Sand Springs fire damage totals $70,000

The Jackie Rinard home, Route 3, Box 86, Sand Springs, received an estimated $70,000 damage in a fire at 5:38 p.m. Friday.

Big Spring Fireman Burr Lea Settles Jr. said that reports show the fire was mostly contained to the roof of the home, but heavy smoke and water damage destroyed many of the family's belongings.

Capt. Bob Myers, officer in charge, reported that the fire may have been caused by firecrackers.

The fire took more than two hours to contain. The Big Spring fire department was called to the scene, as were members of the Sand Springs volunteer fire department.

Big Spring Fire Marshal Rodney Phillips said that local firemen are planning a slow pitch tournament July 11. Firemen are planning to battle KMD-TV of Midland. Part of the money received in the tournament will be used to aid families who fall victim to fire and who have no fire insurance.

HEAVY DAMAGE — The Jackie Rinard home, Route 3, Box 86, was heavily damaged in a fire at 5:38 p.m. Friday. Here, Truman Mason sprays water on the roof of the home, which sustained the heaviest damage. Neighbors and volunteer firemen, as well as the Big Spring fire department, helped battle the blaze, which caused an estimated $70,000 in damage. Another picture is on page 2.

Weather sparks lightning show

The fireworks that lit up the skies over Big Spring Saturday evening weren't man-made, as the city was hit with an electrical storm and light showers about 9:30 p.m.

The sun, like many Big Spring and Howard County residents, took most of the Fourth of July holiday off, as heavy clouds moved into the area Saturday afternoon.

By Saturday evening, the clouds had produced up to 25 of an inch of rain over the west sections of town, according to Harold Canning. Reports from the east side of town also measured in at 25. James "Red" Thomas, 107 E. 13th, reported .10 of an inch of rain at 9:45 p.m. Saturday.

Gusty winds also moved in on the area Saturday evening. Howard County, with Midland and Odessa, was placed under a tornado watch until 11 p.m. Saturday. The area joined in the tornado watch with eastern New Mexico and western and central Texas. The watch area, including the Big Spring, Midland and Odessa area, was along and 70 miles either side of a line from 45 miles north northeast of Roswell, N.M., to 20 miles southwest of Brownwood.

The Big Spring-Howard County area has a chance at more showers today, with a 20 percent chance of rain forecast through tonight. Winds today are forecast at 5 to 10 mph, increasing tonight to 10 to 15 mph.

Highs today are forecast in the middle 90s, with lows tonight in the upper 60s. Monday should see highs again in the middle 90s.

County auditor is reappointed

By CAROL HART

Jackie Olson, county auditor, was reappointed to her post as of July 1 by District Judge Jim Gregg.

Mrs. Olson has been serving as county auditor for Howard County since July 1, 1979. At 28, she is the youngest female in the state to hold the position of county auditor.

Mrs. Olson has worked in the Howard County auditor's office since 1973. She worked for a year prior to that in the county engineer's office.

"I came to Big Spring from Abilene as a secretary," Mrs. Olson recalled. In Abilene, she worked for Tippet and Gee, a firm of consulting engineers.

In addition to her job experience, Mrs. Olson has taken several accounting courses at Howard College, and plans further study this fall.

To be a county auditor, one must have lived in the county where one is to be appointed for two years and must be a competent accountant, with two years experience in auditing and accounting.

Mrs. Olson explained the duties of her office by saying "I have a great oversight of all books and records of all the officers of Howard County."

Other duties of a county auditor include "strict enforcement of the law governing county finances," said Mrs. Olson.

Mrs. Olson outlined the routine duties in the auditor's office.

"At the first of the month, we prepare financial reports for the county commissioners. We prepare monthly reports for the justices of the peace, the sheriff, and the district clerk. We must go to these offices and audit their books."

County auditors must "do all the purchasing for the county, and approve all bills before they are submitted to the county commissioners," said Mrs. Olson. "We count cash in all departments that deal with cash, and pay all of the bills of the county."

"We also inventory all of the fixed assets of the county, audit the payroll, and countersign the payroll checks. We also reconcile the bank statements for all departments with bank accounts.

"One of our biggest jobs is working with the commissioners court in preparing the annual budget. Another 'biggie' is preparation of the comprehensive annual financial report, which we present to the commissioners and the district judge."

Working with Mrs. Olson in the county auditor's office is Teresa Thomas, who has been with Mrs. Olson since her first appointment, and Beverly Yarbar, who was recently appointed to her post by Judge Gregg.

In addition to her varied duties with the auditor's office, Mrs. Olson keeps a busy homelife also. She met her husband, Craig Olson, at the courthouse several years ago, when he was working as a state trooper. He has since left the troopers to open his own business in rental property. The couple has a son, Christopher, who is two-and-a-half months old.

Community dinner to honor Tommy Hart

Tommy Hart, who is retiring as editor of the Big Spring Herald on July 31, will be honored with a special community dinner at 7 p.m. July 23 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum in Big Spring.

The event, which falls on Hart's 65th birthday, will be in recognition of his outstanding service and dedication to The Herald and to Big Spring. He will be roasted as well as "froasted," and sponsors of the event promise an evening of merriment.

The public is invited. Tickets are $6 and will be available beginning Wednesday at The Herald, the Chamber of Commerce, Big Spring Athletics, and the pro shops at Comanche Trail Golf Course and Big Spring Country Club.

Members of the committee planning the dinner are Harold Davis and Joe Pickle, co-chairmen; and Johnnie Lou Avery, Walt Finley and Tom Watson.

Special guests of the event will be announced at a later date.

Hart has been with The Herald 48 years, joining the paper in 1933. He was a newspaper carrier six years before that. Most of his career was as sports editor, before being promoted to editor in 1975.

Scott South, Amy Griffin and Heather South. Those balloons aren't filled with helium or some of the children might have gotten a bird's eye view of the proceedings. The parade has become a tradition here.

APPROPRIATELY DECORATED — Both the tandem bicycle and the girls pictured here are appropriately decked out for the Highland South Independence Day parade, which took place in that addition Saturday morning. The pretty lasses pictured are Andi Burns (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Burns, and Tymi Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brooks. Andi's father, Wayne Burns, delivered a talk to the crowd at the conclusion of the procession.

Flood knocks out power at hospital

As much as an inch of rain an hour drenched the Dallas-Fort Worth area early Saturday, flooding a hospital basement and forcing police to close several freeways and streets.

The Dallas suburb of Garland recorded 5.3 inches of rain in the 24 hours ending Saturday morning, while 4.6 inches were reported in Fort Worth and 4.13 inches fell in Dallas.

No injuries or flooded homes were reported, although several motorists were rescued from streets where water was "car-door deep," a Dallas police dispatcher said.

Fort Worth's John Peter Smith Hospital began turning away patients after about 5 feet of water covered a tunnel below the building, knocking out two power generators.

The hospital was without air conditioning or lights and evacuations were possible if patients reacted adversely to 100-degree heat in their rooms, said public relations director Jane Woolf.

The hospital's trauma and intensive care units, as well as its operating rooms, were closed.

The Trinity River had risen from 12 feet to 26.9 feet by 8 a.m., and was expected to crest at 34 feet — four feet above flood stage — late Saturday.

White Rock Lake in northeast Dallas spilled from its banks and surrounding streets were closed for several hours Saturday morning, police said.

Parts of North Central Expressway and Stemmons Freeway, as well as several other streets, also were barricaded.

"The only way to get from the top of Dallas to downtown is on the (Dallas North) Tollway," said the dispatcher, who asked not to be identified. "Barricades are up all over town."

Railroad trestles were washed out at North Central Expressway and Mockingbird Lane, she said.

"A whole bunch of South Dallas is under water," she added.

Flash flooding also was reported in Fort Worth, where a few residential streets were closed.

Power outages knocked out traffic lights in part of Fort Worth and Haltom City, a police spokesman said.

Four Dallas Power & Light Co. feeder lines were knocked down during a Friday night thunderstorm, leaving 3,200 customers without power from one to several hours, said DP&L spokesman Jim Lawrence.

Two police radio channels and the Dallas City Hall computer also were knocked out late Friday, causing minor delays in police and fire department dispatches.

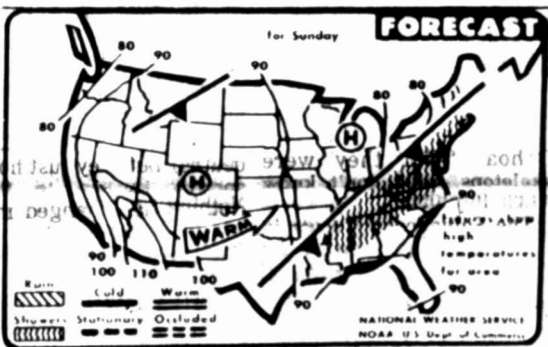

Dozens of minor accidents and stalled cars were reported throughout the area.

Thunderstorms continued to roll across much of northeast Texas and the South Plains Saturday, and clouds covered most of central Texas and the Panhandle.

A cold front extended from Wichita Falls southwest to near Abilene late Saturday morning and was moving slowly eastward.

The rain was expected to continue through Sunday, with temperatures rising into the 80s and 90s.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy through today with widely scattered showers across the central and southern sections. Highs in the 80s over the Panhandle to near 100 along the Rio Grande River. Lows 64 to 72.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are predicted today in a band covering much of the Northeast reaching southwest into Alabama and Mississippi, according to the National Weather Service.

Poland's leaders talk with Gromyko

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met with Poland's leaders Saturday, apparently continuing Soviet pressure to prevent an emergency party congress from going too far in its democratic reforms.

Gromyko met with Stanislaw Kania, the Polish Communist Party leader, for the second time in his brief visit, and with the party's 11-member ruling Politburo and the secretariat, according to the official news agency PAP.

Joining the meeting between Kania and Gromyko was Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski, who on Friday reshuffled his Cabinet in an effort to tackle Poland's economic crisis.

The 71-year-old Soviet official, who also is a member of his nation's ruling Politburo, also visited World War II memorials.

Gromyko was expected to return to Moscow Sunday for the arrival of British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, who was bringing an European Common Market proposal on ending foreign intervention in Afghanistan.

Although official sources had said Friday that Gromyko would meet the party's 140-member policymaking Central Committee, PAP did not report such meetings by late Saturday.

Earlier, PAP reported Gromyko met Polish Foreign Minister Jozef Czyrek to discuss "Polish-Soviet cooperation in the fight for detente and security," peaceful coexistence, disarmament and the arms race.

Western diplomatic analysts speculated Gromyko's visit was both ideological and strategic in nature.

They said he could be assessing the state of the party as the July 14 congress nears and may warn the Poles not to go too far in their reform drive. Or he could also be stressing strategic concerns the Soviets have about Poland's alliance with Moscow.

Following last summer's crippling strikes and the formation of the independent union Solidarity, the party has undergone a major shakeup of its leadership and proposed democratic reforms to satisfy workers' demands for more representation.

The reforms, which would provide greater decision-making power to individual enterprises and boost grassroots input into party politics by altering party statutes, are expected to win the support of some 2,000 delegates to the congress.

The congress is also expected to vote on a new party leadership, but many observers are speculating now that the changes will not be as sweeping as predicted in recent months.

President celebrates at Virginia plantation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan celebrated the Fourth of July with a birthday barbecue for his wife, Nancy, at a Virginia plantation followed by a Gay Nineties picnic on the White House south lawn.

Mrs. Reagan, whose 58th birthday is Monday, was the guest of honor at the party for 78 persons given by longtime friends. The event was held under a white tent at Woodlawn Plantation in Mount Vernon, Va.

The party was thrown by two couples who have been hosts of Mrs. Reagan's birthday parties for the last 20 years: the Earle M. Jorgensens and the William A. Wilsons.

The guests, including Frank Sinatra, top members of the White House staff and other longtime friends of the Reagans, were dining on a buffet that included fried chicken, chile, corn on the cob, and homemade strawberry ice cream.

Afterward, the president and his wife were flying by helicopter back to the White House to join an already-in-progress picnic with a Gay Nineties motif.

The president apparently was waiting until Monday to give his wife a birthday present, but the first lady reported through her press secretary Saturday that Reagan had ordered flowers delivered to her mother.

Each year the president makes it a practice to send flowers to Mrs. Reagan's mother to thank her for having her daughter, according to Sheila Patton Tate, the first lady's press secretary.

On the south lawn, about 2,000 White House staff members and their families were invited for games, a box lunch picnic, barbershop quartet entertainment and fireworks. A day-long downpour cleared as the picnic began.

FLYING CAT — Patty Butler, 24, Salinas, Calif., floats through the air with her pet cat, "Putty-cat," 3 years old, making like a bird on Patty's back. The cat's been hanggliding 3 months, sitting in a nylon pack, apparently liking the height, even while soaring at high altitudes and over ocean near Salinas. Patty found the cat more than two years ago wandering down a highway. Cat also goes to work daily with Patty.

Wall posters slander woman

PEKING (AP) — A Peking chemical factory worker has been sentenced to six months detention for putting up wall posters slandering a woman neighbor, the Peking Daily reported Saturday.

The paper said the woman took the wall posters to a local court last December, where the case was heard in closed session.

The court tried to persuade the defendant, identified only as Fang, to apologize and seek forgiveness, the paper said, but he refused and a public trial was held June 5, the newspaper said.

Rot root, a major problem for cotton crops, has been the object of extensive research. One of the most promising procedures, to date, is not much more than a delaying action. Deep application of anhydrous ammonia, although effective in setting back development of rot root, it does not control the disease. Scientists, particularly at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, are still on the elusive train of an effective control. Agri-scientists are currently looking at the relationships of various soil characteristics and the chemical properties, are being analyzed. Recent research at Texas A & M has shown some success in controlling the organism with applications of micronutrients, particularly iron.

New moves made to end hunger strike

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Irish nationalist guerrillas on hunger strike in Maze prison said Saturday they are willing to compromise with the British government in an effort to avoid further starvation deaths, their supporters said.

British officials immediately responded by allowing a Roman Catholic delegation to visit the eight current hunger strikers, a government spokesman said. The eight, one near death, are fasting for special privileges that amount to political prisoner status for jailed Irish nationalist guerrillas.

"Comrades of ours have died and eight of our other comrades presently face death on hunger strike," the prisoners said in a statement. "Our people on the outside have died, and more may die. That is why we seek immediate talks... It is a reasonable request."

The lengthy statement was issued through the Maze H-Block Committee, named after the prison's shape and acting as official spokesman for the hundreds of jailed nationalists.

In it, the guerrillas conceded the British government's principal argument that they should not receive preferential treatment. They asked Saturday that their demands be afforded to all prisoners.

The five demands include exemption from prison work, the right to wear civilian clothes and to associate freely among themselves, a 50 percent remission of their sentences and more mail and visits.

Townhouse fire probed

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Fire Department hopes to find two people who were riding bicycles near a group of southwest Houston townhouses that burned Friday morning, leaving an estimated $500,000 in damage.

