ROCKET EXPLODES — Wednesday's test of a rocket engine by Space Services Inc. on Matagorda Island ended in disaster as the rocket exploded causing an unplanned launch of a few thousand feet.

Rocket blows engine test

MATAGORDA ISLAND, Texas (AP) — Fingers were crossed, and all systems were go to test the engine for the first privately owned rocketship. But the chief engineer said he knew the minute the missile's engine started that the experiment was doomed. A roaring ball of flame and smoke hurled 200 feet into the air Wednesday as the 53-foot Percheron rocket exploded on the launch pad, signalling a months-long setback for a group of Texas entrepreneurs. No one was injured as engineers for Space Services Inc. attempted a five-second test burn of the missile, and company officials speculated that a jammed propellant valve may have triggered the blast. "The instant the engine started, I knew we had lost it," chief engineer Gary C. Hudson said Wednesday. "We saw flame from the ignition, (and) it was considerably too orange. It's supposed to be nearly white-orange." Scientists, company officials and reporters watched the blast from a sandbag bunker about 100 yards from the launch site on a cattle ranch owned by a Dallas investor. The engine firing was the first test of the rocket Space Services hoped to use to launch satellites into orbit at prices below rates charged by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Officials said the engine appeared to be relatively undamaged, and the company planned to proceed with its testing program after the rocket is rebuilt. Space Services spokesman Walt Pennino said the explosion would cost the company more than $1.2 million and set the concern's plans back at least six months. NASA officials scoffed last June when Space Services president David Hannah announced plans to put commercial satellites in orbit for as low as $2 million.

INS to protest immigration policy

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Immigration and Naturalization Service employees say they'll demonstrate nation-wide later this month to protest a lack of leadership and proper policy in the Reagan administration's approach to immigration. Mike Harpold, president of the INS Council, said INS workers are planning a national day of protest Aug. 21 to complain about President Reagan's failure to appoint a director of the agency, funding shortages and policy problems they say will lead to inadequate application of immigration laws. "These are important people functions that, if done wrong, would be a real black mark on the United States," said Harpold, who traveled from San Francisco to El Paso to help plan the demonstration Wednesday. "If things go further, the country runs a real risk of having mistreatment, abuse of rights and internal corruption. That is why we are acting now," he said. Reagan's proposed plan for changing immigration policies, especially toward Mexico, is a matter for extreme concern, said Harpold. "The president is touting (his proposal) as a commitment to enforcing the border," said Harpold. "But there has been a failure to go forward with any real immigration policy. "Some of the programs will create problems in the areas where they are supposed to be solving them." Harpold called Reagan's recommendation to allow illegal aliens to become citizens if they have lived in the country for 10 years an "administrative nightmare." "We're not prepared to accept something that's not going to work," he said. "What we'll have is people who are here illegally thumbing their noses at people who try to do it right." Harpold said the INS union favors Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy recommendations urging stronger border enforcement, more funding for the INS and adoptions of sanctions against employers of illegal aliens. "If you straighten out the leadership, adequately fund the agency and get an adequate policy... the other things will fall in line," Harpold said. He said the agency has been run by "acting commissioners" for the past two years and that Reagan has not submitted a name to the Senate for the commissioners job. He said 10 of the top 12 positions in the INS are manned by people who have "acting" before their titles.

Weather

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts shows Friday in a wide band from Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas, stretching north to Wisconsin, New York and Michigan, and east to Virginia and North Carolina.

Showers expected over West Texas

By The Associated Press
Forecasts called for widely scattered thunderstorms over West Texas and along the coast today and showers and thunderstorms over North Texas tonight and Friday. Highs were to be mostly in the 90s with readings in portions of North Central Texas and in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas expected to reach or perhaps slightly pass the 100-degree mark. Except for the thunderstorm activity in the Panhandle early today, most of the state had clear skies at dawn. Some low cloudiness was reported in South Central Texas. Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s and 80s. Extremes ranged from 73 at Amarillo to 84 at Fort Worth.

If you want zinger, your travel agent can help

If you want a zinger, cue, peanut, excursion, J, K, M or Q, your travel agent can help you. These, explained Jo Anne Poynor to the Downtown Lions Club at their Wednesday meeting, are cut-rate fares. Any way why not take advantage of them if you can? "There are basically two kinds of tickets — first class and coach. All the zingers go in the coach, and one seat is good as another. Nobody can look at you and say you're a cheapie." These fares, she said, are the result largely of deregulation. Formerly airlines (and other carriers) had to get clearance from the CAB, ICC or whatever before publishing a new rate. Now a letter of phone call will suffice. When one carrier quotes a zinger, usually others counter immediately.

Stanton street sign system is dedicated

STANTON — The new street sign system in Stanton was formally dedicated during the Stanton City Council meeting Tuesday. Terry Blair, director of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, met with the council for the dedication. Blair told council members that all but two of the 128 street signs have been placed in the city, at a cost of about $2,000. Mayor Danny Fryar urged citizens to be more aware of vandalism and burglary activities in Stanton. He asked that persons report

Strike could hurt unions, help Reagan

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the strike by air traffic controllers erupted into the toughest labor confrontation of Ronald Reagan's administration, many blue-collar workers were unhappy with the president they helped elect.

Now, the strike could help Reagan regain some popularity among this traditionally Democratic group and among Americans generally, a possibility some union leaders view with foreboding. Douglas Fraser, United Auto Workers chief and among the most liberal American labor leaders, says the strike "could do massive damage to the labor movement" and that the main winner would be Reagan.

The public generally opposes strikes by the government workers responsible for public safety. The controllers gave Reagan the national equivalent of an unpopular police or firefighters strike.

The controllers called the first national strike by federal workers in U.S. history at the moment Reagan is riding the crest of public dissatisfaction with the costly federal government.

And while many federal programs are slashed, the controllers want a big raise to boost their average salary of $33,000 a year — far above the average taxpayers' annual income. The strike also is illegal.

The walkout began just as public opinion polls indicated that union and blue-collar voters were drifting back, at least temporarily, toward their home since the New Deal: the Democratic camp.

