery in San Antonio.

The court left intact the death sentences of these death row inmates:

- Billy Joe Woods, convicted in the Oct. 15, 1975, beating and strangulation death of 62-year-old Mable Ehatt in Houston.
- Walter Bell Jr., convicted in the July 19, 1974, murder of Irene Chisum in Port Arthur.
- Charlie Brooks Jr., given the death sentence for the Dec. 14, 1976, kidnapping and murder in Fort Worth of David Gregory.
- Randy Glenn Green, convicted of beating to death Harold Eugene Robinson, the 72-year-old owner of a Baytown tavern on June 29, 1976.
- James Demouchette, found guilty of the Oct. 18, 1976, shooting death of Scott Sorrells during an armed robbery at a Houston pizza restaurant.
- Thomas Barefoot, sentenced to death for the shooting death of Harker Height police officer Carl Levin on Aug. 7, 1978.

Man sets bomb in Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican security agents today arrested a man trying to light the fuse of a homemade bomb in St. Peter's Basilica minutes before the start of a Mass to mark Saints Peter and Paul Day, Italian police reported.

The man, reportedly an Italian in his late 40s, was near the main Bernini altar of the largest church in Christendom when he was stopped by two Vatican agents, police said.

Police said the agents overpowered him as he tried to ignite the fuse of an explosive device they described as a "crude home-made bomb."

"He made wild gestures, waving his hat in mock salute to the crowd," said a police officer. "He seemed like a crazy person."

Police said the man carried no documents. Vatican security turned him over to Italian police and he was taken to a nearby police station for questioning.

Cardinal Agostino Casaroli, the No. 2 man at the Vatican as secretary of state, was to celebrate Mass with 180 priests from many countries a special Mass honoring the two Apostles.

Casaroli was not in the basilica when the man was arrested. After the man was taken out, the Mass began on schedule before an audience of 20,000 faithful.

There was no indication of any link between today's incident and the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II nearly six weeks ago.

The pontiff was seriously wounded by a would-be assassin's bullets fired while he was greeting pilgrims in St. Peter's Square outside the massive basilica on May 13.

After two weeks in a Rome hospital, the pontiff was released, only to be re-admitted last week because of a virus that brought a recurrent fever. Doctors have said he may remain hospitalized for one to three weeks more.

Police are holding a rightwing Turkish terrorist on charges of shooting the pope and two American women who were wounded by the gunman's fire.

PREMIER RIDER — Monte Henson of Mesquite, Tex., regarded as one of the world's greatest saddle bronc riders, achieved a judges' score of 74 with this ride in the Friday night performance of the Big Spring Rodeo. The horse's name is Little Dreamer and at the time he was hoping to turn Henson's ride into a nightmare.

75 students on college honor roll

Seventy-five students from the Howard County Junior College District — 61 from the Howard College campus and 14 from the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus — have been named to the Howard County Junior College District Honors Lists, announced Dr. Charles Hays, President of the District.

"The purpose of the honor roll is to commend officially those students who are enrolled for a minimum of 14 semester hours and whose grade point average is 3.0 or above," said Dr. Hays. "Honors at graduation are based on a student's grade point average of the total hours attempted."

"This year, the first in the history of the District, we had three students graduate as valedictorians. This honor is given to the student with the highest grade point average. This year we had three students graduate with perfect 4.0 grade point averages," said Dr. Hays.

The three students named to the President's List were Nickie Billingsley, Michael Evans and Linda Mitchell. These students completed 60 or more semester hours with a grade point average of 4.0.

Thirteen students were placed on the Summa Cum Laude honors list. These honor students must have 60 or more grade points and a grade point average of 4.0. They are Douglas Ashby, Victoria Berry, Brenda Lewis, Nancy Gilliam, Javier Martinez, Alice Munoz, Frankie Noyola, J.A. Phelps, Irene Smith, Ronald Sundry, Danny Thomas, Robert Wolf and Janis Whitehead.

Students placed on the Cum Laude Ampla Et Magna honors list were: Melissa Baker, Rocky Bryant, Richard Burrow, Peggy Calhoun, Paul Clark, Malinda Claxton, Charles Doan, Sharon Dwire, Jacques Fulesday, Jerry Hall, Alisa Ireton, Cindy Knight, Timothy Lelek, Bryan Lewis, Carrie Lutrick, Belinda Martin, Kellie Mull, Eddie Raney and Sidney Westbrook. These students had to have 57 or more grade points and no grade lower than a C.

Ten students were also placed on the Ampla Cum Laude honors list. They had to receive between 51-53

Police Beat Men arrested for tape theft

Two men were arrested over the weekend in connection with a theft of cash and eight-track tapes from Midwest Wholesale.

- Bobby Duncan, 41, and Virgil Duncan, 41, were arrested and charged with felony theft after the money and tapes were allegedly found in their vehicle.
- The money, amounting to a sum between $250 and $650 was stolen from a briefcase located in a van owned by Dennis Bristo, owner of Midwest Wholesale.
- A 20-year-old man was arrested and charged with discharging a firearm in the city limits Sunday night.
- The man allegedly threatened his wife and two of her neighbors with verbal threats before firing the gun. The man was also observed with a large butcher knife in his back pocket.
- A 29-year-old Big Spring woman reported she was raped Sunday morning by a man whose name she does not know, but who she can identify. She told police he raped her when she was sleeping and intoxicated.
- A 19-year-old Big Spring man was arrested Sunday night and charged with driving with a license suspended at 15th and Set-ties.

- A man was observed pointing a pistol at Billy Black Sunday afternoon at Helen's Honky Tonk. The man then left in a pick-up.
- Various food items valued at $10 were stolen from the residence of Verner Stanhope, 1208 Mesquite Saturday evening.
- Fred Garcia, 811 N. Goliad reported two persons fired a shotgun at him in the city park Sunday night. An eighteen year old man was arrested and charged with aggravated assault and public intoxication. A second man was arrested and charged with aggravated assault.
- A man put $26.80 worth of gasoline in his vehicle at Seven-Eleven, Third and Owens and then found he did not have enough money to pay for it Sunday morning.
- Two dogs were stolen from Heather Padgett, 805 Lorilla over the weekend.

Howard College registers July 6

Registration for the second summer session at Howard College will be held Monday, July 6, from 9 a.m. until 12 noon, from 1-4 p.m., and from 6-8 p.m. in the college library, announced Jan Dunagan, registrar at Howard College.

Classes begin Tuesday, July 7, and end Friday, August 7. Late registration will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, July 7-8, from 7 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. in the Registrar's Office in the Administration Building.

GRADUATES — Richard B. Neill, who attended Sands High School in Ackery before his family moved to Burleson, Tex., graduated from the Baylor School of Dentistry in Dallas Saturday, June 13. Dr. Neill graduated from Baylor University in Waco prior to entering dental school.

Assault suspect out on bond

David Moreno Haro was transferred to county jail at 10:10 p.m. Sunday, following charges of aggravated assault.

Haro, 20, of 310 W. 7th, was placed under a $5,000 bond set by Judge Bobby West. Bond was posted by Wayne Burns, and Haro was released.

Richard Saiz, 18, of 802 San Antonio, was transferred to county jail at 10:35 p.m. Sunday. He was placed under a 5,000 bond on charges of aggravated assault.

The bond was set by Judge West, and posted by Burns.

C-City landfill passes Health Dept. inspection

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Texas Department of Health has given its approval to work being done at the Colorado City landfill site. According to City Manager Brenda Tarter, "we have just received a letter from the Texas Department of Health, which indicates the recent inspection of our site reveals it's being operated in general compliance with the department's regulation as of November 1980, the most

C-City prepares for rodeo

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The 11th hour is almost here for the AJRA Rodeo, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce with action beginning Wednesday night and ending Saturday at the local rodeo arena.

According to Rodeo Director George Walker, "we feel and certainly hope everything is under control. Marv Pierce of Snyder will be doing the announcing ... He is one of the best we know and, unfortunately, this probably will be the last year we'll get to have him as he's going on to the PRCA." Walker continued: "We won't know until late tonight how many contestants we'll be having until the AJRA secretary in Stephenville gives us the count. We're hoping for as many as 400. The secretary will be in Tuesday, we'll do the draws then ... the contestants will be given their time on whether or not they'll be in the slack."

Deaths

Mrs. Carl Strom

Mrs. Carl (Genevieve) Strom, 76, died at 7:15 a.m. Sunday at a local hospital after a sudden illness. Services will be at 5 p.m. Monday at Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel.

Graveside services will be at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at Fairfax Cemetery, Fairfax, Okla. The Rev. Bernard Guley, Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, will officiate.

Mrs. Strom was born July 8, 1905, in Pawhuska, Okla. She married Carl Abel Strom in September of 1921 in Kansas City, Mo. He died April 22, 1972.

The couple came to Big Spring in 1936. She was a graduate of Loretto Academy in Kansas City, Mo. She also graduated from National Park Seminary in Washington, D.C. She was active in the community and was an avid gardener. Her greatest interest was the propagation of the Indian cause. She was an original member of the Osage Indian Allotment.

She was a member of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, and the P.E.O., and past member of the 1905 Hyperion Club, and a charter member of the Civic Center.

Survivors include a daughter, Gloria Strom Ezell; a brother, George B. Smith, Fairfax, Okla.; a grandson, Easy Ezell, Dallas; two great-grandchildren.

All friends are considered honorary pallbearers.

Taxes payable at courthouse

According to officials in the Howard County tax office, all taxes for the Howard County Water Control improvement, District One, will be collected by the Howard County tax office located in the courthouse, effective July 1.

The tax office also advises that 1980 taxes will become delinquent with 11 percent interest plus cost beginning July 1.

"It will be to the taxpayers advantage to pay taxes by July 30," said tax officials. "If paid by mail, the letter should be postmarked by June 30."

Bill Johnson

CRANE — Wm. J. (Bill) Johnson, 58, of Crane died 11:10 p.m. Saturday at the Crane Memorial Hospital after a sudden illness.

Services will be Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Crane with burial in Crane County Cemetery under the direction of Richard W. Box Funeral Home.

He was born April 4, 1923 in West Liberty, Ky. He was married to Reba O'Brian in Seattle on June 8, 1944. He was a plant operator for El Paso Natural Gas Co. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Crane. He had served in the Navy during WWII.

He is survived by his wife of the home; one daughter, Sigrid Morgan of Odessa; three sons, Donovan Johnson, Randy L. Johnson,

Our regulation reports to the state are due Sept. 1, 1981, and we're working on them, after which we will hopefully receive the 'good word' from the state."

