'Communication breakdown' leads to Howard College pay tiff

By BILL ELDER

Staff Writer

A "communications breakdown" between part-time instructors and administrators at Howard College this week led one teacher to "borrow" his paycheck from the college as the checks for some two dozen part-time teachers were delayed.

Scheduled to have been paid their first check of the school year on the twentieth of this month, the part-time instructors found out last Friday (payday, since the twentieth fell on a Sunday) that their monthly checks weren't ready. One teacher then demanded his payment, receiving it in the form of an interest-free loan.

Jerry Higgins, a chemistry and geology professor for the college, said he got the $868 owed him by taking out a loan which the college offered him. The money came out of a scholarship fund. The loan has to be repaid by the next payday, Oct. 20, he said.

"I wasn't going to starve," Higgins explained to The Herald. "But still, I needed the money. It kind of throws a kink in your plans when you don't get your money.

Mike Bruner, vice-president for fiscal affairs at the college, said the reason the checks weren't ready for the 25 part-time faculty members was the inordinate amount of time required to process the teachers for payroll purposes

He explained that whether the teacher is a new employee or not, each year the part-time staff are subjected to the same processing to satisfy audit purposes.

"We've had a problem getting them in here to sign all the papers," Bruner said. "Most of them are tied up from eight to five (o'clock) with other jobs. We've had to call them, chase them down.

Full-time faculty were paid on schedule this month, he

Three years ago, he said, the college paid its faculty on a three-time-per-semester basis rather than the current four times, and the first check of the school year had been issued later in the semester than Sept. 20

One instructor said he remembered a similar delay in issuing the first check "three or four years ago" but Bruner said this was the first delay under the four-time-

He expressed surprise at the apparent discomfort the part-time faculty were expressing over the delay.

He pointed out that the teachers would be given the option of receiving their first check spread over the semester's remaining three paydays, or they could receive the check at the end of September. The processing should be completed by then, he said.

One instructor was not impressed when informed by a reporter when his paycheck was now set to be issued.

'How long does it take?'' he wondered. "It seems like somebody's layin' down on the job.

If you wanted to stop free enterprise in the industrial nations of the free world, all you would have to do is bomb the Saudi Arabian oil fields, Saudi Arabia supplies 50 percent of the oil in the industrialized free world today. We can't afford the risk of losing the Saudi oil source)

Meanwhile, as the nation waits to see how the Reagan programs affect the economy, O.I.L. is pushing ahead with plans to more than double the space it rents at the city's Industrial Park and increase its output from an average of two rigs a month to five. The rigs sell from $4.5 million to $7.1 million. The largest rig O.I.L. ever completed in Big Spring towered over the company yesterday as workmen put the finishing touches no the $7.1 million steel giant

The rigs are sold worldwide. Christopher said, adding that he is negotiating the sale of a rig to Nigeria which can drill 20,000 feet

(Would he sell a rig to Libya, he was asked. "If the administration wanted us to," the Reaganite responded.)

To meet the production schedule envisioned by its executives. O.I.L. will seek to boost its work force of about 450 persons to nearly 2,000. Where will these people live, in a city plagued by low vacancies and minimal housing starts? Christopher has an idea. He said O.I.L. is exploring the formation of a "housing authority" which would involve O.I.L. and a Midland construction company. The outcome of the organization could turn out to be a 70-unit apartment project, he said.

'We're not formally committed to it yet," he explained, adding that O.I.L. is reluctantly entering the housing business.

"What we recognize is that somebody has to do something. We have no desire to be in the housing business. But we need homes to put people in so we can expand," he said.

Bentsen: High interest rates are 'dangerous'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen warned today that high interest rates could be pushing the entire country into a recession.

"There are many, many ominous signs — including preliminary indications from the Commerce Department — that our economy is becoming spongy soft, that we could be heading for a recession, fueled by high interest rates," the Texas Democrat said in remarks on the Senate floor.

The signs are persuasive that demand has become weak enough to yield negative real growth this quarter for the second quarter in a row, Bentsen said. And he added that the worst may be yet in store.

Among the danger signs, Bentsen said, are: the Commerce Department has scaled back its projection of business capital investment spending for this year from 10.2 percent in March to 8.8 percent;

— rising interest costs have pushed up farm loans for ordinary expenses, through production credit associations, for the first half of 1981 by 14 percent over the previous year;

- consumer goods production was off by 1 percent in U.S. industrial production declined 0.4 percent in August, the largest drop since July 1980; and inventories rose 1.1 percent in July for retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers.

"If our economy faces the distinct possibility of a recession, the housing industry is already in a depression," Bentsen added, pointing out that housing starts in August fell by 10.7 percent, the third lowest monthly level since World War II and the lowest level

Soaring of home mortgage interest rates to 18 percent and higher has caused that problem, he said.

