JIM RYALS
...20 years of fighting fires

Fire chief has affair with city

This is part seven in a nine-part daily Herald series called "The folks at City Hall." The series is an attempt to acquaint city residents with the people who run the various departments at Big Spring City Hall.

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Fire Chief Jim Ryals came to Big Spring from Georgia to pursue two affairs: one with a girl and the other with a city.

The one with the girl was short-lived; the one with the city has lasted 21 years.

Ryals has worked for the fire department for most of his time on the city payroll. After a brief initial stint riding heavy machinery for a city maintenance crew, he switched over to the fire department and fought fires for 20 years.

Ryals will have been fire chief for one year next October.

WHY DID HE BECOME a fireman?

"There was excitement to it, I suppose, but mainly it was just money," Ryals admits from his office adjacent to the fire station.

Some of that excitement came from two of the biggest fires in Howard County over the past decade — the Cosden blazes in 1970 and 1976 — as well as a big cotton storage fire on the north side of town in the mid-70s.

Three Cosden employees and two firemen were injured in the 1976 blaze, which raged throughout a summer night while several West Texas fire departments struggled to bring it under control.

The day-long cotton storage fire also challenged firemen from regional departments, who brought the blaze under control with minor injuries.

Ryals has seen a decline in fires during his time as fire chief, primarily due to the addition of an arson investigator to the department.

"SINCE WE HIRED an arson investigator two years ago, we've cut down on our fires by about 75 percent. We've gotten some (arson) convictions and word-of-mouth spreads the fact that we're cracking down," Ryals explains.

Despite the improved fire record, Ryals worries about his men. "I'm concerned that a fireman will get hurt. Every time there's a fire, you have that danger," he says.

He's particularly worried at this time of year about being understaffed due to vacations — at the hottest and most fire-hazardous time of the year.

The department has 50 men, not counting Ryals.

"That's enough, but when we're even one man short (because of vacations), that's critical," Ryals says.

As fire chief, Ryals' job consists of "making sure that all the units are running and all stations are maintained."

Ryals hires his own firemen, assuring himself that they're educated to his satisfaction "as well as certified by the state."

For certification, Texas requires its firemen to complete at least 335 hours of basic training both inside and outside the classroom, according to Ryals.

That personal contact with each fireman from the first moment on is something that Ryals tries to maintain throughout the fireman's tenure on the Big Spring force.

"I enjoy watching the people we hire grow on the job," says Ryals.

AFTER 20 YEARS of fighting fires, is it safe to say that the 45-year-old Ryals has found his niche in life? Does he have ambitions beyond being fire chief?

"No," Ryals responds, his only ambition is "just to be a better chief."

How could he accomplish that? He says he'd like to get out and periodically visit big-city fire departments, both to learn their procedures and to keep on top of the latest developments in the fire-fighting industry.

But for a man who seems to jump at every chance he gets to educate local folks on fire safety and prevention, there's little time for trips to Dallas.

There's also a two-year-old girl at home who demands attention, as well as a large yard that needs keeping up, and a variety of other things that keep Chief Ryals here in Big Spring, doing what he does best, what he's done for two decades, making sure as little of Big Spring as possible burns down.

Cotton up; prices down

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Prospects for a good cotton crop in Howard and several surrounding counties are much brighter this year than last, says Don Richardson, Howard County agricultural extension agent.

Last year, Howard County farmers harvested 20,000 bales of cotton, one of the worst harvests the area has even seen. There are 110,000 acres of cotton fields in Howard County, Richardson said.

To break even, most farmers figure they need to make at least 60 cents a pound this year on one bale of cotton (about 500 pounds) per acre. Last year "was terrible. We were way below that," said Richardson.

This year, farmers and agri-businessmen are estimating between 100,000 and 150,000 bales for the county, and "we might beat that," Richardson said.

WHY IS THE CROP SO MUCH better this year than last? Richardson said there are several reasons farmers are hoping this will be a better year.

"We didn't have the high temperatures this year that we did last year. Also, the moisture was very timely.

Another thing that devastated crops last year was the bollworm. This year, Richardson said, the insects did not pose a threat to the cotton.

Why? "I don't really know," Richardson said. Weather and growing conditions "didn't figure up to a big buildup" of the insects, he said.

Although prospects for a healthy cotton crop are high, there is another problem cotton farmers must face this year, and that is a poor cotton market.

"The biggest problem the farmers are facing now is the current cotton price," said Richardson. The cotton price now is about 50 cents a pound.

To make a good profit, Richardson said farmers should receive "about 80 cents a pound. That's what we'd like to have."

Allan Day, Borden County extension agent, echoed Richardson's opinion on the lowly cotton market and said "Borden County farmers are going to have a hard time breaking even," with the market as low as it is.

IT'S HARD TO MAKE ENDS meet, explained Day.

Local church burns albums

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The pungent smell of polyvinyl rose in the air as several hundred rock 'n' roll and country and western records were set on fire Friday night by the members of the Hillcrest Baptist Church in Big Spring.

Going up in smoke, so to speak, were albums by Roy Orbison, The Beach Boys, Elvis Presley, Patsy Cline, Willie Nelson, Jim Croce, and Kiss.

The crowd, made up of about 50 adults, teenagers, and elementary school age children, watched calmly as the fire was lit and managed only a weak chant of "Kiss Burn... Kiss Burn" as the flames engulfed the pile of records sending black smoke into the approaching twilight.

After the fire had started most of the crowd drifted back to church to attend choir practice or wait for the revival service.

The public display, which was to condemn the lifestyle of most rock stars, was spurred on by evangelist Wayne Copelin, a minister from Fort Worth.

"I present a message to the parents and children about the decadent lifestyles and morals of rock stars. I tell them about the sex, the drugs, and the satanic lyrics which run rampant in the music. I don't actively advocate the burning of records, but if the people decide to burn the records I feel they have made a personal choice. There is no high pressure here to burn records," said Copelin.

Copelin pointed out the drug overdoses by Jimi Hendrix, Jim Morrison, and Elvis as being indicative of the availability of drugs. Copelin quoted Linda Ronstadt as

RECORD ALBUMS GO UP IN SMOKE
...Hillcrest Baptist Church members burn records saying she could sing better high on heroin.

Copelin quoted Gene Simmons of KISS as saying he had sex with 1,000 women. Copelin added that Bob Seger's lyrics about sex in the backseat of a car were morally corrupt.

On the subject of the devil Copelin pointed out the song "Symphony for the Devil" by the Rolling Stones as being a cornerstone for Satan's force in rock music.

Copelin said he believes rock music is damaging physiologically and causes violence and anarchy among today's young people.

Copelin quoted from a book by Bob Hanson called "The Day the Music Died" saying that loud music damages the neurosensory system and breaks down the conscious will to where the mind becomes impressionable to the lyrics it is being fed.

"Lyrics like 'Let's Spend the Night Together' or 'I Want to Kiss You All Over' are satanic, ungodly, unholly and detrimental to everything that is decent and good about humanity," said Copelin.

Relying heavily on out-of-context quotes Copelin attacks everyone from Conway Twitty to John Lennon in his sermon on rock music. Copelin believes rock 'n' roll lyrics are a direct result of a Communist inspired plot begun in the 1930s. He also believes the beat of rock music causes changes in the hormones to a point where moral inhibitions are dropped.

Copelin explained that anyone who buys rock 'n' roll music is supporting the twisted morals and perversions of rock stars and that the supporters are directly accountable to God for promoting these alleged atrocities.

When asked about worthwhile concerts to raise money for a non-nuclear future, or for deprived Viet Nam veterans, or the late Harry Chapin's crusade to fight world hunger, Copelin said they were usually publicity stunts.

Asked if some of his references were sensationalized, Copelin hesitated to answer, replied that the proof was in the magazines and newspapers he used for his sources.

Copelin also said the record burning in no way resembled Adolf Hitler's burning of objectionable books and material.

"You have to remember this is voluntary, Hitler's wishes were carried out by coercion and executive order," said Copelin.

Most of the crowd that attended the record torching said they were there primarily to watch and had no real convictions against contemporary music.

Copelin has been at the Hillcrest Church for the past week speaking on a variety of topics from marriage, to being born again, as well as rock 'n' roll.

Big Spring man shot to death on I-20

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

A 42-year-old Big Spring man was shot to death on Interstate 20 about five miles west of the city early Saturday morning, sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies took into custody Jose Crenceno Brito, 38, and charged him with the murder of Octavio Olivares of 4220 Hamilton.

Brito, a Knott resident and apparently related by law to Olivares, was arrested minutes after a deputy found the body of Olivares slumped over in a pickup truck parked on the shoulder of the interstate, said Sheriff A.N. Standard.

Brito was found with a 22 revolver in his hand, Standard said.

Brito was detained in county jail on a $25,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bobby West. The bond was posted by Basden and Conway bail bond service and Brito was released from jail at 3:06 p.m. Saturday, according to sheriff's department records.

Standard said Deputy Alvin White came upon the scene of the crime at 1:05 a.m. as he was driving on the interstate. Spotting a vehicle parked by the side of the highway that looked suspicious, White investigated and found a man slumped over on the seat

THE MAN WAS STILL alive and an ambulance was summoned. He was identified by his driver's license. A few minutes later Brito was found in the vicinity of the truck and taken into custody, Standard said.

Two more deputies arrived on the scene, as well as the ambulance. Olivares died en route to Malone-Hogan hospital and Justice Bobby West pronounced him dead, said Standard.

At the sheriff's request, West ordered an autopsy performed on Olivares. A "small caliber" bullet was found in Olivares's chest and this was the only wound Olivares received, said Standard.

Olivares and Brito were acquainted with each other, the sheriff said.

"They were in-laws," he told The Herald. "We can presume that there was some type of altercation between them" which led to the shooting, he said.

The men had been traveling westward together in the truck when the incident occurred, said Standard.

A FUNERAL SERVICE for Olivares has been set for 2 p.m. today at the Trinity Memorial Funeral Home in Big Spring. A second service will be held at St. James church in Seminole at 10 a.m. Monday, with burial in Seminole to follow. Olivares was born in 1939 in Pharr, Tex., and had been a welder for CMC Corp., according to information supplied to the funeral home by relatives.

He married Catarina Heredia in 1958 in Big Spring and had lived here for the past two years. Prior to that he lived in Seminole and was a member of the Immaculate Heart of Mary church.

Survivors include his wife; four daughters, Janie Morales of Odessa, Mary Lou Cruz of Seminole, Mary Lucy Olivares and Crisita Olivares, both of Big Spring; four sons, Joe, Jimmy, Johnny and Jessie, all of Big Spring; four sisters, Teresa Brito of Knott, Janie Rocha of Big Spring, Margarita Heredia of Knott, Mary Hernandez of Big Spring; four brothers, Albert of Artesia, N.M., Freddie of Luther, Marcellina Jr. of Luther and Henry of Big Spring; his mother, Herminia Olivares of Luther, and two grandchildren.

Bollworms no problem this year, farmers say

when comparing what the cotton brings on the market to interest costs, and "the cost of putting the crop in the ground. We need more than 50 or 55 cents a pound to break even."

But Borden County is looking at a healthy crop this season, said Day. There are 30,000 acres of cotton in the county, and Day figures that each acre will yield two-thirds of a bale to a bale on the average.

"That's not as good as we'd like," Day added, "But it's going to be a good crop."

Harvest for this area is "around the first frost" said Day, or around the first of November. Some farmers harvest earlier, like mid to latter October.

MARTIN COUNTY EXTENSION Agent Rick Vestal said crop prospects "are pretty good all over the county," and estimates a harvest of one-half to three-quarters of a bale.

"A good to excellent year is a bale" per acre, said Vestal. He calls this year "good to average."

But, compared to harvests the past two years, "It looks pretty good to us."

Vestal blames last year's poor crop on bollworms, which "ate us up 80 percent. We'd have made some cotton last year if it hadn't been for the bollworms."

Last year's heat was also a factor, Vestal agreed, and estimated that temperatures this year "have been 10 degrees lower on the average."

BILL JANY, EXTENSION entomologist for Scurry and Mitchell counties, said that in Mitchell County, farmers are estimating 60,000 to 70,000 bales, a figure he calls "very good."

Mitchell County has about 80,000 acres of cotton. Insect infestations in Mitchell County this year "have been extremely light. We had small problems with aphids and bollworms" but nothing serious, said Jany.

"Last year, the bollworms did as much damage as the lack of rain, in my opinion," said Jany. Although cotton is weighing heavy on many people's minds in this part of the country, there are firms throughout the United States working with farmers. One firm, Cotton Incorporated, which headquarters out of New York, has a local fan in farmer A.G. Rogers.

Rogers said he became a fan of Cotton Incorporated about two years ago, when he went to a meeting in Raleigh, N.C., and saw what Cotton Incorporated offers farmers.

The organization operates research and development labs in several sections of North and South Carolina, said Rogers, where many textile mills are located.

"That's where we sell our cotton," Rogers explained.

Rogers, who said he was speaking for himself only, said "I don't think we can stay in business with cotton at 50 to 55 cents a pound. Organizations such as Cotton Incorporated, said Rogers, may help farmers battle the low market figures.

Rogers said "Farmers are the only ones who raise something, then ask what (the market) will pay for it."

Rogers, voicing his dismay over the market, joked "That's the way it goes, when we have cotton, the market is low, and when we don't have any, it's high."

Police Beat

Woman reports robbery-rape

A 24-year-old Big Spring woman filed a complaint with police saying she had been raped in her home and robbed at about 1:45 a.m. Saturday, according to police reports.

She told police she did not know the man and supplied officers with only a vague description of her assailant, said police Detective Bud Jones. Jones said the woman told officers the man was "possibly black" and had the "odor of cigarette smoke" on him, Jones said.

Before he left the woman's home he took $150 in cash from the woman's purse, according to police reports.

Detectives were trying to reach the woman Saturday for more details but were unable to locate her, said Jones.

Police officers arrested seven local men and one Odessa man in the parking lot of the Giant Food Store, 611 Lamesa Highway, at 2:57 a.m. Saturday, according to police reports. The men all were charged with violating state liquor laws by consuming alcoholic beverages in public after hours.

● Charlie White, 52, of 1610 Nolan, told police that he loaned his car to someone and found his .22-caliber revolver missing the day after the car was loaned. The loss of the gun happened within the last week and was reported Saturday, police said.

● Grover Cleveland, 31, of 1519 Wood, complained to police that someone unknown to him broke the windshield to his vehicle while it was parked outside his home Friday night, according to police reports. Cleveland estimated his loss at $200, police said.

● Elvira Dizon, 25, an employee of Malone-Hogan Hospital, told police that someone entered the hospital's second-floor nurse's lounge early Saturday and stole her wallet and $100 in cash, police said.

● Police arrested Douglas Jackson, 25, of 1503 Avion, at 1 a.m. Saturday on charges of public intoxication and criminal mischief. Officers arrested Jackson after responding to a call that a man had broken a window out of a door to the emergency room at Cowper Hospital, 1500 Gregg.

● Police arrested a male juvenile for theft after he allegedly stole a guitar from McKiski Music Co. at 609 Gregg. The guitar was returned to the shop Friday afternoon, police said.

● Vehicles driven by Sandra Cantu of Ackerly and John McMurra of Sterling City collided on rain-slick streets at the intersection of 15th and Gregg at about 2 p.m. Friday, police said. No injuries were reported.

Weekend crashes kill 20

By The Associated Press

Four people were killed in a three-vehicle crash in McAllen early Saturday, and two College Station residents perished in a grinding two-car wreck near Lincoln, raising the state's Labor Day traffic death toll to 20, the Texas Department of Public Safety reported.

The DPS has estimated 48 people will die on Texas roads between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday.

Killed in the 1 a.m. crash near McAllen were 29-year-old Jose Reyna of Houston, 24-year-old Martha Aguilar Garcia and 55-year-old Carmen Aguilar, both of McAllen. Sylvia Ruth Garcia, 27, of McAllen, died later at a local hospital.

Conrad Alan Cayting Sr., of College Station, and his wife, Phyllis, both 47, died in a three-vehicle wreck about 9:40 a.m. Saturday. The accident took place on Texas 21 about three miles east of Lincoln.

Three Houston residents died in accidents within the city limits late Friday and early Saturday, the DPS said.

Key Club gears up for fall

The Key Club, a youth service organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, is gearing up for several fall activities, according to Johnny Hatch, secretary.

SLIP SLIDIN' AWAY — A Friday afternoon downpour filled the streets with rainwater and nearly washed this vehicle away in the 700 block of Scurry. As the car slowly was pushed down the street by the force of the water, it was rescued by its owner and parked safely in a driveway. Little damage was reported from the downpour, according to checks with local law enforcement and fire authorities. The experimental farm recorded 1.1 inches of rainfall while the Colorado River

Municipal Water District said it recorded "an inch and a half" at its pump station north of town. "I believe we had an inch at Lake Thomas, with no runoff," added Paschal Odum, CRMWD assistant manager. "We could use some sunny days now to get the cotton growing," said Charles Yates, an engineer at the experimental farm. Friday's downpour brought the yearly rainfall total to a little over 13 inches.

FRIENDLY SKIES — Colonel Patsy Edwards stands aboard her P-51 Mustang Fighter ready for another air show by the Confederate Air Force. The P-51 is a vintage World War II fighter plane owned by Mrs. Edwards and is used in shows put on by the West Texas Wing of the CAF.

Planes dive from out of the sky and machine guns hammer away as bomb explosions cause fires to flash and smoke to billow. Is this a movie? World War III?

The above action is a re-enactment of one of the famous air battles of World War II by the Ghost Squadron of the Confederate Air Force. The CAF can recreate Pearl Harbor, the Battle of Midway, and others with its squadron of original WWII planes and dedicated crews, said Colonel Jim Hill of Big Spring, who is a pilot in the CAF.

The CAF, which is an all-volunteer non-profit organization, schedules various types of air shows from time to time to perpetuate the memory of the hard won victories in WWII, said Hill.

"WE'VE ASSEMBLED an 84-plane collection of flyable WWII combat aircraft. We want to preserve the memory of the great sacrifices in WWII and also the great victories," said Hill.

Hill said the CAF was established in 1950 with four objectives in mind: (1) to acquire a complete collection of prominent American WWII aircraft; (2) develop facilities for display and protection of the aircraft; (3) provide necessary maintenance; (4) preserve the aircraft as symbols of American heritage.

