County because I have friends there, but the board that drew up the reapportionment plan did so with malicious intent.

The Texas Supreme Court said that the main reason it ruled the proposal unconstitutional is because the plan unnecessarily splits county lines across the state.

Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring was reported to be vacationing in Mexico and was not available for comment.

The job of redrawing the House district now goes to the State Redistricting Board made up of House Speaker Bill Clayton, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Attorney General Mark White, Comptroller Bob Bullock, and State Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong.

Wife of hit man jailed on gun charge

HOUSTON (AP) — The wife of a man targeted as a suspect in the slaying of a federal judge has been arrested on a charge alleging she used a fictitious name to purchase a rifle 12 days before the assassination.

Jo Ann Starr Harrelson, 41, wife of convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson, was arrested here Tuesday just hours after she was indicted by a federal grand jury in Dallas.

Federal authorities have identified Harrelson, jailed here on unrelated state charges, as a key target of the massive investigation into the May 29, 1979, slaying of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Don Ervin, Harrelson's Houston attorney and Mrs. Harrelson's former lawyer, labeled the indictment a ploy by the FBI.

"I knew they would do something to try to get her over a barrel. ... They wanted her testimony and one way to get it is to put a case on her and start working on her," said Ervin.

Mrs. Harrelson was advised of her rights Tuesday by U.S. Magistrate H. Lingo Platter and then jailed in lieu of a $500,000 bond set by U.S. District Judge Sarah Hughes in Dallas.

She could be sentenced to 5 years in prison and fined $5,000 if convicted on the charge that alleges that on May 17, 1979, she "made a false and fictitious written statement and misrepresented her true identity to purchase a firearm, a Weatherby model V rifle, from an authorized dealer in Dallas."

Ballistic experts have said Wood was killed by a single .243-caliber bullet a rifleman fired from ambush outside the judge's San Antonio townhouse.

Hank Shultise, a spokesman for Weatherby in California, said although the Mark V uses .240-caliber bullets, it is perfectly capable of firing a .243-caliber bullet.

The FBI would not comment on whether they had the rifle or if agents believed it was the same weapon that killed Wood.

A spokesman for Hunter Bradlee, a Dallas sporting goods store, said FBI agents came into the store three weeks ago asking to see "all the forms on Weatherby guns."

Lee Spencer said the agents confiscated records of a May 17, 1979, purchase by someone identifying herself as Fay King.

He said the woman purchased the rifle, which sells for about $600, a scope and a box of .240 caliber ammunition.

Homer R. Howard, special agent in charge of the Houston FBI office, said the Mrs. Harrelson was indicted as part of a "major, ongoing investigation."

But Ervin said the indictment was the "latest move in a chess game" staged by federal agents.

Austin police wrap up Martin investigation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Charles Goff's story about shooting his cousin Rep. Mike Martin in a "controlled hit" has not been contradicted by any testimony grand jurors have heard, an investigator said.

Austin Police Lt. Pete Neal said Tuesday it "was a possibility" grand jurors would return a felony indictment in the case, and it would "more than likely" name only one defendant.

He said the indictment probably would stem from the investigation — not the shooting — indicating it could be a perjury charge.

Neal said Goff probably would not be charged in Travis county.

Grand jurors have looked at Martin's financial records, but Neal said, "I don't think right now there is going to be anything come out of the investigation of the finances."

Martin, 29, R-Longview, was wounded in the elbow by shotgun fire on July 31 near his recreational vehicle here. At first he said he did not know who shot him or why. Later he said he was the target of a hit man for the "Guardian Angels of the Underworld," a satanic cult.

Now Martin says the shooting is related to Gregg County politics.

Goff, who testified to the grand jury last week, said Martin asked him to be the gunman in a "controlled hit" intended as a political stunt to gain publicity for Martin.

Neal, who has worked on the case since the day of the shooting, emerged from the grand jury room Tuesday and said investigators had found "nothing" to disprove Goff's claim.

"His story was the thing that brought the investigation to an end," Neal said.

The lieutenant said there were some problems with Martin's story about the shooting since the first day.

"I think we all probably kind of felt that way. ... There were things that just didn't make any sense," he said.

Assistant District Attorney Allen Hill would not comment on the possibility of an indictment. He agreed with Neal that there was no felony committed at the trailer park where the shooting occurred.

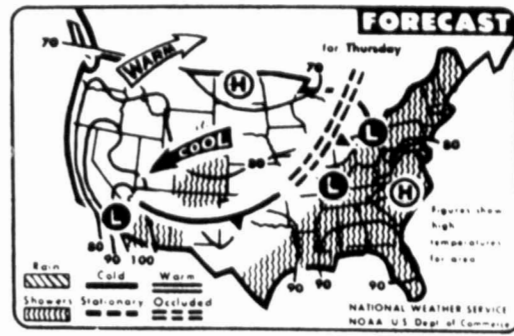

Hill said any indictment would be returned on Thursday at the earliest.

The prosecutor said he has not offered to drop the case if Martin would resign his House seat.

"Because of all the confusion, statements and misstatements ... and the doubts raised by some about the adequacy and integrity of the police investigation ... it would be in everybody's interest for this matter to be fully resolved," Hill said.

Martin, who ignored one subpoena and avoided another, testified before the grand jury last week. Neal said Martin answered some questions. The investigator would not say if Martin invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination to avoid any questions.

Weather

MIDDAY WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Thursday predicts showers for the states east of a line from southern Texas through Ohio, as well as for portions of Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming.

Texas floods moving south

By the Associated Press

The rain-swollen Lavaca and Guadalupe rivers chased South Texans to higher ground for a second day as they churned over their banks downstream from where floodwaters claimed the lives of at least five people.