Arson investigator Jim Hancock said it appeared the blaze was set in a garage of one of the homes.

No injuries were reported in the 3 a.m. fire.

"From what we could tell, there was a fire of brief duration before an explosion," Hancock said. "We are still trying to find two young witnesses... who were riding bicycles in the area who could possibly help us determine exactly when the fire started and maybe how it started."

At least two of the Village Place Townhomes were destroyed.

Guards sought, cells expanded after ruling

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections is trying to recruit 500 correctional officers and plans to provide 60 square feet of living space per inmate as a result of a federal appeals court ruling.

The June 26 order from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted stays to certain aspects of a comprehensive ruling by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler.

Justice's December decision required sweeping changes in prison policies and practices.

The appeals court let stand Justice's order that the ratio of uniformed officers to prisoners be decreased from 1-12 to 1-10 by Nov. 1 and 1-6 by Nov. 1, 1982.

With an inmate population of 31,000, 500 guards must be added to the current 2,600-member security force by November.

"By Nov. 1, we are going to be in that area," TDC Director W.J. Estelle said, pointing out that the department's final budget from Gov. Bill Clements could provide funds for a 1-10 ratio. "Beyond that, I don't know."

The three-judge appeals court did stay a requirement that inmates be housed one to a cell by Nov. 1, 1983, pointing to a recent Supreme Court decision allowing double celling of inmates in Ohio.

But the state did not seek a stay to a ruling that a minimum of 40 square feet of living space per inmate be allowed.

"That amounts to eliminating triple celling and making sure there's a little bit of breathing room," said William Bennett Turner, a San Francisco attorney representing inmate David Ruiz.

Stanton councilmen to tackle tax issue

STANTON — Stanton city councilmen will vote on the intent to increase taxes after holding a public hearing on the issue at their regular meeting, scheduled to get under way at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the council chambers of city hall.

Councilmen will also consider all matters incident and related to the giving of notice of intention to issue certificates of obligation, including the passage and adoption of a resolution approving and authorizing the giving of such notice.

In other matters, the council will consider the adoption of resolutions on entering into a county airport lease and truck routes, consider an ordinance concerning junk car appeals and study an appointment to the appeals board before retiring into executive session. Prior to adjourning, they will hear the city manager's report.

Billy Carter says he has lot in common with mobile home

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Billy Carter, the ousted brother of former President Jimmy Carter, says he has a lot in common with mobile homes.

"Five or six years ago, a mobile home had as bad a reputation as Billy Carter," said the 44-year-old Carter, who now works as a public relations consultant for Tidwell Industries of Haleyville, Ala., a mobile home manufacturer.

"(Now) mobile homes are an up-and-coming thing," he said Friday.

Carter, who planned to stay in Chillicothe through Sunday, said he was glad to leave Plains, Ga. He plans to move his family to Haleyville.

An auction of his Plains gasoline station and softball field, which raised $106,500, was held on June 27 to help pay Carter's delinquent tax bills of $125,000.

"I was glad to get out of there," he said. "I have good and bad memories of it. But I'm relieved. Even before the sale, I'd broken away from Plains."

RECORDS — HOW LONG?
Organizing, filing and retaining old records is a burden for many businesses and households. The following types of records and retention periods are general guidelines and should be tempered by your own business and investment concerns.

RECORDS	RETENTION PERIOD
Cancelled Checks	3 Years
Bank Deposit Slips	3 Years
Bank Statements	6 Years
Tax Returns	Permanent
Expense Reports	3 Years
Entertainment Records	3 Years
Financial Statements	Permanent
Contracts	Permanent
Minutes of Meetings	Life of company
Corporate Stock Records	Permanent
Employee Records	Period of employment plus 3 years
Depreciation Schedules	Life of business plus 3 years
Real Estate Records	Permanent
Journal & General Ledger	Life of business plus 3 years
Inventory Record	3 Years

The normal statute of limitations on federal returns is three years. Under some circumstances it is six years, and if you fail to file a return or there is fraud involved, the statute of limitation does not close.

This means that the Internal Revenue Service under normal conditions would audit your return any time up through three years. Since the statute of limitation in some states exceeds the federal statute, you should tailor your years of retention, to the longer of the two statutes.

In deciding your own record retention schedule, consider keeping indefinitely those records which cannot be recreated by any other office, institution or governmental unit.

INDEPENDENCE DAY WITH LATIN FLAVOR — Four-year-old Millie Acebal wears her father's U.S. army shirt and some of his medals as she marches in Miami's Fourth of July parade Saturday. Millie's father Jacinto is the highest decorated Cuban-American from the Vietnam war. He received 18 medals of recognition. The Miami parade was held in Little Havana and organized by Cubans wishing to express thanks and appreciation to the United States.

SUBWAY CRASH FATALITY — Rescue workers remove the body of Jesse Cole, 36, of the Bronx, New York after the subway motorman's body was freed from the wreckage of a subway car in which he had been pinned for three hours. The accident, which injured more than 150 passengers, occurred Friday afternoon when a Manhattan-bound No. 2 train plowed into the back of another train near Brooklyn, New York's Utica station.

Congress poised to heed Reagan's call to end its spending habit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like a drug addict ready to go cold turkey, Congress is poised to heed President Reagan's call to end its spending habit with an abrupt, painful package of cuts in more than 250 programs ranging from school lunches to pensions.

The president used his inaugural address Jan. 20 to many House members, Edwards said the real purpose of the exercise was "to somehow pick this country up and shake it a little and reverse the direction in which we have been going."

The outcome in the Senate had been anticipated given its GOP majority ready to carry out the president's wishes.

In the Democratic House, though, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., called the administration's budget recommendations "heartless" and "a deliberate effort to transfer wealth from the struggling families of this country and award that wealth to those who are already wealthy."

Republicans, who managed to forge a working majority coalition with conservative Democrats, responded that the seemingly endless flow of federal dollars had to stop if inflation was to be brought under control.

Edwards said the protests from Democrats amounted to "the last battle of a group of liberal members of this House who have fought for years to build federal programs, build them in good faith, do good for the people as they saw it."

Rep. Delbert L. Latta of Ohio, senior Republican on the House Budget Committee, told colleagues not to believe that cuts in child nutrition programs were aimed at taking the food away from the needy.

"Free lunches remain intact," Latta said. "But the people who can pay for their lunches, those in the higher income brackets, will be asked by the taxpayer of lower means to pick up the tab for feeding their children."

Democrats fighting the cuts see it differently.

"The fact is that we are rolling the dice with the lives of millions of Americans," said Rep. Leon E. Panetta of California, a key Democrat on the House Budget Committee. "Whether they are children, the elderly, the poor, or farmers, whether it is rural areas or urban areas, we do not know what we are doing in terms of impacting on those Americans."

In the end, the House acted quickly, voting for budget revisions that the administration and its House allies had drawn up the night before.

The work had been done so quickly that section headings were penciled in, words crossed out and others written in, and some programs were inadvertently eliminated with mistaken wording or a misplaced phrase.

"It was a terrible way to legislate, with partially understood substitutions of many details through the mass processes of the floor rather than the potentially more expert committee processes," said Rep.

Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y.

When Congress returns from its Fourth of July recess Wednesday, the House and Senate each will appoint about 100 members to a conference committee to iron out differences between the two versions of the budget-cutting bills.

Then, each house will have to act on the conference report before a single package of cuts can be sent to the White House for the president's signature.

However, the 200 conferees are facing no easy task and will have to break into subgroups to wrangle over the hundreds of pages of legislation.

Among the major points of difference between the two bills:

—The Senate approved a permanent ceiling on Medicaid to the states that the House did not.

—Basically, the Senate adopted the administration's guidelines for lowering Agriculture Department costs by charging farmers for numerous services, the House measure achieves savings through across-the-board cuts in programs.

—The Senate bill would deny money for subsidized rents to cities which have rent controls on new or vacant apartments while the House bill lacks this provision.

Lefever gets job to advise Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ernest W. Lefever, who withdrew himself from consideration for the State Department's top human rights post to avoid further "character assassination," will advise Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. on terrorism and other issues.

State Department spokesman Joe Reap said Friday that Lefever was sworn in Wednesday as a consultant to Haig.

"As a consultant, Lefever will be eligible to work a maximum of 130 days a year and will be paid on a per diem basis at the same rate of someone earning $44,000 annually, Reap said.

He said Lefever will advise Haig on terrorism, counterterrorism and nuclear proliferation issues. He also will study the "cohesiveness of State Department policy in these areas" and "such other matters relating to the conduct of foreign affairs as the secretary may request."

Less than a month ago, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee rejected President Reagan's nomination of Lefever to be assistant secretary of state for human rights and humanitarian affairs.

Reagan said he was committed to see the nomination through the full Senate, but on June 5, hours after the committee voted, Lefever asked that it be withdrawn.

Lefever said he made the request because "the process of full and honest debate over the issue of human rights, with which I am deeply concerned and with which the president and secretary of state are concerned, was running into trouble."

In a letter to Reagan, Lefever wrote, "I do not wish any longer to put up with the kind of suspicion and character assassination that some of my adversaries have used to besmirch my name."

Critics had assailed Lefever's record, saying he condemned repression by communist governments but was too tolerant of human rights violations by right wing regimes.

Lefever defended his advocacy of "quiet diplomacy" rather than public condemnation for dealing with U.S. allies on human rights issues. And, he said he was "blameless of the charges and innuendos against my integrity and my compassion."

But Lefever also was criticized for his role as head of the Ethics and Public Policy Center, a private, non-profit research center, since 1976. The center has distributed a study on infant formula that was used by support their marketing and advertising programs.

Haggard says autobiography 'no whitewash'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Merle Haggard says his soon-to-be-released autobiography is "no whitewash."

"It deals with all kinds of things," Haggard told a reporter recently.

Titled "Sing Me Back Home," the book should be released this fall, Haggard said. He wrote it with freelance writer Peggy Russell.

The singer spent two years and nine months in California's San Quentin Prison for burglarizing a cafe in 1957.

Girl taken from home

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Authorities were searching Saturday for an 11-year-old girl who apparently was abducted from her home sometime during the night.

The parents of Trisha M. Roy awoke Saturday morning to find their daughter missing and the front screen door cut, said Smith County Sheriff J.B. Smith.

The girl had slept on a sofa in the living room of her house on Texas Highway 64 eight miles west of Tyler, Smith said.

The girl was described as weighing about 20 pounds with shoulder-length brown hair and hazel eyes.

Smith said officers have no motive or suspect in the kidnapping.

Born again boxer presses charges against preacher

HOUSTON (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion turned born again Christian George Foreman has filed assault charges against a preacher.

Foreman, 32, claims David Morris grabbed him by the hand and refused to let go last Sunday after Foreman scolded L.R. Masters, pastor of the First Church of the Lord Jesus Christ in north Harris County.

Morris was charged with assault by contact, a Class C misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of a $200 fine. He is free on a $200 bond set by Peace Justice Davie L. Wilson.

Authorities said Foreman had tried to prevent Masters from preaching. As the two men argued, Morris allegedly restrained Foreman by grabbing his hand.

Foreman told police he accused Masters of unprofessional conduct.

Q. I've seen the term "marketable title" several times in reference to real estate. What is a marketable title?

A. When buying a home, be sure you get a title of the property. The burden to prove the title marketable is usually on the seller; either through an abstract of title — a written history of the ownership of the property, showing all liens or encumbrances against it, if any; or through title insurance, another method of showing and insuring the title's marketability. The title abstract or title insurance is to protect you from any "unknown" encumbrances on the property which you do not want to assume. Your real estate broker can assist you in making sure you know exactly what you are buying.

Rain dampens Fourth of July festivities in capital

Rain dampened Independence Day festivities in the nation's capital and other major cities Saturday, and for the first time in the 20th century there was no major league baseball on the Fourth of July.

But there was no less joy in the hearts of 28 people from two dozen lands who took oaths of allegiance to become U.S. citizens in the "We the People" Hall at the National Museum of American History in Washington.

And across the nation, despite the rain in many areas, it was a day of parades and Sousa marches, fireworks and picnics, a day for politicians to talk of patriotism and for curious contests like tomahawk tossing and stone skipping.

In Washington, rain doused marchers in a parade along Constitution Avenue and prompted cancellation of some outdoor events, including an Air Force "Singing Sergeants" concert at the Jefferson Memorial and an American folk festival on the Mall.

But young people and families arrived at the Washington Monument grounds early for a Beach Boys concert. And in front of the White House, feminist protesters called for "a new, nonviolent but militant campaign for women's rights."

President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, planned to mark the day by celebrating her 58th birthday in Mount Vernon, Va., and return later for a picnic for White House employees.

There was driving rain in New York City, and by the time the Independence Day parade reached City Hall, only a few people were on hand to hear the last words of the master of ceremonies: "Better luck next year."

The nation's highways were crowded with people getting away from it all, and the National Safety Council estimated up to 550 people could die in traffic accidents over the three-day holiday. By Saturday afternoon, the death toll topped 240.

Former President Carter was grand marshal of his home state's biggest parade, leading the Salute to America Parade in Atlanta, a city torn by the killings of 28 young blacks. The parade's special guest was retired

Army Col. Charles Scott, a former hostage in Iran, and its theme was "Let's Keep Pulling Together, Atlanta."

Fireworks displays ranged from dazzling spectacles in New York City, Chicago and Washington to the firecrackers and sparklers set off on streetcorners from Brooklyn to Brownsville.

And in Britain, the country that lost a war to 13 upstart colonies after they declared independence July 4, 1776, a New Yorker took the Wimbledon tennis title from a Swede. John McEnroe, the 22-year-old known as "superbrat" to the British press, defeated Bjorn Borg 4-6, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4.

Food was the focus of July Fourth celebrations in New Orleans, where "lasting portions" of gumbo, jambalaya and alligator were 25 cents to $1.25, and at a "Taste of Chicago" eat-out that drew hundreds of thousands of people to the lakefront.

New Orleans also featured a Louis Armstrong Birthday Party to honor the late jazz great, including look-alike and sound-alike contests.

