'The folks at City Hall'

Feazelle never slows down

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

To hear Assistant City Manager Paul Feazelle describe his work day, you'd think he's the kind of guy who hops on a Honda 750 at 5 p.m. each day and roars homeward across the West Texas plains.

Feazelle, 29, does in fact ride a Honda 750 — a brand new one. It's the fourth motorcycle the number two man in City Hall has owned.

"It's not a loud hot-rod — but it's big enough to cruise on the highway," he says.

On or off the bike, Feazelle seems to maintain his cruising speed.

"We never slow down," he says of his colleagues at City Hall. "You know how hard it is to see (City Manager) Don (Davis). We keep that pace up for ten, eleven months a year. It may slow down for a while, but we get busy again pretty quickly."

Feazelle has worked for the city nearly seven years, half of that time spent at his present post and half spent as director of housing and community development. He was fresh out of Angelo State University in San Angelo, armed with a bachelor's degree in business administration, when he landed a job with the city of Big Spring.

He was a natural for city management.

"My dad was city manager for 21 years in Crosbyton and city manager for 19 years in Brady," Feazelle recalls. "So I had been around this sort of work all my life."

He wasn't sure a city post might be in his future until "about two months before I graduated" in 1974. It had been odd jobs up until then, and it looked as if Feazelle would become a grocery clerk until he spotted an announcement on the ASU bulletin board. There was an opening for an administrative assistant in Big Spring City Hall. Feazelle applied, won the post and soon was made housing and community development director. He was promoted to his current job about three years later.

As assistant city manager, "I'm the link between the public works and parks departments and the city manager," he explains.

It sounds simple until you realize the public works and parks departments are responsible for more than a dozen functions: zoning, traffic, streets, sanitation, general maintenance and the city garage on the public works side, and parks, cemetery, golf course, tennis center, community center, Moss Lake and municipal pool on the parks side.

Having to keep on top of projects in such a diverse array of affairs means Paul Feazelle may not always be at his desk when you seek him.

"I may spend eight hours a day in the office. Or, depending on the various projects we have going, I may spend up to six hours a day in the field," says Feazelle.

At times, he's not unlike the utility man in baseball, called upon to handle a variety of positions during a season.

"Sometimes I'll work on things that pertain to the city as a whole rather than any specific department," he says.

Feazelle serves as a liaison for the city council and the departments he oversees. At the same time he conveys council policies to the departments charged with carrying out those policies, he relays to the council the recommendations of the committees and commissions that take the first step in formulating the city's public works and parks policies.

His post "may go up or down" in the City Hall hierarchy if City Manager Don Davis carries through with a suggestion that he'll make some organizational changes after the retirement of Utilities Director Bill Brown in October. Brown's replacement (or replacements) may assume some of Feazelle's duties — or Feazelle might incorporate some responsibilities currently held by Brown.

In the meantime, Feazelle cruises along, struggling to "keep an eye" on all the projects within his domain. Like many public servants, when asked what the head-

Assistant City Manager Paul Feazelle

This is the second part of a series entitled "The folks at City Hall." Yesterday we focused on City Manager Don Davis; today's profile will cover the people who run Big Spring: who they are, what their duties are, the pressures they face running their departments, how they relax at home. The series will run daily in your Herald for about the next week.

aches of his job are, he can narrow them down to a single, specific complaint.

"I feel like I don't have the time to spend on every operation. With this many questions (going on), it's all I can do just to keep up with them," Feazelle says, more out of wonder than exasperation.

He seems to truly enjoy serving the public and that may be why he doesn't grumble when asked to describe the headaches of his job.

"I like serving the public. It makes me feel good when I can satisfy a citizen's complaint," he says.

Do we have a future politician here?

Feazelle frowns and doesn't have to think long on his answer to that one.

"It's not a full-paying job," he says of politics. "That's the main reason I haven't given it consideration. I'd have to have a job in the private sector to keep me going."

With no other career plans in sight, it's a safe bet that Feazelle will remain in public service — true to the family tradition.

How does this dedicated public servant relax after work?

"I don't like to watch TV much — I like to get out and move around. I like to ride my motorcycle. You might see him playing racquetball at the YMCA or you might see him jogging along the top of Scenic Mountain — often with Don Davis.

He and his son Jimmy, 7, are certain they've found a home in Big Spring.

"For the first two or three years after I moved here I used to call Brady 'home,' but I've passed that point and I call Big Spring 'home' now.

"Some of the best people in Texas are here. They're good old down-home West Texas folks," he says.

If you were going to compile a list of those folks, you'd have to include "Easy Rider" Paul Feazelle.

1 million mourn two slain Iranian leaders

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Chanting "Death to America," an estimated 1 million mourners jammed the streets of Tehran today for the funeral of Iran's president and prime minister, killed by foes of Iran's Moslem fundamentalist regime, reports from Iran said.

Striking at the heart of the clergy-led government for the second time in two months, dissidents exploded a powerful bomb Sunday afternoon that killed President Mohammad Ali Rajai and Prime Minister Mohammad Javad Bahonar.

Rajai had been president for 27 days. Bahonar was prime minister for 25.

Mourners also demanded death for ousted President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr as the funeral procession wound through the streets of the capital, carrying the bodies of Rajai and Bahonar from the Majlis, or Parliament, where they had lain in state, to the Behesht Zahra Cemetery on the outskirts of the city, the official Pars news agency said.

Addressing the crowd outside the Parliament, estimated by a Majlis spokesman to number about 1 million, a member of Parliament from the Tehran district, Hojatoleslam Sadegh Khalkhali, blamed the explosion on Bani-Sadr and his leftist supporters in the Mujahedeen Khalq, Iran's largest underground group.

The Tehran newspaper Kayhan said Rajai, 48, and Bahonar, 47, were burned beyond recognition by the incendiary that set fire to the prime minister's office. It said the bodies were identified Sunday night through dental records.

Earlier, a spokesman for Iran's revolutionary patriarch, Ayatollah

Ruhollah Khomeini, reported by telephone from the Iranian capital that Rajai and Bahonar died in a Tehran hospital of burns and smoke inhalation suffered in the blast and fire.

"It was to be expected," said Bani-Sadr, Rajai's ousted predecessor and now an exile in France. "It was themselves who prepared their deaths. They suppressed all freedom. Those who created the state of violence are the victims of their action."

The New York Times said Bani-Sadr had recently been telling journalists in Paris that the Iranian government would fall if five men died. Rajai and Bahonar were at the top of his list, the Times said.

Khomeini's spokesman, who asked not to be named, said five other people were killed and 15 were injured in the blast and fire.

Blast injures Americans at West German air base

RAMSTEIN AIR FORCE BASE, West Germany (AP) — An explosion rocked the headquarters of the U.S. and NATO air commands today, wounding 20 Americans and West Germans, officials reported.

West German authorities said it appeared to be the work of terrorists who planted a bomb beneath an automobile. The blast came against a background of mounting anti-American sentiment among some Germans because of U.S. defense policies.

Two injured Americans were in serious but stable condition at the U.S. Army hospital in Landstuhl, where they were evacuated by helicopter, U.S. Air Force officials said.

Five other Air Force personnel and two West Germans were hospitalized but their conditions were not serious, the Air Force said.

The explosion occurred shortly after 7 a.m. local time and apparently came from an automobile parked in a lot in front of the adjacent headquarters buildings of the U.S. Air Force Europe and of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization air command, West German police said.

Witnesses said the bomb, which went off as the first stream of civilians and military personnel were reporting for work, shattered car windshields and blew out windows and interior walls in nearby buildings.

"Thank the Lord the explosion occurred before most people reported for work or we would have had a lot more injuries," an Air Force spokesman said. He said damage was extensive.

A spokesman at the West German Federal Criminal Office in nearby Karlsruhe told The Associated Press that German authorities believe the explosion was the work of terrorists, but he gave no further details. No group claimed responsibility.

A rifle-toting soldier guards the Ramstein Air Force Base in West Germany after a bomb exploded under a parked car there early this morning, injuring 20 Americans and West Germans. Police suspect terrorists of planting the bomb.

Local phone rates face increase

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

If Southwestern Bell's proposed rate hike of $469.8 million is passed in the next few weeks by the Public Utilities Commission, Big Spring phone users could find local charges for residential and business lines rising to nearly double the present rate.

Jay Allen, Southwestern Bell director of public relations in Midland, said the monthly increase in Big Spring would be from the present $5.70 to $11.15 for residential rates and from $14.45 to $28.45 for business lines.

Allen said the reason for the hike is that local phone service currently is not priced to cover costs the phone company incurs.

"Right now local service is being subsidized partly by long distance charges and other service charges. We have to raise the rates for local service so we won't have to increase our long distance rates," Allen said.

Allen explained that Bell is not asking for an increase in long distance rates. He said that if Bell raised long distance rates it could not afford to compete with other companies such as MCI and ITT.

"Long distance rates are fine just as they are, but we have to stop borrowing funds from our long distance revenues to pay for local service. The balance just isn't healthy," said Allen.

Allen said if rates are raised for local service, then long distance charges possibly would be lowered.

The Public Utilities Commission has recommended that Bell receive only $249.3 million — which translates into a $2.40 a month increase in residential rates.

When asked what Bell would do if it See Phone, page 2A, col 1

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Sparrows eyed

Q. We have a very large population of sparrows roosting in the two Redbud trees on our patio. Is there any way we can rid ourselves of these unwelcome guests?

Needless to say, we are unable to enjoy the patio!

A. Try whitewashing the patio. Or: wear large straw hats. Seriously, we think you should fake 'em out. Sparrows and hawks don't take to each other; same with sparrows and crows. You could buy a record of hawk or crow sounds and play it very loudly whenever you see the sparrows heading for your trees.

Still another option: scare them off with snakes. Can't find real snakes? Use two-foot sections of black or green garden hose and hang these from the branches.

On second thought, we like the idea of whitewashing the patio — you need only do this once. Who wants to go dangling hoses from the trees every time friends drop by?

Austin bonds rejected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Mayor Carole McClellan says it's time for the city to tighten its belt after voters turned thumbs down on $135 million of a $186.4 million capital improvement bond proposal.

Eleven of 16 propositions were rejected in voting Saturday. Only 16 percent of the city's registered voters turned out.

An environmental group, the Zilker Park Posse, had urged rejection of electric utility, water and sewer bonds that it said would promote further real estate development of outlying areas. Those bonds were defeated, but the $15 million in park bonds that the Posse endorsed also went down.

Voters approved only bonds for streets and drainage, emergency medical services, sanitary landfill, traffic signals and a fire station.

Ms. McClellan, who did not support the bond package because it omitted money for lignite fuel purchases, said the election results were a message that "people are having to tighten their belts at home and they feel it's time the city did the same."

Chase cuts prime rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Chase Manhattan Bank lowered its prime lending rate by one-half of a percentage point to 20 percent today, breaking ranks with the rest of the banking industry and sparking new hopes for a sustained decline in interest rates.