In conclusion, Mrs. Tarter commented, "the use of Bentonite is approved by the state; however, soil types vary in different areas, so the state, as well as we, are interested in its effectiveness as a liner for landfill sites in Colorado City."

Troy Langston

Troy Langston, 74, died at 1:05 p.m. Sunday at a Lamesa hospital. Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. J.B. Shewmake of the Lenora Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Langston was born Oct. 6, 1906, in Frankston. He married Lillian Mae Goolsby Nov. 14, 1926 in Knott. Mrs. Langston died Nov. 7, 1979.

He came from Frankston in the early 1920s to Martin County, and went to work on the Hill Ranch as a ranch hand. He later became foreman and worked for them for 30 years. He then started farming in Martin County, and farmed until three months ago, retiring due to illness.

He was a member of the Lenora Baptist Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Charles (Lillian Faye) Clopton, Stanton; his mother, Mary Alice Crittenden, Stanton; two brothers, James C. Langston, Big Spring, and O.G. Langston, Knott.

Pallbearers will be J.E. Peugh, Orville Seely, Derwood Clardy, Dave Hill, Daniel Cave and Buster Haggard.

Officials investigate four-state oil fraud

DALLAS (AP) — A Louisiana "suicide," a Dallas shooting, a millionaire oilman and a reputed Mafia chief could be linked to a four-state oil fraud ring being investigated by federal officials, a Texas newspaper reports.

A federal grand jury in Tulsa is investigating an alleged oil fraud scheme that could involve up to $600 million in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas, The Dallas Morning News said Sunday in a copyright story.

William O. Johnson, 59, a Lafayette, La., accountant, refused to give information to the grand jury, the newspaper reported. Johnson was found dead of a gunshot wound to the head at his office June 9.

Authorities first reported the death to be a suicide. But no formal ruling was made and the body was exhumed June 19 for an autopsy because of "unanswered questions."

One question, the paper reported, was whether right-handed Johnson shot himself in the left side of the head.

Robert B. Sutton, a millionaire Tulsa oilman, reportedly made threats against witnesses in an oil investigation during a taped telephone conversation with reputed New Orleans Mafia chieftain Carlos Marcello. Sutton uses a Lafayette law firm that referred almost all its accounting jobs to Johnson, the News said.

The Daily Oklahoman has reported that FBI agents intercepted the call between Sutton and Marcello, whose phone was tapped as part of the federal Brilab investigation that led to indictments against several public officials and labor leaders in Texas and Louisiana.

During the call, Sutton "reportedly discussed a plan to break the legs of one witness and to intimidate others involved in an oil fraud investigation," the Oklahoma newspaper said.

In April, the FBI said Sutton's company was one of several involved in a "daisy chain" — transferring crude oil from company to company and changing its certification from "old oil" to higher-priced "new oil."

Joe Hegeman, described as an oil broker or consultant from Florida who had business dealings with Sutton, survived a gunshot wound to the head Jan. 16 in Dallas.

Hegeman was shot in the head Jan. 16 while riding in a car with two men in North Dallas, authorities said. He was robbed of about $200, his watch and coat during the shooting and was dumped into a field, police said.

Although two men are scheduled to stand trial on robbery charges in connection with the shooting, the News quoted sources as saying federal agents are investigating the possibility the shooting could be linked to the oil investigation.

Sutton met Hegeman when Sutton was buying the Xanadu Hotel in Freeport, Grand Bahamas, from Howard Hughes' Summa Corp. several years ago, said Gary Glanz, a private investigator working for Sutton.

"There is no connection between Mr. Sutton and BPM (BPM Ltd., Sutton's Tulsa-based oil marketing firm) with that shooting of Joe Hegeman at all," Glanz said.

Hegeman was associated with the Summa Corp., he said, but was "never a consultant" to BPM, although "he did business with BPM."

Nix herd of Herefords on performance record list

Larry and Bobbie Nix, Big Spring, have enrolled their herd of Herefords in the Total Performance Records of the American Hereford Association, according to an announcement made by AHA officials in Kansas City.

TPR is available to all registered and commercial Hereford breeders. It is a system of performance record keeping, and is one of the many services provided by the association. The AHA is the world's largest beef cattle registry, with more than 18 million head recorded in the herd book.

More than 195,000 cows have been enrolled in TPR by some 1,750 Hereford breeders as a means to more accurately determine those individuals who excel in the economically important traits.

The traits measured, recorded and compared are fertility, mothering ability, conformation, rate and efficiency of gain, carcass and longevity of production — the traits most important in making for economical beef production.

County to collect water district taxes

According to officials in the Howard County tax office, all taxes for the Howard County Water Control improvement, District No. 1, will be collected by the Howard County tax office located in the courthouse, effective July 1.

The tax office also advises that 1980 taxes will become delinquent with 11 percent interest plus cost beginning July 1.

"It will be to the taxpayers advantage to pay taxes by June 30," said tax officials. "If paid by mail, the letter should be postmarked by June 30."

Prowess proved by Cee-City pair

COLORADO CITY (SC) — City manager Brenda Tarter and Colorado City swimming pool supervisor Juan Molina may get into the swimming pool repair business if this week's efforts by the two are any indication of their pool repair prowess.

When the pool filter system declined to function, for unknown reasons,

Mrs. Tarter telephoned Abilene and talked to a swimming pool repair service. When informed the firm was running two weeks behind schedule, Mrs. Tarter wrote down step-by-step instructions on repairing what appeared to be the problem.

After tightening a few bolts, attaching some wires and giving the equipment menacing looks, the two were able to repair the system. As a result, Colorado City youngsters and adults currently are utilizing the city's pool to its fullest.

Shades of Lloyd Nolan, but, according to Mrs. Tarter, the work was "just part of the job."

We must face up to problem

Does a society reduce its incidence of crime by passing more laws or does it simply enforce the ones its legislative bodies and its administrative people have already approved?

In view of the multitude of promises made by politicians prior to each election, one would gather we do not have enough laws to hamstring the rascals preying upon society. Still, knowledgeable people will tell you the incidence of crime will diminish only when we apply the law as it is written and not use a double standard in setting punishment after bringing the miscreants to heel.

THE PEOPLE aspiring to office hammer away at the need for stricter law enforcement, knowing they have a ready audience. All polls taken on the public clearly show that the majority of the people want guilty people to answer for their transgressions behind bars rather than putting them on probation and letting them walk the streets. Once the winning candidates were encoined in office, however, they start dragging their feet on carrying out the programs necessary to get a hammerlock on crime.

The people listened when Ronald Reagan and his co-workers shouted that the Democrats were soft on crime. Since that time, the administration has made no great effort to fill more than half a hundred federal judgeships, not to mention nearly a hundred U.S. Attorney jobs. Only one nomination has been made for 94 federal patronage U.S. marshal positions.

It's no wonder that the nation has made very little headway in its battle to get criminals off the streets or why we can't get organized crime out of labor unions and legitimate businesses?

IN DEFENSE OF the administration, it is becoming increasingly harder to find competent people to man the positions. Law has become too lucrative a profession to spend any time in public service.

But the nation must address itself to the problem. The backlog of cases gets larger. The court records become more clogged with cases demanding attention. And politicians who vow to attack the monster must start living up to their promises.

Motive was simple greed

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most disturbing feature of the Edwin Wilson-Frank Terpil arms-dealing and terrorist-training story is the ease with which American businessmen, former CIA agents and military specialists were recruited to work for the likes of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi.

Dozens of American experts in the dark arts willingly went to work for the power-mad Libyan who has turned his country into a refuge and training camp for assassins, hijackers and other scum of the earth. How could they do it?

MY ASSOCIATE DALE Van Atta has been chasing the Wilson-Terpil story for 10 months and has learned that, surprising as it seems, some Americans joined up for patriotic motives: They honestly believed they were part of a super-secret CIA operation. In fact, CIA involvement cannot be ruled out, though hard evidence is lacking.

But for most of the Wilson-Terpil gang, the motive was simple greed. One such was Jerome S. Brower of Pomona, Calif. Here's what a classified Treasury Department memorandum had to say about Brower, whom it recommended be indicted.

"He is licensed as a manufacturer of explosives... He is president of the International Society of Explosives Engineers... and he has an extensive history of support and assistance to federal, state and local law enforcement. Yet, with knowledge and intent, he supplied high explosives for terrorist use at an inflated price and illegally shipped those explosives to Libya and Uganda."

Brower also supplied the experts who taught his customers how to use their deadly merchandise, the memo noted. After initially lying about his involvement, Brower finally copped a plea. He was fined $5,000 and ordered to serve four months of a five-year prison term.

In addition to the patriotic and the greedy, there were some who were used by Wilson and Terpil for the prestige they added to their operations. One of these was retired Air Force Brig. Gen. Joseph Cappucci, a decorated veteran of World War II and an acknowledged expert in counterintelligence and security. He served as head of the Air Force Office of Special Investigations and as director of the Defense Investigative Service.

"ED (WILSON) specialized in recruiting senior military officers for their contacts," explained Kevin Mulcahy, a one-time associate turned government witness. He pointed out that Wilson had dozens of companies, and "about 90 deals out of 100 perfectly legitimate, while the others were sleazy."

After meeting Wilson, Cappucci had him checked out with some intelligence contacts. Unfortunately, the word came back that Wilson was OK.

So Cappucci headquartered his private security business in a Washington townhouse owned by Wilson, used Wilson's attorney and employed at least one of Wilson's associates.

According to secret government files, Cappucci told investigators that Wilson had lent him the money to start his business.

In May 1978, investigators for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms were told by an informant that one of Cappucci's employees was trying to obtain quantity of arms for export to Libya.

Cappucci denied that the man in question had ever worked for him. He denied involvement in any foreign arms shipments, and, in particular, denied the informant's claim that Cappucci himself had discussed arms for Libya with a munitions maker in Springfield, Mass.

The federal investigators could find "no... evidence of criminal activity by Cappucci," and finally dropped the case. They zeroed in on Wilson and eventually got the indictments against the Wilson-Terpil gang.

Cappucci says his experience with Wilson has taught him a lesson: Check out thoroughly anyone with whom he has business dealings. He said he wised up when he "started hearing incredible stories about (Wilson)—so I stayed the hell away from him."

