BRYAN DIES IN DAYTON SUNDAY

The Commoner Will Be Buried With Military Honors at Arlington Cemetery, Washington

BODY AT COURT HOUSE

Remains of William Jennings Bryan Viewed by Mountain Folks of Dayton—Forget Trial

DAYTON, Tenn., July 27.—William Jennings Bryan died here Sunday afternoon. His body was discovered in his bed at the Richard Rogers residence where he was stopping during the Scopes evolution trial. Mr. Bryan had retired to his room for sleep at about 2 o'clock and his body was found at 4:30 by Mrs. Bryan's nurse. Heart disease was given as the cause of his death.

By United Press.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 27.—In compliance with a wish he expressed to his wife, William Jennings Bryan will probably be buried in Arlington Cemetery at Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Bryan has telegraphed Ben G. Davis, an intimate personal friend of the Commoner at Washington, and asked him to make plans for the burial at the National Cemetery. Bryan is entitled to a military burial because of his service during the Spanish-American War when he raised a regiment of volunteers and served as its Colonel.

Mrs. Bryan is also entitled, under Federal law, to interment beside her husband.

The body will lie in state at the court house where Bryan so vigorously championed the teachings of the Bible during the Scopes evolution trial, and the simple folks of the Tennessee mountains who cheered and acclaimed his every word, will be given a last opportunity to view his body.

Tentative arrangements have been made for the body to remain here until Tuesday afternoon when it will be shipped to Washington for burial.

Telegrams of condolence and sympathy poured in to the bereaved widow from all parts of the nation today.

The bitter words that passed between the principals in the Scopes trial were forgotten. Bryan's opponents came forward with statements testifying to their high regard for him.

"I am pained to hear of the death of Mr. Bryan," said Clarence Darrow, chief defense lawyer in the evolution trial.

Sketch of Life

William Jennings Bryan, ex-secretary of state and thrice nominated and defeated for the presidency of the United States, was born in Salem, Ill., March 19, 1860. He was graduated, as valedictorian and with highest honors, from the Union College of Law, Chicago, in 1883. He later received the degree of LL. D. from the universities of Nebraska, Maryland and Arizona. He was married to Mary Elizabeth Baird of Perry, Ill., October 1, 1884.

Bryan was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1883, and practiced law in Jacksonville, Ill., from 1883-87, and then moved to Lincoln, Nebraska, where he made his home for many years until he became a resident of the state of Florida.

He received the Democratic vote for Senator in the Nebraska legislature in 1893, and was nominated for United States senator in 1894, but was defeated by John M. Thurston, editor of the Omaha World-Herald.

He was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in 1896, and wrote the "silver plank" in the platform, and made a notable speech. He was later nominated for the presidency of the United States. He traveled over 18,000 miles during the campaign, speaking in almost every stopping place. He received 176 electoral votes against 271 for William McKinley.

He lectured on bimetalism in 1897-98. He then raised the 3rd regiment Nevada Volunteer Infantry for the Spanish-American war, May 1898, and became its colonel.

In 1900, Bryan was again nominated for presidency by the Democrats. He made an active canvass but was again defeated, receiving in the electoral college 155 against 292 for William McKinley. After the election, he established a political magazine, "The Commoner," at Lincoln. He made a tour of the world in 1906, and contributed articles to newspapers.

He was nominated for the presidency for the third time at Denver, in 1908, and received 162 electoral votes against 321 for William Howard Taft.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

"The Commoner" who died in a Dayton, Tenn., residence Sunday afternoon of heart trouble. His death came shortly after the end of the Scopes evolution trial at Dayton in which he was one of the leading figures. Bryan was found dead in his bed. He was discovered by Mrs. Bryan's nurse.

He served as Secretary of State in the cabinet of President Woodrow Wilson, from March 4, 1913, to June 1915. He resigned. During that time he negotiated 39 treaties with governments, representing three-fourths of the world's population, providing for investigations of all disputes.

The "Commoner" was the author of "The First Battle," "Under Other Flags," "The Old World and Its Ways," "Heart to Heart Appeals," "The Menace of Darwinism," "The Bible and Its Enemies," and "His Image." He also contributed many articles to magazines and newspapers.

He was elected president of the National Dry Federation in 1917.

His home for the past several years was in Miami, Florida.