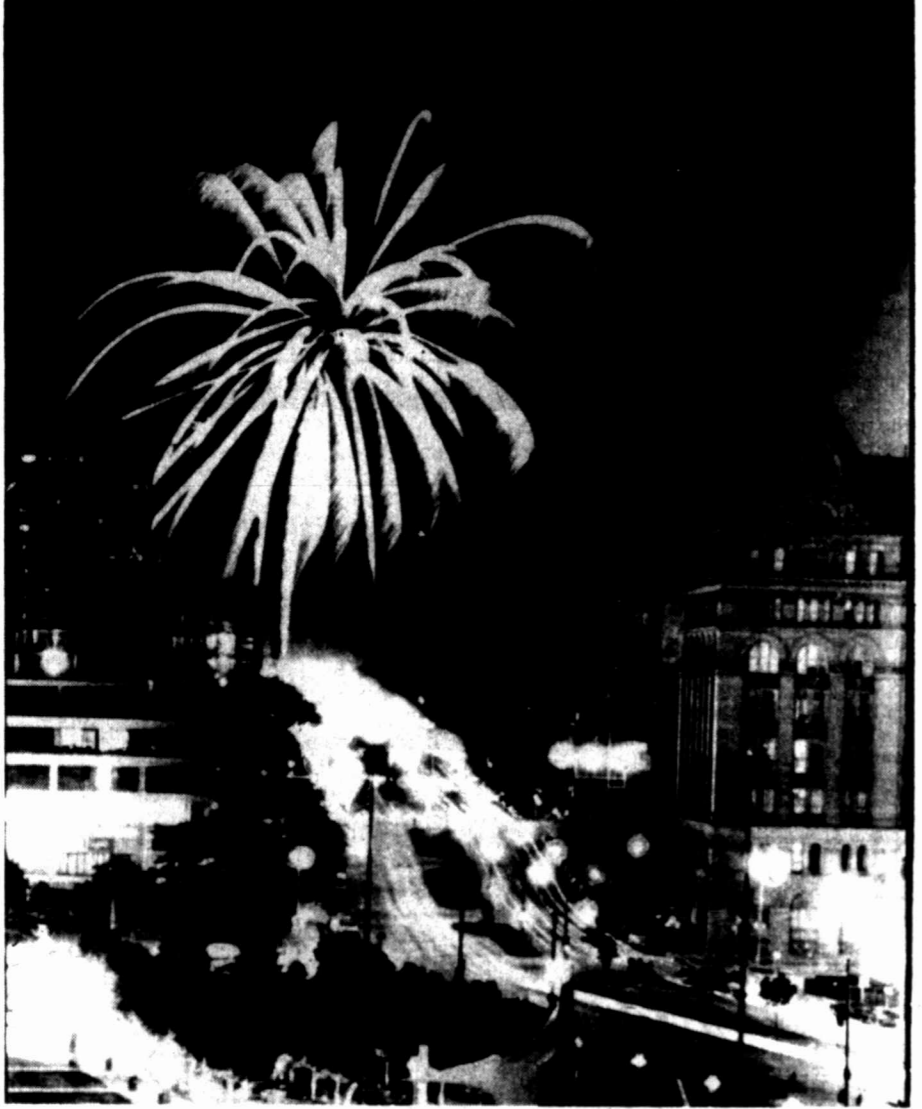

Cuban-Americans marked the day in Miami's Little Havana with the district's first Fourth of July parade, complete with marching bands, floats and thousands of children bearing American flags. Eighty-year-old Roy Claude Pepper, D-Fla., was tapped as grand marshal.

It was the second day of a three-day Veiled Prophet Fair in St. Louis, and event that drew some 50,000 people on its opening day Friday.

"I appreciate the invitation to meet me in St. Louis for the fair," said Missouri Gov. Christopher Bond. "It's time for the state and the rest of the country to take note of what's going on in St. Louis."

What was going on was a concert by Ella Fitzgerald, beer-gulping, flag waving and skydiving.

What wasn't going on anywhere in the United States was major league baseball, halted since June 12 by a players' strike. On Saturday, players and owners went back to the bargaining table. Outside, a half-dozen fans picketed in the rain.

FOG SHROUDS FIREWORKS — Fireworks plume into the air over Downtown Milwaukee Friday night during the annual display. Thousands flocked to the lakefront to see the event, but found their view obscured by fog that rolled in off Lake Michigan.

Suggestion by BSHS graduate saves Uncle Sam $10,000 plus

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. — Primitivo (Pete) Navarrete Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Primitivo F. Navarrete Sr., 506 NW 4th St., Big Spring, has received a letter of recognition from former President Jimmy Carter for an adopted suggestion that saved the government more than $10,000.

Navarrete, a communications specialist with the Army Communications Command Agency (USACC) at White Sands Missile Range, was awarded $560 for his adopted suggestion. He suggested the use of a portable emergency wash equipment instead of permanent equipment, thus eliminating the installation of costly permanent plumbing. The portable equipment cost about half as much as the permanent gear.

The White House letter, dated Jan. 6, 1981, and signed by then President Carter, personally thanked Navarrete for his contribution. "Contributions, such as you have made, support my conviction that Federal personnel can play a major role in improving government service," the letter read in part.

Navarrete noted all dial-central office equipment sites throughout the sprawling missile range have stand-by power batteries. "Office personnel have to maintain it and check the acid and water levels continually and there's always the possibility the batteries could explode or someone would accidentally splash acid on his face. The emergency wash is a necessary precaution, but because of cost it had never been installed before," he said.

Navarrete said he received the letter just last week because it had been "in the paper mill" from higher headquarters since January. He added he would not sell the former President's signature.

"I've been offered $100 for the signature block on the letter, but didn't consider selling," Navarrete said. "I think it will eventually be worth more than $100 to my children."

Both Navarrete and his wife, the former Mary Lou Chavarría, are graduates of Big Spring High School. Their three daughters range in age from 17 to seven. The family resides in El Paso. An older son resides in California.

Navarrete was in the U.S. Army from 1958 until 1961, serving more than two years in France. He began his civil service career in 1961. He holds an associate of arts degree (electronics) from El Paso Community College.

White Sands Missile Range is known as the birthplace of America's missile and space activity. It occupies more than two million acres in southern New Mexico where more than 2,000 "hot" firing tests are conducted each year. The range has more than 7,000 military, civil service and contractor workers.

Gunmen ambush police van

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Heavily armed gunmen ambushed a police van, killing five people and wounding seven others before fleeing with a cache of police weapons, the daily Bangkok World reported Saturday.

The newspaper said the police team was en route to crack down on log poaching in Phetchabun province, 250 miles north of here, when they were attacked Friday. Four of the five people slain were police, the paper said, adding that a similar attack left three police dead four months ago.

The terrorists fled with the police weapons, including an M-79 grenade launcher, three M-16 machine guns, three rifles, pistols and hand grenades, the newspaper reported.

The paper said military sources believed some wealthy log poachers had hired terrorists as a security force against police operations.

Big Spring entries place in barrel racing

COLORADO CITY — Two Big Spring entries placed in barrel racing events staged as part of the Colorado City AJRA Rodeo here Friday night.

Duron Ray was third in the girls' eight-and-under group. She was clocked in 19.76 seconds. The timing time, 17.42, was achieved by Camie Kemp of Colorado City.

Melodie Choate, Big Spring, was second in the girls' 16-19 bracket. Angie Casbeer, Midland, won the event in 17.98 while Miss Choate was timed in 19.65.

Cody Newman, Stanton, won the breakaway roping event for girls 12 and under, at which time she was timed in 7.10 seconds.

A cool front blew in prior to the start of the rodeo, dropping temperatures to 75 degrees.

The rodeo continued through Saturday night.

Friday's results:

Breakaway roping, girls 12 and under: 1. Cody Newman, Stanton, 7.10; 2. Tricia McEwen, San Angelo, 16.23; 3. Tricia McEwen, San Angelo, 16.23; 4. Keri Koon, Stamford, 4.13.

Tie down roping, boys 16-19: 1. Brock Burnett, Sweetwater, 12.64; 2. Doren Ray, Big Spring, 19.76.

Barrel racing, 8 and under: 1. Camie Kemp, Colorado City, 17.42; 2. Trent Walls, Stephenville, 17.88; 3. Doren Ray, Big Spring, 19.76.

Barrel racing, girls 12 and under: 1. Tricia McEwen, San Angelo, 16.23; 2. Ladaun Puckett, Sweetwater, 21.98; 3. Rachel Everett, Snyder, 22.98.

Junior bull riding 13-15: 1. Pejo Pittman, Abilene, 48.

Minimum wage raise planned

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Prime Minister Francisco Pinto Balsemão has announced plans to raise the minimum wage, now equivalent to $141 a month, and to increase government pensions.

Addressing the nation for 20 minutes on national television and radio Friday night, the center-right Social Democrat leader also said Portugal would continue to press for entry into the Common Market and called for closer contacts with the Arab world and Portugal's former colonies in Africa.

Pinto Balsemão has been prime minister since January, after forming a three-party alliance following the death of Francisco Sa Carneiro, who was killed in a crash of his campaign plane, has announced plans to raise the minimum wage, now equivalent to $141 a month, and to increase government pensions.

Francisco Sa Carneiro, who was killed in a crash of his campaign plane. His critics have said the prime minister is moving too far away from the conservative politics of his predecessor.

Bani-Sadr asking Iranian people not to surrender

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran's fugitive ex-president, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, in an interview reportedly conducted while he was hiding out in Iran, is quoted as calling on the country's women and youth to resist Islamic fundamentalists.

The Arab-owned magazine, "8 Days" said it obtained an exclusive interview with Bani-Sadr while he was in the western province of Kurdistan shortly after he disappeared from Tehran June 12.

The London-based weekly said in an editor's note that Bani-Sadr's current whereabouts remain a mystery, but "what is certain" is that he was in Kurdistan on June 16. The photograph of Bani-Sadr accompanying the article was from Associated Press files.

Bani-Sadr was impeached by the Iranian Parliament on grounds he was incompetent to hold office. He was dismissed as president on June 22 by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. A day later, the revolutionary prosecutor of Kermanshah province on the Iraqi border said Bani-Sadr was possibly on the run in western Iran and urged people of the region to be on the look-out for him. There were also unconfirmed reports that Bani-Sadr had fled to Egypt or Turkey.

"8 Days" quoted Bani-Sadr as appealing to the Iranian people not to "surrender" to the Islamic fundamentalist hardliners who engineered his dismissal.

"I particularly ask my sisters, the women of Iran, and the youth, to resist in every way and at all times," the magazine quoted him as saying. "I am confident that those capable of opposing the Pahlavi dictatorship (of the late shah) are also capable of fighting those now using illegal methods to obtain power in Iran," he said.

He also accused his opponents of plotting "a black and reactionary coup d'etat to impose a way of governing society completely different from my own approach."

The magazine described those opponents as Iran's prime minister, parliament speaker and, until he was killed in a bombing of the Islamic Republican Party headquarters a week ago, the IRP leader and chief justice of Iran's Supreme Court.

POLICEMAN VIEWS RIOT AFTERMATH — A policeman walks by the remains of the Hamborough Tavern in West Zlondon Saturday morning after rioting breakout between gangs of "Skinheads" and Asians and police Friday night. In foreground is burned out police car.

'Skinheads' fight Asians in streets

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of police patrolled Southall streets Saturday after the west London neighborhood's third race riot in five years. Asian immigrants vowed further violence if white youth gangs return to the district.

Home Secretary William Whitelaw ordered a full report on the violence Friday night in Southall, where half the 60,000 population are immigrants from India, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

Police said more than 120 people — 60 of them police officers — were injured in the five hours of street fighting between Asians and white youth gangs known as "skinheads" because of their closely cropped hair.

"The skinheads invaded at night and got a sharp lesson," said a spokesman for Southall Rights, a legal aid center for non-whites. "If black leaders they try to come back they'll find an even tougher response from our people."

"Right-wing organizations are trying to infiltrate this area again," said Ajid Rai, President of the Southall-based Indian Workers' Association. "We're strong enough now to resist them. If the police can't protect us we're capable of doing it ourselves."

The violence erupted when busloads of more than 200 skinheads, many sporting swastikas, arrived for a punk rock concert at Hamborough Tavern in an area of Southall known as "Little India."

Witnesses said some 400 Asians were waiting outside the tavern to protest the concert. Yelling "Sieg Heil!" and "Kill the Pakis!"

the skinheads attacked them with bricks and clubs, and the Asians responded by hurling gasoline bombs, residents said.

"It was obviously a planned invasion," said Andrew Rose, 19, a white who lives in Southall. "The Asians hit back against the muggings and beatings that always happen after these concerts."

Ghost stories popular with county children

By FELICE LOGAN
Summer is such an exciting time. Over the years I've noticed some of the fun things kids like to do in the summer:

Stand in front of the refrigerator and watch the cottage cheese sour.

Lie on the floor in front of the TV and see how many people will walk over you versus go around you.

As a morning greeting yell at mother, "I don't want to sit next to Sis; she breathes too loud!"

Watch the puppy chew a hole in the arm of the den sofa.

Sit on the kitchen floor and watch Mama climb the walls.

See how many jars of bugs and giant grasshoppers the window sill will hold.

Watch a popcicle drip on the front driveway.

I realize they, the darlings, are being creative and intelligent, but enough is enough — Why are there four soaking wet towels in the bathroom and nobody has bathed?! Maybe I don't really want to know.

There is always the pool-good exercise. There is a movie-its cool. And there is the library-maybe the little darlings will get smart.

Well, this summer I am very proud of what is happening at the library. We have had 378 kiddos sign up for the Summer Reading Program. But the great part is that 83 have already earned their reading certificates. For the wee ones too young for the Reading Program, we have the story hour on Friday mornings. I have always loved to read to children and I love children's books. So, it's exciting for me to hear a child say, "Oh, let me tell you about this one first; it was my favorite."

Our theme this summer is Monster Madness. The ghost stories and science fiction are very popular with children, even children who don't usually like to read. But it is really wonderful to see the readers and young adults choosing books in varied categories. They have been willing to try a mystery, a biography, a book on baseball, riddles and jokes. This summer lots of the readers have discovered they like historical fiction.

And with the Centennial, what a re-enforcement to all the years activities! I have my own new category. I like Oriental art; I like Oriental Rugs; and I deeply appreciate Oriental fiction for children. It was a warmth and love for children, the old and for the simplicity of life.

These are a few of my favorites you may want to share with your little ones or junior high or high school brother-sister could read to the little ones. They both would get a lot out of it.

Every child loves "The Story About Ping", by Marjorie Flack. It's about the little duck who gets lost on the great Yangtze River because he is little and doesn't want to get spanked.

Another of my very favorite books for children and adults is "Everybody Knows What a Dragon Looks Like", by Jay Williams, illustrated by Mercer Mayer. It has outstanding illustration, just outstanding. The story is a genelt lesson in life. The little boy was the only one to be polite to the poor, old man. For this one kindness, the man turns into the magnificent dragon and save the city.

"I Will Tell You of Peach Stone" by Nathan Zimelan, illustrated by Haru Wells and "The Foxes of Chironupp Island", by Hiroyuki Takahashi are two beautiful tales about the young and the old and the continuity of life. No, they are not too heavy for young readers. It is special to hear a certain silence after you've read a good book to a child. These books will get that response.

And, look, Mom, you won't mind those bugs in the jars in the spring when one turns into a butterfly.

Fear Reagan's economic plans

DENVER (AP) — Despite President Reagan's personal reassurances, many black leaders say they mistrust the Republican administration and fear budget cutting will cost their movement 15 years of hard-won gains.

In his speech last week to the 72nd Annual NAACP convention, Reagan said his program of budget cuts "will move us toward black economic freedom because it is aimed at lifting the entire country."

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel Pierce Jr., the only black in the Cabinet, added his assurance that the president is "a good and decent man."

