Council to discuss gas rate hike plan

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Tired of your mounting utility bills? Well, tonight's your chance to tell the Big Spring City Council how you feel about one proposed utility rate hike: an 18.5 percent increase asked by Energas of its West Texas customers.

The council, acting in concert with other affected cities, voted to suspend the proposal after the gas company asked for the increase in August. During the four-month suspension of the request, the cities would hire consultants and hear public views on the matter — and tonight's hearing is designed to satisfy the latter purpose of the suspension.

A report on tonight's comments will be forwarded to the Texas Railroad Commission in Austin, which is studying the rate hike proposal and has ultimate authority over whether the increase goes through or not, City Manager Don Davis said.

In other matters the council will ponder at its 6:30 p.m. City Hall meeting, the fate of 14 bicycles will be decided. The bikes are slated to go on the block in the city's annual auction (coming up Oct. 3 this year), but the Salvation Army wants the city to donate the bikes to the local SA center, where the bikes will go on sale through the organization's thrift store.

Also on the agenda tonight: some 400 acres of land at Moss Creek Lake will be put to bid for the right to drill for oil and gas there. The council has before it a resolution declaring that bids will be accepted until Oct. 12. The resolution also states the conditions of the bids, which must include a promise to pay the city at least a 25 percent royalty rate as well as a specific drilling commitment.

The acreage currently is drilled by another company, whose contract expires Oct. 26.

In other business, the council will hear from Bennett Reeves, the architect of the city's current Capital Improvements Program, on the progress of plans to upgrade water lines in Washington Place. The city had intended to replace the lines which ran along the backs of properties in the neighborhood, moving them to the front of the properties for easier access in times of maintenance and repair.

After a public hearing in August, during which a considerable number of property owners from Washington Place said they wouldn't mind surrendering a foot or two of their property to the city if it meant keeping the lines at the rear of their homes (and thus keep their properties from being torn up to connect the new lines to the old lines, which would be abandoned), the council instructed Bennett Reeves of the Lubbock engineering firm drafting the improvements plan to look into the possibility of leaving the water lines in place. He's expected to report to the council tonight on the plan, which needs state function.

In other matters, the council will look at a proposal from Police Chief Elwood Hoherz to reduce the amount of police time spent on investigating "fender bender" auto accidents. Also on the agenda are several items scheduled for their second and final vote.

Grinn and Barrett performers: Joining circus is no easy act

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Working out on a high-flying trapeze in a YMCA in Denver, Colo., led to a career in the circus for partners Vicky Hendricks and Gary Baker.

Three years ago, Vicky, now 26, had just graduated from the University of Colorado at Denver. Gary, 38, was working as a surveyor. A friend of theirs at the YMCA "offered to train us" with a circus act he had at one time been a part of.

"I thought running away and joining the circus sounded like a neat thing to do," says Vicky now. "But I thought I was too old."

But the pair decided to try it anyway. Their friend trained them for the Grinn and Barrett act, an act on the trapeze they performed at the Shrine Circus here Monday. The friend "also got work for us. He used to do the Grinn and Barrett act with his wife, but they split up."

With an act to offer circus promoters, Vicky and Gary were well on their way. The pair first got work with the TNT Royal Olympic Circus. They traveled with that group for two years before joining the Shrine Circus troupe.

Although Vicky and Gary has managed to find work as circus performers, they say joining a circus is no easy act. Performers "must present a sellable act" to promoters. Most circus hopefuls "never make it. We had an act developed so we had a head start."

Although the Grinn and Barrett act helped them break into circus performing, the pair has since added two other acts to their repertoire. Here Monday, they also performed as Francesca and Octavia, and as Annie and Her Toy Soldier, a hand balancing act.

Vicky said she and Gary bought the Francesca and Octavia act from some performers in the TNT circus. "We decided to buy the equipment and learn the act from them," she said.

Annie and the Toy Soldier "is pantomime," said Vicky. "It's our own creation."

The first year Vicky and Gary worked for the circus they followed the show in a van. They have since purchased a large passenger bus and have been converting it into a home on the road.

Home, when they can get there, is now Irving, Tex., said Vicky. They hope to move back to Denver next summer.

But they plan to keep on performing. "We hope to go to Europe," said Vicky. "Gary has already been there, but I haven't."

The couple stays on the road about 10 months a year performing their circus act. It's a schedule which keeps them "very tired," admitted Vicky. She explained she and Gary do their act, then tear down the set, drive on to the next show, set up the new act, and start all over again.

But, for Vicky and Gary, "it all evens out. We really enjoy it."

Both said they find a "lot of gratification" in performing with a circus. Gary added "for us, it's ideal. It's what I've been waiting all my life to do."

But the circus life isn't for everybody, they said. Gary, when asked if he recommended the life of a circus performer for others, said "It's an individual matter. Nobody should even consider it unless they have the drive to perform and travel, and unless they have developed a specialty act."

Petting zoo brings joy to kids at fair

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Wayne Walker, proprietor of the Howard County Fair Petting Zoo, stood sweating in the sun yesterday and watched the 30-odd animals he had just finished feeding struggle with each other for a good place at the pans of feed. The animals were as excited and full of energy as the children waiting in line to get inside the zoo.

On the other hand, Walker, a veteran of 10 years of carnival shows and countless miles crisscrossing the United States, isn't as thrilled as he used to be about the carnival atmosphere. In fact, he says, this is his last year doing this kind of work.

"I'm getting out after this year. Inflation is eating me up... gasoline, motel bills, interest on loans, you name it, everything is going up," Walker said.

Walker's present petting zoo has goats, chickens, ducks, one tiny fawn, sheep, and two emus, which are rare birds from Australia, and arhea, a bird from South America. He said he has had everything from an elephant to an anteater in his show. Walker estimated several million children have seen his animals.

"I used to like the work, but now the money it takes to run this zoo is discouraging," said Walker as he cut up apples to feed to his goats.

Walker said the animals eat "sweet meal" feed, but he was not able to estimate what it cost to feed the animals for a year. Walker said "It is in the thousands for sure."

Walker got started with his petting zoo back in 1971 when he bought one from a friend. Walker, who says he uses Odessa as a home address, travels from March to November going back and forth across the country to wherever a fair or carnival might be setting up.

Walker did not try to glamorize the carnival life.

"The work is hard work and the traveling gets to be tiresome. I guess it's like any other job, after a while you get a little tired of it. We have a good carnival here and we expect a good crowd and it certainly helps to have a steady stream of people coming by," said Walker.

When asked what the strangest animal he had had in his zoo was Walker said, "Probably a couple of wallabies from Australia, people don't get to see kangaroos often or get close to them."

Walker then went to unfatten the gate to the pen and as he did wide-eyed children rushed in to make friends with the animals who seemed just as eager to return their affection.

The children and parents alike enjoyed the animals as smiles were abundant from the kids as they raced around to pet the goats, the emus, the fawn, and all the other animals who seemed to like the attention they were receiving.

Walker, with his job done, watched the people and the animals and said he was already thinking about the next show he had to do in Columbus, Ga.

It appears that the show must always go on.

Turkish air force jet crashes; many killed

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A Turkish air force F-104 jetfighter crashed today into a bivouac area prepared for an upcoming NATO exercise in western Turkey, and first reports from reporters on the scene indicated at least 100 soldiers on the ground were killed. All the victims were believed Turkish.

Turkish military sources said 65 bodies already had arrived by helicopter at hospitals in Istanbul and that Gen. Haydar Saltik, commander of the 1st Army, had rushed to the site of the crash.

The military sources, asking not to be named, said three Istanbul hospitals had been put on alert to accept the dead and wounded.

The sources said that so far it appeared all the casualties were Turkish.

The plane hit a bivouac area near the town of Babaeski about 30 miles from the Greek border.

Reporters who had reached the region of the crash said the American-made F-104 crashed into the bivouac area at about noon.

Memorial for Bill Easterling mulled by Coahoma trustees

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Discussion of a memorial for former high school principal Bill Easterling and an appeal from the City of Coahoma for financial consideration highlighted the regular meeting of the board of the Coahoma Independent School District Monday night. The board also considered a full agenda of school business.

The board discussed a variety of methods that would best honor the memory of former principal Easterling. The renaming of the football stadium or gym for the educator was proposed as well as a suggestion to begin a scholarship in Easterling's name. Discussion concluded with a motion to pursue the scholarship memorial at the next meeting, following further study of various scholarships.

Robert Helm, representing the City of Coahoma, spoke to the Board concerning a payment problem involving the water and sewer service for the new school building. Helm, citing time restrictions, stated a bidding error on his part had resulted in additional costs of $777.34. Since the contractor, Larry Pollard, refused to pay the additional money, Helm appealed for the board for payment as the City was presently out the funds. The board moved to refer the matter to next month's meeting.

Other board business included a lively discussion of various gym seats for the elementary gym with a decision for the Indeco Company. Salary increases for teachers' aides prompted debate of educational improvements sought by the aides and whether an across-the-board raise was feasible. This item was tabled with instructions for the principals to formulate a salary plan.

Approval of the list of substitute teachers, the purchase of new high school band uniforms, and a calendar change was made as well by the board. The board also decided to reimburse board members for the State Convention in San Antonio for meals, lodging, and mileage after presentation of receipts is made.

Following adjournment of the meeting, the board met in executive session for discussion of an undisclosed topic.

Mortgages recalled

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — After a week of protests from mortgage holders, the Buffalo Savings Bank has backed off plans to recall 900 home mortgages made at 8 1/2 percent between 1975 and 1976.

"We made a mistake and we fixed a mistake," bank President Ross Kenzie Monday.

Those who held the mortgages said they were stunned by the action, and over the weekend plans were formed for picketing the bank's branches. They also urged customers to withdraw accounts at the bank.

Bank officials said they took the first action "after much soul searching," and Kenzie said threats of reprisals had nothing to do with the decision.

Late last year, the state Legislature removed limits of 8 1/2 percent on interest rates, and the bank's conventional mortgage rates now range from 17 percent to 18 1/2 percent.

In today's inflation, the 8 1/2 rates became a bargain.

The bank had said it would give owners the option of paying off the balance owed, negotiating mortgages with other banks or renegotiating their mortgages with Buffalo Savings at 14 percent.

On a $30,000 mortgage at 8 percent, the monthly payment over 30 years is about $230. At 14 percent, the payment is $355 a month. At 17 percent, it would be $427.80.

Two neighbors killed

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A man who opened fire from his apartment with a high-powered rifle and killed two neighbors and injured a third, said later he was angry because one of his children was injured by playmates at a park, police said.

"He was just an agitated individual," said Capt. Jack Jones, who talked with the unidentified man for more than an hour by telephone Monday night and got him to surrender three hours into the siege.

Police were unsure of the details of the incident involving the man's child, and Jones said the man did not tell police about specific problems in the neighborhood, saying only that "it was the last straw when one of his children was injured."

Rebecca Trober, 33, and Kevin Keating, 20, both of Kansas City, Kan., were found shot to death in the front yard of the man's home. Keating's mother, Mary Keating, 44, of Kansas City, Kan., was shot in the shoulder. She was hiding behind a pickup truck when officers arrived at the scene around 7 p.m.

The man then opened fire on the officers, and several were injured by shattered glass when the gunman's shots hit their patrol cars, said Lt. Mike Dailey. One officer's hat was shot off his head, police said, and another was injured when he fell from a roof.

Man competent for trial

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A court-appointed psychiatrist and a physician testified that a 73-year-old man charged with murder in the deaths of two fishermen is an alcoholic who probably never will be competent to stand trial.

Mortimer "Bubba" Hall Monday was ordered to Rusk State Hospital by State District Judge Earl Smith after testimony showed Hall's mental state was such that he could not understand a trial or aid in his own defense.

Hall is charged in the March 22 fatal shootings of David James Adams, 32, of Rolling Acres, and James Bernard, 34, of Rolling Acres, who were fishing near Mertzon, about 20 miles southwest of San Angelo.

