Faulty water meters plague city

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Some city residents are paying water bills but their water meters show the residents aren't using any water, a Herald investigation has found.

The problem stems from meters that either are broken or are not read, city officials say.

A Herald examination of water department records show that the problem extends through all five zones of water service in the city, and that the problem affects both residential and business water users.

According to the records, these unread or non-functioning meters — called "dead" meters — have been out of service anywhere from seven months (at a car wash on Marcy) to a little more than two years (at the T.F. Horton home at 1109 11th Place).

City water officials say they are aware of the dead meter problem. They blame it on another problem — a shortage of meter readers.

City Finance Director Tom Ferguson says the water department made an effort to locate dead meters in the spring of 1980. According to Ferguson, about 400 dead meters were located and replaced. (The city has about 9,500 to 10,000 water meters).

Many dead meters, however, remain — yet the addresses they service continue to be billed, according to city records.

The T.F. Hortons, for example, who say they use an "average" amount of water, are listed on the records as having consumed no water for two years and three months, records show.

Horton says he told the water department about his malfunctioning meter several months ago but the city has not repaired it.

"I think the meter went haywire and we don't get enough pressure because of it," he says.

City water officials blame several factors for the dead meters, primarily a shortage of manpower both to read and correct the meters.

"We're behind," admits Howard Shivers, the utility foreman in charge of water distribution. "But we're doing the best we can. You can stretch a few men just so far."

Shivers has only a three-man crew reading meters, he explains.

Reading the meter involves "a lot of walking," says Shivers, and sometimes his men have to use metal detectors to locate meters under dirt and thick weeds.

"We know our meter wasn't read," says Mrs. Curtis Hood of 1708 Scurry. "It was covered up with grass and dirt for months and months. Our bill stayed the same for months and months, too."

She says their bill recently jumped from $14.24 a month to about $17 a month — despite utility billings showing the Hoods' water consumption was zero for 10 months.

Aside from weeds, meter readers also find their access to meters hampered by occasional rattlesnakes.

"I've killed five or six rattlesnakes already this year," Shivers says.

Shivers alone is responsible for pressure tests, re-reads of meters, overhauling dead meters, cutting off water service, turning on water service, paperwork and other administrative matters, he said.

Ferguson says the city tries to check on meter problems before billing a customer once the customer alerts the city to apparent meter problems.

If the city can't resolve the problem before billing time, the customer receives a minimum monthly bill of $14.85, Ferguson says.

That billing, however, also includes the basic sewer charge of $5.60 and $3.50 for trash collection, with the remainder of the bill composed of the water minimum.

Even though zero consumption automatically shows up on a computer print-out, the city doesn't check to see if there is an irregularity unless people question the bill, says Ferguson.

A meter is not considered dead until at least the third month of registering zero consumption, adds Shivers.

Things should improve in the near future with the purchase of a $90,446 computer system to replace a computer which has given the city chronic headaches, Ferguson said.

The old computer, Ferguson says, was "obsolete" and "didn't give us enough information." The new NCR 8271 computer should enable the city to spot problems much more quickly.

"We should be able to read the meters and get the billings out in three or four days with the new computer," Ferguson says. Billings through the old computer took about two months, he said.

The new computer should eliminate another more recent problem plaguing the water department: an inability to collect water bills by bank draft rather than by billing certain customers directly.

The old computer, ironically, facilitated the bank draft system, whereas the new computer isn't programmed yet to handle the bank drafts, says Ferguson.

Under the bank draft system, the city extracts the amount due for utility service from the customer's bank account. The system is used by many senior citizens who like it because it simplifies their bill-paying.

It should be a few months before the new computer is programmed to handle the drafts, says Ferguson. The city also is exploring the possibility of having Big Spring's savings and loan institutions become part of the system, which the city's three banks already participate in.

Ferguson says the new computer will provide a fairly complete history of each water customer, going back at least a year, "at the touch of a button."

IMPRESSIVE NUMBERS — The Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival has 162 exhibitors on hand at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The exhibit will conclude a two-day run today at 6 p.m. The arts and crafts fair is open to the public free of charge, and is set to open today at 1 p.m.

Arts, crafts festival draws big crowds

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair, billed as "one of the largest shows in the area" by Mel Prather, enters its second and final day today, with Prather estimating "one of the best crowds ever" in the show's five-year history.

Prather is founder and co-chairman of the show, which is being held in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

"There were no no-shows this year," Prather told The Herald. The Arts and Crafts Fair features 162 exhibitors, which "exceeds the maximum number of exhibitors by 12."

"We made space for the extra booths," Prather said. He added most exhibitors seemed pleased with their space at the show.

"We have people here doing pottery and welding demonstrations live, on the spot here," Prather said.

"We keep blowing out fuses" he said, adding that the problem with the fuses was solved by Saturday afternoon. "Tons of people are saying nice things about the show. Most everything's been running smoothly."

In terms of size and quality of exhibitors, Prather says he feels "there's no show close to ours" when compared to similar events in Midland, Odessa, Abilene and other area towns.

"We draw big names," Prather said, referring to several well-known exhibitors.

Those exhibitors at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum are selling items "from five cents to $15,000" Prather said.

Because of the large number of exhibitors at the coliseum, Prather joked "there's not a table to be found in town" as folding tables from the coliseum, Howard College, Big Spring High School and a rental company were borrowed to place the exhibits on.

The Big Spring show is nationally ranked, Prather said. Artists from throughout the Southwest rank shows like the one here on a scale of one to 10, with 10 being the highest ranking.

"There are no 10s," Prather said. "There are two nines, one is California, and one is Florida. This show (in Big Spring) usually rates a seven or an eight."

Most shows "rate a four or five" said Prather.

Prather said the Arts and Crafts Show began five years ago shortly after he moved to Big Spring. He remembers setting out to buy some art for his new home, and not being able to find anything in Big Spring.

"People told me Big Spring wouldn't support something like this," Prather said. "They support it to the hilt. Towns around here are also great."

Big Spring "is not a dry area for art," Prather stressed. He said he thinks the local fair "encourages local artists" to display their crafts along with artists from throughout the Southwest.

The first year, 12 local artists displayed their wares. This year, "there are 63 local exhibitors," said Prather.

"This is the best show we've ever had" Prather said.

Art exhibitors include pros, hobbyists

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

For many of the exhibitors at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fair, art is a serious business. For others, it is their hobby.

David Brownlow, Fort Worth, has been making art his profession for 25 years. But, "art is more like a disease than a profession" he jokes. "It's something I was born with."

Brownlow says he paints with "an experimental technique" featuring artwork with an "acrylic texture." This he uses as an "underpainting. I use oil paint to glaze over this."

Twenty-five years ago, Brownlow was working in an engineering test laboratory at General Dynamics in Fort Worth. It was a job he took because "30 years ago, it was unheard of for an artist to make a living out of art in Texas. It was a matter of survival (that I took another job)."

But, gradually "I got to selling enough art that I began to depend on it for a living."

Brownlow, like several of the artists at the local show, says "I'm a self-taught painter. I've studied books" on art, he adds, saying "I've got a general education from library books."

"If you study too much, you get inhibited" Brownlow says.

Brownlow is at the local show with his wife, Melita, who does calligraphy and paints with water colors. The couple met several years ago at an art show in Fort Worth, and later married.

Life as an artist has definite advantages, Brownlow says. "We've got no clock to punch, and we have our individual freedom," he says.

He added he could make more money at another profession.

"We don't drive fancy cars" but "we both enjoy the same things" and says he prefers his lifestyle as a painter to that of an eight to five job.

Some of Brownlow's work is represented in the private collections of Ralph Bellamy, Bob Hope, Randolph Scott, Winthrop Rockefeller and numerous others.

George Boutwell, Austin, is another artist who makes art his living. He's been into art "ever since I was a kid. It's my way of life."

He, too, is self-taught, and said he couldn't afford private lessons or a college education. "When I began to make enough money for lessons, people were already asking me to teach."

Boutwell uses watercolors, and paints rural Texas scenes, and western wildlife. His paintings "are things I have experienced. I paint whatever appeals to me."

Boutwell says he tries to attend the local show every year since it's inception. "The people here are real friendly. They make us feel like we're special."

Arthur Koon, who does pottery demonstrations at the local show, adds a little something special to his display: a magic act.

Koon, from Fort Worth, got into pottery as a hobby. He is a retired air traffic controller.

"I was chief controller at the D-FW Airport, and prior to that, chief controller at Moisant Airport in New Orleans," Koon says.

An air traffic controller's job is one which entails quite a bit of pressure, and Koon said his hobby provided him with a way to calm his nerves.

For the past 25 years, Koon and his wife have been working together making pottery. They also travel to several shows each year, displaying what they have made and doing more work on the spot.

"This is a crowd catcher" Koon says, eyeing the group of people gathered around his booth.

To make quality pottery, Koon says the most important ingredient is "imagination."

He and his wife began pottery as a hobby, but "after 12 years, we had so much of this stuff around the house that we joined an art group."

The hobby "is expensive unless you can make it carry its own weight."

"I need to do something with my hands" says Koon of his hobby, which has won the Koons best of show awards at the Texas State Fair. "It's fun, and it's creative."

But Koon has another "crowd-catcher" that has people stopping by his booth. He can make rubber sponges double in a spectator's hand. He grabs a spectator, says "Hold this sponge tight, and blow twice on your hand." Sure enough, there are two sponges where there ought to be one. He also has tricks with matches and paper cups up his sleeve.

How did he get into magic? "Everybody's got to have a little foolishness someplace," he grins.

Baby starved to death

MIAMI (AP) — A 34-year-old woman has been charged with third-degree murder and manslaughter in the starvation of a baby daughter born with Down's syndrome.

Police say Gloria Begley, a welfare recipient with six other children, couldn't face caring for 19-month-old Rebecca, born prematurely and with Down's syndrome, which is characterized by physical and mental retardation. The child died Oct. 6.

Mrs. Begley, arrested Thursday, was freed on $5,500 bond Friday, according to a spokesman at the Dade County Women's Detention Center.

"The case is without question the most outrageous death I have ever investigated," said Dade County homicide Sgt. John Spiegel. "It's incredible that anyone could watch their own flesh and blood waste away like this."

Police said the baby was "pale and grossly emaciated, with sunken cheeks, a bloated stomach and very thin limbs." Her cause of death was listed as "protein and caloric malnutrition."

Rebecca also had recently suffered from bronchial pneumonia, the medical examiner found, and Spiegel said she "died with the most incredible diaper rash you've ever seen."

Irving residents vote wet

IRVING, Texas (AP) — 1980. Voters gave their approval to sales of liquor by the drink in Irving by a thin margin in a bitter contest that drew a huge turnout at the polls Saturday.

The referendum passed by 785 votes, with 13,158 in favor of liquor by the drink and 12,373 against.

The win for the wet forces came just over a year after a similar referendum in this Dallas suburb was defeated by 460 votes in September of 1979.

Irving officials said the turnout of 25,531 voters was extremely heavy.

"That's just about everybody registered to vote in Irving," said city spokesman Alan Sutton.

The proposal faced stiff opposition from several church groups, but drew support from many local merchants.

The Irving city council repeatedly refused to take a stand on the issue.

DONATIONS STARTING TO COME IN — Hooper Sanders, manager of TESCO in Big Spring, and Sherri Bordofoke, executive director of the Big Spring United Way, paint the total for the first week of collections for the United Way campaign drive. This represents a 8 1/2 percent total of the $200,000 goal.

Historical commission finishing county book

The Howard County Historical Commission is completing histories of businesses, organizations and clubs for the book, "Howard County History," according to Carol Hunter, a Historical Commission member.

Mrs. Hunter said the book is due to be published by the County's Centennial, in the spring of 1982.

Commission members have been working with families, clubs, organizations and businesses to write histories for the book. Polly Mays, general chairman, and Dene Sheppard, assistant chairman, are requesting that all paid histories be turned in quickly. Any club, organization or business wishing to participate may still purchase space.

The deadline for family histories is past due.

Tributes and memorials are also available in the book. For this information, contact Mrs. Mays at 267-6192.

Copies will be sold by pre-sale only. The commission office may be contacted on Thursdays to place orders.

Big Spring receives Crime Task Force grant

AUSTIN — The City of Big Spring received a $25,590 grant from the Governor's Criminal Justice Division to continue its work in the Major Crime Task Force.

Big Spring Police Chief Elwood Hoherz said the city council must approve the grant before turning it over to the police department. That item of business will be conducted at the next city council meeting.

The grant was one of 247 given to local and state agencies last week.

Chief Hoherz said the city has received similar grants during the past few years. The $25,590 is about 40 percent of the Major Crime Task Force budget. Chief Hoherz explained. The award will be added to $36,847 in city funds to pay for salary, travel and supplies for the task force staff, including a police sergeant, an investigator and a secretary.

The task force was created four years ago to help the clearance rate for burglary and narcotic arrests.

Rains continue in Texas, Oklahoma

More thunderstorms beleaguered sullen Oklahoma and Texas on Saturday after a week-long siege of downpours caused flooding that killed two people, washed out roads and forced hundreds to flee their homes.

A flash flood watch was in effect Saturday for northern Texas and for much of south-central and southeastern Oklahoma. The Red Cross estimated that 3,000 Texas and Oklahoma families were affected by the weeklong flooding.

Clearing weather was forecast later in the weekend for both states.

Oklahoma Lt. Gov. Spencer Bernard on Friday declared nine southern Oklahoma counties disaster areas.

In Fort Worth, Col. Donald J. Palladino of the U.S.

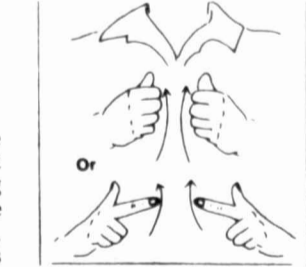

Army Corps of Engineers said flooding hit 15 Texas counties south of the Red River.

In a four-hour helicopter tour over northern Texas Friday, U.S. House Majority Leader Jim Wright, members of the U.S. House Public Works Committee and other Texas congressmen viewed the flood damage.

A Newcastle, Okla., couple was injured Saturday when a thunderstorm swept through a camping area at Lake Waurika, overturning a trailer. Henry Judd, 60, and Inez Judd, 59, were admitted to Jefferson County Hospital for observation.

In Love County, Okla., the bodies of two oil workers swept to their deaths as they tried to ford a swollen creek were found Friday.

Sign language review

By CAROL HART Staff Writer

As is the custom for the Sunday edition, here's a mini-review of the signs published during the week.

First, to sign "live" or "address" form the letter "A" with both hands, thumbs pointing up, and bring the hands up the sides of your chest, beginning at about your waist.

The sign may also be formed by using the letter "I" and bringing the hands up the sides of the chest, again beginning at the waist.

Next, we have "good," "better" and "best." To sign "good," take your right hand, place your fingers against your lips, then bring your right hand down, back of the hand facing down, to slap your left hand. Your left hand should be about waist level with the palm extended upward. To sign "better," place your fingers against your lips, then pull your fingers into your palm and make a thumbs up sign to the side of your face.

To sign "best," put your fingers up against your lips, but when you make the thumbs-up sign, bring it higher than you did for the sign for better.

Pictured next is the sign for "help." To form "help," place the right open hand under the left hand as it forms the "S" sign, which is facing the right. Then, lift both hands together.

This sign can be used for "assist" or "aid," also.

To sign "friend," pictured next, hook the right index finger over the left, which is palm up, then repeat in reverse.

Finally, pictured is the sign for "telephone," or "call." To sign these words, bring your hand to your face and place the thumb on the ear and the little finger at the mouth.

Special thanks this week to Marcus Myers, Greg Smith and Terry Dreyer for serving as models for our illustrations of these signs.

The first illustration here is used courtesy of "The Joy of Signing," by Lottie L. Riekehof, published by Gospel Publishing House. The second appears in "The American Sign Language" published by the National Association of the Deaf.

We're running this daily column in an effort to help Big Springers become more familiar with sign language. If you've been following the column since it's beginning, you know we've run the manual alphabet, 14 signs and tips for several other signs.

TELEPHONE, CALL

We hope this column is of some help. Next week, we'll feature pictures and information on signs like "time," "understand," "thank you," "wrong," and "know."

