BROOKS CON- CEDES DEFEAT

Waco, Texas, July 27.—Conceding his defeat as one of the six candidates for the United States Senate, Dr. S. P. Brooks addressed letters yesterday to O. B. Colquitt and United States Senator Charles A. Culberson, expressing congratulations on their leadership in the Texas primaries last Saturday. He also made public a letter addressed to the Democrats of Texas, thanking them for support for him. The two letters follow:

"Waco, Texas, July 26.—The Hon. O. B. Colquitt, Dallas, Texas: Dear Sir—I fought you and the things for which you stand by all the honorable means at my command. You won. As a good sportsman I congratulate you on your temporary victory. Very sincerely,
"S. P. BROOKS."

"Waco, Texas, July 26.—Senator Charles A. Culberson, Washington: Dear Senator Culberson—As a candidate for the United States Senate I fought courageously for the office by every honorable means at my command. It appears that you won over me. You have my sincere congratulations. Very truly,
"S. P. BROOKS."

Steam Roller Mitchell County Results

The Democratic Precinct Convention was held in the Woodman Hall at 2:30 p. m. Saturday afternoon, the convention being called to order by the chairman P. F. Harkins.

J. A. McCarty was elected permanent chairman and E. I. Hill, Secretary. Upon motion of Isaac Lawler, the chairman was empowered to appoint the delegates to the county convention which meets in Sweetwater next Saturday. Before adjournment, the chairman announced the following list of delegates: I. Lawler, J. E. McClain, J. A. Griffith, W. P. Copeland, F. Rannefeld, J. J. Harkins, Z. J. Williams, T. A. Wade, W. G. Kykes, and J. J. Parker.

It was evident from the start that a steam roller had been carefully prepared for use in the convention hall. A few years ago the anti-prohibitionists brought a steam roller into the convention but in the contest that followed the pros captured the machine and flattened out the original owners of the same. Ever since, Uncle Ike and a few champions has been watching for a good chance to get revenge. Accordingly they came to the convention Saturday with a brand new steam roller in fine working order, having prepared the contrivance while the enemy slept. It worked fine from the very start. After the organization of the convention, Mr. Lawler introduced a resolution instructing the delegates against woman suffrage. J. E. McClain made a speech against the resolution, declaring that while he was an anti-prohibitionist he believed in woman suffrage, and he proceeded to point out the injustice of denying women the ballot. Under his assaults it began to look shaky for the steam roller but J. J. Parker came speedily to the rescue. He dogmatically informed the convention that God and the Bible had strictly forbidden woman suffrage, and stated that a Democratic convention should do nothing contrary to God and the Bible. That settled it. The vote was taken and the result was announced as 18 in favor of woman suffrage and 27 against it, and Lawler, McCarty et al had won a notable victory for God and the Bible. They could have won another similar victory by instructing against prohibition, but they were merciful and let it go at that. Revenge is sweet, and the ants had their revenge. In fact the victory was so sweet, and so harmless, that we rather enjoyed it ourselves.—Roscoe Times.

Gloria faints upon receiving the chief's proposal and a moment or two later Doctor Royce, who is seeking the missing heiress, comes upon the two. Royce and the Indian at once engage in a hand-to-hand encounter, the husky young physician quickly disarming the Seminole who had attacked him with a knife. While the two are struggling Richard Freneau, who is also seeking Gloria, in hope of receiving the reward offered for her return safe and well, reaches the little clearing and noting that Royce is too busy to notice his presence, takes the unconscious Gloria in his arms and bears her away. The girl recovers as she is restored to her anxious father and brother, and promptly proclaims Freneau a hero, since she believes it was he who saved her. Doctor Royce after besting the Indian, looks about for Gloria, finds her gone follows the trail by Freneau and arrives in time to learn that the broker has been bad enough to accept credit for a rescue performed by another.

Salt Water Excursion.

Promptly at 10 of the clock last Sunday morning, that good old packet "Next Time" of the Salt River Navigation Company, cast off her cables and headed for the sources of that historic steam of innocuous desuetude.