The move marked the first change in the prime rate since July 8, and analysts said they expected other major banks to follow Chase's lead. Chase is the third-largest bank in the nation.

Chase's action followed a better-than-expected money supply report by the Federal Reserve Board on Friday. The Federal Reserve said the basic measure of the money supply had declined $3.7 billion in the third week of August.

Some economists said that decline would allow the Federal Reserve to provide additional reserves to the banking network, paving the way for further drops in interest rates.

The prime rate is the interest banks charge on most short-term loans to top-rated commercial borrowers. Smaller businesses generally are charged at least 1 percentage point above the prime. The prime rate does not apply to consumer loans.

Blast danger over

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) — Officials say they expect a rail tanker car containing chemical chlorophene to burn for another two or three days after a train derailment triggered an explosion and fire east of this small South Texas town.

Law enforcement and fire officials were still investigating the Missouri Pacific freight train derailment that sparked fires in five tank cars at 5:35 a.m. Sunday. A Department of Public Safety spokesman said several cars were still burning Sunday night but that most of the 20 people who live nearby had returned to their homes.

They were evacuated after the derailment.

A car containing polyurethane exploded at 8:50 a.m., but no injuries were reported. Matagorda County sheriff's deputies said. Permission for residents to return was given at 11:30 a.m.

The DPS spokesman said ammonia, anhydrous ammonia and sodium hydroxide were contained in other tank cars, but that the volatile anhydrous ammonia was not threatened by fire.

DPS Trooper Bob Seiferman said chlorophene was in one of the burning cars. Officers said it may continue to burn for three days.

Fifteen freight cars were involved in the derailment near the Brazoria and Matagorda county line. Officials set up roadblocks along Hasema and Allenhurst roads near the derailment to allow the fires to burn out.

No toxic vapors were produced by the fires, officials said. The nearest home is one mile from the derailment.

Authorities said at least some of the cars were owned by Dow Chemical Co. of Houston.

received only half of the proposed increase. Aiken replied: "Well, the system won't collapse overnight, but somewhere down the line local service will begin to suffer. It may be eight or ten years away, but it will come."

"Bell is trying to keep up with inflation, technology and other expenses, just like any other business would."

The Texas Consumer Association, a critic of Bell, says the company is unfairly heaping costs on the residential consumer. The TCA believes Bell is raising prices only on those services where customers have no choice.

The Public Utilities Commission currently is debating the proposal and news reports say several weeks may pass before any decision is made.

Welcome to the Homestead

Joe and Claudia Speckels have changed the name of the Ramada Inn. It's now called the Homestead Inn, evoking days of stage coaches and a soft, soft mattress at the end of a hard and dusty ride. The new sign for the inn was installed late last week. The Speckels bought the inn in 1979 and are no longer affiliated with the Ramada chain.

New laws passed by Texans

Eighteen-year-olds will find they cannot legally drink beer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans find out this week a lot of what the 1981 Legislature did for them and to them.

Many of the law changes made by the regular 140-day session take effect today and others on Tuesday, the start of the state's new business year.

Most of them will touch on the personal and business life of Texans.

Examples:

- Eighteen-year-olds will find they cannot legally drink a beer until 19.
- State Police looking for drugs will be allowed to plant wiretaps in homes and businesses.
- Public schools must make instruction conform to 12 general areas laid down by the Legislature.
- You won't be able to hire a farm worker to use a hoe with a handle less than four feet in length.

Some of the 902 bills passed by the regular legislative session have already become effective, but most of them had to wait until 90 days after the end of the session.

Some of the 30 bills passed by the recent special session will not become effective until Nov. 10.

The two sessions also proposed 10 changes in the state Constitution, which do not become effective until, and unless, approved by voters. Seven of these propositions will be on the Nov. 3 general election ballot and the others on the 1982 general election ballot.

One of the bills passed by the 1981 Legislature that will affect almost all Texans, mandatory auto liability insurance, is technically effective Monday, but motorists will not be required to obey the law until Jan. 1, 1982.

After that, failure to maintain minimum liability insurance on a motor vehicle will be punishable on first offense by fines up to $200 and for convictions after that of fines up to $1,000 and 180 days in jail. Anyone convicted also would have his driver's license and motor vehicle registration suspended unless he filed a certificate with the Department of Public Safety for five years showing he is carrying liability insurance.

Two other controversial measures passed by the recent Legislature and effective this week are tied up in court action.

A law which would ban commercial fishing for redfish and speckled trout is being challenged in a Brownsville federal court.

And a law calling for bilingual education from kindergarten to the eighth grade — where there are enough students without English proficiency — begins when public schools open. However, it could be affected by the outcome of a federal court order, which is being appealed, that calls for bilingual education through the 12th grade.

Here are some other important laws that become effective today or Tuesday:

- One that allow higher interest rates on life insurance loans but applies only to new policies, not to old ones.
- A law allowing recorded or videotaped confessions if the suspect is advised beforehand.
- Another that sets up a system of intermediate criminal appeals by expanding the jurisdiction of courts of appeals to include criminal appeals. There's a requirement of 26 new judges of courts of appeals.
- A law that big game hunters of bail bondsmen to provide they cannot write bonds for more than 10 times the security provided.
- New penalties for drug trafficking including fines up to $1 million for organized dealers.
- Prohibitions affecting the sale of delivery of paraphernalia used in drug abuse.
- Increased penalties for aggravated rape and sexual abuse of a child.
- A law that allows state highway department to contract with Department of Corrections for convict help in road building.
- A law that allows Department of Corrections to recommend selected prisoners for release on work furloughs in halfway houses.
- A law creating a 15-member advisory committee to issue guidelines for conduct of public officials.
- A requirement that tightens political campaign reporting.
- A change that requires that only lobbyists who spend $200 a quarter have to register.
- Electronic deposit of state employee paychecks.
- A prohibition preventing cities from annexing state submerged lands more than one mile into golf or bays.
- Legalized manufacture and sale of medical grade DMSO to treat arthritis and other ailments on doctor's prescription.
- Authorization of a state study of veterans exposed to Agent Orange and other chemical defoliants.
- A prohibition of deductions from state employees' pay, including dues check-offs, unless approved by Legislature.
- Hazardous duty pay for law enforcement officers.

Stenholm Funday to attract Demos

A meeting of the 30th Senatorial District has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Sept. 12 at the Cliff House Restaurant in Stamford, according to Mack Underwood, president of the Democratic Club in Big Spring.

Congressman Charles Stenholm will attend the gathering and discuss issues that face Congress at the present time, said Underwood.

Stenholm is presently coordinator of the much publicized Conservative Democratic Forum and serves on the House Agricultural Committee and the Small Business Committee. Stenholm and his family are home visiting the 17th Congressional District.

Underwood added that the Howard County Democrats met Thursday in Comanche Trail Park for a watermelon feast and a good time was had by all. Future events were discussed and several new candidates were considered for club membership.

Tickets for the Third Annual Funday Festivities are $10.00 each and can be purchased by contacting the Stenholm for Congress Committee Office, P.O. Box 1032, Stamford, Texas, 79553. In case of bad weather activities will be held indoors at the Ericksdahl Lutheran Church.

FAMILY MAN — Congressman Charles Stenholm takes time from his busy schedule to pose with his family in front of the White House. Stenholm and his family have returned to Texas to visit with friends and supporters from the 33 counties 17th Congressional District. ## Police Beat

Cash stolen from room

Jerry Appleton of Abilene complained to local police that sometime Monday morning someone known to him stole $1,670 in cash from his room at the Mayo Ranch Motel, 1202 E. 3rd.

According to police, an 18-year-old woman was arrested in the police station at 4 a.m. Sunday for possession of under two ounces of marijuana. Police said a routine search revealed the pot.

Police said Edward Mora Ontiveroz, 25, was assaulted in jail at 9:30 a.m. Sunday by another prisoner being held in the same cell as he, the victim was taken to Cowper Hospital where he was treated and released into police custody.

Robert Aguilar and Gloria Aguilar, both of 1615 Canary, were arrested Sunday for making alcohol available to a minor. Police said they encountered the subjects Sunday at 9 p.m. in a car in the city park making beer available to three minors.

Morrison Donaghe, manager of Super Save Grocery at 212 N. Gregg, complained to police that at 9 p.m. Sunday someone unknown to him broke a glass door worth $165 at the store.

Herbert H. Ward, an employee of the Bowlarama at 700 E. 13th, told police that at midnight Sunday someone stole $0 from the lanes' cash register.

According to police, the Cuatro Copas Lounge at 1009 W. 8th, was broken into. Entrance was made on the west side above an air conditioner and the exit was made through a south side window broken by a pool cue, police said. It was not known this morning if anything was taken. The break-in was discovered Sunday.

Court costs increase

New court costs went into effect today, according to Margaret Ray, Howard County clerk. The court cost changes were approved by the legislature this year.

Effective today, the civil court deposit is $60 for one defendant and $20 for each additional defendant.

The probate court deposit is $49 for one person and $20 additional for personal service for one person.

For criminal court cost, with no bond, cost is $67. With bond, it is $71.

House Bill 196, approved by the legislature this year, will go into effect Jan. 1, 1982, and states that a deed executed after Dec. 31 shall contain a mailing address of each grantee appearing on the document, or in a separate instrument signed by a grantor or grantee and attached to the document.

House Bill 196 states that any deed which does not have the mailing address of each grantee may be filed for record only after the payment of a penalty filing fee. Penalty is greater of either twice the statutory filing fee, or the sum of $25.

Senate Bill 102, which becomes effective today, states that the new fee schedule for filing assumed names certificates are $2 for filing, plus fee of 50 cents for each name to be indexed.

Record-breaking rally

DALLAS (AP) — State law doused the Rev. Alton Garrison's burning desire, so he devised a new way to rid the world of rock music records.

The evangelist, who has presided at rock music bonfires nationwide, now plans a record-breaking rally.

He searched in vain for a Texas city that would allow open burning, but Texas air pollution laws extinguished his plans each time.

So now Garrison is exhorting teen-agers to be prepared to use their fists to destroy their offensive records on Oct. 10 rally at a high school in Hurst, a suburb of Fort Worth.

Although the state laws do permit ceremonial bonfires, an Environmental Protection Agency spokesman says records do not qualify.

"Records are made of plastics, and plastics are made of hydrocarbons. If you burn them, they give off a real black smoke," said EPA engineer Glenn Draper.

Man arrested on theft warrant

Joe L. Stanhope, 17, of 1206 Mesquite, was arrested Sunday night on a theft warrant.

He was arrested in the sheriff's office. A $1,000 bond was posted by Varner Stanhope and Stanhope was released.

Wallace Terry Viasana, 26, of 604 Abramson, was arrested by Howard County sheriff's deputies Saturday on a warrant issued for burglary of a habitation.

Viasana is being held in county jail. No bond had been set this morning.

Deaths

D.M. McKinney preceded in death by his husband.

