Co-winner of Domino tournament

Longtime partners win domino tourney

By ANDREA COHEN
Jack Emmos, 61, and James Morgan, 54, both of Dallas were this year's winners in the domino tournament held at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The men won the world championship domino tournament in Andalusia, Ala. approximately two weeks ago.

The men have been domino partners for approximately 30 years.

"In the 25 years I've watched them play," said Emmos' son, Ron, "I've never seen them beaten. In the last four years, they've entered seven tournaments and won all seven."

Winning the World Championship, they won against 1,600 players when they "played for three days and three nights," Emmos said.

They have been to the tournament in Alabama twice and won each time.

At home, the men play everyday "for fun," said Morgan. "We're always partners against others at home. But we don't always win," he said, smiling.

The men, according to Ron Emmos, have won approximately $9,000 over the past four years in the tournaments.

Emmos is a retired insurance salesman and Morgan is a retired rancher.

The final standings are as follows:

Champion Winners
First place — J. Morgan, J. Emmos
Second place — W. Carter, L. Moses
Third place — B. Weatherford, C. Johnson
Fourth place — J. Jackson, E. Jackson

Consolation Winners
First Place — S. B. Frest, J.D. Hodge
Second place — J.H. Free, J.W. Massengale

Allman says Big Springers showing support of Haitians

By ANDREA COHEN
The Haitian refugees have received a show of support from the community, according to John Allman, superintendent of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

"We have numbers of letters and have had hundreds of phone calls in support of the Haitians," Allman said. "These are people who have offered jobs. However, we're not in that business. We're not going to place anyone. I gave my word to the community that they wouldn't be put in the community. I won't go back on my word.

"We've gotten a very positive response," he added. "There's no question about that."

Allman also said he expects the Immigration and Naturalization Service hearings to last three to six weeks, though he does not know when they will begin. According to Allman, there will be a hearing examiner, a deportation officer and a hearing clerk along with three Haitian interpreters.

Mitchell County parade miles long Ugliest beard from Westbrook

COLORADO CITY — Maxey Ware of Westbrook has the ugliest beard in Mitchell County — it is pathetically scrawny, shapeless and slovenly. He planned it that way.

Those characteristics helped him win the Ugliest Beard Contest at the Mitchell County Centennial celebration Saturday on the courthouse lawn. He won a handsome $100 silver buckle donated by Woods Boots.

"This is the first beard I ever grew in my life," said the 41-year-old Ware, an English and driver's education teacher at Westbrook High School.

And he says he definitely was shooting for the ugliest beard award. What was his secret of success? "Starting late," he said. He didn't start growing his beard until the last week in April, almost a month behind the other contenders.

Ware said his wife will be glad when he shaves the beard off. Their daughter Jeran, 9, doesn't much care for the beard either, he said. But he's going to wait awhile before shaving clean. First he's going to trim it up nice for a trip to Las Vegas, he said.

What advice would he give to future beard contestants? "Have patience," he said. "Endure the heat and the pain."

Other winners in the beard contest were:

Best — Walter Staats.
Longest — Pablo Munoz.
Best Groomed — Homer Hart.
Blackest — Tex Blankenship.
Whitest — Dewey Garman.
Grayest — Frank Brownfield.
Reddest — Robert Ramage.
Best Mixed — Raymond Watlington.

Stat received Centennial coins while the others received money clips with medallions.

The beard contest, emceed by George Winters, precedes the Centennial parade.

And by the way, Mitchell County knows how to throw a parade. The formula is simple:

- Close off the downtown area of Colorado City to traffic;
- Take several thousand people and place them at strategic spots — like on the shady side of all the buildings leading from downtown to the courthouse.

- Put several hundred people underneath the trees at the courthouse, around the reviewing stand.
- Bring in the dignitaries, including Cong. Charles Stenholm, Sen. Ray Farabee, State Rep. Walter Grubbs, Mayor Elmer Martin, City Manager Barbara Tarter, and Mrs. Marion Bassham, president of the Mitchell County Centennial Association, and let them sit on the reviewing stand.

Line up 96 or so parade entries and let them do their stuff. Afterwards feed everybody barbecue.

Saturday's parade included everything from cowboys, Indian dancers, gorillas, motorcycle riders, trains, mariachi dancers, cotton pickers, old cars, the world's longest float from Big Spring, and umpteen others — enough to keep emcee George Womack busy announcing for more than an hour. The parade was an overwhelming success as evidenced by the cheers and waving hands of the people lining the streets.

After the parade, a time capsule was buried on the courthouse lawn. It is to be opened 50 years from now.

Postal representatives want contract rejected

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Union representatives of postal workers in nine Northeastern states voted Saturday to urge members to reject a recent tentative contract agreement, an official said.

Jerry Monzillo, president of a union coalition representing clerks, drivers and maintenance workers in the Northeast, said the vote was 198-4 to urge rejection of the pact reached by national leaders of the American Postal Workers union and the U.S. Postal Service.

Monzillo said the group includes state and local APW representatives from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Delaware, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, Rhode Island and Virginia.

He said the group represents the leadership of about one-third of the estimated 300,000 APW members in the nation.

Moe Biller, general president of the APW, met with the group to try to encourage ratification of the tentative settlement, reached Tuesday on the brink of a threatened strike by the APW and the National Association of Letter Carriers.

277 inmates released?

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Cell doors swung open Saturday to free 277 inmates after a U.S. Supreme Court justice lifted his ban on a court-ordered mass release designed to relieve overcrowding in the state penal system.

A cheer went up in state prisons as word spread that Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. had removed the temporary stay he issued late Thursday, six hours before the releases were originally scheduled to begin.

Inmates carrying their belongings in brown paper bags began leaving the prisons shortly after noon Saturday. With $10 from the state and a bus ticket home, if they desired, many were ferried in prison vans to bus stations.

Meanwhile, state Attorney General Charles Graddick made a last-ditch attempt to keep at least some of the inmates from getting out.

He sought a second temporary stay from Chief Justice Warren Burger and filed a motion with the U.S. District Court in Montgomery saying the court's original order mandating the prisoner release was no longer valid because it was dated for Friday, not Saturday.

Graddick said he did not hold out much hope for blocking the releases because of the time limitations involved and the difficulty in getting motions to the appropriate court officials on a weekend.

Guards held hostage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two armed inmates held three guards hostage for five hours Saturday at the Missouri State Penitentiary and surrendered once prison officials agreed to send them to a federal medical facility, officials said.

No injuries were reported, and the inmates surrendered without a struggle, officials said. Shortly before they surrendered about 8 p.m. CDT, the prisoners gave up two handguns they were using in an escape attempt, the officials said.

State Corrections Division Director David Blackwell said the inmates also demanded to see a Jefferson City man, who had worked as a volunteer in the prison, as a condition for releasing the guards.

The man, whose name was not released, was brought to the prison and was directly involved in the negotiations between the prisoners and Warden Donald Wyrick.

Policeman slain

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Five people, including four Cuban refugees, were jailed Saturday after a drug-related shooting that left one undercover police officer dead and another wounded, officials said.

Four of the five were charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Gerald A. Rauff, 38, an 8-year veteran who died of a bullet wound in the heart late Friday.

The second police officer, Robert Ulrikson, 27, was hospitalized with wounds in his abdomen and elbow. His condition was upgraded Saturday from serious to good.

Juan Rodriguez, 47, of Tampa, a Cuban exile, was wounded in the shooting and was in critical condition Saturday.

Rocket launch delayed

ROCKPORT, Texas (AP) — A 26-second engine test of the first rocket designed and built by a private company has been delayed because of bad weather, a company spokesman said Saturday.

"The rocket test has been slipped until Tuesday morning," said Space Services Inc. spokesman Walter Pennino. "Weather has forced it to be delayed (from Sunday)."

Pennino said the engine and rocket could not be grounded to prevent the possibility of lightning hitting the space craft during a storm that moved into the area Saturday.

The rocket launch was set for Aug. 12 from Matagorda Island in the Gulf of Mexico.

Pennino said company officials "don't know at this time if the launch will be affected."

The engine was to be tested in the rocket, Pennino said.

If the rocket is launched, it will mark the first time a private company has developed and fired a rocket.

Company officials say they believe privately owned rockets can be launched for less money than NASA spends.

Arafat affirms Palestinians will adhere to cease-fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Yasser Arafat reaffirmed Saturday that his Palestine Liberation Organization would adhere to a cease-fire in southern Lebanon, but another Palestinian guerrilla organization vowed to continue shelling Israel.

The radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine - General Command, said in a statement it will continue operations "and hit the Israeli enemy with all our capabilities and through all Arab fronts."

The Libyan-backed organization led by Ahmed Jibril said it was responsible for the Friday and Saturday shelling of northern Israeli towns and Christian-controlled villages in southern Lebanon after the U.S.-mediated cease-fire went into effect.

"Our rockets and artillery shelled the occupied lands despite the cease-fire, because we believe that the revolution should continue, whatever the circumstances and difficulties," the PFLP-GC said.

"Every shell on our people at Sidon and Tyre will be met with tens of heavy shells and rockets as happened Friday night and Saturday," it added. Those two cities in southern Lebanon are major PFLP-GC bases. The PFLP-GC is a guerrilla band that is a member of Arafat's PLO, an umbrella organization for half a dozen guerrilla groups. PFLP-GC bases were among the main targets of the recent Israeli air raids and shelling.

Arafat, speaking to reporters in a basement near his Beirut headquarters, called the recent 15-day battle with Israel an important "turning point" in the PLO's fight for autonomy.

Packing a holstered revolver and dressed in olive-green khaki fatigues and black-and-white checkered headdress, Arafat said the guerrilla movement had survived despite an onslaught by Israeli forces using American weapons.

Asked about Israeli assertions that guerrillas broke the cease-fire on the northern Israeli border three times since it went into force Friday, Arafat declared: "We are going to respect our word."

But he said: "Ceasing fire does not mean peace. To achieve peace we must have a permanent solution, a just solution taking into consideration the Palestinian rights."

The PFLP-GC's statement of defiance was released after Arafat's press conference had ended.

Arafat said the PLO would consider any redeployment, regrouping or reorganizing of Israeli forces as violations of the cease-fire, along with any Israeli reconnaissance flights over Lebanon.

He said the truce resulted from efforts of United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Saudi Arabia's crown prince Fahd. He avoided a question about whether he received messages or appeals for peace from U.S. emissary Philip C. Habib.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli officials said the truce was negotiated by Habib between Israel and Lebanon, denying any direct Palestinian role. Israel and the PLO have refused to negotiate with each other.

Mental health official announces resignation

AUSTIN — John J. Kavanagh, M.D. announced Friday he was resigning as Commissioner of the Texas Department of Health and Mental Retardation effective Oct. 1.

He made his surprise announcement at a meeting of the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Dr. Kavanagh, who has been TDMHR Commissioner since May 10, 1978, said he was forced to give up this post because of medical reasons. He said he hoped he could remain with the department serving as a staff physician in one of the state mental health facilities.

"Dr. Kavanagh's announcement came as a complete surprise to all of us," said L. Gray Beck of San Angelo, chairman of the board.

"We are in somewhat of a state of shock and we deeply regret the decision Dr. Kavanagh has made. He has our support, our cooperation, and our confidence."

The board chairman and other members praised Dr. Kavanagh's more than three years service as commissioner, citing the numerous forward steps the department has taken under his leadership.

"Dr. Kavanagh has worked with two legislative sessions and through his influence and expertise, the department has made great stride in improving the care and treatment of the mentally impaired," said Beck, adding:

"The department currently is undergoing a reorganization, a plan that has the support and leadership of Dr. Kavanagh."

"Again, let me say all of us are shocked and all of us deeply regret Dr. Kavanagh's decision. I wish it were possible for him to change his mind but the report from his physician is one that should not be ignored."

"He has done an outstanding job and we thank him for his leadership."

In his resignation statement to the board, Dr. Kavanagh said he was optimistic that the number of issues and projects facing the department would be resolved before his steps down.

"I have found the past three and one half years a highly rewarding experience for myself personally in terms of improvement of the services to the mentally impaired citizens of Texas," said Dr. Kavanagh.

Doctors racing time to find heart donor

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors raced time Saturday in their nationwide search for a human organ to replace a plastic heart that has kept a 36-year-old Dutchman alive since Thursday afternoon.

The PFLP-GC's statement of defiance was released after Arafat's press conference had ended.

Arafat said the PLO would consider any redeployment, regrouping or reorganizing of Israeli forces as violations of the cease-fire, along with any Israeli reconnaissance flights over Lebanon.

He said the truce resulted from efforts of United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Saudi Arabia's crown prince Fahd. He avoided a question about whether he received messages or appeals for peace from U.S. emissary Philip C. Habib.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli officials said the truce was negotiated by Habib between Israel and Lebanon, denying any direct Palestinian role. Israel and the PLO have refused to negotiate with each other.

You need a donor. But you're lucky if you find a suitable donor in a week — that's the big handicap," Cooley said.

Doctors said the donor in this case should be 18 to 45 years old with A-positive blood, and preferably a man.

But Cooley said the patient already may have suffered irreversible brain damage because when his heart failed Thursday, the normal blood flow to his brain was interrupted for about 45 minutes.

Meuffels became the third patient ever to receive a plastic heart in an emergency 24-hour operation that began at 4 p.m. CDT Thursday.

The retired bus and van driver for a private excursion company would have died without the artificial heart, Cooley said. His own heart failed three hours after a "standard coronary bypass" operation in which clogged arteries were replaced with blood vessels from Meuffels' leg, Cooley said.

The problem is when you have an acute emergency.

Deaths —

The surgeon said he explained the situation to Meuffels' wife and she gave her consent to the plastic heart implant.

