Commissioners told of growth

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

County commissioners today met with Granville Hahn and LeRoy Tillery to discuss a new city brochure now being printed.

Hahn, with the Big Spring Industrial Steering Committee, and Tillery, executive director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, showed commissioners a copy of the brochure which is being readied for distribution. The county has tentatively approved $6,000 to pay for a share of the advertising costs of the city and county.

Hahn told commissioners that a labor and housing survey had recently been completed by the Steering Committee, and that the survey featured up-to-date information about available housing in Big Spring. Hahn told commissioners that only about 100 apartments or housing units stand empty in the city at this time.

The city and county's "growth is looking pretty good," said Hahn. "The county is to be commended" for its efforts in the growth of the area, Hahn added.

HARRY HEPNER talked briefly with commissioners today concerning right-of-way disputes on Todd Road near the Tubbs Addition. Hepner requested that he be passed over on the agenda today because he needed to compile more back-up information concerning right-of-way on the road.

Hepner informed the commissioners that he was planning "possible civil action" concerning fencing off of some property along Todd Road.

Hepner told commissioners that he feels he owns the land in question, where a fence had been placed, thereby making a dead-end on Todd Road. He said the fence was placed across the road upon an agreement between him and L.L. Johnson.

Controversy has arisen concerning the blocking of the road.

Commissioners Bill Crooker questioned Hepner about problems area residents were having in getting to their property because of the fence. Hepner said he was not aware that any problem had been caused by fencing off the road.

Commissioners also discussed the fact that the road had not been dedicated as a county road.

Commissioner O.L. (Louis) Brown said "If we haven't accepted that road, we have no jurisdiction."

Commissioner Paul Allen told Hepner to get more details, check out the situation, and return to commissioner's court with his findings.

SEVERAL MEMBERS of the Knott Volunteer Fire Department met with commissioners to request the purchase of a trailer, pressure pump and tank to use in fighting fires in the area.

The Knott volunteer firemen are seeking the purchase of a 500- to 600-gallon tank which may be pulled by a pick-up on a trailer. The men said they need a 500- to 600-gallon tank because anything heavier would be hard to maneuver across some areas around Knott without a four-wheel drive vehicle.

Commissioner Brown made a motion that commissioners advertise for bids on the trailer and pressure pump and tank, and also for a shed to house the equipment.

The bids will open on Aug. 24, said County Judge Bill Tune.

Arly Knight of the Jonesboro Volunteer Fire Department requested that the commissioners allow the purchase of a nozzle for their fire-fighting equipment. Knight told commissioners that the nozzle now used by the Jonesboro Fire Department would not work. Commissioners agreed to get a new nozzle.

Tax, gas rate hikes on council agenda

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

A lengthy agenda awaits Big Spring City Council members who will meet for a regular meeting Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council Room of Big Spring City Hall.

The most important items concern a property tax increase, a response to Energas's proposed rate increase and revenue sharing hearings.

The council will decide whether to suspend the rule requiring two readings of proposed resolutions and thus authorize a public hearing on the proposed tax increase at the next city council meeting Aug. 25.

Acting on the recommendation of the city's Finance Department, the council proposes to raise the property tax by 15 cents per $100 valuation — a hike necessary to cover bond service which will fund the street improvements part of the city's Capital Improvements Program. By law the council must call for a public hearing on the increase.

Another increase — a general rate increase sought of $18.4 million sought by Energas — is listed on the council agenda. Councilmen will decide whether to suspend the rate increase request for 120 days as allowed by the Public Utility Act, so that the city can meet with other West Texas cities affected by the increase.

Council members also will be presented with the proposed 1981-82 revenue sharing budget, which was drawn up by city staff after a public hearing July 27 which no citizens attended. There will be another hearing in September and Tuesday's review of the proposed budget is to enable the city to be in compliance with the Revenue Sharing Act.

Senate approves redistricting plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate approved a congressional redistricting plan today that opponents criticized as a "Republican plan" that increase the number of GOP members in Congress.

The vote to accept a proposal rammed through the House by Speaker Bill Clayton, a Democrat, was 18-13. Earlier, senators had refused, 15-16, to call for a conference committee to work out a compromise with the House.

Senate action sent the measure to Gov. Bill Clements, who had indicated he would accept a similar plan but would veto a bill that denied the GOP any gains. Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said Clayton had "cast his lot" with the Republicans in getting House members to pass the proposal Sunday morning.

Both supporters and opponents of the proposal said they felt the congressional plan would be challenged in the courts.

Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, asked his colleagues to accept the House version of the redistricting bill after Clayton refused to go along with a behind-the-scenes maneuver to send the measure to conference.

"I agree with Sen. (Carl) Parker. I think they (House members) took a sorry bill and ruined it," said Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler.

Members of the House Democratic Caucus used every delaying tactic they could muster against the redistricting bill to increase the chances of a successful filibuster in the Senate.

To kill the bill, a filibuster would have to extend to the Tuesday midnight adjournment of the special session.

The bill embodies a plan by Clayton for drawing election districts for the 24 Texas congressmen, plus the three new ones the 1980 census gave Texas.

"I'd rather go into a dark room with a gorilla" than go to conference committee, said Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, a supporter of the House plan.

House members passed it at about 4:35 a.m. Sunday, 86-14, with a bare quorum of 100 representatives present. Some members of the caucus sought further delay by breaking a quorum, but enough showed up to get Clayton's bill passed.

Clayton said in Saturday night's debate that his plan provided 20 safe Democratic districts, six that would elect GOP congressmen and one "toss-up" seat, the one held by U.S. Rep. Jack Fields of Houston.

School registration starts today

Pre-registration for all students new to grades nine through twelve began today, and will continue through Friday at Big Spring High School.

Students are requested to come to the main office between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Withdrawal forms from the last school attended will be required, according to W.A. McQueary, principal of BSHS.

Runner makes Dallas in record time

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Richard Hackney, who ran through Big Spring at 4 a.m. Friday, made it to Dallas Sunday and claimed the world's record for the most number of miles, 630, run in the shortest number of days, five and a half.

Hackney broke a record set in 1888 by George Littlewood, who ran 623 3/4 miles in six days in England.

"Hackney beat that record by five hours and five miles" said Mark Shedy of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. Shedy monitored the run from Hackney's start last Monday.

The runner took on the challenge for the Epilepsy Association of Texas.

After finishing the marathon, Hackney was reported to have a swollen Achilles tendon on his left foot, and blisters on his right foot. He arrived in Dallas at noon, said Shedy, an hour-and-a-half ahead of a schedule he had set for himself last Monday.

RICHARD HACKNEY

Waiting for Hackney at the finish line were his parents and his sister. Dr. Don Rathbun, president of the Epilepsy Association of Texas, El Paso, told Shedy today that it looked like the last 10 blocks of the run might be too much for Hackney. But the runner gave it his all, said Rathbun, and finished the distance required for the record.

Although Hackney claimed the record, the run did not generate much in the way of donations for the Epilepsy Association of Texas, said Shedy today. Hackney had reportedly garnered $500 for the Association as of today, with $250 of that coming from a man in Midland. Anyone wishing to donate to the Epilepsy Association of Texas may send their contributions to Box 2424, El Paso, Tex., 79952.

Hackney did most of his running during the night or early morning hours. He was accompanied on the road by his brother, Douglas, and his son, Billy, who both followed the runner in a van.

Two hours after Hackney had completed the run, Dr. Rathbun told Shedy that the runner was in good condition, and was up and talking to friends.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Handicapped child

Q. My stepson has a 12-year-old child who is totally handicapped, can't walk, talk or understand what is said to him, has to be fed and dressed. How old will the child have to be before he can receive disability from Social Security?

A. A handicapped person who has never worked has no right to a Social Security benefit of his or her own, says a spokesman for the Social Security Administration. Your stepson's child would be eligible for a benefit only if either of his parents became entitled to a retirement or disability benefit, or died after having worked under Social Security long enough for a benefit to be payable. Then the child could qualify for a benefit as a minor under age 18 or as a disabled adult child after he attains age 18, the spokesman explains.

French leave Iran

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A group of 58 French nationals, prevented from leaving Iran last week, took off from Tehran airport on an Iran Air flight to Paris today, the Iranian Foreign Ministry announced.

An External Affairs Ministry spokesman in Paris said 57 French citizens left and the departure of three others had again been delayed, "two because of minor financial problems and the third, an Iranian married to a Frenchman, because she did not have an exit visa."

There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in figures on the number who left.

Iranian spokesman Reza Alavi Tabatabaie said a second group of French nationals, including Ambassador Guy Georgy, is scheduled to leave Wednesday.

Of the 144 French citizens living in Iran, a skeleton staff of diplomats is staying to staff the embassy and a handful of Christian religious workers have refused to leave.

Diplomatic sources in Tehran said there had been no delays in the repatriation plan developed after 60 French citizens were prevented Thursday from boarding an Air France jet sent to evacuate them, and another French plane was denied permission to land.

Iranian officials said the departure of the French was delayed to make sure none of them left unpaid taxes or financial obligations.

French President Francois Mitterrand urged all the French in Iran to leave the country and recalled Ambassador Guy Georgy for consultations because of demonstrations in Tehran against the French government's refusal to extradite ex-President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

The ousted Iranian chief of state escaped to Paris on July 29 with the leader of the leftist Mujahedeen Khalq guerrillas, Massoud Rajavi. Both were given political asylum, and the Iranian government demanded that they be returned for trial.

The French businessman, who asked not to be identified, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that most of the French were leaving Iran "with regret and not by choice."

Storm threatening

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Dennis, carrying top winds of 65 mph and churning westward through the Atlantic at about 23 mph, could reach hurricane strength within a day, forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said this morning.

Tropical storms become hurricanes if their maximum sustained winds reach 74 mph.

At 6 a.m. EDT today, Dennis, the fourth tropical storm of the 1981 Atlantic hurricane season, was centered near latitude 13.5 north and longitude 50.5 west, or about 700 miles east of the Windward Islands that separate the Caribbean from the Atlantic.

Forecasters said Dennis was expected to speed up and maintain its westward course today, but slow somewhat Tuesday.

Polish leaders meeting

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Union and Communist Party leaders are meeting separately this week to discuss the food crisis that has plunged Poland into a new period of widespread public unrest.

The Solidarity labor federation called off one protest Sunday, a women's hunger march planned for the Baltic seaport of Gdansk. A spokesman said the march was canceled because of the "tense situation."

Another protest, in the small southern city of Krosno, took place on schedule with residents rallying in the streets to demand full meat rations and immediate economic reforms, the official PAP news agency said.

