SUMMER FUN — Floyd Watkins of Big Spring knows just where to find it. And how. Watkins was photographed floating in Moss Creek Lake just after reeling in a 1½-pound bass. He appears to be drifting just outside the swimming area, and Jim Byers, park ranger at the lake, reminds anglers and swimmers alike to stay within the designated areas when enjoying the lake.

Carpenters' strike enters third day with no talks scheduled

By BELLEDER
Striking members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters Local 1428 today entered the third day of their strike against contractors with no negotiating sessions planned. "It's sitting right where it was yesterday," said Charles Morris, business representative for the union. The pact for the 17-county local expired at midnight Monday and a round of talks held in Midland Tuesday proved fruitless. The carpenters are asking for a two-year graduated pay boost that would increase their salaries by $3.40 an hour. Representatives of the Associated General Contractors of America and several independent contractors have offered the union $2.80 an hour over the next two years, with no provision for benefits. The union is asking for a benefits plan in addition to the pay boost "or enough money to build the benefits ourselves," Morris said. While no talks were scheduled for today, both sides expressed a willingness to seek compromise and Morris said "we're going to get together," eventually. About 30 construction projects have been affected by the strike in the Midland-Odessa area, according to J.W. Cooper of the Cooper Construction Co. in Odessa. Cooper will represent contractors in any future negotiations. Locally, two major projects have been hit by the strike: a mall project east of K-Mart on F.M. 700 and an elementary school project for the Coahoma Independent School District. Strikers at the mall site said six union carpenters were working on the project and all supported the strike. Four carpenters reportedly were on strike at the school project. A spokesman for Sparks Contractors Inc., builders of the elementary school, said he intended to hire replacements for the picketing carpenters. The school is scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1982; the spokesman was unable to indicate whether the strike would delay completion of the project. "I don't know whether they're gonna be off 30 days or 30 minutes. I'm trying to find somebody to replace them," the spokesman said. Terry McGough, job superintendent for the mall project, indicated Wednesday that the strike there would not hold up his project. The strikers are "in the process of being paid" strike compensation, Morris said, adding that "it's nowhere like executive wages, but it's compensation."

Local construction projects worth $607,933 gain approval

Construction projects worth $607,933 were approved by the city of Big Spring during the month of June, according to building permit figures released by the city this morning. That's the second highest figure recorded this year, according to a summary of permits issued month by month in 1981. The high was reached in February, when projects costing $3,162,334 were given permits. The June figure is double what it was a year ago, when June permits for $306,466 worth of projects were approved. Commercial projects topped last month's list of permits, with $343,000 worth of projects given permits. The most expensive project to be undertaken is by Fiberflex, which recently was given council approval to expand its lease at the Big Spring Industrial Park to include more property. Structures to be built include an office building and a manufacturing facility. Four other commercial permits made up the balance of the $343,000. Only one permit — worth $40,000 — was awarded to construct a new residence. The highest number of permits — 13 — were approved in the category of additions to existing residences. There were a total of 39 permits issued by the city in June. "We're very pleased with the figures. We think we might see a good trend," Assistant City Manager Paul Feazelle said this morning.

Soviet navy builds in Mediterranean

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets have built their naval strength in the Mediterranean to the highest level in about four years, and may be preparing an amphibious landing exercise on the Syrian coast, U.S. intelligence sources said Thursday. The sources, who declined to be identified, said the maneuvers, if they occur, would be made jointly with Syrian forces. A Soviet practice landing, which presumably would be made by Soviet naval infantry, would be regarded as a warning to Israel against taking any direct military action against Syrian anti-aircraft missiles in Southern Lebanon. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin has warned that Israeli forces may move if diplomatic efforts to resolve the dispute fail. It is uncertain how the close outcome of the Israeli election might affect Israeli decisions in the Syrian crisis, U.S. analysts say. According to intelligence sources, there are 53 Soviet naval vessels in the Mediterranean, the largest number since 1977. Included are about a dozen Soviet amphibious vessels. Sources said these amphibious ships could land about 600 Soviet naval infantrymen, the equivalent of U.S. Marines. However, they said they had not yet established the presence of Soviet marines on those ships, although U.S. specialists believe they are aboard. Without saying how they gained this information, the sources said U.S. intelligence knows that the Soviets and Syrians have been planning a joint exercise on the Syrian coast. They suggested the possibility that disclosure of those plans could result in a delay or cancellation of the expected landing. In apparent preparation for the exercise, the sources said, the Soviets have sent four TU-16 Badger twin-jet naval aviation bombers and four IL-38 May four-engine ocean patrol and anti-submarine warfare planes into Syria.

Judge calls new election for Coahoma school board

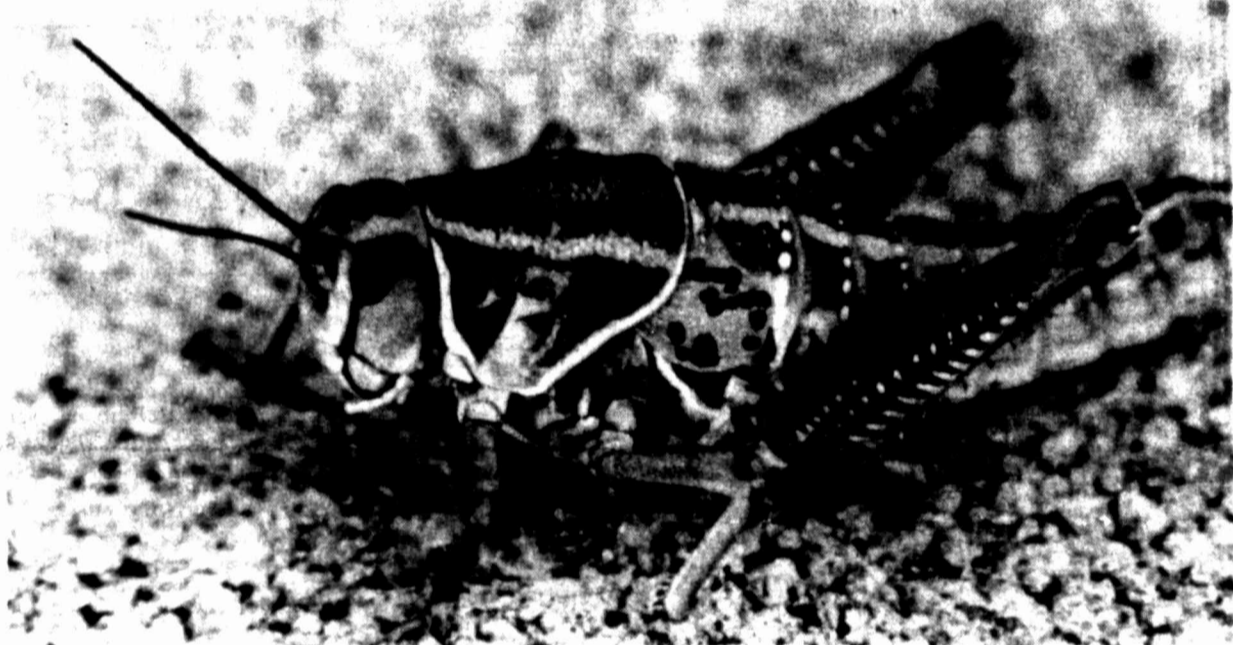

By CAROL HART
The conclusion of the Ken Cobb vs. Clovis Phinney Jr. trial Wednesday saw District Judge Jim Gregg order a new election for the two men. Cobb lost an April 4 school board election by one vote to Phinney. There were two positions opened on the board, with Bruce Griffith taking the lead in the race. Phinney was second, and Cobb was third. As ballots in the race were counted, an original tally showed Phinney had 194 votes, and Cobb had 198. When tally sheets were studied, it was discovered that Phinney had picked up five votes due to an error in arithmetic. Taking away the five votes left the two men tied at 189 votes each. Testimony showed that members of a canvassing committee discussed what to do, and decided to open the ballot boxes. When the boxes were opened, an invalid ballot, with Ken Cobb's name on it, was allegedly discovered.

CLOVIS PHINNEY JR.

Cobb charged later that the ballot box in the election was opened without authorization, and the ballot discarded without the proper authorization of an election judge. Judge Gregg said, "I found they had exceeded their statutory authority as a canvassing committee by opening the ballot box." Phinney was represented by attorney Jim Edwards. Representing Cobb was Lanny Hamby. Testimony began about 9 a.m. Wednesday, with Coahoma school superintendent Richard Souter called to the stand. Souter was asked to recall the procedure after the closing of the polls April 4. Phinney and Cobb also testified during the day, as did board members John Stanley Phillips, and Harold Aberegg. An appeal in the case is possible, said Judge Gregg, as attorney Edwards is considering the facts in the case. "I don't know" if Edwards will file for an appeal, Judge Gregg said this morning.

ALASKA-SIZE GRASSHOPPER — The Jumbo Grasshopper pictured above may seem larger than life. In fact, he is, but not by much. Such insects are now being seen in all parts of the county but are especially prolific in the pastures around Vealmoor and along the Howard-Borden county line. The farmers, knowing the pests will try to move into the cotton fields once the range grass has dried out, are making them feel unwelcome with insecticide spray and specially-treated bait. No, this particular creature didn't star in the film, "The Grasshopper That Ate Central Park."

Jobless rate falls to 7.3 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate fell an unexpected 0.3 percentage point in June, breaking a pattern of rising joblessness that coincides with the end of the school year, the Labor Department reported today. The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said last month's unemployment rate was 7.3 percent of the national workforce, compared to May's 7.6 percent. The decline returned unemployment to the range that had prevailed in February, March and April. "Unemployment traditionally rises in June, coincident with the closing of schools and the entrance of many young people into the labor force in search of jobs," the department said. "This June, the increase was less than usual and, as a result, unemployment increased on a seasonally adjusted basis to 7.8 million." The department reported that unemployment among blacks rose by 0.6 percentage point, from 13.6 percent to 14.2 percent. The department says the labor force overall grew by 1.3 million last month, but that the rise was only about half the amount expected "based on patterns which have occurred in recent years." Total employment fell by 840,000 in June, however, as the government reported 98.4 million people holding jobs. The department also reported an increase of 100,000 people in its "discouraged worker" category — people who have given up their search for jobs because they can't find one. The department reported these other unemployment rates:

- Adult men declined from 6.3 percent to 6.1 percent.
- Adult women declined by 0.3 percentage point to 6.5 percent.
- Teenagers declined by 0.5 percentage point to 19 percent.
- White workers declined from 6.8 percent to 6.4 percent.
- Hispanics remained at 10.2 percent.
- The 7.6 percent unemployment rate in May returned to the peak level recorded in May, July, August and October of last year. The previous high monthly figure was 7.8 percent in December 1976.
- Private analysts say the nation's unemployment rate is expected to remain relatively stable despite indications of an economic slowdown say.

Action/reaction: Mixed races

Q. What race of people are native to the islands in the Caribbean — black, Indian or Anglo?
A. None of the above, according to the National Geographic. Three-fourths are at least partly descended from African slaves. The remainder include direct descendants of European colonists, along with East Indians and Chinese, who were shipped in as indentured laborers when slavery was abolished in the 19th century.

Words of Freedom

The Fourth of July is Americans' traditional day of celebration ... but July Fourth should also be a day of reflection. Freedom, the ideal which created our nation and continues to give it meaning throughout the world, has flourished in human history far more seldom than we would like to believe. The work of freedom can never be finished, for freedom is not a temple that is completed when the last stone is in place, but a living thing that each generation must create anew.

—Jimmy Carter

Four murdered in LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Homicide detectives were looking for a motive in a bloody attack in a fashionable Hollywood Hills neighborhood that left four people dead and a young woman fighting for her life after surgery on head wounds.

The bodies of two men and two women were found Wednesday by fire department paramedics at a home on Wonderland Drive, a winding street along steep slopes between Coldwater and Laurel canyons in northwest Los Angeles, said police Lt. Dan Cook.

The house was less than a mile from the home of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. It is 3-4 miles from where followers of convicted murderer Charles Manson killed actress Sharon Tate and four others in 1969.

One officer described the scene inside the home Wednesday as "pretty bloody" but refused to elaborate. A neighbor said a middle-aged woman and a young man lived at the two-story, stucco house, but police refused to release identities of the victims.

Police said autopsies might be necessary before the cause of death could be determined.

New Daniel custody trial?

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Jean Daniel Murph, sister of Price Daniel Jr., will try again to get custody of the slain former Texas House speaker's two small sons.

Lawyers for Mrs. Murph filed a motion requesting a new trial in the custody battle over Franklin Baldwin Daniel, 3, and Marion Price Daniel IV, 1. Last April, a jury rejected Mrs. Murph's claim that her sister-in-law, Vickie Daniel, was an unfit mother and refused to take the children from their mother.

Mrs. Daniel, 33, is accused in the Jan. 19 shooting death of her husband and is scheduled to be tried on the charge in October.

Mrs. Murph's attorney, J.C. "Zeke" Zbrank, said Wednesday that the jury's unanimous verdict was "contrary to the overwhelming weight of the evidence."

Attorneys have 20 days to amend their general motion with specific allegations.

During the bitter six-week courtroom battle, Mrs. Murph's lawyers spent 27 days questioning a parade of witnesses about the events surrounding the former legislator's death and the couple's stormy four-year marriage.

Israeli may get F-16s

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration tentatively plans to resume shipments of sophisticated jet fighters to Israel later this month, White House officials say. In the process, it may release four warplanes held up after Israel's raid on an Iraqi nuclear reactor.

White House officials said Wednesday that unless the raid is found to have violated an agreement not to use American-made weapons for offensive purposes, six F-16 jets due for delivery July 17 will be shipped to Israel.

And although deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the June suspension of four F-16s to Israel had no direct impact on the July shipment, other officials said it was unlikely the administration would go ahead with one and not the other.

In any case, said one official who requested anonymity, the review of the Iraqi raid "will be completed before a decision is required on any future F-16 shipments."

Leftists jailed in Iran

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran's Revolutionary Guards thwarted a leftist plot to blow up the Parliament building in Tehran and arrested 50 of the plotters after a gunfight, a spokesman for the Islamic Republican Party said today.

Tehran Radio said firing squads executed 17 leftists in three cities today and revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said in a broadcast that Iranians should remember "we are at war with America."

The guards, tipped by residents of the neighborhood where the plotters were meeting, surprised dozens of leftists, traded gunfire with them and arrested 50, said Ghassem Bani-Hashemi, general director of the office of Education Minister Hojateleslam Mohammad Javad Bahonar. Bahonar is the IRP's new chief.

"They are now in jail, and after investigations (are completed) we can say definitely what will be done to them," he said in a telephone conversation with The Associated Press office in Beirut. Hundreds of opponents of the Tehran regime have been executed as "counter-revolutionaries" since the revolution toppled the monarchy in February 1979.

FINISHING UP HER WORK — Elsie Merrell, a student at Howard College, puts the finishing touches on her work in an art class offered at Howard College during the first summer semester. The class, which is not listed on the second summer semester schedule, will again be offered. Art 1313 is a basic drawing class for either beginners or intermediates. The class work includes pencil, charcoal, felt tip markers, still-life, landscape and outdoor sketching. Registration for all classes at Howard College will be Monday, July 6, in the college library. The art class will meet Monday-Thursday 7:30-11:30 a.m. in the Art Building. Becky Smiley is the instructor.

Israeli Labor Party trying to form two-party coalition

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Labor Party chief Shimon Peres, refusing to bow out of the fight to form a new government, today explored the chances for a coalition with the pivotal National Religious Party.

Peres set a crucial meeting for later today with Yosef Burg, leader of the Orthodox Jewish group, despite claims by Prime Minister Menachem Begin that he can form a coalition, with the NRP's help, by next week.

The latest unofficial tally of about 85 percent of the vote showed the socialist Laborites with 607,916 votes and the conservative Likud with 607,511, out of the 1,613,584 valid votes cast. That would give each party 49 seats.

Police Beat — Fireworks keep police hopping

Big Spring was relatively peaceful Wednesday except for increasing reports of fireworks being discharged within city limits (which is prohibited by city ordinances) and the following incidents:

- Gilbert Gonzales told police his 1972 Pontiac was parked at 406 W. 10th around 3:50 Wednesday when a person not known to him cut two front seat covers, damaged the dashboard, cut the vinyl top, broke the cruise control mechanism and took a battery, causing an estimated $500 worth of damage to the car.
- A city sanitation truck hit a power line owned by the Big Spring Cable TV company about 4:14 Wednesday afternoon. Police reports said the truck was traveling eastbound on 4th when it struck the overhead wire. No one was injured.

House action threatens Head Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — In its rush to pass President Reagan's budget cuts, the House may have opened a hole in his social safety net big enough for the popular Head Start program to fall through.

The budget reconciliation bill, pushed by Reagan and the Republican minority and approved last week, made no provisions to keep the Head Start program running after the fiscal year ends Sept. 30.

The measure made no reference to the program, which dates to Lyndon Johnson's war on poverty and provides preschool training for almost 387,000 needy children 3 to 5 years old. Ninety percent of the youngsters in the program are poor and 10 percent are handicapped.

Head Start was one of the seven "safety net" social programs that President Reagan promised to spare from his spending cuts. In fact, he asked Congress to increase Head Start's budget from $820 million in 1981 to $950 million in 1982.

Tax break for Congress?

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the same time Congress is slashing domestic programs, it is considering giving itself a $3 million tax break to offset the high cost of living in the nation's capital.

The House Appropriations Committee is scheduled to take up the measure next week. The proposal by Jaime L. Whitten, the panel's chairman, could be worth an average of $5,600 a year to each member of Congress.

The Mississippi Democrat's amendment, which also has the support of other top congressional leaders, would allow members to deduct Washington living expenses from their federal taxable income in the same way

Dr. Allensworth completes Defense Strategy Course

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Dr. William B. Allensworth of Big Spring, a colonel in the Medical Corps USAR, has completed the two-week Defense Strategy Course while on active duty for training at the National Defense University at Fort Leslie J. McNair, Washington, D.C.

The program focuses on the study of national security, the formulation and conduct of national strategy and the relationships between resource management and policy objectives.

