Clements orders guard into flooded Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has declared flooded areas of Amarillo in a state of emergency, and city officials have started operating a hastily installed pipeline to siphon off the waist-high waters that submerged parts of the city.

Clements ordered the mobilization of some 30 Texas National Guardsmen Sunday to protect businesses from looters.

Heavy weekend rains swamped city streets, forced the evacuation of several apartment complexes and immersed cars up to the roofs.

Three youths missing since Saturday were discovered safe Sunday, and a Potter County sheriff's spokeswoman said two or three other people who had been missing on the Canadian River turned up unharmed.

Utility crews began turning off electric service to a 10-square-block area of Amarillo near a man-made lake Sunday after one woman received an electric shock in her flooded apartment, authorities said. The woman was transferred to the hospital by boat, and was reported in stable condition.

Evacuees were taken to a church and a Red Cross center set up nearby.

Authorities readied evacuation plans for a nearby hospital and nursing home as water crept into their parking lots. The Olsen Manor Nursing home was partially evacuated after heavy rains Friday.

Police quarantined the area, where water rose to 5 feet in the streets and sewage backed up into apartments, said a police spokesman who would identify himself only as Officer Chunn. Water also was seeping into

'When the customers woke up this morning and saw all the water, they took off.'

Western Plaza, a shopping mall near the lake.

Amarillo police chief Jerry Neal said officers began issuing citations for "joyriding" to drivers who disregarded barricades and plowed their vehicles through flooded streets.

Several businesses that normally close for Labor Day probably would have to keep their doors shut a little longer, waiting for the water to ebb, city officials said.

"We have had some streets closed," said sheriff's dispatcher Linda Luccak. "There are a couple of businesses that (the water) is up in their parking lots."

Melba Nunnally, manager-owner of the Royal Motor Hotel, which borders a highway, said the high waters scared off customers who feared they would be unable to get back on the road.

"If we don't get any more rain we'll be fine, but if it rains anymore we'll be in trouble. ... When they (customers) woke up this morning and saw all the water, they took off," she said Sunday.

The N.S. Griggs and Son funeral home had to evacuate everything — bodies and all — to another funeral home across town because of the rising waters, police said.

On Friday, the city commission approved the purchase of $250,000 worth of the pumping equipment after heavy rains flooded businesses and knocked out electric and telephone service to some parts of Amarillo.

The commission voted to purchase a 4,000-gallon capacity pump and 12,000 feet of 10-inch pipeline to transport the water from the business area to a storm sewer center.

'The folks at City Hall'

After one ride in a patrol car, Hoherz knew he wanted to be a cop

This is the eighth installment in a daily Herald series entitled "The folks at City Hall." The series concludes tomorrow with an interview with Hal Boyd, manager of the municipal airport and industrial park. Don't miss it.

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

All it took was a ride around with a Waco police officer one night and 24-year-old Elwood Hoherz knew he wanted to be a cop.

It was 1962. Hoherz had several years in the banking industry behind him. Then the Army called. Hoherz was drafted and sent to Fort Hood near Waco. But just before he turned in his civilian clothes for a military uniform, Hoherz took a ride around Waco one night with a cousin who was a patrolman on the Waco police force.

"I saw a lot of things that night," Big Spring Police Chief Elwood Hoherz recalls today from inside the cool blue walls of his small office at the police station.

"Something about that eight-hour shift had an impact on me. When I came out of the Army (in 1964), I was determined to be a police officer."

So determined that within a few weeks of trading in his Army uniform for his "civvies," he was trading in his civilian clothes once again — this time for the dark blue uniform of a Waco police officer.

Hoherz spent 13 years with the Waco force, working his way up from patrolman to administrative aide for Waco Police Chief Larry Scott. It was a progression unbroken except for three years spent in Fort Worth as an inspector for the state Liquor Control Board (now the Alcoholic Beverage Commission).

THEY WERE YEARS during which Hoherz watched law enforcement go through changes, not all of them to the betterment of the profession. They were years during which Hoherz went through his own changes, and brushed with death "two or three times."

It's not something I like to talk about," the chief says when pressed to recount some of his close calls. "I don't want it to sound like I'm telling war stories."

He will, however, talk your ears off about some of the less dangerous but still unusual calls he has answered in his career. Like the 1977 case of the two 16-year-old kids who allegedly dug up half a million dollars which the father of one of the boys had planted in his yard.

"You might have read about it. It made national headlines," says Hoherz. "I was the investigator on that case."

The boys were from Alice and had taken a bus to Dallas after stashing the money in a suitcase, Hoherz says. When they got to Dallas, they bought a classic Thunderbird automobile for $10,000 and took off for Chicago. Or so they thought. The pair got their directions mixed and wound up heading south to Waco.

"A rookie cop stopped them for a routine traffic violation, saw the new tags on the car and became suspicious. They looked awful young to him," recalls Hoherz. A search resulted in the discovery of some $428,000 in the trunk of the car along with a "baggie of marijuana," Hoherz says, adding that the case was cleared up earlier this year without his having to travel to Waco to testify.

"My understanding is that the county — McLennan County — got the money. The daddy never claimed it."

OR ANOTHER STORY Hoherz likes to tell: the time he helped a woman deliver a baby in the cab of her pickup truck.

"It was early in the morning and there was a cold blue norther blowing. She had nobody to help her. We had no proper clothing to wrap the baby in. As soon as I helped deliver it, I hopped in my patrol car and rushed to the hospital. The baby lived, although they had to put it in a quarantine for three days since it was born outside the hospital with no doctor around."

How, Hoherz is asked, does police work change a man when he becomes a cop?

