SWEETHEART OF ORPHAN QUIZZED

Miss Isabelle Pope Sees Her Love Affair With Billy McClintock Paraded in Court

GOES THROUGH ORDEAL

Love Letters From Girl to Millionaire Orphan Are Read—Says Shepherd Prevented Marriage

By United Press.

CRIMINAL COURT BUILDING, CHICAGO, June 16.—Smiling and blushing, beautiful Isabelle Pope today went through the hardest of ordeals—she saw her love affair with Billy McClintock, "millionaire orphan," paraded before the public in a crowded court room. But it was under cross examination by William Scott Stewart, chief counsel of the Shepherd defense, that Miss Pope was called on for a test of nerves. She identified love letters to Billy and her letters were read in public. "Yes, I wrote these letters to Billy," she said.

Stewart then read a portion of the letters but did not read them all. He read only a portion that he considered vital to the Shepherd defense.

They dealt chiefly with her attitude toward Billy's foster parents. She testified previously that he did not love Shepherd as "most boys love their parents" and that Shepherd treated her coolly and prevented their marriage.

Stewart ended his cross examination of Miss Pope by asking her if it was not true she had entered into an argument with Billy's distant heirs whereby if Billy's will was broken and the Shepherds lost the bulk of the money she would still be protected financially.

"Yes, that is true," Isabelle replied. She added that if the will was broken she would get one-half the estate instead of $8,000 a year as provided for in the will which Shepherd drew up just before Billy died.

This, Stewart contended, was the reason Miss Pope testified against Shepherd.

When Stewart finished his cross examination, court adjourned until 2 p. m., when Isabelle will be further questioned by the state.

NEW FROCKS

Fashions Authority Says Georgette Jumper Frocks Ideal Outfit For Warm Summer Days

By HEDDA HOYT

By United Press.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Georgette jumper frocks have become the popular outfit for warm days. Georgette is exceedingly cool and since fashion demands rather tailored frocks this summer, the two-piece georgette is both modish and practical.

Purple in deep violet cast is the outstanding of the colorful shades in New York at present. Many women are choosing georgette jumper frocks in this royal shade. One attractive model which, by the way, costs but fifteen dollars at one of the small shops, is made of purple georgette with a front-pleated shirt attached to sheer China silk. Its jumper extends to the hips and has long rather full sleeves, which finish with narrow cuffs tied in bow knots at the wrists. The neckline is cut V-shape in front and the collar is a straight strip of the material extending in scarf ends. The attractive thing about this model is a side pocket on the lower portion of the jumper which is covered with violets of the exact shade of the frock.

Flower pockets, by the way, are a new trimming note on simple frocks. An ecru georgette jumper frock has tiny yellow primrose covering the two pockets. A pink linen frock made on simple lines has a string belt made entirely of flat pink roses. In most cases the flowers used on frocks are of cotton rather than silk and of the exact shade of the frock. A few models, however, use contrasting colors, as where a blue georgette has pockets of violets.

As summer approaches we see pastel shades overshadowed by more vivid ones. Bright greens, reds and yellows are colors we see much of. Evening shades continue along pastel tones whereas the more brilliant colors are noted at country clubs, resorts on the street and about the home.

Jim Weatherby has returned home from the vacation, following a year spent at the Trinity University, at Waxahachie.

EXPLAIN PURPOSE OF MEXICO ROW

Claim Incident Was Forced So Republic Would Grant Due Respect To U. S. Officials

TROUBLE WAS BREWING

Action of Secretary of State Was Not Sudden Realization of Menace—Incident Closed

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The administration's purpose in stirring the smoldering coals of the American-Mexican situation into flames was revealed here today in authoritative quarters, to have been compelled so the Republic would grant more respect for American representation and the usual amenities of diplomatic intercourse.

According to accounts of the discussion, it led to the issuance of Secretary of State Kellogg's warning statement last Friday, given to the United Press by unquestioned authorities as not, as was first believed, any sudden realization by the United States government that certain conditions in Mexico menaced American lives and property.

What precipitated the situation was the return here of U. S. Ambassador Sheffield with complaints of discourteous treatment by Mexican government officials and his conviction that only a sharp jolt to public opinion of both countries could aid the situation. This having been done, the incident may be considered closed.