Hall's physician, Dr. John L. Reed, testified that Hall suffered from senility, an irregular heartbeat and alcoholism.

Boy Scouts relive 14 days on the road

Members of Boy Scout Troop No. 5 Monday evening relived 14 days on the road in which they acquired a crop of nick-names and a sense of history and heritage.

The 16 young men, who with two leaders and wives, who made the trek to Washington, D.C. and other points in late July and early August, honored their parents and family with a dinner in the First Baptist Church, which sponsors the unit.

Bill Bradford, scoutmaster, detailed highlights of the trip and presented Maxwell Green, troop committee chairman, with a special trophy for his help. He also cited Ray Fortson, chairman of the bus committee.

Police detectives aided by Texas Ranger Eddie Almond arrested a 26-year-old Big Spring man on suspicion of burglary Monday. Leroy Aldridge of 1506-B Virginia was traced via a pawn ticket for a sander stolen from Rockwell Brothers lumber company. Detective Avery Falkner said this morning.

Aldridge was being questioned in connection with several burglary incidents, Falkner said. The suspect was scheduled to be arraigned before a justice of the peace this morning.

Aldridge is a neighbor of accused slayer Steve Harper, held in connection with the Saturday morning slaying of Harold Boy of Big Spring. Falkner said the two men knew each other but neither was in on the crimes for which the other is being held.

• Milton Viere, 18, said he was at the county fairgrounds Monday about 11 p.m. when four rocks were thrown at his automobile, breaking the windshield and two other windows, according to police reports.

• Rochelle Blackwell of 1510 Sycamore said her home was broken into Monday night but nothing was taken, police said.

• Energas was the victim of a Monday night theft at 16th and Lancaster, police said. A witness told police she saw several men drive up to a sawhorse barricade owned by the gas company, put the barricade in the back of the truck and drive off with it.

• Nelta Tompson of 1609 Avion told police that between Sept. 18 and 21 her home was broken into and more than a dozen of her belongings were stolen.

• E.A. Noble complained that sometime after 5 p.m. Sunday a trailer was stolen from his place of business at 1009 E. Third. The missing trailer was described as a yellow, 1981-model Hyster Lowboy with tires, worth $15,000.

• Police arrested a 24-year-old Florida man and a 20-year-old Michigan man for soliciting without a permit in the 500 block of Westover Monday afternoon.

• Howard College reported several incidents of prowling and peeping at a women's dormitory Monday night. Officers arrested a 46-year-old man in connection with one of the reports.

• Vehicles driven by Carol Immel of 234 Langley and Gary Ware of Knott collided at the intersection of F.M. 700 and Westover at about 5:16 p.m. Monday, police said. Immel was taken by ambulance to Malone-Hogan Hospital where she was treated for minor injuries and released, said a hospital spokeswoman.

• A trailer being towed by Daniel Greenwood of 531 Scott disengaged and struck a fence at O.I.I. in the city Industrial Park Monday afternoon, police said. The trailer reportedly damaged 150 feet of the fence and caused $1,000 worth of damage, police said.

Accused slayer still in custody of police

Steve Harper, accused of capital murder in the Saturday morning slaying of 37-year-old Harold Boy, remained in police custody today as detectives prepared to transfer him — possibly this afternoon — to the courthouse jail and the sheriff's custody.

Harper, 41, normally would have been transferred Monday but detectives had not completed the paperwork necessary for transferring Harper.

The detectives were delayed this morning due to their attendance at a drug enforcement seminar in Odessa, said a police dispatcher.

Before Harper is transferred, formal charges must be filed with the district attorney's office, said detective Lt. George Quintero.

Harper is charged with capital murder, aggravated assault and rape in a spree of early Saturday violence that took him to the Boy home on 1007 E. Second, where he allegedly shot Boy to death and reportedly struck Boy's 17-year-old daughter Kathy with a gun.

An hour later he allegedly raped a woman who lived in the vicinity of Harper's 1506-A Virginia home. Her description of her assailant matched the description supplied to detectives of Boy's murderer and Harper was picked up near the scene of the slaying about two hours after Boy was shot.

Harper is being held on $200,000 bail set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Is nation in recession?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economists are looking at the modest 0.6 percent increase in sales last month by the nation's retail merchants as further evidence that the nation is in a recession.

The Commerce Department announced the August figures on Friday and revised the July figures to show an 0.3 percent decline in retail sales — the first since March — rather than the 1.3 percent increase originally reported.

"The fact is we're in a recession; these numbers are simply confirming that," said Allen Sinai, a vice president with Data Resources Inc., a private economic forecasting firm.

Christie Wang new instructor of computer science at HC

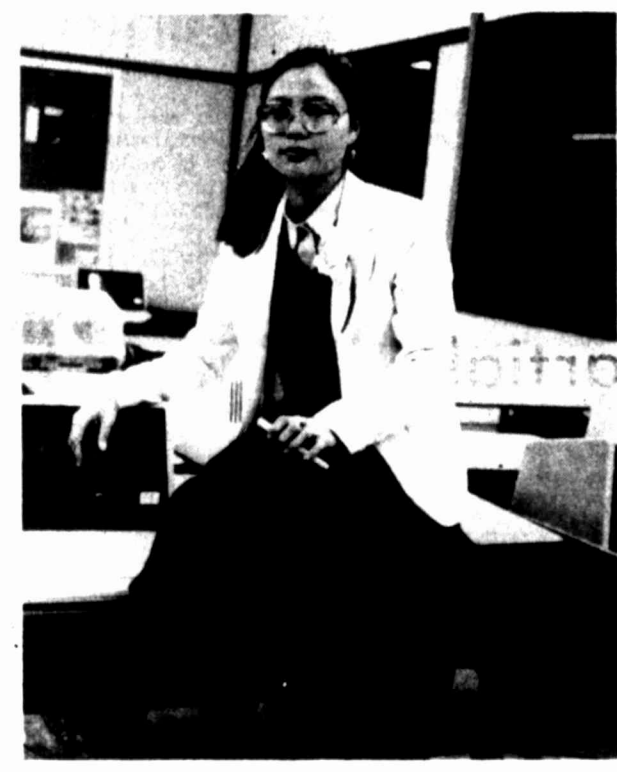

Christie Wang has been assigned instructor of computer science at Howard College according to Dr. Bobby Wright, vice-president at HC.

Ms. Wang is a native of Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China. She recently has graduated from Texas Tech University, Lubbock, with a Master of Science in Business Administration with specialization in Management Information Systems. She was awarded a Bachelor of Science in Zoology from the National Taiwan University in Taipei.

"Howard College's Computer Department appealed to me because of its emphasis in business application which many colleges do not seem to have," continued Wang. "People in Big Spring have been very warm and accepting of me as a foreigner even better than Lubbock. I enjoy the help and personal treatment received here at HC."

Author defends LBJ book

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert A. Caro says his biography of Lyndon B. Johnson is documented "paragraph by paragraph" to support his assertion that the former president accepted "envelopes stuffed with cash" while in Congress or serving as vice president and that Johnson served as a conduit for cash for congressional campaigns.

The author was quoted in The New York Times today as saying "the entire book, which is approximately 500,000 words long, is documented paragraph by paragraph."

The issue of documentation came up after publication of an excerpt from the book in the October issue of Atlantic Monthly magazine.

Caro also said he did not mean to imply that Johnson took bribes when he wrote, "For years, men came into Lyndon Johnson's office and handed him envelopes stuffed with cash."

Caro said the money was campaign contributions and that Johnson served as a conduit between donors and members of Congress.

By way of documenting the biography, "the sources for every paragraph in the book are given in the source notes at the back of the book. It simply was not possible to document a magazine excerpt in this fashion," Caro said.

The Atlantic Monthly excerpt was the first of five articles planned from Caro's upcoming book, "The Years of Lyndon Johnson."

In his Times interview and in an interview with the Washington Post, Caro named one source. He said Claude C. Wild Jr., was the oil company lobbyist who testified that he brought $50,000 cash to Johnson's office when Johnson was vice president. Caro said Wild's testimony was included in a 1975 deposition filed with a federal court in Washington, D.C.

But he said the $50,000 should not be characterized as a bribe because the money was intended for Johnson to pass along to "finance the campaigns of other legislators."

Caro could not be reached by telephone today.

Confirmation of the third party's ownership could not be obtained. The county motor vehicle department said it has no record of the title transfer. Bedell said the title was turned over to the third party.

Police, however, Lunsford had sold the car to Brooks Bedell.

Bedell confirmed he bought the car but said he sold it to a third party, who owned it at the time of the accident.

Confirmation of the third party's ownership could not be obtained. The county motor vehicle department said it has no record of the title transfer. Bedell said the title was turned over to the third party.

Alvaro Cardenas Vasquez, 29, who gave an address at the Sands Motel, was transferred to county jail Monday.

Vasquez was charged with aggravated assault, and placed under a $10,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin. The bond was posted by attorney Wayne Basden. Vasquez was released.

Wisconsin native new interpreter for SWCID

Citing the drive to reach her maximum potential as the reason for seeking employment at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, Beth Patterson, 23, has been hired as an interpreter for the Howard County Junior College District.

Patterson, a native of Medford, Wis., comes from a family of eight children. One brother closest to her in age, is deaf. "I remember he always had to go away to a state school, and we would only see him on holidays," she said. "We would try and communicate with him, but it was difficult."

After high school, Patterson traveled to Wausau, Wis., and attended North Central Technical Institute. She earned her Associate Degree as an Interpreter Technician.

"I mainly went to NCTI so I could help my family communicate better with my brother," Patterson said. "It resulted in a special closeness between the two of us."

Patterson went on to work as an interpreter-tutor at the Department of Natural Resources Conservation Camp, Minong, Wis.; Moraine Park Technical Institute, Fond du lac, Wis.; and most recently at North Central Technical Institute.

"Last spring, I began feeling I wasn't going anywhere, the challenge was gone, so I sent my resume to SWCID. After one day of interviewing here, I wanted this job very much," Patterson said. "The people were so warm and friendly that it made quite an impression."

Patterson views her position as a liaison between a hearing and deaf person. She tries to make it as easy as possible for them to convey their messages. "I think an interpreter needs to be able to be flexible and able to show feelings," she said.

Judge won't halt court-martial

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (AP) — The presiding military judge at the espionage court-martial of Air Force 2nd Lt. Christopher Cooke today denied Cooke's motion to dismiss the charges and ordered the trial to proceed.

One of Cooke's attorneys, Kenneth Fishman, said Cooke would immediately ask the Court of Military Appeals to overturn the ruling by Lt. Col. David Orser, the presiding judge. Orser found that Cooke did not have a valid immunity grant.

Orser ruled that Cooke had in fact been promised that he would not be prosecuted by the Air Force officers who interrogated him. But he said that the immunity promise was neither authorized nor later approved by Gen. Richard Ellis.

Ellis, now retired, was the commander-in-chief of the Strategic Air Command when Cooke was arrested. Orser ruled that Ellis was the only person legally entitled to give immunity to Cooke.

Orser said the remedy for the Air Force's false promise was that the confession Cooke made on May 17 would not be admissible as evidence against him.

Orser said also that the government will have to prove that any other evidence it wishes to introduce was not derived from the confession.

Air Force prosecutors, however, have told reporters they believe they have enough evidence to prove the charges against Cooke without using the confession or anything the government learned as a result of the confession.

Cooke, 26, sat silently, his eyes down, as the ruling was read. His chief civilian attorney, F. Lee Bailey, was not in the courtroom.

Cooke had asked Orser to dismiss the espionage charges on grounds that Air Force officials promised he would not be prosecuted if he told investigators the truth about why

Woman celebrates 115th birthday

HOUSTON (AP) — Rosa Deramus says she has picked up to 400 pounds of cotton a day, outlived three ministers at her Baptist church and never got a Social Security card in her 115 years.