In Cuero, the steadily rising Guadalupe River Tuesday flooded parts of the city about 80 miles southeast of San Antonio.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy north, mostly cloudy south and warm today with scattered thunderstorms southeast. Fair and mild tonight becoming partly cloudy and warm Thursday. Highs mid 80s north and mountains to lower 90s south and near 102 Big Bend. Lows upper 50s north and mountains to near 70 south.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy and cooler with scattered showers and thunderstorms mainly south. Lows 60s north to 70s south Friday cooling to 50s north to mid 60s south Sunday. Highs 80s north to upper 90s Big Bend and Friday cooling to 70s north to near 90 Big Bend Sunday.

The National Weather Service said the Guadalupe River had fallen to 41.5 feet at Cuero early today. The river is at or near crest and should remain at or near 41.5 feet today.

At Victoria, the Guadalupe reached 30 feet early today and was expected to crest at 30.5 feet sometime Thursday.

Most of the heavy rainfall had ended before dawn today, but forecasters said the flooding would continue for sometime.

"Several river additions are completely under water," said Dewitt County Sheriff Bob McMahan.

No injuries were reported and residents were warned in time to evacuate their homes and save most of their property, officials said.

Former state comptroller dies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, who handled much of the state's business affairs for almost a quarter of a century, died Tuesday. He was 89.

Funeral services are scheduled Thursday in Austin.

Calvert began his career with the state as an accounting clerk in 1930. He was appointed comptroller in 1949 by Gov. Beauford Jester to succeed George Sheppard, who died in office.

During his tenure the comptroller's office grew from an agency with 470 employees to more than 1,200.

Calvert's long service was not without controversy.

IN CUSTODY — Jo Ann Starr Harrelson, wife of convicted hit man Charles Harrelson, leaves the Houston Federal Courthouse after her arrest on a charge of using a false name to purchase a firearm in 1979.

Braniff announces new marketing plan

DALLAS (AP) — The "whole new" Braniff International promised by company president John J. Casey takes off Sept. 9 with a nationwide "all-coach express" service and an expanded discount fares program.

The new marketing strategy, which Braniff officials hope will boost ticket sales, expands the airline's high density flights to cover national routes, as well as the standard southwestern regional routes.

Braniff has changed nearly half of its Boeing 727 fleet to all-coach planes to add additional seating capacity, Casey said in a statement released Tuesday.

The redesigned jets will be the mainstay of Braniff's new nationwide express service.

All-coach express flights will offer seats at a 20 percent discount nationwide during peak periods and a 25 percent discount during off-peak times, Casey said.

"Before, we offered the two-tier pricing only in Texas," said Braniff spokesman Ray Chanaud. "Now we are going nationwide with our express service for the first time. No other airline has done this nationwide."

On the rest of the fleet, first-class cabins will be expanded by 20 seats, he said. The standard first-class and coach flights will serve only major Braniff routes.

The only discount on first-class and coach flights is the standard super saver ticket, which has to be purchased 14 days in advance, Chanaud said.

The airline will continue to offer greater discounts on southwestern regional flights, he said.

Chanaud said the idea for nationwide express service came shortly after Braniff's major internal reorganization earlier this year.

"The PATCO (air traffic controller's) strike brought it to a head quicker than we had planned originally," he said. "We would have started it later, about October or during the holiday season."

Chanaud said Braniff currently operates about 75 percent of its flights due to Federal Aviation Administration restrictions implemented during the controllers' strike.

"Under the new plan, our fleet has an additional 240 seats — the effective value of about two airplanes," Chanaud said. "So we are flying the equivalent of two more airplanes without flying two more airplanes."

Steer football fans need to find new route to Memorial Stadium

Steer football fans who have taken Adams Road in the past to get to Memorial Stadium will have to find a new route this year.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Howard County Junior College District, explained that Adams Road, which runs through the Howard College campus, is now being worked on, and plans are to re-seal the road in the near future.

Alternate routes to Memorial Stadium include Kentucky Way, and 11th Place.

Chamber wise to develop the leaders of tomorrow

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce is to be commended for its foresight in establishing a special council of young people.

Twenty-seven area high school students, selected on the basis of character, leadership skill, academic excellence and attitude, have been tapped to serve on the newly created Big Spring Area Student Involvement Council.

THE BENEFITS of such a council flow in two directions.

First, the chamber will benefit by having input from outstanding youth. This input will help the council make better decisions that affect not only youth but the entire community.

Second, the young people will benefit from the exposure they will receive on how to move a community forward. They will gain the wonderful advantage of experience, broadening them for the day when they will take over the reins.

BUT THE BIGGEST beneficiary? The community as a whole.

The students will be given community assignments and community involvements.

They will be under the special guidance of Johnnie Lou Avery, former Chamber president, who has a reputation for getting things done. The group will attend chamber meetings as well as some city council and county commission meetings, increasing their awareness and understanding of the complexities of community decision making, problems and progress.

The community will benefit not only from the result of the students' current projects, but from the day when these students mature into the city councilmen, mayors, county commissioners and chamber officials of tomorrow.

Outstanding students need these challenges to stretch them and develop them to their fullest potential. This also is an opportunity to give young leaders the recognition they deserve.

HOPEFULLY THE PLAN will perpetuate itself, and these leaders of tomorrow will one day be providing the same opportunity for the next generation, and so on ad infinitum.

We agree with Helen Keller who said, "It is not possible for civilization to flow backwards while there is youth in the world."

"Sure, it's disappointing, but we'll turn it around!"

"Better, huh?"

Pointers in paranoia

Art Buchwald

It may be my imagination but every summer the syndicate bosses hold a briefing just as I'm about to go on vacation.

The intelligence briefing officer is standing in front of the map of the island.

He has a pointer. "Our agents inform us that Buchwald will be vacationing here in this house. His bedroom is located up here. Our objective is to see that he gets no sleep. Any suggestions?"