Unemployment is headed upward also, Bentsen said, as a result of the squeeze that interest rates have put on consumers and businesses. Unemployment compensation claims at state offices jumped to 511,000 for the latest week in September from 449,000 the preceding week, he said.

Clements backs water plan

HOUSTON (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements called the threat of a water shortage a metropolitan problem more than a rural one and urged Houston businessmen to support a constitutional amendment financing a

"I want to emphasize that water is not a West Texas problem," Clements told the Houston Rotary Club Thursday. "It is not an agricultural problem alone. It is in fact a metropolitan problem, first and foremost."

The proposed amendment, which will be on the ballot Nov. 3, was passed in the special legislative session in August. It would dedicate half of the state's excess revenues to a water projects fund to be administered by the Texas Board of Water Resources.

Clements warned that Texas must prepare for a population of 21 million in the year 2000.

Texas is already considered a water-short state, he said. "And unless we start building new reservoirs now, we will run out of water by the year 2000.'

Social Security

course reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) - With Congress doing it anyway, President Reagan is shelving his package of long-range Social Security cuts and urging restoration of the minimum benefit eliminated at his behest earlier this

Instead, Reagan told the nation Thursday night, he now favors mingling the system's three trust funds to keep the main retirement fund from running out of money by the end of next year and "to give us time to seek a permanent solution

At the same time, he challenged majority Democrats in the House to join in a bipartisan effort to restore fiscal integrity to Social Security and remove it "once and for all from politics.

Reagan defended his May 12 proposal to eliminate the $122-a-month minimum benefit, slash early retirement, disability and other benefits and delay next July's cost-ofliving increase for three months. But he did not urge Congress to adopt any elements of that plan.

He said he never intended to take the minimum away "from those who truly need it" and asked Congress to restore it for "current beneficiaries with low incomes."

He did not elaborate, but a senior aide, who asked not to be identified, said the White House envisions an income ceiling of $7,500 a couple to qualify for the minimum benefit. That would cost the Treasury $300 million in 1982 and $500 million in 1983.

Both the House and Senate this summer approved eliminating the minimum benefit next February as part of Reagan's massive package of budget cuts.

The House later approved a resolution to restore it for all 3 million current recipients, and the Republicancontrolled Senate Finance Committee voted unanimously Thursday to restore the full amount for all but 350,000

The new welfare law says a family with income above $301 a month may hot receive AFDC, nor may people 19 and 20 years old, even though they might be in school. The board took an option available to it and said 18-year olds can get AFDC if they are in high school or vocational

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL

"I will be as the dew unto Israel." Hosea 14:5

The dew is a source of freshness. It is nature's provision for renewing the face of the earth. It falls at night, and without it the vegetaation would die. It is this great value of the dew which is so often recognized in the Scriptures. It is used as the symbol of spiritual refreshing. Just as nature is bathed in dew, so the Lord renews His people "Drop Thy still dews of quietness.

President Reagan is showing true grit in his determination to lead the country out of its economic mess.

His two most penetrating questions drive to the heart of the matter: "If not us, who? If not now, when?

He is correct — we can't just keep passing our messes along to the next generation and expect the situation to solve itself.

We all have to suck in our guts and begin to solve the problem now. Runaway government spending is the root of the problem and the 12 percent across-the-board reduction in domestic programs which Reagan proposes is a step toward solving that problem.

WE ARE THRILLED with his recommendation to abolish the Departments of Energy and Education because they have been a total waste of tax dollars.

Eliminating layers of bureaucracy will eliminate the overhead and make the country more efficient.

We agree with Reagan that the Department of Defense is not the place to be whacking the meat to the bone. We must have military muscle in order to preserve and protect our country. We share Reagan's reluctance in trimming the defense budget by $13 billion and hope his advisors are correct when they say the nation's critical defense needs can be met in spite of the cut.

YES, WE MUST ALL make sacrifices. We must do without so many lavish federal programs. We must develop discipline within ourselves and quit looking to the federal government for a free lunch. It is truly a sorry state of affairs when young families cannot buy homes — even modest homes - because of outrageous interest rates. Only when the government stops piling up huge deficits will the interest rates go down.

Reagan has never said it will be easy. It won't be easy. It will be a true test of our character. But we are glad at last to see a President doing what he was elected to do.

