Boa constrictor slithers onto city council agenda

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Meet Clyde. But watch out, he's a little weird — he eats rats and sleeps with a warm brick in his bed.

Well, maybe he's not so weird, when you consider that Clyde is only four years old. And happens to be a boa constrictor. He's pictured here with his caretaker, Fran Hooper of 310 W. 17th.

This non-weird, cuddlesome (and as Hooper insists, non-dangerous) critter will come to the attention of the city council tonight when it meets at 6:30 inside City Hall. Hooper is required by law to obtain a permit for Clyde, and the council has to decide whether she merits the permit.

After a neighbor in Hooper's old neighborhood on State apparently complained about Clyde's presence, the four-foot fellow slid onto the council's agenda and found himself a nice warm spot near the top of the list of items the council will act on (cold-blooded Clyde craves warmth, says Hooper, hence the electric brick inside his aquarium home).

Hooper, who says she takes care of the snake for her 15-year-old boy and seven-year-old girl while they're at school, bought Clyde about three months ago and wasn't aware that she needed a dangerous animal permit from the city. In fact, she was surprised that anyone even considered Clyde dangerous.

"My kids play with him all the time," she says.

To get the $5 permit, she'll have to prove to state health inspectors that Clyde is kept securely in her home and safeguards have been established to prevent unauthorized access to Clyde as he grows long (Hooper says he'll grow 10 feet long) and fat inside his aquarium.

In non-creepy, non-crawly matters, the council will consider several routine matters covering leases at the city Industrial Park, awarding of bids for computer equipment and city uniforms, requests for mobile home permits and claims for damages brought against the city as a result of two accidents involving police cruisers.

Fran Hooper gets a hug from Clyde, her children's boa constrictor. The Big Spring City Council has to decide whether to give the Hoopers a dangerous animal permit for Clyde. He's on tonight's council agenda.

The council also will hold a public hearing on a proposed day care center Mrs. Della Hogue would like to operate at 1514 E. 17th.

Other matters include signing an agreement with Howard County to enable the county tax collector to assume the duty of collecting property taxes for the city of Big Spring.

A proposal by President Ronald Reagan to slash federal revenue sharing with cities by $550 million a year also will be discussed by the council. Council members have before them a resolution which if passed would put the city on record as opposing the cuts.

Other business on the agenda includes: presentation of service awards, nominations to boards and a private session to discuss legal and personnel matters.

HC to open nursing program in Del Rio

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Howard College will open an extension center at the Val Verde Memorial Hospital in Del Rio and offer an Associate Degree of Nursing program there in the fall of 1982, Dr. Bobby Wright, college vice-president, told The Herald today.

Wright said Del Rio, like many cities across the nation, is experiencing a severe nursing shortage.

Howard College was approached "about two years ago by a delegation of people from Val Verde Memorial Hospital," Wright said, "to see if Howard College was interested" in the program. The local college was approached "because we have a registered nursing program."

Since the initial request by Tom Sentry, administrator of Val Verde Memorial Hospital, and others in the Del Rio delegation, Howard College officials and people from Del Rio have been working on making the ADN extension center a reality, Wright said.

The Howard College ADN program began in January of 1976 and now has a full-time administrator, Barbara Holdampf, and four instructors. The Val Verde Memorial Hospital campus expects to have two instructors who will be employees of the Howard County Junior College District.

"The hospital is building a facility on the grounds" to house the ADN program, according to Wright. In the new building will be a classroom and laboratory.

About 20 to 25 students have indicated an interest in applying for the ADN program when it opens in the fall of 1982, Wright said. Those students are now taking pre-requisite support courses at SouthWest Texas Junior College in Uvalde.

Students may transfer these credits — in courses like English and chemistry — to their ADN degree plan.

"We've been in Del Rio four or five times," Wright said, adding that he, Holdampf and Paul Ausmus, a Howard College instructor, have been working with the South West Texas Junior College administrators to make sure the support courses there will coordinate with those taught through Howard College.

Students enrolled in the ADN program will take the fundamentals of nursing, "Medical, Surgical Nursing I," psychiatric, pediatric and obstetric nursing, and "Medical, Surgical Nursing II."

"The only course they will not be able to take at Val Verde Memorial Hospital will be psychiatric nursing," Wright said. When students take this course, they will come to the Howard College campus, live in the campus dormitories and train at the Big Spring State Hospital, Wright explained.

No local money is being channeled to Del Rio, Wright said. The program there is being supported "by the community of Del Rio, private donations" and possibly federal funds.

Wright said that Val Verde Memorial Hospital recently purchased some audio-visual equipment and "we're video-taping lectures here" now. "We'll send these to the faculty of the fall, 1982, classes" in Del Rio, so the faculty can use these tapes to monitor the local program.

Bids sought for sheriff's cruiser

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Howard County Commissioners decided Monday to ask for bids on a new vehicle for the sheriff's department. The commissioners also voted to ask for bids on material for fences to be constructed near Forsan.

Sheriff A.N. Standard told the commissioners a new vehicle is needed by his department due to wear and tear on all of the department's vehicles. Standard said the vehicles would have to be kept in "low profile" if not replaced soon.

The commissioners decided to seek bids on one new vehicle. The sheriff said the bid specifications for the new vehicle should require a full-size spare tire, rather than the small, emergency kind. He also said he wanted the bid to be for a car currently on a lot so that the department would not have to wait for the new vehicle.

The commissioners said the bids for the new vehicle would be of two kinds — a bid for a straight purchase of a vehicle and a bid with a trade-in and purchase of a vehicle.

In other business, County Engineer

Bill Mims told the commissioners the county would need to build fences along the new right-of-ways to be built from U.S. 87 to Forsan and F.M. 350 to Forsan. Mims said the state highway department planned to have the area cleared by Jan. 1, and the county would need to begin the fences by Dec. 1.

Mims estimated the cost of the fences would be $15,000, and the commissioners voted to seek bids on the fencing materials.

During the discussion about the fences, Commissioner O.L. (Louis) Brown said he had heard from some of his constituents about the need for work on a road in Precinct 1. Brown said he was told the road, located at an intersection, would flood and was practically impassable when it rained.

After a brief discussion, the commissioners asked Mims to have his department explore the possibility of installing a concrete slab at the intersection.

The commissioners then heard from Dene Sheppard of the Howard County Historical Commission. She said the commission needed to know if the commissioners wanted four pages — at $180 a page — about the commissioners' court in the Howard County history being published by the commission.

The commissioners voted to authorize the four pages after Sheppard praised the amount of work put into the commissioners' section of the book by County Clerk Margaret Ray.

The commissioners also heard from Gail Earls on the use of the county fairgrounds. After discussion, the commissioners decided to require a contract for future rentals of the fairgrounds. Further plans are to be discussed at the Nov. 9 meeting.

Due to the fact no citizens showed up to discuss the matter, an amendment to the 1980-81 revenue sharing budget was not considered.

In other action, the commissioners decided to place a Xerox machine in the hall next to the county tax office in the courthouse on a 90-day trial basis. Ray said there were problems with the old one making poor copies.

Minor budget amendments, the previous meetings' minutes and payment of bills were also approved by the commissioners before their adjournment.

More rain cools Big Spring area

Rain fell again last night on Big Spring and the surrounding area as intermittent showers kept skies cloudy and temperatures cool. Several counties and cities in south and east Texas have been forced to issue flash flood warnings because of the unusually heavy amounts of rainfall, according to the National Weather Service. Howard County has not had to issue any such warning because rainfall totals are close to normal for this time of year, said a spokesman for the Experiment Farm.

The Farm said it recorded .46 inches in the last 24 hours which brings the total for the year in Big Spring to 15.84 inches.

James D. "Red" Thomas, 107 E. 13th St., said 2 inches fell at his house last night.

The John Couch residence in Luther reported a trace of rain since yesterday.

According to Rod Lewis, of the Colorado River Municipal, the pump station north of Big Spring has received 3 inches in the last 24 hours and the gauges located at Lake Spence and Lake Thomas have record 2.3 inches and 9 inches, respectively.

It was reported that Mitchell County has received approximately six inches of precipitation since Saturday.

Don Richardson, Howard County extension agent, said the rains have not hurt the cotton harvest. He said the farmers have been delayed about a week, but most farmers are thankful for the rain because of the subseason moisture it provides.

The NWS predicted some showers and thunderstorms today along with partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer temperatures.

SIGN LANGUAGE

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Pictured here are the signs for "good," "better" and "best." Notice the direction of the arrows. According to "The American Sign Language" by Harry W. Hoemann, good, better and best are "well established in American Sign Language as conventional signs."