R. A. Carter, garage, $2,500; J. A. Fulgham, contractor.

T. E. Crutcher, residence Locust street, $350; S. A. Cole, contractor.

By United Press.

DALLAS, June 16.—Rastus Brown colored, lawn manicurist, worked so hard the other morning that he was too hungry to wait for his wife to get his dinner cooked. When she wasn't looking, he sneaked a whole pie and devoured it completely.

Mrs. Rastus didn't have a chance to explain to him that when she cooked the pie she used rat poison for baking powder. The pie was intended for the rats that had a sweet tooth.

Doctors at the Emergency hospital applied the stomach pump and gave Rastus relief. They declared, however that he had a stomach that could certainly take punishment.

Sore on Jokers

IN RECITAL HERE

Packed House Hears Boggess Party in Organ and Voice Recital at Church Monday Night

A packed house at the First Presbyterian church, Monday evening, heard Newton Boggess, of the Rayburn evangelistic party at Colorado, in one of the most pleasing organ recitals given in Sweetwater in years. Mr. Boggess was assisted by his wife, Mrs. Newton Boggess, contralto, and by his son, Harold Boggess, bass.

The three artists came from Colorado, where the Rayburn revival is in progress, to Sweetwater Monday afternoon to appear in the recital.

Mr. Boggess played two groups of four numbers each, and one group of three numbers, each rendition showing unusual technique, skill and ability at the organ. His numbers included Evening Star, Adoration, From Holy City, Sunrise, and Improvisation on Hymn Tunes. The numbers, Marche, Barcarolle, and Scotch, Irish and American Melodies especially won great applause.

Mrs. Boggess sang "Sleepy Hollow Tune" and "O, Lord Rebuke Me Not," with Mr. Boggess at the organ.

Harold Boggess, who possesses a voice of unusual clearness and sweetness and who shows wonderful ability even in singing the most difficult selections, sang "The Horn," and "Bell in the Lighthouse," with his father at the organ and "Treador's Love Song" with Mr. Boggess at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. King have returned from a trip to Dallas and Ennis, where they have been visiting relatives.

By United Press.

Five men were working in the caisson when the drill struck a gas pocket. Three men clamored to safety. Two dropped to the floor of the pit, overcome by the gas.

Before reaching the bodies of the workmen, Sikora fell to the floor unconscious and died.

FIND LEAF WORM

A. & M. College Warns of Army Worm in Rio Grande Valley—May Spread

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, June 16.—With the discovery of the cotton leaf of Army worm in the Gulf Coast and Rio Grande country at this advanced date in numbers sufficient to threaten a serious outbreak, a warning was sent out this week by F. L. Thomas, entomologist of A. & M. College to farmers in all sections of the state to be on the lookout for this pest, to investigate the stores of necessary poison in the hands of their dealers and make other preparations to fight effectively at the first emergence of the worms. Prompt action will give easy eradication. One good dusting or spraying will do the work and save a crop of cotton.

For dusting calcium arsenate may be used without diluting. Arsenate of lead may be mixed with one-fourth as much hydrated lime, making it more easily applied and making it adhere to the plants for a greater length of time. Paris Green should be mixed in proportion of one part of Paris Green to 5 or 6 parts hydrated lime. In making these applications the well-known pole and bar method is about as efficient as more expensive dusting machinery.

Where spraying is preferred to the dusting method of controlling the worms use three-fourths pound of calcium arsenate or one pound arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. Another solution is one-half pound Paris Green and one pound rock lime to 50 gallons of water. There are numerous kinds of efficient sprays for use in this work.

IS MOVIE FAN

Former Boy Emperor of China and Two Wives Enjoy Shows

By United Press.

PEKING, June 16.—Henry Pu Yi, former Emperor of China, has become a "movie fan."

In the secluded garden of the house he has taken in Tientsin, 80 miles from Peking, the former "Boy Emperor" and his two wives are now enjoying private showings of all the latest Chinese and American films.

When Henry still retained the formal title of Emperor and the name of Hsuan Tung, he greatly enjoyed riding a bicycle about the great courtyards of the Peking Forbidden City, where he lived a virtual prisoner. Now, a private citizen of the Republic of China, he has added the high privileges of movie viewing and it is said that he likes this even better than his erstwhile cycling.

