DAWN KICK-OFF OF UNITED WAY — Russ McEwen United Way campaign in Howard County today. The campaign has set a goal of $200,000.

Local United Way goal is $200,000

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

United Way Chairperson Russ McEwen announced a goal of $200,000 for the Howard County United Way Campaign at a breakfast to kick off the fund drive this morning.

The breakfast, at the Cactus Room at Howard College, was attended by community leaders and other United Way volunteer workers.

One of four speakers, McEwen said $200,000 is an increase over last year's collected total of $162,000. He said people often look at United Way as just a pool of money and people working to raise money.

But he said, "We're about people, people who cannot — not won't — help themselves." He said the United Way and people of the various agencies supported by the United Way are dedicated to people who might not have any other chance.

Ron Medley, president of United Way, called the collected community volunteers "dedicated strangers" who work for the Howard County United Way. He said "We want to give people a chance to help themselves."

United Way Co-chairperson Drew Mouton asked the volunteer workers to watch for good people in their work for United Way so that they could someday lead United Way Campaigns.

The immediate past president of the United Way, Charles Hays, said Big Spring and Howard County pull together like no other community, and he said "The key to the campaign is telling people what our needs are."

The United Way Campaign is broken down into various divisions with different goals. The divisions, their department heads, and their goals are as follows: Out of Town, Curt Strong, $7,500; Pacesetters, Ron Medley, $75,000; Special, Hooper Sanders, $38,500; and Metropolitan, Johnnie Avery and Claudine Floyd,

Other divisions are CFC Don Minyard, $12,500; Professional, Ray Kennedy, $17,500; Rural, JoAnne Poyner, $3,000; and Residential, Bert Andries, $7,500.

The sponsors of the Kick-off breakfast were TESCO, represented by Hooper Sanders, and Energas, represented by Daryl Pittman. A motivating film about the United Way, "Tomorrow," starring Frank Gifford, was also shown at the early morning breakfast.

Agencies aided by United Way funds are as follows: Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A., Red Cross, Boys Club, Boy Scouts, Westside Day Care Center, Westside Community Center, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Howard County Family Services, Planned Parenthood, Girl Scouts and Foster Parents.

Area savers snapping up new certificates

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Activity at Big Spring financial institutions was expected to be brisk for the second day in a row today as people line up to buy high-interest, tax-free All-Savers certificates.

Nearly all area banks and savings and loan associations contacted yesterday reported steady lines of customers for the certificates, which offer a 12.61 percent annual interest rate.

The lines were expected to be just as long — or longer — today when it was announced by the Treasury Department that the rate will go down Monday to 12.14 percent.

"We've had a steady stream of people since we opened," Jerry Fore-syth, vice-president of Big Spring Savings, said yesterday.

Big Spring Savings, he said, would open up for business Saturday morning for folks who want to purchase the certificates before the lower interest rate becomes effective.

"We have been literally swamped," said Frances Hendrick, a spokeswoman for First Federal Savings.

Activity was expected to be somewhat higher at the S&Ls, since they are involved with real estate more than commercial banks and the money generated from the sale of the All-Savers by law must be used to provide home loans. But activity was brisk at the banks, too.

"We're snowed under," said Sadie

Wallace, vice-president of Security State Bank. She said the bank sold a total of $102,000 worth of the certificates yesterday. The average purchase of the certificates, which sell at $500 minimums, was about $8,500, she added.

Bob Gribble, vice-president for State National Bank, said the average purchase at his bank was pegged at about $15,000. He said that was the amount needed to be invested before a couple filing a joint tax return can earn the maximum $2,000 in tax-free interest available on the All-Savers. (The maximum tax-free interest earned from the certificates for a single person is $1,000.)

Amid all the hoopla to participate in the savings bonanza, there were a few dissenting voices. One bank executive wondered how the certificates could possibly aid the home loan business when the All-Savers can be held only for one year (and will stop being offered in December, 1982).

"It looks to me like short-term money," he said. "How can we loan $60,000 on a house loan for thirty years when we can only hold the money to generate the loans for one year?"

And out in Coahoma, people didn't seem excited by the prospects of buying high-yield certificates. "I got two or three inquiries," said Johnny Justus, vice-president and cashier for Coahoma State Bank. "But I didn't expect too many customers. We'll build some, though. We'll have some."

SIGN LANGUAGE

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Today's sign, pictured here, is "school." To form the sign, clap the hands twice.

Learning the origin of a certain sign will often help learners to remember the sign. If you'll look back at the signs we've published this week, you'll see how logical many of them are.

For example, Tuesday we published the sign for "name," which reflects the crossing of the fingers to form an "X." Thursday, the sign for "work" carried an explanation that the sign originally depicted the activity of the hands, by bringing the right "S" sign facing down on the wrist of the left "S" sign.

"School" is another logical sign, if you think about a teacher clapping her hands for the attention of students in a classroom.

The sign for "college" features another logical step. To sign "college," clap the hands once, then circle the right open hand, palm down, counterclockwise above the left palm.

The origin of this sign is a school that is higher, or more advanced, than an elementary or secondary school.

Here's a few tips on the positioning of your hands when fingerspelling or signing. Usually, the hand is held in front of the chest in a comfortable spot. This way, the person watching you sign can look at your face without having to bob his eyes back and forth from your hands to your eyes.

If you're signing to an audience of one, or a small group of people, signs do not extend much beyond the body area. With an increase in the number of people watching, and in the distance from you to them, the size of the signs may also increase.

On Sunday, the Herald will publish a recap of this week's signs, giving novice signers a little chance for a review.

Next week, this column will give some information on the differences between American Sign Language, and other forms of sign language, such as manually coded English.

Oil projects spur local construction

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Oil-related growth made September "a real good month" for construction activity in Big Spring, Dewey Byers, city building inspector, said today. A total of $833,068 in construction projects were approved during the month.

Although the number of permits issued in September, 28, was lower than in any of the previous seven months, many of the permits were for extensive projects, said Byers.

In August, 48 permits were issued, representing $592,106 in new construction costs.

Thus far this year, the city has recorded $6,348,058.60 in proposed construction costs for several commercial and residential projects.

In August of 1980, Byers said, the city was well below that figure, with $4,021,058 in construction costs approved.

"We're up about $2,300,000 over 1980," Byers said. "O.I.L. has a lot to do with it, and so does Fiberflex."

Both Big Spring-based companies received permits for extensive projects in September. Byers said O.I.L. paid $3 for a permit allowing them to build a fence at a cost of $35,888, and a fee of $138.50 for $51,000 in new construction at their Industrial Park site.

Fiberflex Products, located at building 615-B in the Industrial Park, purchased a permit at the cost of $711 for estimated construction costs of $480,000.

A permit was issued to Bob Parks for $51,000 in new construction at 201 Gregg.

A permit for a new home at 900 Highland was issued to Ford Ferris. Estimated construction cost on the home is $80,000.

Also, estimated construction cost of $40,000 for alterations at the offices of Dr. James Cave, 205 W. 15th, were approved.

These and other permits totalled out to $1,662.50 for September. This compared to $602 collected for September, 1980.

The $833,068 in construction costs for September, 1981, compared to $178,053 in construction costs for September, 1980.

Byers said he felt construction would continue to flourish in Big Spring because of oil-related growth in the area. Because of the critical housing shortage in this area, he said he felt in the near future an increase in housing unit permits would be noted.

He added he has already been contacted by several "prospective builders" who are planning "several pretty extensive projects. I think the building permits are going to continue to go up. I can't see them going down."

Unemployment rate rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising joblessness among adults and the highest rate ever for blacks sent unemployment up three-tenths of a percent to 7.5 percent in September, the Labor Department said today.

The total number of people out of work neared 8 million — more than 300,000 above August's total, the department said.

For blacks, unemployment rose one-tenth of a percent to 16.3 percent, a record. The unemployment rate among whites in September jumped four-tenths of a percent to 6.5 percent.

Last month's 7.5 percent overall jobless rate was the highest since last November, except for a 7.6 percent rate in May.

Motor vehicles top list for city surplus auction

More than two dozen motor vehicles top the list of items up for grabs in the city of Big Spring's annual auction of surplus goods slated for Saturday in the municipal Industrial Park.

Dub Bryant will be conducting the auction in the salvage yard behind building 622 at the park. The auction begins at 10 a. m. and it'll last until everything's gone. Dub expects everything to be over by four o'clock," says City Finance Director Tom Ferguson.

Other items up for sale in the auction — which is free — include bicycles, furniture, typewriters and machine shop tools.

"A lot of it's new, some of it's pretty worn out — it's an as-is auction," says Ferguson.

Additional items will be auctioned off by the Howard County Junior College District and the Big Spring Independent School District.

The county won't be contributing since its bidding procedures require a different auctioneer to handle its auction this year, according to City Manager Don Davis.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Stale bread data

Q. Is this a losing battle, or can you somehow add life to stale bread?

A. When they start reclaiming stale bread, then we know things are getting rough out there!

We've got this book that never ceases to amaze us because it always has the hard-to-find remedies and tips that none of our other books have. It's called "Mary Ellen's Best of Helpful Hints," by Mary Ellen Pinkham and Pearl Higginbotham, and you've probably seen it in bookstores. Sure enough, it had a remedy for stale bread.

To begin with, it says a rib of celery kept in the bread sack will keep it fresh for a long time. If you've already lost the battle, it says to wrap the stale bread in a damp towel and put it in the refrigerator for 24 hours. Then take it out and put it in the oven for a few minutes (after removing the towel).