National leaders of Solidarity, the only independent labor union in the Soviet bloc, were to meet today in Gdansk for two days of talks on the bread-and-butter issues.

The widespread public protests against the government's cut in the August meat ration, its plans to raise food prices and the shortages of most staples also were certain to dominate a meeting Tuesday of the Communist Party's Central Committee.

Solidarity chief Lech Walesa cited the union meeting as his reason for rejecting a government offer of television time today to discuss the food crisis. Walesa also proposed a televised debate Saturday with Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski, the government's chief labor troubleshooter, but Solidarity said Rakowski was "unavailable."

SHORT RIDE — John Malone, 25, probably wasn't counting on a police officer being part of his audience when he did the old "Look Ma, no hands" trick on his Yamaha motorcycle Saturday. Malone was observed riding stand-up style in the 600 block of South Gregg by an officer, who pulled Malone over and arrested him for reckless driving. Malone gave his occupation as truck driver and said he was from out of town.

Justice Robert Hamilton, formerly of Stanton, dead

Justice Robert W. Hamilton, former county attorney of Martin County and former district attorney for the 70th Judicial District, died in his sleep early Sunday at his home in Tyler.

Hamilton, who was to become Chief Justice of the Eighth Supreme Judicial District and later Association Justice of the Supreme Court, retired from the bench Dec. 31, 1970.

In the Fall of 1970 issue of the Baylor Law Review, he was described as "one of Texas' greatest common law judges."

The article went on to say that "his judicial career has been governed by fairness, justice, serenity, courage, and a self-discipline to withhold final judgment until he had considered all the evidence and arguments. His decisions reveal the sound and good conscience of the common law which has been his chief medium of expression."

Justice Hamilton grew up in East Texas. He was a teacher at Plainview High School and coached the football team to a state championship.

In 1927, he began practicing law at Tyler. He then moved to Stanton where he served as county attorney of Martin County and district attorney for the 70th Judicial District.

For 16 years, he practiced law in Midland and West Texas, and in 1950 he ran for and was elected judge of the 70th Judicial District. On Oct. 17, 1953, he took office as chief justice of the Eighth Supreme Judicial District, and on Jan. 1, 1959, he became Associate Justice of the Supreme Court following a successful open race.

After retirement in 1970, he moved to Tyler where he was associated with a law firm. He also farmed and ranched.

Memorial services were to be at 2 p.m. today at Tyler. Burial will be at the State Cemetery in Austin on Wednesday.

Survivors include his wife, Lois; a son, Robert William Hamilton Jr. of New York; two daughters, Emily of El Paso and Ann of San Antonio; three cousins, Cecil Hamilton of Big Spring, Dorothy Davis of Midland, and Lela Hamilton of Stanton.

New FTC ruling unnecessary

Local funeral homes provide price lists of goods, services

By RENEE BLACKWELL, Staff Writer

A new ruling in which funeral homes may better serve their customers has been approved by the Federal Trade Commission.

The new ruling was spurred by about 1,000 complaints turned in over a period of several years. The rule, which some funeral homes have always used as a policy, would require funeral homes to provide price lists for goods and services so customers will know the choices and their prices.

Although this rule is just being passed on the federal level, Texas passed the law several years ago. "The state of Texas is under stricter laws, so this (recent federal ruling) won't affect us," said Ernest Welch, funeral director for Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. "This is the way we've worked for years."

The complaints, which were turned in to the Federal Trade Commission from all over the nation, were based on costs. The typical purchaser of funeral goods and services is about as far removed from the rational, sovereign consumer as he or she could be," Commissioner Michael Pertschuk said in the Wall Street Journal.

According to Tommy Whatley of Sheppard Funeral Home, the proposal is great. "It's the only way to operate. They (the customer) need to know what they're buying and the cost."

Richard Myers, president of the National Funeral Directors Association, said the association will decide whether to ask Congress to overturn the rule, expected to be issued formally in the fall.

The funeral industry lobbied hard in 1980 to persuade Congress to rein the Federal Trade Commission.

Police Beat High-speed chase ends in Coahoma

A high-speed chase ended in Coahoma this morning with the arrest of Allan Daves Jr. for fleeing and attempting to elude police officers.

Daves, 20, was pursued by police after he allegedly ran a red light at the intersection of South Goliad and F.M. 700 about 2:15 a.m. Officers chased Daves as he led them in his red pickup truck down the 11th Place extension some six miles to Coahoma, where he was captured after losing control of his vehicle.

Police officers in search of a man wanted in connection with his probation term arrested two people Sunday night for interfering with police officers. Mary Boldin, 38, was arrested at 1506 A Virginia for harboring a fugitive after officers, suspecting the wanted man was at that address, arrived on the scene only to have Boldin curse officers and slam a door in their faces, police reports said.

Another occupant of the house, Melvin Ford, was arrested for interfering with officers after he allegedly stood in the officers' path and refused to step aside. After he was told he was under arrest, Ford allegedly hit one officer and attempted to kick several others.

Irene Ross, 31, complained that at about 8:10 p.m. Sunday a man known to her shot at her van in the 1300 block of Lancaster. Two bullet holes were found in the body of the vehicle, according to police reports.

John Enrique Fuentes, 15, of 1111 S. Douglas, complained to police of assault after an incident that occurred at about 3:10 p.m. Sunday. Fuentes claimed a person known to him grabbed him by the hair and shoved him while he was at Skateland, 2906 W. 8th.

Douglas Beams, 800 Scott, complained to police that he returned from an out-of-town trip and discovered four yard sprinklers worth $100 missing from his yard. The theft was reported Sunday afternoon.

James Averitt, 49, complained that between 8 a.m. Aug. 2 and noon

Sunday someone broke into Averitt Auto Sales, 801 E. 4th, stealing a portable television set. The burglar made entry by breaking a window with an oil filter, according to police reports.

Jackie Casey, 41, told police she was at Denny's restaurant between 8:20 and 9:10 a.m. Sunday when someone cut and tore the vinyl roof to her 1980 Oldsmobile.

Church's Fried Chicken, 1100 S. Gregg, complained to police that a window on the north side of the building was broken out early Sunday.

The 7-11 on Wasson complained to police that a person drove up, pumped out $14 worth of regular gas and left without paying at about 2 a.m. Sunday.

Ken Fissell, 2616 Langley, told police a check worth $80 might have been taken when he arrived home Saturday evening to find his mail scattered over his yard.

38 people injured during rock concert

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A crowd of rock fans nearly six times larger than expected surged toward a stage at an outdoor arena near Baton Rouge, injuring 38 people, while a rock concert 150 miles away ended in fights that left two people shot and two stabbed, police said.

The first incident erupted Sunday afternoon at the East Baton Rouge Parish Fair Grounds after a crowd of 85,000 turned out for a concert featuring rock performers Rick James, Teena Marie and a group called Cameo.

Police and witnesses said an announcement of a delay touched off a surge toward the stage that, together with people throwing fireworks, stampeded the crowd. Sponsors had expected only 15,000, but police said 25,000 to 30,000 crowded the fairgrounds, and the rest of the crowd was outside. They said traffic was backed up for six miles.

At Lake Charles, west of Baton Rouge, a policeman shot two fans at a muscular dystrophy benefit after one of them grabbed a gun from an officer who was trying to stop fighting that eventually involved an estimated 1,000 people, said Police Chief Jimmy Gwatney.

In East Baton Rouge, state police first thought "a stampede" was triggered by audio equipment falling from a stage onto some spectators. But later, East Baton Rouge Parish sheriff's spokesman Randy Thompson said a combination of things caused the panic.

"The crowd at one point pushed forward, trying to get closer and closer to the stage, and a restraining fence collapsed," said Thompson. "Then, there was another report of fireworks in the crowd and the crowd panicked."

"Everything went crazy," said Cheryl Williams, 19, of Baton Rouge. "People started running and pushing and shoving. They ran toward the stage."

Governors complaining about economic plan

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The country's governors are beginning to complain they were left holding the bag when President Reagan and Congress rushed through an economic program that was supposed to create a golden new federalism.

And if it means they are going to be the ones to pay the bills or cut off the taxpayers and voters back home, they want no more of it.

Even Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander, a Republican who has been one of Reagan's strongest supporters, declared at the National Governors' Association Convention Sunday that he is joining the ranks of "those governors who will be saying to the president and to Congress that we don't want dumped on us responsibilities which we can't pay for."

The problem is that the governors have been asking for years for a new federalism — meaning primarily a program of block grants that would funnel federal money to them with fewer strings attached. With that kind of flexibility, they said they could get by with 10 percent less federal aid.

But the budget passed by Congress last week gave them only a few of the block grant programs they wanted and left the federal strings tightly attached to the remaining categorical grants.

What's worse, from the statehouse perspective, state and local governments lost as much as 35 percent of their federal funding in the new budget, which begins Oct. 1, instead of the 10 percent they bargained for.

That means states have new authority but less money and the onerous task of deciding which of the public's favorite projects, from school lunches to nursing homes, are going to be cut back or cut off.

"There's going to be a cutback in the level of services," declared Georgia Gov. George Busbee. "There has to be, or there will be a mammoth tax increase at the state level."

A pre-convention survey by The Associated Press found the governors virtually unanimous against raising taxes at home to make up for the loss in federal money.

Every state has some kind of commission, task force or study working on distribution of the smaller federal pie. They are holding hearings, seeking citizen input and doing all they can to let the pinched public in on the decisions.

Busbee said the new budget brings landmark changes in the federal system, and "if this means that there will be a clearer focus on the primary role and responsibilities of the states in such things as education, law enforcement, transportation and community development, I say that's good news."

Every state has some kind of commission, task force or study working on distribution of the smaller federal pie. They are holding hearings, seeking citizen input and doing all they can to let the pinched public in on the decisions.

IRA prisoner joins hunger strike list

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — IRA guerrilla Patrick Sheehan, 23, refused breakfast at Maze Prison today, joining the hunger strike that has claimed nine lives since it began March 1. The family of another hunger striker was called to the bedside of their starving son.

Hunger striker Michael Devine's family was called to his prison bedside today after his condition deteriorated sharply on the 49th day of his death fast.

Sinn Fein, the political arm of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, said the 27-year-old guerrilla's health was failing but gave no details. Devine, a member of the Irish National Liberation Army, a leftist IRA splinter group, is serving a 12-year sentence for gun law violations.

A spokesman for Britain's Northern Ireland Office confirmed that Sheehan joined the five other guerrillas currently fasting.

