Father and son do battle at Fair fiddling contest

The county fair fiddling contest Tuesday provided plenty of good music as more than 150 people gathered on the mid-September night to hear the contestants play.

In the under 50 division, Shane Keys, 11, tackled his dad, Clint, for the number one position. Experience won out though as Shane's dad, who has been playing the fiddle for more than 45 years, was named the winner.

"That's all right, as long as he beats me," said Shane as he was awarded the number two spot. After all, he said, it was his dad who taught him everything he knows about the fiddle.

Clint Keys has been giving his son fiddling lessons for more than a year. Shane said "I wanted to take the lessons. I've lived around music all my life, and I like country and western music."

Shane admitted it takes a lot of practice to become a quality fiddler. He said he practices at least an hour every day. The results, said Shane, "Make me feel good inside. I enjoy playing music."

Contests are still new to the younger Keys. "I still get nervous," he said after last night's performance. "The first contest I was in was real scary."

Tuesday's contest was the ninth for the young Midland fiddler.

The elder Keys said it was also his father who taught him to play the fiddle more than 45 years ago.

"My daddy taught me, and he played left handed," said Keys after the competition had ended. "That was right backwards from the way I played. I turned it around and that's how I learned."

Keys has strong feelings about music. "I think music is second place. The contest was one in a series of events slated during the fair, which draws to a close Saturday night.

one of the greater things a kid can get in. It keeps him out of trouble, and gives him something to do. There's nothing better I'd like to see him do than play the fiddle."

Following the contest, the elder Keys eyed his son and said "Some of these days I can just sit back and listen to him play."

Clint indicated that he plays to keep on playing. "If there's anything I like to do, it's play the fiddle." His goal, he said is to become a world champion fiddler.

In the over 50 division, Chester Derrick, Odessa, was named the winner.

"I've been playing the fiddle more than 35 years," said Derrick. "My father and my grand-dad also played."

Although his father and grandfather were fiddle players, Derrick said "I taught myself. It was kind of hard. The fiddle is the hardest instrument I ever saw to play."

Derrick and Clint Keys often play against each other in Texas fiddling contests, they said.

"Sometimes, we help each other out, and sometimes we beat each other," said Keys.

Derrick said his win here at the Howard County Fair is the third this year. He also won first places in fiddling contests in Lovington, N.M., and Pecos. He said he's managed to attend about 13 contests this year.

Second place winner in the fiddling contest, over 50 division, was Hoyle Nix. Nix, owner of the Stampede in Big Spring, said he's been playing the fiddle since he was six years old.

He's also been playing with a western band for more than 35 years, he said Tuesday. Nix and the West Texas Cowboys are a popular draw on Saturday nights in Big Spring.

Third place winner in the over 50 division was Don Tolle.

Citizen airs views on gas rate increase

By BILLELDER
Staff Writer

A chance for city residents to air their views on a proposed natural gas rate increase turned into an opportunity for one man to tell the Big Spring City Council he thought increase was "excessive" and should be denied.

The council, in concert with other West Texas cities served by Energas, has suspended the gas company's proposal until December in order to analyze the 18.5 percent increase.

One of the reasons for the hiatus is to get public sentiment on the proposal. To receive such sentiments, the council scheduled a public hearing on the issue Tuesday night.

As the lone speaker before the council, city resident Mark Miller said the rate increase would be hard for many residents to absorb.

"This town is a small town. A lot of its citizens are retired persons," Miller said. "That eighteen percent is a lot of money that would be pretty hard for a lot of our citizens to come by."

In conclusion, Miller told the council that Energas should accept "less profit for the common good."

That may be just what the gas company does. A company spokesman told the council last month that Energas was taking in $22 million less than the cost of service and was seeking to recover only $18 million of the deficit.

A gas company representative was in attendance at last night's meeting but did not speak. The next step in the proposed increase should come in December, when the cities have analyzed the request and received an advisory opinion from the agency that regulates the natural gas industry in Texas — the state Railroad Commission.

In another item of council business affected by some sharp public sentiments, the council took action to put to bid the water and sewer aspects of the city's capital improvements program. Bids will be accepted for alternate methods of completing the projects in several neighborhoods, most notably Washington Place.

Residents from that neighborhood went before the council to air their views last month when informed that their property would be dug up according to one plan for replacing water lines in the area.

While the council took note of what the homeowners had to say, it's expected that their final decision on where to put the water lines in Washington Place will hinge for the most part on economic factors — on the best bid and cheapest construction cost.

The council is looking at two plans presented by the Lubbock firm drafting the city's capital improvements projects: one that would leave the lines in the backs of the properties (which most of the homeowners seem to want, because it means less digging around their homes) and one that calls for laying the lines out front of the homes (which the council appears to prefer, since it allows for easier access to the lines for maintenance).

The problem with laying the lines along the streets is that customer lines will have to rerouted through the homeowners' properties.

"We will be going through front gates and tunnelling under fences," said Bennett Reeves, president of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper of Lubbock.

What about problems resulting from that, asked Councilman Russ McEwen. Wouldn't homeowners unhappy with the plan cause the city extra expense if it seeks to accommodate them?

"We're not going to be able to put everything back the way it was,"

SPOKE AGAINST GAS INCREASE — City resident Mark Miller told the Big Spring City Council that a rate increase proposed by Energas is "excessive" and should be denied. Miller was the lone speaker at a Tuesday night public hearing on the increase.

Reaves conceded, adding that equipment would be used which does the least amount of damage.

In a related matter, the council approved a $55,000 loan from the First National Bank in Big Spring. The loan is in the form of a promissory note and must be repaid at eight percent interest by Sept. 30, 1982.

The loan is part of an original commitment of $285,000, explained City Manager Don Davis. The funds will be used for street improvements and will be repaid with assessments on properties along the improved streets.

In other action, the council gave temporary approval to a plan suggested by Police Chief Elwood Hoherz. The chief wants to cut back on the amount of time spent investigating minor traffic accidents, citing the growing number of other Texas cities which have followed a similar procedure.

SUSPECT TRANSFERRED — Steve Harper, 41, of 1506 A. Virginia, left, is shown as he was transferred to county jail today. Harper is charged with capital murder, aggravated assault and aggravated rape in a series of incidents which occurred Saturday. Bonds of $100,000 for the capital murder charge, and $50,000 each for the other two charges were set on Harper by Justice of the Peace Bobby West. Harper remains in county jail.

Reagan may not delay SS benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan apparently has ruled out proposing a delay in Social Security cost-of-living benefits as part of a new round of budget cuts, congressional sources said today.

But Reagan, making the final decisions on a new round of cuts to be proposed when he addresses the nation via television Thursday night, still has under consideration recommendations to delay similar increases in several other social welfare programs, according to the sources, who requested anonymity.

The sources stressed that the president has not yet made final decisions on his package, and stressed that changes are possible.

"I want to reassure the Congress and the public that this administration intends to follow through on its program," Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan told the House Budget Committee on Tuesday.

That means, he said, as many more non-defense spending cuts as necessary to balance the federal budget and no retreat on the tax cut enacted just last month.

Regan testified after the president invited the nation to "tune in at 9 o'clock" EDT Thursday night to hear him outline his latest round of budget cuts, a $16.3 billion package for fiscal 1982 that many of his fellow Republicans fear would take too much from social programs and too little from the military.

Asked by reporters in the White House Rose Garden if the nationally broadcast speech would offer "tough facts" about the economy, Regan replied, "Yes."

The treasury secretary offered his own tough talk on Capitol Hill, saying the administration has reached "the point when previous administrations have cracked under pressure and dramatically revised policy."

"To restore the confidence of the financial markets and the public... we must continue to specify and adopt the spending reductions needed to bring the budget deficit down to its target level of $42.5 billion in fiscal year 1982, and into balance in fiscal year 1984," Regan said.

"We shall do this realistically, calmly, confidently and very stubbornly," he added. "We shall keep our balance and composure. So will the economy."

Regan dismissed suggestions by some of Reagan's congressional supporters that the cuts in personal income tax scheduled for 1982 and 1983 be deferred as a way of reducing the deficit without cutting Social Security.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Abuses of IRS

Q. I've heard there is a new book out written by a former member of the Internal Revenue Service telling how the agency abuses its powers in collecting taxes. What is the book's name and author?

The author was not with the IRS, he's a U.S. representative who serves on the House Banking and Domestic Monetary Affairs Committee.

"How the IRS Seizes Your Dollars and How to Fight Back," by Rep. George Hansen and congressional staff research assistant Larry Anderson, is a book about illegal searches by the IRS without court warrants, confiscation of property without due process, public humiliation, coercion, violation of privacy rights and cover-ups of indiscretions.

Hansen fully documents dangerous misuses of power by the nation's largest bureaucratic agency. He also lists possible legislative remedies to the situation and ways private folks can avoid problems with the IRS.

The book is now on the shelves and if you can't find it in bookstores, it's available for $6.95 plus $1 postage through Trade Paperback Publishing Group, Division of Simon & Schuster, 1230 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Close to 5,000 enjoying Fair

Close to 5,000 people had filed through the Howard County Fair as of Tuesday night, according to Mrs. W.R. Posey, secretary-treasurer of the fair association.

Figures tallied by fair association volunteers showed that 4,813 people had bought tickets at the gate as the fair shut down for the night on Tuesday.

This morning, more than 500 children and adults were milling through the fair, said Ruth Mitchell, secretary-manager of the fair.

Attendance, as the fair enters its third day, "has more than doubled over last year," said the women.

Results in various divisions at the fair are being posted now. Some of the results in various divisions are listed here:

- Stockings — Mrs. Guin Griggby, 2 Mrs. David Huff, 3 Mrs. David Huff, 3 Ann McCoy, Sandy McCutcheon, Dee Foreysyth.

Accident policy is discussed

Continued from page 1. Hoherz says the new policy is needed because of limited manpower and would result in officers spending about half the time they now spend on "fender benders."

Major accidents — for example, those involving deaths, alcohol or the absence of a driver's license — would still be investigated fully as the state requires, Hoherz said.

Under the new policy, basically what a traffic officer would do in the case of a minor accident is make sure it doesn't fit the definition of a major accident, make sure the parties have valid driver's licenses and have exchanged insurance information, and then the officer would drive on.

Councilman Larry Miller suggested the council implement the plan on a temporary basis.

"I'd like to see at least six months. I don't think you'd get a fair evaluation before that," Hoherz said.

Smith eventually went along with his colleagues, who approved the donation of the 14 bikes as well as future bicycles recovered by the city and held for the mandatory 60-day period.

Published a list of items to go up for auction at the city Industrial Park Oct. 3. Dub Bryant, who won by bid the right to conduct the auction, will be selling everything from bugles to trucks — call City Hall for more information.

Heard from Don Davis that the cleanup of the historic spring has been completed. The spring was drained after two pumps feeding it failed recently. Davis said the spring "looks good" and indicated future problems should be reduced since the pumps have been bypassed and the spring now gets its water from an underground storage tank.

LEAVING FOR ENGLAND — Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hart prepare to board a plane for the first leg of their trip to England. The Harts left Big Spring last Thursday for England, and plan to return Thursday. The trip was part of a retirement gift for Hart, who recently retired after 48 years with the Big Spring Herald.

Police Beat

Vandal spikes automobile

Henry Holguin, of 2602 Hunter complained to police that he was backing out of his driveway at about 5 a.m. today when his car rolled over several spikes deliberately placed there, police said.

David McWherter, 27, complained to police that his motor vehicle was parked at the county fairgrounds Monday when the battery was stolen from the vehicle, police said.

Police arrested Juan Leon, 29, at 1:35 a.m. today on a charge of probation violation. Leon is to be turned over to the Midland County Sheriff's Office, police said.

Motor vehicles driven by Danny Chavez of 400 N.W. 11th and Dora Juarez of 1003 N.W. Second collided in the 200 block of East 10th at about 8 a.m. Tuesday, police said.

Jeans driven by Daniel Heckler of 4202 Parkway and Leo Nix of 2508 Peach collided at the intersection of Third and Goliad at about 10 a.m. Tuesday, police said.

Deportation hearings for Haitians suspended

By BILL ELDER, Staff Writer. Deportation hearings for some 800 Haitians imprisoned in the U.S. — including 100 in the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp on the edge of town — were suspended today as the federal government was slapped with its second restraining order.

Camp Superintendent John Allman told The Herald that he heard this morning from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Florida that the hearings could not continue.

The hearings were blocked earlier this month by a 10-day restraining order issued by a federal judge in Miami after a Haitian aid center filed a lawsuit protesting the hearings.

In its suit, the Haitian Refugee Center claimed the Haitians involved in the deportation process were not receiving adequate legal help.

Allman said he didn't know how long the current restraining order would be in effect.

"It's getting to be a very serious situation," he said. "It's very difficult to explain this to the Haitians. I don't know how long they're going to sit back and take this."

Most of the Big Spring Haitians have been detained in the U.S. since early last summer, when they entered the country in search of jobs.

An INS deportation officer at the camp said she had just heard of the new restraining order, but had no details.

Tech alumna receives nutrition fellowship

HOUSTON — Debra Buchanan, a Ph.D. student at The University of Texas School of Public Health, is a recipient of the Lydia J. Roberts Fellowship in Public Health Nutrition, sponsored by the American Dietetic Association Foundation.

Buchanan, a Big Spring native, is in the second year of her doctoral program at UT. She spent the summer as a research dietitian at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

Buchanan received her undergraduate degree and her master's from Texas Tech University. Between the two she completed a dietetic internship at the University of Arizona. She hopes to teach nutrition at the university level after her anticipated graduation in May 1983.

DEBRA BUCHANAN —

New law will save Texas taxpayers $20 million?

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office Monday reminded Texans that a new state inheritance tax law took effect this month and will apply to estates of those who died on or after Sept. 1, 1981.

The Comptroller's office reported the new law will save Texas taxpayers at least $20 million in death taxes the first year.

The new law did away with the state's basic inheritance tax schedule and statutes, replacing them with a law that ties Texas inheritance tax collections to a part of the federal estate taxes owed.

For example, under the old state law if the federal tax due was $5,000, the "federal credit" would be $500 and the state inheritance tax, resulting in the Internal Revenue Service collecting $4,500 and Texas $700.

Under the new law, Texas would now collect the "federal credit" of $500 and the IRS would collect $4,500, using the $5,000 exemption.

In effect, the new law allows persons who owe federal estate taxes to deduct from the amount due to the federal government any inheritance tax paid to the state. The amount is determined by an IRS formula.

The Comptroller's office said this also means that if federal estate tax rates are cut, Texas inheritance taxes are automatically dropped back.

More than 45 other states have similar laws that piggyback on the federal law.

Estates of those who died before Sept. 1, 1981 are subject to Texas' old inheritance tax law and tax schedule, Bullock's office noted.

Budget, gas rate increase items on Coahoma agenda

COAHOMA — A regular meeting of the city council will be held at Coahoma City Hall Thursday at 7:30 p.m., according to City Clerk Sharon Grant.

The following items will be discussed: the purchase of fire-proof filing cabinets, the acceptance of the budget, the repair of a maintainer, and the 1981 Century Club Membership in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Other topics include the filling of a vacancy in the city council, water and sewer for the Spiller and Harding housing development, and a rate increase discussion from Energas.

Orvel Knight will also discuss water lines in Sand Springs for a new housing development.

Deaths

Lois Rogers. STAMFORD — Mrs. C.L. (Lois) Rogers, 71, of Stamford died at 6 a.m. Tuesday at Stamford Memorial Hospital. Services will be 11 a.m. Thursday at Central Baptist Church, directed by Stamford Funeral Home.

Survivors include her husband, C.L. Rogers of Stamford; a daughter, Mrs. Harold Doris Welch of Roscoe; four brothers, Norris Ramey of Ozark, Ala., Grady Ramey and Edgar Ramey, both of Abilene, and Edwin Ramey of Lubbock; six sisters, Mrs. Fate Redden of Houston, Mrs. Ralph Tunnell of Lubbock, Mrs. Bill Norris of Slayton, Mrs. R.G. Thompson of Wimerley, Mrs. John Chambers of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Mrs. Leman Underwood Jr. of Perryton; three grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.

The Rev. Thomas Ed Wright will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Roger Duck. Burial will be in Highland Memorial Cemetery.