Far from having any record of arms dealing, Cappucci has an intensely personal reason to view such tradesmen in terror with distaste. In 1975, he was sitting in the lobby of the London Hilton when a bag of plastic explosive blew up a few feet away. Cappucci caught a bomb fragment and sustained a hearing impairment that persists to this day. He doesn't rule out the possibility that his long and effective career in counterintelligence had made him the terrorists' target.

UNDER THE DOME: Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan... Dan Y. is not noted as a shrinking violet. But he thinks the Ethics Committee staff is getting out of hand. It cited him once for using "I" too many times in his newsletter to constituents. And the committee counsel chided him for a recent newsletter that was heavier on personal reminiscence than on Senate business. Moynihan's response was a withering attack on the burgeoning bureaucracy of the Ethics Committee. The diatribe was contained in another newsletter, naturally.

I reported recently on a Senate bill that would compensate manufacturers of baby clothes treated with the cancer-causing fire retardant Tris. The $50 million bailout is being considered at a time when investigators for Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., have found Tris-treated garments on sale in Florida, California, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania — though such garments were banned in 1977. Not only that, but the National Cancer Institute has new data that shows Tris is more dangerous than earlier believed — ranking 13th in potency of 70 carcinogens the agency has tested.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What is the difference between an atheist and an agnostic? A friend of mine claims to be an atheist, but I wonder if she really is. — M.S.

DEAR M.S.: An atheist believes flatly that there is no God. An agnostic says that he does not know whether or not God exists. In other words, the atheist does not believe in God; the agnostic says God may or may not exist — he just doesn't know.

Actually, I have found that there are very few true atheists in the world; many people who call themselves atheists are in reality agnostics. One reason for this is because an atheist cannot prove his position — it is actually a matter of faith with him.

That is, he has faith that God does not exist, but he can't prove it. The Bible suggests that an atheist's convictions come from his pride — in his pride he refuses to admit God's existence because he wants to be the center of his world. That is one reason the Bible declares, "The fool say in his heart, 'There is no God'" (Psalm 14:1).

One of the tragedies about both atheists and agnostics is that often they become comfortable in their ideas, and never really look for an answer to their questions, but they can discover God if they look in the right place with the right attitude — and not only discover that he exists, but that he loves them and they can enter into a personal relationship with Him. That is why I urge such a person to look at Jesus Christ carefully.

How can we know God? We can know him because he has made himself known. He has done this in part through the world he has created, but he has done it completely and supremely in his son, Jesus Christ, who came from heaven to show us God's love. "No one has ever seen God, but God the only Son, who is at the Father's side, has made him known" (John 1:18).

Recently I heard someone make this challenge to a person like your friend. He suggested that he take the Gospel of John and read it carefully, and that before he started he should pray a prayer like this: "God, I don't even know if you exist, but if you do, show me as I read this Gospel." God answers that kind of prayers, because he has promised "Seek and you will find" (Matthew 7:7).

Around the rim Problem poser

Andrea Cohen

Since this is the season for weddings, I'm going to give advice on handling them if you're single. Since I'm single and have been to more weddings than I can count, I feel qualified to give this advice. Remember, weddings are really for married people. As much as the mother of the bride wants you there, and as much as you want to be there, being single and going to a wedding ALWAYS has its problems. But there are ways to handle it. With my advice, you'll either leave the wedding feeling very satisfied, but with relatives who won't be speaking to you, or you can come out of it smelling like a rose.

Going to a wedding stag poses a real dilemma for the mother of the bride. "Where are we going to seat her?" is the question asked.

THE BEST EXAMPLE of a solution happened at my cousin Steve's wedding. Against everyone's advice, I didn't take a date along. "If you don't take someone, Aunt Penny is going to be stuck puffing you next to Old Maid Cousin Marsha. I know she wouldn't do that to you, Andrea," I heard for a solid month before the wedding. "I can handle anything," I answered. "I'm not going to take some jerk just to avoid sitting next to her."

Which is exactly what happened. There was Marsha, sitting to my left. She usually fawns over her relatives that thankfully, only have to see her at weddings and funerals. But since she usually just fawns over the relatives she thinks are rich, I never have a problem with that. I don't have to worry about her bear hugs. It's just a cool "Hi Andrea" before she starts shooting off her mouth in her one-sided monologue with me. Her taste in relatives is opposite mine. Her favorite relative is our mutual cousin who hasn't seen sobriety since the second World War.

But for every Marsha, we're all blessed with an Uncle Bud. I quietly moved over to Uncle Bud's table, where my parents and some other relatives were sitting as soon as dessert was served and the dancing picked up. Uncle Bud is super and I'd do anything in the world for him, and I guess it works both ways, or it did at the wedding. He doesn't usually dance much, but he did with me that night, including doing a rendition of The Bump. Maybe he did it so Marsha would find someone else to listen to her as she shot off her mouth with her mumble-jumble nonsense.

IF YOU DECIDE TO go stag, expect The Question. "When will we see you in white, dear?" Just give The Stare, which will shut them up. Or make sure Mom is close by. Mothers have a lot of common sense. They can ask the same question, to themselves, of course. (Mine never asks me. She knows better.) But they don't like it when someone else asks it and they will always take your side. "When she's good and ready," my mother has answered with a smile sweet enough to make everyone melt. I've never heard the following by anything other than the subject of the wedding. "If you decide not to go stag, don't expect straightforward questions. Expect them to beat around the bush with subtle hints so you will tell them anything they think The National Enquirer would envy. Or expect assumptions. If you bring a date, some will assume, maybe there's hope."

This will come from a great-aunt, also seen only at weddings and funerals, who will by the strangest coincidence be standing on the other side of the ladies room door as you're coming out.

After you've crashed into each other and she has you feeling guilty because you just smashed the door into her face causing a bloody nose, The Conversation starts. And she knows she can get away with it because she's older than you. If you get mad, she'll know she got to you, made you feel guilty and will assume she was right. If you handle it correctly, the rumors that her niece has a hot temper will go flying out the door and she'll believe the stories about how sweet she really is. The Conversation goes like this — and a version of it happens at almost every wedding I attend.

"Andrea, it's so good to see you again. The last time I saw you was at Uncle Morris' funeral four years ago."

"Uh huh."

"We only live 40 miles from each other but you never keep in touch."

"Uh huh."

"But I understand. You're busy. You have your friends. You don't have enough time to take a few minutes from your busy schedule to pick up the phone and call. And I wouldn't want you to do it just because I'm getting on in years."

"Uh huh."

"But I still pray everyday that you'll settle down and get married before I'm dead in my grave, Andrea."

"We'll see."

"And if I should live long enough to see you get married, I want to enjoy your wedding, Andrea, not see it from a wheelchair, if I haven't gone blind by then, the wheelchair is a gift from my doctor."

"Uh huh."

"Why are you doing this? Are you and your cousins so independent that you won't get married, even to make me happy? Is it too much to ask that your great-aunt should live to see at least one wedding from one of you?"

"Talk to your other nieces and nephews. They're older."

"The boys are stubborn and won't listen. We've given up on Marsha. Who would have her anyway? But you, you've always been the sensible one."

"That's why I'm not married. But when I'm ready, you'll be the first to get an invitation."

"That man you brought seems very nice."

This is where The Conversation ends and it's always tricky. If you get the slightest bit ruffled, she'll think something is up which will put her in the clear to ask you what he does for a living. If she does that, you're in trouble. You'll never get away.

If she doesn't ask you, pat yourself on the back, put your arm around her and lead her back to the reception where you can both rejoin the others.

If she does ask what he does for a living, scream for Mom.

The facts about epilepsy

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Many of your writings helped me in my studies during LPN training. I have been elected president of my local chapter of the Epileptic Foundation of America. One thing I have found is that people really fear the word epilepsy. Some people have seizures not diagnosed as epilepsy and they don't feel they need anything from us, even though they face the same problems. We could help them cope with it if they would just come to our meetings or call us. We have increased our membership by only seven members in four months. We would appreciate it if you could write about epilepsy and seizures. — B.B.

You have my complete support. I will help any way I can to help you and your unit rid the public of the fear and misunderstanding that surrounds epilepsy. A seizure is a single outburst of excessive, disorderly electrical activity of the brain cells. That can cause fainting, shaking of arms and legs and many other symptoms. Similar seizures can occur during many medical illnesses, but they have in common the brain involvement. Examples are high temperatures in infants or a brain infection. Epilepsy is a recurring series of seizures over long periods with similar symptoms. This is a different kind of problem. There may be a very small scar in the brain responsible for setting off the sudden electrical discharge of brain cells. The scar can be from an old injury. Or there may be no detectable cause.

Epilepsy comes in several forms. I will mention two of the most common. The grand mal form is a sudden loss of consciousness, with movement of arms and legs. After this kind of seizure, the person is usually drowsy for some time. Petit mal seizure involves a brief loss of consciousness, lasting at times only a few seconds. It may not even be recognized it can be so transient. The person may appear to be only distracted.

Epilepsy, no matter what form, can be treated successfully in almost all cases. I suspect that you are living proof. There are medicines. This brings us back to your request. Because of the fright some witnesses of a seizure experience, epilepsy has an undesired reputation of being a most horrible problem. It isn't. I applaud you and your foundation.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I haven't seen my problem discussed in your column. I hope you don't think it frivolous. I have crooked eyelashes, in one eye in particular. They are curled up tight on the end and growing every which way. "Oh, my," you're saying, "Too bad, lady." But wait a minute. These twisted, crooked lashes can be very painful, sticking into my eye and causing irritation. I would appreciate a short reply, if possible. — Help.

When eyelashes grow toward the eye instead of away from it, or when they become curled up, that is called "trichiasis" (Trick-EYE-uh-sis). When the lash rubs against the eye, it can irritate it and abrade the eyeball. So this is a real problem.

At times, trichiasis results from inflammation of the lids. An ophthalmologist or plastic surgeon can guide you to the best solution for your problem. The distorted eyelash can be removed by electrolysis (Don't, for heaven's sake, try it yourself!) Plastic surgery may have to be done if there are a great many lashes involved. You really should have this taken care of.

Dear Dr. Donohue: We had chest X-rays at a mobile laboratory. We got the results back and my husband's had on it, "hyperaerated lung." Please explain to us what hyperaerated lung means. — N.M.G.

Hyperaerated lung means that on the X-ray the lung looks like it has more air in it than it should have. That suggests problems associated with this finding, but it is not a diagnosis in itself. An example is emphysema.

In emphysema, the lung's air-conditioning spaces are enlarged. Air stays there. It does not move in and out of the lungs as it should. The lung, as a result, looks overinflated, or hyperaerated, on the X-rays.