Goodfellow AFB to remain open

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Goodfellow Air Force Base — slated for closure earlier this year — will remain open as the Air Force's primary military intelligence training center and the home of a new Strategic Air Command radar unit, Sen. John Tower announced Saturday.

Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the Air Force has ended its 42-month study on closing the San Angelo base and a formal announcement of the decision to keep the base open would be made Monday.

"But the issue is settled," said Tower, R-Texas. "Goodfellow is no longer in doubt."

Tower and Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas, were in San Angelo Saturday to make the announcement at a press conference in Loeffler's San Angelo office.

"Goodfellow is alive and well," Loeffler said, adding that the Air Force had settled on the San Angelo area as the preferred site of the Phased Array Warning System.

The radar system would be operated by a Strategic Air Command staff of 200 and would cost about $100 million, according to an information sheet circulated by the two congressmen.

Loeffler said Air Force officials need to decide where to build the radar installation before construction begins in October 1983. He said two sites currently are being considered, one about 10 miles north of San Angelo and the other 10 miles south of the city.

The system would provide tactical warning and attack assessment against submarine-launched ballistic missiles and would work cooperatively with the space-tracking program operated by the North American Defense Command, according to the information sheet.

Two of the radar installations already are in place at Otis Air Force Base in Massachusetts and at Beale Air Force Base in California. Another is planned at Robins Air Force Base in Georgia.

The Air Force announced in March 1979 that Goodfellow would be closed and all military intelligence training programs would be transferred to Keesler Air Force Base in Mississippi and Corry Station, Fla.

The two congressmen said the proposal to locate the radar installation in the San Angelo area was a major factor in the Air Force's decision to keep the base operating.

Emergency technician course begins Monday

Classes for the Emergency Medical Technician course will be held Monday Oct. 19 through Jan. 20. The class will meet at 6 p.m. in Room 111 of the PA building at Howard College. Registration will be held at that time.

The course will consist of 100 hours in classroom lecture, 20 hours of hospital emergency room experience, and three ambulance runs.

The course will be worth six hours college credit. Students are asked to bring transcripts from any other colleges attended, a high school diploma, or proof of GED.

Israel prepares state funeral for Dayan

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Tributes to Moshe Dayan poured in Saturday as Israel prepared a state funeral for the illustrious soldier-statesman who was as daring in war as he was in peace.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin hailed him as "one of our greatest fighters of the ages" and said his life story recalled the victorious kings and warriors of the ancient Israelites.

"Moshe Dayan was both a soldier and a statesman," Begin said in a statement broadcast on Israel Radio, "and in both fields he served his nation with great devotion and faith."

The prime minister said Dayan's life story overpowered the centuries of "exile, degradation, fear and persecution" that the Jews have suffered, "and we returned in our spirit directly to Joshua and Caleb, to Samson, to Gideon and Jephthah, to Saul and Jonathan, to David and his generals. For he is his brother or their son or grandson or great-grandson, for their blood flows in his veins."

"There is a legend that he was supposedly a hard man," Begin said. "There is no basis for this. I can testify from personal experience that he had a tender heart and the soul of a poet."

Dayan, a general, former chief of staff, defense minister and foreign minister, died Friday night at the age of 66. "He had two heart attacks in a matter of hours," said his doctor, Boleslaw Goldman, deputy director of Sheba Hospital near Tel Aviv. He said the death "had nothing to do with the cancer." Dayan underwent surgery in 1979 for cancer of the colon.

He will be buried Sunday in his boyhood home at Nahalal, a collective farm settlement in the Jezreel Valley where he penned a child's vision of adventures with Arab playmates.

Israel radio throughout the day broadcast long recaps of Dayan's illustrious career as soldier and statesman, as well as an interview recorded five days before he died.

Dayan, whose health had deteriorated because of cancer of the colon, said in the interview: "All through my life death passed close to me and it never worried me especially. If I die, I die...I don't see death as something negative or threatening... In the end I will lie on the hill in Nahalal in the graveyard with my family and others."

Labor Leader Shimo: Peres told a radio interviewer that Dayan would be remembered for giving Israel "a fighting and speedy army" and for being a visionary peace negotiator.

Dayan did not mince words in speaking on public policy issues and was not hardened, partisan or otherwise, in his positions. To critics of his changing stances on territorial issues, he likened the pursuit of peace to hunters chasing rabbits — "it zigzags...and so must you."

He also had the soul of a romantic as a writer and was a respected amateur archaeology buff. He was easily recognized around the world because of the eyepatch that concealed the loss of his left eye in a 1941 military campaign in Syria with British soldiers.

Dayan died just 10 days after the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, a fellow soldier-turned-statesman who in 1978 signed the U.S.-negotiated peace treaty with Israel. Dayan's role in the peace negotiations — a moderate, some even said dove — was emphasized by the tributes pouring in.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak said in a telegram: "It was with deep sorrow that I received the news of the death of Moshe Dayan. God bless his soul."

Reagan says Begin not upset by AWACS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin "was not upset at all" as he left the White House last month with the message that the administration would press forward with the proposed sale of AWACS surveillance planes to Saudi Arabia.

"I told him what we were going to do, he told me he was going to maintain his position but he was not upset at all," Reagan declared.

"And he left saying to others, not to us but to others, that he believed he had the best understanding with us that he had — has had with any administration in Washington," Reagan said.

Begin, who met with Reagan early last month, has publicly denounced the AWACS sale as a threat to Israel's security, and Israel and its allies have been lobbying Congress to kill the sale.

The House already has voted against it, but Reagan is slowly picking up support in the Senate and may be able to sustain it.

Asked whether Congress should be empowered to veto foreign arms deals, Reagan said, "Congress has gone too far" in restricting the president's ability to negotiate with other countries.

He said rejection of the AWACS deal would undermine his efforts to enlist Arab states in peace-making efforts because they would feel that Congress — not the president — is running foreign policy.

Reagan's comment came in an interview Friday with out-of-town newspaper editors. A text of the exchange was released Saturday.

On other subjects, Reagan said:

—The House went too far in voting to extend key provisions of the landmark Voting Rights Act. Reagan said the House "has been pretty extreme in what it's done. I'm hopeful that the Senate is going to be more reasonable..." He did not spell out his objections to the House bill.

—The president should have line-item veto power over spending bills approved by Congress. That would give the president authority to kill individual items in a bill without vetoing the entire measure. Reagan said he suggested the idea to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill early this year "and he acted as if I was threatening the very province of Congress and taking away all their rights."

Famed Bohemian Club told to hire women

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The Bohemian Club, a secretive, all-male organization whose members include President Reagan and several members of his Cabinet, must start hiring women at its rustic camp, a state commission says.

The Fair Employment and Housing Commission, in a ruling announced Friday, said the 108-year-old club was guilty of sex discrimination for hiring only men and refusing to hire women at its Bohemian Grove summer encampment 70 miles north of San Francisco.

The commission rejected arguments that its order would violate the club members' rights to enjoy their privacy — to the extent of being able to walk around naked.

The club can appeal the ruling to Superior Court. A lawyer for the club, Michael Boylan, declined to comment Friday, saying he had just learned of the ruling.

The club was first accused of discrimination by the state Fair Employment and Housing Department in May 1979 after it had asked the state to recommend a clerk-typist for its Bohemian Grove retreat and specified that only men should apply. The complaint did not involve the club's refusal to admit women as members.

Bentsen says Navy to help Texas fight drug smugglers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Justice has decided to use the Navy to help slow the traffic of illegal drugs from South America into Texas and other states, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Saturday.

Bentsen released a letter he received from Attorney General William French Smith, who agreed with Bentsen that the Coast Guard needs help in its efforts to catch drug traffickers.

The Texas Democrat had complained last June about "an alarming increase in drug traffic" and asked Smith to accept the recommendation of a crime task force that the Navy be asked to help in the battle.

"Please be advised that I wholeheartedly support this recommendation. I have already taken up the matter with the Secretary of Defense. I am happy to report that he is eager to work with us," Smith said.

The attorney general added, "The use of the Navy's resources will be a part of this administration's border policy."

Bentsen told of Smith's letter during taped comments prepared for release to Texas television stations Saturday night.

Smith said one of his aides will meet soon with Navy representatives to determine how the Navy best can be used in the fight against drug smugglers and work out the details "so that this program can begin as soon as possible."

Drug smuggling is a growing problem not only in Texas but along much of the nation's coastline, the attorney general added.

Q. I understand a new bill, just passed by Congress, will be of some benefit to potential homebuyers. Are rumors flying again?

A. No, the rumors aren't flying, and the reason you may not have noticed is because homeowners will probably be indirect beneficiaries of the new "Saver's" portion of the administration's tax-cut bill. The law, initially, will mean a tax break for savings customers of banks and savings and loan associations. However, part of the proceeds of the new "Saver's certificates" are earmarked, by law, to go into the home mortgage market. That will mean a break for prospective home buyers. According to many financial experts, this means there should be more mortgage money around than would have been without the new tax-cut law.

American dream put on hold

Once upon a time there was a thing called the American dream.

Part of that dream was owning a home and raising a family.

But these two goals are now on a collision course, according to urban researchers.

Many young couples are being forced to choose between one or the other — kids or a house.

RESEARCH BY Dr. Dowell Myers, an urban planner at the University of Texas, shows that many young couples are postponing or deciding not to have children in order to buy homes.

Dr. Myers discovered this trend after he noticed a paradox of the 1970s revealed by U.S. Census data: even though houses were becoming more and more unaffordable, home ownership was reaching record heights.

Why? More couples were delaying childbearing and more wives were working in order to buy a home. Not having children is a strategy for home purchase that has been spreading over time and across population, Dr. Myers says.

It's too bad that people who can afford their own large homes can't afford kids, while families with kids can't afford homes.

UNFORTUNATELY, THE economy is getting to the point that couples can't have homes or families. Housing starts have plunged to a standstill in the face of persisting high interest rates. The nation's home builders are fighting for survival, and the lumber industry also is in dire straits.

That's why it is so important now for us as a nation to suck in our gut and give President Reagan's economic recovery program a chance. For too long the federal government has overspent and overtaxed, landing us in the worse economic mess since the Depression.

Reagan's plans to cut taxes and reduce federal spending are vital steps on the long road toward recovering the American Dream. We are the ones who will make it happen.

Diablo Country

Art Buchwald

I pride myself on having a very open mind on things, such as nuclear energy, as long as they don't build a plant near my home.

So when I saw the Diablo Canyon demonstration in California last month I watched them with the calm impartiality which I reserve for all things that don't affect me personally.

On one side were scruffy, unshaven, unshod protesters. On the other side, were well-dressed state troopers, and clean, good-looking spokesmen for the power company. The dispute, as I understood it, was the scruffy unbathed people claimed the people in the white hats didn't know what they were doing. They had built a billion-dollar nuclear plant on the San Andreas fault, which everyone says is going to cause an earthquake in California sooner or later.

MY WIFE, WHO doesn't know the first thing about nuclear energy, asked me one evening as we watched the scruffies being hauled off in sheriff's vans, "Why would they build a nuclear plant next to an earthquake center?"

"Because it obviously makes sense. The people who construct those plants know what they're doing. If you've been listening to the nice, clean-cut men in white shirts, ties, and dark suits, you would know that the power company has done exhaustive tests, and the nuclear plant can withstand any earthquake shock known to man. Besides, we have a nuclear Regulatory Commission that has the last word on whether a plant is safe or not. They would never have given their okay to open one, if there was the slightest question that building a nuclear plant next to an earthquake fault could hurt the environment."

"Then why are people in the scruffy clothes willing to be arrested to close down the plant?" she asked.

"Because they have an unrealistic fear of nuclear power. They don't understand it and, therefore, they're against it. Many of them are students who enjoy getting involved in civil disobedience. But they're willing to go to jail for their beliefs."

"Whose side are you on?" "I'm afraid I have to be on the side of those wearing the ties and coats. After all they've been dealing with nuclear power all their lives and they should know if it's safe or not."

"A few years ago you would have been on the side of the unwashed?" "I guess age does that to you. At some point in time you have to say that just because a person needs a shave doesn't make him right — and just because a person has short hair and dresses properly doesn't make him wrong."

"That's a stupid reason for taking one side over the other."

"THERE IS MORE to it than that. The people who build nuclear plants are scientists, trained in our finest technical institutions. They work with computers and consult with famous experts who have an answer for every problem. The engineers and designers take extraordinary steps to see that not one bolt is put in wrong. If they say a nuclear plant can survive an earthquake, I have to accept their word for it."

"This is not to say I am unsympathetic to the poor souls who are willing to go to jail because they lack faith in our great scientific establishment. But in this case, I believe they're making a mountain out of a molehill. I would bet my All Saver's Bank Account that they are wrong."

Well, you can imagine my surprise when a week later, the evening news announced that the Diablo Canyon nuclear reactor could not go into service because someone had gotten the drawings all mixed up, and the wrong pipes had been installed in the wrong sections of the plant.

It meant that every pipe had to be personally inspected and replaced if it was discovered that it didn't belong there.

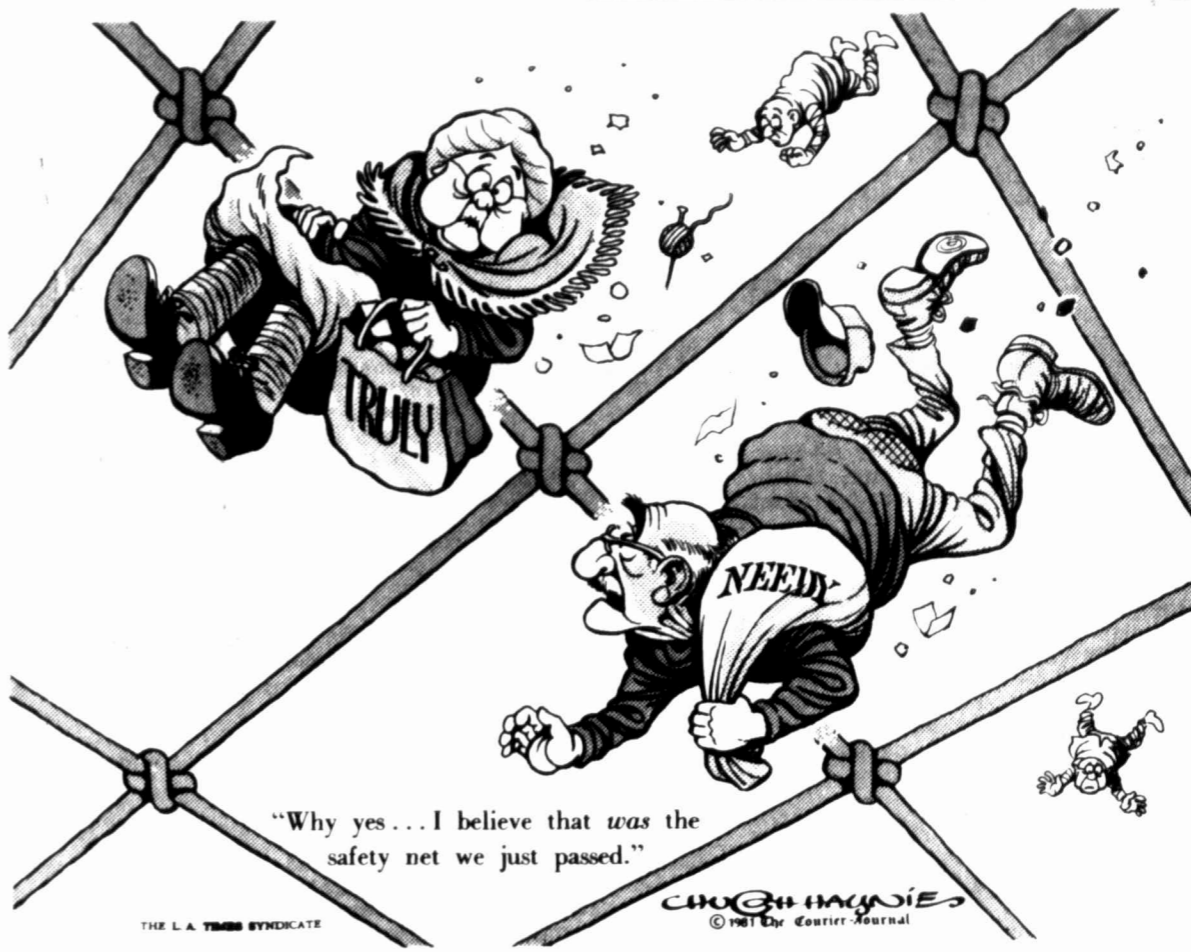

A man in a nice white shirt, tie and blue suit from the power company explained it wasn't a very serious mistake and could have happened to anybody.