Drury M. McKinney, a longtime resident of Big Spring, passed away at his home in Hawkins at 4:30 p.m. Sunday after a long illness.

Graveside services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Pecan Grove Cemetery in McKinney. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Turrentine-Jackson-Merrel Funeral Home in McKinney.

Interment will be in the Pecan Grove Cemetery in McKinney.

Former sheriff to run against Bullock

By JACKIE CALMES
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Defeated last year in his bid to remain Travis County's Democratic "sheriff" who shoots straight," Raymond Frank has become a Republican and all but announced his challenge to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

"If I go after any office, that will be the one," Frank said Thursday from his home high in the West Austin hills.

Bullock, who was unopposed in 1978 for a second term as the state's top taxman, announced last November he would seek a third four-year stint. At the time, apparently eyeing Frank, Bullock said he was announcing early "to give all county-level politicians who may have toyed with the idea of running a chance to make up their minds."

So far, no opponent has surfaced. Several, including Democratic Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene, are dropping hints.

Jones, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, spent eight years in the Texas House before moving to the Senate.

"I think he's vulnerable," Frank said of Bullock, though declining to specify what the issues of his campaign would be.

Bullock was unavailable for comment but his chief deputy, Harlan Lisnow, said, "We're not too concerned with his (Frank's) filing."

Frank has filed a designation of campaign treasurer, which is necessary before a candidate can collect funds, with the secretary of state's office. He said he has collected some money, "but nothing to write home about."

He said Republicans have told him that the cost of defeating Bullock could reach $2 million. Support from the GOP, Frank said, probably will depend on "whether or not they think this race is winnable."

Frank, stressing that he has not made up his mind, sat in a dining room littered with state budgets, audits, tax primers, Texas political histories — and blue-and-beige brochures pushing his candidacy.

His campaign treasurer, son Raymond Edward, 25, was in Kansas City at a Republican seminar for would-be campaign managers. The elder Frank said his son earlier this month "graduated" from a campaign-finance "school" conducted in Houston by the National Conservative Foundation.

The foundation is affiliated with the National Conservative Political Action Committee, commonly known by its acronym NCPAC and pronounced Nick-pack. NCPAC was born in 1980 and takes credit for defeating numerous Democrats, including U.S. senators.

Frank, 56, retired from the Air Force as a lieutenant colonel and first ran for Travis County sheriff in 1972. Self-promoted as "the sheriff who shoots straight," he campaigned in favor of reducing possession of marijuana to a misdemeanor and for allowing nude swimming in Austin-area waters.

After serving a second term, he was decisively defeated in the 1980 Democratic primary.

Saying he has no regrets about the liberal planks in his former campaign platform, Frank said he has always been a conservative. As for his party switch, he said, "The Democratic Party left me; I didn't leave it."

Frank said he will run a positive campaign but he hinted at dark secrets about the controversial Bullock. In turn, Bullock aide Lisnow suggested Frank also would come in for some mud-slinging.

"He'll probably have Frank Smith as his campaign manager," Lisnow said. Smith, a former Austin bail bondsman, was convicted of a 1976 robbery in which one man was killed. Because Smith had two previous felony convictions, he received a life sentence under Texas' habitual-criminal statute.

Frank was a friend of Smith's but never was implicated in the robbery.

College costs to spiral, survey shows

NEW YORK (AP) — Students face a record jump in college costs this school year, says a survey released today by the College Board.

The increases follow a decade of relative price calm, when tuition and other expenses were increasing more slowly than the national inflation rate, said Joe Paul Case of the College Scholarship Service, the board's financial aid division.

Tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies and transportation and personal expenses will go up 13 percent to an average $6,885 at private four-year schools, the survey said.

At public four-year colleges, the survey said, student costs will rise 14 percent to $3,873.

The survey of 1,160 four-year universities and colleges has been taken each year since 1970 by the College Scholarship Service.

Case said the increases, with President Reagan's cuts in student loans, "indicates that many parents and students will be asked to cover more of the bill than in the past."

Case said the sudden increases have been delayed because "colleges have worked hard at keeping costs down as well as generating new incomes (and) have been particularly successful during the past five years when inflation was unrelenting."

"For example, colleges have deferred maintenance on buildings, implemented energy savings programs, limited salary increases for faculty and administration, deferred purchase of new equipment and diversified curriculum offerings to attract new clientele such as adult students."

But Case said the board expects prices to rise less sharply in the 1982-83 school year because "college costs mirror fluctuations in the economy a year or so after they appear in the prices of consumer goods and services as measured by the Consumer Price Index."

The survey found Bennington College in Vermont leading the way as the nation's most expensive college, with a year of fees at $12,030.

Rich get Ultra, the poor get junk mail

HOUSTON (AP) — If you're a Cosmopolitan Playboy or Playgirl with Money or a Fortune, here's a new magazine to tell you how to get your Moneyworth in these Changing Times.

The publication — Ultra — features the good, the good times only the very rich can afford.

The magazine won't appear at newsstands and there is no price on the cover, because it's for free — sort of.

Ultra costs at least $150,000 to subscribe, says publisher Carter Rochelle. Or rather, Rochelle explains, it's mailed at no charge to a carefully selected group of Texans whose average annual incomes are roughly $150,000.

So far, Ultra is being sent to about 70,000 affluent Texans whose names were gleaned from country club rosters and social registers

Flooding reported in South Texas town

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) — Heavy thunderstorms dumped almost ten inches of rain in about four hours early today, forcing the evacuation of 12 families in this South Texas town, flooding roads and stalling cars, police said.

An 18-wheel truck was almost completely submerged under a shallow underpass near Karnes City, according to Andrea Swartout, a Department of Public Safety dispatcher in Austin.

"Just the very top — the cab — of the 18-wheeler is visible," she said. "At least one car is underwater, and they're still checking for others. Several people are stranded at this time, and phones are out."

No injuries or damages have been reported, and Ms. Swartout said it was assumed the truck driver had crawled out of the cab.

"The electricity is out all over Karnes City," said a Bee County Sheriff Department dispatcher, who asked not to be identified. "There's no communication. We're just picking people up and they're just leaving their cars."

The families who were evacuated reside in the Elmwood Division on the east side of Seguin, which is about 30 miles east of San Antonio.

"The 12 families live right along Geronimo Creek and the water is getting right up to their houses now," said Patrolman Shawn Moore, of the Seguin Police Department. "We're expecting the creek to crest sometime early this morning."

All have gone to stay with nearby relatives, he said.

"Those families are forced out about every time it rains like this," Moore said. "Some of them are just getting settled back in from the heavy rains in June."

Heavy rains deluged South Texas on Memorial Day, causing heavy damage to Austin and claiming more than ten lives.

WEATHER FORECAST — WEST TEXAS: Fair and warm to hot today. Scattered showers and thunderstorms developing Panhandle tonight gradually spreading southward tonight and Tuesday. Cooler north Tuesday. # Social security--a time bomb

For a long time now, the Social Security Bill has been a political time bomb waiting to explode.

As Congress reconvenes nine days from now, social security will be one of the hot potatoes tossed back and forth between the Reagan Administration and Democrats.

Democrats think this is an issue where Reagan can get burned. And they could be right. Most of the social security revisions proposed by Reagan are considered too extreme by most persons. Reagan's worst blunder was proposing that early retirement benefits for those nearing age 62 be cut more than 30 percent.

That proposed cut was too much, too fast. It does not give people nearing retirement age time to adjust their long-held plans.

We do agree that some cuts in early retirement benefits are necessary. But we think the cuts should be less drastic, and they should be phased in gradually.

One thing that everyone should remember, however, is that social security was never intended to be more than a supplement to other sources of retirement income.

It was designed to augment personal savings and other pensions.

To many Americans, however, the concept of social security has changed from a retirement supplement to a complete retirement package.

Also, when social security was first designed, the average life expectancy of Americans was 61 years, about 12 years less than it is today. Original assumptions are no longer valid.

As the years passed, many additions were made to social security: survivors benefits, disability benefits, early retirement, and Medicare. The main drawback to this is—there's more money going out than is coming in.

So, the problems are complex, and defusing the time bomb is a delicate task that will require courage, steadiness and stamina.

Whatever solution is reached, let us hope that it will involve true statesmanship and that it will not deteriorate into a game of political expediency drawn along party lines.

On military sales to Mideast

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — In the Middle East, military sales provide walking-around money. President Reagan has to sell AWACS surveillance planes to Saudi Arabia in order to maintain working relations with an important friend. For similar reasons, the President had to end the embargo on shipment for fighter planes to Israel.

But neither Israel nor Saudi Arabia has recently been acting in ways that serve the American interest in peace. Thus the AWACS decision, like the lifting of the plane embargo, announces that the Reagan Administration has not yet found a workable policy for the Middle East.

Israel's transgressions are naked. Deliveries of F-16s were suspended in June after the Israelis used American weapons to take out an Iraqi nuclear facility. The ban was maintained in July after retaliatory raids against Palestinian installations in Lebanon killed hundreds of persons in Beirut. Though Israel subsequently agreed to a "cease-fire" with Lebanon, Prime Minister Menachem Begin continues his threats to take out the ground-to-air missiles which the Syrians brought into Lebanon several months ago.

Thus the suspension of plane deliveries did not work to impose moderation on Mr. Begin. It only gave him a new grievance. It tended to unite all Israelis behind his policies. So a necessary prelude to any progress in the talks with Begin set to open in Washington on September 9 was the lifting of the embargo.

The recent Saudi record is more ambiguous. The government of Prince Fahd did play a constructive role in easing tensions between Syria and Lebanon, and then in bringing the Palestinian Liberation Organization to accept the cease-fire worked out between Lebanon and Israel.

The natural followup was to nudge the PLO toward a position on Israel that would open the way for concessions from Jerusalem to the Palestinians. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt made a heroic move in that direction.

During his visit to the U.S. in early August, he abandoned his usual tactic of disparaging the Saudis as "goat-herders" and likening the Palestinians to "dwarfs." Instead he said that the "leadership of the Palestinian movement has begun to assume responsibility."

He praised Saudi Arabia "for a constructive role in this development." At a White House dinner on August 5, he called for "mutual and simultaneous recognition between the Israelis and the Palestinians." His hope was that the Saudis would push the PLO toward acceptance of Israel.

The Saudis let him down with a vengeance. On August 7—in an interview clearly arranged as a comment on the Sadat initiative—Prince Fahd announced an 8-point program for the Middle East. The centerpiece was establishment of "an independent Palestinian state with Jerusalem as its capital." Fahd said nothing about PLO acceptance of Israel's right to exist. He called on the Reagan Administration to repudiate the "Camp David Accords, whose failure has been proven."

Sadat could barely contain his fury. He practically spat out the name "Prince Fahd" on the Meet the Press program of August 9. "Prince Fahd," he said, "did not add anything new. I should like to see Prince Fahd making a contribution. I should like to see him share and contribute rather than adopting the old ways which I ... reject."