In the campaign, Reagan strategists rightly said the GOP candidate's economic positions could appeal to the blue-collar workers who have substantially led to the past successes of the Democratic party.

On Election Day last year, blue-collar workers split their votes, with Reagan getting 48 percent and Carter 45 percent, an astonishingly good showing for a GOP candidate. Reagan didn't do quite as well among those from union households, losing their votes to Carter by a 42-50 margin, according to the AP-NBC News poll of more than 11,000 voters on Nov. 4.

Since taking office, Reagan's support among blue-collar and union voters has eroded somewhat, the most recent AP-NBC poll showed.

For example, only 45 percent of the blue-collar workers gave Reagan good or excellent marks for his work, according to the latest AP-NBC News poll. That's a full 10 percentage points below the rating given him by the public as a whole in the survey, taken July 13-14.

And on economic matters, those from union households give Reagan a job rating that is also 10 points below the 45 percent good or excellent mark from the public at large.

People wanted program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Wednesday, June 29, marked one of the most significant days in our country's economic history, as the U.S. House of Representatives put partisan politics aside and passed (238-195) the largest tax reduction program for the American people in our history.

Most importantly, passage of the Hance-Conable Bipartisan Tax Substitute completed the second stage of an economic recovery program that I honestly and sincerely believe to be in the best interests of every American. It signaled a distinct and dramatic change of direction for federal government during the 1980s.

After a great deal of deliberation and comparison of the two tax proposals, I voted for the administration-backed bipartisan substitute. I voted for it because I believe it is the best economic alternative, not only for the country as a whole, but particularly for the 17th District. I believe that for a variety of reasons:

1) The budget deficit is $5.3 billion lower in 1981-82 under the Hance-Conable bill than its Ways and Means counterpart.

2) The commitment to a three-year, 25 percent tax cut — as opposed to a 21-month, 15 percent tax cut, which would have been extended to the third year only if a set of unrealistic economic guidelines were met — was absolutely necessary if the President's plan was to have a chance of success. I believe the un-

60 French citizens held in Iran

PARIS (AP) — France sent another airliner to Iran today in a second attempt to evacuate 60 French citizens prevented from leaving Tehran airport.

France urged French citizens to leave Iran and recalled its ambassador Wednesday in a dispute with Iran that arose after France granted political asylum to former Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr.

Iran has demanded Bani-Sadr's extradition and has organized demonstrations at the French Embassy in Tehran.

President Francois Mitterrand's chief of staff, Pierre Bergevoey, said French and Iranian officials were meeting to negotiate a solution after a first Air France plane had to take off empty from Tehran earlier today.

French news reports said Iranian officials were insisting on checking whether the French had any tax liabilities before allowing them to leave the country.

Mental health facility accused

Three deaths blamed on poor drug monitoring

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Poor monitoring of drug levels in patients may have contributed to at least three of nine unexpected deaths at a mental health facility here, the Tarrant County medical examiner said.

Chief medical examiner Dr. Nizam Peerwani had said earlier that an investigation into the nine deaths resulted in the conclusion that at least two persons died from improper medication procedures.

"This office feels strongly that if these two patients were properly medicated, it would have been possible to prevent their deaths," Peerwani said Tuesday.

Wednesday, Peerwani said the death of a third resident may be linked to the fact that the patient was given abnormally low levels of anti-seizure drugs.

Mark Jones, 18, may have suffered a seizure shortly before drowning July 8 while playing unattended in a bathtub, the examiner's office concluded.

School officials had asked the medical examiner to conduct an independent investigation and have accepted Peerwani's offer to set up a program of therapeutic drug monitoring and laboratory analysis.

The inquiry began after the Reese W. Jones contended the July 8 accidental drowning of his son happened while the youth was "zapped out" on a variety of prescription drugs administered by school personnel.

David Roberts, a 31-year-old cerebral palsy victim, died July 9 of "acute respiratory failure due to seizure," said Peerwani.

The deaths of Roberts and 6-year-old Charles Haynes Jr., who died in August 1979, both were due to seizures, even though they were prescribed anti-seizure medication, Peerwani said.

"We demonstrated they were poorly medicated," Peerwani said. He said the drug dosages made the victims susceptible to violent seizures.

The staff routinely gives medication to patients without performing the standard blood tests within the accepted amount of time "to determine the proper therapeutic drug range," Peerwani said.

Tarrant County Judge Mike Moncrief, a member of the school's advisory committee, blamed state legislators for problems at the school, saying they failed to provide enough money to run the facility efficiently.

"They are more concerned with a new road than the welfare of the mentally retarded," said Moncrief.

Tax law to allow retirement accounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning next January, all working Americans will be allowed to open up a personal tax-deferred retirement account — an investment opportunity now set aside only for those without an on-the-job pension plan.

Under the new tax law, all 99 million working Americans could set up an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) or a comparable Keogh plan if they are self-employed.

The measure, approved by Congress and awaiting President Reagan's signature, is intended to stimulate savings and reduce dependence on the ailing Social Security system.

Under current law, only people without group pension plans can open an IRA. But starting next Jan. 1, an estimated 45 million Americans covered by pension plans can start individual accounts, too, and those already eligible will be able to put more away each year without paying taxes on the money until it is withdrawn.

A major reason for the change is to reverse a sharp decline in the nation's savings rate, one of the principal goals of Reagan's economic program.

However, it is not just coincidence that incentives to set up individual pension plans are being increased at a time when the administration is pushing to reduce future Social Security benefits, both to shore up the financially troubled system and to achieve budget savings.

"The primary reason (for the legislation) is to encourage people to make provisions for their own retirement income because we don't want to continue the burden on Social Security," said Norman B. Ture, undersecretary of the treasury for tax policy.

Congress, which is reluctant to enter the political maelstrom created by the administration's proposed Social Security cuts, appeared to act more out of concern for increasing personal savings so that more money would be available for investment and interest rates would come down. But the desire to reduce future pensioners' reliance on Social Security was also a consideration, congressional aides report.