Another well-dressed man from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said he was appalled at the sloppy engineering and was ordering an immediate investigation.

They didn't put on any scruffy people for comment. I wish they had, because I wanted to find out where to send them my All Saver's Bank Account.

A scandal in the backroom

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — A scandal of extraordinary proportions involves Egypt's highest leaders and a group of former CIA and Pentagon officials in a backroom deal that gave a company with Palestinian connections the exclusive, multimillion-dollar contract to ship U.S. arms to Egypt.

As I reported in a previous column, there is strong reason to suspect that corrupt Egyptian officials profited personally from the scheme, and that some of the arms shipments were diverted to Palestinian forces and other groups opposed to the late President Anwar Sadat.

My associates Dale Van Atta and Indy Badhwar have conducted a major investigation into the affair. They interviewed knowledgeable Egyptian officials, military and intelligence sources and businessmen who were involved. They obtained dozens of secret cables and letters that confirm essential parts of the story.

BAKSHEESH AND NEPOTISM are nothing new in the Middle East, but it is rare indeed when corruption can be traced to the very highest levels of government. Yet the trail of evidence in the Egyptian arms deal points to the two most powerful men in Egypt today — the men who stood at either side of Sadat when he was assassinated, and who now effectively control the country.

The two are Sadat's successor, Hosni Mubarak, and Defense Minister Abu Ghazala.

On June 25, 1979, a few months after the secret arms shipping deal was cut, Mubarak was given a detailed report on the affair. The report included the information that the shipping firm, Tersam, was not qualified and was secretly controlled by a Palestinian businessman named Ali Shorafa, operating out of the United Arab Emirates, a hotbed of anti-Sadat Palestinian supporters.

A coded cable from Cairo on July 2, 1979, stated that "vice president in person is following this case closely." But a return cable the next day suggested it was unlikely Mubarak would pursue the scandal, diligently, because "the vice president's brother-in-law is involved."

A week later, another cable from Cairo gave assurance: "V.P. taking matters very seriously. Brother-in-law (flow to) Cairo." In the end, however, Mubarak did nothing to rescind the contract or hinder its execution. It is not clear whether the vice president ever told the in-corruptible Sadat about the affair.

The brother-in-law is Gen. Mounir

Sabet, now stationed in Washington as chief of military procurement. Two years ago, he was an assistant military attaché here, and was involved in the Tersam deal up to his ears. At a Washington meeting on June 14, 1979, for example, Sabet confirmed that Tersam had been awarded the shipping contract in secret, and offered one of the firm's competitors half the profits if he'd keep his mouth shut.

Sabet's boss in Washington that year was the military attaché, Gen. Abu Ghazala. He too, was deeply involved in the Tersam deal. I have a confidential letter signed by Ghazala and addressed to the Pentagon, dated April 2, 1979. It informed the appropriate officials "that the Egyptian Ministry of Defense has appointed TERSAM CO. as its exclusive agent... for all its military imports from the United States of America."

FOR MONTHS THEREAFTER, however, Ghazala repeatedly denied that Tersam had been given the contract. Far from being reprimanded for his part in the undercover deal, Ghazala was given an extension of his American tour of duty and a new home. He is now defense minister.

On June 14, 1979, at the Army-Navy Country Club near Washington, Ghazala and Sabet led still another Tersam competitor to believe that his firm would get the lucrative shipping contract. Later that evening, an American associate of the two Egyptian military men offered the competitor a subcontract if he would make no fuss about the Tersam deal. The Egyptians were clearly worried that word of the behind-the-scenes arrangement with the Palestinian Shorafa would become known in Egypt.

A third top-level Egyptian involved in Tersam was Gen. Kamal Hassan Ali, now deputy prime minister and foreign minister. At the time, he was defense minister. He was the one who authorized Ghazala's letter to the Pentagon stating that Tersam was the exclusive shipping agent for American arms. And in a secret letter from Ali's office dated April 17, 1979, Tersam's status as "permanent and exclusive agent" was confirmed. The letter stated that the agreement had been made in 1978.

Yet Ali repeatedly lied to other Egyptians about the Tersam deal, and succeeded in blocking investigation of the affair. He also helped keep the facts from reaching Sadat, according to my sources.

The final competitor was given the word at a meeting in Washington's swank Madison Hotel in September 1979. Ali, Ghazala and an American colleague, a former CIA official, tried to buy the businessman off with the offer of a subcontract.

As one source familiar with the Tersam deal concluded: "It all reeked of money paid under the table."

Around the rim TV foster homes?

Boy, am I glad Arkansas is not on OU's football schedule this year.

A man has been arrested for shooting his television set. Is that a crime of passion or compassion.

Are we going to see foster homes set up for battered TV sets.

Reagan is finding controversy everywhere. The only safe thing he's proposed is the limit that keeps people making $50,000 a year from getting food stamps.

The White House defends Nancy Reagan's new $100,000 china place settings. What kind of people do you think the "Reagans will be entertaining — the Jimmy Carters.

WHEN IT RAINS it pours. That's a pretty salty and sometimes true statement.

I planned to fish and picnic at Lake Texoma this past week after losing the OU-Texas war in the Cotton Bowl. Instead, I got "cabin fever," in my mom's home in Durant. It rained seven days and seven nights. Blue River crested 19 feet above flood stage and flooded the Durant Water Works at Armstrong. No water in Durant for four days.

THIS MADE ME even groucher than ever. Hence a Saturday night sermon.

President Reagan has quite correctly ordered a crackdown on the growing flood of Haitians slipping into the U.S. illegally.

Officials estimate there are at least 50,000 Haitians in this country illegally and that they are coming in at the rate of 1,000 a month.

"We have lost control of our borders and our beaches. We have to do something about it — and fast," said an immigration official.

The president has ordered the U.S. Coast Guard to intercept any boat suspected of trying to enter the country illegally, a move aimed at stopping the growing trade of immigrant smuggling.

Once the refugees actually enter the country, U.S. laws protect them. Authorities can't simply send them back, federal courts must review the cases, a process that takes months.

Terrific political, social and economic conditions in Haiti make immigration to the U.S. the dream of every citizen there and they are steadily exploited by their own officials, who make little or no attempt to stop the smuggling.

The U.S. tradition has been to gladly receive the oppressed and downtrodden from other countries. That has been a tradition that served both the immigrants and the country well.

But this is a new chapter, a new day in the process. If the flood is unchecked, Florida will become a Haiti within the U.S., including all the problems and misery that country now has.

Heart-rending as it is to turn these refugees back, it must be done, if the integrity and stability of our own country is to be maintained.

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have recently invited Christ into my life, but I don't feel particularly different as a result. How should I feel? — H.D.

DEAR H.D.: Each one of us is different, and our emotional reactions will be different also when we come to Christ. Some people may feel a great sense of emotional release and joy; others may not feel particularly different.

But the emotional feelings we have are not the important thing — emotions, after all, are changeable and often affected by our circumstances. What is important is that when we come to Christ we now belong to him. That is a fact which nothing can change. Take your stand on the fact of what Christ has done for you.

At the same time, it would be good for you to be sure you understand what Christ has done for you now that you have come to him. For example, Christ has taken away all your sins — they have been washed completely away. You no longer are guilty in God's eyes, because he has forgiven you. Has this great truth really sunk into your heart and mind?

Then also remember that Christ has given you the hope of eternal life. At one time you were spiritually dead, with no hope of heaven. But now in Christ you know that death is but a transition to heaven. "Because of his great love for us, God who is rich in mercy, made us alive with Christ... And God raised us up with Christ and seated us with him in the heavenly realms in Christ Jesus" (Ephesians 2:4-6).

Also Christ has made you part of his family. You are now a child of God. You can talk with God at any time, like a child coming to his father. And you also are joined together with all who know Christ.

There are many other things God has already done for you in Christ, and many other things he promises to do for you in the future. I hope you will search the Bible to discover more of them. And then thank God for what he has done for you, and you thank him for it. I think you will find your heart growing more and more full of gratitude and love for him.

Strong neck can avoid spine injuries

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I wish you would write something about exercises that might minimize the chances of a young football player (me) getting a spinal cord injury. — H.H.

The neck is often a neglected area in training. It should not be. Building up neck muscles is important in any sport, but the importance is magnified in football. Strong neck muscles will help protect a young man from spinal cord injuries.

The time-honored neck exercise is the so-called "wrestler's bridge." I don't think I'll give you details about that, because I think there are better exercises. You will need a buddy to do some of them.

As you lie on your back, have a friend put his hand on your forehead. Try to bring your chin to your chest while your friend supplies the resistance against the forehead. You should develop greater strength with time and as he applies greater resistance. As you bring your head back to the starting position, he should continue to apply pressure, but now from under your head.

The next you can do yourself. Put your right hand along the right side of your head just above the ear. Gently push your head to the left shoulder. Resist the push with your neck muscles. Apply pressure with the hand as you bring the head back up to the starting position. Do the same, beginning with the left hand at the left side of the head.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 60-year-old man. I would like to improve myself, but I have this feeling that at my age all the damage has been done. I'm going downhill, and something like jogging wouldn't help much. Wouldn't you agree? — M.R.

I don't agree, and a lot of 60-year-old joggers don't either. We're right. I don't think that you have to train very rigorously to get the results you want, either.

The rule of thumb is to raise your heart rate (pulse) to 70-80 percent of a number you get when you subtract your age in years from the figure 220. In your case, that would be a rate of 112 to 128. (Subtracting your age from 220 you get 160, and 70 percent of that comes to 112.) The ultimate goal is to eventually be able to keep the heart beating at that target pulse rate for 20 to 30 minutes.

It's been shown that just keeping your pulse rate even at 50 to 60 percent of the target rate (220 minus your age, remember?) will give you very good results. Start with shorter raised-pulse intervals, while shooting for the lower pulse rate targets, then work up.

But PLEASE, do not embark on any such program without an OK from your doctor. He might suggest you begin with simple walking.

Where will Texans feel most at home?

States News Service

WASHINGTON — Set aside for a moment the more pressing of Washington's issues, from budget strategies to AWACS sales, and consider briefly a question of virtually no national importance, but one which might interest those of Lone Star vintage:

What is the most Texan of public places in the capital city?

Or what places in Washington seem most to reflect a certain Texan-ness?

There's a Texas Avenue, a statue in the Capitol of Sam Houston, and an abundance of barbecue and chili houses that advertise their Texas origins.

There also is the locally well-known Texas States Society which sets up a Texas-oriented place any time it sponsors a gathering. Parking at a society function is like driving into a misplaced Texas parking lot with a few accidental Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia license plates dotting the majority of Texan ones.

Then there's the one hotel in Washington that makes a point of letting its Texas ties known.

Chuck Caldwell's St. Charles Hotel sounds more English than Texan, but Caldwell advertises the fact in Texas publications that his is a Texas establishment named after his grandfather from Bastrop who went to Yale Law School, got elected as a congressman (the only one with a southern accent) from New York City and became associated with the St. Tammany gang of New York politicians.

Prominent in the interior of the hotel is a picture of Charles Pope Caldwell, the only one of his seven brothers and sisters to leave Texas, as a superior court judge in New York.

By coincidence, the St. Charles has a stronger Texas tie than Caldwell originally knew. When a group of doctors recently bought a house in Round Rock they researched the history of the building and then published the fact that it once had been the St. Charles Hotel on the Chisholm Trail.

Caldwell, who came from Round Rock, still issues his business checks in Washington on a Round Rock bank. And he said the house, researched by the doctors, was the one in which his wife grew up.

Although Caldwell recently purchased the St. Charles, he previously owned a hotel on Capitol Hill which he also advertised in Texas.

A place in Washington many people increasingly associate with Texas is a nightclub known as Bronco Billy's. Strobe lights bounce through the interior and shine off the cowboy garb (they sell tall Stetson's at the door) that might be more fitting on a Hollywood stage set.

The nightclub, along with a number of other western night spots in the area, reflects the local popularity of country music. Two radio stations, with a decidedly Texas twist, battle each other for country and western listeners. And when popular singers Mickey Gilley and Johnny Lee transplanted their act in August from the stage of well-known Gilley's club in Houston to the usually more sedate Wolf Trap Farm Park outside Washington, there was not a leftover seat either on the huge surrounding lawn or in the inside pavillion.

Then there are the Mexican food places. It's not a simple process to find Speedy Gonzalez's restaurant in Arlington, Va. Coming upon it from the north, Speedy's two dilapidated shacks look as though they might hold a parking garage, or perhaps a family that might soon fall through spaces in President Reagan's welfare net, or anything but a restaurant.

But during the Johnson administration, it was perhaps the one best known among Texans. Lady Bird Johnson reportedly searched it out and insisted upon occasional excursions there to renew her taste for Tex-Mex. There also, of course, is a Mexican place in a Maryland suburb named after the Alamo.

The former first lady may also be responsible for what might seem the most Texan of Washington places.

Just off George Washington Memorial Parkway, near Theodore Roosevelt Island in the Potomac, is the Lyndon Baines Johnson Memorial Grove, consisting of a large slab of Texas Hill Country granite almost surrounded by a dense section of towering trees. The site was dedicated in 1976.

Near a quiet bridge at the entrance is a recording by Lady Bird that can be activated with the punching of a button.

"This memorial of trees, flowers and shrubs with a megalith of pink granite is a most fitting memorial to Lyndon. This site along the Potomac was a special place to us. Many times through the years as Lyndon and I drove from Texas, we paused here to drink in the beauty of our capital city's panoramic skyline," she tells listeners.

How long is too long in office?

Harte-Hanks
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Texans tend to apply a double standard in deciding how long is too long for someone to hold public office.

A principal political question of 1982 will be which standard they apply to the lieutenant governorship.

Voters have returned U.S. senators and representatives to Congress with regularity, helping incumbents accumulate power-giving seniority. Some areas, particularly rural ones, treat their state legislators similarly.

There are state agency heads who, once elected, practically are assured the jobs as long as they want. Note that we've only had two state treasurers in 40 years, two comptrollers in 31 years and two land commissioners in 20 years.

But, as Dolph Briscoe discovered in 1978, Texans can be wary of keeping the people at the top in office too long.

Briscoe served six years as governor and was seeking another four. That would have given him 10 years in the top state job, breaking the old record of 7 1/2 years.

Challenger John Hill used that issue effectively in defeating Briscoe in the 1978 Democratic Primary. Briscoe hadn't done anything particularly bad as governor. But many voters agreed with Hill that 10 years in office was too long.

Next year the voters will decide whether Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby should be re-elected. Hobby will have served 10 years by the end of his present term and will be asking for another four, for a total of 14.

Ben Ramsey currently holds the record for tenure as lieutenant governor, serving more than 10 years before resigning to join the Railroad Commission in 1961.

It's questionable whether the voters have any strong feelings about length of tenure in the No. 2 state position.

As presiding officer of the Texas Senate, the lieutenant governor wields great power, but the incumbent seldom acquires "household name" recognition.

So, Hobby will be hoping that voters lump his job with those lesser state jobs where they are happy to go along with the incumbent if there hasn't been any particularly sensitive scandal.

George Strake, who resigned as secretary of state recently for a non-surprise announcement that he will run for lieutenant governor, will be pushing the tenure issue all the way in 1982.

Strake, a Republican, will argue that Hobby has grown sluggish in his decade in office and not kept up with the new conservatism of the 1980s.

The challenger is more articulate and colorful than the incumbent and will be trying to ride the coattails of Republican Gov. Bill Clements' campaign. There are dangers as well as potential benefits to that ride, however.

Strake's success may well lay in his ability to bran attention not only to himself but also to Hobby's long tenure.

If he fails to break away from the Clements image and establish his own identity, the voters will lump his race with those where a familiar name is the biggest asset and tenure is a plus.

Mondale, Carter differ on AWACS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, breaking with Jimmy Carter on Middle East policy, said Saturday he is lobbying senators against the sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia.

At a news conference during a Democratic Party strategy meeting, Mondale volunteered that he maintains his opposition to the $8.5 billion arms package now pending before the Senate.