One hundred relatives whose ages spanned five generations gathered in her northeast Houston home Sunday to honor their matriarch with cakes, candles, flowers and hugs.

Mrs. Deramus was born in the tiny East Texas community of Timpson and lived there until 1979, when she moved to Houston.

Vance opposes AWACS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, a surprise ally for opponents of the proposed sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia, says the deal would upset the military balance in the Middle East, violate a 1978 promise to Congress and be "a grave mistake."

Vance's stand, in a letter to assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California, could strengthen the hand of opponents of President Reagan's proposed $8.5 billion sale, which faces a close vote next month in Congress.

Vance, a strong proponent of past arms deals, said delivering five Airborne Warning and Control System planes to the Saudis "would be destabilizing."

Enhancing the range and firepower of 62 U.S.-built F-15 jet fighters, he said, would break the Carter administration's promise to Congress that the planes would not be made more powerful.

"I believe it would be wrong to abrogate that commitment," Vance said. "To do so would undermine our credibility."

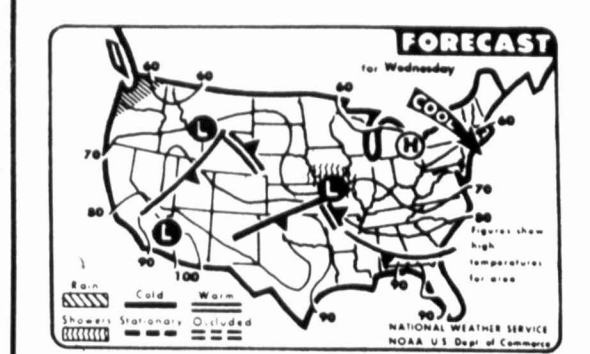

Vance added in the Aug. 5 letter: "It is important that we be perceived as a constant and reliable nation that will stick to its commitments, unless there is an extraordinary change of circumstances. I do not believe that is the case here."

Meanwhile, Henry A. Kissinger, Vance's predecessor as secretary of state, said Monday, "I don't think it was a good idea to sell the planes to begin with."

But Kissinger told a Dallas news conference that it would be an even worse mistake for Congress to kill the sale.

But other congressmen said the tour did not change their positions.

NATIONAL WEATHER MAP — The National Weather Service for Wednesday forecasts rain for the northwestern region of the Pacific Northwest coast, and showers for some areas of the Great Plains states.

Showers expected in Southwest Texas

By The Associated Press

A few scattered afternoon thundershowers in Southwest Texas were expected to be the only blot on otherwise perfect weather across Texas today.

Forecasts called for mostly clear skies and mild temperatures. Highs were to be in the 80s and 90s.

Some clouds were reported in West Texas early today and fog formed along the coast, but most of the state had clear skies during the early morning hours.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s with a few readings in the 50s in Northwest Texas. Extremes ranged from 56 at Dalhart to 77 at Galveston.

Rain reached from the lower Great Lakes to New England today, with a thundershower or two over northeastern Ohio.

Florida had isolated thundershowers, as did parts of western Nebraska, northern Colorado and southern Wyoming. There were a few showers in the western parts of Washington, Montana and North Dakota.

The National Weather Service forecast for today called for rain from the upper Ohio Valley to the lower Great Lakes and New England.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 30 in Marquette, Mich. to 90 in Phoenix, Ariz.

Here are temperatures and sky conditions from selected cities:

Rugby office bombed hours before match

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A bomb exploded early today in a building housing the Eastern Rugby Union's offices, hours before the group was to field a team against the touring South African Springboks, the targets of recent anti-apartheid protests.

There were no reports of injuries.

Meanwhile, in New York City, lawyers for the state asked a three-judge federal appeals court to reverse a district court's decision and block the game, at least temporarily.

While the blast from a "high explosive device" at 1:17 a.m. left only minor damage at the ERU headquarters, damage in the adjoining offices of a dairy products company was estimated at $50,000, said police investigator James McGrath.

Radio station WWDW said a woman telephoned at 1:10 a.m. to say a bomb would go off soon "downtown." Disc jockey Dale Lane said the woman hung up without identifying herself.

Thomas Selfridge, president of the ERU, a co-sponsor of the Springboks' tour, said his offices sustained about $50 worth of damage.

McGrath said the bomb had apparently been placed in a closet 2 1/2 feet from the rugby office in an area accessible to the public during business hours.

Fearful of a riot, New York state officials had tried to stop tonight's scheduled rugby match pitting the Springboks, South Africa's national team, and the ERU squad. Schenectady is 10 miles from Albany.

Selfridge said the game would go on tonight in Albany's Bleecker Stadium despite the bombing. Police said they were protecting the South African players.

U.S. District Judge Howard Munson ruled Monday that Gov. Hugh Carey acted improperly when he told Albany Mayor Erastus Corning last week to stop the game. Carey cited what he said was an "imminent danger of rioting."

Jill Schuker, an aide to Carey, said the governor was aware of the explosion but would have no comment.

Michael Dillard, spokesman for the Capital District Coalition Against Apartheid, said Monday night that busloads of demonstrators his organization had expected from New York City and elsewhere might not be able to attend on short notice. "Enthusiasm tails off very rapidly," he said.

The racially mixed Springboks came to the United States as an attempt at good will on the part of the white-ruled government in the black-majority nation.

A game scheduled for Chicago was moved 75 miles away Saturday to Racine, Wis. Protesters appeared, although sponsors tried to keep the site secret and barred spectators and reporters.

Solving the manpower crisis

An idea proposed in a letter to the Herald Mailbag last week has merit in solving Big Spring's manpower crisis.

The letter was written in the wake of complaints from Big Spring businessmen that the oil industry is luring away their trained personnel.

Truett Thomas, administrator of a local hospital, suggested that businessmen back the vocational departments at Big Spring High School and Howard College toward turning out personnel to alleviate the shortage.

Thomas said the hospital industry faced a similar shortage of nurses 24 years ago and thus the idea of teaching nursing at Howard College was formed. It worked.

IF IT WORKED then, it can work now. We suggest that the school board and college trustees be encouraged to beef up their vocation programs in this area. Perhaps the problem-solving process could start with a meeting of school officials and businessmen. They could sit down, put their heads together, brainstorm and custom-design a program that would satisfy everyone's needs — businesses and students alike.

Perhaps internships at the businesses could be arranged.

WHILE THE RESULTS of a stepped-up vocational program might not be instantaneous, taking action now is sure to reap rewards in the future for everyone concerned.

We applaud Mr. Thomas for his community-minded spirit and we agree with him that the city mustn't hold progress back. We encourage others with ideas to bring them to the fore, so the problem can be licked.

Good news from Russia

Art Buchwald

The only good news story I could find in the paper last week was that the Russians are suffering from two-digit inflation also.

The state informed the people that it was making dramatic price rises, doubling the price of gasoline, informally rationing food, increasing by 17 to 25 percent the price of tobacco and vodka and raising the cost on many consumer goods, so it would be impossible for the average Soviet citizen to buy them.

You can imagine what the Soviets are saying in the confines of their homes.

"Minka, did you hear that Comrade Gushkov, chairman of the State Pricing Commission, said in his speech on television tonight?"

"I fell asleep after the first three hours. What did he say?"

"They're raising prices on everything because of inflation. It's outrageous. I think I'll write a letter to Comrade Brezhnev and give him a piece of my mind."

"ARE YOU CRAZY, Misha?"

"I didn't say I'd mail the letter. I said I'd just write it."

"But somebody could find it and then you would be in serious trouble."

"Maybe you're right. I think I'll bring it up at our next union meeting."

"We don't have unions, Misha."

"Well, we can't just sit here and let the state double the price of gasoline without saying anything."

"Why not, Misha?"

"Because this is a free country and Lenin said every worker must speak his mind."

"Misha, how many times have I told you Lenin is dead?"

"No matter, his teachings live on. How can the average person in the Soviet Union live if they keep raising the prices on everything?"

"By not saying anything, Misha, that's how."

"I'll tell you why we have inflation. It's because of all the money they're spending on weapons. The military gets anything it wants. No one questions any request the military makes. The Politburo thinks it can solve every defense problem by throwing money at it. I think we should organize a protest meeting in front of the Kremlin and demand a large cut in military spending."

"Why don't you do that, Misha? You've never seen Lubyanka prison."

"MAKE FUN OF ME, woman, but I'll tell you something. The leaders of the Communist Party are a bunch of idiots. They haven't been able to deliver on one thing they've promised us. I say in the next election we throw the scoundrels out."

"Misha, that's your second bottle of vodka. At the new prices you've just drunk up two weeks' salary."

"That's it! I'll send a message to Moscow. If they can't manage the economy, we'll find somebody who can."

"Misha, have you been listening to the 'Voice of America' without telling me?"

"You know what's wrong with this country? You have a bunch of bureaucrats sitting on their tails, telling everybody what's good for them. Well, they don't know beans about what's good for us. Government spending is what's causing inflation and all these socialist experiments where people are rewarded for doing nothing."

"Misha, there another woman in your life? Should know about that?"

"No, why do you ask?"

"Because you sound like you want to leave and go somewhere to work in a labor camp."

"All right. So what you're really saying is that we should do nothing about double-digit inflation and miserable salaries, and a bunch of stupid planners who could lead us into the greatest depression in Russian history."

"Not necessarily. We could move to Siberia."

Thoughts

Faith was once almost universally thought to be acceptance of a definite body of intellectual propositions, acceptance being based upon authority — preferably that of revelation from on high. Of late there has developed another conception of faith. This is suggested by the words of an American thinker: "Faith is tendency toward action." According to such a view, faith is the matrix of formulated creeds and the inspiration of endeavor. Faith in itself is the sole ultimate authority.

—John Dewey

Worry is a form of fear, and all forms of fear produce fatigue. A man who has learned not to feel fear will find the fatigue of daily life enormously diminished.

—Bertrand Russell

You never get tired unless you stop and take time for it.

—Bob Hope

I suppose that you seldom think. Few people think more than two or three times a year. I have made an international reputation for myself by thinking once or twice a week.

—George Bernard Shaw

Around the rim And now, my turn

Richard Horn

Jerry Falwell's "My Turn" column in last week's Newsweek is titled "The Much Maligned Moral Majority." He probably could have gotten away with calling it "The Much Maligned Jerry Falwell."

Poor Jerry. As head of his Moral Majority he has become a foul symbol to millions of people. Now, whenever those folks think of intolerant, boulder-headed conservative fundamentalists, Jerry Falwell is the living example. The trademark.

If I can muster the courage, and yes I believe that I can, I'd like to say that it's not entirely fair.

POOR JERRY HAS a lot of things working against him, not the least of which are the ways he looks and talks. If I were making a movie about a smug, flesh-pressing, sweet-talking politician, the first person I'd send a script to would be Jerry Falwell. I don't know that he really is that way — he probably isn't — but he looks the part. It's a public relations problem.

But it is the sheer magnitude of the task he has taken on — and the cries of outrage his undertakings have produced — that has turned him into the Punching Bag of 1981. The cries of outrage probably indicate that he is at least partly walking down the right road.

We need to lay to rest the idea that the Rev. Falwell and those like him are out to control our minds, reading materials, and record players. The album-burning performed by a local church earlier this month has provoked great protests and at last put some life into The Herald's dustbowl of a Mailbag, but I find little evidence that those people are neo-Nazis out to control our thoughts. Melodramatic, perhaps — and I may dispute their views on music and communist conspiracies — but they're a long way from controlling minds or even having much influence.

It's the same way with the Moral Majority. They can burn books, records, protest TV shows, anything they want. That's not censorship or mind-control. And even if it is, those things weren't invented by the fundamentalists — they've been going on in varying forms for years on both sides of politics.

I DO HAVE MY problems with the Moral Majority's way of doing things. For one thing the name is all wrong. Moral Sub-Minority is more like it. People may want to argue that with polls and surveys to show that a lot of people oppose abortion and pornography, but there is a lot more to Christian morality than that.