"The roof next to the house needs repair. I was going to do it in the fall, but I could start pounding away at 7 in the morning as soon as Buchwald arrives."

"Good thinking, Tashetego. That should take care of the morning. Now what do we do once he's awake and about?"

"Depends on what he does during the day."

"Our information is he lines up a tennis game if he possibly can."

"Well, then what do you say if we start cutting down a tree next to the court as soon as he tries to hit the ball?"

"Are you certain your tree saw can make enough noise to disturb his game?"

"No sweat. I took the muffler off it this morning."

"Anybody got any ideas for lunch? He usually has a sandwich at the snack bar on the beach."

"I could start up the water skiing motorboat. If I run it close enough to the shore you can't hear yourself think."

The man with the pointer said, "Good. Now we have discovered that Buchwald plans to work in the afternoon from 2 to 4. How do we take care of that?"

"Send a team over to cut his lawn as soon as he starts typing."

"We can't cut his lawn everyday."

"We can cut all the lawns around him. That should take a month."

"What does he do after he types?" someone asked.

"He takes a nap."

"We could have all the airplanes that land and take off at the airport buzz his house first," someone suggested.

"All right. We'll have a low-level flight from 4 to 6, no more than 500 feet off the ground at irregular intervals. Now this is most important. Our source says when Buchwald is on the island, the hour that means the most to him is from 6 to 7 when he can sit on the porch with a cold glass of beer and look out to sea. How do we ruin that moment?"

"Cut his lawn again?"

"That's not very imaginative, Edgerton."

"I've got it. We send the garbage truck around at 6 o'clock at night."

"Won't we have to pay overtime to the truck drivers?"

"What's the money if we can ruin the guy's holiday?"

"What time does he go to sleep?"

"Usually around 11."

"I belong to a motorcycle club. We could come over and rev up our engines in front of his house for three hours."

"Excellent. You've all done your homework. Are there any questions?"

"I have one. Why are we going to all this trouble to drive a guy on vacation up the wall?"

The leader said, "Because he's there."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Years ago I took some money from some men who were with me in the Army. I feel very guilty about this, and know I ought to try to make restitution, but I don't have any idea where they are. What should I do to get rid of my burden of guilt? — M.Y.

DEAR M.Y.: Whenever possible, we should try to make restitution whenever we have wronged someone by stealing from them. This is a practice which was commanded in the Bible, and I have known many instances of it in our own time.

In fact, the general rule in the Old Testament was that a person who had stolen something not only should give it back, but should make extra payment as well. (See, for example, some of the specific requirements in Exodus 22:1-4, such as paying back two oxen if a man had stolen one ox.) One of the signs of Zacchaeus' conversation was his determination to pay back four times the amount of anything he had stolen from others. (Luke 19:1-10).

Since it is apparently not possible for you to make restitution directly to those you cheated some years ago, I suggest that you do the next best thing and give a gift (the original amount you stole plus interest) to an organization which will use it for some worthy purpose, such as your church.

But let me also point out that while it is good that you are concerned about his and want to do what is right, there is a deeper answer for your guilt. You are guilty for this action, and you feel that guilty very strongly. But you have not only wronged your friends in the past — most of all you have wronged God. Furthermore, this is not just true for the money you took, but it is true in many, many other ways as well. It would be good if you could have the forgiveness of your friends, but more than that you need God's forgiveness.

That is why I urge you to turn to Christ and confess your sins to him.

Around the rim Catch 22

Tina Miller

There is something I didn't realize when I wrote last week's Rim on painting and remodeling: you can't have one without the other.

Take the kitchen, for example. You cannot just paint the kitchen. Oh, you can try, but when you are finished you will probably notice that the vinyl floor is worn out. You know that already, it's just that the new paint makes it even more noticeable.

AFTER SPENDING your life savings on the new kitchen floor, you will no doubt realize that the countertop is stained and scratched and doesn't even match anything anymore. After sinking another small fortune on the countertop, you might be so naive as to think, "This is it." But no. The stove and refrigerator now clash with the new colors.

You have now replaced everything in the kitchen and the room looks great. But what about the rest of the house? Why, it looks absolutely rundown compared to the sparkling new kitchen. The living room needs painting, which of course leads to new carpet and ultimately new furniture, and the kids' rooms have so many holes in the walls that paneling is the only solution.

Now the interior of your home is perfect. But what about the exterior? The paint is peeling, the roof is leaking and the termites think they have died and gone to heaven. Fix all of that and you are deserving of sainthood and a long vacation.

CONGRATULATIONS. Your home is now a show place. All your friends marvel at your expertise and how you changed your average, small house into the perfect home, sweet home. But what? A new baby on the way? Where are you going to put him? The house is just too small. So, a house-hunting-you-must-go.

The only big house you can afford isn't quite as nice. But all it needs is a little paint....

How does syndrome affect my teeth?

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: After numerous tests I was told I definitely have Barlow's syndrome. My doctor gave me no restrictions and not much detail, except that he did say that an infection could mean trouble. He said to take antibiotics when having my teeth worked on. I am 55, active and generally feel pretty good. What does this Barlow's syndrome have to do with the heart, and why the business about antibiotics when having my teeth worked on? I moved from the area and cannot readily talk to my former doctor. — Mrs. T.G.

Between the left upper and lower heart chambers is a connecting valve (mitral valve). It is a pumping of the lower chamber that forces blood out into the arteries. If the valve between the upper and lower chambers was not there blood would be forced back into the upper chamber with each squeeze.

Barlow's syndrome means that this valve is a bit warped, just a little off. It is found in many people, as many as one out of 10 as a matter of fact. Barlow's is seldom a troublesome thing. It can be a problem if the warp is pronounced enough to allow back-up of blood when the lower chamber squeezes (pumps). In some it can cause an irregular heart sound and beat.