Currently, those eligible to set up an IRA can place no more than 15 percent of their income in an account, up to $1,500 a year. The new law would let anyone deposit all of his or her income in an IRA, up to $2,000 a year.

A married couple with both spouses working can set aside up to $4,000 a year, providing each has a separate account with no more than $2,000 a year added. A couple with one working spouse can set aside up to $2,250 a year divided between two accounts, up from $1,750 under current law.

The broadened incentives for retirement plans will cost the Treasury an estimated $9.1 billion in lost revenue through 1986.

Tax-deferred pension plans, which first came into existence in 1975, have not been very popular with the public, but the administration hopes the new incentives will change that.

Bob Strauss urged to run for presidency

DALLAS (AP) — Close friends and political associates of former Democratic Party chairman Bob Strauss have launched a campaign to encourage the Texan to throw his hat into the presidential ring for 1984, a Dallas newspaper reported today.

"A number of good people have called me and come to see me and said, 'Bob, you ought to consider this,'" Strauss told The Dallas Morning News. "But the truth of the matter is that it's not a do-able deal for me and, besides, I don't have that thirst for it."

Friends told the newspaper that Strauss' private conversations indicate the 62-year-old Dallas lawyer is at least considering the factors involved in a presidential bid.

"Strauss, himself, is ambivalent. He's sort of the reluctant dragon at this point. But he hasn't said no," one ally said.

Strauss acknowledged that he has talked over a possible candidacy with two groups of about eight to 10 people.

"So far, it's just people talking to other people," a Strauss associate told the News. "I am confident that, in his own mind, he doesn't see himself as a serious candidate."

Strauss anchored several top positions in Jimmy Carter's administration, but has never sought elective office.

He was Democratic Party treasurer from 1970 to 1972, chairman of the party from 1972 to 1977, and chairman of the Carter's unsuccessful reelection campaign in 1979 and 1980.

Strauss said he's taking the urgings to run for the United States' highest elective office in stride.

Tower favors immigration proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — America should always remain a land of opportunity and a safe haven, but the perception of the United States as an "inexhaustible cornucopia" by the world's disadvantaged must be dispelled, Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said Wednesday.

Tower said administration recommendations announced last week will give Congress a good basis from which to start in improving immigration policy.

"If our domestic, social and economic institutions are overwhelmed by masses of displaced foreign nationals, then the prospect of finding a better way of life upon reaching our shores will prove to be a cruel hoax indeed," Tower said.

He said he has reservations about the amnesty phase of President Reagan's immigration policy, whereby all persons in the United States illegally by Jan. 1, 1980, would be allowed to remain.

"The concept of amnesty cannot be embraced without significant reservation, if the program is not accompanied by stringent constraints against further illegal entry," Tower said.

Those who cannot, or will not, meet requirements for legal residency should be aggressively excluded, he said.

Although Tower has previously opposed sanctions against employers who hire illegal aliens, he indicated the president's proposal regarding that may be acceptable to him.

The proposed sanctions are civil, not criminal, he said, adding that the forms of identification needed to show good faith effort to comply may not prove nearly as burdensome to the employer or employee as those in previous proposals.

Hancock community annual homecoming is scheduled in Lamesa August 23

The annual Hancock homecoming will be held Aug. 23 at the Forrest Park Community Center, Lamesa. All eyes and their families are invited for a day of visiting and reuniting. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m. The Hancock community, seven miles northeast of Lamesa, was born in 1904, when J.A. Hancock and his wife, Nancy Catherine McCollough Hancock, moved their cattle operation from Borden County to the top of the caprock. The Hancock's and their children, William Lewis, Mack, Lou, Joe, Jack, Jewell and Elbert, were the first family in the community.

Time-is-of-the-essence cooking tips are offered in current 'Keep It Simple' feature

You're late, you're late and you've got to feed your family or guests, pronto! Relax and use some of the following time-saving tips culled from the current Family Circle magazine food feature "Keep It Simple."

Chicken pieces instead of cubed and thinly sliced chops can take the place of roasts and thicker chops. Ground beef and thin cuts of tender beef, like flank, skirt and sirloin steaks, replace chuck roasts and round.

When broiling, use oven-to-table bakeware to save time on transferring and washing. Remember that, except in baking, precise measurements aren't necessary. So, if all you have is a 20-ounce can of tomatoes and the recipe calls for a 28-ounce can, it's okay!

Don't be concerned with mincing vegetables finely for use in recipes. Coarse chopping works just fine, as long as the vegetable is cooked well enough to achieve the right consistency.

Here's what the magazine suggests when you're in a rush. Don't be concerned with mincing vegetables finely for use in recipes. Coarse chopping works just fine, as long as the vegetable is cooked well enough to achieve the right consistency.

For quick browning, heating nuts, heating breads, use the toaster oven instead of a conventional oven. It saves energy as well as time. Don't stew and roast when time is of the essence. Do broil, boil, saute and simmer. Omit peeling when you can — tiny new potatoes, for example, don't need it. Either use food you have on hand, or select a menu that will keep your shopping list to 10 items or less.

Dear Abby
Generous Chauffeur Gets Taken For a Ride

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a thoughtless, cheap co-worker who rides to and from work with me every day. She even has the nerve to ask me to drop her somewhere else after work frequently, taking me miles out of my way. It's my own fault because I invited her to ride with me since she lives nearby. She accepted readily, reminding me that my insurance would be voided if I accepted reimbursement to help pay for the gas. (I had heard this before.) She sees me put $20 worth of gas in my tank each week and just looks out the window. At Christmas she gives me some cheap little doodad that doesn't begin to compensate for all the money she saves by my chauffeur service. Why must it be so one-sided? Sign me....