Sheehan, whose younger brother is also a prisoner at the Maze, is serving a 15-year term for a 1978 bomb attack.

Sheehan replaced Kieran Doherty, who died in the Maze on Aug. 2 on the 73rd day of his fast. Each guerrilla is replaced on the fast as he dies. Sinn Fein said Sheehan's name was drawn from a list of 75 volunteers.

Meanwhile, two civilians were killed in rioting that followed the death of Thomas McIlwee, the ninth Irish nationalist to die in the 25-week-old prisoners' campaign for political recognition.

McIlwee, who died Saturday on his 62nd day without eating, was being buried today at Bellaghy, in County Londonderry.

His death touched off rioting Saturday night in Roman Catholic districts of Belfast and five other towns in Northern Ireland. In West Belfast, scene of the worst violence, police said at least 1,000 gasoline and nail bombs were thrown at them, and 34 people were arrested.

Hospital sources said a 40-year-old man was killed by a plastic bullet of the type used by security forces. A police spokesman said the cause is still under investigation. The second victim was a 19-year-old hit by gunfire on a West Belfast street adjoining the Protestant Shankill Road district.

Deaths—Manslaughter trial begins

Mesker is charged with voluntary manslaughter for allegedly shooting and killing his brother, Stephen Allen Martin, 37, on April 19, 1980.

Representing Mesker in the case is Robert Moore III.

Continental Airlines chief apparent suicide victim

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The chairman of Continental Airlines, an embattled organization desperately fighting takeover by Texas International Airlines, apparently committed suicide, Los International Airport spokesman John Smith said.

A.L. FELDMAN

The body of A.L. Feldman, Continental's chairman and chief executive officer, was found Sunday night in the executive suite of his airport office, said Smith, the director of airport operations. Feldman was 53.

Smith said a gun was found in Feldman's suite and that the Continental executive apparently had shot himself. His body was found shortly before 8 p.m.

City Police Department Detective Gary Guthrie said, "We have a telephoned confirmation that an A.L. Feldman has been shot." Investigators were unavailable for further comment early today.

Although Feldman reportedly met Sunday with other Continental officials to map out strategy in what was shaping up as a losing fight against the Texas International takeover, his death appeared unrelated to those events.

"I understand — this is not official — that he left three suicide notes," Smith said. "They basically stated that he lost his wife recently and had the intimation that life wasn't worth living." Smith said a gun was found in Feldman's executive suite. He did not know who found Feldman's body.

A Continental spokesman said Feldman's wife died one year ago. "It was with great sadness that I learned of the death of Al Feldman," said Frank Lorenzo, president of Texas Air Corp., the parent company of Texas International. "Mr. Feldman was a man of great honor and integrity and a major figure in our industry."

Feldman presided at a May meeting where a bid by Texas International Airlines to take over Continental was rejected in favor of a plan that allows employees to purchase the airline by foregoing $180 million in pay raises.

Texas International Senior Vice President Phil Bakes, whose airline had already purchased a large block of Continental stock, came to the Denver meeting to attempt to block the employee-purchase plan.

But Feldman ruled Bakes' motion out of order, to the cheers of a crowd of 1,200 who packed the ballroom of the Brown Palace Hotel.

Texas International's takeover bid came after Continental posted a $27 million loss in 1980, partly because of a long strike by flight attendants.

A graduate of Cornell University, Feldman held a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering. He was a graduate of the executive program of Stanford University and was an Associated Fellow of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

He is survived by three children, David, 25; John, 23; and Susan, 20, and two brothers, Herbert and Lester Feldman.

COMPARISON OF ATOMIC AND NEUTRON BLASTS — Chart compares the effects of a conventional nuclear detonation, top, with that of a 1 kiloton neutron bomb blast, bottom. On Saturday, reversing a controversial

Fires blacken north California, Oregon

Fires raging today in Northern California closed highways, destroyed television relay towers and blackened 20,000 acres while a grass fire in central Oregon blackened a 2,000-acre swath that contained at least six homes.

There were reports of a half dozen houses burning in California, but state Department of Forestry information officer Beth Tustin said "it's still too hot" to enter the areas and verify them.

Fires also burned in Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

A fire in Cow Mendocino and Lake counties has burned more than 18,000 acres of brush in the Cow Mountain Recreation Area. It ruined $150,000 worth of microwave relay equipment that left seven TV stations in the Ukiah area without cable service.

Highway 29 north of Lakeport was closed, and Lake County sheriff's officers evacuated a number of homes.

Fire information officer Carol Naumann said over 20 structures were saved, but more were in the path of the blaze.

In Oregon, a fire began just east of Redmond on Sunday afternoon and spread across an estimated 2,500 to 3,000 acres containing sagebrush and juniper trees. No serious injuries were reported.

Fire Chief Pete Hansen, in Bend about 16 miles south of Redmond, said six to eight homes were burned.

Redmond Fire Department representative Vern Hassler said the fire's expansion was halted about 5 1/2 hours after it began.

Redmond Fire Chief Hoy Fultz said the blaze evidently started when flames escaped a barrel in which trash was being burned at a residence.

The Diamond International lumber mill called about 100 of its employees to fight the flames approaching the plant. The fire's approach was halted after several hours when it had burned only a few logs stacked in the mill yard.

A forest fire that had burned one residence and threatened 42 others in interior southern Oregon near Klamath Falls was brought under control.

Other California fires include one that caused by a fatal auto accident Saturday.

Weather Cold front moves across Panhandle

By The Associated Press A weak cold front moved southward across the Panhandle into the South Plains early today, triggering heavy rainfall in Northwest Texas.

The heaviest rain was at Amarillo where 7.0 of an inch fell between midnight and 5 a.m.

Forecasters called for showers and thunderstorms over West Texas and Northwest Texas today. The remainder of the state was to have clear skies except for scattered thunderstorms along the gulf coast.

Highs were to range from the 70s and 80s in Northwest Texas to the 90s over the remainder of the state.

Except for Northwest Texas the state had mostly clear skies early today.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 60s in the Panhandle to the upper 70s along the coast. Extremes ranged from 60 at Amarillo to 79

European allies refrain from comment

Reagan claims producing neutron will reduce need of deploying it

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, accused by the Soviet Union of taking "a step toward nuclear death," says producing the neutron warhead and storing it at home will reduce the need of ever deploying it.

Major European allies generally refrained from comment on the weekend announcement of President Reagan's decision to go ahead with production, calling it America's business. But small NATO countries and at least one neutral condemned the move.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said, "All signs indicate that this is in line with (Reagan's) new strategy designed to justify the admissibility of a limited nuclear war and condition people to this horrible thought."

Calling neutron warheads "barbaric" and "a step toward nuclear death," Tass said the decision to build them recalled "the same cannibalistic instincts" that led to the U.S. nuclear bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan in World War II.

The Soviet Union "will have to give such a response to the challenge that will be demanded by the security interests of the Soviet people and their allies," Tass said.

The State Department said none of the "enhanced radiation weapons" will be deployed outside the United States "at this time," and presidential counselor Edwin Meese III said just having them should deter Soviet aggression and encourage arms control.

"There's less chance of having to deploy them if we go ahead on a planned schedule, stockpiling them in this country, indicating that we have them available," Meese told a Cable News Network interviewer Sunday.

"This shows... an American resolve to proceed with the improvement of our defense capability. And I think that's the best deterrent to a potential aggressor making necessary the ultimate deployment of these weapons in Europe."

Meese declined to say how long deployment would take but predicted that European allies "would be only too happy to have this additional weapon in the arsenal" in a crisis.

Former President Carter won allied agreement in 1977 to deploy the warheads in Europe and then reversed himself, ordering production of components but prohibiting actual assembly.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes insisted Sunday that Reagan's action was not a reversal of Carter's policy, "just a logical add-on."

"Where we differ is Carter had made a decision to manufacture and not assemble and now we are assembling," Speakes told reporters in California, where Reagan is vacationing.

Meese told CBS News that the only incentive the Soviets have for arms limitation talks is "to limit our armament" because "they know we have a resolve to build up our defense capability."

"This... should lead to a real series of realistic talks which hopefully will result not only in arms limitation but arms reduction," he added.

Some opponents of the neutron warheads have expressed concern about the prospect of complicating upcoming talks on nuclear arms in Europe.

Facing a growing number of Soviet missiles in western Russia capable of reaching any target in Europe with nuclear warheads of the ordinary kind, the NATO allies agreed in 1979 to accept 572 U.S. cruise and Pershing missiles. But the acceptance was conditioned on the United States' opening talks with the Soviets on reducing their nuclear weapons.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. is scheduled to meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in New York next month to lay the groundwork for those talks. Haig reportedly opposed the neutron decision on the grounds that it would make it harder to place the cruise and Pershing missiles in Europe, where the anti-nuclear movement has prompted some governments to delay or deny acceptance of the missiles.

Plan may affect federal student loans

Marle-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — A plan in Congress to convert federal student loan programs to financial need-based programs could mean a 35 percent reduction nationwide in such loans.

Mack Adams, assistant commissioner of higher education in Texas, made the prediction, but said he anticipates a slightly less of an impact on federal money loaned in Texas.

Adams said the reduction could affect enrollment by making it financially impossible for some students to attend school.

"At least this year it should have no appreciable effect on enrollment," he said. In a year, though, effects could be noticeable, he said.

Congress is proposing the change as part of its effort to cutback federal spending.

Interest payments on the long-term loans, subsidized by the federal government, often exceed the amount of the loans. The federal loan program is one of only a few financial aid programs for Texas students that is not based on a student's financial need.

Currently any full-time student may negotiate a loan from a local lending agent through his school's financial aid office.

Interest on the federal loans ranges from 4 percent to 9 percent.

Under the proposed congressional changes, students from families with an income of less than $30,000 would remain eligible for the loans.

However, students from families with an income above $30,000 would have to meet certain need requirements to be established by the U.S. Secretary of Education.

This requirement could result in about a 35 percent drop in loans, affecting students with family incomes above $30,000.

Many students in this income bracket are ineligible for other grant and loan programs based on financial need.

The proposal also would require a 5 percent deduction from the loan when it is issued to offset federal interest subsidies.

If approved, the bill will go into effect 10 days after it is signed by President Ronald Reagan.

Therefore, the new requirements could affect the borrowing ability of students as early as this fall if Congress acts on the bill before its August recess.

Another possible result of the program could be a slight increase in enrollments at public institutions if students from private schools transfer to the more affordable public schools, Adams said.