Notice in the illustration how to form the three signs. To sign the word good, take your right hand, place your fingers against your lips, then bring your right hand down, back of the hand facing down, to slap your left hand. Your left hand should be about waist level with the palm extended upward.

If you are left-handed, and prefer to lead with your left hand, then remember to do the exact opposite. Place your left hand at your lips and slap your right hand.

To sign the word better, place your fingers against your lips, then pull your fingers into your palm and make a thumbs up sign to the side of your face. (Notice the illustration.)

GOOD, BETTER, BEST

To sign the word best, again put your fingers against your lips, but when you make the thumbs-up sign, bring it higher than you did for the sign for better.

The height of the final position of the sign, as in best, indicates the degree to which the meaning is intensified.

The sign here is reprinted courtesy of the National Association of the Deaf.

Here's two addresses to try: The Stars and Stripes — Pacific, APO San Francisco, Calif., 96303, and Stars and Stripes — Europe (Darmstadt), APO, New York, N.Y. 09211.

Commissioners pick Vest for county tax board

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Mitchell County commissioners have nominated former commissioner Marc Vest to serve on the county Tax Appraisal Board.

The decision was reached during a meeting of the commissioners Monday afternoon. Each of the taxing entities in Mitchell County currently is in the process of nominating new board members who will take office Jan. 1, 1982.

Further business included naming election judges for the constitutional amendment election Nov. 3.

According to Judge Bill Carter, the following persons were named: Precinct 1, Billie Marie Long, judge; Margaret Trulock, alternate; Precinct 2, Doug Barber, judge; Keith Williamson, alternate; Precinct 3, J. M. Munoz Jr., judge; Bitzie Humphrey, alternate; Precinct 4, Royce Beights, judge; and Opal Jo Blair, alternate; Precinct 7, Billie Ruffin, and alternate Juanita Best.

For absentee ballots, the judge is Bob Ratliff and alternate Bob Riley.

After the approval of a statement of assurance in regard to revenue sharing funds of $102,605, Judge Carter commented, "Personally I am not an advocate of revenue sharing funds. The federal government cannot give you something without first taking it away. Last year, Texas was the number two state of the 50 states as far as costs to taxpayers. Texans paid $1.36 to get back $1.00. Now we have moved to number one, for we are now paying $1.40 for a return of each $1.00."

Carter continued, "I have received notification from the Texas Industrial Commission and was surprised at the cost to the taxpayers. For example, Alaska pays 52 cents in order to get back $1.00. This is only one example of how revenue sharing funds can be out of proportion. Of course, these funds have done some good in metropolitan areas but we send in more than our share in order to get a return."

In other matters, the commissioners took no action after discussion of an increase in dues for the Texas Association of Counties. Mitchell County's dues will be increased $150 per year to $685. The matter is expected to be resolved at a future meeting.

In other business, the commissioners voted unanimously to increase the mileage paid the district attorney, his assistant and investigators from the current 16 cents per mile to 20 cents per mile.

Also, the commissioners agreed on a 3-1 vote to increase county employees' mileage from 10 cents to 20 cents per mile.

Voting for the proposals were Commissioner Billy Preston, Paul Logsdon and Johnny Shackelford; voting against was Paul Hunter.

Finishing the meeting was a discussion of repairing the courthouse roof, upon which no action was taken and also a report from Judge Carter that the county will receive $65,629 in state funds for use on lateral roads.

Howard County is raking in its fees

Margaret Ray, Howard County clerk, reports that her office collected $108,406.38 in fees for the 1981 fiscal year ending September 30.

Ray also reports that Howard County Court fees collected through the clerk's office totaled $135,083.12 for the year. The court fees largely were fines and various court costs.

"Most people think the only money the county gets is from taxes," Ray said.

The total in clerk fees is almost $13,000 more than 1980, Ray noted. Increases in recordings of legal documents, lunacy commitments and misdemeanor court fees account for the growth.

Ray said the fees themselves have not gone up.

Lorraine reports 297 students

LORAIN (SC) — Lorraine school trustees received a number of reports during their meeting Monday night and named board president Ronald Bruce as the school district's nominee for the Tax Appraisal Board.

School principal Mike Hartman reported at the end of the first six week reporting period Lorraine schools had 297 students total enrollment, and had an average daily attendance of more than 97 percent.

According to figures compiled for the state, 37.8 percent of the pupils are Anglo, 5.4 percent black, and 56.8 Hispanic.

At the conclusion of Monday's meeting, trustees took under consideration a request upon which Superintendent Glenn Sanders commented, "One of our former students, Ricky Hallmark, now of Midland, has contacted us wanting to parachute the game balloon on the 50-yard line prior to our Homecoming game against Water Valley Oct. 30. As long as he signs a waiver making the school system not responsible, it's all right with us."

Sanders continued, "Ricky's done it before ... dropped it right on the 50-yard line at Crane."

Trustees OK bus barn

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado City school trustees met last night and awarded a bid on the bus barn. According to Superintendent Charlie Useton, "We were pleased with the number of bids, five of which met our specifications. We received both area and local bids."

Darrell Shurtleff of Colorado City was awarded the bid for $41,000, with the job to be completed with 90 days.

Additionally, two bids were received on an energy management system, from Honeywell Company and Darrell Oliver Energy Masters, both of Lubbock.

Useton commented, "We are delighted and interested in the mechanics of such an operation. We will study very carefully both bids and make a decision at a later date."

In other board action, trustees agreed to increase the transportation cost to 85 cent per mile for use of school buses for extra-curricular activities. Additionally, an increase in pay for substitute teachers was okayed, from the current $25 per day to $30, and $35 per day after 20 days.

Trustees also increased the mileage pay to 23 cents for school employees' travel allowance.

On another note, Dr. Billy Bruce Bridgeford was nominated to serve on the Tax Appraisal District Board and auditor Joe Morren presented the school district's 1980-81 audit. He pronounced the district's economic condition as "very good."

Arts and crafts festival has more variety than ever

The upcoming Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival, to be held Oct. 17-18 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, will offer a larger variety than previous festivals, festival organizers say. It also will feature a larger number of out-of-town exhibitors than earlier festivals.

According to festival officials, 60 percent of the more than 160 exhibitors will be from cities other than Big Spring. Austin leads the list of out-of-town entries with 13 represented at the festival. Austin is followed by Midland and Odessa, who each will have seven exhibitors at the show. Abilene is in fifth place with six, followed by Lubbock with four, and Fort Worth, Sudan and San Angelo with three.

In addition, the nationally ranked festival will be almost evenly split between artists and craftsmen. Of those listing their items to be sold at the show, 74 listed art and 82 listed crafts. As in past years, western art and landscapes will lead the list of subjects, but will be followed closely by oil field art for the first time. The artists are split evenly with mediums to be represented in oil, acrylics, and watercolors.

As in past years, the festival will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday. The show is open to the general public and there is no admission charge.

Japanese proud of cultural difference

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the third installment of his four-part series, Don James explores the cultural aspects of modern Japan which make it a unique nation. As managing editor of the Wichita Falls Times and Record News, James recently traveled with other journalists to Japan to learn about the directions the country is taking in the 1980s.

By DON JAMES
Japanese culture is drastically different from the West. Based as it is on a thousand years of separation from the rest of the world, it's not surprising that things are different in Japan.

After attending a Bunraku (puppet) performance of the classical Japanese drama, "The Nunobiki Waterfall," a Japanese acquaintance asked how much westerners could endure.

In truth, the play was monotonous. With one person singing the dialogue, accompanied by the plaintive sounds of what Americans call a three-stringed banjo and the puppeteers on stage, the play was confusing and difficult to follow, even with a program.

Classical theater isn't that much different, utilizing highly-stylistic themes that don't translate well to English. These traditional arts may give a clue to the reason for the runaway popularity of baseball. The traditionally reserved Japanese turn into typical fans at major league games, although balls knocked out of the park are returned by solicitous spectators.

Relatively little traditional music is heard on the streets of Japanese cities, but easy listening western music is everywhere. What older Japanese call "new music," a variation of rock, has caught on with the younger set.

Japanese television leans heavily to sumo wrestling and U.S.-style situation comedy and English language cable TV is outdated by 1981 standards.

A perfect example of the inward-looking Japanese society is the tea ceremony which has become so steeped (no pun intended) in tradition that the tea is incidental.

Elaborate utensils are a characteristic of the tea ceremony. Some tea cups sell for astronomical sums despite their origin in the kilns of amateurs. Cups are priced according to the status of the appraiser. A cup "signed" on the exterior of the packing box by a "name" appraiser is worth much more than a cup authenticated by a lesser-known appraiser.