Selling AWACS, in these conditions, is not just a neutral military move. Like the lifting of the ban on shipment of military planes to Israel, it amounts to a reward for bad behavior. That the President had no good alternative in either case only demonstrates how much the Administration has trapped itself in the Middle East.

The way out of the trap is to put aside the notion of achieving a "strategic consensus" that would align all the states in the area with the U.S. and against the Soviet Union. Unfortunately, the "strategic consensus" has proved unattainable. There is no roundabout way to peace in the Middle East. The nettle has to be grasped directly.

The Camp David Accords have to be the starting point. The obvious next step has to center around Palestinian autonomy.

OKAY, BUDDY, SUCK IN YOUR GUT...

Oil theft a serious problem

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary James Watt has appointed a special commission to investigate the theft of oil from wells and storage facilities on Indian lands, as well as the general problem of royalty collection on government-owned oil wells.

It was a step in the right direction. Interior Department survey reports indicate that the theft problem may be a lot more serious than has been acknowledged officially.

Until recently, Interior officials have been reluctant to admit there even was much of a theft problem, despite numerous General Accounting Office reports dating back nearly 30 years, which indicated that the collection process was slipshod.

And the amount of money involved is substantial. Last year, total royalties from oil and gas produced on federal and Indian lands came to $2.7 billion. Oil prices have now been decontrolled completely, and if Secretary Watt's plans to open up more federal land to drilling are approved, the royalties are expected to rise to nearly $23 billion a year by 1990.

This makes it all the more important to strengthen the royalty collection system and to prevent theft, obviously. Uncle Sam gets no royalties on stolen petroleum.

Records of the U.S. Geological Survey contain evidence of 13 actual or suspected thefts in the period between October 1980 and last April. For example, 1,743 barrels of oil or natural gas condensate were either stolen or lost in the Rock Springs, Wyo., drilling district alone.

Other thefts — or unexplained losses — were indicated at Bakersfield, Calif. (422 barrels) and Farmington, N.M. (66 barrels).

Leading the number of violations during the October-April period were the Casper and Newcastle districts in Wyoming, with a combined total of 675 noncompliance instances out of 3,809 wells inspected.

Another USGS document shows that between October 1980 and last June 15, a total of 38,000 well inspections had been made. The federal inspectors reported 4,453 instances of non-compliance with government regulations.

The bulk of these compliance failures involved trouble with seals and valves. "We're looking for broken seals," a veteran USGS official told my associate Tony Capaccio. He explained that broken or missing seals, and valves that have been tampered with, are persuasive evidence that thefts may have occurred.

The Interior Department claims that the theft problem wasn't brought to its attention until the late 1970s. But internal memos from inspectors in the field warned of the problem at least as far back as 1972 — and offered documented evidence of theft.

One glaring weakness in the royalty system has been pointed out by investigators for Rep. Ben Rosenthal, D-N.Y.: The Geological Survey relies almost entirely on production and sales data provided by the oil and gas companies to compute royalties that are owed to the government. To check on these foxy guardians of the taxpayers' oil-producing chicken coops, the USGS audited only 5 percent of its leases last year.

More and better audits would undoubtedly make it tougher on oil thieves, the congressional investigators concluded.

WHISTLEBLOWERS PUNISHED: Last year, acting on complaints by Capt. Eugene Essex, then-Sgt. Paul Sample and others, the Air Force investigated the handling of nuclear weapons at Whiteman Air Force Base near Kansas City. The Air Force investigators found that there were indeed problems.

The problems included a mistargeted missile, cheating on proficiency tests, misuse of classified codes and instances of launch crewmen leaving alarm circuit breakers open so they could nap on duty. In short, the charges constituted a serious indictment of our missile crews' professionalism — and the Air Force investigators concluded that the charges were true.

Air Force brass hats claim the deficiencies were taken care of; but Essex and Sample told my reporter Eileen O'Connor a different story.

They say the problems at Whiteman AFB haven't been cleared up, and furthermore that they were harassed for blowing and whistle.

— After they alerted their superiors to the dangerous inadequacies at Whiteman, the whistleblowers were threatened with mental evaluations; those they accused were not.

— The whistleblowers had excellent performance ratings before they testified; afterward, they were given bad ratings and unfavorable letters in their personnel files.

— The whistleblowers were assigned to work under the very officers they had accused — and who had been found to be responsible for the problems originally.

Rep. Ike Skelton, D-Mo., has promised to investigate these allegations. He said he will also address himself to the overall problem of the military's shortage of qualified manpower — a problem the Air Force brass stoutly denies the existence of in the missile branch.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Pentagon has been told not to go hog-wild on spending its multibillion-dollar budget increase. But old habits die hard. At Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., for example, a costly renovation is being planned — for the bowling alley and snack bar. Though most of the money will come from the bowling alley's own earnings, the taxpayers could get stuck with as much as $250,000 of the bill.

Around the rim Strike 3, you're out

Bob Carpenter

This has certainly been the year of the strike. We've experienced strikes in baseball players, coal miners, Polish shipbuilders and, of course, there is the continuing saga of the air traffic controllers.

The air controllers' ongoing situation is a sad thing to watch. The PATCO union thought its people were indispensable and convinced the controllers to go to bat for the organization. However, the controllers struck out quickly, victims of their own union's indulgence and President Reagan's strong stance on what he believes to be a violation of the law.

THE CONTROLLERS exhibited courage by banding together and walking out, but the union's demands made them look greedy and like fat cats gouging more money and benefits out of an already cushiony situation.

The selfish union made a good target for the Reagan Administration and it sacrificed the controllers to prove Ronald Reagan really was cutting back spending and trying to reform government services. Reagan and the transportation department replaced the absent controllers rather neatly and since air traffic never stopped the controllers had nothing with which to bargain. The average person has not been affected by the strike and thus no real sympathy for the air controllers has developed.

Most people think the air controllers are getting what they deserve and Reagan is looking very good by standing up to the union. PATCO isn't doing much besides shaking its fist at the Reagan Administration and railing against unsafe airways.

Meanwhile, the striking air traffic controllers are out of their jobs and wondering what hit them. The whole situation points out how the individual can be forgotten and trampled by both the union and management. The union worker loses his humanness and is often paddled back and forth like a ping pong ball between union officials and management. It becomes a contest for the two factions to see how much they can push each other around and the worker gets squeezed in the middle.

THE PATCO UNION could have pushed for newer technological advancements to help with air traffic and reduce fatigue instead of insisting on chunks of money and more time off. Reagan could have given the controllers more time to consider their position and offered them more understanding concerning the emotional hazards encountered in their jobs. Each side was too intent on itself and forgot that the situation was simply about people trying to do a job and get proper compensation for it.

It is disheartening to see individuals pay for the selfishness of a union that let itself get carried away by self-importance. The union is supposed to be for the worker, but all too often the worker becomes a pawn on a game-board and is moved and sacrificed as the two players see fit.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I committed my life to Jesus Christ some months ago, but now I wonder if I really meant it. I think I may have done it just to try to get rid of my loneliness, instead of out of a real desire to serve Christ. How can I know I am sincere? — T.A.

DEAR T.A.: It may be that God used your feeling of loneliness to show you your need of Christ and bring you to the point of committing your life to him. You should not feel guilty over this, as if somehow you made your commitment to Christ insincere. The important thing is what Jesus Christ means to you right now, and whether or not you are sincerely trusting him alone for your salvation.

You should remember that God deals with each one of us as individuals. He knows our needs, and he can use them to bring us to himself. Some people may come to Christ because they have great feelings of guilt over things they have done in the past that they know are wrong in God's eyes.

Others may come to Christ because they are drifting in life with no sense of purpose or direction. Still others accept Christ because they are afraid of the future, both in this life and in eternity. God can use each of these as the "door" by which Christ enters our lives.

The wonderful thing is that Jesus Christ is able to meet us at the point of our need, and he is able to deal with those things which concern us most. He alone is able to offer us forgiveness, because he alone has provided the way for us to be forgiven by God because of his death on the cross.

He alone is able to give us true purpose in life, because he loves us and has a plan for our lives when we come to him by faith. Only Christ can take away the fear of death and the future. And in like manner, he is able to help you with your loneliness because "God has said, 'Never will I leave you; never will I forsake you'" (Hebrews 13:5).

The important thing for you now is to grow in your relationship with Christ. Keep your eyes on him, and let him begin to mold you into the person he wants you to be.

Their friend has case of shingles

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: We are a women's club. One member has shingles. She is a lovely person, but there is some concern about whether this is transferable. We want to be compassionate, but must take care of avoiding spread to others. We'd feel so much more at ease and would appreciate knowing more about shingles. We've read that it is a herpes disease. Is it connected with the herpes virus — the genital type? — Mrs. J.

As long as there is fluid in the skin of blisters of shingles, the blister contains virus and has the potential for spread. However, it would be spread only to those who have never had previous contact with the virus, which is the same one that causes chickenpox. Most adults have been exposed previously, so are immune to catching shingles from someone who has it. When the skin blisters are crusted over, the virus is no longer present, so contact would be harmless. Shingles blisters reach this stage in about three to seven days. But even prior to this stage, the chances of catching the shingles virus from this woman are very, very slim.

Once one has been infected with the chickenpox virus, it stays in that person's body forever. In later life the virus may break out of hiding and cause shingles eruption. In short, shingles comes from an infection the person had years ago. Except for the shingles virus is Herpes ZOSTER. It is not the same virus that causes cold sores or genital infections. This is the Herpes SIMPLEX virus. The two viruses are distant cousins. Even though spread of shingles is rare, the person should take basic precaution during the liquid blister stage. I am sure your club member has long passed that stage and that not a single club member has caught her shingles. Because of the extreme persistent pain shingles can leave, your member needs all the compassion she can get.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Did you ever hear or know of a person having a protrusion in the roof of the mouth. It looks like a growth and it is hard. I don't see how a person (a friend of mine) could wear dentures with a growth in the roof of her mouth as big as a thumb. Her doctor says lots of people have it. Do you know what it is called? What can or should be done for it? — S.C.M.

I think you are talking about a torus palatinus. It's a benign growth in the middle of the roof of the mouth. It is usually not seen until after puberty. It is common. About 25 percent of women and 15 percent of men have this. However, it is not usually as large as your friend's. It can be removed surgically if it causes problems, such as an inability to wear dentures. For most, it is left alone.

Shingles can be a painful disease! For a copy of the booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Handling of obscene phone calls

NEW YORK, N.Y. — It's late at night, and your phone rings. You answer and someone in a raspy voice makes a vulgar suggestion. Though you may be stunned, your next reaction may be to give him an earful of angry remarks. Save your breath. Talking back is exactly the reaction the caller was hoping for, explains James R. Pettit, a district manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in a recent issue of Seventeen Magazine. "Don't let the caller know he's gotten to you. Most people who make obscene phone calls are seeking an audience to shock. If you don't provide one, their call has lost its purpose."