The chest X-ray alone will not establish this condition. But even if your husband is not having any symptoms, like cough or shortness of breath, the X-ray results should be discussed with his doctor to see if he really does have an underlying lung problem. That is, after all, the whole purpose of having the X-rays taken.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 28-year-old woman with inverted nipples. What causes this? Also, is it possible to breastfeed an infant when one has this condition? — J.W.

The most ordinary kind of nipple retraction is due to a crater-like depression around the nipple that makes it look inverted. For some reason, perhaps a genetic quirk, the nipples fail to evert following birth. In this event, the inversion is harmless and persists throughout life.

Inverted nipples do not mean you cannot breastfeed. Markedly inverted nipples will make breastfeeding troublesome, but the only way to find out is to try.

New call-in system to combat oil patch crime

Texas lawmakers and oil and gas officials have initiated a statewide anti-theft program aimed at combating thieves that steal an estimated $100 million worth of oil field equipment yearly in the United States.

Officials from six oil and gas trade organizations will put into effect on July 1 a theft reporting system where individuals can call collect to report a theft or information regarding a theft. The telephone number is 817-723-1114.

Prompt reporting of an oil field theft increases the chance of getting the property returned by 10-fold. This is the first statewide reporting system for equipment stolen from the oil patch.

This reporting system — coupled with the passage of two new laws passed by the 67th Texas Legislature and signed into law by Governor William P. Clements — was devised to stop the growing crime wave in the oil patch.

The new laws increase the penalty for stealing oil field equipment, and require more detailed recordkeeping on the sale and exchange of used oil field equipment.

The theft-reporting system will be based in Wichita Falls. After the information regarding the theft has been taken, the proper law enforcement officials and area news media will be notified.

Several associations have established a reward program of up to $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of a person or persons who have stolen oil field equipment.

The organizations involved in the theft reporting system includes the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association in Austin; North Texas Oil and Gas Association in Wichita Falls; West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association in Abilene; Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association in Amarillo; Permian Basin Petroleum Association in Midland and the Petroleum Committee of East Texas Chamber of Commerce in Longview.

These organizations urge land owners and royalty owners to take note of suspicious-looking vehicles or persons on oil and gas leases, and report these sightings via the anti-theft telephone number.

The two new laws state: — Individuals whose primary business is dealing in used oil and gas equipment must keep records when they obtain used equipment. These requirements include name and address of dealer; serial number, if any; kind, make, size, weight, length and quantity of the used materials purchased or acquired by exchange; date obtained; name and address of seller or person who exchanged the materials; the location of the property at the time of sale or exchange; license number of the vehicle used to transport the item to the dealer; and the driver's license number of the seller of person who exchanged the materials. These records must be kept for two years. Failure to comply could result in a fine of not less than $500 per violation.

— Theft of oil and gas equipment or petroleum itself, regardless of price, was raised from a third degree felony to a second degree felony. Previously, theft of material worth less than $10,000 was a third degree felony. A third degree felony in Texas is punishable by two to ten years in prison and a fine of up to $5,000. A second degree felony is punishable by two to 20 years in prison and a fine up to $10,000. This law does not increase the minimum penalty for oil field thieves. It does, however, give prosecutors more discretion concerning the punishment which can be sought. The revision also simplifies the law by removing the need to establish the precise value of the material stolen.

The reporting system via telephone and subsequent notification of law enforcement officials and the news media will be on a six-month trial basis beginning July 1 and ending December 31.

Postal union leaders unsure of bargaining stance

HOUSTON (AP) — Local postal union leaders in Texas largest city are divided over how they should respond if their national parent organizations call for a work stoppage.

Four unions' contracts with the U.S. Postal Service expire July 30.

Local leaders of the two largest unions the American Postal Workers and the National Association of Letter Carriers — say many of their members are ready to walk off the job if a satisfactory settlement is not reached.

"At this point, with the attitude of the postmaster general, I think the possibility of a work stoppage is very high," said Vernon Wade, president of the 2,800-member Houston branch of the NALC.

Pete Vogel, president of the Houston local of the APW work stoppage." The APW represents 3,600 workers in the Houston area.

But Lewis M. Boggan, president of the 200-member local Rural Letter Carrier's union, says he expects his people to stay on the job, come what may.

"We disapprove of lots of of the 41st-member local Mail Handlers union, "bargaining will proceed until we get an agreement."

The Postal Service contends a work stoppage is the same as a strike and strikes by government workers are illegal.

Local union officials declined to talk about details of the wage and benefit packages being sought by national unions in current negotiations.

Vogel says postal workers' current cost-of-living adjustments amount only to about 60 percent of the actual increase in the cost of living.

Iranian mobs protest murders of 69 leaders

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Mobs surged through Tehran today protesting an explosion that killed Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, considered Iran's second most powerful man, and 68 other revolutionary leaders, the Iranian government and news agency reported.

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and Parliament Speaker Ayatollah Hashemi Rfsanjani, who along with Beheshti formed Iran's temporary ruling triumvirate, were called out of the Islamic Republican Party headquarters only minutes before Sunday night's bombing, an observer told The Associated Press in Beirut.

Crowds in Tehran chanted "Death to America" and Tehran Radio blamed the bombing on "mercenaries connected to the U.S.A."

The new agency Pars accused "counter-revolutionaries," the fundamentalist government's label for the underground leftists who rallied to the defense of fugitive ex-President Abolbhasan Bani-Sadr.

The leftist groups, labeled "hypocrites" by the government, also came under fire from the demonstrators in the streets of Tehran.

"Hypocrites, Your Death Has Come," shouted the demonstrators, many of them members of Beheshti's fanatical Hezbollah organization.

The bombing, the boldest attack yet by anti-government forces, and the reprisal demonstrations appeared to edge the nation closer to a civil war between secular and fundamentalist factions.

It was the second bombing in two days on leaders of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime. Leftists were blamed for a bomb that exploded Saturday in a crowded Tehran Mosque and wounded the Islamic Revolutionary Party's chief spokesman, Seyyed Ali Khamenei.

Those killed at the party headquarters included four ministers and six deputy ministers in Rajai's government and 20 members of the Majlis, the Iranian Parliament, Pars said.

A state funeral was scheduled Tuesday for the victims, and a week of mourning was proclaimed.

Hojatoleslam Mohammad Montazeri, the official who on Friday defended the execution of Bani-Sadr's supporters, was also killed.

Beheshti, the 52-year-old president of the Iranian Supreme Court, was regarded as the man most likely to succeed Khomeini as supreme leader of the Iranian revolution, and many considered him the most powerful man in the country.

He headed the IRP, which controls the Majlis and the government, and directed the party's power struggle with Bani-Sadr. He was a member of the three-man interim council that took over the presidency.

Komeini appointed Seyyed Abdolkarim Musavi-Ardabili, a cleric and prosecutor general, as president of the Supreme Court to replace Beheshti, Tehran Radio reported. He also named Rabbani Amlashi as prosecutor general, the radio said.

Pars said Khomeini met with Rajai and Rafsanjani today to begin filling the government posts left vacant by the explosion.

Tehran Radio said the search of the wreckage of the two-story party headquarters on Sarchehmech Street ended at dawn with 32 bodies recovered. But Pars quoted the Tehran coroner's office as reporting 69 people killed. Pars said at least 30 people were injured.

Reagan delays AWACS sales for second time

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time, the Reagan administration is delaying its proposed sale of advanced radar planes to Saudi Arabia in the face of serious opposition in Congress.

But Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig says the deal will not be dropped, and an Associated Press survey shows that it may yet be salvageable.

Haig said Sunday that the latest delay "will not be substantial, and it will not change the intent of the president to proceed with this sale."

Questioned on the CBS program "Face the Nation," Haig said the administration is "developing the arrangements under which the sale will be made, and we think it's very important that these arrangements be known and understood by those who have reservations."

"We've asked them to be patient," Haig said. "And I think that is a major consideration on timing."

The AP survey taken late last week found 47 senators planning to vote against the sale — four short of a majority — but several of them said they could change their minds if the administration resolves their concerns.

And 10 of 54 senators who asked President Reagan last week to drop the deal said they have not decided definitely to vote against it.

Since rejection by both the House and the Senate is necessary for Congress to veto the deal, the administration can save it by avoiding defeat in the Republican-controlled Senate. A majority of House members went on record against the sale last week.

'Garden of Fashion' revue produces six winners

The Howard County Fashion Revue was held Tuesday in the fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church.

"Garden of Fashion" was the theme of this year's fashion revue, with 19 local 4-H members competing from the five county clubs.

Each contestant was presented a ribbon and 10 percent discount from Sew What fabrics by Nina Mahon, County Extension Agent and Dorothy Fowler, 4-H Committee Chairman, Extension Homemakers Club.

Serving as Master of Ceremonies for the fashion revue was Scott Underwood, Gayhill 4-H. Entertainment was also provided by Underwood who sang, and Brent Rhoton, accompanist.

Contestants were judged on construction techniques used in making their garment, records used in their project, and the overall fit and appearance of the garment.

Fashion Revue contestants were awarded blue and red ribbons for their entries.

Brandi Nelson and Tasha Rock won blue ribbons in the Tiny Miss division, ages 9 and under.

Leigh Ann Wallace was awarded a 1st place blue ribbon in the Mini Miss division, age 9, which entitles her to compete in the state revue. Christy Alexander's fashion placed alternate in this division. Suzanne Fulesday, Kelly Newton and Julie Butler were also awarded blue ribbons in the Division.

Tonya Rock's entry earned her a 1st place blue ribbon in the Junior Miss division, age 10. Shauna Richardson's fashion took the alternate blue ribbon in this division. Debbie Nelson was awarded a red ribbon and Nora Dawn Phillips a blue one.

The Young Miss Division, age 11, produced Tracy Butler with a 1st place blue ribbon entry and Tessa Underwood as alternate. Denette Dick was awarded a blue ribbon. Nancy Hardison and Sonia Sargent both were awarded red ribbons for their entries.

Dawn Underwood took a 1st place blue ribbon in the Miss Division, age 13. Frances Camp was awarded the alternate blue ribbon in this division.

Paula Allen was awarded a blue ribbon in the Senior Division, age 14-19.

In the Textiles competition, weaving and latch-hook rug entries competed for ribbons. Tracy Butler, Tasha and Tonya Rock, Leigh Ann and Libby Wallace, Julie Butler, Duncan Hamlin and Kelly Newton won blue ribbons for their craft entries. Nora Dawn Phillips' entry won a red ribbon.