"A lot of them come in very liberal and think they'll change police work. But after they see a few victims, they change. I've seen them harden over the years. I've seen them turn conservative and believe in a strong criminal justice system," the chief says.

And while police work hardens a man, society seems to have hardened in its conception of what it means to be a cop.

"Twenty years ago you could go into a school room and ask a first-grader what he wants to be and more than likely one of the things he'd say is a police officer. But you go in today and not too many of them probably would say that," the chief laments.

The reason police work has lost much of its esteem

Family stops IRA prisoner's fast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republican Army's prison hunger strike has suffered two major setbacks, but a spokesman vowed that the fast would continue.

For the second time in three days, a striker's family suspended his fast and told the doctors at the Maze Prison to save his life. And the Irish National Liberation Army, an offshoot of the IRA, said it was scaling down its participation in the seven-month-old fast to the death for political-prisoner status.

Richard McAuley, a spokesman for the outlawed IRA's legal political front Sinn Fein, expressed understanding of the actions. But he said more imprisoned guerrillas would join the strike, beginning today with John Pickering, 25.

Pickering, who is serving a 26-year term for killing a policeman in an ambush, becomes the sixth man currently on the strike and is the 21st guerrilla to join since it began March 1. Ten have died, one quit voluntarily because of his health, and five were taken off by their families.

Lawrence McKeown, 24, slipped into a coma early Sunday on his 70th day without food, and his mother authorized emergency medical care, the British government's Northern Ireland Office announced. McKeown, serving a life sentence for the attempted murder of a policeman, was transferred to a Belfast hospital.

Matthew Devlin, 31, was withdrawn from the strike Friday by his family after he became unconscious. He was in the 52nd day of his fast.

"Anyone that comes off fast is good news," said a government source, "but one doesn't know how much hope it signals."

McAuley told The Associated Press that the aim is to have eight people fasting at a time. He said if McKeown and Devlin do not resume the strike when they are able to decide for themselves, they will be replaced.

Missing airplane overshot its mark

ALAMOSA, Colo. (AP) — An airplane thought to have crashed somewhere between Amarillo, Texas, and here with six persons on board has turned up safe and sound in Creede, Mineral County Sheriff Jan Briggs said today.

Briggs said the airplane apparently overshot its destination and landed in Creede Saturday afternoon. Its original destination had been Alamosa, which is about 70 miles southeast of Creede, in southern Colorado.

The sheriff said that the airport caretaker reported that "five or six" persons alighted from the plane after it landed Saturday. He said the occupants went fishing and were unaware that an air and ground search had been launched for them.

CAP spokesman Richard Oakes said that the pilot apparently forgot to close his flight plan after he landed. He said that CAP officials had thought the Creede airport had been checked and crossed off its list of possible places where the airplane might have landed.

"Someone goofed someplace," he said.

Action/reaction: Economy protein

Q. I've read recently that it's cheaper, per cost per pound of protein, to buy economy cuts of meat than it is to buy hot dogs or hamburger. Since protein is the only thing we care about when buying meat, what's the story on this "economy cut" business and is it cheaper?

A. We wouldn't know. However, the U.S. Department of Agriculture knows and tells all in its free publication How to Save Money with Large Cuts of Meat. The six-page, illustrated leaflet explains how you can save up to $1 per pound of meat by getting large cuts of pork or beef and cutting it up yourself. Besides ... hacking up cold meat with saws and knives can be fun as well as good exercise!

The publication is available through Consumer Information Center, Dept. 65LJ, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Send a post card and get started sharpening those knives.

Calendar: Businesswomen meet

TUESDAY

The Business and Professional Women's Club will meet at 7 p.m. at Lee's Chinese Garden. Membership is open to all women who are actively engaged in business or professions. Dues are $22 per year. President Mamie J. Roberts invites all women to attend. YMCA closed for Labor Day.

WEDNESDAY

New fall classes begin at YMCA. Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal meeting in county courthouse, 1 p.m.

The public is invited to come and get acquainted with the teachers and the students. The Learning Center is open Monday-Thursday 8-3, Friday 8-12, Tuesday and Thursday night 6 to 9.

Tops on TV: Monday football

ABC kicks off its coverage of NFL football on Monday night with an 8 p.m. game that pits the San Diego Chargers against the Cleveland Browns. At 7 p.m. CBS presents a special hour-long "WKRP in Cincinnati" in which Dr. Johnny Fever makes some definitive statements about the state of contemporary music. For newspaper fans, "Lou Grant" on CBS at 9 p.m. has a story concerning the tensions on a newspaper in his job and the measures he takes to escape the stress.

Outside: Cloudy

Partly cloudy with a 50 percent chance of rain predicted for today and tonight. High temperature should be in the '80s with the low in the '60s. Winds today from the south at 10-15 miles per hour.

GUARDING THE GATES — U.S. Border Patrolmen armed with nightsticks guard the entrance to Miami's Krome Avenue detention center where hundreds of Haitians are held during a protest Sunday outside the camp staged by angry members of the Haitian community and others. When the Haitians discovered they would not be permitted access to the camp, they left toilet articles they had brought for the refugees inside in front of the line of border patrolmen.

Obscene jokes land comedians in jail

DALLAS (AP) — It wasn't part of the act when John Bowley and John Wilson were arrested on stage for telling obscene jokes and singing dirty ditties. And Bowley and Wilson aren't laughing now either.

The Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission has thrown a twist into the show: the two comedians have been performing for 12 years.

The comedians and club owner Robert Peterson were handcuffed and led away during a performance Aug. 13 at their new club, Bowley and Wilson's Easy Parlor. If convicted of misdemeanor obscenity charges, they could be jailed for up to a year.

