Silver lining: Big Spring 'reasonable place to live'

By BOB CARPENTER

Costwise, Big Spring ranks as a reasonable place to live, according to statistics compiled by the American Chamber of Commerce Researchers Association.

The Association's cost of living index, which measures intercity differences in the cost of 44 consumer goods and services based on a scale of 100 percent, has indexed Big Spring at 97.3 percent. This means Big Spring is 2.7 percent below the national average, according to the ACCRA.

The ACCRA figures report that in the second quarter of 1981 the Big Spring cost of living index ranked fifth lowest out of 29 Texas cities.

The index, which is collected four times a year, is based on a weighted average of 100 percent and six categories make up the index.

The categories are: grocery items, housing, utilities, transportation, health care, and miscellaneous goods and services.

LeRoy Tillery, executive vice president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce related the following example: "The ACCRA takes what the consumer in a city such as Big Spring pays for, say a half-gallon of milk, and compares the price with a nationwide average. The ACCRA then ranks the cost of the milk above or below the 100 percent level."

The process continues on down the line with all 44 items, said Tillery.

Tillery explained that the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce compiles average prices for consumer items in Big Spring and then sends the medium price to the ACCRA's statistical sectional center in Houston. They compare our prices against the other cities in the nation, said Tillery.

Tillery said the 44 items are averaged in January, April, June, and August. He also said the ACCRA has guidelines set up for the averaging process so inaccurate figures will be eliminated.

"The figures will sometimes fluctuate because of sales or seasonal supply and demand, but generally they are accurate," said Tillery.

Big Spring has a low rating when it comes to housing and utilities, according to the association's study. The two categories carried a 91.6 percent weight and 91 percent weight, respectively.

The ACCRA shows the average in Big Spring for a two bedroom unfurnished apartment to be $275 a month.

Principal and interest for a house with 1,800 square feet of living area is $650 a month, according to statistics.

The Association reports that the average monthly energy consumption for the same 1,800 square foot home is $78.65. The Association bases its figures on electricity combined with natural gas, oil, and wood.

"We are certainly happy Big Spring is a reasonable place to live. We want to be able to spread the word and promote Big Spring as an economical place for people to settle," said Tillery.

$6,162,754 budget approved

Howard College Board not turned on by sign

By CAROL HART

Staff Writer

Troubles with a recently installed electronic sign, the resignations and employment of personnel, and the 1981-82 budget kept members of the Howard County Junior College District Board busy Tuesday.

Board members discussed problems with the electronic sign, which was made possible by a grant from Dorothy Garrett. Board members are displeased with the performance of the sign thus far, and considered withholding payment for the sign until repairs are complete.

Harold Davis told the board "that thing hasn't been working right since we got it. I've never seen it perfect."

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the HCJCD, told the board the sign has a year-long warranty on the console which operates it, but that light bulbs, which have been burning out, have no guarantee.

Board members told Dr. Hays they want to see the sign in perfect working order before it is paid for.

Board members set an ad valorem tax rate at 14 cents during their meeting. Thirteen cents of that goes towards maintenance costs generated throughout the college district, and one cent goes into an interest and sinking fund.

Approval was granted to adopt a $6,162,754 operating budget for the 1981-82 year.

Last year's operating budget, according to Dr. Hays, was $3,564,703. Dr. Hays told the Herald that "last year's budget did not include any of the grant money used to operate SWCID. This year, our budget picked all that up."

Of the $6,162,754 budget this year, $2.5 million is for the operating of SWCID, Dr. Hays added. Other increases in the budget are for items like salary increases and utility hikes.

In other business, board members approved the hiring of several new instructors, as recommended by Dr. Hays and Dr. Douglas Burke, executive director of the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Among new employees hired was Gregg Polinsky, who will serve as physical education instructor and assistant coach at Howard College. Harold Wilder, Hawk coach and athletic director, brought Polinsky to meet the board Tuesday.

Also hired by Howard College was William Sprinkle, auto mechanics instructor, and Richard Meador, director-instructor, LVN program, Lamesa.

New instructors at SWCID include Cynthia Lohr, English, Richard Malcolm, mathematics, Helene Bonura, history and social studies, and Graham Peters, history and social science.

Also Dr. Michael Moore, science instructor, and Wilma Evans, individualized instruction. Andrew Diskant was approved as an interpreter.

Dr. Burke told board members he would like to see four or five more instructors hired to achieve a better student-teacher ratio at SWCID.

Board members then turned their attentions to selling the broadcasting rights for Hawk basketball games to local radio stations. Board president Don McKinney said the proposal was to deal with the stations on a cash basis. Any station interested in broadcasting the games would write the board, submit a bid, then it would be up to the college to choose the best bid.

"We want both the men's and women's games to be broadcast," added McKinney.

Board member Charles Warren said in his opinion "we have no business allowing people to bid on radio rights" for the games. Other board members disagreed, saying that the Southwest conference, for example, sells broadcast rights to their games.

Dick Fields of KBYG discussed the issue with the board members. Board members decided to consider bids for the broadcast rights.

A contract to print up school activity calendars was accepted from Knotts Print Shop of Levelland. The shop agreed to print up calendars for the HCJCD for $2,185.

U.S. jets down 2 Libyan fighters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. F-14 jet fighters shot down a pair of Soviet-built Libyan SU-22 fighter planes over the Mediterranean early today in a one-minute clash about 60 nautical miles off the Libyan coast after an "unprovoked attack" by the Libyans, the Defense Department said.

None of the Americans in the two-man F-14s were hurt, officials said. One Libyan pilot was seen parachuting from his stricken plane.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger told a news conference the attack was clearly over international waters and was unanticipated. Libya, however, considers that its territorial rights extend 200 miles to sea.

Weinberger said the United States planned no retaliation as a result of the attack, but that the naval force to which the lanes are assigned would finish its planned exercise Wednesday afternoon on schedule.

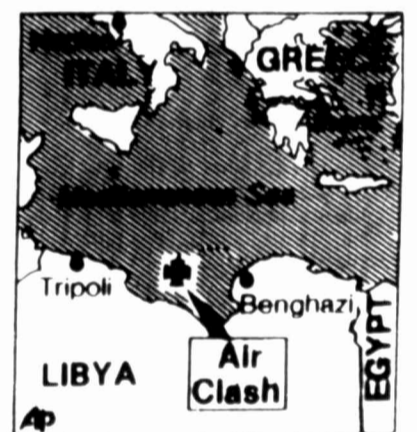

The Pentagon announced the 1:20 a.m. EDT incident before dawn and Weinberger appeared at the hastily called news conference later to read the official statement, which said:

"Two U.S. Navy F-14 aircraft involved in a previously announced routine exercise in international air space over international waters in the south central Mediterranean were attacked by two Libyan SU-22 fighter aircraft."

"After being fired upon, the F-14s from the aircraft carrier Nimitz took action in response and shot down both Libyan aircraft."

"The U.S. government is protesting through diplomatic channels this unprovoked attack, which occurred in international air space over 60 nautical miles from the nearest land."

Since the United States and Libya do not have direct diplomatic relations, Weinberger said the U.S.

protest would be channeled to the Libyan government through the Belgian government.

At the State Department, officials said the administration may seek a meeting of the U.N. Security Council to denounce the Libyan action.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said council members were informed of the incident this morning through the general president, U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim also was notified.

Sources in Brussels, meanwhile, quoted senior NATO officials as saying the North Atlantic Council, made up of representatives of the 15 alliance nations, will meet at the request of the United States to discuss the incident.

Weinberger praised the performance of the F-14 crews, saying "I think they carried out their mission extremely well."

Air Force Lt. Gen. Philip C. Gast, operations director under the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the mission of the F-14s was to fly patrol over the fleet, which includes two aircraft carrier battle groups and their escorts. The second carrier is the Forrestal.

Haitian refugees exclusion hearings continue locally

The Haitian exclusion hearings are finally under way, according to the Immigration and Naturalization Service. The proceedings started Tuesday afternoon about 1:30, said the INS.

INS sources said the Haitians are being brought in individually and informed that they have a right to legal council, and if they so wish, a friend of relative may be in the room with them.

The INS said so far in all of the cases heard, the Haitians have asked for legal representation. No alien has as yet been assigned a lawyer, said sources.

If the Haitian desires legal council he is given time deemed fair and reasonable by the court to find a lawyer.

The hearings will remain closed to the media unless the Haitian and — or his legal council wish the hearings open to the public, said the INS.

Sources went on to say that interpreters are provided in the courtroom, but legal counselors will have to provide their own interpreters if they want to speak to clients outside of the hearings.

The hearings will continue today, said the INS.

Big Spring officials seeking FAA approval for O.I.L. plan

City Manager Don Davis and Industrial Park Manager Hal Boyd are traveling to Albuquerque, N.M., today to provide the Federal Aviation Administration with details on the proposed O.I.L. expansion plans.

The expansion could open up 2,000 jobs in Big Spring by 1984.

The O.I.L. proposal would require expansion of its facilities at the Industrial Park. A total of 77 airport hangers would have to be relocated as well as 14 tenants of the park.

The FAA must sanction any changes in airport operations that are proposed. City Manager Don Davis said the FAA has been informed of the project and reportedly sees merit in the plans.

Cubans OKed for release

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal judge today tentatively cleared 367 Cuban refugees for release from the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary after the government declined to offer specific objections.

But U.S. District Judge Marvin H. Shoob did not immediately order the release of the 367 men, saying he would do so later pending the ability of the U.S. Catholic Conference and other agencies to resettle the refugees.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Castellani told Shoob at a hearing today he was unable, under court guidelines, to object to the release of any of the 367 detainees. They are among 1,817 Cubans being held at the prison since the "Freedom Flotilla" boatlift last year brought 130,000 refugees from Cuba.

Shoob said it might not be possible to begin the release at 5 p.m. EDT today, as originally scheduled, but indicated he wanted the process to proceed as swiftly as possible.

There was no immediate word of any timetable. Gerry Wynne, an official of the Catholic conference, told Shoob that about 25 percent of the 367 detainees had relatives who could act as sponsors and that most of the others could be resettled by the conference.

Wynne said there might be difficulties, however, with a small number of Cubans with psychological problems whom conference resettlement homes are unable to treat.

Catholic Conference official Sue Grescoviak said there are about 200 openings in resettlement camps set up by the conference last year.

U.S. economy dips

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy fell further than was first thought during the April-June quarter, declining at an annual rate of 2.4 percent after racing ahead at a rate of 8.6 percent in the first quarter, the government reported today.

The drop in inflation-adjusted gross national product had been estimated at 1.9 percent in the Commerce Department's original report one month ago.

The department's new report said corporate profits also dropped sharply in the second quarter as the overall economy weakened.

Before-tax profits fell 12.5 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $224.9 billion and after-tax profits dropped 11.3 percent to a rate of $150.1 billion in the quarter. Both rose 3 percent in the January-March period, the report said.

Corporate profits from current production — a category which does not include inventory profits — declined 7.9 percent to an annual rate of $187 billion in the second quarter after rising 10.7 percent in the first three months of the year.

As the Commerce Department reported one month ago, major reasons for the GNP decline were a decrease in inflation-adjusted final sales by American businesses and a big drop in net exports, a category that had helped push GNP upward in the first quarter.

A number of economists are predicting that inflation-adjusted GNP will also be down in the current July-September quarter, thus fulfilling one commonly accepted definition of an economic recession — two consecutive quarters of negative GNP.

Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of President Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers, said recently that the nation may indeed be in its second recession in two years.

But neither he nor any private economist of note is forecasting a severe downturn this year. Most of them describe the economy as sluggish or soft rather than falling apart.

Reagan commends rescue

HOUSTON (AP) — A club bouncer nicknamed "Superman III" after rescuing an 18-year-old woman from a knife-wielding assailant has received a copy of a letter of commendation from President Reagan.

"I feel real proud of myself," Jim Dickson said Tuesday. "I feel like I've contributed a little something for the betterment of mankind."

Dickson, 25, received the copy of the original letter from a news agency which obtained his address for the White House Appointments Office. He said he expects to receive the original within a few days.

The letter commends the 6-foot-2, 200-pound Dickson's actions in a July 2 incident during which he jumped from his motorcycle onto a moving car, then reached through the sunroof and wrestled with a man who was abducting 18-year-old Kim Carnes at knifepoint.

The letter reads: "Dear Mr. Dickson, I want to commend you for your bravery and your cool-headedness in rescuing Kim Carnes. Your actions averted a terrible tragedy and I know Kim, her family, as well as all who know you, will never forget your caring enough to come to the aid of someone in such trouble."

"From what I understand, your own family has experienced the trauma that comes when someone you love has undergone a similar assault."

Sniper attacks school

HOUSTON (AP) — A confrontation with an armed man which led to the evacuation of a junior high school week ended peacefully about noon today, officials said.

Police said they arrested a 40-year-old resident of an apartment complex near suburban Spring Branch's H.M. Landrum Junior High School about noon. He was not immediately identified.

School secretary Carole Krahn said the incident ended with no injuries to students.

The east wing of the school was evacuated on the advice of police. Principal Sherry Billing said. The incident began about 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Billing said no one in the school could say for certain that shots were fired.

"We've heard nothing, nor seen anything, but police have traffic cordoned off from the front of the building," she said. "They might have been fired. That's a large apartment complex. He could have been shooting at us and we wouldn't be aware of it."

Big Spring students failing to register

Big Spring school administrator Harold Bentley said local school officials have been "disappointed" by students who are not registering for the coming term as they should.

"The elementary students" in particular are not registering, said Bentley.

