Haitians seek venue change

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Lawyers representing the 100 Haitians at the hearings being held in the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp filed a motion Monday for a change of venue with the Immigration and Naturalization Service Court, said Bill Kimble, attorney with West Texas Legal Services in Ft. Worth.

"We filed the motion because of the difficulty we were experiencing finding interpreters. The Haitian language is Creole, a version of French, and in the Big Spring area there isn't much accessibility to interpreters of that kind," said Kimble.

Kimble said so far only one interpreter has been located and flown to Big Spring.

"We hope to move the trial setting to a place where there are INS lawyers who are familiar with Haitians. Big Spring just isn't the right location for us to handle clients. We don't have enough staff in our Midland-Odessa offices and if I want to sit in on the hearings I have to fly back and forth to Big Spring," said Kimble.

Rick Swartz, lawyer with the Alien Rights Project of the Lawyer's Commission to Civil Rights, is coming from Washington D.C. today to help with the change of venue proceedings, said Kimble. "We hope he can give us the technical knowledge we need to present the case to the INS," said Kimble.

"We are now waiting for the trial attorney to present his written response to the judge. So far there has been no ruling, but we meet with the judge Wednesday at one o'clock and something should be decided then," said Kimble.

Kimble could not say where the hearings might be moved, but he said the Haitians probably would remain in Texas.

John Allman, superintendent of the prison camp, told The Herald Monday that prison officials still had not decided what to do with the five Haitians who were taken to Midland City Jail for holding after they ran off from their assigned recreation field.

"We are having meetings to decide on a plan of action ... for right now they will remain in Midland," he said.

Truck driver accused of attacking hitchhiker

By BILLELDER
Staff Writer

Big Spring police were checking the story of an unidentified 20-year-old California woman who claimed she was raped while hitchhiking from Dallas Monday night.

According to Lt. George Quintero, the officers received a call from Rip Griffin's truck stop at about 2:15 this morning, notifying them of the girl's presence. She told officers she had been hitchhiking from Dallas to an undisclosed destination when a truck driver believed to be 30 to 40-years-old picked her up.

The woman said they were somewhere near Sweetwater in Nolan County when the man forced her from the truck, tied her up with a "wire tie" and proceeded to rape her, Quintero said.

She was unable to specify when the incident took place but did say it was between 4:30 p.m. yesterday and 1 a.m. today.

She was not beaten in the incident and the truck driver continued his journey west on Interstate 20 with the woman after assaulting her, according to Quintero.

When the pair arrived in Big Spring, the trucker dropped the woman off at Rip Griffin's and fled Big Spring, she said.

Nolan County sheriff's deputies were scheduled to arrive in Big Spring early this afternoon to investigate the woman's story.

A standard rape examination at Malone-Hogan Hospital was performed on the woman, the results of which were not available this morning, Quintero said.

Police hope further interviews with the woman, coupled with the examination, will give them a confirmation of the woman's story.

San Angelo firm defends installation of HC sign

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Troubles with the electronic sign on the Howard College campus "don't lie in the installation" of the sign, said Grady Elder, owner of the Tri-Plex Sign Company in San Angelo.

Elder's company constructed the sign on the campus earlier this year. The sign has been plagued with problems since its installation. Elder contacted The Herald today to offer a defense of his company.

The sign was ordered from Data-Tronic Controls, a company out of Dallas, said Elder. The Data-Tronic company "is no kinky-dink deal."

Data-Tronic provides electronic signs which are constructed across the country, said Elder.

Elder explained that "the sign is highly complex. It has more than 2,000 bulbs in it, and is a three-sided, double-faced information center. I have other signs like it (in this area) and they all require quite a bit of maintenance."

Members of the Howard County Junior College District board of trustees, during their meeting last week, expressed disappointment with the sign, and said they felt the sign should not be paid off until it is in perfect working order.

Elder told The Herald today that "I heard the board was not complimentary" about the sign. "In the last 45 days," he said, "I didn't receive a phone call from Howard College."

He added "I tried to call them on numerous occasions. (Monday) I got Mike Bruner, and he was pretty sympathetic" about troubles with the sign.

Elder said Bruner, who is district vice-president for fiscal affairs, seemed "to understand that the sign requires quite a bit of maintenance."

Elder maintains that problems with the sign are not the fault of his company. "Anybody who knows computers" would expect troubles, said Elder, adding that problems with this particular sign could be compounded by the fact that it is outdoors, and subject to wind and rain.

Elder added that his company "bent over backwards to make the sign work."

The sign did have serious problems when it was first installed, said Elder.

"We had to re-dig the cable, and replace the driver unit of the sign."

He added Tri-Plex employees "were down (in Big Spring) every day" for more than two weeks.

In addition to the 2,000 bulbs, the sign has "11,000 switches in it." The switches are responsible for a light staying on in the system all of the time, a problem that the board of trustees pointed out during last week's meeting.

"I doubt seriously that the sign will work" perfectly, said Elder today.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Howard County Junior College District, told The Herald today "all the problems have not been resolved" with the sign, but added he anticipated everything would be settled soon.

"There never was any real problem" with the Tri-Plex Sign Company, he added, saying the complaints the college had were over "small, nagging problems" with the sign, such as a bulb staying on constantly on the display.

He added the district is retaining about $10,000 it owes on the sign, until "everything is resolved."

FAA gives city go-ahead for airport relocation plan

By BILLELDER
Staff Writer

Big Spring overcame a major hurdle recently when the Federal Aviation Administration gave the city the go-ahead to proceed with plans to relocate the municipal airport's facilities from the east to west side of the runways.

City Manager Don Davis and Industrial Park Manager Hal Boyd flew to FAA regional offices in Albuquerque, N.M., and met with officials there to discuss the airport relocation, which the city wants to carry out to accommodate O.I.L.'s substantial expansion at the adjacent Industrial Park.

"We had talked with them (earlier) by telephone, so they were generally aware of what we wanted to do," said Davis.

After meeting with Davis and Boyd, FAA district chief Bill Howard decided that one relocation "sounds like a good idea" and gave the city the go-ahead to proceed as planned, Howard told The Herald.

Of primary interest to the FAA was making sure the expansion of the park and relocation of airport facilities did not jeopardize flight operations.

After looking at detailed plans over the course of a two-to-three-hour meeting, Howard seemed satisfied that the development of the area "would not impact upon airport operations," said Davis.

The next step for the city in its estimated $2.5 million relocation project is to have an architectural firm draw up a master plan which shows what the airport's new look will be. The firm, Don Cress & Associates, is scheduled to meet with the Industrial Park Steering Committee and possibly some City Council members at the airport's administrative headquarters tomorrow

Home delivery rates increased

Effective Sept. 1, home-delivered papers of the Herald will cost $4.25 monthly, an increase of 25 cents over the present rate.

The new rate figures out to less than 16 1/2 cents per day, including the Sunday edition.

The newsstand price of the Herald remains at 25 cents, the Sunday paper at 50 cents.

By subscribing to the Herald, buyers can save $3.25 over the single copy newsstand price per month.

Newspaper carriers will receive 40 percent of the price increase, according to Chuck Benz, circulation manager.

Settles Hotel issue continues unsettled

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Will the Settles Hotel be boarded up?
A meeting to discuss the possible boarding-up of Big Spring's sole skyscraper was called off this morning when the city Structural Standards Committee couldn't get a quorum.

Three of the five members are needed before the committee can take action and only Billy Mac Shepard and Edna Womack were present for the 9 a.m. City Hall meeting.

Settles owner W.M. Worthy of Dallas also failed to show at the meeting. He had been notified of the meeting, according to city Community Development Director Bill Hall.

Hall explained that the purpose of the meeting was to discuss boarding up the vacant, 60-year-old, 15-story hotel.

"We've had a few complaints that the building is open," Hall said. "Our main intent was to contact the owner and tell him that it is a public safety hazard. I can't speak for the board, but our main intent is to get the owner to close the building."

Hall speculated that the committee would have voted to board up the building "either with the owner's funds or by city action."

Hall figured that putting $300 worth of plywood around first-story doors and windows would do the job.

Also of interest to the committee is a 12-foot crack on the north face of the hotel which may be widening.