Evans said he asked the city for five days in which to cut the weeds, after which time he asks that he be fined if he fails to do it.

WARREN S. STONE

The career of Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, may be written in one word: Work.

This was the motif of his life. He was born on a pioneer farm in Iowa, and worked farmers' hours from the time he was able to lift a pitch fork. He quit college to go to work as a locomotive fireman. In his twenty years at the throttle of a locomotive, he devoted his spare time—whether it was ten minutes or two hours—to the kind of reading that is more labor than recreation. When, on April 11, 1903, he was elected grand chief of the Brotherhood, he did not relax. He worked eighteen hours a day. At 5 o'clock in the morning he started for the office.

The corollary of this work was success. Few men have succeeded more emphatically than Warren S. Stone. At the time of his death, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers owned a nation wide system of banks and trust companies and was a financial enterprise with resources exceeding $145,000,000. It was Stone who advocated the departure of the union into the extraordinary activities of finance, and it was Stone who made the decision successful. The respect of the statesmen and financial princes of the nation was his, as well as the respect of the railroad men whom he represented, served and guided.

His life, from the standpoint of the man who enjoys the pleasure of living was not interesting. It was spent in work. But it is a romantic saga of American achievement which he wrote with his days. His beginning was in the Hawkeye prairies. From this he graduated into America's early railroad work, which remains—to all men who spent their youth in the middle west—as fascinating an adventure as the sailing of the seas by Vikings and Marco Polo's march to Cathay.

It was characteristic of Stone that he died from overwork. It was characteristic also of him that he left his affairs in perfect order. The various financial activities of the brotherhood had been divided, not long before the death of Stone, among various officials, each one capable of administering the responsibilities with which he was entrusted. The machine which Stone built was perfected to the point where it would run itself.

We of this nation are still in the era of building. Warren S. Stone was a builder—and at this task he labored assiduously and successfully and admirably. It is a great American who has died.

KRUTTSCHNITT PASSES

There are few of us who fall to thrill at the sight of the Limited with its monstrous locomotive followed by double Pullmans gliding along so smoothly at 50 or 60 miles an hour.

And there are few men who in their younger days at least did not envy the man in the greasy overalls whose hand at the throttle presided over the destinies of a whole trainload of passengers.

The big long freight trains are much more prosaic but still not without their attraction. But something of this feeling, and more is felt toward the man at the throttle of the vast Southern Pacific system who died recently.

The Sunset Limited was still far in the future when Julius Kruttschnitt began his long career with the Southern Pacific. Eighty ear freight trains had not begun to exist even in the minds of ambitious executives anxious to pare down railway operating costs. Power was lacking and so was the roadbed and nearly everything else. Nor was there the traffic.

It was under the late E. H. Harriman that Southern Pacific assumed much of its present long flung span, from New Orleans via Houston, San Antonio and El Paso to the Puget Sound, linking Los Angeles and San Francisco with the Pacific Northwest and with a spur east into the Rockies as well as much mileage in old Mexico. But Harriman was the financier rather than the railroad man. It remained for Kruttschnitt, who became general manager of the S. P. in 1912, to make that line the subject of one of the best managed railway systems in the world, driving the Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania and D. L. & W., a terrific race for the honor, and with a longer mileage than any of them.

One of Kruttschnitt's pet hobbies was "safety," not only for passengers but for employes and he is credited with having done more, perhaps, than any other railway executive along these lines. Especially in the earlier days of the century when consideration for employes was not so much in vogue.

It will be a long time before the railroad world forgets Julius Kruttschnitt.

THE HALL OF FAME

The Texas Technological college's hall of fame will contain five Texans—Houston, Austin, Crockett, Albert Sidney Johnston and Jim Hogg. The five Americans selected for that honor are Columbia, Washington, Lincoln, Lee and Wilson.

Obviously this is a good list. It would not be possible to find five greater Texans than Houston, Crockett, Austin, Johnston and Hogg. Only Hogg was a native Texan, but that does not detract from the glory that belonged to those others who helped carve Texas out of the wilderness. Crockett was a Texan of only about two months' standing, yet he deserves a place high in the list of Texas immortals.