Flower arranging is a mark of Japanese culture, and literally millions of women study this art at schools sponsored by clubs, their husbands' employers and even YWCAs and PTAs.

It's not true that Japanese will eat anything that doesn't eat them first, but dietary habits are a contrast to ours. An American who has visited a Japanese steak house or a Japanese-style restaurant in the U.S. hasn't really sampled the Japanese diet.

Raw fish is good dipped in a sauce heavy in soya. The same thing can be said for soup, which consists of a clear broth drunk from the bowl. Americans may be shocked when they're even served sushiyaki in Japan in a small bowl of raw eggs. The guest retrieves the food from the egg.

The Japanese equivalent of a quick lunch is a visit to a noodle shop. Several varieties of noodle dishes are available, the variations involving the meats and vegetables served on noodles and side dishes of rice. Yakatori, small bits of chicken skewered on bamboo sticks and charcoal broiled, again with a rice side dish, also is popular.

Japanese have an eye for beauty, and a complete meal often is served in a lacquer tray with the foods arranged artistically. Flowers and other garnishes are used to make a serving pretty.

Tempura is a traditional Japanese dish most Americans enjoy. It includes shrimp and a variety of vegetables resembling sweet potatoes, mushroom caps and even okra make tempura tasty.

Traditional Japanese houses have gardens. A garden may measure no more than 50 or so square feet, but it's well cared for and prized as an essential part of the residence. A small waterfall desirable, even if it only drips, and gravel may be substituted for a pond if water is not available.

Hanging scrolls, many hundreds of years old and passed down through inheritance, are prized as decorations. Scrolls are changed according to the time of year.

Most modern Japanese houses have a traditional bath even if they have no traditional Japanese pond. The tub is small but it's for soaking, not washing, which is done outside the tub.

Few Japanese are Christian, although Christian elementary schools are popular. Shinto is the traditional religion, but Buddhism has been adopted along with Shinto by most Japanese.

The Christian population of Japan is only about one percent and has remained at this figure for almost a century. This leads many to the conclusion that Japanese have less need for spiritual substance than westerners; however, shrines and temples are heavily attended, particularly by older Japanese. While the suicide rate is relatively high, this is explained by psychologist by its social acceptability.

The normal work week in Japan is six days. Stores may be open on Sunday but offices and department stores are closed. Japanese keep late hours and many men socialize with their co-workers after work.

Japan has thriving motion picture industry. War and horror movies are popular, but some critics are beginning to wonder how many variations of giant ants and other creatures can come to terrorize the Ginza on the silver screen.

A break from the crowded streets apparently is needed, since during the noon hour and on holidays Tokyo's parks are crowded with people. Amateur theatricals are staged and many organized games may be seen. The Japanese not only work as a cohesive group, they play the same way.

Japan is riding the crest of a cultural explosion resulting from American influence, and many Japanese worry about their western-style economy. The fragility of this maturing economy will be discussed next.

ASAKUSA TEMPLE—Japanese have no sabbath, but thousands worship each day at the major shrines and temples that are common throughout the island nation. Here, Japanese burn incense before entering Asakusa Kannon Temple in the heart of the old downtown area of Tokyo. On a weekday, the temple was thronged with the people. Established in the 7th century, Asakusa is one of Tokyo's most revered landmarks.

Landslide expected in Mubarak referendum

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt today elects Hosni Mubarak president, succeeding Anwar Sadat, and a landslide was predicted for the only candidate. Police were ordered to shoot anyone "disturbing stability and security."

Official results from the referendum, in which the 12 million voters were asked to mark "yes" or "no" next to Mubarak's picture on their ballots, could be announced as early as Wednesday.

Mubarak, the air force commander chosen by Sadat in 1975 as his vice president and future successor, was nominated by Sadat's National Democratic Party and approved by the National Assembly.

The leader of the small pro-Soviet Progressive Unionist Party urged his followers to vote "no," but the leader of another small opposition party, the Socialist-Labor, supported Mubarak. He said he was ready to "give him a chance" to change Sadat's policies.

Meanwhile, more details of Sadat's assassination last Tuesday became available, and official sources reported 18 army officers were transferred to civilian posts because of "fanatic religious tendencies."

Defense Minister Abdel Halim Abu Ghazala said all four of Sadat's killers survived although previous government statements said one of them was killed. The four are reported to be members of a fanatic sect dedicated to killing Moslem leaders who do not live up to its standards of fundamentalism.

loyalty of the army was proved by the fact that three of the four assassins were civilians disguised as soldiers.

"If the armed forces were infiltrated, el-Isambouly would not have had to bring in outsiders," he said.

He said the lieutenant gave three members of his artillery unit special leave to make room for the three other attackers of his truck in the military parade Sadat and other top leaders were reviewing. The ammunition and grenades used in the attack were purchased from criminals in southern Egypt,

Stanton council seeks county aid on landfill

STANTON—The Stanton City Council met in special session recently and decided to ask Martin County for help with the construction of a landfill, says City Manager Gary Rudler. Rudler estimated around $30,000 to $35,000 would be needed from the county to complete the project.

In other business, the council approved the bid of Industrial Disposal Supply of Dallas for a Tempco street sweeper at $52,000.

The council also approved a resolution giving the First National Bank of Stanton a waiver on the building Pat Perez is constructing at the airport.

Rudler said Perez is leasing the land for construction from the city, and the waiver is to assure the bank that if Perez defaults on his loan, the city will not take over the property.

TCLU: Bill-by-the-call could threaten privacy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone's proposal to bill by the call for local service could threaten Texans' privacy, the executive director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union says. But Bell denies there would be any danger.

TCLU director John Duncan released copies Monday of an article he said he wrote for publication this month in the Texas Observer.

Bell has asked the Public Utility Commission to allow it to give customers a choice between the present flat-rate billing system or "measured service."

With measured service, customers pay for telephone service according to the number of calls they make, the distance, duration and time of day of each call. Bell says this would benefit those who seldom use their telephones.

Bell officials say they intend eventually — with PUC approval — to replace flat-rate billings with measured service.

Duncan said the potential impact on personal privacy would be similar to that of the "pen register" system the Department of Public Safety is seeking court permission to use. The "pen register" provides a record of the numbers to which calls are made from the telephone of a criminal suspect.

"The company's computers will be programmed for local calls as they now are for long distance direct dial billing. The records will be there, both on incoming and outgoing calls. They will clearly be available to federal authorities. They will also be available through the subpoena process to Texas grand juries and to other court proceedings," Duncan said.

"But worse from a privacy viewpoint they may be subject to casual browsing by DPS, local police and others who have connections with telephone security officers," Duncan said.

Bell spokesman Jim Goodwin said records of calls normally would not show the numbers called.

TIA gets green light for takeover

HOUSTON (AP) — Now that President Reagan has approved Texas International Airlines' bid to take control of Continental Airlines the first order of business must be a united effort to make Continental profitable again, said the winners of the corporate struggle.

"We look forward to working with the current Continental board to begin this task immediately," Frank Lorenzo, president and chief executive officer of Texas Air Corp., parent company of Texas International, said in a prepared statement.

Continental officials, however, expressed disappointment that the merger now appeared imminent.

Reagan, whose approval was required because international routes were involved, told the Civil Aeronautics Board on Monday that he will not block the acquisition. Continental released a statement saying it "is deeply disappointed in President Reagan's decision."

The ruling ends eight months of legal and regulatory wrangling between the two carriers as Continental bitterly opposed TIA's acquisition effort. The CAB had recommended in August that Reagan approve TIA's bid.

"Through the months of this struggle to maintain our company's independence, our actions have been guided by the belief ... that a merger of the two companies would not be in the best interests of Continental, its shareholders, its employees and the traveling public," said a statement from Continental.

"We are extremely disappointed that ... the effort by so many individuals at all levels — mechanics, flight attendants, reservations agents, office people and pilots — have not as yet succeeded," said Paul Eckel, chairman of the Continental Employees Association. "Despite today's decision, we are pledged to continue our efforts to make Continental this country's best airline, providing the best service at all levels for the traveling public," he said.

The employee group had tried to block the takeover by acquiring an interest in the airline through a new issuance of common stock.

A White House statement said Reagan was aware that the purchase proposal "led many to express concern about future levels of air service to Pacific islands, including those within the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands." But it said the CAB decision "includes safeguards designed to prevent unilateral reduction of air service to those islands."

Continental had said its service to the U.S. Trust Territory of Micronesia would be jeopardized by the takeover, even though TIA made a written commitment to continue that service and the CAB had imposed conditions on the merger that would make it difficult for TIA to drop or reduce services.