Most of the black leaders here said they did not disbelieve Reagan's motives, but feared he underestimated the impact proposed budget cuts would have on the disadvantaged, especially poor blacks.

Police arrest 45 suspected terrorists

ROME (AP) — Anti-terrorist police said Saturday they have confirmed that urban guerrilla groups, despite ideological differences, share information, trade arms and give first-aid to one another's wounded.

Police said 45 suspected left-wing terrorists have been apprehended in the past two months and caches of submachine guns, rifles, pistols and ammunition were found in raids. They said the investigations related to the arrests confirmed earlier suspicions about a network of intelligence and cooperation between the various groups.

BARELY WALKING — A one-day-old camel wobbles to her feet under the watchful eye of her mother Malockea at the Dade Metrozoo Thursday. The baby, who has yet to be named, is the first camel born at the new zoo. Mother Malockea was born in 1975 at Dade County's old zoo on Key Biscayne. Earlier this summer one of the zoo's camels died giving birth undergoing a Caesarian section. Her offspring died also.

books 'Sweeney Todd'

Spring City Theatre will present "Sweeney Todd, Demon Barber of the Barbary Coast," at 8 p.m. July 23, 24 and 25, in the Amphitheatre in Comanche Trail Park.

According to Cecelia McKenzie, director of the melodrama, admission will be $3 for adults, and $2 for children under 12. Along with the usual popcorn and cokes, Spring City Theatre is offering a pre-show treat, dinner on the rocks. Hot dogs and all the fixings will be offered, starting at 7 p.m. each evening.

"Sweeney Todd, Demon Barber of the Barbary Coast," is written, directed and performed in the manner of a Gay '90s melodrama, said Mrs. McKenzie. The production was written by Tim Kelly.

Fireworks seized in raid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Enough fireworks to blow up several houses were seized in a raid on a Sunset District home, police said.

A 22-year-old man was arrested and two tons of firecrackers were seized, police said. They said David Seto, who was cited on a misdemeanor charge of unlawful possession of fireworks for sale, was released pending appearance in court.

Police, who staged the raid Thursday night, said the fireworks were packed in 117 cardboard cartons. The estimated value of the cache was $30,000.

"If that stuff had exploded it would have been like a full case of dynamite," said police bomb squad member Steve Silvers.

Route 207 now Freedom Road

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — New York's Route 207 is now, officially, Freedom Road.

More than 100 officials and residents gathered in New Windsor Friday to dedicate a marker commemorating the route taken in January by the American hostages returning from Iran.

The hostages were traveling from Newburgh's Stewart Airport to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

"The people responsible did a very wise act in calling it the Freedom Road," said former U.S. Rep. Hamilton Fish, 92, father of the incumbent congressman of the same name.

"Freedom is the greatest, or possibly the third greatest, word in the English language, following only God and country," Fish said.

Vote counting enters final stages

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Labor Party leader Shimon Peres faced a week of intense bargaining with potential coalition partners as vote counting entered its final stages Saturday.

The count, slowed by the separate tallying of the military ballot, was suspended for the Sabbath and resumed Saturday night.

Begin and Peres have met with the two main coalition candidates and are waiting for the official results to be announced Tuesday before getting down to hard bargaining.

Unofficial running reports of the count show Begin's Likud Bloc and the Labor Party seasawing a few dozen to a few hundred votes apart. Both may end up with 48 or 49 seats apiece in the 120-member Knesset, or parliament.

After results are final, President Yitzhak Navon is to consult with all the parties and then pick the candidate who looks most likely to pull together a coalition.

Begin insists he is that candidate, but Peres has vowed to explore every possibility of pulling together a workable parliamentary majority.

The 67-year-old Begin looked like the strong favorite on election night, but the coalition candidates have appeared to push up the price of their loyalty.

The chief candidate, the National Religious Party, which at first seemed eager to renew its four-year coalition with Begin, is now speaking in two voices.

Its leader, Interior Minister Yosef Burg, says he would like Peres to join the NRP and Likud in a Begin-led "national unity government" to pull Israel through the down-the-middle divider reflected in the polls.

But Education Minister Zevulun Hammer, a powerful NRP figure, says the party should stay out of government and focus on Tuesday. The NRP lost recovering from the electoral beating it took seats.

House explodes, woman in critical condition

DALLAS (AP) — An elderly woman who was burned over 70 percent of her body when her daughter's house exploded remained hospitalized in critical condition Saturday.

Virginia Browne, 79, had gone to the house about 6 p.m. Friday to feed a cat while her daughter and son-in-law, Jan and Billy F. Bailey, were on vacation at Lake Palestine, neighbors said.

The gas explosion damaged the two adjacent houses in the Northeast Dallas neighborhood and scattered insulation over the neighborhood.

Mrs. Browne told fire officials she smelled a strange odor when she went into a bathroom in the house and was knocked on her back as she walked down a hallway.

Fire Capt. Don Howard said the house and all its contents, valued at $50,000, were destroyed. He said officials did not know what triggered the blast.

A preliminary investigation showed an interior gas leak was the cause of the blast, Howard said.

"That's about the most blown-up (house) I've ever seen," he said.

Bill Hunsicker, an investigator for Lone Star Gas Co., arrived shortly after the explosion and checked other houses on the street for gas leaks.

"It's traditional whenever there's an explosion," Hunsicker said. "We're not sure it's a leak."

The explosion also buckled the garage door and shattered a plate glass window in the house east of the Bailey residence and broke three windows and tore bricks off the east wall of the house on the other side.

Neighbors said Mrs. Browne, who lives a few doors away from her daughter, had entered the house earlier Friday to feed the cat.

After 300 games, still no major league ball

By LARRY SIDONS
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — America celebrated its 206th birthday Saturday without major league baseball as representatives of the players and club owners met again to try to end the strike that has cost almost 300 games so far.

Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett called the two sides into session at a midtown hotel amid conflicting reports that the Player Relations Committee, the owners' bargaining arm, was prepared to make a major move toward ending the walkout.

Negotiators for the players and the owners met for more than five hours Saturday, but no progress was reported.

Rusty Staub: The All-Star game is in jeopardy now

The strike, which started June 12, had wiped out 289 games through Saturday, traditionally one of the biggest days for the fans, who mix patriotism with baseball.

With a Fourth of July weekend series canceled, the next major date that could be affected by the sport's first mid-season strike would be the All-Star Game, set for Cleveland July 14. And Rusty Staub, the New York Mets' first baseman and one of the players attending Saturday's session, said that the All-Star Game "is in great jeopardy," unless a settlement is reached soon.

There were reports Friday that several owners were applying pressure to the Player Relations Committee and its director, Ray Grebey, for a quick end to the strike, both to save the All-Star Game and to avoid a hearing on unfair labor practice charges before the National Labor Relations Commission, which is scheduled to begin Monday.

On Saturday, however, other reports said that any such pressure may have been the result of a misunderstanding or misinterpretation of what went on at the last bargaining session Thursday. Those talks broke off abruptly after 90 minutes with Grebey asking for a recess until Saturday.

The strike is over the issue of free agent compensation. The owners want professional players to be supplied to a team which loses high-ranking free agents in the annual November draft. The players, while saying they would accept some form of pro compensation, are adamant in their stand against the owners' criteria for determining which players would be considered a quality free agent.

While the negotiations went on Saturday, a group of fans picketed outside the Doral Inn, protesting the strike. They carried picket signs bearing such phrases as "We Want Baseball" and "Let's Play Ball, No More Stall."

A LITTLE BUBBLY — Cale Yarborough celebrates with champagne after winning the Firecracker 400 stock car race at Daytona Beach yesterday — his fourth claim to the Firecracker title.

Cale Yarborough noses ahead for his fourth Firecracker 400 win

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cale Yarborough passed Harry Gant two turns from the end and held on to win his fourth Firecracker 400 Grand National stock car race Saturday at Daytona International Speedway.

Yarborough, who started from the pole, fell behind Gant 22 laps from the end of the 400-mile race, but stayed right on the leader's back bumper until the two zipped down the long backstretch on lap 180.

The 41-year-old veteran from Timmonsville, S.C., dropped low on the high-banked, 2.5-mile track and pulled even with Gant as the two entered the third turn. He moved into the lead before they entered turn four.

Yarborough, who picked up his second victory of the season and 71st of his NASCAR Grand National career, piloted his Buick Regal across the finish line just ahead of Gant, who never has won a Grand National race and now has finished second eight times, including five times this season.

Richard Petty was third, less than 1 second behind the winner. Buddy Baker took the fourth spot and three-time Indianapolis 500 winner Johnny Rutherford, who has been struggling with his NASCAR effort this season, finished a strong fifth after outrunning rookie Tim Richmond and Kyle Petty over the last 20 laps.

Richmond's engine blew going into the first turn just four laps from the end, but he managed to keep the car under control and continue. Officials chose not to drop a yellow flag, setting up the dramatic finish.

Yarborough left Junior Johnson's team, for which he won three national championships, last winter and joined the team operated by M.C. Anderson to trim his racing schedule and spend more time with his family and business interests.

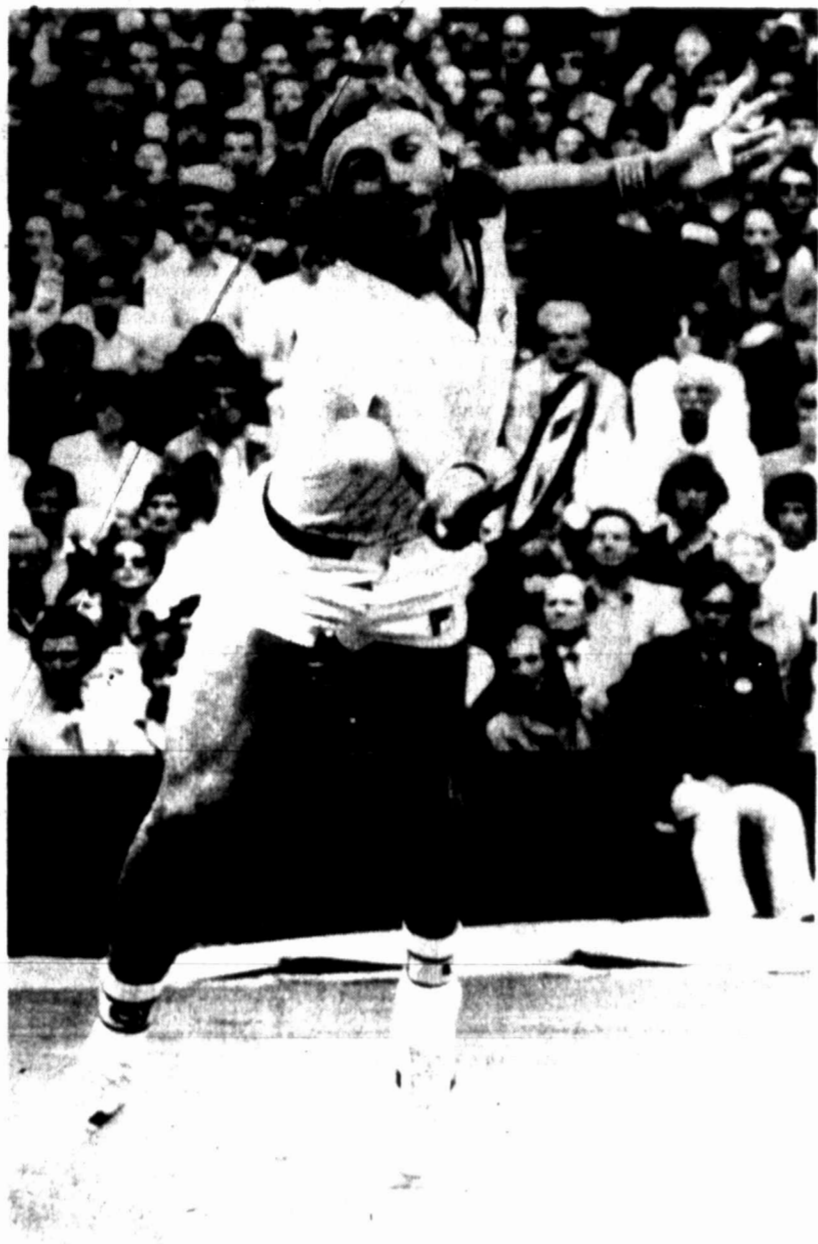

He averaged 142.588 mph in the race, slowed by six caution flags. The victory was worth about $24,675.

There were 35 lead changes among 10 drivers in the competitive race.

Many of the lead changes came in the first half of the 180-lap race, but almost as much time was spent under caution flags as under the green.

A crowd estimated at more than 70,000 watched the race.

McEnroe takes Wimbledon from Borg

Bjorn Borg returned this shot to Johnny McEnroe in Wimbledon finals action yesterday ...

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — It was a star-spangled Fourth of July for the United States Saturday, and "bad boy" John McEnroe led the parade by beating the mighty Bjorn Borg for the Wimbledon singles title.

The 22-year-old American left-hander defeated the Swedish star 4-6, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4 in a nerve-tingling final that lasted almost 3½ hours.

All the sour incidents of the last two weeks — tantrums on court, arguments over line calls and fines imposed by the tournament committee — were forgotten as McEnroe ended Borg's five-year run as champion.

When he hit the last winning forehand volley, the 14,000 fans on the center court stood and cheered. Some of them had slept on the sidewalks outside the tennis club for the last six nights to stand and watch.

At a news conference afterward, McEnroe was a quiet and dignified champion.

"I am glad to have beaten a guy who is one of the greatest players who ever lived," he said. "And I want to congratulate him, because he's a great champion."

The crowd thought so, too. When the Duchess of Kent presented the trophy and the runner-up medal, the crowd gave Borg an even bigger cheer than they had given McEnroe.

Borg, 25, won the title in 1976 and has held it longer than any other player this century.

One man — Englishman Willie Rendshaw — won it six times running, from 1881 to 1886. But no overseas players competed in those days, and the defending champion had to play in only one challenge match at the end of the tournament.

Borg won a record 41 matches at Wimbledon until McEnroe dethroned him. The old record was 31 matches by Rod Laver of Australia.

But McEnroe wasn't the only American invader to find victory here. For the first time since 1975, Americans won both the singles titles as Chris Evert Lloyd defeated Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 6-2 Friday to win the women's final for the third time. And McEnroe and Peter Fleming took the men's doubles title, defeating Stan Smith and Bob Lutz 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Then, on Saturday, Pam Shriver, who was born July 4, 1962, teamed with Martina Navratilova to capture the women's doubles championship 6-3, 7-6 over Anne Smith and Kathy Jordan.

Even in the Wimbledon junior tournament, it was a grand old day for the USA. Matt Anger of Pleasanton, Calif., beat Pat Cash of Australia 7-6, 7-5 for the boys' crown and Zina Garrison of Houston defeated Rene Uys of South Africa 6-4, 3-6, 6-0 to win the girls' title.