John Shephard. John Jeffery Shephard, 22, died Tuesday in Odessa, Mo., as a result of a truck accident. Services are pending with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Born Sept. 17, 1910, in Hunt County, she attended Greenville schools and graduated from Albany High School. She had lived in Albany and in Las Cruces, N.M., and Lordsburg, N.M. She was a member of Central Baptist Church.

Tillman Morgan. Tillman Douglas Morgan, 71, died at the VA hospital in Big Spring after a lengthy illness. Services will be today at 2 p.m. in the Church of Christ in Stanton with Darrel McWhorter, minister, officiating. Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

Cook foreman selected employee of month at local prison camp

Don C. Cobbs, cook foreman, has been selected "Employee of the Month" at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp for the month of August, 1981.

According to officials at the camp, the award is presented to an employee who has demonstrated above average or outstanding performance, or who has provided a special service or contribution to a special program.

Survivors include her husband, C.L. Rogers of Stamford; a daughter, Mrs. Harold Doris Welch of Roscoe; four brothers, Norris Ramey of Ozark, Ala., Grady Ramey and Edgar Ramey, both of Abilene, and Edwin Ramey of Lubbock; six sisters, Mrs. Fate Redden of Houston, Mrs. Ralph Tunnell of Lubbock, Mrs. Bill Norris of Slayton, Mrs. R.G. Thompson of Wimerley, Mrs. John Chambers of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Mrs. Leman Underwood Jr. of Perryton; three grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.

During the month of August, Cobbs was designated acting food service administrator in the absence of his supervisor. He assumed this responsibility, along with his normal duties, with the maturity of a seasoned individual and employee. Additionally, he was instrumental in forming the logistics of the Haitian feeding program.

There was no special reason for Cobbs suddenly scheduling an examination at this time, Heckmann said. "He just decided that he hadn't had one in a long time."

Clements will undergo physical exam today

Harte Hanks Austin Bureau. AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements will undergo a lengthy but routine physical examination today, an aide said Tuesday.

Mark Heckmann, deputy press secretary, said the governor wasn't had an examination for several years and decided last week to schedule one.

Something of a mystery developed last Friday when Heckmann announced that all the governor's appointments for Wednesday had been canceled and refused to give a reason. The printed agenda for the governor's week said only that he would be out of the office all that day.

Heckmann said he hadn't wanted to announce anything about the examination until he had Clements' permission. The governor was in Washington, D.C. Friday and returned to his office Tuesday.

Dick Donell

Dick Donell, 60, formerly of Big Spring, died yesterday at Lake Buchanan after a short illness.

There was no special reason for Clements suddenly scheduling an examination at this time, Heckmann said. "He just decided that he hadn't had one in a long time."

Other noted guests expected are Dr. Earl Nance, professor of sociology at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin. Dr. James Olson, professor of psychology and anthropology of UTPB and TJCTE president-elect Pat Megwasser of the Hurst Independent School District.

Teachers of English to meet in Stanton

STANTON — The Texas Joint Council of Teachers of English has announced a meeting of its members Saturday afternoon in the Stanton High School Auditorium.

John Styles, general chairman of TJCTE, said registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., followed by programs throughout the morning and a luncheon at 1 p.m.

Teachers from the elementary to college levels will attend. Teachers are expected from Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Howard, Andrews, Crane, Dawson, Borden, Covington, Martin, Midland, Reagan, Upton, Ward and Winkler counties.

Former AG Kleindienst acquitted on all counts

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Former U.S. Attorney General Richard Kleindienst broke down in tears and sobbed, "I'm OK, I'm OK," as a Superior Court jury announced it had found him innocent on all 12 counts in his perjury trial.

Margaret Kleindienst sat with her arm around her husband's shoulder as the bailiff read off the verdict on each count Tuesday night. Daughter Carrie, 22, was crying alongside her mother.

Kleindienst's son, Wallace, one of the defense lawyers, rushed to shake his hand.

"I'm glad it's over, and I will elaborate more tomorrow," the elder Kleindienst told reporters.

The jury, which got the case earlier in the day, deliberated for nearly 8½ hours.

Jury foreman Dick Meaker, of suburban Scottsdale, told reporters the determining factor for the jury "was a lack of good evidence from the state."

Kleindienst, 58, the nation's chief law enforcement officer in 1972 and 1973, could have faced a maximum sentence of 100 years in prison if convicted.

The perjury charges were based on Kleindienst's testimony under oath at State Bar of Arizona disciplinary hearings in 1978 and 1980. The bar was probing his conduct in 1976 as corporate lawyer for Joseph Hauser, mastermind of a multimillion-dollar insurance scheme. Hauser subsequently was convicted of four counts of bribery conspiracy.

In three days on the stand, Kleindienst said he also was a victim of Hauser and Hauser's associates, "not their co-conspirator." Kleindienst, now a Tucson lawyer, denied lying to the state bar.

Earlier in the trial, Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Gerald Strick dropped two of the original 14 perjury counts.

In closing arguments on Monday, chief defense lawyer Michael Scott called the perjury case against Kleindienst a sham. Prosecutor Ronald Collett said the evidence against him was "overwhelming."

Collett said after the verdict was announced that while the trial issues were complex, "I thought the evidence went well and was easy to understand."

He said he had been informed that an investigation is pending with the federal government "concerning similar facts developed in this trial." Asked if it involved Kleindienst, he said, "I believe so."

Collett did not elaborate and did not say whether Kleindienst was a target of the probe.

Asked if he was surprised by the verdict, Collett said, "I'd have to say yes."

Reagan wants 'solid' relations with Soviets

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Reagan has told Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev he wants to establish a U.S.-Soviet relationship that recognizes the legitimate interests of both nations, the State Department says.

"The United States is fully prepared to take into account legitimate Soviet interests, if the Soviets are willing to do the same with ours," said a State Department spokesman in a presidential letter which department spokesman Dean Fischer said was delivered in Moscow Tuesday.

The summary said this "framework of mutual respect" could lead to "a more solid and more enduring basis for U.S.-Soviet relations than we ever had before."

Reagan's conciliatory approach, after eight months of harsh anti-Soviet statements by his administration, appeared to try to set a constructive tone for the meeting here later today between Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The meeting was called to arrange for negotiations to restrain deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe. Reagan said he hoped the meeting, the highest-level contact so far between his administration and the Soviets, will start a process leading toward genuine arms reductions.

Gromyko in an address to the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday said the Soviet Union is "prepared to hold negotiations on all areas of limiting the arms race and of disarmament." But he and the president each accused the other's government of stepping up the arms race in an attempt to achieve military superiority.

Reagan accused the Soviets of "an unremitting and comprehensive military buildup...which carries disturbing implications of a search on the part of the Soviet Union for military superiority," according to the summary of his letter.

Gromyko said the two nations have attained a military balance, the Reagan administration is "whipping up the arms race," and his government will match any such efforts.

The administration is under pressure from its European allies to work out an accord prior to the scheduled start of the deployment of medium-range U.S. missiles in West Germany, Italy and England beginning in late 1983.

Gromyko in his speech called for a freeze on deployment of the missiles in Europe once the negotiations begin. But U.S. officials argue that the Soviets already have deployed about 250 of their SS-20 missiles, and it would be unacceptable to leave them in place if the United States holds off on deployment of its missiles.

U.S. negotiators will insist on the "principle of equality," said a State Department official who didn't want to be identified. "This means that if they are allowed 600 nuclear systems, then that is what we will have," he said. He added that he picked the number 600 at random.

The administration wants to begin the negotiations in mid-November or later. The State Department official said they could go on for years.

A&M student blackmailed man accused in death, defense says

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — Lawyers for a Texas A&M student on trial for capital murder in the stabbing death of another student contend that the victim blackmailed their client for money and drugs.

Defense attorney Doug Mulder produced former Secret Service handwriting expert James Lewis Tuesday, who testified that a list of drugs was written by Frederick Youngberg IV, 19.

Youngberg was killed in his apartment April 20. His body was found with 24 stab wounds and signs of rectal damage, police said.

Mulder, representing Joel Anciento Quintans, told a state court jury the note, which named several drugs including valium, was a shopping list of items

Youngberg had demanded Quintans obtain by using his father's prescription pad.

Quintans' father is a Dallas heart surgeon.

The defense contends that Youngberg also demanded $3,500, which Mulder says Youngberg badly needed to pay to cocaine dealers. Mulder says Youngberg threatened to tell police Quintans had stolen stereo equipment from him if he refused.

Quintans was on probation for bicycle theft at the time.

The testimony followed activity Monday in which District Attorney Travis Bryan III attempted to demonstrate that Quintans lied in saying that Youngberg's khaki shorts were pulled down to his knees when he dragged the body across the floor.

Shuttle damage assessed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The space shuttle Columbia, hampered by problems and delays prior to its first successful launch in April, has had its second journey postponed for as much as a month or more following a fuel spill on the launchpad.

The delay of the scheduled Oct. 9 launch could last from a week to more than a month depending on the extent of damage to tile bonding material and whether propellant leaked into the spacecraft's maneuvering system, launch operations director George Page said.

In the predawn mishap Tuesday, several gallons of nitrogen tetroxide, an oxidizer, spilled on an area at least 18 to 20 feet long and two to six feet wide on the orbiter's nose near the cockpit. At least 67 heat-protective tiles fell off or were removed, and up to 250 may have been affected, Page said.

The silica tiles themselves did not appear to be damaged, he said, but adhesive attaching them to the space plane's aluminum skin was destroyed or rendered ineffective. Page said he hoped the tiles could be reset while the shuttle remained on Launchpad 39A.

Weather

NATIONAL WEATHER MAP — The National Weather Service for Thursday forecasts rain for the eastern coast of Maine, and showers for some of the Great Plains states, and the Great Lakes region including southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

Storms forecast for western Texas

By The Associated Press

Widely scattered thunderstorms were forecast today for the western half of Texas.

Scattered thundershowers were reported in Northwest Texas early today. A few showers were reported in central sections of the coastal plains during the night, but that activity had dissipated by early today.

Forecasts called for cloudy skies with widely scattered thunderstorms over the western half of the state and for partly cloudy skies over the eastern half. Highs were to be in the 80s and 90s.

Skies were mostly cloudy around the state early today. Fog was reported during the pre-dawn hours in portions of Southeast Texas.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s. Extremes ranged from 64 at Dalhart to 75 at Childress, Victoria, Galveston and McAllen.

A warm front along the New England coast caused rain from New Jersey to Maine early today, while skies were clear from the south Atlantic coast to the lower Mississippi River valley.

There was fair weather over the Ohio River valley, the Great Lakes and the middle and upper Mississippi River valley, and clear skies prevailed over most of California and Nevada. Skies over Utah and Arizona were partly cloudy.

More rain was forecast for New England and eastern New York later today, and scattered showers were expected over the Pacific coast. Scattered thundershowers were forecast for southern Florida and from west Texas to southern Arizona.

Skies were expected to be cloudy over the upper Mississippi valley and sunny across most of the rest of the nation.

Temperatures early today ranged from 29 degrees in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to 83 degrees in Thermal, Calif.

Some other reports:

Eastern U.S. — Atlanta 64 fair, Boston 56 cloudy, Buffalo 45 fair, Charleston, S.C. 70 fair, Cincinnati 49 fair, Cleveland 50 partly cloudy, Detroit 42 fair, Miami 75 partly cloudy, Nashville 61 hazy, New York 58 partly cloudy, Philadelphia 56 partly cloudy, Washington 56 clear.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy with a slight chance of showers and thundershowers Friday through Sunday. A little cooler Sunday. Lows in the mid 50s north to the mid 40s south Friday; cooling into the 50s in most sections by Sunday. Highs mostly in the 80s Friday and in the mid 70s north to the 80s south by Sunday.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Cloudy with a chance of showers or thundershowers through tonight. Mostly cloudy with a slight chance of showers or thundershowers Thursday. Highs mid 80s mountains and north to upper 90s Big Bend. Lows 50s except mid 50s mountains and low 70s Big Bend.

Texas sinkhole grows dramatically overnight

DAISETTA, Texas (AP) — A sinkhole dormant for more than a decade grew 220 feet overnight, swallowing clumps of earth, trees and abandoned trucks and panicking residents of this Southeast Texas town perched atop the nation's largest underground petrochemical storage dome, authorities said.

The cone-shaped depression, first discovered in 1969, grew from 30 feet to 250 feet wide and sunk from 15 feet to 30 feet deep, authorities said.

Sinkholes in the West Texas town of Wink and in Florida also have nibbled away dirt, trees, telephone lines, swimming pools and anything else in their paths.

A state government agency monitoring the Daisetta crater says it doesn't know what caused the sudden collapse, but the town's 1,100 residents and Gulf Oil Co., have their own ideas.

"It's not an abyss or anything. It's like a sloping valley," said Gulf spokesman Mike Kumpf.

A Gulf contract worker noticed the enlarged hole in this oil field town east of Houston last Saturday while checking a salt water disposal well on a four-acre tract owned by Gulf. A road leading into the facility sunk about one foot and was crisscrossed by large cracks.

Celestine Fregia, 31, who now lives about 30 feet from the sinkhole, said she was awakened by yells to "get out because everything is caving in."

As she and her husband started to leave, Mrs. Fregia, the driveway sank about a foot, cracks appeared about the perimeter of her yard and a natural gas line broke.

Authorities said there have been no ground shifts other than "some rumbblings" on Sunday, but the experience left residents feeling uneasy.

"I can't rest and relax at night since this happened," said Doshie Sims, 55, a vacuum-truck company dispatcher, who lives 12 yards from the huge hole.

Inspectors from the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the state's oil and gas industries, have been watching the sinkhole since Saturday but still do not know what caused the ground to cave in.

"We haven't been able to relate it to any oil or gas or saltwater disposal at the moment. It could have been a natural occurrence. We just don't know," said Inspector Roy Gann.

Residents are convinced saltwater from the brine disposal well about 30 feet from the crater may have caused the ground to collapse by washing away some of the soil below the surface.

But Kumpf said the incident probably was a natural occurrence.

"We feel most likely it was a natural phenomenon which caused it, such as underground water acquirers washing out subsurface structures," he said. "You have to realize that the sinkhole has been just sitting there since 1969 until Saturday, and we've had a disposal well near that site since 1925."

He said that if the disposal well would have caused the collapse, the ground would have sunken further because the well brings several hundred feet below the earth's surface.

In the meantime, he said, Gulf has shut down the well indefinitely.

Man says voices told him mother was devil

HOUSTON (AP) — A man facing murder charges told police that he shot his mother's head off and pulled her heart out because people and voices had convinced him she was the devil.

A tape of Peter Larry Mascio's statement was played for a state district court jury Tuesday after he pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity.

His mother, Julia Mascio, 59, was killed in February 1980.

Psychiatrist Jerome B. Brown, who works with the Harris County Psychiatric Hospital, said in a court-ordered examination last year that the defendant "has been and continues to be severely mentally ill." Brown is expected to testify in the case.

A jury concluded in July 1980 that Mascio was not mentally competent to stand trial. He was sent to Rusk State Hospital for treatment. Authorities there said in September 1980 that he had responded to treatment and could now stand trial.

The Mascio's next-door neighbors, Cameron and Catherine Sevier, testified that Mascio returned to his mother's house from California the day before the slaying.

They told prosecutors Charley Davidson and Bob Moon that Mascio seemed coherent and responsive in his brief conversation with him that night.

Sevier said he called police the next morning after his wife saw through a window that Mrs. Mascio's body was lying in a hallway.

He said he led police into the house, where they discovered the decapitated body.

"The next thing I knew, I was out on the lawn on my knees asking the Lord to take it (the scene) away from me," said Sevier, an engineer.

This year's fair outstanding

Have you been to the fair yet? This year's Howard County Fair is outstanding, and the organizers are to be congratulated for the excellent job they have done.

Many county fairs are nice, but this one has an extra zing and flavor that makes the going worthwhile.

IT SIMPLY IS NOT a fair you walk through quickly and then leave, unimpressed.

There are too many fascinating exhibits to stop and look at, too many people you know to bump into, too much food — too many sights, sounds and smells to entertain all the senses. The bright lights, the animals, the carnival, the laughing children — all these are part of the fair.

There's something new and exciting about it, and at the same time there's something medievally ancient about it — which makes it all the more fun.