Mr. Pettit offers the following additional tips for handling these unwanted calls: Don't be afraid. Normally, these calls are made at random and the caller does not know who you are. Don't make any conversation, and hang up quickly and gently. Slamming down the receiver will only show your true feelings. If the phone should ring again, don't answer it.

However Bad the Bargain, God Never Goes on Strike

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you ran a poem titled "If God Should Go on Strike." It deserves a rerun, and I can't think of a better time to do it. Sign me...
DISGUSTED IN L.A.

DEAR DISGUSTED: You are only one of many to request a rerun. Here's the poem:

IF GOD SHOULD GO ON STRIKE
How good it is that God above has never gone on strike,
Because He was not treated fair in things He didn't like,
If only once He'd given up and said, "That's it, I'm through!"
"I've had enough of those on earth, so this is what I'll do:
"I'll give my orders to the sun — cut off the heat supply!
"And to the moon — give no more light, and run the oceans dry.
"Then just to make things really tough and put the pressure on,
"Turn off the vital oxygen till every breath is gone!"
You know, He would be justified, if fairness was the game,
For no one has been more abused or met with more disdain,
Than God, and yet He carries on, supplying you and me,
With all the favors of His grace, and everything for free.
Men say they want a better deal, and so on strike they go,
But what a deal we've given God to whom all things we owe.
We don't care whom we hurt to gain the things we like;

But what a mess we'd all be in, if God should go on strike.
Anon.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my boss showed me a picture of an elegant sofa in a current magazine, and said if I could guess the price of it within $200 he would give me the $200. (He had seen this sofa in a Beverly Hills store.)
When I guessed $2800, he looked at me as though he'd been shot. He said the price of the sofa was $3,000, but he refused to give me the $200, saying that my guess was just $1 low!
According to my calculation, $2800 is within $200 of $3,000. Please answer in your column. If I am wrong, I will throw in the towel and be a good sport.

DEAR ABBY: You asked why electric bulbs don't last as long as they used to. An electric light bulb can be made to last forever. It depends on the size, shape and filament.
The bulb in the back room of my 72-year-old hardware store has been burning continually since 1912! By coincidence, only yesterday I received a letter from the Guinness Book of World Records people informing me that in their next edition my bulb will be entered as the most durable bulb in the world, replacing one that had been burning in Livermore, Calif., since 1901, but is now non-existent.

Dental visit is advised

Many of us are winding down summertime activities and getting ready for the stepped-up pace of Fall. It's also a good time to make those extra leisure moments really count. Something you can do to really help yourself is make a date for a checkup at the dentist.

If your dentist is like most modern dentists today, he will not only examine your teeth and gums carefully but will also give you constructive advice and instruction in how to care for them. "It's what we do day after day that determines largely the state of our dental health," says Dr. Howard Marshall, a New York periodontist and author of the new book "How to Save Your Teeth — The Preventive Approach." "Many of the conditions that occur as a result of harmful plaque, a colorless layer of bacteria that can damage and destroy teeth and bone support, are preventable — using our present knowledge about saving teeth. If spotted early enough, most conditions that cause problems can be arrested or reversed before they do permanent damage."

We've come a long way in the last 10 years in understanding the techniques of how to save teeth through preventive methods. Applying these techniques, children can grow up today having minimal cavities — and people in their twenties and onwards can live their lives without loss of teeth.

Prevention starts with regular dental care and brushing with a fluoride dentifrice. To be effective, however, a total oral hygiene program calls for flossing to remove decaying food and bacterial plaque between the teeth and just under the gumline. Only dental floss can slide easily in tight areas to remove trapped plaque and food particles that you can't even feel. And, there is an added satisfaction to flossing; it gives the cleanest, freshest mouth you ever experienced.

Your dentist can explain the importance of flossing to avoid plaque buildup which can cause gum disease. The majority of adults have it. One of the interesting facts about gum disease is that it's often painless. But don't let that fool you. The signs to watch for are gums that are swollen, receding, sometimes bleed when brushing — or slightly loose teeth. Very often it takes only a daily regimen of good brushing and flossing to eliminate gum problems. To floss, wrap about 18 inches of floss around your middle fingers. Using thumb and index fingers, guide the floss gently between the teeth. Curve floss into a C-shape around each tooth and using an up and down motion, scrape the sides of the teeth.

Women firefighters in Buffalo Gap operate under a 75-year-old mayor as fire chief

By ERNIE HOOD
Fourth Worth Star-Telegram
BUFFALO GAP, Texas (AP) — Women come running from every direction every time the fire siren sounds in this West Texas community 15 miles south of Abilene.

Typical reactions: Kay Sayles drops her pen and pencil and forgets about balancing the books at the Deutschlander Garten restaurant.

Peggy Lowe dashes out the front door of The Barbecue Barn where she is a supervisor.

Shirley Roberson, who may be in the middle of weighing meat at Stuart's Grocery, leaves her customers standing at the butcher counter.

Housewives leave their front or back doors open and run for the fire station.

Within minutes, 10 or more women have donned fire helmets and red overalls and are on their way to the fire.

It's all understandable in the fact that they operate what they believe to be the only all-woman fire department in Texas — the Buffalo Gap Volunteer Fire Department — protecting a community of about 400 people.

Their equipment includes a 1941 Ford truck that carries an 850-gallon water tank and 200 feet of hose, and a 1953 Ford truck that carries a similar 850-gallon tank and about 800 feet of hose.

The 1941 Ford is used principally in fighting brush and grass fires and fires on railroad rights of way. The larger unit is generally on standby for use in fighting fires in town.

Buffalo Gap Mayor Glenn Johnson, 75, who also serves as fire chief, dons his "cowboy stetson" and puts on a fire helmet to direct the women at the scene.

He admits that as they progress, they may get themselves a new female chief, "because I'm supposed to be mayor."

Johnson started training the women last September when it became apparent that most of the men of Buffalo Gap were working in Abilene during the day.

The mayor said the volunteer unit may soon qualify for grants for the purchase of newer surplus government equipment.

Even though Buffalo Gap is assured of protection by the Abilene Fire Department, through an arrangement with Taylor County Commissioners, "it takes the Abilene firemen 15 minutes or so to get out here, so a real hot fire could get completely out of control before they arrived," Johnson said.

Since their organization, the women have fought 10 or more grass and brush fires with a "great deal of success," says the mayor, who has served as fire chief since the town was incorporated in 1960. Most of the fires were out or under control before Abilene firefighters arrived, he said.

Johnson said his first task in training the women was to teach them to remember the location of 21 fire hydrants in Buffalo Gap. Then he taught them how to turn on the valves that start the two pumping units on the fire trucks; how to drive the fire trucks; how to hook up hoses from the hydrants to the pumps, and how to handle hoses at the scene of the fire.

Now fully trained in all aspects of fire department operations, Mrs. Sayles, one of the first of the women to enroll, is sold on the training she received.

"Fire safety is something everyone needs to know," she said. "Actually, it's nothing more than the proper way to use a garden hose."

Women of the town responded immediately when the call went out from City Hall for volunteers last September, "because we all recognized that we needed to do something to protect our town until help could get here or our men came home from work."

Johnson praised the women for their firefighting expertise and for "the neat way they pick up the hoses, roll them up and put them back on the hose racks after a fire."

His pride was manifest as he pointed out they put out two grass fires just last week — one just south of the Buffalo Gap Steak House and the other near the Deutschlander Garten.

"They got them out before they got to be big fires," he said.

The mayor-fire chief said Mix pineapple and orange for refreshing soda

Perhaps you shouldn't mix apples and orange in logic but you can team pineapples and oranges in a wonderful soda. Combine two tablespoons each crushed pineapple in unsweetened juice with frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, and a scoop of ice cream in a 12-ounce glass. Gradually add one-half cup ginger ale, stirring to combine. Top with another scoop of vanilla ice cream. Add more ginger ale, if needed, to fill glass. Serve at once. (Yield: 1 soda).

Solanin in green potatoes is poisonous says specialist

Green potatoes? — DO NOT EAT. They could poison you, warns Dr. Cass Ryan-Crowe — a food and nutrition specialist.

Ryan-Crowe is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Don't eat the green spots on potatoes, either, she cautions. Be sure to trim them away.

These spot areas, usually found around the sprout formation sections of potatoes, contain solanin — which, even in small amounts, is poisonous, the specialist explains.

Solanin will cause stomach pains, diarrhea, vomiting, and, in large doses, paralysis and even death, she says.

his next chore will be to expose the firefighters to basic first aid training, and maybe get them to elect a new chief from their own ranks.

Marital disagreements call for cooperation, compromise

Marriage is a cooperative — not competitive — endeavor, reminds Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist.

When disagreements arise, the aim is not to settle who's right or wrong, but to reach a solution both spouses can live with, the specialist points out.

Then marriage becomes a self-satisfying relationship for both partners, she adds. Taylor is part of the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Bill Rogers stays hot

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Bill Rogers knew exactly what he faced standing on the 18th tee in the World Series of Golf.

The gallery tipped him that Tom Kite had missed an opportunity to take the sole lead.

"I heard their reaction. I knew Tom didn't make birdie," Rogers said. "Now I had my chance. I hit a very good tee shot. I couldn't have put my 5-iron approach in better position."

"I had a 15-foot, slightly downhill putt with a little left to right break. If you had to pick a putt to win a tournament, that would be it."

Rogers, drawing on the experience he gained from a second-place tie in the U.S. Open and a victory in the British Open this year, calmly sank the putt for a 3-under-par 67 Sunday, a total of 5-under 275 and a fat payday of $100,000.

He beat Kite by a single shot, and the runnerup was not surprised.

"I figured he would make the birdie," said Kite, who watched Rogers putt. "He's awful good. He played very well this week. You've got to hand it to him."

It was not an altogether disappointing week for Kite. He earned $55,000 with a finish of 67-276 and took over the Vardon

Trophy lead with a low-stroke average of 70.01 this year.

For Hale Irwin, the leader or co-leader after all of the first three rounds, it was a demoralizing finish. He slipped to a 72 and a total of 278, tied for third place with Japan's Isao Aoki. They earned $27,850 apiece. Aoki shot 67.

Irwin three-putted 17 to fall two strokes behind and leave the race to Rogers and Kite.

For Rogers, it must seem like a dream. The 29-year-old Texan has vaulted into the PGA Player of the Year race. He ranks sixth on the money list with $270,411 behind Ray Floyd's leading $346,385. He has won three times, capturing the Heritage Tournament before the British Open and the World Series.

Rogers started the day at Firestone Country Club two shots behind Irwin, but charged into a share of the lead with Kite on the 13th hole. Rogers dropped a 35-foot birdie putt, while Irwin was bogeying the hole with three putts from 35 feet.

"I got my chance at 13," the champion said. "That's where I broke through. Hale certainly was the one we were trying to catch all day. He kind of let it get away down the stretch."

Shoemaker rides winner in Arlington million

CHICAGO (AP) — They couldn't have devised a more dramatic ending to the richest thoroughbred horse race ever held had they taken its $1 million purse and hired the best script writers money could buy.