After the operation, Cooley drew criticism from Food and Drug Administration spokesman William Rados, who said the surgeon should have submitted an application for permission to use the device.

$10,949,876 budget gains tentative okay

The Big Spring school board gave tentative approval Thursday evening to a budget for the 1981-82 school year which calls for expenditures totaling a record $10,949,876. That represents an increase of slightly more than 13 percent over last year.

The anticipated surplus at the end of the year would total $854,000, compared to $615,000 at the close of this fiscal year.

The bulk of the money from the $1,310,972 boost in anticipated expenses will go into salary increases and the trustees' decision to pay an increased share in employee insurance. The school district now picks up the whole employee insurance bill with the exception of dependents' costs.

The anticipated income of the school district will be up $1,091,000 over last year. Of that amount, $467,000 will come in the form of local money while another $678,000 will come from the state. Less federal money will be available to the district, however, conforming with President Reagan's austerity program.

Local teachers will come in for an average salary increase of 12 percent.

There will be a ten percent boost in the schools' cafeteria budget. The anticipated cost of the program will be $969,987. The boost will be partially offset by an increase in the cost of meals. Students in elementary school will be paying 65 cents the coming year, whereas the price was 50 cents in 1980-81.

Secondary school students will find the price of their meal this year will be 70 cents, an increase of 15 cents over 1980-81.

A Building Fund budget was created, funded with $500,000. That will draw an anticipated interest of $12,500 until such time as a building program can be undertaken. Of the amount, $233,000 comes from the sale of Park Hill and Cedar Crest school properties. Another $267,000 is being transferred from the General Fund.

Plans are in the making for construction of an eight classroom addition to Goliad Middle School, where average daily attendance last year was 771. Four portable classrooms helped ease the student load there last year.

The same tax rate employed by the city last year, $1.275 per $100 valuation, was adopted by the trustees.

Memo says Texas good place for aliens

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Rio Grande Valley site and a Maryland naval station are the best places to house Cubans now held in Arkansas and aliens awaiting deportation, according to a purported memo to President Reagan.

Hispanic leader Tony Bonilla, reacting to a challenge from Gov. Bill Clements, on Friday released what he identified as a July 6 memo from U.S. Attorney General William French Smith to Reagan.

Clements said Thursday that Smith had assured him no Cubans now held at Fort Chaffee, Ark., would be moved to the immigration detention center near Port Isabel.

The governor said Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, was full of "baloney."

Here are some items discussed in the purported memo, which discussed relocation of the Cubans at Fort Chaffee, and detention of all illegal aliens:

"All 960 Cubans remaining at Fort Chaffee have problems that prevent their release into the community (250 mentally ill and retarded; 400 antisocial; 100 homosexual; 100 alcoholics or drug users; 100 women, babies, elderly and handicapped)."

The Naval Training Center in Bainbridge, Md., and the immigration service detention center near Port Isabel were listed as the best places for the Cubans.

Ellington Air Force Base, near Houston, was listed as "inappropriate" because it is near a suburban area.

"Community opposition would be considerable."

Bainbridge and Port Isabel also were listed as the best long-term detention centers for aliens awaiting deportation hearings, including the 1,000 to 1,500 Haitians who land in Florida each month.

Bainbridge could be renovated to hold 25,000 people and Port Isabel could be remodeled to hold up to 10,000.

"Both Bainbridge and Port Isabel are in relatively isolated areas, but the costs of providing services would not be prohibitive. Community opposition is likely to be limited. Other facilities considered, in urban or suburban residential areas, would pose larger community problems."

The purported memo recommends that federal officials should negotiate with state mental hospitals for placement of some of the Cubans.

Bonilla reacted angrily to Clements' statements.

"I would urge you to exercise better judgment than challenging the integrity and honesty of the nation's largest and oldest Hispanic organization, LULAC," he told Clements in a letter.

"Since you have a fondness for baloney, I am enclosing a one-dollar bill in order that you may purchase a loaf of bread to eat your own baloney," Bonilla said.

Clements was in Amarillo and unavailable for comment when the letter was delivered.

Reagan ordered end to aides' criticism of Begin's actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan personally ordered a reversal of what was a harsh, concerted and mounting campaign by top administration officials to condemn Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, according to a knowledgeable administration official.

"Everybody was mad as hell at Begin — except one man," said the official who watched the byplay from a ringside seat. "He was the man who counted."

Anger with Begin followed Israel's attack on PLO positions in a heavily civilian neighborhood of Beirut. U.S. officials were quick to denounce Begin, first off the record, then publicly.

But by week's end, largely through Reagan's intercession, the focus had shifted from Begin's hard-line strategy to ending hostilities in southern Lebanon, a change in direction smoothed by U.S. mediator Philip Habib's success in achieving a cease-fire.

The only top adviser said to be "in synch" with Reagan all along was Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. He held his fire while lower-level officials accused Begin of trying to split the United States from its moderate Arab friends and, as one put it, "rubbing our noses in it" by launching the Beirut attack shortly before the administration was to resume jet shipments to Israel.

Delivery of 10 F16s was subsequently suspended.

"Reagan has a very special affection for Israel," said the official who watched the turnaround. "It came out during the campaign and it was and is genuine. You have to look at the president as someone who sees Israel as an oasis of democracy in the area, and a loyal ally."

Besides, the official doubts the strategy of trying to moderate Begin's policies could succeed since his domestic critics probably would rally behind their leader if he was under concentrated U.S. attack. The official did not want to be quoted by name.

When the official attacks on Begin went public on Wednesday, it seemed to reflect a solid administration line.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger unloaded on Begin in a nationally televised interview. Deputy Secretary of State William Clark, a longtime Reagan confidante, weighed in at just about the same time during a breakfast meeting with reporters.

Travel across Texas is up

Travel across Texas, which experienced a nine percent gain in April, had an even more dramatic rise during the first four months of the year — 13 percent.

The Texas Tourist Development Agency says that visits to the 137 destinations that compose the TTDA's travel barometer stood at 17.4 million through April, compared with 15.5 million for the same period in 1980.

At the same time, services provided motorists by the state's dozen visitor centers rose eight percent. The average daily traffic on Texas highways was up seven percent.

OF THE SEVEN groups of reporting attractions on the barometer, only one failed to show a gain through the first four months. The exception was the U.S. Department of Interior sites — down 13 percent for the period.

It shouldn't surprise anyone to learn that state lakes attracted the biggest throngs during the 120-day period; 7,740,747 compared to 6,817,169 for the same period in 1980. That represents a gain of 13 percent.

Attendance at the Sam Rayburn Reservoir, for instance, was up 47 percent, at Lake O' The Pines 27 percent. Both are in East Texas.

Museums enjoyed the largest percentage gain, however — up 26 percent. A total of 2,036,450 people paraded through 17 Texas museums during the period. (Attendance was up in Fort Worth's Kimbell Art Museum an amazing 820 percent and more than doubled at the Tech Museum in Lubbock.

The Alamo in San Antonio always gets a heavy play, perhaps because the shots that were fired there are still echoing around the world, perhaps because John Wayne glorified it in a movie. At any rate, the Texas shrine — which is listed as a museum — lured 710,000 visits during the first four months this year.

FOR SOME REASON, visitors have been staying away from the Padre Island National Seashore, perhaps because the memory of last year's oil spill lingers on. The visitor center there was off 46 percent in its head count. Dallas once again led the city visitor center group with gains of 49 percent. (If the traffic situation in Dallas seems hopeless, there are reasons other than the fact that the city is one of the nation's fastest growing cities and every man, woman and child seem to have two cars each).

Only one visitor center (Laredo) was down through April. The Gainesville bureau, on IS 35 north, climbed 14 percent in services rendered.

Tourism in Texas likely will increase throughout the summer and into the fall although budget restraints will force the TTDA to cut back on its advertising later in the year.

Time was when residents of other states decided to get a new start in Texas they hung out a "GTT" sign at the entrance to their farms and businesses. The "GTT" sign, of course, means "Gone To Texas." The migration to the state now is much heavier than it was in those times. Not all are staying, of course, but a tremendous number are intent on seeing what we have to offer.

Invite the dog

Art Buchwald

I was glad to discover last weekend that Washington isn't the only place in the United States where people are all screwed up. Even a town as affluent and peaceful as East Hampton has terrible problems. We were house guests of the Stones, and they asked us who our dear friends in East Hampton would like to see.

"How about the Grabowskis and the Peregrines?" I suggested.

"WE CAN'T HAVE the Grabowskis with the Peregrines," Stone said. "It seems two years ago Grabowski borrowed Peregrine's barbecue spit and returned it the next day with the handle missing. Grabowski didn't mention it, much less offer to pay for a new handle and so Peregrine hasn't spoken to him since."

"Well, what about the Cumberbunds?"

"I thought you were best friends."

"We were until I played tennis with Tom Cumberbund last weekend and he called a footfault on me. You don't call footfaults on your friends. I've never called a footfault on Tom in my life, and believe you me he footfaults all the time. He can't serve without having both feet in the court."

"Let's forget Cumberbund," I said. "I'd love to see the Wackenbushes."

"You can see him but not her," Stone said.

"Why can't I see her?"

"She ran away to Newport with a gardener."

"Was Wackenbush sore?" I asked.

"Not as much as Henry and Lucy Tribby. You see, it was their gardener. They're not talking to Wackenbush because they feel if he had paid more attention to his wife, the Tribbys' rhododendrons would still be alive."

"So much for the Wackenbushes," I said. "You know who we'd love to have dinner with — the Coffinbacks."

"You can have dinner with them," Stone said, "but we won't."

"That's exactly the point. Two weeks ago we gave a dinner party for Ann Miller, the dancer, and we invited them. Then last weekend, they gave a dinner party for Tony Martin and you know what they did — they asked us to come in for coffee afterward."

"Boy, this East Hampton is full of intrigue," I said. "I think it would be easier if you could tell me who we can see."

STONE THOUGHT FOR a while. "There's the Pattersons. We like them very much, and I know you do, too."

"Let's invite the Pattersons then," I said.

"They're not here," Stone said. "They rented their house for July and went to England. What about the Profitrolles?"

"I don't know the Profitrolles," I said, "but we'll see them anyway."

"Nah," said Stone. "They'd bore you to death."

"I don't see how you people make it through the summer," I said.

"It's not easy," Stone admitted. "There are a lot of people out here we'd love for you to meet, but we can't stand their house guests. And there a lot of house guests we'd love to see, but we can't stand the people they're staying with."

"Why don't we just go to a Howard Johnson's for dinner and forget about it?"

"No way!" Stone said. "The last time I was there I had a fight with the manager and I told him I'd never come back."

"I guess that just about does it," I said.

"Wait a minute. I just remembered, there's the Rucksacks," Stone said.

"You mean you know one couple in East Hampton that nobody is mad at?"

"They just moved out here last week, and no one has had a chance to get sore at them yet."

Troubled radio services

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — On May 8, 1981, Bavarian state police showed up at the headquarters of Radio Free Europe-Radio Liberty in Munich and arrested a German employee on charges of spying for the Romanian intelligence service.

What was particularly shocking was that the suspected espionage agent, Klara Baltes, was the personal secretary of the central news division director of the U.S. government-owned radio stations. She had been working at RFE since 1952.

"We have been told by authorities," a radio official wrote to his superiors in Washington, "that she is accused of having provided reports on the radios to the Romanians for the past 20 years or so." The woman's husband was also arrested as a spy.

MEANWHILE, EMIL GEORGESCU, a supervising program editor, has complained that he was the target of physical attacks and death threats instigated by the Romanian secret police. Munich authorities are investigating his charges.

These episodes are only the most dramatic of the troubles recounted by RFE-RL officials in "strictly confidential" memos seen by my associate Indy Badhwar. They indicate that serious problems continue to plague the stations, which have the vital mission of broadcasting news and commentary to Eastern Europeans to counteract the Orwellian output of their communist governments' tightly controlled media.

I'VE ALREADY REPORTED on problems ranging from suspected sabotage to administrative incompetence and embarrassing blunders, like broadcasting the wrong program to the wrong country at the wrong time — in the wrong language.

Here are some of the latest foulups — The RFE-RL transmitter in Pals, Spain, is "inefficient and becoming difficult to maintain," said one memo.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: For most of my life I have been very active in a religious group which claims to be Christian, although it bases much of its teaching on a person it believes was a prophet in the last century. The more I read the Bible, however, the more doubts I have about this group's claim that it has the full truth about God. How can I know what is right? — Mrs. H.S.

DEAR MRS. H.S.: Just because someone claims to be a prophet of God does not mean he actually is. There are at least two things you need to consider as you evaluate the group in which you have been active.

First, you need to realize that the Bible teaches that Jesus Christ was God's complete and final revelation of the truth, and that his sacrifice on the cross was complete. In other words, there is no need for additional truth, because Jesus Christ has shown us all that God chooses to reveal to us this side of heaven. The Bible says that Christ is the One "in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." For in Christ all the fullness of the Deity lives in bodily form" (Colossians 2:3,9).

Fitness athletes: New medical 'problem'

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 35 years old and have been running since I was 25. As part of a physical examination I had my first EKG. The doctor seemed concerned about my EKG. He didn't tell me to stop running, but did say my EKG wasn't normal. I don't smoke, I feel fine, and I exercise regularly. My blood pressure was good, and my parents are alive and well in their 70s. What gives with the abnormal EKG? What should I do? — B.P.

This kind of question gives me the jitters. You want a definite answer, and you have given me some important positive information and background about yourself. The most important fact is that you feel well and that you appear to have no problems from your running. Everything sounds good. Yet — there is that EKG finding!

I can tell you this; that many long-distance runners have EKGs that look abnormal. With all the runners around today, doctors are seeing more and more people like yourself. It is theorized that intense physical training has conditioned their hearts to such an extent that their EKG patterns are not like those of "normal" people.