Lawmakers audited

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, who is considering a U.S. Senate race next year, ran up the Legislature's highest total of office expenses in fiscal 1980, according to an audit released Thursday.

State Auditor George McNeil's report for the year that ended Aug. 31, 1980, showed Mengden spent $132,015.

Mengden's total included an office payroll of $73,979, the Legislature's largest.

Top spender in the House, which has greater restrictions than the Senate on office expenditures, was Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, who spent $54,391. Wilson had the only five-figure telephone and telegraph bill, $12,622.

Running the least expensive office was Rep. Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge, whose total expenses were $10,190 for the year.

Lowest spending senator was Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, who resigned this year to become a district judge. Longoria's expenditures totaled $15,921.

McNeil reported that it cost $524,664 to keep Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's office going and $359,079 for Speaker Bill Clayton's office.

The fiscal year covered by McNeil's report was one in which the Legislature did not meet.

Total Senate expenditures were $6.2 million, while the House spent $10.3 million.

McNeil noted that former Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, who was convicted of spending state money on personal campaign expenses last year, had complied with a condition of his probation by giving the Senate a $10,000 restitution check on March 30, 1981.

Auto layoffs increase

DETROIT (AP) — The number of open-ended layoffs in the U.S. auto industry rose to 167,350 this week as domestic car production fell 4.3 percent from last week, according to industry reports.

The five major U.S. automakers said Thursday that indefinite layoffs were up 700 from 166,650 reported last week but temporary furloughs fell to 37,375 from last week's 50,450.

Meanwhile, the industry journal Ward's Automotive Reports said U.S. automakers planned to build 109,090 cars this week compared with 113,959 last week, down 19 percent from 134,908 made in the same week last year.

U.S. manufacturers also were scheduled to build 29,413 trucks for the week, up 1.8 percent from last week's 28,898 but 26 percent fewer than the 39,890 made in the same week in 1980.

General Motors Corp. said its indefinite layoffs remained at 83,000 while temporary layoffs fell to 16,000 from last week's 32,200. GM has four assembly plants closed for the changeover to 1982 model production.

At Ford Motor Co., indefinite layoffs increased to 39,675 from last week's 39,175 and temporary layoffs rose to 11,475 from 4,850 a week ago. Ford has two car plants and four truck plants closed to reduce inventories.

Indefinite layoffs at Chrysler Corp. rose slightly to 40,000 from 39,800 reported last week but temporary furloughs dipped to 6,900 from last week's 8,400. Chrysler has one assembly plant closed for inventory reduction.

At American Motors Corp., the number of open-ended layoffs remained at 4,345 while temporary layoffs fell to 3,000 from the 5,000 reported last week. AMC's Toledo, Ohio, Jeep plant is closed to reduce inventory.

Volkswagen of America's layoff figures were unchanged at 330 indefinite layoffs.

Hunt files suit

DALLAS (AP) — W. Herbert Hunt and a group of Penn Central stockholders have filed suit against the company to block its acquisition of Col Industries, Inc.

The lawsuit, filed in a Pennsylvania U.S. District Court Thursday, charges Penn Central's plan to buy Col violates Pennsylvania and federal law.

A spokesman for the stockholders' committee, which is co-chaired by Dallas billionaire W. Herbert Hunt, said the group wants the merger blocked until an absolute majority of stockholders — not just a majority of those who vote — approve the action.

Hunt had called the planned acquisition "basically a bad deal for Penn Central shareholders," because it would dilute the earnings and liquidity of Penn Central shares.

Hunt's committee holds approximately 7.5 percent of the Penn Central shares eligible to vote.

A Penn Central spokesman called the suit "without merit." He said the company "intends to defend the litigation vigorously," and that shareholders would vote on the merger October 29, as scheduled.

Sen Tower angry over desertion arrest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has promised Sen. John Tower an explanation by the end of the day of why military police arrested a Laredo man on a 14-year-old desertion warrant that turned out to be false, a spokesman for the senator said.

Tower, R-Texas, demanded an explanation "by nightfall" Thursday from Secretary of the Army Jack Marsh, but later agreed to a one-day extension at the request of the Army, said spokesman Terry Ware.

Roque Vela was arrested Saturday at a birthday party for a local judge. He spent four days in custody — first in the Webb County jail, then San Antonio, then Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He was released Tuesday after an attorney and a friend met him at Fort Sill with his service records.

Vela was awarded a Purple Heart after he was wounded in Vietnam in August of 1967. He said the military police did not believe him when he insisted a mistake had been made, and that they told him there was no one in Texas with authority to hear his case.

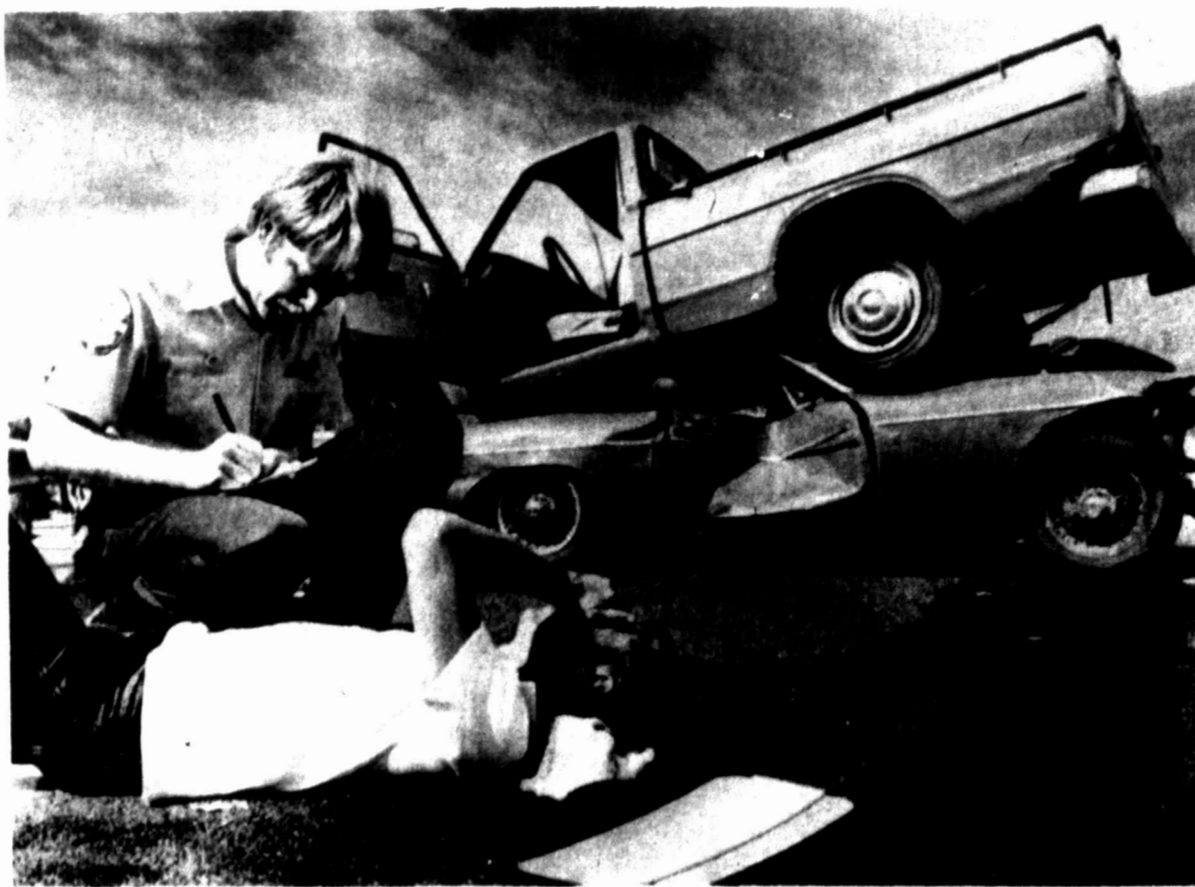

A spokesman for the Deserter Information Center at Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indiana said a warrant was issued when a computer called up Vela's file as part of a periodic search of unsolved cases.

Reagan to announce defense plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, announcing probably the most important military decision of his presidency, is setting a decades-long course for defense against what he considers a growing Soviet ability to wage all-out war.

While sources said the Reagan defense plan being unveiled today on a scaled-down MX missile deployment in the West of a new B-1 bomber, the exact scope of the MX system and where the nuclear missiles will be located were a closely held secret.

Reports that the Reagan plan would include 100 MX missiles scattered amid 1,000 shelters were labeled "so many errors" by administration spokesmen, but sources indicated it was the number of shelters — not missiles — that may have been wrong. The sources also said Reagan had not decided exactly where the missiles will be put.

Actual construction of the shelters is not scheduled to begin until 1984, so delaying a choice of sites would not hold up putting the missiles in place.

The most likely locations are on government-owned land in Nevada, with other possible sites in Utah or in existing Minuteman missile silos in North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming.

Some 400 of the 1,000 Minuteman silos could be easily modified for the MX, but critics have contended these shelters are vulnerable to destruction by advanced Soviet weapons unless a second layer of defense — anti-ballistic missiles — are put in place.

Whatever the configuration of the plan, it will form the basis of U.S. defense policy for years, because major weapons systems are not born in a day, or even a decade.

A new generation of missiles such as the MX was first discussed in the mid-1960s, for instance, and the first MX, 10 nuclear warheads, will not be operational until the mid-1980s.