The meeting had nothing to do with negotiations to purchase the hotel, said Hall. Bo Rich, an Odessa businessman, is trying to buy the hotel, which has been vacant since May, 1980.

A new meeting will be set to discuss closing off the building and Hall said the city may seek a waiver from the hotel's owner, permitting the committee to go ahead with its plans for the hotel without the owner's presence at any meetings concerning the hotel.

At least one city staffer was surprised that the committee couldn't get its business done this morning.

Said committee Executive Secretary Floyd Smith: "This is the first time in four years we've failed to get a quorum," he noted with chagrin as he walked out of City Hall.

Avery named to UTPB Development Board

Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Avery and Associates of Big Spring, has been named to the University of Texas of the Permian Basin Development Board Seven other Permian Basin residents have been reappointed to the board.

The 20-member development board advises the UTPB president with respect to public relations and assists with informing the public about the university and its work, and assists the president and his staff in securing gifts and other funds for the university.

training programs, and youth development workshops, and has served as a speech writer and public speaker.

An active community leader she has served as president of the board of directors of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and served on virtually every committee of the chamber for the past 15 years.

Mrs. Avery has served on the board of directors for the Midland-Odessa Symphony, American Heart Association, West Texas Blood Services, March of Dimes, Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, and The United Way.

Money-market certificates are insured, Beil points out

Charles Beil, president of First Federal Savings and Loan, told the Herald Monday that money-market certificates are insured, contrary to a story which ran in the newspaper Aug. 17.

The story Aug. 17 dealt with comments made by Durwood Curlee, an executive officer with the Texas Savings and Loan League. Curlee said that with the certificates, "there is no insurance of the accounts. People purchase shares, and there is a risk I don't feel the public knows that. The higher the risk, the higher the return."

Curlee was talking about money market mutual funds, said Beil. These are funds offered through brokerage houses. The brokerage houses sell shares of these securities in large blocks, and the sales are conducted in an open business atmosphere.

Savings and Loan firms offer money-market certificates, which "are similar," said Beil, but the purposes of the two are totally different.

WILLIAMS EXPULSION RECOMMENDED — Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., waves to reporters after a Senate Select Committee of Ethics hearing in Washington Monday. The committee recommended that Williams be expelled for his conduct in the Abscam case. At left is Williams' wife Jeanette.

Expansion won't affect city's fund

O.I.L. intends to take over the entire airfield apron which lies along the western border of the Industrial Park. It also wants the park acreage leased out by 14 tenants between First Avenue on the east and the apron on the west. Western Container's space at the north end of the park and apron would not be affected.

O.I.L., which manufactures oilfield rigs and other oil industry equipment, hopes to construct equipment assembly facilities on its new acreage, according to its chief executive officer, Chris Christopher.

While O.I.L. negotiates the takeover of leases within its expansion area, the city is pursuing a $1.5 million bond issue to finance the first phase of relocating 77 hangars and the airport's terminal-administration building. Money from airport operations and O.I.L.'s new lease would be used to retire the bonds, said Davis.

"It won't have any effect on the city's general fund," he said.

The changes in the airport layout will affect one runway — the cross-wind runway which pilots use to land on when winds prevail from the west. The runway intersects the major north-south runways near the north end of the air field and the FAA would

BSISD trustees mull litigation

Members of the Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees were called to an emergency meeting Monday, to discuss litigation matters pending between the BSISD and the U.S. Justice Department.

Lynn Hise, superintendent of schools, said the board met in executive session with school attorneys to discuss the legal matters.

The board will hold another special meeting at 5:15 p.m. Thursday to discuss final budget amendments for the 1979-80 budget. The board meets at Big Spring High School.

Joe L. Stanhope, 17, of 1208 Mesquite, was arrested and charged with the theft of a domestic animal last week. He was released on a $3,500 bond posted by Varner Stanhope.

Financial markets slumping

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's financial markets slumped further today, extending the steep losses of Monday when a wave of gloom about high interest rates and government deficits pushed stock, bond and commodity prices sharply lower and drove the dollar higher on foreign exchange markets.

The stock market, which took its steepest drop in more than seven months on Monday, slid again today. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 6.18 points to 893.93 in the first hour of trading. On Monday the Dow lost 20.46 points to finish at its lowest level since July 11, 1980.

Bond prices also continued tumbling today after reaching record low levels in the previous session. Dealers said the government's report

Police Beat — Man's stabbing investigated

A Cleveland, Texas man may have stabbed himself and told police he was attacked with a knife by someone else in an incident that allegedly occurred near the railroad tracks and the Owens Street overpass Monday morning.

William Jezek Jr., who told police he was unemployed, said he was stabbed in the upper right arm with a knife by a stranger at 11:30 a.m. Monday, police said. While Jezek was at Malone-Hogan Hospital seeking treatment of the wound, police officers arrested him for public intoxication, according to police department reports.

Jezek, 52, gave no explanation why he might have been stabbed, "but we have information that he might have done this to himself," said Lt. George Quintero this morning. Quintero added that officers were not searching for Jezek's assailant because the information he supplied them was sketchy and details provided by an apparent witness led them to believe Jezek had stabbed himself.

Two men were arrested after Bob Ballard, 48, of 417 Parkway, told police he was assaulted at gunpoint near the Industrial Park Monday night.

Ballard said two men pulled up alongside him at about 7:49 p.m. and pulled a pistol on him.

The men then apparently fled the scene. Ten minutes later two men were arrested on Airbase Road, possibly in connection with the incident.

Police arrested Douglas Tate, 27, on driving-while-intoxicated and aggravated assault charges, and Kurtis Cheatham, 21, on public intoxication and aggravated assault charges. Officers were investigating the pair to see if they fit the description supplied by Ballard of his alleged assailants.

John Emerson, 34, was arrested at 1:20 p.m. Monday in connection with the rape of a 15-year-old girl in mid-July, police said. Detective Bobby Armstrong apprehended Emerson at 1508-A Wood and arrested him on a charge of aggravated rape of a child.

Two girls aged 14 and 15 were transported to Malone-Hogan Hospital at about 6 p.m. Monday after they attempted suicide by swallowing an overdose of pills, apparently barbiturates, police said. The identities of the girls were not released and they were successfully treated by the hospital, police said.

Cindy Battle, 24, of 1102 Mulberry, complained to police that at about 3:20 p.m. Monday someone stole $400 worth of her jewelry as the items were resting on a clothes dryer.

Jan Gamble, 56, of 1405 Lancaster, complained to police that sometime Monday someone entered her home and stole jewelry and money worth over $100.

Katherine Williams of 906 Birdwell complained to police that the sheet-rock walls to her garage were beat out at about 7:10 p.m. Monday.

Cleaning up property tax system

Representative Larry Don Shaw Reports from Austin

"Nothing is certain but death and taxes," an old philosopher said. He might have noted that while there's no question of "if," there can be significant differences in "what kind" and "when."

Few legislative actions have created as much confusion as the property tax reforms passed by the Legislature in 1979. The key items in those reforms, as you'll recall, were the creation of countywide appraisal districts and the requirement that all property be appraised at 100 percent of its value in order to ensure uniform and equal taxation in every area of the state.

There were serious flaws in the way the reforms were written. Nonetheless, I believe in them in principle, and that's why I disagreed with those few legislators who wanted to repeal the 1979 reforms altogether and I sided with the majority that was committed to correcting the flaws and making the reforms work.

Here are some of the key changes we made in the 1979 Act:

- No individual property owner's next appraisal can increase more than 1 1/2 times the percentage of increase in the appraised value of property districtwide. For example, if the appraised value of property districtwide goes up 30 percent, no individual's appraised value could go up more than 45 percent — 1 1/2 times the districtwide increase.
- Farm implements and equipment owned by individuals would be exempt from property taxes.
- If owner-operator budget information is not available for determining the value of open space land for ag use tax breaks, typical lease values could be used to determine expectable income from the land.

- The size of a residence homestead can include up to 20 acres and a house instead of the five acres currently allowed.
- Homestead exemptions and ag use exemptions will not have to be claimed annually — they will be carried on the books automatically. This was originally a bill I sponsored back in the regular session, but Rep. Wayne Peveto — the author of the Property Tax Code amendments — agreed to incorporate my measure into his bill, and I'm pleased that it's now the law.