Peterson also could be fined or have his liquor license suspended or revoked, depending upon what the ABC decides at an administrative meeting in Austin.

The case, with its emphasis on language rather than nudity or other physical contact, could set a legal precedent.

Even ABC District Supervisor E.P. McCracken, who requested the charges be filed, says he knows of no previous criminal prosecution of a comedian on obscenity charges.

"I may lose this one," he concedes, but he points out that the Alcoholic Beverage Code outlaws lewd and vulgar language in a bar, "and the kind of language they were using out there, I thought, was lewd and vulgar."

While Bowley admits that he uses vulgarity, he says he uses it "as defined in the dictionary; that which is used by the common people, that which is popular."

"But I'm not doing anything that's obscene or immoral. I'm doing a comedy routine. The show is written and produced to be funny. It's not written to be dirty."

Fraternity brothers and roommates while attending Southern Methodist University, Bowley and Wilson have cut three albums since 1970 and spent nine years performing at Up Your Alley before moving to their new club in June.

Four years ago, Bowley and Wilson had their first run-in with the ABC when Up Your Alley was threatened with temporary suspension of its liquor license because of several alleged liquor law violations — including the language used in the comedians' routine.

Jim Wallace, owner of the club, said he paid a fine in lieu of the suspension and persuaded Bowley and Wilson to tone down their language. No charges were filed.

Before he and the comedians were arrested in August, Peterson says the ABC offered him the option of paying a $1,500 fine or taking a voluntary 10-day suspension instead of facing formal charges.

But Peterson refused because he says McCracken wouldn't tell him how the comedy routine would have to be changed.

McCracken said the arrests followed a call from a woman who complained her 16-year-old daughter had been exposed to vulgarity while visiting the club.

But Peterson says the club does not allow under-age patrons inside.

Bowley and Wilson both say they are "angry" and "scared" about the charges against them. But they also say they refuse to alter their act.

Showers forecast for West Texas

By the Associated Press

Scattered thunderstorms were forecast today for much of West Texas, Southwest Texas and northwest portions of North Texas as the long Labor Day holiday weekend drew to a close.

The remainder of the state was to have clear to partly cloudy skies. Highs were to be mostly in the 80s and 90s, dipping as low as the mid 70s in the Panhandle.

A cold front moved into the Panhandle early today, bringing with it thunderstorms, some very heavy. The front was located before dawn along a line from the New Mexico border eastward from southwest of WEST TEXAS — Cloudy with scattered thunderstorms most sections through Tuesday except partly cloudy northwest Tuesday. A few thunderstorms becoming locally heavy. Southwest Texas through tonight. Highs mid 70s north to lower 90s south. Lows mid 50s north to near 70 south. Highs Tuesday near 80 north to near 90 south.

Sun sets today at 8:03 p.m. Sun rises at 7:25 a.m.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Tuesday predicts showers in a line stretching from Texas to Georgia. Rain is forecast for portions of Minnesota and Florida and in a line stretching along the Eastern seaboard from Georgia to Canada.

Hurricane heads for Bermuda

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Floyd charted a course toward Bermuda today with winds of 95 mph, while Hurricane Emily drifted erratically off Newfoundland and a new tropical depression was building in the southern Caribbean.

Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said Floyd was expected to strengthen rapidly and could pose a threat to Bermuda in the next day or so if it follows its projected path.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Floyd was located at 28.0 north, longitude 69.0 west, or about 375 miles southwest of Bermuda. Gales extended outward from the center 100 miles to the east and 50 miles to the west.

Floyd, which formed late Thursday north of the Virgin Islands and became the sixth storm of the season Friday, was moving northward at 10 mph, and was expected to gradually turn toward the northeast later today.

"Conditions favor rapid strengthening," Floyd said.

Far to the north, a slowly weakening Hurricane Emily was moving erratically toward the northeast at 10 mph with top winds of 75 mph.

Emily was located about 425 miles southwest of St. John's, Newfoundland, near latitude 42.0 north, longitude 56.5 west.

Donovan, labor debate Reagan's strike stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan says state and local officials should "follow the lead" of President Reagan and deal sternly with strikes by public employees.

"I believe the most important message that could be given on Labor Day, not only to labor but to all of America, is that it is a nation of law and that we cannot pick and choose those laws that we will keep and those that we will break," Donovan said Sunday.

In separate, nationally televised interviews timed to coincide with Labor Day, Donovan, AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland and Kenneth Blaylock, head of a large federal employees union, widened their dispute over whether the administration was pursuing policies harmful to American workers.

The two labor leaders urged the administration to rehire striking air traffic controllers. But Donovan, interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," reiterated that "there will be no amnesty" for the controllers, who were fired after they walked off the job illegally more than a month ago.

"There is not an ounce of gloating" in the administration over Reagan's handling of the controllers strike, Donovan said. "We have just simply done our duty."

The administration's message to others who may have to deal with public employee strikes is "follow the lead of the president in protecting the Constitution," Donovan added.

"What I would hope," he added, "is that they will understand their own basic (economic) pressures as well as the president understands his."

"He's established the fact that he's hard-fisted," Kirkland said of Reagan. "What remains to be established is where's the rest of him. Where's the heart and where's the understanding of people's problems?"

If the controllers are not reinstated, the air traffic system "may limp along, sharply curtailed, at great expense to the public," said Kirkland, who appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Blaylock, president of the American Federation of Government Employees, said he believes the administration's strategy hinges on the success of a move to decertify the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization as the bargaining agent for the controllers.