THE FAIR IS LAID OUT better than most fairs — spread out enough that you can stop and visit the individual booths and exhibits, but crowded enough to be comfortably cozy.

The caliber of the contest entries is truly remarkable — from the watermelons to the canned goods to the hobbies and crafts — you name it, it's there. And the "Over 60" category has a little bit of everything in it. It's all displayed very attractively.

Of course the businessmen have done a good job of providing interesting booths displaying their wares, and if you like to sign up for free prizes, you should be in hog heaven.

Howard County may have gone without a fair for many years, but what it lacks in history and longevity it has made up with vitality.

Don't miss it.

Federal employee raps editorials

Dear Madam Editor:

In recent editorials you have suggested members of Congress "dump their lucrative" pensions and that federal employees, as a group, should be an example in the fight against inflation.

You produced some statistics to "prove" that the 48 percent increase in federal salary met the average private sector increase in July, although you supplied first and second quarter 1981 figures, which on an annual basis would produce significantly higher increases in compensation for private sector employees.

AS I PAID THE more than 48 percent increase in cost for home delivery for The Herald and contemplate the increases in bank interest, utility rates, projected tax and insurance increases, and food and fuel costs, all more than 48 percent. I am comforted to know that I, as a federal employee, am on the front line in the fight against inflation. If I don't like the way things are, I can always get active in politics and work to get my candidate in office.

Excuse me, I can't do that. Under the Hatch Act, I cannot participate in partisan politics. Maybe then I could bargain with my employer for more pay.

Pardon me, as a federal employee I can't negotiate wages. Well, that's not so bad, the Pay Comparability Act provides for the Pay Agent to submit a recommendation to the President, which will come into effect if the President does not offer another plan and is not overridden by Congress in his recommendation.

Oops, not once in the seven years I have been in Civil Service has the Pay Agent's recommendation been followed or statistics have not been fiddled with in making the recommendation.

Not to worry, the Civil Service is organized to keep the political hacks out so as to provide better service to the people. But recent changes in law provide for more political appointees than in years past. So, at least I can be assured of an adequate retirement (wholly taxable after my seven percent of gross salary contribution is paid out and designed as total retirement support, unlike Social Security, a partial support). Sorry, now the politicians want to tinker with that.

THE ISSUE ISN'T inflation, taxation, or a balanced budget. The issue is fair treatment of federal employees. The vaunted oath not to strike was freely taken with the understanding that the government would follow the rules of the ball game with its employees. Some question if the rules are being followed.

Certain of the press take no small delight in scapegoating federal workers. If The Herald's editor had a "3 martini" business lunch nothing would be said. If a federal executive in Big Spring had the same "3 martini" business lunch eyebrows might well be raised. The $50,000 a year insurance salesman is a credit to his community. The federal agency executive at $50,000 a year is a bloated bureaucrat.

Before jotting down the next so-ey-to-write "kick the feds while they're down" editorial, I suggest you obtain more information. The several federal agencies in Big Spring would be happy to answer your questions about federal employment practices. After all, that's what you pay them to do.

United Nations alchemy

Joseph Kraft

UNITED NATIONS, New York — The true function of the United Nations finds expression in the agenda for the General Assembly session that began here last week. The main topics are boring, bureaucratic versions of items that originally came here as hot political issues.

Transmitting the burning to the boring is what the world body has come to, which is why Kurt Waldheim, an artist in U.N. alchemy, is apt to be re-elected for an unprecedented third term as Secretary General.

Afghanistan, to begin at the top of the alphabet, presents a nice case in point. The Soviet invasion of December 25, 1979, has set the world. The General Assembly has already condemned the aggression and will do so again. But since no country cares to take action, the issue was left to the Secretary General. He has appointed an international mediator who is trying to work out a local understanding that would permit Soviet withdrawal. So at the U.N., the big question is how the mediator can initiate negotiations between the puppet regime in Afghanistan and the neighboring countries of Iran and Pakistan.

CAMBODIA PROVIDES another example. The Vietnamese invasion of 1978 was also a brutal act of aggression. After the Chinese took an unsuccessful whack at military retaliation, the U.N. came into the picture. A committee of interested countries was established under an Australian diplomat. Now the question is how the committee can make fruitful contact with the regime in Hanoi.

Israel, this year as in the past, is due to be a storm center of debate. Four wars have already attended the birth struggle of the Jewish state, and in the last two Russia and the U.S. took opposite sides. But at the U.N., the issue is seen largely as one of developing procedures for accommodation between the Israeli authorities and the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization. Thus, perhaps the leading achievement of the world body in the past five years was eliciting from Yasser Arafat the PLO's adherence to the cease-fire recently worked out by the U.S. between Israel and the Lebanon.

Waldheim, who is now winding up his second five-year term, positively excels at the art of hiding issues in procedure. An Austrian who fought on the losing side in World War II and then made himself acceptable to the Americans and the Russians, he is not an inspired enthusiast for any cause. Rather he is a hard working, orderly, courteous and extremely cautious diplomat. His case for a third term is the case of a bureaucrat. In a chat in his office the other day, he told me:

"WHATEVER WORKS is charged to the credit of bilateral diplomacy by the countries involved. What doesn't work is thrown into the U.N. This place is a depository for insoluble problems."

That appraisal is deemed defeatist by many. The newly independent countries of the Third World, in particular, would prefer a more activist Secretary General. But the most prominent Third World candidate for the post, Tanzanian Foreign Minister Salim Ahmed Salim, does not even command the support of India or Latin America, let alone Russia and the U.S.

Waldheim's modest view of U.N. capabilities, moreover, is not merely a self-serving argument.

ABSCAM prosecutor unfit

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The proposed appointment of ABSCAM prosecutor Thomas Puccio as U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia is an outrage.

In recent columns, I have detailed the sleazy tactics Puccio used to trap members of Congress in the FBI's fake influence-peddling scheme. After directing the legislators' incriminating videotape performances from behind the scenes, Puccio emerged to take on the high-visibility role of grand inquisitor at their trials.

His apparent reward for successfully terrorizing Congress is to be named to the nation's most prestigious prosecutor's post.

the grand jury documents to a notorious heroin smuggler who was then in federal custody.

The drug dealer, Hovsep C. Caramian, was suspected of having smuggled literally tons of heroin into the United States. While he was in custody and supposedly cooperating with the government, Drug Enforcement Administration agents suspected that he was continuing to traffic in narcotics.

The DEA agents raided Caramian's room and discovered two footlockers crammed with secret government documents. These documents included grand jury transcripts, customs investigative files, informant briefings, the names of special agents and franked, postage-paid envelopes from the U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of New York.

Puccio was the assistant U.S. attorney for that district. Caramian told the DEA that documents, including secret grand jury transcripts, were slipped to him by Puccio "so that he would be more effective in identifying narcotics traffickers," according to the Justice Department memo.

torney's office.

The Caramian-Puccio investigation was turned over to the Justice Department, where it was quietly interred. In response to an inquiry from my office, Puccio claimed he had no memory of being under investigation during the 1975-1976 period.

If Congress has not completely lost its instinct for self-preservation, it should conduct a thorough investigation of Puccio before he is allowed to bring his questionable tactics to the nation's capital.

IN ADDITION to the Caramian connection, here is some documented misbehavior by Puccio in the ABSCAM operation that Congress should look into:

—Weinberg, the FBI's paid talent scout and drama coach, extorted expensive gifts from some of the sting operation's targets. When two prosecutors reported his misconduct to the Justice Department, top officials met with Puccio and discussed ways to cover up Weinberg's outrageous behavior. The two complaining prosecutors were taken off the case.

—Robert C. Stewart, the Justice Department's crime strike force chief in Newark, N.J., accused Puccio of misleading him about the investigation of Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J. In an internal memo, Stewart wrote that Puccio told him the senator had acknowledged having a hidden interest in a titanium mine that was at the core of his ABSCAM trial. "Many months later, when we finally obtained the tapes, the situation proved to be quite different," Stewart wrote. "Williams did not say that he had an interest, hidden or otherwise — only that he was interested."

HEADLINES & FOOTNOTES: Donald Woods, a white South African newspaper editor who fled his homeland, believes that recent Reagan administration actions have given the United States a black eye in the Third World.

What he's referring to are the recent U.S. veto in the United Nations of a resolution condemning South Africa and the current tour of the Springbok rugby team in this country. The team is virtually all-white — it has one token black player, even though the integrated South African Rugby Union boasts 236,000 black "ruggers."

Woods predicted that the U.N. veto and the Springbok tour will "negate all the brownie points the United States won in the Third World when the Soviets invaded Afghanistan."

—Poland's economic crisis has created a nationwide black market for hard foreign currency as the zloty becomes increasingly worthless. Poles are willing to pay up to eight times the official rate to obtain dollars, pounds or German marks.

Around the rim Not two of a kind

Tina Miller

In this day of rising divorce rates, many books have been written and many theories ventured as to the reasons for this alarming problem. Problems such as money, in-laws, lack of communication and scores of others have been cited.

But in looking for some deep, underlying problem the simple and the obvious are often overlooked. Sometimes the problem surfaces on the first morning of the honeymoon. The happy couple wakes up only to discover that one of them is a Morning Person and the other a Night Person. The problem becomes more pronounced when the couple must return to the real world of alarm clocks and work schedules.

THE ALARM GOES OFF at 6 a.m. Hubby immediately jumps out of bed and does 50 push ups while humming "Oh, What A Beautiful Morning," then shakes his wife's shoulder and says, "Honey, it's time to wake up." The only reply he will receive to this "87+" as Honey buries her head in her pillow.

For breakfast he wants two eggs, sausage, hash browns and toast. She cooks a glass of orange juice with a side order of aspirin. He goes to work 15 minutes early to get a head start. She clocks in 10 minutes late and can't see past the rim of her coffee cup.

As the day progresses, she will eventually cease to growl at everyone at the office and gradually picks up steam as the end of the working day approaches.

AT 5 P.M. HONEY'S DAY is just beginning. She gets home from work, takes a shower, paints her nails and puts on her slinkiest dress. By the time Hubby arrives home, she is ready for a long, romantic night on the town. The budding young executive, however, arrives home at 6 p.m. and barely manages to drag himself up the steps and fall into his favorite easy chair.

At this point loving wife says, "But darling, you promised to take me out for a night on the town." To which Hubby replies, "&?+" and tries to crawl under the chair. After a half hour of gentle persuasion and finally a heated argument, he finally gives in and staggers to the shower. But Honey has neglected to equip the shower with an exhilarating brand of deodorant soap, so poor Hubby falls asleep while leaning on the shower head.

She wants to go dancing for the exercise. He wants to go to a movie so he can sleep. They compromise and go out to dinner, but he falls asleep in his salad. By the time the mismatched pair arrives home, Hubby is walking in his sleep while Honey watches the late movie and practices her disco steps before hitting the hay.

The next morning it's the same song, second verse. But though this conflict of "body clocks" is often frustrating, many couples including Hubby and Honey, do survive and consider themselves lucky. After all, it could be worse. One of their friends can't sleep with the window open, while her husband can't sleep with his shut.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I respect your beliefs as a Christian, but it worries me that you try to convert people who belong to other religions. Why shouldn't we just let people worship God in their own way, regardless of what religion they belong to? — D.A.

DEAR D.A.: At the heart of your view is the assumption that no one religion has the full truth about God, and that it therefore does not really matter what we believe as long as we are sincere about it. But as a Christian I cannot agree with that assumption.

The reason I do not agree with your view is that as a Christian I believe God himself has revealed or shown himself to us. We are not left to grope around in the dark, wondering what God is really like and never being able to say anything for certain about him or come into a personal relationship with him.

Instead, God has shown us what he is like. How has he done this? He has done it by coming down to earth in the person of his Son, Jesus Christ. If you want to know what God is like, look at Christ. As the Bible says, "No one has ever seen God, but God the only Son, who is at the Father's side, has made him known" (John 1:18).

This is why Jesus could say, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me" (John 14:6). It is also why the early Christians knew that Christ "is the image of the invisible God ... For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him ... for in Christ all the fullness of the Deity lives in bodily form" (Colossians 1:15, 19; 2:9). And the proof of this is that Jesus Christ rose from the dead, demonstrating beyond doubt that he alone is God's Son.

Only in Christ will you know the truth about God, but, more than that, only in Christ can you come to have a personal relationship with God. The Bible says we are separated from God because of our sins. But Christ died to take away our sins and reconcile us to God. My prayer for you is that you would look at Jesus Christ — who he is, what he has done for you — and then that you would yield your life to him without reserve.

Never assume cause of hepatitis

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Following is an excerpt from a note I received from the American Liver Foundation in response to my recent discussion of hepatitis.

"Dear Dr. Donohue: We are pleased to read your article on hepatitis A and B. There is a tremendous need for the public to be informed about these diseases. We did, however, receive a letter from the mother of a teenager with chronic active hepatitis and cirrhosis who was upset by the information on transmission of the disease through sexual intercourse. (Some people) write us about being ostracized by uninformed individuals who associate all cirrhosis with alcoholism and drug addiction. Now they have an additional problem with assumed sexual promiscuity. It would be helpful if you could have another discussion, pointing out that it can be transmitted by ear piercing, sharing a cigarette, kissing, or other intimate contact. In addition, environmental chemicals, therapeutic drugs, and other viruses can cause hepatitis." You are right.

There is danger in listing the possible causes of an illness like hepatitis (live inflammation). People seem to be attracted to the most sensational elements of any discussion. Hepatitis can be transmitted in many ways, including those mentioned, and many others — tattooing, for example. People should never assume a specific cause of hepatitis is an individual; never, for example that cirrhosis of the liver is from alcohol abuse. People have this problem without having used, much less abused, alcohol.

I agree, too, that we cannot foster the impression that hepatitis automatically implies sexual promiscuity. That's incorrect.

Readers interested in receiving free literature about such illnesses can write to the foundation of the following address: American Liver Foundation, 30 Sunrise Terrace, Cedar Grove, N.J. 07009.

Judge to rule on Oswald exhumation

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A state judge has given his own ruling blocking the exhumation of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald and a ruling by a Texas appeals court that reversed his decision.

District Judge James E. Wright has been asked by Oswald's brother to issue a second injunction today that would postpone or prohibit Oswald's exhumation.

But attorneys involved in the case say even if Wright refuses to issue the injunction, other obstacles could delay the proposed unearthing of Oswald's grave.

"We have no timetable," said Dallas attorney Jerry Pittman, who represents Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, in her efforts to exhume the body.

A second attorney representing Mrs. Porter, Michael F. Pezzulli, said his client hasn't made arrangements yet for a possible autopsy of the body.

Pezzulli said Mrs. Porter hopes to obtain the services of a medical expert — a pathologist — if her efforts to exhume Oswald's remains are successful.

Still another lawyer involved in the case, Thomas Boswell, said Rose Park Memorial Cemetery in Fort Worth won't cooperate in the exhumation without a separate court order compelling it to do so.

Mrs. Porter and her former brother-in-law, Robert Oswald, are locked in a dispute over the proposed disinterment. Robert Oswald has filed requests for a restraining order and an injunction to keep Mrs. Porter from disturbing Oswald's grave, located in east Fort Worth.

The judge had issued an earlier injunction blocking the proposed exhumation but his ruling was reversed last week by Texas' 2nd Court of Appeals.

Commissioner denies taking kickbacks

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — Former Bowie County Commissioner Bernard Brown denies accepting $14,000 in kickbacks and bribes from 1977 to 1980 and says the county received all the road equipment it paid for during his three years in office.

Brown, 63, testified in federal court Tuesday that four former road equipment salesmen leveled the allegations against him after they became caught up in a continuing federal investigation into corruption among county officials in Oklahoma and East Texas.

"They all have one thing in common," Brown said under cross-examination by special prosecutor John Brown Jr. "They're caught up by you (Hannah) and the FBI — they're fighting for their lives... and they'll say anything," Brown said.

Brown is the first of several East Texas county officials to be tried in the continuing federal investigation into allegations of corruption.

He faces four counts of extortion, two counts of conspiracy and 32 counts of mail fraud. Four other county officials are awaiting trial on similar charges.

If convicted, Brown could face maximum penalties of 10 years in prison and a $50,000 fine on each extortion charge, five years in prison and a $10,000 fine for each conspiracy accusation and five years in prison and a $5,000 fine for each mail fraud charge.