DEAR BEING HAD: You were misinformed. Your insurance would not be voided if your ride-along passenger paid enough to cover the expenses. However, if you were to carry passengers for profit, you would require additional insurance. Advise your ride-along that she can pay for half the cost of the gasoline without affecting your insurance.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I just returned from our first vacation without our kids. We've been married for 13 years, have four kids, and it was a real treat. My wife's parents saw us off at the airport, and just as we were taking off, my mother-in-law asked, "Did you make a will in case something happens to both of you at the same time?" Then she laughed as though it was some kind of joke. Of course we hadn't made a will. I realize there's always a one-in-a-million chance that our plane would crash and we'd both be killed, but her question stayed on my mind during our whole vacation, and I have to tell you, it sort of spoiled it for me.

Wasn't that a lousy thing for her to say? STILL UPSET

DEAR UPSET: Her timing was lousy. But the idea was a good one.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I have plans to marry as soon as his divorce is final. He is now separated from his wife. Please let me know if it is acceptable for us to announce our engagement at this time.

DEAR CANT WAIT: I suggest you do.

DEAR ABBY: Re the letter from COLD SHOULDERS, who complained because her office co-workers continually took turns moving the air-conditioning controls. (First someone would adjust the thermostat, saying, "It's too chilly in here." Then someone else would readjust it and say, "Who turned the air conditioning off?")

That reminds me of the time a friend was showing me through his new plant. When we came to the main office, he pointed to the thermostat on the wall and said, "That's a dummy. It's not connected to anything, and it regulates nothing. It just keeps the office people happy adjusting it up and down all day."

I later learned that the thermostat that really controlled the temperature was located in his office. P.M.H.

Against Oilers tonight Eagles will try shotgun

HOUSTON (AP)—Head coach Dick Vermeil will try out a new weapon when his Philadelphia Eagles meet the Houston Oilers today—a shotgun.

The Eagles have gone so far as to hire Ed Hughes, who helped the Dallas Cowboys install the formation in the mid-1970's, as an offensive assistant.

"It's really an aggressive formation," quarterback Ron Jaworski said. "We put in another wide receiver for a tight end and another receiving halfback for the fullback. That's five people who can catch and run with the ball, and that puts a lot of pressure on the defense."

In the shotgun, the quarterback stands several yards behind the center to take the snap. The Dallas Cowboys were the first professional team to use the formation successfully.

Vermeil said the team will run about a dozen plays from the spread.

New Oilers head coach Ed Biles will use today's game to observe his four quarterbacks. That position became a point of concern when 13-year veteran Ken Stabler surprised the team by retiring as training camp opened.

Gifford Nielsen, named to the starting job, will play for the first half, said Gregg Stengel, Oilers' administrative assistant for public relations.

He will be followed by journeyman John Reaves, an eight-year veteran from the University of Florida who was signed as a backup quarterback after Stabler's announcement, Stengel said.

After that will come third-year man Craig Bradshaw, brother of Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry, and second-year player Harold Bailey.

"If one of them doesn't see action this game, he'll be second next time against New Orleans," Stengel said.

Replacing Stabler with Nielsen has its good points, Biles says.

"We have not altered our passing game a great deal to tailor Gifford because both he and Kenny are intermediate range passers," Biles said. "Giff can throw deep when the situation arises but most of our patterns will be middle range in distance, probably 20 yards or less."

The Oilers' defense will have some new faces. All-Pro safety Mike Reinfield, who showed up late for training camp after a contract dispute, will be replaced by Carter Hartwig, Stengel said.

Big 10 reduces Illini penalty

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The University of Illinois, which had threatened to leave the Big Ten Conference because of sanctions levied against it by faculty representatives, reluctantly accepted lesser penalties late Wednesday evening after a nine-hour meeting at the University of Minnesota.

The sanctions, which originally included a three-year probationary period, stemmed from the school's handling of an eligibility case involving former Illini quarterback Dave Wilson.

Under the new rulings, announced shortly after midnight (EDT), Illinois will be placed on probation for just one year, beginning Sept. 1, 1981. The school also is denied participation in any post-season events in football for one year (1981-82) and also cannot receive conference television revenues from football for one year.

Originally, the faculty reps had voted 9-0 to bar Illinois from post-season play for two years in all sports and the school would also not receive money from television for two years.

Jack Wentworth, faculty rep from Indiana, would not reveal Wednesday's vote, saying only that the new sanctions came as "a vote of the conference."

In a prepared, joint statement issued to the press, Illinois said it "accepts the imposition of these sanctions."

Rangers, Astros are freebies

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP)—Texas Rangers season tickets are worthless—at least for tonight's exhibition game against the Houston Astros.

The Rangers, in a goodwill gesture, have declared open seating for the contest. Everyone who comes to Arlington Stadium will get in free, but no provisions have been made for season ticket holders, according to Matt Stolley, a Ranger ticket official.

"We're just going to open up the stadium at 5:30, and seating will be done on a first-come, first-serve basis," Stolley said. "They (the season ticket holders) have to get here and take their seats first if they want to sit in them."

JR Richard not quite ready

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard, who was expected to test his fiery fastball Friday against the Texas Rangers, is "not quite ready" to return to the mound, the National League team says.

General Manager Al Rosen had said Richard, who has not pitched competitively in more than a year because of a massive stroke, might pitch one or two innings in Friday night's exhibition game at the Astrodome.

NL completes All-Star squad

NEW YORK (AP)—First baseman Steve Garvey, who will not be starting in the All-Star Game for the first time in eight years, was one of 13 reserves named to the National League squad today by Manager Dallas Green.

The Los Angeles Dodgers slugger was beaten out by Pete Rose of Green's Phillies for the starting spot at first base for Sunday's game in Cleveland. But he was one of three Dodgers named to the team by Green. The other Dodgers were outfielders Pedro Guerrero and Dusty Baker.

Guerrero and Baker are among nine National Leaguers making their All-Star debuts. Both of the reserve catchers, Atlanta's Bruce Benedict and San Diego's Terry Kennedy, who will back up Montreal's Gary Carter, also will be appearing as All-Stars for the first time.

So will reserve infielders Bill Buckner of the Chicago Cubs and Ozzie Smith of San Diego, and outfielders Tim Lincecum of Montreal, Mike Easler of Pittsburgh and Joel Youngblood of the New York Mets.

and rookie sensation Fernando Valenzuela were selected for the game by Green.

