

Mystery mishaps mar Mitchell road work

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

A 6.6-mile stretch of highway construction located on Interstate 20 between Colorado City and Westbrook has everyone connected with the project mystified — mystified as to why so many accidents have occurred on the patch of road since rebuilding work started approximately two years ago.

According to statistics compiled by the Mitchell County office of the Texas Department of Public Safety 21 accidents have occurred — two of them fatal — on this stretch of highway during the first eight months of this year. The DPS estimated five more people died in the construction area as a result of accidents in 1980.

The reason, according to Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation officials, is excessive speed by drivers in the construction zone.

"I would have to indirectly think that most of the drivers were going too fast through the construction site. The condition of the road was never unsafe and the only time any real hazard presented itself was when the asphalt machine was blocking one lane of traffic," said Joe Smoot, resident engineer for the highway department. DPS Sgt. Richard Campbell said, "In my personal opinion I think 95 percent of the accidents were caused by excessive speed. We lowered the speed limit to 45 miles per hour, but most people still exceeded 45. We brought in radar and stepped up patrolling in the area and this did slow traffic down for a while, but gradually the speeding would resume."

Smoot said for the past two years Price Construction Inc., a Big Spring-based company, has been working on the road, rebuilding it with a process that involves tearing out the old highway surface and replacing it with a new pavement base and then resurfacing the base into a finished highway.

Smoot said two years is not an unusually long time for a construction project like the one between Colorado City and Westbrook. He termed the two years "about average."

Work on the road will cease soon because of winter weather and Smoot expects the construction to be finished up sometime next summer. He said for the time being the road would be safe.

Bob Price of Price Construction declined to make any comment about the construction area or reasons for the accidents. He said a lawsuit resulting from an accident in the area was pending and his lawyer had advised him not to discuss problems at the construction site.

"We're at our wits' end trying to stop the accidents. We don't know why so many have occurred. There just isn't anything out there to cause an unsafe condition," said Smoot.

Smoot said the highway department has worked with the DPS and Price Construction in an attempt to hold down the number of accidents.

"We've put up blinking lights, signs, and barricaded the road to the latest standards and still we're plagued with accidents. We don't like the accidents any more than the public... these accidents are heartbreakers to all of us," said Smoot.

Sgt. Campbell said he thinks the accidents are beginning to decrease now that the road is almost repaired.

"Just by estimation I think the accidents are decreasing. The road surface is still a little rough but it is close to normal. The road is well marked and all the guardrails are in place. It's just a real unusual situation. For a while there, nothing anybody did to prevent the accidents worked," Campbell said.

Smoot said construction areas often are plagued with accidents, but he had no reason other than excessive speed by drivers for the abundance of mishaps in the Westbrook area.

"We've tried everything we know and we are still looking for new solutions. We're keeping the area under investigation and hopefully we'll find an answer," Smoot said.

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation currently have the seven mile stretch of road under investigation in hopes of finding a reason for the mishaps.

Stenholm loses battle to kill 1981 Farm Bill

By PHIL SWANN
States News Service

WASHINGTON — Rep. Charles Stenholm, who earlier lost battles to raise peanut and sugar price supports, lost another fight Thursday night to defeat the entire 1981 Farm Bill package.

The four-year legislation, which Reagan administration officials threaten to veto because it is too expensive, passed 192-160 and will now go to a House-Senate conference committee. The Senate last month passed a bill which closely follows the administration's budgetary restraints.

Stenholm agreed that the House bill is inflationary. But he said the package also does not offer farmers a fair commodity loan rate.

"There is a utter frustration with the bill... no one is enthused," said the Stamford Democrat.

Congressional and USDA sources say Stenholm rejected the bill because he is still upset over losing the peanut and sugar wars. The commodities are the lifeblood of many farmers in the congressman's district.

Stenholm, head of the Conservative Democratic Forum and influential in the agriculture community, received the support of several of his Texas colleagues.

Democratic Reps. Kent Hance (Lubbock), Jack Hightower (Vernon), William Patman (Genado), Thomas Loeffler (Hunt), and Sam Hall (Marshall) voted against the bill.

"There's just not anything in this bill that's going to help farmers," said Sam White, a Hance aide. "Farmers have big problems and they are not being addressed as big problems."

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, and Marvin Leath, D-Marlin, voted in favor of the bill.

Stenholm severely criticized what he called "the administration's poor handling" of the bill.

"There has been no legitimate effort by the administration to bring about a compromise," Stenholm said.

"They have been totally stubborn."

A source close to Agriculture Secretary John Block confirmed that the administration has not been willing to barter.

"It's nearly impossible for us to compromise, actually," the source said. "We have to run over to OMP (Reagan's budget office) everytime somebody wants to trade and they say no... it costs too much."

Miss Jo Luna was named Miss Howard College 1981 before a capacity crowd in the HC Auditorium Thursday evening.

Carol Moorehead, Miss Howard College 1980, crowned Miss Luna, and Dr. Charles Hayes, president of the Howard County Junior College District, presented her with a bouquet of roses and a plaque. Miss Luna will also receive a scholarship and has the option to represent HC in the Miss Texas USA pageant in El Paso next year.

Miss Luna, 19, is a sophomore at HC and the daughter of Ms. Bert Luna and Dick Luna, both of El Paso. She was selected from a slate of 17 contestants representing HC and SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

"West Texas Women" was theme of the 14th annual pageant which featured western state decorations, music and entertainment. Those providing entertainment were HC Jazz Band, HC Rodeo Team, New Dimension and Fantasy.

Competition for the event, sponsored by the Student Government Association, included a pre-pageant interview with the judges, casual wear, swimsuit and evening gown.

Judges were Connie Scharbauer, Conrad Coleman, Red Dunn, all of Midland, Woody Kupper and Stacy Payne, both of Odessa.

First runner up was Beverly Wheeler. Lori Beth Phinney was second runner up, and Sherri Blalack was Miss Congeniality. Each of the three HC students received a plaque and a bouquet of flowers.

Sam Hill, director of the Division for Learning Development at SWCID, was master of ceremonies. Cheri Sparks, associate vice president for Student Life of the HCJC District, introduced each contestant, and Richard Fendrich was interpreter.

Dawson Airport grant approved

AUSTIN — A $40,000 grant for constructing a new aircraft parking apron at the Dawson County airport at Lamesa was approved Thursday by the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

Gerald Turner, the commission's airport director, said the improvement is needed because of increased activity at the airport created principally by the oil and gas business.

He said the parking area will cover 4,400 square yards.

The $40,000 grant is expected to pay for 75 percent of the work. Dawson County and Lamesa must come up with the remaining 25 percent.

No A's on report card of appraisal company

COLORADO CITY (SC) — If Southwestern Appraisal Co. were to get a report card for its re-evaluation of Mitchell County, chances are two school districts would give low grades.

During a public hearing Thursday night, held by the Mitchell County Tax Appraisal District, representatives from Westbrook and Loraine school districts voiced their dissatisfaction with Southwestern Appraisal Co.

Westbrook Superintendent L.M. Dawson told the tax appraisal board, "We have a mess this year in Westbrook; however, when the representatives come to meet with us, we hope they'll have some explanations to offer."

Dawson added, "Our tax assessor had to correct what someone else was paid to do. They were working eight hours a day for 10 days to correct all this, sometimes on weekend. I just want the job done."

Meanwhile, the tax appraisal board chairman Curtis Latimer conceded there have been problems, but he said when the board voted to hire Southwestern, it was because the board thought the company was one of the best in the state.

Latimer commented, "Of course, it's a big job, a statewide undertaking and there have to be lots of adjustments and readjustments, but it's going to get worse before it gets better."

Chief Tax Appraiser Mike Burt said despite the difficulties in the county-wide reappraisal, Southwestern had gone out of its way to correct the problem. He added the day Southwestern closed its offices in Colorado City, it fired the man who headed the local job. Also, Burt had a prediction that there will be another tax increase next year.

Burt said, "I shouldn't be predicting this, but the indications are that the farm productivity value on land will decrease for next year. This productivity is on a 5-year basis, but is capitalized, making use of the Federal Use Land Bank's interest rate, which for us is 2.5 percent. I heard the other day the present rate is 11.75 percent. Add the 2.5 percent and you get 13.25 percent."

"The past year we used the figure 12.25 percent; therefore, if farm value goes down, there is less value to tax. You need the same amount of money and the only way to achieve that is to generate it through a tax rate."

Also attending last night's public hearing were Superintendent Glenn Sanders and Board President Ronald Bruce of Loraine. They also voiced dissatisfaction with the reappraisal of Loraine's property.

Following last night's public hearing, the tax appraisal board is expected to approve the $173,862 budget at its next board meeting, after which local taxing agencies have 10 days to vote for any changes in proposed expenditures.

Rutherford noted everything on the unit buildings are fire-retardant so no real problem developed.

Rutherford said the hospital's fire and safety officer, John Keller, would make an official inspection as to the cause of the fire.

Ruth Payne, admissions unit administrator, said a patient was suspected of starting the fire on the ward, but the cause was not known positively. Mrs. Payne praised the mental health staff for the quick and safe evacuation of the patients.