"I'm convinced it will escalate the arms buildup in the Middle East," said Mondale, vice president during the Carter administration.

Carter last week declared his support for the sale and urged the Senate to support it.

The House voted overwhelmingly on Wednesday against the sale but unless the Senate agrees with the House the deal will go through as the administration wants.

Both the Reagan administration and Senate opponents have Senate surveys showing a majority opposing the transaction, but President Reagan has been lobbying hard and has succeeded in changing the minds of several senators. Mondale also urged Reagan to appoint a top level negotiator to try to regain the momentum of the Camp David peace process.

"In the Middle East either you are talking about peace and working for peace or inevitably very quickly you are talking about war and moving toward war," said the former vice president.

Mondale was one of the party leaders who participated in a two-day meeting of the Democratic National Strategy Council.

Most of the discussion centered on domestic affairs and ranged from philosophical commentary to exhortations about the need for the Democratic Party to pay more attention to grass roots politics.

Walter Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Kennedy, warned the Democrats that there might be short-term improvement in the economy that could benefit the Republicans in the 1982 elections.

CALL FOR PARLEY — Larry Bradbury, member of the 64th Regiment of Foot of the British army, is blindfolded by an American officer in a recreation of the "Call for Parley" at the Yorktown battlefield in Yorktown, Va., Saturday. The "Call for Parley" is the re-enactment of the surrender of the British Army at Yorktown.

AMC reports $16.8 million loss

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. says it lost $16.8 million during the third quarter of 1981, the automaker's sixth consecutive unprofitable three-month period.

The last time the firm was in the black was the first quarter of 1980 when it reported profits of $1.3 million.

AMC said Friday the July-September loss, which amounted to 32 cents per share of stock, was down sharply from a loss of $84.9 million, or $2.66 per share, in the July-September quarter of 1980.

"Our third quarter results, while improved over those of last year and the previous quarter, are primarily a reflection of stringent cost control measures and contributions by our International and AM General operations," said AMC Chairman Gerald C. Meyers.

AMC was the first domestic automaker to report its third-quarter earnings. The other auto companies are expected to issue their quarterly statements within the next two weeks.

Although the July-September quarter is traditionally a weak period for automakers because of expensive model changeover programs, AMC's performance was improved from the April-June quarter when the company lost $19.9 million or 35 cents per share.

AMC said the third-quarter loss was based on sales totaling $647.5 million, up from sales worth $562.7 million in the 1980 quarter.

For the first nine months of the year, AMC has lost $89.4 million or $1.59 per share on sales of $1.97 billion.

Battle at Yorktown reenacted as Bush welcomes Mitterrand

YORKTOWN, Va. (AP) — Grand armies than any massed here in 200 years swarmed over the trenches and fields of Yorktown on Saturday in a stirring recreation of the battle that ended the American Revolution.

On the hour and date that Lord Cornwallis waved the white flag in 1781, a modern day drummer boy beat the call to parley, just as a redcoat had done, to end the battle of Yorktown.

As the final Bicentennial pageantry reached a peak, Vice President George Bush and French President Francois Mitterrand joined the festivities to renew their nations' long friendship.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. met the French president at Langley Air Force Base in Hampton, about 30 miles from Williamsburg.

Mitterrand was welcomed by a 21-gun salute, a military honor guard and the playing of his national anthem. Bush arrived at Langley earlier and went on to Williamsburg for a formal welcome and dinner.

President Reagan arrives Sunday for a summit conference in Williamsburg with the French leader.

The martial display highlighting the four-day Yorktown Bicentennial was the largest 18th century military recreation ever held and one of the most colorful spectacles since the country's Bicentennial celebration began in 1975.

France, U.S. to honor accords

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and French President Francois Mitterrand will mark 200 years of U.S.-French accord Sunday, but today's differences will be as much on the agenda as the Revolutionary battle in Yorktown, Va., that once brought the two nations together.

The two presidents will confer for about one hour before adjourning for the nation's final round of Bicentennial festivities, which recall the victory of the revolutionary forces over the British — and the help provided by the French.

Senior Reagan administration officials said Reagan would send a "loud and clear" message that he is not pleased with France's resumption of arms sales, including military aircraft, tank transports and patrol boats, to Libya. There have been reports that France is prepared to delay the shipments, once frozen by Mitterrand but then freed.

"The president will make our concerns known about the actions of Col. Khadafi (Libyan leader Muammar Khadafi)," one official said.

At the same time, the U.S. president is likely to hear from Mitterrand about the French leader's anticipated effort to bring up "global negotiations" — opposed by Reagan — when they meet later in the week at the 22-nation summit of the world's richest and poorest nations in Cancun, Mexico.

Mitterrand favors massive financial assistance to the Third World and a series of new treaties to protect the File upon file of brightly costumed troops marched into the ancient British fortifications, fired cannon and musket, fell back as new units moved in — all to the rap of drums and the skirl of bagpipes.

The midnight blue-coated Hessians on the right flank, the Green-frocked Jagers next. Then the kilted highlanders, the emerald-coated loyalist rangers and long lines of redcoats.

Across the grassy field, ringing batteries of Continental and French artillery answered in a booming reminder of the bombardment that brought Gen. Charles Cornwallis down.

Then a small boy mounted a parapet and — as it happened in the real battle — his drumming was drowned by the cannonade. But as Thomas Reinhart, 14, of Rahway, N.J., doggedly beat the call to parley, the guns fell silent. A redcoated officer with a white flag was blindfolded and led into the American lines.

The real call to parley on Oct. 17, 1781, had sent a message from Cornwallis to Gen. George Washington offering to negotiate the surrender of the cream of the British army. The surrender was completed two days later, effectively ending the American Revolution.

The final commemoration comes on Monday when Reagan and Mitterrand deliver speeches and 4,000 troops, camp followers, horses, wagons, cannon, drums and fifes re-enact the surrender ceremony.

prices of raw materials exported by underdeveloped nations.

French and U.S. views are similar in the Middle East, where France seeks greater ties with Israel and supports the Camp David peace process, and in East-West relations, where Mitterrand and Reagan agree on the need to restrain the Soviet Union.

Reagan's and Mitterrand's differences are greatest in the area of domestic economics: the U.S. president seeks to reduce government spending and the French president favors the opposite. Reagan is a champion of free enterprise and Mitterrand is committed to a policy of nationalizing certain industries.

It is Mitterrand's first visit to the United States since his Socialist Party swept out the Gaullist administration of Valery Giscard d'Estaing last spring, but Mitterrand and Reagan met last July at the Ottawa economic summit, and were said to have gotten a long well.

Nobel winner speaks out on Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — The public will become disenchanted with President Reagan's economic policies as they fail to achieve their goals, the latest winner of the Nobel Prize for economics predicts.

James Tobin, a Yale University professor, also said Friday that Reagan's economic policies would not cure inflation or improve employment, but would instead widen the gap in living standards between rich and poor.

Americans should expect a prolonged period of high interest rates and economic stagnation, Tobin said, while the Federal Reserve restrains the growth of money and the administration reduces spending on social programs for the poor.

"The Reagan economic program is advertised to cure inflation and unemployment, to revive productivity, investment, hard work and thrift," Tobin said in a speech to a seminar on the U.S. economy at New York University. "It probably cannot achieve those wonderful results."

He said "Reaganomics" will not reduce interest rates enough to spur growth until the economy suffers a recession.

Judge says Vickie Daniel trial 'has it all'

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Relaxing with reporters one day last week, the judge in the Vickie Daniel murder trial observed that "this case has it all."

In fact, said state District Judge Leonard Giblin, it sounds like a movie plot. For instance: money, murder, politics, sex, a small Texas town, an attractive blond defendant and a victim who once served as a Texas legislative leader.

And then on Friday, defense attorney Jack Zimmerman raised the specter of shoddy and maybe sinister investigative procedures.

He endeavored mightily to show that former Texas Gov. Price Daniel Sr. used his power and position to influence the investigation of his son's slaying.

And he got the chief investigator, Marvin Powell, to admit he would have conducted the probe differently without interference from unnamed outsiders.

Young Daniel, 39, who served a two-year stint as speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, was shot to death Jan. 19 in his spacious Liberty ranch-style home.

His second wife Vickie, 34, told medical aides that night she shot Daniel during an argument but said the shooting was an accident.

Later, during a sizzling six-week child custody trial, Mrs. Daniel said she could not recall firing the fatal shot but added, "I must have."

Mrs. Daniel's attorneys portrayed Price Jr. as a whiskey-drinking, drug-using womanizer with homosexual tendencies and a nasty temper.

They maintained he frequently abused both his wife and his children and that he beat Vickie a short time before the shooting.

Mrs. Daniel retained custody of the children, which include two young sons by Price Jr.

Against that backdrop, Zimmerman would like to convince this jury that Vickie is the target of a wealthy, powerful, influential and vindictive father-in-law.

The elder Daniel was a three-term Texas governor, a U.S. senator, a state supreme court justice and Texas legislator.

Zimmerman sought to show that the Liberty County sheriff's office yielded to pressure from the Daniel family when it filed murder charges against Vickie.

The Houston defense lawyer insisted it is customary for the district attorney's office to file such charges often after a grand jury hearing.

Powell testified that Sheriff Buck Eckols filed the murder charge after two meetings with the elder Daniel and before the grand jury even considered an indictment.

Powell, who has resigned from the sheriff's office, contended he was not influenced by the Daniel family but said he met several times with Daniel and his daughter, Jean Murph. "Did you have the freedom to conduct the investigation the way you thought it should be done?" Zimmerman asked.

"No sir," replied Powell, the "case agent" in charge of the investigation. "Were there people telling you what to do and what not to do?"

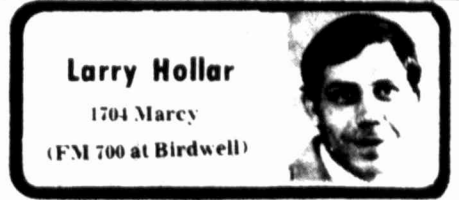

"Yes."

"Did it interfere with your judgment?" "No sir. It didn't interfere with my judgment, it interfered with my carrying out my judgment."

"If errors were made, it wouldn't be fair to hold you or your people responsible?" "Well, I felt that way."

"As you look back on the investigation, do you feel it could have been done differently?"

"Yes."

Reference Librarian

Judith Gray, librarian and Rebecca Taylor, reference librarian, from the Howard County Library, recently attended the Energy Conservation and Alternate Energy Workshop for Texas librarians at Lubbock.

The Center for Energy and Mineral Resources at Texas A&M University conducted the workshop through the office of continuing education. The workshop was part of a statewide series sponsored by the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council (TENRAC) in cooperation with the Texas Library System and the Texas State Library Instructors were professional librarians from the Texas A&M University Library.

The October 9 workshop included presentations on energy conservation topics, a resource guide of energy materials, an information package for planning energy related library programs, newest energy books for children, and computer search techniques on popular energy topics.

The amount of material made available at this workshop was staggering, physically and figuratively. Each participant carted away almost ten pounds of written materials and volumes of data in their heads. These resources on energy sources and conservation are now available to you, the patrons of Howard County Library.

During the same trip, Howard County Librarians attended the District 9 meeting of the Texas State Library Association. New officers elected were: Pat Brown of Ector High School, Chairman; Judith Gray, Howard County Library, Vice-Chairman; Ted Campbell, Ector County Library, Secretary; and JoAnn Parker of Crane County Library, Treasurer. Council Representatives to the Texas Library Association are James Scheppke of the West Texas Library System, and alternate, Stewart W. Dyess of Texas Tech.

Mrs. Gray's election as Vice-Chairman is also automatic election as the next Chairman. In 1983, during her term of office, Big Spring will be the site of the District 9 Texas Library Association meeting. The Howard County Library will be looking forward to hosting that event.

The changing role of libraries in our society was discussed in the Public Libraries Division meeting, Elizabeth Crabbell Director of the Northeast Texas Library System, gave a talk titled "Libraries, Change and Librarians to 2000 A.D." Many suggestions for programming, collection development and revising organizational goals were made and discussed.

McKnight enters governor's race

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, became the first announced Democratic candidate for governor Saturday, telling party leaders he learned as a boy that the man who wins a fight is the one who hits the "first lick."

McKnight, 56, announced three weeks earlier than planned, apparently in an effort to discourage other conservative Democrats, such as former Gov. Dolph

Briscoe, from entering the race. "I'm just going to strike out on my own," said McKnight.

He had joined discussions of finding a consensus candidate to avoid the expense and divisiveness of a hotly contested Democratic primary. But that idea died when Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, who is expected to announce for governor next month, said Tuesday he would have no part in it.

Runnels

TEA to visit here

By SAM GLADDEN
The Texas Education Agency mandates an on-going accreditation process for all schools—elementary and secondary in the state. We are involved in the accreditation process every year, but this year we are going to have a monitoring visit from the Texas Education Agency. There will be three visitors in the Big Spring schools on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to ensure that students of our community are receiving the best possible education that can be provided. Runnels extends a welcome to the visitors.

The Runnels Red Volleyball Team bumped the Lamesa Whirlwinds off the scoreboard Monday, October 12, with scores of 11-15, 15-9, and 15-8. Noted for outstanding play were: Tammi Green, 4 points; Lisa Phillips, 8 points; Libby Hernandez, 9 points; Millie Correa, 6 points; and Suzanne Bowers, 12 points. Coach Jane Upton stated that all team members played well.

The White Volleyball Team was overcome by Lamesa; they lost by scores of 15-6 and 15-12. Della Leal, Tracey Kilgore, and Chandra Wrightsel, and Jana Whitehead were noted for outstanding serves. The teams are coached by Jane Upton and Barbara Fletcher.

The Volleyball teams also traveled to Seminole Thursday, October 15. Final scores were: Red Team won 15-11, 15-12; White Team won 15-8, 12-15, 15-9.

Outstanding players were — White Team: Chandra Wrightsel, Tracie Wilderson, Delia Leal, Dana Hiltbrunner, Charletta Lewis and Jana Whitehead. Red Team's outstanding players were: Amanda Solis, Denise Brown, Clara Hamilton, Lily Hernandez, Tammi

Green, and Lisa Phillips. Thursday was designated as Red and White Day in honor of the football and volleyball teams. Each article of clothing that displayed Runnel's colors counted a certain number of points. Homeroom teachers totaled the points in their class. The winning class, Jeanine Fishback's Beginning Boys' Choir, will receive $10 or two donuts for each student.

The Football boys met Lamesa at Blankenship Field Thursday. The Red Team lost to Snyder by a score of 24-8. Outstanding play was exhibited by: Gilbert Garcia, Billy Earnest, and Bobby Madigon. The White team sacked Snyder with a score of 14-6. Carl Speck, Robert Garcia, and Michael Dodd displayed outstanding effort, according to head coach, Bobby Zellars.

Runnels students were treated to a choir assembly Tuesday morning. The beginning girls' choir, the advanced girls' choir, and the mixed choir, each performed two selections. The choir is under the direction of Jeanine Fishback.

The long-awaited cheese, sold by the choirs, finally came in last week. Choir students will complete deliveries this week. The profit from this cheese sale will be used for the benefit of the choir.

Recently, student council officers sold special ribbons, two of which were secretly marked. The secret markings were revealed to all anxious students over the public address system. The two lucky winners were Ismael Parader and Rudy Ollivas, who received pins and a year's supply of spirit ribbons.

Brint Ryan and Johnny Hatch, seniors at Big Spring High School were awarded second and first place respectively in the Garden Club Oratory Contest. Ms. Womack, president of the Garden Club, presented the awards.

Serving as officers will be: Robin Ethridge, President; Paula Allen, Vice-President; Teresa Reid, Secretary; Shana Cobb, Historian; and Todd Anderson as Reporter. Each member also lighted a candle signifying the eleven purposes of OEA. ## Texas Sierra Club leader finds good in Watt's work

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Sierra Club said Saturday that Secretary of the Interior James Watt has been bad for the environment but good for the club.

Sierra Star Chapter President Jerry Akers and other club members from around the nation will be in Washington Tuesday to place "Dump Watt" petitions on the steps of the Capitol.

Akers said at a news conference the petitions bear a million signatures, including 12,000 collected in Texas, of people who want President Reagan to remove Watt.

But even more significant than the 1 million signatures, I believe, is the growth of the Sierra Club since James Watt took office. After several years of limited growth, the club is experiencing a growth rate reminiscent of the early 1970s," Akers said.