The World Series champion Phillies have five All-Stars, including starters Rose and third baseman Mike Schmidt. Green also took pitchers Dick Ruthven and Steve Carlton from his own club.

Pittsburgh, with starting outfielder Dave Parker and the three reserves named by Green, has four players in the game. Cincinnati, with starters Dave Concepcion at shortstop and George Foster in the outfield, plus pitcher Tom Seaver, has three, as does Montreal—Carter, starting outfielder Andre Dawson and Raines. Houston has two pitchers, Nolan Ryan and Bob Knepper, on the team.

The Braves (Benedict), Cubs (Buckner, the defending NL batting champion), Mets (Youngblood), Giants (pitcher Vida Blue) and Cardinals (reliever Bruce Sutter) each have one All-Star.

On Wednesday, American League Manager Jim Frey of the Kansas City Royals announced a 10-man pitching staff. Six of those hurlers—Mike Norris of Oakland; Len Barker of Cleveland, who threw a perfect game this season; Scott McGregor of Baltimore; Britt Burns of Chicago; Doug Corbett of Minnesota, and Jack Morris of Detroit—will be making their All-Star debuts.

Frey also picked relief ace Rich Gossage of the New York Yankees and Milwaukee's Rollie Fingers, Dave Stieb of Toronto and Ken Forsch of the California Angels.

Jury can't decide on Raiders vs. NFL

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The jurors in the Oakland Raiders-National Football League antitrust trial were scheduled to begin their eighth day of deliberations today.

The jury of seven women and three men, which received the case on July 29, concluded its seventh day of deliberations Wednesday without reaching a verdict. The trial was held in the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Harry Pregerson.

The Raiders and Los Angeles Coliseum Commission are suing the NFL for blocking the defending Super Bowl champions' move from Oakland to Los Angeles. Jury members were chosen in part because their lack of knowledge about sports.

Meanwhile, members of the L.A. Coliseum Commission unanimously passed a resolution expressing confidence in a court victory Wednesday, and said: "Attorneys for the NFL are publicly hoping for a hung jury, which is a clear indication that they acknowledge they have no chance of winning this case. We, on the other hand, are confident of our position."

Clayton doubts chances of anti-GOP remap bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clements says he is convinced Gov. Bill Clements would veto a loyalist Democrat redistricting bill that would deny Republicans an increase in their share of the Texas congressional delegation.

The House redistricting committee was expected to convene today to vote on a bill, which it amended Wednesday to eliminate virtually any chance of GOP gains.

Clayton told reporters he showed Clements a plan for Dallas similar to the one before the committee.

"He did look at it. I was informed this morning that it was not acceptable and that he would veto that plan," Clayton said.

The plan provides what Clements said he wanted, a Dallas district in which a black would have a chance to be elected congressman. But it lacks one major feature of the Senate-passed redistricting bill, which Clements endorsed. It does not convert a Democratic district in Dallas, now represented by liberal Congressman Jim Mattox, to a GOP district.

The committee proposal, offered by Rep. Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, not only leaves all Democratic districts as they are. It also changes the district of U.S. Rep. Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson, from Republican to Democrat.

Clements told reporters he predicted "progress" on redistricting in the next day or so, was "still optimistic" and continued to favor the measure passed by the Senate.

The Senate's plan boosts the probable number of Republican congressmen from Texas from five to seven. Democrats would have 20 seats.

Clayton said he probably would have a plan of his own for the House to consider. It probably would be similar to the Senate's, since the speaker says he wants to avoid an impasse that would require a conference committee to attempt to draft a final bill.

Members of the House Democratic Caucus, led by its chairman, Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman, worked to get a Senate majority to sign onto the Ragsdale bill.

Bush said guaranteed Senate acceptance would improve the chances of passing the hardcore Democrats' bill through the House.

Clayton said that was all very well, but a veto would await the Ragsdale bill.

He and Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, chairman of the redistricting committee, fed the notion that Clements might not call another special session if he vetoed a remap proposal. That probably would give the redistricting task to a federal court. But Clements has made no public statement that he would be willing to let the courts draw new districts.

The Ragsdale plan would take two counties, Ellis and Navarro, from Congressman Phil Gramm of College Station — who achieved national attention for helping President Reagan pass his budget cut bills. Ellis and Navarro, along with Henderson County and part of Kaufman County would go into the district represented by Congressman Martin Frost of Dallas.

Clayton said his only real objection to the Ragsdale plan "is what it does to Phil Gramm." But he acknowledged Gramm could win in his proposed district.

The 1980 census boosted Texas' congressional delegation from 24 to 27.

Demos warned opposition to I&R measure would help Republicans

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Democratic Party official says opposition to initiative and referendum could allow Republicans to take away the title of "party of the people" from Democrats.

Ann Wheeler of Houston, a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, said if Democratic legislators do not support proposals that would allow Texans to initiate laws, the GOP also could become known as the "party that is not afraid to trust their own people."

"People would have more trust in government if they were able to participate in a more direct way," she said.

Despite bipartisan support for the initiative and referendum proposal by Sens. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, and Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, the measure was left as pending business Wednesday in the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

"The best case for initiative and referendum is the Texas Legislature," said Doggett. "Too many times it is difficult to get a proposal approved despite widespread public support."

The Mengden-Doggett proposal would allow Texans to submit issues to a popular vote if enough signatures were collected on petitions. If the Legislature approved a proposed change in the law, it would become law.

TAX INCREASE EXPLANATION

The tax rate will decrease by 1c for 1981 as compared to 1980.

The Board of Trustees of the Forsan Independent School District proposes to adopt a tax rate of 46c per $100.00 of value for the 1981 tax roll, which is 1c lower than 1980.

If an owner's market value on the tax roll has remained unchanged, the taxes will go down.

All property owners whose values were increased on the 1981 tax roll were mailed notices to that effect during the last week of May.