Headquarters for the CAF are located in the Harlingen International Airport, Harlingen, Tex. The CAF has also established Wings of Chapters in several parts of the country to enable members in each area to actively participate in local CAF air shows and restoration projects.

THE WEST TEXAS WING of the CAF is planning a major show at the Midland Regional Airport on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. Hill said the show will give the people in the area a chance to view the planes and also see them in action.

The organization depends entirely on private donations and the funds the shows bring in. Hill said maintenance is the biggest cost because the planes are old and getting older and the CAF must keep working on them constantly and the process is becoming more expensive.

"We hope the show in Midland will be well supported so we can bring in some money for the maintenance fund," said Hill.

Hill did not have any exact figures on how much it costs to keep a plane flying, but he said the cost for an individual sponsoring a plane ranges annually from $3,500 and higher.

The CAF aircraft are models built from 1939 until 1945 and planes included are the B-29 Superfortress, the P-51 Mustang Fighter, the Navy Divebomber and the P-40 regional airport Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

"THE PLANES WERE being turned to scrap after the war and so the CAF organized to try and save at least one of each type combat aircraft used in WWII. A P-51 worth $500 in 1946 will sell today for about $200,000," said Hill.

The CAF is kept flying by relatively few men. Hill estimates the number to be around 150.

GOOD OLD DAYS — Colonel Jim Hill and his wife Terri enjoy a humorous moment at an air show given by the Ghost Squadron of the Confederate Air Force. The CAF is a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving the combat aircraft used in World War II. The CAF plans a major show in Midland at the Regional Airport Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

The planes were being turned to scrap after the war and so the CAF organized to try and save at least one of each type combat aircraft used in WWII.

"Not everyone who is a member is a pilot or a WWII veteran. We have mechanics, ground crews, etc. Our volunteers are civilians, service personnel, and ex-servicemen like me," said Hill.

Hill said the minimum age for membership is 18 and annual dues are $150 or a person can pay $1,500 and be a member for life. Each member is made an honorary colonel and all dues and contributions are tax deductible.

"We hope to perpetuate the important memory of WWII with our planes and air shows. We want the people who come to the shows to go away with some notion of the important victories the United States won in WWII," said Hill.

Jim Hill, Doug Warren, John McKiski, Patsy Edwards and Rob Satterfield will be representing Big Spring at the air show in Midland.

'Eyes in the sky' trace influx of illegal aliens

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Every morning, a lone hunter mounts his space-age steed and stalks a frustratingly wily prey — illegal aliens crossing the Rio Grande into the El Paso area.

The hunter: a U.S. Border Patrol agent. The steed: a helicopter.

"Helicopters are a great assistance to us because they can observe a lot that the ground units can't see," said Ed Garcia, acting director of the Border Patrol office in El Paso.

The helicopters provide the "eyes in the sky" in the Border Patrol's chore of attempting to stop the tide of illegal aliens sweeping across the river, said copter pilot John Jennings.

"It's frightening," Jennings said. "The country's actually being invaded and there's not a thing we can do about it."

But it's the job of Jennings and fellow pilots Ed Nichols and Loren Nichols to try. So they spend their days in the air above El Paso and the surrounding countryside, watching from above as their counterparts on the ground try to stop the human deluge.

Garcia said the helicopter has been used in El Paso for nearly two years. The Border Patrol also uses copters at its office in Chula Vista, Calif., he said.

Garcia said manpower shortages have limited the ability of the Border Patrol to keep Mexicans from illegally crossing the border to immigrate, look for jobs or simply shop in El Paso stores.

"Sometimes, we can't respond because of a lack of ground units," Garcia said. "Consequently, the chopper does see a lot of things that we can't take care of."

The patrol still picks up large numbers of illegal aliens as they cross or after they are caught holding jobs on the United States side of the border, but many go uncaptured and others are released and can try the crossing again.

"Because of the heavy volume and because usually the person caught crossing is not a chronic offender, we usually recommend voluntary departure for the ones we pick up," he said, adding that repeat offenders generally are formally deported.

"If we catch them here again after they've been deported, then we can seek prosecution," Garcia said.

Despite the frustrations, the chopper jockeys enjoy their work and develop a relationship with the illegal aliens that is at once menacing and friendly.

Jennings began a recent day helping ground units in a raid on an El Paso rock quarry where Border Patrol investigators believed several illegal aliens were working.

Before taking off, Jennings checked the maze of switches and dials in the Hughes 500 four-seater, slipped on his helmet and gloves and anchored his thermos between the seats.

"I always bring coffee along with me to make it as much like home as possible," he said.

After a smooth, low takeoff, Jennings headed westward toward the towering Franklin Mountains and the rock quarry where he was to meet agents traveling in unmarked vehicles.

As Jennings circled above, the other agents swept through the quarry searching for undocumented workers. Jennings spotted a group of men huddled among the rocks on a high, bulldozer-carved bluff and signaled to the agents below.

Six illegal aliens were taken into custody by the ground forces. Jennings waved and headed toward the Rio Grande for his daily search for Mexicans slipping across the shallow river on their way north.

As the copter made its way past the downtown skyline, Jennings told how the pilots sometimes quickly land their aircraft and make the arrests themselves.

"You can do so much more with a helicopter than with an airplane," he said. "We just land right beside of them and grab hold of them."

Because El Paso and Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, line either side of the river, Jennings said the Border Patrol gets complaints about noise caused by the low-flying helicopter.

"We have to be careful flying over private property," the big pilot said with a shrug. "They complain that we blow dirt and make too much noise. Or they get mad about us picking up their illegal help. A noisy, dusty helicopter is a prime thing to yell about."

He's careful about flying too low because an irate alien sometimes decides to see if a rock can bring a helicopter down.

"Some of these kids can really chuck a rock," he said. "You try to get out of arm range unless he looks like the Incredible Hulk, then you get completely out of the area."

Here and there along the river were apparent border crossers, including a group of about 40 near a downtown railroad bridge over the river. Jennings spotted a Border Patrol ground unit nearby and flew on. A rock sailed by.

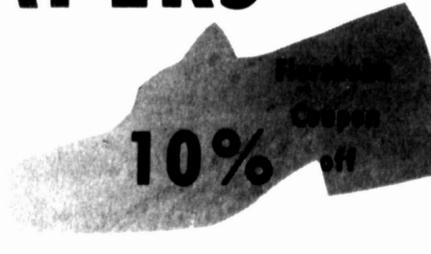

Not all of the aliens are hostile. Many smiled and waved as the aircraft passed overhead. Jennings returned the waves through the open door.

Special time of the year --time for the county fair

School has started, the first football game has been played, the rains have begun — and the first day of fall is only 16 days away.

A new season is beginning — temperatures are cooler, the cotton is looking great, hay is being baled, garden crops are being harvested, new fall gardens are being planted.

Every end is a new beginning.

AND IF FALL IS in the air, that can only mean it's time for the county fair.

The Howard County Fair is scheduled Sept. 21-26, and from every indication it will be outstanding.

Dozens of people involved in running the various divisions have been meeting and making plans for this to be one of the most exciting fairs ever.

Features will include agricultural exhibits, a Midway carnival, commercial exhibits, contests, entertainment, petting zoo, jackpot lamb show, goat show, horse show-roping, pet show, special events, steershow jackpot, women's exhibits, stone-cutting exhibit, Bantam chicken show and circus.

THE MORE PEOPLE involved, the better the fair.

We urge everyone with a talent — whether it be baking pies or shooting photographs or growing corn or canning pickles or raising guinea pigs or showing horses — to share it with us at the Fair.

Rules are detailed in the official fair catalogue which is available for the asking at the County Extension Office in the basement of the courthouse.

"Seriously, Figby... Headquarters is asking some pretty heavy questions about you guys on the narc squad."

A wacky decision

Art Buchwald

I know most people are having difficulty deciding whether we should give AWACs to the Saudi Arabians or not. It's one of those military decisions no one likes to make.

What's an AWAC? Well, it's nothing more than a funny-looking Boeing 707 airplane filled with all sorts of super electronic gear that goes "beep, beep, beep" when unfriendly planes attack your planes, and "ark, ark, ark" when your planes attack the other chaps' aircraft.

It is so chock full of secret equipment that even telling you this much is giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Now it was never our intention to give the Saudis AWAC airplanes. We had agreed to sell them the F-15 fighter, which is a very lovely piece of military hardware with bomb racks, sidewinders and extra gas tanks; a top of the line weapon any OPEC country could be proud of.

What happened was that the Iran-Iraq war started, and we sent over a couple of American AWACs to protect the Saudis.

"What are those?" a member of the Saudi Royal Family asked a U.S. Air Force sergeant in Riyadh.

The Air Force sergeant said proudly, "Those are U.S. AWACs, which happen to be the latest thing in aerial warfare. You can fight an entire war and watch an in-flight movie at the same time."

"We'll take five," the Saudi Arabian prince said, taking out his Gucci wallet. "They're not for sale," the Air Force sergeant said.

"I've never known a weapon the U.S. made that wasn't for sale. If we don't get our AWACs, we're upping the price of our oil two dollars a barrel, and taking all our deposits out of the Chase Manhattan Christmas fund."

The Air Force sergeant passed on the conversation to the U.S. ambassador in Saudi Arabia during a crap game, who passed it on to Washington who bucked it up to the White House.

The National Security Council debated the issue. One member said, "If we sell the Saudis the AWACs we can recycle most of the money we're paying for Saudi Arabian crude."

"But if something happens to the Royal Family," another member of the NSC warned, "then the AWACs could fall into unfriendly hands and the Soviets would know all our secrets."

A third member said, "And let's not forget the Israelis. They'll feel threatened by the AWACs and we'll have to give them 12 Stealth Bombers that aren't off the drawing boards yet."

"I think the president is going to have to decide this one."

Someone put in a call to President Reagan.

"Mr. President, how do you feel about selling the Saudi Arabians AWACs?"

"Gosh, it sounds great to me."

"Don't you want to know the options, Mr. President?"

"Heck, I'll go along with whatever you people think is best. What's an AWAC?"

"It's an airborne radar system that could affect the balance of power in the Middle East."

"Will it send a message to the Russians?" the president asked.

"In 12 different languages."

"Then let's do it. We haven't sent them a message all week."

Nightmare in literary world

Joseph Kraft

NEW YORK — The Abbott affair, a hard lesson in the tragedy of life, has set upon the literary world here in New York. Here is what happened.

Jack Henry Abbott was born in 1944 on a military base in Oscoda, Mich., the son of a prostitute. He was raised by foster parents and in detention centers and a reform school. At 19 he was sent to the state penitentiary in Utah for passing a bad check. He killed another inmate in a knife fight, and was given a sentence of up to 20 years. He escaped and held up a bank in Denver. He was captured and sentenced, in 1971, to a 19-year term in the federal prison system.

At Leavenworth, in 1973, Abbott began to steep himself in literature, philosophy and Marxist doctrine. In 1977 he initiated a correspondence with the novelist Norman Mailer, who was then working on his book about the convicted murderer, Gary Gilmore.

Mailer found genuine literary gifts in Abbott and interested a leading publisher and a literary journal of high quality. In July of this year Random House issued, under the title "In the Belly of the Beast," Abbott's letters from prison. Mailer wrote the introduction which first appeared in the New York Review of Books on June 11.

The book mixes general reflections on life with half-baked Marxism and a truly compelling account of prison days. Abbott describes in detail brutality, perversion, corruption and racism. He tells what it is like to knife a fellow prisoner. He says of himself: "I have never been in bodily contact with another human being in almost 20 years except in combat."

In "the introduction, Mailer calls prison the 'dispose-all anus of a prodigiously diseased society.' He places Abbott among those few who do not break — 'the proudest, the bravest, the most daring, the most enterprising and the most undefeated of the poor.'"

Reviewers were also impressed. The New York Times book review called Abbott's work "awesome, brilliant." The Los Angeles Times dubbed his book "a work touched with dark greatness."

Besides arranging for publication, Mailer interested himself in a parole for Abbott. He wrote authorities asserting Abbott's qualities as a writer, and offering to give him a job. Letters certifying Abbott's writing gifts were also sent by Robert Silvers of the New York Review of Books, and Errol McDonald, Abbott's editor at Random House. In January of this year, Abbott was transferred from the federal penitentiary in Marion, Ill., back to the Utah authorities. On June 5, he was sent to a halfway house in downtown New York prior to full parole on Aug. 25.

On July 18, Abbott went to eat in an Italian restaurant in the neighborhood. He asked for permission to use the toilet, and was refused by the waiter, who said it was forbidden for sanitary reasons. Abbott asked the waiter to step outside, and then killed him with a knife thrust to the heart. The waiter was Richard Adan, a 22-year-old actor and playwright of promise who had had his first work produced at an experimental theater here in New York.

A month later, M.A. Farber of the New York Times published a story that added a new dimension to the Abbott nightmare. Mr. Farber wrote that before leaving the Marion penitentiary Abbott signed a long statement which "recanted" a previous "story about having been tortured, provided information about other inmates, and made a series of accusations about the Marion Prisoners Rights Project" — a group of liberal lawyers working for better conditions at Marion. The clear implication was that Abbott had achieved parole by snitching to the authorities on other inmates.

It is tempting to see in all this a closed circle of guilt with everybody at fault — Abbott for being a killer; the authorities for brutalizing him and then releasing him; Mailer for idolizing violence; the editors for confusing a person with a cause.

An awful finale may yet follow. Editors at Random House say Abbott has been calling his agent from Mexico with a proposition that he write an article about the most recent murder. They predict that in the end Abbott will emerge as a "sick celebrity" and Richard Adan — the one truly innocent victim — will be forgotten.

Around the rim Moment of truth

Walt Finley

A wife rebuked her husband who had been glued to the TV set all day, and said, "I think you love football more than you love me."

He blushed and thought a moment and said, "I don't know if that is true, but I will say this:

"I love you more than I love baseball."

ASK AND YE SHALL receive. Eli "Twinkle Toes" Guinn, during a recent visit to Big Spring, asked me to refresh his memory of baseball great Satchel Paige's "Six Rules for a Happy Life."

I looked and I looked. I finally found 'em in the family Bible. I'll have to be careful this time and hide them in the chandelier, under the rug, in the medicine cabinet and maybe even in my files so the next time I want them, I'll be able to find them in five or six hours.

Meanwhile, for those who haven't heard them, here they are:

Six Rules for a Happy Life — By Satchel Paige

1. Avoid fried meats which angry up the blood.
2. If your stomach disputes you, lie down and pacify it with cool thoughts.
3. Keep the juices flowing by jangling around gently as you move.
4. Go very lightly on the vices, such as carrying on in society. The social ramble ain't restful.
5. Avoid running at all times.

6. Don't look back. Something may be gaining on you.

An exhibition of jewels in London will be guarded by a 4½-foot-long cobra. "If those jewels disappear, Scotland Yard will be off on its first mongoose-chase," remarked beautiful Bertina DeLeon, who celebrates her birthday Tuesday.

The CIA is advertising for recruits. Just a few good people who love their country, respect the flag and will never tell anyone where they work.

REAGAN CAN'T stand four weeks out of the limelight. If someone accused him of loving publicity, he'd call a press conference to deny it.

Okies in Muskogee are demanding a new government count of its population. City officials don't understand why the U.S. Census Bureau can't be as accurate as the Chamber of Commerce.

"PERSONALLY," a father remarked, "I have my doubts about solar energy. My son has spent most of his life on the beach, and he has less energy than anyone I know."

I think it was that highway man, Nathan Dalton, who asked,

"Did you hear about the clown who could remember his wife's birthday and their anniversary, but could never remember her name?"

"Then there was the poor little guy who was so timid he was afraid to ask if he could sit in the front seat of the car pool — and it was his car?"

TERRIFIC TERRI Beard Merrick, now making words for the Herald after doing the same thing at the Abilene Reporter-News, has a friend who was dissatisfied with the photographer.

"Tell me truthfully," she said, "Does this outrageous picture look like me?"

Suavely the cool photographer replied:

"Madam, the answer is in the negative."

WEST TEXAS FARMERS are still looking for some crop that can be saved in July or August by a rain of 12 of an inch.

The Prince and the Princess are married, the baseball strike is settled, the Dallas Cowboys clobbered the Houston Oilers and Reagan has captured Congress. Oh, well, we can still talk about the weather.

M-E-R-R-Y JO BRIGHT, information director for the city recreation department in Austin, says baseball fans are delighted by the strike settlement, but their feelings can't compare with the joy in the Internal Service. Jo, former Herald Society Editor, plans to live it up on her birthday Tuesday.

Are saunas harmful to health?

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: We have a sauna in our home. We would like to know if there is a limit to how long a person can stay in a sauna. The temperature is about 160 degrees at its highest point. I heard one should stay in no longer than 10 minutes, then take a cool shower, and that this can be done three times. Is it harmful to your health to stay in longer than 10 minutes at a time? — Mrs. K.T.

The use of dry or damp heat to promote sweating is shrouded in the mists of antiquity. These were the cleansing traditions of the Greek gods, who were supposed, in this way, to keep their youthful appearance. The ancients also thought the earth was flat.

Saunas are not for the elderly, the very obese, those with heart or lung problems or those with high blood pressure. The heart rate increases by about 56 beats per minute, and in 15 minutes it can double its resting rate. That is the equivalent rise expected from 10 minutes of jogging! Blood pressure also rises.

The basic sauna consists of the heating up period and the cooling down period, followed by a rest. Normally, veterans repeat the three times. I cannot give you hard and fast particulars, but sauna aficionados advise starting at a temperature of 150 degrees. Devotees do increase the temperature to 180 degrees. I would not stay longer than 10 minutes. In fact, you would have a hard time getting me into one in the first place. If I did use one, I wouldn't repeat the suggested sequence at first.

Please check with your doctor to see if you should be placing such stress on your heart and circulation. Certainly, a sedentary person should not casually begin a sauna program without a thorough examination. All users should be aware of the heart rate and blood pressure consequences from even brief exposure.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My son has taken up bicycle racing. He is 17, and can do a 25-mile time trial (level terrain) at 23 miles an hour. In his training this summer he would get very hot and sweaty, and feel tired and "cruddy" (his word). I told him he should take salt pills. He didn't like the idea, and we argued. What would you recommend, if anything, regarding the salt pills? He trains very hard. My wife says that if he exercises too much he could burst his heart like a balloon. Is that possible? — W.M.D.