That view of morality causes as many problems for me as the idea that by lobbying hard enough and putting the right people in office you can turn the United States "back to God."

That's my problem I guess, because nobody else seems to be bothered by it. And when you get right down to it, the Rev. Falwell and his cohorts are not really doing anything dangerous or criminal; they are just trying to influence, perhaps a little louder than most. But their way of doing things means that anything "The Much Maligned Moral Majority" is able to accomplish will have only short-term effects.

CIA tries to mislead

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — In a triple assault on the public's right to know, the Central Intelligence Agency is (1) trying to shut off channels of information to the electorate, (2) seeking criminal penalties against reporters whose stories might identify CIA operatives and (3) spending "disinformation" to news agencies.

The most disturbing is the disinformation campaign. This poisons the well from which Americans draw the facts they need to govern themselves. The wise Thomas Jefferson sought to lay this issue to rest two centuries ago when he argued that the people's right to know is more important than the officials' right to govern.

NOW ALONG COMES Bill Casey, the doddering CIA director, with the argument that the government has the right to mislead the public by planting phony stories in the press.

His purpose ostensibly is patriotic. He wants to build public support for the political, economic and military measures that the Reagan administration believes are necessary to counter the worldwide conspiracies of the Soviet Union.

Legal experts have warned that the CIA is forbidden by law from conducting operations within the United States and that disinformation aimed at the American public, therefore, would be illegal. But Casey has found a way that he thinks the CIA can get around the law. The disinformation will be planted with foreign news bureaus whose stories are routinely picked up by the U.S. newspapers.

Thus the phony stories may be concocted by CIA dissemblers in McLean, Va., but will reach the American audience circuitously through foreign sources. Casey believes this deception does not violate the restrictions against domestic operations.

Trusted CIA sources have told my associate Ron McRae that the foreign press, in the words of one insider, "is already being manipulated directly."

CONSIDER THE CAMPAIGNS to discredit Libya's radical ruler, Muammar Qaddafi, for example. There should be no need to portray him as being any more vile than he is. He has committed outrages that should be sufficiently repugnant to arouse American public opinion against him. I have called Qaddafi the world's most irresponsible ruler and have backed up this opinion with facts that need no embellishment.

But under the imaginative Casey, the CIA is busily creating rumors, connecting Qaddafi to the slave trade in Mauritania, the only nation that still auctions people on the block.

The CIA is also spreading stories that Qaddafi is manipulating Libyan accounts in international banks and otherwise mismanaging the Libyan peoples' petrodollars.

The agency has even considered arranging the disappearance of a moderate Moslem leader after a visit to Libya. This could revive the outrage against Qaddafi in the Moslem world that followed the actual disappearance of a holy man, named Mousa Sadr. He never returned from Libya after a set-to with the dictator.

What Casey doesn't understand is that truth — just the simple, straightforward truth — is the most effective method of persuading people and influencing events. If the U.S. government could re-establish its credibility, its word could become a powerful weapon for combating communism.

Footnote: Casey has done his utmost to obstruct the flow of CIA information to the public. He has also sought criminal penalties against newsmen who divulge the identity of CIA agents. These steps are necessary, he has contended, to protect the CIA's secret operations.

The truth is that the CIA's own ineptness, not newspaper stories, has jeopardized secret activities and exposed its operatives. The most damaging disclosures have come from Philip Agee, who is a renegade CIA agent, not a newsmen. The CIA allowed him to slip through its fingers.

The CIA has loudly complained that its station chief in Athens, Robert Welch, was gunned down because his identity was revealed in anti-CIA publications. But the CIA station chief had occupied the same house in Athens for two decades, and sight-seeing guides used to point it out to tourists. So Welch was more likely the victim of CIA carelessness than press exposure.

PRO-AM COMPETITION: Officially, prostitution doesn't exist in communist states; workers supposedly have paradise enough without recourse to commercial sex.

But in Poland, hard times have made prostitution a booming and lucrative profession. Not that the average Pole can afford the going rate of $100 a trick — that's anywhere from three to eight months' wages for most Poles.

The government makes a feeble effort to control the industry by requiring medical checkups every two weeks. But the worst economic crisis since World War II has brought hard times to most Poles, and "amateurs" are flocking into the oldest profession. The government can't hope to control the situation.

The result is that the tourist hotels are overrun with heavily made-up young women flaunting their wares. And the Johns are usually Arab businessmen, for whom 100 bucks is loose change.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I became a Christian about a year ago, but now it seems like I am having more problems than I ever had before. I thought things weren't supposed to be this way.

—A.T.

DEAR A.T.: Becoming a Christian does not necessarily take away all our problems. In fact, we may discover that following him creates some new difficulties. For example, we may find that Satan tries to tempt us in new ways and in greater ways now that we belong to Christ.

But let me remind you of two things. First of all, because you have come to Christ there are some problems that you no longer have, and you should be very thankful for this. For instance, you no longer have the problem of guilt, and sin hanging over you, because Jesus Christ has forgiven you. You also know that you are no longer alone, because Christ is always with you. No matter what problems we may face in the future, we have the assurance that "I will be with you always, to the very end of the age" (Matthew 28:20).

I suggest you sit down some time and list all the things that have happened to you now that you belong to Christ — things such as forgiveness, his presence, your becoming part of the Body of Christ (the Church), etc. Then give thanks to God for all he has done for you, and all he promises to do for you in Christ.

Then remember also that God can use difficulties in life to draw us closer to himself. The Bible says, "Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance" (James 1:2-3). In other words, we are to trust God and have faith in him when trials come our way — and, as we trust him, our trust and faith grow stronger.

Why do diabetics drink so much?

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have written before and got no answer. Why does a person with diabetes drink so much liquid and where does it all go? I know diabetics who drink gallons and it doesn't quench their thirst, and I cannot figure out how they hold all that liquid. — B.L.

Diabetics become thirsty because they are urinating large amounts of liquid. The reason they urinate so much is explained by osmosis, a term you may have learned in high school science. For example, if a liquid container with sugar dissolved in it is separated by a membrane from a container or non-sugared liquid, the clear liquid will pass through the membrane to the sugared side. That's osmosis.

The diabetic's blood is high in sugar. When that gets into the kidneys it draws water from the blood for the same reason as explained in the containers example above. This prompts the urge to urinate and the resulting thirst. So the diabetic drinks a lot of liquid. Excessive thirst and excessive urination are signs that indicate diabetes.

The diabetic does not hold all that liquid. He urinates it. And he drinks to make up.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a healthy 28-year-old female. In six months I lost 25 pounds by cutting out junk food and following a daily exercise routine. However, I have not had a period for three months. My doctor seems fairly certain that this is due to my weight loss. Have you ever run across a case such as mine? I am a little worried because I would like to conceive within a year. — Mrs. R.M.

Yes, this does happen, and doctors are encountering such "problems" as the numbers of women engaged in athletics increase. A woman must have a certain amount of body fat to menstruate, and your sudden loss very probably caused your amenorrhea. The mistake is in attributing the lack of periods to exercise itself. That is not true. The absence is due to the weight loss from the exercise.

I want to stress one point here; any woman who has had a change in her periods or who stops having them should report that to the doctor. It may be loss of body weight, but such a symptom should not be dismissed without a complete examination.

When your body weight increases to the point you are having periods again, you should be able to conceive. Permanent infertility is not thought to result.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

A Closer Look Lobbyists upset

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — If you can't stop reform, control reform. That's an informal but widely recognized rule of politics and bureaucracy.

A fine example is the current muttering of discontent by lobbyists about appointments House Speaker Bill Clayton made to the new state ethics advisory committee.

They don't like the naming of Reps. Stan Schlueter of Salado and Susan McBe of Del Rio. That sounds pretty weird if you know only the general political information on those two conservative, business-oriented team players.

But it's understandable if you know them a little better. Both have reputations in the Capitol for honesty and independent thought.

And, worst of all from the lobbyists' view, neither takes contributions from political action committees, or PACs, of the various special-interest groups.

With many other politicians buzzing around the PAC hive with big smiles and outstretched hands, such refusals make the big money people nervous.

By their own standards, Schlueter and Mrs. McBe have served notice that they will not necessarily accept things as they are.

Clayton's appointment of them further indicates a commitment to take a hard look at the political process and try to, at least, set up some guidelines and standards of conduct.

Even more upsetting to the lobbyists is Clayton's behind the scenes work to obtain an ethics committee staff post for Donna Mobley, executive director of Common Cause of Texas.

Common Cause is a leader nationwide in attempts to reform the political process and reduce the interdependence of officeholders and political contributors.

Clayton's appointment of Schlueter and Mrs. McBe and his push for Ms. Mobley demonstrate his commitment to making the ethics committee meaningful rather than just window dressing.

Clayton came to that commitment the hard way. The ethics committee is his baby, conceived out of his own bribery charge problems of last year.

After many years of operating in the political arena under Texas' loosest best regulation of campaign financing, Clayton got his hand stuck in the candy jar.

A jury trial cleared him of all legal charges but left some questions about why he delayed returning a large campaign contribution offered at the same time that a favor was sought. Clayton's best defense is that he simply was playing the game the way most others do — loosely.

To his credit, the speaker moved quickly after his acquittal to establish some better guidelines on how politicians obtain and spend campaign contributions.

The result was the omnibus campaign ethics law of last spring, which, while not as strong or exciting as it might have been, did accomplish several things.

For example, it doesn't outlaw the conversion of campaign contributions to the politician's private use — but it does require the politician to report such conversions.

It also sets up the Public Servant Standards of Conduct Advisory Committee, which most people mercifully call the ethics advisory committee. This 15-member group has no real power other than to study ethics problems in state politics and make recommendations to the Texas Legislature.

It will have a certain publicity factor, however, and that could make un comfortable the politicians and lobbyists who are happy with their present relationship.

Amendment would boost Veterans' Land Program

Since the state Veterans' Land Program was established in 1949, it has helped nearly 73,000 Texas veterans to purchase land. Six separate times, Texas voters have approved the issuance of additional general obligation bonds for the Veterans' Land Fund, and the Fund's authorized limit currently stands at $700 million.

From the fund, eligible veterans can obtain long-term, low-interest loans of up to $20,000 to buy ten or more acres of Texas land. Currently, the Fund makes 40-year loans at an interest rate of one percentage point higher than the Fund's bonds are sold for.

Loan repayments both retire the bonds and pay the programs administrative costs.

Right now, however, more than 14,000 veterans are on the waiting list just to receive the papers to make loan applications. The Veterans Land Board has declared a moratorium on accepting any more names.

The proceeds from the last bond sale will all be loaned out as of sometime this fall, and that means that no more loans can be made except as money becomes available from repayments — unless Texans vote on Nov. 3 to authorize $250 million in additional bonds.

The proposed constitutional amendment (which will be listed as Proposition No. 7 on the general election ballot) would also raise the allowable interest rate ceiling on the bonds from six percent to ten percent. This will make it possible to sell $74 million in bonds which are already authorized but, with their six percent interest rate, are unmarketable in today's economy.

The Veterans' Land Fund is a solid, self-supporting program which costs the taxpayers of Texas nothing. I personally am in favor of authorizing the additional bonds, and I hope the voters will vote to approve raising the bonding limit on Nov. 3.

Interest rates showing decline

By The Associated Press

Interest rates, stuck near record-high levels for two months, are declining on several fronts amid recent signals the economy could be slipping into recession and the Federal Reserve Board is making more money available.

Many economists expect the trend to continue, and some are predicting rates will tumble even further as the economy continues its listless performance.

The Commerce Department planned today to release its figures on new factory orders for durable goods in August. The rate of orders for durable goods, items with a usefulness of three years or more, generally reflects the strength in the industrial sector.

Commerce sources said last week that preliminary figures for the current quarter indicate the gross national product — a measure of all goods and services exchanged — continued to fall after declining in the second three months of 1981. Some economists define an "official" recession as two consecutive quarters of declining GNP.