Dallas-bound runner due in Big Spring on Friday

By CAROL HART

At four in the morning Friday, Richard Hackney, who is running 600 miles to raise money for the Epilepsy Association of Texas, is scheduled to breeze through Big Spring, meet with Mark Sheedy of the Chamber of Commerce, members of the media and local supporters, then head toward his final destination, Dallas.

Hackney left El Paso Monday on the first leg of a marathon run which will see him in Dallas Sunday, if things go according to his plan, said Sheedy.

Hackney is attempting to set a record for the run, and hopes to see his name in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Sheedy is monitoring the race, and said Hackney left El Paso at 6:15 p.m. Monday. Hackney is running most of the marathon at night to avoid the sweltering summer temperatures across the state.

At 4 a.m. Friday, Sheedy said he and members of the media plan to meet with Hackney at IS 20 and U.S. Highway 87, by the Mid-Continental Inn.

"Anyone who would like to run with him (Hackney) may do so," stressed Sheedy. The public is invited to be on hand as Hackney makes his way through Howard County.

Donations in conjunction with the run may also be sent to the Epilepsy Association of Texas, Post Office Box 2424, El Paso, Tx. 79952.

Hackney's brother is following him down the highway in a van, which provides the runner with food, drinks and a resting place.

Information released on Hackney shows he became interested in epilepsy when a friend of his at Cartwright Van Lines in Memphis, Tenn.,

had a seizure. Hackney is an employee at Cartwright.

The company is underwriting part of his expenses. Other major supporters are Nike Shoe Co., and the Athletic Attic of El Paso.

Truck drivers at Cartwright Van Lines have also pledged a certain number of dollars to the Epilepsy Association of Texas for each mile Hackney runs.

Several towns which Hackney will hit during the run include Sierra Blanca, Van Horn, Pecos, Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Sweetwater, Abilene, Cisco, and Fort Worth.

Information from the Epilepsy Association of Texas shows that the disorder is one of the most common in the world. Estimated cases of epilepsy in the U.S. range from four to six million.

Let criminals beware

Crime Stoppers are hoping to corral thugs

By BILL ELDER

Would-be criminals, take note: life could get tougher for you next month.

If all goes well, Howard County's corporate ranks will be joined then by a business with the sole purpose of stepping up the war on crime.

It will accomplish this, the organization hopes, by appealing to an age-old instinct: greed.

Big Spring Crime Stoppers, Inc. — remember the name, it'll make their job easier — will offer rewards for information leading to the arrest or indictment of anyone in connection with crimes that take place in Howard County.

BSCS also will drill the community in a wealth of tips and crime-prevention techniques that could spell the difference between being a victim and a potential victim.

Members of the Arson Reward Committee, jointly operated by the city of Big Spring and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, met Tuesday afternoon to hammer out the BSCS by-laws. The ARC will be incorporated within Big Spring Crime Stoppers, and while the reward for participants in the Crime Stoppers program hasn't been set it's likely to be patterned after the $500 maximum reward offered for information that leads to an arrest in arson cases.

ARC members used crime programs from Abilene, Albuquerque and Rockford, Ill., as their models in setting up the local Crime Stoppers.

ARC members determined yesterday that Big Spring Crime Stoppers Inc. will have a 13-member board of directors who serve without pay. Three chamber executives, a representative of the insurance industry and nine other members — three picked by the chamber, three by the Big Spring City Council and three by the county commission — would comprise the board.

Chamber executives would serve on the board as long as they hold their chamber titles, while the rest would serve three-year terms. BSCS would have no other members, although the directors may have the option of hiring additional people.

ARC chairman and Herald Publisher Tom Watson said the next step is to get the standing rules formulated, specifying what types of crimes would be covered under the Crime Stoppers program. Incorporation papers need to be approved by the state and the IRS must approve the non-profit, tax-exempt status of BSCS, as well.

And finally, BSCS will need donations to build up a reward fund, which will be kept in an interest-bearing bank account.

To the likely chagrin of foes of the law, more is likely to be heard from Big Spring Crime Stoppers as its members educate the public on criminal schemes and reward those who deliver the information crucial to busting up such schemes.

Jean Wilder has been named principal at Washington Elementary School, according to Lynn Hise, superintendent of Big Spring schools.

Mrs. Wilder has been with Big Spring schools since 1970. She served as a teacher at Marcy Elementary and Cedar Crest, and was an elementary counselor of the system.

Mrs. Wilder said serving as principal at Washington "will be a challenge. I'm looking forward to it. I have an excellent professional staff to work with. I'm also looking forward to working with the parents and children at Washington."

Prior to becoming principal at Washington Elementary, Mrs. Wilder served as Title I supervisor for the Big Spring district.

She began her teaching career at Barnhart in 1957, then transferred to the Hawley school system, and taught in Abilene for six years.

She received her bachelor's and master's degrees at Sul Ross University, and also her professional counseling degree, as well as her L.L.D. certification.

She also holds a supervisor's certification from the University of Texas at the Permian Basin, and a mid-management certification from Sul Ross.

Wondering what to do with tomatoes from the garden?

Build a garden fresh polenta from garden fresh tomatoes

Your red, vine-ripened tomatoes deserve to be showcased in a dish worthy of the care you've put into growing them.

Garden Fresh Polenta is a mountain of a meatless main dish, made simple because you use your best ally, your microwave oven.

How does your Garden Fresh Polenta grow? Step by step. The first one is to prepare the polenta, the classic sliced corn meal mush that had its origin in Italy. You cook the mush in the microwave, spread the mixture in a pan and chill, preferably overnight.

The next step is to prepare the filling and topping. Again, the microwave comes in handy for cooking the tomatoes. Mozzarella and Parmesan cheeses, eggs and cream are stirred into the hot mixture.

The next step is to assemble the polenta. Layers of corn meal mush (remember that corn meal is enriched with B vitamins and iron) are alternated with the rich tomato-y sauce.

The final step is to melt the remaining cheeses over the top of the casserole. A beauty of a dish from the bounty of your garden!