You should cool it with the salt pills. Only in the very early days of intensive training, in hot weather with a great deal of sweating, is it necessary to take supplemental salt. Salt tablets particularly, are too concentrated a form of salt and irritate the stomach.

During the first two weeks of training your son can replenish what salt he loses in sweat by using salt liberally at meals and by drinking cool water with a small amount of salt, say about a third of a teaspoon for each quart of water. He should not limit the amount of water he drinks. He must keep himself well hydrated. That is really the important factor. Your wife is wrong. His heart will not burst like a balloon from exercise.

Walnut tree flourishes

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

About 15 years ago, R.L. Hise, 114 Jonesboro Road, went looking for a pecan tree to plant in his back yard. Instead, a salesman talked him into a walnut tree, and today the tree is flourishing in Hise's backyard. He expects about 200 pounds of walnuts this year.

PEOPLE OFTEN SAY to Hise "I didn't know walnut trees would grow (in West Texas)," said Hise. "I didn't know they'd grow here, either. I've been getting English walnuts from the tree for 10 years, and I get greater yields each year."

"I don't do anything special to the tree," Hise said. "I never found out from anybody what to spray it with. I just started spraying it with nut and fruit spray," and that seems to be doing the trick, he said.

Hise loves trees and has experimented with several varieties in his yard. He has six pecan trees in the back yard, and two pine trees decorate the front of his home. He also has an almond tree and plans to add another English walnut to his collection.

The pine trees "are 30 feet tall," said Hise with pride. "I don't water them, I just let them go."

"I like a pretty shade, and I sit out here (in the backyard) nearly every afternoon since I retired."

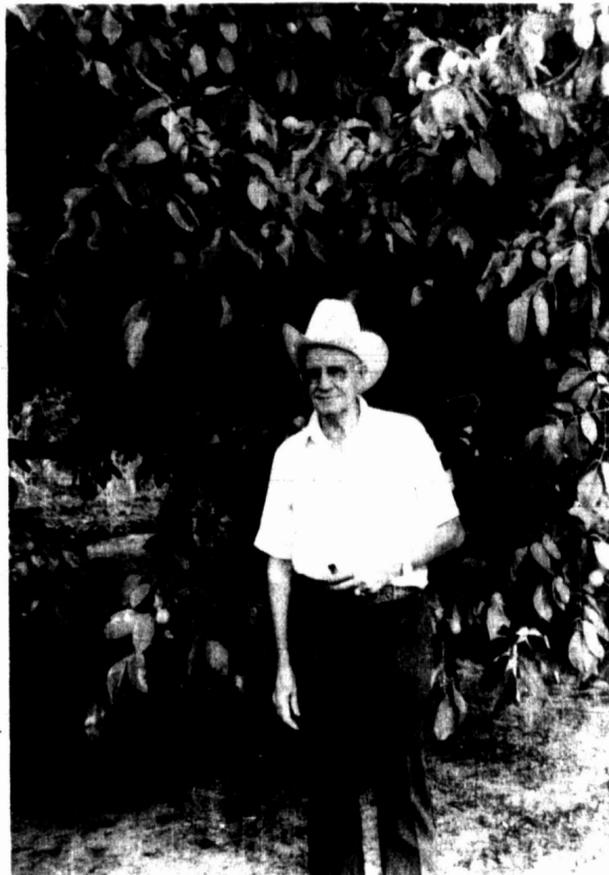

BUT HISE DOESN'T IDLE all his hours away since retiring from Texaco five years ago. In addition to his love of trees, he enjoys working with wood and building furniture. Examples of his handiwork adorn his home.

Hise has built wall-to-wall bookcases and desks, as well as picture frames, candleholders and a tape case. He's in the process now of refinishing a set of dining room chairs for a friend.

"I've got too many kinfolks to sell what I make," Hise joked, but added he has done work for other people upon request.

"When I was a kid, I liked to work with wood," Hise said. "I didn't have any tools then, though."

Hise is modest about his wood-working. "I do it just to pass the time," he said.

WALNUT HARVEST — R.L. Hise, 114 Jonesboro Road, planted a walnut tree in his backyard 15 years ago and didn't know what to expect. This year, he expects 200 pounds of walnuts from the tree. In addition to his expertise in growing trees, Hise is also into building furniture and has several pieces he made in his home.

Local youth wins trapshoot

YMCA lists new policies

Bob Cappel, YMCA executive director, has announced a series of new membership and registration policies of the YMCA for this fall.

First of all, persons who are renewing their membership will receive a $5 discount on youth, senior-citizen, college and adult if the membership is paid in full before expiration date.

A $15 discount will be given for Health Center and Family membership.

Also, persons who use the YMCA as a non-YMCA member and pay $2 a day fee can convert to a membership by receiving a credit for the fees paid. Receipts must be kept and credit will be given for those presented. Day of expiration on membership will be based on the date of the first receipt.

Beginning with the fall term, persons who drop from a class or activity will receive a credit slip. No refunds will be made on programs.

Kelly's father, Rogers said his son tied for the top position with a 99 from 21 1/2 yards with Ted Scheiden of Orchard Park, N.Y.

The 51-year-old Scheiden and young Rogers then participated in a shoot-off. Kelly broke 25 targets, beating Scheiden's 21. There were 1,483 shooters in the event to start, said Rogers.

The Grand American Trapshoot isn't the only shooting event in which Kelly has done well, said his father. He holds the National Junior High-Overall championship and is also the 4-H Club State Shoot High-Overall Champion, an honor he claimed in August.

He also has won the Oklahoma State Handicap Championship and is champion for the Texas Zone 2 Shoot.

Kelly is 16 and attends Big Spring High School, where he is a junior.

Rep. Shaw presents flag to Immaculate Heart

State Representative Larry Don Shaw visited the Immaculate Heart of Mary School last week, and presented the student council there with a state flag which had flown over the Capitol in Austin.

Sister Lucy Keane, CCVI, principal, said of the new school year, "This was one of the first years that I looked forward to school's opening."

"Most of my personal goals for the opening of school were accomplished and I felt very good about our week of inservice with the teachers and the preparedness of the teachers for their ministry of teaching," Sister Lucy added.

Six new teachers joined the staff of IHM this year. They are Joyce White, Bobby Mills, Debbie Sosolik, Shannon Mullen, Prissy Mann, and Sister Patricia Ann, CCVI.

"Our new students were a little more concerned on the first day due to hearing so many new things,"

Sister Lucy said, "but since then most of the concern has disappeared from their faces and they no longer look and feel new to IHM."

Anyone got a ticket to Redskin-Cowboy game?

WASHINGTON — Everybody is looking for them but even Rep. Charles Wilson can't find them.

They are tickets to Sunday's Washington Redskin-Dallas Cowboy game here at RFK Stadium. But they are not just tickets in football-crazy Washington because a Cowboys-Redskins match-up is not just a game.

"It's a war: You have to be there," says Gary James, a local businessman who has been searching for the elusive ticket.

The game is a sellout so it will be televised locally. But there is something about the Redskin-Cowboy rivalry that turns the nation's capital on its head, or makes it lose its head. Football fanatics are paying up to $100 to see something they can see in their living room for free.

THE REDSKINS WILL try to scalp the Cowboys Sunday and the fans are now trying to scalp each other. The Washington Post ran 23 advertisements Thursday which offered tickets at prices ranging from $50 to $100 — or more.

"They tried to stiff me," said one Washington resident who answered an ad which quoted a price of $75 for one ticket. "They asked for $150 and they said if I didn't take it someone else would."

Football fever also has been caught at Capitol Hill. Texas congressional offices adorned this week with Cowboy decals, have been bombarded with ticket requests from constituents and friends.

But these tickets seekers do not seem to realize that pushing through a pork barrel project is one thing, getting passes to the Redskin-Cowboy game is something else.

A LOT OF TIMES senators and congressmen don't understand why they can't get tickets (for friends)," says Joe Blair, a Redskin spokesman. "But it (the game) is a real hype around here."

In fact, Rep. Wilson, D-Larkin, has not been able to get tickets for himself; according to his press secretary.

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, has turned down "two or three" offers from friends to go to the game because he has a previous commitment in Texas, an aide said.

"Maybe we should contact his (Wilson's) office," said the Gramm aide.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, is facing a difficult reelection and apparently does not have time for football.

"He's not a big football fan. He would rather work than watch a game," said Don Buford, a Mattox aide.

Several other Texas congressmen said they had no plans to attend the game but would watch it on television.

MANY TEXAS congressional staffers are taking the requests for tickets with wry amusement.

"I'm from Dallas and I'm praying that I can get a ticket," said Lysette McSoud, press secretary to Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas. "I'm asking everybody for tickets and everybody says 'No way' ... All I have is a little black and white TV. I'm going to have to find some friends who have a color set."

What is it about this game that makes normally staid

"I'm asking everybody for tickets and everybody says 'no way'."

Washington go wild? The Redskin-Cowboy contests have produced some of the most memorable moments in NFL history:

(1975) Redskin safety Ken Houston stops Cowboy fullback Walt Garrison at the one-yard line to preserve victory.

(1979) With time running out, Roger Staubach throws a touchdown pass to Drew Pearson to clinch the division championship.

(1968) The Redskins, behind the passing of Sonny Jurgensen, overcame a 21-8 deficit to win 28-21, again with time running out ... John Riggins sweeps and runs into Ed "Too Tall" Jones. Ready White chases Joe Theisman around the backfield. Tony Hill goes deep against Joe Lavender ...

Does anybody have any extra tickets?

Behind the scenes in Austin

By JIM DAVIS

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — At the beginning of an at-home vacation in mid-August, I promised myself that the Texas Legislature would not enter my thoughts for two weeks.

I put up the hammock and busted the stack of books and magazines that had remained unopened during the six months that the legislature was in session this year.

When I picked up the morning newspaper, my eyes headed straight for the sports pages or the comics. I hardly even cared which story State Rep. Mike Martin was telling about his shotgun wounds that day.

With such a get-away-from-it-all attitude, I almost didn't watch the Aug. 26 telecast of CBS-TV's "The Best Little Statehouse in Texas."

Ignore it, one side of me argued. Read a book.

Oh, it might be interesting, the other side replied, maybe even entertaining.

Of course, the pro-watching side won. A vacationing fireman might hold his nose for two weeks, but he's still going to smell smoke if there's a fire nearby.

AFTER FIVE MONTHS of regular session and one month of special session, I might be sick of the legislature, but it was impossible to ignore its hour on national television. I decided to do it right — filling the refrigerator with beer and inviting some reporter friends over.

Since all the characters were familiar, the program was fascinating. It gave a rare behind-the-scenes look at the deal-making that is an integral part of the legislative process.

We saw House Speaker Billy Wayne Clayton conferring with small groups of legislators to gently push them toward a particular redistricting plan. When a dispute arose between two minority members in Austin, Clayton decided that the one who usually plays ball on his team should have her way. That's the way the game is played, but we seldom get such a good seat for watching it.

So intense was the backroom bargaining that sometimes the participants seemed to forget that they were being taped for national television.

The CBS crew, headed by Texas writer Larry L. King, received tremendous cooperation from the legislators, who allowed themselves to be fitted with body hikes and opened their doors to the cameras.

That demonstrates the power of television, particularly network television.

As the show moved from one behind-the-scenes session to another, I found myself crying out: "They laugh when I ask to attend those meetings."

My reporter friends, all with newspapers, nodded glumly.

ONE REPORTER remarked that all the legislators seemed so happy to be part of a national television program, even when their role wasn't completely flattering.

She referred to the interview of Sen. Grant Jones, Democrat of Abilene, about his bill to increase the interest rates on loans. King led Jones into admitting that a consultant to the finance lobby originally wrote the bill.

But the reporter, watching the show, was surprised at how happy Jones seemed to be about the whole thing. "It's the first time I've ever seen him smile," she said.

The show was fascinating for anyone who routinely follows the strange ways of the Texas Legislature. I don't know how it went over with Texans less interested in the process, or with persons in other states.

To its credit, CBS did not try to jazz up the show with a lot of exaggerated humor about Texas that the folks up North might have enjoyed more. That made the show move slower and made the viewer have to pay attention to catch all the nuances.

While some parts were shallow and unclear, overall the show was a valuable look at the way laws are made in Texas, and elsewhere.

As King said in his closing: "Perhaps my Texans are a bit more colorful, a bit ramer — but the process, alas, is much the same in your state and in your neighbor's."

Q. We have friends who just bought a house in another state by a loan assumption. What is this?

A. As an example — Couple A bought a home three years ago. They made a down payment, secured a loan and have been making monthly payments. They now have been transferred and must sell. Couple B wants to buy A's house. Couple B is able to purchase A's equity in the original loan. Couple B moves into the house and makes or "takes up" the payments on the loan as established by Couple A. While this example is oversimplified, the mechanics are basically the same. Also, because of the high cost of money, in states where law allows, the lenders may increase the interest on assumption loans.

"All Savers Certificates"

OCTOBER 1, 1981

AT

STATE NATIONAL BANK

An "All Savers Certificate" allows you to earn $1000
Tax Free Interest on an individual return and up to $2000 on a Joint Return. The State National Bank will pay you the Maximum Rate allowed by law which is based on 70% of the U.S. Treasury bill rate for one year.

THE ALL SAVERS CERTIFICATE MAY BE OPENED WITH AS LITTLE AS $500.

OCTOBER 1ST IS the first day any financial institution may issue these special one year "all savers certificates". THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE HAS WARNED THAT those who rush to take advantage of widely ballhooped advance bonus interest schemes may risk losing their entire tax exemption on the certificates because the combined interest and longer maturity may violate the tax law. WHY TAKE ANY CHANCES WITH YOUR HARD EARNED DOLLARS.

Here's how a State National Tax-free Certificate can yield a higher return than a regular Certificate on a $10,000 investment.

** Interest rate based on annual yield of 6-month Money Market Certificate as of August 17, 1981.

SIGNAL language program begins

By SAM GLADDEN and DANA HILTBRUNNER
Classes began Monday, August 24, as 385 students poured into the building. Tom Henry, principal, addressed the students and stated basic Runnels rules. There are twenty-three returning teachers, five new teachers, one librarian, one proctor, two aides, one principal, one counselor, one secretary, and one attendance clerk.

Mrs. Kathy McFarland is instructing twenty-five eighth graders in the brand new SIGNAL Language Arts program. This acronym stands for Students Involved in Generous Nurturing of Academic Learning. The program has identified students in grades four through eight who attend special language arts classes. These classes are designed to enhance reading, literature, and composition skills as well as to develop higher-level, creative and more productive thinking skills.

NAL classes will be held at Runnels for selected fourth and fifth grade students. Students will come to Runnels by bus twice a week, where they will receive two hours instruction by Darlene Archer. Mrs. Archer was a 5th grade teacher at College Heights before joining the SIGNAL staff this year.

Mrs. Suzanne Cappel and Miss Joy Petigrew held an orientation meeting for all prospective officers of the student council Tuesday, September 1. Students may begin campaigning for a position next Tuesday, September 8. The entire student body will vote for their favorite candidates Friday, September 11. Available positions include: president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and one advisory representative for every ten advisory students.

The 1981-82 Annual Staff is composed of six members: Dana Anderson, Diane Crocker, Jennifer Fortner, Kevin Freeman, Brian Reid, and Zane Rutledge. Mrs. Cornelia Gary sponsors the group. Individual pictures were made for the annual Thursday, September 3, and students will order one later in the year.

James McFarland and Betty Conley are sponsoring the National Junior Honor Society this year. Purpose of the society is to: develop character, stimulate an enthusiasm for scholarship, promote leadership, encourage citizenship, and stimulate a desire to serve. Qualifications include: no class grade lower than an 85, an over-all average of 90 or above, and no conduct grade lower than an A. "This is a most prestigious society," said Tom Henry, principal.

The following students assist Jo Carlile in the attendance office: John Barkley, Anissa Barte, Doug Bailey, Shelly Brasel, Tim Carroll, Debra Doporto, Ginger Knowlton, Sandra Martinez, Jeanetta Ramey, David Salazar, and Thad Thomas. Their responsibilities include picking up attendance cards, sorting mail, and performing miscellaneous duties.

Runnels' library workers, under the direction of Mabel Beene, include: Dorette Alviar, Nancy Bustamante, Diane Crocker, Susan DeGroff, Lori Gilbert, Christy Moore, Lisa Parkhill, Angie Pitts, Kelly Williamson, Jimmy Winchester, Chandra Wrightsil, and Tim Wade.

Beene conducted library orientation for Runnels students during their English class. Students were allowed to start checking out books Monday, August 31, provided they had their activity cards. Library books will not be issued unless students have an activity card.

Steers' defensive plays keep Tigers at bay

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Steers fought off a valiant comeback try by the Snyder Tigers to take their first game of the season 14-13 Friday night at Memorial Stadium.

The game was almost a perfect split, with the Steers dominating the first half and the Tigers roaring back with all they could in the second half, only to be stopped by the Steers.

It was a running game practically the whole way, with Snyder's Raymond Jeffrey carrying the ball 29 times for 134 yards.

Leading ball carrier for the Steers were Bobby Earl Williams, carrying the ball 16 times for 81 yards, and Richard Evans picking up 71 yards with 13 carries.

THE DIFFERENCE in the game was the Steer defense, forcing a mishandled ball on the extra point kick that would have tied the game in the fourth quarter.

"We're tickled to win it," said Steer Coach Ralph Harris Saturday morning. "We were actually out-played for three quarters and we know it. But we made some clutch plays, especially on defense, and did what we had to."

What they had to do was protect themselves. Coach Harris' squad drew first blood 4 minutes into the game with quarterback Tracy Spence using rushers Bobby Earl Williams and Richard Evans to march down the field. Highlights of the march were 17- and 28-yard runs by Evans. Williams poked through the Snyder defense to light the scoreboard with 8:33 left to play in the quarter.

The extra point try by the Steer's Adam Rodriguez was off target, but the Big Springers had the momentum going early in the game, and showed they were there to win.

The Tigers took the kickoff, and a play later Snyder's Raymond Jeffrey began his long night of 134 yards rushing, gaining 4 yards on a handoff from Tiger quarterback David Nicholson.

CHASING A TIGER — Snyder running back George Bancroft (45, in white jersey) runs from the Big Spring 13-yard line for a touchdown in the third quarter of Friday night's game at Memorial Stadium. The Steers are in hot pursuit. Big Spring won the game 14-13 despite two second half Snyder touchdowns.