Texas International made its initial move last February to acquire the larger but financially weaker airline and the takeover was discussed in three courts, three state agencies, two federal agencies, the California legislature, Congress and the New York Stock Exchange.

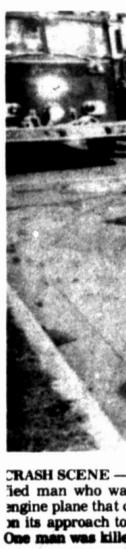

Texas Air announced in September that it had acquired majority control of Continental — 7,752,200 shares. All those shares were placed in a non-voting trust pending Reagan's ruling.

Continental is the nation's ninth largest airline in terms of revenue. Houston-based Texas International is 17th.

Carter backs Reagan on AWACS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter, joining President Reagan in his battle over AWACS radar planes for Saudi Arabia, says the sale is "a litmus test of America's reliability" and is needed for peace in the Middle East.

"I think it's very important that once the president makes a commitment of that kind to a valuable friend like the Saudi Arabians that the Senate approve what the president has proposed," Carter said Monday as he arrived for a two-day stay in Washington — his first extended trip back since he was president.

"A lot of foreign countries can't understand the intricacies of American law and they look upon a promise by the president as being a commitment on the part of our own nation," he added.

Carter was to meet with congressional leaders at a Capitol Hill luncheon today and then visit for a half-hour with Reagan, who defeated him last November.

Meanwhile, former President Ford, who lost the White House to Carter in 1976, said he also will join Reagan's lobbying drive for the sale.

"I can assure you that if the Congress turns down President Reagan on the AWACS deal, it will have a devastating effect on our attempt to pursue the process of peace in the Middle East," Ford told reporters Monday in Arizona.

The $8.5 billion arms sale, including five Airborne Warning and Control System planes and F-15 jet weaponry, is in jeopardy in Congress. The White House has made some gains since the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, but an Associated Press count last week showed the Republican-run Senate lined up 37-31 to veto the deal.

Rejection in the House this week is considered inevitable. The Senate is scheduled to vote next Tuesday.

In a letter to Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., that was made public Monday, Carter said, "In many ways, this has become a litmus test of America's reliability" and added that "the beneficial influence of the moderate Arab nations is a valuable resource which we should nourish whenever it is practical to do so."

"For the well-being of our own country, for the continuing security of Israel and for the peace and security in the Middle East and Persian Gulf area, I hope that you and other members of the Senate will give him (Reagan) this support," Carter wrote.

Opponents of the sale have expressed fear that the AWACS could be used against Israel and could fall into unfriendly hands if the Saudi monarchy is overthrown.

Carter said the Saudis "are strong and influential moderates in an area where moderation is vital in circumventing fanaticism and violence."

Control of the U.S. Senate almost temporarily slipped back into Democratic hands the other day. Or so it seemed.

Another bright blaze of glory

The momentous event has become reality. We can all stop holding our breaths now. A helium balloon has made a non-stop flight across the country.

We don't want to detract from the balloon pilots' victory. It was a stunning feat and they now join the ranks of people tottering on the top line of categories in Books of World Records.

More than anything, this event makes us stop to wonder about that wondrous ingredient in humankind that causes us to want to climb the tallest mountain, swim the widest channel, or walk barefoot across the Sahara.

PERHAPS IT'S the romance of it, the challenge, the pitting of man against nature — or maybe it's just stupidity. But the world dearly loves to be distracted from its daily drudgery and entertained by some new feat.

Sometimes we wonder: if all the energy that was put into a brief flame of glory such as that enjoyed by the balloon pilots were channeled into something useful here on earth, what a different place this would be.

Could a city try something just as challenging — like going for one full day without a single report of crime?

IN THE FINAL analysis, we have to ask, what does it matter? Man has walked on the moon. A helium balloon has flown across the country. So what?

The answer is, these events are like bright-shooting comets that trail across the sky, blazing for a brief glorious moment in eternity before fading out of sight, never to be seen and rarely thought of again. Since they exist, they are part of the natural order of things.

What a boring world we'd be without them.

Postmaster replies to Rim columnist

I enjoyed Bob Carpenter's recent "Around the Rim" column in which he noted the Postal Service was increasing the price of first class postage to 20 cents Nov. 1, 1981.

Like Art Buchwald, Mr. Carpenter never lets the facts interfere with an entertaining story, and in the same vein I'll respond to Bob's column.

It's got to be more comical to Bob than Postal workers that the Postal Service has a deficit of 126 million dollars since the raise to 18 cents some months back.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger stated the increase was needed to match the rate of inflation. If we are running a deficit now, it seems logical an increase must be allowed if we are to break even in the future — particularly since a new contract signed with Postal unions gives workers something over a 3 percent raise on their new contract. It would be irresponsible not to seek an increase as the Government notified the Postmaster General that they will no longer subsidize the Post Office as they did in years past.

Perhaps the best kept secret in the world is the fact that Postal workers were the only employees to show an increase in productivity in the United States in 1980 - 1981 — nearly 5 percent. Productivity in other business dropped in this period.

Our volume of mail goes up each year — we increased an average of 5 percent each year for the past 10 years and expect an 8 percent increase for FY 82.

Our incoming mail for FY 81 in Big Spring, Texas was 17 million, 745 thousand pieces. This is an increase of more than 40 percent from what we worked in 1967 at our old building — but we are working it more efficiently because we had 71 employees in 1967 compared to 53 employees now.

Nationwide we have reduced our work force by 76,000 people — a savings of nearly a billion dollars annually. And this in the face of continuing higher mail volume year by year — over 35 percent for the past 10 years at the national level.

I don't want to be too serious because I realize it's the "in" thing to knock the Post Office, but I think we have the most loyal and dedicated people moving the mail I've ever worked with — they do care — they do try — often handicapped in meeting deadlines while staying within assigned hours.

I too, remember when a postage stamp was 5 cents. I'd just become Postmaster and the Big Spring Herald retailed for 5 cents also. Fifteen years later The Herald is retailed for 25 cents a copy for its daily paper, and Nov. 1, the postal service will retail a first class letter for 20 cents.

Our 333 percent increase certainly looks bad — until we compare it with The Herald's 500 percent increase.

I certainly don't think The Herald is mismanaged with a personnel composed of bumbling workers. I think you are victims of the same thing the food, oil, entertainment, and virtually every other industry doing business, including the Post Office, is victimized by — inflation.

A nickel coke sells for 25-40 cents. A 50 cent movie costs $2 and up. A nickel paper retails for 25 cents, and soon a 5 cent stamp will cost 20 cents. And now I have my 10 cents worth — that's two cents plus inflation.

Qaddafi wanted Reagan killed

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi, who organized more than one assassination plot against his arch-rival Anwar Sadat, has his eye on even bigger quarry: Ronald Reagan. He confided as much in a telephone conversation with Ethiopian strongman Mengistu Haile Mariam last August.

The call was intercepted and translated by the National Security Agency, which reported the substance of the conversation to the White House.

The disturbing conversation occurred on the weekend following a particularly galling humiliation for Qaddafi — the shooting down by American fighters of two Libyan jets in the Mediterranean. Expressing anger over the incident, Qaddafi vowed that he would go ahead with plans to have President Reagan assassinated.

This was no spur-of-the-moment decision or casual bragadocio to impress a fellow dictator. Just the week before the aerial encounter, a Libyan group called "Free Unionist Officers" had vowed publicly to exact revenge for any harm to Qaddafi by attacking "U.S. interests anywhere," and seeking "the physical liquidation" of Americans, beginning with President Reagan.

Besides the shooting-down of his jets, Qaddafi may have had another, more personal reason to want vengeance on the United States. As I've reported, fugitive ex-CIA agent Ed Wilson, who had been hiding out in Tripoli, made a secret visit to Rome in July to hold a series of meetings with U.S. officials, ostensibly to discuss the criminal charges outstanding against him in this country.

INTELLIGENCE SOURCES told my associate Dale Van Atta that one of the U.S. officials was the CIA's station chief in Rome, and that he was assigned to get Wilson's cooperation in the assassination of Qaddafi. The CIA reportedly planned to employ a poisoned dart disguised as a black fly.

If this gave Qaddafi some justification for an attack on Reagan, he clearly doesn't lack the means or the determination to try. In April 1980, he warned Libyan expatriates to come home or suffer "physical elimination." Since then, at least 10 anti-Qaddafi exiles have been murdered in Italy, West Germany, Britain, Greece and the United States.