Fire doused at BSSH

A fire at the Big Spring State Hospital admissions building was quickly put out by the local fire department and hospital personnel, yesterday, according to Gene Rutherford, assistant fire chief at BSSH. He reported no injuries, and the fire damage was limited to three beds and curtains in two rooms.

Rutherford said the fire was "nothing serious" and was located in the patient's ward of the temporary admissions unit on 538 North of the hospital grounds.

Inflation surges in September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surging food and housing prices boosted the cost of living by 1.2 percent in September and pushed the annual inflation rate to above 10 percent for the year so far, the government reported today.

Last month's increase over August was the third big jump in a row, following rises of 1.2 percent in July and 0.8 percent in August, as prices heated up in late summer.

If inflation were to increase for 12 straight months at the same rate as in September, it would total 14.8 percent over that one-year period.

Transportation costs rose 1.2 percent, the biggest jump since February, with used car prices climbing sharply for the fourth straight month.

Energy costs rose moderately, with gasoline prices climbing 0.6 percent in their first increase since March. Fuel oil, coal and bottled gas prices fell 0.2 percent, but piped gas and electricity costs rose 1 percent.

Prices rose 0.9 percent for medical care, 0.6 percent for clothing and 0.8 percent for entertainment, the report said.

All of the figures are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

Before seasonal adjustment, the Consumer Price Index rose to 279.3, meaning goods that cost $10 in 1967 would have cost $27.93 last month.

Housing costs have now risen 1 percent or more each month since May, giving the overall index a bigger boost than many critics say is realistic.

They contend the housing component of the index overstates the real inflation rate because sharp rises in house prices include investment gains. Also, they say, a rapid rise in home loan rates results in large increases in the index even though relatively few people actually are buying houses at those rates.

The annual inflation rate so far this year is still well below last year's 12.4 percent. Most private economists still predict that this year's total inflation will be 10 percent or less.

Sen. George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, also would like to extend daylight-saving time for an extra week at this time of year to include Halloween.

That's the time, he says, when youngsters are on the street now after dark with its attendant hazards.

With major league baseball's split season and extra playoffs, this may be the first time in years that standard time will be in force during a World Series.

Daylight-saving time, in use during World War I and World War II, was not adopted with near uniformity for Americans until 1966. It was established then by Congress, with states having the option not to participate.

Although still controversial in some parts, there's nothing new about the notion of resetting the clocks to extend daylight into the evening.

Ben Franklin first suggested moving the clocks ahead in summer. Even 200 years ago, the way he figured it, it was a good idea to save a few candles.

Mitchell County jury awards $250,000 in oil field death

COLORADO CITY (SC) — After some seven hours of deliberations Wednesday, a 32nd District Court jury in Mitchell County has awarded damages of $250,000 to a widow and her child.

The plaintiffs in the suit, Mrs. Harriet Conner and her son, had asked for $1 million in the death of the husband and father, Bob, who was burned to death Nov. 9, 1977.

Deaths

Ben L. Long

Ben L. Long, 82, died at 4:30 a.m. Friday in a local nursing home after a long illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Rev. W.O. Rucker, pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

He was born April 1, 1899 in Llano County. He married Jimmie Long Oct. 21, 1924 in Big Spring. He had come to Big Spring in 1920 from Llano County and had been a ranch hand for many years and had also operated a motel here for 10 years. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Sterling City.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Robert, of Cisco and Jim, of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. Buddy (Joy) Henderson, of Houston; a brother, Perry Long of Big Spring; three sisters, Elsie Allred, of Stanton, Vera Lee Overby, of Stanton, and Mana Mae Palmer, of Ft. Worth; three grandchildren; two great-grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Shanks

STANTON — Mrs. Minnie Mae Shanks, 70, of Stanton, died at 11:50 a.m. today at Martin County Hospital in Stanton following a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Bellvue Church of Christ in Stanton, with Rick Laing, minister, officiating. Glenn Sargent, Coahoma, will assist.

Interment will be at Clyde City Cemetery, Clyde.

Graveside services will be at 4 p.m. Saturday at Clyde City Cemetery, Clyde, under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

Mrs. Shanks was born Aug. 1, 1911 at Crockett. She moved to Stanton 35 years ago from Abilene. She married John Terry Shanks in June of 1940 at Abilene. She and her husband owned and operated Stanton Hardware and Feed Store from 1940-1979.

She was a member of the Bellvue Church of Christ and the Texas State Teacher's Association.

Survivors include her husband, of Stanton; three sons, Terry David Shanks, Stanton, Tommy Darden Shanks of Wichita Falls and Buddy John Shanks of Huntsville, and two grandsons.

Mrs. Beard

Mrs. Ollie (Granger) Beard, 75, died at 8:05 a.m. Thursday in Snyder Hospital.

Services will be at 4:30 p.m. Friday at Coahoma Church of Christ with Ralph Biestel, of Lubbock, and Glen Sargent, of Coahoma Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Coahoma Cemetery directed by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

She was born Aug. 28, 1906 in Scullen, Okla. She had lived in Snyder before moving to Coahoma 12 years ago. She was a member of the Coahoma Church of Christ.

Survivors include a daughter, Janie Pherigo, of Coahoma; a son, Bob Beard of Ira; a sister, Mrs. Earl (Gladys) Smith, of Snyder; 10 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Medardo Segura

Medardo Segura Jr., 43, died at 5:10 a.m. this morning in a local hospital after a two year illness.

Services are pending with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He was born Oct. 25, 1937. He was a disabled veteran having served in the Army. He was a retired farm laborer. He was a member of the Catholic faith.

Survivors include his wife, Irene of Big Spring; one son, Francisco Vega, of Big Spring; two daughters, Estrella Vega of Big Spring and Arlene Morales of Morton; five step-sons, Mike, Tony, Carlos, Ruben, Jessie and Angel Vega, all of Big Spring; his father, Merdardo Segura Sr., of Reno, Okla.; two brothers, Rocky Segura of Sierra Vista, Ariz., and Basilio Segura of El Paso; eight sisters, Marcella Riveria, Irene Urias, both of Portales, N.M., Cecilia Gonzalez of Garland, Connie Calderon and Rosalinda Martinez, both of Phoenix, Ariz., Florida Franco of Sierra Vista, Ariz., Liada Lujan of Van Horn and Linda Steen, of Reno, Okla. and one granddaughter.

For the record

The poems which appeared on page two of The Herald Thursday were written by George Taylor.

At the end of a story about Taylor in yesterday's front page, a line explaining the poems were continued on another page was accidentally knocked from the proof sheet.

"In Your Hands," "Dawn," and "Many Moods Music" are three of many poems Taylor has written.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts snow and rain Saturday for Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. Rain is forecast for the Atlantic coast of the Carolinas.

Cold front moves off Texas coast

By The Associated Press

A cold front that brought a touch of winter-like temperatures to most of the state moved off the Texas coast into the Gulf of Mexico early today.

Temperatures dropped into the 30s in the Panhandle early today and into the 40s and 50s over most of the rest of the state. Readings remained in the lower 60s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The front brought some isolated showers, thunderstorms and light rain and fog to the Texas coast as it moved out of the state during the pre-dawn hours.

Forecasts called for rain and a few showers near the coast today and for clearing skies and cool to mild temperatures statewide. Highs were to be in the 50s and 60s except in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas where readings were to be in the 70s.

Cloudy skies were reported over most of the state early today with the only clear skies reported in northwest portions of North Central Texas and the western half of the South Plains.

WEATHER FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Fair north, partly cloudy south through tonight. Sunny most sections Saturday. Cold again tonight and a little warmer Saturday. Highs near 50 north to lower 60s south, upper 70s south west. Lows mid 30s north to lower 50s southwest. Highs Saturday upper 50s north to lower 70s south and lower 80s southwest.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy with a warming trend. Lows 30s north to near 50 extreme south. Highs Sunday 40s north to near 60 south warming to 70s north to 80s south Tuesday.

Reagan offers agricultural task forces

CANCUN, Mexico (AP) — President Reagan, in a new initiative aimed at easing chronic food shortages in poor countries, is offering to send U.S. agricultural task forces to any country willing to receive them.

Reagan's offer to help countries improve their food production, made during Thursday's opening session of the 22-nation North-South summit, accompanied his conditional approval of negotiations aimed at narrowing the gap between the world's richest and poorest nations.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan told reporters late Thursday that there are 400 million people in the world — almost 10 percent of the global population — who are "at or near the starvation level." Other experts say the figure is much higher.

The task force concept, he said, is designed to educate farmers in low-income countries and would be carried out by volunteers from farm companies and agricultural colleges as well as farmers themselves.

White House chief of staff James A. Baker III, who also briefed reporters, said today's final session of the summit would be devoted to such issues as trade, finance and investment. He said Reagan planned to offer additional new initiatives in these areas.

During Thursday's session, Reagan essentially restated policies toward Third World countries that he and other administration officials had been outlining for the past month.