THE TIGERS MADE a good run of it, with help from the rushing efforts of Jeffrey and Mark Shaw, and punched down to the Steer 11 before a penalty for delay of game and a two-yard loss on the fourth down stopped the Snyder gridders cold.

Tigers put down a 15-yard screen pass that was wiped out by a penalty for ineligible man in the backfield. The Tiger's punt was recovered by Bill Amos to put the Steers in good field position.

sent Williams through for a six yard gain to give the Steers a first down on the Tiger 11.

A play later, quarterback Spence

Williams delivered five yards and Evans moved up four. The Steers were stopped for two plays before Spence sneaked through the Tigers to give Big Spring a healthy 12-0 lead.

THE STEERS MADE UP for the off-target extra point kick earlier with a two-point conversion from a Spence pitch to Williams to put the score at 14-0 with six minutes left in the half.

The Tigers used Raymond Jeffrey heavily in the 2nd quarter, but could not produce points against the Steer defense. Nicholson handed off to Jeffrey for a three-yard gain to give the Tigers a first down on their 45. He later passed to Brent for a gain of 35 yards to put the Tigers on the Steer 10 with a first down.

The Snyder drive ended when the Tigers elected to run on a fourth down and goal, but were stopped by the Steer defense.

The Steers took over on their own three and the half ended with an incomplete pass.

SNYDER'S NEW COACH George Byerly must have taken a long look at the scoreboard during halftime, because the Tigers came roaring back in the third quarter. Snyder took the second half kickoff and drove the length of the field. Mark Shaw scampered 12 yards to score for the Tigers, and a good extra point kick halved Big Spring's lead to 14-7 with 8:33 left to play in the third quarter.

The Steer offense was never a major threat in the second half, but the defense played a major role in carrying the game.

"The defense did a tremendous job, and helped offset some poor coaching decision on the offense," said Coach Harris. "We should never have made the run at 4th down in midfield. We had a lead and there was no reason to go for it."

That play, and a fumble late in the third quarter set up the Tigers for their final scoring drive. The Tigers picked up the ball on the Steer 35 yard line, and runs by quarterback Nicholson got the Tigers moving. Jeffrey's nine-yard gain, followed by an eight-yard run by Mark Shaw gave Snyder a first down on the 12 yard line.

JUST THREE MINUTES into the final quarter, Nicholson faked up the middle and came around the end to score six and close the Steer lead to one point.

But a bad snap prevented the Tigers from evening the score. It turned out to be the play of the game.

"We gave them good pressure on that play," said Harris. But the mishandling of the ball was what hurt the Tigers.

With nine minutes to go, however, there was still plenty of excitement left in the game. The Steers made some good runs, but could never gain good field position. Harris blamed that on a decision to keep running backs in even though they were hurting. Both Williams and Evans were rested periodically because of soreness.

The Tigers had possession with only minutes to go in the game, and runs by Glen Parham and Jeffrey were threatening. But a David Nicholson pass from the 38-yard line was knocked down by the Steer's Raymond Jeffrey, and Big Spring took possession.

The Steers were willing to let the clock run down.

The final score was identical to the Steer's victory last year against Snyder. Coach Harris said that he was proud of the player's attitude after Friday night's win.

"Last year when we beat them," Harris said, "we were doing cartwheels and jumping up and down. But this year we knew we didn't do a good job, and we were a bit disappointed about that."

The Steers travel to play Sweetwater next Saturday. Although offensive guard Tony Molina was taken to the hospital with a leg injury, none of the Steers was seriously hurt, and all are expected to be ready for next week's game. Molina suffered a bruise on the leg.

Coahoma breaks Wall

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs completely wrecked the Wall Hawks 30-0 in District 6-AAA football in Coahoma Friday night.

The first quarter was scoreless, and the Bulldogs seemed tame until Bobby Joe Tucker dropped Wall quarterback John Sefcik for a safety with 4 minutes left in the half.

Coahoma scored late in the half when quarterback Bruce Walker hit Lynn Hinsley with a 15-yard touchdown pass. Robert Walker's extra point try was good and the Bulldogs led 9-0.

Coahoma scored in the third quarter with 5:01 left on a 36-yard pass to wingback Mike McKinley. The extra point was again on target.

In case that wasn't enough, the Bulldog's McKinley ran 14 yards for a touchdown and Walker finished it up with a two yard pass to Hinsley with 1:21 remaining. Walker kicked the final two extra points.

Bulldog coach Doug Harriman singled out the defensive efforts of Tommy Joe Shirley and Bobby Joe Tucker, both with 10 tackles, as well as Lynn Hinsley with 9 tackles and Jeff Thompson with 10.

Wink whips Klondike

KLONDIKE — After a scoreless first quarter, the Wink Wildcats dominated the Klondike Cougars 52-0 Friday night, scoring 20 points in both the second and third quarters and adding 12 in the fourth.

Klondike's offense produced only 26 yards rushing and 11 yards passing against a tough Wink defense.

After battling back in forth with the Cougars throughout the first quarter, the Wildcats scored on a 26 yard pass from quarterback Steve Eggleston with 7:59 left in the half. The PAT was wide.

Eggleston scored again on a one yard run with 5:52 to go. This time the extra point was good and the Wildcats picked up 7 more with a 10 yard run by Thomas and a good PAT by Rasco to lead 20-0 at the half.

The Klondike defense could not stop the Wildcats after the half. Wink scored early in the third quarter on a yard pass by Thomas. Eggleston scored on a yard dash with 5:45 left in the quarter. The PAT was off target.

In the final minutes of the quarter, Thomas scampered across from the 18 yard line and Dodd's PAT was good, giving the Wildcats a clearly dominate 40 point lead.

Wink finished off Klondike in the fourth with a 10 yard Eggleston pass to McDonald with 2:22 remaining, and a three yard dash by Henderson in the final seconds of the game.

Forsan routs Bronte

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes took care of the Bronte Longhorns Friday night 21-0.

Forsan came up with 181 yards rushing to Bronte's 92, but quarterback Robert Eggleston was the prime factor in moving the Buffaloes.

Forsan's first touchdown came by way of one yard dive across the goal line by the Buffaloes David Harrell, set up by a 40 yard pass from Eggleston to Bobby Little.

There was no scoring in the second quarter for either team.

Eggleston tossed a 40-yard bomb to receiver Lewis Boeker, putting the score at 14-0 for the Buffaloes.

Forsan's Preston Daniels ended the game in the final seconds for the Buffaloes with a 7 yard scoring run.

BULLDOG RUN — Coahoma Bulldog Quarterback Bruce Walker rushes for a first down from Wall's 47 yard line to their 30 in the first quarter Friday night in Coahoma. The Bulldogs went on to whip the Wall Hawks 30-0.

STANTON ACTION — Stanton Buffaloes quarterback Wally Hazelwood, left, looks for a target during the fourth quarter of play against the Tahoka Bulldogs

Friday night Rocky Barnes, tailback, is shown moving up in center of picture. Their efforts were in vain, however, as Tahoka won 14-10.

Robert Lee, Sands tie

ROBERT LEE — Five hundred fans watched the Robert Lee Steers and the Sands Mustangs battle to a 0-0 tie Friday night in Robert Lee.

Neither team was able to mount an effective offensive in this defensive battle, although Robert Lee was knocking on the Mustang's goal from the five yard line five times.

Sands threatened Robert Lee once from the 10 yard line, but the Mustangs were halted by penalties.

Sands' coach Jim White said, "We felt the defense played exceptionally well, but we're going to start smoothing out the offense for the next game."

Tahoka takes Stanton

STANTON — The Tahoka Bulldogs battled the Stanton Buffaloes to a 14-10 win Friday night in a tough defensive competition.

With two minutes left in the first quarter, Tahoka quarterback Mark Hudlin scored on a nine yard run. A good PAT gave the Bulldogs an early lead. The point was set up by a bad snap over the Stanton punter's head. Tahoka recovered on Stanton's 25 yard line and used three plays to make the score.

With 11:16 left in the half, Tahoka's Hudlin fumbled on their eight yard line. Stanton's Rocky Barnes recovered and the Buffs scored on Kevin Newman's eight yard run. Scott Church's PAT was good.

Both teams were scoreless in the third quarter. Three minutes into the fourth quarter, Stanton's Scott Church kicked a 37 yard field goal to lift the Buffaloes 10-7 over the Bulldogs.

But with 2:37 to go in the game, Tahoka tailback Danny Thompson scored on a 70 yard pass from Hudlin to give the Bulldog's the game 14-10.

Stanton will play Coahoma in Stanton next weekend.

Grady handles Loop

LOOP — Despite the rains, there were good field conditions at Loop stadium Friday night, but that didn't seem to help the hometown Longhorns. The visiting Grady Wildcats took off with 20 points in the first quarter and had it easy all the way to their 26-6 win over Loop.

Grady completely dominated the first quarter as Allen Wagner ran 22 yards on a reverse to put the Wildcats on the scoreboard early in this six man battle. But the two point conversion by Ysabel Irvan failed. Later, a 16 yard pass from Jackie Vining was caught by Lino Cantu for Grady's second touchdown.

The final score of the first quarter came on a four yard pass from Dennis Sawyer to Bennie Stone. The two point conversion was good and Grady controlled at the end of the quarter, 20-0.

Loop's only score came in the second quarter on a 40 yard run by Alan Freeman. That would prove to be the only score of the game.

The third quarter saw no score from either team, but in the fourth quarter, Grady's Jay Billingsly made the final score 26-6 on a 31 yard touchdown run.

Alan Freedman and Scott Scotty were leading rushers for Loop. Freedman turned in 54 yards on 14 carries, and Scotty 94 yards on 16 runs.

Lynn Key was leading rusher for Grady, carrying the ball for 14 carries and 129 yards.

College roundup

Georgia extends winning streak

Georgia and Pitt, last year's national champion and runner-up, got off to impressive starts Saturday as the college football season began.

The 10th-ranked Georgia Bulldogs extended the nation's longest major college winning streak to 14 games by annihilating Tennessee 44-0 as quarterback Buck Buler threw a pair of touchdown passes to Lindsay Scott and All-American tailback Herschel Walker sprinted for 161 yards in 30 carries.

No. 8 Pitt, meanwhile, overcame a sluggish start by QB Dan Marino to beat Illinois 26-6. Marino wound up passing for 204 yards and two touchdowns.

Other ranked teams in action were No. 14 Mississippi State, which downed Memphis State 20-3; No. 16 Brigham Young, a 31-6 victor over Long Beach State, and No. 17 Florida, which was upset by archrival Miami, Fla., 21-20.

In night action, No. 4 Alabama was at Louisiana State in a nationally televised contest, and 19th-ranked Florida State entertained Louisville.

Georgia marched 92 yards the first time it had the ball and never looked back against the Volunteers before a state record crowd of 79,600. Walked ended that drive with a 1-yard plunge for a TD and Georgia took a 14-0 margin at the half on Buler's 15-yard strike to Scott. He also hit Scott with a 23-yard TD pass in the third period.

It was the worst defeat for Tennessee since 1923 when the Vols lost 51-7 to Vanderbilt.

Walker said Georgia "proved today we're more than a one-man team. If they key on me, we can pass the ball."

Marino, a junior quarterback, hit only 2-for-14 in the first half but then completed 12 of 21 passes in the second half. One of his first-half completions was to Dwight Collins for a 19-yard score.

In the second half, Marino and Julius Dawkins teamed on a 23-yard touchdown pass play to clinch the victory.

"I was too anxious in the beginning. When I had time, I wasn't taking my time," said Marino. "In the first half, I had guys open, I had time to get the ball there, but I didn't. It was just first-game jitters, but in the second half I felt better."

Sophomore QB John Bond led Mississippi State to a field goal and two touchdowns on three straight first-half possessions. Dana Moore kicked field goals of 51 and 39 yards.

Danny Miller kicked a 55-yard field goal that hit the left upright and bounced through with 45 seconds to play to lift Miami, Fla., to the upset. Miller was mobbed at midfield by teammates as a season-opening crowd of 73,817 went wild.

Jim McMahon, the nation's leading passer last season, threw for 403 yards, completing 28 of 45 passes for BYU. He did not connect for any scores as the BYU defense — on a blocked punt recovered in the end zone by safety Tommy Holmoe and a 12-yard interception return by linebacker Todd Shell — provided two touchdowns. The other scores came on runs.

Kentucky blitzed North Texas State 28-6 as Greg Long intercepted three passes, returning one 91 yards for a touchdown.

Homer Jordan ran for scores of 14 and 3 yards and threw for TDs of 80 yards to Perry Tuttle and 11 to Frank Magwood as Clemson romped 45-10 over Wofford.

Sophomore quarterback Kelly F. well hit flanker Breck Tyler with a 39-yard scoring toss with 1:01 left to rally Mississippi to a 19-18 victory over Tulane. Powell marched the Rebels 86 yards in the final three minutes of the game for the touchdown and junior kicker Todd Gatlin booted the extra point after Ole Miss blew a 12-0 lead.

Auburn made Coach Pat Dye's debut a happy one with a 24-16 victory over Texas Christian as freshman fullback Ron O'Neal rushed for two touchdowns and 75 yards in one half. That offset the TCU pass-catch combination of Steve Stamp and Marcus Gilbert. Stamp hit 18 of 28 passes for 210 yards and Gilbert grabbed eight them for 168 yards.

Aggies sneak up on Californians

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Texas A&M had a reputation last season of choking when the chips were down. That didn't happen Saturday, however, as the Aggies opened the 1981 football season with a 29-28 comeback victory over California.

"We proved today we are not a choking team," said Aggie Coach Tom Wilson, whose club was 4-7 a year ago. "We're a good ball team."

The Aggies, trailing by 12 points at halftime, shut out the Bears in the second half and won on David Hardy's third field goal of the day, a 30-yarder with 6:15 to play. "I just approached it like it would be my last kick of the day," said Hardy. "I did it just like I do in practice. I pretend we're one point behind."

Johnny Hector's six-yard touchdown run made the score 28-23, and Hardy brought the Aggies to within three points with a 40-yard field goal.

California had taken a 28-16 lead in the first half, when speedster Floyd Eddings caught three touchdown passes, the last a 62-yarder from junior quarterback Jay Torchio.

Torchio, who entered the game in the first quarter after starter Gale Gilbert suffered a knee injury, also threw an 11-yard scoring pass to Eddings and ran four yards for a touchdown.

Gilbert opened the scoring with a 30-yard touchdown toss to Eddings.

Twice in the first half, Torchio completed passes for first downs from punt formations to keep touchdown drives going, a fumble recovery by Kermit Foster as springboards for his first-half scoring.

Hardy kicked a 29-yard field goal in the first quarter for Texas A&M's first points, and the Aggies scored in the second period on a five-yard pass from Gary Kubiak to Don Jones and a two-yard run by Thomas Sanders.

Hector and Earnest Jackson rushed for 125 yards apiece to pace a no-nonsense ground game that accounted for 350 of the Aggies' 443 total yards.

Cal, unveiling its pass-oriented "run-and-shoot" offense, rolled up 348 yards through the air, with Torchio accounting for 232 of that on 14 completions of 30 attempts.

In the second half, however, the Bears collected just 56 yards — just two yards in the third quarter.

The Aggies marched 56 yards in 10 plays on their winning drive. They moved to the Cal 21-yard line on a 28-yard pass from Kubiak to Jones, and after seven running plays netted eight yards, Hardy kicked the winning field goal.

Hardy missed two other fourth-quarter field goal attempts from 30 and 42 yards.

Cooper tried a 52-yard field goal attempt for Cal with 28 seconds left. It was blocked by linebacker Will Wright.

Sixty-three qualified for local tournament

Sixty-three players are qualified to compete in the annual Big Spring Golf Association Grand Championship, which will be played at the Comanche Trail Course Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 12-13.

Persons entered can play Saturday with anyone else who is qualified to compete.

Play Sunday will be at an appointed time and according to flights.

Approximately $1,300 in prize money will be given away at the conclusion of the tournament.

Howard Stewart has won the tournament the past two years and is the favorite to repeat in this year's meet.

5-A-A-A-A-A

Midland routs, 31-12

MIDLAND — Midland High had things all its own way here Friday night, humbling Amarillo Tascosa, 31-12.

John Hibbitz and Scott Sears were outstanding for the Bulldogs, who rolled up 212 yards rushing the ball and added 83 passing. Tascosa was fairly effective through the air, getting 100 yards in gains on seven completions, but was limited to only 69 yards passing.

The Bulldogs started closely but by half time were in command, 21-0.

Brownwood scored with 20 seconds left in the game when Tyler Tabor passed to Chris Ellis. The play covering 46 yards. Bryson kicked the ball through the uprights after each of Cooper's touchdowns.

Lamar shocks Baylor with 19-17 upset win

WACO, Texas (AP) — Senior Mike Marlow kicked a 42-yard field goal with three seconds to play Saturday night to present the underdog Lamar Cardinals with an 18-17 non-conference victory over the shocked Baylor Bears.

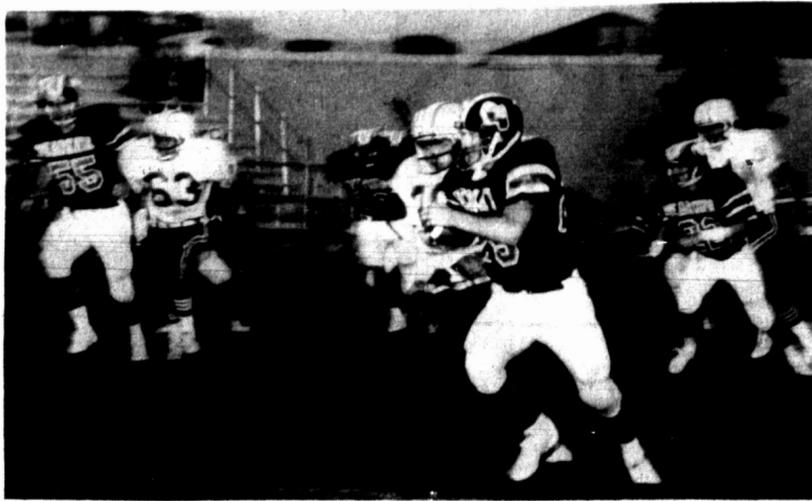

Baylor had appeared to be the winner after barefoot freshman Marty Jimmerson drilled a 41-yard field goal with 2:53 to play to hand the Bears a two-point lead.