A common threat that runs through these killings seems to be a ring of American renegades who ran with Wilson and his sidekick, Frank Terpil, another ex-CIA agent. Terpil is believed to be hiding out in Beirut — headquarters, incidentally, of the group that claimed responsibility for the attack on Sadat.

Eugene Tafaya, the former Green Beret accused of shooting a Libyan exile student in Colorado a year ago, worked for Wilson in Libya and visited him in Tripoli just prior to the Colorado shooting.

In addition, Wilson is charged with attempting to arrange the assassination of another Qaddafi critic by three anti-Castro Cubans who had once worked for the CIA.

Another Wilson-Terpil associate, Joseph G. McElroy, is suspected of supplying weapons to Qaddafi hit squads, although he denies it. He is currently doing time in Pennsylvania for illegal transportation of a 9-millimeter pistol on an international flight.

The gun was discovered, shortly after McElroy bought it in Pennsylvania, during a raid on suspected terrorists and gunrunners in London five years ago.

ANOTHER GUN THAT McElroy bought in Pennsylvania in 1976 was in the possession of two Libyan assassins; they were convicted last year of the murder of an anti-Qaddafi journalist in London in April 1980. McElroy denies any knowledge of how the gun wound up in the hands of the Libyans.

For years, meanwhile, Qaddafi had been trying to knock off the late Anwar Sadat. The Libyan strongman concocted a new assassination plot "every three to six months," one intelligence source said. I personally asked Qaddafi about reports that he was trying to arrange Sadat's demise. The Libyan leader told me: "Sadat will be eliminated by the Egyptian people."

Footnote: The CIA has emphatically denied planning or talking about an assassination attempt on Qaddafi with Wilson or anyone else. An agency spokesman pointed out that a standing executive order prohibits the CIA from "engaging in or conspiring to engage in assassination," and insists the agency hasn't violated that order. He even denied that the CIA met with Wilson in Rome last July — as does Wilson's lawyer.

EXECUTIVE MEMO: William M. Bell, President Reagan's choice to head the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, claims that he has been an active member of the NAACP in Detroit most of his life. But NAACP officials there have no record that he was ever a member. Bell's response to all this: "Well, I'm a member philosophically. I guess my wife hasn't paid my dues lately."

As part of its apparent leaning toward the notion of a winnable or at least survivable nuclear war, the administration has proposed a 15 percent increase in the $10 million budget of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, which is responsible for civil defense. FEMA officials are hoping they may get even more, and are making elaborate plans for deep shelters to accommodate key military personnel and fallout shelters for the rest of us. The agency is also hoping to hire more people to organize civil defense at local and state levels.

Around the rim Baseball bummer

Richard Horn

I hoped, prayed, and fidgeted throughout the Astros-Dodgers finale Sunday, and when my fellow Houstonians could not overcome The Beach Boys I consoled myself by saying it was all for the best. I'd rather the Astros didn't win anything in this silly season.

Baseball's powers that be called it the National League Western Division Championship Series. The name has a ring to it. But it was a set of games that should never have been played, and Houston would not be involved at all if the Cincinnati Reds hadn't gone into a late-season coma. There need be no mourning over the Astros defeat — the way they played this year they were lucky to have those five extra games at all.

DON'T GET ME wrong. I am a dedicated Astros fan and I would be the first to say that their style of baseball is the style the game was meant to have. Their best players — Terry Puhl, Jose Cruz, Alan Ashby, Craig Reynolds, Art Howe — all have potential to be great players instead of just journeymen on a team with great pitching.

But potential doesn't mean much when you're playing bonafide "superstars" like Steve Garvey, Dusty Baker and the rest of Lasorda's bunch. The Astros showed they just couldn't put it all together when it counted, when they really needed it. That happened in the playoffs last year, but they fought hard and everybody said this would be the year. It was not.

There's no telling what the 1982 edition of the Astros will look like (or even if major league baseball will survive the new year). Owner John McMullen came to Houston because he wanted a winner. He seems like an impatient man and I would not be surprised if he shuffled the deck and began some hard-core dealing this winter.

Bill Virdon, the Astro's quiet, scholarly-looking manager may go if McMullen is anything like his former partner George Steinbrenner. Last year was a triumph for the club, but this year was a failure; if not for that strike Houston might have been eliminated from the race long ago. Managers are often the first to go in situations like that.

OF COURSE MOST of the Astros need somebody who can hit the ball consistently. The only time any of the current lineup has power is when the team is six runs ahead. Then they can hit like the 1927 Yankees. Houston has never had power hitters and there must be some psychological force, besides the Astrodome, that makes anybody who joins forget anything they ever knew about hitting. Send Cruz or Tony Scott to Boston or New York and they would probably be unstoppable.

The best thing about the Astros this year was Nolan Ryan — the guy everybody hated last year. It's a pity he had to do so well and get his fifth no-hitter in a baseball season that will surely live on in infamy.

Only the playoffs and World Series can salvage it for our memories. Oakland and Montreal would put on a marvelous show if they can get past the Dodgers and Yankees. I will hope and pray and fidget that they do. Rooting for Los Angeles and New York is like rooting for IBM and Exxon — it's just no fun at all. But if those two teams square off at the end of the month it will be a fitting ending to a season that turned the truest baseball devotees cynical.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is it possible to be a "half-way Christian"? Sometimes I feel like I love God very much, but other times I seem to forget all about him. — B.S.A.

DEAR B.S.A.: A person is either a Christian or he is not — there is no such thing as a "half-way" Christian in that sense. The Bible declares, "If you confess with your mouth, 'Jesus is Lord,' and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved" (Romans 10:9). Have you accepted Jesus Christ as your personal Lord and Savior, trusting him alone for your salvation? If so, you are now a child of God.

But there certainly is a sense in which many Christians are "half-way Christians" — because they are not consistently following Christ as they should. Peter was this kind of person when he first became a disciple. At times he could say with sincerity, "Lord ... I will lay down my life for you" (John 13:37). Yet Peter also could declare after Jesus was arrested, "I don't know him (Luke 22:57). What was Peter's problem — and what is yours? I suspect that your real problem is two-fold. First, you may not have really turned your whole life over to Jesus Christ as Lord and Master. Christ wants to take over every area of your life — your thoughts, your possessions, your relationships, your actions — everything. Have you ever told him that you want above all else to do his will?

Second, you quite possibly have not followed up on your commitment to Christ by growing spiritually each day. Just as you need food and drink if you are to remain strong physically, you also need the "food" of God's Word each day if you are to be strengthened spiritually. Set aside time each day when you concentrate on prayer and Bible reading, and seek out Christian friends who can help you also.

Yes, Peter denied Christ — but he did not stay weak in his faith. He turned back to Christ and became stronger each day, and God greatly used him to bring others to Christ.

Heart vessel spasm causes angina pain

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have decubitus angina. I get the pain when I am lying down. I am awakened from sleep with the pain. Also, I get it when I am sitting relaxed. The worst thing is that it is sometimes so severe that I pass out. I break out in a cold sweat and turn pale. Is there anything I can do or have done? I can't stand the pain. I have been rushed three times to the hospital in an ambulance, only to be sent home — with the bill. I am 49. — Mrs. M.L.

Angina that develops during rest is a little different than the ordinary kind of angina. The more common kind comes on with exertion, and means that arteries to the heart are partially plugged, impeding blood flow to the heart muscle. That causes pain.

In your kind of angina, flow to the heart is still impeded, but for different reasons. The arteries aren't necessarily plugged, but just go into spasms. The end result is the same — angina (chest pain). Nitroglycerin and related drugs are used for decubitus angina, just as they are for the common kind. You may need a nitroglycerine preparation that comes in ointment form. It is put on the chest at night before you go to sleep and the drug is absorbed gradually through the skin. Or you might ask your doctor if you will need a new class of angina drugs — calcium blockers. These drugs are effective for decubitus angina. They are not available just now, but will be soon. I'm sure you will read about them in a short time.

I would tell your doctor about your passing-out spells. You may be having abnormal heart rhythms when you have your angina. Both the angina and the abnormal rhythms need to be brought under control simultaneously. In case you wanted to know, the word "decubitus" actually means "lying down" in Latin. Pronounce it de-KYEW-bit-us.

Dear Dr. Donohue: A few years ago I was doctoring for a gall bladder problem. I am now in a different location. I had not thought about the gall bladder, but recently I have had back trouble. Can that be related to the bladder? I know that kidney problems can cause pain, but wonder about the gall bladder. — Mrs. G.S.