Flag at Half Mast

AUSTIN, July 27.—Governor Miriam Ferguson ordered the Texas flag placed at half mast on the State capitol out of respect to the memory of William Jennings Bryan. The governor sent the following message of condolence to Mrs. Bryan.

"With deep regret I have learned of the passing of the great Commoner, William Jennings Bryan who has been a factor in the political and religious life of our nation. He was loved and admired throughout Texas. Permit me to extend to you the heartfelt sympathy of this state."

Daughter Lectured Here

Ruth Bryan Owen, only daughter of William Jennings Bryan, will be remembered by many Sweetwater people as one of the featured lecturers with the Redpath-Horner Chautauqua here in 1922. Mrs. Owen lectured on the English campaign in Arabia during the World War. Her husband was assigned to work in the east, especially in Egypt, by the English government and Bryan's daughter spent some time with her husband there.

TO IMPROVE ROAD

Old Road and Detours on Bankhead East to Be Maintained—Work To Begin at Once

The State Highway department, through the engineer for this district of Nolan and Fisher county, will maintain and repair the old road and detours along the Bankhead highway east while construction work proceeds along the new road. This announcement was made by the Board of City Development Monday morning following the efforts of that organization in bringing the matter to the attention of highway department officials.

Division superintendent J. Munroe Snyder, in a communication to the Board, stated that the department had made arrangements to take care of the road while construction was in progress. June Day, engineer for the department in charge of Fisher and Nolan counties, and located at Rotan, will be in charge of the maintenance work, Munroe said.

Just when actual repairing and improving of the condition of the old Bankhead highway east will begin was not definitely stated, although it was indicated that the improvements would be made at once.

The B. C. D. took the matter of maintenance of the old highway with engineer Munroe and Day a short time ago, and thru the efforts of the Board and the two engineers, it is believed that a great improvement of the highway will result shortly.

LOW RATES FOR DROUTH AREAS

Railroad Commission and Representatives from Many Counties Confer in Austin Today

PROMISE CUT FREIGHT COSTS

Commission to Cooperate with Drought Counties and Lower Charges on Grain, Feed

By United Press.
AUSTIN, July 27.—Plans looking forward to freight rate relief in 55 drought stricken counties in Texas were started at a hearing called by the railroad commission and held here today. Representatives from nearly all parts of the country made reports on the condition and submitted written statements giving estimates of the number of cars of feed, grain and seed needed.

The railroads' representatives declared that they will be in accordance with relief measures and with low emergency rates, but they insisted that only persons who really need it should get the benefit of such relief.

A joint committee was created to confer with the representatives of the railroads to adopt plans for freight rate reductions and for a conference, beginning at once, with the traffic men of the large trunk lines of the state, with reports to be made later today.

Railroad men said they knew of actual conditions on their lines through their own reports, but they desired to know what plans of relief were wanted and where the feedstuffs were to move from.

Reports from all counties that absolutely no grain, forage or seed was made, with cotton a total loss. Cattle are reported dying in many counties.

Woman Ignores Danger Sign; Bear Bites Hand

DALLAS, Texas, July 27.—Animals will still bite the hand that feeds them. If you don't believe it, ask Mrs. J. W. Bass, who is nursing a "bear-biter" finger, or Rollo, the "pet" bear at the Dallas Zoo.

Mrs. Bass didn't believe in signs and the word "Dangerous" conspicuously posted opposite Rollo's cage didn't diminish her desire to be friendly and affectionate. When she petted the bear on the nose and tried to feed him he thought her finger was something to eat, too, and took a bite.

Mrs. Bass was not seriously injured.

POISON HOPERS

Grasshoppers Less Numerous This Year Than Former Years—Bad in Collin County

By United Press.
MCKINNEY, July 27.—According to the chairman of the anti-grasshopper forces in the county, the population of the pests seems to be much less this year than last. Farmers have brought in large quantities of poison for the hungry cotton stalk eaters, and as a result, there is only one place in the county where they are reported present.

Collin county farmers think that organized effort, beginning early in the season, will eliminate the grasshoppers, and they will have one less pest to contend with in trying to raise a cotton crop.

Since Kemper was elected president of the Orient when it was reorganized, the supposition has been that Kansas City bankers are the new owners.

A meeting of a committee from the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of City Development was scheduled for Monday afternoon when plans for the inspection of yards over the city in connection with the B. C. D. Beautiful Yards Contest, will be made.