Cardinal quarterback Fred Hessen completed a 21-yard fourth-down pass to the Baylor 49 to Howard Easley to help set up the last second dramatics. Jimmerson then worked the ball to the Baylor 20 for Marlow's last-second shot.

Hessen passed for one touchdown and sneaked a yard for another late in the fourth quarter, giving the underdog Cardinals a 15-14 lead before Jimmerson's kick.

Lamar of the Southland Conference gave Baylor two touchdowns because of poor play by its kick teams but made up the difference in the opener for both teams behind Hessen, a Navarro Junior College transfer.

Baylor, the defending Southwest Conference champion, led 14-9 at the end of the third quarter on a touchdown pass by Jay Jeffrey and his one-yard scoring run.

GARDEN CITY GAIN — Robby Creswell, foreground, linebacker for the Garden City Bearcats, carries the ball for a first down in first-quarter action against the Iron County Hornets Friday night. Creswell carried 17 times for a total of 96 yards during the game.

Garden City's Kelso rushes past Mertzon

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bearcats used halfback Billy Kelso for 53 yards rushing and the only score of the game Friday night in their 6-0 win over the Mertzon Hornets.

Nathan Halfman and Joe Lopez. He also praised the offensive efforts of Billy Kelso, and Robbie Creswell, who carried the ball 17 times for 96 yards.

Kelso made the lone touchdown on a 53 yard run in the third quarter, but the extra point try was unsuccessful. "I was impressed with what we did," said Garden City coach Stu Cooper, "although I'm disappointed we didn't get it (the PAT) in."

Cowboys face revamped Redskins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new-look Washington Redskins, revamped from head coach to the color of their pants, host the Eastern Division rival Dallas Cowboys Sunday in the National Football League's season opener in the nation's capital.

personnel turnovers." Gibbs, former offensive coordinator of the pass-happy San Diego Charger attack, replaced the fired Jack Pardee after a 6-10 Redskins finish in 1980. That was the team's worst record in 17 years.

The Redskins, including 22 players not with the team last year, will be guided by first-year head Coach Joe Gibbs.

The Cowboys, 12-4 last year under the only coach they have ever known, Tom Landry, are pointing toward a 16th straight playoff year while extending their opening game winning streak to a record 17 straight.

"I know we have a lot of rookies (eight) and a lot of new players, but we dedicated ourselves to selecting the best 45 people," Gibbs said. "If this wasn't my first year, I couldn't sleep at night with all these Mike Nelms. Quarterback Joe Theismann, in his eighth year in the NFL, will start as well his favorite target, wide receiver Art Monk, who had 58 catches in 1980.

The starting offensive line features two of the eight rookies on the squad, No. 1 pick Mark May at tackle and No. 3 Russ Grimm at guard. The rookies should get some welcome from the Cowboys as they face the right side of a Dallas line that includes All-Pro Harvey Martin and Randy White.

Cowboys quarterback Danny White completed 56 percent of his passes in the preseason, including five for touchdowns.

Unbeaten Special Effort tries for coveted Triple Crown win

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Unbeaten Special Effort, the 2-year-old colt recently syndicated for $15 million, Monday gets a chance to become the first Triple Crown winner in quarter horse racing as the prohibitive favorite in the $15 million All-American Futurity.

In seemingly effortless fashion, the brilliant speedster has captured eight straight races in his first year on the track, including the Kansas and Rainbow futurities, which together with the All-American comprise quarter horse racing's version of the Triple Crown.

Only one other horse in the 22-year history of the race has captured the first two legs. That was Tiny's Gay in 1974, who like Special Effort went into the All-American unbeaten. But Tiny's Gay's streak was snapped as Easy Date scored a nose victory in the futurity.

No other horse since then has come close to winning the big three 2-year-old races at Ruidoso Downs, the tradition-filled New Mexico mountain race track that is a haven for horsemen and gamblers from Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

And although the history of the All-American shows that more often than not the favorite has been upset, the challengers in the 10-horse field agree it will take a major change in Special Effort's form for him to lose the 440-yard race.

"I think Special Effort will have to make a bad mistake at the gate for any other horse to beat him," said jockey Jack Martin, who will be aboard the fast-improving filly Summer Encounter.

Martin, who won the race aboard Moon Lark in 1978, said Special Effort has shown no weaknesses during his winning streak.

"I don't know if I've ever seen any horse better," said Martin. "He just doesn't make any mistakes." After winning the Rainbow Futurity in late July, Special Effort was syndicated for $15 million, with shares sold for $100,000 each.

The first place purse in the All-American is a record $528,000. The total purse of the All-American is $1,530,000, with a small percentage of that funneled into three consolation races for horses that did not qualify for the finals. The 10-horse field was determined from two sets of trial races held in August that trimmed an original list of more than 200 nominees for the trials.

Special Effort had the fastest qualifying time of 21.78 seconds, followed by another colt, Viva El Seis. The latter arrived at Ruidoso Downs after winning four races in West Texas and Louisiana, then posted back-to-back impressive wins in the trials to reach the All-American finals.

Summer Encounter qualified despite having to run into a stiff head wind. The second half of the 14 trials last week that determined the futurity field were run into a strong wind, and the filly was the only qualifier from the last five races.

Pleasant Colony takes Woodward

NEW YORK (AP) — Pleasant Colony, the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, snapped a two-race losing streak Saturday with a big stretch run that carried him to victory in the $229,000 Woodward Stakes at Belmont Park.

The winner, the only 3-year-old in the nine-horse field, charged into third place turning for home and overtook pacesetter Amber Pass with a little less than an eighth of a mile remaining to win by 1 1/4 lengths.

Amber Pass finished 1 1/4 lengths in front of Herb Water, who was two lengths in front of Relaxing, the only mare in the field.

In only his second start since finishing third in the June 6 Belmont Stakes in which he failed to win the Triple Crown, Pleasant Colony won for the first time since the May 16 Preakness in a time of 1:47.1-5 under 123 pounds for the 1 1/4 miles.

He was ridden by Angel Cordero Jr., who replaced Jorge Velasquez after the Belmont and was aboard the Buckland Farm colt when he finished second in the Travers Stakes on a sloppy track Aug. 15 at Saratoga.

Completing the order of finish after Relaxing were Temperance Hill, Peat Moss, Fio Rito, Joanie's Chief and Winter's Tale.

Pleasant Colony returned $5.80, $4 and $3.20. Amber Pass, 126, paid $5 and $4 and Herb Water, 116, owned by Joseph B. Singer, was $5.80 to show.

Leslie Hulet sent the New York-bred Fio Rito, who took a six-race winning streak into the Woodward, to the lead at the break, and he held it through the first eighth of a mile before being replaced by Amber Pass, ridden by Cash Asmussen.

Amber Pass led the field down the backstretch and held a half-length lead over Fio Rito, with Winter's Tale third through the first half-mile. Cordero had Pleasant Colony fifth at this point.

Cordero then began to move Pleasant Colony on the turn, and he was third behind Amber Pass and Fio Rito with a quarter of a mile remaining.

What's next for Bill Rogers?

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — What's next for Bill Rogers?

Whatever it is, Rogers admits it's incomprehensible that it could surpass what has happened to him in the last couple of months, which has seen the 29-year-old Texan win the British Open and the World Series of Golf.

"This year just becomes more and more unbelievable," Rogers said at his Texarkana home. "Who could have ever predicted some of the things that have happened to me? Especially considering the way I started the year." He missed five cuts in the first two months of the season.

Rogers' year still could become bigger and better. Last Sunday's victory in Akron at the World Series jumped him all the way to sixth on this year's Tournament Player's Association (formerly the PGA) official money list with more than $270,000. The win also catapulted the "Texarkana Kid" into third place in the chase for the coveted title of player of the year.

Rogers' third triumph of the year gives him 70 points in the player of the year race, which is led by Tom Watson with 80 points. Ray Floyd is second with 76 points and Rogers' former college roommate, Bruce Lietzke, is fourth at 66.

"My chances of winning player of the year are really pretty slim," said Rogers. "Your point totals are based on your performances in official tournaments, and right now I only plan to play in one other such tournament this year. If I won the Texas Open, I would only tie Watson. I would like the title, but even if I don't win it, I've still had just an unbelievable year."

One of the main reasons Rogers plans to play in only one official tour event is directly related to his prestigious British Open crown.

Hatfield named new head coach at Hardin-Simmons

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Jim Hatfield, former head basketball coach at Mississippi State University and Southwestern Louisiana, has been named head basketball coach and athletic director at Hardin-Simmons University.

Hatfield, 37, currently is first assistant basketball coach at the University of Tennessee, Chattanooga. He succeeds Jim Shuler, who resigned Sept. 1. The appointment was effective Saturday.

He's headed for Japan to play in seven overseas tournaments. In between, Rogers will fly to England, where he'll represent the United States in the biennial Ryder Cup Matches.

"I've been booked to play in Japan, New Zealand, Australia and England over the next two or three months," said Rogers, who credits that schedule to his British Open victory. Playing overseas is certainly nothing new for him, however — he won the 1977 Pacific Masters in Japan, the 1979 world Match Play Championship in England and the 1980 Suntory Open in Japan.

Rogers admits his recent success does surprise him to a certain extent, and he sticks to his guns in relation to his status on the tour.

"I keep surprising myself, and I guess I don't really know how good I am," he said. "I really don't want to evaluate how good I am right now. I just want to let things happen, but I do know I'm no Jack Nicklaus or Tom Watson."

"There's no way I'm in a class with Nicklaus and Watson. Those things just don't happen overnight," Rogers added. "One thing is for sure, however. I put the pressure on myself to be successful after winning the British Open, and now I've satisfied myself by winning the World Series. I believe I can still have a better year."

A better year — is it possible? Well, there were a lot of folks who didn't believe Rogers could have accomplished what he has already in 1981.

'Commuter airlines 'puddle jump' all over Texas

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Long before the air controllers strike, Texas travelers needed a computer to figure out the state's aerial maze.

That is, if they flew somewhere besides Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Austin or El Paso.

But that old bit about "You can't get there from here" does not apply to Texas. You can get almost anywhere by plane. It just takes a while.

And a little ingenuity. Probably even a sense of humor.

For instance, you can fly from Longview in East Texas to Eagle Pass on the Mexican border, or from Galveston on the Gulf Coast to San Angelo in West Texas.

Or maybe College Station to Paris, Victoria to Nacogdoches, Brownwood to Lufkin.

But it's seldom easy, and never direct.

At the moment, Texas has nine airlines certified by the Texas Aeronautics Commission. These are so-called "commuters," which is probably a misnomer.

But that beats puddle-jumpers and tree-toppers and some of the well-deserved names of their predecessors.

"These smaller airlines are filling a hell of a need," said Bruce Hicks of Texas International, which, as Trans Texas, was once the ultimate puddle jumper.

"We served every place in Texas with an airstrip bigger than a cow pasture," laughed Hicks.

TIA still flies extensively in Texas, but its operations are now national and international in scope, as are Texas-based biggies Braniff and American.

Larger, faster jet aircraft and skyrocketing expenses provided a deadly economic combination for major airlines attempting to serve the small to medium-sized cities.

Just recently, in fact, Texas International canceled service into several Texas cities and realigned its flight schedule for other key areas.

"As the majors got into jet equipment," said one airline executive, "they could no longer afford to bring in a 150-passenger plane to pick up 10 people."

It was the commuter or feeder airlines that have flown in to fill the gap, many providing service superior to the major companies.

Some, like Southwest, quickly outgrew their "commuter" designation, giving bigger carriers competitive fits in the battle for passenger dollars.

Southwest now serves Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Albuquerque and New Orleans besides 10 Texas cities: Amarillo, Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, Midland-Odessa, Harlingen and San Antonio.

In the beginning, from its base at Dallas Love Field, Southwest proclaimed that "There is somebody else up there who Loves you." Then:

"We're spreading Love all over Texas."

And most recently: "Ten years of Love, Southwest style."

Southwest stressed close-in airports, frequency of service and low fares. It enhanced its image immeasurably with stewardesses in hot pants dispensing cool drinks.

The drinks were free, a nice touch.

One can still catch an "economy" flight from Dallas to San Antonio, Austin, Houston, Amarillo and Lubbock for $25, or $15 off the regular fare.

Dallas to El Paso or Harlingen is $45 and $60.

Although hardly as spectacular, Metro and Rio have comparable success stories.

Rio, with headquarters in Killen near the huge Fort Hood army post, serves College Station, Dallas, Houston, San Angelo, Temple, Waco, Wichita Falls, San Antonio, Laredo and Corpus Christi.

Most importantly, it flies into both

Hobby and Intercontinental airports in Houston and Love and DFW in Dallas.

A Dallas to San Angelo flight via Rio costs $67, with family and economy rates available. And nowhere else but Rio can you fly from Waco to Temple.

That's a total of 36 ground miles and a ticket costs $24.

Metro's got a similar deal. Nobody ever really does it, but you can fly from Tyler to Longview for $27, which is a half hour drive by car.

And the $27 ticket is good one way OR roundtrip.

Metro was born 13 years ago in Clear Lake City, an offspring of sorts to Houston Intercontinental, which not coincidentally opened the same day.

Visitors at the Manned Spacecraft Center near Clear Lake could take the 15-minute Metro flight to and from Intercontinental or risk their lives in 90 minutes of Houston traffic.

"From this humble beginning," said Bob Soltys, staff vice president of marketing, "we've become No. 5 in the nation among 350 commuter air carriers."

He said Metro, with a "good mix" of aircraft ranging from 18 to 50 passengers, moves an average of 55,000 customers a month through a three-state area.

In Texas, the airline serves Clear Lake-NASA, Galveston, Beaumont-Port Arthur, Lake Jackson-Freepport, Victoria, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Laredo, Dallas-Fort Worth, Tyler, Longview, Paris and Wichita Falls.

"Basically, Metro is a feeder to the hub airports (like Dallas, Houston, San Antonio)," said Soltys. "Approximately 93 percent of our passengers are connecting with other airlines for national or international destinations."

Eagle, based in Brownwood, is a relative newcomer, but is authorized to serve Austin, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, San Angelo, Midland, San Antonio, Lufkin and Nacogdoches.

Fifth Big Spring Arts, Crafts Festival sold out

The Fifth Annual Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival, slated Oct. 17-18 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, is again sold out.

The two-day festival, which is held during the third weekend each October, sports a longer waiting list than in previous years with no new entries being accepted since June 15, 1981.

The festival will feature 145 entries and is slightly larger than previous shows. All available space on the main floor and concourse of the coliseum has been turned into exhibit areas to allow for more entries. In addition, the festival committee will also sponsor a MasterCard and Visa booth this year for the convenience of both exhibitors and buyers who wish to charge their purchases.

Talking about the upcoming festival, Mel Prather, who will again co-chair the show with Louis Tallant, said "we've encountered more logistical problems this year than in the past. Some of these problems are related to the fact that we remembered the booths on the concourse because of the inclusion of new exhibit areas. As a result, we'd had more calls from exhibitors concerning their booth number," he said.

As to the overall show, Prather said "this festival should be superior to all previous years and will feature a larger variety and quality of items being sold." He said exhibitors from several states and all areas of Texas would be participating in the 1981 festival.

"The reason we're having more problems this year," Prather said, "is due mainly to the larger number of people trying to get into the show and the long waiting list. In the past," he explained, "we could make more concessions to exhibitors than we have been able to this year."

He went on to say the festival committee was allowing exhibitors to change their exhibits from the concourse to the main floor and from the main floor to the concourse whenever possible. He also said they were reviewing the requests from exhibitors and doing all they could to comply with their requests.

However, one area he said the committee refused to budge on was the rule concerning expanded exhibit areas. "We don't have enough room for those who requested booths back in April so we can't even consider allowing a previous exhibitor to expand their area from one booth to two booths," he said. He also said that new entries were not being allowed two booths and that many requests had been returned for this reason.

Prather said another reason for the problems this year seem to stem from a "lost summer." When asked to explain, Prather said "a surprisingly large number of people seem to have lost a summer this year and can't seem to come to grips with the fact that the festival is only a few weeks away."

"When we talk to many of the exhibitors, they keep telling us that the show 'isn't until the fall,'" he said. As a result, he said many previous entries did not get their 1981 entries back in time to keep the same booths they had in 1980, which was creating additional problems.

Slim Pickens joins 'Hee Haw'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Slim Pickens, a former rodeo rider-turned-actor, has a face that looks like it belongs on the range.

His open, smiling face also seems naturally at home in a western movie. Over the years, he has graced many such films. Actually, his biggest break came not in a western, but when he played Maj. King Kong in the satiric "Dr. Strangelove."

"They're not making many right now," he said in his raspy voice, "but all it takes is just one good one and they'll come back like kangaroos."

Heaven's Gate set them back about 10 years. The western is the closest thing to a fairy tale that we have in this country. It's our heritage. A lot of people still appreciate it.

"I thank young people, any people, like a good story," Pickens said. "Somebody comes up with a good story. It's real. Look at all this stuff with young people wearing western clothes."

Pickens joins the popular syndicated "Hee Haw" country music show this season. He will be the proprietor of "Slim's Bar-B-Que," locale for a weekly feature in which Pickens will talk with guests from "Big Bird" to country star Ernest Tubbs. "I've got some pretty good guests, by golly," Pickens said.

He's often been the comic relief in his films, and in his rodeo days frequently worked as a clown.

"The last good western I worked, and it could have been better, was 'Tom Horn' with Steve McQueen," the actor said. "I was the sheriff. I knew the old guy that I played, fellow named T. Joe. He was one of the committeemen at Cheyenne Days when I was rodeoing."

He made a guest appearance last year on "Hee

FARM FORUM

By RONNIE WOOD

The cry is still being heard for modernized beef grading. Gene Schroeder, National Cattlemen's Association spokesman, said the U.S.D.A.'s beef grading standards must be modernized to encourage the growth of leaner beef which, in turn, will make cattle feeding more profitable. The beef industry, Schroeder said, is facing serious competition from other livestock producers, and, "Our challenge, is to improve the image of beef... and to discourage over feeding which produces excessive fat which is wasteful of energy, and costly to produce." He made the point that although one can trim away a lot of excess fat, one can't trim away the cost of putting it on. The NCA has submitted a new grading system to the USDA which would widen the prime grade, be more objective and result in more uniform eating quality within each grade, while also shortening, by 15 to 30 days, the time cattle were on feed.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale has said:

"Inevitably, everyone experiences a death in the family. Those who are intelligently foresighted and concerned with the well-being of loved ones, meet the many unavoidable problems in advance of need. Only the thoughtless and inconsiderate will postpone protection for their families and burden them with the emotional distress and financial hardship of the last-minute arrangements when sorrow comes."