Since it is doing neither of these things to you, the only thing you have to remember is your doctor's warning about antibiotics. You should let your doctors and dentists know of your warped valve. It is important to take antibiotics before dental work because the warped valve can become infected from germs that live in the mouth. If teeth or gums are worked on, these germs may get into the blood and to the heart valve.

For most, there is no concern because the body takes care of the germs promptly. However, if the germs settle on a warped valve, they can cause an infection there. So this is a precaution.

Really, don't worry. If you do notice an irregular heartbeat, tell your doctor about it. In that event, the earlier diagnosis of your minor valve problem can be important information for him.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Love traps defined and how to spot them

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Love pushes all of us into traps from time to time. If you take an honest look at yourself, you'll probably discover that somewhere within you lies one of the following eight love traps described by writers Deidre S. Laiken and Alan J. Schneider in the September issue of Seventeen Magazine.

The Clinging Vine's craving for love eventually strangles any relationship, because she wants the other person to be everything to her. She is insecure when he's with other people and questions him about every detail of the time they've spent apart.

The Placater can't say no or bring herself to argue or disagree because she is afraid to assert herself. Her philosophy is, "Don't rock the boat unless it's absolutely necessary." Finally, all the nos that weren't expressed build up into one huge no.

The Applause-Seeker always goes out with very impressive men, but after a while, she finds little faults in them that bother her. The applause-seeker isn't secure about herself and tries to make herself feel good through associations with men she admires.

The Hero-Worshiper falls in love with a person she believes to be powerful and totally independent. She overvalues and exaggerates the hero's good qualities. She puts him on a pedestal and caters to his every whim because she feels that's the only way to prevent him from leaving.

The Love Dictator seems to be strong, but deep inside she feels weak and wants to be taken care of. Unwilling to admit to her feelings, she works to keep her partner dependent. Being able to control him means she doesn't have to face the thing that frightens her most — being abandoned.

The Imposter works hard to manipulate and trick her boyfriend into loving her. She uses emotional blackmail to get what she wants. The imposter has a low opinion of herself and believes trickery is one of the only ways to get someone to love her.

The Rebel goes out with someone who is a symbol for everything that is the opposite of her parents and the type of life they want her to lead. The excitement of having to sneak out on dates and do something that is forbidden is what the rebel really loves.

The Goody-Goody goes out with someone that her parents have been nagging her to date. Her parents are pleased with her for the first time in a long time, even though she isn't pleased with her date. The goody-goody uses her date as a way to get parental approval.

Baby shower honors Mrs. Evans at church

She was assisted in opening and displaying gifts by her sister, Kris Boubek and her two sisters-in-law, Michelle and Sonya Evans. Other special guests were the grandmothers-to-be, Mrs. C.G. Evans and Mrs. Laura Boubek, and the maternal great-grandmother-to-be, Mrs. N.H. Stanley.

Hostesses for the shower were: Mrs. Roy Hester, Mrs. M.L. Kirby, Mrs. Jack Lee, Mrs. Dick Davis, Mrs. J.J. Willingham, Mrs. Floyd Dixon, Mrs. Lena Maconber, Mrs. Mike Steward, Jeanette Mansfield, Mrs. R.E. Wilson, Mrs. Gary Blount, Mrs. R.C. Stocks, Mrs. David Rhoton, Mrs. H.D. Stewart, Mrs. Mike West and Mrs. Jimmy Shanks. The hostess gift was a punch, cookies, nuts and pastel colored mints shaped like baby shoes, baby buggies and rose buds were served, using crystal and silver appointments. Pink roses in a crystal bowl, flanked by pink candles in crystal holders decorated the piano, and a miniature baby playpen, highchair and cradle on the serving bar between the kitchen and fellowship hall completed the decorations.

Guests registered at a table covered with a blue knit cloth edged in white lace centered with pink roses in a crystal vase. The register book was made by Mrs. M.L. Kirby. The refreshment table, centered with a toy locomotive engine filled with pink roses, was covered with a cloth similar to that used on the register table. Pink

Women hoping for ERA ratification and considering what next if it fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the women's rights movement are quietly considering what to do next if the Equal Rights Amendment fails to win ratification by the deadline set by Congress, as now appears certain.

They are reluctant to talk about that prospect because publicly they still hold out hope that legislatures of three more states will approve the ERA before time expires next June 30.

And, they do not want to undercut a last-ditch drive for ratification. Last week, ERA proponents raised $1 million and said they will spend $15 million to overcome their opposition.

But a new tone has crept into women's equality rhetoric. Leaders now stress that it required half a century to win the vote for women.

"People have to understand that the women's rights movement is not going to go away," says Eleanor Smeal, president of the 140,000-member National Organization for Women. "What happens if it hasn't passed by June 30 is another 20 years of work and, unfortunately, another generation of women consigned to inequality."

A survey by Associated Press reporters finds that the amendment is unlikely to win by the deadline in any of the 15 state legislatures that either have voted it down or haven't bothered to bring it to a vote.

"We're still holding out hope," says Ruth Hinerfeld, president of the League of Women Voters. She says failure to meet the deadline is the one thing she is "unwilling" to discuss.

And Suone Cotner, executive director of ERA America, a coalition of 250 pro-ratification organizations, says women's leaders are still crusading for those last three states because they have no choice. "So we're behind, and in the bottom of the ninth inning," she says. "You don't take your team off the field."

Any way, she says — and this is a point made by others — much can happen in the remaining 10 months to change the political climate. "We have as much time left as this country takes to elect a president," she says.

Ms. Smeal and Ms. Cotner say they sense a backlash developing among women against President Reagan and what they see as his retreat on affirmative action programs intended to assure women equal access to jobs, pay and athletic fields.