That doesn't mean they have heart disease. In fact, you would expect their hearts to behave differently from those of people who live more sedentary lives. Such "abnormal" EKGs are found in more than half of all long-distance runners. Abnormal here is used in the sense of "differing from the rest of the untrained population."

What should you do? In spite of everything I've told you, I would still have to recommend that you see a cardiologist. He will be able to assess your EKG changes and decide whether they are the healthy result of your training or whether they necessitate curtailment of your running. I would bet on the former assessment.

Well-trained athletes have other "abnormalities," a slowed pulse rate, for example. That's because their muscular hearts do not have to beat quite so often to get the circulation job done. Athletic persons like yourself are giving us doctors lots of jitters because of these "abnormalities."

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Filling station entrepreneur took pride in 'full service'

By TOMMY HART
His sustained performance likely will never be in the Guinness Book of Records but Relerce Jones can look back upon a career of serving customers with great satisfaction.
Jones spent most of his waking hours while in the work force operating service stations. In those days, there were filling stations and service stations and Relerce always took pride in operating a full-service station.
He made every effort to give the customer everything he wanted in the way of free service — like checking tires, putting in battery water, cleaning the oil stick in order to take a fair reading and rubbing all foreign matter from the windshield; and he did it with dignity and a smile. His type of service station operator can still be found, but they're becoming rarer and rarer.
After starting his service station experience in 1927 by working for Howard and Earl Reid in Coahoma while they were playing baseball, Jones acquired a wife in 1933. He and Juanita moved to Big Spring in October 1937.

In the intervening years, Jones managed or owned 15 different stations. Some of those he opened a second time. Leg problems ultimately caused him to enter retirement in July 1978.
His wife worked 29 years for Hall-Bennett Hospital before retiring earlier this year.
A lot of changes have taken place in the service station business since Jones started in it, not all of them for the better. Station operators used to depend heavily on the sale of gasoline. Now convenience stores, where self service is expected and no other automotive service is offered, sell much of today's gasoline.

Jones says he has seen gasoline selling for as little as 10 cents a gallon. He has fixed flat tires for 35 cents and undertaken wash and grease jobs for as little as $2. If an operator didn't keep his rest rooms clean for customer use or if he made no effort to clean up an oil slick in his driveway, he heard about it from the company which had granted him a franchise.
Time was when Relerce was able to hire help for as little as $15 a week. The work schedule called for 10 hours a day seven days a week. Times were hard and those who worked considered themselves lucky to have jobs.
The last few years Jones operated stations, he went it alone, modifying his work hours in order to spend more time with his family.

Jones operated his first station in Big Spring at 14th and Scurry streets, selling Humble (now Exxon) products. That covered 11 years.
He and Mrs. Jones have two daughters, each of whom has two children.
One is Mrs. Larry (Betty Lou) Knight. Her husband owns a barber shop in downtown Big Spring. Mrs. Nita Jean Dodson, the other daughter, is married to a Rockwall farmer. She will be a teacher in the accounting department at East Texas State University in Commerce this fall.
When the Joneses visit Nita Jean, they usually make arrangements to fly to and from Dallas because driving through in an automobile demands time and energy they reason they can't always spare.

Oklahoma oilman gives Charles his own well

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oil millionaire Wyman E. Fraley may not have been invited to the royal wedding, but he has sent Prince Charles and Lady Diana an unusual gift.
Fraley, 33, sent the royal couple part interest in an oil and gas well he drilled in May. Interest in a second well will be transferred when drilling on it is completed, he said. He has received no official confirmation of the present.
"There's been so much merchandising, so much commercialization of this wedding, I just wanted to make a personal gesture," said the native of Mangum in southwestern Oklahoma.
Fraley, whose office is in a remodeled Victorian-style home in Oklahoma City, will make his first trip to England in August to open an office in London, where he plans to headquarter offshore drilling operations and an oil supply business.
"I just wanted this present to be a good introduction," he said.
Fraley Oil & Gas reportedly has assets of $6 million. Fraley says he has drilled or participated in 84 wells and hasn't hit a dry one yet.
Fraley is secretive about the production of his gift well, but he says the monthly income would provide the royal couple with a comfortable income for the rest of their lives.
"We don't want to cloud the issue with the value," he said.
Whether the gift ranks with the Steuben bowl, reportedly valued at $75,000, presented to the couple by the Reagans remains in question.
"I don't think it'll put the king in another tax bracket," said Marshall Udden, consultant for Geodyne Resources of Tulsa.
Oil experts estimated the well's production at around five barrels a day.

Hospital to nominate outstanding employee

Employees at Malone-Hogan Hospital will nominate their outstanding employee within the next week, to represent the hospital as the Malone-Hogan Hospital Dr. First Humanitarian Award winner.
Winner of the hospital competition will enter a division and then a national competition, sponsored by Hospital Corporation of America, of Nashville, parent company of the local hospital.
Deadline for nominations is at noon, July 31.
Winner of the Dr. First Humanitarian Award locally, will be given a bronze plaque, and a check for $250. A reception will be held Aug. 6 in honor of the winner, and all nominees.
Should the Malone-Hogan Hospital First Award winner win the division contest, the award will be $1,000, and a chance to compete in the national competition. The national winner, to be named in mid-August, will win an expense-paid trip to Nashville, and HCA stock valued at $2,500.
Deadline for the nominations at Malone-Hogan Hospital is Friday, July 31, at noon. The winners will be announced the following Monday, August 3.
Employees will fill out ballots, outlining the criteria to be used in nominating the candidates. The 1981 First Award recognizes the full-time employee whose dedication and concern is helping build a better Malone-Hogan Hospital, and a better Hospital Corporation of America.
Every full-time employee is eligible for nomination. According to the ballot instructions, a nominee should be a person having a positive effect on other people, having made a significant contribution to the improvement of patient care (not necessarily in the area of direct patient care), whose day to day performance is dependable, consistent, and people oriented, whose contribution may be overshadowed because of personal humility and modesty, and who has demonstrated unusual concern for the welfare and happiness of patients and has performed extraordinary acts of kindness.
Malone-Hogan Hospital fielded a national winner in 1974, its first year in the competition, and a division winner in 1979. Deidra Whately, R.N., won the national Dr. First Award in 1974, and Tim Salazar, surgical orderly, won the division award in 1979. Other local First winners were Carmen Phillips, R.N., Gene Moses, and Lorraine Shirley, R.N.

Hyatt victims, rescuers remember disaster

EDITOR'S NOTE — Rev. Jim Flanagan, Dr. Joseph Waackler, Chief John Hamilton and Connie Downing were all at the Hyatt Regency Hotel on July 17, the night two walkways collapsed and plunged them into a living nightmare. Mrs. Downing and her son would be among the 111 injured — but not among the 111 dead, thanks to the efforts of the other three and hundreds like them.
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Rev. Jim Flanagan pored over his spiritual writings, hoping they would help him shake an ominous premonition of death that had dogged him for a week.
Dr. Joseph Waackler watched the clock edge toward 7 p.m., looking forward to an escape from the suffering that was part of his job as head of the emergency room at Baptist Memorial Hospital.
Assistant Fire Chief John Hamilton had sweated through another hot, humid day. He wasn't complaining. Last year's searing summer cost the lives of 141 people and Kansas City didn't need another tragedy like that.
Connie Downing busied herself in her suburban Prairie Village, Kan., home, planning an evening at the Asian festival at Crown Center. First they'd make a quick stop to let her three children look at the exotic lobby of the new Hyatt Regency Hotel.
At 7:05 p.m. that Friday night, two skywalks running across the lobby crashed to the floor, showering 90 tons of steel and concrete on hundreds of guests and participants at a popular tea dance. In the 12 hours that followed:
—Flanagan would joke with those entombed in air pockets, and pray for the dead and dying.
—Waackler would crawl into holes drilled in the concrete, feeling among the dead in search of the living.
—Hamilton would find the city's new disaster plan sorely tested.
—Mrs. Downing would squeeze her 11-year-old son's hand amid the rubble, unable to assure him that they would live through the ordeal.
"About three times the week before I had this tremendous feeling of being overshadowed by death," said Flanagan, a former Notre Dame football player. "It was a very powerful feeling. ... When the Hyatt came, I knew what it meant."

JAMES FLANAGAN
Flanagan arrived at the scene within minutes after receiving a call from a priest at St. Mary's Hospital, four blocks from the Hyatt. He said the dead and injured reminded him of battle scenes he witnessed in his days as a Navy frogman in World War II.
"Bodies were half in and half out of the debris," he recalled. "There were pieces of bodies. It just tore your heart out. ... When we'd open up a section and someone would be looking up at you alive. When they were freed, your whole being was freed with them."
He would say last rites for each of the 111 dead, plus 30 of the more critically injured.
There were the lighter moments.
"Who are you?" one voice asked from the debris.
"Father Flanagan," he answered.
"Come on, quit putting me on," answered the voice.
"How you feeling?" he asked another man buried in the rubble.
"Well, my Timex is still ticking," came the reply.
Some of those he talked to would not live through the ordeal.

CONNIE DOWNING
Downing was among the 111 injured when the Hyatt Regency Hotel lobby walkways collapsed on July 17, 1981. She and her 11-year-old son, Dalton, were among the survivors.

DALTON DOWNING
Dalton Downing, 11, was among the survivors of the Hyatt Regency Hotel disaster. He was with his mother, Connie, when the walkways collapsed.

JOHN HAMILTON
John Hamilton, assistant fire chief, was among the rescuers at the Hyatt Regency Hotel disaster. He helped coordinate the rescue efforts.

Mine fire erupts through Earth's surface

CENTRALIA, Pa. (AP) — A mine fire burning beneath this town for 19 years has broken through the earth's surface and spread along 350 feet, raising fears of a cave-in, officials said Saturday.
Police on Friday closed roads and blocked off the area around the outbreak, saying curious onlookers could be harmed by hot, falling rocks and gases.
"I only hope some kids don't get up there and get overcome by gases or caught in a cave-in," Mayor John Wondolowski said Saturday after visiting the site. "It's liable to cave in at any time — that's what I'm worried about."
Officials said the fire erupted Wednesday in a 10-foot square area on the Columbia County-Schuylkill County line. The flames were visible at night along the length of the ledge, Wondolowski said, and blue smoke rises from the area during the day.
The state Department of Environmental Resources measured the air temperature over the fire at more than 1200 degrees, Wondolowski said. DER personnel were staying at the scene to monitor the gases, which spread a white coating over rocks.

Carbon monoxide testing units brought to the fire scene Wednesday night showed dangerous concentrations of the gas, officials said.
The underground fire has been spewing smoke and steam for nearly 20 years but had never before cracked the earth's surface. The above-ground fire is about 1 1/2 miles outside this town of 1,100, a mile from the nearest dwelling.
"If they want proof of a fire, they could hold it in their hands now," said Ray Reilley, secretary of the Ambulance Association of Centralia, whose nephew, Bob Tarlecky, discovered the fire Wednesday.
"We've been telling them where there's smoke, there's fire," said Hugh McDonald, vice president of the Centralia Fire Co. "Now they can see it."

The fire emerged from the ground on the same day the U.S. House approved $850,000 for a large-scale drilling project to find the boundaries of the fire. The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the funding on Thursday.
The money is expected to pay for drilling about 80 boreholes to pinpoint the location of the fire, said Mike Lockerby, a spokesman for Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa.
The fire started in 1962 when flames from a refuse dump spread to abandoned anthracite tunnels. Since then, the fire has forced some businesses to close and caused dangerous levels of carbon monoxide and carbon dioxide in at least a half-dozen homes.
In the past six months, there have been cave-ins which make officials believe the fire is spreading.

Texas State Library earns praise for service to blind

A half century of library service to the blind in Texas is being honored in July, 1981. In July, 1931, the Texas State Library became one of the original 19 libraries participating in a Library of Congress program to provide embossed books to blind persons. Today not only blind Texans but also those who cannot read ordinary printed material because of other physical handicaps can obtain books and magazines through the service.
The first books were embossed, but in 1933 recorded books were added. These recorded books played at a speed of 33 revolutions per minute. Each machine on which to play them weighed about 50 pounds and was about the size of a suitcase. Later the speed revolutions per minute and still later to the 8 revolutions per minute currently used. Books recorded on cassette tape are now also available.

In a proclamation honoring the anniversary, Gov. William P. Clements saluted the five decades of cooperation between the Library of Congress and the Texas State Library.
The service to the blind and physically handicapped provides the kind of books and magazines that Texans find in their public libraries. The major difference is that the service may be handled entirely by mail and telephone. The United States Postal Service carries the materials at no charge. A toll-free telephone enables readers to make special requests and to report problems with the machines that play the recorded materials.
Texans who would like more information about the service should write the Texas State Library, Box 12927 Capitol Station, Austin, Tex. 78711, or call 1-800-252-9605.

Howard County Crops program is honored

The Howard County Crops Program Area Committee was recognized this week by the Governor's Committee on Volunteerism for its outstanding work in this area.

The committee, a branch of the Howard County Extension program Building Committee, was cited for its work in developing educational activities benefiting Howard County cotton producers.

This committee was one of the first in Texas to develop a budget plan in assisting cotton producers in developing their own budgets in determining costs and returns in their operations.

This budget was used as a guideline in developing other county budgets throughout Texas and was used by the committee chairman, Larry Shaw, in his presentation on expenses of dryland cotton production in representing the thousands of dryland cotton farmers throughout the Southwest at the Western Regional Cotton Conference in Lubbock last winter.

In addition to Shaw, other committee members include: Tim Hall, James Lee, Wayne Davis, R.C. Thomas, Paul Allen, J.E. Peugh, Paul Hopper and Stan Bickle.