Polish workers told to take lead in solving crisis

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Solidarity's secretary says the independent labor movement must take the lead in planning to solve Poland's economic crisis. But he said the independent labor federation must continue negotiations with the communist government to avoid a "tragic confrontation."

Polish workers "have to take into our own hands the decisions of reconstructing the economy, to present active constructive solutions," Andrzej Celinski said in a policy statement Sunday to the union's first national congress.

He pledged that union leaders would seek continued communications with the government "as the only way of avoiding a tragic confrontation with the authorities which would destroy our great historical chance."

The government, which has balked at Solidarity's demands for a greater voice in management and access to the state media, accused the union in a report Sunday of failing to maintain social peace and thus breaking its part of the agreement that brought it into existence a year ago.

The government said it fulfilled its part of last summer's Gdansk agreement by raising wages and shortening the work week. The year-old accord settled a THUMBS UP — White House Press Secretary James Brady is wheeled down the steps from his Arlington, Va. home by an unidentified driver and his nurse, right, following a visit home Saturday. Brady, who is recovering from his wounding in the assassination attempt on President Reagan, made the one-day visit to his home, his first since the injury.

Armed convicts sought in chase

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — Bloodhounds and police in helicopters are on the track of four heavily armed convicts who were among seven inmates to steal a guard's uniform and fake their way into a prison arsenal before escaping.

The inmates shot and wounded a suburban policeman as they fled and split into two groups after the Sunday breakout. Three were quickly apprehended.

About 150 law officers from seven state, county and city agencies were on the trail of the other four, who included three convicted murderers.

The seven escaped from the Kansas State Prison in Lansing at 6:45 a.m. Sunday by stealing a guard's uniform and duping another guard into giving them a key to a prison tower, said Linda Moppin, assistant director of the facility. Once in the tower, they took two shotguns, a .38-caliber revolver, a .30-30 rifle and a supply of ammunition, she said.

They tied up the guard in the tower, then scaled a 10-foot sliding gate and fled to a residential area before splitting up, police said. One group accosted a pregnant woman at a mobile home park and stole her car, while the second group took a car, credit cards and money from a sleeping man.

Both groups apparently traveled south toward Kansas City, Kan., and Bonner Springs Police Chief Gary Tyler said they were sighted in his town.

Bonner Springs Police Sgt. Doug Cansler, 34, saw one of the stolen cars driving erratically and gave chase. The driver ran the stolen car into a ditch, and authorities believe four escapees ran into an empty house.

Cansler ran to the rear of the house, and was shot four times, although he managed to return fire and struggle to his car to radio for help, police said.

He was listed in critical condition Sunday night at a Kansas City Kan. hospital with a broken arm and gunshot wounds in the chest, both arms and the right knee.

After shooting Cansler, the escapees ran into a wooded area beyond the house.

One of them, convicted murderer Terry McClain, was arrested on foot in the woods Sunday afternoon about a mile west of the Bonner Springs tollgate on the Kansas Turnpike. McClain, 31, who Ms. Moppin said was president of a prison club which seeks reforms for inmates serving life sentences, was taken to the Wyandotte County Jail, Bonner Springs Police Lt. Bob Kroh said.

Law enforcement officers swarmed the woods where McClain was caught. Officers in helicopters and on foot spotted three fleeing convicts Sunday evening.

Police arrested convicted murderer Marvin Thorton, 40, and Larry Miller, 33, but the third convict spotted escaped on foot.

Former Texas justice attends med school

GRENADA, West Indies (AP) — The vice chancellor of the Caribbean medical school attended by former Texas Supreme Court justice Don Yarbrough says he would be "happy" if he never sees Yarbrough again.

On Aug. 28, after Yarbrough had failed to appear in Austin, Tex., for sentencing on a 1978 perjury conviction, he was suspended from St. George's University School of Medicine.

Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle and the Texas attorney general's office are trying to extradite Yarbrough from Grenada, a 133-square-mile island where he has lived since the summer of 1980.

"We're anxious to keep out of this situation; we're not part of it. I'd be happy if I never see him, Yarbrough again," Vice Chancellor Geoffrey Bourne told Austin American-Statesman reporter Pete Szilagyi who made the 2,700-mile trip to Grenada in hopes of interviewing Yarbrough.

Yarbrough, however, apparently was unwilling to discuss his thoughts with a reporter unless he was paid for the interview.

According to Szilagyi, a man who refused to identify himself answered Yarbrough's phone and said Yarbrough would not submit to interviews because he had been "exploited" by the press.

The man said he was editing a manuscript for Yarbrough and added, "I've never seen anything so powerful... if he doesn't get a Pulitzer, I'll be shocked."

The day Szilagyi saw Yarbrough at the medical school's main campus on Grand Anse Beach, most of the students were dressed in T-shirts, shorts and running shoes. Yarbrough, however, had on tan slacks and a sports shirt. "Yarbrough spoke to no one and walked back inside. He was not interested in being interviewed," Szilagyi's story said.

Other students know Yarbrough, 40, as "the lawyer from Texas, a nice fellow and diligent student," the story said Bourne confirmed, however, that Yarbrough had to repeat some courses.

Bourne said Yarbrough told him when he enrolled at St. George's, which has a $7,100 annual tuition, that his legal problems in Texas stemmed from a "mistake" he had made in arranging a 1977 business meeting.

Actually, Yarbrough was convicted of lying to a Travis County grand jury about telling a former business associate, Bill Rothkopf, how to forge a car title to get a bank loan. Rothkopf, who was wearing a concealed tape recorder, also recorded Yarbrough plotting to have a Victoria banker killed. Yarbrough's lawyers kept the jury from hearing that part of the tape because it involved an alleged crime for which he was not on trial.