On this occasion of its biennial trips, the following valorous crew of able seamen signed its articles: Captain—A. J. Coe; First mate—Chas. W. Lewis; Second mate—Earl Jackson; Purser—Dock Nettles; Steward—A. J. Culpepper; Boatswain—Scotty; Cabin boy—Thos. Fields; Helmsman—E. J. Callaway; Cook—Mike Ratliff; Quartermaster—Buck Rogers and Dan Vinson; Roustabouts—Bruza Smith, E. C. McCullum, Chester Thomas, W. R. Eudy, and Jess Gage as Leadsman.

The round trip of this famous craft occupies two years and its arrival and departure is always on schedule time. It will return about the third Saturday in July, 1918, and the excursionists will be welcomed at the dock by that grizzled veteran of this transportation line—"Captain I-Told-You-So." In the meantime, some of them will have taken the cure for that dread disease—"Itch-for-office" and will retire to the shades of a private and industrious life; but many of them will hasten to provide tickets for the next biennial sailing.—Colorado Record.

MURDER STORY OF MISS CRAMER

Dallas, July 28.—Houston Wagoner or Houston Wagner is the negro who has confessed to the murder of Miss Zaola Cramer, which occurred in Dallas last March.

The confession was witnessed before a Justice of the Peace at McKinney by Detectives Smith and Moffett and by John McKinney, City Marshal at McKinney.

Detective Ernest DeWitt, who, it has developed this afternoon, worked up the case, and who finally was instrumental in obtaining the confession, said the negro's name is Houston Wagoner.

At McKinney, where the negro was first arrested, three affidavits have been filed charging him, as Houston Wagoner, with robbery.

The negro was arrested in McKinney on July 17 after a pistol battle with City Marshal John McKinney, who was attempting to arrest him in connection with a postoffice robbery at Allen, eight miles south of McKinney, on the preceding night.

The negro is said to have resided in Dallas up until the time of the Cramer killing.

McKinney, Texas, July 27.—Houston Wagoner, a negro arrested here on three charges of burglary, has confessed to the murder of Miss Zaola Cramer in Dallas on March 26. He has been removed from the Dallas County jail.

The confession in the Cramer case was signed and acknowledged here late yesterday.

History of Case.

The murder of Miss Cramer was one of the most mysterious ever committed here.

The motive was difficult to determine, as she was not robbed. Neither had any attempt been made to assault her. No one could be found among her friends and acquaintances who could offer any suggestions as to why anyone wanted to kill her.

She was on her way to the home of Mrs. T. E. Wagoner, 316 East Ninth street, on Sunday night after attending a patient south of Dallas for two weeks. When her body was found her purse, containing about $26 was found intact. She had been choked to death and neighbors remembered having heard her scream for help shortly before 9 o'clock on that night.

The body was not discovered until 7 o'clock the next morning, when the janitor at the school started to open the schoolhouse for the day.

The police were notified and a general search was begun. Nothing could be found and the officers were puzzled. Every way they turned they met with defeat and every clue which developed turned into nothing of value.

Stick-Pin Found.

Several days later a small, cheap stick pin was turned over to the police by the undertaker who dressed the body. The undertaker thought it was Miss Cramer's pin and paid no attention to it until Mrs. Wagoner called for Miss Cramer's belongings and when offered the pin refused it, saying that it did not belong to the young nurse. The detective department, headed by Captain Turley, then began a campaign to find out the owner of the pin. A picture of the pin was printed in The Dallas Evening Journal and several persons called the officers saying they believed they knew who owned the pin. In each instance, however, the information proved of no value until yesterday.

The Cramer murder probably caused more stir and more reprimand for the Dallas police department than any other murder that has occurred there in years. Public meetings were held in Oak Cliff and demands were made for better police protection. Police officials were condemned for not making certain arrests in the case and even newspapers out of the State printed large stories telling of the inefficiency of the police department.