Mrs. Laverne Gaskins serves as chairman of the overall program building committee. County extension agents Don Richardson and Hank Williams, along with county entomologist David Foster serve the group as advisors. State extension specialists Dr. Gary Condra, economist, Dr. Ken Lindsey, agronomist, and Charles Neeb, entomologist, also assisted this committee with its efforts.

Vet counseling expanded

The popular Vet Center Counseling Service for Vietnam era veterans will be expanded by 50 percent, Veterans Administration Chief, Robert P. Nimmo, announced today.

Nimmo, who took the oath of office July 15 as Administrator of Veterans Affairs, said 42 new counseling facilities will be added to the program under terms of the Reagan bipartisan budget resolution. The 42 new facilities will bring to 133 the number of "Storefront" counseling facilities available to Vietnam era veterans who may be suffering readjustment problems following military service during the Vietnam War.

As he had during his confirmation hearings before the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee July 9, Nimmo stressed the fact that "While the vast majority of our Vietnam Veterans have successfully returned to our working society, a substantial number still suffer various degrees of readjustment difficulty." It is those veterans, he said, "whom we will continue to reach out to through this expanded Vet Center Program."

Nimmo said the centers typically have staffs of three to five persons who operate on an informal, person-to-person basis with Vietnam era veterans experiencing emotional and other readjustment problems. "We hope to have all of the new centers in operation within three to four months," Nimmo said.

Some are almost ready to begin operations and others will be opened as suitable space can be arranged and personnel recruited.

Since the Vet Center program began operation early in 1960, approximately 72,000 Vietnam era veterans have been counseled, Nimmo said. VA officials believe the new centers will be much more efficient than the original ones because contacting and counseling efficiency have been improved.

The Vet Center program has a budget of $29,580,000 for fiscal year 1982. New facilities to be opened in the West will be: Contra Costa County, Fresno, and Riverside, Calif.; Eugene, Ore.; Spokane, Wash.; Fort Worth, and San Antonio, Tex.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Window Rock, N.M.; and Fairbanks, Alaska.

These are in addition to facilities in Reno, Nev. and Tucson, Ariz., which opened recently.

State unemployment rate rises to 5.2 percent

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas' unemployment rate rose from 4.2 percent in April to 5.2 percent in May — the same as in May 1980 — the Texas Employment Commission reported Saturday.

The release of students from work and school contributed to the sharp rise in total unemployment, the commission said.

It said all the major labor market areas in Texas showed an increase in unemployment from April to May. The highest unemployment rate for May was 13.3 percent in the McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg area, and the lowest rate was 2.9 percent in the Abilene area.

Support for windfall tax exemption asked

Independent oil operators and royalty owners should give support to the House Ways and Means Committee effort to grant exemptions to the "Windfall Profits Tax", according to Bud Stewart, president of the Energy Consumers and Producers Association.

"There is an excellent chance we can get a 1,000 barrel per day exemption on new oil in this bill for independent oil men. Also, royalty owners would receive a 10 barrel per day exemption for owners of old oil up to 500 barrels per day owned by independents."

FARM FORUM

By RONNIE WOOD

Satellite television reception, utilizing a privately owned antenna and reception equipment is very much on the horizon, as we've mentioned, to bring entertainment, information and a new business tool to the farmer and rancher. And, although it's not one of the 90-odd channels you might receive with your own set-up, the U.S.D.A. is benefiting from satellite technology in faster and more accurate information on crop conditions, particularly in Russia, through Landsat and soon through NOAA 6, a meteorological satellite. A constant and accurate eye on Russian weather conditions and crops is a valuable tool in light of reconvened U.S.A. - U.S.S.R. talks on grain sales. And how does the Russian wheat crop look? Good, according to the satellite - about 34 million hectares, down about 3 million from 1980, with an almost ideal winter and almost no snow cover.

Q. Other than the size, condition and quality of construction of the house itself, what are some of the things which determine value?
A. There are a number of things taken into consideration when determining the market value of a property. These include the direction of growth of the city (properties in the direction of growth tend to increase in value), the actual location and access, the thoroughfare conditions and the character of the business done near the property. Things also considered are the grade of the land on which the house is built, building zone restrictions and the appreciation of the property since it was developed. Your realtor can give advice on good value points, as well as upgrading some which may not be favorable.

Casey's business dealings will face review

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan believes CIA Director William J. Casey "definitely ought to remain on the job" if his only fault was poor judgment in picking the chief of the agency's clandestine service, a White House spokesman said Saturday.

However, said presidential spokesman David Gergen, if there are other findings against the embattled CIA director — such as new evidence of wrongdoing in his past financial dealings — the president would have to review the matter.

Casey's business background is being reviewed by the Intelligence Committee in the wake of a judge's finding that he and other directors of a now-defunct company knowingly misled stockholders.

After conferring with the president, Gergen told reporters, "If the Intelligence Committee concludes that the only substantial charge against Mr. Casey involves his judgment in the appointment of Mr. Hugel, the president believes that Bill Casey definitely ought to remain on the job."

Asked why Reagan's sanction did not extend to Casey's business dealings, Gergen replied, "We're not trying to make that kind of broad generalization."

Casey selected Max Hugel, a businessman with little experience in the intelligence field, for the highly sensitive job of spymaster. Hugel has already resigned in the wake of charges about his own business dealings.

Gergen said that presidential counsel Fred Fielding, who is reviewing the information being supplied to the Senate committee for its investigation, has found no evidence to change his opinion that Casey was fit for the job.

Trying to mute criticism of Casey on Capitol Hill, Gergen also urged senators to reserve judgment on the CIA director until all the facts are in. He said that several senators — numbering between three to five — have contacted that White House in the last 24 hours to say "they will not rush to judgment with regard to Mr. Casey."

The only senators he would identify are Democrat Henry Jackson of Washington and Republican Paul Laxalt of Nevada.

Meanwhile Saturday, a Republican member of the Intelligence Committee said the panel will make "a fairly quick evaluation" of Casey's financial affairs.

"I think we are moving toward a resolution," Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., said in an interview on the Cable News Network.

Accused of questionable financial practices, Casey is due to provide his rebuttal to the committee on Monday. Although President Reagan told reporters late Friday "we still have confidence" in the CIA director, the committee chairman, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and a number of other senators have called for his resignation.

Lugar said he was concerned about the impact of the controversy on the CIA, but also thought "the justice in the situation" called for consideration of Casey's defense. "People in public life ought not to be carnivorous, simply leaping to make mischief," he said.

The senator said the committee would follow an orderly procedure, but also came up with "a rather quick reading" for Reagan to consider. "It's his decision," Lugar said.

Lugar said the recommendation from the committee would probably be made by Tuesday and conveyed to the White House by Goldwater or Senate Republican leader Howard Baker, who is also a member of the committee.

With several influential Republicans urging Casey to step down, the 68-year-old CIA director issued a statement Friday vowing to lay to rest criticisms of his past business dealings and management of the CIA.

Corpus police hit with brutality suit

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — City officials, reeling from news of a $2.5 million police brutality lawsuit, vehemently have denied allegations of wrongdoing from the American Civil Liberties Union.

The lawsuit announced Friday by the ACLU was the second police brutality suit to be filed in South Texas in recent months. The first suit was filed after videotapes were obtained — and nationally televised — showing McAllen officers beating prisoners.

Although no videotapes accompanied the most recent suit, ACLU attorney James C. Harrington said he has asked State District Judge Vernon Harville to issue an injunction barring city officials from destroying "a large number of photographs of police brutality cases."

Harrington also said abuse in this coastal city is "more serious" than in McAllen.

"The injuries here are much more severe and the arrests are much more without cause," he said.

But Police Chief Bill Banner, named as a defendant in the suit, denied that charge.

"I think the statement that the situation here is worse than the situation as we have had it described in McAllen is not only irresponsible, it is false," he said.

Banner said his reaction to the suit was "chagrin, shock and outrage."

Nueces County Attorney Mike Westergren, another defendant, denied the suit's claim that he "knowingly" prosecuted charges arising from false arrests to cover up police misconduct.

"Just because there are allegations (of police brutality) or even injuries, that does not mean that the officer involved does not have a valid complaint," Westergren added.

City Manager Marvin Townsend, also named in the suit, criticized ACLU attorneys for not bringing the allegations to city hall before calling the news conference Friday.

Harrington, director of the South Texas project of the ACLU, filed the suit on behalf of six plaintiffs. He says their civil rights were violated by officers because of "an ongoing practice of police misconduct."

Harrington said people began bringing him complaints about police brutality in Corpus Christi after publicity surrounding the McAllen case became widespread.

Others named as defendants in the suit were officers Jorge L. Gonzalez, Eric Wramp, C.R. Wimberly, Dennis J. Alvarez, Jesus Quiroz, Richard Pena and four listed by their last names as Garritt, Roquette, McDonald and Campbell.

The plaintiffs are Cathy Salinas, 48, and her son Aaron Salinas, 10; Francisco G. Salazar, 36; Viola Garcia Duque, 30; William Pfirman, 30, and Gilbert Cerda, 31.

The suit says Mrs. Salinas was "maliciously and without cause" beaten by Gonzalez when she exchanged words with police when her son was stopped for questioning. She accused Campbell of harassing her at her place of business after the incident.

Alvarez and Pena beat Salazar, the suit claimed, "causing him serious physical injury for which he sought and received medical attention."

Library offers service of 16mm projector

By JUDITH GRAY
County Librarian

Our patrons who borrow films will be delighted to learn that our 16mm sound projector is available again. It has been repaired, serviced and is ready for action. We apologize to those individuals and groups who use our film service and who were unfortunately inconvenienced.

If it is possible we are planning to purchase another movie projector to increase the number available to our borrowers.

HEY KIDS!!

The Summer Reading Program closes on Wednesday, July 29th. No reports will be taken after 5:30 p.m.

If you are between the grades of Kindergarten and 8th grade and haven't signed up as a member of the Reading Club this summer along with the 405 kids who have, it's not too late. You have Tuesday and Wednesday to sign up and report on ten library books that you've read.

If you're already one of the 405 members, but you haven't reported on your ten books, you have until the 29th too. It would be great if everybody could read and report on ten books and earn their certificates!

At our last activity day on July 23rd, the children who had worked hard pasting, coloring, shaping boxes which were segments of the Monster Madness Dragon, marched out through the lair of the Dragon (in the basement) and set it up on the front steps of the Library. The Dragon's head was created by Mrs. Logan and Mrs. Jackson and our volunteers, Claire Littlewood and TV Lynn Barnett.

After the Herald's photographer took a picture of the Dragon and friends, the children were entertained by our local magician, Mr. Wilson.

The closing party, July 30th from 10:00 to approximately 12:15 or 12:30 will feature the following: a Monster costume contest; how to decorate cakes and a do-it-yourself Monster cupcake; certificates and awards to be presented; and a sack-lunch (bring-it-yourself) picnic on the side lawn.

ALL CHILDREN WHO HAVE READ THEIR TEN BOOKS AND EARNED A CERTIFICATE ARE INVITED.

Indeed, all members are invited and urged to come.

If you won't be in town on the 30th, please make arrangements to pick up your certificate and your reading log.

Monster costume is not required. Those children who wish to dress up (and whose parents agree) may come in their ideas of monster-wear. Some suggestions are to take a grocery bag, cut neck and arm holes, and decorate, or use an old t-shirt or item of clothing. If Mom will permit it, borrow some make-up and "do" your face as a monster. Ask Mom first!!!! Maybe she'll help you. DO NOT WEAR PLASTIC, WARM OR HEAVY CLOTHING, OR MASKS. Be safe, cool and comfortable. Ribbons will be awarded to the funniest, best looking, strangest, etc., costumes and make-up.

After the costume parade, cake-decorating and certificates and awards we will have a picnic on the lawn next to the Library. Bring a sack lunch and a towel or something to sit on. Beverage and dessert will be provided.

Mothers: We need donations of cupcakes. Please contact Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Logan, or Mrs. Gray. Mothers, Fathers Older Brothers and Sisters: We may need help with crowd control, if you would be willing to assist us, please call and volunteer. See ya at the party. Keep on reading!!!

One foot error made in nuke plant plans

HOUSTON (AP) — Surveyors made a one-foot error in laying out a building at the South Texas Nuclear Project, but the mistake should not cause the plant any problems, a Brown & Root Inc. witness has said.

A Nuclear Regulatory Commission licensing board heard Richard W. Peverley's testimony Friday before adjourning until September 14 at the South Texas Cowge of La

The NRC panel is listening to testimony concerning the character and competence of Houston Lighting & Power Co. to operate the controversial $2.7 billion nuclear plant near Bay City.

Peverley is an assistant project manager for Brown & Root, the huge Houston-based construction company that is building the plant. Surveyors made the mistake because they used the wrong reference marker, Peverley said.

Father, son meet for first time in 14 years

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Walter Ladnier had seen his father last when he graduated from high school in Houston 14 years ago. This past week they almost bumped into each other in a motel.

"What's your name?" Ladnier, 33, called to a man carrying an ice chest.

"What's your last name?" replied the older man, Wilmer Ladnier of Pascagoula,

Miss. "It wouldn't be Ladnier, would it?" "I said, 'It sure would be. I'm your son, don't you know me?'" said Walter, who had grown a beard and had to show his driver's license to convince his father of his identity.

The father was in town doing construction work, and the son was here for a short vacation from his job in Houston.

HC financial aid available

"When in doubt, fill it out." That's the advice to students trying to decide whether to apply for financial aid from Ann Duncan, Director of Financial Aids at the Howard County Junior College District.

"A financial aid package is based on many variables, such as applicant's parental income (or if independent, the student's income), assets, medical expenses, size of family and number of children in college. Aid may be available, even to families with "middle level" incomes," said Duncan.