The bill has spent most of the summer in conference committee, and emphasis on tax cut legislation and other issues may delay any official action on the bill until after the August recess.

Fourth Medfly confirmed

By The Associated Press Mechanical troubles forced Florida officials to postpone an aerial pesticide assault against a destructive pest today as another Mediterranean fruit fly was discovered, outside the planned spray zone, authorities said.

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner said the newly discovered fly was found Sunday evening and was flown to Washington for laboratory identification.

He said the discovery "doesn't surprise us, it just disappoints us," Conner said.

Officials had planned today to begin aerial spraying of the pesticide malathion over a nine-square-mile area around a tree in Tampa where three medflies were found in a trap last Tuesday, the first finding of the pest in Florida in 18 years.

At about 7:30 a.m., however, officials had to scrub spraying for the day because of a helicopter engine failure. Another helicopter would be brought in to begin spraying Tuesday morning, officials said.

Conner said the fourth fly was found about a half-mile south of the planned spraying area, a 1 1/2-mile radius around the Tampa tree. Because of the find, the area will be increased by seven square miles and another 1,000 traps will be spread across 81 square miles in east Tampa. That brings to more than 1,460 the number of the small cardboard traps added in the area since last week's discovery.

Conner said officials don't know yet how wide an area might be infested.

Meanwhile, California authorities worried that a growing infestation would force quarantine of a fourth agriculture-rich county.

Murphy's Law revisited

Most of us are familiar with Murphy's Law: "If anything can go wrong, it will."

From this law have sprung hundreds of corollaries, axioms, amendments and theorems. Let's review just a few of them.

- Nothing is as easy as it looks.
- Everything takes longer than you expect.
- If there is a possibility of several things going wrong, the one that will go wrong first will be the one to cause the most damage.
- If you perceive that there are four possible ways a procedure can go wrong, and circumvent these, then a fifth way will promptly develop.
- Left to themselves, all things go from bad to worse.
- Whenever you set out to do something, something else must be done first.
- If you play with something long enough, you will surely break it.
- If everything seems to be going well, then you have obviously overlooked something.

• Nature always sides with the hidden flaw.

• It is impossible to make anything foolproof, because fools are so ingenious.

• If a great deal of time has been expended seeking the answer to a problem with the only result being failure, the answer will be immediately obvious to the first unqualified person.

• The legibility of a copy is inversely proportional to its importance.

• All students who obtain a B will feel cheated out of an A.

• When a pencil breaks, the nearest sharpener is exactly 1,000 feet away.

• Matter will be damaged in direct proportion to its value.

• Every solution breeds new problems.

• Things get worse under pressure.

• If you're feeling good, don't worry, you'll get over it.

• And you know, they say Murphy was an optimist!

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Reader disagrees with letter writer

Dear Editor: Reference here is made to the letter to the Editor in the Big Spring Herald signed by a Mr. C.G. Gilstrap on 8-2-81. Mr. Gilstrap I hope understands his letter since it contains very little fact and he contradicts himself so no one else can understand it. He says, "Almost every law or program the Democrats have passed have been constitutional." He then names "The E.P.A., OSHA, I.C.C., F.T.C., F.S.A., and C.P.A." and says, "Are all Democratic Bills and are unconstitutional." Make up your mind, Mr. Gilstrap.

Mr. Gilstrap says, "What if you had put $2500.00 per year into a savings and loan firm instead of Social Security, at 6 percent? This would amount to $85,000.00 in 30 years." Mr. Gilstrap, you apparently do not know that the savings and loans did not pay 6 percent 30 years ago nor do they pay that now. They only pay 5 1/2 percent today except on large amounts, and, first of all, you had $2500.00 a year to put into savings 30 years ago? Did you? Few did. I don't know how old you are or what your education is, but it is evident you know very little about how and when social security was passed and what wages were paid when it was enacted.

As for Mr. Charles Stenholm and his voting record, where were you when he first ran for office, Mr. Gilstrap? I was out in front working for him in his campaign, but that does not mean he always votes what is best for the people. The budget bill he voted for was rewritten over night and not one member of Congress had read the revised bill when they voted. It consisted of some 800 pages not even numbered so you could find an item you may have wanted to examine specifically. There were things put in there by Stockman overnight, such as extending the employment of one person beyond the 70 year retirement age in government. They voted without knowledge they were knocking out the minimum Social Security of $122.00 a month which all Americans had the right to believe was prepaid insurance for retirement. In addition, many years ago Congress decided it was most desirable to provide a place of work for the blind and passed the Sheppard Act which reserved the concession stands in Federal Buildings for the blind so they could work and earn a living and not have to go on welfare. Mr. Stenholm voted to deny these things to these people by supporting the Reagan budget and tax cuts. They refused to vote on each item so they could know what they did. It was whole hog or none.

If you and other Reaganites are sincere about equal treatment in tax cuts, why did they not give every one an increase in the deduction in the same amount of dollars. That would have stimulated business because the low income people would spend it and put it back in circulation. No, it was percentage, so the wealthy got the biggest cut.

Mr. Gilstrap, I'm not a hate monger as you appear to be. I hope President Reagan's program will be beneficial to America, but I'm afraid his desire to be popular exceeds his ability from a business standpoint; many in Congress followed like sheep because thousands sent telegrams, etc., asking them to support the President and not 5 percent knew what they were asking for.

I studied these issues as much as they were permitted by President Reagan but much of it has yet to be released to the public. This may haunt him in the future and many of his blind followers.

Our government is representative

Dear Editor: I'm writing concerning a letter written by K.S. Narayan Rao in last Monday's paper.

He said our representative should either vote the party line or resign.

I don't know where he learned his government (probably at Demo headquarters). I have always been taught that we are a representative government. Our representative is to vote the will of the people of his district.

If they voted the party line the house would pass a bill simply to let the other party kill it in the Senate.

For the last 20 years, we had Demo Party control. What did we get for it. Twenty percent inflation — a debt that my 12 years of school can't add.

Mother also is under stress

Dear Editor: Relating to the air Traffic Controller's strike: my older son joined the Army 12 years ago, served in Vietnam and was seriously wounded, served in Korea, Alaska and various other bases on a minimum wage scale; my younger son went to college and got his degree in law enforcement and has served on the police force in two of our largest Texas cities for seven years.

They knew the risks, stress and dangers of their jobs when they accepted them but have served proudly and honorably.

I, as a mother, am under heavy stress each day and pray constantly for my sons' safety, but I am so very proud of them.

The pay scale in relation to the dangers and stress of their jobs is minimal to say the least. My policeman son spends most of his days off in court.

God help our country and our President, who is simply enforcing the law of the land — it seems we can't or won't help ourselves anymore.

Nuclear attack could kill millions

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Anywhere from 80 million to 150 million Americans would probably be killed outright in a nuclear exchange with the Soviet Union. This is the secret estimate of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, which raises serious doubts about the U.S. ability to "win" a nuclear war.

In fact, even these awesome figures are based on the assumption that there would be enough advance knowledge of the Soviet attack to conduct a planned evacuation of large population centers.

The arms control agency, apparently trying to accentuate the positive, words its horrifying prediction this way: "By 1985, given a planned evacuation, it is estimated that 35-65 percent of the U.S. population might survive the immediate effects of a large-scale nuclear attack."

The doomsday report states that "prior warning of an impending nuclear attack represents a key planning assumption." But it bases this assumption on a dubious premise, namely "that a crisis period lasting several weeks would occur and, therefore, that time would be available for planned evacuation."

The report does not estimate how many would be killed in a sneak attack.

If the Russians will hold off for four or five years, a few million more Americans might make it through at least the initial stages of a nuclear holocaust. "Civil defense programs planned for the period after 1985 might increase survivors to 50 to 70 percent of the population, again in terms of immediate effects," the report states. That means the body count would be "only" about 70 million to 115 million.

The secret report was reviewed by my associate Dale Van Atta. In an almost-offhand way, it acknowledges that even the programs planned for the years after 1985 won't do much for those who hope to survive more than a few weeks. The civil defense program's "main priority is reduction of immediate casualties — within a month after an attack," the report says. It adds: "Assuring long-term survivability and national recovery create problems which exceed the scope of the program."

Though they might not have much of a nation left to govern — or for very long — America's top leaders would probably survive a nuclear exchange.

The Defense Department has elaborate evacuation plans for the president and his immediate staff, and presumably for the top military brass as well. The objective is to keep what the Pentagon calls the "national command authority" intact and able to function in a crisis.

On a slightly less exalted pecking order are those officials considered irreplaceable for the "continuity of essential government functions," as the disarmament agency puts it.

These less-favored leaders are the responsibility of the Federal Preparedness Agency, which "has developed procedures for the protection of government officials and has designated sites for relocating top federal officials."

The president, and those in line of succession to the presidency, would presumably be evacuated to the "Special Facility," one of 19 emergency centers within 300 miles of Washington. The Special Facility is "hardened against moderate blast damage and provides a high degree of fallout protection" — which puts it one-up on the other official bomb shelters.

But the disarmament agency notes that even the Special Facility "would be vulnerable to direct attack by nuclear weapons."

BAD TIMING: Nine congressional aides, self-styled experts on Asian affairs, picked an embarrassing time to accept an expenses-paid junket from a Taiwanese university. The bipartisan delegation arrived in Taiwan last week to take part in seminars sponsored by Soo Chow University.

What makes the situation sticky is that the trip coincides with protests by congressmen irate over the mysterious death of a Pittsburgh-based Taiwanese professor, Chen Wen-Cheng, on a recent visit to Taipei. He plunged from a high-rise balcony after hours of questioning by Taiwan secret police.

The death also raised charges that Taiwanese officials spy on dissidents living in this country. But the controversy didn't stop our eager congressional Gang of Nine.

SECRETARY IN SNEAKERS: Members of Congress and airline representatives are steaming at Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis' attempt to reorganize the Federal Aviation Administration's regional offices on the q.t.

In a letter to Budget Director David Stockman, Lewis urged that the controversial move be carried out quickly and in secrecy — precisely because it was controversial. "Publicity during the initial planning and implementation stages could create delays," he wrote, "and unduly arouse public interest groups."

For that reason, Lewis added, "consultation with other federal agencies, state and local governments on the proposed changes will not take place until after Office of Management and Budget approval."

Lewis got Stockman's OK, and they delayed telling Congress until less than three weeks before the plan was to take effect. Concerned congressmen immediately protested. The secretive secretary has now put his proposal in a holding pattern until later this month.

Around the rim What's the dif?