In addition, there are several changes in the requirements for challenging appraisals and tax rates:

- We eliminated the requirement that 25 percent of the qualified voters cast ballots in elections to roll back a local tax increase, and we reduced from 15 percent to 10 percent the percentage of qualified voters' signatures needed to force a tax rollback election. Also, taxpayers would have 90 days, instead of the present 60 days, to gather the required signatures.

Denny's posts record sales

LA MIRADA, Calif. — Denny's, Inc. (NYSE) today reported record sales and earnings for the year ended June 26, Vern O. Curtis, president, announced today. Fourth quarter results were also a record for the period.

Curtis said, "The past year was noteworthy for operational accomplishment and expansion and improvement of a number of programs that will make Denny's, Inc. a stronger company in the future."

Company revenues increased 18.5 percent during the year to $49.0 million. Net income increased 58.7 percent to $26.9 million. Earnings per share increased 55.9 percent to $3.04 compared to $1.95 a year ago.

Curtis pointed out that earnings for the fiscal year ended June 1980 were subject to a one-time charge of $5.2 million ($9.9 million before taxes) equal to 60 cents a share in connection with the company's decision to close over 100 of its Winchell's Donut Houses.

Hinckley to decide on defense approach

JOHN W. HINCKLEY JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Hinckley Jr., due in court Friday to enter pleas to formal charges of trying to assassinate President Reagan, has yet to decide what defense to use, his chief lawyer says.

"When this decision has been reached, it will be communicated to the court," defense attorney Vincent J. Fuller said Monday after a federal grand jury returned a 13-count indictment against the 26-year-old Hinckley.

Fuller has had a defense medical team examining Hinckley, described by his parents as "our troubled son."

The indictment accused an F.kley of attempting to kill Reagan and three others in the March 30 shooting outside the Washington Hilton. White House press secretary James S. Brady, Secret Service agent Timothy J. McCarthy and Washington policeman Thomas Delahanty also were wounded in the attack. Brady, who was shot through the brain, remains

To sustain an insanity plea, Hinckley would have to convince a jury that he "lacked substantial capacity to conform his conduct to the requirements of the law."

Friday's arraignment will be conducted by U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker, who presided recently over the retrial and acquittal of two anti-Castro Cubans accused in the 1976 car-bombing assassination of Orlando Letelier, former Chilean ambassador to the United States. Parker was selected by lot.

Federal law requires that a trial begin within 90 days of arraignment, but either side may request a delay.

Hinckley has undergone extensive mental testing. By Aug. 1, he had been examined by separate medical teams representing Chief U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant, the defense and the U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia.

An insanity defense could bring into the case Hinckley's infatuation with teenage actress Jodie Foster.

ANTICIPATED PAYOFF — Kathy Thompson, 9, of Ostrander, Ohio licks her lips as she watches the bidding go higher and higher on her Grand Champion chickens at the Ohio State Fair in Columbus Monday. Pam Pope of Pope Concessions bid an all time record of $8500 for the chickens with a combined weight of 36 pounds.

Only charge against Martin to be dropped

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Robert K. Sullivan, former employee of Rep. Mike Martin says he will drop a 19-month old assault complaint, the only criminal charge against the Longview Republican.

Martin, who is free on $5,000 bond on the charge, was scheduled to appear this afternoon before the Travis County grand jury to answer questions about the July 31 shooting in which Martin was wounded.

Sullivan told the Austin American-Statesman Monday he was asking that the misdemeanor assault charge be withdrawn because he thought Martin's "political career is ruined and that's the only punishment he deserves."

Sullivan, 27, now a Waco college student, said he would ask Gregg County District Attorney Robert Foster to drop the charge.

Postal service employees approve of new contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal Service employees overwhelmingly ratified new contracts providing a typical worker with a $2,100 pay raise over three years plus unlimited cost-of-living increases, union officials announced today.

They said the voting was not influenced by the Reagan administration's tough stance against striking air traffic controllers.

Members of the National Association of Letter Carriers voted 124,316 to 20,856 to ratify the tentative contract reached July 21 after an all-night bargaining session, said union president Vincent Sombrotto.

The American Postal Workers Union was still counting votes early today when its president, Moe Biller, left the suburban Maryland motel where the tally was conducted.

He said that at 4:10 a.m. EDT, 110,367 votes in favor of ratification had been counted and that he expected the number to reach 150,000 by the time all 186,500 ballots were tallied.

"I've very pleased that people have ratified it to that extent," Biller said.

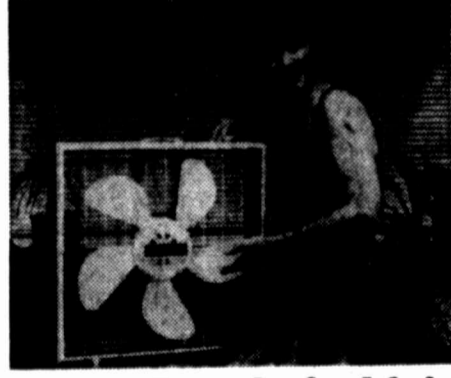

The APWU represents clerks, motor vehicle operators, maintenance workers and special delivery personnel. The letter carriers union represents people who deliver the mail door-to-door.

The Postal Service says the average postal worker had earned $23,300 a year — $19,915 in base pay and the rest in benefits — under the old contracts.

Biller called the cost-of-living clause one of the most important elements of the contracts.

"That doesn't mean that we've pulled off something, a bonanza. But it does mean that our people are going to have less of a struggle if inflation continues," he said.

Cool carefully and help hold down your bills.

In many homes, summer air conditioning uses more electricity than all other appliances combined. To help hold down electric bills, use it sparingly. Set your thermostat at 80 degrees or higher, and use a fan to circulate the air. A fan uses considerably less electricity than air conditioning. And when no one is going to be home, make sure your air conditioning is turned off. It pays to know how to cool carefully.

You must know where you're going to get there

The beginning of school is a good time for all of us — students or not — to reassess ourselves and see where we are going.

In order to get anywhere, you must know where you are going. Specific goals must be set. Ask yourself, "Where do I want to be one year from now, five years from now, 10 years from now?"

The answers to these questions will lead you to the next question: what must I do to arrive at that destination?

This method of self-interrogation will help you formulate a plan of action that will make your goals a reality. Consciously you will take concrete steps to make the dream happen. Subconsciously, you will surround yourselves with the subtle forces that support your goal.

The method works for everyone and every group — students, workers, football teams, business enterprises, civic clubs, city governments.

For a student, it might work something like this:

Q. Where do I want to be one year from now?

A. I want to be in the top 25 percent of my graduating class.

Q. Where do I want to be 5 years from now?

A. I want to be graduating from college with a psychology degree.

Q. Where do I want to be 10 years from now?

A. I want to be a college counselor.

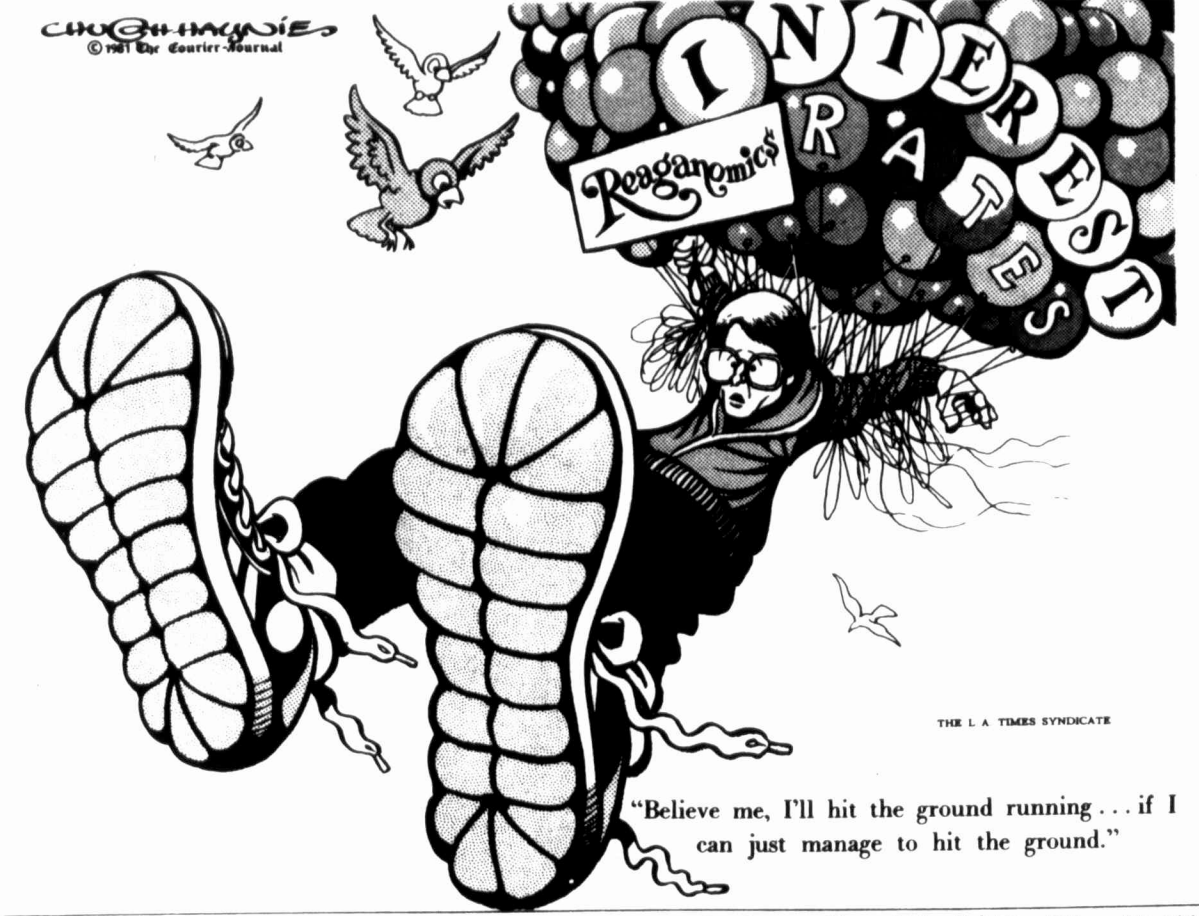

Q. What must I do to arrive at that destination?

A. First, I must take every psychology course available. I must prepare for examinations. I must join the Psychology Club...

After the plan of action is made, the rest is easy. Just do it.

Because the student now knows where he is going, even unconsciously he will surround himself with the things that contribute to his field. For example, perhaps he will begin reading psychology magazines, such as "Psychology Today." At the library, he will choose books that relate to his field. He will choose friends whose interests relate to his. These and many more factors build and grow to make the person.

Rather than drift along undecided, he will know where he is going, and he will get there.

"Believe me, I'll hit the ground running... if I can just manage to hit the ground."

The end

Art Buchwald

I've been reading a lot of spy books this summer and they all seem to end the same way.

"Then, Mussoff, it is agreed. You will come to the United States and tell us everything you know about Vorinsky's circus in exchange for a new identity, and a house in McLean, Virginia."

"Yes, Savage. But one question. How did you know I was ready to come over to your side?"

"Maria told us."

"Maria of the PLO?"

"Maria really worked for Mossad, the Israeli intelligence service."

"But I thought her father was a Nazi criminal hiding in Argentina."

"That's what we wanted you to think. Maria's father was actually in charge of the St. Tropez History Section of the Library of Congress."

"Then that means he knew 'R' was working for us?"

"He actually didn't know it until 'R's' wife revealed it during her tryst with Dubois of the French Secret Service, whom we had been watching for some time."

"Is that why 'R' killed himself?"

"No, strangely enough 'R' killed himself when he ran out of cigarettes and couldn't find a shop that was open at 3 in the morning. Here comes your plane."

"Will I see you again, Savage?"

"Perhaps someday our paths may cross. Tell me, Mussoff. What was Karnofsky's connection with the Friedrichstrasse gang?"

"Karnofsky's mother and Friedrichstrasse were all part of the Bader Meinhof group. They hoped to get Ludorf out of jail by selling the West Germans a list of Parliament members who were on 'R's' payroll."

"Then it all fits into place. Ludorf knew this, and that is why he was blackmailing the burn-out Karnofsky."

"You said it, Savage. I didn't. Well, I guess it's time to say goodbye."

"I'll walk you to the ramp."

"Tell me, Savage. What will you say to Maria?"

"I'll tell her you didn't mean to hit her when she wouldn't reveal why she had shot Vandenberg at the Cafe Mozart in Copenhagen."

"Do you think she'll believe you?"

"It doesn't matter. Why is it so important to you?"

"Maria is carrying my child."

"I see that explains the business with Zupel."

"Zupel was just a pawn we sacrificed after Appel was found red handed with the coded message from Tarhouse."

"Well, here we are at the ramp. I guess this is it, Mussoff. Here is a package for you."

"What is it?"

"It's Balridge's watch. We found it on his body after he was pushed in front of the Zurich to Munich express train."

"No wonder we couldn't locate it when we searched his luggage at the Helsinki airport. Thank you, Savage. I guess there is no more to say."

"You're so right, Mussoff. In our business the less said the better."

The Beatles

In the near future when I play that lovely song on the guitar, it will be only out of nostalgia. For I — we — are getting a tax cut.

Yes the negotiations have indeed paid off, and come October the First, in this Year of our Lord, the Government will be sending me — us — a windfall.

I don't know about you all, but I'm planning ahead. I'm thinking about all of the things I've always wanted to do, and planning the order in which I'm going to do them once I get my share.

And how much will I get?

Ah I don't want to know. There have been charts and graphs and a multitude of equations and figures, but I haven't looked at them. This is a cut to spur productivity and investment. I am one of the principal causes of inflation. I spend my paycheck before the ink is dry — and not on increasing productivity in industry. I spend it on food, rent, and other such waste. I intend to live up to that economic classification.

How am I going to spend my tax cut? Travel sounds good. England, New Zealand, Libyan airspace, those all are inviting. Unfortunately the air controllers strike has made international travel a bit tricky, so I may have to tone down my dreams a bit. Sweetwater is pretty this time of year. I can get a nice motel room. One on the corner of the building that offers a fetching view of the interstate, I think.

Perhaps I could really enjoy baseball by getting second-season tickets... and make plans to attend the World Series, which should be played around Valentine's Day.

Of course the best thing I could do would be to invest it in gold or silver or some of the other "hard assets." This is popular these days, as many people see them as the most reliable insurance in case President Reagan added or subtracted wrong.

I saw a fellow on TV the other night who said that if a person wants to get into gold, he should invest at least half his portfolio. I don't know what a portfolio is, but if it's anything like a wallet I probably can't afford to give up much.

Let me see, what else have I always wanted? I'd like a video cassette player so I can watch yesterday's TV programs today and record today's for tomorrow. There are a lot of records I liked to buy. And a new stereo. Maybe I could subscribe to a lot of magazines so I'd always have something in the mail.

Maybe I could get my car washed.

There's no big hurry though is there? The big day is not for a while yet, so I have plenty of time to make up a list and work out the financing.

It's pretty exciting. After years of higher taxes, we're finally going to get something in return. I'll be interested to see how they work it out so we each get our fair share. I'm sure there is some system so that it will be a painless transfer of funds. No big deal, no paper work.

Heck, I probably won't even know that I'm any richer.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am in my early 20s, and I am very lonely. Now I am dating a very nice man who would, I think, make a good husband. However, he shows no interest in religious things. Do you think I should be concerned about this? M.T.B.

DEAR M.T.B.: Yes, you certainly should, and in fact this should be a matter of highest priority with you. If two people are not in harmony spiritually, their marriage will be far less than it should be. That is one reason the Bible warns us that a Christian should not marry a person who is an unbeliever. "Do not be yoked together with unbelievers. For what do righteousness and wickedness have in common? ... What does a believer have in common with an unbeliever?" (2 Corinthians 6:14-15).

Let me point out several of the problems that can result from a marriage between a believer and an unbeliever. For example, how can you teach your children the importance of spiritual things and the necessity of spitting Christ first in their lives if one parent flatly denies such things?