In 1980-81, HCJCD students received over $300,000 in aids of all types. "Most financial aid packages" include a combination of grants, scholarships, employment and loans. The HCJCD tries to cover the student's financial need with other types of aid before recommending loans so that the student will not be burdened with loan payments after graduation," said Duncan.

Beat Midland Eastern, 5-3

Texans win Dist. III crown

In a thriller that went right down to the wire, the Big Spring Texas All-Stars topped Midland Eastern, 5-3, on National League turf here Friday night in the finals of the District III Little League Tournament.

The victory propels the Texans, who were unbeaten in the double elimination tournament, into bi-district against Pecos. That tournament will be unregretted.

Saturday night in Pecos. The winner then goes to the State Tournament at Waco later in August.

Most of the drama in the tension-packed contest was crowded into the final inning. The Texans, the 'visiting' club through the luck of the draw, broke a 3-3 deadlock by scoring two unearned runs.

Roy Puga led off with a base on balls. He moved into scoring position but tried to leg it home on a fly ball hit to center by Phillip Matthews. A good throw cut down Puga at the plate.

Undaunted, the Texans went back to work. Louis Morelon walked and Sidney Parker reached base when an unsuccessful try was made to get the lead runner at second base. A wild pitch by Joe Rendon enabled Morelon to hot-foot it home from third. The Midland catcher, Jimmy Yorkman, then tried to arrest Parker at third. When his throw went into left field, Parker roared home.

Midland was far from through. Jimmy Fennell singled to lead off the round. Carlos Lozano followed up with a drive into right that almost everyone thought was going out of the park. Sammy Rodriguez leaned against the fence to pull it down. Relief pitcher Jay Fryar, proceeded to fan Joe Rendon and Rocky Sanchez to end the inning and bring Big Spring home a winner.

It was the first time in about five years Big Spring had fielded a district winner and it was the Texas League then that fielded the champion.

Big Spring scored twice in the first after Matthews led off with a single. Parker brought him home by reaching base on an error. Rodriguez moved Parker along with a single and Jerry Paredes scored him on a fielder's choice.

In the third, Paredes widened the gap with a solo home run, only extra base hit of the game.

Midland fought back in its half of the third after two batters had been retired. Joe Rendon and Rocky Sanchez both walked. An infield error enabled both of them to get home.

Midland tied the score in the fourth when Rendon singled to score Gappi Bernal, who had walked.

Mathews and Parker each had two hits for the Texans while Midland managed only three safeties off two Big Spring pitchers, each by a different batter. Jay Fryar, who worked the last 3 and one-third innings on the mound, was credited with the win while the loss was charged to Rendon.

Calls go against Soviets

U.S. athletes prevail

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — A wild U.S.-Soviet semifinal in the World University Games basketball tournament overshadowed record-setting gold medal performances at the track and swimming pool Saturday as the flashy Americans downed the Soviets 113-107 in double overtime.

A mostly Romanian crowd of about 1,600 turned the tiny Giulesti gymnasium into a hotbox, cheering the moves of Villanova's John Pinone and Louisiana State's Howard Carter as well as some hotly contested officials' calls that went against the Soviets.

Sergei Fesenko of the Soviet Union set a Games' record in winning the men's 200-meter individual swim medley, and Olympic silver medalist Alexandr Chaeov won the 1,500 freestyle in meet-record time.

Kim Carlisle of Stanford won a U.S. gold in the women's 200-meter medley in a close finish over Olga Klevakina of the Soviet Union.

Cliff Wiley, wheezing with asthma, outran teammate Walter McCoy to give the United States a 1-2 finish in the men's 400 meters in 45.18 seconds.

Kathy Smallwood won the 200 meters to give Britain a clean sweep of the women's sprints. The dual Olympic finalist won in 22.78, emulating Bev Goddard's 100-meter victory earlier in the week.

West German Klaus Ploghaus heaved the hammer 255 feet, 1 inch, breaking his two-year-old Games' record.

But empty seats were abundant at the 70,000-capacity track stadium, while spectators tried to squeeze past security guards into the gym where Americans and Soviets clashed on the basketball court.

Carter scored 28 points, most of them from the outside, and Pinone collected 27, many against 7-foot-4 Soviet center Vladimir Tkachenko under the basket. John Bagley of Boston College, Kevin Boyle of Iowa and Kevin Magee of California-Irvine worked an acrobatic inside offense against the big Soviets and combined with North Carolina State's Sid Lowe to shake up the Soviets on defense.

"Our quickness bothers some people," said Coach Tom vis of Boston College. Soviet Coach Vladimir Kolos and several Soviet players bitterly protested the officials' decisions that kept the Americans in the game.

With the score tied at 101 in the first overtime, a foul was called against the United States in a rebound battle under the Soviet basket. Officials at first signaled that the Soviets would get two free throws, but changed the decision seconds later, saying time had run out.

"Today the shots fell for us and didn't fall for them," said Davis.

Sergei Lovassa was the game's high scorer with 29 points for the Soviets.

C-C Dodgers in district

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Dodgers Freshman League team (10-12-year olds) coached by Carol Sue Dakan, will compete in the district tournament in Brownwood beginning Monday. Steve Smith assists Ms. Dakan.

Ending the season with a 15-0 record, the Dodgers roster includes Paul Arellano, Mark Arellano, Able Arellano, Reggie Gardner, Albert Rivera, Dion Alvarez, Ray Rivera, Wylie Dakan, Steve Smith, George Lara and Jason Free.

Alternates are Ralph Gonzales, Eddie Benitez and Larry Paul Raska.

The tournament is a ten-team double elimination event involving teams from Brownwood, Hawley, Sweetwater, Brady, Comanche and Colorado City.

Winner of the district tournament will go on to the state tourney in Monahans beginning Aug. 10.

Shares Busch lead

Strange fires 64

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Hometown favorite Curtis Strange preserved a course record, 7-under-par 64 with a scrambling par on the final hole and surged into a three-way tie for third-round lead Saturday in the $300,000 Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

Strange, who represents the Kingsmill Golf Club on the PGA Tour and whose home is only a mile away, compiled a 54-hole total of 209. He was four shots under on the hilly, 6,822-yard layout that has been the subject of considerable criticism from some of his fellow golfers.

He shared the top spot with former PGA champion John Mahaffey, whose third-round 70 in the hot, humid, hazy weather that blanketed the Virginia Tidewater country, and Howard Twitty, who birdied the 18th hole for a par 71.

"I'm extremely pleased for two reasons," said Strange, who was followed by a huge gallery of friends, neighbors and relatives as he came from eight shots off the pace.

"First of all, it got me back in contention when I thought I was out of it."

"And it laid to rest some of the criticism of the golf course. You can't shoot 64 on a badly conditioned golf course."

A single stroke back at 213 were former U.S. Open titleholder Andy North, George Cadle and Mike Sullivan. North closed up with a 67, Cadle shot 68, and Sullivan 69.

Second-round leader Wayne Levi, Lyn Lott and veteran Butch Baird were at 211, only two back. Levi slipped to a 74. Lott shot a 67, Baird 68.

South African Gary Player had a 68 and topped a group at 212. There were five at that figure, placing a total of 14 men within three strokes of the top spot — and 25 within four shots — going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $54,000 first prize.

British Open champ Bill Rogers had to rally from a double bogey on the ninth to shoot a 72 that left him at 214. Strange, a native of nearby Norfolk, Va., but now a resident of this resort community, missed only one green in his remarkable effort over his home course.

On the 16th, his drive came to rest on a cartpath and Curtis opted to play it off the pavement rather than drop in deep rough.

Foyt hospitalized following crash

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AX) — Veteran driver A.J. Foyt suffered multiple injuries Saturday when his car crashed during the Norton Michigan 500 Indy-car race at Michigan International Speedway.

The 48-year-old driver from Houston had to be cut out of his Coyote-Cosworth with power tools.

Foyt suffered a compound fracture to his right arm, a puncture wound to his left leg and a possible compound fracture to his left leg, said Dr. Stephen Olvey, medical director for CART, the sanctioning organization for the race. There was no evidence of internal injuries, Olvey said.

Foyt, a four-time Indianapolis 500 winner and generally regarded as America's premier race car driver, was taken to the track first-aid station for treatment. He then was placed on a stretcher and taken by helicopter to University of Michigan

Hospital in Ann Arbor, about 30 miles to the east, where a hospital spokesman said he had not yet been admitted.

Officials said he was knocked unconscious in the wreck but was regaining his senses as he was being placed into an ambulance.

Serious fire delays event

Pancho Carter wins race

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP) — Pancho Carter survived an early spin, a 97 minute race delay caused by a serious fuel fire and a late charge by Tony Bettenhausen to win the Norton Michigan 500 Indy car race Saturday at Michigan International Speedway. Fifteen people were hurt during the race — 14 of them in the fire.

The 15th and most serious injury was suffered by veteran driver A.J. Foyt, who crashed into a wall and was hospitalized for multiple injuries.

It was the first Indy-car victory for the 31-year-old Carter. His best previous finish since joining the Indy circuit in 1974 was second on five occasions. He averaged 132.34 mph in a race slowed by 13 caution periods.

Bettenhausen was the only driver on the same lap with Carter, finishing just 1.6 seconds behind.

Foyt, 48, considered America's outstanding racer after unparalleled success in all forms of auto racing, was hospitalized in serious condition at University Hospital in Ann Arbor after suffering a compound fracture of his right arm, a puncture wound to his leg and a possible fractured left leg, doctors said.

He was knocked unconscious briefly when his Coyote-Cosworth struck the wall on the second turn of lap 80 on the two mile MIS oval.

Only two cars finished the entire 250 laps and just 11 of the 37 starters remained at the end.

Carter, who pocketed $65,000 of the $500,000 purse, spun his PC7-Cosworth on lap 25, but managed to keep from crashing. A lap later, the caution light came out, prompting many of the drivers to make pit stops.

A fire broke out in the pit of Herm Johnson, igniting him and several of his pit crew. The blaze, triggered by a malfunction in the hose to his 240-gallon pit tank of volatile methanol, spread to at least three other tanks, exploded an air compressor and burned tires.

Fourteen people, including Johnson, suffered a variety of burns and injuries.

The race, already delayed six days because of rain last weekend, was halted 97 minutes.

The race was the first 500-mile affair for the high-banked Michigan track and ended in the early evening dusk some 5 1/2 hours after it began.

Rick Mears finished third, two laps back, followed by Bill Alsup and Tom Bigelow, each three laps behind.

Carter started the race from inside the second row, worked his way from a lap down 110 laps into the race, then marched through the field as attrition took out the early leaders.

He first went ahead on lap 144, lost the lead to Al Unser at lap 179, lost it briefly again during a pit stop but paced the field for the final 55 circuits.

Tom Sneva, who started from the pole after qualifying at 200.892 mph, duled the first third of the race with Johnny Rutherford and Mike Mosely. But Sneva encountered gearbox problems. Rutherford succumbed to a blown tire and Mosely ran out of fuel and then blew an engine.

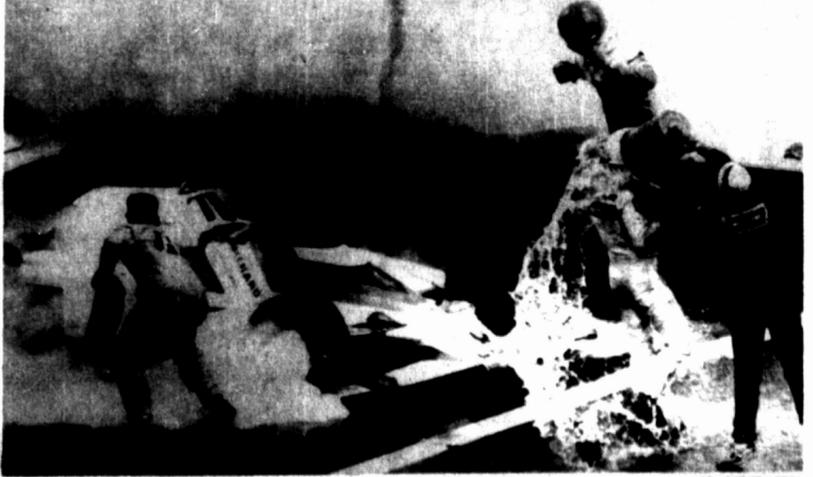

Three-time Indy 500 winner Al Unser also made a bid, leading for 37 laps, but he, too, blew an engine.

For Bettenhausen, whose father won at Indianapolis twice in the 1950s before dying there in a crash, the second-place finish was his best ever. He was making just his 11th start in a championship car.

Bobby Unser, whose first-place finish at Indianapolis in May was disallowed because of a rule infraction, never was a factor. He nipped a wall early in the contest, damaged his brakes and was unable to compete with the leaders.

There were 18 lead changes and the race was slowed by 13 cautions, leaving 78 of the 250 laps run under yellow.

About 60,000 fans attended the event, which was broadcast nationally by NBC.

which injured several people, caused a halt in the Norton Michigan 500 on the 29th lap.

Decision didn't hurt NFL, league official insists

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge's decision to throw out one of the National Football League's key contentions in the Raiders antitrust trial is not expected to hurt the league's defense, an NFL official said Saturday.

"We've felt all along that our chances of winning this case were good. We think those chances remain the same despite Friday's loss on the single entity issue," said the spokesman, who asked not to be quoted by name.

He was referring to efforts by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and league attorneys to impress upon the jury during the 50 days of testimony that the NFL is a single entity consisting of 28 partners — the club owners who must do business by the same rules. But U.S. District Judge Harry Pregerson ruled Friday that the league is not a single entity.

The 10 jurors in the antitrust trial thus will not have to include in their deliberations the question of whether the league acted as a partnership when it blocked the Raiders' proposed move from Oakland to Los Angeles.