Allensworth is one of 300 senior officers chosen from the National Guard and from the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard Reserves to attend the course.

Dr. Allensworth, an ophthalmologist, is in private practice in Big Spring.

revenues. That would work out to an average tax savings of $5,607.48 for each of the 535 members of Congress.

Many House and Senate members maintain residences in Washington as well as in their home districts.

Greg Bledsoe, city-county sanitarian for the Howard County Health Department, said that some confusion has arisen concerning food permits recently applied for in the city.

"Everyone who sells food comes under food laws," Bledsoe said. They are also required to follow the law as set forth by the permit system of Big Spring.

People who sell beer, wine or ice, or any type of food, must follow the law under the permit system of Big Spring. The classification of various food services has caused some confusion, said Bledsoe.

There are three types of food service classifications, according to Bledsoe. The first is vending machines, which dispense particular hazardous food, and are covered under a vending ordinance. This includes machines which keep food hot or cold, and have the potential of spoiling if the machines are not maintained properly.

Colorado City AJRA Rodeo lures big crowd

COLORADO CITY (SC) — An estimated 600 to 1,000 rodeo fans jammed into the Rodeo Arena west of Colorado City Wednesday night to take in the first night's performance of the AJRA Rodeo.

Chamber of Commerce manager Jack Hollis reported more than $1,000 was taken in at the gate alone, while others had bought their tickets in advance from the rodeo queen contestants.

Some 350 participants from three states are vying for $13,000 in prize money during the four-night Chamber of Commerce-sponsored event, which ends Saturday with a parade at 4 p.m., and the crowning of the rodeo queen during the 7:30 p.m. performance.

Wednesday night results:

Only 40 tickets remain for 'Gilded Cage Ball'

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The latest word on the "Gilded Cage Ball" Mitchell County's gala scheduled for July 18, is "don't wait until the ticket sales cutoff date of July 8," according to Mrs. J.R. Fuller, ball chairman.

Tickets for only 40 couples remain and they are expected to be sold within a few days. Two hundred tickets for couples or a total of 400 persons are considered capacity at the Civic Center, so only 40 more tickets (for 80 persons) are available for the extravaganza.

According to Mrs. Fuller, "decorations are being handled by Mrs. Rush Neff and they alone are worth the price of admission." Also included in the events is a catered buffet.

Local Chamber execs attend institute course at SMU

Executive vice president F. LeRoy Tilley and Assistant Manager Mark Sheedy of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce recently completed a week's course at the Institute for Organizational Management at Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Over 200 voluntary organization executives from all over the country participated in the professional development program.

During the five-day session, participants spent 27 classroom hours in the Institute course of study, which is designed to assist voluntary organization executives in improving the knowledge and skills they need to upgrade the effectiveness of their organization.

The Institute curriculum includes such areas as management philosophy, economic issues, government, law, organization structure, as well as contemporary subjects such as interpersonal processes, and environmental concerns. Each participant may attend progressive levels of the program throughout his professional career.

Teen killer finds loophole?
 NEW YORK (AP) — A teen-age killer who gunned down two strangers in a subway "for the experience" thought he found a legal loophole that would let him walk out of prison next month after serving less than 3 1/2 years.

But Willie Bosket Jr.'s plan apparently didn't work out.

After an outraged reaction by other officials to word that Bosket could be paroled Aug. 19, a spokesman for the State Division of Youth said Wednesday that Bosket's interpretation of the law was wrong.

He can be kept in jail at least another year, and possibly as long as 4 1/2 more years, officials said.

Now he must return to prison

Clerical goof led to early release of elderly arsonist

DALLAS (AP) — An elderly arsonist who can neither read nor write is having trouble grasping why he must return to his prison cell because a Texas Department of Corrections records clerk couldn't add.

Larry D. Eddings had served less than one month of his six-year sentence when he walked out the prison gates May 13 with $200 in his wallet and discharge papers in his hand.

Embarrassed TDC officials, who discovered a records clerk had erroneously calculated the time Eddings had served, issued a bulletin for his arrest Tuesday and on Wednesday Longview police found the 61-year-old man relaxing at his home on the city's southside.

"They said they wanted me down in the TDC, and I just left there," Eddings said in a telephone interview from the jail Wednesday.

"He thought he'd been honestly released, and he had been very happy about it," said Longview police spokesman Tom Kennedy. "There he was sitting on the front porch enjoying life, having no idea anything was amiss.

"He didn't offer any resistance, but he was quite surprised and taken aback that something was out of line regarding his release," Kennedy said.

"No one explained. They said I was released through a mistake," a dumbfounded Eddings said. "I didn't break out, I didn't run away. They gave me a discharge that was signed by the warden, which his name is Mr. (W.E.) Estelle, and I also had all my papers that said I was free."

"My discharge ain't no good?" he asked. "It's signed by the warden and he's in charge, ain't he?"

Kennedy said police couldn't explain to Eddings because TDC officials would not explain the matter to them.

"They're pretty tight-lipped. I guess there are some pretty red faces down there," said Kennedy.

Eddings had been convicted of arson and sentenced to prison in 1977 for setting fire to the garage of his Waco home, said Waco police detective Wanda Bass. No one was hurt in the blaze at the house she said had been insured for $12,000.

Eddings was free on bond while he appealed the conviction, but TDC spokesman Rick Hartley said records showed — wrongly — that Eddings was in jail the entire time.

Hartley said when Eddings reported to Huntsville on April 15 to begin serving his time, his records showed he had almost finished the sentence.

"The chaplain come and told me I'd be getting out on the 13th (of May). I sat down with 'em, and there was a man there to help me because I can write my name, but I can't read too good, I'm not educated..." said Eddings.

"It's sad that a mistake was made, but he was sentenced for violating a state law and he still has time he owes the state," said Hartley. "We have no other choice."

Weather

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts showers from the Atlantic coast of Delaware to Georgia, from the northwest coast of Florida to the southeast coast of Texas for Friday. Showers are also expected in Minnesota and portions of Wisconsin.

Storms reported in Wichita Falls

Widely scattered thunderstorms were forecast today for most of North Texas, Southeast Texas, eastern sections of the Panhandle and in the mountains of Southwest Texas.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures statewide. Highs were to be in the 90s except in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas where readings were to reach around 104.

A few thundershowers were reported during the night in the Wichita Falls area and in extreme Southeast Texas.

Some patchy fog was reported in South Central Texas early today. Skies were mostly clear over the western half of the state and partly cloudy to cloudy over the eastern half.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s. Extremes ranged from 59 at Marfa to 82 at Wichita Falls.

Scurry County Jail given accreditation

SNYDER — The American Medical Association (AMA) has awarded the Scurry County Jail in Snyder with a two-year accreditation for its successful efforts in upgrading health care in the facility.

A representative from the Texas Medical Association (TMA) presented the award certificate to Sheriff Keith Collier of Snyder at the Scurry County Jail Wednesday. Representing the Colorado Basin County Medical Society was Wilton N. Jones, M.D., the Snyder physician who inspected the jail's facilities.

The AMA project is part of a nationwide voluntary program to improve medical care and health services to inmates of the nation's jails.

Two-year accreditation certifies that the jail meets at least 85 percent of the AMA's standards for proper jail health care. These standards include providing adequate emergency care, physical examinations for contagious diseases, drug and alcohol withdrawal assistance and other medical help.

The AMA launched the multi-state jail program 10 years ago after a survey revealed that health care was inadequate or unavailable in many jails.

Pioneer Production reveals completion of gas well

AMRILLO — Pioneer Production Corporation has announced the completion of a natural gas discovery well in Hemphill County, one mile north of the city of Canadian.

The well, the Pickens Unit No. 1-76, flowed at a rate of 4.2 million cubic feet of gas per day through a 10-64-inch choke, with a flowing tubing pressure of 4,278 pounds per square inch (psi). During testing, a shut-in tubing pressure of 6,073 psi was reported.

Drilled to a depth of 11,250 feet, the well is completed in the Upper Morrow formation with perforations from 11,177 feet to 11,187 feet. It is approximately three miles north of a 12-well Upper Morrow field, in which two wells each produce over one billion cubic feet per year.

Pioneer Production Corporation, a subsidiary of Pioneer Corporation (NYSE), is the operator and owns a 37.5 percent working interest in the Pickens Unit No. 1-76. CNR Resources, Inc., owns a 37.5 percent working interest, and private investors own the remaining 25 percent.

Pioneer Production holds leases on approximately 1,600 acres in the prospect area. Drilling of a confirmation well is scheduled to begin early in July.

Bequest of $540,000 made to Permian scholarship unit

The Permian Honor Scholarship Foundation has been notified that a bequest amounting to more than $500,000 has been bestowed upon it by the late E.J. Cleveland Jr., who died in San Angelo Feb. 13, 1981.

Previously officials of the Foundation had known they were to receive a bequest, but the size of the grant was not known until completion of the inventory of the Cleveland Estate by the Trustee, Commercial Bank & Trust Company of Midland. Assets of the bequest totaled about $540,000.

E.J. Cleveland Jr., lived in Midland for 20 years and served as sales representative of the Texas Employers Casualty Company from that office until his retirement in 1970.

Some months prior to the time of his death, Cleveland told J. Conrad Dunagan, president of the foundation, "The people of the Permian Basin have been good to me, and I would like to do something for them." At that time he made a $7,000 contribution to the endowment fund of the foundation and said that he would leave a bequest to the organization. However, he gave no clue as to the size of the bequest.

The Permian Honor Scholarship

Foundation was incorporated in 1977 out of an ad hoc group of business and professional people of the Permian Basin who had joined in giving co-sponsorships of $300 for two years each (or a total of $1,200) to highly qualified students who wish to stay in the Permian Basin area while securing a bachelor's degree.

Since 1977, more than 40 $1,200 scholarships have been awarded annually to students at Howard, Midland, Odessa, Western Texas and New Mexico Junior colleges.

Most of the financial institutions of the Permian Basin area and a number of other individuals and corporations give one or more co-sponsorships each year. Students are chosen from among the top ranking 25 percent on the basis of a combination of class rank and college-entrance exam scores.

Another award is available to the top 1 percent in class rank or college entrance exam scores — The Permian Presidential Scholarship, which guarantees a minimum of $500 per annum at the community college level and $1,000 per year at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin (for a total of at least $3,000 over the four year period).

Both of these scholarships are in recognition of academic achievement and are not related to need. Those who can show need may obtain further assistance through federal grants and loans. Many of the Permian Honor Scholars work while going to college, but it is the hope of the Foundation's sponsors that the working grantees of these scholarships will, because of the funds provided, have more time to take advantage of the educational opportunities which they have while in college. Cleveland expressed hearty approval of this program.

Dunagan, a resident of Monahan, said it would be the goal of the foundation to increase its endowment fund to about $400,000 to make a total of one million dollars, including the Cleveland bequest, the income from which could be used to support the purposes of the foundation.

Dunagan said the endowment fund now stands at about $200,000, and he hopes that other citizens of the Permian Basin will help to achieve the $500,000 goal, preferably by gifts now, but by bequest if the donor prefers.

Bond sales reported

April sales of Series EE & HH United States Savings Bonds in Howard County were reported today by County Bond Chairman Jimmy Taylor to be $20,852. Sales for the first four month period totaled $189,265 for 29 percent of the 1981 goal of $685,000.

Texas sales during the month amounted to $20,813,033, while sales for the first four months of 1981 totaled $83,196,515 with 37 percent of the yearly sales goal of $222.3 million achieved.

Study supports only limited surgery for victims of minor breast cancer

BOSTON (AP) — Women faced with a minor case of breast cancer could benefit from the removal of only part of the breast plus radiotherapy as much as from a radical mastectomy, a study of Italian cancer patients has found.

The study, conducted from 1973 to 1980 at the National Cancer Institute in Milan, focused on women's breast cancers measuring less than two centimeters in diameter.

It found no difference in survival rates of the 349 patients who underwent a radical mastectomy and 352 who received radiotherapy plus a more conservative operation called a quadrantectomy, according to the study, published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

There is a "pressing demand" among women with breast cancer for "less mutilating procedures and increasing requests from patients to be informed of the various possible treatments, including the conservative techniques," the study noted.

With a radical mastectomy, surgeons remove a woman's entire breast, plus adjoining fat and pectoral muscles. The 10-year survival rate for patients undergoing radical mastectomies in the United States has been less than 50 percent, medical authorities say.

In a quadrantectomy, only a section of the breast is removed. Many doctors believe women have fewer psychological problems adjusting if the entire breast is not removed.

Twenty-eight of the 701 women in the study had died by 1980. Of those, 14 had undergone the radical mastectomy and 14 received a quadrantectomy.

Doctors also found some form of cancer recurrence in 38 of the patients who lost an entire breast and in 36 of those who lost a section of breast and underwent radiotherapy.

One of every 11 women in the United States will develop breast cancer

We learn by our mistakes

There is a teacher who gives this advice to her students: "Be proud of your mistakes. It's the quickest way to learn."

We don't think anyone should ever feel comfortable with his mistakes. But the teacher is right. Once a mistake has wormed its way indelibly into existence, there's only one thing to do with it, and that's to take advantage of it.

Learn from it.

"NO ONE EVER became great or good except through many and great mistakes," said William Gladstone.

American business knows this. It has found that some of its best managers are those who have had the opportunity to make mistakes, and the benefit of learning from them, as opposed to the highly schooled but experience-deficient managerial graduate. The former has been able to make his mistakes at a junior level where the future of the company is not at stake. The latter often enters the company at the top level where mistakes are dangerous and critical to the company's existence. The latter may learn all right, but the lesson may come too late, after the company is foundering.

SO, GATHER YE MISTAKES while ye may. Treat them as necessary nuisances, pesky little character builders that will make you stronger in the end.

Don't be like the student who, upon making his first B after a lifetime of straight A's, decides that life is over and quits trying.

That really would be a grave mistake. After all, as E.J. Phelps so eloquently put it, "The man who makes no mistakes does not usually make anything."

How they cheat

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — With earnest Interior Secretary James Watt is trying to open up more federal land for exploration. His intention is to increase domestic energy production.

Watt will also spur something else worth billions of dollars' worth of drilling — oil by drilling companies that cheat on the royalties supposed to pay.

Starting oil and gas from federal land is the Mickey Mouse operation.

Only 15 percent of our domestic oil and 30 percent of our natural gas are taken from the acreage leased to private companies. Last year alone, nearly $1 billion in royalties was paid to the government for the privilege of exploring oil and gas from public land.

BECAUSE OF MISMANAGEMENT by the U.S. Geological Survey, at least to the 1960s, as much as 10 percent of the royalties due to Uncle Sam go uncollected each year, government auditors say. The Geological Survey admits it's even worse, estimating that more than $1 million a day in royalties owned to Uncle Sam go uncollected each year, government auditors estimate. The Geological Survey concedes it's even worse, estimating that more than $1 million a day in royalties is lost.

Secretary Watt wants to find out why. This sorry situation, he might say, is George Kinsel, an engineer in Thermopolis, Wyo., who retired last year. Kinsel was in the collection of royalties in Thermopolis district, and in a series of internal memos he warned that the collection problem was serious.

The reason is that the information the government uses to calculate royalty payments is unverifiable data from the oil companies that is rarely audited. With a touch of sarcasm, the frustrated Kinsel wrote in one memo last August:

"Perhaps we are not smart enough to get proper information from the royalty statements which we got from the accounting section. Therefore, we cannot tell if royalty was paid."

It's more than just sloppy paperwork, Kinsel indicated in a complaint about the way oil was handled in the field. "The industry field people have gotten into bad habits and the USGS has not kept on this field problem consistently over the years."

ONE OF THESE "bad habits" is the under-reporting by company employees of the amount of oil waiting to be transported from field tanks to pipelines. As far back as 1972, another USGS engineer, R.L. Alexander, at Newcastle, Wyo., complained about this problem.

Alexander noted wide discrepancies in the amounts of oil he measured and the amounts recorded just 40 minutes later of the same oil by an employee of a pipeline company. "Assuming this is company policy, and I am assured by numerous pumpers and other personnel that it is, the total loss annually from the hundreds of tanks they gauge is quite large," Alexander reported.

Alexander wrote that he hoped to "obtain more evidence of this common type of larceny." But instead he was transferred. Investigators for Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., told his associate Tony Capaccio the problem has gotten worse since Alexander's complaint.

It's obvious that if the Geological Survey has been unable to deal with royalty cheaters for the past 20 years or more, the situation can only deteriorate if Secretary Watt opens up still more federal land for exploitation. With even looser supervision, the royalty cheaters will be able to steal far more of the public's oil without getting caught.

GETTING PERSONAL: Washington catchwords like "Reaganomics," "safety net" and "truly needy" have taken on a frightening personal meaning for Olympia "Mickey" Davis of Fairmont, W.Va. Disabled by cancer and barely able to survive on Social Security and Medicaid payments, she sees federal assistance as quite simply a matter of life and death.

The 53-year-old Davis had worked all her life — as an office clerk, school janitor and factory hand — until the ravages of cancer finally disabled her eight years ago. She underwent a radical mastectomy in 1973, followed by five years of chemotherapy, with its excruciating side effects. In March 1979, she was switched to cobalt treatment, then four months later to "safer" electron treatment. Last year she needed surgery three times to remove recurring tumors.

"I can't tell what treatment I'll need in the future," she told my reporter Ben Lay, "but I am certain that my life depends on my ability to receive prompt medical treatment for whatever form my cancer takes."

Davis is currently taking six different prescription drugs costing nearly $100 a month. She also needs frequent examinations by her doctor as well as blood tests and bone and liver scans. Her sole income is her $283-a-month Social Security pension.

How does she manage to live with all these expenses? It's not easy. In 1974, she began receiving Supplemental Social Security Income benefits, which included a Medicaid card. But six months later, when her disability pension began, it put her $13 over the SSI limit, and she had to surrender her Medicaid card.

West Virginia provides optional Medicaid through its Medically Needy Program. But what frightens Davis is the administration's plan to cut back on the federal contribution to state Medicaid programs. West Virginia could lose about $7.5 million a year. It might have to pare many of its optional services, like the Medically Needy Program that keeps Mickey Davis alive.

"President Reagan promised not to abandon the truly needy," Davis said. "If those of us who are on Medicaid are not truly needy, then who is?"