THE COLUMBU! (MERITOH ® MB) IN CHOKE TEMINE

As I have noted in the past, there is an obvious need for a special prosecutor to investigate the tangled dealings of the two ex-spies, Frank Terpil and Edwin Wilson. There are several aspects of their connection to the former president's brother that bear looking into. These include:

Terpil's statements to associates that he was pivotal in behind-thescenes activity that led Billy to accept a $220,000 "loan" from the Libyans, presumably in return for any intluence he might have had on the thenpresident

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a friend who is very well-educated, and I would like to share Christ with him. However, he says that the Bible is just a book of myths and fables. What can I do to convince him it is true? - V.L.

DEAR V.L.: It is often surprising to discover that many people who are otherwise very well-educated have actually given little thought or attention to Jesus Christ. They have never read the Bible, nor do they ever seriously investigate the claims of Jesus Christ

Often they have heard other people say things such as your friend is saying, and they accept them without ever really investigating. I suspect your friend has never really looked at the Bible for himself, and therefore vou should not hesitate to suggest politely - that he read it.

One reason I feel your friend may never have read the Bible for himself or investigated the Christian faith carefully is that even scholars who do not believe the Christian faith nevertheless acknowledge that it is historically accurate in many of its

made a number of startling discoveries in recent years which have confirmed the accuracy of the Bible repeatedly. You may want to get some books from a Christian bookstore which deal with this and other similar subjects.

But you need to face the fact that your friend may have other problems problems which have nothing to do with the questions he is throwing at you. For example, he may be a very proud person - proud of his education, proud of his accomplishments, proud of his ability to solve his own problems on his own.

And he knows that if the Gospel is true he will have to humble himself before God and admit he needs God He may also know that if the Gospel is true he will have to change his whole way of life, because he will be accepting a new Master and Lord over his life. In other words, his problem may not be intellectual, but a problem the embargoed C-130s. A former - The close similarity of an oilcommission deal for Terpil in 1976 to business partner of Terpil and Wilson said Terpil advised Qaddafi that Billy Carter might be the vehicle for getting delivery of the transport planes

> According to this associate, Terpil telephoned Billy and invited him to the tenth-anniversary celebration of Qaddafi's coup, in September 1979. It was then, apparently, that the deal was struck that would give Billy a commission on additional Libyan crude delivered to the Charter Oil Co.

> IRONICALLY, TERPIL had attempted to arrange a similar oilcommission deal for himself two years earlier. The Terpil associate described the arrangement in handwritten notes, now in my possession. I also have a Terpil telegram in which he confirmed the arrangement, which apparently fell through later.

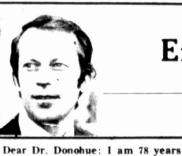

The Terpil partner told my associate Dale Van Atta that he understood the oil deal "was simply a bribe, a way for the Libyans to get Billy in bed with them." Billy asked for a $500,000 "loan" - actually an advance on his expected commissions. The Libyans gave him $220,000. Terpil later told another confidante that the amount of money available for bribing Billy was $1 million, to be supplied directly by Libyan intelligence agents.

(According to one Justice Department intelligence report, Iranian strongman Ayatollah Khomeini, bent on embarrassing President Carter, sent a trusted mullah to Libya with $1 million in U.S. currency to finance the buying of Billy.)

Terpil and Billy were spotted together on at least two occasions during the 1979 celebration; Terpil told several persons he had met with Billy during the visit.

On Jan. 16, 1980, Billy told a Justice Department official he had indeed met Terpil on the 1979 trip, and that Terpil later followed up with a telephone call about a proposed 'machine-gun deal.'' Carter recanted this statement two months later, but he did acknowledge that he might have autographed a picture of Terpil and himself "To my friend Frank."

The most bizarre twist in the Billy Carter-Terpil-Wilson connection comes from a knowledgeable source who detailed a meeting between Wilson and a professional assassin. According to this source, Wilson was angry over Billy's failure to perform on some unidentified deal, and suggested blowing Billy away by planting explosives in an oil painting. The painting was to be given to Billy, then detonated by remote control.

old and when I had my recent physical, my doctor told me I am doing fine on tests, except that my HDLs were too low. He wants me to take some exercise. I thought I was too old for this, although I have always been active. I am told I might try walking briskly for 45 minutes until I break out in a sweat. Is this too strenuous? And how does the HDL number indicate a person should get some exercise? Last year I fell on ice while walking and made a three-point landing, the third point being my

You should be giving advice to me. I want to encourage you to exercise, but I must say that whatever you have been doing for 78 years must be all right or you wouldn't be in such good

I don't think you have to exercise for 45 minutes a day to achieve beneficial results. Start slowly. Walk a block, then gradually increase the length of your walk and your walking pace. You should always be able to carry on a conversation. Do not become breathless. A good place is not one that leaves you drenched with sweat. You don't want that at all.

If you like swimming, try that. You may find a YMCA nearby or a school swimming pool that has special hours for the elderly. Swimming, even for 15 minutes a day, can be most beneficial.