Students should report to the schools where they are assigned to be registered for the coming year.

Students who are in junior high school, and who are new to this district, should also register early, Bentley said.

First day of classes for local students is Monday.

HIGH WATER — A young couple walks through the flooded parking lot of a shopping plaza in Homestead, Florida Tuesday after Tropical Storm Dennis dumped more than 13 inches of rain on the area in a 24-hour period.

Dennis heads for Carolinas

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Tropical storm Dennis churned through the warm waters of the Atlantic just off the East Coast today, and forecasters predicted it would hit land in South Carolina this afternoon.

But there was little chance that Dennis, which dumped flood rains for three days on South Florida, would intensify to hurricane strength before moving inland again, probably somewhere between Savannah, Ga. and Charleston, S.C., said forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

"This storm just never got its act together," said forecaster Gil Clark. "The center never really got the chance to tighten."

Clark said the storm's highest winds of 50 mph were well east of the center, "so the heaviest weather probably will be in the northeast part of South Carolina and the southeast part of North Carolina."

Because the storm was so close to the coast and the center was so broad and ill-defined, Clark said there would be little intensification prior to landfall.

Gale warnings went up along the coast from northern Florida through the Carolinas. Small boats were warned to stay in port. Forecasters predicted thunderstorms, gusty winds and possible tornadoes in the coastal regions of North and South Carolina.

At 9 a.m. EDT, the storm's center was located near latitude 31.2 north, longitude 80.9 west, or about 30 miles east of Brunswick, Ga. It was moving north at 10 mph.

Tides along the coast ranged about a foot above normal. Offshore seas were running 4 to 6 feet, causing a rough surf along the beaches.

In Charleston, the Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. Darryle Waldron said that if conditions worsened the Intracoastal Waterway would be closed to all vessels except government emergency boats in order that drawbridges leading from the barrier islands could remain down.

A spokesman at the Myrtle Beach Air Force Base said that about 70 A-10 jets would be flown from the base to England Air Force Base in Alexandria, La.

The storm brought welcome rainfall to northeast Florida, where residents have been under water-use restrictions for months because of prolonged drought conditions.

In the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m., Dennis had dropped 2.15 inches of rain on St. Augustine, the nation's oldest city, and 1.37 inches at Jacksonville International Airport.

Meanwhile, a tropical depression in the central Atlantic was moving westward at 12 mph and was located about 1,000 miles east of the Leeward Islands.

Iranian gunboat released to France

PARIS (AP) — Anti-Khomeini commandos who seized an Iranian gunboat have surrendered control of the vessel to France, which will return it to authorities of the Tehran regime, the government said today.

A communique from the presidential Elysee Palace said the commandos, members of the Iranian exile group Azadegan, have left the 160-foot missile-launching patrol boat Tabarzin, turned it over to the French navy, and are in French territory.

France has said it will neither extradite nor expel the commandos, said to number about 20.

The boat, hijacked last Thursday off the coast of Spain, was docked at the French Mediterranean military port of Toulon. The Tabarzin steamed into French territorial waters

Tuesday and had anchored outside the port of Marseille.

The commandos, who say they are opposed to the Iranian regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, had threatened to blow up the gunboat near Marseille on Tuesday if French authorities refused their demands for fuel and food.

After lengthy negotiations, the commandos allowed French authorities to tow the boat about 30 miles eastward toward Toulon shortly after midnight. It was moved into the port of Toulon about an hour before the peaceful end to the six-day drama.

"Those Iranian nationals desiring to return to Iran will be put in contact with the charge d'affaires of that country," the Elysee Palace communique said.

Two Iranian navy officers were among the commandos when the boat was turned over to the French navy, authorities said. The rest of the original 31-member crew had been allowed to leave the Tabarzin on Tuesday.

The vessel was one of three French-built gunboats being transferred from France to Iran. The other two were not attacked and were reported Tuesday in Oran, Algeria, on their way to Iran.

French Defense Minister Charles Hernu said Tuesday night the government would not provision the commandeered vessel and suggested that the hijackers take it back into international waters. However, he said it would be against tradition for the navy to force it to leave.

First day of school important, parents told

William F. (Dub) Martin, a visiting teacher with the Big Spring Independent School, urges parents to get their children to school Monday, the first day of classes locally.

"It is very, very important that students be present on the first day of classes," said Martin. "This is the day when policies, rules and regulations of the school district are discussed. At this time, students are told what is expected of them by the classroom teacher, and the guidelines to follow for that particular school campus."

Martin added that information about the locations of restrooms, to library, the cafeteria, the school office, nurse, bus loading zones and emergency exits is also given out.

Also, on the first day of school "students are assigned desks, textbooks, and lunch schedules. Teachers explain what to expect for the coming year, what materials are to be gathered, and classroom regulations."

"On the first day, all students are new for the year, but a day or two later, they are all 'old heads,'" said Martin. "It is an uneasy and sometimes frightening experience walking into the classroom as the new kid," he added.

Parents should begin preparing the child for the first day of school well in advance, Martin continued. Clothing and shoes should be arranged for. "When funds are short, clothes, shoes, etc., are available through service organizations," Martin said.

"There is nothing like getting off on the right foot as school opens," Martin added.

health insurance plan for employees. Gasoline for the 1981-82 school year will be furnished, through the Reid Brothers Fina Station, as approved by the board.

Resignations from Tom and Tracy Fadal were accepted Monday, and Jackie Sue Hancock and Howard Miller were hired as new personnel.

Senate Bill 341, concerning term contract non-renewal of teachers, was adopted by the board.

The group plans to meet at 7 p.m. Aug. 31 to amend the school budget.

FAA to investigate effect of strike on airline safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teams of federal investigators and private consultants will examine computer tapes and tour air traffic control centers to determine whether the nationwide controllers strike has increased the chance of an aviation disaster.

With the strike and subsequent firing of 12,000 controllers now in its third week, safety is emerging as the key issue with little sign of going away despite government assurances that it is no more hazardous to fly today than before the walkout.

Smarting from a barrage of allegations that safety has been impaired by the strike, the Federal Aviation Administration has hired a consulting firm to put together its own independent analysis of the air traffic control system.

"There is no reason to believe the system has deteriorated in any way" as far as safety is concerned, Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said Tuesday.

Lewis said he wants a "tough, hard, critical report" on safety conditions from the Virginia-based consulting firm, Flight Safety Foundation Inc., which has among its clients more than 400 aviation-related organizations and companies.

Lewis said most pilots say it is safe to fly despite the strike, although internal memos within the Air Line

Pilots Association disclosed this week that some pilots have had serious concerns about the reduced controller staff now directing air traffic.

Byron Whitehead, a spokesman for the association, said the FAA has made recent adjustments that have eliminated those concerns. The association's executive board was briefed on the safety issues Tuesday and union president J.J. O'Donnell was to give details of that meeting later today.

FAA Administrator J. Lynn Helms said Tuesday that the number of reports of near misses has declined substantially since the strike, although he conceded all such incidents may not be reported to the agency.

As of Tuesday, the FAA said it had received 11 reports of near misses since the strike began, compared with 31 during the same period a year ago. There were 566 near misses reported in 1980.

The National Transportation Safety Board, an independent agency that investigates air crashes, decided unanimously Tuesday to investigate the air traffic control system with a fact-finding report to be completed within eight weeks.

Board member Patricia Goldman said the move was in response "to a public concern" about air safety after two-thirds of the normal air traffic controller corps was fired for engaging in the illegal strike that began Aug. 3.

"There is no question that the public is nervous and frightened because of the reports" about recent air incidents, Mrs. Goldman said in an interview Tuesday.

Barbara Dixon, a spokeswoman for the federal safety agency, said the board's task force would examine a broad range of issues, including a comparison of traffic density before and after the strike, procedural changes adopted since the walkout, controller qualification and training, working hours and reporting of near misses.

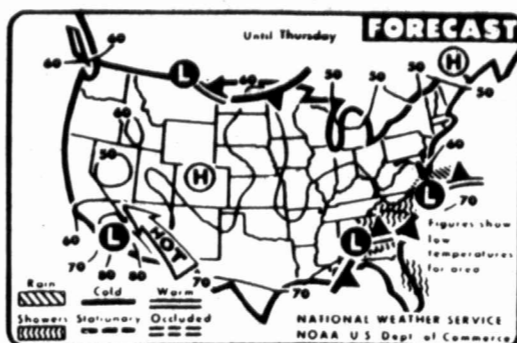

The Flight Safety Foundation presumably will examine similar areas.

But the foundation's president, John Enders, said in an interview he doesn't expect any substantive findings until December, although Lewis within 30 days.

Enders said his investigation will be independent and objective, but that the final report would be made public by the FAA. "This is not a blue-ribbon panel or a presidential commission type of effort," he said.

Lewis also announced formation of a three-man task force to examine long range management-labor problems within the FAA's controller operations.

Reagan wants balance without defense cuts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan is vowing to balance the federal budget by 1984 without retreating from his plan for the largest defense buildup in American history.

Faced with reports that increased military spending could undercut efforts to eliminate budget deficits within three years, Reagan ordered his defense and economic advisers during an afternoon of meetings Tuesday to come up with a way to achieve both goals.

Reagan said later he is convinced he can hold the 1982 budget deficit to $42.5 billion in spite of reports it could go much higher.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said any decisions on additional spending cuts are weeks away but said social programs could suffer even more financial trimming in the drive to balance the budget.

"We will keep the social safety net," Speakes said. But he added, "Certainly we will be looking closely at social programs and definitely we will seek to achieve some budget saving. But we will protect the truly needy."

If more budget cuts are needed, Speakes said they probably would not come from the defense budget, where Reagan is committed to 7 percent annual growth after adjusting for inflation.

Reagan has vowed to seek what amounts to the largest defense buildup in U.S. history — more than $1.6 trillion between 1983 and 1987.

Neither Reagan nor Speakes would comment on reports that budget director David A. Stockman wants to reduce planned increases in defense spending by as much as $40 billion through 1984. Budget officials said that could be done and still get 7 percent growth because Reagan's current defense budgets for the next five years exceed that goal.

"No department of the government is exempt from budget cuts," Speakes said. "Now, in the defense area, certainly that is not an area that we're seeking budget cuts in because we're committed to growth there."

He said savings might be sought at the management level of the Defense Department but did not specify where.

Utility commissioner is likely to retire as result of politics

By JACKIE CALMES

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Garrett Morris is 65, but that's not why he is likely to retire from the Texas Public Utility Commission after this month.

"We just got through electing a president who's quite a bit older than I am, you know," quips the engaging attorney.

If Morris retires, the reason probably will not be age but the fact that he's a Democrat in a state governed by a Republican.

Morris was one of former Gov. Dolph Briscoe's original three appointees to the new commission in 1975. His six-year term ends Aug. 31 and reappointment is up to Briscoe's Republican successor, Bill Clements.

"Yes, I'd like another term," Morris says, "but I'm not really optimistic."

He recently wrote a letter to Clements requesting another six years. "The governor wrote back saying he would consider me but he hadn't made up his mind," Morris says.

Clements is not likely to name anyone until mid-September, aide Pat Oles says.

About seven people have applied, and "two or three" of the "serious candidates" have been interviewed, Oles says. Morris was not among them.

Oles would not release names without a formal request under the Texas Open Records Act. One known candidate is Joe Cavness, a commission accountant and brother of Clements aide Don Cavness.

Clements already has appointed one commissioner, H.M. "Moak" Rollins, a former finance professor. Rollins was a dark-horse surprise, whose selection in 1979 apparently had more to do with expertise than party politics. He has since won high marks from all sides for fairness and intelligence.

Morris says his biggest handicap is being a Democrat. "But," he adds quickly, "I'm a conservative Democrat."

Underground rain will be researched

By DANA PALMER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Scientists and engineers bent on recovering more water from the Ogallala — an aquifer received the go-ahead Tuesday to research methods of making it rain underground.

The aquifer, which supplies much of the water for West Texas and many of the Plains states, is being depleted rapidly, in part, because of the demands of irrigation farmers.

Tuesday, the Texas Water Development Board approved a $250,000 study by the Lubbock-based High Plains Underground Conservation District and the Water Resources Center at Texas Tech to find a way to release additional moisture now trapped in the West Texas sands that cover the Ogallala formation.

Anywhere from 60 to 85 percent of the underground water theoretically could be trapped in the sands and not recoverable through normal pumping procedures, said Don Smith, assistant manager of the conservation district.

"The question is, if you're only getting 15 percent as drainable water (that can be pumped from underground pools to the surface), where is the rest of the water?" Smith noted.

"The obvious answer is that it's there and it hasn't drained out," he added.

The study will look into various methods of loosening the water now clinging to bits of gravel and sand so that it drains down to the established water table.

One method suggested by conservation district Manager Wayne White (after some greenhouse experiments with an old ice cream bucket, sand, water and his wife's measuring cups) is to inject pulsating streams of air underground to "shake" the saturated sand in order to loosen the water.

Petroleum engineers now recover trapped oil in much the same way by injecting water or various gases underground to help force the oil to the surface.

However, the pulsating air method, unlike recovery methods used in the oil fields, would not involve sucking or pushing it out, but would shake the sands to get it to release the moisture, said Patria Bruno, information director for the conservation district.

Smith explained that molecular attraction, or the electrical charges of the water and sand, bind them together.

"If you can push one film (of water) over to another and that one moves over to another it becomes heavy enough to break the attraction — it's a triggering mechanism that will force it to rain underground," he said.

For a simplified explanation, Smith said, look at how it rains above ground when the humidity is high. "We know that warm air will hold more moisture," he said. "But if you chill that air, the molecules shrink, the ability to hold that water diminishes" and the trapped moisture forms raindrops.