We who face the bereaved every day know the wisdom of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's words. We urge you to make a careful comparison of prices and services — in advance.

Looking back at Lyndon

The ruler often dresses in a tuxedo, his wife in a striking, strapless designer gown. They play host to a wide array of political dignitaries, intellectuals, show business celebrities and sport figures. She makes appearances at hospitals and elite charity functions. He is often seen in riding outfits, heading for his horse. They exude good will and wealth. They make America seem rich, well-mannered, unruffled and genteel. They make us, somehow, proud.

However we might feel about Ronald Reagan's policies, most of us are pleased with his and his wife's personas. Their images are important to us and improve our perceptions of ourselves. They may be, in fact, too important.

LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON
... Merciless Ambition

Unlike England and other countries, America was never meant to have a king who symbolized the soul of the land. "We the people" were meant to be the rulers, and our elected official was meant only to officiate. But we seem unable to accept our presidents unless they project a "character" that pleases us. If they don't, we may reject them. This can be illustrated by going back to the not-so-distant American past. From 1963 to 1968, America had a president who now seems the exact opposite of the incumbent: Lyndon Baines Johnson. Johnson network consisted of those people Lyndon could, to varying degrees, depend upon for advice, help, and, whenever possible, actual votes.

The "Johnson treatment" is, in Lyndon, described as everything from "knocking heads together" to "licking faces like a St. Bernard." Sam Shaffer of Newsweek says that "Lyndon Johnson was the only man I would call an authentic legislative genius." Senator J. William Fulbright capsulizes this part of Johnson's career: "He was a master at managing the Senate and at reconciling people with diametrically opposed views. Nobody could match him. He knew every personal interest of every member of the Senate just as he knew the palm of his hand."

It might be assumed that, as Vice President under Kennedy, Johnson might have softened his technique. But, in fact, this very afternoon, back-street legislative wizardry was one reason for his nomination. At the convention, Sam Rayburn's speech included the statement: "(He) has demonstrated a priceless capacity for getting people to work together."

After Kennedy's assassination, Johnson lost no time in using his expertise in the grander arenas of the White House and the world. Not days after the death, he rounded up crucial contacts whom the late President had alienated. Newsweek's Chalmers Roberts says, "He used that period of mourning made sure he got everything he asked for. Kennedy, faced with inevitable Senate opposition, would almost surely have compromised somewhere, traded the deletion of one section, say, for the passage of the rest. Lyndon refused to delete, refused to compromise, anywhere."

Press Secretary Liz Carpenter says, "Kennedy inspired, which Johnson was not capable of doing, and Johnson delivered." Presidential speechwriter Erv S. Duggan: "Johnson used to say... there are two kinds of horses: there are show horses and there are work horses. Johnson was always the latter." In the late President's own words: "Some are always writing that I'm a backroom operator... a wirepuller, a clever man. People don't understand one thing about me, that is, the one thing I want to do is my job."

Johnson did his job. Even so, he was criticized and often mocked for his lack of a pleasing facade. Our disdain of him may have less to do with his inadequacies than with our own; our uneasiness with the demands on us as citizens of a democracy; our ability to find sustenance and strength in ourselves alone.

And, in fact, Johnson may have very well been a symbol, just one more disquieting than we wished to admit. Lois Roberts, wife of journalist Chalmers Roberts, says, "The man's very vulgarity... was somehow so American... It was the real, vulgar, low-class American."

Johnson's merciless ambition, hard work and crafty opportunism may have been more indicative of the American character than the wealthy, charming and polished image of Reagan. As Erv S. Duggan says: "DeGaulle once said that Kennedy was a mask on the face of America, while Lyndon Johnson was America, and I think that's true."

Names in the News

Amy Carter likes traveling

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Amy Carter says she likes traveling with her father, former President Carter, more now than she did when he was in office.

Amy, 13, said in a television interview Saturday that she's enjoying the family's current trip to Japan more than a visit two years ago during the Tokyo summit conference of industrial nations.

"It's more like a vacation this time because he's around more because he's not president," she said.

Carter, wife Rosalynn, son Chip and Amy visited the Mitsubishi Motors Corp. plant near Nagoya on Saturday, where models are made for the Japanese company's U.S. partner, Chrysler Corp. They saw 110 robots help workers build about 40 cars an hour.

The Carters traveled on the super-speed "bullet train" for an one-hour trip to Nagoya from Osaka, the western city where they've stayed since their arrival Thursday from China.

They visited Kyoto to tour the woodcraft shop of 77-year-old Tatsuzaki Kurota, designed by the government as a "living national treasure" for his artistic contributions.

Carter, who has taken up woodworking since leaving the White House, received a lacquered letter opener from Kurota.

Gen. Doolittle is honored

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gen. James Doolittle, 84, the legendary World War II bomber pilot, has been inducted into the Western Reserve Aviation Hall of Fame.

The man who led numerous bombing runs over Tokyo during World War II and later commanded air forces in Europe and Japan had already been honored by the Aviation Hall of Fame in Dayton and the International Aviation Hall of Fame in San Diego.

Doolittle, a consultant for Mutual of Omaha Insurance Co., expressed optimism about the U.S. defense at the induction ceremony Friday night.

"We have permitted our military establishment to reach an all-time low in both equipment and personnel," he said. "We are now turning that around under the new president, but you can't put a sudden halt to such a decline. You have to gradually improve it, which is what the president is doing."

Howard Hughes will battle rages on

HOUSTON (AP) — A trial that awarded half of Howard Hughes' estate to three cousins closed another chapter in the bitter fight for the late tycoon's fortune but opened some old wounds for one attorney involved in the complex litigation.

George Parnham, who represented Hughes aide Noah Dietrich in a 1977 attempt to probate the Mormon Will, agreed two months ago to represent about 400 distant cousins trying to discredit the bloodline of the three first cousins for a share in the estate, worth up to $2 billion.

But six jurors on Friday swept away their claims as well as those of about 100 other second, third and fourth cousins who had attempted to prove the late Elspeth Hughes Lapp was not the true daughter of Hughes' paternal uncle, Rupert.

The jury's unanimous decision upheld the bloodline of Rupert's three granddaughters — Barbara Cameron, Elspeth DePouid and Agnes Roberts — and solidified the claims by his two stepchildren that now only require the approval of Probate Judge Pat Gregory.

For Parnham, the 10-day proceeding to determine the paternal heirs also brought back some unpleasant memories as lawyers for the first cousins charged he "defended" the Mormon Will that surfaced shortly after Hughes died April 5, 1976.

just sat around and moped," he said. "Howard Hughes became my whole life. What was a big case became my alter ego. I was a Hughes alcoholic."

Parnham said he agreed to represent the 400 cousins and challenged the legal finesse of George Dean, an influential force in Alabama civil rights, Wayne Fisher, who specialized in personal injury cases, and Los Angeles attorney Paul Freese.

Parnham had met the three attorneys once before in Las Vegas — again on opposing sides of the courtroom.

"I think we did a good job with what we had," Parnham recalled after hearing Friday's verdict.

Area students gear up for community action

By TINA MILLER
Lifestyle Editor

This will begin a year of involvement for 27 area high school juniors and seniors who have been chosen to, in essence, become partners with the business and professional leadership of the community. While enhancing their leadership skills they will increase their awareness and knowledge of how and why a community moves — or fails to move — forward.

How to get input from the young people into community affairs, take advantage of their youthful vitality and enthusiasm, and give them exposure to community affairs are questions that have plagued every progressive community.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce may have the answer. They have formed a special committee that will be made up of outstanding students from the four area high schools: Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma, and Sands.

This program is designed to offer the business and professional leadership the opportunity to develop greater lines of communication with the youth while selling community involvement to the young people to prepare them to take over the responsibility of tomorrow.

The Big Spring Area Student Involvement Council (B.A.S.I.C.) was thus formed. Former Chamber president, Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, was appointed by Winston Wrinkle, this year's president, to assume the task of organizing and orienting this newly formed committee.

The students select two or more committees or special community projects on which to work. The students become full voting members of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce with their membership fee paid by another business member of the Chamber. BASIC students will attend Chamber meetings, City Council and County Commission meetings on occasion, as well as other special community meetings.

BRUCE DENNIS

A Forsan High School senior, Bruce Dennis, 18, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dennis, 3203 Drexel. Bruce said, "This area has been good to me for the past 11 years. I would like a chance to give back to the community. It will give me an opportunity to meet leaders in the community and learn from them."

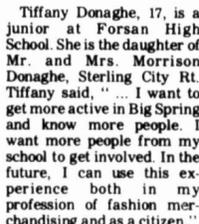

BRANDON IDEN

Brandon Iden, 16, is a junior at Sands High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Iden, Star Rt., Ackerly. Brandon said, "If you want something to be done you have to get out and work at it — not just talk about it — and I'm willing to do that. I'm particularly interested in community involvement in soil and water conservation and agriculture."

BRENDA SALAZAR

Brenda Salazar is a 17-year-old BSHS senior. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Salazar, 908 S. Goliad. "I want a better understanding of the community and the way it is run," said Brenda. "I would like the community to get more involved with the younger generation of the city such as our activities and school functions."

TIFFANY DONAGHE

Tiffany Donaghe, 17, is a junior at Forsan High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Donaghe, Sterling City Rt. Tiffany said, "I want to get more active in Big Spring and know more people. I want more people from my school to get involved. In the future, I can use this experience both in my profession of fashion merchandising and as a citizen."

PATRICIA JONES

Patricia Jones, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Jones, 1506 Eleventh Place. She is a junior at Big Spring High School. "I wanted to find out what is involved in being a community leader and what kind of responsibilities each leader faces daily," Patricia said. "I would like to work in any area that promotes the improvement and expansion of Big Spring's economy."

MICHELLE TORRES

Another BSHS senior is Michelle Torres. Michelle, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Torres, 1314 Park. "I want to be a B.A.S.I.C. member to be a better, more realistic citizen. I think all people should be involved in community affairs but most people don't want to or are afraid to," she said. "I would like to help see older people and teenagers working together to make a better community to live in."

ALAN TREVINO

"I wanted to have a chance to know the people at the Chamber of Commerce and their involvement with the city and county," said Alan Trevino. Alan, 16, is a BSHS junior and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Trevino Jr., 613 Linda Lane. "I am interested in helping the mentally retarded and physically handicapped people. More people need to get involved in things to make this a better place."

TERESA ALEXANDER

Teresa Alexander, 16, is a Big Spring High School junior. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Alexander, 2714 Carol. "I am curious to find out how our city council and other government bodies function when problems exist," Teresa said. "I really am concerned about the community attendance at our high school sports events and hope I can encourage more adult involvement in youth activities."

JOE ARISPE

Joe Arispe, 18, is a BSHS senior. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Arispe, 820 W. 8th. Tony said, "I want to learn how the Chamber of Commerce and local governments work because I like working with adults and learning how to handle problems. I want a better understanding and view of how things are really run in a city."

ROBIN ETHRIDGE

"I like to meet new people and make new friends," said Robin Ethridge, Coahoma High School senior. Robin, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rob Ethridge, 500 N. 5th, Coahoma. "I feel it is very important to be involved in the community activities. I am proud of my county and would like to present it in a pleasing way."

GLENDA KOHL

A BSHS senior, Glenda Kohl is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Carroll Kohl, 615 Colgate. Glenda, 17, said, "I wish to see students involved and interested in things that affect their lives. I expect this experience to relate to my future and make me a more involved citizen. I feel the young people need to be represented and have a place in our community."

KATHRYN MARTIN

Kathryn Martin, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Martin, 2517 Larry, is also a senior at BSHS. "I feel that for a city to grow, it takes community involvement," said Kathryn. "B.A.S.I.C. provides the opportunity for students to learn more about the way it grows and functions. I like working with people and feel like B.A.S.I.C. will benefit me by giving me experience working in the community."

DEAR ABBY: NO NAMES wrote, "My fiancée and I fight and argue every time we see each other, but whenever I suggest calling off our Christmas wedding, she cries and carries on, saying she'll be humiliated before her friends." You said, "Call it off anyway!" You are absolutely right. I know. I learned the hard way.

DEAR TOLD YOU: Thanks for the reaffirmation. A broken engagement is usually embarrassing, sometimes humiliating and always painful. It can also be costly. But it's not nearly as painful and costly as divorce — especially if there are children to consider.

DEAR SILENCE: I agree, it is a rude and obnoxious practice. Make your photocopies if you wish, but be careful where you distribute them, or you might get another kind of "crack" and "pop."

DEAR MR. TRUMAN: With the church filled and reception waiting! Although it beats going through with the marriage, one can imagine the humiliation, heartache and headaches of all parties concerned — not to mention the outrageous expense.

DEAR MR. TRUMAN: You were asked, "Why don't light bulbs last as long as they used to?" I think I can answer that. Nothing lasts as long as it used to. Including me.

DEAR M.: Get another job. Or find a doctor who treats ulcers.

DEAR ABBY: You were asked, "Why don't light bulbs last as long as they used to?" I think I can answer that. Nothing lasts as long as it used to. Including me.

Broken Engagement Better Than Broken Marriage

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I send flowers or a gift to someone in my family, another family member says, "Put my name on the card."

DEAR SUCKER: That all depends on how much longer you want to remain silent.

DEAR ABBY: You've helped waitresses, teachers, policemen and many others who have encountered problems on their jobs. Now please give us cobblers a break.

DEAR ABBY: In the last five years or so, most couples whom I have married have asked that I omit that portion of the service that asks if anyone present objects to the marriage. I ask the bride and groom separately if they are sure they want to go through with the wedding.

DEAR MR. TRUMAN: With the church filled and reception waiting! Although it beats going through with the marriage, one can imagine the humiliation, heartache and headaches of all parties concerned — not to mention the outrageous expense.

DEAR MR. TRUMAN: You were asked, "Why don't light bulbs last as long as they used to?" I think I can answer that. Nothing lasts as long as it used to. Including me.

Day dreams can be a useful tool for success as well as relaxing

COLLEGE STATION Daydreams can create your future, a family life education specialist says. And they can create a quiet resting "place" for a short time during the day, so they're used for two reasons, Dr. Betty Jo Smith adds.

Dr. Smith is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Admitted she's not advocating "dreaming one's life away" as most people were cautioned against during childhood, the specialist contends that daydreams have a definite place in life when used to an individual's advantage.

Daydreams have a real bearing on the future when a person does a little imagining about it, Dr. Smith says. For example, daydreaming about upcoming events can provide an individual with the opportunity to imagine the event from a variety of perspectives. He or she can actually create various scenarios of the event and imagine playing a variety of roles.

Is this healthy? Yes, in deed, the specialist says. In fact, people who tend to daydream about upcoming events and those who imagine themselves in various roles tend to be better prepared and, therefore, more successful in dealing with the event.

Daydreaming about future events also may give the individual a chance to assess the event in more realistic terms.

And since people become, or do, what they think they will be, "good" or "bad" daydreaming may help a person perceive the future more realistically.

PTA unified membership campaign will begin Tuesday with "Happiness is PTA" as its theme

Local units of the Parent-Teacher Association kick off their membership efforts Tuesday, and it will once again be a unified campaign linking all Big Spring PTAs in a joint effort.

"Happiness is PTA" will be the theme of this year's membership drive, according to Shelane Roberts, PTA Council vice president and membership coordinator.

Big Spring schools will be seeing a lot of Snoopy and Woodstock in the next few weeks, indicated Mrs. Roberts. Snoopy dog houses with a mass of little Woodstocks, each representing a new PTA member, will be used as posters and bulletin boards at Big Spring elementary schools.

Prizes will be awarded to rooms and individual students enlisting the most PTA members, and they'll be special surprises straight from Peanut's land, hinted Mrs. Roberts.

"Many friends and relatives of Big Spring elementary students joined our local PTAs last year, and we're hoping for even greater community support this year."

Children from Kentwood, Marcy, Moss and Washington Elementary schools will bring home membership letters from PTA Tuesday. Membership fees should be sent back to school with students.

College Heights PTA still needs several leaders before it can get under way. Persons willing to take PTA positions there should call the College Heights School office, 267-2891; or PTA City Council president Leslie Earnest, 267-1736.

Low-priced cosmetics rate high with many attractive women

You don't have to buy fancy cosmetics at fancy prices to look your best. Excellent low-priced cosmetics, many under $3, are available in supermarkets, according to a recent Family Circle magazine report, "The Best of the Best Cosmetics."

The authors of the report conducted a test in which over 500 women sampled products from 75 of the leading cosmetic companies.

The following budget-priced, less than $3, cosmetics listed in the report were top choices with a majority of women in the study:

L'Erin Moisture Fresh Liquid Makeup: Liquid foundation. Eight shades; light to dark.

Testers' report: Light, transparent coverage, smooth matte finish. Best for younger women who want natural-looking coverage. Gentle formula wears well and is easy to remove.

Johnson's Baby Powder: Loose white powder. Plastic box container, shaker top.

Testers' report: Makes a superb face powder. Ease of application, texture and length of wear are excellent. Puffed on lightly over makeup in the morning, the powder gives a light translucent finish.

Cover Girl Brush-On Blush: Powder blush, no mirror, brush applicator.

Bright colors, pink to bronze.

Testers' report: Buffs up to a nice, warm glow. Colors are good; texture is dry. Applies best over freshly washed, dry skin. Doesn't irritate skin; removes easily.

Bonnie Bell Colorado Colors Eyeshadow Duo: Powder shadow, sponge-tip applicator, mirror compact. Packaged with two contrasting colors per compact, matte and iridescent finish.

Testers' report: Misty, feminine shadows, warm and bright at the same time. Looks exceptionally good on fairer-skinned and mature women who want true color without too much intensity. Easy to apply, wears long and has a smooth finish.

Sally Hansen Perfect Lips: Clear and colored gloss with wand applicator.