"A great deal still depends on the judge's instructions to the jury," the NFL spokesman said. "The jury still must decide on the rule of reason (whether the NFL reasonably applied its rule requiring a 75 percent membership vote to approve any proposed move by a franchise from one city to another). As long as they do not get the impression from the judge's instructions that our single entity-partnership defense was a fake, then we wouldn't change our rating of our overall chances."

Moreover, we did gain a significant victory Friday when the judge ruled in our favor and threw out the claim by the LA Coliseum and the Raiders that the league had unlawfully interfered with a business opportunity," he said. "That's one less issue the jury has to decide."

Final testimony in the trial concluded Thursday, with closing arguments scheduled to begin Monday. The jury is expected to get the case as early as Wednesday of next week.

Judge's Pregerson's decision on the "partnership" was considered a major triumph by the lawyers for the plaintiffs in the trial, the Raiders and the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission.

"We are gratified that the judge has decided to eliminate the so-called single entity issue from the case," said attorney Maxwell Blecher, who is representing the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"We think this was a stunning victory," said attorney Joseph Alioto, the former San Francisco mayor who is representing the Raiders and their managing general partner, Al Davis.

Pintor gets nod in bout with Latin

LAS VEGAS (AP) — World Boxing Council bantamweight champion Lupe Pintor is a heavy favorite to retain his title Sunday in the sixth defense of his crown against Venezuelan Jovito Rengifo.

Pintor, who won the crown in June 1979 in a controversial 15-round decision over Carlos Zarate, says he plans to defend it only once more a the Rengifo fight and move up in weight.

"I expect to make this defense, one more and then relinquish it and go for the super bantamweight title," the title holder from Cuajmalpa, Mexico said.

Pintor enters the bout with a 44-1 record, with 33 knockouts.

Rengifo, from Agua Negra, Venezuela, sports a 28-2 record, with 14 knockouts. His only two losses came in the flyweight division.

Although he never has fought in the United States, Rengifo has gone as far as Thailand for a fight and says fighting in a strange country doesn't bother him.

"I haven't had any problems here," he said. "I come well prepared."

The fight from the Showboat Hotel will be televised by CBS.

Big leagues could split '81 seasons

By the Associated Press

With a quarter of the baseball season gone, management of at least one team has taken its case directly to the players, while the players' union leaders prepared to meet in Chicago to brief their executive board on the progress of the strike.

Through Saturday, 526 games had been canceled because of the walkout.

Al Thornwell, executive vice president of the Atlanta Braves, said his team has voted in favor of a plan that would divide the 1981 season into two parts if the strike ends. The voting came in an informal poll by the office of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"The Braves voted for the split season concept that would award the (Los Angeles) Dodgers the division title for the first half of the season and start over for the second half," Thornwell said.

Boston Red Sox owner Haywood Sullivan sent mailgrams to his 25 players, outlining management's latest proposal to end the 44-day-old work stoppage. He said he would follow the mailgram with a full six-page proposal.

The Major League Players Association Executive Board, composed of the 26 player representatives, will meet in Chicago Monday.

Donald Fehr, the union's chief counsel, said the board also will be asked to approve a series of regional meetings where members of the negotiating team could brief as many players as possible.

Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett has said he would wait until after the executive board meeting to call the two sides back to bargain, with Wednesday a probable date.

Three of the players who have expressed dissatisfaction with certain aspects of the strike — Davey Lopes of the Dodgers, and Champ Summers and Dan Schatzeder of the Detroit Tigers — have been invited to attend the board meeting.

In another development, Baltimore Orioles owner Edward Bennett Williams charged that Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, has "lost control of the union."

Williams has been critical of the owner's negotiators in the past.

Miller was unavailable for comment on Williams' statement.

The talks, which had been moved from New York to Washington last Monday, broke off Thursday. The latest owners' proposal was rejected by the players' negotiators.

Registration is set for league

Registration for the third and fourth grade Little Football League will be held Monday and Tuesday night in the Steer Gym foyer from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. These are the first of two registration periods for the League.

Registration fee is five dollars. This fee helps with the cost of game jerseys. Prospects are also asked to bring birth certificates and will be weighed.

Practices will start Sept. 3, with the first game scheduled Sept. 19. Full equipment will be required for all games and contact practices.

Managers and coaches are still needed for the Marcy team and for one other team that may be formed. Anyone interested in helping is urged to come by the registration or contact Eddie Akin or Ken Winchester at 263-9638 or 263-4914, respectively.

THE LONG ROAD BACK — Gus Williams, who led the Seattle Sonics in scoring for three years in a row, limbers up at a New York gym Thursday night prior to a New York Pro Summer League game. The league, which features some pro stars but is primarily a place for lesser-known college players and free agents to get in shape for the job-hunting season, is a stepping stone for Williams, who sat out the 1980-81 NBA season when he was unable to negotiate a contract with any NBA team.

Gil Brandt willing

Pearson wants increase

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Veteran wide receiver Drew Pearson, hero of many last-gasp Dallas Cowboy victories during his nine National Football League seasons, wants to renegotiate his contract.

Dallas personnel director Gil Brandt, an admirer of Pearson's play for many years, said he's willing.

But the two sides are about $60,000 apart in talks that have bogged down and to hear Brandt and Pearson talk, the problem is James Lofton.

"I just wanted to wait and see what he (Lofton) got, and go from there," said Pearson. Lofton, a four-year veteran from Rice, signed Wednesday with the Green Bay Packers after protracted negotiations.

"There's no question in my mind I should be making as much as him," said Pearson, whose credits include three Super Bowl appearances, three Pro Bowls and 37 touchdown catches in nine years. "He's done some great things in Green Bay and he's a great receiver, but he hasn't done the things I've done."

The renegotiating was Brandt's idea initially, a suggestion he made after Pearson caught a touchdown pass with 42 seconds remaining to seal last year's 30-27 NFL playoff win over Atlanta. However, he said he will not play Keeping Up With the Packers, as Pearson suggests.

"Drew has been a fine football player for us and he's a fine person," Brandt said. "If we can settle something, that's fine. We're going to do what we can."

But?

"I don't think we should have to compete with Green Bay money-wise in any way, shape or form. We don't care what Green Bay pays. We don't care what the New York Giants pay."

"We're going to have a salary structure on our football team and that's the way we operate. If you want to live in Green Bay, have no off-season job opportunities and pay one of the highest state income taxes in the United States, that's fine. But we're not going to compete with that sort of stuff."

Pearson said he will not play if satisfactory terms cannot be worked out.

"I hate to say this because I love the game," Pearson said. "But right now I'm playing the game for money. When you're 30 years old, there's no other way you can play football. My salary, then, is going to be my motivator this year."

Pearson's is not the first salary dispute to entangle Brandt this month. The Cowboys' other starting wide receiver, Tony Hill, has brought agent Mike Trope to camp to renegotiate his contract, too.

Brandt went down to the wire before working out contracts with draft picks Howard Richards, Doug Donley, Glen Titensor and Pat Graham, while veterans Randy White and Pat Donovan — both in the final year of their contracts and eligible to become free agents — remain unsigned to new agreements.

Carpenter Too many 9-year-olds shows up Rule hampers team in camp

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston Oilers running back Rob Carpenter, who has tried since January to get the Oilers to trade him, finally has reported to training camp after persuading a prospective buyer not to purchase his house.

Carpenter, who felt his talents were being wasted in the Oilers' two tight end offense, checked into the Oilers camp after missing two days of practice that cost him $1,000 in fines.

Carpenter, expected to fit in better with new head coach Ed Biles' diversified offense, had threatened to retire unless traded.

How close did he come to retiring? "Pretty close. In fact, I had to get out of selling my house," Carpenter said.

"Now I've got two houses so I guess I better keep my job."

Biles and Houston general manager Ladd Herzeg finally convinced Carpenter that he would get a fair chance at more playing time.

DALLAS (AP) — While grown-up baseball players are striking over pay, the 8- and 9-year-old members of the Orioles are trying to avoid striking out with a 14-0 record.

Their coach, Ken Wineburg, says his team has been pitched a curve by the North Dallas Chamber of Commerce Baseball Softball League, which denied the team an opportunity to play for the division championship.

Wineburg says the Orioles were disqualified because too many 9-year-olds were on the roster. But the league chairman says it was because the roster was one short of a 14-player requirement.

"The league has a two-inning substitution rule," Jerold Prager explained. "The more players you have on the team, the more often you have to let weaker players play, which in turn can hurt your chances of winning."

Prager "knew we didn't have a roster breakdown that conformed to league rules, but he told me not to worry. He said he'd 'cover' me," Wineburg said.

Unless the situation improves, he says a lawsuit will be filed — and the lawyer retained by the team says he has an "ironclad case."

"These kids paid $20 to play baseball and to win," said attorney Willis Logan. "They believed they would have a chance to win the league title and signed contracts with the league to that effect."

The league, which knew of the team's inability to compete according to predetermined rules, took that money anyway. And then when the team surprised everyone, the league denied the kids a chance to play for the championship."

Logan calls it "a breach of contract, clear and simple."

The coach said he built a team out of players assigned to the Orioles by the league, knowing that the roster of ten 9-year-olds, two 8-year-olds and one 7-year-old didn't conform to a rule requiring 50 percent of them to be under age 9.

Rogers has hot string

Kelly Rogers gunned his way to the Junior title in the 14-18 age group of the South-west Zone Trapshooting Tournament in Fort Worth recently, and in two events in the open classes, competing against all-age shooters.

Rogers struck 198 of the possible 200 for the Junior Title in the eight state south-west zone of the United States. He captured the Class A singles open class preliminary with 99 of 100 targets hit, and connected on 198 of 200 to win the Class AA singles championship.

The 16-year old Big Spring High School junior-to-be also was a winner at the Oklahoma State Trap Championship Tournament in El Reno, Okla. earlier in the month, competing against 400 registered shooters. Rogers tied for the open out-of-state handicap championship with a score of 97 for 100, and then won the title by hitting 49 of 50 in a shoot-off. He also won the doubles championship and was runner-up in the preliminary handicap event and President's handicap.

He is the son of Jerry and Dorothy Rogers.

"I was kind of unsure of my situation here," said Carpenter, who caught 43 passes last season and rushed 359 yards.

"I felt like I wasn't given the opportunity to play here the last two years. The point I was trying to make was more playing time, and I thought, for Rob Carpenter, it might be better to go someplace else."

"Now, the way things are here, I might have been wrong in my opinion."

Carpenter's return left the Oilers with only one veteran starter not in camp. Free agent safety Mike Reinfeldt had not signed a contract after playing out his option last season.

Cornerback Carter Hartwig has been moved to the safety position and Biles has been pleased with his work.

"Sometimes when people work in positions like that, they have a way of getting those positions," Biles said. "I don't say that as a threat. I say it as a positive statement."

The Oilers reduced their roster to 80 players Friday by waiving offensive tackle Conway Hayman, along with rookie center Doug Lantz and wide receiver Paul Miller.

Undersized game fish should be released

AUSTIN — Most fishermen would agree that returning undersized game fish to the water is a good idea. But it's good conservation only if done correctly.

Fisheries biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department point out that largemouth bass are the most caught-and-released fish in the state, and are subject to high mortality rates if mishandled.

"Summer is a particularly critical time, since large numbers of smaller bass are caught by anglers, and the warm water and air temperatures tend to put more stress than usual on the fish," said Inland Fisheries Management Coordinator Bob Bounds.

Bounds said a bass to be released should be left in the water if possible while the hook is being removed. However, if lifting is necessary, the angler should grasp the bass' lower jaw, which forces open its mouth.

A pair of needle-nosed pliers is safer and more effective than bare hands for removing imbedded hooks.

If a single hook is too deep in the fish's throat to reach, it's best to simply cut the leader near the hook and release the fish.

If a fish must be held, the fisherman should first wet his hands and then grasp the fish gently on the gill plates. "You should avoid grabbing the fish around its mid-section, because that can remove much of its protective slime coating and can injure internal organs," said Bounds.

Bounds noted that with the increasing need for minimum-length and "slot" length limits on Texas' lakes, releasing techniques become even more important. "Studies have shown that when handled properly, largemouth bass have a very good survival rate, even in warm weather," Fayette Power Project Lake near LaGrange is a good example, he said, as a fairly high percentage of bass caught there have been hooked and released, some more than once. The lake has a special three bass per day and 16-inch minimum length limit.

Experts expected to solve Medfly problems

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas and California agriculture leaders agreed informally Friday that politicians should be guided by agriculture experts in such situations as the California Mediterranean fruit fly infestation. "We think that politics and technical information should be separated," said Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, who has criticized California Gov. Jerry Brown for opposing aerial spraying of the Medfly infestation in three California counties. "The problem is there has been a fusion of political issues with technical issues," said Mickey George, Fresno County grower of grapes and citrus. "It was a political decision not to apply aerial spray... agricultural organizations recommended aerial spraying last November." Brown and other Texas officials, growers and legislators held a closed door session with a group of California agriculture officials and growers. The meeting closed out a three-day tour by the Californians of the five states that tried to quarantine California produce because of Medfly. "We are here because we are very concerned," said Don Rosendahl, president of the Fresno County Farm Bureau. "We are determined to show people of Texas that we are concerned. There has been too much bad press that we were not concerned."

Local famous roper to be inducted into National Cowboy Hall of Fame

By MICKIE DICKSON

Toots Mansfield, seven times world's champion calf-roper, will be inducted into the National Rodeo Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center, Dec. 31. Mansfield will receive this honor at the annual Awards Banquet of the Rodeo Historical Society in Rodeo Hall at Oklahoma City, Okla.