Although all the preliminary studies indicate that the new recovery method will work, "it's not in the textbooks," White said.

Because no one had tried it before, he said, "I didn't get a lot of encouragement to start with. Nobody knew how to make it work, but nobody could say it wouldn't work."

The confusing frank

For years, commentators and editorial writers found an easy target in the franking privilege — the free use of the mails by members of Congress.

THE REFORMS may have created more confusion than economy, according to Newsday Writer Earl Lane.

Senators and House members and their staffs spend quite a lot of time these days trying to figure out the fine print of the franking laws.

HOW MANY TIMES can a Senator refer to himself on each page of a newsletter? Answer: No more than eight.

May a lawmaker send a postage-free note of congratulations to someone who has become a U.S. citizen? Answer: Yes.

MAY THE WRITER of a franked newsletter use the letter "D" or "R" to identify his or another member's party affiliation? Answer: No, that would be "political."

Can it be lawfully stated in a Congressional newsletter that a bill was defeated "in a straight party line vote." Answer: Maybe.

IS ALL OF THIS Pecksniffery preventing the misuse of the frank for political purposes? Answer: Probably not. Some 511 million pieces of mail were franked at a cost of $62.6 million in 1980, an election year, compared with 374 million pieces at a cost of $42.5 million the previous year.

Dear Editor: In reply to the Loyal Democrat, Facts: It is a fact that this nation became the richest most prosperous nation on earth, but we are now the 9th richest nation on earth. Thanks to the 45 years of Democratic spending.

Fact, Mr. Underwood, the Founding Fathers made this the Greatest Nation on earth when they shook the bonds of the King of England. The Constitution and our Bill of Rights made this the Freest Nation in the world not the "Democratic Party."

Deal," under Roosevelt and his Democratic Congress.

As for President Reagan if in his early years he was a "Liberal Democrat," then he showed good sense, when he saw where the nation was headed he changed his party and outlook. He went back to the success formula (the U.S. Constitution) that made this nation great!

Fact, Mr. Underwood, people now work from January to June (six months) to pay Federal Taxes!

One doesn't have to wonder why the people have turned away from the same old song.

Our Forefathers fought for our Freedom and won the battle. Americans have fought and won battles in medicine, recession, inflation and many other areas.

But, we as individuals can't win all of our battles. There is one battle Mr. Underwood that one can not fight and win and that's "Blind Loyal Ignorance," and that Mr. Underwood is a fact!

I would like to thank all the people who called about my last article dealing with the "Liberal Socialist Trend" that the Democratic Party has taken in the last 45 years. I appreciate your support and enjoyed conversing with you all about what can be done to help our President to reverse this trend of spend, spend, tax, tax, regulate, regulate, control, control, and the overall disrespect and disregard for our most important possession, our U.S. Constitution. It was good to hear that you all caught the misprint where the word constitutional was used instead of unconstitutional, regarding the Bills passed by the Democratic Party. If Mr. Brazel wouldn't get himself in such a "Frazzle," he might have been able to have caught the misprint also. But, when the "truth hurts" a "misprint" might be the only leg one has to stand on! Thank you again for all your support and I hope you will all write into the paper and express your concern about our countries future.

Writer curious about MOD research

Dear Editor: Well, here it is again that time of year when all the organizations start needing and soliciting funds for their projects and to those projects that would be impossible if it were not for the money collected by different organizations.

Hats off to the people who collect and work to see to it that different organizations do not have to close due to the lack of funds that have been cut but are able to stay open because of caring people who give from their hearts and pocketbooks. Sometimes though, we aren't completely sure exactly what our money is going for. Not that I would suspect it going for anything illegal.

I am pleased with what the March of Dimes does as a whole project however, I am a little curious about the fact that March of Dimes, Nationally claims that amniocentesis is a "lifesaving" procedure which keeps women from aborting babies on the suspicion that they are defective and that amniocentesis gives families time to prepare financially and emotionally. However, the March of Dimes quote a survey of 2,000 at risk pregnancies. 97 percent of the pregnancies proved to be non-defective. However, of the 64 defective pregnancies, two miscarried, two were brought to term and 60 were aborted.

Also, March of Dimes funds fetoscopy research at Yale. This research is so experimental that it did not meet U.S. Government guidelines for human experimentation. Fetoscopy procedure is done by removing a blood sample from the fetus and carries a 15 percent kill rate immediately. The doctors justify doing the procedure because it is carried out on fetuses who are candidates for abortion and who are going to die anyway. After the fetoscopy, the baby is aborted by the same doctor.

The truth behind ABSCAM

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — At a recent dinner, a group of well-read Washingtonians was asked: What crime was Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., convicted of in the FBI's famous ABSCAM case? Almost in chorus, they answered: "Taking money from an Arab sheik."

That these educated people, who keep abreast of what's going on in the world, should be so woefully misinformed about a headline operation like ABSCAM is not altogether surprising. It is a tribute to the FBI's press agency that people believe an undercover operation of such dubious morality was actually a brilliant, legitimate job of law enforcement.

In fact, Williams did not take a bribe, nor was he accused of doing so. He did not take any money, nor did the government prosecutors suggest he did. They couldn't: Their own secret videotapes showed that when he was offered money by the FBI's undercover ABSCAM operative, he reacted with a horrified "No, no, no, no!"

Williams' indictment — and subsequent conviction — stemmed from an attempt to induce a fictitious Arab sheik to invest $100 million in a titanium mine. The senator also listened to suggestions that he should help obtain government contracts for the mine.

Senators routinely seek government contracts that will benefit their constituents. He explained under cross-examination: "My friends asked me to perform a role that they said was important to them and their financial well-being. I permitted those feelings of friendship to override my judgment."

It was suggested — but never proved — that Williams owned a hidden interest in the mine. On videotape, he said he was interested in the mine, not that he owned an interest in it.

He also boasted on videotape of his Washington influence. But he was coached to make the boastful statements by the FBI's undercover "sting" man, Mel Weinberg, who insisted this was the best way to impress the sheik.

After a 13-month investigation, FBI officials admitted in a memorandum that they didn't have a case against Williams. This exculpatory memo reviewed by my associate Indy Badhwar was withheld from Williams and his attorneys.

The memo also showed that the ABSCAM investigators were counting on a final trap to catch Williams. For this purpose, one last meeting was arranged with the phony sheik.

The FBI hoped Williams would be induced to make some incriminating move before the hidden cameras. The trap was sprung, but it came up empty. While the cameras ground futilely, the senator emphatically refused the FBI undercover agent's offer of a bribe.

When Williams started to explain that he didn't take bribes, he was cut off by a telephone call. What he didn't know was that another FBI agent and a Justice Department attorney were monitoring the conversation in a hidden room.

They would use the telephone to advise the phony sheik how to manipulate the conversation. They also interrupted the senator when he started to make a statement that might have exonerated him.

Conceded Assistant U.S. Attorney Edward Plaza under oath: "It was our impression after watching that tape that he (Williams) was going to go on and talk about the difference between his public and his private activities as a senator but was, in fact, cut off by the agent."

At the trial, Williams' attorney, George Koelzer, accused the government of bringing the senator back for another, final visit with the phony sheik because the Justice Department knew it couldn't make a case against him.

In response, FBI agent John Good, who was in charge of the Williams investigation, claimed that the government already had an airtight case against the senator and merely wanted to improve on it. Yet Good attended a previous strategy meeting, where it was admitted the FBI had no case.

Footnote: An FBI spokesman said that Good's testimony at the trial "was consistent" with what Good personally believed. It was Good's own opinion as an investigator that he had a case against Williams, even though the prosecutors may have thought otherwise.

SOLIDARITY PINCHES: The National Treasury Employees Union is one of the most militant in government, and it lined up squarely behind the striking air traffic controllers. But privately there was a bit of grumbling last week among some Treasury union members.

The rub was that the union had its annual convention in Montreal. The normal way to get there would be by air, but that route was closed by the Canadian controllers — as well as the union delegates' own aversion to crossing a picket line. So they had to drive or go by train or bus.

To make matters worse, one convention speaker, Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., canceled his appearance. An aide explained that he wouldn't cross the controllers' picket line — and he wasn't about to drive.

ILL-WILL AMBASSADOR: John West, who was Jimmy Carter's ambassador to Saudi Arabia, is back home in South Carolina, but he continues to expound the pro-Saudi views for which he was known as ambassador.

West recently undertook a vigorous letter-writing campaign to members of Congress, concentrating on members of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees. The letters are a blistering critique of Israel, particularly its use of American-supplied planes in the raids on Iraq and Lebanon.

If you ever want to know how inventive the American people really are — just walk into any Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store. Over the years, the company has created hundreds of flavors, ranging from traditional Vanilla to Pink Bubble Gum.

Baskin-Robbins accepts suggestions for flavors and their names from the public and will try almost anything in their laboratories. There are limits, however, and there are some flavors the company believes simply could not, within the limits of good conscience and sound economics, be produced.

Some of the more unlikely ideas have been: Chop Suey, Bacon Ripple, Liver 'n Onions, Dill Pickle, Avocado Ice, Im Peach Mint and Oysters Rocky Road. If you were hungry before reading this, you have no doubt lost your appetite.

Some of the flavors, although they are successful in the laboratory, prove to be failures on the market. According to Smitty Smith, manager of the local Baskin-Robbins store, Skating Pears and Blow Out the Cantelope have been the most recent disasters. In Smith's words, "They were terrible." Another promising flavor, Goody Goody Gundrop became "Baddy Baddy Gundrop" when children tried to bite into the gumdrops. Innocent enough at room temperature, the gumdrops became as hard as rocks when frozen, and the flavor quickly and silently disappeared.

Some of the more far-fetched flavors are successful, however, such as Pink Bubble Gum. This flavor's biggest fans, of course, are children, and it is most popular during the summer. Other successful and inventive flavors have been Peanuts 'n Popcorn, Egg Nog, and most recently, Salt Water Taffey. According to a recent survey by the company, America's favorite is Chocolate Mint, followed closely by Pralines 'n Cream. The more traditional flavors are always popular, such as Chocolate Chip, Butter Pecan, Burgundy Cherry and Banana, and the basic Vanilla, Strawberry and Chocolate never go out of style.

The main problem with ice cream is that it is addictive. Some people get downright cranky when they don't have their daily "fix". And if that's not bad enough, mouthwatering photographs of milkshakes, sundaes and banana splits are everywhere.

Oh well, it could be worse. It could be Liver 'n Onions.

Overuse causes leg muscles to 'pop'

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please tell me the name of the tendon that separated with a noise like a pistol shot in my right calf. I yelled, "Who hit me?" Of course, no one had. I was playing tennis and reached for a high one at the net when it happened. I heard this "wham!" and couldn't walk on that leg. I was told to stay off it, and I had to use crutches for awhile. I was able to get around again in about a week. I could swim. I am 75.

I was told we have two of these tendons, but that a break in one is worse than in the other. My friend had the same experience and was in a cast for a week. He said his was the heel tendon, but it made the same explosive sound. Sounds weird. Can you explain? —Mrs. P.

Your descriptions sound very much like what used to be called a tear of the plantaris tendon, the one that attaches to a small muscle just above the calf. The instant of tear does produce a very definite pop, like a pistol shot. When it happens, the person often turns around to see who threw a stone at him. This happened to a friend while walking down the 18th fairway of a golf course. His impression was of being struck with great force by an errant drive from a nearby tee. He hobbled for a week. Overuse or a quick turn of the limb is usually the cause.

Rest and ice at first, then heat application, are usually all one needs to allow healing to occur. What really happens in such an injury is not the tear of the plantaris tendon, but rather a tear in the calf muscles themselves.

Your friend's experience sounds more like a tear of the Achilles tendon, the heel cord attachment. That tendon must be intact for foot movement. This problem more often than not has to be repaired surgically.

Mild limbering exercise prior to your tennis might help avoid a repeat of this unpleasant experience.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Former aides at loss to explain actions

Martin fails to show for shooting inquiry

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Longview Rep. Mike Martin, the shooting victim reluctant to talk to investigators, has missed his second date with grand jurors looking into the case.

"It's obvious there is a problem. I have no earthly idea what it is," said Les Smith, Martin's former spokesman who testified before the grand jury Tuesday.

Smith and other Martin associates who testified say they don't believe Martin's story about being shot by a hooded gunman from an occult group known as the "Guardian Angels of the Underworld."

Martin, a 29-year-old Republican, was hit in the arm by shotgun fire on July 31 outside his recreational vehicle here. At first he said he did not know who shot him or why. Now he maintains he was shot by a gunman for the occult group.

Martin, Smith, legislative aide Les Roebber, Gregg County GOP Chairman Wayne House and political adviser Jim Beasley were subpoenaed for Tuesday's grand jury session. Martin could not be found to be served with the subpoena. The other four testified during a session that lasted more than three hours. They also took lie detector exams here Monday night.

It was Martin's second missed date with grand jurors. He was served with a subpoena for last Tuesday, but did not show up. Assistant Travis County District Attorney Allen Hill said prosecutors are faced with several choices.

One option would be to subpoena Martin again.

"If the degree of cooperation continues as it has been, it may well be a futile thing" to issue another subpoena, Hill said.

Another choice would be to issue a "writ of attachment" based on the subpoena Martin did get. Failure to show up could lead to a contempt citation, Hill said.

A third option would be to forget about the case because the victim is not cooperating. However, Hill said the grand jurors want answers.