Bowel inflammation treated like ulcer

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like some information about non-ulcerative duodenitis. My doctor has me on Maalox. She has taken away all coffee, tea and sodas with caffeine in them. Also liquor, cigarettes and spices. She says otherwise I can eat anything I want. The pain is very bad, though. I would appreciate anything you can tell me about this. — B.T.

Duodenitis means inflammation of the first 10 to 12 inches of the small intestine, the part just beyond the stomach. Duodenum means "12." There are some specific causes of duodenitis. Crohn's disease is an example.

When no cause can be found the inflammation is described as non-specific duodenitis, which, of course, rules out ulcerative duodenitis. Ulcer has been ruled out in your case.

But the pain is similar to the pain of ulcer. The diagnosis is made conclusively with an endoscope, a viewing tube that is easily swallowed and through which the doctor can examine the area.

You treat duodenitis much the way you do an ulcer, which is what your doctor is doing for you. Some have said that one person in 10 may develop a duodenal ulcer if the inflammation is not controlled. That is not accepted by all authorities in the field, however. It should be treated anyway, whether it leads to ulcer or not. Treatment affords pain relief and reduces any inflammation.

I see no reason why you should not eat what you please, with the exceptions listed by your doctor. However, anything that produces pain should be avoided, even if it isn't on the list.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have recently been having sinus troubles and have been taking medicine to promote drainage. I have felt somewhat better but am now having pus-like drainage from my nose. In the past my drainage has been on the thin side, but I notice it is thicker and yellowish. Is this significant? — Mrs. P.W.

The thick pus is a sign of infection. Often such drainage will be noted on the side of the nose where the infected sinus is. You should report this drainage to the doctor who is treating you. He will want to know this important symptom so that he can prescribe medicine to kill the infection. Your related questions are answered in the booklet "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To obtain a copy, write me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told I have metabolic lipodystrophy, a rare, inherited, incurable imbalance. It results in fatty deposits on the knee and ankle joints. Can you discuss this briefly? — Mrs. D.C.

Lipodystrophy is a rare disease, indeed. There is generalized or partial loss of body fat, often with high blood sugar and triglycerides. The explanations for why it occurs are not clear. It may occur later in life and not be hereditary. Some cases start with painful nodular swelling of the fatty tissue. There is no medicine for it. The blood sugar and triglyceride elevation may require medicine to bring those under control.

There is another condition of the fatty tissue in which there are single or multiple crops of tender nodules. This is called relapsing panniculitis. Some patients with this develop abnormalities in their lives. For this disease steroids are tried, but the success, in all honesty, has not been great.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been looking for the answer to this question in your column. Why do doctors check fingernails and toenails during physicals and also before surgery? What indicates what? — Mrs. E.R.

The nails, both those of the fingers and toes, provide many clues about health and illness. Poor circulation to the feet is often reflected in the appearance of the toenails. Clubbing of nails, a thickening of the base of the nails, is seen with many lung diseases. When the thyroid gland is overactive, often the nails separate from the nail bed. With heart valve infections, tiny brown lines, called splinter hemorrhages, can be seen under the nails.

And these are just a few examples of how inspection of the nails helps the doctor make diagnosis, and sometimes alert him to otherwise unsuspected problems that may be encountered during surgery.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Do you remember when I didn't even know about Gilley's? Then along came Urban Cowboy with John Travolta cutting his way through the famous Houston, or rather Pasadena honkey-tonk. Now hardly a day goes by that I don't hear something about Gilley's.

THE LITTLE DID I know just what Pasadena Mickey Gilley has done with his little honkey-tonk. Thanks to Gilley's Magazine, which was sent to The Herald, I found out everything I could ever want to know about Gilley's. Actually, I wasn't sleeping wondering all about the place but I may lose some sleep now, when I had thought up Mickey Gilley's money-making ideas first.

For instance, did you know that Mickey Gilley has sprung "Gilley's Restaurant" where you can buy, for instance, a "Gilleyburger."

Then there's the Gilley's Publications, which sent me the copy of "Gilley's Magazine," "Or Gilley's Bronco Shop," which manufactures the calf roping machine, where you ride a mechanical galloping bronco, while trying to rope a smaller "calf-critter." And that's not all. The outfit also manufactures a bucking bronco, in case El Toro, the bull, isn't enough for you.

Don't forget Gilley's designer jeans, red and white suspenders, pendants, ash trays, pen sets, key chains or cigarette lighters.

AND, ON KHTV television in Houston, Mickey Gilley also has his own television show, "Gilley's Place." The magazine informs us that there's also a new radio show being readied for distribution soon.

Then there's the Gilley's Hot Air balloon, making it's way through the skies in the Kool Pro Balloon Tour. And, of course, the Gilley's hang-glider. I kid you not.

If you hurry, you can get down to Pasadena (it's a suburb of Houston) in time for Gilley's first annual Fourth of July Picnic, at the Pasadena Rodeo Grounds, 7600 Red Bluff Road. The picnic is set July 3 and 4, and features Ernest Tubb, Faron Young, Ricky Staggs, David Frizzell and Shelley West, and Mickey Gilley.

I've got to hand it to Mickey Gilley. He's made quite an empire for himself out of the country-music craze.

Judge orders abused animals sold

HOUSTON (AP) — A herd of horses and a goat found starving to death at a La Porte stables will be sold at auction, a Harris County justice of the Peace ordered Wednesday.

The 27 shetland ponies, four horses and a goat were confiscated from County Stables June 24 after patrons of the stables who keep their own horses there reported the animals were starving.

One of the ponies died.

Evaristo Garcia, 26, was arrested and charged with cruelty to animals. Garcia is free on $400 bond. He was scheduled to be arraigned today. Garcia failed to appear at a Wednesday civil hearing.

Precinct 8 Justice of the Peace Larry Wilson set the auction for August 3rd at the Rodeo Stables in south Harris County, where the animals have been cared for since their removal.

"This case is important because it is the largest confiscation (of abused animals) in Harris County," said Precinct 6 Justice of the Peace George Huebner, who ordered the confiscation.

Handicapped climbers to hold July 4 party atop Mt. Rainier

PARADISE, Wash. (AP) — Eleven disabled climbers, seven of them blind, sang and joked as they and their guides inched up 14,410-foot Mount Rainier in a conquest they hope will show the handicapped can surmount any obstacle.

The party, led by Jim Whittaker — the renowned mountaineer who was the first American to scale Mount Everest — reached Camp Muir at 10,000 feet Wednesday night. The camp, served as the base for rescuers searching for the 11 climbers who were buried under tons of ice and snow that fell from a glacier on the mountain June 21.

The 20-member party began its assault on the summit shortly before noon Wednesday, amid near-perfect climbing conditions.

In addition to the seven blind climbers, two are deaf, one has epilepsy and another is a Vietnam veteran with an artificial leg. Each is accompanied by a guide.

Leaders of the expedition, nicknamed Project Pelion after the Greek mountain said to be the giants' stepping stone to heaven, said the group may try to reach the summit by Friday and return Saturday, the Fourth of July.

Phil Bartow, leader of Project Pelion and president of the Pennsylvania-based Institute of Outdoor Awareness, said the goal of the climb is not only to reach the summit, but to destroy the image many people have about the limitations of the handicapped.

The expedition is one of the projects being recognized nationally by the White House to mark the International Year of Disabled Persons.

Svein Gilje, a reporter for the Seattle Times who is accompanying the party, is sending back reports of the expedition via radio. He described the climbers' mood during the first day of the ascent as jovial and enthusiastic.

"They forget how tired they are, and they breathe deeply when they sing," he said. "It's good for them."

As the climb began, Paul Stefurak,

35, a deaf climber from Federal Way, Wash., who has trouble speaking, grabbed a pen and wrote in a reporter's notebook: "I can hardly wait to reach the summit. I want to go now. I feel so great and ready to climb. Apparently all of us feel that way, too."

"Let's go for it!" shouted Sheila Holzworth, a 19-year-old blind woman from Des Moines, Iowa.

The group spent last week in Colorado working on climbing techniques and altitude adjustment. They climbed up on Nisqually Glacier on Mount Rainier Monday, stayed overnight in tents and then practiced techniques Tuesday under the watchful eyes of Whittaker, his brother, Lou, and their guides.

They practiced ice climbing, rope work and a suspended traverse, in which they hooked a climbing harness onto a rope stretched over a deep gully and were pulled across by their guides.

C-City Lake expecting big turnout

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Fourth of July weekend promises to be a big one at Colorado City Lake, if the good weather holds.

According to Game Warden Ronnie Aston "we're expecting 15,000 people. All our state park campsites are reserved and, of course, people coming from surrounding areas to swim and enjoy boating will increase the crowd."

Aston will have additional help for the special weekend to make sure it's a safe, pleasurable event for everyone enjoying the lake's facilities.

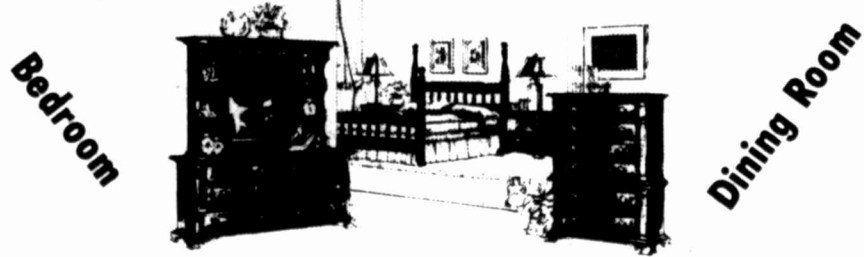

The game warden added a word of caution to visitors to be extra careful with camp fires, even though the grassy areas have been mowed to lessen the chance of fire, and also reminded campers that the shooting of fireworks is prohibited in the state park.

Aston concluded, "we're glad to have the lake facilities available for area people to utilize and are looking forward to everyone having fun, plus certainly a safe Fourth of July here at Colorado City."

'Stay in Shape' is topic of Brown Bag Special

Doug Beams of The Bodycentre, spoke to Brown Bag Special participants Wednesday on the topic "Stay in Shape." Brown Bag Special is a program of noon topics co-sponsored by Texas Electric Service Company and Howard County Extension Service at the TESCO Reddy Room this summer. No charge is made for these programs and they are open to the public. Bring a lunch and enjoy the tea and coffee furnished by the sponsors.

The Bodycentre is a total fitness center in College Park Shopping Center, located between REVO and Radio Shack. The center's program is geared to resistance training in an air-conditioned co-ed exercise and karate area, with whirlpool, steam room and separate dressing areas. Included is an aerobic program for women and equipment to exercise every part of the body. This set-up enables married couples to participate together in a family fitness program.

The Bodycentre opened in April and its hours are from 6:30 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday through Fridays; 9 a.m.-8 p.m. Saturdays and from 1-4 p.m. on Sundays. A man and woman attendant are on duty at all times.

An individual program is outlined for each person and exercise programs are supervised. New aerobics classes are started each six weeks. "Fitness and good nutrition go hand in hand," stated Beams. "One is ineffectual without the other. A good fitness program gives one the opportunity to feel good about themselves."

He gave a short description of aerobics conditioning and added that flexibility and muscular conditioning is another part of fitness. Since aerobics leaves out muscular conditioning, some form of calisthenics or light-weight training is desirable in addition to it.

"Fitness is 50 percent exercise and 50 percent nutrition, so everyone should set goals as to how many inches to lose where and how much weight needs to be lost. Women carry more fat than men naturally, but the basis of physique is underlying muscle. Therefore, some type of resistance exercise, like lifting weights, is desirable," said Beams.

The speaker then spent the remainder of the hour in the Reddy Room of Texas Electric Service Company on the subject of nutrition.

He recommended substituting good eating habits for bad ones, taking in fewer calories than are burned up by adding exercise, and keeping a food list.

A study of the nutritional value of foods taken in and what they do in the body is desirable. The elimination of salt to get rid of water in the body weight is also desirable. Substituting chicken, turkey and fish for red meat and cutting back on portions of food helps. Eliminating snacks in the late evening and carbohydrates is another good discipline.

Beams reminded the group that a lot of canned vegetables, fruits, soups and diet drinks contain a lot of salt. Fresh vegetables and fruits with natural fructose sugar are much more desirable in a fitness program than simple sugars.

When dieting, Beams recommends in addition good vitamin protein supplements to provide energy.

In the continuing question and answer exchange all through Beams' discussion, he recommended that breakfast should be the main meal of the day. Exercise tends to relax a person and thereby decreases appetite just by relieving stress.

A walking program is good if calisthenics are added and pace and distance are gradually increased to provide more cardiovascular benefit. Jogging is recommended for women, provided they wear very good walking shoes. Jogging a half a mile and walking a half a mile is good.

The next Brown Bag Special will be "New Appliance Update" by Gayle Wilson, TESCO, Fort Worth, on July 8 at noon in TESCO Reddy Room.

"Get It Off Your List and Onto His - Managing Time" is the topic on July 22 by Johnny Lou Avery of Avery & Associates.

"Women's Legal Rights" is the final topic on Aug. 5 by Glynn Mouton, attorney with the firm of Hamby, Thompson and Mouton.

Dear Abby

'Giving' Means 'Taking' In Bitter Mother's Mind

DEAR ABBY: I'm tired of hearing that unwed mothers give up their babies because they want them to have a better life. Here's what happened in my case.

When I was 15, I was raped by my brother-in-law. (My sister was pregnant with her fourth baby in five years.) I was afraid to tell anyone the truth, so I lied and said I wasn't sure who the baby's father was.

My parents called me a "whore," and when they dropped me off at the home for unwed mothers, they gave me orders to "get rid of the bastard or don't come home."

From the minute I arrived at the home for unwed mothers, everyone started to work on me to give my baby up for adoption. "You can't earn enough money to care for it properly. Who will take care of it while you work? You'll be branded as 'immoral' and no decent man will want to marry you. You owe it to the child to give it a home with two parents."

I had this drummed into my head until I finally signed the adoption papers. The very next day I changed my mind, but they said it was too late.

It's been 22 years, and every day of my life I think about that beautiful little boy I supposedly "gave away." But God knows I never gave him away. He was taken from me.

DEAR ARMS: Unfortunately you (and your child) were born too soon. Today, no woman is "worked on" to give up her child. In fact, counseling is available in order to help the unwed mother make a choice she can live with. And in many states, the adoption is not final until six months after the papers have been signed.

DEAR ABBY: My son is getting married, and the bride's parents are paying for the wedding. The bride's mother asked me to please keep my guest list down to 30 people because of the cost, so I did.

Now I have a lot of people mad at me because they weren't invited. We have a large family, Abby, and 30 people won't even cover all our relatives, let alone some friends we would like to invite.

I always thought the groom's side was entitled to have as many guests as the bride's, even though it's customary for the bride's family to pay for the wedding. I heard they have over 100 guests from their side. Is this fair? We know that the bride's family is not rich. Neither are we, but we would gladly help out by paying for about 50 more guests. Do we dare suggest it?

DEAR MOTHER: Why not? It's a silly, unfair, outdated custom that makes no sense today. Tell the bride's mother that you'd like to invite more people and you will gladly pay for them. How can she refuse?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HEARD IT ALL IN HOUSTON": You are mistaken. I have no ex-husband. I have been married for 41 years to the same man.

Barbecue honors couple

A patio Barbecue Dinner was held honoring Cynthia Ann Cowan and Donny Knight Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Don Newsom's home, 529 Hillside, was the setting. Co-hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Keaton.

Honored guests were parents of the couple, Dr. and Mrs. J.W. Cowan and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Knight. Honorees were presented with a white daisy corsage and boutonniere.

The buffet table was covered with a brightly embroidered Mexican linen cloth and guests were seated at tables of eight. Guest tables were covered with fringed plaid outdoor cloths and centered with wicker baskets of white daisy chrysanthemums. Ruby glass votive candle holders under crystal lamp chimneys flanked each centerpiece. Napkins with small red hearts carried out a "sweetheart" motif.

The hosts' gift was a bowl of the couple's chosen china pattern.

Cynthia and Donny will become Mr. and Mrs. July 25 at the First Baptist Church.

Ranch may be campaign issue

By JIM DAVIS

AUSTIN — As the dust continues to settle from last month's political storm over the Big Bend Ranch, Bob Armstrong remains hopeful that some miracle will bring that property under state control.

The lame duck land commissioner isn't making any overt moves to bring that miracle about, except maybe a little praying. The special legislative session scheduled to begin July 13 offers hope, but not much.

For most of his 10 1/2 years as overseer of state-owned land, the popular, down-to-earth Armstrong has been doing everything possible to obtain the 190,000-acre private ranch for the state.

He considers the area, which borders on the Rio Grande near the Big Bend National Park, as almost designed by nature for park purposes. The area has unique geological features and a water supply that creates green oasis in an otherwise arid West Texas.

The state already owns scattered parcels surrounded by or near the ranch that could be joined into a 300,000-acre state wilderness park.

What Armstrong fears most is that the ranch owner, multi-millionaire Robert O. Anderson, will sell to private developers. Those developers could subdivide without concern for the ecological damage that might occur.

Armstrong and other supporters of the park idea came closest to achieving their dream this year when Gov. Bill Clements got involved and proposed a land swap.

Clements and Anderson are fellow oilmen and longtime friends. They worked out what the governor called "a very favorable trade" for the state. Anderson agreed to trade for equal acreage of ranch land in Hudspeth County, east of El Paso, owned by the University of Texas System.

Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson, a Midland Democrat whose far-flung West Texas district includes the Anderson property, won the Texas Senate's blessing for the swap, but things got stirred up.

Another oilman, Sen. Peyton McKnight, called the swap a subterfuge to bring about something the legislature had declined to fund in the past.

Rumors circulated that Anderson was making a killing on the deal at state expense.

McKnight's blast was important because the Tyler Democrat has ambitions to move up in state government. Since fellow Democrat Bill Hobby has announced for reelection, the governorship looks like the most likely target of those ambitions.

Thus, the possibility loomed that the land swap would become an issue in the 1982 gubernatorial campaign. Anderson didn't want anything to do with such a possibility and announced that he was withdrawing from any land trade agreement.