The key prosecution witnesses, Dallas Thompson, 78, of Arlington; Sharron Griffin, 37, of Farris, Okla.; Ms. Griffin's mother-in-law, Dorothy Griffin, also of Farris; and J.F. (Jake) Lands, 66, of Atlanta, Texas, testified they handed Brown bribes and wrote bogus invoices that included charges for equipment that was never delivered. They split the excess payments with Brown, they said.

The jury and about 40 spectators sat silently as Brown studied dozens of county invoices Tuesday showing charges for equipment that allegedly was never delivered.

Brown said of the items listed on the invoices: "We ordered them, they delivered them, we used them and the county paid for them."

Thompson and Lands are awaiting sentencing after pleading guilty to charges of racketeering.

Passbook savers to get break

WASHINGTON (AP) — People who keep their money in passbook savings accounts soon will get a little better break on interest payments, thanks to the action of a sharply divided group of federal financial regulators.

The group won no banks from the already struggling savings and loan institutions that will be paying out a lot of the extra money. One spokesman called the action "a monumental and incredible blunder" and urged Congress to eliminate the group that approved it.

Tuesday's action by the Depository Institutions Deregulation Committee will raise the ceiling on passbook interest from 5.25 percent to 5.75 percent at commercial banks and from 5.5 percent to 6 percent at savings and loans and mutual savings banks.

The change takes effect Nov. 1. The 32 vote for the action came after committee members voted by the same margin against raising the ceiling, even more, by 1 1/2 percentage points.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, chairman of the D.I.C., had proposed the bigger increase "to strike a blow for the little guy" who cannot afford to invest in high-interest, short-term accounts.

He also said the move should help stop the outflow of money from passbook accounts at the S&Ls. Many of them are in financial trouble, at least in part because of competition from unregulated money market mutual funds which pay high interest rates without being encumbered by the low-yielding home loans held by the S&Ls.

D.I.C. member Richard Pratt, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board which oversees the federally insured S&Ls, said the increase would not stop the outflow but would only add to the S&Ls' problems by forcing them to pay higher interest on accounts they already have.

Another committee member, Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker, also opposed both increase proposals, saying that if the ceiling were raised as much as 1 1/2 percentage points, "the safety and soundness of the institutions would be jeopardized."

Lawrence Connell, chairman of the National Credit Union Administration, supported Regan on both votes. William Isaac, a director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. opposed the bigger increase, then proposed the lesser one.

Food stamp program faces more cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Renewed pressure to cut federal spending will leave millions of food stamp recipients with lower benefits than originally anticipated, the administrator of the program acknowledges.

President Reagan will propose another $700 million in cuts by eliminating an April 1982 cost-of-living update of the basic food stamp plan, said the administrator, William Hoagland.

These cuts would come on top of the more than $1.5 billion that Congress slashed from the food stamp program last summer. As part of those savings, Congress authorized a three-month postponement of the cost-of-living adjustment.

"At this time there is a good possibility that there will be a shortfall in the food stamp program in fiscal 1982 because of the budget pressures," Hoagland said Tuesday. "Basically, we're spending about a billion dollars a month in this program."

But even with the additional cutback, Hoagland told reporters that the entire food stamp program probably will cost up to $500 million more than the $10.6 billion the administration wants to spend next year.

If that $10.6 billion lid prevails, Hoagland said, there will have to be an additional across-the-board cut of individual benefits. That administrative cut, which could run between 4 percent and 5 percent, would be in addition to the legislative cutbacks voted by Congress.

Deputy Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng formally asked for congressional approval of that spending lid late Tuesday, according to Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee on nutrition.

"There's no way I'm going to go to the floor of the House with a bill that won't give me the money I need for this year (1982)," Richmond responded.

Richmond said he could support the proposed $700 million cut, but only if the administration agrees to accept a higher spending lid.

The spending ceiling is included in the four-year farm bill that is scheduled to go before the full House next week.

"Negotiations are going on right now," Hoagland said. Should an across-the-board administrative cutback be needed, the nation's 22 million food stamp recipients could begin feeling it by December, he added.

Southwest president moves to ailing Braniff

DALLAS (AP) — The financially-ailing Braniff International Corp. has hired two top executives from major competitor Southwest Airlines to assume the roles of president and chief financial officer.

Howard D. Putnam has joined Braniff as president and chief operating officer, while M. Philip Guthrie will be chief financial officer, said Braniff chairman John J. Casey.

The appointments, announced Tuesday, prompted optimism among airline industry analysts who said Putnam could become a major factor in putting the cash-strapped Braniff Airways back on its feet.

Putnam, former Southwest president and chief executive officer, also was elected a director of Braniff International and Braniff Airways Inc. Casey said the changes are part of a plan to rebuild the airline.

Putnam said the decision to leave Southwest was a difficult one but "the challenge at Braniff is too great to turn down."

Braniff reported a net loss of $64.7 million for the first six months of 1981. The airline's net loss in 1980 was $131.4 million, after a net loss of $44.3 million in 1979.

"Putnam's a strong marketing man. And in this day of deregulation, marketing expertise is of utmost importance," said Robert Joedicke, an airline analyst for Lehman Brothers.

"He's a simplistic manager. He takes an uncomplicated approach to management. And that is what is successful in today's airline environment. This is a positive sign for Braniff. He has obviously looked over Braniff's books. And a man of (Putnam's) character would not take the position if he didn't think there were hope to turn Braniff around," Joedicke added.

Casey was equally exuberant: "The task of building a new Braniff requires the strongest possible senior management team," he said. "We have therefore selected Mr. Putnam, who is one of the truly outstanding executives in the airline industry today. He has achieved success at both Southwest and United. We are confident that his capabilities will greatly benefit Braniff."

In July, Braniff agreed to begin plans to restructure its private debt and has operated under the grace of 37 major lenders.

"I have long admired the dedication and strength of Braniff's employees — especially during this tough period," said Putnam. "I look forward to their support and the opportunities that lie ahead."

Guthrie, vice president of finance and chief financial officer of Southwest, will replace Howard P. Swanson as Braniff's chief financial officer, said Casey.

Putnam, 44, joined United Airlines in 1961 and held a series of positions in sales, service, and marketing. He was group vice president of marketing from 1976 to 1978. He moved to Southwest as president and CEO on Aug. 21, 1978. Southwest is a Dallas-based carrier serving 15 cities in the Southwest.

Putnam graduated from the University of Chicago in 1966 and holds an MBA degree in marketing. He also completed the Harvard advanced management program in 1978.

Prior to joining Southwest, Guthrie, 36, was a senior financial consultant with Price Waterhouse in Houston. On Feb. 20, 1979, he joined Southwest as vice president-finance and CEO. In 1980, Guthrie also assumed the responsibilities of corporate treasurer.

Malpractice suit settled

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — An out-of-court settlement has been reached in a malpractice suit filed in state court against a San Angelo surgeon in the death of 58-year-old patient.

The suit against Dr. David Sadler was filed by relatives of Floy W. Luckett, also of San Angelo. Luckett died after a needle biopsy was performed in February, 1980, at St. John's Hospital on a lesion on one of her lungs, according to the suit.

Long-sheltered Belize gains independence

By JOHN M. WEISS
 National Geographic News Service
 WASHINGTON — "Where the hell is Belize?" asks a T-shirt popular among Belizeans, a glib recognition that theirs is one of the least known areas of the Western world.
 Known officially as British Honduras until 1973, though informally as Belize long before that, the country occupies a New Hampshire-size area just south of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula on the Caribbean.
 If the name Belize draws a blank in most of the world, it is familiar to the British, who this month (Sept. 21) are to relinquish it after more than three centuries of occupation. For the first time in 400 years the North American mainland will be without a single colony.

BELIZE IN BRIEF
 AREA: 8,867 sq. mil (22,965 sq km).
 POPULATION: 145,000. CAPITAL: Belmopan, pop. 3,000. MAIN CITY: Belize City, pop. 40,000. RELIGION: Roman Catholic, Protestant.
 LANGUAGE: English, Spanish.
 LITERACY: 75 percent.
 LIFE EXPECTANCY: 60 years.
 ECONOMY: Industries: clothing, construction materials, cigarettes, beverages. Export crops: sugar and molasses, citrus, fish and lobster. PER CAPITA INCOME: $1,030.

Independence for Belize will mean the loss of the largest colony in Britain's steadily diminishing empire. Only Hong Kong, Gibraltar, Bermuda, and several other islands will remain under British control.

But the British will not be leaving Belize. Fearing an invasion from neighboring Guatemala, which has claimed Belize since the breakup of the Spanish empire in the 19th century, Britain is expected to keep troops there to bolster Belize's tiny army. Britain and Guatemala have negotiated frequently on the issue in past years, but have reached no settlement.

Although Belize has yearned for independence, its colonial status has spared it the kind of turmoil gripping other parts of Central America such as El Salvador. A large part of Belize hasn't even been settled.

 Because of its wet tropical climate, some three-quarters of the colony is covered by forest, much of it almost impenetrable jungle. The forests yield for export some of the finest mahogany in the world, and several other varieties of timber also are harvested.

Northern Belize is low-lying, with mosquito-infested mangrove swamps extending miles inland from the coast. In the south, a narrow coastal plain meets an extensive plateau, interrupted by low mountains, many unexplored. Offshore, numerous small islands have emerged on the most extensive series of reefs in the Western Hemisphere.

The swamps and jungles are home to such strange wildlife species as the extremely poisonous tommygoof snake, said to leap from trees to attack humans as well as animals, and the parasol or "woose" ant, which devastates crops and builds earthen "cities" 6 feet high, 40 feet in diameter, and extending down into the earth.

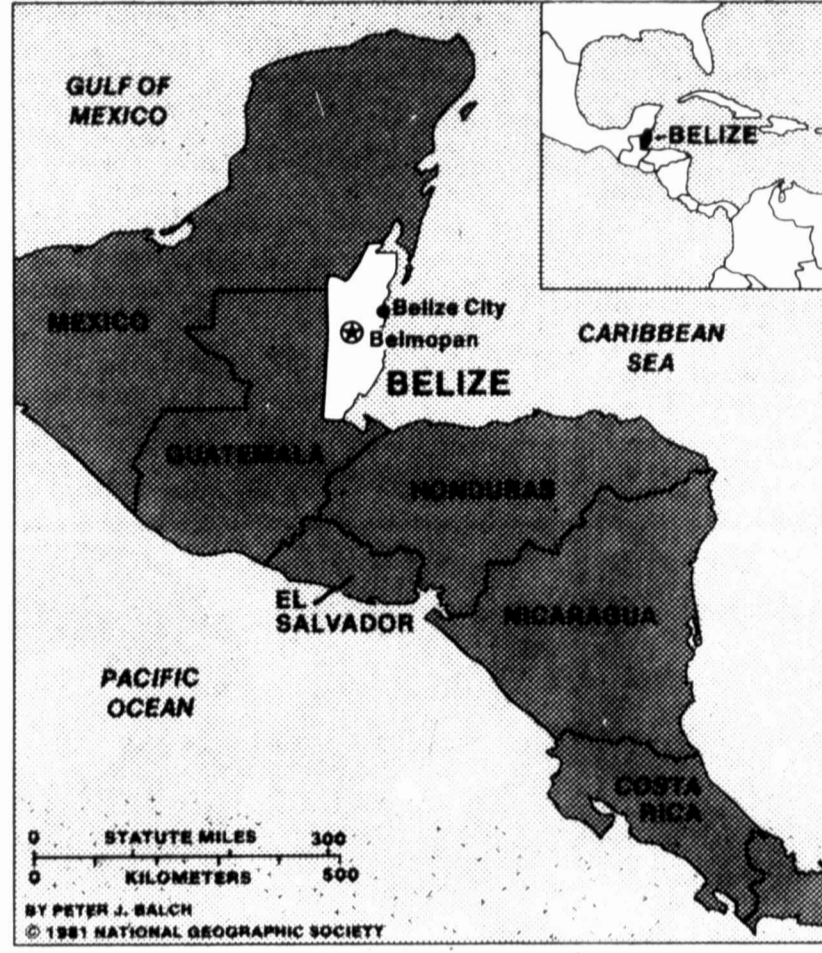

Jaguars, howler monkeys, and tapirs (known as mountain cows) also abound. Crabs, on their yearly migration between the coastal swamps and the sea, have been known to block traffic on coastal highways for hours.

Man, however, is not abundant in Belize. Although larger in area than El Salvador, for example, Belize has only 3 percent of the population, a mere 145,000 people. The majority are of African descent, and most of them are mestizos (mixed Maya and European) or pure Maya. English is the official language, though many also speak Spanish.

Aerial photographs, legends, and unconfirmed sightings by forest workers suggest that the population also may include people living in remote jungle areas out of contact with the modern world.

More than a quarter of the population lives in Belize City, the urban center and chief seaport of the country. Located just 18 inches above sea level, much of the city was destroyed when Hurricane Hattie roared ashore in 1961, killing 262.

Worries about hurricanes prompted Belizeans to hack out of the jungle a new capital in the interior of the colony. Today Belmopan, as it is called, is a town of 3,000 consisting of little more than a few unpretentious government buildings and look-alike houses for government employees.

Archaeological evidence establishes the presence of the Maya people in Belize as early as 2000 B.C. Centuries later they erected a magnificent city, Alton Ha, north of Belize City. About A.D. 900, the Maya civilization mysteriously collapsed, and most of the Maya and mestizos of Belize today descend from those who have arrived from the Yucatan Peninsula since the mid-19th century.

European settlement of Belize began in 1638, when a crew of shipwrecked British seamen established a small village at what is now Belize City. They were soon joined by others — buccaneers and privateers who used the Belizean coast as a base for raids against the rich Spanish silver fleets.

By the end of the century, Belize's verdant forests were being tapped by the British for logwood, highly prized in Europe for use in dyes and stains. Logwood would remain the chief export of Belize for two centuries.

Swedish women feel 'far from equality'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two decades after Swedish women won equality under the law, a depressed economy and a society resistant to change are making reality less than the law.
 "It is still harder to be a woman than a man in this country," said Lisa Mattson, president of the Federation of Swedish Democratic Women. "It is true that the situation in Sweden is improved, but it is still a long way before the situation is satisfactory."

A recent study indicates that sexual segregation in the labor market pushes women into lower-paying, less prestigious jobs, with only about 1 percent of managerial positions in the private sector filled by women.
 Past surveys by the National Bureau of Statistics tend to back up the claim:

- In 1975, 50 percent of employed men worked in mining, manufacturing or construction. Less than 20 percent of female workers were in those industries. By contrast, 49 percent of working women performed public administration or other services — education, medical care and social welfare — sectors employing only 17 percent of the male workforce.
- Women dominated 70 occupations in 1977, men 300.
- In the private sector, the average male worker earns 22.6 percent more than the average woman.

Major demands by Swedish feminists have been for day-care facilities for all children and for six-hour work days to make it easier to combine a job with home duties. These remain overwhelming women's work, despite official efforts begun in the 1960s to encourage load-sharing in the home.

But solving Sweden's economic worries has top priority with most politicians, who say the country cannot afford costly social reforms or expanded anti-discrimination programs right now.

Nevertheless, there have been gains.
 A 1980 law bans sexual discrimination in hiring and promotion in public and private jobs and demands active efforts to promote equal opportunity in the workplace.

Equal opportunity ombudsman Inga-Britt Tornell, appointed to enforce the act, said it is too early to say whether the law will live up to its high expectations. Ms. Tornell has received 161 complaints about work discrimination or lack of active promotion of sexual equality, all but four of which have been settled by negotiation. The four contested cases are still pending in labor courts.

One complaint involved Bishop Bertil Gartner of the Swedish Lutheran Church in Goteborg, who refused to allow female ministers to practice in his diocese. The church ordains women but permits male clergy to refuse to work with female colleagues under a so-called "conscience clause."

Ms. Tornell told the bishop to draft an equal-opportunity plan.

She also received a complaint alleging that a male magazine reporter who did the same work as four female reporters was paid $200 a month more than the women.

Economist Christina Jonung said such cases are rare.
 "In Sweden, women are not discriminated against by getting lower salaries than men on the same jobs, but by not being given access to the same jobs," she said.