Several major banks lowered their prime lending rates one-half percentage point to 19.5 percent on Monday.

SYMPHONY ASSOCIATION COFFEE — The Big Spring Country Club Ladies hosted a coffee Saturday at the Country Club to promote the Big Spring Symphony Guild. Linda Ainsworth, left, Big Spring, discusses the

Country Club Ladies promote Big Spring Symphony Guild

The Country Club Ladies Association sponsored a coffee Saturday morning and members of the newly formed Big Spring Symphony Guild gave the program.

Janet Mahoney is president of the Country Club Ladies Association. Serving as other officers are Leslie Johnson, vice president; Gail Newton, secretary; and Marlene Kasch, treasurer.

The meeting marked the opening of the new season for the Country Club Ladies Association, and for their first meeting they decided to promote the Big Spring Symphony Guild.

Joan Bell, Linda Ainsworth, and Marjorie Dodson are serving as temporary officers in this newly formed group. The Big Spring Symphony Guild is an outgrowth of the Big Spring Symphony, Inc., an organization that works with the Midland-Odessa Symphony to bring concerts performed by the highest professionals to Big Spring.

Special guests were Mrs. J. Wilmont Hunt, founder of the Midland Symphony Guild, and Sam Woodward, business manager of the Midland-Odessa Symphony. Mrs. Hunt said that the Midland Guild has a closed membership of 200. Founded in 1963, the Guild requires its members to support the purposes of the Guild by buying tickets, attending the programs, working on projects, and contributing time and ideas to make the organization outstanding.

She stated that an equal number of patron members of the Guild are available at twice the dues of a regular member, but the patron members are not working members of the Guild. One of the latest fund-raising efforts of the Midland Symphony Guild is the Oscar de la Renta Fashion Show in which the fashion great will be present and present his own fashions modeled by professionals. Tickets to this upcoming event are $75 each.

Odessa also has a Guild, Mrs. Hunt stated. They and the Midland Guild occasionally meet jointly and carry on joint projects. The same type of cooperative efforts will work with the Big Spring-Midland-Odessa groups.

Mrs. Hunt also told about the Symphony Debs made up of junior high and high school age girls who help usher at the programs and help with publicity. These Debs are presented each December in a debutante-type presentation.

Woodward spoke of the success of the year-old Big Spring Symphony Board who has put together the Big Spring Symphony Association, Inc. to present the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale. Woodward congratulated Big Spring which had a larger audience on the opening concert than did Odessa at their first concert. He also praised the Big Spring Board who has worked diligently to form an aggressive organization.

Rounding out the morning's events was a program given by Pam Carr, guest artist, who performed several selections on the harp.

Marjorie Dodson, speaking on behalf of the Big Spring Guild, distributed information cards to be completed by those interested in knowing more about membership to the

Dear Abby

DJ's Questions Cause Family Static

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I spend almost every weekend with my brother and his wife at their summer home.

Last Saturday, when we were there, their phone rang and because my sister-in-law was busy preparing dinner, I answered it. The caller identified himself as someone from the local radio station and said if I could answer three questions I would win $50. He asked the three questions, which I answered correctly, then he asked me for my name and address and I automatically gave him my name and address. When I hung up my sister-in-law began screaming at me, saying it was her home and her telephone and I should have given the caller her name and address. She said I had some nerve giving my own name and address — that she knew the answers to those questions and she should get the $50.

Abby, my first thought after winning the money was, "I will take everyone out for a nice dinner."

I feel terrible about the whole thing because we had been good friends for years and now she's mad at me. I apologized and even offered her the money, but she said she wouldn't take it.

Did I do something so terribly wrong? How can I make amends?

FEELING AWFUL IN N.Y.

DEAR EFFLING: Your automatic response was understandable and certainly not "wrong." I think you've done all you can. If she wants to stay mad, you haven't lost a very good friend.

...

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy your stuff. When I attended Tulane University, I told my professor that I was raised in Shreveport, La.

He said, "You raise hogs and rear children."

You mentioned that you were raised in a small town. Tell me, Abby, were you raised or reared? Love and kisses,

HENRY

DEAR HENRY: In "The Careful Writer," the late Theodore M. Bernstein put it this way: "At one time, a war raged (and some skirmishes are still going on) against the use of 'raise' to describe what parents do to children. The battle cry was, 'you raise pigs, but you rear children.' However, in this country at least, the war is over; we raise both pigs and children, and some parents will testify that you can't always tell the difference."

...

DEAR ABBY: In response to the girl who thinks her boyfriend is ashamed of her because he has never introduced her to his parents.

Maybe he is in the same situation I was in when I was growing up. I never brought anyone home to meet my parents because I was ashamed of my parents. They were always drunk, and I grew up as "poor white trash."

Now that I am on my own, I've worked my way up from white trash to a successful businessman and a sound citizen.

Please give the guy a break if he deserves one. No one wants to take a girl home to a filthy, smelly, run-down pickup. It's just too much shame to bear.

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN THERE: Thanks for revealing the other side of the coin.

Clements visits Washington, spars with press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements opened a press conference by welcoming newsmen to the new headquarters in Washington of the State of Texas state-federal liaisons office headed by Dary Stone.

Then he fenced with reporters for most of the next 45 minutes over their questions and his answers.

"Governor, I haven't understood a thing you've said during this entire press conference," veteran newswoman Sara McClendon said halfway through the session.

"I wish you'd just back up and start all over. Quit assuming we know more than we know and just tell us, in plain English, who you saw while you've been here, what you told them, and what they told you," she said.

Clements didn't do that, telling her instead that he'd known her for years and that was the first time he'd ever heard her say she didn't understand what he was trying to say.

He differed with newsmen once over their recollection of a statement he made to another news conference three days earlier, and refused several times to answer other questions.

"My discussion with the president I consider as privileged and if you're asking me to go into that, I'm not going to do it," Clements said at one point.

When a TV newsman asked a second question — after the governor had answered briefly an earlier one — about a suit involving the Tyler, Texas schools and Mexican children, Clements looked at the questioner and said, "You're really hung up on that, aren't you?"

It was something his editors wanted clarification on, the newsman said.

"Where are you from? Are you from Tyler?" Clements asked.

"Washington," the newsman answered, and the governor smirked, then finally answered.

One questioner led off a question with the name of Mark

White, the Texas attorney general who has been involved in a running feud with Clements and is a possible opponent in the 1982 governor's race.

"You ask Mark White about that," Clements interjected. "You're here to talk to me, not Mr. White."

Later, someone else brought up White's name, pointing out that White had spoken earlier Monday of having gotten a letter he called "silly" and "childlike" from Clements concerning White's fight to require evangelist Lester Roloff to obtain state licensing for his homes for children.

"The attorney general said that? That's interesting," Clements said, but declined further comment, saying "I'll comment after I get home and see the letter."

Since the letter was written by Clements, the newsman pressed further as soon as the press conference broke up. "No more questions. The press conference is over," the governor said as he made his way through a hall.

Clements was then asked again about the letter in which he told White that the attorney general had broken his word by continuing to battle the evangelist's operation of his homes without a state license.

"I'm not going to comment on that. You know better than that. You're just trying to get me involved in a big fuss," Clements said before stepping onto an elevator.

Clements visited numerous agencies Monday and "got a good reception," he said, in visits to the departments of agriculture, state, defense and energy and with President Reagan and Vice President George Bush.

His biggest accomplishment, he said, was his meeting Friday with Attorney General William French Smith, in which he got a clear understanding of President Reagan's proposal to give amnesty to hundreds of thousands of illegal aliens in Texas.

O'Connor approved; swearing in Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandra Day O'Connor, confirmed by a unanimous Senate as the first woman justice on the Supreme Court, promises to be "very busy, very fast" after she is sworn in later this week.

There is no clear indication, however, how she will vote on social and constitutional issues that come before the court.

The 51-year-old Arizona appeals judge won a 99-0 endorsement in the Senate on Monday as the 102nd justice in the 191-year history of the nation's highest court. She will be youngest of the nine members.

Mrs. O'Connor will be sworn in for the lifetime appointment in ceremonies Friday in the Supreme Court building, and White House officials said President Reagan may attend.

"My hope is that 10 years from now, after I've been across the street and worked for a while, that they'll all feel glad for the wonderful vote they gave me today," a smiling Mrs. O'Connor said at an appearance on the Capitol steps with Vice President George Bush and Senate leaders.

Once installed on the court, which opens its 1981-82 term Oct. 5, "I'm going to get very busy, very fast," Mrs. O'Connor said.

Reagan hailed a "happy and historic day" and said in a statement that Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation "symbolizes the richness of opportunity that still abides in America — opportunity that permits persons of any sex, age or race, from every section and walk of life, to aspire and achieve in a manner never before even dreamed about in human history."

The vote, following four hours of laudatory speeches by conservatives and liberals alike, was a victory for Reagan as well as Mrs. O'Connor.

Opposition to Mrs. O'Connor's views on abortion melted when Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., leader of the most conservative wing of the Senate, said he would support the nomination "because I have faith in the president."

Helms said he believed Reagan's views against legalized abortion were too strong to permit him to nominate someone who supports the 1973 Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion.

Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., who abstained from an otherwise unanimous Judiciary Committee vote for confirmation last week, said he didn't want to be the spoiler Monday.

Conservatives look to future vacancies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even before President Reagan's first nominee for the Supreme Court takes her seat on the bench, conservatives unhappy with his choice of Sandra Day O'Connor are talking about vacancies to come.

Five of the court's eight current justices are over 72 and there is recurring speculation that some of them may retire.

"We'll let this one go by the wayside and hopefully it won't happen again," conservative fund-raiser and direct-mail expert Richard Viguerie said of Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation.

Viguerie, who notes he spent "a great deal of time, money, energy and resources" fighting Mrs. O'Connor's nomination, said he's "hopeful" Reagan will pick someone more conservative next time.

That was echoed by Sen. Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa. "President Reagan probably realizes that he may be let them (his conservative supporters) down to some degree. And he will do something to rectify it," Grassley said.

Some conservatives bitterly attacked Mrs. O'Connor for what they perceived as past stances in favor of abortion and the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

In the end, however, the Senate approved her historic nomination by a 99-0 vote Monday.

Women's groups enthusiastically backed the 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge.

"We're hoping she (Mrs. O'Connor) won't be tokenized," said Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women. "We'll have to see what the political circumstances are the next time around."

Women's leaders also point with considerable distress to Reagan's nomination of 17 men and no women to lower federal courts — cited as a possible indication of the Republican chief executive's overall plans for the federal judiciary. Only one nominee is black.

Reagan's record so far contrasts sharply with that of his Democratic predecessor, Jimmy Carter, who appointed 40 women to the federal bench, more than all previous presidents combined.

"They're male-dominated and extremely conservative," said Janyce Katz, a spokeswoman for the National Women's Political Caucus, of Reagan's judicial and law enforcement nominees to date.

Analysis reports favoritism for Falwell

DALLAS (AP) — Jerry Falwell's organizations received preferential treatment in a ministers' insurance program that now is insolvent, a state insurance board analysis shows.

The analysis supports allegations the Minister's Benefit Trust failed to pay insurance claims estimated at $300,000, but did pay Falwell employees $114,000 for pre-existing medical claims.

Four Falwell organizations were enrolled in the Hurst-based trust for 13 months.

Spokesmen for the trust and for Falwell denied that any special consideration was given.

The trust, formed in July 1978 to provide major medical insurance for 1,500 Baptist, Methodist and Church of Christ ministers, was ordered by a state judge not to do business in Texas after the insurance board received complaints from ministers across the nation who said their claims were not paid.

Insurance board auditors said most Falwell employees were reimbursed 100 percent of their medical costs, while other ministers were repaid for 80 percent, as specified in the trust contract.