That brought a huge sigh of relief from the UT-System regents, who weren't sure they wanted to trade but also didn't want to oppose Clements on the issue.

Armstrong and supporters groaned. Now they want to regroup and try again, but are uncertain what to do.

Clements apparently has washed his hands of the matter after blasting McKnight in a prepared news release. "I certainly don't blame Bob Anderson for bowing out, and I don't intend to ask him to reconsider," Clements said.

Armstrong is quite willing to beg Anderson to reconsider, but only if there's some reason to believe that the outcome would be different this time.

Supporters of state acquisition — Armstrong, some environmentalists and some legislators who have been won over by visits to the ranch — are quietly looking for ways to clearly show that the land swap is a good deal for the state.

They figure that only irrefutable evidence will fend off the rumors and political rhetoric. Failing that, they hope to convince Clements to include purchase of the ranch in the special session's call.

Since Armstrong isn't seeking reelection next year, this probably is his last chance to make a dream come true.

Texas leads in oil drilling

More than one of three rotary rigs turning in the United States at the end of June were in Texas.

A total of 4,007 were making hole throughout the United States. Of that number, 1,355 were plumb-ing the depths of Texas soil.

Outside of Texas, Oklahoma was the busiest state in probing for oil with rigs totaling 480. Louisiana was third, with 455.

The Texas figure is down slightly from the week of June 22, when 1,369 rigs were active. A month ago, the total amounted to 1,318 while 980 were turning June 30, 1980.

Throughout the United States, 4,008 rigs were drilling June 22 this year, compared to 3,777 on June 1, 1981 and 3,901 at the end of June last year.

Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey and North Carolina were state where no drilling was taking place at the end of June.

Woman judge leading justice candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Sandra D. O'Connor of the Arizona Court of Appeals has emerged as a leading candidate to succeed Justice Potter Stewart on the U.S. Supreme Court, the Washington Post reported today.

"She hasn't been chosen yet, but she's close," the newspaper quoted one unnamed Reagan administration source as saying.

The Post said Mrs. O'Connor, 51, was interviewed for the vacancy by an administration official and was believed to be the only potential nominee to be interviewed.

Administration officials said Mrs. O'Connor is on a "short list" of leading candidates — most of them women — for Stewart's seat, which becomes vacant when he retires Friday, according to The Post.

During his campaign last year, President Reagan said he wanted to name a woman to one of the first vacancies on the nine-member court. The White House, however, has kept open the possibility that a man could be named to succeed Stewart.

Until now, one of the women mentioned most often as Stewart's likely successor has been Cornelia Kennedy of Detroit, a member of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Post said Mrs. O'Connor has support from both of Arizona's senators, Republican Barry Goldwater and Democrat Dennis DeConcini, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"She's what the president's looking for," the newspaper quoted DeConcini as saying. "She believes in the court interpreting the law, not making it."

Mrs. O'Connor is a former Republican majority leader of the Arizona Senate, the first woman in the nation to hold such a leadership post.

She was elected a Superior Court judge in Phoenix in 1975 and was appointed to the state high court 18 months ago. Her husband, John, is a Phoenix attorney.

Mrs. O'Connor received a 90 percent favorable ranking from the Arizona Bar Association in 1980 and finished third in the Stanford law school class in which Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist finished first.

Braniff debts are extended

DALLAS (AP) — For the second time this year financially troubled Braniff International has won its creditors to postpone interest and principal payments on a $600 million debt, a day after the deadline for the original extension passed.

"We are pleased with the agreement," Braniff board chairman John J. Casey said Wednesday of the terms reached by the airline and its 39 creditors.

About $40 million in principal and interest payments would have come due if the lenders did not agree to the extension.

"It constitutes an expression of confidence in Braniff and its employees as well as in the soundness of its operations."

High court allows more political ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television viewers can expect to see more prime-time political advertising during federal campaigns now that the Supreme Court has ended a contest of competing rights.

The free-speech rights of political candidates and voters won. Broadcasters' free-press rights lost. By a 6-3 vote Wednesday, the nation's highest court ruled that a law passed by Congress 10 years ago created an individual "right of access" for qualified congressional and presidential candidates to buy television and radio airtime.

The decision diluted the discretion of broadcasters, including the television networks, to deny airtime to federal candidates with enough money to pay for it.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger's opinion said the Federal Communications Commission interpretation of the 1971 law "properly balances the First Amendment rights of federal candidates, the public and broadcasters."

Burger also made it clear that it's up to the FCC — not broadcasters — to determine when a federal campaign has begun, triggering the right of access.

To turn down a request for airtime, Burger said, broadcasters "must cite a realistic danger of substantial program disruption" or show that too many candidates are making demands.

Those pressing for greater public access to the airwaves reacted with words of praise.

"Guaranteeing candidates' ability to buy time protects their First Amendment right to speak and the audience's right to hear them," said Andrew Schwartzman, executive director of Media Access Project, a public interest law firm in Washington. News media spokesmen panned the ruling.

Summer Enrichment Program students learn rockets are fun

By MICKIE DICKSON

Students of the Summer Enrichment Program at Big Spring High School launched rockets Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. This was the last day of their two-week "Learning is Fun" session with Joe Reed teaching.

Twenty-three students met at Goliad Middle School ball field with their solid fuel "A" engine rockets. Parents and other interested persons participated in the event. Each rocket was electrically ignited in turn by a battery-operated remote control device. Sixteen of the rockets were equipped with streamer recovery, 2x30 inch roll of red crepe paper to help slow the rockets fall so it wouldn't crash.

Seven of the student's rockets were equipped with parachutes. Each rocket was made of cardboard, balsa, paper and plastic.

Reed shot off a large rocket with a "D" engine and parachute recover last of all. This one was an Estes Maxi Alpha Three, four times stronger than the "A" engines. This rocket at first landed in some electric wires, but eventually came on down, and students retrieved it.

Reed then gave participation awards to all the students and awarded trophies as follows: Amy Burgess, High Flight, for 264 meters; John P. Olson, Best Rocket; Nicole Curry, Most Dedicated Girl; Kirk Piper, Most Dedicated Boy.

Michelle Cox was named Miss Wonder of Science and Perry Prudhomme Mr.

Families home following Baytown gas line rupture

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — About 130 families returned to their homes early today after a butane line rupture forced their evacuation from a mobile home park and a nearby subdivision.

Chambers County Sheriff Chuck Morris said the families were allowed to return home after authorities determined it was safe for them to do so. An Exxon U.S.A.

Wonder of Science for being the best students in class, and were awarded trophies.

Tom McQueary, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. McQueary, BSHS principal, was the student most excited about rocketry, and was awarded a book, "Projects in Model Rocketry", by Reed.

Fortunately, there were no nuds among the rockets, the wind speed was correct and the project was a big success.

spokesman said Wednesday that the break occurred about 6 p.m. when a valve on a 10-inch line stuck, causing the pipeline to rupture and leak.

Deputies went from door to door in the Cedar Bayor trailer park and subdivision and asked residents to evacuate the area.

Experts find dental X-rays safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — X-rays of teeth are generally safe and useful but should not be taken routinely on every visit to the dentist, dental experts say.

The panel, drawn together at a three-day government-sponsored conference on dental radiology, concluded Wednesday that X-rays should be taken only when there is an indication that exams are needed.

The new recommendation springs from increasing public concern about the risk of radiation and the cost of health care, says Dr. Robert A. Goepf of the University of Chicago, who chaired the meeting.

But it runs counter to the practice of many dentists who have been taught to routinely give X-rays during the recommended yearly tooth examination.

"We have now refined the procedure," Goepf said.

TONGUE TWISTER — Chris Evert Lloyd licks her lips during a break in her Ladies Singles, semi-final match against Pam Shriver on Wimbledon's Center Court, Wednesday. Evert Lloyd won 6-3, 6-1, and will face Czechoslovakia's Hana Mandlikova in the finals.

Says Hana has physical edge, but Chrissie wants it more

Shriver rates women's finals after loss

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pam Shriver was outplayed by Chris Evert Lloyd in the Wimbledon women's singles semifinals Wednesday and then explained why she wants her conqueror to win the tournament.

"I think it means a lot to Chris to win this time," said Shriver, who was beaten 6-3, 6-1.

"She's 26, and it would be a great way for her to finish before fading out of tennis. Then maybe she could start a family, which I know she wants to do. I'm rooting for her."

Lloyd, who has played in seven Wimbledon singles finals and won only two of them, faces the remarkable Hana Mandlikova in Friday's final.

The 19-year-old Czechoslovakian won a bitterly contested baseline slugfest with Martina Navratilova to post a 7-5, 4-6, 6-1 victory in the other semifinal.

Mandlikova, the reigning French and Australian champion, served brilliantly to outlast the 24-year-old Navratilova, winner here in 1978 and 1979.

"The final is all in Hana's hands," said Shriver, 18. "If she plays a good match, she will win because she has an advantage on grass. But if she plays only a fair match, and Chris plays it as smart as I know she will, then Chris will win it."

Shriver said that losing the last three Wimbledon finals will be a motivating factor for Lloyd.

"I think Chris really wants to win this final and go out in a blaze of glory," Shriver said. "It has to be a fairly tale end, and to come out a loser in four straight finals would be sad."

Lloyd watched some of the Mandlikova-Navratilova semifinal and was impressed with the way Mandlikova played.

"Hana certainly played well; she has all the shots," said the top seed. "She can be brilliant, but is a bit moody. On her off days she can lose to a number of players."

However, Lloyd refused to comment on Friday's match. "I don't want to look ahead. It has hurt me too much in the past," she said.

In contrast, Mandlikova was looking forward to the arrival of her parents — former Olympic sprinter Vilem Mandlik and his wife, Hana — from Czechoslovakia.

"They went to watch today's match on television near the German border," she said. "I had told them on the telephone that I wanted them to come over if I reached the final, and they will be here," said the delighted Czechoslovakian teen-ager.

Lloyd has a 5-2 head-to-head advantage over Mandlikova, but Hana has won two of her last three matches.

"It is easier to beat Chris on grass than clay, but I know she wants to win so badly," said Mandlikova.

Mandlikova's victory Wednesday again set the pundits talking about her chances of completing the Grand Slam, although there is debate as to what constitutes the Grand Slam: winning all four major championships — Wimbledon and the French, U.S. and Australian Opens — in the same year or consecutively. But that's something Mandlikova is not yet prepared to consider.

Navratilova admits nerves bad in loss

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Martina Navratilova's face showed the strain on a winner who suddenly has to learn to become a consistent loser.

Navratilova was beaten 7-5, 4-6, 6-1 by 19-year-old Hana Mandlikova in the semifinals at Wimbledon Wednesday and now has failed to reach the final of any of the Grand Slam tournaments this season.

"I guess the U.S. Open is my one chance to redeem myself," said the 24-year-old Czechoslovakian defector who still is waiting to become a United States citizen.

"My defeat here makes the U.S. Open more important," she said. "It is the last of the big ones. Everything is pointing to it."

Red-eyed after her defeat, Navratilova said she felt the courts at Flushing Meadows would suit her better than the Wimbledon courts on which she won in 1978 and 1979.

"I've been playing better on cement recently," she said, "and hopefully I'll be rested then."

Navratilova refused to concede that Mandlikova had beaten her because of mental toughness, but did admit: "My nerves weren't fantastic."

Frawley doesn't make semi-sense

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The Wimbledon semifinals are 75 percent according to the world rankings — No. 1 Bjorn Borg, No. 2 John McEnroe, No. 3 Jimmy Connors and Rod Frawley.

Frawley is where it all falls down. The 28-year-old Australian scraped into the main draw only by the skin of his teeth and is ranked 112th by the world computer.

Frawley tackled second-seeded McEnroe today, while Borg, aiming for a sixth straight Wimbledon title, played the gutsy Connors.

For Frawley, reaching the semifinals is something of a dream come true.

Hampered by a painful and persistent back injury, he had won only five matches in 12 tournaments this year. This is his fourth Wimbledon, and he had never before won a singles match here.

prodigy Mats Wilander.

Borg has defeated Connors in two Wimbledon finals and has not lost to the American left-hander since the 1978 U.S. Open final.

They have met in nine tournament matches since then, Connors salvaging only four sets.

The statistics leave Connors cold.

"We'll be going out there trying to kill each other. That is what the public wants to see," he said.

"If I play as well as I did in my semifinal against Vijay Amritraj, I'll be pleased — win, lose or draw."

Americans favored in regatta

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) — Crews from three American colleges were among the favorites in the Grand Challenge Cup for heavyweight eights at the Henley Royal Regatta, which got under way today.

The University of Washington eight, which won in 1977, was considered the favorite among the seven boats entered in the event and drew a bye. Yale and Cornell also were seeded, along with the British National eight.

The Cup, won last year by the United States Olympic team, rowing as the Charles River Rowing Association, opened its competition today with Yale, winner of the Eastern Springs, facing Oxford University-Thames Tradesman, a combined team. Cornell, the U.S. intercollegiate champion, took on the University of London.

"I will just go out swinging," he said when asked to predict the tactics he would use against McEnroe. "I haven't come all this way for nothing."

Frawley, who plays club tennis in West Germany to supplement his earnings on the professional circuit, is bidding to become the first unseeded player to reach the men's final since West Germany's Wilhelm Bungert in 1967.

Bungert lost 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 to Australia's John Newcombe.

Frawley has reached the Final Four the easy way, without playing a seed. Two of his victims, John Fitzgerald and Cliff Letcher, are fellow Australians.

He also defeated two of the world's brightest junior prospects, who have no experience on grass — Thierry Tulasne of France, 17, and 16-year-old Swedish

The Charles River RA also won the Prince Philip Challenge Cup for coxed fours last year. That crew was back to challenge the London-Thames Tradesmen in the first round.

The regatta, which runs through Sunday on the Thames River, attracted entries from eight countries. Tradition has been eroded in a big way this year as women will be allowed to row for the first time. There are two women's events, the coxed fours and the double sculls.

After the regatta, the feasibility of adding more women's events — and the success of this year's women's competition — will be considered.

Both the United States and Canada have sent powerful crews for Saturday's race, rowed over 1,450 meters — 450 meters longer than is usual for women.

NBC hoping for repeat

In Saturday's Wimbledon for Breakfast finale

By The Associated Press

If NBC-TV has its way, "Breakfast at Wimbledon" will be a brunch.

For the third straight year, NBC will televise the men's singles final from the famed All-England Club live for six hours Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m., EDT.

"Ever since we went to this concept two years ago, we have desperately wanted a long men's final — a real exciting match," said Geoff Mason, executive vice president of NBC Sports and producer of the Wimbledon telecasts. So far, the event has been even better than he would have dared dream.

"Two years ago, we had Roscoe Tanner, who was seeded fifth, in the finals and we were dreading that Bjorn Borg would wipe him out in three quick sets," Mason remembered.

Instead, Borg, the Swedish "machine," was extended to five sets before pulling out a 6-7, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory.

"Last year was John McEnroe," Mason said.

Last year was a classic, considered by many tennis observers to be the greatest final ever staged on the hallowed grounds of the All-England Club. It was a blockbuster, a Center Court battle that thrilled television audiences, made NBC executives ecstatic and sent the rival networks — ABC and CBS — searching for another Borg-McEnroe clash.

More than 15 million Americans woke up early to watch the precision shot-making Swede take on the brash New Yorker. They saw the world's top two players slug it out from the baselines, counter-punching with drop shots and dinks, smashing volley after volley, racing from one side of the court to the other to make spectacular saves.

In the end, Borg prevailed 1-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-7, 8-6. But McEnroe also walked off the court a winner in the hearts of everyone who witnessed his heroic fight as he fought off seven match points, repeatedly clawing his way back from the brink of defeat to carry the match to its pulsating conclusion.

NBC also was a winner.

In television-land, a weeknight prime-time show that draws a 30 percent share of the audience is considered a hit. "Wimbledon for Breakfast," a tennis match which began at 9 a.m. on the East Coast and earlier elsewhere across the country, had a 31 share — 31 percent of all TV sets on at that time were watching Borg vs. McEnroe.

"We are hoping for another one again," Mason said, not surprisingly. "And I think we are looking at a very strong rematch."

"And it's a big story: Can Borg win his sixth straight tournament?" Mason said.

Dick Enberg anchors NBC's Wimbledon telecasts, with Bud Collins doing the play-by-play and Billie Jean King and Donald Dell handling the color.

"We will have five hours of live coverage Saturday morning," Mason said. "The only thing we worry about is a quick, three-set match."

Rainbow Futurity qualifiers at Ruidoso Friday

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Bar Roulucks, the second-place finisher in the $787,350 Kansas Futurity, swings back into action on Friday's extended program.

The program consists of 27 elimination trials leading to the $650,000 (est.) Rainbow Futurity, the second stop in the famed Triple Crown journey for two-year-olds.

With so many races on the program, an early-starting time of 8:30 a.m. will be in effect. Each of the trials will cover 400 yards. In order to survive Friday's program, a hopeful must finish in the top two in his trial spin. The clock will be no factor.

But the clock comes into play on July 9, during the second and final qualifying round. Those chalking up the 10 fastest times on July 9 will earn a berth in the July 26 finale.

Bar Roulucks, a gelding owned by Hubert and Karen

Vestal of Houston, looks like the kinglypin on Friday's card. He drew into the 22nd race.

Bar Roulucks made his Ruidoso Downs debut on May 15 and dashed to a length win as a 7-1 shot traveling 350 yards. The spin was a qualifying heat for the Kansas Futurity and Bar Roulucks checked in with the seventh-best time (18.60 seconds).

In the Kansas grand finale, Bar Roulucks got away at better than 13-1. He came storming out of the rail post and snared the early lead. In the final yards, he was unable to hold off the people's choice, Special Effort, but he managed to bag second. The runnerup slot was worth nearly $109,000.

In Friday's outing, Bar Roulucks will break from the No. 9 post in the 10-head field. His regular pilot, Robert Chesson will be at the wheel.

Ponti Bar, the 10-1 shot who finished third in the Kansas Futurity (a neck behind Bar Roulucks), will also perform on Friday. The sorrel colt is in the 24th race. Willie Lovell again has the ride. Ponti Bar's work in the Kansas yielded $50,852.