"In every sport, you have the people who set the patterns," Rich Anderson, director of the Big Spring Rodeo Association Board, told members of the Big Spring Rodeo Association, friends and family at a luncheon June 25 at the Brändin Iron. "I don't think until recent years, rodeoing was thought of as a sport, but you have to be an athlete."

Anderson said the two greatest ropers were Mansfield, "who was an artist with the rope" and Jake McClure. "Those two men set a pattern in roping."

"Besides that, Toots is a gentleman and a gentle man," he continued. "He's the gentlest, nicest person I've ever known. I've never heard him say a bad word about anyone."

It is said locally that with Mansfield's strength and excellent coordination, he would have succeeded in any sport he happened to choose. Once on a whim, he challenged a sprinter on a track team while wearing street clothes and beat him.

Toots was honored by Howard County residents at the annual HC Rodeo June 26, "Toots Mansfield Day" with a standing ovation and a silver belt buckle.

Toots still serves on the Big Spring Rodeo Association Board of Directors with 10 other men. He served as president of the Rodeo Cowboys Association in the 1950's.

Mansfield had a favorite quarterhorse named Dunny, a smoky dun color, that worked with him for years.

Entering a "classic roping" event in 1947, with other top ropers of the nation, Toots won the event, taking home $15,000 in prize money. Each man had put up a $1,000 entry fee.

During one round of competition, Mansfield broke his leg, but went on to tie the steer, then five more, than six calves before going to the hospital.

Toots stopped roping as a career in 1964 and began teaching roping around Big Spring. Many of the world's top ropers have been taught by him.

"Toots Mansfield has set records that still hold," Bob Lewis, emcee for the rodeo event, told the rodeo crowd. "He still has millions of fans across the country."

The purpose of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center is to preserve the heritage, ideals and inspirations of our Western forefathers, accurately and authentically, who stood together and fought for a concept of life known to few others. It also honors and pays tribute to living as well as deceased persons who have made outstanding contributions to the West.

Located on Persimmon Hill, overlooking the old Chisolm Trail on U.S. Highway 66 in Oklahoma City, Okla., 1700 N.E. 63rd St., it was proclaimed a National Memorial by Congress in 1967. The dream of the late Chester A. Reynolds, Kansas City, Mo., it is sponsored by 17 Western States and was completed in GOT HIM!—How all I have to do is tie him in record time. This young cowboy at Howard County Rodeo might have been one of Toots Mansfield's roping students. Toots held roping classes after retiring from professional rodeo.

1964. The name of the site, Persimmon Hill, was given to it in the days of the trail drives. Two varieties of native and oriental persimmon trees grow in the gardens at the Hall. The site covers 37 acres, and the museum today covers over 80,000 square feet.

The Cowboy Hall of Fame, in keeping with the independent spirit of the old West, has no government affiliations and uses no city, county, state or federal funds. Operational revenues come largely from the museum's admission charge. Growth, capital improvements and acquisitions come through memberships and gifts.

The overall design of the building suggests a pioneer's tent or circle of wagons surrounding a campfire. Viewed at night, with the roofs silhouetted against the moonlit sky, lights glow from within like a campfire and one can almost hear the sounds of days past. The large exhibition halls are designed to give visitors a feeling of freedom of the wide open spaces. Fountains and pools stress the importance of water to early day pioneers. These pools have unexpectedly become a "wishing well." Periodically the coins are collected and used for the museum's operation.

The Rodeo Hall of Fame honors outstanding cowboy and cowgirl competitors in rodeo. Honorees, in addition to our own champion roper, including rodeo's great producers and promoter's, in one of the largest display halls in America. Large cases contain honoree's trophies, saddles and other memorabilia. A life-size bronze statue of Bill Linderman, famous bull rider, by sculptor Robert Scriver, stands in the center of the hall. High above the hall is a replica of Charles M. Russell's "Bone Twister" by Juan Menchaca, then chief curator.

Each year the All Around Champion Cowboy has his portrait painted by a top portrait artist as a gift of the R.J. Reynolds Company.

Among the Honorees are Everett Bowman, Jake McClure, Leonard Stroud, Chester Byers, Bill Linderman, Pete Knight, Bill Pickett and cowgirls, Bertha Blanchett, Fannie Sperry Steele and Lucille Muchall. Others to be introduced Dec. 13 with Mansfield will be Nowata Slim Richardson, Mabel Strickland and Everett E. Colborn. In the Hambrick Gardens on the grounds of the Hall, two great bucking horses, Midnight and Five Minutes 'til Midnight are buried.

The Annual Rodeo Hall of Fame Honoree Induction and Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association Championship Awards Banquet is held during the National Finals Rodeo. The Rodeo Historical Society, headquartered at the Hall, holds a reunion of former hands during this time.

The Great Map of America, 45 by 60 feet, the largest of its kind in America, is in an auditorium seating over 100. The map is tilted toward the viewer to suggest the curvature of the earth, and is accompanied by a taped lecture and coordinated with colored lights to show the development of settlements, trails and railroads across the West.

Other attractions of the Hall are the West of Yesterday Gallery where grandparents can describe how it was in their day and children can see and experience the Old West for themselves. Located on the lower level of the Cowboy Hall of Fame are life-size exhibits of the Old West complete with sound effects.

The history of the West unfolds in sequence as the visitor walks through an Indian village scene, views a Mountain Man and a beaver's dam.

Gold is mined in one display complete with running water and a walk-through cave. The cook prepares a meal in the authentic chuck wagon from the Matador Ranch in Texas.

The Concord stagecoach waits with horses hitched up while the Marshal looks on. Visitors may enter a real sod house and a typical shepherd's wagon from Montana.

The Silver Dollar Saloon houses one of the country's largest nickelodeon collections, 10. A board walk leads through a typical old Western town with livery stable, blacksmith shop, Stockyard Inn, gun shop, saddle shop, lawyer's office, doctor's office, the Silver World newspaper, Osborn's Photo Studio, General Store and chapel.

What is the criterion that opens the doors of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame for a Cowboy's induction into Rodeo Hall?

If a man has been outstanding in one or more events, has been a champion in one or more events, that is impressive. If he has also been a leader, has contributed to the betterment of rodeo as an administrator or by the wisdom of his counsel, that is impressive, too. If he combines both specialties, his induction is almost a foregone conclusion.

Rodeo Hall has inducted several such remarkable contestant leaders, Everett Bowman, Hugh Bennett, Bill Linderman, Gene Pruett and Everett Shaw. Big Spring's Toots Mansfield will be one of the next inductees Dec. 13.

MEMBER OF THE BOARD—This photo of Mansfield was taken as he sat with members of the Big Spring Rodeo Association. Jimmy Taylor is standing behind.

Patients learn relaxation techniques

Bio-feedback relieves symptoms of stress

By Tina Miller

The phones are ringing, typewriters are pounding, three people are talking at once and you have an important meeting in half an hour. At the end of the day, you arrive home nervous, irritable and unable to sleep.

You are experiencing stress, a condition most Americans are all too familiar with. What many people are not familiar with, however, is how this everyday mental stress affects the body. The heart rate increases, blood pressure rises and muscles become tight. When untreated and uncontrolled, these symptoms can lead to chronic headaches, high blood pressure and heart attacks.

Medication such as tranquilizers can ease the tension, but this relieves the problem only temporarily and does not solve the problem at all. The true problem lies in the inability to relax. Though there are many methods of relaxation, including yoga and other forms of meditation, bio-feedback is becoming increasingly popular as a weapon against stress.

According to Steve Laughner, physical therapist at Malone Hogan Hospital, bio-feedback has been used for approximately 20 years, but has gained increased popularity in the last 10 years. "Approximately 75-percent of the physical problems in America today are stress related," he stated, "making it our biggest medical problem."

The concept of bio-feedback is simple, as is the machine. "If the patient can see that what the doctor is telling him to do is working," he explained, "he is encouraged and it reinforces his behavior." The machine itself is relatively small, in relaxation training, the patient assumes a comfortable position and sensors are usually attached to his forehead. "The sensors record the amount of tension in the muscles," he continued, "each muscle has some activity, and the machine converts the activity into sound. The greater the muscle activity, the more the machine 'clicks.' The object of the treatment is for the patient to completely relax, thus eliminating the sound."

The patient is led through a series of relaxation exercises including contracting and relaxing each muscle group, deep breathing and peaceful, visual images. "When the patient relaxes, his heartbeat slows, he usually feels warm and may experience a floating sensation," stated Laughner. "The warmth indicates that blood is flowing freely and circulation is slowing."

"In this way the patient can, to some extent, control his own heart rate and blood pressure. These functions are part of the autonomic nervous system since they operate involuntarily. With bio-feedback, the patient learns that he can control his heart rate and blood pressure. When the machine is silent, he knows he has accomplished his goal."

Though bio-feedback is effective in muscle re-education, (in victims of injury, stroke, and cerebral palsy), its greatest potential lies in the areas of stress. In addition to being prescribed by doctors, bio-feedback is also used by psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers. All reports indicated varying degrees of success, and Laughner believes that the treatments given locally have also been successful.

Part of the reason for this success is its simplicity. "The treatment isn't complicated," stated Laughner, "and the patient can master the techniques quickly."

The goal of biofeedback is to teach the patient to relax without the use of the machine. "Once the technique's learned, he explained, 'he knows how to relax and can do it anytime, anywhere.'"

Dr. Brian Caplan, who is engaged in family practice at Malone Hogan, began prescribing bio-feedback in his practice in South Africa in 1975. "The best results in biofeedback are in children," he said. "Young people also do well, but those over 50 and individuals who are addicted to medication usually do not benefit from the treatment."

"Bio-feedback has been particularly effective for victims of chronic and migraine headaches," Caplan continued. "Dr. Seymour Diamond, head of the Diamond Headache Clinic in Chicago, Ill., reports that the treatment is effective in slightly less than 50-percent of the 'hopeless' cases. This is an impressive figure when considering that these people had tried everything else."

Caplan conceded that other techniques are also effective in teaching relaxation. "However," he stated, "bio-feedback gets much faster results because the patient can see how to relax. People respond better to something they can see."

Bio-feedback is not complete treatment in itself. Relaxation tapes, medication when needed, sometimes a psychologist, proper diet and exercise all work together in the treatment of stress. Caplan believes that exercise is particularly important. "The stress and tension in our modern society is not physical, but mental," he explained. "The body, however, reacts as if to a physical threat with higher blood pressure and increased heart rate, even though it isn't necessary.

RELAX — Steve Laughner, right, physical therapist at Malone-Hogan Hospital, explains the techniques of relaxation to Don Hare. Sensors placed on the forehead read the amount of tension in the muscles, and convert the tension into sound.

Jogging, swimming, or any type of exercise except muscle tension exercises (such as weight lifting) provide a release from this tension, enabling the body to relax.

"The patient should not expect to be hooked up to this machine and automatically healed," Caplan cautioned. "Relaxation is not instant, and it requires several treatments in order to master the process. The patient has a great deal of responsibility for the success or failure of the treatment," he continued "because he learns to recognize the early signs of stress and thus has the opportunity to start. "This is a vast improvement over the 'doctor make me well' attitude."

"Bio-feedback is not a fad," Caplan emphasized. "Though the role it plays in the treatment of each individual varies, it is definitely important in the treatment and control of tension."

Some catalogs offer bio-feedback units for use in the home. While Caplan believes the purchase of the machine is harmless, he also believes it is unnecessary except in the case of a continuous physical problem. "After several treatments with the unit, the individual can relax without it," he explained. "The patient should practice relaxing on a daily basis," he added, "not just when he has a headache or another symptom of stress."

Bio-feedback allows an individual to be aware of and control his body tensions through relaxation. It should be used only after thorough diagnosis and treatment that eliminates any pathological causes for the symptoms.

MRS. GEORGE KEVIN YEILDING

Couple is united in Midland Saturday

Patti Jane Buchanan became the bride of George Kevin Yeilding in a ceremony Saturday afternoon in the Crestview Baptist Church, Midland, with Dr. Kenneth Hall, pastor, officiating.

Vows were exchanged at 2 p.m. before fan-shaped and spiral candelabra enhanced by greenery and floral arrangements of yellow, white and lavender.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jordan D. Buchanan, Midland and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yeilding, Snyder.

Traditional wedding music was rendered at the organ by Betty Schuler with Kathy Steele, Linda and Ty Morris vocalizing.

The bride was accompanied down the aisle wearing a gown of sheer gauze over peau de sois, fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a sheer yoke and high collar of point d'esprit and long fitted sleeves. The A-line skirt, enhanced by Cluny lace, featured a deep pleated flounce edged with lace from the waist to back of the chapel length train.

The fingertip length three-tiered French illusion veil was attached to a Cluny lace cap sprinkled with seed pearls. A cascade of Japhet orchids with sweetheart roses, stephanotis, lilies-of-the-valley and baby's breath with needlepoint ivy and springeria fern resting on a white Bible composed the bridal bouquet.

Julie Hobbs, Midland, was matron of honor. Patricia Futrell, was bridesmaid and Angela Gilbert, Dallas, niece of the bride, Junior bridesmaid.

Sesame Street gets Nashville beat on new children's album

Four top country music recording artists have teamed with Muppet favorites from TV's Sesame Street to create "Sesame Country," a new Nashville-sound album for the whole family.

The album, featuring ten original country-western songs for children, includes duets such as "Keep on Smiling" by Glen Campbell and Oscar the Grouch, "Count on Me" with Loretta Lynn and The Count, and two tunes pairing Big Bird with guest stars Crystal Gayle and Tanya Tucker.

The four guest singers donated their time and talents for the record, whose proceeds will be used to help support the Sesame Street TV series. Sesame Street was created by Children's Television Workshop to help preschoolers make the transition from home to school, with inner city and minority youngsters as a special target group.