Even the government occasionally runs afoul of Ms. Tornell's office. In one case, a government post was advertised and women were encouraged to apply, but Ms. Tornell discovered the job was set aside for a man already holding a temporary appointment.

Such complaints ideally should come from labor unions, Ms. Tornell said, adding, however, that she fears that nothing much can be expected from them until the "middle-aged men who do not care about equality are gone."

A female trade union official retorted that the unions do try to promote equality and said: "We simply have not found any cases of discrimination."

Bush raising money to redecorate V-p residence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six years after the government spent more than $300,000 to create an official vice presidential residence, George Bush has raised $124,700 in private, tax-deductible donations to redecorate it.

The private donations are on top of $51,700 proposed in the 1982 budget to pay for repairs and new furnishings at the vice president's home.

Shortly after disclosure of the redecoration fund Tuesday, Bush's wife, Barbara, abruptly announced that no more money would be solicited.

"Mrs. Bush funds $125,000 a sufficient amount to refurbish the rooms," said Bush's press secretary Peter Teeley.
 Teeley said the donations came from 18 individuals or couples — all described as friends of the Bushes. As tax-deductible contributions, they could cost the Treasury about $60,000 in lost revenue if the donors are in the top brackets.

Earlier this year, private donors, including many in the oil industry, contributed $822,641 to help redecorate the White House. Last week it was disclosed that first lady Nancy Reagan was spending $209,508 of that amount for new chinaware.

B. J. Pevehouse of Midland, Texas, president of Adobe Oil and Gas, an independent oil company, said he donated $10,000 to the vice presidential fund "because Mrs. Bush said (the house) was in bad need of repairs and it would be a patriotic thing to do."

A Republican, Pevehouse

said he supports President Reagan's decision earlier this year to decontrol the price of oil, but he denied any hope of currying favor with the administration.

"I don't want nothin' and I don't need nothin'," Pevehouse said.

Another $10,000 contributor, Philip C. Walker of Austin, Texas, said he donated to the fund because "we felt the vice president's home deserved a little more appealing appearance than it has."
 Teeley said 12 contributors had donated $10,000 each — the limit set by Bush — to refurbish the vice president's residence, located at the Naval Observatory on the city's embassy-lined Massachusetts Avenue. It is owned and maintained by the Navy.

 "The vice president felt a $10,000 donation to the Navy was adequate," Teeley said.
 Teeley said the funds will be used to touch up four public rooms in the residence. He said the rooms are used regularly for official entertaining and some "are worn and shabby. You put 500 people through two or three rooms on a regular basis and they can do a lot of damage."

He said the improvements include painting walls, reupholstering and acquiring new furniture and carpets and repairing cracked walls.

Diablo protest dwindles

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Authorities sent home 750 National Guardsmen and Highway Patrol officers as the number of demonstrators at the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant dwindled to only a few hundred.

The number of arrests stemming from an attempted blockade of the plant rose to 1,493 Tuesday, topping the record 1,414 arrests set four years ago at a demonstration at the Seabrook, N.H., nuclear plant.

But the Abalone Alliance, a coalition of 60 groups that organized the non-violent protest, said it would continue the demonstration at the plant, operated by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. Local residents said they plan a separate march on the plant Sunday.

Following the arrest of 128 demonstrators Tuesday, only a few hundred people remained at the alliance tent campground, compared with more than 2,000 at the start of the protest last week.

San Luis Obispo County Sheriff George Whiting declined to say how many law enforcement people would remain at the site after the withdrawal.

The demonstrators claim that nuclear power is unsafe, especially at Diablo Canyon which lies halfway between San Francisco and Los Angeles and is near an offshore earthquake fault. The protesters also say PG&E has not developed a suitable plan to evacuate people living around the plant in the event of a radiation release.

About 500 people remained in custody Tuesday, as arraignments continued. Those who pleaded innocent will not be tried for some time, said Bob Foster, a deputy state attorney general helping with the backlog.

Among those arraigned Tuesday was rock star Jackson Browne.

Up to $2,000 Tax-Free Interest Starting Oct. 1.

Here's tax relief now when you need it most. Homestate Savings' new All Savers Certificate can offer savers up to $2,000 tax-free earned interest for married couples filing jointly or $1,000 on an individual return. A minimum of $500 is required to open an account. And your tax-free certificate is insured by the FSILIC.

Homestate Savings All Savers Certificates earn an interest yield equal to 70% of the investment yield for 52 week U.S. Treasury securities. The yield you earn will be established on the date your certificate is purchased and will remain unchanged for one year until maturity. Your funds may be withdrawn at any time subject to the loss of tax-exempt interest status and an amount equal to 3 months interest penalty.

The tax-free dollars you earn with a Homestate Savings All Savers Certificate represent a substantial benefit when compared to savings plans whose earnings are taxed according to your income level. Now you can cut that tax liability while you increase your yearly income.

SWEEPSTAKES WINNER— Mrs. F.C. Tibbs received the Horticultural Excellence Award for her pink Bougainvillea, and also received the Sweepstakes Award for most blue ribbons won. Mrs. Tibbs was awarded 19 blue ribbons, one for each of her entries.

Plants are 'best therapy in the world,' says Flower Show Sweepstakes winner

Plants are the "best therapy in the world" according to Mrs. F.C. (Adele) Tibbs, Sweepstakes winner in this year's Open Flower Show. The show is sponsored by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs in conjunction with the Howard County Fair.

Expressing her surprise about winning so many ribbons, she said, "There are beautiful plants in Big Spring, but they don't bring them in."

Cancellation of Halloween carnival announced by chapter

The Coahoma Alpha Tau Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Sept. 14 in the home of Becky Key.

Mrs. Tibbs walked away with 19 blue ribbons, one for each of her entries.

Three guests, Mrs. Cynthia Anderson, Mrs. Kim Roberts, and Mrs. Tricia Rice, were welcomed.

Mrs. Tibbs has been a member of the Planters Garden Club for about a year. "I've raised flowers all my life but I worked, and you can't work and be involved in the garden club," she said.

Dear Abby

Wife Nurses Suspicion Of Ailing Husband

DEAR ABBY: My middle-aged husband has been in the hospital three times in the last year. Each time he spent between eight to 10 days there, and always in the same section, so he became quite friendly with the nurses. I have always trusted my husband, but listen to this. One of his night nurses (an R.N.) jokingly told me that she came into my husband's room at 1 a.m. every morning with some "U.P." which they would mix with vodka. (My husband's brother had brought him a bottle as a gift.) My husband didn't deny these little "nightcap" parties; in fact he bragged about them.

Now that my husband is home, this night nurse has been calling to ask him how he is getting along. It bothered me, so I listened in on the extension and I heard her ask him when he was going to meet her in the city. (We are farmers and own a lot of land.)

I asked my husband to talk to our priest or see a marriage counselor, and he flatly refused to do either. A divorce would crush our children, but it is not my intention to continue to live with a man I cannot trust.

What should I do?

ANONYMOUSLY YOURS

DEAR ANON: Talk to your priest and accept his counsel. Don't rush into anything. Divorce is a heavy penalty for what may be a minor offense. Never cut what you can unravel.

DEAR ABBY: How do I tell my very loved husband that the shirt size he has worn for years no longer fits him? I don't want to come right out and say, "You need a larger size."

A few times when I have bought him shirts (larger size) I've fibbed, saying, "These were on sale, and although they may be a little big, they were so good looking I couldn't pass them up." Another time I told him that the salesman said that the new shirts ran a bit small and suggested I buy a larger size.

Abby, my husband knows he's overweight and has every intention of dieting, but he never seems to get around to it. I don't want to hurt this dear man, so what do you say? Should I just keep my mouth shut?

LOVES MY MAN IN CALIF.

DEAR LOVES: You do your man no favors by pretending not to notice that he's overweight while you buy him bigger shirts and fib about the reason. Perhaps a rude awakening — such as being unable to button the top button on his shirt (or trousers) — is what he needs to motivate him to lose weight. If you love him, level with him.

Girl Scout Council troops registering

All West Texas Girl Scout Council troops are registering now for the 1981-82 membership year. National dues are $3.

The West Texas Council Board of Directors and board committees have regrouped, and orientation and training has started for new Brownie leaders, Junior leaders, Cadette and Senior leaders. Reservations are in order for scheduled events at Camp Boothe Oaks.

October is calendar sale month. Registered troops will sell Girl Scout 70th birthday calendars for $1 each. The profit goes to the troop for program supplies.

The National Girl Scout Convention will be in Houston, Oct. 25-28. A craft workshop is scheduled for Oct. 19 and 20 at the Abilene Service Center. Camping events will be Oct. 2, 3, and 4, and the Junior badge workshop, "Do you own thing?" troop event, and a frantic leader treat will be Oct. 17.

A birthday celebration for Juliette Gordon Low, founder of Girl Scouts, U.S.A., will be held Oct. 31. A present custom of Girl Scouts is to give a dime each for World Friendship Fund created in her honor in 1927.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council is a participating agency of the United Way.

Alpha Phi Delta mans clown painting booth at HC Fair

The Alpha Phi Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its first regular meeting of the year Sept. 8 in the home of Cindy Jones, vice-president.

Members discussed plans for a clown painting booth to be held at the Howard County Fair Sept. 21 through 26. The booth will feature different selections of emblems, paintings, and faces for subjects at a cost of $1 per face. The booth will open at 4 p.m. each day of the fair.

A tea at the First Presbyterian Church for newcomers interested in the sorority was planned.

Alpha Phi Delta also selected Becky Baker as Valentine queen. The cultural program was given by Becky Baker, who discussed family life.

Slain robbers made 'big mistake'

HOUSTON (AP) — The U-Totem at 1010 Edgebrook had been robbed three times in the past year, but when armed bandits showed up for the fourth time they made a fatal mistake, homicide Lt. G.A. Mason says.

They ignored the small, 15-year-old Vietnamese refugee sitting behind the counter next to the young Oriental woman working as cashier. They did not know that the woman was the boy's sister and he was there to protect her.

"The kid was sitting down in a chair. The guy (with a gun) just didn't pay that much attention to him, I'm sure. He just kind of walked by him," pulled a .25-caliber pistol and ordered cashier Loan Nguyen, 24, to open the cash register, Mason said Tuesday.

When she did, the gunman shoved her aside, reached in and grabbed several handfuls of cash. That's when the youth, who stands only five feet tall, opened fire with a .32-caliber revolver, hitting each robber in the chest.

They fled on foot, but collapsed and died a short time later, one just outside the store and the other two blocks away.

No one else was hurt, and Mason said the stolen money was recovered from one of the robbers.

Officers said three robbers were involved, but one of them did not enter the store and ran when the shooting started. He remained at large Tuesday.

Mason said the bandits entered the store about 9 p.m. Monday. He said during the hold-up a customer entered the store, and the gunman covered his pistol but kept it aimed at Miss Nguyen.

"His attention was divided. That's when the kid picked up his pistol," Mason said. Then the robber "started grabbing money from the cash register and the kid opened fire."

The men slain in the shooting were identified by police as Kenneth Anthony Cadriel, 20, a convicted burglar on probation, and Choon Duk Chung, 19.

Judge hears head show testimony

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal judge says he'll decide later this week whether Texas' new drug paraphernalia law is unconstitutionally vague and should be stricken from the criminal code books.

U.S. District Judge David O. Belew Jr. heard conflicting testimony Tuesday on whether the new law will act as a deterrent to drug abuse.

Dallas vice squad Cmdr. Donald H. Millikan told Belew the law would be tough to enforce because the statute prohibits sale of an item with the intent of using it to consume illegal drugs.

"In terms of making a case against a head shop, my personal opinion is that you'd have to have tangible proof of intent," said Millikan.

"Just because it (an item banned under the law) is there is not sufficient proof of intent," Millikan told Belew.

However, state Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, testified that the new statute "absolutely, definitely" will curb drug abuse.

"There are many ways to approach the (drug abuse) problem," he said. "This is one I think is significant."

Their testimony came in a suit filed by 50 tobacco shop operators who say the law is unconstitutionally vague and unenforceable.

The new law was to go into effect Sept. 1 but was delayed by Belew, who issued a temporary restraining order against its enforcement.

The law would ban the sale of cigarette papers and rollers, bongs, pipes and other items when the intent is to consume illegal drugs.

CRMWD expenses increase more rapidly than income

Expenses increased more rapidly than income for the Colorado River Municipal Water District in August due in a large part to higher costs for energy.

Receipts for the month were $759,448 and expenses $593,568. For the first eight months of the year, income was $5,914,033 or $201,000 ahead of budget estimates for the period. Operating expenses were $3,600,807, or $322,000 over budget. The difference between operations and income goes to debt service.

August energy charges for pumping water amounted to $426,911 only $12,000 under the record July figure although 370 million less gallons of water were pumped in August than in the previous month.

For the initial eight months, energy costs amounted to $2,363,015, which was $297,501 over budget for period due to rate increases during the year.

In August of 1980 energy costs were $288,211, thus this year's figure is up 44 percent. For the first eight months of this year the cost figure is $768,307 more for the same time in 1980, or up 40 percent.

August income included $627,984 from cities, $10,256 from rural users, $116,041 from oil companies and $4,809 from recreational facilities. Of the 1,902,949,000 gallons billed to customers, in August, 1,685,873,000 went to cities, and 217,076,000 to oil companies.

For the month 1,197,267,000 gallons came from Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence, making 8,989,384,000 gallons for the eight months, or 74.29 percent of the total water produced by CRMWD

Tower sought wife's nomination?

DALLAS (AP) — The nomination of Lilla Cummings Tower, wife of U.S. Sen. John Tower, for a $50,000 government job was requested by her husband, although sources said the Reagan administration once recommended abolishing the position, a newspaper reported today.

The Dallas Morning News reported that the White House backed off its decision to phase down the Institute of Museum Services after a request from Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Tower, R-Texas, said he did not make the request.

The White House announced in June that it would nominate Mrs. Tower as institute director. Her nomination, expected to go to the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee soon, is subject to confirmation.

In April, Budget Director David Stockman said the administration was considering terminating the Institute of Museum Services.

Split season could burn best record

Reds have best combined record, but might miss playoffs

By The Associated Press

Presenting... drum roll, please, maestro... the team with the very best record in baseball, the Cincinnati Reds.

Take a bow, Manager John McNamara. Nice job. Enjoy the spotlight, though, because when the mini-playoffs begin Oct. 6, you guys could be sitting at home, finished for the season.

Now how can that be? How can a team finish with the best record in baseball and still not qualify for the playoffs? Only in this abomination of a split season, where good is bad and up is down, could such silliness take place.

Cincinnati made the mistake of being one-half game behind Los Angeles when the strike hit June 12. In the interest of expediency, their 35-21 first-half record was sacrificed by the people in charge when play resumed. And even though the Reds (23-17 in the second half) had the best overall record in the two leagues going into Tuesday's games, they were assured of nothing. Unless they can catch Houston and finish first for the second half, or unless the Dodgers catch Houston and Cincinnati finishes second to LA, the Reds can head for home.

That's ridiculous.

Some baseball people, who aren't afraid of their shadows, speak their minds on the issue. One of them is Whitey Herzog, manager and general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. Herzog is a traditionalist and the Cards voiced opposition to the split-season plan when it was first announced. Nothing has happened, not even his club's first-place standing in the second half, to change his mind.

"I think it's a farce," Herzog said the other day. "What are we playing for? There's no interest in it."

That seems to be the opinion of the Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Oakland A's and New York Yankees, who all earned playoff berths because they had the good sense to be leading their respective divisions when baseball went on its summer vacation.

Baseball is selling us terrific pennant races. Look at that — going into Tuesday's action, six games separated the six teams in the American League East. Toronto's annual also-rans were four games out of first place. Four teams were separated by three games in the American League West. Texas, playing under .500, is bidding for the title.

If you really want races, baseball's got 'em. Try combining the standings for the two halves and here's what you get before Tuesday's games:

National League East: St. Louis 52-42, Philadelphia 51-43, Montreal 51-44. The Cards are one game up on the Phillies and 1½ ahead of the Expos.

National League West: Cincinnati 58-38, Los Angeles 58-39, Houston 54-43. The Reds are one-half game up on the Dodgers and 4½ ahead of the Astros.