In the only setback on America's birthday, Frew McMillan of South Africa and Betty Stove of the Netherlands defeated defending champions Tracy and John Austin in the mixed doubles 4-6, 7-6, 6-3.

Because of a series of upsets in the earlier rounds, McEnroe reached the final without meeting one seeded player. Throughout the tournament he had been trying to get his service under control as well as his temperament.

... but McEnroe returned the volley and took the title away from Borg.

In the finals it all came right. "I picked the right match to serve well," he said.

McEnroe served steadily throughout the match and got almost 60 percent of his first serves in.

Borg's rate was well below 50 percent in the first two sets, but he finished with an overall average of 52 percent.

Borg was the man with the reputation for winning the big points. But on this occasion it was McEnroe who won them.

McEnroe, the 13th American to win Wimbledon since World War II, won $43,000. Borg earned $21,500.

But McEnroe could lose one third of his winnings if the Men's International Professional Tennis Council imposes the fines recommended by the All-England Club following scenes on court in previous rounds.

The committee fined McEnroe $1,500 after his first-round match against Tom Gullikson, when he disputed line calls and had a fiery clash with tournament referee Fred Hoyle.

It fined him another $750 for incidents in a doubles match, when he accused a turban-clad umpire of being biased in favor of his opponents, Vijay and Anand Amritraj of India. The committee recommended to the MIPC a further fine of $2,500.

There was more trouble from McEnroe's semifinal against Rod Frawley of Australia.

The champion had scarcely come off the center court with his trophy Saturday when the committee announced it was recommending a further fine of $10,000 for the semifinals scenes.

If the fines are confirmed and total more than $10,000, McEnroe could be suspended from Grand Prix events for three weeks.

They should have set off firecrackers, sung a few strains of "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and hoisted the Stars and Stripes over Wimbledon's famed Centre Court Saturday.

It was a near all-American sweep on a glorious Fourth of July as the Yanks captured four of the five major titles plus both junior singles championships — the country's greatest day here since 1939.

John McEnroe of New York City, proudly wearing his U.S.A. red, white and blue Davis Cup warm-up suit, set the tenor by breaking the five-year reign of Sweden's Bjorn Borg in the men's singles 4-6, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4.

"That was a victory for America, John McEnroe and Independence Day," the American champion exulted afterward.

On Friday, he had teamed with Peter Fleming to gain the men's doubles over fellow Americans Stan Smith and Bob Lutz just after Chris Evert Lygd had won her third ladies' crown by beating Czechoslovakia's spectacular Hana Mandlikova 6-2, 6-2.

Pam Shriver of Baltimore, Md., and Martina Navratilova, an adopted daughter from Czechoslovakia who defected to the United States in 1975, won the ladies' doubles, beating another U.S. team, Kathy Jordan and Ann Smith.

Goodyear tires return to the French Grand Prix race track

DIJON, France (AP) — With half the 1981 world championship season completed, a familiar factor has returned to the sport at the French Grand Prix. Tire competition is back.

The French Michelin company equipped virtually all the cars, including all the top competitors, since Goodyear pulled out last December when it became disgusted with the sport's internal warfare.

With strictly equal tires, the Williams' team led the championship, and all eyes were on the rise of the turbocharged engines led by Ferrari, winner of the past two races.

It had almost been forgotten that tire choice can move a car from the front of the grid well down the field and make it up to two full seconds per lap off the pace.

Now, Goodyear has returned, saying the situation is more stable and that European dealers were anxious for the company to regain its sporting image. They are equipping only the Williams and Brabham teams, with Italy's Pirelli and Britain's Avon also in the competition and Japanese companies reportedly looking on.

Goodyear, racing tire director Leo Mehl said that "we have a lot to make up technically because we have been away for seven years. Progress is so fast and cars change so quickly it really is a factor."

For that reason, or perhaps simply because a rain-washed morning practice prevented them trying various tires,

Williams and Brabham were off the pace in the one-hour afternoon qualifying period, itself cut in half by rain.

The top seven runners were on Michelins, led by John Watson of Britain in a McLaren, followed by the two Renaults, the two Ferraris and the fastest Lotus 87.

World championship leader Carlos Reutemann was eighth and Williams team leader and reigning champion Alan Jones 12th.

As the day ended, a drivers' delegation, including former champion Mario Andretti and Gilles Villeneuve of Canada, met for two hours with Jean-Marie Balestre, president of the International Auto Sport Federation. They were seeking the lifting of $5,000 fines imposed on each of 13 drivers for a startline protest at the Belgium Grand Prix in May.

The drivers left their cars on the grid, delaying the race for several minutes in a demand to have a greater say in the running of the sport.

No statements were issued by either side, but Balestre said in a radio interview that he believed the drivers should have a greater voice and he would work to that end.

Big Spring oldtimers in local doubleheader

Juan Garcia, Big Spring's "grand old man" of sandlot baseball, will be honored in a ceremony prior to a doubleheader scheduled at Steer Park this afternoon.

The Big Spring Oldtimers, most of whom played for the Big Spring Tigers, will clash with a younger team of sandlotters at 2:30 p.m. The game likely will go three or four innings.

The feature attraction will follow. It pits the Big Spring Angels against the Big Spring Red Sox.

Garcia, once one of the slickest-fielding first basemen in West Texas, is now 82 years of age and remains an avid baseball fan.

A long-time employee of the Texas and Pacific Railway, Garcia is retired. He played with the old Tigers before and after World War II.

At that time, the Tigers were West Texas' most successful sandlot teams. Year in and year out, they won more than 90 percent of their games.

Carlos Romine of El Paso and Andrew (Popeye) Santillan, Fort Worth, have both come in for the oldtimers contest.

Others who will be here for the festivities include Rosendo Santillan, Rito Gomez, Sonny Dutchover, Joe Puga, Augustin (Gus) Fierro Sr., Pat Martinez Sr., Charlie Fierro, Joe Martinez, Joe Cadenhead, Benny Marquez, Tom Arista, Nacho Rodriguez, Raul Rodriguez and Tony Fierro.

Performing for the younger club will be Chico Rubio, Benito Rubio, Mingo Rubio, Gil Guerra, Felix Perez, Pano Rodriguez, Poncho Mendez and Willie Mendoza.

The Angels will carry a 12-2 record onto the field against the Red Sox. Felix Martinez manages the Angels while Billy Diaz masterminds the Red Sox, who are 10-3.

One of the Red Sox players is Billy Pineda, a second baseman who has been playing sandlot ball here since 1966.

Tule Rodriguez, another one-timer Tiger, will be deprived of the chance to play due to illness.

THE DUKE — Another oldtimer seen on the mound is the fabled Sandy Koufax, who was a pitching coach with the Los Angeles Dodgers until a problem came up. Now that the strike has given him some spare time, Koufax has returned to the mound — for the Albuquerque Dukes, the Dodgers' top farm club. He spent the past week helping the Dukes pitching staff with some tips as only Koufax can give them.

Tennis — It used to be the sport of gentlemen

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Tennis, once the sport of gentlemen, has become the brawling pit for rebellious ruffians. The culprits in the dramatic change of face: big money, player arrogance and absence of iron-fisted authority.

The game is moving close to court anarchy. Even staid, stuffy old Wimbledon has not been able to escape the angry, unbridled tantrums of the independent-minded "nouveau riche" of the professional tour.

John McEnroe's repeated outbursts during the past two weeks, resulting in warnings and fines — not to mention disruption of play — has only served to bring the troublesome issue into sharper focus.

The volatile racket genius from New York City is neither the first nor the worst.

There have been more objectionable villains in the past — Ilie Nastase of Romania and American Jimmy Connors, to be more specific — but McEnroe's antics in this sacred cradle of the game has aroused an escalation of demands that the sport be returned to some form of sanity.

The mushrooming of teen-age "Superbrats," emerging from the jungle of the junior circuit and mimicking the most disgusting traits of Nastase, Connors and McEnroe, has brought about some somber reflection in the highest circles.

"We are very concerned about the behavior of players in tournaments," said Earl "Butch" Buchholz, former U.S. Davis Cup star and now executive director of the Association of Tennis Professionals. "It is getting worse and worse."

"Actually, the players on the (Men's International Professional) Council (the highest authority in the sport) keep trying to strengthen the penalties against infractions. But the promoters and the members of the ITF (International Tennis Federation) are against it."

"They are afraid that a quick disqualification could knock a top star out of a tournament and hurt the game. McEnroe is a prime example. No one would think of expelling him since he is a main attraction."

The Council, formed primarily to administer the game and deal with violators of proper court decorum, is a nine-man body composed of three player representatives, three from promoter's ranks and three from the ITF.

A spokesman for the Council acknowledged that there is a hesitancy to be too harsh when the attraction is threatened.

"Remember," said one high ITF member who asked not to be identified, "you have TV commitments and tickets sold to the fans. If you took away a guy like McEnroe before he gained the finals, there would be all hell to pay."

Renshaw replaced as Tornado coach

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Tornado coach Mike Renshaw has been relieved of his duties, General Manager Kent Kramer announced late Saturday.

Assistant Coach Peter Short took over immediately as interim head coach of the North American Soccer League team for the remainder of the current season, Kramer said.

"As a person, Mike is one of the most enthusiastic and enjoyable people I have met in sports — a real super individual — but there came a time when we had to separate our personal feelings for Mike from the fact," Kramer said.

The Tornado is in the midst of a North American Soccer League record 17-game losing streak, and in last place in the NASL Central Division with a 2-18 mark. The team hosted the Edmonton Drillers Saturday only a few hours after Renshaw was relieved.

Kramer said he informed Renshaw of the decision Saturday. The team was told of the change by Kramer at a player's meeting earlier in the day, he said.

Renshaw was a Tornado player for eight years and was an assistant coach for three seasons before being named head coach on Nov. 6, 1980.

Short, 36, is a Liverpool, England native who is now an American citizen. He also had Tornado ties during his 11-year NASL playing career that included two different seasons in Dallas, in 1969 and 1974.

Short was named assistant coach for Dallas in March, 1980. He was previously assistant coach and later director of player personnel under Rinus Michels with the Los Angeles Aztecs over three seasons.

Bill Rogers takes two-shot lead after three rounds of the Western Open golf tourney

LIFTOFF — Greg Powers of Tallahassee, Fla., blasts out of the trap on the fourth hole during the third round of Western Open golf action yesterday. Bill Rogers leads the tourney with a six-under-par 66.

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Bill Rogers fired six birdies and carded a 6-under-par 66 Saturday, calling it one of his best rounds in seven years as a pro, to take a two-shot lead after three rounds of the Western Open golf tournament.

"If the weather (rain) didn't get Butler National, I did," he said. "You could throw the ball right at the pins today. I did. And I'm going to be aggressive again tomorrow," said Rogers, who lost the 1978 Western in a playoff to Andy Bean.

Rogers, the Heritage winner and U.S. Open runnerup this year, stood at 206, 8-under-par on this suburban Chicago course, regarded as one of the PGA Tour's severest tests. He was two shots ahead of Ed Fiori, who shot 69 for 210.

With midway leader Greg Powers faltering, the 29-year-old Texan took over the sole lead on the 13th hole, well after CBS-TV had ended its coverage. He never let up against the 7,097-yard Butler National Golf Club course.

His round was only one shot shy of the course record of 65 posted by David Graham and John Lister in 1975.

Tied for third, three shots in arrears, were Don Pooley, Jim Simons, Jim Colbert and Powers. They were at 211 after the round that was delayed three hours because of rain.

Colbert fashioned a 70, Colbert 71, Pooley 73 and Powers 75, catching consecutive double bogeys and surrendering the lead with a front side of 42.

Powers, a 35-year-old non-winner, saw his two-shot edge after 36 holes evaporate early. He bogeyed two of the first five holes and then hit approach shots into Salt Creek for his double bogeys at six and seven.

Jack Nicklaus, the sport's all-time money champion and winner of 68 titles, including this event twice, was well off the pace. Nicklaus used a different putter in the third round for five birdies, a 70 and a total of 217.

Nicklaus still believed he had a shot at overhauling Rogers. "But it means I have to shoot a low round tomorrow, maybe 65 or 66," he said.

Lee Trevino and Tom Watson were even in worse shape. Trevino ballooned to a 77 and stood at 221. Watson, with a triple bogey among his first five holes, slipped to a 75-223.

Rogers did not have a bogey. His birdies came at 1, 2, 8, 13, 16 and 17.

"It was one of my best rounds ever," he said. "I missed only two greens and saved par on those. I missed four other chances for birds, too."

A 30-minute downpour dumped more than half an inch of rain on the course, flooding the reseeded greens and leading to the long delay.

Portions of the last round Sunday in the $300,000 tournament, with a first prize of $54,000, will be televised by CBS.

Stephenson, Bradley tie for lead in ladies' golf classic

DORION, Quebec (AP) — Jan Stephenson and defending champion Pat Bradley shot two-under-par 70s Saturday and remained tied for the lead after three rounds of the Ladies Professional Golf Association's $200,000 Peter Jackson Classic.

The two golfers have three-round scores of 205 over the 6,287-yard Summerlea Golf Club course, which was soaked by heavy rain as Stephenson and Bradley completed their 14th and 15th holes.

Janet Coles and Patty Hayes are tied for second, four strokes back. Coles, who shared the first-round lead, carded a 3-under-par 69, while Hayes posted a 71.

The best round of the day belonged to Nancy Lopez-Melton and Mardell Wilkins, who both recorded a 4-under-par 68. Melton, playing her best golf of the tournament, moved into a third-place tie with Jo Ann Washam. Both golfers are at 210, five strokes behind the leaders.

JoAnne Carner and Sandra Haynie share fourth place at 211.

Stephenson, seeking her first tournament victory in 15 months, trailed Bradley by one stroke until the ninth hole, a 380-yard, par-4 she birdied.

The Australian took a one-stroke lead at the 365 yard, No. 10, which she parred and Bradley bogeyed. Stephenson maintained her edge until the 16th, where she two-putted from about three feet.

The erratic putt cost Stephenson a par and she had to settle for her only bogey of the round.

On the 13th hole, Stephenson missed her only green of the day, landing in a bunker to the right. She blasted short out of the trap, but salvaged a par with a 10-foot putt.

Bradley, who collected three birdies and bogeyed only one hole, lost a bid for a birdie on the 16th hole when her eight-foot downhill putt caught the edge of the cup and rolled inches beyond the hole.

Neither of the leaders seemed to be affected by the downpour that dampened the greens.

Lopez-Melton, inconsistent for most of the tournament, finally began to put her game together over the final nine holes, collecting four birdies, including three in a row on the 15th through 17th holes.

Handicapped climbers make their jubilant return from the top of Mount Rainier

By JOHN MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

PARADISE, WASH. (AP) — A jubilant group of handicapped climbers returned from their conquest of 14,410-foot Mount Rainier on Saturday, applauded and cheered by well-wishers who lined the final snowy reaches of the trail.