These may be some to dispute the right of Columbus to be listed among the American great. He was great, among the world's greatest, but it requires something like a stretch of the imagination to call a man who never saw the North American continent, who died in ignorance that he had discovered a new continent, and who passed from the scene of activity a full century before the North American continent was colonized by Anglo-Saxons, a great American.

The Hall of Fame of the Texas Tech is not to be criticized. But it should have a Hall of Fame all its own wherein due recognition should be extended those most responsible for the college itself. This newspaper suggests the following five West Texans: Dr. P. C. Coleman, Colorado; R. M. Chittwood, Sweetwater; W. H. de la Rosa, Lubbock; Amos G. Carter, Fort Worth; Judge Lewis Carpenter, Dallas. In this connection it might be urged that neither Carter nor Carpenter are West Texans by physical residence but in all other respects including interest in the welfare of West Texas as well as arduous work to that end so manifest in the Texas Tech make them entitled to share in the recognition due this quintette. A tardy state, however, will probably wait until long after the underwriters fee has been paid before extending the honor due.

THE RIFFIAN AFFAIR

Spain and France, according to foreign dispatches, have arrived at an agreement to unite against the Riff forces in Northern Africa. For some time the two nations have been like two men trying to sleep in a room of which the third occupant was a lively mosquito.

Nobody seems to be very much interested in this war, which is a continuation of the ancient squabble between the Spanish and the Moors and which is akin to the trouble which the British had with the Fuzzy-Wuzzies. But it has undoubtedly been an irritation to the state departments of France and Spain, just at a time when France, at least, had plenty of other things to think about.

It is to be hoped, for the sake of the restoration of a placid monotony, that the combined nations will be able to whip the Riffs in short order. But it will be wise to stop when they are beaten. No shout for Nordic supremacy seems to stress the fact, but it is a fact nevertheless that Europe's first step toward civilization came as the result of the contact of its Crusaders with the Saracens in the Levant and the Moorish occupation of Spain. So let us not exterminate the Moors. We may need them again.

Did You Ever Stop To Think!

THAT to help make your city grow, you should advertise every good thing in it.
THAT to make your business grow, you should do the same thing; what is good for your city is good for you.
THAT all business men should advertise.
THAT then they should follow it up with more advertising to keep a steady, growing business.
THAT they should let the people know what they have to sell.
THAT by so doing, they can increase their business; increased business means more profits.
THAT the buyers know that they get a square deal from the merchant who advertises.
THAT people who believe that "a penny saved is a penny earned," read the ads.
THAT the advertisers always anticipate your needs; READ THE ADS.
THAT the advertiser orders stocks in advance of actual demand and creates the demand by advertising.
THAT buying advertised goods gives a sense of joy and satisfaction.

WHEN YOU BUY FROM PERSISTENT ADVERTISERS, YOU KNOW WHAT YOU ARE BUYING AND YOU KNOW THAT THEY ARE AS GOOD AS ADVERTISED.

Jazz Horn Requires No Skill and Sounds Like Trombone

The "Swanee saxophone," an instrument for playing jazz music, introduced in England for use in either orchestra or solo work, does not require a trained artist and can be played by anyone able to hum a tune. Equipped with two bells, the device is said to produce the effects of a muted trombone or trumpet. There are no keys on the instrument, the player forming the various notes and tones through the mouthpiece. Since the horn may be played without the need of printed notes, it can be used in connection with other instruments by a performer unskilled in music and does not necessitate long practice to master its operation.

Carelessness as Fire Cause Blamed for Millions Loss

If carelessness and attempts to profit illegally from insurance could be eliminated, an annual fire loss of about $175,000,000 in this country, or three-fourths of the total destruction by flames, could be avoided, according to estimates. The insurance companies are doing what they can to reduce the total by constant vigilance over the causes of fires and in detecting persons guilty of arson. In co-operation with the board of fire underwriters, squads are maintained in various parts of the country, like units of a state police force, to investigate suspicious blazes. Every morning large insurance companies get a list of all the fires that occurred throughout the country the previous day. These are closely analyzed, the kind of business and the owners who suffered losses being noted.