The colt, owned by Jack Henning of Refugio, Tex., holds a sparkling career record of 2-1-1 from five spins. He's earned over $63,000.

Woman wins $75,000 over Masters golf fall

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — An Oklahoma woman and her husband were awarded $75,000 in damages in connection with an accident at the 1978 Masters golf tournament.

A Richmond County jury made the award Wednesday to Mary P. Silas and C.J. Silas after a two-day trial of a 1980 lawsuit in which Mrs. Silas claimed she broke her leg and suffered permanent injuries when she tripped on a television wire laid across a designated walkway at the 1978 tournament.

The jury first awarded Mrs. Silas $55,000 from CBS television and her husband $20,000 from the Augusta National Golf Club, the two defendants in the suit.

But Judge William M. Fleming Jr. called the verdict inconsistent, and after discussion with attorneys for all parties, he ordered that CBS would pay the full $75,000 and Augusta National would be relieved of responsibility.

The suit charged CBS and Augusta National with negligence for leaving an exposed wire on a designated path.

Testimony during the trial showed that the injury to Mrs. Silas has curtailed her personal and social life and has disabled her permanently.

Penalized for mouth

McEnroe advances

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John McEnroe was warned and penalized after angry clashes with the umpire today, but defeated Australia's Rod Frawley 7-6, 6-4, 7-5 to advance to the Wimbledon final.

McEnroe was warned about his conduct in the first set, but the dispute came to the boil in the third set when he lost an argument over a line call and said in a loud voice: "You are a disgrace to mankind."

The umpire, Wing Commander George Grime, announced a penalty point for unsportsmanlike conduct. That gave Frawley the game for a 5-4 lead.

McEnroe stormed to the umpire's chair and said: "I wasn't talking to you, sir. I was talking to myself."

He kept shouting: "Do you hear? I was talking to myself. Can't a man talk to himself?"

McEnroe demanded to see the tournament referee, Fred Hoyles.

Hoyles came on court, conferred with Grime and told McEnroe: "You were heard by the umpire. I am satisfied with the competency of the umpire."

Aggie tennis coach dies

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — Omar Smith, who had 13 winning seasons as tennis coach at Texas A&M, died Wednesday at his home. He was 67.

Smith coached at A&M from 1960-1974 and last year the university named its tennis complex after him. In 1966 he was voted as one of the top ten tennis coaches in America.

Services will be Friday at Hillier Funeral Home with burial at College Station City Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Eloise Beard Smith; two sons, Terry Omar Smith and Don Allan Smith of Bryan; and a daughter, Jean Smith Cherry of Dallas.

C-City hosting girls softball

COLORADO CITY — The First Annual Colorado City Women's Softball Tournament will be held the weekend of July 10-12 here, and it will be limited to the first 20 teams entered.

Entry fee for the women's affair will be 80 dollars per team. Trophies will be given to the top three placing teams, with individual trophies given to members of the first and second place teams.

The deadline for entering is July 7 at 7 p.m. All entry fees must be paid by the first game of the tournament.

Those wishing to enter may mail checks to Urda Wulfjen at Route 3, Box 345 B in C-City, with zip code being 79512. They may also call Colorado City Athletics at 728-3378, Dwainna Wulfjen at 728-3628, or Judy Chitsey at 728-3053.

St. Thomas wins CYO softball

The Catholic Youth Organization will hold a picnic for all players in their softball league on July 11 at noon, with trophies being presented to the respective teams at that time.

St. Thomas, coached by Zeke Valles and Michael Fernandez, won the title, followed by Immaculate Heart of Mary and Sacred Heart. Sissy Mann and Beatrice Correa tutored the KILLED IN CAR WRECK — Miami Dolphins linebacker Rusty Chambers, 27, was killed in a car wreck in Hammond, Louisiana Thursday morning. He had been the team's leading tackler in '78 and '79, but was phased out of the starting lineup late last season.

DURING THE STRIKE — New York Yankee rookie pitcher Ron Davis serves customers Barbara Levine of West Hampstead, New York, right, and Lois Tara of Merrick, New York, Wednesday at New York's Oren and Aretsky restaurant. Davis is working as a waiter while baseball negotiations continue.

House subcommittee takes look

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Judiciary Subcommittee will begin hearings July 14 into the effect of antitrust laws and policy on professional sports, including baseball's exemption from the antitrust laws.

The hearings will take up a task left unfinished by the Select Committee on Professional Sports in 1977, said Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., chairman of the Subcommittee on Monopolies and Commercial Law.

That committee recommended that the antitrust treatment of professional sports receive further study.

Rodino said the first round of hearings would hear from league officials of the major professional team sports, club owners, representatives of players associations and the media.

Besides baseball's long-time exemption from the antitrust laws, Rodino said the hearings would deal with league restraints on the purchase and sale of franchises, territorial restrictions on the movement of franchises, restraints on players' entry into a league and on their mobility between teams and the antitrust aspect of sports broadcasting.

Phillies have warm prison welcome

PHILADELPHIA — Gary Maddox and Larry Bowa returned to the prison where, a year ago, the inmates took them to task for choking on the big games — this time they got a heroes' welcome.

"These guys are great sports fans," said Bowa, after about 150 inmates at the city's Holmesburg Prison mobbed him and Maddox Tuesday, seeking autographs on baseballs, pictures and whatever scraps of paper they found.

They also can be some of the most critical fans the Phillies have. Last year, Bowa, Maddox and Mike Schmidt were severely roasted by the prisoners for not reaching the World Series and for losing in the big money games.

"I promise you that when we return, we'll bring a Phillies World Series film with us," promised Schmidt.

Because of a scheduling conflict, Schmidt couldn't make the return visit. But his teammates brought the movie, complete with World Series victory.

This time, the big questions for the Phillies were about the major league baseball strike.

"I hope it'll be over any day now," Bowa said. "We miss baseball as much as you do."

Bowa said he knew that the prisoners were unhappy about being deprived of baseball, along with their freedom.

"On our way in to the auditorium, we passed a couple of guys out in the hallways who told us, 'You guys have got to get back,'" Bowa said.

Maddox, asked how much the strike was costing him, drew hoots from the crowd when he estimated he was losing about $100,000 per month.

"It's human nature," commented Bowa. "You're making a lot of money, so people think there's no need for you to strike. It's not the money, it's the principle that's involved."

Bowa defended the idea of free agency, saying it had been good for baseball, making games and pennant races more exciting.

The two Phillies fielded other questions ranging from advice on base stealing to picking their toughest opponents (Bowa said Cincinnati; Maddox said Montreal and Pittsburgh).

When several inmates asked if the Phillies would be interested in playing a prison all-star team, Bowa and Maddox said they would try to get the game together.

"I'm just sorry Schmidt couldn't be here," said Christopher Jackson, a third baseman on the prison's A Block baseball team. "He's the one who promised to come back a champion."

Maybe Schmidt would visit the prison next year, some one suggested.

"I hope I'm not going to be here by then," Jackson replied.

Weiskopf says $$$ no concern

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf admits his old competitive fire has dwindled, but still believes he can break a three-year victory drought in the Western Open this week.

Weiskopf, 38, has collected 13 titles in 18 professional golf seasons. Yet, he hasn't won since the Doral-Eastern in March 1978.

And he thinks he knows why.

"I don't think my day-to-day, week-to-week intensity is as good as it was 10 years ago. It's probably a little lack of motivation," he said before teeing off today in the first round of this $300,000 tournament. Weiskopf continued with his self-analysis.

"I don't think my short game is as good as it's been. I don't spend as much time at it as I used to," he said, lounging in the clubhouse of Butler National Golf Club.

For example, Weiskopf did not touch a golf club for the last two weeks. Instead, the tall, erect Ohio native went fishing and horseback riding near his home in Paradise Valley, Ariz.

Since his last victory, Weiskopf's best finishes have been fourth in the U.S. Open in 1978, second in the Southern Open in 1979, fourth in last year's Memorial and two second places this season.

"I don't think about it," he said of his non-winning streak.

He then grinned. "That is, I'm not aware of it until I'm reminded of it by you writers."

His 1981 financial figures, $107,260 for 19th place, are not significant to Weiskopf. After all, he has won $1.8 million playing this ancient sport.

"I'm a multi-millionaire. The money is not important anymore. Your priorities change as you get older, too. I want to spend more time with my family," he said.

In the 16 times he's entered this, the Tour's second oldest event, Weiskopf has finished second, third and fourth.

Can he win this week on this 7,097-yard, par-72 course, regarded as one of the toughest the players see?

He beamed again and replied, "Of course I can. It's a good course for me. I like it. I received early criticism — not from me — but every new course does."

Colorado streams being 'fished out'

Saving the sport of wild trout fishing

CLEAR CREEK, Colo. (AP) — Not so many years ago, a good fisherman could wade into this foaming stream west of Denver and fill his creel before noon.

A fisherman on Clear Creek nowadays is more likely to hook up with a traffic jam on U.S. Highway 6 than he is to catch his limit, and he must watch for broken bottles and tin cans when he steps into the chilly water.

Clear Creek, fortunately, is an exception rather than the rule in the Rocky Mountain region, where fishing is more popular than ever. But some of the area's fabled trout streams are beginning to show the strain of too many fishermen. Others are threatened by pollution or dwindle to dribbles in the dry months when developers and vacationers make impossible demands on them.

State wildlife officials are fighting back with policies aimed at ensuring that fishing for wild trout does not become an endangered sport.

These include no kill or limited kill regulations, limitations on size, periodic closures of certain areas and bans on fishing with bait, permitting only flies and lures.

Utah, for the first time ever, is limiting anglers to a catch of only two trout longer than 13 inches. "Perhaps the fish are as numerous now, but the number of people fishing is so much greater," said Barbara Hansen of the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources.

Both Montana and Wyoming are considering catch restrictions of a half-dozen trout or fewer in some areas, with only one fish over 20 inches allowed — a marked change in a region where 50-trout limits were common.

In Colorado, the state Wildlife Commission is considering an unprecedented "wild trout policy" that would implement many of the new policies but also discontinue stocking hatchery fish on selected streams.

State fish manager Ed Kochman said the proposed wild-trout policy is opposed by fishermen who think the answer to any trout problem is to add more hatchery fish.

But many fishing experts now believe that stocking can backfire in wild trout streams, reducing rather than increasing the number of trout because hatchery fish compete for space and food with wild trout.

A study on Montana's Madison River indicated the trout population increased by 180 percent when stocking was halted for two years, according to state fisheries chief Art Whitney.

Kochman said Colorado would continue to stock reservoirs to accommodate fishermen who want to keep their catch, but the state also wants to offer the "high-quality experience" of fishing for the more elusive wild trout even if the fish have to be tossed back in the stream.

The answer, Kochman said, is to expand the state's no-kill policy known as "catch-and-release" and limit the number of fish to be caught and kept in other areas.

"It's a challenge," he said. "Since the mid-'60s we've doubled the number of fishing licenses (to more than 600,000) and funds are harder and harder to get."

Barry Nehring, a biologist with Colorado's Division of Wildlife, said some streams that historically have had a flourishing trout population have felt "an extreme impact" in recent years.

Among the reasons, Nehring said, are the big increase in the actual number of fishermen and improved fishing techniques.

"It used to be rare to find a really good fly fisherman," he said. "Now there are thousands of them."

Nehring said the "catch-and-release" policy may be the best answer for many streams. He said trout are larger and more abundant in "catch-and-release" stretches than in open waters just yards downstream.

Dan Belsey, executive director of the Colorado chapter of Trout Unlimited, said wild trout are more spirited than hatchery stock and are more likely to grow to the 14-inch-and-up size prized by most fishermen.

Belsey predicted that trout supplies would remain adequate as long as catch-and-release policies and other restrictions were employed, but he warned of growing problems related to water flow and pollution.

He said greater use of coal in the West could increase the "acid rain" that has already lowered the quality of some streams. Oil shale development, he added, might require so much water that the flow of some streams could be irreparably damaged.

At stake, according to Kochman, is the future of streams in the region that "are the heart of the wild trout fishing program for the whole nation. Once you lose them, they are not going to be replaced."

Lady Bird loses commissary rights

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Air Force Commissary Service has ordered Lady Bird Johnson to stop unauthorized shopping at a base commissary in Austin, the San Antonio News reported today.

"It is a totally unfortunate situation," said Lt. Col. Julius DuBois, a spokesman for the Air Force Commissary Service, headquartered here.

"Mrs. Johnson would be terribly embarrassed to think she had ever done anything she should not have done," said Carol Bryant, a secretary for Mrs. Johnson.

Last month, there were reports that former President Jimmy Carter's staff had enquired if he was entitled to privileges at military bases. However, Jody Powell, Carter's spokesman, said Carter was enquiring only about the policy for former presidents.

Applicator certificates being mailed

On June 1, the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) initiated a program of recertification for the more than 116,000 persons holding private applicator certificates.

Applications for private applicator certificate renewal are being mailed to certified private applicators on a county by county basis.

It is anticipated that the mailing of the applications will be completed statewide by September 1981.

Restricted-use pesticides are available for use legally only by or under the supervision of certified applicators.

The classification of certain pesticides as restricted-use pesticides and certification of private applicators as a requisite to the use or the supervision of use of restricted-use pesticides are each requirements of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) as amended.

The Texas Pesticide Control Act authorizes the Commission of Agriculture to establish a program to certify private applicators, on a voluntary basis, who wish to use or supervise the use of restricted-use pesticides in compliance with federal law.

Questions regarding the recertification activity may be referred to TDA personnel or to the TDA District Office in Odessa.

Texan charged in sex death

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Texas man has been charged with murder in the beating death of a New Orleans man that resulted from an argument over money after a homosexual encounter, police said.

Robert W. Byrd, 22, of Boerne, Texas, was arrested Wednesday in the slaying of Emmett Gereighty II, 34. Detectives said a maid found his body, clad in socks and undershorts, at his home near the city's affluent lakefront area on Tuesday.

New Orleans police spotted Byrd riding in Gereighty's stolen 1981 Cadillac shortly after midnight, said Detective Marvin Cook.

"Mr. Byrd was reported to have been engaged in a homosexual act with the victim," Cook said. "After a discussion of money, a fight ensued, resulting in the death of Mr. Gereighty."

Police said Gereighty's home had been ransacked.

With Byrd in the car was Joseph Flawn, 23, of Chicago, police said. Both Byrd and Flawn were charged with possession of a stolen vehicle.

SOME DRYER: — Sunlight streams into one end of a product dryer that is being fabricated at Tenneco Oil Company's new trona mining and milling facility near Green River, Wyo. The facility, under construction since 1979, is scheduled to begin production of high-purity soda ash in 1982. The dryer is 12 feet in diameter and 92 feet long and will have a capacity of 67 tons of soda ash per hour.

T-33 pilot earns airmanship award

Capt. Jerry L. Nichols, Headquarters Pacific Air Forces Operations Directorate, has been awarded the PACAF Aircrew of Distinction Award for the first quarter of 1981 for outstanding airmanship during an aircraft emergency.

Captain Nichols was taking off for a solo flight in a T-33 when the aircraft developed severe vibrations at 120 knots. He aborted the takeoff and attempted to apply brakes to slow the aircraft.

No right brake was available and the aircraft rapidly headed left, toward the edge of the runway. Captain Nichols regained directional control by using right rudder, jettisoned both wing tanks and slowed the aircraft using left brake and right rudder.

Realizing that directional control would be impossible at slower speed, Captain Nichols used the left brake to turn the aircraft onto a high-speed taxiway and then into a large intersection. Still going about 40 knots, he used the left brake to make 360-degree turns until the aircraft stopped.

Maintenance investigation revealed that the recap portion of the right main landing gear tire had separated. Flying pieces of rubber had severed the right brake line, rendering the right brake useless.

Because of his superior airmanship, Captain Nichols was able to prevent a serious mishap, PACAF Safety officials said (PACAFNS).

Capt. Nichols was stationed at Webb Air Force Base and graduated from their school of student pilots. He married Martha Ann Nichols in Dec. 1981. Capt. and Mrs. Nichols are stationed in Hawaii, and are proud parents of three children. As of July 1, 1981 Capt. Nichols will pin on the Oak Leaf of Major. His new assignment is in Montgomery, Ala. Mrs. Nichols is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boadle, formerly of Big Spring.

Import quotas on shoes are allowed to expire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Restrictions on the sale of South Korean and Taiwanese shoes in the United States ended today with the expiration of quotas imposed four years ago to protect American manufacturers from their hottest foreign competitors.

President Reagan's decision to permit unlimited sales of shoes from South Korea and Taiwan may mean a wider selection of cheaper shoes for consumers.

But opponents say it will be "a major setback" to American footwear manufacturers and force the elimination of tens of thousands of jobs.

Reagan, the son of a shoe salesman, based his decision primarily on his fundamental commitment to a free-trade policy.

Although he generally opposes import quotas and barriers to competition, one of the president's first plunges into international trade policy resulted last spring in the negotiation of voluntary limits on the number of Japanese cars exported to the United States.

Officials involved in trade policy had indicated that the shoe issue would serve as a symbol of Reagan's underlying faith in an open international market.

But Arnold Hiatt, head of the Stride-Rite Shoe Co. of Boston and chairman of the American Footwear Industry Association, said lifting the shoe import quotas was unfair in light of the administration's efforts on behalf of the beleaguered domestic automobile industry.

"The shoe industry has done what Reagan wants all industry to do — that is revitalize itself," Hiatt commented. "It has doubled its research and development programs. I'm not sure the automotive industry has really done much to better itself and yet it has won protection for itself on the basis of politics."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., one of six senators who visited the White House two weeks ago in an attempt to convince Reagan to extend the shoe import quotas, said in a statement Tuesday that the decision is "a major setback" to efforts to revitalize the nation's shoe industry.

Rep. Brian Donnelly, D-Mass., said Reagan's action "has put in jeopardy 150,000 unskilled and semi-skilled jobs in the shoe manufacturing industry."

Boycott of sex is suggested

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A local organization is suggesting a one-week boycott of sex to protest the proposed human life amendment.

San Antonians for Freedom of Choice said they believe passage of the amendment would virtually ban most birth control pills and devices, leaving abstinence as about the only effective method of legal birth control.