Global economic problems will not be resolved by "flashy new gimmicks" but rather by emphasis on "substantive fundamentals with a track record of success," Reagan said.

The key ingredients to prosperity, he noted, are "political freedom and economic opportunity."

For the first time since his arrival in this resort, Reagan indicated that his administration might take part in global negotiations. But he said the talks must be based on "four essential understandings."

"If these understandings are accepted, then the U.S. would be willing to engage in a new preparatory process to see what may be achieved," Reagan said, suggesting that representatives of the 22 nations confer informally in the future about the process.

Sweden's undersecretary for economic affairs, Hans Blix, called the Reagan statement "a flickering green light."

France's minister for development and cooperation, Jean-Pierre Cot, called it "positive because it gives leeway to other world leaders to pursue the issue."

Kabota Syozo, a Japanese foreign ministry official, termed Reagan's stand "very positive."

Many delegations had indicated that the success or failure of the summit would hinge on American willingness to enter into global negotiations at the U.N. General Assembly.

Poor nations, in particular, have contended that decisive action must be taken to give them greater access to capital and technology and to improve the terms of global trade. They maintain that this can be accomplished only through a fundamental restructuring of the international economic system.

The administration has rejected this approach, and Reagan, in his speech, said the United States would enter into such negotiations only under tightly controlled circumstances.

He outlined the following conditions:

—The talks should be oriented toward specific areas including liberalizing trade regulations, energy and food development and improving the investment climate.

—The talks should not seek to create new international institutions but should recognize the "competence, functions and powers" of existing international agencies.

—They should be aimed at achieving greater international economic growth that would benefit all while taking into account domestic economic policies.

—They should be held in a cooperative atmosphere, "rather than one in which views become polarized and chances for agreement are needlessly sacrificed."

But Reagan, who spoke privately to the delegates and then released a text of his remarks, used the term "global negotiations" only in the context of a quotation from a communique that ended a conference of the seven major industrial democracies last July in Ottawa.

Educators hear attorney at workshop in C-City

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Some three dozen educators from area school districts were on hand Wednesday to attend a workshop in Colorado City conducted by Attorney Donald G. Henslee of Austin.

Henslee discussed Public Law 94-142, which deals with special education students, the handicapped, suspensions, and Senate Bill 341, dealing with teachers' contracts.

Educators were on hand for the workshop from Snyder, Highland, Lorraine, Ira, Westbrook, Sweetwater, Blackwell, Roscoe, Hermleigh, Colorado City, and the West Central Education Cooperative in Sweetwater.

Appeal blocks PATCO ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers' Organization, the first federal union to be stripped by the government of its bargaining power, is getting at least a temporary reprieve from a federal appeals court.

The Federal Labor Relations Authority voted 2-1 Thursday to decertify PATCO, declaring that the union had forfeited its right to exist by "willfully and intentionally" calling an illegal strike last August.

Hours later, the U.S. Court of Appeals temporarily blocked the ruling "until it can get a response from the government" to PATCO's appeal, said Robert Bonner, deputy clerk of the court. The response is due Monday.

Richard Leighton, PATCO's general counsel, said the union would appeal the decision all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary.

But the Reagan Administration, which fired 11,500 controllers after they struck Aug. 3 in a contract dispute with the Federal Aviation Administration, claimed victory.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis called the decision "sound and responsible" and said it "allows us to focus full attention on rebuilding the system and accommodating the needs of those controllers who stayed on the job."

At no time in U.S. labor history — since President Grover Cleveland sent federal troops to Chicago and busted the American Railway Union in the 1894 Pullman strike — had any administration acted so forcefully against a labor union.

Despite recent speculation that the administration might ease its no-amnesty position after the decertification ruling, Lewis and presidential counselor Edwin Meese III vowed that none of the striking controllers would be rehired.

In the car on the way home from church, a little boy excitedly told his mother what he had learned in Sunday School. The lesson was about how Moses got the Israelites out of Egypt.

"How did he do it?" the mother asked.

"Very simple," the youngster replied. "Moses hired some bridge experts, and they built a bridge clear across the Red Sea."

"That's hard to believe," the mother laughingly enthused.

"But, Mom," the little boy insisted, "if I told you what they really taught me, you'd never believe me!"

What's your attitude toward the impossibilities you face? Does every solution seem ridiculous? Then you need to develop the attitude that with God all things are possible. The attitude of faith can turn your mountainous problem into a beautiful opportunity!

Clean air and common sense

Soon Congress will resume the battle over clean air, with auto emission standards the key issue.

On one side will be the odd alliance between the environmental extremists and the makers of auto pollution equipment. Against them, predictably, is the U.S. auto industry.

With 1970 as the base year, U.S. automakers have succeeded in reducing exhaust pipe pollutants by something like 90 percent. Under current law, emission standards will continue to be tightened to reduce emission pollution a few more percentage points.

THE AUTOMAKERS say they have the technology to comply but are asking a question that should seriously be considered by both Congress and the American people: is the extra expense worth the few added percentage points?

For example, Ford Motor Co. estimates the 90 percent reduction in emissions has been achieved at a current cost to consumers of $500 per auto. Gaining the few extra percentage points would cost another $300 per vehicle.

Ford and the other automakers contend the emissions battle and air quality have been substantially won, and that as autos older than 1974 begin passing from the highways the overall pollution will continue to fall.

Therefore, they see no reason to force the rigid controls set out in the current act. Why, for example, should all U.S. vehicles beginning in 1984 be designed to meet emission standards for mile-high Denver?

BY HOLDING the standards at the 1980 level, automakers contend they can eliminate a lot of the power-robbing, fuel-eating equipment under the hood of present vehicles because of advances in electronic control of fuel mixtures and achieve not only a reduction in initial cost but greater fuel efficiency and better performance.

Yet environmentalists will portray this as a "roll back" in emission standards, as an abandonment of the commitment to clean air.

It is nothing of the kind. It is an attempt to get Congress to re-evaluate the clean air law in the light of common sense.

U.S.-Soviet military facedown

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Locked in secret Pentagon files are the startling details of a Soviet-American facedown over Iran in August 1980 — a confrontation so fraught with risk that it produced rumblings of nuclear reprisals.

The Soviets began building up their forces along the Iranian border in 1980. According to Soviet intelligence cables intercepted by the National Security Agency, the Kremlin anticipated a U.S. military move against Iran in October 1980.

The intercepted cables indicated that as early as July the Soviets had detected preparations by the United States for military action in Iran. The cables alerted Soviet outposts that then-President Jimmy Carter was planning an "October coup" in Iran and warned that the Soviet Union would have to meet force with force.

As a show of strength, the Kremlin bolstered its military forces on the Iranian border and put them through some ominous exercises. These were described by our Joint Chiefs of Staff in a top-secret report:

"In August 1980, an unusually long and complex General Staff controlled post exercise featuring a mock national Soviet invasion of Iran was held in the transborder area. A complex, theater-level command, control, and communications system was deployed and tested; contingency plans were developed, evaluated and updated; and high-level commanders and staffs rehearsed roles in an invasion scenario."

EVIDENTLY, THIS WAS intended as a warning to Carter to abandon his "October coup" — a term that kept recurring in the Soviet cables to describe the expected U.S. action in Iran.

Carter had taken the precaution of asking the Defense Intelligence Agency to "study and report on possible Soviet military reactions to various scenarios in which the United States forces have invaded Iran." The DIA concluded that the Soviets would intervene.

The DIA warning and the menacing Soviet maneuvers apparently persuaded Carter to give up the idea of a military operation against Iran. He called upon the Joint Chiefs, however, to prepare various military options in case the Soviets carried out their own invasion of Iran.

One ominous proposal, called the "limited strategic option," would have authorized the commander of the Rapid Deployment Force to use 19 nuclear bombs delivered by B-52 bombers against invading Russians. But the idea of limited nuclear warfare confined to Iran, critics warned, was a dream that could turn into a nightmare.

Even as the Soviet juggernaut was staging its mock invasion of Iran, I reported on Aug. 18, 1980, that Carter was preparing to attack Iran. "The ostensible purpose," I wrote, "is to rescue the hostages, but the operation would also exact military retribution."

The question of publishing this classified material was the thornier because it dealt with military operations still in preparation. But I hoped to restrain Carter, whose course, I warned, "could become the opening skirmish of World War III."

My associate Dale Van Atta learned that the National Security Agency had picked up intercepts that dealt with a massive Soviet build-up on the Iranian border. I reported on Sept. 22 that Russia had "at least 23 divisions in position to move into Iran... What has alarmed U.S. analysts more than the quantity of the Soviet buildup near Iran is the quality of the forces arrayed there."

The White House denied my reports. CIA spokesmen accused me of printing stories that were too authentic. But the important thing was that the incendiary action was canceled, a dangerous confrontation was avoided and the American hostages eventually were returned.

Footnote: My report in August 1980 that President Jimmy Carter was preparing for military action in Iran brought emphatic, angry denials from the White House. The secret documents, quoted above, should settle who was telling the truth.