Andrea Cohen

There is a big difference between being rich and being poor. Oh, I know the obvious ones. If you're poor, you make enough money to keep yourself a little behind and if you're rich, you make enough to keep yourself a little ahead.

But there are other differences. For instance...

If you're poor, you own old, worn down furniture. If you're rich, you own antiques.

If you're poor and do strange things, you're considered weird. If you're rich, you're considered an eccentric.

If you're poor, you work a job. If you're rich, you have a position.

If you're poor and have many children, you don't know what birth control is. If you're rich, you have a large, well-bred family.

If you're poor and love grass soup, fried bananas and chocolate ants, you're considered a glutton. If you're rich, you're considered a gourmet.

If you're poor and buy your clothes from second-hand shops, you're considered an outcast. If you're rich, you're considered a trendsetter.

If you're poor, you have a cold. If you're rich, you have the flu.

If you're poor, you sign your own Christmas cards. If you're rich, you have your signatures printed. If you're really rich, you have a secretary sign your cards. And if you're very very rich, you sign your own cards.

If you're poor, you take flight 181 to Philadelphia and land at 8:29 p.m. sitting in the tourist section. If you're rich, you pay $100 more to take flight 181 to Philadelphia and land at 8:29 p.m. and sit in first class.

If you're poor, you gossip. If you're rich, you keep up on what is going on.

If you're poor, you're a Democrat. If you're rich, you're a Republican.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would like to become a Christian, but I'm afraid of being a hypocrite. I know several people who claim to be Christians and don't act like it. I don't want to be like that.

DEAR V.W.: I commend you for your sincerity and your determination to be either a good Christian or not one at all. I am glad you realize that when a person comes to Christ they are to follow him as Lord of their lives. You would make a good disciple, and I hope you decide to take that step of commitment and become a real Christian.

There are several things I want you to know as you seek to deal with this matter of becoming a Christian. In the first place, look at Christ and not just other Christians. Christians should certainly reflect Christ in their lives, and a Christ-like character will be part of a mature Christian's life. But not all Christians are mature in their faith, and no Christian is perfect. But your decision for Christ should not be based on whether or not some of the Christians you know are living as consistently as they should. It should be based on the truth of Christ — who he is, and what he has done for you. Christ came into this world to deal with our sins, and make forgiveness and salvation possible. He is God's son, and he is our only hope of salvation. So, keep your eyes on him, and accept what he has done for you.

Then determine that you will follow Christ, whether others around you choose to do so or not. That does not mean you will be perfect — you won't. But when you sin you know that you can (and should) come to Christ for forgiveness. And more than that, you need to come to him each day for the strength you need to live as he wants you to live. You can't live for Christ in your own strength — only God the Holy Spirit can give you the strength you need as you yield your life to Christ anew each day. "For the grace of God that brings salvation has appeared to all men. It teaches us to say 'No' to ungodliness and worldly passions, and to live self-controlled, upright and godly lives in this present age... eager to do what is good" (Titus 2:11-12, 14).

Rabies is rare, but devastating illness

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Everybody's got a phobia, I guess. Mine is rabies. I live in fear of it, and now with my children exposed to neighborhood dogs, my phobia is running wild. Please give me the consolation of knowing just what steps to take should they (or I) become infected — Mrs. L.M.

I could find more likely things to have phobias about than rabies. The incidence of rabies in the U.S., for instance, is low — only one to five cases reported yearly since 1960. But since untreated rabies is such a devastating and usually fatal illness, the slightest suspicion calls for total protection.

I can give you the outline for what is advised for animal bites, remembering that dogs are not the only carriers. To begin with, whether the person needs rabies vaccine must be determined by your doctor and the public health authorities.

The immediate action must be to cleanse the wound thoroughly with soap and water. Tetanus shot and antibiotics are often given as the preliminary precaution.

Now, the decision regarding rabies vaccine has to be made. That decision requires careful thought and caution because there are reactions to the vaccine. I can report that these reactions are much less with the newer vaccine. If the animal cannot be examined and if the possibility of rabies exists, it is best to treat with the vaccine. The newer vaccine has the advantage of requiring only six shots instead of the dreaded series of 23 shots with the older types. At the time the rabies vaccine is given, the person also gets gamma globulin antibodies against the rabies virus.

In light of your phobia, I should mention that there are effective ways to deter an attack by a dog. I suggest you inquire of a veterinarian about this. Your children's chances of being bitten by a rabid animal are quite small. You should encourage neighborhood pet owners to have their animals protected if they have not already done so.

(R.J. has another, novel questions on rabies.)

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have heard so much about getting bitten by a rabid animal and getting rabies. I was wondering if it would affect the meat of the animal. Would you eat it? Would you comment please? — R.J.

The only circumstance where rabies is transmitted other than by a bite is when the virus is in high concentrations in the environment. That circumstance exists in caves inhabited by many rabid bats.

But if I knew that either a domestic or a wild animal was suspected of having rabies I would turn down an invitation for a meal of that meat. The fact that meat of rabid animals, especially if cooked, has never been reported as a cause of rabies is a moot point. I simply would not eat such meat, and I advise you not to. You would certainly not want to be a medical first for the price of an uneasy meal, would you?

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please clear this up for me. My family prefers spinach salads compared to lettuce. We eat it about five times a week. I am told that you should not eat spinach too often because of the possibility of kidney stones. Is this true? Would this much spinach be harmful to us? No, I am not a worry wart. I just want to be safe. — M.I.

Kidney stones, like most other natural rock formations, are made up of two mineral parts. For example, salt crystals are of sodium and chloride. When we speak of common biological "rock formations," we think of those made from calcium and oxalate. If a person's kidney stones are of the calcium oxalate variety, it is important for that person to watch the amount of calcium in his diet. The oxalate part is not a problem unless the diet is exceptionally high in that.

Oxalate in food is not well absorbed from the digestive tract, so does not enter the digestive system as readily as does calcium.

Daughter's Suicide May Prevent Others

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, Karen, always read your column. This pleased her mother and me because we think your advice is especially useful to young people.

Two weeks ago we came home and found our beautiful and gifted 22-year-old daughter dead! She had shot herself with the .22 rifle I had bought for our young son to use on a rifle range. We had never had a gun in the house before because I had always heard that they were more dangerous to the family than anyone. Now I keep telling myself that if a gun had not been available, Karen might have gotten through her crisis.

I have two reasons for writing. First, to ask you to encourage teen-agers who have problems to try to talk to their parents or a professional person. We had no idea Karen had any problems. After her death, her sister told us that Karen had used some drugs, including LSD, about two years ago, and although she had quit, she continued to have withdrawal symptoms. She had told her sister that she thought she was "crazy" because occasionally she had memory problems and hallucinated.

We thought we knew Karen, but apparently we didn't. It was her only attempt at suicide, and as far as we know, she never spoke of it to anyone.

My second reason for writing is to ask you about an organization for people who have lost a child. You mentioned it in your column, but we never dreamed that we would need it. Thank you, Abby.

JOHN E. GLASCO, WICHITA, KAN.

DEAR MR. GLASCO: My heart goes out to you and your family. Please don't blame yourself, as most parents of suicides are wont to do. Everyone is responsible for his own actions.

Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Compassionate Friends, P.O. Box 1347, Oakbrook, Ill. 60531. You will be put in touch with the chapter nearest you. This fine organization is comprised of parents who have lost a child and have banded together to provide emotional support to others who need help in handling one of life's greatest tragedies — the loss of a child.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DONNA SMITH IN THE BRONX: Please send George Roemisch's poem, "Forgiveness," in its entirety to me at my new address: 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250. Thank you!

More women are buying homes now independent of decision to marry

There's a new trend in the home-buying market. Single women, divorced, widowed and the never-married, are the fastest growing percentage of new homeowners.

The trend actually began with the passage in 1976 of the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of a credit applicant's sex, marital status, race, color, religion, national origin or age, says Colin McKenny, a banking advisor for the American Bankers Association (ABA). "Changing social attitudes are having an effect as well. Women are buying homes independent of their decision to marry."

If you plan to buy a home, whether it's a condominium or a house, it will be one of the biggest investments you'll make during your lifetime. "Know what you're getting into beforehand so there are no unpleasant surprises," advises McKenny. She recommends you follow a few rules of thumb in deciding what you can afford and how you will pay for it.

Before you begin your house hunting, determine your price range and stick to it. There's no point in looking at houses you really can't afford.

There are two steps in estimating your price range: determine your borrowing capacity and your monthly payment power.

To determine the approximate maximum a financial institution will be willing to lend you for your home, multiply your yearly gross income (pre-taxes) by two-and-one-half. For example, if you earn $25,000 a year, your mortgage limit is probably $62,500. Add to that what you can afford as a down payment and you have a price range to begin shopping for your home.

Now take a close look at what you can afford in monthly payments. A good rule of thumb is that your housing payments shouldn't total more than 25-30 percent of your gross income. Thus, earning the same $25,000 per year, your monthly housing payments should be approximately $520.

Be sure to include real estate taxes, homeowners insurance and utility bills, in addition to your mortgage payment in calculating your monthly housing costs. Buying an inexpensive house that is very expensive to heat can cost you more in the long run.

Now that you have an idea of what you can afford to borrow and what you can afford in monthly payments, you're ready to shop for your home. When you've found one you think fits your needs, there are several steps to take before signing a contract.

"You should ask the seller to show you past utility bills for both summer and winter," advises McKenny. "Be firm with your request because it could affect your decision to buy. Also determine what your taxes will be and have the house wiring, plumbing, roof and general construction inspected by experts."

With that done, you're ready to get the proper financing, sign the contract and put up your down payment. "Before you sign the contract," says McKenny, "make certain it is contingent upon your finding suitable financing."

When it comes to financing, shop around. There are several plans available. One of the most popular in the past has been the fixed-rate mortgage, which means the interest rate on the mortgage remains the same for the life of the loan. However, this type of mortgage is becoming increasingly difficult to find. Today, the adjustable rate mortgage, where the interest varies in accordance with a specific economic index, is gaining acceptance.

Drying foods is still an excellent home preservation technique

Consumer interest in home food preservation by drying is reviving due to the cost of other preservation methods.

Basically, drying preserves food by removing sufficient moisture to prevent decay since moisture is necessary for bacterial growth.

Drying causes some nutritional changes. Although bulk and energy are not affected, there is some mineral and vitamin loss.

Foods that can be dried include most fruits and vegetables and some meats and fish.

In hot climates, like West Texas, foods can be sun-dried sufficiently for preservation in a few days. In any climate, however, satisfactory drying conditions can be created at a moderate cost by using artificial heat and circulating air over the food.