Gregg County Sheriff Bobby Weaver said he had given up trying to find Martin on Tuesday to serve the subpoena. Smith said he last heard from Martin on Monday, and now does not know where he is.

After testifying for about 90 minutes, Smith told reporters he believes Martin is involved in "an attempt to prevent something from being discovered."

"I was continuing to get the same story over and over in the face of obvious disbelief from many people," said Smith, the first person Martin called after the shooting.

Smith said he initially believed the occult story because "it was the most coherent story I heard since the actual shooting."

His confidence faded and late last week he decided he could no longer act as Martin's spokesman.

"We (Beasley and Smith) felt like we were being perhaps being used...for whatever reason we didn't know," he said.

Smith said he still does not know much about the motive for the shooting.

"It's a problem of enough magnitude that would cause him to react this way," he said, referring to Martin's lack of cooperation.

Beasley reportedly received telephone threats at his Longview restaurant last week from someone claiming to be the "Guardian Angel."

Smith said Tuesday, "There was a feeling on my part that quite possible these were staged (by Martin) to support the story."

"They seemed to be too strategically placed," he said.

Smith ran Martin's campaign, which led to a surprising win over Democratic incumbent Rep. Jimmy Mankins. He came to Austin shortly after the shooting to act as Martin's spokesman. That role ended last week.

"Any time Mike Martin wants my help or needs my help in any way he is certainly free to call on me," he said, adding "he frankly didn't seem to want my help."

House, a professor of theology at LeTourneau College, was staying with Martin on the night of the shooting. He did not see it take place, but rushed to Martin's aide after the shots were fired.

House said Martin "had a sense of apprehension and expressed it on a pretty regular basis... that people were after him."

Shortly before the shooting, Martin prepared a list of numbers to call in case of an emergency, House said. Smith headed the list.

Within a day of the shooting — for reasons he could not put a finger on — House had a feeling that it could have been staged by Martin for political purposes, he said.

"He seemed to have the character of one who might try to vindicate himself," House told reporters.

The occult story did not impress House.

"I'm not even sure I'm interested in listening to the details. I felt like it was hard to believe for me," he said.

Voting Rights Act used in remap fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, whites are trying to take advantage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act by asking the federal government to disapprove a local election law change which they say discriminates in favor of blacks.

The four white Richmond, Va., city council members, along with 25 white business and civic leaders, asked the Justice Department on Tuesday to use its authority under the act to block a new redistricting plan for the council.

The whites claimed that the council's five black members unfairly drafted the plan, based on the 1980 census, to guarantee a permanent black majority.

During the past 16 years, black civil rights groups have come to view the act as the nation's most important civil rights law, arguing that it allowed thousands of blacks in the South to register, vote and gain political power.

They are waging a campaign to convince Congress to renew the act before it expires in August 1982. Many white Southerners have argued it is no longer needed.

Tuesday's meeting was the first time whites anywhere, much less the South, ever tried to use the law for their own benefit.

Justice Department spokesman John V. Wilson said the group of white leaders met for 90 minutes with Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, head of the civil rights division, and other division attorneys.

In the 1980 census, the city of 219,000 people was 51.2 percent black, 47 percent white and 1.8 percent other. In the 1970 census, the city was 42 percent black.

The redistricting plan has five districts with black majorities and four with white majorities.

Paper delivery all in day's work for offshore helicopter pilots

Most people take for granted the convenience of picking up the daily newspaper in the front yard or buying one from a vending machine. But for Sun Gas Company employees a hundred miles out in the Gulf of Mexico, a newspaper can be a luxury.

Although each of Sun Gas's 13 manned platforms is equipped with television, reception is seldom up to par. Getting the latest news is not always possible so delivery of a newspaper can be the high point of any day. Fortunately for the 100 platform-bound Sun employees, daily papers often are delivered along with the mail and supplies — compliments of Petroleum Helicopters, Inc.

While helicopters never make a trip specifically to deliver papers, pilots frequently make a quick paper drop when transporting crews or equipment

Dear Abby

Busy Husband Takes Time for His Affairs

DEAR ABBY: My husband's job requires him to be out of town quite a bit. Everything was going fine with our marriage until last month when he telephoned long distance to say that his company physician had advised him to spend a month away from his work and without any contact with his family.

I tried to reach the company physician to ask him about his advice, but his office informed me that the doctor will not be back until the end of the summer! I suspect my husband is having an affair.

Abby, would a doctor make such a suggestion? Do you think a man of good conscience would follow such a suggestion? I need your opinion.

URGENT AND ANXIOUS

DEAR URGENT: You give me very few facts to go on, but if you suspect your husband of having an affair, you must have good reasons. The whole thing smells fishy to me, too. Every responsible physician has a substitute doctor covering for him in his absence. The only "covering" I see here is the company physician covering for a pal who needs an excuse to disappear for a month.

***

DEAR ABBY: I'm 10 1/2 years old, and my problem is a neighbor boy I'll call "Mike." He's 4. Mike keeps coming to my house and he rings our doorbell about 15 times! Then he'll ask if I'm home. If I am, I have to go out and play with him, and if I'm not home he just sits out in front and waits for me.

Sometimes Mike will go in our backyard and play on my swing set without asking anybody. If I tell him he can't swing on my swing without permission, he says he can because his mother said so. What should I do.

POOPED WITH PESTS

DEAR POOPED: You may need some cooperation from your mother and Mike's on this one. First explain to Mike that you can't play with him whenever he feels like it. If he rings your bell when you're not in the mood to play with him, say so. Then have your mother tell his mother that your swings should not be used without supervision. Better yet, they should be locked up, because if anyone is injured on them, the owner could be sued.

***

DEAR ABBY: When we have houseguests, we give them their own room, bath, house key and our extra car. We figure it's their vacation, and they should feel free to get up, eat, sleep and come and go as they please.

The question: When friends and relatives invite our houseguests to dinner or whatever, I don't think they should feel obligated to invite us, too.

My sister disagrees with me. What do you think?

FIRST-TIME WRITER

DEAR WRITER: It depends on what the invitation is for. If it's a larger party to honor your houseguests, you should be invited. But you need not be invited to accompany them to every coffee klatch, tea, beer bust, tour of the city, shopping tour, zoo, art gallery and museum. There is no "rule." And where no rule exists, common sense should prevail.

Forum to present program

Eagle Forum will host a meeting at the Energas building Flame Room Aug. 27 at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Paul Stuck, Big Spring State Hospital, a doctor in the field of Mental Health and Mental Retardation will be giving a talk on: "Is the March of Dimes doing all that should be done to insure the birth of healthy children." The public is invited.

Dr. Stuck was a medical doctor for 36 years in the field of obstetrics-gynecology. He left the Navy as Lt. Commander in the Medical Corps. He was head of the department of OB-GYN at Fairbanks, Alaska Memorial Hospital and tried unsuccessfully to place the hospital off-limits to abortions. He retired in 1977 from OB and started working in the field of MHMR. He authored a paper entitled: "Is Neurological Deficit Preventable?" in 1978. He also presented the paper to the Texas Association on Mental Deficiency and then the National Association on Mental Deficiency.

Eagle Forum is opposed to all forms of abortions and therefore tries to keep a close watch on organizations that solicit funds. "We are not saying the March of Dimes is performing abortions, so don't fund them," says Mrs. Reagan, president of the Forum. "We are just asking people to listen to the facts, look at documented proof and judge for themselves."

Consider preferences, activities, fabric when buying children's school clothing

COLLEGE STATION — Clothing for children going back to school need not be expensive, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist.

When choosing back-to-school clothing, consider the child's preferences and activities, styling, fabric type and care factors. Also, pay special attention to choosing shoes, the specialist says.

Brown is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In planning your child's school clothing purchases, remember that garment styling is very important to young. They like to "fit-in" with the crowd which means wearing clothing similar to their peers. Therefore, observe what his friends are wearing, Brown advises.

Plan to take your child shopping with you. Prepare him for what you are looking for, too, before you go. When you do go shopping, shop for only him, as children get tired of shopping if there are many other tasks to be done, the specialist reminds.

Make a list of specific items needed before you go. Also include the quantity needed.

Consider the child's growth patterns when deciding how many of each item to buy. Purchasing a lot of clothes he may grow out of in three months is expensive.

Also, consider purchasing two or three outfits that can be mixed and matched for a more useful wardrobe.

Evaluate what special activities the youth may be involved in, too. If special clothing will be needed for each activity, consider these as a share of the clothing budget. Decide if parts of these garments could be worn with his regular school clothing for a wardrobe extender. Unplanned expenditures such as special-activity items can wreck a budget. However, such clothing may be very important to the youth and should be planned for.

Choose styles and fabrics that will grow with the youth. Raglan sleeves, cuffs on pants, large hems in dresses and tops are features that can add to the wear-life of a garment, the specialist says.

Knits, especially cotton or cotton-polyester, are easy to care for and have stretch for comfort. Choose durable fabrics such as denim and corduroy to withstand children's abuse and repeated laundering.

Always take special care in choosing shoes, Brown advises. Select at least two pair that can be interchanged for longer wear and comfort. Have a reputable shoe salesman determine your child's size. Then choose sturdy shoes that provide support.

Children should not wear hand-me-down shoes, because such shoes force children's feet to conform to the footprint already in the shoe, Brown says.

Rising star spends two weeks on location covered with snakes

NEW YORK, N.Y. — At some point in the extravagant new movie, "Raiders of the Lost Ark," don't be surprised to see actress Karen Allen in a pit with eight thousand snakes. Real snakes.

"You won't believe it when you see it," says director Steven Spielberg in the August issue of "Seventeen" Magazine. "For the first two days, Karen was petrified. She did all her best screaming then." Spielberg initially asked for mechanical snakes from his London studio's special effects department. They engineered a maze of snakes that could wriggle and writhe on request, but the mechanism made so much noise that the actors couldn't be heard. So he brought in real snakes by the thousands — garter snakes, boa constrictors and pythons.

"A boa will squeeze you," Karen says with hard won expertise. "Still, there's time enough to get away. But once a python seizes something with his teeth, he won't let go!"

Karen spent two weeks covered with snakes, without shoes, wearing a sleeveless dress. But she found the location work in Tunisia even tougher. The heat was intense, 120 degrees to 130 degrees every day, and almost everyone, including Karen, contracted dysentery.

"Sometimes I can tell the range of an actor by watching what he eats," remarks Spielberg, who gave Karen her role in the film "because of her smile and her grounded sense of reality." He adds, "She sampled just about every exotic dish on the menu, although she was to pay heavily for taking risks. She's equally daring as an actress, sampling many choices to ultimately attain the right performance."

TV role is news to native of Texas RGV

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Veteran actor David Spielberg enrolled in unusual acting "lessons" recently for his role as a television news director in the CBS series "Jessica Novak" debuting this fall.

Spielberg, a native of Mercedes in the Rio Grande Valley, has spent days watching how news directors at stations in Los Angeles, New York and his native South Texas run their operations.

"I've become almost a news freak," the 38-year-old performer said. "But I know I couldn't stand to do it for a living."

"Jessica Novak," a one-hour show on Thursday nights, will star Helen Shaver in the lead role of a beginning television reporter. Spielberg plays her hard-nosed boss, Max Kenyon.

Spielberg has appeared on dozens of television shows, including "Lou Grant," "One Day at a Time," and "Trapper John, M.D."

He also starred in the short-running "American Girls," several seasons ago.

During a visit to KGBT-TV, the CBS affiliate here, Spielberg talked about the homework he did for the new show.

"It was just fascinating," he said of watching a news department put together a newscast from morning to airtime. "It was almost like putting on a play every night. The closer you get to airtime, it was just like a play. You could feel the tension."

Spielberg was at a New York station when an important story broke about vandals almost causing Newark, N.J., to lose its water supply.

"By the time I left, I was exhausted and I had only been watching," he said.

Spielberg returned to Texas recently to visit his father, a Rumanian immigrant who moved to Weslaco and married a Mexican-American school teacher.

"I was born in Mercedes because that's where the hospital was," he said. Spielberg attended parochial schools and graduated in 1957 from Weslaco High School.

During his two years in the Navy, he decided on acting as a career.

"I was stationed at Norfolk, Va., and took the ferry across the Chesapeake Bay one day to get to New York. I got seasick on the ferry," he said. "I went into this theater to get out of the cold and that cinched it. It was my first Broadway play."

The play was "Compulsion" starring Roddy McDowell.

Spielberg enrolled at the University of Texas after his discharge as a drama major with a minor in business.

"I thought I'd hedge my bets," he said. However, after spending two summers at acting school in New York, he quit college and moved to the Big Apple.

Growing up in a town of less than 10,000 gave him a naive optimism about breaking into the acting business, he said.

"I guess coming from a very small town and not knowing what the odds were was good for me," he said.

A series of odd jobs, from waiter to cabbie to elevator operator, kept food on his table.

Spielberg's first feature film was "Man-in-the-Moon-Marigolds," directed by Paul Newman. He was nominated for an Emmy for his role as the prosecutor in "The Lindbergh Kidnapping Case," co-starring Anthony Hopkins.

But his first love is the stage.

"I think the purest acting is on the stage. In film you can sort of hide behind the camera but everything is out there on the stage," he said.

Spielberg says he hopes to have creative input into material for "Jessica Novak," filmed at Twentieth Century Fox studios. The set was modeled after one at KNXT-TV in Los Angeles.

Only one episode of the first 13 was written by Aug. 1, due to the writers guild strike. In the pilot, Jessica gets personally involved in a "childnapping" case.

"I don't see how you could succeed (in news) if you tend to get really involved in all your stories," Spielberg said. "All the atrocities, like that guy slashing derelicts' throats in New York, are too much."