As for the B-1, development of a new bomber has been an Air Force priority since before the last B-52s — the stratofortresses — were produced in 1962. And sources say

U.S. to ship grain

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S.-Soviet diplomatic relations are in a post-detente deep-freeze, but the Reagan administration expects American grain sales to the Soviet Union to set a new record in the next 12 months.

The administration announced Thursday it has offered Moscow 23 million metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn and expects the Kremlin to buy at least 18 million tons.

At current prices of $150 to $170 a ton, Soviet purchases could total $2.7 billion to $3.06 billion in the year ending Sept. 30, 1982.

Bullock stand-in calls for West Texas pairing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock's stand-in on the Legislative Redistricting Board has denied reports that Bullock is trying to "get" certain senators by eliminating their districts.

But, said Robert Spellings, a senatorial redistricting plan can satisfy legal requirements only if it "pairs" two West Texas senators and two East Texas senators.

Population shifts mean each of those two areas must give up a senator, said Spellings, Bullock's redistricting consultant and former deputy.

Lynn Moak, an aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, chairman of the board, said such pairings of senators are unnecessary.

The five-member board has until midnight Oct. 28 to draw new House and Senate districts. Bullock is under treatment for alcoholism in California, but Spellings said he will return Oct. 23.

Spellings denied reports that Bullock instructed him to draw plans that would "pair" Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texas, with Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, and Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, with some other senator, such as Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, or Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville.

"I will swear on my children's head he has never told me, 'Go pair those people.' ... I'll take a lie detector test," Spellings said in a telephone interview.

Howard and Jones have drawn Bullock's ire in recent months, and Jones has talked of running for comptroller.

A friend of Bullock suggested Bullock might have "popped off" that he would like to "get" Howard or Jones through redistricting but never intended to follow through.

"My plan will have an East Texas pair and a West Texas pair. ... It is obvious from a legal standpoint you have to make those pairs. ... Personalities don't make any difference to me — they just don't," Spellings said.

Legal requirements districts must meet under the federal Voting Rights Act and U.S. Supreme Court decisions include equality of population, protection of minority voting strength, compactness and community of interest.

The Tyler Morning Telegraph this week said Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong reportedly backed Bullock's alleged plan to pair Howard and Blake.

"That is an error. I am going to look at everybody's plan and see what looks right," said Armstrong, a board member.

Attorney General Mark White said he would have a Senate plan but would offer it only if the board can't agree on a remap he feels he can successfully defend in court.

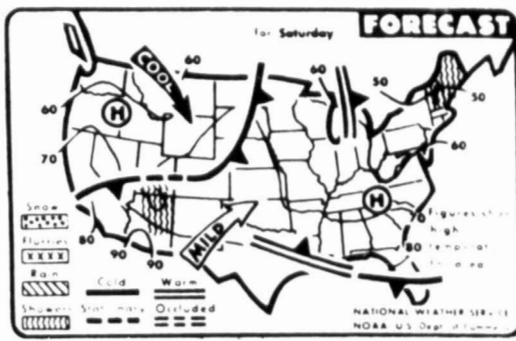

"I would like to avoid pairs," he said.

Moak said a West Texas pair and an East Texas pair were not necessary to withstand a legal challenge.

The Senate's own redistricting bill, which Gov. Bill Clements vetoed, paired Dallas-area Republican Sens. John Leedom and Dee Travis and Houston Sens. Jack Ogg and Walter Mengden. Mengden, a Republican, plans to run for the U.S. Senate in 1982.

"We see no purpose in moving from the intent of the Senate plan," Moak said.

Doctors test growth hormone

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors who injected a 10-year-old Houston girl with the first dose of an experimental synthetic growth hormone said they were excited by the promise the new drug holds for children abnormally short because of glandular deficiencies.

Doctors at the Baylor College of Medicine said the synthetic hormone may be the answer to a shortage of the natural hormone that has severely restricted the number of children who could be treated.

"We're excited about this because in the past there have been serious problems with supply and demand that have limited the number of children who could receive the (natural) hormone," said Dr. Rebecca T. Kirkland, a pediatrician at the Baylor College of Medicine.

She said the only source of the natural hormone has been the pituitary glands of cadavers. She said the hormone cost each patient $5,000 a year and was so scarce it could only be given to children whose pituitary gland did not produce the substance at all.

Ms. Kirkland said the synthetic hormone could be an abundant and less expensive alternative.

Ms. Kirkland and Dr. George W. Clayton, professor of pediatrics at Baylor and director of the Baylor Clinical Research Center, administered the first dose of the synthetic hormone Thursday to 10-year-old Shannon Pillow of Houston.

Shannon appears to be about 6 years old because of an injury to her pituitary gland caused by a car accident.

She will continue to take the shots three times a week for a year, said Hazel Haby, spokesman for the Texas Children's Hospital, where the Baylor clinical center is located.

Dr. Kirkland said the synthetic hormone could be an abundant and less expensive alternative.

Texaco, dealers fight over new credit charge

HOUSTON (AP) — Service station dealers meeting in Houston have accused Texaco USA of using a planned credit processing charge to run them out of business.

But Texaco officials said Thursday the company will begin charging a handling fee of 3 percent for credit card sales despite dealers' protests.

Ellis W. Gunnels, vice president for marketing, said at an afternoon news conference that Texaco will not modify its plan to add the 3 percent charge to sales of gasoline and other items beginning Nov. 1.

"Our credit card has become an endangered species," Gunnels said. "It's real simple. The unbelievable cost of money has made the receivables a burden that we cannot carry any longer."

Under the new plan, Texaco will assess the charge against dealers' invoices at the end of each month.

Wayne Konitshek, acting chairman of the National Texaco Dealer Task Force, has said the processing charge will cost Texaco dealers business because they will be forced to raise their prices 4 cents a gallon.

Texaco officials have maintained the cost increase will amount to only 1.5 cents a gallon.

About 40 representatives of dealers from across the nation are gathering this weekend in Houston to protest the charge.

At a Thursday news conference, Konitshek told reporters he believes the charge "is a ploy to force additional dealers out of business." He said Texaco, like other major companies, overbuilt service stations in the 1960s.

A Texaco spokesman denied the charge, saying, "While withdrawing from some areas, we are not replacing independent retailers with company-owned operations in any state."

Two Dyess airmen charged in slaying of store guard

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Two airmen stationed at Dyess Air Force Base have been accused of killing a security guard shot three times when he interrupted a burglary, authorities said.

Michael Heard, 20, and Keyvn McHenry, 20, were arraigned Thursday on capital murder charges before Justice of the Peace Clarence Collins, who set their bonds at $50,000 each.

Investigators said security guard Jerry Wristen was shot three times when he interrupted the burglars at a south Abilene stereo store at about a.m. Thursday.

Police said they had recovered about $5,000 worth of stereo equipment taken in the burglary.

The suspects were arrested Thursday afternoon at the base, investigators said.

Nation must go on a diet

Let's not be too quick to join the clucking about "failure" of Reagan's economic program.

The program only began yesterday. We must give it a chance to become operative before we start to bury it.

Too many alleged Wall Street wizards were preaching gloom and doom even before the administration's tax and budget cuts took effect.

One observer pointed out that that's not unlike ordering a new air-conditioner and wondering, before it's delivered, why the house isn't cool yet.

WE HAVE COME to expect instant gratification in nearly all aspects of our lives — from the way we eat to the way we invest our money.

We must learn to inject some discipline into our lives; and from discipline comes depth and freedom. Just as a ballet dancer makes many sacrifices in his lifestyle to achieve the brilliant beauty that seems so effortless, we too as a nation must learn to rid ourselves of the gluttonous, I-want-it-right-now attitude that has caused our federal budget to spill over its gut.

AS A NATION, we've got to go on an economic diet. It's not going to be fun. It's a long-term strategy which, in the short run, may prove to be somewhat costly. The budget cuts, however, are designed to improve the long-term health of our nation and the overall standard of living of our people.

The main thing we must remember is that one doesn't lose globs of excess fat overnight. It takes time, but it's worth it in the long run.

Vance's AWACS leak

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The leak of a private letter from former secretary of state Cyrus Vance opposing the AWACS deal has undermined President Reagan's plan to line up a pro-AWACS bloc of all living ex-presidents and former secretaries of state and defense in favor of the deal.

Vance's letter, written to anti-AWACS Democratic senator Alan Cranston was not intended for public consumption. Sources in the senator's office, however, leaked word that Vance opposed the sale of five AWACS radar aircraft to Saudi Arabia. What makes Vance's position so valuable to anti-AWACS senators is the reputation he built during the Carter administration as pro-Arab.

Vance told his letter was a response to a request from Cranston. He said he opposed selling AWACS to any country in the Middle East, including Israel. Former secretaries of state are usually scrupulous in not attempting to defeat another president's policies, but Vance broke that rule earlier in criticizing Reagan's arms control policy.

NO AID FOR POLAND
One of the victims of the latest Reagan administration budget cutting was Secretary of State Alexander Haig's bid for substantial new U.S. aid to the virtually bankrupt communist regime in Poland.

Officials from the Treasury and the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), who have been waging a year-long backstage war with the State Department over foreign aid, ganged up on Haig to defeat Polish aid. Only Richard V. Allen, the White House national security assistant, backed Haig as a Cabinet council and later the National Security Council decisively voted down new funds for Poland.

Murray Weidenbaum, the usually understated chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, delivered a passionate argument in the Cabinet council against Polish aid. He reflected the objection by Reagan economic policymakers to both the effectiveness of foreign aid and its propriety in a time of budgetary restraint.