He said the club grew nationally from 180,000 to 234,000 members between November 1980 and August 1981, for an annual growth rate of 34 percent. The Lone Star Chapter, which covers all of Texas but the El Paso area, has grown 35 percent, Akers said.

James Watt may not deserve the entire credit, but he deserves a big part of it. The secretary has an Atlanta Hun philosophy that would, if translated into policy, destroy the nation's parks, wilderness, wildlife and other natural resources. He wants nothing to stand in his way — not even the law," said Akers, a Pearland computer systems analyst.

JAMES WATT
Friend and foe?

Akers said Interior Department actions that occurred after Watt took office and that involve Texas include:

— The Bureau of Land Management decision to lease Camp Swift, near Bastrop, for surface mining of lignite.

— The proposed transfer of Matagorda Island to the state, which the Sierra Club fears would allow heavy recreational use that would endanger the whooping crane and peregrine falcon.

"Texas really hasn't developed a plan. They could turn it (Matagorda Island) into a Coney Island. It would be better managed as part of the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge," Akers said.

Monica Walden, another Sierra Club official accompanying Akers, acknowledged under questioning that the state had not allowed development of the nearby Mustang Island State Park.

— Increased offshore oil and gas development in the Gulf of Mexico.

— National Park Service adoption of a plan for the Rio Grande below the Big Bend "that leaves the river segment a wild and scenic river in name only."

"The Park Service originally proposed a development plan that would protect the river's resources and allow people access. Obviously, the Park Service was ordered to reverse directions by the secretary's office," Akers said.

He said he believed Reagan would pay attention to the petitions even though the president contended in his campaign that environmental restrictions had gone too far.

"These petitions show he does not have a mandate" to change the nation's environmental direction, Akers said.

Texas AFL-CIO head cites labor's growth

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard said Saturday that organized labor has grown 42 percent since Gov. Bill Clements took office. He called Clements "the best organizer we've ever had."

Hubbard also said he favors former Gov. Dolph Briscoe for the Democratic nomination to contest Clements in 1982 because Briscoe would have the best chance of winning.

Hubbard's comments were made on the "Capital Eye" radio interview show.

Clements has been good for union organizing efforts, he said, "because he gives the impression that he is very much anti-union... and thereby signals to the people — the working people — that they must join together to combat the kind of opposition that they receive from the governor's office."

ABC cleared in Oswald case

DALLAS (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co did not violate a copyright when it produced the television movie, "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," a jury has ruled.

A six woman jury deliberated about an hour Friday before finding that the 1977 movie did not violate the copyright of Falcon International Corp. of Dallas, which made a movie with the same title in 1964.

Both movies speculated about the outcome of a murder trial had Oswald lived to face charges of killing President John F. Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963. Oswald was killed by nightclub owner Jack Ruby two days later.

To prove copyright infringement, Falcon International and co-plaintiff Capital Films Corp., which bought rights to the film in 1976, had to prove the title was associated with their movie by a significant part of the consuming public.

Henry trains in Reforger exercises

Spec. 4 Wayne E. Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard F. Henry of Coahoma, has participated in "Reforger '81," a series of training exercises conducted by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces in Europe.

Henry, a gunner with the 3rd Armored Division, Hanau, West Germany, joined with members of his unit to provide vital support for the United States and allied forces taking part in this annual exercise.

The 13th of its series, Reforger '81 tested mobility, plans, capabilities and support agreements between military and civilian transportation agencies of both the United States and its NATO partners.

The exercise, stated Department of Defense officials, provided soldiers and airmen the best possible peacetime training for performance of duty under simulated combat conditions.

Nearly 17,000 people along with 27,000 tons of equipment were sent to Europe from the United States in support of Reforger '81.

He is a 1975 graduate of Coahoma High School.

Charges dismissed

Charges against Joseph Diliberto, 20, for indecency with a child have been dismissed, according to District Judge Jim Gregg. Gregg said the attorney for Diliberto had filed a writ of habeas corpus, and the state was unable to produce any evidence to detain Diliberto.

Neatness counts again at some public schools

By The Associated Press
Hair is less shaggy, and probably styled with a blow dryer. Jeans are pressed and boast designer labels on the back pockets. Penny loafers are as plentiful as beat-up running shoes.

"It's cool," once again, to be neat, says Judith Russo, who recently attended high school in Seattle. A check of public schools across the country, from Providence, R.I., to Albuquerque, N.M., indicates that after decades of pushing for more lenient standards of dress and personal grooming, students are toning down what they wear and, like the rest of the country, growing more conservative.

School authorities say the trend is almost entirely voluntary and coincides with the more tolerant attitudes of schools toward the often outlandish styles of recent years.

In Des Moines, Iowa, where the school dress code was so strict in the 1950s that students were sent home for not wearing belts, "We think there are more important things to do with our time and efforts than enforce a dress code," said system spokesman Norm Miller.

Roughly half the states allow local districts to have school dress codes, but rigid rules were generally overruled in numerous lawsuits in the 1960s and '70s.

A striking example of the flexibility schools now practice occurred Wednesday in Garland, Texas, where male students gathered 700 signatures and persuaded North Garland High School officials to allow boys to wear earrings.

Some rules remain, of course. While most districts have abandoned dress codes, many still prohibit apparel or jewelry that poses a health hazard or is distracting to classroom life.

In Baltimore, for instance, platform shoes so high they could be considered potentially dangerous to the wearers are taboo. In Cooley High School in Detroit, assistant principal Ocie Curry says plunging necklines, see-through blouses, short-shorts and jogging suits are off limits.

Burbank, Calif., school officials are cracking down this fall on the bra-less look, bare midriffs, shorts and shirts emblazoned with sex or drug slogans. Boys in Phoenix, Ariz., who wear only sleeveless undershirts are being urged to wear shirts.

A public school in Cleveland — a "magnet" school named the Fundamental Education Center — requires its students to wear uniforms, white or blue shirt or blouse with navy blue trousers or skirts and a dark blue sweater or jacket.

Edward Knight, principal of Weymouth North High School in Weymouth, Mass., said, "We try to discourage what could be looked upon as beach wear."

On Wednesday, the Chicago Board of Education approved a new, loose dress guideline: "Dress which is disruptive to the educational process is not permitted."

"School boards are much more sophisticated now, and kids are more neat," said Thomas Shannon, executive director of the National School Boards Association in Washington. "The kids who revolted in the '60s in fact won. They made their point."

Shannon and others are quick to add that the growing conservatism of school garb is at least partly a function of more modest fashions. It's far easier for principals to go along with the designer jeans and T-shirts of the '80s than the hot pants of yesterday.

"The students are becoming much, much more conservative in their dress," Sam Lee, a spokesman for the St. Louis Board of Education, said. "They're not as bushy-haired or straggly, and more of the girls are wearing skirts and blouses."

School officials note that they consider the new conservatism in school clothes completely unrelated to the new conservatism in politics.

In Pacific Palisades, Calif., where President Ronald Reagan lived before moving to the White House, Jim Mercer, principal of Palisades High School, said there is "no way" the election of a conservative president had anything to do with more conservative fashions.

"It's been a slow process. It isn't something that began with an election in January," he said.

The Reagan administration, however, may soon make a mark on school clothes. In April, Education Secretary T.H. Bell proposed ending a regulation which allowed high school students to file federal complaints about restrictive dress codes.

The regulation generally forbids schools from enforcing rules that discriminate on the basis of sex. Under the rule, for instance, schools cannot forbid girls to wear jeans unless boys are also forbidden. More commonly, schools cannot forbid long hair for boys without similar rules for girls.

The regulation may be abolished before the end of the year, according to a spokeswoman at the Education Department's Office of Civil Rights.

Women's groups and Indians are among those who oppose the proposed rule change, fearing it could lead some school districts to renew rules forbidding girls to wear pants or culottes, or keep Indian children from wearing it like all student fads, neatness, too's cyclical, like anything else," said Lawrence Buford, associate superintendent for the Austin, Texas, Independent School District. "I'm sure it all will change in the next year or two. Something else will catch on."

Cotton proceeds needed for crippled children

ABILENE — Bales of cotton or proceeds from a farmer's cotton sales are needed to make the Cotton Round-Up for Crippled Children a success this year.

Herman A. Propst of Anson and Elmer Martin of Colorado City, co-chairmen of the annual event, have asked cotton growers to set aside a portion of their crop for the Cotton Round-Up which benefits the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

"Every bale of cotton can mean hours of therapy for a handicapped child," Propst reminds farmers. "This year is better than last year for most of us, so we should be able to contribute generously."

To donate, contact Propst, Martin, J.B. Adams of Childress, Hale Farm Supply in Haskell, Chub Richards in Stamford, Max Von Roeder in Snyder, or the West Texas Rehabilitation Center at 4601 Hartford, Abilene, Texas, 79605 or call (915) 692-1633.

The West Texas Rehabilitation Center is a private, non-profit treatment facility. In 1981, more than 10,000 handicapped children and adults reportedly will receive treatment without charge at the center's three campuses in Abilene, San Angelo and Snyder.

British marine chief wounded in IRA blast

LONDON (AP) — The IRA struck in London for the second time in a week Saturday with a car-bombing that maimed the commandant of the British marines, Lt. Gen. Stewart Pringle, a former commando leader in Northern Ireland. The blast ripped the roof off his car and sent the hood flying over a house.

Pringle, 53, was rushed to King's College Hospital, where surgeons amputated his right leg below the knee. Doctors said they hoped to save his left leg, which also was torn. The general's dog also was in the car, but escaped unharmed.

In Northern Ireland, a stolen car booby-trapped with a bomb exploded in the parking lot of a golf course, slightly injuring one man, police said. No group immediately claimed responsibility for that explosion.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the Pringle car bombing in a statement issued to news organizations by its publicity bureau in Dublin, Ireland.

Scotland Yard had warned of the possibility of a new IRA bombing campaign after the group's nail-bomb attack last Saturday on a busload of Irish Guards in London. Two people were killed and 37 others injured in that attack.

Pringle's red Volkswagen Passat exploded as he drove off with his pet Labrador retriever from his home in West Dulwich, middle-class residential area of south London, a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

The impact of the explosion sent Pringle's car crashing into a parked car. The roof of the Volkswagen was torn off and its windows were blown out.

Communist hardliners attack Polish union's leaders

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Hardliners on the Communist Party's policymaking Central Committee said Saturday their patience with Solidarity was exhausted and called for "offensive actions" against the independent union.

Some 12,000 women textile workers protesting food shortages occupied mills for the fifth day in Zyrardow, 30 miles west of Warsaw, and unionists at the steelworks in southern Katowice called for "full control over food production" and threatened to strike next weekend.

The 200-member Central Committee is meeting for the first time since Solidarity adjoined its national convention Oct. 8. The Polish news agency PAP quoted Interior Minister Czeslaw Kiszczak, one of several generals holding Cabinet positions, as telling the Central Committee Solidarity is "hampering the stabilization of the country" and that the future looked "very dangerous, even explosive."

Committee member Czeslaw Borowski, an electrician, said, "This is the end of our patience and humility." He accused Solidarity of "conducting an open political fight, one can even say war. So if we shall wage a fight with the anti-socialist forces, then the party must immediately go over to offensive actions."

Czestochowa committee member Zofia Stepien was quoted by PAP as saying the authorities' fight against food profiteering had failed, and, "we have an anti-crisis staff and the crisis is getting deeper."

Another member was more strident. "Today, the decision must be taken. The decision about life or death of the party, life or death of socialism," PAP quoted Jozef Jarmala as saying.

Over 1,500 arrested in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Military and diplomatic sources said Saturday that Egypt's new regime has arrested more than 1,500 Moslem fundamentalists and leftist dissidents since President Anwar Sadat's assassination Oct. 6.

Egyptian officials said only "dozens" were seized. Sadat had more than 1,500 religious leaders and political foes arrested the month before he was murdered by Moslem fanatics during a military parade in a Cairo suburb. The sources said the latest arrests were part of a campaign to crush violent opposition to Sadat's successor, President Hosni Mubarak.

A military source, who refused to be named, said that most of those jailed in the last few days were on a list of 7,000 fundamentalists that Sadat said would be picked up if they caused more trouble between Christians and Moslems. The small Moscow-oriented National Progressive Unionist Party, which opposes the U.S.-sponsored Camp David peace accords, said Saturday that more than 80 of its members had been arrested since last month.

Khaled Mohieddin, head of the NUP, said he knew that at least 70 other political figures, members of "other political parties," had been arrested.

Mohammed Hakki, presidency spokesman and director of information, told reporters the arrests were "very limited, not in the hundreds. It only concerns people who were found to be armed." He said later that only "dozens" of people had been picked up.

Police sources in Cairo said there had been a shooting incident Friday night in the Nile delta city of Mansura, 79 miles north of Cairo.

Late Bum rally ties NL series

MONTREAL (AP) — Steve Garvey's two-run home run in the eighth inning led the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 7-1 victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday and evened their National League championship series at 2-2, forcing a deciding game Sunday.

Dusty Baker also provided a big offensive punch for the Dodgers, driving in the first run, then batting in two insurance runs in the Los Angeles' four-run ninth inning.

The Dodgers, who have never lost in a league championship series, will send rookie left-hander Fernando Valenzuela against Montreal's veteran right-hander Ray Burris Sunday.

Montreal, which needed to go five games against the Philadelphia Phillies to win the NL East Division title, is seeking its first pennant in the 13-year history of the franchise.

The Dodgers won the West by beating Houston in three straight games after losing the first two at the Astrodome.

Saturday's game had been a pitchers' duel between hard-luck Bill Gullickson of Montreal and Los Angeles' Burt Hooton, who got win with relief help from right-hander Bob Welch with one out in the eighth inning, and left-hander Steve Howe, who worked the ninth. Hooton allowed all five Montreal five hits.

Gullickson struck out Bill Russell to open the Dodger eighth, then Baker, who had doubled in the first Dodger run in the third, singled to left.

That brought up Garvey, the Dodgers' veteran first baseman and one of baseball's top clutch hitters. He hit Gullickson's first pitch over the left field fence for his first home run of the series to put the Dodgers in front 3-1 and send the series into the showdown game.

Hooton, who won 11 and lost six with a 2.28 earned run average during the regular season, won the first game in this series, 5-1, also working 7-3 innings. He appeared to be in control of his second win, using his key pitch, a knuckle curve, to work out of tough spots. Then in the eighth, the Expos knocked him out.

Rodney Scott started with a single to center, but was forced as Andre Dawson hit into a fielder's choice. Then Gary Carter singled to center, Dawson stopping at second.

That brought out Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda, who summoned Welch.

Welch did the job. He struck out Larry Parrish swinging and got Jerry White, whose three-run home won Friday night's game, to fly out to center, ending the inning.

GREETINGS — Los Angeles Dodgers batter Steve Garvey is greeted by teammates Fernando Valenzuela, left, and Reggie Smith after knocking out a two-run homer in the eighth inning of Saturday's National League playoff game with the Expos in Montreal. The homer, Garvey's third of the series, put the Dodgers in to the lead.

Hogs rout UT

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas quarterback Tom Jones, an elastic bandage around his right elbow, sat in front of his locker and talked about believing in the Razorback football team.

The Razorbacks drubbed the No. 1-ranked Longhorns 42-11 in a regionally televised game Saturday.

"I really thought if we played well against Texas, I thought we would win the game," Jones said. "I thought it might not even be close. I don't think anybody outside of here thought that."

Jones, who was given one of the game balls after keeping 13 times for 73 yards and throwing for 83 yards, said the key to the game was the way the Arkansas offensive line dominated Texas' defensive line.

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said earlier in the week that the two biggest questions were whether the Razorbacks could move the ball against Texas and keep the Longhorn offense from overpowering the Texas defense.

"We played a complete football game," Holtz said. "Texas made some mistakes and encouraged us early. I didn't think it would be an upset. What can you say. Everything went our way."

Arkansas covered a total of 24 yards for its first 15 points and only went 36 yards for the touchdown that put the Razorbacks on top 25-3 at the half.

"We kept pumping air in them like they were a balloon," said Texas defensive tackle Kenneth Sims. "If you let them stay in the fight, they start believing they're tough. It's hard to overcome that. I was planning on being No. 1 on Jan. 2, but I guess we've lost that now. I can always remember we were there for a week."

