INSTRUCTIVE

Sweetwater Reporter: The Hon. John Garibaldi Sargent captured the heart and favor of a whole Nation by the simple, old-fashioned manner in which he took over the job of being Attorney General for the United States. The Washington atmosphere did not cause him to lose his staid New England bearings. Only last week, called to address a federation of women's clubs, he gave them the excellent advice that they should not become so engrossed in the work of altruism and uplift as to lose sight of the broader mission for women in the home.

There can be no doubt that the Hon. John Sargent is a conservative, if he made the kind of speech you say he did. To address a women's club and tell the members to stick around home is distinctly the sort of thing a conservative, or a reactionary, would do. But, land sakes, what is a women's club for? A women's club isn't organized to deal with housework. Housework is an individual, personal matter. Club work is co-operative, aggressive, committeeative. It is carried on in group formation, not singly, like housework. Can it be possible that our Attorney General, so recently commandeered from his New England village, doesn't know that women's clubs are not organized for the purpose of listening to speakers who tell them to go home and tidy up the house? Women passed out of that stage of evolution several years ago. They no longer regard their dooryards as the only word which they are to take an interest in. This doesn't mean that they are neglecting their dooryards. It only means that they are capable of more than one culture. They do not give up home life when they take part in the larger life around them. A husband doesn't treasure his home the less for taking a deep interest in his business. He can cultivate the domestic and the commercial simultaneously. And his wife is no less competent to cultivate the kitchen garden after she has acquired a taste or a talent for the literary rosary. Perhaps Attorney General Sargent will be glad to grasp this, and, if so, thank State Press for wisening him.—State Press in the Dallas News.

State Press will admit, however, that "to address a women's club and tell the members to stick around home" might be pretty good advice after all, in some cases. We have seen examples of where such advice was needed. The little piece the Hon. Attorney General spoke before women's club might have meant that he favored attractive and well kept homes as much as he did powerful and well organized women's clubs. Which is right. We need 'em both. But personally, we favor the home when it comes to a show down. Anyhow, out here in Sweetwater, most all the homes are pretty, and well kept. The women see to that first. Then, in their spare time, they have in club formation, sponsored a number of things that have resulted in a cleaner town, pretty parks, better schools and a finer place generally in which to live. Which is as it should be. Come to Texas.

all work for the betterment of Sweetwater. It requires work and money to build a town and there's plenty of room for everybody to put their shoulder to the wheel.

AMUSEMENTS

PALACE

In the first three days of camera work on "Big Brother," Rex Beach's recent serial, now a Paramount picture Allan Dwan crowded in some of the most dramatic action in the story. He used the old Manhattan Casino, 155th street and Eighth avenue, New York city, as the setting for the big dance given by Jimmy Donovan, leader of the Pastime Club, and had 750 extra people for atmospheric background. The scenes show the workings of gang life in New York and the murder of "Big Ben" Murray by "Coke" Miller. Tom Moore, Raymond Hatton, Joe King, and little Mickey Bennett were the principals used in these scenes. "Big Brother," featuring Tom Moore, Raymond Hatton and Edith Roberts, will be shown at the Palace theater on Saturday.

QUEEN

As a result of having purchased a suit of clothing from a mail order house, Buck Dwan, well known cattle man of Granite Gulch, narrowly escaped lynching or a term in jail. Dwan and his intimate friend, Jack Hawsky, having been invited to the same dance, sent to the same house for their clothing. That night, at the dance, the young woman admired by both men, Miss Mary Baker, of Sweetwater Ranch, favored Dwan, which led to trouble between the two men. Early next morning Hawsky, knowing that his clothing would lead him to be mistaken for Buck Dwan, participated in the hold-up of the Wells-Fargo Stage Coach, during which the driver was shot and killed. Suspicion fell upon Dwan, but it being shown that he had a perfect alibi, he was discharged. The capture of Hawsky was made by Dawn and— But to witness the unraveling of a most thrilling western drama in which this took place one must see the picture "Looped For Life," in which the part of Buck Dwan is played by Art Acord, the screen's most popular cowboy actor. "Looped For Life" will be shown at the Queen theater Saturday.

BARDEWELL WINS

In one of the most hotly contested runoff races ever recorded in a local municipal election, Roy Bardwell defeated L. E. Musgrove, present incumbent, for election as Water Commissioner, Thursday by 93 votes. Only 200 valid votes were cast in the record-breaking city election in April. Mr. Musgrove retired after several years of service to the city during which the water department has made great strides forward. Mr. Bardwell goes into office with a pledge of progressiveness and rural cooperation and to give the best that he has to the office. In that he will have fullest possible support of the progressive citizenship of this town, as well as the administration entirely. HOUSEHOLD HINTS

"What shall we have new in our dinner and luncheon menus," is one of the questions that has been asked quite regularly the past month and now that the Springs days are here, even with the suggestions one receives from the market, do not seem to completely satisfy the home manager—the housewife who does the marketing and planning of menus for her family.

Hot dishes all have their appeal at breakfast, luncheon and dinner.