Perhaps, however, you yourself have never really committed your own life to Jesus Christ. You apparently have some interest in spiritual things, but have you ever turned your life over to Jesus Christ, trusting him as your Savior and vowing to follow him as Lord? If not, I urge you to make that commitment now.

Then don't let your loneliness pressure you into something you will later regret. God loves you, and because he loves you he wants you to trust him for your future. If it is God's will for you to be married, you can trust him to bring a Christian husband to you in the future — one who will help you to honor Christ in your marriage.

Slapstick espionage

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Remember the plot to dose up Cuban Premier Fidel Castro so his beard would fall off? The contract with Mafia hit men to knock him off? The CIA agent who plugged in a lie detector machine and blew out all the lights in a dingy Singapore hotel? The clandestine military operations that backfired in Cuba, Laos and Iraq?

The James Bonds responsible for those slapstick misadventures are back in business. The trick-or-treat branch of the Central Intelligence Agency is now propounding more of those hare-brained schemes that produced such fiascos during the 1960s and 1970s.

Anyone who has noticed the unnerving glitter in the eyes of a CIA strategist or has attended a planning session of the covert crowd can only wonder what new undercover operation the CIA may be about to unleash.

A few weeks ago, for example, a report appeared in print that the CIA was plotting a multiphase operation to rid the world of Libya's radical ruler, Muammar Qaddafi. Not so, protested the White House.

It was explained in another news leak that the operation was targeted against Mauritania, not Libya. This caused understandable consternation in Mauritania. Still another leak offered further clarification: The target was Mauritius, not Mauritania. The former is an island in the Indian Ocean with a comparatively small population that can be alienated.

The truth is that the CIA plotters still have Qaddafi in their sights. If this should be denied by a White House spokesperson, with eyes cast heavenward, let me clarify: The White House, though aware of the CIA mindset, has not approved any scheme to overthrow or liquidate the troublesome Qaddafi.

Meanwhile, back in the protected corridors of the CIA, there have been whispers about slipping an assassin into Libya to do away with Qaddafi. One scheme would have the hit man pose as a mercenary and join a ring of mercenaries now in Qaddafi's employ.

The secret killer, according to one CIA scenario, would carry a deadly poison that would have a delayed effect. There would be no symptoms at all for the first 48 hours. Then the unfortunate Qaddafi would come down with a fever that could not be distinguished from various viral diseases. This would be followed by gradual paralysis, a coma and then death. No trace of the poison would be left in his system for the coroners to find.

CIA sources have given my associate Ron McRae a complete description of this unpleasant potion — a common derivative that can be duplicated in any chemical lab. Journalistic responsibility forbids me, therefore, from publishing any further details.

To administer the poison, the conspirators at the CIA have considered using a tiny dart disguised as one of the black flies that infest the would-be to equip the assassin with a Borgia ring, which could squirt the poison into Qaddafi's food or drink.

There is one bugaboo that troubles the more thoughtful strategists. Assassination is a game that anyone can play, and the tempuous Qaddafi has his own killer squads that might ambush Ronald Reagan in retaliation. The greater contribution to world stability might be a solemn pact among heads of state that they won't try to knock each other off.

Footnote: Other plots are hatching in the backrooms of the CIA, and the public should be made aware of the wildest of them. These will be reported in future columns.

WHO'S ON FIRST? As the Reagan administration tries to develop a firm policy on arms limitation in negotiating with the Russians, it has been studying some highly classified documents from the Carter era.

One of the most interesting was a secret Pentagon memorandum warning that the United States should stop worrying about the perceived technological advantage of either side as a bargaining chip in the disarmament poker game.

"The rationale underlying U.S. decisions to undertake arms control negotiations (is increasingly based) on an antitechnology approach," the memo warned. "The unprovable assumption — that if the U.S. is ahead it is to our advantage to stop technological improvement — pervades arms control policies."

Addressing the other side of the coin, the memo said: "Equally without foundation is the notion that if we are behind, improvement will 'provoke' adversaries to further their lead, or take other measures disadvantageous to us. Of course, if we are in a situation of 'perceived equivalence,' any proposed activity on the U.S. side becomes 'destabilizing.'"

The secret memo notes that the Russians don't seem to be bothered by competitive edges. It lists numerous examples where the Kremlin has restricted development of new technology — such as laser weaponry, particle beams, the neutron bomb and other sophisticated advances in the military art.

WATCH ON WASTE: The State Department apparently pictures itself as a junior branch of the National Archives. The trouble is, our bureaucratic squirrels in Foggy Bottom are preserving documents that have limited interest, to say the least. At a cost of more than $200,000 a year, the Passport Office is storing some 140 million documents that accompanied passport applications over the past 100 years. The stuff fills more than 7,500 file cabinets.

Woman says town has gone down

To the Editor:

I grew up around and in Big Spring, Texas. I thought it was one of the greatest little towns. I was very proud of the town. It was pretty, green and clean.

I just returned from there, the first of August. I go back once a year for a visit. My friend drove me around. I couldn't believe how the town has gone down, litter and garbage scattered all over even in the downtown area. Doesn't the people have any pride about their town any more?

I can't believe your City Council what is wrong with them.

I was thinking of making it my home again. Maybe I will run for City Council.

How can I gain weight?

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could you please explain how to gain weight? All I hear anymore is how to lose weight. Everybody I know is trying to lose. What about us skinny people? I've asked my doctor about gaining weight and all he said was to eat regularly. I've done this and have gained nothing. I weigh the same now at 25 as I did when I was 18 — 135 pounds at 5 feet, 9 inches. — Mrs. A.L.

do you look in a mirror? A lot of people want to gain weight. Most want to do so in the "right" places, and it usually does not work that way. Keep that in mind in what follows.

Some people do metabolize differently than others. They burn calories for energy while the rest of us store those calories as fat. Be that as it may, gaining weight still boils down to having to take in more calories than are being burned.

Yes, of course, you need three regular meals a day. Start making a chart of how many calories you are eating. Try to increase the amount you take with your meals. The time-honored weight-gain milkshake, in addition to meals, is a good source of calories. Here's a recipe for a good one:

Two glasses of milk, one cup powdered milk, two scoops of ice cream, an egg, some malt. Put it all in a blender or mix with a spoon. (I am feeling like Betty Crocker.)

If you eat your dinner at 6 p.m., take this milk shake around 9 p.m. That ought to provide you with extra calories and put on some weight. But don't go overboard with this, and don't cut down on your regular diet either.

To repeat, Mrs. A.L., you don't look too bad to me on paper — neither skeletal nor keechy.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Bride's Borrowed 'Gift' Makes Her Feel Blue style of gift-giving is tacky. I vote with Bill. Skip it.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you had an article regarding children answering the telephone. I have something I would like to add that I think is worthy of printing because it would save thousands of people hours of wasted time: Have paper and pencil handy to write down any message or phone number.

It is astonishing to me that only about 1 in 50 people answering the telephone (other than business establishments) have anything available to write on or write with. And the person making the call has to sit and wait while the other person hunts up something to write with—and I am talking about adults.

ELSA IN FORT MYERS

DEAR ELSA: Hear, hear! Now if only someone would perfect a pencil that can be chained to the telephone so the kids couldn't carry it off!

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Bill and I were married June 1, 1980. We received many gifts of money from relatives, but we never got anything from my mother's sister, Aunt Jenny, who is usually pretty generous. We thought it was rather strange, but of course we didn't say anything.

Well, we just found out that the May before our wedding, my mother borrowed $500 from Aunt Jenny with the understanding that starting June 1 she would give Aunt Jenny $100 a month to pay back the loan. Since our wedding was June 1, Aunt Jenny told my mother to give the first $100 to Bill and me as her (Aunt Jenny's) wedding present.

It's been over a year now, and Mom still hasn't given us the $100. My mother is always crying "poor mouth," but she eats out with her friends nearly every night, plays bingo three nights a week and works two jobs. The money would come in handy now as we have a baby.

Bill says we should skip it. I say my mother owes us $100, and if she doesn't pay it, Aunt Jenny should because she committed herself for that amount at our wedding present.