Toxic shuttle fuel spills

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Highly toxic fuel hat powers thruster rockets of the space shuttle Columbia spilled during loading overnight, closing the launch pad to all but emergency cleanup workers, officials said today.

Few details were available about the spill of nitrogen tetroxide, which officials said occurred while the forward Reaction Control System thrusters were being loaded.

Nitrogen tetroxide is "pretty nasty stuff," said Mark Hess, Kennedy Space Center spokesman.

He said he did not know whether the spill would delay the Oct. 9 launch date for the shuttle's second flight. He also said he didn't know how long it would be before the impact of the spill could be assessed. "It could be this afternoon or it could be a matter of days," he said.

Workers wore special protective suits with masks while cleaning up the fuel.

Hess said he didn't know when the spill occurred, nor the amount spilled.

Lady Steers get 4th

DENVER CITY — The Big Spring Lady Steers, after winning their first two matches, fell to a fourth place finish in the Denver City Tournament here this weekend.

The Lady Steers opened the tournament by defeating host Denver City 15-1, 15-3. They then topped El Paso Parkland 15-10, 5-15, 13-11.

In the semifinals, the Lady Steers dropped a 7-15, 11-9, 6-15 decision to Snyder, and then fell in the battle for third place 9-15, 5-15, to Monahans.

"We had no offense in that game," said Big Spring Coach Patty Purser. "We just couldn't get it together."

District rival Midland Lee won the tournament, beating Snyder in the final round.

Sissy Doss and Sylvia Randle were praised for their net play in the tournament, while defensive stalwarts were Elise Wheat and Leslye Overman.

The Lady Steers now take their 2-0 district record and 11-6 season mark at Odessa Permian this evening. A freshman game is set for five o'clock, a JV contest for six o'clock and the varsity title for seven o'clock.

Flag football begins pre-season tourney

First round games in the pre-season Big Spring Flag Football Association will be held tonight at the south field of Johnny Stone Park.

The pre-season tourney is for determining strengths of teams for scheduling purposes, as well as giving the teams a chance to polish their skills in the exhibition.

Tonight's games feature the Brews Brothers vs. ReRuns at seven o'clock, the Fire Department vs. Pipeliners at eight o'clock, and OIL vs. Barber's at nine o'clock.

Thursday's game will have the Movie Stars meeting Jo Boys at seven o'clock. Texas Pipe vs. Hughes at eight o'clock, with the winner of that game meeting Texaco at nine.

The Big Spring Booster Club will meet tonight at seven o'clock in the high school cafeteria.

Highlight for the event will be the film of the Steers 38-12 win over Levelland last Friday night. Head Coach Ralph Harris will narrate the film and be available to answer any questions.

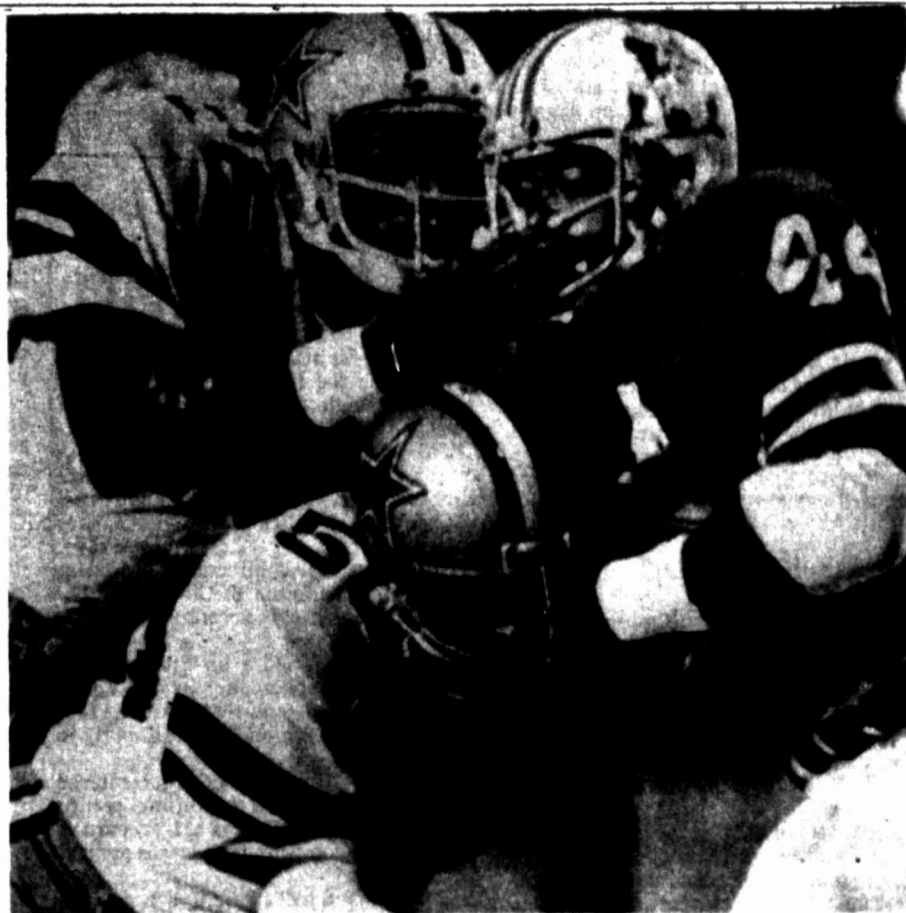

Runnels girls split pair

The Runnels JHS girls volleyball teams split a pair of games with Seminole yesterday, in the process evening their respective records at 2-2.

The Runnels Red rallied in both sets for a 15-13, 15-11 win. Tammy Green and Clara Hamilton had 10 service points for the Runnels squad, with Lana Fletcher adding six and Kerri Myrick four.

The White squad suffered a 15-8, 5-15, 3-15 loss. Carletta Lewis had 15 service points, with Tracy Wilkerson adding four.

The Red team returns to play at Monahans Thursday.

Cowboys use red hot TD to outscore Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Step aside, Earl. Touchdown Tony is on the loose — and so are the rest of the Dallas Cowboys.

Tony Dorsett, off to the best start of his five-year career in the National Football League, is literally and figuratively running away from three-time rushing champion Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers and any other challengers he may face.

So what? he says. "Leading the league in rushing is fine (he has 423 yards now), but going into the 16th game is when it'll mean something. Right now it means nothing. That's no goal of mine, to lead the NFL in rushing. I just want to be consistent, game in and game out," he says.

Which is what he has been, more so this season than any other.

Which in turn is why the Cowboys are 3-0 three games into the season, and one reason why the New England Patriots, who had hoped to break out of an early-season slump, lost 35-21 Monday night and are 0-3.

Dorsett's 132 yards and 129 yards in his first two games were merely a prelude to the 162 yards he amassed against the Patriots, 75 of them on a second-quarter touchdown run. His total was 54 yards more than the entire New England ground game managed...and the Patriots had three more carries than Dorsett's 19.

"Offensively, we're off to a tremendous start. In the past, we haven't had the running game going as well as we have this year," Dorsett said, neglecting to mention that in the past he hasn't shown up in training camp in midseason form, as he did this year. "But defensively, we're not where we should be."

Defensively, the Cowboys pretty much closed down the New England rushing attack (Mosi Tatupu had 63 of their 108 yards). But they permitted Matt Cavanaugh, starting in place of erratic Steve Grogan, plenty of time to search out and find receivers.

Unfortunately for the Pats, four times he found Dallas receivers for interceptions — one in the first period preceding the Cowboys' opening touchdown (Danny White's 28-yard pass to leaping Butch Johnson) and three in the final quarter, two of them leading to Rafael Septien field goals.

New England will now have to face the Pittsburgh Steelers, who erupted on Sunday for a 38-10 victory against the New York Jets, the American Conference's other 0-3 team (Washington is the only one in the National Conference).

USC moves to Noll rank

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the third week in a row college football has a new No. 1 team.

The Trojans of Southern California replaced Notre Dame at the top of The Associated Press poll today, setting up a 1-2 shootout with runnerup Oklahoma on Saturday in Los Angeles.

Michigan, the preseason leader, was bumped from the top after losing to Wisconsin on Sept. 12. And the Wolverines in turn bounced Notre Dame out by trouncing the Irish 25-7 this past weekend.

That opened the way for Southern Cal and Oklahoma, last week's No. 2-3 teams, to move up. USC, a 21-0 winner over Indiana, received 46 of 65 first-place votes and 1,258 of a possible 1,300 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Oklahoma, idle over the weekend, received 15 first-place ballots and 1,203 points. The Sooners return to action against Southern Cal Saturday afternoon in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Meanwhile, Notre Dame skidded from first place to 13th, while Michigan climbed back into the Top 10, jumping from 11th to seventh. The Wolverines also received a first-place ballot.

Georgia's defending national champions were defeated by Clemson 13-3, ending a 15-game winning streak, and fell from fourth to 17th, while Clemson made the Top Twenty for the first time this season.

Penn State, idle last weekend, rose from fifth to third with two first-place votes and 1,092 points, while Texas, a 23-10 victor over North Texas State, jumped from sixth to fourth with one first-place vote and 1,038 points.

More important things than running up score

It isn't often in the past few years that the Big Spring Steers football teams have had the opportunity to put the rout on an opponent, but Friday night proved to be the exception. The final score read: Big Spring 38, Levelland 13. But it could have been much worse.

When Bobby Earl Williams, who rushed for 196 yards, found paydirt late in the third stanza, it appeared the senior and the rest of his mates on the Steers first team offense were just getting warmed up. But the score read 32-0, and Big Spring Coach Ralph Harris felt it was time to send in the reserves.

A few local fans seemed to indicate that they would like to see the Steers run the score on up, but most realized the importance of allowing everyone a chance to play in this final non-district contest.

The Steers had entered the contest with a variety of injuries, and most hoped that the people filling in would perform well enough to win. That they did.

"We (the coaching staff) were real proud of the way the kids got together and played hard," said Coach Harris in his office Saturday afternoon. "It was an excellent opportunity to give all the kids a chance to play, and that's important because it really helps team morale."

While most observers felt the Steers played an excellent game in all aspects, Harris did see some things that need correcting.

"The defense didn't execute as cleanly as we want, but the pursuit kept us from letting them score until late in the game," he mentioned.

"I was hoping that we could get a shutout, we really need one. We haven't had one since I've been here," Harris said.

That shutout probably would have come had the first team stayed in, but the work that the back-ups received could come in handy at some point during the 5-AAAAAA slate.

One pleasing aspect of the win was the job that the people that filled in for the injured starters did. Harris noted that there were some mistakes, but the outstanding effort and a good job in being ready to play covered up for the miscues.

Another aspect that pleased everyone involved in the win was the Steers dominance in the third quarter. In their 14-13 win over Snyder and the 34-20 loss to Sweetwater, the opposition controlled the stanza after the intermission.

"That was a key point of emphasis entering the game, and I was real proud of the way we played in the third quarter," Harris revealed.

But that dominance didn't continue in the fourth when the reserves came in, and it's just as well. All 30 people that suited up got to play, and that nearly always will show up in future practices and games.

Besides, the Steers have been on the other side of the field before, and know the feeling of being on the wrong side of a lopsided scoreboard.

"It's not professional, in my opinion, to humiliate anybody," Harris said in speaking of pulling out the first team late in the third quarter. "I like to think we have more class than that."

Despite protests of South Africa rugby team in US

No boycott expected for LA Olympics

BADEN-BADEN, West Germany (AP) — "We expect between 10,000 and 11,000 athletes in Los Angeles for the Olympic Games in 1984," said Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

"We never know what is going to happen in the world, but I do not think we will have any boycotts," he added.

Samaranch, preparing to preside over the Olympic Congress in Baden-Baden this week, brushed aside fears of an African boycott following the American tour by the South African Springboks rugby team.

"I am in close contact with the National Olympic Committees (NOCs) throughout Africa, and not a single one has suggested boycotting the Los Angeles Games," he told a news conference.