"I never thought I'd be thanking Ronald Reagan, but he's helping us," Ms. Cotner says.

Phyllis Schafly, ERA's most prominent foe, says ERA's heyday has passed. She predicts the amendment will never come as close to passing as it now stands.

The drive to guarantee women equal status with men was, along with the civil rights and antiwar movements, one of the major social causes of these times. But the tide turned against ERA, the country's mood turned conservative.

Although 35 of the required 38 state legislatures voted to ratify ERA, none has approved it since Indiana acted on Jan. 24, 1977. Even an extension of the original deadline for ratification was little help.

Credit life insurance is rarely a good buy

COLLEGE STATION — Think twice before accepting insurance that "will pay off a loan" in case of death, advises Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

This kind of insurance — credit-life insurance — pays off the debt if the debtor dies before the loan has been paid off. However, if you have other life insurance, you probably do not need the credit-life insurance, the specialist says.

Piernot is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In most cases, credit-life insurance is a needless expense, and it is rarely a good buy, Piernot says. In some cases, the survivors may have to pay the cost of the insurance before they can collect, she adds.

Credit-life insurance is expensive for two major reasons, Piernot explains. "One, it is usually an extremely small life insurance policy. Secondly, there's no real competition among the sellers. Usually buyers don't shop around, and it is really not practical to do so. Thus, credit insurance companies do not offer the lowest price to buyers but offer the highest commission to lenders," she adds.

You are the one who decides if you want credit-life insurance or not, Piernot points out.

"Most credit contracts say that credit-life insurance is optional and will be provided only if you sign a separate statement asking for it," she says.

"The Truth-in-Lending Act strongly encourages that optional provision for the very reason that credit-life insurance is rarely a good buy."

"Creditors like to sell it, however, because they earn a commission on it," Piernot notes.

On the other hand, real security for survivors can be achieved by a complete estate plan, the specialist says.

Cash-Hungry Bride Skips the Sentiment

DEAR ABBY: A sister I see infrequently is getting married soon. She let it be known through the family grapevine that she would prefer cash instead of a wedding gift. (Her reason is that her husband-to-be is a hotel manager; they will be living in the hotel and don't "need" anything.)

I wrote and explained that I knew her preference, but over the years I personally have derived much pleasure remembering the givers each time I used their wedding gifts. I told her that I wanted to give her something special that she would know came from me. I then offered her a couple of choices of items I had in mind to send her.

She wrote back: "About the wedding gift. Thanks just the same, but I think I'll pass."

What should I do? Send her money, nothing, or what? The little cash I could send her would be lost in the bill-paying of her expensive wedding. Sign me.

President of Rebekah Assembly presents program to John A. Key Rebekah Lodge after salad supper

Martha Bell, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, gave the program for the John A. Key Rebekah Lodge No. 153 Aug. 25. Melissa R. Santellan, noble grand, presided over the 42 members from Stanton Lodge, Big Spring Lodge, John A. Key Lodge and the Lamesa Lodge in the IOOF Hall on West Highway 80. The 7:30 p.m. meeting followed a 6 o'clock salad supper.

Lois Hood, conductor, escorted Mrs. Bell to the altar where she was given ritual honors by those present. Mrs. Hood also conducted Odella LaLonde, district deputy president to the altar.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by LaVerne Rogers, recording secretary. Members reported that 12 visits were

A discussion of the calendar of events for the year was held. One of the upcoming events is a Chinese Tea for rushees Sept. 20 from 2:30-4:30 p.m. at the First United Presbyterian Church. Becky Baker, program chairman, assigned cultural programs for the year.

New ways and means as well as possible service projects were discussed.

A yearbook contest is being held to inspire each chapter to have unique yearbooks. Members will decorate their yearbooks themselves. Prizes will be awarded for first through third places.

The next meeting will be Sept. 8 in the home of Cindy Jones.

Bette Davis once hated her face and was accused of having no sex appeal

Bette Davis once was convinced she was an ugly duckling. When she started acting in films in the '30s, "I loathed my face," she admits in an interview with Good Morning America's David Hartman in the current Family Circle magazine. "They called me the little brown wren," she recalls in the magazine.

"They all said they didn't know what to do with me. What man would want me at the end of the picture? ... And then, I overheard somebody say one day that I had as much sex appeal as Slim Summerville. This got to me ..."

She notes, "I never went to rushes (unedited film of scenes in a movie). I would be haunted by this hideous person for days."

Bette's since changed her mind about her looks.

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: She said, "I'll pass." So pass her.

DEAR ABBY: I had chosen to ignore the letter written to you by the Rev. Father Andrew L. James, who classifies all priests as "Father," all ministers as "Mister," and suggests the term "Mother" for what he calls "the new Protestant Episcopal priestesses." One of our parishioners, however, was so disturbed by this stance that he cut out the column and asked me to make a reply.

While some Protestant churches do call their ministers "Mister," the Lutheran tradition has been to use the term "Pastor." This has not been affected by the fact that in 1970 our Lutheran Church in America along with the American Lutheran Church voted in national conventions to ordain women. This action took place several years after many other Protestant bodies had voted to include women in their ministerial rolls. Father James must be living in a time warp in Athens, Ohio, not realizing what his Christian sisters and brothers have been up to.

However, instead of fighting over trivialities, Christians should be loving one another. We worship the same God, and I am firmly convinced that our God can call anyone He wants to, whether it be a man such as Father James or a woman such as I, with a husband and three children. If we spend more time doing the loving thing rather than trying to impose our own "thou shalt not" on others, think of the impact the Church of Jesus Christ could have on a hurting world!

I forgive you, Father James, for not loving me and not accepting me as another champion of the Gospel. Let us love one another. After all, that's what this whole thing is all about.

THE REV. EDITH B. ROBERTS, EASTON, PA.