Briefly, HDLs (highly density lipoproteins) are special kinds of proteins that carry lipids (blood fats). They are not like the low density lipoproteins, which tend to deposit fats in the arteries. The HDLs carry

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D. more fats to place where they can be gotten rid of (like the liver). So an increased number of HDLs is beneficial. They lower the risk of heart attack

It has been shown that exercise increases the number of HDLs, which is why your doctor suggested it. I don't think he meant for you to go into Olympic-level training to do that. As I said, your present overall status (detailed in another part of your letter) is the proof of the pudding. You have been doing a lot of right things throughout your life. You may also have nice genes. P.S. Stay off the

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 40-yearold male. I have had this problem since I was 17 or 18 and it keeps me from doing things that most people do. If I do things like going to a barber shop or meet people I get a weak feeling, plus I get to shaking all over real bad. I think people are looking at me. I shake. I had opportunities to do well in business, but this keeps me from doing that. I need some help with this. Could you send me some reading material that might help? You are the first one I have discussed this with. -

You need to see a doctor who is an expert in helping people get over such fears - a psychiatrist. Has that thought occurred to you? I don't believe you will get better without such help, and you could very well get worse. No reading material will be that useful to you. Many people have your problem, although granted, most do not have it to your degree. You can Kee

Funny as it may seem, that's an attitude public boards in Texas should adopt, a former assistant attorney general said at a recent seminar for new members of state boards and commissions.

But keeping such an open mind about open meetings and open records isn't always easy for councils, board and commission members.

"You'll have to learn to live in a fish bowl," says William Reid, an Austin attorney and former assistant attorney general told the seminar

He also noted that the "most important thing I believe you can do for the state of Texas ... (is) to adopt a positive attitude about these laws.

That may be good advice for the many public boards and commissions in Texas, but, unfortunately, it won't always be followed.

Those on the outside of the fish bowl, however, might prompt a more positive attitude if they come to public meetings armed with some knowledge of Reid's Rules of Order

Here's a sampling of advice Reid recently gave to a seminar of new state board members, adapted to the viewpoint of an involved public spectator:

• When confronted by a board member or a board intent on conducting public business in private, remind them of the so-called Law of Secrecy: "The best way to publicize a governmental action ... is to try to

• If that doesn't phase them, note that open meetings help make the 1st Amendment to the U.S. Constitution work and they are undermining it by holding closed meetings. Reid says that freedom of speech, freedom of the press, the right of people to assemble and petition the government can't survive unless the public is assured of obtaining information from the government.

· Should they remain as stubborn as ever, note that any policy enacted while violating a portion of the Open Meetings Act can be nullified. (No need to anger them by threatening to file suit. They should realize that's a possibility.)

Law of Secrecy: 'The best way to publicize

a governmental action is to try to hide it.'

When it comes to being lax in giving adequate notice of meetings, remind them that it's illegal for any quorum of any public board or commission, or a quorum of any board committee or subcommittee, to meet informally. without notice. That's if they talk about public business. Idle chitchat about the weather is permissible. Also, point out that notices must give a clear idea of what will be discussed at public meetings. "Simply listing "New Business". Business' and such — that is the people what you're really doing."

A notice can read, "New business to be heard and a hearing date to be set," but remember a board can take no action on an item unless it is specifically listed in the agenda.

Reid notes that some boards try to hire new college presidents or city managers or police chiefs under the simple heading of "discussion of personnel changes" with no explanation of what they are actually going to do. That won't cut it. It's a clear violation of the open meetings laws, he says.

"This is the sort of matter that's important enough that they (the public) ought to know when you're going to take it up," he says.

 Look for the board's attorney when officials say they are closing the meeting to discuss pending or potential litigation

A board cannot discuss litigation re behind closed doors without its attorney present.

• Watch out for the board that seems to be calling numerous emergency meetings.

Reid cautions against calling emergency meetings. They could be viewed in court as an attempt to circumvent the open meetings law.

• As for standing up and giving the board a piece of your mind, remember that the Open Meetings Act does not mandate citizen participation, only the public's right to observe board actions

If a citizen completely disrupts a meeting by demanding to speak, he might be thrown out. Reid notes, however, that it might be politically advantageous for a board to allow the

Course in public speaking offered

To help one sharpen speaking — and thinking — skills, Avery and Associates will be offering the opportunity to enroll in a weekly session designed to meet the needs of people who must appear before others, according to Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Avery and Associates.