AN ANGRY NIXON

Former president Nixon is fuming over the failure of the Reagan White House to periodically give him complete briefings on national security policy.

Nixon confides to friends that he has had only one briefing since Jan. 20, when White House aide Richard V. Allen went to Manhattan to fill him in on foreign, military and intelligence secrets.

There has been no second visit, even though in recent years most presidents have taken elaborate precautions to keep their redcoats fully informed on the behind-the-scenes intelligence. Nixon is demanding similar treatment.

FRITZ MODERATES

A sign of former vice president Walter F. Mondale's gentle drift toward the Democratic Party's center in preparation for his 1984 presidential campaign was his appearance at a Sept. 15 fund-raising event for Mayor Edward Koch of New York, whose campaign for a second term has been under intense attack from the left.

Mondale's general rule is not to take sides in contested Democratic primaries, and he had agreed to attend the Koch fund-raiser only because it was to follow the Sept. 10 primary. But when a federal court forced the delay of the primary until Sept. 22, Mondale showed up anyway (naming Koch as "the John McEnroe of politics").

Mondale's appearance confirmed the judgment by Democratic insiders that he is consciously moving to the right of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, his possible rival for 1984. The black-liberal coalition that supported State Assemblyman Frank Barbaro's unsuccessful challenge of Koch in the New York City primary is also Kennedy's power base.

LABOR FEUDING

Machinists union leader William Wimpfinger was less than happy about the way the AFL-CIO's Solidarity Day demonstration against Reaganomics was conducted, not so much because he was excluded from the list of speakers but because United Auto Workers (UAW) president Douglas Fraser was included.

Wimpfinger, famed for the volume and variety of his profanity, has been wondering aloud how speakers were chosen. He had understood that AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland, an organizer of Solidarity Day, and Jerry Wurf of the state county and municipal employees union, as the union president who brought the most members to the rally, were to be the only labor speakers. How, then, asks Wimpfy, did Doug Fraser get to the rostrum?

Since the return of the UAW to the AFL-CIO this year, Fraser has become Wimpfinger's rival for dominance on the labor federation's left wing. Both are uncomfortable with the AFL-CIO's traditional hard anti-communist foreign policy, and each has toyed with the notion of a new left-labor political party.

In retreat

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — The President blew the bugle call for advance in his speech to the nation Thursday night. But actually the administration is in retreat, and nobody knows where the withdrawal will stop. Probably with a recession.

A loss of intellectual bearings describes most clearly what has happened. The President and his advisers originally based their economic plan on the theory of expectations.

The theory held that a show of determination to cut taxes and reduce government spending would break the expectation of endless inflation. With that expectation shattered, workers would work, families would save, businessmen would invest and the economy would grow so rapidly that higher tax revenues would more than make up for the reduction in tax rates.

So hooked was the President on that view that at one point he even claimed a turnaround of expectations had been accomplished. In a titanic-wide speech on July 27, Reagan cited a fall in the inflation rate, renewed strength for the dollar, and decisions by business to favor "development, modernization and expansion." "All of this," he said, was "based on anticipation of our program being adopted and put into action."

EVENTS HAVE NOW buried the theory of expectations in the same grave as the view that wishing will make it so. Far from creating confidence and smashing inflation, passage of the President's program fortified the conviction that government deficits would rise. The prospect of higher deficits ensured heavier government borrowing, which worked to keep interest rates high. The persistence of high rates slowed down economic activity and endangered the widespread distress that forced the administration to come back to the Congress with new requests for budgetary action.

Some in the administration recognize what is happening. Budget Director David Stockman was asked at a White House luncheon last week whether he still believed that the promise of a tax cut and budget cuts would change expectations. He replied: "I changed my mind on that. I do not believe the financial markets buy announcements. They only measure results."

Major changes in the administration's approach were advocated by those who understood what was afoot. They sought big cuts in defense or Social Security, or additional revenue through new tax measures. In that way deficits would have been forced down, and with them government borrowing and interest rates. The stage would have been set for moderate prosperity. The President saw it differently. He dug in against any new taxes, and refused to cut defense or Social Security significantly. He conveniently ditched the theory of expectations, which made it seem that his program only began with the start of the new fiscal year Oct. 1. He said that if the program wasn't working it was "because it doesn't start until one week from today." Then he called for a "firm, steady course."

The firm, steady course forges large actions that smother the deficit in favor of tiny strokes that might "battle it down." There are to be small defense cuts, small increases in user taxes, small cuts in such entitlement programs as veterans' pensions, and a 12 percent reduction in most departmental appropriations. If all that were passed, the deficit for 1982 would still be slightly above the projected figure of $62.5 billion. But it is not thinkable that all will be passed.

THE CONGRESS, WHICH was so tame when the President appealed for up-or-down votes on major matters, is now back in business as a disintegrating mechanism. Defense cuts are clearly going to be larger than the $2 billion sought by the President. Republican leaders in the Congress are already slaving over the defense budget and most of the administration is egging them on with nudges and winks.

A gangup against the cuts in entitlements and the rise in user taxes is also under way. Hell may have no fury like that of a woman scorned, but Congress does — in the form of a veterans' lobby bilked of pension rights. And businessmen deprived of tax favors are scarcely more amenable. So what shapes up in the Congress now is a long, drawn-out slugging match. As Trent Lott, the Republican Whip in the House, said to Albert Rust of the Wall Street Journal: "Last time it was a great battle where we all wound up in charge. This time it's going to be trench warfare."

Economic trends are apt to decide the issue long before the Congress comes out of the trenches. A recession already announced itself. The decline in business activity will bring down inflation and interest rates, thus solving, in the classic way dear to Wall Street, the immediate problem. But of course social spending will have to rise, increasing the budget deficit.

Around the rim Running the gauntlet

Bill Elder

The grin is toothy. The eyes stare ahead with amusement and probably a measure of disbelief. Overall, the appearance is that of a Fifties movie star, out of the public picture for a decade or two and then suddenly thrust under the spotlights again.

A cheap-shot pundit might say that, when you get down to it, she really looks like nothing more than a rabbit. Sandra O'Connor is, however, the closest thing we've got to a queen so you've got to respect her, actual problems aside.

Probably the senators who griled her prior to deciding she was the staff of which Supreme Court justices are made regarded O'Connor with less than the respect a potential justice ought to be accorded.

Foremost on the solons' minds should have been one single question: Will she take a responsible attitude toward interpreting the U.S. Constitution?

But they didn't try to gauge her prowess at deciding what the document means. Instead, they treated her like a politician, and griled the judge from Arizona on the issues.

HOW DO YOU FEEL about abortion, was the biggest question some senators popped toward O'Connor. They drooled all over the TV cameras to get her to admit that she wasn't fanatically opposed to it.

To be sure, there will come a time, as before, when the Court is asked to decide what the Constitution says about abortion, but asking O'Connor how she would vote in such a case was like asking Ronald Reagan what policies he'd push if elected president.

Such a question is fine for a political candidate, but a judge is not supposed to suggest what sort of adjudication he or she will make until the actual case is presented. Judges are supposed to rule only on specific evidence provided in specific cases, but you wouldn't tell that to so erudite a senator as Jeremiah Denton of Georgia, who came close to badgering the nominee on the abortion question and wound up unable to vote for O'Connor because her stance on abortion wasn't clear enough to him.

WHAT WAS CLEAR to Denton's colleagues on the Senate Judiciary Committee was O'Connor's indication that she believes in judicial restraint, in never allowing it to be suggested that as a judge she intends to make, rather than interpret, law.

Anyway, she's in and her first day on the job is Monday. Indications are that she's a conservative but how she actually votes is entirely up to her, since she's got the job for as long as she wants it.

Having survived Capitol Hill, she probably can survive the rigors of meeting out justice on the biggest, thorniest issues of the day. It'll be like eating cake after swallowing kerosene. I imagine.

Meanwhile, the lowbrow circus otherwise known as the Senate marches on. Should RR get another chance to appoint a Supreme Court justice — and it's likely — it's possible that the nominee will have to suffer the same torture under TV camera lights as did O'Connor before her New Right interrogators.

Imagine it, bugging a judge about the issues of the day. It's like the Houston Astros hinging their decision to sign a ballplayer on whether he likes cactus or not.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What is the difference between Christian meditation (if there is such a thing) and other types of meditation, such as transcendental meditation? — Mrs. O.R.

DEAR MRS. O.R.: Christians are urged in the Bible to meditate, and the most important thing to remember is that they are to meditate on God — who he is and what he does for us. Non-Christian types of meditation (such as transcendental meditation) do not concentrate on the God of the Bible, and in fact they often urge a person to attempt to empty his mind of logical thought.

When we meditate, we are concentrating our thoughts or reflecting on God. It is especially important for us to meditate on God's Word, the Bible. We must allow its truths to sink into our souls, and that will not happen if we are hasty or haphazard in our reading of the Bible. We need to read the Bible, but we also need to take time to study it and reflect on its meaning for our lives.

Charles Spurgeon, the great British preacher of the last century, once said, "The man who reads but one book, and that book his Bible, and then meditates much upon it, will be a better scholar in Christ's school than he who merely reads hundreds of books, and meditates not at all." The Psalmist declared concerning the Godly man, "His delight is in the law of the Lord, and on his law he meditates day and night" (Psalm 1:2).

What place does the Bible have in your life every day? It is God's Word, and he has given it to us to guide us and shape us. "Oh, how I love your law! I meditate on it all day long ... Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light for my path" (Psalm 119:97, 105). Is this your experience?