The 60-year-old president, former Spanish ambassador in Moscow, was equally optimistic about the Olympic Games of the future.

"Many NOCs are asking us about conditions for staging the Olympic Games in 1992," Samaranch said.

Following the congress, the IOC will meet to choose the host cities for 1988. Nagoya in Japan and Seoul in South Korea are rival candidates for the Summer Games.

Dangers of an African boycott of Los Angeles appeared to recede after a meeting between Samaranch and Abraham Ordia, president of the often militant Supreme Council for Sport in Africa.

Ordia was the man who master-minded the African walkout of the Montreal Games in 1976, when New Zealand had sent a rugby team to tour South Africa.

After talking with Samaranch, Ordia said in an interview the Supreme Council was deeply concerned about the Springboks' games in the United States, but was "restrained" by the clearly expressed opposition to the tour by the IOC and the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Ordia said his position would be reviewed at the end of the year.

Meanwhile, Samaranch addressed a gathering of delegates from the NOCs, which now number 149, and went out of his way to praise the USOC and its president, Bill Simon, for the stand they had taken against the Springboks' games.

"We were completely exonerated," said Col. F. Don Miller, executive director of the USOC.

While the Africans in Baden-Baden appeared to be softening over the Springboks, the political Organization of African Unity was reported threatening a boycott by African athletes of all events involving Americans.

Reports from Moscow have hinted at Soviet moves to have the Games moved from Los Angeles because of the Springboks' tour. But Samaranch said the Russians had indicated nothing of this sort to him.

The congress opens Wednesday, bringing together the IOC, the NOCs and the 26 international federations responsible for running the Olympic sports.

Shutouts galore on Monday

By the Associated Press

There is no joy in Mudville... and Manager Jim Fanning warns there will be no music in Montreal, either, unless the Expos win. "Casey At The Bat," in this case, was Expos outfielder Andre Dawson, and Monday night he rewrote the classic Ernest L. Thayer poem slightly by not striking out. In the National League's longest game this year, Dawson's grounder in the 17th inning scored Rodney Scott from third, giving Montreal a 1-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

NL Roundup

The victory allowed the Expos to keep pace with St. Louis in the race for the National League East's second-season title. The Cardinals, who blanked the Chicago Cubs 2-0 in an afternoon game, lead the Expos by 1 1/2 games. The New York Mets, who beat Pittsburgh 4-3 in 13 innings, trail by 2 1/2 games.

Through 10 innings, Steve Carlton of the Phillies and Ray Burris of Montreal were locked in a pitchers' duel. Carlton, who yielded just three hits, fanned 12 to become the NL's all-time strikeout leader with 3,128, replacing Hall of Famer Bob Gibson. Burris also gave up just three hits.

With one out in the 17th, Scott singled and stole second. Reliever Jerry Reed then walked Warren Cromartie and Terry Francona to load the bases.

Dawson followed with a hard grounder to third baseman Mike Schmidt, whose throw to home narrowly missed getting Scott.

In the night's only other NL game, San Diego blanked Cincinnati 6-0.

Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter combined on a three-hit shutout that helped St. Louis rebound from three straight losses at New York.

Andujar left after he pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg while batting in the ninth, and Sutter pitched a hitless final inning for his 23rd save.

Darrell Porter and Keith Hernandez each drove in a run for the Cardinals.

Mark Lee, Pittsburgh's fifth pitcher, let loose a wild pitch in the 13th inning that allowed John Stearns to score New York's winning run, extending the Mets winning streak to four games.

With one out, Lee walked Stearns, and Ron Gardenhire's single sent the Mets catcher to third. With a 0-2 count on rookie Brian Giles, Lee threw a low and outside pitch that catcher Tony Pena was unable to handle.

Lee Mazzilli drove in a pair of New York runs, one with a single in the eighth that gave the Mets a 3-1 lead. Pittsburgh rebounded with two runs in the top of the ninth on a single by Mike Easler and Johnny Ray's sacrifice fly.

Jason Thompson homered for the Pirates in the second.

Red Sox keep burning

By the Associated Press

Ralph Houk is having trouble playing the ever-popular game of pennant-race scoreboard. But his Boston Red Sox are having very few problems playing baseball, and that might make Houk's scoreboard watching unnecessary.

AL Roundup

The Red Sox stayed a half-game behind the first-place Detroit Tigers in the tight American League East second half race Monday night with a 9-3 romp over the Milwaukee Brewers, who dropped 1 1/2 games off the pace. The victory was Boston's seventh in the last eight games, all at home. The Red Sox are 24-16 in the second season.

"I keep looking at the scoreboard and I don't really know who to root for, Detroit or Baltimore," said Houk, who saw the Tigers beating the Orioles 5-1 on the Fenway Park scoreboard. "But you can be sure I'll be pulling for the Orioles tomorrow."

Houk didn't need to do much managing Monday. He just turned Dave Stapleton, Jim Rice, Jerry Remy, Carl Yastrzemski, Carney Stangor, Tony Perez and Rick Miller loose and each had two hits in Boston's 14-hit attack. Stapleton slammed a homer in the five-run fifth inning and added a single, while knocking in four runs.

The Yankees, who already have qualified for the playoffs by winning the first-half race, had their second-half hopes set back a bit by Rick Waits, who blanked them 5-0.

Elsewhere, it was Minnesota 7, Kansas City 2 and California 6, Chicago 3. The Oakland A's game at Toronto was rained out.

Milt Wilcox hurled a six-hitter for his first win ever over the Orioles. John Wockenfuss drove in two runs with an RBI single in the fourth and a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Orioles starter Scott McGregor entered the game with an 11-2 lifetime record against the Tigers. He has a 7-2 record at home this season, with both losses against Detroit.

It was the third straight win for the Tigers after five consecutive losses to open their current road trip.

Danny Darwin threw a three-hitter, striking out seven. Texas built a 3-0 lead in the fourth on single by Bump Wills, Mickey Rivers and Buddy Bell and Pat Putnam's double, and added its final run in the eighth on Al Oliver's RBI single.

Oriole repeats as Player of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie third baseman Hubie Brooks of the New York Mets was named National League Player of the Week and Baltimore's Eddie Murray became the second player since the inception of the award to earn American League honors for two consecutive weeks. Both players batted .500 for the week.

Brooks was 12-for-24 for the week ending Sunday, including a double, triple and home run. He scored four runs, drove in six runs and stretched his hitting streak to eight games. The streak has raised Brooks' average for the season to .311.

Murray, who hit .423 to capture the honor last week, had 10 hits in 20 at bats this past week with two home runs, a triple and a double. He knocked in nine runs, had a .950 slugging percentage and a .545 on-base mark. Murray is hitting .343 in the second season.

The award was conceived in 1975 and only Oakland's Tony Armas previously had been voted the award in consecutive weeks when he was named the first two weeks of the first half of this season.

UH loses starting QB for season

HOUSTON (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Audrey McMillian will miss the remainder of the 1981 football season with a shoulder separation, University of Houston officials confirmed Monday.

McMillian hurt his right shoulder in the third quarter of Saturday's game against Miami, and will undergo surgery Tuesday, said Cougar head trainer Tom Wilson.

"It is difficult at this time to say how bad of a separation it is, and it doesn't matter," Wilson said. "A separation is a separation and the young man is through for the season."

McMillian sat out most of the 1980 season with a separation in his left shoulder.

Sophomore Lionel Wilson will be given a shot at replacing McMillian in practice this week, with sophomore transfer Gerry Dickens backing him up, Cougar coaches said.

Even if you're unhandy, you can do something to help hold down electric bills.

Save energy and money at home by learning how to insulate, caulk and weatherstrip—it's easy when you know how. Just call us, or ask for our "Unhandy Person's Guides" on the comments portion of your bill.

It's important to learn ways to conserve energy, especially since the cost of electricity must continue to increase, partly because all fuel used to make electricity continues to cost more.

For example, a contract for low-cost natural gas expires at the end of this year, and we'll have to use more high-priced gas next year.

You can conserve and help hold down your bill by using the "Unhandy Person's Guides" from Texas Electric.

DENNIS THE MENACE

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Look! My new jeans have a belly button!"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 22, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to be careful not to become embroiled in arguments or discussions for they could bring harm. In the evening different aspects make it possible to gain your aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't let a secret anxiety keep you accomplishing your goals today. A close tie gives you unexpected aid and comfort.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Go about your business in a practical way and steer clear of one who likes to argue. Do something nice for a friend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use diplomacy instead of forceful ways to gain your objectives. Be careful not to make monetary errors today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you attend to regular duties before you amble off to seek pleasure or you could regret it later.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Making collections and paying bills is vitally important today. Follow your hunches which are accurate at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to gain true harmony with associates. Sidestep one who opposes you. Handle civic affairs wisely. Use common sense.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try not to argue with co-workers or there could be trouble and little accomplished. Take steps toward better health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't anger associates by taking off and celebrating when you shouldn't. Be sure not to act in a devious manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Strive for increased harmony with associates. Don't air family troubles away from home. Be sensible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Much care in motion is important today to avoid possible mishap. Study reports and make sure they are accurate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you are not too extravagant with money today. Use own good judgment now instead of relying on an expert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Seeking new outlets is wise now since opportunity is knocking at your door at this time. Take needed health treatments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she may be willing to work hard for everything desired, but should be taught to use diplomacy, otherwise your progeny could have a difficult and unrewarding life. A good marriage is in the making in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!"

Diablo power plant prepares for service

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Operators of the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant say they will ignore protesters and "immediately" start preparing the reactor to receive fuel in hopes of starting it up within two weeks.

A federal decision Monday to allow Pacific Gas & Electric to begin loading and low-power testing of the plant sparked renewed pledges of opposition from the Abalone Alliance, a coalition of some 60 anti-nuclear groups. The alliance's attempt to block the plant and prevent the fuel loading has resulted in 1,365 arrests in seven days of land and sea assaults on the site. On Monday, 368 people were arrested.

Shortly after the decision by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., a foe of the Diablo plant, filed a petition in federal court to reverse the NRC decision. Brown's petition said the commission "has not satisfactorily resolved the outstanding questions of seismic safety, security, emergency preparedness and Three Mile Island-related safety matters."

The alliance objects to nuclear power as unsafe and says the Diablo plant is particularly dangerous because it is built near an earthquake fault line.

Carl Zichella, a spokesman for the alliance, said of the federal decision, "If there's any change, it's just more determination. We are going to do everything possible to stop this plant before nature does it for us."

Several hundred protesters remained at the site late Monday, their ranks thinned by the many arrests. The blockade had gotten under way early in the day with demonstrators partially blocking Avila Road, which goes past the plant's main gate.

As a mile-long convoy of buses loaded with PG&E workers rolled by, deputies used choke holds on demonstrators to clear the path. No injuries were reported. The demonstrators have had little success with the blockade since the first day when workers had to be carried out of the plant in helicopters.

Undersheriff Arnie Goble said his men moved into the rugged terrain around the plant to flush protesters out of the wooded areas, where the demonstrators could gain access to the facility's outer fence.

The rising arrest totals brought the Diablo protest near the 1,414 arrests during a May 1977 demonstration at a nuclear plant in Seabrook, N.H.

Sheriff's officials identified the man as Douglas Winchel, 25, of Vista.

Four of six win reversals in case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court has reversed the convictions of four of six men won convicted in a marijuana conspiracy case because jurors had read and heard too much about the case.

The "Texas conspiracy" case was one of the biggest smuggling operations in Texas history. About 170 tons of marijuana was shipped in from Colombia, South America, in shrimp boats and distributed by truck.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Monday the U.S. district court judge in the 1979 trial in Beaumont should have questioned each juror individually on how much he or she had read or heard about the case.

The judge instead asked all potential jurors, en masse, whether any of them already had formed a firm opinion on the case by reading or hearing news stories about the operation.

Defense lawyers struggle to seat an uninformed jury, contending that an ignorant juror will have no prejudice against the defendant due to having heard of the crime.