Abby, who owes who what? And what do you think of this whole family mess?

HOLDING THE BAG

DEAR HOLDING: As I see it, the only person who "owes" anybody anything is your mother, who owes Aunt Jenny $500 because she borrowed it. Aunt Jenny doesn't "owe" you anything because a gift is never "owed." It's voluntary. I think your mother's word isn't worth very much, and your Aunt Jenny's

Forsan Study Club begins new club year with brunch

The GFWC Forsan Study Club began their year with a brunch at 11:00 a.m. Saturday at Garrett Hall of the First United Methodist Church. The 21 members and 18 guests were served a gourmet buffet of chicken supreme in pastry cups, fruit salad, spinach salad, cheese crisps and strawberry bread. A large basket of crocheted flowers and seashells, made by Judy Williams, decorated the serving table. Smaller crocheted rose buds entwined with English ivy centered the tables and ended at a rainbow in a pot of gold on the head table.

Shirley Summers, president, was the toastmistress for the events following the brunch. For roll call, each member brought an item for Girlstown.

Newsletter explains how to encourage child's physical development and coordination

Young children develop physically at an amazing rate. Every movement helps teach strength and coordination.

Growing Child, a monthly child development newsletter, reports that there are many things a parent can do to aid an infant's physical development.

Let the baby move. Don't restrict him with tight clothing or tightly tucked in bed coverings. Give him some time every day without any clothes at all—possibly just before bedtime.

Let the baby stay on his stomach much of the time. This position will encourage him, at about four months, to lift his head and chest and push up on elbows and straight arms.

Change baby's position. Simply turning the crib or the child around will make him move his head to find the light source or the direction his food and care comes from.

Feed the baby on alternate sides—hold him first on the right and then on the left.

Dance with your baby.

Dancing with an infant or young child is more than just fun. It is comforting and reassuring to the child, and helps speed his motor development. A smooth, rhythmic motion of a waltz or ballad helps an infant develop position sense and balance. These are skills he will need to know before he can sit, stand, or walk. Hold him gently but firmly and sway from side to side, back and forth, round and round. Your movements will be stimulating the sense organs deep in his inner ear.

Rock him. As you rock in a rocking chair, the easy back and forth motion stimulates the balance and position sensors deep in the inner ears. This will make learning to balance on his own two feet easier later on.

You can get more information on this subject and on the physical and social development of children up to six years old by writing to Growing Child, 22 North Second Street, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Fall, winter hair fashions have 'Looks of Elegance'

Hair fashions for Fall and Winter take on a new height in the Looks of Elegance collection designed by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association for cosmetologists to offer to their clients throughout the country.

Inspired by the elegant hairfashion leadership of the nation's First Lady, Nancy Reagan, the Looks of Elegance collection is created for women of all ages and backgrounds in a variety of lengths.

Association Styles Director Doris Williams explained that, "The Look of Elegance can be achieved through one's hairfashion without purchasing a whole new wardrobe this Fall and Winter. The look is designed through multiple layer cutting, fashion perming, creative coloring and expert styling."

The hairfashion collection, which includes a variety of lengths to complement the wide range of fashion moods designed for Fall and Winter, is especially attractive for today's working woman, according to Ms. Williams.

"The working woman is finding that an attractive, elegant appearance is a great plus in today's job market. The emphasis on hairfashion height on the front of the head and soft airiness throughout adds elegance to the classic Fall-Winter suit that has been inspired by the ever-popular Chanel suits," Ms. Williams said.

There are also Looks of Elegance styles for those who wish to follow the hairfashion inspirations of American media personalities such as Victoria Principal, Stephanie Powers and Dionne Warwick as well as Great Britain's Lady Diana.

The new hairfashion collection, which features new height as well as width on some designs, is created to balance the fullness developed in Fall-Winter's fashions which emphasize bouffant tops, pleated skirts and free flowing tunics.

Ms. Williams explained that the elegant hairfashion feelings provide classic lines that complement fashion's interest in basic black, winter white, Reagan red and the glitter of gold, which are Fall-Winter's fashion colors.

The elegant hairfashions can be dressed up for evening with the addition of glittering, usually golden, hair ornamentation.

"Fashion's new interest in the cocktail dress clearly illustrates the need for classic, elegant hairfashions this Fall-Winter," Ms. Williams said.

The upward hair movement trend, with height on the front of the head, is not restricted to the female. The most fashionable evening looks for the male will have hair that is lubricated for free, upward hair movement.

Male haircuts emphasize higher hair on the front of the head, natural and casual feelings.

Ice cream supper, bridal luncheon and dinner precede wedding vows

Approximately 40 guests attended an ice cream supper Thursday honoring Candy Middleton, bride-elect of Jacky Brown, at the home of Mrs. Charlie Creighton, West Hwy. 80.

Homemade ice cream, cookies, coffee and lemonade were served from a table centered with an arrangement of yellow Killian daisies. Copper and crystal appointments were used.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Creighton were Mrs. Louis Stallings, Mrs. Lane Griffin, and Mrs. Ken Froman. They presented the honoree with an ice cream freezer.

A bridal luncheon honoring Miss Middleton was held at the Big Spring Country Club Friday. Guests were seated at round tables covered with beige tablecloths and centered with yellow daisies and gypsophila in brass containers.

Special guests attending the luncheon were Mrs. Harry Middleton and Mrs. Ray Hightower, mother and grandmother of the bride-elect and Mrs. Bill Brown, Breckenridge, mother of the prospective groom.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Johnny Middleton, Big Spring, and Mrs. Barry Hobbs of Dallas.

A gift of lingerie was presented to the honoree.

Groups of yellow and white balloons were released to signal the arrival of the honorees when out of town guests, relatives, and members of the bridal party attended a rehearsal dinner at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Wilson. Similar balloons decorated the lawn and trees surrounding the home. Pam Wilson assisted her parents in hosting the affair.

Guests were seated at banquet-style tables decorated with white daisies and yellow tapers. Also accenting the tables were yellow and white balloons held in place by jelly beans tied in white net.

Bridesmaids were presented porcelain jewelry boxes and the groomsmen received sterling silver money clips.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson presented the couple with a cut glass decanter and matching glasses. Pam Wilson's gift to the couple was a needlepoint monogram framed in silver.

The couple was married Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church.

Lennon assassin gets 20-years-to-life term

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark David Chapman, sentenced to 20 years to life in prison for gunning down ex-Beatle John Lennon, has taken a "vow of silence," his lawyer says.

Chapman was sentenced Monday by acting Justice Dennis Edwards, who said he should receive psychiatric treatment during his imprisonment. Chapman was to be taken today to Sing Sing prison in Ossining, N.Y., to await a final prison assignment.

"He's a very dangerous man," lawyer Jonathan Marks said about his client. "Through that treatment, perhaps the sentence will make some sense."

Marks had planned an insanity defense for Chapman.

But then the former mental patient from Hawaii pleaded guilty June 22 to killing Lennon outside the posh Dakota apartments, where the singer-songwriter lived with his wife, Yoko Ono, and their son, Sean. Miss Ono was not in court Monday.

Marks said he would not appeal unless Chapman asked him to.

During Monday's sentencing, Chapman, protected in a bulletproof vest, read aloud what he called "my final spoken words" — a passage from J.D. Salinger's book "Catcher In The Rye." Marks said Chapman has taken a "vow of silence."

Chapman has insisted the book explains his reason for killing Lennon last Dec. 8. In the passage read in court, the book's troubled teen-aged hero, Holden Caulfield, visualizes thousands of children playing in a field of rye. Caulfield thought it was his job to keep them from falling over a cliff.

Chapman did not elaborate on the connection.

Dr. Daniel Schwartz, a defense psychiatric witness, said during the sentencing hearing Chapman was a "chronic paranoid schizophrenic" who had experienced delusions since childhood.

The murder was Chapman's "psychiatric substitute for suicide," Schwartz said. He explained Chapman had projected his own shortcomings onto Lennon and "killed himself psychologically" by committing the murder.

The prosecutor, assistant district attorney Allen Sullivan, said Chapman committed "a public crime" when he shot the 40-year-old Lennon. "He wanted to steal someone else's fame," said Sullivan. "He got what he wanted."