American League East: New York 55-41, Detroit 56-42, Boston 54-49, Milwaukee 55-43, Baltimore 53-41. The Yankees, Tigers and Red Sox are tied, all within three percentage points of each other, with the Brewers one game back and the Orioles 1½ behind.

American League West: Oakland 56-41, Texas 51-42. The A's are three up on the Rangers.

TCU's Stamp honored by SWC for 5 TD game

By The Associated Press

To Steve Stamp, throwing five touchdown passes in one game rivaled what happened his freshman year in Oregon.

He was fresh out of Carrollton Turner where he ran the Veer but also passed for 1,500 yards.

Texas Christian Coach F. A. Dry decided he needed some trickery to shakeup the Ducks and ordered Stamp to try a halfback pass.

It went for a touchdown and later in the game Stamp threw another on a fake field goal.

Senior Stamp fired an SWC record five touchdown passes Saturday against Texas-Arlington from the quarterback position and earned The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week Award.

Southern Methodist's Russell Carter, who intercepted two passes in the Mustangs' rout of Grambling, was named the SWC Defensive Player of the Week.

Stamp was the starting quarterback as a sophomore before Dry used Kevin Haney in a more run-oriented offense.

He moved back into a starting role in the fifth game of last season.

"That Oregon game was great but so was Saturday night," he said. "It's a great honor to have the SWC record. I'll always have that to remember."

Stamp is a more confident player now. "I've gained more confidence in myself, my offensive line and receivers," he said.

"There is nothing like being out there and going through it."

Stamp's 306 yards was the third best single game total in TCU history. He holds the all-time mark in that category with 408 against Baylor last year.

His 17 completions on 22 attempts against UTA was a 77.3 per cent completion mark, best for a game in TCU history.

Stamp now has 25 career touchdown passes, second only to Sammy Baugh's 39.

"I threw 150 balls each day this summer," said Stamp. "The work is paying off."

"My offensive line deserves all the credit in the world for the job they did."

Baylor quarterback Jay Jeffrey, and SMU running backs Eric Dickerson and Craig James were other offensive honorable mentions.

Defensively Texas' All-American tackle Kenneth Sims and Texas Tech's Gabe Rivera performed well.

MIGHT MISS... Dallas Cowboy Tony Dorsett sits on the bench in the fourth quarter with an ice pack on his injured leg after rushing for over 160 yards in the win over New England. Dorsett might miss the Sunday game with the New York Giants, according to Coach Tom Landry. (See related story).

Cowboys could start rookie DBs vs. Giants

DALLAS (AP) — Everson Walls and Mike Downs were two of 25 rookie free agent defensive backs the Dallas Cowboys brought to training camp in July and both may be in the starting backfield at the same time Sunday against the New York Giants.

Downs, who is from Rice, won the starting free safety job three weeks ago and Grambling's Walls could be the starter at cornerback thanks to his two interceptions against New England Monday night.

"Walls has just been amazing all summer," said Landry. "He just has the knack of being under the ball when it comes down."

Walls replaced Steve Wilson in the second half of Dallas' 35-21 victory over the Pats.

Asked if Walls was now starting, Landry said "he has certainly taken giant steps in that direction. Eventually he will move in unless the other guy bets better."

Landry held his weekly press conference Tuesday although he only had two hours sleep after the plane ride back from Boston.

Of primary concern was the condition of running back Tony Dorsett, who suffered a sprained ankle and bruised ribs after he had rushed for 162 yards against the Pats.

"Tony left the plane walking normal at 5 o'clock this morning," said Landry. "He turned his ankle on a running play...it just kind of folded up under him. He also has rib bruises."

"If his ankle doesn't swell he has a good chance to be ready to go Sunday. Of course, it is a short week and that makes it somewhat questionable."

Dorsett is leading the National Football League in rushing and has averaged 7.1 yards per carry.

The Cowboys also lead the NFL in interceptions with 10 although they have surrendered some 330 yards per game.

"Defense is experience and that takes time," said Landry. "Our guys keep getting better and better. We have a lot of young people in the secondary and we have to big plays against us with turnovers."

Dallas was an 11-point favorite over the New York Giants in Sunday's 3 p.m. game at Texas Stadium.

South Africans play despite protest

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Splashing through a sea of mud, the South African Springboks kicked off against the Eastern Rugby Union's Colonials, whipping their American hosts 41-0 as anti-apartheid demonstrators repeated Zulu chants in the rain.

Hours after Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall refused the state's request to stop the game, the two teams braved a steady downpour that had turned Bleecker Stadium's field into slime to start the match 15 minutes ahead of the appointed 7 p.m. starting time.

The slime soon coated their green and red jerseys and Deputy Chief John Reid estimated that the 2,500 to 3,000 demonstrators on hand when the match began were down by 1,000 within half an hour.

By the time the game had ended 1¼ hours later, the demonstrators numbered about 400.

Gerulaitis begins serving suspension

NEW YORK (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis, a semifinalist at the U.S. Open, has been suspended from the Volvo Grand Prix circuit for 21 days for minor-offense fines totalling more than $5,000 over the previous 12 months. M. Marshall Happer, the administrator of the men's International Professional Tennis Council, made the announcement.

Gerulaitis, who accumulated $2,000 in fines at the U.S. Open in addition to the $3,800 he had previously been fined over the past year, began serving his suspension Monday.

Lady Steers stay perfect in 5-AAAAA with win over Mojo

ODESSA — The Big Spring Lady Steers volleyball team earned a hard fought decision over the Odessa Permian girls here Tuesday night in a District 5-AAAAA game, and in the process moved their record to a sparkling 3-0 in league play.

The Lady Steers final margin of victory was 15-11, 14-16, 15-11. While keeping the Big Spring girls in a tie with San Angelo for first place in the first half standings of 5-AAAAA, it also moved their season record to 12-6.

The Lady Steers had 69 serves in the match with Permian, and only nine misses. Leading servers pointwise were Pam Caudill and Amy Ragan with 12 and 10, respectively. Elise Wheat added nine service points, with Lisa Majors contributing six, Janie Phillips five and Sissy Doss three.

"It was an entire team effort, especially on defense," noted Big Spring Coach Patty Pursier.

Wheat was especially effective at the net offensively, slamming 11 of 14, with three ace spikes. Sylvia Randle also performed efficiently at the net.

Caudill was praised for her outstanding setting in the win.

The Lady Steers now host the revitalized Midland Lee Rebels tomorrow night in Steer Gym. Lee won the Denver City Tournament the past weekend, with Big Spring finishing fourth.

In JV action last night, the Big Spring team topped Permian by a count of 15-5, 15-7. The win moved their league mark to 2-1 and their season record to 3-4.

Tammy Yancey had eight service points and Sharon McAlister seven. Debbie Donelson added six, Sherrie Graham five, Beverly Tubb three and Tris Clemons one.

The JV's serving was near perfect, including 21 serves with no bad attempts in the first set, and 22 of 24 in the second set.

"Our setting and hitting was more consistent, but the team play won it for us," said JV Coach Sandy Brown.

Tomorrow evening's action finds the BSHS freshmen meeting Snyder at five, with JV and varsity action vs. Lee slated for six and seven o'clock, respectively.

Along with former great Ralph Guldahl

Trevino named to Golf's Hall of Fame

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino figures he's halfway to the end of the rainbow.

"There's two things every athlete dreams of when he's starting out," Trevino said. "One is going to heaven when he dies. The other is making the Hall of Fame in his sport. Those two things are the end of the rainbow."

"Well, I've got one of 'em now. We'll just have to wait and see about the other, and I'm in no hurry to find out."

Trevino, along with veteran pro Ralph Guldahl, were inducted into the World Golf Hall of Fame Tuesday.

"It's a great honor, a great thrill to have your name up there along with people like (Ben) Hogan, and, of course, Gary," said Trevino, who was inducted by South African Gary Player, one of the original 13 inductees in 1974.

"It's always nice to be remembered. I'm thrilled to death about it. It's been a great life for me," said Guldahl, 69, who won the U.S. Open in 1937-38 and the Masters in 1939.

"Being recognized as one of the great players is enough, but I think I'll appreciate this more later in life, when I'm sitting at the end of the bar telling war stories," said Trevino.

"I think I'll appreciate this more later in life, when I'm sitting at the end of the bar telling war stories."

"I mean, I'm still an active player and I don't think this will make that much difference to me right now."

Trevino scored his first pro victory in the biggest tournament of them all, the U.S.

Open in 1968.

"Up until then, I didn't know if I could win a tournament or not," he said. "I was just trying to make expenses."

It was the first of 26 U.S. Tour titles he collected and started him off to more than $2.5 million in career winnings.

A turning point in his career, he said, was his 18-hole playoff victory over Jack Nicklaus in the 1971 U.S. Open.

"That convinced me I could play with the greatest players of this time," he said. "That was a turning point."

He went on to score a unique triple, adding the Canadian and British Open titles in the next four weeks, a feat that hasn't been matched. Trevino also won the British Open in 1972 and the PGA national championship in 1974.

He has won at least once every season since 1968 and only last week scored four victories in the United States' Ryder Cup victory in England. He originally had planned to remain in England to play in the Bob Hope Desert Classic this week, but changed his schedule when he was elected to the Hall of Fame.

Despite a sometimes-ailing back, he'll be one of the favorites in the $250,000 Hall of Fame Classic that begins Thursday on the famed No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

The field also includes his fellow Hall of Famers Player and British Open titles in the next four weeks, and four other members of the U.S. Ryder Cup team, Ray Floyd, Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw and Jerry Pate.

FSU Coach Bowden happy contract is long after looking at schedule

By The Associated Press

Bobby Bowden signed a new five-year contract last year as Florida State's head football coach. One reason was that he wanted a little security to offset this year's schedule.

"People tend to forget what you've done in the past," says Bowden, who has a 46-15 record at Florida State... and that includes a 5-6 debut in 1976. "I wouldn't have taken a schedule like that without a long-term contract. If I get through this one, I might last four more years."

Florida State's schedule includes the likes of Louisville, Memphis State and Western Carolina. But that's not what has Bowden talking to himself.

Last Saturday, the Seminoles journeyed to Lincoln, Neb., and lost to Nebraska 34-14. This Saturday is an open date. Then, on consecutive October weekends, Florida State must visit Ohio State, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and LSU. Bowden calls it the "Octoberfest."

"Why in the world would anyone do that? It was done before I came to Florida State," says Bowden. "I saw those teams on the schedule, but I happen to like the beaches and palm trees in Florida. Anyway, I thought I'd probably be gone by this time."

"When that schedule was made, Florida State was floundering, losing money and $800,000 in the red. Nobody wanted to play in Tallahassee. We'll make almost $1 million in guarantees off that schedule this year but we don't need it now. We've balanced the budget. We can pay 'em to come to our place."

The Seminoles play Nebraska four times in this decade... away. They face LSU five years in a row... all on the road. A two-game series with Ohio State is scheduled for Columbus, but Bowden says this is the "only really ridiculous year" and future series with teams like Michigan and Penn State will be home-and-home.

As a matter of fact, Bowden has used the schedule as a recruiting aid.

"We told kids we'd take them to South Bend to play Notre Dame," he says. "Kids are too young to know any better. They're like little lambs being led to the slaughter."

"It isn't fair to say the schedule is a challenge. It's more than that. This is probably the toughest schedule ever in the history of college football. When you put the schedule on a table and the table tilts, you know you're in trouble."

Borg stops European Jrs champ in Swiss

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Sweden's Bjorn Borg, the world's second-ranked player, whipped European junior champion Mats Wilander 6-1, 6-1 in first-round play at the $75,000 Martini Open tennis tournament.

Paraguay's Victor Pecci, the No. 2 seed, downed Ray Moore of South Africa 6-2, 6-2, while Manuel Orantes of Spain topped third-seeded Balazs Taroczy of Hungary.

McEnroe takes win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Top-seeded John McEnroe, in his first tournament match since the U.S. Open, streaked to a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Bruce Manson in the $200,000 Transamerica Open.

Other first-round winners included defending champion Gene Mayer, seeded third this year, and fourth-seeded Roscoe Tanner. Mayer beat Californian Vince Van Patten 6-3, 7-5, and Tanner defeated Peter Fleming, 7-5, 6-3.

CAUDILL SPIKES... Big Spring senior Pam Caudill spikes during a recent 5-AAAAA contest. Caudill was a key member in last night's win over Odessa Permian, which raised the Lady Steers district mark to 3-0.

Astros Sutton beats Braves again

By The Associated Press

Few men since Gen. Sherman have done more harm to Atlanta than Don Sutton.

The Houston Astros pitcher won his 35th career game against the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night with a three-hit, 3-0 decision at the Astrodome. It also was his 55th career shutout.

"There's really nothing to my beating the Braves," said Sutton, who has defeated them more than any other National League pitcher. "I've given up more runs to them, too, but I just manage to get enough runs to win. There's no set formula. It's just like me losing 13 straight to the Mets when I first started."

Sutton, who has won six out of seven games in the second half to improve his record to 10-8, said he did not feel he was in top form.

NL Roundup

"I didn't have my best stuff, but they just kept hitting them to somebody," Sutton said. "They drilled it but Tony (center fielder Scott) or Jose (left fielder Cruz) would camp under it for a long out."

In other NL games, Chicago edged St. Louis 4-3, Pittsburgh defeated New York 5-3, Montreal tripped Philadelphia 6-2, Cincinnati nipped San Diego 3-2 and San Francisco trimmed Los Angeles 5-2.

Philadelphia 6-2, Cincinnati nipped San Diego 3-2 and San Francisco trimmed Los Angeles 5-2.

Cubs 4, Cardinals 3
Home runs by Ty Waller and Leon Durham brought Chicago back from a 3-0 deficit before Jerry Morales broke a 3-3 tie with a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth inning.

St. Louis, which leads Montreal by one-half game in the NL East, scored in the second on a double by Bob Forsch and twice in the fifth on run-scoring singles by Darrell Porter and Dane Iorg.

Waller hit a two-run homer in the fifth and Durham tied it in the eighth with a solo shot.

Expos 6, Phillies 2
Steve Rogers held Philadelphia to five hits while Warren Cromartie and Tim Wallach knocked in two runs apiece for Montreal.

Cromartie singled in a run in the fifth inning and then broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh with an RBI double after Tim Raines stole his 71st base.

Wallach had a pair of run-scoring doubles.

Rogers, 11-7, walked six and struck out six.

Pirates 5, Mets 3
Jason Thompson hit a three-run homer to cap Pittsburgh's four-run third inning that snapped New York's four-game winning streak.

York's four-game winning streak.
Bobby, 6-3, got relief help from Victor Cruz and Rod Scurry, who earned his sixth save.

Reds 3, Padres 2
Tom Seaver won his 13th game in 15 decisions and raised his lifetime record against San Diego to 30-7 with help from two relievers.

Gene Richards' triple knocked in the Padres' second run off Seaver with two outs in the seventh inning, and Joe Price came in to prevent further damage. Then San Diego loaded the bases with one out in the ninth before Tom Hume got Randy Bass to hit into a game-ending double play.

Giants 5, Dodgers 2
Larry Herndon victimized Fernando Valenzuela for three RBI, including two with an inside-the-park homer, to lead San Francisco over Los Angeles.

Valenzuela, whose last defeat just before the players' strike June 11 included a two-run, inside-the-park homer by George Hendrick of St. Louis, lost for only the fifth time in 18 decisions.

Herndon also singled in a run for the Giants in the fifth.

Rick Monday homered for the Dodgers.

Tigers manager knows who to cheer and blame

By The Associated Press

Sparky Anderson will be rooting for the Milwaukee Brewers today, but his partisanship will end soon enough.

The Detroit Tigers manager saw his team pound out a 6-3 decision over the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night with the help of two John Wockenfuss homers.

AL Roundup

That, combined with Milwaukee's 10-8 victory over Boston, gave the Tigers a 1-1/2 game lead over both the Brewers and Red Sox in the American League East Division.

"I'm rooting for Milwaukee, period," Anderson said, "because we play them six games, and if we don't beat them, we've got ourselves to blame."

After splitting the first two games, the Brewers and Red Sox complete their three-game set today. The Brewers move into Tiger Stadium for three games over the weekend, and the Tigers finish up the season in Milwaukee.