Testers' report: The best liked of all glosses. Used alone or over lipstick, it gives a high shine and the popular wet look. The wand applicator is well designed. The tip is unusually small and slanted, making it easy to apply and control the gloss. Kind to lips, neither irritating nor drying.

Maybelline Fresh Lash Mascara: Liquid polymer mascara. Wand applicator. Waterproof. Three shades.

Testers' report: This new plastic based mascara lasts really long without making lashes brittle. Ease of application, color, durability, and applicator design all excellent. Doesn't clump.

Takes one or two applications of a cream or eye makeup remover to clean lashes thoroughly.

Poignant party celebrates closing of Rabbit Habbit

CEDAR PARK, Texas (AP) — Seventy-year-old Bill Bullard ambled up to the owners of the Rabbit Habbit, most popular eatery in these parts, and said, "I think I got mine whipped."

Floyd Roberts wandered by, pulled out the electronic device that allows him to talk, and said in a robotlike monotone, "We ate here all the time. They knew me when I had a voice."

Bullard and Roberts, both cancer patients, were among hundreds of local folks at the sixth anniversary party at Pete and Peggy Garner's Rabbit Habbit. The band — including local lawmen — played country hits. The people gabbed and gobbled.

The party spirit belied the poignancy of the evening. The Rabbit Habbit is closed. Peggy, who worked sixteen hours a day for six years here, has cancer.

The restaurant is for sale. "Right now I'm real happy," said Mrs. Garner, 48, while the party was at its peak. "I think I'm going to be real sad when it's over."

The Garners built the 4,820-square foot restaurant by themselves, a mom-and-pop business in a world of franchises. The rabbit (300 pounds a week), frog legs and other specialties became local favorites in this city of 2,800, which is now 10 miles closer to Austin than it was six years ago, thanks to urban sprawl.

"We thought we'd open a little chicken-to-go place," Garner recalled. They kept adding to the place and wound up with a 200-seat, 16-employee restaurant that served friends from around the state.

On May 23 Mrs. Garner found out she was seriously ill. She underwent surgery in Austin, and then went to M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston.

"They found another tumor. That's what we're up against," Garner said, adding that doctors said it is inoperable.

"It's like someone jerked a rug out from under you," he said.

Roberts and Bullard know what the Garners are going through. Roberts remembers coming into the Rabbit Habbit the night before his surgery.

"I told them I want to talk to you because they're going to do me in tomorrow," he said.

The cancer is bad, but it was the chemotherapy treatments that forced the closing. The Garners climb into their pickup truck every 28 days for the drive to Houston for her treatments.

Garner said his wife wanted to keep the restaurant open.

"She worked so hard to build it. It was her. Her biggest fear was that we were going to close and people would say we didn't make it. She thought everyone would say we failed," he said.

Garner, seeing his wife drained by the monthly treatments, said the decision was easy. "I told her I'd rather devote my time to her than to the place."

The cancer talk was interrupted by Bullard: "I need a beer. My mouth is so dry from those cobalt treatments."

It was a varied crowd at the Tuesday night anniversary and closing party.

"These are some of the roughest cedar choppers in the world. I make them check their chain saws at the front door," Garner joked.

The men looked like contestants in a Bum Phillips look-alike contest. Many of the women had impossibly black hair. The Garners cooked everything left in the kitchen. The guests brought covered dishes.

Local law enforcement officers — who always got free coffee here — manned the kitchen and the guitars.

Giving away free coffee and trying to hold the line on rising prices made the Rabbit Habbit popular. At first the Garners bought one box of toothpicks at a time, hoping they wouldn't go too fast. At the end they were making $20,000 to $30,000 a year.

The closing came as new businesses came to the area. A 100-bed hospital is going up across the highway.

"Everything is coming in when we're going out," Garner said.

His wife of 31 years added, "We toughed it out all this time. Now this happens."

"Three months from now we could double our business," he said. "But now we can't."

"The Rabbit died."

Sorry, we goofed on recipe Wednesday

We are sorry, folks, but we made some errors on Wednesday's Food Exchange recipe for Marian Walker's Hawaiian Pineapple Cake. The correct recipe is as follows:

HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE CAKE

Marian Walker
Topping: Mix together and set aside:
1/2 cup crushed pineapple in heavy syrup
1 can coconut, 3 oz. size
Cream together:
1/2 cup oleo
1/2 cup sugar
Add:
2 eggs
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
Sift dry ingredients together:

2 cups flour instead of 1 teaspoon vanilla as printed
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt instead of 1 teaspoon 1/2 teaspoon soda instead of 1 teaspoon
Add to oleo-sugar mix.
Stir:
3/4 cup crushed pineapple
1-6 oz. package semi-sweet chocolate chips instead of 1 ounce
Grease and flour 13" x 9" pan.
Put batter into pan and spread pineapple-coconut evenly over batter.
Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes instead of 357 degrees as printed. Coconut topping should be slightly browned.

Time-saving hints given for sewing for children

COLLEGE STATION — When sewing children's clothing, consider some timesaving techniques, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist.

Brown is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Here are the techniques: Use the same pattern several times and vary the views, fabrics, and trim. This will save time in alterations and the more familiar you are with a pattern, the faster the construction time will be.

Stitch as much as possible while the garment pieces are flat. For example, hem the sleeve or stitch on trim before stitching the under arm seam together. Also some sleeves can be sewn to the garment before stitching side seams. Use the free arm of machine when stitching small areas such as sleeves.

Use the sleeve board for pressing these small areas also. Use fabric that has body. This is more durable and easier to handle.

Select patterns that are simple with few seams. This will not only take less time to construct but also will be easier to care for.

Decorate only the front or back of garments. This will mean less construction time and it will assist a child in learning the front from back of the garment.

When constructing pants, build in knee reinforcements to prevent having to do it after all the seams are sewn. Reinforce all pockets. Use double seams to cut down on mending time later.

Add "growth features," such as tucks and deep hems so the garment can be worn longer. Use elastic waistbands instead of fitted ones so each garment can "grow" with the child.

Better Business Bureau gives ways one's name gets on many mailing lists

"Everyday it seems I find more requests for contributions in my mailbox. Although I used to enjoy giving to worthy causes, I am now completely turned off by the letters asking for money. How do I get these solicitations to stop?"

The relatively low cost of direct mail solicitations and the high response rate has made this fund raising method very popular with non-profit organizations. Those who have never answered a direct mail solicitation probably do not receive many requests for money, but if you give even once, even a small contribution, you will remain an active prospect for some time.

From a potential donor's point of view, the most vexing problem is the volume of multiple and duplicate solicitations. One elderly widow in failing health was reported to have received 113 appeals from 58 organizations in one week, with as many as 15 duplicates from the same group.

After an investigation the explanation of her plight became clear: she gave in response to most appeals.

While many solicitations are received from organizations who utilize blanket mailings based on telephone directories and other broadly based listings, most names get on most lists because a donation was given or a purchase was made.

A donor who has given to a campaign promoting one particular cause will remain a prime prospect for that cause in future fund raising events. That same donor will be a likely prospect for other organizations which advocate similar interests.

Most organizations using the mails to raise money exchange and — or rent lists from other organizations or professional list brokers. To assemble the half million, two million or eight million names to receive a mailing, an organization may use many lists. Its own house list (list of established donors) will be supplemented by perhaps 15 or 20 other lists. The lists will have certain factors in common — those people with common characteristics who are the most likely prospects.

It is inevitable that lists which have been selected for particular characteristics will contain duplicate names.

If you support a particular point of view, it is likely that others with your views may have common reading tastes (magazine subscription lists), level of education (alumni lists), vocation (membership lists of professional societies), or even residence (zip code).

To the inevitability of one name occurring on several lists add the common factor of variations in that one name appearing on the same list. In an extreme case, one week's appeals to a donor showed 22 variations of her name and address.

To compound this problem, variations and errors cannot be picked up and eliminated by computers. Even if a given list undergoes the "merge-purge" process (a computer run that flushes out duplicates), the computer cannot make adjustments for the infinite and subtle variations which appear. To the computer these are separate entities: to the recipient they're annoying duplicate solicitations.

Borrego, DeLeon gain renewal of child care credentials

Edna G. Borrego and Concha DeLeon of Big Spring have been awarded a renewal of their Child Development Associate Credentials in recognition of outstanding work with preschool children in a group setting.

The credential renewal were awarded by the CDA Credentialing Commission, which is working to improve the quality of care provided for youngsters in child care centers.

The Commission represents the early childhood profession through its member national organization.

Every candidate for the CDA Credential is assessed by a team of four persons including three from the local community. The team members observe the candidate working with children and evaluate the caregiver's competence in six areas. These range from establishing and maintaining a safe and healthy learning environment to advancing the child's physical and intellectual growth.

A study of twins reveals remarkable facts and trends Garden club has yard party

COLLEGE STATION — Although twins are enjoying a new focus of attention, it's important to remember that each is a unique individual with rights and needs, says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist.

If you think you're seeing or hearing more about twins these days, there may be several reasons. Twins have always intrigued family researchers, parents and people-watchers, Ms. Taylor says. As more adults, adopted as children, search for their natural families, the interest in phenomenal similarities of separated twins has reached an all-time high, she adds.

Ms. Taylor is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Why are twins so special in the human species? Mankind naturally has paid special attention to its offspring. When the offspring come two by two, mankind as a whole does a "doubletake" in terms of attention given, the specialist explains.

In addition, there are more twins these days than in the past, Ms. Taylor says. When fertility drugs were introduced in the early 1960's, there was a sudden increase in multiple births.

Birth rates of twins are different in various parts of the world, among different-aged mothers and among different races. Twinning rates for whites average about one of every 90 births. For blacks the average is about one of every 73 births. Scandinavian rates are one of every 62 births, and the Yoruba tribe in Nigeria has the highest rate: one of every 25 births. Orientals tend to have the lowest living-twin rate.

Experts are not quite sure why, but older women are more likely to produce two or more eggs at a time. Women between ages 35-39 are three times as likely to have twins as women under age 20. Furthermore, because of medical advancements and improved health care, more twins survive today.

Our fascination with twins will probably remain so for years to come, just as it has historically. Twins have played an important role in Biblical history, mythology and literature. Shakespeare featured twins in several of his comedies, probably because he was the father of fraternal twins himself.

What is a twin? There are two different kinds, fraternal and identical.

Identical twins begin as a single fertilized egg which divides and becomes two identical fetuses.

Fraternal twins, the vast majority, result when two mature eggs are released by the mother and fertilized at approximately the same time. Fraternal twins can be different in numerous ways — sex, looks and size.

While we are fascinated by twins, we can also learn about the human being from twins, Ms. Taylor points out. Over the years genetic and behavioral studies have used twins for comparative research.

While twins receive attention from the world, their parents are facing a twofold challenge, that of childrearing and that of rearing twins as two separate, individual children. Providing an environment for individualism, uniqueness and independence for each twin is difficult when two children are in the same physical environment, share similar family experiences, are the same age, are in the same stage of growth and development and share special bonds that other brothers and sisters may not understand, Ms. Taylor says.

Parents can promote uniqueness and individuality among twins by treating them as individual children, dressing them differently, doing things with each one.

Garden club has yard party

The Texas Star African Violet Society met at the home of Thelma Montgomery for a yard party Friday. Fourteen members and one guest attended.

New committee members were named and plans were made for the Garden Council luncheon and the horticulture show at the Howard County Fair.

The meeting adjourned following refreshments.

Fabric renews headboard

JANEY ROGERS
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Put new life into an old headboard with fabric. If you want a quick-and-easy way to re-do bedroom surroundings, bypass the paint and brush for this easy project that only takes fabric and a staple gun.

Measure the headboard and buy enough fabric, plus at least four inches on all sides to cover it. If you want an upholstered look, buy the same measurements of foam or padding as you do fabric, and follow the steps below to install it.

In order to cut the fabric in the headboard's shape, lay the fabric on the floor, pattern-side down. Lay the headboard on top of the fabric. Make a pencil outline of the headboard. Then, allowing four inches extra fabric outside of the original line, draw another line to indicate the actual cutting line. Cut the fabric on this second line.

Lay the fabric face down on the floor again, and lay the headboard face-down on top of it. Make sure the fabric is smooth beneath the headboard, and be sure the board is centered on the fabric. Staple one side of the fabric to the back of the headboard. Leave the corner for last.

Now staple the opposite side, pulling the fabric as tight as you can.

After that, staple the fabric at the bottom of the board to the underside of the board, cutting out holes for the legs, if necessary. Then staple the fabric at the top of the board over the top.

If the top is straight, the job is simple. If the top is curved, slit the curved areas so that the fabric turns over the back, and staple each slit separately to achieve smooth curves. Make your slit inward from the edge just far enough to let the fabric turn easily.

Cut unneeded fabric from the corners, and then pleat and fold the corners smoothly. Staple them in place. If you wish, you can glue on decorative tape or ribbon.

Two are best losers at Tops

Abbie Clearmon and Jannie Reed tied as weekly best losers at the Tops Club No. 21 meeting at Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Thursday. Irene Jackson was Queen for the month. One new member attended.

A white elephant contest was held with gifts being auctioned off.

Shirley Jenkins, leader, reported that Area Recognition Day is Oct. 10 in Brownwood. A Hawaiian theme will be observed. Several members plan to attend.

The Take Off Pounds Sensible Club meets each Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Rehab Center, 306 W. 3rd. Please call 263-0391 or 263-2019 for further information.

HOME CEREMONY — Mr. and Mrs. David E. Pope, 3215 Drexel, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Pamela Jean, to Lane McMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McMillan, Snyder. The couple will exchange vows Oct. 17 in the home of the bride-elect's parents. The Rev. Randy Cotton, pastor of Victory Baptist Church, Weatherford, will officiate.

Square dance lessons will begin Thursday

Square dance lessons will begin Thursday, sponsored by the Merry Mixers Square Dance Club, at Eagles Lodge, 703 W. 3rd. The first three nights, Sept. 10, 17 and 24 will be open for signing up. James Moore will be the instructor for 15 to 18 lessons for $15. Please call 267-5030 or 263-2917 if more information is needed.

Miss Daniels honored with bridal shower

Laurie Daniels, bride-elect of Bart Shryack, was honored with a bridal shower Monday at Texas Electric Service Company's Reddy Room.

The refreshment table was covered with a cream-colored crocheted cloth over yellow. A yellow and toast colored arrangement of silk flowers centered the table. Milk glass and silver appointments were used.

Silk corsages of yellow and toast were presented to the honoree, Mrs. Melvin Daniels, her mother and Mrs. Richard Shryack, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Hostesses were Marcy Yeats, Mary Eggleston, Ima Dell Williams, Margie Pope, Theo Dell, Wanda Jones, Ruth Majors, Ruth Manuel, Martha Beene, Georgia Newsom, Neva Shaffer, Lila Adkins, Eloise Watkins, Darla Swindell, Jane Hammond and Melva Cooper.

The hostesses' gift was a set of cast aluminum cookware. Approximately 50 guests attended the event.

Howard County Fair shaping up to be the best yet with eight women's categories

This year's Howard County Fair, to be held Sept. 21-26, promises to be even bigger and better than ever. Fair officers, directors and chairmen have already been working to assure that the fair will be an event to remember.

Last year, the Women's Division of the Fair recorded 1,509 entries. This year's general superintendent and assistant superintendent of the division, Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes and Mrs. Richard Posey, respectively, predict even more entries this year. Categories for this year's Women's Division are:

- Hobbies and Crafts
- Over Sixty
- Baked Goods
- Canned Goods
- Clothing
- Handwork
- Youth

Mrs. Rhodes stressed that nothing of merit will be turned away, and that if there is no category for an item, one will be made.

Entry date for all items except baked goods is Sept. 21 from 7:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Judging will take place from 1:30-4:30. A series of special "Bake Days" will be featured again this year.

Cake Day — Sept. 21.
Pie Day — Sept. 22.
Bread, Rolls, Doughnut Day — Sept. 23.

Cookie Day — Sept. 24.
Decorated Cake and Candy Day — Sept. 25.

Entries in the Baked Goods Division may be picked up at 10 a.m. the day following each exhibit. Entries in all other divisions must remain on display until 10 p.m. Sept. 26. Entries may be picked up at that time or from 2-5 p.m. Sept. 27.

According to Mrs. Rhodes, problems have arisen in past years over this policy. "If the entrants cannot pick up their entries during those times, they should make arrangements for someone else to pick them up," she said. "If no one picks the item up by 5 p.m. Sunday (Sept. 27), it goes to the County Extension Office till someone can pick it up."

The ladies predict a particularly large canned goods division this year because of the good crops. Blue ribbon winners in each adult division will also be given a Ball Award. The award includes Ball Home Canning or Jelly Jar Coupons and a Ball Blue Book. The Award is limited to one per entrant.

Mrs. Rhodes and Mrs. Posey also hope to see more entries in the clothing division. "Sharing with other people is worth the effort," said Mrs. Posey, "and the pride of a finished product should be shown."

The fair is open to all residents of Howard County and surrounding counties. Rules for entries are:

- the item must not be over three years old
- it must have never won first place in the HC Fair
- it must be clean.

Judging will be "tough" according to Mrs. Rhodes, and she believes this improves the quality of the items submitted. Judges in the division will come from outside Howard County and many of them will be County Agents.

The Official Catalogues for this year's fair are now available at the County Extension Agent's office, located in the basement of the County Courthouse. Howard County Fair Cookbooks are also available at the Extension office. They will also be sold at the fair

Six problems solved by "toilet tune-up" knowhow can be easy and inexpensive

COLLEGE STATION — Tackling "toilet tuneups" can be easy — and inexpensive — with a just a bit of knowhow, says Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Toilets vary somewhat in design but are enough alike that the same general repair information applies to most types, she says.

Dr. Berry is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To find out the cause of toilet-repair problems, watch what happens in the flushing action.

- 1) Tripped lever causes the tank ball to lift, opening the outlet so that water flows swiftly from tank to bowl.
- 2) Tank ball sinks back into place, closing off the outlet.
- 3) Float ball drops with water level, opening the intake valve through which fresh water flows into the tank.

4) Rushing water pushes the float ball up until it closes the intake valve, shutting off the supply of fresh water when the tank is full.

Toilet parts most often requiring repair are the flush valve, intake valve and float ball. Inexpensive replacements for these parts are readily available for most kinds of toilets. They can be installed quickly and easily with or without the aid of a professional plumber.

For most jobs, you'll need an adjustable wrench, pliers, screwdriver and the replacement parts.