After the hostages were safely home, veteran investigative reporter Richard T. Sale spent several weeks checking back into the story. Let me add his conclusion: "Even as Anderson wrote, secret military rehearsals for the second mission had been taking place in the deserts of Utah, California, Texas and New Mexico, while other units practiced in places like Fort Bragg, N.C., Fort Benning, Ga., and the Special Operations Wing at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla."

"Sources claim that U.S. forces were already in position in Egypt and Israel, and the countries from which the second mission was to have been staged."

WATCH ON WASTE: Production of the B-52 bomber ended in November 1962, but the contractor, Boeing, is still storing thousands of tools used on the B-52 assembly lines — and billing the government for storage fees. Most of the 7,195 tools are obsolete and should have been disposed of. Instead, the taxpayers shell out more than $77,000 a year in storage charges.

Backwards strategy

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — Unrelenting palaver about MX missiles, B-1 bombers, AWACS surveillance planes and other military hardware denotes a pernicious anomaly. For logically the country should debate foreign policy and leave the choice of appropriate weapons to experts.

Instead the country debates weapons choices, which in turn drive foreign policy. Common sense is thus stood on its head. How come?

The nature of modern weapons provides the state of an answer. New systems cost billions of dollars and take years to develop. Along the way, interested parties of formidable power — the uniformed services, the defense contractors and the regional lobbies — line up around a particular system. Thus weapons develop a life of their own complete with portable debate. It becomes increasingly hard to integrate weapons systems into general foreign policy objectives.

JIMMY CARTER complicated the task even more. He came to office asserting and believing the anti-defense views engendered by the Vietnam war. Even when Secretary of Defense Harold Brown turned the administration around on defense spending, the president maintained the soft-line rhetoric. Only after the invasion of Afghanistan did Carter become an explicit advocate of greater military strength.

During much of that period, the U.S. sustained miserable setbacks abroad. The Russians, or their proxies, expanded influence in Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Shah of Iran went down without Carter lifting a finger, and the affair of the hostages made American impotence dramatically visible. Thus the legacy of the Carter administration was a well-nigh universal feeling that the U.S. had to beef up defenses across the board.

The Reagan administration has encouraged that perception. During the campaign, Reagan himself claimed the country had lost the "margin of safety" in defense. In office, the President and his chief aides have stressed the need to repair strategic deficiencies. They have talked in the most alarming terms of the Soviet military buildup. But they have never assessed it, region by region, against American and allied strength. Nor has the administration enunciated a general foreign policy, or explained how weapons choices serve that policy.

The package of strategic decisions announced by the President on Oct. 2 cried out for such an explanation. Reagan decided to go forward with three systems — the B-1 bomber, the Stealth bomber and a new missile for the Trident submarine — that will, at best, come on stream in 1986. He also decided to go forward with the MX missile — but not in a deceptive-basing mode that would render it extremely hard to wipe out. Instead he is relying on research that may make it possible to put the MX aloft or to protect it with anti-ballistic missile missiles. Until those are developed, he will keep the MX in old holes, which he hopes to protect with reinforced concrete.

SINCE THE MX decision increases vulnerability for the time being, and since the other weapons will not become operative for years, there are hard questions to be asked about how strategic insufficiency is being made up. But at the time of the announcement, Reagan himself took only a few questions and then danced away. No competent military man has been surfaced to explain the choices. There was, to be sure, the White House briefing with Secretary Weinberger and Edwin Meese, the President's counselor. One journalist asked for the foreign policy background of the weapons decision.

Meese replied: "It's based upon Ronald Reagan's decision."

Weinberger said: "It's based upon the decision of the man elected to make decisions."

Some optimists see in that kind of double talk a hidden scheme whereby the administration maintains its hard-line rhetoric while moving stealthily toward arms control. I hope so. But it is at least as plausible to believe that the President doesn't know why he's doing what he's doing, and that Meese and Weinberger don't know either. Moreover, there is a real danger that weapons now under research — for example, an anti-missile missile — will actually work to sabotage arms control.

In any case, it would be easy enough to settle doubts. The President can lay out in detail his basic foreign policy and its relation to weapons decisions. In that way, if he really knows what he's doing he can let the rest of us in on the secret.

Around the rim Reely dull affair

Bill Elder

They're filming a movie in Midland — and the folks over there are excited. Understandably.

In Los Angeles, where a hefty proportion of movies and TV shows are filmed, people are accustomed to the sight of actors and actresses and bright lights and cameras. The sight of a film crew working "on location" down at the corner store raises about as much excitement in L.A. as does the sight of a patiently bobbing pump in the West Texas oil patch. Understandably.

I have a hunch Midland will tire of its "Hollywoodization" quickly, if it hasn't already.

You see, making movies really is a dull affair.

I LIVED FOR TWO years in the Celluloid City and got to see several film crews at work. It didn't make me want to rush over to Central Casting with my resume, that's for sure.

I remember watching a crew shut off an alley in Venice one night and hang sprinklers up and down the alley to create a rainy night. (Waiting for a real rainy night to roll across L.A. would have made a mess of their filming schedule, so they had to fake it.)

The scene they were filming called for an actor to drive up the rainy, dimly-lit alley, stop and get out of his car. Simple, eh?

Not quite. I think it was around the tenth take that I left and went back to my apartment a few blocks away. Somehow, watching a car screech to a halt in a wet alley didn't seem as much fun as waiting around for the movie to be made and seeing the scene in its final form. It probably wasn't more than a 10-second scene, and they spent at least an hour standing in the fake rain to get that 10 seconds just the way the director wanted. An hour to film 10 seconds. And from what I observed, that's pretty much par for the course in the movie business.

I WATCHED the pretty Marilyn-Monroe lookalike who starred in the recent movie "Fade to Black" get off a motorcycle and say "thank-you" about a dozen times before I grew bored and walked away from the set.

I watched James Garner walk through a door and furrow his brow over and over again.

I watched Mac Davis drive up and hop out of a car and look quizzically at a patch of blue sky over and over again.

I watched Barbra Streisand walk through a restaurant — but she only had to do it once. A testament to Streisand's professionalism and perfection? Nope. She wasn't filming a movie when she walked by. It was real life.

What a relief it must be for actors and actresses to get off-camera, so when they want to do something like blow their nose they don't have to do it 20 times until some nit-picking, implacable director finally yells, "Cut!"

It's an exercise in exasperation making a movie. After enough streets are blocked off, enough electricity is sapped for the klieg lights and enough non-star actors and actresses are shown off to the public, Midlanders might decide being near the set of "Waltz Across Texas" just isn't worth the trouble.

They'll go home and wait for the day when the film finally opens at their neighborhood theater, then they'll go watch the movie and say, "Wait a minute. They took all afternoon just to film this lady winking? Boy, I'm glad I didn't hang around and watch."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: There seem to be so many problems in the world, especially for a young person like myself. What do you think the future has in store for young people. — J.K.

DEAR J.K.: Yes, it is easy to get discouraged as we read the headlines every day. There are many frightening things in this generation, and many of them did not exist 30 or 40 years ago. Jesus spoke of days in which "Men will faint from terror, apprehensive of what is coming on the world" (Luke 21:26), and you cannot help but wonder if we are rapidly approaching those days.

But there is another side to this. The Christian knows that God is ultimately in control of this universe, and some day all the forces of evil which are in rebellion against him will be judged and cast away.

If you know Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior, you know that your future is in God's hands, and all you have to do is trust him and follow him. That does not mean we will avoid suffering or problems which may come in our world.

But Jesus said, "In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world" (John 16:33). "Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer; behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days; be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life" (Revelation 2:10).

Let me remind you too that some of God's greatest servants have been young people. Think of Gideon, for example. (You can read of him in the book of Judges, beginning in chapter 6.) He was young when God called him to lead the people of God against a vast enemy. But Gideon trusted God and the enemy was defeated. He had an impact of his own time, and God wants to use you as well to make an impact for Christ on this generation.

Commit your future to Christ. Let him guide you. And then seek to be faithful each day right where you are. God does not usually show us too much of the future. He asks us to be faithful right now, so that when the future comes we will be ready for it because we have already learned to serve Christ.

Body's cortisone production can be off

Dr. Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told my body makes too much cortisone. The report had the words "Cushing's syndrome." Where exactly in the body is cortisone made? I was examined because I had been complaining of unwanted facial hair. Is Cushing's contagious? Is it ever crippling or fatal? — Mrs. R.B.

Cortisone is a hormone made in the adrenal glands, two glands located right above the kidneys. The syndrome resulting from overproduction (Cushing's) includes fatness around the trunk of the body (arms and legs remain thin), elevated blood pressure and inordinate facial hair. Stretch marks appear, there is easy bruising and the face takes on a moon-like appearance. Does all this sound familiar to you?

This is not contagious and is correctible mainly through surgery to remove hormone-producing gland tissue. Cushing's is neither crippling nor fatal once diagnosed and treated.

The extra cortisone production is caused by a sudden spurt of gland growth or by a tumor of the glands. Or a pituitary gland disorder can cause it. The pituitary, the so-called "master gland" attached to the brain, makes another hormone that regulates cortisone production by the adrenals. If too much of that messenger hormone is made, too much cortisone is produced and Cushing's results.