SAFFC said it would issue a national call for one week of sexual abstinence by those who believe women have the right to control their reproductive lives without government interference.

As part of its protest, the organization said it would release 1,500 helium-filled balloons in Alamo Plaza Saturday to protest the proposed amendment.

The Saturday program will include statements from Ruth Rosenthal, founder of several planned parenthood clinics; Patricia Lane, president of the Texas Abortion Rights Action League; the Rev. Rolfe Gerhardt, minister of the First Unitarian Church; and Myrna von Nimitz, president of SAFFC.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now able to turn problems into opportunities early in the day. You can do things in a precise manner and get ahead in your line of endeavor. Plan the future wisely.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study the work you have to do, then plan your time and activities well so you can accomplish what is really important.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan recreational activities early in the day. Use tact when conversing with others. Strive for harmony with loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take steps to spend your money more wisely than in the past. Make certain you don't lose your temper with loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use tact with associates when discussing important business matters. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) The morning is the best time to talk with financial experts. Show others that you are an excellent citizen. Follow your hunches today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The early part of the day runs smoothly but later you have to exercise more caution in handling finances. Show that you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make plans that could give you added income in the future. Obtain information you need from the right sources. Be logical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to spend more time with loyal friends and gain their goodwill, but don't neglect routine duties. Express happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A day to handle personal matters. Contact an influential person and get the support you need. Be poised.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study new ideas and ways to make your future brighter. Strive for more self-esteem in civic matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't put aside all that work awaiting your attention at this time. Seek the company of good friends later in the day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Know what is expected of you by associates. One who opposed you in the past can be converted now to your way of thinking.

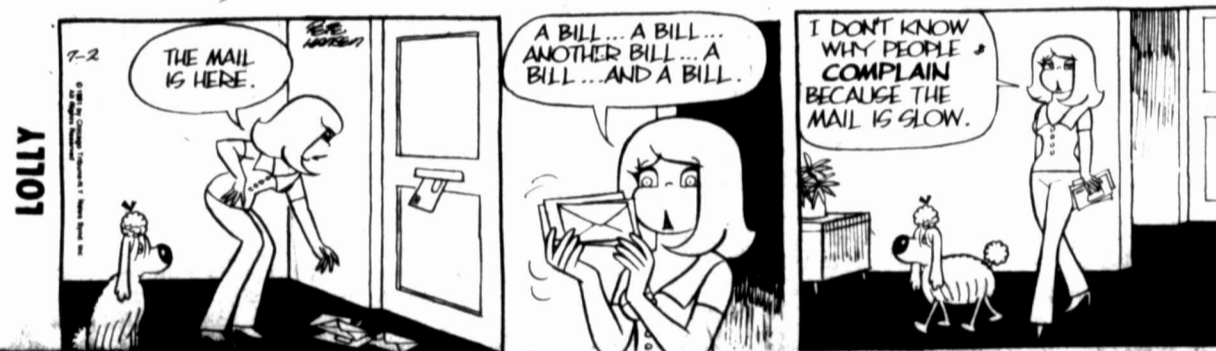

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do much to help others, but should be taught to be reasonable, otherwise some individuals may try to advantage of your progeny. Send to schools that will bring out the fine, innate intelligence in this chart.

Computer industry keeps growing at alarming rate

NEW YORK (AP) — When Frank Lautenberg joined Automatic Payrolls Inc., it was grossing $35,000 a year from processing the payrolls of 12 small business clients in the Paterson, N.J. area. That was in 1952.

"I was convinced that sensitive projects, such as payrolls, could be farmed out and done efficiently, less expensively and far better than within the company," said Lautenberg, who was then 28 years old.

Twenty-nine years later, the company, its name modernized to Automatic Data Processing, Inc. and with Lautenberg as chairman, grosses $500 million a year. It serves 100,000 clients. It has 13,000 employees.

It has grown beyond payrolls. It now maintains, processes, calculates, analyzes, prints and projects an infinite variety of data. It is, in effect, the office staff of thousands of organizations: manufacturers, brokers, distributors, pension funds, banks. But it sticks to its last too: It processes paychecks for 5 percent of U.S. civilian workers.

Lautenberg's vision obviously had a lot to do with the growth of ADP, but it probably couldn't have been achieved if the company had not found itself in the midst of the information processing revolution.

So pervasive is this change, now spreading from the business world into the home, that nobody today remains untouched. There is no escape: suddenly, the world of computers and information processing is upon us.

Difficult as it is to comprehend, the industry — made up of computing services, computer manufacturing, and allied areas such as terminal manufacture — is now almost as large as the entire automobile industry.

Government figures last year put the auto industry at $78.5 billion; word processing revenues in the same period totalled $75 billion.

The latter figure now roughly matches the size of radio and television broadcasting, plus cable TV.

President of Downtown Lions reports on international meet

Jerry Phillips, new president of Downtown Lions, reported Wednesday on his attendance at the Lions International convention in Phoenix, Ariz., in late June.

He learned that Phoenix during a heat wave makes West Texas seem like Alaska. The traditional parade had to be held at night.

New friendships and the thrill of seeing the 160 flags of nations and territories represented in Lions International made it all worthwhile, he said.

John Bagnell, program chairman for the past year, recognized his monthly chairmen for an exceptional job.

Phillips said committee appointments will be made soon and that attendance and membership will be key goals this year.

Court rules assaulted woman was discriminated against

By JANEY MCCONNAUGHEY
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A woman who was assaulted at work by her lover had a valid sexual discrimination complaint when she was fired but he wasn't, a federal appeals court has ruled. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a decision by U.S. District Court Judge Dorwin W. Suttle overturning a ruling against Linda Shodrock Rohde of San Antonio, Texas. According to the court, Ms. Rohde was fired in July 1976 by K.O. Steel Castings Inc. of San Antonio, where she had worked for about six years and was the only secretary on the "executive floor." "For some time, she had been engaged in an affair with Arnulfo Lopez, a cleaning room foreman for K.O.," the appeals court said. "The record indicates that company executives were aware of their relationship. This peaceable status quo collapsed on the evening of July 15, 1976, when Lopez went to Rohde's apartment and struck her in the course of an argument," the court said. Ms. Rohde called in sick the following day, a Wednesday, but when she returned to work Lopez assaulted her there, according to the court. When the personnel director learned of the incident, he told Ms. Rohde to take the rest of the week off.

ERA beginning to seem like leftover from bygone years

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Remember the ERA? It seems like a leftover of the 1970s, but it is still alive, three states short of finding a home in the Constitution. One more time — and this will be one final time for a long time — the forces that have been seeking to guarantee equality for women under the law are preparing to assault Ratification Hill. But this time there is a tinge of desperation. If the legislatures of three more states don't ratify the Equal Rights Amendment by June 30, 1982, the extension for ratification granted by Congress in 1978 will run out. Then proponents would have to start the process from scratch in their effort to win ratification for the amendment first proposed in 1923, three years after women won the right to vote. Today's conservative Congress is unlikely to provide the majorities that would be required to extend the ratification deadline again. And this Congress is surely unlikely to provide the two-thirds majorities needed to send the proposal out to the states to begin the ratification process anew. So it is clutch time for ERA, whose backers are sponsoring a series of rallies around the nation Tuesday. Nothing in recent history suggests that three more states can be found to ratify. Of the 15 that have refused, over and over, to approve the amendment, ERA backers are focusing on six — one Northern state, Illinois; two border states, Oklahoma and Missouri; and three Southern states, Florida, North Carolina and Virginia. Meanwhile, proponents are kept occupied by a pesky rear-guard problem. They are fighting to declare that states which sought to reverse themselves and rescind ratification acted illegally. That question must be settled in the courts, but it will be moot if the amendment isn't approved by those three missing states. No state has ratified since Indiana acted in 1977, three days before Jimmy Carter took the oath of office as president. The Carters support the ERA. Ronald and Nancy Reagan do not. So a long battle is near a turning point. Girls who will graduate from high school next June were third graders when the ratification process started. Eleanor Smeal, president of 140,000-member National Organization of Women, says the opposition is not so much emotional or social as it is economic. It comes, she says, from business, which does not want to pay women as much as men. Mrs. Smeal says the polls over the years say that most Americans support the ERA. The polls suggest that for most Americans support of ERA is casual and vague.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas effective July 21, 1981, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 15.8 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues. A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 21 de Julio de 1981, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación. Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 15.8 por ciento en los ingresos intraestatales de la compañía. Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propuestas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interexchange private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio también afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell.

County attorney is indicted in Dimmitt case

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — A grand jury has indicted Dimmitt County Attorney Pablo V. Bustamante on two counts of official misconduct in an investigation the Texas Rangers say is just beginning in this South Texas county.

Bustamante was accused of illegally paying $1,000 in county funds to New Aztlan Consolidated Electronics Inc., a corporation he controls, on or about March 17.

The second indictment charged that on or about the same date that Bustamante paid another $1,000 in county money to a local funeral home for burying a relative of the district attorney's wife.

The charges were returned late Wednesday at the end of the first day of a grand jury investigation.

Texas Rangers Rudy Rodriguez and Stan Guffey were assigned at mid-May to begin an investigation into alleged improprieties in Dimmitt County.

Texas Ranger Captain Jack Dean of San Antonio said Wednesday night that all 12 grand jurors signed a name requesting "continued assistance of the Texas Rangers and the Attorney General of Texas in the investigation now pending before the grand jury."

It means we're just getting started here in Dimmitt County," Dean said. Bustamante testified before the grand jury Wednesday afternoon and Dean said at least one other person has been subpoenaed for today's session.

The Ranger captain, however, would not identify the other witness or witnesses.

Dimmitt County Judge Larry Speer also testified Wednesday on a volunteer basis.

"I was sworn in. I can't say anything," Speer said. However, that he was not a target of the investigation.

The indictments against Bustamante are third degree felonies punishable on conviction by two to 10 years in prison and or fines up to $5,000 for each offense.

District Attorney Julio Garcia of Laredo, whose jurisdiction includes Dimmitt County, did not participate in Wednesday's proceedings.

Instead, Assistant Texas Attorney General Jerry Carruth, who participated in the "clean up" of Duval County, presented evidence with the assistance of five Texas Rangers.

In a related matter, a pretrial hearing that had been scheduled on misdemeanor charges against Speer and the four Dimmitt County commissioners was reset for July 8.

Bustamante is the prosecuting attorney in that case in which local newspaper publisher Larry Sipes has charged the county officials with violating the Texas Open Meetings Law.

Area students on honor roll

STEPHENVILLE — Denise Jansa, Garden City, and Lance Autry, Colorado City, were named to the B Honor Roll at Tarleton State University for the Spring semester. Both were included on the Distinguished Students list.

Students on the B honor roll have a grade point ratio between 3.00 and 3.99, with no grade lower than B and be taking a minimum of 12 hours.

Space entrepreneur faces two week delay in launch

HOUSTON (AP) — The first test launch of a privately owned satellite has been delayed two weeks to August 1, a group of businessmen backing the project have said.

David Hannah Jr., president of Space Services Inc. said Tuesday objections by landowners of the launch site on the Texas coast caused the delay. The group had planned to test launch its rocket from a 3,500 acre tract of land near Matagorda Island in mid July.

"But some of the owners of the property didn't think we were adequately covered as far as insurance is concerned," said Hannah. "They brought an injunction against us to see if we were adequately insured."

He said his company had $25 million in liability insurance.

Hannah said lawyers for both sides were still negotiating, but he said the most likely resolution will be his moving the launch pad about 35 miles down the coast to a spot on Matagorda Island itself. He said he had already struck a deal with the owners of the alternate site.

"We didn't want to get into a squabble over whether or not," he said. "The lawyers are still talking, but I'm pretty sure we'll have to move."

Engineers in the project expect the 53 foot long rocket to fall into the Gulf of Mexico after its maiden flight. Hannah said the altitude reached during the initial test was not important. He said the main purpose was to "get it off the pad and test the rocket engines."

Police cannot demand identities, judge says

HOUSTON (AP) — City officials are not sure how to react to a federal judge's ruling that citizens do not have to identify themselves to police officers, but say they plan to appeal the decision.

Assistant City Attorney John Helm said Tuesday he believes the city must appeal U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals' Monday ruling as unconstitutional part of the Texas Penal Code titled "failure to identify as witness."

The law says it is an offense for a citizen to refuse to give his name and address to an officer who has "lawfully stopped him and requested the information."

"It is almost incumbent upon us to take this to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals," Helm said. He said he does not know what to tell policemen to do in the interim.

The specific case involved a Lufkin, Texas, lawyer who was arrested here for failing to give policemen his name and address in November 1975.

Police said they were investigating a prostitution complaint when they saw a man being approached by a woman. The officers said he was charged previously with prostitution. The policemen asked the man to identify himself. He refused, was arrested, and in March 1976, he was convicted in municipal court.

The lawyer, Gilbert Manley Spring, was fined only $100, but said the appeal has cost him between $15,000 and $20,000. He said he pursued it "as a matter of principle" and said he now intends to sue Houston to recover his legal expenses.

"I don't like the police to be given the authority to kick people around," said Spring, a defense lawyer who was a member of the State Legislature during the late 1950s. "I just told them to go to hell when they foisted me on."

Seals ruled, "Individuals stopped by police merely on the basis of suspicion have a right not to be arrested, a right to remain silent and, as a corollary, a right not to be arrested if they choose to remain silent."

But Helm said, "The purpose of the statute is to identify and locate witnesses to a crime and have their names. I didn't see any reason to hold this law unconstitutional on its face."

Police Chief B.J. Johnson had no immediate comment, but police department spokesman Larry Trout said as a matter of practice, "Arrests for failure to identify are very rare. Most witnesses to crimes are very cooperative."

Harris County District Attorney John B. Holmes Jr. said the ruling "seems to me to be confusing the rights of a suspect with the obligations of citizenship."

"Are we now saying that we are protecting witnesses (to crimes) when they say, 'I am not going to get involved?'" he asked.

He said one way around the ruling would be for the policeman to take the non-communicative witness before a judge, where he would have to give his name and address or be jailed — not as a criminal suspect, but because he would be held in contempt of court.

"I'm concerned that a literal interpretation of Judge Seals' ruling may mean all a person needs to keep from being a witness is by saying 'I'm not going to tell you who I am,'" Holmes said.

NIGHTLY NEWS TEAM — Veteran NBC News anchorman John Chancellour announced at a press session in New York Wednesday that he will become an elder statesman next spring to make way for a new anchor team of Tom Brokaw, left, and Roger Mudd, right for NBC network's "Nightly News". The disclosure came as NBC announced the resignation of its president, Fred Silverman and his replacement, Grant Tinker.

Silverman bows out of NBC; Chancellour looks to new role

NEW YORK (AP) — The new head of NBC says he doesn't think of himself as "creative" but hopes to recruit "the best creative people" he can find to pull the network out of the doldrums.

"The job is like the mountain," Grant Tinker said in a telephone interview from a French hotel Tuesday after it was announced he would succeed Fred Silverman as NBC president. "I think I took it because it was there."

"After 30 years in the business, I think I'm qualified. I'm interested, and it's a challenge. I'm not ashamed to say that I don't regard myself as creative. My strength is that I work easily and happily with people who are."

"If my suggestions aren't bad, it's mainly because they're small and infrequent."

Incoming RCA Chairman Thornton Bradshaw announced Tuesday Silverman had resigned as head of NBC, which has seen its earnings slide as it remains stuck in third place in the ratings race.

Bradshaw, who is taking over as head of NBC's parent company, made the announcement on closed-circuit television to NBC's 215 station affiliates. It came as veteran NBC News anchorman John Chancellour disclosed he will become a senior analyst for the "Nightly News" show next spring to make way for a new anchor team of Tom Brokaw and Roger Mudd.

Silverman, in a statement issued by his public relations firm and addressed to NBC executives and affiliates, said, "We all have faced many difficult problems and suffered disappointments. But together we have worked hard to start moving the company forward."

Tinker, ex-husband of Mary Tyler Moore, is head of the MTM Enterprises production company. Reached by The New York Times at his hotel in St. Jean Cap Ferrat, France, where he is vacationing, Tinker said he accepted the NBC job after rejecting a number of network offers in the past few years.

AP names communication director

Richard G. Atkins will continue as director of international communications. He became assistant to then-Deputy General Manager Harry T. Montgomery in 1970 and was appointed a general executive in 1972 before moving to the personnel department as the No. 2 executive in 1974.

Bowen, from San Antonio, joined the AP at Milwaukee in 1950 and transferred to the New York General Desk the following year.

Thompson was appointed news editor at New Orleans in 1967, and the following year transferred to AP's headquarters in New York as a membership executive.

Texas officials note outbreak of fruit flies in California

DALLAS (AP) — Texas agriculture experts are abuzz over a second outbreak of the Mediterranean Fruit Fly in California, primarily because Texas officials say the destructive fly could sneak into the Lone Star State via California produce.

The insect, which destroys citrus and other crops, has been found recently in several West Coast locations, despite an extensive $22 million eradication program during the past six months.

"I just talked to (California agriculture commissioner) Richard Romminger and he told me that they have found over 100 (Medfly) larvae in some apricots, figs and peaches," Brown said in a telephone conversation Tuesday from Austin.

Brown said state officials banned unfumigated California fruit from Texas in the wake of the first fruit fly outbreak earlier this year in the Santa Clara and Alameda areas.

The Texas agriculture commissioner said the pesky fly is a "serious threat" to the fresh fruit and vegetable industry nationwide.

Texas officials are particularly concerned that infested produce from California could spark a Medfly outbreak throughout the Rio Grande Valley, endangering the state's multi-million dollar citrus industry.

The latest Medfly discovery, mostly in fruit from "backyard trees," has prompted Texas officials to ask for protection from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Brown said.

"The USDA says they will take every action necessary to protect the citrus of our state and other states," he added. "If it is necessary to impose a quarantine, we would prefer that they (USDA officials) do it."

"But we will issue another (quarantine) if the government fails to act and we feel it is necessary," Brown said.

If California is placed under quarantine by the federal agency, all fruits and vegetables must be fumigated before they leave the state, he said.

Earlier, California challenged Texas' quarantine in the U.S. Supreme Court. The high court declined to overrule a lower court's decision in Texas' favor. However, the outbreak eventually was brought under control and Texas lifted the ban.