The law says it is enough that a juror "can lay aside his impression or opinion and render a verdict based upon the evidence presented in court." However, that leaves room for argument.

"Prejudicial publicity" is often one of the issues raised by the defense if a case has received any news coverage. That was the main point raised in the appeal of the conviction of the defendants in the "Texas conspiracy" case.

The six men were tried on charges of violating the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, importing an illegal substance, traveling in interstate commerce on an illegal enterprise, and engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise.

Winning reversals Monday were Raymond Hawkins, sentenced to 20 years and fined $110,000; James Holland, who drew 10 years and $60,000; Martin Sneed Jr., 5 years and $15,000; and Clyde Sneed, 3 years and $10,000.

The appeals court upheld the convictions of Carlos

Gerdes, who faces 20 years, and Clifford Swiere, who was sentenced to three years. Their appeals had been based on other legal issues.

Lawyers representing Hawkins, Holland and the Snees filed as part of their appeal more than 40 Beaumont newspaper articles as well as transcripts of several television reports on the arrests, indictments and pre-trial activities.

Prosecutors contended that the news coverage did not "raise the significant possibility of prejudice."

"Even the most cursory examination of the newspaper articles filed with the district court, however, refutes this argument," the 5th circuit said.

Group for livestock tax debate forms

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas feedlots will lose fewer customers to other states if voters approve a constitutional amendment exempting livestock from property taxes, says a spokesman for cattle feeders.

But a Panhandle school board will ask the Texas Association of School Boards this weekend to oppose the measure because it could shift tax burdens from feedlots to homeowners.

A coalition of nine farm and ranch organizations announced Monday it will campaign for voter approval of Proposition 5 on the Nov. 3 general election ballot.

Rep. Susan McBe, D-Dei Rio, will be chairwoman of the Vote for 5 Committee and asserted at a news conference that the constitutional amendment will be good for consumers.

"It will certainly be to the consumers' benefit to support this amendment completely," said Mrs. McBe, a rancher who sponsored the constitutional amendment in the House.

Field crops are exempt from property taxes, and the Legislature passed a bill in August exempting farm equipment.

Joining forces to work for Proposition 5 are the Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Farmers Union, Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Independent Cattlemen's Association, Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, Texas Poultry Federation, Texas Pork Producers Association and Associated Milk Producers Inc.

Ron Davenport of the cattle feeders said some "White is not just white," a specialist says. "There is down, balsa, cream, eggshell, shipcream, pearl, lace, wisp, cloud, frost, ash, fog, mist, warm, eggnog, sand and pebble to name just a few whites."

that business," she said. The result, she added, could be higher meat prices.

Mrs. McBe said the tax raises $4 million annually for schools, with the heaviest use in the Panhandle, where feedlots are concentrated.

She contended state aid would replace about half the revenue the districts would lose and said Panhandle legislators voted for the measure.

The Texas Association of School Boards' delegate assembly will consider a resolution Saturday opposing Proposition 5.

The Herford school board offered the resolution, saying the Legislature approved the constitutional amendment without "prudent consideration" of its impact on school districts.

"In the areas that are greatly affected, it is going to shift the tax burden onto homeowners," TASB executive director Orby Holden said of the constitutional amendment.

Colored news

WASHINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — In 23 years, specialists here have matched some 45,000 colors, yet they have a long way to go before touching the 8 to 10 million colors distinguishable to the human eye.

To meet customer requirements for colored plastics used in telephones, kitchen appliances, power tools and interior and exterior automobile parts, Borg-Warner Chemicals employs some 55 persons to match colors used to manufacture its thermoplastics.

As an example of the variety of colors, the company has manufactured more than 2,000 shades of white.

"White is not just white," a specialist says. "There is down, balsa, cream, eggshell, shipcream, pearl, lace, wisp, cloud, frost, ash, fog, mist, warm, eggnog, sand and pebble to name just a few whites."

The All Savers Certificate of Deposit (ASC) will be available October 1, with a lifetime maximum of $1,000 interest exempt from income tax per person ($2,000 for joint return). These can be purchased from 10:15 to 12:31 a.m. and must have a 1 year maturity. The interest rate is 7% of the yield on the 1 year Treasury bill which is determined by an auction every 4th Thursday. The auction on September 23 determined the ASC rate of 12.61% for 10:15 to 12:31 a.m. The auction on 10:15 will determine the rate effective 10:15, so with your permission, we will wait until 10:15 to decide whether to date your C.D. 10:15 or 10:15. If you deposit $2,000 at 12.61%, your return is $1,000. Our minimum C.D. is $500. If the taxable income on your 1980 form 1040, line 34, was above $12,000 (individual) or $20,000 (joint), you may benefit by this new investment. At least 75% of these funds will be used to fund real estate loans. And, as our "Thank You" for your deposit, we have a $10.00 negotiable gift certificate (spends like cash) waiting for you on your first purchase of an ASC ($20.00 if you purchase the maximum allowed).

Transient gets ride to landfill

DALLAS (AP) — A man who fell asleep inside a downtown trash container Monday awoke in the path of a bulldozer at the city landfill after sanitation workers made their morning rounds.

Police said the man, a transient identified only as John, had been deposited at the landfill from a trash compacting truck. Sanitation workers discovered the man at the McCommas Central Landfill and alerted police. The man was treated at Parkland Hospital for cuts and bruises sustained in the ordeal.

Two killed in plunges off bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One man succeeded in suicide. The other failed in an apparent stunt.

Both died Monday morning after plunging more than 200 feet from the Golden Gate Bridge into the chilly San Francisco Bay, their leaps separated by less than 90 minutes.

The first man carried documents identifying him as Peter Angelo Wint, 25, of Missouri City, Texas. But the coroner's office withheld official identification until it could examine dental charts.

He apparently intended to survive the fall from the famous span, authorities said. He wore a wet suit and carried a snorkel, padded pants, a neck brace and two life jackets.

He was pulled from the water, still breathing, by a U.S. Coast Guard crew about 7:20 a.m. "He didn't make it to the pier," said California Highway Patrol spokesman Dick Myers.

The Texas man was the second person in two years to try to survive a jump from the Golden Gate Bridge. In August 1980, Wolfgang Hans Kopke, a West German stunt man, fell to his death dressed in a wetsuit and other protective gear.

The second man, 18, of Ohio, wore a suit. He hung the coat containing a message to his mother on a bridge rail at about 8:45 a.m. He was seen hanging from the rail a few minutes before falling to his death. His name was not released.

The Texas man climbed a rail of the east side of the bridge and prepared to jump as joggers passed, Myers said.

Before jumping, he tied a duffel bag containing a flare gun and flares to the bridge and leaped. Officers did not know what the man intended to do with the flare gun.

The Ohio man walked to mid-span of the bridge only a few yards north of where the Texas man's belongings were left.

Coroner's investigator Mike Scannell said the man left two suicide notes in a spiral notebook in his jacket. "I am God now," said one. "I love you," the other said. "Live and let live, but more importantly, live and let die."

The two men raised the known number of fatal bridge jumps to 713, according to Highway Patrol figures.

Prison tents possible fire hazard

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Tents being used to relieve overcrowded Texas prison cells might turn into fire hazards this winter when heaters are added, says a report to the federal judge who ordered major changes in the prisons.

Court-appointed Special Master Vincent Nathan's report said he "is compelled to express his concern that the tents currently in use by the Texas Department of Corrections may represent a serious fire threat."

The tents were set up after U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice ordered an end to triple-celling in TDC prisons. Metal buildings scheduled to be completed in November were to replace the tents.

However, delays have pushed the anticipated completion date back as far as next July. TDC spokesman Rick Hartley says that means 1,600 inmates will sleep in the tents until then.

Nathan questioned whether the tents — aside from the possible fire hazard — "will be suitable for human habitation" in the winter.

Gov. Bill Clements, who has talked up the tents as a sensible and humane solution to overcrowding, told reporters last week that the addition of heaters would make the tents comfortable during the winter.

"I don't think that represents any particular hardship on the prisoners," Clements said.

Hartley said Monday that TDC officials were confident the addition of natural gas heaters would not pose a serious fire hazard. However, Nathan is not convinced and has asked Justice to appoint an expert to take a look at the tents.

Nathan was appointed to monitor TDC's compliance with Justice's orders, which called for sweeping changes in the 30,000-inmate system.

Baby Things designed for your baby's needs

Babys bring a lot of joy to a couple, but they also bring a good deal of expense. To make sure that the expense doesn't get in the way, you need to find someplace where you can buy all the things your baby will need at as low a price as possible.

Baby Things, located at 3103 W. Hwy. 80, is a store designed to meet the needs of new parents. Owned and managed by Wanda Ford, Baby Things sells new clothes and used infant clothes, furniture, and a host of other infant needs. You can find beds, play pens, high chairs, bassinets, car beds, and car seats.

As a new service, Baby Things sells maternity clothes and also rents baby furniture.

A wide selection of diapers and clothes for infants up to age six is also available. While you are there, check their stock of baby bottles and sterilizers.

Since most of the stock is second-hand, prices are lower than they are at retail stores. That is important, since baby items are quickly outgrown, but never worn out. Buying from Baby Things is indeed a wise investment.

Baby Things has proved it meets a need in Big Spring. Instead of buying all the items at one store at an outrageous price, new or future parents can buy from a store at low resale prices, without time-consuming

HOME Realtors has the hit show of the season

VIDEO LISTING SERVICE ...at HOME Realtors now

The hit T.V. show of the season is being shot in HOME Realty offices, and anyone considering selling or buying a home can't afford to miss this Big Event.

Last year, HOME introduced the Video Listing Service, one of the most innovative approaches to selling home since the MLS.

With the VLS HOME Photographs homes inside and out, in detail and in color. Whenever someone is interested in seeing a home for sale, we show them our "library" of homes for sale on our special television, with pleasing background music and voice-over describing the home in full. Says President Jeff Brown, "VLS eliminates many of the problems of showing homes, because it's like having an open house 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. It's a very timely tool — it can save considerable time and gasoline."

"After all, looking for a home is an arduous task, whether you're new to the area or a native. The video service makes it easier on everyone — the buyer, seller and agent."

Advantages to the home seller are obvious: if the family is moving out before the home is sold, VLS can photograph the home to its best advantage. And the homeowner no longer has to stay at home evenings or weekends in case someone wants to see the house.

Probably, though, one of the most popular benefits of VLS is that it "qualifies" the people who do personally visit the home.

Homeowners using the service have called it "inspirational" and "One of the best ways to shop for a home," sales associates certainly agree.

Learning dollars and sense

An "E" for economics has been added to the three R's as a basic in many of the nation's classrooms.

Almost half of the teachers responding to a recent survey of public and private junior and senior high schools said economics was a required subject; an additional 39 percent said it was available as an elective.

Teachers said topics like inflation, the value of the dollar and interest rates are regular subjects for discussion. Students are learning about things like supply and demand, the banking system and the consumer movement. And they are looking at ways to use their knowledge in the marketplace.

The survey was conducted by the polling firm of Yankelovich, Skelly and White Inc., and covered a selected sample of 500 schools across the country. It was underwritten by Phillips Petroleum and is being distributed by the Joint Council on Economic Education, a nonprofit organization in New York City which works to improve and expand the teaching of economics.

A summary of the survey findings, prepared jointly by Deborah Barron of Yankelovich, Skelly and White and J.R. Clark of Fairleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey, concludes that: "Economics is approaching the status of a mainstream course of study in America's junior and senior high schools."

Clark and Ms. Barron said that about a decade ago, only 25 percent of all high school students took an economics course. Those students who did study economics, tended to be the college-bound, the "academically elite."

Today, Ms. Barron and Clark said, economics is "available to virtually all students on many different levels." Twenty-three states mandate some type of economics education for students.

The amount of study required and the content of the economics classes vary widely. Nearly half of the teachers said they stressed both theoretical and practical economics in their classes.