Some people develop Cushing's from taking too much cortisone medically for other illness. An example is lupus, where in certain instances large doses of the hormone must be given. The effects in such cases represent an unpleasantness that has to be put up with until the lupus is overpowered.

When the overproduction or dosage of cortisone is stopped, the signs of Cushing's disappear. The gland caused form of Cushing's usually appears in the third or fourth decades of life.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I once heard of a handy way to find your ideal weight without consulting a weight-height chart. Can you give this formula? — R.S.

For men, allow 105 pounds for the first five feet, then six pounds for each inch over that. Thus, a male who is 5 feet, 10 inches tall ideally should weigh 165 pounds (105 pounds, plus six for each inch over five feet). For a female, allow 100 pounds for the first five feet and five pounds for each additional inch. These weights should apply for persons of average build.

They would be slightly less or more for persons with small or large frames.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am taking my own blood pressure at home. I am all thumbs on my left hand. Is it all right to take my pressure in my left arm so that I can use my right hand instead? — Mrs. O.O.

Certainly.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am pregnant and getting regular checkups. I was surprised to learn that my blood pressure readings have dropped. Is this a sign of problems ahead, although I know that high blood pressure is the usual problem area? I'm confused. — Mrs. P.N.

Blood pressure normally falls and remains lowered until the last part of the pregnancy. Stop worrying.

Dear Abby

Couple's Activities Pall The Second Time Around

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about a problem that may seem trivial to you, but it is threatening to destroy my marriage. My husband does everything in twos. If we go to a restaurant once, we have to go back there a second time even if we don't like the place!

We have two children and own two homes. My husband insists that we attend every movie, ballet, opera and concert twice! Now for the reason I am ready to lose my mind:

Four years ago we took an around-the-world tour. Now my husband wants to do it again! Abby, we can't afford it. This man is driving me crazy, and I have told him that unless he gets professional help I am going to leave him. Am I wrong? Or is he in need of help? He agreed to listen to you. If you print this, no names, please. He owns two businesses.

"J" IN CHICAGO

DEAR J: Your "two-timer" husband has a compulsive neurosis. My psychiatric consultant says it is some kind of "ritual" he's obsessed with, and he should see a therapist who practices behavioral therapy. Consult your local mental health clinic or the American Psychiatric Association for recommendations. (P.S. Better get the names of two doctors.)

DEAR ABBY: Is it fitting and proper for a woman of 64 to caress, rub or stroke the arm of her 34-year-old son while in the company of other people at a gathering?

What possible reason would she have for doing this? I told her I thought it was in poor taste, then she said I had funny ideas. What do you think?

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: A mother (of any age) who rubs, strokes or caresses the arm of her son either alone or in the company of others probably does so unconsciously out of warm feelings and affection. I see nothing improper about it. And if you do, I too think you have "funny" ideas.

DEAR ABBY: The other evening at a large and rather formal dinner party, I was amazed (to say the least) when, just before dessert was served, the hostess passed out toothpicks to each guest. It seems her husband (a dentist) has strong feelings about oral hygiene.

Care to comment?

GERT IN E. GREENBUSH

DEAR GERT: I'm amazed that a dentist would pass out toothpicks in his home. Picking one's teeth is a dangerous practice. A trip to the washroom is in order. Brushing is fine, and flossing is even better. But toothpicks? No! And never at the table.

DEAR ABBY: In today's paper there was another story about a child who was lost in the mountains while camping with her family. Why does this tragedy have to occur year after year?

I would like to pass on a suggestion that we have used in years gone by because we, too, were a camping family. Each of us was equipped with a police whistle, which we wore around our necks. If one of us lost his direction or became separated from the others, he could just give a long toot to let us know where to look for him. Children being children, there was a lot of miscellaneous tooting at first, but after the novelty wore off, our whistles became as important to our camping trips as sleeping bags.

Abby, please pass this on to your camping readers.

OLD TOOTER

DEAR TOOTER: Hear, hear, all campers! Carry whistles and be prepared to give a toot!

Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (35 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

Convention report presented

Grace Kinney and Ann Drake reported on the national convention of Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs at the local club's meeting Monday. The noon meeting took place at the downtown Cosden building with Mrs. Venita Blasingame, vice president, presiding.

The convention took place at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, Calif., with approximately 1200 delegates representing 113 clubs. Theme for the event was "Focus on Education" and topics included geothermal energy, offshore drilling and the total oil picture in California. Lurline W. Andrus, American Petroleum Institute, Washington, D.C. was the keynote speaker. Mary Ann Brimberry of Perry Gas Companies, Midland, was among the new officers elected. She will be Region V director.

Ms. Kinney also reported on Slurrisweet, a new process for treating sour gas. The process was developed by Sivalis, Inc., Odessa, and a future field trip to the plant was discussed.

Ms. Kinney, Oleta Barnett and Billie Smith were appointed to select a slate of officers for the coming year. Their report will be presented at the November meeting.

Lees announce daughters birth

Mr and Mrs. Earl Ray Lee, 538 Westover, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Brandy Rae, Oct. 13 at Malone Hogan Hospital. The infant arrived at 6:44 p.m. weighing 7 pounds 9 ounces and measuring 20 inches long.

Brandy's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Willard Shipley, San Angelo, and W. Dub Coates, Austin. Paternal grandparents are Della C. Lee, Corpus Christi, and the late Ernest F. Lee.

BS Symphony seeks funds for concerts

The Big Spring Symphony Association is in the midst of a month-long campaign to raise funds for an annual series of concerts by the Midland-Odessa Symphony, according to Jerry Worthy, president of the Association. Assisting Worthy in the campaign are Kelly Draper, vice president; Rick Hamby, chairman of the campaign; and volunteers Debbie Hamby and Linda Ainsworth.

"We know ticket sales can never cover the cost of bringing the Midland-Odessa Symphony to Big Spring so we are attempting to raise money through private individuals and businessmen. We need to raise in excess of $20,000 to bring four concerts to the Big Spring people," Worthy said.

Worthy said the $20,000 was very reasonable when considering the Midland-Odessa Symphony needs $311,000 a year to maintain the symphony.

"We feel fortunate the symphony is willing to come and perform for our community. The symphony makes Big Spring a more complete city and we hope people will continue to help us bring this attractive feature to the city," Worthy said.

Worthy said Big Spring can be proud because it has helped the Midland-Odessa Symphony to prosper and become a dynamic part of West Texas.

Worthy said the next concert is slated for Nov. 5 featuring an evening of Spanish music with Luis Izquierado. He said a

Club members to provide floral arrangements for BSSH chapel

Members of the Rosebud Garden Club volunteered to furnish floral arrangements for the chapel of Big Spring State Hospital at their meeting Monday. The meeting took place in the home of Jane Thomas with Edna Womack presiding.

Mrs. Womack will furnish the Thanksgiving arrangement and Mrs. Thomas the Christmas arrangement.

The Westside Community Center will be the site of this year's club beautification project. Mrs. Thomas will be chairman of the project.

Mrs. Thomas, who recently returned from a trip to the Holy Land, projected slides and gave an account of the area and its people. Mining of the Dead Sea for its minerals, a solar energy system, irrigation and cultivation of crops were among the major points of the program.

The club recently sponsored a high school environmental speech contest and a middle school essay contest. Mrs. Pauline Talton, Earl Archer and Don Richardson were judges. Winners of the high school contest are Johnny Hatch, first place; Brint Ryan, second place; Speight Grimes, third place; Alvin Roberts, fourth place; and Clark Johnson, fifth place.

Tracy Butler won the ecology essay contest.

The club has ordered books on the subject of ecology and plans to donate them to the high school scrapbook department. Nancy Campbell was named scrapbook historian.

The next club meeting will be at 10 a.m. Nov. 17 at Big Spring Country Club. Leola Edwards will present a program on the cultivation of bromeliads.

FREE HEARING TEST SET FOR BIG SPRING THIS WEEK

Free Electronic Hearing tests will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Office Thursday thru Friday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Sat. 9-1 p.m. A factory-trained hearing aid specialist will be at the Beltone office to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using the current electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown. Audiograms available for your medical records. Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out whether the modern methods of hearing correction can help them hear better.

The free hearing test will be given at the Beltone Hearing Aid Center 404 Johnson, Big Spring, Texas.

Harrelson receives maximum prison term

HOUSTON (AP) — Charles V. Harrelson, a convicted hired killer federal agents say is a prime suspect in the assassination of a federal judge, faces a maximum prison term of 20 years in prison on his conviction in an unrelated gun possession case.

Jurors said they had "no difficulties" in reaching a guilty verdict or assessing the most severe punishment allowed by law Thursday. They found him guilty after an hour and 13 minutes of deliberations and took only 15 minutes more to decide punishment — 20 years and a $10,000 fine.

A defense lawyer said he was "severely disappointed" by the verdict, and prosecutors said they were not through with Harrelson, who still faces several charges.