John Henry, America's grass horse champion last year, and Bill Shoemaker, the nation's most famous jockey, came out of the pack Sunday to edge The Bart, a 40-1 shot, in a photo finish in the inaugural running of the Arlington Million.

"It was probably the greatest race I've ever ridden in," said Shoemaker, who at 50 and has piloted more than 8,000 winners. "And not only because I won it. It was a great finish between two great horses and it was a great field. The trainer (Ron McAnally) did a great job."

John Henry actually has two trainers — McAnally when he campaigns in California and Victor (Lefty) Nickerson when the gelding races in New York.

"I've never had a horse like that," McAnally said. "He's in another league. Both the soft turf and the outside post position were a concern because a horse tends to tire on soft going."

"Lefty and I went into the jockey room before the race and looked up the charts for races run on the Arlington grass the last few weeks," said McAnally. "We learned few won on the lead. So I wasn't too concerned when he was fifth or sixth on the backside."

Shoemaker's only concern was the distance to the finish line.

"I knew I had enough horse," he said. "I just hoped I had enough ground."

John Henry started at the extreme outside post position in the field of 12 on a grass course softened by week long rains.

"At the beginning I was wide and had to drop outside," said Shoemaker. "I thought that I might have trouble but I had a real good trip on the inside. Halfway down the backside I knew that if I didn't have trouble this horse would run a big race."

John Henry was timed in 2:07.35 and added a whopping $600,000 to hike his earnings to $2,464,510 and move into second place on the all-time list. Spectacular Bid's $2,781,608 is the next target.

Millionaires increase rapidly on LPGA tour

DENVER (AP) — Women's professional golf, which gained its first $1 million player a month ago, now has three.

Kathy Carner and Donna Caponi joined Kathy Whitworth Sunday at the Columbine Country Club as LPGA players who have earned $1 million in official prize money in their careers.

Carner did it in grand style, winning the $150,000 Columbia Savings Classic with a final-round of 1-under-par 71 and a two-stroke margin over Whitworth and two others. Caponi finished far back in the field, but she needed only $479 to reach the coveted $1 million plateau and was virtually assured of achieving it by making the cut.

Whitworth, the all-time leading money-winner on the women's tour, made sure both newcomers to the select circle were properly welcomed by ordering up champagne. She had the clubhouse stocked with bubbly for Caponi, who completed her round ahead of the others, and Whitworth was able to toast personally the victorious Carner on the 18th green.

Although Carner had vowed to tear apart the course this week, she never really did — and her competitors can be thankful she was so merciful.

The steady Carner, who never lost sight of the lead in the final round despite feeling the effects of 90-degree temperatures, finished with a 72-hole total of 10-under-par 278.

Whitworth, who had a 67 Sunday, was joined at 280 by Patty Sheehan, who appears to have the 1981 Rookie of the Year award locked up, and Janet Alex, who recorded the best finish of her four-year career. Sheehan shot 69 and Alex 68 on the final day. Judy Rankin, Jan Stephenson and Beth Daniel were another shot back at 281.

"I never did tear it apart like Lopez (Nancy Lopez-Melton) did, but I always felt like I was going to," said Carner. "The final round I just kept telling myself, 'Don't make mistakes, the birdies will come.' And I kept birdieing just often enough."

Lopez-Melton, returning to form after a shoulder injury, fired the best round of the tournament, a course-record 8-under-par 64. But she was too far off the lead beginning Sunday's round, and finished four shots behind Carner at 282.

Steers "game" practice begins

With two weeks of practice behind them, the Big Spring Steers football team can work this week with a more evident goal in mind, as they prep to open their season Friday night when they host the Snyder Tigers.

The Steers warmed up on Friday night, when they scrimmaged Lamesa. In the game type part of that affair, the Steer offense shined, scoring four times on long distance drives. Lamesa scored twice in the session, once on a six-yard drive following an interception, and the other on a lengthy run.

Big Spring Coach Ralph Harris stated Saturday after viewing the films that there were certain things that the Steers would concentrate on this week, but the biggest task will be the Snyder team.

The Steers, with Harris in his first game on the new job last fall, rallied for a 14-13 triumph over the Tigers.

Areas that the Steer coaching staff will emphasize this week include the kicking game, to continue to improve the physical condition, getting the mind ready for the season opener, and to see things better defensively.

"It's not that we weren't hitting out there in the scrimmage," Harris explained. "But we didn't see things like we should, and therefore couldn't react properly and were out of position too often."

The Steers should be in top shape for the Snyder game. Tony Kennedy, a tight end and linebacker, was held out of the Lamesa bout in order to be ready for the real thing Friday night. And running back linebacker Danny Stephens experienced leg problems in the scrimmage, but should be ready.

Flag Football meeting set

Inquiries are still being taken into the Fall Football League, announced Chamber of Commerce P.R. specialist Mark Sheedy.

The league will be formed if five to six teams can be organized, according to Sheedy. A meeting to discuss that possibility, as well as some of the guidelines, has been set for Thursday, September 3 at the Chamber of Commerce meeting room.

Astros reactivate JR Richard

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pitcher J.R. Richard, who faced long odds of even leading a normal life after falling to the Astrodom turf with a near-fatal stroke, takes another step Tuesday toward his dream — to pitch again in the major leagues.

Richard, one of the most feared pitchers in the majors before his life-threatening stroke last July 30, will be reactivated Tuesday, the Astros announced Sunday during a game against Philadelphia.

The Astros also said they would re-activate troubled first baseman Mike Ivie, who had been on the team's disabled list while recovering from mental exhaustion.

Neither Richard nor Ivie was available for comment on the team's announcement.

Choosing his words carefully, manager Bill Virdon said Richards could pitch as soon as Tuesday against the New York Mets.

"He's ready to be activated and he said he'll go along with any decision we make," Virdon said. "I told him it just depends on what happens down the road. If the right circumstance arises, he may pitch Tuesday. If not, it could be Sept. 25."

Richard, who could not even feed himself before he started his recovery, reported to spring training on schedule last February and has improved steadily since then.

He pitched batting practice last Saturday, and his performance was instrumental in Virdon's decision to re-activate the strikeout artist.

"In this situation, we wanted to see if he had made any improvement and he has," Virdon said. "But we won't know how effective he's going to be until we get him on the mound in an actual game."

Astros finish sweep of Phillies

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros bullpen was just about out of gas when Jose Cruz guided the team to a safe landing.

Cruz's single with one out in the bottom of the tenth inning lifted the Astros to a 5-4 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday in the Astrodome.

Houston's relief pitchers were taxed by the exertions of a four-game sweep of the Phillies and Dave Smith was just about at his limit when Cruz's hit brought Craig Reynolds home with the victory.

"I was a little stiff from last night," Smith said. "I didn't have a lot of innings left in me. I knew I could go one or two."

Smith only had to go one and one-third innings to even his record at 3-3. He entered the game with two out and two runners on base in the top of the ninth and got out of that jam on a force out.

Reynolds singled to right to open the tenth and moved to second on Denny Walling's bunt before Cruz lifted a base hit over shortstop Luis Aguayo's head into left field.

The Astros climbed to 12-8 with the victory, entering a four-way tie for first place in the National League West with San Francisco, Atlanta, and Los Angeles.

The Astros' four straight wins over the Phillies marks the first time the club has taken four consecutive wins from Philadelphia since 1972.

Houston entertains the New York Mets for three games beginning Monday.

Finish with win over Redskins

Pats perfect in pre-season

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Football was so alien to Englishman John Smith when he first played it eight years ago that he "felt like a man from Mars."

The 32-year-old former soccer player, who kicked four field goals Sunday in the New England Patriots' 19-10 National Football League exhibition victory over the Washington Redskins, actually played in the first American football game he ever saw.

In 1974, his first pro season, he was the National Football League's fourth leading scorer. The past two years the left-footed booter of the has topped the NFL's scoring lists.

He concluded an outstanding pre-season Sunday with a 4-for-4 performance as the Pats overcame a 10-point deficit in the finale of the exhibition schedule.

In other games on the final weekend, Los Angeles beat Minnesota 34-31, Miami trounced Kansas City 31-7, Atlanta defeated Tampa Bay 27-7, Buffalo sacked San Diego 30-24 and Seattle overwhelmed Baltimore 31-17.

Also, Pittsburgh beat the New York Giants 31-6, Chicago jolted St. Louis 31-27, Denver edged past Cincinnati 24-20, the New York Jets beat Philadelphia 14-3, New Orleans edged Detroit 20-17 in overtime, Green Bay whipped Cleveland 35-18, Dallas overcame Houston 28-20 and Oakland beat San Francisco 21-7.

Smith had no problem getting rolling in the pre-season. He clicked on nine of 11 field goal attempts as the Pats compiled a 4-0 record.

Smith overcame a 10-0 deficit with field goals of 26, 20, 40 and 37 yards before Matt Cavanaugh passed five yards to Lin Dawson for the final score with 6:31 left in the game.

The Redskins, 3-1, had piled up 171 yards by the time Joe Washington's 5-yard run after Mark Moseley's 20-yard first quarter field goal had given them a 10-0 lead with 2:21 gone in the second quarter. They had only 74 yards after that.

"We played very poorly in the second half. We just didn't execute," said Coach Joe Gibbs, whose Redskins led 10-6 at halftime.

Royals fire manager

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals today announced Jim Frey has been fired as manager and former New York Yankees Manager Dick Howser named as his replacement.

Howser was to be introduced at a 1 p.m. news conference at the stadium.

"This was a very difficult decision for us to make, especially for me personally," said Joe Burke, Royals vice president and general manager. "Jim Frey is one of the most loyal, dedicated and hardworking individuals I have had the good fortune to be associated with in my long baseball career."

Unhappy Sparky Lyle might retire— now

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Texas Ranger Sparky Lyle says his lackluster pitching performance with the Philadelphia Phillies could lead to his retirement from baseball this week, a Dallas newspaper reports.

The frustrated relief hurler, who has been unable to record a single save in 30 appearances with Philadelphia this year, was quoted in The Dallas Morning News as saying, "The way it is right now, yeah, I could quit tomorrow, the next day or next week."

Lyle moved to the Phillies in mid-September and is 6-3 with a 4.70 ERA this season. But the 37-year-old pitcher says he's disheartened by his relief efforts and can no longer summon the talent that once earned him the Cy Young award.

Lyle's remarks were made while the Phillies were in Houston last week for a four-game stand against the Astros.

Phillies manager Dallas Green has put him a "save" situation only once all year, Lyle told the newspaper. This season, Lyle has been placed in middle inning or mop-up roles, leaving the tough situations to Tug McGraw and Ron Reed.

Lyle said the Rangers' Fergie Jenkins "and I have talked about players who stay in the game too long. When you lose it and you can't get people out any more, it's time to get out."

