Aprila Report of Water Commissioner Published Shows 59 New Customer's Added During Year

Salaries for city officials and emproyes for the ensuing two years were mand by the City commission at its provided in the city charter. Other matters included the granting of a permi to R. A. Mitchen for the construct tion of a one story building occupied by the Glass Grocery, the reading and acceptance of the Clerk's quarterly re-port and of the Water Commissioner's annual report. Bills were audited and ordered paid and other matters of routine transacted. The report of Water Commissioner Musgrove, published elsewhere in today's paper, shows a total receipts from the city's water system of $36,-569.17. After salaries ,labor ,equiping to $13,576.32, $20,700 was turned over to theC ity treasury. There were 59 new customers added to the lines during the year 1922 which according to Commissioner Musgrove cost the city an average of $26 each to bonds and the sinking to retire them the Atlantic, from the time they reach France, during every action they cugaged in and up to the time they started on their return trip to America and the home-comfug in New York and the parades that followed. There is not one dull moment in the picture. It abounds with thrilling situations. The American boys are seen out in the open without shelter, targets for the German whiz bangs and deadly mustard gas.

Also they are shown charging the enemy and routing the Germans from their long line of trenches. To reach the Germans, they were compelled to go through or over wire entanglements and face bursting snells. But they went, and their action is photographically presented as a monument to the manner in which our boys never faltered when called upon for the supreme sacrifice.

Many other elements that entered the war are also shown. Aeroplanes are seen in battleformation and the massive tanks also are seen creeping along toward the front.

This is a picture that will help to keep alive the memory of our boys who fought in Flanders and France and gave their lives for the country they loved. It also will help to endear to us the boys, everyone of them, who went "over there," or did service at home.

Her mother had some remembrances for her which had been selected in a hurried way, as the father had been called as an attache to the Ambassador to Germany, and with the struggle incident to closing their home and starting to a foreign one, the mother had her hands and thoughts full.

The day came and the announcement that a supper party for Margaret and her friends would be served early In the dining room.

The idea of making it a real party came to a trained kindergarten teach er, but where the material for the pretty chains, favors and presents to be obtained !

As if by magic ,with the help of willing hands including Margaret's own, there appeared a whole set of furniture ta-bles, chairs, plano, bookcase, writing deak, telephone stand, beds, dressers, an dolls and flower pots for the table decorations. For the lovely birth-day chain which was to grace the big dining table the material was taken from the various lace lined candy boxes and colored paper found, here. everywhere. The purser emptied everything he had in box form to add to the collection. Then came the won-edrful march to the feast. It was discovered in time the little girl and ber guests numbered thirteen and as no grownup could participate in this event, the steerage was searched and presently the hungriest, most ragged little brow-eyed son o fitaly was selec ted to be the fourteenth guest.

It was a most lovely party and the best one that Margaret had ever had.

The People Called Baptists

What do They Believe?

Here are some of the principles of belief for which they stand:

Jesus Christ, man's only Sa-

Spiritual regeneration, thru faith in Jesus Christ, necessary to salvation.

Church membership composed only of converted and baptized persons.

The direct personal approach of man to God without any earthly mediator.

The supreme sovereignty of Jesus in all matters of the soul.

Man's direct personal responsibility and accountability to God.

Absolute separation of the church and state.

Full religious liberty for all, Jew and Gentile alike.

Self-determination in all religious matters for all individuals and churches without any overhead direction or control.

The Bible, without any subtractions or amendments, the only authoritative guide for Christians.

Believing that these principles are fundamental and that their fuller acceptance by the people generally will result in the wider spread of a spiritual religion that saves men's souls and their lives as well, and promote a saner and more stable society, the First Baptist Church of Sweetwater, invites careful consideration of them by all men and women who want to know and follow the truth.