"I'm going to try the bond-jumping case next and ask the judge to stack the time," said Assistant District Attorney Ted Wilson, referring to a method of sentencing in which additional prison terms are served consecutively.

The bond-jumping case is based on Harrelson's failure to show up for his original July 7, 1980, trial date on the gun possession charges.

During the punishment phase of the four-day trial that ended Thursday, prosecutor Bill Eggleston told the jury Harrelson was "a man who sat on that witness stand and lied to you with the cool, cold demeanor of a man who has killed."

Harrelson, 43, who was convicted of the 1968 execution-style murder-for-hire of a grain dealer near McAllen, was charged with illegal possession of guns by a felon after his arrest here Feb. 1, 1980.

He denied any knowledge of the five guns police said they found in his car, testifying that he had never seen them until after he had been forced out of his car and handcuffed on the day of his arrest.

Officers said they found two .357 Magnum pistols, a .38-caliber Colt revolver, a 12-gauge pump shotgun and a .300 Magnum Weatherby rifle in his car.

"The one thing we didn't find out in this trial, and I guess we'll never know, is where he was going when he was arrested," said Wilson.

Defense attorney Don Ervin suggested in closing arguments that his client was framed so federal authorities could hold him while they investigated the May 29, 1979, shooting death of U.S. District Judge John Wood of San Antonio. No charges have been filed in Wood's killing.

Although he never specifically mentioned the Wood case, Ervin said, "The federal government wants this man in jail and they will do anything to get him there."

Wilson scoffed at the notion, saying Harrelson's arrest did not have the earmark of a frame.

"If the government was going to frame him, you'd probably have him coming out of his car with a gun in his hand," Wilson said.

Ervin said he was "severely disappointed" by the verdict. Normally the charge carries a 10-year prison sentence, but the sentence was elevated to the maximum 20 years because Harrelson has a previous gun possession conviction, a 1970 case involving a saw-ed-off shotgun.

"I think it was real important that the jury found out (during the punishment phase) that he has had another firearms conviction," Eggleston said after the sentence.

Jurors deliberated an hour and 13 minutes before returning the guilty verdict Thursday afternoon and then spent only 15 minutes to assess the sentence.

Juror Mark Padgett, a 40-year-old engineer, said the panel agreed on a guilty verdict on its first vote.

The evidence "spoke for itself," said juror Tonya Dornak, 24.

Businessman awarded $2 million libel judgment; appeal planned

DENTON, Texas (AP) — A Dallas Morning News executive said the newspaper would appeal a $2 million libel judgment awarded to a businessman quoted as threatening to "hire somebody to get" a former North Texas State University official.

State District Judge Will C. Boyd ruled Thursday that J. Newton Rayzor be awarded $1 million in punitive damages from A.J. Belo Corp., owner of The Dallas Morning News, and another $1 million in compensatory damages jointly from Belo and reporter Earl Golz. A jury deliberated 13 hours over a 2 1/2-day period before making the libel award on the basis of an Aug. 17, 1979, story. The newspaper had quoted Rayzor as threatening Hermas Miller, former NTSU administrative vice president.

In the suit, Rayzor said his reputation "suffered a severe blow" when the story was printed. The story said Rayzor called Miller on July 21, and quoted Rayzor as having said, "I am going to get your ass. The worm has turned and I'm going to hire somebody to get you."

Rayzor, who was reportedly upset with university administrators over the firing of three vice presidents, denied making the statement quoted. He charged that the story "carries the meaning" that Rayzor "threatened to hire someone to kill" Miller and that such an accusation "carries the most severe censure and disgrace civilized society has to offer."

LORENE MASSEY

Lorene Massey gains Nurse of Month award

Lorene Massey was named the first recipient of the Hospital Nurse of the Month award at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Massey was selected by an election committee as the winner for October. In presenting the award at the regular monthly meeting of the nursing staff recently, Charles A. Weeg, hospital administrator, said "I do not know of anyone who is more deserving of this award than Mrs. Massey."

"Apparently the election committee shares my feelings as Mrs. Massey was selected over a field of very worthy nurses. I congratulate Mrs. Massey and I admire her greatly for her professionalism and her dedication to the safety and well being of those patients entrusted to her care."

Mrs. Massey was born in Locker in San Saba County. She began her nursing career when she entered the school for vocational nursing at Medical Arts Hospital in Big Spring. She graduated from that school in 1956.

Two years later, she became associated with Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital as a member of the nursing staff.

Mrs. Massey and her husband, Leon, reside on the Sterling City Route. They have two children, Faye Boydston, Big Spring, and Vernon Massey, Houston.

NCPAC charges dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commission on Congressional Mailing Standards has unanimously dismissed against House Majority Leader Jim Wright a charge that he violated the congressional franking privilege.

Wright, D-Texas, had been accused of violating the law by mailing 100,000 "political propaganda" pamphlets at government expense.

The charge was dismissed Thursday by the three Republicans and three Democrats on the commission, who said they found no reason to conclude Wright had abused the franking privilege.

Terry Dolan, national chairman of the National Conservative Political Action Committee, had complained that Wright's mailing constituted an "illegal use of taxpayers money and gross abuse" of the franking privilege.

Dolan said by sending the letters first class, Wright "essentially robbed the U.S. Treasury of $18,000 in postal fees."

The Coaches

The People

Steers go for spoiler vs. Lee Rebels tonight

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

MIDLAND — There will be numerous coaching similarities tonight when the Big Spring Steers travel to meet the Midland Lee Rebels, but on paper that looks to be all that is similar between these two District 5-AAAAA teams.

Former Big Spring Steer Coach Spike Dykes now heads the Lee program. After leaving Big Spring for Alice, Dykes served as an assistant at the University of Texas, University of New Mexico and Mississippi State before returning to head the Rebel program.

Steer Coach Ralph Harris got his first coaching job under Dykes in Big Spring, staying at Rannels JHS one year before embarking on a successful stint at both Dublin and Sealy.

Other similarities include that Lee aides Jack Tyrten, Gary Griffin and Van Tom Whately all either played or coached at one time in Big Spring. And Steer assistant Bob Purser once was an aide under Whately, a former BSHS quarterback, at Granbury.

There are other "family" links, but there is no doubt they will be forgotten when the two teams play tonight.

Lee is 5-1 and 2-1 in the 5-AAAAA chase, winning their first five games before running into an aroused Abilene Cooper crew last week.

The Steers won two of three in non-district, but have fallen in all three of their 5-AAAAA games. Two of those losses were misleading, however, as the Bovines led Abilene for most of the game before losing in the final 14 seconds, and played defending state champion Odessa Permian on even terms before bowing last week.

It was an impressive performance for the Steers against unbeaten Permian, as BSHS was playing without their talented running back-cornback Bobby Earl Williams.

"I'm sure they're scared to death that we're going to come over there and play out of our minds," Coach Harris said yesterday in his office. "But the truth of the matter is that if we don't play well early, we might get blown out."

"They lost to a tough Cooper team last week and play Permian next week, but I really don't think they'll overlook us. Coach Dykes has been around too long to allow that to happen," Harris noted.

And while tonight's game is nothing but a pride match for the Steers, it is especially important for the Lee Rebels. Lee, with only one 5-AAAAA loss, is still very much in the race. Of course, they would have to win the rest of their games and hope that Permian can knock off Cooper tonight.

Lee was cruising along with a perfect record and 5-AAAAA's top defense before Cooper manhandled them 23-7. Harris explained briefly how Cooper managed such a whopping win.

"Lee's defense usually does a good job of moving to stop the other team's strength," explained Harris. "They overshifted somewhat toward Cooper's strong side, which Cooper usually runs toward, and they (Cooper) used their two big 220-pound backs to come back the other way off tackle and just found them. Cooper's big linemen blew Lee's two defensive tackles back into their linebacker's laps. But Cooper can do that to people, and most everyone else can't."

Those Lee linebackers drew the praise of Harris, especially outside backer Van Gravitt, who weighs 217, and middle linebacker Terry Thompson, who tips the scales at 220.

"They are both real fine high school linebackers, and that outside guy (Gravitt) is just a super player," Harris said.

Lee is a veteran team, as the entire defense and most of the offense are seniors. But seven of the starters are two-way players.

Lee's biggest offensive threat is running back Calvin Riggs, a 200-pounder who was All-District a year ago. He controls the clock on many occasions, resting the Lee defense.

But Harris, while recognizing that Riggs is "the man they go to in the clutch," said a few of the Rebel speedsters are what scares him the most.

Halfback Troy Barber and his sub, Darren Williams, both have after burner speed, something Lee has used to return three kickoff and three punts to paydirt this year.

"They're really hurt people with their kicking game, but Spike's always been a top notch coach in the kicking game. I think he headed Darrell Royal's kicking game when he was at the University of Texas," Harris commented.

The Steers are far from being full speed, as there are still numerous players suffering from injuries. But most will play, as only two-way starters Williams and Greg Scarbro are definitely out. And those two could be gone for the year.

To complicate things, Williams' sub, Danny Stephen, suffered an injury in practice this week and is expected to only start at linebacker, if that. George Bancroft, the regular middle linebacker, will start tonight at the fullback position and make his debut as a two-way performer.