NFL will release info on Stabler soon

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League is investigating Houston Oiler quarterback Ken Stabler's association with a known gambler and will make a statement as soon as possible, NFL Executive Director Don Weiss said Sunday night.

According to a report in Sunday's editions of the New York Times, Stabler, one the NFL top signal callers, repeatedly associated with convicted bookmaker, Nicholas Dudich of Perth Amboy, N.J., in the late 1970s despite warnings from Oakland Raider officials.

"The investigation into the overall thing goes back a few weeks," said Weiss, who added the NFL had investigated Stabler previously. "The league had indications (of Stabler's association with the gambler) as far back as 1978."

Weiss said the indications had come from the Raiders, the team for whom Stabler played before being traded to the Houston Oilers in 1980.

Weiss said the NFL's security department is handling the investigation adding, "We are going to do this as expeditiously as possible."

Stabler, who retired just before the Oilers' pre-season camp opened only to re-sign last week, refused to comment about the allegations.

"If the media would leave me alone and let me play football everything would be all right," Stabler said Saturday night.

Dudich, when reached by The Times, said: "I went to some football games, that's all."

The Times story said inquiries with federal and local law enforcement officials, as well as with Raiders officials, disclosed that Stabler's association with Dudich began and grew during his last four seasons with the Raiders.

HEADLOCK — New England Patriots Tim Fox (48) gets a hold of Washington Redskins Joe Washington (25) to take him down during first half National Football League action Sunday afternoon at Scafeher Stadium in Foxboro, Mass. The Pats downed Washington 19-10.

Cubs biggest surprise in major leagues

The Chicago Cubs were the tarmest team in the National League before the baseball strike.

Suddenly the Cubs are acting like tigers.

"We just couldn't get a break," says rookie catcher Jody Davis. "Now we're getting a few."

They're also making their own breaks — as Davis did Sunday while collecting three singles and knocking in two runs as the suddenly revitalized Cubs beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-

NL Roundup

1. "It seems like the first half was a hundred years ago," said Chicago Manager Joe Amalfitano.

Before the strike, the Cubs had won only 15 of 52 games, the least amount of victories in major league baseball, and finished last in the National League East, 17½ games behind. Starting over with the split season, they're now only two games out of first place in the National League

East with an 11-9 record, tied for third with the New York Mets.

Meanwhile, the San Francisco Giants, Atlanta Braves and Houston Astros — three other teams benefitting from the split season — all continued to play well, too. The Giants beat Pittsburgh 5-0, the Braves edged Montreal 5-4 in 12 innings and the Astros stopped Philadelphia 5-4 in 10. In the other NL games, San Diego whipped St. Louis 9-6 and Cincinnati defeated New York 6-3.

The Cubs earned a split in their four-game series with the Dodgers despite relatively low run totals in the last two games. On Saturday night, they beat the first-half NL West champs 3-1.

"Who would've thought a club would've scored five runs in two games and win both games?" asked Dodger outfielder Dusty Baker.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Bill Buckner walked and Leon Durham singled. After Bobby Bonds hit into a double play, Davis singled home Buckner. In the sixth, Durham doubled and Davis knocked him in with a single.

Winner Doug Bird, 3-1, lost his shutout when Ron Cey led off the Dodger seventh with a triple and scored on Derrel Thomas' infield out. Dick Tidrow, earning his seventh save, took over in the eighth.

Dave Goltz, 2-2, took the loss.

Giants 5, Pirates 0

Right-hander Tom Griffin scattered six hits and Jack Clark belted a pair of doubles as San Francisco downed Pittsburgh for a sweep of their four-game series.

The sweep was the first this year for the Giants, who finished 10 games behind in the West in the First Season, and the Pirates reeled to their seventh consecutive loss. The victory moved the Giants into a first-place tie in the West with a 12-8 record.

Griffin, 7-6, worked out of trouble in the early innings while posting his third victory in four second-half decisions. He struck out seven and walked four.

Baseball no bargain

"Take me out to the ball game. Take me out to the crowd. Buy me some peanuts and Cracker Jacks..."

The strains of the old melody poured out of the transistor radio as Joe Philpot, after a hard day at the plant, was finishing off a plate of spaghetti and a few slices of garlic bread at the dinner table.

"Hey, that's a good idea," said Joe to his missus, Euphelia. "Why don't we take the kids to a ballgame this weekend. We haven't done it in a long time."

"Good," replied Euphelia. "I don't care much for baseball, but anything to get away from the house."

They decided on a Sunday game at the Stadium. The Royals were in town and it stacked up as a good one even though the Yankees were playing like beardless House of David.

Joe picked up the reserved seat tickets in advance ($5.50 each for a total of $22, no half-price for the kids). On Sunday the Philpots squeezed the kids — Bucky Boy, 10, and sister Thursalulu, 8, — into clean jeans and headed for the Bronx.

"No need to take the jalepy," said Joe. "Don't know where we'd park it."

So they took the Long Island Rail Road. In the eighth, Pop and Mom decided they ought to leave to avoid the subway crush. The kids didn't mind, as long as they could stop at the souvenir stand on the way out.

"Daddy, I want a tee shirt and a helmet," pleaded Bucky Boy. Tee shirt ($9) and helmet ($4.50). Thursalulu chose (two excursion same-day fares at $5.55 each and two half-fares for two children, total $16.65) to Penn Station from where they caught a subway to 161st Street in the Bronx (another $3.10).

The seats weren't half bad — section 18, row B, seats 25-through-28) in the lower grandstand between third base and left field. With good binoculars you could easily see Dave Winfield's No. 31.

The little family group had hardly got comfortable, well before Robert Merrill started belting "The Star Spangled Banner," when Bucky Boy suddenly discovered that the long trip had whetted his appetite.

"Pop, can I have a hot dog?"

"Sure," said Joe, signaling one of the vendors.

"Me, too, daddy," chorused little Thursalulu.

Two hot dogs ($1.25 each) they had to be washed down with soda pop (95 cents apiece). Joe and Euphelia opted for a couple of beers ($1.50 each). First pitstop, damage $7.40.

Then, more hot dogs, picture albums, souvenirs.

Back home, Joe and Euphelia took an audit. The day's baseball outing, sport's biggest family bargain: $97.45.

"Dad, can we go again next Sunday?" asked Bucky Boy.

"Don't know, son," said Joe, swallowing. "How about a nice movie?"

Seattle manager most embarrassed ever

By the Associated Press

For Seattle Manager Rene Lachemann, although his team scored 11 runs and collected 20 hits, it was possibly the worst day of his baseball career.

"I believe it's the biggest embarrassment I've had as a manager and maybe as a player," he said. "I take the blame. I made the changes and they didn't work out."

What made Lachemann want to put a sack over his head were the 13 runs the Cleveland Indians scored in their last two at-bats, including 10 in the eighth inning, as they outlasted Seattle 17-11 Sunday. To add salt to the wound, the Mariners were trying to break a nine-game losing streak.

Lachemann, who has seen his Mariners fall to a 7-13 record after being in first place with a 7-3 mark earlier in the second season, had a 10-minute meeting with his players after the game.

In other American League games, Oakland defeated Boston 5-3, California whipped Baltimore 7-1, New York tripped Chicago 5-1, Detroit beat Minnesota 6-1 and Milwaukee stopped Texas 6-2. Kansas at Toronto was rained out.

Rookie catcher Chris Bando, younger brother of veteran Sal Bando, knocked in four runs, including the go-ahead run in the eighth, to lead a 16-hit Cleveland attack against the Mariners.

The Indians scored three runs in the seventh, but the Mariners made it 11-7 in the eighth before things went haywire for them in the bottom of the inning.

Consecutive pinch-doubles by Duane Kuiper and Pat Kelly sparked the winning rally for the Indians, chasing reliever Dick Drago, the second of five Seattle pitchers.

Jack Morris, 10-4, held Minnesota to three hits for his first victory in four starts during the Second Season, and Detroit moved back into first place in the AL East while snapping a four-game losing streak.

Kirk Gibson and Lou Whitaker had three hits apiece for the Tigers, who lead Baltimore and Milwaukee by one-half game.

Brewers 6, Rangers 2

Pete Vuckovich joined Morris, Ken Forsch and Dennis Martinez as the AL's 10-game winners, scattering seven Texas hits over 81-3 innings.

Vuckovich, 10-3, who has won 10 of his last 11 decisions, was replaced in the ninth by Rollie Fingers, who registered his 19th save.

Ned Yost had a solo homer for Milwaukee, his third of the season but only the fifth hit of the year for the third-string catcher. Robin Yount had a two-run single to break a 2-2 tie in the fourth.

Yankees 5, White Sox 1

Rudy May improved his record to 5-8 with a five-hitter for New York against Chicago, which maintained a half-game lead over Kansas City, Oakland, California and Texas in the West despite the loss.

Larry Milbourne and Graig Nettles scored two runs apiece for the Yankees, which took a 3-0 in the first inning on a run-scoring single by Reggie Jackson, an RBI triple by Nettles and Dave Winfield's bunt hit.

A's 5, Red Sox 3

Oakland broke a four-game losing streak and a string of 10 straight defeats at Fenway Park with a three-homer performance against Boston.

Cliff Johnson hit a two-run homer in the third inning on a 3-2 pitch after arguing that a strike call was ball four. Mickey Klutts and Jeff Newman hit consecutive

Love on a 3-way street

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourth-seeded Jimmy Connors will kick off the U.S. Open tennis championships Tuesday when he takes on Britain's John Lloyd.

The centennial celebration of America's premiere tournament, starting with the 11 a.m. EDT match between Chris Evert Lloyd's former boyfriend and her husband, runs through Sept. 13.

Connors is the only three-time champion in the field, and the only one to win the open on all three surfaces it has been played: grass, clay and Deco-Turf II, a rubberized asphalt.

Top-seeded John McEnroe begins his quest for a third straight U.S. Open title Tuesday at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadows. McEnroe's first-round opponent is Juan Nunez of Chile.

Mrs. Lloyd, the women's top seed, also is defending the crown she won a year ago. She will play later in the week.

The advance sale of this year's extravaganza has passed 296,000 a record with five sessions sold out. Last year, 331,140 paid to watch the world's top players battle it out, a record that is almost assured of being broken.

Sweden's Bjorn Borg, who has won Wimbledon five times and the French Open six times, has never captured the title here, losing a thrilling five-set final to McEnroe last year. He's seeded second.

McEnroe, whose home is just a few miles from this facility in Queens, has been almost unbeatable here. But he lost a Davis Cup match to Czechoslovakia's Ivan Lendl in July, just six days after he beat Borg for the Wimbledon crown. Lendl is seeded third.

The top women who begin on the first day of play are No. 5 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia against Mary Lou Piatek, No. 9 Virginia Ruzici of Romania against Wendy White.

Boosters meet

The Big Spring Athletic Booster Club will meet Tuesday night at 6:30 in the BSHS cafeteria. All members and anyone else interested is urged to attend.