Dear Abby

Driver's Happy Hour Results In Tragedy

DEAR ABBY: Last February, our daughter, a beautiful, talented, 16-year-old high school senior, was killed by a driver who admitted that he had been drinking in a bar for five hours. Our daughter and a group of 20 youngsters were walking home from a religious convention when the driver plowed into them, killing three and injuring three others. (The driver got off with $100 fine for a "minor traffic violation.")

We later learned that about 25,000 Americans are killed and over 500,000 more are injured every year in accidents involving drunk drivers.

Legislation is now being sponsored across the nation to toughen laws dealing with drunk drivers. But more important, if people would realize the misery they can cause by driving after they've had a few drinks, possibly some lives could be saved.

Our tragedy inspired me to write the following poem. I hope you will publish it.

CYD (MRS. ALFRED) HASSNER, BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

A CHILD'S PLEA

(To help more fathers reach for their children instead of a bottle.)

"Daddy, it was your night out with the boys,
"You drank for hours while I played with my toys.
"Drove into the night, as bold as can be
"And in one moment, destroyed the lives of three.
"For years you taught me, 'Thou shall not kill.'
"How can I follow your guidance, your will?
"Why did you drink and drive that night?
"I need a father to show me what's right.
"You silenced forever the lives of three.
"Why, Daddy, did you kill someone like me?"

DEAR READERS: An interesting footnote: When I telephoned the Hassners to express my sympathy for the loss of their daughter, I said, "I do hope she wasn't your only child." Mr. Hassner replied, "No, fortunately we have two others, a 22-year-old daughter who was recently married, and a 10-year-old son." Then he added, "But we lost a 7-year-old daughter to leukemia 12 years ago, and three years later, our infant son was killed in a car crash. But my wife and I were lucky. We survived the Holocaust in Vienna."

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the idea of an Adulterers Anonymous. It's a terrific idea. I know exactly what she's talking about. I have the same illness. And I believe it's an illness, just like alcoholism.

I'm in Alanon (the organization for friends and families of alcoholics), and this last week I allowed the same "higher power" (God for me) help me from making a phone call that would have led to another affair.

I would give anything to be able to talk to someone who knows and understands my feelings. Yes, if there were an Adulterers Anonymous, I would have made a phone call without question.

Out of season foods made ready in jiffy

A meal on a moment's notice, fresh corn in December or deer from last fall's hunt — all compliments of the home freezer.

Freezing is one of the simplest, most popular methods of preserving foods at home. It retains the natural color, flavor, texture and food value of most fruits and vegetables, meats and baked goods.

The quality of food frozen can vary with freshness of product used, methods of preparation packaging and conditions of freezing.

Select good-quality products for successful freezing, because freezing will not improve low grade food.

Frozen meat, poultry, fish and eggs equal the fresh products in nutritive value. Retaining this value of fruits and vegetables depends largely on the treatment before freezing, storage temperature and method of cooking and serving. Handling the food promptly helps retain quality.

Improper packaging can cause undesirable flavor and appearance. The selection of containers depends on the type of food and personal preference. All materials should be moisture — vapor proof to prevent evaporation and retain in the highest quality in frozen foods.

Food and nutrition specialists recommend glass, metal, rigid plastics, freezer wrapping materials, waxed cartons and most bags because they are moisture-vapor proof or at least moisture-vapor resistant.

But, do not use ordinary waxed papers, household aluminum foil and cottage cheese or ice cream cartons.

All packages should be airtight. Freezer burn, a surface discoloration on meat and poultry, often results when meat or poultry dry due to improper packaging.

Give special care to foods which may become rancid, a result of natural fats and oils being exposed to atmospheric oxygen. These foods include fish, shellfish, beef, pork, meat and poultry.

Freeze fruits and vegetables at 9 degrees F. or below. Meat should be frozen in a commercial plant at -5 to -30 degrees F. for best results.

Space packages of unfrozen food at least one inch apart since heat must be given off in order for them to freeze. Put no more unfrozen food into a freezer than will freeze within 24 hours. For quickest freezing, place packages against freezing plates or coils.

Storage temperature matters. For example, many foods noticeably lost quality and vitamin content when stored at about 25 degrees F. in an "open-at-one-end" household refrigerator freezer.

Travel regulations for kids unaccompanied made clear

Before your kids go on a trip alone, check what restrictions buses, trains and airlines regularly have on children traveling unaccompanied. So advises the current Family Circle magazine.

By air: Children must be at least five for solo traveling; eight to make a flight involving plane charges. They are charged full adult fare.

By Amtrak: Children must be at least 12 to travel alone. They, too, pay full fare.

By Greyhound: Children five and older can travel by themselves, provided they are put on the bus by an adult and arrangements are made for them to be picked up at their destination. Children 11 and under pay half fare.

By Trailways: Children must be 11 or older to travel alone, and are charged full fare beginning at age 12.

Weapons plans passed to Poland

Polish national, engineer face charges of espionage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Polish national and a former engineer at Hughes Aircraft Co. face charges of transmitting secret documents about weapons and radar devices to the Polish intelligence service. Authorities said they assume the information was passed along to the Soviet Union. William Bell, 61, a Hughes employee for nearly 30 years, and Marian Zacharski, 29, were arrested Sunday at their separate apartments in a beachfront complex in Playa Del Rey, said Dick Mellitt, assistant special FBI agent in charge of criminal foreign counterintelligence. The two men were held without bail pending arraignment today in U.S. District Court on charges of gathering and delivering classified material to a foreign government. If convicted, both men could be sentenced to life in prison. The FBI said both have been under investigation since shortly after Zacharski entered the country in 1977 as a commercial representative for a Polish government-owned machinery manufacturing company in Elk Grove Village, Ill. The two men, each married with two children, struck up a social acquaintance in 1978, the FBI said. The Polish American Machinery Co. produces heavy equipment to manufacture machine parts and has a West Coast office in Santa Fe Springs. Zacharski is president of U.S. operations for the concern and until recently was its West Coast manager, the FBI said. Agents said Bell received $110,000 for his part in the alleged conspiracy, which involved the transfer of several classified documents on defense-related radar systems beginning in 1980 and ending early this year.

Prudish to permissive

TV around the world freed from campaigns for decency

A kiss on the cheek marks the limit of decency on television in India. Full frontal nudity causes little stir in Yugoslavia and Australia, but one Australian show bans the word "divorce." Whatever the standards, ranging from prudish in the Soviet Union, Argentina and the Islamic world to permissive in most of Western Europe, few nations have the kind of decency campaign being waged in the United States by the Coalition for Better Television, an Associated Press survey shows. In Britain, 18 years after Mary Whitehouse founded the National Viewers and Listeners Association to promote "spiritual and moral values" on television, viewers still adore the leering Benny Hill. Frontal nudity is occasionally shown in Britain. In Japan, television dotes on strippers and titillating documentaries despite protests by the Parent Teachers Association. PTA director Kengo Takeuchi admits: "We haven't been too effective." Several years ago the group pressured a sponsor to drop a particularly offensive program, Takeuchi said, "but other sponsors jumped right in." The "11 p.m. Show" on week nights and Saturday night's "Adult Hour" dish up bouncing bare breasts and pseudo-documentaries on sex shops, massage parlors and coffee shops where waitresses wear sheer pantyhose but no panties beneath their miniskirts. Despairing of influencing sponsors and broadcasters, Takeuchi said the PTA now tries to encourage parents to monitor their children's viewing. The Coalition for Better Television, a group sponsored in large part by the Moral Majority, has met with representatives of some companies to ask them to stop sponsoring shows the group finds too violent or sexy. Cal Thomas, vice president of Moral Majority, said Sunday the discussions with advertisers were so successful that the Coalition may drop a plan to boycott sponsors of shows it considers objectionable. A decision was to be announced today. Even without formal decency campaigns, every nation has its standards. "Dallas" is a convenient gauge. The exploits of J.R. Ewing are wildly popular in South Africa, but the Rev. P.J. Van Staden of the Nederduitsch Hervormde Kerk has condemned the show's "free sex" and "glorifying of thugs." "Dallas" is top-rated in Denmark, but the Radio Council panned it for "trashy" scripts and characters. In the Persian Gulf, "Dallas" is shown with every kiss deleted. Between the world's puritans and its libertines, tastes vary widely. Argentina banned the Three Stooges, Brazil a show portraying a man doing housework. For Soviets a bedroom scene is OK as long as the couple is at least engaged and the sheet is tucked tightly under their chins. Many countries draw the line in children's bedrooms. The barriers come down once the little nippers are presumed to be asleep. "Sex, profanity, nudity, violence; you name it, it all goes," said Roland Bekking, a spokesman for the Dutch Broadcasting Foundation. "The only problem is the time it is aired." Australians have seen "Last Tango in Paris," uncut, and "Let's Go Naked," a BBC documentary about a nudist colony, after 8:30 p.m. But the government licensing board banned the word "divorce" on a 6 p.m. soap opera, lest it upset children, and banned the film "Taxi Driver" after President Reagan was shot by a man allegedly influenced by the film. Yugoslavian viewers see it all — sex, homosexuality, profanity, full nudity. There were only a few protests when a closeup of a penis was shown in "Breakdown," a Yugoslavian film. France's three government-owned television networks are lenient about sex and nudity, but sometimes excise particularly violent movie scenes. In permissive Sweden, said Lars Bergman, director of the radio board, there are more complaints about heavy drinking on U.S. shows than about sex or violence. Austrian TV showed "Last Tango" uncut, but there was a furor last year when the punk rocker, Nina Hagen, demonstrated a masturbatory technique on a late-night talk show. Israeli TV usually permits the most provocative profanity in news and talk shows, but last week, television director Yitzhak Shimon vetoed an appearance by "Happy Hooker" Xaviera Hollander on an early evening show. A variety show hostess, Mehtab Channa, was sacked by Pakistan Television last winter because she dropped her "dupatta," a veil which covers the top and sides of the head. Moslem Malaysia bans kissing in local productions, but a brief kiss or a bikini-clad woman is tolerated in an imported show.

Haig says U.S. sending many signals to allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. says continuing U.S. expressions of concern about the appointment of four communists to the new French Cabinet are messages to other U.S. allies in Europe. "It is important that all our West European partners, faced with the same decision, know that these decisions are not favorably viewed here in Washington," Haig said Sunday on CBS's "Face the Nation." It is "simply a fact of life that communist regimes, whether they are closely affiliated with Moscow or not, pursue policies which are not consistent with the western family of nations," Haig said.