The climbers reached Paradise Lodge at about 1 p.m. PDT, ending a trek that began Wednesday and climaxed two days later with nine handicapped people reaching the mountain's frozen summit.

'There's one for the epileptics!' he cried when he reached the summit.

But before they got back, the climbers faced a moment of terror on their descent when chunks of ice thundered down the mountain near a spot where 11 climbers lost their lives last month.

"We all reached our limits," said Richard Rose, 36, of Vancouver, Wash., an epileptic who triumphantly hollered, "There's one for the epileptics!" when he reached the summit.

Jim Whittaker, expedition leader and the first American atop Mount Everest, said: "This mountain is a hard mountain... We were lucky on two accounts. We had good weather and we had a hell of a team."

Justin McDevitt, 29, of Rosemont, Pa., who is blind, said: "It was an exhilarating experience... There were times when I just about gave up."

He added, "The outcome of this climb will be felt by disabled people all over the world to meet new challenges."

The nine handicapped climbers who reached the summit included five blind people, two who are deaf, an epileptic and a man with an artificial leg.

Originally, 11 handicapped climbers, seven guides and expedition officials and two reporters set out on the climb, but two climbers did not join the assault on the peak.

Spectators at the lodge were almost as jubilant as the climbers themselves. One woman, who watched the handicapped mountaineers troop down the trail in triumph, exclaimed, "It's the highlight of my life just to see you come down that hill!"

Another woman ran up to a pack-laden climber, threw her arm around him and exclaimed, "Great job!"

Hole-in-one reported

Guil Jones tells The Herald he made his fourth hole-in-one on the 170-yard seventh hole at the Big Spring Country Club yesterday.

He says he had five witnesses.

Playing in another group on the same course, Mike Hall reportedly made his first ace on the 165-yard 13th hole using an eight-iron.

There were four witnesses to the event.

U.S.-Soviet track meet resumes July 10

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — World 400-meter hurdles record-holder Edwin Moses heads a U.S. track and field team which assembled Friday in New York before leaving for a dual meet July 10-11 in the Soviet Union.

After a two-year lapse during preparations for the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, the U.S.-Soviet series resumes in Leningrad.

ABC-TV has scheduled same-day coverage of the meet. The American team was chosen by The Athletics Congress, the governing body for track and field in the United States, from its outdoor championships two weeks ago in Sacramento, Calif. The team leaves Sunday for Helsinki and will travel to Leningrad the next day.

This will be the 17th dual meet between the United States and the Soviet Union but the first since 1978, when the American men and women combined for a 190-177 victory at Berkeley, Calif. The meet was cancelled in 1979 and 1980, a U.S. reaction to the Soviet presence in Afghanistan.

There also were no meets in the Olympic years of 1960, 1968 and 1972 and in 1966-67 the Soviets refused to compete, protesting U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Overall, the American men hold an 11-5 edge in the series that began in 1958. The Soviet women have won 15 of 16 previous meets.

Moses, the 1976 Olympic champion from Mission Viejo, Calif., also won the 400-meter hurdles in the U.S.-Soviet dual meet that year. Other American entries this year include U.S. record-holders Willie Banks in the triple jump and Brian Oldfield in the shot put. Oldfield, a 1972 Olympian, broke the U.S. shot put record in the recent California Relays with a heave of 72 feet, 3 inches, the second-best mark in history.

The team also includes six other men's and seven women's U.S. champions — Jeff Phillips, 200 meters; Cliff Wiley, 400; Greg Foster, 110 hurdles; Jim Heiring, 20-kilometer walk; Billy Olson, pole vault; Bruce Kennedy, javelin; Denean Howard, 400; Madeline Manning, 800; Brenda Webb, 3,000; Stephanie Hightower, 100 hurdles; Denise Wood, shot put; Leslie Deniz, discus, and Karin Smith, javelin.

There have been 19 world records set in this meet over the years, 10 by Americans.

Football rules clinic set for Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — A 1981 Football Rules Clinic will be offered July 24-26 by the Texas Tech University Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and Division of Continuing Education.

The clinic will deal with the latest changes and applications of National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) football rules which also apply to Texas high school football. The clinic also will cover the mechanics of officiating.

Conducting the clinic will be John Adams, chairman of the NCAA Football Rules Committee and supervisor of officials for the Western Athletic Association, and Dotson Lewis, executive director of the Southwest Officials Association and supervisor of officials for the Southwest Conference.

Check-in is 6:30 to 7 p.m. July 24 in the El Centro Area of the Home Economics Building and is followed by an optional film session. There will be two rules sessions July 25 and a mechanics of good officiating session and a clinic wrap-up July 26. Classes will meet in Rooms 111 and 169 of the Home Economics Building.

Registration for participants seeking credit through the Texas Tech Division of Continuing Education is $30. Participants seeking one hour of graduate extension credit pay $30. The workshop also counts three points on the 1981 Southwest Officials Association Summary Sheet. Deadline for enrollment and fee payment is July 20.

For additional information or to register, contact Nancy Schalk, Division of Continuing Education, Box 4110, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79409, or call (806) 742-2404.

AREA SOFTBALL
Sonora slowpitch tourney

SONORA — The annual Whiz Slowpitch Open Softball Tournament will be held here July 31, Aug. 1 and 2. Entry fee is $85 per team. Two defeats will be required to eliminate a team.

Entries and fees should be mailed to Whiz, Box 934, Sonora, Texas 76950. Notices of entry also can be called in to Mike Kropp at 915-387-5619.

Each member of the first-place team will get a windbreaker. Those on the second-place club earn a tee-shirt and playing shorts. Tee-shirts will go to players on the third-place contingent.

In addition, the 10 members on the all-tournament team will receive for baseball caps while the Most Valuable Player will get a bomb bat and glove.

A home run hitting contest will be held in conjunction with the three-day event.

The tournament is named for the organization sponsoring the event, the "Whiz Kids."

Police-Fire-KMID
charity softball match

There will be charity softball games in Big Spring on July 11 when the local Fire Department and Police Department join the KMID-TV squad in some charity matches.

The three teams are becoming regulars at promoting and playing charity slow-pitch softball contests. In the July 11 affair, local businesses will donate items such as ceiling fans and other household goods to be auctioned later to the public.

There also will be a bucket passed around.

The July 11 affair will be for the Firemen's Relief Fund, which is set up to help people when they need help the most. When a house has burned, for example, the Firemen's Relief Fund will be able to write the victims a check to purchase clothing, food, etc.

So, while the major league players strike, check out the local baseball action. No one loses when it's a charity game.

Odessa women begin
slowpitch invitational

The Odessa Women's Softball Association will hold their 1st Annual Slowpitch Invitational Tournament on the weekend of July 25-26, with each team guaranteed to play three games.

The entry fee is $80 per team, with the deadline July 18. Teams must limit their rosters to 15 players.

Trophies will be awarded to the first four teams in the 1st division, while 2nd division teams will be awarded for the top three.

Individual trophies will go to the first two teams in each division.

There will be All-Star and MVP honors in each division, as well as a Golden Glove and Home Run Queen honors.

Anyone wishing to enter may send their money to Richard Siler at 3807 Blossom Lane, Odessa 79762, or call (915) 362-1392.

CAMP OF CHAMPS

The first of two weeks of the annual Harold Wilder's Basketball Camp of Champs starts this afternoon when girls from Texas and New Mexico gather on the campus of Howard College.

The first week will be the girls' camp, while the boys will occupy the college the second week. Both camps are more than full, according to Wilder.

"It's to the point that we've had to turn some people away," said Wilder. "I can't believe how popular this has become."

Wilder added that the usual trip that picks up campers in the Houston area will once again make the trek. Campers are expected from Houston, Sugarland, Spring, Brazosport and Brazoswood.

Among those helping Wilder conduct the popular basketball camp are David Middleton, who coached the Texas High School Coaches All-Star game two years ago, as well as Forsan's Ron Taylor, Big Spring's Mike Randle, and ex-Hawk Queen Susan Martin, who now plays at Angelo State, and others.

Temptation to border town tourists

Smuggled exotic birds carry danger of disease

El Paso, Texas (AP) — The open-air food market in Ciudad Juarez, where street vendors sell brightly colored birds, is a temptation to border town tourists. Officials trying to keep the birds out of the city say they do all they can to catch birds being smuggled across the bridges over the river. But they believe some birds are brought in through the city.

Law enforcement requires exotic birds to be quarantined for 30 days. If they do not pass the disease test, they are sent to a humane society. Birds smuggled into the city can be a danger to the public, officials say. They are often sold to children and people who do not know how to care for them.

The birds are readily available in most border cities. A recent stroll through the downtown food market in Juarez found three vendors with their stacks of cages filled with parrots, parakeets, canaries and finches. Two of the vendors who were partners had about 20 birds at their spot on the busy sidewalk. Another had about 15.

The vendors are quick to show their wares to visiting gringos, but are suspicious when too many questions are asked.

One vendor told two reporters he had never sold birds to Americans. But later, his partner said, "We just sell them. We don't know what happens to them."

Firing of the questions, the vendors simply picked up their stacks of cages and walked away. Minutes later, they had returned to their favorite spot on the sidewalk.

Another vendor showed reporters posing as potential buyers how to smuggle the birds through the checkpoints on the bridges. He tore small airholes in a paper sack, stuffed a green parrot inside and rolled the sack into a small bundle.

"He will make no noise for four or five hours," the vendor said, holding the bundle up for inspection. "You put it under the seat, he's even quieter."

Unfortunately for customs officials, the smuggling system often works, according to Dr. Edson Backey, port veterinarian in El Paso.

"We got 11 this month, which is a fairly good number for one month," Backey said. "But there's probably twice as many getting through without us catching them."

John A. Vigil, assistant officer in charge of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service here, said because they must keep traffic flowing on the bridges between El Paso and Juarez, inspectors can't search every car.

He said the inspectors watch for signs that indicate bird smuggling and search those cars more thoroughly.

"They usually give some type of indication," Vigil said. "They'll hold their purse right up to them or they won't get out of the car. You have to know people. You develop that knack."

"We ask them if they have any birds and 99 percent of the time, they'll say no," he said. "That's when we send them to the secondary inspection point for a closer search."

Vigil said most of the time the birds are found in the usual hiding places — the glove compartment, under a seat, under a passenger's clothing.

"The key one is in a purse," he said. "Probably 75 percent of the time, that's where they are."

Sometimes, the hideouts for the birds are more exotic. On display at the customs office is a large wooden model of a Spanish ship that is the source of one of the inspectors' favorite stories.

Vigil said an inspector recently arrived from California was telling two recruits that items such as the ship have secret compartments for smuggling. He lifted the model's deck and, to his surprise found two parrots.

"It's a game of them trying to beat us and us trying to catch them," Vigil said.

But it's a high-stakes game, according to Backey and literature distributed by the Department of Agriculture.

"The ones that are smuggled in—if they're sick—could bring a lot of disease over with them," Backey said.

Backey runs the quarantine station where birds being brought into the country legally are held for 45-60 days while they are tested for Newcastle's disease.

"It costs $80 to run them through the quarantine station," the veterinarian said. "Some people must just feel it's not worth the investment and try to smuggle them in."

Chief Customs inspector Andrew Towndrow said most birds smuggled into the country are brought in by tourists who either don't know or don't care about the dangers of disease.

"It's more or less a personal-type venture rather than commercial," he said.

Tourists wanting a new pet can have a Yellow Head parrot for about $40 in Juarez. Parakeets, canaries and other birds cost much less.

Prices for Yellow Heads on the other side of the border are about $500, said Sybil Hutson, owner of Fin and Feather of El Paso. She said prices on Green Amazon parrots — less than $60 in Juarez — begin at $200 in El Paso.

Mrs. Hutson said she has heard of bird dealers buying smuggled birds, but she said she gets her birds from wholesalers.

"Occasionally, people will call and try to sell us a bird," she said. "I tell them, 'No way. I don't want any birds in here that haven't been through quarantine.' One sick bird could cost us $15,000 worth of birds."

The Agriculture Department says South American birds that were not quarantined caused an epidemic of Newcastle's disease in Southern California poultry flocks in 1971. About 12 million birds were killed before the epidemic was halted at a cost of $56 million, the department said.

CHESAPEAKE, Va. (AP) — Linwood Cahoon, 77, and Rosa May Smith, 60, were marrying today in the Camelot Hall Nursing Home cafeteria.

They first met, in the dining hall, about six weeks ago. A burly man with a penchant for flirting, Cahoon is a stroke victim unable to walk or use his left arm. Mrs. Smith is quiet but quick with a comeback. A diabetic, she lost her left leg after a stroke and can't use her left arm, either.

It was love at first sight. "Yes, I believe in that,"

Cahoon said, glancing at Mrs. Smith. "I reckon it was," she said.

Cahoon doesn't believe in long courtships. He proposed in the day room about three weeks ago. "He asked me did I love him," Mrs. Smith recalled. "I said I guess so, and he said, well let's get married then."

Their romance has infused other residents with a new enthusiasm. "Everybody that talks to me about it is jubilant," said Melvin R. Brickhouse, the Baptist minister who was selected to perform the ceremony.

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court likely will uphold the military's ban on homosexuals. The ruling would mean several dozen of the military's gay members would be discharged.

But other military officials say the ban is unconstitutional. They say it violates the Equal Rights Amendment.

As in the past, the military has been divided on the issue. Some officials believe the ban is necessary to maintain the morale and discipline of the armed forces. Others believe it is discriminatory and should be abolished.

The Supreme Court's decision is expected to be issued in the next few months. It will have a significant impact on the lives of many military personnel.

Presidential Classics announced

Story by Tina Miller
Photos by David Partlow

In 1977, Howard College established the Presidential Classics, a scholarship program for the college's co-ed students. The college was one of the first to establish such a program, and each year between eight and ten young women are selected to represent the college as a classic.

According to Mary Dudley, Dean of Admissions and supervisor of the program, the classics act as official hostesses at college functions, represent the district at community events, conduct tours of the campus, assist with recruiting and registration for fall and spring semesters and represent the college at selected out-of-town events. "They are the special emissaries of Charles Hayes, college president," she stated, "and our standards are high for those we choose to represent us."

There are several requirements for becoming a member of the prestigious group. "Our selection is based on both academic and extra-curricular activities," stated Mrs. Dudley. "We require that the classics maintain at least a 'B' average and carry a load of at least 15 hours each semester. A high academic average indicates a strong student whose studies will not suffer as a result of missing a few days because of an out-of-town trip. Also, each of the young women must have the recommendation of her high school counselor or principal."

Those who are chosen as classics must also display poise, neatness, attractiveness, a congenial personality, and have the ability to make presentations before groups.

The rewards for being a Presidential Classic are well worth the stringent requirements and many duties that each girl performs. The benefits include a scholarship for fees, books, room and $50 toward board for those who live in the dorm (for those not living in the dorm, the scholarship covers fees, books, and $100); two sets of clothes, one formal and one casual, to wear when representing the district; local and state publicity and special features in the college annual; any expenses incurred on trips when representing the district; and the prestige and honor of being a member of this highly select group.