Wockenfuss, trying to shake a slump that had dropped his batting average to .209, tied the game 3-3 with a two-run homer off Mike Flanagan in the fourth inning, and his solo shot in the sixth, his seventh of the year, was the winning run.

Mariners 3, Rangers 2
Texas fell four games behind Kansas City as Mariners right-hander Ken Clay earned his first victory in more than a year.

Clay, who had lost nine straight since Aug. 25, 1980, spaced six hits with six strikeouts before leaving when Texas scored a run in the eighth inning.

Shane Rawley checked the Rangers the rest of the way on one hit.

QB woes continue at UH

HOUSTON (AP) — Don't expect University of Houston quarterback Lionel Wilson to suffer any physical punishment in workouts this week. He'll be protected like a gold brick.

Wilson, a sophomore from Houston Jones, not only is Coach Bill Yeoman's starting quarterback, he's the ONLY quarterback with any varsity experience.

Wilson became the latest in a long line of Cougar quarterbacks to inherit the starting job because the No. 1 quarterback suffered an injury.

Audrey McMillian was lost for the season Saturday with a shoulder separation in UH's 12-7 loss to Miami.

Wilson finished out the Miami game and will be the starter Saturday against Utah State in the Astrodome.

"The quarterback position will be just fine if they can just play at the position," Yeoman said. "Lionel will be fine. He made some mistakes against Miami but what do you expect from a youngster who has been exposed to only 19 plays this season?"

McMillian's injury marked the fourth Cougar quarterback to suffer a serious injury in the past five seasons, a devastating change of events from the first 12 years of Yeoman's veer offense.

"We went through the first 12 years without getting a cuticle torn," Yeoman said. "Gary Mullins (1969-71) was injured in the spring but he was back by the next season."

Starting in 1977, however, the Cougars shifted from the sturdy built Gary Mullins types to the quick but willowy speedsters, capable of posing a running threat out of the option.

They also proved injury-prone.

"That's something we may have to look at when we go recruiting in the future," Yeoman said.

Yeoman is painfully aware that this season would have been the fifth year for Darrell Shepard, currently battling for a starting job with second-ranked Oklahoma.

The Cougars were placed on NCAA probation in 1977 in connection with a car loan arranged for Shepard, who later transferred to Oklahoma and is a fifth year senior this year.

UH quarterback Danny Davis started the injury problem in 1977 when he separated a shoulder against Penn State. UH quarterbacks were injury-free until last season when Terry Elston suffered a broken wrist in the third game against North Texas State.

Sophomore Brent Chinn took over but suffered a bruised Texas A&M. McMillian finished the game and led the Cougars to victory the following week against Southern Methodist before a national TV audience.

Concentration worries Rice's Alborn

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University football coach Ray Alborn says his team didn't concentrate Saturday in a 42-10 loss to the Missouri Tigers, a trite expression in itself but Alborn explains further.

Describing a 31-Trap play that was called in the huddle, Alborn said "Two guys ran 31-Trap and two guys ran a 31-Draw. They don't sound much alike and they don't look much alike, and they sure don't work too well together. Now that's a lack of concentration."

On another play, sophomore quarterback Phillip Money was supposed to throw out of bounds to kill the clock, but instead tried to complete a pass and threw an interception.

The Owls, off to a 0-2 start with losses to Texas and Missouri, will need all their physical and mental faculties Saturday when they take on more Tigers, this time the angry Louisiana State Tigers, who still recall last season's 17-7 upset loss to the Owls.

Alborn said Tuesday LSU Coach Jerry Stovall apparently is using last year's loss for leverage to get his Tigers prepared.

A member of the LSU staff told Alborn Tuesday to suit out his players in white jerseys because the Tigers were wearing purple for Saturday's rematch in Baton Rouge, La.

"I've been associated with the LSU-Rice rivalry since 1957 and this is the first time I've known them to wear purple jerseys," Alborn said. "I suppose they want to bring them out in purple to inspire the crowd as if that bunch needed inspiring. I guess they wanted to be like Notre Dame bringing out the green."

Alborn said he also has been told that Saturday's crowd was "sold out and raring."

Rice made LSU an upset victim last season en route to a surprising 5-6 season after many forecast the Owls would not win a game. They also had upset victories over Texas A&M, Arkansas and Houston.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Mary Lou Erickson Grand Champion

- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 3/4 cup Crisco
- 1 cup milk
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon lemon extract
- Pineapple slices
- Pecans
- Marschino Cherries, optional

Mix all dry ingredients and set aside while creaming Crisco and sugar. Add eggs and blend well. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk until well blended.

Prepare a 10 inch iron skillet by melting 1/4 stick oleo. Add 3/4 cup brown sugar. Arrange pineapple slices in pan. Add chopped pecans if desired. Marschino cherries can also be added. Pour batter over mixture. Bake 35 to 45 minutes at 325. If a regular pan is used, increase oven temperature to 350 degrees.

SKILLET CORN BREAD

Mary Lou Erickson

- 1 cup yellow corn meal
- 1 cup flour
- 2 1/2 Tablespoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 Tablespoon sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk
- 1 stick oleo

Mix all dry ingredients in bowl. Add egg to the milk and beat till mixed well, add to dry ingredients. Melt oleo in iron skillet (10-inch) 1 turn on the oven to 375 degrees when I start mixing the bread and put oleo in the skillet and put the skillet in the oven. This heats the skillet and melts the oleo.

Mix melted oleo into other ingredients. Pour into hot skillet and bake 25-30 minutes.

THREE CREAM PIE

Mary Lou Erickson

- 2 1/2 cups milk
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 3 egg yolks
  - 3 Tablespoons corn starch
  - 1 Tablespoon flour
  - 2 Tablespoons butter
  - 2 teaspoons vanilla
- Mix dry ingredients together; beat egg yolks well and add to milk, mixing well. Add to dry ingredients. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly till thickened. Remove from heat; add butter and vanilla. Divide into three equal portions in bowls and make your favorite flavors. I make coconut, banana cream and lemon. meringue and bake at 350 degrees 15 minutes. Crust:

- 2 cups flour
  - 1 1/2 Tablespoons Crisco
  - 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 2 Tablespoons sugar
- Cut shortening into flour, sugar and salt. Add approximately 6 tablespoons cold milk; mix with fork until it holds together. Roll out and place in pie pans. Bake 20 minutes at 375 degrees. Yield: 1 double crust or 2 single crusts. Spread any leftovers with butter; sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Cut into strips and bake 15 minutes at 375 degrees. Delicious quick treat.

MARY LOU'S ICE BOX ROLLS

Mary Lou Erickson

- 2 Tablespoons yeast
  - 1 Tablespoon sugar
  - 2 Tablespoons very warm water
- Mix and set aside to activate yeast.

In large mixing bowl place 1 cup Crisco, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups boiling water. Stir till Crisco is melted. Add 1 cup cold water, 2 beaten eggs and 7 cups flour. You may use your mixer or beat by hand till well blended.

This dough is very versatile. I use it to make Cinnamon Rolls. Shape dough into walnut sized balls. Dip in melted butter; roll in cinnamon sugar. Place in muffin tins (three balls per cup) and bake at 400 degrees 20 minutes. Or roll dough out to 1/4 inch thick, spread with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon sugar. Roll up jelly roll style and cut into one inch rolls. Place in prepared pan. (Melt oleo, put brown sugar and pecans in pan, then place rolls, cut side up, on top of mixture and bake.)

Can be refrigerated (covered) six weeks. Allow to rise before shaping into rolls. (May also be used as Pita Bread.)

Farm Congress has work to do on 4-year farm bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Congress has some way to go before delivering a new four-year farm bill, the administration is proceeding with its plan to curb wheat production next year.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block, outlining more details of the 1982 wheat program, said Monday that it would provide a plan under which farmers will be expected to reduce their planting at least 15 percent.

The Senate, meanwhile, has approved a multibillion-dollar commodity price-support package, which includes provisions for wheat and other key crops. The House still must act before a bill is ready for President Reagan.

Block announced Sept. 3 that he planned to implement government curbs on the 1982 wheat crop to reduce the supply and boost grain prices. It was described then as a 15 percent "reduced acreage" program.

He said Monday that the preliminary plans depend upon enactment of a new farm bill authorizing such a program.

Under the Block plan, farmers would not be paid for idling the required acreage.

Although technically voluntary, the program must be followed by farmers who want 1982 government price-support loans and target price payments. They also must comply if they want to participate in the department's farmer-owned grain reserve program.

Block said participating farmers must reduce their acreage of wheat for harvest in 1982 at least 15 percent from their 1981 acreage, with adjustments for cases where there is a regular crop rotation for wheat.

For example, a farmer who planted 100 acres in 1981 must plant no more than 85 acres for harvest in 1982 to be eligible for the program. The 15 acres must be devoted to conservation.

A factor of 17.65 percent will be used in determining how much land must be devoted to conservation, with 15 acres in the example being 17.65 percent of 85 acres.

The factor would come into play if a farmer reduced 1982 wheat plantings by more than the qualifying amount.

As a further example, if the producer with 100 acres planted only 50 acres to wheat for 1982 harvest — not the 85 that could be planted — the idled land to be put in conservation use would be only 8.8 acres. That would be 17.65 percent of 50 acres.

"The land taken from production and devoted to conservation uses must be eligible cropland, must be protected from wind and water erosion and may not be mechanically harvested," Block said. "However, farmers will be permitted to graze this acreage except during the six principal growing months."

Farmers who will participate in the reduced acreage program "must assure USDA that they are not exceeding the 1981 wheat base on any other farms they own or operate," he said.

A new report by the Agriculture Department indicates hog farmers may not be cutting production as deeply as they had planned earlier in the year.

That could mean a bit more pork for consumers in the first half of 1982 and perhaps a slower recovery in hog prices than had been indicated previously.

As of Sept. 1, the inventory of all hogs and pigs in the 14 major pork states was estimated at 52.2 million head, 5 percent below a year ago, the department's Crop Reporting Board said Monday.

The inventory of breeding animals was 7.06 million head, down 5 percent from a year ago. Market hogs, at 45.1 million head, were down 6 percent.

Officials said this summer's pig crop in the 14 states totaled 20.2 million head, 1 percent fewer than in June-August of last year. Some 2.74 million sows farrowed during the three-month period.

Surveys indicated farmers intend to have 2.73 million sows farrow in September-November, 6 percent fewer than during the same period of 1980, the report said.

In a previous report issued on June 22, surveys indicated producers would reduce farrowings by 7 percent in June-August and by 11 percent in September-November, compared with year-earlier levels.

***

The Soviet Union has bought an additional 350,000 metric tons of wheat for delivery in 1981-82, the sixth year of a supply agreement with the United States, the Agriculture Department says.

Officials said Monday that the latest sales boosted to 6.55 million metric tons — 3.15 million wheat and 3.4 million corn — that the Soviets have bought under terms of the pact's sixth year, which begins on Oct. 1.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds — 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

Brinkley makes pact with ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — David Brinkley will be the host and anchor of ABC's expanded Sunday morning interview and news program called "This Week" under a four-year contract with ABC News.

ABC News President Roone Arledge and Brinkley were at a news conference today to make the announcement.

Arledge said the new 60-minute Sunday show, which will replace the 30-minute "Issue and Answers," will probably debut Nov. 15.

Brinkley, who retired Friday after 38 years with NBC News, will also play a key role in ABC's political and election coverage from Washington.

He will also be involved in special projects, the first being a documentary on President Franklin D. Roosevelt in January, which marks the 100th anniversary of Roosevelt's birth.

Brinkley, a pioneer in network news as co-anchor of the "Huntley-Brinkley Report" on NBC through the mid-1960s, said on announcing his retirement from NBC that he wanted to live and work closer to his home in Washington, D.C.

He anchored "NBC Magazine" after leaving the network's "Nightly News" last year, and was expected to continue with the program this season.

Mondale, Brown chat

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The host of the radio talk show found little disagreement with his caller. But time was getting short, and the host said he just had to move on to other people phoning in.

Even so, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. was polite in telling his caller, former Vice President Walter Mondale, that he had to get to other blinking phones during the program on radio station KMJ.

Brown, in his second stint as a talk show host, mostly answered questions from callers and discussed questions on farming and pesticide use for several guests.

During his call, Mondale defended the Carter administration's farm policies and charged that the Reagan administration "put in place a fiscal program that guarantees deficits of $60 billion to $100 billion over the next several years... That is going to be paid for by the highest real interest rates in American history."

Rugby team mum on future matches

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The South African Springboks rugby team, having defeated an American all-star team on the playing field and Gov. Hugh Carey in the courts, is keeping secret whether it will leave the country or try to play one more game.

About 1,500 protesters against South Africa's policy of racial separation stood in the rain outside Blecker Stadium on Tuesday night chanting "stop the game" as the racially mixed Springboks slogged through mud to a 41-0 victory over an Eastern Rugby Union all-star team.

Earlier in the day, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall turned down a last-ditch appeal from state lawyers trying to stop the game. Carey had said he feared the game would spark a riot and said he had reports that up to 15,000 demonstrators would appear.

However, there were no injuries Tuesday night. Albany Police Chief Thomas Burke said one person with a knife was arrested inside the stadium and four others were arrested for disorderly conduct at a nearby fast-food restaurant. None was identified.

There was one tense moment when about 100 protesters broke away from the main demonstration, moved toward a police line and faced off against the helmeted police. Most of the splinter demonstrators moved back when folksinger Pete Seeger began to perform.

"The Albany team lost, but Albany gained something," said Clara Satterfield, head of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "There was no violence."

Earlier in the day, a bomb went off in neighboring Schenectady at a building housing offices of the ERU. No one was hurt. The rugby office suffered only about $50 damage, but damage at an adjacent dairy company was put at $50,000. There have been no arrests.

ERU President Tom Selfridge said Tuesday's contest was a victory for the sport.

"The score on the scoreboard may have been 41-0, but the real score was rugby 3, Carey 0," Selfridge said.

Youths shot on camping excursion

LAKE ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — The flag at Lake Elsinore Junior High flew at half-staff as students paid silent tribute to two classmates — one slain in a weekend shooting, the other hospitalized — and raised a $300 reward for the capture of the gunman.

Vanessa Iberri, 12, died Monday night at a Mission Viejo hospital, two days after the apparently random shooting at a campground in nearby Cleveland National Forest. She was struck in the head, as was her friend, Kelly Cartier, also 12. Kelly was reported in good condition Tuesday after undergoing cranial surgery and was being kept under police guard because she is a witness.

A murder warrant was issued by Orange County Municipal Court for the arrest of Thomas Francis Edwards, 37, a gun range employee. Deputies were scouring the woods for him and warned rangers in other Southern California parks and forests to be on the lookout for Edwards, described as a proficient woodsman.

"The mood is very somber," said Francis Gregory, principal of the junior high school. "We're all saddened and sick, and a lot of us have been doing quite a bit of crying."

Gregory used the school public address system Tuesday to call for a moment of silence for the two girls.

He said Vanessa and Kelly began classes Sept. 8 and were "like most seventh graders, a bit apprehensive about starting at a new school. But they were both doing fine. They were both good little kids. God only knows why it should happen to them."

Deputies said Edwards, a part-time range officer at a gun club in Irvine, was recently divorced, reportedly frequented the campground and was believed to be living out of the back of his pickup.

Officials said the girls were walking in the park near where they had been camping with Miss Iberri's family when a man in a pickup drove to within 10 feet of the girls and called for them to come over. As they walked toward the truck, each was shot in the head, officials said.

Two area students gain NTSU degrees

Some 1,034 students were awarded degrees Aug. 15 at the North Texas State University summer commencement ceremonies.

In addition to 582 bachelor's degrees, the university granted 401 master's and 31 doctorate degrees, during ceremonies at the NTSU Coliseum.

Howard County students among the NTSU graduates were Gwen Rogers, the daughter of M.A. Cockrell, route 1, Knott; and Mark Kyle Terry of Coahoma.

Mrs. Rogers received the master of education degree in public school administration; and Terry was awarded the master of library science degree in library science.

New direction for solar energy under Reagan

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — With its budget slashed by more than half, its staff cut almost a third and its activist director dismissed, the Solar Energy Research Institute would seem to be just a shadow of its former self.

That's just the way Dr. Harold Hubbard, the acting director, wants it.