Later, Yarbrough told the grand jury the meeting with Rothkopf never had taken place.

Yarbrough was elected to the Texas Supreme Court in 1976, saying God had told him to run. He was indicted on June 30, 1977, for aggravated perjury and forgery. After the Legislature moved to strip him of his office, Yarbrough resigned from the court on July 15. He also surrendered his law license rather than face a disbarment trial.

After a jury convicted him of felony perjury, he was sentenced to prison in March 1978. While his conviction was on appeal, Yarbrough, under $5,000 personal recognizance bond, left for Grenada. The appeal failed, and he was ordered to return to Austin on Aug. 11 to be sentenced.

Yarbrough's lawyer, former Texas attorney general Waggoner Carr, said Yarbrough's failure to show up was "a complete surprise," because "all the time he kept reassuring me" he would return.

Bourne said Yarbrough is being allowed to audit courses under his academic suspension, but he will not receive credit until he has resolved his Texas legal problems.

Play it safe, plan for fires

The deadliest fires in the United States are the ones that don't make the headlines.

Public attention is captured by the kind of blaze that sweeps through a hotel or high-rise office building. But the U.S. Fire Administration says that two-thirds of the more than 6,000 people who die in fires every year are killed in their own homes.

Smoke and speed are the killers. Most fire victims die because smoke blocks their escape or poisons them before they can flee. And the National Bureau of Standards says it takes only two minutes from the time a fire starts for an entire room to be engulfed in flames.

The more you panic, the greater the risk. You become confused and waste time. You breathe harder when you are under stress and the faster you breathe, the faster you inhale the poisonous gases.

Knowing in advance what to do if fire breaks out reduces the danger. Every family should have an escape plan. Don't assume that because your house is small or is only one story, you don't have to worry. Even the simplest, most familiar house can seem large and confusing when you are trying to hurry and cannot see where you are going.

The best exit in case of fire is probably the usual one, but you should map out an alternate route and hold practice drills. Your escape plan should be realistic. If you expect a child to open a window and crawl out, make sure he or she can manage without adult help.

Tell family members, particularly youngsters, NOT to stop to call the police or the fire department. Escape first, then make the call from a neighbor's home or public telephone.

Apartment dwellers need to take special precautions. Escape may not always be the wisest course in the case of a fire. Fire-safety specialists from the Department of Housing and Urban Development say most modern apartment buildings of more than three or four stories are constructed of materials which will not burn and will not collapse. A fire which starts in one apartment usually is confined to that unit. "In most cases," say the HUD experts, "if the fire is not in your apartment, you could stay there in complete safety."

The sooner you know about a fire, the better your chance of survival. That's where smoke detectors come in. A recent study by the Fire Administration of 699 accidental fires in homes which had smoke detectors showed that the detector provided the first warning 40 percent of the time.

Make sure the alarm will wake up someone who is sleeping, even if the door to the bedroom is closed and there is background noise like the hum of an air conditioner. A recent experiment sponsored by the National Bureau of Standards showed that smoke detectors generally ARE loud enough to rouse people from a sound sleep, but it also showed that interference from an air conditioner makes a big difference. Two of 10 people in one phase of the study failed to wake up when an alarm went off, outside a closed door, in a room where there was a noise level similar to that of an air conditioner.

PREPARING FOR HOWARD COUNTY FAIR — Terry Patterson, chairman of the Art Division of the Howard County Fair, checks out one of her own paintings of cattle of the Leland Wallace Ranch. People with paintings that have not been shown previously at the fair are invited to enter the art contest at the fair. The paintings must not be more than two years old. Complete rules are available in the official fair catalogue available at the County Extension Office in the basement of the courthouse.

One of top 20 volunteers of Texas has served BSSH patients 22 years

By CAROL HART Staff Writer

"Fridays just aren't Fridays if Tup's not here" said Elma Rosas Martinez of Big Spring State Hospital volunteer Tup Ferguson. Mrs. Martinez, coordinator of volunteer services at BSSH, said Mrs. Ferguson had logged 14,364 hours of volunteer service to BSSH as of Aug. 31. The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation lists Mrs. Ferguson as one of the top 20 volunteers in Texas.

Mrs. Ferguson has been driving to Big Spring almost every Friday for 22 years, and sometimes makes the trip other days of the week. "I like the drive over" said Mrs. Ferguson. "If I don't come over on Friday, my week is ruined. Everything's out of place. It's like going to church on Sunday. If you don't go, the week's turned around."

The volunteer has no plans of stopping her volunteer work. "I'd miss it, because I've done it for so long," she said. "The patients are glad to see you, and that makes you feel good."

In her 22 years of service to the hospital, Mrs. Ferguson has taken on many roles. "I give manicures now," she said. In the past, "I've played bingo, taken patients to town, shampooed their hair, done their faces and taken them on walks."

Mrs. Ferguson has also served on a variety of committees for the hospital. She was on the first Public Responsibility Committee for the hospital in 1973. Mrs. Martinez explained that the PRC committee "was a pilot program which became mandatory and has been incorporated into all state schools."

"They asked me if I'd like to join. I enjoyed it, so I continued." In the years since, she stopped driving over with a group, but added there are several volunteers from Midland who journey to Big Spring on a regular basis to do volunteer work at BSSH. Mrs. Ferguson added she used to drive over from Midland "twice a week. Gasoline has gotten just a little bit too high" to do that now.