Some equipment is needed for home drying of food. To dry in a kitchen oven, items needed are drying trays, an oven thermometer and a small fan. Or, a portable food dehydrator may be used.

Most foods are dried at about 140 degrees F. in an oven or portable dehydrator. For sun drying, trays and cheesecloth are needed. For sun drying, temperatures of over 90 degrees F. and relatively low humidity are needed.

Since drying does not improve the quality of foods, only top quality foods should be used. Vegetables in prime condition should be selected and prepared for drying on the day they are harvested. Only fully-ripe fruits should be used. If fruit is not suitable for eating fresh, it is not suitable for drying.

All foods need some preparation or pretreatment before drying.

Vegetables may be blanched with hot water or steam. This inactivates enzymes in the food that otherwise would cause deterioration or color and flavor during drying and storage.

Blanching causes some loss of nutrients through leaching. To keep leaching at a minimum, blanch only as long as required.

However, underblanching will not inactivate enzymes, and the dried food will be of inferior quality. Prepare only the amount of food that can be dried at one time.

Although fruits may be blanched before drying, sulfuring is preferred.

Sulfuring effectively maintains the quality and nutrients of the food during drying and storage. However, oven drying is not preferred for sulphured fruits because of the objectionable odor of the sulphur fumes. Sulphuring should be done outdoors away from close contact with plants, trees and shrubs.

Fruits and vegetables are dried, packaged and stored in a similar manner. Fruits and vegetable pieces are distributed on trays in single layers. The total amount of food being dried at one time with artificial heat should not exceed that recommended by reliable instructions. Do not use galvanized screen on drying trays. There is an acid reaction that darkens food and may cause a dangerous reaction. Also do not use fiberglass, vinyl or copper screening. Wood slats are excellent. They may be covered with cheesecloth.

More than one kind of fruit or vegetable can be dried at the same time. But strong-smelling vegetables should be dried separately. Drying times vary according to the types of food, size of pieces and load on the tray. While tables giving approximate drying times can serve as a guide to judge proper dryness, experience is usually the best teacher. Some foods should be dried to the brittle stage, while others should be pliable or leathery.

Dried foods should be packaged as soon as they are cool in dry, scalded, insect and rodent-proof containers. Dehydrated foods are free from insect infestation when removed from the dehydrator or oven.

However, despite precautions, sun-dried foods may be contaminated and should be packaged and placed in the home freezer for 48 hours to kill any possible insects or their eggs.

Containers of dried foods should be stored in a dry, cool and dark place. All dried foods deteriorate to some extent during storage, which can range from six months to a year depending on the kind of food. To keep nutritional losses to a minimum, vegetables and fruits should be used in a reasonable length of time, especially carrots, onions and cabbage.

Senate wipes out oil exemption in tax code

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Legislature today finished work on a bill making the 1979 Property Tax Code or "Peveto bill" easier for taxpayers to swallow.

Senators voted 26-1 to accept a conference committee report eliminating a Senate amendment that could have granted a big tax exemption to oil and gas companies. House members adopted the report Sunday, 102-42.

Final legislative action sent the bill to Gov. Bill Clements, who had made it one of the five top-priority items of the special session.

The Senate amendment eliminated by the conference committee said oil and gas stored in Texas less than 175 days in transit between other states could not be taxed.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, introduced the bill to "fine tune" the Property Tax Code, which he sponsored in 1979. Both taxpayers and local governments complained about certain provisions.

The code requires that all appraisals of property for taxation be made by a single countywide appraisal district in each county, starting in 1982. Property must be valued on its full market value instead of only a percentage.

Taxpayers gain several advantages from the bill.

Elderly and disabled persons would have to apply only once instead of every year for their special homestead exemptions.

Between 1982 and 1985, local governments could put off for one year the full impact of increases in taxable values resulting from reappraisals.

The increase could be held to 1.5 times the average increase in the tax roll. So if a local government's tax roll increased by 50 percent in 1982, no single piece of property could be reappraised at more than 75 percent in that year. The rest of the increase in taxable value would take effect in 1983.

Another change directs the State Property Tax Board to make annual "ratio studies" to determine how accurately appraisal districts are evaluating property.

A taxpayer could use information gained from the studies as evidence for challenging over-appraisals in court.

Taxpayer groups challenging tax increases would need only 10 percent of the qualified voters' signatures on petitions to call rollback elections instead of the 15 percent now required. The 15 percent turnout requirement for the elections was repealed.

A tax increase rollback election could be held only if the increase was more than 8 percent. The trigger in the original Peveto Bill was 5 percent.

Rural residents got a couple of breaks and one setback.

The bill exempts farm and ranch equipment from property taxation, and the amount of land on which one may claim a homestead exemption was raised from five to 20 acres.

But the bill also eliminates the chance a farmer's or rancher's land could be valued at zero for tax purposes. That possibility arose from the use of "owner-operator budgets" prepared by Texas A&M for various kinds of farming and ranching operations and soil types.

The bill says estimated income from land may not be less than half what the land would bring in rent.

Other provisions would: — Enable a majority of the taxing entities served by an appraisal district to veto its budget or other actions.

— For practical purposes, wipe out the "three-fourths rule" that lets small governments in a county gang on the big ones and dominate appraisal district boards of directors.

— Permit two-thirds of the local governments served by an appraisal district postpone full implementation of the single-appraisal system from Jan. 1, 1982, to as late as 1985.

Westside Center needs volunteers

A workday is scheduled Saturday at 8 a.m. at the Westside Community Center, 1311 West Fourth Street.

"Anyone with any talent is urged to come help us in giving the center a facelift," says Madelyn Boadle, executive director of the center.

The work will include painting, outside trim, trimming trees, hauling away limbs and weeds, repairing outside lights to basketball court, painting the inside of the recreation room, hallway and office, and replacing ceiling tiles.

"When you come, please bring paint brushes, rollers, pans, scrapers, tree-trimming equipment, hammers, nails, rakes, hoes and shovels," Mrs. Boadle says. "The center needs your help and support in any way possible."

For more information, contact the center at 267-6680 or Mrs. Ben Boadle, 267-2203 or 267-6680.

Texas shrimp fleet is blessed in Kemah

KEMAH, Texas (AP) — Texas shrimpers decorated their boats, competed for prizes and asked for divine protection before they begin the serious business of making a year's living in the 60 days of open season.

"They are still on a daily limit now, so they don't mind taking a day off," said J. D. Stahl, a Kemah city councilman who acted as emcee for the festivities. "Next week when the season starts, they won't be interested in anything like this."

The Rev. Dan Scheel, his white robes billowing in the gulf breeze on a launch in the middle of Clear Creek, blessed the boats Sunday as they paraded past. His intonation of the traditional blessing was met with less than solemnity.

Cheers and hoots from the shrimpboat passengers who raised cans of beer in salute, greeted the tossing of holy water on each vessel.

Meanwhile, a panel of local news reporters judged the boats on "theme" and "originality" of decoration.

Although the occasion had the flavor of a carnival, the shrimpers were serious about the contest. Prizes included $750 cash, 100 gallons of fuel and a flat net and bag.

Only the American shrimpers participated in Sunday's blessing. The Vietnamese fishermen held a low-keyed blessing for their fleet at the beginning of the limited season earlier this year.

There was scant evidence of the controversy between the American and Vietnamese shrimpers, whose dispute over the size of boats and catches made headlines when the Texas Ku Klux Klan intervened.

One boat was decorated with confederate flags and Klan insignias. Its crew, dressed in white, stood stern-faced on an upper deck, arms folded.

Newest Howard Hughes will may be too late

HOUSTON (AP) — A probate judge attempting to sort the real from imagined heirs to the fortune of Howard Hughes considers the claims of maternal cousins while federal agents search for the original to the latest purported will of the eccentric billionaire.

At stake is an estate estimated at between $180 million and $2 billion, a prize sought by more than 500 persons.

Probate Judge Pat Gregory predicted there would be no real surprises today when he examines the so-far unchallenged claims of 16 relatives with known links to Hughes' mother.

Beginning Aug. 24, a six-member jury will consider the claims of more than 500 persons contending they are related to the tycoon's father.

Determining the maternal heirs is the second phase of the five-year probate court fight to identify the legal heirs. Earlier this year, Gregory ruled Hughes left no will and no surviving wives, children, parents, brothers or sisters when he died April 5, 1976, enroute from Mexico to Houston for medical treatment. That ruling set the stage for the lengthy and complicated estate battle.

The second phase of the fight comes on the heels of claims by a California woman, Martha Graves, that last month she accidentally found Hughes' will locked in a metal box belonging to her late boss, Los Angeles attorney Earl Hightower.

VA hospital gets cancer certificate

The Commission on Cancer of the American College of Surgeons has awarded a three-year certificate of approval to the VA Medical Center in Big Spring. The certificate was presented to John H. Steward, medical center director.

The approvals program was established by the American College of Surgeons in 1956 to encourage the best in cancer therapy. Different kinds of cancer respond best to different kinds of treatments, surgery, x-ray, chemotherapy, alone or in combination.

The program encourages discussion of cancer problems among surgeons, medical oncologists, oncological radiation therapists, pathologists and other medical disciplines involving the diagnosis and treatment of cancer, thus assisting the attending physician in optimal treatment planning for his patient.

In addition to having a clinical program which meets the requirements of the commission on cancer, the VA Medical Center has also met the requirement of having a tumor registry.

This registry keeps a record of each cancer patient, cured or not, and makes certain that follow-up examination and rehabilitation of patients are done in a systematic manner at specified intervals. Special studies of cancer cause and treatment are possible through the registry.

NFL exhibition round-up Grogan, Haden to fire back

By the Associated Press

A couple of quarterbacks under the gun — Steve Grogan of the New England Patriots and Pat Haden of the Los Angeles Rams — start firing back tonight.

Up in New England, Grogan has his followers — and a vocal coterie of detractors, too. They'd just as soon see Coach Ron Erhardt yank him back to the bench and give the Pats' starting job to Matt Cavanaugh, a four-year veteran. He's been unable — despite some heroic exhibitions in the past — to unseat the occasionally erratic Grogan, starting his seventh year.

Down in Southern California, Haden starts a new phase in a rocky career. It began with the Southern California Sun of the since-departed World Football League in 1975. In 1976 he was used sparingly by the Rams, when James Harris' career was at its zenith. The next year marked the arrival of Joe Namath. It was a one-year fling the Rams' fans had with Broadway Joe. In 1978 Haden had his busiest season.