Whether one wants to polish self confidence in giving speeches, sales presentations, or reports — or simply wants to have the confidence to respond when called upon to give an opening prayer, a brief testimonial, or a simple explanation before a group, it is important for success to improve speaking style and learn how gestures, appearance and attitude can enhance or detract from the

To make the most of public speaking opportunities, this program has been designed with some of aspects of a Dale Carnegie course and the Toastmasters Club. It is built around a weekly meeting with participants learning by doing and by watching others perform, said Mrs.

The full program consists of eight week course and costs $40. Among the areas to be covered are confidence and attitude, what to say and how to say it, audience rapport, creative speaking and thinking, visuals, vocabulary, and various speaking tips.

Businesses are urged to send their promising secretarial, mid-management, and executive employees, said Mrs. Avery. There is no age limit but class size will be limited to no more than 15 and no less than 10.

Participants will receive all class materials as a part of the montly fee

There will be six difference meeting times to include both day and night classes. For those who can get workrelease time during the day or who do not work in a structured setting, there will be daytime classes at 3:00 a.m. Mondays, 9:00 a.m. Tuesday, and 1:00 p.m. Wednesdays. Night classes will be offered Monday night at 8:00 p.m., Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m., and Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m.

This practical approach to speaking before the public is offered to housewives, students, secretaries, managers, executives, or all those wishing to improve their communication of the spoken word.

The classes begin the week of Oct. 12. All those interested are urged to call 263-1451 for more information or

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently lost a prema ture baby boy. He was our first child and the first grandchild on both sides. My husband and I were both very grateful to our family and friends for their support during such a difficult time. However, all the flowers, gifts and condolence letters were addressed to me. The younger Buckley, a 1976 graduate of Yale University, took over as Bush's speechwriter from Victor Gold, who is remaining at the White House as a consultant for Bush's press office. Gold earned his spurs as a speechwriter for former Vice President Sprio Agnew

Although working for Bush means he gets to troop around the back corridors of the White House, Buckley says his job is far less demanding than the next step up being the president's speechwriter.

WASHINGTON— Being the son of conservative columnist William F Buckley has its advantages, like

Aside from "nattering nabobs of negativism," the memorable phrase uttered by Agnew to castigate the news media, three vice presidential remarks are remembered by the general public, Buckley notes.

> Buckley says the closest he has come to coining an historic phrase was last month, when he inserted the word "nuts" in a speech Bush gave to a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Philadelphia.

> In the speech Buckley wrote, Bush quoted Gen. Anthony MacAuliff's famous reply to a German demand for surrender during the Battle of the Bulge in World War II. Bush used the same to reply to Soviet criticism of President Reagan's decision to produce the neutron

The speech was quoted on network television and in national news magazines — the true sign of a successful speechwriter, Buckley says. Buckley admits he goes through spasms of self indulgence in his speechwriting. He says his White House superiors "suffer my pendantic bent," although occasionally they let him know he is going overboard.

In one speech, he had Bush quote Aristotle, Tom Wolfe, John Kepneth Galbraith and other luminaries of past and present. "They told me I had one quote in there too many," Buckley said.

NEW YORK (AP) — A 1971 White House tape recording reveals then-President Nixon was so angry over an anti-war demonstration that he endorsed a suggestion to use Teamsters union "thugs" to assault protesters, The New York Times reported today.

The newly disclosed tape, the Times said in a report from its Washington bureau, is of a discussion between Nixon and his chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, on May 5, 1971, during a three-day Vietnam war protest in Washington.

A transcript of the tape obtained by the Times shows Haldeman raised the idea of hiring Teamsters to 'really hurt 'em. You know...smash some noses.'

The 26-page transcript was among more than 750 pages of transcripts prepared by the National Archives in response to a subpoena filed in 1979 by lawyers for 1,200 protesters arrested that day. Federal courts have ruled that arrests made then were unconstitutional

There is no evidence the Nixon-Haldeman conversation resulted in any direct action against demonstrators, The Times said.

R. Stan Mortenson, an attorney for Nixon, gave the Times a statement saying that if the "Times has an authentic transcript, there apparently has been an unauthorized disclosure in violation of a federal statute, court order or regulation."

Haldeman told the Times he had no comment and did not "care much" about 10-year-old tapes.

Tapes: Nixon wanted Texas congressmen give mixed reviews to speech

WASHINGTON (AP) - Early reaction of Texas congressmen to President Reagan's nationally telecast speech in behalf of a new round of spending cuts makes it clear another blood-letting soon will be taking place on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives.

"His speech was very well delivered, but I don't think he is going to receive as much support on this as he did the last time," said Rep. Richard White, D-El Paso, a "boli weevil" who defected from the Democratic Party to support Reagan on the budget bill.