The new emphasis for the federally funded SERI is on lab work, not public advocacy of solar energy.

"We're going to produce a yeasty research and development environment here — one that won't be confused with an advocacy group or a special interest group," Hubbard said.

"We believe national energy policies should be set — we just don't think that a laboratory is the place for that kind of work."

Under Hubbard's direction, SERI better reflects the policies of the Reagan administration, which wants to end direct federal subsidies for the solar energy industry.

Congress founded the institute in 1974 in an effort to spur solar energy research. But it was not until 1977 that the Kansas City-based Midwest Research Institute formed SERI and actually began work here, under contract to the Department of Energy.

A good way to illustrate the differences between the "old" SERI and the new is to look at the difference in philosophy between Hubbard, the scientist, and ex-director Denis Hayes, the lobbyist.

Hubbard, in a recent interview in his office overlooking the Rocky Mountain foothills, declined to comment on the Reagan administration's emphasis on nuclear energy and its cutbacks in spending for solar power.

"That's all politics, and I don't feel qualified to weigh the relative merits of one philosophy over another," said Hubbard, who has a doctorate in analytical chemistry from the University of Kansas.

"There are many ways to encourage the development of solar energy without direct subsidies. We will do the best here with what we have. My job is to make effective use of our resources and do useful things. I think SERI should cease to be a political animal."

Hayes, on the other hand, has made a career of being a political animal. A history graduate of Stanford University, he helped organize Earth Day in 1970, headed the Solar Lobby and the Center for Renewable Resources and worked as a senior researcher with the Worldwatch Institute in Washington, D.C.

In 1978, he planned Sun Day to increase the nation's awareness of solar energy. The following year brought him to the $60,000-a-year post at SERI.

Wearing blue jeans and cowboy boots, Hayes sat crosslegged on the floor of his unfurnished office not far from SERI and described himself to a reporter as "a Ralph Nader-type of guy."

Under Hayes, who was asked to resign from SERI in June, and his predecessor, Paul Rappaport, SERI did solar research but also spent much time and money producing demonstration projects and voluminous studies of the social and economic impacts of solar energy.

"We thought it was in the national interest to push the country into solar energy at a faster rate, and that's what we tried to do," Hayes said. "Our goal was to get someone on the producer side to make solar technology, and then get someone on the consumption side to use it."

For instance, Hayes said, the institute paid a glass company to make a sort of heat-resistant glass for contractors and greenhouse operators, who in turn had tested it and reported the results to SERI, said Hayes.

SERI also spent $100,000 to build 12 solar homes in the Denver area that 100,000 people visited in a single open-house weekend. The houses were sold and SERI now monitors their dual solar and conventional power systems.

Marines review water training

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An investigation by the Marine Corps Recruit Depot has found no misconduct involved in the drowning of an 18-year-old recruit during a swimming test, ruling the death was accidental.

However, results of the probe released Monday into the death of Pvt. Randall Christian of Dallas, Texas, concluded that the command's survival training program will be reviewed.

Christian died of a phenomenon referred to as "dry drowning," according to the release.

Although the cause of death was found to be asphyxiation by fresh water drowning, the pathologist's report indicated duration of submersion was not necessarily the critical issue. The chief factor is the amount of fresh water inhaled and subsequently absorbed into the bloodstream through the lung's alveoli, according to the report.

Witnesses said Christian, described as a strong swimmer, went down three times before he was pulled from the training pool at Camp Pendleton Marine Base where the survival test was conducted.

A Texas congressman called for an investigation of the drowning after a Marine wrote home that lifeguards stood by and watched Christian struggle without moving to help him.

Pvt. Greg Washington, a friend of the victim, said later at a news conference called by the Marines, that the instructors were not at fault, but added that the death "could have been prevented."

The Marines, in their prepared statement Monday, said more than half a million recruits have passed through water survival training at MCRD since 1963 without a drowning.

"This record attests to the concern for safety that is present in this phase of training," the statement said. The training "is designed to challenge each Marine to reach his full potential," according to the release.

The pathology report said, "Drowning continues even after removal from the water, as any water in the lungs continues into the bloodstream through the lung lining thereby aggravating the process of asphyxiation to vital organs and causing an eventual overload on the heart."

Ice Capades to present 'Hottest Show on Ice'

In a blaze of lights, color and music along with the world's foremost skating talents, Ice Capades presents the 'Hottest Show on Ice', opening at the Ector County Coliseum on Tuesday, Sept. 29 through Sunday Oct. 4 for nine performances.

The all-new revue entitled "Let's Celebrate," bursts into action with a rousing up-beat skating salute to the dance fevers that are sweeping the nation. A fast paced opening number features a display of wild and dazzling costumes, and the quick-stepping routines are the most energetic ever assembled on ice.

There's thrills, spills, and laughs for everyone in "The Magic Machine." A mad professor magically turns Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls into life-size madcap skaters while Yogi Bear, Fred Flintstone, Scooby-Doo and other cartoon characters watch in amazement.

"Latin Fire" is a trip south of the border through an inferno of flaming colors and passionate rhythms. A spirited Latin dance sequence featuring the famous Flamenco is vividly portrayed by skaters dressed in red and black costumes, while the renowned aerial ballet of flying butterflies combine for a spectacular presentation of beauty and color.

"Music a la carte" is a bright and breezy trip down memory lane to the days of Tin Pan Alley, George Gershwin, Irvin Berlin, and George M. Cohan.

A tribute to Thomas Edison is created in the finale "Centennial of Light," performed in a galaxy of lights and scintillating costumes.

Topping the bill of brand new skating stars in 1980 National Ladies Bronze Medalist Sandy Lenz, U.S. Silver Pair Medalists Gail Hamula and Frank Sweiding and World Professional Silver Medalist Michael Tokar. Other talented performers include the alluring Valerie McBroom, the brother-sister adagio team of Chuck and Sue Shaull, lovely Lori Benton and debonaire Bill Tilghman.

Ice Capades, always strong in comedy and novelty acts, highlights the unpredictable antics of Bob Mac & Company, the 'Diving Fool' Don Dunfield and the sophisticated comic Brad Doud. Tommy Miller with his zany group of sailors adds to the fun.

Evening performances are Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. with matinees on Saturday at 3 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Tickets are $6, $7 and $8, with special prices available for youths and senior citizens. For further ticket information call the Ector County Coliseum Box Office or charge tickets by phone with Visa-MC by phoning 563-1210 or 367-6658.

Self-proclaimed grandson of John Wilkes Booth dies

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — A man who claimed to be the grandson of John Wilkes Booth has died in the Veterans Administration hospital here, insisting to the last that — contrary to published history — his grandfather died of old age in Texas.

Historians believe Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln, was cornered and killed on a farm in Bowling Green, Va., on April 26, 1865, just days after Lincoln was shot in Washington.

But John Wilkes Booth Jr., 83, of Suffolk, Va., contended the assassin eluded his pursuers and made his way to Shelby County, Texas, where he fathered a son Dec. 8, 1866.

That child, the VA patient claimed, was his father.

Booth Jr. also contended that Lincoln's assassination resulted from a conspiracy involving high government officials. Historians generally believe Booth had only a few obscure accomplices.

The VA patient, born in Mansfield, La., was an Army veteran of World War II. He died Sunday.

Survivors include a son, John Wilkes Booth III of Suffolk; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Gutierrez of Long Beach, Calif.; and two grandchildren.

The body was being sent to a funeral home in Mansfield.

DENNIS THE MENACE

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, SEPT. 24, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you will listen to the suggestions of a highly experienced business person you could easily increase your income. An effective campaign can yield fine benefits now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to meet with family members and talk over personal affairs in a most constructive manner. Keep cheerful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to use wisdom when making purchases to stay within your budget. Show loved one tangible proof of your affection.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A talk with a business expert can help alleviate present financial worries. Strive to be more efficient in your work.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good friend can help you gain a personal wish now. Avoid going on a spending spree at this time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A higher-up can be of great help to you in gaining a private goal. After your work is done get together with congenials.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A new contact can give you needed information for a plan you have in mind. Show that you are a person with ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An expert in credit affairs can give you sound advice. Come to a better accord with loved one. Rest up in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good time to clear up any misunderstanding with an associate. Pay better attention to your health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) First talk matters over with allies before putting a new plan into operation. Show more devotion to loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Discuss the future with a higher-up and come to a fine mutual agreement. Obtain the data you need from an expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know what close ties expect of you and do your best to please. Take health treatments and improve your well-being.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you finish regular routines before starting a new project. The evening is ideal for recreation.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who is likely to daydream too much and must be taught the reality of making those dreams come true by the application of hard work. Give praise when due to raise incentive for greater accomplishments.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

TESCO's new meter reading system to save time, money

Texas Electric Service Company has conceived of and put to use a new meter reading system that saves two important elements — time and money.

TESCO is the first electric utility to give its meter readers "micro-computers" to carry instead of computer cards which require pencil-marked entries.

The company estimates the system will save about $109,000 on equipment and $241,000 on manpower hours in the first year alone. It will pay for itself in less than two years.

"This new system is one more way we've found to make our operation more efficient and help offset some of the effects of inflation and higher fuel costs," said Hooper Sanders, division manager.

Now meter readers can punch meter readings into their portable terminals, and the terminals, in turn, provide them data on each residence on their route — everything from whether there is a bad dog to an unusual meter location.

TESCO worked with MSI Data Corporation, of Costa Mesa, Calif., and DATAMATIC, of Dallas, Texas, to develop the system, which includes 150 of the hand-held terminals. The portable terminals were tested early this year and are now used throughout TESCO's service area. Other utilities soon may be using the portable units since many have shown interest in the new concept.

Reagan's style key to his success

NEW YORK (AP) — If President Ronald Reagan is "laid back," as some critics say of his style, then he is laid back like a fox, says a man who has studied leadership from the times of the Greeks and Romans.

"Reagan can be misunderstood because he makes a tough job look easy," says Eugene Jennings, management professor, author of "Anatomy of Leadership" and adviser to private and public sector leaders.

After a summer of observing and analyzing the performance and style of Reagan, Jennings reaches a conclusion that probably will give the president a lift as he fights criticism of his values, goals and style.

"He is nearly a perfect match between the man and his times," says the professor, who teaches at Michigan State University. Jennings observes that all would-be great leaders need such an ideal marriage but that few are so fortunate to achieve it. Without World War II, he observes, Winston Churchill might have died an inconspicuous Lord of the Admiralty and Charles DeGaulle might have been remembered more for his enormous ego than his enormous accomplishments in France.

Jennings contends the near-perfect match creates a momentum of its own that allows the fortunate leaders to paddle easily while others struggle to keep control. Reagan, he claims, is following in the tradition of great leaders in three ways:

- 1. He has value sense. Values, he suggests, are more important than objectives to great leaders.

Great leaders have firm beliefs and communicate them to the people, who then permit greater flexibility on how the objectives are to be obtained.

Reagan never loses control by scattering shot," claims Jennings. The President's priorities are in order, he says.

3. Reagan has a power sense, says Jennings, observing that "great leaders in bearing and behavior make a distinction between authority and power."

Reagan, he says, "never appears as an authority figure." These senses, Jennings maintains, can be equated with good common sense.

Ladies first: Tote that bale

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — "Where's your car, Mister?" Before I could say "allow me," the trim young lady in the feed store hefted the 50-pound sack of sunflower seed on her shoulder and gingerly outpaced me to the parking lot. It must have weighed in at nearly half her weight, give or take a pound for her cowgirl boots.

"How many times a day do you do this?" "Oh, four or five times a morning when business is good," she replied, with no sign of heavy breathing. "Good for the figure" and not nearly as cumbersome as the bales of hay I put out for our horses at home a couple of times a week.

Based on the evidence presented, sack hauling certainly appeared to be fine for the figure. Equal opportunity has made some charming and efficient changes around this town.

There's a new girl at the hardware store and a part timer at the gas station who light up those premises with their willingness and surprising knowledge.

Certainly the time was long overdue for the Supreme Court to give a lady a seat, but I'm glad to see what used to be called the weaker sex making headway in the more physically demanding occupations.

Bulk products have always been my undoing, so I don't mind at all watching the ladies succeed at what I have always botched up. My first summer job after freshman year in high school was working for a hardware store in lower Manhattan. It lasted just long enough for me to be dispatched on foot to a plumbing supply warehouse down near the Hudson River piers for a flagpole-sized length of zinc pipe.

Disaster struck coming around the corner of Canal Street. I miscalculated the arc of the turn or something, and almost dismantled the umbrella on a hot dog stand. Swinging the pipe abruptly to rectify that error, I nearly poked out the window of a busy bank, then took the cap off a cop making his way down the subway stairs.

The crowd's laughter probably dissuaded the officer from giving me a ticket. I dragged the pipe back to the store and immediately quit. My first summer out of college I took a job as an unskilled laborer with a construction firm building houses in Vermont and gave deeper meaning to the qualifying adjective. Pushing a wheelbarrow full of concrete up an inclined plank to a floor-less second floor, I found, is not a skill that amateurs master on the first attempt. Profane and purple-faced at my incompetence, the foreman sent me off to a nearby quarry to help load a dump truck with gravel.

The tool allocated for this job was a large coal scoop. Again, my aim was not up to my intentions. I missed the truck completely and hurled a shovelful of gravel into the truck cab where the driver

Congress honoring Wallenberg ABC's Ted Koppel not evening news candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Raoul Wallenberg, the Swedish diplomat who saved tens of thousands of Hungarian Jews during World War II, has become the second person ever granted honorary American citizenship by Congress.

Passage came on a 396-2 House vote Tuesday, with Republicans Henry J. Hyde III of Illinois and John M. Asbrook of Ohio the only dissenters. The resolution now goes to President Reagan. The only previous person so honored was Winston Churchill.

Wallenberg was assigned to the Swedish Embassy in Budapest, Hungary, in 1944, and helped Jews escape when thousands were being taken to Nazi extermination camps. Among his beneficiaries was Rep. Tom Lantos, D-Calif., who initiated the measure.

Wallenberg was seized by Soviet authorities in early 1945. Although official Kremlin reports say Wallenberg died in a Soviet jail, conflicting reports say he may be alive. The resolution calls for Reagan to ascertain his status.

Reducing perspiration

SADDLE BROOK, N.J. (AP) Dermatologist Dr. Fred Haberman offers these tips to reduce perspiration:

- Wear clothing of natural fibers such as cotton and linen.
- Use antiperspirants frequently in hot weather.
- Odor often accompanies perspiration and can be controlled to some extent by the use of aluminum compounds that inhibit bacterial growth. Antiperspirant sprays generally contain these compounds.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Koppel, the new king of late-night television, is not interested in reading the news at dinnertime.

"I'm able to do what I love in an environment that couldn't be more enjoyable," said Koppel, who's negotiating a new contract to continue doing "Nightline."

"This is the job I want." Koppel said he's had no discussions about news anchoring with ABC News President Rooney Arledge, who failed to land Dan Rather and Tom Brokaw for the nightly newscasts. Koppel hopes ABC's ratings question will make that

TED KOPPEL 'Nightline' best

The restrictive forum of an evening newscast wouldn't best utilize Koppel's superb interviewing technique or his ability to succinctly distill a complicated issue. And any man who can tell Howard Cosell and Gerald Rivera that they didn't answer the question would be wasted as a news reader.

Koppel was rated a semitough interviewer by the Washington Journalism Review. "I'm not sure that's a semi-insult," he said. Yet, there doesn't seem to be anyone better at getting to the heart of the matter, without being heartless, at the networks today.

"I don't set out to be an inquisitor. You can lose an audience if you're too abrupt with people. A very delicate balance must be maintained."

Koppel, who was able to join ABC News at the age of 23 in 1963 because the network was then a well-deserved No. 3, credits time as State Department correspondent for refining his art.

"When you hear reporters fencing with a good spokesman and good diplomats who are trained in the artful use of language and disguising their real meaning, then you learn to listen carefully to language and learn how to phrase questions."

Over the years, Koppel has resisted nibbles from CBS and NBC. "There was a perverse pride in being No. 3, in being out-manned and occasionally whipping them."

However, he was set to leave when Arledge came from sports to news in 1977. Koppel delivered his resignation, which Arledge wouldn't accept. "I had concerns whether we would get along," Koppel said. Now he's a full-fledged Arledge believer.