Braves move into first place tie

Braves 5, Expos 4

A throwing error by second baseman Rodney Scott with two outs in the 12th inning allowed Eddie Miller to race home with the winning run as Atlanta edged Montreal and snapped a five-game winning streak for the Expos.

The Braves had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the ninth on Claudell Washington's run-scoring single, but the Expos pulled into a 4-4 tie in the bottom of the inning on an RBI base hit by John Milner.

Gene Garber, 3-3, the third Atlanta pitcher, was the winner while Bill Lee, 2-3, took the loss.

The Braves, four games below .500 and 9½ games off the pace before the strike, pulled into a tie for first in the West with their victory.

Padres 9, Cardinals 6

Juan Bonilla and Luis Salazar scored three runs each and Ruppert Jones had three hits as San Diego snapped a seven-game losing streak. Padre reliever Gary Lucas, 4-7, pitched the final 2-1-3rd innings to get the victory.

"Today was not an instructional film on how to play baseball," said St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog. The Cardinals had three runners thrown out at the plate and committed three errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

"We played worse than they did. We did about everything today that you could do wrong," added Herzog.

Reds 6, Mets 3

Consecutive sixth-inning home runs by Dave Collins and Ken Griffey off reliever Dan Boliato helped Cincinnati beat New York.

Bell's foes question payments to AT&T

By JACKIE CALMES
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — As a member of American Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s family, Southwestern Bell Co. benefits from the communications titan's research, legal advice and patents on the latest technology.

But last week, in the opening of what is likely to be more than a six-week hearing on Bell's $469.8 million rate request, opposing attorneys questioned whether those benefits are worth their escalating costs to Texas rate-payers.

At issue, as in the 1980 Bell case at the Public Utility Commission, is a 50-year-old license contract that requires the 23 Bell companies nationwide to contribute a percentage of their annual revenues to parent AT&T. Southwestern Bell says its share is $56.3 million.

Bell's Russ Maddox testifies that customers get their money's worth and in fact save some since it would cost each company more to duplicate AT&T's efforts. And Bell Vice President Paul Roth says, "It makes no sense to reinvent the wheel each time."

But Abilene City Attorney Harvey Cargill, among others, questions whether Southwestern Bell would find it necessary to provide all the same services. They complain that Texans may be subsidizing projects for Bell customers in other states and for AT&T, including the parent's mammoth legal bills.

"The contract amounts to a blank check, say the Texas Municipal League and the commission staff, since neither Bell nor the company has any control over the projects or their costs."

"There is little incentive for AT&T to minimize costs as all costs are passed along to the operating telephone companies who seek relief from their respective regulatory boards," Sam Rhodes, a municipal league consultant, testified.

But Bell's Roth opposes suggestions that the companies be accountable to outside scrutiny. "These are expenses that we feel are proper. It's a management prerogative."

Drafted in 1930, the license contract calls for Bell companies to pay up to 2 1/2 percent of annual gross revenues to AT&T. However, until 1948 the subsidiaries paid 1 1/2 percent and, from 1948 to 1974, their contribution was reduced to 1 percent.

In 1974 — citing competitive pressures, government regulation and ever-advancing technology — AT&T began asking for the maximum. In the previous Southwestern Bell rate case, which was decided earlier this year, the commission held Bell to 1 1/2 percent — or $11.5 million less than the $19 million it wanted from ratepayers.

Oliver, Keys Cub graduates

Scott Oliver and Brady Keys graduated from Cub Pack 305 into Troop 5, both sponsored by the First Baptist Church, at ceremonies in the church activity building Tuesday.

Bill Bradford welcomed them on behalf of the troop. Scott is the son of Sharon Oliver and Brady the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Keys. The two boys, along with Eric Mays, Troy Simonek, Rex Tucker and Mark Richardson received Webelos color awards. Chris Pierce received his Bear award and was advanced to the Webelos den.

Cubmaster Glenn Pierce announced that boys (8-9-10) interested in becoming Cubs could meet pack representatives the evening of Sept. 10 at Marcy or College Heights schools.

There also will be a Cub leaders training session Oct. 12. The pack meeting date will be changed to 7 p.m. the fourth Thursday in the same place, he said.

'The Ugly Duckling' auditions open today

The Big Spring High School Theatre Department has slated the first production for the 1981-82 year, entitled "The Ugly Duckling."

Auditions for the play will be between 4:30 p.m. today, and Tuesday at the Big Spring High School auditorium.

The performance will be Oct. 3 at 1:30 p.m. in the amphitheatre. Anyone who is a student at Big Spring High School, and who is interested in acting or tech design, should contact Jimmy Smith in the theatre department.

Public hearing on taxes set

Members of the Howard County commissioners will hold a special meeting at 5:05 p.m. Tuesday to hold a public hearing on the proposed intent to increase taxes.

Prior to this, at 4:30 p.m., the commissioners will discuss a possible right-of-way for a Cosden pipeline, and hold a discussion for boiler repairs for the courthouse. The group will also discuss the figures of the Commissioner's court meeting of Aug. 24.

Tri-Hi-Y meet called Monday

An organizational meeting of Tri-Hi-Y is slated at 8 p.m. today at the YMCA. High school students are invited to attend, according to Tri-Hi-Y organizers.

Tri-Hi-Y is a youth and government organization. It consists of two major branches, legislative and judicial.

The legislative branch debates bills and makes resolutions for the making of laws. The action takes place in either the House of Representatives, or the Senate. The judicial branch functions in the court system. Attorney teams, judges, juries and witnesses are appointed for various activities.

And it was legal

Ex-Rep. Roberts used $13,214 in campaign funds to pay debts

States News Service

WASHINGTON — Former Rep. Ray Roberts, D-McKinney, used $13,214 in leftover campaign funds last year to pay off personal debts.

And it was legal.

Roberts was one of several retiring congressmen last year who took advantage of a clause in federal election law that allowed them to target unused campaign monies for personal use.

The Federal Election Commission in 1980 adopted a law which bans congressmen from putting campaign funds to personal use, except to defray "ordinary and necessary" expenses or to repay loans made by the candidate to that campaign.

But the law exempts congressmen who took office prior to Jan. 1980. Roberts was elected to Congress in 1962.

Upon announcing his retirement in 1979, Roberts transferred the $13,214 left in his campaign to his personal account.

The McKinney Democrat said he felt "no compunction" about taking the money because he said he had never been reimbursed for "well over $13,000" in personal loans made to his campaigns dating back to 1962, including $3,000 for the aborted 1982 race.

"My campaign people felt it (the unused funds) should be my money," Roberts said.

Ex-Rep. Roberts used $13,214 in campaign funds to pay debts

The former congressman said he used the funds to pay personal debts.

"It sure did come along at a time when I could really use it," Roberts said this week.

Roberts last year was one of the richest members of Congress, according to his 1982 financial disclosure statement. His holdings included a yacht, the Mermaid II, valued from $100,000 to $250,000. He also listed a capital gain of more than $100,000 from a real estate sale in Collin County.

An Internal Revenue Service spokesperson said that campaign funds put to personal use have to be declared as unearned income. Roberts said he declared the $13,014 on his 1982 income tax form.

The exemption in federal election law applies to members of the House and Senate, but internal Senate rules ban members from using excess funds for personal use.

Other former House members who transferred unused campaign funds to personal use are:

Mendel Davis (S.C., $45,047), Bill Moorhead (Pa., $2,787), Richard E. Ichord (Mo., $2,273), John Wylder (N.Y., $38,519), Edward Patten (N.J., $3,327) and Keith Sebelius (Kan., $14,000).

In addition, the FEC ruled last year that the widow of Rep. John Slack (D-W. Va.), who died in office, was entitled to $91,887 in leftover campaign funds.

Former Rep. Harley Staggers (D-W. Va.) returned $36,000 after opting not to seek re-election. His campaign statement includes 17 pages of refunded contributions.

"I thought it was the right thing to do," Staggers said in a recent interview. "Keeping the money would be under false pretenses. I wanted my conscience to be clear."

Witnesses deny slain man tried to run over deputy

HOUSTON (AP) — Two teen-agers who watched a Harris County sheriff's deputy shoot and kill a man driving a construction company truck contradicted the officer Sunday by saying the driver did not try to run over him.

"The deputy was standing by his own truck," said Curly Joseph, 15, one of two teen-agers standing on the porch of a house near where 27-year-old Randy Neal Milner was killed Saturday night. "They weren't that close together. He didn't shoot until the guy started driving away."

Joseph and Fronshelle Hodge, 14, said Milner did back up, but said he did not appear to be trying to run over Deputy Donald R. Ryan, 28, a two-year veteran of the sheriff's department.

Both teen-agers said Ryan was not, as he reported, forced to jump out of the way of the truck. They were interviewed by police Saturday night.

Police investigators said Ryan told them he was going to work in his private truck when he spotted Milner driving erratically along a freeway in a company truck about 10 p.m.

Police said Ryan told them he followed Milner for several blocks. Ryan said Milner eventually left the freeway and lost control of his truck at an intersection, police said.

There Ryan said he shot Milner after Milner tried to back over him. Investigators said Ryan told them he fired two shots from his .44-caliber service revolver. Milner was hit in the head by one of the shots.

He was pronounced dead at the scene where his truck crashed into a parked car about 50 yards from where the shooting took place.

Remp board picks Hobby as chairman

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby carefully refrained Sunday from saying whether the Legislative Redistricting Board should thumb its nose at Gov. Bill Clements by re-enacting a Senate redistricting map vetoed by the governor.

Hobby, who presides over the Senate, would say only that the board should draw Senate districts that are "fair and constitutional."

When asked if the districts approved by the 31 senators themselves were "fair and constitutional," the lieutenant governor replied only, "Yes."

Hobby said he was aware that Comptroller Bob Bullock, a member of the board, "has a number of alternate plans to propose. These plans certainly will be considered."

The five-member board elected Hobby its chairman Sunday in a pro forma meeting called to satisfy the Texas Constitution's requirement that it form within 90 days after the close of a regular legislative session.

The board will meet Thursday to set ground rules for public hearings.

Clements handed the Senate redistricting task to the all-Democratic board by vetoing the Senate's map. He said it did not provide a good opportunity for the election of a black state senator and denied adequate representation to the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The Senate redistricting plan would have paired two Republican senators from Dallas County, the governor's home. Sens. Dee Travis of Garland and John Leedom of Dallas were placed in the same senatorial district.

An alarm over burglars

By the Associated Press

How safe is your home? The FBI estimates that there are over two million residential burglaries every year, and Americans spend millions of dollars trying to thwart the thieves.

Neil Solomon, vice president of the technical services division of Guardsmark, Inc. of Memphis, Tenn., said sales of residential security devices totaled $610 million in 1978. By 1990, Solomon said, the market will more than quadruple — to $2.5 billion, according to estimates by Predicasts Inc., a Cleveland forecasting firm.

The best alarm cannot guard against things like unlocked windows or doors. "Carelessness by the occupant is a big cause of successful home burglary," said Solomon.