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for Howard Hughes' five first cousins took a parting shot at the claims of 100 distant relatives and then bowed to allow another group of would-be heirs to present its side in the bitter estate battle for the billionaire's fortune.

Wayne Fisher, who is defending the claims of two of the first cousins, rested his case Tuesday after producing documents and clippings he said virtually destroyed the case of 100 distant cousins.

"What it all boils down to is evidence. We've got birth certificates after death certificates, letters and photographs. That's hard evidence. And all they have are excuses because they don't have documents, rumors and innuendos to explain their case," said Fisher.

Robert C. Hughes and about 100 other second, third and fourth cousins contended the late Elspeth Hughes Lapp — who provides the blood link for the first cousins' estate claims — was an imposter and not the true daughter of the tycoon's uncle, New York playwright Rupert Hughes.

Robert C. Hughes testified Tuesday that Rupert's natural daughter was named Lelia Babcock Hughes and that she drowned in 1920. He said Elspeth was the daughter of Rupert's third wife and was substituted for Lelia.

But the Alabama high school agriculture teacher said the documents that would have supported the argument of the distant relatives were stored in a family truck that burned in 1940.

Fisher, however, introduced documents and clippings that identified Lelia as the daughter of a prominent St. Louis, Mo., family unrelated to Hughes.

Robert C. Hughes, appeared unshaken by the clippings and documents, insisted his story was true and added, "It is my hope to still put the real story before this court."

Snelson ponders governor's race

SAN ANGELO — State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson is "keeping his options open" about running for governor next year, he said Thursday.

"It's a little early to tell what may develop on the Democratic side," he said, pointing out that "a lot of names have surfaced and dropped off" over the past year.

"I'm giving serious thought to my whole political future," he said, "and I have not closed any doors nor opened any doors on future plans."

The Democratic state senator, however, has "no particular desires" for any other state-wide office.

Before the 1981 legislative session started in January, Snelson, who has 20 years' legislative experience had indicated an interest in running for the lieutenant-governor post now held by Bill Hobby, "based on speculation that he (Hobby) would not seek re-election."

Since Hobby apparently has changed his mind and will make a re-election try, Snelson said, "I have not contemplated running against Gov. Hobby."

Snelson said "people are calling" from around the state suggesting he consider running for governor.

Over the next three months, he said, he will "give a lot of thought to what my future should be — seeking re-election to the senate, to another office retirement or what."

Snelson suggested that a "combination of things" brought his name to the fore in connection with a possible gubernatorial race.

He cited a laudatory article in the Aug. 12 Dallas Times-Herald, his selection by Texas Monthly magazine as one of the state's 10 Best Legislators for 1981 and his having been spotlighted in Wednesday evening's nationally televised review of the Texas Legislature.

Contacts from around the state "have intensified since the special session" which ended Aug. 11, he said, and the magazine article "sort of stimulated" more calls.

On Thursday, after the television show, the number of calls increased "somewhat," he said.

The Dallas newspaper article called Snelson "the man who deprived Gov. William B. Clements Jr. of total victory in this year's legislative session," referring to Snelson's eight-month battle against abolishing the constitutional property tax to fund Texas colleges and universities outside the University of Texas System.

Gov. Clements wanted the tax abolished and garnered a nearly unanimous vote-toabolish from the Texas House, but Snelson, calling the fight "a really important one which sets the stake for the future of education in Texas," refused to give in to the governor's demands.

Texas Monthly called Snelson "someone with total integrity and sweeping policy interests."

Snelson said he is "certainly flattered" at the attention he has received, but that, "since it is a huge decision, I have said I would review all possibilities and alternatives."

His interest in the university funding question has not abated, he said.

The issues of the constitutional ad valorem tax and the Permanent University

Fund, which underwrites UT-System schools, "are all tied together," he said.

"You can't solve one without the other, because you can't have a system of higher education divided between the haves and the have nots," Snelson said.

Education-related issues would be one aspect of any campaign he fields next year, he said.

Cream together:
 1/2 cup oleo
 3/4 cup sugar

Add:
 2 eggs
 1/2 tsp. vanilla

Sift dry ingredients together:

1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 1/2 cup baking powder
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon soda

Add to oleo-sugar mix.

Stir:

3/4 cup crushed pineapple
 1 ounce pkg. semi-sweet chocolate chips

Grease and flour 13" x 9" pan. Put batter into pan and spread pineapple-coconut evenly over batter. Bake 357 degrees for 25 minutes. Coconut topping should be slightly browned.

HOT FUDGE PUDDING

Marian Walker

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 2 quart baking dish.

Mix together:
 1 1/2 cups Bisquick
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 1/2 cup milk

Turn batter into greased dish. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed.

Pour:

1 1/2 cups boiling water over 6 ounce package semi-sweet chocolate chips and let stand 1-2 minutes until chocolate melts, then stir to blend. Pour this mix over batter. Bake 40-45 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes to cool slightly. During baking, the pudding will rise to top of dish and sauce will form at bottom. Invert servings on dish, dip sauce over each. Serves 6-8

BEEF WITH BROCCOLI

Marian Walker

1-3 cup soy sauce
 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
 3/4 teaspoon granulated sugar
 1 beef bouillon cube
 1-3 cup water
 2 teaspoons cornstarch
 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
 2 large cloves garlic, peeled and halved

3/4 pound beef flank steak or top round steak, cut in 1/4-inch diagonal slices

1 large sweet onion, peeled, halved and cut in 1/4-inch slices (1 1/2 cups)
 1 1/2-cups peeled broccoli stems, cut in 1/4-inch diagonal slices

Herald Recipe Exchange
 by Tina Miller
 Lifestyle Editor

2 1/2 cups broccoli florets
 1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, cut in 1/4-inch slices
 Mix soy sauce, vinegar and sugar in a small bowl or measuring cup. In another bowl mix bouillon cube, water and cornstarch. Assemble remaining ingredients.