Other songs, including "Sesame Jamboree," "The

Buy potatoes for method of preparation

Which type of potato is best for baking, boiling, frying?

Russets (course brown skin) are best for baking, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Reds, a general-purpose potato, are better boiled, mashed or fried, she says.

Ms. Haggard is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Buy, store and prepare food correctly to save

How much food in your home goes to waste? How many grocery dollars does it stand for?

Most consumers throw away more food than they realize in many cases — leftover vegetables, meats, milk that turns sour and bread that goes stale. Throwing these nutritious foods out is the same thing as throwing away pennies, nickles, dimes, quarters and even dollars at meal time.

Try some of these tips to conserve food you spend money for — real savings depend on your storage and preparation habits, as well as on buying.

Buy foods in amounts your family will eat for one meal — or amounts you can set aside in the freezer or refrigerator for later without wasting.

Don't get "carried away" buying fresh foods on special if you can't store them properly to prevent spoilage. Fresh peaches at 49 cents a pound are no bargain if you buy four pounds, eat three pounds and throw away one pound.

Wrap leftovers properly for freezer or refrigerator. In the refrigerator, always cover foods with wax paper, foil or plastic wrap — or store them in a plastic bag or a container with a tight-fitting lid. Foods stored uncovered lose moisture and can pick up flavors from other foods.

Foods for the freezer should be packaged in moisture, vapor-resistant packaging, such as plastic containers, foil or freezer paper. Label packages before putting them in the freezer.

Bread needs special storage, too. Store breads in their original container or in an air-tight container. It's true that breads keep longer in the refrigerator, but they also can become stale there. For toasting later, this is no problem. But for other uses, freeze bread. Freezing is best for long-term storage.

Keep fresh vegetables in the refrigerator crisper in a plastic bag — all except potatoes and dry onions. Potatoes and dry onions need cool, dry storage.

Keep milk fresh by placing it in the refrigerator immediately after shopping. Don't leave milk sitting on the counter — even during mealtimes!

Store flours and grains in containers with tight-fitting lids. Whole-wheat flour becomes rancid rather quickly, so keep it in the refrigerator for long-term storage.

If your family doesn't like leftovers, prepare only the amount of food they will eat at one meal. Involve family members in meal planning. Ask them what and how much they will eat. A cooperative effort is a definite key to saving money on the food bill. Here are two food-saving success steps to use in preparation itself:

For "no-like bread crust" families, trim off the crust and save it to toast for croutons or bread crumbs atop casseroles — if the family will accept crust any of those ways.

In buying frozen vegetables, buy the bags, take out only the needed amount and save the rest for later.

Create your own food-saving success steps, and before long, you'll have a long list of ideas that really make an impact on the food budget.

To ensure your family the greatest economy possible, keep a list of foods you throw away for one week. Study the list and decide what changes you can make. Those changes can mean a big savings on the family food dollar.

Dear Abby

Husband Picks Up Paper; Neighbors Put Down Theirs

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently moved to the suburbs. Our home is set back away from the road, but our neighbors can see our property from both sides and across the road.

My husband has always slept in the nude, but now he's started to get the morning paper in the same state! He says nobody will see him, but I'm afraid somebody might and he'll be arrested for indecent exposure. It's as though he is playing some sort of game of chance and gets a kick out of the risk he's taking, although he insists that the thought has never entered his mind. I have trouble looking our neighbors in the face, wondering if they have seen my husband picking up our morning paper.

I might add that he is not all that gorgeous. He's 53 years old and 40 pounds overweight. I think you owe me a solution, Abby, because he says he can't wait to see what Abby has to say.

NUDIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Next time Old Nudie goes out to fetch the morning paper, lock the door behind him. The result could be funnier than an old Laurel and Hardy flick. It could also cure him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had a disagreement with his mother a year ago when we were building our first home. Even though we had saved up a large amount of money on our own, he came up short and asked his well-to-do mother if we could use her money as collateral on a low-interest loan. She refused, and my husband and his mother haven't spoken since.

In the meantime, I became pregnant soon after we moved into our home. I had the baby recently and she died shortly after birth. My husband is extremely upset because his mother never acknowledged our baby's death.

I think my husband should call his mother and get his feelings off his chest. By the way, my husband's sister sided with his mother, and we have not heard from her either.

USE NO NAMES

DEAR USE: If your husband stopped speaking to his mother because she refused him a financial favor, shame on him. However, his mother should have broken the silence to express her sympathy and offer support and comfort when she learned of your tragic loss. I agree with you. Your husband should call his mother and clear the air.

Cheese may help prevent cavities, says Institute of Dental Research

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A recent study at the National Institute of Dental Research, in Bethesda, Maryland, has shown that cheese may actually help prevent cavities, says the July issue of "Seventeen" Magazine.

Dr. William H. Bowen, chief of the Institute's Caries Prevention and Research Branch, studied groups of rats and found that those who were fed a snack of cheddar cheese immediately after eating a meal of high-sugar, cavity-producing foods got fewer cavities than those rats who were not given cheese after the meal.

"Cavities are caused by acid, produced by bacteria. Cheese is a neutralizer that reduces the amount of acid in the dental plaque and diminishes the likelihood of cavities forming," Dr. Bowen explains.

"There's no point in eating a piece of cheese in the middle of the afternoon, however. It must be eaten immediately after you've had a sugary item in order to be effective," he says.

Although this may seem like the perfect solution to eating candy bars, Dr. Bowen warns that you should not look upon his findings as an excuse for overindulging in foods that are bad for your teeth. "You need to care for your teeth by reducing the number of surgery snacks you eat and by getting regular dental checkups."

Boss' efforts toward child care pays off

Employer efforts toward child care have resulted in workers doing a better job, less absenteeism, better employee attitude toward work and organization, and lower job turnover. More and more attention is focusing on employer policies that recognize family life needs and respond to them sensitively, notes a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Parents, communities, and business and industry need to work together to review child care needs and to start planning to meet these needs.

Candlelight ceremony unites couple in First Baptist Church

Cynthia Ann Cowan became the bride of Larry Don Knight at 8:00 p.m., Saturday in the First Baptist Church. The double-ring, candlelight ceremony was officiated by Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Wyatt Cowan, 518 Edward Circle. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Knight, 529 Scott.

A garden scene, centered by an ivy entwined lattice pagoda, was lighted with pink tapers. Garlands of smilax and rubrum lilies circled the enclosure. Lattice trellises were centered with branch and spiral candelabras, which held pink rubrum lilies, calladiums, and carnations in mixed pink hues. Potted palms and pink calladiums completed the setting. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal-length gown of candlelight silk organza. The English alencon lace-covered bodice, scattered with seed pearls, featured a Queen Anne neckline and long tapered sleeves edged with alencon and seed pearls. The bustle back peplum was of alencon lace and swept into a cathedral-length train.

Her floor-length, candlelight veil of imported English illusion was bordered with English alencon lace and attached to a lace-covered bandeau.

The bride's bouquet was a cascade of phalaenopsis and catleya orchids, with long streamers tied in love knots.

For something old, the bride carried a hand-stitched and embroidered handkerchief made by her great-grandmother, Mrs. J.C. Preston, and given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. T.E. Harbin. Something borrowed, was a set of pearl earrings belonging to her mother, and something blue was a garter made by her grandmother, Mrs. Sam Cowan. The bride placed a new penny in her shoe.

Deborah Cowan and Kathrine Jones, sisters of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Bridesmaids included Lisa Scott, Lubbock, Cindy Knight, LaVoy Moore, Brenda Bell, Mary Catherine Matthews, and Lorinda Lee.

Holly Harbin, Dublin, was junior bridesmaid. Leslie Mallouf, Arlington, was flower girl.

Del Posa, Big Spring, and Randle Jones, Norman, Okla. served as the groom's honor attendants. Johnny Mize, Barry Rosson, Kent Rice, Randy Crockett, Steve Evans, all of Big Spring, and Jim Bob Reed, Coahoma, were groomsmen. Jim Cowan, brother of the bride, was junior groomsman.

Carol Meek, Dallas, lighted candles for the ceremony.

Vocalists were Mrs. Gary Don Newsom, Galveston, and Joe Whitten; pianist, Larry Wheat, and organist, Van Johnson, provided instrumental music.

Mrs. Daylan Cranford, Arlington, and Mrs. Richard Harbin, Dublin, registered guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception honored the couple at the Big Spring Country Club. The rooms were graced with fountains, ivy-entwined trellises, potted palms and calladiums, and white columns holding large ferns.

The bride's table was dressed with a white lace and embroidered skirt and overlay. The five-tiered wedding cake was decorated by mixed pink crystalline-ice flower petals. Lovebirds and fresh flowers accented the cake. A silver candelabrum dressed with rubrum lilies, astramaria and pink antheriums centered the table. Silver appointments were used.

The groom's table was draped in evergreen cloths. A three-tiered octagon-shaped chocolate cake was topped with frosted grapes. The table was centered with a greenery entwined brass candlestick of hurricane lanterns. Gold appointments were used.

Tables draped in evergreen cloths with pink overlays featured hors d'oeuvres served in silver appointments. Silver candelabra and flowers centered each table. Music was provided by a five-piece orchestra from the Midland-Odessa Symphony.

Mrs. Andy Clark, Lubbock, and Mrs. Kent Newsom, Fort Worth, registered guests. Serving were Joni Avery, Merril Beth Bancroft, Charlotte Beil, Ann Cowan, Carrie Dodds, Dawn Estes, Mary Alice Hassett, Shanna Hohertz, Teresa Hohertz, Kristi Matthews, Laura Moore, Patty Pegan, Wendy Pegan, Kay Pollard, Kim Preston, Laura Lynn Warren, Elise Wheat, and Beverly Wheeler.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is a former student of Howard College, Texas Tech University, and The University of Texas. She will enter The University of Houston School of Pharmacy this fall.

The groom is graduating senior at Texas A&M University. Knight will be employed as a tax accountant by Deloitte, Haskins, and Sells in Houston and will also be attending The University of Houston Law School.

Major childhood diseases, to be on the way out.

Afghans, patterns viewed by club

The Sew and Chatter Club met Wednesday in the home of Avanel Cook. Mrs. Allie Moore, president, presided over the business meeting. Members told of summer vacations, showed snapshots and nostalgia pictures.

Various afghans were shown and patterns exchanged. Mrs. Cook, assisted by Lona Crocker and Norma Murruck, served homemade ice cream and cake. Fourteen members were present. The next meeting will be Aug. 12 in the home of Adele Tibbs.

A Health Insurance Institute analysis of data from the U.S. Center for Disease Control shows that measles, mumps, German measles (rubella), tetanus and diphtheria reached record lows in 1980.

Federal health officials, in fact, say they are nearing the government's goal of eliminating measles among American children altogether by October 1982.

They credit success to a nationwide immunization drive.

They also point out that measles outbreaks have dropped dramatically since 1977 — down from 57,345 to 13,430 cases last year.

Americans are retiring later than before

More Americans are putting off retirement than ever before, Bonnie Pliernot, a family resource management specialist, reports.

While inflation and the persistent climate of economic uncertainty are two key reasons for this trend, there are two contributing factors, also, she explains.

They are increased longevity and the ability to work later in life due to improved medical care and the psychological rewards of work.

Mrs. Pliernot is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University Sstem.

Outdoor wear is staple in American wardrobe

COLLEGE STATION — Outdoor clothing's not just for hiking and camping anymore, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist. It's functional, lightweight and fashionable, and it's become a staple in the American wardrobe, she points out.

Miss Brown is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

When selecting outdoor wear, there are several considerations, the specialist continues. Look for stitches that are well-sewn, neat, even and securely fastened at the ends of the stitching lines. Look for garments with clean finished aw edges, flat-felled seams, or French seams. Miss Brown advises that quilted garments should be made of materials that will not lose their shape and will not allow air to poke through the fabric of down garments. Be a fuzzy-looking surface may indicate poor quality. In quilted down garments, avoid lines that run vertically, most of the down will eventually settle to the bottom.

The thicker the loft or filling, the warmer the garment, so consider the warmth needed, the specialist suggests.

Check for pockets that are equipped with insulation and closures. Look for securely attached closures. Many will have a second closure as a backup. Flaps over zippers help keep out wind and snow. Elastic or knitted cuffs and waistline closures help keep out wind.

All outdoor clothing should fit comfortably and not bind, she adds.

Validity of Tradition for Seating Guests in Church

Here at the ACCENT SHOPPE we often suggest you ignore traditional wedding etiquette when it doesn't suit your particular situation. For instance, you don't have to seat all the bride's friends on the left side of the church and all the groom's friends on the right. If the groom lives far from the bride's hometown, it often happens that more of her friends come to the wedding than his. So you simply advise your ushers in advance, and they can ask guests if they mind sitting on the side of the church where there is more room. That way, no one's feelings are hurt.

Folic acid is recommended for women

Cervical dysplasia, an abnormality of the cells of the cervix that can lead to cancer, can be stopped or even reversed, in women taking the pill by taking 25 times the recommended daily dose of folic acid. This is one of the recent medical discoveries noted in a chart in the current Family Circle magazine on the special nutritional needs of women. Folic acid, says medical columnist Lawrence Galton in the magazine, has additional health benefits for women. According to Galton, a deficiency of this nutrient is a common, though often overlooked cause of weakness, fatigue, irritability, muscular pain, constipation, depression or sore tongue. Taking a folic acid supplement may be helpful in correcting this deficiency, say the chart.

Also helpful, say the magazine, is eating folic acid-rich foods every day such as cooked leafy green vegetables. A deficiency may occur when such foods aren't eaten frequently enough or are cooked too long. According to Galton, this is particularly true among women whose folic acid stores are used up by pregnancy or during the taking of oral contraceptives.