Less conservative Democrats were more explicit. 'I was impressed as usual with the president's ability to deliver a good speech, but to paraphrase the president, 'You can run but you can't hide' from the reality that the bottom line is that the administration's program will result in the largest deficit in American history," said

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas. "It will be hard to make this magnitude of cuts," added Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas, adding that the size of Reagan's tax bill made larger deficits inevitable. He agreed changes will have to be considered in the tax bill.

A more logical approach to curing the nation's economic ailments, Frost said, would be for the president to persuade the Federal Reserve Board to lower interest

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, the House majority leader, chastized Reagan for blaming Democrats for the deficit. Democrats were much more submissive than should have been expected, he said.

Wright said the national deficit figures that Reagan seeks to correct are the natural result of the president's insistence on a major tax cut and the largest peacetime buildup in the history of the country.

Despite the opposition, Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, the author of Reagan's budget bill that won congressional approval, predicted the president's newest proposal also will win. Texas Republicans agreed with that: other Democrats.

even Gramm's fellow conservatives, were less sure. 'I believe congressional reaction will be similar to what we heard earlier this year," said Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, the deputy minority whip of the House, referring to the budget and tax bill battles Reagan won.

"There will of course be the partisan responses, but I think it will settle down in the House to where the efforts of the bipartisan coalition that brought success earlier this year will become very crucial again to achieve this $16 billion reduction," Loeffler added.

"The president's proposal for a mid-course correction to get us back on budget and back on target for a balanced budget in 1984 is sound economically and saleable politically," Gramm added. "The president has taken a step that for the first time in 15 years assures that a budget that was set out is going to be lived with," Gramm added.

Loeffler said the president "has given us a real good course to continue our efforts to achieve a balanced budget in 1984. We now have the president's new budget target, so we'll reload, take careful aim and go after the

As part of his recommendations for finding more revenue, the president recommended that more user fees

Wright said "I don't think Tim O'Neill and I would be in favor of a proposition where he (Reagan) and (Republican Senate Leader) Howard Baker appointed two thirds of its members and the speaker on the other hand appointed one third. I think the speaker can count

Wright added that Social Security isn't simply a question of cutting benefits or raise payroll taxes, as

"There's a lot of other things than can be done if necessary. We can enrich the fund from general revenues We could put another nickel on a package of cigarettes and a quarter on a gallon of spirited beverages." Here are comments from other Texas congressmen:

- Bill Archer, R-Houston: "Whether the Congress will accept this depends once again on the support of the American people for the president's proposals. I was particularly glad he did focus on Social Security apart from the budget, because Social Security does have special problems outside the overall budget, and we can't afford to sweep these problems under the rug.

- Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson: "I think he will get the support of Congress, but I think he will have a harder job than the first time. We need all of those cuts plus more if we ever expect to get the budget balanced.

Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford: "I was relieved to hear his assurances to Social Security recipients that the budget would not be balanced through their sacrifices. At the same time, we can't afford to ignore the long-range problems facing the system, and certainly the task force is a step in the right direction toward approaching those problems in a bipartisan manner.

Stenholm reserved comment on details of Reagan's plan until he can visit with people of his district when he returns to West Texas this weekend.

"The president once again asked citizens to let their representatives know their feelings on his proposal, and I fully expect my constituents to do that."

In short, even the most skeptical observer should be optimistic about the success of the President's program. Interest rates remain a legitimate concern, but as the program begins to work — and investors and consumers

Further, the importance of Wall Street as an indicator of the success or failure of the economic program has been grossly exaggerated. So many factors and perceptions affect the short-term performance of stock prices that these fluctuations are not a good indicator of longterm economic health.

From April to September of this year, the Dow Jones Industrial average dropped by 17 percent. Yet, prior to that period stock prices rallied on the basis of the President's announcement of his legislative program. Does it seem logical that the announcement should spark confidence, but the keeping of these promises should cause consternation?

Further, this most recent drop is a relatively mild one, when compared to previous periods. In the two-month period from February to April of 1980, for example, the Certainly, I understand the concern of investors in all areas about high interest rates. But investors should at least give the Administration's program time to take effect and begin to work before they panic. And observers of the economy should not let the skepticism of stock investors shake their confidence in a viable, workable economic program.

Utility drops Brown & Root from N-plant project

HOUSTON (AP) — Brown & Root Inc. has been relieved of engineering and construction management responsibilities at the South Texas Nuclear Project because Houston Lighting and Power officials were not satisfied with the progress of the construction, a HL&P spokesman said.

'We have always felt that the quality of this project was good," said Don Beeth, director of nuclear information for the utility, the controlling partner in the con-struction project. "Our distress has been with the quantity of their work."

Bechtel Power Corp., which has built about 40 nuclear plants, will replace Brown & Root, said HL&P President Don Jordan. Jordan said Brown & Root will continue to do actual construction work

But a Brown & Root press release suggested even that was in doubt.