The contests, which opened several weeks ago, will close August 1, it was stated. It was stated that the announcement of winners would probably be made Sunday.

The committee from the Auxiliary will tour the city and inspect the yards. Prizes amounting to $50 will be given, divided equally in three divisions of the city. Prizes will be given for the most beautiful yards, the yards improved most during 1925, and the most beautiful back yards.

FIRES

In 1923, $203,763,550 worth of property was destroyed by fire. In 1924 the figure had mounted to $335,372,782 and the estimate for 1924 places the probable total to a new high point—$546,810,639. This is at the rate of ten million and a half dollars a week which can be represented by a row of ten-thousand dollar residences over 4 miles in length set fire and completely destroyed every seven days.

Because of their close contact with the fire loss problem, the insurance companies realize more clearly than does the general public, the magnitude of the yearly waste of material wealth and human life.

As underwriters, they view with alarm the resultant ever-increasing loss ratio, approaching 60 per cent last year. Co-operation of every interest toward conservation with earnest co-ordination, constitutes the best principle, and indeed, the only means for remedying a situation which is a discredit to an enlightened people.

"NEXT WARS"

When scientists and war propagandists proceed in peace time to frighten humanity concerning the horror of the inevitable "next war," not every patriot believes all he hears. The Chicago Tribune calls attention to the fact that "the next war already is going on in Morocco." They call it a colonial war, but since it is demanding the attention of the ablest generals in France, including the great Petain, second only to Marshal Foch in the nation's service, the conflict is rated as a war of first dimensions.

The nations were told that in the next war gas and destructive bombs would wipe out cities and armies. "And meantime the next war is on," the Tribune says, "and an army of African tribesmen, without gas, without airplanes, without anything but manhood, the supposedly obsolete rifle and a few light cannon, have whipped the negligible Spanish brisks and are forcing the French to send for their best generals to save their arms from defeat. We do not say that the war in the Rif is a model or test of all future warfare. But it ought to give some check of common sense upon the easy generalization of civilian prophets, and pacifist alarmists. It ought to give the civilian pause while he recalls, as the clatter about the next war and its devastation goes on, that the Germans for four years were a hundred to 35 miles from Paris and not much farther from London, and both those cities stand. Gas bombs, airplanes, high explosives all were known and all were tried persistently and desperately. Yet swivel chair wisdom which never saw a battle tells us the next war will blot humanity out. Ask the Riffs and the men who are fighting them."

These things should be told to the appropriations committees next time they meet to vote for excessive budgets that are designed to quiet the fears of alarmists. For next wars never fail to gain in potential horror about the time these gentlemen are concerting to saddle a heavier burden upon the back of the taxpayer.

A BILLION AHEAD

There are no red lines in the balance sheet for the farming industry just handed to the nation by the department of agriculture. For the year ending June 30, last, American farmers received a gross income of $12,136,000,000. This is nearly a billion more than their income for the year before. It is the greatest of all years except 1921. Little wonder then that the rural districts are no longer seething with unrest. Rather they are so satisfied with existing conditions that the Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has told the president and will tell congress that the farmers can get along without any further meddling by paternal government. Prosperity has enabled them to stand on their own feet. This will be dreary news for vote seekers who farm the farmers, but it is excellent for the country.

World Takes to American Cars

Latest Triumph in Railroading

THE completion of the new Chicago Union Station marks a noteworthy accomplishment in the history of important engineering undertakings, from which travelers from all parts of the United States will derive pleasure and benefit.

The station is without doubt one of the finest and most efficiently designed railroad terminals in the world. It forms a vital link in the realization of the "Chicago City Beautiful Plan." Simplicity, accessibility and convenience for the traveling public are the essential virtues of the new terminal. Rest and recreation rooms, ticket offices, barber shop, dining rooms, stores of various kinds, and almost every convenience known to travelers, are to be found on the one level, no steps to climb.

The main station is a low monumental type of building with a row of massive columns of classic design along the entire east front. Once inside, the traveler finds himself in a gigantic waiting room more than 100 feet high and brilliantly lighted through skylights in the great arch ceiling. Colonnades inclose the room, the walls of which are patterned after the architecture of ancient Rome. Bordering this room are the ultra-complete passenger terminal facilities. An innovation in railway terminal design is a conference room accommodating 125 people, which is available, without charge, to patrons of the Union Station lines for conferences and other meetings.