"We weren't anything to compare Arkansas with," Sims said. "We faced some circumstances here today that were very hard to face. They didn't bother me much, but we had some younger guys playing that tightened up because of the crowd and other things. I wish we could play Arkansas again tomorrow."

Holtz wasn't for that idea. "It was great to win, but I'm glad we're not playing them tomorrow." He said the victory was by the players, the assistant coaches and the fans. "It was not a coaching victory."

"It was one of those days where you cannot look at this football game and evaluate both teams," he said. "We lost one along the way and people kind of blowed us off."

At one point Holtz became so infuriated at the officials about the lack of a pass interference call, he hurled his watch to the other end of the field.

Badgers upset Baylor edges A&M

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bryan Clark passed for three touchdowns, two to Daryl Turner, as Michigan State stunned 14th-ranked Wisconsin 33-14 in Big Ten college football Saturday.

WACO, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Jay Jeffrey, reinserted as the starter late in the game, drove Baylor 72 yards in the closing minutes Saturday as the Bears defeated Texas A&M 19-17 in Southwest Conference football.

The winning points came on freshman Marty Jimmerson's 21-yard field goal — his fourth three-pointer of the game — with 22 seconds remaining.

Jeffrey dealt A&M its first loss in three SWC games after freshman linebacker Kevin Hancock had recovered Thomas Sanders' fumble at the Baylor 28. Baylor, the defending SWC champion, raised its league record to 2-2.

On the first play from scrimmage after Jimmerson's winning kick, all-SWC safety Vann McElroy intercepted Gary Kubiak's desperation toss at the Baylor 16.

Jeffrey was ineffective on his first series, after replacing Mike Brannan, who was making his first start since the 1979 Peach Bowl, but made the key plays in Baylor's final drive.

The late Baylor score overshadowed an amazing performance by wide receiver Mike Whitwell. The 171-pound senior made a fingertip catch on a 41-yard scoring pass and set up both of A&M's other scores with pass receptions.

He grabbed a 50-yard pass from Kubiak to set up David Hardy's 21-yard field goal with only 10 seconds left in the first half, and leaped high for a 39-yard completion at the Baylor 11 to set up A&M's final score, a six-yard run by Johnny Hector.

Permian 2nd half too much for tough Steers

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

The Odessa Permian Panthers methodically controlled the second half Friday night in Memorial Stadium to take a hard fought win over a scrappy crew of Big Spring Steers, 24-6.

The Steers, playing without three players, two of whom were two-way starters, gave the defending state champions all they wanted for one half, but Permian showed their class in the second half by scoring the first three times they had the pigskin on ball control drives to put away BSHS.

The triumph was the sixth without a loss for the disciplined Permian crew, and extended their personal winning streak to 24. Their last loss was in 1979, and there have been no ties in the time span.

Big Spring, meanwhile, fell to 0-3 in district and 2-4 on the year.

The Steers showed they were for real early. After Permian had taken the opening kickoff and driven into Steer territory, safety Richard Evans intercepted a Coy Brown pass and the Big Spring crew was in motion. The Bovines moved to the Permian 41, but were stopped on a fourth and two situation at that point.

But the aroused Steer defense stopped the Panthers cold, and on fourth down a herd of Big Spring rushers blocked a Mojo punt, with the ball coming into the hands of George Bancroft at the 35. Bancroft scampered to the three before being tackled, and the Steers were in business.

After Tracy Spence was stopped on first down, fullback Danny Stephen plunged over from the three for the Big Spring touchdown with just over four minutes remaining in the initial quarter. But Permian gained a measure of revenge by blocking the PAT.

The Panthers answered the Steers touchdown with one of their own, taking the ensuing kickoff and driving 60 yards on 13 plays. Big play in the drive was an early third down run of 20 yards by Brown. Fullback Dale Carr took scoring honors with just under ten minutes left in the half by bulling over from the one. Bobby Knott booted the PAT and the Panthers took the lead for good at 7-6.

But the Steers came back in the half to show their metal, only to be thwarted from close range. They took Permian's kickoff and marched from their own 22 to the Permian 14, with a beautifully executed screen pass from Spence to Evans, good for 31 yards, being the main play. In all Spence completed three passes in the drive.

But the Steers were stopped by the Permian defense, tops in 5-AAAAA, at the 14, and Jody Dowdy's 31-yard field goal attempt into the wind fell barely short of putting the Bovines back on top.

Neither side could muster up a scoring threat in the remainder of the half.

But while the Steers played the defending 5-AAAAA and state champs off their feet in the first half, it was a poised Permian crew that came back after intermission to explain why they are so tough to beat.

After Big Spring couldn't move following the second half kickoff Permian took over in good field position at their own 48. They ground the ball down, but it was not without an excellent catch from tight end Stacy Meeks early in the drive that resulted in an 11-yard pickup and a key first down. Carr finally plunged over from the three with 6:20 to play in Quarter Three, and Knott booted the PAT.

The Steers made an attempt to answer the Permian touchdown quickly, but a penalty would be a key play against them. On the first down following the kickoff, Spence connected with Evans over the middle from the 22, with the speedy senior scooting 33 yards to the Permian 45. But the Steers were ruled for offensive pass interference, moving the ball back to the 11 and forcing a loss of downs. Still, Spence hooked up with Rod Harris on a 20-yard pass and the Steers managed a first down before being stopped.

Following a Steer punt, Permian took over on their own 35. The Panthers moved to the Steers 13 on the ground, at which point Knott utilized the wind on the first play of the final quarter, canning a 31-yard field goal for a 17-6 Permian lead.

The Steers were victimized by an intentional grounding penalty on their next possession, and Harris got off his worst punt of the night, an 18-yarder that gave the Mojo possession just 55 yards from paydirt and a chance to put the final sword in the Steers.

After a pickup of three, Brown ran for 16 yards and passed 12 stripes to Jay Fuiglaar, who made a nice catch for a first down at the Steer 24. Robbie Brown moved for 19 yards to the Bovine five on the following play, and two plays later Mike Troglin banged in from the two to ice the game for Permian. Knott's PAT was true with 7:48 remaining.

The Steers never gave up in the contest, but Permian's defense was simply too quick to crack, putting repeated heat on Spence. But the Steer signal caller still enjoyed a fine night throwing, connecting on 10 or 18 passes for 113 yards. His receivers made some nifty catches, too.

The Steers now travel to face the Midland Lee Rebels, who were gunned down for the first time this year by the Abilene Cooper Cougars on Friday. Permian faces Cooper on the road next week in a key 5-AAAAA showdown.

After global career, Walker likes Big Spring

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

After a star studded track and field career that included an impressive performance in the 1976 Olympics in Montreal, and funded trips around the world in athletic competition, Sammy Walker seems to have found a home in Big Spring.

The Dallas native who began gaining big-time fame in high school when he heaved what then was a national record in the shot put at Samuel High School moved on to much greater things in both track and field, weightlifting and football. But following then President Jimmy Carter's decision to boycott the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, Walker ended his lifelong drive for the most coveted gold in the world.

In the summer of 1980, he began working full-time for American Petrofina, a company that had allowed him to work part-time while he competed both nationally and internationally through the USOC's job program.

His first move as a full-time crude oil purchaser for American Petrofina was to Big Spring. Sam and his wife Lisa came to this West Texas town with the idea that they would stay only six months before being transferred back to the Big D. But that plan didn't materialize, and Walker began to set roots here.

Those roots were the first true full-time home for Sammy since his college days at SMU, where he was not only a Southwest Conference and NCAA shot put champion, but also a member of the Mustangs football team, originally as a 235-pound fullback and later as a defensive tackle.

personable Walker to attain a great understanding of the people in the world, and especially a knowledgeable understanding of international track and field competition and the Olympics.

And those Olympics as they were originally projected are definitely in serious trouble in Walker's eyes. Sitting in his living room as we both sipped cold ones Thursday night, the former Olympian and his wife discussed the future of something that he will always consider a highlight in his life.

"If you look back and try to see what's happened in the Olympics since 1976, it's really hard to be positive about the future of the games," said Walker. "I started in Mexico City with the raising of the fists by a couple of the US sprinters, although you really can't consider that harmful to the games. But then the politically motivated killings in Munich, the partial boycott by the African nations in Montreal, and then the United States boycott last year. It really wouldn't surprise me if the Los Angeles Olympics were the final Olympics as we have come to know them."

If you look back and try to see what's happened in the Olympics since 1976, it's really hard to be positive about the future of the games.

And that's too bad, because it's all because of politics, and not because of the athletes.

The idea of moving to Greece has been discussed in an effort to try and restore the Olympics in their original state, and Walker likes it. But still, that might not help.

"I think moving them to Greece for good is an excellent idea. Of course, there would still be politics involved, so I don't know if that would really cure the problem," mentioned Walker, who now weighs around 245 after competing as high as 290 pounds in his prime.

Walker was one of the many potential Olympians who vigorously disagreed with Jimmy Carter's boycott of the Moscow Games, and he explained in a unique way the juggled world of politics.

"I remember in 1976 in Montreal when some of the African nations boycotted over the racial controversy. The USOC and our government blasted the countries that boycotted, saying that it (the Olympics) and politics should be separated. But then the US goes and does what it did last year in the Moscow Olympics. That's nothing but hypocrisy Walker philosophized.

It's been said before, but Walker said it again. The boycott really did nothing to harm the 1980 games; in reality it only harmed the United States Olympians.

"The feeling a person gets in competing in the Olympics is unbelievable. Living in the Olympic village for those five weeks and meeting the best athletes in the world is something that nobody there will ever forget," he explained as he looked at some pictures he had accumulated while in Montreal in 1976.

Then, pointing at a picture showing the United States team marching into the Olympic Stadium at the beginning of the games, he continued, "Walking through the Olympic Stadium with the US team was just a feeling that I can't describe! It was an exceptionally proud moment, something I'll never be able to forget."

But Walker, the multi-talented athlete who participated in the 1976 Olympics as a weightlifter and was also a world class shot putter at the same time, can't totally blame ex-President Carter for his boycott decision.

"I know in his own mind (Carter's) that he thought he was doing the right thing. The Russians were in Afghanistan, and invading people, but what I don't think he understood is that our boycott didn't and wasn't going to make any difference to them. I've competed against the Russians on many occasions, and the boycott wouldn't bother them. In fact, they probably liked it because it made them look better. The Russians have been known to do anything to win, including cheat. They're no dummies about it, either," Walker explained.

"I remember one time when I was competing over there. It was either in Hungary or Russia, I can't remember right off hand," Walker continued. "Anyway, this Russian girl threw the shot past a marker, but the official went and marked it past the next marker, which gave her more feet than she really threw. I noticed it and went to our coach and told him, and he went to the officials, but they acted like nothing had happened."

"And take the 1980 Olympics in Moscow. At the end of the Olympic Stadium over there, there was a big opening that could be shut. In the javelin competition," explained Walker, "the wind makes a great difference when the Russians would throw, they would open the gate, which would let the wind blow in against them. That helped the javelin reach a certain point and travel further. And then when a person from another country threw, the Russians would shut it."

Walker has become friends with some of the best athletes in the world. One of his better track friends is Brian Oldfield, who Walker and many others regard as one of the outstanding all-around athletes in the world. Another is Bruce Jenner. Walker became friends with him years before the Montreal Olympics in which the highly popular Jenner became a household word with his gold in the decathlon.

"Jenner is just the way he seems. He's always been a real down to earth person, even after his success. A lot of people like that would get the big head, like Mark Spitz. But not Bruce," explained Walker.

But Walker still marvels at Oldfield. "Oldfield's about 6'5" and weighs about 255 and 285. It just depends on how much he has been partying. He's great in the weights part of track, but I've seen him run a sub-10 flat 100 and high jump 6'7". He's got to be one of the best athletes who ever lived, and he's still tough at 37. He just goes around and makes enough money under the table to roam around, competes and party," explained Walker, who told a couple of Oldfield party and competition stories that are too much for a newspaper.

As a former Dallas schoolboy and SMU alumni, Walker also tutored Michael Carter in his earlier days. The two became good friends, although Sam wonders now exactly about the relationship.

"Michael's different. He came long and broke all of my high school records, but he has never learned how to get along with the other big time shot putters. He has always had the attitude that you've got to hate your opponent in order to perform well, and that's contradictory to the way a lot of the world class shot putters feel. None of them ever really said anything to him about it, but it just created an atmosphere that a lot of them didn't like his attitude. But I've heard he's changing that somewhat," explained Walker.

The Russians have been known to do anything to win, including cheat. They're no dummies about it, either.

"I think Michael got upset with me when he was trying to decide whether to play football his freshman year or wait and work toward the '80

tinued. "A sportswriter asked me what I thought he would do, and from talking to Michael, I thought he would pass up football that year and train for Moscow. But I told the guy to check with Michael before he printed anything. Well, the writer didn't, and it came out in the Dallas paper."

And something I also think about is that Michael went through his freshmen year at SMU and beat everyone winning SWC and national honors. But in the Olympics trials with the big boys he finished something like tenth. I finished seventh, but it didn't make any difference because of the boycott," said Walker.

Michael's in some sort of a dilemma now because he wants to be known as Michael Carter, the great football player and people still refer to him as the great shot putter. And that's going to be hard to overcome, even if he wins the Outland Trophy, the national's best lineman," Walker philosophized. "But I wish him the best."

As far as further competition, Walker says no way. "I didn't realize until about the end of college why I was there, and that was to learn something. It's time for me to learn something that I feel will provide a good base for my financial future. We've got a baby on the way, and I couldn't afford to go back and compete," Walker explained.

But that's not to say he couldn't. In Montreal, despite the fact that he had a strained back, he finished ninth in the superheavy-weight lifting division. That consists of the clean and jerk, along with the snatch. Walker finished with 325 kilograms, which is well over 700 pounds. The infamous Vasili Alexeev of Russia was the winner with 400 kilograms.

"He's unreal," Walker said in a seeming awe.

For now, though, Walker hopes to stay in Big Spring, despite the fact that American Petrofina has told him, that he will in all likelihood be transferred back to Dallas.

"I'm looking around right now at any possibility in Big Spring or the Permian Basin. For now, I really want to stay in Big Spring. We've lived here for a year-and-a-half now, and really like it. It's a good atmosphere. Hopefully, I can look around and find another oil related job, because I've learned quite a bit since I've come here. But I'm not ruling out anything," explained the friendly Walker, who seems the type that gets along with anyone and everyone.

"I'd like to stay with American Petrofina, but more importantly I want to stay in Big Spring."

Iowa defense stops Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Iowa freshman Tom Nichol booted three field goals and the 12th-ranked Hawkeyes' powerful defense made them stand up for a 9-7 victory over fifth-ranked Michigan in a Big Ten football showdown Saturday.

Iowa's Dave Strobel recovered Evan Cooper's fumble on the game's first play and the Hawkeyes moved in for a 20-yard Nichol field goal seven plays later.

The next time the Hawkeyes got the ball, Nichol concluded a 56-yard, seven-play drive with a 36-yard field goal to give Iowa a 6-0 lead after one quarter. Michigan put together its only drive early in the second quarter. The Wolverines marched 68 yards in 10 plays with Steve Smith passing 17 yards to All-American wide receiver Anthony Carter, who beat Iowa defender Lou King for the touchdown in the right corner of the end zone. Michigan then held on to the 7-6 lead at the half.

In the third quarter, Iowa defensive back Mel Cole intercepted a Smith pass intended for tight end Craig Dunaway in the end zone.

Tar Heels win

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Fourth-ranked North Carolina overcame a 10-0 halftime deficit and rallied behind the running of tailback Tyrone Anthony to whip North Carolina State 21-10 Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

A record crowd of 56,200 watched Anthony rush 32 times for 183 yards, 109 in the second half, to lead the Tar Heels' comeback.

Anthony churned out the yardage, but tactical errors by North Carolina State and the Tar Heel defense made the difference.

Leading 10-0 at intermission, the Wolfpack tried an onside kick to open the second half. The Tar Heels recovered on their own 49.