A diseased gall bladder might cause discomfort in the back region, particularly between the shoulder blades, the right shoulder blade, or the right shoulder generally. The nerves that bring pain signals from the gall bladder to the brain originate in the upper back. When back pain is related to gall bladder it is the "referred" kind of pain — referred from the point of inflammation, etc., to another region. The other symptoms of gall bladder disorder make it fairly clear that the pain is not due to a problem in the back. Those other tips are relation of pain to eating, nausea and vomiting.

Certainly, however, it is time to get back into step with medical help for your problem, be it of the back, or of the gall bladder, or both. See the booklet "You and Your Gall Bladder." For a copy, write me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Girl Scout calendar sale is now underway

The Girl Scout Calendar Sale will be held during the month of October. Registered troops of the West Texas Girl Scout Council will have the Girl Scout Calendar 1982 for sale, price $1.00.

The theme of the new calendar is "Girl Scouts - Going and Growing." Each month has a picture of typical Girl Scout faces - girls doing things and going places. The calendar page is made up of squares suitable for appointment notes or important data one might want to remember.

Purchase of the calendar furthers Girl Scouting in each community. The profit goes into the troop's budget

Paula Allen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allen, Coahoma. An eight year member, Paula has promoted 4-H in community activities, served on various committees and is a teen leader. Gum Addict Needs To Chew Cold Turkey

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about an unusual problem I acquired about six years ago. I am a chain gum-chewer. I chew about 15 to 20 packs of gum every day (after I get off work, that is). I usually chew one piece about five minutes, then I will put another piece in my mouth. I became addicted to chewing gum when I was 17 and trying to lose weight. I chewed gum instead of eating, which was a very unhealthy thing to do. Now that I am slim I can't break the habit of chewing gum. When I try to quit I get dizzy, sick, weak, and my teeth get sore!

I must quit chewing gum because the guy I'm in love with says it will give me diabetes. Is that true? I really hate the habit. It's dirtier than smoking, it's also more expensive, and it's embarrassing for a woman my age to go into a store and buy $3 worth of gum. The other day I put $4 in dimes into a gumball machine and the onlookers stared at me like I was crazy. Also, disposing of chewed gum is gross! Can you help me, Abby? Sign me ...

THE SIOUX CITY CHEW-CHEW GIRL

DEAR CHEW-CHEW: First, diabetes is not caused by eating too many sweets. (Get "The Diabetic's Book - All Your Questions Answered" by Biermann and Toohy.)

You are wise to recognize your gum-chewing habit as an "addiction" because that's exactly what it is. Try to quit cold turkey - it's by far the best method. If that fails, find a therapist who specializes in behavior modification.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of students having crushes on their teachers, but have you ever heard of a teacher having a crush on a student?

There's this 15-year-old girl in one of my classes who is a rare beauty. I can't keep my eyes off her. I wonder if other teachers have problems like this. What's to be done? I'm twice her age, and my class is her favorite class. I don't believe in anonymous letters so I will sign my name, but please don't use it.

GOT A CRUSH

DEAR GOT: Teachers have crushes on students for the same reason students have crushes on teachers: immaturity. What's to be done? Admire her from afar, and keep your eyes, your thoughts (and everything else) off her. Small wonder your class is her "favorite." You've telegraphed your feelings to her, and she got the message.

DEAR ABBY: Does my husband have a problem? He has 83 (I counted them) shirts in his closet and claims he needs them all. He has several sets of "twin" shirts, and several that would pass for triplets. I took an inventory yesterday, and he has 44 shirts with short sleeves, 21 with long sleeves (lightweight), 15 flannel and three wool! There is no room in the closet for his pants, and I dare not give (or throw) away even one shirt. Any ideas on what to do?

JEAN IN ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR JEAN: Why do anything? Let him live like the pack rat that he is, and when he's sufficiently crowded or inconvenienced, he'll remedy the situation.

Glasscock County 4-Her named winner

COLLEGE STATION - "Leadership is my most active project in 4-H because I can teach the younger members while I learn from them, too. A person never gets too old to learn," says Mary Kaye Halfmann, a Glasscock County 4-H member who has been named a state winner in the 4-H Leadership Program.

Mary Kaye will receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, November 29-December 3, announce state 4-H officials with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The trip is sponsored by Reader's Digest, which also provides nine $1,000 scholarships and two silver trays at the national level. Mary Kaye's record book will be entered in national competition.

Mary Kaye, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Halfmann of St. Lawrence Rt., Garden City, and is currently a freshman at Howard College School of Nursing. She has been active in 4-H for nine years. She has planned and conducted the Glasscock County 4-H Awards Banquet and has been mistress of ceremonies, attended Texas 4-H Congress in 1980 and helped plan this year's Congress.

Mary Kaye has chaired the county 4-H council, has been co-chairman of the district council, and has served on the Texas 4-H Council.

Clothing and swine are her two main projects, she says, but she has also had programs in food and nutrition, beef, gardening, home environment and method demonstration.

Awards Mary Kaye has received include the State Fair of Texas Award, district leader award, third in a method demonstration at State 4-H Roundup, leadership medal in 1979, district medal in 1980, and district achievement medal in 1979.

Mary Kaye says it all about her 4-H project: "Leadership is my vehicle to life and 4-H gave me the key."

Thatcher faces party congress

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher faced the opening of her Conservative Party's annual conference today apparently determined to maintain her tight money policies despite mounting criticism inside and outside the party.

Mrs. Thatcher, celebrating her 56th birthday today, appeared in confident mood when she arrived in this northwest seaside resort amid tight security following Saturday's fatal bomb blast in London by the Irish Republican Army.

"All is well, all is very well," she told reporters.

"We have to hang on to the course we are following," her treasury chief, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Geoffrey Howe, said in a TV interview Sunday.

An opinion poll in this morning's Daily Mail reported that only 44 percent of 574 Conservative voters questioned nationwide want Mrs. Thatcher to continue as party leader and prime minister. But the No. 2 choice, former Prime Minister Edward Heath, one of her chief critics whom she ousted as party leader in 1975, was favored by only 24 percent.

Other recent polls have put public support for the Conservatives at 30 percent, 8 percentage points below the Laborites. The Times of London said that was less than the support for any government since World War II, except for a brief period in 1968 after a Labor government devalued the pound.

The opinion polls show the slump in the Conservatives' fortunes is due mainly to unemployment, which totals 2.99 million, or one in every eight British workers.

It is Britain's highest jobless rate since the 1930s depression, and it is blamed on Mrs. Thatcher's rigorous adherence to her policy of reduced money supply, reduced public spending and high interest rates to curb the inflation rate, now at 11.5 percent.

Four Conservative members of the House of Commons warned in a letter published in The Times this morning that Mrs. Thatcher's policies could ensure a Labor victory at the next election. They demanded policies which would be "benevolent and not hostile" to private industry.

Another Conservative member of Commons, David Knox, urged Mrs. Thatcher to revert to a "more traditional" Conservative policy of higher spending and expansionism.

There was no chance of Mrs. Thatcher being ousted at the conference, which has no say-so in the election of the party leader. That is done by the members of the party in Commons.

Ireland's peace plan opposed

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald's attempt to woo the Protestants in Northern Ireland has run into fierce opposition on both sides of the border.

The Rev. Ian Paisley, the most militant of Northern Ireland's Protestant leaders, said Monday that any attempt to unite the British province with its Protestant majority with the largely Roman Catholic Irish Republic will be "met with the full force of opposition."

Former Prime Minister Charles Haughey, ousted by FitzGerald in the general election last June, called his rival's self-styled "crusade" to make radical changes in the republic's constitution a "colonial mentality" that undercuts Dublin's claim of sovereignty over strife-torn Northern Ireland.

But FitzGerald's initiative has been hailed by some press commentators and politicians as a potential breakthrough in the elusive quest for peace in the divided, troubled island.

The prime minister, a Catholic from a mixed marriage whose mother was a Protestant from Belfast, outlined his plan for constitutional change last week.

He proposed dropping the republic's claim of jurisdiction over Northern Ireland and lifting the ban on divorce. Both have contributed to the alienation of the million Protestants in Northern Ireland.

Securities industry changing

NEW YORK (AP) — Any time four major firms from a single industry are snapped up in mergers within a few months, it's safe to conclude that big changes are afoot in that business.

That's exactly what has happened since last spring in the securities industry.

The nation's largest retailer, the largest insurance company, the biggest credit-card company and a giant international commodities firm all have gone to Wall Street wooing brokerage firms. And each has come away with what it considers a prize catch.

Prudential Insurance paid $385 million for Bache Group, American Express about $1 billion for Shearson Loeb Rhoades, Phibro about $500 million for Salomon Brothers. And last week Sears Roebuck struck a $607 million deal for Dean Witter Reynolds.