To give some idea of the immensity of the new station, it may be stated that the main building covers an area of about three acres with a concourse covering 60,000 square feet. The entire terminal facilities cover more than 35 acres and will expedite the prompt and satisfactory handling of 50,000 passengers, 400 tons of baggage and 300 trains daily with room for future expansion. Fifteen acres of glass were used in the various coverings over the train sheds, which extend more than 1,200 feet beyond the main structure. A total of 17,000 tons of structural steel, 175,000 cubic feet of Indiana limestone and 10,000 cubic feet of granite were used in the station building and concourse. The foundation consists of 440 cylindrical concrete piers from four to ten feet in diameter, reaching to a depth of more than 60 feet below the level of the Chicago river.

Those who have had the privilege of inspecting the new station pronounce it a marvel in terminal construction and are urging their friends to see it on their next visit to Chicago. The station is used jointly by the Pennsylvania Railroad; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., and the Chicago & Alton R. R.

good effect upon international economic relations if a funding agreement is reached.

World credit is tied up in knots so long as the huge question of international debts remains an unknown factor. Evidence of the value of recognizing and funding was shown by the experience of Great Britain. Since the British debt was funded British credit has rapidly improved. Britain now pays but 4 3/4 per cent on money borrowed abroad. France who has so far failed to refund is now paying about 8 3/4 per cent.

"Not the money, but the settlement" is the important thing therefore, in the opinion of one high American official.

Were all remaining debtor nations to fund on terms similar to Great

Britain's, however, the result would prove no inconsiderable lightening of the American tax load. Through by law money received from foreign debtors must be applied to the national debt the diminishment of this would lessen the greatest single expenditure of the Treasury funds—which is the payment of interest and principal on the American national debt owed by the government to the American people who purchased bonds.

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weatherby, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement." "I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship. "Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken those, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength. "I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness." Ask your druggist. NC-145

DIES SUDDENLY

Enoch Samms Dies at Home Here Sunday Morning—Funeral Services Are Held Monday

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, July 27.—Not content with flower figured chiffons, young Misses of New York are wearing dance frocks which represent certain flowers in shape and coloring.

The morning glory dance frock is perhaps one of the prettiest ball room frocks of the Summer season. It combines two of the season's most popular colors, soft blue and purple. The body portion is long, unbelted, lines to a point above the knees where circular insets of purple chiffon give a wide fluffy hem effect. Eight insets of purple are used to give the effect of the morning glory blossom. The neckline of the frock is rounded and the frock is sleeveless. On one shoulder a spray of morning glories in blue and purple tints acts as a corsage.

The rose frock is very popular with young girls and a pastel shade of rose chiffon or georgette is used. The bodies of this frock is made in slender lines to the hips where a flat band of roses forms a hip-girdle. Five layers of petaled ruffles make the skirt portion. The top ruffle is not especially full and each succeeding ruffle becomes fuller to give the effect of a blossoming rose.

Many other frocks denoting flowers mingle with the meadow and figured chiffons of the ball room. One of the most unusual is the chrysothemum frock designed of yellow georgette. Its skirt portion which begins below the hip line, is made of five layers of peat edged tabs of half-inch width. The shoulder corsage, which is worn in the rear, is one large chrysothemum made of peoted tabs of georgette. One of the newest places to wear the corsage, by the way, is at the rear of one shoulder.

AMUSEMENTS

PALACE

Would you like to see Rome, the city of the seven eternal hills? Would you like to visit Mt. Vesuvius, Italy's death-belching volcano? Would you like to enjoy the charm of Sorrento, the Jewel of Italy's north—Naples with its bay of blue—ancient Tivoli, the town of narrow tortuous streets? You don't have to visit Italy to see these natural grandeur. They form the setting for Lillian Gish's greatest dramatic triumph, "The White Sister" which is showing at the Palace Theatre. Inspiration Pictures determined to bring fascinating beauty of Italy back to America by means of the screen.

"The White Sister" was chosen as the first film to be reproduced entirely overseas. It has been the outstanding artistic triumph of the present motion picture season and the work of Lillian Gish, the screen's greatest artist, in the leading role, has been characterized as better than anything she has ever done in the past.