READY TO BEGIN OIL WELL
 Bob Dodgion informs the Times that all things are just about ready to begin drilling for oil. Nearly all the money subscribed has been paid in and the remainder is practically in sight.
 The oil people have been laying a water pipe this week preparatory to the beginning of operations and they have been delayed a little in getting permission to run their pipe under the T. & P. Railway, but it is not thought that this will delay them long. The drill will probably be running before another issue of the Times, and here's hoping that good fortune may attend these people in this adventure and that a big gusher may be brought in.—Roscoe Times.

HARRY SPANNEL REFUSED BOND

ALPINE, Texas, July 27.—Harry J. Spannell waived examining trial when he was arraigned in justice court here this morning on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of his wife, Mrs. Crystal Holland Spannell, and Lieut. Col. M. C. Butler of the United States army last Thursday night. Spannell was remanded to the custody of the sheriff of Brewster county, to be held without bail to await the action of the grand jury, which convenes Sept. 14. County officers stated that Spannell would be taken back to El Paso, where he was taken immediately after the shooting, and will be held in jail there until the grand jury takes action.
 Spannell, apparently crazed by jealousy, it is asserted shot and killed his wife, daughter of John Holland a leading banker and cattle man of West Texas, and the army officer, a week ago today while the three were riding in Spannell's motor car. The shooting occurred on a residence street in Alpine.

Prisoner is Near Collapse.
 When the prisoner was brought into the court room it seemed obvious to friends that he was on the verge of a mental collapse. He sobbed a greeting to the few officers present and with bloodshot eyes searched the room. Apparently he paid little attention to the legal phases of the examination but mumbled over and over again, "Oh my little girl! My own little girl!" referring apparently to his five-year-old daughter, now at the home of her grandparents here.

The examination was prefatory and caused little excitement in the community. Few persons in the town realized it was being held, every effort having been made to keep the fact of Spannell's presence here a secret because of the sentiment manifested after the shooting.

Immediately after the court had bound him over, Spannell was handcuffed and taken to a waiting automobile and driven rapidly out of town. He was taken to Marfa and from there he will be taken by train to El Paso for safe keeping.

L. A. Dale, of El Paso who appeared as Spannell's attorney declined to indicate the defense he would offer.

Note Adds New Phase.
 Spannell persisted in refusing to discuss the case. Thus far the only statement attributed to him was contained in a note to a friend in Waco, Texas, in which it was asserted he had not intended to kill his wife; that accidentally he had hit her while firing at Butler.

Reports from Waco, where Spannell formerly lived and from Hazleton, Pa., his boyhood home indicated money was being raised for his defense.

State's Attorney Slater and his assistants held a lengthy conference today with John Holland, father-in-law of the prisoner.

No testimony was offered at today's hearing. Spannell deciding to waive. Before being taken from Alpine Spannell repeated previous requests to be allowed to visit his daughter, but permission was refused.

Louisville, Ky., July 27.—Bad teeth are one of the causes of cancer, according to Dr. Otto U. King of Huntington, Ind., who delivered an address here last night before the annual convention of the National Dental Association. He said one woman out of every seven and one man out of every eleven after they attain the age of 25 years die of cancer in England. Also this disease is sixth in the list that causes deaths in the United States, he said.

 About your watch is what you need to assist you in taking care of it so you will treat it in the best possible manner to assure you the best time that it can give. Your watch beats 18,000 times in one hour. Your watch beats 432,000 times in one day. The balance wheel travels 3,732 miles in one year. Now that is all accomplished on one cleaning and oiling, and you will no longer be in doubt when we tell you that your watch ought to be cleaned once each year and re-oiled, as does any other piece of machinery that runs that long. The parts in a watch are smaller and are more liable to wear out when run longer without cleaning or re-oiling. You should wind your watch the same time every day if you want accurate time. If you let it run down it will change the regulation so it will have to be re-regulated. We know the watch so well we could talk watch all day but haven't any more space here.