Take time each day to open the Bible. Read a portion of it, and then meditate prayerfully on that section. Ask God to show you what it means, and then how its truth should make a difference in your life. As you do this, you will find yourself growing closer to Christ and wanting to serve him more.

Depression: anger at ourselves?

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My doctor has diagnosed my condition as "endogenous depression." Could you please comment on this in your daily column? What causes it and how long does it last? I am 67 and hate to think I will feel like this the rest of my life. I am presently on Elavil. — Mrs. R.R.B.

When gloom and grief result from something that has happened to us from the "outside," so to speak, that is exogenous depression. That is normal, for example, in loss of a loved one, unless it lasts an inordinate amount of time and paralyzes us into inactivity.

When the same kind of feelings come over us for no apparent reason, that is endogenous depression. What follows refers to that. We are all subject to the blues now and then, but when depressed feelings linger on and on, and when we feel totally hopeless and worthless, that is the kind of depression that calls for help.

These are the symptoms. The causes are varied. One explanation is that such depression is anger at ourselves. We expect and demand too much of ourselves and when we cannot attain our unrealistic goals, when we fall short of our own standards of perfection, we get angry at ourselves and are depressed.

The outlook for depression is good. Your medication will help. Your understanding of your illness will help, too. And the guidance and compassion of your physician will be invaluable to you during this episode.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My friends and I would like you to explain why doctors are so reluctant to write prescriptions calling for generic drugs. We have been informed that we can save money and still get medication of equal quality by asking for generic drugs. Some of the doctors agree, but some say, "If that's what you want — lower quality — OK." We are confused. If the medicine is comparable, why not save our dwindling incomes? — Mrs. J.W.

I cannot speak for all physicians or all medications, but I can tell you my personal views. Were every generic medicine comparable to one prescribed by brand name, and many are, then I would agree with you ladies 100 percent. We have to find every possible way to protect our budgets. But if a physician knows that a preparation of a particular medicine is not equivalent to a known brand of the same, he has a good reason for not prescribing the former.

For example, although the ingredients may be the same and be of the same potency, the way the capsules or tablets are made may be inferior. They may disintegrate into a worthless powder. These instances are few, but they are a reason for not ordering every medicine by its generic (non-trade) name.

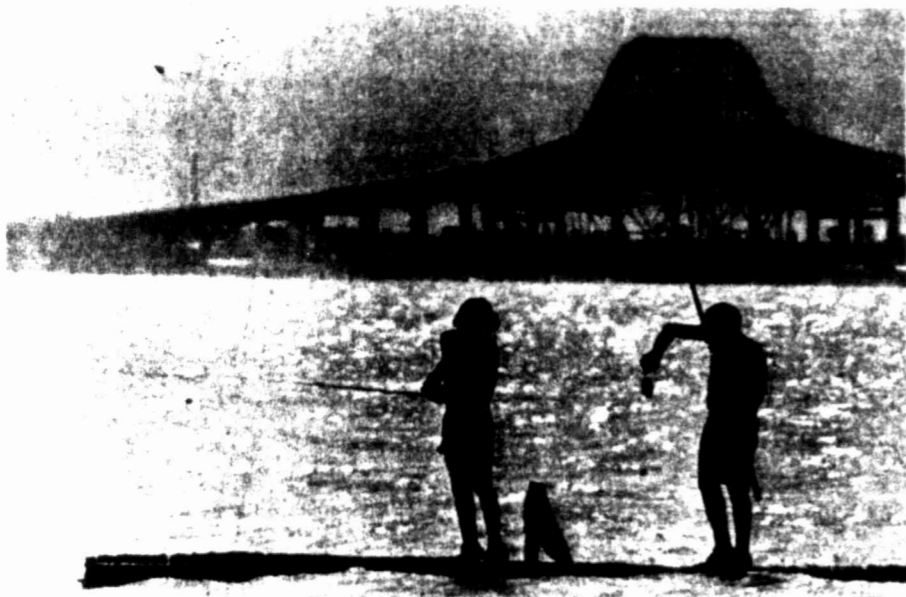

Not all pills are created equal even though their various constituents may be. You must remember, too, that most physicians have come to rely on certain known quantities of medicine after many years of use and observation. These "knowns" become very important to them.

WHATACATCH — These two fishermen are shown admiring their latest catch. The fishermen were just two of the many enjoying the 80 degree temperatures around Corpus Christi Bay. However though the weather is nice 15 mph winds have created haze conditions which make the harbor bridge an indistinct outline and completely obscures the city skyline behind the bridge.

Bride-elect is honored at shower

Approximately 75 guests attended a bridal shower given in honor of Debbie Reid, bride-elect of Tommy Scott, Sept. 14 in the Signal Mountain Room of the Coahoma State Bank.

Serving as hostesses were Willie Mae Greenfield, Roselle Coates, Melba Reed, Linda Berry, Sandy Fryar, Jelene Dunnam, Peggy Snell, Lanelle Witt, Winona Welch, Cheri Welch, and Sue Fowler. Other hostesses were Eve Woolverton, Janis Willborn, Vernell Lilly, Betty Johnson, Freda Greenfield, Lorene Barber, Frances Weaver, Sue O'Daniel, Cindy O'Daniel, Pat Bennett and Beverly Martin.

The table was covered with ivory lace over brown. A floral arrangement in colors of brown, ivory and salmon in a brass container was the centerpiece.

Refreshments, which included a love cake, punch, chocolate mints and nuts, were served with crystal appointments.

Mrs. C.M. Ray, great-grandmother of the bride, was special guest. Corsages in colors of brown, ivory and salmon were given to the bride-elect, Mrs. Randall Reid, her mother, Mrs. Larry Nix, the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Arnetta Burch and Mrs. Clay Reid, grandmothers of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Roy Henderson, grand mother of the prospective bridegroom.

A bedspread and matching drapes were given as gifts from the hostesses.

The couple will be wed Oct. 10 at the Midway Baptist Church.

DEAR ABBY: I bought my future father-in-law a season lottery ticket last Christmas, and when I gave it to him, I jokingly said that this would be the winning ticket and we would split the payoff when he won. Well, imagine the shock when one month later he hit the $50,000 big one on that ticket! I was as thrilled as my future in-laws were, but as time went by, I wasn't offered any part of the winnings. My future mother-in-law could see the hurt in me, so I finally told her I thought I should have shared in the winnings, and she said, "If I were a bookie, I would only get 4 percent." I don't have to tell you how that made me feel. Then I was given $1,000. I have since married their son, but the hurt is still there as far as my feelings are concerned. What are your thoughts about this, Abby? Do you think I was treated fairly? Or shouldn't I have received half? FEELS GYPPED

DEAR FEELS: You say you jokingly suggested to your then-future father-in-law that you'd split the winnings if he won, which does not constitute a commitment on his part, unless he agreed. Did he? If so, you were indeed gyped. If not, I think a $1,000 gift wasn't too shabby.

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from the "Tattooed Man," asking how to remove a tattoo. Mrs. J. make a suggestion? If he doesn't want to have the tattoo surgically removed, he can buy some Lydia O'Leary Cover Mark at a drugstore or the cosmetic department of a department store. It's a flesh-colored cream that can be applied directly over the tattoo. It will not rub off or wash off. In fact, it stays on so well it requires another product to remove it. Being a tattooed lady myself, I know it works. TATTOOED IN PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR TATTOOED: Thank! For years I've recommended Lydia O'Leary's Cover Mark to "hide" birthmarks. I am also informed that some dermatologists remove tattoos by laser — a new technique that leaves no scarring.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. IN NOE VALLEY, CALIF.: Face reality! Acceptance of what has happened is the first step in overcoming the consequences of any misfortune.

A report on parental concerns about child raising was presented by Mrs. Fred Whitaker, federation counselor.

Mrs. H.M. Rowe spoke on "Motivation — The Key to Leadership." She said, "People are happiest when they feel fulfilled and are doing something they feel is meaningful." She also presented the ten commandments of human relations, all of which show interest and consideration of others and lead to service.

The next meeting will be Oct. 9 at 3 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Bert Affleck.

Gold Star Mothers Chapter performs installation rites

Mrs. Moody, assisted by Mrs. Smith, draped the charter in memory of Mrs. Jerome (Mildred) Lamb, a charter member of the chapter.

also read from Mrs. Lape Dominguez for refreshments served to the hospital patients.

WORLD COMMUNION SUNDAY

The first Sunday in October is a day that unites Christians the world over in the celebration of a cherished sacrament. Among its many revered names the simplest is The Lord's Supper.

It recalls the eve of Christ's crucifixion when in an upper room in Jerusalem he gathered with his disciples to observe the Feast of Passover. As he shared with them bread and wine he spoke of "my body, my blood."

Everywhere on World Communion Sunday the Christians of our own time will be remembering his words celebrating Holy Communion.

In a world sorely troubled by the divisions of men, cherish this sacred expression of the unity God inspires.