Sears' announcement came only three days after it reached agreement to buy a large real estate and mortgage broker, Coldwell Banker, for about $175 million.

Even by Wall Street standards, that's a lot of money being thrown around.

The recent barrage of deals has been heralded as the opening salvo in a revolution in the financial-services business — potentially opening the way to an era of money super-markets catering to just about every conceivable financial need.

Bankers, who have been effectively kept out of the action until now by laws that restrict their operations, may soon charge into the fray themselves. Donald Regan, the longtime Wall Street executive who is now Treasury secretary, has called for a sweeping review of those laws.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, introduced a bill a few days ago to change or remove some of the existing regulations covering banks and savings institutions.

It would, for example, let savings institutions move into banks' territory to make GOOD NIGHT FOR FERGUSON — Buffalo's quarterback Joe Ferguson gets protection as he sets to pass in the third period of Monday's game against the Dolphins. Trying to get to Ferguson is Miami's Doug Betters. Ferguson threw 15 times for 221 yards to beat the Dolphins 31-21.

Dolphins flunk 1st big test

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Don Shula had admitted before the game that the Buffalo Bills would be Miami's first big test of the season.

The Dolphins flunked it. "We hadn't played a team as good with or without the ball all year," Shula said of Buffalo's offense and defense. "We knew this was going to be a pretty good indication of how good we were."

If that's the case, the Dolphins weren't anywhere as good as the 4-0 record they took into Monday night's game. The 31-21 victory by the Bills — and it was a lot easier than the score indicates — proved it.

The outcome not only left the Dolphins with their first loss of the season (Philadelphia remains the National Football League's only unbeaten team), it also left their record against American Conference East teams at 1-1-1. And Buffalo, 4-2 overall, is 4-0 against the rest of the division.

By halftime the score was a near-runaway 31-7 with Miami's only touchdown coming on Fulton Walker's 90-yard kickoff return. It wasn't until the final 18 minutes that the Buffalo defense reeled and gave up Tony Nathan's 12-yard scoring sweep — the first rushing TD against the Bills this year — and Don Strock's four-yard touchdown pass to Joe Rose.

"This was about as bad as you can get beaten — the way we were handled in the first half," said Shula. "This was as bad a first half as we've had in a long, long time. We couldn't get anything going from the opening kickoff. I was very upset about the way we played defense. The defense didn't make a play all night."

It couldn't, the way Joe Ferguson was throwing the ball. The Buffalo quarterback, given all the time he needed, completed 20 of 29 passes for 338 yards. And that was after he'd hit on 11 of 15 for 221 in the first half, when the outcome was all but decided.

"Ferguson had a great night and his receivers played super," Shula said. "Down and in, down and up, down the middle — balls were being caught all over the place. You must be able to stop people. We just aren't playing good pass defense. This was a continuation of what happened to us in the last two ballgames, when we gave up over a thousand yards."

In all, they gave up 454 this time. Wide receiver Jerry Butler got 28 of them on one touchdown pass and 25 of them on another and running back Joe Cribbs, who rushed for a game-high 60 yards, got another 65 on a touchdown pass.

Ferguson, who has thrown for at least three TDs three times this season, now has 14 and is tied with San Diego's Dan Fouts for the league lead. Another of his passes, a 29-yarder to Frank Lewis, fell one yard short of a touchdown. So Roosevelt Leaks ran it in from there.

Winfield finally gets autumn feeling

NEW YORK (AP) — It's October and for the first time in his life, Dave Winfield is playing baseball games in the autumn. He loves the feeling.

"This is what I wanted when I went into the market," said Winfield, who signed baseball's richest free agent contract with the New York Yankees last winter.

Winfield said one of the major reasons he left San Diego was the constant losing he had to endure with the Padres.

"Important games?" he said. "Yeah, I played in important games there. The All-Star Game and Opening Day. That was about it."

When the losing became habitual, Winfield knew he had to get out of San Diego. "You play with a raggedy team, you play raggedy," he said. "That's why I had to leave. I couldn't take it anymore. I got tired of listening to the rhetoric. They kept saying they were going to build around me. Well, I'm from Missouri. Show me."

When the Padres didn't show Winfield enough, he showed them something by packing up and leaving town, accepting George Steinbrenner's megabucks offer to put on Yankee pinstripes.

"You are a different player with a different lineup around you," he said. "I'm worthy of playing on a team like this."

So far, his first taste of postseason action has agreed with the slugger outfielder. In five games against Milwaukee, he batted .350 with seven hits in 20 swings including three doubles.

He was in the Yankees dugout Sunday night when

After having Indy 500 title taken away Andretti explains appeal move

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A ruling that Bobby Unser did not cheat would have been easier to accept than the one that acknowledged his guilt but altered the prescribed penalty, says Mario Andretti, who is appealing last week's reversal of the Indianapolis 500.

A special USAC appeal board fined Unser $40,000 for illegally passing cars under the yellow caution light, but the panel voted 2-1 to overturn a one-lap penalty that earlier had dropped him to second place behind Andretti.

The one-lap penalty was imposed a day after the May 24 race, but the panel said it should have been assessed at the time of the infraction to give Unser a chance to make up the lost lap.

"That's the part that really turned me around," Andretti said Monday in a telephone interview from his home at Nazareth, Pa. "It will make any future behavior (by a driver in a race) tough to control. That's the danger of this precedent. I can tell you that."

"How would you know how far you can go, taking advantage of every situation, knowing if you take advantage of it and cross the finish line first, the race will never be taken away from you regardless of what the rule book says if you have a good enough counsel working for you?"

Andretti said he decided to appeal Unser's victory "because I think I would have much easier accepted a verdict of 'no guilt' (on Unser's part) than a verdict of tampering with the penalty that violation definitely carries."

Andretti's attorney, Forrest Bowman, said the protest by Andretti — sent to USAC over the weekend — was based on the contention that "the court of appeals conducted the procedure in violation of the USAC rules book in that they did not give adequate notice of the hearing to all concerned parties."

"We had a right to receive notice of the proceedings," said Forrest. "The same notice that Penske Cars Ltd. (Unser's racing team) received or the Indy 500 stewards received, in order to participate in all of the pre-trial procedures in time to make objections to the constitution of the panel, to participate in pre-trial agreements and prepare for the hearing."

Although the scheduled hearing was well publicized before it was convened, in June, Bowman said "the actual notice (to Andretti) was a telegram the morning the hearing started."

Earlier Monday, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway announced a revised prize list which would award $299,124 to Unser and a second-place prize of $128,974 to Andretti.

The Speedway said, however, no money would be paid until official word was received from USAC that all appeal procedures had been completed.

King said Andretti had 30 days to appeal last week's ruling to the Automobile Competition Committee for the United States (ACCUS), which is the domestic arm of the Federation Internationale de L'Automobile (FIA), the international governing body for auto racing.

Sutter, Fingers Firemen of Year

ST LOUIS (AP) — Bruce Sutter of the St. Louis Cardinals and Rollie Fingers of the Milwaukee Brewers have been named baseball's Firemen of the Year by the Sporting News, and it is not the first time.

Fingers, who had 28 saves and six victories for a total of 34 points, led NL relievers in 1977 and 1978, while with the San Diego Padres and shared the top NL spot in 1980 with Tom Hume of the Cincinnati Reds.

Sutter, who had 26 saves and three wins for St. Louis, also won the NL honors in 1979, while with the Chicago Cubs.

TCU star receiver out for Utah State game

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas Christian wide receiver Stanley Washington, the nation's No. 2-ranked pass catcher, has suffered a cracked rib and will miss TCU's game with Utah State, team officials said Monday.

Washington, who led the nation in receiving for the first three weeks of the season, was injured Saturday in the Frogs' 41-28 loss to Rice, said TCU sports information director Ralph Carpenter.

Team doctors were not able to say when Washington would return to action. "But we hope he won't miss more than the Utah State game," Carpenter said.

This season, Washington has 30 catches for 509 yards — an average of 10.3 yards per game — and six touchdowns, including a scoring catch that beat Arkansas Oct. 3, the Frogs' first win over the Razorbacks in 22 years.

Red Raider QB Reeves out with knee injury

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech starting quarterback Ron Reeves may be lost to the Red Raiders for two or three weeks with an undiagnosed knee injury, head Coach Jerry Moore announced Monday.

"There is a little swelling, but right now it is hard to put a timetable on it," Moore said. "Hopefully, he will be back two or three weeks. If he comes back sooner, then that's a bonus for us."