Mrs. Ferguson had ties to Big Spring before she began her volunteer work here. Her late husband, Theo, went to Big Spring schools when he was young. The volunteer is active in several Midland organizations, among them a book review group and the Altusa Club. She's also a member of Midland's St. Mark's United Methodist Church, and is secretary to the United Methodist City Board of Missions. Mrs. Ferguson recently donated an afghan that she made to BSSH. "I thought this would be a good way to make money for the Big Spring volunteer council," she explained.

The afghan is made in three panels, and has a cream-colored background with yellow roses cross-stitched on each panel. Chances for the afghan are being offered for $1, and the afghan will be awarded during a drawing at the volunteer luncheon Oct. 15.

In 1973, she was given the Friend of the Hospital award, for dedication to BSSH. Mrs. Ferguson said she first came to Big Spring State Hospital with a group of people from Midland.

Avocados are 'muy bueno' in Texas menus in a dip, salad or butter

COLLEGE STATION — Avocados, "muy buenos" for Texas menus, serve up fancy or plain on Lone Star State tables — in salads, dips or as accompaniments to meals, according to a Texas food and nutrition specialist. Avocados have been popular for many centuries and were widely used in Mexico before the Spanish conquistadors arrived in the 16th century, says Mary K. Sweeten. Mayan Indians served them pureed and seasoned with hot red pepper, she says.

Mrs. Sweeten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Texans like their avocados in salads such as fruit salads with avocado "decked" in a poppyseed dressing. Another idea focuses simply on avocados sliced in "fingers" and added to fresh crisp salad greens.

Avocados also are a delicious accompaniment to such delicacies as shrimp salad served in a "cantaloupe boat" or on a lettuce leaf. And avocado makes a unique filling for omelets, too.

"Avocado Butter" is another tasty idea: puree one large ripe avocado, one pound of sweet butter and the juice of two limes. Flavor with ginger, form into a roll or ball and roll in your favorite chopped nuts. Chill before serving. However, the most popular way to serve avocados "Texas style" is "Guacamole" (wah-kah-MOH-lay), a "super-favorite" dip.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am in the U.S. Air Force and have a good friend (I'll call him Duke), also in the same branch of the service. Duke decided to wear an earring in his left ear. Duke was in line for an honorable discharge shortly. Anyway, he got his ear pierced. About a week later he came to work in uniform wearing the earring (stud type) in his left ear. He was ordered by his supervisor to remove it as it was not in accordance with military dress code. He refused. Administrative action was taken, and after a long battle, Duke was sent up for court-martial and found guilty of disobeying a lawful order. Duke was reduced in grade, fined and sentenced to six months' hard labor. He will be returned to active duty when his time is up.

ABBY: why would a man want to wear an earring? I think it looks feminine. What do you think of this whole business of Duke and the earring?

P. AT YOKATO AIR BASE, JAPAN

DEAR P: I am informed that some men wear an earring as a signal to other men, but not all men agree on what the "signal" is. If a male civilian wants to wear an earring, it's all right with me. But when a man enters the military, he is expected to conform to the rules and dress code, and if he doesn't conform, he should expect to be penalized.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter and her three children (ages 4, 3, and 19) are living with us while she is going through a very trying divorce. After a difficult search for someone to help with the children a few days a week, we were fortunate to find "Lucy." (My daughter works full time.) Lucy had been with us for three weeks when a neighbor, who is also a friend of mine and a fellow Women's Club member, visited my home in my absence one afternoon and asked Lucy if she had a "friend" who would be interested in doing housework for her one day a week. Lucy took the job herself. But the day she works for this neighbor is the day I need her most. She continues to work for us, but don't you think this neighbor should have discussed the matter with me before approaching Lucy?

WONDERING?

Formal Dress in Army Doesn't Include Earring

DEAR WONDERING: Quit wondering. The answer is yes.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 74, and my boyfriend is 67 and single. We both live in a nursing center — that's where we fell in love. We want to get married, but my boyfriend is on welfare and I understand that if I marry him, he will be taken off welfare and I will have to support him. I have some money, but I would rather not support him if I don't have to.

My children tell us to forget about marriage and just continue to be sweethearts like we have been doing. I have nothing against this, but I would prefer to get married unless, of course, it means supporting him. Please advise.

IN LOVE AT LAST

Reagan making good on New York promise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carrying a stage-prop check for $85 million and briefly stepping out of his role as a spending cutter, President Reagan is making good on a campaign promise to support New York's superhighway project, Westway.

And although his trip today to New York fulfills a pledge to union leaders, the president was not invited to take part in a Labor Day parade up Fifth Avenue. That parade, which was to be led by AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland, shaped up as a protest against the way the Reagan administration handled the air traffic controllers strike.

Some major union leaders from the construction trades were invited to the Westway ceremony, which was to be held at Gracie Mansion, the official residence of Mayor Edward Koch. The event was to begin minutes after the scheduled end of the parade.

In a Labor Day message Sunday, Reagan told American workers to resume saving for their families' futures and urged investors to risk their savings on new ventures to help his economic program succeed.

Reagan said his economic program depends not only on the legislation Congress enacted but on the actions of the American people, who must help revitalize the economy.

"Our policy has been and will continue to be: What is good for the American worker is good for America," he said.

Reagan said the goal of his economic program is "jobs, jobs, jobs and more jobs."

While he was campaigning last year, Reagan stood on the cab of a crane at 63rd Street and Second Avenue and told hard-hatted workers he favored construction of Westway, a $2 billion project. The superhighway, to run 4.2 miles from the Battery at the southern tip of Manhattan to midtown, has been planned more than a decade.

During that campaign stop, Reagan said the city's finances had straightened out since the time he prayed that Washington not give federal help to New York.

Small city stunned by multiple slayings

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — Residents of this northeastern Nebraska city of 20,000 were stunned 15 months ago when a woman shot and stabbed her four daughters to death, the first murders here in nearly 20 years.