Rate of Population Increase Declining in U. S.

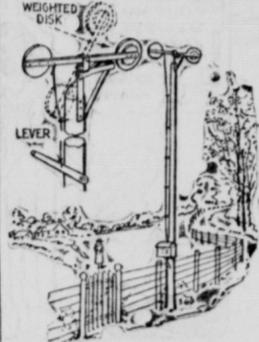

The population of continental United States on January 1 of this year was 114,311,000, according to estimates prepared by the national bureau of economic research. The survey reveals that the rate of increase is declining, the last year's gain, 1,627,000, being only 1.44 per cent as compared with 1,996,000 or 1.80 per cent increase for 1923. A growth of 1.42 per cent and 1.60 per cent was recorded for 1922 and 1921, respectively. Decreases in the birth and death rate and in the number of immigrants were noted, immigration accounting for only one-fifth of the population increase in 1924. It was also found that more persons are working for some one else than ever before. Only 9,657,000 were in business for themselves last year. Employees increased from 29,569,000 in 1920 to 33,566,000. It is estimated that the population of the country will be 148,700,000 by 1950.

"Snow" from Cottonwoods Prevented by Acid Spray

Spraying seed-bearing cottonwood trees with a two-per-cent sulphuric-acid solution has been found an effective way of preventing the showers of fluff down that often prove a nuisance later in the year. The preparation can be applied with the usual equipment and at slight cost. Trees that require the treatment are distinguished from the others by their buds, which have small greenish clusters instead of the "red neckties" that grow on the male or cottonless trees.

Farmer's Mail Signal

A Maine farmer, whose home is situated nearly a mile from the highway where the mailbox is located, made a semaphore to enable the mailman to signal the delivery of mail. It consists of two disks attached to a crossarm, which is pivoted at the top of a high pole and connected to a lever at the bottom of the pole to permit changing their position. One of the disks is weighted so that when the lever is not drawn down the crossarm is horizontal. The other disk is about 18 in. in diameter and painted like a target. A length of galvanized-iron wire is attached to the crossarm near this disk and to the lever, which is pivoted on the post. When mail is delivered, the mailman simply pulls down the lever and slips the end under a rope loop to keep it in this position. This pulls the painted disk down and tells the farmer that there is something in the box. A great many trips to the mailbox are eliminated by this device. The arrangements of the bracket on which the crossarm pivots is shown in the drawing.

PEOPLE DON'T ADMIRE ROUGH, PIMPLY SKIN

Before you can impress some one of the opposite sex enough to get them to share the happy state of love with you, you certainly must keep your appearance pleasing and attractive. Pimples, blotchy, eczemic skin seems ten times worse to strangers and new acquaintances. And even husbands, wives, parents and kin feel sorry for loved ones who suffer from such skin diseases.

The way to get rid of all these drawbacks to affection and devotion from dear ones is to use Black and White Ointment, and Soap, like thousands of people are doing. They are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size Black and White Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv.

Miss Clovis Cox gave a humorous and a Chinese reading, for which she was heartily applauded. Mrs. J. T. Hughes collected the monthly dues from the weeks, months and days, which amounted to a nice little sum.

The new parsonage building was discussed and it is thought the project will materialize in a short time. A number of hymns were sung with Mrs. F. J. Neal playing the accompaniments. The hostesses served ice fruit punch throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Robert Coleman gave pleasure to a number of friends of her little daughter, Ethel Lee, Monday afternoon when she invited them to assist in celebrating her eighth birthday anniversary at her home on Walnut street.

The little folks met at Mrs. Coleman's and presented Ethel Lee with a "Shower" of gifts, which was the happiest part of the party. Mrs. J. W. Horton presented her with a birthday cake, which was later cut for the hidden fortunes.

The guests were all driven to the City Park where all kinds of jolly games were played. In cutting the cake, Buddie Barfield found the button, Nina Bell Barfield, the ring; Inez Freeman, the thimble and Marie Coleman found the nickel.

Those who were present included Melvin, John Irving and W. H. Thompson Jr.; Doris Mullins, Joe, Frances and Anna Merle Horton, Gladys Johnson, Buddie and Nina Bell Barfield, Inez Freeman, Walter P.