GARDEN FRESH POLENTA

Polenta:
1 cup enriched corn meal
1 cup cold water
1 1/4 teaspoon salt
3 cups boiling water

Filling and Topping:
4 medium-size ripe tomatoes
1/4 cup green onion slices
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg (optional)

1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Mozzarella cheese
3 eggs, beaten
2-3 cups heavy cream or one 5-1/3 ounces can evaporated milk
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

For polenta, grease 13x9-inch baking pan. Combine corn meal, cold water, and salt in large glass bowl. Gradually add boiling water, mixing well. Cook corn meal mixture in microwave oven at HIGH about 10 minutes, stirring after each 3 minutes of cooking. Spread evenly into prepared pan. Chill about 2 hours or until set. Or, refrigerate overnight.

For filling and topping, blanch tomatoes in boiling water about 2 minutes; peel. Chop tomatoes, removing seeds. Combine tomatoes, onion, salt and seasonings in large glass bowl. Cook at HIGH for 15 minutes, stirring after each 5 minutes of cooking. Combine 1/2 cup Mozzarella cheese, eggs, cream and 1 tablespoon Parmesan cheese, mixing well; stir in small amount of hot tomato mixture. Gradually add egg mixture to tomato mixture, stirring constantly.

To assemble, cut polenta into eight 4-1/2x3-1/4-inch rectangles. Arrange 4 rectangles on bottom of 8-inch square baking dish. Spoon half of tomato mixture over polenta. Place remaining polenta slices over tomato mixture. Spoon remaining tomato mixture over polenta. Cover loosely; cook at HIGH about 12 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean, turning 1/4 turn after each 3 minutes of cooking. Sprinkle with remaining cheeses; continue cooking at HIGH 1 minute or until cheese is melted. Cover; let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

VEGETABLE POLENTA

POLENTA:
1 cup Quaker or Aunt Jemima Enriched Corn Meal
1 cup cold water
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
3 cups boiling water

VEGETABLE TOPPING:
3 cups thin zucchini slices (about 2 medium zucchini)
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
One 4-oz. can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
One 15-1/2-oz. jar prepared meatless spaghetti sauce
1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded Mozzarella cheese
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

For polenta, combine corn meal, cold water and salt. Gradually add to boiling water, stirring constantly. Cover; continue cooking over low heat about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour into greased 13x9-inch baking dish. Chill at least 2 hours or until set. Or, refrigerate overnight.

For topping, heat oven to 350 degrees F. Sauté zucchini and onion in oil in large skillet just until crisp-tender; arrange with mushrooms over chilled polenta. Pour spaghetti sauce over vegetables; sprinkle with Mozzarella cheese. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over top. Bake at 350 degrees F for 30 to 35

Save energy with tuna

Stop, look and save energy by having a cool, crunchy tuna salad for lunch or supper.

Start with unflavored gelatin which needs to be heated only until it dissolves. Add a can of condensed cream of asparagus soup and perky seasonings of lemon juice, mustard, salt and pepper.

After the mixture has chilled, fold in tuna, dairy sour cream, chopped and grated fresh vegetables and almonds for texture and flavor interest. Further refrigeration will set the mold to graceful sculptured lines.

Unmold this main dish salad, top with a swirl of sour cream, then surround it with Cheddar cheese sticks and Swiss cheese slices so it offers complete appetite satisfaction.

CRUNCHY TUNA SALAD

6 to 8 servings
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup water
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of asparagus soup
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 can (9 1/2 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup grated unpeeled

cucumber, drained
1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
1/4 cup chopped green pepper

Soften gelatin in water in a 2-quart saucepan, add soup. Heat, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice, mustard, salt and pepper. Chill until partially set. Fold in sour cream, tuna, celery, cucumber, almonds and green pepper. Turn into 5-cup mold, chill until set.

Unmold salad, top with a dollop of sour cream and serve with pieces of assorted cheeses.

Anteater slurps more than ants.. termites and dirt, for instance

By SUSAN LOTH
National Geographic
News Service

WASHINGTON — The giant anteater has no teeth, a tube-like mouth, and a schnoz that would put Jimmy Durante to shame. It sees poorly, walks on the sides of its feet, and swallows dirt with its meals of ants and termites.

Yes this cousin of sloths and armadillos, found in forests and grasslands from southern Mexico to Argentina, has at least one fan — Kent Redford. For the past year Redford has traded life at Harvard University's Museum of Comparative Zoology for a chance to observe the big insect-eating mammal in central Brazil.

Besides studying captive animals, he has followed anteaters from termite mound to termite mound at Emas National Park. The trick is to stay downwind, he says, because one thing the giant anteater does have is a keen sense of smell.

"If one approaches a termite mound, it will walk around sniffing at very particular places, moving the tip of the nose up and down," Redford said. If it likes what it smells, the anteater will scratch a hole in the mound with the long, curved claws on its front legs. Then out darts the sticky tongue and in go the insects.

The giant anteater, Myrmecophaga tridactyla, can measure 7 feet long, or nearly 9 when its tongue is extended. Some say the anteater's long snout acts as the muzzle of a rifle does in aiming. It also lets the anteater probe deeper after its prey, says Redford. His research is partly supported by the National Geographic Society.

While an anteater can devour thousands of insects a day, it rarely stays long at one mound. Redford calls the behavior "snacking," and says there's a reason: An anteater that loiters gives the insects time to fight back.

"Termites have workers and soldiers," he said. "The workers do all of the work; the soldiers do nothing but defend the colony, and they're fed by the workers."

Some soldiers have mandibles that can bite and draw blood; some mix that bite with a stinging chemical, he continued. "Then you have some termite soldiers which just spray chemicals — like an aerosol can. And these are the ones which are least liked by giant anteaters and which seem to be most effective in deterring predation."

Once enough soldier insects have rallied to the defense, Redford believes, the anteater figures it's time to quit. If it only had teeth, you might say it didn't want to bite off more than it could chew.

Redford says part of the anteater's stomach has strong muscles that may do some of the grinding of food. And something else may help.