Norfolk, which prides itself as an "All-American City," now has another stain on its doorstep: five people were slain this weekend in what authorities describe as a murder-suicide.

Police and neighbors said the bodies of a young woman, who moved to Norfolk just three weeks ago from South Dakota, and three of her guests were found early Sunday throughout a small white frame house. A Norfolk man, who had apparently dated the woman who rented the house, died later at a hospital, they said. Police believe he was the gunman, according to State Patrol Capt. Gary Hanson.

"He was pretty crazy all day yesterday," Dean Chapman, a neighbor, said Sunday. "He came by and squealed tires. Then he'd come again, talk to her and leave — squealing the tires."

Police would not identify any of the dead. The house where the killings occurred Sunday was only 10 blocks from the scene of the June 1980 slayings.

The community was shocked to learn Stella Delores Almarez — distraught because her husband was unfaithful — stabbed and shot her four daughters to death in the family home. She was found innocent by reason of insanity and committed to the Lincoln Regional Center for psychiatric treatment.

Madison County Attorney Richard Krepela said the Almarez slayings were the first in Norfolk since the early 1960s.

As news of the latest killings spread, a steady stream of shocked residents drove past the house on the east side of town.

Disease strikes one in every hundred Amish

BERNE, Ind. (AP) — Shiny steel wheelchairs are as familiar as horse-drawn buggies among the Amish in northern Indiana.

The 3,000 Amish near Berne have the highest rate of muscular dystrophy in the country, one researcher says. The crippling disease occurs here at a rate 1,000 times the national average, striking more than one in every 100 Amish.

Doctors say it continues to spread.

The illness is transmitted only to children whose parents are MD carriers, but almost one adult in five is a carrier here — and the Amish instruct their children to marry within the community.

In one family, nine brothers and sisters are victims of the disease.

Symptoms, which initially occur at about 10 years of age, include weakness in the muscles of the pelvic region and shoulders. By 20, most victims are confined to a wheelchair. There is no known cure.

In the Schwartz home, brother and sister Chris and Elizabeth, both in their 30s, slide their wheelchairs together over a rugless floor to a bare corner to sing for a guest. The ballad they've composed themselves is a slow and plaintive one about MD.

Miss Schwartz's hands are claw-like, twisted by the disease. Her brother harmonizes in a strong, full voice as his head rolls back involuntarily.

"That ole sly sickness, it did come. Made it hard to climb up the stairs," they sing. "Quite often it did make us fall and finally put us in our chairs."

From their chairs, MD victims are incapable of participating in traditional Amish life — a life filled from sunup to sundown with tending livestock, planting and harvesting crops and feeding and clothing large families. No modern technology is used.

The Amish, descendants of a strict Swiss religious sect that split from the Mennonites in the 17th century, believe in following as closely as possible the ways of the past. They dress as their ancestors did and their homes are simple and bereft of decoration. They eschew modern plumbing, motor vehicles and most products of 20th century technology. Only their strong work ethic keeps the Amish competitive in today's economy.

MD victims, too, are expected to contribute to the community income, which is precariously dependent on input from each member. The Schwartzes make leather wallets and produced a song book for the central social gathering of young Amish — the "sing."

The Schwartzes and other MD

victims here have also overcome a traditional shyness and allowed doctors into their homes to examine them and study their disease. The tests are conducted through the Cahlor-Nickel Clinic in nearby Bluffton and are aimed at developing early detection of MD and of its carriers.

"It won't help us, but it might prevent others from getting the disease," Miss Schwartz says.

"The Amish in Berne have the highest incidence of MD in the nation," said Dr. Patricia Bader, 35, a Cahlor-Nickel researcher who has studied the disease in this community for eight years.

"But they have a remarkable adjustment to it," she said. "In many ways, it doesn't seem to be as catastrophic as it might in the larger society. Because so many people in the community have MD, there are plenty of role models."

Nevertheless, the constant drain of MD threatens to cripple the close-knit Amish community itself, Ms. Bader said.

"It's an ever-increasing burden on the overall community. It is an economic, emotional and personal hardship for them all," she said.

"The form of MD found near Berne usually is not fatal."

Widow's disappearance sees salesman jailed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 39-year-old carpet salesman jailed here in the mysterious disappearance of millionaire widow Thelma Jeanette Gaston says he hasn't heard from her in nearly two months.

Larry Remsen of Newport Beach was being held in lieu of $260,000 bail after being booked for investigation of grand theft and forgery. Police allege he used fake documents in attempting to sell some of Mrs. Gaston's property for $1.4 million.

The 80-year-old Rancho Park woman, whose financial worth police estimated at $20 million, disappeared June 28 after leaving a note on the door of her home saying she was going to look for a cat.

Police say that soon after her disappearance someone began trying to sell her property and to transfer her money to an account in the Grand Cayman Islands in the British West Indies, using a stolen notary public's seal.

Remsen, whom police describe as Mrs. Gaston's former companion, was arrested by Texas authorities in El Paso as he tried to cross the border from Mexico.

Thirty-two die on Texas roads

With the Labor Day traffic toll at 32 early today, Texas Department of Public Safety officials warned that with travelers hurrying home on the final day of the holiday weekend, the worst could be yet to come.

DPS officials have predicted 48 people will die on Texas roads between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday.

"Frequently, the last day of a three-day holiday can be the worst. Weary drivers sometimes take to the roads and make long trips trying to hurry home. Too often, they throw motoring caution to the wind and take more chances, so the worst is yet to come for Labor Day," DPS spokesman Larry Todd said.