"Brown & Root intends to cooperate fully with HL&P in making this change, and it has the question of its future role in the project under study." it said

Problems at the facility led the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to fine HL&P $100,000 in May 1980 and order the company

should not be revoked

The action followed an 1,100-hour investigation which found, among other things, that the company had allowed construction workers to intimidate quality control inspectors into approving sub-

Beeth said Thursday's move was not related to those problems nor to Brown & Root's new estimates on the cost of the plant and its completion date.

HL&P "reluctantly came to the conclusion that despite Brown & Root's best efforts, their ability to attract and retain the types of nuclear engineering talent necessary was limited," Beeth said.

He said officials were considering the move as early as six months ago.

Brown & Root announced Thursday that the cost of the finished plant will be between $4.4 billion and $4.8 billion and that the first reactor unit will not be operational until plant's cost would be $2.7 billion and the completion date would be 1984. When the project was originally proposed in 1973, the estimated cost was $738 million and the completion date was set for 1980.

Sinkin said he thought Thursday's action showed that HL&P is extremely worried about the project.

"Houston Lighting and Power has finally realized that this project is in big trouble, and they are trying to take steps to save themselves," he said. "Part of the trouble is the cost, part is the schedule, and part is that in the licensing hearing, there's a devastating record of mismanagement and incompetence.

However, Beeth said there has never been a construction problem of any significance

Tower denies seeking position for his wife

States News Service

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, denied a published report Wednesday that he asked the White House to appoint his wife to a $50,000-a-year post at the Department of Education.

President Reagan announced last June his intention to name the senator's wife, Lilla Cummings Tower, as director of the Institute of Museum Services, an education department post that pays $50,000 a year.

Budget Director David Stockman, however, last April proposed elimination of the 15-member Institute, which distributes grants to museums.

But the Dallas Morning News Wednesday, quoting "a source familiar with administration personnel," said Tower persuaded Reagan to keep the institute, apparently ensuring Mrs. Tower's nomination.

The choice would be subject to Senate confirmation. Tower said in a press statement Wednesday that he has 'done nothing whatsoever to intervene" in the administration's plans to phase out the agency

'Nor did I attempt to bring any pressure to bear on the administration's selection process," Tower added. "My wife has been chosen by President Reagan on her own

Hawk Walk tomorrow

The Howard College Hawk Jog-Walk-Crawl-athon will be held tomorrow morning at Memorial Stadium beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The Hawk Walk was instituted by Howard College Athletic Director Harold Wilder, who caught the idea from a nationally run sports promotion outfit that has conducted similar fund raising affairs on some larger college campuses.

Runners, joggers, or walkers sign-up, with each getting sponsors. There are many prizes being presented, and they will not be for the fastest time, but the most money raised.

Three of the top four money raisers in last year's Hawk Walk are back, and Wilder is hoping for a repeat performance in order to help boost the Howard College

LAMESA - Two teams smarting from shutout losses in their District 2-AAAAA openers meet here tonight when the Lamesa Golden Tors host the Fort Stockton Panthers

Lamesa opened district in a game they would rather forget, a 37-0 loss to Monahans. Fort Stockton was dropping a 21-0 contest at the same time to San Angelo Lake View.

Fort Stockton won their two non-district contests and seemed ready to roll before last week's game, while Lamesa won statistical battles but lost games to Lubbock High and Brownfield.

Lamesa Coach Jim Warren feels Fort Stockton will be raring to go tonight, not only still stinging from the upset loss to Lake View, but also remembering a 14-2 loss they suffered to Lamesa last year.

Stanton at Big Lake

BIG LAKE — The Stanton Buffaloes will be shooting to knock off their third straight Class AAA team here tonight when they joust with the Reagan County Owls.

After opening the season with a 14-10 loss to the state's fifth ranked team in Class AAA, Tahoka, the Class AA Stanton team regrouped and toppled Coahoma 3-0 and Crane 28-6.

But a win tonight will be difficult, as Reagan County boasts an explosive offense headed by tailback Gregg Fisher, who led the Owls to a 409 yard rushing output in a 39-8 win over Iraan last week. Before that, Reagan County had disposed of Crane by a count of 42-36 and lost a 7-0 decision to McCamey

Loraine runs out of the pro-set, utilizing the veer, and will run a 5-2 defense. But that's all academic according to Sands Coach Jim White

O'DONNELL - Homecoming festivities will be making the air sweet tonight for O'Donnell High School, but the Klondike Cougars will be going for an upset to ruin those festivities.

After opening with a pair of wins, O'Donnell suffered a 26-7 loss to Anton last week. But Klondike, after winning their district last year, has lost their first three games in 1981.