The prosecutor said Chapman planned the crime for at least two months. He visited New York last October but left, Sullivan said, since he could not obtain bullets and Lennon was inaccessible.

Chapman returned Dec. 6 and "stalked" Lennon, "waiting all day" for his victim outside the Dakota Dec. 8, he said. Lennon, leaving his home with his wife for a recording session, stopped to autograph a copy of his last album, "Double Fantasy," for Chapman.

When the couple returned shortly before 11 p.m., Chapman stepped from the shadows of the Dakota's arched entranceway and fired five shots. Four hit Lennon.

Chapman was arrested within minutes. He was sitting near the shooting scene, reading "The Catcher in the Rye."

Twins' Hrbek has storybook major league start

By the Associated Press
To Milwaukee's Cecil Cooper, it was just another night's work.
For Minnesota's Kent Hrbek, it was his greatest evening as a major leaguer. It also was his first...and one he'll have to go a long way to top.
While Cooper, one of the American League's best hitters, finally climbed over the .300 mark — he hit .352 last season, second best in the majors — with a 3-for-4 night as the Brewers edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4, the night really belonged to Hrbek. He was one of the best hitters in the California League until Monday.

Hrbek, the Most Valuable Player in the Class A circuit with a .380 average, 112 RBI and 27 homers, had been told Saturday by Visalia Manager Dick Phillips that the Twins had called him up. Hrbek grew up near the Twins' home stadium in Bloomington, Minn.

But the 21-year-old first baseman wasn't going to make his debut before friends and family at Met Stadium. Instead, he joined the Twins in New York to play the Yankees.
"Just walking down the runway and into the dugout and seeing Yankee Stadium was a big thrill," said Hrbek after his 12th-inning home run had lifted the Twins over New York 3-2. He also knocked in the first Minnesota run with an infield single in the fifth inning. "I was shaking a little bit but the guys said to stay cool. I thought, 'Hey if I go out there scared, I could get hurt.'"

The only ones to get hurt were the Yankees, as Hrbek wrote his own storybook ending to his memorable night.

"I knew they were gonna throw me fastballs because they had no book on me," Hrbek said. "He (reliever George Frazier, who hadn't given up a run in 13 innings since being called up from the minors by the Yanks) got the ball up a little bit and I happened to get around on it and it went. I knew I hit it good but I didn't start jogging right away. I started running like a rabbit."

It was the Yanks' first extra-inning loss after six wins this year.
Elsewhere, it was Kansas City 4, Detroit 2, snapping the Tigers' nine-game winning streak; Texas 3, Toronto 0; California 8, Boston 6; Oakland 16, Cleveland 4, and Baltimore 12, Seattle 8.

Phillies win with controversy

By the Associated Press
Manager Dallas Green was long gone when Manny Trillo slammed a two-out, two-run homer that boosted the Philadelphia Phillies to a 13-inning victory over the Atlanta Braves. How long Green will be gone may be up to National League President Chub Feeney.
Green and Philadelphia shortstop Larry Bowa were ejected in the ninth inning from Monday night's game after what at first appeared to be an inning-ending double play.

NL Roundup

Bowa grabbed Dale Murphy's grounder, ran to second base, then threw to first. As the Phillies started to leave the field, thinking they were going into the bottom of the ninth with a 4-4 tie, second base umpire Steve Fields ruled runner Chris Chambliss was safe at second as Atlanta's fifth run crossed home plate.
"He (Bowa) wasn't even close to tagging the base," Fields said. "The only thing I can tell you is he straddled the bag...He just flat missed it by six inches."
Bowa charged Fields, yelling at the umpire, waved his glove and slammed his hat to the ground.
"I ran Bowa for throwing the glove," Fields said.
Green raced from the dugout, put himself between Bowa and the umpire, screamed at Fields, bumped him several times and grabbed the umpire's hat, knocking it off his head. Philadelphia players finally restrained Green finally was restrained by his players after he bumped Fields several times.

Bowa also was restrained by his teammates and the other umpires as he tried to get at Fields a second time.

"I ejected Dallas because he threw his hat and threw my hat," Fields said.

In other NL games Monday, the Chicago Cubs nipped San Diego 9-8 in 11 innings, Los Angeles blanked Pittsburgh 3-0, Cincinnati shutout the New York Mets 2-0 and St. Louis needed 10 innings to get past San Francisco 2-1.

"I've been in the game 25 years and seen that play 10,000 times," Green said of Bowa's "phantom tag" at second. "Five thousand times he (the fielder) touches the bag. Five thousand times he doesn't. But 10,000 times the runner is out."
"Bowa touched the base."

The shortstop later described Fields as incompetent. "I hit the bag with my heel," Bowa said. "If I didn't think I hit the bag, I wouldn't argue. I've never seen that call ever."

The Phillies came back to tie the game in the bottom of the ninth and send the game into extra innings, setting the stage for Trillo's heroics.

Another argument broke out after the game in the tunnel leading to the umpires' dressing room. Nick Colosi, the umpire-in-chief, turned on a television commentator, cussed him out and reportedly smashed what the commentator said was a $40,000 camera.

Oilers suddenly have serious QB problem

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Ed Biles has a problem getting his players on the right lists — he wants Ken Stabler off the retired list and Gifford Nielsen on the injured list.

So far, Biles has had little control over either situation. Nielsen, heir to Stabler's job when the 11-year veteran announced his retirement last month, suffered a shoulder injury in Saturday's 27-17 exhibition loss to Tampa Bay.

The Oilers awaited results of tests conducted Monday on Nielsen's right shoulder. Biles hopes Nielsen suffered only a bruise and will be back in action for the regular season.

Biles said Monday that Stabler would remain on the team's active roster until next week when the Oilers must cut to the National Football League maximum roster of 45 players.

"I feel 150 per cent there would be no problems if we could sit down and talk," Biles said of the elusive Stabler, who has not talked directly with the Oilers since mid-May. "Yes, the door is open for Stabler to return. It always has been open."

Biles said Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzog had been in daily contact with Henry Pitts, Stabler's agent, since Stabler failed to show up for the opening of Oiler training camp. "I have personally made efforts to talk with Kenny but I haven't been able to reach him. I don't know anything else we can do."

John Reaves, signed by the Oilers to play a backup role to Nielsen this season, led the Oilers to their best offensive performance of the preseason against the Bucs and will get the starting assignment in Saturday's final preseason game against the Dallas Cowboys.

Reaves completed 21 of 36 passes for 236 yards.

SWC vote split on TV issue

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — The final count was 4-5 against when the Southwest Conference voted in Atlanta Friday on NBC television's offer to the College Football Association.

SMU Athletic Director Bob Hitch said Monday that SMU had voted for the package along with Texas, Arkansas and Texas Tech.

SMU was previously reported to have abstained. Voting no were Baylor, Texas A&M, Rice, Houston, and Texas Christian.

Hitch said "I'm concerned about it. I'm surprised at the split. We went along with what we thought the conference was going to do."

Danny White will punt again

DALLAS (AP) — Quarterback Danny White is the Dallas Cowboys' only punter once again because coaches released the last of four free agent punters Monday who were vying for the kicking chores, a team spokesman said.

Curt Carion, who punted eight times for an average of 35.6 yards in Dallas' 24-14 win over the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night, was one of four rookies released.

He was the last of four free agent punters the Cowboys tested during the preseason in an effort to relieve the starting quarterback of the punting chores.

Cowboys public relations director Doug Todd said a decision will be made in the next two weeks whether to get another punter or let White handle the job for a sixth year.

In another move, the Cowboys traded backup linebacker Bruce Huther, signed as a free agent out of the University of New Hampshire in 1977, to Cleveland for an undisclosed draft choice.

Assistant public relations director Greg Aiello said rookie Danny Spradlin, a fifth-round draft choice from Tennessee, would become the backup middle linebacker.

Todd said veteran wide receiver Drew Pearson was released Monday from a Dallas hospital, where he had spent the last two nights after suffering a mild concussion against the Steelers.

He said Pearson will not play in the team's last preseason game Saturday against the Houston Oilers but will be ready for the regular season opener in Washington Sept. 6.