That sign describes the lives many are living. They live here awhile, then drift over there; they work at this, then that; their life styles are adjusted to comply with their peers; they live without plan or purpose; they aim at nothing and usually hit it. This Sunday morning at 14th and Main, we shall examine the subject "Purposeful Living." Join us.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL
"In nothing be anxious" Phil 4:6
No anxiety ought to be found in a believer. Great, many and varied may be our trials, our afflictions, our difficulties, and yet there should be no anxiety under any circumstance, because we have a Father in Heaven who is almighty, who loves His children as He loves His only-begotten Son, and whose very joy and delight it is to succor and help them at all times and under all circumstances. We should attend to the Word. "In nothing be anxious, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God."
"In everything," that is not merely when the house is on fire, but in the smallest matters of life, bring everything before God, the little things, what the world calls trifling things. And when we awake at night, by a king of spiritual instinct again turning to Him, and speaking to Him, bringing our various little matters before Him in the sleepless night, the difficulties in connection with the family, our trade, our profession. Whatever tries us in any way, speak to the Lord about it.
"By prayer and supplication," taking the place of beggars, with earnestness, with perseverance, going on and waiting, waiting, waiting on God.
"With thanksgiving." We should at all times lay a good foundation with thanksgiving. If everything else were wanting, this is always present, that He has saved us from hell. Then, that He has given us His Holy Word — His Son, His choicest gift — and the Holy Spirit. Therefore we have abundant reason for thanksgiving.

Reagan budget cuts begin to pinch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School lunch prices in Oklahoma are going up by a nickel, a dozen lawyers will have to be let go from Vermont's legal aid program and a 32-year-old Vietnam veteran in a Florida drug care center is worried about where he will live.

The warnings about the impact of the Reagan budget cuts are beginning to hit home.

"I almost feel like I'm sitting on death row," said Frances Kramer, director of elderly services for Dade County, Fla.

Reductions in some areas have been under way ever since legislation was passed trimming a wide variety of social programs. But the start of the new fiscal year Thursday provided a final deadline for many.

An Associated Press sampling found people being affected in many ways.

The last of 300,000 public service jobs paid for by the federal government under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act are being phased out, for example, at a savings of $4.6 billion. Four hundred CETA employees in Delaware worked their last day Wednesday.

"We had to lay off 150 people at midnight last night," said Ed Stanek, head of the Governor's Office for Planning and Programming in Iowa. Officials kept the CETA workers on the payroll until midnight, trying, unsuccessfully, to find a way to save the jobs.

The state transportation agency in Vermont announced 30 people will be laid off next week; the legal aid program will be cut by 25 percent and 12 lawyers will have to go.

State officials said that in the past they were successful in finding jobs for CETA workers whose positions were phased out; 80 percent either got new jobs, joined the armed services or entered employment training programs. But Jeanne Van Vlandern, director of employment and training for Vermont, said the success won't last. "It's one thing to find jobs for 10 people a day. Finding them for 1,000 people is something else again."

Vermont welfare officials said 2,500 people now receiving food stamps will be cut off by new eligibility requirements — the maximum annual income a family of four can have and still get food stamps dropped from $14,000 to $11,000.

In Oklahoma, schools are raising lunch prices by 15 cents to 20 cents. Ten of the state's 22 Community Action Programs are going out of business, and 1,500 families will stop getting help under the Aid to Dependent Children program.

"Just wait until we see little children that don't have the money to buy these lunches," warned W.C. Pulliam, superintendent of schools in Oklahoma's Coal County.

Officials in Washington state predicted the crunch will come gradually. "Things will be difficult throughout the month as people apply and we deal with the changes and people find they aren't eligible," said Bob Uter in the welfare office in Olympia. "There could be some unhappy folks."

The new package of cuts and tax increases outlined last week, intended to hold the 1982 budget deficit to $43.1 billion, comes on top of the $35 billion in spending reductions that Congress voted earlier.

At his news conference, Reagan declined to say in advance what legislation he had in mind when he said he was ready to veto money bills.

"I would have to see a bill and what finally winds up on my desk before I would give an answer as to veto or not," he said.

Speaking on the day his first round of budget cuts went into effect, Reagan said his economic program would take time to achieve results. But he vowed, "We will not be swayed from our plan by every changing current, every passing trend or every short-term fluctuation."

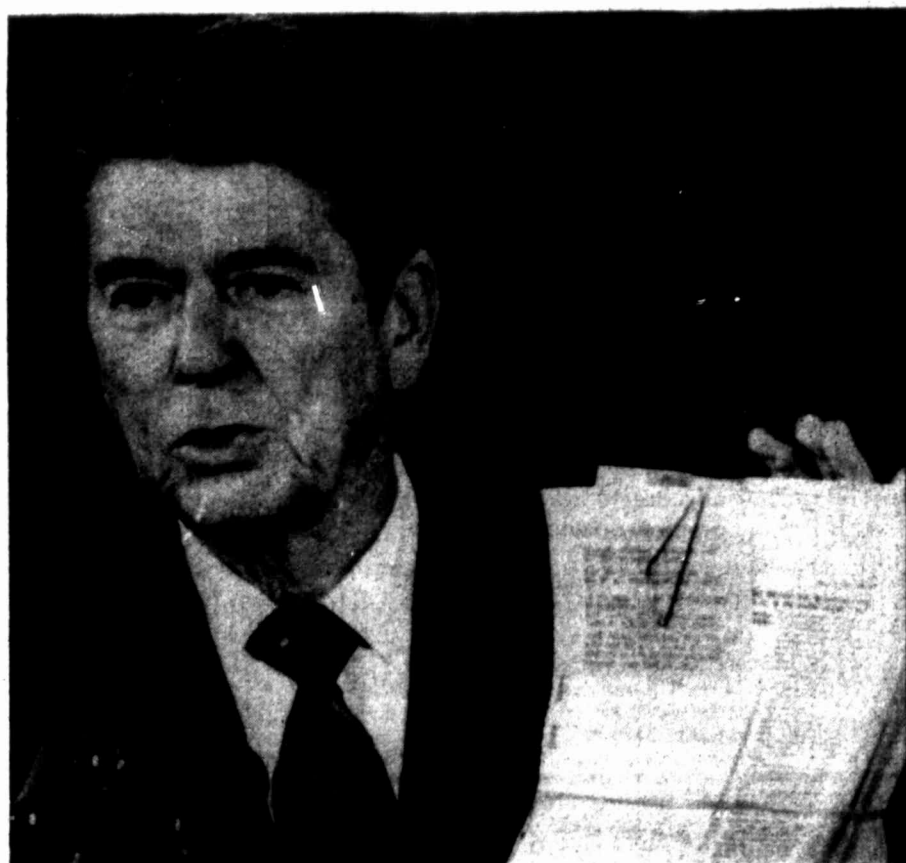

Reagan said that despite the cuts, the government would continue to take care of people who "are totally dependent" on assistance.

"What we call the safety net is still in place," he said.

While Reagan brandished his veto threat, budget director David A. Stockman pressed the case for deeper spending cuts and a group of moderate and liberal House Republicans reaffirmed their objection to deeper cuts in social programs without more reductions than Reagan wants in defense.

"We don't want to take round two of domestic without round one of defense," said an aide to Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Mich., the leader of the self-described "gypsy moth" group of GOP House members.

The first test of Reagan's ability to prevail on his new round of budget cuts is likely to come next week, when the House debates legislation providing funds for the departments of Labor, Health and Human Services and Education.

FEWER REGULATIONS — President Ronald Reagan holds up 318 pages of documents during his news conference at the White House Thursday. The president said the 318 pages of regulations on disbursing funds to states would be replaced by six pages governing grant funds.

Poll shows Reagan popular

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite qualms about his latest economic proposals, a majority of Americans continue to give President Reagan high personal ratings, the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

While Reagan's overall job rating and performance for handling the economy dipped, respondents continued to give him solid marks for inspiring trust and for showing he cares about them.

The poll, of 1,601 adults contacted Monday and Tuesday by telephone in a scientific random sampling, said 53 percent believed Reagan is doing a good or excellent job as president — the lowest approval rating during his term.

Reagan's favorable rating for handling the economy also dropped, from 52 percent in August to 46 percent.

But the poll said 56 percent trust Reagan to do what is right just about always or most of the time, and 52 percent said they agree with the statement, "Ronald Reagan has shown he really cares about people like me."

In addition, 85 percent said they think Reagan has accomplished more in his first months in office than past presidents.

Fifty-four percent of those who had heard or read of Reagan's latest economic proposals said they approved of the requested $13 billion in federal budget cuts.

Cowboys cheerleaders not welcome?

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The ballyhooed appearance Oct. 10 of the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders at a Kent State University football game has caused some in the university's community to jeer instead of cheer.

Kent State officials thought they had come up with a great drawing attraction when they landed the professional cheerleaders to perform at homecoming festivities.

The Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders are members of a 34-member squad that roots at Dallas professional football team's home games in Irving, Texas. The cheerleaders go elsewhere a few times a year.

Ticket sales are up for the homecoming game pitting Northern Illinois University against Kent State.

And critics have spoken. Mary Ellen Warden, president of the Kent Women's Organization, said some student groups may oppose the appearance.

"It just seems to perpetuate all the stereotypes about women," she said. "I'm kind of disgusted at the university."

Kent City Councilman Christopher Myers, a member of the alumni association, branded the cheerleaders "a professional bump and grind group." He said the traditional college homecoming festivities will "play second fiddle" to the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders.

Kent State football games, in recent years, haven't filled even half of the 30,000 seats in Dix Stadium. This time, however, homecoming crowd predictions range from 17,000 to 25,000.

Coahoma at C-City

COLORADO CITY — They are no longer district rivals, but that doesn't mean that there will be any intensity lost when the Coahoma Bulldogs and Colorado City Wolves match talents tonight at eight o'clock.

The two teams have been long-time rivals, but usually competing late in the year with one or both teams in the running for their district title. But in 1980 the UIL realigned them into different districts forcing the two to play only for the sake of winning.