Then came the Vince Ferragamo era. Haden, sidelined by a late-season injury, watched as Ferragamo guided the Rams into the Super Bowl. And last year, after regaining his starting job, he lost it again to Ferragamo, who played out his option during 1980 and fled to Canada — where the Montreal Alouettes are getting clobbered week after week.

Now Haden seems to have no serious challenger for his job — save for Jeff Rutledge, the third-year pro out of Alabama, the quarterback factory which produced Kenny Stabler, Richard Todd, Bart Starr and, of course, Namath. Rookie Jeff Kemp, the son of a former quarterback-turned-politician, and 13-year vet Bob Lee also are on the Rams' roster.

"We plan to get a look at our other three quarterbacks," the Pats' Erhardt said of Tom Owen, Dave Rader and Brian Buckley.

Haden and Grogan are the starters tonight in Anaheim, where their game will wrap up the first full weekend of National Football League exhibitions.

On Saturday night it was Pittsburgh 35, Cleveland 31; St. Louis 12, San Diego 10; Cincinnati 24, Tampa Bay 17; Oakland 17, Atlanta 16; Green Bay 21, Dallas 17; Miami 20, Minnesota 6; Detroit 21, Buffalo 14, and the New York Giants 23, Chicago 7.

The Browns and Steelers played as though they were playing for keeps in Cleveland. Cliff Stoudt, Terry Bradshaw's shadow, threw for three touchdowns and ran for two. For the Browns, Brian Sipe and Paul McDonald each had two scoring passes.

"I felt it was a typical first outing — the defense was ahead of the offense," Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll said with a grin. And Sam Rutigliano, the Browns' coach, observed: "At this stage of the game, both teams didn't have much of a pass rush."

"It was fun," added Stoudt. "It means a lot more to me than a preseason game because it was home (he's from Oberlin, Ohio), and I don't like the Browns. It's an emotional thing to get fired up for the game."

The Steelers lost All-Pro linebacker Jack Ham with a broken arm. He's expected to be sidelined up to 10 weeks.

St. Louis veteran quarterback Jim Hart may be pressed a bit for his starting job before this year is over. Neil Lomax, a bomb-thrower who shattered NCAA passing and total offense records at Portland State, discovered that subtlety can be fun, too.

PLUNKETT IN TROUBLE — Oakland Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett gets his shirt pulled by Atlanta Falcons Joel Williams for a nine yard loss during the first quarter of action Saturday night at the Oakland Coliseum. Trying to block Williams is Raiders Mickey Marvin.

HANDS OF STONE WIN AGAIN — Roberto Duran, former lightweight and welterweight boxing champion, raises his arms in victory as he is carried about the ring following his 10 round unanimous decision bout against Mike "Nino" Gonzales, Sunday in Cleveland. This was Duran's first fight since losing to Sugar Ray Leonard in a controversial title fight last November in New Orleans.

Duran's comeback a success, but now he wants Sugar Ray

CLEVELAND (AP) — Roberto Duran is back and for one reason only: another fight against Sugar Ray Leonard, who regained the World Boxing Council welterweight title when Duran quit in the eighth round — an action that has overshadowed his many victories during his illustrious career.

"I came out to fight and he came out to play," Duran said of that night in New Orleans. But it was Duran who quit, contending a stomach ache would not allow him to continue.

"I came back into the ring to fight Sugar Ray Leonard," said the 32-year-old Duran Sunday after pouncing out a unanimous 10-round decision over 22-year-old Nino Gonzalez as a junior middleweight, another step up the ladder for the Panamanian who dominated the lightweight division for most of the 1970s.

"I fought The Man," said Gonzalez of Bayonne, N.J. "I hope he gets his fight with Leonard, and does it again (win)."

However, Leonard has said he will not fight Duran again.

But promoter Don King has a strategy he hopes will bring about Leonard-Duran III. He plans another tuneup for Duran against an opponent to be named in September, and then match Duran against Wilfred Benitez for the WBC 154-pound title late in the year.

A victory by Duran over Benitez, something that will not be easy, could bring about a third fight with Leonard because Leonard holds the World Boxing Association 154-pound title.

A boost towards such a fight would be a loss by Leonard against Thomas Hearns for the universal welterweight title Sept. 16.

Duran, who officially weighed in Saturday at 155 pounds, came back in lilac-colored trunks and, while not the El Animal of old, had too much strength and experience for Gonzalez.

Gonzalez thought he had won, but Duran was a clear victor on all three official cards. Referee Jackie Keough scored it 48-44, Judge Ed McGuire scored it 47-43 and Judge Vito Mazzo had to 48-45.

Duran scored effectively to the body and put Gonzalez on the ropes and shook him several times with rights to the head. But his punching power was not as dominating as it was when he was a lightweight.

The man they call Hands of Stone also seemed concerned about pacing himself and was less aggressive than he has been in the past.

The victory was the 73rd against two losses for Duran, who earned $8 million for his dismal performance in New Orleans. This time his paycheck was $75,000, tax free.

But Duran makes it clear he is not fighting again for money.

Gonzalez, who weighed 152, now is 242. He turned down a $40,000 title shot against Benitez to take a chance at upsetting Duran, and he got $50,000.

A crowd of about 7,000, including WBC heavyweight champion Larry Holmes, attended the nationally televised fight at Cleveland's Public Auditorium.

Hollis Stacy wins LPGA in playoff

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — Of the five golfers who advanced to a crowded playoff for the championship of the $125,000 West Virginia LPGA Classic, Hollis Stacy had the least momentum.

Stacy, who at one point in the tournament had a six-stroke lead, wasn't having a very good day Sunday. Her putter was cold, and her first birdie didn't come until the 14th hole.

While golfers such as Alice Ritzman and Penny Pulz were shooting scores of 68, Stacy was struggling to a final round 74, but it was good enough to win.

"I had a putt that could win it... but I left it six inches short," Stacy said of a birdie attempt on the 18th hole that would have given her the championship and the accompanying $18,750 first-prize check without benefit of the playoff.

"I left the 18th with a very bad taste in my mouth. I felt I had lost it," said Stacy. "I was very upset with myself. I had had a very mediocre round."

Then Stacy decided to settle herself down.

"I went and got a new sleeve of balls," she said. "I never use balls with 3s on them, but I got a sleeve of 3s, because I wanted to go out there (on the par four 10th hole) and shoot a 3."

Stacy said she composed herself in between the time she missed the birdie putt attempt and the time for the five-way playoff — which tied a record for the largest in LPGA history.

"I told myself that I couldn't look back," said the Hilton Head Island, S.C., resident. "I was very determined to win."

Big league baseball back in business with 'second season'

By the Associated Press

Play ball!

Those two little words that long-suffering fans and players alike have been waiting to hear for two months will finally be heard in ballparks throughout the nation as major league baseball gets back to business today.

Starting over after a 50-day players' strike and a nine-day tuning period, all 26 teams will start swinging in the National and American leagues in baseball's bizarre "second season."

And everyone's starting fresh, thanks to the split-season concept adopted by owners.

"I like what I see," said Montreal Manager Dick Williams, whose optimism is predicated on a schedule that shows the Expos at home for 28 of their 53 games, 18 of them against National League East opponents.

The Expos are tough at Olympic Stadium, having compiled a sharp 21-7 record before the strike tore the season in half last June. In addition, the Expos have played well against division opponents with a 19-10 record.

"I'd have to see how it compares with other clubs in our division, but from what I see of the schedule, I think it favors us," said Williams.

Other managers were happy, too, particularly those with teams that had fallen far behind by June 12, the day of the players' walkout. After the strike was settled on July 31, owners decided to award first-half championships to the division leaders at the time of the strike and hold a second-half pennant race with the teams starting even.

"Sure, the split season is good because it brings back interest for teams like ours," said Herman Franks, manager of the Chicago Cubs, who finished last in the first-half NL East race, 17½ games behind the winning Philadelphia Phillies. "Tell me, who knows what's going to happen? If we get a little help, we might even win it."

According to the owners' plan, the first-half winners will face the winners of the second-half race in a mini-series to determine the division champions in each league. If the same team wins the second-half race, then the first-half winner will face the team with the next highest winning percentage.

The champions, of course, will play for the league pennant and a place in the World Series, which will get a late start on Oct 20 this year as a result of the extra playoffs.

The Los Angeles Dodgers won the NL West in the first half, a mere half-game ahead of the Cincinnati Reds in the American League, it was the New York Yankees in the East and the Oakland A's in the West.

Franks' Cubs had the honor of reopening the season by hosting the New York Mets in an afternoon game at Wrigley Field. Mike Scott was scheduled to go for the Mets against

Hambletonian attendance fell short

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Trainer-driver Ray Remmen says it's more fun racing at small tracks in Western Canada where he grew up, but admits: "Not too many people ever won the Hambletonian. Even in Saskatchewan, we heard of this race."

Officials at The Meadows track had hoped that more than 20,677 people would have showed up to see Shaway St. Pat, driven by Remmen, emerge as the winner of the 56th Hambletonian Trot Saturday. Rainy weather and national television coverage (ABC) were offered as reasons why harness racing's most important event fell short of the expected 45,000 crowd for its first appearance at The Meadows after 24 years at the Illinois Fair Grounds at Du Quoin.

With two victories needed to decide the Hambletonian winner, Shaway St. Pat had to go three grueling one-mile races within 3½ hours over the sloppy track to capture the $419,000 first prize. He won it by charging through the stretch to beat Super Hambletonian Trot Saturday. Rainy weather and national television coverage (ABC) were offered as reasons why harness racing's most important event fell short of the expected 45,000 crowd for its first appearance at The Meadows after 24 years at the Illinois Fair Grounds at Du Quoin.

Consumerwatch Grocery shopping without any frills

The no-frills food business is booming. Sales of generic products almost tripled in the last year. The number of warehouse and limited assortment stores is up by nearly 50 percent. And established super-market chains which scoffed at the bare-bones shopping style as a passing fad are joining the trend to simplicity. The no-frills stores are even putting some of the frills back in, becoming what one industry analyst calls "hybrids."

Hurricane victims recall killer storm

PORT MANSFIELD, Texas (AP) — Jeanene and Don Tankersley show all the signs of returning to normal, with a new home purchased with a low-interest loan and a busy charter-boat business. Carol and Rodney Sillings are packing up to move into their new house.

But a year after Hurricane Allen slammed into this community with its 138-mph winds and a 12-foot storm surge — routing families and demolishing homes — the scars still remain.