Most homemakers can learn to recognize and repair five of the six most troublesome toilet-repair problems.

Before starting any repair, shut off the toilet's water supply valve under the tank. If the toilet doesn't have a shutoff valve, flush the toilet to empty the tank, and then gently prop a stick under the float arm.

Problem 1: tank fills, water still runs. First, check the tank float. It must ride high enough on the water to shut off the intake valve.

The water level in most tanks should be three-fourths of an inch below the top of the overflow. If the water level is too high, adjust the float position by gently bending the float arm wire slightly downward.

If the float still rides low in the water, it may have a leak. Unscrew the old float ball and replace it with a new one. Non-corrosive plastic float balls are available at a nominal cost.

If lifting upward on the float rod doesn't shut off the water, washers inside the inlet valve are likely worn. It is simpler, but more costly, to replace the entire valve unit than to replace the washers. Removal of the worn valve and replacement installation may require a plumber.

Problem 2: water runs, tank doesn't fill. A running toilet may be caused by a defect in the rod system, the flush ball or the flush valve.

Having to "jiggle" the trip lever to stop the water flow is a good sign that the rod system which raises and lowers the flush ball may be corroded, bent or out of alignment. Smooth down the rough, corroded wires with steel wool, or buy replacements.

Illustration B

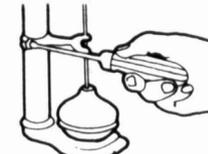

Illustration C

A guide that is out of alignment will prevent the flush ball from dropping directly over the flush valve or opening in the bottom of the tank. To realign, loosen the set screw and move the guide back and forth until the ball drops directly over the valve. Retighten the screw.

A flush ball that does not seat properly on the outlet valve is sometimes the cause of a "running toilet." If the rod system is operating properly, the trouble may be a worn flush ball. If the rubber has hardened or if the ball is out of shape, buy a replacement ball and screw it into the end of the lift wire just over the flush valve.

Often the flush valve becomes rough and uneven from corrosion. This prevents the flush ball from sealing the opening completely. To smooth and clean the flush valve opening, drain the tank and smooth down the metal opening with steel wool. This prevents water from leaking under the flush ball.

Problem 3: inadequate flush. When the flush handle must be held down to complete the flushing action, the lift wires may be at fault. They may not be raising the tank ball high enough to prevent the force of the outrushing water from pulling it back down too quickly. If this is the case, straighten and rebend the upper lift wire to shorten it. The shorter lift wire will hold the flush ball well out of the way of the rushing water.

An inadequate flush also can be caused by the float ball being adjusted too low to allow a full tank of water. To adjust the water level, bend the float arm upward.

Problem 4: leaks under the toilet tank.

A toilet leak at the outlet or where the outlet pipe joins the bowl usually requires removing the tank. This is not a job for the inexperienced home handyman. Call a plumber for this job.

Problem 5: water slow in filling tank. Check the water supply valve under the tank. It may be opened only part way. Open the valve to let a full stream of water flow into the tank.

Problem 6: sweating toilet tank. A dripping toilet tank is annoying and can cause floor damage if left unattended. There are several ways to prevent condensation on a tank.

One way is to install an insulating liner inside the tank. It keeps cold water from chilling the tank.

Another method is to put an uninsulated tempering tank in the garage, attic or inside the house. The tank holds the water long enough for it to warm up before going into the toilet.

The simplest way to prevent a toilet tank from sweating is to install a valve which adds a little warm water to the cold water entering the tank. When the temperature of the tank water is raised and the tank itself is then warmer, condensation is eliminated.

Delegates to attend convention

Three Howard County women are delegates to the Texas Extension Homemakers Association annual statewide convention Monday-Thursday at the Marriott Hotel in Austin. The theme for the convention is "Century III — Decade for Development."

Mrs. Jowill Etchison, HCTEHA chairman, will represent Howard County and have a vote in the proceedings. Mrs. Nadine Hodnett and Frances Hodnett will attend workshops to obtain teaching information for the HC Home Extension Clubs.

Special speakers will include Texas' First Lady, Mrs. Rita Clements; Mrs. Charline Warren of Longview, Wash., president of the National Extension Homemakers Council and Chancellor Frank Hubert of Texas A&M University.

In addition, other special guests will be Robinson Risner with the DARE Foundation, Inc. of Universal City, who is presently serving on the governor's "Fight Against Drug Abuse" committee, and Jack Yianitsis, Success Dynamics, of Houston.

Mrs. Alicia de Valdes of Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico, founder and director of the "Alicia Project," a program designed to help poor people in Mexico through self help, will address the Cultural Arts and International Understanding workshop during the state meet, according to Mrs. Billie McCraw of Raymondville, TEHA president.

Delegates to the meeting will attend workshops concerning citizenship and legislation, cultural arts and international understanding, family life and family resources, membership and leadership, safety and health. Due to large number turnout to workshops, two learning sessions have been added to the agenda for non-delegates: one on community programs and one on communications and public relations, McCraw said.

Convention delegates serve as research persons in their respective home-town communities for the year following the statewide meet. Throughout the year in their home communities, they will share information secured at the convention to benefit more than 20,000 additional Extension Homemakers in Texas, McCraw explained.

In addition, they will promote countywide activities for the public that will reach thousands more homemakers and their families, she added.

Other activities during the convention will include a program presented by a group of foreign students dressed in their native costumes, along with a fashion showing and luncheon.

Special guest for the TEHA convention banquet will be Jack Yianitsis with Success Dynamics of Houston. Yianitsis will address the group on "The Power Within You."

Library has guides for handmade gifts

By ROSE von HASSELL
Cataloguer

Did you know that there are only 100 days left till Christmas? You might think it's a little early to start counting the days, but it's not too early to start making gifts for Christmas. The Howard County Library can help you with this project.

Pillow making can be fun, inexpensive and fast work. "Pillow Punch Craft", by Nan Orselsky tells you how to make pillow people. All you need is burlap, yarn and a punch needle. The pillows can resemble family, friends, monsters, animals, or you can use your imagination and create your own punch pillows. This book has the complete directions and patterns that can be used to help you make them.

Wouldn't a child you know treasure a stuffed toy made with your own hands? Rudi de Sarigny's book "How to Make and Design Stuffed Toys" will show you how. You don't have to go out and buy new materials, look around your home and you may find bits and pieces of fabrics, buttons, stuffing to use. The patterns include a duck family, Minnie-little girl bear, a panda, a horse, a clown, a dog and many others that a child will enjoy.

Another project for children's gifts might be dollhouse accessories. "Making Dollhouse Accessories", by Charlene Davis Roth is an excellent source. There are patterns and directions for rooms, furniture, animal companions, utensils, and vehicles for the dolls. The craft materials used, are wood, papier-mache, fabric and clay.

If you are real ambitious and would like to make something extra special for someone try quilting. "Quilting For Your Home", is by Eileen Goin and Jill Newton. They tell the history of quilting, as well as equipment needed. If you make a quilt by hand, you will need a frame, but if you use a sewing machine the frame can be eliminated. The instructions include information as to how difficult or easy each project is. Another book which would help you in this area is "Patchwork and Applique", by Pauline Chatterton.

Erica Wilson is America's foremost embroiderer and her book "Christmas World" has over 60 original designs for Christmas ornaments, gifts, household items and toys. A child you know may love Beatrix Potter's "Peter Rabbit", how about making them a "Peter Rabbit" stocking to hang on the fireplace, or a Beatrix Potter picture.

Some other suggestions are a candle wreath centerpiece, treetop angel, lace snowball ornaments, silver stars and snowflakes, a Christmas sampler to hang on the wall. Each project is accompanied by detailed step-by-step instructions, illustrations and patterns.

"Christmas Magic" by Margaret Perry shows how to make and decorate ornaments. There are doorway decorations, centerpieces, tree ornaments, mobiles, a Christmas village, and many more. The items from this book can be made with materials usually found around the house.

Some of the other Christmas craft books are, "The Gnomes Book of Christmas Crafts", by Carol Endler, Sterbenz; "Crafts for Christmas", by Katherine N. Cutler and Kate Cutler Bogie; "McCall's Christmas Knit and Crochet"; and "How to Make Christmas Ornaments", by Harvette S. Hendricks.

Why not try your hand at making your own Christmas cards? "Make Your Own Greeting Card Book", by Charles Bennett, Gerald Taylor and Peggy Yatabe, can show you how. The authors tell you the most important instruction that they can give you is to have fun. They also give instructions on how to make collage, paper dolly, stained-glass-look, silk screen, photo and embossed greeting cards, plus many many more. There is also a chapter on lettering and typefaces that can be used, and how to make greeting cards in quantity.

So why not avoid the Christmas rush, come to the Library, check out a book, and start to make your own Christmas gifts for someone on your Christmas list?

Top tips given from FC contest

Out of the thousands of entries in the first Family Circle-Mary Ellen Hint-Off Contest, the magazine selected 100 of the best money, time and effort-saving tips for a feature in a recent issue. These top tips are culled from the magazine.

Household Hints — Use an oven cleaner on a badly encrusted and scorched steam iron bottom. Use two applications if necessary. Don't use on Teflon-coated sole plates. After cleaning out the steam holes, warm the iron and press it over wax paper. The iron surface should be clean, smooth and ready for ironing.

To make cleaning up pet hair and dust easier, spray your broom with furniture polish before sweeping the floor. Pet hair and dust will cling to the broom.

Clear plastic shower curtains hung on the inside of lightweight or unlined draperies will appreciably cut down on cold drafts. The curtains, which are easily cut to fit, are usually 72" x 72" and cost $2.99 or less, complete with grommets in the heading. Also, they're easily removed for milder weather.

Food Tips — To thicken stews slightly without increasing its calorie count or changing its taste, just remove some of the vegetables and mash with a little of the hot liquid, then gently stir mashed vegetables back into the pot.

To make sure you don't get a glass mostly full of foam when you pour a carbonated beverage into an ice-cube filled glass, try this: Fill the glass of cubes with cold water, then pour off. Now you can pour in the carbonated drink with no excess foam.

To quickly and painlessly string popcorn for Christmas trees, pop the corn one week before stringing. The kernels will easily slide onto the needle without crumbling.

Planting Tips — To keep your houseplants moist for weeks when you're away from home for an extended period of time, place the plants in the bathtub, water thoroughly and cover with a large plastic bag — from the dry cleaner, for example. Tape the bag to the sides of the bathtub. This creates a mini-greenhouse.

Save your cracked-in-half eggshells and the egg cartons if you want to start plants for your garden indoors, but don't want to buy seed starters. Fill the eggshells with soil, plant the seeds in the shells and place them in the egg cartons. Close the lid until the seeds sprout and let them grow until transplanting time. Then simply transplant the entire plant, including the eggshell, after cracking it on the bottom.

Travel Tips — Asphalt road works better than sand for getting tires unstuck from snow. Carry four strips or so of asphalt (roof) tiles in your car. If you get stuck in snow, put the tiles under each tire, rough side up. Another benefit of tiles is they don't spill as sand always seems to do.

For a good buy on a practically new car, try looking in a bank repossession garage (which many of the large banks have). Though they don't advertise, these are open to the public. Cars are sold at low prices so the bank can recoup the losses.

Childcare Tips — A little bit of salad oil makes the medicine go down easier for children who have trouble swallowing large pills. Just coat the pill with the oil and it will slide down easily; and no taste either.

You don't have to engage in a tug of war when helping your child on with his or her rubber boots. Spray the inside of the boots with any dusting product containing wax. Then wipe the inside of the boot with a cloth until it is totally dry. The boot will now slip on easily.

Health & Beauty Tips — When you get a splinter in your finger that's too small to locate, touch the spot with iodine. The splinter will turn dark and is very easy to see.

Here's how to dry your curly-top perm in no time and keep the curls in place. Attach two to four thicknesses of cheesecloth with a rubber band over the end of a hand-held dryer and turn on "low."

If your hair is fine and full of static electricity, and you can't get it to lie down long enough to spray it, here's how to beat the frizzies! Simply rub a fabric softener sheet over your hair.

Sewing & Needlework Ideas — To make sewing zippers easier, tape the zipper in place, then stitch next to (not through) the tape. The tape comes off easily after the zipper is sewn.

A convenient way to do your measuring when you knit is to mark off inches on your knitting needles with bands of red nail polish. This way you'll have a ruler at your fingertips whenever you want to check the gauge.

Check out the boy's shoe department next time you're buying casual or rugged shoes for yourself or your daughter. Such shoes are often "Unisex" in style and can cost substantially less than if you bought them in the women's or girl's shoe department.

To rejuvenate dingy white nylon slips, panties, bras, blouses, etc., tint them with tea. Soak them in a strong hot tea solution until the fabric is a shade darker than desired. Then rinse until the water runs clear. The color won't wash out.

"Kids in Cars" program wins first places for TEHA

COLLEGE STATION — Two national awards have proclaimed Texas' "Kids in Cars" tops in the United States.

"Kids in Cars," educational programs conducted by the Texas Extension Homemakers Association (TEHA) across the state, have received first-place in two categories from the National Extension Homemakers Council (NEHC). They will be presented during the NEHC annual conference in August at Durham, N.H.

"Texas children are the real winners as we reach more and more Texans with these programs," said Mrs. Billie McCraw of Raymondville, TEHA president.

One award in the traffic-safety category, dealt with the entire statewide effort.

The other was for a radio tape designed to build public awareness on the subject.

Craftsmanship in Silverplate

Elegant, affordable silverplate is becoming increasingly practical due to the price of sterling. Yet here at the ACCENT SHOPPE, we find many brides worry about craftsmanship. Must they sacrifice pride of workmanship for lower price? Not at all. These days, silverplate is often made by the same fine craftsmen who make sterling. They pay the same close attention to detail, and sometimes even reinforce stress points with heavier-than-usual plating. For all these reasons, silverplate can be every bit as nice as sterling. So go ahead — dine in style!

Cook's tricks are given by Suzanne

It's a snap to get a "high hat" on a souffle, make fat-free sauces and no-lump gravy, and cook rice that's fluffy every time ... if you know the secret. To perform these and other mouth-watering cooking tricks, that's chances are your grandmother probably didn't know, take some tips from a recent Family Circle magazine "how-to" article "Suzanne's Cooking Secret."

The following tips are culled from the article written by cooking expert Suzanne Warner Pierot:

• Yolks in the whites
If a speck of egg falls into the white when you are separating eggs, don't try to fish it out with your fingers. The oil on your skin will prevent whites from whipping. Instead, lift the yolk specks out with an empty eggshell half.

• How to get a "high hat" on a souffle
Merely run your finger around the inside of the dish below the rim before putting it in the oven. A high hat, like the pros get, will rise in the center.

• Fat-free sauces
To remove fat from the surface of a sauce, put the pan half on and half off the heat source. The fat will drift to the cooler side, and you can lift it off with a shallow-bowled spoon.

• No-lump gravy
Use flour that has been browned. Besides keeping lumps from forming, it makes the gravy taste better and gives it a richer color.

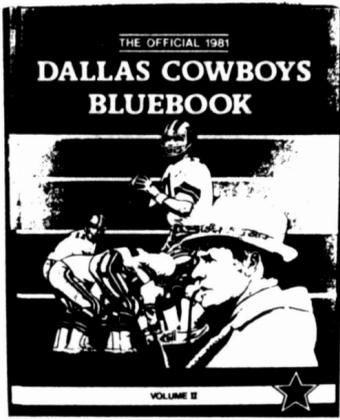

• To brown flour easily
Put a little in a heatproof dish when you're using the oven, and leave it there until the flour turns a rich brown color. Store it in a jar in the refrigerator.

• Tasty way to halve meat-cooking time
Marinating meat overnight reduces cooking time by almost half ... and it makes a dish more flavorful.

• Secret for fluffy rice
When the rice is done, remove the lid and cover the pot with two layers of paper towels. Then cover with a tight-fitting lid and let stand from five to thirty minutes until you're ready to serve it. The towels absorb excess moisture, leaving the rice light, dry and fluffy. Another tip ... don't lift the lid or stir the rice as it cooks or the grains will adhere.

Some myths about blues are exploded by NIMH

NEW YORK, N.Y. — According to a recent survey conducted by the National Institute of Mental Health, almost one in every five people suffer at least moderate symptoms of the blues. Despite its prevalence, depression is a condition that remains clouded with misconceptions. Here are a dozen common myths about depression, outlined in the September issue of "Seventeen" magazine by Zelda Segal and Dr. Julius Segal.

Myth 1 — People who became depressed have weak characters. Not so at all. Periods of sadness are a natural part of our lives, and they are most likely to occur when we feel unable to cope with the stresses of everyday living.

Myth 2 — Depression is shared equally by both sexes. At all stages of life, women appear to be somewhat more vulnerable to depression, although some researchers feel they're simply more likely to admit they're depressed and to seek help.

Myth 3 — Depression is always caused by emotional distress. Not every dramatic change of mood has an emotional basis. Many times a physical malfunction, like iron-deficiency anemia, is the cause of depression.

Myth 4 — Depression is unpleasant, but it can't make you physically sick. The psychological factors involved in depression may play an important role in the development of many physical ailments. Depression may also prevent people who are sick from recovering.

Myth 5 — Your age has nothing to do with whether or not you're likely to become depressed. Although depression can strike at any age, you're more vulnerable during certain stressful times in your life when your self-concept is fragile.

Myth 6 — The blues can't destroy your desire for romance. They can and often do. For many people, depression erases romantic feelings altogether.

Myth 7 — A depressed person will always feel better in time, even without treatment. In many cases, depression victims do recover spontaneously. But, long-term depression, which interferes with daily activities, won't lift without help.

Myth 8 — Treatment of depression inevitably means years of psychotherapy. Not at all. Frequently, a short period of supportive counseling is all that's needed. But for those whom depression has become entrenched over many years, more intensive probing and therapy may be required.

Myth 9 — The psychological trigger for a period of depression is always obvious. In many cases, the sufferer can name the precipitating cause, but in other cases, the cause is subtle. Often, we cannot express the mounting sense of frustration and anger we feel, and when these emotions are held inside, the result can be a feeling of despair.

Myth 10 — You can treat yourself with medication to overcome depression. Anti-depressant drugs do provide effective treatment for millions of victims of lingering depression, but a doctor's skill and knowledge is needed to prescribe the right ones and to monitor the patient's reactions.