"We've had so many injuries this year," Harris said shaking his head. "And to complicate matters, we didn't have the large number of bodies to begin with. But I'm real proud of the way the coaching staff and the players have sucked it up and kept after it. We just have to keep doing that."

AREA HIGH SCHOOL ROUNDUP

Stanton, Plains in 5-AA biggie

STANTON — The biggest game in District 5 AA thus far is on tap tonight when the Plains Cowboys come to town to meet the Stanton Buffaloes in what promises to be an exciting contest.

Both teams are unbeaten in 5-AA action, with Plains unbeaten on the year. The Cowboys are 2-0 in district and 6-0 on the season, while Stanton is 3-0 in the league race and 5-2 on the year.

Last year, these two teams met, but the roles were reversed. While Stanton was unbeaten in both league action and for the season, Plains was unbeaten in district play but had suffered two pre-season setbacks. But when the dust cleared, the two teams had played to a 0-0 tie, and had tied in penalties. But a Plains first down in the final seconds gave the Cowboys what proved to be the 5-AA title.

Stanton Coach Steve Park sees Plains as even tougher than last year. "They are real good overall, averaging over 400 yards per game of territory. They execute the play very well, and their quarterback (James McElroy) is returning All District and does an outstanding job," Park said.

The two teams have one common opponent, Morton. Plains beat Morton 18-0 while Stanton toppled Morton last week 36-18.

Lamesa hosts tough Lake View

LAMESA — The Lamesa Golden Tons try to be the giant killers and break into the winning column tonight when they host the San Angelo Lake View Chiefs.

Lamesa is winless in seven starts, while Lake View sports a record of 4-2. They are 3-1 in 7-AAAA action, and need a win to stay in the title chase.

New Home, Sands go for rare win

NEW HOME — A pair of teams seeking their initial win in the West Zone race of District 3A clash tonight when the Sands Mustangs meet the New Home Leopards.

New Home has yet to win a game this year, but has tied one in seven starts. Sands is 0-2 in district play and 1-4 on the year.

Grady has played three consecutive rugged six-man footballs, but now has the chance to meet three teams on their own level in their last three games.

Grady in Homecoming affair

GRADY — It's Homecoming for the Grady Wildcats tonight at seven o'clock when they play host to McCaulley, and both the team and the time couldn't come at a better time for Coach Richard Gibson's home team.

Grady has played three consecutive rugged six-man footballs, but now has the chance to meet three teams on their own level in their last three games.

Forsan meets rugged Seagraves

SEAGRAVES — The Forsan Buffaloes, last minute losers to Ropes last Friday, try to regroup and face the always tough Seagraves Eagles tonight in a 5-AA contest.

Forsan lost in the final two minutes last week to Ropes by a 15-14 count, which dropped their record to 3-4. Seagraves brings a mark of 1-1 in league play and 4-2 on the year into the game.

"Seagraves is typical for them," said Forsan Coach Jan East. "They have a big line and a good running back in Daniel Suniga. I feel they're a little weaker than in the past, but they do have a lot of tradition. But I know that we can play with them this year."

Colorado City hosts Clyde

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Wolves, rolling along with a four-game winning streak, play host to a tough Clyde team tonight in a 7-AAA bout.

The Wolves, after losing their first three games, have come back to win their final three non-district games, and then their district opener over Abilene Wylie 26-7 last Friday.

But Clyde is no slouch, bringing a 4-2 mark into their 7-AAA opener. Their only losses have been to Class AAAA Sweetwater and Graham. Clyde's strength is built around 190-pound quarterback Joe Taylor.

Garden City hopes to stay hot

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Beerkats, sitting on top of the West Zone in District 3A, with Wilson, face a big test tonight when the Meadow Mustangs come to town hoping to stay alive in the league race.

The Beerkats of Coach Stu (Worm Eater) Cooper are 7-0 in the West Zone and 5-2 on the year, while Meadow is 1-1 in district and 2-5 on the year. Meadow must win to keep any hopes at the West Zone title.

Garden City took an important 7-6 win over Klondike last weekend, while Meadow was stopping Sands by a score of 12-0.

Klondike goes for league leader

WILSON — Still hoping to get a chance to defend their West Zone title in District 3A, the Klondike Cougars meet Wilson tonight in what is a must contest.

Klondike lost their first West Zone game in over two years last Friday, falling to Garden City 7-6 in a game in which the Cougars controlled everything but the scoreboard. Klondike is 1-1 in West Zone competition and 1-5 on the year.

Wilson is a perfect 2-0 in the league race and 3-0 on the year.

Ailing NY takes leads to LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) —

With third baseman Graig Nettles joining slugger Reggie Jackson and shortstop Bucky Dent on the list of aching, the New York Yankees seem to be fighting a war of attrition in the 1981 World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Nettles, defensive hero of New York's first game victory, is nursing a sprained left thumb that could keep him on the bench for tonight's third game of the Series.

Jackson, the Yankees' celebrated "Mr. October," missed the first two games because of a muscle strain in his left calf. Dent, hero of the 1978 Series, will not play in this Series because of an hand injury.

Nettles' injury jolted the Yankee camp on the eve of Game Three. The third baseman said he was hurt diving for a hit by Bill Russell in the sixth inning of Wednesday night's game.

Jackson has been available for pinch hitting but has been unused in the first two games. He worked out Thursday, jogging, stretching, shagging fly balls and taking batting practice. But Manager Bob Lemon said he would not play the slugger unless he was 100 percent healthy.

"Otherwise, you risk losing him completely for the remainder of the Series," Lemon said.

Larry Milbourne has filled in for Dent for the last six weeks and was one of the heroes in New York's 3-0 victory in Game Two. That triumph put the Dodgers in a deep hole, down 0-2 in the best-of-seven series.

Manager Tommy Lasorda, however, remained optimistic that his team could turn things around. He has plenty of evidence that it can be done — and it's firsthand evidence, too.

Lasorda and the Dodgers know it can be done because, just three years ago, they were the victims as the Yankees performed that small-sized miracle.

Los Angeles won the first two games of the 1978 Series here but then the Yankees went home to win three in a row and then returned to LA to take Game Six and the world championship.

Lemon and Lasorda, back on opposite sides of the field again this year, remember.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 24, 1981

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You need to make sure you get the right information from various sources since some persons are likely to be careless in stating facts correctly. Be alert at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to get much done that is personal in nature. Study your surroundings and make long-range plans for improvement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take steps to improve your environment. You are able to have more rapport with loved one. Think logically and act wisely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Let your friends spell out clearly what they desire of you where recreations are concerned and go along with them if feasible.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure you follow through with promises you've made and keep out of trouble. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) This is a good day to engage in new outlets, provided you have studied them well. Make this a most productive day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to handle regular duties more efficiently. Avoid expensive mistakes by being more alert. Put your talents to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show more interest in civic affairs and gain more respect. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take extra time ironing out wrinkles in work at hand. Meet new persons who can help enrich your life in many ways.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal time to engage in favorite hobby with friends. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There are new interests you can look into that could be beneficial in the future. Don't neglect regular chores.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan how to make your routines work more efficiently so that you need not worry so much. Use care in travel.

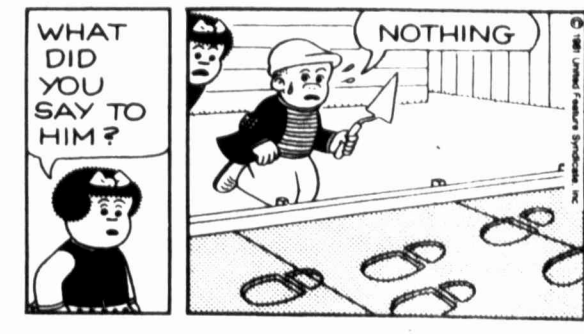

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be sure you study every detail of a new project before going ahead with it. Show more devotion to loved one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very good at solving problems and should have as fine an education as possible in order to make the most of this talent. The pioneer spirit is definitely in this chart. Be sure to give good spiritual training.

Weathervane

Even with a weathervane and with the help of the latest report from the weather bureau, it's certainly presumptuous to make predictions about the weather. The forces which govern nature are so complex and changeable that we can never be sure.

The forces which govern our life are even more complicated and variable. How can we know what the next day may bring — happiness — sorrow — good luck — love — fear? No one knows — until the time comes.

Despite uncertainty, we must prepare for whatever we may have to face. We must learn to take in good stride the uncertainties that life will bring. In other words, we must have FAITH.

Where do we get this faith? We can't buy it, nor can we have it simply for the wanting. We have to earn it — by study, by perseverance, by understanding. Your church stands ready and anxious to help you. Here, toward the House of God, we must turn for those truths which will lend stability to lives that are as uncertain as the changing wind.