One of the benefits of the new tax legislation is already in effect. Investment credit and depreciation changes, which were made retroactive to January 1, 1981, permit a simpler system for writing off the cost of new and used equipment, buildings and livestock. The object and end result is to allow you to take depreciation faster. However, you still have a choice of recovering costs over a long period of time if you would rather utilize either the regular or straight-line depreciation method. Under the new system, neither useful life of an asset, nor salvage value enter into how fast you can depreciate it. The investment credit on new equipment is upped to $125,000 from $100,000, and up to $150,000 in 1985. Expensing limits have also been lifted, machinery leasing may get a boost with a cut in the amount of equity a lessor must invest.

FORSAN — A late 40-yard touchdown pass from Denny Moya to Don Valentine and a successful PAT kick by Gary Collins propelled the Ropes

Eagles to a 15-14 win over the Forsan Buffaloes, thereby spoiling the Homecoming festivities.

Forsan came out fired up and took an early 14-0 lead, but Ropes would not allow it to stand.

Forsan scored in the opening stanza on a 11-yard run by Lewis Boeker. Boeker also toed the PAT. The Buffaloes of Coach

Jan East increased their margin in the second stanza on a 67-yard run by Robert Eggleston, with Boeker kicking the PAT.

Wolves take 7-AAA win over Wylie

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Wolves were in total command here Friday night in their District 7-AAA opener with Abilene Wylie, spotting their foe an early lead and then charging back for a 28-7 triumph.

Colorado City racked up over 400 yards in total offense, while the Wolves defense limited Wylie to only 62 total yards, and only 17 on the ground.

The Wolves took an early lead on a 35-yard field goal by Jeff Hammond, but Wylie took the lead when Al Brannan picked off a Colorado City fumble and rambled 55 yards to paydirt.

But the Wolves Victor Jackson gave his team the lead for good with a six-yard touchdown run and a 9-7 halftime advantage.

Jackson was omnipresent in the second half, having a hand in all three Colorado City touchdowns.

In the third stanza, he hurled a 28-yard halfback pass to Tim Nobles for a touchdown, but the PAT failed, leaving Wylie within striking distance.

Jackson overcame Wylie in the final quarter on runs of four and two yards. Hammond booted the final PAT for the 28-7 margin.

Colorado City, after losing their first three games, has now won four in a row and are 1-0 in league play. Wylie is now 3-3 and 0-1.

Colorado City will host Clyde next week.

Andrews stays unbeaten, 21-6

ANDREWS — The Andrews Mustangs used two Keith Brooks touchdowns and his pass to Randy Nelson to take a hard earned 21-6 win over Odessa Ector here Friday night in a 2-AAA game.

Brooks' touchdown runs covered 14 and 33 yards, and the touchdown pass covered 29 yards. Ector scored late in the game.

Andrews is now 5-0 in district play and 7-0 for the year, while Ector fell to 1-3 and 2-4.

Pecos outlasts Sweetwater, 19-14

SWEETWATER — After spotting Sweetwater a 7-0 halftime lead, the Pecos Eagles scored three straight touchdowns in the second half to emerge with a 19-14 win here Friday night in a 2-AAA game.

Sweetwater had a big statistical advantage in the game, as Pecos managed only 117 yards rushing and no yards passing in the game. But Sweetwater lost three fumbles and two interceptions to no turnovers for Pecos.

FIRST DOWN — Forsan's Lewis Boeker (with ball) goes down after picking up 16 yards in first quarter action against Ropes Friday night. Boeker's run here helped set up his touchdown run just moments later. Other Forsan Buffaloes in the picture include Ramon Holguin (75), Randall McDonald (50) and Preston Daniels (30). Ropes rallied in the final quarter for a 15-14 win.

Over Klondike

Garden City takes big win

KLONDIKE — The Garden City Bearcats took their most important win in years here Friday night, a 7-6 decision over Klondike in a key District 3-A West Zone contest.

The Bearcats were outplayed statistically, but it was the opening kickoff that propelled them to the win.

Garden City's Robbie Crystal took his hands on the ball at the 12 and galloped 88 yards to paydirt at that time, with Victor Medrano's all important PAT giving the Bearcats enough points for the win.

But it would not be easy, as Klondike's Ray Arismendez rushed for 172 yards and AR home town Cougars moved the ball throughout the night. In all, Klondike had 241 yards rushing and 258 total yards, to only 59 yards rushing and 120 total yards for Garden City.

Klondike's only score came in the third period on a seven-yard run by Arismendez. But a PAT attempt at tying the contest failed, leaving Garden City with their winning margin.

Garden City is now 2-0 in West Zone action and 5-2 on the year. They host Meadow next Friday Klondike is 1-1 in West Zone action and 1-5 on the year. The defending district champions travel to Wilson next week.

Coahoma plays Kermit to tie

KERMIT — The Coahoma Bulldogs broke a five game losing streak here Friday night in their final non-district encounter, but couldn't break for a win in playing the Kermit Yellowjackets to a 7-7 tie.

The tie moves the Coahoma record to 1-5-1 on the year, while Kermit is 5-1-1. It was also Kermit's final non-district game. Coahoma begins 6-AAA action in two weeks when they visit Crane.

Coahoma drew first blood in the opening stanza when Bruce Walker, the Bulldog quarterback, ran over from the nine with just two minutes elapsed on the clock. Robert Walker toed the PAT. The touchdown was set up when Coahoma recovered a Kermit fumble on the opening kickoff at the Yellowjacket 19.

Kermit came back to tie the game in the second quarter when quarterback Jerry Wright plunged over from the one. The PAT was true to tie the game for good with just under eight minutes left in the half. Both teams attempted a pair of field goals in the second half, but neither side could connect.

Nettles KOs Reggie in celebration argument

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Graig Nettles, the hero of the New York Yankees' three-game sweep over the Oakland A's in the American League Championship Series, knocked down teammate Reggie Jackson at a victory celebration, it was reported today by Dick Young in the New York Daily News.

According to the sports writer, the two players got into an argument at an Oakland restaurant Thursday night, shortly after the Yankees had beaten the A's 4-0, clinching the AL title.

Young said they got into a shouting match concerning some uninvited guests Jackson had brought to the party, held at an Oakland restaurant. The disagreement ended with Nettles knocking Jackson to the floor, wrote Young.

Owner George Steinbrenner then ordered Jackson's friends to leave, saying the party was only for members of the team and their families, according to Young.

The angry Jackson then told Steinbrenner, "You will regret this," Young said.

Nettles had been arguing with a member of Jackson's party after Nettles' wife, Ginger, had been asked to leave the table where Jackson's group was sitting, Young wrote.

Jackson came over to see what was happening, according to Young, and Nettles said, "Look, my fight isn't with you. They just had no right to push my wife out of the chair."

Young said Jackson shoved Nettles and Nettles hit Jackson, knocking him to the floor.

Nettles, the Yankees' veteran third baseman, was named the most valuable player in the league championship series after driving in a record nine runs — three in each game. Jackson had to leave the second game with a calf injury and did not play in Thursday night's clincher.

Eagles vs. Vikings NFL biggie

The Philadelphia Eagles, the only unbeaten team in the National Football League after six weekends, put their perfect record on the line Sunday in Minnesota, where the Vikings are sky-high after shooting down the San Diego Chargers.

The game brings together two of the National Conference's division leaders, the Eagles atop the East with a two-game edge over faltering Dallas, the Vikings Central Division co-leaders with Tampa Bay.

The Eagles possess the conference's third-best defense (behind Washington's and Los Angeles'). It has allowed just 67 points, the fewest in the league — but it will be facing the NFC's top offense (and that includes the league's most potent passing attack).

Cowboys hope to awake vs. Rams

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys try to bounce back from their worst whipping in 11 years Sunday night against the suddenly revived Los Angeles Rams.

Not since St. Louis blanked the Cowboys 38-0 in 1970 had they experienced such humiliation as San Francisco's 45-14 rout Sunday.

Both Dallas and Los Angeles are 4-2 but as far as the National Conference divisional races are concerned that's where the similarity ends.

Dallas trails Philadelphia by two games in the NFC East while the Rams are tied with Atlanta, a team they beat 37-35 last week. The Rams have won four in a row after opening with two losses.

The oddsmakers have made the Cowboys four-point favorites to bounce back in the nationally televised (ABC) matchup at 7 p.m. in Texas Stadium.

"I haven't lost faith...maybe we learned something," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry in the wake of the flogging he called "a disaster."

Dallas linebacker D.D. Lewis said "I hope this shakes us up...I hope this shakes us up like a big earthquake."

The Cowboys have historically rallied back

Newman led Stanton stops Morton

MORTON — Kevin Newman rushed for 272 yards and the Stanton Buffalo defense dug in the second half to spark the visitors' 36-18 win over the Morton Indians in a District 5-AA contest here Friday night.

The game was tied at 18-18 entering the final half, but Stanton controlled action after that.

Stanton scored first on a 23-yard field goal by Scott Church and a 10-yard run by Newman, with Church's PAT giving the Buffs an early 10-0 lead.

But Morton rallied to take a 12-10 first quarter lead on an 85-yard kickoff return and a 93-yard pass from Billy Cadenhead to Vinnie Evans. Both PATs failed.

Morton increased the lead to 18-10 on a Cadenhead pass, but Stanton came back to tie the game before intermission on a 29-yard pass from Wally Hazelwood to Tommy Esparza, with the same duo hooking up for the two-point conversion.

But the final half was all Stanton, who is still undefeated in 5-AA action. First it was Hazelwood in the third quarter rambling over from the one, with the PAT failing.

Stanton scored four different ways in icing the contest in the final frame. Church started the fourth quarter wrap-up with a 38-yard field goal, and minutes later Newman put the clincher on with his 53-yard burst to paydirt. Church toed the PAT.

Stanton's final score came on a safety on tackle by Brian Bowlin.

Stanton is now 3-0 in 5-AA action and 5-2 on the year, while Morton fell to 0-2 and 1-5.

The Buffaloes will take their perfect district record for a home game next week against Plains, who is also undefeated in 5-AA action. Last year the two teams tied 0-0 and went on to tie for the league crown, but Plains advanced by one first down into the playoffs.

Offensive standouts for Stanton included fullback Arthur Ruiz, wingback Ray Flores, tackle Scott Church, end Lupe Sanchez, tackle Polo Mendez and end Esparza. Newman's 272 yards came on 32 carries.

Stanton defenders singled out were Joe Ortiz, who had an interception, linebacker George Lewis, ends Tracy Spinks and Ray Marquez and Bowlin.

Grady improves in loss to Borden County

GAIL — The host Borden County Coyotes used the four touchdown performance of Jim Rinehart to outscore the Grady Wildcats 52-26 in a District 2-A (six-man) football contest Friday night.

Rinehart scored on runs of five, three, nine and two yards, with the final three TDs coming in the second half. Mike Peterson, Darrell Green and Glen Gray also scored for the Coyotes, who are now 4-2 on the year and a perfect 3-0 in district action.

Lynn Key was again the big gun for Grady, running for a touchdown in the first quarter and passing 25 yards to Jay Billingsley for a second period score. Joe Rodriguez scored twice for Grady, once on a long run and again just before the clock ran out.

Grady is now 0-3 in district action and 1-5 on the year.

Grady Coach Richard Gibson was pleased with his team's performance despite the loss. "We play much, much improved over the last few weeks," noted Gibson.

"The kids played well, and the score was really indicative of the way the game was played. I think we've got a good shot now at winning the rest of our games."

Grady's next chance will be on Friday in a Homecoming affair for the Wildcats against McCauley.

Meadow scores early, late in win over Sands

MEADOW — The Meadow Broncos scored touchdowns in the first and fourth quarters here Friday night and held off the Sands Mustangs throughout in a 12-0 decision. The contest was a West Zone tilt in District 3-A. The win moves Meadow's record to 1-1 in league play and 2-5 on the year, while Sands falls to 0-2 in district and 1-4-2 on the year.

Meadow's first score came on a 17-yard pass from Keith Smith to Junior Cruise. The PAT attempt failed.

The score remained that way until the fourth quarter when Lance Brinson intercepted a pass and returned it 31 yards to paydirt. The PAT failed, but it didn't matter.

Sands returns to action, next week at New Home, a 7-0 loser to Wilson

Students wear black arm bands as Michigan school closes

ALPENA, Mich. (AP) — Two trumpeters played taps as students at Alpena High School lowered the American flag. Students wearing black armbands watched quietly.

With the brief ceremony Friday, the Alpena School District became the first in Michigan since the Depression to go broke and close its doors.

Voters in this Alpena County community, located 230 miles north of Detroit, have rejected three proposals in five months to increase taxes, said Glenn McAdam, the schools' finance director.

As a result, he said, the district is penniless.

"There is a lot of tension in the halls," Principal David

Clink said Friday. "Some of the anti-millage comments have really upset these kids who think people are just playing with their lives."

The closing came on Homecoming Day and a demoralized Alpena football team lost their game to Escanaba, 35-0, Friday night.

Classroom doors will stay locked at least until Oct. 30, when voters in this town of 14,000 on Lake Huron's Thunder Bay consider two new millage proposals.

One asks renewal of a property tax rate to 20.25 mills — or a little more than 2 cents for each dollar of assessed value — which would raise $15 million for operations; the second issue requests 3.45 mills to provide $1.2 million for programs such as transportation, athletics and libraries.

Two hundred students turned out for a demonstration after school on what they dubbed as "Black Friday."

"This isn't a vacation, we're locked out," shouted one student.

Cynthia Wenzel, a senior and one of the leaders of the Concerned Students For Better Education, used a bullhorn to urge her classmates to work for approval of the millage issues.

"Let's show this community we're worth every penny they'll give us," the 17-year-old said, prompting a cheer from the crowd.

She and other students spent the final hour of Friday's classes draping a black banner below the main entrance to the school. Others taped huge letters to the front windows spelling "Closed."

"They're trying to show it doesn't hurt, but as I talk to the kids I find it's heartbreaking," said psychology teacher Michael Brinkman. "So many people simply say, 'They won't let the schools close.' But it's happened."

Many students, especially seniors, plan to attend schools in other communities if the millage request fails again.

Low corporate earnings add to Wall Street worries

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., Oct. 18, 1981

NEW YORK (AP) — A new item has been added to Wall Street's long list of economic worries — less-than-inspiring earnings reports from some of the nation's leading companies.

All the returns aren't yet in for the July-September quarter, and no one is writing off the period as a uniform disaster for corporate profits.

But several concerns with large fan clubs in the investment world have issued "down" earnings reports in recent days, adding to concern about the present state and future prospects of business activity.

The most prominent of these was International Business Machines, which on Tuesday reported a 22 percent drop in net income — its first quarterly decline since the end of 1979.

Among others recording lower results were Polaroid, Honeywell, Schering-Plough, Dow Chemical, Merck and NCR, not to mention such Wall Street stalwarts as Merrill Lynch and E.F. Hutton.

In many of these instances, weak earnings showings had been expected, given the troubled economic environment in which business has been operating for months. But the stocks of some of the companies involved were buffeted by selling anyway.

IBM fell more than 4 points to the low 50s, for example, hitting its lowest price in a year and a half. IBM shares, the No. 1 holding of investing institutions, have dropped about 20 points since early January.

"It is not the sign of a basically healthy market when stocks which are already down sharply from their highs are still reacting to lower earnings," said Newton Zinder, an analyst at E.F. Hutton.

Indeed, the market as a whole did not have a very healthy week. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 21.31 to 851.69, more than cancelling out the previous week's 12.27-point gain.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index dropped 1.20 to 69.13, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was down 6.95 at 307.19.

Big Board volume averaged 38.40 million shares a day, down from 48.79 million the week before.

For multinational companies like IBM, Merck and Schering-Plough, one major source of earnings problems has been the strength of the dollar in foreign exchange.

MRS. HENRY LEE MITCHELL III

Perry-Mitchell wed in Dallas ceremony

Mary Martha Perry, Dallas, became the bride of Henry Lee Mitchell III Austin, Saturday in the Preston Hollow Presbyterian Church, Dallas. The Rev. Jerold Shetter, pastor, performed the 8 p.m. ceremony before an altar decorated with two arrangements of white roses, chrysanthemums and greenery. Four candelabra completed the setting.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Perry, Dallas, formerly of Big Spring. The bridegroom's parents are Betty Worley Mitchell, Sitsbee, and Henry Lee Mitchell, Jr., Troy Mich.

Music was performed by Jan Van Otterlee, organist, and Julia Louise Herman Edwards, harpist.