He would like to see an episode dealing with the problems of Vietnam veterans exposed to the defoliant Agent Orange.

HUMAN BEEHIVE — In a demonstration held on the campus of the University of California in Irvine Tuesday, Charlie Duncan, of Santa Monica, turned himself into a human beehive to prove that bees can be controlled and that they are not as dangerous as is widely believed. 30,000 Italian bees were set loose, and they swarmed onto his arm and upper torso because he was holding a small amount of an artificial Pheromone — the same substance that a queen bee secretes to attract her swarm. Charlie did not receive a single bee sting.

Philadelphia Bulletin issues layoff notices

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Bulletin issued layoff notices to almost 60 nonunion employees today as part of a plan to reverse financial losses and save the 134-year-old newspaper.

The layoffs in several departments, including advertising and circulation, are expected to save the company $1.4 million a year.

Under the cost-cutting plan reached by management and eight unions, 113 union positions also will be cut. The unions Sunday agreed to a total of almost $4.9 million in concessions.

On Monday Sam S. McKeel, president of the rival Philadelphia Newspapers Inc., said concessions at The Bulletin would be studied to see if they could apply to PNI's Philadelphia Inquirer and Daily News.

All eight Bulletin unions signed new five-year contracts with the newspaper on Sunday. Previously, the pressmen had worked under a common contract with all three Philadelphia papers.

The old contract stipulated that any concessions granted to one newspaper were to be given to the others.

N.S. Hayden, Bulletin publisher and president, announced two weeks ago that Sunday's editions would be the last unless the unions helped reverse losses that totaled $23.7 million over the past 18 months.

Three officials indicted in Mexia drownings

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Wed., Aug. 19, 1981 9-A

GROESBECK, Texas (AP) — A state grand jury has accused two deputies and a probation officer of criminally negligent homicide in the drownings of three black teenagers packed into a small boat that had no life jackets or running lights.

The misdemeanor indictment was handed down Tuesday against Limestone County Deputy Sheriff Kenny Elliott, reserve deputy Kenneth Archie, both 23, and Limestone County probation officer David Drummond, 32. State District Judge P. K. Reiter said he would set bond for the three men today. If convicted, each man faces a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

The officers were indicted in the June 19 deaths of Carl Baker, 19, and Anthony Freeman, 18, both of Mexia, and Steve Booker, 19, of Dallas.

The trio, arrested during a Juneteenth celebration for alleged possession of marijuana, died when a 14-foot boat the officers were using to ferry the youths to a command post across Lake Mexia capsized about 80 feet from shore. Juneteenth is a holiday in Texas marking the day Texas slaves learned of the Emancipation Proclamation.

The panel accused the three law officers of violating the Texas Water Safety Act by putting the victims into an undersized motorboat that had no safety equipment.

Testimony at a court of inquiry indicated the boat was designed to safely carry from 500 to 600 pounds.

Elliott and Drummond, both white, and Archie, a black, swam to safety when the boat flipped over just before midnight on June 19.

Witnesses said the three victims were handcuffed when the boat overturned, but an autopsy later showed no evidence that the men's hands were bound.

Toxicology reports showed no drugs in the bodies of Booker or Freeman when they drowned. A toxicological examination of Baker has not been completed.

Elliott, who has worked as a dispatcher since the incident, declined comment Tuesday on the charges. Both he and Archie were subpoenaed to testify before the grand jury. Drummond appeared voluntarily.

Three other witnesses, including a parolee supervised by Drummond, a Texas Fish and Game ranger and the Limestone County chief parole officer, testified before the grand jury.

The jury questioned witnesses for about seven hours

Tuesday, then deliberated about an hour and a half before issuing the indictment.

Limestone County Sheriff Dennis Walker said Archie and Elliott will not remain on duty. "Other than that, I have no comment," he said.

Limestone County Attorney Patrick Simmons and Texas assistant Attorney General Gerald Carruth presented the case to the grand jurors.

"I'm satisfied they (the grand jurors) are satisfied," Simmons said after the indictments were returned.

He said the jurors heard little new information about the drownings.

The panel spent the past two weeks studying a 460-page transcript from a court of inquiry conducted by State District Judge P. K. Reiter the week after the drownings.

Elliott and Archie both took the Fifth Amendment during the inquiry.

The drownings sparked a storm of protest from minority groups who claimed the arrests were racially motivated. The Justice Department said June 22 it was investigating the drownings at the request of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Secret Service agents praised for action in Reagan shooting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Treasury Department report praises Secret Service agents for their quick action when a gunman opened fire on President Reagan but is "full of recommendations" on how to prevent such attacks in the future, its author says.

The report, ordered by Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan within days of the March 30 assassination attempt and scheduled for release today, recommends closer cooperation between the agents who protect the president and the White House staff that works with him.

The Treasury department oversees the Secret Service as well as the Bureau of Alcohol, Firearms and Tobacco, which quickly traced the pistol alleged to have been used in the wounding of Reagan, White House press secretary James Brady, a Secret Service agent and a city policeman.

In ordering the investigation, Regan had said "my initial impression is that the department functioned in a very professional and expert manner."

"I think the conclusion of the report would support that," its author, Treasury general counsel Peter Wallison said Tuesday.

However, Wallison said, the report is "full of recommendations" about what might be done better in the future.

In general, he said, the Treasury Department just wants to make sure that "in dealing with the White House" all relevant questions are considered and decided before the president appears.

He said many of them boil down to a single point: "All we want is to be sure we get some sort of regularized procedures so we don't end up doing things on an ad hoc basis."

Wallison gave no indication that the words "ad hoc basis" could be used to describe agents' actions outside the Washington hotel where Reagan was wounded by a man who had mixed with reporters, photographers and other onlookers near the hotel exit.

Secret Service agent Timothy J. McCarthy was wounded as he stepped between Reagan and the gunman. And agent Jerry Parr has been highly praised for his swift action in pushing Reagan into the waiting limousine.

There has been much discussion of how the man accused of the shootings, John W. Hinckley Jr., managed to get so close.

But Wallison said the report doesn't deal with such specifics as who should be allowed to get close to Reagan and how close they should be allowed. "We'll leave those kinds of questions to the political people and to people with more expertise in protection," he said.

Noon parking garage collapse crushes autos

HOUSTON (AP) — Workers toiled for more than eight hours to make sure nobody was buried in the collapse of a parking garage that sent tons of steel, concrete and flattened cars crashing through the bowels of the three-story building north of Houston.

Crews began working shortly after the noon time cave-in Tuesday to clear the debris and look for casualties. Police said they could not be certain no one was injured until the last car had been searched about 10 p.m. CDT.

Fire department officials said a 30-by-60-foot mid-section of the third level caved in, creating a domino effect that collapsed portions of the second level and crushed several cars "flatter than a pancake."

Ron Cates, an Amoco Oil Co. employee, said he had just parked his truck on the ground level of the garage when the building began to cave in.

"There was no forewarning at all," said Cates. "I just heard this tremendous loud blast all at once. Then I saw these cars sandwiched on top of one another. I saw some people in front of me and I yelled for them to get out. Then I started running."

John King, an oil company vice president whose office overlooks the garage said, "It sounded like a big jet plane going by. By the time we looked out, it was clear gone."

King said seconds after the collapse, he saw a man drive an expensive silver-colored sedan to within feet of the hole.

"He parked his car, got out and looked into the hole. Then he just walked away," said King.

Randall Parish, vice president of Friendswood Development Co., which owns the garage, said the building was a prefabricated structure built in 1978.

He said representatives of the building contractor, MacGregor Construction Co. of Houston, were on the scene Tuesday helping secure the rest of the structure and trying to determine what caused the cave-in.

'Free market' rhetoric

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Perhaps the cruelest hoax that the U.S. government participates in is the belief in a free world market as the answer to the nation's agricultural industry.

Let's take a look at that free market. First, let's examine the actions of our own government and see how those actions perpetuate that hoax.

Just last summer, in response to Russia's aggressive actions in Afghanistan, this country announced that we would no longer honor our commitments to sell grain to the Soviet Union. We have just seen an end to that embargo and its effect on grain markets. It was not the first embargo nor will it be the last. Trade embargoes are an effective tool in our foreign relations policies.

The majority of this country's farmers supported this last embargo, myself included. We questioned the industry being singled out for export restrictions, while other exporting industries went unscathed, but, in general, we supported the move so long as it was effective.

The embargo is not the only government action that interferes with agricultural marketing. Price controls in times of commodity shortages are another. Tell me what is going to happen the first day we get a shortage of any food commodity in this country? Are we still going to sell that commodity to the highest bidder on the free market or are we going to slap price and export controls on that commodity and take care of the American consumer first? You know what we will do. The free market system will go out the window the first time any shortage begins to have a real effect on the American consumer.

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm

price controls on beef to ease that shortage.

Then, let's turn to the actions by other governments operating in this "free world market." Look at the number of Toyotas that come into this country from Japan on an unlimited basis. At the same time do you think we can expand our exports of beef to Japan? No. The Japanese government carefully protects its domestic beef producers and prohibits further imports of American beef.

Take a look at the rice market that our producers have developed in Korea. That market was developed over a course of years and yet the first time that Japan, with its heavily subsidized rice producers, had an over-supply of rice, where do you think that Japanese rice went? To Korea, of course, with the blessings of our State Department.

I am not ignoring the sensitivity of balance of trade agreements nor the value of the export market that we now serve. I'm simply saying that the fallacies of the so-called free world market, the sooner we are going to begin to recognize the necessity of establishing a "farm desk" at the State Department to enable and require our government to participate on an equal basis with other trading nations and to see that our farmers and ranchers have an equal opportunity in that world market.

Until we are willing to do that, don't confuse the agricultural profitability issue with a lot of "free market" rhetoric.

Convicted hit man ends 30-day hunger strike

HOUSTON (AP) — Asking for a hamburger, onion rings, fries, a malt and "lots of catsup," convicted hit man Charles Harrelson ended a month-long hunger strike in the Harris County jail, his attorney said.

Don Ervin said his client had fasted since July 17 to protest "harassment" of his family by investigators probing the 1979 sniper slaying of U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr. Harrelson is a suspect in Wood's death.

Harrelson took his advice and ended the hunger strike Monday night, Ervin said.

Polinsky comes with excellent credentials

Hawks hire roundball aide

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

Howard College Basketball Coach Harold Wilder, who lost his assistant earlier this month to Clarendon College, has named a most able young replacement today in hiring Gregg Polinsky, a knowledgeable tutor with some outstanding roundball background.

Polinsky, at 23 years of age, replaces Mark Adams. Adams, after serving under Wilder for two years, took over the reins of the Clarendon College program, a rival of the HC Hawks in the Western Junior College Conference.

The newest Hawk basketball assistant is originally from St. Louis, Missouri, where he was a star guard for Ladue High School.

From high school, Polinsky accepted a scholarship to the highly successful University of New Mexico program, at that time a consistent member of the Top 20 in college basketball.

Polinsky played for two years at UNM, fortunately leaving before the scandal instigated at basketball boss Norm Ellenberger and assistant Manny Goldstein rocked the NCAA and the federal courts.

From there, Polinsky transferred to Northern Arizona, a member of the Big Sky Conference. He played one year at that school, and served as a graduate assistant last year.

GREGG POLINSKY
New Hawk Assistant

"We're very fortunate to get Gregg at Howard," said Wilder. "He has valuable experience both as a player and as a coach in the college ranks, and that will be excellent for our program."

Ironically, Polinsky originally heard of Howard College during his playing stint at New Mexico.

"I'm a big basketball buff of programs around the country, and I'm always asking questions. Marvin Johnson was one of the stars at UNM, and I learned of Howard and where it was from him," Polinsky related.

Local fans, and especially Wilder, remember Johnson well. He was a first team juco All-American at HC, averaging over 30 points per game.

And as in many times the case in the world of coaching, a chain reaction of the openings and hirings in the Western Junior College Conference unlocked the door for Polinsky at HC.

Mark Nixon, who left as head coach at Clarendon for a similar post at Amarillo College, phoned Polinsky to tell him that his old job had been filled by Adams, thereby leaving the assistant's post open at Howard.

Polinsky, who was helping at the St. Louis University basketball camp at that time, contacted Wilder. After a couple of phone calls for references, the new Hawk aide was hired.

As well as helping Wilder with the Hawk roundball program, Polinsky will also be the Intramural Director.

"I've always wanted to get into coaching, and this school, in this conference, seemed like an excellent place to start," Polinsky explained.

Ex-college stars make pro names in different sport

By the Associated Press

Rick Leach was a football hero and Danny Ainge made his fame in basketball in college.

The ball is bouncing in a different direction for both of them, as they seek to make it big in baseball. And Tuesday night, both did well on the diamond.

"I know I have major league ability and I know I can play," said Leach after his three-run homer helped the Detroit Tigers beat the Minnesota Royals 5-3.

"Basketball can't help but be on my mind when people keep bringing it up," said Ainge.

Ainge's three singles against the Royals raised his average to .199.

In other American League action, Milwaukee beat Texas 3-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before dropping the nightcap 8-4, the New York Yankees blanked Chicago 4-0, Baltimore edged California 4-5, Cleveland trimmed Seattle 5-2 and Oakland beat Boston 3-2 in 15 innings.

Leach's homer came in the sixth inning and it was all the runs Detroit needed as Milt Wilcox and Kevin Saucier combined on a six-hitter. The victory was Detroit's fifth in a row, matching the Tigers' longest streak of the season, while sending the Twins to their fifth straight defeat.