The regular season is due to begin on September 12 and end about Oct. 24 with the annual "All Star" Super Bowl game between the National and American divisions. All games will be played at Blankenship Football Field, starting at approximately 1:00 P.M. each Saturday until completion.

The Cosden Cowboys, Tomco Packers, American Oil Buffaloes, Harding Well Bulldogs, Optimists Dolphins, and Downtown Lions Club Vikings are the teams that are now being completed. If enough interest is shown another team may form from the north side area.

Participants may register to play after today, but are urged to attend today's registration in order to be placed on a team. After today, players will be late in getting started practicing with their team. Practice will begin Wednesday, August 26, for most teams.

Gentner, F.A., — I.H., at the Holiday Inn, 300 Tulane Avenue will be the place for you to be on Wednesday, September 2. Techniques For Living will be conducting their famous Lose Weight — Stop Smoking Seminar which has helped thousands of people throughout the United States. Techniques For Living is a national organization dedicated to helping Americans solve these and other problems that have kept them from enjoying their lives to the fullest.

The subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles as well as television appearances, Mr. Gentner and his staff have been conducting these seminars throughout the country. In a comprehensive and fascinating three hour program, those who attend the seminar experience the relaxing and beneficial effects of clinical hypnosis. Not only do people permanently lose weight and stop smoking as a result of the seminar, they also report that they sleep better, feel more energetic, and generally enjoy life more than they had previously.

Mr. Gentner's skill in clinical hypnosis was noted by Dan Rather of CBS' "60 Minutes," who referred to him in a nationally televised report as a well-trained and highly experienced hypnotist.

"Clinical hypnosis is the easiest way there is to solve these problems," Gentner says. "Simply put, it helps to eliminate these types of problems permanently."

Gentner says that the reason clinical hypnosis is so successful is that "it removes the causes of problems, not just the symptoms." For example, he explains: "People who are overweight go on diets. A diet is only good for as long as you can follow it. Once you stop the diet you re-gain the weight. Hypnosis is permanent because it eliminates the causes of overeating, not just the symptoms." The same holds true for smokers where the need to prevent cravings for cigarettes or weight gain is just as important. Both problems are covered at the seminar, and each seminar leader is personally trained by Mr. Gentner. Further information can be obtained by calling, toll free 1-800-645-5454.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUG. 26, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be prepared for possible upsets today and make sure that you handle whatever comes up in a calm manner. A confident attitude can give you a boost in the right direction.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Strange situation may pop up at home so be sure to be tactful. Study a new plan carefully before putting it in motion.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Making sure that your accounts are correct is most important at this time. Be more cooperative with associates.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid whatever stands in your way of financial success. Be sure to handle practical affairs more intelligently. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study how to put a new plan in operation but don't begin action on it yet. Enjoy the company of congenials.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A private anxiety requires your own attention so handle it without confiding in others. Forget romantic nonsense for now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) New conditions arise where an important personal matter is concerned, so use your own good judgment for best results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your business affairs are not working out as you wish, use another plan to improve them. Strive for increased happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Converse with one who can give valuable information you need. Show increased devotion to loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use a more direct approach to gain your objectives. Loved one may be in peculiar mood now, but be patient.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Strive for increased harmony with associates. One who opposes you needs careful handling. Don't be emotional.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may not be as efficient as usual now but study the reasons why and good results should follow. Be wise.

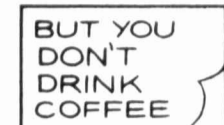

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Instead of criticizing others, use your charm and get better results. Show appreciation to loved friends.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will have to be handled with a certain amount of restraint and the right kind of discipline. There is a fine personality in this chart that could do well in alleviating the suffering of others. Religious training is a must.

The Stars impel, they do not compel — What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Bell wants to time, charge for local phone calls

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell wants to time your local calls and send you a monthly bill calculated on when you made the calls, how far across town they went and how long they lasted.

"Measured service is the environment needed for the future," Paul Roth, Southwestern Bell vice president for revenues, testified Monday.

Roth was the first witness in Bell's request for a $469.8 rate increase. The Public Utility Commission hearing could last six weeks.

Bell wants 87 percent of the increase to come from local service increases, with $5.45 tacked onto monthly residential bills and up to $14.40 on business bills. The company wants to offer measured service as an option to the increased flat-rate charges for local service.

The PUC staff said Monday that Bell's package leans too heavily on local service. The staff favors a rate increase of $248.1 million, and said some of it should come from increases in long distance tolls.

The staff plan would raise local rates by $2.40 per month. Intrastate long distance rates — except for calls shorter than 30 miles — would go up by 5 percent, adding about $42 million in revenues for Bell.

Bell opposes increases in long distance charges because of increasing competition in the field. As the company paints the picture, its new competitors are forcing higher local rates. Roth said the profitable long-distance business traditionally has subsidized local service. The competition means Bell must keep long-distance rates down.

He said Bell studies indicate it costs the company an average of $24 per customer a month to provide local service — far above the monthly bills.

"What I see is a trend that requires that flat-rate service increase substantially," he said.

When flat rates approach the actual cost of the service, Roth said customers will want an option. Measured service is the option Bell is pushing.

"We feel that measured service is the concept that makes sense for the future," he said.

"Customers who use the equipment more — 'cost-causers' — should pay more," he said.

Roth testified that Bell has no plans to eliminate flat-rate service, although it could rise to prohibitive levels for many customers. However, the phone giant does want to do away with flat-rate service — at any cost — for businesses.

"Ultimately, we would like to have an all-measured environment for business," he said.

Bell's rate hike package, the largest in PUC history, includes the first step in measured service. Customers who choose measured service would pay 4 cents for the first minute of a call shorter than 15 miles. Additional minutes would cost a penny each.

For calls of 16-30 miles, the first minute would cost 5 cents, with 2 cents per additional minute.

Calls of 31 miles or more would cost 6 cents the first minute, and 3 cents for each additional minute.

There would, however, be a ceiling on the monthly measured-service bill. It could not exceed $5 more than the monthly flat-rate charge for residential customers.

The PUC staff Monday endorsed the measured-service plan, with a few modifications.

The Texas Consumers Association, which favors no hike for Bell, pointed out "there would be no ceiling on business phone charges (nor any guarantee that there would be a ceiling on residential charges next year)." Local measured service could have an adverse effect on MCI and other long-distance phone companies. Customers of those companies must call a local number on Bell equipment in order to make their long distance calls.

TCA said the measured service idea is a plan to cash in on increasing dependence on telephones.

"You can pay your bills by phone, shop by phone, and, with the advent of home computers, do even more by phone. The phone company plans to be ready to charge you every time you use the phone," a TCA release said.

TCA President Jim Hightower said Southwestern Bell officials should "cinch up their belts" instead of asking for more money. "They could cut back on the millions of dollars they spend for their television and newspaper ads, for these silly, self-serving inserts they put in our monthly bills... and for some of their lobbying expenses in Austin and Washington..." Hightower said.

He said Bell takes $27,000 a year from rates it collects in Texas to pay for club memberships "so Bell's top brass can sip martinis at places like the Dallas County Club, the Headliners Club in Austin, and the Petroleum Club of Houston."

Bell spokesman Dale Johnson said the cost of the club memberships is not passed on to customers.

Roth defended advertising as necessary to sell products and services that help keep local rates down.

Blue bell is fighting for 'Cookies 'n Cream'

HOUSTON (AP) — A small Texas ice cream company that has sued one of the giants of the industry has lost its first round in a tug-of-war over the product name "Cookies 'n Cream."

The lawsuit, filed Monday in federal court, is a preliminary injunction asking Borden's from using the name on its ice cream.

Blue Bells' suit alleging trademark infringement accuses Borden's of a premeditated effort to siphon off the good will and reputation Blue Bell has built up in its own product.

Blue Bell's attorneys said Borden's only recently began marketing a "Cookies 'n Cream," while Blue Bell has had its product on the market since 1978.

In denying the injunction, U.S. District Judge Norman

W. Black said although both products in question are called "Cookies 'n Cream," it is not likely customers would confuse them.

Attorneys for Borden's argued that the name "Cookies 'n Cream" is not used as a trademark, but simply describes the contents of the product.