 "A People Ready To Share"

Religion added to therapy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — For years, psychoanalyst Alfonso Calabrese had used conventional Freudian techniques in treating his patients, but he detected a disturbing gap. It was overcome, he says, when he began integrating the insights of Christianity. The combination is "much more effective," he says. "It puts purpose into lives. Not only do patients find fuller acceptance of themselves, but they began to relate to others. It's a richer restoration." The addition of the religious dimension, stressing the high, sacred value of every person, to traditional psychiatric methods has grown into an extensive operation echoing across the country. "It's really blossoming," says Calabrese, executive director of the Christian Institute of Psychotherapeutic Studies in Hicksville, N.Y., with its multifaceted work and spreading influence. An ecumenical staff of 16 runs a clinic which treats about 350 patients a week and a training center which teaches a visiting stream of psychologists, psychotherapists and social workers. At first Calabrese had hesitated to come out publicly with his misgivings about the usual Freudian approach and his sensed need for adding religious elements, fearing professional scorn. "I expected to be deluged with opposition," he said in an interview. "But when I came out and others heard about it, my colleagues began looking with interest into what we were doing. What many psychotherapists apparently had once felt in silent isolation has now become a widespread interchange, reflected nationally in the Christian Association for Psychological Studies. Interest in linking the two disciplines has grown "very dramatically" both among Christians and secular professionals, says psychologist-theologian Jay Harold Ellense of Farmington Hills, Mich., the association's executive director. He says the trend has come with current attention to "value orientation" in the sciences and "meaning issues." The association, in its quarterly bulletin and otherwise, treats both psychology and theology as sciences, exploring their relationship. In the last decade, the association has grown fivefold from about 500 scattered pioneers to 2,500, all with advanced degrees, holding annual regional and national conventions. Calabrese, 58, a Roman Catholic, who modified his own professional approach in 1968 after recommitting himself to faith at a 1968 Billy Graham service, said traditional psychotherapy has "bogged down" in mechanisms and is severely lacking. What's left out, Calabrese said, is any affirmation of significance to life. Calabrese said including Christian concepts provides the missing element of ultimate meaning, of love for self and others as being of eternal worth and significance.

Leaders discuss abuse

COLLEGE STATION — "Churches in Texas need to get turned on the problem of child abuse and neglect," a church official said here recently. Speaking at the 36th annual Town and Country Church Conference, Jim Suggs, executive director of the Texas Conference of Churches, outlined the child abuse problem in Texas and asked church leaders and ministers for their help. "Last year some 137,000 children in Texas were served by the Texas Department of Human Resources," he pointed out. "These are verified cases of child abuse or neglect. However, there actually were about 300,000 instances of child abuse and neglect in the state the past year." Suggs noted that about eight percent of all the children in Texas will be abused or neglected this year and that about 100 will die because of that neglect or abuse. "Child abuse and neglect is happening everywhere, including in our own communities," he said. "The problem is that it's been kept in the closet. Child abuse and neglect is a problem of relationships in families. It abounds where love is absent," Suggs added. Another speaker, Bill Blackburn, with the Baptist General Convention of Texas, called for greater emphasis on family ministry. He said the church must be a carer of families, it must be an advocate for families, it must challenge families and the various notions that exist, and it must continue to be the church — sensitive to the spiritual needs of people. "We need to be aware of the dynamics of our own family origin and our present family," Blackburn told some 100 conference participants. "We need to understand the family as a system, and we need to move from a 'crisis' to a 'preventive' orientation in dealing with family problems." Blackburn advocated appointing a family life committee that represents the church. The role of this committee would be to survey the needs of the congregation and community and to plan programs and activities to meet the different interests and populations.

New studies show Mormons have one-third less cancer

The figures were new, but the story was a familiar one: new studies show that Mormons have about one-third less cancer than other people. Results of the studies published recently in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute show that Mormons in Utah — the home of the church's headquarters, and a state that is 70 percent Mormon — have one-third less cancer than those who are not members of that church (The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints). And the reasons? "The most likely reason for lower cancer incidence rates among Mormons is their religious proscription on the use of tobacco, alcohol, coffee and tea and the teaching of strict moral standards regarding premarital and extramarital sexual relationships," the study said. Of course, other factors affect the incidence of cancer — ancestry, geographic location (rural or urban), environment, diet, occupation and personal habits. Members of the church have been practicing a code of health, which they call the "Word of Wisdom" to varying extents since 1833. Independent research shows that, as a group, Mormons are clearly much healthier than the average population. A study published in 1980 showed that Mormons have a cancer mortality that's only 75 percent of the United States average for males and 81 percent for females. The study, published by Dr. James E. Enstrom of the School of Public Health and Jonsson Comprehensive Cancer Center at the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA), showed that Mormons who follow their church's health code were healthier.

Church names Bible winners

Winners in the St. Paul Lutheran Church fair booth ministry were announced recently. There were 1,028 people signed up for Bibles, according to church officials. A King James version of the Bible was given every day. Winners were Linda Lemons, 104 N.W. 4th St., and Tracey Thompson, Sterling City Route. Others were Andrea Munoz, 210 Carey, Bill McRee, 1905 Morrison, Judy Hinshaw, 507 E. 15th, and Lisa Bowen, Box 192, Coahoma. The fair booth was under the supervision of the Mission Board of St. Paul. Among workers were Mrs. Marlene Keyes, Mrs. Mary Lou Taylor and Mrs. Elfa Cantrell.

Ella Chase, Faith to appear here

Ella Chase and Faith from Baytown will appear at the First Assembly of God Church at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Sunday will also be First Assembly of God Church's old fashion Sunday. Ms. Chase will be singing in the morning service at 10:30 a.m. Evening services will be held at Comanche Trail Park at 3 p.m., with supper set at 5 p.m. That afternoon, Miss Chase and the congregation will meet at Comanche Trail Park at 3 p.m. for games, followed at 5 p.m. for supper and 6 p.m. for services.

 Mid-Week Service Wednesday 7:00 p.m.

Question: Are we commanded to be baptized in the Holy Ghost today?
 Answer: Holy Ghost baptism was never a command but a promise (Joel 2:28) (Acts 2:16-21). As promised it was given to those on Pentecost (Acts 2) and Cornelius' household (Acts 10). You and I, rather than striving for some miraculous manifestation of the Holy Ghost; need to surrender our lives in obedience to the Lord's commands, including the command to be baptized in water for the remission of sins.

Bentsen criticizes AWACS deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says he has agreed to meet with President Reagan to discuss the sale of the sophisticated AWACS aircraft to Saudi Arabia. But the Texas Democrat added he sees little chance Reagan will convince him to vote for the proposal.
 The sophisticated AWACS aircraft were offered to Saudi Arabia without the Middle Eastern nation even asking for them "and that was a mistake," Bentsen said Thursday.
 "I believe that if the White House had understood the strong feeling of Congress on this, the offer would not have been made," Bentsen told reporters at his monthly press conference.
 Bentsen is one of about 55 senators reportedly ready to vote against the sale when it comes up for a vote in the Senate next Wednesday.
 The House already has passed a resolution opposing the sale, and a similar vote in the Senate would veto Reagan's proposed action.
 The president has been lobbying senators personally in an effort to win support for the sale, and Bentsen said he has been asked to go to the White House next Tuesday — the day before the vote — to meet with Reagan.
 "Certainly, I'm going," said Bentsen. "I'm always happy to talk to the president."
 But he said he sees no chance the president will persuade him to vote for the AWACS sale without the assurance of joint command by U.S. personnel.
 The offer of Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft apparently was made to Saudi Arabia sometime last year, Bentsen said.
 "My understanding is that originally, the Saudis were not seeking (the AWACS), they were seeking another part of the package. This was something voluntarily offered by the United States, and I think that was a mistake."

 Bentsen said he'd like to be able to support President Reagan on the issue, "and if he can work out some sort of joint command, I'd be delighted to. Short of that, I would not."
 He objects to turning over such sophisticated technology to another country, he said.
 "It's not a question of being pro-Saudi or pro-Israeli. It's a matter of being pro-American," Bentsen said.
 "The president shares authority with Congress, and certainly we ought to work with the president, but the president does not always prevail, which was the case with Vietnam."
 In other matters, Bentsen said:
 — Maj. Gen. Robert L. Schweitzer "overstated the case" Tuesday when he said the Russians had achieved strategic superiority over the United States, were "on the move" and were "going to strike." Schweitzer, chief military adviser to the National Security Council, was dismissed after making the statement.
 "There's no question they are ahead of us in some areas, but we are ahead in others," said Bentsen, a member of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. "However, if we don't increase our spending in some

Clayton names flood committee

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A House committee to study new methods of controlling floods was named Tuesday by Speaker Bill Clayton.
 Rep. Rodney Tow, D-Conroe, was appointed chairman of the committee, which also includes Reps. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, vice chairman; Chip Staniswalis, R-Amarillo; Gerald Hill, D-Austin; and Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge.
 "Damaging flood water resulting in the loss of property and lives have ravaged many areas of our state," Clayton said in a statement.
 "Moreover, the high cost of flooding disasters has become a serious burden on individuals and local governments.

 "I believe it is time for state officials to investigate this situation and to seek improved methods of controlling flood waters."
 The committee will make recommendations to the 1983 Legislature.