"We made no excuses or no bones about our concern," he said, adding that the Reagan administration recognizes the decision by French President Francois Mitterand is a French internal matter. Haig denied suggestions there was disagreement within the administration on its response to the decision. However, it appeared the State Department was harsher in its judgment than Vice President George Bush, who paid a courtesy call on Mitterand in Paris last week. The State Department said in a statement that the appointment of the communists will affect the "tone and content of our relations" with France.

Washington man wins Fiddlers Contest

WEISER, Idaho (AP) — A Mountlake, Wash., man scored 5,027 out of 5,400 possible points to take the National Oldtime Fiddlers' Contest Grand Championship for the third consecutive year Saturday night. Mark O'Conner, 19, tours with an Atlanta rock band called the Dregs. He won the Grand Master competition in Nashville, Tenn., in 1975 at age 13 and again in 1980. "When I was young I wasn't nervous because I didn't have to feed myself. But now, when I'm working and have to pay my own way, I thought I would be nervous, but I wasn't," O'Conner said of the competition. "I was the most scared about losing because of the length of my hair." The three-time champion collected $1,200 and a sculptured fiddler for playing "Hell Among the Yearlings," "Skater's Waltz" and "Don't Love Nobody." He won't be able to win the contest next year because three-time consecutive champions are ineligible. O'Conner said he played a concert in Madison, Wis., a week ago Saturday night. He came to Weiser for last week's fiddlers contest and will join his band for a concert in Chicago Monday night. He said he has no trouble switching from rock violin to old-time fiddling.

QUEEN CANDIDATES — Diane Gregory, Jana Northcutt and Jody Mann (left to right) are Colorado City AJRA Queen candidates this year. The winner will be crowned on the final night of the July 1-4 rodeo. Judges in the event are Wanda Driver and Terry Hines, both of Big Spring, and Tana Yates.

Famed UTEP track coach says false African records not uncommon

UT coach found African athletes a hoax

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas track coach Cleburne Price thought he had the makings of a great track squad when two Ghanaians — one reportedly a national record holder in the hurdles — arrived on campus in January.

Both had listed marks of over 25 feet in the long jump and good performances in the triple jump and mile relay.

It was almost too good to be true — and it was.

A "doctored" story and headline persuaded Price to give one of the Africans a scholarship. But when the African got to Texas, he could barely reach the sand pit in the triple jump — supposedly one of his specialties.

The Austin American Statesman reported Sunday how Price — "a bit red faced with embarrassment" — was tricked into awarding scholarships to Francis Garbrah and Samuel Quicoe.

Price took precautions in awarding the scholarships, sending assistant James Blackwood to Accra, Ghana's capital, to check on Garbrah and Quicoe.

The newspaper said everyone Blackwood talked with, including the regional coach who recommended the pair, assured Blackwood they were fine all around performers and especially strong in the hurdles and long and triple jumps.

"I did everything but line them up and run them, and that's against the law," said Blackwood, alluding to NCAA rules that prohibit tryouts.

Price said most exchanges with the coach were by mail or cable since it takes weeks to arrange a telephone call to Accra. He said he received several notes signed by the coach, giving Garbrah's performances and a purported national ranking in the 110 meter hurdles.

Price finally thought he had solid confirmation last November when he received a photocopy from Garbrah of a news story relating his record breaking 13.9 race in the 110 meter hurdles in May 1980.

Price tested them in a four way meet, about a month after they arrived.

Garbrah, who supposedly had done 25 1/2" in the long jump in Ghana, had a 17 5/8" as his best effort. He claimed to have triple jumped 50'8", but went only 38'8", barely reaching the sand pit. He also ran a leg on a 1,600 meter relay team, clocking 57.2, which wasn't as fast as UT's top women ran that day.

Quicoe false started in the hurdles and escaped a clocking. He jumped 20'6 1/2" and 42'10 1/2", well under the 25'5 1/2" and 51'4" he supposedly recorded in his homeland in the long jump and triple jump, respectively. His 50.9 relay leg compared to his claimed 46.9.

Price tried them in a second local meet in late March, and Garbrah raised his triple jump to 40'7 1/2" but ran the hurdles in 17.3 — an incredible 3.4 seconds slower than his "record."

Quicoe ran the hurdles in 16.5 and long jumped 22'5".

Price told them to forget about track and concentrate on classwork. He also notified them their track scholarships would not be renewed after the spring semester. He hasn't seen them since and doesn't know if they returned to Ghana. Neither is enrolled at UT this summer.

"We got sold a bill of goods by their regional coach," said Blackwood. "The kids should have known better, but we felt sorry for them."

The news item was something Price couldn't reconcile until after he talked with another Ghanaian athlete who is in the United States. The Ghanaian told Price that Frank Quartey had set the hurdles record, and he sent a newspaper clipping to Price to prove it.

Price compared the clipping to the photocopy Garbrah had sent him, and it was identical except for several substitutions, such as Garbrah's name in the headline and story. The name of the high school Garbrah attended was inserted in place of Quartey's and the time lowered from 14.1 to 13.9.

The American Statesman said it is clear that the substitutions were stripped in over the original headlines and newsprint and then photocopied.

The slight misalignment of type and improper spacing does not show up vividly, the newspaper said, because of the primitive type reproduction, "reminiscent of American newspapers at the turn of the century."

Coach Ted Banks, who has built a track powerhouse at Texas El Paso with African athletes said, "This isn't the first time this has happened. What you've got to understand is that a lot of these kids are very anxious to get here and get an education."

"If we can't feel pretty good in our own heads (about an African recruit), we're not going to offer him a scholarship. And in times of doubt, we'll send them to a junior college to prove themselves," said Banks.

"I guess the bottom line is that if you get desperate enough, you'll do anything," Price said.

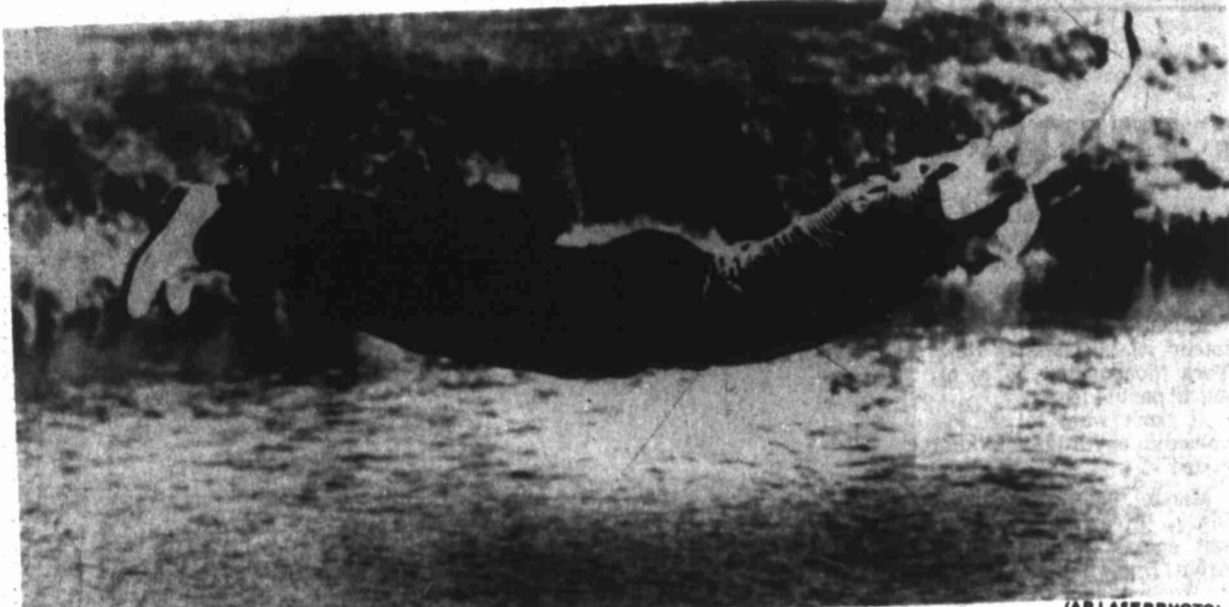

However, he said, "We don't want to let two athletes sour us on all athletes from that country."

PATE TAKES A DIVE — Golfer Jerry Pate dives into the lake at the 18th green Sunday after winning the 1981 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic by two strokes. Pate, whose last victory was in the Southern Open in 1978, had said that if he won he wanted to "bathe in victory" with a swim.

Pate regains touch in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The two-stroke victory in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic could serve as a major career turning point for aquatic Jerry Pate.

"I think you can look for a lot from Jerry Pate in the next 8-9 years," said Bruce Lietzke, who tied for second with Tom Kite.

"I think this very well could be a stepping stone for Jerry to becoming one of the great, great players in the world."

"His swing has the beauty of (Tom) Weiskopf's."

"And his execution — I hesitate to use the two hallowed words — he has the execution, the ball-striking ability of Ben Hogan."

Pate, a more seasoned, more mature man than the rookie who scored his first victory in the 1976 U.S. Open, also pointed to the triumph — which he celebrated with a fully-clothed leap into the lake in front of the 18th green — as a career turning point.

"This is very important to me," he said Sunday after completing his 3-under-par 69 and a 274 total, 14 shots under par on the 7,249 yard Colonial Country Club course.

Lietzke, Pate's brother-in-law, and Kite were two strokes back at 276. Lietzke had a last-round 67, and Kite, who has challenged so many times this year, shot a 68 in the warm, muggy weather.

It was five shots back to South African rookie Denis Watson and Peter Jacobsen, tied for fourth at 281. Watson had a 68, Jacobsen 75.

Lee Trevino, the defending champion, and David Thore were next at 282. Trevino closed with a 69 and Thore, who needed to win $1,931 in this tournament to retain his PGA Tour playing rights, shot a 71 that brought him the biggest check of his life, $10,450.

58 easy winner in BSGA Tourney

A round of 58, five strokes better than the closest team, propelled the quartet of Jerry Barron, Gene Fletcher, Lloyd Duncan and Allen Bailey to the championship in Sunday's Big Spring Golf Association Louisiana Draw.

The 18-hole tourney was held at the Comanche Trail Course.

There was a two-way tie for second place, with rounds of 63, with the quintet of Burl

Dennis, Cary Wiggins, Joey Pate, Sammy Sims and John Stanley winning the playoff.

Finishing third with their 63 was the foursome of Bob Rogers, O.A. Madison, M. Thomas and P. Girven.