AL Roundup

Steve Kemp drew a walk off Minnesota starter Roger Erickson, 3-8, in the Detroit sixth and went to third on Kirk Gibson's two-out double before Leach lashed Roger Erickson's first pitch for his game-winning homer.

Wilcox, 8-5, allowed all six Minnesota hits in eight innings before Saucier took over in the ninth.

Luis Leal, 4-8, was the winner with relief help from Roy Lee Jackson, who came in with two out in the eighth and gained his sixth save.

Brewers 3-6, Rangers 1-8
Ben Oglivie hit a three-run homer in the first inning and Moose Haas scattered seven hits in 71-3 innings as Milwaukee stopped Texas in the first game of their doubleheader. Haas, 7-4, recording his first victory over Texas since 1979, needed eighth-inning relief help from Jamie Easterly and Rollie Fingers, who pitched out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam and went on to record his 16th save.

Bill Stein's two-run single keyed a six-run sixth that propelled Texas over Milwaukee in the second game.

Yankees 4, White Sox 0
Ron Guidry and George Frazier combined on a six-hitter as New York defeated Chicago and snapped a four-game losing streak.

Bob Watson slammed a run-scoring triple off Steve Trout, 6-4, in the Yankees' first inning and Jerry Mumphrey added a two-run single in the seventh. The Yankees scored their final run in the eighth on Oscar Gamble's RBI double.

Guidry, 7-3, allowed three Chicago hits over the first six innings. He did not walk a batter while striking out seven and has pitched 11 scoreless innings since the season resumed, yielding only four hits and fanning 15.

Orioles 6, Angels 5
Scott McGregor survived a rocky start to pitch Baltimore over California with relief help from Sammy Stewart. It was the left-hander's seventh straight victory over the Angels, dating back to early 1979.

McGregor, 8-2, allowed three runs and five hits in the first two innings but then recovered with Stewart's relief help.

Angel second baseman Bobby Grich extended his hitting streak to an AL high 20 games with a run-scoring single in the first inning.

Indians 5, Mariners 2
Andre Thornton's pinch-hit home run leading off the seventh inning triggered Cleveland past Seattle.

Thornton hit a 3-2 pitch from Seattle's Bryan Clark, 2-3, into the left field seats after Seattle had tied the game 2-2 in the bottom of the sixth on Richie Zisk's RBI single.

A's 3, Red Sox 2
Bill Campbell's wild pitch with the bases loaded in the bottom of the 15th inning scored Jeff Newman from third base with the winning run as Oakland beat Boston.

The Red Sox had taken a 2-1 lead in the top of the 14th on Julio Valdez's RBI single before Tony Armas tied the game 2-2 with his 14th home run.

Bob Ojchinski, the third A's pitcher, hurled the last 12-3 to improve his record to 4-2.

Some surprises as NFL teams reduce to 60

By the Associated Press

The Philadelphia Eagles may have some doubts about Bill Bergey's ailing left knee. He doesn't, though.

Bergey, for many seasons one of the premier middle linebackers in the National Football League, was placed on the four-week injured reserve list by the Eagles Tuesday as last season's Super Bowl finalists reached the NFL's mandatory 60-man roster limit.

"He's just not physically ready to play," said Eagles Head Coach Dick Vermeil, who added he made the decision reluctantly.

It was one Bergey wasn't ready to swallow.

"I thought I played well Saturday (against Pittsburgh) until I saw the films from the end zone. They showed obviously that my knee has not come along."

But Bergey isn't ready to call it a career just yet.

"I'll bet I'll be back," Bergey told reporters at the Eagles' West Chester, Pa., training base.

Bergey injured the knee in the third game of the 1979 season and missed the remainder of the year. He came back in 1980 to lead Philadelphia with 119 tackles, but it was obvious he had lost much of his lateral mobility.

A number of NFL players, including a number of Bergey's former teammates, had the same feeling after Tuesday's cutdowns.

The Eagles waived 10 players Tuesday, including six-year fullback Mike Hogan and fifth-year wide receiver Luther Blue.

Other big names who were told to turn in their play books were veteran running backs Don Hardeman of the

New Orleans Saints, Bubba Bean of the Atlanta Falcons and Boobie Clark of the Buffalo Bills.

Veteran Steve Furness was given a different sendoff by the Pittsburgh Steelers, who traded the defensive lineman to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The New England Patriots also went through the formality of deactivating tight end Russ Francis, who earlier this year surprised the team by announcing his retirement.

Hardeman was one of Houston's first-round draft picks in 1975 after starring as both a running back and linebacker at Texas A&I. He never gained the fame that many top-round selections enjoy, and ultimately became expendable when Earl Campbell joined the Oilers in 1978.

He was traded from Houston to Tampa Bay to Baltimore before the 1978 season and last year went to Denver. When the Broncos cut him he joined the Saints as a linebacker, but it did not pan out.

Bean was the Falcons' first-round draft choice out of Texas A&M in 1976. He gained 428 yards as a rookie, missing his second season with a knee injury, rushed for 707 yards in 1978, then reinjured his knee and sat out most of 1979 and all of 1980.

Defensive back Steve Luke, acquired by the Falcons last month in a trade with Green Bay, also was cut — as was Frank Reed, the safety the Packers picked up in the deal that sent Luke to Atlanta.

The Bills also placed Booker Moore, one of their top draft choices this season on reserve list for non-football injuries. He is suffering from a nerve problem.

Every team has chance for division title

AFC East most unpredictable

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The AFC East used to belong to the Miami Dolphins, but it has produced four champions in the last five years and developed a reputation as one of the National Football League's least predictable divisions.

New England has the best talent in the division but somehow usually finds a way to lose near the end of the season. The most explosive offenses belong to the Baltimore Colts and New York Jets, but their defenses keep them from winning consistently. With Miami rebuilding, that left the Buffalo Bills to climb to the top last season.

In its first decade, the division knew only three champions — the Dolphins, Patriots and Colts. But the Bills changed that in 1980, winning the title with an 11-5 record built on a strong defense and versatile rookie back Joe Cribbs.

Buffalo Coach Chuck Knox, the NFL's Coach of the Year in 1980, has built a favorite for consecutive titles with judicious draft choices and a blend of seasoned veterans. The Bills are especially tough on defense.

"It's the Bermuda Triangle because ballcarriers have a habit of getting lost in our territory," says 270-pound nose tackle Fred Smerlas, a Pro Bowler in his second season. The other points of the triangle are inside linebackers Shane Nelson and Jim Haslett, whose 125 tackles led the team. Isaiah Robertson and Lucius Sanford play outside in the 3-4.

Left end Ben Williams had 12 sacks last year, while Sherman White complements the pass rush on the other side.

Strong safety Steve Freeman led the team in interceptions with seven, while free safeties Jeff Nixon and Bill Simpson and cornerbacks Mario Clark and Charles Romes complete a solid, veteran unit.

With 225-pound fullback Booker Moore, this year's No. 1 draft choice, out of action because of a nerve ailment, the Bills again will rely on 203-pound Curtis Brown to carry the ball or block for Cribbs.

Cribbs set a Buffalo rookie record for 2,185 yards rushing and also caught 52 passes, a team record for a back.

Quarterback Joe Ferguson threw for 2,805 yards and 20 touchdowns last year. His top receivers are Jerry Butler and Frank Lewis and tight end Mark Brammer.

The offensive line is strong, with underrated tackles Ken Jones and Joe Devlin flanking guards Reggie McKenzie and Conrad Dobler and center Will Grant.

New England is a statistician's dream and an analyst's nightmare with five first-round draft choices in the secondary, a 441-point output and 10-6 record in 1980 — and no playoff berth.

Tight end Russ Francis has retired, but Coach Ron Erhardt still has receiver Don Hasselbeck and wide receivers Stanley Morgan and Harold Jackson, the top active receiver in the "Colts, Jets" (Con't. on 2-B)

New Tech coach popular—for now

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Initially at least, Jerry Moore's arrival on the Texas Tech campus this year sounds more like a love story than a football saga.

"If the marriage between Jerry Moore and Texas Tech was not made in heaven," gushed the Tech media guide, "it must have been on the outskirts."

And this: "A solid Texas background, a fixture in a successful program, an intimate knowledge of West Texas, a desire to make Lubbock his home and an expressed dream of reaching the Cotton Bowl have combined to catch the public's fancy."

The Cotton Bowl may be wishful thinking at this point, but there is nothing fanciful about Moore's reception in Red Raiderland.

"The guy can't get much more popular than he is right now with a suddenly awakened and title-hungry following," observed one Southwest Conference scribe.

And how does Moore, late of North Texas State, feel about all this?

"I just feel fortunate," he grinned. "Hey, I'm 41 years old and I feel comfortable in Lubbock. I can put on my jeans, get in my pickup and go anywhere I want to. Or I can put on a 3-piece suit and go down to one of the banks."

"Either place, either way, I feel comfortable."

Moore arrived at Tech after two years (11-11) at North Texas and assistant coaching stints first at Southern Methodist and later at Nebraska.

During six years with the Cornhuskers, he attended six different bowl games, the Orange, Liberty, Astro-Bluebonnet, Fiesta, Sugar and Cotton.

"We've got the same kind of support at Tech that we had at Nebraska," Moore told some golfing companions recently at Dallas' exclusive Preston Trail.

"We may not always be sold out but we'll be close to it. We got people excited about our program and they want to see something happen."

Knepper hurls Astros into NL West lead

HOUSTON (AP) — Southpaw pitcher Bob Knepper says he used a little reverse psychology when he studied the Montreal Expos lineup — noted for its effectiveness against left-handers.

Simply put, says Knepper, a .300 hitter is out 70 percent of the time.

"You take Andre Dawson, one of the best hitters in the game today," Knepper said after tossing an eight-hitter Tuesday night in Houston's 4-2 win over the Expos in the Astrodome.

"He's still a .300 hitter," Knepper said. "That means he's going to be put out 70 percent of the time. To get psyched out (because Dawson hits .300) just makes him an .800 hitter."

Knepper's logic is a bit more compelling than his math, to wit: it was a .205 hitter who ruined Knepper's bid for a fifth shutout en route to his sixth win against two losses.

Larry Parrish rapped a two-run homer in the ninth to give the Expos their only runs.

"I just nibbled too much with Parrish," Knepper said. "In that situation, you should be aggressive, but you don't want to get too fine. If you walk him, that's really stupid. I just got it up in the strike zone a little bit."

Parrish's blast, which came after Tim Wallach was plunked by Knepper, cut the Expos' deficit to 4-2. Joe Sambito came on to record the final out and his seventh save.

"They aren't quite the ball club they were a couple of years ago," Knepper said. "When they had Ellis Valentine and Tony Perez, they had people up and down the lineup who could take the ball deep."

"They don't have as many guys who can go deep now, but they have some guys who can really run."

Jets, Colts could explode

(Con't. from 1-B)
NFL with 532 receptions.
Strong-armed quarterback Steve Grogan has been inconsistent.
Completing the backfield are Vagas Ferguson, who rushed for 818 yards as a rookie, and Don Calhoun.
John Hannah, a 265-pound left guard, is one of the NFL's best linemen. Bob Cryder is the other guard, with Pete Brock at center.
The Patriots get good linebacking from Steve Nelson and Rod Shoate and rugged defensive play from ends Mel Lunsford and Julius Adams.
Miami Coach Don Shula has 193 career victories in 18 years of NFL coaching despite an 8-8 mark last season.

In the fourth game last year, he put David Woodley at quarterback, and the eight-round pick passed for 1,850 yards and 14 touchdowns.
Now Shula must rehabilitate the running game, which wasn't helped when No. 1 choice David Overstreet defected to Montreal of the Canadian Football League.
Tony Nathan and rookie fullback Andra Franklin show promise. Nathan caught 57 passes for 588 yards last year, better than wide receivers Nat Moore (47 catches) and Duriel Harris (33).
Miami defensive ends Kim Bokamper and Doug Betters play ahead of linebackers A.J. Duhe, Larry Gordon and newcomer Bob Brudzinski.

Baltimore whipped Buffalo twice in 1980 and could be the sleeper of the division with a revamped offense based around receivers Roger Carr (61 catches) and Ray Butler, and with first-round choice fullback Randy McMillan to pair with 800-yard rusher Curtis Dickey.
The Colts finished 21st in pass defense, but should improve with a stronger pass rush and the work of strong safety Bruce Laird, cornerback Derrick Hatchett and linebackers Barry Krauss, Mike Woods and Sanders Shiver.
At 4-12 after an 8-8 season the previous year, the Jets were the AFC's disappointment of 1980.

Tech solid at QB position

(Con't. from 1-B)
Reeves and defensive tackle Gabriel Rivera.
"Rocket" Ron, as he's called, has compiled a school record 4,213 offensive yards during his three previous seasons, including 3,312 passing.
He's pitched 24 touchdown tosses.
Reeves approved mightily of Moore's decision to abandon the veer formation of Rex Dockery, opting instead for the more exciting I formation.
"I feel more comfortable in the I," said Reeves. "I was an average veer quarterback because of my lack of speed. In the I, there is more of a running load on the running backs so that probably suits my style better."

Reeves forecast a banner year, explaining:
"Our wide receivers are more experienced, our offensive line is more experienced and I'm more experienced."
At 6-3 and 280, Rivera, or "Senior Tack" as he's fondly known, is being touted early on for national honors, and it is around his hulk that the defense is built.
"I've been around coaching for 20 years," said Raider defensive coach Dean Slayton, "and he's the best I've ever been associated with."
Besides Reeves and Rivera, Moore considers his inheritance notable also for punter Maury Buford, who may be one of the best in the country.