To cook: In a large, heavy skillet or wok heat 1 1/2 tablespoons of the oil over high heat. Add garlic and cook a few seconds to season oil. Add meat and stir-fry 2 minutes, until slices are lightly browned but still slightly pink in the center. Remove meat and any pan juices to a bowl; discard garlic and wipe out skillet. Add 1 tablespoon of the remaining oil and, when hot, add onion and broccoli stems; stir-fry 2 minutes, until crisp-tender. Add remaining 1/2 tablespoon oil around edge of skillet and add broccoli florets and mushrooms. Stir-fry 2 minutes, pour in meat and juices from the bowl and then the soy-vinegar mixture. Stir, cover and cook 2 minutes. Stir cornstarch mixture (make sure bouillon cube is broken up) and pour into the skillet. Cook, stirring constantly, 2 to 3 minutes, until thickened. Makes 4 servings.

AMERICAN CHOWDER

Marian Walker

1 large onion, chopped
 2 Tbsp. margarine
 4 cups chopped potatoes
 2 cups water
 1 cup celery slices
 2 teaspoons salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 2 cups milk
 2 Tablespoons flour
 1 1/2-ounce package smoked sausage links, sliced
 1/2 pound Deluxe process American cheese, cubed

Saute onion in margarine, add potatoes, water, celery and seasonings, cover, simmer 15 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Gradually add a small amount of milk to flour, stirring until well blended. Gradually add flour mixture to hot vegetables. Add remaining milk and sausage, heat, add cheese, stir until cheese melts. Serves 8-10

RED, WHITE and BLUEBERRY SALAD

Elizabeth Bracey

1-(3 ounce) package red raspberry flavored gelatin
 3 cups boiling water, divided

2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
 1/2 cup cold water
 1 cup sugar
 1 cup half and half
 1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 1/2 cup nuts (chopped fine)
 1 (3 ounce) package black raspberry flavored gelatin
 1 (15 ounce) can blueberries, undrained.

Dissolve red raspberry gelatin in 2 cups boiling water. Pour into a 9-inch square pan or 9x12 inch pan and chill until firm.
 Soften unflavored gelatin in cold water. Combine sugar, half and half, heat but do not boil, add unflavored gelatin, stirring to dissolve. Add cream cheese and vanilla to gelatin mixture and beat until smooth; add nuts. Pour over congealed gelatin and chill until firm.

Dissolve black raspberry gelatin in 1 cup boiling water; add blueberries. Pour over cream cheese mixture. Chill until firm; slice. Makes a pretty salad for holidays.

FEATHER BUNS

Elizabeth Bracey

1 package yeast
 1 cup lukewarm water
 3 eggs
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup shortening
 1 teaspoon salt
 4 cups flour

Soak yeast in lukewarm water, set aside. Beat eggs until light and add yeast to it. Mix sugar, shortening and salt like pie crust. Add three cups of flour and egg mixture. Beat and then work in other cup of flour. Cover and let stand in refrigerator over night. Divide dough in thirds. Roll out like pie crust about 1/4 inch thick. Cut in triangles like cutting a pie. Roll from large to small end. Brush lightly with oleo before rolling. Place on greased cookie sheet and let rise 3 hours. Bake 375 degrees for 12 minutes or till done.

PUMPKIN CAKE

Elizabeth Bracey

3 eggs
 2 1/4 cup sugar
 1 cup shortening
 No. 303 can pumpkin (2 cups)
 3 1/2 cups flour
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1 teaspoon each, cloves, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg
 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream eggs, sugar and shortening; add pumpkin and mix well; add flour, baking powder, soda, spices, salt. Mix well. Batter will be stiff. Use "lots" of butter or oleo on sides and bottom of tube pan. Then dust with crushed vanilla wafers or graham crackers (I use graham crackers). Bake one hour at 350 degrees.

PERFECT ENDING — Hot Fudge Pudding is a favorite dessert in Mrs. Walker's family. When baked, pudding rises to the top, and a rich chocolate sauce forms at the bottom. The dish is quick and easy, and tastes even better served warm with a scoop of a favorite ice cream.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

How to Save Electricity Before It Comes To You

During late afternoon and early evening hours, the load on the nation's electrical systems usually reaches its peak. To meet the heavy demand, electric utilities often must use back-up generating equipment that is not energy efficient.

Try to use energy intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce that peak load.

This energy saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

BLONDIE

Beautiful women have their own hangups, says Bazaar

Women of great beauty, say the psychiatrists, sometimes have anxieties about their good looks and at times put themselves down.

And that applies in varying degrees even to the ladies featured in a recent issue of Bazaar as America's Ten Most Beautiful Women. Their ages range from 16, Brooke Shields, to 64, Lena Horne. Here's what these ten "10s" told Bazaar of their feelings about their looks.

Lena Horne: "It's not me, it's the makeup and hair people." She recalled that in the 1940s when she was first discovered, Hollywood was under a great deal of pressure to use blacks, but not in menial roles. "I made it because I looked like a brown edition of a white star. If I'd been there in the Sixties I'd never have gotten anywhere."

Brooke Shields' beauty is relentlessly discussed every time she appears anywhere. Doesn't she get plain tired of it? "You see," she protests, "it's everybody else who looks at me like that — as a beauty. To me, it's not such a big deal." With all her magnificent looks, she is critical of herself: "The one thing I might like to have instantly is perfect posture."

Jaclyn Smith will appear on ABC-TV this season as Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, one of the most admired, most photographed beauties in the world. Yet when Jaclyn catapulted to fame on "Charlie's Angels," the constant talk of her beauty came as quite a surprise to her. Confesses Jaclyn, "I never thought about being beautiful... I wear very little makeup when I'm not working... I don't feel like a professional beauty at all."