Senior Richy Ethridge will start as quarterback when the Raiders host Rice Saturday, Moore said.

A rash of injuries — especially in the offensive line — has depleted the Raiders' ranks for the Rice game.

Colorado City girls chalk up win over Merkel

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado Wolves varsity girls' volleyball team easily turned back Merkel Monday night for their third district win with one setback, Breckenridge.

According to Coach George Martin,

"We're ready to meet Breckenridge Monday night on our home court. It's a good, friendly rivalry... I believe we can beat Breckenridge but the girls aren't overly confident... they're out to play their best and if they should lose, they're not going to give it away."

Martin continued, "Breckenridge is a good team... they play good ball, but we're ready to meet them with a competitive spirit Monday night."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 14, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Consider all aspects of your present life and figure out how you can make it more worthwhile and exciting in the future. Visit as many friends as you possibly can.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day for making new contacts, provided you don't ignore those who have been important to you in the past.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use a more advanced system for handling information that is vital to your welfare. Relax at home tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study new projects that can bring you more security in future. Avoid a temptation to spend money foolishly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to carry through with your obligations and get the best possible results. Take no risks in motion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can easily improve the quality of your work by working harder. Engage in civic work and gain added prestige.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use more modern methods at regular routines and be more productive. Come to a better accord with loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Obtain important information you need from the right sources. Make long-range plans for the days ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) New interests can prove to be lucrative if you study them well. Private endeavors are fine to follow at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Come to a better accord with regular allies and make the future brighter. Express happiness with loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make some needed changes at work and get excellent results. Be sure to use extreme caution in motion at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know what is of greatest importance to you personally and act after it in a positive fashion. Be more cheerful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget business matters for a while and spend more time on home chores. Take treatments and improve your appearance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who would do well in scientific pursuits and should be given the best up-to-date education you can afford. There could be radical changes in this life at an early age but much success will come later.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

NAMED ENTERTAINER AND FEMALE VOCALIST OF YEAR — Barbara Mandrell won double honors by being named both Entertainer of the Year and Female vocalist of the year at country music's 15th award show. "I was praying," Barbara said after winning The Entertainer of the year award.

Barbara Mandrell triumphs at Country Music Awards

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Barbara Mandrell, the only country music star with a prime-time television show, triumphed at the Country Music Association's awards gala by becoming the first person ever named entertainer of the year twice.

The 32-year-old singer also was named for a second time as top female vocalist during the nationally televised ceremony Monday night at the Grand Ole Opry House.

"God's good, I'm proud," Miss Mandrell said. "This means the people like the TV show. The work is worth it."

The top male vocalist award went to 50-year-old George Jones, a veteran who won the same award last year and who sang with Miss Mandrell on her biggest hit this year, "I Was Country (When Country Wasn't Cool)."

Miss Mandrell's victory cost her $20. She had bet country music disc jockey Ralph Emery of Nashville that she wouldn't win. After the show, she was clutching a $20 bill and searching the backstage area for Emery.

"It's unbelievable," said Miss Mandrell, who also was a co-host of the program along with Mac Davis.

Alabama, a fast-rising four-piece band that was playing for tips just 15 months ago, joined Miss Mandrell as a double winner. The Fort Payne, Ala., group was named vocal group of the year and instrumental group of the year. The honor for top vocal group had gone to the Statler Brothers eight of the last nine years.

Until Miss Mandrell won entertainer of the year for the second straight year, the Country Music Association had never given the award twice to the same person in its 15-year history. Miss Mandrell was named top female vocalist in 1979.

"Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters" is broadcast Saturday nights on NBC. The variety show, starring Miss Mandrell and younger sisters Louise and Irlene, had just gone on the air last year when Miss Mandrell was first picked entertainer of the year.

Oil magnate

HOUSTON (AP) — John W. Mecom, who built an oil and financial empire from a $.0 investment, died at his home following a lengthy illness, a family spokesman said.

Services were pending for the 70-year-old Mecom, who died Monday at his fashionable River Oaks mansion where he lived for more than a quarter century.

Mecom, the father of John Mecom Jr., owner of the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League, built his empire on oil and gas holdings in Texas, Louisiana and the Middle East.

He was born Jan. 13, 1911, in nearby Liberty. His family later moved to Houston where he attended The Rice Institute, now Rice University. He also studied at the University of Oklahoma and received an honorary degree from St. Bonaventure University in New York.

In 1936 Mecom, then 25, and two partners each put up $700 and borrowed an old wooden rig from Mecom's father and drilled on a South Liberty oil field that was considered dry. After two years Mecom sold his interest for $100,000.

In the late 1940s and early 1950s, Mecom sold most of his Texas oil holdings and invested in similar operations in Louisiana and the Middle East.

In 1958, Mecom and Pure Oil Co. began exploration and production in Yemen, the Trucial States and Dhofar, in which Continental Oil Co. became a partner.

Mecom also acquired ranching properties in Texas and Colorado.

By the late 1950s, Mecom had amassed other oil holdings in Saudi Arabia and Oman, and in 1957 was rated by Fortune Magazine as the third largest independent operator in the world behind H.L. Hunt of Dallas and Sid Richardson of Fort Worth.

He also purchased several hotels, including the historic Gran Hotel Bolivar in Lima, Peru, Houston's Warwick and acquired half interest in the San Francisco Hilton.

In addition to his son, Mecom is survived by his wife, Mary Elizabeth, and two daughters, Betsey Mullins and Lannie Moses, all of Houston.

Mid-Texas buys Big Sky resort

BIG SKY, Mont. (AP) — Mid-Texas Oil and Gas Inc. announced Monday it had acquired controlling interest in the Big Sky Ski Resort.

The resort, formerly a wholly owned subsidiary of Boyne USA Resorts of Boyne Falls, Mich., is northwest of Yellowstone National Park.

The 8,000-acre resort includes a 204-unit lodge, four chairlifts, a gondola, about 35 miles of downhill ski trails and the 18-hole Arnold Palmer Golf Course.

The late network newscaster Chet Huntley, a Montana native, was the driving force behind creation of the resort until he died in 1975.

Under the new arrangement, Big Sky will be controlled by a limited partnership comprised of Mid-Texas, John A. Barnett of Big Sky, Boyne USA Resorts, William R. Dixon of Denver and Dick Moebius of Snowmass, Colo.

Barnett, a condominium developer, said the partners did not wish to disclose either the purchase price or the size of the controlling interest acquired by Mid-Texas of Eastland, Texas.

Mid-Texas will operate the resort and plans an aggressive campaign to promote Big Sky's facilities and development of the area.

China crisis 'no surprise'

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Considering the breakage around here after summer infestations of relatives, friends from abroad and people we told to drop in if they're ever in the neighborhood, it comes as no surprise that the White House is running short on crockery.

Whether the 4,732-piece set of dishes that Nancy Reagan has her heart set on is worth the $209,000 price tag is for the political and social pundits to debate in these trying belt-tightening times. But might one inquire whatever became of the gold and silver service that James and Elizabeth Monroe brought from Paris to the White House?

The Monroes entered the refurbished White House after the British burned it to a hulk during the War of 1812. One guest at an executive blast reported, "We had the most stylish dinner I had been at. The dishes were silver and so heavy that I could hardly lift them to my mouth and the (gold) spoons were very heavy. You would call them clumsy things."

Mrs. Monroe, who was accused of putting on "French airs" because her oldest daughter, Eliza, had gone to school in Paris with Hortense Baubarnais, daughter of Napoleon and Josephine Bonaparte, thought nothing of blowing $100 a night just for table candles. Visiting old soldier Marquis de Lafayette liked the ambiance of the Monroe White House so much he overstayed his welcome by two weeks.

The Monroe gold service could not have disappeared at Andrew Jackson's inauguration bash when $20,000 worth of glass and china was crushed in the rush at the free groceries, because it was still around in Franklin

Roosevelt's day. In fact, Mrs. Henry Nesbitt, FDR's housekeeper, put the knock on it in her book, White House Diary: "for the big formal affairs we used the Monroe gold service. There was always a lot of to-do about this service, which was purchased by President Monroe in France, but to tell the truth it was brass, and plated, with the gold worn off."

Still, the set could do in a pinch in these penny-pinching times if Nancy dug it out of the attic.

And, speaking of the attic or wherever First Ladies hide chipped dinner plates, whatever became of the 1,000 piece hand-decorated set of dishes that "Lemonade" Lucy, the abstemious wife of Rutherford B. Hayes, ordered from Haviland? She commissioned the artist Theodore R. Davis to decorate each piece with the flora and fauna of America.