He has averaged 42.7 yards for 215 punts in three years.
"I like what Maury Buford does with the football," Moore said. "Maybe folks in Lubbock are used to it but I'm not. I've never been around a punter like him."
Regarding the overall picture, Moore said:
"I think we can be a good football team. We can't, and I stress can't, afford a lot of injuries to key people, but it is that way all around the country."
"I think we can be a competitive football team."

Pokes trade Manning to Bills again

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Cornerback and punt return specialist Wade Manning has been traded to the Buffalo Bills for the second time in two years as the Dallas Cowboys trimmed their National Football League roster to 60.
Manning, who was sent to the Bills last year but came back when he flunked the team's physical, was traded Tuesday for an undisclosed draft pick. He spent last year with the Cowboys on the injured reserve list.
The Cowboys also placed safety Randy Hughes and rookie defensive end Ron Spears on the injured reserve list.
Hughes reinjured his shoulder in Saturday night's loss to the Rams and Spears has a foot injury that will keep him out for at least six weeks.
Dallas waived Vince Skillings, a 6th-round draft choice from Ohio State, Nate Lundy, a 12th-round selection from Indiana, kicker Dale Castro of Maryland, wide receiver Leon Chadwick of Georgia Tech, kicker Eddy Hare, punter Randy Gill, linebacker William Daniels, defensive end tackle, Richard Hershey, running back, Rick Palma, wide receiver, and Billy Yancy and Elbert Roberts, defensive backs. Placed Bob Cobb, defensive end, Greg Malsiner, defensive tackle, and George Farmer, wide receiver, on the injured reserve list.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUG. 20, 1981

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): A credit matter does not work out right in the morning, but be patient and you'll get the backing you need later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Handle private matters yourself and don't rely so much on others at this time. Remember, work comes before pleasure.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Keep out of any altercation between two associates and avoid trouble. Make serious plans for the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Don't neglect your work to dash off to seek pleasure, but carry through in a steadfast and fine fashion. Express happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Instead of worrying about some obligation, carry through with it in a conscientious manner and you'll get the right results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You have to be careful in the handling of regular routines at this time. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Show increased cooperation with co-workers and get much accomplished. Don't be too blunt with others now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Make sure you can afford an expensive recreation you have in mind before you indulge in it. Sidestep an opponent.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't become involved in arguments with family members at this time. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Use good sense in the handling of money matters. Alter your budget so you can have more working capital in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she must be taught to cooperate with others instead of fighting for everything that is desired; otherwise your progeny could have a difficult life. There's a marked ability to adapt to new conditions. A good education is a must.

Potpourri of recipes received from readers

After several days of biting our nails and anxiously searching the mail, the recipes are pouring in at last.

In fact, we received such a good response that we were unable to publish all the recipes we have received. But be patient and we will print them as soon as possible.

Margaret Cline was the first to send us her favorite recipes, and thus it is her picture that appears. Future picture selections will be made at random.

For next week's column, Mrs. B.D. Adams requests recipes for "after the football game snacks" for a crowd. Please find your favorite crowd-pleasing snack and share it with Mrs. Adams.

BUD'S FAVORITE

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIE

Shirley Summers

- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup Crisco
- 1 cup Jiffy Peanut Butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring

In large bowl of electric mixer, beat crisco, sugars, and flavoring until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time. Then add peanut butter. Turn mixer on low and gradually add the mixture of flour, salt and soda. Let the dough set at room temperature for twenty minutes, covered with Saran wrap. (This waiting period helps to produce a larger quantity of cookies and a better texture.) You can make the dough for future use and keep in the refrigerator if you can keep little fingers out of the dough.

When ready to bake, preheat oven to 275 F. Shape ice tea spoon full amount of dough into oblong shape, pinch together in center after placing on a cookie sheet and depress with a fork on each side of the pinched center. Shape ends of depressed dough into peanut design. Bake 8 minutes or until lightly brown on edges. Cool on brown paper to remove excess grease. Store in air tight container or freeze for later use.

YELLOW CAKE

Shirley Summers

- 2 3/4 cups flour
  - 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 3/4 cup Crisco
  - 1/4 teaspoon butter flavoring
  - 1 1/2 cups sugar
  - 3 eggs
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
  - 1 cup milk
- Preheat oven to 275 F. Grease well with extra Crisco and flour a 13"x9"x2" pan.

Sift flour with baking powder and salt; set aside.

In large bowl of electric mixer, at high speed, beat Crisco, sugar, eggs, butter and vanilla flavorings until light and fluffy — about 5 minutes — occasionally scraping side of bowl and guiding mixture into beaters with rubber scraper.

At low speed, beat in flour mixture (in thirds), beginning and ending with flour mixture; beat only until smooth.

Pour batter into prepared pan; bake 45 minutes or until surface springs back when gently pressed with fingertips.

Leave in pan or to remove cool 10 minutes. Then remove from pan and cool thoroughly on wire rack. Frost as desired or leave plain for snacking, as base for fresh fruit, canned fruit, chocolate sauce, or ice cream. This cake is also great for base of instant pudding or cooked pudding.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

How to Save Electricity Before it Comes To You

During late afternoon and early evening hours, the load on the nation's electrical systems usually reaches its peak. To meet the heavy demand, electric utilities often must use back-up generating equipment that is not energy efficient.

Try to use energy-intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce that peak load.

This energy-saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

American style: Self-defined Chutzpah master

By KILEY ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — He kisses strangers on the street and cajoles his way out of traffic tickets. Now, self-defined "world chutzpah master" Richard Wexler is sharing his brash and beguiling skills with classrooms full of giggling grown-ups.
Twice a month, Wexler — a classically trained violinist known for his theater-district street performances — puts on his bold-colored chutzpah clothes and drives his blatantly unlicensed moped to the private Rhodes School on Manhattan's Upper West Side.

There, he became part cheerleader, part evangelist and part clown, finally winning a round of applause after putting his students on the spot for three hours in an effort to chip away some of their inhibitions.

"My job in the span of three hours is to let the students have the experience of breaking the rules and seeing what happens," he says. "I leave them with a doubt about the way they live their lives, and plant a seed in their guts that grows chutzpah."
Audacity, along with a sense of "playfulness," are the main ingredients of "chutzpah," a Yiddish word that Wexler says can apply to people from all walks of life.

Wexler, who also dabbles in broadcasting, acting and "public elations," has used his chutzpah as a street performer for more than a decade, appearing on TV talk shows, and in newspapers, magazines and a book about "Street People." — whose age varies from the early to late 30s, depending on who's asking — recently used his entrepreneurial instincts to sell chutzpah through the Learning Annex, which sets up the classes at Rhodes School.

In the classroom, singing and shouting are in store for his unsuspecting students, who are about to undergo a lesson in "being your own hero."

Wexler's students start their evening milling around the classroom with plastic cups of wine, choosing a stranger to become their partner, or "ally."
Then, the two "allies" stand before the class as Wexler directs them to discuss, in loud voices, why they chose each other, or what they think of their partner's body. Two women are instructed to touch each other's faces, while another is persuaded to pinch her male partner's backside.

"The point is that we're not very free. We're very sensitive, very afraid," Wexler tells them. "You've got to learn not to be afraid of making a fool out of yourself. We're all fools — there's nobody here who doesn't spill coffee."

Wexler "teaches" that chutzpah "always has a price," but he says the payoff, the ability to "play" with life, usually is worth the price.
"People may find me annoying. If I act too foolish in a restaurant, they can throw me out. But usually, I don't wait to see what's going to happen. I figure I can handle it."

Screwworm 'disaster' possible this Fall

AUSTIN — A screwworm disaster for Texas this Fall? That's not a prediction of things to come, but it is a distinct possibility, warns Dr. J.E. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission.
"The potential for an outbreak of screwworms is in place, and we must take steps now to thwart it," he said.
He urges all livestock producers to perform routine inspections on all livestock, and submit suspected screwworm samples to the fly lab at Mission. "Pet owners and veterinarians need also to be alerted to this task," Dr. Holcombe said.

screwworms. Shearing of sheep and goats is underway, and this will create wounds which will be ideal for screwworm infestation.
"But perhaps our biggest problem is complacency. The screwworm eradication program has been so successful that we forget that continued checking of livestock for possible screwworms is essential to an eradication program. Producers along the Rio Grande River need to be especially watchful; in fact, producers throughout the state need to get back in the habit of submitting suspected samples to the fly lab at Mission," Dr. Holcombe explained.

An increase in the number of confirmed screwworm outbreaks in Mexico near the U.S. border is one of the major reasons for fearing a screwworm disaster in Texas this Fall. Twenty-seven known screwworm cases in Mexico, all well within the insect's flying range of this state, were reported during July.

Mailing kits for sending in the samples are available free from a number of outlets, including veterinarians, county agent's offices, and Texas Animal Health Commission area field offices.

The confirmed cases in Mexico are from 50 to 120 miles south of the Texas border. "Now is the time to be looking for screwworms. We need to know where the screwworm is in order to take appropriate measures to wipe out infestations which may occur in great numbers in Texas this Fall," Dr. Holcombe said.

This is not our only worry. A wetter than usual spring and summer caused an explosion in the number of Gulf Coast ticks which feed in ears of cattle in large numbers, leaving wounds when they drop off; these are made-to-order targets for

Writer of 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes' dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Anita Loos, the tiny dynamo who wrote witty lines for stage and film stars ranging from Mary Pickford to Marilyn Monroe and convinced a nation that "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is dead at age 88.

Miss Loos, who was born and remained a brunette, died Tuesday at Doctors Hospital, which she entered Monday night. The cause of death was not immediately known. One friend, Michael O'Shea, said Miss Loos's sight and hearing had been failing.

She wrote the popular "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" in 1925, a novel about a dumb blonde named Lorelei Lee. It became a hit play and movie. Then she coined another phrase when she wrote the book "But Gentlemen Marry Brunettes."

So successful was "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" it obscured in the public mind a long career ranging from early scenarios for silent films through numerous movie scripts and Broadway hits to witty novels and Hollywood memoirs, including "A Mouse is Born," "No Mother to Guide Her" and "Kiss Hollywood Goodbye."

Her last book, "The Talmadge Girls," published in 1978, was based on her career from 1916 to 1925 as a screenwriter for silent screen stars Norma and Constance Talmadge.

It was, in fact, Miss Loos who thought up the idea of adding printed captions to the scenes in silent movies, and she wrote the first subtitles for "Macbeth" in 1916. The same year she wrote the subtitles for the classic D.W. Griffith spectacle "Intolerance."

Many of those Miss Loos met along the way from Hollywood to Broadway, such as Helen Hayes, Lillian Gish and Carol Channing, remained her friends in later life.

owner, Bill Hune, Chamber of Commerce ambassador, Vivian Matthews, and Billie Gibbons, owner.

Talent Printing ready to provide quality work

The name is the same, only the spelling has changed at Talent Printing, Inc.

Richard Gibbons, owner of Talent Printing, explained that he merely changed Tallant into Talent.

"We didn't want to change the name up so much that people wouldn't be familiar with the store they knew as Tallant Printing and Office Products."

Richard and his wife, Billie, are the new owners. They moved to Big Spring from Dallas in May. Gibbons said he has 35 years of printing experience in the commercial market.

"We offer high quality and try to give our customers the best service possible," Gibbons said.

Gibbons explained the business is prepared to do all kinds of commercial printing from business cards for individuals to booklets for company publications.

The store has a good selection of office supplies and furniture for most kinds of business needs, Gibbons said.

"We're open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 218 W. 3rd and we invite everyone to come in and look at our stock and hopefully do some business with us," said Gibbons.

Girl to keep long hair, lose pom-poms

HOUSTON (AP) — A 14-year-old cheerleader has decided she'll turn in her pom-poms rather than cut her waist-length hair.

Tracy Mitchell refused to conform with a Deer Park High School rule on cheerleader hair length and says she will watch the football games from the bleachers this year.

She asked school trustees to change the rule, but the board refused to intervene after the Deer Escorts, a drill team governing the cheerleader squad, voted to keep the shoulder-length hair rule.

"I still can't believe the school board would do that to us," Tracy said. "I didn't fight the rule because I love my hair. I did it because I think it should be my choice how I wear it."

Drill team sponsor Cindy Faris contends the hair code promotes neatness, uniformity and team discipline.

Dallas seeks 1945 Boston trolley cars

BOSTON (AP) — The city of Dallas isn't exactly going back to the horse and buggy days, but officials there are looking for some 1945-era trolley cars to use in a downtown historical development, or for transportation to fair grounds.

The dozen trolley cars that Dallas city official Rodney Kelly has his eye on originally came from Dallas, but were sold to Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority 20 years ago for $3,500 each when Dallas switched to buses only.

The MBTA has the 36-year-old Presidential Conference Cars in storage and might not put them back into service when a high-speed trolley line is constructed.

Kelly had hoped to pick up the cars for $1 each, but Paul DiNatale, spokesman for the impoverished transit system, said, "We're not about to give them away for $1 apiece."

He said several other parties have expressed an interest in the cars, including a local scrap dealer who wants the whole lot.

"Some people think because they are old they don't have any value, but it's not true," DiNatale said after he welcomed Kelly to town Tuesday. "It would cost $750,000 just to build a replacement for one of them."

Kelly said the cars can be refurbished and put back into service, but that bids would have to be taken to get an idea of the total cost — purchase price, transportation to Texas and refinishing costs.

Easy answers don't exist in marketplace

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Should you lease rather than buy? To arrive at an answer you must study deeply because, as one bank notes in offering advice on the subject, "Leasing as an alternative to the outright purchase of a car has advantages and disadvantages."