But that should be enough. Both teams come into the game with records of 1-3, although some of those losses have been extremely close. Colorado City lost their opener to Stanton by 7-0 and their third contest to Denver City 12-7.

Coahoma suffered a 3-0 loss to Stanton and a 16-14 setback last week to Sonora, with their other loss coming by a count of 19-8 to state ranked Tahoka.

Coahoma's only win was in their season opener, a 30-0 clubbing of Wall, while the Wolves are fresh from a 13-6 win over Ballinger.

Both coaches reaped praises on their foe in tonight's contest when questioned earlier in the week.

"Coahoma is better than last year," said Colorado City coach Tom Ramsey, when the two teams tied 13-13. "They are impressive on film, and their record is deceiving, because the people they play are tough. They've got one of the toughest schedules around."

"They (Coahoma) need to get a new scheduler over there," mentioned Ramsey.

But while Ramsey was praising the Bulldogs, Coahoma grid boss Roy Winters did the same toward the Wolves.

"They're coming off a big win, and that should really help them," said Winters. "They've got two good backs that are real fine players, too."

Not all is bright for Coahoma, but the rivalry could take care of that. "We've got some bangs and bruises," said Winters, "but this is always a very emotional game."

Stanton at Seagraves

SEAGRAVES — Two of the perennial toughies in District 5-AA open the real season tonight when the Stanton Buffaloes visit Seagraves.

Seagraves is no doubt steaming from last year, when Stanton pulled out a 27-21 win en route to a 9-0-1 season that narrowly missed on a state playoff berth.

Seagraves fell to 8-2 last fall, far from their usual district championship status.

But if records are any indication, both teams are somewhat weaker this fall. Stanton sports a 2-2 mark, while Seagraves is 3-1.

The Buffs lost their opener in the waning moments to a rugged Tahoka team, then roared back to beat Stanton and Crane before falling to Reagan County.

Seagraves opened by defeating Eunice, N.M., Standon and Friona before losing last week to McCamey.

Stanton Coach Steve Park acknowledges that Seagraves is not up to par.

"They are weaker than they have been, but that's still tough," Park said.

Seagraves features a team with a line averaging 200 pounds and a lightning quick back in Daniel Suniga.

Forsan at O'Donnell

O'DONNELL — The Forsan Buffs hope to break a two-game losing streak here tonight in their District 5-AA opener against the O'Donnell Eagles.

Forsan opened the season by winning over Bronte and Garden City, but then suffered setbacks to Robert Lee and Sterling City.

O'Donnell has defeated Wilson, New Home and Klondike, but fell to Anton.

A big question in the O'Donnell attack is quarterback Sam Hancock, who injured himself in the latter stages of the Eagles 14-3 over Klondike last Friday.

Forsan Coach Jan East is looking for another performance like his squad gave in their last minute loss to Sterling City.

"If we play like we did last week, we've got a good chance to win. Personnel wise, we can line up and play with them," mentioned East.

Andrews at Lamesa

LAMESA — The top and the bottom in the District 2-AAAA race meets tonight when the Andrews Mustangs visit the Lamesa Golden Tors.

Andrews is at the top, sporting a district record of 2-0 and a season mark of 4-0, while the Lamesa team is 0-2 and 0-4 on the year.

The Mustangs, led by super quarterback Keith Brooks, are also rated third in the state in Class AAAA. Brooks is actually more of a running threat than passing, as he has rushed for over 100 yards in each of his games to pace Andrews to wins over Seminole, Midland, Snyder and San Angelo Lake View.

But the Lake View win was a tough one for the Mustangs, who blew a 21-0 lead and held on for a slim 21-15 decision.

Garden City at home

GARDEN CITY — Garden City is expected to get back on the winning track tonight when they meet the Water Valley Wildcats in a non-district contest.

The Garden City team is 2-2 and coming off a loss to Miles, but Water Valley is searching for its first win since going to 11-man football in 1980.

Despite that status and the heavy favorite role tagged by the Harris Rating System, Bearkat Coach Stu Cooper is worried about the Wildcats.

"They've got some big people. Their guard-center-guard combine and weight 665 pounds," said Cooper. "They are much improved over last year."

Another aspect that could make things tough for Garden City is that regular fullback-linebacker Robbie Creswell and center Tommy Montgomery are doubtful for tonight's game.

"You could really tell last week when those two were out of the game," mentioned Cooper.

Sands at Smyer

SMYER — Two teams that would look to be headed in different directions meet here tonight when the Sands Mustangs visit the Smyer Hogheads.

Sands tied their first two games by 0-0 counts, but has since lost to Throckmorton and Lorraine. Smyer is undefeated, having defeated New Home 33-0, Meadow 21-0, Lubbock Christian 15-7 and Wilson 10-6.

One positive aspect for Sands is that they finally broke a three-game scoring drought in a 20-16 setback last week.

"We deserved to win, but made some critical offensive mistakes," said Sands Coach Jim White. "But we're looking better."

Steers go for surprise in 5-5A

By NATHAN POSS

ABILENE — Neither team is expected to battle for the District 5-A AAAA championship, but that doesn't mean that the Big Spring Steers and Abilene Eagles won't be pulling out all the stops in tonight's league opener here tonight.

In fact, when I found Big Spring Coach Ralph Harris yesterday in the Steer dressing room, he was even playing the role of the manager, busily pasting gold Steer emblems on each side of the black helmets that his team will wear tonight against Abilene.

"Seeing nothing better to do, I joined the act."

"This is our big surprise for this week," Harris said facetiously in reference to the emblems. "These are going to win the game for us."

"Just like when Notre Dame brings out the green jerseys," I commented.

"Yeah, this is it," Harris laughed.

Moving on, Harris switched the conversation to Abilene.

"I really don't think they (Abilene) will take us seriously, and I don't know if anyone is right now," the Steer mentor commented.

"But that's alright. This is the biggest game for us since I've been here. Last year was when we beat San Angelo, because we needed to win so badly. But we need this one just as bad," he philosophized.

And as Abilene might not take Big Spring seriously, that could be deserved. The Steers haven't looked that impressive, except for times against Levelland, despite sporting a 2-1 record.

But much of that could be due to the enormous influx of injuries that the BSHS gridgers have endured thus far. But the open week looks to have helped remedy that situation.

"We've got everyone back that we had projected as a starter," Harris revealed.

"And I feel we've really progressed as a team in the last two weeks. The kids look like they're ready for district."

Back in the starting lineup after being absent for at least one game are running back-free safety Richard Evans, guard Tony Molina, offensive guard-defensive tackle Donnie Pavlosky, left tackle-defensive end Scarbro and tight end-linebacker Tony Kennedy.

And Bobby Earl Williams, who has been hampered by a recovering knee injury, has been pronounced at 90 percent full speed by Harris and Steer trainer Everett Blackburn.

Only guard-linebacker Marty Rice and Manuel Ramirez, who also have seen action at the same position, will have to miss tonight's game.

And while Harris doubts that Abilene respects the Steers, the BSHS coach knows that the War Birds are tough.

"Abilene's 1-2, but they easily could have been 3-0," said Harris of the Eagles, who opened with a 20-6 loss to Wichita Fall Riders, then upset highly touted Weatherford 14-0 before losing to Longview 21-13 in their last outing.

"Right now their strength has been their defense and kicking game, but that's not to say that their offense is not capable. It's just that their big plays have come from their defense and kicking game," explained Harris.

The Abilene kicking game has blocked punts, returned them for touchdowns, and ex-Big Springer Wayne Coffey opened the Weatherford game by returning the initial kickoff some 85 yards to the foe's 10-yard line.

"They are gamblers in the kicking game. They got back in the game last year against us on a punt return, and it's obvious that they work hard on that phase," mentioned Harris.

That could pose problems to the Steers, who have displayed a below par kicking game. Harris hopes that will change with Scarbro doing the punting and placekicking.

Scarbro was a regular punter last fall, but a leg injury has limited his movement thus far. That is hopefully cured for tonight's district opener.

Before the season began, many Steer fans felt it would be the best season in years. It still could, but tonight is the time it should start. The Steer grid boss agrees.

"We've still got to prove that we can play against the good people and beat them," he said in reference to the 5-A AAAA competition. "And I think from the practices I've seen that we're ready."

Lady Steers within one game of 1st half title

ODESSA — The Big Spring Lady Steers stopped Odessa High here Thursday night to set the stage for their first half showdown next Tuesday with San Angelo Central. The BSHS crew of Coach Patty Purser put down OHS by a count of 15-8, 15-5.

Purser admitted that the Lady Steers didn't play as well as normally in the win over OHS, which increased their first half mark to 6-0 and their season record to 15-6.

"We didn't play real well, but it was good enough to win," said Purser.

Leading the Lady Steers in service points was Pam Caudill with 11, Tracy Williams with eight, Sylvia Randle and Elise Wheat with four and Sissy Doss with three.

Purser cited the net play of Doss, the setting of Amy Ragan and the backcourt action of Lesley Overman as key points in the win last night.

Both the Lady Steers and San Angelo Central will enter the first half finale with 6-0 marks.

In the JV contest, Big Spring rolled to a 15-8, 15-2 win behind some excellent serving. JV servers connected on 40 of 43 attempted serves in the match.

Leading servers point wise were Tammy Yancey with eight, Sherri Graham and Debbie Donelson with six, Sharon McAlister with five, Vicki Halfmann with four and Tris Clemons with one.