Pate won $54,000 from the total purse of $300,000 and achieved two cherished goals: at 27 he became the youngest man to go past $1 million in career earnings (he now has $1,035,620) and he nailed down a spot on the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

Baum wins CC marathon

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The second annual Albany Fandangle 5,000-meter marathon Saturday saw a former Big Spring teen-ager capture first place in the 13-19 year old age bracket.

Laura Baum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Baum of Colorado City, ran the three-mile marathon to come in first in her division with a time of 23:31, the second fastest time in the women's division. Winning first overall in the women's division was McMurry College student Nancy deLorenne, with a 21:55 time in the 25-29 age bracket.

Overall marathon winner was Tim Godfrey in the 20-29 age bracket, with a 16:11 time.

Tracy Austin upset

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pam Shriver upset fourth-seeded Tracy Austin 7-5, 6-4 on Monday to reach the semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis tournament for the first time.

The tall 18-year-old right-hander from Lutherville, Md., moved into the final four with Chris Evert Lloyd, Hana Mandlikova and Martina Navratilova.

Lloyd, the top seed, downed Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-2. Mandlikova, the No. 2 seed, played the most impressive tennis of the day to crush Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-0, 6-0.

Navratilova, who won the title here in 1978 and 1979, served and volleyed past Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-2, 6-3.

Lloyd and Shriver meet in Wednesday's semifinals. Two Czechoslovakian-born players, Navratilova and Mandlikova, play in the other match.

Shriver, who will turn 19 on Saturday, had never beaten Austin in 11 meetings. They had played nine times as juniors and twice on the pro circuit.

The match between the two American girls kept the 14,000 fans at center court in a fever of excitement to the last point. Both players made a lot of errors, but Shriver, seeded seventh, had the edge with her bold play at the net.

Shriver, who was the youngest-ever finalist in the U.S. Open in 1978, said: "This win today was more satisfying."

Many feel this is the volatile New Yorker's year to dethrone Borg

McEnroe stealing Wimbledon with act

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Win, lose or draw, super, beat or super talent, this is John McEnroe's Wimbledon.

You can sense it in every corner of the old All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club, home of the world's premier tennis championship.

He is complex, intelligent, explosive, the target of derision and adulation, and everybody knows he's around and that he is a threat for the title. Teenyboppers crowd the restraining ropes for a look at him. They go into hysteria when he wins.

The Wimbledon hierarchy has fined him $1,500 and put him on virtual probation.

Another untoward incident, they say, and he's out the front gate on his white shorts.

Yet the fans here, the most knowledgeable and aware in the sport, not only respect him for his rare gifts, but love him for his occasional brashness and revolt against authority.

The London tabloids pan and praise him.

The flashy, fiery left-hander has shoved into the background the great Bjorn Borg, winner of five straight Wimbledon now going for his sixth.

It's McEnroe they talk about on the British radio talk shows. It's McEnroe who draws the biggest galleries and the loudest cheers, despite — or maybe because of — his tantrums.

To some of his closest friends, he is a genius. One day, the mad genius, taking on all who defy or displease him. The next, a contrite kid, whose boyhood was spent in the jungle of junior tennis.

"He is the greatest player I have ever seen," says Arthur Ashe, U.S. Davis Cup captain and former U.S. and Wimbledon champion. But Ashe acknowledged he was embarrassed for McEnroe Monday when he broke his racket and venomously berated officials. "He's going to have to clean up his act or somebody will have to clean it up for him."

McEnroe himself was sheepish after calling the umpire in his first-round match "an incompetent fool."

McEnroe, 22, jumped from obscurity to instant fame four years ago when, as a fuzzi-faced kid, he fought his way through the qualifying rounds to the semifinals.

"Is this big-time pro tennis?" he asked precociously after knocking over some of the world's best. "What have I been missing?"

That's when the British press dubbed him Super Brat. They haven't let up since.

McEnroe turned pro after a year's try at college and, before you knew it he was beating Borg about as often as Borg beat him. Connors, fell to the background and the "Big Three" became the "Big Two."

There are some pretty smart tennis analysts who contend McEnroe will end Borg's fantastic streak next Saturday.

A superb athlete, 5-foot-11 and 165 pounds with thick legs, he is a rare combination of stroking power and touch. He can get to the net in a leap after delivering that wide-sweeping left-handed serve. And at the net he is capable of dominating any match.

His problem is that he has failed to marshal his gifts — mental and physical — into an all-conquering whole.

An psychologist, Dr. Douglas Mackay, said this week that most of McEnroe's troubles stem from an insecurity in matches he should win easily. "It never happens in the important matches against players such as Borg and Connors to whom he might be expected to lose," he said. "I think he gets bored and needs an incident of some sort to keep his adrenalin flowing."

Rex Bellamy of the London Times, regarded as one of the most astute of tennis writers, disagrees.

"At age 22, McEnroe should have grown up by this time," said Bellamy. "I think he has chronic psychological problems. He's had and not getting better."

Bellamy said it is reasonable for McEnroe to object on line calls — "he can't tolerate injustice and incompetence" — but unreasonable that he reacts as he does to umpires and linesmen.

Unlike Connors, who in his angriest period carried his animosities to the locker room and the clubhouse, McEnroe becomes gentle out of the arena. He is respected and liked by players and newsmen. He has an infectious personality, can be witty and charming.

Nevertheless, on the court or off, he is a sparking electric wire.

Mellow Connors laughs at 12-1 odds

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — As Bjorn Borg and John McEnroe glide blissfully on their collision course to the Wimbledon tennis final, they'd better look out nor that guy sneaking up alongside them.

It's the notorious alley fighter, Jimmy Connors. Old Jimbo. You must remember Jimbo?

Listen, this kid had an act that made the petulant court tantrums of Mac the Super Brat look like Shirley Temple on the Good Ship Lollipop. He ate sauteed rattlesnake meat and washed it down with tiger milk. He was the terror linesmen and umpires.

Sometimes surly and sometimes the ultimate smart aleck, with that wiggle of his hips and the waggle of his finger, full of bluster and bombast, he was the Dead End Kid of tennis.

But make no mistake about it, this wiry (5-foot-10, 151-pound) gutsy, unbroken bronc of a guy could play this game. Emitting loud grunts, he literally threw his whole body at the ball, attacking every one as if were some evil force that had to be immediately destroyed.

He never temporized. He never unlocked the gates of mercy. He was the court assassin, a left-handed killer whose deadliest weapon was a two-fisted backhand that had the trajectory of a rifle shot.

To readers, it's undoubtedly odd that such references are used in the past tense. After all, Jimbo is only 28 and just two years removed from being ranked No. 1 in the world for a record five consecutive times.

Jimmy Connors is living and well, we are happy to report, and sitting comfortably on a quarterfinal rung in the current All-England Championships.

But how would anybody know? Connors in the forgotten man of the 1981 Wimbledon, shrugged off by the legal bookmakers, virtually ignored by the media and treated like an unwanted stepchild by the august All-England scheduling committee.

At the beginning of the tournament, London bookies had Borg and McEnroe 1-2 favorites at odds as low as 6-4 and 6-5. Connors, the No. 3 seed, was listed at 12-1. Odds have changed slightly since.

Twelve to one! Jimbo exclaimed incredulously when the information was relayed to him. "That's ridiculous!"

Ray Floyd wins in Canada

KITCHENER, Ontario (AP) — Ray Floyd awoke to a brisk wind Sunday morning and knew he'd breeze to victory.

Several hours later the tour veteran picked up his $20,000 first-place money as the chavon of a $100,000 international tournament after carving out a closing round 71 — 1-under-par on the 6,755-yard Westmount Golf and Country Club layout. Floyd finished at 277, 11-under-par.

"My game is so sound, with that wind — just like we had the first two days — I felt it was a positive factor for my game."

"I knew there wasn't going to be anybody shooting 66 and 67. I was in control. I knew what I'd have to do to win."

Floyd, 38, played by his own standards a conservative round for a 6-stroke victory over Daniel Talbot, 26, a Canadian club pro and a pre-tournament darkhorse who had a share of the lead the first two days of the 72-hole tournament.

Talbot, playing with Floyd and U.S. Open champion David Graham in the final threesome Sunday, continued his unflappable play and despite a double bogey on the 11th hole, finished at 73.

His total of 283 was 5-under-par and left him two shots ahead of Graham, the veteran Australian with a host of international PGA titles to his credit.

Tied with Graham were Canadian seniors champion Moe Norman and countryman Don Allman, a part-time pro, who, like Talbot, refused to cave in to the pressures of leading or being near the lead of an international tournament.

Norman shot a final-round 73, Allman 74.

Talbot, who had never cashed a check for more than $2,000, won $11,800 for second place and the Labatt Cup as the low Canadian. He also picked up $3,500 for his hole-in-one Friday.

FORGOTTEN MAN — Jimmy Connors, above, is the forgotten man of the 1981 Wimbledon, shrugged off by the legal bookmakers, virtually ignored by the media and treated like an unwanted stepchild by the august All-England scheduling committee.

In order to collect insurance

Marvin Miller blasts owners mouth for lying

By the Associated Press

With 10 per cent of the major league baseball season already lost to the players' strike, no negotiations are scheduled and the only talking going on between the two sides has been through the media.

And the words haven't been kind.

On Sunday, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, had strong words about the way Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for the owners, has handled the situation. The strike, over the single issue of compensation to teams losing free agents in the re-entry draft, entered its 18th day today. Following the cancellation of 14 games Sunday, 211 contests had been lost, one-tenth of the entire number of games on the schedule.

The most recent talks broke off Friday.

"Grebey has been using the players," said Miller, who handed the negotiations for the players until the walkout began June 12. Since then, Miller has not participated in the fruitless talks between management and the union.

"He comes out after the meetings and tells the public, 'we're making progress' when no progress has been made. He's soft-soaping the owners who might be getting restless. He's telling them 'we're meeting and we're making progress.' And he's saying to the insurance companies, 'see, we're meeting,' so they can collect their insurance."

The owners are collecting on a $50 million insurance policy under which they are being paid $100,000 per canceled date.

"They're not ready to negotiate because they haven't reached that point in their timetable," added Miller. "He (Grebey) is involved in a three-pronged effort to fool the fans, his own people and the insurance companies."

In response to Miller, Grebey said, "When Mr. Miller has enough courage to return to the bargaining table, he can make comments."

In an interview with NBC Radio, Bob Lurie, owner of the San Francisco Giants and a member of baseball's executive council, and shortstop Mark Belanger of the Baltimore Orioles, who has been on the players' bargaining team since the strike began, revealed a basic misunderstanding between the sides.