Hot waffles or cakes for breakfast—a crisp, tasty salad, and a hot creamed dish with hot biscuits such as only mother can make, cannot help but tempt the most critical eater.

Possibly if the housewife who becomes discouraged will check up on what she has served of late, she will find she has gotten into a rut, and repeating week after week the same old dishes. We all do it. Every home admits of the same.

Why not try something new? It will not only prove interesting to you in preparing but to the rest of the family who will sample these surprise dishes.

Don't you ever bring home a new recipe from the club luncheon, or borrow one from your best friend? And isn't the effort in preparing it always appreciated?

Of course, house cleaning days have been taking up considerable time and meals have naturally had to be prepared hurriedly, and without a great deal of consideration or care. Now, too, that the graduation days are upon us, of course your minds are occupied with many things besides planning new dishes. However, the markets are loaded down with seasonable, fresh vegetables and fruits, which are selling at a very nominal price, and this is really the season to be eating them—when our systems are demanding them rather than when they are out of season. At this time of the year we need to think of the mineral salts from the vegetables and the cooling fruit juices to thin out and tone up the blood.

Don't forget the greens—both the cooked and fresh ones—in the form of salads, provide the necessary mineral salts required in the various body processes.

It is a good thing, but beginning with this season many people begin to lose flesh because of unwise eating. Some of us who wish it would affect us can never lose a pound, while those already fleshy continue to gain, no matter it seems, what the diet.

RULES FOR EATING FRUIT

Eat fruit for breakfast.
Eat an apple before retiring.
Eat only sound ripe fruit. Unripe fruit is indigestible unless cooked. Over-ripe fruit is of inferior flavor and apt to interfere with digestion.
Eat fruit with the midday meal.
Use fruit instead of too many and too heavy desserts.
Use sweet fruits, such as dates and figs, with cereals in water; and sliced peaches, strawberries, raspberries or other reasonable fruits in summer with cereals.
Eat a baked apple and cream for breakfast at least twice a week.
Serve fruit cool. It is much more palatable and enticing.
Serve fruits in season as a matter of economy.
Wash dried fruits in several waters. Keep fruit cool and covered.
Wash or wipe all fruit with a damp cloth when it comes from the market to clean it, as well as to check rot from infected fruit.
Do not let cooked fruit stand in tin containers.
Pare peaches and bananas just before using, as they discolor quickly.

SALAD DRESSING

The dressing is an important part of every salad and the success of the salad depends upon your choice of a suitable dressing. There are really only three kinds of salad dressings. And, of the many varieties and kinds used, they are all combinations of some one or other. French Dressing which is used more often than any of the others, is probably the favorite dressing and it is the simplest to make. Then there is the Mayonnaise Dressing, also containing oil, which is combined with eggs and seasonings. Then we have the Boiled Dressing which is made of eggs, milk and seasonings, and is cooked over a low fire or in a double boiler.

The other dressings and the more elaborate ones as Russian and Thousand Island are simply Mayonnaise to which chutney, capers and various other relishes have been added.

ATE TOO FAST

South Carolinian Took Black-Draught For Indigestion, and Says He Could Soon Eat Anything.

Ballentine, R. C.—Mr. W. R. Bouknight, of this place, gave the following account of his use of Theford's Black-Draught.

"Just after I married I had indigestion. Working out, I got in the habit of eating fast, for which I soon paid by having a tight, bloated feeling after meals. This made me very uncomfortable. I would feel stupid and drowsy, digress, feel like working. I was told it was indigestion. Some one recommended Black-Draught and I took it after meals. I soon could eat anything any time.

"I use it for colds and biliousness and it will knock out a cold and carry away the bile better and quicker than any liver medicine I have ever found."

Eating too fast, too much, or faulty chewing of your food, often causes discomfort after meals. A pinch of Black-Draught, washed down with a swallow of water, will help to bring prompt relief. Bloating, sensations, eructations, bad breath and other common symptoms of indigestion have disappeared after Black-Draught has been taken for several days. NC-164

PIMPLES CAUSE FOLKS TO SHRINK FROM ATTENTION

Whenever you go out, you can't help but pity the many folks you see trying to have a good time, but are so shrinking and backward about coming near others where pimply, blotchy and eczema skin can be seen.

You almost feel like going up to them and telling them that they ought to begin using Black and White Ointment, and Soap, which so many thousands of happy people are depending on to keep their skin clear, smooth and good to look at.

Black and White Ointment, and Soap, are selling at the phenomenal rate of more than two million packages a year, and the fact that they are so economically priced is largely responsible for this record. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap. —Adv.

LYRIC

To have been a schoolmate of Abraham Lincoln was the distinction enjoyed by Belle Hicock, mother of James Butler Hicock, who, known as "Wild Bill," was the greatest two-gun man of the old west.

After the civil war, when Hicock met Abraham Lincoln, at the White House he drew from his pocket his most cherished possession, a daguerreotype of Lincoln and Belle Hicock standing side by side. The picture brought a warm smile to the president's sad face.

The moment is one of the most touching scenes in "Wild Bill Hicock" William S. Hart's new Paramount picture, coming to the Lyric theater today and Saturday.