SHARIE SHAW

This year's classics consist of eight young women, six from Big Spring High School and two from Coahoma. They are Sherri Blalack, Debbie Fulcher, Lori Beth Phinney, Sharie Shaw, Jamie Sink, Brenda Trevino, Cathy Weeks and Beverly Wheeler.

Sherri Blalack, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Blalack, is a graduate of Big Spring High School. While attending BSHS, she was active in Tri-Hi-Y, French Club, participated in the band as a twirler and in the color guard, and was selected as a Key Club Calendar Girl. Her hobbies include water skiing, twirling, racquetball and swimming, and she plans to major in advertising. Miss Blalack stated, "I wanted to be a classic in order to represent Howard College and make a good impression for the school."

Another classic who graduated from BSHS is Debbie Fulcher, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Fulcher. Her high school activities included Meistersingers, varsity tennis team, Tri-Hi-Y, student council representative, Key Club Calendar Girl, and freshman, junior varsity and varsity cheerleader. Her probable college major is elementary education, and her hobbies include singing, tennis, swimming, water and snow skiing and most other outdoor sports. "I enjoy meeting new people and being an achiever," she said. "As a Presidential Classic I can do both, and I am greatly honored to represent Howard College."

A former Coahoma High School

cheerleader and student council officer, Lori Beth Phinney plans to major in psychology. Miss Phinney, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Phinney. Her other high school activities included track, basketball, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, (FCA), and University Interscholastic League prose reading and short-hand contests. She lists her hobbies as singing, playing the piano, jogging, racquetball and all outdoor sports. "I want to be involved in Howard College and its activities," she stated. "By being a classic, I will be involved and also represent the college."

Cooking, reading, tennis, bicycling and collecting wicker are the favorite spare-time activities of Sharie Shaw. Miss Shaw, 17, is also a graduate of Coahoma High School, where she was involved in tennis, cheerleading, debating, FCA and the Office Education Association (OEA). "I want to be involved in the college," she said, "and it will be a good way to get to know a lot of people." Her future plans include a major in elementary education.

Jamie Sink, 19, is the group's only sophomore and returning classic. Her experience will place her in the leadership position of this year's group. Miss Sink is the daughter of Mrs. Andrea Sink and a graduate of BSHS. While in high school, she was involved in band, choir, the pep squad and Future Homemakers of America (FHA). Her current hobbies are playing the piano, softball, bicycling and exercising. "I enjoyed all the activities of being a classic last year," she said, "and I am very glad the college has chosen me to represent them again this year."

The opportunity to represent the college and meet new people are the reasons Big Spring High School graduate Brenda Trevino wanted to be a Presidential Classic. Miss Trevino, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Trevino Jr., and her hobbies are sewing, dancing and all sports. Her numerous high school activities included the National Honor Society, Spanish Club, OEA, varsity cheerleader, Key Club Calendar Girl, volleyball, basketball, track, and Homecoming Queen. Her planned college major is accounting.

A degree in interior decorating is the goal of Cathy Weeks, another graduate of BSHS. Miss Weeks, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Weeks. She names her hobbies as jogging, aerobics, racquetball and music, and her high school activities were Meistersingers, French Club, National Honor Society and Tri-Hi-Y. "I would like to attain certain goals while attending Howard College," stated Miss Weeks. "I believe that representing the college as a classic will help fulfill these goals because being active in school is very important."

Beverly Wheeler, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Wheeler, completes the list of this year's Presidential Classics. Miss Wheeler is a graduate of BSHS and plans to major in elementary education. While in high school, she was involved in FHA, the band, Meistersingers, Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y (Youth in Government), a Key Club Calendar Girl and a member of "His Children", a singing group at First Baptist Church. Her interests are in singing, dancing, sewing, cake decorating, modeling, sports and meeting people. "The classics is a very reputable organization," she stated, "and I am very honored to be a part of them and a part of Howard College."

"We are very proud to announce these young women as this year's Presidential Classics," concluded Mrs. Dudley. "We believe that they are an asset to the campus with their high standards and leadership qualities."

MRS. KENTON HENRY FISH

University chapel rite unites couple Saturday

Dr. and Mrs. Kenton Henry Fish are on a wedding trip to Great Exuma in the Bahamas following their marriage Saturday afternoon in the Margarite B. Parker Chapel at Trinity University, San Antonio.

The couple exchanged vows and rings before a cross flanked by two bouquets of white and yellow gardenias and candelabra enhanced by English ivy, officiated by Bishop Harold C. Gosnell.

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Shackelford, San Antonio, are the parents of the bride, the former Anne Marr Shackelford. The bridegroom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. John H. Fish, 907 Mountain Park Dr.

Dr. Walter Pyrone, San Antonio, performed traditional wedding selections at the organ.

The bride chose to wear a floor-length gown featuring a fitted bodice with a Queen Anne neckline embellished with Alencon lace and fastened with tiny covered buttons down the back. Full length accordion pleated sleeves ended in long, Chantilly double embroidered lace cuffs. The skirt featured a small area of beadwork and lace at the front hemline peeking out from under the chiffon top skirt which flowed gracefully into a chapel length train. An Alencon lace beaded caplet held the waltz length veil of illusion edged in lace. The bride also wore an heirloom pearl necklace.

Response to fatigue is important to professionals

DURHAM, N.C. — Some individuals thrive on long hours and others suffer from being overworked. An article in the June issue of Dental Economics reports on a study involving 15 successful and healthy professionals who worked at least 60 hours weeks.

The healthy professionals were able to recognize and respond promptly to evidence of fatigue.

Rite in parents' home unites couple

Vows were exchanged in a garden ceremony Saturday evening between Susan Lawlis and Rocky Blake Dyer. Rev. Phillip McClendon, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist Church, officiated the 7:30 ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawlis, 2401 Brent. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Dyer, 1701 Aylford.

The bride chose to wear a street-length dress in colors of baby blue and white. She carried a nosegay of fresh flowers in spring colors.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a barbecue at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Big Spring High School, and attended Howard College and Odessa College. She is currently employed as assistant landman for Leede Exploration in Midland.

The groom is a 1972 graduate of Big Spring High School and is presently employed as the sales coordinator for Spincote in Odessa.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will make their home in Midland.

MR. AND MRS. ROCKY BLAKE DYER

Bride-elect is honored with wedding shower

The home of Ms. Judy Bumgarner was the scene of a bridal shower Saturday honoring Kim Preston, bride-elect of Jay Phinney.

Honored guests were mothers of the couple, Mrs. John Preston and Mrs. Ricky Phinney who received corsages of yellow daisies along with the honoree and grandmothers, Mrs. Dale Hitt, Memphis; Mrs. Clovis Phinney Sr., Coahoma and Mrs. J.M. Gore, Olney.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Carroll Husted; Mrs. Wayne Henry, Mrs. Herb Miller, Ms. Gayle Worthan, Mrs. Bob Cruson, Mrs. Dwayne Fraser, Mrs. Kirby Brown, Mrs. Tolbert Grisham, Mrs. Ellis Britton, Mrs. Wayne Speegle, Mrs. Bill Brooks, Mrs. Sid Smith, Mrs. Royce Walker and Mrs. Charles Camp.

The hostess gift was a vacuum cleaner. The couple will be married July 31 in the chapel of the First Baptist Church.

Control urges to snack with liquids or gum

You've been sticking to your diet and suddenly you have an uncontrollable urge to snack! What to do, what to do? Take a tip from weight-loss expert Richard Simmons in his current Family Circle magazine article, "3-Week Shapeover."

Simmons says in the magazine: Reach for a liquid instead of a solid. It's easier to digest and tends to give you a "full feeling" immediately. Or chew a piece of gum — it keeps your mouth busy. When you want to binge just before bedtime, mix 8 oz. warm water, the juice of a freshly squeezed lemon and a teaspoon of honey into a mug. Sip slowly.

MRS. DAVID M. LEYVA

Home rite unites couple June 26

Sharon M. Payne and David M. Leyva were wed in a ceremony June 26 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Leyva, parents of the groom, 4110 Parkway, Bob West, justice of the peace, officiated the rite.

Refugia Hernandez, 1001 Stadium, is the bride's mother.

The bride chose to wear a floor length white silk gown featuring a square neckline and elbow length capelet, trimmed in lace. The veil was of waist-length bridal illusion held by a bandeau and edged in lace. A cascading bouquet of white silk carnations and roses completed the bridal attire.

Dolores Cisneroz served as maid of honor. Joseph L. Leyva served his brother as best man.

A reception in the home honoring the couple was held immediately after the ceremony. A two-tiered cake was served with punch.

The bride is a student at Big Spring High School and an employee at Walls Industries Inc.

The groom is a graduate of Ruddyard Township High School, Ruddyard, Mich. and is a Safeway employee.

The couple are at home in Big Spring.

Unusual milk facts are noted

The total yearly U.S. milk production in 1980 of 128.4 billion pounds would fill almost 2,000 buildings, each one of the capacity of Dairy Center with its 1 million cubic feet. It would take the daily output of more than 2 million cows to completely fill the Dairy Center in Rosemont, Illinois.

Considering the dairy cattle population — if all 10.815 million cows in the U.S. would stand side by side in a continuous straight line, it would stretch 3 1/2 times from Boston to San Diego.

If you stand the 10.815 million cows nose to tail, the line would stretch almost twice the road distance from Boston, along the East Coast to Miami, through Texas to San Diego, to Seattle, along the West Coast and back to Boston along the Canadian Border.

Beach towels perfect for beds

Throw in the towel if you're looking for a perfect bedspread for a youngster's bunk bed. According to a tip in the current Family Circle magazine, a large gaily colored beach towel is an ideal bedspread for kids — it won't wrinkle and is easy-washed.

Shoe care pays off

COLLEGE STATION — Shoe care pays off, especially if you've invested in quality to begin with, says Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist.

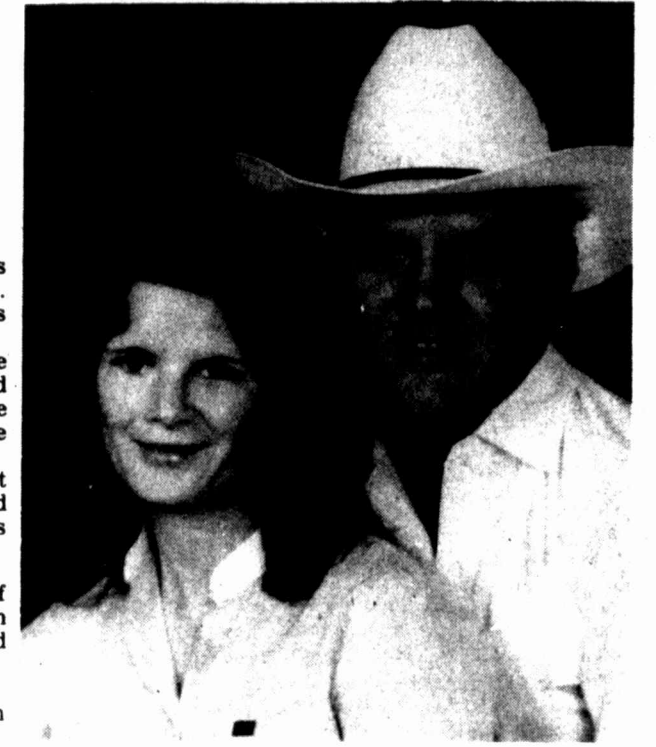

Ms. Vanderpoorten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Here are her "just-a-minute" shoe-care guidelines: After each wearing brush or wipe shoes with a clean cloth to remove soil. Dust or grit left on shoes, especially leather ones, works its way into the finish, dulling and marring it. Polish shoes after every five or six wearings to keep the color rich and the leather supple. Use a matching color or a neutral polish and buff to get a good shine.

Insert shoe trees into shoes to prevent toes from curling and wrinkling — and to allow free air circulation. For boots, use boot trees or rolled newspapers.

Alternate shoes instead of wearing the same pair every day. This will make shoes last longer, since it allows each pair to dry thoroughly before the next wearing.

Ease on shoes carefully. Use a shoehorn if needed to avoid breaking down the back of the shoe.

PLANS ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wheelon Middleton, 2808 Coronado, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Candance Wheelon, to Jacky Wayne Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill H. Brown, Breckenridge. The couple will exchange vows August 22 in the First Presbyterian Church, with Rev. William F. Henning, pastor of the church, officiating.

MRS. MARK LEONARD BOWDEN

Grant-Bowden unite in evening ceremony

The wedding vows of Donna Lee Grant to Mark Leonard Bowden were solemnized the evening of June 12 at Alamo Heights Baptist Church, Midland. Rev. Ken Gordon, associate pastor, officiated the exchange.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Rosa Grant, Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bowden, Rt. 3.

Beverly Mulcahey, Midland, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Debbie Adams, sister of the bride, and Barbara Hamilton, both of Midland.

John Mulcahey, Midland, was best man. Groomsmen were Don Mulkey and Bernie Hennis, Midland.

Sheila Bowden, sister of the groom, and Misty Offield, Midland, served as flower girls. Lee Edward Adams, nephew of the bride from Midland, was ring bearer.

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Bowden was held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately after the rite. The wedding cake was two-tiered. The groom's cake was a horseshoe-shaped chocolate.

The bride is an employee of Handy Dan. The groom is an employee of Baird's Bread Company.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple is at home in Midland.

Chemical is used to remove caffeine

How do they take the caffeine out of decaffeinated coffee?

They use a method developed at the turn of the century, says Cass Ryan-Crowe, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Basically, a chemical solvent, methylene chloride, is applied either directly to the bean, or hot water is applied with the solvent, and then the solvent separates the caffeine from the solution, the specialist explains.

Dr. Ryan-Crowe is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Dear Abby

Good Samaritan Finds Nothing But Ingratitude

DEAR ABBY: I have read your articles for years and you finally hit a topic that makes me see red. A man reported that he had found a wallet containing $140.

Twice I have found wallets, and once a checkbook (containing cash) in otherwise empty shopping carts. I personally delivered them to the owners. All three people counted their money and never even said "thanks." One even asked me why I hadn't turned in the wallet to the store!

As a hobby, I look for coins and jewelry with a metal locator and have found several class rings, some of which were very valuable. I read the lost-and-found ads in the newspaper and return whatever I find. Abby, would you believe, I have yet to receive a reward?

JOHN IN CLARENDON, ILL.

DEAR JOHN: "Virtue," it is said, "is its own reward." Your experience is surprising. Read on for another surprising letter on the same subject:

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old boy who found a woman's wallet in plain sight in the parking lot next to a supermarket. It had $127 in it and the owner's name and address. I got back on my bike and rode right over to the lady's house, which was about a mile away. She was just getting out of her car when I got there. I told her that I found her wallet, and she gave me a big hug. After I handed it to her, she looked through it, then she pulled out a $20 bill and gave it to me. I thanked her politely and went home.