Lurie knocked the players' pool proposal for compensation, saying it "doesn't address itself to fair compensation. If the Giants want nothing to do with the free agent draft next year, we will still have to put up a player to be taken away from us."

Belanger retorted that the pool idea in which teams would contribute players to be used as free agent compensation would involve only those clubs participating in the re-entry draft.

"If you don't draft, then you don't put a player in the pool," he said.

Lurie didn't seem to be aware of the fact that all 26 teams would not be required to contribute to the pool.

"Is that a recent change I missed," he asked.

"We changed when your side made a valid argument," said Belanger. "The problem in the past has been misinterpretation along these lines."

Upcoming next weekend is the July 4 holiday, traditionally one of the biggest gate attractions of the season. The owners stand to lose substantial income from cancellation of those games, even though they will recoup some of those monies from their insurance policy.

Also rapidly approaching is July 14, when the All-Star Game is scheduled for Cleveland.

The Los Angeles Herald Examiner said that a memo circulating through an advertising agency representing several striking players has advised against committing them to any engagements after July 7.

The memo also said that the All-Star Game would be delayed, the newspaper said in its Saturday editions.

Neither the ad agency nor the source of the Herald Examiner's information were identified.

The Gillette-sponsored computer card balloting for the game has continued at minor league parks and retail outlets and the votes are being tallied, according to Bob Wirz, a spokesman for Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Wirz denied a report that unless the voting reaches six million — roughly half the total attained in each of the last several years — that a panel of managers and baseball executives would be used to select the starting teams.

"No final decision has been made," he said. "We have had to consider a variety of alternatives. We could not predict the number of votes we would get. We have weighed various alternatives that could be used depending on whether we get a fair turnout of votes."

The Major League Umpires Association, represented by attorney Richie Phillips, was to return to court in Philadelphia today, seeking to reverse U.S. District Court Judge Donald Van Artsdalen's decision to withhold an injunction blocking the owners' collecting on their insurance policy. The umpires had won the injunction from Common Pleas Judge Stanley Greenberg earlier in the week, then Van Artsdalen overturned it.

Will fight Tillis instead of Cooney

WBA champ Weaver changes mind

CHICAGO (AP) — World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Mike Weaver appears ready to pass up a $3 million payday in order to hold onto his title.

Weaver already has signed to fight No. 1 contender Gerry Cooney in October. But the WBA has told him he must first fight unbeaten James "Quick" Tillis and must sign for that bout before July 15.

"I've worked too hard for that title. I don't want to lose it, even though I'd make $3 million to fight Cooney," Weaver said in an interview published Sunday in the Chicago Sun-Times.

Weaver asked the WBA to sanction the Cooney bout but Wednesday in Houston, the WBA's executive board voted 16-0 to maintain its support of Tillis, of Chicago. When Weaver appealed the ruling, the WBA gave him a 15-day extension, from June 30 until July 15, to sign to fight Tillis.

"I really don't know if I'll fight Cooney now," said Weaver. "They've been waiting to see what I'm going to do and I've been waiting to see what they are going to do. I figure they'd been trying to scare me into fighting Tillis by saying they're going to strip me of my title.

"But now I guess they're serious about stripping me. And I'm going to have to think this thing over, Cooney or Tillis. Right now, if I were to decide between $3 million and my title, I'd rather have my title. It means more than money. It means more than anything. The only reason I've been holding back from fighting Tillis is to see what the WBA was going to do."

Since the WBA would not relent, the Weaver camp now is looking to Tillis first, then Cooney.

Don Manuel, Weaver's manager, said in Los Angeles Sunday: "I hate for Mike to lose the title on a technicality. Mike has nothing to do with it and now I feel the fighter is being penalized by politics."

James Kalentis, Tillis' manager, told the Associated Press that after he returned Friday from Houston, where he attended the WBA executive committee meeting, Sam Glass, who is to promote a Weaver-Cooney bout, called him and wanted to know if Tillis would take $200,000 to fight Weaver.

Kalentis told Glass he already had been offered $250,000 by someone else to fight Weaver. Glass called back and told Kalentis, "I'll give you $250,000. I discussed it with Manuel. Come in Monday and we will talk."

Kalentis said he doesn't intend to see Glass in New York Monday but hopes to get all parties together.

"I don't want to get involved in any litigation," he added.

Manuel and Weaver have filed a breach of contract suit against promoter Bob Arum, who wanted to put on a Weaver-Tillis fight last February. Kalentis said he is afraid Arum would seek to enjoin a Weaver-Tillis fight promoted by anyone else.

With win in Rochester LPGA

Lopez-Melton starts Hall of Fame goal

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Nancy Lopez-Melton would like to get into the Ladies Professional Golf Association Hall of Fame.

As it is, her goal was not lofty enough, the three-time LPGA superstar also has a timetable.

"I'd like to be off the tour within 10 years, so I'd like to make it before then," the 24-year-old California native said Sunday after winning the $125,000 Sarah Coventry by two shots over Pat Bradley.

"I want to try to be No. 1 while I'm out here, but it's grueling and you can feel really exhausted playing week in and week out. I'm playing a lot this year, and it's going to take a lot out of me."

Lopez-Melton, who won Sarah Coventry tournament for the third time in three tries on Locust Hill Country Club course, needs seven more titles, at least one a major, to qualify for the Hall of Fame.

"It can take the rest of your life," she says, but she is ahead of schedule after four years on the tour.

In her 17th tournament this year, Lopez-Melton collected her third triumph, the 23rd of her career and a $18,750 check which boosted her 1981 earnings to $132,668.

Starting in a 3-under-par tie with Bradley and four shots ahead of Jan Stephenson and lice iztman, she shot 2-under-par 71 — the same as Stephenson — to Bradley's 73 for a four-day total of 285 which bettered par by seven strokes on the 6,155-yard course.

Bradley finished at 287, and Stephenson was the only other competitor to break par at 3-under 289. Ritzman fell far back with a closing round 80.

Marlene Floyd and Kathy Whitworth tied for fifth at even-par 292, while Jane Blalock, Vicki Fergon, Patty Sheehan and Sandra Haynie strung together 72-hole totals of 293. Whitworth's $5,625 payday boosted her career earnings to $993,249, just $6,751 shy of the LPGA's first million-dollar career.

Acting like a frontrunner even when she trailed Bradley by two strokes after 12 holes, Lopez-Melton tightened the screws with a birdie on the tough, 403-yard 13th hole and went ahead with a second birdie on the 14th, another par-4.

Bradley, who promptly bogeyed Nos. 14 and 15, recovered for two birdies and then another bogey while trying too hard on the last green. She said No. 13 was "the turnaround hole."

Last year, Lopez-Melton came from one stroke behind to win the tournament when Bradley bogeyed the 18th hole. The champion's uncanny luck at Locust Hill began in 1978, when she won the last of her LPGA-record five consecutive tournaments.

Stephenson, who tied a course record with a 5-under-par 31 score on the front nine, fell out of contention with a pair of double bogeys on the 13th and 17th holes.

Umps resume court fight vs. owners today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Major league umpires were due back in federal court this morning to press their case for preventing baseball's team owners from collecting on a $50 million strike insurance policy.

The Major League Umpires Association, represented by attorney Richie Phillips, contends the owners aren't trying to settle the midseason baseball strike because of the insurance policy that pays owners $100,000 for each game not played.

Phillips says a state court should decide the issue and asked U.S. District Court Judge Donald Van Artsdalen to rule on the matter. The judge set a hearing for 9 a.m. to listen to Phillips' motion.

The insurance policy was to go into effect last Wednesday, after 153 games were cancelled, but Philadelphia Common Pleas Judge Stanley Greenberg issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the owners from collecting on the policy.

Greenberg's order, however, was thrown out Friday by Van Artsdalen.

"I can see no legal basis, either under federal or state law, to issue an injunction in this matter," Van Artsdalen ruled.

"We all know when there is a major strike, like those affecting utilities, public employees, and even baseball players, that there are some people who are going to get hurt," said the judge.

"The umpires are being paid, and will be paid at least for the next 15 days and are incurring no damages, whatever, except that they are on a forced paid vacation. So at present, there is no irreparable harm."

Judge Greenberg, who told a reporter he was "an avid baseball fan," had reluctantly given up the case.

"The intent of this court in issuing the injunction was never to interfere with the negotiations between players and owners, but to stimulate them, and I think they have been," Greenberg said. "They have increased the time spent at the bargaining table, and both sides appear more serious than ever before."

But still wishes baseball strike would end

Mariners Randle changes act to nightclub

SEATTLE (AP) — For Lenny Randle, the Seattle Mariners' veteran infielder who makes a reported

$150,000 a year, the baseball players' strike has been one big laugh. The laughs have been provided by Randle — in a comedy act he has offered in Seattle area nightclubs and restaurants.

During the players' strike, in its 17th day Sunday, other out-of-work Mariners joined Randle, 31, on stage. Randle wants to become a standup comedian when his playing days are finished and he's working in that direction.

"But it's time to start playing baseball again," he sighed.

Randle is an 11-year major league veteran who came to the Mariners as a free agent last February.

Since the strike started, Randle has been working with his Marine comedy and singing act that has included pitchers Mike Parrott, Larry Anderson, Dick Drago, Shane Rawley and Bryan Clark, outfielder Joe Simpson, second baseman Julio Cruz and designated hitter Gary Gray.

There are a lot of laughs. But his nightclub pay is minor league income compared to his big league salary, which has stepped. "I enjoy entertaining," Randle said. "But I love playing baseball. There's a big difference between loving something and enjoying something.

"I think you'll find that most big league players love what they do. Sure, there's some griping by some guys who sit on the bench. But I think you'll find that most players are happy to be in the big leagues and just be on a 25-man roster."

Even though the players and the owners are stalemated on the issue of compensation to teams losing free agents, Randle is trying to stay optimistic.

SENIOR LEAGUE — The Turner Properties Wildcats capped a perfect season by scoring a 9-3 win over the Garmann-Johnson Trojans in the final Senior League game of the year. The win boosted the Wildcats to a final record of 14-0.

Jay Pirkle was the winning pitcher, and Tommy Gertman the loser.

Pirkle also paced the Wildcats hitting attack, blasting a double and a single. Pete Crabtree had a triple, Marty Redfords a double, with Danny Arista and David Ross both having singles.

Johnson had two singles for the Trojans, with Moore and Gertman adding one double each, and Marquez contributing a single.