Victoria Principal of "Dallas" had doubts about her looks when she was a kid. "Growing up I always wished I were blonde and blue-eyed; now I don't want to look different." She's one among the ten who is well aware of her beauty and because the makeup she wears on the show is so "intense," she says, "I have my skin professionally cleaned every two weeks. I'm not really comfortable in heavy makeup."

When Lois Chiles, the stunning blue-eyed beauty from "The Great Gatsby" and "Death on the Nile," looks at you and tells you she's surprised you think she's pretty you're hard-put to believe her. Her real-life look is the well-scrubbed girl-next-door — jeans (non-designer), ankle-high boots, a pullover, no jewelry, no makeup. Lois doesn't think about whether or not she's pretty. "It's difficult to get too self-involved about something you didn't do anything for."

Cristina Ferrare's aristocratic, almost flawless features make her one of the most sought-after models and TV spokeswomen in America. But she's not one of those pencil-thin models many advertisers demand. Her weight fluctuates. "I've recently come to accept the fact that I'll always be three to ten pounds overweight. Right now for example I'm in my middle-thin period — four pounds up." But as soon as she tops that she's off to the Golden Door "diet farm" for a week. "I practically live there," she jokes.

Susan Sarandon is an actress whose talent and beauty know no bounds. She's both disciplined and flexible about her looks. Though she swims a mile every day in a pool near her New York apartment, she is adamant about not adhering to a strict routine. "If I feel like jogging, I do. If I don't, I don't and I don't worry about it... I do spur-of-the-moment things like steam my face over spaghetti whenever I make it."

Dayle Haddon, model turned actress ("The Last Romantic Lover," "North Dallas Forty"), feels this way about her looks: "I'd like to be known for what I am — not for what I look like... though how you look is profoundly affected by what you are." It's one of the reasons Dayle wants to avoid the "pretty-girl" or "girlfriend" roles that keep coming her way. "Those characters are just caricatures."

Deborah Harry, the hot sexy blonde beauty best known as the lead singer of the new wave's most popular group, Blondie, is 34, but doesn't look much different than she did in high school when voted New Jersey's Hawthorne High's best-looking senior. When not performing she wears t-shirts, jeans and no makeup. It's significant that she loves putting makeup on for work, she told Bazaar. "I've always loved turning myself into someone else. In high school I used to change my hair color all the time... I must have had 10 or 12 different colors... really weird!"

Jacqueline Bisset: "I'm very inconsistent. I often think I look good because I feel right — right and mischievous. But then about every fourth day I don't like the way I look at all. The uncanny thing is those always seem to be the days when I'm scheduled to have a picture taken. It's like the panic I remember before a Latin test. I've come to hate to be photographed."

Could we say that coming from the beautiful Bisset, that's... Bazaar!

Names in the News

Take the 'A' rain?

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Saxophonist Sam Butera and his jazz ensemble were winding up their first number on national television when "Stormy Weather" bolted from the blue.

As the home audience and 225 guests at the Carousell Cabaret at Resorts International Hotel Casino looked on, the band got drenched onstage when a chorus of malfunctioning fire sprinklers put in their own refrain.

Associate Producer Robin Schuman of Atlanta's cable television station WTBS said she thought she heard "thunderous applause" when the raindrops fell.

The "Atlantic City Alive" program went off the air within seconds after the incident.

The piano and performers got drenched and viewers suddenly got an unscheduled movie on their screens, as Atlantic City firefighters tried to stop the torrents. It took a half-hour.

"That's what you call burning music," joked Butera as he and the audience were evacuated.

Of gusto and gravel

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — It's illegal to charge for swigging and wiggling at the same time, said the judge, who may have earned himself a frothy toast or two for his ruling.

Oceanside Oklahoma Inc., a concert promotion company, hired nine country and western bands for its all-day "Dance Party of the Decade" at a park here Saturday and wanted to up their take by charging for whistle-wetting.

But Cleveland County District Judge Preston Trimble on Monday said beer is fine, but charging for it would violate the law.

Faced with the prospect of thousands of thirsty fans, the company decided to give away the beer.

"The unanimous feeling was, 'What's a concert without Coors?' So there's going to be free beer," said Lee Cate, the company's lawyer. "It's not going to be a big moneymaker, but it's going to be a lot of fun."

Consumers union seeks new collection rules

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Consumers Union and a legal aid society asked the State Finance Commission today to issue new debt collection rules to stop what they called "harassment and intimidation" of debtors by finance companies.

Stephen Gardner, attorney at the Legal Aid Society of Central Texas, said the rules would give consumers an alternative to hiring a lawyer and going to court when they are threatened by creditors.

The alternative would be an administrative action by the state consumer credit commissioner, who is hired by the commission and operates under its rules.

"It's not a couple of bad apples spoiling the whole bunch. It's a whole bunch of bad apples," Gardner said of the consumer finance industry.

The proposed rules, which the commissioner could enforce through his power to inspect and license the finance companies, would prohibit such things as threats, calling a debtor at work, physical intimidation and harassing telephone calls.

State law already prohibits abuse of debtors by creditors, but Gardner told a news conference the law is "very broad" and does not specifically say a loan company may not call a debtor at work.

"We certainly agree that consumers should pay their debts. That's not what we're talking about here. What we are attempting to deal with is harassment and intimidation by the finance companies, and not bona fide collection efforts," said Carol Barger, attorney for Consumers Union.

She and Gardner said threats and attempts to frighten debtors are not limited to a few unscrupulous lenders but are "a pervasive pattern of practice in the industry."

Gardner said the problem is of particular concern now because with "interest rates going up, up, up" and a "real tight economy," there probably would be more defaults on loans.