Buying a house is worse. The near-demise of the conventional, long-term fixed-rate mortgage and the development of alternative mortgage packages has opened a Pandora's box. The confusion can be maddening. Among the financing possibilities now available, for example, are the conventional mortgage, the seller mortgage, the rollover, graduated, variable, contract sale. It doesn't end there. Variations are possible.

In order to meet the down payment, some buyers accept a short-term second mortgage from the seller, and this by itself can have seemingly infinite variations.

How does a couple confronted with all this manage to work out the countless possibilities? They cannot. The future no longer is fixed; it may vary in unfathomable ways. It involves many more risks.

It's impossible to say how many would-be buyers have backed away when confronted with intricate financing, but you may assume it is in the many thousands. Retreat under such conditions can be wisdom.

The marketplace challenge involves more than cars and houses. The incredible choices that investors now must make conceivably have sent thousands scurrying to the security of simple savings accounts.

You know that these are times that try investor patience and understanding when goods news, such as from the tax cut, further complicates the decision-making process.

Western Kawasaki proud of service department

Western Kawasaki located at 200 W. 3rd has recently opened its doors revealing a well stocked line of Kawasaki products.

Janice Pitts, manager, says the store carries not only motorcycles, but jet skis, generators, and three-wheel fun machines.

"We encourage cycle enthusiasts to come in and sample the good service and parts department we have," she said.

The business is owned by Mrs. Pitts and her husband, Oscar.

"This is a new adventure for us. We are new to the motorcycle business, we want to establish a business for both the serious cyclist and the weekend biker," said Mrs. Pitts.

Richard Johnson is the service manager and is prepared to take care of cyclist's needs with parts and service, said Mrs. Pitts.

The Pitt's son, Mike, handles the parts department and Mrs. Pitts says, "Mike has a good knowledge of Kawasaki machines and helps with the proper service and maintenance of motorcycles."

"We're open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.," said Mrs. Pitts.

Bank official pleads guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — W. Darrell Wiggins faces up to 30 years in prison and a $30,000 fine after pleading guilty to charges he embezzled nearly $17 million from the bank he worked for.

The former Allied Bank of Texas senior vice president entered the plea Tuesday before U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling.

Sterling set sentencing for September 29.

Wiggins, an 11-year employee of the bank, told the judge he became involved in a scheme 10 years ago to sell unauthorized negotiable securities to help bank customers whose loan applications were turned down by Allied. He maintained he did not personally profit from the illegal transactions.

The bank filed suit to regain its losses from Wiggins' holdings, which included vast ranching properties in Texas and Colorado.

Wiggins was accused of siphoning amounts ranging from $875,000 to $7.2 million from the bank between December 9, 1980 and January 2, 1981.

He resigned his post in January after the bank discovered the $17 million loss.

Motives of legislators remains major mystery

By JIM DAVIS

AP Wire-News Bureau
AUSTIN — On the last night of the special session, a television crew was surprised on the Capitol lawn while taping a news report on the legislature's official activities of the day.
 A woman in a loose black evening dress stole the show. Holding a champagne glass in one hand, she hiked her dress with the other to show that she wore nothing underneath.
 As the camera operator kept taping, she posed for several seconds and then ran to a nearby car that roared away.
 That was one of the few times in the special session that anyone around the Capitol revealed themselves. Most of the time, only a psychic could know exactly what was going on and why.
 Was Legislator X genuinely committed to a particular congressional redistricting plan because it was the best for Texas or because it was best for Legislator X's political ambitions?
 Did Legislator Y support Governor X's redistricting plan because it was best for Texas or because the big money sources for campaigns lobbied hard for that plan? Or did Legislator Y hope that a grateful Governor X would head off a possible Republican opponent in the 1982 elections?
 Was Legislator Z fighting for the Democratic Party's plan from partisan loyalty or because he saw that as a possible route to the House speakership in 1983?

Did Governor X demand a minority-dominated district in Dallas County to help the minorities or to pack them into one district so that Republicans could control another district?
 Was Lieutenant Governor Y truly wayed by an eloquent appeal for a minority district in Dallas County or simply worried about offending conservatives who might fund an opponent's campaign?
 Did Speaker Z twist arms so hard for his won redistricting plan with a philosophical goal or just to show unruly members who's boss?
 There are no clear answers. The issues were too complex; the pressures too varied and overwhelming.
 It's entirely possible that some legislators had no clear idea why they were voting a particular way at a particular time. It was a case of who put on the most pressure in the most effective way just before the vote.
 That interesting situation resulted in some legislators supporting one side one day and the opposite side another day.
 Some senators flip-flopped so many times on redistricting this year that their chamber could have been renamed The Pancake House.
 A number of legislators left Austin last week saying they felt as though they had been through a regular 140-day session in 30 days.
 "It was a bloody fight," said one. "Thank goodness redistricting comes only once every 10 years."

Speaking of bloody fights... U.S. Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas and State Sen. Walter Mengden of Houston, apparently will battle in the Republican primary for the honor of taking on Democratic incumbent Lloyd Bentsen in the U.S. Senate race in November.
 Bentsen probably will get a free ride in the Democratic primary, or only token opposition, and will save his already-huge campaign fund for the fall.
 Despite Gov. Bill Clements' image of popularity and toughness, there seems to be no dearth of Democrats willing to try to knock him off.
 State Sen. Peyton McKnight, a tough, conservative independent oilman from Tyler, will travel the state the next few weeks trying to stir up interest and support.
 But he says he won't run if either former governor Dolph Briscoe or former attorney general John Hill announces. All three are interested and have what apparently is a necessary requirement for a governor's race these days — they all are rich.
 Attorney General Mark White isn't all that wealthy, but he's gathered political points among Democrats for his barb-for-barb trades with the talk-tough, act-tough governor. He hasn't revealed his plans for 1982 yet.

SUING FOR STATEWIDE CALIFORNIA QUARANTINE — Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan Brown at a news conference Tuesday in Austin at which he announced he is suing the U.S. Department of Agriculture to force a statewide quarantine of California because of the Mediterranean fruit fly infestation.

Japan cuts California fruit imports

By The Associated Press
 Japan began restricting imports of California fruit today, fearing a fruit fly infestation would be carried across the Pacific, and state legislators began hinting of support for "retaliatory trade restrictions."
 As the Japanese boycott went into effect, several states renewed calls for a domestic quarantine of all California produce susceptible to the Mediterranean fruit fly.
 Texas filed suit Tuesday against the U.S. Department of Agriculture to force a total ban, saying the fruit and vegetables are trucked through Texas to the Southeast.
 And in Florida, another round of aerial spraying of malathion was to begin today, with the pesticide to be targeted on an area near downtown Tampa, not far from where five medflies were found. The area is just west of Florida's lucrative citrus belt. State officials have blamed California for the infestation.
 Japan's agriculture ministry, fearing the fruit fly would spread to the Orient, said it would restrict all citrus and other fleshy fruit from California as of today.

Search for Howard Hughes' 'Lost Will' is dragging on

HOUSTON (AP) — No one knows what No. 47 opens. It belonged to Howard Hughes, and some would like to think it could unlock the "Lost Will" they believe the eccentric billionaire left when he died.
 The so-called Lost Will is one of at least 40 documents to surface since Hughes died April 5, 1951, on an emergency medical flight from Mexico to Houston. Most of them already have been thrown out by various courts.
 Beneficiaries of the Lost Will — which reportedly leaves the bulk of the vast estate to the Florida-based Howard Hughes Medical Institute — admit they have not located an original copy.
 They have only a tissue carbon copy. But they say a mystery key, stamped "47" and found among Hughes' personal effects, may open a strongbox somewhere that contains the original.
 Attorneys for Texas and several cousins opposing the Lost Will scoff at the notion, saying there is no Lost Will.
 The Howard Hughes Medical Institute, a exempt research foundation which owns the multi-billion-dollar Hughes Aircraft Corp., unsuccessfully attempted to probate its carbon copy will in California and Nevada courts.

 In Houston, Probate Judge Pat Gregory, who ruled last month that Hughes died without leaving a valid will, swiftly rejected the purported will after HHMI failed to identify two witnesses who signed the will or another person who had read it.
 Gregory's decision was appealed in July to Texas' 14th Court of Civil Appeals, and a ruling is expected late this year.
 The Lost Will is neither dated nor signed by Hughes, but its beneficiaries say it is probably about 55 years old because they say it was found along with a letter from his lawyer dated May 30, 1925.
 Within hours after his death, an extensive search of every place Hughes visited, lived and worked was launched in efforts to find a will.
 They found none, but searchers uncovered an envelope marked "keys" in California among some of the recluse's personal items. In the envelope were two sets of keys to safety deposit boxes. All but one was identified.
 And that remaining key, labeled simply "47," has led to speculation by the holders of the Lost Will that it could open a lockbox somewhere containing the original will.

TO STOP A SHARK'S JAWS — The race is on among marine biologists, reports the September issue of Science Digest, to concoct a repellent that will stop forever the voracious appetites of killer sharks. These man-eating beasts can grow to a length of 20 to 23 feet and weigh 6,000 pounds. Indiscriminate feeders, the stomach of one captured Australian tiger shark contained three overcoats, a pair of pants, a pair of shoes, deer antlers, a cow's hoof, 12 lobsters and a chicken coop. The scientists say toxins in creatures such as the sea cucumber, fireflies and the Moses sole may well yield a potent shark repellent as well as pesticides, anesthetics and anticancer agents.

Sharks eat anything from antlers to shoes but no match for 'sole'

In mankind's age-old battle against his most-feared aquatic adversary, the shark, a substance has been found that may soon prove to be the undersea lifesaver that will stop sharks in their tracks. And scientists say that the chemical, and others like it, may result in potent new pesticides, anesthetics and anticancer agents.

Tens of millions of sharks cruise the oceans and 27 of the roughly 250 species are known to attack humans, reports the September issue of Science Digest. Though sharks usually feed on sea bass, they will, in truth, ingest anything — and sometimes anyone — that gets in their way. For example, the stomach of one Australian tiger shark was found to contain three overcoats, a pair of pants, a pair of shoes, deer antlers, a cow's hoof, 12 lobsters and a chicken coop. The belly of another held a keg of nails, a roll of tar paper and a carpenter's square (though, fortunately, no carpenter).

Because of the shark's gruesome dietary habits, scientists have been trying to develop an effective shark repellent for 40 years — with little success. But in 1972, University of Maryland marine biologist Eugenie Clark became intrigued by the Moses sole, a fish that secretes a milky substance — named pardaxin, after the sole's scientific name — that kills starfish and sea urchins on contact.

Clark found that the helpless-looking sole could make sharks cringe and convulse with fright. Even tiny amounts of pardaxin caused the sharks to writhe in agony, their jaws locked rigidly open for as long as two minutes.

Though pardaxin has yet to be synthesized in quantity, other organisms are being found to yield useful chemicals. Sea cucumber toxins are found to repel fungus infection. A synthetic Caribbean sponge toxin presently fights leukemia

And a chemically similar extract from fireflies not only repels sharks, but is a potent insecticide that may lead to new anesthetics and narcotics.

Scientists may soon have an effective shark repellent. But in the meantime, says Science Digest, the search for it is opening a whole new realm of biomedical discovery for man on earth.

CBS continues to build steam for new season

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS continued to build momentum for the upcoming prime-time season, listing with seven of the 10 most-watched shows in the week ending Aug. 16 and winning the three week competition for the 13th time in a row, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The season, delayed by the recently settled writers' strike in Hollywood, still is about six weeks away. CBS won the race in a week dominated by reruns with "Dukes of Hazzard" in first place, "M-A-S-H" second and "Trapper John, M.D." tied for third.

The rating for "Dukes of Hazzard" was 21.4. Nielsen says that means of all the nations homes with television, 21.4 percent saw at least part of the No. 1 show. CBS' average rating for the week was 14.6 to 13.2 for ABC and 11.6 for NBC. For NBC dropped to the No. 3 spot after a week in second place.

The networks say CBS' rating means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 14.6 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to the No. 1 network.

ABC's "20-20," in 12th place, was the highest-rated of the week's first-run programs. ABC's first "Monday Night Baseball" game after the players' strike — and the last game in the series — was No. 38.

NBC had four of the week's five lowest-rated programs, including "Greatest Heroes of the Bible" in 65th place, Part I of a two-part movie, "March or Die," 66th, "Sanford" 68th and "NBC Reports: Why Poland Makes Moscow Shudder," 69th. "Those Amazing Animals" on ABC was No. 67.

Here are the week's 10 top-rated shows: "Dukes of Hazzard," with a rating of 21.4 or 17.1 million homes, and "M-A-S-H," 19.9 or 15.9 million, both CBS; "Trapper John, M.D.," CBS, and "Three's Company," ABC, both 19.8 or 15.8 million; "The Jeffersons," 19.7 or 15.7 million, CBS; "Too Close for Comfort," 19.1 or 15.3 million, and "Fantasy Island," 19 or 15.2 million, both ABC, and "House Calls," 18.8 or 15 million, "Dallas," 18.4 or 14.7 million, and "60 Minutes," 18.3 or 14.6 million, all CBS.

The next 10 programs: "Diff'rent Strokes," NBC; "20-20," ABC, and "Facts of Life," NBC, tie; "Love Boat," ABC; "Taxi," ABC, and "Alice," CBS, tie; "Quincy, M.D.," NBC; "Laverne & Shirley," ABC, and "CHiPs," NBC, and "Knot's Landing," CBS, tie.