That evening I told my parents about it and my father said, "I don't think you should have accepted $20 for doing what you should have done. A person shouldn't be rewarded for being honest."

After thinking about it, I realized that my father was right, so the next day I biked over to the lady's house and gave her back the $20. She didn't want to take it, but I told her she had to — that my father pointed out something to me that I had never realized before. She got tears in her eyes, then she crossed herself and said, "This is one for Ripley."

Abby, who is Ripley?

DENNIS IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR DENNIS: Robert Ripley wrote a famous column titled "Believe It or Not." Bless you. And thanks for a terrific column piece.

DEAR ABBY: Mr. X and I have been going together for two years. Although we don't have a wedding date set, it is understood that we will be married sometime in the future, which means we are "engaged," right? Here is the problem: When Mr. X receives an invitation from friends or family, for a party or wedding, it's always for "Mr. X and guest." This indicates that they don't care who he brings. In other words, they don't care whether I attend or not.

When I get invitations from my friends or family, my fiancé's name is always included along with mine, indicating that they want him.

When I complained to Mr. X, he said I was being immature to let it bother me and it was no big deal. Abby, to me it is a very big deal. Don't you agree that the "and guest" type of invitation my fiancé receives is an insult to me? And how should this be remedied?

JUST THE GUEST

DEAR GUEST: The "and guest" invitation indicates that your fiancé's friends and family may not be aware that he is officially engaged to you. And the obvious remedy is for him to set them straight. If he doesn't, perhaps you are not as "engaged" as you think you are.

MRS. MARK LANE ALLEN

Wesley Methodist is site of wedding

Tammy Moore became the bride of Mark Lane Allen, in a ceremony held in Wesley United Methodist Church the evening of June 15.

Vows were exchanged at 7 p.m. before two baskets of apricot, mintgreen and lilac spring flowers, officiated by Rev. W. O. Rucker Jr., pastor.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Moore, Gail Rt. and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Allen, Knott community.

Traditional wedding music was performed by Becky Stephens at the piano with vocal selections by Penny Moore.

The bride was accompanied down the aisle wearing a formal length gown featuring an Empire bodice and high neckline of lace with long sheer fitted sleeves. An A-line skirt swept into a cathedral length train edged in lace as was the cathedral length veil.

Officers installed, luncheon planned by Garden Club Council

The Council of Garden Clubs of Big Spring met at the home of Mrs. Odell Womack June 25. New officers were installed.

Mrs. Cass Hill, outgoing President, officiated the installation ceremony. New officers are: Mrs. Paul Guy, president; Mrs. Joy Fortenberry, treasurer; Mrs. Walter H. Christensen, secretary; Mrs. C.Y. Clink-

A cascading bridal bouquet of white silk carnations, lilac and mintgreen roses completed the bridal ensemble.

Donna Cantwell served as maid of honor and Jana Foresyth as bridesmaids.

David Pittman served his brother as best man. Steve Hanabass served as groomsmen and Jeff Land seated the guests.

Amanada Bradley was flower girl and Jason Pittman, ring bearer.

A reception honoring the couple was held in Fellowship Hall immediately following the ceremony. The bride's cake was two-tiered and the groom's cake a chocolate one. Serving guests were Brenda and Sherry Bryant, Josie Moore and Jane Cantwell.

The bride is a student at Big Spring High School and the groom is a graduate, employed by John Wilson Drilling Company.

Summer reading should be fun

Put down that self-improvement book. Forget the history of World War II for now. Aristotle and Plato can rest while the temperature surges toward the 100's.

"Summer reading should help people escape from the daily routine," says Mary Shapiro, a book buyer for the 700-store Waldenbooks chain.

Current summer reading fare, says Shapiro, includes mysteries, thrillers, adventures in exotic locales, voyeuristic glimpses into the boardrooms of large corporations, and tales of elegant sexual escapades, extravagant wealth and unscrupulous power.

What would summer reading be without a new Travis McGee novel? John D. MacDonald's 19th is "Free Fall in Crimson." Still grieving for Gretel, whom he lost in "The Green Ripper" (winner of the 1979 American Book Award for Best Mystery), McGee falls in love again as he investigates the death of plastics tycoon Ellis Esterland.

Admirers of Nicholas Freeling's Inspector Van Der Valk series will have triple help whiling away their poolside hours. They can join the unflappable, debonair Dutch police inspector in solving three new baffling cases in "Criminal Conversation," "Double Barrel" and "The Lovely Ladies."

Margaret Truman has followed up "Murder in the White House" with another in the same genre and locale. This time she focuses on the legislative branch in "Murder on Capitol Hill." The gripping plot follows attorney Lydia James' investigation of the murder of the Senate majority leader.

Author of "The Far Pavilions," M.M. Kaye spins yet another splendid tale of love and adventure on the Isle of Cloves — Zanzibar — just before the American Civil War. Passionate Athena Hollis' struggle to abolish slavery conflicts with her tumultuous love-hate relationship with an Irish slave ship captain in this sure-to-be best-seller.

In "Sirens," Eric Van Lustbader weaves an account of a bold and beautiful young actress who portrays a terrorized political hostage in a movie and finds the horror of the film reflected in her own life.

Richard Neely's "An Accidental Woman" is the compelling story of how shy, sweet Sara Vardon maneuvers her way to the top of New York's advertising world. The glamorous settings shift from New York to major European capitals, California beaches, and Caribbean resorts.

"Tuck a book in your bag whether you're off to the beach, the pool or the park," says Waldenbooks' Shapiro. "Winter will be with us soon enough. Now is the time to savor the pleasures of summer reading."

AUGUST NUPTIALS — Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bozeman, Jr., Coleman, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joyce Bozeman Griffith, Abilene, to Charles Edward Poissall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poissall, Rt. 3. The couple will marry August 1 at the Grace Lutheran Church in Abilene. Tommy Franklin, pastor of the Covenant Fellowship of Big Spring, will perform the ceremony.

New book helps families understand mental illness

SAN DIEGO, CA. — "Most patients can recover rapidly and fully from psychiatric illness," according to James R. Morrison, MD, the author of "Your Brother's Keeper." Dr. Morrison wrote the book primarily for families confronting psychiatric illness. He has found that family and friends can play an important role in the treatment of patients and believes they can help best when they understand about psychiatric disorders such as depression, mania and schizophrenia.

Dr. James R. Morrison is in private practice and is Associate Clinical Professor of Medicine at the University of California, San Diego.

Make brass look new COLLEGE STATION — Make brass look new by following a few cleaning suggestions, advises Mary Lou Rowland, a housing and home furnishings specialist. Scrub with very fine steel wool and full-strength household ammonia, rinse and then polish with brass polish, she says.

Mrs. Rowland is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Use this method to clean a brass door knocker: If possible, remove the knocker from the door. Let it stand in ammonia to get dirt out of the crevices, then polish with brass polish. To give a brass doorknob a permanent shine, clean as described, and then apply a couple of thin coats of clear spray-on lacquer, the specialist suggests.

For solid-brass trays that have tarnished and turned powdery green in places, scrub with straight household ammonia and very fine steel wool, also. If trays are plated brass, clean with a soft cloth and brass polish only.

Applying a clear spray-on lacquer will prevent future tarnishing, but you'll get a prettier, softer look if you finish the tray with brass polish.

Summer sun is culprit triggering herpes simplex

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Summer sun can contribute to cold sores and fever blisters an Ohio dermatologist, Jerome Z. Litt, MD, cautions anyone susceptible to use a sunscreening lip stick or cream before going out into the sun.

Cold sores and the fever blisters that develop from them affect an estimated 30,000,000 Americans. They are frequently recurring and the most common site is the lips, but other areas of the face may also become affected by the herpes virus.

There are several multipurpose remedies available at drug stores without a prescription that may help to relieve symptoms, according to Dr. Litt. There is also a new medication called Resolve which was developed especially for cold sores. Although reported effective at any stage of cold sore or fever blister, for best results it is recommended that the medicated gel be used at the very first sign, before the cold sore develops.

The Council set Oct. 3 for their Annual Salad Luncheon, the place to be announced at a later date. Tickets will be $3.75.

A Horticulture Show will be sponsored by the Council at Howard County Fair September. The public is invited to participate.

MRS. JAMES "BO" STRICKLAND

Vows are exchanged in San Angelo rite

Tammy L. Pettitt became the bride of James "Bo" Strickland in a Saturday evening ceremony at the Bentwood Country Club, San Angelo. Justice of the Peace Charlie Long performed the 6 p.m. ceremony before a brass archway entwined with greenery and peach and white silk roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pettitt, 2312 Roemer. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jordan, San Angelo.

Wedding selections were performed by Jim Wynn, who sang and accompanied himself on the piano and guitar.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of white polyester. The gown featured a Victorian neckline, and the bodice was fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline.

The bride carried a bouquet of peach and white roses, eucalyptus and baby's breath completed the bridal ensemble.

Toni Pettitt, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Rodney Kuhlmann, Dallas, was best man. Guests were seated by Steve Kuhlmann, San Angelo, and Ed Veith.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception that was also held at the Country Club. The bride's table featured a two-tiered cake decorated with peach and brown roses. The groom's table featured a selection of fruits, cheeses and punch. Rhonda Shoultz, San Angelo, Josie Moffitt and Jackie McCullough served at the tables.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Big Spring High School. The groom is a 1975 graduate of San Angelo Central High School, and is currently employed by Oilfield Industrial Lines as a contract welder.

Following a wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Safeguard eyes in racquetball

The eye injury rate in racquetball, the increasingly popular sport now played by millions of Americans, far exceeds that of other racquet sports such as tennis and squash. So says the current Family Circle magazine's "Here's News In Medicine" column.

To safeguard against eye injuries while playing racquetball, wear sports glasses with tempered lenses and sturdy frame, or sports eye guards, suggests an eye specialist from the Greater Baltimore Medical Center in the magazine column.

Use the pro's formula for car depreciation

JANET ROGERS
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
Now you can figure your car's costs like an expert with the formula that professionals use.

The "pro's" formula is a seven-part formula — very easy to work with once you understand it. You'll do figuring for seven different items, and you'll get seven different answers. Then you'll add all of them together. Then you'll divide the total by the number of miles you've driven this year.

The answer you get will be your "cost per mile" figure for the year. And that means you'll know exactly what your total car costs are for the year.

Remember you can use the formula to compare this year with last year — or even with next year if you want to guess at a few of the seven different items.

Use the accompanying worksheet to keep track of the seven different items.

• Annual Depreciation Cost: Depreciation is by far the largest expense among your car costs.

Rate of depreciation is based on the original retail price of the car minus the trade-in value (as if your car were an investment, remember).

During the first year of ownership, a NEW car depreciates from its original retail price by 25 to 30 percent.

During the second year, it depreciates another 18-20 percent from its original retail price. During the third year, another 14-18 percent. During the fourth year, another 8-11 percent. During the fifth year, another 5-9 percent. During the sixth year, another 3-6 percent. During the seventh year, another 2 percent.

After seven years, the car is worth only about 15 percent of its original price.

To find your annual depreciation cost, do this:

Use the above figures (the percents of depreciation) to find the estimated TOTAL depreciation for your car. Once you know the total depreciation to date, divide that figure by the number of years you have owned the car. Your answer is your annual depreciation cost. There's another way to estimate your total depreciation, if you don't want to go through all that figuring.

Simply check the classified ads for car prices on cars similar to yours, or check published used-car guides for prices, or ask an established dealer for an estimate of the car's current value.

Then subtract your car's current value from the original retail price — the answer is your total depreciation. But, remember, you still need your annual depreciation cost.

Again, the next step is the same as above — to find your annual depreciation cost, divide the total depreciation cost by the number of years you have owned the car.

• Annual Insurance Cost: Insurance costs depend on a number of factors. Be sure to separate your total insurance bill for a per-car cost, if you own more than one car.

• Annual Interest Cost: This item applies ONLY to people who are paying off a car loan.

How much "interest" do you give the bank or loan company each year? Whatever the amount, you must consider it part of the cost of your car.

Here's how to find out your annual "interest" cost: Multiply your monthly car payment amount TIMES the total number of months of your car loan (it might be a 24-month loan or a 36-month loan, for example).

Notice that the answer you got is larger than your original loan at the bank or loan company.

Now subtract your original loan amount from that larger answer. Your new answer is the total "interest" your bank or loan company is charging you for this car loan.

Divide the total "interest" amount by the number of months of the loan — this gives you your "monthly" interest cost. Then multiply THAT by 12 — your answer will be your annual "interest" cost. License, taxes and other fees: No figuring this time, much — simply add all your fees together.

Include the cost of your license plates and your state inspection sticker — and your driver's license.

Remember to write down only $1.75 for your driver's license — since it's a four-year license that cost you $7. You only want to know its cost per year.

However, if more than one person in the family drive the car, then multiply $1.75 by the number of drivers.

• Annual Gasoline Cost: Figure this by dividing the total miles driven per year by the number of miles per gallon your car gets. Then multiply that by the average price paid per gallon.

• Annual Maintenance, And Repair Costs:

Add the amounts you spent for service, repairs, parts, oil, tires and other items.

An average annual amount is $318 for a car driven 15,000 miles for the first three years of ownership (or for a car driven 5,000 miles per year, that is).

• Annual Miscellaneous Costs: Annual miscellaneous expenses may include parking fees, garage rental, washing, or traffic tickets.

The big answer: Now add all the items. Then divide that by the number of miles you drove during the year. The answer is your COST PER MILE for the year — the TRUE cost of your car for the year.

Use your "cost per mile" to compare your car with another car — to decide if you want to trade your car in, or just to get ideas for "trimming down" your car costs.

With this "pro's" formula, you can control your car costs and make efficient use of your transportation dollars.

FORT DAVIS CEREMONY — Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cook, Vernon, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Susan, to Terry Tredaway, son of Marion Tredaway, Gail Route, and Bobbie Tredaway, Carrollton. The couple will wed August 15 in the Fort Davis home of John Dorr.

Tops Club queens are announced

Tops Club No. 21 Gainers treated losers at a contest and low calorie salad supper June 25. The 16 members who attended showed a 20 1/2 pound weight loss and a 4 1/2 pound weight gain.

Shirley Jenkins, leader, presented gifts to Olnee Menges, six months queen; Gladys Russell, monthly queen; and Melva Hodnett, weekly queen.

Meetings of the Take Off Pounds Sensibly Club are held each Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, 306 West 3rd. For more information, call 263-2019 or 263-0391.

How To Display
Wedding Gifts

With all those beautiful wedding gifts on the way, you may be wondering how to display them to their best advantage. Gifts are usually displayed in the home of the bride, in an area that is not constantly occupied, such as a den or guest room. Long tables are covered with white or pastel cloths (which may be adapted from sheets) and the gifts are arranged in artful groupings.

It is correct to display your gifts without the enclosure cards, and if you receive money for a wedding present, simply place a card on the table which reads "Check from Aunt Betty".

At the ACCENT SHOPPE we encourage brides to use their creativity when setting up this most special display!