California officials will meet July 7 to decide how to combat the latest infestations, north and west of a 50 square-mile quarantined area.

Agriculture officials in California discovered fly maggots in fruit on at least 26 properties in San Mateo County, said Jerry Scribner, the state's food and agriculture department deputy director.

During the first Medfly outbreak, hundreds of workers in California stripped fruit trees and sprayed pesticides in the contaminated area to battle the fly. Those efforts appeared successful because no Medfly larvae were found in the treated region.

But that suggestion received fierce opposition from most of the affected communities.

Brown said Tuesday he has been "assured" by California officials that aerial spraying now is a consideration.

CARPENTERS' STRIKE — Terry Purcell, left, and his brother Jim manned the picket line at the mall construction site on east F.M. 700 this morning. Striking carpenters are asking for a two-year pact giving them a $3.40 an hour pay increase. The mall project reportedly was one of two major projects in Big Spring hit by the strike.

Two teen inmates rob woman jailer, seized

LAMESA — Two teen-age inmates of the Dawson County Jail were taken back into custody here early Tuesday morning after they had threatened and robbed a woman jailer while escaping.

The trustees, Johnny and Joe Annalla, 19 and 18 years of age respectively, were waiting for Mrs. Elsie Simmons, the jailer, when she brought in the evening meal.

One of the youths grabbed a butcher knife and with it forced Mrs. Simmons back to her apartment in another part of the courthouse, where they waited until dark.

They took Mrs. Simmons' keys and about $10 before fleeing on foot. They succeeded in eluding peace officers until about 1 a.m., when they were rearrested behind a building at North Seventh and Lynn Avenue some seven blocks from the jail.

The two are being held on burglary charges stemming from a December 1980 burglary at Suburban Marine.

Additional charges of aggravated kidnapping and escape have now been lodged against the two. Bond was set at $100,000 for each youth. Johnny Annalla was also charged with aggravated robbery after being recaptured. Bond was also set at $100,000 on that count.

Sheriff Bill Horton said Mrs. Simmons was not physically injured in the incident but was "scared to death."

Pay boosts, pensions sought Carpenters' strike slows mall, school construction

By BILL ELDER
Two local construction projects have been hit by a carpenters' strike which went into effect yesterday.

Picket lines went up at the mall under construction near K-Mart's on east F.M. 700 and reportedly at the site of an elementary school project for the Coahoma school district.

The carpenters have gone on strike over the refusal of contractors to give them a two-year pact increasing pay by $3.40 an hour over the two-year period. Members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters Local 1428 also have asked for health and pension benefits as part of their pact.

About 88 percent of the 17-county local voted Monday night to strike when their current contract expired, a union representative said. Talks with contractors, the latest of which were held in Midland yesterday, have proved fruitless.

"There's no way we can afford that kind of increase," the Herald was told this morning by J.W. Cooper, owner of the Cooper Construction Co. in Odessa and a representative to the Associated General Contractors of America.

Cooper said the best AGCA, which is being struck as well as several independent contractors, was sticking by its offer of $2.80 an hour over two years. He said the union's demand for health insurance and a pension plan had been dropped, although Charles Morris, business representative for the union, said the benefits were still part of the pact the carpenters seek.

"We don't have any benefits," he complained.

Both sides said no talks had been scheduled for today.

Morris said Local 1428 was being paid about $2 an hour less than other carpenter locals around the state.

Top pay for a journeyman carpenter with four years' apprenticeship is $11.55 an hour, he said.

No figures were available on how many union members at work in Big Spring were on strike. Strikers at the mall site this morning said there were six union carpenters working on that particular project and all were in favor of the strike.

About 15 general laborers were at work there this morning, raising a wall for a future J.C. Penney's department store.

"Without the carpenters," said one of the strikers, "they won't have much to do for very long."

Terry McGough, job superintendent for the mall project, had no comment on the strike and when asked if the strike would delay the mall, he said, "Not if I can help it."

The Shankle Construction Co. of Santa Ana, Calif., is building the mall and could not be reached for comment.

A spokesperson for the Coahoma Independent School District was not available for a comment this morning, either.

Morris said about 20 contractors in the union's 17-county membership area were the objects of the strike. Most of the construction projects halted were commercial, he said, with a few residence projects also affected.

Motions in alleged oil scam filed

Several motions were filed Wednesday in 118th District Court during a pre-trial hearing for the case of Cosden Oil and Chemical vs. John Theford Sims and D.C. Wheeler.

The men are defendants in an alleged oil scam in which they are accused of selling the same barrel of oil over and over again to Cosden.

John Green, Odessa, attorney for the defense, filed a change of venue motion Tuesday, supported by several different affidavits, said Don Richard, special assistant to the district attorney.

Two motions for severance were also filed. One was to sever the parties in the case. Green, former Ector County District Attorney, is seeking separate trials for Sims and Wheeler. The other motion was to sever the alleged counts in the case.

No rulings in any of the motions were made by Judge Jim Gregg Tuesday.

Eskimos find profit under musk ox locks

By REBECCA R. KIRTLAND
National Geographic News Service

WASHINGTON — The musk ox, a shaggy ice age relic, is helping to relieve the desperate poverty of Alaskan arctic villages.

An expanding industry of raising musk oxen and knitting their wool now provides a substantial part of the livelihood for 24 villages in the tundra-coastal region and the Aleutian Islands.

The guiding force behind the industry is John J. Teal Jr., who has been credited with domesticating the first hoofed mammal in 5,000 years. The musk ox, known to the Eskimos as Oomingmak (the bearded one), has proved to be an intelligent and easily managed farm animal.

With its humped shoulders and dark brown hair nearly reaching the ground, the musk ox (Ovibos moschatus) looks like small, white-stocking bison in need of a haircut.

Its silky underwool, Goodfellow AFB rededication set Saturday

SAN ANGELO — Goodfellow AFB will be rededicated during ceremonies set for 10 a.m. Saturday in front of the Wing Headquarters building. The base was officially opened 40 years ago during an Independence Day ceremony in the same location.

The base will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Fourth with various activities scheduled throughout the day.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Tex., will be the principal speakers during the rededication ceremony. Many of the former wing commanders from Goodfellow will also be on hand for the event.

The formal observance will follow a military parade on the base flightline at 9 a.m. Reflecting the joint-service nature of Goodfellow's mission, the parade will feature marching units from all four services.

A flyover of World War II aircraft representing the various planes that have been assigned to Goodfellow over the 40-year period will climax the rededication ceremony.

Ball response 'tremendous'

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Response to reservations for the Mitchell County Centennial Ball has been tremendous, according to Mrs. J.R. Fuller, chairman of the event.

The Gilded Cage Ball will be held from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., July 18, in the Colorado City Civic Center.

Mrs. Fuller reminds Mitchell County residents that space is limited and due to the number of reservations already made, July 8 will be the cutoff date for making reservations for the ball.

Persons must make their reservations in person at the Colorado City Centennial headquarters, just north of C.C. Athletics.

Construction firm looted

Wayne Jones of Jones Construction, Interstate 20, reported a break-in at the business at 8:15 a.m. Sunday, to the Howard County Sheriff's Department.

The building was reportedly entered by a window which was broken on the west side. Taken was a black and white television, a 1975 Chevrolet pickup, and a three axle equipment trailer was taken from the compound.

The pickup and television were later located at a local truck stop, and the trailer was later located in Luther.

The case is now under investigation.

Gomez given probated term

Angel Gomez, 25, of 302 W. 7th, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Monday to a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Gomez was given a two-year probated sentence, and released.

"qiviut" to the Eskimos, is the thermal underwear that insulates the animal from the minus 60-degree F arctic temperatures. It is one of the finest animal fibers in the world. Remarkably light, warm, and strong, seven pounds of the wool — the amount shed by some bull oxen each year — can be made into 100 scarves.

Qiviut is harvested in the spring when it works its way out past the shaggy guard hairs in long blanket-like strips. Teal says that during shedding a musk ox "appears to be carrying a sheep around on its back."

When the United States gave two musk oxen, named Matilda and Milton, to the Chinese people in 1972 in exchange for the famous pandas, the Chinese thought the oxen had a rare skin disease and refused to exhibit them until the shedding season ended.

What they were shedding may be the most expensive fiber in the world. "One cone of yarn, about 1 1/2 pounds, produces a cash value in knitted items of $4,300," Teal said. And the musk ox farm in Unalakleet, Alaska, with 175 animals is producing 600-700 pounds of qiviut each year.

"Our biggest problem now is producing enough wool to meet market demand," he said. "Christmas orders nearly cleaned out our entire stock this year."

Qiviut is knitted into caps, scarves, tunics, and traditional Eskimo shawls known as "nachag" ranging in price from $50 to $400.

Each item bears the name of the individual knitter and the unique design of the village based on its archaeological artifacts. The knitting patterns have been translated into symbols so those natives who do not read are able to create the designs.

The Musk Ox Producers Cooperative, run by the herdsman and knitters, manages the arm, markets the products, and trains other Eskimos, Aleuts, and Indians in musk ox husbandry and knitting.

Teal said the cooperative is ready to embark on a major expansion. This year he expects to announce the location of two new musk ox farms in selected villages and in the next few years he hopes to provide herds of domesticated musk oxen to other villages that have requested them.

A former Harvard fullback, Teal has made a life's work of musk oxen. He studied them in the wild from 1947 to 1954, then captured some of the animals in northern Canada and took them to his 600-acre farm in Vermont for domestication. In 1964 he set up a breeding station in College, Alaska, and by 1975 had enough animals to establish the successful farm in Unalakleet.

Domestication has led to the production of up to one-third more wool per animal, earlier maturity for breeding, and the ability to bear offspring every year.

Teal also provided musk ox herds for breeding stations for the Inuit at Old Fort Chimo, Quebec, in 1967, and for the Laplanders in Bardu, Norway, in 1969. He now plans to establish a musk ox station on land in southwest Greenland that was Eric the Red's farm in the 10th century.

Hunted to extinction in Alaska in the mid-1800s, wild musk oxen were reintroduced to the Bering Sea island of Nunivak — where they thrive — by the U.S. Department of the Interior in the 1930s. Prehistorically, they ranged across North America and Eurasia, but their natural habitat is now limited to northern Canada and Greenland.

Teal insists that taming these wild, ferocious-looking beasts was easy. "They quickly develop trust in man and become docile, playful, affectionate, and fiendishly clever," he said. "They respond to their own names when called, and they love to unlatch gates, play pushball, and ride on sleds. One can develop special friendships with individual musk oxen just as with dogs." On the Unalakleet farm, musk oxen would push open the sliding barn door and go in to play at night, exposing the pipes to freezing temperatures. Eskimos in northwest Greenland believe man descended from the musk ox.

SILKY UNDERWOOL — Man's new allies, musk oxen, live comfortably without shelter in arctic regions because they are insulated by silky underwool and the absence of sweat glands — except in their hind feet. The underwool, apparent on the bull at right, is shed naturally in the spring when it works its way past shaggy guard hairs and can be harvested as fine fiber.

 OFFICIAL RULES (SERIES SX-131) *****

- NO PURCHASE NECESSARY. Get a free TEXAS BINGO ticket and collector card on request at participating Safeway Stores — one ticket per adult (18 years or older) per store visit, per day. All collector cards are identical.
- EASY TO PLAY. Using edge of coin, gently scratch off all silver boxes on the face of the ticket.
- INSTANT WIN — If any 3 identical dollar amounts appear in a straight row, either horizontally, vertically or diagonally, you win the amount indicated, after verification. For example, three $100 amounts in a straight row win $100.
- COLLECT & WIN — Each ticket has two perforated bingo number pieces. Separate the pieces and place them in the matching bingo number spaces on other side of this collector card, using the special slits cut into card to hold the piece. Collect bingo numbers to properly complete any straight row of 4 boxes, either horizontally, vertically or diagonally. Prize is limited to amount shown for game regardless of the number of rows completed. No pieces needed in spaces marked FREE. FREE spaces are not transferable.
- PRIZE CLAIM. Submit ticket or collector card with completed row to Store Manager or authorized personnel for verification. All submitted game tickets and collector card pieces should be initialed in the presence of store personnel. Prizes of $100 and over will be paid by check from the sponsor's office.
- Only materials marked "Series SX-131" may be used for this promotion and only when legitimately obtained from authorized personnel in participating stores.
- We reserve the right to reject and void any promotion materials containing printing or other errors.
- Promotion materials will be void if illegible, altered, mutilated, forged, tampered with in any way, not obtained legitimately, or where prohibited by law.
- All materials submitted for verification become the property of the sponsor. Tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winners.
- This promotion is available at 157 Safeway Stores located in North Central and Northeastern Texas, Shreveport and Bossier City, Louisiana. Employees of Safeway Stores, Inc., their advertising agencies, game suppliers, and members of their immediate household families are not eligible to play.
- This promotion is scheduled to end on October 1, 1981. It will officially end, however, when all tickets are distributed, at which time a newspaper announcement of promotion termination will be made. All prizes must be claimed within 7 days after announcement or they are forfeited.
- This promotion is a repetition of the promotion recently concluded in this area, and may be repeated when this series ends.

Star pork and rice in July 4 patio picnic Feasting on the Fourth with friends and family

Picnics are as much a part of America's Independence Day celebration as local parades. The Fourth of July is a day when families, friends and neighbors gather round the outdoor grill to enjoy the weather and share summer's bounty while awaiting dusk and dazzling fireworks displays.

For an exciting change of cookout menu, serve popular pork with a spectacular rice accompaniment. Pork supplies are high this year, which means that pork cuts suitable for outdoor cookery — roasts, ribs, hams, steaks, chops and cubes for kabobs — are especially kind to your food budget. Rice is another food dollar stretcher. Uncle Ben's Converted Brand Rice yields more servings per cup of uncooked rice than other products. It remains in separate, plump grains, even when chilled or frozen and reheated.

Count the compliments when you serve an elegant Peach Glazed Pork Loin Roast, cooked to perfection in the Weber kettle. Be sure to allow for second servings. If your group numbers more than 5 or 6, you'll need two roasts. The sweet-sour glaze compliments the pork flavor. Summer Garden Rice Salad adds color and crunch with its unusual combination of vegetables. The rice is cooked ahead, then chilled, so at serving time a quick toss with vegetables and nuts is all that's required.

A menu sure to please those gathered round the picnic table includes Summer-time Pork Kabobs with Celebration Rice. Economical cubes of pork, cut from the boneless shoulder, marinated overnight in a flavorful pineapple juice mixture, share the skewers with nectarines and red peppers. These tender, juicy broiled kabobs are the perfect partner for the onion-tomato-olive flecked rice.

To please a crowd with a bit of showmanship, serve Crowd Pleasin' Pork Fried Rice prepared in a large Wok, an accessory to the Weber barbecue kettle. Prepare recipe ingredients in advance so that after the Wok has been heated over the coals, a few minutes of cooking time will provide a one-dish meal that will satisfy the heartiest appetites.

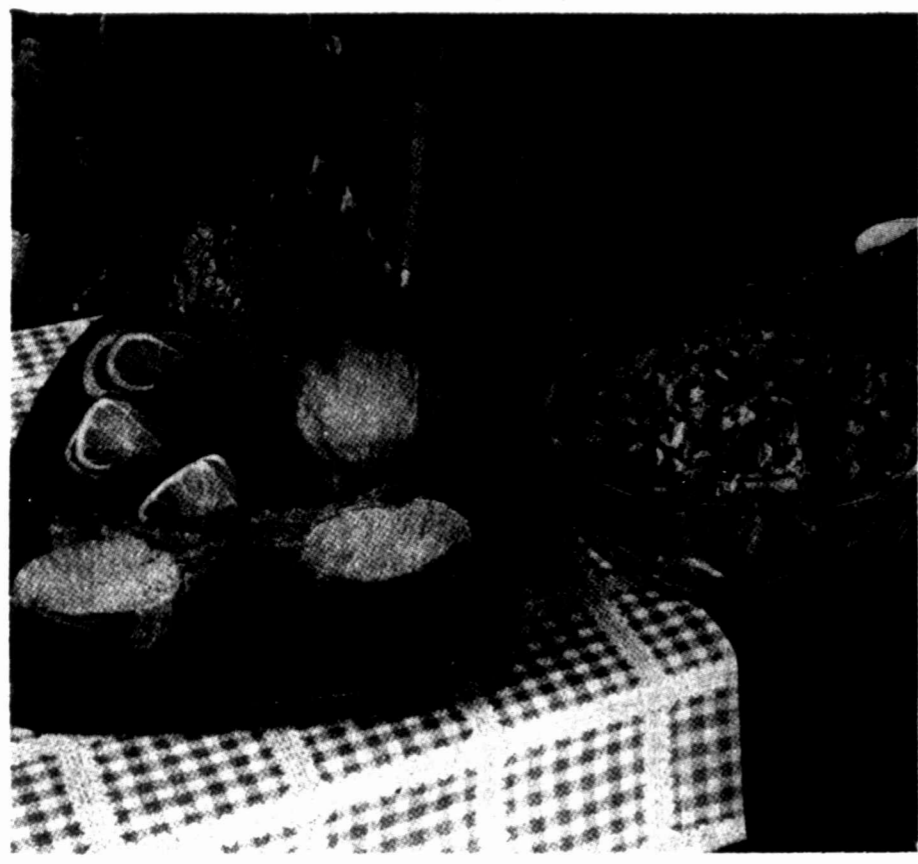

PEACH GLAZED PORK LOIN ROAST

4 to 6 pound pork loin roast
1/2 cup peach preserves
1/2 cup orange juice
1/4 cup catsup
1 tablespoon instant minced onion

1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
When coals are ready, set drip pan in place between them on the lower grill directly under where the roast will be placed. Insert roast meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part. Make certain bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the thermometer registers 165 degrees F.; allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound. Brush glaze on roast during the last 20 minutes of cooking time.

SUMMER GARDEN RICE SALAD

1 cup Uncle Ben's Converted Brand Rice
1/2 cup Italian dressing

FOR A SPECIAL MEAL — Serve Pork Loin Roast, prepared in the versatile Weber Barbecue Kettle, with Summer Garden Rice Salad. Celebrate July 4 with traditional recipes.