Coach Sandy Brown mentioned the setting of Halfmann and Beverly Tubb.

Odds are Cotton Bowl will stay in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — I'm going out on a limb — one that is two feet long and eight feet around — to predict that the Cotton Bowl stays in East Dallas.

If nothing else, the Greater Houston Bowl Association has given the Cotton Bowl a publicity shot with its million bucks a year move offer.

I make the New Year's Day Classic — sounds like Jimmy The Greek doesn't it? — a million to one shot underdog to move lock, stock, and scoreboard to the Bayou City this or any other century.

The GHBA, which previously sponsored the Bluebonnet Bowl, offered the Southwest Conference $3 million over the next three years to move the Cotton Bowl to either the Astrodome or Rice Stadium.

Without sounding too much like John Scovell, the president of the Cotton Bowl Association who has been given a hearty, knee-slapping laugh by this whole scenario, a million wouldn't cover moving expenses.

"It (the offer) defies my understanding," said Scovell. "We've been successful for 41 years in Dallas. Why would we want to move to Houston?"

"We've got a 10-year lease on office space and an 8-year lease on the stadium. Are we just supposed to break those agreements to run down to Houston? A lot of people didn't do their homework about the CBAA."

Ryan led Astros walk to big win

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Houston Astros literally walked to a comfortable 1½-game lead in the National League West on Thursday, but Manager Bill Virdon says there's no time to relax.

"We're still in first place, and that's what it's all about," Virdon said, after the Astros whipped the second-place Cincinnati Reds 8-1, with the help of 11 bases on balls. "It won't be easy the rest of the way."

"I don't think Cincinnati will get beat here (in its final three games with Atlanta). We've got to win two out of three. Our work is cut out for us. We always have a tough time in Los Angeles."

By winning two of three from the first-half champion Dodgers, the Astros would clinch the second-half division title regardless of how the Reds fare.

"I don't think it (the division race) is over. But we're in a position to control our destiny," said Houston second baseman Phil Garner, who drove in two runs. "That's what we've got to do."

While it didn't kill the Reds' playoff hopes, the loss left them with only a prayer.

"I felt we had to win both games (against Houston) to have a chance," said Reds outfielder Dave Collins. "Now we have to hope L.A. can knock them off while we take Atlanta three times."

"It's really tough to be so high and then get drained emotionally," said Cincinnati third baseman Ray Knight.

The Reds managed just one run, on a wild pitch in the seventh, off hard-throwing Nolan Ryan, 11-5, who allowed just seven hits.

"He had command of his pitches," said Reds Manager John McNamara. "We said if he had command of his pitches he'd be tough, and he was tough."

That wasn't the case for seven Reds pitchers who walked 11 Astros, three with the bases loaded.

Joe Price, the third Cincinnati pitcher, came on with the bases loaded, none out and Houston nursing a 1-0 lead in the seventh. He struck out Gary Woods, walked Garner to force in a run, struck out Tony Scott and walked Jose Cruz.

Can TCU end long Arkansas jinx?

By The Associated Press

The Arkansas Razorbacks were 11-point favorites to continue a third straight decade of Southwest Conference football dominance over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs Saturday night.

It's been 22 years, or, when former All-American Bob Lilly was a sophomore since TCU has beaten the Razorbacks.

No other SWC team has ever experienced such a period of futility at the hands of another rival.

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz likes to point out that many players at the schools were not even born when the streak started.

"That doesn't concern me at all," said Holtz. "It might if the same people had been playing at the schools for 22 years."

"We're playing TCU in Fort Worth where we were lucky to escape with our lives two years ago. I don't want to play TCU anywhere."

The unbeaten Razorbacks have bounced Tulsa, Northwestern and Mississippi in non-conference play while TCU has beaten Texas-Arlington but lost to Auburn and SMU.

"We're not good enough where we can afford to just go hanging on any doors," said Holtz.

In other games, Houston was a 4-point pick over Baylor in the Astrodome where Coach Grant Teaff's Bears have never won; the Texas Aggies were a field goal selection over the Texas Tech Red Raiders in Lubbock, and Tulane was a three-point nod over Rice in Houston.

"We have trouble stopping the pass and that's what TCU does as well as anybody in the country," said Holtz.

TCU's quarterback Steve Stamp leads the country in passing while wide receiver Stanley Washington is atop the NCAA charts in receiving.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff says one of his personal goals is to someday beat Houston in the Astrodome.

"That's something I've never done," he said. "We have had some physical games with the Cougars and I look for Saturday's game to be just that."

The Baylor-Houston game will be televised regionally at 11:30 a.m. over ABC.

Texas Tech will be battling virtual elimination from the SWC race when it hosts the Aggies.

Holmes foe admits fright

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Larry Holmes, who will defend his World Boxing Council title for the 11th time against Renaldo Snipes Nov. 6, wants to take on all comers.

"I am a fighting champion. I want to give everyone the opportunity to fight for the title," said Holmes, who will turn 32 three days before his fight here with the unbeaten Snipes.

"I feel I'm in the prime of my life. I'm getting better. I don't feel I will start to burn out," he said Thursday at a media show staged to promote the first heavyweight title fight in Pittsburgh in three decades.

Holmes already has signed to fight Jerry Cooney in a lucrative showdown. But he also agreed to fight the 25-year-old Snipes because the purse, although undisclosed, was right.

"It doesn't matter who it is as long as the money's there. The money was there for Renaldo Snipes," said Holmes.

When asked how much money he replied: "A lot."

The unbeaten Holmes has won 28 of his 38 fights by knockout. And he's wary of looking ahead to Cooney instead of concentrating on Snipes.

"It's a danger looking past Snipes. There are no easy fights. But I've been training very hard. I'll knock him out," he said.

Fight promoter Don King had advised Holmes against this fight because it could jeopardize the huge payday.

"Right now, I'm scared of Larry Holmes. But there's not a man in the world can stop me from getting what I came for," Snipes said.

But Holmes, who lives in Easton, Pa., wants to stay active.

The 6-foot-2, 215-pound WBC but not recognized by the World Boxing Association, has won 11 of his 22 fights by knockout. In his last outing, Snipes survived two knockdowns to win a controversial decision over South African Gerrie Coetzee.

Rest helps Stadler in Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Maybe Craig Stadler should take more time off from the Tournament Players Association tour.

The rested, relaxed Stadler — who had hardly picked up a golf club in two weeks — ripped off nine birdie puts en route to a 7-under-par 63 that staked him to a 1-stroke lead over Bruce Lietzke entering today's second round of the Texas Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm just having fun," Stadler laughed after mastering the 6,525-yard Oak Hills Country Club course, where he has never made a cut during his six-year career.

"I drove the ball well and I putted good, which is about all you have to do on this golf course. I made more than my share of birdies. I hadn't played but six holes in two weeks."

Stadler's performance was a stark contrast to his previous struggles. "I've been having a hard time," he admitted. "I've been out of sync for a long time. I've been out of sync for a long time. I've been out of sync for a long time."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study new ways to build up your security. Make those repairs to property that are needed. Attend the social tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use your personal charm with friends and get more out of the relationships. Take steps to improve your environment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Meet with an expert and gain the right advice to gain more financial security. Make the evening a happy one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to know all types of people and can benefit from the contacts. The chart becomes a successful one later in life provided the education is good. You must plan now so there will be no slip-up because of lack of cash. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Fed is blamed for penny shortage

DALLAS (AP) — Bank officials said Wednesday the current penny shortage makes no sense, since about 70 percent of all U.S. coin production is in the copper coins.

But banks have limited the number of pennies that can be purchased by smaller customers because the Federal Reserve Bank is not delivering enough coins to meet demand.

"It's hard to conceive where the devil these things go," a Federal Reserve Bank official said, "and it's hard to understand why there's a crunch."

A spokesman for the Dallas branch of the Federal Reserve Bank said September's delivery of pennies was only $408,000. That amount must be distributed among more than 500 banks.

The Fed, local banks and businesses blame hoarding for the penny crunch.

Retail store owners have posted signs asking customers for their pennies. Cash register operators now take the extra time needed to ask customers for the odd cents involved in purchases.

A Fed spokesman said a reserve store of pennies has been depleted and, for the past several months, one-cent pieces have been shipped to reserve banks as quickly as they are minted.

Four are indicted in arson scheme

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted three Amarillo businessmen and a Houston man in an alleged arson-for-profit scheme.

The indictment, handed down Thursday, accuses the men of plotting to torch buildings, then filing fraudulent insurance claims for the contents.

Named in the multiple-count indictment were Sidney James Heard, Rodney Leland Horne, and William K. Lankford of Amarillo, and William M. Anderson of Houston.

Heard and Horne are accused of submitting a claim of $41,350 to Lloyd's of London and Great Southwestern Insurance Co. for the contents of a Clovis, N.M. building destroyed by fire in 1977. The indictment charges the actual value of the building's contents was $6,000.

In another count, Heard is charged with trying to collect $28,000 from Aetna Life and Casualty on the contents of a Lubbock building destroyed by fire in 1977. The actual value of the contents was $6,000, the indictment said.

Heard and Anderson are accused of burning a building in Amarillo in 1978, then trying to collect $41,413.90 from Home Insurance Co. on contents allegedly worth only $6,000.

Lankford and Heard were charged with trying to defraud St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance using a similar alleged scheme involving a building in Breckinridge.

Heard and Lankford previously were indicted with two other men in an alleged plot to manufacture and pass counterfeit South African Krugerrands.

Lankford is scheduled to stand trial in that case on October 13.