"They ingest an enormous amount of non-digestible material — a lot of sand, leaves, gravel, sticks, stones — because when they lay 22 inches of tongue out on the ground you're not only getting ants and termites but anything else that's going to stick to the tongue."

This indigestible material may work like the crop of a bird to break up food in the stomach, Redford said.

Except for insects, the giant anteater won't attack much of anything. If threatened, however, it can be a fierce defender, balancing on its hind legs and tail, with its sharp front claws raised. It will try to grab and rip apart anything within reach.

"There are travelers' accounts about people being caught and disemboweled; and everybody you talk to will tell you the story about a cousin's son who got it from an anteater. I would imagine most of these are apocryphal stories," the zoologist said.

"A warm greeting in Brazil, when you really give your best friend a hug after not having seen him for weeks, is called abraço do tamandua — an anteater's hug."

To date, more anteaters have probably been killed by men than vice versa. Habitat destruction may be the biggest threat today, said Redford, "because a lot of the area that's good anteater country is also good cattle-grazing country."

Fina's net income hits $15,251,000

DALLAS — American Petrofina, Inc., today announced that net income for the second quarter of 1981 amounted to $15,251,000, or $1.41 per share, compared to $25,123,000, or $2.33 per share, in the same period last year.

In the first six months of 1981, earnings were $35,501,000, or $3.29 per share, compared to $56,533,000, or $5.25 per share, in the first half of 1980.

Gross revenue for the quarter ended June 30, 1981, was $713,724,000, and for the six months was $1,380,198,000, compared to $494,147,000 and $1,071,521,000, respectively, in the corresponding periods last year. Cash income from operations amounted to $64,729,000 this year as compared to $86,887,000 in the first half of 1980.

Commenting on the results of the second quarter, Richard I. Galland, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said that operating income from production and exploration activities increased by 37 percent from the same period last year. The quantity of natural gas sold was up 11 percent and that of crude oil and condensate remained constant.

He added that results of the Company's expanded exploration and development program were reflected in an increase, net of production, in its natural gas reserves of approximately 11 percent and in reserves of crude oil and condensate of approximately 3 percent over the reserves credited at the end of 1980.

Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., which maintains a refinery in Big Spring, is a wholly owned subsidiary of American Petrofina.

Charity groups testify for bingo bill

Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — In an attempt to make good use of his time, Sen. Carlos Truan of Corpus Christi brought his bill to legalize location bingo to a Senate Committee Tuesday where questions were few and the reception generally favorable.

One official with the United Cerebral Palsy Association in San Antonio testified that if the bill does not pass during the special legislative session, his group's charitable work might end.

"We could live very well with this bill, and we could not live without it," Robert N. Mazen of San Antonio said.

He said his charity uses 100 percent of the net proceeds (about 50 percent of the gross take) from bingo games to take handicapped people out of state institutions and bring them back home.

"The savings to the state treasury is $320,000 a year," Mazen said.

Bingo games by the charitable group, however, have been raided by the San Antonio police department.

The group has been cleared of criminal charges by the grand jury, but future games are in doubt unless Truan's bingo legislation is approved.

Mazen also noted that because the bill limits individual prizes to $1,000 and an evening's giveaway to a total of $5,000, it should not attract organized crime.

Later, a state officer with the Veterans of Foreign Wars said about 50 percent of the VFW posts in Texas conduct bingo games, but the others are reluctant because of strict enforcement of the state's gambling laws in their areas.

No one testified in opposition to the bill.

The Senate State Affairs Committee lacked a quorum after hearing the testimony, however, and no vote on whether to recommend the legislation to the full Senate was taken.

But a quorum could get together at some time before the end of the session and vote the bill out, committee members noted.

In any case, Gov. Bill Clements still must add bingo to the special session agenda before it can be considered by either House.

Last month, Clements told a delegation of San Antonio-area representatives that he was inclined to let the Legislature consider the matter.

That inclination could disappear, one senator noted, if three other agenda items — redistricting, state property tax repeal and property tax reform — are still up in the air in the last days of the session.

Big Spring doctor found dead with gunshot wound

Dr. Paul F. Kionka, 79, was found dead with a gunshot wound at 8 p.m. Monday in his home at 1610 Pennsylvania.

Justice of the Peace Bobby West, who pronounced Kionka dead at the scene, would make no official ruling on cause of death until after an autopsy is performed, he said this morning.

The autopsy was scheduled for today at Malone-Hogan hospital and was to be performed by Dr. Robert Rember, a pathologist, West said.

Police detectives said Kionka's body was found lying on its back on a bedroom floor with a .32-caliber revolver lying near the head.

West said the wound "appeared to be in the mouth, but without the autopsy I can't say for sure."

Kionka shared the home with his wife, Henriette. Her son Roger reported the death to the police, according to police department reports.

Police Detective Bud Jones said Roger had told him "that his father had been in failing health and was depressed."

Kionka was a physician with the Veterans' Administration hospital until he retired in 1965.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Born Nov. 15, 1902, in Milrose Park, Ill., Kionka grew up and attended school in Illinois. He graduated from Proviso High School in 1920. He attended the University of Chicago 1920-21, and the University of Illinois 1921-22. He received his B.S. degree from the University of Illinois Medical School in 1924 and M.D. degree in 1928.

He served his internship at West Suburban Hospital in Oak Park, Ill. He was in private practice in Arlington Heights, Ill. from 1926 to 1935. He moved his practice to Bloomington, Ill. where he served as a health director. He entered the U.S. Navy during World War II and served as a commander.

He married Henriette Maypole Austin June 29, 1947, in Oak Park, Ill. They moved to Tuscon, Ariz., where he was with the VA Hospital until 1960, when he transferred to the Big Spring VA Hospital.

He was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church. He was a member of the Chicago Medical Society, past vice-president of McLean Co. Medical Society Bloomington, Ill., a member of Illinois State Medical Association, the American Medical Association and Phi Medical Fraternity.

He is survived by his wife, Henriette, son and daughter-in-law, Roger and Denita Kionka of Big Spring, and two sisters, Erma Kionka and Marvel Ritchie.