Two pedestrians were killed within half an hour of each other early Sunday, raising the state Labor Day traffic toll to 32.

Ana L. Mora was killed at 3 a.m. when she ran in front of a truck on Houston's Gulf Freeway, the DPS reported. Half an hour earlier, 82-year-old Herman A. Underwood of San Francisco was struck by a car in Austin.

Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

It's just ol' Margaret. I can tell by the way it keeps ringing an' ringing an' ringing an' ringing...

Now I know why they call this Labor Day. Gettin' ready to go back to school is real LABOR.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 8, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until sundown you have much foresight and are able to accomplish a great deal. Be prepared to extend your influence and activities beyond present boundaries. Make plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Studying details of a new project is wise. Be sure to get the advice of higher-ups you know. Strengthen your aim in life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use your intuition in the morning and learn how to get along better with others. Handle new duties efficiently.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you follow through on any promises made and then you can relax happily later in the day. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can now accomplish a great deal during the day if you apply yourself seriously. Take health treatments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Engage in a commercial enterprise with increased confidence. Your creativity is high early in the day. Keep poised.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you listen to the views of others at home, you can make conditions there more harmonious. Strive for happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Do whatever will improve regular routines. Find the right appliances to make working conditions easier. Relax tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study financial matters of importance before making an investment. Go to the right sources for the data you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give more thought to your personal life and make constructive plans for the future. Keep up your appearance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are objective in the handling of your affairs, you get excellent results now. Obtain the information you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal day to get together with good friends and discuss mutual aims. Attend an important social affair tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Engage in a civic affair and improve your position in the community. Show others that you have wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will speak up at every opportunity, and should first learn to have the correct facts and figures before speaking. Include foreign languages in the education since there could be much travel here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Another cousin says Martin planned attack

DALLAS (AP) — Another cousin of the same thing he talked Charles into about a month before the shooting, Grant said. "He didn't form a specific amount of money. He just said I would never need money again. He and his organization would see I had everything I needed."

But he said he turned Martin down because "I thought it was kind of dumb myself I didn't think it would work."

Grant, who said he also has testified before the grand jury, said Saturday he told law enforcement officers about Martin's offer shortly after Goff surrendered.

Grant said he and Martin drove around Longview for about 45 minutes discussing the proposed shooting.

"He wasn't getting the recognition he felt he deserved. He wanted me to help out by being his gunman," Grant said.

He said Martin outlined a plan identical to the July 31 shotgun ambush, in which the legislator was wounded in the arm.

Grant said he and Martin threatened telephone calls to political supporters to bolster the story that a cult was after him. Goff was charged with a misdemeanor — making terroristic threats — for the phone calls.

Goff said Martin also had him make a series of threatening telephone calls to political supporters to bolster the story that a cult was after him. Goff was charged with a misdemeanor — making terroristic threats — for the phone calls.

Congress back to work with housing hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, has called three sets of housing hearings for this month, now that Congress is returning to action after a recess of several weeks.

Migrant farmworker groups from the Southwest are expected to appear and testify at the third set of hearings, scheduled for about Sept. 17.

The first hearing will be Thursday on manufactured home safety standards, with witnesses from the manufactured housing industry and others.

Other hearings will follow on the Real Estate Settlement Practices Act.

"The housing needs of this country are not going to go away because the current administration at the White House does not want to recognize that they exist," said Gonzalez, who frequently has criticized the administration's suggestions to cut back on subsidized housing.

"The purpose of these hearings is to hopefully shed some light on what needs to be done to meet this crisis — in all types of housing," Gonzalez said.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, has asked one of his subcommittee chairmen to look deeper into the Medfly situation in California.

"My position has consistently been that federal and state officials had to move with vigor and dispatch to end a threat to the nation's food supply posed by the outbreak of Mediterranean fruit flies in California," de la Garza said.

He asked Rep. George Brown of California to meet with federal and California officials at a meeting in Sacramento.

De la Garza criticized delays in controlling the Medfly.

"The possibility of tremendous damage to fruits and vegetables not only in California but in all other similar producing states increases greatly each day that this outbreak goes unchecked and the fly is not eradicated," de la Garza said.

often than any other:

A flat rate for everyone, 10 percent for example, with virtually no deductions.

"While this idea is appealing on the surface, we as a nation made a judgment some time ago that we wanted a progressive income tax, with the wealthy paying proportionately more than those at the bottom or in the middle," Frost says.

"I don't see us reversing that basic premise any time soon."

Frost also said he's skeptical about the annual indexing of tax tables that is scheduled to take place after 1984.

Indexing would soften the effect of "bracket creep," where cost-of-living wage increases automatically push wage earners into higher income tax brackets. Supporters of indexing disapprove of the federal government benefiting from that kind of revenue.

it will make inflation easier to live with, thus taking pressure off lawmakers to enact tough, anti-inflationary measures.

The Panetta plan would compress the current 16 tax brackets into four brackets. By widening the gap between brackets, cost-of-living wage increases would not be as likely to result in higher tax burdens.

Panetta's plan would further simplify the tax code, Frost feels, by eliminating most of the standard deductions that many people, especially the most prosperous, are used to claiming.

Motorcycle enthusiasts raise $2,000 for MD

Recently area motorcycle enthusiasts raised more than $2,000 to be donated to the fight against muscular dystrophy, said Howard Walker, chairman of the event.

The annual gathering of motorcycle riders for the MD fund raising garnered 207 paying participants and another 50 volunteered their time and services, Walker said.

Walker added the run drew in riders from as far away as San Jose, Calif., to enjoy the fellowship and the raising of money for a worthwhile cause.