The bride chose to wear a formal-length gown of candlelight re-embroidered Alencon lace applied on ivory silk organza. The molded bodice of Alencon lace and seed pearls featured a Victorian collar and sheer yoke. Appliques of matching lace and pearls accented the long, sheer fitted sleeves, and the skirt, accented with vertical rows lace and seed pearls chapel-length train. A veil of ivory silk illusion and matching Alencon lace extended beyond the length of the gown and fell from a coil of gardenias, roses and baby's breath.

Kathy Perry, Dallas, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mary Antil, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Paula Burford, Mrs. Leslie Melson and Mrs. Beth Sewell.

Herman Adams, Austin, was best man. Groomsmen

Focus on family living

Busy wives needn't skimp on nutrition

JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Does employment of a wife mean the family must eat a lot more TV dinners — or buy shelves full of fast-preparation equipment? It doesn't have to be that way. In fact, several consumer surveys show that there are really few differences in the way homemakers — employed and at-home — handle meal-management.

Whether you're employed outside the home or not, these meal-planning ideas can help ensure nutritious family meals in the face of today's hurried lifestyle: Before you shop, make a long-range plan for meals. This will mean considering several important factors:

- built-in nutritional balance;
- sticking to a budget you can live with;
- thinking about the "where" and "when" your family eats various meals, and making allowances for special diets, such as low-calories ones.

Then to make the plan really workable, add some time-saving items and steps to your plan, and, finally be sure to "plan ahead."

In planning meals and snacks for your family, you'll want to ensure that meals are balanced — that is, planned according to the family members' nutrient needs.

Use the Basic Food Groups in planning, and include the number of recommended servings for each member. Stay within your budget. This is especially important in these inflationary times.

Consider the foods you have available, such as fresh vegetables from the garden or those you canned in the spring.

Check newspapers, television and several stores for advertised specials.

Make an inventory of foods on hand based on your menu. Plan to shop for a week or two at a time — not every other day. Frequent trips to the store waste time and cause impulse buying.

Efficient use of time is special to busy homemakers. Thinking about the "where" and the "when" of family meals — ahead of time — will make a big difference in meal efficiency.

Will all meals be eaten at home or "on the run?" Will you do all the meal planning, or will some members eat away from home where you have no control over their selections for that meal?

If some eat away from home, make sure your plan helps "fill in the nutrition gaps" at the meals they do eat at home. Also, make sure at-home meals help bring their "calorie count" back into the necessary range. Fewer calories at home will "even up" the score for family members who tend to eat too many away from home, for example.

Special diets must be part of part meal plan, if they are necessary. For example, if weight control is a problem for some family members, then menu plans should allow for this.

And, in these cases, family members should be encouraged to select away-from-home meal items according to their special diets.

At this point in your plan, give yourself a break. Consider the use of convenience foods in key places of your plan to save time.

If they cost more because of convenience features, choose them with care.

Some do not cost more, and these save both time and money. Some cake mixes, for example, do not cost more than "from scratch" baking.

Also, consider creating some of your own "master mixes," such as pancake or cocoa mix.

For her 1981-82 project, Mrs. Runge chose to work with retarded citizens. Her theme is "Everything's Coming Up Roses," and her emblem is the long-stemmed rose.

Nell Draper, chairman of the visit, invites all members and their guests to attend.

Modern Woman's Forum plans memorial donation to Girlstown

The GFWC Modern Woman's Forum met Oct. 9 in the home of Mrs. Bert Affleck. Mrs. C.R. Moad, president, led the club in the Pledge of Allegiance, the salute to the Texas flag and presided at the business meeting.

Members brought cookies to take to the Big Spring State Hospital, and voted to send a memorial to Girlstown USA in memory of Mrs. Udonia Bass, a former member. A letter of appreciation for the donation of laprobes and paperback books from the Veteran's Administration Medical Center was read.

Mrs. Fred Whitaker, federation counselor, reported on the six recipients of the 1981-82 Texas Federation Scholarships. The program for the meeting was on the Federation's Role in Enterprise Economy (FREE).

Mrs. L.B. McElrath reported on the topic "Productivity and the American Dream" and gave three ways to increase the nation's wealth: expanding the size of the work force, increasing the number of hours each person works, and increasing the average worker's productivity.

Mrs. Hugh Duncan reported on "U.S. Competitiveness in World Trade." She noted that trade provides jobs, helps increase productivity and benefits consumers.

The next meeting will be Friday in the home of Mrs. H.M. Rowe.

Dear Abby

Kids' Privacy Should Sometimes Become Public

DEAR ABBY: You have consistently urged parents to respect their children's privacy and refrain from reading their diaries and letters and from listening in on their telephone conversations. It now that so many very young kids are doing drugs, has our viewpoint changed?

If a parent suspects that his teen-ager is into drugs, doesn't the parent have the right to violate his child's privacy to find out for sure whether his suspicions are warranted or not? And what if the parent confronts the child and it becomes obvious that the child's privacy has been violated, then what?

Please comment, Abby. There are a lot of worried parents who need to know.

CONCERNED IN AMARILLO

DEAR CONCERNED: There is a vast difference between invading a teenager's privacy in order to read his mail or diary and attempting to learn whether or not a child is involved with drugs.

Involvement with drugs can make the difference between life and death, and parents have an obligation to learn as much as they can by whatever means possible. God will forgive them. And so will the children, eventually.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that I am sure is common to many parents across the entire nation. My youngest daughter, age 22, a recent graduate from Michigan State University, is living with her uncle, who is also a graduate of M.S.U.

What do I tell all of my friends when they ask me how my daughter is doing? I'm embarrassed to say that she is living with a man without being married.

NAMELESS, NATURALLY

DEAR NAMELESS: When you're asked how your daughter is doing, say, "She's fine, thank you." It's not necessary to disclose her lifestyle.

DEAR ABBY: I am the 23-year-old mother of a beautiful baby boy born out of wedlock. I dated the baby's father only a short while. (I'll call him Glen.) I was in love. Glen was in lust.

The baby is nearly a year old now and Glen has never seen him (his choice). My family has stood by me and I am grateful for their love and understanding. Glen's family does not know me or the situation. They live in another state.

I would like my son to know all his family! Apparently Glen doesn't want his family to know, but I think they have a right to.

Abby, please ask your readers if they were the baby's grandparents on the father's side, would they want to know?

I still love Glen, even if he doesn't want to know me or his child. I don't want to cause any trouble, but isn't this baby just as much his as mine? And aren't his parents just as entitled to know about their grandson as my parents?

RAISING A CHILD ALONE

DEAR RAISING: When your baby is old enough to ask, tell him his father disappeared from your life shortly after the boy was born. (That will be no lie!) And if you seriously do not want to "make trouble," let that be the story's end.

C-City resident is state winner

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A Mitchell County young lady, Dawn Lemons, is an achiever in many areas. Now Miss Lemons has been named a state winner in the 4-H Santa Fe Program, with her entry of an award-winning record book.

According to home demonstration agent Marion Morris, "Dawn's record book is a composite of all the activities in which the 4-H group participates ... a record of all the events."

The record book Dawn submitted won county-wide, district-wide and state-wide. The last award entitled her to a week-long, expense-paid trip to Chicago Nov. 29-Dec. 3, as well as a $750 scholarship.

Miss Lemons' previous accomplishments include exhibiting the Grand Champion Steer at the County Livestock Show in 1976, as well as showing the Grand Champion Steer at the Texas State Fair in 1979.

NO PICTURES, PLEASE! — A European brown bear, apparently tired of being on display for cameras all summer and fall, gestures towards a late season photographer at the wild animal area of the Great Adventure Amusement Park near Jackson, N.J. The bear's exposure to the public will soon come to an end in a dark room where he'll do some serious hibernating until spring when he will again become a star for the cameras.

Valentine Sweetheart named to represent BSP City council

The Beta Sigma Phi City Council met Oct. 1 for a pot luck supper and evening of games honoring rushes. The band for the Valentine Charity Ball was discussed, but no final decision on the choice of bands was made.

Joan McColton has been selected to represent City Council as Valentine Sweetheart.

City wide pledge rituals will be held next month in the Flame Room. Members of all chapters of Beta Sigma Phi are invited to attend. The Alpha Kappa Omicron chapter will host the occasion, and Mu Zeta will provide refreshments.

Door prizes were won by Cindy Jones and Jeanne Newton of Alpha Phi Delta.

MR. AND MRS. GRADY BROWN

Couple exchanges vows in morning ceremony

Marie Rowland, Silver Heels, and Grady Brown, San Angelo, exchanged wedding vows Saturday morning at 9 a.m. in the chapel of the 14th and Main Street Church of Christ. Byron Corn, minister of the 11th and Birdwell Lane Church of Christ, performed the ceremony. The couple stood under an arch of fern flowers flanked with gold spiral candelabra.

The bride chose to wear a navy blue suit with a pink blouse and navy accessories. She carried an orchid surrounded with rose buds and baby's breath.

Wedding music was provided by Sherry Bordske and Rufus Rowland, vocalists.

Serving as matron of honor was Barbara Eisler, Abilene, daughter of the bride. Best man was John Trimble, San Angelo.

A rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at La Posada Restaurant.

The bride is the owner of Rowland Real Estate. The bridegroom is a retired businessman.

Immediately following the ceremony a brunch was held. A three-tiered cake decorated in pink and blue was served from a table covered with white lace. A bouquet of blue and yellow flowers centered the table and crystal appointments were used. Serving at the table were Kelly Stewart, San Angelo, Kristi Fitting, Midland, Lois Daughtery, Tipton, Okla., Robbie Ramsey, Abilene, Pam Newton and Alicia Rowland, all granddaughters of the bride and bridegroom.

Following a wedding trip to Acapulco, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Lung Association offers Family Asthma Program

Children with asthma lose more days from school than otherwise healthy youngsters, are sometimes limited in sports activities, and may suffer a wheezing episode while at school. All of these occurrences are noticed by classmates, and as a result, the asthmatic child frequently feels rejection and isolation, says the American Lung Association of Texas.

Children with asthma want to feel like "one of the gang". They do not want to be singled out by their classmates as "different". Teachers' attitudes of acceptance and calmness can help classmates understand asthma. They also can help the child with asthma feel fully integrated into school activities as "one of the gang".

Teachers and school nurses should be informed if a child has asthma, says the Lung Association. Parents — even the child's physician — can explain the extent of the impairment, if there is one. They should also explain what action is required and the treatment advised if wheezing occurs.

Asthma is one of the lung diseases that the "Christmas Seal" people combat. To help children and their parents learn self-help skills for dealing with asthma, the Lung Association has developed the Family Asthma Program. While emphasizing self-confidence and fun, the seven-week program teaches breathing techniques, improves general body condition and improves the knowledge and understanding of the disease.

To find out more about asthma and the Family Asthma Program, contact the American Lung Association of Texas, 7701 North Lamar Blvd., Suite 104, Austin, Texas 78752-1008, (512) 458-2206.

Handling complaints major job of BBB

"If you don't have my car running smoothly by 5:00 P.M. today, I'm going to turn you into the Better Business Bureau!"

Handling consumer complaints is a major responsibility of the Better Business Bureau. As in any relationship, disputes often arise between the consumer and merchant, and it is helpful to have an impartial third party available to help settle the controversy. Unfortunately, many people use the Better Business Bureau name as a threat, assuming that the merchant will automatically 'give in,' or even worse, the BBB staff will make him 'give in.'

The BBB procedure for handling complaints is simple. First of all, we will not process a complaint until the complainant has first gone to the owner or manager of the business and made a sincere effort to resolve the problem on a one-to-one basis. If this has been done without results, we will ask for the complaint in writing. Once received, a copy of the complaint will be sent to the business with a request for a reply.

A complaint is not an accusation of wrongdoing — it is just an indication that a problem exists. Since a complaint often does not include all the facts, it is important that the business respond with its version of the story.

Cooperation in working with the BBB must be on a volunteer basis since the BBB has no legal power. The BBB cannot force either a business or a consumer to act in a responsible manner; each side must be willing to communicate for the system to work.

The BBB discourages the use of exaggerated details and false statements on the part of consumers to help strengthen their argument. A positive attitude is essential in any attempt to solve business-consumer problems. Too many consumers assume the worst and approach the businessman with the attitude that he's out to take advantage of them. On the contrary, most businesses try extremely hard to keep their customers satisfied.

Rarely in recent times has a voice so captured the imagination of critics and readers everywhere as John Irving in his internationally acclaimed novel The World According to Garp. The narrator of his newest novel explains: "The first of my father's illusions was that bears could survive a life led by human beings, and the second was that human beings could survive a life led in hotels." What happens to Father's dreams (and to the children upon whom those dreams are visited) is the subject of this fall's most eagerly awaited novel. A BOOK-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB MAIN SELECTION.

MR. AND MRS. J.E. SWINDELL

Swindells to celebrate golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Swindell, 1901 E. 21st St., will be honored with a reception 'Music and Art in Retrospect' is theme

The Music Study Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Rudy Haddad. Mrs. Mike Skalicky served as co-hostess.

Mrs. Bobby Gene Fishback was welcomed as a new club member. Members were reminded of the 12th District 21st Annual Conference to be held at the Midland Memorial Christian Church Saturday.

She presented the history of Medieval and Renaissance art and showed slides of artwork of the periods. Mrs. Joseph Dawes continued the program with a discussion of the various types of music which were composed and sung during the time.

Tips on befriending shy people offered

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Shy people are everywhere, and according to the Stanford Shyness Survey, conducted by Dr. Philip Zimbardo, a professor of psychology at Stanford University, there are an estimated 90 million shy Americans.

According to Dr. Zimbardo, "It takes concern for another, sensitivity, and a good amount of energy to link up with a shy person." In the September issue of Seventeen Magazine, he suggests six ways you can use your energies to befriend a shy person.

1. Ask the shy person for help. Just the thought of helping someone else will make the shy person feel needed and less self-conscious.
2. Be friendly. If the shy person is going to a picnic you've been invited to, casually mention that you'll see him there, and ask him to save you a seat. Don't make it seem like a dramatic request, and ask him only in a comfortable and relaxed context.

3. Laugh at yourself. Show a shy person that no one is perfect. When a shy person makes a mistake, help him out by either mentioning a similar goof that you once made or by giving him some positive advice.

4. Be supportive. If you can do so sincerely, offer a compliment. Start in a small way, mentioning little things you like. (Even though you are being nice, the shy person may still feel as though you are evaluating him.)

5. Give them equal time. Allow the person to air his views. Shy people are typically slower to respond to questions, so be careful not to automatically fill up lulls in the conversation with your own chatter.

6. Widen their circle of friends. Introduce them to people who have similar interests or hobbies. Always start out by mentioning what both of them have in common.

Bride-elect is honored with shower

Tonya Shortes, Ackerly, bride-elect of Phillip Schumpert, was honored with an old-fashioned ice cream supper and bridal shower Oct. 5 in the customer's lounge of the Paymaster Gin, Ackerly.

Special guests for the event were Mrs. Jamies Barnhill, the prospective bridegroom's stepmother, and Mrs. L.O. Shortes, the bride-elect's grandmother. Tonya was presented with a corsage of orange and yellow silk peonies.

Approximately 50 guests were served homemade ice cream and cake from a table decorated in orange and white and centered with an arrangement of orange silk peonies in a yellow teapot. Punch was served from hollow watermelon halves.

Hostesses were Charlene Brasher, Jamie Smith, Pauline Long, Bertie Shaw, Joyce Parker, Joanne Peugh, Kathy Bayes, Lois Johnson, and Sue Robinson.

The bride-elect was presented with a hostess gift of a beige and brown bedspread.

The couple will wed Nov. 7.

DALLAS RITE — Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gray Jenkins, Wilmington, N.C., formerly of Big Spring, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Gay, to Raymond Patrick Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis R. Hogan, Dallas. Vows will be exchanged Dec. 12 in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, Dallas, with Dr. Matthew Lynn, former pastor of the church, officiating.

Fine glassware adds sparkle and elegance to a dinner table. Here at the Accent Shoppe, we know that storing glassware properly insures long life. Keep your glasses on shelves covered with heavy paper, felt, or plastic shelf liner for cushioning, and place pieces so there is a little space between them. Store crystal with the rim up, not down, to prevent moisture inside. Finally, don't stack glasses, because they may scratch each other or become stuck together. Cheers!