Cover kettle (leaving top damper open) and cook roast until meat thermometer registers 365 degrees F., allowing 17 to 19 minutes per pound. Combine peach preserves, orange juice, catsup, instant minced onion, mustard and ginger in saucepan. Cook slowly 20 minutes, stirring occasionally, until glaze is reduced to approximately 1 cup. Brush glaze on roast during the last 20 minutes of cooking time. Allow to "set" in a warm place 15 to 20 minutes after removal from kettle. Roasts continue to cook during this time, rising approximately 5 degrees F. to reach the recommended internal temperature of 170 degrees F.

Have the meat retailer loosen the chine (back) bone by sawing across the rib bones. When roasting is finished, the back bone can be removed easily by running the carving knife along the edge of the roast before the meat is placed on the platter to be carved. For 2 roasts, double ingredients for glaze.

Note: The roast can be cooked by indirect method (low heat) in a gas kettle. Conventional Directions Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part. Make certain bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the thermometer registers 165 degrees F.; allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound. Brush glaze on roast during the last 20 minutes of cooking time.

1 cup Uncle Ben's Converted Brand Rice
1/2 cup Italian dressing

1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon sugar
2 cups firmly packed fresh spinach leaves, cut in thin strips
1 cup sliced radishes
1 medium zucchini, cut in thin strips
1/2 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
Cook rice according to package directions. Transfer to bowl. Combine dressing, soy sauce and sugar; stir into hot cooked rice. Cover and chill thoroughly. Before serving, add vegetables and nuts, toss lightly. Serve on salad greens. 8 to 10 servings.

SUMMERTIME PORK KABOBS

2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cut in 1 1/2 x 1/4-inch cubes
1 cup pineapple juice
1-3 cup oil
3 tablespoons brown sugar
6 whole allspice, crushed
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 nectarines, each cut in 8 pieces
2 medium red peppers, each cut in 12 pieces

Combine pineapple juice, oil, brown sugar, allspice, garlic and salt in small saucepan; cook slowly 10 minutes. Cool. Place pork cubes in utility dish or plastic bag, add marinade, turning cubes to coat. Cover dish or tie bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 4 to 6 hours (or overnight), turning at least once. Pour off and reserve marinade. Thread pork on six 12-inch skewers, leaving space between cubes. Arrange ash-covered coals in a sparse layer, allowing space between them. Place kabobs on the grill, cover and cook 25 to 35 minutes or until done, turning and brushing with reserved marinade occasionally. Push cubes together; thread nectarines and red pepper pieces on skewers during last 10 minutes of cooking time. 6 servings.

CELEBRATION RICE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2-3 cup chopped onion
1 cup Uncle Ben's Converted Brand Rice
2 cups water
1/2 cup dry white wine
1-1/2 teaspoons garlic salt
1 teaspoon basil
1 medium tomato, chopped
1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
Melt butter in large saucepan; add onion and cook until tender, but not brown. Add rice, water, wine and seasonings; stir. Bring to a boil. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes. Stir in tomato and olives. Remove from heat. Let stand, covered, until all liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes. 6 servings.

CROWD PLEASIN' PORK FRIED RICE

3 cups Uncle Ben's Converted Brand Rice
6 pork blade steaks, cut 1/4 inch thick (4 to 4 1/2 pounds)
1/2 pound bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 cup soy sauce
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, defrosted
8 green onions, cut in 2-inch diagonal pieces
Cook rice according to package directions; chill. Remove bones from pork steaks and cut meat into strips 1/4 to 1/2 inch wide and 2 inches long. Cook bacon in Wok over high heat; remove and drain on absorbent paper. Remove all but approximately 1-3 cup bacon drippings. Stir-fry pork strips and garlic in Wok (1-3 at a time) until well done, pushing cooked meat to one side; stir in soy sauce. Add rice, peas and green onions or until heated through. Add bacon, tossing lightly to combine. Serve immediately. 10 to 12 servings.

Home canning begins with good jars, lids

Have you had problems of spoilage of home canned foods?

Take a look at the jars and lids you have been using. Do the jars have chips or nicks at the top? If they do this can cause a poor seal — thus spoilage. Do not use these jars for canning.

Do you tighten the two piece lid as tight as you can get it before and after processing? If you do, this can cause the sealing material to be broken — and again spoilage.

What can you do? Run your finger around the tops of jars and inspect them visibly to make sure they are smooth and free from nicks and cracks. If two-piece, self-seal lids are used, follow the manufacturer's instructions in adjusting the lid and tightening the metal ring. After processing, when the canned product is thoroughly cool, take off the metal ring, if possible without forcing. If the ring sticks, cover it with a hot, damp cloth for a minute or two to loosen. Then wash them to prevent rust and they may be used again. However the lid may be used only once.

What is the best way to store canned foods? They should be stored in a clean, cool, dark, dry place. Canned food kept in a warm damp place may change in color and flavor.

How long should home canned food be stored? It is wise to use all of it within a year.

Freezing does affect canned foods. Canned foods that have been frozen may have undesirable changes in flavor and texture. However, they will not spoil unless the seal is broken.

HC trustees accept $27,500 bid for work

In a relatively short meeting Tuesday, trustees of the Howard County Junior College District agreed to accept a bid of $27,500 from the J.W. Little Company of Big Spring for construction of a concrete foundation for a Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf dormitory.

Wildcats scheduled in Howard County

Two wildcats have been scheduled in Howard County.

Blanks Energy Corp., Midland, will drill two 8,000-foot wildcats in Howard County, three miles north of Big Spring.

The No. 1 Koger, 3/4-mile northwest of Fusselman production and 3/4 miles south-southeast of the Canyon oil re-opener of the Big Spring (Fusselman and Canyon oil and Pennsylvania gas) field, 3/4-mile southwest of the Clearfork re-opener of the Hutto, South field, is 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the west lines of 25-32-In T&P.

The No. 2 Cherry, 3/4-mile west of Fusselman production and the same distance northeast of the Big Spring field, 3/4-mile northeast of the Clearfork re-opener in the Hutto, South field, is 467 feet south and 1,787 feet from the west lines of 24-32-In T&P.

The Canyon oil reopener, Blanks Energy No. 1 Chote, a former Fusselman producer, was recompleted to pump five barrels of 43 gravity oil, plus one barrel of water, through perforations at 8,757-815 feet.

The Clearfork reopener, Blanks Energy No. 1 Buchanan 26, 3 1/2 miles northwest of the original opener, scheduled outpost to Fusselman production in the Big Spring field, was drilled to 9,770 feet and plugged back to 5,300 feet and finished Nov. 24, 1980, to pump 20 barrels of 40 gravity oil, plus

Commission to meet in Lubbock

A public hearing and meeting of the Texas Animal Health Commission will be held in Lubbock next Monday at 10 a.m. in the Bronze Room of the South Park Inn, John Armstrong, chairman, Texas Animal Health Commission, has announced.

The hearing is the first in a series to be held throughout Texas in the A and B Control Areas of the Texas brucellosis control program. Armstrong said. At present, there are 134 counties in the Class A control area and 120 counties in the Class B control area.

These public hearings will be held to address the progress of the program for the preceding quarter as well as receiving recommendations regarding overly burdensome regulations published in the Texas Register, and recommendations and to complaints of the program to the Texas Animal Health Commission. Armstrong said.

Other topics for discussion during the meeting include poultry regulations, 1982 budget, report on the USAHA brucellosis committee meeting in Denver, Colo., quarantine feedlot requirements pertaining to bonded Mexican heifers and amendments to the Texas brucellosis regulations.

Other members of the Texas Animal Health Commission are T. Euel Linder, Lubbock, Charles Kuntz, Olton; Mort Mertz, Eldorado; Bob Braso, Gonzales; Dr. Ben Hopson, Laredo; C.E. Knolle, Sandia; Jimmy Owen, Tyler; and J.D. Sartwell Sr., Sealy. Dr. John Holcombe, Austin, is executive director.

Guilty plea nets probation

Virgil Lester Duncan, 18, of Lubbock, pleaded guilty Tuesday in 118th District Court to a charge of felony theft.

Duncan, who had been placed under a $10,000 bond set by Judge Bobby West earlier, was given a four-year probation sentence, and released.

The building will be located immediately north of the main building now being occupied by SWCID. It formerly was the Webb AFB Hospital.

The dormitory, which must be separated into three pieces before it is moved and then reassembled on site, is now on Federal Prison Camp property. It is one of four dormitories which eventually will be moved to Howard County Junior College District property.

One of the structures will find up as an adjunct to the women's dorm at Howard College, after which it will be made to conform in looks and style to the two dormitories now being used on campus.

Trustees also let three bids for air conditioning systems planned on both campus. CHE Inc., Lubbock was recipient of two of the contracts extended by the college board — one for $41,684 and the other for $12,604. The second one will not be executed into the other dorms are moved to college property.

The third contract went to Thermo-Mec Sales Co., in the amount of $18,755.

The board also authorized the purchase of a walk-in freezer from Meador Sales and Service for use in the Howard College Cafeteria. The cost will be $9,776. The unit will be almost twice as large as the freezer now in use at the cafeteria. The old one will be moved to Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf for use in the kitchen.

Before adjourning, the trustees also authorize the payment of $4,227.34 to Quality Glass and Mirror Company of Big Spring for aluminum and glass doors for the east administrative wing of Howard College.

Next meeting of the trustees will take place July 14.

July 4 holiday

'Business-as-usual' for some local firms

Numerous Big Spring businesses will be closed Saturday in order that their employees can take advantage of the July 4 holiday.

For others, however, it will be "business-as-usual." Operating on regular schedules will be Winn-Dixie, both Safeway stores, Anthony's, Newsom's Foods, Montgomery Ward, both T & Y stores, Radio Shack, Revco, all the movie theaters, Godfather Pizza, Gibson's (9 a.m. to 9 p.m.), K-Mart (10 a.m. to 6 p.m.), Mutex, Thornton's, J and K Shoe Store, Furr's Cafeteria, Gregory's Furr's Super-market and most convenience stores.

Both City and County offices will be closed Friday, in order that employees can take advantage of the extended Independence Day weekend.

Employees of the Big Spring Herald will be given Friday afternoon off but will work a full day Saturday preparing Sunday's paper.

The exception to the rule at the Herald will be employees in the Classified Ad section, who will remain on duty all day.

Rev. Lloyd looking back on fifty years of life in the ministry

R. GAGE LLOYD

By TOMMY HART
Although he was the only child among six to undertake a study of Theology, the odds were always considerably better than 5-1 that R. Gage Lloyd would turn to the ministry. His father before him, ordained in 1885, devoted his life to preaching and continued to occupy the pulpit until he was in his 71st year.
Gage, who had an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree delivered upon him by Austin College, Sunday celebrates his 50th year as an accredited preacher. He was formally ordained July 5, 1931, while serving as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Calvert, Tex.

One of the participants in the ritual performed under the aegis of the Brazos Commission of Presbyterianism was Lloyd's long-time friend, the Rev. Mr. S.C. Guthrie, then pastor of the Navasota Presbyterian Church and now a resident of Big Spring.
Born halfway between Pecos and Fort Stockton in Reeves County, Gage started his public schooling in Haskell in 1913. Later, he attended classes in Pecos and Balmorhea before graduating from high school with honors in Fort Stockton in 1924. His senior class that year included eight girls and four boys.

Lloyd enrolled at Austin College in Sherman the following year and earned a Bachelor's Degree in Education in 1927. On Aug. 31, 1927, Gage married a Sherman girl, Irene Wilson, he had met at Austin College.
He taught a year at Saragosa (near Balmorhea) before enrolling in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin, Tex. He began preaching at Calvert while still in seminary, ultimately earned his master's degree in 1931.
He doubled as pastor at Calvert and in nearby Hempstead from 1931 until 1935, when he accepted an invitation to become pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Crockett. He remained there for 11 years before the membership of the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring beckoned him to fill a ministerial vacancy. That was in September 1946.

Lloyd well recalls his first impression of Big Spring — which he got while in the waiting room of the T & P Railway passenger station here at the age of 12. Then a resident of Fort Stockton, Gage had gone to Midland to compete in a school declamation contest. He climbed aboard the wrong train on his return trip home and wound up in Big Spring rather than Pecos. Consequently, he had to wait several hours in the local station before a passenger train could spirit him westward toward a reunion with his parents. It wouldn't have been so bad, he recalls, if he hadn't been trying to fight off the flu at the time.

Two children, a girl and a boy, were born to the Lloyd-Wilson union. Rebekah, the older child, is now a resident of Morristown, Tenn., where her husband, Walter W. Harrell Jr., is in the insurance business. A one-time teacher in the Forsan (Tex.) school system, Rebekah took her master's degree at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville and is now a counselor in the Morristown public schools.

Robert Gage Lloyd Jr., the younger child, died in 1963 at the age of 18.
Gage says that Rebekah was, in fact, named for his wife. Although Mrs. Lloyd's given name actually was Irene, he often would address her, using Biblical names that were familiar to both of them. One of those was Rebekah.
He and Mrs. Lloyd were occasioned to visit Europe and the Middle East in 1952, a trip made possible by members of the local Presbyterian church. They went first to Palermo, Sicily, moved on to Naples, thence to Cairo and Beirut. They took a car to Damascus, then Amman before crossing the Jordan River into Jerusalem. They visited Nazareth and Bethlehem before flying out of Tel Aviv to Athens and Rome. A kind deed Gage did for two Catholic nuns in the Holy Land earned for them an audience with Pope Pius in Vatican City.

Gage remembers saying to the Pope, "I am a Presbyterian minister from Texas" and hearing Pius reply, "Yes, we get many visitors from Texas." The Pope gifted him with a medallion he still has.
Lloyd's impression of the Holy Land was almost exactly as he had pictured it in his mind. The Bible had painted a brilliant mosaic for him with its ageless, accurate prose.
What impressed him most about the Middle East? The abject poverty, which was especially bad in Damascus and in the desert camps of the wandering people.
In Egypt, he was privileged to ride a camel a considerable distance, an invitation his wife declined with thanks.
Gage retired as First Presbyterian minister here July 5, 1970, but even now received more invitations to preach than he feels he can accept. He still resides in the same house here he and the Lloyd family once occupied as a manse.
A double tragedy befell Lloyd in May, 1979. His sister, Adele Jackson, died at the age of 81 May 18 in Cuero. A week later, his beloved Irene succumbed to a long, debilitating illness. They had been man and wife for 52 years. She lies buried beside her son in Trinity Memorial Park.
Gage has no idea how many weddings he has performed over the years — maybe 500. He recalls being rewarded with a silver dollar after officiating at the marriage of a couple who were standing beside their car parked in front of the church. Another man gave him 30 cents to unite two people — and apparently had to dig deep for that. Others have walked away from marriage ceremonies in which he played a part without so much as saying "thanks."
Gage has kept careful count of the number of times he has delivered funeral eulogies since his retirement — 107, in all.
What Gage regards as a signal honor came his way in 1967, when he was named moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of Texas. Elected in Fort Worth for the succeeding meeting, Lloyd presided at a synod held in Houston.
Dr. Lloyd taught Bible at Howard College for 20 years. He played no small role in the recent Big Spring-Howard County Centennial Celebration, having made the arrangements for a religious service staged in the Garrett Coliseum, which featured Dr. Andy Edington as its chief speaker.
Gage may have inspired several people to take up his profession. One who has often given him credit for turning him to the ministry is the Rev. Dan Baker, now pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Houston. Baker grew up in Crockett.
Gage has long since concluded that life is a sort of roller coaster, offering its share of ups and downs. One of his favorite passages in the Bible can be found in Romans which, in essence, offers the reassuring message, "No matter what happens, I am with you."

CindyMann places in pageant

Cindy Mann, a student at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, was second runner-up in the Miss Deaf Texas pageant in Fort Worth recently.

Miss Mann is a resident of Austin. The pageant is based on beauty, poise, and personality, according to Doug Burke, vice-president of SWCID. Miss Mann was also required to answer a question posed to her from pageant judges.

Contestants also participated in a talent category, said Dr. Burke. Miss Mann performed a dance routine choreographed by Ora Burson of Big Spring.

The pageant was part of a series of events in conjunction with the Texas State Association for the Deaf Convention. Several members of the SWCID staff were in Fort Worth for the event.

Members of the SWCID staff were honored by the Deaf Action Center during a buffet, said Dr. Burke. The group also were honored at a reception by the Dallas Association of the Deaf.

Three members of the SWCID staff were named to the board for the Texas Association for the Deaf last weekend. They are Larry Evans, Bill Eckstein and Beatrice Burke.

While in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, the SWCID staff members also attended "Children of a Lesser God," a play by Mark Medoff which features two instructors from SWCID in the cast. They are Marilyn Myers and Steve Baldwin.

The 1983 meeting of the Texas State Association for the Deaf will be in Big Spring, said Dr. Burke. SWCID won the bid for the convention.

Luxury hotel set for Odessa

ODESSA — Plans for a seven-story, $11.5 million luxury hotel have been announced here.

A part of the Granada Royale chain, the hotel will be located at the corner of Eighth Street and Dixie Avenue, where an apartment complex is now standing.

There are 13 other Spanish-styled Granada Royale hotels in the south and midwest and plans exist to build ten more in the Chicago area.

When completed, the hotel will have 164 suite-type rooms. Construction likely will begin at the end of this year. Completion date is set for late 1982.

Kimble remains in hospital

Gene Kimble, longtime employee of the Herald, will likely have to remain in Lubbock General Hospital for another two weeks.

Kimble, who underwent surgery to improve his mobility over a week ago, suffered a fall in the hospital and experienced a bone fracture. The fracture delayed his therapy.

Kimble is in Room 342 at the hospital. His telephone number is 806-743-3111. He can accept calls.

Bergara ends basic training

Airman Ray A. Bergara, son of Andres R. Bergara of 1603 W. Pyron, San Antonio, and Maria A. Bergara of 512 S. Ave. G. Lamesa, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

Chavez draws duty in Texas

Airman Steve Chavez, a recent electronics graduate from Lackland Air Force Base, is stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex.

A graduate of Big Spring High School in 1980, the airman is the son of Elias and Grace Chavez of Big Spring.