But after opening with a lopsided loss to Wink, the Klondike team has shown gradual improvement. But that might not be enough for O'Donnell, a team they handled 28-0 last year.

"They've got a real good ball club," said Klondike Coach Bill West. "Offensively, they've got three good backs back, and defensively they stunt a lot. They really don't have any set defense.

The Big Spring'Lady Steers stayed perfect in District 5-AAAAA first half action here Thursday evening, scoring a tough 15-5, 16-14 win over the Midland Lee Rebels in volleyball

The win was the fourth without a loss in first half district action for the Lady Steers of Coach Patty Purser, and moved their season record to 13-6. They are tied with San Angelo in this thought that all we could do was set it up to Elise. But we fooled them.

Leading server for the Lady Steers was Sissy Doss with 11 points, followed by Amy Ragan with six, Janie Phillips with five, Sylvia Randle with four, Pam Caudill with three and Wheat with two.

Purser also noted the backcourt defense of Janie Phillips in the win. 'Janie had her best game of the season." said Purser.

The Lady Steers now will face Abilene Cooper next Tuesday and Odessa High on Thursday, both on the road. Should the BSHS crew win both of those games, they would host San Angelo on Tuesday, Oct. 6 for the first

In the junior varisty game, Lee managed a 2-15, 15-11, 15-12 win over BSHS. The Lady Shorthorns won't have much rest, as they will enter the Seminole JV Tournament tomorrow beginning at noon. Their first round opponent will be Kermit.

Last year, the Cowboys moseyed into the Meadowlands, on their way to what they thought would be just another routine victory over the New York Giants. When the smoke cleared, Joe Danelo's lastminute 27-yard field goal had enabled the Giants to gun them down 38-35. It wound up costing them their

Now the Giants are visiting Dallas - and the Cowboys are armed with one of the biggest guns in the National Football League, Tony Dorsett, the rushing leader with 423 yards.

Also last year, the Saints visited San Francisco and, by halftime, had amassed a whopping 35-7 lead. But the 49ers, in the club's greatest comeback, rode Joe Montana's two touchdown passes and one scoring run to a tie after four periods, then Ray Wersching's 36yard field goal gave them a 38-35 sudden death victory In New Orleans' case, it postponed by one week their

Coaches play praise games in USC vs. OU

It has all the makings of a game for the national championship. It's No.2 Oklahoma, with the nation's leading rushing offense, against Southern California, the country's top-ranked team. It's just too bad that it's the fourth week of the season instead of a bowl game. 'I don't think in the 16 years I've been in Oklahoma...that anybody has presented the challenge these people do," said Sooners Coach Barry Switzer about Saturday's matchup in Los Angeles. "They are awesome on offense. It's like a tidal wave. This is the most talented team we've played," Switzer added. Talented and undefeated.

Southern Cal, which clobbered Tennessee 43-7 and downed Indiana 21-0, revolves mostly around the talents of tailback Marcus Allen, the nation's leading rusher with 484 yards in two games

"Marcus Allen is a great back," Switzer said. "I think he and Herschel Walker (Georgia) are certainly the two greatest backs in the country. I think when they throw a pass it's a wasted down.

Southern Cal Coach John Robinson says he is concernedabout Oklahoma, which rolled up 453 yards on the ground in beating Wyoming 37-20 in its opener. 'Very few teams still use the wishbone,

Oklahoma seems to defy the normal limitations of the offense," Robinson said. "They rush for a million yards a game and are going through an era where they can win without passing. 'There is no other example of that in college football

This is the tale of two pitchers...uh, two hitters...This is the tale of Bob Knepper and Bill

Knepper and Lee, a pair of left-handers, earn their livings deceiving batters from 60 feet, six inches away. But the Astros' Knepper and the Expos' Lee took charge at the plate Thursday night, each belting a home run to lead his firstplace team closer to a second-half division

Knepper's belt was one of two hits for the Houston hurler — he also singled — as the Astros topped the Atlanta Braves 5-3. Lee upped his batting average to .380 with his home run as Montreal took Pittsburgh 7-1. The Astros lead Cincinnati by 21/2 games in the National League West, while Montreal is 11/2 games ahead of St. Louis in the East.

"Diff'rent Strokes." An episode is being taped with Coleman unheard and unseen on the other side of a telephone conversation.

Estrada failed to report for the beginning of the new season and was replaced on a guest-star basis in four episodes by Olympic decathalon star Bruce Jenner.

"Erik looks forward to working with Bruce, for whom he has great respect and admiration," said Solters, adding that Estrada would report to work next Friday or Monday.

"For all intents and purposes it's assumed he will return to work immediately," Barron said, adding however that it was not yet known exactly when Estrada's first day before the cameras would be.