"For a year, our life has been a state of confusion," said Mrs. Sillings. "It's been the pits."

Allen walloped parts of the Caribbean — 67 were killed in Haiti — early last August, then turned its swirling 200-mph winds toward the Texas coast. But it floundered offshore, lost power and skirted the more populous towns of Brownsville, Port Isabel and South Padre Island.

It sent an estimated 1 million Texans fleeing the coast onto highways or into shelters last Aug. 9-10, from Port Isabel to Port Arthur. Traffic backed up for six hours as motorists outran what had been billed "the hurricane of the century."

Two drownings in Corpus Christi and several other Texas deaths were attributed to the storm, 620 families were left homeless and damage was estimated at $72.5 million. The SBA loaned out approximately $13 million for home and business repairs.

The Tankersleys had no insurance on their 12-year-old mobile home and their two fishing barges moored on the Laguna Madre. So they used a Small Business Administration loan to replace the home destroyed by the storm, which hit Port Mansfield first, then hopped north along the coast and inland through the South Texas rangeland.

From their mobile home they salvaged a coffee table, two end tables and some books after returning from Leakey, in the hill country, where they rode out the storm. "We're still not over it mentally," said Mrs. Tankersley. "It's not going to be a year before you can get over something like that."

The Sillings didn't qualify for a SBA loan, so they dug into savings to rebuild their home.

Rather than rebuild, some residents sold what remained and left. Down the street from the Sillings, several houses are boarded over as they were during the storm.

Congressmen are traveling around the globe at taxpayers' expense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress by the dozens are spending their summer vacations on taxpayer-paid trips to beckoning destinations around the globe, from sun-drenched Bermuda to Fiji in the South Seas, from Paris to Hong Kong.

Officially, the travels are "fact-finding trips" or "congressional study missions." Many senators and House members resent it when someone calls such excursions junkets.

They say the United States' global responsibilities and Congress' expanded role in shaping foreign policy make it necessary for them to take advantage of every opportunity to escape Washington and broaden their first-hand knowledge about foreign leaders and cultures.

To help minimize accusations of junketing, some congressional committees issue announcements spelling out in detail the specific items of government business to be handled at various stops along a delegation's route.

For instance, the 18-day trip to New Zealand, Australia and Southeast Asia this month by House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., and six other congressmen includes a brief stop in the tropical Fiji Islands.

A committee press release was careful to point out that this stopover would be utilized "to discuss matters of mutual interest including Fijian participation in the Sinai peacekeeping force."

Fijian officials have, in fact, initiated an agreement to provide a 500-man infantry battalion for the U.S.-sponsored Sinai force.

Traveling with Zablocki are Reps. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich.; Paul Findley, R-Ill.; Larry Winn Jr., R-Kan.; Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Calif.; Joel Pritchard, R-Wash., and Frank Annunzio, D-Ill.

A different public relations approach — saying as little as possible — has been adopted by the House Armed Services Committee regarding a week-long trip of Ken Kramer, R-Colo., and four other committee members to Bermuda and Panama.

Secretaries at the committee's office said they knew nothing about the trip. Staff director John J. Ford and general counsel William H. Hogan Jr., to whom reporters were referred, declined to return several calls inquiring about the trip's purpose and other details.

Other sources said the Armed Services group planned to inspect military construction projects, receive briefings on the readiness of U.S. forces, visit a Navy underwater weapons laboratory on Bermuda and meet with officials of the Panama Canal Commission.

Some of the congressional forays may be more demanding. An eight-member House delegation, for example, is journeying to six African nations and plans to look into the severe plight of refugees in Somalia, one of the Third World's most impoverished countries.

Names in the News

Nixon museum hurting

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon museum, opened seven months ago in San Clemente, Calif., with a $2 million investment, is visited by as few as five visitors a day and is in danger of going out of business.

The company that opened the museum, Four Seasons Investment Co., has closed an adjoining restaurant and given the museum until December to find new quarters. The museum reports in its current issue.

The magazine says a recent fund-raising raffle at a local fair netted only $500 for the museum, officially $100,000. The museum says anti-thy toward Nixon is to do with the problems. He blamed a lack of contacts with tour bus companies.

Fake governor

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Eugene Gatling was an impostor among 47 genuine state chief executives at the National Governors' Association meeting.

Actor James Noble, 59, who plays Gatling on the "Benson" television series, was invited by New Jersey Gov. Brendan T. Byrne to attend the three-day meeting at a Boardwalk casino hotel.

Noble, who lives in Studio City, Calif., attended social functions with the real governors at the Hambletonian Pace horse race at the Meadowlands and a dinner at the World Trade Center in New York City Saturday night.

Sunday, Noble sat in on a governors' meeting on refugees.

"Gov. Byrne thought it would be fun to have me here. He's a fun-loving guy," Noble said. "I thought it would help me to be a better governor on the tube if I saw how they operated in action."

Noble said he assumed that Byrne was a fan of the television series.

Cocktail parties set

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan will interrupt his month-long vacation for appearances at three fund-raisers to aid 1982 Republican legislative campaigns in his home state.

The three cocktail parties are set for Aug. 17 in Los Angeles, Aug. 20 in Orange County and Aug. 26 in Santa Barbara.

The Republican National Committee will get $50,000 of the fund-raisers' expected $400,000 take to cover Reagan's campaigning expenses, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Sunday.

Political action committees in the state Assembly and Senate each will get a third of the remaining proceeds; the rest is earmarked for the Republican State Central Committee.

The president arrived Thursday for a vacation at his ranch in the Santa Ynez mountains 20 miles from Santa Barbara. He is expected to return to the White House Sept. 3.

Reagan was reading newspaper Sunday and watched Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis on a television interview program. Then he went horseback riding with his wife, Nancy.

House tightens bill to regulate bingo

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members have tightened a bill legalizing and regulating bingo to be sure it is played only to make money for charities, churches and veterans organizations.

The House tentatively approved the bill Sunday night and is expected to take a final vote today. Meanwhile, a Senate committee approved that chamber's version of the bill Sunday.

Bingo could be played only where voters approve it in local option elections. Organizations would need a license from the state comptroller to conduct bingo games. Receipts over $2,500 per month would be subject to a 2 percent tax that the comptroller would collect and return to local governments.

The House added an amendment saying nobody could be paid for conducting, promoting or administering bingo games.

"A charitable organization should be able to get volunteers," said Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas, who offered the amendment.

Professional bingo operators already are in business in Texas and have lobbied heavily for the bill.

The original bill limited bingo prizes to $1,000, with up to $5,000 per session. But the House dropped the limit to $500, with $1,000 per session.

Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, said the higher limits would take bingo "out of the realm of charity."

The bill says an organization cannot conduct bingo games more than three nights a week, and persons under 18 could not play without a parent or guardian.

Texas voters approved a constitutional amendment last year authorizing the Legislature to legalize bingo and establish rules and regulations for it.

On the light side

Of husbands and hogs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Jeanene Bloyd didn't call her husband a male chauvinist pig, she just called him like a pig and that was enough to win her the husband-calling contest at the Illinois State Fair.

The hog-calling and husband-calling contests are held at the same time at the fair, so it wasn't surprising when Mrs. Bloyd let loose with a few pig calls Sunday to summon her husband to save her from a rubber snake.

As she began her routine, Mrs. Bloyd told the crowd it was just another typical day at home. She unfolded a chair in the middle of the arena and began cleaning with a feather duster. In came 4-year-old Nathan with something for mommy — a lifelike rubber snake.

Shrieking, she hopped on top of the chair and began yelling, "Kenny, Kennieeee! Come quick, it's an emergency!"

In case that didn't do the trick, she tried some of the yodeling pig calls she learned back on the farm, and then, hooking two fingers inside her mouth, blew a piercing whistle that would stop traffic in mid-Manhattan.

Make no mistake, Kenny came a-running, rescuing his distressed wife.

In addition to doing the household chores, Mrs. Bloyd, 25, is a psychology major at Western Illinois University in Macomb.

Clifford Hayes of Virden took the title in the hog-calling division.

Pandas busy pining

for bamboo in Canada

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — If there's no bamboo for 15 dinners, a panda gets desperate.

Two pandas hadn't had a single sprout since arriving from northeast China 15 days ago at Polar Park outside Edmonton, Alberta. So, curator Al Oeming telephoned Ray Forster, curator of the VanDusen Gardens in Vancouver, to beg for as much bamboo as he could spare.

In Canada, bamboo grows only on the West Coast. VanDusen gardeners cut nearly 100 pounds with the dew still on the branches, packed it carefully in plastic bags, tucked it gently into a large cardboard box and trucked it out to the airport. It arrived in Edmonton at dinnertime Friday.

The pandas, both 2 years old and named Ming Ming and Ting Ting, were accustomed to a nearly exclusive diet of bamboo in China.

Reagan not completely against organic farming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Reagan administration farm officials are not exactly beating the drums for organic farming, neither do they seem to be going out of their way to antagonize its advocates.

But a senior Agriculture Department official concedes that no money is being earmarked for research into organic farming, a production system that avoids or largely excludes the use of chemical fertilizers, pesticides, livestock feed additives and other synthetics.

One of organic farming's leading publications, New Farm magazine by Rodale Press Inc. of Emmaus, Pa., notes that the Agriculture Department "has yet to take an official position" on organic farming since the new administration took office.

Specifically, the current issue says, no one seems to know whether the department will follow up on its report a year ago on organic farming.

The report, by government and private experts in the field, suggested that while organic farming has a long way to go before being of major importance in the production of food and fiber, it should get a closer serious look. According to New Farm, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block, whose family raises 6,000 hogs a year in a 3,000-acre Illinois operation, mentioned in late May at a banking breakfast in his home state that he had not seen a copy of the report.

One of Block's farm neighbors — an organic farmer, Michael Scully — then handed him a copy of the report, the magazine said.

The incident was related by New Farm editors as a preface to a published letter from the department's No. 2 official, Deputy Secretary Richard E. Lyng.

"No funds have been appropriated to carry out the research recommendations of the organic farming study," Lyng said. "Additionally, we have no base funds or direct support of organic farming research."

Lyng said the department does have an organic farming coordinator whose duties include developing long-range strategy for research and education in organic farming. Those assessments will be used in determining future budget considerations.

Record amount of fertilizer being applied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers applied a record amount of fertilizer to crops in the year that ended on June 30, says The Fertilizer Institute, an industry group.

The institute said domestic disappearance of fertilizer from manufacturers' inventories was up 4 percent from the industry's previous year.
